

Solidarity protests swell in Poland

By United Press International

Thousands of Solidarity members bearing tools to confront troops occupied factories, shipyards and steel mills across Poland Tuesday.

Protest against the imposition of martial law grew, and a union official said guns were stockpiled in some factories.

Army troops broke up a number of the protests, arresting workers who faced martial law penalties ranging from imprisonment to death, according to reports from Poland.

Polish television said farmers were refusing to sell cereals and potatoes to the new military-run supply organization.

In an early Wednesday newscast monitored in London, Warsaw Radio reported the streets of the capital were calm and army patrols were keeping guard at major buildings.

But late Tuesday, the radio confirmed union action disrupted production in some Warsaw plants and at factories in Lodz in central Poland and Krakow in the south.

Solidarity activists also had "sought refuge" in the Gdansk shipyard — where the union was born 16 months ago — and were "trying to talk people into activities which are as pointless as they are harmful," the radio said.

Even the Soviet news agency Tass reported several confrontations between workers and troops and said that, in one instance, some 250 Solidarity members armed with steel rods had "entrenched" themselves in Warsaw's biggest steel mill.

In Moscow, a Soviet official said the Kremlin stood ready to give "military help" to the Polish Communist regime of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski.

In a few days, in a week, if Jaruzelski was to ask us for military help, we would give it. We would give the Polish authorities everything they think is necessary to restore order in the country," said the Soviet official who has access to Kremlin policy decisions before they are made public.

The source, who requested anonymity, said no request for military aid had been made yet, but added the Kremlin was watching the situation closely.

In Washington, the United States warned the Soviet Union to stay out of Poland and told the Communist government in Warsaw that any violent move against Polish citizens would have "extremely grave consequences."

Olof Tandberg, a member of Sweden's Royal Academy of Sciences, said in Stockholm he had reports from two East Bloc capitals of shooting in central Warsaw between troops and Solidarity members and students. There was no independent confirmation of the reports.

Tandberg, however, flatly denied reports that quoted him as saying

Storm whips over most of Magic Valley

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

BUHL — High winds, moving ahead of a Pacific storm front, uprooted trees and power poles Tuesday morning throughout a broad area of the Magic Valley.

At the Eldor Schaefer farm three miles southeast of Buhl, the storm blew a steel grain bin a quarter mile from its wooden foundation, removed roofing material from a garage and knocked down a poplar tree near the house, damaging a chimney.

"Lights were off in town, and I kind of hated to come home to look. But we always get missed ... at least until today," Verda Schaefer said.

Down the road, at the Jim Hopkins residence, a horse watering trough cleared a 5-foot corral fence without leaving a mark on the fence, Maureen Hopkins said.

Trash cans and burn barrels in the area south of Buhl were carried up to a half-mile.

Wind damage also was reported in Rupert, where gusts dislodged roofing material from East Minico Junior High School, and in Oakley, where one-and-a-half miles of Idaho Power Co. line blew down.

Power outages in the valley ranged from eight minutes to nearly five hours; according to Idaho Power Co. spokesman Jerry Nielson, Castleford had the longest outage, affecting 572 customers.

A tree fell across one line less than a block from the company's district headquarters in Twin Falls, knocking out power for 16 minutes in parts of town. The Oakley valley was without power for about two hours, as were downtown Buhl and the Mellon Valley.

The Sun Valley Co. reported clear skies during the storm, but it had to shut down ski lifts at the top of Bald Mountain for more than two hours due to high winds. The resort area received eight inches of snow overnight.

Avalanche warnings were posted by the Forest Service due to wet snow and blowing conditions.

Ski lifts also were temporarily out of service at Pomerelle Ski Resort south of Burley. There, the problem was with Raft River Electric Co., which experienced a 50-minute outage in the Albion vicinity.

Power outages at Jerome Butte also forced television station KMVT and two area FM radio stations off the air between 11 a.m. and 3:40 p.m.

Nielson said that brief outages occurred throughout the Magic Valley, as power crews disconnected and rerouted lines around the damaged areas.

Bill Galkin, of the U.S. Weather Service office in Kimberly, said gauges there measured a sustained wind speed of 45 mph at midmorning. The Buhl Flying Service measured gusts exceeding 60 mph. And officials at Pocatello recorded a wind speed of 77 mph, breaking the city's previous all-time high of 72 mph.

Temperatures in the Magic Valley dropped 15 degrees in the half-hour period during the storm, Galkin said.

Northern Idaho escaped the high winds, although heavy snow fell in some areas. Spokane, Wash., recorded five inches on the ground by 11 a.m.

Walesa held in Warsaw

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa has been arrested and is being held in a Warsaw suburb, according to reports Tuesday.

The reports were denied by Polish diplomats, who said Walesa was "negotiating" with authorities. However, the official explanation of Walesa's fate did not explain why he had not been heard from since Saturday, when martial law was imposed and other Solidarity officials were arrested.

Stefan Trzciniski, a Solidarity official vacationing in Sweden when martial law was imposed, said he had received word from Warsaw that Walesa was under house arrest.

"I am convinced he will have been arrested by now," Trzciniski said. "He will be talking with authorities."

In Paris, the newspaper Le Monde quoted "reliable sources" as saying Walesa was being held in a Warsaw suburb. It said Polish primate Cardinal Jozef Glemp was trying to win his release.

In Washington, a White House spokesman said there had been conflicting reports about Walesa's fate and the United States has been unable to confirm any of them.

Trzciniski, a Solidarity information officer, said Poles fleeing the country told him of spreading strikes and sit-ins to protest martial law and the suspension of the rights won by the union 18 months ago.

Buhl defeats bond issue

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

BUHL — A $303,000 bond issue to improve streets and storm-sewer drains in Buhl was defeated overwhelmingly in Tuesday's special election.

More than 68 percent of the voters said "no" to the bond issue. The final tally was 270 residents voting against the additional property tax, while 125 supported the measure. Some city officials and members of a citizens committee that supported the bond issue said they had some doubts about its passage, but they did not expect the decisive defeat.

A two-thirds majority was needed to pass the issue. The city proposed the bond issue to finance improvements to major streets, including Main Street West and Sawtooth Avenue. The other phase of the proposed improvement would have included storm-sewer drains on Burke Street and Sawtooth. The Burke Street drains was especially critical, city officials said, because it would have removed irrigation run-off from the city's sewer system.

The city is now under a moratorium, imposed by the state Department of Health and Welfare, that prohibits any additional building or development that would increase demands on the sewer system.

By installing the storm drain to collect irrigation water and carry it to a canal, city officials had hoped to greatly increase the capacity of the sewage treatment plant. The irrigation water now flows into the sewer system and is needlessly taking up space in the lagoons and treatment facilities.

According to city clerk Frances McArthur, all areas of the community voted against the bond issue. In Precinct 1, on the west side of Broadway, the vote was 136 "no" and 98 "yes," while in Precinct 2, the vote was 134 "no" and 77 "yes."

Gary Whitwell, who headed the citizens committee, said it appeared that national economic conditions discouraged many property owners from supporting the bond issue, which would have lasted for 30 years.

Bills race through Congress before adjournment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate sent a record-high military spending bill to the White House Tuesday, clearing the decks for congressional adjournment today.

While awaiting a flurry of Senate action on the major bills left on its calendar, the House, without debate or a rollcall, voted itself a Christmas present — doubling the amount of money members can earn in outside income, from $3,099 a year to $16,198. The action was made retroactive to the start of this year. A member's salary is $20,623.50.

In the rush to adjourn for the holidays, a compromise $11 billion omnibus farm bill was imperiled, but an $11.4 billion foreign aid agreement was passed by the Senate Tuesday night and sent to the House for final congressional action today.

The two-year $11.4 billion foreign aid program, which gave President Reagan most of what he wanted for his foreign policy toward the developing nations, passed the Senate 55-42. The largest recipients are Israel and Egypt and the measure would lift prohibitions on military aid to Chile, Argentina and Pakistan.

A bill to make it illegal to disclose the names of CIA agents was threatened by the possibility of delaying tactics in the Senate, although it was scheduled for at least cursory debate Wednesday.

That left only a Nuclear Regulatory Commission authorization and a bill to salvage a fund that pays benefits to coal miners disabled by black-lung disease for the Senate to consider today, and Social Security, the farm bill and the foreign aid authorization for the House to complete before adjourning.

The House passed the conference report on the $200 billion defense appropriations bill and the Senate did likewise, sending it to the White House for Reagan's signature several hours later.

The compromise version is about $1.2 billion below Reagan's September request, but is the biggest military spending bill in the nation's history.

It contains funds for the MX missile system, the controversial B-1 supersonic bomber and the radar-avoiding "Stealth" bomber, plus a major push to modernize the Navy.

On a 96-0 vote, the Senate passed and sent to the House the Social Security bill continuing the $122-a-month minimum benefits for those who now have them, but it would deny them to those who reach retirement age after the first of the year. (Details on Page A3)

The Senate approved the $11 billion compromise farm package last week, after strenuous negotiations that left even its backers unenthusiastic. If the House does not approve before support prices would jump to 1949 levels.

Also on Tuesday both House and Senate passed to take note of the labor crisis in Poland.

The Senate reaffirmed its call for a total embargo on exports to the Soviet Union and other Warsaw Pact nations if they take military action against Poland.

Both houses passed a resolution deploring the imposition of martial law and calling into question continued U.S. assistance to the government of Poland. And the House passed a resolution asking for a halt in any deportation proceedings involving Polish citizens until the crisis is resolved.

In other action, Congress approved and sent to the White House two more appropriations bills — for agriculture and military construction.

The House, by voice vote, and the Senate, by 75-20, passed a $21.2 billion farm money bill with $10.3 billion earmarked for the food stamp program. The total is in line with Reagan's budget request.

Wednesday briefing

Prison release protested

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama's attorney general said Tuesday if a federal judge gives permission to carry out his plan to free 352 "dangerous" convicts three days before Christmas it won't be "Prancer and Donce" that's on the roof.

"These inmates have horrible prior criminal histories," said Attorney General Charles Graddick. "They are the kind of people that three days before Christmas who will have a field day when released.

"If any of these violent people are released, the parents should not tell their children that Prancer and Donce are on their roof because it's going to be a bunch of thugs and criminals released from our prisons," Graddick said.

U.S. District Judge Robert Varner ruled Monday the convicts, some of them convicted murderers and rapists, should be freed to ease the crowding in Alabama's jails. It was the second mass release ordered by Varner in six months.

Carbon dioxide for rabbit kill?

DENVER (UPI) — The American Humane Society says it has learned that eastern Idaho ranchers are considering the use of carbon dioxide for any future mass rabbit-kill.

The Denver-based group said it has learned from Max Finch, executive director of the Idaho Humane Society, that his group and ranchers are discussing a plan to round up rabbits and herd them into a covered pit, where carbon dioxide "will be used for a quick and painless death for the animals."

"Thousands of jack rabbits were rounded up and clubbed to death during the weekend near Mud Lake, Idaho. Ranchers said the animals had consumed millions of dollars worth of agricultural products.

N.Y. trash talks resume

NEW YORK (UPI) — With more than 100,000 tons of trash on New York City's streets, talks resumed Tuesday in a strike of private garbage men and Mayor Edward Koch warned both sides that a settlement "better be soon."

"I and the public insist that the parties not leave the bargaining table until a settlement is reached — and that better be soon," the mayor declared.

Many streets were an ungodly mess because a heavy rain soaked cardboard boxes of trash, causing them to disintegrate and spill their contents onto sidewalks. On other streets, there were piles of plastic garbage bags up to 10 feet high.

Explosion at Union Carbide

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI) — An explosion rocked Union Carbide headquarters Tuesday, forcing an estimated 1,000 employees to flee the building.

Ambulances and all available firefighters and police officers were sent to the scene, but officials at a local hospital said they had been told no one was injured. Mayor James E. Dyer also went to the scene.

Authorities said the explosion between 2:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. may have occurred on the second floor and possibly involved five to seven propane tanks.

"We have heard from Union Carbide that no one has been injured," Danbury Hospital spokeswoman Rodgers DePue said.

"Someone had called in, we were all prepared for we knew not what. But as it turns out no one has been brought in," she said.

Airman faces death penalty

HOLLOMAN AIR FORCE BASE, N.M. (UPI) — An Air Force security policeman Tuesday was sentenced to death for premeditated murder in the slaying of his supervisor, whom he believed was prejudiced against him.

The sentence imposed on Airman 1st Class Robert M. Gray, 28, of Detroit, who joined the Air Force nearly one year ago, is subject to automatic review at several military levels and by the president.

Gray, who will be taken to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., while the sentence is being reviewed, also was convicted last weekend of unpremeditated murder in the shooting death of another military policeman and of attempted murder for shooting at a third serviceman. He was acquitted of another attempted murder charge.

Abortion law may be toughest

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Pennsylvania lawmakers approved legislation Tuesday that its sponsors said would make it the toughest state in the nation in which to get an abortion.

A spokesman for Gov. Dick Thornburgh gave no indication if he would sign the bill, veto it, or allow it to become law without his signature in 10 days.

The measure is an attempt to discourage women from getting abortions by forcing them to wait an extra 24 hours while they undergo counseling on the possible physical and emotional effects of the procedure.

—It also would require women under 18 to get consent from a parent prior to an abortion.

Jury told of Hilton fire confession

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A weeping hotel busboy confessed in tape-recorded interview with police that he started the fire at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel Feb. 10, that claimed eight lives, a District Court jury was told Tuesday.

"The defendant started to cry and said he had not told the truth and it was bothering him too much," said Officer Chuck Lee, who investigated the fire that erupted in the eighth floor elevator lobby and swept into upper floors of the 29-story gambling resort.

Three other fires broke out at the 2,700-room resort within hours of the 8:05 blaze on the eighth floor.

Philip Bruce Cline, 24, first told investigators on the night of the fire he discovered the blaze, tried to put it out, and attempted to warn hotel guests.

A voluntary statement he gave police as a fire witness contained a slip that ultimately led to his arrest within 24 hours.

Lee said he and another officer went to Cline's home to obtain more information the day after the fire because in reviewing his previous accounts of the blaze Cline "seemed to put out the fire with a can of fire."

"Hillard (Sgt. Bob Hillard, Lee's commanding officer) referred to it as a Freudian slip," testified Lee.

Lee, a homicide investigator for 13 years, said Cline voluntarily agreed to go to the police station and less than 24 hours later he was arrested and said he wanted to tell the truth. Lee said he tape recorded Cline's confession and then arrested the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel room service busboy on eight counts of murder and one count of arson.

Cline was shown a typed, transcribed copy of the statement the next morning and signed every page of the 12-page statement, said Lee.

Defense attorneys attempted to suppress admission of Cline's statement into evidence Tuesday. Prosecutor Mel Harmon laid the foundation for the statement with Lee's testimony late Tuesday when District Judge Adelaar Guy took it under submission until court resumes at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Police patrolman L. Kent Bilsko testified Tuesday he took a voluntary statement from Cline at 2 a.m. Feb. 21, as firemen still battled the blaze.

Today's weather

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:

Patches of dense fog this morning, otherwise partly cloudy through Thursday. Light and variable winds today. Highs in the 40s both days. Lows in the middle 30s.

Camas Prairie, Halley, Wood River valley:

Patches of dense fog this morning, otherwise partly cloudy through Thursday. Light winds. Highs in the upper 30s to low 40s both days. Lows near 20.

Northern Nevada and Utah:

Variable cloudiness over Nevada today, with clouds and wind increasing on Thursday. Highs in the upper 40s with lows in the 20s.

Synopsis:

Rain, wind, hail, snow.

That's a quick description of Magic Valley weather Tuesday as a strong frontal system crossed the area late in the morning. It also brought cooler temperatures, with readings plunging from near 50 degrees to close to freezing in a matter of minutes.

The accompanying precipitation turned from rain — which had fallen most of Monday night and Tuesday morning — to snow before tapering off. Skies were partly cloudy in the afternoon as brisk westerly winds followed the passage of the front.

Similar effects were felt across southern and central Idaho, and an avalanche warning was issued for mountain areas from Halley to Stanley.

Improvement appears on the way, with the extended forecast for Friday through Sunday calling for a warming. Daytime temperatures will be as much as 12 degrees above normal. Highs should be in the middle to upper 40s with lows in the 20s and 30s.

In Idaho Tuesday, the warmest temperature reported was 53 degrees at Strevell before the cold front passed. The coldest was 18 at Port Hill.

several people were killed or injured in the clashes.

Stefan Frzyczinski, Solidarity's Warsaw deputy information officer, told reporters in Stockholm, where he was vacationing when martial law was declared Sunday, that Solidarity members had stashed a limited number of weapons inside factories before occupying them.

He refused to discount the possibility that these weapons, he said included guns, would be used.

"They will never be used against Polish troops, but they might under certain circumstances against Russian soldiers," he said.

A communications blackout more complete than those imposed during the Soviet invasions of Hungary and Czechoslovakia made news from Poland on the third day of martial law sketchy and incomplete.

Reliable sources, managing to get word out clandestinely, said Solidarity supporters staged strikes or protests in Silesia, Poznan, Wroclaw, Krakow, Gdansk, Katowice and Warsaw.

Tass reported a confrontation at a Warsaw steel mill where it said "nearly 250 thugs... armed with iron rods entrenched themselves." It said troops arrested 25 of the workers but its report indicated that union members were still holding out inside.

"Operations to put a stop to provocative actions of this kind are being successfully carried out in other places," Tass added, without elaborating.

Senate votes unanimously for Social Security minimum

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate unanimously approved a stopgap Social Security bill Tuesday, saving the $122-a-month minimum benefit for 3 million people who now receive it.

The vote was 96-0, and reverses the biggest Social Security cut-Congress made this year.

The House was expected to approve the legislation today.

The bill keeps new recipients off the rolls after Jan. 1 except nurses and priests who take care of the poor.

It makes temporary accounting changes to keep Social Security financially healthy through the end of next year by allowing the system's three funds to borrow from each other, and imposes a new tax on sick pay to make up for part of the money lost by restoring the minimum.

"You do not take benefits away from people who have been receiving them," said Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., in debate before the vote.

"Congress made a mistake when it voted to abolish the minimum, which goes to people utterly in need."

Republicans said repeatedly the bill is only a stopgap measure, and urged action next year to avert a five-year funding crunch and financial troubles in the next century, when the post-World War II baby boom generation begins drawing benefits.

"We have begged the main issue," said Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo. "The facts remain: Social Security is going broke."

The minimum benefit goes to those who did not pay enough into Social Security to qualify for regular benefits, most of them elderly women and half over 70.

During its summer budget-cutting, Congress voted to end the benefit at the administration's request. But lawmakers and President Reagan changed their minds after protests by recipients and administration critics.

Congress' summer vote cut off new minimum beneficiaries after October, and Social Security officials say 400 people have been kept off the rolls already. Current beneficiaries were to see their payments ended next March.

The agreement imposes new taxes on sick pay to make up all but $1.7 billion of the $6.1 billion that restoring the minimum benefit will cost over the next five years.

The decision to allow interfund borrowing to keep the funds financially healthy only through the end of 1982 was a compromise from earlier proposals to allow it for five years.

Conferees agreed it could force a lame duck session after next November's congressional elections to adopt longer-range reforms that may include politically sensitive benefit cuts.

U.S. may vote against Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will vote for a resolution condemning Israel for annexing the Golan Heights if it does not call for sanctions, U.S. officials said Tuesday.

State Department officials were considering the legal and diplomatic impact of the Israeli action and some officials expressed fear that it could bring a halt to the Camp David negotiation process, essentially stalled for the past 18 months.

Officials said Syria, which had occupied the Golan Heights, is expected to bring before the U.N. Security Council a resolution condemning the Israeli action on grounds it violated international law and U.N. principles.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig scheduled a meeting with Israeli Ambassador Ephraim Evron for late Tuesday to elicit a "clarification" of the Israeli action.

The U.S. delegation to the United Nations, led by ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, is discussing the language of the proposed resolution.

EPHRAIM EVRON meets with Haig with Arab nations, trying to find a formula that would permit the United States to join what is expected to be a near-unanimous condemnation of the Israeli action.

Officials said the United States would veto any resolution calling for sanctions against Israel—and not support any language that was "too shrill."

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Tuesday Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights is a violation of international law and the Camp David accords, and could bring unilateral U.S. sanctions.

"What they've done now, I think, clearly is a violation of the United Nations resolutions and therefore the Camp David agreement," Weinberger said on ABC's "Good Morning America."

He likened the annexation to Israel's bombing of an Iraqi nuclear reactor last June, which triggered a wave of international protest and prompted the administration to delay delivery of warplanes to Israel.

There are currently no plans to send more U.S. planes to Israel, although M-60 tanks are among other military equipment the United States is supplying.

Reagan signs budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan Tuesday signed a $413 billion federal funding bill to keep the government running through the end of March.

He hailed the measure as meaning "substantial savings for taxpayers."

The Oval Office autograph on the final cream-colored page of the stopgap appropriations—measure wrote the final act in a conflict between Reagan and the Congress over spending cuts that featured a partial one-day government shutdown before Thanksgiving.

"This resolution represents a genuine effort at spending restraint and embodies substantial savings for taxpayers," said Reagan, reading a prepared statement.

"It is $49 billion in appropriations below the original request of the previous administration last January, and $5 billion below my own, much reduced request of last March."

The president said the measure was "better than the one I vetoed three weeks ago" and added it represents "a big change from the 'business as usual' appropriations of the past."

Early election results criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Early reporting of election returns while polls are still open is "a deterrent to the free election process," an Oregon congressman complained Tuesday.

Another, from Montana, said it has a "pernicious effect" on voter turnout.

They were among several members of Congress testifying in the House Administration Committee on a variety of bills to establish a uniform time for closing the polls across the country.

One bill, by Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., would establish Sunday voting between noon and 9 p.m. EST in federal elections.

But the head of the News Election

Service, which supplies accurate ballot results in every precinct for the networks and wire services, said it would be almost impossible to carry out his mission under such a plan, and resulting "delays" could "undermine ballot security."

The congressional witnesses cited a University of Michigan study indicating that voter turnout in western states, with later poll closing times, can be affected by the broadcast of projections and actual results in eastern time zones.

"They also called on the broadcast media to refrain from airing projections, although network executives testified last summer against any legislation that would restrict their right to report.

"It would be far better if the networks acknowledge what each of us viscerally knows to be true: early disclosures and television projections work as a deterrent to the free election process," said Rep. Les AuCoin, D-Ore.

Rep. Pat Williams, D-Mont., said, "If people perceive that their votes are meaningless, it will have a pernicious effect on their willingness to participate in our representative democracy."

The early release of returns from the East "unfairly prejudices one set of citizens over another set of citizens," said Rep. George Danielson, D-Calif.

Right on priorities, but short on funds

Gov. John Evans' 1982 budget message Monday was on the mark but $10 million short. As such, the 1982 Legislature once again will be hard pressed to balance general-fund revenue projections with program funding. Although the gap is closer — lawmakers cut Evans' request by $30 million last year — the fact that 1982 is a gubernatorial election year could complicate the process.

Evans wants to spend $477 million in fiscal 1983, but his own revenue projections come up $10 million short. Legislative leaders have been saying for some time that a budget in the $460 million to $465 million range is the most realistic. It would represent a 10-percent increase over 1982's budget of $422 million. The governor can show where his $10 million shortfall can be generated without a general tax hike, which he will not support. But even if the Legislature would agree to the governor's "cash-management improvements," too many economic uncertainties remain.

With the extent of federal funding cuts still unknown and economic projections showing a sluggish first half for 1981, any budget modeling is precarious at this point.

One thing is certain: There will be no general tax hike coming out of this Legislature. Initial "fencing" will commence over revenue projections, an issue that thoroughly dominated last year's session. Then, it will become a matter of making the hard and tough decisions.

Lawmakers justifiably will continue their conservative spending trend.

With the national economy in a recession, and Idaho suffering from the twin blows of a depressed forest industry and the possible closing of Bunker Hill, an increase of more than 10 percent in spending simply isn't in the cards.

Yet, the governor's request to reinstate several programs put on the shelf last year deserves consideration. Public television, an air-quality program, in-home care for the elderly and stream-channel protection are instrumental to the quality of life in Idaho.

The governor's lead item in his budget message was economic revitalization, a key element to providing sorely needed revenues. Idaho has got to take a more aggressive stance to attract new industry, improve the business climate and enhance its tourism image. On this, Evans and most lawmakers agree.

In addition, the governor has targeted education as one of his top priorities, as well he should. But his proposed 11-percent increase will be one of the first targets for trimming.

Indications are that the governor's office and the Legislature will come together in Boise in January better prepared to develop a realistic and responsible spending plan. Although Evans and key Republican leaders don't see eye to eye on the funding problems, they can do without the animosity that marked last year's session.

Leaders on both sides of the aisle also should pledge not to allow election-year posturing to interfere with the session. The temptation will be great for one party to triumph at the other's expense, but that would be counterproductive and an affront to the citizens of this state.

McClure's wilderness charade

WASHINGTON — If you thought this year's disappointing wilderness charade was over, guess again. Attempting to break the impasse over national release language, Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, has made a new overture to his Senate. It was greeted by a resounding silence. Against the advice of Sen. Mark Hatfield, D-Ore., and Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., McClure sent wilderness-state senators a proposal. He encouraged them to support the stalled national release bill, and he invited them to submit wilderness proposals for their states.

"It may be that a final bill which can resolve the controversy will need to address wilderness designation," wrote McClure. "Should this be the course on which we can proceed, it would be helpful for each of us to consider the RARE II recommendation remaining in our states."

In case senators needed reminding, McClure sent them a list of wilderness recommendations which the Carter Administration and the Forest Service had made for their state. The list also contained some new recommendations, identified as "U.S. Forest Service Revised Acres, Nov. 13, 1981."

That new set of recommendations left timber aides scratching their heads and wondering whether the Forest Service had quickly and quietly accomplished a sequel to RARE II, RARE III, perhaps.

It turns out that Assistant Agriculture Secretary John Crowell and Forest Service Chief Max Peterson had led the agency into a quick and dirty reassessment of its RARE II wilderness proposals. Regional foresters sent their recommendations for change in RARE II to Washington, where they were coordinated by the Forest Service's office of Legislative Affairs. Crowell consented to McClure's request that this new list of figures be labeled as "revised Forest Service" recommendations. The new Forest Service recommendations for Oregon was one of the most surprising. Total acreage recommended for wilderness was about one-half of what Sen. Hatfield had already moved through the Senate as an Oregon Wilderness Bill in the 96th Congress.

"It's a little confusing," said an aide to Hatfield. "We're not real excited about it. The timing is poor and everyone knows that McClure's release language is too strong to survive in the House. The whole thing is a little amorphous and appears to be a last ditch effort for this session."

Other sources say that Hatfield was angry at seeing the new list of Forest Service recommendations.

The list for Washington State carried the reminder that the Reagan Administration opposes a Cougar Lakes wilderness area, which both Republican congressmen, Sid Morrison and Joel Pritchard, favor.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., have written McClure, essentially telling him to forget about the national release language bill. The senators told McClure that the national release language bill is not necessary and that a state-by-state approach is the best way to resolve the wilderness issue.

Jackson's letter — which is also being sent to all senators who received McClure's proposal — is about the fourth time McClure has been told directly by seasoned political hands that national release language is dead. Otherwise, there has been little response to McClure's offensive. "We've been somewhat overwhelmed by the response to the letter," says an aide to Sen. Jon Melcher, D-Mont., who co-igned the McClure letter.

The longer this charade over national release language persists, the more it seems to be a trip into a wonderland, where the usual structures of politics don't apply or are not observed.

Rather than generate any new support for the national release language bill, McClure's latest foray has turned off the two key players on the Senate Energy Committee — its ranking Republican, Hatfield, and ranking Democrat, Jackson.

For McClure, who is regarded as a shrewd operator, this fuzzy last-minute attempt to move the release language bill out of character and politically naive.

Crowell was unprofessional in allowing senators to inspect a half-baked set of numbers masquerading as an official Forest Service proposal. In the process, he managed to offend Hatfield, to whom he owes a great deal of his Senate confirmation.

Chief Max Peterson compromised the independence of the Forest Service by cooperating in a badly-crafted political scheme that used an unsanctioned set of numbers bearing his agency's imprimatur.

The longer the national release language game persists, the worse it gets. Whoever is fueling its winning campaign should be made to say, "A bad bill is a bad bill is a bad bill."

Questions for canal board

Editor, Times-News: A small group of shareholders from the Murtaugh area held a meeting with Bryan Harris Jr. Wednesday evening to discuss the recent rate increase for stockholders and the reasons behind it:

- Reason 1. Maintenance on the canal because it has not been maintained right.
  - Reason 2. The gates at Milner Dam and Murtaugh Lake need to be replaced or repaired.
  - Reason 3. Inflation.
- Mr. Klaas made a statement in Thursday's paper "We want to wake up the stockholders." I'm awake, Mr. Klaas, now give me some answers:
1. Why hasn't the maintenance been done right?
  2. What happens, if you decide to replace the gates and they're not ready in time for the irrigation season?
  3. Why couldn't the assessments have been gradually raised over a period of years?
- I don't believe the stockholders are to blame because the canal system has deteriorated; but we are to blame because we've let the members of the canal board get away with this.

Canal board states position

would like to set the record straight. Recent published figures which showed cash on hand at the end of Feb. 1980 are misleading.

Money on hand at the beginning of the calendar year is not a true statement of our financial position. Our fiscal year now ends Oct. 30 and those year-end figures are the ones that reflect our true financial standing. The Canal Co. is now using an accounting method that more clearly reflects our financial position. Using these procedures for the year ending Dec. 31, 1979, instead of a $134,613.05 gain, we actually had a deficit of $5,500.00.

Concern has been expressed as to why assessments were raised to $10.50 per share for 1982. Our objective is to operate a safe, reliable system which will meet the water needs of our stockholders. We feel that proper maintenance of our canals, its structures and a water management program will enable us to obtain these objectives. We cannot afford another break or major disaster.

Just like you, we have had to contend with increased costs. Our equipment is old and has been expensive to keep operational. Even with the assessment increase, our 1982 assessment of $10.50 per share will not allow us to replace any of our heavy equipment. We have experienced tremendous increases in chemicals used for moss and weed control, gas and diesel fuels, parts and repairs for our equipment and other expenses such as legal fees and insurance costs. Labor costs are high but we were able to keep our crews working practically all winter because of the mild weather last year.

Our water management program will enable us to keep better track of our water and have more accurate records. This entails 13 operating recorder stations which will eventually feed information into our in-house computer. Litigations that have been forced on us require that we have these records. These litigations, which include those from the canal breaks and Canyon View's condemnation suit, also necessitated the hiring of an engineering firm to do a study of our system. Under an agreement on water management with the Bureau of Reclamation we have signed a contract from which we can expect to receive about $50,000, which in essence will pay 75 percent of the costs of the computer and its programs.

We cannot afford another break, and we cannot afford a system that is deteriorated and will not deliver water to your crops. For a long time assessments were kept low, and all of us who used irrigation water liked that. But now we have been forced to make some costly decisions. We feel we have no other choice, and we know it is going to be expensive.

We urge you to attend our annual meeting on Jan. 12, 1982, at CSI in the Shields Building at 10 a.m.

U.S. stands helplessly by as door slams shut on Poland

By OTIS PIKE
Newhouse-News Service

WASHINGTON — It must have been an appalling weekend for the president of the United States, for the secretary of state, the secretary of defense and all those who sit in the seats of power in Washington. It is degrading to sit in such an exalted position and realize how little power there is in it.

You work so hard to achieve the symbols of power — the brutal and demeaning drudgery of political campaigns, the years of working slowly up the ladder of political office, of taking orders in the military, of searching and fighting your way from the bottom to the top in the business world. A tiny handful of survivors make it. They become the leaders of the most powerful nation on earth. They appear on magazine covers. They ride on Air Force One. They meet with other world leaders. Then, when they have achieved the appearance of power, something takes place which they were desperately to prevent, and they cannot prevent it.

Something occurs which violates all they believe in, and they cannot change it.

The tragedy which took place in Poland over the weekend was foretold as in classic Greek drama. First, there was the rise of a mighty hero and the hope of a glorious future for the land: justice, freedom and self-determination were held out as rights to which all the people were entitled. Then, against the hopes of the people were matched the ominous warnings of the fates. Do not go so fast, do not ask for so much, do not raise your hopes so high. You will suffer, for you are tempting the anger of the gods. On Saturday, the gods, or at least the goddess, struck. The leaders of the free world were not only powerless to prevent it, they didn't even know what was happening. The Polish government, whoever and whatever it was, imposed martial law. The first thing any such coup grabs is the means of communication: Once the radio and television stations and newspapers are completely controlled, Solidarity's telephone and telex lines cut, the leaders of the free world could only guess at what was going on.

Having guaranteed that only one side of the confrontation would be heard, a group modestly calling itself the Military Council of National Salvation announced that it was now the government. It proclaimed that it was composed of high-ranking officers of the Polish army and that Polish Prime Minister Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski was its chairman. Its proclamation was a document of fascinating contradictions, apologetic in its tone, total in its seizure of power. It claimed the Military Council of National Salvation to be merely "a temporary body that will operate until the situation becomes normalized." They would decide when that would be. It said that it "relates to everyone and does not, in any way, intend to represent any organ of the people's authority." At the same time it "calls on all state administration bodies to understand that the extraordinary situation renders their normal functioning impossible."

It referred to the "already overt preparations for a reactionary coup" and said its mission was "to bring to naught the coup against the state," "without ever saying who had attempted or was about to attempt such a coup. It did say that anti-socialist forces often inspired and supported materially from abroad, operated "under the hallmark of Solidarity."

The long-threatened military coup has taken place in Poland. Martial law has been imposed and the activities of trade unions suspended. The status and fate of Solidarity's leaders is unknown. The takeover proclamation merely said that "subversives, instigators and adventurers... must be isolated until good sense returns." The Military Council of National Salvation will recognize good sense when it sees it.

The leader of the most powerful nation on earth hurried back to Washington. From Jimmy Carter, the secretary of state came back from Europe. The president said, "We're monitoring the situation."

The secretary of state said, "Poland's political experiment... should be allowed to proceed unimpeded." But the whole world knew it had been monstrously impeded.

It is terrible being the leader of the most powerful nation on earth and not having any power.

M-K wants end to Peru suit

BOISE (UPI) — Morrison-Knudsen Co. has asked U.S. District Judge Ray McNichols to conclude a nine-year-old lawsuit against the Boise-based construction company.

The suit claims the company attempted to defraud the Peruvian government in building a road through the Andes Mountains.

In supplemental briefs filed with the judge earlier this week, M-K seeks a court order in its favor to end the $2-million lawsuit filed in 1972 by engineer-Charles Pettis, of Spain and Brooklyn, N.Y.

Pettis contends he was ostracized from his profession, offered bribes and threatened when he refused to authorize payment to M-K for a landslide that occurred on the roadway in the mid-1960s.

McNichols is considering two separate lawsuits Pettis filed — one against M-K and its wholly owned subsidiary in Peru, Constructora Emkay, S.A., and another $2-million suit against Brown and Root Inc., Houston.

The lawsuits were merged in 1974 and transferred to the Boise court, where McNichols is considering them as multi-district litigation.

The suits say Pettis was hired by Brown and Root in 1961 to supervise construction of a roadway for the Peruvian government across the northern portion of the mountains.

Peru obtained funding from the U.S. Agency for International Development and the Export-Import Bank for the project — and Pettis said Brown and Root agreed not to discharge him unless Peruvian officials agreed.

The lawsuit said Pettis "found numerous gross defects" in the roadway's design upon assuming the job — and observed additional defects in M-K's construction methods. And when a landslide destroyed a portion of the highway, the lawsuit said Pettis refused to pay M-K additional money to cover the costs of repairing the roadway.

The lawsuit said Pettis believed the landslide resulted from allegedly defective design and construction — but M-K contended it was caused by unpredictable geologic formations.

Because he believed he was hired to serve the Peruvian government, the lawsuit says Pettis discussed the defects and circumstances that led up to the landslide "honestly and candidly" with officials of that country — and was "subjected to abusive treatment and threats" from M-K and Brown and Root officials as a result.

House votes to halt silver sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives Tuesday passed a defense appropriations budget containing an amendment that would halt the sale of silver from the nation's stockpile, Rep. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, said.

The House-Senate Conference report, which was passed by the House by an overwhelming vote, now goes to the Senate for final approval and then to the President.

The amendment, authored by Idaho Sen. James McClure, would require the President to report to Congress in detailed discussion as to why and how the nation's silver should be disposed if he deems the sale necessary.

"This certainly is a victory for Idaho's silver producers," Craig said. "Without the threat of government intervention in the market, the price of silver may now reach a realistic value."

Remarks accepted on energy plan until Jan. 15

BOISE (UPI) — The date for accepting written comments on the proposed Idaho Energy Plan has been extended to Jan. 15, state Energy Resource Policy Board Chairman Robert Huntley said Tuesday.

"The public interest in the draft energy plan has far exceeded our expectations and concern has been voiced by industry and individuals about the lack of sufficient time to review and comment on the plan," Huntley said.

About 500 people attended eight public hearings on the plan during the past two weeks — and oral testimony was presented by 139 of those who attended the meetings, he said. Additional written testimony has been received from more than 25 groups, he said.

The plan outlines priorities for meeting the state's energy needs for the next 20 years and suggests legislation that would aid in energy conservation and development.

Huntley said the draft plan brought strong debate on several policy statements, including nuclear energy.

The plan's call for a constitutional amendment to allow revenue bonding for local energy production received strong support from local governments and consumer groups, he said.

Teen charged in bomb threat

BOISE (UPI) — A 15-year-old Boise boy, charged with a felony count of making a bomb threat, was released to the custody of his mother Tuesday after a court hearing in Boise.

Police said the boy was arrested in connection with a bomb threat at North Junior High School in Boise on Dec. 8, the day after an explosion tore through 10 lockers at Boise High School.

A Boise High School student was later arrested in connection with that incident.

The youth arrested in connection with the bomb threat was held in the Ada County Juvenile Detention Center since Friday. He was released to the custody of his mother pending a hearing in juvenile court.

National Forest receipts paid

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming have received a total of about $11.5 million as their share of more than $230 million paid to 40 states and Puerto Rico from the National Forest receipts for fiscal year 1981.

Intermountain Regional Forester Jeff Sirmon announced the final payments. He said federal law grants states 25 percent of revenues collected by the Forest Service for timber sales, grazing, recreation, minerals and other land use fees.

The payments are distributed by the states to the counties on the basis of how much Forest Service land is in each county. The funds are used for schools and roads.

The amounts given to the four Intermountain states were: Idaho $9.07 million; Nevada $285,306; Utah $975,903; Wyoming $1.02 million.

Highway 21 closed for season

BOISE (UPI) — State Highway 21 between Grandjean and Stanley will be closed for the rest of the season due to rock and snow slides, the Idaho Highways Division said Tuesday.

The stretch of about 35 miles of highway beginning seven miles east of Grandjean usually is closed during the winter because of the high danger of slides, officials said. A slide about 20 miles east of Lowman spurred the closure Tuesday, they said.

Highway maintenance crews will erect barriers and warning signs at both ends of the closed section and motorists are advised not to attempt traveling through the area until spring.

Criminal courts of Northern Ireland handle approximately 40,000 cases a year. Of these, only about 300 deal with charges of drunkenness. Those Irish either don't get drunk or they don't get thrown in jail for it. You guess.

ACTING ARCHITECT

Q. Who's the famous actor who's also an architect?
A. Don't know if Jimmy Stewart claims to be an architect, but the record shows he has a Bachelor's Degree in that specialty.

Q. "What's water grass?"
A. Another name for zizania aquatica now erroneously known as wild rice.

Q. What was this country's biggest year for baby births?

CHILDHOOD IMPRESSION

As a youngster, I always got the impression those rarely heard of Canadian towns with long Indian names most surely were out in the wilds, North Country outposts, Beaver villages, Canoe camps. Fur parks places, Moose jerky junctions. Consider Mississauga, Ontario, for instance. What's there? The Knob Hill Farm supermarket. What's different about it is its size—the largest in North America. Its meat counter is 280 feet long, for example. So much for childhood impressions.

Understand the Japanese are now using "laughing gas" to power some of their motorcycles. The Yamaha's.

Among stutterers, the men outnumber the women four to one. It is now known that stuttering seems to run in families, some what.

Hold on: Didn't say there weren't any flies in Alaska. Green bottle flies, yes. Blue bottle flies, yes. Only said there weren't any houseflies there.

If this day is typical, about 4,000 people nationwide will retire today.

MATHEW O. TOBRINER
...noted for opinions

California judge, 77, to retire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — State Supreme Court Justice Mathew O. Tobriner, one of the nation's most prominent state judges, has announced his retirement from the California high court.

Tobriner, 77, wrote many highly noted legal opinions among them the landmark case of Marvin v. Marvin, which for the first time allowed unmarried partners who live together to sue for division of property when they separate.

That case was brought to the state high court by Michelle Triola Marvin who had sued actor Lee Marvin for support although they were never married.

In 1985, Tobriner wrote the opinion in People v. Dorado, which required state law enforcement officials to inform suspects of their right to remain silent and right to have an attorney present when being questioned. The next year, the U.S. Supreme Court in the famous Miranda case virtually followed Tobriner's ruling.

Tobriner also wrote the 1976 decision which opened the way for busing in Los Angeles County to alleviate racial segregation in the schools.

Tobriner, the senior justice on the state Supreme Court, has been on the bench almost 20 years. Before that he was a justice on the State Court of Appeal for three years. His resignation becomes effective Jan. 3, 1982.

Tobriner, a native San Franciscan, was born April 7, 1904, was admitted to the California State Bar in 1928 after graduating with a law degree from Harvard Law School in 1927. He attended Lowell High School in San Francisco, graduated magna cum laude from Stanford University in 1924 and has three advanced degrees from Stanford, University of California School of Law and the University of Santa Clara.

He was appointed to the state court of appeals in 1959 by then Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown Sr., and to the California Supreme Court in 1962.

Right size for Duke's monument

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Western sculptor and painter Harry Jackson has been commissioned to create a 21-foot-high bronze monument to the late actor John Wayne.

The Wayne family and officials of Great Western Savings & Loan Association, which commissioned the monument, made a joint announcement of the project. Wayne had made a series of television commercials for Great Western.

"The Wayne family is delighted that Great Western has commissioned Harry Jackson to sculpt this tribute to our father," said Wayne's son, Michael.

"Harry Jackson always intended to paint my father's portrait while he was alive," he said. "Although they were never able to complete that project, Great Western in a sense has helped make that a reality."

Montana GOPs consider races

KALISPELL, Mont. (UPI) — Two Republicans say they are giving serious thought to running for seats in Montana's congressional delegation. Clyde Smith of Kalispell, president of the Montana Logging Association, said he may seek the GOP nomination next year for the House seat now held by Democrat Pat Williams.

Smith, 55, has not sought political office before.

Larry Williams, a Kalispell investment counselor who lost his first bid for a U.S. Senate seat to Democrat Max Baucus in 1978, said he would decide by the first week of January whether he would seek the GOP nomination next year for the seat held by Democratic incumbent John Melcher.

LaTonya has great family

OGDEN—Utah—(UPI)—Newborn LaTonya Green has something few other people have — two living great-great-grandmothers, one on her father's side of the family and one on her mother's side. She also has living grandparents, great-grandmothers and great-great-grandmothers on both sides of the family — an unbroken line of six living generations. LaTonya was born at McKay-Dee Hospital Saturday at Tamara Green, 19, and her husband Kevin Green, 18, of Ogden. Green, who recently enlisted in the Air Force, plans to take his daughter this spring to meet her great-great-great-grandmothers, Ellen Robinson, 96, Taylor, Tex., and Adie Hampton, 84, Stevens-Archer, Miss. Mrs. Green said her father hopes to have a family reunion around Easter so he can take a family portrait of all six generations. "We all just had our kids early," said Mrs. Green.

Medicine adulterer still busy

LOS ANGELES—(UPI)—Health officials have discovered another five containers of eye and nose medications spiked with dangerous concentrations of acid and chlorine. The discovery brings to 15 the number of containers of Visine, Clear Eyes, Murine and Duraton eye drops, Afrin nose drops, and Sinex, Neosynephrine and Dristan nasal sprays deliberately contaminated on shelves in at least seven chain stores. The state Department of Health Services disclosed Monday that five more containers were found to be contaminated with enough sulfuric acid, hydrochloric acid, acetic acid and chlorine to cause severe injury. One store manager speculated on the possibility of extortion as a motive for the contamination, but authorities said no extortion notes have been received. At least seven people using the widely advertised products were injured and one woman may have suffered permanent eye damage. "In most cases, the user put in one drop of the eye drops and started screaming," said Susan Bond, inspector for the state Department of Health Services. "If they'd put in more than one drop, there could have been total blindness. The contaminated products were found at four Alpha Beta markets and Thrifty-Drug Store, in West Hollywood, in Hollywood, Burbank and Glendale, and in Santa Monica. The first complaint was made several weeks ago, Miss Bond said, and investigation indicated the products had been on the shelves for about three weeks.

Farm bill attacked from two sides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials lobbied hard Tuesday to save an $11 billion farm bill from defeat by an unusual coalition.

Consumer advocates who think it costs too much and farm state legislators who consider it too stingy teamed up to fight the bill.

Agriculture Secretary John Block spent much of the day on the telephone with a simple message: The compromise bill is better than allowing the permanent 1949 law to take effect, along with its complicated government intervention in farming.

"Believe me, we are very busy working on it," said Dave Lane, Block's spokesman.

The compromise, worked out by House and Senate negotiators in more than a month of meetings, was approved by the Senate last week.

The bill includes price supports for peanuts, sugar, milk, wheat, feed grains, rice, soybeans, cotton and wool, and would authorize food stamp, research, conservation and Food for Peace programs.

The $11 billion price tag was close enough to President Reagan's spending target to be acceptable, administration officials said. It was sharply lower than the $16 billion measure originally passed by the House.

At a news conference, five House members predicted they had enough votes to defeat the bill, but Rep. Thomas Harkin, D-Iowa, acknowledged the administration has time on its side.

Harkin said members of Congress were anxious to start their Christmas vacation and many would not vote against the bill for fear of delaying their departure. He opposed the compromise because he believes its price supports are too low.

Rep. James Jeffords, R-Vt., angry that dairy cuts were greater than the industry could swallow, summed up the feeling of supporters and opponents: "It's going to be close."

Rep. Peter Peyser, D-N.Y., who opposed the sugar price support program because it would add billions of dollars to consumer food costs, said Congress should reject the bill and then pass a separate measure that would keep all programs in operation as they now are "until a better farm bill is written."

Peyser said it was "not often" that consumer groups and farm representatives shared the same goal — "to defeat the farm conference report."

Rep. Ron Marlene, R-Mont., angry about the level of supports for wheat, called the bill "needlessly severe."

Rep. Stanley Lundine, D-N.Y., an opponent of the peanut provisions, said "if there is a need for sacrifices in America, the sacrifices should be relatively equal."

Farm appropriation bill clears Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress passed a compromise $21.2 billion agriculture appropriations bill for fiscal 1982 Tuesday and sent it to President Reagan.

"I consider this to be a rather sad day," said Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., noting that to protect domestic programs the bill made sharper cuts in the food for peace program than Reagan had proposed.

"We are protecting them by taking food from the poorest people in the world," Eagleton said.

In addition to the food for peace program, the measure provides money for food stamps, school lunches, nutrition programs for women and children, agricultural research, soil and water conservation and agricultural extension.

The bill cleared the House on a voice vote. The Senate approved it 75-20.

By far the largest expense in the bill is $10.3 billion for food stamps, but the agriculture authorization bill would provide for $11.3 billion for food stamps this fiscal year to prevent further cuts in the program.

Soil and water conservation, agricultural extension programs and food for peace were all funded at lower amounts than last year.

Unlike the money bill, the four-year authorizing legislation is in serious trouble. It must be disposed of today before Congress goes home for the holidays.

Under the congressional budget process, two bills are necessary before federal money may be spent — a bill authorizing expenditures, which also makes any substantive changes in law, and a bill actually appropriating funds from the Treasury.

The appropriations bill, which was in line with Reagan's budget, was $1.7 billion less than the ceilings in the recently passed congressional budget resolution. That amount is being held in reserve for future supplemental appropriations.

Committee bill would block major oil company mergers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House energy subcommittee Tuesday approved a bill to ban major oil company mergers and acquisitions until mid-1983.

The legislation offered by Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, a leading foe of the proposed Mobil takeover of Marathon Oil of Findlay, Ohio, sailed through the fossil fuels subcommittee on a voice vote.

A similar measure was poised for possible eleventh-hour floor action in the Senate, but a staffer there conceded, "We're shooting blanks right now, unfortunately. I think we're going to lose the opportunity."

Congress was within hours of finishing up its work for the year.

Brown's bill would bar the 20 biggest oil firms, as well as foreign interests, from buying more than 5 percent of the stock in any of the 40 leading oil companies.

It would also prevent the top 20 from acquiring more than $1 billion in crude oil reserves from any of the top 40.

A second tier of 20 oil firms would be barred from buying any of their larger competitors in the top 20, but would be free to purchase one another or as much crude oil reserves as they choose.

Layoffs mean sad holidays

By United Press-International

The cruel domino effect of no sales, no production, no work spread Tuesday with two auto parts plants announcing shut-downs over the Christmas holidays.

Their workers join millions more facing a cheerless New Year's.

Republic Steel Corp. said it would shut down its Cleveland plant for two weeks beginning Saturday, laying off 1,700 employees because of the decline in demand for sheet steel.

Hyatt-Clark Industries Inc. in Clark, N.J., planned to close Saturday for two weeks because of overproduction of bearings, laying off about 800 workers.

Federal budget cuts also hit state workers in Missouri where 300 employees at the Division of employment security will be laid off Jan. 8.

An estimate nine million Americans were out of work, the most since the Great Depression of the 1930s, with the auto and aerospace industries hit hardest.

Eighteen percent of the nation's construction workers were idled because of the building slump, and about 11,400 fired air controllers faced a cheerless Christmas.

Approximately 211,000 autoworkers were out of work on indefinite layoff. Another 45,000 are have been laid off temporarily and the jobless epidemic was expected to spread further this week to several thousand — possibly as many as 13,000 — white-collar General Motors employees.

Volkswagen of America, Inc. announced Monday it would delay the start of production at its new Sterling Heights, Mich., plant until at least 1983 due to the industry's prolonged slump.

Government lists safest cigarettes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The safest cigarettes on the market in terms of tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide are Cambridge filters, Carlton filters and New 100s filters, the government's semiannual rating of cigarettes said Tuesday.

All three brands emerged from the Federal Trade Commission tests with less than 0.5 milligrams tar, less than 0.05 mgs nicotine and less than 0.5 mgs carbon monoxide.

At the bottom of the heap was the Bull Durham king-size with 29 mgs tar and 25 mgs carbon monoxide. The worst nicotine rating, 2.1 mgs, was found in English Ovals king-size non-filter cigarettes.

The FTC, which under orders from Congress to produce the ratings every six months, also said it is investigating a complaint from several tobacco firms that claim the commission test procedures result in a falsely low tar rating for Barclay brand cigarettes.

Barclay tested in the latest ratings at 1.1 mg tar. But the makers of competing brands have told the FTC its mechanical puffers that test cigarettes are being foled because Barclay's filter design lets more air into the smokestream and does not duplicate the way the cigarette behaves when placed between the lips.

In reality, the other companies have said, Barclay gives off more tar than the test indicates.

All three of the top brands in the latest list are packaged in a hard pack. Two are king-sized and the New brand is 100 millimeters.

A second Now brand, the King-size filter in the hard pack, also tied with the leaders on both the carbon monoxide scale at less than 0.5 mg and the tar reading at less than 0.5 mg. But its nicotine rating of 0.1 mg kept it out of the top category.

NCPAC files suit against TV stations, congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Conservative Political Action Committee filed a $5 million lawsuit Tuesday against seven liberal members of Congress and 15 television stations that refused to air the New Right group's commercials.

The lawsuit alleges the lawmakers and the stations conspired to block the airing of the conservative group's commercials attacking the liberal voting records of the members of Congress.

"Many of these liberal politicians and network affiliates are doing everything they can to keep our message off the airwaves," said Terry Dolan, chairman of the group.

"This is clearly a form of censorship to be deplored by all those who cherish the right of free speech and expression."

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Washington.

Named in the suit were Democratic Sens. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Daniel Moynihan of New York, John Melcher of Montana, Wendell Ford of Kentucky, and Thomas Eagleton of Missouri; Democratic Reps. James Wright of Texas and Tony Coelho of California; and Ed Quick, Eagleton's administrative assistant.

The television stations named were KTVB, KKAS, WFAA and KDFW in Dallas-Ft. Worth; KJRH, KOKI, KOTV and KTUL in Tulsa, Okla.; WGWB and WWLP in Springfield, Mass.; WFSB in Hartford, Conn.; WMAR in Baltimore, and KTVQ in Billings, Mont.

Federal employees face loss of free parking places

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unless President Reagan intervenes, up to 350,000 federal employees across the country will lose their free parking privileges after New Year's under an appeals court decision issued Tuesday.

The ruling reinstates an energy-saving measure ordered by former President Carter forcing government workers to lose their free parking spaces.

Because the ruling does not take effect for three weeks, Reagan will have the holidays to decide if he wants to rescind Carter's order and give employees their free parking or eliminate it and save more than $40 million a year.

The money-saving benefit could appeal to Reagan, who is directing a massive budget-cutting campaign.

But federal employee unions were quick to announce plans to lobby the White House to save the fringe benefit, which costs the government about $1.10 a year for each employee who drives to work alone.

"We maintain that charging federal employees for parking is an abuse of executive power; and that resumption of the fees would represent another unsympathetic slap in the face of the people who work for the government," said Kenneth Blaylock, president of the large American Federation of Government Employees union.

Poland's debt worries world bankers

LONDON (UPI) — The crisis in Poland heightened concern in banking circles Tuesday that talks to reschedule Poland's commercial debt might collapse because Warsaw will be unable to repay $500 million in interest within the next two weeks.

"It's a wait-and-see attitude toward the newest twist in the Polish crisis," said one leading banker with Dresdner Bank, agent for more than 460 Western banks in the agreement to reschedule Poland's 1981 debt.

Banking sources said the state of emergency, with sweeping powers given to the military, could be the first step in any number of "nightmare" scenarios bankers in the West have feared for some time.

Western bankers were trying to get some idea from the Polish government on its intentions about the country's $27 billion external debt — $17 billion of which is owed to the banks and the balance to governments.

Before the weekend crisis, agreement was near for Poland to pay the $500 million interest but now the Western banks are left wondering with whom they will negotiate.

Before the crisis, the banks had warned that if Poland did not honor the interest repayment agreed to last September — although it hadn't been formally signed — the country could be declared in default.

"We are totally unable to assess the situation at the moment," a spokesman for Barclays Bank International said.

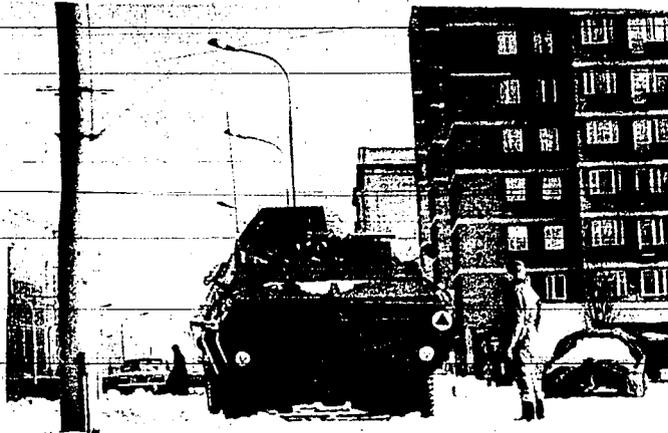

The September rescheduling agreement referred to the $2.4 billion of capital repayment due in 1981, which would now almost certainly be called in, if the agreement is not signed before the end of year and if the outstanding interest payments which the Western banks have refused to defer is not paid.

World bankers were also advised against over reacting to debt problems incurred by any one country.

Referring particularly to Poland, Governor of the Bank of England Gordon Richardson told a meeting of German bankers in Bonn Monday that this should not affect their attitude on loans to other nations.

Richardson said that since 1973, there had been 21 countries which had sought to renegotiate the length of their original loans.

A tank stands guard on Warsaw's relatively empty streets as martial law is declared

Americans rally for Poles

By United Press International

Somber rallies and an angry outpouring of sentiment from American sympathizers — and ethnic groups — greeted the fourth day of the Polish government's crackdown on Solidarity Tuesday.

Cubans, Nicaraguans and Polish-Americans crowded into a shrine by Biscayne Bay near Miami to pray for the people of Poland. The service was organized by Miami Cuban exiles, who said they feel a bond of common fate with their Polish counterparts.

Leaders of Chicago's 600,000-strong Polish community, saying they will act as surrogates for their kin in Poland, planned a massive rally Wednesday to commemorate 1970 food riots in which 65 people were killed.

"We want the voice of Chicago to be heard in Warsaw," said Alderman Roman Pucinski, perhaps the best known leader in the Polish community that is second only in population to Warsaw. "We're going to be surrogates for the beleaguered Poles who themselves cannot observe this anniversary."

A Polish man who left his homeland Saturday and arrived in Dallas Sunday to learn of the latest government crackdown said he was ready to go back and fight.

The man, who asked not to be identified because he feared reprisals, said "The Polish people are prepared for the worst. We know we cannot win. But there's nothing left to lose. It doesn't matter whether we die of starvation or a bullet."

Communists on defensive

ROME (UPI) — The crisis in Poland has thrust Western Europe's communist parties on the defensive and one of the movement's key leaders said Tuesday it shows Soviet-style socialism has become "worn out."

The communist parties in Italy and Spain, eager to demonstrate their declared belief in democratic principles, were quick to condemn the declaration of martial law in Poland. But the party in France refused to take a stand on the issue and described the Polish crisis as nothing more than an internal dispute.

"The directorate of the Italian Communist party has condemned the state of emergency (in Poland), has demanded that those arrested be released, and has asked that negotiations begin toward resolving the situation," Italian communist leader Enrico Berlinguer said in a television interview.

Soviets ready to provide aid

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union is prepared to provide Poland with any assistance, including Russian troops, to help ease to a Soviet martial law regime of Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, a Soviet official said Tuesday.

"In a few days, in a week, if Jaruzelski was to ask us for military help, we would give it," said a Soviet official with access to Kremlin policy decisions before they are made public. "We would give the Polish authorities everything they think is necessary to restore order in the country."

The Soviet Union intends to stiek by its official position, which is to let the Polish martial law regime work out its own problems, but the Kremlin is committed to doing whatever is necessary to maintain communist control over Poland, the official, who has that his name be withheld, and other Soviet sources said.

"What our leaders have been doing is watching events in Poland carefully," said the official. "They mean it when they say they think the measures in Poland are an internal affair and that everyone else should keep out."

"But that doesn't mean the Soviet Union is not ready to help Poland even more than it has already." A second Soviet source said Moscow would make up for any shortfalls that result from U.S. and other Western nations' cutoffs of economic aid in reaction to the military crackdown in Poland last weekend.

Poland has amassed a staggering $27 billion debt to the West and Soviet aid is estimated at approximately $3 billion since August 1980, when the Solidarity trade union was established.

Both sources used almost identical language in saying the Kremlin would do "whatever is necessary" to keep a Communist government in control of Poland.

The first demonstration of Soviet support for Jaruzelski's tough stand could be shipments of food to alleviate widespread shortages, a third source said.

The Soviet Union would assist Poland quietly to prevent a backlash in the Soviet Union, where people also face serious food shortages due to the nation's third consecutive poor grain harvest, the source said.

U.S. warns against intervention

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan warned the Soviet Union Tuesday the United States would view any intervention in Poland very seriously.

The Senate endorsed an embargo on all exports to the Soviet bloc in the event of military action.

"We've said that very many times — the whole Western world has said — intervention by the Soviet Union would be taken most seriously."

Reagan told reporters before meeting with Cardinal Angelo Casaroli, the Vatican secretary of state, to discuss the Polish situation.

Casaroli delivered two messages from Pope John Paul II, with whom the president spoke by telephone Monday. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan told the Polish-born pontiff, "Our sympathies are with the (Polish) people, not the government."

But the president said Tuesday the United States will have "to wait until we know more" before making any firm policy decisions on the crisis triggered by the Polish government's crackdown on the Solidarity trade union.

Officials said a military response by the United States generally has been ruled out but that Washington still could exert leverage through food aid and the promise of an extension on $2.5 billion in loan repayments due in the next few weeks.

Crackdown is harsher, dissident says

NEW YORK (UPI) — A leading Polish dissident said Tuesday the government crackdown in Poland was harsher than the Nazi occupation of his country.

He called for "political pressure" to block a possible Soviet invasion.

Miroslaw Chojceki, 33, media adviser to the Solidarity union and the founder of NOWA, a dissident Polish publishing house, also said the U.S. decision to suspend food aid to Poland was wrong.

"To cut off the food supplies is to threaten the people of Poland," he said, speaking through an interpreter at a news conference. He was in the United States for discussions with American publishers and had no immediate plans to return to Poland, where he would face arrest, he said.

Chojceki said a Soviet invasion of Poland would "probably mean street fights and some kind of civil war."

PEREZ DE CUELLAR
...man of Third World

Peruvian assumes UN job

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The General Assembly Tuesday appointed by acclamation Peruvian diplomat Javier Perez de Cuellar as the 15th U.N. Secretary-General in the world body's 36-year history.

The assembly action confirmed the unanimous recommendation of the Security Council. Perez de Cuellar takes over Jan. 1 from Kurt Waldheim of Austria.

Waldheim and surrounded on the dais by the 15 Security Council members who recommended his appointment last Friday, Perez de Cuellar was sworn in by assembly President Ismar Kittanor of Iran.

Perez de Cuellar swore "not to seek or accept instructions in regard to the performance of my duties from any government or other authority external to the organization."

In his first speech to the assembled delegates, he said, "I keenly realize the task that has been entrusted me is unique."

The 61-year-old Perez de Cuellar, who is only the second Third World diplomat chosen secretary-general, referred to his role as a representative of developing countries.

"I am secretary general of all the United Nations," he said. "I am Peruvian and I should not separate myself from the fact that I am a national of a developing country."

U Thant of Burma was the only other Third World secretary-general. The Council selected Perez de Cuellar as a compromise candidate after a seven-week deadlock over Waldheim, who sought a third term, and Tanzanian Foreign Minister Salim Ahmed Salim.

In an interview with UPI, he placed priority on North-South talks high on his priority list. The economic dialogue between industrialized and Third World nations on a more even distribution of global wealth has been a preoccupation of the developing nations for more than a decade.

But Perez de Cuellar said the U.N.'s principal goal, the preservation of world peace, remains the focus of his attention. He listed the protection of human rights as a third objective, in line with the U.N.'s founding declaration of 1945.

Golan move draws blast

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — President Hosni Mubarak Tuesday condemned the Israeli move to annex the Golan Heights as an obstacle in the way of peace but said Egypt would not back Syria if it waged war against the Jewish state.

Asked what Egypt would do if Syria and Israel went to war, Mubarak said, "I said several times we are not going to slip or to do something on which we were not consulted before."

"If Syria decides to start war with Israel, it is their business," he said. But he made it clear Egypt rejects the Israeli move which, he said, "is an obstacle in the way of peace."

A statement issued by his office Monday denounced the Israeli action as "illegitimate" and said Egypt would not recognize its consequences.

Afghan president visiting Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — Afghan President Babrak Karmal arrived in the Soviet capital Tuesday, the Tass news agency said.

A brief announcement gave no reason for the visit, but diplomatic sources said Karmal was due in Sofia, Bulgaria for an official visit next week.

"He may be the first of many coming through for a gathering of the clans," one diplomat said, referring to a rumored meeting of Communist leaders to honor Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev on his 70th birthday Saturday.

His arrival came only three days after the departure of Afghan Prime Minister Sultan Ali Keshmnd, who had been in Moscow for an undisclosed period for what was believed to be medical treatment.

Pontiff sets out stiff rule

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II said Tuesday divorced Roman Catholics who remarry may receive communion if they separate or refrain from sexual relations with their new spouse.

The pope's stand on the issue, especially controversial in the United States, was spelled out in a 174-page document summing up the work of the World Synod of Roman Catholic bishops that met at the Vatican last fall. The main topic of the synod was family life.

The document also reaffirmed the church's strict bans against artificial birth control, abortion, and trial marriage.

Coming in for special attack by the pope were moves by governments to limit population growth through birth control campaigns.

In reaffirming the church's practice of denying the sacraments to Catholics who divorce and remarry another, the pope said such Catholics who sincerely want to be re-admitted to the sacraments should separate from their new spouse. He listed one exception to this rule for "those who are sincerely ready to undertake a way of life that is no longer in contradiction to the indissolubility of marriage."

"This means, in practice," the document said, "that men, for serious reasons such as for example the children's upbringing, a man and a woman (remarried Catholics) cannot satisfy the obligation to separate, they take on themselves the duty to live in complete continence, that is, by abstinence from the acts proper to married couples."

On the issue of artificial birth control, the pope said, "The church condemns as a grave offense against human dignity and justice all those activities of governments or other public authorities which attempt to limit in any way the freedom of couples in deciding about children."

"Consequently, any violence applied by such authorities in favor of contraception or, still worse, of sterilization and procured abortion, must be altogether condemned and forcefully rejected."

"Likewise to be condemned as gravely unjust are cases where, in international relations, economic help given for the advancement of peoples is made conditional on programs of contraception and procured abortion."

The document described trial marriage as unacceptable and said, "The church, for her part, cannot admit such a kind of union."

Ex-Russian movie star shot fatally

MOSCOW (UPI) — Zoya Fyodorova, a Russian actress whose wartime romance with an American Navy officer produced a "love child" that infuriated Stalin, was shot to death during a robbery at a Moscow apartment, a Soviet source said Tuesday.

Police refused to comment, but the source said the 68-year-old Miss Fyodorova was shot once in the head on Friday. Her body was discovered last weekend in the apartment where she lived on Kutuzovskiy Prospekt.

The apartment was filled with pictures of her daughter, Victoria, after whose birth Miss Fyodorova was sent to a Siberian labor camp for eight years on the orders of an enraged Josef Stalin.

Victoria, who became internationally known as the "love child" of the scandal, was forbidden to leave the Soviet Union until 1975. She was granted permission to leave only after her father, by then a retired American admiral, wrote a personal appeal to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev. She was married in 1975 to an American airline pilot, Frederick Puoy of Stamford, Connecticut, and bore a son in 1976.

Beirut embassy bomb toll rises

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A 220-pound bomb destroyed the Iraqi Embassy Tuesday, crushing to death at least 25 people and wounding 100 others inside the flattened five story building.

The explosion tore through the embassy in Modern West Beirut at midday, ripping out the building's structural pillars and bringing down all five floors on the people trapped inside. Police said the death toll was expected to climb "far higher" than 25.

An elevator carrying Iraqi Ambassador Abdel Razzak Lajch was blown down the shaft, but the diplomat managed to scramble out of the wreckage unharmed and directed the evacuation of dead and wounded.

An anonymous telephone caller claiming to represent the Army for the Liberation of Kurdistan, an area under Iraqi control, called right-wing Phalangist Radio to claim responsibility for the blast.

U.S., Soviets meet for arms talks round

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet arms negotiators met Tuesday in their fifth full working session at talks on limiting nuclear weapons in Europe amid East-West tension over the political crisis in Poland.

The session at the U.S. delegation headquarters lasted two hours. The next plenary session was scheduled for Thursday in the Soviet diplomatic mission.

Chief U.S. negotiator Paul H. Nitze and Soviet counterpart Yuli Kiytiyev, in keeping with a decision to keep the talks strictly confidential, made no statement at the end of the talks.

U.S. spokesmen refused to comment on whether the Polish crackdown had affected the atmosphere of the meetings. Although Nitze had described a previous session as "positive" despite the apparent wide differences between the two nations' positions, U.S. spokesmen disclosed Moscow is maintaining its position that all nuclear weapons in Europe must be discussed.

This is directly opposed to the U.S. position that negotiations must first center on medium-range missiles and only then go on to other delivery systems like bombers and submarines.

When the talks began Nov. 30, it was agreed to hold bi-weekly sessions on Tuesdays and Fridays, alternating between the Soviet and U.S. headquarters at opposite ends of Geneva's Avenue de la Paix.

The spokesman said Thursday's session would probably decide when and for how long talks would recess for the Christmas vacation. He said Nitze was expected to return to the United States for that period.

GOOD CHEER!

Good cheer warms up holiday entertaining as much as a crackling fire. So when holiday guests arrive this season, be ready with a bundle of firewood and one of these festive and flavorful refreshers made with brandy and tea—and served in sparkling, showy glassware.

Brandy and tea have long been a favorite of Europeans, who were quick to add the subtle flavor of tea to the rich grape taste of brandy. In colonial America, this combination achieved great popularity as a brew to take the chill from winter travel and as welcome hospitality for holiday guests.

A selection of attractive glassware enhances the presentation of these holiday drinks and lets their warm colors and garnishes radiate good cheer.

BRANDIED TANGERINE TEA

- 8 oz. (1 cup) California brandy
- 2 oz. (1/4 cup) undiluted frozen tangerine concentrate (orange juice concentrate can be substituted)
- 1 oz. (2 tablespoons) lemon juice
- 1 oz. (2 tablespoons) water
- 2 tablespoons bar sugar (fine granulated)
- 16 oz. (2 cups) hot tea

Thin orange slices and peppermint or cinnamon sticks for decoration

Thaw fruit juice concentrate to room temperature. Combine brandy, fruit juice concentrate, lemon juice, water and sugar. When ready to serve, warm gently over low heat. Do not boil. Combine with hot tea and pour into pre-heated glasses or mugs. Decorate with orange slices and peppermint sticks, if desired. Shown in a 10 oz. Libbey crystal mug. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Increase sugar by 1 tablespoon if sweeter beverage is desired.

YULE LOG NOG

(foreground — center)

- 3 large eggs, separated
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/16 teaspoon salt
- 6 oz. (3/4 cup) California brandy
- 1/2 pint (1 cup) vanilla ice cream
- 16 oz. (2 cups) cold tea

Additional nutmeg for decoration

Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in 2 tablespoons sugar and continue beating to soft meringue. Set aside. With same beater, beat egg yolks with remaining 2 tablespoons sugar, vanilla, nutmeg and salt, until thick. Beat in brandy, then ice cream, until smooth. Stir in tea. Fold in meringue and chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, beat lightly. Pour into chilled glasses and sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Shown in a 5 1/2 oz. Libbey Embassy brandy snifter. Makes about 1-1/2 quarts (8 servings).

Note: For richer eggnog, increase ice cream to 1 pint (2 cups).

HAWAIIAN HOLIDAY

- 2 rounded tablespoons instant tea
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 24 oz. (3 cups) water
- 16 oz. (2 cups) apple juice
- 6 oz. (3/4 cup) pineapple juice
- 6 oz. (3/4 cup) California brandy
- 12 oz. (1-1/2 cups) chilled lemon-lime carbonated beverage

Ice

Fresh pineapple spears and maraschino cherries for decoration

Combine instant tea, sugar and water; stir until sugar is dissolved. Mix in fruit juices and brandy. Chill. When ready to serve, add carbonated beverage. Pour over ice in jumbo size old fashioned glasses. Decorate with pineapple spears and maraschino cherries, if desired. Shown in a 13 oz. Libbey Chivalry rocks glass. Makes about 2 quarts (10 servings).

Note: Brandy-raspberry base may be doubled or tripled and stored in refrigerator, if desired.

SPICED TEA TODDY

- 32 oz. (1 quart) freshly drawn water
- 6 teabags or 6 teaspoons loose tea
- 2 cinnamon sticks
- 1/2 teaspoon (about 8) whole cloves
- 2 cardamom pods, crushed
- 3 tablespoons sugar or to taste

Halved orange slices and additional cinnamon sticks for decoration

Bring freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil. Warm teapot by rinsing it out with hot water. Place tea and spices in warmed teapot. Pour boiling water into teapot. Cover and let stand for 5 minutes. Add sugar and stir to dissolve. Strain tea into pre-heated goblets. Decorate with halved orange slices and cinnamon sticks, if desired. Shown in a 12 oz. Libbey Facets goblet. Makes 1 quart (4 to 6 servings).

HOLIDAY RUBY PUNCH

(background — center)

- 4 rounded tablespoons lemon-flavored iced tea mix
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 32 oz. (1 quart) water
- 32 oz. (1 quart) cranberry juice cocktail
- 2 oz. (1/4 cup) lime juice
- 12 oz. (1-1/2 cups) California brandy
- Ice
- 16 oz. (2 cups) chilled club soda

Thin lime and strawberry slices for decoration

Combine iced tea mix, sugar and water; stir until sugar is dissolved. Mix in fruit juices and brandy. Chill. When ready to serve, pour into punch bowl over ice. Stir in club soda. Decorate with lime and strawberry slices, if desired. Shown in a 160 oz. Libbey crystal bubble ball. Makes about 3 quarts (24 - 4 oz. servings).

MERRY BERRY SPARKLE

(background — right)

- 8 oz. (1 cup) California brandy
- 4 oz. (1/2 cup) dry white wine
- 2 oz. (1/4 cup) red raspberry syrup (boysenberry, melba or grenadine syrup can be substituted)
- 1 oz. (2 tablespoons) fresh lime juice
- Ice
- Chilled club soda (or lemon-lime carbonated beverage)

Thin lime wedges or slices for decoration

Combine brandy, wine, syrup and lime juice. Cover and refrigerate until ready to use. For each drink, pour about 2-1/2 ounces over ice in 6 to 8 ounce glass. Add 2 ounces club soda and stir gently. Decorate with lime wedge or slice, if desired. Shown in a 13 oz. Libbey Viva Grande glass. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Brandy-raspberry base may be doubled or tripled and stored in refrigerator, if desired.

Delicate Palmieres good holiday fare

Times-News Correspondent

Few emotions are as powerful as the joy that comes from successfully making something that looks difficult to make from scratch.

Sinfully delicious puff pastry is one of a cook's challenges. Its puffery looks tedious. It isn't. All you need to accomplish this pastry trick is time plus flour, water, salt and butter.

PALMIERES (Palm Leaves)

Note: This pastry gets puffy because the different stages of preparing it incorporate air into the layers of dough. The layers of dough are accomplished by rolling, rolling, rolling. Dough must be worked with when it is cold and dough air bubbles should not be broken when rolling it. Everything used with and around dough must be cool in order to layer the butter in suspension between the folds of dough.

- 1/4 lb. sweet butter, chilled
- 1/4 lb. all-purpose flour
- 2 1/2-3 ounces ice water
- pinch salt

Step I: On marble counter or cool board, pile flour. Push hole in center of flour with salt mixed in and scrape flour in a ring leaving center showing through. Gradually pour ice water into whole and work flour, with fingers, into a ball.

This takes a few minutes so work gradually. Use just one hand and add only enough water to make a kneadable ball. Knead dough until it is smooth. Cover dough and chill it for at least 15 minutes.

Step II: Remove dough and butter from refrigerator. On lightly floured counter, roll dough into a neat rectangle measuring about 6x16. Quickly slice butter into thin pats and place them side by side on 1/4 of the rectangle of dough. Fold empty dough half over buttered half and press edges together to form pouch. Cover and refrigerate 15 minutes.

Step III: Remove dough from refrigerator; place on lightly floured counter. Very carefully roll out dough into another rectangle. This first rolling with butter inside is difficult because you must try not to break dough through to butter. If you do break through the dough, brush break with a little flour and continue rolling. When rectangle is made, fold 1/4 of dough over center, leaving 1/4 of dough unfolded. Fold remaining 1/4 of dough over the folded section. Cover and chill another 15 minutes.

Step IV: Remove three-layer-folded dough from refrigerator. Repeat Step III five more times. By rolling out and folding dough so many times you will be locking air into dough. This is what makes it puff.

These sweet Palm Leaves (Palmiera) taste and look extravagant but are easy to make

To Make Palmieres

On last rolling, sprinkle top of rectangle with sugar. Lengthwise, fold sides over to center of rectangle, to let edges meet in center. Sprinkle top of dough with sugar again. Once more, fold sides over to meet in center of rectangle. You should have a long roll of dough. Cover and refrigerate at least 15 minutes.

Preheat oven to 375°F. Remove dough from refrigerator. With sharp knife, slice dough crosswise into 1/2-inch-thick palm-leave-shaped pieces. Sprinkle sugar on cookie sheet. Put cut dough pieces on cookie sheet, leaving space between each for puffing. Sprinkle tops with sugar. Bake 5 to 6 minutes or until lightly browned. Turn with spatula and continue to bake 5 minutes more or until just browning. Watch baking carefully because this dough cooks quickly and sugar will burn. Recipe makes about 24 Palmieres.

Another Note: To make Napoleons, roll chilled pastry into a rectangle 14x33. Trim edges. Then cut dough into 3 equally-sized strips. Sprinkle baking sheet with cold water. Put pastry strips upside down on baking sheet. Prick pastry with fork. Bake strips 25 minutes or until puffed and lightly browned.

When cool, glaze pastry with powdered sugar icing. Stack the leaf layers and cut into 2x3 rectangles. Put sweetened whipped cream between layers. Serve chilled and dusted with powdered sugar.

CHOCOLATE CHIP PIE

- 1/2 pound marshmallows
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 square unsweetened chocolate, grated
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts, optional
- 1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Combine marshmallows, milk, salt and grated chocolate in a saucepan. Cook in a double boiler until ingredients are melted. Let cool! Fold together whipped cream, vanilla and nuts. Add to cooled chocolate mixture. Pour into a cooled 9-inch pie shell. Cool until set. Top with whipped cream and grated chocolate.

Give healthful foods for gifts

ENGLWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. — While the time-honored tradition of giving gifts of food for the holidays remain, some new trends reflecting the change in the American diet are being seen.

More healthful food items such as low-fat, low-salt breads and low-fat cereals are among the items that the gift-giver can make this season.

According to a 1980 survey conducted by the Economic Research Service, 64 percent of the sample households reported that they had made diet changes for health and nutrition reasons in the three years prior to the survey. Those questions were most concerned with lowering salt, sugar, cholesterol, saturated fat, and calories in their diets. In line with these dietary trends, these three ingredients meet the goals yet are festive enough for gift giving.

MARINATED VEGETABLE RELISH
 2 cups sliced mushrooms
 1/2 cup lemon juice
 1 head small flower, cut in small florets or sliced (4 cups)
 1 bunch broccoli, cut in small florets (3 1/2 cups)
 2 cups carrot matchstick strips
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup sliced red pepper
 1/2 cup corn oil
 1/2 cup tarragon white wine vinegar
 1/2 tablespoons sugar
 1/2 teaspoon pepper

All large bowl toss together mushrooms and lemon juice. Add cauliflower, broccoli, carrots, onion and red pepper; toss well. In medium bowl combine popped corn, vinegar, sugar and pepper until well blended. Pour over vegetables; toss to coat well. Cover; refrigerate overnight or several days, or pack in pint-sized jars for holiday giving. Drain and serve as relish. Store in refrigerator 1 to 2 weeks. (Makes about 11 cups.)

HOLIDAY APRICOT LOAF
 apricot filling (recipe follows)
 1/2 cup skim milk
 1/4 cup sugar
 1/2 cup corn oil
 1/2 cup warm water (105 to 115°F)
 1/2 cup active dry yeast
 2 egg whites, lightly beaten
 1/2 cups (about) flour
 Make apricot filling; set aside. Scald skim milk; stir in sugar and oil. Cool to lukewarm. Pour warm water into large bowl. Sprinkle yeast over water; stir until dissolved. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Stir egg whites into yeast mixture. Add 2 cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour (2 1/2-cups) to make easily handled dough. On floured surface knead dough about 8 minutes or until smooth and elastic. Place in oil bowl; brush lightly with corn oil.

 Cover with towel; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Punch dough down. Divide dough in half. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll into 2 (14x8-inch) rectangles. Spread each with about 1 cup apricot filling. Roll tightly from long side, as for jelly roll. Press ends to seal; fold ends under. Place on greased baking sheets, sealed edges down. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, about 30 minutes or until almost doubled.

Bake in 350°F. oven 25 to 30 minutes or until browned. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks. Remove ends of loaves; cut each loaf in half. If desired, Decorate by brushing pieces of dried apricots and almonds with honey to attach to loaves (Makes 2 large or 4 small loaves.)
Apricot Filling: In 2-quart saucepan stir together 1 cup finely chopped apricots, 1 cup water and 1/4 cup honey. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat. Reduce heat stirring frequently, boil gently 15 minutes. Cool to room temperature. Stir in 1 cup toasted sliced almonds, coarsely chopped. Makes about 2 cups or enough filling for 2 loaves.

POPCORN SNACK MIX
 3 quarts popped corn
 2 cups bite-size crispy corn and/or wheat square cereal
 2 cups pecan halves
 1/2 cup honey
 1/2 cup corn oil
 1 teaspoon lemon rind
 In large shallow baking pan stir together popcorn, cereal and pecans. In small saucepan stir together honey, corn oil and lemon rind. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Pour over popcorn mixture, stirring to coat well. Bake in 300°F. oven, stirring occasionally, 30 minutes. Cool, stirring occasionally. Store in tightly covered container. (Makes 16 cups.)

Perfect chili pepper ready

DALLAS (UPI) — A "perfect" strain of the Texas chili pepper, three decades in development and the pride of Upper Rio Grande Valley growers, has a new name.

Perhaps it'll get its own name, "El Paso, Texas," horticulturist Dr. William Peavy said. Right now, it's known as Number 1. That's simply a breeding number.

It's a rather bland name for a breed of eye-bulging peppers — whether they be anchos, throat-burning jalapenos or testy Tabasco. But it's just right for the grow-

NUTRITION AND HEALTH

By Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr

HAIR-MINERAL ANALYSIS is a significant diagnostic aid in detecting a number of illnesses.

Some diseases affect the amount of certain trace elements in human hair. By measuring these element levels, certain existing chronic conditions can be pinpointed. For example: High calcium and magnesium will indicate some metabolic disorder, such as hypoglycemia. Low zinc will point to physical or emotional stress. High copper and low lithium most likely will be found in mental disorder. Potassium-sodium imbalance probably is caused by some nervous problem.

Often just chronic malnutrition, not well feeding may be the result of toxic levels of certain minerals possibly derived from careless handling of herbicides, pesticides, and drugs.

This is one of a series of articles published in the "public interest" by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, M.D., West Chiropractic Clinic, 717 Main Ave. West, Twin Falls, Idaho. For more information on HAIR ANALYSIS Call 733-0522.

Dear Abby

She's in love with voice

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 33-year-old single woman who is seen regularly on local television. (omit city, please.) About a year ago I started getting phone calls from a man who said he was 48, divorced and a successful businessman.

Without coming on as a masquerade, he said he admired my work and wanted to get to know me better. For some crazy reason I became intrigued by this stranger and encouraged his calls. (I even gave him my home phone number so he could call me after work.) There is no one special in my life right now and this man is a tonic to me.

He's intelligent, well-educated and has a wonderful sense of humor. We've had some very soul-searching and intimate conversations — some have lasted three hours!
Abby, I want to meet this man in the worst way, but he refuses to meet me. I'm beginning to suspect he is either very ugly or perhaps deformed. I don't care what he looks like: I love his mind. What do you make of this? And where do I go from here? I really want to meet him.

— IN LOVE WITH A VOICE

DEAR IN: I would guess that the man is doing what he does best — talking. For reasons of his own he prefers to keep a safe distance. I see no future in this "electronic tonic." Fantasyland is fun to visit, but don't try to live there. Tell him to grow up and show up, or bye-bye.

DEAR ABBY: What can a person who is not interested in gossip say when someone says, "I'll tell you some dirt if you promise not to tell anybody." — HATES GOSSIP

DEAR HATES: Say, "Don't tell me. You know I can't keep my mouth shut any better than you can."

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have been sleeping with this blanket I call "Sidney" every night since I can remember.

Lately I've been getting a lot of flak from my parents. They say it is wrong at my age to sleep with Sidney. I'm not sure. They say it's for extra security, but I doubt it.

I am not a shy or insecure person; I'm friendly and outgoing and have a nice circle of friends.

— SLEEPING WITH SIDNEY
DEAR SLEEPING: No harm in sleeping with "Sidney" as long as you sleep alone. However, come honeymoon time, retire Sidney to the rag bag. There's a crowd.

DEAR ABBY: What to get your elderly mother, father, grandparents, uncles, aunts and friends for Christmas?

— We all have fancy robes, gowns, tablecloths, napkins, etc., stored away, but what we would appreciate most is to have things done for us that we aren't able to do ourselves.

For example: Furniture moved, windows and doors repaired, pictures and mirrors hung, trees and bushes planted, and so on. It would be wonderful to receive a Christmas card saying, "Make a list of things you want done and I will be over on Saturday from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. to do them. And that will be your Christmas present from me."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Santa Claus may be a myth, but the good things he promotes for both parents and children are very real, a psychologist said Monday.

Dr. Sally McCollum of Occidental College said children get a lot of good things out of believing in Santa Claus and parents benefit as well.

Parents can get a lot of pleasure out of watching their children enjoy the wonder of Santa Claus. They can also use Santa as a helper to get their kids to behave better — "Santa only visits good little children."

"Sometimes parents exploit it but not very often," Dr. McCollum said. "Parents are tempted to use this powerful ally to reinforce their discipline, but it's also fun. It's a way of bringing the spirit of Christmas into a more concrete form."

Some parents, Dr. McCollum said, feel guilty about fostering the Santa Claus myth, guilty about the commercialism or that they are "lying" to their kids. But, she said, children will believe in Santa anyway, at least until they are old enough to see the reality.

"They just don't make the connection, they don't pay attention to the clues that we use to distinguish reality from unreality. You couldn't tell them there's no Santa until they're old enough to pick up the tips that we have to the intellectual capacity to separate the reality from the myth." Sometimes, Dr. McCollum said, finding out the truth about Santa causes a crisis "but eventually it's a healthy maturational milestone in a sense to be able to recognize fiction from reality."

When a child finds out the reality, she said, she feels more grown up.

Christmas cactus called longest living houseplant

By RICHARD DeLANO
Chicago Sun-Times

Christmas holidays put on display the longest living houseplant available — the Christmas cactus.

Plants are often handed down from mother to daughter for several generations. But occasionally a new generation will fail to induce the heirloom to bloom and then wonder why.

Now we know how to induce blooming — with pyrethrum. Christmas cactus bloom can be as predictable as mealy bugs on a croton plant.

Here's how the bloom can be timed for Christmas. After Labor Day let the plants go dry for about two weeks. Then in mid-September move the plant to where it stays about 50 to 60 degrees — at least at night. Bloom will occur 2% or three months later.

Should you start keeping your plant cool now, it will bloom in early spring. However, if you can't keep your cactus any cooler than 68 degrees you must cover it with a light-tight box every night so it receives only eight to 10 hours of light each day. Temperature is more important than the light treatment. When the temperature is 70 degrees or above, it will not bloom no matter what else you do.

Once the buds are developed, folks bring the plant where it can be attractively displayed. The plant then promptly has a snit and drops all the buds.

This "snit" is due to several reasons. The most common reason for bud drop is too much or too little watering — usually too much. When the cactus is developing buds in the basement usually it is kept a little dry. This is simply because you don't think to water it as often when it is in the basement.

However, once it is on display it constantly gets sloshed with water. Drafts, rough handling, and over-fertilization will also cause bud drop.

Kept cool, the blooms will persist for weeks. In spring when the days become longer, the plant will begin to develop leafy growth. At this time you can start fertilizing.

Smoking, being overweight: which poison less harmful

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR DR. LAMB—I know that being overweight is bad for you. And I know that smoking cigarettes is bad for you. I am overweight and smoke more than two packs of cigarettes a day. Now, I think I can quit smoking or I can lose weight, but there is no way I can do both.

My wife is after me because she thinks I'm a prime candidate for a heart attack. She may be right. What I would like to know from you is which is worse, smoking or being fat? If I stop smoking I know I will gain even more weight and if I go on a diet I'll need to smoke more than ever. Have you any suggestions?

DEAR READER—I hate questions like that as you know perfectly well that both are important medical problems for you. It is like asking me which poison will harm you less.

You've asked it so I'll tell you within reason cigarette smoking is a bigger risk for you than being moderately overweight. That is an average generalization with many exceptions. If your blood pressure is high or you tend to have high blood cholesterol levels, then losing weight could be more important. We are back to saying you need to individualize, not generalize, and it depends upon what your health findings really are.

Why don't you quit smoking first just to get started on a program. After you have stopped smoking, you can then make a bigger effort to control your excess body fat. I am sending you The Health Letter No. 13-2, How to Measure Your Risk of Heart Disease, to give you some solid figures on risk factors. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The three main risk factors are blood pressure, cholesterol and cigarette smoking. Both of the first two are often influenced by body fat.

Now, you don't have to wait to start a fat-control program. Start a walking program right away. When you feel the urge to smoke, go for a walk. The walking will make you feel better and will help you keep from smoking. It will also start using some calories for you. As you build up your walking program it may solve the weight problem in time for you, too. In other words, walk, don't eat.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a widow, age 70, and have lived in Oregon for two years at over 4,000 feet. I feel I should be acclimated to the high altitude by now. But sometimes I feel I do not get enough oxygen into my lungs. I often have spontaneous spells of suffening in several bits of breath, while just sitting reading or being quiet. I moved up here from Los Angeles to get out of the smoggy conditions that existed where I lived. I thought it would be better for my lungs. I don't smoke and never have.

DEAR READER—You might want to have a medical examination to see if you need your lung capacity checked. If you are having any problems it is not caused by the altitude.

At 5,000 feet or less, the decrease in oxygen in the air is so slight that it has little effect on the body. Our blood oxygen uptake system is engineered so that it will still pick up almost as much oxygen as it normally carries at sea level, even though there is a slight decrease in oxygen in the lungs.

Joey can't see harm in gun play

By REV. GEORGE CLEMENTS
© Chicago Sun-Times

(The Rev. George Clements, a Roman Catholic pastor in Chicago, has adopted a son, 13-year-old Joey. This is the latest chapter in their story.)

I had just flipped off the TV when Joey walked into my room. I said, "Joey, I saw something really tragic on the news tonight."

Joey was slightly apprehensive, "OK, Father, what's up this time?" "Well, they were saying that the second-fastest selling Christmas toys this year are weapons, guns — you know, missiles, rockets, grenades, all of that mess!"

Joey grinned, "So what's first on the list?"

"Dolls, Joey dolls." "Dolls started laughing. "Somebody could make millions then if they combined those two hot items this Christmas. You know, make a doll that shoots guns — call it the 'Gun Moll!'"

I frowned. "This gun madness is no laughing matter, Joey. It all starts with the kids. Parents who buy weapons for their kids need to get their head examined."

"Oh, come on, Father, you're taking this stuff too seriously. Didn't you play with toy guns when you were a kid — back in the 19th century?"

"Sure I did. But I don't see what that proves except the fact that my parents simply didn't understand the problem. I know they never dreamed we would reach the day when people would be afraid to go out at night because they might get blasted into kingdom come by some screwball with a handgun."

Joey finally began getting serious. "Father, is there really a connection between toy guns and real ones?"

I said, "Joey, repetition is the mother of all learning. You let a kid grow up pointing a toy gun at you and yelling 'DAH, DAH,' and he could very easily wind up pointing a real gun at you one day and yelling, 'DIE, DIE!'"

Joey had gotten very sober. "Father, whatever caused you to get so worked up over guns?"

"You want to know why I get so excited about those rotten weapons? I'll tell you why. Everlytime I have had a funeral here in church for some young kid who was the victim of some crazy gang murder all I can think of is guns. Everlytime I have looked at the stiff body of some young kid in a casket at somebody's funeral home — the victim of these insane killings — I think of guns. I hate the thought of hand guns, Saturday night specials; I hate the very thought of them!"

Joey said, "Yeah, Father, that is scary. Well, I shed my homemade OK-4477 revolver!"

I said, "Out. Where is 'out' Joey?"

"Oh, just around the corner."

"You mean you want to go put some more of your allowance in those stupid space machines and those electronic games at the arcade. Right?"

"I'm only going to spend a quarter."

"You're only going to spend a quarter? That'll be the day! You have become an addict to those nutty space machine game."

Ethnic accessories will make room distinctive

© Chicago Sun-Times

Affid accessories with an ethnic flavor can convert a plain room into one with pizzazz. Try incorporating a few of these suggestions into your home or apartment. It's a natural decorating outlet for anyone who has done a great deal of around-the-world traveling or those who can search local outlets for such items.

- Enhance a polished wood floor with a brightly colored Polish rug or a grouping of scatter-size rugs.
- Wool wall hangings from Hungary, Romania and Poland feature landscapes, castles and floral designs, and can add interest to plain walls.
- Chinese vases and porcelains can be lined up along the fireplace mantel.
- Mexican pottery and "tree of life" candlesticks can decorate end tables and buffets.
- Fill a breakfast nook with a collection of English bone china tea cups and saucers.
- Adorn the void between the top of the kitchen cabinet and the ceiling with Turkish or Greek copper kettles, pitchers, platters, etc.
- French, German, Italian or other foreign-language books with attractive bindings can add interest and color to any room, especially when supplemented with imported brass bookends.

- Hang unusual Far Eastern or Southeast Asian baskets on the wall, display on book shelves, or use as bread, cracker or muffin servers.

new queen

Bethel 19 installation set Dec. 19

TWIN FALLS—Launa Kleinkopf, daughter of Betty Kleinkopf of Murtaugh and Gene Sharp of Twin Falls, will be installed honored queen of Twin Falls Bethel No. 19, International Order of Job's Daughters, Saturday.

The "Gift of Love" installation ceremony, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Twin Falls Masonic Temple, is open to the public.

Other officers are Julie Jones, senior princess; Vicki Biggerstaff, junior princess; Maria Phillips, guide; Lynn Russell, marshal; Theresa Jensen, chaplain; Becky Pope, recorder, and Tammy Watkins, treasurer.

Messengers are Kris Ingram, Lorie Van Buron, Gail Newbery, Susan Jensen and Kimberly Hitchcock. Angie Ehlers is inner guard; Wendy Miller, outer guard; Angie Davis, junior custodian, and Debby Watkins, senior custodian.

Retiring honored queen Beverly Berkeley will be installing officer, assisted by Sandie Hansen, guide, past honored queen Bethel 56; Debby Ball, marshal, past guide Bethel 56; Julie Willis, chaplain, past honored queen Bethel 19; Theresa Snodgrass, musician, Bethel 43; Sue Mitchell, senior custodian, honored queen Bethel 43; Angie Slavin, junior custodian, junior past honored queen Bethel 56; Connie Clawson, flagbearer, past honored queen Bethel 43, and Laura Bowen, custodian of lights, senior princess Bethel 43.

Cindy Reppeto, past honored queen of Bethel 19, will narrate the ceremony. Tim Langdon will be soloist and the DeMolays will present the sword ceremony.

Diane Baker will be in charge of the guest book and Sherawn and Trey Hemaley will distribute programs.

Honored guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hansen of Beaverton, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ball of Caldwell, Justin Ball who will assist in the ceremony, and Mrs. Erma Scott, past Idaho grand guardian and grandmother of the newly elected honored queen.

Yule spirit unaffected by eviction

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A San Jose couple with two children isn't going to let a little thing like eviction from their home dampen their holiday spirits.

Greg Kettleman, 31, an unemployed warehouseman, and his girlfriend, Penny Findley, 21, have spent over 300 hours putting together an elaborate Christmas display replete with snow-covered cardboard houses, elves, trees, a reindeer, a toy workshop and even a pastebord Mrs. Claus.

The couple worked fervently through the weekend to complete the holiday display after receiving a five-day eviction notice last Friday.

"We're hoping we can at least get (the display) out there for one or two days," said Kettleman, who receives $87 a week in unemployment compensation after being injured on the job early this year.

"Basically, it's our way of giving everyone a gift while trying to keep our spirits up," he said.

Ms. Findley, who has a 3-month-old son and a 2-year-old girl daughter from a former marriage, receives $58 a month in federal-aid-for-dependent children.

The couple fell behind in their $525-a-month rent, and their landlord announced their south San Jose home was to be sold.

Lock box for hook

These artificial lures with two or three sets of treble hooks may be absolutely irresistible to fish, but they're not so great when they catch in your clothes or each other when you're carrying several rods in and out of the boat. Enter an invention so simple that it will wonder why you didn't come up with it yourself: a snap-on lock box for fishing poles. It's a clear plastic box that slides down the rod (it has a hole at either end) and completely encloses your lure, whether it's a spoon or a fake minnow.

The Green Thumb by George Abraham

Best varieties of cucumbers and growing problems discussed

Times-News correspondent

Seed catalogs are rolling in and readers are asking us for the names of the best cucumbers.

Two complaints from readers were: Bitter cucumbers and wilting vines. Bitter taste is associated with sharp temperature changes. Cucurbitacins, compounds found in cucumber leaves, stems and roots cause bitterness. Hot, dry weather causes the bitter factor to enter through the stem end and into the fruit.

Since the bitterness enters through stem, try this trick: Cut off the end and rub the cut piece against the surface exposed. This draws out the bitterness from the fruit. Peeling the whole fruit helps because bitterness is usually concentrated just under the fruit.

Note: If cukes make you burp, leave the skins on. A doctor tells us there is magnesium in the green chlorophyll and acts as an "anti-burp" ingredient.

The other common complaint is bacterial wilt, causes complete collapse of young or old vines. A good test is to cut one of the wilted vines. If wilt is present, a white sticky ooze will come out where the vine is cut. Disease is spread by the cucumber beetle. Spraying vines with malathion should kill the beetles.

While looking at the seed catalogs, try ordering some seed of Marketmore 80, County Fair, Spartan Salad and by all means, try the Burpless variety, a hybrid originating in Japan.

CHRISTMAS CACTUS
What kills a holiday cactus is usually wilt and leggy buds. Blame it on overwatering (or poor drainage), especially in plastic or ceramic pots. Dry soils (bone dry) will cause bud drop, but seldom causes wilting.

STUBBY CARROTS
Many gardeners tell us their carrots were stubby, misshapen and slow growing. Blame this on soil type. Land for carrots must be light, moist and deeply worked. A hard, gravelly soil produces carrots that are short, rough and of inferior quality. Work in a lot of rotted manure or compost, or plant them in raised beds or large containers. Forked roots indicate a gravelly soil. Order some seed of Scarlet Nantes; one of the best carrots for the home garden.

NOW'S THE TIME TO . . . pick off yellowed leaves of rubber plants. Pull off snake-like shoots of Boston Fern. Make sure outside faucets are shut off and drained for winter. Remove battery from riding mower. It can freeze if "down". Make sure surplus seed is kept dry in glass jar.

GREEN THUMB QUIZ
What plant is the most commonly used for salads?

SWISS CHEESE PLANT

If you own a Swiss cheese plant you'll find it listed under dozens of names. In the young stage, it's often called Philodendron-pertusum. It's not a philodendron and its true name is Monstera deliciosa. Whatever you call it, monstera makes a striking accent plant. It needs plenty of elbow room and should be pruned severely. Swiss cheese plant produces snake-like aerial roots over the whole length of its stem. Grow yours in a large container and give it a soil rich in humus. It likes a bright window, but not direct sun. If yours bears fruit, you'll note they resemble corn on the cob. The Mexicans call this "breadfruit" and it's sold in Mexican markets for eating. Or even better, don't try to eat it. If eaten, or even tasted, there's a stinging or burning sensation in the mouth and throat. This part the people eat is cob not the "corn." Grow the monstera as a foliage plant and forget about eating the fruit.

NOTES ON NUTS

Many gardeners try to start nut trees from seed but fail. Seed nuts should not be allowed to dry out before planting. That's why store nuts are difficult to start. Chinese and American chestnuts need cold weather to bring about physiological changes inside the seed. You can't start them indoors, unless you keep the seed in polyethylene bags at 32 to 40 degs. F for three or four months. Bags must have holes for ventilation.

Or you can store the nuts in friction-top tin cans at 32 degs. F. The cover is left loose for the first month of storage. Then made tight for two or three months. It's always best to plant the nuts outdoors in fall in boxes of sand and peat moss, covered with a wire screen over top and bottom to keep out mice and squirrels.

Here are some reasons for poorly filled nuts: Early fall freezes, too little summer heat, too short a growing season, severe drought. Early drought "reduces" the size of nuts, whereas late drought prevents kernel from maturing. Improper pollination often causes nuts without kernels. Too much rain is also a cause of poorly filled nuts.

THE GREEN THUMB QUESTION BOX

Question of the Week: D.R. of Shoebone: "Each year I try to cultivate a small vegetable garden, maybe 15 feet by 10 feet, but it gets so full of weeds that what should be a pleasant hobby turns into a tiresome chore. What's a good weedkiller?"

We don't recommend a chemical weedkiller for a home garden your size. Here are some tips to make gardening a lot easier: 1. Use a mulch of some sort. 2. Use a sharp hoe early in the season — when weeds are only

1/2 inch or so high. Getting them then is a lot easier than waiting until they are four or five inches tall. 3. Hoe or cultivate them again about two weeks later, if a mulch is not used. 4. If a weed or two does grow, yank it out before it goes to seed and in-fall pull up all weeds before they go to seed.

Remember, weed seeds persist in the ground for many years. An acre of garden can contain 3,000 pounds of weed seed, but even so, a garden your size should be easy to keep weeds down or out.

If you're still unable to weed because of health reasons, then try gardening in containers, such as half barrels, boxes, etc.

C.F. of Twin Falls: "I have several peach trees that have a curled leaves. They get distorted and ugly. What can be done?"

You have peach leafcurl, a serious but easily checked disease. Spray the trees in late winter, using Bordeaux mixture, lime sulfur or ferbam. Spray bug scales as well as the entire tree while dormant. Do not wait until leaves start to pucker.

Ambulance merger talks break off

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The owners of Twin Falls County's two competing ambulance services have broken off negotiations over a possible purchase agreement.

As a result, the county's established ambulance service, Magic Valley Emergency Service, will remain in operation indefinitely, according to the firm's owner, Cloyce Edwards.

Dennis Brodigan, the owner of the county's newest ambulance service, Twin Falls Emergency Medical Services, had wanted to buy Edwards' operation, and Edwards had indicated a willingness to sell. But the two sides failed to agree over the issue of whether Brodigan's financial backers should pay interest on the balance of the purchase price that they would own Edwards.

Edwards says he intends to continue operating his ambulance service, although he may entertain offers to sell after the first of the year. In addition to Brodigan, two other individuals from this area have expressed interest in purchasing MVES, he says.

The prospect of long-term ambulance competition has led county officials to rewrite the county's ambulance regulatory ordinance.

Under the existing ordinance, the county commissioners are empowered to approve or deny an ambulance service's request for a license on the basis of need. That provision virtually had assured Edwards of a monopoly for 14 years. But when the commissioners approved Brodigan's request for a license in early October, some officials called for a revision of the ordinance.

County Prosecutor Harry DeHaan, who is preparing the revision, says he will submit the measure for the commissioners' approval later this week.

According to DeHaan, the measure would retain the commissioners' authority to approve ambulance licenses on the basis of need. However, one major change would relinquish the county's authority to inspect ambulances. Instead, county officials would rely on inspections conducted by the Idaho Emergency Medical Services Bureau, he says.

In addition, Brodigan is calling for a new policy concerning the county's $8,700 yearly payment to Edwards as compensation for the service he provides to indigents.

Brodigan wants the payment replaced with a formula that would compensate each ambulance service on the basis of how many indigents it serves.

"I have discussed the subsidy question with the prosecuting attorney, and I will be following that discussion up with a letter to the county commissioners, suggesting that a subsidy be eliminated and that a strict fee for service or reimbursement to the ambulance be initiated," he says.

By linking a certain fee to each indigent served by an ambulance service, accountability would be improved and county costs would be reduced, Brodigan says.

Edwards will not agree with Brodigan's contention that such a system would reduce the cost to the county.

The actual cost of transporting indigents exceeds the $8,700 payment, Edwards says, while a new formula probably will reflect actual costs.

Finally, Brodigan apparently is uncomfortable with the fact that his competitor is responsible for determining the cause of death for some patients.

Brodigan says he's concerned that Edwards' dual role as ambulance owner and county coroner may create a conflict of interest, both in the treatment and the billing of patients.

He says he's concerned that the families of patients pronounced dead at the scene "will be charged both by the ambulance service and then also, Mr. Edwards will be reimbursed by the county."

Edwards says he doesn't believe he is involved with a conflict of interest.

"I investigate all coroner cases in the county, no matter which ambulance service has taken it. There have even been other ambulance services come in from the Burley-Rupert area with patients that have died in this county."

City reviews its vendor law

May make businessmen liable

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Curbside vendors, who sell everything from rugs to sorghum in Twin Falls, might soon be answering to their "landlords" instead of the city.

Transient vendors are required to obtain 65-day municipal licenses, but enforcement of that law has been erratic, according to city officials.

They say that better enforcement might be achieved if businessmen or property owners had to verify that vendors using their property had the proper license.

Under the proposal City Council is considering, the businessman or property owner with whom sales space was arranged could be cited if a vendor was found without a license. At a work session Monday, council requested that the city staff identify any legal problems that might arise from reorganizing the enforcement plan.

City officials say that police already are stretched thin in trying to meet the normal requirements of their work, and that checking vendors for licenses is a low-priority task.

Another obstacle to adequate enforcement is the fact that transient vendors are just that — transient. "In many cases, they're only here for a day or two," says City Manager Tom Courtney. "By the time you ask them if they've got a license, and they say they're going to get one, and you get back to check, they're gone."

Courtney says the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce has indicated it will support a plan that involves businessmen in enforcement of the licensing law.

In the past, licensing of transient vendors has been demanded by a number of businessmen, who contended that established merchants pay taxes to support such city services as police and fire protection, and itinerants should pay, too.

At Monday's session, Councilman Chris Talkington reiterated his belief that the city's ordinance is selectively enforced.

"You have auction sales of antiques and rugs and coins at the Holiday (Inn) every damn week," Talkington said. And those vendors are not asked to produce licenses. Yet he said, the readily observable vendors who set up curbside stands at East Five Points are expected to comply with the city ordinance.

People who sell Christmas trees also have enjoyed exemptions, Talkington said. However, Courtney said that most tree lots are operated for the benefit of non-profit organizations, and therefore, the licensing requirement does not apply.

Gary Oliver's experience with a computer manufacturer prompted him to write a booklet on buying computers

Twin Falls man turns his computer woes into how-not-to book

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — What Gary Oliver learned in the last five years, he has used to fill a book that he hopes may save some people from disaster. Oliver, a Twin Falls motorcycle dealer and machine-shop operator, could have called it "Computers and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance" after the best-seller from a few years ago titled "Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance."

Instead, he chose this title: "So You Think You Need a Computer?" The subtitle is: "As seen through the eyes of someone who made the decision and shares the agony and ecstasy of his experience."

It is not meant to be the title of a best-seller. Oliver views his 38-page book, the first 100 copies of which were delivered from the printer Tuesday, as a manual for any small business owner who is thinking of buying a computer.

For about five years, Oliver has battled the Detroit-based Burroughs Corp. because of his problems with one of the company's computers. His case has been covered extensively by computer trade journals and in the business press. It, and other similar cases, could make computer manufacturers liable for losses a business suffers if those losses are the result of computer problems caused by the manufacturer.

Oliver was one of the first to buy, and perhaps one of the first dozen people to receive, a B-800 computer from Burroughs. Today, according to an estimate by a trade journal, the B-800 is at the center of more than 100 lawsuits, which claim that it does not do what Burroughs said it would. And Oliver was one of the first to file such a suit.

His booklet is not about his problems, though. It is about how to avoid them.

"There's absolutely no excuse for this to have happened," he says.

His computer advice, condensed from the book, which condenses five frustrating years: "Be careful, and learn everything you can about it."

Problems can develop whether a businessman buys a $5,000 computer or, as he did, a $50,000 computer, Oliver says.

For starters, the computer may not be able to do what the buyer needs. Or, the owner may not be able to adapt his business practices and records to the computer, he warns.

The owner may buy a computer with more capability than necessary, Oliver says. In that case, a portion of the machine's capacity, which justifies its higher price, goes unused.

Or, a person may buy a machine that does not have enough capacity, in which case, he says, he will endure seemingly endless frustration.

Oliver points out the hidden costs in computer purchases, such as maintenance and the time it takes to put records into the machine. And, in general, he tries to present a list of common-sense questions any businessman should ask before buying a computer.

In his case, Oliver bought a Burroughs computer five years ago that he has only been able to use consistently for the past year. Even then, it has not done many of the things he believed it would be capable of.

Whether this is his fault or Burroughs' is for a jury to decide, he says. "It's a David and Goliath-type deal. We both know who won that battle."

His lawsuit asks for $35,000 in damages. The case is scheduled for trial at the end of January in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

His problems with the computer, and the time and money he has spent trying to solve them, brought all growth in his business to a standstill, Oliver says.

Because of the economy, he says, the last few years would have been tough anyway. "I don't know whether a guy can blame it all on a computer, but we could have weathered the storm much better without ever seeing that particular computer."

Oliver refers to his problems with Burroughs only briefly in his book. "I have had my problem in the legal system for almost three years," he writes in a section offering advice to the person whose new computer does not work as well as expected. "I have a bill with the attorney in excess of $30,000, and that does not count the experts' fees. I have spent as much, or more, time researching, digging, trying to find out what happened, who's at fault — am I wrong, am I right — than the attorney has."

Oliver plans to charge $29.95 for his book. It is not the price of which best-sellers are made. However, the book contains advice for which a consultant would charge even more, he says.

A businessman pondering the purchase of a small computer system is considering spending at least $10,000, Oliver says. The price of his book would add less than three-tenths of a percent to that investment, while providing knowledge, which in his own case, would have prevented five years of frustration and the loss of thousands of dollars.

Contaminated water found at Buhl school

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

BUHL — Repeated tests continue to indicate that the water supply at Buhl's Poppewell Elementary School is contaminated with coliform bacteria, according to state health officials.

On Dec. 8, the results of a routine water sample taken at the school revealed the existence of the bacteria, said Gary Burkett, an environmental engineer for the state. Subsequent tests also yielded positive results, even after the water lines were flushed. A new round of tests was conducted Tuesday, and the results should be available Thursday, Burkett said.

As a result, students and staff at Poppewell are drinking bottled water.

Absenteeism at the school is slightly above normal, according to Burkett, who said school officials attribute the increase to several cases of chicken pox among the students.

State health officials say the type of contamination found in the school's water is not, by itself, harmful to humans. Rather, the positive reading of the samples indicates the water might contain disease-producing organisms. Burkett said, however, he does not believe such organisms are in the water.

A positive coliform bacteria reading "is used as an indicator that says there might be a problem here," said Russell Runk, another of the state's environmental engineers. "It doesn't mean that you're going to get sick when you drink that water."

Burkett said the tests revealed no contamination of the water supplied to other buildings in the Poppewell Elementary School area. Possible reasons for the school's positive test results, he said, include a broken water main and water-pressure irregularities that could cause a backflow of water.

Despite already stringent fiscal restraint

District Health Department faces $90,000 deficit, or cuts

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Just when Gerald Hurst, the director of the South Central District Health Department, thought everything was under control, the bad news arrived.

The health department, faced with a projected $90,000 deficit for fiscal year 1982, had been cutting costs by turning the building's heat off early.

Hurst had begun to believe that the deficit might be offset by end of the year, just as a deficit the previous year was offset.

Then Monday, he was informed that federal funds for family-planning services, one of the district's largest contracts, might be cut 37 percent in the last quarter of this fiscal year, which runs from Oct. 1, 1981 to Sept. 30, 1982.

Furthermore, because Congress has yet to appropriate funds for block grants and other federal programs, Hurst isn't sure how much the district will receive from the federal government this year. Reducing the department's federal contracts will reduce the services provided — and also reduce the fees collected for those services.

"It's never been this way before," Hurst said in an interview Tuesday. Faced with increasingly tight finances, he has started to speak of layoffs and program cutbacks, something that he feels could affect many

Magic Valley residents.

The South Central District Health Department, sometimes confused with the state Department of Health and Welfare, runs preventive health programs, including immunizations, restaurant and milk inspections, and health education.

County funds for the department have been frozen by the 1 Percent Initiative, meaning that matching state funds also have been limited.

The department's budget for this fiscal year projects that total costs will be $1,278,900. The department's projected income, which includes fees and county, state and federal money, may come to only $1,188,700, leaving a $90,200 deficit.

To offset this deficit, seven employees, or the equivalent of four full-time positions, have been laid off, or their positions have been left unfilled when they resigned, according to Hurst. Savings average about $20,000 a year per position, he said.

Other cost-saving measures include a new phone-system contract, delays in replacing the district's cars and efforts to keep heating bills down.

Additionally, a proposal to set or increase fees for the services provided by the district is being considered by the state Board of Health and Welfare. If it is approved by the Legislature, Hurst estimates that $40,000 to $60,000 in additional revenues may be generated later this fiscal year.

Last year, the district expected a $94,000 deficit. Through additional contracts with the state — paid with federal funds — the district ended the year with a $13,523 surplus.

Hurst said he had begun to feel the district would be able to make it to the end of the fiscal year with no further layoffs when the unofficial news of the family-planning grant came.

The 1981 family-planning contract amounted to $74,054. The fees collected for the services were $15,491. If the contract is reduced this year the fees may be proportionately reduced, he said.

The district health department, like many other social-service agencies, has not received word yet from the federal government on the exact amounts of the various grants, although Idaho's fiscal year already has begun.

Hurst said the state had assured the health department that most of the physical health programs would be funded at their 1981 level for the first nine months.

About 35 percent, or $412,500, of the district's 1982 budget was set to come from state contracts funded by federal sources. The district's largest contract is for the women, infant and children program, which provides nutritional counseling and food supplements to pregnant women and small children.

However, if the federal government reduces grant money much more, Hurst said, personnel may have to be laid off.

Police say con artists running 'bank examiners' scam

TWIN FALLS — A scam in which con artists attempt to trick people out of their savings by posing as police officers or bank officials apparently has been attempted in Twin Falls.

Twin Falls police received a report this week that someone attempted to trick an elderly woman out of her savings by posing as a police officer.

Generally in this type of con game, a person will represent himself to the victim, who is generally a senior citizen, as an official investigating irregularities at the victim's bank, said Lt. Jim Kistler of the Police Department.

"They may even show identification which is phony," he said. "The con artist will then convince the victim to turn over his savings, by saying that the withdrawal is necessary to determine who among the bank's employees is responsible for the irregularities. The con artist will promise the victim that his savings will be returned to the bank, but he urges the victim not to tell anyone at the bank about the reason for the withdrawal.

"And they tell the victim the reason they do this is to catch a dishonest bank employee," Kistler said. "As soon as they turn the money over to the phony officer or bank examiner, that's the last they see of their money."

Fortunately, the Twin Falls woman who reported the incident became suspicious before she relinquished her savings, Kistler said.

No other incidents have been reported, and police have taken a number of steps to warn the public against such schemes. Among them is a public announcement that no police officer will "ask anyone to draw money out of the bank for any reason," Kistler said.

Police also have alerted bank officials to watch for anyone, particularly elderly citizens, who attempt to make large withdrawals from savings accounts, Kistler said.

New Beans Inc. inquiry held

By MARTY TRILLHAASE Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Prosecutor Harry DeHaan apparently held another closed-door court hearing on the Beans Inc. case Tuesday.

The latest session lasted little more than two hours, and apparently, no major figures involved with the case were questioned.

As was the case with another closed-door hearing held earlier this month, no one connected with the hearing would confirm or deny if such a session was in progress.

But many of the clues that were apparent at the earlier session were again present Tuesday at the Twin Falls County Judicial Building.

For one thing, the fact that no one would even say if the hearing was under way tended to indicate that it was. Generally, persons involved with this type of hearing are bound by court order to not even disclose the existence of such a proceeding.

Timing was another clue. DeHaan acknowledged last month that he would hold hearings before the end of the year into the circumstances surrounding the July 30, 1979, fire at the Beans Inc. warehouse in Filer. That fire has sparked civil suits filed in Idaho, against the owners of the firm and a decision by Utah authorities to file criminal charges against the same owners.

Under Idaho law, DeHaan is empowered to subpoena witnesses to testify in what is known as an inquiring magistrate hearing. Such hearings resemble grand jury proceedings in that the testimony is secret. Based on the evidence obtained through the closed-door sessions, DeHaan will decide whether to file criminal charges.

Finally, several persons connected with the ongoing investigation were present in the court building Tuesday afternoon. Among them were Judge Phillip Becker of the Fifth District Magistrate Court, who is presiding over the inquiring magistrate hearings; Freeda Luce, "Sue" Christmann of Twin Falls, a former Beans Inc. secretary; Rick Baumgardner of Kimberly, a former Beans Inc. employee; and Louis Krepek of Filer.

Contacted later, DeHaan declined to confirm or deny the existence of such a hearing and refused to say if proceedings in that building were held.

nothing was taken from Dr. Robert Packard's office, 1229 Lynnwood Mall following a burglary attempt that occurred between 11:30 p.m. Monday and 4:20 a.m. Tuesday. Someone forcibly entered the office, causing an estimated $75 in damage, police said.

Teresa Closs of Twin Falls told police that someone removed a purse from her unlocked car while it was parked in the 300 block of Eight Avenue East. The theft occurred between 8:12 p.m. and 8:22 p.m. Monday, police said. An undetermined amount of cash and checks were in the purse.

Ambulance

Edward says that by serving dual roles, he can offer an advantage to law-enforcement agencies in the event of a suspicious death. By pronouncing death at the scene, the body can remain in place for police investigators.

"Anytime we thought there was a chance of saving them, we would transport them."

Edwards also denies charging the county for transporting a body. Instead, the county covers only the expenses he incurs during the course of his coroner investigations, he says.

The issue has evoked some interest from DeHaan, who indicated Tuesday that he's concerned that Edwards' position may constitute a conflict of interest.

"If the cause of death is ambulance error, then it's a serious conflict of interest," DeHaan says. "To the best of my knowledge, nothing like that has ever happened. We're just concerned with potential problems. We'd like to head them off before it happens. If it's necessary."

So far, however, DeHaan says his initial research has failed to reveal any laws that have been broken by Edwards serving both roles.

Teachers, board, parents organize to lobby for funds

TWIN FALLS — Patching up old differences, Twin Falls teachers, board members, administrators and parents have formed a coalition to lobby for increased state funding for public education.

Board members Ben Kightlun and Gene Champlin, assistant superintendent Gary Pillar and Carol Hutchison, president of the Twin Falls Education Association, met with parents from the district's Parent-Teacher associations on Monday.

Hutchison, the spokesman for the coalition, said that the group agreed to support the state Board of Education's request for a 14.6-percent increase in state funding.

The coalition will meet again on Monday, Jan. 4, at 7 p.m. at the Uniserve office, 138 Second St. E., to determine how it will go about pursuing its goals.

About 36 percent of the department's budget comes from the county, about 24 percent from the state and about 5 percent from fees collected.

Continuing messages from Washington haven't helped matters. Earlier this year, Hurd said, he received word that the WIC funds would be cut. Accordingly, the district began reducing the number of persons served by changing the eligibility requirements.

Then, Hurd said, he was told funding was to be on the fiscal 1981 level, based on the number of persons served that year. The district, berated, tried to increase the number of persons reached by the program.

Last year, the district received a 1.77-percent increase in state funds, but was required to give a 7-percent increase to its employees.

"We're just sitting here going downhill, and we will continue to go downhill as long as there's an inflation factor," he said.

Hurd would like to see the state return to a funding formula in which a special tax of no more than two mills would be levied solely for preventive health services. The 1 Percent Initiative supceeded that formula. And Hurd admits that his idea has not been received with enthusiasm by local officials.

Filer's Susie Vincent, who tallied a game-high 12 points, drives past Kimberly's Janey Overacre in Tuesday night's 2nd half

Wildcat girls outlast 'Dogs for 31-24 win

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

KIMBERLY — Filer High School tossed in eight points in less than two minutes, then settled back to play its favorite game — defense — for a 31-24 Canyon Conference win over a frustrated Kimberly squad Tuesday night.

The Wildcats, who've played their last four games to one- or two-point spreads, had little trouble with the Bulldogs once they took control with the offensive burst.

Filer's man-to-man defense muzzled the Bulldogs at every dribble.

Junior forward Susie Vincent, who was the only player in double figures with 12, hit two of Filer's first four fielders with 5-7 forward Trina Hager and center Teresa Fansler each bagging a two-pointer for the 8-0 lead.

Cindy West put the Bulldogs on the board with a pair of free throws, but Tami Blass added a jumper and Vincent picked Lisa Crothers' pocket near midcourt and went in for a layup and a 12-2 Filer lead with 4:29 left in the first quarter.

Kimberly adjusted its 1-3-1 zone to put more pressure on the Filer wings to slow the Wildcats' firepower. The play worked for the rest of the game, but Filer's defense held the Bulldogs even better. West led the Bulldogs with four points.

Kimberly fell to 5-3 overall and 4-3 in the Canyon while Filer is just 5-5 overall and 3-4 in loop play. But the two teams, both of which represented the Fourth District in last year's A-3 state tourney, appear headed in different directions.

"We're just now coming together as a team," Filer Coach Bill Heaps said. "We had three girls gone to Moscow for a debate event and we lost a close one to Valley (43-41) and Declo (29-28) during that time."

The absence of the three players allowed Heaps to use Fansler at center and he's hoping the 6-2 junior will progress quickly. "She got some points in close tonight and if she can do that, she'll be a good player. I've got big hopes for her."

Vincent carries much of the load for the Wildcats. Her dozen points came against a Kimberly defense that was very aware of her movement. As for the Bulldogs, Coach Terry Dowd used his entire bench in hopes of finding some smooth play, but not much worked for them.

"You tell me what to do with them," he said. "I don't know. But we'll be there when it counts ... maybe that will get them jacked up."

Kimberly's junior varsity had no trouble taking a 46-31 win behind Rhonda Piercy's 17 points.

Evert Lloyd drops set to Shriver, but wins match anyway

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd dropped a set against Pam Shriver for the first time in her career, and then survived a tie-breaker before recovering for a shaky 3-6, 7-6, 6-3 victory Tuesday night in the opening round of a $250,000 women's tennis tournament.

Evert, trying to hang on to the No. 1 world ranking she has owned all year, now has beaten Shriver all 10 times they have played, including six matches this year, but never before lost a set to her.

Earlier, teen-agers Jaeger and Tracy Austin, both favoring a baseline game, scored surprisingly easy straight set victories.

Austin routed Virginia Ruzici 6-1, 6-1 in 61 minutes and Jaeger needed only 49 minutes to dispose of Hana Mandlikova 6-4, 6-1.

Top-seed Martina Navratilova met Mima Jausovec in the final match of the evening on the opening tennis court at the new Meadows Arena.

The tournament is known as the Toyota Championships and concludes a series of 31 tournaments that stretched over nine months.

Evert and Austin will play in the second round Thursday night with Jaeger meeting the winner of the Navratilova-Jausovec match. Also on Thursday, Shriver will play Ruzici and Mandlikova meets the Navratilova-Jausovec loser in this double elimination format.

Shriver achieved the only break of the opening set in the fourth game and ran out the set, only to have Evert win four consecutive games for a 5-1 lead in the second.

But Shriver, continually driven by a large reserve of nervous energy, used her attacking methods and lunged to win the next four games for 5-5. In the eighth, ninth and 10th games, Shriver saved nine set points, but Evert then won the tie-breaker 7-2. The second set lasted an hour.

After an exchange of breaks to open the final set, Evert made the decisive break in the third game and then ended matters with another break in the ninth.

Austin, the U.S. Open champion, swept through the first four games and never was in trouble against her Romanian opponent, whom she has beaten in all 10 of their career meetings. In fact, Ruzici was never able to hold her serve throughout the match as Austin continually played to Ruzici's weaker backhand.

Austin, who turned 19 last Saturday, won the first two games of the second set at love and broke again at the third game at 15 before Ruzici ended the skel with a break in the fourth game. But Austin easily won the next three games to win the match.

From 4-4 in the opening set, Jaeger, 16, won the next two games at love to close out the first set in 30 minutes, then blasted Mandlikova in the second set, dropping only the fourth game.

Fouts in trouble with Players Association

Charger star neglected to pay union dues

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The NFL Players Association Tuesday informed the San Diego Chargers that starting quarterback Dan Fouts must be suspended by the club for failing to pay $1,222 in union dues.

Charger president and majority owner Eugene Klein called the union's action "the most outrageous and shocking action I have heard since being associated with professional sports."

San Diego plays Oakland next Monday in a game that could decide the AFC West champion and Klein vowed: "One way or the other Dan Fouts will be behind the center Monday night. It will take armed guards to keep him off of the field."

Fouts, who earns a reported $230,000 a year, stopped paying his Players Association dues in 1978 because he said he did not agree with the collective bargaining agreement the union signed with the league owners.

Fouts, a 9-year veteran, has thrown for more than 4,000 yards the last three seasons, an NFL record.

Richard Berthelsen, staff counsel for the players union, informed the Chargers in a telegram that in accordance with the owners' agreement with the union any player who has not paid his union dues must be suspended without pay by his club until his dues are paid.

Klein charged that Ed Garvey, executive director of the Players Association, "is attempting to destroy the NFL, the Chargers and to undermine the faith that our fans have in the integrity of the National Football League."

"Garvey's grandstand move before the final game of the regular season is an example of his vindictiveness, incompetence and of his terrible stewardship of the players union."

Garvey could not be reached for comment.

The Chargers, 9-6, can still win the division championship if they beat Oakland and Chicago defeats Denver Sunday. San Diego could also win a wild card berth with a victory over the Raiders coupled with a Green Bay victory or tie over the New York Jets.

The long list of NFL playoff eligibles

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Executive Sports Editor

NEW YORK — The National Football League regular season comes to an end this weekend with three division races still undecided and four playoff berths open.

Entering the final weekend, three division titles have been settled. Dallas, 12-3, is the NFC East champion, San Francisco, 12-3, the AFC West champion and Cincinnati, 11-4, the AFC Central champion.

Miami and Buffalo have clinched AFC playoff berths but will decide the AFC title when they face each other Saturday. The winner is division champion and the loser is a wild-card club.

Eleven other teams are still in the race for playoff spots and here is the division-by-division breakdown:

AFC East
The winner of the game between Miami, 10-4-1, and Buffalo, 10-5, on Saturday will be division champion on the basis of better overall record. The loser is a wild-card playoff entrant.

The New York Jets, 9-5-1, can clinch their first playoff berth in 12 years by defeating Green Bay Sunday. With a victory, the Jets also would be guaranteed the home field in the Dec. 27 wild-card playoff. If the Jets lose, they can still make it as a wild card if San Diego loses to Oakland Monday night.

AFC Central

other three clubs have been eliminated from playoff contention.

AFC West
Denver, 10-5, can clinch the title with a victory over Chicago Sunday or if San Diego, 9-6, loses to Oakland, 7-8, Monday night.

If Denver loses and San Diego wins, the Chargers are the division champions on the basis of a better division record (6-2 to 5-3).

If Denver does not win the division title, the only way the Broncos can be a wild card is if the Jets lose to Green Bay.

If San Diego wins and the Jets lose, the Chargers still earn a wild-card berth even if they do not win the division title.

NFC East
Dallas is division champion and Philadelphia, 9-6, has clinched a wild-card berth since only the New York Giants, 8-7, and Green Bay, 8-7, can tie them at 8-7 and the Eagles have a better common-opponent record than Green Bay (4-2 to 4-4).

The Giants can clinch a wild-card berth with a victory over Dallas Saturday and a loss by Green Bay to the Jets Sunday.

In case of a three-way tie at 8-7 between the Giants, Philadelphia and Green Bay, Philadelphia gets one wild card and the Giants the other since they have a better conference record than the Packers.

In a two-way tie between New York and Green Bay, the Packers get the wild card because of a 2-0 record against the Giants in head-to-head competition.

Washington, 7-8, can stay alive for a wild card only if Green Bay, the Giants and Detroit all lose.

NFC Central
The winner of Sunday's game between Tampa Bay and Detroit, both 8-7, is the division champion based on overall record. If Green Bay also finishes at 8-7, Tampa Bay has the edge because of a head-to-head sweep of Green Bay. Detroit has the advantage over Green Bay on a better division record (5-3 to 4-4). The Tampa Bay-Detroit loser can qualify for a wild card only if Green Bay and the Giants lose.

Green Bay's only hope for a division title is to beat the Jets and then have Minnesota and Detroit tie. Green Bay will be a wild card if the Packers beat the Jets and the Giants lose to Dallas or if they win and both the Giants and Eagles win.

Minnesota's lone shot for a wild card is if the 7-8 Vikings beat Kansas City and Green Bay, New York and Detroit all lose.

NFC West
San Francisco, 12-3, is champion. Atlanta's, 7-8, only shot at a wild card is to defeat Cincinnati, with Green Bay, the Giants and Detroit all losing.

The wild-card playoffs are on Dec. 27 and the winners advance to the divisional playoffs on Jan. 2-3. The AFC and NFC title games are on Sunday, Jan. 10, with the winners meeting in the Super Bowl on Jan. 24 at the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich.

Yankees keep Guidry for $900,000 per year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Free agent Ron Guidry became the highest-paid pitcher in the history of the New York Yankees Tuesday by signing a multi-year contract with the American League club for approximately $900,000 per year.

Although no terms of the contract were revealed, it was believed that Guidry signed a guaranteed four-year contract.

The 31-year-old Guidry, who played out his option with the Yankees this past season and tested the re-entry draft, signed what he thinks may be his last contract as an active player. The contract includes an option for a fifth year which the Yankees can buy out for $500,000. The left-hander also is believed to have received a half-million dollar signing bonus.

"I'm glad it's over," Guidry said. "Now I can get back to the thing I love most, my hunting. I've been hunting a lot longer than I've been playing baseball."

John Schneider, Guidry's agent and long-time friend from his hometown of Lafayette, La., worked out the contract at a three-hour meeting with Yankee club owner George Steinbrenner last Friday night at the baseball meetings in Hollywood, Fla. Schneider flew back to Louisiana Saturday and reviewed the contract offer with Guidry, who gave his final approval.

Guidry, who has pitched for the Yankees for the past five seasons, was drafted by 17 teams in the re-entry draft and Schneider said Houston, Kansas City and Oakland had made attractive offers for the left-hander. However, Guidry had indicated his desire to remain with the Yankees if a fair contract could be worked out and so talks with the other clubs never got by the preliminary stages, according to Schneider.

"I just never gave it that much thought," Guidry said. When asked if he had ever seriously considered signing with another team, he added, "Deep down inside, how can you say you came close to signing with somebody else, when you never really wanted to leave here in the first place?"

Schneider, in his first effort as a player's agent, originally sought a guaranteed five-year, $7.5 million contract from the Yankees for his client. However, he and Steinbrenner worked out a compromise agreement which makes Guidry one of the highest paid pitchers in baseball.

"In my eyes, this contract will make me financially stable for the rest of my life," Guidry said. "I don't worry about being the highest-paid pitcher in baseball. That kind of stuff just comes more problems."

Steinbrenner has publicly gone on record as saying he does not believe a pitcher is worth $1 million a year and, in effect, this new contract enables the Yankees' owner to stick by that statement. However, Guidry can also say he achieved his $1 million-a-year goal by averaging in this signing bonus.

Ron Guidry finds Tuesday that his Yankee jersey still fits

Biles wants Stabler in shape next year

Ed Biles, left, wants Ken Stabler to show more dedication

HOUSTON (UPI) — If Houston Oilers' Coach Ed Biles has his way, aging quarterback Ken Stabler will forsake the "honky-tonks of Gulf Shores, Ala., during the off-season and remain in Houston to work himself into shape.

"He needs to stay here and get into shape," Biles told his regular weekly news conference after the Oilers fell to 6-9 on the year by losing 28-6 at San Francisco Sunday.

Stabler did not play. Gifford Nielsen, to whom the Oilers look for the future, quarterbacked the Oilers.

"Stabler's future with the Oilers depends on his off-season work. You can't completely force people to stay here, but you can make sure they realize it's in their best interest... It's almost mandatory (for Stabler)."

Stabler, 35, tried to retire before the season but responded to Oiler appeals — and a reported two-year, $800,000 contract — to return for at least one more year after Nielsen got hurt.

Stabler was not immediately available for comment. Biles said

Stabler seemed responsive to the idea of staying in Houston and staying in shape during the off-season.

General Manager Ladd Herzog said the Oilers have no intention of trying to secure Stabler into submission.

"This is not anything we're threatening him with," Herzog said. "We feel we have met all of our responsibilities with Kenny and now it's time for him to meet his responsibilities to us. One of them is to live in Houston."

"We're just trying to be realistic. We're trying to make him a better football player and to do that, he needs to be in better condition."

Biles' statements represent a change in attitude.

After the Oilers had a 4-2 start on the season, Biles said Stabler's performance without attending pre-season training camp had set the importance of conditioning back 50 years.

Stabler has completed 60 percent of his passes for 1,888 yards and 14 touchdowns. He has been intercepted 18 times.

Talking Super Bowl? For shame, Bengals

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals coaches are thinking about the Super Bowl, of course, but they are also bringing an unwritten football rule by talking about it.

Instead of saying he would take games "one at a time," as is the norm in the NFL, Bengals Coach Forrest Gregg, asked about the team's chances of going to the Super Bowl, surprised people by actually responding. He said he thinks their chances are pretty good.

"We've played all the teams that are in the running, except for Miami," he said. "From that standpoint, you'd have to say our chances are good."

"All you can do is judge us by what we've done. We didn't do it (compile an 11-4 record and win the AFC Central) by accident. We're here because we deserve to be here."

Bengals linebacker Jim LeClair added, "There's no doubt in my mind we could be a Super Bowl team — not only a Super Bowl team, but a Super Bowl winner."

And cornerback Ken Riley agreed, "We think we're capable of going all the way. If we don't beat ourselves, we have a good shot. We just have to stay in the right frame of mind."

Slaying in that frame of mind begins Sunday in Atlanta, where the Bengals play their (final) regular-season game. Gregg says he doesn't intend to let Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson...

"There's two things I'd like here," Gregg said. "One is, we need to win for the (AFC championship game) home-field advantage and No. 2, Atlanta is still in the bidding for the playoffs. It's fairness to everybody else; we must give our best shot."

"You want to end the regular season on a winning note and you would never go there not intending to give your maximum."

Bartkowski calls L.A. defense best he's faced in '81

Rams play well, believe it or not, in victory

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — During 14 weeks of giving up big plays and making big mistakes, the Los Angeles Rams had turned bad football into a science.

But finally — wading through their worst season in 16 years and knocked out of the playoff picture for the first time since 1972 — the Rams resurrected the style of play that made them one of the most feared teams in the NFL for a decade.

And the result was a 21-16 victory Monday night over Atlanta that dealt the Falcons' playoff hopes a critical blow.

"It's a great feeling anytime you win," said Los Angeles quarterback Dan Pastorini, who started in place of the injured Pat Haden. "It's a good feeling, a great accomplishment to knock a team out of the playoffs. They'd do the same to us if the situation were reversed."

Pastorini's passing statistics (11-17-for-22 for 111 yards and two interceptions) were modest, but still much better than those of Atlanta's Steve Bartkowski, who completed just 14 of 38 for 160 yards and was also intercepted twice.

Bartkowski said the Falcons might have believed that the Rams, who entered the nationally televised game with a 5-9 record, were going to go belly-up for Atlanta.

"I'll tell you one thing," Bartkowski said, "I hate all that crap I hear about the Rams. I saw the films and I've got a good idea that's the best defense we've faced all year."

"People around here talk about the Rams, bad-mouth them. And I'll tell you what that does, it makes a team that is backed into a corner come out and play much better. I can't recall in the course of this year ever being as frustrated by a defense as I was by the Rams."

• A 46-yard bomb from Pastorini to Billy Waddy, setting up the team's first TD.

• A dazzling 94-yard interception return by free safety Nolan Cromwell, setting up the second Rams touchdown. The interception came in the end zone and more than likely accounted for a 14-point difference in the game.

• Cornerback Rod Perry's interception of a Bartkowski pass at the Los Angeles 8-yard line as the Falcons were driving for the potential winning TD in the final two minutes.

Instead of the Rams making the crucial errors, this time it was Atlanta turning in major blunders. Both, pass interference calls, came in the Rams' winning touchdown drive: a 25-yard penalty against Bobby Butler and a 49-yard call against Kenny Johnson.

McMahon will wear flak jacket in Holiday Bowl against WSU

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — All-America quarterback Jim McMahon of 12th-ranked Brigham Young will be wearing a new piece of safety equipment — a flak jacket — in BYU's Holiday Bowl Game against Washington State Friday night.

McMahon has been wearing a special brace on his left leg since he re-injured the knee in a game Sept. 26 at Colorado. And he will be wearing the protective jacket to protect a back injury he suffered in BYU's final regular-season game, Nov. 21 against Utah.

tective vests worn by such NFL quarterbacks as Dan Pastorini of Los Angeles and Richard Todd of the New York Jets.

"It can't alleviate the pain in his back muscles," Pratley said, "but it will protect the injured area from blows. And the back muscles will still stretch when he throws."

McMahon won a similar jacket during the 1980 season to protect a rib injury. He first injured his left knee in 1978 and sat out the next season following surgery. Doctors have not decided whether to operate on the knee again, after the Holiday Bowl game.

UTEP names Yung head coach

EL PASO, Texas (UPI) — The University of Texas-El Paso, which has had one of the most downgraded major college football programs in the country, Tuesday hired Bill Yung as its new head coach.

Yung, who spent five seasons as head coach at West Texas State, said he planned to turn the team around by making them think positively.

"You be positive with the kids in everything that you do," Yung said. "We are going to enjoy doing things here. I talked with players and everyone of them is starting out even."

"The important thing right now is an off-season program. We want to get them as much speed and strength as possible. I believe in my athletes lifting a lot of weights and running all year-round. That way they get conditioning and avoid injuries," he said.

Yung, who rebuilt the West Texas

State program, was twice named Missouri Valley Conference Coach of the Year.

"I'll do anything it takes to win," he said. "We have thrown the ball 40 or 50 times a game to win. One game we ran 87 times. There could be a lot of 13-7 games next year, but I think El Pasoans would enjoy that."

Texas-El Paso, which competes in the Western Athletic Conference, posted a 1-11 record this season, the same mark as produced by the 1980 season.

Bill Michael, who had compiled a 5-42 record with the Miners, was fired two games deep in the season after his club lost to NCAA Division II member Texas A&I.

Billy Alton, a member of Michael's staff, took over the team for the remainder of the year.

When Yung came to West Texas, the school's football program was on the verge of collapse because of a lack of funding. But Yung, who worked as hard fund-raising as he did in building the football team, rebuilt West Texas into a respectable football squad.

He surprised the MVC with a 6-4-1 record in 1977, his first year at the school, and even though the Buffaloes were a modest 5-5-1 in 1979 they won the league championship.

West Texas' 7-4 record this season was its best under Yung.

Yung, who played his collegiate football at Texas Christian during the early 1950s, came to West Texas from the staff of Grant Teafat at Baylor University. He had served as both offensive coordinator and offensive line coach at Baylor.

Yung had been strongly considered last year for the head coaching job at New Mexico and had actively sought the position at Texas-El Paso.

Colorado griddler Singleton seriously ill

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — University of Colorado running back Derek Singleton is in "extremely critical" condition at the UCLA Medical Center in Los Angeles because of complications from a meningitis attack, CU officials said Tuesday.

Singleton, a sophomore, was found unconscious on the floor of his motel room in Ames, Iowa, Oct. 24 — the day before the Buffaloes met Iowa State. The disease was thought to have been brought under control later but during his Thanksgiving vacation, Singleton was hospitalized again and doctors now say his life is in danger.

The meningitis, an infection of the brain lining, has been brought under control, officials said, but Singleton is now suffering from an accumulation of fluid in the lungs.

"It's called acute respiratory distress syndrome," said CU Sports Information Director John Claggett. "That's a fancy way of saying fluid in the lungs that prevents oxygen from entering the blood stream."

The spokesman said Singleton came down with the disease because he apparently without the proper antibody, which would have fought off the disease.

"He could have caught it just by kissing someone," Claggett said. "He caught it from a carrier. Normally the disease is not contagious unless you don't have the proper antibody in your system."

Singleton ran for 285 yards in his freshman year despite a broken hand. He recovered from the injury in time to play in the last three games of the 1980 season, and rushed for more than 100 yards in two of those contests.

This year Singleton rushed for 219 yards, scored one touchdown and was CU's leading ball carrier in three of four games. He missed two games in Colorado due to an injury.

Brothers Griffin, family file bankruptcy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Cincinnati Bengals players Archie and Ray Griffin, another brother James and their three wives all filed for bankruptcy Tuesday in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

They were partners in Griffin Corp., which operated a now-defunct chain of sporting goods stores in central Ohio.

Archie Griffin, the former two-time Heisman Trophy winner at Ohio State University, now a running back with the Bengals and his wife Loretta, listed liabilities of $519,568.09 against assets of $127,750.

Ray Griffin, a defensive player with the Bengals and another former OSU star, and his wife Lynn, claimed debts of $539,100.20 and assets of $93,350.

James, general manager of the stores, and Brenda Griffin did not list debts and assets in their filing. They have 10 days to do so, court officials said. Court documents listed Archie as president of the corporation, James as vice president, Ray as president and another brother, Larry, as second vice president.

The Griffins opened their Athlete's Foot stores in 1978, but closed them because of persistent financial problems in mid-October. About two weeks ago the stores held a liquidation sale to raise cash.

Buhl - Although trailing only once, the Caldwell Cougars had to battle into the final minute Tuesday night to down the Buhl Indians 40-38.

In a game marked by cold shooting, Caldwell led it when Brian Hansen chanced two free throws with 1:18 remaining to tie it 41-38. Buhl then went with an offensive foul and Caldwell turned that into a reverse three-point play. Dan Lodge hit his first free throw, missed the second and Don Sniglian was there to follow it back in.

"After Mark Lively hit his 15th point of the night for the Indians, Lodge closed out scoring with a pair of free throws with 13 seconds left.

"Throughout the low-scoring first half, Buhl was always in contention. At one point the taller Cougars moved ahead by seven points as Eric Wise hit eight of his first 10 points but Lively brought the Indians back.

Buhl's only lead came at 26:25 in the third quarter. But Caldwell scored its next time downcourt and Kevin Huxgens then provided some breathing room when he stole the ball and turned it into an uncontested triple.

In the third quarter Caldwell appeared moving away but Buhl hurried back in one last effort. It came closest when Craig Kareh hit a pair of free throws that cut the deficit to 41-38 with 1:43 remaining. That set the stage for Hansen's clinching free throw.

Caldwell won the preliminary 55-50. Caldwell 11 9 9 13 11-40. Hansen 10 11 9 13 11-38.

Twin Falls Jrs. 67, Hansen 38

HANSEN - The Twin Falls juniors led Brad Kitzridge and a huge height advantage to record a 67-38 victory over Hansen Tuesday night.

Kitzridge tossed in 19 points while Keith Page and Mike Rice added 12 each for the Bruins.

Twin Falls dominated from the tip-off and led at the half 34-18. The Bruins scored Hansen 33-20 in the second half for the final score.

"They had a great big height advantage and they got a lot of boards. That Kitzridge kid really hurt us," Hansen Coach Marty Gwin said.

Hansen was led in scoring by Bill Denny's 10 points and Skip Miller and Scott Long each added six more in defeat.

Hansen, 0-4, travels to Murtaugh Jan. 8 to battle the Red Devils.

In the preliminary, the Twin Falls sophomore B-team defeated the Hansen junior varsity.

The Indians showed some life in the fourth quarter outscoring the Wolverines 22-15, but to no avail as Wood River held on for the victory.

Along with Reynolds, leading scorers for Wood River included Kyle Broadie tossing in 11 points and Mike Payne added nine points.

Leading the Indians in scoring were Doug Astle with 12 points and Rusty Warren with 11 points.

Shoshone, 1-3, hosts Valley Dec 19, while the Wolverines, 3-1, host Declo Monday night.

Wood River also took the junior varsity contest defeating Shoshone 54-27.

Pocastello 47, Burley 35

BURLEY - Forwards Kurt Draper and Ron Newton combined for 29 points Tuesday night to lead Pocastello High to a 47-35 win over the Burley High schoolers.

The Bobs had a 12-6 cushion after the deficit to one point by the half and went up by six at the end of three quarters.

Draper had 15 and Newton added 14 as the Indians hurt the Bobs along the baseline underneath the Burley zone defense.

Turnovers: 29 of them, were also a bad point for the Bobs who dropped to 1-5 this season before coming to Twin Falls for a Friday encounter with the Bruins.

Oakley 59, Minico Jrs - 48

OAKLEY - Rex Tolman sank six foul shots in the third quarter to ice a 59-48 victory over the Minico junior varsity Tuesday night.

Altogether, Tolman had 22 points in the game and Mark Cranney added 19 more for the win.

The Hornets jumped out to an early first quarter lead, but had to hang on for "dear life" for the rest of the contest.

The Spartans came within two points in the third quarter, but lost it due to fouls.

Gooding State 82, Utah 29

GOODING - The Gooding State Redskins cranked up their fast break Tuesday night and romped past the Utah School for the Deaf 82-29.

The Redskins welcomed back Sam Cabbage, out with an injury, and rewarded his fans with 19 points and game scoring honors.

Gooding State piled up a 24-7 lead in the first quarter and never looked back. The Redskins also had a 24-point third quarter to turn it into a complete blowout.

Bonneville survives early Bruin invasion to prevail, 43-41

IDAHO FALLS - The Bonneville girls withstood an early scoring blitz by Twin Falls and rallied in the final quarter to claim a 43-41 victory Tuesday night.

Twin Falls got off to its best start of the season, straggling off Bonneville's pressure defense and pouring through 15 points in the first eight minutes.

But the Bruins shooting eye left in the second period as Bonneville closed within a point at intermission.

The Beet took the lead in the third quarter and moved ahead by as much as five in the waning minutes of the game. Twin Falls tried to rally and grab the lead with 1:10 left.

"We had a couple of critical shots in the fourth quarter that just wouldn't go for us and then we missed some free throws that could have made the difference," Bruin Coach Kathy Anderson pointed out.

"I felt we played about as well in the second quarter as we had in the first but we just went cold. And then they started hitting very well from the outside."

Girls basketball

"The coach said she couldn't explain the difference in Bonneville's full-court pressure effectiveness from the second half."

"I didn't give us any problems at all in the first half. I guess the girls just tightened up a little bit in the victory over Castelford Tuesday night."

The 5-11 junior hit on six field goals and was three-for-three from the charity line to lead Hagerman offensively.

"We couldn't get McFadden shut off in the early going. She really played good. Defensively we played well, and we also improved," Castelford Coach Kelly Murphay said of his all-freshman and sophomore squad.

The contest was all knotted at seven at the end of the first eight minutes but the Pirates outscored Castelford 13-2 in the second to clinch the game.

Castelford, 0-6, hosts Murtaugh Jan. 5 while Hagerman, 5-5, rides a three-game win streak into Oakley Friday night.

Camas City, Murtaugh 21

FAIRFIELD - The Camas County girls frittered away a solid first half lead but came back in the fourth quarter - to down Murtaugh 31-21 Tuesday night.

The Musersh jumped ahead 12-4 and 19-8 at the first two rests but then stood by as Murtaugh mounted a third-quarter surge that saw the Devils outscore the Musersh 9-3.

That narrowed the margin to four points going into the final period but Murtaugh could get any closer.

Roberts, Trumbo lead BYU over WSC

PROVO, Utah (UPI) - Fred Roberts scored a game-high 24 points, including 16 in the first half, and Steve Trumbo added 18 Tuesday night in powering Brigham Young to a 63-55 decision over Weber State.

With a 47-15 lead and eight minutes left, BYU hit five consecutive baskets to prevent the Wildcats from tying the score. Trumbo hit three baskets and two foul shots during the spree.

Trumbo scored 12 points in the second half and grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds for BYU. The Cougars, 6-3, outshot the Wildcats 49 percent to 38.

Todd Harper led Weber State with 16 points. Royal Edwards added 12 points before fouling out and Tom Heywood had 10. The loss drops the Wildcats to 5-3.

Idaho Falls grapplers best Bruins

TWIN FALLS - A trip to slick ice close early and try to wrap it up late didn't quite make it Tuesday night.

The Idaho Falls Tigers, with head coach Ernie Emerick coming up with a second-round pin, put down Twin Falls' boys for even a tie in taking a 42-30 wrestling win.

"It shows we have a lot of work mentally to do," said disappointed Bruin Coach Andy Barron. "I think they went into this thinking they'd had it."

A team that hasn't won a dual this probably shouldn't have that feeling, but Barron explained "Idaho Falls has been down for quite a while and we've always been able to beat them before. We talked about just that before the matches but I was catching that atmosphere in the locker room that the Bruins figured they had it won."

But Barron had a couple of highlights to discuss. Bob Galvan showed excellent quickness in taking the 138-pound weight-while Curtis Gambrel won his 185-pound match with a pin in 27 seconds.

"Bobby looked very good and this was Gambrel's first match in that weight. He is wrestling a weight up," Barron said.

Shane Cole ran his record to 9-3 with a pin at 112 and Bill Walker, after piling up a 17-5 lead, put away his 167-pound opponent in the early moments of the third period.

"I thought Bill wrestled well. He was making attempts at takedowns. That's something he didn't do much of last year but tonight and this year he's really worked at takedowns," Barron said of his 1980 state runner-up.

Idaho Falls 42, Twin Falls 30

Bob Galvan (TF) pinned Kambrel 3:22. Bill Walker (TF) pinned Cole 1:42. Bill Walker (TF) pinned Pugh 1:37. Curtis Gambrel (TF) pinned Galvan 27:00. Steve Trumbo (TF) pinned Roberts 3:54. Bill Walker (TF) pinned Cole 1:42. Bill Walker (TF) pinned Pugh 1:37. Curtis Gambrel (TF) pinned Galvan 27:00.

Sherrill drops ticket-scalping Pitt assistant

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - University of Pittsburgh football coach Bill Sherrill Tuesday suspended assistant Coach George Pugh for one month without pay for taking part in a scheme to scalp tickets to Pitt's Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl game with Georgia.

Sherrill said at a news luncheon that Pugh would not be permitted to take part in the Sugar Bowl trip. The Panthers leave today for Bloom, Miss., where they will train until Christmas Day. After which they'll move camp to New Orleans. Pugh's duties as coach of tight ends will be handled by receivers coach Joe Naumchik, Sherrill said.

Sherrill also said that after consulting with the NCAA he was convinced that Pugh's action "was not a violation of the university's own code of conduct."

Filer wins institutional

HAILEY - Filer wrestlers took four of the 12 matches and coasted to the championship of the Wood-River Invitational Tuesday night.

The Wildcats, led by Vince Cammack's pin, took the crown with Kimberly next at 114 1/2 and Valley third with 110 1/2 points.

Kimberly was led with victories coming from Jim Corrier, Pat Farrell and Scott Osborn.

Buhl 48, Declo 18

Buhl - Buhl was victorious in eighth of 12 matches to record a 45-18 decision over Declo Tuesday night.

Jeff Stewart, Pat Conolly and Craig Hulse took the 145, 155 and 167-pound divisions, respectively. Buhl's Craig Schnaak also took the heavyweight division by forfeit.

Why is the NFL so weird this season?

1981: when 'the mighty fall and the meek become exalted'

By RON RAPOPORT
@ Chicago Sun-Times

On the first Sunday in September, a man from Chicago stood behind the end zone at the Pontiac Silverdome, watching the closing moments of the Detroit Lions' season opener.

The visiting team, trailing by a touchdown, was backed up almost to the goal line, a situation that clearly called for desperate measures. The quarterback would have to take the snap, step back, wait as long as he dared, then throw the ball as far downfield as he could and pray that somehow it would come down in the grasp of one of his receivers.

NFL's parity must please Pete Rozelle

But as the clock ran out, while the quarterback threw incomplete passes of 20 and 30 yards to the sidelines — it was clear that his range didn't extend much farther than that. Seeing this, the man reflected on the team's performance in the preceding 60 minutes and thought, "Now here's a team the Bears can beat."

The quarterback was Joe Montana. The team was the San Francisco 49ers. So much for first seasons.

The 49ers beat not only the Bears the following Sunday, but just about everybody they have played in the meantime and became the first team in the National Football League to wrap up a division championship.

This is a circumstance that not only allows a significant number of interested parties the luxury of anticipating spending the post-New Year's weekend in San Francisco, but also sums up the NFL season that slowly is wending its way toward the playoffs.

It is fashionable to look disdainfully at the number of teams struggling to stay above .500 and to get into the playoffs at the same time. Indeed, a convocation of cynics that gathered in Green Bay a week ago gleefully awaited reports of a Tampa Bay loss that would have thrown the NFC Central into a four-way tie for first place at 7-7. Alas, the Buccaneers' spoiled-things-by-winning.

But there is a portion of Pete Rozelle's beloved concept of parity that goes beyond the elevation of mediocrity to an art form. And that is the taking of a team like the 49ers from a 6-10 record one-season to the winning of a title with three weeks remaining in the next one.

By this standard, the current NFL season has been a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Those who love to see the mighty fall and the meek become exalted have had to look no further than this week's standings.

San Francisco, Cincinnati, even the New York Jets, for goodness sake, have risen from the ashes into Super Bowl contention. The Bengals and Jets brought up the rear of their respective divisions last year while the 49ers were saved from that fate only by New Orleans' 1-15 record.

The Bengals, 6-10 last season, won five in a row before running into the San Francisco buzz saw and clinched the title by winning their 11th game Sunday. The Jets, 4-12 a year ago, rebounded from an 0-3 start this season to 9-5-1 and an excellent shot at a playoff berth.

In the meantime, Super Bowl champion Oakland has disappeared after a string of three straight scoreless games.

Philadelphia, the Raiders' opponent in the title game last year, is working on four straight defeats and faces the possibility of missing the playoffs even as a wild-card team.

Atlanta, which won the NFC West with a record of 12-4 in 1980 and was heralded as a coming dynasty, almost surely will spend the Christmas season in its accustomed place at home by the fire.

Minnesota, which has laid claim to the NFC Central title as a matter of divine right, stole off quietly into the night after four straight defeats.

Los Angeles, 11-5 and in the playoffs every year since 1973, is 5-10. Cleveland, last season's AFC Central winner at 11-5, is 5-10 and in the basement. Houston, 11-5 and a playoff fixture for three seasons, is 6-9 and waiting till next year. New England, 10-6 last year, fell off the edge to 2-13.

And what about teams that are counted on to be through for the year once the playoffs start and have not cheated those expectations? They exist, too, don't they?

"Nobody who lives in Chicago has to ask a question like that."

Fry disdains pep talks as Rose Bowl nears

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Coach Hayden Fry said Tuesday he will not need pep talks as the Iowa football team gets ready for the Rose Bowl.

"The thing that hits me as a coach is it's unbelievable they're making their third trip in four years ... which indicates they have a strong program on the West Coast," he said.

HAYDEN FRY

"I don't have to make any pep talks to my team to make them aware they will play a quality team."

The Hawkeyes, 8-3, begin practice today in preparation for Washington on New Year's Day.

Fry said he expects some rugged workouts and that he does not anticipate changes in his lineup, although some injured players will be returning.

"All the fellows that started the last game will start. They've earned that right," Fry said. "We've got to get the cobwebs off, do some hitting, to get the timing back."

Iowa was 4-7 last season and notched its first winning season since 1961 this fall. They were Big Ten co-champs with Ohio State.

Fry said there was no single factor in the turnaround.

"We made a lot of improvement," he said. "Mentally, I think we were more mature and felt we could win each game we went into this year."

"We certainly improved the kicking game. I think possibly we lost three games last year because of the kicking game."

Kicker Reggie Noy set an NCAA

... motivation unnecessary record this fall with a season average of 49.8 yards a kick.

Iowa also fielded the top defense in the Big Ten and one of the stingiest units in the nation.

"I definitely feel like we're one of the top 10 teams in the nation," Fry said. "I always chuckle how they rate people above; three that we already beat."

Iowa won both of its other Rose Bowl appearances but has not played in the Rose Bowl since 1959.

Iowa's stellar season was a victory for the underdog.

Even the Iowa State fans are happy for us because we did it," Fry said.

Cubs hope old warrior Jenkins can contribute

Wednesday, December 16, 1981 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho D-7

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs were talking about a new image Tuesday at the same time they were unveiling a name in the past that they hope will return them to earlier successes.

Free-agent pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, who signed a one-year contract with his former team one week ago, appeared at a news conference to talk about his goals for his second time around with the Cubs. Jenkins was the ace of the Cubs' staff during the late 1960s and early 1970s when the Cubs were in pennant contention.

At the same time, the Cubs also showed off a new slogan, "Trying to build a new tradition," and a new road uniform.

General manager Dallas Green indicated that he believed the Cubs were on the right track toward rebuilding, both with the trades completed at the winter meetings last week and the signing of Jenkins, 38, and free-agent pitcher Bill Campbell, 35. "As you can tell by our new slogan, we're trying to build a new tradition,"

FERGUSON JENKINS
Cub star returns

Green said, "Hopefully we improved ourselves last week. Certainly we did with the acquisition of Ferguson." Jenkins, wearing the white knit pullover with navy blue pinstripes on the new Cubs uniforms, said he hoped among his major contributions would be helping young pitchers on the staff.

"I hope to give advice to the younger pitchers. Our ballpark is not an easy place to pitch in," Jenkins said. "When I was here the first time, other veterans tried to help me."

He conceded that Wrigley Field was a difficult place to pitch, adding he would have to readjust to pitching in the National League for the first time since he was traded away by the Cubs in 1973.

"It (Wrigley Field) has broken the hearts of a lot of young pitchers, mine too," Jenkins said. "There are a lot of new players in this league since I was here. It will be cat-and-mouse for a while."

Jenkins said that he was not given any assurances by Green he would be automatically inserted into the Cubs' starting rotation.

"I know I have to earn that spot in spring training. I've always been in good shape though," said Jenkins, who had six straight 20-game seasons for the Cubs. "I've never had any arm trouble in the 16 years I've been pitching."

Jenkins said that he had to choose between offers from Oakland and the Cubs but opted for Chicago on the advice of his agent.

"I've never really left Chicago. I have followed them very close since I left. I have a lot of fond memories," Jenkins said.

Green indicated he wasn't through dealing, although he doubted hopes that the Cubs would sign any more free agents. The Cubs had been interested in outfielders Tony Scott and Dave Collins and pitcher Larry Christenson.

"I think Scott is asking too much for the type of production he has had," Green said. "Collins we haven't heard from and I.C. may not be interested because of my desire to use him in the bullpen."

Green conceded he heard many offers for first baseman Bill Buckner last week but said he would not trade Buckner "one for one." Houston had reportedly offered outfielder Cesar Cedeno for Buckner.

"We aren't looking to trade Bill Buckner," Green said. "We did hear a lot of offers for him but we won't trade him one for one."

Hockey star Dudley quits

WINNIPEG-Mantoba (UPI) — Winnipeg Jets winger Rick Dudley, who had been reduced to playing minor-league hockey by knee injuries, Tuesday announced his retirement.

Dudley, once a key member of the Buffalo Sabres, had knee surgery last summer and had played this season with the Fredrickton Express of the American Hockey League.

Threat prompts 49ers to give Montana police protection

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers took chances after a veiled death threat to Joe Montana, have assigned two private guards to watch over the quarterback.

The guards were hired Monday and will remain with Montana for an undetermined time.

The so-called death threat was overheard in Candlestick Park on Sunday by a Burns guard following the conclusion of the game between the 49ers and Houston Oilers.

According to the 49ers, a woman approached the gate outside the players parking lot and either threatened the quarterback or reported hearing someone else make the threats. The woman then disappeared in the crowd.

The guard notified the 49ers, who in turn notified the police, who sent two officers to accompany Montana and his wife to their home.

"I heard that some woman said something that was taken as a death threat," Montana said. "It seems we are making a big deal out of nothing, but I guess you have to take precautions."

"I was a little nervous at first. After a while, we all relaxed. The (police) officers stayed all night (Sunday) and I stayed a long time talking to them."

Fellow players made light of the incident during Monday's practice.

Philadelphia could get Toronto star

TORONTO (UPI) — The controversy surrounding Toronto Maple Leafs captain Darryl Sittler moved into its fourth day Tuesday, with the Philadelphia Flyers advancing to the forefront in the sweepstakes for the 31-year-old center.

Philadelphia general manager Keith Allen, in Toronto for an NHL hearing into an incident involving Flyers winger Paul Holmgren, met with acting general manager Gerry McNamara Tuesday morning at Maple Leaf Gardens but declined to disclose any details of the closed-door session.

Dissatisfied with the offers received from Minnesota general manager Lou Nanne, the Leafs resumed negotiations with the Flyers two days ago.

Sittler, whose desire to leave the Leafs was made public by agent Alan Bacon on Saturday night, has said he will waive the no-trade clause in his contract only if he is dealt to Philadelphia or Minnesota.

In the midst of Tuesday's practice, Sittler and Toronto coach Mike Nykoluk abruptly left the ice to huddle in the dressing room, leading to a round of speculation that a deal had finally been consummated.

However, the pair emerged from the room 15 minutes later and returned to the practice, with Sittler grinning widely and Nykoluk telling reporters they had discussed the team's visit to Toronto's Sick Kids Hospital later in the day.

Nykoluk, who said he doubted "very much" a deal would be concluded by Tuesday, expected Sittler to be on the plane Tuesday night when the team headed west for a game Wednesday with the Vancouver Canucks.

"Darryl is a hockey player. That comes first to him," he said. "He's going to do the right thing. He has a lot of pride and he knows that as long as he's a member of the Maple Leafs he has to help the club."

Surprised at first by Sittler's request to be traded, Nykoluk says he now understands the plight of the most prolific scorer in the history of the Toronto franchise.

"It just came down to the fact he's at an age (31) where he knows we're rebuilding and trying to go with a lot of young players," Nykoluk said, adding there are at least four other teams, besides the Flyers and North Stars, interested in his services.

"He wants to have a chance to win a Stanley Cup before he's through and he knows we're a few years away from that."

The Maple Leafs' mentor said that his club had adopted a "humorous approach to the not-so-funny situation."

"We're trying to joke around a little bit about it," Nykoluk said. "Darryl's trying to do the same thing. He knows it's a tough spot. The players have a lot of respect for him, all these young kids."

For his part, Sittler proceeded with his refusal to comment on his trade demands to the throng of reporters which have become a fixture at the Gardens since his request was made public.

The 12-year-veteran delivered his ultimatum for a trade to Harold Ballard two weeks ago, after the Leafs' owner refused to renegotiate his $190,000-a-year contract.

Allen, who believes both New York teams in the NHL are also bidding for Sittler, would like to add the Leafs' captain to the Flyers but isn't prepared to mortgage his club's future.

"We want to make a deal as well as they can," he said. "But we're going to go within our limits. We're not going to break up the team. I feel he's a great player. There's no team he couldn't help."

Briefly in sports

Gun Club holds turkey shoot Sunday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Gun Club will hold a turkey shoot Sunday beginning at noon.
Various prizes will be given away, including turkeys, hams, bacon and chickens. Admission has not yet been determined, but the average price should be between $2 and $2.75.
Shooters may participate in either a professional or a novice class. A trap should be open for practice. Every body is welcome.

Eye injuries from racket sports rise

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — The increase in the popularity of tennis, racquetball, and squash has led to an increase in the number of eye injuries suffered by players in these sports, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness.
Such injuries have doubled in the last five years, according to Society executive director Virginia Boyce. Of approximately 35,000 sports-related injuries suffered each year, she said, about 10,000 come in racquet sports, an increase from 5,000 in 1975.

Graber to be named MSU grid coach

BOZEMAN, Mont. (UPI) — University of Wisconsin defensive coordinator Doug Graber will be named today as the new Montana State University head football coach, a Bozeman radio station reported Tuesday.
Dean Alexander of KBOZ said reliable sources at MSU have confirmed that Graber has accepted the position made vacant by the firing of Sonny Lubick.
MSU officials declined to comment on the report.
Graber is one of three finalists for the post. The others are Oklahoma State offensive coordinator Bob Leahy, and University of Oklahoma head coach Ron Simonsen.

Gilmore tops East conference voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Center Artis Gilmore of the Chicago Bulls, the league leader in field-goal percentage and among the leaders in three other categories, is the top vote-getter from the Eastern Conference in the balloting for starting positions for the 1982 NBA All-Star Game.
Gilmore, averaging 20.4 points, 9.9 rebounds and 2.91 blocked shots per game, remains in front in the voting for centers with 47,723 votes as of Tuesday. Darryl Dawkins of Philadelphia was a distant second with 13,825 votes.
Two other Chicago players, forward David Greenwood and guard Reggie Theus, also were among the leading vote-getters.
Greenwood climbed from fourth place among East forwards a week ago to the top spot this week with 37,734 votes. Cedric Maxwell of Boston is next at 32,089 followed by Julius Erving of Philadelphia with 27,420 and Larry Bird of Boston with 20,520.
Rookie Isiah Thomas of Detroit, last week's overall leader, is No. 1 among East guards with 46,402 votes. Theus is second with 45,746 votes.
Voting continues through Jan. 1 for the All-Star Game, which will be played at the Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J., on Sunday, Jan. 31.

Aguirre sidelined for at least 8 weeks

DALLAS (UPI) — Mark Aguirre, the NBA's No. 1 draft choice and leading scorer for the Dallas Mavericks, was scheduled for surgery on his right foot late Tuesday, a team spokesman said, and was expected to miss at least eight weeks of the season.
"He's going to be operated on today," said Mavericks spokesman Kevin Sullivan, "by team physician Dr. Pat Evans. The operation is to implant a screw in the broken fifth metatarsal in his right foot."
The operation was scheduled for late afternoon at Baylor University Medical Center.
Aguirre, the seventh-leading scorer in the NBA, was injured Dec. 9 while attempting a layup at Kansas City. At the time of his injury, he was the Mavericks' leading scorer with 25.6 points per game.

Cougar back ruled out of Sun Bowl

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Cougar fullback David Barrett is ineligible for the Sun Bowl because he dropped a course during the fall term and fell below the required minimum 12 credit hours of classes.
Barrett, who gained a team high 537 yards this season, is trying to regain his eligibility by taking an examination. He missed practice Monday and a practice last week due to the problem.
Head Coach Bill Yeoman Monday said he understood Barrett could become eligible for the Dec. 26 bowl game against the Oklahoma Sooners.
"You'd have to talk to David to get all the details. I know he's scurrying around trying to get eligible. As of right now, he is not," Yeoman said.
Barrett would say only "It's something of that nature" when asked about the course-load situation. He said he might know today whether he was to be eligible.

Police arrest boxer for assault, drugs

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Former light-heavyweight boxing champion Mike Rossman was arrested on assault and drug charges Tuesday after he allegedly attacked two police officers who tried to give him a speeding ticket, police said.
Rossman, 24, was charged with two counts of aggravated assault on a police officer, possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana and possession of an unlawful weapon — a blackjack police allegedly found in his car.
The Turnersville, N.J., native was later released on his own recognizance.
Police said Rossman was arrested at 2:45 a.m. Tuesday.

JIM RICE agent says he's content

Rice's agent denies reports saying slugger wants out

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The agent for Boston Red Sox slugger Jim Rice Tuesday denied published reports the seven-year veteran outfielder wants to be traded.
"I have no information on any desire of Jimmy's to be traded," said lawyer Tony Pennacchia.
The Lowell (Mass.) Sun Tuesday reported Rice was unhappy with the team's mediocre performance last season and wanted to go elsewhere.
"Rumors are rumors," Pennacchia said. "In this world anything can happen. As of right now, there is no validity to that statement."

Red Sox General Manager Haywood Sullivan also said the story was speculation and said he hadn't spoken with the outfielder since the season ended.
"I haven't been contacted. I don't even know if it's true," Sullivan said.
Rice has twice won the American League home run crown and was named the league's MVP in 1978. Rice is in the third year of his contract that contains an absolute no-trade clause which only he can waive.

"If he ever had any desire to be traded it wouldn't be because of money; it would be because of desire to be on a winning team," Pennacchia said.
Meanwhile, Boston is trying to resign free agent left handed pitcher Frank Tanana, who suffered through a hard luck season.
"Other teams are interested in Tanana," Sullivan said. "But we're gambling he can turn his record around and be a pretty good pitcher."

Champ defends crown Saturday

Muhammad promises aggression

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — World Boxing Council's light-heavyweight champion Muhammad Saad Muhammad, never a sparkling early-round fighter, says he may be a bit more aggressive Saturday when he defends his title against Dwight Braxton.
"I'm going to definitely take the fight to him," said Muhammad, the 27-year-old Philadelphia, at a pre-fight news conference Tuesday. "I'm going to box him. You know, sometimes it's necessary to use different tactics on different fighters."
Saad Muhammad, who has a 31-3-2 record and a much-deserved reputation for slow starts and knockout finishes (24), might not have much of a choice if Braxton makes good on his vow to pressure the champion from the opening bell.

"I know he likes to lay around, take the punishment and then come back," Braxton said. "But whatever he shows me, I'll deal with. If he wants to get him. Hey, look, I'm not playing around."
Braxton, presumably, were Saad Muhammad's previous opponents. But the champion scored an 11th-round knockout over Jerry Martin in his last title defense in September after Martin dominated the bout, and stopped Murray Sutherland Jr. in the ninth round of an April fight despite Sutherland's effective early performance.
But Braxton, 15-1-1 with eight KOs, said he wasn't worried.

"To me, it looked like a lot of them, when they looked up and saw him coming back, they gave up," he said. "They all went after him too quickly, too early."
"I'm not worried about no (knockout) punches. I've worked with guys who hit harder than him. To be honest with you, hitting me is like hitting the numbers. And you know your chances of hitting the numbers."

Europe given warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said Tuesday it is up to European steel producers to save the voluntary steel trigger price mechanism, since they are the ones who "violated the system."

convince the Americans "to prevent" private lawsuits that could destroy the voluntary agreement among American, Japanese and European steel industries, he said.

But Baldrige said he also could not guarantee that American steel companies would hold off their private suits under trade laws against European producers, even if there were efforts to restore faith in the system.

Baldrige said he would prefer to prosecute five cases of alleged selling under the "trigger" price already initiated by the U.S. government, and pursue other cases as well, rather than have steel trade questions settled in the courts.

Solomon sees reversal

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Reagan administration's economic recovery program will produce "a major turnaround in the 1980s and 1990s," economist Ezra Solomon said Monday.

However, short-term effects of the Reagan strategy will be "painful" in terms of increasing unemployment and high interest rates, Solomon told the 19th annual business and economic outlook conference sponsored by Portland State University's School of Business Administration.

Solomon, an author and former member of the president's Council of Economic Advisors, said the plan for spending cuts, tax cuts, an increased defense program and a balanced federal budget "doesn't add up as a whole."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

By an interesting coincidence, John Raley, an old partner and dear friend of Oswald Jacoby, played with Alan Sontag in the open pairs in the 1980 spring grand nationals. Alan reports that Johnny played his cards like a young man and with a little luck they might have won instead of finishing just second. John elected to open one club on account of the worthless doubtless in diamonds. His one trump rebid bought the contract.

West opened the king of spades. East took his ace and led back the three of diamonds. West cashed the ace king and got out with the 10 of hearts. At this stage of the proceedings John had an almost perfect count of the hand. He cashed the ace-king and queen of hearts and when everyone looked he decided that East's trey of diamonds had been an honest fourth bid. Hence, West had 6-3-1 distribution and would have been one down at two spades.

John needed eight tricks and trump to score plus-120 and beat any South players who were plus-100.

It was no problem for John. He simply led his deuce of clubs to dummy's nine. East took the queen and led back the jack. John took his ace, led to dummy's 10, cashed the jack of hearts and queen of diamonds, three East in with the jack of diamonds and scored the all-important eighth trick since East had to lead a club.
