

Carter opens counterattack on Billy affair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter opened his counteroffensive in the Billy Carter affair Thursday, releasing cables from the U.S. Embassy in Libya containing information discussed with his brother Billy, and announcing he will make a report on the controversy Monday.

Press secretary Jody Powell said the president will tell the Senate a report on all aspects of the Billy-Carter matter and also will hold a news conference Monday, postponing a fund-raising trip to Cleveland to get his side of the story out.

"We will be prepared and eager to respond to any questions," Powell said, "and the sooner the better as far as we are concerned."

On Capitol Hill, a Senate subcommittee led by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., formally began an inquiry into the Billy Carter case.

The panel scheduled two public hearings next week, and leaders said the president probably would be allowed to testify then if he wished.

Bayh said the panel will try to determine if Billy-Carter had an influence on U.S. policy toward Libya, and if his actions hurt the United States in any way.

At the White House, Powell released seven cables between the U.S. Embassy in Libya and the State Department that dealt with a controversial trip Billy Carter made to Tripoli in the fall of 1978.

Although the cables were classified as secret, the portions released publicly contained nothing startling. Most said Billy Carter's trip was surprisingly helpful in Libya, and noted he made no political statements.

Powell said, "The president recalls mentioning that type of information to Billy after (his) return on Billy's behavior and their operations there."

He said the president specifically recalled mentioning to Billy Carter information from a Sept. 29, 1978, cable that said Billy "has scrupulously avoided political comments of any kind in front of the Libyans," and that "excitement (is) running high on news of Billy Carter's presence."

Wednesday-FBI papers were released that quoted Billy Carter as saying he not only had seen the cables, but had copies of them and "Jimmy gave them to me."

Thursday, after the president said he did not recall allowing or giving his brother any cables, Billy told reporters in Georgia he did not have any such documents.

Powell, who had expressed irritation over the excitement the cables caused on Capitol Hill, said, "Considering the questions raised by the people on the Hill (that) the contents may involve some breach of the law or propriety, I'd like to say that 14 months ago these cables were released under the Freedom of Information Act to Jack Anderson."

He said the White House had been unpleasantly surprised to hear Wednesday's reports on the cable matter, and "the people who made such a big deal about it are going to be more embarrassed than the White House."

Billy Carter also has come under fire for allegedly inquiring about airplanes Libya was interested in getting from the United States. On that matter, Powell said:

"Alan Roy, the State Department's Libya desk officer, met with Billy Carter in January 1979 at a reception with Libyans and 'Mr. Roy says Billy Carter asked, in essence, 'whatever happened about those airplanes?'"

Powell related, "Mr. Roy states he replied that the license for some 747s had been or was being approved, and Mr. Roy states Billy Carter replied, 'Good, or something to that effect.'"

"Early in 1979, William Quandt of the National Security Council staff asked Morris Draper of the State Department to phone Billy Carter in Georgia to explain U.S. policy against granting export licenses for C-130 transport planes Libya wanted.

Sen. Edward Kennedy and Sen. John Anderson speak to reporters after the two men met to discuss strategy Thursday.

Anderson

Independent candidate may quit if Kennedy wins nomination

By United Press International

Independent presidential candidate John Anderson met with Sen. Edward Kennedy Thursday and said afterward that if President Carter is not renominated next month, he might "reassess" his own bid for the White House.

After his extraordinary half-hour meeting, Kennedy said he and Anderson, a longtime Republican, had a lot in common — but no plans to forge a joint political ticket.

"I'm running for president and so is Mr. Anderson," Kennedy said.

But Anderson told reporters that if Carter does not win renomination at the Democratic National Convention next month, "it would only be prudent to perhaps reassess what my position would be."

He said he is running for president to protest the fact that the two-party system produced nearly-identical candidates in Carter and Ronald Reagan, and not to challenge the system itself.

While Kennedy and Anderson said there are no plans for a joint ticket, they were less clear about whether Kennedy will endorse Anderson if Carter wins the Democratic nomination — or if Anderson will endorse Kennedy if the senator wins the nomination.

Kennedy, who invited Anderson to meet with him at his office, said he had a "high regard" for the Illinois congressman's presidential bid and will invite him to take part in a debate if he is the Democratic nominee. But when asked if he would support Anderson against Carter, Kennedy replied, "That was not a subject of discussion."

Kennedy also said he as the Democratic nominee would order the Democratic National Committee to halt its legal campaign to keep Anderson out of the ballot in several states.

Meanwhile, Carter refused again Thursday to bow to increasing pressure from some Democrats in Congress and at least four governors who want him to release his delegates to the convention.

Carter's stock with Democratic leaders and party rank-and-file slipped even lower with new revelations Wednesday that he had discussed with his brother Billy — and may have shown him — secret State Department cables on Billy's trips to Libya.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd held private meetings with several groups of Democratic senators, trying to form a consensus to take to the White House. But the senators were reported to be sharply divided on what message they wanted to send.

And trial lawyer Edward Bennett Williams agreed to be chairman of a committee formed largely of Democratic congressional backbenchers wanting an open convention.

Pressures for an open convention also came from delegates, who said events have changed so much since they were elected they should be free to vote as they please now.

But Carter campaign chairman Robert Strauss said after meeting with 25 loyal Democratic House members he still plans to seek adoption of a convention rule requiring delegates to vote for the candidate they were elected to support.

He said those favoring the convention were just "vare losers" trying to disrupt Carter's renomination.

Despite the opposition to him, Carter's renomination still seems assured by sheer numbers. He has a comfortable majority of nearly 2,000 of the 3,321 delegates.

—And some of those calling for an open convention are doing so because they think Carter can win without a rule binding the delegates — and that he would be stronger for doing so.

Williams, the flamboyant lawyer who successfully defended Jimmy Hoffa and John Connally, said his role as chairman of the open convention group does not mean he is heading a "dump Carter" movement.

"Free the delegates," Williams said, "Fight this rule. Don't hold them hostage to a tyrannical rule."

Libya 'blundered' with Billy?

BOSTON (UPI) — The head of a New York-based Arab American organization said Thursday Libya made a mistake in dealing with President Carter's brother, Billy.

"I would say it is a blunder, it is a poor judgment," Dr. M.T. Mehbi, president of the American-Arab relations committee of a federation of American-Arab Organizations, said in an interview.

"Now if they had found someone with a proper image, with high standing in the American society and high standing that makes sense and that is of course very legal under the American system," Mehbi said.

Mehbi said he believes the focus on Billy Carter is taking attention away from more important subjects in the Middle East.

"The American people should be concentrating on understanding the basic issues in the Middle East," which, he said, "revolve around the rights of the Palestine people to return to Palestine."

Silver Creek

Battle over area fish farm approval gets nasty during state board appeal hearing

BOISE (UPI) — Two state agencies were accused Thursday of employing "insidious logic" to work a Big Game businessman's drive to build trout farms on world-famous Silver Creek.

Frank Dykas, a Bluff attorney representing trout farmer Ken Ellis, said at a water rights appeal hearing that the state and two departments have overstepped their legal authority to thwart the proposed commercial fish operation.

The trout farmer's position was attacked in return by the national director of the Federation of Fly Fishermen, the Fish and Game Department, and a Bliss woman opposed to trout farming on Silver Creek.

Ellis lost a battle last winter in the Idaho Legislature to prevent establishment of a minimum stream flow of 74 cubic feet per second on a stretch of the famed fly-fishing stream in Blaine County.

Since then, Ellis and his lawyers have been pressing — so far unsuccessfully — to gain rights to water flowing above the new minimum standard. He wants to construct two major fish farms on the scenic stream.

The Fish and Game Department opposed Ellis' new plan, saying construction of any concrete fish farms on the stream would damage water quality and harm the waterway's wild fishery.

A Water Resources Department hearing examiner issued a preliminary decision rejecting the application, and Ellis appealed to a hearing before Department Director Stephen Allred.

At that hearing Thursday, Dykas attacked the two departments for allegedly violating their statutory duties.

He complained that Ellis' proposal had been unfairly treated by the two departments and the Idaho Health and Welfare Department. "This is an impossible standard for someone in a private situation," he said. "There's an insidious logic being used here."

Dykas argued that the Fish and Game Department had no right to enter the water rights dispute and that the Water Resources agency "has become an adversary party" with its action independent of the state Water Resources Board, which has not objected to Ellis' latest proposal.

"These departments have no statutory authority to protect water quality," the attorney said. "That is the duty of the Health and Welfare Department."

Allred allowed the Fish and Game Department's attorney, John Vehlou, to rebut Dykas' contentions, but he did not rule on the entire appeal. He said he would announce his decision within two weeks.

Should the appeal be denied, Ellis has said he would pursue a motion to obtain a full re-hearing on the water rights application. The trout farmer did not testify at Thursday's hearing.

Dykas said final denial of the water rights application "would be a de facto increase of the minimum stream flow above 74 cfs."

He said the Legislature did not intend to close off all water uses above 74 cfs on the section of stream and that the state agencies were forming, rather than enforcing, policy.

Lillian Bowler, Bliss, launched a bitter attack against Ellis.

"It is a terrible mistake to take such a narrow view of our agencies," she said. "His proposal is naive, and he is dishonest to pretend there is no threat of water quality as a result of fish farming, she told Allred."

Mrs. Bowler said over-appropriation of water to the trout farms would be inevitable in times of low water flow. Granting the application, she said, would set a "dangerous precedent."

Mike Wolverton, Twin Falls, head of the national fisherman's group, which he said has about 15 affiliates in Idaho, said the Fish and Game Department had a duty to protect water quality and Idaho's valuable fisheries.

"Certainly, pollution cannot be seen to be in the public interest," Wolverton said. "Seventy-four cfs is not an umbrella to protect all aspects of the waterway. It is only a step in the right direction — it doesn't cover pollution."

By Dykas asserted that the state agencies and the opponents of the application were basing their claims on "a hypothetical situation."

"We are all environmentalists, but it is wrong to center everything on a hypothetical situation."

He accused Water Resources officials of basing their objections on Ellis' cases upon inadequate information. Potential huge increases in stream pollution were cited in the hearing examiner's ruling that denied the water rights request.

"Peering across the conference-room table at Vehlou, Dykas said, "There is absolutely no way of telling if this is accurate, or whether this man — with all due respect — knows what he's talking about."

Senate approves funds to cut INEL discharge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Senate passed an amendment late Wednesday authorizing more than $8 million to reduce the amount and radioactivity level of liquid nuclear waste being injected into the Snake River-Plain Aquifer by the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

The amendment is part of the Department of Energy's fiscal 1981 authorization bill, which was passed by the Senate Thursday. It was sponsored by Idaho Sen. James McClure.

"My amendment will authorize and thus insure that over $8 million will be provided for the purpose of continuing the Idaho Nuclear Engineering Laboratory's radioactive waste cleanup effort," McClure said.

"Even though the site had been planning this cleanup effort for years, the Carter Administration neglected to recommend spending money for it in the reauthorization bill."

McClure said in 1975, annual radioactive discharge at the facility was 40 million gallons with a measured radioactivity level of 190 curies.

Since then, site cleanup efforts have reduced that discharge to 42 million gallons and radioactivity to 130 curies, McClure said.

The Idaho Republican said the funds also will provide for the utilization of data already collected.

National survey shows

Husbands help with housework

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The American husband who brings home the bacon is now also more likely to cook it and clean up the kitchen, according to a national survey.

A study of 1,000 married men and their role in domestic chores shows that many husbands do more than just take out the garbage — they share in all of the household tasks, including cooking, cleaning and shopping.

"The picture that emerges is clear," says Jerome E. Ohlstein, director of research at the advertising firm, Cunningham & Walsh, Inc., which commissioned the survey by Home Pesting Institute.

"As the number of women who work full-time continues to increase throughout the country, so will the number of husbands who assume household responsibilities."

The poll's results showed that 80 percent of the men take out the garbage, 70 percent cook, 56 percent participate in major grocery shopping trips, 47 percent vacuum the floors, and 41 percent wash the dishes. Two out of five husbands prepare complete meals.

"This is not surprising," adds Ohlstein. "A staggering 60 percent of American women are in the work force today — many of them married. As a result, husbands have assumed many of the traditional homemaking chores."

A study of the figures produced by the survey also show male attitudes toward housekeeping vary according to age and income. Husbands under the age of 30 and with incomes between $10,000 and $20,000 — are most likely to be helpful.

Males over 60 and those with incomes below $10,000 or above $20,000 are the least likely to help.

Surprisingly, 30 percent of the husbands in childless couples describe themselves as "heavy participants" in household tasks, but only 18 percent of the men in families of five or more do.

The chores husbands do least around the house are dusting, cleaning the bathroom, sorting laundry, cleaning the refrigerator or cleaning the oven.

Ohlstein said the survey also showed that 50 percent of American wives now handle the monthly bill-paying, 23 percent of the husbands perform that task and the rest of American couples combine the job.

Arabs call for holy war over Jerusalem

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Arab world responded angrily Thursday to the Israeli declaration making Jerusalem its capital, with the Islamic Conference calling for a "holy war" and Syria demanding that Israel be expelled from the United Nations.

In Saudi Arabia, the Moslem World League, the permanent office of the Islamic Conference, called for the boycott of any government which recognizes Israel's decision to annex East Jerusalem moves its embassy to the city, holy to Jews, Moslems and Christians.

In a communique issued in Jeddah, the League also called on Arab and Moslem countries to prepare themselves for the "Jihad" (holy war) to gain Jerusalem back and "liberate it from racist Zionists."

In Kuwait, Prime Minister Sheikh Saad al Abdullah described the Israeli decision on Jerusalem as "an extension of the Zionist state's expansionist policies" and said Washington's unconditional support to Israel could endanger its regional interests.

Guerrillas openly fight Salvador army

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Heavy fighting between leftist guerrillas and army troops swept Thursday in a region only 20 miles northeast of the capital, witnesses said.

Residents in the area, a sugar-producing region near the town of Aguaraca, said they saw guerrillas battling to topple the ruling rightist junta had clashed in fierce fighting with army troops.

They said the guerrillas have been operating for several days in the region, among the hardest hit by right-wing death squads blamed for 80 percent of the 3,800 political assassinations in El Salvador since Jan. 1.

The clashes signaled a major expansion of violence in the strife-torn country.

Russians smash Afghan coup plot

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Soviet forces smashed a plot by rebellious Afghan army units to topple the staunchly pro-Moscow government of President Babrak Karmal, a diplomatic source said Thursday.

The army coup was planned by the two units stationed at the Pul-Charki base just outside Kabul, the diplomat said. "But the plans leaked and on July 18, Soviet forces moved into positions around the base, aborting the coup."

The Soviets have beefed up their ring of tanks and heavy artillery around the Afghan capital to discourage any further attempts by Afghan armored units, he said.

Turkish diplomat murdered in Athens

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — An unidentified gunman Thursday shot and killed a Turkish diplomat and his 14-year-old daughter sitting in their parked car in an Athens residential district, police said. His wife and a second child were seriously wounded.

A police spokesman said the gunman shot repeatedly into the parked car of Ghalp Ozmen, an attaché at the Turkish Embassy in Athens since 1977.

Bolivian union calls for anti-army revolt

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — A powerful 500,000-member Bolivian union federation vowed Thursday to set up a popular government to mount an "anti-civil" fight against troops attacking the city with armored vehicles.

Eighty percent of the Afghan army officer corps is made up of Khalq Party supporters who are fierce rivals of Karmal's Parcham Party.

New revolt breaks out in new nation

PORT VILA, Vanuatu (UPI) — A separatist revolt broke out on a second island in the newly independent archipelago of Vanuatu Thursday, barely 24 hours after the end of 34 years of joint Anglo-French rule, officials said.

Government spokesman John Beasant said the revolt occurred on the island of Malekula, about 150 miles north of Port Vila, capital island of the former New Hebrides.

He said he had only sketchy details, but added that riot squads were being mobilized and sent to Malekula.

According to reports received on Port Vila, several hundred opposition party supporters armed mainly with knives and bows and arrows attacked a government office on Malekula.

"It is understood that a series of shots were fired when two trucks of armed rebels went to the village of Pinalum in the north of Malekula," Beasant said.

The tiny island of Malekula is 20 miles south of Espiritu Santo, where rebels led by plantation owner Jimmy Stevens staged a separatist revolt two months ago.

Orlando rioting enters 3rd night

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Mobs attacked a car containing Orlando's two top lawmen Tuesday night, beginning a third night of violence in the predominantly black southwest section of the city.

Once again, police cordoned off the area and gangs of youths began hurling rocks and bottles.

Orange County Sheriff Melvin Coleman was cut by flying glass in the rock-throwing attack on an unmarked car in which he was touring the area with Public Safety Director Howard McCain.

"See what you get for trying to play hero?" he told reporters.

Five businesses were burned and 48 people arrested in Wednesday night's violence along Parramore Avenue. No one was seriously injured and Police Lt. Pete Hutcheon said that "compared to the size of the area involved, the damage was relatively minor."

The violence has been blamed on what police called "hit-and-run" gangs of black youths and Hutcheon said, "It's highly unlikely they would obey a curfew."

The trouble began in Orlando Wednesday night when police arrested a black woman accused of robbing two white men.

Indians briefly seize control of coal mine

BURNHAM, N.M. (UPI) — Eight Indians armed with guns seized control of a coal mining operation Thursday and briefly held a woman guard hostage to protest mining on the Navajo Reservation. They surrendered peacefully several hours later.

Navajo tribal police Lt. Bill Yazza at Window Rock, Ariz., said the Indians were arrested after five or six hours of negotiations. He said officers were searching the Consolidated Coal Co. mine site for possible additional protesters.

No shots were fired during the takeover, although Yazza said the protesters were armed with high-powered weapons.

Indian groups in the area have objected to the mining operation on grounds it is destroying areas of importance to local residents and that Consolidated Coal, based in Pittsburgh, has ignored the wishes of the community in developing the mine.

A spokesman for the Indians said the mine was occupied after the company destroyed part of a burial ground.

Restructuring Bell System wins 1st test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite opponents' cries it could unseat a gorilla, the House Commerce Committee Thursday approved a bill to restructure the nation's largest corporation, the Bell System, and deregulate the telephone industry.

The legislation has been around in various forms since 1976, but the 347 vote marks the first time such a bill has made it to the floor of one of the two chambers.

The bill would require the restructuring of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. over an 8-year period to permit it to enter data processing, computer services and other communications fields now closed to it by a 1956 Justice Department consent decree.

However, AT&T would have to set up a completely separate subsidiary to handle the assembly, research and manufacture of those new products and services "in order to prevent cross-subsidization by the communications giant in an effort to drive out smaller competitors."

The measure also would deregulate the manufacture and sale of telephone receivers, switchboards and other terminal equipment and many other portions of the telephone industry.

Love Canal families get relocation funds

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The federal government has offered $22 million to help permanently relocate residents of the chemically contaminated Love Canal area in Niagara Falls, Gov. Hugh Carey's office said Thursday.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency planned to announce Friday morning a $15 million, 30-year loan to the state, said Phyllis Hirschberg, a spokeswoman for Carey.

In addition, Niagara Falls would be allowed to use $7 million in federal Community Development Block Grant funds to buy Love Canal homes.

The state would provide an additional $5 million, Ms. Hirschberg said.

Reagan releases 1979 tax return

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan Thursday made public his 1979 tax return showing he had earnings of more than $50,000 last year and paid almost half that in federal taxes.

The return also showed that Reagan who owns a home in Pacific Palisades, Calif., worth more than $7 million and a tract of about 700 acres near Santa Barbara — paid real estate taxes of only $4,736.

The Republican presidential candidate, who filed jointly with his wife, Nancy, had an adjusted gross income of $515,878 and paid $230,886 in federal taxes. He also paid $32,050 in state income taxes to California.

Previously, Reagan has consistently refused to release information on his income taxes on grounds that was a private matter.

President Carter, who released his own figures this spring, estimated his net worth at $83,000 for 1979, dropping below the millionaire status he enjoyed before.

Actor Bobby Van dies of brain cancer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor, comedian and dancer Bobby Van died Thursday of brain cancer at UCLA Hospital, doctors said. He was 47.

Van, a 25-year-veteran-of-stage, television and movies, last appeared as the emcee on the television series, "Make Me Laugh." He had a lengthy list of movie credits, including "Kiss Me Kate" and "That's Entertainment Part II."

Van did a nightclub act with Mickey Rooney for seven years and starred with his wife, Elaine Joyce, in a television special. He made frequent appearances on the Ed Sullivan Show, the Jackie Gleason Show and as host of the Mrs. America Pageant.

State must live within means

Idaho now knows what "biting the bullet" means. Gov. John Evans really had no choice when he announced Wednesday a 3 percent reduction in state spending across the board. The state, like any other business, has to live within its means and when the revenue doesn't materialize, reductions are in order. Although the ordered cutbacks are politically distasteful, Evans didn't play politics with the reductions. Every agency and department is being treated the same way, although the impact will vary. The governor has drawn bi-partisan support for his move to head off a projected $12 million deficit, with only slight criticism that he waited too long and that the cuts don't go far enough. But obviously the governor can order further cuts if the budget situation worsens. One of the most unfortunate results of his action will be reductions in the funding of education. Even though there is an "out" here schools will be able to raise property taxes to make up for the state cutbacks — property owners will bear the burden. Such action is blunting the meaning and intention of the 1 percent initiative. To make the reductions palatable, Evans decided the Boise bureaucracy will not escape the budget ax. Employee travel will be restricted, administrative expenses will be slashed and capital projects shelved. In addition, the governor's own staff will be reduced by one member. Evans is going to have to be vigilant to make the reductions stick and to seek still more ways to make efficiencies, particularly since federal revenue sharing money is being reduced to the states. And even though the economy shows signs of revival, it appears that the key buzz word for the 1981 Idaho Legislature will be "austerity."

The Billygate business

from time immemorial. Let us put Brother Billy to one side. The catinoints of the press are after Brother Jimmy, and their self-righteous rectitude is showing. There is a conscious subconscious desire to demonstrate that the press can be just as rough on Democrat Jimmy Carter as it was rough on Republican Richard Nixon. Back in the spring and summer of 1974, we were examining an ever-possible discrepancy in the statements of the president and his White House aides. Well, then, let us now dissect every sentence in the statements of the president, his press secretary and his attorney general to see if contradictions and omissions can be found. What has emerged, thus far, is wholly in keeping with the well-intentioned ineptitude that has characterized the whole of the Carter administration. It was clearly an error in judgment on the part of the president and his wife to call upon Brother Billy last November, a few weeks after the prisoners had been taken in Tehran. Their pathetic thought was that maybe Billy could persuade Muammar Khadafy to intercede with the Ayatollah Khomeini. The sole effect of this overture was to raise Brother Billy's stature in the eyes of the Libyan principals. At the time of the president's action, the Justice Department was investigating — more or less — Billy's precise relationship with the Khadafy regime. Questions justifiably may be raised about the vigor with which the department was pursuing the matter, but it ought to be emphasized, again, that the charge of failing to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act is a far cry from breaking and entering in the nighttime. It is preposterous to equate Billy Carter with Gordon Liddy, Benjamin Civiletti with John Mitchell, and Jimmy Carter with Richard Nixon. The equation will not compute. Billy is no Watergate plumber. He is a pumplious good ole boy. It was the charge of "cover-up" that filled Nixon in 1974. The cover-up then was massive. In the affair of Brother Billy, by contrast, we so far have no reason to believe that anything of significance has been covered up. To say that the president and Attorney General Civiletti "lied" to give the conversation of June 17 is to give an ugly word to an incident that may have been quite harmless. To be sure, if the president in that meeting begged Civiletti not to indict Brother Billy, we would have a smoking pistol. We would have obstruction of justice, an impeachable offense. I don't see it. Yes, the president is in trouble. He is in for two months of televised hearings before a Senate subcommittee, five of whose members are running for re-election. The overwhelming tendency of the American public, said to say, is to assume guilt before innocence is proved. In my own view, Jimmy Carter is a disaster. I hope to see him dumped in November. But in simple fairness, he deserves something better than the drubbing that lies ahead.

Legislation to enhance salmon, steelhead finds favor

WASHINGTON — It will surprise many observers in the Northwest that the region's dwindling fish resource has become the center of controversy and something of a cause during these action-packed closing weeks of the 96th Congress. Given what transpired in two House committees last week, it's likely that this Congress will enact some very significant and potentially far-reaching legislation aimed at enhancing the salmon and steelhead runs of Oregon, Washington and Idaho. On the day after the House Subcommittee on Water and Power finished working over the fish provisions of the Northwest Energy Bill, the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee approved a $12.5 million Northwest Fish Enhancement package. "It's been a big week, a successful week, and I'm terribly excited about both bills," said Rep. Don Bonker, D-Wash., one of the region's most prominent pro-fish enhancement congressmen. The impact of the Fish Enhancement Bill would probably be more immediate and direct than that of the Northwest Energy Bill, because it would provide a direct infusion of money to the region for propagation and other measures. The Energy Bill's impact would be to put fish enhancement at or near the top of the generation as one of the uses of the Columbia River and its tributaries. To accord fish that priority in the river's scheme of things would be historic, because hydroelectric dams have drastically reduced salmon runs in the Columbia and other rivers. Much remains to be worked out in both bills, but there appears to be enough time and there seems to be a willingness to negotiate. Action on the Fish Enhancement Bill came rather swiftly once the specter of a fight over Indian treaties was eliminated. That occurred when the bill's provision that would demarcationalize steelhead was defeated on a 3-3 vote. At that point, Bonker of Washington State — who had favored demarcationalization — offered an amendment to increase the bill's funding by $14 million for steelhead propagation. "By getting the money for steelhead propagation, I don't feel despair over losing our demarcationalization," said Bonker. Before too much optimism is shed over the enhancement bill, however, it should be noted that Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., also succeeded in amending the bill to have a fish management council set up in California, where there are disputes between Indians and whites, particularly on the Klamath River. That amendment bothers Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., who is chairman of the House Interior Committee and a defender of Indian interests. Udall will reportedly seek joint referral of the Fish Enhancement Bill to his committee. That kind of delay and attention could kill the legislation. The $12.5 million for Northwest fish breaks down as follows: $45 million for salmon enhancement on the rivers and streams that feed Puget Sound; $25 million for salmon enhancement on the Columbia River and its tributaries; $14 million for steelhead propagation. The divide between the Puget Sound and Columbia River drainage systems and $37.5 million for buy-back of fishing vessels which would help reduce the commercial catch. The chairman of the House Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation Subcommittee, Rep. John Evers, D-La., has promised to seek a prompt floor rule for the House

Comments on local baseball

Editor, Times-News: My experience with the local baseball program has spurred these comments. Little League baseball in Twin Falls is far from meeting even minimum acceptable standards for any community. There are too many injustices preventing our children from learning the basic skills of sportsmanship and baseball which should be the No. 1 foundation of the program. The recreation department must accept the responsibility for allowing these injustices to continue year after year year after year.

1. Coaches. Some coaches humiliate players for mistakes, the screaming, yelling, critical remarks are only half as bad as the humiliation the child suffers in front of his peers as well as his own parents. We don't need coaches like that. They shouldn't be allowed in the program.
2. Players. Players who time and time again use foul language to intimidate others and are allowed to continue this behavior both on and off the field. A well-organized and efficient recreation department would not permit this activity in a city-sponsored program.
3. Umpires. Where do these guys come from? Most are not qualified to play, let alone officiate. Obvious favoritism to one team or another can destroy competitive sports. Inconsistencies in judgment have paralyzed the outcome of many games. These umpires are paid to provide adequate officiating and the recreation department should be able to select more qualified individuals for the jobs.
4. Rules and regulations. Little League baseball and its local program have developed rules to be followed by all coaches and players. These rules are supposed to prevent over zealous coaches from cheating in order to win, win with a strong recreation supervisor would prevent any infraction of these rules.
5. Traveling teams. What a joke. Other communities such as Nampa and Caldwell select participants based on ability and who are voted on by league players and coaches. Twin Falls could make a much better competitive showing if a little more thought went into the organization of the teams. In other words, Twin Falls has the basic facility to have an excellent baseball program for grades 1 through 6, well imagine that. The recreation supervisor would prevent any infraction of these rules.

right to criticize without offering some tips for improvement. First, make the sportsmanship award be an important part of the program and not be awarded to one of the last place teams as a pacifier. Second, serve the coaches as to conduct and ability. We don't have to take just anyone, volunteer or not. Coaches have to be teachers as well as leaders. Third, provide two officials for grades 4 to 6. I'm sure the players and/or sponsors would be willing to come up with the extra couple of bucks per game. And lastly, obtain a strong program director who can make an important summer educational program like Little League baseball work for the kids and the community.

Class thanked

Editor, Times-News: I wish to compliment the Twin Falls High School government and history classes for the thoughtful, intelligent and enlightening questions which they asked Sen. Frank Church when he recently addressed them. These young men and women expressed interest and concern about subjects as diversified as registration for the draft, the presidential election, the Iranian crisis, Jimmy Carter's foreign policy, Afghanistan, abortion, defense spending, the Panama Canal Treaties, and conservation of energy. It was a personal privilege to witness these future leaders in action. They obviously took the time to prepare and do research in preparation for Senator Church's visit which resulted in questions being asked which were comparable to those raised in adult audiences.

On behalf of the Church Campaign in Twin Falls County, I wish to thank the students and faculty of Twin Falls High School government and history classes for the warm welcome afforded us.

Shah of Iran America's friend

Editor, Times-News: In reference to your editorial of July 25, entitled "Shah's death, what now?" I would like to make a few points clear. The Shah of Iran was the best friend America had in the Persian Gulf. His government was allowed to fall by the Carter administration. Our treatment of the Shah and the official "downplaying" of his funeral is just another in a long series of concessions to the terrorists controlling Iran. Thinking that moderate forces in Iran will bring about release of the hostages is foolish. Already, the terrorists are screaming for the return of the Shah's wealth, another concession we will surely grant. The radicals are clearly in power and will not change their course regardless of how many concessions our spineless president makes. The hostages are being used to vilify and embarrass the United States, and an effective propaganda tool of the terrorists. Former President Nixon should be commended for attending the Shah's funeral. President Sadat is a courageous man who deserves the full support of our country. Let the Islamic radicals rant and rave. Are we so weak-and ineffectual as to let another Iranian-type situation occur in Egypt? The record of this administration speaks clearly. Appearances and retreat on every front, and a failure to aid anti-communists like our friend, the Shah of Iran. The free world should mourn his death.

Lions say thanks

Editor, Times-News: On behalf of the Hagerman Lions Club I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all of those who supported our Little League Baseball program. It would be impossible to name all the individuals and businesses who so generously gave of their time, money and physical labor toward the effort. Six teams were carried during the regular season, three of which were entered into the Wendell tournament. For a community like Hagerman, it is an accomplishment of which every one can be proud.

Court grants wife OK to sue husband

BOSTON (UPI) — Construction worker William Brown stepped outside about 7 a.m. on the morning of Dec. 21 in that dreadful winter of 1978. It was snowing hard and he went directly off to work, not stopping to shovel snow and ice from the sidewalk.

Shirley Brown, his wife, walked outside of the house on Elm Street in Wakefield, Mass., a short time later. She slipped and fell, breaking two bones in her leg.

Although the couple, parents of five children, remains "happily married," Shirley has hit William with a $38,000 damage suit for failing to keep the sidewalk clear. Brown vs. Brown could become a legal landmark.

"He owed a particular duty to her," said Charles E. Blumsack, Mrs. Brown's attorney. "He knew she had a heart problem and a back problem." He said the husband was "careless and negligent" for not leaving the walks safe.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court gave permission Thursday for the case, despite its precedent-setting by the lawyers, to proceed. The high court ruled that Mrs.

Brown, a 53-year-old retired Wakefield police officer, could not be denied the right to sue her husband to obtain financial compensation for her injuries.

The court Wednesday cited previous Massachusetts cases in which spouses were given the right to file suit against each other for personal injuries suffered in auto accidents.

That right must be extended to allow suits stemming from other types of accidents, the court said in an opinion written by Justice Robert Braucher.

Anil Madan, lawyer for the husband, argued the state's equal rights amendment states husband and wife legally share responsibility for their property.

More than 18 months after the accident, Blumsack described the Browns' parents of five grown children, as "happily married."

"Mr. and Mrs. Brown are happily married. They live together," Blumsack said. "But it happens that one has a claim against the other."

Mrs. Brown laughingly agreed and told a reporter, "We get along. Oh, we get along." Her husband could not be reached for comment.

Blumsack described the court's ruling as an "appropriate decision given today's times and lifestyles."

"Why should Mrs. Brown — just because she is married to him — not be able to recover?" Blumsack asked.

Judge decides winner of Miss Texas crown

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas' representative in the Miss America contest will be determined today.

However, smile, poise, figure and talent will have no bearing on the decision. A state judge will be making the choice.

Officials of the Miss Texas and Miss Dallas pageants have been warring over the selection last month of Miss Lubbock Terri Eoff as Miss Texas 1980. Miss Dallas officials say Miss Eoff far exceeded the time limit in the talent competition and the title should go to their entrant, Bobbie Candler, the pageant's first runner-up.

The Miss Dallas pageant filed suit, claiming Miss Eoff had an unfair advantage, and after three days of testimony Judge F.M. Lattimore is to make his ruling today.

At issue is whether the pageant's rule on talent competition time limits is to be strictly enforced or is merely a guideline. Miss Eoff's dramatic presentation went one minute 44 seconds over the two-minute, 50-second time limit.

Miss Eoff's talent presentation, which makes up 50 percent of a contestant's score, was a dramatic interpretation of a neurotic housewife. Miss Candler sang.

Don Magness, chairman of the board of the Miss Texas contest, said the Miss America contest had sent a letter indicating the time limit was a guideline and not grounds for disqualification.

"The issue is that if (the talent presentation) has to be two minutes, 50 seconds at rehearsal but it doesn't spell out that it has to be that in the pageant," he said. "In fact, five of the top 10 went over 2:50. We have tapes of two former Miss Americas who went over 2:50."

Miss Texas pageant officials, including Magness, have been accused of favoritism in the past.

"It is known in state pageants that local officials have told judges what they prefer," said Rose Raley of the Miss Dallas group. "I don't know if that is what happened here but we have heard rumors that it did."

Miss Candler, 23, who also was first runner-up in 1979 and second runner-up in 1978, apparently has not determined if she will assume the crown and enter the Miss America contest should Lattimore strip Miss Eoff of the title. Because of the suit, she fears Miss Texas officials will resent her.

Miss Candler, who hopes to become a professional singer, said outside the courtroom Wednesday, "I wanted it (the title) but I don't need it."

City hunts for owner of donkey

PAMPLONA, Spain (UPI) — Memo to the man who rode a donkey to the bull-running fiesta of San Fermin and left by bus.

Your mount is waiting for you at Pamplona lost and found.

City officials said the deserted donkey was discovered at the opposite Pamplona bus station at the end of the San Fermin bull-running two weeks ago.

The owner is not thought to be a local man since no one in Pamplona has responded to "found" ads placed by City Hall.

The people in the lost property office said they will be glad to see the donkey disappear soon. Its inhaled and output causes problems not posed by purses and umbrellas.

Ballerina offers clue in slaying

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detectives will go to Washington to question a ballerina who saw violinist Helen Hagnes Mintkis before she was hurried to her death by the fall of the Metropolitan Opera House, police said Thursday.

A police spokesman said the ballerina, a member of the Berlin Ballet troupe, will be asked to look at a sketch of a man who was seen inside an elevator with Miss Hagnes before her slaying on July 23.

With the help of police hypnotists, the dancer supplied information used to construct the sketch, but she has not seen it so far.

The 120-member troupe, which had been performing at the opera house when Miss Hagnes was killed, is now appearing at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

Detectives will also show the sketch to the other dancers and technicians in the troupe. The ballerina will recognize the man, a plainly dressed white male, and help trace his movements.

Miss Hagnes, 30, a freelance musician hired to accompany the German troupe, left the orchestra pit during an intermission on the night of July 23.

Her body — nude, bound and gagged — was found on a set beam in a six-story shaft at the next morning.

A colleague said she spoke with Miss Hagnes in the women's lounge during the intermission and the violinist said she was going to visit dancer Valery Panov, the guest star of the show, in his dressing room.

But the ballerina said she saw Miss Mintkis at 9:30 p.m., about a half hour later, both in the backstage area and getting into an elevator with the man in the sketch.

Although an autopsy did not find evidence the violinist had been raped, police believe Miss Mintkis probably was the victim of a sexual assault.

Keep promises, Virgos, for they'll benefit you; avoid confused co-worker.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may want to make some startling changes now but take a few moments out to think deeply and decide whether or not the changes will be beneficial in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study every angle of a new project you have in mind and then act carefully. Take no risks where your reputation is concerned.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy at those chores ahead of you early in the day so you'll have more time for pleasant activities later. "Bookies."

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Stay clear of an overly dynamic acquaintance and seek company of persons who have more poise. Use common sense.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take it easy if confronted with an annoying situation and use diplomacy instead of forcefulness for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You may want to run off to new interests, but it's best to complete current tasks. Be more encouraging to others.

VRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It's to your interest to keep promises you have made. Avoid a co-worker who is confused and you'll get you in trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan how to have greater income in the days ahead. Concentrate on how you can be more productive in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at regular routines and complete what you have started. Make practical plans for the days ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Others could be pressuring you to do things you don't like, so be more resolute in carrying out your wishes.

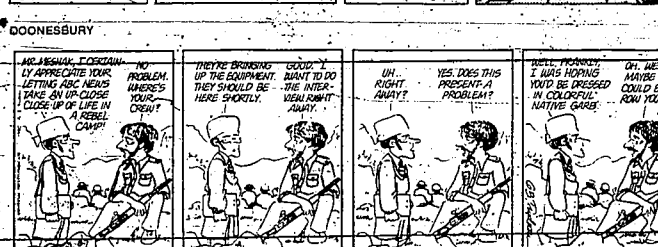

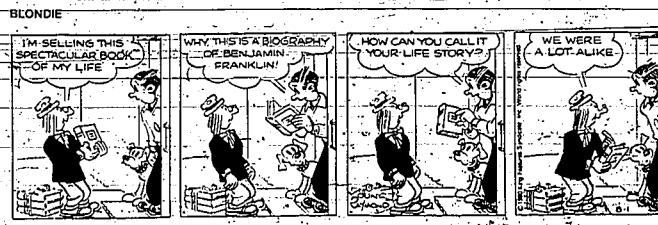

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do nothing that could upset conditions at home. Not a good day to start a new project. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know your true position in a financial matter before going ahead with future plans. Use care in motion.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make constructive plans that could give you added income in the days ahead. Take steps to improve your health.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very ambitious, to give the best education you can afford in preparation for a most successful life. Religious training is important early in life. Teach to work with hands. One who will be fine in sports.

What's what

Antidotes are available for every proverb around

Every proverb, it's said, has an antidote proverb. "Satan finds work for idle hands" is countered with "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." "Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" is contradicted by "Better late than never." "Clothes make the man" is answered with "Don't judge a book by its cover." "And a horse makes the heart grow fonder" is cancelled out with "Familiarity breeds contempt." Any others?

Don't believe there are any trout swimming in the blood vessels of whales. But those vessels are large enough to accommodate such a performance, if the trout could get in there.

LAST WORD

Q. What's the last word, alphabetically, in the English language?
A. Can only refer to the final word in the big book at hand. It's "zymurgy" meaning a branch of chemistry dealing with the fermentation process. Never had occasion to use it, but it lives on, evidently.

Actor Jack Lemmon was born in an elevator.

Q. You said Rockefeller Center is the largest privately owned business and entertainment center in the country. What about Disney World?
A. It sells stock. It's a public corporation.

The horseshoe crab is not so much a sort of crab as a sort of spider.

Q. Do porcupines float?
A. They do, whether they like it or not.

BLUE WOOD

Ever see blue wood? How about pink wood? A British timber firm grows such. Makes novelty furniture out of it. They grow the colored wood naturally, by fertilizing with chemicals, the same way gardeners grow hydrangeas either blue or pink on purpose.

You get some idea of the growing-pains turmoil in the Middle East when you realize that the population of every nation thereabouts has doubled in the last 30 years.

Banquet set

TWIN FALLS — The banquet for the 40th reunion of the Twin Falls class of 1940 will be held at the Turf Club. The social hour begins at 6:30 p.m.

Other events include a cocktail party at 6:30 p.m. today at the home of Mary Cook, 530 Cindy, and a brunch at 11 a.m. Sunday at the Holiday Inn.

Pair will remarry 43 years later

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Dolores Granger and Wesley Baker were so in love as teen-agers 43 years ago that they lied about their ages to a justice of the peace to get married.

But Miss Granger's parents got so angry when they found out about the nuptials that they took her back to the judge. They told him the marriage was illegal since their daughter was 15 and Baker was 17.

The judge annulled the marriage, and the lovers went separate ways. Each eventually found someone else to wed.

Now Miss Granger is 58 and Baker is 60 — certainly old enough to do what they wanted to do then. They plan to tie the knot for a second time this fall this time, they hope, for keeps.

Miss Granger and Baker dated all through school while growing up in Hornell, N.Y. Their parents told them to wait, but one Saturday afternoon, they fled to the justice in nearby Canastota and got hitched.

"Sunday morning, when my mother came in to wake me up to go to church, she saw the marriage license on my dresser," recalled Miss Granger, now a waitress in a Rochester restaurant. "She screamed bloody murder and called my father."

"On Monday, he marched me to the justice of the peace and told him the marriage was illegal because we were underage."

She said she was grounded for a month and Baker "was so mad he joined the Army." When he was 18, he joined the ROTC.

Baker met and married a French girl during World War II.

Miss Granger married years later. But both of their spouses are now dead, and last Christmas, Miss Granger got a card from a friend in Hornell who had seen Baker and said he wanted to hear from her. So on one recent weekend, Miss Granger visited Baker in Big Flats.

The reunion was the first time they had seen each other since their two-day marriage.

"Just seeing him again was a thrill," she said. "I guess you never forget your first love. It was as if the years had just floated by. We're as much in love now as we ever were."

"They plan to marry in early September. It's like a fairy tale," Miss Granger said.

Groom's mom should trim her list

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is being married to a young man whose parents we have met only once, when the couple announced their engagement last June. They live 90 miles from us.

I wrote to the mother of the groom, explaining that we planned a catered reception and dinner, but because we are on a very tight budget she should limit her guest list to 100 people. (Our list is also limited to 100.)

She sent a list that numbered 130, explaining that she couldn't possibly trim it because they "owed" so many people. (Her guests were mostly friends — not relatives.)

Abby, the invitations must be mailed soon. I have two choices: Either trim my own list to 72 so she can have her 128, or trim her list myself and take the consequences. In view of her unreasonable attitude, would I be justified in doing this?

— WEDDING HEADACHE
DEAR HEADACHE: Don't trim her list unless you want to start World War III.

Tell her you regret that your budget doesn't allow for any more than 200 guests, so she will either have to trim her list to 100 or pay the tab for the extra guests who cannot be eliminated.

DEAR ABBY: Can a girl get pregnant from kissing with her mouth open?

— NEEDS TO KNOW, JUNEAU
DEAR NEEDS: No. But it's a good beginning.

DEAR READERS: Sheila Cole, formerly of England, and now of Mulga, Ala., sent me a poem from "This England," an English publication. She wrote, "I hope you think it's good enough to share with your readers." I do, and I shall.

IF GOD SHOULD GO ON STRIKE
How good it is that God above has never gone on strike.

Because He was not treated fair in things He did (like,

If only once He'd given up and said, "It's had it. I'm through."
"I've had enough of those on earth, so this is what I'll do."
"I'll give my orders to the sun — cut off the heat supply!"

"And to the moon — give no more light, and run the oceans dry."
"Then just to make things really tough and put the pressure on,"
"Turn off the vital oxygen till every breath is gone!"

You know He would be justified. If fairness was the game.

For not one has been more abused or mist with more disdain
Than God; and yet He carries on, supplying you and me.
With a 11 favors of His grace, and everything for free.

Men say they want a better deal; and so on strike they go.
But what a deal we've given God when on all things we owe.

We don't care whom we hurt to gain the things we like.
But what a mess we'd all be in, if God should go on strike. — ANON.

Thought for today

A thought for the day: American writer Henry Thoreau said, "It takes two to speak the truth; one to speak, the other to hear."

SUNBURN REMEDY
If sunburn takes you by surprise outdoors, immediately cover up as much as you can.

At home, take two aspirin (or one of the substitutes) to reduce pain and inflammation and bathe in cool water to soothe your skin. Add a little baking soda to the water to relieve burning and itching. Calamine lotion is also a good remedy. Just beware of using any product that contains an astringent — drying out your skin will only cause more discomfort.

Wall Street sustains broad loss as busy month closes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, wrapping up the second busiest month in history, suffered a broad loss Thursday.

However, Merrill Lynch, Fenner & Smith's first buy recommendation in three years sparked a late rally at the close.

Oil stocks took a beating because of profit taking and investor concern over sluggish demand that has forced four companies to lower prices retroactively.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, down 12 points at mid-afternoon, rallied to finish with only an 0.86-point loss to 835.32 after the Merrill Lynch news surfaced at 1:35 p.m. MDT. The Dow, a 4-27-point winner Wednesday, is up about 177 points since mid-April.

On a broader basis, the New York Stock Exchange index lost 0.31 to 69.64 and the price of an average share decreased 15 cents. After holding a 5-to-1 edge most of the day, declines topped advances 999-550 among the 1,901 issues traded at 4 p.m. EDT.

The Big Board volume of 54,610,000 shares, compared with 53,600,000 on Wednesday, brought turnover for July to about 1.021 billion shares.

second only to the 1.151 billion in January.

Oil stocks, among the biggest gainers this year, were victims of profit taking and some investor concern about lagging demand that forced four companies to lower prices at the wellhead.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. markets and over the counter, at 4 p.m., totaled 59,513,000 shares, compared with 64,197,048 traded Wednesday.

The American Stock Exchange index shed 1.55 to 314.49 and the price of a share dropped 9 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ OTC index lost 0.52 to 171.81.

At 4 p.m., Phillips Petroleum, which reported flat second-quarter earnings earlier this week, was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1/2 to 49%. Gulf Oil was third, off 1/4 to 39%.

Among the other oils and related issues, Ocean Drilling & Exploration lost 2/4 to 137 1/4, Getty 2/4 to 82 1/4, Halliburton 2/4 to 17 1/4, SEDCO 3/4 to 34 1/4, Drilling 2/4 to 49 1/4, Natomas 1/4 to 55 1/4, Schlumberger

Chrysler runs deep in red ink

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. Thursday reported a second quarter loss of $63.7 million.

It was the largest ever for a U.S. automaker.

The figure brought U.S. auto industry losses in a financially disastrous April-June quarter to just over $1.5 billion — an all-time high.

Chrysler's loss is believed to be second in U.S. corporate history only to a deficit of $61.7 million suffered by U.S. Steel Corp. in the fourth quarter of 1979.

Chrysler's $1.1 billion loss last year is the record for a full-year corporate deficit. The company is expected to exceed that figure this year.

Chrysler attributed the poor performance to the recession, high unemployment, record interest rates, tight credit and low-consumer confidence.

"In addition, Chrysler's sales were adversely affected by continuing widespread speculation that the company would fail to qualify for assistance under the Chrysler Loan Guarantee Act," the company said.

Chrysler's worldwide dollar sales were $3.1 billion in the second quarter, down 34 percent from $3.2 billion in the same quarter last year. Worldwide unit sales for the quarter were 299,694, down 33.3 percent from last year.

Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca said the firm "is steadily moving ahead."

"There is every reason to assume we will continue to make progress in our efforts to build a more productive, more financially secure Chrysler Corp.," he said.

Despite the record red ink, Chrysler said its severe self-imposed economies and production of its new front-wheel drive, fuel-efficient compact cars this fall could yield a profit in the fourth quarter of this year if the economy improves.

The company has closed several plants, laid off more than 40,000 U.S. hourly workers and thousands more salaried workers, reduced salaries and ordered many other internal cost cutbacks.

Chrysler went to the brink of bankruptcy earlier this year, but was rescued — by drawing down $800 million of $1.5 billion in available government-backed funds.

Pool extension charge cleared

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission Thursday gave Intermountain Gas Co. authority to charge for gas main extensions to serve swimming pools and hot tubs.

Last year, the PUC ruled the company's extension policy did not provide adequate means for defraying the cost of an extension.

It was justified. The commission ordered the utility to reevaluate its policy and Intermountain Gas did so, filing a report in January and its new policy application in April.

According to the new policy, those customers who use natural gas for space heating or large water heaters will receive service-line extensions free. In addition, if gas appliances are used in buildings where space heating or water heaters are fueled by natural gas, extra free footage will be provided based on applicable compliance.

However, swimming pools and hot tubs are not included because they are "inconsistent" with the utility's policy and the "national policy" of conserving all nonrenewable resources to the extent possible.

Chevron readies heavy oil plant

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Chevron U.S.A., citing strong support from public officials, Thursday said it plans to go ahead with a major project that will enable its Texasgola, Miss., refinery to process heavy, high-sulfur crude oil.

Standard Oil Co. of California's domestic oil and gas subsidiary said the refinery modification, expected to cost more than $1 billion, represents the largest single investment in the company's history.

Since heavier, high-sulfur crudes will account for a growing share of future oil supplies, Chevron said the refinery project will put the company in a better position to meet consumer needs for such petroleum products as gasoline, jet and diesel fuel. High sulfur crude takes special refining processes.

Klein says DHW deficit up to $20 million

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's Department of Health and Welfare will apparently be facing a deficit of at least $8 million and perhaps as much as $20 million in the current fiscal year, Department Director Bill Klein said Thursday.

While the exact amount of the fiscal shortfall has yet to be determined, Klein said one factor is certain: services provided by the department will be cut.

Those budget reductions will reduce existing levels of services to some persons, Klein said, and remove other persons entirely from eligibility for some programs. There will be a human cost. Unfortunately, some people are likely to get hurt.

Segments of the DHW budget now being considered for cutbacks include programs providing services to the blind, the disabled, the aged and dependent children, Klein said.

Also being considered as a cost saving action is the elimination of free nursing home care for persons not eligible for Supplemental Security Income, reducing the size of payments to mothers with dependent children, and reducing the number of doctor's office visits and days in the hospital covered by Medicaid.

"This is a very disturbing decision to consider," Klein said. "It isn't only going to affect recipients. It will affect their families and friends who are going to have to pitch in and help in ways they have never had to before."

Cities and counties may also soon be getting increased requests for assistance from individuals DHW is unable to serve, he added.

"These cuts wouldn't be made if there were any hope at all of balancing the budget in any other way," Klein said. "We have a constitutional duty not to overspend, and we have not received the relief we requested in terms of changes in state law."

The budget deficit stems from several fiscal shortfalls. One major source is the current congressional drive for a federal balanced budget. Funds on which Idaho has in the past relied have apparently been shot down in that budgetary battle. While a final decision hasn't yet been made, it appears likely that at the end of the present federal fiscal year, in October, Washington will disallow some $4.25 million in federal revenues now coming to Idaho.

Idaho's state fiscal year began on July 1.

Loss of that money, however, will trigger the loss of other federal funds. Federal law has allowed Idaho to use the initial $4.25 million as if they were state money. Idaho has used the $4.25 million as "matching funds" seed money that generated an additional $8.1 million in federal revenues.

If the $4.25 million is not available for use by the state as matching funds, then the $8.1 million is also no longer available, leaving a total deficit of more than $2 million.

Wednesday Gov. John Evans said he is considering raiding the state's Water Pollution Control Account for the initial $4.25 million that would guarantee the payment of the added $8.1 million in federal funds.

But the governor said no final decision had been made on this move.

Evans also announced on Wednesday a three percent "hold back" of funds for most state departments in order to fulfill his constitutionally mandated requirement of balancing the state budget. Klein said that cutback will slash approximately $1.6 million from DHW's budget.

DHW is also facing a $3.3 million bill as a result of an April court decision that declared invalid a cost containment procedure used by the department to reign in the administrative and operating costs of Idaho nursing homes.

That court ruling, which followed an action initiated by the Idaho nursing home industry, also means an additional $1.2 million cost will be added to the department's budgets for the Idaho State School and Hospital and the State Hospital South, Klein said.

DHW asked the Legislature to change state law to allow DHW to retain its cost containment procedure, but the Legislature failed to act in its regular session and in its special session.

If the nursing home law had been changed, the cut could be made in a more reasonable way, Klein said. Additional legal actions now pending against the department could increase the potential deficit, Klein said.

Klein said he was working closely with a seven-member legislative panel appointed this year to monitor the department's fiscal problems and recommend solutions to those problems to the next Legislature.

Accident hurts 11, 4 in hospital

BUHL — Four of the 11 Buhl residents injured in a head-on collision just east of here Wednesday night, were still hospitalized Thursday.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers said the accident occurred at 9:44 p.m. a quarter mile east of Buhl, blocking the highway for more than an hour.

Officers said an east bound four-wheel-drive vehicle carrying 10 teenagers collided with a westbound pickup truck driven by Earl Meier, 55, of Buhl. The impact caused the first vehicle to overturn on its side, throwing the teenagers to the highway across a 30-foot area, officers said.

Tim Storm, 18, driver of the four-wheel-drive unit, and all of his passengers, but one went to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for treatment. Their ages ranged from 15 to 19, officers said.

Meier, the most seriously injured, was in surgery Tuesday, but hospital officials listed him in fair condition. His wife, Lilah, was not injured.

Also in fair condition Thursday evening was Tanya Sanderson, 15, of Buhl, a passenger in the Storm vehicle. Also hospitalized was Clay Garrett, 17, in good condition. Gary Frazier, 15, was hospitalized but released Thursday.

Others involved in the accident were identified as Henry Storm, 17; Kyle Whitley, 18; Curt Belveal, 16; Richard Tyree, no age given; Marty Retzlaff, 17; and Margaret Pickrel, 16. All are from Buhl and all were treated at the hospital and released.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Gaultier, who headed the investigation, said when he arrived there were passengers scattered over the highway and roadside. He said Meier was still in his vehicle but the young people had been thrown out.

Witnesses said the Storm vehicle crossed into the oncoming lane of traffic, colliding with the Meier pickup. Officers said Thursday investigation was continuing and no citations had been issued. Officers said the impact threw the Meier vehicle around and to the north side of the highway, facing south.

Two ambulances, one from Buhl and another from Twin Falls, transported the injured to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Three deputies, two Buhl city officers, one Idaho State Police officer, a former Ellettsville, Ind., police officer and the Buhl fire department assisted at the scene.

Gaultier said officers deloused traffic between the Burley corner at the east entrance of Buhl and the county road one mile east of town for more than an hour while the injured were taken from the scene and the wreckage removed.

There was no fire, but firemen stood by and offered first aid assistance, as did a number of volunteer citizens.

No better way to mix carnival fare

After the cotton candy, hot dogs and chocolate malts consumed at the Lincoln County Fair, what better exercise than a fast swing enjoyed by these girls

Thursday at the carnival. The Shoshone fair parades are scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. today and Saturday. Animal showing, a black powder shoot, a high school rodeo, a state amateur talent show and 4-H displays are part of the fair activities.

Forest fires

Lightning causes 2 Sawtooth fires

TWIN FALLS — Lightning has been listed as the cause of two of four small fires burning in the Sawtooth National Forest as thunderstorms passed through the area Wednesday and Thursday.

All of the blazes, none exceeding one-fourth acre, were reported as contained Thursday night by Sawtooth Fire Dispatcher Len Miracle.

"We're having a lot more moisture and humidity than usual for this time of year and that's helping us a lot in controlling the fires," Miracle said.

Two of the small fires broke out in the South Hills, while others erupted in the Burley and Ketchum districts.

"Probably the most serious of the four fires was in Bear Hollow south of the Rock Creek guard station," Miracle said. "It was in a very dangerous spot with lots of heavy dead timber, but we were lucky in that some of our people were already nearby, and they were able to get to it quickly."

No cause has been determined for the one-fourth-acre Bear Hollow fire, which bordered a summer home area in the South Hills. Miracle said a crew would be left at the site tonight to make sure none of the dead timber re-ignites.

A second fire in the South Hills was caused by a wood cutter's abandoned camp fire, according to Miracle. He said that one-fourth-acre fire was circled by firefighters Thursday and control was estimated for sometime Thursday night.

Helicopter water drops were scheduled Thursday evening for another one-fourth-acre fire about seven miles west of Ketchum in Alturas Gulch.

"Evidently it started when lightning struck a clump of trees," Miracle reported. "Firefighters have already circled the area and they will probably be there tonight because they face a very slow process of putting fire out in large, downed trees."

Miracle said the helicopter water drops had been ordered for Alturas Gulch because of the weather situation and equipment couldn't be transported into the area.

"Unless they get a high wind, I don't think they'll have any trouble with it," Miracle said.

A fourth fire is working the Alturas Gulch fire with control estimated for sometime Thursday night or Friday morning.

A fourth spot fire broke out when a lightning bolt struck an old Juniper tree in the Black Pine area southeast of Burley," Miracle reported.

Miracle said the fire was limited to a single tree by one firefighter and would probably be labeled as controlled Thursday evening.

Police/courts

Paul farmer guilty of no tax return

BOISE — A Paul farmer, Martin Walters, 50, is scheduled to be sentenced in U.S. District Court here Sept. 3 on charges of failing to file an income tax return in 1973.

Walters was tried in U.S. District Court here and found guilty by a jury returning a verdict at 10 p.m. Friday, at the end of a three-day trial.

U.S. District Judge Martin J. Callisier will sentence Walters at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 3 in Boise.

The charge against Walters was willful failure to file a federal tax return in 1973. He has been granted a pre-sentence investigation by the federal court.

Internal Revenue Service officials brought charges against Walters and obtained a conviction. He is the third taxpayer to be convicted in recent months. IRS officials say.

Boy turned in for shooting stray cat

TWIN FALLS — When a young boy bragged to Connie Adamson of Twin Falls that he had shot a stray cat in the eye with a pellet, she turned him in to police.

Mrs. Adamson said she had been caring for the injured animal since July 11 when she found it injured. She said the animal had lost one eye and although she had provided what care she could, it would also need professional help.

"Later, she said, the youngster bragged about his marksmanship and a young girl in the neighborhood said she was with him when he shot the animal. Mrs. Adamson lodged a complaint against the juvenile boy on a charge of cruelty to animals.

Plaintiffs win awards in separate cases

TWIN FALLS — Two plaintiffs were awarded more than $10,000 each in separate suits in 5th District Court this week.

The Twin Falls Feed and Ice Co. was awarded $10,475 in a suit against Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Erling, doing business as Erling Dairy of Jerome County. The plaintiff charged Erling with failing to pay $10,096 in back bills for livestock feed. The amount was charged over the period of Dec. 28, 1979, to June 16, 1980, the suit stated.

In addition, the court awarded $250 attorney fees, 8 percent interest on the delinquent amount and other court costs.

Sta-Rite Industries Inc. was awarded $10,335.11 in an action brought against Boise Redwood Manufacturing. The amount was reportedly due and unpaid on merchandise purchased over the past several months. It also included $1,900 attorney fees and court costs.

Public hearing in Marsing over horse roundup

BOISE — A public hearing will be held Aug. 7 in Marsing on proposals for rounding up 250 wild horses in the Owyhee County herd.

Bureau of Land Management Boise District manager Jim Gabetas said the wild horses will be gathered from the Black Mountain and Shores Basin areas south of the Snake River and west of Blumby. The roundup is scheduled to begin Sept. 2, if weather permits. There are an estimated 410 wild horses in the herd.

The animals will be driven by helicopter into corral and taken to the Owyhee County Fairgrounds at Homedale where they will be given to qualified individuals under the Adopt a Horse Program.

Individuals wishing to express views on the proposed roundup should attend the Aug. 7 hearing at 3 p.m. in the Owyhee County Extension office in Marsing.

Summing up the 1980-81 proposals

Twin Falls city budget hearings on calendar twice during August

TWIN FALLS — The public will have two opportunities to comment on the proposed 1980-81 city budget. Hearings will be at City Hall on Aug. 11 and Aug. 18.

Although the budget will not be finalized until September, the proposed budget, if adopted, would have the following effects:

• Utilities — Minimal city utility rates would increase from $1.35 to more than $16 per month.

Residents now pay a minimum of $3.85 a month for water, $3.25 for sewer and $4.25 for garbage collection. The budget calls for a 15 percent increase in water rates and in basic sewer rates. Sanitation fees are expected to increase once the city signs a new contract for solid waste collection in late August. The present collection contract expires Oct. 1.

• Employees — The tentative budget calls for the elimination of 18 full-time employee positions. More than half of the positions are vacant now, but as many as seven employees could be laid off on Oct. 1.

At present, the city plans to lay off five employees in the street department, one at the golf course and one at the city shop.

Two jobs in the waste water department and one in the water department are now vacant. City Manager Tom Courtney said he will try to fill those positions.

• Police — Although the budget does not cut the number of police officers, increased demands have left police with less time for preventative patrols, Courtney said. Crime rates will probably increase as less preventative work is done, he said.

To compensate, the department is trying to involve more citizens in a crime-prevention program. Courtney said the city will probably not hire more officers even if the program fails.

• Parks — Although one position has been cut, the department will continue to maintain fire suppression at its present level by reorganizing. Five positions in the department were cut last year.

Courtney said the fire prevention program has been able to compensate for the cuts and has allowed the city to reduce the number of firefighters without jeopardizing the city's fire insurance rating.

• Recreation, Parks and Golf — Reduced manpower will mean a deterioration in the winter maintenance of the parks and golf course. Courtney said part-time summer help will provide adequate summer maintenance.

Aside from the closure of the Harry Barry Park pool and a reduction in the number of park playground programs, recreation programs will remain unchanged. However, program fees are expected to increase from $3 to $5 for children and to $15 for adults.

• Administration — The elimination of the assistant city manager position will hamper long-range city planning, such as efficiency studies, and increase administrative burdens for city department heads, leaving less time for department heads to deal with problems in their own departments.

Hospital funding issue on ballot

HOSPITAL (UPI) — Two Idaho legislators are co-chairing a statewide committee for the purpose of informing voters about a constitutional referendum on hospital funding on the November ballot.

Sen. Norma Dobler, D-Mosco, and Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, are forming a group called Twelve for Twelve to encourage voter understanding of a measure which would amend the Idaho Constitution.

If passed by a majority of voters, the measure would empower the Idaho Health Facilities Authority to offer financing terms to hospitals owned or operated by religious organizations at the same rate as other hospitals.

The five hospitals that would be affected by the passage of the measure are St. Mary's in Cottonwood, St. Benedict's in Jerome, St. Joseph's in Laviston, Mercy Medical Center in Nampa and St. Alphonsus in Boise.

"We expect to name another 10 Idahoans from throughout the state to join in this effort," Mrs. Dobler said. "The inequity created by this oversight in our laws simply puts an additional financial burden on the people who can least afford it — the sick and injured."

Idaho/West briefs

Leroy says Harris had 2 options besides search warrant

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General David Leroy says Ada County Prosecutor Jim Harris had at least two options in addition to the search warrant to obtain KBCI-TV's videotapes of last week's riot at the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Leroy said the search warrant executed at the KBCI-TV newsroom Saturday was not the "preferred" way to obtain evidence from the news media.

Harris, who worked as Leroy's chief deputy while in Ada County prosecutor, could not be reached for comment.

Leroy said the most traditional way to subpoena evidence before a criminal complaint is filed is to ask a district judge to impanel a grand jury, a rarely used procedure in Idaho. The grand jury can issue subpoenas for witnesses and documents, Leroy said. It would take a week to 10 days to impanel a grand jury in Ada County, he said.

Leroy said the other method is through the "inquiring judge" act passed by the Idaho Legislature in its latest session. The bill was supported by the Idaho Prosecuting Attorneys Association, of which Harris is a member.

Under that law, the district judge, again at the request of the prosecutor, can name a magistrate to conduct a criminal investigation. Like the grand jury, the inquiring magistrate has the power to subpoena witnesses and evidence.

At the penitentiary Thursday, a tense but quiet atmosphere pervaded after inmates launched another attack on guards Wednesday afternoon, shouting that their demands, issued last week, must be met.

Idaho Corrections Director C.W.

Crowl said nine inmates identified as leaders in the renewed conflicts will be held in Canyon County jail until officials can send them to prisons in neighboring states.

He said prisoners refused to move until he made good on his promise to meet with a citizens committee, established last week at the convicts' demand, to air grievances against prison authorities.

"That grievance committee at this point has gone on the back burner because of the savage destruction the inmates have done to this institution."

Tahoe Nugget casino burns, at least 1 dead, 3 injured

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. (UPI) — Fire Thursday swept through the Tahoe Nugget, one of the oldest gambling casinos on the north shore of scenic Lake Tahoe, killing at least one person and injuring three others.

The blaze broke out on the third floor of the club, located in a cluster of other gambling casinos along the Nevada-California border. It reached into a portion of the second-floor but was checked before it got into the main floor casino area.

Loren Enstad, assistant chief of the North Tahoe Fire Department, said the dead person was so badly burned he could not be identified. Earlier reports listed club porter Steve McKinney, 60, as missing.

At least three firefighters suffered minor injuries.

Enstad said damage was estimated conservatively at $100,000. The building itself was considered a total loss.

Firefighters managed to remove trays containing money and chips from the tables, and a casino spokesman said the safe, containing an undisclosed amount of money, was "secure."

Firefighters tried several times to enter the building but were pushed back by intense heat. Smoke was visible throughout the Tahoe Basin crowded with summer vacationers.

Evans' budget cuts receive mixed reviews from officials

BOISE (UPI) — State officials have offered contrary views about the emergency reduction in state spending ordered Wednesday by Gov. John Evans.

State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon said she thought it was unfair that the public schools — targeted for a $5.5 million reduction under the across-the-board 3 percent budget cut would be able to circumvent the loss through emergency property taxation.

Public Instruction Superintendent Jerry Evans said he was pleased that a provision of the law protected the public schools from the state's unexpected budget restrictions, but said boosts in property taxes might create controversy.

"While I recognize the serious problem state government is facing because of decreased revenues and continuing inflation, it hardly seems fair to put half the burden on the property tax paid by our citizens," Miss Moon said.

"It would have been more logical, although difficult for some state agencies, to have a 5 percent cutback ordered in every program but state support for public schools."

The governor's plan called for a spending limit that will save the general fund roughly $12 million this fiscal year.

Final task force report out

BOISE (UPI) — The Governor's Management Task Force released its final report Thursday, and Chairman Charles F. Frye urged lawmakers to continue implementing the group's recommendations even though problems have eclipsed task force goals.

Frye said although many of the task force's recommendations were accepted, the group had some disappointments, particularly with regard to its suggestions for improving the state's data processing system.

"Disappointments in not achieving changes came from perceived constitutional problems, legislative differences and in some instances, inability to provide evidence that the task force recommendation was an appropriate solution," Frye said.

points in property taxes might create controversy.

"While I recognize the serious problem state government is facing because of decreased revenues and continuing inflation, it hardly seems fair to put half the burden on the property tax paid by our citizens," Miss Moon said.

Ovett-Coe duel highlights last Olympic day

MOSCOW (UPI) — With the Olympic climax on the wings of Teofilo Stevenson's bid for an unprecedented third straight boxing medal and a second duel between middle-distance stars Steve Ovett and Sebastian Coe, the embattled president of the IAAF said Thursday he had no evidence that Russian officials were cheating.

Adrian Paulen, the 78-year-old Dutch president of the International Amateur Athletics Federation, strongly denied at a news conference that the IAAF had been under pressure from the International Olympic Committee to police events more closely.

But Western athletes, led by Swedish pole vaulter Milos Zadar, stood by their charges and said the cheating was going on while the IAAF was not looking.

"Everybody knows they are cheating," said Zadar. "There is no doubt in my mind that the Soviets would have won a lot of medals here at any rate, but the way they are doing it is really rotten."

At the pole-vault finals, when Paulen warned they were in more care, but the Soviet vaulters were given signs behind his back," Zadar said in restating his accusation that Russian officials were cheating.

"There was no questioning the building drama as Stevenson earned his spot at a third straight gold boxing medal in the heavyweight division and Ovett and Coe breezed to the finals of the 1,500-meter run — or, for that matter, the world record set by Russian Yuro Sedych in the hammer throw. Sedych's mark of 238 feet, 4 1/2 inches earned him his second successive Olympic gold in the event and led Russians to a 1-2-3 sweep of the event.

Stevenson, the 6-foot-5 Cuban giant considered a par with pro-heavyweight contenders, was taken to the 3-round distance for the first time ever in Olympic competition when Istvan Levai of Hungary elected to crouch and cover up instead of trading punches. Stevenson easily won the decision.

Ovett and Coe, who share the 1,500-meter world record at 2 minutes, 32.1 seconds, easily won

Don Ovett and Yugoslavia's Dragan Zdravkovic, left, cross finish line one-two to qualify for the 1500-meter Olympic final their respective semifinals. Ovett looked like he was taking an evening stroll as he burst away from the field 250 yards from the finish and broke the tape waving to the crowd in 3:43.1. Coe cut loose in the final bend to go from fourth to first and cross the line in 3:39.34.

Bronislaw Malinowski of Poland stepped up from his 1976 silver to a gold in the 3,000-meter steplechase. Malinowski won in 8:09.69 to defeat former 1,500-meter world record holder Filbert Bayi of Tanzania, whose gamble to switch to the steeplechase failed to pay off.

Malinowski, a 29-year-old Pole who said later his knowledge of Bayi's tactics was the key to the victory, was nearly three seconds ahead of Bayi, the silver medalist who clocked 8:12.5. The bronze medal went to Ethiopian Eshetu Tura in 8:13.6.

The Soviet Union won Thursday's other track and field gold medal when Tatiana Kolpakova unleashed a final leap of 22 feet, 7 inches to win the women's long jump — gold medal — from East Germany's Brigitte Wujak who cleared 23 feet, 1 1/4.

The Russians and East Germans continued to march away with the medal count. After 12 days of competition the Russians had earned 69 gold, 56 silver and 39 bronze medals while the East Germans had 57-31-37. By comparison, Italy, third in the medal table, has just 7-22.

Paulen told the news conference he could find no evidence of cheating despite the claims of Western athletes.

"We have not received any complaint from the IOC, officials or secretariat, on this matter," he said. "There is no reason for the IOC to do so because in the rules, we have the responsibility for running track and field, not the IOC."

IOC sources, however, said the IOC had asked Paulen privately to report on western athletes' allegations that they had been discriminated against.

Joao Carlos De Oliveira of Brazil was another athlete who was convinced he had been given a raw deal. De Oliveira, the world record holder in the triple jump, finished third behind two Russians — Jark Uudmaa and Viktor Saneyev.

He said Saneyev was allowed to jump after his maximum time limit had expired.

"But the judges kept quiet. They didn't say a word," said De Oliveira.

Paulen maintained the 19-strong executive council had been in attendance during all eight days of track and field but had kept a low profile.

"You must give the judges a chance to judge," he said. "We are not flying the judges. We can only rule if there is an appeal or if we see there is something wrong. We like to do our job unobtrusively. We have been almost every-where."

Paulen admitted that Wednesday he had asked the referee to remove one Russian vaulter who had been eliminated from the competition and was signaling to the stadium.

Charges that Soviet officials were measuring Soviet throwers generously in the javelin and discus could not be proven, according to Paulen.

"In other sports activity, the Zimbabwe all-white women's field hockey team, a last-minute recruit because of the boycott and a squad which had just 25 days preparation for the Olympics and had never seen a synthetic grass field before, finished the gold medal in the first Olympic women's hockey tournament. It was the first gold medal won either by Zimbabwe or before that, Rhodesia.

Career threatened

Richard's ailment diagnosed as stroke

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard suffered a stroke and possible permanent weakening on the left side of his body, his doctors said Thursday.

In a statement released by the Astros 16 hours after the 39-year-old All-Star pitcher collapsed during a light workout Wednesday night, Astros manager Rick Rivers said the weakness might be temporary due to swelling and could disappear in several days.

"My doctors add, however, that it must be recognized that there is a possibility that there may be residual weakness involving his left arm and left leg," Rivers said.

"The doctors state that it is not completely predictable at the present time."

The symptoms of a stroke were immediately apparent to emergency room personnel Wednesday, Rivers said.

"Subsequent diagnostic tests confirmed this impression by demonstrating blockage of one of the arteries leading to the brain," he said. "This called for immediate surgical correction."

An emergency 90-minute operation was performed by a team of vascular specialists Wednesday night. Doctors said the surgery was "successful" and "restored good circulation to his arm, neck and brain."

"However, after J.R. recovered from surgery the doctors said that it became apparent that there is an obvious weakness involving his left arm and left leg. The doctors hope that the weakness may be transient in nature due to edema (fluid buildup) and swelling and that it may clear in a matter of several days," Rivers said.

Richard, who had complained of a "dead arm" since June, was examined for four days in Methodist Hospital and doctors said they diagnosed a circulatory problem which would not require surgery or prevent from pitching almost immediately.

After 10 minutes of playing catch at the Astro dome Wednesday, he complained of dizziness and collapsed.

"He was rushed to Methodist by ambulance and doctors in the emergency ward observed "neurological symptoms indicating impairment of circulation to the brain, which would be suggestive of a stroke," Rivers said.

Surgery nine hours later removed a blood clot from a major artery at the base of his neck which doctors said led to his right shoulder and arm. The hospital listed him in stable condition and said he was resting comfortably Thursday.

Richard had pitched as recently as July 14 but took himself out of that game after 3 1/2 innings complaining of nausea and a tired arm. He was the National League All-Star starting pitcher July 8 and pitched two innings.

The announcement of a possible body damage came as apologies were being offered to Richard by media who have in the past few weeks disbelieved the athlete's claims of ill health.

Radio talk show host David Fowler personally apologized on the air to Richard and his fans for thinking he was feigning the illness.

There was doubt because three medical examinations — by Los Angeles Dr. Frank Jobe, team physician Dr. Harold Brelsford and Dr. Michael J. Feltevic — had failed to pinpoint any serious physical problem which would support Richard's complaints.

Feltevic directed extensive tests performed on Richard late last week.

Public hearing slated for game bird seasons

TWIN FALLS — The Hagerman Wildlife Refuge and waterfowl regulations on Silver Creek should dominate a public hearing in Twin Falls Monday night.

The public is invited to the hearing, starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Little Tree Inn. Regional personnel of the Idaho Fish and Game Department will discuss their ideas and recommendations for upland game and waterfowl hunting seasons.

The highlight should be the department's management plan for the Hagerman Refuge.

Due to permeation of the dikes and pond bottoms with lead shot, the department closed the "firing line" on the perimeter of the sanctuary. Since then, with the public asking for at least some hunting opportunity in the area, the department has tried to come up with a workable plan that might allow some hunting at the same time protect the birds from lead ingestion.

There has been a continuing problem between landowners and the hunting public concerning duck hunting on the Silver Creek drainage. Trapping methods and seasons also will be on the agenda.

The public is urged to attend to comment on these and other situations as the recommendations will be forwarded to the Fish and Game Commission for finalizing of fall dates and bag limits later this month.

Officials pointed out public debate on various items have changed recommendations in the past. They said all viewpoints would be reviewed by the commission before a final decision is made.

Detroit greets title fight with big yawn

DETROIT (UPI) — Champion Jose "Pipino" Cuevas is ready. So is challenger Thomas Hearns.

Everybody, it seems, is set except the paying public.

Cuevas and Hearns are scheduled to fight Saturday night at the new Joe Louis Arena — named after Sugar Ray Leonard. Two other WBA title fights plus a 10-round heavyweight bout are also on the agenda.

But ticket sales for the 4-fight card are far lagging several training miles behind the media-type for the biggest fight in Detroit since Joe Frazier bludgeoned heavyweight King Bob Fosse under the ring in their eighth championship fight in the 1970s.

Between 7,000 and 8,000 tickets have been sold in this near-Depression city, and even a fast rush means the new Joe Louis Arena — named after Detroit's most illustrious boxing product — will only fill half of its 20,000 seats.

Hearns is the 12th challenger to face Cuevas yet is a prohibitive favorite to unseat the champion and earn an even bigger payday, against a deposed Leonard.

The winner of that fight would, of course, get an even bigger purse to fight Duran in a welterweight division that has become as lucrative and glamorous financially as the heavyweight division," said Muhammad Ali.

Another Detroit resident, Hilder Kenly, makes the first defense of his WBA lightweight championship against Yong Oh of Korea.

Sammy Serrano of Puerto Rico goes against Yatsueuna Uehara of Japan for the WBA junior-lightweight championship and Texas Randy Cobb seeks to make a name for himself when he fights veteran Earnie Shavers in the heavyweight match.

Muhammad Ali Promotions, Inc., is staging the fights and claims it will still make money, largely because of closed circuit television outlets and sales of television rights to European and South American interests.

Most of the 80 remaining areas where the fight can be seen on closed circuit screens are located in areas of high Mexican-American populations.

Cuevas fans —

Cuevas speaks little — and presumably therefore cannot read English. And that's a good thing, because if he could understand everything being said and written about him in Detroit these past two weeks, he would expect Hearns to show up for the fight up with a flowing cape and a big red "52" on his chest.

"He doesn't care," said Rafael Mendoza, Cuevas' interpreter.

Hall of Fame game

Chargers, Pack open exhibition year

By MIKE GRANBERRY (c) 1980, The Los Angeles Times

LA JOLLA, Calif. — Technically, they don't mean anything. For the hardened fan who knows better, National Football League exhibition games are meaningless exercises on a hot summer's night.

The NFL takes them far more seriously. They are regarded as preseason contests — something more than mere "exhibitions."

Whatever they are called, they begin on Saturday when the San Diego Chargers meet the Green Bay Packers in the NFL Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio.

The annals of professional football contain plenty of stories about teams that finish last in preseason standings, only to find themselves in the Super Bowl in January. In 1970, the Super Bowl-bound Dallas Cowboys lost five exhibition games, while winning one. A few of their fans had been guilty of writing them off.

Chargers executive Doug Todd remembers the year that the New York Giants won a six-exhibition games. "The New York writers already had them winning the title," Todd said. "They went down the tubes."

Fans traditionally react to their team's August setbacks with fear and loathing. Usually, it is much ado about nothing.

Will the Chargers, considered a contender for a Super Bowl berth this season, be upset by one, or even a string, of exhibition defeats?

"They will not be concerned at all," Coach Don Coryell said. "We would like to win — you want to create the climate, the habit of winning — but not at the expense of not playing people."

Coryell wants to take a hard look at a backup quarterback Dan Fouts who passed for more than 4,000 yards last season in breaking all sorts of records.

Coryell wants to watch rookie quarterback Ed Luter, a fourth-round draft choice from San Jose State, and quarterback-punter Mike Kirkland under the pressure of national television cameras. Saturday's game will be televised nationally.

"That doesn't mean we won't play James Harris and Cliff Glanden," Coryell said of two other backup candidates, "but they aren't rookies, so we know more about them." (Kirkland isn't a rookie, either. He's a four-year veteran who last played with Baltimore.)

No NFL coach would say his team is trying to lose the preseason game, and it isn't. Coryell conceded, "Winning is important; we like to please the fans."

"But," he said, "teams get in trouble by going all-out to win preseason games, shooting the works on offense, defense, playing their best players. It's very likely they play their better ballplayers just to win those games, and that's a mistake."

"As long as everybody on the team plays hard that's what's important. You need to take a good look at as many people as possible. For instance, I wouldn't put in the starting defensive team. I want to see what others will do in a tight situation."

At times, Luter has looked sensational in training camp, and a few Charger insiders talk of comparisons to former great John Hadl — the same set-up, delivery and throwing motion.

Luter knows he's being given the opportunity and he has to produce. He isn't nervous about the national TV angle, though. "I remember a game my freshman year in college," he said. "I was really disappointed — being on television isn't anything like I thought it would be."

"It's hard to realize that the van going up and down the sidelines is TV. You don't sit there and think, 'What will I look like on TV? You settle down and play football.'"

Luter also doesn't believe that anyone who steps on the football field "does it in a lax type of way. It really is an intensity and concentration — most of it has to be that way. You don't want to be embarrassed, so you try to do your best. Instinctively, you go out, try to gorgé who's the vet and who's the rookie and just get the job done."

The hardest part of training camp for Luter is what he calls mental preparation. Rookies are forced to play diagrams, game instructions and a body of other materials that would boggie the mind of most anyone, much less a 22-year-old coping with a rookie's anxiety.

The hardest part for 12-year vet receiver Charlie Joiner is to keep from getting injured. "You do your absolute best not to get injured," Joiner said. "But you're gonna get battered and bruised in camp. I don't care what happens."

In more than a decade of playing pro football, Joiner has seen teams lose all their exhibition games and then beat opponents badly in the regular season. "Houston usually does that," he said. "They just don't play their best people. A lot of teams don't. A lot of teams shouldn't. You've got to take a look at those rooks, and you just can't win with just rooks."

Rookie Luter said the veterans have been more than helpful with him. "From the coach to the equipment man," he said. "They've all been bending over backwards."

Even Olander and Kirkland, two of his competitors, "have been doing a lot of good things totally unselfish. I don't think in terms of personal competition. We're helping each other be the best QB's we possibly can be. Whoever wins, well, that's up to God or whoever makes those decisions."

There was doubt because three medical examinations — by Los Angeles Dr. Frank Jobe, team physician Dr. Harold Brelsford and Dr. Michael J. Feltevic — had failed to pinpoint any serious physical problem which would support Richard's complaints.

Feltevic directed extensive tests performed on Richard late last week.

Stone loses 14-game streak

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Buddy Bell's two-run single highlighted a four-run first inning Thursday night that enabled the Texas Rangers to snap Steve Stone's 14-game winning streak with a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Stone, whose last loss came on May 5, fell two victories short of the American League record held by Walter Johnson, Joe Wood, Lefty Grove and Schoolboy Rowe. The record in the National League is 19, set by Tim Lincecum in 1912. Ferguson Jenkins, 39, was relieved in the ninth by Danny Darwin, who earned his second save.

Mickey Rivers led off the first with an infield single off Stone, 16-4, and took second when catcher Dan Graham interfered with Bump Wills. Al Oliver then singled to load the bases and Bell followed with his single. Stanb then singled in Oliver and a two-out error by shortstop Kiko Garcia allowed Bell to score, giving Texas a 4-0 lead.

Tigers 15, Angels 6

DETROIT (UPI) — Lou Whitaker capped a seven-run first inning with a three-run double and added a fourth RBI with a sacrifice fly in the third and Steve Kemp drove in three runs Thursday night to enable the Detroit Tigers to break a four-game losing streak with a 15-6 victory over the California Angels.

Detroit, which went over the million mark in attendance for the 16th consecutive year, re-loaded the bases against reliever Dave Lemary and Whitaker followed with his three-run double. Kemp tripled home a run in the fourth and scored on a single by Champ Summers. He added his 10th homer of the season in the fifth.

Milt Wilcox was blitzed for 11 hits in just five innings but managed to raise his record to 11-5 with his third straight victory.

Royals 13, Boston 3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Willie Wilson reached base five times on four singles and a walk, scored four runs, drove in one and stole his 46th base of the season to propel the Kansas City Royals to 13-3 victory Thursday night over the Boston Red Sox.

Dennis Leonard scattered eight hits over the first eight innings to up his record to 11-8 in beating the Red Sox for the fourth straight time this season. Jeff Twitty allowed three hits, including Jim Rice's 34th homer in the ninth. Steve Gossage pitched four Boston pitchers for 16 hits with every starter collecting at least one. George Brett collected two singles in three at-bats to extend his career-long hitting streak to 13 games and raise his average to .390.

Marcel Poirier, Willie Aikens and John Wathan also collected two hits each, with Brett and Porter also scoring twice. Aikens was the only Royal to knock in more than one run, picking up two RBI.

Yanks 7, Brewers 6

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Reggie Jackson sent the game into extra innings with a two-out, three-run homer in the ninth inning and Charlie Moore's mental lapse allowed Bobby Murcer to score on an infield grounder in the 11th Thursday night, giving the New York Yankees a 7-6 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Marv Povich hit a single off reliever John Flinn, 1-1, and moved to second on Bob Watson's single. After Jerry Augustine relieved, Reggie Jackson reached on an error to load the bases. Eric Soderholm then chipped to third baseman Don Money, who stepped on third to force Watson and threw home to Moore, who forgot the force was off and tagged the plate instead of the runner. Povich, Gossage, 5-1, pitched the final three innings to pick up the victory.

Jackson's home run was his 29th of the season, tops in the major leagues.

Milwaukee took a 1-0 lead in the first on Gorman Thomas' RBI single but the Yankees tied it in the second on Willie Randolph's RBI single. Thomas' RBI double put the Brewers ahead 2-1 in the third and a four-run outburst in the seventh against Tommy John gave the Brewers a 6-1 lead. Robin Yount knocked out two fans with a double and Cecil Cooper's two-run homer, his 14th of the year, capped the inning.

New York scored twice in the eighth to pull within 6-3 on Jackson's RBI single and Rick Cerone's RBI grounder.

Dickey rejects $1.2 million offer

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Flamboyant agent Jerry Argozvit has spurred a contract worth more than $1.2 million for Curtis Dickey of Texas A&M and told the Baltimore Colts his client will not play football this year, the NFL team said Thursday.

General Manager Dick Szymanski broke a two-month silence and said Argozvit, the Houston dentist who negotiated a multi-million dollar contract with Detroit for Oklahoma's Billy Sims, "flatly rejected" a $1.2 million contract for an unspecified number of years and told the Colts the speedy running back would not play football this season.

Dickey was Baltimore's first pick and the fifth player selected in the draft. Neither he nor Argozvit was available for comment.

Szymanski, in a statement released from the Colts' Goucher College training camp in suburban Baltimore, said, "We have refrained from making public comment on contract negotiations with Curtis Dickey's agent, but now we feel it obligatory that we advise the Jerry Argozvit has flatly rejected a contract offer in excess of $1.2 million and informed us that he would not let Curtis Dickey play football this year."

A Colts spokesman refused further comment. Argozvit has called the Baltimore newspapers several times and told them Szymanski was an "egotistical" and that the Colts were "archaic" and would not pay Dickey what he is worth. He said he and the Colts were about $55,000 apart for a two-year contract and $200,000 apart on a long-term pact.

The Colts reportedly are seeking a five- or six-year contract with Dickey. Argozvit said several months ago that Dickey might play with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League, but later amended that to say Dickey probably would sit out the season if the Colts did not sign him.

Dickey, a 6-foot, 265 pound running back, was the second leading rusher in Southwest Conference history behind Earl Campbell. He was a world-class sprinter and captured three consecutive NCAA 60-yard dash titles indoors.

New Coach Mike McCormack said he wanted to try Dickey at wide receiver. But he said Tuesday Dickey, who has missed two weeks of training camp, probably would not have time to learn the position this season.

Philadelphia Open

Twitty still on torrid streak

LAFAYETTE HILL, Pa. (UPI) — Red-hot Howard Twitty, continuing a tear that sparked him to victory in last week's Greater Hartford Open, fired a 7-under par 64 Thursday to tie the Ben Crenshaw for the first-round lead in the $250,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Crenshaw, in a statement released from the Colts' Goucher College training camp in suburban Baltimore, said, "We have refrained from making public comment on contract negotiations with Curtis Dickey's agent, but now we feel it obligatory that we advise the Jerry Argozvit has flatly rejected a contract offer in excess of $1.2 million and informed us that he would not let Curtis Dickey play football this year."

"I'd just been playing real well, hitting the ball well, making the puts and I've kept my attitude real good," Twitty said when asked to explain his fine play. "It's like football. You'll win a lot of games if you play good offense and good defense."

Crenshaw began his round by missing the first three greens and scrambled to save par on each of them. But he birdied the last five holes on his first nine and the first hole of the back side with putts ranging from a 4 to 20 feet. He poked in a two-footer on the No. 3 for his seventh bird-of-the-day.

Crenshaw attributed his birdie tear to adjustments he made on the 13th tee.

"I didn't know what I was going to do after missing the first three greens," said Crenshaw, whose last win was in the 1979 Phoenix Open. "I tried a few things and they seemed to work better. I used a little different stance and a little different grip and it felt good the rest of the way."

Lou Graham, who also has a share of the Whitmarsh course record, canned six birdies while playing in the same group as Crenshaw and reported later that his ailing back didn't bother him.

David Graham, who finished in a fifth place to here last year the week before he won the PGA championship, birdied eight holes in his round Thursday, including 15-foot putts on the final hole that gave him a share of second place. Seven of his birdies came in the first 10 holes.

Only three of the top 10 money winners on the PGA tour are competing in the tournament and they all moved into contention with sub-par rounds. Jerry Pate and John Mahoney were in a log jam at 68 while Andy Bean was buried in a group at 69.

The two 64's tied the course record held by several players. Defending champion Lou Graham, making his first start after missing about six weeks with a back and groin injury, joined PGA champ David Graham and Jack Renner one shot back of the co-leaders with 65.

Mark Hayes and Dana Quigley were alone at 66 while seven players, including former Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller and 1976 Philadelphia winner Tom Kite were at 67.

There were plenty of low scores on a not windless day as 63 players in the field of 156 broke par for their round. Many of the pros rated the course in excellent shape and said the Philadelphia Open was a "real test of a player's ability."

The 31-year-old Twitty, playing in the seventh consecutive tournament one week after his playoff win at Hartford, started on the back nine and registered a pair of birdies. He began his streak of four straight birdies on the 15th hole, including a 10-foot putt and ended it with a tap-in on the par-5 fifth after missing a 2-footer for a eagle.

Gay freed

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Roxanne City was freed Thursday after spending nearly four years in jails and mental hospitals for the slaying of her husband, former pro football player Blenda Gay of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Mrs. Gay, 29, who at one point was considered by women's rights advocates as a classic example of a battered wife defending herself against a violent husband, was judged insane at a trial in March 1976. Ruled innocent by reason of insanity, she was indefinitely committed to a state psychiatric facility.

Optimism dims

SALEM, N.H. (UPI) — Optimism in reopening fire-damaged Rockingham Fair track back by Aug. 8 was tempered Thursday when officials were able to get a clearer view of the enormous task ahead.

As Rock's board of directors prepared to meet Friday to decide the fate of New England's largest and oldest track, others began flushing but a list of logistical problems that needed to be evaluated before a decision to resume the summer thoroughbred race meet.

ASU fights suit

PHOENIX (UPI) — Money for Arizona State University's president Wednesday urged a judge to deny dragstrip operator Rick Lynch access to confidential documents related to an investigation into ASU's athletic program.

Bills get Jessie

NAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills Thursday announced the acquisition of veteran wide receiver Ron Jessie from the Los Angeles Rams for an undisclosed trade draft choice.

Appeal planned

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — The attorney general's office plans to appeal a district court ruling dismissing 12 felony counts against former University of New Mexico basketball coach Norm Ellenberger.

Paul, 3 local teams post junior victories

TWIN FALLS — Three Twin Falls teams and Paul took victories in the opening round of the Twin Falls Junior baseball invitational Thursday afternoon.

Alumax, behind the pitching of Brock Miller, nipped the Blackfoot Nationals 2-0 in a well-played game while Paul topped the Jerome Lions 11-3. The Statesman scored all its runs in the fifth inning to defeat Jerome Tupperware 10-0 behind the shutout pitching of Tom Chase. Dial Finance rode the pitching of Mike Jordan into a 5-2 decision over Valley.

Kimberly had the opening round bye but comes into play at 3 p.m. today against Alumax. The other championship bracket game has the Statesman meeting Paul at 4 p.m. Jerome Tupperware meets Blackfoot at 3 p.m. while the Jerome Lions will play a yet-to-be-determined foe at 5 p.m.

The tournament continues through Saturday with the first possible start is available if an extra session is needed in the double-elimination affair.

Decorative initials are image of printed word

By TRUDITARIO

Times-News writer

BUIH. — Just as tone, pitch and rhythm package the spoken word, the face of type is the image of the printed word.

Often unnoticed by the reader, the style of letters conveys subtle messages about the content of the words. — A good typographer designs a text by composing an arresting visual package of type face, space and perhaps illustration. The style of type face selected must serve legibility while triggering a mood.

Today's printers have an enormous variety of type faces to choose from. One company known world-wide for its selection of rub-on, or transfer, alphabets is London-based Letraset.

A Buhl artist, Gayle Wagner, has sold an alphabet to Letraset and they will offer it for sale in Europe this September and in the U.S. in January.

Wagner's alphabet is a set of decorative initial letters, used principally to mark the beginning of texts or paragraphs. It will be the only initial letter set owned by the firm. Letraset currently stocks four sets of initial letters, all in the public domain. Three styles are from medieval woodcuts, one is an Art Nouveau design.

Wagner's curving, organic letters are interwoven with the flowers of the Sierras. While in her northern California country home she spent hours picking wildflowers, studying and drawing them for an intended nature book.

After moving to Buhl three years ago, she played with the idea of an alphabet that would illustrate each letter with the Sierra wildflower whose name began with that letter.

Remembering the suggestion that she try to sell an alphabet someday, made a decade before by the owner of a graphics-hobby house in Sacramento, Calif., she decided to approach Letraset last August. She was planning a

European trip for the fall, and London would be on the way. She sent a letter requesting an interview with Colin Brignall, Letraset's international type development manager. The meeting with Brignall last September was dramatic, she recalled.

"I took two letters out of my portfolio. He took one look at them and immediately left the room to make copies," she said. "Then he asked if I could come back in one week."

Wagner did and they conferred on possible reproduction difficulties with her fine line drawings. If used in a reduced size, the lines would disappear.

Design modification wasn't the only problem facing the artist when she returned to Buhl. She had only done letters "A" to "H." How would she find a Sierra flower that starts with "I"? She finally settled on an umbrella-type milkweed that she admits "wasn't too great to look at." The Latin name for nightshade provided the key for the illustration.

She submitted the alphabet, modified as requested, to Letraset last December. By June she was informed it had been accepted for sale.

Selling an alphabet to a top graphics company is a worthwhile business, Wagner has discovered. Besides being paid a concept fee in advance, she will receive quarterly royalties on each page of her letters sold. And as Brignall explained, it's not uncommon for a new alphabet to sell 600,000 pages its first year on the market. And every time her alphabet is enlarged or reduced or printed white on black, she earns a royalty.

Such massive good fortune seems to surround Wagner. Although she drew a lot as a child, it wasn't until she had small children of her own that she felt the need to design again. "Stores never have just the right size in castles," she explained.

Wanting to try oil painting, she bought a $4 paint set and rendered a lemon tree. "I didn't like the way it looked when I got home so I stuck Kleenex on it and rubbed soot from the fireplaces on it," she recalled. A friend liked it so much she took it to a frame shop the next day. Another customer admired it and, within 48 hours of her first attempt at oil painting, Wagner was commissioned for two oils.

"But it's not always so easy," she admits.

Wagner's art career has encompassed art direction for a Sacramento TV station and interior design of restaurants, magazine covers, and brochures, training films for the U.S. Army and the Bell System.

While living in Las Vegas, she designed windows for celebrities at the American Stained Glass Studio.

Since moving to Idaho, she's designed menus for the Littleton Inn and a brochure for Echol West, both Twin Falls businesses. Red Caboose has begun marketing tortillas in her package design. She is also designing a Kandy Kori confectionery. The County Tap Wagon Wheel Restaurant in Castletford has recently commissioned a 60-foot mural.

Caecus Pele's in Jackpot will showcase Wagner's oils, pen and ink drawings, and etched glass today through Sunday. Represented will be realistic nature studies in vivid shades, echoing the work of Rousseau and Braque.

She will share the exhibit with Tom Dobrusky of Twin Falls, a potter and sculptor. Dobrusky, a student of Twin Falls potter LaVay Steele and College of Southern Idaho instructor Pat Juppson, is currently conducting a workshop at the Lightworks Gallery in Burley.

Exhibit hours are 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. today and Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

HOW TO REACH ANYONE WHO IS ANYONE—by Michael Levine (Price-Stern-Sloan; $4.95) tells the best ways of getting a letter to J.D. Salinger or Laurence Olivier or Boston pediatric burn specialist, J.F. Burke. Levine supplies names and addresses of 3,200 celebrities, heads of state, politicians, companies, societies—even mass murderers. Home addresses are sometimes given for some "notables," but most listings are in care of agents, publishers, etc.

LAGO by John Lee (Doubleday; $11.95) and WAR STORY by Gordon McGill (Delacorte; $3.95) are gritty, war-end thrillers, set in April, that cruelest month, 1945, when Axis and Allied survivors were battling scores before the long Cold War to come. McGill's British Intelligence chief Robertson sends a squad to Berlin to capture disgraced Nazi General Berger before the Red Army gets to him. Berger knows too much. His counter-intelligence links with Robertson, if known, would destroy the Britisher's Parliament-ry future. In Italy, Lee's American Laundry digs in at Lake Como to catch Mussolini, on the run with 50,000 do-or-die soldiers (well, almost do-or-die). More important, Il Duce carries the spoils of war, the Dongo treasure, worth $30 million. The Communists want the Dongo to finance Italy's postwar Communist Party. A Nazi turncoat needs money for "a 4th Reich (scary, isn't it?). Neither novel is vintage LeCarre, Greene, Deighton. But each is an intoxicating brew recalling days when, like drunken fools, we thought war in our time was ended.

HOW TO PLAN AND BUILD FIREPLACES by the editors of Sunset Books and Magazine (Sunset; $3.95, paperback). Filled with imaginative ideas to warm the hearth, this book is one of the most contemporary in Sunset's catalog. While the explanations of fuses and foundations may take some of the romance out of the flames, they are illuminating. Clear step-by-step, illustrated how-to's for do-it-yourselfers spark interest for the rest of us.
 —BARBARA SALTZMAN

HIGH AND OUTSIDE by Linaea A. Due (Harper & Row $9.95) and WOMEN WHO DRINK by John Lagone and Dolores deNobrega Lagone (Addison-Wesley $10.95). An attractive—teen-age—scholastic achiever writer on the school paper, star pitcher for her softball team—doesn't seem a likely candidate for AA. Inwardly, however, she's tormented, surfacing—after—alcohol-induced blackouts to find incoherent suicide notes in her typewriter; falling deeper into self disgust as things that mean so much slip away, drinking more to dilute the pain. The subject is powerful enough to carry you past Due's uneven prose and self-conscious dialogue. The Lagones offer a clinical view of the female alcoholic; who she is; why she drinks, how she—and those affected by her drinking—can find help. Despite statistics showing half U.S. problem drinkers are women, a strong double standard exists: "The hand that rocks the cradle is not supposed to be shaky from liquor." The Lagones provide practical advice on special referral agencies, facilities, and create an atmosphere of compassion. Both books are recommended.

 —JULIE FRIEDGEN

THE POCKET CAMERA HANDBOOK, THE INSTANT PICTURE HANDBOOK AND THE SINGLE-LENS REFLEX HANDBOOK, all three written by Michael Langford (Knopf; $7.95 each). Perhaps you've opted for the Kodak Ektramat, the simplest of cameras; The Polaroid Land Camera, which eliminates all guesswork and pops a color print into your hand immediately, or a single lens reflex camera with its versatility—of—interchangeable lenses. Each book contains some specific data on the particular camera, but the editorial content is basically the same in each volume. It would have been simpler to combine all three. The illustrated information on how to take better photographs is strictly for the novice.

Reynold's salary is running away

Q: What is the highest daily salary paid to an actor for a motion picture? — H.S. of Haverhill, Mo.

A: Glad you asked that. Right now, it looks like Burt Reynolds holds that honor; his just-completed 20th Century-Fox release "Chaparral Run" (in which he co-stars with Roger Moore) had Burt running away found that she was no longer lecturing. What happened? — G.C. of Evansville, Ind.

A: What happened was loneliness. Aside from the fact that Lana did not particularly enjoy the talk circuit because it made her nervous, she missed Buck having at least one familiar face around her as she turned up at different picture of Richard Burton and were surprised at how young he looked. Has Burton had a face lift? — P.J., Alexandria, Va.

A: Burton will be 55 next November 10, has not gone in for a facial nip and tuck. He has been on the wagon for a long time now, has lost some weight and is enjoying the tranquility of his marriage to wife Susan. The newspaper chit-chat you saw was probably the one connected with Burton's stage return in the musical revival of "Camelot," and it was touched up quite a bit. But even so, Richard in person looks particularly good.

Q: We heard that Jack Nicholson was dating Shelley Duval when they made "The Shining" together. True? M.N., — Boston, Mass.

A: Not true. Shelley was all wrapped up with ex-Bealle Ringo Starr during that film, while Jack was being true to long-time girlfriend Anjelica Huston. Jack and Anjelica are still a twosome, but Shelley has become heavily involved with Stan Wilson, an extra in her most recent movie, "The Edge."

OCCUPATIONAL HAZARD: You may think that reviewing restaurants is an easy job, but there is a hidden danger, as Mimi Siler of the New York Times discovered. Mimi is described as taking an extended leave of absence to lose some 100 pounds she gained while investigating the culinary delights of New York City. It is also discouraging to remember that for every delight a reviewer finds, there is a lot of soggy pasta.

Q: Is Penny Marshall still dating Dan Aykroyd of "The Blues Brothers" fame? — L.W., Wilmington, N.C.

A: Penny no longer dates Dan; they remain close friends. Penny seems heavily involved with actor-singer Art Garfunkel, and Dan is playing the field. He showed up for a promotional appearance for "The Blues Brothers" with not just one, but two young, unidentified lovers in tow.

Q: I've always wondered if movie stars are movie fans as well. T.S., Bethel, Conn.

A: There are stars that have to be dragged to screenings, and others who show up on time right after the lights go out. However, I spotted Henry Ford standing in line just like everyone else at a special "Museum of Modern Art" showing of New Yorker magazine covers. "The Night," "Joni" held the showing as part of a search to find a distributor for the film.

BARE FACTS: The news that 15-year-old Brooke Shields had a stand-in do her nude scenes for "The Blue Lagoon" has been well covered. Not so well known is that Brooke herself, was filmed in the nude herself for "Halle's 15th Film," "Pretty Baby." That footage is kept under lock and key at the insistence of Brooke's mother.

Q: We hear Jayne Kennedy, that beautiful TV sports commentator, has become a "born again" Christian. Is that true? — W.Y., Milwaukee, Wis.

A: While Jayne doesn't consider herself "born again," she and her husband, actor Leon Isaac Kennedy, regard themselves as Bible students. A while ago the Kennedys decided they weren't devoting enough time to religious matters, so they joined Bible study groups — and occasionally participate in proselytizing to round up converts. The pair is among a number of celebrities to go public with their convictions.

Q: We hear James Caan is so frustrated that he intends to quit making movies and get into another business altogether. How correct? — H.V., Sifton, N.J.

A: An actor as hot as Caan would be crazy to give up his career, and Jimmy certainly isn't crazy. That doesn't mean that he's not thinking of taking a year off after the completion of his latest picture, "The Thief." It's his "hire-back-to-back project, and his role as a top-flight professional burglar in trouble with the mob" is a physically demanding one. On top of that, Caan has had some serious tiffs with ex-wife Sheila. So he feels that time off is in order.

Kenny Rogers' partner

Carnes ends losing streak

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —

THANKS to her exposure on a number of television singing programs, the decade-long losing streak has ended for rascally-voiced Kim Carnes.

"I've never had a Top 5 record before," says Carnes, a born-and-raised Southern Californian whose glowing personality and good looks radiate the West's sun-drenched spirit. "I think this time I'm going to do it," Kim says, explaining that her duet with Rogers, "Don't Fall in Love With a Dreamer," has launched her career following 10 years of recording disappointments.

None of her previous albums even made Billboard's Top 200. Her last album, "St. Vincent's Court," was her biggest seller at only 40,000 copies.

"It was very disappointing when you realize an album you've been working hard on isn't going to sell," she says. "It happened to her album after album.

But with the success of "Dreamers," radio stations automatically played her new "Romance Dance" LP, and the single "More Love" has shot up the charts.

"That hit made it easier for 'More Love' to be accepted," she says. "He wanted to be a singer. I've been waiting for that for years. I knew singing the song with Kenny would open doors for me."

The big break came during a post-Grammy party in 1978.

Kim had worked with Rogers in the New Christy Minstrels, a folk group that also included Kim's husband, Dave Ellingson. Kim and her husband have written songs for Frank Sinatra, Barbara Streisand, Anne Murray and Rita Coolidge.

It was at the party, Rogers asked the couple to compose a concept album which became his "Gideon's" LP.

"Kenny was the first person to ever record one of my songs," Kim says. "When he was with the 'First Edition,' he was promoting the album on tour with James Taylor. And as I've got all your albums and I would like to do a song."

Then, a couple of weeks later, Kenny called and said, "Why don't you guys come over to the house?"

"He said he wanted to do something different, he didn't want to do an album with just 10 songs. He wanted to be a character and have a thread run through it, a concept album.

"Kenny asked if we'd like to do it, and, of course, we didn't say no."

Kim says it was Rogers who suggested the theme for the "Gideon" album about a modern-day cowboy. Rogers said he wanted it to include a duet, but he didn't say anything about singing it with Kim.

"It was a last minute decision on his part to invite me to sing 'Dreamer' with him," says Kim, who joined Rogers in Nashville. The duet, was cut on the first take.

"It's amazing," Kim says. "The whole album was finished in four days. I wouldn't have thought it could be done."

With her own country-tinged LP rising on the charts, Kim is busy promoting the album on tour with James Taylor. And as somewhat of a surprise, "Dreamer" is not on her "Romance Dance" album.

"We did it for Kenny," she says. "It's his song." Kim is 33, but looks 10 years younger.

Louise Sorel returns as an independent

By LAWRENCE LAURENT

(© The Washington Post

When last seen in a television series, Louise Sorel was pouring coffee, washing dishes and being the proper, ever-loving wife of Don Rickles. The series didn't last and Louise didn't get another series for eight years.

All that has changed now. She'll be back in September in a CBS series called "Ladies Man," but without the coffee pot, the sudsy dishes or the husband.

She likes it the new way: playing Elaine Holstein, described as the "sophisticated attractive boss" to Lawrence Pressman, the sole male writer on a woman's magazine. "I see myself as a combination of Rosalind Russell and Eve Arden," says Sorel. "My character has wonderful potential. I see myself as wonderful, strong and sexy."

Louise Sorel is one of those Hollywood natives who got into the film-business by leaving home. After she finished Hollywood High School, Sorel went to New York to work in the theater. She stayed for eight years and six Broadway shows before being asked to return to the West Coast. Along the way, she married and divorced actor-comedian Herb Edelman ("The Good Guys").

She's stayed busy, mainly with movies for TV and an occasional guest spot, nearly always being cast as a sultry, dark beauty who threatens to take the hero away from the heroine.

This time, Sorel is determined to work with the writers to help her character. "When things don't work, we'll know it. This will be a situation comedy with quality."

One indication of the show's quality is its placement in the strong CBS Monday night schedule. She'll appear in April and picked up two weeks later for the fall season. "Ladies Man" will be "cradled" between "Flo" and the top-rated "MASH," which gives it a high potential rating.

Ted Bessell's new show is wonderful, but doomed

By JERRY KRUPNICK

Ex-Newsweek editor Ted Bessell, who is probably best remembered as Mario Thomas' boyfriend in "That Girl," has a new situation comedy series.

"It's a wonderful show," Bessell says, but "nobody knows about it." The series is called "Good Time Harry," and the man is right — it's a fast, funny, bright, yet never-wonderful show.

So why doesn't anybody know about it? Why is it NBC's best-kept secret?

Early this past spring, NBC was just wild — about "Good Time Harry." The network's publicists said, "It has 'hit' written all over it, can't miss, sure winner."

But when NBC announced its schedule for the new season this coming fall, there was no "Good Time Harry." In fact, there were no new half-hour situation comedies in all the network's lineup.

What had happened, according to one source, was that NBC had tested the show before an audience and it "tested badly." Just like that.

"Fred Silverman (NBC president) is desperate," Bessell says. "He needs an instant hit, right off the bat. He just can't afford to let a good show build its audience."

So NBC is "burning off" Bessell's series as quickly as possible — as a schedule filler, knowing it to be on Saturday nights opposite "Fantasy Island" with no fanfare, no promotion — nothing.

And that's a pity. Bessell is just right, as a brash, bouncy sportswriter whose activities with the ladies sometimes get in the way of his work. Although he is the nominal star, he has wisely surrounded himself with a glorious cast and the result is ensemble comedy at its best.

Eugene Roche, as his editor, is a fast-talking gem. A huge, mustachioed bartender played by Richard Karron is another bonus, as is Jesse Welles as Bessell's dumb-like-a-fox girlfriend.

The scripts by Steve Gordon have been literate, believable, fresh and, above all, extremely funny.

Yet, according to the Nielsen ratings — "Good Time Harry" is the best card among last week's 60 prime-time shows, with an 18 percent share of Saturday night viewers compared with 32 percent for "Fantasy Island." In other words, forget it.

Bessell feels about the same way. "Look," he says, "I'm not trying to lit up windmills. I want think anything can save this show right now."

"I'm not pitching for a viewer's campaign or anything like that. I've been in this business long enough to know that nothing like trying to lit up windmills. I want somebody to know that this is not a 'failed pilot.' I just think it's terrific television."

"Good Time Harry" has only three hours shows in the can, so if you want to see for yourself, you will have to hurry. It will air again this Saturday, then will be pre-empted on Aug. 9, return on Aug. 16, be pre-empted again on Aug. 23, and finally wind up on Aug. 30.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Thanks to her exposure on a torrid duet with friend Kenny Rogers, the decade-long losing streak has ended for raspy-voiced Kim Carnes.

After she finished Hollywood High School, Sorel went to New York to work in the theater. She stayed for eight years and six Broadway shows before being asked to return to the West Coast. Along the way, she married and divorced actor-comedian Herb Edelman ("The Good Guys").

She's stayed busy, mainly with movies for TV and an occasional guest spot, nearly always being cast as a sultry, dark beauty who threatens to take the hero away from the heroine.

This time out, Sorel is determined to work with the writers to help her character. "When things change, we'll know it. This will be a situation comedy with quality."

One indication of the show's quality is its placement in the strong CBS Monday night schedule. Shot in April and picked up two weeks later for the fall season, "Ladies' Man" will be "cradled" between "Fto" and the top-rated "MASH," which gives it a high potential rating.

Ted Bessell's new show is wonderful, but doomed

By JERRY KRUPNICK Fieldhouse News Service. NEW YORK — Ted Bessell, who is probably best remembered as Mario Thomas' boyfriend in "That Girl," has a new situation comedy series.

"It's a wonderful show," Bessell says, but "nobody knows about it." The series is called "Good Time Harry," and the man is right — it's a fast, funny, bright, yes even "wonderful" show.

So why doesn't anybody know about it? Why is it NBC's best-kept secret?

Early this past spring, NBC was just wild about "Good Time Harry." The network's publicists said, "It has hit" written all over it; can't miss; sure winner."

But when NBC announced its schedule for the new season this coming fall, there was no "Good Time Harry." In fact, there were no new half-hour situation comedies in the network's lineup.

What had happened, according to one source, was that NBC had tested the show before an audience and it "tested badly." Just like that.

"Fred Silverman (NBC president) is desperate," Bessell says. "He needs an instant hit, right off the top. He just can't afford to let a good show build its audience."

So NBC is "burning off" Bessell's series — as quickly as possible as a schedule-filler, throwing it in on Sunday nights here opposite "Fantasy Island" with no fanfare, no promotion — nothing. And that's a pity.

Bessell is just right, as a brash, bouncy sportswriter whose activities with the ladies sometimes get in the way of his work. Although he is the nominal star, he has wisely surrounded himself with a glorious cast and the result is ensemble comedy at its best.

Eugene Roche as his editor is a fast-talking germ. A huge, starched-bird attendant played by Richard Karron is another bonus, as is Jesse Welles as Bessell's dumb-like-a-fox girlfriend.

The scripts by Steve Gordon have been literate, believable, funny and, above all, extremely funny.

Yet, according to the Nielsen ratings, "Good Time Harry" ranked third among last week's 29 prime-time shows with an 18 percent share of Saturday night viewers compared with 32 percent for "Fantasy Island." In other words, forget it.

Bessell feels about the same way. "Look," he says, "I'm not trying to tell at windmills. I don't think anything can save this show right now."

"I'm not pitching for a viewer's campaign or anything like that. I've been in this business long enough to know that nothing like that works. It's just that I want somebody to know that this is not a failed pilot. I just think it's terrific television."

"Good Time Harry" has only three more shows in the can, so if you want to see it for yourself, you will have to hurry. It will air again this Saturday, then will be pre-empted on Aug. 9, return on Aug. 16, be pre-empted again on Aug. 23, and finally wind up on Aug. 30.

HAILEY — Musicians from southern Idaho will team up with recording stars like Vassar Clements for the third annual Northern Rockies Folk Festival Wednesday through Saturday in Hailey.

The four-day event will feature the folk arts, history and music that helped shape the early days of the Wood River Valley.

Traditional swing and folk music will dominate the first concert Wednesday, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Wood River High School auditorium.

Area residents slated for the performance include The Boulder Brothers—Giff—Merrill—Manny Shaw, Al Fidler, Joe Snow and Marilyn Brower and Sylvia Walters.

Folk-revivalists will have their turn Thursday and Friday nights at 8 p.m. in the Hailey City Park. Autoharpist Bryan Bowers and the Live Wire Choir will headline the Thursday concert. Clements and the Desert String Band receive top billing Friday night.

Workshops are slated all three days and Saturday morning, and include a Duck Valley history lesson, deerskin tanning, saddle making, Wood River Junior High School architecture and a field trip to area graveyards.

Both the evening music and daily workshops are free and open to the public. Registrations is suggested for those attending the full workshop schedule. One unit of college credit is available to teachers.

The festival is sponsored by the Institute of the American West and its parent organization, the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities.

The lineup of artists for the Thursday—and Friday—concerts reads like a portion of the play list for the Dallas Dobro radio show on Hailey station KSKJ. Not surprisingly, Dobro recruited many of the performers.

Vassar Clements, a native Floridian, has played or recorded with such diverse artists as the Grateful Dead, Emmy Lou Harris, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and the Allman Brothers. He prefers bluegrass, the music he started with back in the 1940s.

Bryan Bowers spent his childhood in Virginia, where he worked in the fields and thought music was "just something everyone did." Some critics describe him as the best autoharpist that ever lived.

The Live Wire Choir, with members from Missoula, Mont., and Lake Tahoe, Calif., plays a combination of western swing and traditional Scottish—and Irish music. The group is presently at work on its second album.

Shelley Clark, of Jackson Hole, Wyo., was the 1976 ladies national champion fiddle player at Weiser's Old Time Fiddle Contest. She plays with Kelly Rubrecht, who backed up her performance at Weiser. Clark is a seasonal employee for the U.S. Forest Service and Rubrecht conducts fish studies for Grande Teton National Park.

Workshop participants scheduled for the festival possess equally diverse talents and experience. Workshops, except as noted, will be at Hailey Elementary School.

Arthur Hart, director of the Idaho Historical Society, is an expert on the architectural and material culture history of Idaho. He will give a slide lecture Friday on the architecture of the Wood River Valley.

Rupert Moore worked at the Triumph Mine northeast of Hailey for 20 years. His knowledge of mining techniques will be presented Thursday afternoon.

The history of the Big Duck Valley Indian Reservation of the Idaho-Nevada border will be presented in historical photos and workshops throughout the day Wednesday.

The photo exhibit was collected and identified by the tribal historian with a grant from the Institute of the American West. It will become a permanent part of the historical records at Duck Valley.

To register or receive additional information about the festival, contact the center at 632-9373.

Modern aircraft in old-fashion battle

"The Final Countdown." Kirk Douglas, Martin Sheen and James Farentino aboard the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Nimitz just in time to save off the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. Interesting naval fantasy, rather conventionally realized. Rated "PG."

Three stars. "Wouldn't it be nice if we could fight World War II all over again, but this time with our present-day military technology? The enemy, of course, would be stuck with 1940-vintage weapons."

This is the intriguing premise of "The Final Countdown," which pits the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS Nimitz against a full complement of jet planes — 8 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho against the Japanese fleet headed for Pearl Harbor on Dec. 6, 1941. Responsible for the uneven confrontation is the same handy time warp that matched H.G. Wells against Jack the Ripper in present-day San Francisco in "Time After Time."

Commanding the Nimitz is doughty old Kirk Douglas, whose son Peter, by a strange coincidence, produced the film. On its shakedown cruise the mighty Nimitz (the length of four football fields) heads into an electrical storm so violent that the vessel is plunged plumb back into 1941.

President Roosevelt, Jack Benny and Amos and Andy are heard on the ship's radio, and out at sea is a yacht bearing bluff, patchy Sen. Samuel Chapman (Charles Durning), who hopes to be FDR's running mate in the 1944 election, and his sexy side Laurel (Katharine Ross).

On board the Nimitz are Martin Sheen as a civilian systems analyst for the Defense Department and James Farentino as commander of the carrier's air group.

Nobody likes an efficiency expert snooping about, least of all Farentino, who has been writing a mysterious history of the Pacific war that Sheen has been pecking at.

When the Nimitz suddenly finds itself in a position to stave off the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, all sorts of metaphysical dilemmas arise. Can one interfere with the course of history? Should one? Farentino wants to keep hands off; after all, what will happen to his book if there is no Pacific war?

One trouble with "The Final Countdown" is that it degenerates into melodrama when Durning and Ross are rescued after their yacht is sunk by Japanese fighters and Durning, rather absurd in a blue terry cloth bathrobe the size of a circus tent, keeps demanding his rights as a U.S. senator.

Indeed, the human situations aboard the Nimitz tend to be stiff and stogy — much less interesting than the shots of Tomcats, Corsairs, Intruders and Prowlers taking off and landing on the ship's flight deck.

But these are sufficiently awesome to take your mind off the feeble melodramatics of "The Final Countdown" and focus it on the possibilities of unilateral military power — a popular fantasy these days in troubled America.

One producer does how pull

HOLLYWOOD — Stanley Jaffe, the Academy Award-winning producer of "Kramer vs. Kramer," is moving his base of operations from Columbia Pictures to 20th Century-Fox. This after Columbia decided it didn't want to go forward with two of Jaffe's projects.

Many people in Hollywood call themselves producers and even succeed in producing a few movies. But few have any real clout.

There are exceptions, and Jaffe, who has held executive posts at Paramount and Columbia as well as produced "Bad News Bears" and "Goodbye, Columbus," is one.

His first films for Fox will be "Taps," a drama about a student inactivity at a state university, and a psychological thriller, "In a Lonely Place."

SLEUTHS IN JEANS

NANCY DREW, AT 50, IS STILL THE TOP BUBBLE GUMSHOE
Nancy Drew, girl detective, has fired up the imaginations of young people for half a century. Now FAMILY WEEKLY will tell you how she has fared during America's most dramatic cultural revolution in its history. Nancy, with her cohorts, Sherlock and George, have solved more mysteries than Basil and Holmes. Her creator, Harriet Adams (under the name, Carolyn Keene), has guided Nancy through the turbulence, never touching basic values even though the dress has given way to the tight world of jeans. This week, meet the queen at the roundest table since Camelot.
