

Bishop Sylvester Treinen prepares to celebrate weekend mass at St. Edward's Church in Twin Falls.

Ordination

Idaho bishop sees no change in policy of Catholic church

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Bishop Sylvester Treinen of the Catholic Diocese of Idaho says the church's move to ordain Episcopalians is not a change in Catholic policy.

He said the Vatican has just approved accepting the Episcopalians into the Catholic Church even though many are married and Catholic priests are not permitted to marry.

"There is some misunderstanding about the move," Bishop Treinen said. "First of all, we did not go to the Episcopalians and ask them to join our church. They came to us, apparently through some disappointment with their own situation. We have tried to accommodate them."

"Although all details have not yet been worked out, the Catholic Church would not plan to assign the married former Episcopal priests to major positions. For example, we would not assign one to the church here in Twin Falls," Bishop Treinen said.

He said the Episcopalians priests turned Catholic would be working in city areas where large numbers of Episcopalians laymen members have also joined the Catholic congregations.

"These priests have been living in the family style and certainly will continue to do so, but our church would in now way be opening the door to marriage for Catholic priests," he explained.

The Catholic leader said the Episcopalians have ordained women as priests and some have said this is why male priests are leaving that church to become Catholics but he said he does not know this to be true. As for women Catholic priests, the Idaho bishop said, "not in the Catholic Church at this time, and probably never in the future."

Bishop Treinen celebrated a mass in Twin Falls Saturday night and three masses Sunday at St. Edward's Catholic Church.

He said he has seen a major increase in church membership in Idaho and feels there is a strong religious spirit now present in the country.

A bishop in Idaho for 18 years, he estimates his church has increased by about 15,000 members in that time. There are now about 80,000 active members and with the Hispanic population, frequently a migrant one, this is probably closer to 90,000, he said. He said Idaho now has 105 active practicing priests and another 10 or so retired. Currently there are 18 young men studying for the priesthood.

Idaho, he said, has no shortage of priests, although some areas around the country are finding it difficult to provide enough priests for the size of the memberships.

"We saw a trend away from religion in the '60s, with a gradual upswing in the '70s. "I am greatly encouraged by the growing religious spirit among the people," he said. "I feel a great growth and interest in prayer and formal religion," he said.

Bishop Treinen said religion can help foster world peace if given a chance, but he added, "it is difficult to reach people who will not listen as is the case with many Communist nations."

Promises, party purge in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Communist Party Central Committee Sunday ousted Premier Edward Gierek and 10 other top officials.

It promised sweeping labor reforms in an effort to end crippling strikes by more than 200,000 workers.

"We are making basic shifts in party and government policy," said Communist Party leader Edward Gierek, whose authority was diminished by the sweeping actions, the most extensive in 10 years.

Eleven major posts were affected by decisions announced almost simultaneously by the Central Committee and the State Council.

The purge of officials held responsible for the current economic and labor chaos was the most wide-ranging shakeup since the late Wladyslaw Gomułka was ousted in 1970, and one of the most extensive in the history of socialist Poland.

Gierek announced Poland's union government, the focus of discontent in the 10-day-old strikes by more than 200,000 workers along the Baltic Coast, would be drastically altered.

He said there would be secret-ballot elections with an unlimited number of candidates to a new trade union council.

In Gdansk, center of the unrest, strike leaders did not respond enthusiastically to the changes.

"It's a patching-up of holes," strike leader Lech Walesa said. "We want something new."

Anna Walentynowicz, another leading figure on the joint strike committee, the group that carries the most influence among the Baltic Coast strikers, said, "We have to continue our struggle. ... My satisfaction is moderate. An unlimited number of Bogdan's is, a third member of the strikers' 19-member presidium, reacted more optimistically, saying "There is a small chance that we will reach an agreement" as a result of the Central Committee's actions.

Among those ousted was politician member Jan Szydka, the hard-line member of central council of trade unions who three days earlier told strikers in the Gdansk's Lenin Shipyard "the authorities do not intend to give up their power nor to share it with anyone else."

Jerry Lukaszewicz, the top party ideologist, also was removed from the pollbook by the vote of the central committee's plenary session.

And pollbook member Tadeusz Wrzasczyk was ousted from the 14-man ruling panel, along with two candidate members.

All of the officials discredited by the party immediately resigned their government posts.

Gierek appeared on national television right after the announcements, telling Poles that the 140-man central committee had acted "to remove the cause of discontent" in the nation.

"Our party wants to honestly correct its policy," he said.

Television also aired a speech by Gierek to the central committee members, who sat at long tables listening as the party leader spoke from a rostrum beneath a large picture of Vladimir Lenin.

In an obvious bid to win approval from strikers who have crippled Poland's industrial output since the Gdansk strikes began Aug. 14, Gierek said, "we are ready to talk with workers' representatives ... but we cannot agree to (workers) postulates striking at the basis of the state's existence."

War computer net faults 'serious'

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — The main computer network that would signal a nuclear attack on the United States has serious flaws according to the system's former chief tester, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The system misused twice in June and erroneously signaled a Soviet nuclear attack on the U.S. The errors put the nation's defense forces on full alert for three minutes and drew attention to criticisms of the system by some officials. Defense Department officials, however, played down the cross-ups and said they quickly were identified and caused no serious consequences.

But John H. Bradley, a former Defense Department computer testing specialist, told the Virginian-Pilot that the recent malfunctions supported his earlier conclusions that the system was faulty. The newspaper said he issued warnings as early as 1973 that the network was faulty.

He was the network's chief tester between 1972 and 1974.

Bradley was fired in 1977. He maintains he was fired because he wouldn't keep silent about the system's faults and is pursuing a $3.5 million lawsuit against his former boss.

In one test of the network, Bradley said, "Just about everything that was essential to the functioning of the system broke down."

The system was poorly conceived and pressed into service despite problems that Bradley, IBM, Rand Corp. and other defense consultants found, the Virginian-Pilot quoted Bradley as saying.

The computer system ties together the nation's nuclear arsenal through a worldwide chain of 35 computers at 27 key military installations. Officials have said it is one of the most complicated systems ever built, and only the Soviets are believed to have anything to match it.

Bradley, 56, of Bethesda, Md., was unsuccessful with his suit in a lower federal court, but the case is under appeal in the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond.

Report endorses tax cuts for U.S.

Economic cures too little, too late

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government, in trying to cure America's economic ills, often has relied on ineffective remedies for ailments like the current recession or administered the medicine too late, Congress' Joint Economic Committee said Sunday.

In its 1980 midyear report, the committee said Congress should concentrate economic recovery efforts on tax cuts to generate sustained economic growth and encourage increased productivity.

"After a careful analysis of past economic slumps, the committee is convinced that government responses too often have been too late and too ineffective to influence recessions," said Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, committee chairman.

Bentsen said the report contains a "special message" when the economy enters a recession, Congress should focus on programs to "enhance the quality of the recovery" by creating new jobs and putting more goods on the shelves.

The report, which recommends long-term investment in new plants and equipment, was based on a study of six recessions over the past 35 years, Bentsen said.

It advocates tax cuts to boost productivity, an approach it said could reduce inflationary pressures and create jobs for the long run.

Half of the next tax cut should be aimed at increasing productivity, with the balance going to individuals "to stimulate work, saving and investment," it said.

The panel's general tax proposal is consistent with some aspects of the $29 billion tax cut bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee last week.

But the report says tax cuts should be paired with "systematic and vigorous efforts to reduce or eliminate unnecessary and wasteful government spending."

And, it adds, public and private job-training programs should be designed to stress skills most likely to be needed in the private sector.

"Income maintenance programs such as unemployment compensation and trade adjustment assistance ... should also be reconstructed, where possible, to train and retrain workers in skills which are likely to be needed in the next decade," the report said.

Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, ranking Republican on the committee, urged "prompt congressional action on tax cuts" to help increase savings and investment.

"Excessive taxes are the bane of the economy," he said.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said he supports the findings of the report, but also renewed his call for wage and price controls.

Kennedy said the only way to stop the present inflation is through "a temporary program of across-the-board controls on prices, wages, profits, dividends and rents."

That's a lotta tomato

EATONTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — The state's fattest, sweetest tomato comes from the New Jersey shore, Ups the scale at over four pounds and is worth $1,000.

Bill Kraus' 4.624-pound entry took the Third Annual Championship Tomato Weigh-in Saturday, winning the admiration of farmers who pride themselves on the growing the juiciest and most tempting tomatoes in the nation.

For his efforts, Kraus got $1,000.

The Ocean Grove garden glory, however, failed to come close to the world record, held by Clarence Dalley of Monona, Wis., whose mammoth tomato tipped the scale at 6 1/2 pounds in 1978, the Guinness Book of World Records says.

New energy lending agency in works

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The World Bank said Sunday it is exploring the possibility of forming a new international lending agency to help developing countries increase their domestic energy production.

In a report on "Energy in Developing Countries," the bank said these nations will spend $50 billion to import oil this year. And, unless their domestic production grows faster than in recent years, the figure will rise to $110 billion in 1990 — not usually find enough fuelwood near their homes," the report said, "many must now search for it half a day's walk or more away."

As wood runs low, more people burn crop residues and animal dung which otherwise would restore the soil for agriculture.

Some developing nations spend more than half their foreign exchange earnings to import oil, bank officials said — earnings they need for economic development and the reduction

By increasing domestic energy production as much as possible and by vigorous conservation, the bank estimates developing countries could cut their oil import bill in 1990 by $25 billion to $30 billion, measured in 1980 dollars.

World Bank President Robert McNamara said the bank plans to lend $13 billion over the next five years.

Police expert checks for explosive material after bomb damaged Israeli filling station

Dogfight, bombings make noisy Sunday in Mideast

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israeli warplanes on a "routine patrol" over southern Lebanon Sunday shot down a Syrian Soviet-made MiG-21 fighter jet in the first dogfight in nearly a year, the military command said.

Syria claimed one Israeli plane was hit but Israeli military officials denied the report. The command, which said the Syrian plane had tried to intercept the Israeli jet, reported all Israeli planes "returned safely."

Hours earlier, a bomb planted by Palestinian guerrillas exploded at a gas station just off the main Tel Aviv-Jerusalem highway, killing one person and wounding 12 others, including seven European tourists who were treated for minor injuries and released.

Another bomb exploded three hours earlier at a soldiers' hitchhiking station at the entrance to Jerusalem, causing minor damage but no casualties. The Palestinian news agency Wafa said Palestinian guerrillas also claimed responsibility for that explosion.

Overnight reports from Lebanon said Israeli and Lebanese Christian militia long-range guns pounded a cluster of Palestinian-controlled villages in the south, especially around Nabatiyeh. Palestinian guerrilla leaders warned continued Israeli attacks could trigger another Middle East war.

Soviet sub towed home

TOKYO (UPI) — With official Japanese permission, a crippled Soviet submarine believed to have been on a spy mission was towed toward its home port Sunday, under close surveillance of U.S. and Japanese reconnaissance planes.

The main stumbling block to the nuclear-powered submarine's passage through Japanese territorial waters was removed after Moscow assured Tokyo that the fire-guzzled Echo-1 was not carrying nuclear weapons and there was no nuclear leakage from the vessel's reactors.

The submarine was gutted by fire Thursday in the East China Sea, 96 miles east of Okinawa.

Home fire takes 6 lives

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (UPI) — A man and five of his young daughters were killed Sunday in an early morning fire that trapped them on the second floor of their home, which neighbors termed a "firetrap."

Two other daughters, one of them seven months pregnant, escaped the blaze, which fire officials said was caused by a faulty appliance cord. The fire caused the home's roof to collapse, trapping the victims inside, officials in the south Chicago suburb said.

Tanker's future uncertain

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Damage to a tanker that rammed into an unmanned oil platform in the Gulf of Mexico last week was "extensive," a Texaco spokesman said Sunday, but the company has not decided what to do with the ship.

Fireboats continued spraying the Texaco North Dakota with saltwater to cool the vessel's hull and officials aboard a slater ship anchored alongside, the Texas Florida, looked at underwater film taken of damaged portions of the ship.

Spokesman Max Hebert said the North Dakota was not taking on water and a decision on what to do with it and what was left of its cargo would not be rushed.

Train derailment kills 9

UPPLANDS-VASBY, Sweden (UPI) — A crowded passenger train carrying hikers back from vacation in Norway derailed Sunday near Stockholm, killing nine people and injuring 35 others, police said.

Rescue workers were forced to use blow torches to cut through the wreckage of the 13-car train in the third accident of the summer involving a Swedish Rail train.

Sea-to-sea canal OK'd

JERUSALEM — The Israeli cabinet Sunday approved in principle a plan to construct a 61-mile-long canal from the Mediterranean Sea to the Dead Sea to provide hydroelectric power and raise the level of the Dead Sea.

The canal, whose $700 million cost would be financed by foreign investment, is tentatively charted to cut through the occupied Gaza Strip. But Israeli planners have devised an alternate route to be used if "political considerations" arising from a negotiated settlement of the Gaza Strip's status bar the original plan. The alternate route would add about $60 million to the project.

Actors, producers talk

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — As the actors strike entered its sixth week, producers and actors resumed negotiations Sunday in an effort to resolve the dispute that has crippled the film industry and forced the three major television networks to cancel new fall programming.

Kim Feller, a spokeswoman for the Screen Actors Guild, declined to comment on details of the negotiations, but predicted it would be "a fairly long process."

The key issue is the actors' demand for 8 percent of the gross profits from home video cassettes and discs and pay TV, beginning with the first profits reaped from the new markets.

Keeping secrets top worry at trial of ex-FBI officials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has proposed an unusual procedure to protect national security secrets at the trial of two former top-ranking FBI officials charged with approving illegal break-ins in the early 1970s, sources say.

Defense lawyers for former FBI chiefs W. Mark Felt and Edward S. Miller — whose trial has been postponed nine times due to problems over protecting classified information — argue the procedure would be unconstitutional.

Felt is a native of Twin Falls. But the Justice Department's hopes of prosecuting the two lieutenants to former acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray could hinge on whether a federal judge approves its proposed protective order.

Under the proposal, defense lawyers would be required to advise U.S. District Judge William Bryant whenever they plan to ask a witness a question that could elicit disclosure of certain intelligence information.

The judge then would decide whether to bar the question on national security grounds from the trial.

Bryant, chief judge for the U.S. District Court here, has yet to act on the order, but scheduled another decision hearing on the issue for Monday.

Gray, Felt, the bureau's former No. 2 man, and Miller, its former intelligence chief, were indicted in 1978 on conspiracy charges alleging they approved illegal break-ins, wiretaps and mail-openings in a hunt for fugitive members of the radical Weather Underground in the early 1970s. The cases against all three men, have dragged on for nearly 2 1/2 years.

Bryant agreed to sever the case against Gray from the charges against his aides because their defenses were different. Gray contended he never approved the break-ins while Felt and Miller argued the surveillance activities were legal.

Gray's trial has been delayed indefinitely. The Felt-Miller case, knotted in behind-the-scenes legal battles over which evidence may be disclosed at trial, most recently was scheduled to begin Aug. 18 but now also has been delayed indefinitely.

Sources say prosecutors presented the proposed order to Bryant last Tuesday.

Ozone slows cancer, tests show

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Researchers at the Washington University Medical School have discovered that ozone — a common air pollutant — inhibits the growth of cancer cells.

In a report in the Aug. 22 issue of Science magazine, the scientists said the growth of a variety of cancer cells was slowed when they were continuously exposed to ozone.

Frederick Sweet, a biochemist who led the research effort, said more tests will have to be performed before the potential value of the findings for humans is known.

"Its effects may not go too deeply and that could limit its usefulness," Sweet said. "But that's what we'll have to find out. In any case, the work shows another difference between normal and cancer cells. It shows another weakness in the defense mechanism of cancer cells."

Ozone is a form of oxygen made by electrical sparks, such as lightning, or by ultraviolet light reacting with air or gases containing oxygen.

In their report, the scientists said they built a special chamber for exposing cell cultures to air pollutants.

"Originally, we were just trying to organize a system to test the health effects of pollutants," Sweet said. "We started with ozone because it is easy to generate. Then we decided to see what would happen to cancer cells and discovered this dramatic growth retardation."

Testing cells from lung, breast, uterine and other types of cancer, the researchers found that ozone levels of 0.3 to 0.5 parts per million of air inhibited growth rates by 40 percent in eight days.

At the same levels, there was no growth inhibition in non-cancerous cells, the report said.

Kennedy, Carter to confer on economic renewal plan

By United Press International

A private meeting at the White House today could determine how enthusiastically Sen. Edward Kennedy and his followers work for the re-election of President Carter.

Carter is expected to give his one-time rival an advance look at the long-heralded economic revitalization program he is due to unveil this week.

Kennedy has made it clear the strength of his campaign effort will depend largely on Carter's economic policies, particularly in the area of easing unemployment with a new jobs program.

Republican vice presidential nominee George Bush flew from Honolulu to the West Coast Sunday, on the last leg of his controversial trip to China.

Bush and Ronald Reagan have scheduled a news conference today in Los Angeles, and are certain to be questioned on the outcome of that trip, which Chinese leaders have proclaimed a failure.

Bush went to Peking to reassure the Chinese that Reagan's hope for improving U.S. ties with Taiwan do not represent any move back toward full recognition of the Republic of China or establishment of a "two-China" policy.

JACK WATSON rap's policy change

But Reagan's continued talk of normalizing U.S. relations with Taiwan or, at least, establishing an official liaison office, provoked the New China News Agency into saying that anyone who thinks China will accede to the Reagan plan is "daydreaming."

White House chief of staff Jack Watson said in a television interview

Sunday that Reagan's proposal for re-establishing official relations with Taiwan "reverses the whole trend" of U.S. policy.

Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," he said, "The problem created by the reopening of this issue (Taiwan), which has long been settled, are serious."

Independent candidate John Anderson was back in Washington Sunday, apparently preparing to announce his choice of a running mate within the next few days. It has been widely reported his vice presidential candidate will be former Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, but neither Anderson nor Lucey have confirmed that.

Libertarian Party candidate Ed Clark told interviewers on ABC's "Issues and Answers" Sunday the United States should phase out its foreign alliances and spend its money "only to defend the United States."

Asked if that would not lead to isolationism and a power vacuum the Russians would fill, Clark said no. "There are limits to Russian expansionism, and they are reaching those limits now."

He said two-thirds of U.S. military expenditures are spent defending West Europe and Japan, which are capable of their own defense.

Wexford estate in Virginia becomes temporary home for Ronald, Nancy Reagan

Reagans occupy Virginia hideaway built for JFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan and his wife, Nancy, will set up housekeeping near the nation's capital this week.

They will move into a residence built as a hideaway for President John F. Kennedy.

The Virginia hunt country estate, known as "Wexford," is located about 45 miles west of Washington in the Blue Ridge Mountains near Middleburg, Va.

The Reagans, who are leaving the four-bedroom home from Texas Gov. William P. Clements, will begin setting up in Thursday. The Republican presidential candidate decided to move from California after shifting his campaign headquarters to Alexandria, Va., a Washington suburb.

Aides said Reagan, who intends to campaign extensively in the East, would save substantial travel time by avoiding frequent flights back home to Los Angeles.

The 46-acre estate is near Atoka Farm, the home of Sen. John Warner, R-Va., and his wife, Elizabeth Taylor.

The house was built by Kennedy as a weekend retreat, but he reportedly stayed there only once or twice before he was assassinated in 1963.

The one-story structure overlooks the Shenandoah Valley from its location on Rattlesnake Mountain and comes complete with a tennis court, stables, a guest house and swimming pool.

"The pool is almost S-shaped and sort of tropical looking with a rock garden around it," a Reagan aide said. "It has a diving board and there is a bar by the pool."

The estate, which originally included a bomb shelter under the stables for the president, passed through several hands after being sold by Jacqueline Kennedy.

Clements purchased it in 1975 while serving in the Ford administration.

Clements agreed last month to lease it to Reagan for an undisclosed sum and for an "open-ended" period of time, expected to be at least the duration of the campaign.

Swindler returns to Abscam stand

NEW YORK (UPI) — A convicted swindler who tells "as much of the truth as possible" resumes his testimony Monday in the Abscam bribery trial that could send four politically powerful men to prison.

Melvin Weinberg, the prosecution's star witness in the trial being held in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, was the architect of the FBI's corruption probe that became known as Abscam, for Arab scam.

The four defendants are accused, on the basis of secretly recorded tapes, of accepting $50,000 in bribes after promising a bill would be introduced in Congress to help a phony Arab sheik enter the country.

Judge rules today on Brilab motions

HOUSTON (UPI) — A federal judge plans to rule today on more than 40 motions filed by attorneys for Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton and others charged in the FBI's Brilab undercover operation.

U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor, however, seemed unlikely to dismiss any of the charges against Clayton and his co-defendants, labor leader

L.G. Moore, and Austin attorneys Randall Wood and Donald Ray.

The judge Friday refused to dismiss the charges on defense motions alleging a lack of federal jurisdiction in the complex case and a pattern of government misconduct.

Start debates early, Carter tells sponsor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter wants to get an early start on his series of debates with Ronald Reagan, preferably before the Sept. 18 date proposed by the League of Women Voters, White House chief of staff Jack Watson said Sunday.

Watson also said Carter wants at least the first debate to be a two-man confrontation between just himself and the Republican nominee — excluding independent candidate John Anderson.

"There ought to be as many debates as possible — sooner rather than later and they ought to be drawn sharply to show the contrasts between the two men and the parties," the presidential aide said on CBS' "Face the Nation."

"We would prefer the debates to begin earlier. We think they're terribly important. They're the best means by which the American people can judge directly, without any interpretation, what the two men's positions are."

Watson confirmed Carter's willingness to debate any other candidate with "a theoretical chance" of being elected — including Anderson — but said Carter wants the first debate to be just between himself and Reagan.

Watson denied reports that the Carter campaign is angry with the League of Women Voters for planning to include Anderson in all the debates, but said the League "does not have any franchise on presidential debates."

The campaign is negotiating with other organizations that have offered to sponsor earlier one-on-one confrontations, he confirmed.

The League of Women Voters has announced plans for debates in Baltimore Sept. 18, and in Portland, Ore., and Cleveland in October, and has said Anderson's appearance depends on whether he achieves a 15 percent backing in national polls by Sept. 10.

The Baltimore Sun reported Sunday that presidential aides are balking at holding the Baltimore debate if Anderson is included. It quoted a Carter campaign official as saying prospects for that debate have dwindled to "50-50 at best."

They said it couldn't be done

How much would get accomplished if everybody listened to the experts and the accepted facts?

Probably not much. The story of Eric Norquest reaffirms this adage. He went out and did what they said couldn't be done.

The Idaho inventor has developed a new kind of hydropower turbine, which can almost be said simply to lie in the water and generate pumping power or electricity.

The device was built and installed recently in an irrigation ditch on a farm south of Nampa. It can generate power from what are trickles of water compared to the giant dams and even smaller, low-head dams.

It needs very little drop of the streambed, irrigation ditch or canal and no impoundment or reservoir.

In its first field test, the turbine proved Norquest's theories, calculations and design. Engineer Carl Myers said everything happened as Norquest had predicted.

This was contrary to the pronouncements of U.S. Department of Energy officials, who have turned down Norquest's application for funds needed to research and develop further his remarkable invention.

The officials, sitting behind desks and reaching for the textbooks on hydraulic engineering, said the Idahoan's idea would not work. They said he could not adequately direct such small flows and forces of water and that the water wheel would easily flood and stall.

Although only 15 inches across and built from spare parts and sheet metal, the specially designed "water wheel" could not be held still by a person with his hands, Myers said. Even when allowed to "run away," by removing the load, the device did not flood.

Hooked to a pump, it generated two-tenths of a horsepower from only a 10-inch head of water and two second-feet of flow. It can be built to any size but is particularly valuable for small power sources. Nothing like it exists.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission sponsored a briefing for the press last week at which Norquest and a team that put together the scale model answered questions and showed a videotape of the working model.

Commissioner Perry Swisher noted it offers the chance to produce power at innumerable places in the state.

Norquest needs a year or two more of laboratory work and full-scale testing to refine his device. He has spent three years so far.

Since running into the narrowness and blindness of the energy establishment, the self-taught engineer believes ranchers and farmers will bring about the future development of his ultra-low-head turbine.

Despite the efforts and endorsement of the IPUC and Senator Frank Church, officialdom and the utilities have refused to recognize what Norquest has invented.

Farmers, irrigation districts and canal companies should investigate the Norquest turbine. They know that such a product could reduce their costs and make them more energy self-sufficient.

The 'in' place to be

Los Angeles Times Syndicate

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — There are certain people who, when they go on vacation, are never sure they're at the right place. It isn't a question of the facilities as much as whether it's the acceptable resort of the moment.

The "in" island at the present is Martha's Vineyard. Those of us who have been coming here over the years never planned it that way. As a matter of fact, many people fall in love with the island because it wasn't "in." We sailed, fished, clammed, and tended our lobster pots oblivious to the goings-on in such Gucci-floored places as Southampton, East Hampton, Newport, Bar Harbor, and Malibu.

How did this all change? It dates back three years ago when a violent storm blew up off Cape Cod. A ship was sunk and a lot of passengers, a reporter from Women's Wear Daily, was thrown up on the beach of Edgartown wet, bedraggled and exhausted.

She was washed up on a private beach and at first the owner wanted to call the police and have her arrested. But when he saw her condition he carried her up to the house where he decided to nurse her back to health before he pressed charges.

In a few days the WWD reporter was fit and her only problem was that she faced a deadline and had to phone a story into her paper by six o'clock.

Desperate for anything, she decided to write a piece about Martha's Vineyard, declaring that it was the new resort for the nouveau beautiful people.

The following week the beautiful people all over America were in a panic. No one had heard of the Vineyard or the people who spent their summers there, such as Walter Cronkite, Beverly Sills, Katherine Graham, Carly Simon, Lillian Hellman, James Reston, Mike Wallace, Bill Styron, Garson Kanin and Ruth Gordon. But since the reporter put their names in the story, everyone assumed they were important.

WWD, who can make or ruin a person's summer vacation, declared that the Hamptons were finished and Newport was ready for urban redevelopment.

Then John Belushi, of "Saturday Night Live" and Animal House, and the person whom the beautiful people look to to set trends, purchased Robert McNamara's house. When Jackie Onassis heard Belushi had bought a place, she had no choice but to buy one of her own, to be near him.

In no time at all Martha's Vineyard became a household name and the "only" place to be in the summer. The National Enquirer, Town and Country, Harper's Bazaar, Vogue and People magazine all sent reporters to the island to keep the legend alive. It would be only a matter of time before the paperback publishers would discover the place.

They did this summer when Stan Hart, a local resident, wrote a book for Dell titled "The Martha's Vineyard Affair." The copy on the cover displaying a nude man and woman clinched our reputation for us. I read "Scotch got them through the day... sex got them through the night... and money got them through every jam until... The Martha's Vineyard Affair. An island paradise where anything can happen—even murder."

I am happy to report that, in spite of all the attention, those of us who have been coming here before Women's Wear Daily's simple people were always here. Of course there is a lot more drinking and promiscuity, but we only do it when the tourists are in town.

We'd much rather go back to clammimg and sailing than drinking and fornicating, but we have to think about real estate values first.

Unlamented anniversary

Universal Press Syndicate

WASHINGTON — A few days ago an remarkable anniversary went widely unobserved: Two years have now passed since Congress sent out to the states the proposed "D.C. Amendment" to the Constitution. They have been two years of conspicuous ennui.

The amendment, to refresh your recollection, would treat the District of Columbia "as though it were a state" for certain purposes. Residents of Washington would be entitled to vote for two members of the United States Senate and one member of the House. When future constitutional amendments came along, the city would be treated "as though it were a state" for purposes of ratification.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, an opponent of the amendment, has summed up the arguments in its favor. Writing in the "Northern Urban Law Journal," he stated the proponents' case:

"It is a matter of fundamental injustice to deny the right of representation in Congress to the people who must be taxed by Congress, abide by the laws promulgated by Congress, and fight the wars engaged in by Congress. Compounding this injustice is the fact that a high percentage of the District of Columbia residents are members of a racial minority that, for so many years, has been denied political and civil rights in other respects."

That is a fair sales pitch for the proposition. Almost no one has bought it. Three states ratified in 1978; New Jersey, Michigan and Ohio. Four more ratified in 1979: Massachusetts, Minnesota, Connecticut and Wisconsin. Two states have ratified this year—Hawaii and Maryland.

That's the crop — nine states, far short of the 38 required to write this amendment into the Constitution. That is only part of the story. In four states — Idaho, New Mexico, South Dakota and Nebraska — the legislatures have not merely voted the amendment down; they have positively adopted resolutions of positive disapproval. The California Senate three times have given it the brush-off. A dozen other states have let the proposition die in committee. Virginia is "studying" it. South Carolina has postponed action "indefinitely."

Proponents of the amendment, viewing the bleak prospects, have cried "racism." The charge is baseless. Objections to this regrettable proposition in its part political, which is nothing unusual, and in part constitutional.

Politically, the effect of the amendment would be to give the city of Washington two Democratic liberals in the U.S. Senate. That proposition derives from such facts of record as the District's vote for McGovern in 1972, and from the seven-to-one registration of Democrats over Republicans. It is understandable that such a prospect scarcely gladdens the hearts of Republicans anywhere. In a closely divided chamber of 100 members, two votes carry disproportionate weight.

The constitutional objections transcend partisanship. As Senator Hatch observed, the amendment would create a "hybrid entity," unknown to our constitutional structure. The District of Columbia would not be a state; it would remain subject to the exclusive legislative authority of Congress "in all cases whatsoever." It would be a kind of quasi-state, with the city's 13-member City Council functioning as a kind of state legislature. The prospect undermines the bedrock principle of federalism entrenched in the 10th Amendment. The whole idea of treating a city "as though it were a state" is quite simply a bad idea.

Yes, the charge of injustice sticks. Residents of Washington are indeed denied a fundamental right of citizenship—the right of representation in Congress. But the solution lies not with this misguided amendment, but with an act of Congress ending most of the District back to Maryland whence it came. Such an act would convert the disfranchised Washingtonians into citizens of Maryland; with all the civil rights pertaining thereto. Or Congress, by statute, could admit the District to the Union as a full-fledged state. But the D. C. Amendment, as two years have demonstrated, is never going to fly.

Critical year

Editor, Times-News:

The year 1980 is very likely to be the most critical in our nation's history.

If the people en masse do not wake up and inform themselves as to what is going on in our government, we may lose our freedom and soon.

Reagan has several Trilateralists in his entourage, including his running mate Bush. Of course, Bush demitted this spring so he could deny being a member of the Trilateral Commission, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Institute for Pacific Relations, to name a few, have honorable objectives; then why don't they come public and state them?

If the American people would take the trouble to find out what these treacherous groups are up to there would be a house cleaning in Washington and the likes of which we have never seen.

I read the Salt II Treaty in its entirety a short while ago and it is designed to further carry out the aims of the Salt I which is to allow the Soviets to further increase their military superiority. One example, they are not required to count their tactical bomber, a new weapon; but we are required to count our 25-year-old B-52s as part of our strategic force.

The Soviets are building several Backfires each week. Salt I and Salt II have not limited military buildup on the part of the Soviets, they have cheated continuously since signing Salt I and are still cheating since signing Salt II but our government has followed the treaties even though they knew the Soviets were not.

If you want to learn more about our government's dangerous policies, I urge you to read the August issue of Reader's Digest on the article entitled, "Soviet Military Might: Made in U.S.A. The Soviets, a nation which can't even feed and house its people recently could not build a powerful military machine without our technology.

It is a matter of history that communism in Russia would have gone under long ago had it not been for massive money and material help from the United States, and this help is continuing not only to Russia but to many other communist nations. Doesn't this at least make you want to ask what is going on? Further, don't you think this shows the perfidy of our government's claim that they are opposing going to build up our military power to protect us from an attack by the Soviets?

What can you do? You can elect conservatives to Congress for if we regain control of that branch of our government then they can put a stop to the efforts of the aforementioned groups whose ultimate aim is to bring the United States under the direct control of the communist-controlled U.N. and eliminate the free and independent United States.

You think it can't happen here? The World Bankers who get richer financing wars and the elitists who conspire with them want a world government and they don't care if the communists, socialists or some other group run the various countries, they will still be in control because they will control the economy and thus the food on your table.

If you haven't asked yourself why the United States has got itself into the mess it's in and who is responsible for this, I don't know quite how you would like to live. However, before you vote this fall, check the voting records of Symms and Church and see who has been voting your hard-earned money to the communists.

Getting away from it all — in secluded Colorado

The Washington Post Company

BESIDE BOOTH CREEK, in a Colorado Mountain Valley — Re-member when you were reducted into academic rigors by an assignment to write an essay on "My Summer Vacation"?

Just to get a jump on the rest of you kids, here's mine:

As usual, the flight to Colorado confirmed Nathaniel Benedict's rule that in America there are two forms of travel — first class and with children. The flight, a foretaste of close confinement, also called to mind the terror of two years ago, when it Aspen, as there was no monopoly in game to be bought anywhere. An hour after we arrived this year, our housesitter called from Maryland to tell us about the burglary.

Acting on the principle that the surest way to forget small troubles is to acquire big ones, I joined several other parents in taking our children (at least we think they were ours, give or take one or two) camping. It has been said that the only time a woman wishes she were a year older is when she is pregnant. But pregnancy is its own reward when there is a camping trip to be avoided. Mrs. Will, two months away from delivering, was for that reason delivered from camping.

Up we hiked, two miles into a secluded mountain valley. The parents were trying to feel like Hillary and Tenzing leaving the last base camp for the final assault on Everest, but were finding the mood hard to maintain as they looked up the trail at the long bobbing line of children's backpacks, from many of which hung teddy bears and stuffed Snoozys. We pitched eight tents in what was, for 18 hours, the noisiest city in the Mountain West. It is a wonder (and a blessing) we did not have to file an environmental impact statement. Aside from a not-very-clever deer, which seemed stunned by the sight of us, all wildlife fed to other valleys. But in the cathedral of the wilderness I heard life's sweetest music — the sound of other people's children charging that children other than mine had thrown them into the creek, or their sneakers into the fire.

Coloradans are a hardy and neighborly breed and, besides, company-lovers; misery, however, comes without children hiked up to see us. They came for the exquisite pleasure of then returning to their Jacuzzi's before sundown.

When those visitors were gone and we were alone with our fate, we fell to rationalizing it: Camping is good for the children because...well, it teaches them what toughness it took to conquer the continent. More precisely, it teaches them what that conquest would have been like if the pioneers had done it one night a year, carrying nylon tents, aluminum stoves and granola bars. The children were impervious to the point, but their parents got it. Most ambitious attempts to teach children teach parents instead.

By 10 p.m., the children were unconscious and the parents were using aquila and something called Yukon Jack to prepare for an attempt at sleep. Shakespeare said that sleep knits up the raveled sleeve of care. Shakespeare was no camper. At about two minutes past midnight, a father's voice drifted across the campsite: "O.K., that's it. I said we'd stay until tomorrow. As we sit in the dark, go." We did, but not until morning, and then in the kind of high spirits that come to people who know they are a full year away from the next camping trip.

I brought back two imperishable memories. One was of my friend (provisionally) Dale Shaffer trying to slant the flow of blood from the wound on his head. The wound was inflicted by a Will boy with a rock, but without malice. The other golden memory is of "it" in an extreme situation. As we sat in the dark, watching a breathtaking moose, a father stuck his head from his tent and called to his wife: "Do you know where my knife is?" Without a second's hesitation, she asked in reply: "Why? Won't the children be quiet?"

Every year at about this time I am in the same frame of mind. I understand, intellectually, but cannot, emotionally, that annual vacations represent a hard-won and precious victory for tolling mankind. I don't know quite how civilization came to be sacked with summer vacations, but I'll say this for them: They do rob winter of its sting. A man shoveling snow can console himself with the thought that things could be worse. He could be emptying vac-tions also help parents and children know each other better, but time usually heals that wound.

Idahoan leads list of recipients of chemical firms' contributions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The list of congressmen who have accepted hefty chemical industry campaign contributions reads like a "who's who" of opponents of key legislation the industry also opposes, consumer activist Ralph Nader said Sunday.

Nader's Public Citizen Congress Watch, a self-styled "watchdog" group, released a study showing the industry has made about $2 million in contributions through various political action committees to 1978 and 1980 electoral campaigns.

The study identified 32 senators and 55 House members who have received contributions amounting to $5,000 or more, and said many of those lawmakers oppose "superfund" legislation now under consideration on Capitol Hill.

That legislation, being proposed in response to the contamination of the Love Canal area of Niagara Falls, N.Y., from a chemical dump, would set up a massive fund financed by the government and chemical industry.

The money would be used to clean up the more than 2,000 chemical dumps the Environmental Protection Agency estimates may pose public health hazards across the country.

Rep. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, received the largest amount — $28,487 — of campaign money from the chemical industry PACs, the study said, while Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the Senate Republican leader, was second overall and atop the Senate list with $27,193.

Neither lawmaker could be reached for comment Sunday.

Other senators and representatives from Idaho, Oregon, Nevada and Utah who were listed are:

Sens. Jake Garn, R-Utah, $8,268; Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., $5,010; and James McClure, R-Idaho, $16,175.

Reps. Gunn McKay, D-Utah, $6,750; Dan Marriott, R-Utah, $8,930; Jim Santini, D-NeV., $13,250; and Al Ulmer, D-Ore., $9,800.

Nader said Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., received $21,350 from 1977-80 and "was the lone dissenting vote when the bill was reported out of the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works earlier this year."

He said Santini, listed by the group as the sixth largest House recipient with $13,250 in donations, was the only Democrat to vote against the legislation in a House subcommittee.

But Nader noted Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., has been a strong backer of the legislation, despite receiving $22,888 from industry political action committees.

On the Senate side, Baker was followed by Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who received $25,200 from chemical industry PACs, the study said. The "superfund" bill will soon come before the Senate Finance Committee chaired by Long, who faces a primary election next month.

Long was followed by Sens. David Durenberger, R-Minn., $24,600; John Tower, R-Texas, $23,944; and William Armstrong, R-Colo., $23,333, the study said.

On the House side, Symms was followed by Reps. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, $23,449; John Porter, R-Ill., $21,990; James Abdnor, R-S.D., $18,250; and James Martin, R-N.C., $14,685, the group said.

Congress set to go home again

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress, barely recovered from a recess that ended only last week, is ready to get out and go home for a protracted Labor Day weekend.

The Senate, beginning Thursday, and the House, starting Friday, embark on the summer's last holiday and will not get back to work until the middle of the following week.

Although House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd are convinced a post-election, lame-duck session will be necessary, they are certain to flog their charges in a stretch drive before Oct. 4 — the original target date for adjournment.

They have plenty to do.

Congress has yet to send a fiscal 1981 appropriations bill to the White House, although eight have been approved by the House. The Senate has not touched any of them.

Senate Democrats, with plenty of help from most Republicans, are set to stage a protracted fight to cut taxes, although the Constitution says the House must initiate all revenue measures.

And the congressional budget — a noble experiment still in its formative years — remains endangered in the House with no imminent prospects of progress.

In addition, there are numerous authorization measures waiting action as well as other legislation, major and minor.

The semi-weekly schedule of legislation up for action gives no indication that Congress will cut sharply into the workload.

The House will, however, call up the Labor, Education and Health and Welfare appropriations bill — always one of the largest and controversial ones. The House is certain to once again include the Hyde amendment which bans federal funds for abortions except to save the life of the mother.

Also on tap is a resolution of inquiry which asks the White House and the Justice Department for information and replies to questions in the Billy Carter affair.

Final ERA push, anniversary tied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Organization for Women is tying Tuesday's 60th anniversary of ratification of the 19th Amendment to a push for final passage of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The 19th Amendment, granting women the right to vote, was ratified Aug. 26, 1920, only 14 months after it was approved by Congress.

The ERA, passed by Congress in 1972, still needs the approval of three states to reach the 38 required by the Constitution for ratification. It faces a June 30, 1982, deadline for action.

Acronyms in full usage create adverse meanings

You know that Bureau of Management and Budget is called "OMB" because the bureau folk didn't want to use the full acronym "BOMB." But were you aware that they refer to the Department of Housing and Urban Development as "HUD" because they didn't want to use the full acronym "DHUD" pronounced "DUD"?

I guess doctors have been well paid about as long as they've been in practice. Still, the English physician, Thomas Dandale, really cleaned up. Just for vaccinating the children of Catherine the Great, he got $50,000 in cash, an annual pension of $10,000 and the title of Baron. Some house call.

Do you realize that more than 100 entertainers now are making a living by impersonating Elvis Presley?

One Tokyo hotel awakens its guests with taped bird-songs.

NO BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS

Q. Jehovah's Witnesses must refuse blood transfusions for their religion's sake. So how can doctors perform surgery on them?
A. By using an electro-cautery knife which seals the blood vessels as it cuts. One such medical specialist, Dr. Ronald Lapin of Santa Ana, Calif., reportedly operates only on members of that faith. In more than 3,400 cases from open heart surgery to neurosurgery, he's only lost five patients, two of whom wouldn't have been saved with transfusions, either, he has said.

Q. That man who made the first coast-to-coast airplane flight, how many times did he crash?
A. Nineteen, on that trip. It took 69 stops, 23 of them in Texas alone.

Q. What was the longest-running song on the old "Your Hit Parade" show?
A. What, you don't remember "Shrimp Boats"? That was it.

BRIDE'S FORTUNE

In the England of 250 years ago, the published announcement of a couple's matrimonial engagement was customary, too. But there was a difference then. Size of the bride's fortune, if any, was listed in the item. Not his. Her worth was identified publicly like the weight of a prize fish.

Dear Abby

Refreshing breeze from youth front

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: We constantly hear about how rotten the youth of today are, so I'm writing to tell you of a recent experience with the young.

I have a lovely seashore home, which I permitted my grandson and five of his boyfriends to use for a week in celebration of their high school graduation.

When I walked into the house after their departure, this is what I found: The rugs had been vacuumed, the furniture dusted, the cushions of two new armchairs were covered with bath towels to avoid soiling, the kitchen and bathrooms were scrubbed and spotless, all the beds were made with fresh linens, and they had laundered and put away all the sheets and towels they had used!

Even my plants were watered! The refrigerator was emptied and clean, and in it was a box of candy for me!

On the coffee table was a note of thanks, signed by each one, plus a $10 bill to cover the phone calls they had made.

Forgive my bragging, but I just had to share this with somebody.

—PROUD GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY: Don't apologize. You have plenty to crow about. (P.S. Sounds like the boys may have had a little help from some chicks.)

DEAR ABBY: Here's the deal. Both my boyfriend and I are legal age. Last February we took out a marriage license, but we never did get married because there were a lot of things we wanted to straighten out first. He had debts. I had debts. He wasn't ready to tell his parents yet, and stuff like that. Anyway, to save expenses we are now living together.

I heard that if you live with a guy long enough, you don't have to get married. Just living together will give you a common-law status. Is this true? How long do you have to live together before it's common-law? I want things nice and legal.

Doesn't a marriage license prove that we are serious about getting married and not just fooling around? I mean, isn't this setup just as good as being married?

—ME AND HIM

DEAR ME: A "license" to marry is just that and nothing more. Common-law marriages are recognized in some states, but not in others. If you want things "nice and legal," ask a lawyer and quit guessing.

DEAR ABBY: I frequently have lunch with a good friend who introduced me to the man who later became my husband. She had dated him before I came into the picture. While they were going together, he gave her some jewelry.

She still wears a necklace he gave her. Although I enjoy this friend's company, that piece of jewelry hitting me in the eye gives me an uncomfortable feeling.

Am I oversensitive? Or does she have extremely poor taste?

JUST CURIOUS
DEAR CURIOUS: If she's a good friend and you enjoy her company, give her the benefit of the doubt and assume that she regards the necklace as a becoming piece of jewelry, has no sentimental attachment to it and is totally unaware that it makes you uncomfortable.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell Pittsburgh, who has been married for 50 years, not to be upset when her husband says "Thank you" after a love session. After 50 years, he may be addressing his thanks to the good Lord—not to HER!

PUC head supports Milner Dam project

BOISE—A federal law threatens canal and irrigation companies with loss of their systems if they construct power projects, the president of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission says.

Conley Ward Jr. will testify today in Washington, D.C., in support of a bill to allow two canal companies to construct a hydroelectric power plant near Milner Dam east of Twin Falls.

In remarks prepared for his appearance before a U.S. House of Representatives subcommittee, Ward says the IPUC believes the proposed Milner Dam project should be excluded from federal regulations and potential "recapture" by the government, which owns Milner Dam.

Otherwise, he warns, Idaho farmers and ranchers "will not participate in solving our energy problems."

The exclusion is being fought by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, which argues the dam must be considered part of the project even though the power plant would be located on a private canal a mile away.

Ward was invited to testify before the Subcommittee on Energy and Power of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. The subcommittee is holding hearings on Senate Bill 1828, which has passed the U.S. Senate under the sponsorship of Idaho Sen. Frank Church.

The bill would exempt the project from licensing requirements of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and provisions of the Federal Power Act. Under the law control of a project involving federal structures, like the Milner Dam, could revert to the government after a term of years.

That provision "threatens the irrigation districts with loss of their entire facility if they engage in small power production," Ward says.

The Milner Dam project would be a joint project of the Twin Falls and North Side canal companies. It would divert water from the Milner Reservoir into the Highline Canal of the Twin Falls Canal Co. The water would flow down the canal one-and-a-third miles where the drop to the Snake River is much greater than at the dam site.

At that point, the water would be directed through turbines and into the Snake River Canyon. The power plant would have a capacity of 50 megawatts, and the electricity, which would be generated in the winter outside the irrigation season, could be sold to Idaho Power Co.

Ward says the companies are not proposing modifications to the dam, reservoir or canal intake. "We see no real need to include" these facilities in the application and licensing process, he says.

The federal regulatory commission argues that the "project works" must include all pre-existing facilities.

"But why must it?" Ward asks. "Any blind reliance on case law predating 1978 is sadly misplaced."

The IPUC president says a number of congressional actions in recent years "clearly establish a national priority for the speedy development of low impact type electric facilities."

Ward also notes the IPUC and other state commissions are developing procedures for utilities to purchase electricity generated by small power producers.

"In our state," he says, "there are a number of irrigation dams and canals that can be utilized for hydroelectric production." The irrigation and canal companies that own most of these are willing and able to install facilities and sell power, Ward says.

However, these farmers and ranchers do not want to subject themselves to additional federal and state regulatory requirements and "risk federal recapture of their irrigation dams and canals, or safety requirements that differ dramatically though not significantly from already applicable state law."

"It is simply a fact of life that their primary employment comes first and they will engage in the generation of power only if it is both profitable and convenient."

Thermal testing starts

IDAHO FALLS—The Department of Energy has announced the beginning of a three-year, $4.7 million contract with private engineers and utilities for operating and testing the Raft River geothermal project.

EG&G Idaho, Inc. and the Geothermal Power Development Group will take over responsibility for the federal project Oct. 1, according to a news release.

The first year runs through through Sept. 30, 1981, under the agreement entered into Friday.

The DOE pilot project is a 5,000-kilowatt power plant that uses underground hot water at a site near Malheur.

EG&G is a DOE contractor currently responsible for operating the research site and the power group is a joint venture of electric utilities. The utilities are the Washington Public Power Supply System, Idaho Power Co., Raft River Rural Electric Cooperative and the Snake River Power Association, Inc.

The power group will have a supportive role under the technical direction of EG&G, the news release from the DOE's Idaho Operations Office at Idaho Falls stated.

In the test phase they will verify or modify a computer model of the plant's power generating capabilities and "characterize plant behavior under systems failure or other abnormal conditions."

In the operating phase, the groups will develop cost factors, determine reliability and maintenance requirements and define modifications or areas of future improvements.

Three geothermal production wells, two injection wells and a backup well of each type support the plant. To date, the cost of the facilities is about $24 million.

The cost of the operations under the new agreement is estimated at $4.7 million for the next three years.

New textbook

Teachers using newspapers in classroom in program offered by Times-News

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

MAGIC VALLEY—They don't look like or feel like school textbooks.

But newspapers in the classroom have begun to be used by teachers as a wide-ranging educational tool, under a new program this year in the Magic Valley being offered by the Times-News.

Kay Jones, a former teacher, is the Times-News education coordinator for the Newspapers in Education program, which has been operating nationally since the 1950s.

"Our goal is to work with teachers and schools, not to sell newspapers per se. We'll accomplish both hopefully but we're trying to gear ourselves towards education and reading," Mrs. Jones said.

The program can be used to teach students of any age almost any subject, including math, science, social studies, language, home economics and government—and about newspapers themselves.

The flexible program offers the weekday

Times-News at half price and help from Mrs. Jones, a handbook and a lending library of other materials. Teachers can choose when and how often they receive the paper with a minimum of 10 copies, 10 times.

Filer Elementary School students in Sheila Wubker's sixth-grade class and Barbara Frith's fifth-grade class started reading the newspaper with the beginning of school there a week ago.

"Teachers are using it in different ways," Mrs. Jones said. "Some are trying to teach what a newspaper is and how to read it, what it is composed of, how it is built every day."

"But we try to have them use them for current events, directed reading activities, in studying background, on Iran, for example, and a lot use them for educational development. In different curriculum areas, they can use different parts of the newspaper."

Students see their parents reading the newspaper and "think it's neat to be reading it in the classroom, which heightens their interest, she said.

"It's not another textbook, it doesn't look or feel like one."

At Filer, Mrs. Frith said she feels her students have learned "quite a bit" already. For the first two weeks they receive the newspaper daily.

Students planned a menu for their families by using food advertisements, given a $15 budget.

Mrs. Frith said she plans to use the newspapers throughout the year "for various things we study" and in connection with starting a class newspaper, complete with advertising.

"In the fifth grade, we have American history, so we are really going to get into the campaign and the election."

Students have been introduced to the writing of news articles, headlines and organization of the news.

When she announced she would be handing out newspapers, the class "thought it was going to be very boring," Mrs. Frith said. But now they look forward to it and take interest in a greater variety of articles.

Mrs. Jones said circulation manager Ross Torgerson and Publisher Bill Howard decided to initiate the program at the Times-News in March. A teacher of English and Spanish for three years at Filer, Mrs. Jones works three days a week.

One long-range goal of the program is to teach students that the newspaper is a tool people can use in their every day lives, she said. That includes not only information on such things as entertainment, weather, sports and products and prices, but also information to make people educated voters.

"I think the most important is current events, keeping up with what's happening in the world and in the community."

Mrs. Jones said also about half the students' parents do not take the newspaper at home and they "are not likely to take it themselves unless they become familiar with it in the schools. When they become adults, they'll say, 'That's something I need, because they get enough out of it.'"

She said newspaper circulation has been declining and that will "hurt everyone." If it continues, the free press is essential to a democracy, she said.

Coupon, 10¢ provide ride on bus line

TWIN FALLS—Trans IV is offering rides on its new intracity bus in Twin Falls for 10 cents with presentation of a coupon.

The coupons, which expire Sept. 15, are being published daily in the Times-News this week and began Sunday. Regular fare is 35 cents.

Trans IV director Charlie Chambers is advertising riding on the bus coupons is being offered at the same time. The advertising campaign is to promote ridership on the new bus service, which was initiated two weeks ago.

The bus travels two routes every hour to serve shopping areas, the College of Southern Idaho and Magic Valley Memorial Hospital from 6:40 a.m. to 6:40 p.m. The routes overlap, so the bus makes some stops every half hour.

Following is a schedule of the two routes. The bus stops at the same time on the hour at the following places beginning at the indicated times:

BUS ROUTE NO. 1: East Five Points, 7:10 a.m.; Downtown Mall, 7:13; West Five Points, 7:16; Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, 7:19; Main Street and Addison Avenue, 7:20; West Five Points, 7:23; Falls Avenue and Washington Street North, 7:27; CSI, 7:28; Falls Avenue and Blue Lakes Boulevard North, 7:31; Blue Lakes and Filer Avenues, 7:33; Blue Lakes and Addison, 7:36; Blue Lakes and Elizabeth Boulevard, 7:38; and East Five Points, 7:40.

Complete schedules and maps are available at the college and on the bus.

Entry deadline today for Twin Falls rodeo

FILER—Local cowboys who want to try their luck at the rich $20,000 Twin Falls County Rodeo purses must enter by 6 p.m. today.

The local cowboy entry deadline is set to give the fair and rodeo management time to send in the names so they will be put in the rodeo computer system. "Go-out" which will then send back the results of event drawings.

Tom Shouse, fair manager, said the cowboys can then contact the fair office after noon Sept. 1 to find out what night and what time they will ride.

The computer system even selects the bull or horse the cowboys will ride.

Names of the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association members are kept in the computer system and drawn in rodeos throughout the country as they compete from show to show.

Local cowboys will take their chances along with the professionals, Shouse said, but there are frequently some local competitors in the money at the Filer event.

Shouse said by local, the fair board means about a 50-mile radius from Filer. The performers must register in person at the fair office and pay their entry fees. They may compete in any of the five major rodeo events plus the barrel racing.

School terms start today

MAGIC VALLEY—Today is the day most students in south central Idaho resume classes for another school year.

Although some high school students still have a day or two of freedom, the school districts that open today include Twin Falls, Shoshone, Kimberly, Buhl, Cassia County, Bliss, Hagerman, Hansen, Dietrich, Richfield, Jerome and Valley.

Filer, Castelford, Murtaugh and Wendell school districts began classes a week ago. Minidoka County begins Wednesday and Blaine County Sept. 2.

Twin Falls High School students begin classes Wednesday.

Cassia accidents injure 2

BURLEY—Riders of a bicycle and a motorcycle in Cassia County escaped collisions with vehicles with relatively minor injuries Saturday in separate accidents.

At 7:55 p.m. on State Highway 81, about two miles east of Burley, a car driven by Kay C. Jones, 24, of Burley, collided with 10-speed bicycle rider Gary Knobbe, 13, also of Burley. Knobbe was treated for cuts and bruises and released from Cassia Memorial Hospital, sheriff's officers said.

Earlier Saturday about 9:34 a.m. on Marlan Road about six miles north and two miles west of Oakley, a pickup pulling a boat and trailer struck a motorcycle.

The pickup driven by William Fred Bingham, 43, of Twin Falls, collided with a motorcycle ridden by Stormy Lee Oldham, 17, of Oakley. The cyclist suffered relatively minor injuries and was treated and released from the hospital.

Symms backers stop in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS—The presidents of four local Idaho unions who have endorsed Steve Symms for U.S. Senate will hold a press conference in Twin Falls today.

Les Kelly, president of the Lumber Production Industrial Workers Union local at Cascade, said the event will take place at 1 p.m. at the city-county airport.

Tapping Boise's hot water grows complex

BOISE (UPI) — Back at the turn of the century, Boiseans found they could sink a six-inch well, install a pipeline and have all the geothermal energy they wanted.

But today a group of scientists, business and politicians working to correct is finding the task of turning Boise into a geothermal showcase much more difficult.

For example, today a private firm must ask the Boise City Council to approve a lease for geothermal drilling rights on federal land. If approval is given, the company will then sell the hot water from those wells back to the city for its federally funded space-heating project in the downtown area.

The distribution of the resource will be managed as a variation on an enterprise fund by the city Department of Public Works. Ordinarily a city enterprise fund is financed by issuing bonds for a specific project like a sewer system or an airport.

But Idaho voters approved a one-percent property tax law at the last election. And city officials fear that issuing a revenue bond now would be like "waving a red flag" in front of them now.

The council decided that using a private firm to attract investors for a drilling fund would serve two purposes: to provide the money required by the federal government and to use private money rather than public money for the high risk drilling operations.

Recently, this complex arrangement between federal, city and private interests began with a state initiated project in 1974. But today the state has no say in that same project.

It all began six years ago when then Gov. Cecil Andrus, concerned about the United States' dependence on foreign oil, asked the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration (now the U.S. Department of Energy) to study the geothermal potential of the Military Reserve Park on Boise's north side. Andrus wanted to use that resource to heat state buildings in the Capitol Mall.

Scientists from the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory in Idaho Falls compiled data and drilled wells. In April, 1976, a report was issued to Andrus with the results of those tests.

The report concluded: "...no major resource or engineering difficulties exist that would prevent this project from being completed successfully."

But then an unexpected turn of events occurred. When Jimmy Carter was elected president in November, 1976, he brought Andrus to Washington as Secretary of the Interrior. And in November 1978 Carter signed a bill, sponsored by Sen. Frank Church, transferring geothermal resource rights on the Military Reserve land to the city of Boise.

The state at that time lost legal title to drill wells on, or to extract geothermal water from, the reserve land.

Since then over $5 million has been allocated to the city from the DOE and the U.S. Economic Development Administration for a demonstration geothermal space heating project.

The project is to be the largest of its kind in the United States with an estimated cost of $15 million at completion.

Sull six years after Andrus ordered the initial study, no production wells have been drilled in the Military Reserve Park.

Though similar wells have been providing natural hot water to residential and commercial users in Boise for almost 100 years, many experts consider such drilling today to be a high risk venture.

"It's a risky business. Even around here you could drill two wells to the same depth 200 yards apart, and have 1,000 gallons a minute with 200 degrees Fahrenheit in one, and 200 gallons a minute at 100-degrees Fahrenheit in the other," said Bill Eastlake.

In Los Angeles power strike

City rejects union proposal

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Tom Bradley and the City Council Sunday rejected the latest union proposal to end a strike by power workers that threatens to muddy the city's drinking water and cause electrical blackouts.

The city attorney, meanwhile, said his office was working overtime to prepare contempt citations against union leaders to force an end to the five-day strike.

Tom Sullivan, the mayor's spokesman, said Bradley met for an hour with city officials and agreed the union's latest proposal for an 18 percent wage hike was too expensive.

City Attorney Burt Pines said his office had been working all weekend preparing contempt citations to force the workers back to their jobs. He said the citations would be completed by this morning.

About 100 more Department of Water and Power employees walked off their jobs Sunday, leaving hydroelectric plants at Castaic Lake and in the Owens Valley to be operated by management.

Local 18 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said the strike would spread to water treatment plants and disrupt generating facilities, causing blackouts and power cutbacks as early as today.

"If the water treatment plants are struck, there will be no effect on water supplies or quality, but tap water will be noticeably discolored, officials said.

"When the reservoirs get a little low it's gonna get a little muddy," Taylor said. "I'm telling you that you can drink the beer, but don't drink the water."

"You think we only have steam and linemen and cable splicers. But we've linemen, water heaters, and control of the chlorination, the filtration. We're gonna kill a bug — but you ain't gonna kill the color."

The Department of Water and Power, the largest municipally owned utility in the country — has lost 40 percent of its electric power generating capacity because of the five-day strike by 350 of the 7,200 union workers, forcing some equipment shutdowns. The workers had demanded an 18 percent pay hike.

As the generating stations close, or break down, the city may have to black out parts of the city on a planned, rotating basis to spread the available power around, DWP officials said.

Such blackouts would last from two to five hours, which is the estimated time that refrigerators and freezers can maintain adequate cold temperatures to preserve food.

Further power cutbacks expected Monday could reduce electrical supplies to 50 percent of normal, Al Lasko, business representative for Local 18 of the IBEW, said.

Lasko said the union might shut down the 192-megawatt Owens Valley system today, which would cut back the power supply another 5 or 10 percent.

"The union is doing everything it can to not have a major blackout," Lasko said. "But we may have some neighborhood blackouts if the other unions are pulled in (to the strike), like the power pole maintenance people."

Mayor Tom Bradley has appealed to the city's three million residents to stave off a crippling blackout and conserve electricity by shutting off unnecessary appliances.

Persons using life support systems, such as kidney dialysis machines or respirators, will be protected in case of a blackout by portable generators, which the DWP will make available on an emergency basis, a spokesman said.

Wyoming parents accused

Court grants hearing delay

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI) — A public defender has been given an extra 18 days to show why charges should be dismissed against a Fremont County couple accused of murdering two of their children in a fire at their mobile home.

Justice of the Peace Rob Dehnert Friday granted Public Defender Don Hall's request to delay a preliminary hearing for James and Karin Shaffer heard Oct. 2 at the county court. A preliminary hearing is held to determine if there is enough evidence for a trial.

Dehnert also released Karin Shaffer without requiring her to post bond, although she was required to meet several stipulations, including one that she not leave the area. She had been held without bond since Aug. 13, when she and her husband were arrested.

The woman, 8½ months pregnant, was hospitalized for a short period under 24-hour guard because of her condition.

James Shaffer was freed late Tuesday after posting a $10,000 property bond.

They are charged with two counts of first-degree arson each for the November 1979 deaths of their children, 4-year-old Glen and 3-year-old Opal at their home in Arapahoe.

A coroner's jury ruled the two children died of smoke inhalation. Authorities have not released the cause of death of a third child, 20-month-old Robbie, whose charred body was found in the burned trailer.

The Shaffers filed suit in March to stop an exhumation of the infant's body for further tests to determine the cause of death, and the case is now before the Wyoming Supreme Court.

Fremont County Coroner Larry Lee asked District Judge W.J. Nicholas to allow a disinterment after receiving reports from the state crime laboratory showing high levels of carbon monoxide in the two older children, but only minute amounts in the infant.

County Attorney Arnold Tschirg said the reports justified an exhumation for a second autopsy, since a crime might have been committed in the infant's death. The exhumation was carried out before the Shaffers' appeal was filed with the Supreme Court.

National League west

Redlegs faltering again

By United Press International

The Cincinnati Reds, after leading the National League west last week, seem to be faltering back once again.

After charging into first place, the Reds now are two-and-a-half games out of first place.

In Sunday's game, John Candelaria pitched a five-hitter and Steve Nicosia doubled in two runs to boost the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 2-1 victory over the Reds and a sweep of their three-game series.

The Pirates scored three runs in the second inning when Reds' starter and loser Mike LaCoss, 7-10, walked Bill Madlock and John Milner. Madlock was retired on Phil Garner's fielder's choice for the second out but Nicosia, hitting only .200, doubled down the right-field line to score Milner and Garner.

Candelaria then hit a chopper to third, where Ron Oester, making his first start at third base, threw several fast over the first baseman. Dan Driessen's head, permitting Nicosia to score.

The Pirates added a run in the fifth when Dave Parker singled and scored on Mike Essler's double. They added their final run in the ninth on Lee Lacy's RBI double.

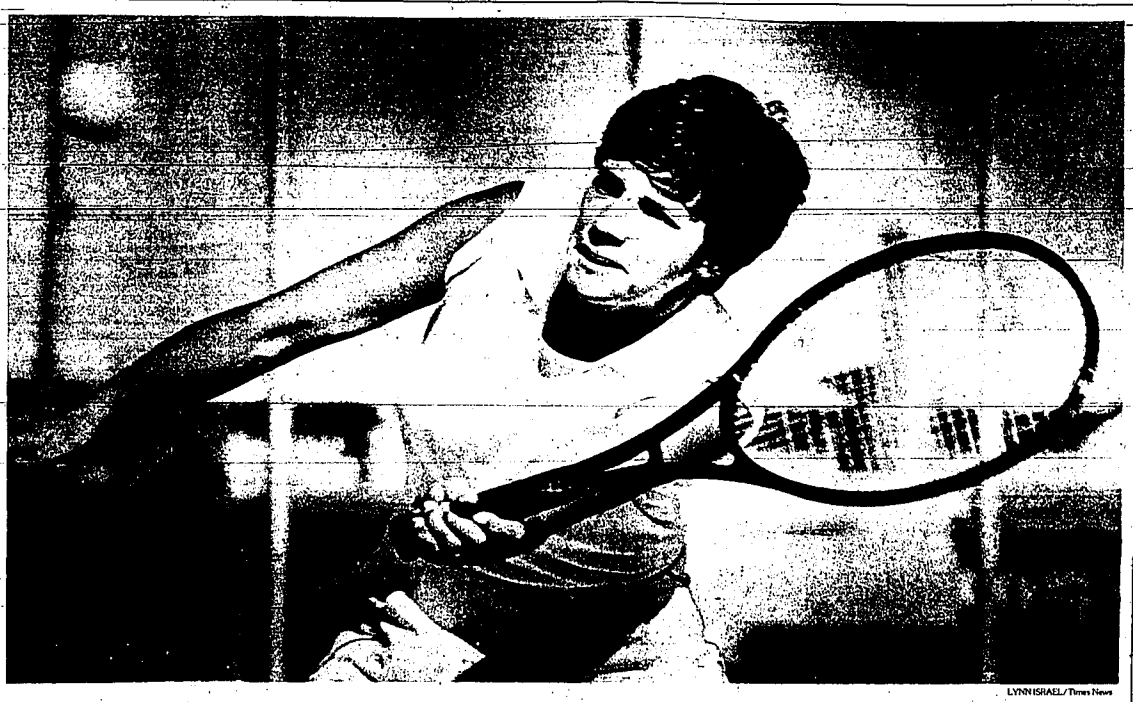

While the Reds seem to be losing their touch, the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Houston Astros are fighting each other for the first place spot.

Dusty Baker and Rick Monday belted solo homers Sunday and Derral Thomas drove in the winning run with a fourth-inning double, backing the combined four-hit pitching of Burt Hooton and Steve Howe and leading the Los Angeles to a 3-2 decision over the New York Mets.

Baker's 24th homer in the first and Monday's sixth homer in the second gave the Dodgers a 2-0 lead. Los Angeles scored the winning run in the fourth when Monday singled to center and Hooton lined a single to advance Monday to second. Thomas' double down the right-field line chased Pat Zachry, 6-7.

Jose Cruz drove in both Houston runs Sunday with a homer and an eighth-inning single to support the two-hit pitching of Nolan Ryan and Tied the Astros to a club-record 10th straight victory, a 2-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Craig Reynolds drew a leadoff walk off loser Bill Caudill, 1-5, and Ryan sacrificed him to second. Enos Cabell reached safely on second baseman Mike Tyson's throwing error one out later to drive in the winning run. Sutter's first pitch into center to score Reynolds.

Pro golf Watson lifts earnings over $500,000

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Tom Watson, the supreme figure on the PGA Tour, hopes his winning ways will spur on his fellow professional athletes from Kansas City.

"This just might be Kansas City's years in the World Series," said the Missouri native after his two-shot victory Sunday in the World Series of Golf played at Akron, Ohio. "The Royals are looking pretty strong right now. Watson won. Who knows, the Chicks might go to the Super Bowl."

Sports fans with Watson's assessment of the baseball Royals and the football Chicks going big in their respective sports, but it would be hard to find anyone who is not convinced that Watson is the premier golfer on the PGA tour and in the world right now.

He fired his third 5-under-par 65 Sunday to leave the field far behind in capturing the $600,000 World Series. His 10-under-par total of 270 gave him a deceptively close two-shot victory over Raymond Floyd and locked up a record fourth straight Player of the Year crown.

"I played a good, aggressive round," he said after completing the 18th hole. "I kept the ball in play and I made very few mistakes. The round was a 30-foot stroke putt on the 12th hole which I tried to take too hard, but hit the cup, popped into the air and fell into the hole."

"I've always made goys rather than birds and it would have made it much closer — at the time," said Watson.

The $100,000 first prize boosted Watson's winnings in 20 PGA tour

Jack Nicklaus grimaces with pain after withdrawing Sunday events this year to $510,250, making him the first man in golfing history to win more than half a million dollars in a single year. Watson made a charge at the half-million dollar figure last year, but fell short in the end.

Watson, who won the 1975 World Series of Golf under the old four-player format, started the final round tied for first place at five under-par nine holes, with his only bogey of the day coming on the par-4 18th. With three holes to go, Floyd was five shots behind but birdied two of the last three holes.

Floyd, two shots off the lead when the day began, shot a fine 5-under-par 65 in a bogeyless round, but it was simply not good enough to catch the streaking Watson, who had previous rounds of 65, 75 and 65 on the 7,173-yard, par-70 Firestone course.

Pate, one of several leaders early in the round, shot a 3-under-par 67, and finished behind 273, followed another stroke back by Hale Irwin (66) and Trevino (69) at 274. Ben Crenshaw (69), Mike Reid (68) and defending champion Lon Hinkle (69) all finished at 275, while Stedler struggled to a closing 73 and a 278 total.

Floyd picked up $55,000 for second place, while Pate earned $34,550 for third.

The victory was the seventh this year for Watson on the PGA tour, including his third British Open championship. His $2,181,691 career earnings rank him third on the all-time list behind Jack Nicklaus and Trevino. It was also his 22nd PGA win since he turned pro in the fall of 1971.

Nicklaus, who finished dead last this week, withdrew from the final round of the tournament after injuring his back on the practice tee. The U.S. Open and PGA champion was the only player with a chance to take the Player of the Year honor away from Watson, but had to win the World Series to do so: It was his first time in the "Golden Bears" career he was forced to withdraw from a major PGA tournament.

Gene Mauch quits as Twins' skipper

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Gene Mauch, the sharp-minded dean of major-league managers who has yet to win a pennant in 21 seasons, resigned Sunday as manager of the Minnesota Twins and was replaced by third base coach John Gory.

Gory will take over the club Monday night when the club travels to Cleveland.

"I hate the word quit, and I really don't think that's what I am doing," said Mauch, who sat at his desk in his Twins' uniform following a 3-2 defeat at the hands of the Detroit Tigers.

Minnesota owner Calvin Griffith stood at Mauch's side and introduced him at the hastily called news conference.

"For a lot of years I've talked to a lot of players and I've used words like dedication, pride and responsibility not to just one's self but to the people you work for," began Mauch. "For a while now I have been feeling that I have not been making a contribution and that just galls me."

"I thought it would be to the best interest of everybody concerned if they were allowed to function in a different atmosphere. I relayed my feelings to Calvin and he has agreed with me so tomorrow there will be a different manager."

Mauch was serving the second year of his second three-year contract.

"I'm sad to see Gene going," said Griffith, who then turned and spoke freely to his former manager.

"You have done an outstanding job for this organization. Your wisdom and knowledge of baseball has been outstanding and I wish you good health and good luck in whatever you do."

Griffith then introduced Gory, who joined the Twins' coaching staff last year after 12 years of managing in Minnesota's minor-league organization.

"We'll be talking a lot about baseball on the trip," said Griffith, who will accompany the team on its road trip.

Gory, 47, played parts of six seasons with the Chicago Cubs and Twins, appearing 75 games as a utility infielder, and finished with a .226 batting average.

Philadelphia stands at 3-0 in pre-season play

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Ron Jaworski passed for 165 yards and one touchdown and Tony Franklin kicked three field goals Sunday to lead the Philadelphia Eagles to a 23-17 exhibition victory over the New England Patriots.

Jaworski completed 14-of-24 passes in his one-half stint while directing four of the Eagles' 11 scoring drives. His TD pass came late in the second quarter to tight end John Spagnola, whom the Patriots cut last season. The other Philadelphia score came on a fumble recovery by fullback Jim Culbreath.

New England scored on a first-quarter field goal by John Smith, a 2-yard run by Don Calhoun and a 1-yard sweep by Chuck Foreman with 4:08 to play.

The victory improved the Eagles record to 3-0 in exhibition play while the Patriots fell to 1-2.

Smith gave New England a 3-0 lead 4:34 into the first quarter on a 42-yard field goal which capped a 55-yard drive in six plays. The key play in the march was a 29-yard pass from Steve Grogan to Stanley Morgan.

Philadelphia took the lead for good 6:20 later on Culbreath's touchdown. Jaworski had completed a 7-yard pass to Charles Smith, who was jarred by Mike Hawkins and fumbled the football.

The ball bounced into Culbreath's arms and he skirted into the end zone.

'Unhappy' Daniel captures $150,000 LPGA Classic

DENVER (UPI) — Beth Daniel, dissatisfied with her game and happy to shoot par on the final round, captured the $150,000 LPGA Denver Classic Sunday by six strokes.

Daniel, who led by three strokes entering the final round, shot even-par 39-39-72 for a total of 278, 12-under-par. She won $22,500 and finished six strokes ahead of Sandra Post and Jane Blalock.

"I was pleased to shoot par the way I played today," said Daniel, the 1979 LPGA Rookie of the Year and winner of last week's tour stop at St. Paul. "My swing just wasn't there. My putts were close, but they didn't go in."

Post, trailing Daniel by 75 strokes after Saturday's third round, lost three more strokes Sunday over the 6,303-yard Columbine Country Club course. She had four bogeys and one birdie on the front nine, but came back in even-par 36 for a final-round 75 to tie for second with Jane Blalock at 6-under 282. Post and Blalock each earned $12,600.

Julie Stanger, a second-year pro who had earlier earnings of almost more than $100,000 going into the tournament, picked up $7,500 for her fourth-place finish at 5-under 283.

Yanks hold on to slim lead with 4-2 win over Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Bobby Murcer's sacrifice fly drove in the go-ahead run after pinch-hitter Eric Soderholm singled home the tying run in the seventh inning Sunday, allowing the New York Yankees to retain their slim hold on first place in the American League East with a 4-2 victory over the California Angels.

Seldom-used catcher Johnny Jones, who singled home New York's first run of the game, doubled to ignite the winning rally in the seventh off loser Fred Martinez, 3-6. Aurelio Rodriguez then laid down a sacrifice bunt and third baseman Jason Thompson struck out.

Andy Hassler replaced Martinez and yielded a single to Soderholm to tie the score 2-2. After Ruppert Jones struck out, Murcer flied deep to center to score Rodriguez and enable the Yankees to keep their half-game lead over Baltimore, a 3-0 winner over Oakland Sunday. Bob Wilson's RBI single in the ninth gave the Yankees an insurance run.

Rich Gossage recorded his 22nd save by getting the final three outs, including two with strikeouts. Ron Davis, who went 1-3 in innings, raised his record to 5-3. Davis relieved Tom Underwood in the fifth when the Angels scored two runs on Bobby Grich's bases-loaded single. Underwood had loaded the bases on three consecutive walks.

Oates collected just his third RBI of the year in the second when he singled home Lou Piniella, who doubled for the first of his three hits.

Orioles 3, A's 0

OAKLAND (UPI) — Doug DeCinces drove in two runs with a fourth-inning single and Mike Flanagan tossed a seven-hitter Sunday to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-0 victory and a three-game sweep over the Oakland A's.

Flanagan, 19-9, walked two, struck out three and, with the help of three double plays, did not allow a runner to reach third base. It was the second shutout and 12th complete game of the season for the left-hander. Baltimore took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Al Bumbry singled, advanced to third on Ken Singleton's double and scored on a sacrifice fly by Eddie Murray.

Tigers 3, Twins 2

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — John Wockenhus hit a solo home run and Dan Schatzeder pitched a seven-hitter Sunday to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 3-2 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

Jays 7, White Sox 3

CHICAGO (UPI) — Damaso Garcia's homer sparked a four-run second inning and Bob Davis collected two RBI on a pair of doubles Sunday, pacing the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Garcia's homer, his fourth of the season, came off Ross Baumgardner, 2-4, and gave Toronto a 1-0 lead. Lloyd Moseby then doubled and scored on Danny Alingo's triple. Davis followed with an RBI double and when shortstop Todd Cruz dropped Alfredo Griffin's fly ball for an error, Davis scored.

Royals 7, Indians 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — U.L. Washington hit two singles, drove in a run and scored another during a six-run third inning Sunday, lifting the Kansas City Royals to a 7-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Amos Otis, John Wathan, Jose Cardenal and Willie Wilson also singled home runs and Frank White tripled home another in the third to drop Ross Grimsley's record to 4-3. George Brett made two outs in the third inning for Kansas City and finished the day 1-for-4, dropping his average to .397. White also doubled home the final Kansas City run in the fourth as the Royals won for the 10th time in their last 12 games.

Texas 4, Brewers 3

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Al Oliver singled home Mickey Rivers from second base with two out in the bottom of the 11th inning Sunday to lead the Texas Rangers to a 4-3 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers. Jim Sundberg and Rivers led off the 11th with consecutive singles off Reggie Cleveland, 8-8. Bill Sample attempted to sacrifice the runners over but Sundberg was thrown out at third. Bump Wills then flied out and Oliver singled off the glove of first baseman Jim Gantner to give reliever John Henry Johnson his first win in three decisions.

Expos 12, Padres 9

MONTREAL (UPI) — Pinch hitter Warren Cromale singled home the go-ahead run in a three-run seventh inning to rally the Montreal Expos to a 12-9 comeback victory over the San Diego Padres Sunday. With the score tied 9-9, Ken Macha led off the seventh with a single. Chris Spieler then singled and Cromartie's RBI single made it 10-9. Montreal scored two more runs in the inning when Ron LeFlore walked to load the bases and Gary Lucas, relieving loser Rollie Fingers, 8-8, walked Rodney Scott to force in a run. Larry Parrish's sacrifice fly made it 12-9.

Phils 7, Giants 1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mike Schmidt belted his major-league-leading 55th homer and Greg Luzinski, playing for the first time since July 5, followed with a solo shot Sunday night to highlight a four-run third-inning rally and carry the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Hurt thumb sidelines Templeton

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinals' shortstop Garry Templeton, who has already missed three weeks with a broken thumb, will be out for at least three more weeks with a broken finger, the team said Sunday.

Templeton suffered the injury in batting practice before Friday night's game in Atlanta. He started Saturday night's game but left after four innings when the finger stiffened.

Templeton was taken to an Atlanta hospital where X-rays revealed the fracture to his right index finger. A spokesman said Templeton was injured when he dived for a grounder and jammed his right hand. The finger was placed in a splint and a team spokesman said he might be out for a month.

Templeton will probably not be placed on the disabled list because the roster can be expanded Sept. 1, the spokesman said.

Mandlikova tops sensational week with victory over Jaeger

MAHWAH, N.J. (UPI) — Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia completed a marvelous week on tennis Sunday with a three-set victory over Andrea Jaeger of Lincolnshire, Ill., in the finals of a $100,000 tournament.

Mandlikova, who won her first tournament of the year, was obviously upset in losing a first set tie-breaker game to Jaeger. She then served and volleyed with great accuracy for a 6-7 (7-7), 6-2, 6-2 success over Jaeger in a battle of tie-breakers.

Mandlikova, 18, reached the final by defeating second-seeded Martina Navratilova 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 in Saturday night's semifinal. Jaeger, 15, upset top-seeded Tracy Austin in the quarterfinals, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, and polished off Sylvia Hanika of West Germany 6-2, 6-3 in the semifinals.

"I was disappointed losing the first set and the tie-breaker so badly," said Mandlikova, whose father, Vitem, competed as a sprinter for Czechoslovakia in the 1956 and 1960 Olympics. "I started to be more patient in the second set and worked for my shots."

Mandlikova jumped to a 4-0 lead in the second set and was never in trouble the rest of the way. She didn't lose her serve once from the seventh game on in the set. Jaeger had a triple-break point in the fourth game of the second set, but Mandlikova reached back and hammered three aces and earned two service points.

Tied at 2-2 in the third set, Mandlikova broke Jaeger in the fifth game when the high school sophomore committed an unforced forehand error. Mandlikova won the sixth on an overhead, forced another forehand error for a break in the seventh, and won the eighth at 15 with an overhead.
