Calls pay plan 'irresponsible'

Evans says cuts are bringing state to halt

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans said today it would be "irresponsible" of the Idaho Legislature to eliminate state employees so raises could be given to the remaining employees.

Both the House and Senate have passed bills providing for a pay raise for state employees, but those bills also call for a reduction in the number of state employees to fund the salary increases.

"We've been cutting back the last three years," Evans told a news conference. "State government" has been brought to a halt.

He said that severe cutbacks was "not realistic" and hoped that the Republican-controlled Legislature would take another look at the effect it would have on the state.

The Democratic governor said his proposal for a 6.5 percent pay hike and a 1 percent merit raise was "more valid" than the proposals being suggested by the Legislature.

Evans also called the Legislature's suggestions that it reduce his proposed budget of $432 million by $30 million "too drastic." He said from every indication there would be substantial growth in Idaho during the 1980s.

"This means to me we don't have to have drastic cutbacks," he said. "I hope wiser minds (in the Legislature) will prevail and recognize such a folly."

Evans called for "patch and scratch" funding and "closing loopholes so we can scrape through" the coming fiscal year, predicting that the following year should see an improved Idaho economy.

He said a $30 million reduction was "too drastic and not realistic" and hoped the Legislature could find an area somewhere between that would be realistic.

Evans said he hoped the lawmakers would identify programs "we don't need and cut them out," but urged the legislators to "go slow in examining cutbacks."

On another subject, Idaho's chief executive said it was general knowledge that he did not support right to work and that if the measure currently in the Legislature was passed, "it probably would die."

He said he was hopeful that the Senate would uphold his gubernatorial veto of a right to work bill.

Evans said he also would put his red veto stamp on any attempt to close Lewis Clark State College at Lewiston.

"That's too drastic and unrealistic and some children will not be able to go to school if they close it," he said.

He said he had not had the opportunity to be briefed on a proposal that the Lewiston school's administration be merged with that of the University of Idaho at Moscow.

Evans said a proposal to boost interest rates for credit cards was "startling. I don't think the Legislature will buy it."

He also said he was not in favor of a Senate bill that would strip him of his power to appoint members to the Northwest Power Planning Council.

"It goes too far."

Prices

Jump in oil costs double January inflation rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation at the wholesale level nearly doubled its pace in January, as energy prices rose sharply even though food prices stood still, the Labor Department reported Friday.

Producer prices of finished goods — ready for sale to the public — rose a seasonally adjusted 0.9 percent in January, compared to a revised increase of 0.5 percent in December.

It was the largest monthly hike since August, when prices rose 1.2 percent.

The January figure means that if wholesale price inflation were to continue at this rate for a full year, the total price rise, including compounding, would be 10.7 percent. That compares with 11.7 percent for 1980.

The producer price index for finished goods stood at 259.8, which means goods that cost $100 in 1967 cost $259.80 in January.

Wholesale energy prices increased 2.7 percent for the month, almost twice as fast as in December. Gasoline prices sold to dealers rose 2.5 percent; heating oil 5.7 percent.

"We were expecting energy to pick up and indeed it did," said John Layng, head of the price section of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which issues the figures. He attributed it to recent price hikes by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Wholesale food prices recorded a net increase of zero in January as some individual prices rose and others fell. Some of the foods with the largest increases were soft drinks up 4.9 percent, rice up 6 percent and dairy products up 1.4 percent.

Fresh fruits declined 4.9 percent, while eggs went down 5.5 percent. Roasted coffee prices went down 2.6 percent.

"Food is continuing to be a moderating influence," said Layng. "Supplies are bigger than people anticipated."

But Donald Ratajczak, head of an economic forecasting project at Georgia State University, said food prices are expected to rise faster in the late winter and early spring.

At the same time, he said, energy prices also are expected to rise steeply because of President Reagan's decision to decontrol oil prices immediately rather than by next October as President Carter had proposed.

A rise in wholesale prices generally indicates more inflation ahead for consumers. But because price increases move upward through the economy at various rates for different goods, a wholesale price increase does not imply a rise in the Consumer Price Index in any particular month.

One possibly encouraging sign was that prices at the crude materials level fell 1.1 percent in January. The price changes are seasonally adjusted, which means fluctuations that routinely occur during winter or summer or during particular holiday periods are averaged out in the final figures.

Sagebrush Rebellion proposal near introduction

By LARRY SWISHER Times-News writer

BOISE — A constitutional amendment to allow Idaho to receive, manage and sell federal public lands will be proposed within two weeks, a Sagebrush Rebellion leader said Friday.

However, the Legislature may choose to withhold action until next year because of this session's press of business and because an amendment could not be placed before the voters until 1982.

Other Sagebrush Rebellion proponents are taking a "go-slow" approach, and one may introduce an alternative to the impending amendment.

"The public needs to know where we stand on the constitutional question," Vern Ravenscroft of Boise, president of Sagebrush Rebellion Inc., told the Times-News.

"The decision will be made in the federal courts and Congress," he said, and in preparation Idaho needs to express its position as soon as possible.

After putting on some finishing touches, Ravenscroft said he will propose an amendment to the Idaho Constitution in the House State Affairs Committee within two weeks.

It would replace Idaho's disclaimer of a right to federal public lands made when it became a state in 1890 with "conservative procedures" for state management and sale to private owners, he said.

"The Legislature is scratching like the devil to balance the budget," Ravenscroft observed, and for practical reasons the leadership might put the Sagebrush Rebellion aside until next session.

He said that would not be "a gain or a big stumbling block."

But an amendment and other legislation needs to be formulated this session, he said.

In contrast Sen. Laird-Noh, R-Kimberly, a livestock industry leader, advocates a "go-slow" approach until "we get clear signals from the new administration and the Senate."

Noh, who has prepared an alternative amendment, said if Ravenscroft's amendment has not been changed since last month it is "inadequate to provide the protection the public seeks."

"The potential is for too much land moving into private ownership. I couldn't recommend the livestock industry support it."

Noh's proposal would limit sale of public lands, such as certain agricultural lands and land surrounding expanding cities.

He said he could introduce his proposal as an alternative but preferred to see Ravenscroft's simply defeated if it has not been modified.

But Noh said, "It would be wrong if the public interpreted my desire and

Garwood sentenced to dishonorable discharge

Loses pay, but no jail time

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (UPI) — Turncoat Marine Robert R. Garwood was sentenced to dishonorable discharge Friday and will serve no time in an American prison for collaborating with the Viet Cong.

"He is a free man for the first time in 16 years," said defense lawyer Vaughan Taylor.

Garwood, who could have been sentenced to life in prison, accepted without visible emotion his sentence from the court-martial jury of five Vietnam veterans who convicted him last Thursday. He left the courtroom without speaking to reporters.

The jury deliberated for an hour before returning to the courtroom and recommending Garwood receive a dishonorable discharge from the Marine Corps, be demoted to private and lose his pay between now and the time he is discharged.

The question of whether Garwood will receive $147,000 in back pay will be decided later by the Military Court of Claims in Washington.

There was no immediate indication when Garwood will be discharged. Maj. Gen. David Barker, commander of Camp Lejeune, must decide within 90 days whether he will accept the jury's recommendation.

Garwood's lawyers said their client, the only U.S. turncoat of the Vietnam war, will not talk with reporters until resolution of civilian charges of sexual misconduct.

Civilian authorities in Jacksonville, N.C., had delayed taking him to trial on those charges, filed last summer and involving the 7-year-old daughter of a friend, until his court-martial was over.

Garwood, 34, from Adams, Ind., was convicted of collaboration with the enemy during 14 years behind enemy lines in Vietnam and striking an American POW.

Donna Long, a POW-MIA activist who testified she was in love with Garwood, gasped and placed her hand over her mouth.

Suit filed against meat firm

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — The Utah Attorney General's office Friday filed a state suit against Meat Masters, attempting to drive the retail bulk meat sales firm out of business in the state.

The suit says Meat Masters' outlets in Ogden, Orem and Salt Lake City have been involved in consumer fraud deals for the past 10 years, mainly involving bait-and-switch schemes to convince purchasers to buy more expensive bulk meat packages than the original low-cost offer.

Cop killer sentenced to die

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — A man convicted of killing a police officer despite his defense that his exposure to Agent Orange in Vietnam had damaged his mental capacity was sentenced Friday to die in the electric chair.

Wayne Felde, 32, who had urged the jury at his August trial to sentence him to death, was formally sentenced by District Judge Guy Humphreys.

Under Louisiana law, the conviction and sentence are automatically appealed to the state Supreme Court.

Klan sets anti-refugee rally

SANTA FE, Texas (UPI) — The mayor and the Texas grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan Friday appealed for peace at a scheduled weekend Klan rally supporting local fishermen against increasing Vietnamese refugee competition.

"It is going to be a peaceful gathering for American fishermen and the Klansmen who support these citizens in their effort to protect their jobs and their birthright," Texas Grand Dragon Louis Beam said.

Beam said he told City Council Thursday night "we were not going there to cause trouble, but to have an old time political rally with a fish fry, flag-saving, some speech-making, maybe some apple pie and a cross-lighting."

Plans for the noon to 10 p.m. Saturday rally also included burning "the U.S.S. Viet Cong," a dinghy symbolizing the influx of Indochinese refugees who are competing with local fishermen for limited resources in Texas waters.

Moslem rebels attack troops

ZAMBOANGA, Philippines (UPI) — Moslem rebels Friday attacked an army unit in the rebellion-torn southern Philippines, killing 124 troops including a commanding officer in the worst outbreak of fighting in more than six years, authorities said.

The rebels struck in the hilly municipality of Indanan on the craggy island of Jolo, more than 600 miles southwest of Manila.

Jolo was almost captured during a 1974 Moslem offensive in which more than 400 people were killed.

Guerrillas from the Moro National Liberation Front have been in the forefront of a war for self-rule for the 3.5 million Filipino Moslems in the nation's southern frontier.

Chad fears Libyan troops

PARIS (UPI) — Sudanese President Gaafar El Nimeiry in an interview published Saturday said Libyan troops are massed in Chad near its border with the Sudan.

Nimeiry told the Paris newspaper Le Figaro that the frontier situation was "extremely serious."

Cubans take over embassy

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Thirty-one heavily armed Cubans seeking political asylum stormed the Ecuadorian Embassy in Havana Friday and took three diplomats and a Cuban employee hostage, a Foreign Ministry official said.

There were unconfirmed reports the Cubans had threatened to kill the hostages if Cuban security forces tried to end the siege by force.

Shoplifter gets 10 years

HOUSTON (UPI) — A plump woman, the sole member of the "Bowlegged Gang," has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for trying to shoplift a TV set and fur coats by hiding them between her legs.

State District Judge Thomas Kwan Thursday sentenced Barbara Davis, 47, to 10 years in prison on three counts of theft involving the shoplifting of two fur coats and the TV set in separate incidents. Police said she tried to walk out of two stores by hiding the merchandise between her legs.

that of others to go slow as any less enthusiasm to create a better relationship with the federal government and correct the wrongs that have been perpetrated in the past."

The only Sagebrush Rebellion legislation introduced so far in the Legislature is house bill 200 by Rep.

John Brooks, R-Gooding. It excludes national parks, forests, military reservations, Indian reservations and others. Other public lands, if transferred, would be managed by the State Land Board. Lands could be sold with legislative approval, as allowed by state laws and in the same ways that the federal government now allows.

Ravenscroft said he may be able to support Brooks' bill, if some "strengthening amendments" are added.

If so, he said there would be no need for Sagebrush Rebellion Inc. to introduce a package of bills it has been working on to implement the constitutional amendment and the possible land transfer.

Garwood

Defense lawyers said that despite the lengthy sentence, they will pursue their efforts to have his conviction overturned.

"It will be appealed to the highest court in the land," said chief civilian defense attorney John C. Lowe.

The sentence came after a statement from Garwood was read to the jury, saying his loyalty to the Corps and the country was unwavering, and asking for mercy.

Garwood said he hoped he would be allowed to begin rebuilding his life with Mrs. Long and her son.

Lowe told the jurors Garwood's crimes should be considered in light of amnesty granted for "all those turkeys" who fled the United States during the Vietnam war.

"They didn't go to Vietnam," Lowe said. "They didn't spend 14 years in hell."

Garwood, in the statement read by one of his lawyers, said he accepted "as honest and sincere" the testimony of former POWs who accused him of carrying arms, accepting a position in the communist Army and helping interrogate and indoctrinate Americans in the jungle prison camps of the Viet Cong.

Garwood said he does not know what happened to him in Vietnam.

The statement was the first Garwood has made. Defense lawyers, who claim Garwood was driven insane by Viet Cong torture and was not responsible for his actions, maintained Garwood's mental illness made it impossible for him to testify in his own behalf.

Despite the plea for mercy, assistant prosecutor Capt. Teresa Wright called for "substantial confinement" for Garwood because of the "disgusting nature of his crime."

As she talked, Capt. Wright, a former schoolteacher, dropped BBs on a scale which she called the "scale of justice." When she finished, the scale was weighted heavily against Garwood.

Capt. Wright said Garwood cared only for his own survival while his fellow prisoners lay in the huts of the prison camp "surrounded by mud, vermin and their own defecation."

"Nobody ever promised Robert Garwood a rose garden," she said.

Garwood is expected to appear before a Congressional subcommittee looking into the existence of other Americans in North Vietnam. One witness at the trial mentioned — outside the courtroom — that Garwood had told him of seeing dozens of other Americans in North Vietnam long after the war was over.

Ed fund boost urged

BOISE (UPI) — The Legislature's Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee should boost funding for Idaho's public schools by about 6 percent, the Senate and House education committees recommended today.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, and Rep. Ernest Hale, R-Burley, gave the Legislature's budget-setting committee almost identical proposals for funding the state's public schools at about $23 million next year.

Barker also recommended a 6 percent increase in the current $24-million higher education appropriation, and Hale suggested a $7 million budget for the state colleges in fiscal year 1982.

Barker said the committee should earmark $600,000 in savings from an administrative merger of Lewis Clark State College and the University of Idaho for public schools. In addition, he recommended a merger of agricultural research and cooperative extension programs, for another $400,000 in savings he said should be given to public schools.

He said another $1 million could be added to the public school's current spending of about $183 million if lawmakers approved some of the governor's recommendations for curtailing spending in other state agencies.

In addition, he said, by equalizing property tax rates in all school districts to .30 of one percent, the Legislature could come up with another $10 million for Idaho's schools.

Finally, Barker recommended halving the state's support for kindergartens, for a $2.8 million appropriation in fiscal year 1982.

"The proposal I've got here for about a 6 percent increase means schools are going to have to run a very, very tight ship," Barker told the joint committee. "Twenty-six of the 50 states are in trouble just like we are in Idaho. They're in trouble over education and health and welfare just like we are."

Panel calls for end to athletics

BOISE — A House education subcommittee Friday recommended an end to state support of intercollegiate athletics to save $1.8 million.

House Subcommittee for Higher Education Chairman Dan Kelly, R-Mountain Home, said the panel made its suggestion to the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee, which will be setting budgets for fiscal year 1982 soon.

But the main recommendation of the committee was for a 6 percent increase in the FY81 general fund appropriation for each of the state's three universities and one college and a similar increase for junior college support.

Kelly said the joint committee will probably make a lower appropriation than the subcommittee suggested.

But he said "it's our honest, best estimate" of the least amount needed to maintain higher education.

The lump-sum university appropriation would jump from $53.8 million to $59.9 million, under the proposal.

The subcommittee suggested state spending for the state's two junior colleges be increased from $3.9 million to $4.2 million, a 9 percent increase.

"We strongly believe that all colleges and universities remain in the system in their present form," the three-man subcommittee's report stated in reference to attempts to cut Lewis-Clark State College.

The report said a large percentage of the state's best instructors are leaving or seeking other employment.

Since program cuts must be made, an end to support for athletics was "reluctantly but unanimously" suggested.

Bill to prohibit hydro pirating of water stalls

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

BOISE — A proposed bill to prevent "pirating" of water rights for hydropower development ran into minor wording problems Friday.

The sponsors, consultant Vern Ravenscroft of Boise and the Department of Water Resources, were directed by the House Resources and Conservation Committee to return with a corrected version.

Representatives of the Big Wood Canal Co., which owns and operates Magic Dam and Reservoir in Blaine County, pleaded for the proposal.

"Frankly, we need it," said engineer Thomas Schaffer of Twin Falls. He described how in the last six months it had become financially feasible for the company to install generators at the dam.

"We proceeded with developing an application to send to FERC (Federal Energy Regulatory Commission)," he said. "Much to our surprise, we found ourselves third in line."

He called it imperative that irrigators be informed when an application for additional use is filed and given the first right to develop it.

Additional uses, such as power generation, cannot interfere with irrigation water rights.

But Schaffer said he fears the potential of low-head hydropower to gain "great economic value" could, in the future, force "some altering of the delivery of irrigation water."

The anti-pirating measure would give the holder of the water right the option of developing the power site first. If he did not want or could not, others could develop it.

The proposed law would require the DWR to give preference to the present water user in issuing permits for appropriation of water for power.

The normal deadline for putting a water right to use is three to five years.

DWR Director Stephen Allred said the proposed law would not apply to permits for hydropower development that have already been approved.

But it would affect pending applications at the department.

Shel Chapman, director of the Idaho Water Users Association, endorsed the proposal saying some filings to develop irrigators' hydro sites were "essentially blackmail." "They want to be paid," he said.

Ravenscroft said Magic Dam was a prime example of a "pirating situation" by "out-of-state interests."

McClure plans no further action over hatchery sale

BOISE — An aide to Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, says McClure has no further plans regarding the controversial sale of the Crystal Springs Trout Hatchery.

The senator's office will continue to monitor the impending sale of the trout farm to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, press aide Todd Neuschwander said Friday.

Asked about a report that a meeting would be held today between McClure and trout farmers who claim the sale price is too high, Neuschwander said, "Nothing is on."

After addressing the Idaho Legislature Friday, McClure traveled to Jerome to speak at a Republican Lincoln Day banquet and was scheduled to be in Twin Falls today for an open house at the office of Sen. Steve Symms.

Neuschwander said a number of people "on both sides" have asked to meet with McClure while he is in Idaho, but that meeting was not on the senator's schedule.

"A lot that price is great, a lot not so great," Neuschwander said about the $3.2 million estimated price for the hatchery. "Everyone has his own perspective in looking at it from his own interest."

McClure "really feels he doesn't know what the answer is," he said. "Of all people he is the one to want to see taxpayers' money wasted."

Neuschwander said he doesn't know where the answer lies.

"There is little precedent to make an assessment on the worth of that water."

He pointed out McClure's office has contacted the Corps and had the General Accounting Office review the sale. It found the procedures and criteria used by the Corps were correct.

McClure warns against bill

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate has a legitimate right to demand the power to confirm appointments to the Pacific Northwest Power Council, Idaho Sen. James McClure told senators Friday.

During an address to the state Senate, the Idaho congressman said the law which established the power council for Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington intentionally included a clause which required appointments to the group to be made "pursuant to state law."

Gov. John Evans, a Democrat, has run into opposition from Senate President Pro Tem Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, over the two individuals who have been appointed to represent Idaho on the council. Budge has proposed a amendment which would negate those appointments and require that all decisions made on the council by Idaho's representatives be subject to a legislative veto.

"How you construct this state law is your responsibility, not mine," McClure said. "How you decide how to determine rules... is your responsibility, not mine."

But the Idaho Republican said he did not "personally" favor allowing the Idaho Legislature to veto all Idaho council member's votes. He said he did support plans to require that Idaho's representatives be approved by the Senate, however, before assuming their posts.

Sen. Peavey renews fight for power bill

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, is pushing a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow some cities and all existing irrigation districts and canal companies to issue revenue bonds for construction of hydroelectric facilities.

Peavey brought a similar proposal to the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee earlier in the session, but senators tabled the measure because they felt it was too broad.

This week, however, Peavey returned to the committee and gained initial approval of a trimmed-down version of his original proposal. While the first plan would ask voters to approve a constitutional amendment allowing cities to build any type of energy production facility, Peavey said, he included only hydroelectric facilities in his second proposal.

"We wanted to tighten it up so no one could say that someone could form a new irrigation district and sell bonds to build a coal plant," Peavey said.

Only those irrigation districts and canal companies in business as of Jan. 1 this year would be eligible to float the bonds if Peavey's proposal passes the Legislature and voter approval.

Bill calls for merger of LCSC with U of I

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee today introduced a bill to make Lewis-Clark State College a branch of the University of Idaho.

The proposal as written, however, was amended at the urging of Sen. Ron Beckspacher, D-Grangeville, to require the Lewiston school to remain as a four-year college.

Committee Chairman Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, urged the committee to introduce the bill, saying legislative proposals circulating about LCSC "have been misunderstood."

"The best way, it seems to me, is to get a bill out so the public knows exactly what we're talking about," Barker said. "Then we can hold full hearings and I imagine we'll have students down here."

The proposal would merge administrative functions at the two schools, but sponsor Sen. Vernon Brasse, R-Boise, said "one of the most significant" aspects of the legislation was that it would require that all state appropriations go directly to LCSC rather than be funneled through U.I.

"Idaho's 44 counties each would be assured a resident magistrate judge under a bill introduced Friday by the House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee.

Rep. Dan Emery's latest proposal to impose mandatory minimum prison sentences against drug dealers was introduced without debate Friday by the Idaho House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee.

A judge would have the option of imposing a life sentence.

The House Printing Committee voted to introduce a bill to repeal three sections of Idaho law that limit to eight hours the maximum working day for mine employees.

Rep. William Lytle, R-Pinehurst, said the bill would lead to contract negotiations allowing mining companies greater flexibility in scheduling.

Sen. Kenneth Bradshaw gained approval from a Senate committee Friday for a proposal he said would "plug a leak" which allows Idahoans to sell their property in order to obtain welfare checks.

Homeowner tax cut killed

BOISE (UPI) — A proposal to lower residential property taxes by nearly 7 percent and hike utilities' taxes by almost 35 percent died in the Senate Local Government and Taxation Committee Friday.

But sponsor Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, said he would continue pushing his legislation across the state "because you've got to make people aware of this issue — it's the most serious taxation issue facing the state."

Peavey also said he would consider taking his bill to the Senate State Affairs Committee, which is one of only two Senate committees allowed to introduce bills after Friday.

Peavey said Idaho's residential taxpayers have been "victimized by a huge tax shift resulting from the unfair way that utilities are assessed in comparison to other classes of property."

"My proposal would simply say to the state tax commission, 'use the same method of assessing utility (property) as we use for all other taxpayers,'" Peavey said. "I think the method we're using now is terribly unfair and unconstitutional."

In other legislative action: House Republicans decided after caucusing briefly Friday to treat water over the weekend on whether to stick to their guns or compromise with the Senate on a fiscal year 1982 salary plan for state workers.

House Majority Caucus Chairman B.E. Lewis, R-St. Maries, said he detected a feeling among the 56 House Republicans that they were willing to push for a compromise with the Senate, but "nothing's in concrete."

Sen. J. Wilson Steen gained initial approval in the Senate Resources and Environment Committee Friday for a bill that would allow the Legislature to oversee all federal plans to purchase land in the state.

The Glenns Ferry Republican said the bill would require the federal government to obtain legislative approval before buying private or state-owned property for such projects as fish hatcheries, dam facilities or buildings.

Stivers tells of meeting Reagan

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

With three minutes to go, a bank of television lights came on, and the press was allowed in.

"Mr. Stivers, now I'd like to hear from you," Reagan said.

That led to the Idahoan's appearance on national TV news that night.

"Speaking for the conservative American Legislative Exchange Council which he chairs, Stivers told the president ALEC supported his program of budget cuts without reservation.

"It was repeated to us that deep, drastic, severe, radical cuts were going to be made," before the president arrived.

"Every organization said, 'Here's our program we wish you wouldn't cut.' That was heard all around the table."

Stivers and the former California governor dwelled on western land problems.

"He made a statement and said something about returning the public lands to the states. It was something he wanted to get to work on."

"Mr. President, I don't know about here but out west we call that the Sagebrush Rebellion," Stivers responded.

"Our position is that if you don't let the lands return to state ownership, you will have to pay in-lieu taxes to local governments," Stivers said. But the states can maintain and make money if they operated the lands, he said.

Reagan "came roaring right back" with support. He told me some things I didn't know. He asked wasn't it strange that the federal land reserves stopped at the 100th meridian."

Craig supports 'In Lieu' payments

BOISE (UPI) — Rep. Larry Craig, saying he was not departing from his government-slashing campaign philosophy, urged the Reagan administration Friday to revive the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program.

The freshman Republican representative from Idaho's 1st District told reporters in the Idaho Statehouse that he and 14 fellow House members had written a letter, pleading with Reagan to allocate some funds to the program.

Craig blasted the "disregard" of the Carter administration because of its recommendation to end the estimated $114 million annual program, which compensates counties that have federal land, not subject to local taxes.

If the eliminated program were not restored by Reagan, Idaho's 44 counties would lose at least $6.7 million in fiscal year 1982, Craig said. Asked to explain why he was fighting a federal spending cut after hitting hard against blasted government budgets during his election race last year, Craig said federal appropriations to local governments were a desired form of federal involvement.

"This is very much in keeping with my campaign," Craig said. "You have to talk about the type of cuts you're dealing with."

He said the Payment in Lieu of Taxes program gave Idaho's counties total discretion in deciding how to use the money. This approach contained little red tape, unlike other federal programs such as several in the Bureau of Land Management, Craig said.

The 15 Western congressmen, including Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, who wrote Reagan suggested the administration put an "adequate" amount of money back into the program, not necessarily the full $114 million original request. "We understand some leeway is necessary" during the effort to balance the federal budget, Craig said.

He said he believed Reagan was leaning toward restoration of the program.

Craig said the county reimbursement program should be preserved while other U.S. Interior Department programs ought to be slashed. He lambasted the 15 percent overall budget-increase request of the department under then-interior Secretary Cecil Andrus.

However, Craig said he couldn't make specific budget-cutting recommendations because he hadn't had a chance to carefully review Interior's budget.

If the program were not restored, several Idaho counties would lose thousands of dollars. In fiscal year 1980, Cassia County got $506,000, Twin Falls County $478,000, Idaho County $421,000, Bonneville $388,000, Owyhee $328,000 and Blaine $314,000.

Reporter given review of contempt charges

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court has agreed to review a contempt of court citation and $36,000 in fines levied against Idaho Statehouse reporter Ellen Marks by 4th District Court Magistrate Karen Vehlow.

In granting the review, the Supreme Court said it appeared that "good cause exists" for the court to examine the case.

Earlier this week, an attorney for Miss Marks argued before the high court that Mrs. Vehlow had exceeded her statutory powers in ordering Marks to reveal confidential information in a child custody case.

Attorney Robert Bilow said the judge should have examined the relevancy of Miss Marks' information and should have determined if the information was available from other sources.

The state argued, however, Mrs. Vehlow had "liberated powers" in citing and fining Marks for contempt.

Mrs. Vehlow imposed the contempt order Sept. 19 after Miss Marks refused to reveal confidential information from an interview about a child custody dispute.

The case involved former Garden City resident Genl Gilmore, who refused to return her 9-year-old daughter, Alysia, to her ex-husband, Michael Clary of Omaha, Neb. Clary had been awarded custody of the child after he and Mrs. Gilmore were divorced in May 1975.

Clary since has regained custody of the child and the contempt charges against Miss Marks have been lifted.

Education Board studies 'worst' budget

LEWISTON (UPI) — A "worst case" budget exercise based on a figure considered to represent a possible appropriation for Idaho's higher-education system has been launched by the office of the state Education Board.

The Lewiston Morning Tribune reported Friday officials at the state's four-year college and three-universities were asked this week to outline what would happen if higher education were given $65 million by the Legislature for next fiscal year.

That figure represents about a 2 percent increase over current spending, 7 percent below what Gov. John Evans called for and 12 percent below what higher-education officials say is necessary to avoid substantial program cuts, personnel reductions and student-fee increases.

The $66 million amount has not been adopted by any legislative committee or advocated publicly by any legislator.

Lawyer named for Franklin

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A veteran defense attorney has been appointed to represent Joseph Paul Franklin on charges the self-proclaimed white supremacist deprived two black joggers of their civil rights by ambushing and killing them.

U.S. District Court Judge Bruce Jenkins Thursday named Robert VanSciver as lead counsel for Franklin, 30, Mobile, Ala. Franklin asked for a new lawyer earlier in the week, saying his present council, Stephen McCaughey, is a "government flunky."

Jenkins had said he wants the trial to begin as scheduled on Feb. 23. Unless VanSciver can convince the judge to grant a continuance, the lawyer will have only 10 days to prepare his case.

The judge has ordered McCaughey and other defense lawyers to aid VanSciver as he pours over hundreds of pages of witness interviews and other evidence.

Franklin is accused of civil rights violations stemming from the Aug. 20 sniper slayings of Ted Fields, 20, and David Martin, 18. The two young men were shot to death as they jogged home from Liberty Park.

Cupid cause of divorces?

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Cupid is a delinquent cherub, an emotional mugger sociologist Ray Short blames for the nation's high divorce rate.

"Those wings on his back are not angelic. They're for a quick get away," said Short, who teaches marriage and family classes at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville.

"You may think that gentle wound from Cupid's dart will turn into a painful thorn in the flesh," he said.

The high divorce rate can be attributed to the confusion between romantic infatuation and real love, said Short, author of "Sex, Love and Infatuation: How Can I Really Know?"

Although Cupid, the mascot of Valentine's Day, is pictured as the traditional bearer of love, he is really the bearer of infatuation, Short said.

"Romantic infatuation isn't enough to support a happy, permanent marriage," he said. "Marriages last longer when we trust our heads not our hearts. Since studies show that romantic love lasts no longer than three to five years, even if you throw in a red-hot sex relationship, your heart will let you down."

No couple should marry unless their courtship and engagement periods span at least two years, he said.

"Anything less is far too chancey," he said. "It's like spitting in a tiger's face. You may get by with it but it's a terrible risk."

For those who want to see if their love is the real thing, Short has developed a series of questions to analyze the relationship.

They include: How many things about the other person attract you? What is the major attraction? How consistent is your interest in each other? How does it affect your personality? How do you two view each other? How do others view you two? What does distance do to the relationship?

Short said he tells his students no couple should marry before spending at least one weekend camping out together, adding — "Properly charged, of course."

"See how she reacts when a cold rain seeps under her tent and up through her sleeping bag," Short said. "When she gets up she's cold, she's wet, she's miserable. That's not a good look at her then falls. Does she get angry — clam up, nag at you for leaving the matches out?"

"Or suppose he's fishing, slips on a rock and hits his tailbone on another one. He loses his best rod and reel and the biggest fish he's hooked all day. Take a good look at him then girls. Does he cuss a blue streak, pout, blame you for everything?"

Short said a stress situation will tell the individuals more about each other than a dozen dates.

But, lest he sound like the Valentine's Day's version of Scrooge, Short said he's not against romance and infatuation.

"It's a marvelous, dreamy-eyed feeling that everybody ought to experience," he said. "When it happens to you, savor it, revel in it, enjoy it to the fullest. Let it roll over you like a warm wave in the south sea.

"Just don't get drowned in it."

Balloonists limp across Persian Gulf

By United Press International

A slowly leaking balloon piloted by two Americans seeking to circle the globe in less than 10 days limped across the Arabian desert and over Oman Friday on a course taking them just south of what they said they feared most — Iranian air space.

There also were fears that the flight, by Maxie Anderson, 46, and Donald Ida, 47, may have to be aborted because of a small leak in their helium balloon, the "Jules Verne," named after the author of "Around the World in 80 Days."

The private Weather Services Corp. of Bedford, Mass., which was tracking the course of the balloon by radar and radio, said Oman air traffic control reported the Jules Verne about 160 miles northwest of the Persian Gulf state of Muscat at 11 a.m. EST.

The course would put the balloon anywhere from 50 to 100 miles south of Iran, which refused the adventurers' request for an overnight despite reported diplomatic appeals from Algeria and Switzerland.

Anderson had said that he and Ida feared they would be shot down if sudden gusts of wind blew them into Iranian airspace.

"There is a U.S. Navy task force in the Arabian Sea should Ida, an Albuquerque, N.M., businessman, and Ida, a Boulder, Colo, tree nursery owner, have to abort their trip over the Persian Gulf."

Bob Rice at Weather Services Corp. said he was trying to make radio contact with the balloonists to discuss the leak with them.

"There are various pieces of advice we want to pass on relative to the problem, or what appears to be a problem," he said.

SPCA fears cats may be a new coat

LAHASKA, Pa. (UPI) — Hold on to "Fluffy," or your favorite feline may end up as part of somebody's winter coat.

A price list circulated by a fur dealer has prompted the Bucks County SPCA to warn pet owners to keep a close watch on their cats.

The list, published by Raymond C. Rumpf & Sons of Ferndale, Pa. offers to pay between 25 cents and $3.50 for the furs of house cats.

"There's nothing illegal about selling cat fur unless the cat happens to belong to somebody else, in which case it's a misdemeanor," Jo Irwin, SPCA president said Friday.

The controversy began when a woman sent Mrs. Irwin a copy of the fur price list her son had received in the mail.

Mrs. Irwin said the SPCA fears cats might become hunted animals if young trappers realize they can profit from them.

"The letter certainly encourages children to trap because they make a lot of money from this," she said.

Raymond C. Rumpf, president of the fur firm, said his price list is sent only to people who specifically request it. He said although "several hundred thousand dollars" worth of furs are supplied by local trappers each year, Bucks County cats have not been offered for sale to his company.

Most of the cats purchased for resale to European customers come from the Midwest, and many of those are dead animals supplied by SPCA chapters, Rumpf said.

Rumpf said his company will buy cat skins offered by trappers without knowing whether the cats were stolen except from "the person's integrity."

What happened to Susan B.?

By United Press International

IF YOU KNEW SUSIE

Remember the Susan B. Anthony dollar? It's almost as hard to find these days as a Democrat in the Reagan Cabinet. And the director of the U.S. Mint when the coin was issued will soon be scarce in government circles if her resignation is accepted. Stella Hackel Sims, who went from an unsuccessful race for Vermont governor to director of the U.S. Mint, has resigned her post effective April 1. Mrs. Sims, a Democrat appointed to her post by President Carter, says she resigned because President Reagan is entitled to pick his own person for the job. She said she may join a Washington law firm specializing in international trade. Mrs. Sims indicated she was a little unhappy with the poor public acceptance of the $1 dollar. "If it acquires more success, I think I would be more gratified to be remembered for it," Mrs. Sims said.

TRAVELING MAN

Not everybody goes to Nepal to climb Mt. Everest "because it's there." U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim went to Nepal Friday because Nepal is there. Waldheim and his wife were greeted at the Kathmandu airport by Prime Minister Surya Bahadur Thapa and the Nepal cabinet, and were scheduled to meet King Birendra later. Waldheim also was scheduled to meet high ranking officials before leaving for Dacca Sunday. Visiting foreign lands is one of the fringe benefits of being U.N. Secretary-General. It beats starting out at the East River from the 38th floor of the U.N. building in New York City.

WATER FOR A QUARTER

Sid Allen of Elmsford N.Y., has found a way to combine philanthropy with public service. Allen, who owns a restaurant in drought-stricken Westchester County, charges customers 25 cents a glass for the water they drink. The $1,000 he has collected so far goes to his favorite charity, Cerebral Palsy. Allen says the customers don't object. "They think it's kind of cute. Generally, if people go to a restaurant, 25 cents is nothing." But a few customers apparently think of 25-cent water as just another item on the menu so if they don't like the water, we take the 25 cents off their check," Allen says. "It's only happened with one or two people."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Rutherford Hayes of Ohio took office in 1877 as the nation's 19th president. Zora Van Gulder was born that year and on Saturday she will be guest at a party at Hayes' home where her father was once a groundskeeper. Also on Saturday she'll receive birthday congratulations from President Reagan, the 21st president the Fremont native has seen in her 104 years. Mrs. Van Gulder, now a resident of Gaymont Nursing Home in Norwalk, Ohio, will be the guest of honor at birthday luncheon at Hayes' home in Spiegel Grove, near Fremont, her childhood home. In addition to President Reagan's letter, Mrs. Van Gulder will also receive congratulatory letters from Reps. John Ashbrook and Delbert Latta, both R-Ohio, at Saturday's party. And the menu will include her favorite foods — steak and mashed potatoes.

BELLIÇOSE

Attorney Melvin Belli says, "We (the U.S.A.) may not have been strong in the desert with the helicopters, but we'll be strong as hell in the courts." The noted lawyer was referring to possible damage suits by former hostages against the Iranian government. "I think the people in America would feel good to convict Ayatollah Khomeini in court," Belli told students at the University. "If I were a hostage, I'd certainly want to sue Khomeini," Belli said. "There is so much Iranian money and oil floating around that I think we could get him." Belli said he would want at least 10 of the former hostages to be part of any suit before proceeding with legal action.

Quintuplets said in good, stable health

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Three tiny boys and two tiny girls, the second set of quintuplets born in Oregon, were reported in "stable" condition Friday at University Hospital.

A spokesman said chances for survival appeared good, although the quintuplets were born about three months prematurely.

Each weighed about 2 pounds. The mother, who had no other children, and the father, who witnessed the multiple birth by Caesarean section, declined to let their names be made public immediately. A doctor said the woman had taken a fertility drug.

The children were delivered about three months ahead of the usual 40 weeks.

Dr. Kenneth Burry, the attending obstetrician who had administered the fertility drug when the mother sought to become pregnant, delivered the babies.

The births all occurred within two minutes, with separate medical teams attending each infant. Each team had a pediatrician, resident physician and transport nurse.

Dr. Burry said two of the babies breathed on their own immediately and that three had to be given breathing assistance at the start.

Firemen mourn loss of mascot

NEW YORK (UPI) — Engine Company 35 buried a fallen comrade Friday with a sad salute and full honors.

Otto, who had been following firefighters into burning buildings for most of his five years, died Thursday under the wall of a collapsing tenement.

Tearful firemen dug through more than a ton of bricks and debris to rescue the body of their mascot, a mixed breed German shepherd.

"He was a very intelligent dog," said a mournful Dan Nigro of Engine Co. 35. "He could find his way back to the firehouse from anywhere in Harlem."

A fire dog through and through, Otto and his mate, Benji, went to every blaze in the fire-prone East Harlem neighborhood where they lived, riding the trucks and offering support to their two-legged comrades.

"Otto enjoyed going right into the fire with the men," said Nigro. "He'd follow the hose lines right into the buildings."

The members of Engine Co. 35 and Ladder Co. 15, who had raised Otto from a pup, turned out at a parking lot next to the firehouse to give Otto a proper send-off.

"We found him an honored spot alongside the firehouse," said Nigro. "We gave him a salute and an official send-off."

Two more bodies discovered in Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — A body believed to be one of Atlanta's missing black children was found near an office complex on Atlanta's north side Friday, and skeletal remains — believed those of a child — were found southwest of the city.

A maintenance worker picking up trash around Corporate Square, a northeast Atlanta office complex just off busy north-south Interstate 85, found the body. "They have a tentative identification," said DeKalb County police spokesman Chuck Johnson. "We are assuming it is one of the missing children."

Dick Hand, the county's public safety director, said officers found no apparent marks on the body. Johnson said the youth "apparently had not been dead more than a day," but Hand said it was difficult to pin down the time of death because of cold weather. He said there had been no apparent decomposition.

Of the three unaccounted for on the city's list of 18 murdered or missing children, the only one to disappear recently was Patrick Baltazar, 11, who failed to return home last Friday after watching an amateur boxing card in downtown Atlanta.

The other missing youths were Darron Glass, 10, who disappeared last September, and Jeffrey Lamar Mathis, 11, who was last seen in March 1980. FBI agents were working with specially trained dogs in a heavily wooded area in unincorporated Fulton County, more than 15 miles from Corporate Square, when they found the bones.

"We have been searching systematically for the missing children every day, and today we found one," an FBI spokesman said. He said the agents were not following up any tips.

Deputy Fulton County Police Chief Lou Graham said the bones found 50 to 60 feet from a road bisecting a rural area were not definitely linked to a missing children case, but "there are a lot of similarities here."

He said it was difficult to say how long the remains had been in the area they were found, but "it has been here for a while."

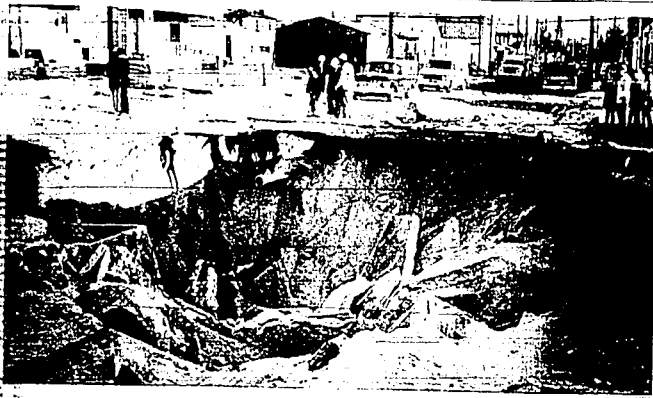

Scores of police, including officers of the task force created to investigate the death or disappearances of 18 black children since July 1979, were dispatched to both sites.

Fulton County Police Chief Clinton Chafin said the southwest site was less than two miles from the spot where the body of Laible "Chuck" Geter, 14, was found last week. Five other bodies involved in the children's mystery have been found within a five-mile radius of the spot.

Cliff Steagall, who works for a marketing service with offices at Corporate Square, said the body was lying about five feet down an embankment from a paved parking area.

Police remove from forested area one of two bodies found in separate locations yesterday

Gaping holes like this were created following a spill of toxic chemicals into city sewers

Louisville's sewers blow up

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Exploding sewers ripped through streets, shot manhole covers into the air and knocked people out of bed in a wide area of Louisville Friday.

The blasts caused an estimated $10 million in damages. Authorities said a chemical leak from a nearby plant may have been the cause of the explosions which also resulted in the dumping of 60 million gallons of raw sewage a day into the Ohio River.

Four people were injured, none seriously, in two car accidents as the explosions spewed debris and rocked buildings in an area 15 blocks by 14 blocks.

Utility lines throughout the area were severed as the pre-dawn explosions moved along sewers in the city's historic Old Louisville neighborhood of restored Victorian-style homes.

The Metropolitan Sewer District, which operates Louisville's sewage system, said a reported leak of the toxic and highly explosive chemical hexane could have caused the explosions in 10-foot diameter sewer lines.

MSD spokesman John Tierney and company officials confirmed the Balfour-Zuellig soybean processing plant along a key sewer line was the focus of an investigation to determine the cause of the blasts.

Steve Colhurst, manager of the plant which produces soybean meal and oil, said that on Thursday the company had lost "some" hexane into the sewer system. "We are studying the situation now."

Balfour-Zuellig issued a statement at its St. Louis headquarters indicating it was trying to determine if an equipment malfunction blamed on near-zero degree temperatures was to blame for any chemical leak into street sewers.

Because of the explosions, 60 million gallons daily of untreated sewage was diverted into the Ohio River, used as a drinking water source by numerous downriver communities.

Tierney said engineers feared chemically tainted sludge would create a potentially explosive mixture if it reached MSD's main sewage treatment plant.

A similar diversion of sludge was ordered in 1977 when city sewers were contaminated by the illegal dumping of two toxic chemicals.

Fire Chief Larry M. Bonafant said the explosions couldn't be explained by normal gas accumulations in the sewers.

The blasts created 20-foot-wide pits in several streets. Schools shut down in the affected area and some factories left without power closed for the day.

Hotel fire

Police doubt suspect's story of accidental fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Authorities said Friday they doubted the story of a homosexual busboy that he started the Hilton hotel fire by accident.

They said were checking possible links between the suspect and an outbreak of arson which has plagued the casinos and hotels of Las Vegas for several months.

The series of fires began shortly after the disastrous MGM blaze last November in which 84 persons died. The Las Vegas Hilton fire Tuesday night killed eight persons.

Detectives were seeking clues that might target Philip B. Cline, 23, a drifter who had worked at a number of Las Vegas hotels, as a suspect in the other fires.

Cline worked at several other hotels before being hired at the Hilton last Friday, just five days before the hotel, the largest in the United States, suffered a major fire in its east tower.

Deputy Police Chief Eric Cooper said police have uncovered a "motive" and other evidence suggesting Cline was lying when he told them the fire was set accidentally by a marijuana cigarette during a homosexual encounter with a man he called "Joe."

Cooper would not disclose the new evidence or the alleged motive. But police investigators believe the arsonist was driven at least partly by a lust for sexual kicks that motivates some pyromaniacs.

Arson investigators said a cigarette alone could not touch off the curtains where Cline told them the fire started. The material was flame retardant and it would require a "very hot" ignition to set them ablaze. They hinted a flammable substance may have been detected in the area, but declined to confirm this.

A medical expert said Friday it was lucky timing which saved many of the nearly 3,000 guests at the Hilton. The fire occurred in the evening when few guests were up in their rooms in the tower.

Fire broke out in a highrise tower at the Las Vegas Hilton at 8 p.m. Tuesday while most of the guests were being entertained in the casino and showroom. The fire in the MGM Grand last Nov. 21, on the other hand, started while most guests were asleep, but the fire itself was down near the nearby casino.

The MGM fire was officially attributed to a smoldering electrical short. But arson investigators indicated they would take another look at that finding, along with an investigation of other recent fires known to have been set deliberately.

Cline, a highschool drop out who jumped from job to job and an admitted homosexual, is being held without bail on one count of arson and eight counts of murder.

If convicted, he faces the death penalty.

Year of tragedy for Nevada casinos

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — For the past year, the glittering and opulent setting of Nevada's casinos have been the scene of trouble and tragedy.

The worst was the MGM Grand fire Nov. 21, which took 84 lives and injured more than 700, but there were others:

• A riot in Reno on New Year's Day 1980 when celebrants turned violent and a crowd surged down Casino Row, battling police and smashing storefronts. One man was killed.

• Arson attempts in Las Vegas at the Dunes Hotel in January 1980 and at the Royal American in December. In both cases, the fires were quickly discovered and extinguished.

• An extortionist's bomb wrecked Harvey's Hotel at Lake Tahoe last summer, but caused no injuries.

• The explosion at Harvey's was followed by several threatened extortions at Las Vegas "strip" and Lake Tahoe resorts.

• Two days after the MGM fire, Harrah's Reno Hotel was evacuated when fire broke out in a restaurant. There were no injuries and damage was minor.

• About a month after the MGM blaze, several hundred guests at Circus Circus on the Las Vegas "strip" fled when fire erupted in electrical equipment outside the resort.

• Another fire destroyed Kelley's Nugget Casino at North Lake Tahoe. One person was killed.

• On Thanksgiving Day 1980, six persons were killed and 25 were hurt when a car sped down the sidewalk on Reno's Casino Row.

CPSC, FTC cuts ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's budget trimmers Friday ordered 30 percent of spending and 225 jobs cut from the Consumer Product Safety Commission, one of the government's least popular regulatory agencies.

A spokesman said the agency was appealing the decision because it would force a "very substantial realignment of the commission." One official, who asked not to be identified, said the results would be "catastrophic."

In addition, the Federal Trade Commission said the Office of Management and Budget has served notice it wants to eliminate the FTC's antitrust enforcement for three years.

The trade commission called a closed afternoon meeting to decide whether to appeal the order.

Reagan mulls effective date for tax cut; hones budget ax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With five days to go before he reveals his economic recovery plan, President Reagan Friday held fine-tuning conferences with Cabinet members and mulled over the still-undecided question of an effective date for a tax cut.

Administration sources said the president was under increasingly heavy pressure to give Americans a tax break starting July 1 or later rather than retroactive to Jan. 1.

Budget director David Stockman, the president's budget slasher, opposes a Jan. 1 start-up of the plan to reduce taxes by 30 percent over three years because it would gobble up needed revenues.

But other aides argue that the economy needs a drastic and immediate shakeup.

It was the final day in a series of meetings throughout the week to discuss the proposed budget cuts, which officials have said will total almost $50 billion.

As in the earlier meetings, there was little dissension.

"Lots of cuts. Lots of agreement," summed up presidential assistant David Gergen, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan agreed.

Stockman and Halg reportedly have settled their publicized dispute over cuts in foreign aid by agreeing to a $6.9 billion aid total, down from the $8.1 billion in the last Carter administration budget.

During the three-day at-Camp David, Reagan was scheduled to work on the Wednesday night speech that will tell Americans his plan for the "across-the-board cuts" he has vowed will not hurt the "truly needy."

The speech was the focal point of the White House week, dominating presidential meetings and every news briefing.

Kennedy, Mondale file committees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy and former Vice President Walter Mondale are taking a tip from Ronald Reagan's political handbook by forming political committees that could become the basis for 1984 presidential campaigns.

The immediate purpose of the committees will be to allow Mondale and Kennedy to raise funds for other Democratic candidates.

In 1976 Reagan organized a similar committee after losing the GOP presidential nomination. It served as the base for his campaign operations the following four years.

Neither Mondale nor Kennedy have said they are running in 1984 and Kennedy insists he is concentrating on winning re-election in Massachusetts in 1982.

Kennedy will file with the Federal Election Commission next week. Mondale took similar action a week ago.

Charities asked to return $

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department's chief legal officer said Friday the agency is demanding the return of unspent portions of $4 million given to four charities by an outgoing Carter administration official.

Department special counsel Paul Bloom distributed $1 million to each charity as his last act in office on Jan. 19, on the understanding it would be used to help poor people pay for winter fuel bills.

The money was part of a $100 million overcharging settlement the department reached with Amoco on Feb. 14, 1980.

Officials of the Energy Department met privately with officials of the charities Friday and told reporters later the agency would not try to recover the money already spent.

Col. Ernest Miller of the Salvation Army said his group had already spent the bulk of the $1 million it received from Bloom.

"We recommended they accept it as 'fall accompl' and forget it," laughed Miller. "They didn't take that option."

"We may have to put the kettles on the street and ask the people to put in enough money to give it back," quipped Miller.

The Reagan administration learned of Bloom's action Monday, and immediately asked the charities not to spend the money, pending a review.

Plane crash kills 20 Soviet generals

MOSCOW (UPI) — A plane crash near Leningrad last week killed 20 Soviet generals and admirals, including the commander of the Soviet navy's Pacific fleet, and 47 other persons, Soviet sources said Friday.

There was no mention of the accident in local newspapers in Leningrad. But a Western airline representative said officials of the Soviet airline Aeroflot told him at Leningrad airport that 20 people were killed.

U.S. plans to sell Jordan Cobra anti-tank helicopters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration, in a move virtually unopposed by Israel, has decided to sell Jordan 24 Huey Cobra helicopters armed with sophisticated antitank missiles, officials said Friday.

Israel, whose arsenal already includes the Able gunship and more than 800 American M-60 Patton tanks, made virtually no effort to head off the helicopter sale.

Israeli jets flame Syrian MiG-23

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli jetfighters returning from a reconnaissance mission over Beirut shot down an advanced Syrian MiG-23 Friday over central Lebanon.

village of Ainata, 43 miles northeast of Beirut, the sources said. Police said the MiG pilot was seen parachuting from his plane into an area controlled by Syrian peacekeeping troops.

Non-aligned nations blast Jews, Soviets

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The movement of non-aligned nations Friday demanded its 95 members sever all relations with Israel.

It was believed to be the first time the advanced Soviet-made MiG-23 ever has been reported involved in an air battle.

U.S., Soviets trade barbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union and the United States accused each other Friday of violating a 1972 "code of conduct" treaty designed to improve relations between the super-powers.

The "Treaty of Basic Principles," signed in the atmosphere of U.S. Soviet detente, pledged that the two countries would try to prevent any irritations in mutual relations.

It was the Soviets who were responsible for the ineffectiveness of the agreement," he said.

Polish party hints it can't honor deal

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The new Polish government conceded for the first time Friday that it may not be able to honor all of the provisions in historic Gdansk accords.

ministers named by Jaruzelski at a parliament session Thursday.

"The promises now are confronted by reality. The economic situation in Poland is worsening further, putting a question mark on fulfilling the economic points of the agreements," he said.

The Solidarity leadership, meanwhile, indicated it would accept a call by Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, the new premier, for a 90-day moratorium on strikes.

It also accused the Reagan Administration of irresponsible "speculation" about Soviet intervention in Poland.

However, in an admission that could heighten tensions between the government and the unions, Rakowski hinted for the first time that Communist regime may not be able to live up to all of the promises in made in the Gdansk accords that ended last summer's nationwide strikes and created the first independent labor movement in the East Bloc.

Stressing the government wanted to implement all points of the summer agreements, Rakowski said, "the agreements were signed in a very peculiar moment of deep political crisis. Both sides were under pressure."

But union officials also cautioned that they reserved the right to call strikes to support farmers' efforts to form a Rural Solidarity independent union — a demand rejected by the regime.

Revolt in Zimbabwe crushed

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe (UPI) — Government troops and tanks overran a rebel-held army base Friday and reopened a main highway in an offensive that appeared to break the back of a six-day rebellion that pushed Zimbabwe to the brink of civil war.

At least 100 people were killed in the six days of fighting around Bulawayo, which the mutineers had tried to seize for their headquarters.

Prime Minister Robert Mugabe ordered the troops, led by white officers from the former Rhodesian army that until last year had been fighting his forces, to crush the rebellion by guerrillas loyal to his Patriotic Front rival Joshua Nkomo.

Job seekers invade a town with no jobs

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

CHALLIS — Challis Mayor Byrl Bitton is asking people to stay away from Challis unless they have a job waiting here.

In a press release he issued Friday, Bitton made the request as the fear grows among some Challis residents that the town is being overrun by strangers. To others, it is only what was to be expected — and not a particularly serious problem — as construction begins on Cyprus Mines Corporation's $300 million molybdenum mine southwest of Challis.

Population projections by Cyprus said the approximately 1,000 people in Challis would be joined by 1,500 to 2,000 more people by 1983, as people moved to Challis to take jobs at the mine or at the additional restaurants and drug stores that would be needed to serve the larger population.

It appears Cyprus officials underestimated the number of people who would come to Challis looking for work before the population steadies sometime after 1983, though.

People are spending their last dollars to come to Challis thinking they'll find work at the mine, Bitton said, adding, "There is none."

Bitton's news release said, "We have no jobs available at the present and no living accommodations available. There have been three cases of suspected infectious hepatitis in congested living areas. Satisfactory living accommodations are not available.

"We are asking those individuals who do not have a confirmed job not to move to Challis, Idaho, at this time."

A new branch office of the state Job Service recently opened in Challis and processes about 70 applications each day for non-existent jobs, Bitton said. One company doing work for Cyprus at the mine site has applications from 2,000 more people than it can hire, he noted.

Doug Hammond, who owns a gas station on Main Street, said 30 to 40 people a day ask him for directions to the employment office.

There are people sleeping in campers parked at every wide spot in the highway on the 40 miles of highway between Challis and Clayton, he said.

Challis is becoming home to a different type of person, too, Hammond said. One result — he just had $200 in bad checks returned to him from the bank, he said.

When a sociologist working for Cyprus asked him what Cyprus could do to improve the situation, Hammond said he told the sociologist that Cyprus could leave.

Custer County Sheriff Gerald Hanson said the influx of people has created problems for him. "I couldn't give you figures or percentages, but we've all noticed that crime has increased," he said.

The blame for all this is laid at Cyprus' doorstep, even though Cyprus will not begin hiring people to work at the mine until May 1.

Condemned property gets higher price tag

BOISE — Owners of Swiss Villa near Obsidian will receive almost $1 million more for the housing complex following a condemnation suit with the U.S. Forest Service.

A federal court judge Thursday has ruled in favor of several Twin Falls residents owning the property condemned for the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

The Forest Service had offered to pay $600,000 for Swiss Villa when it began claiming land designated in the recreation area.

Twin Falls residents John Lutz, David Lutz, Stan Walters and Myrl Schroeder, now living in Boise, filed suit against the Forest Service demanding higher payment for their property.

Federal District Court Judge Marion Callister issued his ruling about 7:30 p.m. Thursday following a two-week-long jury trial. Callister ordered the Forest Service to pay the Swiss Villa owners $1,533,000 plus 12.33-percent interest on any payment exceeding the $600,000 deposited by the Forest Service in April 1978.

The case is the third evaluation trial resulting from SNRA condemnation. About 47 condemnations have been involved to date in the SNRA enactment, but only three have resulted in court cases, according to SNRA Superintendent Alan Ashton.

"We still have about 16 outstanding condemnation cases to handle," Ashton said Friday. "That's a small percentage of cases compared to the 300 land owners we've dealt with in negotiating land sales."

The Swiss Villa owners, represented by Hepworth, Nungester and Felton of Twin Falls, cited two property appraisals conducted by California and Oregon firms.

Cassia County Truant Officer Ruth Heiner's job takes her anywhere from delivering books at hospitals to searching local playgrounds.

Sun Valley fire draws conflict in time reports

By STEVE LATHROP
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Sharply conflicting accounts surround a 1 a.m. fire which destroyed four condominium units Friday.

A Sun Valley Fire Department spokesman estimated between 20 and 30 minutes elapsed after flames lapped out of an overloaded fireplace and before the alarm was turned in. There were no injuries, he said.

"Had we been called promptly, we could have saved the building... we had the same thing three years ago, and we saved the building," the spokesman said.

However, a statement issued by Sun Valley Co. Publicity Director Kathy Hoy disputes the fire department account. The Sun Valley statement says there were only five minutes between the first call to the company switchboard and the arrival of the Sun Valley fire truck.

Both versions do agree the fire started when a vacationing guest in Villager II condominium 1379 built a fire too large for his fireplace. The flames shot out the front and penetrated a poorly fitted space between the manufactured metal fireplace and the frame wall.

The guest called the company switchboard to ask for "another fire extinguisher," according to the Sun Valley Co. account.

Both versions also say the switchboard dispatched an agent of Sun Valley Security, the company's private police force. The Sun Valley Co. account said, "Our desk clerk immediately notified our security officer Stephen Breneman, who said he was on his way and to call the fire department immediately. The guest had called back by this time and said it was getting worse, and by the time the truck arrived, both the security and the fire department were on their way."

"Breneman estimated the time lapse between the first phone call and the arrival of Sun Valley fire truck to be about five minutes."

The fire department account said the security officer radioed for the fire truck only after arriving at the scene of the fire.

In either case, the building was fully ablaze when the fire truck arrived. Volunteer firemen battled the fire for an hour and a half, bringing it under control at 2:30 a.m., the fire department spokesman said.

Then, while firemen were mopping up at Villager II, a smoke alarm went off in the Snow Creek Condominium several blocks away. A Snow Creek tenant turned in an alarm to the fire department and the firemen were dispatched from Villager II to Snow Creek, the spokesman said.

The Snow Creek call was a false alarm, but while the firemen were there, the Villager blaze re-ignited. "I looked over my shoulder and I could see it," the spokesman said. The firemen raced back to the Villager, and worked at re-extinguishing that fire until after 7 a.m., the spokesman said.

Only two units of the Villager II fourplex burned completely, but the fire department spokesman said the building was a total loss.

The Sun Valley statement credited Breneman with helping guests remove their personal belongings from the burning building and seeing that the building was evacuated.

'Attendance supervisor' can be tough

Gentle lady keeps kids in school

By LINDA CATES
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — In Cassia County schools, the strong arm of justice is administered through a gentle-mannered lady.

For 14 years Ruth Heiner has been bringing truants, back to school. "I'm like the mounted police," said Heiner, "I always get my man."

Denying the title "truant officer" in favor of "attendance supervisor," Heiner claims there isn't a situation she hasn't seen. The mother of six children and grandmother of 36 lists illicit sex, prostitution, drugs and incest among the problems she has encountered.

Far from being hardened by her experiences, Heiner remains a soft-hearted grandmother. "There are times when I just go home and cry into my pillow at night," she said.

Heiner's first case was a home visit where a youngster had not been in school for a month. The mother had packed a lunch for her son every day, and as far as she knew he had gone to school. But Heiner discovered he had spent his days playing down at the Snake River.

Heiner said her first problem case was a third-grader who wrapped himself around a table leg and said, "I'm not going to school and you're not going to make me." That time she went through the courts to resolve the matter.

Court action is frequently a part of her job. Before 1974, when newer rulings came out, Heiner would help police locate runaways.

Once Heiner located a girl who refused to go back home. It was Christmas time and the girl's worried mother was frantic, so Heiner insisted the girl return with her. When they pulled up in front of the house, Heiner watched as mother and daughter embraced in tearful reunion.

"Working with the public has its problems," Heiner said. "Some don't feel too kindly. At first I took it personally, I fell badly."

Heiner learned to cope. "It isn't personal anymore. I learned to wear a different hat. On the job I am non-personal. If I want to take a casserole to a family, I do it on my own time."

Over the years Heiner has located clothing for poorly clothed youths, aided sick children get home from school, picked up children who missed the bus, carted books to the hospital and represented the school district in the courtroom.

She claims to have been bitten by dogs and chewed on by parents. One mother threatened her with a butcher knife, and two families threatened to get a well-known labor leader after her.

"But, many times, the families who gave me the worst time came to me later for help when they were in trouble," said Heiner.

Heiner whose husband Cal is the county tax assessor, comes from a sheltered environment where "drug abuse and runaway students were things you read about in books."

She stays on the job because of the challenge, and because she is performing a service. "I have sometimes helped a child," said Heiner.

So, for a few more years, Cassia County youngsters will face a 60-year-old grandmother if they get caught up by the urge to fish down at the river on a sunshine-filled day.

Social Security cuts may not affect CSI

TWIN FALLS — Plans by the federal government to drop Social Security benefits for college students probably will not reduce enrollment at the College of Southern Idaho.

Karl Black, business manager for CSI, said there are other sources of financial assistance open to most of the students now receiving Social Security benefits for college costs.

Those at CSI receiving Social Security payments would be students whose fathers had been killed or who qualified for Social Security benefits in some other way, Black said.

"If they are low income, because of having no father wage-earner in the family, or if the mother has not remarried and is low income, there are other assistance for which they can qualify," Black said.

If they are not low income, they would probably be able to afford to continue their education without the Social Security assistance, he said.

"Those who would be hurt by the cut would probably be very few and I don't think we will see much of an enrollment impact as a result," Black added.

Student Services Director David Perkins and Admissions Director Jack Sims said they have no records on how many CSI students receive Social Security benefits. Perkins said, however, he would guess the figure would not exceed 100 students out of total enrollment. He said there are about 3,200 full-time students plus another 2,000 or so part-time and continuing education students at CSI.

Perkins said the only time it comes to his attention that a student receives Social Security payments is when they are qualifying for some other assistance, and their total benefits must be listed. This would not be a complete record, he explained.

Sims said on such benefits the college signs the form but it is returned to the student and the Social Security office.

Increase in parvovirus cases surfaces in Magic Valley

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Canine parvovirus appears to be on the rise again in the Magic Valley.

Dr. William Strobel, a Twin Falls veterinarian, said this week the disease, which is often fatal for puppies and young dogs, appears to be moving in cycles. Last August, a serious outbreak in southern Idaho resulted in cancellation of the dog show at the Twin Falls County Fair and kept many dog owners from participating in other shows and contests.

Strobel said shortly after that number of cases dropped off, but another cycle appeared about four months later. His pet hospital saw 11 cases of parvovirus during the Christmas and New Year's holiday period. Since then, he has had six cases, most of these in the past few weeks.

"It's hard to explain why, but we seem to see waves of the outbreak several months apart. We seem to be coming back into a new cycle," he said.

Strobel said unfortunately many dog owners believe that once their dogs receive shots they are safe, which is not true. He said dogs need booster shots about every six months. He said puppies whose mothers were given the vaccine prior to their birth will be immune for 12 to 14 weeks. Those animals with unvaccinated mothers should be inoculated earlier — seven to eight weeks old.

"When it breaks out in a litter of puppies, there is not much we can do. We can't vaccinate the puppies because we might make the situation worse if they have already been exposed and are carrying the virus," Strobel said.

Dr. R.L. Ott, DVM, Washington State University College of Veterinary Medicine — Pullman

Wash., says protection is fairly well assured two to four weeks after the second dose of vaccine. Dogs not previously vaccinated should be given vaccine in two doses at intervals of two to six weeks, and then booster shots each six months, the doctor recommends.

Strobel said the vaccine is being upgraded through new techniques and is improving in effectiveness as scientists find out more about the disease.

"We had a case here just the other day, but the rate of cases is nothing like the late summer and fall. There were Cole grew up on a farm west of Paul and is the third member of his graduation class to practice law in Rupert.

His army training began with a draft notice in June 1966. Cole decided there were more options as a volunteer, so he enlisted for three years.

Cole joined the Army reserves upon leaving active duty, learned to fly and continued with other army training while attending college and law school.

In December 1979, Cole gave up his traveling life to settle in the Magic Valley with his wife, Lorene, and their four children. In February 1980, he passed the Idaho Bar Exams and for a time shared office space with former classmate Bill Manning. He recently moved his office to the Engraff Professional Center in Rupert.

Concealment charge dropped

TWIN FALLS—Willful concealment charges brought against a Twin Falls woman have been dropped due to a lack of a prosecutor.

Symms vows to fight Clean Air Act

COEUR D'ALENE—Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, has pledged himself to relaxing some sections of the Clean Air Act this year.

Speaking before the Idaho Forestry Association and the Grass Growers this week, Symms criticized sections of the act as being "exceedingly complex in their provisions, overly strict in their regulations and unduly overbearing in their administration."

Symms said areas of the bill which we need to build up a good reservoir of vaccinated animals," Donnelly said.

He said vaccine is improving and if a dog has the original vaccination it stands a pretty good chance of protection. If given an annual booster.

Dr. Martin J. Becker of Twin Falls said the dog will be ill," Becker said.

Dogs

Becker said he holds with booster shots each six months or even often.

Becker said during the holidays, numerous dogs were coming and going with their owners through area airports. He said this could be part of the cause in the holiday increase in parvovirus cases here.

Donnelly said the virus will kill a puppy almost immediately and often attempting to treat them is futile. The virus effects the heart of the very young puppies and die almost immediately," he said.

My deceased husband was dishonorably discharged from service. Although his death benefit entitlements are important, I am concerned primarily with clearing his name for the sake of our children. Is there anything I can do?

ANSWER...

If less than fifteen years have passed since your husband's discharge was issued—and his dismissal from service was not the result of a general court martial, you may apply to a board of review. Issuance of a new discharge is not uncommon by this board which has the authority to change, correct or modify any dismissal.

Moral Majority lacks recognition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Moral Majority claims it registered 4 million new voters last year, but public awareness of the widely publicized group is extremely low, the Princeton Religion Research Center said Friday.

The center, part of the Gallup Poll organization, said less than half of those surveyed have heard or read about the Moral Majority, while only 26 percent of the total sample were familiar with the objectives and goals of the organization.

And of those acquainted with Moral Majority goals, half — or 13 percent — disapproved of the group. Only 8 percent said they approved.

Moral Majority, headed by Lynchburg, Va., television preacher Jerry Falwell, has become virtually synonymous with the advent of the new religious right, a combination of conservative political views and fundamentalist religious attitudes.

The research, published in the Princeton Religion Research Center's said, "it should be noted that the 'Emerging Trends' also said, 'Recent in favor projects to 12 or 13 million adults nationally, a number large enough when distributed among the states to be decisive in close congressional races.'"

The largest group of those who indicated they knew about the Moral Majority were those with a college education.

persons who say religion plays an important role in their lives are more favorably disposed toward the Moral Majority than are their counterparts," the report said.

"While a relatively small proportion of the public is supportive of the Moral Majority," Emerging Trends said, "it should be noted that the 3 percent in favor projects to 12 or 13 million adults nationally, a number large enough when distributed among the states to be decisive in close congressional races."

The largest group of those who indicated they knew about the Moral Majority were those with a college education.

Leaders warned of special interest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Religious leaders from a broad theological spectrum were warned Thursday to be careful in using their First Amendment rights so it does not appear as if they are asserting a special interest.

Dr. Laurence H. Tribe, a Harvard law professor and expert on church-state questions, told the Conference on Government Intervention in Religious Affairs the church-state compromise that was "delicately struck" by the founding fathers "has yet to come unglued."

He said there continues to be "suspect that fraud or force is being used" by religious groups "behind the shield of immunity" created by the First Amendment, thereby creating constant pressure for government regulation.

He said challenges to government are best built by "couching the terms of the exemption in the broadest manner possible to avoid" the stigma of special interests.

"The values of the religion clauses are preserved best when they are invoked least," Tribe said.

He was one of several legal scholars and lawyers scheduled to address the 300 U.S. religious leaders at their three day convocation on church-state matters.

The conference was prompted by growing concern among church leaders of increased government intervention in the affairs of the churches and especially the action last year of California's Attorney General and courts taking over the Worldwide Church of God and placing it in receivership.

What's what

Her desire to be seen accepted as whimsy

Among the more unobtrusive techniques employed by women in search of gentleman friends is the gambit of a young lady named Martha. Our Love and War man records that she always when in nightlife bistros requests a table as close as possible to the men's room. Sooner or later, says she, I see and am seen by every man in the place. Her escorts accept it as a humorous whimsy on their behalf.

Shepherds have long claimed that the black sheep is extraordinary in more than just its color. It seems smarter, or at least quicker to get the sense of its surroundings. No big mystery. The black sheep has a sharper sense of smell than does the white sheep.

Insurance statistics indicate the four states with the tallest men are Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi and Tennessee.

HATS OFF
Women have to take off their hats when they dance in Fargo, N. D., according to local law. Imagine this dates back to a time when hat pins were so enormous they stuck out dangerously.

Smokers are more inclined than non-smokers to get depressed. Medical studies of more than 3,000 people in England are said to prove it.

Do you know why the most valuable space in a supermarket is five feet above the floor? Because that's eye level of the average 5-foot-4 woman shopper.

Historical fame is so whimsical, erratic, unpredictable! Everybody knows of Nathan Hale. But hardly anybody knows about his eight brothers, six of whom fought heroically in the American Revolution.

WESTERN HATS
If you're going to buy a western hat, sir, get a loose fit for summer but a tight fit for winter. You know what the cowboys say: "Straw draws and felt stretches."

Q. Translate, please, the waitress's order to the cook for "Coney Island chicken."

Our Language man is stuck in his efforts to come up with the origin of the word "redneck," regret to report. Research goes on.

Twin Falls girls beaten

By MIKE PRATER
Times-News sports writer

BOISE — Magic Valley's last hope for a state championship team became Meridian's latest victim Friday.

The Twin Falls Bruins, who shot 13 percent from the field and had 30 turnovers, fell to powerful Warriors 51-24 in the second semifinal game of the Girls A-3 State Basketball Tournament at Boise High School.

Twin Falls hit seven field goals in the game and connected on 10 of 15 free throw attempts in a lackluster performance. It was the worst offensive output of the season by the Bruins and it couldn't have come at a worse time.

Meridian Coach Emery Roy's group has been demolishing basketball teams all season and is the clear favorite to win a second consecutive state title tonight when they clash with the Nampa Bulldogs at 8:30. However, no team has ever won two consecutive state basketball titles.

The Bruins take on the Boise Braves, who were upended by Nampa 56-49, for third place at 3:30 p.m. Boise won the only confrontation between the two early in the season, 41-36 in Boise.

But the win was costly for Roy, whose team is on a 27-game win streak that stretches back to last year's tournament.

Sophomore center Theresa Spalding, who stands at 6-6, came crashing to the floor early in the second half and injured her right ankle.

"It's doubtful she will play tomorrow. It's a pretty bad looking injury,"

Roy said. "It's a terrible loss because Theresa means so much to this team."

Last year at the state tournament, Borah star Connie Sandland injured her ankle in a semifinal game and spent the championship game on the bench. Borah then was also a clear cut favorite to win the state title.

"I remember well," Roy said about the incident. "She was the catalyst for their team like Theresa is to ours. I just hope history doesn't repeat itself."

Twin Falls Coach Kathy Anderson also hopes history doesn't repeat itself. She wants to gain revenge against the Braves in tonight's game. A win would hand the Bruins their best performance ever in a state meet.

"It would be nice to win, but we are going to have to play much better than we did tonight," she said. "We're going to have to shoot the ball so it goes into the basket."

The frustrated Bruins spent the entire contest against Meridian looking for someone with some sort of shooting touch.

Homedale, Prairie in A3 title game

By MARV CLEMENS
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — The rematch is on. Prairie, a district runnerup, defeated upstart West Side 59-43 Friday night to earn the right to face defending state champion Homedale at 7:30 tonight for the A-3 Girls State Basketball Championship.

Prairie, which finished behind Kendrick in the First District, gets a second chance to knock off the Trojans at O'Leary Junior High School tonight. Last year, on the same floor, Homedale's press got to Prairie in the second half to seal the state title.

"Homedale gained the finals by handling Kendrick in Friday's afternoon game, 65-52."

In consolation play Kimberly gained some pride with a 49-31 win over a cold Ririe team and Magic Valley's other entry, Filer, faced an aggressive Butte County defense with little success and fell 48-31 to be eliminated.

Homedale Coach Dean Vance figured the tourney might come down to a rematch with Prairie.

"I feel Prairie is the better club and it will be a good test for us," Vance said after his win Friday afternoon. "We've spotted some weaknesses in their play and we'll try to work on those. We should have a rebounding edge."

Prairie Coach Don Hoffmann has a much different team than last year's that faced Homedale since seven seniors graduated. Homedale lost just one player from last year.

"We'll sit down tomorrow and go over what we saw this afternoon," Hoffmann said. "Right now there is no game plan. It's got to be a rough one, but our spirits are good. We'll definitely have to put a guard out top to slow (Julie) Uranga and they've got an edge on us rebounding no matter what."

Hoffmann expects to see the Homedale press and doesn't want to get into a running game. Homedale doesn't normally run, but showed some fast breaking against Kendrick. Friday's results:

Prairie 59, West Side 43

Prairie took advantage of West Side's cold start to take a 3-0 lead early. West Side's 6-foot-1 senior center Cindy Ralphs tied the game at 55 midway in the quarter, but Prairie never trailed.

The Pirates moved to a 15-9 lead at the first rest stop with Donna Von Bargen, a dandy left-handed forward, getting seven points.

Ralphs was West Side's only offense in the first eight minutes, scoring all nine points despite Prairie's 2-3 zone designed to stop her.

"We really didn't stop her," Hoffmann said. "We had one girl down low on her (Rhonda Terhaar) and another close most of the time but she got the ball, turned and shot and made it."

Ralphs had a good night, but still displayed some shooting problems. West Side's problem came in not getting enough support from the rest of the squad. Shari Griffith was in double digits at 10, but the rest of the team mustered just eight total points.

"It's tough when you have to depend on just one player," Hoffmann said. "But she's (Ralphs) a great one."

Prairie ran its lead to 31-15 late in the half before West Side hit three straight shots, the last two being Ralphs, and closed to a 33-21 halftime deficit.

Prairie popped out to a 41-23 lead with two minutes gone in the third period and was never in danger.

Von Bargen netted 19 points despite some early foul troubles that made

Bruins nail Nampa, meet Rams tonight

NAMPA — Lars Hovey and Bill Atkinson hit season high point totals to pace the Twin Falls Bruins to a 71-59 victory over Nampa's Bulldogs Friday night.

Hovey hit 23 points and Atkinson added 13. Meanwhile, senior guard Gary Krumm blazed for 13 points in the second half and ended the night with 17.

Despite the way it ended up, Twin Falls had trouble finding the scoring range in the early going. The Bruins fell behind 9-2 in the first four minutes before Hovey started the offensive spark with seven points.

The non-conference victory raised the Bruins' season mark to 9-10, giving them a chance to reach 500 tonight when they entertain the Highland Rams at 8 p.m.

Coach John Astorquia, however, didn't feel his Bruins played particularly well.

"I thought it was kinda boring," he said. "I asked them after the game if they were saving it for tomorrow night (against Highland) and they said they were. So they'd better come out fired up."

Twin Falls, as usual, had trouble with the tall inside player. Nampa's 6-6 Todd Garlie tanked 25 points as he was the focus of the Bulldog attack.

"When you get an active, tall guy like that against us, it's very difficult for us to contain him," the coach said. "Despite the fact Garlie got 25, I felt that Atkinson had a great game. He had some big rebounds for us and dominated everyone else inside. He

CSI can knock Ricks out of tourney chase tonight

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho hosts Ricks College in its major game of the season tonight. But just what to expect in the regional tournament race was completely beclouded Thursday night when upstart Treasure Valley all but knocked Ricks out of tourney contention with a 79-68 upset.

Ricks now has a 1-3 regional record while CSI is 3-0 and North Idaho 8-1.

"We are expecting Ricks to come in here like a bunch on a crusade," CSI Coach Dave Campbell said Friday. "Their backs are flat against the wall and the only way they can get back into any kind of contention is to beat us Saturday, beat North Idaho next week in the game at Rexburg and have us beat North Idaho for them in the last game of the season."

Campbell discounted conjecture that Ricks could come into tonight's game flat. "They are a talented team and they have pride. This loss to Treasure Valley is going to make them come out like wounded tigers," he said.

"It was really a surprise to me — but not like it was to Ricks, I'm sure," Campbell said. "Those things happen in basketball. One team has the great night and the other is off. Treasure Valley shot something like 55 per cent from the field and 75 per cent from the foul line. Ricks couldn't put the ball in the hole. At least one of their usual starters didn't even score. It was just one of those nights that you dread when you're trying to put a good season and good record together."

From the CSI standpoint, the TVCC surprise means the Golden Eagles must win just one of their last three regional games to clinch a spot in the tournament. But the prize is to have the best record and host the regionals.

Treasure Valley's victory could have a delayed effect that would benefit North Idaho. Should CSI nip the Vikings tonight, Ricks would be mathematically eliminated. This could cause a letdown at Rexburg when North Idaho visits there next week.

A Rollie Williams coached North Idaho team has never won at Rexburg and CSI would be hoping for that string to stay alive. A North Idaho win would force CSI to beat the Cardinals in Coeur d'Alene Feb. 28 to take the tournament host designation.

Campbell said the Eagle preparation would be stepped up, if anything, for tonight's game.

"We have to make our guys understand that Ricks can still spoil the year for us. We have to be mentally prepared to play with great intensity from the opening tip," he said.

The regional possibility now would lie in the area of North Idaho and CSI winding up in a tie. In that case, North Idaho would get the host designation because CSI has entertained the tournament most recently.

"There is a power-rating system in the rules for breaking ties," Campbell said. "(Ex-CSI Coach Mike) Mitchell had that installed a couple of years ago. I don't really understand how it works but there is a power rating to compare the teams on common opponents and head-to-head meetings. If that doesn't work, then I guess it would favor North Idaho."

Five Magic Valley wrestlers will title shots

POCATELLO—Five Magic Valley wrestlers will shoot for individual championships tonight when the combined State Wrestling Tournament concludes at ISU's Reed Gymnasium.

Walker will take on Kevin Jones of Meridian, in his final while Lujan is pitted against Stan Armstrong of Pocatello.

The news and strength of the tournament was further emphasized by Skyline's Grizzlies who already have established a team total record with one session left to go.

Richfield loses out in A4 tournament

LEWISTON — Mackay, getting its scoring on its backline, eliminated the Richfield Tigers from the State Girls A-4 Basketball tournament Friday.

The Miners posted a 43-27 decision. For the second straight game, Richfield couldn't find a scoring punch until the opposition had pulled out of reach.

Richfield managed just two points in the first quarter and trailed 18-9 at halftime. Mackay came out hot in the second half and blew out of reach behind the scoring of Carrie Munson, Marie Rosenkrantz and Dean Veatch. Connie Wolvertson paced Richfield with eight points.

BOISE — Vicki Winder's good fortunes fell one free throw short Friday.

As a result, the highly-touted Bishop Kelly Knights eliminated Jerome from the Girls A-2 State Basketball Tournament with a 35-34 come-from-behind overtime win.

Winder hit two crucial field goals — one in the regular session to give Jerome momentum and one in overtime to give her team the lead at 32-31. Then, with her team down by two and two seconds left in the overtime period, she stepped to the free throw line.

She missed the first shot, but hit the second one that was meaningless to the outcome.

The loss ended two days of frustration for Jerome Coach Jim Stauffer, who guided the Tigers to their first-ever state tournament this year. The frustration started when leading scorer Jenise VanderVeg injured her ankle Thursday and spent the rest of the tournament — including Friday's game — on the bench. It ended with tears following the second loss.

"Those were two very tough games we played," Stauffer said as his team wept at midcourt. "These girls really had a workout. I admit Thursday's game was one of our worst, but we came back today as a totally different team and lost a heartbreaker. I give them a lot of credit because they played a hell of a game."

Jerome took a surprising 17-10 halftime lead over the Knights, who were picked by many to win the tournament.

But a lackluster offensive performance in the third period enabled Bishop Kelly to rally back and take the lead.

"That's right, the whole game was lost in the third period," Stauffer said about the time to which the Tigers could only net three free throws.

"They kept denying us the ball and things finally caught up to us without VanderVeg being in there. We were playing out of position the entire game and our offense was nowhere around during that time.

"But Vicki did a super job. She's one of the best athletes I know," Stauffer said. "She had a lot of pressure on her at that line and I give her credit for even sinking the second one. I'm sure it was a tough situation to be in."

Bishop Kelly shrugged off its first half offensive blues and came out in the second with a potent attack.

The Knights, who scored six points off Jerome turnovers during the third, bolted ahead and with eight minutes left led 20-10.

Jerome fell behind 26-21 with three minutes remaining, but Jana Van Dyke and Winder hit from the field to stymie the Knights. Mel Moody then hit from 10-feet with 32 seconds left to send it into overtime.

Winder hit a bucket to give Jerome the lead at 32-31 and Margie Marshall, after Bishop Kelly connected, tied it at 33. Bishop Kelly's leading scorer, Carla Hammond, hit with 10 seconds and Winder then proceeded to the line for an unsuccessful attempt to tie it.

Pedroza, Ford in ring

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Panamanian World Boxing Association featherweight champion Eusebio Pedroza defends his title for the 11th time today against Patrick Ford of Guyana, ranked fourth by the WBA.

The fight, scheduled for 15 rounds and to be transmitted live to the United States, Argentina and Venezuela, will be held in the 16,000-capacity New Panama Gymnasium in Panama City.

Ford, who has not fought for five months since his failed attempt to take the World Boxing Council's featherweight title from Mexico's Salvador Sanchez, has yet to reveal his weight.

Pedroza weighed in at 127 pounds during a routine examination Wednesday.

Pedroza, 24, won the WBA title in April 1978 with a technical knockout over Spanish boxer Cecilio Lastra. Pedroza holds a record of 29-3 with 19 knockouts. Ford's record stands at 14-1 with 11 knockouts.

Roth sizzles with 297

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mark Roth fired a 297 in his final game of the fifth round Friday to maintain a slim lead in the $110,000 St. Louis Open on the Professional Bowlers Association tour.

Roth of Springdale Heights, N.J., had 11 straight strikes in his last game before sending his final ball slightly wide of the pocket and leaving the 2-4-5 final. The big final game boosted Roth's total for 34 games to 7,823 as one more round remains before the top five bowlers are seeded into today's finals.

Paul Moser, Somerset, Mass., is second, 299 pins off the pace, and Tom Baker of Buffalo, N.Y., is third, just one pin behind Moser. Frank Ellenburg of Mesa, Ariz., is fourth, 71 pins behind the leader.

The top-seeded bowler at the conclusion of the sixth round will await a challenge from one of the four lower qualifiers to bowl the championship match for the $16,000 top prize.

Saad Muhammad signs

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — He planned to beat World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion Eddie Mustafa Muhammad and "make" with a couple of title defenses, retire within two years.

Instead, World Boxing Council light heavyweight champion Matthew Saad Muhammad, finds he is fighting 8-foot-5 Vonzell Johnson Feb. 28 at Bally's Park Place Hotel Casino.

The reason his appointment with Mustafa Muhammad — with a $1.5 million purse at stake — fell through was the recent MAPS boxing scandal, which left the fighters with no purse at all.

"It's getting worse all the time and in recent games it was starting to catch a little bit," said Hawks' general manager Stan Kasten.

"That doesn't make the injury harder to correct, but the pain becomes agonizing. We just can't take any more chances because it was getting to the point where we were hurting ourselves in the long-term."

The operation will be performed by Dr. Jack Houston of Columbus.

"I hope they're doing the right thing," Rollins said. "You can never tell, we still might make it to the playoffs. Management has been wanting to have it for some time now, but I told them to hold off and see how we do."

Rollins goes under knife

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Hawk center Wayne "Tree" Rollins is scheduled to have his left knee operated on Tuesday to remove a band of tissue in the joint capsule — his third knee surgery in three years.

"I found myself past the point of doing drugs," Henderson said. "Drugs were doing me."

"Drugs just got me. Drugs have been a major contribution to my downfall. I lost friends, family and career. Drugs almost forced me into bankruptcy. If I hadn't stopped at this point I would owe the world."

A Police Department official estimated half an ounce of cocaine sells for $1,250 on the street in Dallas.

The Times Herald reported Henderson admitted himself to an out-of-state hospital 10 days ago under an assumed name. Henderson, 27, said he decided to seek help last month after realizing his addiction was out of control.

4,300 set to race

LACHUTE, Quebec (UPI) — More than 4,300 contestants age four to 80 from Canada, Europe, and 22 states in the U.S. will compete this weekend in the 15th Canadian Ski Marathon, billed by organizers as the biggest cross-country event in the world.

The two-day race begins in Lachute, Quebec today with skiers attempting to cover from 35 kilometers (20 miles) to the full 160 kilometers (100 miles) of the course which ends at Ottawa's Rideau Canal.

No one person wins this competition and only a few will try to complete the full circuit. A complex busing system of over 40 buses will travel the course over the weekend to permit each skier to start and finish at any one of several different sections of 16 kilometers each day.

'Drugs forced me into bankruptcy' Henderson reveals cocaine habit

DALLAS (UPI) — Former Dallas Cowboys linebacker Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson is undergoing treatment for a prodigious cocaine habit that he says was responsible for his turn from All-Pro to NFL outcast, the Dallas Times Herald reported Friday.

Henderson, who nurtured his image as a flamboyant braggart, said he was using as much as half an ounce of cocaine daily and it was driving him to bankruptcy, the Times Herald said in its copyright story.

"I found myself past the point of doing drugs," Henderson said. "Drugs were doing me."

"Drugs just got me. Drugs have been a major contribution to my downfall. I lost friends, family and career. Drugs almost forced me into bankruptcy. If I hadn't stopped at this point I would owe the world."

A Police Department official estimated half an ounce of cocaine sells for $1,250 on the street in Dallas.

The Times Herald reported Henderson admitted himself to an out-of-state hospital 10 days ago under an assumed name. Henderson, 27, said he decided to seek help last month after realizing his addiction was out of control.

control and was counseled by Charles Jackson, assistant director of security for the NFL.

"I decided whatever the cost or risk I would put myself in a drug rehabilitation program," he said. "I'm not feeling any physical withdrawal symptoms. It's all mental. I've just been into drugs for so long."

Henderson told the Times Herald he had used some form of drugs for 14 years but, during the past five years had developed a dependency on cocaine that grew to one-half ounce per day.

"When a person realizes he has a problem ... well, it's like if your arm stinks," he said. "You offend yourself first. I was doing it but I hated myself. I was beginning to be two people — the straight Thomas and the high Hollywood."

Henderson described his experience with drugs as, "From start to finish ... all my life ... and from one extreme to another. I didn't do a big assortment of drugs. Mainly cocaine. I started with marijuana. There were acids ... everything."

Henderson came to the Cowboys in 1975 as a surprise first round draft choice from tiny Langston College in Oklahoma but with his speed and ability he became one of the NFL's top linebackers, building a reputation as a big mouth and a big play man.

Cowboys Coach Tom Landry dismissed Henderson midway through the 1979 season, citing an accumulation of offenses such as lack of effort and sideline mugging for a television camera during a loss to Washington.

He joined San Francisco last year but was cut before the first game. He later was signed by the Houston Oilers, played occasionally for them and was released last month.

Being cut by the Cowboys worsened his cocaine habit, Henderson said.

"The fact is I didn't like myself after I got fired by Dallas," he said. "The strongest effect the Cowboys had on me (by dismissing him) was to triple my drug usage."

Landry denied drugs were a consideration in Henderson's dismissal but Henderson said he thinks stars Coach Bill Walsh suspected him of using narcotics.

Henderson estimated five to 10 players on the three teams he has played for have drug problems.

Can an Indy driver do it?

Rutherford gunning for Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A. J. Foyt and Mario Andretti did it. A. J. Foyt and Mario Andretti did it. A. J. Foyt and Mario Andretti did it. A. J. Foyt and Mario Andretti did it. A. J. Foyt and Mario Andretti did it.

Rutherford, who excels in almost everything he sets out to accomplish, was reluctant to make another stab at Daytona because of previous failures at this "kingpin" of NASCAR tracks.

The affable Texan believes he now has the wheels to achieve a measure of success in stock car racing.

"I've been here before," says Rutherford with an engaging grin. "I think it was the fifth annual in 1963. It's not going to be any easier coming down here and expecting to win Sunday's race. But then nobody from the stock car game can expect to come to Indianapolis and immediately start winning races."

"Running NASCAR has been enjoyable for me. The competition is tough, a challenge, and it pays pretty good just going in. The first time I ever sat in a stock car I set a world speed record in a 100-mile qualifying race at Daytona. I finished ninth in the 500 that year."

"I never really had top line equipment for stock car racing until now. To be good in Grand National competition, however, you've got to live it. Be out there all the time and keep up with what's going on. To run in and out dilutes the program."

Rutherford had zig-zagging problems Thursday during the opening race of twin 125-mile qualifying events and had an unwanted meeting with the wall during a 12th lap spinout. The mishap placed him 35th in a 40-driver field. But this type of adversity is like candy to the 41-year-old Rutherford. He once charged from the next to last row at Indianapolis to take the checkered flag.

"The car was just too loose when we ran Thursday," Rutherford said, shaking his head. "We had some handling problems, but we're hoping we've ironed them out. It just plumb got away from me. The boys have got a lot of work to do and this is really disheartening."

At least Rutherford emerged unscathed from his close encounter with a hospital bed. Last November at Phoenix, Rutherford brushed rookie driver Dennis Firestone's car and became airborne after his car spun into the wall.

"When I saw the playback of the accident, it was kind of awesome to watch. To duplicate the dent in my helmet, a 15-pound weight was put in the helmet and dropped from a height of 93 feet. Wow!"

"The accident happen so fast I couldn't remember anything. The first thing I can recall is the helicopter ride to the hospital. A hefty lady, who had fallen out of the grandstand about the time I had my accident, was placed on the cot above me in the helicopter. I don't mind telling you I was a little concerned."

Rutherford figures he can be a little more daring in the closed stock cars, "whereas in open cockpit Indy cars, if you touch wheels, it's 'hilo, Silver, you've had it!"
