

Prices take off; fed ups loan rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fueled by soaring energy costs, inflation continued to place relentless pressure on the American economy last month.

The Labor Department said its Producer Price Index, which tracks inflation at the wholesale level, spurted upward by 1.6 percent in January. It was the largest monthly increase since November, 1974.

At a compounded annual rate, last month's increase was 20.7 percent, Labor Department analysts said.

With the lone exception of food, virtually all items registered sizable gains.

In response, the Federal Reserve Board sharply boosted interest rates to a renewed effort to restrict borrowing.

In another economic development, the Federal Reserve reported that industrial production rose a slim 0.3 percent last month.

The board voted unanimously to hike its discount rate — the fee it charges member banks to borrow funds — from 12 percent to a record 13 percent.

When the Fed raises the discount rate, it generally means a subsequent rise in interest rates to consumers. The board is hopeful such a move will slow inflationary borrowing.

Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco immediately reacted by raising its prime rate a quarter point to 15.5 percent. The prime is the interest rate banks charge their best corporate customers for short-term loans.

The Labor Department said its producer price index for finished goods stood at 232.1 last month. That means goods and services which cost $100 in 1967 were priced at $212.10 last month.

Prices of goods other than food surged ahead by 2.4 percent — the largest gain in that category since the 2.9 percent advance of April, 1973, the Labor Department said.

As they have in the past, energy prices were among the most offshoots.

Wholesale gasoline costs jumped 5.7

percent and were 63.7 percent higher than a year earlier. Home heating oil rose 2 percent and was 71.1 percent ahead of January, 1979.

Furthermore, sharply rising gold and silver prices adversely affected the January performance.

The Labor Department said household fixtures were jumped 54.6 percent last month while precious metal jewelry climbed 23.5 percent.

Hansen, McClure rap Carter on Iran

Hansen: hostages could be free by now

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — U.S. Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, Friday accused the administration of wasting 70 days to do what he recommended when in Iran last Thanksgiving.

In a press conference in his Twin Falls office Friday afternoon, Hansen said if President Carter and others foreign policy makers had agreed to conduct hearings in the U.S. Senate and Congress as he, Hansen, attempted to arrange, the hostages would have been home long ago.

"I don't mean just hold hearings on the accusations against the shah," Hansen said, "but on the aspects of our own position in the Iranian situation and what it means to the citizens of our country. We should hold hearings to determine why we allowed ourselves to be in this position and what the effects are on our economy and our position as a whole."

Hansen said the situation in Afghanistan has brought political pressure to bear on President Carter, causing him to make a 180-degree turn.

Hansen said the President is now calling for the very hearings he and others in his administration refused to consider at a time they could have brought an end to the hostage ordeal.

When in Iran, on Thanksgiving, Hansen said, he asked Abolhasan Bani-Sadr, now president of the country, if he could take home a few hostages as a token of good faith.

"We were discussing the possibility of congressional hearings in the United States," Hansen said, "and Bani-Sadr's response was that I could get not just a few but 'much more' if the hearings could be arranged."

Hansen predicted the hostages will be released.

"It is just a matter of time. He (Bani-Sadr) never wanted the hostages. He wanted the situation settled," Hansen said.

The Republican congressman also accused the administration of "trumped up" medical excuses for allowing the shah to come into this country.

"It was not for medical purposes," Hansen said, "but rather because his six-month visa in Mexico had run out. Hansen said he is not saying the shah should not have been allowed into the country, but rather that the administration should have 'develed with the people.'"

Hansen said the administration was warned in August that hostages might be taken but no effort was made to bring the Embassy personnel home or even to give them adequate protection.

He said this is one of the items that should be covered in hearings before Congress. If these things were done early in the hostage situation, he said, the United States could have solved it with dignity without having to give ground and do an about face.

Magic Valley
GOPs urged on

TWIN FALLS — Republicans of Twin Falls County were told Friday night by U.S. Sen. James McClure and U.S. Rep. George Hansen to make an all-out effort for new national leadership in the coming election.

The two Republicans addressed a capacity crowd attending the annual Lincoln Day Banquet at the Holiday Inn.

McClure, the featured speaker, urged a return to the principals of less federal government and more authority for the states and for local officials.

He said Idaho's 1 percent initiative and the Sagebrush Rebellion are simply protests against "over-government."

McClure said former Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus criticized the Sagebrush Rebellion saying states are not capable of managing the federal lands within their boundaries.

"I don't know why he has gotten so much smarter by traveling east. I'm sure as governor he felt capable of managing the entire state," McClure said.

Hansen urged the party to make McClure the senior senator from Idaho, and to give Congressman Steve Symms a chance to help him in the U.S. Senate.

McClure: U.S. military weakness pathetic

TWIN FALLS — A naval blockade of Iran and a show of strength should have been the immediate reaction to the taking of hostages, Sen. James McClure said here Friday.

In Twin Falls to address the annual Lincoln Day Banquet of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee, McClure criticized not only the handling of the Iranian situation but what he called the nation's pathetic military weakness.

He said it would take several years to build the nation's defense forces to a point equal to those of the Soviet Union.

"We have always gone a little beyond what our Allies call for while Russia has gone the limits plus whatever else she could get away with. This is one reason I felt we should not adopt the SALT 2 treaty and why I think it should now be scrapped and a new plan that will protect us developed," McClure said.

McClure said the United States is long on naval strength and the carrier task force could strike a heavy blow, but added the country's army would be fighting with outdated tanks, planes and arms, and he added, the administration is doing nothing to correct this situation except a token move to increase the defense budget slightly in the coming year.

"Our military defense once accounted for 35 percent of our budget and now it is down to about 20 percent. We cannot expect to retain our strength and to win a war in this manner," McClure said.

He said should the nation face Russia in combat and the Russians elect to fight on the basis of a conventional war rather than a nuclear one, there would be some hope for the world, but he added the United States would make a poor showing now in a conventional war.

McClure said he does support the registration and drafting of women, but only if that he does not support any draft at this time. He said if there is to be a registration and drafting of men, then certainly women should also be drafted.

"I just don't ask one sector of our people to give up a part of their lives in defense of our country and not ask all sectors. I think it is a matter of assignment and I do not expect to see women as combat soldiers, but like we make assignments to suit the abilities of our men, we can assign women to do the jobs within their abilities and talents," McClure said.

The Republican senator said a strong show of force, even taking the hostages by military force, should have been made in Iran when the hostages were first taken. He said even though there may have been some lives lost among the hostages, it would not compare with the endangering of thousands of young American lives by showing a weakness that could lead the country into a military conflict.

Vote on 1% urged

BOISE (UPI) — Idahoans may get a chance next November to repeal the 1 percent property tax law.

A House committee voted Friday to introduce a bill to put the much-debated law on the general election ballot in Idaho's 44 counties. The people would have the choice of killing or keeping it on a county-by-county basis.

Rep. Morgan Munger, R-Idaho, said the proposal is all his own. He said Friday afternoon he had not consulted the legislative leadership, members of his House 1 percent subcommittee, or the chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, which introduced the bill.

The proposed legislation mandates the 1 percent be placed on the November general election ballot. All it would take to remove the 1 percent in each county is a simple majority of the same requirement met when the 1 percent was passed by a statewide vote in November 1978.

A provision of the bill would allow the people of a county which repeals the 1 percent to troop back to the polls two years later and re-vote it by a simple majority.

Munger was careful to disassociate his proposal from whatever action his subcommittee might take with the 1 percent initiative in this legislative session.

He said didn't discuss it with his fellow 1 percent subcommittee members because he "didn't want to color the thought."

Munger said the repealer bill should go on the ballot regardless of what the Legislature decides to do with the 1 percent, which was put partially into effect by the 1974 legislature.

"This would give the people plenty of time to decide whether the 1 percent was working or not," Munger said. "This proposal has nothing to do with what we're doing in the subcommittee."

Munger, a veteran of many years of tax and budget work as a county commissioner and later as a legislator, two weeks ago suggested the 1 percent needed sweeping revision. He believes it just isn't workable in Idaho.

Fifteen counties voted against the 1 percent in 1978. Munger thinks that many, and possibly more, may reject it if they happen to get the opportunity in November.

Hostages Iran says commission study must be done before release Murders Ex-cons suspected of 30-40 slayings of teen-age girls

United Press International

The American hostages in Tehran would be freed only if both Iran and the United States accept the findings of an international inquiry into the alleged crimes of the deposed shah.

That was the statement Friday of Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh.

At the United Nations, a spokesman for Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said the commission conducting the inquiry was nearly formed and would probably be announced over the weekend.

But hopes that the commission's inquiry would lead to the release of the 50 Americans being held hostage in the U.S. Embassy for the 104th day were unsettled when Ghotbzadeh said in Paris that Iran must approve the commission's findings and the United States must accept them.

"We expect the commission to be formed by Kurt Waldheim within two days," Ghotbzadeh told reporters on his arrival in Paris from Rome. "The commission's work can be completed within eight to 10 days."

In Washington, the State Department maintained its news blackout on the efforts to free the hostages held since Nov. 4.

But White House Press Secretary Jody Powell told reporters that President Carter was "more optimistic now than he was several weeks ago" about finding a solution to the crisis.

Carter canceled a planned weekend trip to Camp David, apparently to keep a close watch on developments.

"I don't know why he has gotten so much smarter by traveling east. I'm sure as governor he felt capable of managing the entire state," McClure said.

Hansen urged the party to make McClure the senior senator from Idaho, and to give Congressman Steve Symms a chance to help him in the U.S. Senate.

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — Two ex-convicts suspected of raping and murdering five teen-age girls may also be connected to the disappearance and possible deaths of 30 to 40 missing girls.

County Sheriff Peter Pittchess said Friday the two men had compiled a candid photo collection of 500 young women who eventually might have become victims in a barbaric torture and murder scheme.

"We have reason to believe that there are additional victims," Pittchess said, although he would not state how many more murders detectives theorize the two suspects may have committed.

The two suspects, Roy Lewis Norris, 32, of nearby Redondo Beach, and Lawrence Sigmond Bittaker, 39, who was living in a Burbank motel, have been in custody since Nov. 20 on unrelated kidnap-rape, and assault charges.

Pittchess said Norris "has been cooperating with us." Last Saturday, he led deputies to the graves of two victims in a canyon in the San Gabriel mountains north of Los Angeles, Pittchess said.

The gruesome case has been under investigation for three months by a special task force of sheriff's deputies, three police departments and district attorney's investigators.

took their photos along the Strand, a sidewalk that parallels the beach for several miles north from Redondo Beach, southwest of downtown Los Angeles, and in Burbank, especially around Burbank High School.

The five murders followed abductions from the same areas. In each case, the victims were badly mutilated, strangled, and sexually molested.

Two of the victims, Jacqueline Leah Lamp, 13, and Jackie Doris Gilliam, 15, were last seen hitchhiking near their Redondo Beach apartment houses on September 2.

Fireman climbs out of flooded street in Laurel Canyon area of Los Angeles after checking car. Storm brings flooding, mudslides in S. California

LOS ANGELES — A furious Pacific storm, the second in three days, lashed Southern California Friday with gale-force winds, hail, rain, thunder and lightning. The storm, which roared in shortly after midnight, caused mudslides and severe flooding. Many freeways, streets and highways were shut down during the height of the morning rush-hour traffic. Howling winds smashed windows along the coast, cars were tumbled like toys in high water and three Los Angeles hospitals — Queen of Angels, St. Vincent Medical Center and Midway — were damaged. Mud poured down fire-damaged hillsides in nearby Altadena, and two people were injured when they were swept away by storm waters in canyon areas of Los Angeles County. The ceiling of an apartment collapsed in Beverly Hills "with a shattering noise you wouldn't believe," its occupant, Mrs. Edward Raltenberg, said. "It's a disaster area out here."

Teen sentenced to 12 years

TYLER TOWN, Miss. (UPI) — Robert Earl "Bubba" May, 15, was sentenced to 12 years in prison Friday for taking part in an armed robbery of a fireworks store.

Circuit Judge Joe N. Pigott handed down the sentence. Little more than a year ago, Pigott sentenced May to 48 years in prison before the youth changed his guilty plea and was given a second trial. State Department of Corrections officials said they have not yet determined if the slightly built, baby-faced youth will serve his sentence at the state penitentiary at Parchman or some other facility. May was 4-foot-7 and weighed 75 pounds when he was arrested. Prosecutor Jim Kitchens characterized Mims as the "ring leader" of the group and said he previously appeared in youth court three times and was once sent to training school.

Eclipse over Asia, Africa

United Press International The moon will eat the sun Saturday in an eclipse that will spread a wide band of darkness from Africa to India and China to the delight of scientists and the fear and disbelief of superstitious natives. The eclipse will begin at 12:12 a.m. MST when the moon's shadow touches the central Atlantic Ocean just south of the equator, approximately midway between Ascension Island and Freetown, Sierra Leone. The dark shadow will move across the dense jungles of Zaire, the highlands of Tanzania and Kenya, across the Indian Ocean into India and end at 5:34 a.m. EST southwest of Chungking, China. The eclipse is occurring near the peak of sunspot activity, and thousands of scientists were stationed across the zone. But one of their preliminary chores was to calm native groups. The Kenyan government conducted a campaign to prepare the population for the eclipse — plus a warning that looking directly at the phenomena could cause blindness.

Euro-parliament asks nations to take anti-Soviet measures

United Press International The European Parliament asked the Common Market nations Friday to embargo food exports to the Soviet Union and join the United States in boycotting the Moscow Summer Olympics to protest the Russian invasion of Afghanistan. The diplomatic move, which had no binding force, came as Western reports from Kabul spoke of stepped up rebel-resistance to the Soviet occupation. The Washington Post reported for the first time the United States was supplying Muslim rebels in Afghanistan with small arms, funneled to them by the CIA. In another warning to the Soviets, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said, ending a two-day visit to Belgium, "I have the firm conviction that detente is not possible without military balance. Where that balance is endangered, it has to be restored if a policy of detente is to be made possible." In Strasbourg, France, the European Parliament, an international body affiliated with the European Common Market, narrowly passed a resolution asking the nine EEC member states to support U.S. efforts to protest the Soviet invasion by halting grain shipments and boycotting the Olympics. "We beseech the nine governments to show their disapproval in the face of Soviet oppression and aggression in Afghanistan by consulting their national Olympic committees to ask their teams and their athletes not to participate in the Moscow Olympic games." It was the fourth such international condemnation of the Kremlin since its December invasion of Afghanistan. The State Department said Friday 24 nations have already publicly declared their support for a boycott and another 25 have indicated to the United States that they are prepared to follow the U.S. lead. Carter said the U.S. government will begin a series of "bonversations" with the U.S. Olympic Committee, other nations and U.S. athletes to work up what he described as "alternative games for Olympic-caliber athletes."

Poland ousts leaders over poor economy

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish Prime Minister Piotr Jaroszewicz and three other Communist party officials were ousted from the party Politburo Friday in a major shakeup triggered by the nation's severe economic situation. Jaroszewicz was also removed from the party Central Committee, virtually ending the political career of the 70-year-old prime minister. The moves came at the end of the eighth party congress which, as expected, reelected Edward Gierek as party leader for another five-year term. Gierek, greeted by a standing ovation as he rose to make his closing speech at the final session, announced that Jaroszewicz had requested the party authorities not to submit his candidacy for either politburo or central committee. "He is going to retire," said Gierek, whose own personal power appeared to have been enhanced at the congress.

Lewd conduct charged

Officials, executive arrested in restroom

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — The president of one of the nation's largest breweries, a state legislator and a senior state government official were arrested in a public restroom and charged with lewd conduct, police said Friday. Charged with misdemeanor offenses were Leopold F. Schmidt, 39, president of the Olympia Brewing Co., Rep. Eric Rohrbach, 28, a freshman state legislator and Republican from Seattle, and Joseph D. Grosznan, 40, director of the alcohol and substance abuse section of the State Department of Social and Health Services. "Police Chief John Wurrier" said the three were arrested by an undercover agent Thursday night in the lakefront park near the city center in Olympia, the state capital. Wurrier said the restroom was under surveillance for about three weeks because of complaints it had become a gathering place for homosexuals. All three were released on their own recognizance pending a court appearance tentatively set for Feb. 25. None of the three was available for comment, and a spokesman for the brewery said there would be no immediate response to the arrest of its president. "Schmidt has been president of Olympia, the nation's seventh-largest brewery, since 1974. He earlier served as vice president for marketing and, since 1977, has been chief executive officer."

Ex-cons suspected of 30-40 murders

Continued from page A1 Investigators found skulls, ribs and jawbones of the two girls in the canyon graves. An ice pick was still embedded in the ear of Miss Gilliam's skull. Another victim, Shirley Linett Ludford, 16, was last seen Oct. 31. Her nude and battered body, with hands and arms slashed, and she had been strangled with a coat hanger. The bodies of two other victims have not been found. Lucinda Schaefer, 16, disappeared after leaving a church function in Torrance, a suburb near Redondo Beach, June 24. Andrea Joy Hall, 18, was last seen in Redondo Beach July 8. Norris and Bittaker would apparently pick up the girls, who in four of the five cases, were hitchhiking, in Bittaker's 1979 silver GMC van, sheriff's investigators said. The murders and rapes then took place either in the van or elsewhere, Pitchess said. Documents filed in South Bay Municipal Court in Torrance said that Norris allegedly acknowledged participating in the slaying of Lucinda Schaefer. Among the court documents were contents of a tape recording allegedly found in Bittaker's van. According to the documents, the recording "contains the voice of a young girl screaming and begging for help while she is being raped and tortured." The mother of Shirley Linett Ludford identified the voice as her daughter's, the sheriff's department said. Prosecutors said male voices on the tape are Norris and Bittaker. Norris and Bittaker were arrested in Hermosa Beach, north of Redondo Beach, three months ago during investigation of the kidnaping and rape of a Hermosa Beach woman. The charges were subsequently dropped, but additional charges were filed against Norris and Bittaker attacked a Manhattan Beach woman Sept. 30 with a squirt gun full of Mace, a caustic tear gas-like substance. Pitchess said formal charges of rape and murder would be filed.

Cyclists cheer death of helmet bill

BOISE — The Idaho Senate Friday killed a bill which would have reinstated Idaho's mandatory motorcycle helmet law.

The 21-13 vote brought a burst of applause from the Senate galleries, picked with motorcycle enthusiasts who had ridden to Boise from several Idaho towns to witness the late morning vote. Prior to that vote, the cyclists gathered in a quiet rally, parking their motorcycles in a long line in front of the state Capitol building.

The cyclists identified themselves as members of ABATE (A Brotherhood Against Totalitarian Enactments), a statewide organization of motorcycle riders formed to fight reinstatement of the helmet law. The law in question was repealed by Idaho's Legislature two years ago. However, minors, persons less than 18 years of age, are still required to wear helmets while riding a motorcycle.

Since that repeal, said Sen. Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot, medical statistics show a large increase in motorcycle deaths and accidents.

Merrill, the sponsor of this year's measure to require helmet wearing, said he had supported the earlier repeal. "But in the two years, I've watched the accident statistics, and I'm convinced we made a mistake."

Support for the helmet law also came from Sen. Cy Chase, D-SL

Maries. Chase told senators he operates a towing service "and I've been around a lot of wrecks." Having viewed many accidents, Chase said, "I know for a fact the helmets have saved a lot of lives."

"We ought to be responsible here and try and do what we can to save lives in the state of Idaho," Chase added.

But the measure was attacked by Sen. Dean Abraham, R-Caldwell. "I object to regulating the people's lives," Abraham said. "The increase in motorcycle fatalities isn't due to motorcycleists who don't wear helmets, it's because more people are buying and riding motorcycles. But even with those accidents, Abraham said, "I still want freedom of choice."

Sen. Mark Ricks, R-Treburg, also attacked the proposed new-helmet law. Many motorcycle accidents become fatalities not just because the rider wasn't wearing a helmet, but because he was violating other laws, such as speeding laws or restrictions against drinking and driving, Ricks said.

Criticism of the measure also came from Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston. Statistics on motorcycle accidents have failed to prove that merely wearing a helmet prevents an injury in an accident. Mitchell said the real question is not whether a rider is wearing a helmet, but whether he is wearing a good quality helmet; he said.

But Merrill warned injured motorcycleists frequently become charges of the state, unable to pay expensive medical bills. A recent study of motorcycle accidents indicated that more than half of all motorcycle accident victims fail to pay their hospital bills or are unable to pay their hospital bills, Merrill said.

Magie Valley senators voting for reinstatement of the mandatory helmet law were Jack Bell, D-Rupert, and John Barker, R-Boise.

Magie Valley senators voting against the measure were Ken Bradshaw, R-Wendell, Richard High, R-Twin Falls, J. Wilson Steen, R-Glenns Ferry, and Dean VanEngelen, R-Burley.

Uniform property tax collections proposed

BOISE (UPI) — An effort was launched Friday to prop up Idaho's property tax system by trying to standardize collection efforts through installment of a uniform computer system in all 44 counties.

Dave Alvord, implementation director of the Governor's Management Task Force, told the House 1 percent subcommittee that the property tax system is alarmingly fragmented and uniformity is essential to avoid chaos.

State Tax Commission spokesman Ray Bingham said some counties are on the verge of purchasing computer systems that they have little knowledge of and that could conflict with other tax computer systems in the state.

"We're at the point where we need a lot of help," Rep. Michael Gwartzney,

R-Boise, said. "We're in danger of ending up with 44 very different systems without the capacity to maintain the systems."

Gwartzney, whose comments were echoed by the other committee members, said the property tax system is "teetering" from non-uniform assessment and the shock of the 1 percent initiative.

The committee is trying to work out a way to implement the property tax re pointed out a paradox that the Legislature is trying to save money but may have to authorize a large appropriation to make the statewide computer system work.

Rep. Harold Reed, D-Cranford, said the Legislature must allay the fears of local governments who are loathe to computer centralization.

Female draft registration opposed

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho House members Friday resisted an attempt to weaken a memorandum against registration of women for the military draft.

The unsuccessful legislators wanted the memorial to Congress and the president to oppose the drafting of women, but not their registration.

The memorial was returned to the House calendar after the abortive

"general orders" amendment action it will come up for regular House consideration next week.

Rep. Peggy Huntington, R-Boise, paced the drive to change the measure, saying the Legislature should not oppose the registration of women because they may be needed quickly in case of a national emergency.

Revote on 1% urged

Shaping up in the committee is:

- A continuation of the freeze on property tax charges, with the schools not exempt from the 1 percent as was suggested by Munger.

- An 8 percent growth allowance.
- Non-mandatory allowance to the local taxing districts to institute user fees to replace reductions in ad valorem taxes.

- Applying the 1 percent restriction on a countywide basis, not on each taxing district.

Munger repeated what is becoming an old line: "All of this is still just speculation."

He holds forth with no predictions as to how his bill might fare when it is returned to the Revenue and Taxation Committee next week. Only a few members "opposed" its introduction Friday.

Some of the Gem State's counties, Munger said, have been hurt drastically in instances where the 1 percent has sharply reduced large-volume utility property.

The repealer bill has no apparent legal problems, with the only possible difficulty being how the county-by-county votes on the 1-percent may affect school districts that overlap counties, Munger said.

Committee OKs five minimum streamflows

BOISE — In a quick three-minute burst of activity, the House Resources and Conservation Committee Friday approved five proposed minimum stream flows — including one on the upper stretch of Silver Creek.

Following that action, committee chairman Vard Chaborn, R-Albion, said the committee would meet Feb. 27 to resolve a controversy over a proposed minimum flow on a lower stretch of Silver Creek.

The five-minimum-flow proposals, which must now pass both Houses of the Legislature, are:

- Wolf Lodge Creek. The committee approved a proposed 30 cubic foot per second cfs minimum flow. The flow would apply for a three-mile section of the creek near Interstate 90 in Kootenai County.

- Sullivan Springs Creek. A one-half mile section of this Bonner County springs and creek has been nominated for a 45 cfs minimum flow.

The minimum flow would run from the springs to the river's confluence with Granite Creek.

- Granite Creek. A minimum flow of 45 cfs would be maintained on Granite Creek from its confluence with Lake Pend Oreille to its confluence with Silver Spring.

- Vineyard Creek. This Jerome County creek flows into the Snake River upstream from the Perrine Bridge. It has been proposed for a one-quarter mile 17 cfs minimum flow beginning at its confluence with the Snake River.

- Upper Silver Creek. A minimum flow of 99 cfs has been proposed for a 14-mile stretch of Silver Creek, running from the Picabo Bridge upstream to the confluence of Grove Creek and Stalker Creek.

A second minimum flow on Silver Creek in Blaine County has been tentatively rejected by the committee. That rejected proposal would have set a 74 cfs flow from the point where Silver Creek intersects with U.S. Highway 93 upstream to the Picabo bridge.

Highlights

BOISE (UPI) — Elsewhere in the Legislature Friday:

- A precedent-setting scheme to allow Custer County officials to collect taxes in advance was referred to a subcommittee for further study by the House Revenue and Taxation Committee. Committee members voiced suspicion about the bill's constitutionality, and state Tax Commission spokesman Ted Spangler said such a method of taxation has never been tested in Idaho.

- For the second time this legislative session, the House State Affairs Committee has sent to the floor a bill expanding voting registration in Idaho. Several weeks ago the committee referred the measure to the full House with a "do pass" recommendation, but the bill was pulled back into the committee for additional study by the chairman, Rep. John Heardon, R-Boise.

- An effort has been launched to prop up Idaho's property tax system by trying to standardize collection efforts through installment of a uniform computer system in all 44 counties. Dave Alvord, implementation director of the Governor's Management Task Force, told the House 1 percent subcommittee that the property tax system is alarmingly fragmented and uniformity is essential to avoid chaos.

Steelers' Rooney picked for John F. Kennedy award

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
IRISH EYES

The top Irishman of 1980 is Arthur J. Rooney—the 79-year-old founder and owner of the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers. He'll receive the John F. Kennedy National Award March 22 at the Wyckoff Park Country Club at Holyoke, Mass., and participate the following day in Holyoke's St. Patrick's Day parade. The Kennedy award was established in 1958 to honor an individual of Irish heritage who has distinguished himself in a professional field.

FOND-A-DOLLY
It's her first movie, so Dolly Parton has a right to be nervous. But she's got some mighty heavy support in costar Jane Fonda. They're doing "Nine to Five," with Lily Tomlin, and veteran Fonda isn't about to let anybody lean on the country queen. Her advice to Dolly at the start of production — "Don't let anyone tell you that you need coaching or acting lessons. You just need a good director."

PROFESSOR JOHN
John Belushi turned professorial when UCLA handed him its annual Jack Benny Comedy Award — and scolded one of his students. Belushi told budding comedy writers to put together a portfolio of short sketches, hire a good manager and remember that producers always are looking for skill in the field. But as he spoke, one student got up to leave. Belushi yelled at the miscreant, saying, "You should've cut your classes before you came here."

BAEZ ADVISES
Joan Baez says the United States is "damn good" about accepting Indo-Chinese refugees, but she's a bit less generous with the establishment on the subject of the draft. She's back from an abortive attempt to get food and medical supplies to Cambodian refugees, and in an address at UCLA, she told an overflow crowd of potential draftees, "You guys have your whole life. That's all you've got and I suggest you work very hard to live it how you want to live it."

HARD AT WORK
The musical review at New York's St. Regis Hotel celebrates a lifetime of show business, but its subject couldn't make the opening. At 77, Broadway producer Cheryl Crawford was too busy working on her latest show — "The Housewife's Cantata" — Patrice Munsel, Steve Elmore and Ira Hawkins costar in the highlights of her career in "One Touch of Crawford." Among Crawford hits since 1926 — "One Touch of Venus," "Porgy and Bess" and "Paint Your Wagon."

Rio carnival goes topless

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Rio's traditionally rowdy carnival got off to an even rowdier start Friday after female dancers ignored a government ban and stripped to their waists to dance a topless samba at the parties kicking off Carnival 1980. It marked the spread of Brazil's topless craze from the beach at Ipanema to the nightclubs of Rio, where female dancers hopped-up onto the tables to samba through the night.

Steel-helmeted riot police provided security as the dancers defied their tiny bikini tops at a wild, raucous carnival ball Thursday night.

Trying to keep the topless craze confined to Ipanema Beach, authorities announced that topless dancing would not be permitted at the parties in Rio's samba clubs and nightspots. But many women ignored the ban.

"Touch people in My Name."

"On the night of January 28, 1976, I witnessed the miraculous healing of a good friend while praying for him in his hospital room. Later, God spoke to my heart, telling me to step out in faith and touch people in His name — and that it would be Him touching them, not me.

Since that night I've seen God heal spiritually, physically and emotionally sick people time and time again. I've seen prayers answered and lives changed.

— All of us have needs, that can only be met by God. And I believe that God wants to meet those needs.

Come and let me pray for you — believing and expecting God to touch your life."

What's what

Maintaining even wear on mattress problem

A lone traveler who stops at a motel likes to sleep on the side of the bed closest to the telephone. This tends to wear out the mattress. To cut short its use to maybe two-thirds that of a mattress which gets equal weight distribution. Throwing out lopsided mattresses can get pretty expensive. Not many, but some motel bigwigs think they can solve the thing simply by putting the telephone across the room from the bed stand. Other deep thinkers suggest those mattresses merely be turned over.

Look over towns just ruined by bombs, tornadoes, hurricanes, and you wonder if the people ever again can reconstruct. But their speed is astonishing. Take San Francisco. Within three years following the great earthquake after the turn of the century, the citizenry there put up 20,000 buildings.

MIRROR IMAGES

Take a look sometime at maps of California and New Zealand. They're almost mirror images of each other. Their mineral belts, volcanoes, even their geothermal electric generating stations are close when the maps are superimposed. And their faults—the San Andreas and the Alpine—are likewise similar, though they run in opposite directions.

Studies prove offspring of bright people tend to be less bright than their parents while offspring of dull people tend to be less dull than their parents. This is predictable, certainly. Nature corrects toward the average. Odds favor more middle-class children. Neither brilliance nor stupidity make for much happiness, that's widely known. So this report of nature's way may be of some solace to the exceedingly swift-witted and the opposite extreme.

TROUT

A rainbow trout isn't a true trout, report the experts. It's a sort of char. Likewise, a brown trout and a cutthroat trout. Those who care may want to make a note of this. And of the fact that the Dolly Varden, brook and lake varieties are indeed true trout.

Meat merchants in Africa usually cut their animal hides into two-inch squares to be used as flavoring for soup.

The University of Georgia's computer center puts out a monthly publication called "The Bulldog Byte."

Claim is that youngsters between the ages of 10 and 17 commit half of all the serious crimes in the United States.

Insulation fed flames in potato shed fire

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

JEIOMP — One minute it was a warm place to work. The next minute it was an inferno.

That's the way Jerome contractor Paul Myers described a polyurethane-insulated potato shed gutted by fire Wednesday night as he and another man used the structure to work on a D-3 Caterpillar tractor.

"It's nice to have a warm place to work. But I wouldn't even park my pickup in a building like that after last night," Myers said Thursday.

Fire officials suspect a faulty extension cord of triggering the blaze, which Myers said swept through the 200-foot building in about 15 seconds.

"We had a fire extinguisher," he said, "but when it got on the wall, there was no stopping it."

Losses in the fire could run as high as $200,000, Myers said. The shed was owned by his brothers, Luther and Warren Myers. Other equipment destroyed by the fire included two pickups, three potato harvesters and a potato plier.

—A Jerome fireman, Robert Keith.

suffering minor smoke inhalation fighting the blaze and was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital.

Keith was sent to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in Twin Falls, however, because emergency room personnel in Jerome had their hands full treating three victims of an automobile mishap on Interstate 80.

The fire re-emphasizes the fact that exposed polyurethane foam is extremely dangerous, said Jack Stroud, building division administrator for the Idaho Department of Labor and Industrial Services in Boise.

Farm structures are exempt from the state's building code, Stroud noted, but the logic behind the code is verified by just such accidents.

When combusted, urethane foam generates a toxic, inflammable gas that both speeds combustion and threatens nearby lives, he said.

In one test, one-half of a percent by weight of the insulation material was converted to hydrogen cyanide gas, with deadly fumes similar to those used in early gas chambers.

Foam plastics are approved for injection into the cavity of concrete block structures, Stroud said. The code also allows use of the substances if they are shielded by approved thermal barriers such as gypsum.

One such shielding product is available in spray form, he said, although its application adds to a building's initial cost.

Several insurance companies have quit writing policies for exposed urethane insulation, said Grant Starley, insurance agent for the Lloyd Hamilton Agency in Twin Falls.

However, other firms — including one pool of several companies — still write such policies without charging higher rates, Starley said. Some insurers impose a stipulation voiding the claim if an open flame or welder is used in the building.

Despite the hazards and several recent fires, farmers will probably continue building potato sheds with foam plastics, Stroud said.

"It's a good insulator, and they don't want to be bothered with any kind of bureaucracy," he said. "But I think there's no clearer example of where codes do serve a purpose."

State encouraging well registration

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY — State officials are encouraging well owners to document their water rights long before the 1983 deadline for recording those rights comes due.

A campaign has been initiated to alert Magic Valley residents and communities to the need to document previously unrecorded water rights, announced Loren Holmes, southern region supervisor for the Idaho Department of Water Resources.

In addition to wells, the action affects unrecorded water rights from streams and natural springs.

"Most of the problem is with wells that water rights were originally filed on, but have been improved now to higher capacity," Holmes said.

The state ruling only affects wells drilled or improved prior to 1961. Since that year, any water project had to be approved and water rights claimed prior to construction.

Holmes said the main purpose of the new law, enacted by the 1978 Legislature, is to catalogue how much water is being appropriated from Idaho supplies.

False prescription ends in arrests

TWIN FALLS — Two 29-year-old men were arrested by Twin Falls Police Friday and charged with attempting to obtain controlled substance under false pretenses.

Police reports indicated Bryce J. Sauer, 29, of Jerome, and James L. Davis, 29, of Twin Falls, allegedly attempted to obtain a prescription from Oaco Drug, about 10:30 a.m. Friday by telephoning in a prescription.

Officers said the drugist received a call giving the name of a Twin Falls doctor and ordering a prescription for a patient. When the drugist called the doctor's office for verification, the doctor said he had not made the call.

Police arrested the two suspects later at the drug store when the prescription was claimed.

BLM finishes interim management guidelines

BOISE — The Bureau of Land Management has issued interim management guidelines for BLM lands being considered for wilderness potential.

The interim policy restricts mineral exploration, road building and other management activities, but will have little effect on parcels being studied on the Shoshone and Burley BLM districts.

Some 39 parcels totaling 588,000 acres within the two districts are presently under intensive study for wilderness characteristics.

Another three parcels on the Shoshone district have been declared Wilderness Study Areas. The decision on a fourth parcel adjacent to Craters of the Moon National Monument will be forwarded to President Carter's office for a recommendation to Congress in June.

The Great Rift Natural Area south of Craters of the Moon encompasses 359,000 acres on the Shoshone and Idaho Falls BLM districts, said Rob Hellic, Shoshone district recreation planner.

Congressional guidelines for the wilderness study stipulated that all BLM natural areas be forwarded directly to the president for recommendations to Congress, Hellic said.

Another of the three areas on the Shoshone district is one situated near mining activity in the Black Butte area, he said.

The study of all three areas was stepped up last summer to eliminate

Trade show proves profitable for visitors

TWIN FALLS — As well as displaying irrigation pipes and farm plans, the exhibitors at Agri-Action 80 are giving Magic Valley residents hundreds of dollars worth of prizes.

The farm trade show, sponsored by KMYT-TV, concludes today at the College of Southern Idaho's exposition center. Near the end of the day, each exhibitor offering a prize will draw a winner from among the names of people who registered at his booth during the show.

Two people will win free gas. Southern Idaho Leasing will give away $100 worth of gas to the winner of its drawing. The Leonard Petroleum Equipment is offering a package deal worth about $45. The company will give away 150 gallons of gas, a 150-gallon tank to put it in and a pump to get it back out.

Whoever wins the gas may need it, too, if talk at the nearby Merchant Police booth is any indication. Farmers told how often their gas is stolen and asked about burglar alarms that could protect them from gas thieves.

But while farmers may need burglar alarms to protect their gas, the prize for the winner of the Merchant Police drawing is an $18.95 smoke detector.

Taylor Rentals is giving away a ham. The winner of the Cal Gas drawing could cook the ham on the spot with the $245 gas grill being given away. The winner of a seed dealer's $32 set of knives could be used to carve the ham. If the knives aren't sharp enough, the Gettlemen Tractor Co. in Wendell will give away a chain saw in its drawing.

At the Hamilton Siding and Insulation "booth" a wicker frog swallowed each application for a $100 insulation bill certificate. The Farm Bureau is giving away a free car battery. Free balloons, pencils and yardsticks were everywhere.

Some lucky farmer will win a free "E-Z-Cut" disk from Spray Craft of Jerome.

Roxanne Minns, 4, got a free balloon at Agri-Action 80 after a perplexing power mower ride Friday.

Jones asks state press club to arrange Hansen debates

JEIOMP (UPI) — Second Congressional District Republican candidate Jim Jones has asked the Idaho Press Club to organize a series of debates between himself and incumbent Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho.

James L. Dean, press club president, however, said the organization is working with the League of Women Voters to organize a series of debates during the campaign for the general election. He said the group "has no intentions" of holding any debates on primary races, as Jones suggests.

Jones, a Jerome lawyer, said in a letter to the press club that he is willing to debate. Also, the Halley postmaster said no one named Jimmy Newlan has a post-office box in Halley.

Waulkur told the Times-News it could get in touch with him through his manager Cory Davis at a phone number in northern California. Repeated calls to that number "could not be completed as dialed."

Waulkur said he was leaving the state and would be out of the state until just before shooting began.

Friday morning, the owner of the Halley box number listed in the ad, who asked not to be identified, contacted the Times-News and complained that he knew nothing about the movie. He said he received about 15 application letters. One contained a nude photo of the applicant. "If

TWIN FALLS — What kind of movie is "Rider D?"

The ad at left appeared this week in the Times-News classified ad columns.

Monday afternoon, a man calling himself Kaz Waulkur made himself available for interviews with the media. Waulkur told the Times-News he would be starting in the movie and shooting would begin Feb. 27.

The Times-News has been unable to confirm any of the details of Waulkur's story, however.

He said the movie is a remake of one shot in this area a couple of years ago called "Thorn," in which he also starred. He said Thorn was distributed by United Artists and won an award at the Cannes Film Festival.

But a publicist for United Artists in New York said she never heard of the movie. And a researcher for the Motion Picture Association of America said he could find no record of a movie called Thorn or any movie starring Kaz Waulkur.

"Rider D" was to be distributed by Avco Embassy Pictures, Waulkur said. But according to Ed Crane, national publicity director for Avco, "Rider D" is something we've never heard of."

Waulkur said a bar in Bellevue called the "something bar and cafe" would be used in the shooting and that arrangements for that had been made. But at the Silver Dollar Bar and Cafe, the only bar and cafe in Bellevue, manager Joyce Peterson said no one had contacted her about using the bar.

The ad in the Times-News, which was not paid for, was placed over the phone by a man calling himself Jimmy Newlan. The Times-News has been unable to reach him at the Ketchum phone number he gave. Also, the Halley postmaster said no one named Jimmy Newlan has a post-office box in Halley.

Waulkur told the Times-News it could get in touch with him through his manager Cory Davis at a phone number in northern California. Repeated calls to that number "could not be completed as dialed."

Friday afternoon, Waulkur contacted the Times-News advertising department by telephone and said he had provided the wrong post office box number. He then asked to talk to the editorial department, and said he was in Halley and had additional information about the planned movie.

When asked why the Times-News had been unable to verify any information he had offered in his first interview, Waulkur insisted that his first film had in fact existed and that his second film would be distributed by Avco Embassy Pictures.

Waulkur said he had a contract with Avco Embassy to prove his statements. He said he would furnish a copy of the contract to the Times-News next week. A short time later, he called the Times-News classified advertising department and cancelled the ad for the movie. He asked to be transferred to the editorial department, but when the call was put through, he was not on the line. He did not call back.

Prairie plays Homedale in A-3 finals

TWIN FALLS — Prairie and Homedale will square off in tonight's 7:30 championship game of the state A-3 Girls Basketball Tournament at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School.

The Pirates squeezed into the championship game with a thrilling, down-to-the-wire 49-47 win Friday night against Shoshone.

The Trojans, on the other hand, who finished second in last year's tournament, earned their title appearance with an easy 59-46 victory Friday afternoon over Malad.

Shoshone and Malad will play for third place at 2:30 p.m. Their game will be preceded at 1 p.m. by the consolation championship contest between Filer and Firth.

"We just came out cold and couldn't get the ball in the old basket," he said. "We shot about 20 percent in the second half. I don't know if it was a result of their defense or our poor shot selection. But there are no excuses. They're a good team and we just lost the ballgame."

Homedale in finals

Homedale's balanced scoring and superior height proved too much for Malad Friday afternoon in the championship bracket of the state A-3 Girls Basketball Tournament.

The Trojans, who cruised to a 59-46 victory, didn't trail once in the game. Although the Dragons closed to within six and eight points several times in the third and fourth quarters, the outcome was never seriously in doubt.

The victory moved Homedale into tonight's championship game at 7:30. Malad will play at 2:30 p.m. for third place.

Homedale was paced by Julie Uranga, who scored 19 points. The Breshers sisters, Cindy and Nancy, chipped in with 16 and 12 points, respectively.

Teri Ward led Malad with 18 points, while JoLynne Jensen added 16.

The Breshers, 6-0 Nancy and 5-11 Cindy, monopolized rebounds and inside position at Homedale's defensive and offensive ends. On defense, their efforts resulted in quick outlet passes to Uranga, who led fastbreaks that consistently resulted in high-percentage, wide-open, short and medium range shots.

On offense, when Homedale ran pattered plays, the Breshers had little trouble getting open for shots near the basket or scoring on rebounds of their teammates' infrequent misses.

"We felt fairly confident coming into the game. It kind of went the way I expected it would," said Homedale Coach Dean Vance. "After scouting them Thursday, I felt we were the dominant team. I thought we could get them by 10 or 12 points."

Gardner out of skating

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — After eight years of sacrifice and preparation, World Champions Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner's dream of an Olympic gold medal in pairs figure skating shattered Friday when Gardner was forced to withdraw from competition because of a ripped muscle.

According to team physician Tony Daly, Gardner had pulled a groin muscle two weeks ago and that injury was slowly improving. But Gardner then injured his hip flexor muscle 48 hours ago in practice and despite physical therapy, the injury did not improve as had been hoped.

"He almost went down on two lifts during warmups and couldn't complete a salchow," said Coach John Nicks. "The lift would have presented Tai with great danger."

Earlier Friday, it had been thought by Daly, Nicks and the two skaters that Gardner could be able to skate in the night's short program, where the Americans had hoped establish themselves over Irina Rodnina and Aleksandr Zaitsev, the Soviet duo which won the Olympic title in 1976 and had taken last year's off to have a child.

But Gardner was obviously in great pain during the warmup as he attempted to skate, falling twice and nearly dropping Babilonia during a lift.

"I pulled a muscle in the warmup," Gardner said as he rushed from the ice. "It was the worst muscle rip I ever had."

A capacity crowd in the Olympic Fieldhouse watched in amazement as Babilonia and Gardner stepped on the ice for their program, skated around briefly and then went back to their dressing room. Babilonia, tears streaming down her face, practically ran down the ramp as the announcement of their withdrawal from competition was made.

Rodnina and Zaitsev easily took the lead in the standings after the short program, drawing scores of 5.8 and 5.9, with a pair of 5.7s from American judge Hugh Graham for a total of 41.01 points. In second place were teammates Marina Cherskova and Sergei Siharai, with 41.00 points with yet another Soviet couple, Marina Pestova and Stanislav Leonovich, third with 39.61 points.

The American duo of Caitlin and Peter Carruthers was fifth with 39.61 points while the other U.S. pair, Sheryl Franks and Michael Botteicelli, was seventh with 37.21.

Last year, with Rodnina and Zaitsev temporarily retired, the Californians won the world title and had been hoping to become the first American pair to win an Olympic gold in pairs competition.

"Randy really wanted to go on but I advised him to come off," said Nicks, who also had tears streaming down his face. "He obviously wasn't physically fit and was in great pain. It's a shame it had to end this way after eight years of hard work."

Sandpoint eliminates Bruins 32-25

By MIKE PRATER
Times-News sports writer
BLACKFOOT — The Sandpoint Bulldogs took advantage of poor Twin Falls' free throw shooting to eliminate the Bruins from the State A-1 Girls Basketball Tournament 32-25 Friday afternoon.

Twin Falls went 1 for 13 from the charity line in the final period and saw its 22-19 lead at the beginning of that quarter turn into a seven-point deficit. With 6:01 left in the game, Sandpoint took the lead for only the second time and went on to win.

Despite the loss, it was the Bruins' best overall season since 1975. They were 11-4 during the regular season and finished the season with a 14-7 record.

"Once again we got beat at the free throw line," said a dejected Bruin Coach Kathy Anderson after the game. "If we would have made even half of our free throws, we would have won by a large margin."

"These girls were really up prior to the game. I really feel for the seniors. It was their last chance and they wanted it pretty bad. But this team is young, and they'll be back just as tough next year."

Twin Falls' experience showed throughout the tournament (including Thursday's 66-42 setback to Highland). The Bruins were plagued with mental errors and costly fouls.

"It has hampered our play all year long, but it really showed in the tournament," said Anderson about their inexperience. "The harder they tried to get back in the game, the worse it got for us. It just wasn't our turn to win."

Despite Bruin problems, Anderson was pleased with her team's effort Friday, adding that they showed much improvement over Thursday's performance.

"The kids played with more intensity and fire today," she said. "I'm proud of their play and for their effort during the entire season. These girls have nothing to be ashamed of. They've done a pretty good job."

The Bruins have a habit of waiting until the second period to get started, but Friday they quickly jumped out in front of Sandpoint 6-1 midway through the opening period.

Sandpoint cut the margin to 6-5 by the end of the first period and at the 7:05 mark in the second, Glennie Oberherr connected on both ends of one and one to tie it at 11.

The Bruins were held scoreless the regular season, but the Bulldogs could only manage a field goal and led 13-1 at intermission.

The lead see-sawed back and forth in the third period with no team able to take charge. The Bruins jumped out to their last big lead, 20-15, when Karen Harr recovered a rebound off Kelly Krahn's missed free throw attempt and put the Bruins in front.

Krahn came down on the next play and added one more bucket before the Bulldogs started to rally.

The momentum of the game never seemed to leave the Bruins. It was just that the Bulldogs simply took advantage of poor Twin Falls' free throw shooting.

Sandpoint had their biggest lead when Pam Anderson hit a pair of free throws with 56 seconds left. At that point, it was 27-22 Sandpoint.

Twin Falls made a hopeless attempt at a comeback late in the game, but the Bulldogs hit on five of their next six free throws in the final 26 seconds to ice the game.

"We fought back from our mistakes all year long," said Anderson. "Tonight we just fell short and lost our composure when we were trying to come back. And now it's all over until next year."

Anderson will have all players back except for Harr and Amy Henschel along with this year's JV team which collected the district title in three straight games.

Sions, Warriors to play in finals

BLACKFOOT — Defending champion Borah will meet Meridian in the title game of the Idaho State A-1 Girls Basketball Tournament tonight.

The game begins at 7:30 p.m. Borah made it into the championship game for the second straight year by defeating a tough Highland squad 59-44, while Meridian bounced Nampa 53-43.

Diane Sandland, who has led Borah in scoring all year, twisted her knee and was taken to a hospital. The extent of her injury was not known.

In other games, Sandpoint stroked by Twin Falls 32-25 (see related story) and Pocatello stormed past Blackfoot 58-23.

The battle for third today will feature Nampa and Highland at 2:30 p.m., just after Pocatello and Sandpoint play for the consolation championship beginning at 1 p.m.

Bruins' Eileen Neville drives toward basket in Thursday's opener.

Proell rates favorite in downhill

WILMINGTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Annemarie Moser-Proell makes a statement when she races downhill.

Friday the Austrian star showed the rest of the women's Olympic alpine field who they must beat for the downhill gold medal.

Moser-Proell was a disappointing for her third in the first practice run Friday behind co-favorite Marie-Theres Nadig of Switzerland and Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn.

But in the second of the two runs, Moser-Proell, who has dominated women's alpine skiing for the past decade, attacked the downhill course on Whiteface Mountain with the fastest time of all three training runs: 1:32.29.

Moser-Proell, a silver medalist at Innsbruck in 1976, stormed through the twisting and technical upper portion of the 2,080-meter course, then accelerated down the straighter and flatter bottom part.

Heidi Preuss of Lakeport, N.H., who finished fourth in the first run, was nearly three seconds behind Moser-Proell in 1:45.44 in the second run, but missed a gate. Nadig, who has won six of seven World Cup downhill titles this season, was third in 1:45.21.

Moser-Proell, who has won every major women's downhill title except the Olympic gold, said, "the course was very fast on my second run."

But the Austrian, who has one World Cup downhill victory this season, declined to pick herself as the favorite or name anyone else who might challenge her for the gold medal in Sunday's race.

"My competition is the course. I must defeat the course to prevail," she said. "But I am not worried about that now. I'm just happy to be a member of the Austrian Olympic team."

Heiden wins first gold

'Not guilty' says former Mexico coach

Saturday, February 16, 1980 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 9-3

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — America's cover boy Eric Heiden launched his campaign to reign as "king of the ice" at the Winter Olympics Friday.

The result brought the United States its first gold medal by winning the men's 500-meter speed skating event.

Dressed in a golden colored body suit, the 21-year-old from Madison, Wis., flashed around the Olympic oval as if on jet-propelled skates to beat 1976 gold medalist Evgeni Kulikov of the Soviet Union and Lieve de Boer of Holland in Olympic record time of 38.03 seconds.

Prior to Heiden's performance, another American speed skater, Leah Poulos-Mueller of Dousman, Wis., brought the U.S. its first prize of the Winter Games by winning the silver medal in the women's 500-meter event. Karin Enke of East Germany won the event in an Olympic record 41.78 seconds and Natalia Petrusova of the Soviet Union was third.

"It's nice to win but the biggest thing is that I skated a good race," said Heiden. "I had a good start (after making one false start). I had a really good second turn and on my last turn I had kind of a slingshot effect and that enabled me to beat him on the last 100 meters."

"It's good for me to start out on the right track. The big thing is to get through the first 500. There's been a lot of pressure but that's relieved a bit now. Maybe I can cope better with the pressure after today."

Only last weekend in the world sprint championships at West Allis, Wis., Heiden was beaten in the 500 by teammate Tom Plant of West Allis. But Plant was not entered in the event Friday, and so Heiden's toughest competition became Kulikov and U.S. teammate Dan Immerfall of Madison, Wis.

"Maybe I was lucky I didn't have to go against him (Plant) today," said Heiden. "He was the best in the world that day."

The victory by Heiden, who will go for his second gold medal in the 5,000 meters today, partially erased another poor performance by his sister, Beth, in the women's 500. The two Heidens had placed the covers of several national magazines in recent months and both were expected to corner the market on gold at the Games.

Both, however, finished a dismal seventh in the women's 1,500 meters Thursday and managed to better another seventh-place finish in the 500.

While Beth faltered in the 500, Mueller, a three-time Olympian from Dousman, Wis., clocked 42.26 seconds to notch her second career Olympic silver medal. Her second-place finish also came after she committed two false starts, which she admitted unnerved her a bit. A racer is disqualified after three false starts.

Earlier Friday, Raisa Smetanina of the Soviet Union, a 27-year-old teacher, won the women's 3-kilometer cross-country race by a five-second margin to record the third Olympic gold medal of her career.

Smetanina, a double gold medalist in 1976, edged Finland's Hilka Riihimaki to win her third Olympic gold medal and fourth Olympic medal overall. Kevela Jerovicova of Czechoslovakia won the bronze.

Smetanina's time over the 3.1-mile course was 15 minutes, 6.98 seconds. It was the second victory in as many days for the Russian cross-country team, having placed 12 Thursday in the men's 30-kilometer race.

The top finisher for the U.S. in the women's event was Alison Owen-Spencer of McCall, Idaho, who placed 22nd with a time 16:39.4. That was nearly a full minute behind Smetanina's winning pace.

Beth Paxson of Charlotte, Vt., came in 26th with a time of 16:20.91 and Leslie Barnes of Park City, Utah, finished 33rd in 16:39.71. Betsy Haines of Anchorage, Alaska, who started first, came in 37th in 17:27.75.

The U.S. two-man bobbed team also put itself in position for a possible medal on the final two runs, which will be held today. Brent Rushlaw of Saranac Lake, N.Y., partnered by brakeman Joseph Tyler of Saranac Lake, were in fifth place after the first two runs with a combined time of 2:05.71.

World champions Eric Schuerer and Josef Benz of Switzerland held the lead with a time of 2:04.63. In their previous run, the fourth and final run of the men's and women's luge will be held, a gold medal will be contested in the 20 kilometer biathlon and the hockey competition will continue. The U.S. team, fresh from an upset of Czechoslovakia, will meet Norway.

The women will make their fourth and final training run Saturday before the course is closed in final preparations for the medal race.

Nadig, who has won six of seven World Cup downhill titles this season, and Moser-Proell, winner of every major women's downhill title during the past decade except the Olympic gold, are the favorites. But several other racers have been consistently just off the pace. They are Ingrid Eberle of Austria, France's Marie Luce Waldmeier, and Annemarie Bischofberger of Switzerland.

U.S. hockey team to play Norwegians

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — The U.S. hockey team, growing to enjoy the Winter Olympics more each day, received good news Friday when star center Mark Johnson tested a sore shoulder and decided he can play today against Norway.

"I've come too far to stop," said Johnson, who was hammered in the right shoulder by defenseman Jan Neliba in the last minutes of Thursday night's 3-3 upset of Czechoslovakia. "I don't know whether I tore the muscles or just strained them. The shoulder is a little tight, but I'll play."

The 1 p.m. EST match against Norway represents an interesting challenge for the U.S. squad, which has captured three of its first four points against difficult opponents to put itself in position to advance to the final round and a possible medal.

But all the hard work that produced the 2-2 tie against Sweden, and the upset of the powerful Czechs could go to waste if the Americans take Norway too lightly.

"If we think we can win it on talent, we're just fooling ourselves," Coach Herb Brooks said following Friday's skate. "We played an exhibition game against Norway in Oslo and it was a 3-3 tie. And we tied them, they didn't tie us."

Norway has lost its first two games of the tournament by lopsided scores but Brooks believes that those results were misleading.

"I think we might have trouble putting the puck in the net," he said. "That goalie, (Jim) Martinson can just shut the door on you."

Nelson expects high finish in women's downhill race

WILMINGTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Cindy Nelson says the U.S. skiers should do well in the Olympic downhill for women, and she expects a high finish for herself — possibly even another medal.

Nelson, the 1976 downhill bronze medalist with two second place finishes in World Cup downhills this year, said the race Sunday on Whiteface Mountain will be won by the skier who can conquer the upper portion of the 2,699-meter course.

"You've got 40 seconds of turns, followed by a minute of straightaways," Nelson said Friday. "Most of the skiers are having their problems in the top, so I expect that's where the race will be won or lost."

Nelson, of Lutsen, Minn., added, "This course is okay, but I'd prefer a technically more demanding downhill. I'd pick a course with more of a challenge. But I still expect to do well here."

She declined to predict a medal for herself or teammate Heidi Preuss. But Nelson said she, Annemarie Moser-Proell of Austria, Switzerland's Marie-Theres Nadig and Preuss "should do the best on Sunday." Most of the skiers are having their problems in the top, so I expect that's where the race will be won or lost.

Nelson, of Lutsen, Minn., added, "This course is okay, but I'd prefer a technically more demanding downhill. I'd pick a course with more of a challenge. But I still expect to do well here."

Moser-Proell set the women's downhill standard Friday, attacking the upper portion of the course and sailing through the bottom with the fastest time for all three training runs — one minute and 42.29 seconds.

Italian takes the lead in Olympic luge event

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Italian Ernest Haspinger took over as gold medal favorite Friday when pace-setting defending champion Dieter Guenther of East Germany crashed out of contention in a major upset in the third heat of the Olympic men's luge event.

There were no surprises in the women's event, however, where Haspinger and finally, play was called for the day.

The 61 players still on the course when play was halted, will continue Saturday, thus extending the tournament, sixth of the year on the PGA Tour, through Monday. As it is, they will have to play 36 holes Monday in order to make it a 72-hole event.

There is no real conflict for next week, when the Tour moves to Los Angeles. The cut here will be made after Sunday's second round, still giving those who fail to survive time to get to Los Angeles for Monday qualifying.

Lennie Clements, who got into this week's event through a special qualifying round because he does not have a PGA playing card,

Bobsledders set record

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Two-time world champion Erich Schärer of Switzerland, with brakeman Josef Benz, set a track record Friday in the first run of the Winter Olympics two-man bobsled championship.

Schärer steered his sled down the mile-long track of refrigerated ice at Mt. Van Hoevenberg in one minute, 01.87 seconds, marking the first time since 1974 that a bobsled has covered the track in under 1:02.

Others who will be fighting include Gyrd Landevog of CSI, Monty Webb of Wendell, Kyle Chapin of Nevada, and Boek Harris of New Mexico.

There also is a possibility that Chris Hovanda of Gooding will fight.

Padres trade Gaylor Perry

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres Friday traded two-time Cy Young Award pitcher Gaylor Perry to the Texas Rangers for first baseman Willie Montanez.

They also dealt left-hander Bob Oelwinkle to Cleveland for outfielder Jerry Mumphrey.

The Padres additionally gave up two minor league players for Montanez and one for Mumphrey.

Burton stays ahead in PBA

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Nelson Burton Jr. of St. Louis lost only 13 pins of his lead Friday afternoon as he topped second-place Joe Hutchinson by 70 pins after five rounds of the $25,000 AMF Major Score Open.

Bradley leads LPGA play

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Pat Bradley shrugged off a bogey on the first hole and went on to fire a 5 under par 67 Friday for a one-stroke lead after the first round of play in a $100,000 LPGA golf tournament.

Valentine signs with Expos

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Montreal Expos announced Friday that outfielder Ellis Valentine had agreed to terms for the 1980 season, thus automatically withdrawing from arbitration proceedings.

Valentine, 25, the Expos' right fielder for the past four seasons, hit .276 in 146 games last year. He was second on the club with 92 RBIs and fourth with 21 home runs.

Hagler to fight Hamani

PORTLAND, Me. (UPI) — "Marvelous" Marvin Hagler, begins another climb for the world middleweight boxing crown title today.

Hagler, the stylish and flamboyant left-handed puncher, won only the sports in his controversial draw, with title holder Vito Antuono in Las Vegas at their highly touted 15-round bout in December.

The popular bald boxer was denied an immediate rematch, and instead, will take on sixth ranked Louie Hamani from Paris in a 10-round national televised bout (CBS) at Portland's Cumberland County Civic Center.

Jim Colbert braves downpour to lead in PGA

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Jim Colbert beat the rain with a 7-under-par 66 Friday to take the first round lead in the rain-delayed $300,000 Tucson Open.

Colbert, the 15-year veteran of the PGA Tour who rebounded from a series of injuries to win almost $100,000 last year, was among the early starters in the field of 144 and even as it was, he played his last two holes in the rain.

Shortly after Colbert checked in with his fine round, which was "a stroke better than Dan Hallidorson and Roger Maltbie, play was suspended because of a heavy downpour. Officials worked feverishly for almost two hours to clear Tucson National of water but their efforts failed and finally, play was called for the day.

The 61 players still on the course when play was halted, will continue Saturday, thus extending the tournament, sixth of the year on the PGA Tour, through Monday. As it is, they will have to play 36 holes Monday in order to make it a 72-hole event.

There is no real conflict for next week, when the Tour moves to Los Angeles. The cut here will be made after Sunday's second round, still giving those who fail to survive time to get to Los Angeles for Monday qualifying.

But Allan, Jack Renner and Tom Purizer shot 68 to trail by two shots while Dan Pohl, Stan Algett, Tim Simpson and Bobby Walzel were at 69, among those who finished.

Tom Shaw shot 70, and another stroke ahead of seven players tied at 71. Lee Trevino, who finished second to Allan, began in last week's Hawaiian Open, topped a group of nine tied at 72, while Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller topped a group of 10 tied at even-par 73.

Colbert played his best round of the year to lead the 62 who finished. His round included an eagle — on the sixth hole — and five birdies. He played the five par-5 holes at rebuilt National in 6-under, and that pretty much told the story of his round.

"There is no secret to placing this course," said Colbert. "If you score on the par-5s, you are going to shoot a low number. I was fortunate to make everything in this round."

Maltbie, who has not played well this year and is struggling, edged the second hole and added six birdies and two bogeys for his 67, while Hallidorson, who has played odd and bad with moderate success, had seven birdies and one bogey.

"I feel I have played better this year than at any time in the last four years," said Maltbie, "but I haven't really accomplished much."

BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Opening with short suits

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In auction bridge you never opened a four-card suit. When contract came in, it became apparent that you could not wait for five-card suits; 35 percent of all hands just don't have ones on four cards.

At first, a simple response in a new suit was not a forcing bid. Then, the need to explore made it essential that new-suit responses be forcing bids. Then a special opening with some minimum holding such as S-A Q x x H-x D-J x C-Q x x started to get the opener into trouble any time his partner responded in hearts or clubs, while if he opened one club it became easy for him to rebid one spade.

Then a group of young experts found that with many hands such as S-K x x H-K x x D-J x x C-A K x the best opening bid was one club and the utility club had come into being. Note that these club bids were not artificial and not forcing and in standard American today they are the same as way back then.

Biddable Suits Today
We suggest that a four-card major suit is biddable if as good as a J 9 or Q J 10 x. A diamond suit is biddable if headed by Jack-10 or one of the three top honors and even if only of three cards while any three-card club suit is biddable.

When you have two or more biddable suits, less than five cards, the general rule is to open the lower one. However, you should prefer a biddable four-card heart suit to a biddable three- or four-card diamond suit and a biddable four-card diamond suit to a three-card club suit.
