

BLM crews from the Shoshone district plan strategy to attempt to contain an 87,000-acre range fire east of Richfield

Record blaze fills skies with smoke

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

RICHFIELD — A sprawling range fire east of Richfield Friday set a new area record for acres burned.

The blaze filled the Magic Valley with smoke. Dubbed Richfield East Fire by Bureau of Land Management-firefighters, it had burned 87,000 acres by Friday night. Fire managers were aiming for containment by midnight.

Dispatcher Dale Chatterton said approximately 100 firefighters were working on the blaze assisted by 14 water trucks, 11 pickup pumpers, two bulldozers, a helicopter and fixed-wing spotting planes.

The fire pushed the district's total burned acreage for the season past 220,000 acres, a new record with more than half of the summer remaining. The worst previous season on record, 1971, saw 181,000 acres go up in smoke.

Chatterton said the Richfield East Fire was reported shortly after 5:30 p.m. Thursday and about 60 firefighters spent the night trying to curb the fire's spread in the rocky terrain of the area.

At one point Friday, the fire jumped the Union Pacific main railroad tracks east of Dietrich but no trains had to be halted. Cattlemen in the area were called in to steer herds away from the flames, but no private property was damaged, Chatterton said.

Winds changed direction several times Friday, but remained mild. Crews had completed a black line around 90 percent of the fire's 54-mile perimeter about an hour after dark.

A second range fire six miles northwest of Hollister on the Burley BLM District burned 850 acres Friday, but firefighters there were able to contain the blaze by 6:30 p.m.

Elsewhere in southern Idaho, Salmon BLM crews predicted containment by Saturday morning of a 900-acre timberland and range fire burning 12 miles south of Salmon along U.S. 93. The blaze was reported late Thursday afternoon.

Near Springfield, Idaho Falls District BLM crews were fighting a blaze that charred 2,600 acres of range land. The fire was out of control, but the estimated containment time was midnight.

Boise BLM crews put out a 13,000-acre blaze early Friday, said dispatcher Roberta Newhouse. The fire, which broke out near the Boise Airport Thursday afternoon, damaged several Idaho Power Co. transmission line support towers, but the lines were saved. Some homes were threatened as well.

Cease-fire fades fast in Mideast

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization agreed Friday to stop hostilities along Lebanese frontier.

But two Palestinian rocket and artillery attacks threatened the U.S.-sponsored cease-fire within hours.

A Palestinian source said the bombardment along Israel's northern frontier had been a mistake and that guerrillas acting on their own had been disciplined for violating the cease-fire aimed at ending the 15-day war.

The Israeli military command said the PLO "violated the cease-fire approximately five hours after it had begun" by firing on the northernmost Israeli village of Metulla and a Christian militia enclave in south Lebanon.

Four hours later, the command said the guerrillas again "fired several dozen Katyusha rockets into the area of Metulla" and the Christian enclave. No casualties were reported in Israel from either attack, but the military command said three people were wounded in the enclave of Christian militia leader Maj. Saad Haddad in the first attack.

A U.N. spokesman in Lebanon said two isolated and "minor" incidents of shelling took place after the truce went into effect at 6:30 a.m. MDT.

He said the shells came from southeastern Lebanon around Nabatiyah, 8 miles north of Israel, and landed in the border enclave of Israeli-backed rebel Lebanese Army Maj. Saad Haddad.

The Israelis did not return fire after the attack, which the command said involved a "salvo" of Soviet-made Katyusha rockets.

"Look what's happening," a Metulla resident interviewed by telephone said. "We shouldn't have stopped. We should have continued to give it to them to the end."

The rocket attack threw into doubt the truce worked-out by U.S.-special envoy Philip Habib and aimed at ending the fierce fighting between Palestinian guerrillas and Israeli forces, which has claimed the lives of an estimated 500 people in Lebanon and seven in Israel since July 10.

Despite the renewed attacks, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said that he hoped the agreement would hold and that it would be a "great achievement" for Israel if it did.

"I have today reported to President Reagan that as of 1:30 p.m. local time, July 24, 1981, all hostile military action between Lebanese and Israeli territory in either direction will cease," Habib told a Jerusalem news conference in announcing the truce.

In Beirut, however, the Palestinian news agency Wafa said PLO leaders met with leftist supporters and agreed "to a cease-fire effective at 5 p.m." The Palestinian shelling was reported to have occurred at 7 p.m.

Wafa said the cease-fire would last "on the condition the other side abides by it." It said the PLO had agreed to the truce "in response to United Nations efforts."

Prime Minister Menachem Begin, standing next to Habib, said his government "endorsed the statement" made by the American emissary.

But one high-ranking Arab official said, "If they (the Palestinians) shoot even one bullet at any Israeli settlement in the north — or even make preparation to do so — Israel will do what she has to do to defend herself."

Casey's backing continues to erode

1981 Chicago Sun-Times

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional support for embattled CIA Director William J. Casey continues to erode Friday.

The White House has adopted a cool, wait-and-see attitude toward the outcome of one of the biggest internal controversies yet to grip the Reagan administration.

Casey issued a statement Friday pledging full cooperation with a Senate investigation of Casey and said he had "not changed my mind" about supporting him.

However, the White House acknowledged that Reagan had not talked with Casey in recent days and that no lobbying effort was being mounted on his behalf in Congress.

"We believe the process should go forward, and we are not interfering with it," White House spokesman David Gergen said. Asked whether Casey would "survive" the controversy, Gergen cautiously replied, "We have no reason to believe he will not."

There is concern in the White House that any prolonged controversy over Casey could distract the White House from passage of its economic and tax initiatives, and undercut support for them.

"Obviously, it's in everyone's interest that the matter be wrapped up as soon as possible," Gergen said.

Casey himself issued a statement, however, vowing to remain in his post and deliver materials to the Senate Intelligence Committee Monday that "will lay this entire controversy over alleged improper past business dealings to rest."

The committee will meet in closed session at 9 a.m. Tuesday to determine how to proceed on its Casey inquiry.

But support for him slipped as Assistant Senate Republican Leader Tim Wirth urged Casey to resign, contending he could not now receive the once-fortified and demoralized CIA to a proper footing. The CIA was shaken in the 1970s by scandals over domestic spying and alleged plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

Watt continues to gain new enemies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Wilderness Society issued a "Watt Book" Friday, saying its contents prove Interior Secretary James Watt should be fired immediately for trying to destroy 20 years of environmental progress.

After just six months in office, the group said, Watt has taken at least 43 actions or proposed actions that "run counter to federal law or clearly established public sentiment on conservation and the environment."

Watt came under simultaneous attack on the Senate floor, where the assistant Democratic leader, California's Alan Cranston, called him a "puppet of the exploiters and the destroyers."

Citing the secretary's actions on offshore drilling, the Outer Conti-ental Shelf and marine sanctuaries, Cranston said Watt "has exceeded even the worst-case estimate of his harshest critics."

Watt, visiting the headquarters of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park at Gatlinburg, Tenn., said the attacks on him were led by special-interest groups.

"Those few citizens lost their position of privilege and access to power Nov. 4," he said. "They have opposed my appointment and many of the steps I have taken. They have lost some of their clout. They'll get used to it and the level of criticism will drop."

William Turnage, executive director of the Wilderness Society, told a news conference Watt "has begun a campaign to systematically dismantle two decades of environmental progress in the United States."

"It is both incredible and tragic that a Cabinet officer can go so astray so quickly that he prompts production of a four-pound book on his actions during his first six months," he said.

"There is solid citizen support for the immediate dismissal of James Watt and we today call on President Reagan to do just that."

The book is a loose-leaf binder that documents in depth more than 20 of Watt's actions. The group said it is designed to help the media, members of Congress "and others who must monitor Watt's activities."

The society criticized Watt for imposing a moratorium on acquisition of new national parkland, failing to address the serious threats posed to national parks by increasing pollution, and refusing to ban dune buggies from newly acquired national seashores.

It also criticized him for giving commercial fishermen lifetime fishing rights in Everglades National Park, instead of phasing such rights out, and of trying to further open wilderness areas to mining.

"It was solid citizen support that fueled the extraordinary progress America has made on conservation in the past two decades," Turnage said, "and that caused Republican and Democratic leaders alike to choose conservation before party over the past several decades."

Several water claims filed

Water controversy springs up at Scout camp

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Controversy has resurfaced over a 1978 application by a Buhl trout farmer and two Boy Scout leaders to divert water for fish farming.

Idaho Power Co., which owns the 12-acre Roach Scout Camp site on the Snake River, recently filed two water claims of its own to use Banbury Springs water for hydroelectric generation and fish propagation.

The Idaho Water Resources Board and a Buhl irrigation company also have filed for water rights on the springs.

The situation is confusing at best, agreed Loren Holmes, regional director for the Idaho Department of Water Resources. Holmes said he hoped to sort out the status of the 1978 application during a hearing Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Department of Health and Welfare conference room in the Campus Commons Shopping Center.

"One thing's certain," Holmes said, "There's not enough water there to satisfy all of the applicants."

The prior application for 200 cubic feet per second was filed by Buhl trout farmer Ken Ellis and two members of the Snake River Area Boy Scout Council, Coley Parrish and LeGrande Nelson.

William Webb, regional director for the Idaho Department of Fish and Game, said his department opposed the application in 1978 to protect wildlife in the lake at Camp Roach and trout that spawn in the lower reaches of the spring. Webb said Friday that position has not changed.

He testified in 1979 that U.S. Geological Survey figures placed the spring's average flow at around 105 cfs.

Gordon Beckstead, former president of the Snake River Area Council, defended the plan three years ago, saying the proposal would help the Scouts generate an income of between $25,000 and $50,000 a year while protecting the spring by putting it to beneficial use.

He added that Scouting administrators would not allow the diversion to dry up the recreational lake on the site.

Beckstead, who is still a member of the Scouting council, said Friday he was not familiar with the present status of the proposal or whether the council had changed its stand during the past three years.

Parrish could not be reached for comment. Nelson's wife said Nelson was no longer involved in the application.

Lloyd Baisch, a long-time Scout leader from Twin Falls, said an overwhelming majority of the organization's adult leaders were adamantly opposed to the proposal, believing it could jeopardize relations with Idaho Power.

"If we let a camp, you might as well kiss Scouting in this area goodbye," Baisch said.

Robert Erkins of Bliss, president of the area council when the lease with Idaho Power was signed in the mid-1960s, said the organization pledged to preserve the spring's natural environment and protect the site.

"A Scout's honor is supposed to be sacred," Erkins remarked.

A spokesman for Idaho Power said terms of the Boy Scouts' $1-a-year lease extends to 1995 but the lease can be canceled by the utility with two years notice.

Jim Taney, Idaho Power director of communications, said the company filed in May for a nonexclusive right to 130 cfs from Banbury Springs for hydroelectric power generation. A second application this week sought 50 cfs for fish rearing.

Taney said the latest application was for a commercial trout farm, not to raise Steelhead trout under a dams mitigation agreement with federal power authorities. He said he did not know whether the application was filed in response to the Ellis-Parrish application.

He testified in 1978 that U.S. Geological Survey figures placed the spring's average flow at around 105 cfs.

Gordon Beckstead, former president of the Snake River Area Council, defended the plan three years ago, saying the proposal would help the Scouts generate an income of between $25,000 and $50,000 a year while protecting the spring by putting it to beneficial use.

He added that Scouting administrators would not allow the diversion to dry up the recreational lake on the site, which is still a member of the Scouting council, said Friday he was not familiar with the present status of the proposal, or whether the council had changed its stand during the past three years.

Parrish could not be reached for comment. Nelson's wife said Nelson was no longer involved in the application.

Lloyd Balsch, a long-time Scout leader from Twin Falls, said an overwhelming majority of the organization's adult leaders were adamantly opposed to the proposal, believing it could jeopardize relations with Idaho Power.

"If we lost that camp, you might as well kiss Scouting goodbye in this area goodbye," Balsch said.

Robert Erkins of Bliss, president of the area council when the lease with Idaho Power was signed in the mid-1960s, said the organization pledged to preserve the spring's natural environment and protect the site.

A Scout's honor is supposed to be sacred," Erkins remarked.

A spokesman for Idaho Power said terms of the Boy Scouts' $1-a-year lease extends to 1995 but the lease can be canceled by the utility with two years notice.

Jim Taney, Idaho Power director of communications, said the company filed in May for a nonconsumptive right to 130 cfs from Banbury Springs for hydroelectric power generation. A second application this week sought 50 cfs for fish rearing.

Taney said the latest application was for a commercial trout farm, not to raise Steelhead trout under a dams mitigation agreement with federal power authorities. He said he did not know whether the application was filed in response to the Ellis-Parrish application.

GOP congressmen sue leadership

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fourteen Republican congressmen have filed a lawsuit against the Democratic leadership of the House charging the Republicans were shortchanged on committee assignments.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., charged Friday the suit seeking added GOP committee assignments was a "publicity stunt," and predicted it will be thrown out.

The suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court charged the leadership took advantage of having a Democratic majority and shortchanged the Republicans in establishing the party ratios in committee memberships.

In a statement released by his office, O'Neill said that when the Republicans held a 51.2-percent majority they insisted on a 2-to-1 majority in the Rules Committee and 3-to-2 majorities in the Appropriations and Ways and Means Committees.

"What was fair for the Democrats when they were in a minority is equally fair for the Republicans when they are in a minority," O'Neill said.

One of the 14 congressmen, Rep. William E. Dannenmeyer, R-Calif., said the group was "reluctant to go outside the legislative process."

Joining Dannenmeyer in bringing the suit were Reps. George Hansen, R-Idaho; Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich.; Robert Lagomarsino, R-Calif.; Tom Hagedorn, R-Minn.; Tom Kindness, R-Ohio; W. Henson Moore, R-La.

Mickey Edwards, R-Okla.; Dan Marriott, R-Utah; Daniel B. Crane, R-Ill.; Stan Parris, R-Va.; Olympia J. Snowe, R-Maine; Albert Lee Smith, R-Ala.; and Vin Weber, R-Minn.

Saturday briefing

Lady Di charming Britons

LONDON (UPI) — With the wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer only five days away, Britons were enthralled Friday with every fresh detail of their most heartfelt royal romance since Edward VIII gave up his throne for the woman he loved.

The much ballyhooed love affair has brought a public joy to Britons in contrast to the shock and sorrow felt by their elders at Edward's abdication in 1936.

The latest bit of news was evidence that Lady Diana at 20 knows how to handle herself and is full of wit and humor with crowds and in the press.

Lady Diana all but stole the show from Charles in newspaper accounts of Thursday's Buckingham Palace garden party, during which the heir to the British throne stood by with a ready word if the right phrase should fall his way.

But far from being shy, the former kindergarten teacher welcomed chit-chat with complete strangers and showed a shrewd awareness of journalistic pencils and cameras.

Legionnaires bacteria found

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — The bacteria that causes Legionnaires disease has been found in air conditioning cooling towers in eight Vermont locations, including a hospital and seven industrial plants, officials disclosed Friday.

Earlier in the week, officials said the organism showed up in fewer than 5 percent of the state's 161 such towers. But they refused to identify them.

Officials have stressed its presence does not necessarily pose a health hazard, since Legionnaires bacteria is common in surface water.

The locations cited Friday by state Health Commissioner Lloyd Novick included Rockingham Hospital in Bellows Falls. Officials said the cooling tower there was being decontaminated under Health Department supervision.

Novick said the monitoring program, launched earlier this year to track the disease and prevent its spread, revealed a lower-than-expected rate of Legionnaires Disease bacteria.

Suits filed against officers

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (UPI) — Civil rights attorneys Friday filed a $2.9 million lawsuit against more than a dozen city police officers and county officials.

The American Civil Liberties Union claims criminal suspects were beaten, falsely arrested and maliciously prosecuted.

ACLU attorney James Harrington filed the class action lawsuit on behalf of six people.

"The county attorney's office knowingly prosecutes the false arrest charges to help cover up police officers' misconduct," Harrington said, adding that Nueces County attorney Mike Westergren also, was named in the lawsuit.

Space shuttle testing delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Twenty hours of tests to determine if the shuttle Columbia is ready for its second launching Sept. 30 were postponed late Friday.

Space agency technicians found wiring problems involving its new "bionic arm."

The tests, which will involve the astronauts scheduled to operate the shuttle, were postponed until Monday. Engineers at the Kennedy Space Center planned to spend the weekend trying to correct the wiring problem.

A NASA spokesman said the problem was related to a jetting system for the 50-foot-long remote manipulator arm. It said the $100 million dollar Canadian-built arm itself was not involved.

Court upholds Klan sentences

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — The convictions of nearly 200 Ku Klux Klan members on charges of unlawful assembly and parading without a permit were upheld by the Alabama Supreme Court Friday.

The klansmen were arrested in August 1979 when Montgomery Mayor Emory Folmar and Police Chief Charles Swindall ordered police to block their path as the klansmen tried to complete a Selma to Montgomery march. They were stopped by a wall of officers just inside the city limits.

The court affirmed the convictions of Alabama Klan leader Roger Handley and the others without comment.

Banbury Pipe Co., a Buhi Irrigation company, holds an existing water right to 13 cfs and has applied for non-consumptive use of 50 cfs for power generation.

The Idaho Water Resources Board several years ago applied for a 97 cfs minimum stream flow for recreation uses of the spring, Holmes said the board has withheld action on several such proposals, including the one for Banbury Springs.

Holmes said Ellis, Parrish and Nelson requested a delay in processing their application three years ago in an effort to head off opposition to the project.

Ellis said Friday he was not directly involved in the proposal, but was using his expertise in the trout industry to advise others. He said discussions were still under way with officials of the Idaho State and the Scouting council, adding he would once again seek to delay the hearing.

Holmes said the applicants had already exceeded any reasonable request for time and he would proceed with the hearing, at least to require explanations. One outcome, he said, could be a ruling that the application expired and further plans must be refiled with the department.

Such a ruling would place the Ellis-Parrish filing last in line behind other existing applications.

And a spokesman for Sen. Joseph Biden, D-DeL., also a member of the committee, said "there is no way Casey can or should remain as director..."

The flurry of Senate reaction came a day after Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., chairman of the Intelligence Committee, said Casey should resign because Max Hugel, his ousted clandestine service chief, was unqualified and had to quit because of a financial scandal.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., called the Casey situation a "serious affair," and said he would back Goldwater in whatever he decided to do about Casey.

In his statement, released at CIA headquarters, Casey said Goldwater had been provided with "inaccurate information, which was reflected in his statement (calling for Casey's ouster)..."

Casey's appointment of Hugel had aroused opposition in Capitol Hill, as well as within the White House, and the Intelligence Committee is looking into how Hugel received speedy clearance for his appointment within the CIA, as well as into Casey's financial background.

Casey's business dealings under review include his role in Multiponics, a large farming operation that went bankrupt in 1971 and has been the subject in the last year of two adverse court rulings. Both rulings were critical of Multiponics officials, including Casey, for allegedly misleading investors.

Casey

Stevens said there were a number of troubling "matters of judgment" involving Casey, and he said he saw a bipartisan desire in the Intelligence Committee for Casey to quit.

In addition, Sen. William Roth, R-DeL., a member of the Intelligence panel, also called for Casey's resignation, saying it is now "impossible for Mr. Casey to effectively discharge his duties. He should go now."

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., ranking Democrat on the Intelligence Committee, did not demand a Casey resignation, but said if allegations against him are revealed to be true, it would prove "calamitous."

Today's weather

Mostly sunny today with chance of showers

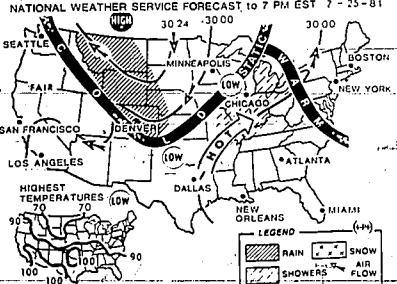

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:
Mostly sunny with a chance of evening thundershowers in eastern portions. West winds 10 to 15 mph in the afternoons. High temperatures in the 80s. Lows 45 to 55. The Twin Falls pollen count Friday was 32 per cubic meter of air.

Camas Prairie, Halley, Wood River valley:
Mostly sunny but a chance of afternoon or evening thundershowers over nearby mountains. Highs 75 to 83 degrees. Lows upper 30s to middle 40s.

Northern Utah and Nevada:
Mostly fair through Sunday although some scattered cloudiness throughout this afternoon. Highs near 90. Lows near 50.

Synopsis:
Low temperatures Friday morning ranged from the low 40s to upper 50s across the state, with the lowest readings 45 at Fairfield. Highest temperature Friday was 95 at Burley.

A weather disturbance located in eastern Washington and another in Nevada will bring new showers or thundershowers to northern and southern Idaho today. Sunday should be dry over the entire state. Temperatures will be down a few degrees, especially in the north and southeast.

The extended outlook for Monday through Wednesday calls for continued dry conditions with temperatures near to a little below seasonal. Highs in the mid 70s to mid 80s in the north and from the 80s to the mid 90s in the south. Lows will range from 45 to 55.

In the Magic Valley, conditions for outside farm work and hay drying should remain good through Wednesday. Plant growth will be good and the need for irrigation water should be near normal. Pan evaporation will be .36 inch today and Sunday.

Spraying conditions will be generally good through today with winds mostly 3 to 8 mph. In localized areas, conditions will be fair in the afternoon as winds increase to around 12 mph.

Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the hottest temperature was 113 degrees at Buckeye, Bullhead City, and Gila Bend, all in Arizona, with the coolest 29 at Jackson, Wyo.

Judge upholds Abscam convictions, undercover methods

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal judge approved Friday the sophisticated undercover techniques used in the FBI's Abscam political corruption investigation.

The judge also upheld the convictions of seven defendants, including four former congressmen.

Blasting them for "greed, dishonesty and corruption," District Court Judge George Pratt declared, "When public officials are as readily corrupted as these were in this case, the republic is in grave danger."

"For more threatening to our national survival than any foreign enemy is corruption and rot at the center of our government," he said in a 136-page ruling.

"This cynicism and hypocrisy displayed by corrupt officials pretending to serve the public good, but in fact furthering their own private gain, probably posed a greater danger to this country than all of the drug traffickers combined."

Pratt ordered the seven, who face maximum terms of five to 15 years as well as heavy fines, to appear for sentencing Aug. 13.

His lengthy ruling was the first decision in the Abscam appeals process, which is expected to reach the U.S. Supreme Court.

The defendants, who were convicted in three separate trials, included former Reps. Michael Myers, D-Pa., John Murphy, D-N.Y., Frank Thompson, D-N.J., and Raymond Lederer, D-Pa.

Also convicted were New Jersey state Senator Angelo Errichetti, a Democrat and former mayor of Camden; Philadelphia City Councilman Louis Johanson and Howard Criden, Johanson's former law partner.

All but Murphy were found guilty of bribery and conspiracy. Murphy was acquitted of bribery, but convicted of conspiracy, receipt of an unlawful gratuity and conflict of interest.

Federal officials said they were pleased by the judge's decision and planned to use Abscam-type techniques in future investigations.

The seven defendants had claimed their indictments were error-driven because the extensive undercover methods used in the probe amounted to prosecutorial misconduct and entrapment.

In the two-year investigation, the FBI used operatives who posed as representatives of a phony Arab sheik seeking to buy political favors in the United States.

The FBI also made extensive use of surreptitious audio and video taping and several of the defendants were videotaped taking bribes of up to $50,000.

"Despite their respective and trusted positions, defendants' crass conduct here reveals only greed, dishonesty and corruption," Pratt declared. "Their major defense has been that they were tricked into committing the crime on videotape."

"The government's need to unmask such conduct more than justified the investigative techniques employed in these cases," the judge added. "Without question, these convictions were reliable and no constitutional right of any defendant has been infringed."

"Honest congressmen would refuse a bribe offer," he added. "Dishonest ones took the money."

Engineers say walkways were doomed

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Two engineers hired by a law firm to investigate the deadly collapse of two aerial walkways at the Hyatt Regency Hotel reported the sky bridges were doomed to fail.

An attorney for the firm said Friday that the engineers blamed the collapse on a design problem.

The disaster in the elegant hotel a week ago killed 11 revelers and dancers and left 86 more hospitalized, some with serious injuries.

In another development, lawyers filing lawsuits in the case questioned the removal Thursday of the hotel's remaining skywalk — a carpeted structure identical to the two walkways that collapsed.

Lynn Johnson, a partner in a Kansas City law firm that has filed suit on behalf of the family of a victim, said two engineers hired by the firm believe the skywalks were destined to fail.

Although the engineers were reluctant to explain their findings until their investigation is complete, they said they believe the general structural design of the rods and beams used to support all three skywalks was inadequate.

Johnson said Lee Lowery, an engineering professor at Texas A&M, reported on the same day the third skywalk conducted before it was taken down by hotel officials showed that walkway was gradually deteriorating.

Of the six support rods used to support the walkway, two were badly bent out of shape, Johnson said. All six rods were deformed in some way.

"We believe the third skywalk could have fallen at any time," Johnson said. "While the skywalk had two people on it or 50, it would have gone eventually. The other skywalks just happened to go first because the same rods were used to hold two walks instead of just one."

One day after hotel officials and owners of the Hyatt building removed the remaining skywalk from the hotel's five-story lobby, several Kansas City attorneys asked why the massive task was done in the dead of night without any announcement.

Clayton Chittim, who has filed two lawsuits related to the disaster, called the removal a "thinly disguised attempt to take away a major exhibit that might have revealed what went wrong with the other skywalks."

"In my view, they destroyed what could have turned out to be a major piece of evidence to show what happened with the two skywalks," Chittim said. "I'm real upset about it. This two o'clock in the morning thing is distasteful and certainly unwarranted."

Such secrecy, Johnson said, could prompt observers to question whether Hyatt officials and the owners of the building are cooperating as fully as possible with the many investigations under way.

Debris from the two walkways that collapsed, and the sections of the third-level walkway that were removed Thursday, will be maintained by Crown Center in a secure condition under the terms of an agreement approved Friday by the Circuit Court of Jackson County.

President barter for demo vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan Friday fattened his "final" tax cut proposal designed to win Democratic support in the House by more than $65 billion.

The president's revisions, the third major change since he sent his original plan to Congress in February, preserves the basic outline — his 33-month, 25 percent across-the-board tax cut plan. After that, tax rates would be indexed to compensate for inflation, beginning in 1985.

"Our bill goes for three years and then the reductions become permanent because from then on we index the brackets," Reagan told Republican members of Congress.

The Senate, meantime, continued its debate on the administration's tax package, working toward next Wednesday's deadline for final passage.

Indexing, which the Republican-dominated Senate approved last week over initial White House objections, ties tax rates to inflation so taxpayers are not constantly pushed into higher tax brackets just because their incomes keep pace with inflation.

The indexing provision would cost $31.3 billion in 1985 and 1986 alone, the Treasury Department estimated.

The bill, which Reagan called "our final tax proposal," also adds $13 billion in tax breaks for oil interests aimed at attracting the essential support of southern Democrats who were crucial in the president's recent budget victory.

Tax changes for farmers and small business were also added to sweeten the pot, bringing the price tag for new add-ons announced Friday to more than $65 billion.

Asked whether all the changes were made to win votes, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said, "Let's call a spade a shovel. We did not have the vote to pass" the administration's original version of the tax cut plan.

But Regan said "none of the provisions that have been added violated any principle that Ronald Reagan campaigned on or promised."

Reagan taking tax cut plea to television

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan will deliver a televised address to the nation Monday night on his tax cut plan, and on the need to keep the Social Security system solvent, the White House announced Friday.

Speakersman David Gergen told reporters Reagan's speech, to be delivered at 8 p.m. EDT, will be broadcast live by CBS and NBC. "We don't know what ABC and others will do," he said.

The president "believes it's important to address the nation on these subjects" of the tax cut and Social Security, Gergen said, making it clear the timing of the speech was geared to an expected vote on the tax cut Wednesday by the Democratic-dominated House.

Also, Gergen announced Reagan is postponing from Wednesday to Thursday a trip to Atlanta to address the National Conference of State Legislators. Reagan will remain in Washington the extra day to personally lobby members of Congress on the tax cut measure.

Gergen said Reagan considered addressing the nation Tuesday night, on the eve of the vote, but decided against it because it would not give the Democrats enough time to seek television time under the "fairness doctrine."

The president will fly to Camp David today where he will spend the weekend working on his half-hour speech.

"I think he wants to try to explain his tax cut program and what he hopes to achieve and to address the people's concerns about Social Security," Gergen said.

Negotiators to make up benefit cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House-Senate negotiators have agreed so far on more than $30 billion in budget cuts.

But congressional leaders said Friday they will try to correct injustices to Social Security recipients.

House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones said the bulk of work has been completed on a massive bill designed to cut more than $37 billion from federal spending in fiscal 1982.

The issues still to be resolved include how to cut Medicaid and whether to merge grants under state control. Differences have been settled over cuts in food stamps, education, social service programs, postal subsidies and many other programs.

Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas said he was urging subpanels that have not finished their work to meet during the weekend. The bill is being written in final form by subpanels of a 280-member conference committee.

By the end of the day, Jones said, House-Senate differences over $33 billion in cuts will be settled.

But Jones, D-Okla., said a bipartisan group of House and Senate leaders have agreed the action should be taken in the fall to correct inequities caused by the termination of the Social Security minimum monthly benefit.

"We have reached an agreement that what we did was an error," Jones told reporters.

William Pitts, a top aide to House Republican leader Bob Michel of Illinois, said Michel agreed something should be done to help minimum benefit recipients who would "fall through the cracks" and not be covered by other federal help programs.

Rajai leading in Iran's election

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai led by wide margin in Iran's presidential election Friday to replace ousted moderate leader Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

Iran's official Pars news agency said early Saturday that the Moslem fundamentalist premier was far in front of the three other candidates in at least 10 cities and among Iranians voting abroad. It added that he was expected to maintain his wide lead.

The 44-year-old premier, a member of the ruling triumvirate that replaced Bani-Sadr, captured 17,472 votes out of about 13,700 votes cast in the western town of Khansar. Tehran radio reported late Friday.

The other candidates were Ali Akbar Parvareh, Abbas Sheibani and Habibollah-Asgar-Owlii Musulman. Iranians also were voting to fill 53 seats in the Majlis, or parliament, left vacant by the expulsion of Bani-Sadr supporters, by a bomb explosion that killed 27 deputies and through natural causes.

Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai was widely favored to win the presidency and other Moslem fundamentalists were expected to win the parliament seats.

During the day, five people were killed in bombings and gun attacks in Tehran by leftists trying to disrupt the election.

Ballooting for the Majlis was called off in Bandar Abbas in southeastern Iran and in two other cities, said an interior ministry official quoted by the official Pars news agency.

He said full but unofficial results of both presidential and parliamentary elections would become known by Sunday and a final outcome would be available officially in "4 to 5 days."

Iranian assets still on hold

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations have stalled with Iran over the disposition of more than $2 billion overdue under the agreement that freed the American hostages, the Treasury Department announced Friday.

The negotiations held outside Amsterdam, Holland, were "adjourned until August 3," 16 days past the deadline for the transfer set by the agreement, according to a Treasury statement.

Disagreements over who would get the interest on the money — Iran or an escrow fund — as well as other technical matters were reported as the delaying factors that have held up the transfer day after day past the July 19 deadline.

Friday's announcement, however, was the first acknowledgement that the talks have been forced to a halt.

Meanwhile, the Treasury said more than $2 billion is on deposit with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York earning interest. About half the money was destined for Iran, and $1 billion for an account held by a foreign bank under terms of the agreement.

That escrow account was intended to be used to pay claims against Iran granted by a U.S. federal tribunal. The Bank of England balked at holding the account permanently and the negotiations were over the choice of the Bank of the Netherlands as its new recipient, with Algeria administering the distribution of the funds.

More than 400 U.S. companies hope to eventually receive part of the $1 billion. The companies were forced by the agreement to abandon their efforts before U.S. courts to recover funds they say are owed by Iran for uncompleted contracts or contract penalties.

The Iranian money was on deposit in the United States when President Carter reacted to the seizure of the 52 hostages in Tehran by attaching all of Iran's assets within reach of U.S. banks.

Treasury officials said domestic banks turned over the funds, plus a still unspecified amount of interest, to the Federal Reserve earlier this month after the Supreme Court upheld the president's authority to make the agreement and force the claims to the tribunal.

Marchers rally in Dublin

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — About 500 Irish nationalists marched toward Dublin Friday for the second mass rally in a week to show support for the IRA hunger strike by eight inmates at the Maze prison.

Two of the hunger strikers — Kieran Doherty, 25, and Kevin Lynch, 24, — were near death after more than two months without food.

Preparing for the worst after last Saturday's bloody clashes between police and demonstrators outside the British Embassy in Dublin, the Irish government canceled all police leave, called in 2,000 reserve officers from nearby towns and put the army on standby alert.

Relatives said both Doherty and Lynch, who have refused food for 64 days and 63 days, respectively, were lucid but the Britain's Northern Ireland Office said "their condition continues to deteriorate."

Their deaths would make them the seventh and eighth Irish nationalists to die in the prison protest.

An estimated 50 supporters of the hunger strikers and the demonstrators' political prisoner status joined the end of a 50-mile march to Dublin that will culminate Saturday with a mass rally.

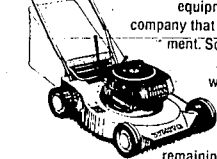

Organizers said they expect 10,000 people to attend the demonstration. Wearing black arm bands and holding black-bordered flags, the mostly youthful demonstrators began their march Wednesday at Newry, a town just over the border in Northern Ireland.

The marchers hold giant placards reading "Don't let any more die" and "Your T.D. (member of parliament) is dying" — a reference to Doherty, who was elected to his post from prison.

A similar rally last weekend drew 17,000 demonstrators, who attempted to storm the British Embassy in Dublin.

Alabama officials confident court will OK prisoner release

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama officials said Friday they were confident the Supreme Court would eventually permit the release of 277 prisoners from overcrowded Alabama jails.

Despite opposition from Gov. Bob James, who wanted the prisoners released Friday, Alabama Attorney General Charles Graddick succeeded Thursday in winning from Justice

Lewis Powell a Supreme Court stay that kept the prisoners behind bars, at least temporarily.

An attorney for the governor, Rod Nachman, said he was sure after the high court reviewed the case it would rule against Graddick. "I don't think it means anything but he (Powell) wants to read the material," Nachman said of the ruling.

U.S. District Judge Robert Varner, who initially ordered the inmates released, said he expected a prompt decision. "I'm sure they (the Supreme Court) will be deciding something very soon," he said.

Graddick took his case to the Supreme Court after the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta refused a request for a stay.

Most of those scheduled to be set free were serving time for non-violent crimes, although four on the list were convicted for manslaughter, one for murder and another for rape. All but 20 of the inmates were men.

Department of Corrections spokesman Ron Tate said the prisoners calmly accepted the news their release had been delayed. "Naturally these folks were disappointed," Tate said. "I think we did the right thing notifying these inmates. We didn't have any disciplinary problems.

The question of turning inmates loose to relieve jail crowding sparked an angry dispute between James and the attorney-general, who had been friendly before the inmate release issue arose.

James said Graddick was "legally incompetent" to challenge the order because the inmates would be released by Christmas anyway, but

Graddick argued that he had a duty to protect society from "criminals."

He suggested the state use Army tents to ease overcrowding with the Alabama National Guard as security, but James said Graddick was "out of his cotton picking mind." If he thought he was going to authorize "a bunch of pup tents" that sounds like some comic book answer."

California battles Medfly on farms, in courts

LOS GATOS, Calif. (UPI) — California, fresh from court battles to preserve its fruit crop from quarantines in southern states, widened its war on the pest fruit fly Friday against the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Ground stripping of fruits and vegetables was expanded to more than 900 square miles, including 26 cities.

Officials said a 500-member police force of civilians and state workers would begin going door-to-door to enforce a massive stripping order issued to 1 million residents of the Santa Clara Valley.

Aerial spraying of malathion in the $53 million war to destroy the pest was increased to include 227 square miles of a three-county quarantined area where some 161 nests of larvae have been found in such fruits as apricots, peaches and apples.

Stripping of all fruit, originally ordered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. July 1, was only partially complied with, according to officials of the eradication project, prompting stricter enforcement. Tons of the stripped produce have been left for curbside pickups by National Guard units and Civilian Conservation Corps volunteers for burial.

A coalition of growers went to federal court in Florida Thursday and won an order barring that state from quarantining all unfumigated California fruits and vegetables unless it was certified as originating in a county free of the Medfly for 30 days.

The order would have had the effect of banning shipments for that period from rich farmlands not affected by the infestation.

Although four other southern states relaxed similar requirements, California lawyers pressed an action in the Supreme Court asking for removal of the quarantines by Florida, Texas, Alabama, Mississippi, and South Carolina.

A ruling was needed, said California special assistant attorney general Steve Merksamer, because a relaxing of the restrictions "does not mean they can't reimpose a quarantine tomorrow."

The U.S. Agriculture Department has imposed a quarantine only on the Medfly-infested counties of Santa Clara, San Mateo and Alameda where there is mostly only backyard fruit trees and small orchards.

Brown, who opposed pesticide spraying from the air, finally ordered the dropping of malathion after the USDA threatened to quarantine all unfumigated fruit in the state's $14 billion agricultural industry unless such action was taken.

Drilling in prime fishing waters Exxon first on George's Bank

HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI) — Exxon USA drove a steel shaft into the ocean floor off the coast of New England Friday, becoming the first company to start exploratory drilling for oil and gas on fish-rich George's Bank.

"We began spudding at 1:45 a.m.," said Exxon spokesman Jack McDonnell in Florham Park, N.J. "That's the first step for drilling."

Exxon's nearest competitor on George's Bank, the Shell Oil Co., made final attempts to anchor its rented rig, the Zapata Saratoga, about 180 miles off Cape Cod so it too could begin drilling.

The Alaskan Star, Exxon's rig, is stationed about 50 miles off the coast on Atlantic Block 133, McDonnell said.

Shell positioned its 260-foot-long rig nearly two weeks ago, but has encountered problems anchoring the vessel. Additional anchors have been secured, but Shell officials would not say when drilling would start.

"If Shell had not run into problems, they would have become the first to start drilling," McDonnell acknowledged.

The start-up drilling ends a six-year battle between the oil companies and environmental groups and fishermen to search for oil on the George's Bank, one of the nation's most fertile fishing areas.

The groups have contended drilling will cause muds and cuttings to be discharged into the water, damaging the environment and the fish.

"We believe that there's just too much at stake for the safeguards that have been put into place," a spokesman for the Greenpeace environmental group said.

Greenpeace dispatched a 146-foot converted trawler, The Rainbow Warrior, from the port of New Bedford to the George's Bank early Friday to visibly demonstrate its opposition to drilling.

Pat Noonan, a Greenpeace spokesman, said the Rainbow Warrior's crew did not know how close its boat could get to the Zapata Saratoga because of the Coast Guard's security zones.

Elmer Danenberger, a U.S. Geological Survey spokesman, said he did not expect exploratory drilling to have any long term environmental effects on George's Bank, which provides New England fishermen with a $260 million annual catch.

After sinking the steel easement about 100 feet, the Alaskan Star crew will pour concrete around it "so it doesn't fall apart during drilling," McDonnell said.

U.S. issues challenge to Soviets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration Friday challenged the Soviet Union to prove its willingness to begin productive arms control talks by agreeing to cooperate in effective verification and compliance matters.

Arms control chief Eugene Rostow also said Washington will encourage negotiations to make the Middle East a nuclear-weapon-free zone. "It seems to have a great deal of promise and we are giving it a high priority," he said.

Rostow, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, also said, "The Soviet leadership must understand that their secrecy about weapons production and deployment is counterproductive."

"The cat-and-mouse game must end," he said, accusing the Kremlin of a "vicious and cynical campaign of propaganda and intimidation" to undermine the Western alliance.

Rostow told the Senate Armed Services Committee that to test Soviet attitudes, the administration is considering holding early discussions — not negotiations — with the Soviets "on general principles of behavior in arms control verification and compliance matters."

"Given the importance of verification for the viability of arms control across the board," he said, "Soviet-willingness to consider cooperative measures to improve the verifiability of specific limitations may be a litmus test of their commitment to serious limitations."

Rostow said he hopes these preliminary discussions lead to a resumption by early next spring of strategic arms limitation talks — SALT — a term the Reagan administration has changed to START, or strategic arms reduction talks.

Rostow, a strong opponent of SALT II, reiterated the United States is in no hurry to reach an agreement unless it is fair and balanced, coupled with a restoration "of our deterrent capability, both nuclear and conventional."

"Once talks begin, we must be prepared to negotiate persistently and patiently, and not raise expectations of rapid progress," he said.

Rostow stressed that the United States will only negotiate with the Soviet Union "from a position of strength."

Granata seeks new appellate court position

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Fifth District Judge George Granata of Burley is one of 19 applicants for positions on the newly-created Idaho Court of Appeals.

Legislation was enacted earlier this year to form the new, three-judge appellate court intended to reduce the Idaho Supreme Court's trial backlog.

"The main reason I'm applying for the position is for the appellate court to have some trial experience and input," said Granata, 36, a district judge since 1977.

"There isn't much financial incentive for me to make a move like this. My decision is mostly based on desire for a change of job. I'm interested in obtaining different experiences in law.

"That's not to imply that I'm dissatisfied as a district judge. I love trial work. If I'm not appointed to the Court of Appeals, I will certainly enjoy continuing as a trial judge."

Most of an appellate judge's time is spent handling legal questions and writing legal rulings as opposed to taking testimony and admitting evidence as a trial judge must do.

Most of Granata's legal career has been devoted to trial work, including several years serving as a Cassia County lawyer-magistrate and as Cassia County deputy prosecutor.

Chief Justice Robert Bakes estimates that by 1984 the new appellate court will cut the time it takes an appeal to be heard in court from about three years to about one year.

"In 1980 we had 402 cases filed with the Supreme Court, compared to only 155 back in 1972," Bakes said. "We're not being able to keep up with this increase. Of the 402 cases filed in 1980, we disposed of 341. We're just falling farther behind."

"I believe a medium level court of appeals will greatly reduce this caseload," Bakes said.

Idaho's Court of Appeals will differ significantly from most other states' because cases undoubtedly headed for the Idaho Supreme Court won't have to first appear at the appellate level. In Idaho, all appeals must be filed in the highest state court. Most other states require appeals to be filed at the appellate court level.

"The procedure will remain the same as it is now," Bakes said. "Once the records are filed and the lawyers are ready for oral argument, the Supreme Court will decide which cases it will keep and which can be sent to the Court of Appeals."

Any case, that may set a legal precedent, or by statute must be heard in the higher court, will be retained by the Supreme Court.

After interviewing applicants, the Idaho Judicial Council will submit six to nine nominees to Gov. John Evans for final selection of the three judges.

"Even though the court won't go into effect until January 1982, the council is moving this early so that if any trial judges are appointed, there will be time to refill their old positions as well," said Judicial Council Director Donald Burnett, a Pocatello lawyer.

Burnett said he has received 10 of 35 applications mailed to interested candidates earlier this summer. He expects many more applications returned by Monday's deadline.

"The judicial council will interview all the candidates during a two-day session in Boise Aug. 27 and 28," Burnett said. "If all goes well, the council will submit its recommendations to the governor around the first of September."

Under the statute establishing the appellate court, geographical diversity between the three judgeships should be considered during the selection process.

"Because geographical location is to be considered, I feel I should make a good candidate coming from southern Idaho," Granata said.

Author Peg Bracken will be the featured attraction at today's Filer 75th celebration

Famous Filer author feels hard work key to success

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

FILER — Author Peg Bracken figures she must have left one whole of an impression on Filer back in 1916.

Otherwise, reasons the accomplished author and Filer native, why would she be a special guest at this weekend's celebration of the community's 75th anniversary?

Her humble and humorous reflection on her literary achievements seems typical of Bracken, whose works include "The I Hate to Cook Book" and her newest volume, "A Window Over the Sink," a poignantly funny memoir.

An explanatory note at the front of "A Window Over the Sink" describes Filer as "the pleasant little town where (Bracken) had the good sense to be born."

This year, Filer residents decided she should have the good sense to return to the community she left at the age of 9 months when her family headed for the Midwest.

"When J. Howard Moon called (with an anniversary invitation) and said, 'This is J. Howard Moon calling from Filer, Idaho,' I was so surprised," she said. "I didn't think anyone but me had heard of Filer, Idaho."

Bracken, who will speak at a diamond anniversary picnic lunch today at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, has traveled north, south, east and west of Filer. She and her husband, Parker Edwards, now live in Hawaii, where they planted themselves after becoming saturated with life in Bolinas, Calif., a beachfront burg just north of San Francisco.

Her dissatisfaction with Bolinas, Bracken said, principally involved an influx of people retiring from the San Francisco hippie scene. The retirees tried to mesh an unmeshable blend of lifestyles, said Bracken, who maintains "there's nothing more dreary than an old hippie."

In fact, Bracken said, she disdains what she calls

"the let it all hang out school" and wants to spearhead efforts "to shove it all back in."

Bracken's work habits exemplify her sense of discipline. Up at 4 a.m., she's in her office seven miles from her Maui home by 4:45 a.m. and works steadily until lunch time, which is the end of her work day.

"You get up and get right to work without anyone even saying 'hello' to you," she said. That pattern is vital in enabling her to express thoughts which may have jelled the night before.

An office, Bracken added, is her favorite writing environment because it presents no distractions.

Bracken, often referred to as a humorist as well as a writer, takes her humor seriously.

She rewrites almost inexhaustibly, to the point that a friend suggested Bracken write a book for people such as herself — people who don't like to cook 365 days a year and would appreciate some recipes and humor-laced commentary on shortcuts to good food.

Bracken's later books included "But I Wouldn't Have Missed It for the World," subtitled "The Pleasures and Perils of an Unseasoned Traveler."

The journey to success has not been without its depressing moments, said Bracken, who remembers quite well the days when she submitted work to publishers, walked around the tightrope of hope and then felt her aspirations tempered by rejection notices.

"You only learn to write by writing, you only learn to dance by dancing," Bracken said. "You have to be tough enough to say, 'I'll show you.'"

Turnabout at rape trial

Key witness recants

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

JEROME — Prosecutors hammered away Friday at the testimony of a woman whose statements implicated her husband in the raping and beating of an Oregon girl last summer.

The woman testified Friday in the 5th District Court trial of Dan Lynn Thiemann that her initial statements to Jerome County authorities were false and that she lied only to obtain financial aid for herself and her children.

Throughout the year-long case the testimony of Thiemann's wife, Shirley, has figured prominently.

Mrs. Thiemann appeared at the office of the Jerome County Commissioners the morning of July 21, 1980, seeking financial assistance and claiming her husband had abandoned her at a rest stop on Interstate 84.

That rest stop, located a mile west of the junction with U.S. 30, was the scene of a beating and rape of a 17-year-old Oregon girl just hours before Mrs. Thiemann appeared at the Jerome County Courthouse.

Based on his wife's statement to the county commissioners and to Jerome County Sheriff's deputies, Dan Thiemann became a suspect in the case. The following day, the victim identified the defendant as the assailant from a group of six mug shots.

Thiemann was arrested in early August 1980 in West Jordan, Utah. He has since remained in the Jerome County Jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond.

Earlier this week, defense lawyer William Dalling sought a court order forbidding prosecutors from calling Mrs. Thiemann to testify. Idaho law generally provides a defendant must consent before his spouse can testify.

In denying the defense motion, 5th District Court Judge Daniel Meehl cited a section of that law which provides an exemption to the marital privilege in cases of lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor child. Called as a hostile witness Friday by the prosecutors, Mrs. Thiemann maintained under 90 minutes of pointed questioning by Jerome County Deputy Prosecutor John Heazler that her initial statements were false.

Throughout much of her testimony, the woman sat with her arms folded, replying to Heazler's questions with "yes" or "no" answers.

Heazler had not completed his questioning when Meehl recessed the trial until 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Thiemann told the six-man, six-woman jury she approached

Jerome County officials for assistance, telling them her husband abandoned her at the rest stop on July 19, 1980. She told the county officials she saw her husband return to the rest stop late on July 20 or early July 21, 1980, but did not approach him.

She said she told the county officials that she had been at the rest stop in order to establish Jerome's jurisdiction in the incident case. But, she maintained Friday, she had remained at her sister's house in Hansen and that her husband, who was working in the fields at the time, had not abandoned her.

Heazler repeatedly asked the witness how her original version, contained in a statement signed by her on July 21, 1980, could be detailed. He noted the woman had voluntarily told county officials she had seen police vehicles at the rest stop the night of the attack.

"And you just dreamed that up?" Heazler asked.

"Yes," the woman replied.

Heazler also pointed out the woman was unaware a crime had been committed until she began talking to Jerome County Sheriff's deputies, following her session with the county commissioners. He also noted she then gave a false description of her

Drag racing irks residents

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Caswell Avenue West dragsters could be in for a few surprises, says a resident of the area.

Emily Kirkman, 281 Caswell Ave. W., says she's so fed-up with noisy, speeding motorists that she plans to record their license plate numbers for delivery to police.

Kirkman recently wrote a letter to The Times-News editor to publicize her crackdown.

"...all cars, trucks, pickups, motorcycles, souped-up junkers and irresponsible drivers who have loud mufflers, who speed, who drag race and pollute the air with burnt rubber from squealing tires will have their license plates recorded, along with a description of vehicle and driver, which will be turned over to the proper authorities for immediate action," she wrote.

Kirkman also made an appeal for the city to install 25 mph signs at strategic points on Caswell West.

"It's unlikely persons who habitually speed and squeal tires will pay attention to the letter, Kirkman said recently. But nonetheless, she indicated, she wants to muster available resources in fighting what she considers an infringement on the quality of her neighborhood.

As a block leader for the Twin Falls Police Department's "Neighborhood Watch" crime prevention program Kirkman said she's learned a few things about speaking up for her own welfare.

"We're becoming more aware of the problems in the community, and we're getting braver about speaking up. With the neighborhood watch program, we're getting good response from the police. If we're having success in one area, why not another?"

With the city's upcoming removal of mid-block street lights and the financial constraints on police department hiring, Kirkman added, "We realize we've got to help ourselves more."

Orville Knighton, 336 Caswell Ave. W., said city police have listened to the Caswell neighbors' concerns, and when able, have responded to specific calls about errant drivers. But drivers can take off in an instant, he said, and more often than not, they're long gone when police arrive.

Sharon Metzler said that with stops signs at both end of Caswell's 200'

Discussion set on room rate increase

TWIN FALLS — Upcoming room rate increases will be discussed Monday by the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board.

The regular board meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the hospital's second floor conference room.

MVMH administrators will ask for an increase to cover costs of the recent wage and salary increases.

A room increase had previously been planned for Oct. 1, at the beginning of the fiscal year. This year's increases will go into effect several months earlier to cover the unbudgeted salary increases, said MVMH administrator William Burns.

The administration will present a room rate proposal to the hospital board's finance committee, which meets early Monday evening. The full board will discuss the increase at 8 p.m. in a meeting open to the public.

The last room rate increase was in December 1980. Ward rooms increased 15.7 percent, from $89 to $103 a day; semi-private rooms increased 16.3 percent, from $99 to $115; and private rooms increased 16.5 percent, from $109 to $127.

MVMH's recent salary increase, reportedly the largest in the hospital's history, was made in an effort to recruit nurses on the face of a nationwide nursing shortage.

Burns said it was too soon to tell what effect it will have on recruitment efforts but "seemingly morale has improved."

Filer celebration

Idaho First National Bank Filer branch employees Kerry Lossler and Carolee Dykes greeted customers Friday in dresses and hats more commonly found in Fidelity National Bank, founded more than 75 years ago. Both dresses are more than 100 years old. The Filer Diamond Jubilee parade begins today at 11 a.m. husband's late model pickup truck. She said she returned to Hansen later that day and convinced her husband to leave the area.

Mrs. Thiemann also figured into a potential crisis in the four-day trial when it was revealed she had lunch

Thursday with one of the jury members. After questioning the juror outside the presence of the remaining jury members, defense lawyers and prosecutors determined she had not been prejudiced in the case.

Meoht expanded on his instructions to the jury, warning them against talking about the case. He also suggested jurors inform any strangers they encounter of their status in this case.

In other matters, defense lawyers continued to probe into Jerome County Sheriff Eliza Hall's initial investigation of the case.

Hall testified Thursday that he had not interviewed all of the people who were at the scene of the crime and did not record the names and addresses of those persons who were interviewed.

Friday, Hall and Jerome County Chief Deputy Larry Webb acknowledged some evidence in the case had been lost. Among the items missing were some of the victim's clothing found in the rest room as well as a pair of boots owned by the defendant.

Hall said he believed the victim's clothing was sent to a laboratory for analysis but his office had received no test results.

Road to nowhere

Plumbers and pipefitters for Polar Manufacturing of Twin Falls found a new entrance when they went out on strike Friday in a dispute over wages and health insurance.

Someone had placed a sign denoting "Entrance for employees..." on a driveway that deadends into a rose garden. Local 206 checked with its attorneys and picketed both entrances.

White Clouds road proposed

BOISE (UPI) — A New York-based mining company may seek permission to build a road in the White Cloud Mountains near Stanley. Representatives of ASARCO Inc. scheduled a meeting next week with Sawtooth officials to discuss proposed changes in their mining efforts in the Castle Peak area — "the heart of the White Clouds" — about 15 miles southeast of Stanley, Ashton said.

ASARCO officials indicated during recent informal discussions they may have to build a road so they can bring heavy equipment to their molybdenum mining claims. Sawtooth National Recreation Area Supervisor Al Ashton said.

Obituaries

Joseph C. Burgy

TWIN FALLS — Joseph C. Burgy, 67, of Twin Falls, died Thursday in a Boise hospital.

He was born Sept. 18, 1913, at Portland, Ore., and was reared and educated in Hagerman. After graduation in 1934, he attended Georgetown University at Washington, D.C. He became administrative assistant to Sen. William Borah until 1938, when he moved to Sun Valley where he was employed as department manager of the Outdoor Sports Department. He served in the Navy during World War II. In 1956 he moved to Twin Falls, and worked for KTFI-KTLC from September 1967 until April 1974. He was then a commentator for KMYT-TV prior to his retirement. He was a member of the Catholic Church.

Surviving is an uncle, John Curran, of Twin Falls.

Graveside services will be at 2 p.m. Monday in the Hagerman Cemetery by the Rev. Francis Hebert, chaplain of St. Benedict's Hospital at Jerome. Arrangements are under direction of Gibson Funeral Home of Boise.

She was an active member of the LDS Church, serving in the Relief Society presidency, and the YWMA. She served more than 20 years as president of the Oakley 2nd Ward Primary, and was a clarinet player of the DOP. She also was a member of the Oakley Civic Club.

Autopsy confirms murder

BURLEY — The autopsy on an unidentified man whose body was discovered in the Oakley dump confirmed the man was murdered, a Cassia County deputy sheriff said.

Deputy Don Taylor said evidence collected at the site when the body was discovered Tuesday suggested he was murdered. The autopsy completed Wednesday "very definitely" confirmed that, he said.

He would give no details on the cause of death or evidence collected. When the body was discovered, the man had been dead for several days, Taylor said.

The man, who appeared to be in his 30s, was apparently a migrant farm worker, Taylor said. His identity probably will not be known until the middle of next week, however. "We're waiting for materials to come in from out of state," Taylor said.

No charges against Bybee

BOISE (UPI) — The Ada County prosecutor said Friday no criminal charges would be filed against a Boise gold and silver dealer who shot and killed a fleeing robbery suspect July 15.

Prosecutor James Harris said Keith

Bybee came "perilously close" to violating Idaho's justifiable homicide statute, but said that even if the man had been charged it would have been difficult to obtain a conviction.

Bybee said he was "relieved" by Harris' decision.

block, drivers make a game of either ignoring the stop signs completely, or roaring from one end of the block to another, and coming to a screeching halt.

The 25 mph signs urged by the Caswell residents would do little to solve their complaints, said Twin Falls City Engineer Gary Young.

"The people who speed and make a lot of noise aren't going to pay attention to a sign," contended Young, who said the purchase and installation of each sign would cost the city $50 to $60.

"The only really effective sign would be one which came down on a car and went 'mash,' and we haven't quite perfected the engineering of those yet," Young said.

Security will be tight when Army moves GB nerve gas bombs

DENVER (UPI) — Restricted airspace, secret departure times and armed security transmissions are among the security precautions being taken by the U.S. Army to guard against possible sabotage during the transfer of 888 Weyete nerve gas bombs from Colorado to Utah.

Brig. Gen. Walter W. Kastenmayer said there is no information that a terrorist attack was planned, but he said safety and security were the overriding considerations in the transfer, to begin Sunday.

Kastenmayer said flights of C-141 transport planes would be made in about a three-week span to move the lethal bombs from the Rocky Mountain Arsenal outside Denver to the Dugway Proving Ground in northwestern Utah.

He said civilian planes would be restricted during the flights to one mile on either side and 5,000 feet above the transport planes.

The planes, each carrying 64 bombs per flight, will take a general route over unpopulated areas of northern Colorado and Utah. Emergency response teams will be stationed at Kremmling and Craig, Colo., and Vernal and Prow, Utah, in the event of an accident or incident.

Kastenmayer said each team of 29 people would have a military helicopter capable of getting them to any accident scene within 30 minutes. He termed the possibility of an accident "unlikely."

Each bomb contains 346 pounds of GB nerve gas and is encased in a 327-pound shipping container. They will be stored at Dugway until trucks are assembled to carry them 45 miles from Dugway to their permanent storage site at Tooele Army Depot.

The transfer also will include three one-ton canisters of more than 4,000 pounds of GB nerve gas drained from 12 bombs found to be leaking in earlier inspections.

Kastenmayer said another complete surveillance of the bombs would begin about two weeks before their transfer. He said he did not anticipate any more "leakers" would be found, but if they are, they will be placed in special containers or drained before their shipment.

The Army, battling Utah Gov. Scott Matheson all the way, decided to move the bombs rather than attempt to detoxify them at the arsenal, where they have been stored since 1962.

Congress passed a bill last year setting an Oct. 10, 1981 deadline for removal of all chemical agents at the Arsenal. Matheson threw in the towel earlier this week.

"The Department of Defense and Joint Chiefs of Staff determined the Weyete bombs constitute a significant portion of air delivery deterrent capability and should be retained in the military stockpile," said Kastenmayer.

Although a preliminary startup date of Aug. 17 was released last week, Kastenmayer said there would be only a 48-hour announcement of when the first plane would leave Stapleton International Airport.

"We have a preferred date to start, but it will depend a lot on weather conditions," said the task force commander.

The Army said a strict embargo would be enforced to prevent enemies not to reveal the public times of the planes. The department would not be notified until the planes land at Dugway, about one hour after departure.

The officer said the flight paths and times would be varied "so no pattern develops and radio transmissions will be scrambled so they will not be intercepted."

Rare sighting of tornado made in Utah

HANKSVILLE, Utah (UPI) — The National Weather Service says reliable sources Friday reported sighting a rare tornado in southern Utah about three miles north of Hanksville.

Service officials said the funnel cloud was reported by both a weather observer and a Utah Highway Patrol trooper. They said the sighting occurred about 3:10 p.m.

The unidentified trooper said the tornado "sucked wet sand up from the ground with very strong winds as he approached the area in his vehicle," the service reported.

It also said the tornado moved northeast at a very high rate of speed and dissipated in a few minutes. The service said no damage was reported in the desolate area.

Grocery clerk union strike vote wins OK

SPOKANE (UPI) — Union negotiators for 1,500 grocery clerks have been given authority to call a strike against four supermarket chains unless there is progress soon in contract talks.

The vote Thursday night was 438-16 in favor of giving United Food and Commercial Workers Union negotiators strike authorization in contract talks with the Safeway, Albertson's, Rosauer's and Excell food chains.

Union officials said the strike authorization was sought because only two of 74 issues have been resolved in negotiations with the four stores.

"They've shown very little movement and we feel that the only way to get the negotiations moving is if we have a strike authorization vote," said Sean Harrigan, a union negotiator.

Harrigan said the union's 1,500 members might walk off the job if there is no movement in contract talks following a July 28 meeting.

BPA finds funding for nuclear plants

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Bonneville Power Administration has paved the way for continued construction of Washington Public Power Supply System nuclear plants Nos. 4 and 5.

The plants have been troubled by escalating construction costs.

BPA Thursday authorized a $100 million transfer of funds from revenue received on sale of fuel and enrichment services from the system's No. 1 plant for use in the continued construction on plants 4 and 5.

BPA Administrator Peter Johnson said the sale will give plants 4 and 5 sufficient capital to continue construction, at a slower rate, to allow time for a commission established by Washington Gov. John Spellman and Oregon Gov. Vic Atiyeh time to complete an economic analysis of the plants' future.

The financially-strapped nuclear plants were scheduled to run out in mid-August. Johnson said the sale was necessary for 4 and 5 because "there was no time remaining for financing through customary channels."

He also said purchasing the fuel now for plant No. 1, which is not scheduled for completion until 1986, will save the region's ratepayers about $10 million. Johnson said he approved the transfer at the request of WPPSS Director Robert Ferguson.

The Oregon Senate turned down a proposal to help finance the projects last week and the plants' chief critic, Rep. Jim Weaver, D-Ore., immediately attacked the $100 million transfer.

Weaver called it "just $100 million more of the ratepayers money down the WPPSS cost-swamp of those nuclear projects."

He said any WPPSS buy-back agreement was "clearly illegal" and the transfer was "one more raw incident of the BPA overreaching itself to protect its crumbling empire with our money."

Gene Tollefson, BPA Portland office information officer, said the buy-back provision enables WPPSS 4 and 5 to buy back the fuel anytime over the next three years. He said the plants' officials likely would approve the $100 million transfer in the next few weeks.

The BPA director said "before doing something costly and irrevocable, we must take the long, hard look the governors have directed." He said the supply system and 88 participating utilities are moving rapidly towards possible termination at prospectively staggering costs, not only to WPPSS customers, but to the region.

The sale will involve 2.5 million pounds of uranium concentrates valued at $61 million and enrichment services valued at $39 million. The fuel is sufficient for six years operation and the enrichment.

Outlook for resuming season 'grave'

NEW YORK (UPI) — With chances for resuming the baseball season growing more remote with each day, players and owners Friday awaited yet another call to the bargaining table as the strike entered its seventh week.

Despite four days of negotiations in Washington and an assist from Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan, both sides remained locked in disagreement over the issues of free agent compensation and major league service time. The walk-out now has canceled 5 1/2 games — nearly 25 percent of the schedule — and placed the rest of the season in grave jeopardy.

"Not good," said Don Fehr, counsel for the Players Association, when asked the chances for resuming the season. "I certainly see nothing that leads me to believe the owners are interested in reaching a compromise. In fact, the opposite is the case."

A spokeswoman for Federal Mediator Kenneth Moffett said Friday no meetings have been scheduled but the two sides might be called Wednesday. It is not known if the talks will be held in Washington or New York and the spokeswoman added it was "somewhat doubtful" if Donovan would attend.

Fehr said Donovan's presence could be helpful — but only under certain conditions.

"If there were a mutual desire to reach an agreement, he would be an immense help," he said. "As it were, he was beating his head against a wall."

However, the executive board of the Players Association will meet Monday in Chicago, with player representatives from the 26 clubs attending. Moffett has said he does not plan to summon the parties until the conclusion of the Players Association meeting.

The Association board members, who will be apprised of developments, have met periodically during the more than 18-month dispute. Fehr said the session was not called because of any new aspect of the talks.

Ray Grebey, chief negotiator for the owners, said Friday it is unfortunate negotiations have stalled.

"The clubs and the players have reached common ground on a number of points, including definition of ranking free agents as the upper 20 percent in performance criteria over a two-year period," he said in a statement from the Player Relations Committee.

"When you consider this limited area, balanced against all of the other benefits, such as salaries, expense allowances, pension — and health benefits plus the fact that, except for this one small issue, the entire free agency system remains unchanged, it is hard to see how a strike which no one wanted can be continued."

Fehr dismissed Grebey's remarks, saying the owners are out to break the salary structure of the players.

"If that's all that's involved, why are they taking a seven-week strike," he said. "This is a dramatic change to knock down players' bargaining power and salaries."

The owners, who took out $50 million in strike insurance before the start of the season, will continue to draw payments until the first week of August. With that deadline approaching, Fehr said he was not sure if that would spur an agreement.

"It depends if they've written off the season," he said.

The players have termed inadequate the owners' latest proposal on free agent compensation.

"We made a drastic proposal Tuesday evening, which was a definite move to end the strike," said Doug DeCinces of the Baltimore Orioles, one of the players' negotiators. "We said, 'if you want to end it, let's go. If not, then play around.' And that's what happened."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, said the owners offered a proposal for the "pool to force a club that had signed an agent to expose an equally talented player directly to the team losing the free agent."

Miller contended this was a disguised form of free compensation, which the Player Association's board has repeatedly rejected.

"While the owners' pitch is that they are negotiating on a pool concept, they have changed nothing from their original proposal of direct compensation," said Miller. "Since our Executive Board has voted unanimously over and over again that they will not accept direct compensation, the owners' claim that there could be no agreement."

Asked why he thought the owner's negotiating team would make such an offer if they knew it would not be accepted, Miller said, "I think they still think they can crack this union. They still don't understand these players."

Legion Wood River, Valley out

BUHL — Jerome crushed Valley 11-1 and Wendell-Gooding slipped past Wood River 8-7 as the two winning teams stayed alive Friday night in the Region 3 American Legion B Baseball Tournament.

Kevin Hulsey's three-hit pitching let Jerome send Valley to the sidelines in a game called after eight innings under the 10-run rule.

The teams were even at 1 through four innings but Steve Spencer's homer in the fifth sent Jerome ahead to stay. In the sixth, Jerome moved out of reach with four runs, Rusly Palmer doubling in one run and Spencer just missing his second homer — plating two more with a triple. Spencer scored on an error.

Jerome added five unearned runs in the eighth inning.

Wendell-Gooding, which had to fight back from two five-run deficits, did not even have a struggle in scoring its winning run over Wood River.

After Wendell-Gooding's Audi Hall walked with one out in the bottom of the eighth, Wood River pitcher Jim Jorgenson tried to pick Hall off, but the throw sailed over the first baseman's head, allowing Hall to go to second, from where he scored on two passed balls.

After trailing by margins of 5-0 and 7-2, Wendell-Gooding erupted for five runs in the fifth to deadlock matters.

Maryl Dewitt's bases-loaded, three-run single climaxed the rally, which began in the fashion that the game ended.

Scott Hall struck out to open the inning, but reached first when the catcher dropped the third strike. Hall tried to steal second and was safe thanks a throwing error by the catcher or Hall then stole third cleanly and scored on a wild pitch.

Winning pitcher Doug DeRuiter, who contributed a key single during Wendell-Gooding's fifth-inning uprising, allowed Wood River just one hit over the final four innings.

Today's games pit unbeaten Buhl against Poacello's B squad at 1 p.m. with the winner going to the championship series. Jerome meets Wendell-Gooding at 4 p.m. in a loser out game and the Buhl-Poacello will face the winner of the Jerome and Wendell-Gooding game at 8 p.m. in another loser out game.

Lauer ties course record

Charge keeps Whitworth tied for lead

LA GRANGE, Ill. (UPI) — Kathy Whitworth came on strong in the last seven holes Friday to tie Bonnie Lauer, who shot a course record-tying 67, for the second-round lead of the $150,000 U.S. Women's Open.

Whitworth, who has won every major championship but the Open, birdied four of the last seven holes to record a two-under-par 70. Lauer birdied the La Grange Country Club Course in five-under 67 after an opening-round 72 to share a four-stroke lead with Whitworth at five-under 139.

A trio of golfers were tied for third at one-under 143 — first round co-leader Beth Daniel, Marlene Floyd, sister of PGA pro Ray Floyd and Debbie Massey.

Whitworth, a 41-year-old Hall of Famer who needs just $1,031 to become the first woman to top the $1 million mark in career earnings, trailed Lauer by four strokes at one point in the round before her late rally and ended the day with consecutive birdies to earn a share of the lead.

Lauer, recording her best "round under these conditions," had eight birdies and three bogeys to equal the course record set by Bonnie Bryant at the 1974 U.S. Open.

Whitworth had back-to-back bogeys on the fifth and sixth holes and feared her long Open Jinx was beginning to catch up with her.

"I thought, 'oh, it's going to be a long day,'" said Whitworth, who needs one more victory to tie the career mark of 82 set by Mickey Wright. "I knew I had to go to work after that point. I tried not to think about the pressure."

Whitworth sank a 35-foot birdie putt on 12 and followed with a two-footer for a birdie on 13. After three straight pars, she made a 20-foot birdie putt on 17 and a five-footer on 18.

"I've never led an Open," Whitworth observed, "but two rounds don't make a champion."

Lauer has won just $14,000 this year and only one LPGA event — the 1977 Patty Berg Classic — but played the second round like a seasoned veteran. She strung together four straight birdies at one stroke.

"It's been a frustrating year," said the 30-year-old Michigan State graduate. "I haven't had four good rounds together. It's been very frustrating."

Daniel skidded to her 74 to fall from the lead but remained satisfied with her position.

"I'm not unhappy with my round," said Daniel, who set the LPGA money winning record for one year in 1980. "The course just seemed to play tougher today."

Massey followed her opening 71 with an even-par 72 to move into a tie for third. Floyd used an eagle-3 on the par-5 18th to shoot her 72.

Donna Caponi, a two-time Open winner, was at 3 under after nine holes Friday but skied to a 4-over 40 on the back nine and was six strokes back.

Nancy Lopez-Melton, trying to shrug off a shoulder injury, carded a 73 and was nine strokes back.

Minico sweeps Senators

RUPERT — The Minico Sage went on a 24-hit spree and swept a double-header from the Boise Senators Friday.

Ken Parkin and Cliff Hanks belted homers in the opener as the Sage coasted to a 12-4 victory behind Ed Beckstead's pitching. A seven-run first inning in the nightcap took all the suspense from a 15-6 windup. Dane Kay turning in another routine-gone performance for Minico, won 24-20.

Tracy Woodskow had a big offensive night as he started the third inning with a single and, after stealing second, rode in Lynn VanEvery's single. After Schow engaged, the runners moved up on a double steal and scored on Parkin's double.

The Sage added three more in the fourth when Beckstead and VanEvery and Schow collected extra-base hits for the RBIs. Parkin ignited a four-run fifth inning with a lead-off homer and in the sixth Hanks cracked his round-tripper after Smith singled.

In the second game, Woodskow led off with a single and three straight walks sent Minico into the lead for keeps. Garro and Woodskow later collected sacrifices to drive in two runs apiece while Brock Minico picked up another RBI with a sacrifice fly.

Strike day No. 7,333 — there are no survivors

The time is the year 2001 A.D., the place the federal meditation building in Washington, D.C. As the curtain rises, we see an old, white-haired man with a long beard and an ear trumpet being helped up the stairs by a pair of aides. It is Marvin (Hilmes) Miller, the last of the great labor leaders on his way to the 7,333rd-day of the negotiations in the Great Baseball Strike of 1981. He spots a reporter lounging near the press room.

Miller (commenting his case): "No comment today! We gossie columnists interfering with the progress of the negotiations of this strike!"

Newsmen (asking around for a man with a hat): "What's baseball?"

Miller: "Baseball? It's America's Pastime. The Grand Old Game. Buy me some peanuts and Cracker Jack, all that jazz!"

Newsmen (to security guard): "Better alert the White House guard. I don't think this guy's got both paddles in the water."

Miller: "You remember the great players? Dave Winfield? Fernando Valenzuela?"

Newsmen: "Who?"

Miller: "Well, you remember Babe Ruth?"

Newsmen: "Him, I remember. But who are those other guys?"

Miller: "Winfield. The highest paid player in the history of the game. For a week, Or, was it two weeks? Oh, you should have seen it! The red, white, and blue blunting! The bands playing! The smell of the hotdogs! We can't let baseball die! Lincoln told Bill Stern that. Or was it Gen. Doubleday? It's an awesome responsibility. Grebey! Where's Grebey? Let's get our heads together and get this thing over with!"

An even more doddering figure appears on the scene. He walks awkwardly with the aid of two canes and has a Hoover button in his lapel and a shawl around his shoulders. It is Ray Grebey, the demon negotiator, the last capitalist. He begins to froth at the mouth as he spots Miller.

Grebey: "Miller, you scoundrel. On that point we can't yield!"

Miller: "What point?"

Grebey: "Any point! Pick a point! Millions for defense but not one red cent for tribute!"

Miller: "Millions for defense? Is Lloyd's of London still paying you guys?"

Grebey: "What's the difference? We invested the money at 25 percent back in 1981. We got a million bucks a day and all that interest and didn't even have to mow the grass or sell a peanut. It was like finding money. But that's a red herring. Or, at least a Red Ruffing. The issue is, the Yankees have to get compensation if somebody picks up Reggie Jackson. Meaningful compensation! Not will defer the corporate raiders from ever again chasing plums like that. Say, Rhode Island, Or 25 percent of Reggie's salary back to the team that lost him."

Miller: "But Reggie's 56 years old!"

Grebey: "Dammit, Miller stick to the issue! That's your trouble. Always cluttering up the case with facts. I remind you it was your side that went on strike."

Miller: "We were slicker into it!"

Grebey: "The facts, Miller. Just the facts! The issue is, how many players can you protect. Let's see we take the first proposal."

Miller: "Ten. There were 10 men on a team."

Grebey: "Funny. I seemed to remember a poem about the 'home nine'."

Miller: "You're forgetting the DH."

Grebey: "Oh, yes, was the DH protected? I've forgotten our first proposal."

Newsmen: "Wait a minute! What was this strike all about anyway?"

Miller: "On principle."

Grebey: "On principle."

They wander off eating some peanuts and Cracker

Newsmen: "But I mean the game?"

Fan: "Well, I'll tell you, son. We had giants in those days! Great confrontations. There was Grove against Ruth. Ty Cobb against Walter Johnson. There was the Giants against the Dodgers. Hubert against Dean Gleson. Billy Martin against Reggie Jackson. McGraw Against Mack. Pawtucket against Louisville. But the greatest confrontation in all baseball history was Ray Grebey versus Marvin Miller. It made all the others pale. It made the 1927 Yankees versus the 1930 Athletics look like a pillow fight. It was baseball's World War Three. Why? You see, there were no survivors."

BOISE — Bill Rudolph, Twin Falls, took the open amateur main event in the weekly Peaceful Cove TT motorcycle races Friday night.

50 players expected for Camas game

FAIRFIELD — Nearly 50 former Camas County High School football players will take part in the school's alumni football game to be held Aug. 8.

Coach Ed Blankenship said the two teams will be divided into those players who graduated in even years and those graduating in even years. "We have about an equal split and there are 10 to 12 more players who live in the Magic Valley who have indicated they might play, if they want to play, I need to hear from them," Blankenship said.

The "Even" team will be headed by Layne Osborne, the all-time leading rusher who graduated in 1974. Osborne played college football for Boise State University and is a cattle rancher near Tuttle. He ran for some 2,400 yards while at Camas County High.

The "Odd" team will be led by John Kirtland, a 1979 graduate, who is the all-time touchdown and passing yardage leader at the school. Kirtland is now a city employee at Elko, Nev. The game will be played at Musher Field and is being held on the final day of the Camas County Fair.

Golfer throws putter; is electrocuted

ANDERSON, Ind. (UPI) — A golfer, angered over missing a one-foot putt by an inch, hurled his putter into a tree and was electrocuted trying to retrieve it, officials said Friday.

Coroner John Nofzise said Stephen Mustin, 31, an Anderson contractor, was killed late Thursday when he accidentally touched a 7,000-volt electric line.

Cabanillas sets SLC marathon mark

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Mexico's Demetrio Cabanillas, pushed only by a desire to break his record, shattered the mark in the Pioneer Day-Deseret News Marathon Friday in winning the title for an unprecedented sixth consecutive time.

Cabanillas, 26, easily pulled away from the 1,400-runner field in dominating the race again. The former Brigham Young University distance runner was timed in 2 hours, 18 minutes and 15.28 seconds — breaking his 1979 record by one minute and 20 seconds.

Steve Travis of Salt Lake City, was a distant second in 2:26:17 for the 26-mile, 38.5-yard distance. John Michaels, Denver, was third in 2:29:40.

The marathon is rated as one of the most difficult in the United States. It starts in the mountains east of Salt Lake, climbing 700 feet to cross the 6,227-foot high Little Mountain summit before dropping more than 2,000 feet into the Salt Lake Valley.

The race roughly follows the final segment of the route taken by the Mormon Pioneers when they arrived in the valley in 1847.

F&G sets 50-day dove hunting season

BOISE (UPI) — The state Fish and Game Commission voted Friday to extend Idaho's dove hunting season to 50 days this year.

The season will run from Sept. 1 through Oct. 30, compared to the formerly 20-day season. Fish and Game Department spokesman Hugh Wilson said commissioners felt hunters should be given more time to hunt doves even though most of the birds leave the area early in the season.

The 50-day dove hunt is the maximum allowed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Wilson said. Commissioners also approved a cottontail and pygmy rabbit hunting season of Sept. 1 through Feb. 28 and a falconry season of Sept. 1 through March 31, he said.

Payton reports, but has yet to sign

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UPI) — Walter Payton reported to the Chicago Bears training camp Friday without a contract, saying he would not practice until he inked a new agreement with the NFL club.

Payton said he had hoped to sign with the Bears by the start of camp but predicted he would be able to come to terms with the club soon, hopefully by his birthday today.

"Wouldn't it be nice to sign on my birthday? I'm hopeful we can work it out, but not today," Payton explained.

Payton said he had been under great mental strain during the lengthy negotiations but would not reveal what the stumbling blocks were to his reaching an agreement with the only team he has played for in the NFL.

NFL takes no action against Broncos

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Friday league investigation into alleged drug use by three Denver players had been completed and no disciplinary action would be taken.

"This office's investigation is complete," Rozelle said in a letter to Broncos owner Edgar F. Kaiser Jr. "After a thorough review, it was determined that no disciplinary action is warranted."

Grady Alderman, Denver's new general manager, said the club would "obide by the NFL's decision" and take no action against the players in question.

Top coach seeks more wrestling promotion

By MIKE PRATER Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Promotional tactics, including things like hallimmo performances, is what will make wrestling grow into a national pastime, says Skyline High Coach Floyd Young.

In Twin Falls this weekend for a youth wrestling clinic, Young believes high school wrestling coaches need to spend more time promoting their team and school.

"Promotion in any sports is vital to its success," Young said. "They (coaches) do it in other sports so why don't they do it in wrestling. Promotion is a big deal."

Young, along with several Idaho wrestlers including Twin Falls' Billy Walker, returned from a wrestling tour to Guatemala and Venezuela earlier this month. Even though the trip was designed to learn foreign wrestling styles, Young said the most important thing he learned was how to promote the sport.

"They have 4,000 people at a dual meet down there and every media member, whether they be TV news, paper or radio, is covering it and doing a thorough job," Young said.

"It's amazing the way they treat wrestling down there."

Young, a 20-year veteran coach of the sport, has become Idaho's most successful high school coach.

He has coached 33 individual state champions, five team champions and six runners-up. He also has coached 18 kids who have placed in a national tournament.

This winter, he coached the Grizzlies to the state team championship. The team included six individual winners, one runner-up and three third-place finishers.

The team he took to South America consisted of winners and runners-up from state high school wrestling tournaments in the northwest.

The trip started off with a clinic in Tacoma, Wash., taught by a Russian defector who had Olympic wrestling experience.

To me, that was worth the whole trip. He was fantastic," Young said. The entourage then flew south where they met Guatemalan wrestlers.

"They were a very young group of wrestlers. There, we taught them and they learned. I would say they were five years behind Idaho," said Young.

Walker, returned from a wrestling tour to Guatemala and Venezuela earlier this month. Even though the trip was designed to learn foreign wrestling styles, Young said the most important thing he learned was how to promote the sport.

Wives of slain officers given plaques

BOISE (UPI) — The widows of murdered Idaho game wardens William Pogue and Wilson 'Conley' Elms received plaques in honor of their husbands Friday during a state Fish and Game Commission meeting.

Wives of slain officers given plaques

Pogue's body. He was declared dead several weeks later.

Claude Lafayette Dallas Jr., 30, Paradise Hill, Nev., is wanted on two first-degree murder charges in the case.

Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton has spearheaded a nationwide hunt for Dallas, an accomplished outdoorsman and weapons buff.

Nettleton said he has received three or four reported sightings of Dallas each week.

One of the most recent reports was that Dallas may have left in an Auburn, Maine, restaurant a note telling of the killings.

Levi leads by 1 shot

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Lyle Levi, despite a lack of confidence in his putting, leads a PGA golf tournament.

Levi, a bogey-less four-under par 67 Friday for a five-under 137 and a one-shot lead in the Anheuser-Busch Classic.

Howard Twitty, Bob Murphy and Jim Booros were grouped one stroke behind Levi at 138. Twitty also had no bogeys on route to a 68 while Murphy and Booros, par at a municipal course in Allentown, Pa., both posted second straight 69s.

Ben Crenshaw, who won this tournament last year at Napa, Calif., was tied at 138 with John Mahaffey, who had an eagle-three on the 54-yard, par-five seventh hole.

Peter Oosterhuis followed at 140, a shot ahead of first-round leader Bob Gilder, Lanny Wadkins, Jim Simons and Mike Sullivan.

British Open champion Bill Rogers headed a group of 11 players at even-par 142 with 11 more at 143, putting 33 golfers within six shots of the lead with two rounds to play.

Levi, 28, hasn't led a tournament after two rounds despite winning twice on the pro tour — in 1975 at Houston and 1980 at Pleasant Valley, Mass. His best finish this year was a tie for 15th in the Hawaiian Open.

"When I won at Houston, I shot 63 the third round and passed a bunch of people," Levi recalled. "At Pleasant Valley, I only made the cut by one stroke and then shot 65-66 the final two rounds to pass everybody in the field."

Levi carries a defeatist attitude, even while halfway to the $54,000 first prize this week. With a putter in his hands, he lacks confidence, and Friday he had an eagle putt spin out of the cup on 17 and 1ipped out three other birdie putts.

He skipped the Quad Cities Open last week to go home and ponder his problems.

Stock market scores gain on blue chips, takeover issues

By FRANK W. SLOSSER United Press International

Another for overnight gains eased significantly during the day. That news sparked a rally in the bond market. Analysts say investors will be happy with the Federal Reserve's report, after the New York Stock Exchange closed, that the nation's money supply decreased $5.9 billion in the latest statistical week. That could set the stage for lower interest rates. A huge gain the week before kept charges higher this week. The New York Stock Exchange rose 0.59 to 74.69 and the price of an average share increased 25 cents. Advances topped declines 940-477 among the 1,829 issues traded at 4 p.m. EDT.

Big Bond volume totaled only 38,860,000 shares, down from the 41,750,000 traded. Analysts said the light trading indicated institutions were not participating in the rally attempt. Bargain hunters provided much of the market's strength, along with some investors who were replacing borrowed shares sold earlier in hopes prices would decline. The investment community was mixed in its opinion of the news from Washington; which showed both the economy and inflation are slowing. Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at p.m. totaled 41,962,900 shares compared with 47,950,700 traded Thursday.

traded Thursday. The American Stock Exchange Index jumped 1.09 to 567.72 and the price of a share rose nine cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of over-the-counter issues gained 1.59 to 208. On the trading floor, Conoco, which climbed 3/4 points Thursday, was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1 1/2 to 66 1/2 in trading that included a block of 100,000 shares at 86. The company said it would try to block Joseph Seagram & Sons' revised offer of $92.5 million for 51.5 percent of its stock. Mobil was the third most active issue, up 1/2 to 30 1/2 following block trades of 100,000 shares at 30, 100,000 shares at 30 1/2 and 100,000 at 30 1/2.

DUPONT jumped 1 1/2 to 54 1/2, and Seagram jumped 1 1/2 to 54 1/2, after a block of 100,000 shares at 54 1/2. The company said it plans to spin off its vision production operations. Narco Scientific shed 1 1/4 to 47 after the company reported its second quarter net "dropped" to 14 cents a share from 20 cents a year ago. Cummins Engine, which reported a second-quarter profit of $42.8 million versus a $13 million loss a year ago, gained 1 1/2 to 47 1/2. On the Amex, advances topped declines 340-266 among the 763 issues traded at 4 p.m. Volume at that time totaled 4,510,000 shares compared with 3,900,000 traded Thursday. Dome Petroleum was the most active Amex issue, off 1/4 to 19 1/4 after block trades of 100,000 shares and 300,000 shares, both at 20 and 120,000 shares at 19 1/4. Orroc Corp. followed on the active list, up 1/2 to 10 1/2. International Banknote was third, up 1/2 to 6 1/2.

Sunshine reaches tentative agreement on mine merger

SPOKANE (UPI) — The Sunshine Mining Co. has reached tentative agreement with four north Idaho mining companies to merge with Sunshine. The move ended months of legal wrangling over efforts by the court to absorb the smaller operations. The proposed transaction will involve trading 5,949,000 shares of Sunshine stock worth $66 million for stock of Silver Syndicate, Silver Dollar, Sunshine Consolidated and Big Creek Apex mining companies. The tentative agreement was announced jointly by C. Michael Boswell, president and chief executive officer of Sunshine; H.F. Magnuson, president of Silver Dollar, Sunshine Consolidated and Big Creek Apex; and Norman Smith, president of Silver Syndicate. The agreement is subject to the approval of the boards of directors of all five firms, as well as their shareholders.

If ultimately approved, all litigation between various parties to the agreement will be dropped. Sunshine, the nation's largest silver producer, and the owners of the smaller mining companies have been in and out of court for several months, each bringing legal action against the other in connection with the proposed merger. In a suit filed earlier this year, the smaller firms accused Sunshine of feeding misleading information about their holdings to the stockholders in order to depress the price of their stock as part of a takeover attempt. Sunshine later went to court in an attempt to prevent three of the firms from buying each other's stock to thwart the Sunshine takeover. Robert Magnuson, attorney and spokesman for the three companies controlled by his brother, said the merger agreement was finally approved because of a better stock offering by Sunshine. "The terms of the proposed merger have been substantially improved over the earlier Sunshine offers," Magnuson said. "The original offer totaled about 6 million shares in February. In July, it was 4.6 million shares and this one totals 5.9 million shares."

Under terms of the merger, Sunshine will exchange 1.15 shares of its stock for each share of Silver Dollar, .55 shares for each share of Sunshine Consolidated, .75 shares for each share of Silver Syndicate, and .715 shares for each share of Big Creek Apex. No cash will exchange hands in the deal. Sunshine currently has an agreement to mine the properties of the smaller firms, sharing the profits with them.

Horoscope

Scorpios find friends can bring inspiration when things are low

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have a good opportunity to make positive plans that could make your future brighter. Take time to improve your environment. Be more thoughtful of family members.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A close tie has good ideas where your work is concerned, so be sure to listen and take advantage of the suggestions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consult an adviser you can trust and gain the information you need. Stop feeling sorry for yourself and be more confident.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Discuss monetary and property matters with a close family tie and get excellent results. Make your home more functional.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to buy the appliances that can make home life more comfortable. Engage in favorite hobby.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you consult a trusted adviser, you can make your life more successful in the near future. Show that you have ability.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Stating down with an older friend and getting advice can bring life results now. You can now make your life more prosperous.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Gain the backing you need for an important project you have in mind. Show increased devotion to loved one. Be logical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good friend can be most inspiring at a time when you could be feeling at a low ebb. Show clear of a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Discuss your business obligations with an expert who can help you discharge them efficiently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new idea should be brought to the attention of a long-time friend to gain mutual benefits therefrom.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) Use your intuition in discharging regular duties, since it is most accurate now. Express your true personality.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) If you enjoy amusements at a new site with congenials, you can gain unexpected benefits. Try to be more cooperative.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will require as much education as possible early in life since your progeny will not mature fully until later in life. The chart is excellent for the researcher, particularly in governmental work. Sports are good here.

What's what

Hitler received income from stamp royalties

Am asked if Germany ever put out any postage stamps with Adolf Hitler's likeness imprinted on them. Certainly. As might be expected. What's curious about it, though, is Hitler demanded and received a royalty payment on all such postage stamps. It was personal income for him.

Our Language man says that word "ahabang"—used here from time to time—was a common name in the Old West for a roadhouse. The Irish immigrants must have started that one. Their word for an illegal drinking establishment was "shebeen."

UNASKED QUESTIONS

Certain basic questions debated violently many generations ago were never raised in the public schools that I remember. For instance, nobody ever asked aloud: Is it conceivable that Abraham Lincoln was a fool who should not have set out to dictate money morality to the South. Or: Is it possible that the Federal Government had no right to force Utah to give up polygamy for statehood? Come on, you know this is no vote for slavery or polygamy. It's just a note of curiosity—that the legitimate questions of one century become unacceptable even as questions in time.

First Lady Nancy Reagan recently said her husband Ronald Reagan was just getting out of the shower when he first learned he'd been elected President. Interesting, but not very. John Tyler was first learned of his election while on his hands and knees playing marbles.

FAIR HAIR

Q. Can you explain why blond men seldom have become movie stars while blonde actresses have done so even more spectacularly than brunettes?

A. Maybe not, but I've heard one explanation repeatedly. It relates to how much makeup the actresses and actors could use. Motion picture photography was such years ago that it failed to accent the looks of short-haired blond men unless they're faces were distinctly painted, almost as the faces of clowns. Otherwise, it left them with a washed-out appearance. But the camera could deal with the long-haired blonde women whose faces were distinctly made up.

No dieter should forget that how much food you actually need depends, too, on your clothing. A lone-tooth native in the tropics requires food daily. An Arctic native in full hide and fur can go without food for almost a week. You might keep this in mind if you want to lose weight by burning calories: Take off a few clothes.
