Budget ax hits Social Security

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration and the Senate agreed Friday that Social Security benefits should be trimmed $7.9 billion next year.

But they couldn't concur on how to do it.

If the cuts take effect, it will be the first time ever that the retirement program, born of Franklin Roosevelt's New Deal, will have been significantly reduced.

The White House released a letter from budget director David Stockman to Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd saying the administration backs the Senate Budget Committee plan to cut benefits $7.9 billion next year.

"We believe the outlay goals in the resolution reported by the Senate Budget Committee can be achieved," Stockman wrote. "We would therefore not support amendments causing an increase in (those) outlay levels."

But the administration disagrees with the committee plan to save money by limiting cost-shifting increases, Stockman said.

A few hours later, the Senate defeated 49-2 an amendment to restore the $7.9 billion, despite pleas from Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who said the reduction would "in effect turn the clock back on the vital needs of senior citizens."

The report's letter makes no mention of how the administration plans to cut Social Security. An administration task force already has made its still-secret recommendations to President Reagan, but a decision is not expected until later this month.

"We're not saying what we're going to do," said acting White House press secretary Larry Speakes. "Clearly, we're going to have to make adjustments. The goal is to protect the truly needy. There are many ways to make adjustments."

Among the possibilities that have been discussed are raising the retirement age—making it less attractive to retire early and changing the percentage of income a retiree gets.

Social Security, a $156-billion program, accounts for a fifth of the federal budget. Officials concede it will be almost impossible to balance the budget without cutting it.

Reagan earlier this year proposed cutting several small programs run by the Social Security Administration that are not part of the basic retirement program.

Originally, the president said Social Security was part of his "safety net" that would not be stretched and would protect the truly needy.

But lately, he and other top administration officials have emphasized Social Security cannot be ignored in the next series of cuts.

'Let's wait'

State leaders seek delay in deciding on surplus' use

BOISE (UPI) — Legislative leaders and several members of the Idaho Board of Examiners decided Friday to postpone making recommendations on what should be done with any surplus of state revenue.

They said they wanted to wait until more accurate figures were available.

Gov. John Evans has called a meeting of the board next Friday. The governor indicated the board would consider what would be done with any additional state revenue at that meeting.

Legislative Auditor Bruce Balderston said Friday he expected an additional $9.8 million in fiscal year 1981 revenue to be collected over the $77.1 million expected by the Revenue Projections Committee.

Balderston said he expected an additional $10 million to be collected from personal income taxes and $1 million from investments by the state treasurer.

However, these could be offset by a $1.2 million shortfall in sales tax collections, he said.

Balderston said revenue collections could be $2 million higher or lower, but "if I was going to bet any money on the situation I would go with 9.8 (million dollars)."

However, John Anderson, director of the Legislative Fiscal Office, said the revenue data currently was "so inconclusive" it would "be dangerous to make predictions at this time."

Balderston agreed that more accurate information would be available by the end of the month.

House Majority Leader Walter Little of New Plymouth said since the group was "very uncertain" of what the amount of the any surplus would be, another meeting should be held prior to the Board of Examiners' monthly meeting in June.

Attorney General David Leroy, a member of the board, said he could not require the board to wait to make its decisions on what to do with possible surplus revenue until next month, but that he would convey the legislators' concerns to the board.

House Speaker Ralph Olmstead of Twin Falls said the board had the authority to lift last year's 3.85 percent revenue holdback to state agencies entirely, partially, selectively, or partially and selectively.

University presidents rewarded Board approves salary hikes

LAVA HOT SPRINGS (UPI) — The State Board of Education approved Friday a 1981-82 salary schedule for its top executives today, raising University of Idaho President Richard Gibb by $4,550 to $57,115.

Ending its two-day meeting in Lava Hot Springs, the board also scheduled a special session for June 18 and authorized its executive director to seek restoration of funds held back last year to give some support for first-year students in WICHE health programs.

Other executive salary increases went to: Myron Coulter, president of Idaho State University, to $54,134 from $50,356; John Kelsner, president of Boise State University, to $51,719 from $48,110; and Lee Vickers, president of Lewis-Clark State College, to $43,236 from $40,684.

Presidents of the UI, LSC and ISU live in state-owned houses, but Kelsner, as BSU president, will receive an additional housing allowance of $7,425. The increases are effective July 1.

Representatives of WICHE (Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education) urged the board to support efforts to have funding for the program placed on the agenda for a special session of the Legislature this summer.

Idaho's participation in WICHE provides support costs for Idahoans accepted in other states' health programs (such as physical therapy) not available in Idaho. Based on the recommendation of Gov. John Evans, the Legislature decided not to provide funds for first-year students after July 1, although continuing students will be supported.

Dr. Phillip Sirotkin, WICHE executive director, said he was "amazed" — should say appalled — at misunderstanding about WICHE programs.

He said other states facing financial problems are increasing their reliance on WICHE.

Idaho Superintendent of Public Instruction Jerry Evans told Sirotkin he should turn to the governor and the legislative branch for support.

The board agreed to organize a special committee to meet with the governor and legislative leaders to discuss the program's value.

The board also authorized Milton Small, its executive director, to ask the state Board of Examiners about the possibility of restoring funds held back last year from his office and using the money — about $15,000 — for the WICHE program. Approximately $95,000 would be needed to fully support WICHE freshmen.

The board will meet June 4-5 in Coeur d'Alene and has scheduled a special session June 18 at Boise to consider recommendations to lay off employees under a reduction-in-force policy.

April unemployment even; prices up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy remained sluggish in April as producer prices rose, and high unemployment continued.

Food costs held steady, however, government officials showed Friday.

A White House official said the Labor Department figures show "the fundamental problems of the economy remain with us and underscore the need" for enactment of President Reagan's programs.

The department reported small increases in energy costs and stable food prices held overall price increases at the wholesale level to 0.8 percent in April — nearly half the 1.3 percent posted in March.

The Producer Price Index for finished goods was 287.7 last month. Translated, that means goods that cost $100 to produce in 1967 now cost $287.70.

Should prices continue rising at the April rate for 12 months, the computed annual rate of inflation would be 10 percent. That figure would be well below the 16.9 percent annual rate registered in March.

The Labor Department also reported unemployment remained at 7.3 percent in April — the same level as in February and March, even though 500,000 more people were employed.

Most statistical unemployment categories were unchanged or showed only slight adjustments, including the jobless rate for black and other minority teen-agers, which dropped from March's 37.3 percent to 36.1 percent in April.

The report said the moderate April price increase reflected a "considerably slower increase in finished energy prices." Gasoline prices rose 1.3 percent in April, well below the 7.3 percent in March.

Consumer food prices, which showed no change in April, helped hold down the overall inflation rate.

Large increases in eggs, pork, fruit and bakery prices were offset by declines for poultry, vegetables, sugar and coffee.

But Lawrence Chimerine, chief economist for the Chase Econometrics forecasting firm, warned that "food price (increases) will not be zero forever," indicating that the major moderating trend in April could disappear in the next few months.

Prices for finished goods other than food and energy moved up 1 percent, twice as much as in March, the report said. A major influence in this category was car prices, which rose 1.4 percent in April when manufacturers withdrew rebate offers. This followed a 0.9 percent rise in car prices in March.

Chimerine noted prices for items other than food and energy are particularly sensitive to labor costs.

While inflation may be better than a year ago," he said, "it will require a slowdown in wage increases or an improvement in productivity" to put the economy back on track.

Dole: Foodstamp fund may need more bucks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., warned Friday that cuts in social programs might qualify more Americans for food stamps so it would be a mistake to place a ceiling on total food stamp spending.

Dole suggested what he called a "house-fitting cap" as a compromise to head off an administration proposal to enact into law specific caps on spending through fiscal 1985.

Costs of food stamps for 23 million Americans this year are expected to exceed $11 billion. Without any cuts, costs next year would exceed $12 billion.

As the Senate Agriculture Committee neared completion of its work on food stamp legislation covering the next four years, Dole suggested a ceiling based on a Congressional Budget Office estimate at the beginning of each fiscal year.

"If people suffer a cut in income by losing public employment jobs or aid to dependent children benefits and become eligible for food stamps," Dole said, "You can't say you can't get in because we put a cap on it."

Dole, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said that given inflation and unemployment, people will be "dumped on the program because of cuts elsewhere." That was contrary to claims by administration officials that the economic program will pull down inflation and boost employment.

"If we believe what the administration has told us, we'd be safe without a cap," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt.

For the third straight year, Congress will have to raise the food stamp spending ceiling imposed in 1977 to ram through in the current fiscal year.

Chairman Jesse Helms, R-N.C., argued for a ceiling to keep spending from "blue skying" out of line. "If you don't have a cap, then you make an entitlement program out of it."

Unemployment in Magic Valley holds even at 5.1%

TWIN FALLS — The unemployment rate held steady in the Magic Valley during April while the state rate increased three-tenths of a percent.

About 700 more people were employed in April than in March in Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties, said Labor Market Analyst Craig Hobbey. They found work mainly on farms and in agriculture-related businesses.

The valley's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate remained at 5.1 percent during April.

For the state, the number of people employed fell and the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose to 6 percent during April.

Boston faces financial ruin

BOSTON (UPI) — City Council members, reeling from the defeat of a $44 million bailout package by the state Legislature, met privately Friday to develop contingency plans to fund the city's poverty-stricken school system. The Legislature Thursday overwhelmingly rejected the plan to authorize new taxes to aid 64,000 students in the city's oldest public school system. The plan has been plunged into a fiscal morass by Proposition 2 1/2, a referendum approved in November which drastically cuts property taxes — the city's prime source of revenue — and three court decisions over the past two years that left Boston with an obligation to refund $90 million in property tax abatements to business and industry. Schools will run out of money next Wednesday unless a new funding plan is developed. City officials are under a court order to keep the schools open despite their financial problems.

Mineral tonic is poisonous

MIAMI (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration warned south Florida consumers Friday that a vitamin-mineral tonic sold in the area under the label "Nervo Forza" contains strychnine sulfate in amounts that could kill children and poison adults. The FDA said the tonic is being voluntarily recalled by Goussas Corp. of Miami, its manufacturer and distributor.

Destroyed Titan silo to close

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Titan II missile complex in Arkansas, extensively damaged in an explosion last September, will be closed because repairs would be too costly, the Air Force said Friday. The explosion of the complex near Damascus, Ark., killed one man and injured 21 others. An Air Force statement said plans are underway to salvage the equipment from the missile silo's control center, disposing of debris caused by the explosion and filling in the site with earth.

Amtrak may buy fast trains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amtrak President Alan Boyd said Friday the rail service is considering the possibility of using 120 mph Japanese bullet trains in densely populated parts of the country, funded by private investors. Boyd, in a major speech under which the financially embattled corporation would require all its trains to pay their own way, said the idea was dropped. The government would continue to pay capital and corporate costs, but the total subsidy would gradually decrease.

Bank holdup shootout kills 2

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — A robber and a policeman were shot to death and another officer was wounded Friday in a gunbattle that followed a failed holdup attempt at a Bank of America branch. Authorities said one other holdup man fled in a blue Pontiac. The two men entered the bank shortly after noon and one went over to the bank manager. When he demanded money and said they were armed with a bomb, the manager tripped a silent alarm. The police department was only a block away and officers entered the bank as the man was still at the manager's desk. A gunfight began immediately, and the two men were mortally wounded.

Tropical storm gains strength

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Arlene, which appeared 25 days before the official start of the hurricane season and then nearly blew itself out over Cuba, regained strength Friday as it headed over the Atlantic Ocean. The National Hurricane Center in Miami reported that Arlene, downgraded to a tropical depression Friday morning, had "strengthened somewhat as it moved farther over open water," and had regained tropical storm status.

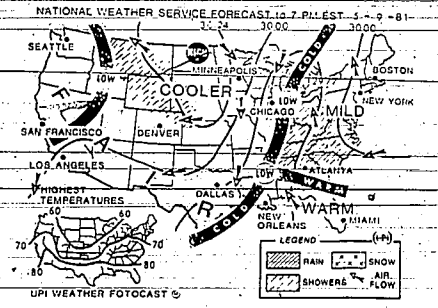

Daily Mail says column lied

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Daily News columnist Michael Daly resigned Friday in response to charges by the London Daily Mail that one of his articles from Northern Ireland was a "pack of lies." "In the absence of independent corroboration of disputed points and in view of his use of misleading journalistic techniques, his resignation was accepted," said Michael O'Neill, the editor of the News. Daly, 29, said he would not "stick by my story" but conceded he could not substitute it with independent sources. The Mail charged, "The importance of this is that this article, not necessarily the most extreme version of its type, is typical of the kind of writing which has appeared in many publications in the United States for many years but which has reached a crescendo of dishonesty in the past few weeks."

Klan backs down in Texas

HOUSTON (UPI) — The head of the Ku Klux Klan in Texas said Friday he was ready for reconciliation with Vietnamese fishermen. He said most of his demands have been met for protection of native Texan fishing rights against allegedly unfair refugee competition. But Texas KKK Grand Dragon Louis Beam said of attorney Morris Dees, the lawyer representing the Vietnamese in a lawsuit against the Klan and native Texas fishermen: "We are implacable enemies and that has to continue."

Dees' Southern Poverty Law Center of Montgomery, Ala., has started a special project called "Klanwatch" to oppose the Klan.

Dees went before a U.S. District Judge Gabriele McDonald Friday seeking a protective order guaranteeing his and his clients' safety during the lawsuit, which seeks an injunction prohibiting violence against the Vietnamese. Ms. McDonald issued the injunction late Friday, preventing Beam from making any threatening or vile remarks, unsolicited hand gestures or any other distracting actions towards the plaintiffs' counsel.

The order further enjoined Beam and the KKK from contacting, attempting to contact, observing or in any way threatening the Vietnamese or their attorneys.

Dees retraced a request he made earlier in the week for Ms. McDonald to order a psychiatric hearing for Beam, acknowledging the federal judge did not have that authority.

Beam said the Klan still planned a rally Saturday at Santa Fe, Texas, 40 miles south of Houston, to raise funds to finance legal defense of the Klan and native Texan fishermen against the lawsuit. However, he proposed a committee composed of Vietnamese and American veterans of the Vietnam War and Vietnamese and American fishermen to moderate between the two factions. "I'll be offered to serve on the committee himself."

Beam said most of the Vietnamese fishermen had offered to leave coastal fishing, which many Texans complain is over-exploited with refugees. He proposed that the native Texans help the Vietnamese sell their boats.

"I am not in any way opposed to the Vietnamese just because they're Vietnamese," Beam said. "The Vietnamese are not the problem here. The problem is the federal and state authorities for two years before we got into this dispute ignored the legitimate grievances of American fishermen."

Japanese to fly balloon memorial

TOKYO (UPI) — A balloon crew carrying flowers will attempt to fly across the Pacific in memory of six people killed by a bomb-carried bomb who are believed to be the only World War II casualties on the U.S. mainland, scientists said Friday.

The balloon and its two-man crew will ride on the westward jet current above the Pacific and land somewhere in Oregon or Washington, following the route of thousands of unmanned bomb-carrying balloons during the war.

Most of the newspaper balloons bombs fell harmlessly into the ocean, but a few made it to the west coast and five children and a pregnant woman were killed when they landed up one of them at a picnic in southeastern Oregon. Others started scattered forest fires.

"Unlike other balloon projects, our experiment is for peaceful and scientific use of high-altitude balloons in the future," said Hiromasa Kimura who heads the group.

Kimura is known in Japan as the chief architect of the nation's first domestically produced jet airplane, the YS-11. The group includes scientists from Tokyo University's Space Science Lab and others from engineering consulting firms.

To emphasize the balloon's peaceful mission "we plan to carry flowers for children killed by the bomb-carrying balloons during the war," Kimura said.

On May 5, 1945, five Sunday school members and the minister's pregnant wife were killed by a balloon bomb they found while hiking in woods near the lumber town of Bly. They are believed to be the only victims in the continental United States during World War II.

The scientists, calling themselves the Japan Buoyant Aeronautics Group, said they have not set a date for the launching because it will take time to raise the $15 million needed for the project.

The helium-filled balloon, riding on the air current at speeds up to 100 feet per second, is expected to reach its destination in 60 hours, the scientist said.

The scientists, calling themselves the Japan Buoyant Aeronautics Group, said they have not set a date for the launching because it will take time to raise the $15 million needed for the project.

Salem shootout

Gunman kills 4, wounds 19 bar patrons

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Four persons were killed and 19 wounded when a man opened fire with an automatic pistol at a popular tavern on "Ladies Night."

Ernest W. Moore, 25, an unemployed lumber mill worker, was arrested after a patron tackled him and others subdued him in the Oregon Mission Tavern. He appeared in district court and charged with intentional murder. Judge Tom Beck set a preliminary hearing for next Friday and ordered him held without bail.

Witnesses said Moore opened the door to the tavern Thursday night and fired his 9mm pistol into the crowd. They said he snapped another clip into the weapon and began to fire again before Ashley Mitchell, 26, tackled him.

Police said Moore may have gotten off as many as 24 shots.

The patrons ducked and some dashed into restrooms for cover. When police arrived, patrons had him under control.

Mitchell said of the shooting, "I was standing 25 to 30 feet from this guy when he came into the tavern and started waving a gun. Shots were being fired, and I assumed he was shooting blanks. I tackled him."

"I put some lumps on his head, maybe two or three."

Don Carey, a counselor at the high school Moore attended, described his former student as "a low profile type." He added Moore was "very average behaviorally — academically he was above average."

District Attorney Chris Van Dyke said an examination showed Moore had not been under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

Police were seeking a motive. They said the gunman apparently emptied two clips — firing as many as 24 shots.

Mitchell's girlfriend, Gloria Galbraith, said she was in the restroom when the shooting erupted. "The noise sounded like firecrackers," she said.

John Hayworth, 23, Albany, Ore., said, "A guy had his head blown off standing right behind me. I ducked as the gunman pointed the gun at me. The guy behind me got it."

At police headquarters, Mitchell said, "You go out and have a couple of drinks and you end up knocking down a guy that shot a bunch of people — killed a bunch of people, actually."

Salem Memorial Hospital said four of the wounded were in critical condition, five in serious condition and eight in fair condition. Two others were treated and released.

One of the critically wounded was Joel Hennen, son of Marietta County Sheriff Jim Hennen. Four of the wounded were women.

The dead were identified as Lori Jean Cunningham, 22, John W. Cooper, 27, Robert E. Hamblin, 24, and Allen Wilcox, 25, all from the Salem area.

Hospital death investigation widens to Los Angeles area

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — The investigation into the mysterious deaths of 27 elderly patients in two small rural hospitals has spread to include "potential homicides" in several large Los Angeles medical facilities, officials disclosed Friday.

Al Albergate, a spokesman for the Los Angeles County District Attorney, said Riverside County authorities contacted the district attorney this week and "several" hospitals in Los Angeles were under investigation.

Riverside authorities announced Thursday they had questioned Robert Rubano Diaz, a 48-year-old male nurse who worked at the two Riverside County hospitals where the suspicious deaths occurred earlier this year.

Thomas Hollenhorst, assistant Riverside County District Attorney, said Friday pathologists have still not determined what killed the patients in Riverside.

Asked if Diaz was a suspect in the case, Hollenhorst said, "We can't have a suspect until we have an exact cause of death."

Riverside investigators said Thursday that a raid one week ago at Diaz's Apple Valley home uncovered two vials of Lidocaine, a half vial of the narcotic morphine sulfate, a syringe and intravenous tubing.

Diaz worked temporarily at Community Hospital of the Valleys in Perris, where 25 people died suddenly, and San Geronimo Pass Memorial Hospital in Banning, where two patients died just as mysteriously. Autopsies of several victims revealed unusually high amounts of Lidocaine.

Diaz worked at the hospitals on temporary assignment from a nursing registry.

The first night on duty in the Perris hospital was March 29 and two patients died on his shift. He said he was so unnerved by those initial deaths that he refused to show up for work the next four nights. Finally he returned, he said, because he needed the money.

On several nights, Diaz recalled, he found himself racing from bed to bed trying to revive patients suffering seizures by "pushing" Lidocaine and other drugs by injection directly into the patients' veins.

Patients turned red and then a purplish-blue as they gasped for air and then died, he said, noting that several also suffered seizures.

Diaz said that he discovered only this week that people over 70 years old or those with poor functioning livers should be given half the regular dosage of Lidocaine because they cannot eliminate the drug from their systems easily.

Diaz also told the Times he believes a combination of incorrect diagnosis by hospital physicians, possible contamination of drugs used on the patients, and inadequate supervision may have contributed to the deaths.

He told investigators he suspected that Lidocaine at the Perris hospital had been contaminated, and that he was alarmed when the hospital sent all of its supply to the manufacturer for analysis.

But Assistant Riverside Coroner Carl Smith Jr. said earlier this week that his office had ruled out "a bad batch of drugs."

Diaz said he inadvertently brought the Lidocaine home last month, noting that in emergency situations, nurses put medications in their coat pockets and forgot to return them.

Plot told to kill trooper with bow

DUNCANNON, Pa. (UPI) — State Police said Friday they have uncovered "a bizarre but very real plot" to kill a trooper with a bow and arrow.

The assassin hired to do the job turned out to be a police informant.

Eugene A. Losch, 44, of Millersburg, was arrested Thursday on charges of trying to arrange the slaying of State Police trooper Robert W. Howell of the Duncannon barracks in central Pennsylvania.

Losch was being held Friday in the Perry County Jail in lieu of $100,000 following arraignment before Magistrate Howard Maguire on a charge of solicitation to commit murder.

State Police trooper Don Harriman said Howell arrested the suspect in 1980 on a charge of receiving stolen property.

"We feel this plot was a result of prior investigations conducted by trooper Howell," Harriman said. "He did arrest Losch in 1980 for receiving stolen property and the suspect pleaded guilty. He was put on five years probation."

Harriman said electronic surveillance was used in the investigation.

Boss shoots, kills employees

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (UPI) — A service station manager killed two employees he thought were sabotaging his business by helping competitors, police said Friday.

Kolja Nisho Berisha, 37, of nearby Arlington was charged with two counts of murder after shooting Billy Joe Davis, 25, and Jeanne Amelia Hassell, 28, at close range. A witness said Ms. Hassell was on her knees begging for mercy when Berisha fired the fatal shot at her.

Berisha, who surrendered at his home without incident a few hours after the slayings Thursday, was held in lieu of $150,000 bond.

About an hour before the violence Berisha had been at Grand Prairie police headquarters, saying his life had been threatened and that his employees were passing business information to a competitor.

"He talked to me in reference to a perceived threat on his life," Deputy Chief Marion Rettig said. "After interviewing with the man, we determined there was no cause for police action and advised him to call his lawyer."

Suzuki pledges Japanese will hike defense spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki pledged Friday to improve his nation's defense capabilities in the face of a Soviet threat.

He went on to propose that China join the Western alliance.

Suzuki and President Reagan said in a joint communique following two days of talks, they viewed with concern the Soviet Union's continued military buildup, aggression in Afghanistan and threat of an intervention in Poland which "would have a serious effect on world peace."

ZENKO SUZUKI bring China into alliance

On the delicate subject of defense, the communique said Japan, "on its own initiative and in accordance with its constitution and basic defense policy, will seek to make even greater efforts for improving its defense capabilities and for further alleviating the financial burden of U.S. forces in Japan."

Japan has resisted U.S. pressure to increase its defense role because of constitutional restraints and reluctance to divert funds from other programs at time of budget deficit. Defense spending now consumes less than 1 percent of the Japanese gross national product.

In particular, the United States wants Japan to expand maritime and air surveillance and protection of the vital surrounding sea lanes.

Suzuki invited Reagan to visit Japan and Reagan said he would come at a "mutually convenient time."

Suzuki said the "unshakable basis of friendship and mutual trust" "...is the greatest treasure I take home from my visit to the United States."

The prime minister made clear later at a National Press-Club luncheon he considered the Soviet Union a greater defense threat than China. He cited the Soviet military buildup on four islands off northern Japan seized during World War II and Soviet use of the big Cam Ranh Bay naval base in Vietnam.

"We would like to see China as an open country and see that China remain moderate and cooperative," he said through an interpreter. "China must be kept as a member of the Western alliance."

Suzuki promised to maintain a "sustained and steady growth" of Japan's capabilities but warned of "considerable resistance" from his people if rapid military growth were at the expense of other programs, particularly social ones.

Reagan said the meetings established a basis for immediate consultations to resolve "any possible differences or misunderstandings" before the trip. Suzuki rebuked Washington for not "fully" consulting with Tokyo on the lifting of the U.S. grain embargo on the Soviet Union.

AFDC program error rate drops

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "error rate" in the largest welfare program, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, dropped from 9.5 to 8.3 percent during the latest six-month period, the government said Friday.

The "error rate" reflects the amount paid to ineligible persons and excessive payments to the 3.8 million families who are eligible for AFDC.

Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker said the percentage was figured during a six-month period from October 1979 through March 1980, and it represented illegal outlays of $248 million.

Schweiker said the error rate for the Medicaid program, which provides health insurance for the poor, increased slightly from 5 percent to 5.2 percent during the same period. Officials said that meant $400 million in $500 million had been spent in error.

The error rate in that program measures misapplied dollars spent for ineligible recipients. About 22.5 million people are eligible for Medicaid.

HHS regulations establish error rate targets for the states and give the department authority to penalize those that don't meet their goal.

But Schweiker said "The new error rate figures and corrective action plans previously submitted demonstrate that the states are serious about reducing errors and eliminating waste."

"The states have been showing steady improvement in bringing their error rates down, and I believe... this improvement will continue," Schweiker said.

"Several changes that will help considerably in reducing error and waste will be included in legislation which the administration will soon send to Congress. Changes in eligibility rules for AFDC, especially standardization of some rules, will make errors less likely," he added.

Report says most federal fraud never detected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new report to Congress said Thursday fraud against government programs is widespread and most of it is never detected.

The results of this report document what has been suspected for years — crime pays in government," said Sen. William Roth, R-De.

In the 77,000 cases GAO reviewed over 2 1/2 years, the loss to the American taxpayer was projected at between $150 million and $220 million.

"It does not include, of course, the cost of undetected fraud which is probably much higher because weak internal controls allow fraud to flourish," the GAO report said.

Roth said the GAO study probably "just nicked the hide of a monstrous problem."

Other individuals and organizations committed about 40 percent of the fraud, and in the rest of the cases the suspects were never identified.

"Federal agencies were susceptible to hundreds of different types of fraudulent activities in a wide range of areas," GAO said. Four areas pointed out as especially prone to fraud were financial assistance to individuals, inventory control and property management, mail service, and personal property management.

GAO said progress has been made in combating fraud, particularly with congressional action to establish offices of inspectors general in 15 federal agencies.

Feds ask court to block tax data release

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday asked the Supreme Court to block release to tax protesters of confidential tax data the Internal Revenue Service says will aid tax cheaters.

In March, the high court gave the government a chance to appeal a district court order requiring release of 38 computer tapes to a Bellevue, Wash., couple who sued to obtain them under the Freedom of Information Act.

But that failed when the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the order, and the government returned to the high court Friday asking for another delay.

The district court told the government to give the tapes to Susan and Phillip Long, who want them as part of a study on the federal tax system.

The government has been resisting disclosure of the tapes on grounds they contain information that could be used by persons with knowledge of statistics to determine the government's formula for selecting tax returns for audit.

Taxpayers could then adjust their returns and avoid detection of questionable entries.

The Longs have been fighting the IRS since their returns were audited in 1969. They argue the information on the tapes is outdated and outsiders do not know which entries the IRS selected for its audit formula.

If the postponement is not granted, the government said it will be forced to turn over the tapes or undergo a contempt of court citation to preserve the option of seeking review by the Supreme Court.

"The report makes quite clear that program management is frequently unconcerned with enforcing the controls needed to prevent fraud," he said.

"Agencies do little to enforce a strong system of internal controls to prevent illegal activities from occurring. Most fraud cases are detected only after the agencies discover them by accident."

The report found that government employees were responsible for about 28 percent of the fraud cases studied, but that group comprised only four-tenths of 1 percent of the total government work force.

Newest Cimarron model compact but price is right up there with larger members of family

Cadillac thinking smaller

MILFORD, Mich. (UPI) — Prodded by its dealers for a car more attuned to today's market, Cadillac soon will be setting off in a new direction with the smallest car it has offered since 1905.

The Cimarron, Cadillac's new luxury subcompact, was previewed Friday and predictions it will appeal to a new kind of Cadillac customer.

Cadillac officials don't consider it a gamble.

"The research we've done would indicate we're going to do very well with the car," said Edward C. Kennard, general manager of the Cadillac Division of General Motors Corp.

Cimarron is Cadillac's version of the new GM J-car subcompact, which also will go on sale May 21 in Chevrolet and Pontiac models.

The Chevy and Pontiac J-cars are designed to compete with high-volume Japanese subcompact, but the Cimarron is after different game.

Its target, Cadillac officials said, is the upscale imported European sedans — the Audi, BMW, Saab and Volvo — that appeal to affluent younger buyers.

Cadillac has suffered substantial sales declines over the past two years because of the auto industry's long downturn. At the same time, the division's image was decidedly old, with a median age in the mid-50s for Cadillac buyers.

Kennard said he appealed to GM top planners to give his division a J-car version, firmly believing a new market could be cultivated.

The result was the smallest Cadillac built since 1905, the first with a four-cylinder engine since 1914 and the first with a manual transmission since 1953.

Kennard said they division successfully added suspension, trim, conveniences and other traditionally Cadillac luxury items to the basic J-car system, giving Cimarron its own personality.

"We wanted a European road car," not a miniature Brougham or Seville," he said. "We believe we've exactly what we set out to get — a new kind of Cadillac for a new kind of Cadillac owner."

Prices have not yet been announced, but Cadillac officials said it will be competitive with the targeted $11,000 to $15,000 European sedans.

About 240 exclusive-Cadillac dealers will sell the car at first, but there will be wider distribution as production gears up.

Kennard said he expects to sell up to 60,000 through the 1982 model year.

Wall Street ends grim week by sliding to mixed finish

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market finished with mixed results Friday, capping a grim week that saw Wall Street stagger from credit tightening and higher interest rates.

Trading was restrained.

The Dow Jones industrial average, ahead nearly two points at the outset after jumping 5.95 points Thursday, surrendered 1.99 points to 976.40. For the week, the average lost 19.15 points following a 24.76-point setback the week before.

Analysts said the Dow's gains the previous two sessions were fundamental bounces and had little support because interest rates have risen to near-record levels.

The New York Stock Exchange index added 0.05 to 76.18 and the price of an average share increased 20 cents. Advances edged declines 797, 642 among the 1,688 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 41,660,000 shares, down from the 42,590,000 traded Thursday.

Scores of investors stayed out of action while awaiting the Federal Reserve's report after the NYSE closed that showed the nation's money supply fell $3.6 billion in the latest statistical week.

That should ease pressure on interest rates, analysts said, noting an unexpected surge in the previous week prompted the Fed to raise the discount rate for member banks to a record high of 14 percent.

Composible volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 46,406,100 shares, compared with 47,010,600 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index climbed 2.19 to 382.18 and the price of a share added 12 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of OTC issues gained 1.18 to 214.84.

On the trading floor, General Dynamics was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1 1/4 to 32 1/4 in trading that included blocks of 25,000 shares and 524,000 shares, both at 32 1/4.

Merck was up 1/4 to 22 1/4, beat General Dynamics in the bidding for a $169.4 million government contract for an air defense gun. The contract potentially could be worth $3.2 billion.

McDonald Douglas rose 1 1/4 to 37 1/4. The British government reportedly has picked McDonnell Douglas's short takeoff-vertical landing aircraft project for a joint construction project worth more than $1 billion.

Petaco was second on the active list, off 1/4 to 38 1/4 following block trades of 221,400 shares and 208,200 shares, both at 38 1/4. Gulf Oil was third, up 1/4 to 34 1/4.

Conoco advanced 1/2 to 58 1/2 in active trading. The stock has been volatile this week since Dome Petroleum said it plans to offer $65 a share for 13 percent of Conoco's stock.

Dome wants to negotiate with Conoco over its 53 percent ownership of Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas-Hudson's Bay Oil, a 3 1/2-point winner Thursday.

It was the most active American Stock Exchange issue, off 1/4 to 25 1/4. Dome Petco, also an Amex issue, gained 1/2 to 85 1/4.

Homestate Mining lost 2 1/4 to 59 1/4 in heavy trading. The gold-mining company denied rumors that it had been approached by another company about a possible merger.

Holly Sugar, a 2 1/4-point winner Thursday, added 1/4 to 43 1/4. The company said its fiscal year earnings, bolstered by higher-sugar prices, soared to $8.86 a share from $3.37 a year ago.

On the Amex, advances topped declines 329-265 among the 796 issues traded at 4 p.m.

Paraplegic will parachute

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jim McGowan says he would have wanted to learn sky-diving even if he wasn't a paraplegic.

But on May 12, he'll become the first paraplegic to perform the feat. "I actually decided about three years ago that I wanted to do this," McGowan said. "Had I not been paralyzed, this is one of those things I would have wanted to do anyway. So I decided there was no reason why not. I pursued it and didn't find anyone willing to take the risk until I met Angel."

Doug Angel has used a one-day training program to teach hundreds of people how to parachute, but he has taken a full year to train McGowan, 48, of King of Prussia.

For 20 years, Angel has seen his students make successful jumps after a single day of training at Sky Dive East Parachute Center in Pilestown, N.J., but McGowan is his first paraplegic student.

"I'm pretty sure he'd be the first paraplegic anywhere to make a jump," Angel, 42, said Thursday in a phone interview.

Weather permitting, McGowan plans on May 12 to jump from an altitude of 3,000 feet into Lake

Wallenpaupack, a huge man-made lake in the Pocono Mountains of northeastern Pennsylvania, where seven scuba divers and two speedboats will be waiting to pick him up.

McGowan, a medical lab technician who is paralyzed from the chest down, said his paralysis was caused by a stab wound he suffered during a 1951 mugging in New York City's borough of Brooklyn, where he grew up.

"I probably won't be in the water more than one minute," McGowan said from his suburban Philadelphia home, "and I can swim, though only on my back."

Prince's phone calls printed

MÜNICH, West Germany (UPI) — A West German women's magazine Friday defied a court ban and published alleged wiretap transcripts of telephone conversations between Prince Charles and his fiancée, Lady Diana Spencer.

Charles, heir to the British throne, has said the alleged transcripts he saw of two conversations he had with Lady Diana while he was in Australia and she was in London were phony.

But the Munich-based Die Aktuelle magazine, which reportedly paid British journalist Simon Regan $33,000 for the transcripts, asserted they were genuine and used them in a six-page report liberally sprinkled with drawings of hearts.

The British government banned importation of the magazine and although it is not normally sold in Britain, Trade Minister John Biffen ordered customs officials to seize any copies containing the transcripts.

In London, Scotland Yard said Buckingham Palace asked it to investigate the "possibility of fraud or forgery." Magazine production editor Patrick Engel said a publication ban granted to the British Embassy last Thursday by a court in Nuremberg did not arrive until Die Aktuelle had printed 960,000 copies, about twice the normal number.

The court threatened Die Aktuelle with a $250,000 fine or six months imprisonment for its editor if it defied the ban. The West German Press Council also condemned Die Aktuelle for publishing the article and promised an investigation.

"We have nothing against this court order and stopped everything when it arrived — but it was too late," Engel said.

He said the magazine pondered publishing the article "for days" before going ahead and printing it under a headline that read "Never leave me so long again" with hearts in the place of quotation marks.

"We have an affidavit from the man who recorded them," Engel said. "He did it for political reasons — he didn't see a penny for it!"

Simon said the transcripts were provided by an anti-monarchist "who tapped the prince's phone while he was in Australia in an attempt to prevent Charles from becoming governor-general of the former British colony."

The three alleged conversations printed in Die Aktuelle were largely innocuous. "It's a really nice chat between two people who love each other," Engel told UPI. "That was the reason we printed it." United Press International informed its clients this week that it would not be providing a copy of the transcripts of the telephone conversations.

Owners evicted for too tall dog

STERLING HEIGHTS, Mich. (UPI) — For sale. One mobile home. Must-sacrifice. Owners evicted for having dog too tall.

That's right. Debbie and Rich Radzloch are moving out of the Sterling Estates mobile home park because their 3-year-old pet springer spaniel, Charlie, measures 20 inches from paw to shoulder.

Regulations stipulate that four-legged pets may measure no more than 18 inches.

"Rules are rules," said Patty Davidson, who manages the park with her husband, Donald. "Some tenants don't like them. But they like a nice park to live in, too."

"Besides, it's cruel to have big dogs in a park like this. It's cruel to have them copped up. That's why our company established the rules."

The Radzlochs, both 22, refused to get rid of the dog. They were notified in writing Monday that eviction proceedings would begin against them unless they vacated by June 5.

"How can they expect me to throw out Charlie? That dog's my kid. Everything's for that dog," Mrs. Radzloch said.

Craftsman carves on a hair

PEKING (UPI) — A craftsman at an embroidery factory has succeeded in carving five Chinese characters on a piece of panda hair, the official Xinhua news agency said Friday.

Xu Dalin, 35, carved five characters meaning "panda, the envoy of friendship" on a hair taken from a panda named Wei Wei in a Shanghai circus troupe. Xu, who works at the Suzhou Embroidery Institute in Jiangsu Province of east China, worked from dusk until late at night for months on the project, Xinhua said.

The hair was carved on display in the arms of an ivory-curved panda the size of a rabbit. The agency said

Will take place of Bobby Sands

Hunger strike replacement is named

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A replacement for the late Bobby Sands has been chosen to join three other weakening IRA inmates on a hunger strike to force Britain to give them political prisoner status, supporters said Friday.

"The situation has not ended with the death of Bobby Sands," said Gerry Adams, vice-president of Sinn Fein, political voice of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

"Another hunger striker is there, and there will be another and another and on and on."

Adams said an as-yet-unnamed volunteer had already been chosen to replace Sands, who died Tuesday in the sixth day of his fast at the Maze prison to press demands for concessions for IRA convicts.

Three other IRA hunger strikers — Francis Hughes, in the 53th day of a fast, and Raymond McCreech and Patrick O'Hara, both in their 50th day without food — were said to be deteriorating and suffering vision problems.

Sands, 27, elected to Britain's Parliament from the cell where he was serving 14 years for firearms possession, was buried Thursday with full military honors in the biggest IRA funeral Northern Ireland has seen.

An explosion of violence expected to follow his funeral did not come about but security forces, reinforced by 500 elite troops, remained on full alert as new threats of an assassination campaign kept up the tension.

Police said it was the "known intention" of the IRA and its offshoot, the Trotskyite Irish National Liberation Army, to mark selected individuals as targets — politicians, judges, military and prison officers.

The police warned them all to be "particularly alert in the days ahead."

Officials reported sporadic and minor gasoline bombings and rock throwing, and they warned drivers of commercial vehicles to avoid Catholic West Belfast because of a rash of hijackings and burnings.

Bernadette Devlin-McAliskey, speaking at a news conference by the U-I-Block Committee, which supports the prison protest, said Sands' replacement was chosen "from a number of people who before Christmas volunteered to go on a hunger strike."

The replacement for Sands was expected to stretch the hunger strike crisis.

Britain has vowed it will not give in to demands for political prisoner status, including the right of free association, sentence reduction, extra visits, letters and parcels, the right to wear their own clothes and to refuse to go to prison work.

Concession to the demands is seen as lending legitimacy to the leftist IRA, which seeks to unite Ulster with Ireland to build a socialist republic.

Spaniards protest terrorism

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Prime Minister Leopoldo Calvo Sotelo, speaking "hours" after millions of Spaniards observed two minutes of silence to protest terrorism, vowed Friday to battle political violence "without vacillating."

In his first speech to the nation since taking office two months ago, Calvo Sotelo acknowledged Spain was at a singularly "grave and" "grievous" period but he warned against a repeat of the Feb. 23 coup attempt to return the country to a dictatorship.

His address came at the end of one of the nation's bloodiest weeks of terrorist violence during which seven police and army men were killed and dozens other people, including King

Juan Carlos' top military aide, were wounded in bomb and shooting attacks.

Calvo Sotelo announced no new anti-terrorist measures but disclosed he plans to create a special anti-terrorist court.

He said the fight against terrorism would be long and hard, but declared: "We have the instruments to fight terrorist bands efficiently. And we will use them."

Earlier, millions of Spaniards stood in grim silence for two minutes at noon as traffic halted, church bells pealed and trains, boats and factories blew their horns to protest terrorism in their country.

World briefs

Syria won't withdraw SAMs

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syria said Friday it will not withdraw Soviet-made SAM anti-aircraft missiles from Lebanon.

Meanwhile, artillery shells exploded near the U.S. ambassador's residence where presidential envoy Philip Habib was meeting to prevent an Israeli-Syrian war.

Earlier in the day, after a meeting with President Elias Sarkis, Habib told reporters, "the latest developments in the area could be described as very dangerous."

Habib, who arrived in Lebanon Thursday and is scheduled to travel to Syria and Israel during the weekend, delivered a message from President Reagan to Sarkis and met with the Lebanese president for 85 minutes in efforts to avert a war between Syria and Israel in Lebanon.

Oil firms to remain in Libya

By United Press International

U.S. oil companies showed no immediate signs Friday of following the State Department's advice that they should pull American employees out of Libya, the nation's third largest foreign oil supplier.

Meanwhile, oil analysts said it was unlikely Libya could afford economically to cut off U.S. oil exports or throw out the six American oil companies operating there in retaliation for the State Department's decision to expel Libyan diplomats from the United States.

Swedish government resigns

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — The 19-month-old government of Prime Minister Thorbjorn Falldin resigned Friday and he immediately announced formation of a new minority coalition committed to sweeping tax reform.

Parliament is expected to formally approve the new government next week.

Falldin's three-party coalition of the Center, Liberal, and Conservative parties collapsed Monday when the Conservatives withdrew over Falldin's pact with socialists to delay tax cuts worth $1.74 billion.

Soviets plan manned launch

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet-Romanian space team will be launched into orbit in the next few days to mark the 38th anniversary of the end of World War II in Europe, Soviet and Western sources said Friday.

The new mission, to be called Soyuz-40, probably will have a Romanian air force lieutenant as its co-pilot, Western sources said.

Salvador junta claims priest was part of plot

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The Defense Ministry charged Friday that the mysterious disappearance of an American priest for 10 days in wartime El Salvador was part of a "premediated leftist plot" to discredit the ruling junta.

"Why does a priest, whose mission is eminently spiritual and evangelical, take up the work of translation and arrive in our country under the pretext of journalism, only to quickly join up with subversives?" it said.

The priest, the Rev. Roy Bourgeois, who surfaced Wednesday at the U.S. Embassy saying he had been away to talk to the poor, arrived in New York Friday from Miami to report to his superiors at Maryknoll headquarters in Ossining, N.Y.

Bourgeois' disappearance on April 10 had triggered fears that he too had been killed.

A leftist guerrilla station broadcast a statement attributed to Bourgeois in which he is quoted as saying: "I wanted to get first-hand information on El Salvador and carry it back to the United States, where many groups will try to paralyze U.S. military aid to the Salvadoran government."

In the daily political violence, judicial authorities said 20 bullet-riddled bodies were found around the central American nation.

Nun investigation confirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department reported Friday "a number of members of El Salvador's security forces" are under investigation for the killing of four American churchwomen in December.

Spokesman Dean Fischer refused to directly confirm or deny the charges by former Ambassador to El Salvador Robert White that the State Department has known for weeks that six members of the National Guard were arrested in connection with the murders.

Fischer said he could not comment further "because it will risk impeding the progress of the investigation. We are deeply interested in the murderers being brought forward and charged."

White said at a news conference Thursday in Rochester, N.Y., that the Salvadoran government is holding six National Guardsmen in the slayings. He said the State Department has known about the arrests for weeks but has concealed them for political purposes.

"A cover-up is precisely what is happening," White said.

"The Salvadoran government... has known this for months. As this talk of an investigation is a big charade because they knew within three days who was responsible."

White was recalled to Washington in February and relieved of his job because of Secretary of State Alexander Haig's anger over his statements to the press criticizing U.S. policy and some actions of the Salvadoran military.

White has retired from the Foreign Service.

Queen winner named today Swanberg fighting contempt charge

TWIN FALLS — Results of the Mother's Day Queen Contest sponsored by Twin Falls' downtown merchants will be announced today at noon in front of the Bank of Idaho.

Contenders for the title of queen and their sponsors, are Donna-Kyle, Junior Club; Mary Helen Perry, 20th Century Club; and Ardis Rose, American Association of Retired Persons.

The woman chosen queen will receive $150 in gift certificates redeemable downtown, and her sponsoring organization will receive $100 cash. Runners-up and their sponsors also will receive prizes.

Ballooning concluded Friday afternoon. Downtown shoppers were entitled to cast one vote for each $1 in purchases at participating firms.

SUSAN SWANBERG wants to tell her side

Her attorney claims Judge did not follow proper procedures

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Attorney Susan Swanberg has taken the first step toward reversing her recent contempt of court citation. Swanberg was scheduled to be sentenced next week for failing to appear as the prosecutor in a 5th District Magistrate Court trial early last month. The maximum penalty for the alleged offense under Idaho law is five days in jail and/or a $500 fine. She asked 5th District Court officials to intervene in a petition filed in 5th District Court Thursday by her lawyer, Monte Carlson.

As a result, 5th District Court Judge Theron Ward Thursday signed an order temporarily prohibiting 5th District Magistrate Court Judge R. Michael Redman from sentencing Swanberg. That sets the stage for an initial hearing at which Carlson will argue Redman did not follow proper procedures in citing Swanberg. If the presiding judge concurs with that claim, Swanberg will have an opportunity to explain her side of the story in another hearing. Swanberg was in Boise Friday and unavailable for comment. Redman declined to comment on the development, saying only that he would adhere to whatever decision is reached by the district court judge. Just who will make that decision remained unknown Friday, however. Carlson exercised an option and disqualified Ward, and 5th District Court Judge Daniel Meehl said he would disqualify himself as well. By presiding over a case involving two individuals familiar to him, Meehl said he could present the appearance of a conflict of interest. Fifth District Court Administrative Judge Douglas Kramer of Halley is expected to select a replacement sometime next week. Swanberg's petition takes issue with Redman's decision to summarily cite the city attorney, an action open to a judge only when the alleged contempt occurs in the courtroom. Under Idaho law, a judge must order a defendant to show cause for the alleged contempt of court if that takes place outside of the court. The petition argues the alleged contempt occurred outside of the courtroom. Carlson argues that by summarily citing Swanberg, Redman was also operating without all of the facts in the case. "He didn't know her reason for not appearing. He didn't know at that time what she had to say," Carlson said. But Carlson declined to elaborate on Swanberg's explanation, reserving it for the second hearing.

Countless corsages

Filer High School teacher Tiejuna Cochauer, right, gave some advice to Kemy Glons, 16, and Kathy

Minidoka to name coroner

RUPERT — Minidoka County Commissioners will appoint a new coroner Monday.

In an informal meeting Friday, the commissioners discussed possible candidates for the office of county coroner.

Commissioner Lyle Barton said he could not release the names of the candidates. He said a vote will be taken Monday and the coroner will be named at that time.

The office of Minidoka County Coroner will be vacated by Kim Christensen May 15.

Christensen is resigning from both the coroner position and a job as lab technician in Minidoka Memorial Hospital to accept position in Jerome as chief technologist at St. Benedict's Hospital.

Morgan joins Burley P&Z

BURLEY — A new member has been named to the Burley Planning and Zoning Commission.

William Morgan of Burley was approved unanimously Monday by the Burley City Council to replace Chuck Skaggs.

Morgan will finish the five years left on Skaggs' six-year term. Skaggs resigned last month, after 11 years on the commission, to pursue other interests.

Indigent insurance plan gains support from Twin Falls

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County officials will support a proposed statewide insurance system covering counties against expensive medical indigent claims.

The proposal, presented Thursday to the 16 members of the Idaho Association of Counties executive board, stems from growing financial pressure being placed on county medical indigent budgets. Rising medical costs, particularly in cases of catastrophic illnesses, coupled with restricted county revenues under the 1 percent initiative have raised havoc with some county budgets, such as Cassia County's medical indigent fund. It was emptied earlier this year.

The insurance proposal calls for establishment of a $300,000 to $350,000 reserve fund coupled with a $2 million insurance coverage policy. The reserve fund would cover approved medical indigent claims $5,000 or less. Claims above that amount would be covered by the insurance policy.

The first year's premium would amount to $23,000. Premiums in following years would be set according to the number and types of claims submitted. Twin Falls County Commissioners Ann Cover and Merl Leonard, who sit on the executive board, said Friday they will participate in the program.

"It's gotten to the point where you can't afford not to have insurance for something like this," Cover said.

The idea behind the system is the statewide system would be able to absorb medical claims which would prove disastrous to individual counties involved, Leonard added.

So far, eight of the state's 15 most populous counties which are needed to make the program viable have indicated they will participate, said the two commissioners.

Under the proposal made by Carron Black Inc., a Virginia-based insurance company, each county would contribute to the reserve account in an amount equal to 58.5 cents per each county resident, provided three-fourths of Idaho's 44 county governments participate.

Officials from all 44 counties will be asked to ratify the proposal when the IAC membership meets in September. Leonard said the insurance company will also provide training seminars for county employees who deal with indigent claims as well as some legal assistance for counties that lose indigent claims appealed to the courts.

Name not released

Candidate offered Chamber position

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce is close to hiring a new manager.

A candidate was offered the job Friday and he said he leans toward accepting it. He probably will decide on the offer next week.

The candidate asked that his name and home town not be revealed because his current employers do not know he was in Twin Falls Thursday talking to the chamber board of directors about the manager's job.

He lives in southwest Idaho, but not Boise, and is a former policeman.

On his resume, he had everything the board wanted, said real estate broker and Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce President Doug Vollmer.

The candidate has experience working for a chamber of commerce and a good track record there, he said.

After spending a day with him Thursday, Vollmer said he and other board members felt even better about the candidate.

"He's very aggressive, but not pushy," Vollmer said.

Some of his ideas for the chamber were things the board has been thinking about for several months.

The candidate said he is excited about the possibility of coming to Twin Falls, but he and the chamber board still "have a few things to negotiate, first."

The chamber has been searching for a new manager for several months to replace Jay Hoyer, who resigned near the end of last year to take over the manager's position at the Salem, Ore., Chamber of Commerce.

However, the chamber did not find out about the candidate until two weeks ago. Then, he said, it was like a "whirlwind" hit him.

Barbara MacNeill, chamber board member and owner of Snelling and Snelling Employment Service, called him immediately and arranged for him to come to Twin Falls as soon as possible.

Burley shooting an apparent homicide

BURLEY — A Burley man was shot to death early Friday in an apparent homicide, according to Cassia County Sheriff's deputies.

Edmund Louis Muhlhill, 39, was found dead at the Golden Rail Trailer Court, six miles west of Burley. Cassia County deputies were called to the scene at 2:45 a.m. by trailer court manager John Stamper, who heard the gunfire.

Cassia County Prosecutor Al Barrus said the man had been shot twice with a handgun.

Barrus said the man was found in a trailer belonging to his estranged wife, but he would not identify the woman or say if she is a suspect in the shooting.

An autopsy was completed at Cassia Memorial Hospital Friday morning by Dr. Willis Garrard. Results of the autopsy will be available Monday.

No arrest has been made. Investigation is continuing under the direction of Cassia Deputy Don Taylor. No other details of the shooting were released by authorities.

Mexican holiday celebration today

TWIN FALLS — The Mexican holiday of Cinco de Mayo will be celebrated today with a mass and festival in City Park.

Events begin at 10 a.m. in the Guadalupe Center, 630 Falls Ave., led by Father Enrique Perrieres, a Mexican priest serving the Burley area.

The City Park fiesta runs from noon to 5 p.m. Mexican food and other Mexican items will be sold. Recreation will be provided for children.

A Fiesta Queen also will be chosen and crowned at a dance on May 16. Nine girls have been nominated for the title and will be selected on the basis of who has collected more money for the church. Each girl collecting more than $100 will receive $50 back.

TWIN FALLS — New federal legislation is preventing the Idaho Housing Agency from selling $142 million worth of tax-exempt mortgage loans.

The delay was discussed Friday at the Holiday Inn by IHA commissioners during their monthly meeting.

In 1979, the Idaho Legislature allowed IHA to sell $200 million worth of tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds. But federal legislation passed last December put restrictions on bonds that has made them difficult to sell.

Board Chairman Hubert Coats said.

The bond sales provide revenue that allows IHA to offer housing loans to low-income people at lower interest rates than conventional loans, and for its apartment development and home improvement loan programs. The IHA receives no government funds.

The new federal rules limits to less than 5 percent the difference between the interest rate the agency must pay bond investors and the interest rate the agency recovers from mortgage loans.

"This makes it impossible for IHA to be self-sufficient and so bond rating agencies have not given the agency favorable ratings. Executive Director David Hegg said.

Communications Director Judith Reich said the legislation "is a question of overkill. We always had regulations. In effect, the baby has been thrown out with the bath water. The legislation created restrictions to make the program unworkable."

The legislation was formulated because the sale of the mortgage revenue bonds had been abused in some United States cities, Hegg said.

The programs went unchecked and people who were in need of low interest loans received help, he said.

Bellevue legal quirk causes controversy in septic tank issue

By STEVE LATHROP
Times-News correspondent

BELLEVUE — The charter city of Bellevue may be free to ignore local health regulations because of its unique legal status.

An advisory opinion issued last week by the Idaho Attorney General's office said the South Central District Health Department, acting on its own, cannot establish minimum lot sizes for the installation of septic tanks in Bellevue. The opinion said because Bellevue is governed under the terms of a pre-stated territorial charter, only laws and regulations of statewide effect can be imposed on it.

Bellevue is a home town city with a territorial charter. All others are governed under the Idaho constitution.

The South Central District Health Department, a quasi-autonomous agency with authority in several south Idaho counties, ran into resistance when it tried to restrict septic tank installations in Bellevue to one-acre lots.

In the past, Bellevue, which has no central sewer system, permitted septic tanks on all standard city lots. Bellevue city lots can be as small as 6,000 square feet.

Deputy Attorney General Roy Elgren said Friday the opinion issued in response to a South Central District request means that only the state board of health has the authority to set septic tank requirements in Bellevue. At present, the state board has no minimum lot size requirements anywhere.

Jack Hochberger, another deputy attorney general, who works for the Idaho division of environment, said the state board would probably wait for the South Central District to make a request before taking any action regarding Bellevue.

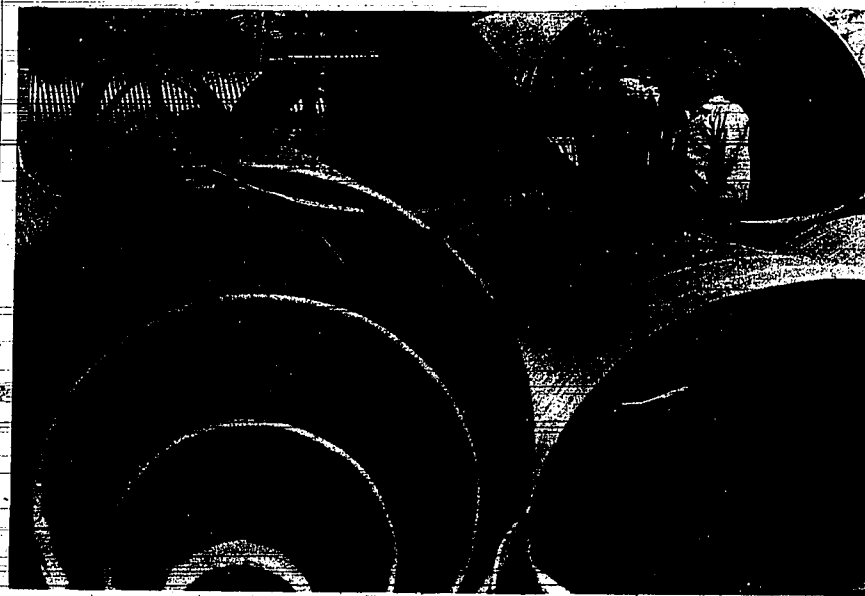

Gerald Hurst, director of the South Central District, said his agency is in the process of setting up a meeting with the Bellevue City Council. Hurst said the district is unwilling to see Bellevue proceed with high density septic tank development.

"I'm just wondering how we would clear the water table up if it ever got polluted," Hurst said. "I think if we ever went to court, we would have enough background to show that one unit per acre is the saturation point."

Bellevue Mayor Claude Ballard said he met with Hurst in early April, and at that time, he had no information about allowable septic tank density at Bellevue.

"Hurst told me there was no information as far as Bellevue is concerned... as to what we should expect, we are going to have to solicit information," Ballard said.

He said Bellevue does not want to do anything which will result in pollution.

Man in court on lewd charge

JEROME — A 23-year-old man from Mexico has been bound over to 5th District Court in Jerome on a charge of lewd conduct with a minor girl.

Jose Sandoval allegedly engaged in lewd behavior with a Jerome girl under the age of 16 on April 18, according to court records.

After a preliminary hearing Thursday, 5th District Magistrate Court Judge Russell Shaub ordered Sandoval to appear in district court for arraignment.

Sandoval, represented by Jerome County Public Defender Dennis Adamson, is being held in Jerome County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond.

5th District Court action

No date has been set for Sandoval's arraignment.

Probation violator sentenced

TWIN FALLS — A 20-year-old Twin Falls man was ordered to serve a maximum five-year prison sentence Friday after 5th District Court Judge Theron Ward ruled he violated his probation.

Kevin Paul Anderson was placed on a two-year probation Oct. 3, 1980, following his guilty plea to two felony charges, resisting arrest and possession of marijuana. At that time, Ward suspended execution of two maximum five-year prison terms to have been served concurrently.

Idaho Department of Probation and Parole officials charged the Twin Falls man violated the terms of his probation when he was charged with assault and battery upon his wife and child. Other violations included failing to report to his probation officer and failing to make restitution for damaged police equipment.

In other court matters, Ward placed 19-year-old Rickle D. Roberts of Twin Falls on a two-year probation in lieu of $20,000 bond. The maximum prison sentence suspended is maximum 19-year prison sentence. Roberts pleaded guilty Feb. 13 to first-degree burglary in connection with the Nov. 26, 1980, theft of a cassette tape player/AM-FM radio and other items from an automobile parked at Wagner Livestock Co., 410 Locust St. N.E.

A 23-year-old Buhl man pleaded guilty to possession of stolen property Friday, a charge carrying a maximum 14-year prison sentence.

Deputy Prosecutor Jim Messer argued against the request, led by Ward to suggest scheduling a trial begin May 18.

Ward then agreed to reduce bond to $1,000.

Obituaries

John S. Feldhusen

TWIN FALLS — John S. Feldhusen, 82, of Twin Falls, died early Friday morning at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

He was born March 13, 1898, at Fort Calhoun, Neb., and moved to Boise in 1910, where he graduated from high school in 1917. He graduated from Oregon State College in 1921 with a bachelor of science degree in animal husbandry. He married Gladys J. Jones June 11, 1924, at Boise.

After moving to Twin Falls in 1922, he was vocational instructor at the Twin Falls High School for eight years, and managed the Bean Growers Warehouse Association from 1933 to 1948. He purchased a farm in the Kimberly area in 1956, and also owned land in the Ketchum area. He was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church, where he founded the first Boy Scout Troop of that church. He served on the Kimberly School Board, was a life member of the Elks Lodge, a past member of the American Legion, and was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are his wife of Twin Falls; a son, John S. Feldhusen Jr., and a daughter, Roy (Jean M.) Jester, both of Kimberly; and six grandchildren.

Services will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday in White Mortuary Chapel with the Rev. Robert VanDerMeulen officiating, and burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park. Friends may call at the mortuary today and Sunday until 9 p.m. The family suggests memorials to the First United Presbyterian Church.

Core Ellen Smith

TWIN FALLS — Core Ellen Smith, 91, of Twin Falls, died Thursday in the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital.

She was born Sept. 18, 1889, at Jamestown, Colo., and married Arthur Smith Nov. 7, 1914, in Colorado. They moved to Eden in September 1923, where they engaged in farming. After Mr. Smith's death Nov. 1, 1948, she moved into Twin Falls where she has since resided. She was a member of the Twin Falls Church of the Nazarene.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. John F. (Lois) Brown and Mrs. Mary Sayre, both of Twin Falls; a son, Everett Smith of Jerome; 11 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren; three great-great-grandchildren; and a brother, John Bruning of Boulder, Colo. She was preceded in death by three brothers and two sisters.

Graveside services will be at 1 p.m. Monday in Sunset Memorial Park with the Rev. Aaron Knapp officiating. Friends may call at White Mortuary today and Sunday until 9 p.m., and until noon Monday. The family suggests memorials to the Twin Falls Association of Retired Citizens, 764 Greenwood Drive, Twin Falls.

Woman in fair condition after pickup truck overturns

TWIN FALLS — A woman trapped in a small pickup truck after it overturned on South Park Avenue West was in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Friday night.

Idaho State Police said a truck operated by Margaret S. Henderson, age unknown, of Twin Falls, was on South Park Avenue West just west of the Twin Falls city limits when it slid into a ditch and overturned.

Police said the cause of Henderson's apparent loss of control is unknown. The accident occurred at about 1:20 p.m., police said.

Eight Filer firemen responded to the accident to stand by in case fuel spillage resulted in fire, according to Fire Chief Larry Answorth. Extrication equipment was requested at the scene to free Henderson.

BLM to outline management plan

TWIN FALLS — The Burley District Bureau of Land Management will hold two public meetings Wednesday to outline tentative plans for managing public land in Twin Falls County.

The 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. meetings are both scheduled at the College of Southern Idaho Cafeteria Conference Room. Registration will begin 15 minutes before each session.

Nick Cozokas, Burley District BLM manager, said the revised plan includes requests for fast growing demands for a variety of public land uses in Twin Falls County.

Public comments will be used to assess the adequacy of the recommendations, Cozokas said.

Scott Anderson, Magic Resource Area manager for lands in Twin Falls County, will outline resource management opportunities and explain how the revised plan deals with each opportunity.

Cash taken from home

TWIN FALLS — A Heib Thursday told Twin Falls Police $1,200 in cash was stolen from his home.

Police said the burglary at 141 DuBois Ave. occurred between Monday morning and Tuesday afternoon.

Also taken were a radio, a gun, a safe, a tape player and business papers.

The value of stolen cash and goods totaled $1,600, according to police. Forced entry at the home resulted in $150 damage, police said.

QUESTION...

What funeral benefits are available to the survivors of a deceased worker who qualifies under Social Security?

ANSWER...

A lump-sum death payment based upon the Social Security record of a worker who dies either fully or currently insured may be payable to his survivors. This may be as much as three times the worker's primary insurance amount, but no more than $255. The lump sum may be paid in addition to any monthly survivors' insurance benefits that are due.

If there is no eligible surviving spouse, the lump sum benefit may be paid to the person who paid the funeral expenses; or it may be assigned to us as a credit toward funeral expenses.

Nez Perce apparently fishing

Salmon fishing deal not yet reached

RIGGINS (UPI) — The return run of spring chinook salmon has begun at the Rapid River Hatchery and a few Nez Perce tribal fishermen have been observed at the river, apparently fishing, officials say.

Tribal members have fishing rights guaranteed under treaty with the United States.

However, the state of Idaho and the tribe are trying to reach an agreement to restrict the Indian fishery if the chinook run is too small.

But the two sides have not reached a formal agreement and appear to be at odds over how many fish need to reach the hatchery to preserve the run. The two sides also have not resolved whether a sanctuary should be established within 100 feet of the hatchery trap.

According to correspondence exchanged between Idaho Department of Fish and Game Director Jerry Conley and Wilfred Scott, chairman of the Nez Perce Tribal Executive Committee, the two sides have agreed in principle to allow an unrestricted Indian fishery until 50 fish enter the hatchery trap. After that, there will be two more weeks of unrestricted treaty fishing. Then the two sides will negotiate any further restrictions based on the projected numbers of fish returning.

About 3,000 salmon have come over Lower Granite Dam on the Snake River, the last dam on the Columbia River hydroelectric dam complex before the fish swim into Idaho waters. It isn't clear, however, just how many fish will go to the Rapid River. The number negotiating Lower Granite is about five times as many as one year ago at the same time. But biologists say the increase may simply indicate an early run rather than a large one.

The state wants a minimum of 2,700 fish to return to the Rapid River Hatchery, Conley said. But tribal leaders say that many fish aren't needed to perpetuate the run and proposed restrictions on the treaty fish shouldn't be based on the 2,700 figure. About 1,500 salmon ultimately were trapped last year.

Johnson named

BPA apointment becomes official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Energy Secretary James Edwards appointed Idaho businessman Peter Johnson to head the Bonneville Power Administration Friday.

Edwards said the former president of Idaho's Trust-Joint Corp. would bring "extensive experience in financial and construction management" to the Pacific Northwest's regional power broker.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, the chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee who recommended Johnson for the post, said he was pleased with the appointment.

He said he was certain Johnson would provide the "necessary leadership to implement the new Northwest Power bill."

Johnson told the Idaho State Journal of Proletariat Thursday he expected to be sworn in as BPA administrator on Monday. The 48-year-old Boisean follows Sterling Munro in the administrative and policy setting job.

The BPA was set up in 1937 to build and operate transmission lines to deliver electrical power from dams and other sources and to market electricity from the federal government's generating projects along the Columbia River.

Johnson said he "fully concurs" with the law's emphasis on conservation as an energy alternative.

V-1 Oil files for dismissal

CALDWELL (UPI) — V-1 Oil Co. of Idaho Falls filed a motion for dismissal Friday in a case brought by a local chapter of the Idaho Service Station Association.

The association filed the suit against the company alleging that V-1 Oil was selling gas below its cost. The action, filed in 3rd District Court in Caldwell, asks an Idaho law which states that a retail operation cannot sell an item at or below its cost.

The motion filed Friday asks for a change of venue in the case to Idaho Falls and asks for dismissal of the case on the grounds that Chapter III of the association, which is located in the Burley-Rupert area, is not a properly.

Herb Holly, Mountain Home, president of the association, said, "I am not taking any more role in the lawsuit filed against V-1. However, I am in agreement with it. The suit was filed by Chapter III, not by the state association."

A check of the state distributors, who also operate retail outlets, say their profits range from 3 percent to 4.1 percent. State law requires a 3 percent gross profit.

Asked why other distributors were not included in the complaint, Del Hallinger of Rupert said, "If we can get this case to court then we would ask that other distributors be added to the list."

Hallinger is a plaintiff in the suit.

Governor honors volunteers

BOISE (UPI) — The efforts of volunteer workers are "a necessity if our democracy is to survive," Gov. John Evans said Friday.

Americans traditionally have affirmed their rights and responsibilities as citizens by becoming involved in shaping their own future," Evans told a luncheon honoring volunteers throughout the state.

A number of certificates and awards were presented at the luncheon. The regional Governor's Outstanding Individual Volunteer awards went to Ruth Bright, Coeur d'Alene; Frances Nuttman, Post Falls; Mary Ballantyne, Boise; Clare Bednar, Twin Falls; and Maxine Schultz, Idaho Falls.

Although history recognizes primarily those who held elected or appointed positions, Evans said, the combined and individual actions of thousands of unnamed citizens have had an impact on society.

"These were citizens who became involved, not because of coercion or salary, but because they recognized a need and were willing to take responsibility for meeting that need," he said.

"Because they assumed this responsibility in addition to their everyday duties, and because they did not seek monetary reward, the recognition of their valuable work was immediate, personal, and fleeting."

Evans said the immediate impact was "localized," but the cumulative effect of many such voluntary actions occurring in every part of the country in every decade, "makes it impressively apparent that history has been shaped by everyone."

Prison hostage claims study failed to find cause of riot

MOSCOW (UPI) — A former Idaho State Penitentiary guard held hostage for 18 hours by inmates during a riot last summer, says he was a "fall guy."

Lynart Orr, who now lives in Moscow, told the Lewiston Morning Tribune about what he sees as a "big administrative screw-up." He claims the governor's task force appointed to investigate the riot, failed to talk to him and the other guard taken hostage in the riot.

"There is something amiss," Orr said. "Somebody was trying to make me a fall man, and lay blame on me. I have to ask myself, why am I being blamed for something and I still think somebody else is trying to take the blame off themselves."

Orr said he has questions about the role the prison administration played in the riots, and said the task force evaded the issue of administrative fault.

The task force did not dwell on who or what may have caused the riot. In the report's summary, the committee said Idaho is not unlike other western states with prison riots.

"Somebody was avoiding responsibility for either some poor administrative decisions or for some intentional malicious intent," Orr said.

The shakedown that prompted the inmates to riot was conducted in a "totally arrogant manner," on the day after the hottest day of the year, at the time of day when most inmates were out and about the yard and cafeteria, Orr said. "Anybody with horse sense would realize there was going to be some type of reaction."

The only hint to the guards on duty came during a briefing at the beginning of the shift in which the shift lieutenant said "keep your eyes and ears open, it's going to be a hot one," Orr said.

"Somebody screwed up big by not letting officers know that the shake-down was taking place that day and what to do in case of a riot."

Some people have suggested that the prison officials wanted a riot to occur. In order to force the legislature to pump more money into the prison, Orr said. The failure to prevent the hostage-taking on the day of the riot supports that suspicion, but Orr said he had no indications that the prison officials wanted to provoke a riot — only questions.

If the prison officials did want the shakedown to result in a riot, they were as much as saying the inmates and the two hostages' lives were expendable, Orr said.

"It scares me," Orr said. "Something is radically wrong. I have these suspicions and I have heard other people voice them and yet when I try to get an answer from the governor's office or tell this to these people I am told I am being stupid, emotional and irrational."

Challis powerline progressing

CHALLIS (UPI) — Construction is progressing on the "pre-production" stage of powerline facilities to serve the Cyprus-Mines project in Custer County, officials said Friday.

The construction involves building a power line from Clayton to the Cyprus project site north of the Salmon River up Squaw Creek, a distance of some 14 miles.

Clayton Hurless, Snake River Electric Manager, said the construction also includes doing some work on the existing line from Challis to Clayton and involves a couple of voltage regulator stations.

Anderson and Wood, Caldwell; and Power Line

Construction Co., Arco, are the contracting firms doing the work under authority of Power Engineers, Halley, which is handling the consulting work for Salmon River Electric.

Hurless said power is to be provided to the first large electric shovel at the open pit Cyprus Mine June 15. Eventually there will be five shovel stages on the project. They will be placed into service in stages — the first June 15 and then one every 90 days.

The power line project cost, both in pre-production and production phases, is expected to run some $15 million. Power will be supplied by the Bonneville Power Administration.

Tax Commission faults study

BOISE (UPI) — A report from the Idaho Tax Commission indicates a Washington, D.C., tax-research group was wrong when it said per-capita property taxes in Idaho went up after the passage of the 1 percent law in 1978.

The Tax Commission said it determined that per-capita property taxes went down 9 percent between 1978 and 1979, or from $253 per capita in 1978 to $228 per capita in 1979.

However, the Tax Commission found per-capita property taxes went up 3.9 percent for Idahoans between 1978 and 1980.

The Idaho Statesman reported Wednesday the results of a survey by the Tax Foundation, Inc., which reported that Idaho's per-capita property taxes rose from $215 in 1978 to $245 in 1979.

The Tax Foundation's figures were off because it used information from the Census Bureau that underestimated Idaho's population during 1978 and 1979.

Evans opposes 20 sites

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans has informed the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers he is opposed to 20 of the agency's proposed hydroelectric sites in Idaho.

Evans said Friday he wrote Brig. Gen. Richard M. Wells, the division engineer for the corps in Portland, asking that no further studies be made of those sites.

The governor recommended that a series of public meetings be held to consider the draft report titled "The National Hydroelectric Power Study, Western Systems Coordinating Council Regional Report."

"I appreciate the corps working with the state in clarifying the purposes and use of this study," Evans told Wells. "I, however, have received comments from a number of groups expressing their disappointment with the limited opportunity that have been given to review the report."

Evans said he concurred "with the corp's policy that acknowledges that the state has final responsibility for determining which potential hydroelectric projects should be studied and/or developed."

He said he opposed the 20 projects "because of potential significant adverse social and environmental impacts."

Evans listed these projects in that category: managers, Arrow, Kelly Fork, Rock Creek, Salmon Creek, Wellas, Garden Valley, Garden Valley reregulating, Big Pine Creek, Oxbow Bend, Sleep Creek, Archie Creek, Casner Creek, Raspberry, Long Gulch, Twin Springs, Frophytry, Contux, Kimberly and Yellow Jacket.

Wildlife group claims victory

BOISE (UPI) — The immediate past president of the Idaho Wildlife Federation said Friday the agency scored a "significant victory" this week in its lawsuit against the U.S. Forest Service.

The group instituted the lawsuit in an attempt to have the Forest Service's plans to open the Warren and Landmark planning unit of the Boise and Payette national forests to timber harvesting declared invalid.

The federation argues that the proposed plans and related environmental impact statements do not adequately assess the impacts of timber harvesting and road building on fish and wildlife habitat in the area.

A 10-year moratorium had been placed by the Forest Service on all timber harvesting and road building in the South Fork of the Salmon River drainage because of the vast amounts of sand that erode into the river.

The proposed plans were drafted by the Forest Service so the agency could resume road building and timber harvesting in the area.

BOISE (UPI) — A Gooding County man hired to manage the Lyle Lake Ranch for the California owner denied allegations Friday that he misappropriated funds and equipment from the operation.

Donald T. Bray of California has filed suit in Idaho U.S. District Court against Leroy Hess, who worked at the ranch from 1978 until early 1980. The $150,000 lawsuit contends Hess used Bray's account to buy equipment for another ranch; used Bray's other employees for other jobs and brought 145 head of cattle to graze on Bray's land.

But Hess denied the charges, Friday, asking the court to dismiss the lawsuit. He said he should be awarded the $150,000 Bray is seeking because he also was not reimbursed for expenses related to managing Bray's operation.

Ranch manager denies charges

BOISE (UPI) — A Gooding County man hired to manage the Lyle Lake Ranch for the California owner denied allegations Friday that he misappropriated funds and equipment from the operation.

Donald T. Bray of California has filed suit in Idaho U.S. District Court against Leroy Hess, who worked at the ranch from 1978 until early 1980. The $150,000 lawsuit contends Hess used Bray's account to buy equipment for another ranch; used Bray's other employees for other jobs and brought 145 head of cattle to graze on Bray's land.

But Hess denied the charges, Friday, asking the court to dismiss the lawsuit. He said he should be awarded the $150,000 Bray is seeking because he also was not reimbursed for expenses related to managing Bray's operation.

FACES ON COINS
Q: Why is it no U.S. President legally can order his own likeness stamped on coins? Fear they would be used for political advertisements?
A: That, and the certainty it would result in new coins every few years. It's hard enough even now to preserve the illusion that the money has any value. If coins were personalized that way, they'd wind up worth about as much as new campaign buttons. Nero of Rome wasn't the first to put his picture on coins. Ptolemy I of Egypt was. But Nero did it in a multiple manner. A whole series of Nero coins in different poses. As a warrior. As a singer. As a character. As a man of peace. As a builder.

Q: I'm getting an argument for my claim that it takes 2,640 ties per mile of railroad track.
A: Such used to be the case. Now it takes 3,020 because of the faster trains.

Q: Has any man with a earned Doctor of Philosophy degree ever been elected U.S. President?
A: Only Woodrow Wilson, sir.

SUPERSTITIOUS
The most superstitious people are those most affected in their work or play by the likelihood of unforeseen accidents. Firemen are notoriously superstitious. So are baseball players. And cinema performers. No matter how well they refine their association, there's still that dangerous element of chance. It's inexplicable. So they attribute it to oddball influences. To consign the blame elsewhere. Habitual gamblers, too, are extremely superstitious, I'm told.

Twin Falls, Jerome win track titles

Bruins use sprint win to turn back Minico

Hurdle 'ploy' sends extra Tiger to state

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—The strings are still alive. Juniors Larry Hurt and Greg Kitzridge turned the 100-meter dash into a Bruin power event Friday that swung the boys A-1 District Track Championship to Twin Falls for the 25th straight time. The Twin Falls girls, the only champion this district has ever known, won everything on the track to easily sweep victory.

It was an all underclassman battle that was probably the turning point for the Bruin boys. At the outset, it appeared that Minico junior Don Patten and sophomore Robert Lara could do the one-two or one-three trick. But Hurt, despite his poorest start, came on in the final steps to win. Patten, who trailed Kitzridge most of the way, got in front in the last yards for second.

"The surprise was the way I won it," Hurt said afterward. "I didn't think I could beat Patten in the 200 because he's run that all year. I felt if I could beat him it would have to be in the 100. And then that start... I just didn't go. I heard the gun and looked over and saw another guy move. That's when I decided to run. Usually, it's the other way for me. I get the good start and people overhaul me."

From that point Twin Falls went on to push into a 25-point lead before Minico closed at the end. Not hurting the Bruins was Scott Holloway's victory in the Discus, which had figured to be a Minico power event. Holloway, with a 146-6 effort, neutralized Minico's point production there.

But the Spartans had a couple of surprises for the Bruins, too.

Paul Whitecar came off the pace in the final 150 yards to take the 300-meter crown from previously-unbeaten Eric McManaman of Twin Falls. Whitecar

TWIN FALLS—Jerome Coach Tim Dunne turned a crippling rule to his advantage Friday while his Tigers were winning another Fourth District A-2 Track Championship.

There were no surprises of major proportions in the two-day meet as the Jerome boys scored 106½ points compared with 40½ for Wood River and 39 for Buhl. In the girls' division, Jerome had 85, Wood River 45 and Buhl 30.

Jerome's major problem in running for a state was the rule that limits only the individual champion and first-place relay team to advance to state next week in Boise.

Thursday, that rule cost Jerome distance ace Robin Mein in the 3,200. But just prior to that, defending state intermediate hurdle champion Armando Lopez had run a 40.2 in qualifying. That gave him a spot in state.

In Friday's final round, Lopez ran dead last in his specialty—but teammate Zane Ostler sped to victory, thus qualifying for state as the district champion while Lopez will be there as a time qualifier.

"I messed up on the first hurdle," Lopez said with wide-eyed innocence—and no one could shake his story.

"I don't think it gets us even with losing the extra man in the two-mile," Dunne said when asked to equate the loss and gain. "There are a lot of good intermediate hurdlers in the state but I think our two-milers would have been second and third without any problem. The only one they had to worry about was the guy from Madison."

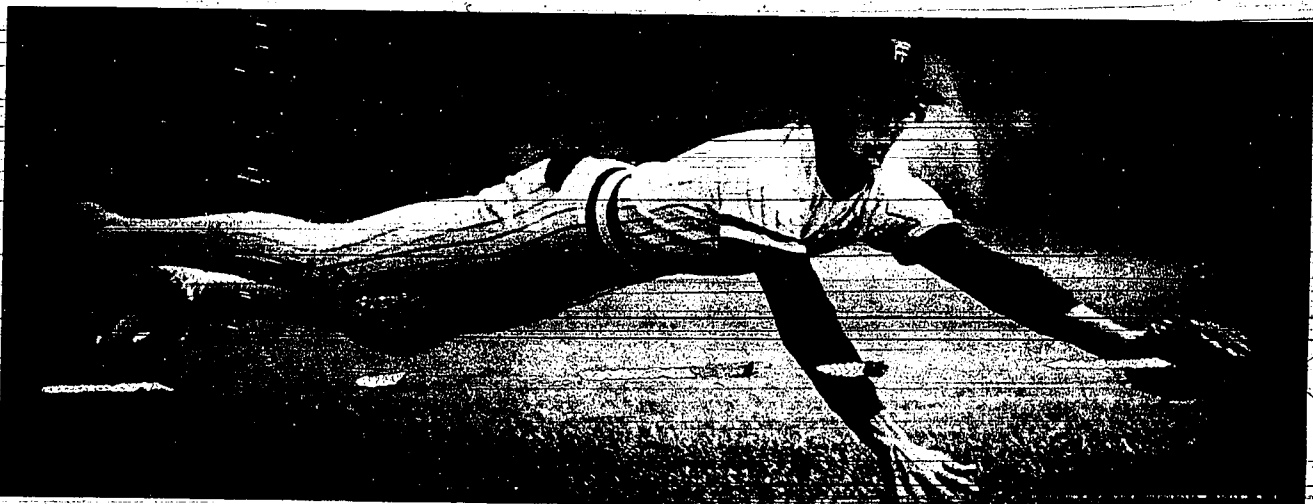

Overall, Dunne felt the Tigers had done about as well as could be expected under the legislated limitations.

Twin Falls shortstop Gregg Kravitz prepares himself for a fall with his right hand after successfully stopping a line drive hit by Minico's Tracy Wodskow in the first game

Minico's big bats halt Bruins' comeback try

By MIKE PRATER
Times-News writer

RUPERT— "Hard working bats will beat you ever time."

With each piercing crack of the bat Friday, that phrase raced through Coach Ron Watson's mind as he stood in the dugout, his glasses smothering the Minico Spartans' take away a state tournament berth from his Twin Falls

Bruins.

Minico regrouped after dropping the first game of a double-header 7-2 and eliminated Twin Falls 11-5 in the nightcap for the championship of the Fourth District A-1 Baseball Tournament.

Having dropped its opening game Tuesday to Minico, Twin Falls was forced to sweep the twinbill for a state berth.

Senior Lars Hovey made sure Twin Falls won the first game with a five-hit pitching performance, but the Bruins' pitching power stopped there.

Minico ripped four Twin Falls hurriers for 15 hits in the nightcap and the Bruins never threatened despite some long ball hitting.

Watson still has a chance to take his team to state for the second straight season, but must wait for the results of the Third District Tournament this weekend.

If undefeated Caldwell knocked off Meridian late Friday night, the Bruins' chances of receiving the wild card berth will increase. If Caldwell loses out on one of three berths available from that district, it probably would get the wildcard berth because of its record.

Back in Rupert, Minico Coach Rick Baumann was concerned with the hitting performance of his team heading into the second game. Hovey had the Spartans guessing in the first game with a deadly fastball, and Baumann was unsure about the pitchers Watson would use in the second.

"For the most part, they've used Hovey against us and they couldn't use him in the second so I had no idea what we were going to face. Hovey is one of the best pitchers I've seen and I was hoping they wouldn't have any more like him," Baumann said.

Twin Falls pitcher Dave Kersen retired the first two batters and it wasn't until he walked Jeff Schow and Ken Parkin that Minico started his attack.

Gus Christjansen, who went three-for-six and knocked in two runs, singled to score Schow. Cliff Hanks sent two more across with another single to give Minico the lead for good

Charmed life at end for Celtics; Houston home for two games

HOUSTON (UPI)—The charmed life is over.

The Boston Celtics realize they must regain the form that saw them win 62 games during the regular season or they will be remembered as one of pro basketball's biggest flops.

The Celtics have played seven straight 90 games—but a combination of good fortune, helpful calls, timely rebounding and tenacious defense produced victories in four of them.

"But Boston's opportunistic string ran out Thursday when they lost to the underdog Houston Rockets 92-90, to even the best-of-seven NBA championship series at one game apiece. Games 3 and 4 will be played today and Sunday in the Summit.

"We got a slap in the face," said the Celtics' M.L. Carr. "And sometimes a slap in the face will wake you up. It better because we can't go on playing like this and expect to win."

Boston Coach Bill Fitch was distressed with his team's lack of fundamentals and guard Chuck Ford declared the team's shoddy care of the basketball, which produced 22 turnovers leading to 31 Houston points.

"We threw the ball away too many times and you just can't do that in a playoff game and expect to win," Ford said. "We had better wake up in a hurry. We're going to have to play our best in each game to beat them. If we don't, they are going to be the champions."

The Rockets, with their glacial style of play, forced the Celtics into a slow-paced game which is not what Boston wants. And they are winning an extensive following along the way—including a group of 11 Boston players, three coaches and assorted fans and junkies.

"I keep telling people that Houston is a good basketball team," Ford said. "The fans, the media, everyone look them for grants. And I think some of that feeling dribbled into our locker room. Maybe some of the guys got got a big head and thought they could through the motions. But you just can't go through the motions and be champions."

"The Celtics have had success in the Summit, having won 14 straight overall from Houston before Thursday night. But they are facing a tougher and more determined group of Rockets which makes the task that much more difficult.

"We're going to come out and play our best game," said Boston's Larry Bird. "We've got to make some adjustments. We've got to run and play harder. We can't make teams run with us. We can't let them set the tempo. We also need a strong game from Robert Parish (who fouled out Thursday) and played just 14 minutes). He's our key offensively and defensively late in the game."

And Cedric Maxwell predicted the Celtics would be hungry.

Dodgers' rookie Fernando Valenzuela fires against Mets

Valenzuela 'struggles' to 1-0 win over Mets; has 6 shutouts, 7 wins

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fernando Valenzuela stumped the New York Mets Friday night with a characteristic he hasn't had to display before.

On a night in which the 20-year-old rookie sensation was struggling with his No. 1 pitch—the screwball—he managed to get out of bases-loaded jams in the first two innings and settled down after that and hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 1-0 victory over the Mets.

It was the unbeaten Valenzuela's sixth complete game, fifth shutout and seventh straight victory this season.

"In the first three innings, I didn't have any control," Valenzuela said through an interpreter. "I was having problems with my screwball. Then I talked to my coach (pitching coach Ron Perranoski) after the third inning and he told me I wasn't following through on my screwball. I was mixing it up very well after the third inning."

Valenzuela stranded seven runners in the first three innings when he allowed four of his career-high five walks. In the first inning, he induced Dave Kingman to ground into a timing-ending double play and in the second, he fanned Bob Bailor to end the inning. The Mets put runners on first and second in the third but Valenzuela got Alex Trevino to ground out.

After the third he allowed just four more base runners while striking out seven and walking just one.

Lee Mazzilli, who slammed Valenzuela's second pitch into left field for a single in the first, said he wasn't overly impressed with the Dodgers' left hander.

"I think we anticipated too much," Mazzilli said. "I've faced a lot of pitchers with better stuff. I don't know if this was the best stuff he's had so far. But he's got a lot of poise. We had him in a couple of sticky situations and he got out."

"I'm impressed with him," said Mets Manager Joe Torre, "because of the way we got men on base and we had the man up that we wanted (Kingman), and it didn't work."

The outing lowered Valenzuela's league-leading ERA to 0.29 and his 11 strikeouts represented the fourth time this season he has fanned 10 or more. In a total of 80 2-3 innings going back to last September, Valenzuela's career ERA is 0.22, and his 15-3-3 innings going back to the end of his minor league career, the figure is 0.16. He has given up one run in his last 96 innings.

It was the seventh straight time Valenzuela has pitched nine full innings, the only time he failed to complete a game coming in a 10-inning Dodgers' victory over Montreal on May 3. The seven hits he allowed also tied the most he has given up in any one game.

Anchorman Steve Galley takes the handoff from teammate Mike Rice enroute to victory in the 880-yard relay.

Tom Seaver hit a two-run homer in support of his 54th career shutout Friday night, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

Seaver's homer, his first since June 1979, and the 12th of his major-league career, came off reliever Dave Smith with Ron Oester aboard in the seventh inning and cleared the left field wall.

The Reds broke a scoreless tie in the fourth when Dave Concepcion opened with a double and George Foster walked. They advanced on an infield out and scored on Ray Knight's single. Cesar Cedeno, who had been out of the lineup with an ankle injury, Fregosi nearly lost his job earlier in the day and was warned by the front office he could still lose it if the team fails to show improvement.

Right-handed Jack Harris, 3-3, scattered nine hits and received help from five double plays. He struck out four and walked three. Steve Renko, 1-2, took the loss.

California took a 1-0 lead in the first on Dan Ford's RBI single. Champ Summers tied it in the fourth with a solo homer. Kemp untied the score in the sixth by delivering his first home run of the season.

Brewers' Yount injures knee

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers, who have already lost Paul Molitor for eight weeks because of an ankle injury, are waiting to see how extensive an injury Milwaukee's Yount has sustained.

Yount injured his knee at Seattle Wednesday and missed Thursday's game with the Mariners. He flew back to Milwaukee Friday to be checked by team doctor Paul Jacobs.

Yount, who hit three home runs this week, will be examined Saturday at Mt. Sinai Hospital, where Molitor had knee surgery this week.

A team spokesman said the club does not know if there is any knee damage.

Tennis meet turns into marathon

BURLEY — After nearly 10 hours, the Fourth District tennis meet week's Class A state tennis tourney were determined Friday.

Burley gained three berths in the meet slated for Elkhorn while Twin Falls gained two spots.

Burley singles player Greg Boettcher went undefeated and defeated teammate Dave Christensen 6-3, 6-2 in the finals.

The highlight of the day was a battle between Bruin Teresa Hoag and Burley's Valencia Garcia. Hoag defeated Garcia 6-3, 6-4 in their first encounter but the two met in the finals and Garcia took a 6-1, 6-1 win.

"Both of them had injuries," Twin Falls Coach Clovis Johnson said. "Teresa had a twisted back she suffered before the meet and Valencia suffered a pulled calf muscle. She is a tough girl. After they met, the first time she could hardly walk off the court but she came back and won."

Twin Falls' Stan Knapp and Mike Bittner went undefeated to win the boys doubles crown while Mitch Green and Kandeo Crumbliss had three straight wins to take the mixed doubles title. Green and Crumbliss were just put together as a doubles team.

Suzanne Hansen and Kaylyn Petersen also went undefeated to win the girls doubles title for Burley. Because of the double elimination format, three of the final matches had teammates facing each other.

The meet started at 9:30 a.m. and concluded shortly after 7 p.m. It was plagued by high winds.

The final round results:

Boys Singles
Greg Boettcher (B) def. Dave Christensen (B), 6-3, 6-2.

Girls Singles
Valencia Garcia (B) def. Teresa Hoag (TF) 6-1, 6-1.

Boys Doubles
Stan Knapp and Mike Bittner (TF) def. Steve Beckula and David Peterson (TF), 6-3, 6-3.

Girls Doubles
Suzanne Hansen and Kaylyn Petersen (B) def. Kristy Harris and Shelli Schell (TF), 6-4, 6-4.

Mixed Doubles
Mitch Green and Kandeo Crumbliss (TF) def. Dick Seville and Jerr Adams (TF), 6-0, 6-2.

King, Jeager lose

TOKYO (UPI) — Billie Jean King, playing under pressure from her disclosure of a homosexual love affair, and Andrea Jeager lost to Anne Smith and Kathy Jordan 3-6, 7-6, 6-7 in the opening round of the $150,000 Bridgestone Women's Tennis tournament today.

It was King's first tournament since disclosing she had a love affair with her former secretary, Marilyn Barnett. King, the 37-year-old holder of 20 Wimbledon championships, said, "No, no," when asked if her play was affected by her off-court trouble.

She smilingly said, "I love to be on the court because I am free and no one bothers me."
"I haven't played for 34 years weeks, and my forehead return was not existent. We played together for the first time and we hesitated a lot." But Smith said, "She (King) wasn't good. Unfortunately, I think it (her trouble) has affected her play."

North Stars want to avoid Calgary trip

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota North Stars look to wrap up their Stanley Cup semifinals with Calgary tonight at home and avoid making a return trip to Canada for a seventh game.

For the Flames, behind three games to two, the main hope is to hit the North Stars hard as they did in whipping Minnesota in the small Stampede Corral at Calgary Thursday night 5-1.

Minnesota wing Kent-Erik Andersson said, "We were due for a bad game. We hadn't really had one in more than a month."

But the North Stars are counting upon the home ice advantage to make a difference from game five.

"It will be a much different game on home ice for us," said rookie center Neal Proten.

Compared to the smaller Corral, he said, the Met "is easy for us to play in. I know that from personal experience. The crowd gets me going — jacks me up. The series is now 3-2 and I expect Calgary to be flying again when we get home. But I think we should be able to handle them."

The Flames staved off elimination Thursday by reuniting the "Rat Poison" line of Jim Peplinski centering Willi Flett and Randy Holt. They earned the nickname in the quarterfinals against Philadelphia, when they harassed the Flyers' line of Ken "The Rat" Linseman and wings Brian Propp and Paul Holmgren.

Thursday, the "Rat Poison" line was assigned to neutralize Minnesota's highly potent unit of center Bobby Smith and wings Steve Payne and Al MacAdam and it worked.

"Bobby Smith is usually in on a couple of goals a night," said Calgary goaltender Pat Riggin, who rejected 23 of Minnesota's 34 shots. "When you can shut him down, you shut off a good part of their offense."

Peplinski and his teammates don't plan to change strategy in Minnesota Saturday.

PETE HALSMER
has first accident

Rookie hits wall at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The demon in control of crashes among racing cars finally caught up with Pete Halsmer, a rookie at the Indianapolis 500 who is trying to make the 33-car field for the May 24 event.

Halsmer was driving one of the cars that made it through the 1980 Phoenix championship race without a bump or bruise. He finished sixth after dodging Johnny Rutherford's spectacular flip, and also just avoided another big crash.

"I was right behind him (Rutherford) when he flipped and just barely got around him," Halsmer said. "And I was right next to Al Unser and Tom Bagley and those guys when they collided in turn one. Luckily I was able to get through that too. But I guess it finally caught up to me."

On Monday of the first week of practice at Indianapolis, Halsmer hit a wall after turning an unofficial lap at 182 mph. The front end and one side of the tub were damaged, and it was almost certain he would miss the first weekend of qualifying.

"It looks like we should get the car back sometime Friday evening or Saturday morning," Halsmer said Friday. "Unfortunately, there are some particular unique pieces needed that we have to rely on some outside help to get. The guys will get it back together as quickly as they possibly can, and I would guess it probably won't be running until Sunday."

The car is a Penske PC-7 owned by Bill Alsup, a 42-year-old rookie driving with the Penske Racing team. Alsup said he was pleased to have Halsmer in his car because Pete was more capable of determining what the car needs.

"That's an awful big compliment to come from someone like Alsup, who has proved he knows what's going on," said Halsmer, who is a Purdue graduate with a degree in industrial education and the technical editor of Racecar magazine. "I think I still have a lot to learn to be at the same level he's at. Luckily, I think I have had a lot of experience driving cars and maybe understand them technically better than other drivers do."

Unser, Mears lap Indy oval near 200 mph

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Penske teammates Bobby Unser and Rick Mears ran very close to the 200 mph mark Friday in still another day of record practice traffic at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Qualifying for the 63rd Indianapolis 500-mile race is scheduled to begin today at 9:00 a.m. MDT but the weather forecast calls for thunderstorms, especially in the afternoon.

Fifty-two cars made it out on the track Friday, setting still another record. Forty-nine cars were on the track Wednesday and that record was pushed up to 51 Thursday.

Unser, who had the week's fastest time of 197-plus from Monday's practice session, turned the 2 1/2 mile oval at a speed of 199.510 mph, putting himself in the favorite's spot for the pole position.

The two-time Indianapolis champion was secretive about his feelings concerning his chances for his second pole position.

"I'm not going to tell you what our car can do," Unser said. "I'm a testing driver. I'm just testing it, and today I tested it faster than before."

The only other time Unser took the first spot for race day was in 1972, and he ran only 31 laps before dropping out with mechanical problems.

All practice speeds are unofficially recorded by Speedway officials, but a newspaper writer and a member of the Penske crew timed Mears at 199.5, just a notch below Unser's speed.

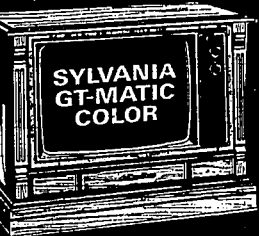

Joining those two at the top of the speed chart Friday were Mario Andretti (198.719), Gordon Johncock (197.585), Danny Ongais (197.109) and A. J. Foyt (196.463).

Other drivers hitting speeds over 190 mph were defending champion Johnny Rutherford, Mike Mosley, Josele Garza, and Gordon Smiley, who is teamed with Andretti and Johncock on the Patrick Racing Group.

Falling tree limb kills tourney fan

DALLAS (UPI) — A 30-foot tree limb broke loose from a giant oak with a thundering crack Friday, striking and killing a golf fan at the Byron Nelson Classic.

Three others were hospitalized and several more received scrapes and bruises from the huge limb, which dropped 40 feet with little warning on a small knot of spectators gathered next to the third green of the Preston Trail Golf Club course.

A gallery of about 20 people was standing under the tree watching the threesome of Gene Litter, Charles Coody and Pete Brown play the hole. If the limb had fallen five minutes later, it would almost surely have tumbled down on a much larger group since a threesome including popular golfer Lee Trevino was the next to play the third hole.

Spectator John Otis Clark, 45, of Grandview, Mo., who came to the tournament with his nephew and another friend, was dead on arrival at Presbyterian Hospital.

Mona Hunter, 49, of Northridge, Calif., was admitted to Presbyterian suffering multiple fractures, a hospital spokeswoman said. Ms. Hunter was in fair condition.

John J. Sesser, 49, of Marion, Kan., suffered rib injuries and was treated and released from Presbyterian. Robert Siles, 45, of Shawnee Mission, Kan., was also treated and released, the spokeswoman said.

Clark's nephew, George Dahm, 35, of Plano, Texas, was standing next to his uncle when the limb fell out of the 80-foot tree.

"Somehow I managed to jump into a sand trap and get out of it," said Dahm. "There was a large crack and everyone started scrambling. I started pulling limbs off him."

"I held his head and tried to stop the bleeding. Someone put a towel over his head and waited for the ambulances. This was the second time he had come to the tournament. It was a big thing for him."

Tournament officials were notified of the incident immediately through the communications system set up for the event and an ambulance, standing by near the clubhouse, was dispatched to the scene.

After Clark was placed in the ambulance, the vehicle became stuck in the mud and it took between 15 and 20 people to push it out of the muck.

It was the first fatal accident during a PGA tournament in almost 20 years. The last known fatality occurred in 1962 at the Grand Blanc Hills Country Club at Grand Blanc, Mich., when lightning struck a spectator.

"This is, of course, most regretful," said tournament vice chairman Jim Jordan. "I don't know what we could have done to overcome this tragedy."

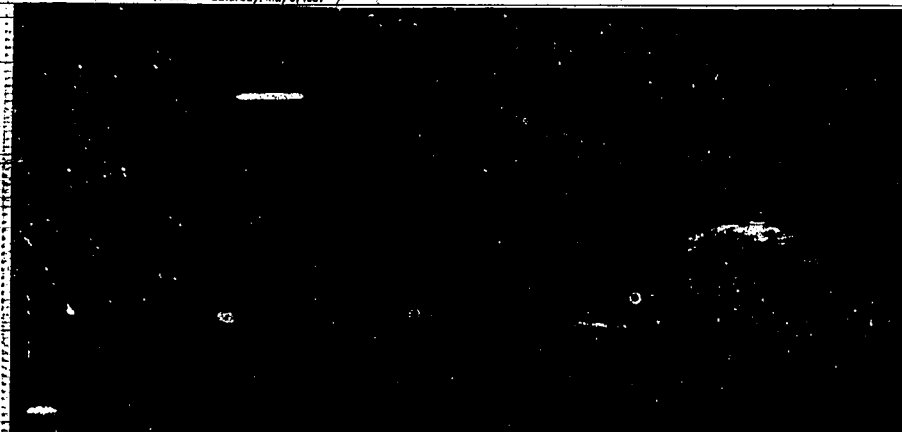

Jordan said it was standard procedure for crews to inspect the golf course before play begins each morning—but the inspection Friday did not give any indication that danger had been done to any of the trees on the heavily wooded acreage.

The site of the accident is at the farthest point from the clubhouse. The third green is tucked away in a valley surrounded by dozens of old oaks.

Litter, Coody and Brown, who had teed off at 8:40 a.m., were just approaching the green when the limb gave way.

"It sounded like thunder," said Shana Fox, 24, who caddied for Coody seven years ago and who was walking with the threesome. "There was just a small group of people, but when I started cracking everybody started yelling, 'look out, look out. You just couldn't believe it was happening. It was like something out of a movie.'"

The three golfers ran to the scene, as did six others who were playing just ahead—Don Halliderson, George Burns, Lon Hinkle, Brad Bryant, Dana Quilley and Buddy Gardner.

Tom Watson sends a shower of water into the air as he hits his second shot on the 11th hole Friday en route to a bogey

'Steady' Watson takes 1-shot margin

DALLAS (UPI) — Tom Watson shot a steady, even-par 70 Friday to take a one-stroke lead midway through the $300,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

The round was marred by the first accidental death during a PGA event in almost 20 years (see separate story).

"A 30-foot limb broke from an 80-foot oak and fell on a group of about 20 fans gathered next to the third green, killing John Otis Clark, 45, of Grandview, Mo. One other person was hospitalized and two were treated and released."

"The golf means nothing after that," said golfer Charles Coody, who witnessed the incident and ran to the scene. "Given the opportunity, all three of us would have walked to the clubhouse." Watson, looking for a tour record-equalling fourth straight victory in the Nelson, poked his 70 during the morning over a Preston Trail Golf Club course left soggy by heavy overnight rains.

"That gave him a 38-hole total of 4-under-136, which he did not expect to stand up during the long, windy afternoon."

"I imagine somebody else will come in and be leading," Watson said moments after he had finished his round. "The course is not playing easy, but if somebody gets hot they can put together a good round."

But no one could come closer than a stroke from Watson. The leading money winner, Ray Floyd, shot a 69 to stand at three-under-137 for two tours of the 6,993-yard course. Bud Allin was alone in third at 2-under-138, shooting a 69 Friday.

Another shot back was Jim Norris, who shared the first-round lead with Watson, but who bogeyed the last three holes Friday to shoot a 73 for a par.

There were only four golfers under par at the end of the day, which began in bright sunshine, turned overcast, became bright again and finally finished with a rain pelting down on the last players on the course. Watson put, together three birdies and three bogeys during a so-so round. His biggest sweat came when his ball rolled back into a pond in front of the green on the par-three 11th hole.

"With the ball half in and half out of the water, Watson exploded it out and managed to bogey the hole."

"The golf course was a little harder today than it was on Thursday," Watson said. "The winds made it tougher, but the rains made the greens a little easier to hold."

Watson expressed regret upon learning of the accident.

"I don't know about it until we got to the third hole," he said. "But that sort of thing knocks the guts out of you. I've seen it happen a couple of times before but nobody got hurt."

The strongest challenge in Watson during the afternoon came from Floyd. After shooting a 2-under-68 on Thursday, Floyd moved to six-under for the tournament through 10 holes Friday.

But he knocked his tee shot into the water at the 11th for a double bogey, and hit a wild tee shot on the par-4 16th that resulted in another double bogey.

He had to sink a 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole just to get within a stroke of the leader.

Putter gives Stacy two-shot lead

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hollis Stacy spurred by her gallery of fellow Georgians, battled high winds Friday to shoot a five-under-par 67 and take a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the Atlanta LPGA Tournament.

Stacy, who appeared to find her putting touch last week — when she made it to a playoff and ended up tied for 10th in the Women's International — had two 48-foot putts Friday en route to a six-birdie, one-bogey round that she said shows "my putting has really come back. I'm not frustrated by it now as I had been for nearly a year."

Stacy, who hasn't won a tournament since the 1980 Women's International, finished the day two strokes ahead of longtime foe, Amy Alcott, who won at Sarasota, Fla., in February and in Japan several weeks ago.

"Stacy and I go back a long way," said Alcott. "We sort of grew up in golf together."

Defending champion Pam Higgins was another stroke back, at 2-under-70 where she was tied for third with Friday playing partner Dot Germain.

There were five tied at 1-under-71, including Sally Little, who has won three tournaments this year, including last week's International.

That meant Stacy, who broke par over the Brookfield West course, one of the hilliest on the LPGA tour, but that was to be expected, considering the weather.

"I was freezing when I went out this morning," said Stacy. "It was a good thing that I went ahead and packed for Tokyo where I'm going next week. Imagine that, packing for Tokyo and needing to wear those clothes in Atlanta."

Stacy, a native of Savannah, Ga., said her putting had been "non-existent" earlier this year. "It got so I didn't care if I hit the ball into the tree if I could just make some putts. It felt wonderful out there today. I had fear in my knuckles for months about my putting."

Stacy said she went to instructor Joe Moss outside of Hilton Head, S.C., last week "and I found out that I had been lining up the wrong way. It seems to be coming back now."

Stacy had to beat Alcott in a playoff when she won her last tournament last year. "That's old hat for us," said Alcott. "Ten years ago we had to go into an extra hole before she beat me for the USGA junior girls championship across this state in Augusta."

Alcott was only one stroke off of Stacy's pace before going into the final hole Friday, where a bogey-5 dropped her two behind. "That was my only really bad hole of the day," said Alcott. "I played worse than that two holes earlier but managed to save a par. It just goes to show you, this game is not logical."

Bruins win district golf tournament

BURLEY — Burley's Dave Parker captured the medalist honors while Twin Falls won the team title in the Fourth District golf meet Friday afternoon.

Parker fired a one-over-par 72 over the Burley Municipal Golf Course for the low score.

Twin Falls had a 306 team score with Dave Rasmussen leading the way with a 75.

Burley netted a 318, and Minico was a distant third at 348. Darrell Tracy was low for the Spartans with an 81.

The Twin Falls and Burley teams now advance to the state golf meet slated for Warm Springs in Boise May 15-16. Twin Falls was third in the meet last year behind Boise and Borah.

Friday's results:
FOURTH DISTRICT
Twin Falls 306
Meyerhoeffer 74, J. Rasmussen 75, McMan 80.
Burley 318 — Parker 72, Wall 76, Simpson 83, Owens 87.
Minico 348 — Tracy 81, Seward 85, Williams 86, Ervin 87.

WS wins Big Sky golf title

HILL, AFB, Utah (UPI) — Weber State College golfers clinched their 10th consecutive Big Sky Conference championship Friday, finishing 64 strokes ahead of second place Nevada-Reno.

The Wildcats, who led the tournament after the first two rounds Thursday, completed the 54-hole championship 15 under par with a total of 1,055 strokes. Nevada-Reno golfers finished in 1,129 strokes.

The tournament was played on the 72-par Hill Air Force Base Golf Course.

Idaho finished third at 1,142 and Idaho State was close behind with 1,145. Boise State came in fifth with a total of 1,161 and Montana rounded out the field with a final team score of 1,175.

Weber State also placed six golfers in the top seven medalist positions. Wildcat sophomore, Greg Whisman finished first with one stroke off of a score of 209. Whisman was also one of the top golfers in the 1980 championships, finishing sixth.

Strom Gleim, a newcomer to the Wildcat squad placed second shooting a three under par total of 213. Tied for third were Weber's Mike Staton and Rob Despain at 215. Staton, who finished fifth last season, bettered his 1980 championship score by four.

The only medalist not from Weber was Idaho State's Joe Higham who ended the championship at three over par for a total of 219. Higham transferred to Idaho State after playing for Weber in 1979 where he finished eighth in the Big Sky tournament.

Stephenson: 'Sex goddess' image hurting golf game, helping career

ATLANTA (UPI) — Jan Stephenson says being the reigning "sex goddess" on the LPGA tour may have hurt her golf game, but it sure has helped her career.

"The attention I've been getting, especially since the furor over the picture of me in our tour magazine (reclining on a bed), has been a real boost," said the alluring Australian. "But, it does take up a lot of time.

"I'm getting a lot of requests to do commercials and some of the magazines have been after me. Playboy approached me several times, talking about a question and answer piece, but I'd have to write the copy before I'd agree to that one.

"I did do an interview for GQ. I haven't seen it yet and it has me a little worried. If it comes out bad, that's the end of it. After all, my golf comes first. It's the most important thing to me."

Until a couple of years ago, Stephenson refused to help advertise women's golf clothing "because they weren't very attractive. It's just been the last year or two that they've come out with the sort of clothing I've been willing to endorse."

Critics have long complained the LPGA tour lacked a drawing card that combined both good looks and good golf, so Stephenson, a 29-year-old blonde who now lives in Fort Worth, Texas, has been attracting attention ever since she joined the tour seven years ago with both.

"I've always been a bit surprised at the attitude of some of the other girls," said Stephenson. "They resent the idea of using sex appeal to sell our tour. There are those, however, who do like the idea. Both sides are very strong about it.

"It's sad that this is an issue at all," she said. "But we do need to promote ourselves. Whether some of the other women want to admit it or not, we're not as good golfers as our male counterparts. We're the best women golfers in the world and women is the key word there. Yes, it's definitely a sex issue."

"But I don't want anyone to misunderstand," said Stephenson. "I wouldn't do anything in bad taste. I feel like I'm a lady in every way. But I'm not ashamed of my body."

"It used to be when you were a woman athlete, you used to look like one," she said. "I used to feel that way. I don't anymore. Just because we're athletes doesn't mean we can't also be feminine."

That brought the conversation around to tennis star Billie Jean King and her widely publicized admission to having an affair with artemis companion.

"That shouldn't reflect on us (lady golfers) although I suppose there are those who go on the assumption that women athletes aren't as feminine as others," said Stephenson. "It's something that perhaps needs to be discussed more openly.

"It's hard to look as feminine as you would like while traveling on the tour," she said. "You can't take all the clothes you'd like. You don't have as much time to fix yourself-up as you'd like. But, believe me, I don't feel any less feminine because I also happen to play golf for a living."

Stephenson's star skyrocketed a couple of years ago when a national sports magazine used her for a bathing suit layout. That caused some murmurs in the LPGA ranks but nothing like the one in the tour magazine which shows a lot of Stephenson thigh.

"Some of the girls are taking that personal because they feel it was inappropriate in our tour magazine," said Stephenson. "Look, we have an agency whose job it is to promote the LPGA. If they think this is the way to go, it's okay with me. After all, they're the publicity specialists. Our job is to go out there and play golf."

Stephenson said her galleries "absolutely" became larger as soon as the picture started appearing in various tournament programs.

"People started bringing the picture up to me to be autographed. It gave me a form of instant recognition. One of the things that has always bothered me is that so few of our girls have the type of recognition the men (golfers) get.

"There have been a few people who really took offense to the picture," said Stephenson. "I had a phone call in the middle of the night from one who accused me of being a 'bad girl' for 'showing my body' and a man came up to me in the middle of a tournament to complain.

"But I can't worry about them," said Stephenson. "I didn't do anything wrong. That picture was not in bad taste. I have nothing to apologize for."

Buhl's Francis loses to Jackson in sudden death

JEROME — Andrea Jackson of Boise defeated Buhl's Sherry Francis on the second hole of sudden death to win the unofficial Idaho girls high school golf title Friday afternoon.

Each girl shot 88 over the Jerome Country Club course in the regulation 18 holes.

In best ball play, Francis and Buhl teammate Mickey Parratt were tied at 82. Bure's Shawn and Tani Newcomb were second at 85. Boise's Jackson and Nancy Olson were third at 87 and Boise's Lori Lyke teamed with Twin Falls' Julie Hamblin for fourth at 88.

The meet is held at the Jerome Country Club each year and is recognized as the girls state meet although it is not sponsored by the Idaho High School Activities Association.

Metcalf signs with Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Running back Harry Metcalf signed with the Washington Redskins Friday and it was difficult to tell who was happier — Metcalf or Coach Joe Gibbs.

Metcalf, 29, spent the last three seasons with the Toronto Argonauts after five NFL seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals. The 5-foot-10, 185-pound back, who lives in the Virginia suburbs, hadn't thought of playing elsewhere if things didn't work out with the Redskins.

"I wanted to play against St. Louis and they're in the Redskins' division," he said. "Getting to play for the Redskins was my goal. I've gotten to know (wide receiver) Art Monk and I've worked out here at Redskin Park and met a lot of nice guys."

"I hadn't even bothered to think about another club. I put all my efforts into making it here. I didn't want to worry about anything else."

Terms of Metcalf's contract were not announced, but Gibbs repeatedly talked of giving him a chance to compete. Gibbs coached Metcalf as a rookie when both were with the Cardinals.

"The things I remember about Harry are his attitude toward working hard and his heart," said Gibbs. "I remember his first game as a rookie. It was a hot day and we played on artificial turf. At halftime, he had soaked through every stitch of his uniform."

"Harry would often play so hard he would cramp up. He's a leader by example. You can't have too many guys like him on your ball club."

Three times Metcalf combined his running and receiving to gain more than 2,000 yards, including an NFL record 2,462 in 1975 when he earned All-Pro honors for the second consecutive year.

Gibbs said Metcalf could be used alongside Joe Washington, obtained last week from the Baltimore Colts, in the same backfield, despite both men's lack of size.

"I have no qualms about using two halfbacks together," said Gibbs. "These two guys are complete football players. They can give us a lot of versatility."

Gibbs has scheduled one workout today, the final day of a three-day mini-camp. All the Redskins' veterans, rookies and free agents were present Friday.

Defensive end Coy Bacon arrived after missing Thursday's two practices, but did not work out because he has not signed for the coming season.

Guard Fred Dean (sprained neck) and left tackle (twisted ankle) were injured Thursday and did not work out Friday.

A nuts and bolts approach to coping with inflation!

The average family is hard-pressed to make ends meet in these days of galloping inflation. The things people need or want to buy seem to carry a higher price tag with each passing day. Is there any solution?

We do not profess to having the solution to Inflation . . . but we do have a nuts and bolts approach to coping with it. And that approach is to use classified ads in both buying and selling situations.

Gather together the things in your household which you no longer need or use but which still have usefulness for some other family. Then advertise them for sale with a classified ad. You'll be pleased at how quickly these items can be exchanged for cash.

And shop the classified ads for good buys on the items you need in your home.

The classified ads are a real friend of the family seeking a nuts and bolts approach for coping with today's inflation.

Watkins Glen official hopeful race will be held

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI) — The president of the Watkins Glen Chamber of Commerce Friday said he was optimistic the Schenectady County community will host the U.S. East Grand Prix in October.

"I'm still optimistic we're going to have a full racing season," John Johnson said in reaction to a decision by the International Auto Sport Federation to cancel the Formula One race.

Paris-based FISA Thursday canceled the race because of Watkins Glen's failure to pay about $300,000 owed to drivers and race crews from last year's race by a May 1 deadline. Glen officials unsuccessfully sought an extension of the deadline.

Johnson, who sits on the race track's board of directors, said he hoped "public and private" funding would materialize to save the race held annually since 1961.

Malcolm Currie, executive director of Watkins Glen, echoed Johnson's hopes.

"At the present time we are attempting to raise sufficient money in hopes of resurrecting the race for 1981," said Currie, who added that the board has "no assurance" that the decision would be reversed even if the track can raise the money.

"We are attempting to raise the money and we have a good opportunity to raise the money," he said.

Johnson said, in addition to the U.S. East Grand Prix, Watkins Glen hosts two other public races each year. He said spectators, clubs and the auto industry also make use of the facility.

Johnson said he could not estimate the effect of the loss of the Grand Prix on the local economy, saying only it would be a "blow."

English will coach Rhode Island cagers

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (UPI) — Claude English, a seven-year protégé of Jack Kraft, was named Friday to succeed his former boss as the University of Rhode Island's head basketball coach.

He was named acting coach April 6 when Kraft stepped down for health reasons.

"Succeeding a man like Jack Kraft is a challenge," English said. "He's been like a father to me. There are very few persons in the game who possess his coaching skills."

HOW TO HAVE MONEY IN THE BANK AND A NEW CAR IN THE GARAGE.

If you're planning to buy a moderately priced new car, your initial expenditure is likely to be sizable. So, why tie up your money? Keep the biggest part of your savings in the bank and let First Lease put a beautiful new car in your garage.

PICK-A-CAR-FIRSTLEASE-IT. Just about any make or model car is available through First Lease. Leases are offered for periods of 24, 30, 36 and in some cases 42 or 48 months. And when your lease is up, you'll even have the option of buying the car!

GET THE FACTS FROM YOUR FIRSTLEASE DEALER. Most new car dealers are also First Lease dealers. Just stop by any showroom displaying the First Lease emblem. The dealer can show you how to keep your money in the bank and put a new car in your garage!

For something new in banking, look for it first at Seattle First.
