

Budget battle builds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Friday opened the way for a bloody battle over government spending by refusing to reduce state revenue sharing payments by $572 million.

Proponents of the plan would use the money to cut the federal deficit.

Amid cries of budget-busting from some leading liberals, a coalition of conservatives and nervous Democrats rejected a recommendation that fiscal 1980 spending targets be achieved by reducing the scheduled July 1 revenue sharing payments to the states.

Rejection of the Senate Appropriations Committee formula came on a 53-36 vote sustaining a point of order by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., that the appropriations panel acted improperly in reducing the revenue sharing payments by $572 million.

Weicker and his supporters argued

Congress had made a financial commitment to the states and was obligated to stand by the debt. But critics objected to subsidizing the states, most of which have substantial budget surpluses when the federal government needs the money to overcome a deficit.

Idaho Sen. McClure said there are other areas of fat in the nearly $16 billion appropriation that could be cut without resting on a commitment already made to the states.

"It is hard to see how those who oppose revenue sharing can argue it is a budget busting proposition, when the bill contains an appropriation of $8 billion for foreign aid," McClure said.

"We have merely said our own people ought to have some priority."

He said the argument revenue sharing should be cut because some states have money surpluses "is pure hogwash."

"The point is they have surpluses because their laws and constitutions require them to have balanced budgets, and we shouldn't penalize them for that," McClure said. "And if they want to give some tax relief to their citizens I say 'more power to them.' After all, the money comes from the same place, that is the taxpayers and our nation's taxpayers deserve a break."

The action came as the Senate continued work on a $15.9 billion supplemental appropriation to finance government agencies and programs that need extra money to make it through this fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

By eliminating the proposed revenue sharing cuts, the Senate must pare $572 million from other government programs covered by the bill or exceed its own spending targets for fiscal 1980.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, accused the Senate of voting to bust the budget, and charged that conservative senators, who have been the vocal advocates of a balanced budget, showed their true colors when the roll was called.

"Let's not kid ourselves," Metzenbaum said. "This is a vote to bust the budget. The very people who are the best speakers in the Senate about the need to balance the budget and make the most noise about it just voted to bust the budget."

Holding up a tally of the Senate's vote, Metzenbaum said, "It looks like the roll call of the most conservative members of the United States Senate."

Revenue sharing loss would force cutbacks

Loss of revenue sharing would not have a disastrous effect on the city of Twin Falls, according to Gary Young of the City Manager's office, but would "eliminate a lot of programs."

City budget projections anticipate receipt of $320,000 in federal revenue sharing funds this year. Adding funds carried over from last year, the city expects to spend $435,000 of the federal money this year.

Young said the money is used to fund both "one shot" and continuing programs, but primarily is used for capital improvement projects which could be deferred if the funding were eliminated.

"Last year we used the money for the Washington Street improvements, the senior citizens and the city band."

Funds received this year are scheduled to be used for city beautification, a solid waste study, bike routes, purchase of a breath analyzer for police and other projects.

Young said one of the largest expenditures of the money is $100,000 for computer equipment and $50,000 for consolidation of city communication equipment.

Some city personnel are paid from the funds, but use of revenue sharing for that purpose has been significantly curtailed, he added.

8 die as Texas sweats out record heat wave

By United Press International

The Dallas-Fort Worth area stewed through a fourth straight day of the hottest weather in history Friday.

The death toll soared to eight and hospitals were jammed with victims struck down by the sun and heat.

The weather took its toll elsewhere in the nation as high winds toppled trees on two young brothers' campsite in Montana and a man sleeping in a tent in Idaho.

"We've had five heat strokes since 7 this morning, and all of them are serious," said a nurse at Parkland Hospital in Dallas. "The body temperatures of a few of the patients were higher than 108."

Their air conditioner broken, 72-year-old David Michaelson and his 86-year-old sister, Sadie, went to sleep to try to forget about the heat. They were found dead in their beds. The temperature in their Dallas house had exceeded 110 degrees.

Clyde Milligan ignored the record heat wave scorching Texas and kept his air conditioner switched off, intent on saving energy and whatever he could of his $300-a-month Social Security income. The 79-year-old retiree died of heat stroke.

All the deaths were in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, gripped by a straight days of unbearable heat. Thursday's 113-degree reading at Fort Worth was matched Friday, the highest temperature in the history of the Dallas-Fort Worth region.

City authorities opened three air-conditioned relief

Cheryl Berson of Dallas kept her cool by hiding in a pool as the thermometer hit 113 centers Friday afternoon. Forecasters said temperatures would likely remain over 100 through the weekend.

"If we don't get a break in this, we'll have another year like 1978," said a Dallas medical examiner. In that year, 21 died from heat stroke. "We need a snowstorm."

The afternoon high for Texas was in Wichita Falls, which registered 116 degrees at 4 p.m. But Galveston residents enjoyed a cool 88 degrees.

In Island Park, Idaho, Lincoln J. Zollinger, 50, Mackay, was crushed to death by a wind-limbed tree which fell on the tent where he was sleeping.

Authorities said Lincoln J. Zollinger, 50, was cutting poles at Island Park with his wife, BarDonna, one of his seven children and some friends.

After the group returned to their camp in Stamp Meadows, Zollinger retired to a tent for the evening. About 8:30 p.m., high winds blew a tree over onto the tent in which Zollinger was sleeping, crushing him.

Zollinger's wife took him to Island Park Lodge where they were met about 10 p.m. by Fremont County Sheriff's deputies and a quick response unit. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Fremont General Hospital, authorities said.

In Montana, Scott Bluff, 11, and his brother Ross, 8, of Bozeman, were camping with two friends in Hyalite Canyon, south of Bozeman, Thursday night when the winds clocked at 80 mph sent a dead pine crashing into their tent. The other two boys were hospitalized.

In Texas, heat-induced power outages and water shortages led to the discomfort of residents.

In Garland, a Dallas suburb, a power outage left residents with little to combat the heat.

"We tried bringing it back up a step at a time, but the load was so great it kept overloading," said city manager Fred Greene.

With little fanfare, Carter quietly signs legislation requiring registration for The Draft

Chip off the old block

Mike Hansen, 7, found his summer vacation wasn't all play as he carried bricks his father, Chris Hansen of Twin Falls, had cleaned. Hansen and his son were helping salvage almost 50,000 bricks from the building at 152 Railroad Ave. The building was constructed about 1908 and had housed such businesses as the Sterling Creamery and the Shell Oil Company.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Friday signed the draft-registration bill, meaning 4 million 19 and 20-year-old men will be required to sign up at local post-offices next month or face possible penalties.

Carter had asked that registration be required for both men and women, but Congress approved only registration of males and allotted $13.3 million for the process.

The American Civil Liberties Union already has filed suit in federal court challenging the registration as sex discrimination.

The measure stirred considerable turmoil during the six months it has been debated on Capitol Hill. Carter called for resumption of registration following the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Selective Service officials said 19-year-olds will have to register at local post offices starting the week of July 21, and 20-year-olds must register the week that starts July 28.

Failure to register is a felony and carries maximum penalties of a $10,000 fine and five-year imprisonment.

The president's approval came with unexpected speed and with no attention drawn to it by the White House.

A two-line statement was issued Friday afternoon that merely stated Carter signed a House resolution "which provides for a transfer of $13,285,000 to the Selective Service System in 1980."

Carter is resting at Camp David following his four-nation European trip that ended Thursday night.

The House gave final approval to the bill on Wednesday, by a vote of 234 to 168.

The draft ended in 1973, and Carter repeatedly said he is not advocating a return of forced enlistment. He said, however, that the invasion of Afghanistan persuaded him that the necessary apparatus should be set up.

Adm. Thomas Hayward, the Navy representative on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has called for resumption of the draft on grounds the volunteer armed services are not working well.

Last pair of pantyhose is knitted at Kellwood

TWIN FALLS — The last pair of pantyhose slipped off the assembly line at the Kellwood Co. hosiery plant this week.

Approximately 90 workers worked their last day at the Kellwood plant on Thursday, according to plant manager Charles McManaman.

About 40 workers will continue working at the plant for several months, McManaman said.

"We have quite an inventory of pantyhose to ship out," he said. In addition, most of the plant's equipment must now be disposed of.

When the company was operating at full capacity, it employed about 370 people and had an annual payroll of more than $4 million.

Over the last two months, the company has been laying off workers and preparing to close the plant permanently because of poor pantyhose sales. Kellwood is trying to sell the plant. So far, McManaman said, he's heard rumors, but when he last checked with the company, no sale had been arranged.

Laetrile testing program launched to verify claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The controversial drug Laetrile has passed preliminary safety screening and government-sponsored tests will begin Tuesday for the first time on cancer patients who have not responded to other treatments.

The National Cancer Institute announced Friday that the substance made from apricot pits and other fruit kernels will be tested at four medical centers around the country on 200 patients.

The final hurdle leading to the trial was passed when six cancer patients received Laetrile in March and April at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. Five patients had no ill effects from the drug and a sixth had problems only after eating a large number of almonds in addition to taking Laetrile.

The problem disappeared when the almonds consumption stopped. A cancer institute spokesman said almonds appear to stimulate the amount of cyanide released from Laetrile.

The government has long contended that Laetrile is worthless as a cancer fighter. But because of widespread use of the substance, the National Cancer Institute agreed two years ago to test it in humans.

Mayo is one of four medical centers to test Laetrile under NCI contract. All will start the trial at the same time. The others are the University of Arizona at Tucson, the University of California at Los Angeles and the Memorial-Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York.

Cancer patients interested in participating in the trial should call the National Cancer Information Service toll free number, 800-638-6694 in Maryland, 800-392-6690 in Alaska and Hawaii 800-638-6670. Eligible patients will be referred to one of the participating institutions.

Ronald Reagan

Reagan supports Sagebrush Rebellion, not MX

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan said Friday he supports the Sagebrush Rebellion — but has grave doubts about the President Carter's plan to deploy MX missiles in Utah and Nevada.

Reagan, who is in Salt Lake City from Houston to have dinner with Mormon Church leaders. He was also scheduled to participate in Utah's state Republican convention Saturday.

"Count me in as a rebel," Reagan said when asked about his position on the rebellion during a brief news conference on the steps of Mormon Church Administration Building.

The Sagebrush Rebellion is a move by western states to assume ownership of public lands now held by the federal government. Reagan said that under the U.S. Constitution the lands should have been turned over to states in the West when they were admitted to the Union.

"I think the federal government hanging on to this land in the proportions they have makes no sense at all," he said. "People of the states are just as capable of preserving the environment and making sensible use and disposition of the land as the government in Washington."

Reagan said he strongly supports strengthening America's defenses through development of the MX missile. But the Republican said he had "grave doubts" about Carter's proposal to "deploy the weapon in a system of 4,600 shelters spread across eastern Utah and western Nevada in a scheme to hide the missiles from the Soviets."

"It sounds very extravagant, very costly and very wasteful of a lot of territory," said Reagan. "If I have an opportunity to make a decision on that (the MX deployment mode) as a result of the election, there were sure to be a lot of study before that decision is made."

The candidate said he could understand the opposition of Utahns to the MX system. He added, "I certainly wouldn't try to cram it down their throats."

Reagan encourages offering tax cut bills

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan Friday encouraged Republican congressmen to offer tax cut amendments to every bill they consider.

"So many times the Democrats have got the nerve to vote against the amendments,

Congress for years, only to see them defeated by the Democratic majority.

"The president, just a few days ago in Venice at the economic conference, repeated that he believed the tax cut would be inflationary and therefore he would not have one," Reagan said.

"But isn't it funny that in the last 24 hours they've had to admit, well, they (the Democrats) are thinking about a tax cut and the White House is thinking ing about a tax cut and they're also thinking about an early date, a Tuesday in November."

"I don't have very much faith in instant conversions, particularly in election years," Reagan said.

The GOP's $22-billion tax-cut proposal for 1981 was defeated by the Senate Thursday amid Democratic accusations it was an election-year gimmick.

Baker, Lugar, Kemp lead Reagan VP list

By United Press International

Ronald Reagan's campaign stepped up its search for a running mate, asking Sens. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., and Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and former Treasury Secretary William Simon for information to be used in the screening process.

McCMahon, Baker's press secretary, said Friday that William Casey, Reagan's campaign manager, asked the Senate GOP leader for medical forms, a financial statement and income tax returns to use in the search for a running mate.

"It won't take us long to pull it together because it was submitted in 1976" to Gerald Ford, McMahon said in Nashville, Tenn., "We'll just have to update it."

A Reagan spokesman in New York confirmed Simon, treasury secretary during the Ford administration, had also been asked for the information. A Lugar spokesman said likewise.

The Reagan camp would not comment on other potential contenders, though the most frequently mentioned, former U.S. ambassador Ronald Reagan, Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., refused comment when asked if he had been approached.

CBS News reported that Bush was the No. 1 choice for Reagan's running mate among delegates to attend next month's Republican National Convention in Detroit. Kemp was in second and Baker, third, CBS said. He surveyed a recent UPI survey of Republican leaders across the country showed they also favor Bush, followed by Baker and Kemp.

Reagan says he will support more SALT talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan as president would not break off SALT talks with the Soviet Union and his advisers already have met with Russian officials, Reagan's national security coordinator has reported.

"Of course, you've got to talk," Richard V. Allen said Thursday. "Reagan is willing to talk. He just doesn't like that particular treaty (the current Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty)."

Allen said the Reagan camp already has been in touch with the Soviets.

"I've talked to the Soviets," Allen told a group of Pentagon correspondents. "Our advisers talk to their advisers. We're not breaking any ground."

Allen sought to dispel Reagan's image as an advocate of an unbridled arms race with the Soviet Union.

"I don't know of any plans to spend the Russians into the pochoose," Allen said, although he conceded a Reagan presidency "would accept an unbalanced budget to rectify defense."

"An increase in defense spending is not inevitable, but it is likely," Allen said.

Several Reagan advisers have urged a stepped-up arms race.

Newsprint strike looms

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Canadian Paperworkers' Union planned Friday to set a deadline for a strike against Abitibi-Price Inc., the world's largest newsprint supplier.

Industry observers say little hope of averting a strike, which would adversely affect newsprint supplies to Canada and the United States.

A strong strike authorization vote was expected from the CPU's membership.

Ontario Labor Ministry mediator John Speranzini reported no progress in efforts to stage any last-minute bargaining.

Abitibi-Price, with 12 mills in three provinces, was picked by the CPU as the target for a possibly trend-setting contract that could be used as a model in widespread bargaining facing eastern Canada's pulp and paper industry.

An Abitibi-Price shutdown would severely cut down Canadian newsprint shipments to the United States and other nations.

Newsprint users seeking alternate suppliers would face added difficulties in Quebec, where a consortium of unions tentatively have set midnight Sunday for the start of a walkout against seven mills. In the event of a failure to resolve contract disputes.

Abitibi-Price produces 20 percent of Canada's newsprint, 80 percent of which is turned out by eastern Canadian mills.

U.S. demands more help on MIAs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials accused Vietnam Friday of "stonewalling" efforts to locate some 2,500 American soldiers still missing in Indochina.

Air Force Brig. Gen. T.C. Pinckney, testifying at a House subcommittee hearing, dismissed as "obvious propaganda" a recent "white paper" in which Hanoi insisted it has lived up to a Paris agreement regarding Americans missing in action and prisoners of war.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Mitchell Anderson said this article Hanoi's ties with Moscow, its treatment of boat people and the Cambodian invasion make normal U.S. relations with Vietnam impossible at this time.

Pinckney, director for Asia of the Pentagon's International Security Affairs Bureau, told the panel Hanoi has not permitted visits by U.S. military officials and "the Vietnamese have generally shown a meaningful interest in the MIA's."

Rep. Lester Wolff, the New York Democrat who presided at Friday's hearing before his Asia and Pacific Affairs Subcommittee, said: "All we get is the same excuses about changes in terrain, the difficulty of locating wreckage in jungles areas and the time that has elapsed."

Also heard during the hearing was a "mystery" witness — his face hidden by a helmet with a dark visor. He is an unidentified Vietnamese refugee who told U.S. officials he worked on the remains of at least 400 Americans in Hanoi as late as 1977.

Whether a witness is dead or alive, he continued to seek an accounting of the MIA's, he said.

Mayo did Laetrile safety study

Laetrile will be tried primarily in patients with advanced breast, lung or colon-rectal cancer — the most common forms of cancer in the United States.

In addition to receiving Laetrile, either in oral or intravenous form, the patients will be given special, largely vegetarian diets which Laetrile proponents say is essential for use of the drug.

Results of the tests at the four medical centers are not expected to be known for two years.

The NCI, the Food and Drug Administration and the American Cancer Society have contended for years that there is no sound evidence Laetrile works. The FDA prohibits interstate shipment of Laetrile.

Nevertheless, an estimated 70,000 Americans have used the drug to fight cancer, and 21 states have legalized its use.

The preliminary safety testing at the Mayo Clinic was made possible by a grant from the National Cancer Institute.

Today's weather

Weather looks fair and warmer through weekend

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome, Gooding, Lemhi, Blaine, and near-record cool wave which blew through the Gem State Thursday night and early Friday.

The cool surge came from a westerly flow of air off the Pacific and high pressure over the Intermountain Region, in the wake of a frontal system which moved swiftly eastward.

The pattern should hold until the early next week when warmer temperatures will return.

On Friday morning, low temperatures across Idaho were generally in the 30s and 40s with only a few in the 20s.

Pocatello reported lows of 41, with Boise tying the record low for the date.

By midafternoon Friday, temperatures were in the 60s beneath clear skies in southern Idaho with in the north temperatures were in the 50s or low 60s.

Spraying winds in Magic Valley are locally 40-45 mph this afternoon.

Pan-evaporation will be 24 of an inch today and 27 Sunday.

Haying outlook for Monday through Wednesday calls for dry and warm for excellent drying conditions.

The highest reported temperature in Idaho Friday was 75 at Caldwell, while the lowest temperature reported Friday morning was 30 at Idaho City.

Angola

S. Africa denies invasion; Angola says 6,000 troops attacked

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Angola said Friday that 6,000 invading South African troops were battling its forces in the southern part of the country, but South Africa contended it had only a small force there and it would be soon withdrawn.

The United Nations Security Council was expected to meet in emergency debate and demand South Africa's immediate withdrawal.

Angolan Ambassador Eliseo de Figueiredo told a U.N. press conference that his leftist government would seek help from "friendly countries" if Angolan forces were unable to cope with the situation. Angola's leaders were aided by Cuban troops in their revolution.

The Angolan news agency ANGOP said the South African troops, invading from Namibia, had killed more than 300 civilians, seven government soldiers and wounded 250 people in a campaign of "terror and death."

South Africa blamed the militant South West Africa People's organization for the crisis, charging it with launching guerrilla raids from Angolan bases into Namibia.

In a note to the Security Council, South African Foreign Minister Roelof F. Boha denied the Angolan invasion charges and stated that his government had sent only "a small combat team with some air support" into Angola for the sole purpose to fight SWAPO.

The team, he said, had "commenced their return to base some days ago" and "the withdrawal will be completed within the next day or two."

In the past South Africa has launched several raids from Namibia, which it still rules pending independence elections, to strike at SWAPO bases in Angola.

South Africa's defense force confirmed Thursday that Angolan forces shot down one of its Aéroretail helicopters and that a crewman was shot dead. But it did not say exactly where or when the incident took place.

Figueiredo said South Africa was building new military bases in Namibia. He said some 60,000 South African troops and 400 combat planes were now stationed in Namibia.

Basques

France accused of aiding ETA

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spain's interior minister in the toughest of fiscal criticism yet has accused the French police of being partly to blame for a wave of Basque separatist bombings aimed at Spain's premier industry — tourism.

Juan Jose Roson said the Spanish government had evidence that the separatist guerrillas of ETA, which stands for Basque Land and Liberty, organized and financed themselves in France with the knowledge of French authorities.

"How would the French government like it if the armed, Corsican terrorists lived in Barcelona and crossed the Spanish border into France?"

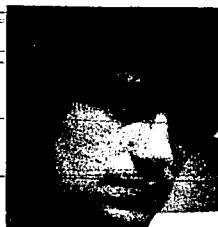

"We have the evidence to prove ETA organizes in France with the knowledge of the French authorities... The money ETA gets from extortion in Spain is carried to France with the knowledge of French authorities." The ETA wants independence for the Basque speaking provinces — an area of 2.5 million people deprived of their autonomous institutions, language and flag by the dictatorial Franco regime — and has launched an anti-tourism campaign as — last year denouncing the government release jailed Basque guerrillas.

Roson attempted to soothe the fears of vacationers in Spain, telling foreign journalists, "I may be wrong, but I think the risks of human injury are minimal."

"In 50 minutes Tuesday," the first night of bomb scares in ETA's 1980 anti-tourist campaign, "we evacuated 20,000 people mainly."

"If it is necessary to comb our beaches with bomb detectors three times a day," the minister added, "we will do it."

Seven people died last year in bomb blasts at Barajas international airport and at two Madrid train stations. ETA later said the deaths had been an "immense error," but claimed police had been given ample time to evacuate the bomb zones.

Americans taken prisoner

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnamese troops captured two American journalists and two International Red Cross workers who were searching for wounded along the embattled Thai-Cambodian frontier, Western diplomats said today.

U.S. diplomats immediately warned Vietnam that Washington would hold Hanoi responsible for the safety and "prompt return" of the four men captured.

of Bangkok, Thursday with Red Cross workers Robert Ashe of Britain and Dr. Pierre Perrin of France. They were searching for refugees wounded in an earlier mortar duel between Vietnamese and Thai forces.

Relief sources said the Vietnamese ignored the Red Cross flag carried by Dr. Perrin, the Red Cross chief medical coordinator on the frontier, and took the four men prisoner.

The two Americans were identified as George Llenemann, 31, of Los Angeles, and Richard Franken, 35, of Miami, Fla. Co-owners of the Lensman Agency, they were working on a book on refugee children for the United Nations. Llenemann had recently changed his name to George Mann.

Llenemann and Franken walked into the shattered, abandoned Nong Chan refugee camp, about 150 miles east

Sporadic gunfire echoed along a 50-mile-long stretch of the embattled Thai-Cambodian frontier for the fifth straight day. But military commanders said the Vietnamese had turned their guns away from the Thais and toward Khmer Rouge guerrillas.

The bulk of the Vietnamese force that invaded Thailand Monday had cleared out, the officers said, but Hanoi units continued to slip across the border at night.

Bombs blast at tourist industry

JAVEA, Spain (UPI) — Basque separatists exploded a bomb at a luxury seafront hotel in eastern Spain Friday, causing little material damage but adding new injury to Spain's most lucrative industry — tourism.

Police said the bomb hidden in the garden of the Costa Blanca hotel in Javea contained 2.2 pounds of plastic explosive. No one was hurt.

It was the fifth to bomb explode along the resort area, also known as the Costa Blanca in three days, and the third in Javea, a town of 4,000, especially popular with French tourists.

As with the previous bombings, the 108 guests in the Costa Blanca hotel were evacuated in the middle of the night following a telephoned warning and suffered nothing more than inconvenience.

Most, however, were aware that a similar anti-tourist campaign last year left seven people dead, despite telephone warnings.

Though some local officials insisted there was no "massive exodus of tourists," foreigners in the area reported that beaches were unusually empty and many Spaniards employed in the hotel sector were worried about their jobs.

Israel offers West Bank plan

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel will present Egypt and the United States with a plan to maintain its military presence in the occupied West Bank when Palestinians in the region are granted limited autonomy, it was disclosed Friday.

The plan calls for redeploying troops along a road network that would connect army bases and dozens of Jewish settlements to guard against terrorist attacks, Israeli reports said.

"The main idea is to get the troops out of the cities," an Israeli source said of the plan.

Interior Minister Josef Burg is to carry the plan with him to Washington, where he will present it to U.S. and Egyptian negotiators who are to decide next week when to resume the ruptured talks on Palestinian autonomy, Egypt suspended the talks May 8.

JUST PLAIN CHUCK

Union chief Joe Gormley put protocol in traction Wednesday at a Yorkshire mine dedication when he called the heir to the British throne "Charlie" — but Prince Charles wasn't miffed. Said he, "I am delighted he calls me Charlie. It's better than the woman who jumped out of a crowd the other day and said, 'Look, there's Action Man...' It's better than in America where they call you 'Prince.' You do get fed up of being referred to like a Royal Air Force police dog."

AT LONG LAST

Mother Teresa — the "Angel of Mercy" of 1979 Nobel Peace Prize fame — has received another honor. She's been named an honorary citizen of her own home town. The 70-year-old, Roman-Catholic nun who has dedicated half a century to the starving poor of Calcutta, India, was born in Skopje in what now is Yugoslavia — before Yugoslavia existed as a state. So, to make her roots clear and official, Skopje Mayor Metod Antov announced her citizenship Friday.

ONE MORE MILLION

When ex-Beatle Paul McCartney topped worldwide sales of 100 million records last year, the Guinness Book of World Records named him most successful recording artist of all time. The honor didn't even slow him down. He now can claim sales of 101 million with his new single "Coming Up" from the album "McCartney II." The single tops Billboard magazine's chart for the second consecutive week. He did the album this time without his group Wings.

Soraya Khoshogg, the 38-year-old ex-wife of Saudi billionaire arms dealer Adnan Khoshogg, is expecting her seventh child, but the London Daily Mirror says she's keeping the father's identity top secret. She hit the headlines earlier this year by detailing a love affair with British Member of Parliament Winston Churchill, and earlier still with a multi-billion-dollar divorce action filed against Khoshogg. She's reported living now in Venice, Calif.

POLLSTER POLL

Daniel Yankelovich is one of the nation's top pollsters, and he says politicians should stop listening to him. He bites the hand that feeds him his own — in a taping for next Tuesday's PBS-TV special on the economy, "Cover Story: It's Only Your Money." He blames inflation on politicians who tend to be followers, rather than leaders — says "Too many of them don't know their own positions until the polls tell them what the voters might like to hear."

DANGEROUS METHOD

Charlon Heston was off to an early start in drama — says his father read Shakespeare to him as a child, but that it hasn't helped much in Hollywood where "method" actors are expected to become the characters they are playing. Says he, in the August issue of Penthouse magazine, "When you play Macbeth, you are not Macbeth — and if you are, you're in trouble."

BEHIND THE NAME: Sir Laurence Olivier played his first Shakespearean role at the age of 5, as Brutus in a tiny-toot presentation of "Julius Caesar."

Tooth holds key to homicide

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — A judge won't let prosecutors have a murder suspect's tooth root extracted even though it might establish his guilt in the slaying of a dairy store clerk.

The suspect, Albert Hartford, 22, of Pontiac, is accused of killing Frances D. Ramsey in a March hoodlum. Police later found a bloody tooth fragment outside the store. The prosecution asked the judge either to authorize an extraction of a tooth root from Hartford's mouth or admit into evidence dental X-rays showing the tooth fragment found at the murder scene matches the suspect's root structure.

Remarriage trend lower among divorced females

Divorced women are not so eager to remarry as once they were. Or I guess that's what the statistics indicate. There has been a 170-percent increase in the number of divorced women who didn't remarry in the 1970s. It can't mean the number of matrimonial proposals dropped off that much; can it? "Our Love and Woman will check further.

Legendary is the word football writers use to describe the likes of Red Grange and George Halas. And humorless is word some imperceptive historians use to describe President Calvin Coolidge. When Grange and Halas were introduced to the President as members of the Chicago Bears, he said, "Fine, I've always enjoyed animal acts." Unable to remember that he didn't know, he knew, he knew.

SAILORS' LINGO

Groggin is a textile, usually of silk plus wool. Cloaks used to be made out of it. Admiral Vernon of the British Navy wore such, and it became his identifying distinction. Sailors nicknamed the admiral "Grog" because of that. And in 1740 when he ordered ships' rum be diluted, the mix in nside reference to him, too, was called grog.

The hoy is a small coastal vessel. Or was. Mostly now it's a harbor utility boat. To run errands. Go fetch. Cook needs vinegar. Crew needs water. Get captain his rum. A client experienced in ways of the sea writes that sailors called out to such boats: "Hey, hoy!" Or "Here, the hoy!" Or "You, the hoy there!" Eventually, reports he, that wound up to give us the greeting: "Ahoy!"

TRAITOR

Among history's infamous traitors, Ili Judas, Benedict Arnold and Vidkin Quisling. Of these, Quisling no doubt was the least well-known. Yet his name alone, not that has turned into an uncapitalized noun in the dictionary synonymous with traitor.

Two officers won't resign

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

JEROME — Two Jerome Police officers Friday withdrew their threats to resign after a two-hour closed-door meeting with Chief Jim McGowan.

Patrolmen Dale Rettig and Darrel Cameron said they were satisfied with the session, but declined to comment further.

The three remaining dissidents in the seven-man police force, Capt. Ernie Coats, Detective Don Hendry, and Andy Hines—also declined to comment following the session. Coats and Hines said they would make an announcement today.

The Jerome City Council has scheduled a meeting for later today, at which time a decision regarding McGowan will be announced, Mayor Marshall Everheart said. The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m.

The five police officers Wednesday indicated they might resign if the City Council did not fire McGowan. The officers claimed McGowan was responsible for the low department morale and that he consulted primarily with one man, Sgt. Del Lov, since accepting the position in March.

McGowan called the meeting after talking with the City Council Thursday night. He said council members did not attend but sent Jerome businessman Tom Prescott to act as an observer.

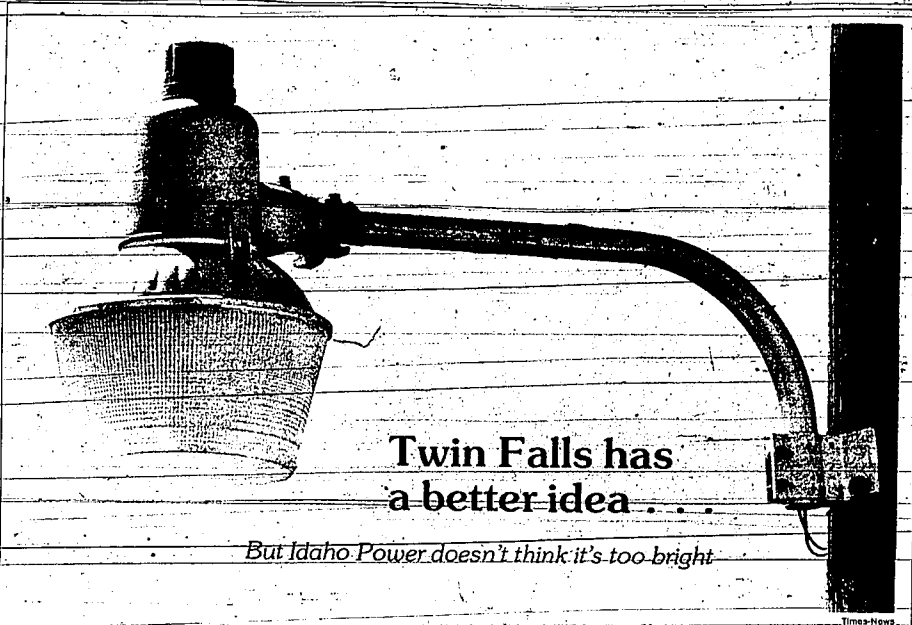

Cameron said he was satisfied with the meeting, saying, "A lot of feelings were aired and a lot was accomplished in the meeting." He went to see it resolved the best we can without creating any more publicity than we have to," he said.

"We did withdraw our names from this, but neither one of us wants to comment on this any further. We want to see it resolved the best we can without creating any more publicity than we have to," he said.

McGowan said he was pleased with the meeting, but he spelled out his grievances and he apologized for inadvertently not consulting some of the men.

The officers declined to comment, saying he was honoring an agreement with the council not to speak to the press until later today. Coats said none of the three officers has made a decision. He would not say whether the officers would want to make an announcement until after the council meeting.

Mayor Everheart said the council meeting will be open to the public, although portions of it dealing with personnel will be closed. Everheart said the council met in executive session Friday to discuss the police meeting. Council members did not attend but sent Jerome businessman Tom Prescott to act as an observer.

Twin Falls has a better idea

But Idaho Power doesn't think it's too bright

Skyview-Hazeldel

Union almost here

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Although the final word is pending from the Washington, D.C. National Labor Relations Board, the certification of the Skyview-Hazeldel Manor union is nearly certain.

NLRB Regional Director Charles Henderson of Seattle has recommended the certification of the April election at the Skyview-Hazeldel Manor. A slim majority of the employees voted to join the Idaho Service Employees Union, affiliated with the Service Employees International Union.

"Neither the union nor management filed appeals to the decision before the legal deadline, according to Seattle NLRB officials. This indicates Washington approval of the regional decision will most likely be forthcoming, according to NLRB spokesman Joyce Lauritzen. She said she did not know how long it would take.

Henderson sustained challenges to the ballots of eight persons who sought to vote in the election, meaning their votes are not counted in the final tally.

In the election, 52 non-professional employees voted for the union, 51 voted against. Certification of the election was delayed until the decision on the challenged ballots was made.

The mayor's professional employees (registered nurses) voted six to two against joining the union. Therefore, R.N.s will not be included in the union.

Henderson also found nine unfair labor practice charges filed by the union to be "without merit."

The union has asked for an extension of the deadline for filing an appeal to Henderson's decision on two of the charges, said Warten Lundquist, spokesman for the Idaho Service Employees Union. He said the union now has until July 20 to file an appeal on charges concerning former employees Pam Mouson and Sam Jones.

However, he said no decision on whether to file the appeals had been made.

Contract negotiations will not begin until the final approval has been given by the Washington office, Lundquist said. "We're waiting for the final papers; then we'll sit down and start negotiating," he said.

Streetlight outlook gloomy

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls residents will either find their streets darker or face larger bills to pay for street lights.

The City Council, faced with rapidly growing electricity bills, is looking at either reducing the amount of power for lighting it is now purchasing or finding another source of funds to pay for street lights.

The city's dilemma stems from a March 27 Idaho Public Utilities Commission decision to grant Idaho Power Co. a 26 percent rate increase. The city now budgets about $95,000 per year to pay for street lights, and the higher rate will increase that bill by about $26,000, city officials say.

Under the city's agreement with Idaho Power Co., the city pays the electricity bills, although the bulk of the light fixtures is owned by the power company.

That agreement may become the focus of controversy because it would require the city to pay the power company in order to turn off some street lights.

An Idaho Power spokesman says the agreement provides that the city must pay the company's costs in removing a light fixture less than 10 years old.

City officials disagree with that assessment, and the issue may come up Monday when the company presents its new proposed 10-year contract to the City Council.

"They own the fixtures as I understand it. If they want to leave them sitting there, that's their business. But if we don't want to use the electricity, that's our business," City Attorney Charles Brumback said.

Don Jensen, Idaho Power customer service manager in Twin Falls, said the company has usually asked cities to pay for removing the fixtures in order to allow the company to recoup its costs.

Jensen said he didn't know of any other city that would be expected to pay.

"That issue is being looked at; it's being discussed. However, most of the fixtures in this town have been in longer than 10 years other than your new subdivisions," he said.

Mayor Hank Woodall last week raised the possibility of a lawsuit to settle the matter. He has since retreated from that position by saying the city may be able to work out a more flexible agreement with Idaho Power.

"I don't think it's going to reach that stage," Woodall said. "I'm sure there will be a way out without any bitterness."

City Engineer Gary Young said the 10-year clause may give the city enough flexibility to replace its more inefficient, incandescent type street lights with a fewer number of vapor lamps.

Although reducing expenses appears to be the most likely option now open to the city, officials have proposed adding a flat users' fee to city utility bills to pay for the street lights.

The amount of such a fee would probably be less than $1 per month per household, City Engineer Gary Young said. But a users fee would be expensive to administer, particularly if it were charged on the basis of use, Young said.

"The neatest, cleanest way is the general fund. But with property taxes frozen, I don't think street lights have all that high a priority with the council," Young said.

Another problem with such a fee would be the city's inability to force a resident to pay the fee, City Attorney Charles Brumback said.

"I'm not satisfied at this point to declare an unappealable assessment lien against the property the way you do with unpaid assessments such as those for LIDs. So that's the problem. How do you collect when someone decides they aren't going to pay?" he said. "At this point, I'm inclined to think we need some legislative or some statutory authorization."

One method of reducing costs now under consideration by the council is the elimination of the city's requirement for street lights in new residential developments. For all practical purposes, that policy is now in effect. Young noted no new lights have been installed for more than a year.

City officials are now meeting with area homebuilders to encourage the installation of house lights in those neighborhoods.

But they note the policy only offsets future expenditures and does nothing to reduce present expenses.

City officials may also look at getting out of the street-light business entirely and leaving the billing to Idaho Power. However, by doing that, the city relinquishes what control it now has over the amount of lights installed in the city, Brumback said.

"It's an alternative worth exploring," Brumback said. But, he added, "considering the profit-oriented and somewhat monopolistic status of the Idaho Power Co., I'm not so sure that would be in the best interest of the citizens of this community, because right now the city has the responsibility to determine the level of service."

Another possibility that has been raised by City Manager Tom Courtney is petitioning the IPUC for an exemption from the rate increase on the grounds of financial hardship.

IPUC public information officer Deanne Ideopeter said no city has ever made such a request. She said the commission would most likely allow for an exemption from the rate increase to customers. Those include payment extensions and allowing the city to pay its yearly bill on an average monthly rate.

Symms accuses Church

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Steve Symms accused Frank Church Friday night of resorting to name-calling and dodging the issues.

"Sen. Church has said I am connected with the Anybody but Church Committee when he knows that is not true — and he has criticized me for accepting money from Texas, while the record shows he has accepted more than $800,000 in out-of-state funds."

Turkey dinners possibly are contaminated

By Times-News staff and United Press International

About 2 million Banquet brand frozen turkey dinners may be contaminated with a banned pesticide known as dieldrin.

As a result, the Agriculture Department has asked the company for a voluntary recall of the suspect items.

Managers from several Twin Falls stores reported getting calls from their main offices in the morning asking them to pull the merchandise off their shelves.

The manager of the Independent market Williams' IGA Food Lined said he would pull Banquet turkey products off his shelves until he could find out more details about the problem, after he was asked by the Times-News if he had been informed of the possible problem.

A buyer from American Strevell, a Boise food wholesaler, said he was called by a Banquet representative Friday morning and asked not to sell any of the products until they could be checked.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Foreman Thursday urged consumers not to use Banquet brand frozen turkey dinners, turkey pies, "Mannepiece" turkey dinners and turkey and gravy in foil packages without checking the package codes.

She said there is no imminent health risk posed by limited exposure to the pesticide, but further consumption should be avoided.

The department said its investigation of laboratory records found the potential chemical presence in four flocks of turkeys slaughtered and turned into minis, Mo. between April 21 and May 5 at the firm's Millin, Mo. facility and shipped to other plants for further processing.

Dr. Paul Houston, administrator of the Agriculture Department's Food Safety Quality Service, said the department does not have recall authority. "We will have to trace the suspected products (distribution points and retail stores)."

The department asked the St. Louis-based firm to voluntarily recall its products, but it did not give an immediate reply. "I hope they take a step in the positive direction," Houston said.

Mrs. Foreman estimated about 2 million packages may contain dieldrin.

Dieldrin is an insecticide banned from general use since 1974. It has been found to cause cancer in laboratory animals.

Houston said there have been several incidents of dieldrin contamination this year. About three weeks ago, poultry from the Marshall, Durbin Farm in Mississippi was found to contain pesticide residue. Earlier, Bryant Farms in Aurelia, Iowa, found 3,500 cattle and 3,500 hogs infected with the pesticide.

"It's obviously coming through the feed," Houston said.

Land use may be amended

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Idaho's only state-wide land use planning law may be amended next year.

And those amendments may be suggested by Gov. Jim Evans, who has in the past proposed efforts to alter the law.

Under the direction of Evans, the Division of Tourism and Industrial Development has during the last three weeks mailed some 300 letters to local elected officials and interested organizations. Those letters ask for suggestions on "identifying the problems and possible solutions" with the Local Planning Act of 1975, and for proposals on "increasing the efficiency of the act."

According to Jan Blikenstaff, of the division, possible amendments to the act will be drafted on the basis of responses to the letters. That won't be repealed, said Blikenstaff, but the amendments may help "to get the bugs out" of the measure.

Public hearings will also be held on amending the act, Blikenstaff said. The Local Planning Act, which requires local governments to adopt land use plans, has been the center of controversy between Democratic governors and Republican-controlled legislatures for five years.

Enacted when Democrat Cecil Andrus was governor, the measure was the subject of a contest of five land use planning proposals to which the Legislature, both houses of which were controlled by Republicans. Every year since its passage, legislators—usually led by Republicans, have called for repeal of the act.

In 1979, the Idaho House came within two votes of passing a measure repealing the 1975 law.

In 1980, both houses of the Legislature passed a bill which would have made much of the 1975 law subject to local option control. That measure was vetoed by Evans, who is a Democrat.

"After vetoing that bill, the governor felt the time had come to re-examine the local planning act," Blikenstaff said. Evans "asked us to put together a program examining this, so we're sending around a letter to planning and zoning commissions, county commissioners, city councils, plus the various interest groups in the state," he added.

The letter, sent out under the signature of Daniel T. Emborg, administrator of the Tourism and Industrial Development Division, says that attempts to repeal the 1975 law "are indicative of the frustrations associated with the act. Some feel the act requires too much of local government and the administrative provisions are too restrictive. Others feel that there should be more state standards."

According to the letter, the responses will be used "in identifying the problems and possible solutions and in increasing the efficiency of the act."

Blikenstaff said Friday that only eight written responses have been received so far.

Local home burglarized

TWIN FALLS — About $1,000 in items was reported stolen Friday from a Twin Falls residence.

Police said the burglary occurred sometime between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 3 p.m. Thursday at the residence of Eric Deaner, 443 1/2 2nd Ave. N.

Police said the suspect forcibly entered the residence through a door and took mostly tools.

Rifle mishap unexplained

WENDELL — The malfunctioning rifle that injured Mark Butterfield of Wendell Tuesday was owned by his companion Mike Springfield, 21, also of Wendell.

Butterfield, 18, suffered head and facial injuries when the high powered rifle he was shooting exploded while the two men were target practicing. He remains in satisfactory condition in St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise.

Springfield told the Times-News he had shot the rifle four times, then handed it to Butterfield. On the fifth shot, the gun exploded.

Twin Falls man mugged

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was wrestled to the ground and robbed of $98 in cash late Thursday.

Twin Falls Police reported Friday.

Police said Kenneth Lee Van Blaricom, 1874 Shoup Ave. E., was riding his bicycle along Highway 200, between Buchanan and Pierce Streets, when three male suspects jumped him and pulled him to the lawn. Police said the three took the man's wallet and emptied it of the cash before escaping on foot.

The incident occurred at 11:15 p.m., police said. The case remains under investigation.

Man held on lewd charge

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was being held Friday on a $10,000 bond on charges of lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor.

Simon Ebes, 25, was arraigned Friday before Magistrate Daniel Mechl and was being held in the Twin Falls County Jail.

Twin Falls Police arrested Ebes Thursday after a June 16 incident involving a nine-year-old Twin Falls girl.

Firefighters have contained the Uinta Mountain fire but one in Colorado is the state's largest

Huge blaze in Colorado

Uinta fire contained

BEAR RIVER, Utah (UPI) — Crews Thursday contained a 3,500-acre blaze on the north slope of the High Uinta Mountains, while a fire burning out of control in Colorado was said to be the largest in the state's history. U.S. Forest Service spokesman Sandra Brown said the Uinta Mountain blaze was declared contained at 7 p.m. Earlier in the day, ground crews sprayed water on the northern edge of the fire to prevent it from burning into an section of forest containing summer homes. Ms. Brown said crews Friday planned to strengthen their lines around the flames in an effort to bring the fire under control. But she said fire bosses were unable to predict when the blaze would be controlled. A storm front which was expected to cause wind problems for firefighters Thursday failed to arrive when predicted, Ms. Brown said. But she said the windy weather was still expected to reach the fire area today. The blaze, the largest in the Wasatch National Forest for several years, was first spotted Monday near Lily Lake. The Forest Service believes it was man-caused.

More than 200 firefighters battled the largest forest fire in Colorado history Friday, hoping to complete a hand-burnt fire line before a southern wind change spreads flames over more than the 7,000 high-altitude acres already blackened.

The fire exploded across the Flattops Wilderness area of the White River National Forest since it started Wednesday, fanned by gusty, sometimes erratic winds and fueled by insect-killed spruce.

Because a wilderness area is involved, firefighters have been using hand tools rather than bulldozers to gouge their fire lines in the forests ranging from 9,000 to 10,500 feet above sea level.

Forest Service spokesman George Morris said the White River blaze started in a 500-acre tract in northwestern Colorado. About 90 percent of the fire was located within the Flattops Wilderness Area.

Smoke from the blaze, located 25 miles northwest of Eagle, was reported throughout Larimer County and as far north as Cheyenne, Wyo.

Tampons linked to deaths

ATLANTA (UPI) — The use of tampons during menstrual cycles was linked Friday to a baffling disease that primarily affects young women and that so far has caused at least seven deaths, federal health officials reported. The illness, called toxic shock syndrome, was first reported by the national Center for Disease Control in May, and the agency ordered studies to gain more information. It's recommendations, released Friday, followed studies by state health departments in Utah and Wisconsin and by CDC investigators. Toxic shock syndrome is characterized by a sudden onset of high fever, vomiting, and diarrhea, with rapid progression to hypotension and shock. A sunburn-like rash can also develop, the CDC said. The mortality rate can be as high as 15 percent and so far, seven deaths have been reported to health officials. The CDC said the illness primarily affects young women during their menstrual cycles and is the result of a bacterial toxin caused by Staphylococcus aureus. Health officials said while the use of tampons "is not sufficient to cause the disease," that such use "might favor growth of the bacterium in the vagina or absorption of the toxin from the vagina or uterus." But, officials said, those possibilities have not been investigated. The CDC recommended that women who have had the illness not use tampons for at least several menstrual cycles afterwards, or until the eradication of the organism. For women who want to decrease the risk of contracting the illness, it was recommended tampons be used only during part of the menstrual period and that feminine napkins or minipads be used for the remainder. "For the vast majority of women," the CDC said, "the risk attributable to tampon use is so low that it seems unwarranted to recommend that the use of tampons be discontinued."

Sex-torture trial enters 2nd day

LYNDON, Kan. (UPI) — A young woman charged with murdering her husband to escape sexual abuse cried in court Friday as a deputy demonstrated a cattle prod allegedly used by the victim to torture her. Deborah Davis, 22, is accused of first-degree murder in the shooting death of her husband last Christmas. Max Ferguson, Osage County deputy, identified the cattle prod and other items he found during a search of the trailer Dec. 23, 1979. When he displayed the prod, a battery-operated box with two points to emit electrical shocks, he showed the jury how it operated. Ms. Davis jumped as the prod buzzed and began weeping at the defense table. Ferguson, one of two defense witnesses called Friday morning after the prosecution rested its case, also identified straight pins, shackles and other items presented by the defense and said they were found in the home. The items included leg irons which Ferguson said he found attached to the bed, two sets of handcuffs, thumb cuffs, adhesive tape, a small air pump and a sexual stimulant. Dr. Paul Adams, also testifying for the defense, said he examined Ms. Davis the night of the slaying and found small brown points on one of her breasts. Asked by defense attorney Elwaine Pomeroy if the marks could have been made by pliers, Adams said, "I would say yes." The defense contends Ms. Davis shot her husband to escape torture and possible death. Pomeroy, in opening statements, said Curruell stuck pins in her breasts and doused her with alcohol, tortured her with the cattle prod, stuffed rubber balls in her vagina and shackled her in an underground tank. Pomeroy also said Curruell planned to put his wife, "wrapped in tape like a mummy," in a coffin-like box with a catheter and oxygen pump. The attorney said she discovered equipment for the coffin on Christmas day and feared for her life.

Minico splits Gems twin bill

BOISE — The Minico Sage and Boise Gems traded one-run decisions in an American Legion doubleheader Friday afternoon.

The Sage, coming up with five runs in the fifth inning, took the opener 7-6 while the Gems came back with a talented run in the bottom of the seventh to salvage the split at 5-4.

Cliff Hankens went the distance to post his first victory of the season in the opener. Minico started well as Denny Simpson led off with a walk, stole second and scored on a John Patton single. Scott Maggard then singled Patton home.

The Gems came back with three in the second and added three more in the fourth for a 6-2 advantage.

But in the fifth, Simpson started Minico's winning rally with a one-out single. Patton lived when his liner was dropped in the outfield and Jeff Schow followed with a hit to plate Simpson. After Maggard walked, Ken Parkin picked up three RBIs with a bases-clearing triple and he trotted in with the decisive tally when Lynn VanEvery followed with a hit.

The Gems scored in three innings to build up a 4-0 lead in the nightcap. Then the Sage flurried into a draw.

With one out, VanEvery doubled and Brock Winnmill lived on an error. Those two scored on Simpson's triple. Simpson stayed on third as Patton drew a walk and stole second. That set up two RBIs for Jeff Schow's single.

But in the seventh Gene Beaver led off with a walk and galloped to third when a sacrifice attempt drew a Minico throwing error. He scored on McDonald's sacrifice fly.

The Sage remains in the Treasure Valley to play a doubleheader at Caldwell tonight and another twin bill at Nampa Sunday afternoon.

Determined Berney Goekner of Wendell fights to stay on top during state high school Rodio Finals.

Meyerhoeffer cops golf title

TWIN FALLS — Steve Meyerhoeffer, after blowing a cinch victory on the closing two holes, won the local Junior World golf qualifying in overtime Friday afternoon.

Meyerhoeffer, the 15-over boys champ, was joined in the winner's circle by Sherry Esch in the 15-over girls division; John Rasmussen, Twin Falls, 12-14 boys; Julie Hamblin, Twin Falls, 12-14 girls, and Jim Israel, Twin Falls, 10-11 boys.

The state finals will be played Tuesday on Twin Falls Municipal with the winner advancing to national competition.

It was a bizarre finish in the 15 and over boys division with Meyerhoeffer having a lock on things — until the 17th. Then he shaved his tee shot out of boys and wound up with a triple bogey.

That opened the gate for Dave Rasmussen down two strokes going into the 17th to win it, but he finished bogey-bogey. So the big benefactor was Bill Long, who closed with a par-birdie to make up four shots on the final two holes and fashion a three-way tie.

But Long isn't one to take charity. He hit his first two tee shots out of bounds as the sudden-death playoff began and fell to third place. Meyerhoeffer and Rasmussen went par-par and then final chapter in the series of weird happenings. On the third overtime hole, Meyerhoeffer won with a bogey while Rasmussen double bogied.

The three had tied at 72 over regulation. Jason Meyerhoeffer and Larry Waldron chased John Rasmussen home in the 12-14 age division at 82 and 83 against 78 for Rasmussen, Jim Israel posted a 110 to win the boys 10-11 with Todd Saunders second at 182.

Cowboys test Malad today

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Cowboys, riding their first two-game winning streak since a season-opening sweep of a doubleheader against the Boise Senators, play Malad today in a 4 p.m. American Legion twin bill at Frontier Field.

On the mound for the Cowboys, who take a 9-14 record into the games, will be Ritchie Lowe and Todd Wigington. Twin Falls tested on the Burley Braves Wednesday night, posting 11-0 and 10-0 wins.

The Cowboys' success Wednesday saw Coach Gary Barker feeling his team may be on the verge of turning the corner.

"It was just the things we did against Burley that pleased me, not so much the results," he said Friday afternoon. "What did we do? We were swinging the bats and not taking as many strikes. We were more aggressive on the base paths. We looked for the opportunities to take the extra base. We forced a lot of our errors by hitting the ball hard on the ground."

"And I liked the looks of us in the field better than I have the last few weeks. We came in on balls hit-to us rather than sitting back and waiting for them."

As for Malad, Barker said that team is one of the weakest the Cowboys will face all summer.

"They're small and Punch-and-Judy hitters. They had good pitching last year and they've just moved up from 'B' play. That's about all that I know about them," he said.

City teams win in boys tourney

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls junior baseball teams advanced to the second round of the Twin Falls-Boys Invitational Friday night — one doing it with hitting, the other with pitching.

Action in the three-day tournament resumes today with 13 games and will conclude Sunday with five more.

The Twin Falls Kiwanis, riding on the strength of an 11-strikeout performance by pitcher Tom Prater, took only five innings to send Billcocks of Gooding to the loser's bracket. Kiwanis will take on Nampa, which went on a hitting spree and recorded a 19-8 victory over Jerome.

The other Twin Falls team — the Twin Falls Men's Softball Association — took extra innings to fight off a comeback by Shoshone and an error to score the run as it beat the Indian team 13-12. They will entertain the winner of the Burley-Valley game.

Steve Benkulka lined a shot over the shortstop and watched it dribble through the centerfielder's leg to knock in Rob Orr, who had walked.

After being down 10-3 in the third inning, Shoshone staged a furious comeback and tied the game at 12, sending it into one extra inning before giving up the run.

In other first-round action, Caldwell, the tournament's defending champion, beat Kelly Oll of Buhl 15-4 and the game between Nampa and Jerome.

McEnroe, Gerulaitis survive upset scares

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Outdoor exposure, even without the rain, almost proved dangerous to the health of boyhood friends John McEnroe and Vitas Gerulaitis Friday during the most eventful day of the Wimbledon championships.

McEnroe, the current U.S. Open champion and No. 2 seed here, came within three points of a most humiliating defeat, struggling for 3 1/2 hours before overcoming Australian Terry Rocavert, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2, 14-7, 7-6 (5-3), 6-3, to gain the third round.

"This certainly wasn't one of my better days," said McEnroe, who needed a policeman standing on court to contain the massive crowds surging around Court No. 3.

About all that saved the brash New Yorker, who last year was eliminated by Tim Gullikson on neighboring Court 2, was Rocavert's lack of a killer instinct, a failing he readily acknowledges and the reason he is thinking of quitting the game this year.

In fact, even while the 23-year-old Australian was coming within a hair's breadth of producing one of the great Wimbledon upsets, his wife was in town buying airline tickets to America for the two of them on Saturday.

Gerulaitis, meantime, had his own problems on the infamous Court 2 before subduing Sashi Menon of India, 6-7 (4-7), 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

There were two stormy incidents in the match, the first in the second set when the players failed to change sides after the fifth game, a violation not noticed until Gerulaitis won the first point of the sixth game, and the other in the third set when Menon protested an apparent winner down the line by Gerulaitis.

The umpire, following Menon's plea, called for a "let" ball, but after Gerulaitis protested, he gave the point back to the fourth seeded New Yorker. Menon argued more vehemently and wouldn't return to the court until he was issued an official warning. The disputed point enabled Gerulaitis to break for 6-5.

Although both McEnroe and Gerulaitis suffered the miseries on outside courts, all of the seeded men to play Friday worked their way into the third round.

However, four seeded women were eliminated, three of them by Americans. In the most notable result, big Pam Shriver, who has been handicapped by shoulder trouble ever since reaching the U.S. Open final as a 16-year-old in 1978, defeated 16th seed Sylvia Hanika of West Germany, 6-3, 1-6, 9-7.

Jeanne Russell upset No. 12 seed Virginia Ruzici of Romania, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, Betty Ann Dent ousted No. 13 Sue Barker of Britain, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2) and Sue Saliba of Australia beat No. 15 Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

Top seed Bjorn Borg, seeking his fifth consecutive Wimbledon championship, enjoyed a good workout in beating Shlomo Glickstein, the first Israeli ever to win a match here, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5, and No. 5 seed Roscoe Tanner, the beaten finalist to Borg last year, finished a 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 7-6 (7-4) victory over Australian John Fitzgerald.

Also winning were No. 6 seed Gene Mayer, No. 7 Peter Fleming, No. 8 Victor Pecci, No. 9 Pat DuPre, No. 13 Wojtek Fibak, No. 15 Stan Smith and No. 16 Jose Luis Clerc. Mayer, Pecci and DuPre won in straight sets and the others required four.

All the top women enjoyed little more than workouts to gain the third round. Top seed and defending champion Martina Navratilova routed Rayni Fox, 6-1, 6-1, No. 2 Tracy Austin beat Nerida Gregory of Australia, 6-1, 6-2, and No. 3 Chris Evert Lloyd breezed past Christiane Jullassain of Switzerland, 6-0, 6-1.

Since she received an opening round bye, this was the first match for Evert on the fifth day of competition, and she indicated she was ready to carry on for a third Wimbledon crown.

"I don't like to be taken lightly as far as my tennis is concerned," she said, referring to all the talk that the championship will be decided between Navratilova and Austin.

Also winning among the women's seeds were No. 6 Wendy Turnbill,

No. 7 Virginia Wade, No. 9 Jana Mandlikova, No. 10 Kathy Jordan, No. 11 Greer Stevens and No. 14 Andrea Jaeger.

McEnroe, after evening the match in the second set, gave away the third set after leading 5-2 and 4-0. But Rocavert, who was to serve 19 double faults in the match, saved four set points and went on to take the tie-break.

McEnroe opened the fourth set with a break, but gave that back with two double faults in the fourth game. The games then went with service to the tie-break, which McEnroe won after dropping behind 2-1 on a double fault.

"Maybe it's good what happened," McEnroe said. "I took him for granted. I'd never really seen this guy play."

Bjorn Borg smashed his way into the third round.

Andrea Jaeger posted her second Wimbledon win.

Olympic trials

Smith, Oldfield bids fail

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Tom Hintinas scored a major upset when he won the pole vault at 18-4 1/2 and Peter Schmock, like Hintinas, a University of Oregon graduate, won the shotput at 68-4 Friday night to highlight the U.S. Olympic Trials and World Trials.

second in 45-97, and Walter McCoy was third in 46.06. Herman Frazier, a 1976 Olympian, wound up fourth. Bill Dellinger, who coached Hintinas during his Oregon career, said he talked with Tom about the possibility of going to Moscow, but Hintinas rejected the suggestion.

A near capacity crowd of almost 19,000 gave Hintinas and Schmock a standing ovation for their impressive victories as controversial Steve Smith and Brian Oldfield both finished fourth in the pole vault and shotput, respectively.

"Everything has to be perfect for a world record," Hintinas said. "The conditions were perfect this time and they may not ever be the same again."

Hintinas, who has a dual citizenship — American and Brazilian, made three tries at a world record of 18-11 and the closest he came was on his third attempt.

Green, as might be expected, was excited about his victory in the 400. He satarated in the outside lane and never was worse than second all the way around.

Thierry Vigneron took the world mark to 18-10 1/2 earlier this month, a record disputed by many Americans because Vigneron's previous best was a 17-10 1/2.

"I felt surprisingly strong in the 100 meters," Green said. "Coming off the last turn, I didn't know what my position was but in the last 50 I saw no one ahead of me, and I knew then I had it shot to win it."

Vigneron will be going to the Olympics to prove how good he is on a world stage and, while Hintinas can do the same by claiming his Brazilian birthright, said earlier, "I'd be crazy to represent Brazil."

Schmock said he made an adjustment about four weeks ago, and he thinks that was responsible for his victory. "I tried to get away from throwing like Feuerbach," he said. "I decided to try something on my own. When I was 17, I thought I, I thought 60 feet was a goal, but now 70 is the goal. I've been fighting myself, and now I've got to let it happen."

Dan Ripley and Mike Tully, who had been expected to fight it out for the pole victory, wound up tied for second at 18-2 1/2, while Smith, who needed a court order to compete in the trials, also cleared 18-2 1/2 but finished fourth.

There were two women's finals and in those, Chandra Chesebrough won the 200-meter run in 2-27 and Kristen Bankes took the non-official 1000-meter run in 33-45.6.

Oldfield, like Smith a former pro who went to court to stop a starting berth here, seemed flustered after first preflight he had a chance for a world mark.

Karen Hawkins was second in the 200 and Pamela Green was third while in the 100 meters. In the 400, Julie St. Hilaire was second and Ellen Hart was third.

In the only other men's final Bill Green, a freshman from the University of Southern California, scored a surprise 45.85 victory in the 400 as Willie Smith finished

Pate hikes Memphis open lead to two strokes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Jerry Pate shot a Sunday-par 67 Friday for a 133 and a two-stroke lead after the second round of the $300,000 Memphis Open. Lee Trevino was in a three-way tie for second place at 9-under par 135 with charging 40-year-old veteran Miller Barber, who shot 65, the lowest round of the day, and Tom Purtzer who had a second-round score of 68.

In the first two rounds, was not among the 78 players from the 156-man field to make the cut at 145. Al Geiberger, who set an all-time PGA low score of 59 en route to winning the 1978 Memphis title, also missed the cut with rounds of 75 and 74.

"There were a lot of opportunities for birdsie that I missed," said the 26-year-old Floridian. "But I felt like it was a solid round of golf."

Trevino had problems with his back, which he said stiffened up in his air-conditioned hotel room after playing Thursday in sweltering 95-degree heat.

Pate, who had a 67 Friday, bogeyed No. 9 and No. 18-Friday and missed two birdie putts in the 10-foot range on the first and second hole.

Floyd, whose brother, Raymond, plays on the men's tour, recorded six birdies and two bogies. "I'm really not surprised I shot a 69," she said. "My putting has been very good."

On the back nine, the Canadian Open runner-up birdied No. 11 and then ran off three more birdies starting on the 15th hole before losing a stroke with a bogey on No. 16 when his second shot went into the water on the left edge of the fairway.

Thursdays's first-round leader, Cathy Sherk from Ontario, Canada, tied for third place. "I thought I played good," the 30-year-old second-year player said. She shot an even-par 73 and stood at 4-under-par 142 after two rounds.

He dropped in a short birdie putt on No. 3, added another on No. 6 and rolled in a 15-footer for a birdie at No. 8.

Myra Van Hoese, in a three-way tie for fourth place, shared top honors with Floyd by shooting a 69.

Defending champion Dr. Gil Morgan, who shot 75 on Thursday, tied for second place with Bradley and Marlene Lopez at 6-under-par 141.

Murle Breer, tied for second place Thursday with Bradley, was in a three-way tie for fifth. Last year's Locust Hill winner, Jane Blalock, shot a 75 and was tied for ninth.

Lopez said she was "nervous" and felt the pressure during the round. "I think the excitement made me a little nervous," the 23-year-old Cincinnati, Ohio native said. "Because when I got 4-under I was nervous and could feel the pressure."

Round 3 in the 72-hole tournament, with a top prize of $18,750, gets underway Friday. The tournament is sponsored by Sarah Coventry.

Lopez whose last four victories came in March in the Kemper Open at the Mesa Verde Country Club at Costa Mesa, Calif., birdied six holes, eagled one and had two bogeys.

Bradley, who won the Locust Hill event in 1977, said she felt "very good over the ball." "I'm hitting my driver exceptionally well and I haven't gotten into any trouble thank goodness," said Bradley who fired a 71 including four birdies and two bogies.

Mets 3, Phils 2

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Lee Mazzilli's inside-the-park home run touched off a three-run sixth inning Friday night that gave the New York Mets a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and snapped Steve Carlton's eight-game winning streak.

Mazzilli tied for the inning by blocking a ball to right field. Mike McVicker broke in and then tried to slow up to play the ball on a hop. He bounced under his glove and rolled to the corner. Mazzilli circled the bases and scored standing up, the first homer Carlton had allowed in 72-23 innings since May 19.

New York added two more runs in the inning on singles by Frank Tavers, John Stearns, Joe Youngblood and Alex Trevino's sacrifice fly.

The Phillies made it 2-2 in the seventh on Bob Boone's two-run homer off starter John Pacella, who pitched six innings for his first major-league triumph in his first decision of the season. Tom Hausman hurried hitless ball over the last three innings to record his first save.

Cardinals 3, Cubs 2

CHICAGO (UPI) — Keith Hernandez singled in Garry Templeton from third base with one out in the 12th inning Friday to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Conner clinches series edge

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Dennis Conner ending the America's Cup preliminaries Friday with the best record among the three U.S. contenders, credited a "few breaks" for his 11-1 performance in his 12-meter yacht Freedom.

He would not go along with a suggestion, though, that the year-old Freedom was able to sail closer to the wind than the seven-year-old Courageous and thus cover more ground when climbing upwind.

TORONTO (UPI) — Lance Parrish belted a three-run homer and Reggie Miller pitched a shutout to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 5-0 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

Indians 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees

In handling the Yankees their fourth loss in the last five games, the Indians snapped a six-game losing streak at Yankee Stadium. Their previous victory came on Oct. 1, 1978 and it forced an East Division playoff between the Yankees and the Red Sox. Waits, who raised his lifetime record against the Yankees to 6-8, was the winning pitcher in that game.

Indians 2, Yankees 0

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rick Waits fired a 2-0 victory for the first shutout of the season and Mike Harrow and Joe Carboneau drew in runs Friday night, giving the Cleveland Indians a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

Yankees 6-6 this season, struck out one batter and walked one

He experienced significant trouble only in the fourth and ninth innings. In the fourth, singles by Bobby Murcer and Bob Watson put runners on first and third with one out, but the left-hander induced Eric Soderholm to pop up and go down with a knee injury on a ground ball. In the ninth, singles by Watson and Eric Soderholm again put runners on first and second with one out but Terry hit into a double play to end the game.

Smith, Oldfield bids fail

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Tom Hintnaus scored a major upset when he won the pole vault at 16-4 1/2 and Peter Schmock, like Hintnaus, a University of Oregon graduate, won the shotput at 68-4 Friday night to highlight the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials.

A near capacity crowd of almost 19,000 gave Hintnaus and Schmock a standing ovation for their impressive victories as controversial Steve Smith and Brian Oldfield both finished fourth in the pole vault and shotput, respectively.

Hintnaus, who has a dual citizenship—American and Brazilian, made three tries at a world record of 18-11 and the closest he came was on his third attempt. Frenchman Thierry Vigneron took the world mark to 18-10 1/2 earlier this month, a record disputed by many Americans because Vigneron's previous best was a 17-10 1/2.

Oldfield, like Smith a former pro who went to court to gain a starting berth here, seemed jittery after first predicting he had a chance for a world mark. Oldfield, 35, who was on America's 1972 Olympic team, never even came close to his goal of 20-0.

Oldfield, 35, who was on America's 1972 Olympic team, never even came close to his goal of 20-0. In the only other men's final Bill Bria, a freshman from the University of Southern California, scored a surprise 45.55 victory in the 400 as Willie Smith finished second in 45.97, and Walter McCoy was third in 46.06.

Green, as might be expected, was excited about his victory in the 400. He saluted in the outside lane and never was second than second all the way around. "I felt surprisingly strong in the last 100 meters," Green said.

Green said, "Coming off the last turn, I didn't know what my position would be in the last 50 I saw no one ahead of me, and I knew then I had a shot to win it."

There were two women's finals and in those, Chandra Chakrabarti won the 200-meter run in 2:27.00 and Kristian Bankes took the 100-meter run in 1:33.65.

Karen Hawkins was second in the 200 and Pamela Green was third while in the 100, which was added to the program, Julie St. Hilaire was second and Ellen Hart was third.

Pate hikes Memphis open lead to two strokes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Jerry Pate shot a 5-under-par 67 Friday for a 133 and a two-stroke lead after the second round of the $300,000 Memphis Open.

Pate was not especially pleased with his play on the par-72, 7,249-yard south course at Colonial Country Club. "There were a lot of opportunities for birdie that I missed," said the 26-year-old Floridian.

On the back nine, the Canadian open runner-up birdied No. 11 and then ran out three more birdies starting on the 15th hole before being a stroke with the bogey on No. 18 when his second shot went into the water on the left edge of the fairway.

Defending champion Dr. Gil Morgan, who shot 73s in the first two rounds, was not among the 78 players from the 156-man field to make the cut at 145. Al Geberger, who set an all-time PGA low score of 59 en route to winning the 1978 Memphis title, also missed the cut with rounds of 75 and 74.

Trevino, a Memphis insider in 1971 and 1972 who finished second in 1978, had a second round 68 to go with Thursday's 67.

Trevino had problems with his back, which he said stiffened up in his air-conditioned hotel room after playing Thursday in sweltering 95-degree heat.

Purizer had a 67 Thursday to star the second round at 5-under-par. He started on the back nine Friday, making nine birdies and two bogeys. "I'm really not surprised I shot a 69," she said.

Lopez fires 67 to take LPGA tournament lead

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—Nancy Lopez Melton shot a 67 Friday to take the second-round lead at a $125,000 LPGA tournament at the Locust Hill Country Club in the Rochester suburb of Henrieville.

Lopez, 67, led a course record set by Pat Bradley last year at Locust Hill. Combined with her 73 in Thursday's first round, Lopez stands at 6-under-par 140.

Lopez said she was "nervous" and felt the pressure during the round. "I think the excitement made me a little nervous," the 23-year-old Cincinnati, Ohio native said. "Because when I got 4-under I was nervous and could feel the pressure."

trouble exceptionally well and I haven't gotten into any driver thank goodness," said Bradley who fired a 71 including four birdies and two bogeys.

Thursday's first-round leader, Cathy Sherck from Ontario, Canada, fell to third place. "I thought I played pretty good," she said.

Myra Van Hooser, in a three-way tie for fourth place, shared top honors with Lopez by shooting a 69.

Dodgers' Reuss no-hits SF

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Jerry Reuss, considered washed up only two seasons ago, wrote another chapter to his amazing comeback story Friday-night by pitching the first no-hitter since Bill Singer turned out to be a dud in 1966.

Reuss, a 31-year-old left-hander, became the first Dodger pitcher to toss a no-hitter since Bill Singer turned out to be a dud in 1966.

Reuss, who struck-out two, was aided by a fine defensive play by third baseman Ron Cey in the eighth inning. Cey made a diving stop on Larry Herndon's hard-smash and threw the Giant center fielder out the shutout.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Lee Mazzilli's inside-the-park home run touched off a three-run sixth inning Friday night that gave the New York Mets a 3-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies—and snapped Steve Carlton's eight-game winning streak.

Mazzilli led off the inning by blooping a ball to right. Bake McBride broke in and then tried to slow up to play the ball on the hop, but it landed under home plate.

The Phillies made it 3-2 in the seventh on Bob Boone's two-run homer off starter John Pacella, who pitched six innings for his first major-league triumph in his first decision of the season.

DETROIT (UPI)—Lance Parrish belted home his eighth homer in a row as the Detroit Tigers won their eighth straight game Friday night for their eighth straight triumph.

The loss was the fourth in a row for Toronto. Detroit jumped to a 5-0 lead in the first inning after Jesse Jefferson, Rick Peters led off with a double and Dick Peters led off with a double.

ASTROS 5, REDS 4 HOUSTON (UPI)—Jose Cruz tripled over the head of center fielder Cesar Geronimo to drive in two runs in the eighth inning Friday night and give the Houston Astros a 5-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

ASTROS' knuckleballer Joe Niekro, 8-6, got the victory despite giving up 13 hits in eight innings and four runs in the first three innings.

Minter risks title rematch against Antuofermo today

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Alan Minter, the world middleweight champion, puts his title on the line in double quick time when he faces American-based Italian Vito Antuofermo Saturday.

The pair fought in Las Vegas last March when Minter took the championship, the only one recognized by both the World Boxing Council and the World Boxing Association, on a split decision.

Before 11,000 fans at the Wembley Arena, London he has no doubt that he will beat the Italian more convincingly the second time.

Southern Minter, one of the most experienced professionals in Europe, who won a bronze medal at the 1972 Munich Olympics, has hardened his fighting attitude without losing any of his boxing finesse, the advantage of training in his home town of Crawley just outside London.

"You prepare for every fight to the best of your ability but this time I feel sharper than ever before," Minter said.

Antuofermo arrived in London hiding behind kick gloves to cover a black eye suffered in training.

That, and the fact he thought he "was robbed" — as they say in boxing — in the Las Vegas verdict, may not add up to the proper attitude a challenger should have in for a fight with a man like Minter.

It could be tough and the Italian should not be underestimated. He is certainly a better fighter than he has looked in his recent championship encounters when he faced southpaws. Against American Marvin Hagler, regarded by many experts as the best man in the division, Antuofermo kept his title with a draw.

He must be now accustomed to the southpaw stance and if he finds a way through the Minter defense and gets home with his own brand of short arm punching the champion could be in trouble.

Minter has had setbacks in his career through cuts around the eyes, which lost him his European title, and he is certainly vulnerable as his record shows.

But he has worked for seven years to appear in London as world champion and his home crowd will undoubtedly help to bring him into the ring at his best.

Celtics to stay in Garden

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics, faced with league pressure to provide a new season, submitted a proposal Friday for a new lease allowing them to stay in Boston Garden for at least the 1980-81 NBA season.

The Celtics, whose lease at the Garden has expired, are more than six months behind schedule in submitting playing dates to the NBA for next season. The league office has requested a tentative home schedule by Monday.

"Our problem really is, we don't have dates," said team owner Harry Mangurian in an interview with his business office in Florida. "The NBA is way past the scheduling deadline and they've given us a time frame."

The Celtics went to U.S. District Court Wednesday and asked their landlord, the New Boston Garden Corp., to allow them to submit the dates. But Judge W. Arthur Garrity said the team failed to provide enough information to prove its claim of unfairness and rejected the request.

"If we don't get the dates, we'll be forced to go somewhere else. It's not something that we've got a few weeks to work out. It's only a few days. And without the dates, we're licked," Mangurian said.

Garrity also told the Celtics to come forth with a lease proposal of their own. Mangurian said the new proposal, which asks for an answer by Monday noon, contains most of the language of the old lease with four significant changes.

"We want our ticket money right away, and an agreement on re-negotiating the sale of products bearing our logo. We want to fix costs of $7,000 a game for such duties, which is twice as high as the normal rate of $3,500. And we don't want to drop the lawsuits," Mangurian said.

The proposal also stipulates the Celtics will inform the Garden by January 1981 if they will need the Garden for the 1981-82 season. The team is actively pursuing plans to build a new arena, about five miles from the Garden.

Boston Garden President Paul Mooney could not be reached for comment.

Should the matter not be settled, the Celtics would be forced to go out of town, a situation Mangurian desperately wants to avoid. "The owner has convinced both Gov. Edward J. King and Mayor Kevin H. White for help."

Muhammad will meet Lopez

NEW YORK (UPI) — Matthew Saad Muhammad will defend his WBC light heavyweight championship against No. 6 contender Alvaro "Yagui" Lopez, July 15, at the Playboy Resort and Country Club at Great Gorge, N.J., it was announced Friday by Top Rank, Inc.

Muhammad, 26-3-2 including 18 knockouts, will be making his fifth title defense against Lopez, 49-9 including 33 knockouts, in a bout which will be televised on the CBS Sports Spectacular beginning at 4 p.m. EDT.

Muhammad, then known as Matt Franklin, scored an 11th round TKO over Lopez, Oct. 25, 1978 in a bout that brought the winner national attention.

U.S. diving finals begin

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — A field of 18 of the nation's best divers, including two veterans in perhaps their last major competition, began warmups Friday for the meet that will select the U.S. Olympic team.

Friday night preliminaries in the women's 3-meter springboard opened the competition, and the first finalists to select the three competitors in each event will be Saturday.

The selected team will make an international trip later in the year that will include competition in China.

Black TV to air college games

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Black Entertainment Television will begin coverage of football and basketball games from the nation's black colleges this fall, BET President Brook Johnson announced Friday.

BET currently feeds a two-hour movie package on Friday nights to 375 cable television markets with a potential audience of 4.5 million subscribers in 47 states.

Niatross begins triple crown bid

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI) — Niatross, in the opinion of many the best harness horse since Dan Patch, goes for his 18th and 19th consecutive victories in Saturday night's 2521, 305 Class Pace at Yonkers Raceway.

The judge bid the announcement Friday after hearing from the judges that the announcement was a race through the 2521 and 305 classes. Niatross could begin carrying a $250,000 bonus for capturing the Triple Crown.

Cavaliers sign Chad Kinch

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The guard-starred NBA Cleveland Cavaliers announced Friday the signing of Chad Kinch, a 6-4, 190-pound guard from the University of North Carolina-Charlotte, to a 3-year contract.

Overt runs fastest 1500 meters

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Steve Ovett, Friday won the fastest 1500 meters in the world this season, but still finished three seconds outside countryman Sebastian Coe's world record.

The 24-year-old European champion clocked 3:29.12 in the 1500 meters at an international track and field meet at London's Crystal Palace, a tenth of a second faster than Soviet Vladimir Malozemlin, but more than three seconds slower than Coe's world record of 3:21.51 set last year in Zurich.

Although the race Friday began quickly, the pace fell off after a 1:53.40 800 meters, and Ovett had to dig down hard in the stretch to stay three meters ahead of 19-year-old Steve Cram of England who chased finished second.

But Cram was consigned to return his first race to the last season, but as obviously a younger beater, Jim Ryan's 3:36.1 set in 1966. Jean Luis Gonzalez of Spain, finished third in 3:37.9.

Olympic champion Hasley Crawford of Trinidad was obviously affected by the cold weather and placed no higher than eighth in the 100 meters. Scotland's Allan Wells shot out ahead of the pack and established a new world record with 1:10.30 seconds, Cameron Sharp of Scotland was second in 1:04.17, with Londoner Trevor Hoyle edging Ernest Obeng of Ghana into fourth place.

Britain's javelin queen Teresa Sanderson, threw 58.29 meters (212 1/2 inches) to defeat U.S. Champion Kathy Schimpl, 56.02 meters (219 3/4 inches).

Rod Milburn of the U.S. led from the start in the 110 meters hurdles clocking 1:52.92 seconds. But American world record holder Renaldo Nehemiah was looking good to place in his first race in Britain, before he stumbled off the final flight and lost to British punter, who took a fourth.

Tony Campbell — of the U.S. — was second in 13.71.

A gripping two-mile race was won by England's Dave Moorcroft. His strong kick on the last curve was too good for Philibert Bayl (Tanzania). Moorcroft ran 8:18.6 minutes and Bayl was outgunned by Scotland's Nat Muir who timed 8:19.4 to edge the Tanzanian by two tenths of a second.

England's Geoff Copes threw 20.86 meters (68 1/2 inches) in beating Canada's Bruno Pauletto, 20.33 meters, (66 1/2 inches).

French drivers lead qualifying

Le CASTELLE, France (UPI) — Driving on their home ground, three Frenchmen posted the fastest time Friday in the first timed practice for Sunday's French Grand Prix Formula One auto race.

Jacques Laffite, in a Ligier, clocked 1:38.88 minutes in a lap of the Paul Ricard circuit for a blistering average speed of 211.55 KPH (132 MPH), full 10 seconds faster than the old track record.

Rene Arnoux in one of the strongly favored turbo-charged Renaults, was third fastest in 1:39.49 minutes while Didier Pironi in the second Ligier held down the third time with 1:39.55.
