Tanker hits bridge, 31 die

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — A freighter caught in a hurricane-force squall tore a thousand-foot section out of the Sunshine Skyway bridge Friday, sending a Greyhound bus, three cars and a pickup truck hurtling into Tampa Bay 150 feet below.

At least 32 people were killed. Rush-hour motorists who saw the southbound span collapse leaped from their cars in the blinding rain to try to warn those behind them. One screamed over his CB radio that the bridge was gone.

But the Chicago-to-Miami bus carrying 22 passengers and its driver, the three cars and the truck drove past them and toppled off the ragged end of the towering interstate highway span. All nine people in the three cars died. Only the driver of the pickup survived.

Capt. Marshall Gilbert, Coast Guard commander at St. Petersburg, said divers working in the 50-foot-deep bay recovered 18 bodies, then suspended the search at dusk, but had sighted other victims trapped in the underwater rubble of twisted girders and concrete slabs.

"We understand there are bodies inside a number of cars entangled in the bridge work," Gilbert said. "We have physically seen three cars, a pickup truck and a bus. There possibly could be more."

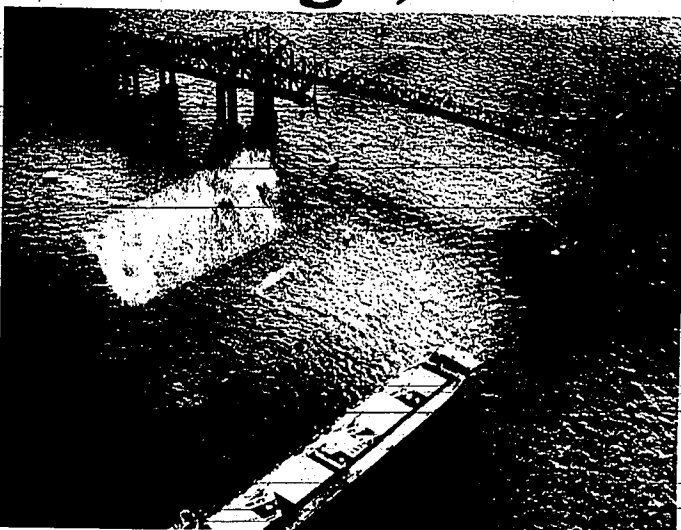

Gilbert said a bus containing migrant workers was reported missing after the bridge collapsed at 7:38 a.m. EDT, but divers had not spotted a second bus.

"We haven't been able to confirm it," he said. Peter Corso was driving along the northbound span of the bridge when the 692-foot freighter Summit Ventures rammied the center support of the southbound span, dropping an enormous chunk of the bridge into Tampa Bay.

"There was a car dangling off the southbound lane," he said. "It was apparent the ship had collided with the skyway and toppled it into the water."

That car was driven by Richard Hornbuckle, 60, who said, "Cars and the bus went by me. I was driving very slowly with my flashers on because of the weather conditions. Then I saw the bridge was gone and immediately applied the brakes and skidded within 2 feet of going in."

Hornbuckle scrambled out of the car to safety.

Says Mideast threatened

Carter blasts Soviet moves

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Carter warned the Soviets Friday they "cannot recklessly threaten world peace" without paying a heavy price.

He further predicted the Kremlin may menace Iran and Pakistan if the invasion of Afghanistan succeeds.

In his first foreign policy speech since Cyrus Vance resigned as secretary of state, the president took a hard line against the Russians.

Carter's statements on the Soviet Union, his strongest in recent times, came in a speech to the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia.

"The Soviets must understand that they cannot recklessly threaten world peace," he said.

"They cannot commit aggression, and in doing that, they must realize that they cannot still enjoy the benefits of cooperation with the West, and specifically with us."

In his speech to the World Affairs Council, Carter focused on the long term implications of the Soviet Union's decision to invade its southern neighbor.

"Beyond the violence done to Afghanistan's independence and people, the Red Army troops consolidating their hold there are also taking positions from which Soviet imperialism could be extended more deeply and more dangerously in the politics of this vital area," he said.

"Soviet success there, even at the high cost in blood and respectability which Moscow is now paying, could turn Afghanistan from a roadblock against aggression into a launching pad for further incursions."

PRESIDENT CARTER

"This would threaten Pakistan and Iran, but not those nations alone. Soviet aggression in Afghanistan — unless checked — confronts all the world with the most serious long-term strategic challenge since the Cold War began."

Carter said he is calling attention to the problem because, "To underestimate the magnitude of that challenge would constitute a historic error — an error with probably historic consequences."

The president said if the Soviets really want detente, they must abide by certain standards.

"The Soviets must understand that they cannot recklessly threaten world peace — they cannot commit aggression — and still enjoy the benefits of cooperation with the West," he said. "They must understand that their invasion of Afghanistan has had a profound adverse effect on American public attitudes."

Carter said the Soviet invasion coupled with Iran's decision to imprison American citizens "underline the reality that the world is a dangerous place."

"This is why our foreign policy, the policy we have shaped over the last three years, must be based simultaneously on the primacy of certain basic moral principles — principles founded on the enhancement of human rights — and on the preservation of an American military strength second to none," Carter said.

The president said it should be clear to Iran by now that its policies are leading "to international isolation and internal disintegration."

"We will continue to make every effort, using peaceful means if possible, and through collective action with our Allies, to obtain the release of our citizens," he said.

Carter spelled out five objectives of his foreign policy. He said he wants to improve economic and political "solidarity" among industrial democracies; cooperate with the Third World; bring peace to the Middle East and other troubled areas; "defend our strategic interests, especially those now threatened in Southwest Asia," and develop a "firm and balanced relationship with the Russians."

Carter chose Philadelphia to open what aides said will be a season of travel after six months of relative isolation in the White House.

Mickey Mouse

President Taylor says CSI is not easy school

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho president Dr. James Taylor said Friday CSI does not offer any "Mickey Mouse" courses.

At a meeting with the state Board of Education in Twin Falls, Taylor was asked by board Chairwoman Janet Hay if "perhaps, unknown to you," CSI provides "Mickey Mouse courses," particularly for university athletes to raise their grade point averages.

"You will find our institution does not offer what you call Mickey Mouse courses," Taylor said.

The board is concerned, Hay said, about reports that student athletes whose grade levels make them ineligible for competition could transfer to a junior college for the summer and "come back" with six credits a year.

Taylor said he resents implications university students attend junior colleges to raise grade averages. CSI's courses are evaluated and accepted through transfer credit agreements with the state's three universities, he said.

Thursday the state board questioned Idaho's university presidents about their practices and policies for credit transfer.

Taylor said CSI has "articulation agreements" renewed annually with each university. These also help CSI make sure its courses are comparable to lower level university curriculum, he said.

The agreements guarantee a CSI student can get corresponding credit at the universities.

In the case of Idaho State University, an Associate of Arts degree from CSI automatically gives a student who transfers to ISU entry as a third-year college student, Taylor said.

The CSI president said students at the University of Idaho were "more apt" to enroll at CSI than those from ISU or Boise State University, but that "it's seldom that they would come down here for that purpose unless it's their home."

Board member Clint Hoopes of Tetonai questioned Taylor about independent study courses as opposed to correspondence courses. Under National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, correspondence courses cannot be included in determining athletic eligibility.

Taylor said CSI offers correspondence courses to a student only on request of a faculty or administration member at a university. He said he must assume that policy precludes any abuse.

In most cases students must take independent study classes at the campus as residents, he said.

Taylor was also asked about a New Mexico grand jury investigation of athletes there at which CSI officials were questioned. He told the state board to his knowledge officials were questioned only on a bogus CSI transcript with the name of a New Mexico University student never enrolled at CSI.

Several other institutions were questioned also because of forged transcripts, Jack Sims, CSI director of admissions and records, said. "It's not ours. We don't know where it came from, or who forged it," Sims said.

Taylor told the Times-News he resents implications of the board's questions on two counts.

"He said a CSI study indicates 'great correlation' between his students' grades and those at senior institutions. Taylor said he also resents the philosophical implications.

"We're here to help students any way we can," he said, opposing CSI's philosophy to universities which "weed out" students and typically have 50 percent attrite rates among freshmen.

University students attend CSI summer school because "it's closer to home" and, in Twin Falls and Jerome counties, their "parents pay taxes here," Taylor said.

"These are top flight students, not flunkies or drop outs," he said.

Adjourns until Monday

Senate fails to set budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Friday took a long weekend away from the 1981 budget — a measure considered so important that senators worked until 2 a.m. trying to complete it before giving up for three days.

Despite a threatened cutoff of foodstamps and some other federal assistance programs on May 15, the Senate decided at the end of a 17-hour session Friday morning to suspend work on the budget until Monday.

The decision was in keeping with a long-standing tradition against voting on Fridays, which allows the lawmakers — especially those up for re-election — to spend long weekends in their districts.

Democratic leader Robert Byrd said enough work remained on the spending proposal to keep the chamber busy all day Monday.

Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee said he expected the $612.9 billion budget to be approved Monday with few modifications.

"There will be a significant number who will vote against it," he said, referring to Republican members. "But I predict the resolution will pass."

At least a dozen amendments remained to be considered before the Senate can vote on the budget itself, which is for the fiscal year that starts in October.

Included in the proposal is a provision that raises the current year's spending limit. Congress reached the top months ago and now must raise the ceiling to allow the government to spend additional money.

Byrd reminded his colleagues repeatedly Thursday night and Friday morning that millions are depending on them for continuation of foodstamps, black lung benefits, small business disaster loans and other crucial programs.

The Senate has accepted only four of 34 amendments attempted during the four-day budget session. Only one proposal by Sens. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., and Bill Bradley, D-N.J., to revive state revenue sharing — would change the budget figures.

San Bernardino County and have ended up in Lytle Creek, said a Riverside County sheriff's deputy.

Some residents were being evacuated from the Happyjack area on the southern slopes of the national forest overlooking San Bernardino. One resident told reporters he saw five masked men flee into the brush, carrying guns.

The FBI spokesman said he had no information that the robbers were known to be members of a political terrorist group, as some news reports maintained.

The gunbattle began when police responded to a silent alarm indicating a robbery was under way at a branch of the Security Pacific Bank in Norco.

Authorities said the robbers threw explosives from the truck at pursuing police officers.

Carter says tax cut is possible

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Carter Friday held out the hope of a cut in income taxes next year if interest and inflation rates fall.

"We'll reduce them more next year when we get a balanced budget and inflation and interest rates going down, they ought to be," Carter told a town-meeting at Temple University.

"I believe we will see now, with interest rates going down, a quick rejuvenation of home building, of automobile purchases and of purchases of refrigerators and stoves."

"I believe we are on the right track and will know by September whether our anti-inflation program is working."

Hit ship on way down

Survivor tried to stop

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Wesley McIntire started to stop when a driving rainstorm engulfed his pickup truck on the Sunshine Skyway during rush hour traffic Friday morning, but instead he drove on.

"It was raining very, very hard," the 56-year-old truck driver said. "I almost decided not to drive across the bridge, but I kept going."

McIntire was on his way to work at a meat packing plant in Palmetto when the 608-foot freighter Summit Venture slammed into the Skyway bridge, sending a 1,000-foot section plunging into Tampa Bay.

"As I approached over the high point of the bridge, the whole bridge started to sway," McIntire said. "Then when I looked I could see the ship and the end of the bridge was breaking off."

It was too late for McIntire to stop. "I couldn't stop," he said while awaiting treatment at St. Anthony Hospital in St. Petersburg. "I just slid and I hit the ship. Then I dropped into the water."

McIntire scrambled out of his sinking truck and swam to the nearby Summit Venture, whose crewmen threw him a rope and hauled him aboard.

A spokesman at St. Anthony said McIntire spent about 15 minutes in the water and required treatment for a laceration on his right forehead and a back injury. "He also inhaled a bit of salt water," she said.

The truck driver was the only apparent survivor of the bridge collapse Friday that killed 31 others in three cars and a Greyhound bus that went off the bridge.

Richard Hornbuckle, 60, was the last motorist who skidded to a stop at the edge of the tilting span.

"Cars and the bus went by me," Hornbuckle said. "I was driving very slowly with my flashers on because of the weather conditions. Then I saw the bridge was gone and immediately applied the brakes and skidded within 2 feet of going in."

Although Hornbuckle's car tilted downward on a metal grid that was left hanging after the collision, he managed to get out of the car unharmed.

Aaron Peeler of St. Petersburg said he was about 20 car lengths in back of the bridge crack when he heard someone scream on his CB radio that the bridge was out and that it had "been hit real bad."

Peeler, 31, who drives across the bridge to work in Bradenton every day, said his first reaction was disbelief. Then he saw a van ahead of him backing up rapidly and another vehicle trying to turn around.

Peeler said he did not feel the impact of the ship hitting the bridge.

"I haven't ever seen it rain like that up there," he said. "All I could see was headlights."

Saturday briefing

Boy saves burning neighbor

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Fire officials said a 12-year-old boy who noticed a "sweet, sickly smell" saved the life of an elderly neighbor who apparently set himself on fire to end his own suffering.

Ray Mitchell, a sixth grader, saw his next-door neighbor, Raymond T. Lender, 67, burning in his backyard and doused the man with a garden hose.

"I was coming home from school and I smelled something like a sweet, sickly smell, and I looked over the fence and saw him on fire," the boy said.

An FAA spokesman in New York said the boy had been in the area since suffering a heart condition and hip operation during the past year.

Hostage wife refused ticket

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Birmingham, Ala., woman who wants to join her Iranian husband in Iran was barred from boarding a plane Friday by airline personnel who told her they were following orders from the U.S. government.

Susan Lyons-21, had hoped to take a Scandinavian Airlines flight from Kennedy Airport to Iran via Copenhagen.

But Roger Rudenstein, a spokeswoman for Ms. Lyons, said she was told by airline officials that they had been given a written order from the Federal Aviation Administration not to let anyone whose destination was Iran board the flight.

An FAA spokesman in New York said the agency knew nothing of such a directive, however.

Military challenges junta

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A meeting of half of El Salvador's officer corps voted Friday to free 10 fellow officers accused of plotting a rightist coup, setting up a major confrontation with the civilian-military junta.

Earlier in the day, the Christian Democratic party, which has two members on the five-man ruling junta, threatened to pull out of the coalition unless the government punishes the alleged leader of an attempted coup Friday, former national guard Maj. Roberto D'Abuisson.

The other half of the officer corps was scheduled to meet today to discuss the same issue, although most officers already have demanded D'Abuisson and the 10 other officers be freed.

Legion disease in Sweden

ATLANTA (UPI) — The largest outbreak of Legionnaires' disease outside the United States has occurred in Sweden, the national Center for Disease Control said Friday.

The CDC said the outbreak, involving 66 people ranging in age from 26 to 91, occurred last August and September in the Swedish city of Vasteras, which has a population of 100,000. One of the victims died of acute kidney failure.

Legionnaires' disease is an acute type of pneumonia and is now medically known as legionellosis. It was given the name because of an epidemic of the then-untitled ailment at an American Legion convention in Philadelphia in July 1976 that killed 29 and sickened 81 others.

The CDC said the source of the disease has tentatively been identified in an air conditioner on the roof of a shopping center.

Iranian executions criticized

LONDON (UPI) — Amnesty International released a scathing report Friday Iran's revolutionary trials, which have ordered hundreds of people killed by firing squads.

Amnesty said it was "deeply shocked" by the latest executions in Iran, which this week included seven members of the Baha'i faith and a former education minister.

Amnesty International's report, based on a study of 90 cases, listed 438 executions reported in local and foreign media by Aug. 12, 1979, and said that the list was not definitive.

Amnesty said many of the defendants were not allowed to call defense witnesses, not permitted to question prosecution witnesses, not allowed lawyers of their choice, often not allowed a public trial, not allowed right of appeal and defendants were presumed guilty until they could prove their innocence.

Soviets launch offensive

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A major Soviet offensive in eastern Afghanistan supported by jet fighters and helicopter gunships completely destroyed several villages and killed more than 1,000 civilians, a rebel spokesman said Friday.

At least 1,000 villagers died in Ghazni province alone, the commander said, after the Soviets launched a major offensive using tanks, cannons, helicopter gunships and jet attacks against villages supporting the Moslem rebels.

The Islamic Alliance for the Liberation of Afghanistan reported Friday that two Soviet jet fighters followed by 32 helicopter gunships arrived in Baharak county of northeastern Badakhshan province a week ago.

Users to pay TMI costs

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The utility that operates Three Mile Island won a double reprieve Friday from the state Public Utility Commission, which said the Metropolitan Edison Co. may keep its operating license and collect $56.4 million more annually from its customers.

The four-member commission climaxed 27 days of public hearings over 4 months beginning Dec. 10 and stripped the idled but undamaged Three Mile Island Nuclear Unit No. 1 from the company's rate base. Met-Ed owns 50 percent of the power plant.

'Tough con' fight canceled

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — A competition to find the "king of the mountain" at the West Virginia Penitentiary has been canceled because not enough inmates signed up to participate, it was announced Friday.

The program had drawn criticism because its finale was billed as a free-for-all to find the "toughest SOB" in the prison. It had been scheduled to run from this month until Oct. 5.

Warden Donald Bordenkrecher said he had planned a contest of brain and brawn, with events to range from chess and checkers to wrestling and boxing. In the finale, 10 boxing glove-clad inmates were to slug it out — two at a time — to determine the overall winner.

Today's weather

Cool, rainy days seen in forecast

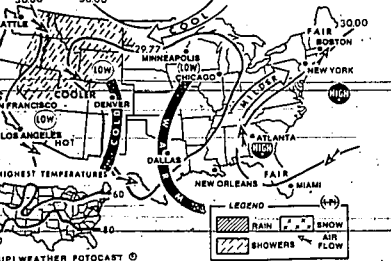

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, and Jerome-Gooding areas: Periods of light rain today. Chance of scattered showers to night. Partly cloudy Sunday. Low tonight 35 to 40, highs both days in the mid 50s.

Halley, Camas Prairie, and Wood River Valley: Periods of light rain through tonight. Snow above the 5,000-foot level. Partly cloudy Sunday with a chance of widely scattered showers. Overnight lows mostly in the 30s, highs both days 45 to 55.

Increasing slightly to between 10 and 15 mph this afternoon. Pan evaporation should be 17 today and Sunday. The 4-inch soil temperatures maximum today shows no change. The minimum for tonight is expected to be down 2 degrees. Field preparation work for Monday through Wednesday indicates dry conditions, with below normal temperatures at first, warming to above normal by mid week. Highest temperature in Idaho Friday was 62 at Lewiston, and lowest reported was 37 at Soda Springs.

World genealogy conference slated

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — The prominent authors, genealogists, archivists, historians, librarians and second World Conference on Records aims to strengthen the family by compiling personal or family histories.

Aglow Fellowship to meet

MAGIC VALLEY — The Womens Aglow Fellowship will hold several meetings in the area featuring guest speaker, Alberta Foster.

Womens Aglow. She will share her testimony and tell how she and her husband were called to their present work and present some songs that she has written.

of Lords; and Kenn Stryker-Rodda and Milton Rubincam, well-known American genealogists, will also speak.

Sponsored by the Genealogical Society of Utah and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, the conference is expected to draw 10,000 persons, from as many as 30 countries.

"We hope to build a secure foundation and knowledge within families about family history topics presented by recognized scholars. The topics will be geared for those new to the field, but will also be challenging to more experienced researchers," said Thomas Daniels, conference coordinator.

Topics covered in the 300 seminars range from "Family History in U.S. Court Records," "Teaching American Origins in Switzerland," "The Holocaust and Family History," "Where Can I Find My British Coat of Arms," and "Writing Mormon Biographies."

The registration cost is $50 for adults and $25 for ages 12 to 23 before June 15. After that, the cost goes up to $60 and $30.

The conference has been planned for two years and will coincide with the 150th anniversary of the LDS church. However, Daniels said, the conference is non-denominational and developed out of the "almost unbelievable interest in the first conference."

Mrs. Foster is the wife of Rev. George Foster, Jr., pastor of the "Solid Rock Church" in Idaho Falls and is president of the Idaho Falls

The pastor, Rev. W. Daniel Klingler, will be preaching on the theme, "Keeping The Circle Open and Our Minds Preceptive."

Christian Home festival

KIMBERLY — The East Twin Falls County Parish United Methodist Church will hold services at 9 a.m. Sunday at Murtough.

Morning worship will be held at the Kimberly United Methodist Church at 11 a.m.

The traditional Mother's Day will be celebrated as the Festival of the Christian Home. Special music presented at each service will be offered by Patty Vinyard, folk singer from Twin Falls and a member of the Kimberly UMC. The message for the morning is entitled, "The Fifth Commandment," and will be given by John Wood, pastor for the East Twin Falls County Parish United Methodist Church.

Pastor installation

SHOSHONE — An installation service and American-Baptist ordination ceremony will be held May 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church for Stephen E. Prudhomme, the new pastor.

The public is invited.

Venture for Mission funded

TWIN FALLS — "I have everything the world has to offer," Ann B. Davis told the annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Idaho, "but God made me a better offer."

The TV personality "Alice" of the Brady Bunch, who now is retired from show business and lives in religious community in Denver, Colo., told the delegates to the 13th annual convention in Twin Falls Saturday night that she was actually embarrassed by the good things of life — knew something was missing — and kept asking herself why she was not satisfied. Her search led to a Bible study group and ultimately to living in a Christian community.

In Sunday's business sessions, held at the Church of the Ascension, the delegates gave unanimous approval to Bishop Hanford L. King Jr.'s resolution for the "Venture in Mission" program and committed $420,000 for special needs and outside the Diocese of Idaho. Convention delegates in Twin Falls also approved an annual budget of $316,601.

Climax of the convention was the ordination of Lou C. Luttrell of Mountain Home to the holy order of deacon before a capacity throng in the Church of the Ascension Bishop Roca Auditorium Sunday.

Luttrell, a 48-year-old Air Force retired rescue-helicopter officer, was ordained by King. He is presently working with Father Hayashi, chaplain at St. Luke's Hospital in Boise, and serves St. Michael's Cathedral.

Preacher at the ordination was the Rev. John W. "Bill" Burbury of California, his long-time friend and also newly ordained Episcopal deacon.

Litanist was Rev. Bob Cross of Boise and Gospeler was Rev. George Smith of Boise, deacon. The Epistler was convention special guest, Ms. Davis.

Next year's convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Idaho will be hosted by St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Boise.

Who in American Colleges and Universities. He was honored with the H.A. Ironsides Award for Expository Preaching.

The seminar is for those who wish to become familiar with the "New Testament. Study material will be provided with the registration fee. For full information contact JoAnn Stevers at 733-3018.

MINNESOTA MUSIC MAN
Pinchas Zukerman, has signed a three-year contract as music director of the St. Paul, Minn., Chamber Orchestra. Zukerman, replaces Dennis Russell Davies, who will become music director of the Stuttgart Opera in West Germany. A report released last year said Zukerman will be paid $110,000 this year, $140,000 for the 1981-82 season, and $160,000 for the 1982-83 season. Now, before everyone erupts into a crescendo of dissent, Zukerman's salary is about what a good baseball player gets in the major leagues. Besides, 100K isn't too much to pay for genius.

FROST FOR BREAKFAST
David Frost, the first man to interview former president Richard Nixon about Watergate on television, now wants to lead the way to breakfast television in Britain. Frost was one of 10 people listed on an application submitted Friday for the rights to broadcast morning programs when Britain's fourth TV network begins operations in 1981. The application was handed to the Independent Broadcast Authority by Peter Jay, Britain's former ambassador to the United States and chairman of group known as TV-AM. Jay said besides Frost, the group applying for the television rights included Michael Parkinson, a late night talk show host, Britain's equivalent of Johnny Carson.

GOLDSTEIN: DINNER FOR JURY
New York publisher Al Goldstein, the self-declared friend of porn who was acquitted of obscenity charges two years ago in a celebrated trial in Kansas City, Kan., is returning to the wheat state for a reunion with the jurors who freed him. Goldstein, the editor and publisher of Screw Magazine, said only 9 of the 12 jurors had agreed to join him in the Saturday night party at Top of the Crown, one of Kansas City's plush restaurants. Although the 1978 trial occurred just across the river in Kansas, Goldstein says he will restrict his activities to the Missouri side of the city. Just in case.

MOTHER'S DAY PINK
Singer-personality Grace Jones is passionate about pink and recently discovered Nat Sherman's Fantasia cigarettes and ordered a carton for her mother-in-law who lives in Paris with instructions to have the all-pink cigarettes engraved: "Happy Mother's Day."

PHAROAH GETS NO RESPECT
The building designed to house the priceless funerary boat of Pharaoh Khufu (Cheops) in Egypt may have caused the boat to shrink several inches in the past decade. The boat, according to Horizon magazine, is 4,600 years old and is made from 1,224 pieces of Lebanon cedar ranging in size from a pencil to giant beams 90 feet. Horizon says the museum is inadequate for such a treasure. "The ceiling leaked during rainstorms, infrequent though they are in the Egyptian desert. Spring sandstorms blew the windows right out of their casings as the heat of day was so intense that the boat has shrunk several inches. An air conditioning system installed 12 years ago has rusted in place unused," Horizon says. The least they could do is put the craft in the unfinished basement of a pyramid as the other boat owners do.

EVEN NUREYEV HAD TO COOL HIS HEELS
Despite being a friend of co-producer Franco Rossellini, dancer

Rudy Nureyev had to wait in line to see Bob Guccione's film "Caligula." In New York, Nureyev tried to enlist Rossellini's help but found the producer out of the country.

O'Hair's son recants life as atheist

BEHIND THE NAME: Liberaace was born Wladziu Valentino Liberaace.

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — The son of atheist firebrand Madelyn Murray O'Hair Friday publicly apologized to Americans and God for his part in building his mother's "personal empire" and for the "hateful and anti-moral way of life" he created in her name.
"Looking back on the 33 years of life I wasted without faith and without God, I pray that I may be able to correct just some of the wrong I have created," said

William J. Murray of Houston in a letter to the editor of the Austin American-Statesman.
Murray, who apparently has converted to Christianity since his split with his mother several years ago, was the plaintiff in a suit filed in Massachusetts that resulted in compulsory prayers being banned from public schools.
"The part I played as a teen-ager in removing prayer from public schools was criminal," he wrote.

Duchess of Windsor hospitalized in Paris

PARIS (UPI) — The Duchess of Windsor, the American divorcee for whom King Edward VIII gave up the British throne, will stay in a Paris hospital for four days of medical tests, the hospital disclosed today.
A brief medical bulletin issued by the American Hospital in Paris specified no special ailment that would afflict the widow of the late Duke of Windsor, apparently indicating she was merely feeling the weight of old age. The Duchess is believed to be 63.
The Duchess entered the hospital on Thursday afternoon to "undergo some checks of systemic control. The hospitalization is scheduled to last four days at the hospital in suburban Neuilly-sur-Seine said.
The Duchess, the former American-born socialite Wallis Simpson, has been in poor health due to her age for over three years.

old when Edward VIII surrendered the most powerful throne in the world because the government would not let him marry her.
They married six months after the abdication and lived mostly in France in semi-exile. They traveled the world and were well-known for their elegant social life.
But there were thorns along the path, too, mostly related to the fact the American divorcee was granted no royal status and was shunned by her husband's family.
Since Edward's death, the duchess has lived on the edge of the Bois de Boulogne in a house given to the Windsors by the French government.
Last year she visited the American hospital twice, once for surgery for intestinal problems in February and later she spent four months there recovering from an unspecified infection.

born Bessie Wallis Warfield, but known to millions as Wallis Simpson, she has been bedridden at her Paris home for the past three years, and friends say she has never recovered from the death in 1972 of the Duke of Windsor, who stepped down as king to marry the "the woman I love" as he described her in his abdication broadcast Dec. 10, 1936.
A frail figure with angular features, she was twice-divorced and 49 years

Town suffers shortage of candidates

MERRIMAC, Mass. (UPI) — Suppose they held an election and no candidates came forward?
In this tiny community near the New Hampshire border, every candidate listed on the ballot for the 13 offices they are seeking Monday is assured victory — because they are running unopposed.
Five of the town's 18 public offices have no candidates at all.
H. Parker McLean, moderator of the town which used to be the carriage-making center of the nation in the days of horse-drawn buggies, blames it on disinterest.
"In my opinion, there is a terrible apathy as far as town politics is concerned, and I would lay it at the feet of the state Legislature. They don't leave us with many local options. Most of the programs are state mandated."

'The bloody BBC interrupted my snooker match'

LONDON (UPI) — A professor complained Friday because the BBC interrupted coverage of a snooker match to show the storming of the Iranian embassy by air force commandos Monday.
"Why when supposedly covering the world snooker final live, did they interrupt this for some 20 minutes at the most crucial part of the match?" asked Prof. F.M. Chambers of the University of Keele in a letter to the Guardian newspaper.
"The BBC's behavior seems quite reprehensible," he said.

Libya gives in — will send 4 home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Libya bowed to an American expulsion order Friday and agreed to fly home four diplomats suspected of intimidating exiles from their homeland who oppose Moammar Khadafy's regime in Tripoli.

But under the agreement, announced at the State Department after a five-day stand-off, the men will have until Sunday night to leave the country, instead of being forced to leave Friday afternoon as previously ordered.

In Tripoli earlier Friday, Khadafy had escalated tensions by threatening to halt Libya's oil exports to the United States and to withdraw Libyan assets, the Libyan news agency Jana reported.

But All Houdari, a Libyan spokesman said he did not expect either threat to be carried out.

The State Department said the four Libyans would be out of the United States by Sunday, and that Libya had agreed to "conclude satisfactory arrangements" about the diplomatic status of the other 24 Libyans serving in the mission in Washington.

State Department spokesman Hodding-Carter said before the agreement was reached that the United States would close the mission and expel all 24 of the Libyans who work there if the four men in question did not obey the American order.

The four suspected of spying, intimidating Libyan students and exiles who oppose Khadafy, had been given three deadlines to leave the country, the latest one Friday.

But instead of obeying, the four held up in the Libyan mission, claiming they were not diplomats, but simply foreign visitors entitled to a deportation hearing.

Several Libyan exiles have been killed in Europe recently and officials suspect Khadafy's henchmen are behind the slayings.

FBI agents said they would be "babysitting" the four until their departure, accompanying them wherever they go.

Saudis promise regular oil flow

DOHA, Qatar (UPI) — Saudi Arabia will maintain its current level of crude oil production for the near future, Saudi Oil Minister Shalith Ahmed Zaki Yamani said in an interview published Friday.

Yamani made his remarks following a 2-day summit of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, where the oil cartel agreed to not replace any of the production Iran has withheld from the world market.

The conference also failed to reach a unanimous agreement on long range pricing, and Yamani said OPEC will try again at price talks in Algiers June 6.

Yamani said his country will review its oil output level every 3 months and adjust it "in relation to any new developments."

Yamani's remarks appeared to indicate that Saudi Arabia will neither flood the market with crude to ease prices nor ignore any critical shortages that could threaten Western economies.

Turkey says it's found U.S. killers

ANKARA (UPI) — Istanbul's martial law commander said Friday authorities have arrested the alleged terrorists accused of killing five Americans.

He gave no details, but said they were among 224 alleged-terrorists arrested recently.

Elmer Cooper, James Smith, Jim Clark and Robert French were killed Dec. 14 by gunmen who sprayed bullets into the line where they were waiting for a bus. Sam Novello, an army master sergeant, was killed in the Ettler district of Istanbul April 16.

Istanbul police said a suspect and two soldiers were wounded when leftists opened fire at security forces trying to search a house Friday morning.

In Ankara, Parliament skipped another round in its marathon votes to elect a new president so that 120 opposition members could attend the funeral of a party official shot and killed Wednesday.

Scuffles broke out at the funeral ceremony in Kayseri, but security forces broke them up without injury or arrests.

Leos should take care to avoid troubles over matters tied to money

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The only benefits that come to you during the daytime are those which are planned. The evening finds all kinds of interesting ideas zooming through your consciousness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle worrisome matters early, then engage in favorite hobby. Be with gentle persons in the evening and be happy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Friends could prove disappointing now, so carry through without asking them for aid. Be more tolerant of others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be objective in handling civic duties and get fine results. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find the best method for riding yourself of worries. Don't lose your temper over a situation that displeases you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take care you don't get in trouble with one over a money matter. Engage in outside activities with congenials.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look over your surroundings and make plans for improvement. A civic affair could be disturbing, but take it in stride.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) There could be delays in regular routines, but later you can make up for lost time. Improve your health in some way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget all that extravagant spending and get busy making a talent work to your benefit. Avoid arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) It is wise to help family members who need your help at this time. Make plans to have added abundance.

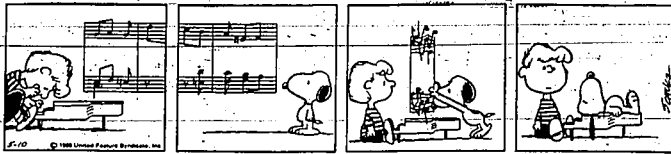

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to complete your chores with fewer interruptions. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't take any risks where present security is concerned. Enjoy the social in the evening, preferably at home.

PISCIS (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study personal problems well and know how best to get rid of them. Engage in recreational activities with congenials.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be capable of seizing opportunities to advance that come up unexpectedly. Teach early to be happy at study since a positive attitude will bring success. Be sure to give good religious training early in life.

What's what

Football most popular sport appearing on TV

Most popular of the professional sports routinely televised now is football. Then, in descending order, baseball, basketball, tennis, soccer, hockey, wrestling and auto racing. Or so say the pollsters. Will bet you a quarter on the corner that boxing will rapidly rise in this popularity contest.

In France, mental patients are allowed to vote. And in the French village of Aromas, the majority of voters are mental patients. It is a matter of record that they invariably cast their ballots in favor of the opposition.

Some bright entrepreneur is now selling women's panties upon which is imprinted the simple line: "Thank you, Patrice-Webber."

To an Englishman, if it's "booze," it's ale or beer, not hard liquor.

BROTHER, SISTER

Q. Does it ever happen that a brother and sister grow up in separate homes, meet each other, and unaware of their relationship, get married? If so, what do they do when they find out?

A. It happened Margorie and Geoffrey Hughes of Hereford, England, had been married four years and had two children before they learned they were sister and brother. How often it occurs is a mystery inasmuch as such occurrences are rarely made public. And how they're resolved likewise goes unreported.

Q. How frequently do girls aged 12 to 15 shampoo their hair?

A. Three times a week, average say the pollsters.
Q. What's the most widely played game?
A. Soccer.

OLYMPICS

Available only to the highest officials at the Winter Olympics was a car sticker which let their vehicles go anywhere on the grounds of the games. A bright photographer for "Newsweek" magazine took color pictures of said sticker, trimmed the prints to exact size, put them on the publication's two cars. And away they went with top priority passage.

Cross-country attempt Winds trouble balloon

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (UPI)—A father-son team hoping to make the first non-stop transcontinental flight in a balloon lifted to over 20,000 feet Friday to avoid thunderstorm activity near the ground, and a spokesman said the flight's success looked uncertain.

"We're looking at a split in the wind, kind of like a fork in the road," said Jim Mitchell, who has been tracking the balloon from a station in Bedford, Mass. "We're at a critical standpoint right now: If it doesn't turn soon, we're going to be in the deep soup."

Mitchell said the balloon, the Kitty Hawk, was caught between two wind currents, one "eycling out" to the northwest and the other to the northeast, toward South Dakota.

"If it gets sucked into the one that's heading left and up (on the map), it will just cycle out to the northwest and we'll have to put her down," he said.

The Kitty Hawk floated earlier Friday just ahead of a major storm front that blanketed northern Utah with thunderstorms and heavy rain.

At mid-afternoon trackers placed the 200-foot-tall balloon about 45 miles northeast of Rock Springs, well north of the original flight plan. It was moving north-northeast at 32 mph at an altitude of 20,000 feet, Mitchell said.

The balloon left San Francisco Wednesday on a 4,000-mile journey to Kitty Hawk, N.C., carrying Maxie Anderson, 45, of Albuquerque, N.M., a member of the first balloon crew to cross the Atlantic, and his son, Kris, 23. They hoped to make the trip in 14 days.

Auburn Mitchell, another member of the balloon's tracking team, said the Kitty Hawk began floating north of the intended flight plan as it crossed Nevada after passing over the rugged Sierra Nevada.

He said a path taking the balloon across southern Wyoming and into South Dakota, north of the tallest section of the Rocky Mountains in Colorado, would still leave the Kitty Hawk in good shape to arrive in North Carolina as planned.

They had intended to fly across central Colorado and across Nebraska on their journey east.

Mitchell said he hoped to balloon would begin drifting south again over South Dakota so it could land in North Carolina.

The Andersons were able to use a short-distance radio to talk with a tracking plane Friday morning. A radio telephone, which would have permitted constant communication, has not worked since they left San Francisco.

Mideast Iranian parliamentary elections point to control by hardliners

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Exhorted by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to go out and vote for only 50 percent Moslem candidates, Iranians Friday elected a new parliament that later will decide the fate of the 53 American hostages.

It was not clear when the results of the second round of Iran's parliamentary elections would be announced.

Polling for the 270-seat parliament was erratic through the day in Tehran and did not take place at all in 22 cities wracked by political violence and tribal unrest.

But Moslem fundamentalists challenging the comparatively moderate faction in the regime led by President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr were expected to emerge as the winners of most of the 190 seats at stake in the second round of balloting. The other 81 seats were decided last March, with the fundamentalist Islamic Republican Party of Mohammad Beheshti capturing most of them.

Khomeini's call to the voters to elect only "100 percent" Moslem candidates appeared to bolster the party's chances.

Khomeini has said that the new parliament will decide the fate of the American hostages, now claimed by their captors to be scattered throughout Iran in the wake of the aborted U.S. rescue mission.

But Beheshti said on Wednesday that the new parliament that his party will likely control will not take up the hostage question as its first priority.

The first issue on the agenda when it convenes in about six weeks, Beheshti said, will be a vote of confidence in Bani-Sadr's new government.

Anticipating a fundamentalist majority—and challenge—in parliament, Bani-Sadr requested and received Khomeini's permission to name a premier.

retain permanent control of security in the occupied territories.

"Security in Judea, Samaria (West Bank) and Gaza must be in the hands of Israel and in no one else's," Begir said. "Whoever wants agreement with us must accept this principle."

Khalil said Begin's remarks amounted to a "virtual ultimatum" to Egypt, which insists that the projected Palestinian self-governing authority in the West Bank be given control of internal security after a five-year transitional period.

Egypt says Begin's hard line is stumbling block to peace talks

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI)—Egypt said Friday it suspended the Palestinian autonomy talks with Israel because of what it viewed as antagonistic remarks by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

In an interview with UPI, Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil also cited lack of progress in the 11-month-old talks and the stalemate over what Egypt views as Begin's refusal to consider anything but a very limited and token form of autonomy for the Palestinians living under Israeli occupation in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Khalil said President Anwar Sadat planned to announce Egypt's next step in trying to break the deadlock when he addresses parliament May 14.

He did not say what that step would be but there has been speculation that Sadat may call for another Camp David-style summit between himself, Begin and President Carter.

"The main reason for this decision was the situation created by Mr. Begin's latest statements on the negotiations," Khalil said.

He was referring to remarks made on Tuesday by Begin, who reiterated Israel's intention to retain permanent control of security in the occupied territories.

"Security in Judea, Samaria (West Bank) and Gaza must be in the hands of Israel and in no one else's," Begir said. "Whoever wants agreement with us must accept this principle."

Khalil said Begin's remarks amounted to a "virtual ultimatum" to Egypt, which insists that the projected Palestinian self-governing authority in the West Bank be given control of internal security after a five-year transitional period.

In Oregon Seniority itself is major political issue

Times-News writer

The Politics of Seniority — Part IV

BOISE — Republican Congressman Steve Symms, now locked in a battle with Democratic Senator Frank Church, isn't the only challenger faced with the difficulty of overcoming an incumbent's seniority.

In Oregon and Washington, there are races where seniority appears likely to be a major issue.

In Oregon, the seniority question applies in the state's 2nd Congressional District, which has kept Democratic Congressman Al Ulman in office for 24 years.

The seniority has given Ulman the chairmanship of the Ways and Means Committee. Since the federal Constitution requires all revenue bills to originate in the House of Representatives, Ulman reigns over the key congressional budget committee.

That chairmanship has given Ulman national power and publicity and popularity at home.

But since 1978, the nation's economy has slid from darkness into recession. And as the highly visible chairman of the committee which writes the nation's tax laws, Ulman may face a tough re-election battle.

Ulman's opponents include opponents. Dennis Smith, a 42-year-old newspaper owner, is making his bid for elective office. In the Republican primary, Smith is opposing Ulman. Both, of course, Oregonians.

Roib apparently does not own a telephone and could not be reached by the Times-News.

Gred Waldon, news secretary of the "Friends of Dennis Smith" campaign, said he shared the responsibility of the state of our economy. He is in a very powerful position, and because of that, he helped write the tax laws that makes work until May 10 to pay our taxes to the government.

Ulman has also been a leading advocate of the "Value Added Tax," a proposed national sales tax. According to Waldon, that suggests Ulman is out of touch with the home state.

Oregon doesn't have a sales tax, Waldon said. The last time it was proposed, in 1969, voters rejected the suggested tax by a margin of eight-to-one.

In the Oregon economy, still heavily tied to lumber and home building, is suffering under existing financial conditions, Waldon said. The national recession could hurt Ulman's reelection bid.

"This race, probably more than any other in the nation, has to come down to the question of do you want more growth, do you want to continue the economic policies that have brought us where we are, or do you want to try something different," Waldon said.

"Because of Ulman's Ways and Means Chairmanship, Oregon voters have a unique opportunity to speak out on the economy, he added. "You can't send a more clear message to Congress than by unseating the Ways and Means Chairman."

Ulman supporters, however, say the congressman's seniority will help rather than hurt his re-election.

"Mr. Ulman has a pretty good record in terms of representing the interests of Oregon," said Gayle Gilmour, the congressman's district administrative assistant.

"People here recognize that in the House of Representatives about two-thirds of the members are from big city districts and that in order to get a bill passed you have to get 218 votes on the floor."

Western and rural interests must fight to overcome that urban bloc, Ulman supporters contend. If the House is an important tool in that fight."

Henny Willis, political editor with the Eugene, Ore., Register-Guard, said the Times-News that "under any other circumstances it would be difficult to blast Ulman out of that

Washington State also has the unique position of having two senators. In seniority, she pointed out, in Washington, the defeat of one senator wouldn't rob the state of its national clout. The state will still have Jackson topping the seniority list, she said.

The Gorton campaign is also leveling against Magnuson the same charge that is heard in Oregon and Idaho political contests.

Magnuson must bear the responsibility for the result of his actions during his years in office, Rasmussen said. "If he's that influential, he can't duck the responsibility for inflation and other economic problems," she said.

The second Republican in the race is attorney William Treadwell, who said he too encounters numerous questions about Magnuson's seniority.

But Treadwell disputes the actual scope of Magnuson's power. Much of the clout attributed to seniority is a myth, carefully created by incumbents seeking re-election, Treadwell said.

Washington State Democrats, however, believe seniority—and what Magnuson has done with that seniority, will pull the senator through to his seventh six-year term.

"This is no time for a rookie," said Magnuson. Campaign Director Aubrey Davis. "We obviously aren't going to deny that (seniority) is a factor."

Washington voters should ask themselves "Why should we give it up? Why should the state of give it up?" Davis said.

Davis added, however, that seniority wouldn't re-elect Magnuson if the senator hadn't used his power for the benefit of Washington voters. "It's a question of how many people remember and appreciate something he did that was legitimate and of benefit for them."

But Magnuson is also 75 the world "if re-elected"; a fact voters will constantly hear from Republicans.

Magnuson has no Democratic primary opposition, but two Republicans have formally launched campaigns to unseat the state's senior senator.

A major effort to capture Magnuson's seat has been started by Republican State Gorton. Presently Washington State's Attorney General, Gorton has won that post two times and has served a total of 12 years.

Seniority is a frequently mentioned issue, said Gorton Campaign Manager Helen Rasmussen, and is one of the major advantages Magnuson has. But their campaign is focusing on the need "for building a new growth of seniority in the U.S. Senate," she said.

Stocks close erratic week with loss

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer
 NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market suffered a broad-based and sharp loss Friday.
 It closed out an erratic week with many investors worried about the depth of the recession.
 Trading was sluggish.
 The Dow Jones industrial average, a 606-point loser Thursday, fell 9.33 points to 805.80. The Dow, a 60-point winner since mid-April, shed 5.12 points for the week.
 The New York Stock Exchange index lost 0.73 to 59.79 and the price of a share decreased by 39 cents. Declines topped advances—95 to 561 among the 1,883 issues traded at 4 p.m. EDT.

Fears that the recession is turning out to be worse than expected triggered much of the selling. The Business Council predicted the slowdown will be "as severe as any in the post-war period except 1973-75."
 Big Board volume totaled 30,280,000 shares, down from the 39,280,000 traded Thursday.
 Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all-U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 33,641,708 shares, compared with 40,877,512 Thursday.
 The American Stock Exchange index fell 5.37 to 246.31 and the price of a share eased 35 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of OTC stocks lost 0.20 to 143.06.
 At 4 p.m. IBM was the most active issue, off 1 1/2 to 52 1/4 in trading that included a block of 604,700 shares at $2 1/4. Hiram Walker Consumers Home followed, off 1/2 to 22 1/4 after a block of 500,000 shares crossed at 22.
 Sony Corp. was the third most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1/4 to 8 1/4 in trading that included a block of 200,000 shares at 8 1/4.
 Oil and related issues generally were under pressure. SEDCO was off 3/4 to 68. Ohio Standard 3 to 8 1/2. Atlantic Richfield 1 1/2 to 8 1/2, and Shell 2 to 63 1/2.
 Mobil Oil lost 1 1/2 to 65 and California Standard 1 1/2 to 65. Gulf Oil of Canada lost 6 1/2 to 11 1/4; on the Amex. All are partners in a Mobil well offshore Newfoundland. The stocks have been weak since Mobil reported on its drilling activities in the area.
 Amerasia Hess shed 3 1/2 to 4 1/2, even though the company raised its dividends outlay to 50 cents a share from 40 cents.
 Centipillar Tractor lost 2 1/2 to 4 1/2. The company said it would be forced to lay off 3,775 employees in June and July because of lagging sales. The company said 1980 sales won't match those of last year.
 General Public Utilities, owner of the Three Mile Island nuclear plant, climbed 7/8 to 6 1/2. The Pennsylvania Utilities Commission said the struggling utility could have a rate increase and stay in business.

Planners vote against Filer impact area

Advisory group also sets June hearing on establishing committee to consider 20-acre limit variances in agriculture zone

By BONNIE DAIRD-JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — There may be one community in Twin Falls County that won't have an area of impact. Before the largest turnout for a Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission meeting in several years, commission members voted to recommend Filer not have an area of impact.

Filer Mayor Eldon Ryals told the zoning officials his town, already, has more problems than it can handle, and the City Council is not anxious to take on responsibilities of more territory.

About 150 persons, most of them from Filer, crowded into the district courtroom and overflowed into the hallway Thursday night for the zoning meeting.

Residents of Filer as well as city officials testified the city is already having difficulty providing water and sewer facilities for residents within their communities, and although improvements are in the mill-it would be some time before services could be extended to any new areas.

The zoning officials decided that because of the overwhelming reaction from Filer, the recommendation to the county commissioners would be to eliminate Filer from the area of impact procedure at this time.

Zoning administrator Ed Woods said about three square miles of land around Filer was proposed in the impact area, extending anywhere from a quarter of a mile to a mile from the existing city boundaries.

In other action, the commission called a public hearing on what Woods termed a new philosophy in the local zoning policy.

The hearing, scheduled for June 12, will consider the establishment of a land use committee to review requests for variance from the 20-acre minimum land size in the agricultural zone.

Under the present Twin Falls County Comprehensive Land Use Plan and county zoning ordinance, any request for dividing agriculture land in less than 20-acre parcels requires public hearings before the zoning board and county commissioners.

"By establishing a land use committee, these requests would be reviewed, and if the committee determines there is logical reason for reducing the 20-acre minimum, it could be granted without the lengthy public hearing process," Woods said. "I think this will make our regulations a little more flexible and will be a good thing for our land use program."

The committee recommendations would go to the zoning board for their recommendations to the commissioners. The individuals could appeal the decisions of the committee to both the zoning board and county commissioners.

He said his office has had requests from farmers who want to build a new home but don't want to destroy the old home. Because of the 20-acre minimum on land size in the agricultural zones, these people cannot sell the old houses, so they must be deprived of their value. In other instances, he said there may be a patch of poor farm land that would sell for a home site but cannot be used because of the 20-acre restriction.

Woods said the idea is not to allow housing development throughout the county or create subdivisions but to allow an occasional home here and there on farm land.

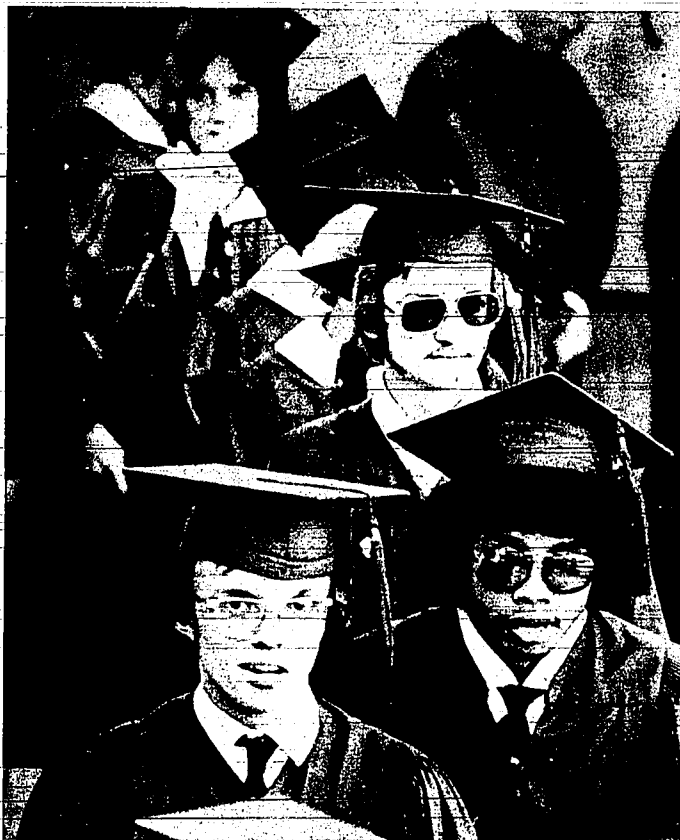

The zoning board also received a request from Tom Floyd and Stephen J. Dixon of Twin Falls for a planned unit commercial development at Curry. The developers were asked to provide more details on the proposal at next month's zoning meeting.

The board recommended approval of a bean receiving station for AAA Bean Co. near Castelford. The previous request was denied, but a revised proposal with stipulation for an open front along the 372 feet of the property for better traffic disbursement resulted in a recommendation for approval.

Reading workshop Monday

FILER — A mini-workshop for the public on reading and its importance will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in Filer Elementary School. Entitled "Reading, who needs it," the workshop was planned by the Title I Reading Parents Advisory Council.

A number of educators from the area will speak on the following topics: pre-school skills, birth to 5 years, Debbie Fakler; words to win-kids, Judy Slander; motivational reading, Marilyn Knigge; free reading and how to choose books, Lataine Hughes; and reading and writing: a double connection, Vickie McCabe.

The council said the workshop will benefit parents with ideas and information on how to help their children with reading.

Solar meet speakers change

TWIN FALLS — The featured speaker at a solar energy meeting in Twin Falls May 13 has canceled and another selected.

Sponsored by the Magic Valley Solar Energy Association, the meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in room B-14 of O'Leary Junior High School.

Bicycle parade canceled

TWIN FALLS — The bike parade and safety rodeo due to be held this morning at Harmon Park, have been canceled until May 17 due to the weather. No changes will be made in the scheduled events.

Police

Trio arrested for double Cassia murders

BURLEY — Three men Friday were arrested and being held in Cassia County Jail in connection with a double murder committed in the spring of 1979.

Two men, Joe Hutcherson, 24, of Rupert, and Danny Jordan, 23, of Paul, were being held without bond on charges of first-degree murder, first-degree kidnapping, robbery, third-degree arson, and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony.

A third man, Lincoln Harris, 23, of Kallispell, Mont., was being held on $50,000 bond on a robbery charge.

The three were arraigned before 5th District Court Judge Nathan Hilger.

The arrests mark the culmination of a 13-month investigation by Cassia County's Sheriff's Department. The investigation began April 4, 1979, when authorities found a car in a gravel pit north of Oakley that had been drenched with a flammable liquid and set afire.

On May 5, 1979, the body of Paul Kennedy, 24, of Pocatello, was discovered in the Snake River Canyon about 2 1/2 miles below the Milner Bridge. On May 19, the body of the car's owner, Steven Taylor, 26, of Pocatello, was found in the canyon, about 7 1/2 miles downstream from the bridge. The victims had been reported missing by relatives in Pocatello since March.

An autopsy later found the two had been bound and shot before being thrown in the river.

Following the arrest, Cassia County Undersheriff Billy Crystal said the murder was drug-related and that a sizable amount of drugs was taken from the victims. Crystal would not say what type of drugs were involved.

Hutcherson and Jordan were arrested about 11 a.m. in the Burley area. The two, arrested in their cars, offered no resistance, Crystal said. Harris, who had lived in the Burley area prior to moving to Kallispell, was in custody Thursday and had agreed to testify for the prosecution, Cassia County Prosecuting Attorney Al Barrus said.

But Barrus said Harris' decision to testify was not the major event which led to the arrests.

"We had a lot of facts and evidence to put together but one of the suspects had agreed to be a witness on behalf of the state and that, of course, is substantiating our other evidence," he said. "But there were other factors that brought the case to a head."

A preliminary hearing to determine if Hutcherson and Jordan should be bound over to 5th District Court must be held within 10 days since the two never intended to come to Kallispell. Hutcherson and Jordan were not chosen to waive their rights to a preliminary hearing.

Mother of convicted kidnappers arrested

HAILEY — The mother of two former Kimberly residents was arrested Thursday afternoon shortly after her sons were given prison sentences for kidnapping.

Louisa McClain of Kimberly now faces charges of conspiracy, to commit kidnapping and kidnapping in connection with an incident last Dec. 23. She was in the Blaine County Jail Friday night in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Her sons, Doug Doidge, 20, and Earl Doidge, 23, also formerly of Kimberly, were sentenced Thursday by Judge Douglas Kramer to 15 years for second-degree kidnapping and five years for conspiracy to commit kidnapping.

A third person, Tammy Wiedmeir, 21, formerly of Shoshone, drew a 10- and five-year sentence on the same charges.

During the trial the two men implicated a 4th person when they testified another person was to have obtained keys to the safe of their victim, Wesley Wills, 31, of Ketchum. Under questioning on the stand, the Doidge brothers refused to identify the fourth person. Blaine County Prosecutor Keith Roark asked both if the individual was their mother and both remained silent. They were later given an additional 10 days in prison for contempt of court.

The two men and Wiedmeir testified to their respective parts in the kidnapping of Wills last December from his Ketchum home. They said their purpose in taking the man captive at gunpoint was to gain possession of the safety deposit box key. Doug Doidge wept as he told the court the group never intended to harm or kidnap him. They said the plan to take Wills captive grew out of information provided by Wiedmeir, a bank employee, about money in the Wills safety deposit box.

More charges filed against Jerome doctor

JEROME — Additional charges will be filed against a Jerome physician charged Thursday with an infamous crime of a nature.

Assistant County Prosecutor Robert Williams said his office prepared a second complaint Friday afternoon charging Dr. William C. Donohue with a misdemeanor of conduct with a minor under age 16.

Williams said he did not know whether the charges were filed before 5 p.m. If they were not, they will be filed Monday, he said.

Donohue, 30, was arrested Thursday by Jerome County sheriff's deputies and charged with the initial count after investigation of an incident involving a male patient on or about April 7. (The Times-News Friday incorrectly reported the date of the incident as Jan. 7.)

St. Benedict's Hospital also announced Friday that it has suspended Donohue's privileges to practice medicine at the hospital.

In a carefully worded statement, hospital director Robert Campbell said the hospital had previously restricted Donohue's privileges after learning of allegations that he committed a similar offense in another state.

The doctor was suspended from practice at St. Benedict's after he pleaded guilty to the prior offense, Campbell said, but was reinstated "under a very restrictive and controlled privilege" pending an appeal of the suspension.

"As the hospital has now become aware of alleged improprieties in the state of Idaho, all privileges have now been revoked," he said.

Campbell declined to answer questions about the statement, saying he was acting on advice from the hospital's attorneys.

Donohue remained in jail late Friday afternoon on $20,000 bond. A preliminary hearing in the case has been set Wednesday in Jerome County Magistrate Court.

Anniversary events finalized

TWIN FALLS — Mayor Hank Woodall breathed a sigh of relief after Friday's meeting of the Twin Falls 75th anniversary celebration committee.

Last week, the committee discovered that most of the events on the tentative schedule were still tentative.

Some of the commitments have been planning events and refining the schedule for months, but even though the days for each event were set the times for most were not.

At Friday's meeting, times were set and the schedule finalized. One event was added to the schedule: a dance sponsored by radio stations KJLX and KMTW on the night of June 6.

Woodall said he is "dilated" at the way plans for the celebration are shaping up. "The celebration will be held from June 5 through 14. However, a kickoff breakfast is scheduled for 8 a.m. next Friday at the Turf Club.

Woodall said there will be music and some speeches. Buttons, bumper stickers and T-shirts for the anniversary are scheduled to go on sale. The idea is to start whipping up a little excitement about the Diamond Jubilee now, Woodall said.

Manning, Klein brief legislators on session

TWIN FALLS — Highways and health care will dominate next week's special legislative session, two top state officials said Friday.

In a meeting with Magic Valley legislators, Transportation Department Director Darrell Manning warned Idaho's road system is going to peak within five years. Health and Welfare Department Director Milt Klein warned his agency may soon be going into a financial hole.

Both said they need more money from the Legislature. The meeting was one of a series held throughout the state to brief lawmakers on issues they will face in next week's session. Gov. John Evans, who under a constitutional mandate can restrict the subject matter of an "extraordinary session," has said the agenda will cover:

- Increased funding for the Transportation Department.
- Increased funding for the Aid to Dependent Children program.
- Drafting of a new formula by which the state determines what it will pay nursing homes for Medicaid costs.
- Drafting a plan that will restrict the subject matter considered by every other legislative session, thus reducing the time spent in session.
- Manning said Friday that inflationary increases, plus the age of Idaho's road system, made increased funding to his department necessary.
- Citing one cost increase, Manning pointed out that asphalt, which in 1972 cost $7.25 a ton, now costs $19.60 a ton.
- Most highways after 15 years of use deteriorate rapidly unless repairs are quickly made, he added. Approximately half of Idaho's roads are this age.

His department needs an additional $30 million merely to maintain highways at their present levels, Manning said. A suggested compromise funding level of approximately one-third that amount would slow but not stop the damage, he said.

Manning suggested the new funds be raised through a two-cent-a-gallon tax increase on gasoline and diesel fuel coupled with a registration fee increase for commercial trucks. Registration fees on trucks have not been increased since 1956, Manning said. During the same period registration fees on private cars have increased 65 percent.

Klein told legislators approximately $450,000 in state funding was needed for the Aid to Dependent Children program. Unless those funds are provided, available federal matching dollars will also be lost, he said.

If the state and federal monies are not provided, Idaho's counties will bear the brunt of providing funding and services to persons now in this program, he said.

Klein also asked legislators to change Idaho law requiring the payment to nursing homes of the "full, reasonable" costs of Medicaid patients. The Department "lacks the funds to continue reimbursements" to nursing homes at this level, he said.

But Dr. Hartzell J. Cobbs, executive vice president of Idaho Health Facilities, Inc., also addressed the legislators. Cobbs urged lawmakers to amend rather than merely repeal existing law regulating Medicaid payments.

Nursing home representatives will work with legislators in drafting a new law, Cobbs promised. But if payments to nursing homes for Medicaid patients drop too low, the ultimate result will be a decline in service which can be offered those patients, he said.

Bilyeu doubts state ability to manage Sagebrush lands

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Congressional candidate Diane Bilyeu said she opposes the Sagebrush Rebellion because the state is unable to manage the federal lands.

Bilyeu said the state does not have the resources to manage the land. She added the record of state officials in managing state lands leaves her skeptical about their ability to manage additional lands.

Bilyeu, a Pocatello Democrat, is running unopposed for the right to face the winner of the May 27 Republican contest in the November general election.

"I do not object to the rattling of the chains of the federal government because I think they become a little more responsive then," she said in an interview with the Times-News Friday.

But the state could not afford to manage the lands and so far, the state land board has not demonstrated its ability to properly manage those lands now under state control, she said.

"They would have to prove to me that they could take care of state lands before I'd ever be willing to deliver much more to them," she said.

In other issues, Bilyeu said:

"She supports President Carter's embargo imposed on the Soviet Union in response to the invasion of Afghanistan, and would not rule out the use of food shipments as a weapon in the future. But food embargo's should be applied on an individual basis and not used as a general rule, she said.

"I'd like to say they (food shipments) should be above it (politics), but I think it depends on the situation.

If that's all you have to deal with, to barter with, I would say it depends on the situation."

She opposes the use of high interest rates to curb inflation and said inflation is due in large part to the country's unresolved energy problems.

"First of all, I don't think that we can ever totally get away from the problem of inflation until we solve our problem of oil," she said.

If elected, Bilyeu said she would work towards reducing imports of energy and energy consumption by encouraging voluntary conservation until alternative energy systems are developed.

She said she opposes federal gas rationing programs and attempts to raise the price of gas at the pump through federal taxation, including Carter's move to add a 10-cent-per-gallon tax at the pump.

Gas taxes would be particularly detrimental to rural areas such as Idaho with no mass transportation systems," she said.

Transportation programs present problems because they require expensive bureaucracies in order to function, she said.

Bilyeu said she would support funding research into alternative energy sources including solar, wind, and nuclear projects. Her support for nuclear programs would extend to breeder reactors, provided a safe and viable means of handling nuclear wastes is developed, she said.

Rather than raise interest rates to curb inflation, Bilyeu said she would support requiring larger down payments for loans. Besides keeping interest rates low, that approach would encourage savings.

Bilyeu said she would also support eliminating taxes on interest on savings accounts to provide another savings incentive.

District court judge orders man to pay grandmother; appeal likely

TWIN FALLS — A 27-year-old Twin Falls man has been ordered by 5th District Court to pay his grandmother $24,543.33, including punitive damages of $6,133.33.

The judgment was handed down Friday by District Judge Theron W. Ward against George Leonard, currently unemployed.

Judge Ward issued the findings of fact and conclusions of law in the case of Leta V. Erhardt versus her grandson, George Robert Leonard.

The defendant is the son of County Commissioner Merl E. Leonard, and the plaintiff is the commissioner's mother.

Judge Ward's findings show the defendant appropriated funds from a joint passbook savings account which his grandmother opened in 1967 with him as co-signer. When opened the account contained $5,000, and another $5,000 was added in 1971 by the grandmother.

The defendant, who was 15 years of age when the account was opened, the testimony shows, obtained the passbook through his father, who had been given power of attorney for the plaintiff in 1972 after she suffered a broken hip.

Judge Ward said the defendant withdrew the funds from the account and placed them in a new account in his name on Hill Laker. In October of 1978, he withdrew the money from the new account and used it for the judgment on a home.

Judge Ward said this was after the missing money had been discovered by Mrs. Erhardt's other son, Carl Leonard, and demand had been made on George Leonard for return of the money.

Ward's findings state that while Merl Leonard had power of attorney for his mother, he took money from her other savings accounts and used it to establish new accounts in his own name, the name of his wife and the name of the plaintiff, all with survivorship rights.

Judge Ward concluded the money was the plaintiff's and sole property of the grandmother and said the acts by the defendant, constitute "malicious, wanton, gross and outrageous conduct in disregard of the rights of the plaintiff" and as such justify granting of punitive damages as well as return of the money.

Ward issued a judgment in favor of the plaintiff including $18,410 to cover the amount of the account plus interest and $6,133.33 in punitive damages.

Daniel Leonard said Erhardt had no comment to make on the case because it does not involve him. He said the district court judgment will be appealed.

Ward said at the time the account was opened in 1967, the plaintiff was in excellent physical and mental condition and handling all of her own business affairs. After the 1972 injury, she named Merl Leonard as attorney-in-fact but in 1978 took this authority from him, giving it to her other son, Carl Leonard.

Idaho college bosses get 8% salary hike from board

TWIN FALLS (UPI) — State school trustees Friday approved 8 percent pay increases for college and university presidents, with University of Idaho President Richard Gibb's income jumping to $27,665.

Gibb, whose current salary is $48,724, is the highest-paid of the four presidents.

The increases take effect July 1.

Salary decisions for next year came as the Education Board closed a two-day meeting.

Other salaries approved were Boise State University President John Kessler to $40,110 from $44,491; Idaho State University President Myron Coulter to $50,356 from $46,612; and Lewis-Clark State College President Lee Vickers to $40,684 from $37,672.

Kessler also will receive a housing allowance of $7,425, unchanged from the current rate. The other presidents live in state-owned houses.

Other top administrative employees getting hikes were Milton Small, executive director of the office of the Education Board to $40,310 from $37,128; Keith Tolzin, superintendent of the State School for the Deaf and Blind, to $35,568 from $32,323; and Larry Selland, administrator of Idaho's Vocational Education Division, to $35,568 from $32,323.

Ray Turner, administrator of the Vocational Rehabilitation Division, has announced plans to resign June 30, so no salary change for his post was approved.

Canyon sheriff not given pay boost

CALDWELL (UPI) — Canyon County's top officials got raises from the commissioners Friday everyone except Sheriff George Nourse.

The commission voted to boost the annual pay of most officials by about $2,000, but they decided to keep Nourse at $18,000.

Chairman Gerald Jensen said the commission blamed Nourse for being uncooperative with his fellow county officials.

In reaction, Nourse said, "I had not asked for a raise." He declined further comment.

Nourse is running for re-election against three fellow Republicans, one of whom has been endorsed by County Prosecutor Dennis Goff.

Goff has asked a judge to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate allegations that Nourse committed perjury during the pretrial hearing of a man earlier this year. The man has since been convicted on stolen weapons charges and sentenced to 14 years in prison.

Road closure violations bring pair $25 fine

TWIN FALLS — Two persons who violated road closure orders in the Sawtooth National Forest have been fined each.

Joe Frazier, Twin Falls district ranger for the Sawtooth, said the two, Carl Cramer of Twin Falls and Ronald E. Gee of Boise, were arrested April 22 by a Twin Falls County Sheriff's deputy.

They had driven their vehicle about a mile past a road closure sign on the Indian Springs Road, Frazier said.

Frazier said the road closure was ordered in March to protect the soft roadbeds because of spring moisture and to protect motorists from becoming stuck on side roads.

Frazier said some of the road closures have been lifted in lower areas, but motorists should watch for closure signs as some are remaining in effect through May 16.

Violators are subject to a maximum fine of $500 or up to six months in jail, or both.

Frazier said persons planning to travel into the forest before June should check the local forest office to check on road closures or should watch for and observe closure signs.

KING HILL — The board of the King Hill Irrigation District seeks all interested waterusers to pick up a copy of proposed by-laws at the district office.

Office hours are from 1 to 5 p.m. There will be a meeting for waterusers to make any additions, deletions and/or corrections to the district by-laws. The by-laws are incomplete at this time, as the board is waiting for an input from a committee selected by area city lotwater users.

20-year sentence given cop-robber

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Paul F. Brooks, a policeman turned bank robber, was sentenced to 20 years in prison Friday by Federal Judge David Winder.

But Brooks was not fined, and under a special federal statute, he will be eligible for release any time the U.S. Board of Prisoners deems him worthy.

Ordinarily, Brooks would not have served eligible for parole until he had served eight years and four months of the sentence.

QUESTION...

I work for the government and will receive a Civil Service pension when I retire. My wife is covered on her job by Social Security. When either of us die will the survivor receive both a Social Security and Civil Service annuity?

ANSWER...

Your coverage under the Federal Civil Service Retirement System automatically provides for an annuity payment to your wife at the time of your death unless you request in writing that her benefits be omitted. Since this possibility is unlikely it is safe to assume your wife will have benefits from your Civil Service program as well as benefits from her own Social Security earnings.

You are not so fortunate. Your Civil Service annuity continues after your wife's death but unless you can prove at least one-half of your support came from your wife you are not entitled to Social Security widower's benefit.

76ers, Lakers resume NBA series tied up

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia 76ers are following the same formula in the NBA championship series that brought them the league's Eastern Conference title and Billy Cunningham couldn't be more pleased.

The 76ers and the Los Angeles Lakers are tied 1-1 going into today's third game of the best-of-seven series because the Sixers managed to split the first two games on the Lakers' floor to gain the home court advantage.

In the Eastern Conference finals, Philadelphia managed to split the first two games against the Celtics in Boston and breezed to victory in five games.

"It's like Boston," Sixers' coach Cunningham said following the team's practice Friday. "After losing three games here during the regular season, we went up there and won one. We lost our game out there (in Los Angeles this year) and went back and got a split."

The Lakers arrived for a pair of weekend games with a nine-game losing streak in the Spectrum dating back to 1975. They lost a 105-104 decision in their only regular season game in Philadelphia last February.

Julius Erving is conscious of the Los Angeles victory drought but he's not placing too much stock in it.

"I guess you could draw a parallel to the Boston series," said the Sixers' talented forward. "We feel good coming home. You look at the past record of Los Angeles in Philadelphia and it's not good at all and your confidence has to be boosted."

"Of course, we've never played them in a world championship playoff. You have to be impressed when they went to Seattle (in the Western Conference finals) and won two games, one after coming back from 21 points down. You've got to respect a club like that."

Los Angeles rookie Earvin "Magic" Johnson only was involved in one of those Lakers defeats in Philadelphia and isn't worried about the past.

"We'll just come right at them again," he said. "We're a good team on the road. We're going to Philly to play basketball. You can believe it."

The Sixers blew all but one point of a 23-point lead Wednesday night before defeating the Lakers, 107-104. Sixers' center Darryl Dawkins scored 25 points and guard Maurice Cheeks and Erving each added 25.

Checks, who admits he would rather pass than shoot, canned 11 of 13 shots as the Lakers double-teamed Erving.

Los Angeles Coach Paul Westhead says his team will play Erving the same way but will try to keep a closer watch on Checks.

"Our game plan is: Don't let the Doctor go wild," said Westhead. "That's still our first priority. The idea behind our plans isn't just to hold Julio to 20 points instead of 29. It's the foulwater, the guy who spurs them on."

"We were surprised by the performance of Checks in the second game. I was impressed by the way he only takes the good shot. We're going to pay a lot more attention to them in the third game."

Conversely, the Sixers will have their hands full with the Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The towering center scored 71 points in the first two games and poured in 37 in the Lakers' loss here in the regular season.

Again, 7-foot Caldwell Jones is expected to guard Abdul-Jabbar with G-11. Darryl Dawkins will guard Jim Chones. There is speculation Chones will guard Jones at the other end instead of Abdul-Jabbar since the Sixer center hurt Los Angeles with his outside shot in Game 2.

Bruins, Tigers sweep

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls girls made it a clean sweep and the boys missed by three as they both collected Fourth District A-1 track championships Friday night.

The girls won all 16 events in piling up 134 points while the boys were returned largely by Ralph Lara, who paced Minico to a near-sweep of the distances, and Burley discus thrower Brent Johnson.

When the meet was over, Twin Falls had 18 boys and 18 girls qualified for next week's state finals in Boise.

The only upset in the boys division came when high-jumper Ken Stagemyer stepped on the track for the first time in his career and won the 400-meter dash by an eyelash over sophomore teammate Steve Galley.

The victory, coupled with a third straight district high jump title, accomplished at 62 during a rainstorm, made Stagemyer a double winner.

"I know now why they call this race a killer," Stagemyer said after running his first competitive race in four years.

He had light off a late charge by the chagrined Galley, who almost pulled it out by making up two yards in the closing steps and lunging across. "I just didn't run the first part fast enough," said Galley, who obviously was flustered by his strategy.

Stagemyer said he was "kinda surprised by the victory but noted that in what few workouts I've had, I felt I always ran within a couple tenths of Steve."

Despite this sudden blooming of a quartermiler, Coach Jerry Klunkopf said he doubted it would play any part in plans for next week.

"Ken simply hasn't done any running and he doesn't have a conditioning base for us to expect him to run two quarters in a day if you're thinking about putting him in the mile relay or someplace like that," the coach said. "His high jumping at state will be done before he'll even have to run a preliminary quarter and that's the only reason we even considered letting him run today. He'll go in the open quarter at state and everything else will remain the same."

Sprinter Mark Libert, and hurdler Joe Stansell joined Stagemyer and Lara in the double-winners circle. Libert posted a solid 10.9 in winning the 100-meter dash and added a 22.5 in the furlong. Stansell was up a little in both his specialties, 15.2 in the high and 40.2 in the low, but in both cases ran largely untested.

The name Libert showed up as a double winner in the girls division as Mark's sophomore sister Diane won the quarter in a good 59.5, her fourth straight sub-60-second effort there.

She was trepidulous about the time Friday, however, saying "it felt slow." But she ran alone and related. She also outwitted teammate Ginger Proctor to win the 200-meter dash. Proctor picked up the 100.

Hurdler Karen Harr hit 15.9 in the high and a personal best 47.8 in the intermediates for two blue ribbons and Brun Lauric Kulken wrapped up her usual double by taking the shotput at 39.10, again in a driving rainstorm.

Cindy Crow sprinted past sophomore Julie Yergensen for the mile title, reversing Thursday's 3300-meter finish and sophomore sister Tammy Crow hit a personal best of 2:22.7.

Tom Watson takes two-shot lead into today's action.

Watson leads by two

DALLAS (UPI) — Tom Watson, seeking his third straight four-victory and his fifth of the year, held a 130-yard shot for an eagle Friday en route to a 6-under-par 64 and a two-shot lead in the opening round of the rain-delayed Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

Watson, low-time defender Nelson, who completed the first round on the 18-hole Preston Trail Golf Club course on a mild, sunny afternoon and after seven holes of play he was 2-under-par.

Then, at the par-4 17th, his creek hole, Watson lifted his second shot over a creek in front of the green and watched as the ball sailed three feet past the pin and drew back into the cup.

"Anytime you make an eagle it takes the pressure off for the rest of the round," said Watson. "An eagle is like a gift. It's like someone comes up and gives you two shots."

Tied for second at 4-under 66 after the opening round were chunky George Cade, who has labored for eight years on the tour without remarkable success, and Curtis Strange, winner of last week's Houston Open.

The group at 3-under 67 included Mike Brannan, Ron Sirech, George Burns and Australian Bob Shearer, who put together his best round of the year over the 6,993-yard Preston Trail course.

Jack Nicklaus, without a PGA tour triumph for almost two years, was 2-over at one point in his round but finally had to settle for an even-par 70 while Lee Trevino, runner-up at the last two tour stops, was at 72.

Watson came into the tournament having already won $246,000 this year. A third straight win in the Nelson would not only put him over the $300,000 mark but would push him toward a goal that barely eluded him a year ago — becoming the first person ever to win $500,000 in a single year on the PGA circuit.

Easily the game's dominant figure over the past three years, Watson won the San Diego and Los Angeles stops on the tour early in the season and then added victories in the Tournament of Champions and the New Orleans Open, the last two tournaments in which he was entered.

"I turned a 69 into a 64 with that eagle and a couple of long putts," said Watson. "I was hitting the ball fairly well, but I think it was obvious my short game is in good shape."

"Actually, I didn't have a good lie when I hit the (eagle) shot at the 17th. It was on bare dirt and I had about 130 yards to go into the wind. So I hit about a three-quarter eight iron and it covered the pin all the way."

In addition to the eagle, Watson made a 65-foot putt at the par-3 fourth hole and a 30-footer at the par-4 12th.

"Just to show you how my round went," said Watson, "that 30 footer was hit much too hard. It just hit the back of the hole and went right in."

McEnroe, Gerulaitis survive

NEW YORK (UPI) — John McEnroe and Vitas Gerulaitis, the only two seeded players to survive, scored straight set victories Friday night to gain and retain spots in the $200,000 Tournament of Champions.

McEnroe, the No. 1 seed, who has yet to lose more than three games in a match, breezed past Brian Teacher 6-1, 6-2, and Gerulaitis, the third seed, rallied from a 5-3 deficit in the second set to beat Balazs Taroczy of Hungary 6-4, 7-6.

Gerulaitis won the tie-breaker 7-4, marking the fourth time in three matches he has come out on top in a tie-breaker.

Joining them in the semifinals are Vijay Amritraj of India and Raul Ramirez of Mexico, two former high-ranking players who are making new commitments to tennis at the age of 25.

Amritraj, a day after knocking out second seed Jimmy Connors, surprised fifth seed Victor Pecci of Paraguay 6-3, 7-6, winning the tie-breaker 7-5, and Ramirez, who had victimized fourth seed Eddie Dibbs on Thursday, ousted Poland's Wojtek Fibak 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Gerulaitis meets Amritraj in the first semifinal today, followed by McEnroe against Ramirez, setting up the possibility of a rematch in Sunday's final between McEnroe and Gerulaitis, who met for the U.S. Open Championship last September just a few miles from here.

McEnroe had little difficulty with Teacher, winning seven games in a row from 1-1 in the opening set and required only 1-11 for the victory.

"I've been playing pretty well," McEnroe said. "I feel pretty comfortable on the clay. I played in the finals at Dallas last Sunday and I hit for an hour on the clay Monday so I didn't have much chance to prepare, but I can't complain about the way I'm playing."

There were six consecutive service breaks at one point in the Gerulaitis match and four more in another. Gerulaitis, trailing 5-2 in the second set, won four consecutive games before Taroczy, celebrating his 26th birthday, held service in the 12th game to force the tie-breaker.

Reds clip Phillies

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Sam Mejias tripled with the bases loaded in the fifth inning and Charlie Leibrandt scattered seven hits Friday night, lifting the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mejias' opposite-field triple came off loser Randy Lerch, 0-4, and followed a single by Johnny Bench and scored on Bob Boone's double.

The Phillies scored their other run on Bench's sacrifice fly in the first and Ken Griffey's RBI single in the second inning.

Leibrandt, 3-2, walked three and struck out one in pitching his second complete game.

The Phillies jumped ahead in the first inning when Pete Rose walked, moved to second on a fielder's choice and scored on Bob Boone's double. The Phillies scored their other run in the seventh on pinch-hitter Lonnie Smith's double, an infield out and Bake McBride's infield hit.

winner Larry McWilliams, 2-2, the Braves scored three runs in the first to take a 3-1 lead. Atlanta touched scattered and loser Ken Forsch, 4-1, for back-to-back run-scoring singles by Chris Chambliss and Jeff Burroughs and Chambliss scored when Asselstine reached on an error by first baseman Jeff Leonard.

Giants 6, Cubs 3

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jack Clark drove in three runs and last-minute starter Vida Blue scattered 11 hits Friday to help the San Francisco Giants snap a four-game losing streak with a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Blue, 3-2, replaced John Montefusco, who came down with a sore throat prior to the game.

Jim Wolfson's first National League home leading off the second inning tied the game 1-1 after the Cubs scored in the first on an RBI single by Mike Vail.

Mets 2, Expos 1

MONTREAL (UPI) — Steve Henderson angled in the tie-breaking run in the fifth inning Friday and Craig Swan pitched a three-hitter for his first complete game of the season, lifting the New York Mets to a 2-1 rain-delayed victory over the Montreal Expos.

Swan, now 2-2, walked none and struck out seven — including all three batters in the ninth inning — and never had more than one man on base in any inning. He gave up only three singles.

Braves 5, Astros 4

ATLANTA (UPI) — Brian Asselstine knocked in three runs, including a pair with a homer, Friday night to offset four home runs by the usually light-hitting Houston Astros and spark the Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 triumph.

Terry Puhl hit a pair of homers and Joe Morgan and Rafael Landestoy had one each for the Astros, but Asselstine's two-run homer in the sixth inning proved to be the margin of victory.

Puhl smacked a lead-off homer in the first off starter and

Zisk lifts Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Richie Zisk's second home run of the game in the 11th inning Friday night lifted the Texas Rangers to a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Zisk hit runner Mike Prol's second pitch of the inning to help Texas snap an eight-game losing streak against the White Sox.

Jim Kern 2-3, picked up the victory in relief of Sparky Lyle and Ferguson Jenkins.

The White Sox scored in the first inning when Bob Molinaro hit Jenkins' second pitch of the game for his second home run of the season, but Texas got the run back in the second on Zisk's first home run of the game.

Ross Baumgarten started for the White Sox and went seven innings, allowing only four hits before being relieved by Prol.

Yankees 5, Twins 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Watson drove in five runs with a homer and a double Friday night, helping the New York Yankees extend their winning streak to six games with a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Watson's homer, his third, came in the first inning off loser Jerry Kosman, 2-3, following a leadoff single by Willie Randolph and an error by Kosman on Ruppert Jones' sacrifice bunt attempt.

Watson doubled in two insurance runs in the eighth off reliever John Verhoeven.

Ron Guldry, 2-0, went 2-3 innings and struck out a season-high eight batters in registering the victory.

Guldry blanks the Twins

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ron Guldry blanked the Twins on seven hits over the first eight innings but lost his bid for a shutout and his first complete game of the season in the ninth inning when Willie Norwood hit a two-run homer. Rich Kosman pitched the final out.

The Twins had Guldry in trouble in the first inning when they loaded the bases with two out, but Guldry struck out Pete Mackanin to end the threat.

Friday night to pace the Kansas City Royals to a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

With the score tied 1-1 in the top of the third, Ernie White led off with a single and moved to second on a walk to U.L. Washington. Two outs later, Brett drilled a triple off the center-field wall off loser Bob Stanley, 2-3.

The Royals added a run in the fifth on a sacrifice by Darrell Porter. In the sixth, Wilson drove in the first run with an RBI single and with first base open Stanley intentionally walked Hal McRae to get to Brett. The move backed when reliever Tom Burgmeier walked Brett on four pitches, giving Kansas City a 6-2 lead.

The Red Sox rallied for three runs in the seventh off winner Dennis Leonard, 2-3.

Phillies 5, Braves 2

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Steve Carlton pitched a complete game Friday night to pace the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-2 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Carlton, 11-10, struck out seven and walked none in a complete game that lasted 10 1/2 innings.

The Braves scored twice in the first inning on a pair of homers by Terry Puhl and a single by Joe Morgan.

Tigers, Bruins capture district A-1, A-2 track victories was an absolutely devastated but happy dad, having broken all kinds of personal, school and state precedents in qualifying to run in the state two-mile on qualifying time.

Friday, again abetted by teammates Gerry Leininger and Robin Mein, he went for qualifying time in the mile, a 4:33.3. Thursday his opening half of the two-mile effort was 4:40 and that was his second best in the mile.

But it wasn't to be Friday as the Tiger threesome burned around the oval. Leininger won in 4:34 with Mein at 4:35.8. McKean was given a 4:38, missing the qualifying standard by a half second. Still, it might also be the first time any Idaho school had three milers at 4:36 or better in one race just as their three 9:50s or better Thursday set a precedent.

Buhl came up with an usual sweep, taking all of the field events headed by Bob Ekruht with two weight wins and a high and long jump sweep by junior Brian Rod.

"It's the first time we've ever had a field event sweep," said Coach Hank Savage. "But it's the first time we didn't win a relay in district, too."

Tiger Randy Larsen took the high hurdles and 200-meter dash but was nipped by a yard by teammate Armando Lopez in the Intermediates in trying for a three-bagger. Leininger grabbed both distance titles.

Dennis Baxter of Buhl pulled down the stretch to repeat for the third time in the halfmile and earn the chance to get back the state halfmile crown he won as a sophomore but couldn't hold last year.

"All my aalgies flared up and I couldn't breathe" on the backstretch," he said of a time during the race when the field appeared moving up on him. "But up there (on the final curve) it (breathing) got easier and I was able to bring it in."

In the girls division, Karen Sobotka plucked both sprint titles easily to join with Hellwig and Robin McDevitt as double winners.

Buhl appeared some strong-looking freshmen in going one-two in the quartermile and winning the mile relay, the latter preventing Jerome from sweeping the batons.

Toronto: Going from the bottom to the top

ANAHEIM, Calif. — When a truly awful baseball team, the Toronto Blue Jays, wakes up in first place on a blustery May morn., the reaction of the typical fan is to murmur, "How nice."

This, of course, is wrong. Nothing is crueller in a cruelly Hellike sport than the way baseball nurtures ridiculous hopes each spring and plays on the most basic of human frailties—the capacity for self-delusion.

The Blue Jays, who, over the three previous years of their existence, have established themselves as the worst team in the 80-year history of the American League, are only the most recent victim.

Perhaps only those whose young lives were marked by the pernicious influence of publishing-league standings before the Fourth of July.

To wit, the Blue Jays this season have a chance to tie the

Comment

Washington Senators of 1961-1964 as the only AL club ever to lose 100 games in four straight seasons.

Even those expansion Nats, however, could not approach the ineptness of the Jays, whose losing percentage through their short but miserable history has been .343 (186 won, 318 lost). For comparison, only one Senator team from 1910 through '71 (the '49 Nats) ever had a percentage that bad.

Now, however, the Blue Jays are in first place and, by some inexplicable baseball code, they are compelled to make jest of themselves by talking about winning the pennant.

"I'd say we've improved about a million percent," said third baseman Roy Howell.

"We have a different hero every day," said pitcher Dave Lerner. "That's how you win pennants."

"Our spirit is totally different," said John Mabry.

"We've worked on fundamentals all spring," said Rick Bosetti. "We're making all the routine plays."

Heaven help this team that had the worst pitching in baseball last year, and wouldn't know a fundamental if it fell on one. It's falling for the oldest, saddest gag in baseball: that you can transform yourself overnight.

"The last two years, we were 4-24 against Milwaukee. This year, we've beaten them five straight, and we beat 'em good, too," said Bosetti. "That was sweet."

Tuesday night here, the Blue Jays beat the defending AL West champion California Angels, 3-2, in a game typical of their season. That is to say, they played with World Series spirit and intensity and won a game in which they ought to have been obliterated.

At one point, three consecutive Angels tagged balls, but the left-fielder pulled one out of the seats, the center-fielder caught one at the top of the wall and the right-fielder snugged one in the gap with a lunging catch.

In the seventh inning, Howell, so stuck with the flu that he couldn't start, pinch-hit a two-run homer that proved to be the game-winner.

In the eighth, the Angels loaded the bases for MVP Don Baylor against reliever Joey McLaughlin. Baylor hit into a DP.

In the ninth, McLaughlin walked the bases full, courting disaster. In came lefty Jerry Garvin, career record 14-31. But the Angels, through miscalculation, were left with only two southpaw hitters. So, Garvin got the save.

Had the Pittsburgh Pirates won such a game, they would have looked themselves in the eye and said, "We lucked out."

The Blue Jays, to a man, thought they had won a textbook game.

Indy 500 Favorites set for trial runs

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Former Indy winners—Johnny Rutherford, Mario Andretti, Bobby Unser and Rick Mears—are favorites to take the pole position in today's time trials for the 64th running of the Indianapolis 500.

Rutherford was considered a favorite when practice opened May 3, and was on top of the practice session speed list almost from his first run. The Texas driver was clocked at 192.472 miles per hour Monday, the best of a handful-of-times-over-the-190-plus mark week.

No one expected qualifying times to approach the record 192.158 mph for four laps turned in by Tom Sneva in 1978 when the turbocharger boost was unlimited.

Desires Rutherford's speed, other drivers to clock over 190 mph in practice were Mario Andretti (190.890), Bobby Unser (190.024) and Tom Bagley (190.000). Defending champion and last year's pole-sitter Rick Mears was clocked at 189.713 mph during the first practice week.

Speedway's Spike Gehlhausen was a prospect for the first row of the starting line-up for 192 laps in the 180 mph area during practice.

Among the huge rookie class which entered the race, Tim Richmond could be the highest qualifier. Richmond turned a number-of-laps over 185 mph—his fastest at 188.482.

Qualifying was scheduled to begin at noon EDT and continue to 7 p.m. EDT. A drawing was held Friday night to determine the order in which cars can attempt qualifying runs. Speedway rules state each car has one opportunity to be a "first-day" qualifier, no matter how long it takes to get through the list once.

If a car misses its turn in order the first time through the list, that car is not eligible for the pole position. The car also loses out on the pole spot if the driver waves off his run after making a practice lap.

Qualifying consists of a four-lap, 10-mile attempt, but the driver can disallow the run if he isn't satisfied with the speed. A car is allowed three qualifying attempts.

Once a 33-car field it completed, the slowest car is "bumped" from the field, no matter what time it was qualified. If another car qualifies at a faster speed. The new qualifier is placed at position No. 33, the slowest car is taken out of the field and all Indianapolis has been blessed with beautiful May weather this year, and Saturday's forecast was for partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 70s.

Time trials continue Sunday and next weekend.

Welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard has signed new pact to fight Roberto Duran

Sugar Ray Leonard to get $5 million for title defense

MONTREAL (UPI) — World Boxing Council welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard will receive an estimated $5 million for his June 20 title defense against No. 1 contender Roberto Duran, the live gate promoters of the fight announced Friday.

The Olympic installations board, live gate promoters along with Top Rank Inc. and Don King Productions, confirmed that the fight will be held at the Olympic Stadium in Montreal before an anticipated crowd of 75,000, with ringside seats sold for $500 each.

Robert Nelson, president of the OIB, also confirmed that Leonard, an Olympic gold medalist at 1976 Summer Games in Montreal, will walk away with a purse of $5 million, although it is not exactly known how much he will actually pocket after taxes.

Duran, who will be 29 four days before the fight, will earn $1.5 million after taxes.

Leonard, already regarded as one of the most devastating punchers in the history of boxing, won the welterweight championship in Las Vegas on Nov. 30, knocking out Davey Green of Britain. The flashy, hard hitting champion is undefeated in 27 pro fights with 17 of those victories by knockout.

"I am happy to return to this city," said Leonard.

"and to be a part of one of the biggest fights in history. I am certainly not going to take Duran lightly because pound for pound he is the best fighter available for me to box. I am in superb condition and I'm sure Duran will be in great shape. It's going to be a dynamite fight."

Duran, the former lightweight champion from Panama, has an incredible 68-1 record. He avenged his only loss, a 10-round decision to Esteban de Jesus early in his career, by stopping de Jesus twice. Duran, known as "Stone Hands" for his tremendous punching power, is undefeated in six fights since moving up to the welterweight classification. Duran, who has compiled 55 career knockouts, stopped Wellington Wheatley in his last outing.

Duran, speaking through his translator, warned boxing fans that the date June 20 will become a memorable one.

"I don't talk too much," he said. "My business is fighting. But I think this is the first time that Leonard will really have to fight."

The World Boxing Association welterweight champ is Plinio Cuevas of Mexico and the winner of the Leonard-Duran bout may meet Cuevas for the undisputed world title.

Leonard said he planned to return to New York to train and would not begin training in Montreal until two weeks before the fight.

Olympics

Carter seeks more funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Friday asked Congress to provide a maximum federal contribution of $10 million to the U.S. Olympic Committee, despite the fact the nation is boycotting the summer Olympics in Moscow.

The proposal, designed to help the USOC launch a major fund-raising drive to support possible alternative games, suggests an appropriation of $1 for every $2 the committee can raise from non-federal sources.

"The maximum federal contribution is $10 million," Carter said in his proposed amendment to the 1980 budget — $6 million more than he originally asked.

He said the federal money will enable the committee, unable to raise funds in recent months because of the proposed boycott, to support alternative competitors for Olympic athletes and strengthen programs for amateur athletes.

The committee voted April 12 to uphold Carter's request for U.S. boycott of the Moscow Olympics.

Carter called for the boycott after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, and has been urging other nations to join the U.S. action.

Pakistan announces boycott

LAHORE, Pakistan (UPI) — Pakistan will boycott the Moscow Olympics in protest against the Soviet military intervention in neighboring Afghanistan, the nation's Olympic officials said Friday.

The decision was made unanimously by the Pakistan Olympic Association at a meeting in Lahore, headed by POA president Syed Waheed Ali, who is also a member of the International Olympic Committee.

He told a news conference the move was independent of government pressure, and that if there were changes in the situation along Afghanistan's border with Pakistan the committee would reconsider its decision.

The government claims some 700,000 Afghan refugees have fled their homeland and sought shelter in Pakistan, seriously straining the country's resources.

N. Zealand athletes say yes

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — The New Zealand government said today it would not interfere with sportsmen competing in the Moscow Olympics but the athletes "will have to live with the responsibilities of their decision."

Prime Minister Robert Muldoon made the statement after the New Zealand Olympic and Commonwealth Games Association voted 12-5 to attend the games.

Muldoon said the government respected the right of sports bodies to make their own policies even though the government was against participation in the games.

"I have made known my own view that it is distinctly possible that the presence of New Zealand sportsmen and women at the Moscow Games will be exploited by the Soviet Union for political purposes without regard for the beliefs of the athletes concerned," said Muldoon. "The athletes whose national bodies have exercised the freedom of choosing to go to Moscow will have to live with the responsibilities of their decision."

West Germans reaffirm vote

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — The executive body of the West German National Olympic Committee Friday recommended the NOC membership to vote for a boycott of the Moscow Olympic games.

After five hours of discussion, the 20-man executive voted 12-7 for a boycott, with one abstention.

The NOC membership, made up of 23 Olympic sports federations headed by three voters each and 31 individual voting representatives, is meeting May 15 to give the final word on an expected West German boycott.

The Bonn government and parliament have urged the NOC to boycott the Games in protest the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

U.S. squad beats Swedes in Nations Cup tennis

DIUESSELDORF, West Germany (UPI) — The United States beat Sweden 2-1 in the first round of the Nations Cup tennis tournament. Friday and Spain defeated defending champion Australia.

Four-time Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg gave Sweden its only win with a 6-3, 7-5 decision over Gene Mayer.

Harold Solomon had no problems with Borg's teammate Kjell

Johansson, conceding only two games for a 6-1, 6-0 win. Mayer and Sherwood Steward then trounced Borg and Ove Bengtsson 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 in doubles.

Both teams have already qualified for the semifinals in the $400,000 tournament.

Spain, 1978 Cup winner, beat Australia 2-1 after Manuel Orantes stopped Rod Frawley and then teamed with Jose Higueras to defeat John Alexander and Phil Dent.

Genuine Risk will race in Preakness

NEW YORK (UPI) — This time, the believers will outnumber the skeptics. Friday, trainer Leroy Jolley announced owners Bertram and Diana Firestone were shipping their Kentucky Derby-winning filly, Genuine Risk, to Baltimore to compete in the May 17 Preakness, the second leg of the Triple Crown.

"As the ships well and continues to feel good, we're going," said Jolley at his barn Friday morning.

"She galloped well the past couple of days and, in fact, she came out of the Derby in better shape than she did her last two races. She is full of life."

The sleek chestnut daughter of Exclusive Native will face fewer opponents, perhaps only four, in the 3-1/8 mile race at Pimlico. But, as in the Derby, history won't be on her side. In winning the Derby, Genuine Risk, under Jacinto Vasquez, joined Regret (1915) as the only filly ever to win the 1 1/4 mile spring classic.

Only four fillies have ever won the Preakness — Plocarine (1903), Whimsical (1906), Rhine Maiden (1916) and Galic Wicks (1924) — and the filly ever to enter was Ciencia, who finished last in a field of six in 1929.

Codex, who ran three tremendous races in California including victories in the Hollywood and Santa Anita Derbies, is the early choice at 2-1 over Genuine Risk, set at 3-1 on the early line. Also pointing towards the Preakness are Jaklin Klugman, third behind Genuine Risk in the Derby, as well as Colonel Moran and Temperance Hill, both of whom are entered in the Withers mile at Aqueduct Saturday.

Other possible starters include Maryland colts Sunbowed and Blue Ensign and an undefeated Mexican colt, Pikotazo.

However, the two Derby favorites Rockhill Native (5th) and Plugged Nickle (7th) were withdrawn following injuries suffered during the Run for the Roses as was fourth-place finisher Super Moment. Rumba, second in the Derby, will skip the Preakness and aim for the June 7 Belmont Stakes in New York.

Jolley, who won the Derby in 1975 with Foolish Pleasure but has never won the Preakness, says he will follow the same schedule for Genuine Risk leading up to the Preakness as he did for the 1 1/4 mile Derby.

"We'll ship on Saturday, then gallop on Monday and Tuesday," said Jolley. "Wednesday she'll have an easy 5-8 mile blowout, walk Thursday, gallop Friday and walk again Saturday morning."

A surprise gourmet meal for Lasorda

By United Press International

Tommy Lasorda, the rotund Italian who manages the Los Angeles Dodgers, was treated to a surprise gourmet spread in the clubhouse prior to Friday night's game against St. Louis.

Euddy Bates, the attendant in charge of the visitors' clubhouse, sprung for the meal after Lasorda made derogatory comments about the quality of food supplied by St. Louis in a rating of National League handouts.

"He rated us third lowest in the league," Bates said. "I was insulted, wouldn't you be?"

Lasorda walked into the clubhouse to find a small table, complete with red-and-white checkered tablecloth and candlelight, set up amid the lockers.

While the Los Angeles players guffawed a young man delivered a singing telegram in which he explained the food was "a gift from all your friends, to make you feel ridiculous in front of everyone here."

Lasorda didn't seem too embarrassed, though, as he dug into a chef salad with Rossini's house dressing, a plate of antipasto, a dish of spaghetti with meat sauce, and a large helping of veal scaloppine, all washed down with a split of red table wine.

"This is great," gushed Lasorda. "Ce magnifique!"

RALPH RACINE, who lapsed into a coma after his Canadian lightweight title fight with Gaetan Hart, responded to stimulus Friday but remained in what doctors termed a "deep sleep."

"Mr. Racine is in stable condition but still in intensive care and he has not regained consciousness," Malmontev Hospital reported in a brief press release Friday.

Father Cajetan Menke, a Catholic priest acting as a spokesman for the Racine family, said, however, that doctors were "guardedly optimistic" and had stopped referring to Racine as unconscious.

MARK FIDRYCH's hopes of being a major-league pitcher may be over.

Fidrych, who won American League Rookie of the Year honors following his 19-9 record in 1978, met Friday with Detroit President and General Manager Jim Campbell at the team's Evansville, Ind., farm club.

THE MOTHER of a 17-year-old girl at Carnation, Wash, speared in the thigh by a javelin during a high school track meet says, despite the risk, she would not like to see the event phased out of competitive sports.

MONTREAL COACH Claude Ruel has signed a one-year contract to coach the Canadiens in the 1980-81 season.

Terms of the agreement, announced Thursday, were not disclosed.

A NEW ZEALANDER who averaged 8.5 points a game at Arizona's Yavapai College last year has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball at Boise State during the 1980-81 season.

John Van Uden, a 6-7, 210-pound former member of the New Zealand national team, is "a fine all-around athlete who could play any front-line position for us," said Boise State coach Dave Leach.

FREE AGENT wide receiver Golden Richards Thursday signed a contract with the Denver Broncos, who hope to rejuvenate one of the NFL's most luckless offenses.

Richards, a seven-year veteran and second-round draft pick of the Chicago Bears in 1972, was waived by the Chicago Bears three weeks ago.

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Standard bidding customs

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

When you open the bidding, your aim is to get to a slam, game or safe part-score contract. You are starting to exchange information, and your first requirement for a normal opening bid is that you hold over 10 high-card points. When you compete against an adverse opening bid you do so for one of three reasons:

1. You want to start a campaign leading to a slam, game or part score of your own.
2. You want to indicate the limit of defense against an anticipated adverse contract.
3. You want to crowd the bidding and make it hard for your opponents to reach their best final contract.

There are three ways to compete against the opening bidding. The most frequent way is to use a simple overcall to get into action. When you overcall you need some high-card strength. We suggest a minimum of seven H.C.P. It is far more important that you have a good suit. You need at least a five-card suit for a one-level overcall and really need at least six if you have to go to the two level. The second way is the takeout double. This double asks your partner to bid and definitely is not for penalties. It is usually an attacking measure to show preparation for anything your partner may bid and the high-card equivalent of an opening bid. The fewer cards you have in your opponent's bid suit the more desirable the takeout double. The third way is the bid of one notrump. It usually shows the equivalent of a standard opening notrump with at least one stopper in the opponent's suit. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

THE EXCITING NEW VW JETTA

IT GOES LIKE BMW 320i AND HAS TRUNK SPACE TO MATCH THE BIG MERCEDES.

Compare Jetta's modern styling and elegant good looks. Compare its outstanding performance and EPA estimated 27 city, 40 hwy, 30 mpg. Compare these estimates to the "best-in-class" of other cars. Manage wisely with speed, weather and to suit. Actual highway mileage will vary.

Compare its numerous interior appointments including an AM/FM stereo and cassette player all in one change. Then stop and compare the price. You'll know why.
