Evans, Leroy battle over prison policy

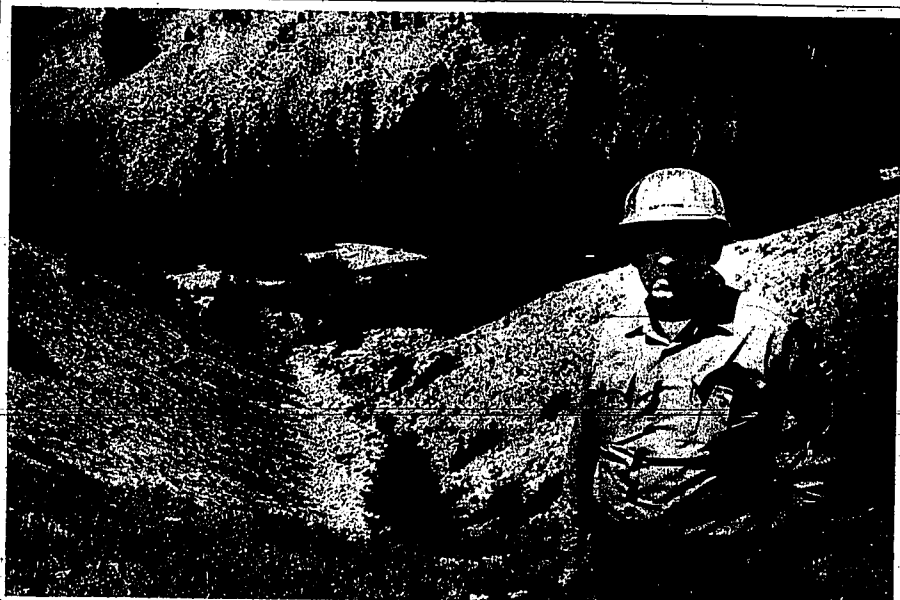

BOISE (UPI) — A battle of words has erupted between Idaho Attorney General David Leroy and Gov. John Evans over Leroy's issuance of a news release criticizing the governor's handling of riotous prisoners at the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Leavenworth is new 'home' for inmates

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho officials were airlifting 151 of its most dangerous criminals out of the state Saturday from a tent city hastily erected at their riot-devastated state penitentiary.

Fairfield District Forest Service employee Keith Walker, who has praise for the environmental concerns of some miners, points out eroding pits along the South Boise River caused by hydraulic mining years ago.

Forest officials seek balance

Mining need not hurt land

By BRUCE HAMMOND Times-News writer FAIRFIELD — Most people probably wouldn't have given another thought to the square brown patches on top of at least two Sawtooth mountain peaks.

The Forest Service is trying to lessen the impact of mining on the land in the Fairfield District area.

"I'm really confident that it'll work too, for the most part, because the majority of these folks are as concerned about the environment as anyone."

Walker said this method of mining recalls early hydraulic mining. This practice used pressurized water to blow away entire mountain sides, hundreds of feet tall and wide.

7,500 flee homes as derailed train leaks toxic gasses

MULDRAUGH, Ky. (UPI) — Some 7,500 people, including soldiers from nearby Fort Knox and residents of the Muldraugh area, were routed from their homes Saturday after six of 10 derailed tank cars carrying toxic chemicals exploded in flames.

State Adjutant Gen. Billy Weillman said Saturday night the situation remained stable with two vinyl chloride tank cars still burning. Weillman said it could take until Saturday morning for the cars and contents to burn out.

Gordon Nichols, a spokesman for the state Division of Disaster Emergency Services, said six of the 10 cars that derailed were carrying vinyl chloride. Four other cars carried chlorine, acrylonitrile, toluene and propane.

Authorities said further evacuations probably would not be necessary because winds kept the toxic cloud from populated areas. About 4,500 of the evacuees were allowed to return to their homes.

CASTING CRAZE
 A film biography of Frank Sinatra is in the works and casting could shape up as the biggest stampede of hopefuls since the "Come With the Wind" search for Scarlett O'Hara back in the '30s. Rene Valente — producer of the O' Blue Eyes chronicle — has been beset with more than 5,000 pictures and resumes from actors who think they look, sound and act like Sinatra. Okay — but can they run a ratpack?

Strike may increase reruns

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An actors' strike, which has halted production of movies and television programs and put nearly 50,000 people out of work, is costing the Los Angeles area $40 million a week in lost earnings, and threatens to force movie theaters and networks to show reruns starting this fall.

Despite the image of wealth and glamour that surrounds the movie and television industry, most actors affected by the strike are in a low economic bracket, earning less than $10,000 a year, and vast numbers of them are frequently unemployed. They struggle along, trying to get a foothold to stardom, often working at dull jobs to keep bread on the table while awaiting a chance at a good role in a picture.

Operators, who earn several million dollars for just one movie, are only a small percentage of the film industry.

Thousands of non-actors also are out of work because of the week-old strike, although they are not directly affected by the high financial stakes involved in the dispute.

Technicians of various kinds, secretaries and others whose jobs are a necessary and integral part of the movie-making and television industry have found their paychecks also stopped.

They have had to start looking around for other ways to make a living, while not knowing when the strike might be settled.

The Screen Actors Guild and the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists went on strike at one minute after midnight July 21.

At the heart of the labor dispute is, as usual, money. But this time the demands for more of it are spawned by advanced video technology, which has created a bargaining area never before entered.

For several decades actors have received residuals for each repeat of their network television shows. But the advent of videocassettes, videodisks and pay TV — which permit the viewers to show their own reruns as often as they wish — have stirred up a new conflict.

There is no prior provision, no established contract language to describe how performers shall be paid for performances exhibited in the telecommunications market.

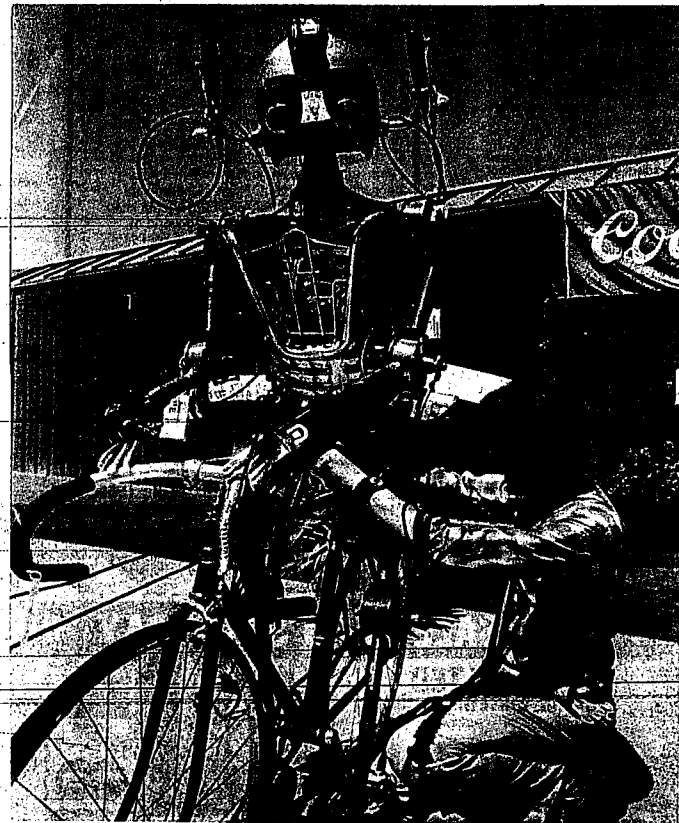

Strike leaders say the producers want to exhibit the performances on pay TV for two years without paying additional compensation to the actors. The actors have complained that after two years most shows would lose their public appeal, having been thoroughly digested.

SAG and AFTRA are demanding a six percent share in the gross receipts for sale of shows and films in the video market.

They also want a 35 percent wage increase across the board — the first year of the contract — claiming that the cost of living has risen that much since the last contract was negotiated three years ago. Actors now make up to $785 a week plus residuals for reruns. But their union spokesmen say that last year almost 90 percent of the members earned less than $10,000, and 59 percent made under $1,000 a year from acting.

If the strike is prolonged, severe layoffs are inevitable and theatres will do without new movies far into next year.

Deng to assume head of state post

demantling power structure

TOKYO (UPI) — China's powerful Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping will assume the position of head of state on his retirement from other posts at the National People's Congress in August, it was reported Saturday.
The Yomiuri newspaper, quoting "reliable Chinese sources in Tokyo," said Deng, 76, has held Chinese officials: "In order to separate party and government function, I will become head of state."

It was believed he will give up his vice premiership on the State Council and keep his vice chairmanship in the communist party, which suggests to some political observers that Deng's taking over as head of state means he will replace present party chairman Hua Guofeng.
The newspaper report said the source did not clarify the vice premier's intentions in taking on the head of state position.
Deng, who was purged twice before returning to power, has pushed the country forward in a modernization program emphasizing agriculture, defense, industry and science.

The last person to hold what is usually called the "head of state" position in China, however, was Liu Shaoqi, who was in office from 1959-66. The post was part of the government and not the party.
The post was diminished in 1968, when Liu was banished from the party and disgraced by Chairman Mao Tse-tung. It has remained unfilled ever since.
Though Deng now holds posts in both the party and government, giving him the formal number three in China's leadership, he is in effect the nation's supreme leader.
But since he came to power in 1977, Deng has encouraged a definition and division of party and government roles, which previously were often held simultaneously by a single person.
Deng has said he will retire in August, but never said which of his posts he will leave. He said he would continue to play an advisory role, without elaborating.

During Liu's term as head of state, the post was vested with great power, even surpassing that of party chairman — which Mao held at the time.
According to the Tokyo newspaper report if Deng were to assume the post of head of state, the Chinese constitution would have to be revised to reestablish the spot.
Deng has said he plans to retire in order to make way for younger leadership, which seems to contradict the report that he will take on such a high-powered post as head of state.
Deng is considered by Western observers to be a pragmatist and a skilled economic planner, and is respected in military circles.
He is regarded as an earthy man who is characterized by his famous saying, "It does not matter if a cat is black or white as long as it catches mice."

Latin America people boom predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Latin America's birth rate is growing so fast that by the year 2,000 its population will double, Mexico City will be the largest city in the world and Brazil will be almost as populous as the United States.
Those are among warnings included in the administration's Global 2000 study — a projection released last week of what the world will be like in the next century.
The study, although it looked at the entire world population, concluded Latin America will undergo the most explosive population change.
It said unless there are some radical notions, a vast majority of the young, new generation of Latin Americans will be unemployed and underfed — a classic pre-revolutionary situation and one bound to aggravate the illegal alien traffic problem across the U.S. border.

Some projected figures from Global 2000:
•By the year 2000, the present population of Latin America (about 325 million) will just about double to 657 million.
•The population in Latin America, because of high birth rates and improved health care, is increasing every year by almost 3 percent.
•The largest city in the world in the year 2000, by current projections, will be Mexico City, already a classic case of what happens when urban growth is allowed to run uncontrolled. But current traffic jams and polluted air will seem pleasant by what is predicted for the year 2000, when Mexico City will have 31.6 million people, or about three times the present population.

•Brazil will more than double its present population to 226 million and will be nearly equal, in terms of population, to the United States.
•Mexico, at current rates, would pass the United States in size sometime in mid-century.
•In the year 2000 urban sprawls such as Mexico City will consist of "uncontrolled settlements," slums and shantytowns where sanitation and other public services are minimal or non-existent, the report said.
"The findings of the study point to increasing potential for international conflict and increasing stress on international financial arrangements," it said.

Thomas Pickering, assistant secretary of state for Science and Technology, says the population problem ranks first in the problems that worried the analysts for Global 2000.
In Latin America, where many people are Roman Catholic, most forms of birth control are officially forbidden. Pickering said population specialists and church officials are trying to spread the idea of "natural" birth control methods.
Africa, by some projections, will have an even higher rate of population growth than Latin America, but the African continent, compared to Latin America, is relatively sparsely settled, and birth control does not usually involve a conflict with church, officials said.

Burgler nets $20 million

CANNES, France (UPI) — Police said Saturday they believe that a lone cat burglar slipped into the luxurious Riviera villa of an Arab sheikh and stole more than $20 million in jewels and cash while he was dining downstairs with three of his four wives.
The theft late Thursday from the mansion of Prince-Abdel-Aziz Bin Ahmed Althani, son of an emir of Qatar who was overthrown in 1975, was described by police as the biggest heist from a private home in France.
First suspecting that the crime might have been an "inside job," police detained a Tunisian security guard and questioned him over the weekend. But he was later released.
"We have no clues and no witnesses," said a police spokesman. He added authorities now believe that a lone "cat burglar" evaded a

China also faces heat wave

PEKING (UPI) — A long, hot summer — the driest in 100 years — has hit Peking, but the Chinese have taken a cue from the West on how to cope with it.
With only occasional showers sprinkling the northern landscape and temperatures daily soaring into the 90s, most of Peking's 84 reservoirs have already dried up, the official Xinhua News Agency reported Saturday.
Crops to feed Peking's 5 million urban population have withered and worried city officials have been holding emergency talks with commune leaders to try to save the produce.
There has been such a run on beer supplies in Peking that the city is virtually dry in that respect also.

Idi Amin is in Saudi Arabia

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — The Saudi Arabian government said Saturday that former Ugandan dictator Idi Amin is in the kingdom performing the Moslem pilgrimage.
It was the first official word on Amin's whereabouts in several months. Saudi sources said the former dictator actually has been in Saudi Arabia for the past six months, but the government had refused to confirm his presence until now.
A Saudi official statement said Amin was in Saudi Arabia, the birthplace of Islam, to "perform a pilgrimage" and "honor the country he was allowed to enter the country out of religious considerations."
The former president, like any other Moslem, has the right to perform his religious duties," the statement said.
But it also denied what it described as "British press reports" saying Amin was granted asylum in Saudi Arabia and was being treated as a refugee.

Soviets claim terrorist attack foiled

MOSCOW (UPI) — Airline sources said Saturday Soviet officials told them of a terrorist plot to attack "a capitalist airline" at the start of the Moscow Olympics.
Reportedly the attack was to take place at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport during the opening Olympic ceremonies last Saturday.
The sources said, however, that they doubted the Soviet story, saying it may have been concocted to justify the closing of the airport during the opening ceremonies.
According to the Soviet explanation given to the airlines, Russian officials learned of a terrorist plot to attack an incoming plane belonging to a "capitalist airline." The airport was shut down, flights were diverted and the plot was foiled, according to the Soviet explanation.
But the explanation did not indicate how, in a nation with security as strict as it is in the Soviet Union, terrorists could plan such an attack. Officials of the national airline Aeroflot said they could not discuss details of the alleged plot for security reasons, the sources said.
The airline sources who relayed the Soviet account to reporters said they suspected the airport was closed to prevent the kinds of incoming planes from disturbing the opening ceremonies, at which President Leonid Brezhnev was present.

San Francisco

Cuban gays welcome

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Twenty-five Cuban refugees came quietly to San Francisco Friday night under a program sponsored San Francisco's gay community.

Havens said San Francisco gay leaders were also concerned that excess publicity could cause problems for the refugees because of U.S. immigration laws make it hard for acknowledged homosexuals to become citizens.

They did not go into the airport, but went directly from their plane to a chartered bus, which took them to the city's predominantly homosexual Castro District.

Havens said it was not known when and how many more Cuban refugees who may be homosexuals would arrive in San Francisco.

There, they went to the Metropolitan Community Church, where they met their Bay Area sponsors at what spokesman Bob Havens called a "low-key welcoming party."

"This is important to the gay community," Havens said. "It's one thing to throw a disco party or march in a parade. It's another thing to assume responsibility for six months and about $100 to $150 a month for food, clothing and expenses."

Earlier plans for a noisy and jubilant welcome for the Cuban refugees were scrubbed at the request of the U.S. State Department, which asked that the refugees not be exposed to undue publicity.

'Spruce Goose' saved

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Howard Hughes' "Spruce Goose," the largest airplane ever built, will not be destroyed, say sources close to negotiations to save the plane.

Wrather said they could not comment on their plans until a news conference scheduled for Monday.

The mammoth seaplane, hidden for 33 years, will become a museum alongside that other giant relic of the 1940s, the Queen Mary, the sources said.

The plane has been hidden away since Hughes piloted it on its only flight in 1947, a hop of about a minute over the waters of Long Beach Harbor.

The Summa Corp., owner of the plane, will announce Monday that an agreement has been reached to turn the plane over to the Wrather Corp., operator of the Disneyland Hotel, the sources revealed Friday.

The plane was designed during World War II to carry troops and supplies over the Atlantic, avoiding German submarines.

"It will be announced the plane will be preserved for posterity and that Wrather is involved," said one source, who asked not to be identified.

It is 220 feet long, weighs 140 tons and has a wing span of 520 feet — making it bigger than a Boeing 747 or the military C-5A, the giants of the modern sky.

But there are some other parties involved, and not all the details have been worked out yet. If all the details are cleared up, it will go on public display near the Queen Mary.

Powered by eight piston engines and capable of holding 750 troops, it was an unprecedented engineering feat for its day — observers noted with awe that two B-17s could sit on its wings — and established the design concepts that led to today's jumbo jets.

Reporter wrote of suicides, apparently commits own front seat was the name and phone number of a psychiatrist.

Just after 3 a.m. Friday, police found parked at the top of westbound span of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge a car belonging to a former local reporter who once wrote about suicide leaps from the bridge.

Cook said traffic on the bridge was very light when the young woman's car was found. "I think she more than likely would have been observed walking off the bridge," he said.

The motor of the 1978 Honda Civic belonging to Fran Krzywicki was running, the lights were on and her press credentials were found inside.

To get off the bridge without being seen, he said, "is possible, yes, but not very probable."

But there was no trace of the 25-year-old woman.

Cook also said he doubted the search of the water below, abandoned in mid-morning by the Coast Guard, would resume.

Cpt. Ronnie Cook, a bridge policeman said "There is little doubt it was a suicide. But until Ms. Krzywicki's body is found, her disappearance will be listed as an apparent suicide, Cook said.

"If they don't find body within three or four hours of the jump, the tides and currents could do so much with it that the body could be three or four miles down the bay by now," Cook said.

In May 1979, Ms. Krzywicki wrote a story — banned on the front page of the Annapolis Evening Capital under the headline, "April Rise in Bay Bridge Leaps." The first four paragraphs of the story, which detailed the leap of a 40-year-old Bethesda, Md., woman, read:

Before joining the Evening Capital, Ms. Krzywicki wrote for the Delaware State News in Dover, where she covered the arrival in the U.S. of the hundreds of bodies from the 1978 mass suicide in Guyana.

"An empty champagne bottle sat on the floor of the open glove compartment."

After leaving the Annapolis newspaper, she joined the staff of the Newport News (Va.) Daily Press.

"Beside it was a plastic cup with a cigarette butt smashed in the bottom.

Will Mollineux, a Daily Press editor, was quoted by the Evening Capital as saying Krzywicki had been troubled with personal problems for the last few months and once tried to commit suicide in presence of several staff members.

"The key was in the ignition."

Hanigan case
Torture trial sets precedent

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Jurors sitting in the precedent-setting Hanigan trial rest on a potential powderkeg as they mull the case with its distinct overtones of racial oppression.

pressure from Mexican-American groups, federal charges were brought against the brothers under the obscenity laws.

Before the 20-day-old trial even began, defense attorneys and prosecutors agreed the case was a rallying symbol for Mexican-Americans in the Southwest.

The statute, designed to regulate interstate commerce, was originally conceived for prosecution of suspected gangsters. U.S. Attorney Michael Hawkins invoked the law by noting the aliens had crossed over into the United States to seek jobs at the time of the attack.

"It hits at the heart of the problems between ranchers and illegal aliens. You can't believe the amount of heat from both sides," said Alex Gaynes, attorney for Thomas Hanigan.

U.S. District Judge Richard Bilby upheld use of the statute in turning back a defense challenge, but conceded the law was being stretched "to the outer limits."

And before the eight-woman, four-man jury even returned with a verdict, activists vowed to carry on what they believe to be a cause.

Bilby slapped a gag order on participants in the case following opening statements when Gaynes was widely quoted as saying successful prosecution would spur indictments against politically unpopular people.

Ruben Sandoval, a San Antonio attorney representing the National Coalition on the Hanigan Case, told a nighttime rally the group would continue its work even if the two ranchers were acquitted.

This would make the U.S. legal system "not much different from Nazi Germany," Gaynes insisted.

"Riots!" one spectator suggested. "I can't tell you that," Sandoval maintained. "But I can't tell you not to."

Mexican-American leaders conceded their hope the trial would lead to indictments in other Southwest civil rights cases.

Max Torrez, a youth worker representing a coalition of Tucson-area Chicano groups, said he could sense frustration concerning what he considered "the system."

The defense countered with talk of an alleged conspiracy between Mexican-American leaders and U.S. Attorney Benjamin Civiletti who allegedly promised an indictment in return for endorsement at the time of his confirmation hearing.

"All it's going to take is one little incident. We're running around like Smokey the Bear stamping out little fires, but one of these days, there's going to be a big fire. Look what happened in Miami."

For their part, Hispanic leaders continued to protest throughout the trial, including criticism of prosecutors for a lack of effort and selection of any all-white jury.

Hanigan, 28, and his younger brother Patrick, 23, were accused of robbing and torturing three illegal aliens after they allegedly went out "wetback hunting."

"It's another classic example of Chicanoes being excluded from the system," argued Margo Cowan, an anti-poverty worker who organized picketing outside Tucson's U.S. District Court for the duration of the trial.

Wells motel destroyed by fire

WELLS (UPI) — Three people were reported missing Saturday morning after the Ranch House Motel in Wells burned to the ground.

The man and two children missing in the fire were staying in second story rooms. The man's wife was taken to Elko by ambulance but was reported too upset to give investigators much information. No names were available.

The fire was reported at 1:40 a.m. Firefighters said there is a possibility other guests in the casino-restaurant-motel complex may also be missing.

The Ranch House was in the process of being remodeled and expanded.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jack Clark's one-out triple in the 10th inning scored Joe Strain from first base Saturday and gave the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Chicago 4, Texas 3

CHICAGO (UPI) — Harold Baines led off the ninth inning with a home run Saturday night, breaking a 3-3 tie and lifting the Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Philis 6, Braves 3

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Manny Trillo drove in three runs with a pair of doubles and Bob Boone hit a solo home run Saturday night to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Orioles 4, Brewers 1

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Steve Stone won his 14th straight game and Benny Ayala slammed a two-run homer in the seventh inning Saturday night, leading the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-1 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Expos 2, Astros 1

MONTREAL (UPI) — Larry Parrish walked with the bases loaded and two out in the 12th inning Saturday night to break a 1-1 tie and enable the Montreal Expos to break a three-game losing streak with a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Baltimore 15 in 1968

Stone, who has not lost since May 5, owns the second-longest streak in Orioles history. Dave McNally of Baltimore won 15 in a row in 1968. The American League played in only his second game since being recalled from Denver, led off with a walk and Andre Dawson beat out an infield single off loser Frank Lacorte, 7-2. Two outs later Gary Carter walked to lead the bases and Parrish walked on a 3-2 pitch to make a winner of Stan Bahnsen, 7-4.

Navratilova posts easy win

RICHMOND (UPI) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova continually hit to Pam Shriver's backhand Saturday to oust the fourth-seeded entry 7-5, 7-5 and advance to the final of the $100,000 Richmond International tennis tournament.

Navratilova, the defending champion, meets Mary Lou Platak for the title at 1 p.m. Sunday in the University of Richmond's Robins Center-Eastler Saturday. Platak needed only 40 minutes to whip Betty Nagelsen 6-4, 6-0.

Shriver, who had trouble with her first serve in the second set, found herself continually frustrated by Navratilova's backhand cross court service return that landed just outside her reach. Navratilova also avoided Shriver's forehand by hitting to her backhand, which Shriver rarely hits with topspin.

Navratilova faced break point herself in the next game at 30-40 in the next game, but won the next three points and the game to lead 6-5, when Shriver's shot sailed long.

Using a lob and a backhand cross court, Navratilova moved to a 15-40 in the 12th game and won the match at 30-40 when Shriver's net volley landed wide.

Platak, 18, of Munster, Ind., used her deep baseline ground strokes to prevent Nagelsen from getting into her more familiar net volley game. Nagelsen, 23, of Winnetka, Ill., only won 23 points in the entire match.

Navratilova needed a little more time than that to dispose of Shriver as the two battled for 1 hour, 20 minutes before Navratilova broke Shriver's

Navratilova moved to a 15-40 in the 12th game and won the match at 30-40 when Shriver's net volley landed wide.

Both sets were mirror images for Platak, breaking Nagelsen in the first, third and fifth games of each set.

MR. AND MRS. TIMOTHY R. BROWN

Billings-Brown

HELENA, Mont. — Valeria J. Billings of Twin Falls and Timothy R. Brown were married June 14 at St. Helena Cathedral with the Revs. Robert Butko and Raymond D. Brown officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Billings of Twin Falls. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Brown of Helena.

The bride wore a gown of white bridal satin trimmed with seed pearls at the mandarin-type neckline and an overlay capelet of chantilly lace. Her veil descended from a picture hat trimmed with matching lace. She carried a bouquet of wine-colored silk tulle roses with baby's breath.

Debra Widholm of Spokane, Wash., was maid of honor. Vickie Young of Twin Falls, Kathy Brown, sister of the bridegroom, of Helena, and Ann Sievers of Rupert were bridesmaids.

Dwight Bernard was best man. The groomsmen were Ray Brown Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Rex Rychalski, all of Helena, and Steve Billings, brother of the bride, Twin Falls.

The bride is a graduate of Carroll College in Helena and is employed by St. Nicholas School, Rupert. The bridegroom has been attending Southern Methodist University.

After a wedding trip to Chico Hot Springs, Fray, Mont., the couple will live in Rupert.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL E. POLLARD

Carter-Pollard

TWIN FALLS — Cecelia Mae Carter of Bozeman, Mont., and Michael E. Pollard of Twin Falls exchanged wedding vows July 12.

The double ring ceremony was held in Big Sky, Mont., at Soldier's Chapel with Rev. Dick Whitte officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence-Gilbert Carter of Bozeman. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Pollard of Twin Falls.

Randy Monroe was best man. Ushers were Lysle and Jeff Carter.

A reception was held in the Hunters Inn following the ceremony.

The couple will reside in Bozeman, where he is employed at McLees Sheet Metal. She is working at the School of Business, Montana State University.

Foster mom of 21 signs for draft

WESTFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — After raising 21 kids, 18 of them foster children, you would think Patricia Andras had done her fair share of work. She doesn't think so.

The 42-year-old woman, who still has two foster children in her care, marched into the post office in this western Massachusetts community Tuesday and signed up for the draft, stunning her family and postal officials.

"It's no joke to me," she said afterward. "I gave it great deal of thought. I feel very deeply about it."

Gordon H. Pilgrim, acting supervisor of postal operations, refused to predict whether her form would be accepted by military officials, but said "anyone has a right to register."

"I first thought of doing something for my family; but they're all well adjusted. Now I want to do something for my country," she said.

"I'm willing to do whatever they tell me. If I'm called up, I'll go."

Mrs. Andras said she doesn't understand why President Carter's program to collect the names of potential draftees had spurred protests across the nation.

"What are they afraid of? We all want a good country. I know we can't go it alone," she said.

She said her decision came as a surprise to her family, especially her husband. "My husband was absolutely in shock," she said.

Her children range in age from 27 to 12. She and her husband presently have a 14-year-old foster daughter and 12-year-old foster son living with them.

Standouts

Christian W. Skeem, son of Wayne and Arlene Skeem of Twin Falls, has been accepted into the two-year master's degree program of John Hopkins University's School of Advanced International Studies. This highly respected graduate school is headquartered in Washington, D.C. and maintains an overseas study center in Bologna, Italy, where Skeem will spend his first year before completing his studies in Washington.

Only 60 American students were admitted at the Bologna center out of thousands of applicants this year. They will join 60 more students from Europe and the rest of the world. Skeem previously spent two years in Italy as a Mormon missionary.

For his wife, Olga, a native Italian, this will be a return home. The couple met at BYU's missionary training center. Mrs. Skeem, a BYU graduate, plans to pursue a partially completed degree in medicine at the University of Bologna.

Ron Buhler, son of Betty Buhler of Wendell, won highest honors and a gold medal in the wedding competition at the National Vocational Industrial Clubs of America Skill Olympics in Atlanta, Ga. June 23.

Buhler and his instructor from Idaho State University, Robert Roet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roet, also of Wendell, will have an expense paid trip to Cleveland, Ohio, this fall for a two-day show of the latest techniques and equipment in welding, sponsored by the American Welding Society.

Buhler, who with his wife, Cheryl, and two small sons has just moved to Casper, Wyo., to work for Getty Oil Co., was the first Idahoan to win a gold medal in welding. In March he won two medals and an $180 acetone torch set at the ISU welding competition.

Roger B. James of Twin Falls, was named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Valparaiso University's College of Arts and Science.

The Twin Falls Optimist Club received two top honors at the Pacific Northwest quarterly board meeting in Vancouver, B.C.

The two projects which won the competition against 80 other local clubs in the Northwest were the Bicycle Safety Parade and Rodeo which was co-sponsored by the Burley Club, and the Junior Miss scholarship program.

The projects were the two highest ranking Community Project Award entries in the entire Northwest, according to Charles Hallett, club president.

He said the Bicycle Safety Parade and Rodeo entry, also finished first internationally.

Allergies over stressed

DENVER, Colo. (UPI) — Getting proper nourishment can be a losing battle for children thought to have food allergies, says Dr. Allan Bock.

Bock, a pediatric allergist at Denver's National Jewish Hospital, says many children are needlessly malnourished when whole groups of food are removed from their diets without thorough, scientific allergy testing.

Food allergies are less common than most people think, the physician says, and a child may avoid a food for his lifetime after one or two food allergy incidents.

Bock says skin tests that some doctors give are only indicators. He recommends conclusive blind food challenges instead. One type involves alternating placebos with gelatin capsules containing suspect foods. He says such food restrictions are relatively harmless for things easily isolated in the food supply. "Chocolate and peanuts are perfect examples," he says.

Bock says the real irritant in some allergic food reactions may be environmental or emotional.

Even a genuine allergy can be treated by cutting down without cutting out, the allergist says. "Most people have a threshold that allows them to consume specific amounts of a product without a negative reaction."

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of two children, 8 and 10, who are home all day now that summer vacation is here.

I don't want to sound like an old scrooge, but our neighbor, who lives alone, has his 9-year-old grandson staying with him all summer. The boy spends most of the day at our house playing with my two.

He helps himself to snacks, argues with my children and behaves like a typical 9-year-old. I don't want to be rude or make him feel unwelcome, but six hours a day, every day, can be a little wearing.

Please tell me how to handle this situation without causing my children to lose a friend. There must be other mothers who feel as I do.

—NO OPEN HOUSE
DEAR NO: The visiting child needs playmates, so please don't turn him away.

Do, however, let him know that when he's in your home he will have to abide by some rules — such as no helping himself to snacks. If he gets unruly discipline him as you would your own. I realize that six hours a day, every day, can be wearing, but a 9-year-old who has been sent to his grandfathers' all summer probably needs loving care and acceptance more than most children, so please be extra patient and understanding.

DEAR ABBY: I was told that if a girl wants a husband, she should sleep with a piece of wedding cake under her pillow. Is there any truth to that?

—READY, WILLING AND ABLE
DEAR READY: I can't guarantee you a husband, but you'll get plenty of ants.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, my two sisters and I were bridesmaids at our brother's wedding. The bridesmaids' dresses, which were very beautiful and expensive, were paid for by the parents of the bride.

All of a sudden, three years later, we all got identical letters from our sister-in-law saying she wants the dresses back. She requested that we bring them to the next family gathering so she can pack them away with her wedding gown!

Of course, we will do as she wishes, but we never have heard of this before, have you? Is this proper etiquette?

—THREE SISTERS
DEAR SISTERS: If the bride pays for the bridesmaids' gowns, it is customary to GIVE them to her bridesmaids. Your sister-in-law may have decided to store the bridesmaids' dresses along with her wedding gown to be used by other family members — possibly her own daughter in years to come.

In any case, this is a first for me.

And should other brides decide to adopt this policy, they should so advise their bridesmaids at the time of the wedding, because it's not unusual for bridesmaids to dye, shorten, remodel, or even give away their gowns after one wearing.

DEAR READERS: Because cancer is a major disease in the United States, the National Cancer Institute now has an information hotline to answer questions from the general public, cancer patients and their families, and even health professionals. There is much misinformation and many myths concerning cancer, so if you have any questions, for informed, up-to-date answers please call this toll-free number from anywhere in the U.S. (including Hawaii and Alaska): 800-638-6688.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Abby has expressed some concern because of the delay between the time a letter is mailed to her in care of a particular paper and the time it finally arrives at her offices.

As part of the solution, we'd like to suggest that all mail to ABBY be sent directly to her, rather than sent to our syndicated offices. The proper address:

Dear Abby

We appreciate your cooperation in this matter.

Soap makes coffee too hot

LINDENHURST, New York (UPI) The Java was hot, but that's not what burned the tongues of 10 women who attended a coffee klatch at the Moose Lodge meeting in Long Island.

Police say the burns were caused by the residue of a caustic soap used to wash out the pot.

The pot was used to make coffee Tuesday night at the lodge, a Suffolk County police spokesman said Wednesday.

He said police first believed that lye or a stove cleaner had been mistaken for sugar and the women put it in their coffee?

That was ruled out when the contents of the coffee were checked.

Seven of the women were given first aid at the Brunswick Hospital Center in Amityville, and three were treated at Good Samaritan Hospital in West Islip. All were sent home.

The 1980-81 Jerome High School cheerleaders just returned from a cheerleading camp in Logan, Utah where they won the Spirit Stick award — the camp's highest honor given to the squad of girls showing the most spirit and enthusiasm. At the camp, the girls learned individual and group cheers, and were evaluated on all their work by experts at the camp. The group of girls leading the Tigers next year are Cyndi Larsen, Tamie Cobb, Tina Doherty, Janice Adams and Kileen Doherty.

Five baseball teams cop league titles

JEROME — With the baseball and softball seasons starting to wind down, five of eight league championships have been decided for the 1980 season.

Coming out on top in the Pee Wee league was the Tigers, who finished their season in perfect fashion at 8-0.

The Cubs were two games behind at 7-2, and the Jets placed third with their 6-3 effort.

The sportsmanship trophy was awarded to the Braves to highlight their disappointing 0-8 season.

In the Junior league, the Dodgers finished on top with a 7-1 performance, one game ahead of the Yankees and the A's, who both finished at 6-2 for a second place tie. The Astros were fourth at 5-2-1.

The Giants, 3-5, captured the sportsmanship trophy in that league.

The Red Sox went on a ten game winning spree in the Little League to capture their league's championship at 10-0.

In a distant second was the Raiders, who finished at 8-1, and in the back of the pack in third place was Tupperware, who could only manage a 4-5 record.

Although Tupperware could only manage a 4-5 record in the Little League, another Tupperware team, this one in the Babe Ruth league, pounded their way through the season with an 11-2 performance and a solid first place finish. The Lions, the only other team in the Jerome league, finished their 1980 season at 5-3.

The women's softball league proved to be tight all the way to the end, and Lund Title, with a 13-3 record, came out on top, before placing second in the league ending tournament, two weeks ago.

The Fillies, the tournament champions, placed second, and Gano-Behin captured the third position. Both teams also had a 13-3 record, but lost out on the league championship when regular season run totals were added up between the three teams.

Saint Benedicts, 3-13, received the sportsmanship trophy in that league.

With those leagues finished, three others have yet to complete their schedule for this season.

In the men's softball league, Great Expectations continues to hold on to the number one position with a 15-1 record.

Marshall/Circle 4 is in a distant second with a 12-5 record, and Valley View is one-half game more behind with an 11-5 performance.

In the Pee Wee girl's softball league, the Poules remain the only undefeated team at 3-0, with the Doves and the Robins close behind at 2-1.

In the Junior girl's league, the Blue Jays also have a 3-0 record, and the top position in their league, with the Eagles and the Road Runners one game out at 2-1.

Briefly in sports

Deer, elk tag quotas half filled

BOISE — About half of the 1980 quota of nonresident deer and elk tags, and all nonresident Panhandle elk have been sold, the Department of Fish and Game reports.

As of July 18, the department's license section records showed the sale of 6,273 deer tags and 3,383 elk tags. Tag quotas are 9,458 for deer and 9,500 for elk.

The Fish and Game Commission approved a quota of 1,200 nonresident Panhandle elk tags this year, but there is no limit on resident Panhandle elk tags.

In addition, residents with Panhandle elk tags may use them in an elk controlled hunt or archery-only elk hunt if they have a valid permit or archery stamp.

Diabetic bike-a-thon nets $10,000

HAILEY — Blaine County's first Bike-a-thon for Diabetes raised about $10,000 with a majority of the pledges yet to be turned in, according to Vida Toneri, acting chairwomen of the Blaine County branch of the Idaho Diabetes Association.

Part of the money raised on the May 17 will go to the association, and part of the money will go to establish a local unit.

The local unit proposes to award one campership to the Idaho Association's annual Diabetic Summer Camp.

This year's campership will go to Becky Sievers, 13, of Timmerman Hill.

Area skiers to train in New Zealand

SUN VALLEY — Four Sun Valley area skiers will be among 18 U.S. Alpine Ski team athletes training in New Zealand July 29 through Aug. 19.

The four include Christine Cooper, 20, and Pats Patterson, 23, both members of the 1980 Lake Placid Olympic team.

The other two members include Maria Matich, 18, and Abbi Fisher, 22.

Most Challis recreation areas open

According to a recreation report filed July 21 by the Challis National Forest, most roads and mountain lakes in that area are now open.

Among the mountain lakes still frozen in the Challis, Mackay and Clayton area forests are (the Baptie, Goat and Betty Lakes in Broad Canyon, Lost Ranger District.

Floating conditions on the Middle Fork of the Salmon River are reported as excellent.

A few launch dates are still available for late August and early September on a first come, first served basis.

Anyone interested in floating the Middle Fork must obtain a permit from the Middle Fork Ranger District, Challis.

Forest officials advise back country travelers to watch for mosquitoes and deer flies, which are abundant; to avoid making contact with wild new-born or young animals; and to avoid tampering with spawning beds of salmon in any way, since tampering with the beds is illegal.

Area rodeo members among riders

HAILEY — Wood River Rodeo Club members Eb Gaines, Gary Storey, and Larry Meyers were among the cowboys who rode bareback saddle bronc last weekend during an Eastern Idaho Rodeo Association event at McCarrum.

The trio, and other members of the club, are shooting to qualify for the Coors Championship rodeo to be held in Hailey in late August.

UNLV to join WAC

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A commitment for UNLV to join the Western Athletic Conference was reconfirmed Thursday by the University of Nevada Board of Regents with a July 1, 1981, target date for participation.

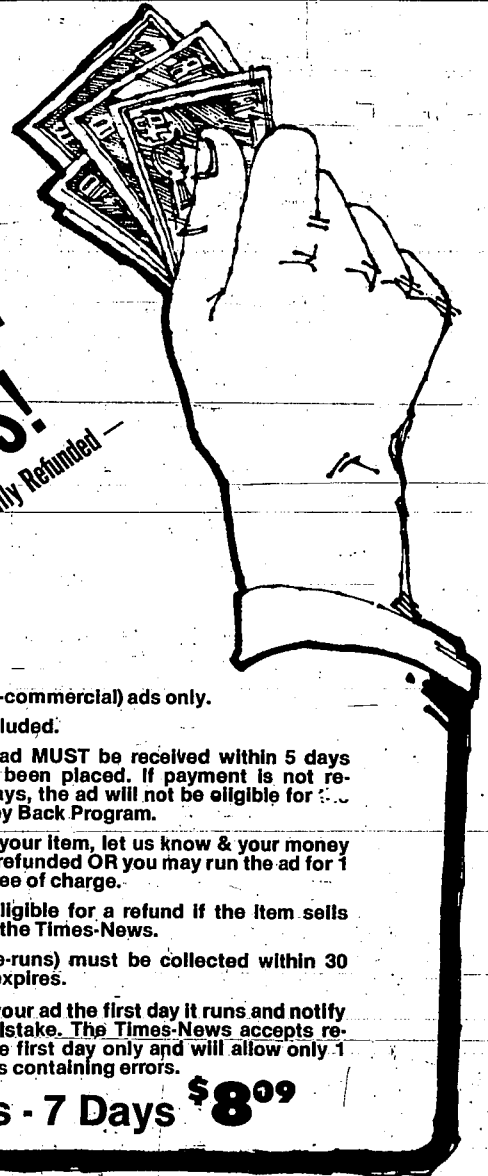

Regent Bucky Buchanan proposed the board seek an opinion from the Nevada Attorney General's office on whether UNLV had complied with conditions of membership.

The Western Athletic Conference Membership Council voted unanimously in December, 1979, to invite UNLV into the conference and met with UNLV president Leonard Goodall in Denver two months ago to review the required conditions for membership.
