

Agency clears Allen on one charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department Tuesday dropped its investigation of $1,000 found in Richard Allen's safe.

But it said it would continue to investigate other aspects of his financial affairs. Allen predicted he would be cleared by the continuing investigation.

No special prosecutor will be sought to probe the $1,000 the White House national security adviser intercepted when Japanese journalists attempted to give it to Nancy Reagan in gratitude for a brief interview Jan. 21 that Allen had helped arrange, the department said.

But the department said it will continue its investigation of gifts from the Japanese to Allen of two wrist watches and the fact that he initially misreported the date of the sale of his Washington consulting firm.

The department said it was unclear whether a special Committee clears CIA director — AS prosecutor will be named to investigate those matters.

The Justice Department's two-page statement, accompanied by an eight-page summary of the investigation, said the decision to drop the probe of what Allen has called a $1,000 "honorarium" was made by Attorney General William French Smith on the recommendation of his staff.

Allen, who went on paid leave Sunday, pending completion of the entire investigation, told ABC News he was "very happy" with the Justice Department decision and said he never doubted the outcome. "If I wouldn't appear cocksure, I'd say so, I would say there was never a moment in my life that I was in doubt," he said.

Allen, asked later by reporters about the continuing investigation, said, "My own view is the conclusion will be the same as it was in this particular case."

Asked if he planned to return to his post, he said, "Well, I don't know. It will all be depending on my colleagues at the White House, and why don't we just wait and see actually on that."

Allen's wife Patricia, beaming as she stood by his side in front of her Arlington, Va., home, told the reporters, "I'm very very happy that this has been cleared up and I hope that maybe all of you might think twice before you do this to someone else."

But a senator who had called for a special prosecutor questioned whether the Justice Department made the correct decision and raised the possibility of a congressional investigation.

Said Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., "If they basically glossed over the investigation as it appears like they did at this moment, I think a congressional investigation would be in keeping and certainly would be justified."

Earlier, White House spokesman David Gergen said presidential counselor Edwin Meese, Allen's immediate superior who initiated the FBI investigation of Allen, was speaking "for the president and the administration" when he said Monday the Justice Department's finding would influence — but not necessarily determine — whether Allen will return to his job.

In any case, an aide said, that decision will not be made until the remaining investigations are completed.

Later, the White House released a statement saying the Justice Department report is "self-explanatory, and there will be no formal comment pending completion of the inquiry into the other matters."

Barnburner

Firemen from Twin Falls, Kimberly and Elmer were called to a fire Tuesday at a building off Kimberly Road, 1/2 half-mile east of Twin Falls. Firefighters were able to keep the fire from spreading to a home and travel trailer in front of the building, owned by Dwight Watson. Some firefighters fought the blaze with buckets until tankers returned with more water.

Geneva talks start in detail

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — American and Soviet negotiators opened detailed talks Tuesday to reduce the number of nuclear weapons that would be used to devastate Europe in the event of a war.

The first plenary meeting between the full delegations from both sides lasted 2 1/2 hours. "Everything's okay," Soviet chief delegate Yuli Kvitsinsky said after the session. "We meet again Friday."

The first problem confronting Kvitsinsky and his U.S. counterpart, Paul Nitze, was agreement on what to negotiate. In the negotiations, which are expected to be long and difficult.

However, no details emerged because of the news blackout the two chief negotiators agreed upon during their first, largely procedural and ceremonial meeting Monday.

Promptly at 11 a.m. (3 a.m. MST), a fleet of Soviet limousines ferried Moscow's 34-man delegation to the offices of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency overlooking the gray waters of Lake Geneva.

Nitze ushered a smiling Kvitsinsky into the ninth-floor, debugged penthouse conference room, with its view across the lake to the snow-dusted Alps and Mont Blanc in the cloud-wreathed distance.

The teams will meet in plenary session on Tuesdays and Fridays, alternately at the U.S. offices and the Soviet mission, in their attempt to reach an agreement on limiting intermediate-range nuclear systems in Europe.

The first major problem, reiterated in opening statements, centered on what weapons the two sides will seek to limit.

The United States wants to confine the talks initially to medium-range missiles, while the Soviet Union seeks discussion on all European-based nuclear means, including U.S. aircraft and the independent nuclear forces of Britain and France.

On the eve of the first plenary session, Secretary of State Alexander Haig warned in Washington that NATO must maintain its resolve to deploy 572 American Pershing II and Cruise missiles in Europe in order to achieve success at the talks.

Proposals to deploy the missiles in 1983, Haig said, "are the incentive that brought the Soviets to the negotiations and that will encourage them now to take a serious position."

President Reagan offered to cancel the deployment, scheduled to begin in 1983, if Russia dismantles its 630 SS-20, SS-4 and SS-5 missiles aimed at Western Europe. "It's a proposal Moscow views as tantamount to a demand for unilateral Soviet disarmament."

The Soviets, asserting an approximate nuclear balance already exists in Europe, consider the planned U.S. deployment as a Cuban missile crisis in reverse. They have offered to reduce their missiles "by hundreds" if Washington cancels the deployment.

The Soviet leadership, meanwhile, reaffirmed that Moscow would not accept Reagan's proposal as it stands.

Legislators gearing up for shootout over PUC

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission will be put under a legislative microscope this month in a move demanded by Republicans.

They say the panel is "dangerous" and immune to protests by those affected by its decisions.

Democratic legislators have branded the creation of the legislative, PUC study committee a ploy to take pot shots at Gov. John Evans and the three-man commission and boost the gubernatorial candidacy of House Speaker Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls.

"It seems to me to be dangerous to put rate increases up to the approval of three people who do not answer to the electorate," said Sen. Atwell Parry, R-Melba, a member of the committee.

Parry said the study is needed to see whether the Legislature can curb some of the commission's authority to make decisions that have a significant social impact.

The committee was created primarily because of the PUC's decision earlier this year to impose a so-called "inverted" rate schedule for Idaho Power Co. customers, the committee chairman said.

Under that PUC order, residential consumers pay a higher rate for the more energy they use. Also, it requires Idaho Power to charge a flat rate for power used by irrigators. Previously, irrigators paid at lower rates for the more power they used. The commission lauded the order as a conservation measure.

Some farmers protested the order, and Idaho Power has appealed part of the order to the Idaho Supreme Court.

The three-member commission "seems to be immune to all of this," Parry said. "I have no ax to grind with the individuals on the commission. It's the system those individuals are in."

Parry said he had no specific proposal, but he said he believed the Legislature should make the PUC more accountable for its actions. He said the Senate's power to confirm PUC appointees by the governor "is good enough to put them in, but we can't do anything about them later."

"They seem to have the proper control strings tied to them that maybe we need," Parry said. "I'm very concerned that we have an agency that has the free rein to set the rates as freely as the PUC, and they seem to answer to no one, there has to be some guidelines."

Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, chairman of the committee, said the first of possibly two meetings was set for Dec. 8. He said an agenda has not been drafted.

Republican members are Swenson, Parry and Reps. Gary Montgomery of Boise and Mack Neibaur of Paul. All represent districts dominated by farming. Democrats on the committee are the Legislature's two highest-ranking members of the minority party, House Minority Leader Melvin Hammond of Rexburg and Senate Majority Leader Ron Twigg of Boise.

The committee was created by the Legislative Council last month at the behest of Olmstead, who said the Legislature needed to "more clearly define" the PUC's powers.

"I think it was a political maneuver that Olmstead brought before the council," Hammond said. "There has always been some effort to put the PUC down, especially because of some of the latest appointments of the governor."

"There has always been a good overview look at the PUC by the Legislature and this (the study committee) is just a good way to get a little bit of notoriety. It's a good move for the speaker. People don't like the PUC because rates continue to go up and it's a good place to hit."

Investigation of air crashes usually a lengthy process

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Establishing "probable cause" in crashes of light airplanes takes time — a lot of time.

Anytime a general aviation aircraft crashes and a fatality is involved, scant information is available on what may have caused the mishap.

Immediately, investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board are summoned to the scene.

Steve McCreary, an investigator for the NTSB in Seattle, made the first investigation of the Nov. 22 crash near Thorn Creek Reservoir in Lincoln County that killed three persons.

Dale Moore, 53, of Hailey, chairman of the Board of Western Broadcasting Co., was aboard the craft, as was his 86-year-old father, Rev. Grant S. Moore of Santa Barbara, Calif. The pilot of the Cessna 421 was veteran flier Earl V. Leo, 66, of Ketchum.

However, McCreary said he cannot give out information on the cause of the crash and, in fact, he does not determine the cause.

"I have to make my report on my findings, submit all of the evidence and let the officials of the NTSB in Washington decide from that information if there is a probable cause indication," McCreary said.

He has not completed his report yet on the Thorn Creek crash, he said, and he estimated that it will be six months or more before a determination is made — after his information reaches Washington, D.C.

That timetable also will hold true for determining the cause of the Thanksgiving Day crash near Payette that took the lives of five persons, four of them former Twin Falls residents.

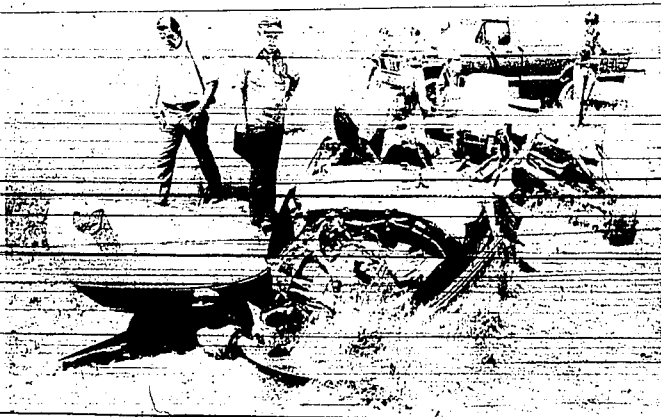

Reports have been sent to the NTSB about two other plane crashes in the Magic Valley area in June, and the causes of the accidents may have been determined.

On June 22, two light airplanes, piloted by John Colhern, 51, of Buhl, and Tony Steward, 32, of Minidoka, collided in mid-air near Bliss and plunged into the desert in flames. Three persons were killed in the crash.

On June 27, a Bureau of Land Management plane, piloted by Henry Hodnick of Billings, Mont., crashed at the end of a landing strip near Norland in Minidoka County during firefighting maneuvers. Three persons also were killed in that crash.

However, a spokesman for the agency's computer data center in Washington said it is not possible to release any information on the accidents until the reports have been approved for release by the National Transportation Safety Board.

No information has been released regarding this June 22 mid-air collision near Bliss

Court gives military secrets priority over the environment

By Times-News wire services

SANDRA O'CONNOR writes first opinion

WASHINGTON — Protecting military secrets is more important than protecting the environment, the Supreme Court ruled unanimously Tuesday.

The justices, in a sharp blow to ecology and peace groups, said the Pentagon need not prepare environmental impact statements before building a nuclear weapons storage facility.

The court struck down a ruling that had ordered the Navy to assess environmental consequences of storing nuclear weapons at a naval base in Hawaii, on a site just one mile from a major flight path to Honolulu International Airport.

"It is clear that Congress intended the public's interest in ensuring federal agencies comply with environmental laws must give way to the government's need to preserve military secrets," Justice William Rehnquist wrote for the court.

The court's reasoning Tuesday was similar to its decision last June allowing the government to refuse to register women for the military draft. In that ruling, the justices declared that national security concerns are more important than women's rights.

Rehnquist said the Navy "must consider environmental consequences in its decision-making process." But such a review — not a formal impact statement under the law — would be for internal Defense Department use and therefore not subject to public challenge, he said.

Rehnquist added that the central question of "whether or not the Navy has complied with environmental law" to the fullest extent possible is beyond judicial scrutiny in this case.

In another important decision released Tuesday, Sandra Day O'Connor wrote her first opinion as a justice — a 9-0 ruling that Interior Secretary James Watt need not experiment with offshore oil leasing arrangements that might mean more revenue for the government and less for oil companies.

The justices struck down a decision that had ordered the Interior Department to "experiment" in leasing agreements with petroleum companies that want to drill on the Outer Continental Shelf.

The alternative leasing plans were designed to give small firms a better chance to compete against the largest oil corporations in bidding for offshore oil and gas leases.

A third opinion handed down Tuesday closed the doors of federal court to damage suits by citizens who claim that their state tax systems are unconstitutional.

All nine justices agreed that a taxpayer's suit filed in a federal court in St. Louis should be dismissed. But the difference in their reasoning was significant.

Five justices, led by William H. Rehnquist, concluded that the "principle of comity" — the concept that federal courts must show "proper respect for state functions" — bars taxpayers' suits for damages in the federal courts.

Justice William Brennan and three others said it remained "entirely clear" that the federal courts have jurisdiction over claims seeking monetary relief arising from unconstitutional state taxation.

The ruling has importance for owners of newer homes because the ruling means property owners may not sue in federal court to recover damages from discriminatory tax assessments.

But Rehnquist noted that "virtually all information relating to the storage of nuclear weapons is classified."

The case focused on the Walke Branch of the Environmental Magazine where the weapons are stored. It is near Honolulu airport on the densely populated island of Oahu.

Do illegal aliens have right to free education?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Texas faces a difficult future of illegal immigrants should not be forced to educate the children of undocumented aliens, attorneys for the state told the Supreme Court Tuesday.

With the federal government "doing very little, doing nothing at all" to stem illegal migration, Richard L. Arnett, assistant attorney general of Texas, told the court. "All the children in Mexico" could potentially cross the border for a free public education in the United States.

Arnett made his arguments as the justices began considering a controversy stemming from a 1975 Texas law that cut off state funds to local public schools for the costs of educating the children of illegal aliens.

The state law allows districts to either refuse to admit such children or to charge them tuition. Since most illegal aliens are poverty-stricken, a tuition requirement effectively prevents their enrollment.

Lower federal courts have declared the Texas law unconstitutional, prompting the current appeal by Texas and several local school districts.

"We feel it may be a disastrous number in the future," Arnett said of the situation if the Texas law is struck down. "All you have to do is walk in and you have your rights."

But lawyers representing the interests of the children argued the Texas law is "a monument of ambiguity" and the "state has not established any rational basis" for it.

"The Immigration and Naturalization Service," attorney Peter Roos told the court, "has limited resources. They do not go after families of (illegal aliens) except in the rarest of cases."

"There is a de facto amnesty policy in the United States (that effectively dulls the likelihood of these children being identified) and deported, he said.

All nine justices took part in questioning the four lawyers involved in the case, allowing the arguments to run well over the hour allotted.

Justice Thurgood Marshall pressed the Texas attorneys on whether they would withdraw other public services from illegal aliens, such as police and fire protection.

"I would say not," replied John C. Harly, representing Tyler Independent School District. He also said illegal aliens were "afforded all the due process rights" granted citizens.

But both Harly and Arnett argued that because the federal law defined the aliens as "illegal," the state did not have an obligation to provide free education.

"The federal government has the law, and these people have violated that law," he said.

Roos argued that the intention of the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment was not limited to citizens of the United States but extended to "persons" and did not discriminate on the basis of citizenship.

More cancer victims able to live longer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the government's war against cancer said Tuesday the latest statistics from the surveillance program support his estimates that 45 percent of cancer-stricken Americans are curable to be cured.

Dr. Vincent DeVita, director of the National Cancer Institute, said the new, still preliminary data indicate the five-year survival rate for patients diagnosed with cancer between 1973 and 1979 is at least 46 percent for whites and 45 percent for all races.

He said those calculations were conservative and further analysis may show the rates are as high as 50 percent for whites and 49 percent for all races.

Except for cancers of the breast, prostate and kidney, the cancer institute says the five-year survival rate is rising and though not absolute indicator of the probability of cure for cancer patients.

DeVita presented the new statistics at Monday's opening of a three-day meeting of the National Cancer Advisory Board. He said the five-year survival rate for whites diagnosed between 1974 and 1979 was 41 percent.

"The message is clear," he said. "Patients with cancer are living longer now than ever before."

DeVita said his recent estimate that 45 percent of the 785,000 Americans found last year to have cancer are "curable" was based on an exhaustive review of results from tests of new therapies and on recent reports in medical journals.

"My estimate also is based on the assumption that physicians are now applying what we have learned in the past 10 years about the use of the combined treatment of surgery, radiation therapy and chemotherapy," he said.

He said the new five-year statistics from the cancer surveillance program "confirm and exceed our recent estimate." DeVita said he was not counting early skin or cervical cancers, which are nearly 100 percent curable.

DeVita noted it takes years to determine how the latest advances in treating cancer will affect five-year survival rates, but said the new figures show that "for the past decade, we have been more successful in treating cancer patients than we thought."

"Because of the improvement in survival rates, an estimated additional 320,000 patients diagnosed with serious cancers in the years since 1973 through 1981 will survive their disease at least five years," DeVita's report said.

"I believe these gains are real and that they are due to the progress we have made in the treatment of cancer since 1970."

Reagan's security tightens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The ring of security around President Reagan and other key officials has been drawn considerably tighter recently, spurred by unconfirmed reports that Libyan "hit squads" are seeking top-level U.S. targets.

Although Reagan's security arrangements were revised after he was shot by a would-be assassin eight months ago, further intensification of presidential protection has been apparent to observers.

While the Secret Service refrains from discussing its activities, it is clear no chances are being taken, especially in light of reports last week that Libyan leader Muammar Khadafi had threatened the top U.S. leadership. Khadafi denied dispatching teams of killers to seek victims among the U.S. leadership.

Reagan's beefed-up protection and the added caution were apparent Tuesday when he traveled to a Washington hotel to address the Conference on Aging. The president's plans were not announced in advance and the movement was kept off the record.

"You may find we will do more of that in the future," White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters later.

The tight circle was also apparent Monday, when Reagan attended a Republican fund-raising cocktail reception and $5,000-per-couple dinner in Cincinnati.

The guests were roped off 15 feet away from the podium where Reagan appeared, and the president was virtually surrounded by wary-eyed Secret Service agents when he moved along the rope to shake hands with the faithful.

Early fans of the tougher measures are simply matters of added restraint. For example, Reagan has not attended church services in public since he was shot March 30.

But lawyers representing the interests of the children argued the Texas law is "a monument of ambiguity" and the "state has not established any rational basis" for it.

"The Immigration and Naturalization Service," attorney Peter Roos told the court, "has limited resources. They do not go after families of (illegal aliens) except in the rarest of cases."

"There is a de facto amnesty policy in the United States (that effectively dulls the likelihood of these children being identified) and deported, he said.

Let probe prevail

Now that Richard Allen has stepped down temporarily as national security adviser to President Ronald Reagan, speculation over the case should end until the results of an official investigation are revealed.

Allen was no sooner out the door Monday when White House counselor Edwin Meese allowed that Allen may not return even if given a clean bill of health.

If that's so, Reagan should simply have fired Allen, or sought his resignation, and been done with it.

Allen has admitted that accepting a $1,000 payment for arranging a Nancy Reagan interview with a Japanese magazine, and then forgetting that it was in his safe, was an error in judgment. But he says that's the extent of his guilt.

By stepping aside to defend himself "outside his official position," Allen may be left twisting slowly in the wind. Allen and White House aides would be better served if they just clamped up until the investigation runs its course, the results are reported and appropriate action taken.

Quiet on the Haig front

Both United States and Soviet arms-talks negotiators at Geneva have agreed that their discussions must be cloaked in secrecy.

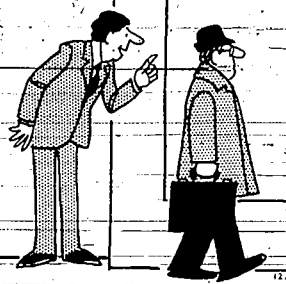

Somebody had better make sure that Secretary of State Alexander Haig understands that and does not do something stupid to undermine the sensitive parity.

Haig's speech Monday reminding Europeans that the acceptance of Pershing II and Cruise missiles is crucial to America's position at Geneva could only irritate an already festering sore spot on that continent.

Haig and President Reagan both have been guilty of making careless and inflammatory statements, which the Soviets have used for propaganda purposes. Now that the talks are under way, "mum" should be the word.

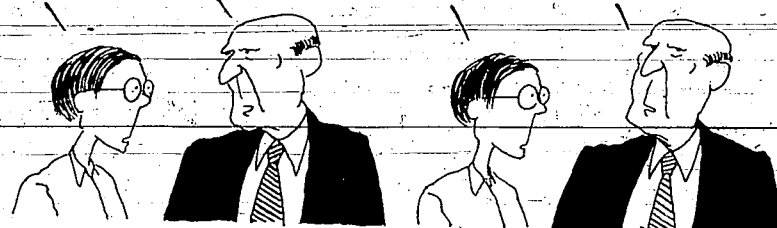

The negotiations must be carried out in a china-shop atmosphere; the bulls have to be kept away.

Essentially, he's very essential

Los Angeles Times Syndicate

November 23rd will go down in Washington bureaucratic history as Back Monday. It was the day that President Reagan ordered the government establishment to close down because there was no money to pay them. The President decreed that only those people essential to running the government be kept in place.

"Essential" was the key word that hit this town like a thunderbolt. With the presidential edict every government employee's essentiality was put in doubt.

The order of the day was for all non-essential employees to clean out their desks and go home. I stopped in to see Norman McKinney, a first-class bureaucrat, who obviously was very angry that he wasn't important enough to be kept on. "Teapot has always had it in for me," he said, as he kept opening and closing drawers in his desk. "He got in at six o'clock this morning and volunteered to serve on the Ad Hoc Non-Essential Employees Commission, the only committee in the department that was declared 'essential'."

He pulled out a pair of storm boots and a cable from one of his drawers. "I was wondering where this was?"

"What is it?"

"It's a coded cable from Nikita Khrushchev saying he wanted to defect when he came to the United Nations. He said when he took his shoe off and started banging the podium, it was his signal for us to surround him and spirit him away."

"That cable's been in your drawer all this time?"

"I don't know where I put it somewhere. No one in the department would take my word I got to so they let Khrushchev go back home."

McKinney opened another drawer and took out a large bottle of Alka Seltzer and a yellow piece of paper. He studied it for a moment and then said, "I'll be darned."

"What is it?" I asked.

"It's a $1 million check to save the New York Central Railroad. I guess I forgot to mail it. Now I remember! The Treasury sent it over at five o'clock and I stuck it in my drawer, and then the next day I had the flu, and when I got back to work it slipped my mind."

"That could happen to anybody."

McKinney kept digging in the drawer. He pulled out an old copy of "Look" magazine, a paperback copy of "Gone With the Wind," and a sheaf of papers which he studied carefully.

"Hmmm," he said, "I wonder how this got in here."

"What is it?"

"It's an application for building the Diablo Canyon Nuclear Plant on an earthquake fault. I was supposed to pass it on to the Atomic Energy Commission, recommending they turn it down. 'Maybe it's not too late,' I suggested.

"It's dated July 17, 1920. If I send in my recommendation now, it will only give Teapot ammunition that I'm not essential."

"Have you gone through the top drawer yet?"

"I'm getting it now." He took out three golf balls, a pair of ear muffs, an electric razor, a bow tie, a bus transfer and a set of blueprints.

"What do you know? I've been looking for this for years," he said.

"What is it?"

"I can't remember any more. It's either an urban renewal plan for the South Bronx, or a diagram of the Berlin Wall which we stole from an East German engineer."

"It's lucky President Reagan caused this crisis or you would have never cleaned out your drawers. Reach back; there might be something stuck in the cracks."

"McKinney did and came out with a letter." He whistled.

"Listen. This is a letter from President Nixon ordering me to immediately destroy all the tapes in the White House basement clock."

"And you stuffed it in your drawer?"

He said angrily. "I had done it right at that moment I would have missed my car pool."

Open meeting law must be reasonable

BOISE — I've written my share of editorials urging public officials for conducting closed meetings.

Idaho's open-meeting law needs to be strengthened, in view of the recent decision of the Idaho Supreme Court.

Yet, it seems reasonable that presidents and governors, and other elected administrators, should not be held to the same open-meeting standard as the one that applies to policy-making boards and commissions and legislative bodies.

Not many people would demand that the president of the United States open to press and public his meetings with his security advisors. Nor does it seem reasonable to require him to open meetings with his Cabinet, or with his economic advisors.

Such meetings may contribute to decisions with serious consequences for the nation. Yet if an executive is to carry out his obligation as an administrator, he needs a free flow of information from advisors and from subordinates. Sometimes, even with privacy, he doesn't get information or advice that he should.

The same policy applies to a governor. From Robert E. Smylie to John Evans, none of the governors I've known, or covered as a reporter, has made it practice to open up meetings with administrators with committees or with boards. There have been some, but it's an exception.

Nor have other elected state officials been expected to open up their meetings with other state officials, except when they sit as members of policy-making boards, such as the Land Board or Board of Examiners.

As a journalist, I've never been excited about journalistic assertions that government administrators have no right to meet with subordinates in private.

Also, during years as a reporter I learned that more news goes unreported because of the sins of omissions of reporters than because of closed meetings. It happens despite the best efforts of able, diligent, digging reporters.

One of the most expensive government-sponsored public works projects in history is the Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway. To date the cost of Tenn-Tom is $1 billion. The estimated cost of completing it is $2 billion.

Tenn-Tom is fundamentally a taxpayer subsidy to barge transport. It also is pouring a lot of money into Tennessee, home of Sen. Howard Baker, the Senate majority leader. Tenn-Tom has been attacked by fiscal conservatives as a boondoggle and by conservation groups as destructive of wildlife habitat.

Yet Tenn-Tom has survived the era of budget cutting. Recently Idaho Sens. James McClure and Steve Symms cast critical votes in favor of continuing to pour money into Tenn-Tom. The vote was 48-46. Because of McClure and Symms, the pork barrel rolls on in Tennessee.

Their hypocrisy is remarkable. Hardly a week goes by without a press release from these gentlemen calling for budget cuts and austerity. Yet in this vote, and in others in the past, they have been the consistent champions of government spending for economically questionable and environmentally destructive projects.

Animal shelter inadequate

Editor, Times-News:
Anyone who could turn over his grave at the affronts in a Twin Falls without a Humane Society wouldn't have far to look for inspiration. The animal and bird enclosure at Sunset Memorial Park harbors beasts who are inadequately sheltered and perhaps inadequately fed. In an area that is mostly pond, they stand or rest in whatever the weather brings — snow or silt — and have no dry or strawed windbreak, or any other device that could be construed as even minimally satisfactory. They are left to endure the bitterness of winter almost as if they were as puny as the cemetery staturary.

Although their fare may be supplemented, in recent stops by I have never seen any food or fodder stored there, for in evidence there other than a box of frozen lettuce leaves and celery scraps, presumably culled from a grocery store produce section. The small goats or sheep and park deer seem to have no off-the-ground feeding boxes or racks. And celery and lettuce are a preponderance waste, regardless of how they are served.

Few residents stop by in the winter months with handouts.

The board of directors or officers of the cemetery, or whoever is legally responsible for the creatures should be compelled to see to their best interests at the cemetery, or be obliged to winter them in a facility that meets their needs. Whoever in the city is charged with enforcing animal protection statutes has fallen short of the task. Present conditions are an affront to the memory of decent people interred at Sunset.

Whether care has deteriorated recently, or whether it has been subhuman in winters for some time past is immaterial. The animals there are concerned with today, and tomorrow.

It shouldn't be necessary

Editor, Times-News:
After reading and reflecting on Steve Lipson's article on "Clean Water" (the State of Idaho gives $1.1 million to clean up Cedar Draw, Creek) I agree it's necessary, but it shouldn't be necessary. Last year the federal government also gave $3 million of our tax monies to clean up the pollution of Rock Creek.

Agricultural runoff of topsoil is the culprit, 300 tons of topsoil from Cedar Draw dumped each day into the Snake River during its peak season. Well, at least the farmer is aware of where his topsoil is going; it's on top of the ground and he can see it.

But, what about the pollution being done to the aquifer through the dumping of agriculture chemicals, feed lots, nuclear wastes, PCB's, heavy metals (i.e. mercury, lead, etc.) and all types of sewage, which then seeps through the waste water and storm injection wells? When the aquifer gets polluted, how much money and by what technology will it be cleaned up? There's lots of substitutes these days, but none for water.

The Soil Conservation Districts offer farmers a manual on "Best Management Practices." Department of Water Resources has the responsibility for waste water injection wells and the Department of Health and Welfare has the responsibility for clean water. This department has one employee riding herd on seven counties and he's responsible for sewage treatment plants, fish farms, feed lots, etc.

Ten't foresight better than hindsight? When are we going to wake up to the fact that authority and responsibility are split and none is really watching the store? It's too bad that we always "lock the barn door after the horse is stolen."

We need more articles like Bonnie Baird-Jones' write-up on the late Claude Jones and his son Phil, who is being loyal to the skiing profession and carrying on the family tradition in a very successful way.

Truly, Claude Jones can be rightfully called the father of Magic Valley skiing, and every skier today owes him a debt of gratitude. His foresight, tenaciousness, hard work and mechanical genius are the only reasons we are still not stepping on a pair of barrel staves to be pulled down the road behind an old Model T.

Casey found clean: 'Not unfit to serve'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee concluded Tuesday that CIA Director William Casey is "not unfit to serve."

The committee, however, criticized his inattention to detail in reporting a long and lucrative business history.

The five-to-10-page report, ending a 4 1/2-month investigation of Casey, was to be officially released today. Meantime, a copy was being sent to Casey for his examination.

Although the committee reached a unanimous verdict, in keeping with its tradition, it was apparently divisions among members that led to a compromise report adopted late Tuesday, committee members told United Press International.

The committee reached a conclusion "to the effect they did not find him unfit to serve," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., a Casey critic.

"There was nothing in four months that indicates any attempt to circumvent the law or professional or ethical standards," said Casey defender Sen. Harrison Schmidt, R-N.M.

The "not unfit to serve" formulation is the same as that enunciated by committee chairman Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., shortly after the Senate committee probe began in mid-July and resumed in October.

Both Schmidt and Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Pa., said the committee's main criticism was that Casey was "inattentive" to detail in disclosing his previous legal clients and his past business dealings, some of which resulted in lawsuits against companies with which he was associated.

Huddleston, however, said, "There may have been enough evidence to come up with a more definitive conclusion," and enough for President Reagan to consider asking Casey to leave.

Senate blocks attempt to cut funds for B-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday turned back the first attempt to cut funds for the new B-1 aircraft, but rejected more money for research and development of the radar-evading Stealth bomber.

The Senate voted 51-0 to shelve an amendment by Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., that would have added $250 million to what one senator called "an enormous amount of money" already appropriated for the Stealth or Advanced Technology Bomber.

Earlier, the Senate defeated an attempt to eliminate funds for the B-1 bomber by rejecting, 55-39, an amendment that would have reallocated some of those funds for another Air Force system — the KC-10 flying tanker.

The total amount of funds for the Stealth included in the Senate's $38.5 billion defense appropriations bill is classified by rejecting, 55-39, an amendment that would have reallocated some of those funds for another Air Force system — the KC-10 flying tanker.

The dispute arose when Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., talked about the Stealth bomber and Sen. Ted Stevens, R-

Alaska, rose to say that Nunn was talking about classified material during an open session.

"The senator is completely confused on this subject," Nunn replied. He argued he had nothing that had not been dealt with during public hearings. Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., agreed with Nunn.

Stevens said the appropriations bill already contained funds for the Stealth and Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., agreed.

"There is an enormous amount of money for the Stealth in this appropriations bill and we don't need a dime more," Rudman said.

The amendment on the KC-10, offered by Levin, would have added $200 million for the purchase of four more of the flying tankers. The Senate's defense appropriations bill included funds for only four KC-10s.

The Senate bill — $7.6 billion higher than President Reagan's $209.9 billion defense budget request for fiscal year 1982 — contains over $2.4 billion for the B-1 and another $2.01 billion for the MX missile.

'Keep your grubby hands off our Social Security'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan promised the White House Conference on Aging Tuesday he will not betray the millions who collect Social Security.

A conference committee went on record against benefit cuts for current but not future recipients.

The committee on Social Security committee voted 99-17 to approve a resolution urging delegates to "strongly oppose" all cuts in benefits after voting 77-46 against including future recipient in the resolution.

"This is the gut issue," said Jacob Clayman, president of the National Council of Senior Citizens and the resolution's sponsor. "Do we cut or don't we cut?"

Clayman said the resolution tells political institutions: "Keep your grubby hands off Social Security."

But opponents like Victor Hruska of

New Jersey argued that a restriction on cutting benefits would "put the Social Security system in a straight jacket" and deny policy-makers the flexibility they need.

A vote against using general revenues to shore up the system also stirred controversy.

What's what

Q. Didn't Germany, like Japan, use kamikaze suicide pilots during World War II?
 A. Finally, yes. In March of 1945, the "Sonderkommando" pilots were sent against Allied bombers in flight. They could bail out, if they so chose. Turned out they were ineffective.

Q. What does it cost to mail a first class letter in other countries?
 A. Here are the equivalents in cents: Japan, 29. Great Britain, 33.9. France, 29.6. West Germany, 29.3. Sweden, 33.3. The Netherlands, 29.2. Australia, 26. Italy, 17.6.

LA CUCARACHA

Did I say the song "La Cucaracha" was about an insect that couldn't find enough marijuana to smoke? Not quite right, that. It's about a car once owned by Pancho Villa. Speakers of Spanish know that Cucaracha not only means cockroach, but refers in the vernacular to any dilapidated auto. General Villa's clunker was a Model T Ford. His soldiers said it ran not on gasoline but on marijuana fumes. And it didn't run much, because marijuana was pretty scarce thereabouts. General Villa had decreed that marijuana smoking in his outfit was punishable-by-death.

Almost every woman who owns contact lenses also owns framed glasses. An eye doctor reports that. Need the big one to find the little one, evidently.

Carroll Righter Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES. The early part of the day is not right for taking chances and the judgment of others could cause difficulties. Wait until the afternoon when conditions improve before making a decision.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You should take a different view and make new arrangements if a new plan is to work out right. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you take more interest in helping others with their projects, you can add to your own progress. Don't follow any hunches now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Not a good day to launch a new project. Make present plans more detailed and all goes well. Use more logic in your dealings.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are most alert to new business systems now and can make big headway into the future. Use common sense.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle regular duties early in the day so that you'll have more time for recreation later. Take time to improve your talents.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Choose your words well at home or you could have trouble. Don't take any chances where your security is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) The afternoon is fine for carrying through with monetary matters of importance. A financial expert can give you valuable advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can get the praise of a higher-up by showing increased skill in your work. Safeguard your good reputation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you don't become involved in activities that give you nothing but trouble. Take needed health treatments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't make decisions of importance early in the day. Improve your appearance and gain more confidence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do nothing that could alienate your good friends today because the planetary conditions are not favorable. Be calm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be sure you do nothing that could irk a higher-up today or you could regret it later. Take steps to improve your credit.

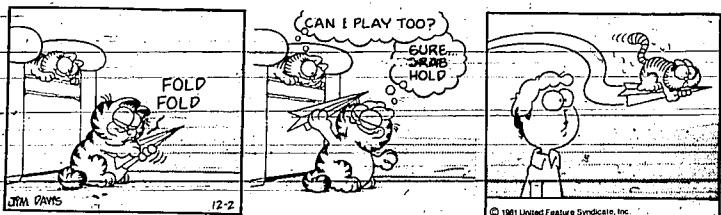

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a great problem solver if the home conditions are right. Teach that advertisement is tests for the mind to challenge. Give the right religious training. A foreign language will be most helpful to career.

Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 2, the 336th day of 1981 with 29 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius—American statesman Frank Kellogg, was born Dec. 2, 1856.

On this date in history:

In 1859, John Brown was hanged for his raid on Harpers Ferry. On the way to the gallows, he said of the Virginia countryside: "This is a beautiful country!"

In 1927, the Model A Ford was introduced as the successor to the famous Model T and was available for the first time in a variety of colors. The roadster sold for $395.

In 1942, the "Atomic Age" was born. A group of scientists demonstrated a self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction in a makeshift laboratory below the University of Chicago football stadium.

CAMPBELL VS. TUCKER
Glen Campbell has returned to the United States with his new girlfriend, a dancer named Kim Woolen. But he hasn't forgotten old flame Tanya Tucker — as a matter of fact he called her "serpent" and said other un-pleasant things about her to reporters before his flight departed from London's Heathrow Airport. About his new flame, Campbell said: "Kim is different — all straight down the line — and we come from the same part of the country." North Carolina. Campbell was born in Delight, Ark.

BAR BUST
Police in Concord, N.H., responded to complaint that a customer at a hotel cocktail lounge was kicking up a fuss: after the bartender refused to serve him any more drinks. Police said the customer was arrested when he refused to leave the lounge, and then resisted arrest. The man in police custody was James Dowrick, executive director of New Hampshire's State Liquor Commission.

PRIZE WINNER
Columbia University has created a $50,000 prize, the William Schuman Award, to be granted every two years to an American composer for lifetime achievement. The award is named after the 71-year-old American composer whose work includes ten symphonies, a great deal of orchestral work and concerti, and a baseball opera, "The Mighty Casey." The first Schuman award will be handed out on Dec. 2. It goes to none other than William Schuman.

CABLE PROBLEM
When cable television needs a star it turns to well-known names — Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca, for instance, or Milton Berle. Mike Dann, a network veteran who now is ABC's senior advisor for cable, told Weekend magazine, "Cable's biggest problem is that we haven't developed personalities, and we must. Cable personalities are rare. There's not a Linkletter, a Godfrey, a Ralph

TREE LIGHTING
Andrea McArdle, the original Broadway "Annie," and local NBC newsmen Chuck Scarborough will preside over the lighting of the Christmas tree in New York's Rockefeller Center on Dec. 7. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, celebrating his 50th Christmas as pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, will deliver a Yuletide message before the tree is turned on. This year's tree is 70

IGNORANCE IS BLISS
For country singer Freddie Fender, ignorance may be bliss. The singer, whose real name is Valdemar Huerta, has been fined $1,000 and sentenced to 30 days in jail in Corpus Christi, Texas, for violating a court order warning him not to bother his estranged wife, Evangelina. Fender's lawyer, Mills Latham, says his client was in Houston "having a good time" and probably still doesn't know about the sentence. He said Fender never was notified of the court hearing.

Transplant patient ready to go fishing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — One week after undergoing a 3 1/2 hour heart transplant operation, a 12-year-old boy is anxious to get out of the hospital and go fishing, his stepfather said Tuesday.

Richard Wann, a carpet salesman for a Calhoun, Ga., manufacturer, said Eric Boyd is getting more and more impatient with being confined to the University of Alabama Medical Center.

But despite his rapid progress, doctors say he will remain in the facility for several more weeks.

The bespectacled youngster received the heart of a 14-year-old Columbus, Ga., boy in an operation Nov. 24. He is the first person to undergo the operation in the Southeast and is also the world's youngest living recipient of a borrowed heart.

The donor, Todd Massey, died of injuries suffered in a motorbike wreck.

Wann said he plans to take his stepson to Florida on a fishing trip as soon as he's able.

"He's in a small room and he's ready to get out," said Wann. "He can look across the city and that makes him restless."

The stepfather said he and the boy's mother, Dorothy Wann, had no idea of the national publicity Eric would attract.

"We're getting calls from everywhere," he said. "It's amazing. We had no idea he was going to be such a celebrity."

Wann said the immediate problem facing the former terminally ill heart patient is getting used to new drugs designed to keep his body from rejecting the new heart.

"They have been adjusting his medication," he said. "That's the main thing, to get the medication adjusted so he won't reject the organ."

Year's worst air crash kills 178 aboard Yugoslav jetliner

AIACCIO, Corsica (UPI) — A chartered Yugoslav jet packed with tourists smashed into a cloud-shrouded mountain Tuesday, killing all 178 people aboard.

It was the worst plane crash of 1981. The Ines-Adria DC-9 Super 90 was only minutes away from touching down at Ajaccio Airport when the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations have blacklisted because they believe its landing equipment devices are not modern enough to guide jetliners down safely through the surrounding mountains.

All 172 passengers, including three infants and the six crewmembers, were Yugoslavs. The tourists were on a one-day trip to Corsica.

The crash, called the worst of the year by aviation officials, was the second worst involving a lone chartered jet and the 10th worst recorded aviation disaster.

Search parties took almost five hours to find the wreckage of the plane on scrub-covered Mount San Pietro, 15 miles southeast of the airport on the French island in the Mediterranean.

"There is not one survivor," said a police official organizing the search in the rugged terrain. Rescuers said wreckage and bodies were strewn across a wide area, indicating the plane had slammed into the ground with great force.

It was the third crash of an Ines-Adria DC-9 charter flight in six years. In 1976, one of the airline's DC-9s collided with a British Airways Trident jet over Zagreb, Yugoslavia, killing 176 in the worst in-air collision in history.

The American-built twin-jet plane that crashed Tuesday was on a 90-minute flight from Ljubljana in northern Yugoslavia when it suddenly disappeared from the radar screen in the Ajaccio control tower on its final approach.

An air controller said the pilot had radioed normally at 8:53 a.m., seven minutes before his planned 9:00 a.m. touchdown. Minutes later, the plane flew into the mountain. Police said low clouds covered the mountains in the area and the pilot was off-course when the plane hit.

The wreckage was first spotted by a search helicopter near the summit of Mount San Pietro on the southwest coast of the island where Napoleon was born.

The crash site was so remote and the terrain so rugged that rescuers said without helicopters it would take ground parties four hours from the nearest village.

They said the bodies would be flown to the church of St. Jean in the village of Petrelo-Bicchisano.

Air controllers at the regional center at Aix-en-Provence in southern France reported a distress call from the Yugoslav plane but a police official at Ajaccio dealing with the accident denied the pilot had sent an emergency call. The emergency was sounded when the plane disappeared from the radar, he said.

Ajaccio air controllers said they have been asking for more modern radar for several years but the French government has been unwilling to invest $9 million in equipment because it says not enough planes use the airport to make that cost justifiable.

Japan moves on trade imbalance with West

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki pledged Tuesday to slash import duties and cut government red tape in a bid to avert a collision with Japan's major trading partners in the West.

He realized trade friction with the United States and the EEC (Common Market) has now reached a very "critical situation," Suzuki said at his first news conference after a major Cabinet shuffle Monday.

Japan has run up a record $25 billion surplus in trade with the United States and the European Community market. As a result, Washington and European capitals have pressured Tokyo to correct the imbalance.

Japan's surplus is expected to top $15 billion with the United States alone this year.

On defense, Suzuki said his government has no intention of spending more than 1 percent of the nation's gross national product on military outlays — an established government policy. The United States has pressured Tokyo to increase its military spending to reduce the U.S. defense burden.

To pare the trade surplus, Suzuki committed his government to hastening by two years an international tariff-slashing program agreed to by the 1978 multilateral trade negotiations in Tokyo.

Acknowledging foreign businessmen's historic complaints over the necessity of overcoming a bureaucratic morass to reach the Japanese market, Suzuki also said his government will seek ways to "simplify and rationalize" administrative procedures related to imports.

"We have to rationalize and simplify standards, import procedures," a Foreign Ministry spokesman said the tariff-cutting plan was officially communicated to the U.S. Embassy and the European Economic Community mission in Tokyo.

"Whether or not other countries follow Japan's lead, we are determined to do it — even unilaterally," Suzuki said, adding he had instructed his new Cabinet Monday to carry out the program "possibly within the current fiscal year," which ends in March 1982.

If implemented, the tariff cutting program is expected to cost the Japanese treasury at least $18 million a year in lost revenues, according to unofficial calculations.

Syria: Cold shoulder for Habib's mission

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam received U.S. envoy Philip Habib Tuesday and reportedly told him that Washington's new strategic alliance with Israel barred it from mediating in the Middle East.

Syria's official media earlier criticized Habib's presence in the area.

The newspaper Tishrin said Israeli planes resumed their "provocative" flights over Lebanon as soon as Habib arrived in Beirut and suggested the timing was not coincidental but part of an American-Israeli plan.

"It is necessary for Japan to conform to international standards," Suzuki said in outlining his two-pronged policy for improving relations with Japan's trading partners.

In addition to lowering tariffs, he

The Tokyo round, concluded in 1979 among 99 nations plus the European commission, pledged to lower tariffs according to an 8-year schedule on 1,600 items to an average of 3 percent of value.

The official response to Habib's visit appeared to be as cold as the welcome extended by the state-controlled media.

According to political sources, Khaddam told Habib, "the only thing that has changed since the last visit is that the United States now has a strategic cooperation agreement with Israel."

Those who sent Habib are wrong if they think that they can implement what they failed to do in the past," the newspaper said. "Syria has a clear vision and will not change under pressure and acts of terrorism from anyone."

A Syrian government statement said Habib was expected to meet with President Hafez Assad on Wednesday and a government source said the U.S. envoy would then travel to Amman although a Jordanian Foreign Ministry official said he had no such information.

A U.S. Embassy official in Damascus said Habib conferred with U.S. Ambassador Robert Paganelli upon arrival and that he was staying at the ambassador's residence.

On previous visits, Habib's main effort was to avert a military confrontation between Syria and Israel over the deployment of Syrian air defense missiles in Lebanon. The scope of Habib's current mission reportedly was widened to include Lebanon's internal unrest and the Middle East in general.

Habib, on his fourth swing through the region since May, arrived from Lebanon just as Washington and Jerusalem approved a strategic alliance with Israel that calls for joint military planning and maneuvers.

The sources said Habib was told the accord made the United States "a party in the Middle East conflict" in Syria's view and thus ruled out a role for Washington in settling the Lebanese crisis, the object of Habib's mission.

No further comment on the meeting was made and Habib, as has become his standing rule, said nothing to reporters.

Boise policeman cleared in death of suspect in car

BOISE (UPI) — A hearing officer ruled Tuesday that the Boise Police Department was not justified in trying to suspend an officer whose patrol car was hit by a speeding motorcycle.

The incident resulted in the deaths of the biker and a suspect in the vehicle.

Boise State University professor William Overgaard, appointed by the city to conduct the hearing, said Officer William Kirkpatrick did not violate established police department policy when he decided to participate in an effort to stop the motorcycle rather than transport his prisoner to jail.

Police officials had ordered Kirkpatrick suspended without pay for two weeks as a result of the June 18, 1981, accident.

Thomas Torres and suspect Truman Romans were killed when Torres' motorcycle struck the passenger side of the patrol car while it was blocking part of Chinden Boulevard in Garden City.

Kirkpatrick appealed the suspension, claiming his action was within accepted department procedures.

Overgaard's decision was announced at a news conference by Kirkpatrick and his lawyer Frank Stoppello, counsel to the legal chapter of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers union.

Stoppello said Overgaard's decision was based on the fact that the department had not brought any charges against Kirkpatrick — but claimed he had infringed upon several rules in the department manual.

For Kirkpatrick to be found in violation of these rules, it must be shown that the department "had ordered" them in the past, Stoppello said. He said the only incident resembling Kirkpatrick's accident that could be recalled by officers involved a patrolman who set up a roadblock last year. In that case, the lawyer said, the incident was reviewed, but no action was taken against the officer.

Stoppello also said it was "seriously" considering filing a lawsuit against The Idaho Statesman for editorials it published during the hearing officer's deliberations.

The editorials did not present the facts of the accident, although the newspaper had those facts available and had published them in news reports, Stoppello said.

He admitted the newspaper's news reports had been fair and accurate, but claimed the Statesman's editorial staff had resorted to the worst form of "sensationalism" in attempting to affect the outcome of the hearing officer.

Overgaard's opinion said, "The actions taken by the grievant (Kirkpatrick) in the incident under review are substantially supported by the record of evidence as being consistent with previous police incidents, training and experience."

Kirkpatrick, who had just arrested Romans of Moscow on a drunken driving charge, was in the process of transporting Romans to the police station, when he responded to the call. He placed his police cruiser in an intercept position across the inside lane of traffic on the boulevard.

Stoppello said Torres, who was approaching Kirkpatrick's vehicle in the outside lane, suddenly switched lanes and "intentionally" struck the police car, killing himself and Romans.

Police administrators based their suspension of Kirkpatrick on charges that he left his assigned area without permission and failed to safeguard a prisoner, Stoppello said.

However, Stoppello said in emergency situations of "hot pursuit," officers are allowed to leave their areas to intervene according to the police manual. He said a "Valley All-call" had been issued to all law enforcement agencies in the area alerting them to the Garden City chase.

Stoppello said Kirkpatrick's action regarding the safety of his prisoner was based on a previous instance in which an officer had participated in a pursuit while carrying a prisoner.

Farm Bureau backs Reaganomics

POCATELLO (UPI) — The Idaho Farm Bureau Federation supports President Reagan's economic recovery program and believes those critical of the plan should give it time to work, the group's president said Tuesday.

"The President's program has only been implemented for the past two months and already the news media and others are saying it won't work," said Fields, a Grand View farmer and rancher, told those attending the federation's 42nd annual meeting in Pocatello.

"It took us 40 years to get this headache and it cannot be overcome in two months."

Fields told about 350 delegates attending the convention that some of the President's policies already are working to lower inflation and interest rates.

"The best hope of agriculture is to continue believing that inflation will be curbed by President Reagan's program," Fields said. "This would give consumers more spendable income, and as farmers and ranchers, we could expect an increase in the demand for agricultural products."

Fields said farmers also can expect some relief from government regulations this year.

"Government regulations in the past have been like an elephant sitting on a baby bird to keep it warm," he said.

However, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency are expected to concentrate inspections on only the "known bad apples" this year, he said.

Fields said the Farm Bureau has been working in the areas of energy, water development, marketing, natural resources and state planning and has made inroads in these areas over the years. But he said some problems need immediate attention.

One of those areas is the congressional mandate to establish management plans for each of the country's 90 national forests by 1982. Fields said the program will cost taxpayers as much as $50 million.

That amount could increase substantially if the plan is appealed as unacceptable as occurred in the Lolo National Forest, he said.

"If all the plans prove to be unsatisfactory and must be appealed, the cost to the taxpayer will be staggering," Fields said.

Fields said the Farm Bureau supports a multiple-use approach to management of federal lands.

Symms: No need for auto bill

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Idaho Sens. Steve Symms and James McCreary are sponsors of a bill some political analysts say came about through a high-pressure campaign and hefty contributions, it was reported Monday's largest lobbying groups, reported Monday.

The Coeur d'Alene Press reported the National Automobile Dealers Association conducted a whirlwind lobbying in August to recruit 150 sponsors for the bill.

The proposal would shoot down a proposed federal law to require used-car dealers to tell buyers exactly what condition a car is in before it is sold.

A Washington, D.C., newspaper said the car dealers' group for the bill after giving thousands of dollars to various congressmen, including $10,000 to Symms.

A spokeswoman for Symms, however, told the North Idaho newspaper Monday that the Idaho Republican backed the legislation because he was committed to it — not because of the contribution or lobbying pressure.

Neither McClure nor Rep. Larry Craig, also Republicans, are listed among the recipients of campaign contributions from the car dealers.

"I passed, Congressional Resolution 33 would eliminate a rule proposed by the Federal Trade Commission on Aug. 18.

That rule, which was designed to protect buyers from misrepresentation on used-car warranties or mechanical conditions, requires dealers to post window stickers in vehicles. Those stickers, called a buyers guide, tell buyers if a warranty or service contract is offered or if a vehicle is being sold "as is."

The FTC rule immediately was attacked by the car dealers' group, the fourth largest donor to the 1980 national elections, and conservative congressmen as being too regulatory and expensive.

And Robin Rollinson, a spokeswoman for Symms, said the senator opposes the regulation because it would be too difficult to enforce and is unnecessary. She said the senator believes there already are sufficient state laws to protect people from fraud and contract violations.

"Any connection from the car dealers' contribution and Symms' position on the used-car rule is 'ridiculous,' she added.

Counterfeit money springs up near Boise

By United Press International

Police say someone took advantage of the first major weekend of Christmas shopping to pass phony $10, $20 and $50 bills at almost a dozen stores in Boise and Nampa.

The bills were spotted by alert bank officials when the businesses turned in receipts from last weekend's sales.

Larry Koonts, manager of the Idaho First National branch in Nampa's Karcher Mall, said his office spotted counterfeit bills among receipts from six stores in the shopping complex along Colewell Ave.

Meanwhile, U.S. Secret Service Agent Robert Jones said bogus cash was also found in receipts from four retailers in Boise.

Jones said the bills have been traced to an eastern U.S. counterfeiting operation where one arrest has already been made. He said he didn't know how the phony cash found its way to the Treasure Valley.

Koonts said the quality of the bills was not outstanding, but was "pretty good compared to some I've seen."

"In looking at the bills, they appeared to be a little more yellow in color. The printing was not quite as good as a regular bill, and the texture of the paper was a little different," the bank manager said.

Jones said the bills were printed on an offset press, like "most common" method used by counterfeiters.

Dunn wants waste-injection wells regulated

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Water Resources Department Director Kenneth Dunn says he wants to set up a permanent state program to regulate underground waste-injection wells.

The program would include permanent monitoring of wells at the Idaho

National Engineering Laboratory, which injects radioactive wastewater into the Snake River Aquifer in eastern Idaho.

Dunn said Monday the agency must decide by January whether to press forward with its own monitoring program or let the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency take over the duty.

Dunn said the Legislature would need to appropriate $20,000 for the state program in fiscal year 1982 and the federal government would supply another $60,000.

Boise Cascade mills remain closed

BOISE (UPI) — Boise Cascade Corp. officials say layoffs and shutdowns will not let up this month at the company's five southwest Idaho sawmills.

Corporation spokesman Glen Youngblood said he did not know when the mills might be reopened. About 500 of the company's 800 hourly employees at the mills have been laid off since the October shutdown at facilities in Cascade, Council, Emmett and Horseshoe Bend.

Doug Bartels, another company spokesman, said economic conditions made it too risky to predict when the mills might resume full operations.

"The stagnant housing market was blamed for Boise Cascade's problems. Bartels said he did not expect significant improvement in the housing industry until mid-1982, although declining interest rates could bring some relief before then. The overall strength of the economy and any recovery in housing will determine the sawmills' schedule, he said.

Evans says federal cuts threaten help

MOSCOW (UPI) — Gov. John Evans says an anticipated $25 million to $30 million loss in federal funds to Idaho will severely reduce the state's ability to help children with physical, emotional and behavioral problems.

Evans, speaking at the Governor's Conference on Children and Youth at the University of Idaho Monday, said funding for children's programs has been cut by 30 percent at the federal level. He said that means Idaho's governmental agencies and non-profit organizations dealing with children must find ways of making up the difference.

The Moscow children's conference was the second of three such events scheduled in the state. The first session was in Boise last week, while the final event is set for Pocatello next week.

Governor to visit final 5 counties

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans will take his Capital-for-a-Day program to five counties this month, completing his visits to all of Idaho's 44 counties.

Evans will be in Canyon County Dec. 10-11; Bear Lake County, Dec. 15; Franklin County, Dec. 16; and Ada County, Dec. 18. He had announced earlier that he would be in Elmore County on Dec. 9.

In each of the counties, Evans confers with local elected officials, presides at town meetings, meets with senior citizen and civic groups and visits with anyone wishing to talk to him.

Idaho lab experiments successful

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A series of 10 experiments conducted at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, near Idaho Falls has provided evidence that the core of a light-water nuclear reactor can be cooled by the flow of cooling water and steam without the use of pumps.

The tests, conducted from June through November, simulated conditions that might occur as a result of a small break in a nuclear reactor primary coolant system.

The experiments demonstrated the ability to keep the core cool by natural circulation when more than half of the coolant was lost through leakage.

Natural circulation was shown to provide adequate cooling even when the level of coolant in the secondary cooling system dropped 8 percent of normal. The secondary system draws heat from the primary system, which carries heat away from the core.

State receives $1.9 million check

BOISE (UPI) — A check for $1,904,949 was received Tuesday by State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon from the federal government as Idaho's share of mineral leasing and Taylor Grazing Act receipts for a six-month period.

Miss Moon said most of the money will go to Idaho's public school income fund, with smaller portions being distributed to the Public School Endowment Fund and the counties.

The money represents payment of bonuses, royalties and rentals received under federal mineral and grazing leases in Idaho for the period from April 1 through Sept. 30.

Boise vandalism blamed on juveniles

BOISE (UPI) — Police say they believe juveniles were responsible for the estimated $100,000 damage caused to mining equipment, machinery and other items in two J.R. Simplot Co. warehouses during the weekend.

Simplot officials said geologic, survey and mining equipment, typewriters and two vehicles were among the items wrecked or damaged in the two southwest Boise warehouses.

Police said it appeared three juveniles broke into the warehouses sometime Saturday and spent several hours in a spree of destruction. The damage was discovered Monday.

Engineers find more errors in design of Diablo plant

BERKELEY (UPI) — Several new errors of suspected design error were added to a growing list this week in a draft report by an independent consulting firm hired to review work at the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant.

The findings were contained in a report disclosed this week by the Berkeley consulting firm, Robert L. Clark Associates.

The draft report cites flaws in the earthquake support system for the building housing the reactor control room and fuel-loading facilities. The floor of the reactor's control room may be more prone to earthquake movement than its existing design permits, the report states.

It also criticizes Pacific Gas & Electric Co.'s record-keeping at the facility, saying little or no documentation exists to prove that dozens of parts of the nuclear plant can withstand the earthquake forces for which they were designed.

The firm was hired last October by PG&E to review specific work done at the plant, Bobby Faulkenberry, regional inspection chief for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said Tuesday.

which also concludes the earthquake design process at the plant is "satisfactory in its main features" but "has no meaning now" because the situation has changed so much.

It was prepared on ground rules set back in late October that have since been changed," he said.

Faulkenberry explained that PG&E, owner of the plant, hired the firm to conduct the study last fall when problems first surfaced.

PG&E officials were not available for comment on the report's findings.

Last month, the NRC suspended the plant's low-power test license pending review of errors calling into question the ability of the facility to withstand an earthquake. The $2.3 billion plant is located about two miles from the Hosgri Fault, part of the San Andreas Fault system.

In suspending the plant's low-power test license, the NRC required PG&E to submit a program plan for re-verification of work by eight contractors, as well as recommendation of an independent contractor to do the job, Faulkenberry said.

He said portions of the preliminary report may be incorporated in the final review.

Faulkenberry also criticized the report's overall conclusion that the earthquake design process is "satisfactory in its main features."

"My own personal feeling is that they are going to have to provide a hell of a lot more justification than they have to show that there are no serious consequences to these errors."

A technical consultant for Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s office said the report raises more questions than it answers.

"It clearly shows these errors are no isolated incident but that they exist everywhere," said Richard Hubbard of the San Jose consulting firm, MHB Technical Associates.

Montana area denied wilderness status

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — Congress has been advised by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block to not give wilderness status to 85,769 acres of the Elkhorn Mountains in southwestern Montana.

Block did propose that the roadless area be set aside as a special-wildlife area that would be managed to emphasize its wildlife resources and existing roadless and scenic values.

Forest Service officials, in their final environmental impact statement, touted the proposal as a unique management proposal, but it drew mixed reviews from wilderness advocates and opponents.

The Forest Service said it recommended against wilderness designation because of widespread evidence of human activities in the area, chiefly from timber cutting and mineral exploration.

The high mineral potential in the Elkhorn Mountains also was cited as a reason against a wilderness designation. The area has proven mineral reserves of gold, silver, copper, molybdenum, lead, zinc, iron and possibly uranium and thorium, the report said, with most considered nationally significant.

Utility survives deadline

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — A Tuesday deadline in the Washington Public Power Supply System's financial battle to mothball two partially built nuclear plants passed without incident.

The supply system had enough cash left over from November to extend up to two weeks the final date for December loan payments, said WPPSS spokesman James Hughes.

But an evening meeting of the Tacoma City Council was expected to determine the eventual success of the plan.

Tacoma city fathers were to clarify their conditions for contributing the city's $3.92 million share of the November-December loans needed to continue the mothballing process for nuclear projects 4 and 5.

The participants committee for projects 4 and 5, made up of representatives of the 88 public utilities in Washington, Oregon and Idaho which own the two plants, planned to meet Wednesday in Vancouver, Wash.

"I would think WPPSS faces relatively quick termination of those two plants," if Tacoma fails to fully fund its share, said Hughes.

Public utilities were to contribute $18.2 million for the December loans to WPPSS. Three private utilities and 12 major energy-using industrial firms were to lend another $11.8 million.

Coast Guard quits search for vessel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The wreckage of a 51-foot ketch and the bodies of two female crewmembers may lie somewhere beneath the waters off the California coast, but the Coast Guard doubts it and has given up its search.

Cmdr. Jim McCartin said there wasn't enough evidence to confirm that the yacht Freedom II sank or that anyone drowned in the incident.

Furthermore, the two men who claimed to be survivors of the wreck have disappeared.

However, McCartin said the Coast Guard would reopen the case if the two survivors — John P. Russell and Robert Dozier — were found; if the bodies of Kristen Tomlin, 24, and Suzanne Russell, 30, were found; or if the wreck of the Freedom II was discovered.

McCartin said local law enforcement agencies had indicated to him they would continue their investigations.

Suspect arrested in school blast

ESTACADA, Ore. (UPI) — An 18-year-old Estacada man faces arson charges in connection with two explosions that rocked the Estacada High School this past weekend.

Jeffrey Alan Ashbaugh was arrested by Clackamas County sheriff's officers, detectives and the State Police arson squad. The time and place of his arrest was not released.

A sheriff's deputy said Monday night the suspect's motive could not be revealed. Officers said a second suspect was being sought.

TOO BUSY TO BAKE?

Beautiful Nut Breads to Freeze Now and Bake Later

As holidays and special occasions approach, schedules become more hectic and life is generally more hurried. Planning a party menu or selecting a personalized gift can become a dilemma and can take some of the fun out of celebrations.

But there is no need to look farther than your own kitchen to discover lovely gift ideas and tempting foods for special meals. The home-baked nut classics pictured here, for example, are more heart-warming and impressive than the most sophisticated gifts in the world. Nothing beats the taste and aroma of freshly baked nut breads and nothing touches the spirit like a home-made gift.

The real beauty of these loaves is in the convenience of their preparation. FREEZER ALMOND LOAVES

Makes 3 loaves

- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup margarine
- 1 cup warm water (105° F-115° F)
- 3 packages Fleischmann's® Active Dry Yeast
- 6 to 6 1/2 cups unsifted flour
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1/2 cup dark seedless raisins
- 1/4 cup chopped Planters® Blanched Almonds
- 1/4 cup chopped citron
- 1/4 cup chopped candied cherries
- Confectioners' sugar frosting

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle in Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, 3 cups flour and cardamom. Beat until smooth. Add raisins, Planters® Blanched Almonds, citron, cherries, and enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Divide dough into 3 equal pieces. Form each piece into a smooth ball. Flatten each ball into a round, 5 inches in diameter. Place on a greased baking sheet. Cover lightly with plastic wrap. Freeze until firm. Transfer to plastic bags. Keep frozen up to 5 weeks. Remove from freezer, unwrap and place on ungreased baking sheets. Cover; let stand at room temperature until fully thawed, about 4 hours. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 2 hours. Bake at 375° F. for 20 to 25 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. When cool, frost with confectioners' sugar frosting. If desired, garnish with Planters® Blanched Almonds, candied cherries and citron.

FIG-PECAN COFFEECAKE

Makes 2 coffeecakes

- 5 1/4 to 5 3/4 cups unsifted flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 packages Fleischmann's® Active Dry Yeast
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) margarine, softened
- 3/4 cup very warm tap water (120° F-130° F)
- 2 eggs (at room temperature)
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 tablespoon milk
- Confectioners' sugar frosting
- Candied cherries
- Citron
- Planters® Pecans

Prepare Fig Pecan Filling (below). Refrigerate until ready to use. In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 cup flour, sugar and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Add softened margarine. Gradually add very warm tap water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and 1/2 cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a stiff dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Divide dough in half. Roll one half to a 16 x 12-inch rectangle. Cut rectangle from 12-inch side into 4 strips, 16 x 3 inches each. Spread with equal amounts of half of the prepared Fig Pecan Filling. Roll up each strip tightly from 16-inch side as for a jelly roll. Pinch seams to seal. Braid 3 rolls together and place on a greased baking sheet in the shape of a circle open at one end. Shape remaining roll into a bow over the opening of the circle. Cover baking sheet lightly with plastic wrap, then with aluminum foil; place in freezer. Repeat with remaining dough and filling. Keep frozen up to 4 weeks. Remove from freezer; unwrap. Cover; let stand at room temperature until fully thawed, about 2 1/2 hours. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Brush with a mixture of egg yolk and milk, bake at 375° F. for 15 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Frost with confectioners' sugar frosting and decorate with candied cherries and citron.

Fig Pecan Filling: Combine 2 cups sliced dried figs and 1 1/2 cups water in a saucepan. Bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat; cook until mixture is thick, about 3 minutes. Stir in 1/2 cup chopped Planters® Pecans. Cool.

To bake without freezing: After shaping, let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake as directed above.

CRANBERRY-ALMOND BRAID

Makes 3 loaves

- 5 3/4 to 6 1/4 cups unsifted flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 packages Fleischmann's® Active Dry Yeast
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) margarine, softened
- 1 cup very warm water (120° F-130° F)
- 3 eggs (at room temperature)
- Confectioners' sugar frosting
- Planters® Sliced Almonds

Prepare Cranberry Filling (below). Refrigerate until ready to use. In a large bowl thoroughly mix 2 1/4 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Add softened margarine. Gradually add very warm water to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and 1/4 cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Divide dough into 3 equal pieces. Roll one piece into a 12-inch square. Cut into 3 lengthwise strips, 12 x 4 inches each. Spread centers of strips with 1/3 prepared Cranberry Filling. Seal edges and ends very firmly, forming long filled ropes. Braid ropes together. Pinch ends to seal; tuck underneath. Place on greased baking sheet. Cover lightly with plastic wrap; place in freezer. Repeat with remaining pieces of dough and filling. When firm, remove from baking sheets and wrap each braid with plastic wrap, then with aluminum foil. Keep frozen up to 4 weeks. Remove from freezer; unwrap and place on ungreased baking sheets. Let stand covered loosely with plastic wrap at room temperature until fully thawed, about 2 hours. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until more than doubled in bulk, about 1 3/4 hours. Bake at 375° F. for 15 to 20 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Frost with confectioners' sugar frosting and decorate with Planters® Sliced Almonds.

Cranberry Filling: Combine 1 1/2 cups ground fresh cranberries, a large ground fresh orange and 1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar in a saucepan. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer until thickened, stirring occasionally.

To bake without freezing: After shaping, let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake as directed above.

CHERRY & NUT SWIRLS

Makes 3 dozen

- 2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup chopped Planters® Pecan Pieces
- 1 cup chopped candied cherries
- 5 3/4 to 6 1/4 cup unsifted flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 packages Fleischmann's® Active Dry Yeast
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) margarine
- 3 eggs (at room temperature)
- 1 tablespoon margarine, melted

Beat together cream cheese and 1/3 cup sugar. Add egg yolks and vanilla; beat well. Add Planters® Pecan Pieces and cherries; beat until cheese mixture becomes pink in color. Refrigerate until ready to use. In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1 3/4 cups flour, 3/4 cup sugar, salt and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Combine water and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until very warm (120° F-130° F). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and 3/4 cup flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Divide dough into 3 equal pieces. Roll out one piece to a 12 x 10-inch rectangle. Spread 1/3 of prepared cheese filling over dough to within 1/2-inch of the long ends. Roll up like a jelly roll from long end. Repeat with remaining two pieces of dough and filling. Cover with plastic wrap. Place in freezer. Repeat with remaining dough and filling. When rolls are frozen, place in plastic bags in groups of twelve. Freeze up to 4 weeks. For 1 dozen rolls: Remove 1 bag from freezer, unwrap loosely cover and let stand at room temperature until fully thawed, about 1 hour and 15 minutes. With palm of hand, flatten rolls out to 2 1/2-inch circles. Place on greased baking sheet. Cover; let rise in warm places, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour and 30 minutes, or until done. Let cool 10 minutes before removing from baking sheet. Continue cooling on wire rack. Decorate as desired. To bake without freezing: After shaping rolls, cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Bake as directed above.

'Don't get caught napping,' advise these careful shoppers

By MARTIN SLOANE
©United Feature Syndicate

Smart shoppers pay close attention to prices. The importance of doing so is illustrated by the experiences of these readers.

Mr. W. W. Watta from Manchester, N.H., tells of an incident that impressed on her the need to check the prices — "end-of-aisle" specials against the regular shelf prices.

"One day I went grocery shopping with my husband," she reports. "While I was looking for the items on my shopping list, he was roaming around the store.

"Suddenly he came over to me all excited about the great buy he had found on ketchup. He had picked up four bottles for $1 from an end-of-aisle display. I was standing in the ketchup aisle and picked a bottle of the same size and brand off the shelf. It was marked 23 cents. It pays to check the prices."

Gene Lapkiewicz of Bayonne, N.J., often shops late on Saturday, the last day when weekly sale prices are good.

"By the time I do my shopping, the clerks are already putting out merchandise with the regular Sunday prices," says Gene. "For example, a popular brand of soda is regularly 89 cents a bottle, but the store often has it on sale for 69 cents. By late Saturday afternoon, the bottles marked 89 cents are already back on the shelves."

"My solution to this problem is to put the sale price next to each sale item on my shopping list. When I pick the item off the shelf, I double-check the price marking to make sure that I'm getting the bargain I expected."

Joseph Riedo of Stamford, Conn., tells how he learned to pay more attention to what's going on at the cash register.

"I recently made a quick stop at the supermarket to pick up two items that cost 99 cents each," he says. "To save time I took two dollar bills out of my wallet as I was standing in the checkout line. But when the clerk rang up the two items, the total came to $3.45.

"I said that there must have been some mistake. He saw that the two items were marked 99 cents each and agreed that "something must be wrong with the machine." The clerk rang them up again and the correct amount of $1.98 was shown.

"Since then I have made it a practice to keep a careful eye on the register as each item is rung up and to spot-check the tapes with my own adding machine when I get home. In one case I found that my coupons were added to my bill instead of subtracted!"

Donald Heck of Allentown, Pa., has found a way to cut down on mistakes at the checkout counter.

"I carry a small electronic calculator around with me at the supermarket," he says. "It is great for figuring unit prices. When I get to the checkout counter, I make sure the cashier sees the calculator before she starts ringing up my purchases. The cashier has to be much more careful about ringing up my items. It has proven to be a great deterrent to cash-register mistakes."

Kids in hospitals watch more TV than usual

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Children who are hospitalized watch more TV than they do when they are home and too often the programs they watch are aimed at adult audiences, according to a newly published study.

The television viewing habits of 845 hospitalized children at The Children's Hospital of Winnipeg, Man., Canada, were watched during the study between Nov. 1979 and Feb. 1980 by a team headed by Deborah N. Waldner Guttenberg, reports an article in the current issue of Pediatrics, the journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The average child in the study watched 3.9 hours of TV between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on weekdays, 5 hours on Saturday, and 4.3 hours Sunday. In contrast, researchers say the average child at home watches 2.5 hours of TV per day. In an average 24-hour period, the study said, one-third of the time "nobody appeared to have actively selected the program being viewed" by the six children.

It doesn't have to sit overnight

Moms can love this chicken soup

By BEV BENNETT
©Chicago Sun-Times

According to popular theory, soup always tastes better when slowly simmered (that translates to a few hours to sit overnight in the refrigerator before serving. It's true, though little consolation to anyone who can't resist a quick bowl of soup. Instead of those 24-hour specials, I usually prepare my progressive chicken soup.

This is a concoction that will take as little as 40 minutes to prepare. I chop a block of table if I'm rushed, but can be nursed for hours if I'm in the mood for an old-fashioned soup from scratch.

The quickest way to prepare this soup is to use a can of chicken broth (the 13-ounce size will suffice rather than opening a second can) and some leftover chicken.

If you don't have leftover chicken, poach two chicken thighs in water and/or white wine while the vegetables are cooking, then slice the meat from the bone and add to the soup. The broth that results from the chicken cooking will be too anemic to use in the soup.

The leisurely way to prepare the soup is to make a stock from scratch using a stewing hen, plenty of water, a clove-studded onion, a bouquet garni and seasonings. After a few hours the chicken is removed from the pot, and the broth de-fatted (and clarified if desired).

If that seems like a lot of work for one or two people, stick with the recipe that follows.

Chicken vegetable soup
Time: about 30 minutes (using leftover chicken and canned broth).
Cost: less than $2.50

1 small onion, peeled and chopped
1 medium carrot, peeled and chopped
1 medium potato, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch dice
2 cups chicken broth
Generous pinch crushed-dried marjoram
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup (an 8-ounce can) stewed tomatoes

1 cup diced or shredded cooked chicken
In medium saucepan combine onion, carrot and potato with chicken broth. Season with marjoram, salt and pepper to taste. Cook over low heat, uncovered, for about 10 minutes. Add stewed tomatoes and chicken and simmer about 10 minutes longer or until potatoes are tender. Makes 2 generous servings.

Cheesy bread
Time: about 1 hour
Cost: about $1.25

1 1/2 cups milk, divided
1/2 cup cornmeal
1 tablespoon butter
4 ounces sharp cheddar cheese, grated
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash red pepper flakes
1 large egg
Butter

Stir 1 cup milk into cornmeal in saucepan. Cook over low-medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens to consistency of mush (or very thick oatmeal). Remove from heat and stir in remaining milk.

1 tablespoon butter, cheese, baking powder, salt and red pepper. Stir briskly so cheese melts and blends into mixture. Beat egg lightly and stir into cornmeal mixture. Spoon into greased 1-quart casserole and bake in pre-heated 325-degree oven about 45 minutes. Top with pat of butter and serve while still hot. Makes 2 generous servings.

Note: This has the texture of pudding, not bread. The top will be very lightly browned when done and the center should feel fairly firm to the touch. This doesn't taste as good cold or rewarmed.

Sauce is secret for top fish dishes

Times-News Correspondent

What's a secret for fish-eating deliciousness? The sauce or dip the fish is featured with which doesn't overpower the texture and basic fish flavors.

Why talk about eating fish during the holiday season? Most every mouth needs some taste buds despite whether as an appetizer or in-between holiday celebration meals.

In addition, fish makes nutritious eating. And above all, fish is considered by most nutritionists to be the best protein-eating of all "meats."

In blender jar, combine and thoroughly mix mayonnaise and sour cream. Add parmesan cheese, dillweed, onion, vinegar, pepper, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce and garlic. When well-blended, scrape sauce from blender jar into storage jar. Cover storage jar and refrigerate a few hours before serving. This chilling will allow flavors to blend. May use as fish dip or sauce, or as a dressing for crisp green salad. (Makes about 4 1/2 cups.)

NO-TOMATO SHRIMP DIP
 1/2 cup chicken broth
 1 tablespoon curry powder (use more if desired)
 4 teaspoon cornstarch pinch white pepper
 4 tablespoons water
 1/2 cup mayonnaise
 salt, season to taste
 In saucepan, combine chicken broth and curry powder. Bring mixture to boiling point, simmer 15 minutes. In small bowl, blend cornstarch with water; gradually stir into curry mixture. Stir sauce constantly while it cooks. When cornstarch is fully cooked, sauce will be thick and clear. Remove sauce from heat; cool to room temperature. Stir in mayonnaise and blend well. Cover and chill for a few hours before serving. Makes a good dip or sauce for shrimp as well as other fish and meats. (Makes 3/4 cup.)

TARTAR SAUCE
 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
 1/4 cup real mayonnaise
 1 hard-cooked egg, finely chopped
 1 or 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
 3 tablespoons green onion finely chopped
 2 tablespoons dry white wine (optional)
 In mixing bowl combine sour cream, mayonnaise, chopped egg, pickle relish, chopped onion and wine; cover and chill a few hours to blend flavors. Serve as dip or sauce for fish or cold meats. (Makes 1 1/2 cups.)

THE MARKET'S BEST MARKET BUYS: It's not surprising that the most-moving items off the shelves after Thanksgiving are breads, mayonnaise and sandwich accompaniments. Most people ease the holiday strain on their budgets by "living off the fat" of their turkey, ham and leftovers for a few days.

Traditionally, turkey prices go up between Thanksgiving and Christmas. But not this year. The turkey glut on the market will hold prices down.

Salad a good use for leftover turkey

By LINDA MOLL
 Chicago Sun-Times

Leftover turkey has its advantages and disadvantages for a cook. On the plus side, it means that getting up in the wee hours on the holiday morning to start stuffing is worth not only a delicious dish on the holiday, but a head start on meals for days to come.

On the minus side, it means that you now have to think of interesting ways to use all that leftover meat. There are old standards, of course. If you can still get nice neat slices and the meat isn't too dried, you can make sandwiches. Casseroles are a better bet if you only have chunks of turkey, or if you were too stuffed yourself to get up and wrap the meat immediately.

With the salad, serve your own bread. Zucchini-cheddar-almond bread is a quick bread that can be mixed and baked in an hour. Zucchini is available all year at the grocery store.

1/2 cup chopped celery
 3 tablespoons sliced scallion
 1 teaspoon salt
 one-eighth teaspoon pepper
 4 drops hot pepper sauce
 1/2 cup mayonnaise

Halve 2 of the grapefruit. With curved knife, loosen and remove sections to bowl. Squeeze remaining juice; reserve for another use. Pull out and discard membrane from shell. Arrange shells on tray. Add remaining ingredients, except third grapefruit, to bowl; toss to blend. Spoon salad into shells, dividing evenly. Peel and section remaining grapefruit; use sections for garnish. Chill until serving time. Serves 4.

Zucchini-cheddar-almond bread
 Time: about 1 hour
 Cost: less than $3.70
 1 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup margarine or butter
 2 1/2 cups biscuit mix
 1 tablespoon snipped parsley
 1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves
 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup shredded zucchini

1 cup shredded cheddar cheese (about 4 ounces)
 3/4 cup toasted chopped almonds

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease and flour 9-by-1-inch round pan. Cook and sift onion and margarine until onion is tender; cool slightly. Mix sauteed onion, biscuit mix, parsley, basil, thyme, milk and eggs; beat vigorously 1 minute. Stir in remaining ingredients. Spread in pan. Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, about 40 minutes. Cool slightly; remove from pan.

Potatoes sure-fire meal makers

By Chicago Sun-Times

Easy to cook, filling and inexpensive, potatoes are a good buy, even for meals that aren't half-baked. And they are simple enough to make dining entries for days when you have no more energy than time.

Potatoes can be purchased in a variety of forms. New potatoes are delicious boiled in their skins and served with a liberal dose of sweet butter and a sprinkling of salt.

Convenience products like packaged scalloped potatoes, although not as economical as the homemade variety, can save labor, which makes them worth the extra money to some cooks. And they keep on the pantry shelf almost indefinitely.

Convenience scalloped potatoes find their way into a quick dinner entrée called seafarer casserole. A blend of tuna, sour cream, chili sauce and sliced potatoes, the dish is ready to bake in minutes.

Potatoes Roquefort and pommes de terre à la dauphinoise team potatoes with cheese. Both are the perfect accompaniment to something simple such as roasted meat, fish or fowl.

The potatoes for potatoes Roquefort are baked, the center removed and whipped with blue cheese. Once refilled, the potatoes are sprinkled with seasoned bread crumbs and baked so they come to the table brown and crusty.

Pommes de terre à la dauphinoise is a dish created with sliced potatoes and onions layered with Gruyere, a cheese known for its fine melting quality.

ing water and milk. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Bake in 400-degree oven 30 to 35 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Let stand a few minutes before serving. Serves 4.

Potatoes Roquefort
6 potatoes
1/2 cup firmly-packed Roquefort or other blue cheese
Whipping cream
Sautéed pepper
one-third cup crushed bread crumbs

1/2 clove garlic, mashed
2 tablespoons melted butter
Bake scrubbed potatoes in 350-degree oven for 1 hour or until easily pierced. Slice off tops and scoop out pulp. Reserve shells. Mash potato pulp or press through a ricer; beat in cheese. Gradually beat in enough cream until mashed potato is light and fluffy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Spoon potato mixture into reserved potato shells, heaping filling high in bowl; mix crumbs, garlic and butter. Sprinkle mixture over potatoes. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until brown and crusty.

Pommes de terre à la dauphinoise
6 potatoes, peeled and sliced 1/4 inch thick
3 onions, cut into rings

Salt and pepper
3 cups grated Gruyere cheese
3 cups milk

Layer potatoes and onions in greased 2 1/2-quart casserole. Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper and cheese. Pour milk over casserole. Cover and bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove cover and bake for another 30 minutes or until potatoes are easily pierced and top is golden brown.

Potatoes à l'Alsacienne
1/4 cup butter
1 small green cabbage, cored and chopped coarsely
2 large onions, chopped
6 potatoes, cooked, peeled and thinly sliced
1/2 cup flour
1 (13-ounce) can chicken broth
2 cups grated cheese (bowl, port salt or St. Paulin)

In large saucepan or Dutch oven, heat butter and sauté cabbage and onions until wilted. Place cabbage, onions and potatoes in shallow 3-quart casserole. Stir flour into pan juices. Gradually stir in chicken broth. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Pour sauce over vegetables. Sprinkle top of casserole with cheese. Bake in pre-heated 350-degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes or until brown and bubbly. Serves 6.

Drugs unnecessary for weight loss: study

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A study of 104 women over an 18-month period has led to the conclusion that "people don't have to rely on drugs to lose weight — in fact, they should not," according to Dr. Linda Craighead, assistant professor of counseling at Penn State University.

Dr. Craighead said that "behavior modification therapy," in other words, learning new eating habits, is much more important and "can allow you to become the master of your own fate." In the study, the women were put on the same 1,200-calorie diet. One group used prescription diet drugs and lost an average 32 pounds; a second group on combined drugs and behavior therapy lost an average 34 pounds; and a third group on behavior therapy alone lost an average 34 pounds.

Potatoes and carrots
1 1/2 pounds new potatoes
2 bouillon cubes
4 carrots, pared and cut into 1/2-inch slices
1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
Dash pepper

Scrub potatoes. Place in medium saucepan with 1/2 inch water and bouillon cubes. Cover, bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes. Add carrots, cover, bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes longer or until vegetables are tender. Drain off all but 1/4 cup cooking liquid. Add butter, parsley and pepper. Mix lightly. Serves 4 to 6.

Seafarer casserole
1 (5-ounce) package scalloped potatoes
2 1/2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup milk
2 (7-ounce) cans tuna, drained and flaked
1/2 cup sour cream
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup chopped parsley
Empty packaged potato slices into ungreased 2-quart baking dish; sprinkle with sauce mix. Stir in boil-

Dear Abby

Piper must be paid if host wants tune

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

"My violin never dines." FELIX DE COLA
DEAR FELIX: Beautiful! Kreisler should have gone and taken his violin — with no strings attached.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please warn parents about the danger of feeding their small children peanut butter! My beautiful 2 1/2-year-old grandson choked on peanut butter six weeks ago. The peanut butter lodged in his throat, cutting off his oxygen. His breathing and heart stopped and he was clinically dead for several minutes. He was resuscitated by CPR, but there had been extensive damage to his brain.

The child is still in a coma, paralyzed from the neck down. How long this dear baby will live in this condition, no one knows.

The baby's father said he doesn't want his boy to be lost in getting the word to other parents that warning labels should be put on peanut butter jars so other children can be saved.

I thank you and Tim sure parents everywhere will thank you for helping to spread this message and for the lives it may save.

— HEARTBROKEN IN CALIF.
DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Your little grandson has my prayers, and his family has my sympathy. Be assured that millions of people will read this and, I hope, heed the warning. I agree, a warning label should be printed on every jar of peanut butter.

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for your advice — to someone else, which I borrowed, and for which I am extremely grateful. For several years I'd been kicking around the idea of going to law school, but every year I'd think of the years needed for school and the required year of clerking in Canada, and I'd say, no, I'll be too old. Then you printed a letter from a man who was 36 (the age I'll be when I finish) and wanted to go to medical school. He needed another two years of undergrad work, then med school and internship, a total of seven years.

"My God—Abby," he wrote, "in seven years I'll be 42!"

Your reply was simply, "And how old will you be in seven years if you DON'T go to med school?"

"It hit me like a ton of bricks! I applied to and was accepted by the law school at the University of Victoria, just two miles from my home. We're now in the seventh week of classes and I still just shake my head and pinch-myself because I'm having so much fun I can't believe it!"

The money is tight. My wife is working to clear the decks of everyday clutter so that I can concentrate on school. It's a lot of work, but I love it. How can I thank you?

— TIM P. IN BRITISH COLUMBIA
DEAR TIM: You already have. Good luck and God bless.

Dr. Lamb

Hearing loss requires careful check

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

by immersing myself in water at progressively lower temperatures?

DEAR READER: Don't try it. Chills are similar to what you described: red blotches that often itch develop on the skin, usually over the feet—and hands—if a person has repeated cold exposure a chronic condition can develop.

I don't know what you have but there is also a condition called urticaria which means hives that develop on exposure to cold. This is an allergic reaction. You might get some benefits from antihistamines before exposure if that is the case. Otherwise the best bet is to avoid cold exposure.

DEAR DR. LAMB — An ear specialist diagnosed my hearing problem as a loss of hearing of the high decibel sounds.

He said it was caused by deterioration of the nerve ending that transmits the sound from the ear to the brain. I was given a hearing test that recorded a sharp decline as the high notes were reached.

Sometimes I have no trouble hearing and other times I hear sounds but the words are garbled. I'm 63 years old and in good health. I was told there is no help for my problem except a hearing aid. Is the diagnosis correct? — Is it true that only a hearing aid can help? I am very upset about the idea of wearing a hearing aid and would prefer to explore any other avenues.

DEAR READER — While I can't say for sure that you have been diagnosed correctly, your description of slightly muffled sounds as if you had been in a noisy room is the most common type that occurs as people get older. And it is caused by nerve damage. It is very similar to nerve damage hearing loss from exposure to noise. Before anyone is fitted with a hearing aid, he should have a careful examination by an ear specialist or audiologist. Not everyone can be benefited by a hearing aid. In many situations the hearing aid should be adjusted to the type of hearing disorder the patient has.

The garbled sounds you hear suggest amplification of some sounds and loss of others. A plain hearing aid may not help in that case. One adjusted to amplify mostly the frequencies you have lost will.

I am sending you the Health Letter No. 164, Your Vital Hearing, which explains the diagnosis and management of the different hearing disorders. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10101.

There are types of hearing disorders that can be corrected by surgery. Still others are related to diseases in the middle ear that can be treated and after recovery the hearing returns. The first step in doing the right thing is to establish the actual cause of the hearing loss.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a married female and am 54 years old. About two years ago while walking at the beach during a cool windy day my face broke out with red blotches.

In addition, I noticed that my thighs were covered with red blotches. When I went indoors the redness disappeared. I had this condition about 40 years ago. One doctor said my condition was chills and there was not much I could do except avoid cold weather.

Until three years ago I used to go skiing without any ill effects. Do you think I might overcome this condition

For a different fruit taste, sample some persimmon

CHICAGO (APNS) — Frost-tames the persimmon. After frost, the ripening process is slowed. The fruit loses its stringiness and the natural sweetness comes through. The persimmon keeps on maturing even after-winter-has set-in-as-long-as-it gets enough sunlight.

Some people compare persimmons to mangoes or guavas; some describe the persimmon as having a flavor between an apple and an apricot.

Persimmons are about the size of a large peach and are shaped like an acorn, oval with the ends tapering almost to a point. They should be eaten when ripe, even overripe. The Hachiya variety is beautiful, with its glossy, orange-red skin. The Fuyu, another variety marketed in quantity, is one of the few persimmons that can be eaten while still rather firm.

Persimmons are on the market from late September through mid-

December. They are very delicate and have to be handled almost as carefully as eggs.

This is one fruit you don't buy by trusting your eyes. Unlike other fruits, persimmons reach their full color before they are ripe. If you taste an unripe persimmon, you'll never want to repeat the experience. So make sure the persimmons you purchase are soft, even a little shriveled. Avoid any decayed, bruised or hard fruit. The fruit should be plump, with smooth, glossy skin and the green stem cap attached.

If persimmons are still too firm for cating, let them ripen at room temperature for a couple of days inside a closed plastic bag.

Either peel a persimmon like a banana or eat it with a spoon like a melon. You can serve persimmons with cream or ice cream. Just try one — and be sure it's ripe.

Cookies a Christmas tradition

By KIM UPTON
Chicago Sun-Times

She makes a thousand of them and they represent something more than simple cookies. They are her one bond with Christmas tradition.

"So many traditional things have gone astray," Dorothy Apolinski said. "I think people get so wrapped up in their life, what with working and all, it's just a struggle to survive these days and it doesn't get better. Many years ago we had a more relaxed life."

A letter from a onetime co-worker, Marilyn Wood, offered lavish praise of her cookies and brought our attention to Apolinski.

"Dorothy Apolinski makes several varieties. Her favorite is a tangy cream cheese confection that absolutely melts in your mouth."

The confection to which she refers is a cookie Apolinski calls, simply, pointsettias.

"They have cream cheese in them. They have a light, airy taste. They're one of the best," Apolinski said.

And then there are her wreath cookies.

"They are so light and delicate that if you don't pick them up carefully, you're going to have a lot of crumbs. You've got to be careful the way you handle these cookies."

The tradition began when she was married 24 years ago. At first the cookies were few, but as time expanded so did the cookies. Now Apolinski makes about six kinds that take her almost a solid week of work to prepare and bake. When she is working outside the home, as she usually has in the past, the project is spread between "weeknights and weekends."

"I get a little discouraged at first until I get going. I am so glad when it's over with and so proud of myself. When the holidays come or somebody drops in or I go by somebody, I make up a dish of cookies. I give most of them out. I leave very little in the house."

"It's a lot of time and very expensive to do this. I've never really stopped to figure it all out, but I'm sure it's a fortune."

Still, she persists. The reason is elementary.

"If somebody gives you something that they have put themselves out to make, it's a much warmer feeling than if they've gone to the store and got a box of cookies or fudge."

The kinds of cookies vary from year to year, said Apolinski. "It depends upon what kind of mood I'm in and it depends upon how creative I feel."

Usually present are wreaths, pointsettias and lemon squares, a bar cookie made with fresh lemon juice. "It's very delicious," Apolinski said.

"I'm a girl of many varieties of things. I've never been bored in my life."

Wreaths

Time: about 1 hour
Cost: less than $1.00
2 cups margarine (can also use sweet butter), softened
6 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
4½ cups flour (sifted)
Food coloring

Cream margarine and cheese. Add sugar and cream well. Add vanilla; slowly add flour and mix well. Divide into 3 parts. Add a few drops of red food coloring to one part, green food coloring to another and yellow to a third.

Take a little of each dough and use to fill cookie press. (Chilling dough for about 30 minutes before placing in cookie press eases handling.) Use star form and move it in circle. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in 375-degree oven for 9 minutes or until cookies are set and bottoms are golden. Makes about 180 cookies.

Note: If a cookie press is unavailable, cookie dough can be rolled into four 1½-inch tubes in wax paper sheet. Chill for about 1 hour, until stiff enough to slice. Slice one-eighth-inch thick. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake same amount of time.

Pointsettias

Time: about 1 hour
Cost: less than $1
1 cup margarine (can also use sweet butter), softened
3 ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups flour (sifted)
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Cream margarine and cheese. Add sugar and continue creaming. Beat in egg yolk and vanilla. Slowly add flour with salt and cinnamon.

Divide into 2 parts. Add a few drops of red food coloring to one part and yellow to another. Place a little of each dough in cookie press and using a number 13 or other kind, make a flower form. (Chilling dough for about 30 minutes before placing in cookie press eases handling.) Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 13 minutes in 350-degree oven or until cookies are firm and bottoms are golden. Makes about 100 cookies.

Note: If a cookie press is unavailable, cookie dough can be rolled into two 1½-inch tubes in wax paper. Chill for about 1 hour, until stiff enough to slice. Slice one-eighth-inch thick. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake same amount of time.

Does sitting affect the learning rate of children?
Surveys in classrooms have shown: When seats are well designed for posture, children are relaxed, comfortable, alert. When seats are poorly designed, children tend to be restless and inattentive.
In the home, posture is adjustable furniture for young children to make possible expansion as they grow.
Correctly constructed chairs will guarantee that your child will be an "A" student... but they help.
If you have any questions about correct posture, contact your doctor or chiropractor, who is specialized in problems of the spine and spine.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific chiropractic written by Dr. Ludwig C. Lendwehr, M.D., West Chiropractic Clinic, 717 Main Ave., W. Twin Falls, Tel. 733-0322.)

Students learn at bloodmobile

Teaching can be a 'vein' job

By GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Human blood flowed through the plastic tubing, making it look like red licorice candy.

Hanley, a nurse with the Red Cross bloodmobile unit, to the appreciative audience of fifth-graders from Morningside Elementary School in Twin Falls.

"It's like a roller coaster!" said one voice from among the gasps of approval, as the students watched the blood go through the plastic plumbing into a clear pint bag.

Although it was somewhat less than an amusement park ride for teacher Connie Hutchison, whose blood was trickling into the bag, she had the satisfaction of teaching in a way that won't be forgotten soon by her students.

Hutchison had brought the class to watch her give blood as a way of reinforcing science and health lessons.

"It also helps them not be afraid of shots or giving blood," she said. "The lesson obviously was sinking hold. The students were not afraid of the proceedings. They gathered around her, closely watching each step of the procedure, and crawled under the table to feel the bag of warm blood."

"Doesn't the bag ever pop?" someone asked, which is a question the average adult would ask; but nevertheless, would worry about. Hanley set everyone's anxieties to rest; the blood bags never pop.

With Hanley's guidance, the 31 fifth-graders were able to learn firsthand the operation of a bloodmobile unit. They were exposed to the sophisticated medical technology needed to gather, transport and test blood.

Among hundreds of other details, the students learned how the blood is shipped, how errors in the labeling and storing of blood are avoided, what anti-coagulants are and why people are given orange drink and encouraging words before donating blood.

But, all in all, the most entertaining part of the afternoon — for the students — had to be watching the needle go into Hutchison's bulging vein and her blood sliding down the tube to the bag.

"First, we have to find a vein," Hanley said, strapping a rubber cuff on Hutchison's horizontal arm.

"Is that hard?" a student asked. "No, it's not hard," Hanley answered, tightening the cuff. "She's got big veins."

After a short lesson on swabbing arms with iodine before inserting needles, the climactic moment came.

"Neat!" "Wow!" "Look!"
And 31 enthusiastic blood donors were born.

Connie Hutchison's fifth-grade class watches intently as her blood begins to flow

YFCA names Virginian as new director

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A YMC-YWCA administrator from Virginia has been selected as the new executive director of the Magic Valley YFCA.

John Eschenburg, 34, is expected to begin working at the YFCA early in January, according to Donna Stalley, the Y's publicist. Larry Lewis, the interim director, will remain until Eschenburg arrives, she said.

Eschenburg, the executive director of a YMCA branch in Virginia Beach, will succeed Jack Doyle, who resigned last spring when the organization closed its facility because of about $25,000 in debts.

The search for a new executive director got under way after a successful community fund-raising drive concluded in August.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Eschenburg said the drive's success indicated considerable community confidence and interest in the Y, and that was one of the reasons he accepted the job.

"What happened this summer was of such a positive nature," he said. Eschenburg, who was selected from organizations occasionally encounter financial problems, "some of them natural and some caused. I think a community's ability to recover usually dictates the future."

He has been directing the Virginia Beach YMCA since June of 1978 and became professionally involved with YMCAs in 1967. His Y affiliation, however, dates back to his youth in Mount Clemens, Mich., a town about the size of Twin Falls, he said.

A sociology and physical-education major, he graduated from Northern Michigan University.

Stalley said that in a visit to Twin Falls last week, Eschenburg impressed the YFCA board as "a very pleasant, likable person, with an excellent background in physical fitness and program organization."

Those were strong considerations in the board's selection, she said. "Though his present and his new employer operate under different names, they are part of the same organization. The YFCA maintained YMCA affiliation when it adopted the name 'Young Family Christian Association' several years ago after the YMCA and YWCA ceased joint operations in Twin Falls."

Masked man grabs bank deposit, flees

Musicland employee robbed of $1,000

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A masked bandit made off with about $1,000 in cash Monday night, in what Twin Falls police are investigating as a strong-armed robbery.

The bandit, a male, grabbed a money bag from a retail store employee as she attempted to deposit funds at the Idaho First National Bank branch at 748 Blue Lakes Blvd.

No one was injured in the incident, and police believe no weapons were involved.

The victim, 19-year-old Patti Egner of Twin Falls, is an employee of Musicland, located in the Blue Lakes Shopping Center.

After the store had closed, she had driven across Blue Lakes to the bank office's south entrance at about 9:50 p.m.

As is the store's usual custom, store manager Ben Schreiner drove his car into the bank office's north entrance to accompany Egner with the night deposit. But Schreiner said that on Monday he ran about a minute behind Egner.

"We normally have two people over there," he said. "Being cold, some of us take a little longer with our cars."

As Egner stepped out of her car and headed toward the night deposit box, the robber approached her.

"He was running up on me and grabbed it (the money bag)," she said.

"The guy just got in a minute ahead of me, and that's basically all it took," Schreiner said. "When he arrived on the scene, I could tell something had happened there."

Although Egner reported seeing only one robber, police have received information that two persons were involved in the incident, according to police Chief Tim Qualls.

Just under $1,000 in cash was in the bag. In addition, 10 some checks, Qualls said.

This is the second time Schreiner has been the victim of crime in the last two months. Six weeks ago, his house was burglarized and a stereo system was taken, he said.

Crowded field

County assessor formally resigns; eight applicants are seeking his job

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Bill Clark, the Twin Falls County assessor, formally submitted his resignation Tuesday. It's effective Jan. 1.

The move comes as no surprise. Clark's pending resignation was announced several weeks ago, and the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee already has received eight applications for the job.

The committee, which has the task of recommending a replacement to the county commissioners, will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the county judicial building to screen the applicants.

Clark's resignation clears the way for the appointment of a successor before the end of the month, according to Ann Cover, the County Commission chairman.

Clark was elected to a four-year term in 1978. However, his purchase of a home in Jerome County makes it impossible for him to complete the term. Under Idaho election officials, most live in the county they represent.

Since Clark is a Republican, his party, as a tradition, recommends a replacement. Although the commissioners are not bound by the recommendation, they generally approve the central committee's selection.

Whoever gets the post will have to begin campaigning almost immediately for the 1982 election. That political reality promises to figure prominently in the committee's selection.

In addition to the six candidates who appeared before the central committee on Nov. 18, two more Twin Falls residents have submitted applications for the post, which pays approximately $17,000 a year.

The newest applicants are Mary L. Roberts, who is a personnel supervisor at Carl Manufacturing Co. in Twin Falls, and George Haneey III, a real-estate broker.

The others are:

- Calvin Edwards, the manager of Magic Valley Emergency Service.
- Don W. Edwards, the owner of Danny D's Manufacturing of Filer.
- Douglas B. Egbert, a former sheriff's deputy who is now a custodian.
- William C. Fink, an office manager.
- Dorothy J. Hamly, Clark's chief deputy in the assessor's office.
- Mary Turner, most recently employed as a purchasing agent for Western Stockmen's Supply in Twin Falls.

Applications for the post will be accepted up to the time of the meeting.

'Love yourself first,' she says at MVARC

Jo Ann Castle gives alcoholics hope

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Like a born-again believer bearing tidings of moderation and joy, entertainer Jo Ann Castle tells a group of recovering alcoholics that they can transform their lives — she did.

"You gotta love yourself before you can do anything else," the former Lawrence Welk performer told about 20 residents of the Magic Valley Alcoholic Recovery Center in an informal chat Tuesday.

Castle passed around 4-year-old pictures of herself, pictures of when she was a 300-pound, unhappy woman with bleached blonde hair and an ill temper.

"I carry the picture just so I won't go back to that," Castle told the group in her husky, ebullient voice. Now a slender, spirited woman of 42, with a crown of silver-blond curls, she's working to reclaim her career as she reclaimed her life.

Last January, Castle gave a benefit performance for MVARC and developed a continuing interest in the center, located at 425 Second Ave. N. Presently performing in Jackpot, she says she plans to do another benefit for the center in February.

With a new single, "Living in Sin at the Holiday Inn," and concert dates slated with Minnie Pearl, Eddie Rabbit and the Oakridge Boys, Castle and her husband-manager Bill Holloway feel her positive attitude about herself has begun to bear fruit.

Tuesday, she attempted to share some of her enthusiasm with MVARC residents, describing in blunt tones how she had changed.

At 19, she was a featured honky-tonk piano player on the "Lawrence Welk Show." In 1969, an overeating and overdrinking Castle left the show to blunder through a haphazard nightclub career, making enemies with her bellicose manners.

Even on the road, she and her friends always found a party or drink until the bars closed and bring a bottle to the motel room. "In the morning, we'd wear sunglasses and get on the bus, chewing mints."

She had married just to get away from home and went through two divorces until she found a stable marriage. She didn't want her first child when she found she was pregnant, and she suffered tremendous guilt afterward, especially when the girl was found to be severely mentally retarded.

The day the doctors told her that her child would be little more than a vegetable, she had to perform on the Welk show; that dumb-blonde smile fixed on her face.

Castle preaches no particular line; she tells people to make up their mind to change and to believe in themselves.

"God gave me a talent. God gave us all a talent. It's up to you to find your talent."

Glancing at her audience, persons who are undergoing treatment at the center, she said, "This is not B.S. Ever since I made changes in my life, things have fallen in my lap. Little things. (But) you can't expect miracles overnight."

Brewers to battle beer binges at CSI briefing

By STEVE LIESON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A beer brewers association would prefer that some people drink less of their product, or perhaps not drink it at all.

Toward that end, William Christoffersen, a regional representative of the U.S. Brewers Association, will meet with student leaders and officials at the College of Southern Idaho on Thursday. He will explain an alcohol-awareness program designed by the association, after a study at the University of Florida, that encourages "responsible" drinking.

"A lot of people think all we're concerned about is selling beer," Christoffersen said. "We think we're a responsible industry."

The program asks people to "think twice about drinking." A pamphlet asks the two questions brewers want people to think about: "Will I drink? If I do, will I drink in moderation?"

The essence of the program is to provide people with a choice. Instead of an environment that encourages drinking, don't center a party around a keg of beer, Christoffersen will tell the student leaders. Have the beer — for those old enough to legally consume it — but also provide non-alcoholic beverages, hors d'oeuvres and entertainment.

The program relies on student leaders taking such suggestions back to their dormitories, fraternities and sororities. "The entire program is soft-sell. There's no preaching," Christoffersen said.

It takes time to change people's habits, but it works, he said. If it hurts sales, it hurts sales. This is a public service campaign.

Boise State University and Idaho State University have begun alcohol-awareness programs through the help of the Brewers Association.

"Society makes no provision for teaching people to use alcohol properly, Christoffersen said. "There are programs for the rehabilitation of alcoholics, but none designed for prevention."

Idaho Falls' Kelly Garchow blocks a jump shot by Twin Falls sophomore Jill Skeem during action in the third period

Bruin girls settle down, win 1st game

By MARCUS PRATER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Bruins have finally started playing basketball the way Coach Kathy Anderson wants them to play.

The Bruins cut down their fouls and turnovers to make a 33-29 decision from the Idaho Falls Tigers Tuesday night.

Twin Falls committed only 12 turnovers compared to its usual 30 and had 10 team fouls to the usual 20.

"We're making progress and it shows in the turnover category. It makes a lot of difference with less turnovers and we got our fouls down too, which is also a big factor," Anderson said.

The teams opened slow with Idaho Falls' Barbara Allard getting a basket at the 4:37 mark of the first quarter. Twin Falls started connecting and at the end of the eight minutes the Bruins led 8-6.

In the second quarter, the Bruins were plagued with the same illness affecting them the whole season — the full-court press. Idaho Falls kept the pressure on and forced the Bruins to snoop over its 12-2 zone.

"We are getting better breaking up the press. We've faked it every game and we're adjusting better now because they didn't force as many turnovers," Anderson said.

The Bruins held on to a slim halftime lead, but the Tigers' Ehardt tied the game at 24 with just under four minutes in the third.

After the Bruins collected a three-point play, they had an off-balanced 30-footer at the buzzer to tie the game at 27 going into the final quarter.

Neither team mustered a point until the 4:19 mark when sophomore Jill Skeem hit an eight-footer for the Bruins. With time running out, Idaho Falls went to the foul-and-hope-they-miss game plan.

It didn't work. Sixth senior Marcia Depew hitting on a lone free throw and coming back to ice the game with a three-point play at the 1:12 mark.

"Marcia helps us when she's out there because she can slow the team down and when she shoots it takes that extra burden off the inside people," Anderson said.

Depew is played sparingly because of the slow progress of a knee injury.

The Bruins were led in scoring by senior Lisa Krahn's 16 points and Anderson said the lanky blondes' points were of great value.

"Lisa's shooting was a great help tonight because when any player scores that many it doesn't make the other girls just shoot hurried shots," Anderson said. Idaho Falls out rebounded the taller Bruins 40-36.

Depew chipped in 12 points to aid in the Bruin effort while the Tigers were led in scoring by Ehardt's 10 and Laura Childs and Tonia Stone combined for 12 more in a losing effort.

The Bruins 3-2 travel to Blackfoot Thursday to clash with the Broncos.

In junior varsity action, Tricia Swartzling's 12 points led the Bruins to a 30-25 win over Idaho Falls. Heidi Hanson chipped in eight more to help move the Bruins' record to 4-1. The Bruins' only loss came in the first game of the season against Highland.

Valley's late rush sparks 40-37 win

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

KIMBERLY — Sinking eight of 11 free throws in the last four minutes of an undefeated Valley game, sole possession of the Canyon Conference girls' basketball lead Tuesday night with a 40-37 win over hard-charging Kimberly.

Kimberly trailed 24-13 after an "embarrassing" first half, but the Bulldogs got their game together and used steady, patient play to tie the Vikings 33-33 with 2:43 to go.

It was then that Coach Forrest Fonesbeck put his Vikings into a stall and Kimberly was forced to foul.

Shauna Henry made four of the charity tosses as Valley moved its record to 6-0 and Canyon ledger to 3-0.

"We fouled the wrong player," Kimberly skipper Terry Dowd said.

Kimberly was in a zone when Valley went to its single-dribbler delay at the 3:43 mark. Dowd immediately brought his Bulldogs to a man-to-man defense.

"I'd rather go after them right away rather than wait until the last minute," he said. "Valley would've stayed in it (the stall) all the way."

Kimberly sophomore Jenny Stark tied the game at 33-33 with a pair of free throws to cap the Bulldogs' calm and efficient comeback.

Henry's two free throws put Valley up 35-33 with 3:20 left and Tracy Agee made it 37-33 just 16 seconds later.

Kimberly point guard Jill Ballard hit from the top of the key to cut Valley's cushion to 37-35, but Kimberly couldn't get any closer.

Agee rebounded after teammate Rochelle Clark missed a layup and made one free throw for a 38-35 lead. Henry's two free throws at the 1:09 mark put the score at 40-35 before the game's leading scorer with 13 points. Kimberly sophomore Lisa Crothers, hit an outside jumper with 25 seconds left for the final score.

The win was Valley's third straight without senior point guard Kim Hardy who suffered a knee injury against Murtaugh and has been sidelined for the season after surgery.

"I sure would feel better with her," Fonesbeck said before the game.

"But we've got to win without her. Who knows, maybe it's not the end of the world."

The Vikings looked like they could use a little help at point guard during the game, but Henry and Sue Shaver made up for any shortcomings as they combined for 20 points. Shaver, a decidedly career shooter, had eight in the first half and Henry added six.

Valley held an 18-6 lead midway through the second quarter and was on its way to a blow-out by using the press to rattle the Bulldogs. Kimberly stayed in the game by making seven of 13 free throws in the second quarter while Valley was 9-1.

Dowd was embarrassed by the first half as Kimberly failed to crack Valley's 1-2-2 zone.

"The problem is that our guards were running one kind of offense and our posts were running another kind," he said. "They were at the other end of the floor and they couldn't hear me. We got that corrected at the half. It was a terrible first half. We would've been better showing up at halftime."

Kimberly won the junior varsity game with ease, 53-27.

CSI women lose to Utah State again

LOGAN, Utah — Again falling prey to a larger, more powerful opponent, College of Southern Idaho's women's basketball team fell Tuesday night to Utah State, 95-68.

The Eagles ruined many of their own chances by committing 38 turnovers to Utah State's 14. In addition, with all of USU's starters standing 6-0 or taller, the modest-sized Eagles faced a severe disadvantage.

Nevertheless, CSI Coach Lloyd Hardisty was able to find some positive aspects from his team's performance.

"We executed beautifully," Hardisty said. "I'm very proud of the way they all played."

Four Eagles — Jill Dixon, Melissa Barter, Jeanne Morgan and Karen Harr — each tallied 12 points. However, four USU players also notched double figures.

"Those big girls are the best team I've ever seen," Hardisty said of USU, which outshot CSI 42 percent to 34 percent.

The Eagles, 1-6, visit Northwest Nazarene College Monday.

Nebraska junior wins Outland award

Colorado's Fairbanks calls Cornhusker Rimington most dominant player in college

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Rimington, a junior center from the University of Nebraska who was hailed by one coach as the most dominant player in the game, Tuesday was named winner of the 1981 Outland Trophy as the outstanding lineman in college football.

The 6-foot-2, 283-pounder from Omaha, Neb., is only the third junior ever to win the award, which is presented annually by the Football Writers Association of America. Defensive end Ross Browner of Notre Dame (1976) and defensive tackle Zeke Smith of Auburn (1958) were the only other juniors to win the Outland Trophy.

Rimington, who this season became the first lineman ever to win the UPI Big Eight Player of the Year Award, is only the second center ever to win the Outland Trophy in the 36-year history of the award. Jim Richter, a center from North Carolina State, won the award in 1979.

Kenneth Sims of Texas, a 6-5, 270-pound defensive tackle, and Roy Foster of Southern California, a 6-4, 265-pound guard, were the only other linemen to receive votes for the Outland Trophy.

Nebraska rode Rimington to its first undisputed Big Eight championship since 1971 when the Cornhuskers won their last national championship. Nebraska posted a 7-0 record in conference play, including a 37-14 triumph over Oklahoma for the Cornhuskers' first victory in Norman, Okla., since 1971.

"He's the best center we've ever had," said Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne. "When you combine strength (school-record 650-pound squat lift), quickness (5.0 in the 40) and intelligence (3.24 grade point average in business), I haven't seen a better one."

"I think he played awfully well this season. But he played awfully well as a sophomore, too. The center position is as difficult a spot as there is to play on the line and he has mastered it. And he played this season on a knee that will probably have to be operated on sometime after the season. Nobody's perfect — but Dave is a great player."

Coach Chuck Fairbanks of Colorado was even more praiseworthy of Rimington's talent.

"Rimington is the most dominant football player I've seen in college football, since I've returned to the game," said Fairbanks, who just completed his third year as the head coach.

Undefeated Clemson vaults into No. 1 spot on UPI college rankings

NEW YORK (UPI) — Orange Bowl-bound Clemson was ranked the nation's No. 1 college football team this week in a season that has been a jinx to every team that received the top rating.

With two balloting sessions remaining, Clemson moved up to first place in the United Press International ratings after Penn State knocked off Pittsburgh. A victory over powerful Nebraska in their New Year's classic would lean heavily toward giving the Tigers their first national championship.

Clemson president lashes at ABC — C8

"I think we fool just like everybody else who's been there (No. 1)," says Clemson coach Danny Ford after his team received 36 first place votes from the UPI Board of Coaches. "It doesn't mean anything until the bowl game is over."

"But it's a great honor for Clemson. We've done a good job every week and we will be more proud if we can play well against Nebraska. The first goal was to win the conference title, the second to go undefeated and get a major bowl bid, and the third goal, if we got that far, was to be the best team in the country."

Clemson, a victor over Georgia and North Carolina during its first undefeated season in 33 years, can join Maryland as the only Atlantic Coast Conference schools to win the national title. The Terps were 1953 champions.

Penn State's 48-14 slaughter of Pitt sent the Panthers skidding to a No. 8 ranking, which probably will improve if Pittsburgh beats No. 2 Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

Pittsburgh had held the No. 1 rating for four weeks, longer than any other team this season. Michigan, Notre Dame, Southern California, Penn State and Texas are other teams who were top-rated in 1981.

Alabama, presenting Bear Bryant with a record 31st college football victory on a 28-12 decision over Auburn last Saturday, was rated No. 3 and Nebraska No. 4. Coaches voted Texas as the fifth best team in the

Blackfoot blanks Twin Falls matmen, 67-0

BLACKFOOT — The Blackfoot Broncos welcomed Twin Falls into the 1981 wrestling season a bit roughly Tuesday night.

They shut out the Bruins 67-0, leaving Coach Andy Barron more than a little miffed.

"This is the first zip I've ever been involved in," the coach said, "I am shocked and disturbed and very upset with a few people. And we will improve," the coach promised.

"They are very tough," Barron conceded. "As far as our sophomores trying the varsity matches for the first time, we expected some of these things. But there are four or five we don't expect to lose at all, at least easily."

Blackfoot's junior varsity also whipped the Bruins 67-0.

GLENN'S FERRY — Two quick pins highlighted Glenns Ferry's 54-24 triumph over Wendell Tuesday night in a wrestling season opener for the teams.

Glenns Ferry's Robert Morris needed just 17 seconds to pin Ray Sutfin in the 119-pound match. AL 155, 1:17. Williams picked up some more points for the Pilots by pinning Darren Bartlett in just 18 ticks of the clock.

Glenns Ferry Coach Victor Koshula expressed mixed feelings. "I was pleased with the boys' ability to work for the fall, he said. "I don't really think we're wrestling up to our capability yet. We looked kind of sloppy."

The Pilots travel to Dillon, Mont., this weekend to participate in the Beaverhead Invitational, consisting mostly of Montana A-1 and A-2 schools.

The Spartans lost at 98 and 105 pounds but took the rest of the matches either by pins or lopsided decisions.

Coach Jerry Ennis said the opener gave Minico a "firm maybe" considering a high finish in the Gem State Conference standings.

BLISS — Defense and the fine shooting of Alan Jay aided in the Bliss Bear's 40-19 romp over Murtaugh of Boise Tuesday night.

Jay's seven steals and 64 percent shooting for 15 points kept Bliss in control of the game. Dalen Kait added nine more points to aid in Bear victory.

"We played fairly well the first half," said Bear Coach Jerry Couch, "but going into the second half we came a little unraveled."

"We had 21 steals in the game so if there was a key that was it."

Caldwell catches fire from Buhl's cold streak, wins 49-27

CALDWELL — The Caldwell Cougars took advantage of very good shooting by the Buhl Indians to run off with a 49-27 victory Tuesday night.

Buhl opened the game in a scoring drought as Caldwell scored the first 11 points. The Indians then clawed back to within two points at intermission.

But the Indians' shooting fell off completely in the second half. Buhl scoring just four points in each of the final two periods.

There were less than three minutes left when Mark Laug got Buhl on the scoreboard in the first quarter to make it 11-2. Craig Karel and Ken Pierce then hit cut the deficit to 13-6 but Caldwell replied with the next six points.

Early in the second period, Karel hit a free throw and Mark Lively came up with two straight buckets. Charles Carter hit a long jumper from the corner to cut the deficit to 19-17 and while Buhl had several chances after that to tie it, the half ended in basket trading at 21-19.

Sophomore Don Sindigini and Kevin Hudgens started Caldwell away in the second half before Carter hit for the Indians. But by the end of the period, Buhl was trailing 29-12 and never got closer.

GOODING — Susie Vincent scored 23 points on 45 percent shooting Tuesday night as Filer handed Gooding a 38-33 Canyon Conference defeat.

The host Senators led a one-point lead at the half, 19-18, but could muster just five points in the third quarter as Filer moved to a 28-24 lead with one quarter left. Vincent had eight of Filer's 10 points in the third period.

"The third quarter is not helping us in our games at all," Gooding Coach Joanne Toone said. "It got up on us and we finally got it tied at 31-31 with three minutes left before (Bill) Heaps put Filer into a stall. They got up a couple of quick baskets on us and we had to foul them and then they made the free throws."

Shelley Barlogi added 11 points to help Filer lead Filer to its second win in five games. Gooding was paced by Gwen Reed's eight points. They Senators are 1-6 to date.

Maldonado's 26 helps lift BSU to 1st win

BOISE (UPI) — Substitute postman Jim Maldonado scored 26 points and guard Terry Lee hit 21 as Boise State outgunned Doane College 87-75 Tuesday night in non-conference basketball action.

The 6-foot 9-inch, 235-pound Junior came off the bench with 14 points in the first half and connected 12 in the second half as the Broncos won their first game of the year after two losses.

Boise State's offensive attack overshadowed the 33-point output of forward Russ Hansen, who kept the Tigers close until midway in the second half.

The Broncos assumed a 75-58 bulge with 7:17 left when reserve forward Jack Anderson scored off an inbounds pass.

After falling behind by 11 points on several occasions in the first period, the closest Doane, now 35 on the season, could get to a 57-47 deficit with 11 minutes remaining in the game.

The Doane attack was hampered by an injury to starting center Doug Jasa, who crashed to the floor late in the first half after a collision with Maldonado, suffering a deep cut on the side of his head.

Broncos were Vince Hinchin with 12 and Eric Batley with 10, while the top scorers for Doane were Hansen with Steve Barkle, a 6-foot 7-inch, 205-pound sophomore, who collected 19 points.

Godby benefit Friday

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Rodeo Club is sponsoring a benefit dance Friday night for Darryl Godby at Gooding, a member of the 1980-81 CSI rodeo team.

Godby was seriously injured in a professional rodeo this fall at Albuquerque, N.M. All proceeds from the dance will go to Godby for his medical bills.

The event begins at 9 p.m. at the Twin Falls National Guard Armory with music by "The Hits and Misses." A donation is $3.

Nelson tops All-Pac 10

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford halfback Darrin Nelson is only the second player in the All-Pac-10 Conference history to be named to the All-Conference football team.

The 5-9, 165-pound Nelson, who set an NCAA all-purpose yards record, and Marcus Allen of Southern California, who set an NCAA single-season rushing mark, headed the All-Conference team announced Tuesday by Pac-10 executive director Wiles Hatton.

The only other player ever to be picked four times was former UCLA safety Kenny Easley (1977-1980).

Southern Cal landed the most players on this year's team — seven, including Allen, who rushed for more than 2,000 yards and is a leading candidate for the Heisman Trophy. Champion Washington and UCLA each placed five two-way players "each," while UCLA placed five Washington State and Stanford two each and Arizona, California and Oregon State one each.

Gretzky is best again

MONTREAL (UPI) — Wayne Gretzky, the outstanding center of the Edmonton Oilers, won yet another award Tuesday, being named the National Hockey League's Player of the Month for November.

That honor followed Monday's announcement that Gretzky was co-winner of the Player of the Week award in Pittsburgh — Penguin's goaltender Michel Dion.

Gretzky, 20, was also Player of the Month in October and has won that honor four times in two seasons. He has been player-of-the-week six times.

Eighteen goals and 19 assists for 37 points in 13 games won the November award for Gretzky. He led his team in both categories, only two losses and three ties in that time.

'Silver Sluggers' named

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Three members of the Philadelphia Phillies were among the Silver Slugger winners announced Tuesday by The Sporting News.

The sporting weekly said first baseman Pete Rose, second baseman Manny Trillo and third baseman Mike Schmidt were selected as the top offensive performers at their positions in a poll of major league managers and coaches.

Also named to the National League Silver Slugger team were catcher Gary Carter of Montreal, shortstop Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati and outfielders Andre Dawson of Montreal, Dusty Baker of Los Angeles and George Foster of Cincinnati.

The highest race in the balloting was at pitcher, where Dodgers' rookie Fernando Valenzuela scored a one-vote victory over Steve Carlton of Philadelphia, 21-20.

California and Boston each placed two players on the American League team — second baseman Bobby Grich and shortstop Rick Burleson for California and third baseman Carney Lansford and outfielder Dwight Evans for Boston.

The AL Sluggers included catcher Carlton Fisk of Chicago, first baseman Cecil Cooper of Milwaukee and designated hitter Al Oliver of Texas.

Also in the AL outfield were Rickey Henderson of Oakland and Dave Winfield of New York.

Howard finds employment

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Howard, who managed the San Diego Padres last year, resigned Tuesday as manager of the New York Mets for next season.

The 45-year-old Howard, who played 15 years in the majors with Los Angeles, Washington, Texas and Detroit, is the fourth coach to be added to the staff by new Mets Manager George Bamberger. The other Mets coaches for 1982 are Jim Frey, Bud Harrelson and Bill Monbouquette.

Howard formerly coached for Milwaukee under Bamberger from 1977-80.

The Mets also announced that Al Jackson, former pitching coach of the Boston Red Sox, has been named as New York's minor league pitching coach. He replaces Monbouquette in that capacity.

Marshall wins AAA award

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — First baseman Mike Marshall of the Albuquerque Dukes in the Pacific Coast League Tuesday was named 1981 minor league player of the year by The Sporting News.

Marshall's coach, Del Grandall, was named 1981 minor league manager of the year, and Pat McKernan, the team's president/general manager, was voted Triple-A executive of the year.

Marshall won the league's triple crown in his first year of Triple-A baseball. He batted .373 with 34 homers and 137 RBI, and also led the league with 114 runs scored.

Hunting educators needed

JEROME — Hunter education instructors are needed in the Magic Valley, particularly in the Twin Falls, Hagerman, Wendell and Gooding areas.

Stur Murrell of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game will teach a training course Tuesday at the Twin Falls Rifle and Pistol Club from 7 to 10 p.m. The clubhouse is located overlooking the canyon rim on North Washington Street.

People taking the course must be more than 21 years of age, interested in teaching youth and knowledgeable about hunting.

Erving shines in November

NEW YORK (UPI) — Forward Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers, who led his team to 11 victories in 13 games during November, Tuesday was named the National Basketball Association's Player of the Month.

Erving, the most valuable player in the NBA last season, ranks sixth in the league in scoring with a 23.9 average. Three times in November Erving sank the winning shot, including a game against the Detroit Pistons, when he sank the winning basket, then blocked the goal attempt by Kelly-Tripucka and Isiah Thomas to preserve the victory.

SJS controls All-PCAA

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Conference champion San Jose State, led by record-setting running back Gerald Willhite, placed 11 players on the All-PCAA football team announced Tuesday.

Willhite, only the second player in NCAA history to rush for 1,000 yards and catch at least 50 passes in a single season (he did it twice), was named Offensive Player of the Year while Jack Ely, who led the Spartans to a 9-2 record and a spot in the first California Bowl, was named Coach of the Year.

UCLA gets probe results

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA has received the results of an NCAA inquiry into its athletic program, which reportedly focused on the basketball team and involved possible improprieties dating back to 1974.

A spokesman for UCLA's sports information office confirmed Tuesday the school had received the notice from the NCAA, but refused to comment on its contents until after the 15-day period the school has to respond to the findings.

NASCAR rookie tabbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ron Bouchard, winner of this year's Talladega 500, was named the NASCAR Winston Cup circuit Rookie of the Year Tuesday for his impressive driving skills that placed him in the top five in five races during 1981 and earned the Pittsburgh, Pa., stocker $152,455.

Bouchard will receive a $10,000 check at the annual NASCAR awards banquet in New York Friday night.

Clemson prexy claims ABC damaged school

CLEMSON, S.C. (UPI) — The president of Clemson University said Tuesday that ABC-TV's "unsubstantiated" report on alleged recruiting violations in the No. 1 ranked school's football program caused "irreparable harm to the university's image and reputation."

In a two-page letter to Roone Arledge, president of ABC News and Sports, Bill Atchley said it was "exceedingly unfortunate that Clemson coaches and players who have worked with such dedication and success have been subjected to such unfair treatment."

Atchley's letter was postmarked the day Clemson received the report. It placed votes to take over the No. 1 spot in "United Press" International's weekly Board of Coaches ratings.

"The Tigers were swept into first place in the UPI poll with an 11-0 regular-season record and Penn State's 46-14 shattering of previously unbeaten Pittsburgh last week."

During halftime of the nationally televised Pitt-Penn State contest, ABC aired a report on an NCAA probe into charges by two former Knoxville, Tenn. high school football players that they were given money by a Clemson alumnus to attend the university.

Both players said Clemson coach Dan Broderick gave them $1,000 each to consider the cash gifts as "Christmas presents."

Cofey also claimed that Clemson head coach Danny Ford and former assistant coach Bill Ware promised him money if he would sign a letter of intent to enroll at Clemson.

Both players said they wanted to attend the University of Tennessee along with Ware but were eventually ruled ineligible for athletic scholarships by Tennessee and the Southeastern Conference.

In the halftime broadcast, Lampley said Clemson officials declined comment, acknowledging the NCAA has conducted a preliminary investigation into the players' allegations.

ABC denied charges by Clemson officials that the network broadcast an unfavorable report on the university to weaken the Tigers' hopes for a No. 1 ranking and to promote ABC's coverage of its Sugar Bowl matchup between Georgia and Texas on New Year's night. The Sugar Bowl will be played in the time slot opposite the Orange Bowl, which has Clemson and No. 4 Nebraska playing on rival network NBC-TV. Atchley said in his letter to Arledge, Atchley said "it is not clear that these allegations have been made" by Cofey and Minor.

"However, the disturbing aspect of ABC's report was the implication that Clemson's failure to respond publicly to these allegations means they are true," the letter said.

Continued Atchley: "The NCAA has established procedures to be followed while investigating any member institution. The official enforcement procedures require that any information developed during an investigation be kept confidential.

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING. Sealed Proposals will be received by the IDAHO TRANSPORTATION DEPARTMENT only at the office of the IDAHO TRANSPORTATION DEPARTMENT, DIVISION OF HIGHWAYS, 3311 West State Street, Boise, Idaho, until two o'clock p.m. on the 22nd day of DECEMBER, 1981.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals, or to accept the proposal or proposals that in the best interests of this State of Idaho.

No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by a check drawn on an Idaho Bank, made payable to the Idaho Transportation Department, Division of Highways, or a Bidder's Bond.
