

Iran will release ill hostage

By United Press International
Richard Queen, one of the 53 American hostages in Iran, is seriously ill in a Tehran hospital and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has ordered that he be freed and sent home to his parents, Tehran Radio announced Thursday.

The radio said Queen, 28, a native of New York, was in "serious" condition in a Tehran hospital. It did not disclose the nature of his illness but said it was serious enough for Khomeini to order his release after 250 days in captivity.

One militant in the occupied U.S. Embassy, reached by telephone by a reporter, said "What the Imam (Khomeini) has said in his statement is true."

In several broadcasts announcing Khomeini's orders, the radio carried conflicting accounts of Queen's illness and the events leading to the order for his release.

One broadcast said Queen, a vice-consul on his first foreign assignment, was rushed to the hospital Thursday. Another broadcast quoted his militant captors as saying he had been in the hospital for several days.

Gary Johnson, assistant news director of radio station KEZY in Anaheim, Calif., said he telephoned an Iranian hospital Thursday and talked to a doctor who told him that Queen is a patient there and is suffering from a disease called paraplegia.

"The doctor told me 'He is extremely ill. His legs are paralyzed,'" said "Paraplegia is a form of stroke that affects movement and feeling in the lower extremities."

Iranian radio said at one point Queen would be flown to a "third country" of his parents' choice. But another news bulletin implied that Queen's parents, who live in Lincolnville, Maine, would be allowed to come to Tehran to escort him home.

In Scarisale, N.Y., where they were visiting relatives, Queen's parents, Harold and Jeanne, said they were "tremendously excited but worried" about their son.

Hostage Richard Queen will be released by Iran due to illness. UPI

"We're worried, the health, there must be some reason," Mrs. Queen said. "We ask that you all pray."

Mrs. Queen said her son has no history of any health problem. Asked her thoughts on Khomeini, Mrs. Queen said simply, "The whole world should be friends. We have no ill feeling to anybody."

The elder Mr. Queen said first reaction when the State Department informed him of the possible release of Richard was "deep, deep, deep concern."

President Carter, in Alaska on his way home from Japan, said at Elmendorf Air Force Base in Anchorage, "We don't yet have a confirmation of this report. If it is true and if the young man is well after adequate treatment, of course, we will be very thankful."

"Obviously the proper thing for the terrorists to do is to release all of the hostages who are being held because they are innocent and they deserve to be with their families as well as those who are too ill to be treated," he said.

Queen, described by one friend as a lanky, dark-haired man, is a 1973 graduate of Hamilton College in Clinton, N.Y., and has a master's degree in Balkan History from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

His task was to issue visas to Iranian students seeking to study in the United States.

Tehran radio said Khomeini acted on the advice of the doctors attending Queen, who were quoted as saying that he needed medical treatment that Iran could not provide.

"Specialists concluded that he should be transferred to one of the countries enjoying better medical facilities," it said.

Informed of the news, one of Queen's uncles, Richard Queen of Brooklyn, N.Y., said "If that s.o.b. (Khomeini) is releasing him, there must be something terribly wrong."

"It's been very tough on his parents. I can't tell you how tough. If he's not too ill, it's wonderful news. If he's really sick, I don't know what to say. It worries me," the uncle said.

3 remain as likely vp choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan has narrowed his list of possible vice presidential nominees to three: U.S. Ambassador George Bush, Sen. Richard Lugar of Indiana and Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, campaign aides disclosed Thursday.

Key Reagan aides told United Press International that while the "choices" has been narrowed down to these three contenders, Reagan still has made no final decision on a running mate.

"Anything could happen," said one strategist. "He has made no final decision and it's possible other names could be added. But it has really come down to these three."

A press spokesman for Laxalt quoted the senator, who is Reagan's national campaign chairman, as saying news reports naming the three vice presidential contenders were "just speculation."

And Lynn Nofziger, Reagan's director of communications, later issued a statement saying, "There is no truth to the story. The process of selecting a vice presidential nominee is continuing in an orderly fashion."

One campaign official told UPI it was unlikely that Reagan would make a final decision on a vice presidential choice until after he arrives at the convention in Detroit on Monday.

"I think he wants to discuss it thoroughly with other party leaders first," said a campaign aide.

"Laxalt is Reagan's personal preference," but that the former governor is concerned about picking someone who "can help to broaden the base of the party."

"If I had to put money on one of the three," said this aide, "I would bet on Lugar," a freshman senator who served as campaign chairman for Sen. Howard Baker's unsuccessful presidential bid.

6,000 acres go up in flames

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — Bureau of Land Management firefighters Thursday said they had contained two range fires which burned a total of about 6,000 acres.

BLM officials reported no injuries and no damage to private property or livestock resulting from the fires.

The largest of the fires, located about 15 miles north of Minidoka, burned about 5,000 acres of grass and sagebrush, located about 3 p.m. Fire consumed about 800 acres of sagebrush and grass 15 miles northwest of Buhl before it was contained at 7:30 p.m.

BLM Shoshone District fire management officer Carlos Mendolia said the 5,000-acre fire was the largest in the district so far this year. He said it was apparently ignited by lightning Wednesday night and snoldered until it was first spotted around noon.

Fifty firefighters from the Shoshone and Burley BLM districts were rushed to the scene, along with eight large tankers, two pickup dumpers, and two located east of the fire. Had the fire reached that point, it could have burned another 10,000 acres, he said.

Firefighters worked to establish a fire line around the blaze, which was spreading to a two-mile stretch of land between two lava flows, located east of the fire. Had the fire reached that point, it could have burned another 10,000 acres, he said.

About half of the firefighters had been released late Thursday. Mendolia said the remaining 25 firefighters, all from the Shoshone BLM district, were to monitor the fire through the night.

There were seven other fires in the Shoshone district which were contained Wednesday. A total of 2,100 acres burned in those fires before firefighters contained them about 9 p.m. The largest fire, believed to have been man-caused, burned 1,800 acres of sagebrush and grass before rain extinguished it.

Mendolia said six of the fires, burning about 300 acres near Shoshone, were caused by lightning.

Boise BLM district dispatcher Cheryl Deroin said the 800-acre fire near Buhl was first spotted at 2:30 p.m. Thursday. Firefighters believe the fire was man-caused and the case remains under investigation. About 25 firefighters from the Boise and Burley BLM districts, remained at the scene.

Seek end to 55 mph limit

Republicans complete platform work

DETROIT (UPI) — The Republican Platform Committee Thursday avoided attempts to harden its already conservative foreign policy planks and completed work on the platform that will be the theme of Ronald Reagan's 1980 campaign.

The committee pledged that Republicans will work for the appointment of federal judges who oppose abortion and who believe in returning power from the federal government to the states.

It also included planks that would weaken federal gun control laws, reinstate the death penalty and abolish the federal 55 mile per hour speed limit.

The Platform Committee overwhelmingly adopted a plank calling on Congress to lift the federal 55 mph speed limit and leave the matter to individual states.

The 55 mph speed limit plank was sharply debated, but finally Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., rose and suggested the delegates stop bickering. "All those who drove over 55 setting here vote in favor of the amendment. All those who drove 55 vote against it."

The proposal passed by voice vote. Some of the amendments went

Another Republican 'plank' was completed Thursday, this time outside the convention hall beyond what Reagan's lieutenants felt they could accept, but the delegates proved hard to control.

Richard Allen, one of Reagan's chief foreign policy advisers, stressed to reporters that Reagan agrees with the platform's rejection of the Carter's proposed SALT II treaty with the Soviet Union, but said Reagan will negotiate on arms control with the Soviets if he assured "that we have in motion a program designed to rebuild American defenses."

The final platform includes provisions for heavy defense spending to give the United States parity with the Soviets in anti-ballistic missiles and to expand U.S. Naval strength with a new shipbuilding program.

The tough language on appointing only judges who would return power to the states bothered even conservative Sens. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., and Bob Dole, R-Kan., both members of the committee.

Wallop said it was inconsistent to accuse President Carter of making partisan judicial nominations while calling for appointment of judges who reflect traditional GOP values.

Unknown virus is destroying area pea crop

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — About one third of the Magic Valley's pea crop has been damaged or destroyed by an unknown virus.

Jesse Wilson, Jerome County agriculture extension agent, estimated that about 8,000 of 25,000 acres of peas grown in the Magic Valley have been hit by the virus.

In some cases, whole fields of peas have been killed. In most cases, yields will be substantially reduced, Wilson said. The virus appears to have spread across the Magic Valley from Burley to Castelford, he said.

Virtually all the peas grown in the Magic Valley are grown for seed under contract to local seed companies. Signs of the disease first surfaced about a month ago, said Calvin Lamborn, director of research for the Gallatin Valley Seed Co. in Twin Falls. Two weeks ago entire fields of peas started dying, he said.

Little is known about the disease, Lamborn said. It is believed to be a virus found in alfalfa, which is transmitted to peas by aphids.

Lamborn's theory is that because the first cutting of alfalfa was delayed by the cold wet spring, most of the alfalfa in the Magic Valley was cut within a few days after the weather warmed up. As the alfalfa dried, aphids in the alfalfa had nothing to eat and went looking for other crops.

Their second choice after alfalfa is peas, Lamborn said. But the bugs prefer alfalfa, so they kept eating peas, while they kept moving looking for alfalfa. That would account for the widespread occurrence of the disease at a time when the aphid population is not particularly large, he said.

Others believe the virus weakens the plant, allowing other diseases to get started and eventually kill it.

While it isn't clear what accounts for the sudden and widespread outbreak of the disease, the effects of the virus are clear. Lamborn said it stops the growth of the plants. Then the plant starts turning yellow, and within a few weeks after signs of the disease first appear the plants are dead.

If the virus strikes a field of peas before seeds appear on the plants, then the entire field can be destroyed without producing any seeds. If seeds have appeared, those seeds can be harvested.

In infected test plots at Gallatin Valley, researchers tried to stop the spread of the disease with insecticides. But the aphids can infect too many plants before they die, Lamborn said. There appears to be nothing a grower can do to stop the virus.

Some varieties of peas grown in the Magic Valley appear to be immune to the virus, he said. These all appear to be varieties descended from European plants, which could mean the virus here is the same or closely related to a virus common in Europe, Lamborn said.

For growers with infected crops, Wilson said, there are no government disaster relief programs. The protection isn't offered because peas are not a primary crop in the Magic Valley. Most people who grow peas only grow a few acres, he said.

For growers whose fields are destroyed by the virus, Extension Agronomist Doug Ryerson suggests oats forage can still be planted at this late date. He said farmers could also plant barley, but it would be risky. "Assuming we had a long fall, and were able to harvest grain, the yield would be reduced by at least 50 percent and probably more," he said.

United Way sets 1980 goal

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The United Way of Twin Falls Inc. plans to raise $140,000 this year, $10,000 more than the amount raised in 1979.

United Way Board of Directors Thursday established the 1980 fund-raising goal and designated funding levels for the organization's operations and for 11 local services and agencies.

Funding levels for local services were established by the directors and the United Way's Agency Relations Committee as follows:

$21,000 for the Sawtooth Chapter of the American Red Cross with an additional $1,000 for disaster assistance; $1,300 for the Arthritis Foundation of Idaho; $32,000 for the Sauko

River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America; $5,350 for Campfire, Inc. of Twin Falls; $1,500 for United Cerebral Palsy of Idaho, Inc.;

$2,750 for the Silver Sage Girl Scout Council; $21,300 for the Salvation Army; $1,500 for the Agelens Senior Citizens Federation; $3,400 for the Magic Valley Alcohol Rehabilitation Center; $24,500 for the YFCA and $17,900 for the United Way campaign and administrative costs.

United Way executive director-Lila Fleming said allocations were determined by the number of persons served in this county by the agency, the number of services offered by the agency, the committee's estimate of how much money could be raised and whether the agency receives other funds.

Funding increases average 7.6 percent, which does not compensate for inflation, she noted. Fleming said the loss in spending power was spread across-the-board to the various agencies.

"I just really think with the community knowing what the United Way is and what we're working toward that we will certainly meet the goal," she said.

Co-chairmen of the 1980 funding drive are Doug Moore and Dorothy Geist.

Although fund-raising efforts will begin in earnest in October, a family barbecue has been scheduled for July 28 at the Twin Falls park at 5:30 p.m. Fleming said. Tickets for adults are $3.50. Family tickets are $10. Tickets can be obtained at the Bank of Idaho and the United Way office, 800 Falls Ave.

2 more volcano victims found

KEISO, Wash. (UPI) — The bodies of two more Mount St. Helens victims were found in the volcano's blast zone Thursday, the Cowlitz County sheriff's office said. Names of the dead couple were not disclosed pending an investigation by Coroner D. F. Winebrenner. It brought to 23 the number of victims who have been either found on the explosion-scattered mountain or who have succumbed in hospitals from volcanic injuries. Another 36 are missing and feared dead. A sheriff's deputy discovered the first victim, tangled in a blown down tree. Lewis County Deputy Brian Hill and his search dog, Hansa, then flew into the region and the dog found the second victim. It was the fifth Mount St. Helens victim that Hill and his dog had located since the mountain exploded like a gigantic atomic bomb on May 18. One Wednesday, searchers found the body of the 24th victim in a tree along the Tootle River. Winchester later identified him as Evelynt Sharpoff, one of four three thinners working in the area when the volcano erupted.

Lightning kills 2 hikers

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (UPI) — Lightning struck a backpackers' shelter on the Appalachian Trail Thursday, killing two people and seriously injuring a third, Great Smoky Mountains National Park officials said. Park dispatcher Ann Anderson said the victims' identities were being withheld pending notification of relatives. "The shelter was full of people seeking refuge from the storm," Ms. Anderson said. "We have rangers on the scene now." A hiker from Michigan walked out of the remote area and reported the incident to rangers, she said.

Iranian coup attempt reportedly smashed

By United Press International
Iran's ruling Revolutionary Council said Thursday it smashed an attempted coup by the military to bomb the headquarters of Ayatollah Khomeini and other Muslim leaders and seize control of the country. It was the sixth such reported attempt in the last four months. "Many members" of the plot were arrested, the head of Iran's air force said, and Tehran radio said some of the plotters resisted arrest and were killed, but no exact figures were announced. President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr, in a broadcast over Tehran Radio, said the ruling Council has been aware of the plot for the past month, saying the "Iraqi government was overtly and cowardly involved." The announcement of the attempted coup came on the same day as reports of a heavy outbreak of fighting along the Iran-Iraqi frontier. Iran and Iraq have become openly hostile since the overthrow of the shah in 1979. "During the past 24 hours, we learned that these people planned to carry out their plot last night (Wednesday)," the Tehran Committee of the Revolutionary Guards, the armed forces of the Muslims who overthrew the shah, arrested the plotters, Bani-Sadr said. The head of Iran's air force, who was not further identified, said the

UFO sighted over 3 states

GUYPON, Okla. (UPI) — Officers from at least nine law enforcement agencies and dozens of Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma residents reported spotting a cigar-shaped object with multi-colored lights early Thursday hovering over northwestern Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas. A dispatcher for the Oklahoma Highway Patrol in Guymon said his office was flooded with telephone calls from residents near the Oklahoma-Kansas border who spotted the object, most often described as a cigar-shaped craft with flashing blue, green and red lights. Several police officers also reported seeing the slow-moving, and often stationary, object above the Oklahoma-Kansas border.

Man goes berserk, kills 3

WANTAGH, L.I. (UPI) — Two children and a man were killed and 20 others injured in a park Thursday in a bizarre incident involving a berserk man who took the wheel of two cars. Nassau County police said Robert Kabolowsky, 20, clad only in jockey shorts, dashed into Wantagh park after threatening to kill himself with a knife in his nearby home. Detectives said Kabolowsky drove a stolen car carrying three children into a picnic ground in the park at 80 mph, killing 15-year-old Marvin Blumberg of Levittown as he sat at a table. The car then plowed through a fence, killed two children, and injured about a dozen other people who were standing in front of a food concession stand, police said. They said the three children in the car with Kabolowsky were not seriously injured.

rebels planned to bomb Khomeini's home as well as the residences of the prime minister and the president. After bombing their targets, the rebels planned to take over the radio and television and to proclaim an interim government or a consultative government, the air force chief said. "In this connection they even brought into Iran extremely advanced weapons and placed these weapons at the disposal of...mercenary personnel. Luckily the plot was frustrated," he added. "Many members of this personnel were arrested (and) during preliminary interrogations they admitted their guilt and gave details of the plan." Bani-Sadr indicated the plotters came from Iran's air force, saying, "I only wish to express my gratitude to the soldiers, air force personnel who were the first to inform us."

He said it was the sixth plot to be uncovered and foiled over the past four months, and announced "A seventh plot has also been uncovered, with some of its perpetrators having already been arrested. This plot, too, will be made public."

Early radio reports of today's coup attempt said it was staged by "aggressive Iranian criminals, Zionism, global imperialism and mainly the puppet Iraqi government."

Today's weather

Fair weather predicted for Friday

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas: Mostly fair through Saturday. Windy at times. Overnight lows are expected to be in the 50s, and highs both days in the 80s. The extended outlook in southern Idaho for Saturday through Monday calls for mostly dry with a slight warming trend. Highs will be in the mid 80s to mid 90s, and lows mostly in the 50s. Camas Prairie, Halley, Wood River valley: Mostly fair through Saturday. Windy at times. Overnight lows in the 40s, highs both days in the 70s. Northern Utah and Nevada: Generally fair through Saturday with high temperatures 85 to 95. Overnight lows 45 to 60 degrees. Synopses: Sunshine smiled on most of Idaho Thursday. However, a weak storm produced 60 to 70 degree temperatures and rain showers over the northern third of the state. Lewiston reported a third of an inch of rain and Grangeville .16. In the south, however, afternoon temperatures were generally in the 70s or low 80s. The warmest reading in Idaho was 91 at Malad, while Stanley's 38 was the coolest Thursday morning. Most minimums were in the 50s. Elsewhere in the nation, the hot spot was Blythe, Calif. at 114 degrees while Houlton, Maine, reported the lowest temperature, 39 degrees. Spraying forecast for Magic Valley shows winds 10 to 15 mph with a few stronger gusts in the afternoons and evenings, decreasing to 8 to 12 mph during the nights. Pan evaporation will be .34 of an inch today and Saturday. The buying-outlook calls for good curing conditions through Tuesday, with mostly dry weather and near normal temperatures. Little if any early morning dew.

Alien reports desert murders

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A witness says one of the smugglers who led 12 illegal aliens to death in the blazing Arizona desert may have killed as many as four of them in an effort to end their suffering before he died himself of exposure and thirst, authorities revealed Thursday.

Pima County Sheriff Clarence Dupnik said one of the 14 survivors, a woman, said other women in the party of Salvadorans "begged to be killed because of the agony and suffering" from extreme dehydration after three days in the desert, where ground temperatures reached as high as 135 degrees.

Elias Nunez-Guardado, 26, of Chaltenango, El Salvador, allegedly one of the two organizers of the trek, and Mateo Preciado, 45, of Sonora, Mexico, another survivor, faced arraignment Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Raymond T. Terlizzi. Both are accused of alien smuggling.

Dupnik said the unidentified witness told him many as four women may have been suffocated and strangled.

He related that she said she had tried to stop the smuggler from strangling a woman who begged to die, and that he beat her unconscious. When she awoke, the other woman

Aliens housed in crowded jail

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Ten survivors of a three-day desert ordeal that killed an alien smuggler and 12 other people were incarcerated Thursday at an overcrowded county jail that a federal judge has threatened to close.

All 14 survivors, including two facing smuggling charges, are accused of illegal entry into the United States Thursday at an overcrowded county jail that a federal judge has threatened to close.

The man, one of the victims found by searchers last weekend in the 516-square-mile Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument 142 miles southwest of Tucson, was the chief organizer of the alien smuggling trek, authorities said. His identity was withheld.

The witness also saw the man kill another woman and found the bodies of two others who had begged to be spared the agony of dying of thirst and heat prostration, said sheriff's Capt. Dennis Douglas.

to $1,200 apiece for a never-completed trip to California, were "decent people" and should be allowed to remain in the United States, at least temporarily.

A number of Ajo residents have offered to sponsor the refugees, said Pima County Board of Supervisors' Chairman E. S. "Bud" Walker, who urged Udall and other members of the state's congressional delegation to ask President Carter to approve political asylum.

Gergio Rubio Garcia, a commander of the Mexican federal judicial police at San Luis, Sonora, said five Mexican citizens — including four alleged members of an alien-smuggling ring called "Los Muneecos" or "The Dolls" — were arrested Wednesday in connection with the case. The fifth man operates a Mexican nightclub and helped plan the entry of the Salvadorans into Arizona last weekend, Rubio Garcia said.

The two men facing smuggling charges later could be charged with negligent homicide, authorities said.

Heat wave rolls into Midwest

By United Press International
The heat wave that has scorched the South and Southwest for almost three weeks spread Thursday as far north as Illinois where heat was blamed in four deaths-to-push-the-nationwide total to 263.

For two weeks the heatwave, which has shown no signs of abating, was restricted primarily to the South and Southwest where it brought record high temperatures almost daily.

Many of the resulting deaths were those of elderly people who were too poor to afford air conditioning.

An apartment maintenance worker in Memphis, Tenn., discovered the body of an elderly heat victim in her home and 40 minutes later discovered another.

In Tulsa, Okla., where mandatory water rationing was being enforced, Jim Kerr, a Creek Indian, was persuaded to perform a rain dance in headress and leggings atop a downtown building. A similar effort was followed by another.

"I'm not sure about doing this anymore," Kerr said. "I can invoke the spirits, but I can't control them."

A 15-year-old Kansas City girl who suffers from leukemia and has only three months to live and her family had some relief from the heat thanks to a donation of an air conditioner.

"I couldn't believe there were that many people in the world who cared enough to donate anything to sick people," said Elizabeth Gabaree, mother of Katherine Gabaree.

Judge rules Iran must pay claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge, defying the presidential ban on court settlements of financial claims against Iran, ruled Thursday U.S. insurance firms are entitled to compensation for assets nationalized by the Tehran government.

In what was believed the first decision of its kind, U.S. District Judge George Hart disregarded a request by Assistant Attorney General Alice Daniel, head of the Justice Department's civil division, that he delay deciding the case.

The amount of the claims has been estimated by the U.S. firms at $35 million, and Hart ordered Iran and its government-owned insurance company to post a $35 million bond to insure an ultimate settlement.

Hart said Iran nationalized its insurance industry without warning June 25, 1976, and without making any provision for compensation as required under a U.S.-Iran treaty, which became final in 1957.

"Iran has consistently and notoriously failed to honor its duties, responsibilities and obligations," the judge said in his written order.

Bill Simon: A conservative ready if Reagan summons

By DONALD H. MAY
United Press International

DETROIT — One April day in 1976, William E. Simon, then the nation's 63rd treasury secretary, began another of his innumerable congressional appearances.

Uncharacteristically, he departed from his text. "You know, these last 3 1/2 years, the years that I've been in Washington — they've been like a bad dream," he said. "The kind of dream where they're catching up to you, and they overpower you, and people just walk past and don't pay any attention."

"But it's not a dream," Simon continued. "It's reality. This country is in desperate danger."

The danger, he elaborated, was "this monstrous growth of government" in which the government, "by taxing and promising and spending," has taken a larger and larger share of the nation's total economic output.

Not only was that an economic problem, he said — "for we all know that neither man nor business nor government can spend more than is taken in for very long."

But it was more importantly a problem for society itself, because excessive growth of government, said

Simon, undermines equity, threatens social stability and eventually as a result "freedom itself must disappear."

Simon, now one of Ronald Reagan's economic and political advisers and a possible vice-presidential choice, recalled that testimony in a 1978 book, "A Time for Truth," in which he expanded on this philosophy.

The book's two themes are the importance of individual liberty and a free market, which Simon contends are inseparable.

He believes, with Adam Smith, that, in Simon's words, "allowing millions upon millions of individuals to pursue their material interests as they choose, with a minimum of interference by the state, will unleash an incredible and orderly outpouring of inventiveness and wealth."

Simon, now 52, and chairman of Crescent Diversified Ltd., a New York City investment firm, was born Nov. 27, 1927, in Paterson, N.J., to what he describes as "a family of French Catholic origins that lost its wealth during the Depression."

His mother died when he was eight. His father made a modest living as an insurance broker.

After serving in the Army, he went to Lafayette

College, in Easton, Pa., where he recalls harvesting "a crop of C's, ornamented by a few B's."

In his junior year in college he married his childhood sweetheart, Carol Girard. They have seven children.

After college, Simon went to work on Wall Street for 37 1/2 weeks. He rapidly moved on, becoming vice president of Western and Co. in 1957 and a partner in the investment firm, Solomon Brothers, in 1964, where his income, he recalls, "exceeded anything I had ever dreamed of as a young man."

In January 1973, President Richard Nixon, to whose campaign he had contributed, brought Simon to Washington to be deputy treasury secretary.

For the next four years he was in the thick of things. He was Nixon's energy chief at the height of the 1973 Arab oil embargo, and Nixon appointed him treasury secretary in May 1974, as the nation slid into its worst period of inflation and recession in 40 years.

Simon blamed both the energy and economic crises on past errors of government.

He was present during Nixon's last cabinet meeting, after Watergate. "We all stared down at our laps or off into space as Nixon disclaimed any intention to resign."

Nixon did resign two days later. Gerald Ford continued Simon as treasury secretary, a post he held until the Carter administration took office in 1977.

For a period after that he devoted himself to writing and several consulting jobs.

He was involved in a short-lived effort to launch a New York newspaper, The Trib, and at one point negotiated to buy the Baltimore Orioles before the team was sold to its present management.

In addition to his investment job, Simon is president of the John M. Olin Foundation, which promotes free enterprise, and-treasurer of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

During the recent Republican primary in New Hampshire a group of supporters promoted him as a write-in candidate for president, but funding ran out and the effort met with little success.

Tabulated results lumped Simon in the scatter vote, but an election official said, "I daresay he got under 100 votes."

But he is handsome, youthful, articulate, conservative and from a large eastern industrial state — and that may mean more than his own effort in Massachusetts.

Opinion Editorials

Maybe nobody wants the Presidency

This may be the year both political parties self-destruct in their bid to gain the White House.

Take the Republicans, who have been given numerous opportunities to gain from the Carter administration's blunders and miscues. Given such a state of affairs, the GOP should avoid biting its own hand.

But that's just what the platform committee did Thursday meeting in Detroit. It decided to pull the rug out from the Equal Rights Amendment and obliterate 40 years of support. Instead, the platform will "recognize" the rights of Republicans to support the controversial amendment. In an attempt to put forth a neutral stance, the party may have neutralized rank and file supporters.

Likewise, the platform supports a constitutional amendment to ban abortion.

The deviousness within party ranks showed up immediately and the GOP now runs the risk of having those issues act like a two-bladed guillotine, alienating large numbers of supporters and women voters across the nation.

Mary Crisp, GOP vice chairman, said she believed the actions "could prevent our party from electing the next president of the United States." It was an emotional reaction, but these are emotional issues.

Although the full convention must approve the platform next week, it is unlikely there will be any change on the positions. Unfortunately, the fallout may not be accurately measured until election day, and then it will be too late.

It's as if the two political parties are at the door of the White House, each saying to the other in unison, "No, after you."

A good reason to vote

By CLAYTON FRITCHEY
© 1980, Newsday

WASHINGTON — Millions of politically disaffected citizens, according to opinion polls, are disposed to boycott the presidential election this year because, in their scorn for both of the major candidates, they feel the outcome won't matter much, one way or the other.

It's a short-sighted view, if for no other reason than that the future shape of the Supreme Court is at stake. Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan may, in some respects, be little better than Tweedledum and Tweedledee, but few doubt that their appointments to the high court would be profoundly different. The same could be said of John Anderson. On that score, at least, there is a choice.

Just how significant the change of merely one justice on the court could be, how it could drastically alter the lives of many American families, was dramatically illustrated a few days ago when, in a 5-4 vote, the court upheld a ban on the public funding of abortions for poor women.

What makes the decision painful for many to accept is that it might well have gone the other way if Carter had been able to appoint just one new member to the court. It is no secret that his choice would almost certainly have been a woman — obviously one capable of the essential rights movement, which the president, unlike Reagan, fully supports.

Reagan not only opposes the ERA constitutional amendment, but firmly backs the proposed amendment to outlaw abortions altogether. Women voters can judge for themselves how, if elected, Reagan would fill vacancies on the court. As for Anderson, he is the most ardent feminist of all the candidates.

or even 9-0, if the next occupant of the White House is a Republican.

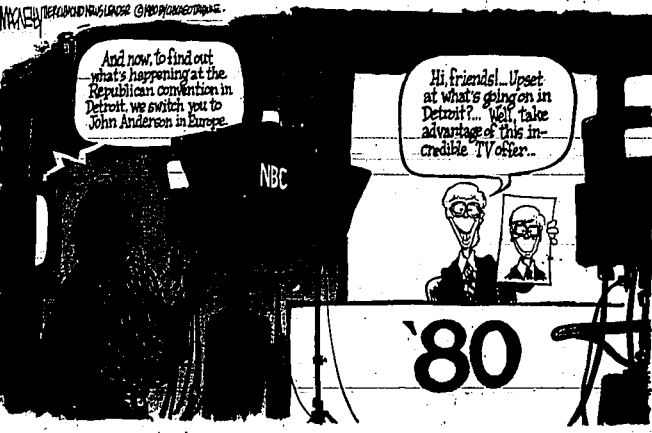

Dwight Eisenhower named five to the Court, Nixon four and Carter none. Nevertheless, the court has remained fairly balanced ideologically, which accounts for so many close and often surprising decisions. The November election, however, may change that.

A few appointments by a new president with Reagan's outlook would virtually guarantee a much more conservative court, perhaps the most conservative since pre-New Deal days. Conversely, with either Carter or Anderson in the White House, the court would probably regain much of its old Earl Warren look.

The court's most indefensible imbalance is the absence of a woman on it. It remains one of the country's last great all-male strongholds, even though women now comprise a majority of the electorate, and are intimately involved in most of the key issues that come before the court.

The woods are full of able women lawyers; many have served on federal district and appeal courts with distinction. Although countless male judges have been impeached, prosecuted and disbarred for misconduct, it is hard to recall any female judges who have been convicted of wrongdoing.

For balance there ought to be not one but several women on the court. Logically, why not a female majority? Balance would also be served by the restoration of a Jew to the court. Until the Nixon-Ford administrations, there had always been at least one Jewish justice on the court for the previous 50 years. Time and experience proved it a good tradition.

Keep Bliss pure

Editor, Times-News:
May I submit my thoughts in regard to our problem of pornographic movies in Bliss?

I think of Bliss, I think of the town as having been a child-town all of these many years, since my grandfather Will Clifford shipped lambs, along with Martin Curran the set the price of hay in early days. Mr. Braliford and a few other early day farmers and ranchers.

Yes, Bliss was a shipping point, envious as a port in the storm, just as the harbors in Europe were to the Crusaders. A place to trade and receive goods as the merchants used Venice. We are still on the thoroughfare, not only with our railroad, but now the freeway.

Can this child-town cope with the vulgarities that migrate and flow this way? Must we "cater to the truckers" as your recent article says?

Our Green Belt tells me "no." Agriculture does not show so much north of Bliss. Since there is this separation between town and country, with freeway and barren desert in between, we could start a new town. But no, we love our town. Bliss is our "baby," our church, our school, our refuge from the storm.

In answer to Mayor Zollinger's classic response to our problem, I quote this poem from Sen. Sam Ervin's final words at the last news conference for the Senate Watergate committee.

"God gives us men. A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands."

Men whom the lust of office does not kill;

Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy

Men who have honor; men who will not lie;

Men who can stand before a demagogue

And damn his treacherous flatteries without winking;

Tall men, sun-crowned who live above the fog;

In public duty and in private thinking.

Lord, help us keep Bliss pure and strong.

Love is eternal

Editor, Times-News:
Six Russian Baptist boys, drafted into the Soviet army were sent to Afghanistan, and then were executed because they refused to shoot Afghan freedom fighters. They judged rightly that Soviet army had no business in a peaceful neighboring country.

There are far more incidents involving Christians occurring in the world than ever make the news. A young Latvian school teacher was sentenced to Kolyma for 25 years for setting up a Christmas tree. Castro has given Tom White and Mel Bailey 24 years apiece in prison for dropping Gospel leaflets over Cuba, relatives who claimed Nicola Khamara's (a young pastor's) body from prison found it mutilated. A 16-year-old Cambodian girl was shot for refusing to stamp on a picture of Christ. A young Russian girl was stabbed to death for attempting missionary work at a concentration camp. The list is endless. The brutality displayed against Christians for 19 centuries is saddening to a normal person. But the ability of the Christian faith to endure is remarkable.

Will Durant, the historian, commenting on the cessation of the slaughter of Christians in the Roman arena, says, "Caesar and Christ had met in the arena, and Christ had won." We can be sure that the true Christian faith will be living when the grave of Communism appears. Why? Because love is the only eternal purpose there is; hate and selfishness carry corrosion.

Proud of merchants

Editor, Times-News:
Thanks to the efforts of the Twin Falls Merchants and the Softball Association, we were able to take 14 of our finest 11- and 12-year-old baseball players to the Caldwell tournament over the Fourth of July in uniform that made them walk tall.

When we found ourselves in a spot where we really needed them, the merchants came to our rescue. As volunteer coaches we have seen the benefits derived from their contributions as well as those sponsor who have teams with the city recreation department.

Thanks again, Merchants, for helping to make Twin Falls a better place to live. We are proud of you.

Hyde decision talks to economics, not to abortion

© The Boston Globe Newspaper Co.
Washington Post Writers Group

"The law in its majestic equality forbids the rich as well as the poor to sleep under bridges, to beg in the streets, and to steal bread." — Anatole France

The law in its majestic equality allows the poor as well as the rich to pay for their own abortions. — The U.S. Supreme Court

BOSTON — These two pieces of public policy have meshed in my mind in the week since the Supreme Court ruled by one vote that Congress could play politics with Medicaid.

The five men in the majority said that it is perfectly constitutional for Congress to award an individual payment for medical treatment according to its own morality. The five men said that it is perfectly constitutional for Congress to place a higher value on the potential life of a fetus than on the health of the woman carrying it.

If, of course, that woman is poor. They have presented all of us with a perfectly constitutional and utterly cynical piece of Americana. Life isn't fair. The rich get richer and the poor have children.

It seems to me that this decision says more about economics in our culture than about abortion. The majority opinion talked about money as only the affluent can, as if it were just an incidental difference in the lives of people.

The Hyde Amendment, said the decision, had not prohibited the poor from seeking abortions, but "merely" withheld the money to pay for them.

arena. But at the same time, they wrote a classic opinion of the American Way of Life in which money talks and the poor are lectured. A way of life in which the one inequality we accept is economic.

Not long ago, Barbara Ward, the social critic, wrote: "I have the impression that when we talk so confidently of liberty we are unaware of the awful servitude — of poverty when means are so small there is literally no choice."

"This case," as Justice Brennan wrote in his dissenting opinion, "involves a special exclusion of women — by definition — are confronted with a choice between two serious harms: serious health damage to themselves on the one hand, and abortion on the other."

This is precisely the difficult point that middle-class women can decide by themselves with their physicians. Poor women, however, have been told by their government that they are valued more as vessels of the unborn.

There is nothing new here in our attitude toward the poor. The "incentive" to have children stops abruptly at birth. The Congress that cares so deeply about pregnancy promises no decent life at the other end of the birthing canal for mother or child.

We will go on judging the poor for not controlling their lives, their destinies, their families — even as we go on limiting their ability to do so. We will go on letting the government invade their lives — even as we rule it out of ours.

Henry Hyde likes to say that those who favor legalized abortion are "elitists." He jovially calls those in favor of choice and privacy "Gucci Bolsheviks."

But it is not the rich who will ever suffer from abortion restrictions, even an anti-abortion constitutional amendment. They would do what they did before legalized abortion: fly themselves or their daughters to London, to Copenhagen, to safe distant clinics.

It is the poor who are most vulnerable, and the first affected by this wedge hammered into abortion rights. But soon, if the anti-abortion amendment is passed, the rest of us may be left with only one right. The law in its majestic equality will allow all of us to book a space on that flight.

All he wanted was spot to escape heat

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Paul Reyes, 62, could not pay his electricity bills and told friends all he wanted was a shady spot to escape the sweltering heat as he died.
His body was found tangled in a tree by the sidewalk a half block from his home late Tuesday.
Admitted to Brackebridge Hospital with a temperature of 109 degrees that night, he died Wednesday.

Medical examiners ruled heat stroke caused his death — the third death in Austin attributed to the killer heatwave that has blistered large areas of the Southwest and South with temperatures of more than 100 degrees.
Reyes, a diabetic nicknamed "Sporty," lived alone in a two-room house in East Austin.
Austin authorities have imposed a moratorium on electricity cutoffs because of the heatwave, but friends said Reyes' power was shut off two months ago because he could not pay his bills.

"Just the other night old Sporty, he said he was looking for a nice wooded area where he could go lie down where it was cool and die," said Vicente Gonzales.
"I told him he was crazy and gave him a sip of my beer. But he didn't want to drink. He just walked off. We found him later tangled inside a tree on the sidewalk."
Sylvester Pena said Reyes was called "Sporty" for the way he used to dress up and "catch all the girls and give them rides."
"We're gonna miss the old man," Gonzales said. "He was a good dude."

Patrolmen first charged with assaulting elder

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Two policemen are the first people charged under a new Rhode Island law that makes assault of someone 60 years of age or older a felony.
Providence patrolmen Kerry Murty and John Lagasse entered no plea

Tuesday to charges of punching a 68-year-old woman who asked about the arrest of her grandson.
Marty, 23, and Lagasse, 33, were suspended from their jobs after arraignment in district court.

HUA GUOFENG

Carter meets Hua

President Carter returned to the United States from Japan Thursday after holding high-level talks with Chinese Prime Minister Hua Guofeng. Although the president's 22-hour stay in Japan was planned so he could attend memorial services for the late Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, the high point was a 75-minute session — 15 minutes longer than scheduled — with Prime Minister Hua.

The meeting centered on the Soviet military buildup and the situations in Afghanistan and Cambodia, plus what Carter called "the exciting progress between our two great nations" since diplomatic relations were restored 18 months ago.

In an effort not to antagonize the Russians, Carter said despite Washington's new relationship with Peking, "We should not combine our efforts against another nation but we should combine our efforts to maintain peace and the freedom of each country to make its own decisions free of outside interference and certainly free of an invasion."

Pope meets with Brazil bishops

PORTALEZA, Brazil (UPI) — Delivering what he had said would be the most important message of his epic 12-day tour of Brazil, Pope John Paul II told a congress of bishops Thursday they must overcome political differences and unite to help the church "transform society."

Only selected portions of the pon-liff's address to more than 200 progressive and conservative bishops were released to reporters, who were barred from listening to the speech in what was apparently a last minute decision.

In the 11 days that John Paul has spent touring the vastness of Brazil, he has made no secret of his alarm at the social injustice and the poverty he has witnessed.

In several tough speeches and masses, he has called on Brazil's military rulers to improve their record on human rights and has pledged the church's full support in closing the wide gap between the few who are rich and the overwhelming many who are poor in the world's largest Roman Catholic nation.

Thus, the last-minute secrecy imposed on portions of the pope's speech gave rise to speculation that John Paul was taking an even tougher stand on social and economic issues with the bishops.

Paper identifies CIA agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fifteen officers in the U.S. Embassy in Kingston, Jamaica, who were named as alleged CIA agents have been given government permission to send their families home and leave themselves — sources said Thursday.

"It is not an evacuation and the decision to leave Jamaica is purely on a voluntary basis," one source said.

Louis Wolfe, editor of the Washington-based, anti-CIA periodical Covert Action Information Bulletin, told a news conference in Kingston July 3 that 15 CIA agents were working at the U.S. Embassy there under diplomatic "cover."

He gave their home addresses, unlisted home telephone numbers and the license plates of their cars.

The following day, the suburban Kingston home of N. Richard Kinsman was sprayed with sub-machine gun fire and a hand grenade landed on his lawn by unknown persons. Only Kinsman, identified by the embassy as a political officer, and his maid were home at the time. Neither was injured.

Wolfe had alleged that Kinsman was the head CIA man in Kingston.

The CIA has had no comment on the Kingston events.

Getty-Oil will rebate funds to poor, soldiers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Poor families and a home heating oil customers in 20 Eastern states will be receiving $25 million from Getty Oil under a novel settlement in an Energy Department price violation case, government sources said Thursday. About $11 million of the oil company money will go to state governments, which have agreed to distribute it among low-income families allegedly overcharged by Getty, the sources said.

The remaining $14 million in the settlement plan, which has not been formally announced, will be put in an escrow account to be turned over to low-income and minority members of the armed forces, they said.

"There's not much precedent for doing a thing like this," one source said. "There was considerable latitude so far as comprising the penalties."

A $75 million consent order signed by the company in December 1979, settled all but three small agency's claims against the California oil firm under federal pricing and allocation rules. Getty has admitted no wrongdoing, and the agency has alleged none.

Under the consent order, the firm earlier agreed to a $50 million reduction in the amount of deferred or "banked" costs it can later add to its prices. The disposition of the remaining $25 million became the subject of public hearings and comments after the agency revealed its initial proposals.

"They were trying to find a formula for giving the money back," the source said. "We wanted to be equitable and to make sure it got to low-income consumers."

The escrow proposal for low-income families and servicemen was hammered out after the agency reviewed a sheaf of rival proposals from numerous intervenors.

Jack Leone of Getty said "it's their decision" and his firm would have no comment until it is formally notified of the final plan.

States participating in the settlement agreement were: New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Kansas, Maryland, Rhode Island, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and Colorado.

Reagan 'helpers' face test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Election Commission will ask the courts to determine whether it is legal for independent groups to raise and spend more than $50 million to get Ronald Reagan elected president.

FEC sources said Thursday the commission will go to court in a two-step process to determine the legality of the independent expenditures the groups want to make in addition to the $20.4 million in federal funds the Reagan campaign can spend directly.

Common Cause has already gone to court to block the independent spending and the Carter campaign has asked the FEC to deny Reagan his federal campaign funds because the outside effort is illegal.

The FEC source said the commission will ask the courts to decide the constitutional question of whether the spending is legal.

The matter was left unanswered in a Supreme Court decision that upheld federal funding of presidential campaigns, but allowed independent spending by individuals.

Four groups have announced intentions so far to raise and spend money independent of the Reagan campaign. The largest one, headed by Sen. Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., plans to raise between $35 million and $50 million.

The FEC will also ask the courts to throw out the Common Cause suit, arguing that the commission, not the courts, have first jurisdiction in cases involving the election law.

The Carter campaign in its complaint to the FEC said independent groups raising and spending amounts that exceed the legal limits in presidential campaigns would wreck the public financing law and return election financing "to the bad days of Watergate."

Detroit strike talks stall

DETROIT (UPI) — Talks between Detroit officials and striking municipal workers broke off Thursday, heightening chances the walkout will drag into next week's Republican convention.

State labor officials serving as go-betweens in the marathon negotiating session suspended the talks indefinitely at midday, saying neither side appeared willing to move.

Mayor Coleman Young, who called the latest AFSCME proposal "ridiculous," said he will not allow an ongoing strike to tarnish the GOP convention, which opens Monday.

"We do not intend to have this convention disrupted," said Young. "The walkout has gone on 10 days now and the talks broke down altogether just hours after indications a settlement might be near."

But mediators remained on call and AFSCME officials said they would not leave the bargaining table until their latest proposal is rejected formally by the city.

AFSCME Executive Vice President Lloyd Simpson said the union was "taking a look at our demands and whether it is necessary we will make some adjustments."

Motive unknown in slaying of couple on Interstate 75

ADEL, Ga. (UPI) — A Kentucky couple was shot to death early Thursday at a rest stop on Interstate 75, apparently while four children watched — and hours later a man was found slain in his car at a truck stop 50 miles south of here.

A truck driver, William Howard Putnam, 37, of Talladega, Ala., was arrested and charged with the slayings. County Special Investigator Joe Futch said he would be charged with the murders of the Kentucky couple.

The man and woman were slain about 5 a.m. and witnesses at the rest stop described a truck that left about the time the shots were fired. The children, in the back seat of the car, were unharmed.

Futch said a gun was recovered from Putnam's truck. He said the driver refused to make a statement, but robbery did not appear to be a motive for the killings.

In Valdosta, the body of a Lowndes County man was found in his car at a truck stop about 3 p.m. Authorities said the man had apparently been shot to death early in the morning. Several persons recalled seeing him in the car but thought he was asleep.

Cook County Coroner Dave Godwin identified the slain couple as Christine Back, 28, and David Hardin, 22, both of Bardonia, Ky. They had been on a vacation in Florida.

The children were turned over to the state department of Family and Children's Services. They were identified as Bradley Back, 7; Dee Back, 9; and Shannon Back, about 11 months, and Beverly Culver, 14, who Godwin said was a niece of the dead man.

Repentant robber mails back loot

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — A bank robber tried to make amends Thursday by mailing back $38,000 he stole, but police and FBI officials said it makes no difference — they want to find and arrest him anyway.

The money arrived in the Thursday mail to the Phoenix FBI office, where a spokesman said, "It doesn't make any difference. We investigate violations of crime. The return of the money does nothing to counter the fact a crime was committed."

The money is believed to be from a robbery of the Western Bank in Gallup, N.M., on May 8. An unidentified man called the Phoenix bureau of United Press International Wednesday and said the money was in the mail to the FBI.

John J. Hinchcliffe, head of the Phoenix FBI office, said exactly $38,000 in $20 bills arrived in a cardboard carton addressed to the FBI in block, stenciled letters made with a red felt pen.

There was no return address and no postmark, although an FBI spokesman said the package was delivered by postal service.

The spokesman said included with the cash was a hand-printed, unsigned note saying the money was taken from a bank robbery in Gallup, N.M., in May, and that the "loot" was being returned with interest.

Frank Gonzales, chief of police in Gallup, agreed with the FBI when asked if investigators would soften their efforts to find the robber.

Lincoln School stoplight gets tentative OK

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Transportation Board decided Thursday a traffic signal can be installed at the Lincoln Elementary School crossing on Addison Avenue on one condition.

The next move in the four-year struggle by local officials and parents to secure the stoplight appears to be up to the Twin Falls School Board.

The transportation board, meeting in Boise Thursday, approved installation of a hand-actuated stoplight if the district or the city provides adult crossing guards. The crossing is located on Addison Avenue (U.S. Highway 83) at Monroe Street.

School Superintendent James Savin said he could not comment on the proposal before seeing it in writing.

Transportation Department Administrator Darrell Manning said the installation would be a "test program to see if it can work."

"Very young children have a tendency to put absolute faith in a signal, and statistics show with intermittent signals like these there is a high percentage of the first cars or so that run the light," he said. "We think under these circumstances they ought to have an adult guard watching for that kind of problem."

A meeting between the board and a delegation from Twin Falls scheduled for Thursday morning was canceled. State Rep. Noy Brackett, R-Twin Falls, who requested the session, was taken ill with a virus.

Manning said the board had talked to local people before, "knew the problem quite well," and reviewed videotapes of the intersection made recently during school.

"We decided to look at a test program and see what we could do," he said, assuming the school district "does its part." District highway officials at Shoshone will inform the school district about the plan.

The school board, legislators, parents and city officials have sought improved safety measures from the transportation department for about four years. In the last school year since the four-lane highway was widened, a 5-year-old student was struck by a car in the crossing and two children were hit by trucks at nearby points on Addison.

The transportation board had expressed an interest in a test program for a couple of years, Manning said, but had not found a suitable location. The Lincoln School crossing provided the opportunity.

Twin Falls City Manager Tom Courtney said, "If the state is in a position to fund the signal, that's extremely good news."

The City Council has supported more traffic control at the crossing, Courtney said, however, the council in the past has felt crossing guards are the responsibility of the schools.

If the city were to man one school crossing it would become its responsibility to man a number of potentially dangerous school crossings in the city, which would be costly, he said.

Manning said the pilot project would be done as cheaply as possible at a cost of approximately $3,000. Lights would be hung from a cable across Addison between wooden poles. The operator would push a switch to start the stoplight sequence. The switch box would be locked when not in use.

Lincoln PTA President Phyllis Bulgin said the transportation board's proposal was "something to be considered."

"It's up to the school board, since they have to provide the people," she said. "I'm glad to see at least they're going to do something. It depends on when."

School starts Aug. 25. Manning said he could not promise how long the installation would take because there are some supply problems with traffic controls. But the department could try to do the job before school.

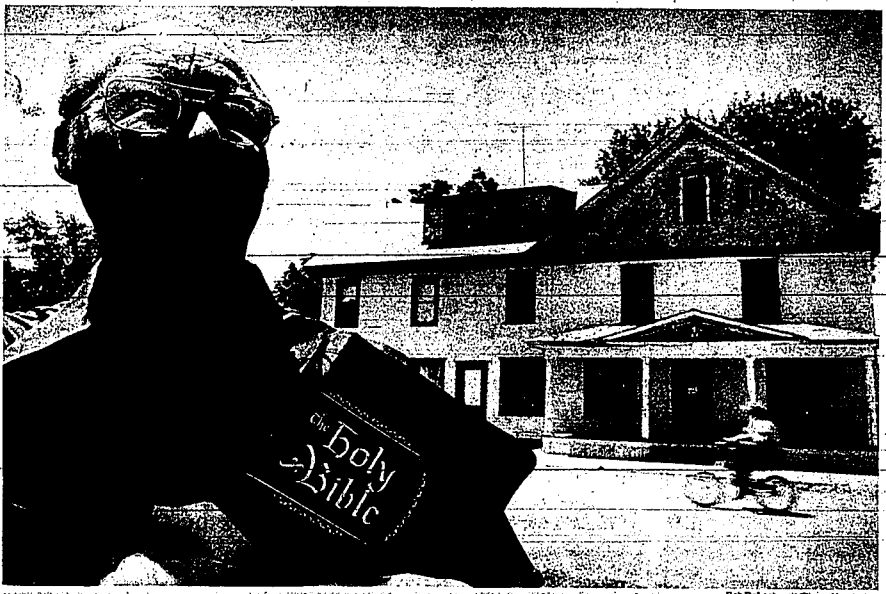

Bulgin said even with the signal, the speed limit should be lowered and the highway median, where children can stand, removed. She said she would be willing to hold a meeting with parents to discuss providing volunteer guards if needed.

Pastor Marvin Duncan shows off his new home and church, which is getting its first coat of paint on the outside in some 50 years.

Its new owners are praying and fixing up a 28-room masterpiece known as the Filer Hotel

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

FILER — When company drops in, Marvin and Marlene Duncan don't worry about space. Their new home has 28 rooms.

The couple arrived in Filer early in June when Duncan accepted an offer as pastor of the Community Bible Church. Like newcomers to Filer once did just after the turn of the century, they "checked into the Filer hotel."

The only difference is the new pastor and his wife are the only occupants. But in addition, the hotel also serves as the meeting place for the approximately 30 members of the small non-denominational church.

The hotel, one of the earliest buildings in Filer, was purchased several months ago by Ray Barsness and Ron Wolf, owners of Citizens Enterprises, a building supply center in Buhl.

"We bought it because it sounded like a good buy and we kind of like old buildings. We thought we would preserve it, and someday put it to good use," Barsness said.

That someday came sooner than they thought. Barsness, a member of the Community Bible Church, decided the vacant hotel would be a better place for church meetings than the homes of various members which were being used on a temporary basis.

Not only did the small church group need a home, but it needed a pastor. Doris Lazarus, a member of the church, contacted Duncan, whom she had known through national Bible Church activities.

"God must have seen our need. Much to our surprise the Duncans agreed to come to Idaho and help set up the church if we could provide them a place to live," she said.

Women members turned out with scrubbing solution and paint brushes to make the first floor of the hotel into a livable apartment. The owners added a modern touch with thick carpeting.

Duncan, who is proud of his hotel facilities, says it appears almost nothing has been changed in the building since it was erected. The Duncan living room that doubles as a chapel has a new coat of white paint, accented by the old style dark wood trim.

"There are some advantages and some disadvantages to living in a hotel, especially an old one," Mrs. Duncan said. "We had to bring our davenport in through a front window because the doors were all too narrow."

Duncan says he finds it quite comfortable except for the tiny bathrooms.

"They didn't build spacious bathrooms in those days," he says. "Can you imagine me trying to fit my 6-foot, 4-inch frame into that tiny bathroom?"

Presently one of the couple's two sons is a guest on the third floor and the second floor is used by their daughter and granddaughter.

"We have 28 rooms in all, so there's plenty of opportunity for privacy," says Mrs. Duncan.

The lawn around the hotel, complete with a spreading chestnut tree, has been cleaned and made attractive. Barsness and his partner are having the building exterior painted, probably for the first time in 50 or more years.

"We are going to repair the porch and make other repairs to restore it to the original as nearly as possible. Sometime in the future we may convert it to condominiums or apartments. It should last another 100 years anyway," he said.

Juneau Shinn, a long-time Filer resident and local history source, said he believes the hotel was built in 1893 or 1898. He recalls that the builder and original owner was a Mr. J.B. Blakeley. It was never anything but a hotel, he says, although in later years he recalls someone added a dining room on the main floor. Shinn says the older Commercial Hotel once stood directly across the street, east of the Filer Hotel and was owned by the Lammers family. It burned about the time the Filer Hotel was built, he said.

Shinn said when the tract was being developed many young bachelors made the hotel their home after moving to the new community to work or start businesses.

Marti Novak and her five children lived in the hotel prior to selling it to Barsness. Until she closed it in July of 1973, she maintained it as a hotel and home for a number of elderly single Filer residents. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Suhr sold the hotel to Novak in 1975 after operating it for 21 years.

BLM leader says

Land ownership not central issue

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — The time has come to quell the "Sagebrush Rebellion," according to Frank Gregg, director of the Bureau of Land Management.

Stop arguing about who owns the public lands in the West, Gregg said. The important issue, he said, is not who owns the land, but how to best manage it.

"The issue that will endure is how should the public lands be managed and how can we improve our management of the land," he said.

Gregg spoke during the second day of the Conference of Western Attorneys General in Sun Valley, Idaho. The conference ends this afternoon.

The Sagebrush Rebellion has served its purpose, Gregg said. It made federal bureaucrats more sensitive to the needs of the West.

Gregg said he himself has used the issue "unmercifully," whenever he needed to get the attention of policy makers.

But some of the charges thrown around by sagebrush rebels, such as the charge the BLM is locking up land with a high potential for oil and gas production, don't stand up to analysis, he said.

The BLM has released more than 120 million acres from wilderness study and returned it to multiple use management, he said. Of the land still under study, only about half — 25 million acres — is likely to be recommended for intensive wilderness study and possible wilderness designation.

About 85 percent of the BLM managed land on the promising Overthrust Belt has already been released from further study, Gregg said.

Parents among suspects

JEROME — Jerome County Sheriff Eliza Hall confirmed Thursday that the parents of an 11-year-old boy shot in the back in Snake River Canyon are among the suspects in the case.

Hall said he has refrained from commenting on the case because he has not yet seen transcripts of a June 2 coroner's inquest that ruled Brandon Rekow's death May 19 was a homicide.

The day-long inquest was closed to the public. Witnesses, including sheriff's deputies, were called one at a time to keep their accounts separate, Hall noted.

But the sheriff confirmed reports that investigators had known of the existence of three life insurance policies for Rekow which were purchased earlier this year by his stepfather and mother, Don and Esther Bohach.

Deputy Larry Webb said the largest of the three policies, purchased from a Twin Falls agency six days before the youngster disappeared, was a $40,000 double-indemnity policy, that pays double the amount if the death is determined to be accidental.

The other policies, purchased in January, were for amounts of $30,000 from a Jerome agency and $1,500 from the Jerome School District, Webb said.

The Bohachs were reported on vacation Thursday and unavailable for comment.

Hall and Webb emphasized that other leads in the case are being checked and that other persons known to be in the vicinity the night of May 19 have not been ruled out as suspects.

Webb also appealed to members of the community who have knowledge of the case or who may have seen anything suspicious to contact him — anonymously, if necessary — to lend any information they can.

Jerome County Coroner James Babcock said Rekow died as a result of injuries sustained in a fall from a 150-foot cliff six miles from his home. Babcock said the evidence indicated Rekow "did not go over the cliff by himself."

The boy's body was discovered by his stepfather, who had rented a helicopter May 20 to aid the search. Rekow was reported missing about 10:30 p.m. May 19.

Harvey quits hospital board

TWIN FALLS — Robert Harvey, general manager of the Blue Lakes Country Club, has resigned from the Magic Valley Hospital Board.

He has served three years. County Commissioner Merl Leonard said Harvey's position would not be filled immediately as the commission wishes to get community input on whether the 15-person board should be reduced in number, as some have suggested.

Harvey, who started work at the club in September, said he resigned to devote more time to his job. Previously he ran Syringa Service Co., a retail store.

"While I enjoyed my association on the hospital board very, very much, it became a matter of time," he said.

MVMH board members are appointed by the County Commission for three-year terms. Every year, five members of the board are eligible for reappointment.

Leonard said some residents feel 15 persons is too unwieldy a number for the board to act efficiently.

Olmstead praises legislators on 1% action

House speaker cites major benefits of tax limitation legislation

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Republican Ralph Olmstead, speaker of the Idaho House of Representatives, says he is proud of the way he and his fellow lawmakers handled 1 percent legislation this year.

Speaking at the noon luncheon meeting of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club Thursday, Olmstead said the 1 percent property tax limitation has brought about three major benefits in the state.

"First of all, it has resulted in some tax relief. Nearly every taxpayer in the state is paying less property taxes as a result of the new law," the legislator said.

He said the second major benefit was accomplishing a statewide property reappraisal, something the Legislature had been trying to accomplish for a number of years.

"What I look on as the best benefit of all," Olmstead said, "is the fact the limiting of revenue has stopped the unnecessary expansion of our state government."

Olmstead said he also believes the legislative bodies did well by education this year.

"Education, especially in the realm of public schools, has a high priority with the Idaho legislators. This year, for example, we allocated 75 percent of the total general fund revenue to education," he said.

Olmstead said despite teachers and administrators saying education is more important than any other factor.

"I think we were adequate and generous with education. The schools received a 12.5 percent increase in funding," Olmstead added.

The speaker was critical of Gov. John Evans' veto action, saying he used his veto stamp "frequently, redundantly and often vindictively."

Olmstead referred to efforts by the Legislature to reduce the state work force in several areas and other legislation the governor vetoed this year.

Saying the Legislature is responsive to the people of the state, Olmstead said an example was the action taken by the body to safeguard groundwater resources from radiation contamination at the atomic energy site in eastern Idaho.

"We provided funds for the employment of two persons to oversee operations there and keep the people of the state assured there is no contamination. If there is none, we will have their assurance, but if there is contamination, they will guarantee there is no cover-up," Olmstead said.

Olmstead also said it is fortunate there are legislative sessions every year.

"This gives us a chance to go back and correct some of the 'dumb mistakes' we make. We do make mistakes, but you have to realize there are some 1,200 bills presented us, and on many of them we are rushing through them at the end of the session," he said.

The legislator said inflation is creating some difficult problems for the state's highway department and it will probably be necessary in the future to increase user fees. This, Olmstead said, is a more fair method of financing maintenance and improvement of highways than the use of property taxes.

House speaker Ralph Olmstead emphasizes his words Thursday.

Idaho chief justice sees problems for court

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — Idaho will need more judges and staff in the future but will have less money to foot the bill, the chief justice of the Idaho State Court said Thursday.

Chief Justice Charles B. Donaldson told the fourth annual meeting of the Idaho State Bar in Sun Valley that the state's current rate of growth continues, the state court system will need an additional 60 judges by the year 2000 — 17 in the district court and 43 in the magistrate division.

To avoid cutbacks on the local judicial level, Donaldson urged the bar association to support a state constitutional amendment, separat-

"During the next 10 years, the two hardest hit areas for the judiciary will be court facilities and county support staff," Donaldson said.

He said a recent study projected that if Idaho's current rate of growth continues, the state court system will need an additional 60 judges by the year 2000 — 17 in the district court and 43 in the magistrate division.

To avoid cutbacks on the local judicial level, Donaldson urged the bar association to support a state constitutional amendment, separating district court clerks' functions from those of the county recorder and auditor and providing "that clerks' offices be funded by the state."

However, Donaldson praised the creation of an Idaho Court of Appeals by the 1980 Legislature, saying it would reduce the backlog in the appellate system next summer.

He said in 1979, the Supreme Court handed down the most decisions in its history, 188; disposed of more cases than ever before, 331; and still had 546 appeals pending, "enough to keep an appellate court busy for two years if no new cases were filed."

"Unfortunately, the current rate of 331 new case filings per year would in itself keep both the Supreme Court and an appellate court busy without the additional burden of the appeals now pending," he said.

"Be that as it may, the creation of the new appellate court will stem the tide so backlog can eventually be cleared and appellate delay reduced."

Donaldson also warned the "1980s are sure to see a strident clash between the press and the courts, with the press screaming First Amendment rights into the ear of a judiciary charged with protecting due process rights and the confidentiality of privileged information."

He said future court tests of the constitutionality of shield laws and libel laws "promise to keep real and imagined conflicts between the press and the courts a high profile issue for the 1980s."

BLM boss says land restraints few

The implication that lack of access to federal land is delaying energy production will not stand up to analysis, Gregg said. "Restrictions have turned out to be more fears than affected by a decision. Some federal judges in the East are, at the very least, "insensitive" to the issues people in the West think are important, Bryan said.

Gregg said he too favored having the court cases that affect the West heard in the West.

director is transferred and they are forced to begin again with a new director who doesn't know the area. Gregg said it is a critical problem.

Part of the problem is civil service regulations that reward a person for moving to another job in another area, Gregg said. "We can't give a guy a pay raise for staying in the same place and continuing to do a good job," he said. The bureau is trying to get the regulations changed.

After speaking for a half hour, Gregg fielded questions from the attorneys. Though the questions came from the heart of Sagebrush Rebellion country, they were few and mild.

Harry Swainston, a deputy attorney general from Nevada, the state that is the first place of Sagebrush Rebellion legislation, asked about the problem posed by special interest groups that can tie the BLM's hands with court suits.

Gregg responded that although the BLM has had to go to court over almost every major program in the past few years, in the end, judges have allowed the bureau to proceed as if intended.

Swainston's boss, Nevada Attorney General Richard Bryan, asked about efforts to have land management court cases heard in the region to be

And Colorado Attorney General Robert McFarlane even went so far as to commend Gregg and the BLM for the job they have done in Colorado. He added that the West is not all of one mind on the Sagebrush Rebellion.

In an interview after his talk, Gregg commended the BLM staff for some serious problems to solve.

The bureau is plagued by rapid turnover. Ranchers complain that as soon as they develop a working relationship with a district director, the

The bureau is experimenting with practices in New Mexico, which will soon be used throughout the West, that will detail the kind of involvement from ranchers to be sought at each step in the decision-making process.

The BLM may never be popular in the West, although it is more welcome than many people think, Gregg said. But the bureau will be respected for its professionalism, he said.

Dear Abby

Inviting parents to visit is best gift

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Now that Mother's Day and Father's Day are gone, and lots of June weddings have taken place, please say something about children who get married and never ask their parents-to-be their apartment or house.

Most parents would appreciate an invitation to visit their kids, and if the kids don't want to bother preparing dinner, they could take their parents out. It would mean so much more than flowers, cards or any gift for two and a half years, and I have never been asked to his place. I have hinted plenty. Is it OK to just drop in?

— BEWILDERED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If after "hinting plenty" for two and a half years, you haven't been invited, you can assume that there's still a "DO NOT DISTURB" sign hanging on their door. And I agree, most parents would consider an invitation the best gift their kids could give them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband never did any work around the house, primarily because he was never home. He was always involved in running his own place of business. Consequently, the painting (inside and out), window washing, carpet cleaning, housekeeping, cooking, plus all the yard work and gardening, were done by me all our married years. The children helped me when they could, but they have their own homes now, so I have to do everything myself.

We are building a new house, and I just finished painting the interior. (I laid all the brick for the patio.)

We live on a ranch, so feeding and looking after the cattle is my job.

Now my husband wants me to start going to the office with him every day and be a steady office hand. As it is, I take care of all his bookkeeping and do the taxes.

Abby, I'm 59 and would love to take it a little easier now, and just stay home and sew for the grandchildren. Don't you think I have earned a little rest?

— PUSHING 60

DEAR PUSHING: Earned it? I'd say you REQUIRE it! I'm exhausted from just reading your letter, lady.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old married woman. I am 5-foot-5, weigh 240 — down from 294 — and after wanting a child for nine years, I find that I am two months pregnant.

I am thrilled, but at the same time I have some fears because of my age and weight.

I understand that you have access to the very best medical advice, so would you please find out what my chances are for having a healthy, normal, full-term baby? Also, what are the risks involved with my own life?

Some of my friends have told me that I'll have a heart attack and never make it through delivery. Others say that women over 35 should not risk having a baby because the older the mother, the higher the risk for an abnormal child.

Please hurry your answer. I have only been to a clinic to confirm my pregnancy, and if you think I should continue this pregnancy, I will go to my own physician. Thank you.
— OVERAGE, OVERWEIGHT AND OVERJOYED

DEAR OVER: No competent physician would venture an opinion without first examining you. Simply knowing your age and weight is not enough. Don't listen to the tales of your friends. Instead go immediately to your own doctor. Fortunately, today it is possible to determine (by amniocentesis) whether the fetus is normal. Good luck and God bless.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SIOUX CITY SUE: "Mutual orgasm" is when both parties reach a climax during sex relations. It is NOT an insurance company in Omaha.

Quotas not met in two drawings

TWIN FALLS — Quotas were not reached in the recent Red Cross blood drawings in Twin Falls or Hansen.

James Earle, publicity chairman for the East End drawing, said the July 2 event brought in a "disappointing but much appreciated 52 pints.

In Twin Falls 97 pints were donated the first day and 73 the last day of the drawing. Quota was 100 pints for each of the three events, according to Ann Livingston, Twin Falls chapter director.

Top donors at the Hansen drawing included Sterling Crothers of Kimberly who received his five-gallon donor pin; Wynn Bessire of Murtaugh, four gallon, and Ralph Breeding of Murtaugh, one gallon pin.

At the Twin Falls drawing Harold Sampe received his 13-gallon pin. Other top donors included Gerald Taylor, four gallon; Leslie Wheeler, Jerry Ehlers and Harold Shoup, all three gallon; Bill Chidichimo, Daniel Brizee, Dennis Ward, Collins Helms, Sadie Thornton, Colin Randolph and Coyle Hutchison, two gallons.

One gallon donors included Marilee Allison, Geneva Eskridge, Debra Strolberg, Liese Holbert, Virginia Butler, Sandle Moss, Joan Kinkel, John Florence and Kent Jensen.

Five of the Hansen donors were from the Snake River Research Center and five from the Kimberly branch of the Bank and Trust.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Home cooks often try to imitate commercial products.

Now a major food manufacturer has done the reverse. It has developed cake mixes based on a "scratch" recipe that won a second prize for a homemaker at the company's annual cooking contest in 1976.

The lemon and chocolate mixes are designed for baking in a Bundt pan. Each comes with a batter mix and a filling mix. Combined as the label directs, a soft, frosting-like tunnel forms in the center as the cake bakes. The manufacturer estimates the cost of preparing its mix cake is about $2, compared with nearly $5 for the prize-winning "scratch" recipe. The latter is more expensive because the recipe calls for 2 cups of nuts, and the mix does not.

Pisceans should delay day matter related to improving welfare

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You need to be careful that you are not too fixed and determined in your viewpoints today and tonight or you could encounter more trouble than you bargained for.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't be forceful with others who disagree with your views. Come to a better accord with co-workers. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listening to suggestions of associates is wise now and be sure to cooperate more with them. Try to be helpful to others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Schedule your work activities wisely and then carry through with them in a positive manner. Don't waste time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may want to have a good time now, but it's to your best interest to save money now instead of spending it.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be diplomatic at home today to avoid trouble. Study a new project well since it is bound to have some flaws.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be tactful with others so that they don't take their ire out on you. Avoid a tendency to enlarge when you can't afford it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to be careful in the handling of investments and other financial matters to avoid trouble at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more thoughtful of others in going after your aims and avoid unpleasantness. Take steps to improve your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Keep personal worries to yourself since others have their own problems to think about. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take advantage of an opportunity coming your way that could give you added income. Strive for happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study new activities that interest you early in the day but don't make decisions until the evening.

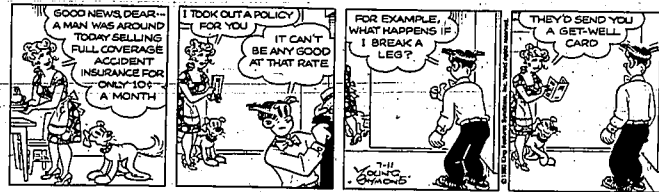

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put off until tomorrow an activity that is concerned with improving your welfare. Take positive steps to gain your goals.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the ability to solve problems that are difficult for others, so be sure to give as fine an education as you can afford and teach to be objective for best results. The latter years will be most self-satisfying.

Percentage of success true for beer drinkers

You've heard that 20 percent of the fishermen catch 80 percent of the fish; haven't you? And that 20 percent of the millionaires make 80 percent of the sales? Add, too, that 20 percent of beer drinkers drink 80 percent of the beer.

BLONDIES

Q. Were there any blondes in ancient Rome?
A. Quite a many. And there were some women with bright yellow hair, too. Old Roman law required that hair color for ladies of the night.

If a bottle and cock cost $3.05 and the bottle costs $1 more than the cock, how much does the cock cost? President Calvin Coolidge when asked this question said five cents. That's wrong, he was told. And he is said to have puzzled over the matter for a long time.

Nez Perce charge Idaho with persecution

By MARK SHENEFELT
 BOISE (UPI) — Nez Perce Tribal Chairman Wilfred Scott accused state Fish and Game Dept. officials Thursday of attempting to push the northern Idaho Indians "to the back of the bus."
 Scott spoke bitterly about Jerry Conley, director of the department, who has said strong action was the best way to deal with the tribe to help protect this year's meager chinook salmon spawning run.
 "As long as Conley is in office it will get worse every year," Scott said in a telephone interview with United Press International.
 The department's ban this summer on salmon fishing below its Rapid River hatchery has been contested by the tribe, which was granted fishing rights in its 1855 treaty with the federal government.
 Scott said he thought tribesmen would continue to defy the ban as they have since it went into effect at the start of the upstream run in early June. "I'm sure they'll be up there again this weekend," the tribal leader said.
 Only a handful of Indians were cited for violating the prohibition last weekend, compared to numerous citations and occasional disturbances in earlier weeks.

But Scott said other activities took the Nez Perce fishermen away from the river last week, and more tribesmen would be on the banks this Saturday and Sunday.
 The tribe's own regulations, passed June 12, that followed the ban on weekdays but allowed fishing on weekends remains in effect.
 Many years ago retired army officers — "polished type of people using shotguns and blackjacks and everything" — were employed to control Indians, Scott said. Conley's attitude of sticking with the total fishing ban "is just an additional attempt at putting Indians in their place," Scott said.
 "He said he had to be firm and not back down, go out and put them in their place — the back of the bus," Conley was unavailable for reaction to Scott's comments, but Idaho Fish and Game Commission Chairman Richard Schwarz of Idaho Falls defended the agency's actions.
 "I think that's an unfair statement...we're not trying to do that, as he (Scott) said, put them in the back of the bus," Schwarz said.
 "We're just trying to protect the resource. I'm so sincere in that.

 "We've been accused of many things (by the Indians). We were accused of being pawns of multi-national corporations. I know in my heart our sole concern is the resource. No one is manipulating us."
 "It's difficult for the commission and the department to get acceptance from the Indians that the principal and sole interest is the maintenance of the run, with the Nez Perce themselves being the primary beneficiary of that run."
 Schwarz said the difference of opinion about the extent of the tribe's treaty rights can only be solved in court.
 Scott said he doubted the state would back down from its ban this year or in subsequent years if the fish run was dangerously low, but he did praise Gov. John Evans.
 He called Evans' decision last week ordering state police to fall back from the fishing area and leave the state enforcement chow with Fish and Game Department conservation officers "outstanding."
 "The governor has more personal feeling for the people."
 Scott said government restrictions on the Indians would not have been imposed if Northwest dam construction had been planned better or restricted and salmon fishing in the Pacific Ocean had been curtailed in preceding years.

 At the same time, Evans removed state troopers from Rapid River, he was convinced by Conley and Schwarz to stay with the fishing ban.
 "The governor was concerned about the possibility of violence and bloodshed," Schwarz said. "He felt there was a real potential for that, based upon provocations at the river."
 Schwarz asserted that issuance of citations was a measure of "substance to get us to court in a peaceful way."
 "I think the Indians are bitter and it is not our intent to provoke them. But it is not our intention to back down from what we consider is the law, according to Idaho law."
 The chairman said he believed violence could be avoided in the remaining days of the run. "I hope nothing happens this weekend, but by the same token we are prepared to react to what might happen."
 Department estimates indicate that only about half the desired 2,700 salmon have returned to the Rapid River hatchery this year.

Olympic security seals off Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet capital was virtually sealed off Thursday in a plan by authorities to curtail traffic and restrict the movement of non-Moscovites to the city during the Olympic Games.
 Authorities said 165 streets were set aside as Olympic routes and were open only to specially designated Olympic vehicles from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Car stickers were issued to authorities, correspondents and others with Olympic-related duties.
 All non-Moscovites, except those with business in the capital, were barred from bringing automobiles into the city.
 Stories in the regional press also warned that only Muscovites could travel to the city and that travelers should carry internal passports and other documents, indicating their hometown even before trying to buy a ticket.
 The stories also said rail and air tickets would be marked with the name of each passenger so that they could not be given to unqualified persons.
 Alexei Nozdryakov, head of the department of the Moscow State traffic inspectorate, said there will be no cars on the streets at rush hour during the Olympics, and that the traffic restrictions would reduce Moscow's overall traffic load by up to 17 percent.

 Yazko said location of the Olympic facilities in various parts of the city would help the flow of traffic.
 "The Olympic facilities are not all bunched together like they were in Munich," he said.
 Nozdryakov also said in an interview with the publication Moscow News that the Moscow public transportation system would play a major role during the Olympics.
 To enforce the restricted movement of automobiles and to provide general security, hundreds of thousands of militiamen have been pouring into the city. Often as many as a dozen policemen can be seen at intersections while others roam side streets in pairs.
 In recent weeks, a number of Soviet drivers who violated traffic regulations have had their licenses tags removed to keep them off the streets until after the Games.

Alcott, Moxness share early U.S. women's open lead

Despite body English, Kathy Young missed this birdie putt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Amy Alcott and Barbara Moxness fought off the strength-sapping heat and humidity Thursday to shoot 1-under-par 70s and tie for the first-round lead in the U.S. Women's Open Golf Championship.
 Moxness, who has failed to make the cut in four previous Open attempts, capitalized on her blitz on the par-3 at the 6,229-yard Richland Country Club course, while veteran Alcott finished with a birdie on 18 for the tie.
 Alcott and Moxness were two strokes ahead of seven players who shot 1-over-par 72 — leading LPGA money-winner Donna Young, Shariing second-place with Young were Janet Alex, Marlene Floyd, Lori Garbarz, Martha Hansen, Penny Puiz and Kathryn Young.
 Although the temperature did not reach projected highs of 100, the 92-degree heat had an effect on the field.
 "I feel as though I have been in a war," said Alcott, who put ice on her hands to keep the swelling down. "I had a tough time hitting the greens."
 A four-time winner on the 1978 tour, Alcott got her Open round off to a good start with a 55-foot birdie putt on par-4, 600-yard second hole.
 "That really got my momentum up for the round," she said. Alcott was two under at the turn but bogied the 14th and 16th holes and had to sink a six-foot putt on No. 18 for to stay in the tie.
 "It was a good way to finish," she said.
 Moxness, who bogied two of the last three holes, was more pleased with her beginning.
 The 27-year-old golfer, who has yet to win a tournament, was 3-under when "mental mistakes" resulted in bogies at 16 and 17.
 "I got really tired, and when I get tired I lose it upstairs," Moxness said. "I made some mental mistakes on those last few holes."
 Another victim of the tricky Richland course was Nancy Lopez-Mellon, who finished second when she made her professional debut in the 1977 Women's Open.
 Lopez held par through the first nine holes but couldn't shoot her way out of trouble on the 13th hole.
 "My dad always told me to get out of trouble and that's what I was trying to do," she said. "When my fifth shot hit the trees I just had to laugh."
 The winner in Rochester two weeks ago managed to finish with a 74 despite a quadruple-bogie on the 522-yard par 5 hole.
 "I didn't let it get me down because I knew there are three more days and anything can happen," she said.
 Defending Open champion Jertilyn Britz managed only a 78 that put her eight strokes behind the leaders.

Jackson's world series ring turns up in garbage

TAYLOR, Pa. (UPI) — Virginia Overholtz is likely to be kicking piles of rubbish quite often from now on. She put a foot to one reporter in this small Lackawanna County town, said she noticed the heavy, diamond-studded ring at work Wednesday after she kicked "a pile of trash."
 This object rolls out and across the floor and it glittered, and it was gold, and it was a ring," she said.
 "I said 'Jackson' on it and even had his number, 44."
 Since Northern Associates re-furnishes formerly leased cars, Mrs. Overholtz theorized Jackson may have dropped the ring in a car he rented, though the famous golfer's customarily drives around in a Rolls Royce. It also may have been lost as a result of the ransacking of Jackson's apartment a year ago, she said.

 Mrs. Overholtz contacted the Yankee organization to return the ring, which is 14-karat gold and has one large diamond (estimated at 1 1/4 karats) and 22 diamond chips.
 The ring, which reportedly could be a replica made for one of Jackson's friends or relatives, also contains an engraving on the inside which reads: "Greatest comeback in history."

Streck cards 65 to lead Greater Milwaukee tourney

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Ron Streck, seeking only his second victory in four years on the PGA tour, shot a 7-under-par 65 Thursday to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $200,000 Greater Milwaukee Open.
 Streck, whose only victory came in the 1978 Texas Open, birdied five straight holes in one stretch and shot a 31, 5-under-par on the front nine.
 Defending champion Calvin Peete was among five players tied at 66, while Mike Reid and Bill Kraizer were in a group at 67.
 Johnny Miller, experimenting with a new cross-handed putting style, was tied with nine players at 68. Hale Irwin, a two-time U.S. Open champion trying to sharpen his game for next week's British Open, and former U.S. Open champion Andy North were among 15 golfers at 69.
 Eighty-nine golfers took advantage of the ideal conditions — sun-baked fairways, short rough and soft but fast greens — to shatter par on the wide-open, 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course. And few seemed bothered by the 95-degree temperatures and high humidity.
 Streck, who will be 26 next week, predicted he will remain in the chase — providing his hot putting game doesn't cool off.
 "If I keep putting like I did today, I should do real well," he said. "Right now, I'm very happy with almost every phase of my game."
 Streck, who passed up last week's Western Open, said he wasn't surprised by the horde of low scores.
 "The greens are perfect, some of the best I've seen all year," he said. "And when the greens are holding and there is little wind, you're going to get a lot of low scores."
 Peete, who formally thanked greenskeeper Ray Knapp for the "super condition" of the greens, said his course record of 269, 19-under-par could be in jeopardy.
 "Something like 29 or 31-under might win if the wind doesn't blow," he said.
 Scott Simpson, last week's Western Open winner in Oak Brook, Ill., shot a 71 Thursday. He is eligible to win a bonus prize of $100,000 if he wins the G.M.O. as tournament officials offered the extra money to anyone winning both the Western Open and G.M.O. That would be in addition to the $38,000 first prize.

Doctors tell Clips Walton will be ready

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Clippers announced Thursday that a panel of medical experts has assured the NBA club that center Bill Walton, who has been hampered by a foot injury the past two seasons, will appear at the start of training camp in excellent shape.
 Walton was subjected to a three-hour examination at Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood Thursday by his personal surgeon, Dr. Tony Daly, and four other orthopedic surgeons.
 Based on the consultation, the Clippers organization said in a statement.

 "We have met with Dr. Tony Daly, Bill Walton's doctor, and a panel of medical experts. They have suggested a training plan for Bill, and we are assured that Bill will appear at the start of training camp in excellent shape. Bill indicated that he feels better now than he has in the last two years, and that he will be ready to play at the start of training camp."
 The Clippers tentatively plan to start pre-season training Sept. 12.

Minico nips Pocatello in 10-inning marathon

RUPERT — A tough tussle on a fly ball went for naught in the bottom of the 10th inning and the Minico Sage downed Pocatello 11-10 in a Legion marathon Thursday night.
 The Sage, after seeing Pocatello score twice in the top of the 10th, moved it to two one, two out in the bottom of the frame with Maro Winmill at bat. He looped a Texas League into leftfield, sending the Pocatello third baseman, home, and leftfielder into high gear. The leftfielder was able to get a glove on the ball but it popped loose as Scott Maggard and Ken Parkin scored.
 Minico held the lead most of the game, building much of that on John Patton's three-run homer — that highlighted a four-run second.
 But Pocatello stymied the Sage with three runs and a 9-8 lead in the seventh. The Sage forced the extra innings when Jeff Schow doubled and scored on a single by winning pitcher Scott Maggard.

 In the 10th, Mark Solto's triple and a double by Chaffin wrapped around a hit balmain sent Pocatello back on top by two.
 John Patton kept Minico's hopes alive by drawing a walk between two home runs by teammates. After Patton stole second, Maggard lived on an error. That let Patton score and doomed Pocatello. Parkin followed with a single and the runners moved to second and third on a passed ball to set the stage for Winmill.
 Minico remains home this weekend hosting the Boise Gems Saturday and Boise Senators Sunday in a pair of doubleheaders beginning at 7 p.m. Pocatello is scheduled to play at home against the Boise Gems and the Boise Senators on Friday and Saturday, respectively.

Brown's lead shrinks to one stroke in state amateur

BOISE (UPI) — Karen Brown of Twin Falls maintained her lead in the Idaho women's state golf tournament but challenger Jean Smith whittled her once commanding lead to a whisker Thursday.
 Brown, who defeated Smith by three strokes to win the championship a year ago at Burley Municipal, took a five-stroke lead into Thursday's second round but struggled around the Crane Creek Country Club course with an eight-over-par 80.
 Meanwhile, Smith, who calls Crane Creek home, repeated her first-day 78 to set the stage for another showdown in the final round today.
 Brown, who threatened to break the thing open with a fine one-under par 71 on Wednesday, couldn't find the magic in Thursday's second round. Of course, Brown couldn't expect to find the front nine the way she left it Wednesday.
 Brown got the first day she knocked in a full seven-iron for an eagle two, added three birdies and turned the front nine with a blistering 31. Except for sandtrap-three putts that cost her a double bogey, she would have shattered the course record.
 The battle between the two is reminiscent of last year at Burley when Brown led all the way but kept seeing comfortable leads melt to little or nothing.

 The remainder of the championship fight began stringing out a little with a pair of colleagues claiming third and fourth spots.
 Peggy Lynn Stanwood of Caldwell moved into third place with a two-day tally of 157, shooting a 78 Thursday. Burley's Lori Bergwert came away with a 158 after a 79 Thursday, while Mary DeLong, Coeur d'Alene, the 1978 champion, had a 77 Thursday and a two-day total of 162. Three-time champion Kall Curdy of Boise had an 82 Thursday and a two-day total of 163.
 In other flights, Rudy Solis of Boise had a 171 at the end of Thursday's round and the first flight lead while Pocatello's Connie Morgan had a 167 in the second flight. Eva Brown of Eagle shot 187 to lead the third flight and young Julie Hamblin of Twin Falls forged into the fourth flight lead with a two-day total of 188.
 Jeanann Daly and Kay Anderson, both Boise, were tied in the fifth flight at 202 apiece while Mary Forton of Boise had a 204 to lead the sixth.

Zachry-led New York blanks Pirates 2-0

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pat Zachry tossed a three-hitter and Lee Mazzilli slammed his seventh home run of the season Thursday to pace the New York Mets to a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Zachry, 35, who returned from arm surgery in June after a year on the disabled list, was touched for a first-inning single by Tim Lincecum, a second-inning double by Mike Easter and a fourth-inning double by John Miller. Zachry, in pitching his first shutout of the season, struck out five and walked five.

Expos 4, Cards 3

MONTREAL (UPI) — Ron LeFlore scored on Ken Reitz's throwing error to key a three-run eighth-inning and Ellis Valentine drove home a run in his return to the lineup Thursday night to pace the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

With the score tied 1-1, LeFlore led off the eighth with a single and moved to second on a wild pitch by reliever John Littlefield, 3-2. Rodney Scott singled and took second on the throw home as LeFlore moved to third. After Andre Dawson was intentionally walked to load the bases, Gary Carter grounded to third baseman Reitz, whose throw home was wide as LeFlore scored. A fielder's choice and a Larry Parrish sacrifice fly closed the scoring.

Phils 5, Cubs 3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Bob Boone's two-run single sparked a three-run fourth inning Thursday night that carried the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Walks to Garry Maddox and Larry Bowa sandwiched around third baseman Lenny Randle's error on a Manny Trillo grounder loaded the bases to open the fourth before Boone stroked his game-tying hit off loser Mike Krukow, 6-10. Bowa scored the go-ahead run on a sacrifice fly by Pete Rose. Pinch hitter Greg Gross knocked in an insurance run in the eighth.

Reds 8, Braves 6

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dan Driessen hit one of five Cincinnati home runs and added two ground rule doubles Thursday night to pace the Reds to an 8-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Driessen's first double came in the second ahead of homers by Ray Lujan and Johnny Bench. His 10th, was a two-run blast in the fifth after Dave Concepcion hit a two-run homer in the same inning. His second double came after George Foster opened the eighth with his 10th homer.

Yanks bury Rangers with early assault

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Reggie Jackson doubled in two of the 10 runs New York scored in the first inning Thursday night and later delivered a two-run homer in pacing the Yankees to a 13-0 rout of the Texas Rangers.

The 10-run outburst was New York's largest in a year and was also highlighted by a two-run homer by Graig Nettles, who thus tied Brooks Robinson for the most career homers 200 — hit by an American League third baseman. Ron Guidry, 10-4, allowed 10 hits in six innings while loser Ferguson Jenkins, 7-7, faced nine batters and retired only one.

Orioles 9, Chicago 2

CHICAGO (UPI) — Eddie Murray drove in four runs, one with a single that triggered a five-run first inning and two with a homer in the second, and Ken Singleton had three hits and drove in two runs Thursday night to power the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-2 rout of the Chicago White Sox.

Scott McGregor, 9-4, picked up the victory with relief help from Tom Stoddard, who pitched the final 1 2/3 innings. McGregor permitted an RBI single to Kevin Bell in the seventh and a solo homer to Lamar Johnson in the eighth.

Royals 3, Tigers 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Willie Aikens belted a solo homer in the sixth inning Thursday night, giving Paul Spittorff and the Kansas City Royals a 3-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Aikens' 10th homer of the season came with two out off Mill Wilcox, 8-6. He also knocked in the first of two Kansas City runs in the second with a double after a Darryl Porter single. Aikens went to third on a sacrifice by Amos Otis and scored on a groundout by Clint Hurdle.

Indians 7, Jays 3

TORONTO (UPI) — Ron Hassey singled in two runs in the third inning and John Denny scattered eight hits Thursday night to pace the Cleveland Indians to a 7-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

With the Indians trailing 2-1 in the third, Miguel Dilone, Jorge Orta and Joe Charboneau drew walks off loser Jim Clancy, 7-6, setting up Hassey for his three-run homer. Jack Brohamer followed with an RBI single, giving the Indians a 4-2 lead.

Brewers 2, Boston 1

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Gorman Thomas' single in the eighth inning drove in pinch runner Ed Romero with the tie-breaking run Thursday and gave Reggie Cleveland and the Milwaukee Brewers a 2-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in the first game of a two-night double-header. Romero replaced Don Money, who walked with one out, and moved to second on Cecil Cooper's single. He scored on Thomas' grounder to left.

Wilkins wins world games top award

HELSINKI (UPI)—Mac Wilkins of Soquel, Calif., Thursday won the coveted 1980 World Games best athlete trophy following his victory in the discus Wednesday at the Helsinki Olympic stadium.

Wilkins' win made history at the event, as he became the first Olympic gold-medal winner whose name was carried on the 24-pound (11 kilo) trophy despite 50 or 60 attempts by gold-medal champions.

He threw an outstanding 70.98 meters (232 feet 10 inches) Wednesday, only 18 centimeters (.725") short of the world record held by East German Wolfgang Schmidt. Wilkins' throw was a U.S. record and the best this year.

"I'm not too surprised. I am in the best form of my life and I'm happy to have won in Helsinki as this is my last year in competition," Wilkins said afterwards.

Christopher Herie caught up and won the race in 13.39:84.

In the 1,500 meters, two European indoor champions battled it out down to the wire with Antti Loikkanen, Finland, edging out Thomas Wessinghage, West Germany, with 3:59:25.

In the men's javelin, the gigantic battle between West Germany, the United States and Finland was raged by the wind conditions, and Olympic non-starter Esa Urtanen won with 87.50 meters (287' 1") his best for the year.

Ulla Lundholm, Finland, set a new national record with 64.60 meters (211' 11") in the women's discus, but had to be satisfied with runner-up to Cuban Cristita Betancourt, 55.82 (215' 11").

Stargell placed on injured list

SLUGGER WILLIE STARGELL of the Pittsburgh Pirates, co-winner of the National League's Most Valuable Player award in 1979, was placed on the 15-day disabled list Thursday with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Shortstop Vance Law was recalled from Portland in the Pacific Coast League to take Stargell's place on the roster.

Stargell, who tied with Keith Hernandez as the NL MVP last season and was the Pirates' star in both the playoffs and World Series, was batting .257 with nine homers and 36 RBI this season.

BJORN BORG's victory over John McEnroe in the Wimbledon men's singles finals July 5 drew a nationwide audience of 30-million, it was revealed Thursday by NBC-TV.

A spokesman for the network said the Borg-McEnroe match, a four-hour ordeal of suspense within a six-hour period of Wimbledon television, had a 7.0 rating and a 31 percent share of the viewing audience.

The figures were records for any Wimbledon telecast and compare favorably with the weekly evening shows and specials which rank among the top 30 viewing audiences in the country.

THE BUFFALO BILLS have announced that veteran offensive tackle Ken Jones has signed a new 4-year contract with the club.

"I'm happy," said Jones, who played out his option last season. "It was close to what I was after." He said of his contractual agreement with the Bills.

In other developments, the Bills announced Thursday that veteran linebacker Dick Jukek had retired. Jukek, chosen by the Bills in the 1976 NFL draft, had finished work on his master's degree at the University of Michigan and decided to retire.

SWEDEN, without injured Wimbledon champion Bjorn Borg, is considered the underdog against Italy in this weekend's European A zone Davis Cup final.

Borg suffered a recurrence of an abdominal muscle strain en route to winning his fifth Wimbledon title.

Italy sends Corrado Barazzutti against Kjell Johansson in Friday's opening singles match and Ilias Adriano Panatta against Swedish Stefan Edberg in the day's second encounter. The pairings will be reversed for Sunday's closing singles.

RUPP ARENA on the campus of University of North Carolina at Wilmington was selected Thursday as the site of the 1985 NCAA National Collegiate Baseball tournament, the NCAA announced.

Wayne Duff, chairman of the NCAA Division I basketball committee and commissioner of the Big 10, said Rupp Arena was chosen following other presentations by Indianapolis, Ind., New Orleans and Pontiac, Michigan.

The 1981 tournament will be held at the Philadelphia Spectrum; 1982 at the Superdome in New Orleans; 1983 at University of New Mexico, and 1984 at the Seattle Kingdome.

THE CHICAGO BEARS announced Thursday they have agreed to terms with their first-round draft pick, Otis Wilson, a star linebacker from the University of Louisville, who signed a series of four one-year contracts.

Wilson's contracts contain an opt-out clause but no other contractual terms were announced.

Coach Neil Armstrong plans to station Wilson at left linebacker when the Bears open training camp July 27.

MINEOLA, L.I. (UPI)—Ball for former New York Knicks basketball guard Luther (Ticky) Burden will reduce to $25,000 from $55,000 to $25,000 on a bank robbery charge, but Burden did not immediately post it.

His attorney, Harvey Greenberg, told Nassau County District Attorney Denis Dillon that there was "sufficient collateral" to make the bail, but did not indicate who would put up the money.

The foot-and-hand player played basketball at Philip Schuyler High School in Albany and the University of Utah, was dressed in a blue shirt and blue jeans and hung his head as he stood before the bench and said nothing.

Billy Olson, Abilene, Texas, won the pole vault Thursday with 5.53 and for the second day running had a shot at the U.S. record of 5.70.

"I would like to come back here with more favorable wind conditions, but I'm really dying to jump against the French in Paris in three days and show them they are not the only ones who can jump," he said.

As for the Olympic boycott, "I am 21 and hope to be in shape when it's time for Los Angeles in 1984," he said. Finn Lasse Viren, not quite satisfied with Wednesday's 10,000 meters where he came in fourth, surprised all by participating in the 5,000 meters Thursday. A tempo change at the 2-kilometer mark gave him at one stage a 70-meter lead, but in a very strong last lap West German Significant majority rates MERIT taste equal to-or better than-leading high tars.

Smoker Research Conclusive

Nationwide tests with thousands of smokers continue to confirm the MERIT breakthrough in key areas of taste, ease of switch and ability to satisfy long term.

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT equal to—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine—100's Reg: 10 mg "tar," 0.7 mg nicotine—100's Men: 11 mg "tar," 0.8 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. 79

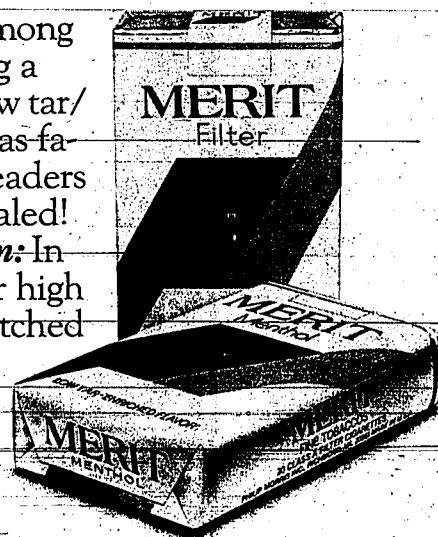

Warning:—The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and report MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

'Can't Stop The Music' plot childish

By RICHARD FREEDMAN

Newhouse News Service
 "Can't Stop The Music," Relentlessly cheerful musical of the "Let's Put on a Show-Kids!" variety, starring Valerie Perrine and the Village People. Rating: stars; childish plot. Rated "PG." Two and a half stars.

Anyone old enough to recall those Judy Garland-Mickey Rooney musicals in which a group of talented mid-American high school amateurs would put together a local show that eventually clobbers the Broadway sophisticates is probably too old to get much enjoyment from "Can't Stop The Music."

For, hyped beyond all endurance by Allan Carr, who co-scripted and co-produced it, this is essentially the same story, transplanted from an unconvincing Smalltown, U.S.A., to an even less convincing Greenwich Village, N.Y.

At its core is Valerie Perrine ("Superman") as ex-model Samantha, and the three men in her life: Paul Sand as her record-producer former boyfriend, Bruce Jenner as a super-square tax lawyer, and Steve Gutenberg as her platonic roommate and an aspiring composer saddled with a pushy mother.

Except for Sand, who gives the movie whatever comic verve it has, these are pretty dreary types. Drearier still — until they start singing and dancing — are the Village People masquerading as a construction worker, an Indian, a toll-collector and other raffish types easily found lurking around Sheridan Square.

All have been nurturing secret passions for show biz beneath their apple-cheeked, down-home innocence. It is Samantha's genius to bring them together so they can impress disc jockeys and wow about a million people at a benefit gala in San Francisco. If "Can't Stop The Music" were only this minimal plot set against a cosmetized Greenwich Village that never was and never will be, I suspect the kids would shun it. What rescues the movie from the numbering banality of its story, though, is its half-dozen-odd lavish production numbers set in such exotic locales as a stuffy lawyer's office and a YMCA gym.

These numbers, including the title song (which brings the movie to a rousing, welcome conclusion), are so dynamically performed and staged they help you forget how plodding and derivative the rest of "Can't Stop The Music" really is.

Magazine review

Issue is top-notch

By JAMES WARREN

(©)Chicago Sun-Times.

A top-notch issue of Playboy features a profile of Ronald Reagan and an interview with Dr. William Shockley, the strident Nobel laureate who reasserts his belief that blacks are genetically inferior. Interviewer Syl Jones, a black, would be lauded for a fine job and high-level obstinateness, having been forced to submit to quizzes on Shockley's work by Shockley before getting the interview.

Robert Scheer turns many previous Reagan admissions against the presidential frontrunner and concludes he can't imagine Reagan turning out to be other than a hybrid Southern California anti-Communist.

MONEY (July). There's one thing I've always disliked even more than Richard Nixon. It's airline food. Here one gets a poll of the best—or perhaps one should say, least bad—fare in the air.

Of 15 domestic lines, Continental comes out tops, with kudos for the filet-mignon dinner on the Denver-Houston and Chicago-Los Angeles routes. Republic is lauded for a Boston-Detroit breakfast of fresh pineapple and melon, cheese omelet, steak, hash browns and blueberry muffin. Other lines: Order American Airline's special "Travelers' meals at least six hours before a flight and, whether Jewish or not, don't assume special kosher meals are fresher. Not so.

INSIDE SPORTS (July). The writing is excellent but no really memorable or imaginative piece which, given its lofty ambitions, disappoints. Profiles of the St. Louis Cardinals and Jim Rice, a look at the humorous. If high-stakes sports-advertising war between Miller Lite and Anheuser-Busch National Light and ad exec Thomas Boswell of the Washington Post cutting against the grain of colleagues' conventional wisdom and praising baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Food critic Raymond Sokolov confirms our suspicion that Chicago's Comiskey Park, "a combination funhouse and community center," has America's best and most varied stadium food, savoring the Mexican tostadas, tacos and burritos, as well as fried chicken, Polish kielbasa, Italian sausage and German bratwurst. A Pepto-Bismol stand is yet to come.

METRO'S CHICAGO SPORTS. If you ask citizens of pompous cities about their cultural landmarks, you get hours of bubbling platitudes about a Picasso and a library there. Ask Chicagoans and you may get a frothy scream:

"Hey Hareeeeeeeeee!" It's a shriek of adoration for White Sox announcer Harry Caray, once a fixture in St. Louis, but for the last 10 years a Chicago denizen. As the July-August issue of the new Metro's Chicago Sports hints, maybe he's the most popular.

How many announcers in America will prod one to tune in, even when a team is 20 games out of first place in late August? How many will spend an inuring discursing on the inequities of divorce law (Harry is thrice married), the current cinema ("a lot of scenery and not many clothes") or reveal his partner is crazy "and has got the paper to prove it" (sidekick Jimmy Fiersall was once a mental patient).

LARRY SWISHER/TIMES-NEWS

California artist W. Rock Newcomb, a transplanted Idahoan from Rupert, returns here every summer because there is so much to see

Artist combines clarity, mystique

By LARRY SWISHER

RUPERT — When W. Rock Newcomb was a boy on his family's homestead north of Rupert, he crawled carefully through the sagebrush to get close to the birds and animals he wanted to see.

Indoors and when traveling by bus, he would catch people off guard or make them pose, then sketch their faces.

The combined traits of being a "looker" and being able to reproduce what he saw surfaced at an early age.

"I think I had every rabbit trail, badger hole and magpie nest memorized," he says. "There was no money to do anything else. I kind of liked the solitude."

He had started capturing likenesses on paper at about the age of 6, but Newcomb never thought he would become an artist until he took his first drawing class. That didn't happen until college and only because the class was required for the architectural degree he planned to take.

The transplanted Idahoan for 15 years has gone to school, worked and lived in California (currently La Habra) — and returned to Idaho almost every summer.

Newcomb, 35, can claim many titles: husband, father of two, holder of three college degrees, inventor, author, an athlete who was the second four-year letterman at Minico High School, fisherman, teacher, and a self-supporting artist who works in charcoal, graphite, oil, acrylics, prismacolors, and watercolor.

His artwork is reproduced and sold by a publishing company for regional and national sales and he was one of 94 artists accepted out of 1,500 entries for the Laguna Beach (Calif.) Invitational Show.

Drawings shown there, limited edition reproductions and other works are on exhibit through July at the Lightworks Gallery in Denver.

Gallery owner John Horejs said a relative of Newcomb brought in a print to have framed last fall.

"I was really impressed and talked him into an exhibit," Horejs said. Newcomb often combines an amazing clarity with a dream-like quality and a knack for putting disparate elements together in a unique way.

"I always drew a lot. I don't know

He said he found at an early age he had an ability to transmit what he saw into his fingertips. But Newcomb never expected "to go into it."

He did a lot of traveling on buses and instead of comic books his parents would get him a drawing pad to take with him.

In high school, "I learned to be an extrovert," he says. He wrestled, played football, was a class officer. He wasn't

"There was no art crowd, as far as I knew. I was very much the athlete."

Newcomb says he believes he had something he was trying to express but hadn't learned how to express it any other way.

"We all like to be stroked, don't we? We like attention whether it's good or bad. The worst thing in the world is to be totally ignored."

After graduating, Newcomb went to Idaho State University intending to study architecture. That required an art drawing class.

"I decided I liked that better than drawing buildings."

He went on in California to earn degrees in fine arts and to teach.

Newcomb classifies most of his recent "stuff" as scenes of everyday life; working class people's environment, which "most people don't see because they don't take the time."

"They could be anywhere," he says.

He works from photographs but does a lot of editing. Often he uses a "fade-out" technique that gives his pictures a "mystical, ethereal quality."

About southern Idaho and "The New Project" his father homesteaded in the 1950s, he says, "If you're a looker, there are more things to see here than in a thousand Disneyland. You're not bombarded by so much crap."

That's one reason he likes to return every year.

When he does he notices a slower tempo of life and straightforward people, both of which he likes.

"I think you have to leave the area and come back to notice it," he says.

He photographs and looks for subject matter here too, but the location of the subject does not matter.

"I have to get excited over what I see," he says, "then I can work on it."

Rock resurgence dominates disco

By ROBERT HILBURN
(©) The Los Angeles Times
HOLLYWOOD — The Pretenders' seductive "Brass in Pocket" led rock resurgence the last six months that has replaced disco as the dominant pop style in a mid-year list of the best hit singles.

Disco, which captured five of the top seven positions on my mid-year ranking last year with such poppy tunes as Gloria Gaynor's "I Will Survive" and Amli Stewart's "Knock on Wood," netted only one mention this time. Rock, meanwhile, took four of the five places on the list.

The reason for rock's upswing wasn't just an increase in the number of rock releases, but an increase in the number of noteworthy rock records being played on the radio.

To be eligible for the mid-year rating, a single has to have made one week during the past six months. The restriction is designed to keep attention on the singles that comprised our common AM diet this year. Otherwise, the lists would frequently involve records that few people have heard.

During the disco's saturation of AM radio early in 1979, few rock singles — good or bad — received enough national exposure to become hits. With the backlash against disco this year, programmers began slipping more rock records into their play lists.

Unfortunately, 90 percent of what we hear on the radio is still shamelessly unimaginative: either sloppy ballads or de-energized "dance" records (the term disco was then abandoned by trend-conscious disc jockeys who fear nothing more than being unhip enough to champion out-of-style sounds).

Given the high percentage of junk on the charts, the usual mid-year Top 10 format has been dropped this year in favor of a Top 5 and a Bottom 5.

Here are my choices for the best hits so far this year:
1. The Pretenders' "Brass in Pocket" (Sire) — I said it before, but it's true: the first time I heard this single on the AM radio, I double-checked the dial to make sure I wasn't tuned to an FM station by mistake. You just don't expect anything this good on AM radio any more — not that FM is all that hot either these days.

Hynde is one of the most alluring and provocative rock singers ever, and this sensual plea for attention has an irresistible chorus: "I'm gonna use my arms Gonna use my legs Gonna use my style...Gonna use my, my, my I-magination."

2. Tom Petty's "Refugee" (Backstreet) — Though part of last year's "Damn the Torpedoes" album, this track wasn't released as a single until this year so it qualifies as the first rock anthem of the 1980s: a song about idealism and desire in the tradition of Bruce Springsteen's "Born to Run" and Bob Dylan's "Like a Rolling Stone."

3. Blondie's "Call Me" (Chrysalis) — Blondie is the only repeat from 1979's year-end list of top singles (the group's "Dreaming" finished seventh). But it's producer, Giorgio Moroder, is the real star here. One of the best ear records in years, "Call Me" features such tension and drive in the arrangement that it probably would have been a hit even if the lead singer were turned over to the winner of a Debbie Harry look-alike contest.

4. Bob Seger's "Against the Wind" (Capitol) — Edging Bette Midler's "The Rose" as the year's best ballad, this melancholy song has much of the idealism and self-affirmation of Petty's "Refugee," but rock veteran Seger tempers Petty's youthful zest with the bruises and scars of more than a dozen years on the grueling concert trail.

5. Lipps Inc's "Funky Town" (Casablanca) — For all its tediousness, disco has gotten a bum rap. This single especially the opening "gotta move on" segment was the year's best example of the disco dynamic.

Tuesday: a tough regimen of dieting

Q: It's well known that the screen Lassie was in reality several dogs, employed over a span of years. Is the same true of lovable Benji? — R. B. O'S. Louis.

A: Until just a few years ago, there was only one Benji and this highly talented pooch acted in two movies — "Benji" and "For the Love of Benji." However, the original canine star, owned by Frank Inn, was getting a bit long in the tooth and passed away two years ago. Now, a new Benji, one of the first Benji's pups, will be making his movie debut this summer in "Oh Heavenly Dog." The film stars Chevy Chase as a private eye who's been murdered and is reincarnated as a dog to track down his murderer. Incidentally, — the transition of this new Benji is being played down by the film's producers, so as not to disillusion the popular series' legion of young fans.

Q: A while back, you mentioned the grotesque makeup worn by John Hurt in the movie, "The Elephant Man." Months have passed and I haven't come across a single photograph in the press showing Hurt in this role. Any reason? — N.H. of Baltimore.

A: Paramount has decided to put a clamp on all publicity shots depicting Hurt's extremely graphic facial makeup. General feeling is that his physical deformity would take on the aspect of a horror movie if photos were used out of context, so this aspect of the film is being deliberately played down. We've caught a glimpse of the trailers being prepared, and Hurt is never seen in close-up. The star — prefer — side — views — over-the-shoulder angles, etc. Hurt portrays John Merrick; the real-life "Elephant Man" who lived in England during the late 19th Century. Anne Bancroft co-stars.

Q: We were enchanted with "Morning at Seven" — the Broadway comedy about four sisters living in a small Midwestern town during the 1920s. Any chance of this charming bit of Americana developing into a movie? — M.M. of Scarsdale, N.Y.

A: There's been no definite movie sale yet. However, a parade of stars has been visiting the play, possibly with a weather eye toward appearing in an eventual film version. Foremost among them is Katharine Hepburn and an educated guess is that Kate would be unerringly right as a choice for one of the four feisty sisters.

TEMPORARY TEMPERAMENT: A famed movie star became a perennial pain in the neck while filming on location in New York — throwing her weight around, complaining constantly and even behaving rudely to persons she considered her underlings. Finally, the exasperated director got so fed up he gave the legendary lady a dressing down in front of the cast, advising her to knock off the prima donna shenanigans and shape up her act. His last words? The star says the light and breeze began behaving like a human being again.

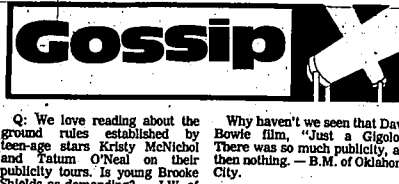

MYRNA'S MEMORIES: The Broadway musical, "A Day in Hollywood — A Night in the Ukraine" features a curtain with facsimiles of the footprints of big stars embedded in cement at Mann's Chinese Theater (formerly Grauman's). We sat near Myrna Loy, whose own footprints happen to be among those honored. When she spotted them on the curtain, she exclaimed to a friend, "Oh, look, it's me!" Later in the show, during a number spoofing the up-tight Hollywood production code of the '30s, we heard Myrna tell her companion, "It's all absolutely true. Each time Bill Powell and I acted in bed together, we were supposed to keep one foot planted firmly on the floor, ever though we were supposed to be married."

Q: What's become of Dick Martin, the goofier half of that marvelous "Laugh-In" TV comedy team, Rowan and Martin? We haven't heard much about him lately. — P.W. of Philadelphia.

A: Martin has been keeping himself pretty busy recently behind the TV cameras directing various projects. We, as-yu-no-doubt do, miss him so the good news is that he appears with George Segal in the upcoming movie, "Carbon Copy."

Q: What's with Lena Horne's supposed retirement? I just saw her at a concert and she looked and sounded marvelous, apparently without a retirement thought in her still lovely head. — G.S. of Washington, D.C.

A: At 63, Lena has said she'll drop her nightclub act but will keep doing concerts for as long as she can. Nightclubs aren't much fun these days, says Lena, and not many can still pay the big money she's demanding. Her daughter, told us her mother has so much energy, she'll never stop performing. And since the alternative for Lena is working the garden, we'll see Barbara Barone, we'll stick with daughter Gail's assessment.

Q: We love reading about the ground rules established by teenage stars Kristy McNichol and Tatum O'Neal on their publicity tours. Is young Brooke Shields as demanding? — J.W. of Albuquerque.

A: Not really, but her mother Teri has some ideas about Brooke's schedule. Now that Brooke is busy publicizing her new film, "The Blue Lagoon," Teri keeps an extremely tight reign on her daughter's interview schedules. She forbids her to see the press during school time. Further, mom has laid down the law to Brooke (a student whiz kid at the top of her class) that she remain in their apartment until completing every last bit of homework before going out at night — even if it's to help promote the film and further her career.

Why haven't we seen that David Bowie film, "Just a Gigolo" in theaters? There was so much publicity, and then nothing. — B.M. of Oklahoma City.

A: "Just a Gigolo" was the subject of a lot of hoopla awhile back but the film has not been released in the United States. That's because the producers wanted to wait until it's a bona fide success in Europe and then make a big splash with it in the States. Latest word is that it's doing very well in Europe. Meanwhile, David tells us he's busy reading piles of scripts, searching for the right property. He says he'd prefer a character role in a strong dramatic film. "I don't necessarily have to sing. Something nice-and-meaty-I can sink my acting teeth into would do just fine."

Q: I understand that John Travolta can be brooding and short of patience with his fans. I hope this isn't true. Is it — H.S. of Cambridge, Mass.

A: If John's recent impromptu visit to Paramount Pictures' New York headquarters is any indication, these reports are pure baloney. He stroled into the building wearing dungarees and without his much-publicized 'bodyguards. When Travolta was introduced to a group of staffers seated at their desks, he politely chatted with each one; impressing all with his boyish charm, shyness and surprisingly innocent manner. When asked for his autobiography John signed, "Love, John Travolta."

Q: What's this about actress Tuesday Weld showing up for a movie assignment so overweight that she had to be shipped off to a fat farm to drop the excess poundage? — I.O. of San Jose, Calif.

A: Tuesday was hired, sight unseen, to co-star with James Caan in "The Thief." When she reported for work, the producers decided she could stand to lose about 25 pounds before appearing on camera. So, during the movie's five-week location shoot in Chicago, Tuesday faithfully attended sessions at a local exercise studio — a tough regimen of dieting and jogging under close supervision. Happy to report Tuesday made her goal and then some.

HOLD THE PUBLICITY: If you can't figure out who is starring in the very successful movie mystery "Friday the 13th," here reading the ads there's a very good reason. The producers say they are reluctant to play up stars Betsy Palmer and Harry Crosby (Bing's son) because they don't want to tip off the audience to the plot. There's another reason. An insider says the film is low budget without much money available for publicity. The producers are depending on word of mouth to get people into the theaters this summer. Take your pick.

Q: Hasn't that versatile actor James Coburn just had a rather nasty divorce from his wife of many years? What were the grounds? — A.C. of Hartsdale, N.Y.

A: Coburn's 20-year marriage to 40-year-old Beverly Coburn was quietly dissolved recently in a court in Santa Monica. After about a half hour of testimony, the judge sealed the proceedings and closed the hearing to the press. The split was apparently amicable since the 51-year-old Coburn and his ex-wife appeared together about two weeks prior to the divorce hearing at a Los Angeles art museum function sparked by their personal art contributions.

Q: We know Bo Hopkins will appear with George Peppard in the TV movie "Oil." But can you tell us anything about his social life? — H.V. of Camden, N.J.

A: It's very active. Just recently, for example, Bo has dated Carol Lawrence, Jane Simmons, Al MacGraw, Shelley Hack and Linda Evans. Linda, by the way, appears in "Oil."

Q: Gary Grant's marvelous looks have always been highly distinctive, so we were surprised to hear that some TV producer is seeking a Grant look-alike for an upcoming TV movie. Who could possibly be suited to handle such a role? — J.W. of Austin, Texas.

A: Actor John Gavin himself, no slouch in the looks department, has been cast-to-play-Carry-in-the-upcoming NBC-TV movie "Sophia," about the life of Sophia Loren. Gavin has never worked with Grant, but has met him socially. Even so, Gavin thinks he might have to attend charm school to bring off his part.

DOUBLING THE VALUE: Richard Nixon demonstrated a keen sense of humor and even keener understanding of what a signature is worth the other day. Autographing a menu in a Manhattan restaurant for an admirer, the pen skipped and the signature smudged. Nixon carefully wrote a second, perfect autograph directly beneath the first. Then he exclaimed: "There, that ought to be worth twice as much."

Columbus is guinea pig for cable TV

By WILLIAM A. HENRY III
(©) Boston Globe

COLUMBUS, Ohio — It is flat here, and far from spring. It is hot and humid from late setting all the way through the summer. There are universities and museums but only a scattering of the arts. Factories make glass and ball bearings and practically everything else in more than 1,000 industrial plants. Ohio State plays its football games here and there are two horse tracks and an auto speedway.

In short, this is an utterly ordinary Middle American town. And that is its special charm. Columbus is almost perfect microcosm of America.

So three dozen research firms do about $100 million worth of business here. Dozens of companies test new products. And four different cable television companies have wired the town, one with the most innovative system in the country, tested through a hopelessly unprofitable base of about 40,000 subscribing homes.

What Columbus has is what Boston and every other uncelebrated city in America can demand for its households. The Warner QUBE system has been back in the news lately because its subscribers could pay $10 a household to watch the Leonard-Durán boxing match. The fight cost at least $15 a head for closed-circuit showing in theaters and arenas.

But more than a means to see big-budget events, Warner cable is a playing field of nonstop news, nonstop offbeat sports, nonstop children's shows, nonstop movies, nonstop religion, nonstop education, nonstop "golden age of TV reruns," and even nonstop pornography.

The unique two-way cable allows viewers to answer 50,000 referendum questions a year, offering yet another source of market research in this self-sampling town. The system also allows subscribers to arrange a surprise birthday party on the television set, with two-way contact unting friends gathered in the studio and the birthday celebrant watching at home—and with every other set in the system blanked out on that channel to insure privacy.

The same system can be used as a home fire and burglar alarm. Engineers are figuring out now how it can read household gas and water meters and supervise energy consumption. The homeowner's gadgetry is the size of a bedroom slipper. The central studio gadgetry is like an installment of the Strategic Air Command.

For years many big cities deflected cable bidders because there was no new programming to fill the extra channels. Even today, most cable subscribers get "imported" stations from other cities offering extra sports or different reruns and old movies with the same annoying commercials. Most get a pay TV channel of occasional sports and specials and several first-run movies for a flat monthly fee. But in Columbus, or at least the part of it that Warner serves, viewers can get 21 channels of services not available on commercial stations. Eight of those are for movies and other special events. Thirteen are programs made especially for cable, some just for Warner.

The services are assembled without regard for ratings—or at least without the panicky determination to draw 30 percent of the audience every single minute. "A small but loyal audience is even better in some ways," program director Scott Kurril says. "Those people will subscribe every month. They're not just willing to watch. They want what they're getting."

"We had a channel of stock quotations, on a several-minute delay. Our computer told us just 10 people were watching with any consistency. So we decided to use the channel for other things. Nine of those 10 people called to complain, and they were emphatic. They were using that service, delay or no, to make their livelihood. In this kind of system we can serve them."

Rodney is taking life easier

By REBECCA TROUNSON
(©) The Los Angeles Times

HOLLYWOOD — It has been almost eight years since Rodney Allen Rippy became an instant celebrity as the pint-sized salesman of the Jumbo Jack, a large hamburger then promoted by Jack-in-the-Box.

Rodney is 11 now but still much like the ingenious three-and-a-half-year-old who won hearts and sales for the hamburger chain with his futile struggle to get his mouth around the oversized burger. He appeared in a series of commercials for Jack-in-the-Box between 1973 and 1976, including one in which he advised people, in song, to "take life a little easier."

Rodney and his family will leave the neighborhood in nearby Long Beach where they lived for 13 years to be near relatives in Greensboro, N.C., this summer.

His mother, Flossie, said Rodney had no definite plans to continue working in TV or movies. However, he might make occasional trips to New York, she said, if he gets any offers. Rodney says he plans to be a "TV or movie star" when he grows up.

With the six commercials he did for the hamburger chain and others that followed, including spots for Chevrolet, a candy bar manufacturer and a soft-drink company, Rodney became a fad.

His fans could purchase everything from T-shirts to lapel buttons with his picture imprinted on them.

While the attention has died down somewhat in recent years, there is still a steady stream of fans winding its way to the Rippys' modest home, Rodney said. These visitors, seeking an autograph, a picture, or only a glimpse of the famous little boy, are mainly, he said, —"from places like Oklahoma."

Rodney still enjoys the attention he gets in public places.

"People look at me and say, 'Hey, isn't that Rodney Allen Rippy?'" he said, his voice falling to a loud whisper as he imitates the autograph seekers. "Then a big crowd gathers around. I like it."

The crowds might continue to gather, Rodney recently finished shooting "Oh, God! Book II" with George Burns and is starring in a Mattel toy commercial that is airing now, he said.

Does Rodney plan to return to California?

"I'll be back if I have to get on my motorcycle and ride all the way back," he said.

Covent Garden

Historic opera lives on

LONDON (UPI) — The Royal Opera House in Covent Garden has announced four new productions for its 1980-1981 season, emphasizing that commercial sponsorship is vital in these days of soaring costs.

Only commercial sponsorship has enabled the historic opera house to maintain a full program and yet engage in a fund-raising campaign for millions of dollars to modernize the deplorable backstage area.

New productions: "Tales of Hoffmann," to mark the centenary of Offenbach's death, with Placido Domingo in the title role and film director John Schlesinger directing his first opera; Alban Berg's "Lulu," in its first appearance at Covent Garden; Verdi's "Macbeth," and — as part of the Royal Opera's first Mozart Festival — "Don Giovanni," with Ruggiero Raimondi in the title role.

Revsivals include Wagner's "Ring," Mozart's "Figaro" and "Così Fan Tutte," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "Othello," "Tosca," "The Masked Ball," "Lohengrin," "Peter Grimes" and "L'Elisir d'Amore."

Coppola also a winemaker

By CHARLES SCHREGER
(C) The Los Angeles Times
HOLLYWOOD — Francis Coppola is a tough man to pigeonhole. He's a director ("The Godfather," "Apocalypse Now"), a writer ("Patton"), a producer ("American Graffiti"), "The Black Stallion" and an executive (head of Zoetrope Studios).
Then there's Francis Coppola, the wine maker. Over the weekend Coppola played host to about two dozen other wine makers at his Hollywood studio during a luncheon and wine-tasting party. The other wine makers were in town for the annual get-together of the American Society of Oenologists.
Coppola owns a 1,600-acre vineyard in the Northern California Napa Valley — the Neibuam Coppola Estate. He moved there in 1975. But as Russ Turner, who runs his vineyard, explained, the Coppola vintage has not yet made its debut. It's in pre-production.

"Film meets wine," was how Coppola described the noon-hour party at his studio. There the wine makers had a preview of Coppola's wine when they tasted "barrel samples."

"My wine will be ready to drink in 2001," Coppola kidded. Actually, Turner explained, Coppola's wine should be on the market in 1984.

John Landis has directed two studio movies — "National Lampoon's Animal House" and "The Blues Brothers." The first cost $3 million and was a smash hit for Universal. The second time out his budget multiplied 10 times.

How does Landis feel about the big jump? In retrospect, does he feel that his second film was worth the price? Here's what he recently told the trade publication Boxoffice:

"The movie 'The Blues Brothers' cost $27 million. The budget was $24 million; and we came in $3 million over. The picture is bigger than 'Ben Hur' and that took three years to make. It's bigger than 'Lawrence of Arabia,' and that took two years to make. There are more stunts in this movie than in any other picture made. We had 10,000 people on the payroll.

"But in terms of how much it cost, I will never apologize for spending money to entertain. I feel very good about it."

Anyway, "The Blues Brothers" is "bigger" than both "Ben Hur" and "Lawrence of Arabia."

Art Show in the Park

Registration deadline approaches

TWIN FALLS — The deadline is nearing for those who wish to sign up to perform in this year's art show in the park.

Ted Hadley, Magic Valley Arts Council coordinator of performing arts for the show, is asking that all interested artists contact him by July 18.

The 22nd annual art show, sponsored by the Art Guild of Magic Valley, will be July 26 and 27 in City Park.

This is the second year MVAC is organizing the performing arts for the event. Any type of performing art is welcome, whether amateur or professional.

The Art Guild will register visual artists the Saturday and Sunday mornings of the event as they set up in the park.

Registration fees are: $1 for Art Guild members, $5 for members of other art associations and $10 for non-affiliated and out-of-state artists.

For further information concerning performing arts, call Hadley at 733-1079. Visual artists may call Evemete Henkelman at 733-0750 or Gary Stone at 423-4355 for more details.

Humanitas Prizes

Three shows awarded

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — For curbing humanity's "Sin-Riser," "A Miracle of Love," "Family," and "M-A-S-H" have been honored with this year's Humanitas Prizes.

The $50,000 in prizes is given annually by the Human Family Institute in voting by a special group. The 1980 panel, which announced the winners Wednesday, also voted a non-monetary award to "NBC White Paper," a show portraying the nation's growing Hispanic population.

Barry and Suzi Kautzman and Stephen Kandel won the $25,000 prize for full-length dramas for "Sin-Riser: A Miracle of Love," a story of their successful attempt to reach their autistic child, while Billy Robinson won the $15,000 prize for an hour-long show for the

Thanksgiving episode of the ABC series "Family."

Alan Alda and James Jay Rubinfur won the $10,000 prize for an half-hour show for the "Dreams" episode of the CBS series "M-A-S-H." The jury said that show was honored for "its dramatization of the utter absurdity of war and of any attempt to subordinate people to impersonal systems, and for its hope-filled portrayal of human beings who give of themselves to the point where it hurts to help their fellow human beings."

Among members of the selection jury were Ray Bradbury, Les Brown, Norman Cousins, Harvey Cox, Helen Hayes, Buck Schulberg, Cicely Tyson, Robert Wise and Joanne Woodward.

Sylvester Stallone will co-star in 'Escape Victory'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sylvester Stallone will co-star with Michael Caine and Max Von Sydow in "Escape to Victory" with crusty John Huston in the director's chair.

"Escape to Victory," based on World War II Allied prisoners forced to play the Nazi all-star soccer team in a life-and-death match, will be the most ambitious American film ever produced in Hungary.

Producer Freddie Fields has signed soccer stars Pele of Brazil, Bobby Moore of England and 18 other world-class players to appear in the most climactic soccer match.

Art association plans trip

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Art Association will sponsor a San Francisco Art Tour this fall for members and prospective members.

Chartered buses at reduced rates will depart from Pocatello, November 6 for the five-day trip. Rates are $65 for the round trip, including $5 yearly membership dues.

The trip will include museum tours, a theater visit and the annual IAA meeting.

Interested persons may contact Michael Green at 733-9624, or write to the Idaho Art Association, c/o Art Department, Idaho State University, Pocatello, ID 83209.

Bus space is limited and accommodations will be available on the basis of earliest receipt of registration forms, which are now being accepted.

Beverly Sills will end NYCO career

NEW YORK (UPI) — Soprano Beverly Sills will make her final stage appearance Oct. 27, with the New York City Opera, as Rosalinda in Johann Strauss' "Die Fledermaus." That's the same role in which she made her debut with NYCO 25 years ago.

The benefit performance starring Miss Sills, now the artistic director of the company, will include appearances by Julie Andrews, Placido Domingo, James Galway, Nicolai Gedda, Helen Hayes, Danny Kaye, Angel Lansbury, Mary Martin, Ethel Merman, Shirley Verrett, Carol Burnett and others.

The evening will mark Miss Sills' official retirement from her singing career in opera and concert. It will be the last of a series of "farewell" benefit performances she will be giving for other opera companies and symphony orchestras across the country.
