Farmers can continue rabbit drives

REXBURG (UPI) — A state judge ruled Friday that growers have a lawful right to club rabbits to death if their roundups follow court-imposed guidelines.

The ruling was the first judicial review of this winter's controversial rabbit drives in eastern Idaho.

Both sides hailed the ruling by Seventh District Court Judge Willard Burton as a victory. Farmers said the decision vindicated the drives — which have resulted in the deaths of more than 100,000 rabbits, while opponents said the guidelines would stop needless cruelty during future outings.

Burton said farmers had a lawful right to protect their property from voracious rabbits which have caused an estimated $5 million in damage to Mud Lake area haystacks and grain fields.

But he said children under the age of 16 would not be permitted on roundups and instances of "bunny baseball" would be stopped by law officers assigned to supervise the weekly drives. The group which had asked the judge to halt the drives — the Fung for Animals — alleged that some people were seen tossing live jacks to friends, who would strike them with clubs as they flew through the air.

Immediately following the ruling in a crowded Rexburg courtroom, farmers announced they would hold a tenth drive today in fields about 60 miles west of the Grand Teton mountain range.

"The evidence finds that any of the killing and cruelty that may have been exhibited in eliminating these rabbits was done with honest intent to protect their (farmers') property, and was done under the authority of law and under the authorization of the Jefferson County Commission," Burton said.

"I cannot stop it. The motion to stop the drives is denied."

Burton agreed with the fund that participation on the drives by children was "not necessary and unlawful," and ordered lawmen to enforce the guideline. He also said the legal action by the fund was "not frivolous," and denied a request from the farmers for attorneys fees.

"We take a very positive view of this ruling," said New York writer Cleveland Amory, who founded the fund in 1967 to combat similar rabbit drives in Harmony, N.C. "He recognized that the goings-on at those hunts were not legal, and that bunny baseball and participation by children were not to be condoned."

Amory also said the drives "are an abomination and a shame to the State of Idaho."

But Orvin Twitchell, the Mud Lake farmer who organized the series of drives, said Burton's ruling upheld the right of growers to protect their livelihoods and property from the gray-furred "pests."

"I feel this is the way it should have come out. We tried to restrain the kids and keep them out of the killing pen, and we don't like this 'bunny baseball' any more than anyone else," Twitchell said.

Record chill in valley

By GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — At 7 a.m. Friday, a minor bit of history was made.

That's when the official thermometer in the field behind the U.S. Weather Service in Kimberly dropped to minus 6 degrees. According to the record books, it was an all-time low for that date in Twin Falls.

At 7:39 a.m., two Twin Falls Fire Department pumps raced through the frosted morning streets to a house fire at 647 Monroe St.

The freezing, two-hour battle with the flames left the pavement and equipment coated with ice, but it held no unusual problems for the six firefighters until the fire virtually was extinguished and the hoses temporarily turned off. In minutes, the valves on the nozzles froze in the closed position.

Before the coup de grace could be delivered to the smoldering embers, the nozzles had to be held in the jets or hot exhaust fumes from the pumps' tail pipes to thaw.

According to the fire report: Workers cleaning the vacant, rental house, owned by George Loughmiller apparently had built a fire in the wood stove Thursday to keep warm. Insulation in the attic near the chimney began smoldering sometime during the afternoon, finally bursting into flames early Friday morning.

Before it was brought under control, the fire destroyed the roof of the house, and forced firefighters to rip out the ceilings in the front rooms to get at the smoldering insulation. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

The rest of Twin Falls, meanwhile, faced a less rude — and less warm — awakening. As they attempted to prepare for the day, many residents found that their plumbing had frozen solid.

According to Joe Cony, the water supervisor for the city, his department has responded to about 30 calls from residents with frozen pipes in the past few days. However, only about 15 of the calls concerned the city's area of responsibility: the water meter and service lines. The rest of problems, he said, turned out to be frozen pipes on

Jobless rate inconclusive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment dropped to 8.5 percent in January, the Labor Department reported Friday.

But government and congressional experts saw no signs of an end to the recession.

Heightening their concern was a substantial loss of blue collar jobs during the month.

Even the White House, which could be expected to be ecstatic over the 8.5 percent rate after a four-month steady increase, took a wait-and-see attitude.

"Basically we're viewing the figures today with caution," said deputy White House press secretary Peter Rousell.

Union officials had feared unemployment would continue to climb in January beyond the post-World War II record of 9 percent set in May 1975.

Confusing the situation was the fact that the Bureau of Labor Statistics routinely revised its seasonally adjusted figures for 1981 in the January report. It also switched from the 1970 census to the 1980 census as the base for its projections from the survey of 60,000 households.

The 8.5 percent rate was 0.3 percentage points below the revised figure of 8.8 percent for December. It showed 9.3 million Americans out of work last month in seasonally adjusted data — 273,000 less than the previous month.

Adult men accounted for most of the reduction — the percentage of unemployed declined from 7.9 percent to 7.5 percent over the month.

However, the rate for teenagers increased from 21 percent to 21.7 percent, and for black teenagers, from 45.1 percent to 46.7 percent.

The report indicated the jobless rate increased by 1.1 percentage points during President Reagan's first year in office — from the 7.4 percent in January 1981 when he took over from Jimmy Carter.

U.S. Chamber of Commerce economist Richard Rahn called the report "just one more indicator pointing to the start of an economic recovery." But that idea was rejected by Bureau Commissioner Janet Norwood. Rep. Henry Bress, D-Wis., chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, and House Speaker Thomas O'Neill.

"Millions of workers have apparently become so discouraged by the recession that they have stopped looking for work," O'Neill said, noting the 356,000 blue-collar production jobs were lost during the month.

Winter hurts Magic Valley employment

TWIN FALLS — Old Man Winter apparently is to blame for a more than 1.2 percent jump in the Magic Valley's unemployment rate last month.

Rates for the state as a whole remained stable, compared with December, but near record levels.

The estimated unemployment rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties was 6.7 percent during January, an increase of 1.2 from December's 5.5 percent rate, and 1.9 percent more than the rate in January of 1981.

Lon McDonald, the Twin Falls labor-market analyst for the state Department of Employment, said the area jump was due mostly to seasonal layoffs at Idaho Frozen Foods and harsh winter weather. The winter layoffs at the Twin Falls potato processing plant were slightly longer than normal, and thus, they stretched into the week of the unemployment survey. Harsh weather constrained much economic activity, increasing the unemployment rate further, he said.

For all of Idaho, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 7.6 percent during January, the same figure recorded during December. However, that figure represented a 2.2 percent increase compared with the January of 1981.

Worse still, according to Scott McDonald, the director of the state Employment Department, "it is the fourth consecutive month in which the unemployment rate has been the highest for that month since 1960."

He said all major industrial sectors in Idaho experienced layoffs during January. The more than 2 percent difference between the unemployment rate for last month compared with the January 1981 figure reflects "a deterioration of Idaho's economy," Scott McDonald said.

Evans warns Legislature to settle reapportionment

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans urged squabbling lawmakers Friday to intensify negotiations on legislative reapportionment.

He warned that a compromise must be reached within a week to save the state from a barrage of lawsuits and a chaotic primary election season.

The chief executive said he was "rather startled" by the conflicting stories he heard in separate meetings with the Legislature's Republican and Democratic leaders earlier in the week.

He said GOP leaders told him only one Democrat — Sen. Bert Marley of McCammon — opposed the latest Republican proposal to resolve the controversy over legislative district boundaries in the Pocatello area.

But Democratic leaders later told Evans several senators and representatives in the Democratic minority stood firm against the GOP plan.

Evans, asked at a news conference to respond to a report that Senate Democrats had made a pact to fight any reapportionment bill if one of their members opposed it said that would be "not very good tactics."

He said if lawmakers don't solve the problem and send him a bill acceptable to the vast majority of legislators by next week, the issue could be thrown into court for resolution.

With the April 7 filing deadline for the May primary approaching — and candidates' filings depending on where district boundaries are set — the election might be thrown into confusion, Evans said.

"We must have something next week or we will suffer very severe consequences," Evans said. "There's great pressure on the Legislature leadership to come up with a compromise. I'd hate to have them give up."

"We still apparently have a lot of problems, but we need to resolve that issue."

Evans said it appeared that "substantial gerrymandering" against Democrats dating back to last summer had not been corrected by the majority Republicans and that he would veto any plan a unified Democratic minority opposed.

The governor also repeated his threat to veto the right-to-work bill, passed by the Senate Thursday. The House-originated measure should arrive on his desk early next week.

Idaho Power receives 9.5 percent rate hike

BOISE (UPI) — The state Public Utilities Commission approved a 9.5 percent interim rate increase Friday for the Idaho Power Co.

The increase will help the utility pay the costs associated with its participation in the Valmy power-plant project in Nevada.

A residential customer paying $32.24 a month previously will pay an additional $2.41 under the new rate. The approval will allow the utility to raise an additional $24.2 million in revenue.

The commissioners said the increase really translates to a 7.7 percent boost in rates for residential and irrigation customers, since Idaho Power is allowed to exchange some of its electricity for lower-priced Bonneville Power Administration energy.

Idaho Power had sought an immediate rate increase of 11.8 percent, which would raise $28.6 million, to help it cover costs from the firm's 50-percent partnership in the Valmy power plant. The first generating unit came on line in December, just two weeks prior to the filing of the rate-hike application.

The commission said it was not granting the entire amount requested because testimony during public hearings on the matter showed that Idaho Power should be able to achieve some dollar savings as a result of the Valmy project.

For instance, the company will now be able to sell more excess electricity from its other power plants, the commissioners said. And the utility will not be required to purchase extra electricity from outside sources during times of high-energy demand.

The application for an immediate rate hike was part of Idaho Power's request for a total increase in rates of 28 percent.

U.N. votes to boycott Israel because of Golan annexation

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The U.N. General Assembly voted in favor of a total international boycott of Israel Friday to punish the Jewish state for its annexation of the Syrian Golan Heights.

Joining strong protests voiced by the United States and Israel, the assembly voted 86-21 on a resolution declaring that Israel is not a peace-loving nation and failed to meet its obligations as a United Nations member and calling for its political, economic and military isolation.

Thirty-four countries abstained from voting.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli government spurned the resolution as "unjust, illogical and unbalanced."

"It amounts to a shameful exploitation of the work of negotiators by its well-known anti-Israel majority," a government statement said.

"Such an event is bound to further affect the organization's relevance to the world."

It was feared that the resolution would lead to Israel's expulsion from the United Nations, Foreign Minister Halim-Kaddam said in a press conference following the vote. That he would make no immediate attempt to push for Israel's expulsion from the world body.

The United States said the attempt led by Arab and non-aligned nations to oust Israel from the assembly would have serious consequences for future U.S. support, which includes $1 billion annually and about 25 percent of the general U.N. budget.

The United States, Israel and most European countries voted against the resolution. Most Latin American delegates abstained and Romania and the Philippines did not participate in the vote.

Massive support from Islamic nations in Africa, Asia and the Arab world and the Communist members carried the vote.

"We consider it a great victory," Kaddam said.

The resolution's call for tough sanctions constitutes a recommendation to the Assembly and does not legally bind members to comply.

Israeli Ambassador Yehuda Blum rejected the resolution, which he branded "a shameful document."

The vote followed a heated assembly debate and heavy lobbying by the United States and Israel to soften the move.

"This resolution," said U.S. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick in a speech before the vote, "does not contribute to peace in the Middle East. It will make peace harder to achieve. We oppose the end it seeks which is revenge and retribution, not reconciliation and compromise."

"We oppose the use of the United Nations involved here. This body was and is meant to be devoted to peace and security and this resolution seeks neither. It deepens divisiveness and exacerbates the conflict."

"Suppose this resolution passes, as regretably I suppose it will, what will this exercise have achieved? An Israeli withdrawal from the Golan? Of course not."

The draft, introduced by Cuba as chairman of the non-aligned group, called on all nations to "sever diplomatic, trade and cultural relations with Israel" and to "cease forthwith, individually and collectively, all dealings with Israel."

Police kill gunman at hospital

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Police stormed a hospital room Friday night and shot to death a man distraught over the cancer death of his son, freeing the doctor who had treated the boy and two other hostages in the two-day ordeal.

The gunman said none of the hostages was injured.

"The perpetrator is dead," said Police Lt. Jim Music. "We assaulted the room and one of our men killed the perpetrator. The hostages are safe."

Jerry Chipman, spokesman at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, said one shot was fired.

Immediately after the assault, police rushed from the hospital shortly before 9 p.m. to a wheeled unit of the hostages, New Orleans, to a stretcher to the emergency room of nearby St. Joseph's Hospital.

"Please get me to a doctor," Ms. Cox pleaded, covering her face — apparently the blood of her captor that splattered on her during the assault.

Prisoners die in plane crash

LAMBSBURG, Va. (UPI) — A single-engine plane crashed into a fog-shrouded mountain side and exploded Friday, killing the pilot, a guard and two prisoners who were shackled together, state officials said.

The four were the only people aboard the plane.

Rescue workers at the scene said both prisoners were shackled and handcuffed to the guard. The relatives could be notified, State Police Sgt. C.P. Worrell said.

The plane was owned by Air Securities Inc., a Titusville, Fla.-based firm that transports prisoners for law enforcement agencies across the country. A spokesman for the company said one of the prisoners was being taken to a federal prison in Ohio.

The spokesman said neither inmate was a federal prisoner, but he declined further comment.

Fetuses found in shipping crate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hundreds of human fetuses, some possibly in the sixth month of development, were found stacked in a large shipping container picked up behind the home of a medical laboratory owner, police said Friday.

Detective Roland Drouin said the fetuses were preserved in formaldehyde in plastic white containers. Medical records also found in the container indicated that some of the fetuses had been aborted as long ago as 1979.

Drouin said police turned over the investigation to the coroner's office and county health officials and said coroner's investigators would determine at what point in development the fetuses had been aborted.

A county Health Department spokesman said his office will determine whether the fetuses were improperly disposed of. He said regulations require that fetuses be disposed of within days of an abortion.

Freezing problems have grown worse. Coon said, since the snow melted: Ironically, the heavy snow cover formed an insulation layer over the underground pipes.

Any resident having a problem with meters or service lines should call the city at 733-0660, or the same number at extension 278 after business hours. A crew will be sent out to check the meter and thaw it if necessary.

Coon advises that residents not try to solve the problem themselves, since they could damage the meter or cause additional problems for the city water crews.

To avoid frozen pipes, Coon advises residents leave a small stream of cold water running around the clock.

Twin Falls drivers, however, seem to be adapting to the frigid weather, and cold-enzyme starting seems to be less of a problem. Twin Falls Body and Paint, which starts cars for the American Automobile Association, had only 25 calls Friday, despite the record low temperatures.

"There wasn't as many calls as during the last cold spell (following Christmas)," said Stierle Thorpe, a dispatcher for the firm. "I think people got smart and put engine warmers in."

But the real test may be yet to come. The record low temperatures for the month of February was on the 9th, next Tuesday. On that day in 1933, the mercury dipped to minus 24.

Indicated that some of the fetuses had been aborted as long ago as 1979.

Cold weather expected to continue

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome: Continued cold and mostly fair today. Increasing clouds late in the day, becoming partly cloudy Sunday. Highs 10 to 15 or less. Lows 10 to 20 degrees below zero. Lows zero to 10 below.

Camas Prairie, Halsey, Wood River Valley: Continued cold and mostly fair through early Sunday. Increasing clouds a little warmer later in the day. Highs near zero today and 10 to 15 above on Sunday. Lows near 10 below.

Northern Nevada and Utah: Cold with increasing clouds and snow flurries today in Nevada. Partly cloudy on Sunday. Highs in the teens and 20s. Lows 5 to 15 degrees. Cold today but moderating temperatures with increasing clouds in Utah on Sunday. Highs near 5 today and around 15 Sunday. Lows zero or below.

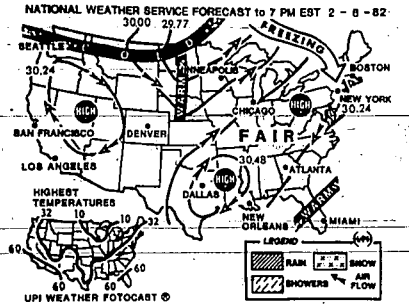

Synopsis: Still plumb cold. That's the outlook for the Magic Valley through midweek, although there is a chance of snow showers developing on Monday.

With bitter cold gripping most of Idaho, a northerly air flow is bringing little if any moisture into the state. However, a slight change in trajectory may collect some moisture early in the week.

On Friday morning, Elk City's 48 below was the coldest in Idaho and Stanley was right behind at 47 below. Afternoon readings under sunny skies brought temperatures above zero at most places although Idaho Falls, McCall and Salmon were still below zero at mid-afternoon. The state's warmest reading was 26 at Redwood.

Light, westerly reduced the bite of the bitterly cold air.

The extended forecast calls for cold with scattered snow showers Monday becoming dry on Tuesday and Wednesday. Highs in the Magic Valley will be near 20 with lows near zero.

Elkwood in the Idaho Friday, the warmest temperature was 87 degrees at Orlando, Fla., and the coldest was 49 below zero at West Yellowstone, Mont.

Law enforcement, transportation merger has wide support

A 95-page bill that would merge parts of the state Law Enforcement and Transportation Departments has surfaced in the Legislature, and there's apparently little opposition to the sweeping proposal.

"So far we can't find anybody who opposes it," said Rep. John Sessions, R-Driggs, chairman of the House Transportation Committee. "We haven't had any resistance as yet."

The plan — designed to improve efficiency, streamline both departments, and help eliminate budget problems that have plagued the Law Enforcement Department — is scheduled to be considered by Sessions' committee Monday.

The bill would transfer several primarily transportation-related programs now in Law Enforcement to the Transportation Department. The Law Enforcement agency would be left mostly with programs focusing on police activities.

One stumbling block to the proposal, however, may be the requirement of an additional $1.3 million appropriation from the state general fund in fiscal year 1983 if the bill becomes law.

The objective is to fund the Law Enforcement Department with general account dollars so the agency will not have to suffer from fluctuations in funds it now receives from dedicated accounts, Sessions said.

The Legislature's budget committee has been forced to grant the department an $866,000 supplemental appropriation to get the agency through the rest of the 1982 fiscal year without massive layoffs. The shortage is due to declining revenue from the agency's dedicated funding sources.

Sessions said the Legislature would have little other choice than to grant the additional $1.3 appropriation for next year — even amid the tight budget situation the state faces — because the Law Enforcement Department would be wiped out without it; much of its funding base would be shifted to the Transportation Department.

"We'll move ahead as rapidly as we can with this because JFAC is waiting for the outcome," Sessions said.

The merger bill is the product of discussions involving Sessions, the directors of the two departments, Gov. John Evans and House Speaker Ralph Olmstead. Somewhat surprisingly, all basically agreed to the plan, Sessions said.

He said Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, has given his unreserved blessing to the proposal. Evans, while not embracing the proposal, has indicated it has "strong possibilities," Sessions said.

The merger would not produce "great" savings at first, Sessions said. In fact, it will require the $1.3 million funding hike. But he said efficiency would improve drastically. The agencies would begin saving money quickly and service to the public would get better.

Some committee members opposed the resolution because they said the Legislature would have less time to review state rules and regulations and keep agencies in line.

House committee approves biennial sessions

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee gave a green light Friday to a measure that would permit the Legislature to hold regular sessions only every other year.

The biennial sessions resolution is a proposed constitutional amendment requiring two-thirds approval from both houses and a favorable nod from the voters in the general election.

Identical proposals have been killed several times in recent years.

The committee voted 11-7 against a motion to shelve the resolution, then submitted it to the House floor with a "do pass" recommendation.

Reps. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, and Vard Chaburn, R-Albion, said restricting regular sessions would save the state money by cutting the repeated consideration of dozens of bills that emerge in the Legislature year after year.

"We need to limit the size and scope of some of our sessions," said Rep. Melvin Hammond, D-Rexburg. "I've seen some of these bills 14 times."

Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, warned that limiting lawmakers to meeting every other year would make it "absolutely impossible" to handle the shift in governmental responsibilities from the federal government to the state level.

Miss McDermott said, however, the governor could "call short special sessions in off years. Lawmakers could concentrate on critical budget matters and ignore the usual 'smorgasbord' of perennially doomed and trivial legislation, she said.

Some committee members opposed the resolution because they said the Legislature would have less time to review state rules and regulations and keep agencies in line.

Ground-water management bill clears

BOISE — A bill allowing state water officials to designate ground-water management areas received a stamp of approval from a House committee Friday.

"We are having severe problems in water basins around the state where water levels are declining," Sheri Chapman, the director of the Idaho Water Users Association, told the House Resources and Conservation Committee.

"We need to be able to examine and make decisions about pumping before critical water supply situations are reached," he said.

The proposal would allow the director of the Department of Water Resources to require agricultural water-wells users to document how much water they are pumping from designated areas.

DWR director Ken Dunn said power-consumption figures from a pump would be adequate for his department to meet this requirement.

Once the department has water-consumption figures that can be compared to a water basin's annual recharge, Dunn said he would be able to manage questionable water supplies.

Five percent pay increase introduced

BOISE (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted unanimously Friday to introduce a resolution calling for a 5 percent pay increase for state employees in fiscal year 1983.

If the resolution is adopted, it would be the first time in recent memory that the Legislature has agreed with the governor on how much pay state workers should receive.

Gov. John Evans recommended the 5 percent pay hike and a 1.5 percent allowance for merit increases in December. The plan was endorsed Thursday by a six-member House study committee and both the Republican and Democratic caucuses.

Fire protection fees debated

BOISE (UPI) — A bill that would require the payment of fire-protection fees received praise and criticism Friday at a special hearing before the House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Opponents of the bill said it would violate the constitutional right of some groups to remain tax-exempt and would give fire officials the power to collect unfair taxes and intrude into the homes of private citizens for inspection purposes.

Those favoring the proposal said it would equally distribute the cost of fire protection among the owners of buildings in a fire district — including groups that own buildings traditionally considered tax-exempt, such as churches and fraternal organizations.

Fine for illegal fish catch sent to House

BOISE — A plan to fine fishermen who illegally keep salmon or steelhead has moved from committee to the House floor for a vote.

If passed by the Legislature, the bill would allow judges to assess a $100 penalty for each fish found in the possession of a convicted violator.

"We can all remember just a few years ago when the salmon runs were so poor, the fishing season had to be closed," said Rep. Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls. "It has shown we do have a problem maintaining this magnificent fish, and a civil penalty similar to poaching deer or elk is certainly warranted."

The House Resources and Conservation Committee forwarded the bill with a recommendation for passage.

Idaho ranks 14 in U.S. for business climate

By United Press International

Idaho boasts the lowest per capita state and local government debt of the 48 contiguous United States and has the 14th best business climate for manufacturing, a nationwide study shows.

The study, conducted by the Chicago accounting firm of Alexander Grant and Co., is meant to be "general in its approach," it says, but purports to serve as "one tool" for businesses seeking to relocate.

Idaho's low debt rate is an attraction for businesses, the report says, because it shows the relatively slight possibility of future tax increases.

"That's one of the best things we've got," said Pat Harwood, president of the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry in Boise. "It's an awful lot to an incoming business."

"Idaho has a fiscally conservative, fiscally responsible government and I commend the Legislature — both parties."

The study said Idaho's state and local government debt rate was $712 per capita.

Another factor in the Gem State's high overall rating, the report says, was the fact that 1.05 percent of Idaho's population is enrolled in vocational education programs — again the highest percentage in the nation.

Idaho also had one of the lowest totals of man hours lost because of work stoppages in the past two years, the report said, and its unemployment trust fund worth is second only to Wyoming.

Idaho's worst mark in the study concerns the "value added" category. The high percentage of the state's products leave Idaho in a raw form to be processed elsewhere.

Idaho Falls rejects WPPSS payment

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The Idaho Falls City Council has unanimously rejected a request from the Washington Public Power Supply System for $285,000 to pay the city's share of costs to terminate two nuclear plants.

Council members Thursday night also approved a resolution asking the Bonneville Power Administration to buy Plants 4 and 5 in Washington State or purchase all electricity which would be generated by the facilities. Work on both plants is scheduled to be abandoned.

The council, acting on a motion by member Pat Hovis, said it would not forward the money to WPPSS. Hovis said advancing monies from future city revenues might violate the Idaho Constitution.

The resolution asking BPA and the Northwest Power Planning Council to buy the plants at Satsop and Hatford is intended to keep cities which have already invested in the partially-completed structures from losing additional money if the shutdown proceeds, members said.

It called for the "immediate" purchase of the nuclear facilities rather than waiting for a scheduled 1983 decision on the matter, said city Attorney Dale Storer.

What's what "Can you name seven famous writers who had red hair? Inquires a client. What's meant by 'had' here, I presume, is 'some time in their lives.' Start with William Shakespeare. Add Mark Twain, Emily Dickinson, George Bernard Shaw, Winston Churchill, Sinclair Lewis and Thomas Jefferson. Not everyone thinks of Thomas Jefferson as a writer, true enough. Some recall merely that he was a dandy fiddle player.

Was reported that the Federal Government during World War II prohibited radio broadcasters from leaving weather reports in the fear that it would give the enemy useful information. When Dixie Dean was doing the play-by-play for baseball games, one such game was cancelled because of rain. In frustration, he said, "I can't tell you why this game is cancelled, but would you go look out the window?"

FEWEST ALCOHOLICS

Q. In't Alaska the state with the fewest alcoholics?
A. No, sir, credit Hawaii with that distinction. Alaska has the fewest dentists and the fewest retirees.

Q. Can you name any vegetable that retains its texture after being frozen and then cooked?
A. Only one comes to mind—Chinese water chestnuts.

Q. How many holes-in-one are reported over the year of a typical PGA golf tour?
A. About 30.

Bush tours European spacelab

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Vice President George Bush unveiled the European-built spacelab Friday and said it amounted to "the largest cooperative space project ever undertaken."

The Spacelab, which will allow scientists to conduct many experiments not possible in earth's atmosphere, will be carried in the cargo section of America's space shuttle Columbia.

The unveiling was witnessed by some 300 space officials of the United States and European nations.

Earlier it was announced the European and U.S. Space agencies have decided on four missions for the new laboratory, including one to determine the effect of zero gravity on animals.

"This is a happy and important day," Bush said. "Spacelab, Europe's contribution to the space shuttle program, is an extraordinary engineering achievement. It's also the largest cooperative space project ever undertaken."

Michael Sauder, director of the Spacelab flight division of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the first Spacelab mission is set for September 1983, and three more will be completed by 1985.

"The first one will be the most complex of the menu. If we get through the first, we will get through any mission, people tell me. It is going to be a real challenge," Sauder said.

The September 1983 mission calls for Spacelab to spend seven days in space, where scientists will conduct experiments in physics, life science and modular gravity.

Sun Valley special on local station

TWIN FALLS — Television station KMYT will broadcast a half-hour, prime-time special next week about Sun Valley, and the famous and infamous who have populated its ski slopes.

The special, to be aired Wednesday at 6:30 p.m., was filmed on location in Sun Valley and Ketchum. It was reported and produced by Charles Lemmon, the station's assistant news director.

The show will focus on the years from 1928, when construction of the $1 million Sun Valley Lodge began, to 1961, when Ketchum resident Ernest Hemingway died.

Some of the people interviewed for the show were: Gretchen Frasier, the first American skier to win a gold medal in Olympic competition and who trained for the Olympics at Sun Valley; Otto Lang, ski instructor and film producer; and Kathleen Harriman Mortimer, the daughter of Averell Harriman, the statesman and the father of Sun Valley.

It was Harriman, who as chairman of the Union Pacific Railroad, sought to build a world-class ski resort in this country. The Sawtooth mountain site that was to become Sun Valley was discovered almost by accident, Lemmon said.

Wednesday's special will feature more than 70 historical photographs and old black-and-white films from Sun Valley, he said.

Budget office predicts next year's deficit at $157 billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The non-partisan Congressional Budget Office Friday predicted next year's federal deficit could be $157 billion.

But the alternative — sharp spending cuts — the administration promises — faces strong congressional opposition.

The budget office projection for fiscal year 1983, with a deficit far surpassing administration forecasts, precedes President Reagan's official budget proposal by only a few days.

Reagan's budget message, to be sent to Congress Monday, is expected to show a deficit in the $90 billion range.

Budget director David Stockman, Friday briefed House and Senate Republican leaders on the administration budget, told reporters it will face rough going on Capitol Hill.

"It's never easy to pass budgets," he said. "On the other hand, we're faced with deficits and it's going to be a matter of weighing the choices available."

In documents released Friday, the Congressional Budget Office stressed that its fiscal 1983 projection "represents what might happen to the budget if no changes in current law or policies were made."

But that is not Reagan's plan. He will seek to cut non-defense federal spending by another $31 billion in fiscal 1983, but rejects the idea of major tax increases. Instead, he will propose raising several billion dollars in revenues by closing tax loopholes and establishing new "management efficiencies" aimed at ferreting out government waste.

The Congressional Budget Office also estimates that the deficit for the current fiscal year will be $109.5 billion — nearly triple the figure included in the current congressional budget resolution.

The budget office said the huge increase in the fiscal 1982 budget projection — up from the official $37.8 billion figure — is due largely to last year's overly optimistic economic assumptions, sharp increases in unemployment, and reduced inflation, which affects the amount of taxes the government collects.

In addition to much larger deficits than administration projections, the budget office forecast shows deficits increasing each year, rather than declining as Reagan has promised.

Early in his presidency, Reagan had hoped to balance the budget by 1984. The Congressional Budget Office projection shows a $188 billion deficit for that year.

Budget office director Alice Rivlin said, "I don't think a balanced budget is a fantasy, but it certainly is not going to happen very quickly."

Ms. Rivlin told a news conference the trend toward progressively larger deficits each year is a "dramatic change" from previous forecasts. She placed much of the blame on last year's tax cut.

Williams' defense says victims not murdered

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorneys for Wayne B. Williams opened their case Friday and called as a witness a Utica, N.Y., pathologist who said autopsies reports on Williams' two victims showed nothing to indicate they were murdered.

The defense presented four witnesses, including Dr. Dan Stowens, director of laboratories at St. Luke's Memorial Hospital in Utica, who said he saw nothing in autopsy reports indicating that Jimmy Ray, 21, and Nathaniel Cater, 27, Williams' alleged victims, were murdered.

The two men were among 13 young Atlanta blacks slain during a 22-month-long rampage. During 19 days of testimony, prosecutors also presented evidence linking Williams to nine other slayings.

Stowens suggested that Payne drowned. The young black's body was clad in swimming trunks when found in the Chattahoochee River last April 27.

Stowens said he could not find a cause of death for either Payne or Cater. The trial was recessed for the weekend before prosecutors could cross examine the witness.

The most logical inference is he drowned," Stowens said in the autopsy that would indicate a homicidal death," asked defense attorney Al Binder.

"No I didn't," he replied.

"Did you see anything in the autopsy report indicating a ligature or ligature strangling death?" Binder asked.

"No I didn't."

An Atlanta medical examiner, Dr. Saleh Zaki, ruled Payne's death a homicide and said he died of asphyxiation by unknown means.

Referring to Cater's death, Stowens said, "There is no indication of any criminal activity at all." Cater's body was washed up May 21 in the Chattahoochee, two days after Williams' was seen driving slowly over a bridge about a mile upstream.

Cater's death was also ruled a homicide. The medical examiner who performed the autopsy said Cater was strangled.

Prosecutors contend Williams threw Cater's body off the bridge on May 22, two days before it was found. Witnesses have testified they saw the victim alive just hours before

Williams was questioned near the bridge.

Stowens also disagreed with autopsy findings in three of the other nine cases presented by prosecutors. He said he could not agree with causes of death given for victims Joseph Bell, Charles Stephens and Alfred Evans. Medical examiners ruled all three died of some form of asphyxiation.

But Stowens said, "There are only two possibilities — either the eyewitnesses are mistaken or this body is not that of Nathaniel Cater."

The defense team began its case with testimony from a former police recruit who said the men staking out the bridge where Williams came under suspicion were sleeping and drinking on the job.

Five American citizens held in Iranian prisons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five Americans are being held in Iranian prisons in addition to a naturalized U.S. citizen jailed nearly two years ago, the State Department disclosed Friday.

The department, in reply to direct inquiries, confirmed the identity of two male prisoners as Terry Graham and Erwin David Rabban. CBS said Graham formerly lived in Southern California.

Because of restrictions of the Privacy Act the department released no further information. Informed sources said one of the Americans has been held since 1980 and the others since 1981, all without charges, and that at least two of the prisoners are women.

Zia Nassary, an Afghan-born naturalized American citizen active in raising funds for Afghan refugees fleeing Soviet occupation forces, was arrested at the Iran airport in March 1980 and has been held since without charges.

"Information reaching us from various sources indicates that at least six Americans citizens, including Nassary, are currently in Iranian prisons," the department said in a statement.

"The Privacy Act as well as our deep concern for the welfare of these Americans obliges us to limit the information we can share publicly regarding the identities and the charges surrounding their detention," it said.

Cold, snow still hitting Midwest

Record cold and still more snow knifed into the Midwest Friday but with less ferocity than four consecutive weekend blockbuster that have made the long winter of 1982 so miserable for many.

At least 72 people have died in a week-long barrage of storms.

The latest storm buried Los Alamos, N.M., with 15 inches of snow and northwest Oklahoma with 10 inches before fleeing into the Midwest and Great Lakes Friday in time to wreak havoc on rush hour traffic in Chicago and Kansas City, Mo.

Freezing rain turned Texas highways into sheets of ice, extending north into Arkansas. North winds plunged chill factors to 40-below-zero in the Texas Panhandle.

But the forecasters at Allan Morrison of the National Weather Service in Chicago said this weekend will not be as unbearable as the four previous.

"The main thing is although it's going to be cold tonight and tomorrow (Saturday), there won't be the strong winds that will make it unbearable," Morrison said.

It will be more tolerable and will start to moderate on Sunday.

Detroit, buried under crippling 17-inch snowfalls, braced for its third storm in less than a week. But it too was expected to pack less punch than storms that left 19 people dead.

The temperature plummeted to 49-below-zero at West Yellowstone, Mont., the nation's coldest spot, and 40-below in parts of Utah.

The minus-18 at Arizona's Grand Canyon was the coldest since record-keeping began in 1931. The 18-below-zero at Goodland, Kan., shattered a 46-year mark. Colorado Springs, Colo., broke an 81-year-old record with a minus-8 reading.

Afternoon temperatures failed to climb above zero from the Rockies through the upper Mississippi Valley.

By contrast, southern Florida was very warm with Fort Myers equalling the high temperature for the date of 86 degrees first set in 1957.

Fog and drizzle prevailed from northern Florida and the lower Mississippi Valley to the Ohio Valley and Mid-Atlantic. Skies were clear but temperatures cold in New England, slugged with a freezing rain earlier this week.

Blowing snow whipped into northcentral and northwest Oklahoma, hit Tuesday with 6 inches of unexpected snow. Forecasters said another 4 inches could fall before day's end — with still more to come Friday.

Roads were still icy in the Northeast.

Oriental rugs: Buyer beware at sale today

BY STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The last place someone interested in Oriental rugs might want to be today is at the Oriental rug auction at the Holiday Inn.

Many Oriental-rug experts do not attend such auctions, and they advise others to avoid them, too. This is especially true of those advertised as forced liquidations or other distressed-merchandise sales, they say. The auction in Twin Falls is one of those.

According to several Better Business Bureaus throughout the country, the company conducting this particular auction seems to be in a constant state of distress, or selling proceeds for someone else.

According to records at the Better Business Bureau of Los Angeles-Orange Counties Inc., the company's auctioneer pleaded no contest to two misdemeanor charges of deceptive practices in connection with an auction in 1978.

The BBB office in Boise has a warning from the BBB office in Milwaukee about the feigned distress of Embassy Auctioneers Inc., the Los Angeles-based company that is conducting today's sale. According to that warning, the company has sold rugs claiming foreign currency restrictions, bankruptcies and losses from theft at its warehouse.

In fact, the company auctioned off rugs supposedly from the burglarized warehouse at two separate sales in San Francisco and in at least one other sale, according to the L.A. BBB records.

A spokesman for Embassy Auctioneers would not comment about the business. "Ever since I started talking to reporters, we've had nothing but problems with the press," he said.

The company's sale of rugs in Twin Falls is advertised as being from an unnamed dealer who is quitting business. The auction here comes after a sale in Boise on Friday that was advertised with an identical ad.

Jerry Note, the manager of the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls, said the hotel's only check on the business practices of companies holding sales is to make sure the company obtains any licenses required by the city.

Note believes that people are skeptical enough to watch out for themselves. They know when they come to the auction that all sales are final. The rule, he said, is let the buyer beware.

But the traveling-Oriental-rug-auction business is apparently so infamous, that many rug dealers do not attend them. Several books on Oriental rugs carry stern warnings to avoid most auctions.

For example, in "Oriental Rug Primer," author Aram Jerrohin wrote: "One of the best ways a rug buyer can avoid making costly mistakes is simply to avoid any kind of auction. The short-notice auctions advertised in newspapers and normally held in a public room at a motel or hotel are even more hazardous for the novice than conventional auctions, and they're to be avoided at all costs. What they are, in essence, are high-pressure sales; they aren't really auctions at all."

Vera Willig, a Boise Oriental-rug dealer, said she would not attend the Embassy Auctioneers' sale in Boise or any sale like it. "I never bother with them," she said. "I would be embarrassed for my customers to see me at a place like that."

The rugs offered for sale at such auctions are usually ones rejected by importers as too low quality, she said.

For those who would like to attend, however, she offered a few hints.

- Rub your hand over the rug. It should be quite smooth to the touch.
- The quality of the wool should be the same throughout the rug.
- Check to see that the rug has not been redyed. The color should be the same on the rug's front and back.

A crowd gathered to help Mayor Otto Lemke and Wendell's city council decide what kind of police force residents want

Citizens back Wendell mayor

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — The "silent majority" in Wendell has applauded Mayor Otto Lemke and given him approval for his experimental two-man Police Department.

About 120 people attended a special City Council meeting Friday evening to discuss Lemke's controversial reduction of the Police Department.

The mayor said if a two-man department is not satisfactory, then a third man will be hired.

"We will know (if two men are satisfactory) within a reasonable amount of time," Lemke said.

The mayor explained that former police Chief Otis Lumpkin was not reappointed because of "past problems with public relations" between Lumpkin and the citizens and other police officers.

In response to a question, Council President Bob Thackeray reported that according to an Idaho State Police officer, reserve officers are limited in the duty they may perform, and the city would be "wide open, liability-wise," if it used uncertified officers.

In his letter of resignation, submitted last week, Officer Ed Baer cited no reserve officers as one of his major reasons for quitting.

With Baer's resignation, the city presently has only one police officer.

Those residents who spoke against Lemke's program cited the following reasons for their views:

- Wendell needs at least three full-time patrolmen because of its increasing population.
- The county is lacking police help and county deputies should not be in Wendell.
- The city has a need for a third officer and can afford the third patrolman.
- A councilman, not the mayor, should be the city's police commissioner.

Those speaking in favor of the mayor said that two-man coverage, which already has proven to be efficient, would not be "that much different" from a three-man department.

And Gooding County Sheriff Robert Aja said his department will continue back-up service to the city.

"We've always been there, and we always will be," Aja said.

"I think the mayor and the council can run this city," one citizen commented. "We voted you in; run it."

This drew enthusiastic applause from the majority of the people attending.

"We asked to try two men," Thackeray said, "and we were given about overnight to try it." The program should be given more time, he said.

Lemke said an effort to hire a second officer to replace Baer is continuing, with "several very promising" persons under consideration.

Filer council sticks by Acme decision

By KAREN MAIN
Times-News correspondent

FILER — Although they had a short reprieve, Regal subdivision homeowners lost their fight against Filer City Council's recommendation that Acme Manufacturing's land north of the city be rezoned industrial.

At a special meeting Friday night, attended by more than 30 residents, council listened to the pros and cons of landowners surrounding the 15-acre parcel.

After the discussion, council rescinded its vote of Tuesday night and then voted unanimously in favor of the rezoning again.

Tuesday night's decision was rescinded because Regal homeowners, the main opponents to the rezoning, did not have a chance to offer their views at that meeting.

Council's recommendation will now go to the Twin Falls County Commission, which will make the final decision on the county-zoned land. The county had asked council to make a recommendation on the issue because the land is near the city limits.

Leading the opposition, homeowner Bob Parent restated his previous objections to Acme's proposed farm equipment manufacturing plant. The industry would devalue property and cause pollution, he said.

"You should be interested in long-term planning," Parent said.

If residential and industrial growth continued in a conflicting, "hodge-podge fashion" Parent told the council it would run into this problem again.

However, several persons spoke in favor of allowing Acme to relocate and consolidate its present downtown facilities to the site.

"I think it's something we're going to have to live with," said Darrell Litter, whose land borders the site to the south. "It's just progress."

Homeowner Howard Buhler said Filer should support Acme to avoid unemployment. "We should not stifle industry," he said.

"We live next to Acme and Regal," homeowner Pat Dutt said, "and we're not opposed to it." She said that a real-estate agent told her the surrounding property would not be devalued by Acme's plant.

Some residents suggested that rather than Acme causing the Regal subdivision to be devalued, it might be the other way around.

Ardean Lang, whose home is near Regal homes, said the subdivision homeowners run stop signs and toss their garbage in other people's yards.

"When it comes to devaluing property" Lang said an industry would not devalue the property "as much as Regal subdivision devalued mine."

At the end of Friday's discussion city attorney Fred Decker advised council that it could rescind its previous vote and then vote again, and act later if it needed more information.

Acme general manager Jim Herrett, who had sat quietly through the session, asked council to make its decision now.

"We have been back and forth" on this matter, he said. "I think it's time to make a decision," so we do not add "fuel to smoldering embers" here in Filer.

Herrett also presented council with petitions, signed by what he said were approximately 350 people, in favor of the rezoning.

Not guilty plea offered court by suspect in shooting death

TWIN FALLS — Lawrence James Jenkins pleaded innocent to first-degree murder Friday in Fifth District Court.

The 43-year-old Jenkins will go on trial on the charges that, with premeditation, he shot and killed Jim Lee Legg, 23, on Sept. 12.

Jegg died instantly after he was shot in the head outside the Brand Lodge, 1007 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. The following Monday, Twin Falls police issued a warrant for Jenkins' arrest.

The defendant remained at large until Dec. 5, when he was arrested by FBI agents in Sacramento, Calif., and subsequently extradited to Idaho on Dec. 15.

Since then, Jenkins has been held without bond at the county jail.

Judge Theron Ward set no date for the trial, which defense lawyer Mike Walz said could last one week. But Walz indicated that he would want at least six weeks notice of the trial's scheduled date.

Auctioneer Lt. Bill Stonemets gets rid of vintage and beat-up automobiles at the city's car auction Friday afternoon

Junkers City sells unclaimed, unwanted autos

TWIN FALLS — They came with folding money in their pockets and visions of bargains in their heads.

And many of the people who attended Twin Falls' vehicle auction Friday in subfreezing temperatures departed with exactly what they wanted — cars that couldn't budge under their own power.

For the amateur mechanic and the professional salvage dealer looking for auto parts, Friday's auction was the place to be.

"All we guarantee is that they're part plastic and part metal," said Lt. Cliff Sharp of the Twin Falls Police Department, which managed the auction of mainly impounded and unclaimed vehicles. A few of the cars were owned by the city, which it no longer wanted.

The sale featured about 45 cars and trucks, suffering everything from shattered windshields to upholstery hardly worthy of the name. Most of the vehicles were beset with multiple ailments.

Bids ranged from $30 for a 1977 Plymouth, to $30 for a 1969 Pontiac that one police officer said looked "like it had been hit by a train and then backed over again." Total sales exceeded $7,000, most of which will go into the city's general fund.

Among the auction-goers was Ron Cogswell of Twin Falls, who was seeking parts for old vehicles in his

Used-A-Car Rental fleet. His business offers "oldies but goodies" for rent at costs considerably below those of national car-rental agencies, he said.

But Cogswell indicated he was shopping cautiously at Thursday's auction.

"If somebody's walked off and left a car, there's a reason for it. These that aren't wrecked — well, you've got to figure something's wrong with them."

A Wendell man who said he's a regular at flea markets and farm auctions, came prepared to spend $800 for a family car. Gazing with amusement at the selection, he decided he'd go home with the cash still in his pocket.

"I was just curious," he said, declining to give his name. "I don't think I'm gonna bid on anything. I thought they'd have at least a few good cars here. Now, I feel kinda foolish."

Katified hats and insulated coveralls were the garb of the day, as the crowd wandered around the storage lot on South Park Avenue West and waited for the auction to start. Promptly at 1 p.m., Lt. Bill Stonemets began singing the auctioneer's song.

"Two-seventy-five, $275, now $300," rolled off his tongue as quickly as Jello off a spoon. The bidding was just as quick.

Joe Miller of Berger simply smiled as cars were united with new owners. Advertisements, he said, offer better deals.

"You can look through the ads and find cars for $400," he said. "And they run."

'All we guarantee is that they're part plastic and part metal.'

Ketchum council defines 'tourist' tenancy

By KELLY EVERITT
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The City Council in Ketchum has taken a key step in resolving its problems with "time-sharing" residences by defining what is and is not short-term occupancy.

At the same time, council has directed the city's planning and zoning commissions to suspend all other rules and begin a comprehensive review of Ketchum's comprehensive plan and zoning ordinances.

The review, to be completed in 60 days, is expected to lead to rezoning recommendations that would segregate residential areas of the city from those with facilities that cater to short-term occupants.

The new ordinance, passed this week by council, defines short-term occupancy as any living unit rented for less than 30 days, according to Jim Jaquet, the Ketchum city administrator. Single-family homes, duplexes and apartments rented by the month are considered residential housing.

Confusion over the definitions of what constituted tourist-type (transient) housing and what did not, had presented the city with potential legal and zoning problems.

The ordinance permits short-term occupancy in business and tourist zones, but it prohibits them in residential zones.

Jaquet said "at this time" he did not believe the new definitions would force the present use of some homes to be changed. "This is setting us up for later," he said.

"What we're trying to do is precisely define it (the two types of housing)."

Councilmen Tim Crawford and Sue Wolford voted in favor of the ordinance. Councilman Tom Held opposed it.

The planning and zoning commissions now will begin a parcel by parcel review of the city to identify existing uses and housing densities. When completed, a full picture of the current status of the city, including the location of short-term occupancy structures, will be available.

Based on that data, the commissions will recommend to council changes in the city's comprehensive plan and zoning ordinances to reflect existing uses and to more clearly direct future uses.

Jaquet said some residential areas near the ski slopes are potential candidates for rezoning that would allow short-term occupancy.

"What we want to do here is segregate the two uses. If you're a resident, you don't want somebody new moving in and out of the house next door every two weeks."

By cancelling all other work of the planning and zoning commissions to complete the review process, the move creates a de facto moratorium on most new development projects in the city.

The commissions will begin a series of work sessions sometime next week to begin the land-use review. Jaquet said an exact time and date will be announced later. "The public is encouraged to attend," he said.

Steve Barry, the chairman of the zoning commission, and Ed Simmott, the chairman of the planning commission, will chair the joint review group.

Council also directed the commissions to consider appropriate areas for annexation north and south of the present city limits.

It will be the first complete review of the city's comprehensive plan since its adoption in 1977.

Casino fights liability in death suit

TWIN FALLS — The family of a Twin Falls couple killed last year in an automobile collision is asking a Fifth District Court judge to rule that Cactus Pete's of Jackpot can be held liable because the casino sold liquor to the man held responsible for the accident.

In response, the casino is asking for a legal decision that would free it from liability in the matter.

Judge Theron Ward took the matter under advisement following arguments on the issue Friday.

The case stems from a Feb. 18, 1981, two-car collision on U.S. 80, which claimed the lives of Mustie and Marion Braun. According to Idaho State Police reports, a northbound pickup truck, driven by 68-year-old Clovas W. Rader of Wendell, crossed the highway's center line and collided with the Brauns' southbound vehicle.

Rader later pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and involuntary manslaughter. He was placed on a five-year probation on Aug. 27.

Meanwhile, the Brauns' children named Radar as the defendant in a $1.2 million wrongful death civil suit, filed in district court March 11.

On July 29, 1981, the plaintiffs amended their complaint, adding Cactus Pete's Inc. as a defendant.

They allege that the resort was responsible for the accident because it had provided Rader with drinks for 26 uninterrupted hours.

Both sides have asked Ward to enter a partial summary judgment on the issue of whether Nevada or Idaho law should prevail in the case.

Lawyers for Cactus Pete's argue that under Nevada Supreme Court decisions and under a law passed by the Nevada Legislature, a bar can not be held responsible to innocent third parties for injuries or death suffered as a result of the sale of alcohol.

Lawyers for the Brauns say Idaho law should prevail. They say that a recent Idaho Supreme Court decision found that bars are liable to third parties.

In 1969, the Supreme Court ruled that a bar was liable in the case of a motorist who became intoxicated and then became involved in an automobile accident. That decision conflicted with a 1969 Supreme Court decision, which was similar to the rulings of the Nevada court.

Ward expects to announce a decision next week.

Man arraigned for molesting 10-year-old girl

TWIN FALLS — A 43-year-old Murtaugh man remained in the Twin Falls County Jail on Friday following his arrest on charges that he sexually molested a 10-year-old girl.

Earlier in the day, Mark Wayne Holley was arraigned in Fifth District Magistrate Court on a charge of lewd conduct with a minor under the age of 16.

Judge Michael Redman set bond at $20,000.

According to charges, the incident occurred on Jan. 30 and 31.

Holley has requested a preliminary hearing. Since the defendant remains in custody, that hearing must be held within 14 days.

The county public defender has been appointed to represent him. In another arraignment held Friday, a Twin Falls brother and sister were arraigned on a charge of grand theft-auto.

Charles Kress, 18, and Rosemarie Kress, 21, are charged with taking a car belonging to Larry Fairbanks of Twin Falls on Jan. 29.

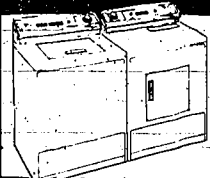

The brothers were arraigned along with a third defendant, Todd Richardson, in Nampa on Jan. 18. Richardson remained in the custody of Canyon County officials Friday.

Kimberly resident acquitted of assault

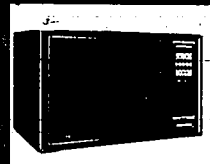

TWIN FALLS — A 29-year-old Kimberly man was acquitted of assault charges Friday following a trial in Fifth District Magistrate Court.

Rick Harmon was charged with threatening Leon S. Haslam of Hansen on Dec. 10. According to the charge, Harmon was living at Haslam's home at the time.

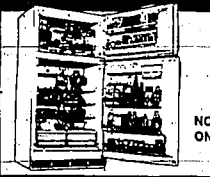

Judge Melvin Edwards issued the innocent verdict following a court trial.

Scott's slam caps CSI victory over Snow

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho 77, Snow College 68.

That's what the scoreboard said Friday night but don't take that as an indication of the game. With 53 seconds left, the Golden Eagles led 69-68 before George Scott, capping a 36-point night, slammed on the back of a CSI player to give Snow a shooting Badgers had to start fouling in an attempt to get back into the game.

CSI, hardly known as the best free throw shooting team in the country, got consecutive charities from Gerald Kennedy, Ron Beach and Kennedy again to ring down the curtain on the best game played in the Eagle gymnasium this year.

And it was exactly what the doctor, Coach Dave Campbell, anyway, ordered as he and the Eagles invade Rexburg to meet Ricks College tonight.

CSI hadn't had a close game since Christmas and Campbell wondered if his boys could build up the intensity for this one. Hardly a passing thought as Snow came in at 11-11.

But Campbell saw this one as a toughie since CSI barely edged the Badgers by two at Ephraim and Snow traditionally plays CSI close.

"It is a good situation," Campbell said. "It gears us up mentally for tomorrow night's game. We need it."

"Snow is a lot better than people think," Campbell said, "and it didn't surprise us."

One problem came when Snow went with a man defense the entire night. With its size, CSI has faced a succession of zones which has allowed a pretty deliberate pace.

"The man hurt us because of the big lineup," Campbell said. "But the guys came through with all the things they had to. George had a great night and missed four little shots in the first half or he'd have had the school record. We told Rick (Tunstall) he had to pass the ball tonight because they were going to collapse on him. He did a great job and George got a lot of his points from Tunstall. All of the guys fulfilled their roles well."

Scott's big night — besting a 31-point effort two weeks ago — started almost immediately as he scored 17 of CSI's first 21 points. Meanwhile, Brett Applegate was getting 11 of Snow's first 13.

CSI led all the way — never by more than nine — until Snow came up with a howitzer and a garbageman midway through the second half. The outside gunning was provided by Thomas

Larry, who picked up eight points in a five-minute span. But the big burst was provided by 6-7 Mike Quayle who should win the "being in the right spot at the right time" award for the night. Five times Quayle was standing alone, minding his own business when a rebound came to him for casual put-back points. He then added a 12-foot jumper off the baseline.

His third field goal went things at Applegate with 12:27 left and he and Applegate were the next four points to give Snow its biggest margin at 53-49.

Over the next five minutes, Scott hit eight points while Larry hit three times and Applegate added two free throws. That kept it at 60-60 but Scott sent CSI back on top for keeps with a three-point play.

After that CSI led from three to five until Applegate and Troy Buckley pulled Snow to within 69-68. Scott replied immediately with his slam and the free throw he needed.

Idaho repels NAU

MOSCOW — Broken-legged Brian Kellerman, further encumbered by four fouls, came off the bench in the closing six minutes to lift University of Idaho past Northern Arizona, 72-60 Friday night.

The Vandals, who just moments before had trailed by four points, took the lead on Kellerman's 20-footer from the top of the key with 6:53 left and he then united it seconds later with a pair of free throws for the final time.

His charities gave the Vandals' a 54-52 lead and Gordie Herbert followed with two free throws and a rebound shot to carry Idaho to its 18th victory in 20 outings and seventh Big Sky Conference win in eight tries.

It was the seventh league loss for Northern Arizona which had lost its last six games by a average of 3.5 points.

"We didn't play with much intensity or emotion, but let's give Coach Gene Vesser and Northern Arizona some credit," said Coach Don Monson afterward. "We used every offense we had and they stopped them all. Maybe I'd better dream up some more offenses."

A rather complacent crowd sat nodding knowingly when Idaho jumped off to a 10-2 lead. But the fans didn't really recover from what NAU started doing to the nation's No. 15-ranked team until the second half.

Idaho led throughout, but had one tie and only a 31-30 halftime lead.

The Vandals burst away 38-32 as the second half began but then Ted Plotts, Eric Bradley and Tony Mosley started hitting for the Lumberjacks.

Consecutive Bradley buckets tied it at 44-44 and then Mosley sent NAU ahead for the first time. Kelvin Smith and Phil Hopson sandwiched field goals around one by Jeff Altman to maintain the tie.

Then with 8:29 left, Andy Woodring's rebound tip gave NAU its final lead of the night at 50-48. Kenny Owens tied it from the foul line and Kellerman, who plays despite a stress fracture, then came up with the four points that set the stage for Idaho to lead.

In the closing minutes, the Vandals used their spread offense and foul shooting to push out the final margin.

Wolf Pack rips BSU

BOISE (UPI) — Nevada-Reno rode red hot 65 percent shooting to an easy 92-61 Big Sky Conference win over outmanned Boise State Friday night.

The Wolf Pack was led by the outside shooting of guard Billy Allen and James "BB" Fontenet to a 46-36 halftime advantage and the scoring forward Ken Green and center Greg Palm to put the outclassed Broncos away in the second half.

Fontenet led four Nevada-Reno players in double figures with 20 points while Palm had 18, forward Sam Mosley, 17, and Green, 16.

Rusty Palmer of Jerome, right, tries to stop a jump shot by Wood River's Lee Ritzau

Wood River's better timing nets win, title, playoff bye

BY CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

JEROME — Actors and entertainers rely on timing for their success.

On Friday night, so did Wood River High School.

After closing the curtains on an unimpressive first-half offensive performance, the Wolverines opened their second-half show with one new feature: improved timing.

The results were just boffo for the Wolverines: a 41-37 victory over Jerome, the South Central Idaho Conference championship and a bye in the league tournament later this month.

The relative lack of scoring — only 26 points had been scored at halftime, and just 53 by the middle of the third quarter — was because of the teams' deliberation and discipline.

"The tentative play had a lot to do with nervousness," Wood River Coach Dick Richel said.

But the Wolverines relaxed in the late game, trailing 27-26, they scored 15 points over the final five minutes to collect their 11th consecutive victory and raise their overall record to 13-2.

Richel said that better synchronization led to Wood River's decisive rally.

"On our passing game, our timing was off with getting the ball down low and getting time breaking off screens," he said. "We made that adjustment at halftime."

That adjustment, Richel explained, involved point guard Tracy Reynolds' initiating the offense with a screen or cut to 15 to 20 feet away from the basket instead of 30 feet, as the Wolverines had done earlier.

Richel also pointed out that the Wolverines broadened their offensive alignments, enabling Lee Ritzau and Jeff Birchler, both 6-foot-3, to operate more freely inside.

"We were jammed up, and letting them (the Tigers) sag in the middle," Richel said. "When we spread out; that opened it up for the big men in the middle."

Reynolds began a Wood River surge of eight points in a row with 4:57 left, sinking two free throws and putting the Wolverines on top 28-27.

With the middle open, Kyle Broadie took a back-court pass from Reynolds for a layin and Wood River's next score. Mike Payne and Ritzau climaxed the explosion by making two free throws apiece, Ritzau's pair coming with 2:17 to go and giving the Wolverines a 34-27 lead.

Troy Prairie helped bring Jerome back to within 38-33 by canning two long jumpers. Birchler made a layin behind the Tigers' press — the clinching basket — for a 38-33 Wood River lead, but with 40 seconds to go Jerome's Rusty Palmer dropped in a layup while being fouled by Ritzau. However, Palmer missed the bonus free throw.

A Reynolds free throw and two more from Birchler sealed the Wolverines' triumph and sent Jerome to its third defeat in 15 outings.

Jerome Coach Pat Hoke believed that the Wolverines' ability to build a lead exceeding two points helped their cause significantly.

"They got the lead right there by about two baskets ... not keeping up with their offensive spurt made it hard on us," Hoke said. "If we keep it within a basket it's anybody's game."

Shooting woes helped prevent the Tigers from closing the gap. Their 37 points represented their lowest offensive output of the season, matched only by in a 48-37 loss Jan. 9 — to Wood River.

"We didn't have the type of shooting percentage I'd like to see," Hoke said.

Minico wins as final shot ruled no good

RUPERT — You'll never convince Twin Falls it lost a basketball game Feb. 5, 1982, at Rupert but Minico simply will smile and point at the record.

In a game that in the minds of some probably will never end, Minico was credited with a 62-61 Gem State Conference victory.

But a lot of fist swinging and profanity, charges and counter-charges arose when, following a jump ball with six seconds left, Twin Falls made a shot but the points were waived off by the timer as coming after the clock had expired.

That's when, taking a cue from sports announcers, the crowd really got into the game.

What it actually amounted to, however, was the Minico outgout Twin Falls for three quarters and the Bruins almost pulled it out with a 22-point effort in fourth in a gutsy comeback.

The decisive plays for Minico came with about a minute left when Cliff Hanks and Jeff Schow picked up three free throws. At that point, Twin Falls completely took play away from the Spartans.

Steve Galley hit two free throws and a field goal and sophomore Andy Toolson hit another two-point with 18 seconds left. Twin Falls missed a field goal but Steve Meyerhoeffer forced the jump ball that set up the final controversial seconds and shot.

Minico Coach Craig Dexter had pronounced the first quarter probably the most critical going into the contest.

Twin Falls held its own for the first five minutes, tying it at 9-9. But in the next minutes, Twin Falls ran into a rash of turnovers and Lynn VanEvery, Randy Homer, Darel Tracy and Jeff Schow, the last on a cringle, stole a steal, pushed Minico ahead 18-10.

After Meyerhoeffer opened the second period with four Bruin points, Minico threatened to run away. Randy Stimpson hit four points and Cliff Hanks and Mike Shockey added two each. Four consecutive Homer points gave Minico a 31-18 lead but in the closing minutes Meyerhoeffer scored two Bruin field goals to cut the deficit to 32-24.

Twin Falls chopped back to within four in the third quarter as Mark Mumm and Joe Shelby hit field goals and Galley picked up one of two free throws. But VanEvery replied with a three-point play and Hanks added a follow bucket. Tracy's three-point play threatened to run away. A 47-55 lead and the Spartans still had 12 to spare as the fourth quarter started.

Twin Falls cut back quickly as Bowen Call and Meyerhoeffer hit from the field. Schow got a little back with a driving scoop shot for Minico but then Galley hit two free throws and Toolson scored.

With its lead down to 53-47 with 4:20 left, Minico went to its spread offense and Tracy immediately collected four free throws.

Minico stayed ahead 59-51 when Galley hit four points and Meyerhoeffer added a charity. Then came Schow and Hanks with the free throws that nailed it down.

Twin Falls sophomores won the preliminary 36-32.

Tigers must defeat American Falls to gain state field

BY MARY CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

BURLEY — It will be the fast break against the deliberate offense tonight as Jerome and American Falls meet to decide a berth in next week's A-2 Girls State Basketball Tournament.

Jerome, winner of the Fourth District A-2 tourney earlier this week, faces American Falls, the Fifth District runner-up in the Burley High gym at 7:30 p.m.

The winner goes to state at Boise High next week while the winner stays home.

American Falls, now 16-6, defeated Snake River 50-48 Thursday night at Blackfoot to gain the playoff game while Jerome, 17-2, waited through its district opposition.

Jerome Coach Jim Stauffer watched American Falls Thursday night and spent most of the night and Friday trying to figure just how to defeat American Falls' ace, 5-6 senior guard Chris Schrieber.

"She's a heck of a player," Stauffer said. "She scored 28 of her 50 points and most of them came from out on the wing. American Falls likes to run with the ball and we're going to have to slow them down as much as possible and defend against her."

Stauffer said he is loving with the idea of using a box-and-one or triangle defense against Schrieber, who is being looked at by at least three college coaches.

"She (Schrieber) is averaging 18 points a game," American Falls Coach Dennis Osman said. "There aren't any secrets to keep at this point. We love to run and we'll do it every chance we get."

Cousins Janice and Deanna Fehringer operate the Beavers' fast break while 5-11 Charlotte Mc Masters and 5-10 Deanna Davis hit the boards effectively.

Tami Hayes, another starter, is averaging 11 points a game for American Falls. "She's a great one night and the next night she leaves her game at home," Osman said.

Jerome is paced by 6-0 center-forward Jenise VanderVeg, 5-10 guard-forward Marge Marshall and senior Vicki Winder. The Tigers like to play deliberate basketball.

Jerome is bidding to go to state for the second straight year while American Falls has never made the trip.

"We're right in the middle of that process," Richel now and we've got one game to go," Osman said. "Hopefully we can get past Jerome. I haven't seen them play, but I understand they have a big girl we'll have to handle."

Osman has been at American Falls for three seasons. He's been building the program. His Beavers were 4-12 his first year and jumped to 15-5 last season. This year they finished second in the district, unbeaten Preston.

"Our girls are scrappy, they run and they just don't quit," he said.

Wrestling

Skyline big favorite for Gem crown

By MARCUS PRATER
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — The vote is in, and Skyline appears to be the winner.

That is what the coaches are saying concerning today's Gem State Conference wrestling championships at Highland High School.

Skyline appears to be the easy winner on paper considering five Grizzlies are back from last year's state championship squad, the team is 9-0 in dual meets this season, ranked No. 1 in the state and coached by veteran Floyd Young.

But lurking in the shadows are three teams that will battle for second place, or possibly even defeat Skyline. The three are Bonneville, Blackfoot and Minico.

"Skyline is the defending state champs, and they'll win without a doubt," Minico Coach Jerry Ennis said. "Second place is between Minico, Bonneville and Blackfoot."

"Skyline is definitely the team to beat," Twin Falls Coach Andy Barron said. "I haven't seen Bonneville, but I know they are tough, and Blackfoot is very strong."

"I think we are the favorite," Skyline's Young said. "But anything can happen in a tournament."

Skyline, despite losing several state tournament wrestlers from last year, has several grapplers who have filled in rather nicely.

Scott Birkbine, a 165-pounder, was the state champion a year ago, and hasn't lost this season. Another Grizzly who is undefeated this season is 185-pounder Jim Andrus. Tim Jones, 119, and Roger Ford, 112, have only lost twice.

"We have at least five wrestlers that will probably take championships tomorrow," Young said rather proudly.

Barron's Bruins face a rough time today, but Barron has not lost his optimistic attitude.

"We're not looking at winning, and I don't know what we'll do as far as placing goes. We need a good effort in our lower weights," he said. "Shane Cole (112), Bobby Galvan (138) and Billy Walker (157) will have to turn in good matches."

The Bruins were blanked by Blackfoot 67-0 in Twin Falls' first match of the season Dec. 1, and fell to Skyline 55-4 later in the season. The Bruins go into today's tournament sporting a 3-9 dual match record.

Minico's Ennis has an attitude in his mind of a strong second-place finish.

"We know they (undefeated wrestlers) are all tough, but if the kids wrestle they way they are capable of, we have a good shot at second place," Ennis said.

Ennis feels 167-pounder Tad Berrie, heavyweight David Pena and Ted and Tom Talsoks (119 and 128, respectively) all have a shot at individual championships.

An 8-3 dual match record, a first place, and three runner-up finishes in major tournaments appear to be strong points for the Spartans, and looking to Bonneville and Skyline in dual matches the week spots.

"We set certain goals at the beginning of the season, and we've accomplished most of those," Ennis said.

"Floyd Young is an outstanding coach, and it will be tough to do anything against them (Skyline)," Highland's Farmer said. "We're doing well right now, and we'll find out just how well."

Barron looks at today as physical and psychological preparation for Wednesday's district competition with Burley and Minico.

"We'll concentrate on Pocatello and Idaho Falls, not because they're bad teams, but those matches will give the kids some confidence," Barron said. "If (the tournament) will help us with district as far as seeding goes with Minico."

Buhl, Nampa JV tie in SCIC tourney

If a few key matches would have gone the other way...

"We had four of five guys that did a heck of a job, and they were a couple that were a letdown. Those letdowns could have cost us first place by ourself," Howell said.

Dan Karr of Jerome won the 98-pound title.

Golf

Burns leading Crosby by one

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — George Burns wildly sprayed his iron shots at Cypress Point Friday but scrambled home with a 69 for a one-stroke lead after two rounds of the $300,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

Burns, 32, a New Yorker who won the 1982 Crosby for his second career victory, started the second round a shot off the lead and, after Bruce Lietzke and Forrest Fezler fell back, charged into a one-shot lead over former U.S. Amateur champion Hal Sutton and Jim Simons.

Burns shot a 67 at Pebble Beach in the opening round, so his 36-hole score was eight-under-par 136.

Sutton, who had a 70 in the first round, shot a 67 while Simons, who opened with a 71, shot a 66. Like Burns, Sutton and Simons played at Cypress.

Lietzke struggled to an even-par 72 at Cypress to trail by two strokes while Jack Nicklaus, Bobby Wadkins and Danny Edwards were another stroke back.

Four shots off the lead were Tim Simpson, Morris Hatalsky and Rex Caldwell.

Craig Stadler, who won the Tucson Open to start the 1982 TPA tour, shot 71 at Pebble Beach while Johnny Miller, winner of a rich South African shootout and the San Diego Open last week, had a 71 at Spyglass. Both were in a group at 142, six strokes off the lead.

Also at 142 after a 73 at Spyglass was Masters champion Tom Watson. U.S. Open champ David Graham shot 71 at the same course but was 10 strokes off the lead at 146. Tom Kite, the 1981 leading money-winner, shot a 70 at Spyglass and was at 143.

Burns said that he was lucky to shoot a 69, considering the way he played.

"I hit the ball all over the place,"

George Burns blasts his ball clear of a trap just off the fourth green at Cypress Point said Burns, who was seventh on the money list in 1980 but 37th last year. "I remember having a similar round, but at Spyglass, when I won in 1980."

Burns birdied all four par-5s in the opening round but was not nearly as successful on the long holes at Cypress. His only birdie on a par-five came on the 10th hole when he two-putted from 25 feet. He parred two other 5s and bogeyed the fourth, when his shot flew past the green and he was fortunate to get down in regulation.

Although he was three strokes off the lead, Nicklaus said that he was happy with his position, especially after getting past Spyglass with a 70. The heavily tree-lined course is a layout Nicklaus dislikes, and he has never scored well there.

Six-under 66 puts Singleton up by 3 in LPGA tourney

MIAMI (UPI) — Little-known Vicki Singleton shot a six-under par 66 Friday to take a three-stroke lead at the midway point of a $125,000 LPGA tournament at Turnberry Isle Country Club.

The tournament is sponsored by Elizabeth Arden.

Eight players were tied for second at four-under-par 140. They included Sally Little and Jane Blalock, the winners of the last two tournaments here and Hollis Stacy, who took the 1982 tour opener last weekend at Deerfield Beach.

Others are JoAnne Carner, who lost to Stacy last week on the fifth extra hole of a playoff, 1981 U.S. Open champion Pat Bradley, last year's Rookie of the Year Patty Sheehan, Miami first-round leader Betsy King, and Brenda Goldsmith.

Carner, Bradley and Goldsmith had 70s Friday. Little, Blalock, Stacy and Sheehan shot 71s and King fired a 72.

Joey Kazmieris was another stroke back at 141.

Singleton, starting her third year on the tour, almost didn't get to play this week. She missed the entry deadline last Friday and had to pay a $10 late fee in addition to the normal entry fee of $50.

"I forgot to check the commitment book at Deer Creek," she explained. "I was going to do it Friday—but it slipped my mind. When I called the tournament office Saturday morning, I learned I had missed the deadline."

In past years, Saturday would have been too late for Singleton, but a new rule instituted this year allows entry up to 6 p.m. Monday of a tournament week with payment of the $100 fine.

With a check of $18,750 awaiting the winner here Sunday, Singleton may not mind the fine.

A native of Oberlin, Ohio and a graduate of Arizona State, Singleton had never finished higher in an LPGA tournament than a tie for 10th at Birmingham, Ala., in 1980.

Cooper places 2nd again

Hess adds slalom to victory list

SCHLADMING, Austria (UPI) — Switzerland's Erika Hess Friday exemplified her almost total domination of women's ski racing when she added the World Championships slalom title to the gold medals she won earlier in the Alpine combined and the giant slalom.

Hess, 19, also the women's overall World Cup leader, was second fastest in her first run through 60 gates with a vertical drop of 176 meters at Haus, but clocked the best time on the second run to clinch victory with a total 1:41.60.

Her triple gold medal triumph matched the feat of Liechtenstein's Hanni Wenzel at the 1980 Lake Placid Olympics, and that of Rosi Mittermayer of West Germany, who at the 1976 Olympics at Innsbruck won the slalom, downhill and combined titles.

The achievement overshadowed the gold medal performance of Frenchmen Michel Vion, who sped down the Planai piste to win the men's Alpine combined title ahead of Switzerland's Peter Luescher and Anton Steiner of Austria.

But as the Swiss and French celebrated, there was more gloom for the local fans, as it was learned that Franz Klammer, known as the "Emperor" and local favorite for the coveted men's downhill title to be settled Saturday, had crashed in training and damaged his knee.

The extent of the injuries of the 28-year-old star who won the downhill title at the 1976 Innsbruck Olympics was not immediately clear.

However, the Austrian team doctor announced that 28-year-old Klammer would be on the starting list despite suffering a possible concussion and injuring his chest.

After his accident, Klammer was upset that the Planai piste, most of which was used in the men's combined downhill Friday before the specialists trained, had been ruled by the wayward skiing of some of the less talented competitors for the combined medals.

Hess twice doubled she could come home ahead of American silver medalist Christa Cooper, 1:41.83, and Italian Daniela Zini, whose 1:41.96 brought her the bronze medal.

"The slalom medal was the hardest to capture," said Hess. "I was on the verge of giving up in the first run when I got into trouble near the start."

"There was a moment when I thought it was no use to race on, but I continued and regained some of the lost time in the bottom part of the course."

Hess made another mistake early on the second run, but Italy's Maria-Rosa Quarzo, who was the only girl to beat Hess on the first run, failed to manage well on the second course and dropped back to fifth. That left Cooper and Zini, chasing the Swiss stylist in vain.

"I felt really good on my skis on this track," said Cooper, who lost time when she shed her goggles on the second run. "I think I could have gained some additional split seconds without that mishap in the second run."

"But I admit it's very hard to defeat Erika — she is really great."

That was the view of Mittermayer, at the course as a guest of honor as Hess matched her triple-gold achievement.

Ford refines position in UAW talks

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. negotiators refined their position Friday on extensive contract concessions the financially ailing automaker is seeking from the United Auto Workers.

No formal briefing was held during the fifth day of bargaining following resumption of talks called in an attempt to avert the industry's crippling slump. Subcommittee meetings were set to resume Saturday and run through the weekend.

UAW chief negotiator Donald Ephlin said there was little movement during formal bargaining. Officials from both sides declined to reveal specifics in Friday's talks.

"Things are slow — slower than we expected," Ephlin said. "I just don't have anything newsworthy to tell you."

Hitachi aiming to make bigger chips

TOKYO (UPI) — Hitachi Ltd. said Friday it will expand its computer chip production facility in the United States in a bid to secure a bigger share in the expanding U.S. market.

A spokesman for the leading Japanese chip maker said the expansion plan calls for tripling the plant size of Hitachi's U.S. subsidiary, Hitachi Semiconductor America, based in Dallas, Texas.

The added floor space would be used for expanding production facilities for the assembly of 16k and 64k ram chips — the powerhouses of most computer products.

The new plant also opens the way for the production of a super chip — 256k — which is 16 times more powerful than the 16k circuits. The 256k chip, reputedly the most powerful integrated circuit developed by Hitachi, will be produced in Japan this fall.

Bankers to pilot Laker Air

SIR FREDDIE LAKER ... end of no-frills dream

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Freddie Laker's pioneer no-frills Skytrain air service which opened the Atlantic air route to the low-budget traveler collapsed Friday.

It was a victim of high fuel prices, recession and a shrinking pound.

Laker Airways was ordered into receivership and Laker's banker, the Clydesdale Bank, immediately ordered the accounts of Laker, Ernest and Whinney to take over management of the airline, which reportedly owed $376 million.

As many as 40,000 Laker ticket holders were stranded abroad and forced to seek other means of transport home. One Laker DC-10 en route to the resort of Tenerife in the Canaries was called back to Manchester's Ringway Airport after an hour and a half in the air.

Laker's competitors on the trans-Atlantic route, British Airways, British Caledonian, American and World Airways, said they would honor Laker tickets, at least through the weekend. Trans World Airways had not yet decided whether to give seats to Laker passengers at 80 extra cost.

"We are mounting a rescue operation for Laker ticket holders stranded abroad on a space available basis at no extra cost," a British Airways spokesman said. Pan Am said it would honor Laker tickets through Sunday.

Under the receivership arrangement, Ernest and Whinney have several options, including sale of the entire airline, selling parts of the operation for an immediate cash infusion or trying to keep the airline under new management.

"It's very sad indeed that it has become necessary to take this step," said William Mackley who, along with N.J. Hamilton, was appointed to joint receivership by Ernest and Whinney.

On Tuesday, Laker told his bankers, "I am flying high and couldn't be more confident."

But an airline spokeswoman said Wednesday, "Events took a sudden and dramatic turn." By Thursday, Laker's creditors and potential backers said arrangements reached between Laker and aircraft manufacturer McDonnell Douglas were "not considered adequate."

It was the end of Laker's dream of cheap intercontinental travel.

The trans-Atlantic service which gave millions of ordinary tourists a chance to be jet-setters became a reality in 1977 and operated like a bus service with tickets sold a few hours before the flight on a first-come, first-served basis. The cost of a single ticket was $138 compared with $35 for the cheapest ticket on a scheduled flight.

His cut-rate trans-Atlantic flights earned him opposition from other airlines and a neighborhood from Queen Elizabeth.

On Thursday, the airline said, "The facilities available to the company from its banks, Clydesdale, and the arrangements reached with McDonnell Douglas are unacceptably not considered adequate by others to meet the anticipated requirements of the company over the next few months, although Laker strongly disagrees with this view."

Laker had been hoping for a re-scheduling of a reported $376 million of debts resulting from a drop in passengers attributed to the general economic recession.

The key to the deal, which collapsed Thursday night, would have involved McDonnell Douglas' finance corporation taking an interest in the airline.

Skytrain between New York and London came into operation in 1977 after 6 1/2 years of bitter wrangling with British and American authorities.

Banks extend Western Airlines money

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A group of banks and insurance companies agreed to extend $18 million in new working capital to Western Airlines and has waived technical defaults on existing loans.

In return, Western Airlines put up 29 aircraft as collateral for the new loans and for $80 million in previously unsecured debt.

A Western spokesman said the agreement calls for the loans to be repaid in 90 days. The airline said it planned to repay the loans with money derived from the sale of three DC-10s to Capitol Airways — a sale that could net Western about $30 million.

American exhibition opens in Peking

PEKING (UPI) — Two U.S. Department of Commerce officials have arrived in Peking to open an exhibition of American light industrial goods, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said Friday.

Lawrence Brady, assistant secretary for trade administration, and Eugene Lawson, deputy assistant secretary for east-west trade, arrived Thursday evening. They were scheduled to hold a news conference Saturday morning to mark the opening of the U.S. national light industry exhibition which ends Feb. 15.

Plant regulator wins EPA approval

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (UPI) — Burst Products, Inc., said Friday it now has obtained clearance and registration with the Environmental Protection Agency for its cyrogen based plant growth regulator, Burst Yield Booster.

The EPA does endorse the product's efficacy but merely certifies that it used properly it will not harm the environment.

Dr. Jerry V. Mayeux, president of Burst Products, said this should facilitate getting the yield booster registered in the various states.

Money supply down but not enough

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's basic money supply measure known as M1 fell $1.3 billion in the week ended Jan. 27 after major revisions that still leave money growth too high to allow relief from high interest rates.

The Federal Reserve said had it not been for a change in seasonal adjustments and a so-called "benchmark revision" which the Fed makes quarterly based on data from very small banks, M1 would have fallen $3.2 billion.

The benchmark revision is a small, routine readjustment of base figures.

Britain may cut North Sea oil price

By United Press International

British National Oil Corp. has offered to cut its price for North Sea crude oil by $1.50 a barrel — a further sign of the deteriorating world oil market, industry sources said Friday.

British National met with its customers Friday and proposed an across-the-board price cut of $1.50 that would lower its principal crude from the Forties field to $35 a barrel. But the sources said B.N.O.C.'s customers have not yet decided whether to accept the reduction, which would intensify pressure on OPEC's North African members to trim their similar high-quality crude that sells for $35.50 to $37 a barrel.

Milwaukee, Grand Trunk may merge

CHICAGO (UPI) — The court-appointed bankruptcy trustee overseeing the Milwaukee Road said Friday he will continue discussions with Grand Trunk Corp. about merging the Milwaukee into the GTC rail system.

U.S. trade balance narrows for 1981

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's broadest measure of international commerce — the balance of payments — is narrowing for 1981 after two years of surplus because of a growing merchandise trade deficit, the government said Friday.

If the trend continues, 1982 could show a deficit in the nation's "current account," as the balance of payments is known, one government analyst indicated.

Although stopping short of that prediction, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige acknowledged, "Trade is an extremely important element in the balance of current account."

The current account is used by nations to gauge their "bottom line" after totaling merchandise trade as well as the interest on international bank loans, foreign investment and trade in services like insurance.

Baldrige added, "As our economy begins to recover this year, the trade deficit will increase."

The deficit in merchandise trade reached a record quarterly total of $9.3 billion from October through December of 1981, after the adjustments that allow it to be included in the current account to be announced later this spring, the Commerce Department said Friday.

The adjustments exclude military payments and compensate for gold shipments across borders as well as various technical factors. The changes shrink the trade deficit figure on a balance of payments basis from the more widely followed total without the adjustments.

On the balance of payments basis last year's total trade deficit was $27.3 billion, a 9.9 percent increase over 1980, the department said.

Without the adjustments, the government reported on Jan. 28 that the year's deficit was $37.7 billion, the third worst year on record and a 8.8 percent increase over 1980.

"The increasing deficit occurred despite a drop in oil imports and is a sign that the U.S. competitive position has slipped in world markets," Baldrige said.

Not only are trade deficits mounting but the interest income from loans to foreigners and trade in services is tapering off. The result is that the trade deficit "is less likely to be offset by the sharp rises in other asset income," said economist David Lund, a Commerce Department trade specialist.

The current account has been in surplus since 1978, allowing government officials to largely shrug off the deterioration in merchandise trade that began at the end of 1975.

For the first three quarters of 1980 the current account amassed a surplus of about $6.5 billion. The latest trade figures and other indications "essentially suggest the fourth quarter will be in balance, rather than the $2.1 billion surplus in the third quarter," Lund said.

The trend of surpluses has "now turned around," he said.

In the fourth quarter of 1980, the merchandise trade deficit on the balance of deficit was $7 billion, the department said.

Wall Street regains some lost ground

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bolstered by investor hopes of easier interest rates, the stock market scored a broad-based gain Friday that erased part of the week's earlier losses.

Trading was active.

Airline issues were strong following news the London-based Laker Airways no-frills firm went broke. Some blue-chip issues and banking stocks also showed strength.

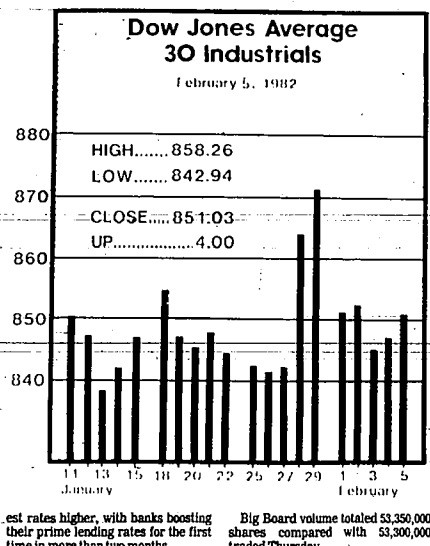

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rallied for a 2-point gain Thursday, tacked on 4 points to 851.03 after being ahead more than six points at mid-afternoon. But it lost 20.07 points overall this week.

Brokers said the rally that carried over from Thursday was marked by considerable short covering, or investors' replacing of borrowed shares they had sold earlier.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 0.49 to 67.79 and the price of an average share increased 20 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.84 to 117.26. Advances routed declines 1,040-410 among the 1,853 issues traded.

Some buying was done on speculation prior to the Federal Reserve's report after the market closed that the nation's money supply, seasonally adjusted, fell $1.4 billion in the latest period. Without adjustment, the decline would have been $3.2 billion.

"That was welcome news to investors who had seen a January surge drive both long- and short-term inter-

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 61,630,450 shares compared with 61,243,780 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 0.51 to 285.51 and the price of a share jumped two cents. Advances topped declines 315-244 among the 756 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 5,401,785 shares compared with 4,167,900 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC stocks gained 1.07 to 188.31.

On the trading floor, airline issues, particularly those with North Atlantic routes, were pace-setters after Laker went into receivership.

Trans World climbed 1 1/2 to 18 1/2 and Pan American World Airways 1/2 to 3 on the NYSE and Air Florida added 1/4 to 6 1/2 in OTC trading. Analysts believe those companies will benefit most from Laker's demise.

Among the other carriers, Delta Airlines rose 1/4 to 26 1/4 with a block of 140,000 shares at 28. American Airlines gained 1 to 11 1/4. UAL Inc. 1/4 to 17. US Air 3/4 to 13 1/4. Northwest Orient 2 1/4 to 27 1/4 and KLM Royal Dutch 2 to 35.

McDonnell Douglas, the manufacturer of DC-10 jet craft Laker Airways used, eased 3/4 to 30. The company said it stands to lose $50 million because of the affair.

Curbing health care costs by competition, choice

For more than a decade through various regulatory measures at every level of government, efforts have been made to curb the spiral in our health care costs — now at an astounding 9.4 percent of our nation's entire output of goods and services.

Some so-called certificate-of-need measures have been aimed at limiting the supply of expensive hospital beds and otherwise reducing the costly duplication of hospital facilities and equipment.

Other measures have tried to control unnecessary hospital admissions, lengths of stay and procedures through the use of Professional Standards Review Organizations (PSROs) or physician monitoring committees. Still others have been targeted at limiting payments to hospitals and physicians, with the purpose of holding increases in charges and fees to levels more closely parallel to increases in the general cost of living.

Although these measures have had some impact in holding down costs, their results overall have not been impressive — possibly because all regulatory actions, in order to win political acceptability, must be watered-down compromises.

Now, as alternatives to these regulatory approaches, the Reagan administration and some influential members of Congress are suggesting that greater health care efficiency and economy could be achieved by putting more competition and consumer choice into our medical marketplace.

One proposal would have the government issue fixed-price vouchers that Medicare patients could use to opt out of the program and instead purchase private insurance or enroll in prepaid health maintenance organizations (HMOs). Then, the idea is that patients would shop for the best buy.

However, the coverage chosen would have to be at least the equal of that offered by Medicare.

Other proposals would limit the amount of insurance employers could deduct from their taxes, and would give tax credits to employers who offer workers a choice of competing health plans (with minimum benefits for catastrophic illness). Workers choosing the cheaper plans would also get tax-free rebates. At least one of the plans would have a low premium and would require workers to pay 20 percent of their bills.

Critics of the proposals argue that they would tend to discourage and decrease the use of health services, and leave the country's most medically needy population — the poor, the elderly and the chronically ill — with inadequate care. The proposals also could threaten the financial future of the nation's teaching hospitals, which already operate at a competitive disadvantage because of their dual role of teaching and research while providing care for the poor.

But the proposals and past efforts ignore the apparent lesson that efforts to contain health care costs, in order to work, must be a shared responsibility involving all sectors of the community: business and labor as consumers, physicians as the medical managers of health care, health insurers, hospitals and government.

It is against this background that in an unprecedented major private effort to curb health care costs, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation has just announced that it will award a total of $16.2 million to help as many as 12 of the nation's communities to initiate innovative approaches to providing quality care more efficiently and economically.

The program is co-sponsored by the American Hospital Association and the Blue Shield and Blue Cross associations. Its purpose is to demonstrate that all sectors can work together to carry out major broad-based local projects, the best of which other communities could adopt.

If the foundation's Community Programs for Affordable Health Care are successful, says Dr. David E. Rogers, the foundation's president, 1982 could mark the beginning of an historic turning point in the long battle to hold down costs. If your community is part of a population area of at least 250,000, it may apply for a grant. (Letters of interest due by May 1.)

Britain OKs sanctions against Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish government officials said Friday martial law could be lifted within "a matter of only another month" and the remaining 4,000 people detained since the Dec. 13 crackdown released.

The officials also again denied mistreating those in detention and said martial law measures had cut serious crime by 60 percent.

In London, the government of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher announced new economic sanctions against Poland and the Soviet Union, to protest the continuation of martial law.

British officials said they expect other Western nations to reinforce NATO's Jan. 11 condemnation of Soviet-backed repression in Poland with similar sanctions soon.

The British sanctions included restrictions on travel in Britain by Soviet and Polish diplomats, suspension of talks on scheduling Poland's debts, refusal of new credit and a halt to Common Market food shipments to Poland at bargain prices.

Britain also will reduce technical cooperation with the Soviet Union and require Soviet fishing vessels to obtain licenses for operating in British waters, officials said.

In Washington, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., called for a stiffer allied response to the crisis in Poland, saying the NATO reaction so far has been "near to shameful." Moynihan said he will ask Congress to declare Poland in default of its debts to Americans.

Government officials, taking pains to refute allegations that some of the 4,177 Solidarity activists and other dissidents still in detention had been mistreated, said guards were under strict orders to treat prisoners as "courteously as the circumstances will allow."

One government official said the remaining detainees will be released "as soon as martial law is lifted — and this may be a matter of only another month or so."

The official did not elaborate. While there has been no firm word yet when martial law would be lifted, recent statements by officials and by the Polish media have indicated that it could last a long time.

Officials acknowledged that some confrontations have taken place between martial law detainees and guards, but they sought to portray them as misunderstandings on the part of guards more accustomed to dealing with hardened criminals than intellectuals and trade union activists.

"They are frustrated and angry at times, too," said one official.

The comments followed reports earlier in the week that guards at Suwalki prison in northeastern Poland had beaten 10 internees and that authorities set a camp at Gdansk near the Soviet border had forced women to sign loyalty oaths by threatening to turn their children over to the state.

Criminal police chief Tadeusz Rydzki said serious crime has dropped by 60 percent since the imposition of the tough martial law regulations and "more than 2,000 perpetrators of the most serious crimes have been apprehended."

Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh Prince Philip

British press honors Queen's anniversary

LONDON (UPI) — The British press paid tribute to Queen Elizabeth Friday on the eve of her 30th anniversary on the throne.

"Long may she reign," cried the main front-page headline in the Daily Mirror. Other newspapers and television programs extolled "the virtues of Elizabeth" and her "30 unswerving years."

"Who would have imagined in February 1952, said royalty expert Robert Lacey, "that 30 years of our history would have left Britain's crown 'only truly popular political institution,' as member of parliament Norman St. John Stevas described it recently?"

Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary was 25, on vacation at a game-watching resort in Kenya, when word came on Feb. 6, 1952, that her father, King George VI, was dead.

Since then 30 years have made her "the most famous woman in the world," said Friday's Mirror.

"Instead of being undemocratic, the monarchy has become part of the rock on which British democracy rests," the Mirror said. "The credit for that belongs to the queen. It is the achievement of her 30 years."

Anniversary assessments of the queen have not been wholly uncritical. Lacey, author of the best-selling "Majesty," ticked off some of her flaws.

Nicaraguan minister says U.S. arming exile army on border

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto said Friday the United States was arming an exile army of 6,000 men in 20 military camps along Nicaragua's border in collusion with Honduras, Guatemala, and Argentina.

"Originally, there were 3,500 former National Guardsmen who fled to Honduras," D'Escoto said in an interview.

"They have since been joined by 2,000 others, some trained in camps in California and Florida, some who originally fled to Guatemala and El Salvador who are now going to Honduras."

He said the exiles were armed, many with weapons they took with them after the fall of Anastasio Somoza in 1978, and based in 20 camps.

Many received additional arms — "I suppose from the United States," he said.

The foreign minister, a Jesuit priest who celebrated his 40th birthday Friday, said the 200 persons in Nicaragua and "about 5% of the exiles forces had been killed in small unit incursions from Honduras in the past two and a half years."

"We have evidence that high officials of the Honduran army collaborate very closely with these elements," D'Escoto said. "The United States has always used third parties as Trojan Horses, as hirelings, as in the Bay of Pigs invasion in Cuba or in the overthrow of Jacobo Arbenz in Guatemala.

"We can expect the same in Nicaragua or in El Salvador. The United States is mobilizing the most reactionary and fascist forces."

"Evidently, the United States is trying to involve Guatemala, Honduras, and Argentine elements. There is evidence of this. We have proof."

He said the border incidents had produced international pressure on Nicaragua's Sandinista government to "do something else besides send protest notes."

"We know this will be falling into the hands of the Somocistas, giving them a pretext for more intervention."

D'Escoto repeated his often stated belief that Nicaragua was supplying El Salvador rebels with arms, and he said he was worried about the "verbal escalation" of mutual recriminations between Nicaragua and the United States.

"All kinds of accusations are being made without any proof," he said.

"It is evident that these accusations are being made to 'keep all options open,' as the North American secretary of state has said, in case of a direct military action against Nicaragua."

West German chancellor survives no-confidence vote

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, untangling a governing coalition, easily won a vote of confidence Friday for his domestic and foreign policies.

The vote, 269-10-225, gave Schmidt 20 more votes than he needed to remain chancellor.

All 216 members of Schmidt's Social Democratic Party, plus all 53 members of the liberal Free Democrats, joined to hand the opposition Christian Democrats an expected defeat in the Bundestag, the lower house of parliament.

The Christian Democratic opponents, accusing the Social Democrats of being splintered on the issue of deploying medium-range U.S. nuclear missiles in West Germany, cast the 225 votes against Schmidt.

"You don't represent your own party anymore with your opinions," Christian Democratic leader Helmut Kohl told Schmidt before the vote, adding that the Social Democrats were infected with "perilous anti-Americanism."

In a speech before the vote, Schmidt asked for a show of confidence not only for a $5.3 billion program to create jobs — the issue that triggered the debate — but also for his entire package of foreign and domestic policies.

Army fights guerrillas off El Salvador roads

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Army patrols swept southeastern El Salvador Friday to drive out guerrillas who seized the nation's two key highways in a spreading campaign to disrupt upcoming elections.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said guerrillas killed one soldier and wounded six others and three civilians on the outskirts of Usulután, El Salvador's fourth largest city, 66 miles east of the capital, on Thursday.

Rebels also ambushed an army patrol on the coastal highway near the Lempa River, 55 miles to the east, wounding two soldiers and setting fire to two army vehicles abandoned by the troops, local officials said.

The guerrillas waited on the highway after the attack, talking with their camp by walkie-talkie and chatting with journalists passing along the road.

"We are on the offensive. We have moved the struggle from the countryside to the streets," the rebel patrol leader told the reporters.

The army sent patrols into the area to flush out rebels who have attacked scores of vehicles on the coastal highway and the Pan American highway to the north, the two main roads cutting across the Central American nation.

The highway attacks were part of a growing guerrilla campaign to disrupt the junta's plans for March elections of a constitutional assembly that will set the rules for presidential elections in 1983.

A military officer said guerrillas attacked the town of Ereguayquén, just east of Usulután, setting fire to the town hall, the government communications office and a private home in a brief occupation Wednesday.

Judicial officials reported 26 political stayings in the past 24 hours around the nation of 5 million people, where an estimated 30,000 people have died in three years of civil war.

The rebels say they are fighting for a "revolutionary break" with El Salvador's 50-year dominance by the rich and the army. The U.S.-backed junta charges they will impose a marxist regime on the Central American nation.

In Washington, U.S. officials said three UH-1 Huey helicopters were sent from Corpus Christi, Texas, Friday.

Weinberger Defense secretary visits Mideast

OXFORD, England (UPI) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger paid a private visit to Oxford Friday before leaving for his first Middle East tour to seek closer defense cooperation with Saudi Arabia and other Gulf states.

Weinberger stopped in England for 24 hours for a private conference at the Ditchley think tank on his way to Saudi Arabia, the first stop on a three-nation Middle East tour — his first since taking office. He will go on to Oman and Jordan.

U.S. officials said the notion of a "strategic," anti-Soviet "consensus" was the main issue Weinberger would raise in his three days of talks with Saudi leaders.

Weinberger is carrying messages from President Reagan, but one official described them as general and "nothing startling."

U.S. officials said Weinberger will raise the possibility of contributing U.S. economic and military aid to countries now receiving similar aid from Saudi Arabia.

Soldiers find missing rocket accidentally lost from jet

SCHRAMBERG, West Germany (UPI) — A Sidehunter rocket accidentally dropped by a U.S. jet fighter was found Friday in a barn in the Black Forest after a four-day search by American and West German soldiers, U.S. Air Force officials said.

A spokeswoman at Bilburg Air Base said there was no doubt that the AIM-9L rocket was buried in a pile of hay in the barn near Schramberg, 62 miles southwest of Stuttgart.

"There is a hole in the roof of the barn and we have found pieces of metal that come from the rocket," a police spokesman said.

The police spokesman said residents of the farm alerted police when they discovered a hole in the roof of the barn. He said police evacuated the residents and sealed off the area.

He said the missile would be removed Saturday by U.S. military experts.

The rocket, containing 8 pounds of TNT, fell from a U.S. plane on a practice air-defense mission Monday, 91 miles from the base.

A U.S. air force spokesman said the rocket probably had disintegrated on impact, but authorities ordered a search party of some 100 U.S. and West German soldiers and West German police to look for traces of the missile.

Opening lead: ♠ 8

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

On a really good day with all fitnesses working and suits breaking, the North-South cards will produce a grand slam in hearts. Even with both the heart and club fitnesses off, four hearts will make unless the defense is super-perfect. The bidding may not meet with your complete approval. As they went to say, "There are more ways than one to skin a cat." There are lots more ways than one to get to four hearts and the bidding in the box is one of them.

South plays low from dummy at trick one and East wins the trick with his king of clubs. It is up to him to return something.

He considers a club return and abandons the idea. A trump or diamond lead has no merit so East will lead a spade. If he wants to beat declarer (of course, he does) a bracket lead is essential. He must play his 10 of spades!

This bracket lead crushes the unfortunate declarer. If he ducks entirely, spades will be continued. If he plays the ace of defense will get their king and queen of spades later.

His best play is the jack, but that is also a loser. West takes his king and leads the suit back and East's queen-eight now forms a tenace over the nine.

Note that if East led the eight of spades, South could play low and West would have to use his king to beat dummy's nine.
