Kidnappers of Evans' son foiled

Police capture abductors

By LINDA GATES
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — Three Burley men have been arraigned on charges of first-degree kidnapping in an attempt to abduct the son of Idaho Gov. John Evans.

Suspected of kidnapping John Evans Jr., 39, a Burley banker, are Russell M. Piper, 19; Charles T. Lopez, 21; and Bryan Spurgeon, 22.

No one was injured in the incident. The trio also face charges of first-degree burglary, aggravated assault and using a firearm in the commission of a felony. The three suspects are being held in Cassia County Jail on $100,000 bond each.

Court records list the motive of the kidnappers as "extorting money and weaponry for the return of the victim."

Cassia County Prosecutor Al Burrus reported Evans was awakened at his home some 4 1/2 miles east of Burley at 5:55 a.m. Friday by some knocking on his front door.

Burrus, in a Friday afternoon press conference, said when Evans opened the door he was accosted by a gunman wearing a stocking cap. The gunman was aided by two other men, one of whom was waiting in a getaway car in front of the house. The other man replaced the first gunman shortly after the forced entry.

Next-door neighbor Terry Hales, also a Burley banker, reported that Evans' wife escaped from her house through a back window and came to his home for help after she found the telephone wires leading to the Evans home had been cut.

Hales said his wife answered the door, and he remembered thinking, "It's bad dream. It doesn't seem real."

"Then reality starts setting in," said Hales, who called local police who in turn notified Cassia County Sheriff's deputies.

Hales said Karen Evans, who is 6 months pregnant, was frantic. She had left their two sleeping children — John Evans III, 7, and Jim, 4 — in the home with the gunman and her husband.

Evans, who was not taken from the home by his assailants, said the children did not awaken during the 25-minute ordeal. Evans declined to comment further on what happened in the house.

Bill Crystal, Cassia County Undersheriff, said he and deputies Don Taylor and Tim Little arrested the lone gunman without resistance at the Evans home at 8:20 a.m., 15 minutes after the phone call was made to summon help.

During that quarter-hour, Hales reported they watched for law officers and he armed himself, but they did not leave his home.

"A grateful Evans said he'll give help," "I am glad for good neighbors."

John Evans Jr. stands lost in thought as news media interview his neighbor, Terry Hales, Friday in front of the Hales home.

No troopers for kids Evans' security light

BOISE — Gov. John Evans' children do not have state-assigned security officers to protect them, according to a spokesman for Evans.

Security efforts for the governor's family principally consist of frequent police patrols near the Evans' official residence, said Press Secretary Don Watkins.

Only two of Evans' five children live at the governor's residence, which is equipped with a modern security system. John Jr., the victim of the attempted kidnapping, manages D.L. Evans and Co. Bankers in Burley.

The youngest children of Evans and his wife Lois, are Susan, 18, who will graduate from high school this spring, and Tom, 14. The governor also is the father of David Evans, an attorney in Malad, and Martha Evans, a University of Idaho law student.

Friday's alleged incident was the first known attempt to kidnap or harm the governor or his family, Watkins said. The press secretary told United Press International that the governor does "not feel that this incident had any political significance or anything to do with the governor's office."

As a parent, Watkins said Evans was naturally concerned and disturbed by the attempted abduction.

Watkins said Lola Evans plans to arrive in Burley today to stay with her daughter-in-law Karen, who is six months pregnant with her third child.

Watkins said the governor, who is accompanied by a bodyguard during official business and travel, is not expected to join his wife for the Cassia County visit.

Police say Agca was hired assassin backed by terrorists

ROME (UPI) — The Turk accused of shooting Pope John Paul II was almost certainly a hired killer, Italian officials said Friday.

Mehmet Ali Agca, 23, had traveling money, forged passports, a gun and was acting on behalf of an unidentified international terrorist organization, investigators said.

He was reportedly carrying a handwritten note with instructions on how to escape capture.

"We think it can be documentedly proved that Mehmet Ali Agca did not act alone," said deputy state prosecutor Luciano Infelisi, one of Italy's most noted anti-terrorist detectives.

"He is a killer who was engaged by an international group for subversive purposes."

Alfredo Lazzarini, chief of the Rome anti-terrorism squad, described Agca as "a trained and ruthless terrorist with a capital 'T'."

Italian officials refused to give further details but the Turkish government said "dark forces" of ultra-right extremism were behind Agca. They sent two Turkish police agents to Rome to help in the investigation.

Agca reportedly told police he acted alone but that he was a supporter of ports using the aliases of Farouk Osgun, Ali Hussein and Ali Mussein, they said.

Turkish police Friday detained a former city police chief and two others in connection with a forged passport that Agca allegedly received on August 11, 1980.

The police chief was detained with the real Faruk Osgun — the name on the passport Agca was carrying when he was arrested in Rome. Also arrested was the former local chief for the ultra-rightist Ulkuculer group, to which Agca belonged.

Agca had been on an Interpol wanted list for six months. A search-and-arrest bulletin had been posted at all frontier points.

Officials said Agca was in Rome in January. In April he was in Ferrara, where he registered at the university as a language student.

In mid-April, Agca spent two weeks on the Spanish island of Majorca. He returned to Milan May 9 and then went by train to Rome for his attempt four days later to kill the Pope.

Will wait for better figures Examiners postpone decision on tax surplus

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Examiners postponed consideration Friday of requests to release a 3.85 percent holdback of funding from fiscal year 1981.

Gov. John Evans asked the board to postpone a decision on the requests by the Idaho Board of Corrections and Department of Education until the board had time to collect accurate data on the amount of an expected surplus in state revenues for 1981.

State fiscal officers had estimated the surplus will hit at least $10 million.

The Board of Corrections requested the release of the additional money to replace two damaged boilers. The Department of Education's request was more general, asking for the release of any surplus fiscal year 1981 funds to replace the money left to the department because of the 3.85 percent holdback Evans ordered last year.

After their action, the board referred to its subcommittee seven requests from state agencies for the replacement of "petty cash" losses.

Attorney General David Leroy said the frequency of that type of request had been increasing in the past few years. He said the board should review its policy on replacing such losses.

Leroy moved that the subcommittee review the seven requests to School bus runs over youths

WESTLAKE, Ohio (UPI) — White students watched in horror from a classroom as a bus stopped a curb and plowed into a group of elementary school students who had just stepped off another bus.

Nine youngsters were injured, authorities said.

Four of the nine, fifth and sixth graders were in fair condition at St. John's West Shore Hospital, with fractures of the legs, pelvic area and ribs.

The other five youngsters were treated for minor injuries.

Police, meanwhile, were interviewing students and other witnesses in an attempt to determine what caused the accident. The bus also was being examined.

Today honors U.S. soldiers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan Friday offered his thanks to America's military men and women in honor of Armed Forces Day Sunday.

Today is Armed Forces Day and, on behalf of millions of Americans, I want to send to our men and women in uniform a personal message of thanks and gratitude.

Today their job is vitally important — their office and patriotism makes it possible for those of us who are civilians to go about our everyday lives," Reagan said in a statement.

"Their commitment keeps our nation strong and our future free."

Reagan said he wants "all those wearing American uniforms around the globe to know: America is grateful to you — and proud of you, too."

Entire population of island feared dead in volcano blast

SAIPAN, Northern Marianas (UPI) — A long dormant volcano erupted on the tiny Pacific island of Pagan Friday and the entire population of 54 persons vanished as hot molten lava, volcanic dust and poisonous gases engulfed the area.

The U.S. Coast Guard quickly launched rescue operations, but two planes circling off the coast of the tiny Mariana Island, 450 miles north of Guam, reported no signs of life could be seen through choking clouds of dust.

Mariana Island officials said they hoped the villagers had survived the eruption by taking shelter in caves at the southern tip of the island. But one journalist familiar with the island said, "If there are any survivors, I'm afraid there won't be very many."

"The whole island is shaking," said the island's radio operator, Pedro

Castro early Friday, according to Herman Guerrero, an official of the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas, a U.S. Pacific Trust territory.

Castro said the volcano is erupting and that was the last contact he had with the island. He told me that the whole island was shaking."

The erupting volcano was one of three volcanic mountains on Pagan, 3.5 miles long by 8.5 miles wide.

Two planes circling over the island have seen no sign of Pagan's inhabitants but saw lava flows approaching the island airstrip. The planes could not land because of the ash.

The U.S. Coast Guard Center in Guam dispatched two vessels carrying medical and rescue teams from Saipan to Pagan 215 miles to the north.

In Tokyo, the Maritime Safety Agency said a Japanese freighter passing about 37 miles northwest of Pagan en route to Australia was ordered to the island on the request of the Coast Guard.

The pilot of a U.S. Air Force B-52 bomber flying in the area reported a cloud of volcanic ash rising some 35,000 feet in the air over the island seven minutes after the eruption was reported.

A commercial pilot flying near the island later reported the ash cloud 7,000 feet high, and residents on Agrihan Island 65 miles away said ash was raining down on them.

The Pagan Island volcano has been inactive for as long as the local residents remember, Guerrero said. Rumbblings 15 years ago gave rise to predictions that it would erupt at any time, but "there has been nothing recently... absolutely no indication that anything was about to happen," Guerrero said.

Handicapped man plans assault on peak

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — A handicapped British mountain climber, who says he cannot get frostbitten feet because he walks on steel legs, geared up Friday to climb towering Mount Nun in Kashmir.

Croucher lost the lower part of both legs in a train accident 22 years ago.

"I never have the fear of frostbite, and, having a shortened blood circuit, means that I get oxygen a bit faster," he said.

Croucher traveled from New Delhi to India's northwest state of Kashmir as part of a seven-man British team led by Stephen Berry. They will attempt to scale the 23,410-foot Mount Nun in Kashmir's Ladakh province and, if successful, tackle another peak in the same region — 21,500-foot Zaskar I.

Croucher, 44, is a well-known figure in Britain, having won the 1979 International award for valor in sport. "Bring handicapped, it was easier for me to win," he said.

After losing both legs, he trained himself to climb despite the initial pain, Croucher said.

He said he climbed scores of peaks in the Alps, including Switzerland's 14,692-foot Matterhorn.

Kidnap

Evans expressed surprise that such an incident could happen in Burley, Idaho, and he blamed it on what he termed the insanity in the world.

Specialist called a deputy in the Burley area had seen a "suspicious" pickup truck driving at high speeds in the neighborhood and had stopped the driver for questioning. When the driver gave a reasonable reason for driving through the area, the deputy allowed the truck to proceed, he said.

After receiving the call from Mrs. Evans, however, Mitchell said deputies were dispatched to apprehend the two men in the truck.

When the two were arrested by Cassia County Sheriff's deputies, Lopez at about 10:30 a.m. in Burley and Spurgeon at about 11 a.m. at his job at a seed company in Paul.

The suspects, handcuffed and in chains, were arraigned Friday about 5 p.m. under the direction of 5th District Magistrate Court Judge Nathan Higley before an overflow court that also included their families.

Lopez testified he was unemployed, and Burley police said he is a reserve Burley Police officer.

Piper, an auto mechanic whose mother sat directly behind him, chewed gum nonchalantly and smiled at his girlfriend once while waiting for proceedings to begin.

"He's always been a good boy," said Elaine Piper, wife of her son in an earlier interview. "We've never had any trouble with him. He's been in Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts."

She learned of her son's arrest when a reporter called her at home.

"Someone in the family should have been informed," said Piper's mother. State and federal investigators were in Burley to learn details of the incident.

Taken as evidence were a .38 automatic special pistol and a .357 magnum revolver.

Barrus said he did not think the three had prior police records.

A preliminary hearing has not been appointed, but additional counsel may be requested, said Deputy Prosecutor Steve Bywater, if there is a conflict of testimony between the three suspects.

Rescue workers seek survivors in twisted metal rubble caused by collapse of crane

Crane collapses, 2 killed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A huge crane toppled over at a downtown construction project Friday, dragging a trailer into a 100-foot pit and crushing to death a man and woman who were inside.

Five other people were injured. Fears that more workers were trapped in the debris proved unfounded.

"There was nothing left of the trailer. It was smashed to bits," one witness said. "It was remarkable that anyone remained alive."

The mid-morning accident occurred at the site of a 30-story building under construction atop Bunker Hill in the city's central business district.

The huge crane, sitting at the bottom of the block-square pit, fell over without warning. As it tipped, the 250-foot boom slammed against wood and aluminum construction trapper at the street level, knocking the trailer and a wooden platform into the pit and crushing those inside.

The crane was lifting a heavy steel column in the excavation pit for an office building, and somehow it got out of the crane's control and collapsed," a fire spokesman said.

"It came loose and shoved the trailer right off the edge of the precipice into the pit."

The cause of the accident was not immediately known.

"Something happened in the cab of the crane," fire Inspector Edward Reed said. "We don't know what it was yet."

Names of the dead were not released pending notification of their families.

Fernando Guillermo, 30, of Los Angeles, and Kenneth Boehling, 37, of Monterey Park, were both listed in serious condition at White Memorial Medical Center.

Greg Boey, 22, was admitted at County-USC Medical Center for treatment of head injuries and possible rib and arm fractures.

Roberto Hernandez, 50, of La Puente, was treated at the same hospital for a bruised leg and released.

A third worker was treated at the site and refused to go to hospital.

Firemen carry away body of crane-collapse victim.

1,000 flee Tippecanoe flooding

By United Press International

The rampaging Tippecanoe River, heading toward a record crest, inundated 400 northwest Indiana homes Friday, forcing 1,000 persons to flee the river's surging waters.

Meanwhile, drought in south Florida, which has produced grass fires over thousands of acres, forced officials to impose tough new water restrictions.

About 1,000 persons living along a six-mile stretch of the Tippecanoe near Monticello, Ind., were forced from their homes.

The National Weather Service issued a flood warning for the Tippecanoe and Kankakee rivers. Lowland flooding also was reported along such rivers as the Wabash, St. Marys, Maumee and Salamonie in northern Indiana.

Authorities in both Carroll and White counties, Ind., alerted residents to the danger as the flood waters climbed during the night.

"We're pretty tired right now, White County Civil Defense Director Jim Dunham said. "We told everyone it was coming and warned them to save as much of their possessions as possible and get out of there."

"I've been around here since 1932 and have never seen the water this high before," Dunham said.

In Florida, a 25 per cent cutback in water use was imposed for the 4.5 million residents of eight south Florida counties.

A spokeswoman for the National Park Service estimated Everglades fires have consumed 40,000 acres in the Big Cypress National Preserve.

Three separate fires were burning in the Big Cypress. There had been four but two of them joined into one. One of the fires carved a charged, 20-mile path from the Tamiami Trail (U.S. 41) to Alligator Alley.

Teamsters board appoints Williams as new union boss

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Roy L. Williams, the powerful Midwestern Teamsters leader who faces possible federal prosecution, was named president of the union's largest union Friday in a brief closed-door meeting.

Williams, who was one of 16 union-vice presidents, avoided reporters both before and after the session at the Jockey Club hotel on the gambling resort's famed "Strip."

"Technically he was elected by the union's General Executive Board for an interim term until the union's convention, which opens June 1 here, but Williams is virtually assured of election to a full five-year term as head of the 2-million-member union. The post pays $156,000 a year."

He succeeds Frank Fitzsimmons, who died May 6 after 14 years as head of the union. Fitzsimmons had been hand-picked by James Hoffa when the latter was jailed in the 1960s for jury tampering.

In a brief statement issued by the union, Williams promised to devote his time and energies "to assuring the convention will be open and fair and that the delegates will be free to vote the preference of the Teamsters they represent."

"Accordingly, as an individual, I will have no further comment to the media until our convention is completed," Williams said.

Few details of the session, protected by private armed guards, were available, but union Vice-president Salvatore "Sam" Provenzano, a New Jersey Teamsters leader, said he made the motion to elect Williams, and said it was seconded by Vice-president Jackie Presser of Cleveland.

"There was no opposition," Provenzano said. "He was the only candidate."

He won what the union said was a unanimous vote of the board despite the fact that the Justice Department is considering seeking an indictment against him for alleged participation in a Congressional influence scheme in volving trucking deregulation legislation.

Provenzano told reporters just before the session that he was not concerned about Williams' troubles with the law.

"A fighter... (is) what we need in the union right now."

Although Williams has a reputation within the union as a tough negotiator who led the union to a massive agreement with the trucking industry two years ago (that forced the Carter administration into major concessions on voluntary wage-price guidelines), he is better known nationwide for his brushes with the law.

He has been indicted three times on union-related charges involving alleged embezzlement and falsifying of records but was never convicted.

Earlier this week Williams acknowledged that he had known for 30 years Nicholas Civella, the reputed head of the Kansas City underworld.

Congressional testimony in the past has indicated a strong connection between Civella and Williams, and Williams denied this week having any such connection. Civella on an unrelated conviction said the FBI used evidence from wire taps of Williams' home and office in opposing the appeal.

Williams' ties with Civella were part of the questioning last August when Williams took the Fifth Amendment 23 times before a Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee in Washington, refusing to answer questions dealing with alleged crime or his duties as a trustee for 22 years of the scandal-ridden Teamsters Central States Pension Fund.

Williams is also being sued by the Labor Department for reimbursement of millions of dollars allegedly squandered by mismanagement of pension fund assets, including huge unsecured loans to several Las Vegas casinos.

In addition, Williams' name has been mentioned in connection with an alleged mob operation to skim profits from Las Vegas casinos to underworld figures.

Migrants may carry it north

National measles epidemic feared

ATLANTA (UPI) — A measles epidemic among migrant workers in Texas may spread to other areas currently free of the disease as the migrants begin to move northward, federal health officials said Friday.

The national Centers for Disease Control said Texas health authorities were vaccinating infants in counties bordering Mexico and other counties experiencing measles cases in an effort to halt the outbreak.

Officials were recommending that all migrant dependents born since 1957, regardless of where they are now residing, should have documentation of immunity to measles. It urged vaccination of infants.

"The migrant worker population is highly mobile," the CDC noted while urging local health departments to quickly check migrant workers in their areas for measles and institute control measures.

The CDC said that during the first 17 weeks of 1981, 94 cases of measles were reported from Hidalgo and Cameron counties in south Texas, more than 80 times the rate for the entire country. Measles transmission was widespread throughout the two counties, the agency said.

Hail severely injures youth

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — Doctors Friday tried to determine if he had suffered brain damage from hail that pelted him during a storm last week.

A hospital spokesman said Miguel Vega II was in unstable condition. The boy's father, Miguel Vega I, said doctors were conducting a brain scan to test his son's brain activity.

Vega was driving home last Friday with his son and wife when the storm swept across North Texas, pushing strong winds, rain, lightning and large hailstones. The storm broke out the windshield of Vega's car, forcing them to seek shelter. The child's head was struck by a hailstone and a blood vessel burst, causing a blood clot and forcing emergency surgery.

Hinckley tape reveals confused mind

NEW YORK (UPI) — The young man accused of shooting President Reagan was obsessed with the death of John Lennon and in his mind "blinded together" the slain Beatles star and actress Jodie Foster, federal law enforcement officials say.

John Hinckley Jr., 25, talked about Lennon and Miss Foster, the officials said, in a bizarre monologue he recorded New Year's Eve. Two tapes were found in Hinckley's Washington hotel room by federal agents after Reagan and three others were wounded March 30 in Washington.

"I just want to say goodbye to the old year, which was nothing, total misery, total death, John Lennon is dead, the world is over, forget it," the officials quoted Hinckley as saying.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said Hinckley made no reference in the tapes to President Reagan but pledged to make "some kind of statement or something" in 1981 on behalf of the young actress. "Anything that I might do in 1981 would be solely for Jodie Foster's sake," he said. "Just tell the world in some way that I worship and idolize her. One of my idols was murdered and now Jodie's the only one left."

Hinckley, son of a wealthy Denver area couple, said he was drinking peach brandy alone in a room talking into a tape recorder as the clock approached midnight on New Year's Eve. He said Lennon and Miss Foster were "blinded together" before the Beatles was shot to death in New York City Dec. 8.

Hinckley, now undergoing psychiatric evaluation in a federal correctional institution in Butner, N.C., also recorded his general feelings about the state of his life, the federal officials said.

"My life is screwed up," Hinckley said. "The world is even more screwed up. I don't know why people want to live. John Lennon is dead. I still think about Jodie all the time. That's all I think about really, that and John Lennon's death. They were sort of blinded together before Dec. 8, they (have) been blinded together since last summer, really. John and Jodie and now one of 'em's dead."

In another recording, the officials said Hinckley strummed on a guitar the tune, "Oh Yoko," Lennon's love song for his wife, but substituted the name "Jodie" for "Yoko," while singing the song aloud.

They said Hinckley's monologue was alternately bitter and despondent. He despaired of psychiatric treatment he was undergoing.

"I don't know how much good it's doing. It's just talk, talk, talk," he said.

Hinckley also was pessimistic of the future. "I can't go the whole year 1981. I hate it. I don't care anything about the decade—the 80s—or the future of anything because the dream is over as Lennon said 10 years ago, but it's really over now."

Hinckley, who declared he loved Miss Foster "10 million times," ended the monologue with a chilling statement about a death pact with the 18-year-old Yale University freshman.

After describing how much he hated the thought of Miss Foster seeing other men, ("It just kills me"), Hinckley said:

"Sometimes I think I'd rather just see her not, not on earth than with being with other guys. But I have to go with her. I wouldn't wanna stay here on earth without her on earth."

"I'd have to be some kinda final pact between Jodie and me. I think about that a lot. It's time for me to go to bed. It's after midnight. It's the New Year 1981, bye. Hallelujah!"

Boyce sold U.S. secrets after escape

SAN ANGELES (UPI) — An ex-convict said he met with escaped spy Christopher Boyce several times and delivered a mysterious package for him to a "man" with a "Russian-sounding voice."

The delivery was made last year in Lima, Peru, The New York Times reported Friday.

The Times said the package apparently contained top secret U.S. satellite information. The report was the first indication Boyce had continued to sell intelligence to the Soviets since escaping from prison.

The former convict, Douglas Wargo, also told the Times that federal agents missed Boyce by only nine hours last year when they raided Wargo's San Diego home.

The U.S. Marshals Service, in charge of the Boyce investigation, refused to comment on the Times report.

Boyce, who was convicted in 1977 and sentenced to 40 years for selling top secret U.S. intelligence information to the Soviet Union, escaped from the Federal prison at Lompoc, Calif., on Jan. 21, 1980.

Boyce and Wargo served time at Lompoc, but Wargo, who was known as a "jailhouse lawyer" while serving time for a mail fraud conviction, told the Times he had not known Boyce there. He said he met Boyce through another former inmate in San Diego in March 1980 to discuss some legal matters.

At a second meeting the next day in Tijuana, Mexico, Wargo said, "He (Boyce) told me that for him to do anything, to have an investigation for an appeal, he'd have to have some money, and he said he had a means to get it, but it required a trip to Peru."

He said that he couldn't go himself and he couldn't use the mails because there was a mail strike in Peru. He asked me if I would go and I said I would."

Wargo said he did not know what was in the package, for which Boyce was given $3,500 in Lima, but Boyce had referred to it as the "KH-11 manuscript." The Times reported KH-11 is a CIA designation for the "Keyhole" satellite, regarded by many experts as "the nation's most important photo-reconnaissance system."

Wargo checked in at the Sheraton Hotel in Lima and called the number Chris gave me," Wargo said. "A man answered, he had a heavy accent, it could have been Yugoslavian, or a Russian-sounding voice. He said, 'Hello, and I said, 'I have the KH-11 manuscript.'"

Wargo said the man came to his hotel room and, while saying no more than a dozen words, opened the package and inspected its contents.

"He looked through it for about 45 minutes and looked at every page. It looked like there were a lot of tables and specifications and some photographs on the paper. I said, 'Is that what you wanted?' but he didn't say anything."

"He seemed pleased with what he had, and he gave me $3,500 in 100-bill currency."

Wargo said he gave the money to Boyce two days later in Tijuana, and Boyce gave him "the rest of my expenses, plus an additional couple of hundred."

Wargo said Boyce called again last October and asked for a small loan. Wargo said he agreed and invited Boyce to spend the night at his home.

It was after Boyce left San Diego the next day—Oct. 25—that federal agents raided Wargo's home.

Wargo told the Times that he decided to go public with the information about Boyce because he believes he did nothing illegal.

Expert predicts record high interest rates

NEW YORK (UPI) — Henry Kaufman, the influential Wall Street economist, Friday predicted interest rates would climb to new record levels — "sometimes in the next 12 months."

Reassessing his bearish sentiment of the past several months, Kaufman, chief economist for the Wall Street investment-banking firm of Salomon Brothers, said the prime rate, currently at 19 1/2 percent, would exceed last December's record of 21 1/2 percent within a year's time.

"How high, is very difficult to say," Kaufman told a luncheon meeting of the New York University Finance Club, a group of university alumni.

In the interim, he said, "interest rates would be in a 'volatile period' of ups and downs. But the trend, he asserted, will be upward to higher levels than we have seen in the past."

In explaining his pessimistic forecast, Kaufman said the economy would face "significant fiscal stimulation" from President Reagan's proposed tax cuts as well as the huge defense buildup proposed over the next six years.

"Therefore, if you take that together, it places an enormous burden on the central bank to maintain stability," he said.

In response to a question about a suitable investment to ensure funds for a child's education, Kaufman advised that he was not a private investment counselor, but added that there was "no one golden investment" to adequately ensure protection against inflation.

"No where is it written in the books of economics that any of us should be protected from the ravages of inflation." In the end, he said, "we perform as well as our society performs."

In another speech Thursday night to a Wall Street group, Kaufman criticized the "mechanical monetarism" that is being espoused by some members of the Reagan administration because it does not impose sufficient discipline on the credit system. Businesses, he said, are unwilling to postpone borrowing and spending when they view rate increases as only temporary.

Also, he said, "there is the danger (with this monetarism) that once money growth comes down, interest rates will be allowed to fall quickly, before inflation is brought under control."

Asked about the prospects for a bond market rally, Kaufman said there will be a rally each time interest rates drop in their irregular path upward, "but it will be a rally in a bear market."

He also said it will be difficult to achieve a reduced budget with uncertainties over energy and an "increased military outlay — which I don't entirely oppose," but which will have to be overcome before we can achieve stability in the financial markets.

"The entire burden" of fighting inflation on the Fed will lead to a "credit crunch" that will have far reaching consequences for the financial system and the economy.

Boston bailout

Mayor devises risky plan to keep city schools open

BOSTON (UPI) — Mayor Kevin H. White Friday unveiled a daring surprise strategy to keep schools open through the academic year.

The plan risks city bankruptcy on the gamble that court-ordered tax abatements can be delayed.

With the school system fiscal year budget expiring Saturday, White circumvented the City Council he feuded with for 10 weeks and unveiled the plan to enable the city's 64,000 students to remain in classes through June 19.

Although city officials have steadfastly maintained that there was no more money to bail-out the schools, City Treasurer Lowell L. Richards announced, "The city has decided to attempt to fund school operations through the end of the school year out of existing cash and carry over the deficit" into fiscal 1982.

In an affidavit to Superior Court Judge Thomas Morse — who ordered the schools to stay open the minimum 180 days — Richards called the city's cash situation "extremely precarious" because of $33 million in tax abatements due July 1.

Hopeful of court relief on the abatements, Richards warned that if the city must pay $30 million in refunds to over-assessed Boston property owners as well as keep the School Department afloat, "the city will almost completely exhaust its cash supply by July 1."

White sent the matter of solving the tax abatement back to the Legislature.

Coal talks stall despite movement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Mine Workers union negotiators Friday turned down an industry proposal aimed at resolving the stickiest of seven issues that continue to block settlement of the seven-week-old coal strike.

"It is a great deal away from what we asked for," said Sam Church, union president. Sam Church said of the proposal by the negotiators for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

"It is a great deal away from what we asked for."

Bargaining was recessed until late Monday morning.

The industry proposal was an effort to solve the issue of subcontracting construction, transportation and other jobs by UMW-covered companies to firms not covered by the mine workers contract.

But Church told reporters it was the first movement by the industry in the first four days of the current round of negotiations aimed at settling the strike that has idled miners for the last 50 days.

When the old contract expired March 27, the union, following its traditional "no contract, no work" rule, moved its 60,000 workers out of the mines, shutting down nearly half the country's soft coal production.

The subcontracting issue seeks to resolve miners' fears of the industry's expanding use of non-union workers. Many believe the issue was a major cause for the rejection of the tentative agreement.

Union negotiators are seeking language that would create a "union standards" clause under which non-covered operators would be required to use subcontractors who give their workers the same pay and benefits as UMW workers.

Earlier in the week negotiators indicated there had been some movement on the issue.

FTC orders developer to rebate buyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission Friday ordered an "Arizona" property development company to rebate $1 million to about 40,000 customers it allegedly misled about the value of land they bought in Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

The commission, upholding the decision of a state court, said the developer, said Horizon Corp. of Tucson, Ariz., represented the properties as an "excellent, financially risk-free investment which would mature over a short term."

But Commissioner Patricia P. Bailey said, "Substantial development of any of the properties will not begin to occur prior to the year 2000, and most probably will take place many years after that, rendering the properties an inappropriate short-term investment, which is how they were marketed."

In addition to ordering payments averaging $3,200 to each purchaser, the commission directed the company to make sure that $45 million is spent over the next 20 years to put roads, sewer water and electrical service into the areas.

Buyers are eligible for refunds if they already have paid for the land; if they have defaulted on their land after paying 75 percent or more of the cash price, or if they are still making payments and will continue to do so until they have paid at least 75 percent of the cash price.

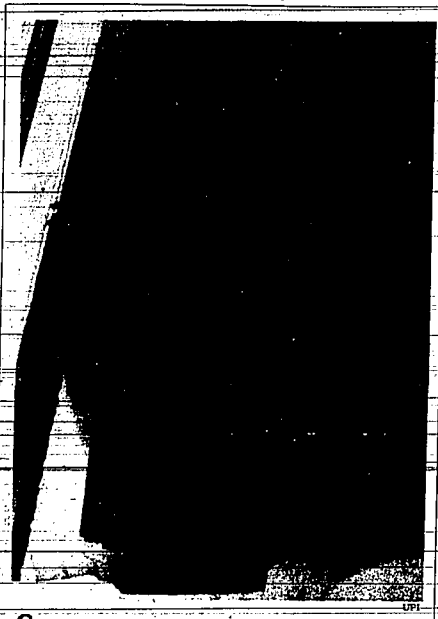

Buyers who have already gotten 25 percent or more of their sales price back through court action are not eligible.

The ruling covered a total of more than 677 square miles of Horizon properties, including Horizon City, near El Paso, Texas; Waterwood, near Houston; Rio Communities and Paradise Hills, near Albuquerque, N.M.; Arizona Sunsites, near Tucson; and Whispering Ranch, near Phoenix.

Actor Christopher Reeves, completing filming for Superman II, says he prefers to play down the sex-symbol image that has resulted from his role as the comic-book hero. Instead, he says he prefers to stress the character's humanity, compassion and justice. "That's what Superman really is all about."

Princess Anne delivers 2nd child, a baby girl

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Anne, only daughter of Queen Elizabeth, gave birth Friday to an 8-pound, 1-ounce daughter — her second child — and Buckingham Palace said both were well.

Although Anne, 30, is the wife of a commoner, Capt. Mark Phillips, the queen's second grandchild is sixth in line to the British throne. The girl has not yet been named.

The princess, who said recently that motherhood is "an occupational hazard of being a wife," already has a 3-year-old son who is fifth in line. He remains a commoner; however, at his parents' request.

Phillips, present at the birth, said he was "absolutely delighted."

After Prince Charles, 32, uncle to the new royal baby and heir to the throne, come two more uncles, Prince Andrew, 21, and Prince Edward, 17, followed by Anne herself.

Anne's son, Peter Mark Andrew Phillips, was the first non-titled grandchild of a ruling sovereign to be born a commoner in five centuries.

In a television interview in March, Anne said she found pregnancy "very boring."

"I'm not particularly maternal in outlook," she said.

Anne is the queen's second child and the only one married until Prince Charles weds Lady Diane Spencer July 29. She met Phillips through their mutual interest in showjumping.

Royal nanny Pat Moss, 40, a railman's daughter, will take care of the new addition to the royal nursery.

Ms. Moss moved in with the couple two months ago, taking over from Anne's own old nanny Mabel Anderson.

The Phillips live in a 35-room mansion, "Gaiety Park" in rural Gloucestershire.

Bess Truman hit by setback

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former first lady Bess Truman, suffering from an elevated temperature, poor kidney functions and persistent traces of pneumonia, was in serious condition Friday, her 10th day of hospitalization.

The 86-year-old Mrs. Truman has been unable to shake the aftereffects of hip reconstruction surgery May 7, said her longtime physician Wallace Graham. Since then Mrs. Truman developed pneumonia in both lungs, reduced kidney output and some heart irregularities.

Although her temperature earlier this week had dropped from an "alarming 102 down to normal," Graham said, his ailing patient was again Friday experiencing body temperature increases.

A hospital spokesman said Fonda, who will be 76 Saturday, underwent a brief procedure as opposed to open-heart surgery, but she was not sure exactly what the operation entailed. He has been undergoing diagnostic tests at the hospital for several weeks.

Henry Fonda undergoes heart surgery

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Henry Fonda underwent cardiac surgery Friday after nearly two weeks of hospitalization for a chronic heart problem.

Fonda, who uses a pacemaker, was reported in good condition.

A hospital spokesman said Fonda, who will be 76 Saturday, underwent a brief procedure as opposed to open-heart surgery, but she was not sure exactly what the operation entailed. He has been undergoing diagnostic tests at the hospital for several weeks.

Crisis in Lebanon

U.S., Soviets deploy naval battle groups off Lebanese coast

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Soviet and American warships moved close to Lebanese waters Friday as President Reagan's special envoy attempted to avert a Syrian-Israeli war over the Lebanese missile crisis.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin meanwhile said that Israel would seek a peaceful solution to the crisis over the stationing of Soviet-made SAM missiles in the Bekaa Valley of eastern Lebanon.

In Washington, Pentagon officials said the Soviet Union has moved a guided missile helicopter cruiser near Lebanese waters and a U.S. aircraft carrier battle group steamed in the vicinity of Israel.

The Israeli newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth earlier reported that the "Moscow" was steaming off the northern coast of Lebanon. The newspaper said the USS Forrestal was also deployed off the Lebanese coast only after "it was made clear the Soviets are using their navy to sabotage the (U.S. Envoy Philip) Habib mission."

News of the naval movements came against a backdrop of rising tension over Israeli demands that Syria remove SAM-3 and SAM-6 anti-aircraft missile batteries from Lebanon.

Although the Syrians fired four Soviet-made anti-aircraft rockets in Lebanon Thursday, shooting down a pilotless Israeli reconnaissance plane, the SAM batteries were quiet Friday.

Israeli jets flew over Beirut, drawing fire from Palestinian gunners, while sporadic fighting was reported in the Lebanese capital and the eastern Christian city of Zable.

Begin met with U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib following a 90-minute meeting between the two Thursday, Habib, who is shuttling between Israel, Syria and Lebanon, declined to comment on the talks.

Begin however, said, "The Syrians object utterly to what is called the status quo ante, namely that the status quo must be restored" and the Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles removed from Lebanon.

"However, despite this very great difficulty, we didn't give up (efforts) to find a peaceful solution."

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam told the London-based Al Sharyq al-Awsat newspaper: "The missiles are defensive weapons and we will not pull them out under pressure from Israel or anyone else for that matter. We will not give in to Israeli threats and blackmail."

State-run Israeli Radio said Habib was expected to depart Saturday for Saudi Arabia and proceed afterward to Syria for further talks.

The missile crisis erupted two weeks ago after Israeli warplanes shot down two Syrian helicopters in Lebanon.

The helicopters had been attempting to position troops across a vital supply road to the Christian militia controlling Zable, a vital city in central Lebanon and the base of militia activities against the Syrian-backed PLO and phalangist organizations.

Israel has supported the Christian forces, which control much of southern Lebanon, as a buffer against PLO terrorists and Syrian troops on its northern borders.

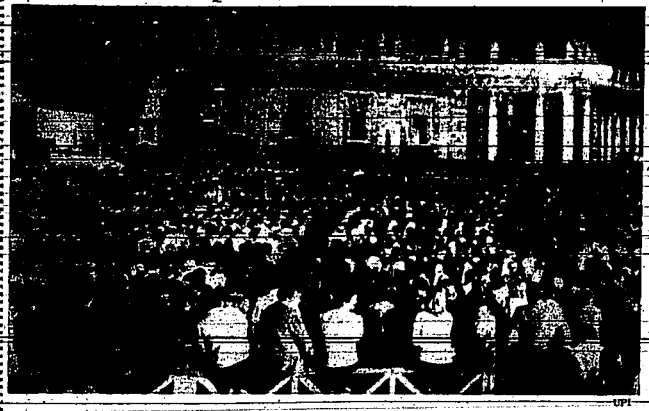

The day after the attack on the helicopters Syria moved SAM-3 and SAM-6 missiles into the country, a move viewed by Israel as a threat to its virtual control of Lebanese airspace from which it conducts reconnaissance and military missions.

The Israelis also charge the move is in violation of a tacit agreement with Syria not to station SAM missiles in the area in exchange for restriction of Israeli overflights of Syria.

Both sides have begun low-level preliminary preparations for war in the last few days.

The pope

Over 30,000 people prayed in St. Peter's square Thursday night for the pope's recovery

He could still die, though

Pope's condition improves

ROME (UPI) — Doctors said Friday they were still not absolutely certain that Pope John Paul II will live, although he is making "favorable" progress from an assassination attempt.

Since the pope underwent major abdominal surgery Wednesday afternoon, doctors have repeatedly stressed that the next seven to 10 days would be critical because of the risk of infection.

"We are still not in a position to say whether the pope will live," said Dr. Emilio Tressatti, chief medical officer of Rome's Gemelli hospital. He said, however, doctors were "satisfied," considering the extent of his wounds.

"The assassins' bullets narrowly missed the vital aorta that carries blood to the lower body."

"The pope, who is being given mild sedatives to reduce abdominal pain, was kept isolated in a glass cubicle in Rome's Gemelli hospital to reduce chances of infection."

Tressatti said there was notable improvement in the pope's breathing.

"Up until last night he had to use an oxygen mask. Today, he didn't need the oxygen."

"The pope's pain has reduced considerably since yesterday, but sedatives were never administered at a high level."

He said John Paul's morale was high and "he is talking willingly to those who are near him."

To minimize the risk of infection, doctors said the pope was being kept in the glass-walled isolation cubicle inside the hospital's recovery and intensive care suite, with his vital signs monitored 24 hours a day.

Surgeons say the pope suffered three wounds in the attack — a minor flesh wound above the right elbow, a shattered left index finger, and a direct hit in the abdomen that ripped through his small intestines and severed his sigmoid colon before exiting from the rear of the body.

The surgeons said the bullet narrowly missed his descending aorta, the main vessel carrying fresh blood to the lower part of the body.

If the bullet had hit the aorta the pope would have bled to death.

Despite the severity of his wounds, John Paul's was able to confer with visitors and pray along with his personal aide, Polish priest Stanislaw Dziwisz, who wore sterilized gowns so he could stay with the pope inside the isolation cubicle.

Priest shot, sparking copy-cat killer fears

JACKSON, Tenn. (UPI) — A young Catholic priest was shot to death Friday and an associate said the killer might have been "some book" — it is not clear by whom.

The assassination attempt on Pope John Paul II.

The body of Rev. John Jay Jackson, 36, was found on the floor of a reading room in the rectory at St. Mary's School in Jackson.

Police investigators Richard Higgins said officers were questioning a suspect, but no charges had been filed.

When word of the shooting of the popular young priest spread, students and spectators gathered outside the rectory and stood openly weeping.

The body was found when Jackson failed to appear at morning mass.

Asked if the shooting had anything to do with the shooting of Pope John Paul II, one official said, "We don't know yet. It doesn't look as if it's a robbery. With the publicity about the pope, maybe it just gave some kook an idea."

But Deputy Police Chief C. E. Johnson said, "I don't know whether he caught somebody in a robbery or what."

REV. JOHN JACKSON found dead in library

Pope's security unarmed, ceremonial

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II is protected in the Vatican by about 35 ceremonial Swiss Guards armed only with medieval spear-like weapons and some 100 unarmed plainclothes Vatican police.

But under the terms of the 1929 Lateran Pacts with Italy that granted the Vatican City its sovereignty, the protection of the Vatican walls but is part of the Vatican City, is largely entrusted to armed Italian police.

Italian police protect St. Peter's Square where Wednesday's assassination attempt occurred because unlike the rest of the Vatican, it nearly always remains open to the public.

During the usual audiences and other Vatican ceremonies in the square, the pope is protected by the plainclothes Vatican police, a small number of Swiss Guards and by uniformed and plainclothes Italian police.

The Swiss Guards carry halberds, a combination battle-ax and spear used in the 15th and 16th centuries.

Uniformed Italian police stand at the various entrances to the square while the plainclothes men mingle with the crowd to try to spot potential troublemakers.

But the size of the crowds that turn out to hear John Paul — 250,000 on Easter Sunday alone and up to 50,000 at the pope's weekly audiences in the summer — and the pope's eagerness to get as close to the people as possible, makes total protection virtually impossible, even if police forces were greatly increased.

After the assassination attempt, Vatican and Italian police officials would not comment on whether security operations in and around the Vatican would be changed after what Vatican Radio called "the first act of terrorism within the Vatican."

N-Ireland basically quiet

Hughes given hero's burial

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Three guerrillas, wearing black masks and combat jackets, fired three rifle volleys over the flag-draped coffin of dead IRA hunger striker Francis Hughes Friday.

Meanwhile, three victims of terrorist violence also were buried in Northern Ireland.

In County Armagh, Cardinal Tomas O'Fiaich, Ireland's Roman Catholic primate, said the four funerals "of people who should not have died" marked "a black day for the north."

There were no reports of rioting, although violence flared in Belfast Thursday night when leftist IRA guerrillas killed a policeman and seriously wounded another in a rocket attack on an armored police Land Rover.

Hughes' coffin, covered with the tricolor of the Irish Republic, was lowered into the ground with full military honors near his home town of Bellaghy, 40 miles north of Belfast.

Elsewhere in Ulster, three more funerals were held for victims of sectarian violence unleashed by the starvation death of Hughes and fellow IRA convict Bobby Sands.

Two hunger strikers have replaced Hughes and Sands in the "fast to the death" by inmates of the Maze prison near Belfast, as part of the campaign by the outlawed Irish Republican Army for "political" status in Ulster jails.

The hunger strikers are hoping to pressure the British government into giving IRA convicts the right to communicate with any prisoners they choose, to wear their own clothes, to refuse prison work and to receive extra visits and letters.

They also demand an automatic 50 percent reduction in prison sentences for good behavior. Britain refuses to concede their demands saying it would lend legitimacy to a terrorist organization pledged to unite Ireland with the rest of Ireland in a socialist republic.

British troops armored cars and police sealed off Bellaghy, forcing thousands of sympathizers who poured in from all over the province to walk at least three miles to reach Hughes' funeral service.

Police also blocked the funeral procession from passing through the heavily guarded village center a half-mile from Hughes' home. Bellaghy is one-third Protestant.

Hughes, 25, a convicted murderer, died in the Maze prison Tuesday — a week after Sands — in the 59th day of his fast.

Thousands of Protestants attended the north Belfast funeral of Eric Guiney, 45, a milk delivery man killed with his 14-year-old son when his truck crashed during a storming attack on a police station Tuesday. He was buried alongside his son, Desmond, who died earlier.

A member of the Marxist Irish National Liberation Army and a 14-year-old schoolkid killed by a plastic bullet during rioting Tuesday also were buried in Catholic West Belfast.

Airline search keys war of words

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department accused the Kremlin Friday of unleashing "an unseemly propaganda campaign" in an attempt to create an international incident over the U.S. Customs search of a Soviet airliner.

In a statement personally approved by Secretary of State Alexander Haig, the State Department rejected a Soviet protest over the search of a Moscow-bound Aeroflot passenger plane at Washington's Dulles international airport.

The sharp exchange of words is the latest evidence that relations between the Reagan administration and the Kremlin have slipped into what a Soviet commentary called "a sad routine of the Cold War days."

The search uncovered only two technical violations in Customs forms. U.S. authorities returned three cartons of cargo seized by Customs officers but did not apologize.

The Soviets, in a protest note delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow Wednesday, accused the United States of acting like "gangsters" and "international terrorists."

"We have rejected the Soviet protest as totally unfounded and have refuted the false allegations contained in the Soviet note," the State Department said. It described the Soviet note as "inflammatory" and "replete with inaccurate and unwarranted allegations."

"The fact that the Soviets chose to publish their note immediately after it was given to us demonstrated that the note was designed as a part of an unseemly propaganda campaign which the Soviets have unleashed.

They evidently hope, through distortion and exaggeration, to convert this customs examination into an international incident."

The Soviet protest accused the United States of a "criminal, barbarous act" and said that "terror and banditry have been elevated in the United States to the status of official policy."

The note also charged — and the State Department specifically denied — that the United States violated "Soviet diplomatic immunity."

The office of Soviet news agency Tass followed up the protest with a commentary Thursday describing the incident as "another link in the chain of crimes committed against the Soviet Union... an act of international terrorism officially sanctioned by the authorities."

Guatemalan violence takes life of priest

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — The bullet-riddled corpse of a Catholic priest — the seventh killed in a province-torn Guatemala in the last year — was found Friday on the floor of his parish home, police said.

Last year Pope John Paul II described the attacks on Roman Catholic priests and clerics as "vile and treacherous."

Father Carlos Galvez Galindo, 50, was found shot to death on the floor of his parish home in Totonicapan, police said.

Circumstances surrounding the killing were unclear although unconfirmed reports said an undetermined number of armed men forced their way into his residence, shot him to death and fled.

Clerics working in Guatemala have often come under fire from guerrillas, who contend the churchmen are linked to "subversive" groups fighting to topple the government, headed by army general President Romeo Lucas Garcia.

Guatemala, with a population of 7.2 million, is the scene of spiraling political violence between leftist rebels, government troops and right-wing death squads.

Leftists hold lead in French poll

PARIS (UPI) — A poll released Saturday shows a majority of French voters favoring leftist parties in the upcoming parliamentary elections.

While a 35-control parliament, socialist President-elect Francois Mitterrand could not win approval of his programs. A public opinion poll by the firm IFOP gave 52 percent of the vote to leftist parties.

Accused of shooting two blacks

KKK to aid sniper's defense

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A man who claims to be the grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Utah says the local chapter is sending out more than 25,000 letters in an effort to raise defense funds for accused sniper Joseph Paul Franklin.

Gene Hammond said the letters have been sent to "virtually every right-wing organization in the country."

He said the letters, sent to about

5,000 groups, asked for contributions to help Franklin defend himself in a June 8 murder trial in Third District Court.

Franklin, 30, of Mobile, Ala., is charged with two counts of capital murder in the Aug. 20 sniper slayings of two black joggers, Ted Fields, 20, and David Martin, 18, were gunned down as they left Liberty Park in the company of their white girlfriends.

The defendant, a former member of the Klan and the American Nazi Party, was convicted in U.S. District Court last March of depriving the two young men of their civil rights by killing them. Federal Judge Bruce Jenkins sentenced Franklin to serve two consecutive life terms in prison on the conviction.

If convicted of the murder charges in state court, Franklin could receive the death penalty, which in Utah is carried out by a firing squad.

Hammond said Franklin should be allowed a change of venue in the case because, he said, Franklin will be unable to get a fair trial in Salt Lake City.

Defense attorneys have also filed motions in Third District Court arguing that another trial for Franklin for the same crime would violate his constitutional rights against double jeopardy. The court has taken the motion under advisement.

Ex-con arrested in jogger murders

By WILLIAM D. MURRAY
United Press International

Killer: He added his name was not on his agency's list of 168 possible suspects.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI) — A 51-year-old ex-convict was arrested at his home Friday as the suspected "trailside killer" who made some of his eight hiking and jogging victims plead for their lives.

David Carpenter, 51, employed at a Hayward, Calif., printing company, was taken into custody at his San Francisco home after being under surveillance for a week.

The killings, which began in August 1979, occurred in the Point Reyes National Wilderness Area on the coast just north of San Francisco and in the Henry Cowell Redwoods State Park in Santa Cruz County, 75 miles south of San Francisco.

Carpenter was arrested in San Quentin and Folsom prisons; was taken to Santa Cruz where he was booked into the County Jail on a charge of murder and attempted murder with special circumstances that could lead to the death penalty.

Marin County Sheriff Al Howenstein told reporters in San Rafael that there was a "ballistics link" between the one slaying in Santa Cruz County and some of the killings in his jurisdiction. He said the killer used the same weapon.

Santa Cruz County District Attorney Art Danner said in Santa Cruz that it was decided to charge the suspect in his jurisdiction because "we feel we have the best case to go first."

The victim in the March 29 Santa Cruz County killing was Ellen Hansen, 20, a student at the University of California-Davis. Her boyfriend, Steve Haerte, 29, was shot four times by the assailant but survived to provide authorities with a description of the attacker.

Authorities said Haerte's description matched a composite from Marin County.

However, Howenstein admitted that investigators were led to Carpenter after two people called his department on a special telephone hotline set up to receive tips on the "trailside killers." He added his name was not on his agency's list of 168 possible suspects.

Howenstein said, "We feel without being too speculative at this point that evidence should be forthcoming to indicate whether Carpenter is involved in the Mount Tamalpais (in the Point Reyes National Wilderness Area) slayings."

The slayings themselves touched off a wave of fear among joggers and hikers who use the scenic park areas and authorities repeatedly warned users to refrain from entering the areas alone.

Investigators, studying the positions of the victims' bodies, said the killer made some of his victims kneel and plead for mercy before he killed them. They said he put his victims through psychological torture.

Carpenter was sentenced to state prison in Calaveras County in 1970 on charges of robbery and kidnapping. He was committed to Folsom Prison in June 1970 and the next month went to court in Santa Cruz County where he was charged with rape and robbery.

He was sent to San Quentin in August 1972 before being returned to Folsom and then sent on to the California Medical Facility in Folsom. He was paroled in February 1977.

The first victim of the "trailside killer" was Edda Kane, 44, Mill Valley, Calif. She had been shot in the head. The next one was Barbara Schwartz, 23, also from Mill Valley. She was stabbed and a witness saw her struggling with her assailant. Ms. Schwartz was the only victim not shot to death.

On Oct. 15 the body of Evelyn Anderson, 26, San Rafael, was found on Mount Tamalpais. And later in November 1980 two bodies were discovered on a remote area. Deputies said they were the victims of a ritualistic killer.

Two more bodies were found nearby by deputies investigating the killing of the previous two victims. Their deaths were also carried out in execution style.

Exhume another body in investigation of 28 mysterious hospital deaths

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — Officials investigating 28 mysterious deaths at three small rural hospitals Friday exhumed Monday from a suspiciously last March will be exhumed next week to search for evidence of a drug overdose.

San Bernardino County Coroner Bill Hill confirmed the body of Estel Lee Jones will be exhumed Monday from Forest Lawn Cemetery in Covina.

Jones died March 25 in the intensive care unit of 118-bed Chino Community Hospital, the third hospital to be linked to the investigation of the "strange, sudden deaths."

The administrator of Chino hospital confirmed Thursday that Robert Diaz, a nurse questioned by authorities about the deaths, worked at the Chino facility — as well as two other investigation in Riverside County.

The investigation into the deaths was launched in Riverside County when more than two dozen elderly patients died suspiciously at Community Hospital of the Valleys in Perris. Some two people died at nearby San Geronimo Pass Hospital in Banning.

Hill said the investigation in San Bernardino County was started when a woman who worked at the Chino hospital called Riverside authorities about symptoms exhibited by Jones before he died.

The coroner said Jones, who died at 62, exhibited "terminal" symptoms similar to those of 27 patients who died at the Riverside County hospital.

Hill said investigators will take tissue samples Monday and attempt to find high concentrations of drugs, including Lidocaine, a medication used control a patient's heart beat.

In a court request to exhume the body of Jones, the San Bernardino County coroner's office said: "It is believed that one of the nurses being investigated by the Riverside County coroner's office may have been a professional treating the deceased."

Diaz, who has sued Riverside

County officials for $100 million for damaging his career, has denied he was responsible for the deaths. He has not been charged with any crime.

But a raid on Diaz' home last month turned up two vials of Lidocaine, a half-vial of morphine sulfate, a syringe and intravenous tubing. He told investigators he had probably put the drugs in his pocket during a hospital emergency and failed to return them.

State officials this week closed the Perris hospital, because its administrators took no action after 25 elderly people died suddenly earlier this year. Only six patients died in the 36-bed facility during all of 1980.

Daniel jury still deliberating murder charge

GREEN RIVER, Wyo. (UPI) — A Sweetwater County District Court jury today resumed deliberations in the first degree murder and kidnapping trial of Alvah Richard Daniel, Jr., 31, Daniel, 28, of Magna, Utah, is accused in the Sept. 17, 1980, slaying of Helen Hay Bunning, 30, an instructor at Western Wyoming College, and the daughter of prominent Rock Springs banker John Hay.

The seven-woman, five-man jury received the case at 2:40 p.m. Thursday following closing arguments by prosecutors and defense attorneys and continued deliberations until almost midnight Thursday when the jury recessed for the night.

during the eight-day trial, that he had asked Mrs. Bunning into his car to discuss a college course. He said the woman apparently panicked and sprayed him with the chemical after he drew a knife from his pocket to trim a hangnail.

In closing arguments Thursday, Deputy County Attorney Robert Reese pleaded with the jury to convict Daniel on the more serious charges.

"Helen is not half-dead," he said. "It's not a half-murder."

He also told the panel that defense attorneys have been unable to provide a single witness to testify that "at any time in her life, Mrs. Bunning would have voluntarily entered the car of a stranger.

Both the woman's mother and her husband have testified Mrs. Bunning was extremely conscious of the threat of sexual assault or other harm in the rapidly growing southwestern Wyoming community, and that she had carried the chemical irritant or a key chain for about two years.

Defense attorney Keith Goody urged the panel to weigh evidence presented at trial and reach a verdict without regard to public opinion.

He said an acquittal in the case would generate strong public protest even though he contended the prosecution failed to prove the killing was not accidental.

Twin Falls Chamber begins fighting crime

By STEVE ELLISON
Times-News writer

several began to think Peterson was right.

TWIN FALLS — Two months ago, Marion Peterson told Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce directors the chamber should do something to fight crime.

At first, some members of the board of directors wondered what the chamber could do about the problem. But as board members talked more,

Peterson, daughter of Herrett's Jewelers, owner Lillie Herrett, had asked to speak at the chamber board meeting not because Herrett's had been burglarized recently, she said, but because she was a concerned citizen.

Several members of the chamber board shared her concern, so the chamber formed a crime prevention committee.

A month ago, Ken Ward, a business consultant in Twin Falls, heard about the chamber's action. Acting as a concerned citizen, he said, he called the chamber to ask how he could help. Ward was recently named chairman of the crime prevention committee.

To Ward, there is nothing unusual about a business organization getting involved in crime fighting. The crime prevention committee, like the chamber, is a "means of making a better Twin Falls," Ward said.

The committee is too new to have specific goals or programs, Ward said. "We don't have all the answers. We don't even know the questions," he said.

However, the committee has already taken a number of steps.

It started by informing people of the crime prevention information available from the Twin Falls Police Department and about a neighborhood watch program sponsored by the American Association of Retired Persons. Bob Freese coordinates the watch program in Twin Falls. He and police representatives meet with groups of neighbors to tell them how they can organize to protect each other.

The crime prevention committee also plans to buy plastic pencils and ultraviolet marking equipment so people can put identifying numbers on their valuables. A similar program in Pocatello helped reduce burglaries markedly, according to Twin Falls

Police. "One of the goals of the committee is to make average citizens realize there is a lot they can do themselves to help prevent crime," said Gary White. White, a salesman at Jensen's Jewelers, is vice-chairman of the committee. He was also a Twin Falls policeman for six years.

People can be the eyes and ears of the police, he said. "Don't be afraid to call the police to report something suspicious. It really helps," he said.

Local family sues burglary suspect for $108,000

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls family is suing an 18-year-old man who allegedly burglarized their home and assaulted them last year, seeking more than $108,000 in damages.

In a lawsuit filed Thursday in 5th District Court, Willard and Dorothy Mae Ihler of Twin Falls and their son, Fred Ihler of Spokane, charged Noel Grefenson with burglarizing their home on June 30, 1980.

The lawsuit says the Ihlers returned to their home on Pole Line Road East about 11:30 p.m. that night and found the south door open.

As the Ihlers searched the house, Grefenson allegedly appeared from a darkened bedroom, attacking the two before he escaped.

The lawsuit says Fred Ihler's lower right leg was broken during the assault and Willard Ihler suffered a dislocated shoulder.

No record of charges filed against Grefenson in 5th District Magistrate Court was available. However, since he was a juvenile at the time of the incident, Grefenson would have been dealt with as a minor. Idaho law prevents publication of most proceedings involving juveniles.

The Ihlers' lawyer, Harry Turner, said Grefenson paid restitution as part of those juvenile proceedings. But the restitution amount did not cover all of the Ihlers' expenses, Turner said.

The suit seeks damages for each of the plaintiffs and compensation for damages to the home.

For Fred Ihler, the suit seeks $10,000 for pain, suffering and bodily harm, $50 for loss of wages while his injuries prevented him from working, $1,202 for medical expenses, $25,000 for punitive damages and $10,000 for lawyer fees.

For Willard Ihler, the suit seeks $25,000 for pain and suffering, $121 for medical expenses, $2,500 for punitive damages and $2,500 for lawyer fees.

For Dorothy Mae Ihler, the suit seeks $5,000 compensation for emotional and mental suffering, $10,000 in punitive damages and $2,500 for lawyer fees.

The Ihlers have asked $270 in general damages to their home, $20,000 in punitive damages and $2,500 for lawyer fees.

P & Z recommend denial for Filer rezoning proposal

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission members have denied a request to rezone 40 acres near Filer for residential development.

The denial, which takes the form of a recommendation to the Twin Falls Board of County Commissioners, also threatens planned improvements to the city of Filer's sewage treatment plant.

Filer city officials plan to install a fourth lagoon on property located 1 1/4 miles north of the city. City officials said improvements are needed to bring the plant into compliance with federal Environmental Protection Agency standards. City officials plan to purchase half of an 80-acre parcel from Rick Routt of Filer for the lagoon site. Treated waste water also would be applied to the land.

Saying the remaining 40 acres would not be viable for farming operations, Routt conditioned his agreement to sell the land on county approval of his rezoning request.

During a public hearing, opponents of the request argued the area was a poor location for both the lagoon and future residential development.

Robert Carlson of Twin Falls said residential development would lead to a deterioration of surrounding areas. Carlson owns property near the proposed lagoon site.

He added gas and oil companies have pipelines running through the property. This could cause problems for potential property owners in the area, Carlson said.

Allan Andrew of Filer said the use of the treated waste water on the land could cause pollution from runoff and contaminate the ground water supply.

City consultants said treated waste water would be confined to the city's property. They added the water emerging from the city's sewage treatment system would meet EPA and Idaho Department of Health and Welfare standards and would not cause an odor.

Although he said he could not guarantee the project would not affect the area, Scott Bybee of Edwards, Howard and Martens Engineers Inc., of Twin Falls, said ground water monitoring wells would be installed. If a problem developed, the Filer plant would be shut down and the problem resolved, Bybee added.

Computers speed up law work

TWIN FALLS — By pushing a few buttons, police officials can now determine who owns any registered vehicle in the county.

Two $2,900 computer terminals which provide access to this information were installed in the Police Department last week, said computer programmer Bob Stephenson.

The terminals also give police officials access to city utility billing notices. With this information they can match names and addresses, he said.

Previously, the information was recorded on paper which made it time-consuming to retrieve. "It's very tedious to go through files by hand," Stephenson said.

Communications officer Joann Loveland said "I'm very excited about it. We can eliminate maybe 5 to 15 minutes on a particular situation."

Recently, Loveland said a man reported a stolen vehicle and by using the computer terminal she was able to get the vehicle title number and a complete vehicle description within a minute.

The process otherwise would take 5- to 10-minutes because the information had to be obtained from county officials, Loveland said. The vehicle title number is needed before police can verify the vehicle is stolen.

Only the license plate number or the owner's name must be typed into the computer terminal to receive a display of the vehicle description, owner's name and address and title number on a television-like screen.

Stephenson said the next step will be to put arrest warrant and criminal history records in the computer.

This will eliminate paper work and speed the process of locating possible suspects, Stephenson said.

For instance, if a suspect was described as six feet tall with red hair officials could type in the information and a list of people with criminal records who fit the description would be displayed, he said.

The $50,000 computer which stores the data on vehicle registrations, utility bills, property records and payroll information sits in a corner at City Hall.

The city began using the computer, which can hold 120 million characters, last April and the county began using it last September.

Next week, however, the county will obtain its own computer, but the city and county will have access to the same information. "The two computers will be able to talk back and forth to each other," Stephenson said.

Whitney pleads not guilty; jury trial to hear rape case

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Hollister Mayor Delbert Whitney, 51, Friday pleaded not guilty to rape in 5th District Court.

A 12-member jury will now be called to hear evidence presented at Whitney's trial, which has not been scheduled.

Whitney is charged with having sexual intercourse with a teenage girl. Under Idaho law, statutory rape constitutes rape, a charge carrying a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's deputies arrested Whitney, Feb. 18, but he declined to say when and where the alleged rape occurred. Although later released on $20,000 bond, Whitney was subsequently placed on his own recognizance by 5th District Magistrate Court Judge Mel Edwards.

Fifth District Court Judge Theron Ward continued Whitney's release without bond Friday. Twin Falls County Deputy Prosecutor Mike Henderson did not object to the release without bond.

In other matters, a 47-year-old Twin Falls man pleaded guilty Friday to reduced charges of aggravated assault.

Raymond Broner had pleaded not guilty Dec. 18, 1980, to one count of aggravated battery, two counts of aggravated assault and three counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Prosecutors agreed to drop one count of aggravated assault and three counts of using a firearm in the commission of a felony and reduced the aggravated-battery charge to aggravated assault. In exchange, Broner pleaded guilty to two counts of aggravated assault.

The charges stemmed from a July 19, 1980, incident in which Broner allegedly shot his firearm. Bobby Broner of Kimberly, with a .357 pistol, allegedly threatened to shoot his former wife, Virginia Broner of Kimberly, and allegedly fired shots at Kimberly police officers and Twin Falls County Sheriff's deputies.

Raymond Broner faces a maximum five-year prison sentence on each count.

Malta, Albion agree on renovation project

MALTA — Malta and Albion officials agreed to share grant money returns from a projected renovation at the Albion Normal School campus.

Developers, hoping to receive a $2.4 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, met with city officials from both towns in a two and one-half hour meeting Thursday night.

Each town will receive monies if the HUD grant is approved. Payment of principal plus interest would be made by developers to Malta and Albion from income received when the renovated campus becomes apartment complexes.

State official Dave McAllintz said the cities were each slated to have 75 percent of the proceeds. The final bargaining left Albion with 55 percent and Malta with 45 percent.

Malta is involved in the arrangement because the women living in the complex will be employed by a planned agricultural complex near that city. Malta also is involved because Albion is not qualified for the HUD grant, whereas Malta is.

Colorado man arraigned on assault charges

JEROME — A 23-year-old Colorado man was arraigned in Jerome Friday for allegedly kidnapping and beating a Hazelton woman.

Arturo Sanchez Nava is charged in connection with the kidnapping and aggravated assault of an unidentified woman reportedly taken by force from her Hazelton home about 2 p.m. Thursday.

Jerome County Sheriff Elmer Hall said Friday he still had not been able to interview the victim in detail because of "her shaken-up condition." The woman has not been identified because a rape charge is pending against Nava in connection with the assault.

Friday morning Nava appeared before 5th District Magistrate Judge Russell Shand, where he requested a public defender and a preliminary hearing in magistrate court.

Jerome attorney William Dalling was appointed to defend Nava who is lodged in the Jerome County Jail on $20,000 bond.

School write-in campaign begins

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Cathy Lamborn said Friday he will run as a write-in candidate for the Twin Falls School Board zone 2.

Lamborn decided to run after learning incumbent Byron Snyder had intended to step down this year, but decided to run because no one else filed.

Lamborn said he admitted Snyder's service but said he felt a lack of candidates was not an appropriate reason to remain on the board. Lamborn is the research director at Gallatin Valley Seed Company and has received international acclaim for the development of the Sugar Snap pea.

He has five children, Two attend grade school, one junior high and one high school.

Education is more than dispensing facts and testing the student's ability to remember, Lamborn said. Instead, students should learn background information and tools which will give them confidence and the ability to meet future challenges, he said.

"Our young people are a great resource. The realization of their potential is largely dependent upon the quality of their education," he said.

Lamborn said he feels one of his strongest qualifications comes from his long struggle with his own education. He said he had a poor start in school and it took years before he gained determination to continue his education and receive a doctorate in plant breeding from Utah State University.

Board leases land in Gooding for new drug, alcohol center

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Land Board approved Friday leasing of state land adjacent to the Gooding County Memorial Hospital for erection of a 15,000-square-foot drug and alcohol center.

Board members directed the state Land Department to make a recommendation on the amount of the lease.

Edmon Myers, hospital administrator, told the board the present Walker Drug and Alcohol Center housed in buildings leased from the state, was purchased by St. Benedict's Hospital, Ogden, Utah.

He said St. Benedict's does not desire to remain in the present housing and wants to erect new facilities that meet acute care facility standards. He said the present center does not meet those standards.

A spokesman for St. Benedict's says it would be too costly to improve the present facilities to update it to an acute care facility.

Myers said the land sought next to the hospital currently is vacant and not producing "money for the state for the county." He added the land could not be used for any other purpose.

The administrator said St. Benedict's indicated it would move away from Gooding if it was forced to remain at its present site. He said this would be a loss of jobs and revenue for Gooding County.

"The loss would hurt the county," Myers said.

In other action, members left the door open on the sale of a 280-acre parcel of land near Oxbow Reservoir in the Hells-Canyon stretch of the Snake River to Idaho Power Co.

Idaho Power seeks the land at Barber Flats three miles east and above the reservoir for a proposed pump-storage project, but the board decided against sale at this time.

Board members lauded Idaho Power's proposal, but decided against selling the land to the utility at this time.

QUESTION...

Do I have to pay Federal Income Tax on the life insurance proceeds I received recently?

ANSWER...

Very probably the insurance money you received is exempt from Federal Income Taxation. Insurance proceeds are usually paid to related beneficiaries for the purpose of providing funds after the death of the insured. However, if the insurance money was paid to you in satisfaction of a debt, or for some other valuable consideration, then all or a portion of the money must be included in your gross income for Federal Income Tax purposes. This applies also to death benefits paid under accident and health insurance policies.

As a general rule, therefore, this money is tax exempt if you are the surviving spouse or a relative of the insured and no insurance proceeds were paid in a lump sum to you as the beneficiary of the policy.

Churches of Christ council condemns Reagan policies

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The National Council of Churches of Christ Friday passed a resolution condemning the Reagan administration. Council members said they could not "support a nuclear arms race or politicians who disdain the poor." The resolution called the administration with ending U.S. advocacy for human rights in struggling Third World nations, turning its back on the poor and promoting a nuclear arms race. At the council's semi-annual conference, 167 delegates representing 40 million members of Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches in the United States voted to oppose the Reagan administration's proposals to increase arms spending, subsidize the military junta in El Salvador and cut social-welfare programs. "We can't say if we're at variance with the majority of Americans," said the Rev. M. William Howard, who at age 33 is the youngest president ever to lead the organization. "But we can't support a nuclear arms race or politicians who disdain the poor and want to take away from the poor." "Only 26 percent of the people elected Reagan," Howard said at the conclusion of the three-day conference at the Friends Meetinghouse in downtown Philadelphia. "I don't call that a majority." Howard said his journey as head of a council delegation two weeks ago to Guatemala in Central America influenced his contributions to a separate council resolution passed Thursday to oppose U.S. aid to violence-torn El Salvador. "We in America don't realize there are committed Christians in countries like Guatemala and El Salvador who, because Christ requires it, are resisting dictators who kill innocent people who burn little children in huts," said Howard, an American Baptist Church minister from New York. "The struggle in El Salvador is between the 'haves' and the 'have-nots,'" he said. "A small percentage of the people control a large majority of the wealth."

The resolution of opposition to the Reagan administration, said in part, "These President Reagan's proposals 'to get America back on track' represent not merely a shift of emphasis — a little less here or a little more there. They are... a repudiation of the vision of America as the model and embodiment of a just and humane society." The council does not campaign for nor contribute to political candidates.

Environmental group picks favorites

By LARRY WISHER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Democratic legislators again this year showed more concern for the environment than Republican legislators, according to Idaho conservationists.

The Idaho Conservation League recently published its ratings of how state legislators voted on selected issues during the 1981 session.

"We're non-partisan, but obviously there are some conclusions you can draw about the environmental policies and platforms of the two parties," Pat Ford, ICL executive director, said.

In its May newsletter, the group rated the 105 lawmakers on seven votes in the House, 10 votes in the Senate and several committee votes.

"There were some substantial victories this year," Ford wrote in the newsletter. He mentioned the passage of Fish and Game fee increases and a severance tax on oil and gas, the blockage of Sagebrush Rebellion and anti-land use planning legislation and a ban to place to sell off or the proposed Eagle Island state park near Boise.

But Ford said "we did very badly" in the budget-setting process, where the state Bureau of Air Quality and Office of Energy were eliminated and the Bureau of Water Quality, Department of Water Resources and Department of Parks and Recreation suffered cutbacks.

Only one legislator from south-central Idaho had a perfect record on conservation issues, District 21 Sen. John Peavoy, D-Carey.

Seven senators and four representatives, all Democrats, received perfect marks of 100 percent.

The lowest marks went to Rep. Bud Lewis, R-Idaho, 15 percent; Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, 7 percent; and Senate Pro Tem Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, 9 percent.

"We've been doing this for about seven years and that has generally been the pattern, that most of the legislators with perfect or high marks are Democrats," Ford said. One political exception this year was Rep. Joseph Walker, R-Moscow, who voted correctly 92 percent of the time, according to the ICL. Northern Idaho legislators, who have traditionally been Democrats, also have usually rated higher than southern Idaho legislators, Ford said.

The ICL ratings were not meant to be precise indicators, he said, but reveal "these legislators who think conservation and environmental maintenance are important to Idaho, those who are not concerned and those who are somewhere in the middle."

BPA

Eiguren expected to be named Johnson's special assistant

BOISE (UPI) — Deputy Idaho Attorney General Roy Eiguren, Boise, is expected to be named special assistant to Bonneville Power Administrator Peter Johnson, the Press-Telegram reported Friday.

Eiguren confirmed he and Johnson had discussed his going to Portland to serve as Johnson's administrative aide.

Johnson, a former Boise businessman who was sworn in Monday as BPA administrator, was in Seattle for meetings and could not be reached for comment.

But Eiguren said the paperwork prerequisite for appointment to a federal position is being processed by the Department of Energy. He said as soon as that is done Johnson can formally offer him the job.

Eiguren said both he and Johnson expect the paperwork to be completed soon, but said he could give no specific date for this.

A Homealde native and graduate of the University of Idaho Law School, Eiguren said he was "strongly recommended" to Johnson by Idaho Sen. James McClure, Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee chairman.

McClure's office is being "very instrumental in expediting" the paperwork to clear the way for his appointment, Eiguren said.

Eiguren worked for the Ada County Prosecutor's office before joining the attorney general's office, where he is chief of the legislative and administrative affairs division.

He worked with Johnson on the Governor's Management Task Force in 1979.

Officials urged to implement special conservation measures

BOISE (UPI) — Bonneville Power Administration officials were urged Thursday night to take special precautions requiring its utility and industry contract holders to conserve energy and protect anadromous fisheries.

At a hearing on contract negotiations involving BPA and Northwest utilities and large industrial power users, Idaho environmentalists accused federal officials of neglecting small-power consumers.

Kenneth Robison, Boise, publisher of the environmentalist Idaho Times newspaper, said contract deadlines under the Northwest Power Act put conservationists at a disadvantage.

"We're in kind of an awkward position," he said, because the act requires contract signings by September before the Northwest Power Council will have time to produce comprehensive fisheries-protection and energy plans.

Boise environmentalist Marjorie Hayes said the BPA during the past several years "has been in favor of industrial consumers" to the detriment of residential, farm and small-business electricity users.

Robison, Hayes and other speakers also rapped the proposed 20-year contracts that will be offered to utilities and industrial users. They said the contracts should be of shorter duration to allow more flexibility.

Robison said it was essential that specific language be included in the contracts to ensure that utilities adhere to regional fisheries-management and energy conservation plans.

"Nothing more should be allowed to interfere with the fisheries resource," he told a panel of six BPA staff members, who were holding the second of three regional public hearings on the contract process. "The fisheries have suffered enough."

Robison also said Idaho's anadromous fish runs have been harmed by energy-related river projects than those of other Northwest states.

Pat Ford, director of the Idaho Conservation League, urged BPA officials to draft energy contracts with "strong incentives for conservation — take a carrot-and-stick approach." He said "conservation targets" should be imposed on utilities.

IPUC approves rate hike for Utah company

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission declared a state of emergency in Utah-Power & Light Co.'s Idaho service area Friday, asking all customers to conserve energy and authorizing a temporary 8-cent surcharge per kilowatt hour for most customers.

Customers in all areas except at Montrose were ordered to pay the extra charge until June 1. Montrose, a phosphorus plant in Soda Springs, received a surcharge of 62¢-cents per kilowatt hour. Commissioners said they will review the surcharge order on June 1 to determine if it can be eliminated or if it needs to be adjusted. It translates into a $8 increase for a customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours each month.

Commissioners also granted the utility a 7.28 percent rate increase in Idaho. The increase amounts to more than $4.9 million in additional revenue each year and means customers using 1,000 kilowatt hours a month will pay about $4.64 more in each bill from May through October and $3.65 from November through April.

The company originally had requested a $8.5 million hike, but increased the request to more than $13.4 million during a March hearing. Commissioners said they granted the utility less than requested because revenue the company receives from selling portions of the Hunter 1 and 2 coal-fired plants should bring additional money to the firm.

The PUC ordered the emergency condition in response to Utah Power's application for a surcharge on Wednesday. The utility said the entire portion of its coal inventory allocated to Idaho was exhausted and power outside the system had to be purchased to serve customers.

The company's application said it expected $610,000 in additional costs from Friday through the end of the month and another $2,292,000 during June. While the utility requested a 1.2-cent surcharge for all customers except Montrose from May 15 to May 31 and a 1.64-cent surcharge during June, commissioners said they had insufficient evidence to support granting that request.

The surcharge was authorized subject to a refunding-pend bill hearings on June 1.

"We note, parenthetically, that the company's late filing of this application prevented us from scheduling a hearing before the requested effective date," the commission order said.

"In view of the difficulty in making refunds to those customers billed between May 15 and June 1, we think it is appropriate to err on the side of caution in assessing a surcharge before a final hearing a disposition of this matter."

Sigma Chi Sweetheart sentenced for 3 years

BOISE (UPI) — Nancy Jo Cain, a heavy-set woman nicknamed by authorities as "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," was sentenced to three years in the federal prison at Pleasanton, Calif., Friday by Idaho U.S. District Judge Marion Callister.

Charged with "blinking" Robert Mazurkiewicz, chapter president of the Sigma Chi fraternity at the University of Pennsylvania, out of $5,000, the 34-year-old woman contended throughout extensive psychiatric evaluations in Idaho that she could not remember the crime. During court proceedings Friday, however, she repeatedly told the judge she wanted to maintain a guilty plea — although she couldn't recall perpetrating the charges — because she would be convicted if tried.

"Our opinion is if the evidence can be proven in court, and we have no reason to believe it cannot, that evidence would produce a conviction," said Joseph Coulter, Cain's attorney. "We have reviewed the possible defenses and find they would be risky at best."

Ms. Cain was arrested in Idaho on

Jan. 20 on a tip from a University of Idaho Sigma Chi official that she attempted to contact a member there.

Bill Bringham, a former FBI agent and the fraternity's national executive vice president, contends Ms. Cain for 10 years led chapter presidents across the nation to spend "tens of thousands of dollars on her by telling bizarre... stories of intrigue."

News-briefs

Evans saves energy office

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans has decided not to abolish the Idaho Office of Energy after meeting with the director of the agency Thursday.

Evans called a meeting Thursday afternoon with Energy Office Director Ken Green to discuss possible closure of the office. Evans said he was considering closing the office by July 1, the start of the new fiscal year, if the office could not justify its existence.

Evans said he was concerned the office would have to close since it did not receive any general-fund support from the last Legislature. Evans, who has long been an advocate of the office, said Green was able to convince him he could continue operating the office. "With the reasonable expectation Congress will approve a block grant."

Legislators this year appropriated $68,000 to fund conservation measures in some public buildings, but they rejected an $81,000 request that would pay two administrative salaries and overhead costs, Green said.

Instead, those costs will be paid by federal funds — money which otherwise could have been used to improve existing programs, Green said.

Tuo vie for grain agency

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture is asking for comments on two agencies which have applied for designation as the official grain inspection agency for southern Idaho.

David R. Galliard, acting administrator of the Federal Grain Inspection Service, said Edwin T. Matthey of Lewiston Grain Inspection Service of Lewiston and T. Edward Butters of Idaho Grain Inspection, a proposed agency in Roy, Utah, have applied for the designation.

The Idaho Department of Agriculture is now performing official grain inspection services in the southern half of the state up to the northern boundaries of Adams, Valley and Lemhi counties, but has asked that its designation be cancelled as of May 31.

Comments must be postmarked by May 27, and should be mailed to the issuance and Coordination Staff, 1127 Auditors Building, FGIS-USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250.

Auld refuses comment

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. James Auld, R-Boise, says he has not formally received a copy of a $5.5 million libel and slander lawsuit filed against him and that he will not comment until he has read it and retained a lawyer.

"I haven't been served with it yet," Auld said. "I have no way to really comment on it. The important thing is whether it is really a suit or was filed for the purposes of publicity."

The suit asks for $500,000 in damages for each of 11 Boise and Ada County planning and zoning staff members who claim they were injured by statements made last month by Auld. Auld claimed that payoffs to those staff members in return for zoning considerations was common practice.

William J. Russell, attorney for the 11, said that it was not unusual for Auld not to have been served with the suit. The handling of the suit was turned over to a process server, Russell said. "We didn't put any priority on it," he said.

Challis bridge opened

CHALLIS (UPI) — A new bridge across the Salmon river near the mouth of Saw Creek to carry heavy equipment to Cyprus Mines' new molybdenum mining operations was dedicated Friday with state and local officials in attendance.

The bridge replaces the present structure, which was too narrow and not enough support the equipment that will be moving to the mine site. The first piece of equipment — parts of the huge shovels — crossed the span during the dedication.

M. H. Coe, Cyprus Mines' president, said he feels completion of the bridge marks a milestone in the project in that the company now can begin moving in the heavy equipment for assembling at the mine site.

Gemini should attend to home duties early, then plan entertainment

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening which you can use to best advantage by investigating whatever has been puzzling you in the past. You can then devise a plan to gain your goals more readily.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you handle your regular duties in a conscientious manner at this time. Show that you are a thoughtful person.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take time to analyze where you are headed in your career. Don't lose your temper over a situation that displeases you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy attending to home duties early in the day. Plan time for a little entertainment in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be with your loved one as much as possible today and increase happiness. Relax at home tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Do nothing to irritate any family members and maintain harmony and happiness. Be more tolerant of others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is important that you be most careful in motion today and tonight and avoid possible accident. Relax and ease tensions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be most careful in the handling of money matters today and avoid being a loser. Think along more constructive lines.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Not a good day for evening for the social side of life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be objective in handling a personal problem at this time. Engage in favorite hobby with congeniality.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Personal matters need your attention today. Forget friends for the time being. Sidelstep a troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) Plan time to handle personal responsibilities early in the day. Taking any risks with money would be most unwise now.

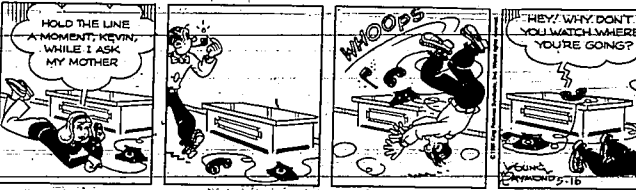

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) New ideas come to you but don't take any action on them. Study them further. Establish more order around you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who will create problems just for the fun of showing how well they can be solved. No need to search for harmony instead, rigorous training is important. One who will excel in sports.

What's what

Dope addicts hang on until their aged years

It's commonly believed that dope addicts, like prostitutes, simply disappear after the age of about 45. Many do, true. Prison and death deplete the ranks, and a sizable number go cold turkey to a clean old age. But many don't. Little understood is the fact that countless dreamers of advanced years, out there, remain mated to their drugs, taking whatever they can get whenever they can get it, for better or for worse, in sickness and in health, loyal to the end.

Mothers in Burma's Intha keep track of their kids by tying bells to their ankles.

Q: How long do the pilots for major airlines actually work?

A: Three days a week is usual, I'm told.

LOSS OF HAIR

Most men who lose their hair tend to do so in a predictable pattern, leaving a horseshoe fringe around the sides. Am asked: If the women who lose hair do so in a similar manner. No, sir, rarely. Women's hair more likely starts to thin out about half an inch behind the front hairline and that thinning covers a wide area all the way back.

Claim is a jigger of vinegar in a cup near the stove works just about as well as any deodorant to keep the kitchen air free of odors.

ESKIMO ADVICE

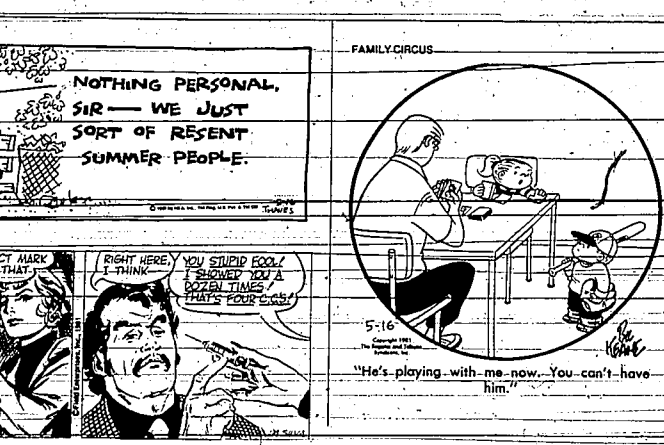

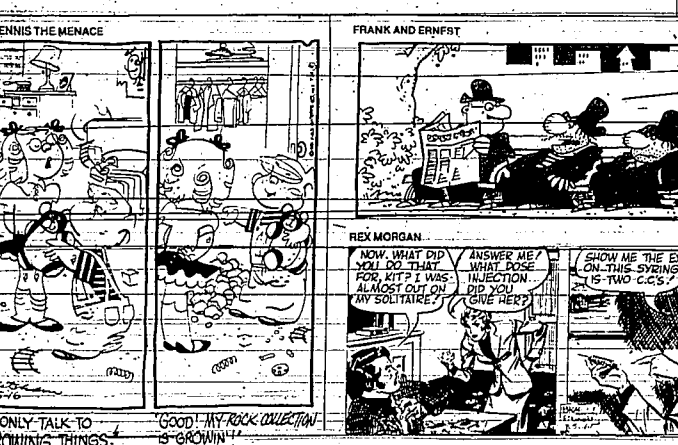

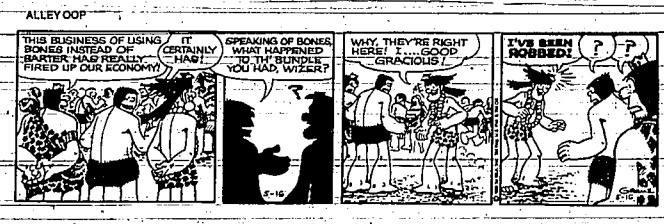

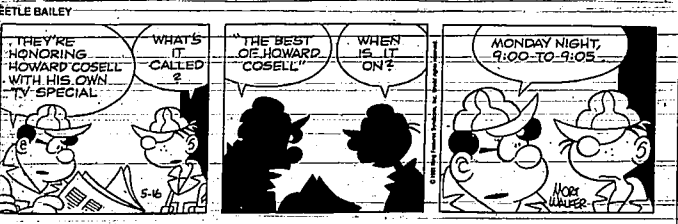

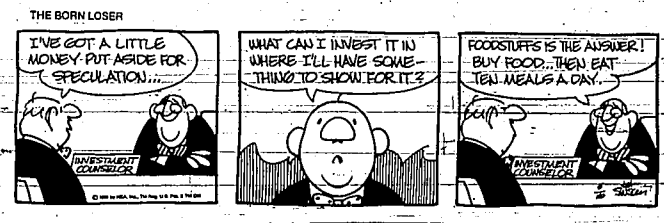

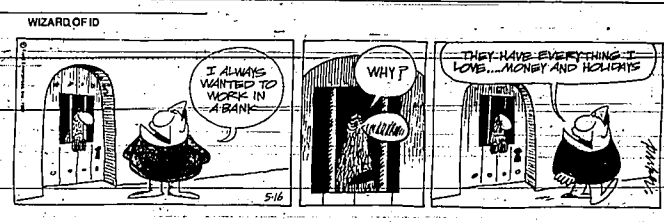

The Eskimo historically tends to believe what he's told and act accordingly. If some elder says don't go there, the Eskimo stays away from there, seemingly without the need to check out the place for himself. Imagine it has to do with the dangers of that life. Thin ice, polar bears, whatever. But when experimentalists from the south disregard Eskimo advice in order to try out their own notions, the Eskimo is said to be astonished. To contradict the counsel of survival is irrational. Or such has been the tradition in the past.

Uranium industry telling its story

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Spokesmen for the uranium industry this week tackled anti-nuclear groups and conservation issues on a public relations blitz through Idaho.

"Low-level radioactivity has not been found to be harmful," said Dudley Blanke, public affairs coordinator for Union Carbide Corp. of Grand Junction, Colo., Thursday in Twin Falls.

"There is no documented death or case of cancer attributable to low-level radiation, he said.

"Any group that says so is wrong, and I will be willing to debate anyone publicly or privately about it."

Blanke is part of a team of public relations officers from the uranium exploration, mining and milling industry has been touring Idaho to talk to the press and debate with anti-nuclear groups.

On the team's last stop in Twin Falls, he and Pamela Hill Newell of Denver, public affairs director for Rampart Exploration Co., said they were part of the Uranium Task Force, an arm of the Atomic Industry Forum of Washington, D.C.

The newly formed task force, which made Idaho its first stop, represents about 50 companies, including most of the major producers of uranium and a few utilities.

PAMELA HILL-NEWELL
...showing other side

"We'd like to come back to Idaho to debate whoever wants to," Newell said, while public fear and mistrust is real, "our job and concern is to show the other side."

Blanke and Newell said they did not know of any uranium mining in Idaho although some exploration for deposits is being conducted.

The industry is depressed now, but the price for uranium is expected to go up. The industry formed the task force in anticipation of increased mining and resulting public concern in the future, Blanke said.

"Uranium mining is no different from any other mining; each has its own precautions, Blanke said. Newell said a uranium mine requires 40 to 50 permits and takes seven to 12 years from discovery to production.

"We're the most regulated industry in the country," Blanke said, referring to the nuclear industry.

The two said the industry favored the proposals of Interior Secretary James Watt to open wilderness areas to exploration and mining.

"We should find out what we have for the future. Certain materials are very vital to the nation that we depend on foreign imports for," Blanke said.

"Exploration can be done now with practically no environmental impact, he said, citing the use of helicopters. He said usually only samples of soil and water are taken.

The industry also has been hurt by frequent changes in regulations and a speed-up in bringing constructed nuclear power plants on line.

Blanke said nuclear energy costs less than all other energy sources except hydropower.

Asked about cost overruns at several nuclear power plants under construction in Washington, he said they could be due to changing regulations and rapid inflation in the costs of fuel and in interest rates.

On its Idaho tour, the uranium industry team took part in three debates in Pocatello and Boise with Nuclear Counterbalance and the Snake River Alliance, the Idaho anti-nuclear groups.

Blanke said Idahoans have expressed the same concerns about radiation and possible water pollution but they are particularly concerned about waste injections at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Idaho Falls.

Hopes propel stock market to sharp gain

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

NEW YORK — The stock market, buoyed by hopes that interest rates are near a peak, scored a sharp gain Friday that allowed Wall Street to register a successful week.

Trading was only moderate. The Dow Jones industrial average, which climbed 5.31 points Wednesday, soared 12.83 points to 855.55. The closely watched average, which hit a three-month low Monday, rose 9.55 overall for the week.

Analysts noted the Dow average had dropped more than 60 points over the past three weeks as interest rates rose and many investors found stocks selling at relatively cheap prices.

Some traders were betting that the recent rise in lending charges is about the peak. The prime rate was at 19 1/2 percent, not far from its all-time high of 21 1/2 percent set last year.

The Federal Reserve's report after the NYSE closed that the nation's money supply increased $3.1 billion in the latest week was less than some had anticipated earlier in the week.

Whether this means the Fed can ease up on the credit reins remains to be seen. Money's long-term growth rate has exceeded 10% widely.

The New York Stock Exchange index gained 0.52 to 854 and the price of an average share increased 23 cents. Advances topped declines, 974-554, among issued tradeds at 3 p.m. EDT.

Big Board volume totaled 45,460,000 shares, up a bit from the 42,750,000 traded Thursday. It still marked the 12th consecutive session that less than 50 million shares were traded.

Brokers said the relatively light turnover indicated that institutions are taking a cautious approach until they can get clear picture on the course of interest rates and the economy.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over-the-counter at 4 p.m. totaled 50,567,100 shares, compared with 48,571,500 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index jumped 1.61 to 370.90 — an all-time high — and the price of a share added 8 cents.

On the trading floor, airlines stocks were standouts amid speculation domestic producers will lower fuel costs.

American Airlines was the second most active NYSE-listed issue, up 19 1/2% in trading that included a block of 100,000 shares at 19 1/2. Northwest added 1/2 to 35 1/2 after a block of 100,000 shares at 34 1/2. Trans World jumped 3/4 to 24 1/2 with a block of 100,000 shares at 23 1/2. Delta gained 1/2 to 74 1/2 and World Airways 1/4 to 6 1/2.

American factories increase output slightly during April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite the coal strike and an end of auto rebate promotions the nation's factories increased their production in April, the Federal Reserve reported Friday.

Industrial production went up 0.4 percent in April, a sign of continuing second quarter economic growth, and would have gone up 0.7 percent except for the effects of the coal strike. Auto production accounted for about 0.1 percent of the April growth.

At the same time the first quarter's production performance was found to be stronger than originally reported. The March level of production was revised upward 0.1 percent to 0.5 percent growth. February's production level, originally reported down half a percent, was revised to show a much smaller decrease, of only 0.1 percent. All figures were seasonally adjusted.

Industrial production is one of the closest watched economic indicators since it directly affects total national output and strongly influences employment.

At 152.8, compared to a 1967 base of 100, the April Industrial Production Index was 3 percent above April of last year and half a percentage point below its pre-recession peak in March, 1979.

The Fed said April increases in industrial output were "widespread among most market groups."

Food chain aids Idaho economy

BOISE — Albertson's Inc., contributed to $27.8 million to Idaho's economy in 1980.

The food and drug supermarket company has 1,800 employees in the state with a payroll of $25 million.

Domestic auto output on upswing

DETROIT (UPI) — Domestic auto production is approaching healthy levels, and that uptick could end Ford's 6-quarter string of historic losses.

Ford Chairman Philip Caldwell told shareholders Thursday the company should operate near the break-even point in the current quarter because of modest sales gains and rigid internal economies.

The news made Ford's annual shareholders meeting a relatively upbeat affair with scant attention paid to the fact Ford hasn't earned money in six quarters and lost a record $1.5 billion last year.

Part score bidding

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Each part score is different. With 40 or more points you have three trump for game, but three of a minor suit or four of a minor is now all you need. With 30 or more you have now reduced all game requirements by one trick. A 40 part score means that two of a major is enough for game as is three of a minor.

The most common part score is 30-30. If you are one of a suit you really expect your partner to bid and he is supposed to respond with a trump suit. With 30 or seven-point minimum he needs when there is no score. This brings us directly to the problem of what to do when your partner opens one spade and you hold something like S-x, H-x-x, D-K J 10 x x, K-x-x. With no part score you either pass or respond one no trump and hope that nothing bad will happen to you. The books all say pass and we agree with them.

The situation changes materially when you have that 60 toward game. You want to play two diamonds and you should use the two-diamond or other two-over-one response as a non-forcing and possibly very weak bid. A word to the wise. Make sure your partner knows this. Then how do you invite a slam with a 60 part score? One way is to raise your partner to three. This should be a definite slam try to show at least a normal forcing jump raise. This bid is not a force, but you sure hope partner can find another bid.

Also a jump in a new suit is a slam try. This bid is a one-round force and promises that you will bid again unless opener simply makes a minimum rebid in his own suit. With 70, 80 or 90 or more the major suit call is also a bid of game. The single raise should be a very mild slam try here and you may even respond one no trump with 11 or 12 high card points. Bruin girls hold lead, Emmett helps Jerome

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Twin Falls and Emmett's girls teams may have given some points to their closest opponents in the first session of the combined State Track and Field Championships Friday.

Half of the field events were completed along with the 3,200-meter runs. Preliminaries were also held in the running events.

State Track

Twin Falls' girls took first place with a 20-15 edge on challenger but sustained a setback when sophomore Sally Butts, the leading time qualifier in both sprints, did not place in the high jump.

Meanwhile, Jerome's girls made up some ground on the Emmett girls — but mostly through miscues by Emmett.

The Huskies lost their second best intermediate hurdler — holding the second best time in the state among A-2 competitors, to a false start in the preliminaries.

In the other divisions, the Capital boys, picking up 22 points in the discus, took a commanding lead in the A-1 division with 53 points, although Borah stayed in contention with 23.

Lakeland leads the A-2 boys with 16 and Grandeville is second at 12. But that wasn't considered powerful since the battle is beyond to rage today on the track.

Jerome did have a minor setback when it failed to score in the three field events decided.

In the A-2 girls, Moscow jumped into the lead with 20 points while Bonners Ferry has 14. Jerome stayed in that chase easily with Vicki Winder winning the long jump in a classification record-setting 17.5. The Tigers also kept almost all their track people alive in preliminary heats.

Rimrock's girls and the Clark Fork boys lead the A-3 divisions.

Winder, completing her first month as a long jumper, won that event on her first leap of the day. The junior hadn't competed in the long jump until the Boise Relays in mid April. She won that competition in the same pit with a personal best of 18 feet. Winder also won her heat in the 100-meter preliminary and gained the finals in the 200.

Wood River freshman Lisa Bernhagen won the A-2 high jump but at 5-8, rather than the possible state record of 5-10. She had company through 5-6 but didn't miss until her first attempt at the winning height. After that she tried 5-10 three times and came within an eyelash on the last attempt.

"I thought I had it," she said of that final try. "No, I wasn't thinking about the record. I was just wanted to get it over."

Bernhagen said shins splints in her take off leg had made her wonder if she could even win the competition.

"I'm just happy to win. My leg has been hurting the last three weeks and

Arm wrestlers enjoy Monster meet

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — First-timers and veteran arm wrestlers tested their strength at the Turf Club Friday in a World Monster Association city tournament.

The town-based association, sanctioned since mid-March to hold tournaments in Idaho, drew more than 50 registrants prepared to plant their elbows at the "Monster" table against opponents classified by weight and age right and left-handedness.

The Twin Falls event is among tournaments the WMA is holding throughout the state. The series will wrap up when potential national contenders participate in a tournament at the Western Idaho State Fair in September.

Friday's tournament was a glorified version of the random arm wrestling matches which are as much a part of the bar scene as cigarette smoke and country music.

Instead of a countertop as their field of battle, arm wrestlers confronted one another over a table electronically rigged to signal wins as competitors gripped handles registering the force of an individual's pressure. The table gadgetry surpasses the traditional flesh grip because it reduces possible discomfort and eliminates the leverage disparity apparent when long- and short-armed wrestlers compete, said tournament organizer Greg Roth.

Rewards awaiting the best competitors Friday included titles, Coors beer novelties and medals hanging from red, white and blue ribbons. The vague resemblance to an Olympic medal helps create the kind of aura WMA likes, Roth said.

"When you give them one of these medals," he said, "they puff up just like it's the real Olympics. For most of these people, that's what it is — a chance to get up in front of people, get your name in the paper and be recognized."

Some are coaxed into competition by pushy spouses or friends, he said.

Entrants span all occupations and income levels, and typically fall in the 19-35 age bracket, according to Roth. But the post-35 set gets into the act, too. One member of that group is Dan Tobin, 44, a fire alarm distributor who lives in Twin Falls.

Tobin entered Friday's tournament after undergoing his official arm wrestling inauguration in Shoshone earlier in the week. That, too, was held by WMA and yielded a first-place honor for Tobin.

"I was up in Shoshone working, and I heard about the arm wrestling and decided I'd just be something to try," he said. Prior to the Shoshone event, his arm wrestling was confined to occasional feuds of strength among friends.

"It's just something to do on a Friday night,"

Tobin said. "About anybody can do this."

Another competitor at the Twin Falls tournament, Sid Lezamis, 22, garnered a second-place ranking in Shoshone.

"My brother and I saw an ad," said Lezamis, a Lincoln County dairyman. "I didn't want to do it, but my brother insisted. He signed me up while I milked cows."

Lezamis, awaiting his turn Friday, said his future efforts in arm wrestling hinged on the outcome of the Twin Falls tournament. If he emerged a victor Friday, he said, he might consider entering an upcoming tournament in Jerome.

"There's some excitement in it," he said, "and the way they run these things, there are no hard feelings. Everyone's just here to enjoy themselves."

The pain is minimal, Lezamis added.

"You use a lot of arm muscles, you don't use every day, so naturally you'll be a little sore. But it doesn't really hurt."

Laura New, one of eight women who signed up for the tournament, was optimistic at the start of Friday's event, but said she wouldn't rule out withdrawing if she didn't like the looks of the challenge.

"I know who some of the other girls are, and I think I can beat them," said New, 20, a Gooding farm hand. "Anyway, it's somewhat exciting, so I'm here."

Explosion

Minico scores 10 in 7th, plays Borah for crown

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

CALDWELL — The Minico Spartans exploded for 10 runs in the seventh inning Friday night to move past Meridian 10-3 Friday night and into the finals of the Idaho State Baseball Tournament.

Borah High will face the Spartans for the state championship at 8 p.m. today, having edged Coeur d'Alene 7-6 in eight innings in the other semifinal game at its own field Friday night.

State Baseball

"Coach (co-coach Craig Dexter) and I were looking at each other and thinking if we could just get one more run we could win it," Minico skipper Rick Baumann said. "We were bunting to get our runner to third and then the middle of the lineup — just exploded."

For six innings Minico's Dane Kay and Meridian's Tony Aramburo and Meridian locked in a nail-biting pitcher's duel but suddenly, Minico tipped four consecutive hits, two for extra bases, and Meridian's defense collapsed with five errors and the Spartans scored on every one.

It started with Tracy Wodskow leading off the top of the seventh with a single. Lynn VanEvery sacrificed him to second before Jeff Schow slammed a lowering triple to the deepest part of centerfield, more than 400 feet away.

Ken Parkin drilled a double to the leftfield power alley and Gus Christiansen followed with a single. Cliff Hanks' single sent in the third run of the inning and Aramburo to the show.

Baumann said he has made no decision as to who will pitch in tonight's finale at the Borah High School field. Christiansen has not yet pitched for the Spartans although he is listed as a starter. Temporarily Baumann's thinking on that matter however was his comment, "If we move Gus off first, we create quite a hole for ourselves."

Schow highlighted the Minico seventh with another triple to almost the identical spot as the first. This time Baumann coaching at third base, let the junior go for the inside-the-park home run.

"It took two perfect relay throws to get him and it was still a close play," Baumann said. "But, yep, I won the homer."

Russ Wright greeted reliever Gary Tiffin with a single and then came Meridian's five straight errors that piled up the score.

Bruins hold lead Meyerhoeffer, Barry gain state golf crowns

BOISE — The two medalists from this year's Idaho High School Golf Tournament came from Magic Valley schools.

State Golf

Twin Falls' Steve Meyerhoeffer, a junior participating in his second state tournament, fired an even-par 72 over the Twin Falls Springs Golf course to take medalist honors in Class A. Jerome's Jeff Barry copied the feat, shooting a 76 to lead all Class B golfers.

"Today was one of my smoothest rounds of the year," Meyerhoeffer said. "It really kind of surprised me, too, because this course really isn't suited to my style of play. But today it worked and that's all that counts, I guess."

Meyerhoeffer got off to a slow start, three-putting two of the first five holes. But he recovered after three-putting No. 5 and it was smooth sailing from that point.

"I'm sure it was just pre-tournament jitters," he said. "After that, I greeted all my approach shots and two-putted all the holes. Both my birds-also came from the back nine."

Friday's round was strictly for medalist play and team qualifying for today's finals. After medalist honors were decided, the top four teams in each division were selected to play in the finals, set for 8 a.m.

In the Class A team race, Twin Falls took advantage of Meyerhoeffer's score to take the first-round lead with a 31. Following Meyerhoeffer, Dave Rasmussen fired a 78, Jim Mecham rounded out the Bruins' scoring with an 82.

Borah and Lewiston stand behind Twin Falls, each with 3185 and Caldwell sneaked into the final round with a 319 effort.

"I'm pretty impressed with our play today," Twin Falls Coach Al

First in majors since 1968 Barker throws perfect game

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Len Barker of the Cleveland Indians, aided by Tom Verzyr's fine fielding play in the first inning, pitched his first perfect game since 1968 and the 300th no-hitter in the major leagues this week Friday night in stopping the Toronto Blue Jays, 3-0.

The 25-year-old right-hander, who led the American League in strikeouts last season, struck out 11 in recording the first perfect game in the majors since Jim "Catfish" Hunter of Oakland defeated Minnesota, 4-0, on May 8, 1968. It was the first time the Blue Jays had been no-hit in their brief six-year history.

Barker's no-hitter was the first by an Indians' pitcher since Dennis Eckersley stopped California, 1-0, on May 30, 1977, and came just five days after Charlie Leis of the Montreal Expos tossed a no-hitter against the San Francisco Giants in the National League.

Using mostly fastballs in recording the second perfect game in Indians' history and the eighth in post-1900 major-league history, Barker had only one batter come close to getting a hit. That came in the first inning when the leadoff batter, Aurelio Griffin, grounded one up the middle, which shortstop Verzyr grabbed after ranging fast to his left and barely nipped the speedy Blue Jays' shortstop at first base.

Third baseman Toby Harrah also turned in fine defensive play on a foul ball when he reached far into the third base stands just beyond the Turner dugout to catch Willie Upshaw's third pop with one out in the fifth.

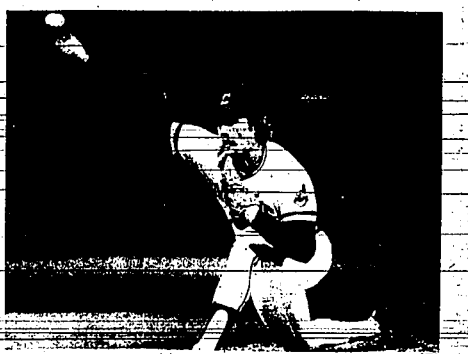

Barker, whose fastball has been timed at 96 miles per hour, allowed only four fly balls and got stronger as the game wore on — recording all of his strikeouts after the third inning. A 19-game winner last season, Barker's victory was his third in four decisions this year.

With a sparse crowd of 7,200 screaming on every pitch in the final inning, Barker completed his perfect game by retiring Rick Bossetti on a foul pop to Harrah, striking out pinch hitter Al Woods swinging on three pitches and getting pinch hitter Ernie White on a fly to the left fielder Rick Manning. As soon as the final out was recorded, the Indians' players mobbed Barker and the fans swarmed onto the field in joyous celebration.

The Indians got Barker all the runs he needed in the first inning against Luis Leal, 2-4. Manning led off with a single and raced to third when first baseman John Mayberry let Mike Hargrove's one-out grounder get by him for an error. Manning scored on Andre Thornton's sacrifice fly and

Bold Ego and Top Avenger could pull upset in Preakness

BALTIMORE (UPI) — An uncertainty hovers over Pimlico Race Course. As today's 106th edition of the $200,000-added Preakness Stakes draws near, an upset, a surprise of some nature, seems to be the one thing people are willing to predict.

According to logic, Pleasant Colony, Woodchopper and Partez merit the bulk of consideration to win the second jewel-of-racing's Triple Crown. Yet most of the experts who have called this aging track their office for a week can't seem to follow logic.

Bold Ego and Top Avenger, a pair of speed horses with questionable heart, have drawn much attention. A Run-one of two Larry Barrera-trained colts, is fully recovered from a nasty fever attributed to "vax sickness" and has the ability to pull off a shocker. Highland Blade, a Damascus colt who finished second to Pleasant Colony in the Wood Memorial, is well-rested and looking fit. The field, however, was reduced to 13 Thursday with Pass the Tab being scratched.

Track officials said no reason was given for the change, but the colt was expected to be the scratch if the Pimlico track turned sloppy. The scratch freed jockey Angel Cordero to ride Flying Nashua. Cordero had been listed on both horses.

"I don't know what's gonna happen," said John Campo. "I don't get paid to think."

Those are uncharacteristic words from the trainer of Pleasant Colony, to say the least. Campo has boldly predicted victories before the Wood and the Kentucky

Derby and the fast-talking "Fat Man" was right both times. Suddenly, the predictions have ceased.

"You want me to handicap the race? Camp asked Friday. "Oh, Fat Man will win. Fatario is second, Bold Ego third and Highland Blade fourth."

Campo was kidding, of course, purposely omitting his own colt from the top of the list. But this kind of joking shouldn't be taken lightly. As one track official said, "It looks like we've got ourselves a horse race."

It certainly does.

With the horses left the gate two weeks ago in the Derby and a record pace at the start combined with a stretch run that looked like a wild west stampede, make the Preakness hard to call.

Colts like Flying Nashua and Woodchopper were boxed

in the crowd at Churchill and should have more room to negotiate Pimlico's harrowing turns.

There are come-from-behind specialists like Pleasant Colony and Woodchopper and speed demons like Bold Ego and Top Avenger that may well dictate the pace. And to top it off, the weatherman may prove uncooperative with a chance of rain forecast for Preakness day.

David Whiteley, who trains Highland Blade, summed up the uncertainty.

"We don't know if our horse even belongs here," Whiteley said. "Maybe Pleasant Colony has worked a bit too hard in the last few weeks and maybe all that shipping around has taken something out of him. Who knows? I'll be guessing just like the rest of you."

Oglivie's bat powers Milwaukee past A's, 3-0

By United Press International

Ben Oglivie rapped out two singles and a triple and drove in two runs Friday night, lifting the Milwaukee Brewers to a 3-0 victory over the Oakland A's.

Brewers' starter Pete Vuckovich allowed five hits through seven innings and boosted his record to 3-2 with relief help from Jamie Easterly in the eighth and Rolfe Fingers in the ninth. Milwaukee had lost seven of its last eight games.

Oglivie knocked in Milwaukee's

American League

first run with a single in the first inning following a single by Roy Howell and a walk to Gorman Thomas. The Brewers struck again in the sixth when Oglivie singled and Steve McCatty, 4-3, when Thomas doubled. Oglivie singled and Ted Simmons delivered a sacrifice fly.

In the fifth, Cecil Cooper doubled and Oglivie chased McCatty with a two-out triple to the center field wall.

Rickey Henderson, who opened the game with a single and two stolen bases, was the only Oakland runner to reach third base.

Seattle at New York was rained out.

giving way to Comer, who recorded his fourth save.

Detroit 5, California 1
At Detroit, Jack Morris, 4-3, pitched a six-hitter and Rick Leach drove in two runs to snap the Angels' five-game winning streak.

Boston 4, Kansas City 3
At Boston, Carney Lansford lashed a bases-loaded single with two outs in the ninth inning. With two outs, Carl Yastrzemski walked, Jim Rice singled and Tony Perez walked to fill the bases. Lansford then hit an 0-1 pitch off Rene Martin, 0-1, into right field.

Baltimore 6, Minnesota 4
At Bloomington, Minn., Ken Singleton cracked a home run and two singles and drove in four runs to spark a 19-hit attack. Singleton hit his eighth home run of the season following an RBI single by Rich Dauer off Joser Pete Redfern, 3-3, in the first then singled in two runs in the eighth after the Twins had closed to within 5-4 in the sixth on Gary Ward's two-run homer.

Niekro fires four-hitter as Houston defeats Cubs

The National League East has been sother enough of the Niekro brothers this week.

Tuesday night, Atlanta's Phil Niekro tossed a two-hit shutout at Pittsburgh and Friday night, Joe Niekro pitched the Houston Astros to a 5-0 triumph over the hapless Chicago Cubs, firing a four-hitter.

Alan Ashby and Terry Puhl each drove in two runs to help the Astros to the home triumph.

It was the first shutout of the season for Joe Niekro, who walked two and struck out two in raising his record to 4-3 and dropping the Cubs to 5-23.

Houston scored three runs in the fourth inning off starter Bill Cavallini, 0-3. Dan Heep drilled a one-out single to right field and Art Howe extended his hitting streak to 15 games with a double into the right field corner. Ashby then brought both runners home with a double down the right field line and Puhl followed with a two-run single.

The Astros added another run off reliever Ken Kravec in the sixth. Howe and Rafael Landestory walked and Joe Niekro singled through the left side of the infield to load the bases with one out. Puhl then lofted a sacrifice fly deep to right to score Howe.

In the seventh, Denny Walling led off with a single to center, went to third on Heep's single and scored Houston's fifth-run when Howe grounded out to third.

Atlanta 11, St. Louis 3
Bruce Benedict slammed a three-run homer to key a seven-run sixth inning rally and Glenn Hubbard drove in four runs to power the Braves at home. The Braves trailed 3-2 and pitcher Larry Sorensen, 4-2, had allowed only two hits until the Braves sent 11 men to the plate in the sixth. The key blowers were Benedict's third homer of the season and Hubbard's two-run single. Hubbard also doubled in two runs for the Braves in the seventh. Reliever Preston Hanna, 2-0, picked up the victory.

The Dodgers scored a run in the first on an RBI double by Garvey and they drove Randy Jones from the mound in the second on a solo homer by Steve Yeager, an error by shortstop Frank Taveras and singles by Landreaux, Baker and Garvey.

Coe plans assault on run times

LONDON (UPI) — The Olympic star Sebastian Coe, who won the 1,500-meter championship and 800-meter silver medalist, plans a major assault on the world record books this season.

"The greatest reward the 1,500 meters gold medal brought was freedom," said Coe in his book "Running Free," to be published May 25.

"It freed me to do what I enjoy — to set about the record books in 1981 without the accusation that I'm trying to justify myself in the only way I can. I want to go out this summer not bothering about spits and pee-makers, and to do it myself, as I did in 1979, when I broke three world records."

"The Olympics got in the way of that. They impose false restrictions. Of course I finished up with a gold plus a silver in the 800 meters and another world record — but I prefer to run what I really enjoy doing."

The 24-year-old Loughborough University student wants to lower his own 800-meter mark of 1 minute 42.33 seconds and regain the 1,500-meter and one mile records he lost to Soviet star Steve Ovett, the Olympic 800 meters champion. Ovett's records stand at 3:31.4 for the 1,500 and 3:48.8 for the mile.

But Coe wants to do more than just better the world marks, he wants to pulverize them.

"This time I hope not just nibble the records but to improve them substantially," he said.

"What I really want from athletics is an 800 meters in under 1 minute 42 seconds, a 1,500 in under 3 minutes 30 seconds and a mile in under 3 minutes 47 seconds."

"I want to run for myself, for the pure fun and exhilaration of running at speeds that have not been run before. If everything goes right this should be my best-ever season."

Pirates place Parker on disabled list

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the two-time National League batting champion and 1978 Most Valuable Player, has been placed on the 15-day disabled list with a slight tear of the right achilles tendon.

The disablement is retroactive to Thursday.

The Pirates said they had purchased the contract of utility man and pinch-runner Matt Alexander from their AAA farm team in Portland, Ore., to take Parker's spot on the roster.

Parker, who underwent off-season knee surgery, began experiencing trouble with the tendon last season. It continued to bother him this year and he aggravated it earlier this week in Atlanta. He was disabled following an examination Friday by orthopedist Dr. Jack Falla.

Falla also re-examined left-handed starter John Candalaria, who was placed on the 21-day disabled list earlier this week with a torn bicep in his pitching arm.

Falla said the arm was much improved and no surgery seemed likely, the team spokesman reported.

Reed, other locals defeated during state tennis event

By MARY GIL
Times-News sports editor

SUN VALLEY — Gooding's Gwen Reed is fortunate the format was changed for the State Tennis Tournament this year.

Reed's two-year winning streak came to a halt here Friday afternoon as Chris Schreiber of American Falls won a semifinal match on the cold and windy Sun Valley Tennis Club courts.

Last year the tourney was single elimination and Reed would have been out of the running for the state title. But the event is double elimination for the first time this year and Reed has a chance to work her way back to possibly defend her state Class B girls singles championship.

Reed started the day strong Friday by taking just 35 minutes to dispose of Valluue's Kathy Voris, 6-0, 6-1.

Schreiber and Reed met in the championship finals last year and it's likely the two could meet later today for the crown.

ROSBURG—Gr.— First round action of the Region 18 baseball tournament was rained out Friday and re-scheduled for today and Sunday.

Tournament officials tried to work around the rain, but the farthest any game went was the second inning of the College of Southern—Idaho-Linnton game.

Officials will try again to open the tournament against defending champion Linn Benton this morning at 10 a.m. (MDT). Umpqua and North Idaho College will also play at that time.

The two winners will play at 2:30 p.m. along with the two losers in an elimination game at the same time. The loser of the winner's bracket game and the winner of the loser's bracket game will play in today's final game at 8 p.m. The loser there will be eliminated.

The winners of today's winner's bracket game won't see action again until Sunday at a time to be announced. That winner will play the winner of tonight's final game and must be defeated twice to be denied a berth in the national tournament in Grand Junction, Colo., May 23-30.

Golf

ROHWEDER said, "I knew if I could shoot a 310, we would have a chance. I was only one off but I'm still very optimistic."

As for the competition, Rohweder says Boise will be tough.

"They have a couple of good golfers and our lead isn't that much," he said about the Braves. "It's less than two points a man and a team can make that up in just a few holes. Lewiston and Caldwell had a few outstanding scores that I don't think they can repeat today."

Burley suffered disappointment in being the fifth team after the first day, thus keeping it out of today's runner. To make the setback more bitter, Burley missed the cut by one stroke.

Shane Wall led the Bobcats with a 77. Tolbert and Dave Parker's 76, Mark Owens' 75 and Dan Simpson shot an 86 to tally a 320 team score.

Rounding out the Class A scores, Capital had 324, Pocatello 327, Coeur d'Alene 328, Meridian 335, Skyline 336 and Idaho Falls picked up the rear with a 349.

Shelley leads the Class B team chase with a 323 while defending champion St. Maries is second at 333. Preston has a 334 and Wallace is at 339.

Middleton's Ken Stevens was a single stroke behind Barry with a 77 while Mark Spaulding of Meadows Valley and Jerry Hingham of Sheslay each shot a 78 today to make it two golfers within two strokes.

Though Barry enjoyed the day with his individual effort, the Tigers as a team didn't.

Jerome fired a 341 — just two shots away from making today's final.

Other teams that failed to advance were Madison 340, Moscow and Pallett at 342, Boise State 343, Aberdeen 348, American Falls 350, Valluue 361, Rigby 364 and Emmet 369.

Flier had the best showing in the girls A-3 division, scoring nine points. Eight of those came on the second-place finish of Gja Oehsner in the 3,200-meter run.

In the girls A-1, Twin Falls juniors Tammy Crow and Julie Yergensen finished two-four as the 3,200 followed form. Crow, who is more intent on defending her 800-meter title and record today, was easily second behind Caldwell's Lucia Wanders. Yergensen, the defending champion, put out of condition now because of a foot injury, wasn't able to hold off Pocatello's Roanna Thompson in a stretch race for third.

Sophomore Macie Miller added eight points to the team total with second place in the long jump.

On the track, Buis and Dina Liberti qualified easily in the sprints, although Liberti couldn't overcome Boise's Nancy Stueckle in her 400-meter heat. Both bettered 60 seconds with Stueckle winning by perhaps a yard.

"That's the first time I've run against her this year," Liberti answered a question. "No, I didn't have a lot left," she said when asked if she had simply coasted in, knowing she had the finals made.

Robin McDevitt of Buhl came up with her all-time best in winning the girls 3,200 in 11:50. She paced with a four-minute lead through the first three laps and then took the lead and pushed steadily away.

"Oh, this is my best time," the Buhl senior said. "My previous best was

Bold Ego and Top Avenger could pull upset in Preakness

BALTIMORE (UPI) — An uncertainty hovers over Pimlico Race Course.

As today's 106th edition of the $200,000-added Preakness Stakes draws near, an upset, a surprise of some nature, seems to be the one thing people are willing to predict.

According to logic, Pleasant Colony, Woodchopper and Partez merit the bulk of consideration as the second jewel of racing's Triple Crown. Yet most of the experts who have called this aging track their office for a week can't seem to follow logic.

Bold Ego and Top Avenger, a pair of speed horses with questionable hearts, have drawn much attention. A run, one of two Larry Barrows-trained colts, is fully recovered from a nasty fever attributed to "van sickness" and has the ability to pull off a shocker. Highland Blade, a Damascus colt who finished second to Pleasant Colony in the Wood Memorial, is well-rested and looking fit.

The field, however, was reduced to 13 Thursday with Pass the Tab being scratched.

Track officials said no reason was given for the change, but the colt was expected to be scratched if the Pimlico track turned sloppy. The scratch freed jockey Angel Cordero to ride Flying Nashua. Cordero had been listed on both horses.

"I don't know what's gonna happen," said John Campo. "I don't get paid to think."

Those are uncharacteristic words from the trainer of Pleasant Colony, to say the least. Campo has boldly predicted victories before the Wood and the Kentucky

Derby and the fast-talking "Fat Man" was right both times. Suddenly, the predictions have ceased.

"You want me to handicap the race? Camp asked Friday. "OK, Partez will win, Paristo is second, Bold Ego third and Highland Blade fourth."

Campo was kidding, of course, purposely omitting his own colt from the top of the list. But this kind of joking shouldn't be taken lightly. As one track official said, "It looks like we've got ourselves a horse race."

It certainly does.

Twenty-one horses left the gate two weeks ago in the Derby and a record pace at the start combined with a wrench run that looked like a wild west stampede, make the Preakness hard to call.

Colts like Flying Nashua and Woodchopper were boxed

in the crowd at Churchill and should have more room to negotiate Pimlico's harrowing turns.

There are come-from-behind specialists like Pleasant Colony and Woodchopper and speed demons like Bold Ego and Top Avenger that may well dictate the pace. And to top it off, the weatherman may prove uncooperative with a chance of rain forecast for Preakness day.

David Whiteley, who trains Highland Blade, summed up the uncertainty.

"We don't know if our horse even belongs here, Whiteley said. "Maybe Pleasant Colony has worked a bit too hard in the last few weeks and maybe all that shoving around has taken something out of him. Who knows? I'll be guessing just like the rest of you."

Perfect Oglivie's bat powers Milwaukee past A's, 3-0

Hargrove scored on a single by Ron Hassey.

George Orta led off the eighth with his second home run of the season to cap the scoring.

A native of Fort Knox, Ky., Barker signed with the Texas Rangers' organization in 1973 after a standout all-around athletic career at Neshaminy High School in Trevose, Pa. He spent the better part of his first four seasons in the Rangers' farm system before making the big club as a relief pitcher late in the 1977 campaign.

In his first season with Texas, Barker posted a 4-1 record with a 2.66 ERA in 15 games that opened his campaign at Tucson. He rejoined the Rangers early in the season but struggled with his control and posted only a 1-5 record with a 4.85 ERA.

Barker was traded to Cleveland with outfielder Bobby Beale for pitcher Jim Kerr and infielder Larvell Blanks on Oct. 3, 1978, and last year he came into his own as a member of the Indians' starting corps.

Posting a 19-12 record with a 4.17 ERA, Barker won more games than any Cleveland pitcher since Gaylord Perry won 21 in 1974 and was the first Indians' pitcher to lead the league in strikeouts (187) since Sam McDowell. After the All-Star break, Barker really found the groove, registering a 12-5 mark with a 3.45 ERA.

Ben Oglivie rapped out two singles and a triple and drove in two runs Friday night, lifting the Milwaukee Brewers to a 3-0 victory over the Oakland Athletics.

Brewers' starter Pete Vuckovich allowed five hits through seven innings and boosted his record to 3-2 with relief help from Jamie Easterly in the eighth and Rolfe Fingers in the ninth. Milwaukee had lost seven of its last eight games.

Oglivie knocked in Milwaukee's

American League

first run with a single in the first inning following a single by Roy Howell and a walk to Gorman Thomas. The Brewers struck again in the third against starter and loser Steve Oglivie, single and Ted Simmons delivered a sacrifice fly.

In the fifth, Cecil Cooper doubled and Oglivie chased McCatty with a two-out triple to the center field wall. Rickey Henderson, who opened the game with a single and two stolen bases, was the only Oakland runner to reach run that looked like a wild west stampede, make the Preakness hard to call.

Seattle at New York was rained out.

Texas 2, Chicago 1

At Chicago, Ferguson Jenkins and Steve Comer combined on a three-inning and Al Oliver's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning snapped a 1-1 tie. Jenkins, 2-2, struck out four and walked six in 7 1/3 innings before giving way to Comer, who recorded his fourth save.

Detroit 5, California 1

At Detroit, Jack Morris, 4-3, pitched a six-hitter and Rick Leahy drove in two runs to snap the Angels' five-game winning streak.

Boston 4, Kansas City 3

At Boston, Carney Lansford lashed a bases-loaded single with two outs in the ninth inning. With two outs, Carl Yastrzemski walked, Jim Rice singled and Tony Perez walked to fill the bases. Lansford then hit an 0-1 pitch off Renie Martin, 0-1, into right field.

Baltimore 9, Minnesota 4

At Bloomington, Minn., Ken Singleton cracked a home run and two singles and drove in four runs to spark a 19-hit attack. Singleton hit his eighth homer of the season following an RBI single by Rich Dauer off loser Pete Reifers, 3-3, in the first then singles in two runs in the eighth after the Twins had closed to within 5-4 in the sixth on Gary Ward's two-run homer.

Niekro fires four-hitter as Houston defeats Cubs

By United Press International

The National League East has seen quite enough of the Niekro brothers this week.

Tuesday night, Atlanta's Phil Niekro tossed a two-hit shutout at Pittsburgh and Friday night, Joe Niekro pitched the Houston Astros to a 5-0 triumph over the hapless Chicago Cubs, firing a four-hitter.

Alan Ashby and Terry Puhl each drove in two runs to help the Astros to the home triumph.

It was the first shutout of the season for Joe Niekro, who walked two and struck out two in raising his record to 4-3 and dropping the Cubs to 5-23.

Houston scored three runs in the fourth inning off starter Bill Caudill, 0-3. Dan Heep drilled a one-out single to right field and Art Howe extended his hitting streak to 15 games with a double into the right field corner. Ashby then brought both runners home with a double down the right field line and Puhl followed with a run-scoring single.

The Astros added another run off reliever Ken Kravec in the sixth. Howe and Rafael Landestry walked and Joe Niekro singled through the left side of the infield to load the bases with one out. Puhl then lofted a sacrifice fly deep to right to score Howe.

In the seventh, Denny Walling led

off with a single to center, went to third on Heep's single and scored Houston's fifth run when Howe grounded out to third.

Atlanta 11, St. Louis 3

Bruce Benedict slammed a three-run homer to key a seven-run sixth inning rally and Glenn Hubbard drove in four runs to power the Braves at home. The Braves trailed 3-2 and pitcher Larry Sorensen, 4-2, had allowed only two hits until the Braves sent 11 men to the plate in the sixth. The key blows were Benedict's third homer of the season and Hubbard's two-run single. Hubbard also doubled in two runs for the Braves in the seventh. Reliever Preston Hanna, 2-0, picked up the victory.

Cincinnati 4, Pittsburgh 1

First-baseman Jason Thompson's error on Ron Oester's one out, bases-loaded grounder in the ninth inning scored George Foster with the go-ahead run and triggered a three-run rally that lifted Cincinnati on the road. The Reds loaded the bases in the ninth on a single by Foster, a sacrifice by Johnny Bench, an intentional walk to Joe Nolan, a wild pitch and a walk to pinch hitter Larry Blittner by losing reliever Enrique Romo. Thompson then booted Oester's grounder as Oester scored and pinch runner Dan Driessen scored on Junior Kennedy's sacrifice fly off reliever Jack Jackson. Sam Mejias then singled home the final run of the inning.

Philadelphia 2, San Diego 1

Steve Gariton tossed a five-hitter and Mike Schmidt singled home two runs and cut down the potential tying run at the plate with a strong relay throw in the ninth inning to lead Philadelphia.

Gariton, raising his record to 7-0 in the best start of his career, walked three and struck out nine in going the distance for the sixth time in eight starts. He missed a shutout when the Padres scored in the seventh on a two-out single by Broderick Perkins and a triple by Luis Salazar. Perkins, who leads the majors in hitting with a .413 mark, extended his hitting streak to 14 games.

San Francisco 4, Montreal 2

San Francisco's Jerry Martin, making a rare start, tripled and hit a home run.

Martin tripled and scored on a single by Milt May in the second inning and capped a three-run rally off losing pitcher Steve Rogers, 3-3, in the third inning. The Giants scored their other two third-inning runs on a walk to Bill North, Jack Clark's triple and a sacrifice fly by Darrell Evans.

Los Angeles 6, New York 5

Ron Cey's one-out, bases-loaded single to center in the ninth inning scored Davey Lopes with the winning run.

Lopes led off the bottom of the ninth with a double off Neil Allen, 2-1, the third Mets' pitcher, and advanced to third on Ken Landreaux's ground out. Dusty Baker and Steve Garvey were both then intentionally walked before Cey delivered his game-winning hit.

New York scored a run in the second on Joel Youngblood's second home run of the season and scored four more in the seventh on a two-run single by John Stearns and a two-run homer by Lee Mazzilli.

The Dodgers scored a run in the first on an RBI double by Garvey and they drove Randy Jones from the mound in the second on a two-run homer by Steve Yeager, an error by shortstop Frank Taveras and singles by Landreaux, Baker and Garvey.

Coe plans assault on run times

LONDON (UPI) — British running star Sebastian Coe, the Olympic 1,500-meter champion and 800-meter silver medalist, plans a "sneak attack" on the world record books this season.

"The greatest reward is the 1,500 meter," Coe said, "because it was freedom." He said Coe in his book "Running Free," to be published May 25.

"It freed me to do what I enjoy — to set about the record books in 1978 without the accusation that I'm trying to justify myself in the only way I can. I want to go out this summer not bothering about spills and pace-makers and do it myself, as I did in 1979, when I broke three world records."

The Olympics got in the way of that. They impose false restrictions. Of course I finished up with a gold — plus a silver in the 800 meters and another world record — but it interrupted what I really enjoy doing.

The 26-year-old Lamborough University student wants to lower his own 800-meter mark of 1 minute 42.33 seconds and regain the 1,500 meters and one mile records he lost to compatriot Steve Ovett, the Olympic 800 meters champion. Ovett's records stand at 3:51.4 for the 1,500 and 3:48.8 for the mile.

But Coe wants to do more than just better the world marks, he wants to pulverize them.

"This time I hope not just nibble the records but to improve them substantially," he said.

"What I really want from athletics is an 800 meters in under 1 minute 42 seconds, a 1,500 in under 3 minutes 30 seconds and a mile in under 3 minutes 47 seconds."

Coe wants to run for myself, for the pure fun and exhilaration of running at speeds that have not been run before. If everything goes right this should be my best-ever season."

Pirates place Parker on disabled list

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the two-time National League batting champion and 1978 Most Valuable Player, has been placed on the 15-day disabled list because of a slight tear of the right Achilles tendon.

The disablement is retroactive to Thursday.

The Pirates said they had purchased the contract of utility man and pinch-runner Matt Alexander from their AAA farm team in Portland, Ore., to take Parker's spot on the roster.

Parker, who underwent off-season knee surgery, began experiencing trouble with the tendon last season. It continued to bother him this year and he aggravated it earlier this week in Atlanta. He was disabled following an examination Friday by orthopedist Dr. Jack Falla.

Falla also re-examined left-handed starter John Candelaria, who was placed on the 21-day disabled list earlier this week with a torn bicep in his pitching arm.

Falla said the arm was much improved and no surgery seemed likely, the team spokesman reported.

Boston parties with cigars, champagne

By MIKE DOWNEY
© 1981 Chicago Sun-Times

HOUSTON — Hey, Red Auerbach, how about a cigar?
Uh, what's the magic word?
Pleeeeeease.
That's better, Red said, and then he handed a couple of smelly stogies to Chris Ford and Kevin McHale, two of the Boston Celtics who had just won the NBA championship.

They were entitled to victory cigars after having held off the Houston Rockets 102-91 in Thursday night's sixth game of the NBA finals. It was the 14th title for the franchise, but the first for most of these Celtics, some of whom played on Boston's 29-53 team of 1979.

They were 62-20 this season and then they bulldozed past the Bulls, came back from a 3-1 deficit to beat the Philadelphia 76ers, and lost twice to the Rockets before putting the series in the bag.

It didn't come easy. Ahead by 17 points with 10 minutes remaining in Thursday's game, Boston was held to four points in the first 7:56 of the final period. The Rockets got within 36-33 before Larry Bird did them in. Bird's three-point shot from the deep corner with 1:37 to play was the beginning of the end for the Rockets.

And so they celebrated. Series MVP Cornbread Maxwell sprayed champagne at the CBS-TV cameras. Bird got a champagne shampoo. And McHale and Ford lit up two of Auerbach's cigars, the traditional smoke enjoyed by the Celtics' general manager after winning these events.

"Hey, Red," said McHale, the happy-go-lucky rookie. "No wonder you smoke these. These are good, man."

Kevin's just glowing because he's 1-for-1 now," said Ford. "He didn't go through what the rest of us did. But he's part of the team and the team did it."

Boston's teamwork was obvious. Their balance admirable and their glory shared. All five starters scored in double figures Thursday. The team hit 55 percent of its shots. Bird had 27 points and 13 assists to show the way, but Maxwell added 19 and Robert Parish 18. And Tiny Archibald had 12 assists, nine in the first half.

The Summit's sellout crowd of 16,121 saw the Rockets bolt to a 6-0 lead, only to trail most of the half. Houston Coach Del Harris tried some new strategy with center Moses Malone guarding Maxwell and tried some psychology by drawing his second technical foul of the series, an oddity for the mild-mannered minister.

The game plan worked somewhat. Maxwell wasn't as effective as he had been the last three games. Parish scored 10 quick points against Billy Paulz, but picked up his third foul 8 1/2 minutes into the game. When they were five points down at halftime, the Rockets had hope. Then they fell behind 84-67 and looked absolutely hopeless.

It was Malone who had knocked the Celtics during the series, saying he didn't think they were all that hot. It also was Malone who held the fort. He finished with a 23-point, 16-rebound effort, helped out considerably by Robert Reid's 27 points. And when it was over, Malone took off his hat to the Celtics — but said what he had been saying all along.

"Hey, you got to hand it to 'em, they're the world champs, but I've got no regrets, no regrets at all. We were the Western champs, they were the Eastern champs, and Philadelphia was still the best team. Boston beat us, and I respect 'em for that, but I meant what I said. They're good, not great."

Asked why he had said all the things he had, Malone answered: "I felt I had to. Remember what Maxwell said when Boston was playing Philly? He said if we beat the 76ers, we'll be the world champs. He acted like the Houston Rockets didn't even exist. Well, I said what I had to say. I said it and it's over. They won, we didn't. That's the way it goes."

And goes and goes. It seems, for the Celtics, who have been to the finals 15 times and have lost only once.

"These kids had tradition," said Auerbach, "but for most of them, they were here for the first time. They could have folded like a tent, but they never, never, never quit. So I say to them, ya-hoo!"

NOTES: Houston guard Calvin Murphy, injured Tuesday in a collision with Boston center Rick Robey, was out of action Thursday with a separated shoulder. Banner in Boston: "Hooray for Eddie Haskell!" Why have one for Beaver Cleaver's nickname. Dave Covers gave it to him, saying once that Robey "was like Eddie Haskell" — he has a lot of growing up to do. Robert Reid refers to the overly aggressive Robey as "Dave Covers without brackets."

Another Boston banner — "This one about Parish: 'Is Parish Burning?'"

Parish has been the only player in this series not speaking to the press.

Fitch said Malone claimed to have been misquoted during some of his derogatory remarks about Boston. Malone said he wasn't. Was Fitch just trying to give Malone room to ball out? This is the 15th time the Celtics have been in the finals. The only time they lost was in 1958, in six games to St. Louis.

Weather delays Colonial

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — Violent thunderstorms Friday washed out the second round of the $300,000 Colonial National Invitation with leader Hale Irwin still on the lightning-hit course.

Irwin, pushing ahead of first-round leaders Raymond Floyd and Mike Sullivan, finished 15 holes of the second round at three-under-par before the storm hit. Fuzzy Zoeller was also at three-under but had not begun his second round.

Only four threesomes completed play Friday.

The heavy black clouds rolled from the north toward the lush 7,190-yard, par-70 Colonial course at noon. And when lightning started flashing, tournament officials suspended play.

The players marked their positions and will resume the second round from those spots today at 10:30 a.m. MDT to accommodate television broadcasts. The final two rounds will be played Sunday.

Jerry Heard, one of the young lions on the tour during the early 1970s with five victories, shot what he called his best round in five years Friday, a five-under-par 65 which put him at one-under for the tournament at 139.

The final two holes were particularly tense for Heard, who nevertheless parred Nos. 17 and 18, playing under a strange mental condition for a golfer — fear.

"I had the shakes," he said.

They started on the 17th fairway when the lightning first appeared.

Heard's nervousness was understandable. In 1975 at the Western Open in Chicago, Heard and playing partners Lee Trevino and Bobby Nichols were waiting out a rain delay on the course, crouching under umbrellas when lightning hit the ground near them, putting all three in the hospital.

Both Floyd and Sullivan lost their first round lead on the first nine Friday. Sullivan had finished only three-point shot from the deep corner with 1:37 to play was the beginning of the end for the Rockets.

And so they celebrated. Series MVP Cornbread Maxwell sprayed champagne at the CBS-TV cameras. Bird got a champagne shampoo. And McHale and Ford lit up two of

Whitworth leads women

PARAMUS, N.J. (UPI) — Kathy Whitworth, the all-time leading money winner among women golfers, shot a scrambling four-under-par 69 Friday to share the opening-round lead with three others in a $125,000 LPGA tournament.

Also at 69 on a windy afternoon at the 6,151-yard Ridgewood Country Club were Janet Coles, Shelby Hamlin, with four consecutive birdies on the back nine, and Barbara Moxness.

Beth Daniel, the 1980 Player of the Year, had two birdie putts of 20 feet and another of 25 but suffered her only bogey of the day on No. 17 to fall one shot behind the leaders at 70.

Tied with Daniel were Dot Germain, Mary Dwyer and Betty Burfelndt.

Whitworth, winner of 80 LPGA events since 1959 and $358,363 in official prize money, putted it well to register eight birdies to go with four bogeys. She had two birdie putts of more than 20 feet and another 20-footer to save par on the fourth hole.

Coles, playing in the morning when there was less wind, also was hot with her putter, sinking putts of 20, 10, 60 and 30 feet among her six birdies.

Moxness, who celebrated her 28th birthday earlier this week, had all five of her birdies on the front nine, including a 16-foot putt on her second hole and a 20-footer on the 11th.

Hamlin hit every green for the first time this year and was ecstatic following her last finish which included a 23-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole.

Nancy Lopez-Melton, the leading money winner on the tour this year, had a 77 and Amy Alcott, winner of last week's tournament, opened with a 75.

Lawyer says Rutledge should help pay costs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Kevin Rutledge was motivated by greed in his pursuit of a lawsuit against Frank Kush and others, the state should be forced to defray some of the costs of defense, an attorney argued Friday.

Michael Gallagher, who represented the state Board of Regents in the suit filed by the former Arizona State punter, said Rutledge should be ordered to pay $50,000 in attorneys' fees.

arguing Rutledge was no "savior of the community... but simply a greedy, disgruntled athlete."

"He was not out to save the small darter, he was out to make himself a millionaire," Gallagher told Kleinschmidt during the one-hour hearing held in the judge's chamber.

"He got into a high stakes poker game and now the claim is he hasn't the chips to play, so the state of Arizona should..."

He said the amount was a fraction of the $102,037 in legal fees accrued by the board alone as a result of Rutledge's $2 million suit.

All told, the total cost to the state of defending the suit against Kush, ASU President John Schwada, assistant football coach Bill Maskill and ASU vice president George Hamn, came to $70,000, attorneys have said.

Judge Thomas Kleinschmidt, of Maricopa County Superior Court, delayed a ruling pending presentation of further evidence Thursday. An attorney for Hamn and Schwada is also scheduled at that time to argue his motion for representation fees.

Michael Herzog, an attorney for Rutledge, said Friday the $2.2 million suit was actually a benefit to ASU.

"We hoped them clean up their athletic department with this suit," said Herzog.

He called the firing of Kush and a separate NCAA investigation that resulted in the school being placed on three-year's probation a "clean up... that followed immediately after inception of this suit."

But Gallagher scoffed at the claim.

Rutledge filed suit claiming he was punished by Kush following a poor punt during a 1978 football game.

He further alleged Kush and Maskill harassed him into quitting the team and forfeiting his athletic scholarship and maintained the Board of Regents and ASU officials were negligent in their supervision of the school's athletic program.

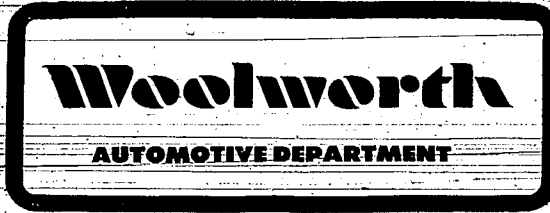

Rutledge claimed loss of his scholarship constituted a breach of contract.

Both claims were rejected by a Maricopa County Superior Court jury following a three-month trial that ended April 20.

Gallagher's original $102,000 claim was whittled to $90,000 when Herzog pointed out portions of the pre-trial preparation were handled by law clerks. The sum was further pared to about $30,000 — a figure Gallagher said he would accept — when Rutledge's attorney noted that was the amount actually devoted to defense against the breach of contract issue.

"By law, the winner of a suit is not entitled to legal expenses.

Jerome office planning Jane programs

JEROME — Dog obedience training and living awareness are just two programs being offered this month by the Jerome Recreation District.

Baseball Coaches — Summer baseball season for boys seven years of age through 15 will begin June 1. Some teams still need coaches. The girl's softball program, scheduled for the latter part of June also needs coaches. Volunteers should call the Recreation District Office at 324-3389.

Spring Baseball Clinic — CSI baseball Coach Jim Walker and some of his players will lead this one-day clinic on basic baseball skills for youngsters and their coaches. The free clinic is scheduled for the end of May or the first Saturday in June.

Senior umpire sidelined after surgery

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Vargo, the National League's senior umpire in years of service, has undergone finger surgery and will be sidelined for six to eight weeks.

Thursday's surgery involved the fusing of two joints. The 52-year-old umpire, who has been in the league since 1960, is expected to leave the hospital this weekend and recuperate at his home in Butler, Pa.

Dick Stello will serve as crew chief during Vargo's absence.

Chargers trade Young to Washington

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers announced Friday they have traded 10-year veteran defensive tackle Wilbur Young, the team's Most Valuable Lineman in 1979, to the Washington Redskins for offensive lineman Jeff Williams.

Williams, 26, has started 38 of the last 39 games for the Redskins at guard and tackle since becoming a starter in 1978.

Williams was a fifth-round draft choice of the Los Angeles Rams from the University of Rhode Island in 1977. He went to the Redskins on July 24, 1978 in a trade that saw kick returner Eddie Brown and a seventh round draft choice go to the Rams.

Young, 32, a graduate of William Penn, was acquired by San Diego from Kansas City on the second day of the 1978 NFL draft for wide receiver Larry Brown. Young had been traded to the Chargers and Gary Johnson for two of his three years with the Chargers.

Young was made the Chargers Most Valuable Lineman in 1979 by his teammates after replacing Ketcher who went down with a knee injury in training camp.

Brett apologizes to UPI photographer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Kansas City Royals third baseman George Brett apologized Friday for an outburst of frustration in which he swung a crutch at a United Press International photographer's camera.

Brett, who will be lost to Royals for two to seven days with an ankle ligament strain, called UPI photographer Tom Graisil Friday and asked about his head. Graisil replied he was not injured, just startled at being struck on the forehead.

"I was startled, too, to see all the photographers there," Brett said.

The minor altercation occurred after Brett strained his right ankle in a slide at home in the fourth inning of a 3-2 loss to the Texas Rangers late Thursday. Dr. Steve Joyce ordered Brett to the hospital for X-rays.

Graisil and photographers for The Associated Press and The Kansas City Times were shooting pictures of Brett on his way from the clubhouse to the elevator leading outside Royals Stadium when Brett swung his left-side crutch at Graisil.

Shriver, Bunge advance to semifinals

TOKYO (UPI) — Pam Shriver defeated Billie Jean King 7-5, 7-5 Friday and Bettina Bunge downed Wendy Turnbull 6-1, 6-1 in opening round matches of a $200,000 tennis tournament.

It was the first victory for 18-year-old Shriver over 37-year-old King in singles and came a day after she teamed with Turnbull to beat King and Andrea Jaeger in doubles.

Shriver said she'll "have to play better than that tomorrow" in a semifinal match against Tracy Austin. The other women's singles match will pit Jaeger against Bunge. The winner will get $10,000 as well as the winner of the men's singles.

Bunge said she "thought I played pretty well" against Turnbull. "Maybe it wasn't my best, but it was pretty good." Bunge, 17, is a West German currently living in Florida.

In a men's singles event, American Gene Mayer beat Jun Kamiwazumi of Japan 6-2, 7-5.

Pit mishap seriously injures mechanic

ZOLDER, Belgium (UPI) — A Williams car driven by Carlos Reutemann of Argentina, the current Formula One standings leader, struck and seriously injured a mechanic during Friday's opening day qualifying for Sunday's Belgian Grand Prix race.

Guillaume Amedeo, 25, a member of the Italian Stewart crew, was hit by Reutemann's car when it crossed the track in front of the pits. Amedeo was rushed to hospital with a severe head injury.

Earlier, Reutemann had clocked a minute and 22.28 seconds for the fastest time of the day after officials disallowed a better time by defending Grand Prix champion Alan Jones of Australia.

Jones ran a few feet of the track stewards alerted his car was not the legal six centimeters above the ground. Apparently, the hydro-pneumatic suspension on the car failed to lift it to the correct height.
