Northwest nuke plants abandoned

SEATTLE (UPI) — The builders of two unfinished nuclear plants decided today to pull the plug on the projects.

The plants will cost customers in three states $6 billion in the next three decades without generating a single watt of power.

The managing director of the Washington Public Power Supply System recommended termination of nuclear power plants No. 4 and No. 5 at Hanford and Satsop, Wash., to the system's executive board.

Board members and a consultant to the 88 public utilities in Washington, Oregon and Idaho which own the plants said they had given up on a mothballing plan and were trying instead to obtain loans for a "controlled termination."

Washington Gov. John Spellman and Northwestern business leaders have warned abandonment will bring economic disaster to the region — making other government bonds hard to sell and slowing recovery from the current recession.

Three business executives appointed to the WPPSS executive board last fall to provide more financial expertise resigned Friday, saying they were no longer needed because the mothballing plan had been abandoned.

The two plants, victimized by mismanagement, skyrocketing costs and high interest rates, were about 20 percent complete when work was halted on them last summer. At the time, their final costs — if completed — were estimated at $6 billion apiece.

Ray Foleen, consultant to the 88 public utilities, estimated share holders would end up paying $6 billion in principal and interest over the next 30 years on the $2.25 billion in bonds already issued to finance the two plants. They will have to hike rates substantially to their customers to make the payments.

Under the mothballing proposal, the 88 owners, three private utilities and a dozen industries were to advance $150 million to WPPSS to put the two plants on ice until mid-1983 when a final decision would be made on their fate. By that time, a comprehensive regional power plan will be completed and supporters hoped bond interest rates would also have dropped.

"I regretfully recommend that the board take action to terminate the projects on Jan. 22," WPPSS Managing Director Robert Ferguson told the WPPSS executive board.

Ferguson made his recommendation on the basis of a report by Foleen that off the 88 public utilities, 16 representing 30 percent of the shares had voted against the mothballing plan, nine others representing 8 percent indicated they would not be able to afford it and 33 representing 18 percent shares had not responded.

Foleen's report also stated that other participants weren't willing to pick up those shares, and bankers — the Bonneville Power Administration and Pacific Power and Light Co. did not want to help fund the two reactors.

Ferguson said he would provide the board with details of the shutdown next Friday, at which time the board is expected to officially close the book on the plants.

Under a controlled termination plan, the 88 utilities and Pacific Power — which had a 10 percent share in the power generated by project 5 — will loan $94.6 million to WPPSS to finance the first year's operating costs. Foleen said the plan would go into operation when $70.5 million or 80 percent of the total — was committed.

Foleen said a target date of Feb. 5 has been set for the controlled termination plan to be in place.

In addition, WPPSS will give up its federal construction permits and look for a buyer for the projects or for the machinery in the plants.

State to buy hatchery

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Department is negotiating to purchase a Nampa fish hatchery that could produce about 300,000 pounds per year of rainbow trout for the state's fishing enthusiasts, the agency's director said Friday.

Jerry Conley told the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee he hopes to return to lawmakers within 10 days with a request to spend "less than $1 million" in revenues from fishing licenses to purchase the Rainbow Farms Inc. hatchery east of Nampa.

If negotiations succeed, purchase of the facility would mean closure of the agency's hatchery near Eagle Island, he said, and easing of overcrowding in the runways at the state's largest fish-raising facility, the Hagerman State Fish Hatchery.

The director said the price being negotiated for Rainbow Farms also appears to be "a real bargain" when compared to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' recent acquisition of the Crystal Springs Hatchery near Buhl for more than $3.4 million.

Crysalis Springs' capacity is about twice as big as Rainbow Farms, he said after the committee meeting — but the federal government paid more than twice as much as the purchase price the state is negotiating.

The Corps' purchase has been attacked by the General Accounting Office as about three times more than the facility's worth.

But Conley said he was not attacking the Corps' decision — just noting that the state seemed to be getting a good buy in negotiating to purchase the smaller Nampa facility for far less.

"The Corps is going to have to spend about $10 million to get Crystal Springs operating," he said. "And we're talking about under $1 million for a hatchery that's ready to go tomorrow."

Agency Fisheries Division Chief Jim Keating said in an interview later that purchase of Rainbow Farms would allow officials to concentrate the state's raising of catchable rainbow trout at the Nampa facility and Hagerman, where water temperatures create prime conditions.

Hagerman still would remain a major trout-producing facility, he said.

Utilities expected decision

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

RUPERT — News of the decision Friday to abandon two nuclear-power projects in Washington was greeted by area electric superintendents like the death of an ailing relative.

John Brog, the manager of Rural Electric in Rupert, said he was "keenly disappointed" but not surprised by the news. Power-users throughout the region will suffer, he predicted.

The resignation of three business executives who joined the Washington Public Power Supply System board last fall to guide the mothballing effort also could be critical, as details of the termination are worked out, he said.

Borg also represents Idaho's electric cooperatives as a member of the executive committee of the Public Power Council.

Four rural co-ops and three municipalities in the Magic Valley own varying shares in the two abandoned WPPSS plants.

How much termination will cost the local entities depends on what arrangements can be negotiated to spread the costs over time, according to Bud Tracy of Raft River Electric Co-op in Malila.

Participants are responsible for $2.25 billion in bonds already issued for construction, Tracy said. But costs to settle contracts with unions and equipment suppliers could require an additional $500 million to $800 million in the first two years.

The bonds alone would necessitate a rate increase for Raft River customers of between 25 and 30 percent, he said.

Calvin Wickham of Idaho Falls, the president of the Idaho Cooperative Utilities' Association, said officials representing Idaho utilities will meet Jan. 22 in Portland to assess the situation and attempt to come up with an orderly termination plan.

"We'll have to see what we can salvage out of the fiasco, I guess," Wickham said Friday.

Don Hill, the superintendent of Bunker Hill's municipal electric system, said that, in retrospect, he sees no way the utilities could have foreseen the spiraling interest rates and other problems that doomed the two plants.

Bunker Hill vote Sunday Union leaders irate over threats to fire

KELLOGG (UPI) — Idaho union leaders were incensed Friday by threats by the consortium proposing to buy Bunker Hill Co. that all workers will be fired if they do not support a new labor agreement.

Jim Kerns, president of the Idaho State AFL-CIO, said he was told that Duane Hagadone of Coeur d'Alene, one of the members of the consortium, called the office of the United Steelworkers Local 7854 in Kellogg Friday afternoon and threatened to fire all Bunker Hill employees if they did not vote for the wage and benefit proposal.

"It was relayed to me that Mr. Hagadone called the Steelworkers office shortly after lunch and asked to talk to Kenny Flatt, president of that local," Kerns said. "He told Ken Flatt that if the unions failed to ratify that contract on Sunday, they were all fired Monday."

Flatt confirmed that he had received such a call.

Flatt said he had heard a recent radio report that Bunker Hill's parent company, Gulf Resources and Chemical Corp. of Houston, Texas, "is now saying that they will terminate all employees and cease their benefits."

"That's illegal and cannot be done," Flatt said.

He said a clause in the union's present labor agreement with Gulf provides for employee benefits to continue after a plant closure for a certain period of time, depending on how long the employee has worked at Bunker Hill.

"Gulf officials are aware of that and have given me a letter, saying Gulf will honor all contracts and provisions as provided by law," Flatt said.

Hagadone was hosting a question and answer program for Bunker Hill workers Friday afternoon on two area radio stations and was unavailable for comment.

In addition to the live radio program, Kerns said the consortium was running commercials on North Idaho radio stations, urging union members to support the labor agreement.

He said full-page advertisements calling for support of the proposal also were printed in the Kellogg Evening News, the North Idaho Press and the Coeur d'Alene Press.

Union members will hold a meeting Saturday to discuss the proposal and will vote upon the agreement Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

He said he believed most workers would vote against the proposal primarily because it eliminates seniority among employees and cuts pension benefits.

"It's totally unfair to have somebody vote when they don't know if they are one of the ones that will be called back," Flatt said. "They will call back workers with total disregard to seniority. They (the workers) don't know if they will be one of the chosen to go back. I think that's so unfair. That's what most of my numbers are upset about. The other economic areas we feel we can live with."

Recession deepening despite slower inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government said Friday wholesale prices rose 7.7 percent last year — the smallest increase since 1977.

But factory production in December dropped for the fifth consecutive month, a sign the recession has deepened.

Administration officials hailed the wholesale price figures as "very encouraging" for future economic growth.

The Labor Department's Producer Price Index — a broad measure of wholesale price changes — showed only 0.3 percent growth in December, finishing last year with a moderate 7 percent gain.

The previous year, prices at the wholesale level climbed 11.8 percent. In 1979, it was up 12.8 percent, and climbed 9.2 percent in 1978 and 8.7 percent in 1977.

The price index shared the economic stage with the fifth consecutive monthly decline for factory production — a grim sign of continued recession that pulled the pace of employment-related industrial output to 1979 levels.

And the current severe weather raised the possibility that food and fuel prices may go up more sharply this year.

Administration spokesman Robert Ortnier, chief economist of the Commerce Department, called the moderate price increase for dealers "very encouraging for the outlook of sustainable growth in the economy."

He said the price figure will have favorable implications for the future and was "a very dramatic improvement" since "high inflation rates are what led us into recession."

Ortnier said the Federal Reserve Board's factory production index, down 2.1 percent in December, was "extremely disappointing and unfortunate" but "no disaster."

The nation's industrial production level — almost a third of the country's total production of goods and services — now is below that of its previous peak, March 1979.

Last month, dealers had to pay $275.30 for the same goods that cost $100 in 1967, according to the Labor Department's Producer Price Index that stood at 275.3.

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production slipped to 143.3 for December, losing whatever small expansion in factory production that occurred since March 1979.

Auto assembly production in December dropped to what would be an annual rate of 4.6 million units, the report said. But the total production cutbacks among the nation's factories were so widespread that the auto portion only contributed a small amount of the overall decline.

Production and assembly line employment drops when people and businesses stop buying and unsold backlogs of goods begin to accumulate faster.

The Commerce Department also reported that its latest figures show inventories grew in November 0.2 percent, the same as in October, while sales fell 0.2 percent.

The closely watched stock-to-sales ratio grew to 1.5 months of supply on hand at current sales rates, the highest since June 1960 in the previous recession. The ratio was up to 2.3 months supply unsold for durable goods manufacturers.

Prices for natural gas were up sharply in December but gasoline prices fell. Overall, the energy index went up 0.7 percent in December and 14.3 percent for all of last year. The year before, that energy index had zoomed up by 27.8 percent.

What's what

Maybe you got together over the holidays for considerable conversation with friends and relatives. What was said then that you remember best, if anything? And who said it? A student of the mind contends it is our own lines that impress us most. We're inclined to remember best what we ourselves have said.

Extinction threatens wolves, eagles and cougars. But the most hated and hunted predator of all, the coyote, thrives, still. Explain the why of that.

Only one out of every 3,000 missing persons turns out to be a murder victim.

ANOTHER DRINK

Hollywood's Dana Andrews tells this swift tale about three onetime officers of the Screen Actors Guild: Ronald Reagan, the late William Holden, and Andrews himself. After a guild meeting, they met at a bistro, ordered drinks, and talked union matters. When the waiter came back to ask if they wanted another drink, Andrews said, "You bet," and Holden said, "Sure." But Reagan said, "What do you want another drink for? You just had one." Andrews, who probably knows as much about alcoholism as any man, says that quick scene in the cocktail lounge foretold the futures of each of the men.

DIVORCE

Q. What is the most common ground that men cite when they divorce their wives in the Soviet Union?
A. "Loss of affection."

Couples are more likely to continue to have children, if they have only girls. Statistics prove that.

Q. Take people bitten by poisonous snakes—what proportion actually die?
A. Three out of 100, about.

The locals in China customarily ask a stranger two questions to show their concern and good will: 1. "Are you hungry?" And 2. "How old are you?" Great respecters of age, the Chinese. The older you are, the more deference you get.

Q. Where's the largest single block of marble?
A. On the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia. Weighs more than 50 tons.

Thousands honor King's birthday

ATLANTA (UPI) — President Reagan and thousands of other persons in Atlanta and other cities across the nation took time out Friday to remember the 33rd birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the black preacher whose dream galvanized the civil rights movement.

King's widow, Coretta, was in the forefront of the observances, leading a memorial service at Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church, the little house of worship King used as a base for his civil rights campaigns of the 1960s.

About 500 persons crowded into the church for the services and later stood in silence as the widow and her children placed a wreath of white mums and red carnations on King's snow-covered crypt, located at the newly constructed Martin Luther King Center for Social Change.

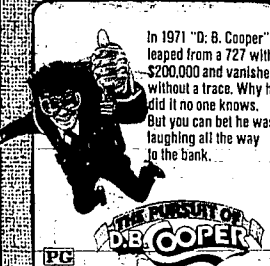

In the nation's capital, a crowd of about 2,000 braved wintry weather to stage a march in King's honor, and New York City closed its schools and declared "Dr. Martin Luther King day in tribute to the Nobel Peace Prize winner who was felled by an assassin's bullet."

President Reagan issued a statement calling on all Americans to rededicate themselves to making King's civil rights "dream come true for all Americans."

Lawyers Kevin Kelly and John Havey flank Philip Cline

Jury convicts Cline for Las Vegas fire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Philip Cline, a 24-year-old former busboy, was convicted Friday of murdering eight people at the Las Vegas Hilton by deliberately setting fire there.

A three-man, nine-woman jury locked in heated debate for a week, found Cline guilty on eight counts of first degree murder and one count of first degree arson on the seventh day of deliberations.

Cline bowed his head slightly when the first guilty verdict was read and then remained calmly seated as the court clerk recited guilty verdicts on the other counts. Judge Addellier Guy ordered Cline to return to court Jan. 20 for a penalty hearing, during which the same jury will determine whether he will die in the gas chamber or receive a lesser sentence.

The fire 11 months ago at the world's largest hotel caused $14 million property damage to the hotel and $14 million in lost business, a corporate spokesman said. The corporation recovered $14 million in insurance.

Cline worked as a busboy when he set the fire in the eighth-floor lobby of the 29-story, 2,700-room hotel on Feb. 10, 1981. Three minor fires broke out on separate floors the same night, and fire experts said they were deliberately set.

Cline admitted to police in a videotaped statement played for jurors that he started the fatal fire, but he said the blaze was set accidentally when his marijuana cigarette touched a drape while he was engaged in a homosexual act.

During the 28-day trial, prosecutors presented fire experts who said the draperies could not have been set ablaze with a cigarette. They testified the fire was started deliberately with an open flame.

The defense rested its case after calling a single witness, compared to 65 witnesses called by the prosecution. Cline's attorneys said prosecutors failed to prove any of the fires at the Hilton were deliberately set.

Cline's attorney, John Havey, would not say whether he would appeal the case, but said, "The case is not completed. After the penalty hearing we will have plenty to say."

Committee will send own aging questionnaire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dissatisfied with the administration's poll, a Senate committee and the nation's largest aging group said Friday they will conduct a rival survey or delegates to last month's White House Conference on Aging.

A letter explaining the planned telephone survey will be mailed to the 2,200 conference delegates next week, signed by Senate Select Committee on Aging Chairman John Heinz, R-Pa., and ranking Democrat Lawton Chiles of Florida.

"This survey is being conducted in a bipartisan manner and the results will be made available to the Congress and the public," said the senators' letter. "In our judgment, the priorities you establish can be of real guidance to the Congress in the decade ahead."

The poll's $30,000 cost will be borne by the 13-million-member American Association of Retired Persons.

National Retired Teachers Association, the nation's largest aging group. Results are not expected for at least a month.

The survey is being taken because White House Conference officials "have made no attempt — either during or following the conference — to obtain a sense of the delegates' priorities from among more than 600 recommendations," the AARP said in a statement.

The official conference survey was mailed last month to the 4,000 delegates and observers. Ballots must be mailed back by Jan. 22, and a report must be sent to Congress by June 30. The ballots included a 276-page list of the 668 conference recommendations, asking delegates to rate the overall results, the work of each of the 14 committees and each recommendation.

Aging groups, who repeatedly charged the administration with trying to stack the conference in President Reagan's favor, also criticized the survey. They said it was "almost impossible to decipher," and one likened it to "being asked to answer hundreds of essay questions."

Although the Republican-run Senate aging committee was not that harshly critical, it is concerned the official ballot did not allow delegates to list which priorities they want enacted into law, said staff director John Rother. The Senate-AARP survey will include priority listings.

"It's a shame it's necessary," said Steve Mehlman of the AARP. "But it is needed to clarify things."

Aging groups have expressed concern the official survey will also include observers, who did not take part in conference votes. The AARP-Senate poll will include only delegates.

The AARP-Senate telephone survey will be conducted by Hamilton and Staff, a Washington firm. It is at least the second survey of conference delegates. A Republican National Committee survey before the conference prompted criticism: the information would be used to rig committees in the administration's favor.

The conference, which ran from Nov. 30 to Dec. 4, approved a wide range of recommendations. Not all were to the administration's liking. The Social Security Committee — the conference's most controversial — endorsed recommendations in accord with administration views, but other committees approved just the opposite.

Supreme Court may nix ERA ruling

Saturday, January 16, 1982 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court indicated Friday it is considering throwing out a controversial lower court decision that congressional extension of the Equal Rights Amendment ratification deadline was unconstitutional.

The justices asked the National Organization for Women and the state of Idaho to respond by no later than next Wednesday to a Justice Department suggestion to vacate the ruling by U.S. District Judge Marion Callister in Idaho.

The department told the high court Thursday that Callister's decision was "premature," since the amendment has not yet been ratified by enough states.

NOW wants the court to grant a speedy review to the case and to declare that Callister acted unconstitutionally.

If they vacate Callister's decision, the justices would be refusing to go that far — meaning that if the women's rights amendment is ratified as part of the Constitution, it could still face a court challenge on the issue of Congress' approval of the extension deadline.

In Oklahoma City, Eleanor Smeal, national president of NOW, called Friday's court action "a very encouraging sign. We asked the court to expedite. They are asking for a response even faster than we had asked."

The Reagan administration is opposing the move to rule quickly on the controversy. But it suggested the court might consider delaying further consideration until after the new ratification deadline, June 30, 1982. The original deadline was March 22, 1979.

The administration contends it is too soon to rule on the issue because ratification of ERA has not occurred and may never occur unless three additional states accept it by July 1.

So far, 35 of the necessary 38 states have ratified it, but five have voted to rescind their ratification.

Callister's ruling last month also held that those states had the right to take back their ratification.

NOW is asking the Supreme Court to rule quickly that Congress has the power to extend the ratification deadline, in order to end what it describes as "artificial confusion" surrounding the final drive for ratification.

The government, however, told the high court, "We have no objection to the expedited consideration of the case." But expedited briefing and oral argument in this matter is, in our view, inadvisable."

The department added, "Unlike NOW, we find the substantive issues in this case, and the political question issue, to be difficult and complex. They require an investigation of a number of sources of law."

Thirty-one senators Thursday asked Attorney General William French Smith to change his mind and seek an accelerated Supreme Court review.

Controversy over the administration's position on the case erupted last week after the Justice Department disclosed it would appeal. That decision angered conservatives, including a group that sent a protest letter to President Reagan.

A day later, the department issued a statement explaining its position, and said it would oppose any effort to speed up review of the case.

New York governor won't try for third

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey announced Friday he would not seek reelection to a third term, shocking both Democrats and Republicans and setting the stage for a heated battle to succeed him.

After informing his cabinet of his decision to end his tenure as New York's 51st governor, Carey told a packed Capitol news conference he would devote full energies to trying to push through his last proposed state budget.

"I cannot fulfill this commitment and at the same time immerse myself in the day-to-day details of the campaign trail," the Democrat chief executive said. "I will, then, neither seek nor accept the nomination for governor."

A number of aides said the governor was genuinely concerned that politics would play too large a role in the upcoming budget. Carey has said the budget would be tight because of the economy and federal cuts and has hinted that new taxes or fees may be necessary — unpopular items in an election year.

Carey, 62, left open the possibility he would continue to speak out on national issues and aides said the governor intended to keep his name known in the public.

That sparked speculation that Carey might consider making himself available as a possible Democratic presidential candidate in 1984.

Reagan's Senate allies say tax rise necessary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, running out of time to make a decision on tax hikes, listened Friday to budgetary advice from Republican allies in the Senate.

But he continued resisting the idea of cutting the growing federal deficit with a tax increase.

Reagan saw Senate Republican leader Howard Baker, chairman Bob Dole of the Finance Committee and chairman Pete Domenici of the Budget Committee as he placed his way through the 1983 budget.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said another meeting with House and Senate allies may take place next week.

At issue are tax increases in fiscal 1983. Reagan doesn't want them, but the lawmakers and some of his advisers are pressuring him to accept tax hikes as a way to lower the whopping federal deficit.

Reagan is expected to announce his decision in the State of the Union address Jan. 26 and later in his budget message to Congress, expected Feb. 8.

HOWARD BAKER no decision

Domenici said he expressed hope that the deficit in 1984 can be down to $50 billion. Some economic projections put the figure roughly twice as high.

He said there is little incentive to further cut back social programs, although he did say Reagan is considering "a number of entitlement changes."

"We have to raise taxes in the '84, '85 time frame," Domenici said, "and somewhere in the neighborhood of $45 billion to $55 billion in those years."

Asked if Reagan is being drawn "kicking and screaming" to his conclusion, Domenici said, "I don't want to kick and scream about anything today."

The three senators talked about a number of potential tax increases in such things as excise levies, minimum taxes or a tax on deregulated natural gas. Baker said Reagan has "not ruled out any of the suggestions that we've made."

Economists say taxes were cut too much

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three leading economists said Friday Congress went too far in slashing taxes last year and should move quickly to delay or rescind the third year of the tax cut for individuals.

Barry Bosworth, director of the Council of Wage and Price Control in the Carter administration, and Rudolph Penner of the conservative American Enterprise Institute agreed that a 15 percent personal income tax reduction, instead of the full 25 percent, was sufficient to stimulate personal investment when linked with other savings incentives in last year's tax cut bill.

Chase Econometrics, president Lawrence Chimerine, who also testified Friday before the House budget task force on economic policy and productivity, concurred that the final stage of the personal tax cut was unnecessary and potentially harmful in light of massive projected federal deficits.

The final 10 percent across-the-board reduction in tax rates for individuals — which would bring the cumulative personal tax cut to 25 percent — is scheduled for July 1983. The initial 5 percent cut took effect Oct. 1, 1980, and the next 10 percent cut will go into effect July 1.

The three agreed that increased military spending, insufficient budget cuts and a tax cut program will push the federal budget deeper into the red unless some drastic action is taken quickly.

Combined with a restrictive monetary policy, the growing deficit "causes interest rates to stay high and (they) will go up again in 1982," Chimerine said.

He told the panel, "Tax cuts must be scaled back and new tax increases enacted . . . The key is to get the deficit under control."

Chimerine urged quick action because persistent rumors and uncertainty about which part of last year's massive tax cut program may be rescinded has caused businesses "to be even more reluctant to make investment."

He also recommended suspension of indexation of the tax system — which would prevent taxpayers from being bumped into higher brackets if pay increases merely kept pace with inflation. It is scheduled to go into effect in 1985.

Penner said the third year of the personal income tax cut "should be delayed or rescinded." Although he favors indexing the tax system, Penner said, "For pragmatic reasons it may be necessary to postpone indexing."

He also suggested the administration consider closing tax loopholes and increasing excise taxes as a means of boosting government revenue — two proposals reportedly being considered by President Reagan.

Senator held in Poland

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., talking to reporters in the glare of television lights in a crowded supermarket in Warsaw, Friday was briefly detained by police because he photographed them questioning the film crews.

"All of a sudden a man came over and took the camera out of my hand," Pressler, R-S.D., told reporters in Warsaw.

Two officials of the American embassy accompanying Pressler quickly stepped in to recover his camera and resolve the incident, State Department spokesman Art Romborg said. Pressler and the crew recovered their cameras and film and were released in about 30 minutes, he said.

"I have nothing to suggest this was a personal harassment of Sen. Pressler," Romborg said.

This weathered pickup truck bumper may have begun its "life" in another state; road salt does little damage in Idaho

Salt used in clearing state's roads won't seriously rust a car

Little is used; impact can be mitigated

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — If the fenders on your automobile resemble Swiss cheese covered with brown fungi, chances are the car was born and raised in another state.

While Idaho highway officials have been sanding and salting highways for the past month, the concentrations of sodium chloride (salt) are well below those used in most states.

Transportation officials say Idaho's dry climate and clean air should minimize any rust damage that occurs from the salted roadways.

Idaho highways receive less salt partly because the state's accident rate per vehicle-mile is low and partly because salt is expensive to transport.

The state Department of Transportation mixes about five percent salt in most of the sand it dispenses, largely to keep moisture in the sand from freezing in the trucks, says Roy Jump, the DOT operations management supervisor.

The practice dates back 25 years, Jump says, and there has been no substantial impact on vehicle fenders and quarter panels. No salt is used at all in some cases because Tava cinders, which are available in some parts of the state, do not cake as readily as sand.

Idaho uses about 10,000 tons of salt a year on its roadways. By comparison, Utah uses 89,000 tons in a stretch largely confined to the Ogden, Provo and Salt Lake City areas.

Safety is the major reason salt is used in Utah, according to Michael Belangie, a research engineer in the state's highway department. Ice melts at 16 degrees Fahrenheit when coated with salt.

"The faster we can get to dried pavement, the quicker we can reduce injury accidents," Belangie says. State accident records from 1971 to 1973 showed 20 accidents per million passenger-miles on snow-covered roads and only three accidents per million passenger-miles on dry roads.

Idaho, in the same period, had only 6.5 accidents per million passenger-miles on snow-covered roads and two accidents per million passenger-miles on dry pavement.

Still, Jump advises that people who value their vehicles should wash them more frequently while ice and water are present on the roads.

Automobile design changes are as responsible as salt for vehicle rust problems that have occurred since the mid-1950s, Belangie says.

Reducing the thickness of sheet metal by half, he contends, makes it eight times more likely to rust through with prolonged exposure to water, salt and pollutants.

Additional facts on rust, rustproofing and the automobiles that are most susceptible to rusting problems are available in "Rust Never Sleeps," a booklet available for $1 from: Office of the Attorney General, Consumer and Antitrust Division, Statehouse Station 6, Augusta, Maine, 04333.

Rust has taken its toll on this truck's fender

PCA alleges Ellis eluding foreclosure

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Less than a month after a receiver was appointed to oversee the fish stocks of Buhl trout farmer Ken Ellis, lawyers for his creditors filed in court Monday alleging that Ellis was trying to circumvent the liquidation.

Appearing in Fifth District Court, lawyers for the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association told Judge Theron Ward that Ellis had used his corporate structure to avoid giving receiver Robert Erkins control over the proceeds from the sale of fresh and frozen fish.

As a result, Ward ordered Erkins' authority expanded to cover a related Ellis firm, Magic Springs Inc. Erkins' expanded authority went into effect immediately.

The PCA, which nominated Erkins to be the receiver, over Ellis's objections, has filed an $8.6 million foreclosure proceeding against the Buhl trout farmer.

It alleges that Ellis borrowed $7,897,242 during the period from March 1, 1978, until Nov. 30, 1981. In addition, the PCA claims that Ellis owes another $568,081 on the borrowed funds.

Essentially, PCA was unwilling to advance more money to the trout farm operation unless a receiver was appointed. Under the conditions of the receivership, any further loans authorized by Erkins will receive a top priority for reimbursement.

Because Ellis did not enter into any security agreements with the PCA over his Magic Springs operation, that company originally was not placed under Erkins' authority following the court hearing last month.

But Walter Nelson, the general manager of PCA's Twin Falls branch, alleges in an affidavit filed with the court Tuesday, that Ellis had begun using an intercompany accounting system to place his fish-sale operations under Magic Springs.

The affidavit also alleges that no bank account under the name of Magic Springs existed, and that the use of that company as a sales office channeled sales proceeds directly to Ellis.

Nelson said that the PCA's security in the fish stocks was dwindling each day that the situation was allowed to continue.

Wendell's mayor 'fires' police chief

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — The mayor of Wendell has decided not to reappoint Police Chief Otis Lumpkin.

At Thursday's City Council meeting, Mayor Otto Lemke also decided to reappoint a city clerk or a treasurer, giving no reason for his actions.

"I'd rather not (give reasons) right at the present time," Lemke said after the meeting. "If they come back on me, then I'll have to give a reason."

On Friday, Lemke, who has been mayor for eight years, said publicly over the matter of not reappointing the police chief is "uncalled for."

"It (publicly) makes it pretty rough on some people," the mayor said.

When asked for a definite reason, Lemke said, "Just all it is, is public relations. That's the problem, really. We just didn't work together is all."

Lumpkin, the city's police chief since November 1978, was less casual about the dismissal.

"He never gave me a reason," Lumpkin said. "I asked him why, and he said, 'Well, I don't need a reason,' so I left it at that. I think it's a grudge."

Lumpkin said the mayor told him on Nov. 19 that no reappointment would be made. "Nothing was ever said prior to this in any respect," he said. "It was a shock. Whatever reason he gave you, that was more than he gave me."

He (Lemke) mentioned once that I didn't mingle enough with the people. He was real vague in the way he said it, but that's how I understood him."

City ordinances require the appointment or reappointment by the mayor, with approval by council, of all city officers, including the police chief, clerk and treasurer, at the first meeting in January.

When Lemke asked for comments on his actions during the meeting, Councilman Mike Weinstein pointed out that council only has the authority to approve or disapprove appointments. When no appointments are made, council cannot act.

To fire a police chief, Lumpkin said, city ordinances indicate the mayor would have needed a two-thirds majority vote from council. The mayor then would have 10 days to appoint someone else.

But no reappointment is not the same as being fired.

Lemke said Friday that he has no plans to appoint another police chief. As the city's police commissioner, he plans to work with the city's remaining police officers, Ed Baer and Mike Tambini, to cover Lumpkin's duties.

North Side Canal manager predicts excellent water year

By LAURY MASHER
Times-News writer

JEROME — 1982 should be an excellent water year, according to Ted Diehl, the general manager for the North Side Canal Co.

The company used 618,227 of its allotted 899,766 acre-feet of storage water last year, leaving 191,749 acre-feet of carryover for the 1982 season, Diehl told about 50 persons at the company's annual meeting, held in the Central Elementary School auditorium in Jerome on Friday morning.

Projections on the company's financial status also look promising, said Donald Rahe, a Twin Falls auditor. Rahe said the figures shown in his report may appear misleading, however.

"It looks like a lot of red ink, but we planned it that way," he said.

The report shows an excess expenditure of $140,304, but Rahe said that was not caused by an incurred debt.

In 1977, he said the canal company was asked to appropriate $131,000 for preliminary plan designs used in the replacement of the American Falls Dam.

After completion of the project, the federal government returned the money to the canal company because it was not needed.

Rahe said that the company recorded the returned money as an excess, but it actually used it for maintenance operations.

The remaining $11,304 in excess expenditures was used for rip-rap work, at American Falls Dam, he said. The work stabilizes stream banks to prevent erosion.

Before it was replaced, leaks from the American Falls Dam restricted the water level and caused it to drop significantly. Afterward, the water level rose again, which caused the erosion problems, Rahe said.

The company hopes that the planned construction of three power plants along the North Side Canal will help to cut down on excess expenditures, because the facilities will produce salable power.

The additional revenue could offset the rip-rap costs at the dam.

The canal company has been planning for the construction of a power plant by Milner Dam, but the operation has been slowed by bureaucracy, Diehl said.

A power plant that generates more than nine megawatts must obtain a preliminary permit to begin engineering, he said, and the capacity at the Milner Dam site probably would be about 50 megawatts.

The two other proposed plants, which may be located at Wilson Lake and in the Bliss area, will not require permits because they won't exceed the nine-megawatt limit, Diehl said.

Although he fears that further red tape may postpone the power-plant operation for as much as three years, Diehl said that he hopes construction will be under way by fall.

It may take five years to construct the hydroelectric facilities, but Rahe said the company expects the rip-rap work to continue for at least 10 years.

During the past year, the canal company also suffered slightly due to unexpected costs for insurance and employee benefits, and it spent money to continue a Bureau of Reclamation study to rehabilitate the restricted dam at Jackson Lake, Rahe said.

The problem involves a need to stabilize the earthen 4,600-foot dike portion of the dam to prevent "liquefaction" in the event of an earthquake. Restricting the water level has been a temporary solution. A final solution is years away, he said, but Bureau of Reclamation studies have shown that compaction of the embankment and foundation materials are a possible solution to the dam's instability.

Restrictions on the reservoir level use up a substantial portion of the company's stored water, Diehl said, which could affect greatly the system's water supply. He said the company is doing everything possible to speed the rehabilitation work on the dam.

Other expenditures made by the company last year included the purchase of a tractor loader, which is used in the Hazelton area, and four small pickup trucks.

Rahe said he was impressed with the canal company's ability to handle finances.

"Overall, they are really in excellent shape," he said. "This is due to its excellent administration."

State files complaint against gem firm for deceptive tactics

Firm denies charges, is suing BBB over allegation it ran pyramid scheme

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

BOISE — A company accused of running a pyramid scheme by the state Better Business Bureau was charged Friday with violating state consumer-protection and securities laws.

As part of its complaint, the state Department of Finance and Idaho's attorney general are asking that the company repay any people who may have lost money while participating in its program.

The company, Precious Stones International, sells gem stones — silt unseen — for $2,000, plus sales tax. In addition, a person can earn $7,000 in commissions by selling stones to two other people, who each sell to two others, who sell to two others, for a total of 14 sales.

Precious Stones was formed in August. The company had its greatest initial success in the Burley area. According to company figures, sales to Idaho residents totaled several hundred thousand dollars.

A hearing on the case is scheduled in Fourth District Court in Boise on Jan. 26. Named in the complaint are: Precious Stones and its parent company, Management Funding Inc., both Salt Lake City companies; Jonathan Bowerbank, the president of Precious Stones; Pat McBride, its principal stockholder and gem supplier; and several other company representatives, including Burley drug store owner Sylvia "Siv" Morley.

In November, a news release from the state Better Business Bureau called Precious Stones a pyramid-type network. The bureau warned people that by bringing friends or relatives into the network, they could be contributing to their ultimate financial loss when the supply of new buyers ran out.

In December, Management Funding Inc. sued the BBB for libel and slander. The suit asked for $1.25 million in damages.

The state Department of Finance had begun an informal investigation of Precious Stones before it ever made headlines. Later in its investigation, the department purchased several stones.

A news release issued jointly by department Director Thomas McDowd and Attorney General David Leroy, charges Precious Stones with using unfair and deceptive practices to market its gems. The company is further charged with misrepresenting the value of the stones it sells, the potential income from being involved with the network and the potential risk.

Bowerbank, the Precious Stones president, said he is "completely comfortable" with the company's sales program and product.

Not wanting to slip "water under the bridge," Lumpkin said that his house is for sale and that he does not want to "make a big thing" of his release.

"I'm not going to get into a mud-slinging thing here," he said. "The job just isn't worth it." He said that he has no immediate plans for the future.

"We had a lot of law enforcement going in the last few months," Lumpkin said. "I thought things were going along great, but apparently he (Lemke) didn't see it that way."

The mayor apparently is having a contest with the city's clerk, Mary Wofford, who has held her job almost five years.

Near the end of Thursday's meeting, after new council members M.M. "Dick" Beck and Marshall Howdens were sworn in and other business was taken care of, Lemke and Wofford argued over what her duties should be.

The mayor asked Wofford to continue performing the duties of city clerk and treasurer until he made appointments. "I don't want to do the treasurer's duties for several years without formal appointment to that position," he said.

"If I'm appointed as city clerk, I'll do the city clerk's job," Wofford said. "If I'm appointed as treasurer, I'll do the treasurer's job. If I'm appointed to both, I'll do both."

"You can meet me halfway," Lemke said, asking Wofford to do the treasurer's job without appointment until next Wednesday, when a special meeting will be held at 4:30 p.m. at City Hall to discuss the issue further.

Wofford did agree to continue working as city clerk without appointment until the meeting.

In an interview Friday, Wofford said she did not want to continue doing the treasurer's duties without the title, partly because of the confusion it could cause.

"If I'm going to do the job, I want the title," she said. "If somebody else has the title, then I'm doing somebody else's work."

Wofford told council she had made four efforts to go to Lemke's home to discuss several problems - all of which were not identified during Thursday's meeting - but had been unsuccessful.

Lemke emphasized to the new council that he hoped everyone could work together and avoid conflicts.

RONALD HAMILTON
QUESTION...
Neither my husband nor I are religious people. We do not want a religious funeral, but for the sake of our children we do want a funeral service. What do you do in cases like ours?
ANSWER...
Although funeral services are held in the memory of the person who passed away, it is the influence of these services upon the survivors that bears the most consideration. It may be true that in the strict sense of church attendance you may not consider yourself a religious person; but it is doubtful that you intend completely to eliminate the thought of God from your funeral.
Since a funeral is essentially a religious service and since funeral services are held because they bring consolation to those who are left behind, you might consider leaving the choice of what shall be done entirely up to your children. There are many clergymen in Twin Falls who understand your attitude and can be very helpful to your survivors when the time comes.

Politics is part of 'housework' for the first lady

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Political campaigns may be rigorous, demanding and tiring, but Lola Evans says she enjoys them.

In Twin Falls on Thursday night to address a March of Dimes meeting, she says she is looking forward to this year's gubernatorial campaign in which her husband, Gov. John V. Evans, is expected to be the Democratic nominee.

"I'm a slow starter, but once I get caught up in it (political campaign), I enjoy it," she says. "I guess it's the opportunity to meet so many people around the state. It's very exciting."

Lola should be used to it now. Her husband was first elected to public office at the age of 27. She helped with his first campaign and has been helping ever since.

"We have been in politics in one form or another all of our married life," she says. "Our children were raised on politics and public life, and they have always helped with the campaigns."

Her husband, a native of Malad, served first in the Idaho Senate and then left to spend six years as mayor of Malad. At the end of this period, he returned to state government and has remained there since.

Lola, a trim and vivacious blonde, says she has no political ambitions of her own, but she likes working as a volunteer for other candidates, especially when it's in the family.

Her clear blue eyes light up when she talks about the governor's plans for a re-election campaign.

"If I were not running for office, I would probably volunteer my efforts to help another favorite candidate or work for the party as a whole. I like it, and I think I would miss it," she says.

"In the last campaign, I talked to a lot of high schools. Believe me, those young students are sharp. If you don't know the answers, you had better admit it and go from there."

She says she tries not to get involved in the heavy issues during legislative sessions and even campaigns.

"I explain his stand on the issues, but if I don't know the details, I admit it."

Lola will have fewer responsibilities at home in the 1982 campaign. The couple's youngest son, 15, is the only one of the Evans' five children still at home. The next youngest, a daughter, is a freshman in college.

Two pet projects for the state's first lady are the statewide immunization program and the annual March of Dimes. She has been working with the immunization effort since it was brought to the foreground by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare and the state's six various health districts.

"Whenever a school district reaches a 90-percent immunization level, I visit there and personally present a certificate of achievement. We must be doing very well. I have been in most areas of the state on behalf of the program this past year."

The goal of the program is statewide immunization of at least 90 percent of the state's school-age children against the most prominent childhood diseases. She says the state is making good progress.

CETA aims job program at dropouts

TWIN FALLS — Under-educated youth in the Magic Valley will be targeted for the area's youth employment program this summer.

That decision was made following a vote by the Area IV Manpower Planning Board on Thursday.

About $200,000 has been allocated for the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act's summer youth program in the Magic Valley, which runs from June through August. According to acting Area IV planner Anita Lemmon, the program is one of the few CETA projects to have emerged virtually intact under the Reagan budget cuts.

Lemmon estimated that 300 to 350 youths in the Magic Valley area were served by the summer employment program in 1981.

Under the Area IV board's decision, 90 percent of the youth served by the program this year will have less than 12 years of education. Other target groups include persons in the 16-to-19 age group, females, criminal offenders and the handicapped.

The board also directed program administrators to see that the program encourages participants to either remain or return to school, and provides them with training designed to enhance their ability to find work.

Block grants will emphasize business growth

TWIN FALLS — Plans to administer an estimated $6.4 million dollars in community block grant funds were presented to Magic Valley officials Thursday.

A proposal to place greater emphasis on economic development is chief among those plans, which were outlined by representatives of the state Division of Economic and Community Affairs.

The guidelines will place less emphasis on housing projects than in the past, according to Jan Blickenstaff, a community development specialist with DECA.

Instead, the state agency intends to give a higher priority to economic development programs, such as business loans and downtown revitalization projects.

"We're not looking at long-range projects where something is built and nothing happens," he said.

Last year, Congress voted to give the states control over the block grant program. Previously, it had been administered through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Since then, city, county and state government officials in Idaho have devised a proposed framework for administering the state's share of the grant program through DECA.

Blickenstaff said the proposed administrative system would simplify application procedures in order to benefit smaller communities, which generally can't afford the expertise needed to handle massive government red tape.

About 20 people attended the presentation in Twin Falls, which is one of a series of hearings being held throughout the state on the proposal. Thursday's hearing took the form of a question-and-answer session.

Following the hearings, state officials plan to finalize the guidelines in March and begin accepting applications for the grants in April. Projects could receive funding by next summer under that schedule.

Jerome group will host writer

JEROME — A magazine author and political science instructor will speak about futuristic goals for mankind this Tuesday, Jan. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the Fireside Restaurant in Jerome.

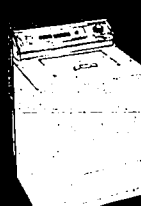

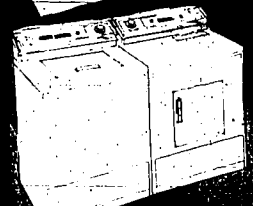

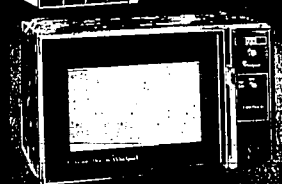

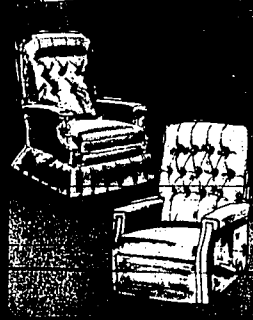

F.R. Mabbitt, who teaches at Boise State University, will base his discussion on an article titled "Abundance for All" that he recently had published in Realities magazine.

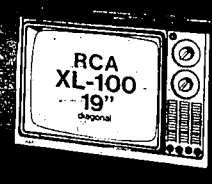

The event is sponsored by the Society for the Prevention of Mental Atrophy, a group formed in May that wants to add culture to the lives of Jerome residents.

Member Chris Pepper says the group will sponsor monthly speakers. A social hour, which begins at 6:30 p.m., will precede Mabbitt's speech.

There is a $3 fee for the event.

Vandals defeat ISU, lead Big Sky

MOSCOW — Defending champion University of Idaho, breaking away in the early second half, dropped Idaho State 73-62 Friday night to seize sole possession of the Big Sky Conference lead.

With some 8,500 looking on, guards Brian Kellerman and Kenny Owens, with a big scoring help from Phil Hopson, paced the flurry that ended a tight battle.

The victory was Idaho's third straight in the conference while Idaho State, now 9-3, absorbed its first league loss and is 2-1. It also was the Vandals' 27th straight homecourt and 14th consecutive victory, both school records.

Both go back on the line tonight when the Vandals entertain the Weber State Wildcats. Idaho State stays on the road, traveling to Boise State.

BSU slipped Weber Friday night, meaning the Broncos and ISU will be tied for second place going into the battle.

Meanwhile, Big Sky Conference Commissioner Ron Stephenson announced the game would be televised on a delay basis by channel 4 of Boise at 8 a.m. today.

The second-half Vandal breakout was more decisive than the first score indicated. With just over 12 minutes left, Idaho built up an 18-point lead and held 16-18 point advantages over the next four minutes.

With five minutes left, Coach Don Monson put his Vandals into a delay game and last held the big margin at 68-52, Idaho, usually a five-man team, substituted with two minutes left and ISU closed to the final margin.

In the first 14 minutes of the second half, Idaho hit 13 of 16 field goal attempts. ISU wasn't a lot colder, hitting eight of 12. But the Vandals came up with several steals and turnovers.

Those turnovers started with the second half. Kellerman and Owens yo-yoed a steal into a crumple after Kellerman picked up a freebie in the opening seconds.

That seemed to rock the Bengals and over the first five minutes of the half, they were outscored 10-2.

After that, Idaho got its fast break cranked up with Owens hitting two field goals. Kellerman hit a three-point plan and Hopson got inside for a slam dunk to wrap up the break-away. That made it 51-35 with 12:15 remaining.

Monson said the early second half effort wasn't something that just happened.

"We talk about that at every halftime...the team getting off to the best start getting the advantage," the coach said. "But, boy, they are a good team. It was a tough game. I'm sure not looking forward to playing them in Pocatello."

The coach smiled when informed his team had hit 28 of 44 field goal attempts.

"That's the way it's supposed to be," he laughed.

Owens led the way with 21 points, hitting eight of 10 from the field and five of seven at the line. Kellerman was the only Vandal started who didn't score at least 12 points.

It was tied regularly until eight when Idaho broke out to a four-point lead. The Vandals, with Kevin Smith and Phil Hopson scoring, moved out to 18-13 and stayed ahead by five for a while. Their biggest lead came at 24-17 on a jumper by Gordie Herbert. But immediately, Jack Flurey hit two field goals, Mike Denkers a pair of free throws and Dale Wilkinson a close-in jumper.

That showed ISU into its first lead at 25-24 as Idaho went five minutes without a point.

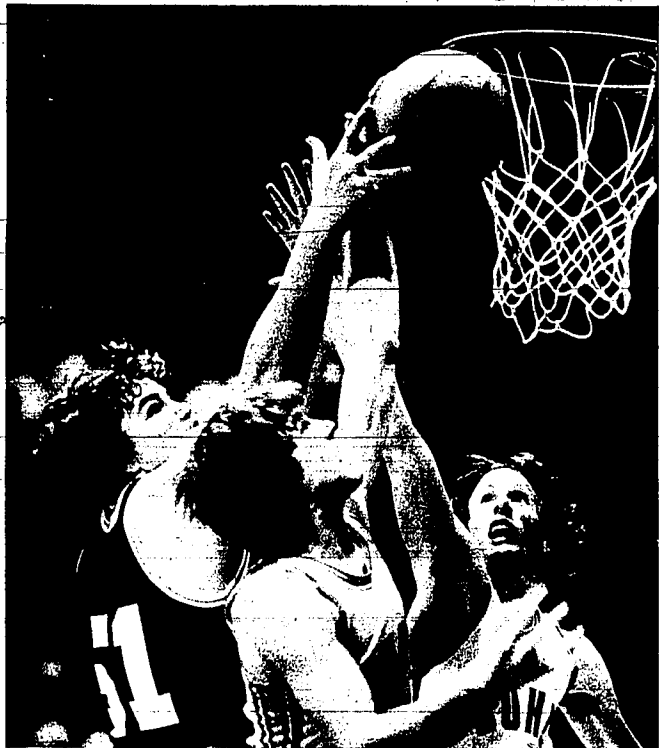

Pete Priggs and Denkers had off-setting points to maintain that status but with 2:03 left, Idaho came up with a four-point play. Kenny Owens was fouled, hitting the first free throw but missing the second. ISU knocked the ball out of bounds and on the in-bounds play, Priggs converted a three-pointer.

ISU's Robert Tate cut the lead to one but Owens and Hopson wound up the half with Vandal points.

Idaho State held the ball last 57 seconds for a last shot, but it bounced away.

Jerome best in a wild finish for second victory over Buhl

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

BUHL — It resembled a controlled scrimmage for the first 28 minutes. Not surprisingly, mayhem replaced deliberation in the final four minutes.

But Jerome's Rusty Palmer and David Nishimoto maintained their control throughout the late going, enabling the Tigers to edge Buhl Friday night, 43-39.

Palmer sank six consecutive free throws in the last 3:05, providing the Tigers with all but four of their points in the stretch drive.

"He's not at all bashful about going to the line," Jerome Coach Pat Hoke said of Palmer. "He's been one of our better free-throw shooters. As a team we've shot only 51 percent, but he's been right around 60."

The four points Palmer didn't score were tallied by Nishimoto, a 5-foot-10 reserve who twice wiggled through a host of Indian defenders around the left baseline and dropped in layups. Nishimoto totalled seven points, all coming in the decisive fourth quarter.

Though Nishimoto has received irregular playing time — "One night he'll get 16 minutes; other nights, like against Burley, he'll get about two," Hoke said — his heroics didn't come as a surprise.

"We know he can do it. He does it (take the ball to the basket) quite a bit in practice," Hoke said of the transfer from Shoshone. "I'm very proud of what he did."

The Indians, who lost to Jerome last week by the same four-point margin, 39-34, entered the final period this time with a 32-26 lead. With 3:59 to go Mark Lively sank one of two free throws and Buhl still led, 35-31.

Then urgency and tension, which had been cloaked by both teams' deliberate styles, came to the fore.

Trying to consume time by slowing their offense even further, the Indians committed a turnover, allowing Jerome's Zane Ostler to cut it to 35-33 with a 15-footer.

On Buhl's next possession, Palmer stole the ball from Darin Strickler, who fouled the enterprising Tiger. With 3:05 left, Palmer began his

Eagles hosting unfamiliar Albuquerque team tonight

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho, continuing to prepare for critical regional games beginning next week, will meet the Albuquerque Musketeers at 8 tonight at the Golden Eagle gymnasium.

The Musketeers present a special problem for the Eagles in that they are an AAU team. Because of that, Coach David Campbell hasn't been able to pick up any scouting report on them.

"What I do know about them is just general," he said. "They've only played two college teams, I don't know how those came out and I don't know what their record is."

But Campbell feels the Musketeers will be a good team because of its maturity. The Albuquerque team won the southwest regional AAU title last spring and its roster is liberally sprinkled with veterans with college experience.

The Musketeers match up quite well in height, headed by 6-9 Mike Bornfield. The roster also includes 6-6 Cliff Stoeltze, 6-5 Jerry Persson and 6-7 Mike Davis.

Campbell noted the Musketeers will have the advantage in experience and maturity but added he was hopeful his Eagles would get part of that back with better conditioning.

From the CSI standpoint, Campbell said everyone was healthy.

"We're just going to go out and try to get after them," he said.

The season begins to get critical for the Eagles next week and the coach was somewhat pleased with the fact that the Utah State junior varsity game that was weathered out Jan. 5 has been rescheduled for Wednesday.

This will give CSI one last game to tuneup before Ricks comes into Twin Falls next Saturday to kickoff the hunt for post-season tournament berths.

Ricks, trailing by 20 points early in the second half, came back to nip the Eagles by two in the Casper Tournament in November. Since then, Ricks has added Elijah Jackson, who in seven games became the team's season-leading rebounder and bounced into second place in total points scored. Beating Ricks has become even more critical in light of disciplinary action at North Idaho which resulted in the ouster of the Cardinals' leading scorer.

That is because of a regional rule that says in cases of ties, the regional site will be awarded to the team that hosted it least recently. If CSI and Ricks should tie, Ricks would get the host designation.

"That may be counting chickens before they hatch," Campbell said. "North Idaho still has two very good ball players from last year and I'm sure (Coach Rolfe) Williams has more than adequate replacements for the guy they lost. But right now we are gearing toward the thought that we will have to win all six regional games to get the tournament on our court."

Bailey's 20-footer defeats Weber St.

BOISE — Eric Bailey hit a 20-foot jumper with three seconds left to cap a second-half long comeback and give Boise State a 76-75 decision over Weber State Friday night.

Bailey was the key to the comeback as he potted 14 second-half points, hitting seven of 11 from the field. When his shot split the net, it marked the first time BSU was ahead since a 6-2 advantage in the opening minutes.

Three times BSU had to come up with flurries to ease Weber leads because the Wildcats had three spurts in which they outscored the Broncos 10-2.

The last one started with Weber holding a 44-42 lead. When it ended, the Wildcats had a 10-point advantage and the margin stayed eight or 10 from the 13-minute mark until the closing four minutes despite the red-hot shooting of Bailey.

But the Broncos' defense started coming up with some steals and turnovers in the first several minutes. With just over four minutes left, Bailey cut the deficit to six points at 71-65. Tyrone Scott and Bailey then picked up points to pull Boise State into within two to 2:36 left.

Todd Harper got a pair of Weber free throws 43 seconds later but with 1:09 to play, Scott hit another bucket.

Weber broke the BSU press for a credit by Doug Elertson. Bailey replied immediately for Boise State. Weber then tried to waste the last 37 seconds but turned the ball over within 17 seconds.

Bruins-Bees game delayed until Feb. 6

TWIN FALLS — Eastern Idaho's high winds and drifting again rewrite the Twin Falls basketball schedule Friday.

The Bruins' game at Bonneville was blown out, but Idaho Falls High officials were confident they could keep their date in Twin Falls tonight.

Bruin Coach John Astorquia said the Bonneville game will be made up Feb. 9 but with a chance to score. The first change will have Twin Falls going to Bonneville Feb. 6, rather than the Bruins being home as originally scheduled. Bonneville then will return the trip Feb. 9.

Meanwhile, Minico again was out of school Friday but the board of trustees gave the basketball team permission to fulfill away-game dates if necessary. That means, weather abating, that Minico will travel to Highland tonight.

Astoria said because of that decision by the Minico board, Tuesday night's game between Twin Falls and Minico does not have a definite site. If Minico attends school Monday and Tuesday, the game will be played in Rupert as planned. But if school remains closed, Minico will come to Twin Falls with the Bruins repaying the visit next month.

Red Smith dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter "Red" Smith, the Pulitzer Prize-winning sports writer whose grace and gentility with the language won him countless readers and international recognition, died Friday. He was 78.

Smith, who resided in New Canaan, Conn., died at Stamford Hospital in Stamford, Conn., after a brief illness. He is survived by his wife, the former Mrs. Phyllis Warner Weiss, a son, Terence, and a daughter, Catherine, the wife of Dr. Jay Halloran of Grafton, Wis.

In a prepared statement, Times executive editor A.M. Rosenthal said:

"Red Smith embodied the spirit, vigor and youth of sports. Within the Times family, we always felt that bringing him to our staff, even at an age when most men contemplate retirement, allowed us to fulfill a very special trust for sports. We remember him with affection and pride as a wonderful writer and a wonderful man."

Smith was a newspaperman who had style both as a writer and person. He won numerous prizes as a columnist for the New York Herald Tribune and the New York Times. His most notable achievement occurred in 1976 when he was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in journalism for commentary.

Smith, who was born in Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 25, 1905 and was graduated from Notre Dame in 1927, was expert in most sports and knew everybody worth knowing in any sport.

Rejects $3 million from Texas A&M

Schembechler decides to stay at Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan Coach Glenn "Bo" Schembechler Friday decided to remain the football coach of the Wolverines, spurning a $3 million offer to become athletic director-coach of Texas A&M.

"There are things more important than security I think," Schembechler said at an emotion packed news conference. "I've come to the conclusion there are things more important in this world than money — so I'm staying in Michigan."

Schembechler turned down a 10-year contract worth about $300,000 annually.

The response of Michigan people was heart warming," said Schembechler, who will receive a fair raise to stay as Michigan's football coach and continues with the public backing of Don Canham and his successor as athletic director of the Wolverines.

"That's no secret. Don's told me that right along," he said. "But there is no written commitment that I would be the next Michigan athletic director."

"People I consider of the Michigan family came to see me," Schembechler said. "They were very supportive. I feel good about my decision."

"Perhaps if I were not as attached to Michigan or if I were at Miami of Ohio I would have gone."

Schembechler, 53, met Thursday night with Michigan President Harold Shapiro and Athletic Director Don Canham to discuss his future, then called in his assistants to appraise them of the lucrative offer Friday afternoon.

"In all my years I've never been much of a guy to go looking for economic security and opportunities," Schembechler said. "I was almost flabbergasted when this opportunity was presented to me. More than your normal job offer."

"I felt I owed it to my family and myself to take a longer look. Frankly," he said, "it took longer than I thought."

"In the last 13 years there have been other situations like this," he said. "But none of them ever got out in public — which is probably the way it should be."

Reports were Texas A&M offered Schembechler, whose team finished third in the Big Ten last season with a 6-3 mark and defeated UCLA in the Bluebonnet Bowl, an estimated $2.25 million-plus contract for 10 years.

Schembechler's teams have compiled a 123-24-3 mark during his 13 years as Michigan's coach — making his .830 winning percentage among the highest ever. His career record of 183-41-6 ranks him third among active coaches. He spent his first six years as a head coach at Miami of Ohio.

The 79.05 percent Schembechler has for his career ranks him fourth among active coaches behind Oklahoma's Barry Switzer, 90-13-2 (.83.32), Southern California's John Robinson, 59-11-2 (.83.3), and Joe Paterno of Penn State, 151-33-1 (.81.9 percent).

The Big Ten's dean of active coaches has won or shared nine Big Ten championships in his 13 seasons at Michigan and during those years the Wolverines have appeared in nine bowl games.

Just prior to the first of those bowl games, the 1970 Rose Bowl, Schembechler suffered a heart attack and his shocked team stumbled through a 10-0 loss to Southern Cal.

Filer edges Shoshone to hold Canyon lead

SHOSHONE — Randy Tudor tossed in 17 points, leading Filer to a 35-31 decision over Shoshone Friday night.

The win keeps Filer in the Canyon Conference lead with a 4-0 record. Shoshone is 1-3 in conference action.

Four of four at halftime, the Wildcats came back in the third quarter to overtake Shoshone 30-26.

Shoshone managed to come within one point of the Wildcats, but Filer held on to record its fifth victory in seven tries.

Filer, with Tudor, Jay Reinke tossed in 10 points for Filer while Kim Duffin tossed in 16 points for Shoshone.

Shoshone, 2-7, travels to Kimberly tonight while Filer hosts Wendell tonight.

Pats hire Meyer to replace Erhardt

DALLAS (UPI) — Ron Meyer, who left a college team with national championship aspirations to become head coach of the New England Patriots, said Friday he would have all the control he needed with his new club.

"I have known the members of the New England front office for a long time," said Meyer. "I feel I am in great shape with the administration there. I will have the same control there as Tom Landry has with the Dallas Cowboys."

Meyer, who in six years at Southern Methodist turned the Mustangs from a long-term loser into a Southwest Conference champion, said he had mixed emotions at leaving. But he said he had always wanted to be head coach of a professional team so it was one to make the jump.

"I have never kept my ambitions a deep, dark secret," said Meyer. "I always said that when I felt the situation was right I would take advantage of it. Well I feel this situation is extremely right. It may raise some eyebrows, but that is your prerogative."

"I have a chance and I am going to take a swing at it," Meyer reportedly was offered a four-year, $700,000 contract, but Patriots officials did not disclose the terms of the pact. Meyer, who scheduled a 10 a.m. (MST) news conference today at Foxboro's Sheafer Stadium, becomes the eighth head coach in the club's 22-year history.

Although he did not name names, Meyer said he would probably take some members of his coaching staff with him to New England. And he said no decision had yet been made as to what player would be taken with New England's No. 1 draft choice—the top pick in the entire National Football League.

"Evaluation is under way on that," said Meyer.

Since SMU posted a 10-1 record last year and will be a likely preseason pick to win the SWC next season, Meyer said he did not feel he was leaving the Mustangs' cupboard bare.

RON MEYER leaves SMU

"I told the team in our meeting this morning," he said, "that change is good. Sometimes it is like a shot in your carburetor. We envisioned this upcoming recruiting class to be the best SMU has ever had and I don't see any reason that will be affected."

Meyer also said he did not expect to have any trouble making the adjustment from the college ranks into the pro game.

The Patriots' hiring of Meyer closely resembled the situation in which he was brought to Dallas by then-athletic director Dick Davis. Meyer was not the first choice of SMU on that occasion, either.

New England had sought to hire Southern California's Coach John Robinson before turning to Meyer. "That doesn't bother my ego," said Meyer. "I would like to think that the people who are drafted in the third round try to play the game just as hard as those who are drafted first."

Skiing

Ski racing requires a commitment

"So your 10-year-old wants to be a ski racer. Sounds easy enough. Just ask the area operator or the ski school director where the family skies how to enroll him in a racing program."

But, don't expect it to end there. Unless you are prepared to give up some of your own ski time helping keep gates and doing other chores during home races, and spend some weekends traveling to distant ski resorts, you might want to reconsider. Often there's the investment in a little more expensive equipment and racing team uniforms. Non-riding parents might do well to talk with families of other local racers before committing themselves or their youngsters.

If the youngster is serious and willing to work hard, there are a number of good junior racing programs at local resorts. The Sun Valley Ski Education Foundation program, covered in an earlier column, is probably the ideal answer for those living in Blaine County. It is well organized and professionally operated. It functions well with only a little parent help.

Soldier Mountain has a program of several seasons standing and serves youth racing enthusiasts from a number of Magic Valley communities.

Magic Mountain is getting back into the junior racing program this year after an absence of four years.

Through both programs, youngsters will have an opportunity for good instruction and experience. They will be able to compete in local fun races for experience and if they stay with it, can work up to U.S. Ski Association competition in the Intermountain Region, and perhaps earn their way to the Junior Nationals.

Soldier actually has two programs. Harold O. Brown of Gooding coaches the Soldier Mountain division. Kids who range in age from 12 years down to 5 or 6 years.

Dow Bond of Twin Falls is coach for the older, 13- to 18-year-old youngsters.

The Rotarun area at Hailey has a large active program that will be covered in a later column.

A brother-sister team of former racers, David Lierman and Barbi Lierman Denney of Twin Falls are starting a junior program for Magic and Pomerelle juniors.

Coaches are the unsung heroes of any junior racing program. Brown, in his fourth season at Soldier, began coaching at Anchorage, Alaska, three years prior to coming here. In Alaska he worked with 50 to 60 youngsters, with much parent participation.

This year, Brown said, 21 youngsters signed up for his Missile program but the sign-up figure usually dwindles to less than 50 percent when training begins. The youngsters come to the Soldier program from Fairfield, Gooding, Wendell, Jerome, Buhl, Twin Falls and Pomerelle. Brown has been skiing most of his life, having grown up in Aspen, Colo. Like many other coaches, his enthusiasm is spurred on by his own children's racing aspirations.

"My own son has been in the program since he was 5. This is his last year, but my daughter is 10 and has a couple of more years," Brown said.

Bond, a certified ski instructor, who piloted his own youngsters through a junior racing stint, is working with five racers in the upper age bracket.

"We have more difficulty getting the older kids interested and keeping them interested," he said. "They have to work hard and because of distance from the area, we can practice only one day a week. Then we go out and ski against kids who work out on the slopes every day."

Bond said he has a couple of good prospects this year, David Slotten of Twin Falls and Jerome's Jim Hart. Both have raced for two years.

The Magic-Pomerelle squad consists of four youngsters, but Lierman said he expects to add a couple of 6-year-olds and an 11-year-old yet this month.

"This year we are mostly concentrating on getting the program started again but we have some extensive plans for next year," he said.

At Magic and Soldier, skiers work out each Saturday. Racing at Magic is under direction of the ski school and racers purchase books of lessons which gives the coaches a small remuneration for their efforts. In addition, there is a slalom course set up on the mountain Saturday afternoon and is open to all skiers who want to pay $2 to practice and make time run for their own benefit.

Both David and Barbi raced in the USSA for Magic Mountain during the 1970s and brought home their share of awards. They know the ropes of training and racing.

Both began racing at early ages and worked their ways up from novice, to intermediate to expert status in the Intermountain division. Barbi represented Intermountain in the 1978 junior nationals placing just out of the top 10 among 26 racers.

"I think I was 11th in the overall competition, and I wasn't disappointed. I learned a lot and at least I wasn't last," she said with a laugh.

She also placed first in her division in the region several times and in 1976 won a trophy as the most winning (FIS) points for the year. David, racing in the stiffer make competition, won a number of local races, and placed many times among the top 10 in Intermountain USSA events.

The local coaches are looking forward to some races this winter between their area teams to gain beginners some experience. Their older and already experienced racers are planning some USSA competition. Soldier Mountain has such an event for Intermountain skiers scheduled in March and expects entries from southern Idaho, Utah and Wyoming.

Fastest downhill ever recorded

Austrian shuns car crash to surpass record

KITZBUHEL, Austria (UPI) — Hartl Weirather of Austria chopped off more than six seconds from the previous track record on the demanding "Streif" course Friday to win the men's World Cup downhill, marking the third victory for his career in four downhill events this season.

Weirather, 23, defying the psychological strain of a minor car crash on the eve of the race, flashed down the 3,510-meter track in 1:57.20, bettering the previous track record held by his teammate Frank Kammerer by 0.02 seconds.

Steve Podborski of Canada was second in 1:57.89 and his teammate Ken Read third in 1:57.97.

Best U.S. entry was Doug Powell, who came 38th in a time of 2:01.77, followed by Phil Mahre who was 38th in 2:02.29. Mahre, by far the best all-arounder in the world cup circuit, still leads the overall World Cup standings with 170 points, followed by Swedish slalom king Ingemar Stenmark who has 169 points.

"I hope to have a better race here on Saturday," said Mahre. "After all, I was ninth here last year and I should be able to get additional World Cup points by placing in the top 15 tomorrow."

Weirather, the defending World Cup downhill champion who crashed head-on into another car on a fog-covered street Thursday but escaped unhurt, said, "I didn't expect to win under the circumstances. I was certainly slightly nervous after the crash, and my training performances remained below expectations."

In the race, however, Weirather went all out. "I took all possible risks because I knew it was the only way to win," he said. "My winning time was nearly three seconds faster than the times I was clocked in training. It certainly paid off to go all out. I knew the steepest change would come from the Canadians."

Podborski, the only non-Austrian winner of a World Cup downhill this winter, said he lost his chances to win by making a slight mistake shortly after the start.

"You can't win on this demanding track unless you race perfectly from start to finish," said Podborski. "Second place was the best result I could achieve after making this mistake in the upper section."

Read, who came third, said he nearly fell shortly before the finish at the begin of the final section.

"I managed to regain balance, but I lost valuable split seconds." Read said "Under the circumstances, it was the best possible result. It was my best placing this winter anyway."

Weirather schussed down the Streif course, considered the most demanding in the world cup circuit, at an average speed of 107.82 kph — by far the fastest run ever recorded in a downhill race.

Organizers discarded beliefs that the track was "too fast" and involved the risk of heavy injuries for the racers.

"The track was safer than in previous years", one of the organizers said. "The high speed was caused by the excellent snow and smoothed most of the bumps along the course, making it a real Autobahn."

The race was held instead of an earlier World Cup downhill that had to be canceled at Morzine, France, earlier this month because of poor snow conditions.

The traditional Hahnenkamm competition will open Saturday with the annual downhill race, followed by the slalom winding up the event on Sunday.

Austria, Switzerland and Canada underlined their current strength in the downhill event by placing most of their racers in the top 10.

Switzerland had four men in the top 10, Austria three, Canada two. The only outsider was Valer Tyganov of the Soviet Union, who won a World Cup downhill last year at Aspen, Colo., and he will have to be counted among the favorites for the World Championships to be held at Schladming, Austria, later this month.

Kite's 66 puts him in Desert lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Tom Kite, the 1981 money-winning champion and Vardon Trophy winner, shot a six-under-par 66 at La Quinta Friday to grab the third-round lead in the $300,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

Kite, who won only one tournament last year but had 21 top 10 finishes, started the third round of the 90-hole event with a 10-under-par score of 134, two shots behind Japanese phenom Jet Ozaki.

The 66 gave Kite a 54-hole score of 16-under 200 and a one-stroke lead over Ed Flori, who had a 66 at Burmuda Dunes. Ozaki, who was 64-68 in the first two rounds, scrambled all over Eldorado, probably the toughest of the four courses used in the tournament, and thanks to birdies on the final two holes he finished with a 70 that left him another shot back at 292.

Autry, Jackson can't reach agreement

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — California Angels owner Gene Autry met with New York Yankee outfielder Reggie Jackson and his agent for three hours Friday but the two parties failed to reach a contract agreement.

Jackson and his agent, Gary Walker, outlined a tentative contract proposal during the meeting, but the Angels made no counter-offer pending a promised call-back by the club's vice-president Buzzie Bavasi Saturday morning.

Club officials said that Jackson, who is a free agent, has expressed interest in coming to the Angels and the Angels are interested in acquiring his services.

Jackson, eligible for free agency for the second time in his career, has also drawn interest from the Atlanta Braves and the Baltimore Orioles in addition to intriguing the Angels.

Maris not surprised by Hall vote

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Roger Maris, baseball's single-season home run champion, isn't surprised he didn't get voted into the Hall of Fame this year, but he thinks he'll make it some day.

"No, it didn't surprise me," said Maris, who hit 60 home runs for the New York Yankees in 1961. "I lost votes last year. I lost votes this year. Evidently, I haven't done anything to merit getting voted in." Maris received 69 votes in the balloting by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America — 243 short of the number needed for induction. Only Henry Aaron and Frank Robinson made it this year.

Maris, who did not get along with New York sportswriters during his playing days, feels the media never gave him his due and he is surprised anyone would wonder at his lack of Hall of Fame membership.

Anthony named top bowler by TSN

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Earl Anthony, who set a record for earnings last year, was named Professional Bowlers Association Player of the Year Friday by The Sporting News.

The St. Louis-based sporting weekly also named Mark Faby as PBA rookie of the year.

Anthony, of Dublin, Ohio, previously won the award in 1974, 1975 and 1976. He qualified for the finals in 32 of 33 tournaments in 1981, winning four times.

Anthony set a single-season earnings record of $164,735 and needs $53,944 this year to reach the $1 million mark in earnings.

Cincy order; Ben-Gals will go by bus

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals cheerleaders, faced with an ultimatum from team management, have reluctantly agreed to endure the long bus ride to the Super Bowl.

The shapely, high-stepping Ben-Gals aren't excited about the prospect, but the front office has put its foot down: No bus, no Super Bowl.

And when some local businessmen volunteered to donate air fare for the 30 cheerleaders, Bengals management again turned thumbs down: No charity.

The Ben-Gals were told earlier this week they would be forced to take the bus to Pontiac, Mich., — a trip of more than five hours each way — for the Bengals' game with San Francisco. There was no room on the team jet, the Bengals' business office explained.

Union Pacific outlines '82 plans

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Union Pacific Corp. says it plans a capital investment program of $1.3 billion, a 36 percent increase over 1981.

Corporate Chairman James H. Evans said, "Our confidence in the strong prospects for our energy, transportation and natural resources businesses is reflected in this capital program, which is the largest in our history."

"It also underscores our belief that the administration's program to restore vigor and stability to the U.S. economy will produce an environment for sound, long-term growth."

The corporation's operating companies are Union Pacific Railroad Co., Champion Petroleum Co., Rocky Mountain Energy Co. and Union Pacific Industries Corp.

Union Pacific Railroad's 1982 capital budget of $163 million is 21 percent higher than 1981 capital expenditures of $134 million. Nearly 80 percent of the outlays will go to roadway projects, an increase of nearly 50 percent over 1981.

The roadway program will include $33 million for roadway improvement projects on the Salt Lake City to Los Angeles-Los Angeles Beach corridor, which UP said will expedite movement of coal and grain for export to the Far East.

IBM earnings, revenues decline

ARMONK, N.Y. (UPI) — International Business Machines Corp. Friday reported sharply lower earnings and revenues for 1981.

Earnings fell to $5.63 a share from $6.10 a share on 4.3 million fewer shares the previous year.

Net income slipped to $3.30 billion on revenues of $29.07 billion from $3.52 billion in 1980 on revenues of $28.21 billion.

Final quarter earnings were $1.08 billion or $1.63 a share on revenues of $8.89 billion compared with $1.23 billion or $2.11 a share on revenues of $7.805 billion a year earlier.

President John R. Opel said the strong U.S. dollar had a severe adverse impact on the year-to-year comparison of financial results. He said that in spite of gains of $94 million for the year in currency transactions, mainly in business not denominated in the U.S. dollars, the effects of currency rate changes on business volumes pricing and other operating decisions had an impact on the company's business that is hard to quantify.

Opel said gross income from sales of data processing equipment for the year and the fourth quarter increased substantially from the corresponding period of 1980.

He said gross income from all sales increased 18.2 percent and gross income from rentals and services was up 5.7 percent with services revenues up 20.4 percent and rentals down 0.3 percent.

Wyoming uranium properties sell

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Federal-American Partners has announced it will sell its Gas Hills uranium properties to the Tennessee Valley Authority for $4 million plus production royalties.

The properties are current under lease to TVA, but mining and milling operations were suspended in February 1981 because of the depressed uranium industry and probably will not resume before 1985 "at the earliest," Federal-American said.

Sixty percent of Federal-American is owned by Federal Resources Corp. of Salt Lake City and 40 percent is owned by American Nuclear Corp. of Casper.

Federal-American also will no longer operate the properties for TVA, but TVA will retain first priority to use the Federal-American mill there.

Savings banks merge in Buffalo

NEW YORK (UPI) — Western New York Savings Bank of Buffalo Friday merged into the Buffalo Savings Bank, the second falling thrift the giant Buffalo Savings institution has absorbed in one month.

The acquisition of Western, which has $1 billion in assets, by Buffalo Savings, which will have $5 billion after the merger, makes the latter the fourth largest mutual saving bank in the nation and the third largest bank in the state.

Marathon credit ratings lowered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Standard & Poor's Corp. Friday lowered Marathon Oil Co.'s credit ratings in light of the oil company's recent $6.2 billion takeover by U.S. Steel Corp.

S&P, however, said it would not downgrade U.S. Steel's credit ratings.

S&P also downgraded the rating on Marathon commercial paper to A-1 from A-1-plus.

The credit rating firm reaffirmed U.S. Steel's single-A rating on senior debt and single-A-minus rating on subordinated debt.

Bargain hunters, inflation slowdown spur stock gains

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

NEW YORK — Bolstered by bargain hunters and news of lower inflation, the stock market scored its second consecutive gain Friday.

Trading was relatively light. Investors were encouraged by December wholesale prices rose only 0.3 percent, keeping the overall rise in prices at 7 percent, the lowest level since 6.9 percent in 1977.

That compared with 11.8 percent in 1980. Takeover situations, which dominated the 1981 market, were in the spotlight again, along with transportation issues and such perennial leaders as IBM and AT&T.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, a 33-point winner Thursday, tacked on 5.32 points to 847.60. But the DJIA lost 18.93 points for the week overall and is down 27.40 points for the first two weeks of the new year.

Much of Friday's buying was a continuation of Thursday's rebound from the market's losses in the first 10 sessions of the new year. Bargain hunters found prices of many issues attractive.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 0.45 to 67.41 and the price of an average share increased 18 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 0.79 to 116.33. Advances topped declines 884-537 among the 1,842 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 43,310,000 shares compared with 42,940,000 traded Thursday.

The relatively slow turnover indicated investors were worried about the Federal Reserve's money supply report late in the day that showed a record $8.8 billion increase. That surge may force the Fed, which apparently tightened credit a bit this week because of previous increases, to lighten more to continue

The American Stock Exchange index rose 4 to 296.61 and the price of a share added 18 cents. Advances topped declines 325-209 among the 734 issues traded. Composite volume was 4,442,800 shares compared with 4,442,800 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC stocks gained 1.43 to 187.32. On the trading floor, J.C. Penney was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 3/4 to 26 following a block of 1,700,000 shares at 2 1/4.

IBM, whose fourth-quarter earnings fell to $1.83 a share from $2.11 a year ago, was second, up 3/4 to 59 1/2, with a block of 281,500 shares at 59 1/2. IBM, whose sales were sharply higher, said currency transactions hurt its performance.

Phillips Petroleum, which said it will spend $2.2 billion on 1982 plans, was third on the active list, up 3/4 to 38 1/2. The company said it may not account for the rise in its stock.

Mobil Corp., which has said it might make a bid for a large chunk of U.S. Steel, was the fourth most active issue, up 1/2 to 23 after a block of 100,000 shares at 23.

USS won a court battle to buy Marathon Oil, which Mobil also wanted. Standard & Poor's cut Marathon's debt and commercial paper ratings. Marathon stock finished unchanged at 74 1/4 and USS added 3/4 to 27 1/2.

American Telephone & Telegraph was fifth on the active list, off 1/4 to 58 1/2, with a block of 105,000 shares at 59. AT&T's proposed antitrust settlement with the Justice Department has been placed before D.C. Federal District Judge Harold Greene.

Cannon Mills scored 4 1/2 to 39 1/2, after Pacific Holding Corp. raised its takeover bid to $44 a share from $40 a share. Cannon officials have been mulling the offer for several days.

Bucyrus-Erie, a 3-point winner Thursday, lost 1/4 to 18 1/2 after a block of 150,000 shares at 20. Internally, which shed 1/4 to 28 1/2, refused to comment on rumors it was interested in buying Bucyrus-Erie stock but said it had not filed any purchase reports with the SEC.

California Standard eased 1/4 to 37 1/2. Social officials denied reports the company was about to make a third takeover offer to AMAX. Social's bid in September 1978 and March 1981 were turned down.

Ford, which lost 1/4 point Thursday after the No. 2 automaker announced it was omitting its quarterly dividend payout, eased 3/4 to 17 1/4. Ford made a new profit-sharing contract offer to the UAW.

Todd Shipyards jumped 1 1/2 to 27 1/2 after the company reported third-quarter earnings of $1.46 a share, up from 82 cents a year ago.

On the Amex, Supron Energy, reportedly the object of a potential takeover bid by Allied Corp., was the most active issue, up 1/4 to 31 1/2.

Wang Laboratories class B was second on the active list, up 1 1/2 to 45 1/2, following a block of 150,000 shares at 44 1/2.

No mention of price cut tradeoff

Ford places 'better idea' before union

By MICHELINE MAYNARD
United Press International

DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. Friday gave the United Auto Workers a proposal for cuts in labor costs and paid personal holidays.

But it made no mention of the tradeoff, already approved by General Motors Corp., involving sticker price cuts in exchange for concessions.

Formal negotiations between GM and the UAW were expected to resume later in the day — the fifth day of early contract talks between the union and the auto industry.

UAW President Douglas A. Fraser led the union team at GM, underscoring the significance of the negotiations.

Donald Ephlin, the union's chief negotiator, termed the Ford proposal "a murky, confusing document" and said it was "an almost 180-degree turn in the opposite direction" from the UAW's original proposal.

In addition to personal holiday cuts, the Ford plan also asks the union for other labor cost reductions, which Peter Pestillo, the company's vice president for labor relations, refused to specify.

Pestillo also said the Ford plan addresses job security and profit sharing issues. The UAW is concerned about profit sharing, but did not include it in its proposal to GM.

If approved, the Ford plan would run until Sept. 14, 1984 or 2 1/2 years — compared with the traditional three-year pact the union now has with the auto industry.

Pestillo said the two sides "did not directly address" the concept of passing through savings gained from concessions to car buyers in the form of rebates.

"This proposal permits us to begin to address the cost problems facing the company while at the same time timePestillo cutting wages," Pestillo said.

Ephlin said union bargainers will study the Ford offer during the weekend and ask for clarifications. It was not immediately clear whether there would be formal bargaining Saturday and Sunday.

Pestillo said he thought it was possible an agreement with the UAW could be reached within 48 hours. The union has set a Jan. 23 deadline in its talks with both Ford and GM.

The Detroit News reported many UAW members were making hurried medical visits in anticipation of losing health insurance coverage in revised contracts with Ford and GM. One Detroit optometrist described the situation as "mild hysteria."

November inventories grow as sales stagger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unsold backlogs grew by 0.7 percent in November as sales fell further, latest government figures showed Friday.

The Commerce Department said its November tally of inventories showed they grew in value by $3.5 billion to $51.2 billion.

October's business inventory growth had been a similar 0.7 percent gain. All figures were seasonally adjusted.

Growing backlogs reflect slackening demand and trigger production and employment cutbacks. The closely watched stock-to-sales ratio overall climbed to 1.5 months of unsold supply on hand at the current rate of sales.

The ratio was up to 2.3 months of supply for manufacturers of durable goods — heavy duty appliances, autos and machinery — while nondurable producers had a 1.15 month's supply on hand.

The same ratio for retailers stayed the same as in October, at 1.42 month's supply backlog.

Ordeal over for Thatcher

LONDON (UPI) — Mark Thatcher, driver on Britain's prime minister's motorcade, returned home Friday on a six-day ordeal in the Sahara saying he was never really in trouble, but his mother called it a "miracle" he was found alive.

"Lost? I wasn't lost," said Thatcher after he arrived from Algeria with his father, Denis, who supervised a massive search after Thatcher and two companions were reported missing during a race.

"It's only now that I've become aware of all the attention in the search," Thatcher said. "I'm simply amazed and embarrassed."

Thatcher, 28, his French co-driver Anne-Charlotte Verney and mechanic Claude Garnier were missing for six days on the Paris-Dakar auto rally, setting off a multi-national air and land search.

A spotter plane located their Peugeot Dangle Thursday 200 miles southwest of the remote desert outpost of Tamanrasset in the Sahara.

All three were in good health.

"In future, I will stick to the motor circuit, and leave the rough stuff alone," Thatcher told reporters after flying back to London in a private jet provided by Algerian President Ben-jadid Chadi.

Mrs. Thatcher, visibly shaken after the week, was philosophical about the dangers facing her son and said she would not have "strong words" with him.

"You can't take all the challenge out of life for young people," she said. "It wouldn't be right to do so. But I hope he won't go that one again."

The prime minister expressed her gratitude to reporters for keeping her informed of the search efforts and praised the rescue teams.

"It was a miracle that they managed to find him at a time all they could see were two tiny white spots," she said.

Thatcher telephoned his mother to say he was well and was going to her country residence Chequers later.

Gandhi surrenders defense portfolio

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, worried by the U.S. military buildup of neighboring Pakistan, announced a major Cabinet shakeup Friday and appointed a new defense minister in her stead.

The Cabinet shuffle also involved the ministries of finance, commerce, railways, petroleum, chemicals and law.

Since regaining power in January 1980, Mrs. Gandhi had retained the defense portfolio for herself but she decided to name former Finance Minister Ramaswamy Venkatraman to the post.

Mrs. Gandhi had indicated the changes were imminent Thursday in announcing both an increase in defense spending, that she said was made necessary by Washington's decision to supply warplanes to Pakistan, and an ambitious 20-point plan aimed at boosting India's economy.

"Had Pakistan not chosen at this time to acquire such sophisticated arms, 1982 would be a year of even greater advance for us," she said in a nationwide broadcast to mark the second anniversary of her second term in power. "As it is, we have to spend more on defense.

India plans to buy 150 Mirage jet fighters from France to counter the U.S. F-16s supplied to Pakistan — India's enemy during two wars.

Unveiling the economic plan, she said: "I have asked all ministries to work in a coordinated way to search out the factors which hamper production and to take corrective steps."

Haig admits urgency in talks on Palestine

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig, saying there are no deadlines, flew back to Washington Friday with a "renewed sense of urgency" to reach a speedy Palestinian autonomy agreement.

He said he expects to return to Cairo and Jerusalem at the end of the month.

"I am optimistic and hopeful (for an agreement), but not unrealistic of the great obstacles that we have to overcome," Haig said at an airport news conference.

Earlier in the day, Haig had a lengthy discussion with Prime Minister Menachem Begin for the second time in his two-day visit. Before coming to Israel, Haig met Egyptian leaders, including President Hosni Mubarak, during two days in Cairo.

"I leave with a sense that and a greater dedication to working with a renewed sense of urgency to bring about an autonomy agreement as soon as possible, and hopefully in the near term, but without deadlines," Haig said.

"It is clear there are still many differences between the parties," he said in summarizing his meetings in Egypt and Israel.

Begin's spokesman Uri Porath told reporters both sides "have reached the conclusion it is possible to achieve an autonomy agreement in the near future," adding that U.S.-Israeli relations "have improved considerably."

Haig said he had "collected the views of both sides" and they would be assessed before he returns to Cairo and Jerusalem, probably after his talks in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Jan. 26-27.

UN puts off key vote

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council abruptly canceled a meeting Friday at the request of an Arab resolution calling for sanctions against Israel for its annexation of the Golan Heights.

Diplomatic sources said Jordan, which introduced the resolution in the Council Thursday, had asked for the postponement because it could not secure the nine vetoes required for adoption.

The resolution called on all U.N. members to impose an arms embargo against Israel, to suspend economic, financial and technical assistance to Israel and to consider severing diplomatic and consular relations.

The proposal would not have passed since the United States and Britain were determined to veto it. But a simple defeat in the Council's vote would have represented a grave political setback for the Arabs. They had fully expected a veto, but planned to follow up with a call for an emergency special session of the U.N. General Assembly.

Negotiations began Nov. 30 and ran for two weeks before coming to a halt for Christmas. They resumed on Tuesday.

Chief U.S. and Soviet negotiators Paul H. Nitze and Yuri A. Kvyatkovskiy agreed at the outset to maintain secrecy on the substance of the talks.

midday, breaking the sound barrier as they entered over southern Lebanon.

State-run Beirut radio said the planes "made repeated passes over Lebanon over a period of 45 minutes."

Israeli jets thunder low over Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli jets flew low over the Lebanese capital Friday, drawing heavy anti-aircraft fire from Syrian and Palestinian batteries.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

North's four club was Gerber and South's four hearts showed one ace whereupon North contracted for seven trump.

This hand actually came up in the Life Masters Pairs some 30-odd years ago and practically every declarer found himself in seven trump.
 There are 12 top tricks and a possible 13th in each of the four suits.
 Every declarer played the hand carefully, and even those who normally take little time spent a lot on this abomination.
 Every declarer also found himself down one at the finish. This was before the days of computer hands. Today some declarers would be looking for the computer with a sledge hammer.
 Normally when you have threat cards in all four suits you should be able to find a squeeze, but this time there was no soap. Unfortunately for declarer, he had to discard a fourth card before a defender since East had the heart with club protection and West the spade plus diamond protection.
 A couple of pairs got to six trump only. The declarers still agonized over the play, but wound up all smiles when they saw that the grand slam could not be made.
