Mass transit Commuter vans will begin serving area on Monday

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Commuter vans will begin shuttling students and working people into Twin Falls from the Buhl, Filer and Jerome areas Monday.

And a mini-bus already serving federal workers and the handicapped in the Burley-Rupert area will offer its services to commuters from the Mint-Cassia area.

The federally subsidized project also has a tentative three-bus route through Twin Falls that may eventually allow city residents to leave cars at home, said Charles Chambers, project coordinator.

Vehicles from the satellite towns will converge at the College of Southern Idaho parking lot. From there, three vans will take different routes through the city to deliver passengers to industrial and commercial locations.

Transfers at key intersections would enable city residents to get to a variety of locations without driving, Chambers said.

The system has been under study for two years, and represents an expansion of the dial-a-ride service now being offered senior citizens and handicapped persons, he said.

Trans IV, the project's title, will appear on each of the vans and buses. All city stops initially will be at off-street locations, he said.

The plan will be presented to the Twin Falls City Council Monday at its regular meeting.

"We've been so busy working with people from the (Idaho) Department of Transportation and the Energy Office, we completely overlooked the city," he said of the necessary permits and City Council approval.

City officials were excited about the project and helpful, when contract was finally made late in the week, Chambers said Friday.

The plan for Buhl and Jerome involves using senior citizen vans in the early morning and late afternoon hours when the vehicles are now mostly idle, Chambers said.

Initial stops in the two cities are at 7 a.m. at Smith's Food King in Buhl and at 7:05 a.m. at the Jerome intersection of Fourth Avenue North and Lincoln Avenue.

One-way rides will cost $1 from Buhl, 75 cents from Jerome and Filer, and 50 cents from Curry Crossing. Ten-ride passes will be $9 from Buhl, $7 from Jerome and Filer, and $4.50 from Curry Crossing.

Intraregion fares will be 25 cents, Chambers said. Transfers between buses are free.

The fares are below cost at the present time, he noted, "but we have to prove ourselves. We have to convince people that, if they depend on the bus, it will get them to work and back every day."

From CSI, one van will proceed south on Washington, west on Filer, and southeast to the center of town on Martin, Addison and Second. From there it will travel southeast on Shoshone to Park Avenue, and north to Kimberly on Blue Lakes Boulevard.

The second vehicle heads east on Falls Avenue to Blue Lakes, south to Filer, east to Eastland, south to Addison and then west to the center of town via Shoshone.

The third van heads south from the college on Harrison to Addison, east to Blue Lakes, south to Kimberly and east again to Eastland Drive.

Chambers said it will take several months to determine if the routes best serve people who might make use of the service. In the meantime, he urged area residents to call the office, 734-9950, if they have suggestions.

Two new lines were installed to handle the calls at the transportation project's offices on Kimberly Road. Callers also may use through the CSI switchboard.

If initial phases of the project prove successful, he said, it may be expanded next fall to provide two trips a day from each of the outlying cities. The later trip would provide an option for out-of-town shoppers and students with late morning classes, he said.

There's gold in that thar riverbed

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

GLENN'S FERRY — Dredging a Snake River gravel bar for gold near Glenn's Ferry has come one step closer to approval.

The Department of Water Resources office in Twin Falls forwarded a proposed limited approval of the project to the state office for final examination, according to DWR Southern Region Director Loren Holmes.

"What we've done is propose some conditions for approval of the request," Holmes said Friday.

He said excavation of the bar may be permitted if no dredging is done below the water level.

Hammitt residents Douglas

Stewart and Sidney Horman have applied for a stream channel alteration permit for a site immediately below Bancroft Springs in Elmore County. The two hope to dredge out a 1,320-foot stretch in search for gold.

However, Holmes said he received approximately 60 letters from King Hill and Glenn's Ferry residents opposing any dredging in that stretch of the Snake River.

"Mainly these people were concerned that dredging the stream would break loose moss from the stream bottom, which could clog and damage irrigation pumps," Holmes said.

Work crews are already employed to clear floating moss from pumps in the King Hill irrigation district.

Comment on the proposal was also received from the Idaho Department of Fish and Game and the Department of Health and Welfare.

"This particular stretch of the Snake River is an extremely important spawning ground for a large sturgeon population, according to the Fish and Game report," Holmes said.

"They were very concerned that any dredging of the river bed would hurt the sturgeon population."

He said the Health and Welfare Department's main concern was for excessive sediments and materials lowering water quality.

"Even with all of these concerns, we still felt it was possible for work to take place on the bar in a limited amount," Holmes said. "We don't see any reason excavation of the bar shouldn't take place when the bar is exposed by low water and as long as they don't dredge below the water level. That way there would be no danger of disturbing the river bottom and creating these potential problems."

Holmes estimated that most summer months would provide ample low water for the limited mining.

"However, the applicants may find that this limited excavation may not be worth the cost of bringing in equipment, and decide not to do it at all," Holmes said.

Neither Stewart or Horman were available for comment Friday, but Stewart told the Times-News last month that significant amounts of gold could be extracted from the stream only if dredging was done on a relatively large scale.

"I've panned down there for about 30 years. If you work at it you can make daily wage, but it's really hard," Stewart said.

Holmes said his recommendation to the state DWR office was mailed Friday.

"I don't expect it to take too long to go through and for a decision to be made — probably about a week," Holmes said.

If the stream alteration permit is issued by the DWR, Stewart and Horman would also need a mining lease from the Idaho Department of Lands before excavation operations could begin.

FBI captures 'most wanted'

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Carlos Torres, the suspected Puerto Rican terrorist who heads the FBI's 10-most wanted list, and 10 other persons were arrested Friday with a cache of weapons, police said.

Jim Ingram, agent in charge of the Chicago FBI office, said six FBI agents working on FALN terrorist group bombings in the past six years were in Evanston for the investigation.

The 11 were suspected in the armed robbery of a truck from a rental car office early Friday just north of Chicago.

Police recovered the truck, a car which was searched by a bomb squad, and three vans.

Weapons were found in all the vehicles, police said.

Extortion suspect arrested

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An unemployed horse trainer — accused earlier this month in a similar case — was accused Friday of extortion by poisoning food at two San Diego area supermarkets and demanding a ransom of diamonds under threat of putting poison in other markets.

The suspect, Richard Quinley Williams, 43, also was accused of threatening the owners of a jewelry store by leaving explosives at the shop in still another extortion attempt.

Williams, on state disability because of heart trouble, was arrested Thursday by FBI agents and local authorities at his trailer home in Winchester, a rural community in Riverside County about 65 miles east of Los Angeles.

Williams was accused of putting cyanide in a jar of pickles and a bottle of ketchup sauce at two Safeway stores in the San Diego area.

An affidavit signed by FBI agent Jerry L. Barnett said the FBI had "probable cause" to believe that Williams also was the extortionist involved food poisoning cases in Sun City, Calif.; Beaverton, Ore.; Tarzana, Calif.; Pacific Beach, Calif.; and Palm Desert, Calif.

FBI agent John C. McGinley and San Diego Police Chief William Kolender said evidence against Williams included voice tapes, apparently made of phone conversations, and handwriting analysis of an extortion note, demanding 50 uncut diamonds in the extortion attempt March 29 at a La Jolla Safeway store.

A day later, a man phoned the Safeway store in nearby Pacific Beach and upped the demand to 100 diamonds, threatening further poisonings.

Spectators gather near Portland to view ash and steam pouring from Mt. St. Helens (main photo) while scientist explains processes expected to lead to massive explosion of the volcano soon (inset)

Volcano may explode soon

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Melted rock melted underground boulders Friday transforming Mount St. Helens into a gigantic pressure cooker building toward a likely lava-spouting eruption, scientists said.

Magma (molten lava) working its way up inside the 9,677-foot mountain set off the "largest 'harmonic tremor' yet, a rolling shaker at midday that lasted an unrelenting 40 minutes, seismologists reported.

The mountain showed all the signs of getting ready for a major blowout — and state authorities, acting under an official state of emergency signed by Gov. Dixy Lee Ray, readied plans for possible disaster and evacuation from the area.

Officials planned to utilize fire station sirens, the news media and National Guardmen to alert an estimated 250,000 residents believed to be living within range of the volcano's biggest bursts, should it begin spewing lava.

"All the indications that typically precede an eruption are there," said Dr. Steve Malone, senior research associate at the earthquake monitoring center. "Large earthquakes, explosions, and now the harmonic tremors." "The nature of the beast," said University of Washington earthquake monitoring center spokesman Dave Endicott, was that molten rock "is exerting pressure and the pressure is apparently being released in two ways," inside the mountain.

"Fluid (lava) is seeping into cracks and granules under pressure causing the harmonic tremor readings, or it (the lava) is cratering the rock underground, causing the earthquakes."

"We do feel that rock is being crushed," he said.

An eruption of steam and ash exploding out of the mountain at daybreak enlarged its thundering crater as far as the volcano's western rim, a U.S. Forest Service spotplane reported.

Scientists were unsure as to how much wider the 1,500-foot crater had grown, but an aerial observer said the gaping hole — opened inside the mountain's ancient crater on March 27 — was blown to within a short distance of the cone's western side.

"What's happening in order to form the crater," said U.S. Geological Survey geologist Sue Kieffer, "is that the sides are sluffing off" and "tumbling deep into" the volcano's caldera, where it is ejected in booming roars that have sent steam and debris rocketing more than four miles above sea level.

Earthquakes — measuring under 3.0 on the open-ended Richter scale — were occurring by the "thousands" each day. Those in excess of 3.0 were "running about two or three per hour" and tremors "in excess of 4.0" were rattling the mountain approximately every six hours, Endicott said.

State emergency officials said Ray's declaration was "a precautionary measure" which authorized use of state personnel, funds and, if needed, the National Guard, to augment any emergency response from the six counties surrounding the mountain.

Saturday briefing

Nixon: Carter appears weak

PARIS (UPI) — Former president Richard Nixon said Friday President Carter has given the Soviet Union the "dangerous" impression that he is a weak man by not taking a tougher stand in the Afghan and Iranian crises.

Nixon said Carter has created the impression that he lacks firmness, thereby creating a "dangerous" situation that is bringing the West closer to war.

"President Carter is a patriot," Nixon said. "He is not an imbecile. He is not weak. But he gives the appearance of weakness and that's what is dangerous, especially with the Russians."

IRA terrorists strike again

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Terrorists believed to be from the Irish-Republican Army bombed a police station and a pub and fired a shot at a downtown cafe forcing Good Friday worshippers to evacuate a nearby Protestant cathedral.

Police said they believed IRA gunmen were responsible for the machine gun slaying of a part-time member of the predominantly Protestant Royal Ulster Constabulary in a warehouse where he worked as a stockkeeper.

Earlier, residents were cleared from central Belfast after two armed youths planted two bombs in a cafe, police said.

The bombs exploded within five minutes of each other, wrecking the cafe and causing serious fire damage to an adjoining office block.

At the height of the blaze the congregation of nearby St. Anne's cathedral had to abandon a Good Friday service, but no casualties were reported, police said.

On Sunday, Republicans will celebrate the 25th anniversary of the 1916 Easter Sunday rebellion uprising eventually led to the British withdrawal from 26 of Ireland's 32 counties and established an independent Irish state.

Afghans 'accept' Soviets

By United Press International

Afghanistanists in an agreement Friday, signaling its occupation by Soviet forces and Moscow accused the United States of supplying Afghan rebels with weapons including poison gas.

In Iran, President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr called on Pakistan to join an alliance with Tehran to force the Russians out of Afghanistan. But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who also addressed a few words to the Russians Friday, sounded far softer on the subject of Afghanistan, thus calling the authority of Bani-Sadr's remarks into question.

Turning around recent charges by Washington that Soviet troops were using poison gas in Afghanistan, Moscow Radio accused the United States Friday of supplying poison gas that "affects human sight and actions" to the Islamic rebels fighting the Russian occupation.

King assassination recalled

ATLANTA (UPI) — Coretta Scott King laid a wreath Friday in the tomb of her husband, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., on the 12th anniversary of his assassination and vowed to carry on his struggle for equal rights.

Mrs. King, president of the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change, said the center was continuing to continue the efforts begun by her husband to challenge "the forces of war, racism and poverty."

"We will not turn around until there is a job at a decent wage for every person who wants one," she said. "We will not turn around until skin color and gender have nothing to do with economic security."

These potholes are shocking

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Running an electrical charge through highway surfaces can help prevent the formation of potholes, a Minnesota Department of Transportation spokesman said Friday.

Fritz Marshall, assistant commissioner for technical services, said the method "called cathodic protection" — involves supplying the metal reinforcement bars in the concrete with electrical charges, slowing down the rust process.

Marshall said corrosion of the reinforcement bars is considered to be the main cause of accelerated roadway deterioration on continuous reinforced concrete pavement in Minnesota.

Carter may sanction Iranian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Friday "continued to monitor the situation" in Iran and maintained his indicated position that sanctions may be increased if the American hostages are not transferred to the government, his spokesman said.

On Thursday, following reports that Iran's Revolutionary Council was not satisfied with U.S. assurances of restraint, Powell said:

"Let me say that the American position has been clearly stated. We hope that the authorities in Iran will carefully consider that position and the full implications of that position before making a final decision."

The council must decide whether or not it will assume control of the hostages — a step Carter said would be viewed as a positive development.

Violence takes a holiday

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The Good Friday holiday gave Salvadorans a rare respite from the country's political violence.

An estimated 1.5 million people left the city to frolic on Salvadoran beaches Friday on the first day of the holiday, leaving the capital nearly deserted.

Italy stations in San Salvador — whose daily coverage usually focuses on bombings, demonstrations, assassinations and political strife — Friday broadcast news of highway traffic deaths instead.

On Thursday, government officials said gunmen believed to be leftist guerrillas shot and hacked to death at least 20 people in pre-dawn raids in small villages.

Authorities said a "large group" of guerrilla members of the Popular Liberation Forces raided the town of San Antonio, 18 miles east of the capital early Thursday, dragging nine peasants out of their homes and hacked them to death with machetes.

The guerrillas also shot and killed a national guard sergeant in San Antonio and dragged 10 government workers from their homes and shot them to death in Soyapango, the officials said.

None of the government reports could be independently confirmed.

Hostages to celebrate Easter

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Three Midwestern clergymen headed for Iran Friday to provide Easter services for 50 Americans held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Father Darrell Ruppert, an oblate Catholic priest from Omaha, Neb.; and the Rev. Jack Bremer of Lawrence, Kan., departed from the Kansas City airport early Friday en route to Washington, to meet the Iranian cleric, the Rev. Nelson Thompson, of Kansas City, Mo.

The trio was to obtain visas in Washington and fly to New York, where they were to leave for Copenhagen and Tehran. They planned to arrive in Iran late Saturday, in time to conduct Easter services for the 50 hostages held captive by militants since Nov. 4.

The Easter services at the besieged U.S. Embassy were arranged with the militants several weeks ago by Norman Forer, a University of Kansas social welfare professor who heads the Committee for American-Iranian Crisis Resolution.

Poultry disease identified

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A parrot in California has been diagnosed as having "exotic Newcastle disease," an ailment fatal to poultry, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

Officials said the possibility of spread of the viral disease is remote. But surveillance will be maintained for 30 days in the region around a veterinary animal hospital in Norco, Calif., where the yellow-naped Amazon parrot is being treated.

Officials take such careful precautions because an outbreak of the disease among pet birds is worrisome to poultry producers. If the disease spreads, it can wipe out chicken and turkey flocks and cause millions of dollars in losses.

E.G. Ungert, western regional director for the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the origin of the outbreak is believed to be purchases of birds from an unknown dealer operating from a truck.

Efforts are being made to locate the dealer.

Carter, Reagan should win again

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — President Carter and Ronald Reagan are expected to easily carry Louisiana Saturday, even though voters appear less than excited about their first-ever two-party presidential primary.

State officials predicted less than 25 percent of the state's 1.6 million voters would cast ballots Saturday, and the indifference of the voters may have been matched only by the candidates themselves.

Of the major candidates for both parties, only Reagan and GOP challenger George Bush, made personal appearances. Reagan spent two days campaigning in five cities, while Bush took five hours from his schedule to stump New Orleans voters this week.

John Anderson is not even on the Louisiana ballot, saying he was concentrating his efforts elsewhere.

President Carter sent his wife, Rosalynn, to New Orleans for a last-minute campaign whirl Friday and Sen. Edward Kennedy dispatched his son and daughter — Teddy Jr. and Kara — for a week of campaigning in south Louisiana.

At stake are 51 Democratic and 31 Republican delegates to national conventions, and most political experts are expecting Carter and Reagan to walk away with the majority.

John Cade, Reagan's Louisiana campaign chairman, said he expected Reagan not only to win the primary but to capture the state in the fall in a race against Carter. Carter narrowly defeated Gerald Ford in Louisiana in 1976.

"I think it is absolutely certain (Reagan) can carry this state in November," Cade said. "I don't think anything can stop him."

Bush told reporters in New Orleans this week he would consider it "a good show" to win 30 percent of the primary votes.

Mrs. Carter told about 400 supporters in New Orleans Friday that the president should be re-elected.

"We have not had a two-term president since Eisenhower," Mrs. Carter said. "No wonder we can't solve those long-term problems for the country. We need time for them to work."

She stressed that Carter was working to balance the federal budget, even though it might require "temporary discomfort," "transient disappointment" on the part of every American.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet forces have slowed their spring offensive in Afghanistan while they reassess tactics, U.S. analysts charged Friday.

The Soviets continue sweeps in the Konar valley, but the major offensives in the east have tapered off.

"They are probably in the midst of evaluating the effectiveness of their first large scale campaign," one U.S. analyst said.

Data reaching the U.S. government suggests the Soviets so far have failed to intimidate rebel forces — estimated at up to 100,000 — although they control major cities, provincial capitals and major communications.

The analysts said Moscow has stripped the Turkmen military district of the Soviet Union bare of military personnel for their Afghanistan operation.

To provide a "ready" backup, the Soviets have mobilized one division of about 12,500 men from the Kiev military district for possible use.

U.S. officials estimate the Soviet Union has about 80,000 troops in the mountainous Moslem country and has about 25,000 troops on Afghanistan's northern border at Kushka and Termez, U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Union, according to U.S. estimates, has been taking about 500 casualties a week, approximately one sixth killed in action and the rest wounded.

While the rebel forces lack any central organization, that does mean there is no central spot at which they can be attacked or routed.

They move about in bands of about 100 to 200, striking at Soviet forces then retreating much the way the Viet Cong insurgents operated in Vietnam against U.S. forces.

Terrorists release more hostages

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas released two of six remaining non-diplomatic hostages from the Dominican Embassy Friday, but showed no willingness to free the 19 captive diplomats anytime soon.

The guerrillas have now released 33 of the 57 original captives. Another, Uruguayan Ambassador Fernando Gomez, escaped.

Today is Saturday, April 5, the 96th day of 1980 with 270 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its last quarter.

The morning star is Mercury.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries.

American-born educator Booker T. Washington was born April 5, 1856.

Actress Bette Davis was born on this date in 1901.

On this date in history:

In 1851, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg of New York City were sentenced to death for stealing atomic secrets for Russia.

In 1964, illustrious American Gen. Douglas MacArthur died at the age of 84.

In 1968, major American cities were hit by violent riots as an aftermath of the assassination of Negro leader Martin Luther King.

In 1976, American billionaire Howard Hughes died of kidney failure on a flight from Acapulco, Mexico, to Houston, Tex. He was 70. Also that day, James Callaghan became prime minister of Britain.

A thought for the day: American Negro leader Booker T. Washington said, "No race prosper 'til it learns that there is as much dignity in tilling a field as in writing a poem."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet forces have slowed their spring offensive in Afghanistan while they reassess tactics, U.S. analysts charged Friday.

The Soviets continue sweeps in the Konar valley, but the major offensives in the east have tapered off.

"They are probably in the midst of evaluating the effectiveness of their first large scale campaign," one U.S. analyst said.

Data reaching the U.S. government suggests the Soviets so far have failed to intimidate rebel forces — estimated at up to 100,000 — although they control major cities, provincial capitals and major communications.

The analysts said Moscow has stripped the Turkmen military district of the Soviet Union bare of military personnel for their Afghanistan operation.

To provide a "ready" backup, the Soviets have mobilized one division of about 12,500 men from the Kiev military district for possible use.

U.S. officials estimate the Soviet Union has about 80,000 troops in the mountainous Moslem country and has about 25,000 troops on Afghanistan's northern border at Kushka and Termez, U.S.S.R.

Caution: Legs can be hazard to your health

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Passersby won't be able to see Kay Gregory's legs anymore because posters have been repositioned on the plate glass window of the City Hall reference library.

City officials won't say so directly but it appears the view represented a safety hazard for men who walked past the first floor window.

One young man lost control of a motorized scooter and crashed into the outside wall of City Hall. Another man walked into a concrete support pillar.

"That poor guy's never going to be able to look at women's legs again without worrying about running into a wall," Ms. Gregory said.

Miniblinds are on order but haven't arrived. Meantime, posters covering the upper half of the window were just moved down.

Flu deaths begin to decline

ATLANTA (UPI) — A flu epidemic that started last January has entered its 40th week with the virus apparently hitting young people under 27 more than any other population group but killing mostly the elderly.

The national Center for Disease Control however said Friday that for the second consecutive week the number of influenza and pneumonia deaths reported has declined.

Reports show that flu and pneumonia have taken the lives of 6,300 people since the first of the year, or 1,450 more than statistically expected.

For the week ended March 29, there were an estimated 550 flu and pneumonia fatalities, compared to 450 that would normally be expected for that period. The 100 "excess" deaths for the week and the 1,450 for the year were attributed to the flu epidemic.

In addition to the declining flu and pneumonia death rate, the CDC said that for the week ending March 22, only one state, Michigan, reported widespread outbreaks of influenza. Virginia, North Carolina, Nebraska and Oregon, listed regional outbreaks.

'Angel' suspect enters plea

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Nurse Jan Adams, red-eyed and uncertain of courtroom protocol, pleaded innocent Friday to the "Death's Angel" murder of a hospital patient by deliberate reduction of his oxygen supply.

Judge Michael Wendell scheduled trial for June 23 for the petite, dark-haired nurse. The defendant, free on $15,000 bail, was indicted by the county grand jury on one count of murder Wednesday.

Defense attorney Gary Logan asked for a grand jury transcript. Logan said once the transcript was available he and San Francisco lawyer Melvin Belli would file pretrial motions charging the grand jury evidence was insufficient.

When she testified voluntarily before the grand jury March 24 on the arm of Belli, Mrs. Adams said she was "sickened" by the entire matter and knew of no reason why she was the target of a grand jury investigation into possible mercy killings at Sunrise Hospital. Belli has called the grand jury indictment "a 'marshmallow' case."

Mrs. Adams was the midnight charge nurse in the West Respiratory unit of Sunrise Hospital, the state's largest private hospital. She had worked in the specialized intensive care unit about two years.

Police and investigators for District Attorney Bob Miller launched a secret investigation into a series of deaths in the West Respiratory unit early last month after a nurse told authorities she overheard two employees talking in the hospital cafeteria.

Nurse Barbara Faro, a five-year veteran of the Sunrise Hospital staff, told investigators the employees discussed a nurse nicknamed "Death's Angel" and predicted the approximate time a specific patient who would die next. Mrs. Faro went to authorities when the predictions came true.

Kidnap victim wins reward

UKIAH, Calif. (UPI) — Kidnap victims Steven-Stayner, 14, and Timmy White, 5, headed for a happy get-together Friday, arranged so that Steven could collect a $15,000 reward for rescuing his young friend from captivity.

The two boys fled a mountain cabin where they lived in their abductor and hitchhiked 40 miles into town last March 1, ending a seven-year ordeal for Steven and his parents.

Timmy vanished last Valentine's Day — Ukiah businesses — and civic groups — offered $15,000 for his safe return.

Kenneth Parnell, a 48-year-old drifter, is charged with the abduction of both boys.

Eugene Murphy, 38, a former hotel worker in Yosemite National Park, is charged with assisting Parnell in abducting Steven from a Merced, Calif., street in 1972.

Steven told police that after the kidnap Parnell persuaded him to stay with him by claiming Steven's parents had given him up.

Steven said he decided — seven years later — to leave Parnell for Timmy's sake because he didn't want to see the little lad go through what he went through.

Steven at first said Parnell did not abuse him bodily but charges of committing lewd sexual acts were later added to kidnap and child-stealing charges against Parnell in connection with the abduction of Steven.

Charges against a third suspect, a 14-year-old boy, were reduced Thursday, clearing the way for the youngster to testify against Parnell.

18-year-old sentenced for murder

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Brenda Spencer, a teen-ager who opened fire on a San Diego schoolyard with a .22 rifle a year ago killing the school principal and janitor, was sentenced Friday, the day after her 18th birthday, to 25 years to life in prison. Eight children and a policeman were wounded in the attack.

Miss Spencer's attorney, Michael McGinnis, said at the time she pleaded guilty that she suffered from a rare form of epilepsy called temporal lobe epilepsy which caused her to lose control of herself.

Carter, Reagan should win again

Saturday briefing

Nixon: Carter appears weak

PARIS (UPI) — Former president Richard Nixon said Friday President Carter has given the Soviet Union the "dangerous" impression that he is a weak man by not taking a tougher stand in the Afghan and Iranian crises.

Nixon said Carter has created the impression that he lacks firmness, thereby creating a "dangerous" situation that is bringing the West closer to war.

"President Carter is a patriot," Nixon said. "He is not an imbecile. He is not weak. But he gives the appearance of weakness and that's what is dangerous, especially with the Russians."

IRA terrorists strike again

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Terrorists believed to be from the Irish Republican Army murdered a police policeman and firebombed a downtown cafe forcing Good Friday worshippers to evacuate a nearby Protestant Cathedral.

Police said they believed IRA gunmen were responsible for the machine gun slaying of a part-time member of the predominantly Protestant Royal Ulster Constabulary in a warehouse where he worked as a stockpiper.

Earlier, residents were cleared from central Belfast after two armed youths planted two bombs in a cafe, police said.

The bombs exploded within five minutes of each other, wrecking the cafe and causing serious fire damage to an adjoining office block.

At the height of the blaze the congregation of nearby St. Anne's cathedral had to abandon a Good Friday service, but no casualties were reported, police said.

On Sunday, Republicans will celebrate the 6th anniversary of the 1916 Easter Sunday rebellion against the then British government in Ireland. The uprising eventually led to the British withdrawal from 26 of Ireland's 32 counties and established an independent Irish state.

Afghans accept Soviets

By United Press International. Afghanistans ratified an agreement Friday sanctioning its occupation by Soviet forces and Moscow accused the United States of supplying Afghan rebels with weapons including poison gas.

In Iran, President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr called on Pakistan to join an alliance with Tehran to force the Russians out of Afghanistan. But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who also addressed a few words to the Russians Friday, sounded far softer on the subject of Afghanistan, thus calling the authority of Bani-Sadr's remarks into question.

Turning around recent charges by Washington that Soviet troops were using poison gas in Afghanistan, Moscow Radio accused the United States Friday of supplying poison gas that "affects human sight and actions" to the Islamic rebels fighting the Russian occupation.

King assassination recalled

ATLANTA (UPI) — Coretta Scott King laid a wreath Friday on the tomb of her husband, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., on the 12th anniversary of his assassination and vowed to carry on his struggle for equal rights.

Mrs. King, president of the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change, said the center was committed to continuing the efforts begun by her husband to challenge "the forces of war, racism and poverty."

"We will not turn around until there is a job at a decent wage for every person, who wants one," she said. "We will not turn around until skin color and gender have nothing to do with economic security."

These potholes are shocking

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Running an electrical charge through highway surfaces can help prevent the formation of potholes, a Minnesota Department of Transportation spokesman said Friday.

Fritz Marshall, assistant commissioner for technical services, said the method — called cathodic protection — involves supplying the metal reinforcement bars in the concrete with electrical charges, slowing down the rust process.

Marshall said corrosion of the reinforcement bars is considered to be the main cause of accelerated roadway deterioration on continuous reinforced concrete pavement in Minnesota.

Carter may sanction Iranian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Friday "continued to monitor the situation" in Iran and maintained his indicated position that sanctions may be increased if the American hostages are not transferred to the government, his spokesman said.

On Thursday, following reports that Iran's Revolutionary Council was not satisfied with U.S. assurances of restraint, Powell said:

"Let me say that the American position has been clearly stated. We hope that the authorities in Iran will carefully consider that position and the full implications of that position before making a final decision."

The council must decide whether or not it will assume control of the hostages — a step Carter said would be viewed as a positive development.

Violence takes a holiday

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The Good Friday holiday gave Salvadorans a rare respite from the country's political violence.

An estimated 1.5 million people left the city to frolic on Salvadoran beaches Friday on the first day of the holiday, leaving the capital nearly deserted.

Radio stations in San Salvador — whose daily coverage usually focuses on bombings, demonstrations, assassinations and political strife — Friday broadcast news of highway traffic deaths instead.

On Thursday, government officials said gunmen believed to be leftist guerrillas shot and hacked to death at least 20 people in pre-dawn raids in small villages.

Authorities said a "large group" of guerrilla members of the Popular Liberation Forces raided the town of San Antonio, 18 miles east of the capital early Thursday, dragged nine peasants out of their homes and hacked them to death with machetes.

The guerrillas also shot and killed a national guard sergeant in San Antonio and dragged 10 government workers from their homes and shot them to death in Soyapango, the officials said.

None of the government reports could be independently confirmed.

Hostages to celebrate Easter

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Three Midwestern clergymen headed for Iran Friday to provide Easter services for 50 Americans held hostage in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Father Darrell Ruppler, an oblate Catholic priest from Omaha, Neb., and the Rev. Jack Bremer of Lawrence, Kan. departed from the Kansas City airport early Friday en route to Washington; to meet the third cleric, the Rev. Nelson Thompson, of Kansas City, Mo.

The trio was to obtain visas in Washington and fly to New York, where they were to leave for Copenhagen and Tehran. They planned to arrive in Iran late Saturday. In time to conduct Easter services for the 50 hostages held captive by militants since Nov. 4.

The Easter services at the besieged U.S. Embassy were arranged with the militants several weeks ago by Norman Forer, a University of Kansas social welfare professor who heads the Committee for American-Iranian Crisis Resolution.

Poultry disease identified

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A parrot in California has been diagnosed as having "exotic Newcastle disease" — an "atypical" form of poultry, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

Officials said possibility of spread of the viral disease is remote. But surveillance will be maintained for 30 days in the region around a veterinary animal hospital in Norco, Calif., where the yellow-naped Amazon parrot is being treated.

Officials take such careful precautions because an outbreak of the disease among pet birds is worrisome to poultry producers. If the disease spreads, it can wipe out chicken and turkey flocks and cause millions of dollars in losses.

R.C. Ogden, western regional director for the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the origin of the outbreak is believed to be purchases of birds from an unknown dealer operating from a truck.

Efforts are being made to locate the dealer.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — President Carter and Ronald Reagan are expected to easily carry Louisiana Saturday, even though voters appear less than excited about their first-ever two-party presidential primary.

State officials predicted less than 25 percent of the state's 1.6 million voters would cast ballots Saturday, and the indifference of the voters may have been matched only by the candidates themselves.

Of the major candidates for both parties, only Reagan and GOP challenger George Bush made personal appearances. Reagan spent two days campaigning in five cities, while Bush took five hours from his schedule to stump New Orleans for votes this week.

John Anderson is not even on the Louisiana ballot, saying he was concentrating his efforts elsewhere. President Carter sent his wife, Rosalynn, to New Orleans for a last-minute campaign whirl Friday, and Sen. Edward Kennedy dispatched his son and daughter — Teddy Jr. and Kara — for a week of campaigning in south Louisiana.

At stake are 61 Democratic and 31 Republican delegates to national conventions, and most political experts are expecting Carter and Reagan to walk away with the majority.

John Cade, Reagan's Louisiana campaign chairman, said he expected Reagan not only to win the primary but to capture the state in the fall in a race against Carter. Carter narrowly defeated Gerald Ford in Louisiana in 1976.

"I think it is absolutely certain (Reagan) can carry this state in November," Cade said. "I don't think anything can stop him."

Bush told reporters in New Orleans this week he would consider "a good show" to win 30 percent of the primary votes.

Mrs. Carter told about 400 supporters in New Orleans Friday that the president should be re-elected. "We have not had a two-term president since Eisenhower," Mrs. Carter said. "No wonder we can't solve those long-term problems for the country. We need time for them to work."

Soviet Afghan offensive may be slowing down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet forces have slowed their spring offensive in Afghanistan while they reassess tactics, U.S. analysts theorized Friday.

The Soviets continue sweeps in the Konar valley, but the major offensives in the east have tapered off.

"They are probably in the midst of evaluating the effectiveness of their first large scale campaign," one U.S. analyst said.

Data reaching the U.S. government suggests the Soviets so far have failed to — intimidate rebel forces — estimated at up to 100,000 — although they control major cities, provincial capitals and major communications.

The analysts said Moscow has stripped the Turkestan military district of the Soviet Union bare of military personnel for their Afghan operations.

To provide a ready backup, the Soviets have mobilized one division of about 12,500 men from the Kiev military district for possible use.

U.S. officials estimate the Soviet Union has about 80,000 troops in the mountainous Moslem country and has about 25,000 troops on Afghanistan's northern borders at Kushka and Termez, U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Union, according to U.S. estimates, has been taking about 500 casualties a week, approximately one sixth killed in action and the rest wounded.

While the rebel forces lack any central organization, that does mean there is no central spot at which they can be attacked or routed.

They move about in bands of about 100 to 200, striking at Soviet forces, then retreating much the way the Viet Cong insurgents operated in Vietnam against U.S. forces.

Terrorists release more hostages

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas released two of six remaining non-diplomatic hostages from the Dominican Embassy Friday, but showed no willingness to free the 19 captive diplomats anytime soon.

The guerrillas have now released 33 of the 57 original captives. Another Urubayan — Ambassador — Fernando Gomez, escaped.

Flu deaths begin to decline

ATLANTA (UPI) — A flu epidemic that started last January has entered its 10th week with the virus apparently hitting young people under 27 more than any other population group but killing mostly the elderly.

The national Center for Disease Control however said Friday that for the second consecutive week the number of influenza and pneumonia deaths reported has declined.

Reports show that flu and pneumonia have taken the lives of 6,300 people since the first of the year of 1,450 more than statistically expected. For the week ended March 29, there were an estimated 550 flu and pneumonia fatalities, compared to 450 that would normally be expected for that period. The 100 "excess" deaths for the week and the 1,450 for the year were attributed to the flu epidemic.

In addition to the declining flu and pneumonia death rate, the CDC said that for the week ending March 22, only one state, Michigan, reported widespread outbreaks of influenza, Virginia, North Carolina, Nebraska and Oregon, listed regional outbreaks.

'Angel' suspect enters plea

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Nurse Jani Adams, red-eyed and uncertain of courtroom protocol, pleaded innocent Friday to the "Death's Angel" murder of a hospital patient by deliberate reduction of his oxygen supply.

Judge Michael Wendell scheduled trial for June 23 for the petite, dark-haired nurse. The defendant, free on $15,000 bail, was indicted by the county grand jury on one count of murder Wednesday.

Defense attorney Gary Logan asked for a grand jury transcript. Logan said once the transcript was available he and San Francisco lawyer Melvin Belli would file pre-trial motions charging the grand jury evidence was insufficient.

When she testified voluntarily before the grand jury March 24 on the arm of Belli, Mrs. Adams said she was "sleekened" by the entire matter and knew of no reason why she was the target of a grand jury investigation.

tion into possible mercy killings at Sunrise Hospital. Belli has called the grand jury indictment a "marshmallow" case.

Mrs. Adams was the midnight charge nurse in the West Respiratory unit of Sunrise Hospital, the state's largest private hospital. She had worked in the specialized intensive care unit about two years.

Police and investigators for District Attorney Bob Miller launched a secret investigation into a series of deaths in the West Respiratory unit early last month after a nurse told authorities she overheard two employees talking in the hospital cafeteria.

Nurse Barbara Faro, a five-year veteran of the Sunrise Hospital staff, told investigators the employees discussed a nurse nicknamed "Death's Angel" and predicted the approximate time a specific patient who would die next. Mrs. Faro went to authorities when the predictions came true.

Kidnap victim wins reward

UKIAH, Calif. (UPI) — Kidnap victims Steven, Steven, 14, and Timmy White, 5, headed for a happy get-together Friday, arranged so that Steven could collect a $15,000 reward for rescuing his young friend from captivity.

The two boys fled a mountain cabin where they lived with their abductor and hitchhiked 40 miles into town last March 1, ending a seven-year ordeal for Steven and his parents.

Timmy vanished last Valentine's Day. Ukiah businessmen and civic groups offered $15,000 for his safe return.

Kenneth Parnell, a 48-year-old drifter, is charged with the abduction of both boys.

abducting Steven from a Merced, Calif., street in 1972.

Steven told police that after the kidnap Parnell persuaded him to stay with him by claiming Steven's parents had given him up.

Steven said he decided — seven years later — to leave Parnell for Timmy's sake because he didn't want to see the little lad go through what he went through.

Steven at first said Parnell did not abuse him, bodily, but charges of committing lewd sexual acts were later added to kidnap and child-stealing charges against Parnell in connection with the abduction of Steven.

Charges against a third suspect, a 14-year-old boy, were reduced Thursday, clearing the way for the youngster to testify against Parnell.

18-year-old sentenced for murder

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Brenda Spencer, a teen-ager who opened fire on a San Diego schoolyard with a 22-rifle a year ago, killing the school principal and janitor, was sentenced Friday, the day after her 18th birthday, to 25 years to life in prison. Eight children and a policeman were wounded in the attack. Miss Spencer's attorney, Michael McGinn, said at the time she pleaded guilty that she suffered from a rare form of epilepsy called temporal lobe epilepsy which caused her to lose control of herself.

RUHOLLAH'EM
The Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in the movie business? So says film writer Sele Groves in the May issue of Adeline magazine. Groves says when Khomeini took over Iran he discovered the fleeing shah left a sizeable bundle of money behind in the treasury. The Imam, looking for a place to invest it, apparently figures the box office is as good a return as any. The Ayatollah States no doubt will put out movies rated strictly PG for Persian Government.

FEAR IS KING
Billy Graham — told by his doctors he has several potentially serious medical problems — spoke of fear Thursday at a prayer breakfast in Minneapolis. Said he, "The whole world feels that something is about to happen — that something has got to give," adding people can only find what they seek by "crying out to God to save them." He told the audience that every year his doctors tell him to "slow down but... This year, they told me in a little stronger terms."

TAMMY'S TROUBLES
Tammy Wynette hasn't been out very long with her autobiography, but it's already picked up a libel suit. Tillman Franks — David Houston's manager — says her book, "Stand By Your Man" — defames him, and he's suing in Pine Bluff, Ark., for $1.5 million. The book contains several references to Franks — including one detailing an argument he had with Miss Wynette during a Canadian concert tour — but Franks' suit doesn't spell out what he considers libelous.

MUD AND MUSCLES
Teen sex symbol Leif Garrett got back from a month-long European tour to find much of his hillside home and recording studio filled with mud a legacy from the 10 day storm surge that drowned Southern California. Leif and family still are digging out the now-hardened ooze. Says he, "At least we're all developing great muscles from the shoveling."

NO MORE SIN CITY
Los Angeles' famed decadence is... well, deceiving. First CBS Records insists that the new Box Scags album cover be retouched to make its scantily clad model less provocative. Then a billboard company orders its huge Sunset Boulevard sign, alarbushead. That one shows Scaggs reclining in the lap of the "unidentified female friend," but Pacific Outdoor advertising wants it touched up and toned down. The outrageous Sunset Strip would seem to be turning into milquetoast.

CHAIRMAN TATTOO
Herve "Okay Boss" Villechazte,

Ricardo Montalban's miniscule sledstick in "Fantasy Island," has been named honorary chairman for the Orange County chapter of the National Spinal Cord Injury Foundation's wheelchair marathon. Herve says he wants to help the April 26 fundraiser "because this is a 100 percent volunteer organization, and 100 percent of any money they raise goes to spinal cord injury research, not to a bureaucracy."

Students migrate south for break

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) Five naked young men gyrated across the stage of a Fort Lauderdale bar to bongo music and waved the wet T-shirts they once wore sarong-fashion around their waists while the crowd roared college cheers. As mind-boggling as it might have appeared to the uninitiated, they were just a part of the madness that sweeps southern beaches from Florida to Texas at spring break time. In Daytona Beach, about 250 miles to the north, female flashing has come into vogue during spring break and in

Padre Island, Texas, police are winking at sex in the sand dunes. Although students making the traditional spring pilgrimage to the sun have become bolder in recent years, Jack Lewis, front office manager of Fort Lauderdale's Holiday Inn

Oceanside and a veteran of 14 spring breaks, said, "It's the same old thing, peed off the clothes, head for the sun and grab a can of beer." Despite the improprieties, police in resort towns said the students were on their best behavior in years.

What's what

Polished prevaricator knows about giveaway

Claim is that numerous people who tell lies tend to touch their faces with their fingers while doing so. They unconsciously cover their mouths, tap their noses, stroke their chins, rub their cheeks, scratch their eyebrows or pull their earlobes. As I said, that's the claim. Of researchers who make a study of human behavior. However, lawmen say they've observed the mannerism, but can't rely on it as foolproof. Your polished professional prevaricator also knows all about it.

Near the Mediterranean grows a tree called the carob. Its seeds are small. They were used originally on balance scales to determine the weight value of gold and precious gems. One carob seed equaled one karat.

Shortest street name in Hawaii is "Oh" pronounced oh-oh.

BALM OF GLEAD

Q. What was the biblical "balm of Glead?"
A. Glead was a town in ancient Judaea. Near it was a balsam grove that covered about 20 square miles. Locals harvested the leaves of the balsams to produce a highly scented substance that was supposed to cure headaches, catarrhs, other ailments.

Q. How does the United States rank among the gold-producing countries?
A. Pretty low. It digs up 2.25 percent of the annual gold production. South Africa produces 50 percent, the Soviet Union, 31 percent.

That men seem to suffer more than women do in dental chairs has been reported. But a study in Ireland recently indicates just how much more. The records show three times as many men as women pass out while their teeth are being repaired.

Industry uses less oil than salt, please not. Likewise less coal than salt.

EASY ICE CREAM

Kitchen mechanics exercise too little imagination in putting together tasty confections, I contend. Too busy? Maybe so. But this Better Homes and Gardens' ice cream is easy: Mix a cup and a half of strawberry jam with two cups of buttermilk. Freeze firm. Break apart. Beat until fluffy. Freeze again. That's it. Uvate at it.

What Christian Science Can Do For A Family

It can bring an understanding of God's closeness and care, helping each one in the family in everything he does. It can develop a deep love for the Bible, and joyful obedience to God's law. It can teach every member, and the family together, to heal all problems in the way Jesus showed. How can Christian Science do all this? Through Sunday School classes that strengthen children. Through Sunday services that inspire parents. Through Wednesday testimony meetings where personal accounts of healing are shared. Through Reading Rooms where truths are pondered in quiet. Won't you invite Christian Science into your family's life?

Thousands of Christian pilgrims, some carrying crosses, crowd the narrow alleyways of old Jerusalem, retracing Jesus Christ's steps.

No violence reported Large crowds swarm Holy Land sites

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An unusually large crowd of Christian pilgrims jammed into the steep, narrow alleyways of the walled Old City today to trace the steps of Jesus Christ on his way to the crucifixion nearly 2,000 years ago.

There were no reports of violence at the Holy Land sites in the Arab Old City, which was annexed by Israel just after the 1967 Middle East war. Christians from all over the world made their way up the Via Dolorosa to the Church of the Holy Sepulcher.

Many carried large wooden crosses on their backs at the head of individual groups of Christians who chanted prayers in Latin and their native languages as they stopped at each of the stations marking the route Jesus carried the crucifix through Jerusalem.

There were many more pilgrims than usual crowding into the narrow streets of the Old City because Greek Orthodox and Roman Catholic Easter celebrations coincide this year. The two celebrations coincide only three times this decade.

Israel officials said 90,000 tourists jammed into the country in the three weeks before Easter, an increase of 30 percent over last year. About a third were Christian pilgrims and the rest were Jews who came on the week-long Passover holiday.

Israeli vacationers crowded resort spots from the snowy Mount Hermon in the northern Golan Heights to the beaches along the eastern coast of the Sinai peninsula in the south.

The crowds were so thick in the Old City that many visitors gave up efforts to reach the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, the huge gray stone guardian of Golgotha on Calvary.

The Greek Orthodox procession left the Antonia fortress, the traditional site of the trial and sentencing of Jesus by Pontius Pilate, 30 minutes before the Roman Catholic procession. Both wound their way through the gaudy Old City bazaar to the sprawling stone church.

Bells and priests knelt at shrines inside the ancient Golan Heights and the aroma of melting wax from candles they held pervaded the gloomy recesses of the cool, dark interior. Outside the weather was sunny and hot.

Pilgrims arrived from as far away as Malaysia and South America for the holiday. A special guest of honor was the head of Ethiopia's Coptic community — Patriarch Abuna Tacla-Haimanot at the head of a group of 140 pilgrims.

Pope makes Way of Cross

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul marked Good Friday with preparations for a solemn Way of the Cross march through the ruins of ancient Rome in re-enactment of Christ's journey to Calvary.

John Paul, 59, who observed Holy Thursday by washing and kissing the feet of 12 elderly men in St. John Lateran Basilica, spent most of the day resting in his Vatican Palace apartments.

John Paul marked the most solemn event in Christian history by leading a procession through the lower reaches of the Colosseum to the Roman Forum, stopping to pray 12 times.

The ceremony, carried out each year by the pope, commemorates the 12 places Christians believe Jesus stopped while carrying the cross to Calvary hill in ancient Jerusalem.

Paul's West schedule also calls for him to lead a vigil mass in St. Peter's Basilica Saturday night and a pontifical high mass in the basilica Easter Sunday morning to celebrate the resurrection.

Thousands of tourists from Europe, Japan and the Americas jammed Rome for the Easter Week ceremonies and were greeted with clear skies and temperatures in the 50s.

John Paul marked Holy Thursday with the traditional symbolic washing of the feet, an act Jesus performed for his apostles at the Last Supper before he was betrayed by Judas in the Garden of Olives.

The gesture of humility was performed by the pope, who is also Bishop of Rome, at a mass in the Basilica of St. John's in Lateran, where 10,000 people were delighted by John Paul's joining in the singing with the Vatican choir.

John Paul, dressed in white and gold vestments and carrying the golden staff of the vicar of St. Peter, sat on a velvet throne with his head bowed as two priests read in Latin and Greek the gospel recalling the last night Christ spent with his apostles before his crucifixion.

After a homily dealing with the spiritual significance of the Last Supper, and a Roman Catholic liturgy for Holy Thursday ceremonies, John Paul washed, dried and kissed the feet of the 12 indigent men.

Vatican Radio said the men were residents of a Rome institution for the homeless founded by Mother Teresa, winner of the 1980 Nobel Peace Prize. The radio said the men were chosen because they represented "the poorest of the poor."

John Paul then gave communion to the congregation, including members of the Vatican diplomatic corps and nuns belonging to Mother Teresa's order.

After the mass the pontiff put a large communion wafer into a gold monstrance (receptacle) and placed it in the tabernacle of the altar of St. Peter's Basilica. He will remain in Easter Sunday to represent the three "dark days" between Christ's betrayal and his resurrection.

On Holy Saturday night the pope will begin Easter week ceremonies with a mass and a midnight "Veni Exiit" (Go—thence—the city—and the world) blessing.

Easter ceremonies officially begin when the pope lights the large white and gold candle near the main altar in St. Peter's.

LDS Church marks its 150th anniversary

© The Los Angeles Times
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — The Mormons, on the day of their church's sesquicentennial, this Easter, have come to resemble "super-Americans" after surviving the first 100 years being regarded as very un-American.

The church's founder, Joseph Smith Jr., was tarred and feathered in Ohio and was murdered in Illinois.

When the Mormons insisted on practicing polygamy in their Utah settlements, U.S. troops were sent to police them. Congress passed an act to confiscate their property and jail their leaders before the church abandoned plural marriage in 1890.

But American opinions of the Mormons turned around to become remarkably positive during the last 50 years, starting in the 1920s when radio broadcast music of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and people learned of the church welfare programs "to take care of their own."

musical and artistic tastes, churchgoing and volunteerism.

In a basic way, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints can hardly avoid its American flavor. Mormons believe that this is the land where the Christian gospel was "restored," that the U.S. founding fathers were divinely guided and that the U.S. Constitution will be somehow imperiled in the last days "before Christ's return, expected to be on American soil."

The holyland aura of American sites important to the church will be exemplified this week-end in Salt Lake City. President Spencer W. Kimball, 85, after opening the semi-annual church conference here Saturday morning, will fly to western New York State, on Sunday in a ceremony to be broadcast live on television to Salt Lake City by satellite. Kimball will dedicate a rebuilt log cabin in Fayette, N.Y., where Joseph Smith and five other men organized the church on April 6, 1820.

non-Mormon churchgoers reluctant to call Mormons Christians, even if they admire Mormon's traditional virtues.

Because the Mormon Church regards itself as genuinely Christian in fact, the only true Christian faith — it has kept its distance institutionally from other religious bodies even during the unprecedented international cooperation of the last two decades.

Mormons actively seek a certain acceptance in U.S. society. The church press extols the achievements and reputation in U.S. culture of such church members as golfer Billy Casper, baseball player Harmon Killebrew, singers Donnie and Marie Osmond and former Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

But the drive for acceptance by fellow Americans is motivated more by desire to gain access to prospective converts than any desire to meld with American society.

Mormon leadership at times seems to offer refuge for Americans who seek "a return to earlier and simpler times. Since April 1978 the church has paid nearly $4 million for quarterly inserts in the Reader's Digest, a radical step for a church that had previously shunned paid advertising.

the Lord's church in the last days," Maxwell said, "at the same time, we are also given constant reminders that the gospel of Jesus Christ is not just for Americans. The church now includes a Belgian, Japanese, German and Dutchman among its general authorities."

Plans to build seven new temples, six of them in foreign lands, were announced here Wednesday. A dollar estimate was given, but a spokesman said they were "significantly smaller" than the huge edifices in Los Angeles and Washington, D.C.

Seventeen temples are now in the worldwide for the secret rituals of the church and four are under construction in Seattle; West Jordan, Utah; Mexico City; and Tokyo.

Besides one new U.S. temple to be built in Atlanta, the church will add temples in Argentina, Australia, Chile, Tahiti, Tonga and Western Samoa.

in the teen years for qualified males, is the only route for meaningful church work in Mormonism.

Jan Shippo, president of the 15-year-old Mormon History Association, though she is not a Mormon, says it was likely that the International Mission thrust more than domestic pressure from U.S. blacks, contributing to church policy.

"Blacks were not picketing the church conferences any more and liberal Mormons had stopped wringing their hands publicly" in other words, the U.S. protests had peaked already," said Shippo, who teaches history and religious studies for Indiana-Purdue University at Indianapolis.

"But in Brazil, for example, many people who had become converts and leaders in church tracts their genealogy, as good Mormons are expected to do, and found some black blood in their ancestry, making them ineligible for church leadership," she said.

Many Mormon liberals and moderates are concerned about whether Ezra Taft Benson, 80, a strong political conservative, will be the next president of the church. As president of the ruling Council of the Twelve, Benson has unbroken tradition and his name is "what it will remain" until the latter's death.

In a speech this year to BYU students, Benson emphasized his view of the church president as an unerring prophet who would not separate God and politics and whose words would surpass in importance both Scripture and teachings of past church prophets.

While church leaders say such decisions are in the hands of God, some Mormons are wondering whether a feared polarization of the church can be avoided.

Wendell LDS Stake presents pageant

Mormons today appear to many to be "more American than the average American" as they perpetuate in their own circles the culturally homogeneous picture America had of itself in the 1940s and 1950s.

One historian dubbed the church "The Reader's Digest religion" a few years ago because it values seemed to match those held up by the magazine as ideally American.

Patriotic, capitalistic endeavor, hard work, clean living, father-breadwinner mother homemaker, Boy Scouts, beauty pageants, quality-but-conventional WENDELL — The Relief Society of the Wendell LDS Stake will present a pageant April 10 to celebrate the sesquicentennial of the LDS Church.

More than 100 people, ages 6 and over, are invited to the production, which will feature costumes, narrations, a slide show and music. The Ladies of the Valley of Hagerman will perform, accompanied by two pianos.

The five-ward pageant includes the two Gooding stakes, two Wendell stakes and the Hagerman stake.

The pageant will be performed at 7 and 8:30 p.m.

Passion Play: which version stirs controversy?

OBERAMMERGAU, West Germany (UPI) — The Oberammergau Passion Play enacted every 10 years is arousing unintended passions this year that are political and artistic as well as religious.

Every decade since the 1630s, the Bavarian village has performed a play depicting the suffering of Christ and his death on the Cross.

The tradition arose after 1632, when a wandering mercenary brought the plague to the village straddling the river Ammer where it cuts through the stony Alpine foothills.

The villagers vowed to perform a play commemorating Christ's suffering if God freed them from their own burden of disease.

The disease went away, and so the villagers performed, and go on performing.

The play has brought tourism, with some half-million visitors to this year's performances, most of them Americans.

It also has brought tacky commercialism to the 4,700 residents, many of them woodcutters and carvers whose tourist shops are filled with figures of Christ and the Virgin Mary.

For more than a decade the community's most controversial subject has been the Passion Play and which version to perform.

Olmar Wels and revised by village priest Alois Daisenbergler.

The A.C. charged the text was anti-Semitic in its assertions that the Jews bore collective guilt for Christ's death.

Schwalghofer succeeded in staging the Rosner version in a trial run in 1977. Its bold sets, stylized costumes and the quality of its verse repudiated wide critical acclaim, and met the approval of both Catholic and Protestant churches, and the A.C.

But it didn't win over the villagers. In a fiercely contested local election in 1978, Oberammergau voters booted all those against the Daisenbergler text out of office, electing independents who resisted change.

There have been some changes in the 1980 text. The more virulent passages critical of the Jews have been cut, and a passage welcoming "brothers and sisters of the race from which Jesus came" inserted in the prologue. The A.C. and the Catholic Church endorsed the new text.

But that is not the point, according to Schwalghofer.

"People say the Rosner version is too literary," he said in a trial run in 1977. "I'm an artist argued in the studio of his home. 'And that's the one thing we must do — perform art.'"

Schwalghofer still believes he will get the play changed by 1990, plugging his hopes on the young villagers to do away with tradition.

But Hans Maier, director of this year's play and, like Schwalghofer, a woodcutter and carver, disagrees.

"Seventy-five percent of the village voted for this version of the play," he said.

"Also, it's not anti-Semitic. For me, there is no such thing as collective guilt. The priests then acted according to their law, and that was that."

Thirdly, Maier argues, the Rosner version is too literary.

"Rhetoric is nothing for our people," he said, sitting in his bare, whitewashed office at the back of the theater that boasts the largest open air stage in Germany.

"It might be all very well for the people who go to Bayreuth or Salzburg festivals, but our play must appeal to everybody."

It is four o'clock on a Sunday afternoon, the mountains are shrouded in mist and the streets are quiet apart from an occasional click of a tourist camera.

Suddenly, children stream from nowhere toward the theater. Maier's voice booms out through a theater megaphone as he directs 800 people in closed rehearsal of Jesus' entrance into Jerusalem. He made his own first appearance in the play as a four-year-old child actor.

Children and adults are organized into groups. Village posters order them to rehearsal. Eighty people in each group check on regular attendance. The web of the play's organization runs through village life.

Oberammergau has invested $6.6 million on the theater this year to improve sound and other equipment.

"There's always this argument that we make money out of Christ's suffering," Maier said. "But any money we make goes right back into the community."

In 1980, Oberammergau officials say receipts should total about $12.9 million. But, they add hastily, once players are paid compensation for work lost, and administration and renovation costs are met, only some $2.8 million will remain.

Filer clerk pronounces recall petitions OK

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

FILER — Filer City Clerk Frances Wells said Friday recall petitions against Councilman Leland Alexander meet all legal requirements.

The petitions, which were filed at the clerk's office on March 26, have been checked against registration books and state statutes, she said.

The clerk said she also prepared a letter to Alexander and mailed it by certified mail Friday advising him of the recall.

He will have five days from the time he receives the letter to decide whether to resign; then, if he does not resign, the clerk must call an election within 30 to 40 days.

Wells said the receipt Alexander signs for the certified letter will determine when the five-day period begins, although she said he will probably receive the mail by Monday at the latest.

The clerk said she also sent a letter to former Councilman Charles Crawford Jr., who presented the petitions, advising him they contain more than the minimum requirement of 83 signatures from registered voters of Filer.

Alexander said he will not make any announcement about resigning until five days after he receives official notice of the petitions.

The petitions contained 94 signatures, more than the required 20 percent of the 412 voters registered for the last city election.

Circulation of the petitions by Crawford and several other Filer residents followed a heated discussion in the March council meeting regarding the police department.

Alexander has supported reducing the department from four to three members as an economy move. He also voted against allowing a city policeman to attend training sessions at his own expense and be reimbursed by the city if he remained with the department. He also opposed approving expenses for Police Chief Randy Lammers while attending a training school, during which time the council was discussing reducing the department.

Last year a police officer, Danny Lammers, filed a complaint against Alexander charging him with assault after Alexander allegedly slammed the door of the police car during an argument over grass clippings in the alley behind the Alexander home. The case was later dismissed.

Gerald Mullen, a former police chief and fire chief, said he has checked the council minutes and finds Alexander has cast more "no" votes than any other councilman, and has voted against numerous city ordinances and city projects.

In the petitions, the recall committee charged the councilman with opposition to the enforcement of various city ordinances and laws by the police department and with maintaining a critical attitude toward officers and creating conflicts between police officers and the city council.

Councilmen John Glandon and Robert Fort say they do not feel Alexander has done anything to warrant a recall.

Councilwoman Wanda Shaffer says she, too, feels the recall is not needed. Mayor Eldon Rynals says he is staying out of the conflict and has no comment.

Filer City Attorney Fred Decker informed the clerk in an April 1 letter that several minor infractions in the petition filing were not sufficient to void the petitions. The clerk had pointed out that—while there were enough signatures from registered voters, there were three irregularities under the state recall code.

She said the petitioners failed to "attach" the petitions to the signature sheets; failed to have the petition and signature sheets "printed on good quality, bond or ledger paper"; and noted some of the signatures failed to list Filer as part of their address on the petitions.

Decker wrote that in his opinion the clerk should certify the petitions as complying with the state code and notify Alexander of the recall move.

Decker cited a case in Pocatello where the court held omitting "Pocatello" from petition signatures and addresses was not a basis for rejecting recall petitions.

Elections

Monday is final day candidates can file for state, county offices

BOISE — Monday is the last day to file for state legislative and county offices in Idaho, and state officials said Friday they expect a crush of last-minute filings.

Many legislative slots remained open Friday afternoon. In addition, candidates are filing for county commission, prosecutor, sheriff and coroner positions in each of the state's 44 counties.

J. Wilson Steen of Glenns Ferry and Kenneth Bradshaw of Wendell filed Friday for re-election to state senate seats in Districts 22 and 23.

Bradshaw, a Republican, will seek his third term from District 23. He served this session on the Senate Resources and Environment, Transportation and Local Government committees.

Steen, also a Republican, is seeking his seventh term serving District 22. He was a member of the State Affairs Committee, Resources and Environment Committee and Transportation Committee this session.

Steen will be opposed in his bid for re-election by John Kieffer of Mountain Home. Kieffer filed on the Democratic ticket.

SHOSHONE — Two more Lincoln County sheriff candidates filed Friday for the primary election.

John Davis and Stephen Southwick were the third and fourth candidates to file for the office vacated by retiring Sheriff Bill Anderson.

Davis has been a Lincoln County Sheriff's deputy since 1977. Southwick, who farms near Dietrich, served as an auxiliary police officer in a reserve police force in Ogden, Utah.

All four candidates have filed on the Republican ticket.

RUPERT — Lillian Bellem of Rupert filed Friday for a two-year term as a Mindoka County commissioner.

The incumbent commissioner for that seat, Fred Maler, did not file a petition as of Friday, according to the Mindoka County Clerk's staff.

Bellem, a Democrat, is employed at Trevino Equipment Co. in Rupert. She is married to Clarence Helton, who is seeking a position as state senator.

On Thursday, Kim Christensen filed for re-election to a two-year term as Mindoka County coroner, a position he has held since 1974.

Christensen, Rupert, is a medical technician at Mindoka Memorial Hospital in Rupert.

GODDING — A candidate for Gooding County coroner and another for sheriff filed Friday at the Gooding County Courthouse.

Incumbent Coroner — James Malcham, a Republican, is a doctor in Gooding. He is opposed by Gary Loder, a Gooding ambulance driver and emergency medical technician.

Jim Finch, the Gooding County corrections officer, is running for sheriff against Deputy Sheriff Robert Aja in the Republican primary. Sheriff Earl Brown announced his retirement earlier this year.

JEROME — Former Jerome Police Chief Howard DuBols filed Friday for the Democratic nomination for Jerome County sheriff.

DuBols, 62, has been in law enforcement 25 years, and spent eight years as Jerome chief prior to his retirement in February. This is his second try for the sheriff's post.

Incumbent Sheriff Elza Hall filed for re-election as a Republican Wednesday.

Also in Jerome County, Fred Tattersall of Eden filed Friday for the Democratic nomination for District 3 county commissioner. Incumbent Henry Schutte, a Republican, has not indicated whether he will seek re-election.

Tattersall is a farmer and present chairman of the Hillsdale Highway District.

TWIN FALLS — A three-way race developed here Friday for the sheriff's position on the Republican primary ballot.

Sheriff James Munn, who filed for renomination Tuesday in Twin Falls county, is now opposed by Ivon Kieffer, Kistler and Thomas L. Majors, a former deputy sheriff.

Kistler, a former deputy sheriff, unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination against the late sheriff, Paul Coroner, four years ago.

Majors has also served as a deputy sheriff in Twin Falls County. Majors has been a resident of Idaho for 25 years. He served as Hansen city marshal in 1963 and became a deputy sheriff under Benham in 1964. He served as deputy under Benham and Coroner until 1970, when he started an armored car service in Twin Falls.

Other filings Friday include Ann Cover, county commissioner from District 3, seeking renomination on the Republican ticket, and County Coroner Clarence Edwards, also running for renomination as a Republican.

Cover was serving as a Twin Falls City Council member when she was first elected to the commission in 1974, defeating Democratic incumbent William Wiseman.

Edwards, who is seeking his sixth term, is the owner and operator of Magic Valley Ambulance Service and a former city police officer. He has been coroner for 12 years and was unopposed in the last election.

There still are no candidates for the District 1 county commission seat held by Tommy Walker Sr., who has announced he will not seek re-election.

Shrinking potato prices continue decline for second consecutive year

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For the second year in a row, prices in the fresh potato market are disappointingly low.

Dennis Herbold, of Max Herbold Inc., potato shippers, at Rupert, and president of the Idaho Growers and Shippers Association, said top quality spuds are worth only about $2 a hundredweight (cwt) today.

According to U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates, 11 cents farmers about $1.30 per cwt to grow the potato crop last fall. The potatoes being sold now are real money losers because, in addition to the cost of production, a farmer must add in the costs of storage, shrinkage and spoilage.

The market has been getting steadily lower since January, Herbold said. "It's the same as last year and, if you account for inflation, the prices are actually lower this year."

And things are getting worse, Herbold said. The price for processor grade potatoes drops from $1 a cwt to 75 cents a cwt on Monday.

Herbold also grows potatoes. "We've got some potatoes left," he said. "Nobody does any good when prices are this low."

In 1978 Idaho growers produced a record 100 million cwt. of famous potatoes. A crop, too large to be marketed, it led to depressed prices and eventually to the dumping of unsold potatoes.

The 1979 Idaho potato crop was smaller by about 13 million cwt, but for much of the year growers held onto their potatoes "hoping" prices would increase. Early this year, the number of potatoes still to be sold was comparable to the number of potatoes that had been on hand the year before and prices began to slip.

"Throughout the year, four potato grower groups contended that the USDA estimates of the potato crop were too high and that the crop could be marketed at higher prices. The Potato Growers of Idaho, Western Potato Growers of Idaho, Idaho Farm Bureau Federation and National Farmers Organization placed ads in papers across the state telling growers that surveys showed a smaller number of potatoes than USDA figures and that by spring prices would be higher.

The groups did not urge growers to hold onto all their potatoes waiting for prices to increase. They said that the only way to get prices up was to use orderly marketing, "to provide a steady flow of potatoes to shippers and processors. However, movement was slow and a substantial number of potatoes remain unsold, shippers say.

"Last year, we had a lot of potatoes and they were cheap, but we did a lot of business," said shipper Bob Keegan, of Keegan Inc. in Twin Falls. "This year the market has just been lackluster."

Each day there are more potatoes that haven't moved than last year, he said.

This year's crop doesn't seem to be holding up well in storage, either, Keegan said. "We're seeing pressure bruises and we shouldn't see them this early," he said.

Assault charge filed

KETCHUM — A Ketchum man was charged with aggravated assault early Friday after an incident that took place outside a local tavern.

Police Chief Dennis Hayes said Steve Ross Lanser, 23, was arrested shortly after midnight and was to be arraigned Friday.

An unnamed victim sustained head injuries as a result of a fight outside the tavern, Hayes said. The victim was treated at Meritz Community Hospital and later transported to a Boise hospital.

Homemaker bill becomes law

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans signed into law Friday a bill establishing a center to aid widowed and divorced homemakers at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. Norma Dobler, D-Moscow, was amended to include a Sunshine Clause, which provides that the program will be abolished after two years if the Legislature does not appropriate funding.

No-nuke provision sought

HAILEY (UPI) — An anti-nuclear group wants to add a provision to Blaine County's planning and zoning law banning nuclear power plants.

Spokesmen for the Groundwater Alliance said they would present their proposal Tuesday at the county Planning and Zoning Board meeting.

The alliance said there should be a county ordinance banning the construction or operation of nuclear power plants of any other nuclear powered facilities on the grounds that they are "non-amenable with the purposes of zoning: to promote health, safety and general welfare."

The proposal would ban plants to generate electricity by means of nuclear fission, even though no such plants have been planned for Blaine County.

There was some concern about a part of the proposal that would allow the mining, manufacture and reprocessing of nuclear fuels. Uranium deposits are believed to exist in Blaine County, and it was feared mining companies which might be interested in exploring for uranium in the area would be deterred.

Crib death reported

TWIN FALLS — A 2-month-old Twin Falls baby died Friday morning of what Deputy County Coroner Steve Baisch termed a crib death.

Baisch said Kristy Jean Baker was pronounced dead at the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital about 11:35 a.m. Friday.

Her mother, Larayne Baker, called police about 11 a.m. when she tried to awaken the baby and found she had stopped breathing. Mrs. Baker told officers she had put the baby to bed at 8 a.m. and checked her again at 9 a.m. and everything was normal at that time.

When she didn't awaken for her 11 a.m. feeding, police report, Mrs. Baker said she went to get her up and discovered she was not breathing.

Baisch said officers answering the call at the R.L. Baker home in Skyline Trailer Park south of town, administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation until the ambulance arrived. He said resuscitation was also administered by ambulance attendants en route to the hospital; Baisch said doctors worked with the infant for 15 to 20 minutes at the hospital but there was no response.

Easter egg hunt today

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Exchange Club and the City Recreation Department are sponsoring the annual Easter Egg Hunt this morning.

The hunt will be held at 10 a.m. in City Park on Shoshone Street East across from the county courthouse. More than 300 dozen eggs were donated by city merchants.

Romero new Filer patrolman

FILER — Ronald Romero has assumed duties as a Filer city police patrolman.

His appointment was recommended by Police Chief Randy Lammers and approved by the Filer City Council Tuesday.

Romero, 34, is a resident of Buhl and a former California law enforcement officer. Lammers told the council Romero holds an intermediate certificate in California and would not have to additional training for Idaho certification if he can pass a test. This would eliminate the city having to pay for the certification course.

Lammers said Romero has worked in nearly all divisions of law enforcement including patrol, work, detective and police agent and has 7 1/2 years experience.

Another power rate hike request predicted

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Power Co. will ask for another rate increase before the end of the year, Idaho Public Utilities Commissioner Perry Swisher predicted Friday.

The utility was granted a 26 percent temporary rate boost by the PUC last month. The final increase figure will be determined once the firm's application to charge FMC Corp. 65 percent more for electricity is processed.

Swisher said the repeated increases are "important, if painful," to help Idaho Power and other large utilities avoid cash-flow problems brought on by poor economic conditions and the costs of new, out-of-state coal-fired power plants.

He said the latest Idaho Power increase is tied to the Wyoming Jim Bridger power plant, and future rate increases will be linked to a plant in eastern Oregon and another in the Nevada desert. Idaho Power has an interest in all three.

Should the Oregon coal-fired plant go on line as scheduled, Idaho Power will ask Swisher and the other two PUC members for another increase. Swisher said on KTVB's "Viewpoint" program.

Coal-fired plants are more expensive to build and maintain than hydroelectric generators, so the conservation naturally must pay more, he said.

During the recent months of severe inflation and unfavorable economic conditions, Idaho Power's shareholders and investors "have been taking a beating," he said.

Conservation by business and the public would be the only way further increases and power-plant construction could be put off or reduced, Swisher said. He also noted that the PUC is required by law to keep the utilities solvent, so it usually has no choice but to grant at least some percentage of each requested rate increase.

If consumers don't conserve energy, he said, there probably won't be a halt to periodic rate increases such as the double-digit hikes recently granted Idaho Power, Intermountain Gas Co. and Washington Water Power Co.

Swisher also dished some criticism to Idaho Power.

He said the firm has been giving "lip service" to energy conservation. He said its television advertisements and electric dirt book don't get to the "real thrust" of conservation.

"I consider much of it to be lip service," he said. "The electric dirt book is more of an advertisement of how cheaply small electric-powered items can be operated rather than a conservation tool, the commissioner said. The blame for this lies in the fact that Idaho Power grew by aggressively marketing its product and it has not shaken this mentality, he said.

Asked whether the PUC is planning to force Idaho Power to more actively promote conservation, Swisher said the commission can only hope to "get the public's attention" and explain the causes of rising power costs. He said after-the-fact public reaction to rate increases is not enough, and the PUC can't use "force" against the utilities.

Swisher also indicated construction of a coal-fired power plant in Idaho is inevitable, given present population and consumption trends.

Public participation in utility decisions also will continue to increase, because the public is being required to pay a larger share of the cost of energy than in the past, he said.

Because of the heightened public interest in energy, Swisher said, the PUC now is funding intervenors in rate cases to ensure more than one side of the story is told.

Nuclear power most likely won't be a solution to Idaho's energy dilemma because nuclear power has "serious, congenital" problems, including safety, predictability and waste disposal, Swisher added.

Salary guideline approval given by education board

POCATELLO (UPI) — The state Board of Education approved general salary guidelines Friday which give instruction and agency administrators flexibility to decide how to award employee pay increases beginning July 1.

Under the proposal, next year's total salary adjustment for so-called "camp" employees — primarily faculty, administrative and professional staff members — must not exceed a total increase of 8.5 percent above this year's salaries for each agency or institution.

Administrators will return to the board in May with specific recommendations for across-the-board, merit, promotion or equity increases within the 8.5 percent ceiling.

Milton Small, executive director of the Office of the state Board of Education, said the motion gives "no direction as to what the nature or amount shall be as long as it is within your appropriation."

The motion exempted the State School for the Deaf and the Blind in Gooding and the state Department of Education, both of which base adjustments on internal salary schedules.

A separate motion provided that merit payments for outstanding work by classified employees, those regulated by the Idaho Personnel Commission, will be awarded at the discretion of the agency or institution head.

Board President Clint Hoopes of Rexburg stressed the importance of remaining within the 8.5 percent increase ceiling established by resolution of the Idaho Legislature.

Board Chief Fiscal Officer Steve Keto added, "I think you would be treading on very dangerous water if increases exceed the 8.5 percent of any agency or institution."

In other action, the board:

• Elected Janet Hay of Nampa to a one-year term as board president.

• Stated it is in favor of a regular school district and build a high school at Idaho City.

• Divided the fiscal year 1981 appropriation between Idaho's two junior colleges, allocating $2,233,600 to the College of Southern Idaho and $1,924,100 to North Idaho College.

Deadline extended for family delegates

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans announced Friday he has extended to April 11 the deadline for nomination of delegates to this summer's White House Conference on Families.

Persons interested in attending the Los Angeles conference originally had until March 31 to submit their names to the governor's nominating commission.

The commission's own deadline for submission of potential delegates to Evans is April 23. Evans must pick the 13 delegates and six alternates by April 30.

"The commission members asked for the extension due to the lack of awareness of the conference in some parts of the state," Evans said.

In Ada and Canyon counties, at least, the delegate selection process has been a hot topic. A group of people led by Rep. Wendy Ungriht, R-Boise, has been urging the governor to either throw the delegate selection open to all voters, or have Idaho boycott the conference.

Mrs. Ungriht has said the conference has been targeted by homosexual groups.

PUC rips Idaho Power effort in developing energy programs

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has rapped Idaho Power's conservation and alternative energy systems and made a "substantial" contribution to Idaho's future energy needs and has chided Idaho Power Co. for its lack of such programs.

The commission's ruling followed eight days of hearings in mid-February on conservation, cogeneration and small power technology. The hearings included presentations on the availability of wood waste, geothermal, solar, wind, low-head hydro and municipal waste combustion energy.

Based on the various presentations, the PUC concluded, "It is apparent that conservation, cogeneration and small power technologies are capable of making a substantial contribution to meeting the future energy demands of Idaho."

In order to encourage the development of these alternatives, the commission ruled that in all future applications for generating plants the utilities must outline how much of their energy needs may be supplied by conservation, renewable resources, generating resources using waste heat and high fuel conversion efficiency and other sources including coal-fired or nuclear plants — in that order.

The commission cited efforts by Washington Water Power Co., which serves northern Idaho, and Utah Power and Light Co., which serves southeastern Idaho, for their conservation and alternative energy programs.

Washington Water Power has implemented a weatherization program that could save 23 megawatts of electricity by 1983, is working on the purchase of co-generated power, and plans to construct its own wood-waste generating plant, the commission said.

Utah Power and Light is involved in geothermal projects in Utah, is seeking low-head hydro sites in Idaho, is investigating using municipal solid waste as an energy source in Salt Lake City and is requiring new industrial customers to co-generate electricity when feasible, the commission said.

However, the PUC said it found Idaho Power's efforts "disappointing."

"Idaho Power Co.'s presentation at the February hearings was disappointing in the extreme," the commission said.

"The company's resource plans show continued total reliance on traditional hydro and thermal resources and do not incorporate a single megawatt of additional capacity from co-generation or any alternative technology whatsoever for the remainder of the decade."

The commission also announced its intention to require utilities to purchase power from cogeneration and small power producers at the cost the utility would have incurred if it had produced the power.

The PUC set two deadlines for the submission of material concerning the setting of purchased power rates.

By May 2, the utilities must give the PUC information on estimated energy costs for the next five years, a plan for construction and installation of new facilities over the next ten years and an estimated cost for those facilities.

By May 29, the utilities, the PUC staff and intervenors must provide testimony on standard rates for the purchase of power from qualifying facilities of less than 100 kilowatts, standard rates for back-up power to be sold to the facilities by the utilities and standard rates for facilities of more than 100 kilowatts.

BPA to make energy available

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Bonneville Power Administration announced Thursday it will make up to 49 megawatts of advanced energy available to 11 of its direct service industrial customers, including Northwest aluminum companies.

The special energy will be delivered from Friday through July 5, and the industries will pay their normal rate of about six mills per kilowatt-hour for the energy, BPA said.

BPA Administrator Sterling Munro said the energy deliveries are "unusual in that they amount to energy being stored with the industries, with a relatively high probability that it might have to be returned anytime from as early as this fall." He said the obligation may continue for as much as two or three years, however.

County landfills closed Easter

TWIN FALLS — All landfills in Twin Falls county will be closed Easter Sunday.

Darrell Helder, county sanitation superintendent, said under the contract with the landfill operators, the date is a holiday.

He said regular hours will be observed Saturday and again beginning Monday at all of the landfills.

The main landfill, south of Twin Falls and all others except the Murtaugh facility operate from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. week days and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays and from noon to 4:30 p.m. on Sundays.

The Murtaugh landfill is open only on Friday from 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

During April the Murtaugh landfill is also open from noon to 4:30 p.m. Sunday for spring clean up work, with the exception of this coming Sunday.

Drug prices frozen

TWIN FALLS — Pay Less Drug Stores began a 60-day price freeze on prescriptions this week.

In a news release, announcing the freeze, E. B. Hart, company president, said, "We hope this two-month prescription price freeze will help ease the financial burden of those people who are most affected by runaway inflation."

Jim Payton, a pharmacist at the Pay Less store in Twin Falls, said the price freeze began last Tuesday.

Normally, Pay Less prices are raised almost as soon as a drug manufacturer gives the company notice of a price increase, Payton said. The Twin Falls store has a computer terminal hooked up to the company headquarters in Wilsonville, Ore., that computes prices on prescriptions, he said.

QUESTION...

My first wife is buried in a National Cemetery. I am remarried and when I die I will not be buried with her. Will this create complications?

ANSWER...

When your first wife died she was allowed to be buried in a National Cemetery because you agreed to be buried with her at the time of your death. This intention on your part is reaffirmed periodically by the Veterans Administration.

If your wife had no qualifying military service, her entitlement to burial was based entirely upon your service connection.

Following your death if you are not buried with your first wife this will cause her to be disintegrated at the expense of your estate and reburied in a cemetery stipulated either by her family or the Veterans Administration.

Lack of support squelches Wall Street's attempt at rally

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UP Business Writer

NEW YORK—The stock market tried to rally this week but found little support.

It finished going just about nowhere in the wake of a collapse of the silver market and a loss to 20 percent in the prime lending rate.

Trading was kept to a slow pace by the Passover and Good Friday holidays, the many unanswered questions about the Hunt family's fiasco in the silver market and the New York City mass transit strike.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 7.50 points last week, managed to gain 6.40 points to 784.13 in a market that was ripe for bargain hunting if news gets better.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 1.13 to 57.55 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index added 1.47 to 102.15. Advances topped declines, 377 to 447, among the 2,073 issues traded.

Big Board volume for the four-day week totaled 113,058,666 shares, compared with 230,877,241 last week and 173,699,270 during the same week ear-lier. The market was closed for Good Friday.

Brokers noted the overall market had dropped 11 percent in the first quarter and the Dow skilled 144 points since mid-February to make some quality stocks attractively priced.

But brokers said the market is still in a state of shock over the emotional bludge that was unleashed a week ago with the collapse of the silver market and the financial problems of Nelson Bunker and W. Herbert Hunt of Dallas.

The investment community was amazed that the Hunts, who have made their fortunes primarily in oil, were so strapped for money they sacrificed valuable Beaufort Sea oil-gas properties in Canada to Enghard Mining and Minerals to allow a silver debt.

Brokers also were puzzled by reports that the Securities and Exchange Commission and the NYSE were investigating to determine why the Hunts had not registered the fact they owned 6.5 percent of Bechtel Group stock.

As one analyst said: "The question arising right now is: 'Who else is in trouble?'"

These concerns and uncertainties perhaps prevented a rally from getting under way. "There is a growing feeling that a recession is developing that will cool off inflation. Also, even though the prime rate went to a record 20 percent, many analysts believe the rates are near a peak.

The recession scenario has been spurred by government reports that showed leading indicators, February factory orders and construction spending all down.

The automobile industry has trimmed second-quarter construction goals by 21 percent. Several plant closings are planned in the next week or two. That's the same for the small aircraft industry. And some appliance makers are starting to hurt. The housing industry already is in a recession.

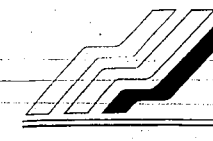

Although the Carter administration is predicting a mild economic slow-down, analysts privately say they are convinced a severe recession is just about the only thing that will calm inflation and interest rates.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 151,090,346 shares, compared with 256,342,951 last week.

Howard Johnson was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 8 to 16 1/2. Imperial Group Ltd. of England said a number of questions have arisen about its proposed takeover of Howard Johnson.

Madison Fund was the second most active NYSE issue, unchanged at 17 1/2. IBM, under pressure for several months, was the third most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1 to 5 1/4. The company said its 1979 data processing backlog was larger than anticipated.

Prices continue climbing; economists sound optimistic

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New government figures Friday indicated a 19 percent wholesale price inflation this year.

However, some economists, noting signs the long-expected recession had arrived, predicted the rate would slow.

The Labor Department said producer prices of finished goods—those ready for use by the ultimate user, either consumers or business—rose 1.4 percent in March, a shade less than increases of 1.6 percent in January and 1.5 in February.

Except for energy and food, there was no change in the rate of inflation in the wholesale price index, and economists said energy prices may soon abate.

Unemployment rose slightly to 6.2 percent in March from 6 percent in February. Layoffs increased, employment declined and factory employees worked fewer hours. Whether these signaled the start of a recession was a matter of debate.

The increase in wholesale prices for the first three months of 1980 combined would amount to a compound annual inflation rate of 19 percent if continued a full year.

Wholesale gasoline soared 8.5 percent in March; heating oil, 6.3 percent. Wholesale food, which had been declining, rose 1.1 percent, mainly due to eggs, pork and fresh vegetables.

Jonel Norwood, commissioner of labor statistics, said there were some "encouraging" signs. Wholesale prices other than food and energy slowed. So did intermediate and crude products at earlier stages of the production process.

"This should be the last month of the enormous increases in energy prices except for the president's 10 cent per gallon oil import fee," said Lawrence Chimelmer, chief economist at Chase Econometrics, a leading economic forecasting firm.

Crude oil price increases imposed in December and January by OPEC, the International Cartel, soon will have worked their way through the economy, Chimelmer said, and OPEC so far has announced "no new increases. On balance, he sees high but somewhat slower inflation ahead.

"The back of inflation has been broken," said Michael Evans, head of Evans Economics, giving generally the same reasons. He said inflation should decline to the 10-11 percent range in the second half of the year.

Unemployment rose from 6 percent in February to 6.2 percent in March, back to its level of January, the Labor Department said.

The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of over the counter stocks gained 6.76 to 150.01.

Building layoffs swell jobless ranks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The unemployment rate rose to 6.2 percent in March due largely to layoffs in the construction industry, the Labor Department reported Friday.

"That is what many economists believe will be a summer of hard times.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics showed unemployment among adult men climbing to the highest level since October 1977.

The new overall figure was up 0.2 percentage points from the 6 percent level in February, and the same as in January. Total employment declined by 297,000 to 37.7 million.

Unemployment in the construction industry rose from 10.5 percent in February to 13 percent.

There were definite signs of a weakening economy, and both government and private economists expressed concern about the remainder of the year.

"The March data suggest further deterioration as employment declined, especially in the construction industry," testified BLS Commissioner Janet Norwood to the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

"The outlook is dismal," said Dr. Richard W. Rahn, vice president and chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, predicting the jobless rate could climb over 7 percent by fall.

"I think it's clear that we are now entering into the recession," Rahn said. "I'm afraid we are going to have very serious economic times over the next few months."

The National Association of Home Builders is forecasting a decline of 1 million new home starts this year with resultant loss of 1.4 million jobs.

Association economic analyst Lindsey Carver said "the real drop will come in the next few months" as homes currently under construction are completed and workers have no new projects. "Then those people lose their jobs."

"Builders who have to get financing at the current rates are not selling or building anything because there is no market for a house at the 18 percent interest rate," he said.

The BLS data showed 131,000 more persons out of work last month than in February, bring the total to 6.4 million. For adult men, the jobless rate was 4.9 percent, up 0.2 percentage points from February. Adult women experienced no month-to-month change, remaining at a 5.7 percent.

While most categories increasing in unemployment since February, joblessness for teen-agers dropped from 16.5 percent to 15.9 percent, and for young blacks and other minorities, the rate declined from 37.9 percent to 33 percent.

In other categories, white unemployment was at 5.4 percent, up 0.1 percentage points; blacks and others, 11.8 percent, up 0.3 percentage points, and full-time workers, 5.8 percent, up 0.2 percentage points.

Western lumber mills close down

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—More than 10 percent of the sawmills in 12 Western states have closed, a March survey by the Western Wood Products Association disclosed.

A report released Friday said the survey indicated 89 of the 818 sawmills closed, and 243 had "made adjustments in operations."

Production was down 15.6 percent and employment was down 15.4 percent from normal, the association said. In February, production was 12.9 percent below normal and employment was 13.3 percent below normal.

The association said the survey involved sampling 280 mills.

Livestock

NORTH SALT LAKE (UPI)—(Idaho, Utah and eastern Nevada feedlot and range sales for Friday, April 4.)

Trade at area feedlots this week slow and down. Most of the week's sales were closed, $1.44 lower than last week, but some sales were made. The market was quiet as some last minute buying to finish up next week's requirement was done at slightly higher levels.

Cattle sales showed beef markets softened from 45-49 lower with cowhide at $3.36. Prices for slaughter steers and heifers in the intermountain area reached the lowest levels since last August and were 68-810 lower than three weeks ago.

Cattle slaughtered in the intermountain area week ending March 29 totaled 16,200 head, including near 23 percent cows, compared to 18,700 head and 23 percent cows the previous period. There were confirmed sales this week on 2,400 slaughter steers and 600 slaughter heifers, compared to 2,743 slaughter steers and 1,000 slaughter heifers a week ago.

Slaughter steers: Bulk sales at mid-week on good stock of choice, 1.44 to 1.20, the range of 90-225 lb., limited late sales of 270-410 lb. head Friday morning at 62. Few early week sales 12-16-64 lb.

Slaughter heifers: Good to mostly choice 2 1/2 to 4-100-160 lb., ranged 34-90-60 with head late at 52.

Feeder cattle: Trade still very slow, but some increased inquiry noted. Intermountain sales on feeder steers 85-60 lower but not enough for a price test. Late lots medium frame No. 1 600-1200 lb. steers 60-62-60.

Stock: 600 crop lambs virtually cleared up in intermountain area. Buying interest looking to Idaho and California.

Wool: In Idaho, Parma wool pool of near 20 million fleeces, 40-45, sold at $97.79 grade basis on an standard contract.

McCollum tops state bowling tournament

By GARY ELIASSEN

TWIN FALLS — Jeris McCollum of Twin Falls continues to lead the scratch singles event of the Idaho State Women's Bowling Tournament.

Brenda Shepard, also of Twin Falls, has the edge in the singles handicap competition.

Action continues this weekend in the tournament, with 111 doubles and singles play at Bowldrome, Ltd., and Miller's Magic Bowl. There will be four more weekends of play before the tourneys end.

The following are the leaders after five weekends of action:

Team scratch — Kays Gals, Pocatello, 2706; Minnuls, Idaho Falls, 2680. Team handicap — Daring Demuls, Rigby, 3165; Electric Motor Repair, power company, 3165; Lorain's Apparel, Jerome, 3158; Micholou, Twin Falls, 3082; and Gem State Paper, Twin Falls, 3065.

Singles scratch — Jeris McCollum, Twin Falls, 637; Singles handicap — Brenda Shepard, Twin Falls, 729; Sindy Swenson, Boise, 727; Jeris McCollum, Twin Falls, 727; and Sandra Welek, Twin Falls, 705.

Doubles scratch — China Towery and Kelly Ryan, McCall, 1134; and Maureen Fieoner and Shirley Quinlan, Twin Falls, 1117. Doubles handicap — China Towery and Kelly Ryan, McCall, 1771; Terri John and Linda Peterson, Malad, 1312; Karen Springer and Pat Bonales, Boise, 1311; Pat Tripp and Sally Martin, Malad, 1310; and Kay Griggs and Vanita Grafe, Buhl, 1308.

All events scratch — Marty Lynch, Nampa, 1719; Dorothy Frazier, Caldwell, 1695. All events handicap — Shirley Osterhoudt, Boise, 2065; Cynthia Frazier, Caldwell, 1959; and Rosita Rollins, Pocatello, 1957.

GAYWAY set a state record in winning the Division I Hi-Five competition last weekend at Bowldrome.

Its 2796 broke the old state mark of 2785 which it previously had held.

In Division II, Emmett took top honors with a 2505. It was not only a winning bid for the Gayway team, but also for team member Willie Eldred who rolled a 267 to capture high game honors. High series for the evening was turned in by Sue Cooper of Salmon with a 646.

Eldred strung eight consecutive strikes during her game-winning effort. She also had a 638 series.

Members of Gayway's team included Jean Ludwig, Tina Paynter, Glenda Saitter, Ruth Brown and Eldred.

Second place in the Division I team competition went to Boise at 2765. The Treasure Valley team — Mary Shafer, Chickie Ivial, Happy Olson, Jackie Thomas, and Marlan Justice — was 25 pins ahead of third place, Mini-Cassia.

The Burley-Rupert team consisted of Bonnie Dorris, Wilma Shokey, Helen Alpperspach, Dean Fossett and Arlis Perlic. Perlic led the team's scoring with a 244 game and 617 scratch series.

Twin Falls placed fourth with a 2734 total, rolled by Shirley Blake, Deolne Moore, Tom Gilmer, Karen Poe and Jean Stokesberry. Stokesberry had a 244 game.

Another highlight of the evening was Salmon's Susanne Cooper's first 600 scratch series at 646 with games of 213, 255 and 178.

Division II winner Emmett got its winning total from Jody Mitchell, Colleen Dewey, Jackie Vaughan, Lois Masciola and Cecile Hroznova.

Lincoln County, which placed second, was led by Jean Chatterton who rolled a 227 game and 561 scratch series. Nina Carothers, Jay Appell, Betty Piper, and Judi Higby also are on the team.

There were 43 200 games and six 600 series produced during the night.

Barnes collects victories

REXBURG — Glenn Barnes collected three first places to lead the College of Southern Idaho's showing in a three-team track meet at Ricks College Friday afternoon.

Barnes, drawing praise from Coach Karl Kleinkepp, scored his victories in the 200-meter dash, 100-meter dash, and 110-high hurdles.

His victories highlighted a second place finish for the Golden Eagles as Ricks took team honors with 80 1/2 points. CSI had 59 and Montana State 53 1/2.

"I was pleased that we came out ahead of a four-year school," said Kleinkepp about the finish.

Ricks, getting its points in the field events, showed how much depth it has with several points for seconds, thirds and fourths.

"I think Ricks has its best team in 10 years," said the coach. "They could be national contenders."

Eagles fall to Yavapai in tourney

MESA, Ariz. — The College of Southern Idaho suffered its second straight loss in the Mesa Community College Invitational Baseball Tournament Friday morning.

Yavapai, Community College handed the struggling Golden Eagles a 10-6 setback just 1 1/2 hours after CSI had dropped a marathon, 13-inning affair Thursday night with host Mesa-11-8.

"We were just tired and wore out today," said a disappointed CSI Coach Jim Walker. "We played Thursday night until about 12:30 p.m. and then didn't get to bed until about 2 a.m. and then had to get back up at 8 a.m. to play again at 10."

Against Yavapai, CSI couldn't get any rallies going as it could manage only two hits in the seven-inning game.

"We had no enthusiasm, no emotion, and no any other adjective you can think of," said Walker.

On Thursday, CSI looked like CSI might pull off an opening upset against tourney favorite Mesa.

"We had the lead four times in that game and kept getting them come back to beat us," said Walker.

Bonneville Bees remain undefeated

By IRWIN CURTIN
Times-News sports writer

BURLEY/RUPERT — Undefeated Bonneville posted two more victories in Friday's second round of the first annual Mini-Cassia Easter Baseball Tournament.

The Bees handed Meridian its first tournament loss in a 5-3 game, Friday morning at Minico High School, and then squeaked by Burley 10-9 in a night contest at the Bobcats' field, Bonneville is 3-0 in the round-robin tournament and Meridian is 2-1.

"In other games Friday, Minico blasted Highland 7-1 and then lost 12-7 to Meridian, Burley trounced Pocatello 10-1 and Pocatello nipped Highland 10-9.

The tournament concludes today with two games, both at Minico High School.

Meridian (2-1) faces Highland (0-3) at 11 a.m., and Pocatello (1-2) plays Bonneville (3-0) at 2 p.m. A Bonneville victory would wrap up the tourney title.

A night game between Burley and Minico has been canceled since neither team has a chance to win the championship. Both ended the tourney with 2-2 marks.

Burley 10, Pocatello 1

The Bobcats parlayed Jeff Wright's strong right arm and a grand-slam home run by Jeff Barrett into an easy win over the Indians.

Wright, a senior right-handed pitcher and first baseman, pitched five innings to earn the victory. He made good use of a rising fast ball and occasional curve to strike out four Indians and limit Pocatello to two hits.

Leading 3-1 in the sixth, Burley exploded over the left field fence, 315 feet from home plate.

"It was on top of the clouds when it went over the fence. I'll take advantage for me to calm down. I'm still feeling a little high," Barrett, a 16-year-old junior, said after the BURLEY — No, your eyes aren't in need of a checkup.

There IS a girl in the otherwise all boy Mini-Cassia Easter Baseball Tournament being held here at Burley High School and at Minico High School in Rupert.

Her name is Teri McMasters, she's a 4-11 second baserunner and she wears the uniform of the Highland Rams.

"I've been getting a lot of eyes and a lot of stares. And too much attention," McMasters, 16-year-old junior, said Friday afternoon with a smile.

Would you expect otherwise?

McMasters, who plays fast and slow-pitch softball in Pocatello city leagues, tried out for the Rams' varsity at the suggestion of Highland Coach Pat Sartori.

"I'd seen her play softball in Pocatello, and she asked me if she could try out for the team. If there were any rules against it," Sartori said. "I said no, there weren't."

"She hustled, competed, beat somebody out and made the team. It's not a novelty of anything. She's good enough to make it. I wouldn't have kept her if she wasn't. She's a good fielder. She can turn the double play as well as anybody on the team."

McMasters was a late-inning defensive replacement at second base in Highland's loss to Burley

Thursday afternoon, but didn't handle any chances. In her only at-bat so far in the tournament, McMasters struck out meekly against the Bobcats' Alan Merrell.

"She can make contact and bump the ball. She's still got a few technique things to work on in hitting, but she can do it," Sartori said.

"I'm not one of the boys. I'm just one of the team members," McMasters said. "I've played a lot of shortstop in softball (not to mention volleyball and basketball for Highland's girls' teams in those sports) and I knew second base would be the easiest thing for me to play."

She said her teammates try to watch their language around her, but Sartori explained that Highland's is a "normal" baseball dugout in terms of the language used by its inhabitants. Translated, that means the air is frequently salty.

"But she takes it in stride. She's played a lot of sports and knows what to expect," he said.

And what, you may be wondering, does McMasters do about pre- and post-game uniform changes?

"Well, we usually sleep on the road to change (into uniforms) and the guys go into a men's bathroom and I go into a women's bathroom. And sometimes I travel dressed (in uniform). It's a lot easier to do that," she said, excusing herself to take infield practice.

game of his first home run as a high school player.

The 5-8, 190 pound third baseman known to his teammates as "Bubba" and "Vicino" said his home run came on a high fastball.

"I wanted to hit the first pitch he threw me out (of the park); but I swung and missed it by a lot. I changed my mind on the second, and swung for a base hit. I didn't know it was gone until after I rounded first," Barrett said with a smile.

"I thought at first it might be foul but it wasn't," said Burley Coach Don Satterfield with a grin.

Barrett's home run was one of only four hits the Bobcats managed during the game. They benefited by five Pocatello errors and eight walks issued by the Indians' Craig Toome, who started, pitched into the sixth inning and was credited with the loss.

The Bobcats also benefited by their own slick fielding. They committed two errors but came up with the big play when it was needed, like in the top of the sixth.

With one out, Pocatello's Mike Rice, a center fielder, lashed a double down the right field line off Jon Wilson, a junior right-hander who had relieved Wright. Rice's mistake was trying to stretch his safe-two-bagger into a triple.

Burley's Kyle Carpenter, a senior right fielder, scooped up the ball in the corner of the field and fired a perfect relay to sophomore second baseman Rick Asson, who in turn wheeled and delivered a

Meridian 12, Minico 7

The Spartans, who trailed 12-4 entering the bottom of the seventh, rallied for three runs with one out but could get no closer.

Meridian's balanced offense — three players had two or more hits — broke back hazzarding and superb fielding were the difference in the game.

The victors' Mike Nutting, Steve Brokaw and Marty McWilliams went 2-5, 3-4 and 3-4, respectively.

Brokaw stole one base and McWilliams swiped two. In all, Meridian banged out 13 hits, stole six bases off the Spartans' pitchers (starter and loser Monte Welmer and reliever Glen Broadhead) and catcher (Mark Wilmhill) and played errorless baseball.

Minico, on the other hand, managed 10 hits and stole three bases but also committed six fielding errors and at least as many of the mental variety.

"They're the best high school team I've seen in two years," said Minico Coach Rick Baumann when the dust had settled. "They're super-quick, really smart and well-coached. They run those bases so well. Everything you blink, they take off. You walk a kid and next thing you know he's on second. It's like he'd doubled. They've got power in the middle of the lineup and slickness everywhere else."

Bonneville had to score a run in the bottom of the last inning to preserve its unbeaten mark.

Tied at 9-9 in the bottom of the seventh, the Bees got a run when a baserunner bled in from third base on a bad throw to the plate during a double steal with runners at first and home.

Burley's Jeff Barrett, who hit a grand slam home run in the Bobcats' first game, hit another round tripper in this one with one man on in the seventh to tie the score.

Philadelphia sweeps series with Washington

By United Press International
Julius Erving scored 31 points Friday night to help the Philadelphia 76ers post a 112-104 victory over the Washington Bullets and sweep their first-round series in two games.

The 76ers, who won the first game of the series 111-96 Wednesday night in Philadelphia despite just 14 points from Erving, open the Eastern Conference quarterfinals Sunday at home against the Atlanta Hawks.

While the 76ers were resting for that series, other teams were headed for a third and decisive game. Kansas City forced a return to Phoenix with a 106-96 triumph and San Antonio dominated Houston 106-101.

Portland and Seattle were in overtime in a West Coast game at Portland at press time. Seattle could wrap up the series with a victory.

Philadelphia 112, Washington 104
Bobby Jones added 18 points for the 76ers and Elvin Hayes paced the Bullets with 26 and Larry Wright added 22.

After leading by 22 points twice in the third quarter, the 76ers had to withstand a late rush by the Bullets, who won the NBA title two years ago and lost it to Seattle last season.

John Williamson tossed in 14 points in the fourth quarter, including a 3-point field goal and a 3-point play, to help the Bullets close the gap to 4 points three times. Williamson's 3-pointer pulled the Bullets to within 4 points, 102-98, with 3:34 to play but Darryl Dawkins hit from the left baseline 20 seconds later.

Williamson cut it to 4 points again or a 15-footer with 1:57 left but Erving scored from the same spot as Dawkins and the 76ers again were up by 6 points, 106-100, with 1:39 to play.

Williamson cut it to 4 points for the last time on a layup at 1:25 and the shot clock ran out on the 76ers with a minute left. Erving and Lionel Hollins double-teamed Wright and Erving came up with the ball and a driving layup with 51 seconds to go to seal the game, 109-102.

The Bullets made 12 of their first 15 field goals during a 2-point range in the fourth quarter after shooting less than 40 percent from the field in the first three quarters.

The victory, before a crowd of 18,397, gave the 76ers seven victories in eight meetings with the Bullets this season, including five of six during the regular season.

Philadelphia jumped to a 31-29 advantage after one quarter and led 64-46 at half time. In building their 18-point first-half lead, which reached 21 points twice in the second quarter, the 76ers turned the Bullets' erratic shooting and poor ball handling into numerous fastbreak layups.

Steve Mix came off the bench to get 10 points for the 76ers, all in the second quarter, eight off fast-break layups.

After Dawkins got into foul trouble and was replaced by Mix and Bobby Jones, the Bullets' difficulties were compounded. Hayes, Greg Ballard and Wes Unseld had problems defensively in matching up against Erving, Mix and either Bobby Jones or Caldwell Jones.

Kansas City 106, Phoenix 96
Scott Wedman scored 32 points and Otis Birdsong 28 to help Kansas City snap a six-game losing streak to Phoenix and tie the best-of-three series at one game apiece. The teams will play the final game Sunday in Phoenix, with the winner advancing to the second round against Pacific Division champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Wedman scored 20 points in the first half to help the Kings build leads of up to 23 points, and Kansas City maintained a 17-point cushion, 62-45, with 10:30 left in the third quarter.

But All-Star guard Paul Westphal and four reserves combined to outscore the Kings 29-9 over the next 8 1/2 minutes to tie it 70-70. Alvan Adams then put the Suns in front 73-71 on a baseline jumper with 47 seconds left. But Phil Ford converted a 3-point play eight seconds later to give Kansas City the lead. The Kings then scored three straight baskets at the start of the fourth quarter to increase their cushion to 80-73.

San Antonio 106, Houston 101
George Gerwin, the league's leading scorer who was held to just 19 points in San Antonio's 95-85 Wednesday night loss, matched that output by halftime Friday night.

Houston led 74-73 entering the final period after a see-saw battle, but the Rockets fell behind by seven points when Gerwin hit a 20-foot jumper three minutes deep into the quarter.

Moses Malone, who scored 34 points for the Rockets, then hit 10 points and the Rockets rallied to trail 96-94 with two minutes left. San Antonio edged ahead by 6 points on two free throws each from Gerwin and James Silas. But Rudy Tomjanovich earned a 3-pointer to bring Houston within 3 points with 34 seconds left.

Stadler rolls to PGA lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Craig Stadler shot a 69 Friday for a two-day total of 8-under-par 136 and a two-stroke lead midway through the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

First-round leader Tom Purtzer had a 78, 14 strokes higher than his opening round course-par 136 and Bob Gilder, who held second place after 18 holes, also had his troubles and fell into a tie for eighth place after the second round.

Pat McGowan, who has won only $2,477 in 10 tournaments this year, had a 70 to go with an opening 68 for a 6-under-par 138 total and sole possession of second place.

"I didn't play quite as well as I did yesterday," said Stadler after posting the 69 with an opening round of 67. "I just had kind of a mediocre round."

But he said he was happy to play in the morning even though skies were threatening. Wind caused problems for players on the course later in the day.

"I'm very happy with my position," said Stadler, tied at the time with Purtzer at 8-under-par. "I'm glad to be done. The earlier, the better."

Stadler, winner of this year's Bob Hope Classic, had three birdies and finished his second round on the Forest Oaks Country Club course without a bogey.

"I missed a lot of fairways and had thirty- to forty-foot putts for birdies" which in total, conducive to 40-low scoring," he said. "I got about as much as I could out of the round. It couldn't have been a much better round and could've been a couple of shots worse but I pulled pretty well today."

"I know the scores were going to be a little higher this afternoon," McGowan said. "The conditions made it difficult today. The greens are holding well but they get a little bit dumpy in the afternoon."

"I'm very happy with my position," he said.

Defending champion Ray Floyd led a group in third place at 5-under-par 133. Floyd had a 69 to go with an opening round of 69 in the group were Bill Kravitz (70-69), Ron Sircox (68-71), Howard Twitty (69-70) and Sandy Lyle, a British professional playing his first PGA Tour event, who had a sparkling 67 to go with Thursday's even-par 72.

Other players were knotted at 140, including Gilder and Danny Edwards, who was tied with Stadler for third place after the first round but had a 73 Friday.

Controversial Dave Kingman of the Chicago Cubs faces suspension or fine for dumping water on a reporter

Kingman makes a splash

(Final News Service)

MESA, Ariz. — Slugger-columnist Dave Kingman splashed back down to earth Thursday with a chilling display of aqua-marksmanship that set irrigation back 50 years.

The tall left fielder with the short temper dumped a large, white, plastic bucket full of ice and water on unsuspecting Don Friske, a sports writer for the suburban Arlington Heights Daily Herald. Friske, 25, was interviewing new Cub-tenny-Randee at Randle's dressing stall when he got drenched.

"It was two days worth of stories," Kingman reportedly told Friske as he walked back to his locker. "I left my fishing pole at home."

In the wake of the incident, Cubs general manager Bob Kennedy said Kingman could face either a fine or suspension from the team. Later in the afternoon, baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn tried unsuccessfully to reach Kennedy in Mesa to discuss Kingman's behavior.

"There's no question there's going to have to be some kind of disciplinary action," Kennedy said. "We can't have this kind of thing going on. We can't condone this. No question about it."

Kingman later apologized, Friske said, calling the incident a joke. Friske said he accepted the apology, but not the explanation that it was a joke.

Kingman apparently decided on his bizarre act because he was upset with several Chicago writers. He has feuded continuously with Chicago writers since he joined the Cubs in 1978.

But Thursday he became upset again when he wrote about his abrupt departure Tuesday from the Cubs' clubhouse. That was the day the Players Association decided in Dallas to strike the remaining exhibition games. Kingman left the park that afternoon carrying his fishing pole, which was reported.

Kingman was the only player who didn't appear Wednesday morning at a meeting called by team player representative Bill Buckner. Said Buckner, "Kingman didn't have the courtesy to show up." That, too, was reported.

Most of the Cubs players that witnessed the incident were sympathetic to Friske, who has covered the team for the last three seasons.

"I thought it was uncalled for," one Cubs official said of Kingman's behavior. "But when you've got a year-old mind, what do you do?"

U.S. says Russ plan own move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department spokesman said Friday the Soviets "clearly are launched on a major campaign" to counteract the U.S. call for a boycott of the summer games in Moscow because of the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

Enticements, according to one report, apparently include offers of free trips for the American media to report the games.

Department spokesman Holding Carter noted an official of the Soviet Olympic Association had appeared on one network morning show with the "arming assertion" that politics and sports are not mixed in the Soviet Union.

The spokesman cited guidance in a Soviet Communist Party handbook for activists "to the effect that the selection of Moscow as site for the Olympics is a sign of world recognition of the correctness of Soviet foreign policy."

He recalled the Soviets had boycotted Olympic participation of all kinds until 1952.

"They have withheld participation in events in Korea and Israel on political grounds," Carter said. "They were expelled from Davis Cup competition because they walked out on political grounds; they refused to play in Wimbledon in 1977 because, as their coach said, 'It is a political thing.'"

Carter said the Soviets were also falsely saying over 100 nations have already agreed to go to Moscow.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Dave Frame grabbed a one-pin Friday over Paul Miser to take first place lead after five rounds in a $125,000 PBA tournament.

Frame, of Baldwin Park, Calif., was in fourth position until closing with games of 267 and 225 in the fifth round, to total 7,724 pins for 34 games. Ernie Sotomayor, of Somers, Mass., who had been the leader since the second round, lost his last two matches on scores of 208 and 220 to drop to second with 7,723 pins.

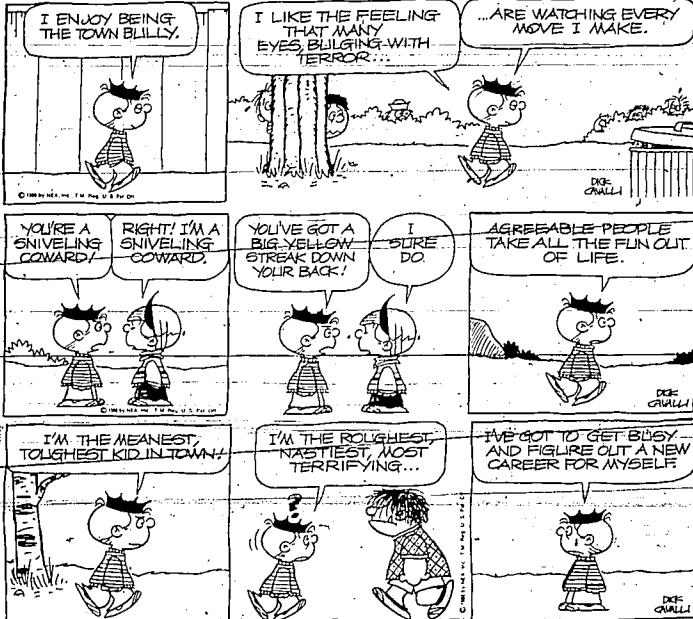

Frame is averaging 218 for the tournament with a 9-6-1 match game record.
