

Committee OKs public TV funding

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — A plan to phase out independent operation of the Moscow and Pocatello public television stations passed the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee on Tuesday morning.

But it moves to the full Legislature without a recommendation for passage, and action to derail the bill ignited in the House less than an hour after the finance committee vote.

Sponsored by Sen. Dean Van Engelen, R-Burley, the proposal would give the State Board of Education $125,000 to continue operation of the three stations until the current fiscal year expires June 30. Attached to the plan, however, is an order to gradually phase out individual programing at the Moscow and Pocatello stations, leaving them as simple transmitters for KVID programming from Boise.

The motion passed the committee by a 11 to 9 vote, after two other plans failed: Both of those plans would have kept the three-station system intact, with supplemental funding of either $157,500 or $132,500.

Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewisville, objected to giving Van Engelen's plan a "do-pass" recommendation, resulting in the bill being introduced without comment.

The only dissenting Magic Valley representative on JFAC was Rep. Lawrence Knigge.

"There are just too many uncertainties about the one-station concept," he said. "We may lose the capability to keep students working in these stations, such as at Moscow, and some of the educational programs may be dropped."

Knigge acknowledged that Van Engelen's bill will have little, if any, impact in the Magic Valley, which already relies on the Boise station for public programming.

At the heart of opposing debate was the fear that public donations, needed for in-state program production, will be lost if such programming is deleted from everywhere except the Boise station. Without such funding, the stations could go off the air after educational programming ends at 5 p.m.

In a move to overturn the JFAC decision, Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, unsuccessfully attempted to get the full House to pull his earlier public television-funding bill out of JFAC, where it is being held without consideration. Reid's plan was to allocate $385,000 to public television for the remainder of fiscal year 1982, but he told the House he would amend that to the $132,500 figure proposed by Rep. William Lytle, R-Pinehurst.

The motion to salvage Reid's bill and give it a airing before the full House failed by a 34 to 31 vote.

State Board of Education member Janet Hay said she was pleased that all of the JFAC proposals called for continuing public television in some form. However, she acknowledged that the reduction of Moscow and Pocatello to transmitter operations would meet strong opposition in the House and Senate.

"Sen. Van Engelen's plan does two things," she said. "It does put some money in the pot for us to continue until next (fiscal) year, and it directs the board to phase out independent programming at the two other stations."

"I'd say public television was saved," Hay said.

Managers rap single station

BOISE (UPI) — Managers of two of Idaho's public television stations say the recommendation to limit additional funding and local broadcasting is an attempt to gain state control over public television.

The Legislature's budget-setting committee's recommendation "is a move to take control of programming by the state," said Don Rogers, manager of KISU-TV in Pocatello.

"I don't think the $125,000 is as important as the legislative intent to create a single station in the state. On the surface it looks like a cheaper way to go. It is, in fact, a little less expensive. But not very much, and you lose a great deal of service for southeastern and northern Idaho."

The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee voted 11-9 Tuesday to set aside $125,000 for Idaho's public television system for the rest of this fiscal year — the lowest of five recommended sums. It also added budget language recommending local programming originate from only one of the three stations, essentially reducing the other two stations to manned re-transmitters.

"We're sinking fast but we're not dead yet," said Art Hook, station manager at KVID-TV in Moscow.

Hook added the state Board of Education must decide how to divide the $125,000, if that is what the Legislature finally allocates, and what will become of the station's associated academic programs.

"Are the universities going to be willing to pay the cost of housing the stations when all these services are lost to them?" Rogers asked.

Rogers estimated the Pocatello and Moscow stations will lose about $400,000 in federal and private matching grants, while KVID-TV in Boise will receive slightly more grant money, "but nowhere near what will be lost."

"There are so many unknowns, it's too early to tell what will happen," said KVID-TV station manager Jack Schaefer.

"A lot of people are assuming KVID is going to be the one station, but that's not what the motion passed said. There are people who want the Moscow or the Pocatello station to be it."

Reagan's warriors battle Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan dispatched his top three economic advisers to Capitol Hill Tuesday to defend his 1983 budget proposal.

Democrats were critical of its cuts and Republicans were worried about its deficit.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, budget director David Stockman and Council of Economic Advisers chairman Murray Weidenbaum heard some tough criticism from key members of the House Appropriations Committee when they appeared to promote the new $77.5 billion spending plan.

Chairman Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., pointedly recalled the optimistic economic and budget forecasts the administration made last year which never came to pass.

Whitten likened Reagan's economic program — spending reductions, tax cuts and tight monetary policy — to Herbert Hoover's, whose policies "preceded the Depression that took us 10 years to get out of."

"We need to take a new turn and turn this thing around," he said.

Even Rep. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts, the panel's senior Republican, said "I can't agree with the priorities" of the new budget. He objected to 10 percent "real" growth in defense spending while other outlays — excluding interest on the national debt and guaranteed payments to individuals — would be cut by 33 percent.

On the other side of the Capitol, Senate GOP Leader Howard Baker acknowledged, "There is a genuine concern about the size of the deficits, the allocation of resources," among Senate Republicans. Reagan is forecasting a $91.5 billion deficit for the money year beginning this Oct. 1. But, Baker added, "We are not on the brink of rebellion."

Brandt Hellman, a seventh-grader at Immanuel Lutheran in Twin Falls, converses in sign language with Rita Ruhter

By GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gary Gable faced unexpected teaching hurdles Tuesday when his entire class suddenly became physically handicapped.

As a sensitively experienced, Gable's seventh- and eighth-grade class of 24 physically normal students at Immanuel Lutheran School in Twin Falls accepted a three-hour challenge to become handicapped.

Tuesday morning, each member of the class drew a slip of paper that described a handicap. Although Immanuel Lutheran has no real handicapped students, through the application of blindfolds, headphones and tape, the school acquired a class of blind, deaf and physically handicapped students.

The three hours that followed were an unusual learning experience for the students — and their teachers.

In fact, Gable may have gained more from the morning than any of his students. He found himself suddenly teaching children who couldn't hear his directions, who couldn't read their textbooks or who had limited mobility.

"I'm snobbed by it," he said. "As a teacher, it made me suddenly incapable of reaching everyone, at once. I've always taken that for granted."

Gable found he had to work with the students individually, and his morning lesson plans — written for a non-handicapped class — quickly went to pieces, as classroom routines became mired in communication gaps.

"It really grinds down to a slow pace," he said. "There's been some frustration that things are not going as fast as they usually do. We are not going to achieve half what I expected when I wrote the morning lesson plans."

The students adapted to the situation by helping one another with assignments. Some, like Brandt Hellman and Rita Ruhter, who were deaf and mute for the day, had learned enough finger spelling previously on their own to work together.

By lunchtime, Gable said, the students were quite relieved to "remove" their disability. Moreover, their teacher admitted he was looking forward to teaching a normal class again.

Today, the class and Gable will have a heart-to-heart discussion on what they learned from the experience. The students will decide for themselves whether they will continue research into the various handicaps they experienced.

Area merchants winners with basketball tourney

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — What dribbles in must come out, and in this case, it will come out as a small boost to the Twin Falls economy. The state's A-3 and A-4 women's high-school basketball tournament will be held in Twin Falls this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Sixteen teams from throughout the state will play at the College of Southern Idaho.

Four teams competing in the tournament — Declo, Hagerman, Varet and Richfield — will be playing close to home. But the other 12 teams, which will bring several hundred players, coaches and cheerleaders, and probably an equal number of student- and parent-rooters, will stay in Twin Falls motels, eat in Twin Falls restaurants and perhaps spend a few dollars with Twin Falls merchants. Overall, it qualifies as an economic dribble because the inflow of dollars will only last three days. And, economists say, dollars spent by tourists disappear from a local economy faster than any other type of spending.

"It's a small boost," said Mike Dolton, the executive director of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. "We can't ignore it."

The tournament brings dollars into the area — $10,000 would be a reasonable estimate, Dolton said — at a time when the economy is traditionally in the doldrums. Especially for the motels and restaurants that will benefit most, the tournament will be a minor windfall during their slow season.

Tournaments, "we love them," said Vera Sitter, the general manager of Canyon Springs Inn. The motel is booked full for Friday night and near full for Saturday, partly because of the tournament.

Across Blue Lakes Boulevard North, the Holiday Inn will be filled tonight, Thursday and Friday because of the tournament. About 60 of 204 rooms are being taken by teams, coaches and fans, said Jerry Note, the motel's manager.

On a normal February night, he said, the motel probably would have 20 vacant rooms.

Instead, it will be turning people away for the next few days, sending business to other Twin Falls motels, Note said.

Restaurants never want to turn people away, but they may have to ask them to wait a little longer because of the tournament. It could add 10 percent to 15 percent to business at JB's Family Restaurant, manager Gary Bick estimated. During peak hours, that will mean good-size crowds, and service may be a bit slower than customers would like, he said.

Two extra waitresses will work during the weekend to handle the extra crowds, Bick said. Many of the dollars brought to Twin Falls by the tournament will be injected into the economy this way. The increased business will mean more hours — and more pay — for waitresses, hotel maids and others.

But there are also some factors that will dilute the impact of the tournament.

For example, all the money from ticket sales, most of which is likely to come from Magic Valley residents, will go to the Idaho High School Activities Association. Some of the ticket revenues will be used to subsidize the travel of teams coming to Twin Falls. Thus, some of the money they spend actually will be money that was here to begin with.

Also, high school students probably will spend much less than average tourists at local stores, says the Holiday Inn's manager. But Note warns, "Go down Blue Lakes about Thursday afternoon. It will be packed."

Good morning!

Court releases Nixon tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal appeals court Tuesday rejected Richard Nixon's latest attempt to keep portions of some 6,000 hours of secret Oval Office tape recordings from being released to the public.

The decision is a "major defeat for the former president, who has waged a lengthy legal battle challenging the General Service Administration's plan for releasing the tapes at 11 regional listening centers across the country."

A three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington ruled unanimously that letting the public listen to the tapes does not violate Nixon's privacy rights as an individual or a former president.

More farmers had to sell in '81

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 759 American farmers in deep financial trouble had to sell off their operations in the last three months of last year, New Farmers Home Administration data showed Tuesday.

In a time of a low farm prices and a weak farm economy, the number included 570 farmers who took action themselves to sell off assets because they could not pay debts, and 189 farmers directly forced to sell out by Farmers Home.

In Farmers Home parlance, the first category is called voluntary liquidation and the second is called involuntary liquidation.

Parent notification debated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Health and Human Services proposal to notify parents when their teenage daughters receive birth control devices was criticized Tuesday.

HHS Secretary Richard Schweiker said he would issue "in the next several weeks" a regulation to implement a 1961 family planning law by requiring federally funded family planning clinics to notify parents within 10 days after a girl 17 or under has received such devices.

He told reporters he probably will amend the regulation to waive the requirement in cases where children are being sexually abused in the home.

"We've built a Berlin Wall between the kid and the parents. We think that's wrong," Schweiker told a House health and environment subcommittee at a hearing Monday (as often Levy exchanges.

Subcommittee chairman Henry Waxman retorted, "Now big government comes in... this is Big Brother getting into the bedrooms of people."

Drunk driving bill introduced

BOISE (UPI) — A legislative committee Tuesday introduced bills to establish mandatory jail sentences for drunk driving, attach criminal penalties to the manufacture, sale and possession of "look-alike" drugs and give prosecutors and judges the power to veto proposed convict paroles.

A person convicted of driving while intoxicated would be subject to a minimum two days in jail and could be fined up to $500, rather than the current $300 limit, bill sponsor Rep. C.A. "Skip" Smyser, R-Parma, said.

Asked by other House Judiciary Committee members why the bill should apply to all drunk-driving convictions, including withheld judgments, Smyser said an all-or-nothing approach "is the only way this would have a deterring effect."

Bill would ban inverted rates

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise legislator will approach the House State Affairs Committee Wednesday with a bill to prohibit the use of inverted rates for residential customers of electric utilities.

The bill, sponsored by Republican Rep. Gary Montgomery, would invalidate the rate schedule the Idaho Public Utilities Commission imposed upon Idaho Power Co. last year.

House passes unemployment aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted 396-3 late Tuesday to approve an additional $2.3 billion in unemployment aid to help states cope with growing joblessness and to reopen closed employment service offices.

The "urgent" fiscal 1982 supplemental appropriations bill was one of four totaling $9.9 billion scheduled for House consideration. Two others that passed would provide $123 million in fuel assistance for the poor and $5 billion for the Commodity Credit Corporation.

through the Midwest on a lobbying trip that included repeated declarations he is sticking with his economic program despite the recession.

"We will not play hop-scotch economics, jumping here and there as the daily situation changes," Reagan told the Indiana legislature at Indianapolis.

He told the Iowa General Assembly in Des Moines earlier in the day. "We have much to do before we will see the light, but I think we are at least approaching the bend in the tunnel."

During the Appropriations Committee hearing, Conte said, "We all want to control inflation, reduce the deficit, and put people back to work... Can't we find some common ground?"

"Is there some give in the defense budget?" he asked.

"I'm not trying to suggest that this budget is alright," Stockman said. "But your idea that there are huge gaps that can be plugged out of (military spending) with no impact is wrong. We need most of this money to meet our security objectives."

Several members asked Stockman what happened to the 2-million new jobs that Reagan promised his economic program would create.

Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., quipped that the administration's "supply side" theory had turned into "supply slide" economics.

Stockman replied the unexpected severity of the recession had delayed the administration's schedule, but "the basic program for jobs" will indeed be fulfilled.

"I'd rather have it as it is," Reagan said. Getting the additional tax cuts "early on in 1982 and later on in 1983 would put us in a worse situation," he predicted.

Today's weather

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:
Partly cloudy today with patches of valley fog. Clouds and chance of snow increasing tonight with snow likely Thursday. Gradual warming. Highs today 20 to 25 degrees and 25 to 30 Thursday. Lows tonight 5 above to 5 below zero.

Camas Prairie, Halley, Wood River valley:
Partly cloudy with a few snow flurries today. Cloudy and some snow increasing tonight with snow likely Thursday. Highs upper-teens to low 20s today, and in the 20s Thursday. Lows 5 below zero to 10 above tonight.

Northwestern Idaho:
Occasional snow in Nevada early today. Partial clearing and a little warmer through Thursday. Highs in the 30s today and 40s Thursday. Lows 15 to 25.

Partly cloudy warm in Utah through Thursday. Highs near 30 today and near 40 Thursday. Lows 10 to 20.

Synopsis:
Keep those shovels handy. More snow is likely through Sunday, along with moderating temperatures. A northerly flow of air across Idaho will shift to westerly in the next two days, bringing a warming trend and a continuing chance of snow activity.

Light snow blanketed the Magic Valley and much of Idaho Tuesday. Most points reported an inch or less of new snow and only a few hundredths of an inch of precipitation, although some locations had at least an inch and a half of snow. The fall tapered off to light flurries or had ended by mid-afternoon and the sun broke through in the Magic Valley.

Warming "minimum" temperatures Tuesday were well below zero where skies were clear but beneath cloud cover and in snow areas readings were comparatively mild. The range was from 20 at Levinston to 20 below zero at Elk City. Tuesday afternoon readings were from the teens in the southeast to the middle 20s in the north and southwest. The warmest was 23 degrees at Levinston and Emmett.

The extended forecast calls for rain or snow showers in the valleys and snow in the mountains Friday and Sunday with Saturday dry. Temperatures will be near or a little below normal with highs in the upper 20s and 30s and lows in the 20s.

Elsewhere in the nation Tuesday, the warmest temperature was 87 degrees at Vero Beach, Fla., and the coldest was 27 below zero at West Yellowstone, Mont.

Committee rejects prevailing wage law

BOISE (UPI) — The House State Affairs Committee Tuesday rejected the repeal of an Idaho law requiring state and local agencies to pay prevailing union wages on public works projects.

Wiping out the Davis-Bacon Act would stimulate the construction industry and reduce the cost of government building projects by an average 20 percent, said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth.

Supporters of the repeal first defeated 10-6 a motion to sidetrack the bill for amendment. Opponents of the bill said that without revision it would sharply depress wages and reduce the quality of work on government buildings.

"This would take the dough out of the working man's pockets. . . just to make sure his boss can get the bid and make a fat profit," said Rep. James Stolchiff, D-Sandpoint.

Stolchiff proposed the bill be amended to allow government agencies to avoid accepting the lowest bid on a project when the wage requirements now in the law, government agencies would have to accept the lowest bid — sparking contractors to "cut wages as low as they can so they can get the bid," he said.

During three days of committee hearings on the bill, union officials branded the proposed repeal as a "union-busting" companion to the right-to-work bill, which has passed both houses and is headed toward a probable veto by Democratic Gov. John Evans.

A measure to repeal the state Davis-Bacon Act passed the House last year, but died in the Senate when the Legislature adjourned its regular session. The law is patterned after the federal Davis-Bacon Act, which applies to federal projects.

Little said since the U.S. Labor Department determines prevailing union wage rates that apply to state and local projects in Idaho, local officials have "no power" to make sure the rates are equitable.

He cited two major building projects under way at Boise State University as examples of inflated construction costs. He said the multi-purpose pavilion and performing arts center are costing $34 million total, but claimed they would cost less than $30 million without the Davis-Bacon Act.

Rep. Gart Montgomery, R-Boise, said there's a "desperate need for additional funding for our schools." He said some of those funds would be made available if the law was repealed.

House rejects two water board policies

By BRUCE HAMMOND Times-News writer

BOISE — A House committee rejected two of the Idaho Water Resources Board's new water policies and revised a third, following debate Tuesday.

The water board already has adopted six policies to be added to the 37-policy state water plan, but the House Resources and Conservation Committee is now expected to draft a resolution that would change three of those policies significantly.

The action came after the committee reviewed for a second time the policies concerning steelhead and salmon runs, and hydroelectric project siting.

The committee revised language in the statement that the state will preserve salmon and steelhead runs. The major goal of this policy is to push for more involvement by Idaho in deciding how steelhead and salmon are harvested in Oregon and Washington before they reach Idaho rivers.

An earlier decision to reject the policy calling for state examination of the sites of small dams, where the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is not involved, was upheld by the committee. It was noted during the committee debate, however, that the Legislature may not be allowed to change any of the new water-plan policies because of a recent court ruling. That decision essentially says the Legislature cannot change the water plan once it is adopted by the water board. The ruling is being appealed by the state.

Nevertheless, the committee agreed it is obligated to make revisions as it sees fit, resulting in Tuesday's action.

The committee's final decision on each of the six policies was:

- The committee accepted without change the water board's goal to exercise state sovereignty over Idaho water resources and to oppose intervention by other states or the federal government.
- A policy to preserve steelhead and salmon runs, and to work with other states in protecting Idaho's interests in those runs, was agreed with, but language "to enhance" and "maintain free-flowing stream habitat" was deleted.
- The policy to preserve white sturgeon habitat in the Snake and Kootenai rivers was rejected.
- The goal of encouraging the federal government to turn over licensing of hydroelectric projects to the state was endorsed fully.

Embezzlement charges filed against educator

BOISE (UPI) — Ada County prosecutors Tuesday charged former Boise Education Association Director Jack White with 53 counts of embezzlement, 15 counts of forgery and 14 counts of grand theft.

He was allegedly involved in the disappearance of $244,458.59 in association funds.

White is not in Idaho at the present time, prosecutor Jim Harris said in the prepared news release, but a warrant for his arrest has been issued. Harris and White's attorney, Robert Aldridge have agreed White will turn himself in to police by next Tuesday, Harris said.

White resigned last November after 12 years as the Boise Education Association's only executive director.

About that time, BEA officials found the financial records missing and that the group's finances had not been audited in 11 years.

Senate postpones action on reapportionment bill

BOISE (UPI) — State senators agreed Tuesday to postpone for at least one more day any final action on a reapportionment bill which has cleared the House, but faces a possible veto from the governor if it reaches his desk in its current form.

The motion to hold the bill for another day came after Senate Majority Leader James Risch, R-Boise, said discussions were underway with leaders of the minority party on possible ways to amend the proposal to meet with the approval of Democrats, including Gov. John Evans.

Risch said he "anticipates there will be some changes in the bill" before it is presented to the full Senate for review. If the measure is amended to the upper chamber, it would have to return to the House.

In other action at the Statehouse Tuesday, the Senate passed bills to:

- Require that anyone bringing livestock into Idaho obtain a certificate of health for the animals, and notify the state Agriculture Department if the destination for the shipment is changed.

- Set optional penalties for employers who deliberately withhold wages from employees.

Expand due process protections for mentally retarded persons who are subjects of involuntary commitment proceedings.

In other legislative action Tuesday, a bill that would help fire-protection districts resist annexation attempts by cities was assigned to a special subcommittee of the House Local Government Committee.

Prison ringleaders isolated

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho State Penitentiary Warden Darrot Garret says four ringleaders and two prisoners have been moved to maximum security following a series of attacks this weekend.

Gardner said the stabbing of one inmate and assault of a guard and another inmate which "very, very easily could have been the start of another riot."

"If we hadn't had the close custody in effect, it very, very easily could have escalated into something bigger," Gardner said Tuesday.

Inmate Kenneth Hite was repeatedly stabbed, guard Garnet Sanderson was punched in the jaw, and inmate Kelly Wilson was bludgeoned in a 18-hour period in the same cell block, prompting prison authorities to order a 106-inmate lockdown to control the situation.

Thirty-six inmates in the A Tier of close custody Unit 7 will remain confined to their cells through at least the end of the week, Gardner said.

Criminal charges will "definitely be brought" against the two inmates Sanderson said prison officials believe stabbed Hite and slugged Sanderson.

Center deserving of state support

Idaho lawmakers should approve a bill continuing the Center for New Directions at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls.

The center, which had to fight extinction early in the session, now has a reasonable chance of surviving. A bill supporting permanent status of the program, along with a recommendation to fund it at a level of $38,500 for fiscal 1983, has been sent to the Senate floor with a "do-pass" recommendation.

The center helps recently widowed or divorced women learn job-finding and -holding skills.

We think the program is worth the money. Better that we try to put people back to work as contributors in our local economy than see them end up on the welfare rolls of the state as liabilities.

Some senators are concerned about the "permanence" of any program. But the bill supporting the center requires that it report to the Legislature annually. If lawmakers become disenchanted with the program's direction, they always have the option of refusing funding.

It is a reasonable approach, one deserving a "yes" vote in both houses.

A round of applause

The United Way of Magic Valley has concluded another successful year, and for that, we can all be thankful.

It is a tough job to raise money during recessionary times, but the United Way is only $15,000 short of its $160,000 campaign goal for this year. Officials fully expect to meet the goal when all collections are reported.

Coming on the heels of the "Save the Y" campaign a few months back, United Way's success is another tribute to the people of Twin Falls and the Magic Valley. Two important community agencies have been preserved, and many people will benefit as a result.

Read 'em their rights

Anything that helps citizens cope with the complexities of government should be applauded.

So, we agree with Twin Falls City Council's decision to inform anyone planning to build about their right to appeal the enforcement of the Uniform Building Code.

This isn't to say the city should go soft on enforcing the building code. But if more people know there is an avenue of appeal and that their case can be heard on an individual basis, they and the government would be well-served.

Frankly, we think this is something that should have been stressed in the enforcement of the building code in the first place.

Letters to the editor

Preserve Idaho's beauty

Editor, Times-News:

In 1978, I made a speech before the Buhl Kiwanis Club in which I stated, "This is the day of discovery of Idaho's great potential as a vacation land and as a land of good environment for family and business alike. The time is now, while Idaho is still a land of beauty and opportunity, to protect our priceless assets."

This philosophy is as pertinent as in 1978. We can ill afford to see the beauty of Idaho further deteriorate. The scenic value of Thousand Springs has been destroyed above Hagerman Valley by commercialism. Today, we are faced with the proposal to destroy the same value at Banbury Springs, all in the name of fish farming and a modicum of electric energy.

This venture is thinly disguised by association with Idaho Power and a branch of the Boy Scouts of America. Unable to generate enough sentiment behind his scheme, Mr. Ellis, a fish farm developer, enlisted the Boy Scouts as a beneficiary of his projected plan.

Let me submit that Idaho Power was, at one time, fully committed to the preservation of Idaho's greatest resource and protection of farmers' rights to use the water of its rivers for agricultural purposes.

Not so today. Commercialism under different disguises and domination of the Public Utilities Commission, the scenic value and farm rights are subordinated to greed and self-interest.

I submit that there are hundreds of sites along our streams where power can be developed without destruction and chicanery. The fish industry has been over-promoted and developed until we have a saturated market.

Therefore, the argument of necessity is no longer valid as to fish farming. Electrical energy can and should be developed at sites that do not destroy a great resource.

The report that Mr. Ellis has filed for bankruptcy is no deterrent to plans to proceed with this destruction. Bankruptcy is no longer a disgrace or deterrent to business as usual. The individual protests to the Idaho Public Commission are of minor strength or value against the legal force behind Idaho Power and Mr. Ellis. The camouflage of Boy Scouts is little but a screen to work behind and to make the true operation look charitable.

In the name of common sense, this destruction should not be permitted.

knew that religious training even in school was essential for a nation founded upon Christian principles to survive.

The Supreme Court decision banning prayer and Bible reading in school has done more harm to this nation than perhaps any decision they have ever made. If they had studied the Federalist Papers and other writings of the men who wrote the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, they would have known that separation of Church and State had nothing to do with religious instruction and prayer but only applied to establishment of a state religion. As a result of their decision the greatness of America has been reduced as humanistic atheism has replaced a belief in a Supreme Being. People now worship materialistic wealth, position and goods since God who created the earth and all its inhabitants has been banned from school. The humanists are allowed to preach their religion from text books in school, but Christians are denied to teach their side of the story.

The greatest war that is going on today is between God and Satan's influence through humanistic teachings is raging strongly today, but ultimately God and His followers will win because truth and light are on their side. Let us all be on the winning team.

greatest in the world. God has blessed America because of it. If the union was so concerned about their dues-paying membership, why didn't they take part of all those pay raises they received in the past and buy stock in the companies they work for? By now, you could of owned them in part or totally and then you could have the same privilege that we who now work for ourselves have.

You see, some of us who work for ourselves only work from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. and often 5 to 6 days a week. We have also earned what we have by sweat. It's hard for us to understand why some good union man should tell us that we ought to give more money for less work along with other goodies. A good man is worth a good day's pay but do we need a union to tell us who we have to hire? Why do we have to keep some guy that doesn't believe in giving a good day's labor for good pay? If you think you're worth more than you're getting, get off your backside and find something better. Stop crying for the union to do for you, I don't like freeloaders to work alongside me and some of the biggest freeloaders I've seen are in the unions, cheating employers of time and loyalty.

I will vote for any good Democrat or Republican who will support the right to work. We don't need compulsory unionism anymore in this great state or anywhere in the U.S.

Unions bought the governor

Pay patterns set by unions

Editor, Times-News:

In answer to Mr. Nyle Wain's letter, if he is paying his help wages and fringe benefits as he says, at his own free will, I say more power to him. But if there were no unions in the United States to negotiate for such wages and benefits as he describes and working conditions were set back like they were before the unions got very strong, which would happen without a doubt.

If there were no unions and no prevailing wage pattern and you could hire and fire at will, wouldn't you or anyone else hire cheaper labor if you could? A little group of workers the size of yours would not be very effective in bargaining if there hadn't been a wage pattern set up by the unions.

From what I read in the papers, Bunker Hill lost millions of dollars in 1981.

According to their estimate of their loss and the amount that labor cost them, if the men had all worked for nothing, it still would not show a profit. The price of silver was their reason for closing down. It looks like the prospective buyers had more to gain by crippling the union than by operating the mine.

Compulsory unionism? No!

Editor, Times-News:

The letter from the gentleman in Ketchum on "Dead wrong on unions" was interesting.

There is no question that in the past, the unions have done a great deal of good. I also believe there are many good men in the unions. But I believe that because of the great power the unions now have (and have had for a long time), they have put American industry in a very sad position. They are responsible, I believe, for the sad competitive position we are now in, in world competition.

They are responsible for work practices on the job that are destructive to getting a good job done. They are also responsible for misusing union members' pension accumulations and getting the union hands filthy by holding hands with those associated with and involved in crime with the Mafia. As an example — whatever happened to Mr. Hoffa? One could go on a long time expounding on this list.

You complain about your brother working for $4 per hour and 50-hours a week: He doesn't have to stay there. We still have a great deal of freedom in this land. We usually are at the place we are because we choose to be there. He could work for himself and have his own cabinet shop if he has got the same guts the guy for whom he works has. His employer probably has to pay for his own holidays, health and dental insurance, etc. If your brother's boss is working anything at all, his own son should have his father's favors as blood is thicker than water.

We live in a free-enterprise system and it's the

The matter of church, state

Editor, Times-News:

The United States of America was founded more on the principle of religious freedom than any other principle. Yet the enemies of this great Republic have twisted the concept of separation of Church and State to greatly reduce religious or any other denomination to be established as the official Church of the U.S. as was the practice in Europe. Valentine's Day: We need its 'fix' more than ever

© The Boston Globe

BOSTON — The merchants are wearing their hearts on their sleeves. It happens every year, just like calendar work. Out go the turkeys; in come the Santas; out go the Santas, in come the hearts.

In the candy shop you now have the chance to eat your heart out in assorted flavors. In the card racks, you can buy love cheap or dear, cute or chic. In the flower shop, the roses are red, the violets are blue, and the delivery is included.

I suppose this is an odd sort of holiday. Once it was a day for secret messages of affection. Now it's less mysterious and more official. There are no marches, no fanfare, no speeches. But it's a public celebration for private emotions: National Pay Attention to Love Day.

And maybe we need it. Maybe we need to flag one day down every 365, and wave a banner of reassurance at each other — a white one with a red heart on it. Maybe we need to consciously stop our dalliance, call a halt to habits and notice a feeling, notice each other.

After all, love is always at risk from routine, always open to bankruptcy unless we keep up the regular payments of attention.

I've known a lot of people who make the first installment easy enough. Some fall in love down a chute of passion that absorbs all their energy and concentration. A few choose that ride over and over again, getting high on the intensity. But it doesn't have much staying power.

Sooner or later, most of us civilize love into a thing we can live with. Lovers become partners. The lens that was focused on creating a relationship becomes diffused in making a life.

We talk less about "us" and more about "them": children, parents, jobs, friends, appliances, ceiling leaks, bills. At times we just talk less.

There is something luxurious about being able to take another person for granted; something delicious in being boring together; something accepting in silence. But there's also something scary about it.

I don't know a soul who hasn't felt nostalgia for the intensity from time to time. I don't know a soul who hasn't wondered how quickly mutual comfort can pass over into mutual neglect.

I have a lot of busy friends. They share children, work, home. Sometimes, their lives are divided like errands and they only meet in doorways, passing lists like batons. In weeks with very little leeway, what "gives" is their private life. It's easy to make a habit out of less and less.

But the ones who are most together are those who, somehow or other, against the odds, keep up their payments.

One couple I know has survived half-a-dozen life changes and retained that core of love: interest in each other. They watch their marriage together as if it were a stock portfolio. They spend time at it, as if it were golf or racquetball. They are as fascinated by their own relationship as by any project they could build together.

Another couple I know has simply made a pact to dun each other at least once a week for attention. Instead of wallowing in the silent sense of indebtedness, one or the other will take a chance, ask a question: Hello there, how are we doing? They have learned to strike a balance between need and demand.

I don't know why some people are better at paying up than others. Maybe they need more themselves. Maybe they like each other better. Maybe they are more frightened by the specter of separation, or of old age in a quiet living room where only the television set is talking. But I do know that it's not an accident. It's an act of will. It's taking a stand for the care of pleasure and the maintenance of love. It's an offering of personal energy: a giving of the gift of lethargy.

And if we need a day to remind us that an installment is due, so be it. I'll take my payment this year in chocolate, thank you.

Subcommittee supports contempt charges for Watt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee recommended Tuesday that Interior Secretary James Watt be cited for contempt of Congress for defying a subpoena for documents that President Reagan cloaked in executive privilege.

By an 11-6 vote, the panel recommended the full House Energy and Commerce Committee cite Watt for refusing to provide records it wants for an investigation of whether Canadian energy policies hurt American investors and how the administration responded to allegedly discriminatory Canadian actions.

No date was set for a meeting of the full committee. Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., heads both the subcommittee and the parent committee. All six votes against the contempt recommendation were cast by Republicans.

Reagan invoked executive privilege for the documents Oct. 14, ordering Watt not to deliver 31 subpoenaed items. The president said the material involved "sensitive foreign policy negotiations" or was prepared for the Cabinet as part of the executive decision-making process.

Subsequently, all but a dozen of the documents were given to the panel in an apparent effort to avoid the contempt action.

"A White House spokesman said the committee had been given "a lot of material," adding "We've been very forthcoming." But there was no immediate comment from the White House on the contempt citation.

Dingell said Watt will be asked again for the materials. But, he said, if the matter is not resolved and the full House found the interior secretary to be in contempt, Watt could either be brought to the well of the House and tried, or the matter could be turned over to the Justice Department for prosecution. Either way, a jail sentence could result.

More snow, freezing rain in East

By United Press International

A storm that dumped up to 8 inches of snow from Oklahoma to Michigan blew into the East Tuesday, turning highways into "bumper car" platoons with a hodgepodge of snow and freezing rain.

At least nine people have died in winter's latest blast.

Tall-gated by another blast of sub-zero cold, the storm hit the southern Plains and Midwest late Monday and swept on a northeasterly course toward the Middle Atlantic and New England.

Temperatures in the 30-below zero range were common in northern Wisconsin and Minnesota. The 21-below zero reading at Marquette, Mich., was 3 degrees colder than the previous mark set back in 1975.

South and east of the snowstorm, freezing rain and sleet glazed highways from Texas to Tennessee. Rain spread from the central Gulf Coast through the Carolinas and Virginia to Maryland and southern New Jersey.

Nearly 2 1/2 inches of rain pounded Memphis and rain turned to snow in western Tennessee, leaving just traces of frosty remains before moving east.

Forecasters warned that New York City and Northern New Jersey could be hit with up to 2 inches of rain and Rockland and Westchester counties with up to 3 inches.

Slippery highways were blamed for a 12-car chain-reaction collision that injured two people shortly before dawn on a parkway in the Westchester County city of Yonkers.

This week's storm was blamed for four deaths in Michigan, two in Oklahoma, two in Missouri and one in Illinois.

Witness: River flow report altered

ATLANTA (UPI) — A prosecution witness was pressured into changing the results of a report on river flow characteristics at the bridge where Wayne Williams first became a suspect in the slaying of 26 young Atlanta blacks, he said Tuesday.

Williams, a black 23-year-old freelance photographer, is on trial for the slaying of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21 — two of the 26 victims. But prosecutors have linked Williams to at least 10 other slayings.

David Dingle, a hydrologist for the National Weather Service, testified that he helped prosecution witness Ben Kittle prepare the report last summer.

He said he was later informed the report had been changed last fall to be more favorable to the prosecution after pressure from assistant District Attorney Gordon Miller.

"Mr. Kittle said he had been under pressure from Gordon Miller to make the change in the report last fall," Dingle said.

"I was concerned about the report being changed. I was concerned about the impact that might have on the trial. I was concerned that things weren't being dealt with squarely."

The first version of the report, based on the river flow study, left open the possibility that the bodies of Payne and Cater could have been thrown from an interstate bridge downriver from the James Jackson Parkway span, where Williams first became a suspect.

Senate ends filibuster on busing debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday ended a renewed filibuster against a bill carrying the most far-reaching ban on school busing since its passage through Congress.

The Senate moved, 69-31, to invoke cloture in its second attempt to halt debate on the legislation that liberal Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., has filibustered off and on since last summer.

Although cloture limits all further deliberation to 100 hours, other delaying tactics still could prevent passage for weeks. Weicker has 500 amendments ready to call up, but clearly he will be unable to get consideration of them all.

The Senate adopted the busing ban 59-38 last week as a rider to the $2.4 billion Justice Department authorization bill after killing a fil-buster against the amendment on the fourth try. The new filibuster was against the authorization bill as a whole.

Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., a chief sponsor of the ban, said that in East Baton Rouge Parish, La., some children are bused 90 minutes each way daily.

"Busing has failed as a remedy for desegregation," Johnston said.

Kissinger to undergo heart operation

BOSTON (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, tanned and appearing in good humor, said Tuesday he would undergo open heart surgery today for coronary artery disease — probably a triple bypass.

Kissinger, 58, flew to Boston from Washington last week to have his right shoulder checked at Massachusetts General Hospital because of chronic pain. The hospital said doctors diagnosed "something else" — coronary artery disease — that was not disclosed at that time.

Dr. Gerald Austen, a long-time family physician and friend who will perform the operation, said tests performed Monday indicated one major artery was blocked and two others were narrowed.

Austen, chief of surgical services at the hospital, said Kissinger also was afflicted with arthritis in his shoulder and spine.

"I came here last week because of a chronic shoulder ache," Kissinger told a packed news conference. "Tests were conducted, but the symptoms in the shoulder did not explain the pain."

Kissinger said the more thorough checkup Monday, including cardiac tests, was "of minimum enjoyment."

What's what

A man can be jealous of some other man without wanting to know what that other man looks like, how much money he makes, or even the sort of performer he is in romance. When a woman gets jealous, though, she gets curious. She craves pertinent personal facts about the other woman: age, weight, height, looks in general, talents, income, education, family background, and, of course, her proclivities behind closed doors. So said Theodor Reik, the scholar who for so long has lectured in literature to our Love and War man.

To the list of spoken words understood in the languages of every civilized society, please add "touchdown." It belongs in there with "hot dog," "drug store" and "nightclub."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to be more thoughtful of the future. Try to enter into new agreements which could give you and associates an opportunity to express your talents. Be optimistic.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Using spare time for being with persons you enjoy can add much to your happiness at this time. Use your skills.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Taking time to improve conditions at home is wise. Do some entertaining, but don't invite a troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk with associates about new ways to improve mutual projects. Don't overlook important correspondences.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day for expansion; so put your mind to work on projects that could add to your income in the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are magnetic today and can achieve a great deal if you contact the right persons. Strive for increased happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make long-range plans for the days ahead and be sure to talk them over with trusted allies. Obtain the data you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your aims to a loyal friend and you will get good suggestions on ways to add to your income. Become more popular.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your position in your line of endeavor and know what should... one in order to become more successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Stop wasting time and put those new ideas you have to work instead of procrastinating. Outsiders can be helpful.

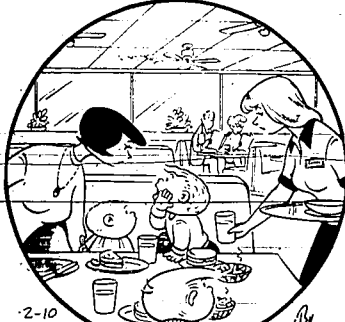

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Come to a true understanding with those you do business with and much can be gained. Become more efficient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Clarifying with associates what each of you expects from the other is the best way to proceed at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You hardly know where to begin with all the work you have to do, but if you control your temper, all will be fine.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have to be taught early to smile more and gain the goodwill of others. Don't let pride get in the way of progress. Direct the education along lines of governmental work for best results. A good family member in this chart.

Electronic invaders defeated:
 BOSTON (UPI) — Youngsters in suburban Marlborough won't be squandering their lunch money battling electronic starships and galactic invaders anymore. At least during school hours it's now illegal.
 Prompted by parental complaints the popular video games were luring their offspring away from school, an ordinance was adopted Monday night barring use of the games by anyone under 18 during class hours.
 It also bans placement of the games within 1,500 feet of public schools.
 It wasn't until last year that Mayor Joseph Ferrecchia noticed the "detrimental effects" the colorful games were having on the youth of the community of 31,000.
 "I finally got a count on the number of machines in Marlborough," Ferrecchia said Tuesday in a telephone interview. Much to his surprise, there were 87 licensed video games and an untold number of unlicensed ones.

Haig lashes out at Soviets, Poland

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig said Tuesday the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and the crackdown in Poland imperiled the future of East-West relations and threatened the peace of Europe.

Haig delivered a stinging indictment of Moscow and the Warsaw military government in the troubled opening session on the Conference on Cooperation and Security in Europe, a product of the Helsinki agreements of 1975 that established a framework for political rights on the divided continent.

Poland's representative by prearranged relation was chairman of the 35-nation session and Haig accused him of trying to block the remarks of Western foreign ministers critical of the crackdown in Poland.

The initial procedural maneuver failed and Haig led a host of foreign ministers in criticizing both Warsaw and Moscow.

Soviet delegate Leonid Iltychev responded by calling the Western charges "total lies" and accusing the United States of interfering in Poland.

"It is no surprise that the gully try to evade exposure of their wrongs," Haig told a news conference. "They will not, of course, succeed."

"What they had done is to further discredit themselves, to outline their guilt all the more sharply and demonstrate once again their disregard for the CSCE process. They wish to hide from it," he said.

Haig was blunt in accusing the Soviets and Warsaw of systematic violations of the "bill of rights" of the Helsinki Act but he said the United States will not walk out of the Madrid conference in protest. Instead, the Western nations will use the conference as a forum of protest over the Polish crisis, he said.

"I think it is important that we not lose sight about what this is all about. The Soviet Union has invaded Afghanistan, and occupies and suppresses that country today."

"The Soviet Union has aided and abetted the suppression in Poland. The Soviet Union has failed to accept the rights and principles established in the Helsinki Accords," he said.

Haig said the Polish crackdown imperils the validity of the Helsinki Act and threatens future East-West relations. He said the occupation of Afghanistan was a violation of the liberties of a non-aligned nation.

Red Brigades raid barracks in show of strength, spirit

ROME (UPI) — Five Red Brigades terrorists, in a dramatic demonstration that they are neither defeated nor broken in spirit, raided an Italian Army barracks Tuesday, disarmed 18 guards and fled with a load of weapons.

An Italian Defense Ministry spokesman said, however, that most of the weapons taken from the armory are unuseable because they have no detonating pins. Heavy weapons are kept separate from the pins-to-follow terrorists.

The bold pre-dawn attack on the Pica army barracks at Santa Maria Capua Vetere, 110 miles southeast of Rome, came 12 days after police rescued U.S. Army Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier from Brigades kidnapers.

Some politicians boasted that the freeing of Dozier and the subsequent arrests of an estimated 140 Red Brigades suspects was a stunning blow from which the gang could not recover.

Dozier's rescue was preceded by two weeks of sustained police success against the Brigades.

Saudis finalize AWACS purchase

MUSCAT, Oman (UPI) — The United States and Saudi Arabia finalized details of their controversial AWACS deal Tuesday.

The two countries agreed to establish a joint commission to promote military cooperation, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said.

Weinberger announced the agreements as he wound up a three-day visit to Saudi Arabia and flew to Oman, where he arrived later in the day.

He has agreed to establish and oversee a Saudi-U.S. joint committee for military projects which will deal with military matters of interest to our two countries," Weinberger told the news conference before leaving the Saudi city of Dhahran.

"I'm happy to say we have agreed on all the measures necessary for the sale of the AWACS to Saudi Arabia," he added.

U.S. officials portrayed the agreement on the commission as the central achievement of more than eight hours of talks between Weinberger and Saudi Defense Minister Prince Sultan.

"It brings the United States and Saudi Arabia closer together," one U.S. official said.

The United States has been trying since 1974 to set up a military commission with Saudi Arabia, the largest oil producer in the Persian Gulf and primary foreign oil supplier of the United States, Washington already has such commissions with Jordan, Egypt, Morocco and Tunisia.

On the sale of AWACS surveillance planes to Saudi Arabia, Weinberger said he and Sultan had finalized the details of the deal.

Those details were still secret, but they were believed to relate to provisions meant to address Congressional concern that the Saudis might use the planes to monitor air traffic over Israel.

Sultan appeared with Weinberger at the news conference and said he urged the Reagan administration "to take a stronger stance" against Israel for its "stupid action" in annexing the Syrian Golan Heights last December and for its attack on an Iraqi nuclear reactor last June.

U.S. accused of supporting unrest

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Martial law authorities accused the United States and its allies Tuesday of using economic sanctions to encourage unrest in Poland and to undermine the entire Soviet bloc.

"The United States is trying to weaken the Soviet Union and the whole socialist commonwealth and striving to change the alignment of forces," martial law chief Wojciech Jaruzelski said in remarks published by the Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu.

The government charges came as the armed forces paper Zolnierz Wolności announced that 57 people had been sentenced in Gdansk for organizing strikes and distributing anti-government leaflets.

TV special offers Sun Valley history lesson

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The inventor of the chair lift may not have known he would revolutionize skiing.

He apparently didn't care, either.

But his first chair lift was one of many things that helped make a new ski resort in Idaho's Sawtooth Mountains world famous.

The history of that resort, Sun Valley, will be explored during a half-hour, prime-time special at 8:30 p.m. tonight on Twin Falls television station KMYT.

From the well-known movie stars that often populated its ski slopes, to some less than scandalous anecdotes about their foibles, the show focuses on the glamour for which Sun Valley became known.

As for that first chair lift, it was designed by an engineer named Jim Curran. According to legend, grateful officials at Sun Valley planned to name a run on Baldy Mountain after Curran was invited to Sun Valley to cut the ribbon opening the run.

But Curran, no fan of skiing, declined the invitation. And if a run was named for him, its name has long since been changed.

Someone who did have a run on the famous ski mountain named for her was Gretchen Frasier, the first U.S. skier to win a gold medal in Olympic competition.

She learned to ski at Sun Valley, training that led to her medal during the 1949 Winter Olympics, held in Switzerland.

Then, Frasier recalls in an interview for the show, she was just "an unknown housewife from America."

Today, the ski run Gretchen's Gold commemorates her accomplishment.

The KMYT special was filmed on location in Sun Valley and Ketchum. Much of the filming was done during the 16th annual reunion of the Sun Valley Ski Club, held last month. The reunion brought Kathleen Harriman Mortimer, the daughter of Averil Harriman, to Sun Valley. It was Harriman, as head of the Union Pacific Railroad during the 1930s, who first had the idea to build a world-class ski resort in this country.

The show focuses on the time from 1936, when construction of Union Pacific's $1 million Sun Valley Lodge began, until 1961, when author Ernest Hemingway, perhaps Ketchum's most famous resident, committed suicide.

In between, the likes of John Wayne, Ray Milland and countless aspiring starlets were part of the Sun Valley scene.

Perhaps a flaw in the show, says Charles Lemmon, the show's reporter, writer, narrator and producer, is that it celebrates the glamour of Sun Valley without considering the modern problems, like an overloaded sewage-treatment plant in Ketchum, that grew from it.

But to do that would have required a 13-part series, says Lee Wagner, KMYT's general manager. Instead, he says, the show is designed to entertain and give people a little of Sun Valley's history.

Lemmon says he decided to focus on the Gary Coopers who visited Sun Valley, because everyone has seen a Gary Cooper movie.

Cooper and Groucho Marx, among many others, make appearances in the show by way of still photographs. By the way, one of those two stars was not a good skier. And the other once had a pineapple upside-down cake as a last-minute wedding cake at his Sun Valley marriage.

And for those who miss the show Wednesday and want to find out who got the cake, the special will be repeated later in the month on a Sunday morning.

BPA unveils $2.61 billion '83 budget

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Bonneville Power Administration unveiled its $2.61 billion fiscal 1983 budget Tuesday.

The total is an increase of $857 million from the previous year.

The BPA funding projection was submitted to Congress as part of the Department of Energy's portion of President Reagan's budget for the new fiscal year.

BPA Administrator Peter Johnson said the 1974 federal Columbia River Transmission System Act made his agency self-financing.

"Congress does not appropriate funds to BPA, but does review BPA's annual program," he explained.

"BPA's funds come from its power sales revenues and borrowings from the U.S. Treasury."

About half of the $857 million increase can be attributed to new and expanded programs directly related to the 1980 Pacific Northwest Power Planning and Conservation Act — conservation and resource acquisition and residential energy exchange, Johnson said.

The remaining increase is due to increased costs for existing programs and inflation, he added.

The regional act requires that BPA give conservation and renewable resources highest priority in meeting the region's electric needs.

The fiscal 1983 budget includes $441 million for conservation and priority resource acquisition programs, up $23.8 million from fiscal 1982.

"Some $159.1 million of the total amount is for resource acquisition," Johnson said. "This activity includes planning, acquiring and overseeing resources needed to meet the region's load growth, but does not include the Washington Public Power Supply System nuclear projects."

BPA's conservation and direct-application renewable resources programs will be budgeted $285 million, he said.

Court bars 'adults only' apartments

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court, in a decision knocking down barriers to "adults-only" apartment complexes, has ruled it is illegal for landlords to ban families with children.

The court, in a 5-2 decision Monday, ruled "adults-only" restrictions violate the state's Unruh Civil Rights Act, but exempted housing designed for the elderly.

California's civil rights law does not "sanction the sacrifice of the well-being of children on the altar of a landlord's profit, or possibly some tenants' convenience," Justice Matthew Tobriner said.

Police arrest 13 in demonstration

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Demonstrators tried to block access to an annual conference of military and industrial leaders at the Naval Reserve Center Tuesday and 13 were arrested.

About 40 people gathered for an early morning vigil at the naval center, site of the conference. Most of the seven women and six men arrested were members of the Los Angeles Catholic Worker, an activist religious group. Police said they offered no resistance.

Brink's robbery suspect pleads guilty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Suspected Brink's robbery George Bosque pleaded guilty Tuesday to stealing $1.65 million from an armored truck in August, 1980.

A federal judge tentatively accepted the plea pending a psychiatric report.

Bosque, 34, told U.S. District Judge Stanley Weigel that he had taken the money from a truck at San Francisco International Airport Aug. 15, 1980, and wished to plead guilty to the charge.

Defense Attorney Stephen Perelson said, however, that Bosque did not assault a hotel maid with a gun while escaping and wanted to present that charge to a jury at trial.

Bosque had been scheduled to go to trial on the robbery and assault charges Tuesday.

Congressman to receive special medal

SPOKANE (UPI) — Congressman Tom Foley, D-Wash., will receive Eastern Washington University's Centennial Medal at a ceremony today during a school-sponsored international trade symposium.

Foley will receive the honor at a luncheon. The congressman will be the seventh official selected for the medal, which was struck especially in honor of the university's centennial.

U.S. looking into ex-medic's charges

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The federal government is investigating a former medic's charges the Army covered up exposure of soldiers to high levels of radiation during atomic bomb tests in the 1950s.

Van R. Brandon said Sunday he followed orders to prepare phony records at four atomic tests in 1956 and 1957, and observed falsified documents prepared at a fifth test in November 1955.

A spokesman for the U.S. Defense Nuclear Agency said Monday that "a bunch of people" were digging into 25-year-old records to determine if the charges were true.

Energy Department plans nuclear blasts

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (UPI) — Two nuclear weapons, each with a maximum equivalent yield of 150,000 tons of TNT, will be detonated back-to-back Thursday beneath a high volcanic plateau about 100 miles from Las Vegas.

The detonations are scheduled a half hour apart beginning at 7:30 a.m.

A spokesman for the Department of Energy said residents in Las Vegas, especially those in high rise buildings where earth motion is magnified, may feel successive earth shocks from the nuclear tests. It takes about one minute for the earth motion to reach Las Vegas from ground zero at Pahute Mesa.

'Goose' to nest today

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — November, 1980, when it was moved to its present site on a dock, covered by a tarp. In the last 16 months, the craft was prepared for its final journey to its home.

Hughes stunned observers Nov. 3, 1947, when he lifted the huge craft with its 320-foot wing span off the water in Long Beach Harbor during what was supposed to be a simple taxi run along the ocean surface. The plane reached an altitude of 70 feet, traveled a mile then gently skimmed down on the water. It was never again flown.

Howard Hughes' legendary Spruce Goose will be moved today to what officials called its final home.

The 200-ton wooden airplane flew a mile on its only flight.

The massive craft — the largest airplane ever built — will be lifted by crane onto a barge and taken to a newly constructed dome adjacent to the Queen Mary, joining the famous cruise ship as a tourist attraction.

The Spruce Goose — which actually is made mostly from birch — had been kept from the public eye until

For Your Valentine... OLD FASHIONED TREATS WITH NEW FANGLED EASE

The giving of sweets to the sweet has long been a Valentine's Day tradition. Since early days when couples were matched by lottery in a ritual held in mid-February of each year, gifts have been exchanged to symbolize one's affection for another. We now choose our own match, but come February 14, we still give gifts, especially of candy.

Since homemade gifts seem to say "I Love You" more sincerely than any others, this year instead of stopping at the nearest candy shop, do as your grandmother did, and head for the kitchen. Fortunately, today you can get that old-fashioned, temptingly rich goodness that took hours of grandmother's time with only minutes of effort. The secret is to use quality convenience products from the supermarket. One of the best for cooking, baking and candymaking is Kraft marshmallow creme, which gives smooth creaminess to fudge, fondant and other goodies. With simple ingredients such as evaporated milk, chocolate pieces, chopped nuts—you can create a variety of confections for your Love on Valentine's Day.

No matter what type of candy your sweetheart craves, there's a delicious recipe sure to satisfy. We have assembled some of the best available to assure sweet successes this year. Fantasy Fudge is a traditional favorite all year round, but for Valentine's Day, make Sweetheart Fantasy Fudge, a rich white chocolate fudge garnished with heart-red maraschino cherries. Or if white chocolate is hard to find, 12 oz. of butterscotch chips or peanut butter chips can be used in its place to create a lighter look and a new taste treat. Old-fashioned divinity is updated with marshmallow creme, for a recipe that takes only minutes and a few ingredients to prepare. The critical stage in the recipe is beating the divinity mixture, so be sure to watch it carefully according to instructions, for best results.

Elegant, hand-dipped chocolates are easy when they are Fondant Fancies, marshmallow creme confections dipped in melted chocolate pieces. Keep them chilled until serving time so that the chocolate stays firm. For almond lovers, make a variety of heart shapes with an easy Marzipan recipe requiring no hard-to-find or costly ingredients.

Whether you give these confections as a special gift to the one you love, or use them as the sweet finale to an intimate dinner for two, they're sure to improve Cupid's aim!

Marzipan

- 1/2 cup Parkay margarine
- 1 7-oz. jar Kraft marshmallow creme
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- Food coloring

Cream margarine. Add marshmallow creme and extract, mixing with electric mixer or wire whisk until well blended. Gradually add 2 1/2 cups sugar, mixing well after each addition. Knead in remaining sugar. Divide mixture as desired; tint with food coloring as desired. Knead in additional sugar if mixture becomes sticky. Form into heart shapes; let stand overnight until dry.

Marshmallow Creme Divinity

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 7-oz. jar Kraft marshmallow creme
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup chopped pecans

Place sugar, water and cream of tartar in heavy 1-quart saucepan. Do not stir. Boil over high heat, without stirring, until candy reaches 248°. Very gradually add hot sugar syrup to marshmallow creme in 1 1/2-quart bowl, mixing at lowest speed on electric mixer. Add vanilla; continue mixing at lowest speed until mixture begins to lose its gloss, approximately 5 minutes, and holds shape when dropped from spoon*. Stir in nuts. Drop by teaspoonsfuls onto wax paper. Cool. Store in covered container. 2 dozen

*Note: This is a critical point in recipe. If mixture is underbeaten, it will not hold shape; if overbeaten, mixture becomes dry.

Sweetheart Fantasy Fudge

- 3 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup Parkay margarine
- 1/2 cup (5 1/2 fl. oz. can) evaporated milk
- 12 oz. white chocolate
- 1 7-oz. jar Kraft marshmallow creme
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Maraschino cherries

Combine sugar, margarine and milk in heavy 2 1/2-quart saucepan; bring to full rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil 5 minutes over medium heat or until candy thermometer reaches 238°, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat; stir in chocolate until melted. Add marshmallow creme, nuts and vanilla; beat until well blended. Pour into greased 13 x 9-inch pan. Garnish with maraschino cherries. Cool at room temperature; cut into squares.

Variation: Substitute one 12-oz. pkg. butterscotch or peanut butter pieces for white chocolate.

Fondant Fancies

- 1 cup Kraft marshmallow creme
- 1/2 cup Parkay margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1 6-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted

Combine marshmallow creme, margarine, vanilla and salt, mixing with electric mixer or wire whisk until well blended. Gradually add sugar, mixing well after each addition. Shape into 1-inch balls; chill. Coat balls by rolling in melted chocolate. Lift out with fork; scrape off excess chocolate. Place on wax paper-lined cookie sheet; chill several hours. 2 1/2 to 3 dozen

Fantasy Fudge

- 3 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup Parkay margarine
- 1/2 cup (5 1/2 fl. oz. can) evaporated milk
- 1 12-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 7-oz. jar Kraft marshmallow creme
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine sugar, margarine and milk in a heavy 2 1/2-quart saucepan; bring to rolling boil, stirring constantly. Boil 5 minutes over medium heat or until candy thermometer reaches 238°, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat; stir in chocolate pieces until melted. Add marshmallow creme, nuts and vanilla; beat until well blended. Pour into greased 13 x 9-inch pan. Cool at room temperature; cut into squares. 3 pounds

A Sweetheart Brunch is a good way to show your special someone how much you care

Give a Valentine's brunch

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. — Show your special someone how much you care with the luxury of a Valentine's Day champagne brunch.

Let this be the time to share a sentimental greeting, a personal gift or an often unspoken affection. If you want to be certain the meal is as memorable as the occasion, try serving Sweethearts' Brunch.

This delightful dish features freshly baked puffed pastry shells brimming with a savory filling of eggs and asparagus spears, perfectly seasoned with instant spring vegetable soup mix. Each completed pastry shell is topped with a surprisingly sophisticated sauce made from instant cream of mushroom soup mix laced with just the right touch of champagne.

No need to rise at dawn to prepare this elegant, but easy entree. The pastry shells come pre-prepared, the filling takes only minutes to make, and all the seasonings needed are provided by the convenient instant soup mixes.

Offer fresh fruit and, of course the champagne. Don't be surprised by a wholehearted toast from an appreciative guest of honor. This is one Valentine's Day brunch you'll want to repeat many times throughout the year.

SWEETHEART'S BRUNCH

- 4 frozen puff pastry shells
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 4 eggs
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 envelope instant spring vegetable soup mix
- 1 can (8 oz.) cut asparagus spears, drained
- 1/2 cup Champagne
- 1 envelope instant cream mushroom soup mix

Prepare puff pastry shells according to package directions.

Meanwhile, in medium skillet, melt butter. Add asparagus and instant spring vegetable soup mix blended with eggs and milk. Cook, stirring gently, until set.

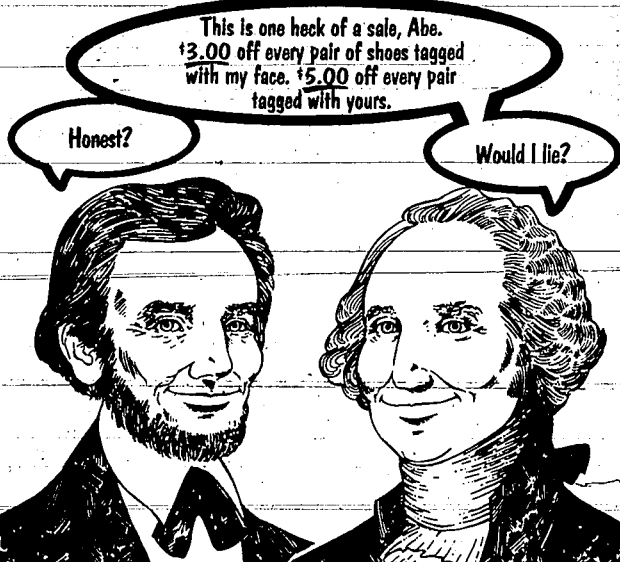

Mix Champagne with enough water to equal 1/2 cup. Blend in instant cream of mushroom soup mix; reserve. Remove tops from puff pastry shells; spoon in egg mixture. Top with reserved sauce; replace tops. Bake about 10 minutes or until heated through. Makes about 2 servings.

Dried beans, egg noodles create a succulent supper

TWIN FALLS — Everyday staples make succulent suppers. Inexpensive standbys such as dried beans and egg noodles combine well.

SPANISH BEAN-NOODLE SOUP

- 2 cups dried navy beans, covered with cold water and soaked overnight, drained
- 2 quarts cold water
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups crushed thyme leaves
- 2 pinches saffron
- 2 large cloves garlic, peeled and sliced
- 2 yellow onion, peeled and chopped
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1 cup one-inch pieces dried egg noodles

In large, heavy kettle, put drained, soaked beans, 2 quarts water and 2 teaspoons salt; bring to a boil; lower heat, cover and simmer 2 hours, or until beans crush easily when pressed between two fingers. Meanwhile, in another large, heavy kettle, heat olive oil and butter or margarine. Add thyme, saffron, garlic, onion; sauté about 10 minutes, or until golden brown. Stir while these ingredients are browning and don't let them burn.

When golden, stir in tomato sauce; cook, stirring, over low heat until well blended. When beans are done, spoon all but 1 cup of the beans into tomato mixture and pour in the liquid from cooked beans. Bring all to a boil; add noodles; cover and simmer 10 minutes, or until noodles are tender.

Season to taste with salt and pepper. Mash the held out 1 cup of beans; stir into main soup mixture. Adjust salt and pepper seasoning. Serve soup steaming hot. (Makes 6 to 8 servings.)

FRENCH PROVENCAL SALAD

- 1/4 cup dried-navy beans, soaked, cooked, drained and chilled
- 1 medium-sized onion, peeled and chopped
- 1 clove garlic, peeled and mashed
- 1 teaspoon crumbled dried oregano
- 1 tablespoon dried minced parsley
- 1 tablespoon wine vinegar

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup dried noodles, cooked, drained and chilled
2 cans (7 oz. each) oil-packed tuna, drained
10-15 pitted black olives to garnish
2-4 anchovy filets, soaked in hot water and patted dry to garnish fresh parsley sprigs to garnish

Into large bowl, put drained beans, onion, garlic, oregano, minced parsley, wine vinegar, lemon juice, olive oil, noodles; toss together lightly. Cover mixture and refrigerate at least 1 hour. When ready to serve salad, flake tuna. Arrange refrigerated ingredients in bottom of chilled salad bowl; spread flaked tuna on top; garnish top of tuna with olives, anchovy filets and sprigs of parsley. Serve immediately with bread sticks, crackers or toast squares. (Makes 6 servings.)

ITALIAN NOODLES WITH BEANS

- 1 pound dried navy beans, soaked overnight in cold water to cover, then drained
- 2 stalks celery, cleaned and chopped

2 onions, peeled and chopped
1/4 cup olive oil
salt and pepper to season to taste
1/2 pound egg noodles, broken into 1-inch pieces few pats butter or margarine
1/4 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

In large kettle, put soaked beans with cold water to cover; bring to a boil. Add celery, onion, olive oil and salt and pepper to taste; bring again to a boil; lower heat; cover and simmer about 2 hours or until bean crushes easily when pressed between two fingers. Add noodles and simmer 10 minutes more, or until noodles are tender. Drain mixture if necessary. Toss mixture with a few pats of butter or margarine and the grated cheese. Serve immediately with tossed green salad and crusty bread. (Makes 6 to 8 servings.)

THIS WEEK'S BEST MARKET BUYS: The word is that frost damage to citrus crops is not quite as severe as first estimated. Frozen ground, however, is what's keeping parsnip supplies scarce, and at present, unavailable. Unlike carrots, which are stored, parsnips are left in the ground. Early season crops from warmer climates are arriving. Now available are asparagus from California and seedless grapes from Chile.

Fresh smelt are here, and the price is right. Smelt are beginning to run, marking the start of the traditional fish season.

Fair warning for those who shop ahead; prices are going up on sugar and soap (not detergents).

LEG LENGTH

by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, D.C.

Are your legs exactly the same length? The odds are, a check will reveal that they are not. Either because they did not grow exactly at the same rate or maybe the hips are somewhat offset.

In other cases, the base of the spinal column is off balance and as a result, in order to keep your erect posture, the spinal column deviates more or less to the side in a C-curve and maybe to compensate, Dr. Landwehr to an S-curve. One or more spinal joints become wedged and as a result, cause pressure on individual nerves, which in turn will interfere with the conductivity of that specific nerve and ultimately result in muscular weakness, pain and various disorders.

With proper manipulative therapy and supports, your chiropractic physician will correct such deviations and restore proper flow of nerve impulses.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific chiropractic, written by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, Main West Chiropractic Clinic, 717 Main Ave. W., Twin Falls, Tel. 733-0522.)

Pie gives little town own fame

By BILL BURTON
© The Baltimore Evening Sun

Tiny Horse Shoe Run, West Va., isn't really known for much, though it does boast the smallest church in the contiguous 48 states.

Directly across from the entrance to the tiny church on Route 219, six miles south of Red House, Md., is a small rustic restaurant and inn offering a truly different pie that should put Horse Shoe Run on the map of those who appreciate sweets that aren't too sweet.

Pecan pie is probably the best known of all nut pies, but there are many other nuts, and many other nut pies.

Pecan pie is sweet, rich, filling; a generous portion probably contains as many or more calories than all those in the preceding appetizer and entree.

Mountain Village Inn has a limited menu. Not limited are specialties of the dining hall, a wood stove-warmed room with natural-wood decor and only nine tables lit by candlelight. And a leisurely meal served at any of those small tables by waitresses in long traditional country skirts should be climax with a generous serving of what I consider the specialty of specialties, homemade walnut pie.

The size of the slice could intimidate anyone, but once one discovers the natural flavor of walnuts prevails, and detects no excessive richness or sweetness, all apprehension vanishes. The entire slice vanishes, including a firm, yet light and flaky, crust.

Mary Delaney, who lives in one of the 20 or so houses that comprise Horse Shoe Run, bakes all the pies for the inn. Besides the walnut, there are lemon meringue, pumpkin, in season; cherry, apple and pecan. The latter being the favorite of inn proprietor Bill Reeves.

However, I suggest trying my favorite, which is surprisingly simple to prepare:

Walnut Pie

3 eggs
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup butter
1 cup light corn syrup
1 cup shelled walnuts
Beat eggs, sugar, salt, butter and syrup together; mix in nuts and pour into pie crust. Bake for 50 minutes in preheated pie pan at 375 degrees. There's no top crust for this pie.

I neglected to get the pie crust recipe from the inn, but I do have an exceptional one I got from an old Virginia apple pie specialist. The crust is flaky and tender, well worth the little extra effort involved.

The following recipe is for a nine-inch double-crust pie, so reduce it to a tad over half if you want to try the walnut pie.

Flaky Pie Crust

1/2 cup vegetable shortening
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 to 1/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon cold milk.

With knives or pastry blender cut shortening, flour and salt in a large bowl until the mix resembles small peas. Then, methodically sprinkle by the spoonful, cold milk over the little balls, tossing with a fork until the dough clings together. Once that's done, shape into two balls on a lightly floured surface for a double-crust pie, or one ball (with reduced ingredients) is it's a single-crust pie, such as the walnut.

With rolling pin, roll each ball into an 11-inch circle. Place carefully over a 9-inch pie plate. Avoid stretching the dough as this will cause shrinkage. Flute the edges and you're set for a single-crust pie.

If the pie calls for a double crust, cut decorative slits into the second 11-inch circle to allow steam to escape, then place atop the pie, trimming so that 1/4 inch overlaps the pie plate rim. Fold the outer edge of the top crust under the bottom crust, then flute the edges.

Mountain Village Inn's overnight accommodations are as compact as the dining room (in warm months meals are also served outdoors overlooking a small lake). There are three small bedrooms, adjoining a small cozy "community" reading or lounging room — the shelves of which are jammed with interesting old books, many of which pertain to West Virginia's heritage — and a single, spacious shared bathroom.

There's no television, too many other things to do thereabouts to waste the time.

Fifteen miles to the south on Route 32 is Blackwater State Park, several more miles down the road is Canaan Valley State Park. A dozen miles north is Oakland, Md., which is only 10 miles south of Swallow Falls State Park, Deep Creek Lake and the WISP Ski Area.

Those who find dining accommodations too hectic, or the wait too long in crowded restaurants at the ski resort might appreciate Horse Shoe Run's offerings. It's about a half hour's drive due south on Route 219, well ploughed and salted in wintery weather. We make the run from the ski slopes in 40 minutes in rain and steel. The pie alone made it worthwhile.

Pizza for two recipe offered

By BEV BENNETT
© Chicago Sun-Times

As anyone devoted to the pleasures of eating that glorious mess of cheese, tomatoes and herbs slathered on a doughy crust knows, pizza is usually best done for a crowd, not for one.

Not until now, that is. You prepare the latest innovation — the double crust pizza — without worrying about bringing in half the neighborhood to share the leftovers.

Instead of using a yeast crust that might seem too time-consuming for few servings, this recipe uses prepared puff pastry patty shells. These same shells that are usually the sodden containers for chicken a la king can make an airy, crisp pizza crust.

Roll out the patty shells much as you would a pie crust and spread the filling inside, leaving plenty of room at the edges for sealing on a top crust. On baking, the pastry, true to its name, puffs up into a thin shell covering a savory filling.

Either make the entire recipe for two, or halve it for one. No other adjustments need be made. However, if you like sausage, you can substitute browned sausage meat for the mushrooms. You could add minced anchovy filets (skip the salt), sautéed green peppers or even tuna.

Once you see how easily these pizzas can be made, there'll be no end to the possibilities.

Pizza Pot Pie

- Time: about 1 hour
Cost: less than $2.50
- 4 puff pastry patty shells
 - 1 tablespoon butter
 - one-third to ½ cup chopped onions
 - 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
 - ¼ teaspoon oregano
 - Dash garlic powder or ¼ clove finely minced garlic
 - 2 tablespoons dry red wine or chicken or vegetable broth
 - Dash cayenne pepper
 - Salt to taste
 - A few grindings of fresh pepper
 - 1 (4-ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained or ¾ cup sliced fresh mushrooms sautéed in a little butter until tender
 - 3 slices mozzarella cheese, torn into small pieces
 - 1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley
 - 1 egg white mixed with a teaspoon water

Set patty shells aside to thaw while preparing filling.

Melt butter in small skillet. Sauté onions until transparent, but not brown. Stir frequently. Add tomato sauce, oregano, garlic, dry red wine, cayenne, salt and pepper. Simmer for 10 minutes. Taste and adjust seasonings as necessary. Add mushrooms and heat through.

On lightly floured board, roll out the four patty shells into thin circles about 6 inches in diameter. All circles should be as close to the same size as possible without spending too much time at it.

Divide tomato sauce between two of the circles, keeping the sauce to within 1 inch of the edge. Divide the cheese between the circles and sprinkle over sauce. Sprinkle with chopped parsley. Brush the edge of both circles with egg white mixture. Top with remaining circles, pressing down edges to seal.

Place on greased pan and bake in pre-heated 375-degree oven about 30 minutes or until crusts are puffed and lightly browned. Remove from oven and serve immediately to 2.

Cold stops pests, lowers lettuce price

EL CENTRO, Calif. (UPI) — The nation's lettuce lovers will soon be getting more of the salad vegetable, at lower prices and at better quality because a cold wave is keeping the whitefly out of the fields.

The Imperial Valley, nestled at the southeastern tip of California, normally produces up to 90 percent of the nation's winter lettuce.

But late last year the valley was hit by the whitefly, a pest which causes leaf curl disease, causing crop yields to plummet and driving up the price of lettuce as much as $2 a head in some parts of the nation.

State and local agricultural officials said recent chilly temperatures have inhibited whitefly activity and increased lettuce production.

Although the prices paid growers have dropped from $15 per carton to $8 per carton in recent weeks, yields in most fields are up and whitefly damage is down.

Nearly two million cartons of lettuce were shipped from the valley last week, representing the largest lettuce yield of the season. Shipments were expected to be lighter this week.

Farmers are now harvesting about 400 cartons to 500 cartons of lettuce per acre which gives them a break-even price of about $5 per carton. During the height of the whitefly infestation, the average yield per acre was about 200 boxes.

Bakeoff winners listed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — A Dutch recipe adapted from a 100-year-old cookbook won a Danbury, Conn., widow $40,000 in the 30th annual Pillsbury Bakeoff.

Elizabeth D. Meljer had to convert grams to ounces and account for modern oven temperatures to adapt her grand prize winning almond-filled cookie cake for the contest.

Mrs. Meljer said Monday she was overwhelmed at her victory and planned to invest the $40,000 prize in "something backed up by the government."

It was the first time Mrs. Meljer had entered a cooking contest and the only recipe she entered was the big winner. A Christian Science practitioner, Mrs. Eljer said she prayed for everyone to do well.

Among the top winners competing for the $109,000 in prizes were two high school juniors and two mothers whose daughters also were competing in the contest.

Sixteen-year-old Karen Lee of La Verne, Calif., won $15,000 for her sugar-cruled biscuit puffs and 17-year-old Jay Friedman of Montclair, N.J., won $2,000 for his Greek spiced cake.

Miss Lee entered 30 recipes in the contest and when told she was a finalist, forgot to ask which recipe had emerged a victor.

The only contestant who was not entirely surprised that she won was Betty Doll of St. Louis who said that she thought her Italian sour cream cake was "pretty enough to win something. I had confidence in myself."

Ms. Doll said she planned to use her $15,000 prize to buy a new car, take a vacation, "glow a little and blow a few bucks."

The two mothers representing the contest's two mother-daughter teams were Marilyn Blankschlen of Clintonville, Wis., a $2,000 winner, and Phyllis Wolf of Salem, Ore., also a $2,000 winner.

More men are shopping, clipping coupons

By MARTIN SLOANE
© United Feature Syndicate

One of the most interesting changes at the supermarket is that many more men are doing some or all of the shopping.

One out of every three shoppers is a man! Little wonder, then, that many men are clipping coupons and sending for refunds with the same vigor as do women.

Bob Mueller is a college instructor who does most of the food shopping for his family of four. His records show that he has received $50 to $75 in refunds each month for the past year. "I believe that a man can get just as involved in refunding as a woman," he says. "I try to squeeze in some time for refunding almost every day. The key to success is organization. Once you have set up your system for filing coupons, refund forms and proof of purchase, the task becomes a lot easier."

Jerry Hicks started refunding in 1969 when he was a serviceman with a family and a tight budget. In the first year he saved $81.03. In the past five years his refunds have totaled $2,662.41!

"I have invested most of my refund savings in the stock market and made some very nice profits," he says. "This is certainly money that I wouldn't have had if not been for refunding."

Yes, there really is a "coupon king" of New Jersey. He is Stan Fedelson, who last year saved a total of $657 with extra-off coupons.

He says that he caught coupon fever when a store in his area offered triple coupons during its grand opening. He bought $47 worth of groceries and his coupons turned out to be worth $23.

"I quickly put the shopping bags in the car and raced home to check the newspapers for more coupons," says Hicks. "On my second trip, the cash register total was $59, and with my triple coupons I wound up paying only $18."

He then started to clip out every coupon he found. He set up an extensive file with one envelope for every product.

"My joy was short-lived because the hundreds of envelopes made it very difficult to check the expiration dates and many of my coupons expired without my realizing it," he recalls.

Next he tried a "shoe box" system, filing his coupons by expiration dates. He had a shoe box for every month of the year. "My second system was destroyed when my wife asked me for some specific coupons that I knew I had — but I couldn't remember the expiration date. I just stood there not knowing which shoe box to go to!"

Hicks says that his latest hybrid system works beautifully. He files the coupons that he uses most often in envelopes by product. Coupons that he seldom uses are still filed in shoe boxes by expiration dates.

"If people want to call me a 'coupon king,' I gratefully accept the title," he says. "One thing is sure: I won't rest on my laurels. To me, SAVE, SAVE, SAVE is a royal duty."

Dried fruit handy for winter meals

© Boston Globe

BOSTON — Dried fruits are beautiful examples of good things that come in small packages.

And those small packages come in mighty handy during these winter months when fresh fruits are in short supply — or no supply at all.

Dried fruits are exactly that — dried. Whether they have been dried under the hot sun or in commercial driers, their original moisture content — 60 percent to 95 percent — has been reduced to between 16 percent and 22 percent. With their size lessened, their flavor and sweetness becomes more concentrated.

The most popular dried fruits are raisins, prunes, apricots, figs and dates. And dried fruits may be used interchangeably.

They are good sources of iron, fiber, carbohydrates, vitamins B1 and B2, and they are a fair source of potassium. Apricots are an excellent source of vitamin A, with a half-cup providing 163 percent of an adult's daily need. But, since that same half-cup of dried apricots also contains 195 calories, a dieter's dream it is not.

The other fruits also are relatively high in calories. For instance, a half-cup of medium prunes with pits has 230 calories; a half-cup of seedless Thompson raisins is about 220 calories; a half-cup of dried figs is about 190 calories; and a half-cup of pitted dates has about 235 calories. Dried pineapple, apples and bananas also lean toward the high end of the calorie scale.

Nancy Stutzman, Middlesex County (Mass.) Extension Service home economist, reminds us that while the fruit sugar acts as a natural preservative, opened packages of dried fruits should be stored in an airtight container and kept in a cool, dry place. Dried fruit prices vary according to packaging and processing (for instance, pitted prunes cost more than unpitted ones), but generally, the more you buy in bulk, the lower the cost per unit. Although dried fruits are a nutritional bargain, Stutzman does not recommend them as a snack food "because of the sticky sugar," which can lead to tooth decay. "Of course," she adds, "if you want to have an apple after eating them, that would be OK," as the apple would help clean off the sticky residue.

Chicken Divine on a bed of orange slices and green peas makes elegant dinner for two

Tempt him with this menu

1 tablespoon prepared yellow mustard
 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
 2 tablespoons oil
 1 envelope chicken gravy mix
 3/4 cup water
 1/2 cup orange juice
 Pound chicken breasts with meat hammer or dull side of heavy knife, flattening to 1/4-inch thickness. Place 1 slice of ham on each piece of chicken; spread with mustard and top with 1/4 cup of cheese. Roll up chicken tucking in sides; fasten with wooden picks. Brown in oil in medium-size skillet. Arrange chicken in 1 1/2-quart shallow baking dish. Pour excess fat from skillet. Combine gravy mix, water and orange juice in skillet; heat to boiling. Pour gravy over chicken. Bake uncovered at 350° for 35 to 40 minutes, or until tender, basting with gravy occasionally. (Makes 2 to 3 servings.)
 Microwave: Place prepared chicken rolls in oil in shallow microwave pan; cover with wax paper and microwave on high 5 minutes, rotating dish once. Four off excess fat. Combine gravy mix, 1/2 cup water and orange juice; pour over chicken rolls, cover and microwave on medium for 8 to 12 minutes, rotating twice and basting with sauce.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Tempt your loved one with this special Valentine's Day menu. This dinner-for-two, is developed to be elegant to serve yet easy to prepare.
 Costly leftovers are eliminated because the portions are tailor-made for you and that special someone.
 If you've shied away from glamorous recipes because they seemed too complicated or required expensive ingredients, try Chicken Divine. The delightful combination of ham, cheese, and prepared yellow mustard surrounded by tender breast of chicken couldn't be easier to prepare. Instead of a complicated sauce, use packaged gravy mix highlighted by the sweet surprise of orange juice.
 To serve, arrange the cooked chicken breasts on a bed of sunny orange slices and colorful green peas or beans. Suddenly, chicken becomes glamorous!
 Rice, an old favorite and economical staple, becomes a savory side dish with a few simple additions. Regular rice is tossed with green onions and crunchy toasted almonds. Rice Pilaf is that out-of-the-ordinary touch which dresses up any meal.
 Complete this elegant menu with a spinach salad and cherry pie à la mode. A glass of champagne and candlelight turns this dinner-for-two into a celebration.

2 tablespoons sliced almonds
 1 tablespoon French's Worcestershire Sauce
 Bring water to a boil; stir in rice and salt. Cover and simmer 20 minutes or until rice is tender and water absorbed. While rice is cooking, melt butter in small saucepan. Add green onion and almonds; cook, stirring, 2 to 3 minutes. Add to cooked rice along with Worcestershire sauce. Stir with a fork to combine. (Makes 2 to 3 servings.)

Egg prices not expected to increase

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — A Cornell University poultry specialist says the outlook for 1982 is not especially rosy for farmers but good for consumers.
 Dan L. Cunningham says record grain crop production last year should help keep feed costs down this year.
 Cunningham says egg prices in 1982 may be not much higher than they were in '81 if egg producers, as expected, avoid drastic cutbacks.

Cherry Almond Torte features crisp meringues layered with rich mixture of cream cheese and cherry topping

Feb. 14 calls for extra special dessert

COLUMBUS, Ohio — What does St. Valentine's Day mean to us today? Well, romance, cards, hearts, flowers and cupid, among other things.

Back when the tradition of Valentine's Day began, the celebration was said to be in honor of the season for birds to begin mating. Another legend tells us that we celebrate the day because of an ancient Roman feast traditionally held in February.

Yet another story talks about a patron St. Valentine who sent love messages to his wife.

Whatever the origin, we like to send cards and flowers to loved ones, and serve carefully prepared dinners in honor of the day. For that special meal, main-dishes are well-planned, followed by desserts worthy of romance. Desserts that say "I love you" can be sweet and sumptuous, but simple, too, with the help of some step-saving ingredients. The recipes here are the perfect finale to a romantic dinner for two.

For Valentine's Day, try Cherry Almond Torte — crisp meringues layered with a rich mixture of cream cheese, sweetened condensed milk and whipped cream. Sandwiched between meringues and topped with the torte is cherry pie filling, another February favorite. Remember to refrigerate the torte for about three hours or more, for easy cutting.

Another dessert especially for two is Orange Almond Crepes. Make the crepes ahead of time, then mix the filling of rich sweetened condensed milk, orange juice concentrate and toasted almonds. A thick chocolate sauce with a touch of amaretto liqueur tops the crepes.

CHERRY ALMOND TORTE

(Makes 10 to 12 servings)

Meringue Layers:

- 4 egg whites
 - ¼ teaspoon salt
 - ¾ cup sugar
- Preheat oven to 225 degrees. Line baking sheets with brown or parchment paper. Trace three 8-inch circles on the paper; set aside. In large mixer bowl, beat eggs and salt until foamy. Gradually add sugar, beating until stiff but not dry. Spread meringue evenly into traced circles. Bake 1 hour. Turn oven off and leave meringues in oven for one hour longer.

Cherry Filling:

- 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 1 (14-ounce) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk
- ¼ cup RealLemon Lemon Juice from Concentrate
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 cup (½ pint) whipping cream, whipped

Canned cherry pie filling, chilled. In large mixer bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Beat in sweetened condensed milk until smooth. Stir in RealLemon and extract. Fold in whipped cream. Chill 20 to 30 minutes or until mixture mounds slightly. Layer meringue, cream cheese mixture and pie filling ending with pie filling. Chill three hours or until set. Refrigerate leftovers.

ORANGE ALMOND CREPES

(Makes 6 to 8 crepes)

Crepes:

- 2 eggs
- ½ cup milk
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter, melted

In medium bowl, combine all ingredients; mix well. Over medium heat, heat crepe pan or small skillet; spoon in 2 tablespoons batter. Lift and tilt pan to spread batter evenly. Return pan to heat; cook until browned on one side. Remove from pan. Repeat with remaining batter. As crepes are cooked, stack between sheets of paper towel.

Orange Filling:

- ¾ cup (one-half 14 ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
- ¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

½ cup pitted, chopped fresh orange
2 tablespoons chopped toasted almonds
1 cup (½ pint) whipping cream, whipped
In medium bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk and juice concentrate—mix well. Stir in orange and almonds. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon about ½ cup (filling into each crepe; fold crepe over. Serve with Chocolate Almond Sauce. Refrigerate leftovers.

CHOCOLATE ALMOND SAUCE

(Makes about ½ cup)

- 2 (1-ounce) squares semi-sweet chocolate
 - 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
 - ¾ cup (½ 14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
 - 3 tablespoons amaretto liqueur
- In small saucepan over low heat, melt chocolate and margarine; stir in sweetened condensed milk. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens slightly; stir in liqueur. Remove from heat.

Dear Abby

Various causes for missing sterling

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You blew it when you advised "Long John Silver" not to make a fuss about the two pieces of silverware that "disappeared" right off the table during a formal dinner at his home.

What do you mean, "The embarrassment wouldn't be worth the price of the silver"? Have you priced silverware lately?

I would have first announced to all the guests that some silverware was missing, and if nobody "teased up," so help me, I'd search every man and woman thoroughly before they went home.

—NO DUMMY

DEAR NO DUMMY: It takes all kinds. Try this for size:

DEAR ABBY: You were right to advise the host and hostess not to be too hasty in announcing that some silverware had disappeared, and would the guilty party please come forward and produce it.

[This is what happened to me last October: A friend asked if he could bring his friend to my home for a dinner party. I, too, said, "Of course."

At the end of the evening, a sterling fork was missing. I looked through the trash, on the floor, behind the draperies, in the utensil drawer — everywhere. No fork!

Well, last week I found the fork! Because I recycle my used jars, I always sterilize them in my dishwasher first. It seems that the label from one of those jars got stuck up under the front of the inside of my dishwasher. In removing the label, I felt the fork, completely hidden from view. Had it not been for that label, I never would have found the fork. Go look, John. It happened to me.

—ST. LOUIS HOUSEWIFE

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were transferred to Tucson, Ariz., with the Air Force, and we love it here. All of a sudden we get a call from an old Air Force buddy of my husband saying that he and his wife are coming to Tucson "sometime in March" and they'd love to stay with us!

This all took place on the phone, Abby, and I was so shocked I can't even remember what I said.

They are nice people and we have nothing against them, but we don't feel comfortable with anyone else in our home. I suppose it sounds terrible, but when we go out of town we never stay with friends, and we don't want anyone staying with us.

They know we have a two-bedroom house, so we can't say we don't have room. If we say we aren't going to be in town, they'll ask when we will be in town and arrange to come when we're home.

We've been stalling because we don't know what to tell them. One thing is certain, we don't want them staying with us! Help!

—TRAPPED IN TUCSON

DEAR TRAPPED: Either call or write and tell them you will be glad to make reservations for them, at a convenient motel or hotel. You are not obligated to tell them why they can't stay with you. And don't feel guilty. It's your home and you don't have to cave in to guests who invite themselves.

Dr. Lamb

Hubby won't wash his hair often enough to suit her

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem getting my husband to shampoo his hair often enough to please me. He feels he will wash out all the oils by frequent washings. Once every 10 days or two weeks is sufficient, he says.

I have consulted with my hair dresser and he says frequent washings will not be harmful. My husband refuses to accept his advice, but maybe he will accept yours.

I believe the fact he has turned 60 and is losing his hair may be a strong reason for his infrequent washings. His pillow smells, his hair smells and I'm beginning to think his clothes smell, too. Will you please help?

DEAR READER — How often hair needs to be washed depends on how dirty it gets. If a person has a dirty job or sweats a lot once a day is not too often. But if a person does not sweat, does not have oily hair or dandruff and doesn't get dirty, once a week may be quite sufficient.

You will wash out some oils from your hair when you shampoo it. The amount depends upon the type of shampoo you use or if you use a harsh degreasing soap. Your hair dresser should have told him that he could use hair conditioners after he shampoos to restore the oils.

And he should have recommended a mild shampoo such as one of the baby shampoos. Then your husband can wash his hair in plain water when he showers each day or every other day, which will wash out some of the surface dirt and not remove too much oil.

Washing your hair will not cause it to fall out. The only hair that falls out from washing is ready to fall out anyway. Rubbing the scalp too vigorously may break off hair — which will grow back. Styling or blow dry jobs will dry out the hair.

You and your husband will want to read The Health Letter 12-6, Hair Care, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 151, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Incidentally, a hat or cap will trap odors that you may not like.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column on runners' hematuria. When this happened to me I received a different explanation. My physician termed it march hemoglobinuria.

It was first detected in World War I training exercises in the urine of soldiers on long treks. It can also occur in bongo drum players and in karate experts. The theory is that the constant pounding of hands or feet bust blood cells within the capillaries releasing hemoglobin into the blood.

This is demonstrated by taking a blood sample and looking for broken cells after the specific exercise. This shows that the problem is not just between the bladder and the penis as you suggested. — It can be treated by wearing well padded sneakers or stopping the exercise causing it.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your helpful comment. The two conditions are not the same thing. In runners' hematuria the bleeding into the urine provides bloody urine. The blood cells in the urine are not broken. March hemoglobinuria was first described in the Prussian army. The urine is dark from the released iron pigment from broken blood cells. It does occur in marathon runners and people who have jarring exercises on hard surfaces.

Eating out popular despite costs

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Recent agriculture department statistics indicate meals eaten out average more than 2 1/2 times the cost of a meal prepared at home.

Consumer educator Josephine Swanson says more people than ever are eating out, despite the price difference. The reasons, she says, include the relative increase in the number of one-person households, the development of the fast-food industry and the influx of married women into the work force.

To stretch food dollars, the Cornell University Cooperative Extension associate suggests eating at-home as often as possible, comparing prices when you shop and taking advantage of roadside food stands, farmers' markets and cooking from scratch instead of buying convenience foods.

She estimates people can save up to 15 percent of their food money by buying store specials.

Say "I love you" on Valentine's Day Sunday with these easy to make Sweetie Pies

You can eat this valentine

CHICAGO — Homemade valentines are always well received, especially when their message appears on a sweet treat.

Write "I Love you" on Sweetie Pies. They're delightful, ice cream sandwiches you can individually inscribe with decorator icing.

Begin by baking a batch of wholesome oatmeal cookies. You can use either quick or old fashioned oats. Both provide these wholegrain goodies with vitamins, minerals and fiber.

Next, use pink or red icing to decorate half the batch of cookies with a special valentine message or design. (Any creative soul can join in at this stage and lend a helping hand.)

To assemble these oatmeal delights, sandwich a brick of vanilla ice cream between one decorated and one plain cookie. Then pop Sweetie Pies in the freezer for later.

You're sure to win hearts when you serve these edible Valentines. They taste terrific. And, because the oatmeal cookies are moist and chewy, Sweetie Pies won't crumble with

SWEETIE PIES

- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 3 eggs
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream

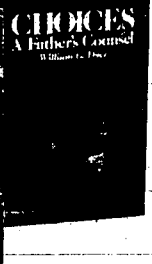

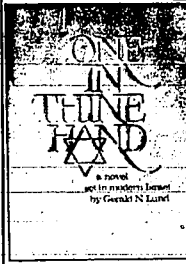

- decorator icing
 - 4 pint brick-style vanilla ice cream
- In large bowl, beat together sugar, butter and vanilla until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. In medium bowl, combine flour, oats, baking powder, soda and salt; add to sugar mixture alternately with sour cream, mixing well. Chill dough 1 hour in refrigerator.

- Heat oven to 400°. Grease large cookie sheet. Drop dough by rounded tablespoons onto prepared cookie sheet. Flatten with bottom of 1/2 cup dry measure that has been dipped in granulated sugar. Bake 8 to 9 minutes or until light golden brown. Immediately remove from cookie sheet; cool on wire cooling rack. Decorate half of cookies with decorator icing. If desired,

Cut ice cream into 1/4-inch thick rectangular slices, slightly smaller in size than cookies. Working quickly, place one ice cream slice on bottom side of plain cookie; top with one decorated cookie. Cover sandwiches loosely; return to freezer. Remove from freezer a few minutes before serving. (Makes about 2 dozen sandwich cookies.)

New white bread available

By JEANNE LESEM
TFF Family Editor

White bread said to have the nutritional value and fiber content of 100 percent whole wheat bread is being sold in nine areas of the United States, and its Chicago developers are looking for more licensees to make it available nationally.

In San Jose, Calif., the baking technologist for a trade association has developed a formula for low sodium raisin bread that resembles regular raisin bread in flavor and texture.

Representatives of the California Raisin Advisory Board plan to introduce their bread to the Board of Governors of the American Bakers Association at the board's annual meeting in Phoenix, March 29-31.

The formula for the Chicago company's Whole White Special Bread is a spin-off from one developed by Multimarkes, a food research and development company in Montreal, Canada. The original Canadian formula produced a rather heavy-textured bread preferred in that country.

The Chicago company that bought U.S. patent rights to Multimarkes' Daily Bread adapted it to make the type of soft, spongy white bread preferred by many American consumers.

Bakeries licensed to make Whole White are in Yakima, Wash., Portland and Eugene, Ore., San Diego, Calif., Topeka, Kansas, Fort Wayne, Ind., Madison, Wis., Grand Rapids, Mich. and West Bridgewater, Pa.

In an informal taste test in this writer's office, few white bread eaters could tell the difference between the new white loaf and similar brands made without extra fiber and nutrients. Its slight textural difference comes from the addition of pea bran, which corresponds to the bran layer of wheat grains.

The low sodium raisin bread we tasted was made for CALRAB by Safeway Stores' bakery in Richmond, Calif. It had a good flavor and the slightly firm texture associated with homemade bread and some bakery variety breads.

Safeway had run a taste comparison test in December 1981 with 93 families from the San Francisco Bay Area participating. They compared the low-sodium variety with standard raisin bread. A bakery spokesman said 62 percent of the respondents said they would buy the low sodium variety if it were available today.

Fred Fedorenko, quality assurance department manager of Safeway's baking division, said his company had been working on formulas for about four different varieties of low-sodium bread when approached by the raisin bread company.

"One, maybe two, will involve raisins," Fedorenko said in a telephone interview from his office in Walnut Creek, Calif.

He said Safeway's own project is still in the developmental stage.

"We feel the concept is a good one," he said. "When salt is removed from bread dough, it tends to have a touch of blandness." Raisins and spices help restore flavor, he added.

The raisin board's low-sodium formula was developed by Bill

Fedorenko's predecessor at Safeway and now CALRAB's baking technologist.

In a telephone interview, Zienke said he had been working on formulas for low-sodium breads for a couple of years, after his wife and daughter had been put on low-sodium diets.

"I had the idea of adding raisins about eight to 10 months ago," he said.

The Green Thumb by George Abraham

Times-News correspondent

Because of high cost of fuel, many of us have tightened up our homes, meaning we have less air leak. That new star in the heating world — the unvented portable kerosene room heater — has prompted many to ask us what effect it has on plant growth. These new models are much safer and better than ever. Still it's a good idea to exercise caution, not only for plants but yourself.

These portable kerosene heaters use oxygen and give off some carbon dioxide and some carbon monoxide. At night, the plants in your home take on oxygen, and in the day they take on carbon dioxide. They do not use carbon monoxide.

If the new kerosene heaters are operated according to directions, it's doubtful that the carbon monoxide given off would pose a health problem to plants or people. They burn the cleanest in the high range.

However, since they use oxygen and give off carbon monoxide, it seems reasonable to us that there should be some ventilation for the plants you grow and for yourself. All plants need some fresh air.

Traces of cooking gas can cause flower buds to drop, droop or fail to open, in amounts as small as one part gas in 1,000,000 parts of air. Artificial gas (or manufactured) is tougher on plants than natural gas. Quite often a concentration so small as to be undetectable by the human nose will cause flowers such as carnations to "go to sleep" (fold up). Shedding of leaves is often one of the symptoms resulting from a lack of fresh air.

Anything that burns fuel uses oxygen. If you notice dizziness, headaches or nausea, get some fresh air into the house, as it may be a sign of carbon monoxide poisoning. Adequate ventilation is a must.

YUCCA NOTES

The relatively new foliage plant called Yucca (Yuk-uh) Elephantipes is easy to grow. If not overwatered. Let soil get dry between waterings. It will tolerate high light or a medium light and a temperature as low as 50 degrees F. Give it a weak feed of liquid fertilizer every two or three months. For pleasing effect, put two or three canes of varying heights in a 10-inch pot.

NOW'S THE TIME TO... cut top out of your tall spiky leaf philodendron. Washing off leaves of orange, lemon and other citrus plants. Strip off the tips of Kentia and other palms. Trim back long shoots of the Wandering Jew.

Order some strawberry plants for spring. Consider planting a red, white and blue grape collection. Concord is the best blue, Niagara the best white and Catawba or Delaware, good reds.

HANGING GERANIUMS

Don't try to flower the hanging geranium indoors in winter. There's not enough light. Put the plant in the basement, keep it slightly moistened until spring. About the end of February, take it out, remove upper inch of soil, cut the top back heavily and grow it in a bright window.

TOBACCO SMOKE AND BUGS

A reader writes: "I was a high school science teacher for 32 years and a student treated bean seeds with smoke (nicotine) and planted the treated seeds with untreated seeds under various conditions. She wanted to see if tobacco smoke had any effect on germination."

The seeds exposed to tobacco smoke germinated best. The student received one of the top awards from the National Westinghouse Scholarship. Our reader asks if we can explain how smoke affects seed germination.

We're not sure but will venture a guess: The tar and soluble gases in cigarette smoke (sulfur dioxide and hydrogen cyanide are two) deposited on the seed coat and soil may have killed off fungi which attack germinating seeds. There are also less tarlike, insoluble gases, such as nitrogen oxides and ozone which may have an effect.

Does anyone have a better answer to this? Please write us, but don't say it's one reason why gardeners should smoke.

CALLA LILY BEGONIA

We still think the old fashioned, single, pink-flowered calla lily begonia is the prettiest and most delicate of any begonias. Leaves are variegated green and white, with a great many pure white leaves on the tops of full-grown plants that look like miniature white calla blossoms.

Plants are dwarf and always a difficult item to grow. Some people have best luck by placing the pots in pans on a shelf directly over a radiator in a southeast window, with a Venetian blind kept down but open. This shades the plants just enough to keep their delicate green and white perfection.

The calla lily begonia is shallow rooted and does not like dry fertilizer. Keep it out of direct sun and avoid poor drainage or overwatering. Plants can be propagated by divisions or by cuttings. Take the greenest slips from the base of the plant. Base cuttings are stronger than those taken from the top.

BLOODLEAF

If you're looking for a foliage plant with vivid red foliage, grow the Bloodleaf (Iresine herbertii). When the sun shines through the leaves, the whole room glows. Let it dry between waterings. Pinch tip out to make it bushy. Grows in sun or shade, it is easy to root in plain tap water.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

G.R. of King Hill: "I have been reading your column for years. Sometimes I am distressed when you tell people to use chemicals to get rid of insects. Since Love Canal and Rachel Carson's Silent Spring don't you think it's time to reconsider the careless or casual use of highly toxic chemicals?"

We are aware of the fact that the fewer chemicals we have in our environment, the better, and never recommend them haphazardly. Usually whenever a chemical control is mentioned we present the natural alternative for gardeners who prefer not to use chemicals.

In fact, our latest book, "Your Kitchen is a Garden Center" tells how to use safe materials within your home to grow better plants. We never recommend herbicides or high powered pesticides to fight insects and diseases, especially when there are other alternatives.

There are times when a commercial grower has to resort to a chemical to fight a blight and there is justification for this but we've never encouraged home gardeners to plaster their plants with pesticides whenever they see a bug.

G.R. of Rockland: "Every year I usually do lots of grafting of fruit trees. I used to use wax to cover the grafts, but no more. I use common masking tape on various grafts such as the Whip, Splice, Cleft, Bark or Veneer. The advantage of the paper tape is their short seal life before they weaken. Exposed to the weather (sun, wind, temperature changes, rain dew), the paper tape will hold scions and stocks together long enough to assure adequate growth as the stocks appear.

Plastic tapes can be used, but remember they do not break down and may restrict sap flow where you united the scion and stock. Avoid long delays on removing plastic tapes or certain strings. Paper masking tape make a good seal, long enough for "knitting" to take place.

Some gardeners tell us their "takes" go up 40 to 50 percent using papermasking tapes. Note: Don't use them on damp or wet stocks or scions as the tape won't hold.

Mobil home park receives OK from P&Z

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Revised plans for a mobile-home park have won the endorsement of the Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission.

The board voted Tuesday evening to recommend that City Council approve a zoning change and development package for the two-phased construction of a mobile-home park in the 1900 block of Elizabeth Boulevard East.

The recommendation calls for council to grant mobile-home zoning for the property, which is in an area zoned for multiple-family dwellings.

The developers, Elizabeth Park Plaza Enterprises and Bill Crippen, have said the first phase of their project will consist of five acres, which is the minimum size the city will allow for mobile-home parks. The entire park is expected to consist of 7.8 acres. Originally, the developers had designated 4.4 acres for the first phase.

The development of five acres for the first phase serves as a safeguard against the possibility that an undersized project will be the end-pro-

The developers said their original plans for a 4.4-acre first phase were based on economic feasibility. Phase two should be developed as economic conditions permit, the commission said.

Another consideration that the commission discussed Tuesday involves the city's apparent inability to demand certain characteristics of the park's occupants.

Commissioner Janice Stover and the group's chairman, Bill Hollifield, expressed concerns about neighbors of the project, apparently thinking they have certain long-term guarantees because of the developers' self-imposed regulations.

The city's attorney, Susan Swanberg, said the city is not empowered to enforce regulations governing the character of the park, and it cannot demand that all of the regulations established by the developers be enforced by future owners.

The neighbors had said one of their strongest desires is that the park be for adults only, regardless of whether the project changes ownership.

Twin Falls sheriff's Deputy Bill Thomquest mans the radio-dispatch center behind the new security screen at the county jail

Security upgrade nearly complete, prisoner quarters next

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Improvements designed to enhance security at the Twin Falls County Jail are nearly complete.

Next, workers will construct quarters for the jail's "trustees" and work-release prisoners.

Sheriff Jim Munn said he anticipates the work will be completed within two weeks.

An estimated $4,900 in federal revenue-sharing funds will be spent on the following:

- Sealing of the grille used for radio dispatching and criminal bookings. Walls have been added to the office, and windows have been secured with wire-grid supports. Munn said electronic locks will be added to the Courthouse door, thereby allowing a deputy to control night access to the building.
- Constructing a detention center for trustees and work-release prisoners in the Courthouse basement.

Tuesday, county officials and Twin Falls Fire Department representatives agreed on the placement of an emergency fire escape for those quarters, clearing the way for completion of the project.

Munn has advocated sealing off the dispatching room for some time. He says the project will enhance the safety and working environment of his clerical staff.

"What we're doing is to make it a secure area for the booking of criminals," he said. The project will leave the clerical staff "less susceptible to the disorderly conduct of some of the prisoners."

The room will remain off-limits to the public, Munn said. In the past, access to the room was restricted only during booking procedures. The public entrance will be placed at the rear of the office.

In addition to security concerns, county officials have voiced support for expanding the trusty and work-release programs. Such programs would relieve the pressure on the jail caused by the increased number of inmates, as well as the fact that some prisoners are serving sentences of up to one year.

By the jail's own standards, the facility is not equipped to hold prisoners for more than four months because no access to fresh air and sunshine is available.

But the jail facilities limit the application of such programs. Presently, only four prisoners are involved in trusty or work-release programs. In order to separate these prisoners from the general jail population, deputies have been forced to keep them in a recreation room at night.

"We hope that if the new facility will hold a maximum of eight prisoners," the sheriff said. "The main purpose behind this is to relieve pressure in the jail when you have a great abundance of sentenced prisoners who would be eligible for the work release."

Under a work-release program, a prisoner is allowed to continue working at his job while spending his off hours in jail. Such prisoners will be required to pay the county $12 per night for room and board.

Trustees work for free under the direction of the county custodian.

With expanded facilities, Munn said he is considering farming out prisoners for local government and community projects, with wages divided between the prisoner and the county, as provided by state law.

Only prisoners who have served at least five days of a jail sentence are eligible for such programs. Other factors that will be taken into account, Munn said, are the individual's criminal record, his employment status, the nature of the offense for which he was convicted and security considerations.

TWIN FALLS — After selecting citizens for two study committees Tuesday, the Twin Falls school board learned that one of its members has been appointed to a statewide education panel.

Bob Knighton has been named to the Governor's Education Consolidation and Improvement Act Advisory Council. The council will oversee the distribution of approximately $1.7 million in federal block-grant funds in Idaho.

The board also selected five citizens to serve on each of two committees, one to review the district's curriculum and the other to study building plans. The committees will make their recommendations to the board in April.

Members of the curriculum review committee are Phyllis Bulgin, Ina Seach, Carol Saurbaugh, Gary Faye and Cheryl Turcoy. Also serving on the committee will be teachers Jan Freestone, Lisa MacLeod and Milton Barrus, curriculum director Dennis Messenger, and board members Calvin Lamborn and Gene Champin.

Members of the building plan review committee are Peggy Crandal, Marrio Eaton, Garth Hess, Paul Ostyn and Mike Gensell. Also serving on this committee will be teachers Bob Tickner, Marilyn Kistler and John Astorquia, Superintendent James Savin and board members Knighton and John McNeas.

Voters give Wendell mayor a chance

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — A petition drive that sought the resignation of Wendell Mayor Otto Lemke has been dropped in the wake of the public meeting called by the mayor last Friday.

The organizers of the petition drive were upset about the impact of Lemke's decision not to reappoint the police chief in January. The decision meant cutting the city's police force to 20 officers.

One of the two remaining officers resigned shortly afterward, but a search is under way for a replacement.

Gini Johnson, a member of the group organizing the petition drive, said Monday that the group has decided to give the mayor a chance to try his two-man program.

"They want three policemen, but they don't want to get rid of the mayor," she said, referring to the sentiments of Wendell residents.

Former Councilman Paul Youcum, one of the few citizens who spoke in favor of a three-man department at Friday's public meeting, said this week that those who did not speak up are to blame for the reduced department.

"They had a chance to open their mouths, and they didn't," he said. "They should have demanded a third policeman... but they didn't have enough nerve."

Stan Underwood, also in favor of a three-man department, said most of those who opposed a two-man system were not at Friday's meeting.

"It seems to me that it would be awfully hard for two policemen to be able to handle the town and do it right," he said. "You can't always depend on having the county (deputies) here. They may be 25 miles away."

Underwood said people should attend more City Council meetings to get involved in a system that is working, how the two-man system is working.

He said a two-man department may work out fine, predicting nothing will be done now to increase the department unless "something bad happens. I'd hate to see anybody hurt because of it (not enough police protection)."

Mary Hamscher, another Wendell citizen who spoke at the meeting, said she is "satisfied for now" that her preference for a three-man department has been heard.

"I felt that the mayor was ignoring us at first," she said. "Now, I want to wait and see how things go."

New snow closes three Magic Valley schools

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — New snow and winds closed three Magic Valley-area schools Tuesday, but the schools normally hardest hit by weather problems were open.

Both Valley and Mindoka school districts remained open Tuesday, reporting only slight drifting.

Jerome and Wendell schools did not open Tuesday morning, while Gooding district officials sent their students home at 10 a.m.

In the Valley School District, where students have missed 12 days of school because of the weather, officials reported good attendance Tuesday. Last week, the district established pick-up points along county roads that can be kept open.

School officials said the system is working well, and most parents are getting children to the designated points, even though some roads still are blocked.

Mindoka schools have been using a pick-up point system for several weeks, and they also reported good attendance Tuesday, with no winds and only light snow.

Jerome school bus drivers reported a severe ground blizzard Tuesday morning, with similar conditions reported in Gooding County.

Gooding Superintendent Eugene Gibson said conditions were bad when the buses reached the school, and it was decided at 10 a.m. to take the students home.

"Of course as soon as we did, it stopped blowing and snowing, and it's fine now," he said Tuesday afternoon. All three schools were expected to be open today, depending on wind conditions during the night.

Ski resorts on the south side of the Snake River reported snow throughout the day. Fomerelle received eight inches of light powder, while Magic Mountain had about five inches by mid-afternoon.

State highway officials in Shoshone reported afternoon drifting in several areas, including the Utah-Idaho state line on both I-84 and I-15, the Fairfield to Mountain Home road and around Gooding. Conditions were improving in most areas by late afternoon.

Farmers will discuss bean settlement offer

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — About 150 farmers who are suing the defunct Beans Inc. firm will meet Monday to discuss a $175 million settlement offer.

But as of Tuesday, lawyers for the farmers said they had not concluded whether to recommend that their clients accept the offer.

The defendants in the 28-month-old lawsuit submitted the offer last month, leading Harry DeHann, the Twin Falls County prosecutor, to suspend his investigation into filing criminal charges in the matter.

Last week, DeHann announced that he previously had agreed to drop his investigation if Beans Inc. officials submitted a settlement offer before criminal charges were filed.

The lawsuit stems from a July 30, 1979, fire that destroyed one of the Flier bean firm's warehouses. Named as defendants in the civil action are: Beans Inc.; its parent company, Commodily Marketing Corp.; and CMC's owner, Jim Woods of Salinas, Calif.

The farmers want payment for the beans that were stored in the warehouse prior to the fire. They also have accused Beans Inc. officials of selling beans that they did not own. In all, the farmers claim that an estimated $1.3 million to $1.6 million worth of beans were in the warehouse.

Unless a settlement is reached, the case will go to trial in Fifth District Court in June.

A large portion of the settlement offer comes from the Beans Inc. receivership, which is valued at approximately $725,000. The rest of the funds reportedly will come from Woods' Idaho properties and the companies which insured and bonded the warehouse.

The offer represents 60 percent to 70 percent of the farmers' claims, according to Mark Stubbs, a lawyer representing the National Farmers Organization.

Stubbs said on Tuesday that lawyers for the farmers are researching Woods' financial situation in California before deciding whether to make a recommendation to the farmers.

That offer probably will be submitted at Monday's session, Stubbs said.

"We want to get comment from our farmers first, and we will, at that time, explain to them all the ramifications of the settlement offer. We will basically leave the decision up to them."

The commissioners said they were satisfied the hospital has enough beds to accommodate the extra patients, and that the plan will benefit both the hospital and Walker Center.

The absence of hospital administrator Ed Myers may slow down negotiations, said Carl Bergstrom, the Walker Center director. Myers has been undergoing treatment in a Denver hospital for a heart condition and is expected to return to work this week.

The plan calls for 10 to 12 Walker patients to be housed at the hospital while a new Walker facility is built nearby.

Concerns raised about the plan included questions over how long the interim housing plan would be in effect. Bob Bednarke, a spokesman for St. Benedict's Hospital in Ogden Utah, which owns Walker Center, said Tuesday that the planning and construction of a new facility could take one to one-and-a-half years.

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

GOODING — Details of the recently approved interim plan involving Walker Center and Gooding County Memorial Hospital will begin to take shape at next hospital board meeting.

The board is scheduled to meet next Thursday, Feb. 18, at 7 p.m., according to Chairman Monty Baker.

On Monday, the Gooding County Commission gave the go-ahead to a proposal to temporarily house recovering alcoholics at the Gooding hospital. However, negotiations over the proposal were left to the hospital and the Walker Center for Alcoholism and Drug Abuse.

But two of the area's doctors maintained their opposition to the plan and warned of a backlash against the hospital.

"They (the Gooding County Commissioners) made their bed; they're going to have to lie in it. I just hope it won't destroy the hospital," said Dr. James Molchan.

Dr. Richard Short, another vocal opponent of the plan, said he was disappointed but not surprised by Monday's decision. He contends the commissioners already had "made up their minds" about the plan in November.

Molchan said he believes the plan will disrupt patient care.

He also brought up a statement made in December by former board Chairman Rod Spackman that the board would not "reach a position that is not supported by a majority of the medical staff."

However, Short, Molchan and Dr. A.W. Loeschler say they will not take any further action in opposing the plan.

'Doc' Taylor back in hospital
TWIN FALLS — James L. "Doc" Taylor, the president of the College of Southern Idaho, has entered the hospital for the second time since early January.
Taylor, who reportedly is suffering from a recurrence of a health problem that hospitalized him four years ago, was reported in stable condition Tuesday night at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Accident rips off railroad gate
TWIN FALLS — A tractor-trailer rig removed the west half of the Shoshone Street crossing gate Monday afternoon, causing about $3,500 damage.

According to Twin Falls police, Chester Snow, 45, of Salt Lake City, was driving the truck, owned by IML-Freightlines, Inc., north on Shoshone when an approaching train apparently activated the crossing gate.
Thieves take knives from shop
TWIN FALLS — Chet's Holders, 364 Second Ave. E., was burglarized early Tuesday morning, with about $25 in leather items and knives reported missing.
According to Twin Falls police, entry was made between midnight and 5 a.m. Tuesday through a window.
Owner Chet Hillman told police that the burglar took a bottle of pop from the refrigerator and spilled it over the desk, files and other items in the office.

Canal ruling sets key rules

By STEVELIPSON
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Several important ground rules were set Monday in the battle between the Twin Falls Canal Co. and the company that wants to share the canals.
In Fifth District Court, Judge Theron Ward denied a motion by the Twin Falls Irrigation Co. that would have made the company a co-owner of part of the Twin Falls Canal Co. system. But at the same time, he granted an injunction designed to help Canyon View proceed with planning an enlargement of the canal company's system to carry Canyon View's water.
Ward also ruled that Canyon View has satisfied the first three steps necessary to gain the use of part of the canal company system. All that remains to be done before Canyon View becomes a co-owner of that portion of the system is to determine what Canyon View must pay the canal company for this right and see that the payment is made, the judge ruled.
Ward said this ruling is among the most important court decisions made in this area for many years.

Since 1973, Canyon View has sought to enlarge the canal company's High Line Canal to carry water to its lands west of Salmon Falls Creek. And since 1973, the proposal has been bitterly opposed by many canal company shareholders.
In one instance, stakes placed by Canyon View for survey work on the canal were pulled up.
Ward's injunction, which Canyon View had not asked for, restrains the Twin Falls Canal Co. from "interfering with employees, agents or officers of Canyon View entering into and upon the works, rights of way or property of the Twin Falls Canal Co. for the purpose of viewing, surveying, planning or otherwise planning and designing the project herein involved."
But that ruling was a series of "academic exercises," Ward wrote in his decision Monday.
The ruling was based on a set of facts agreed upon in advance by the canal company and Canyon View. It was not a condemnation case, but a decision of what law would apply in such a case.
"Therefore, all answers necessary for this condemnation action must be given by this court," Ward wrote in his decision.

TWIN FALLS — Mayor Chris Taklington has asked the city manager to explore the possibility of the Twin Falls Fire Department providing fire services outside the city limits.
"Look into it, but not with a burning ambition," Taklington said at a council work session Monday.
The prospect came under discussion when City Manager Tom Courtney said several residents outside the city had inquired about paying the city for fire protection. The most recent request came from Roy Raymond, whose auto dealership off Blue Lakes Boulevard North is an unannexed island surrounded by property within the city. Courtney said.

Concerns expressed by some council members included the possibility that rural service could weaken the Fire Department's ability to handle fires in the city.
In most cases, the department can handle two fires simultaneously, Courtney said. Three fires could be a problem.
Courtney said there also should be consideration of the problems city structure is the most common reason that the city does not annex adjacent property, he said.
When additional property is taken into the city, the new tax revenue reduces slightly the tax burdens of existing residents, Courtney said. The city ends up having to provide municipal services to the newcomers, but does not get the money to pay for them.
rural dwellers presumably are aware of the risk they're assuming when they buy country property.
Courtney said if non-city service is to be authorized at all, it appears the most feasible plan would involve limiting coverage to areas that are annexable, but for one reason or another, have not been. Idaho's tax structure is the most common reason that the city does not annex adjacent property, he said.

Correction

A story in Tuesday's edition of The Times-News reported incorrectly that a $250,000 improvement project is planned for Twin Falls City Hall. The correct figure is $150,000. The error was made by a reporter.

The information under the front-page picture in Tuesday's Times-News contained an incorrect telephone number for ordering "singin'" valentines from the American Cancer Society in Twin Falls, the correct number is 734-9463. The ordering deadline is Thursday. The error was made by an editor.

The headline for the United Way story on the Magic Valley page of Tuesday's Times-News was misleading. In Twin Falls, the correct number is 734-9463. The ordering deadline is Thursday. The error was made by an editor.

TWIN FALLS — A health clinic for migrant and seasonal farm workers is scheduled to open its doors today.
Cookie Atkins, the director of the South Central Community Action Agency's migrant health program, said a nurse practitioner, a licensed practical nurse and other support staff will begin serving clients today. However, the clinic will not be considered fully staffed until March 4, when a second nurse practitioner is scheduled to begin work, she said.
The clinic is located at 676 Shoup Ave. W., in the southeast corner of the building. It will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and from noon to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

The CAA already has been swamped with inquiries about the service, Atkins said. To make an appointment at the clinic, call 734-0451.
Atkins said the CAA still is attempting to hire a nurse practitioner for a clinic at 1100 Overland Ave. in Burley. No opening date has been set for this clinic.
The opening of the Twin Falls clinic comes nearly a year after the U.S.

Public Health Service cut off funds for the primary-care clinics that were run by the Idaho Migrant Council.
The PHS said the IMC clinics were mismanaged, although the health service provided was needed. However, the PHS declined to fund two other agencies that had competed with the IMC for funds.
Last summer, the PHS provided the CAA with funds to run a short-term health-care reimbursement program. In the fall, it granted the CAA $300,000 to set up primary-care clinics in Twin Falls and Burley.

DOCTORS' MESSAGE...
In the last few months the GREAT DEMAND for CHIROPRACTIC CARE has revealed a need for longer office hours. We are happy to announce the office will be open MONDAY thru SATURDAY 9:00 A.M. - 12:00 NOON, 2-7 P.M. for any of you who have needed chiropractic care.
For the next 30 days there will be a reduction in our Initial Office Examination Fee from $80.00 to $50.00. This is our way of helping the people of Magic Valley receive Chiropractic Care. Call today for an appointment.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?
Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective in promoting health where other methods have failed.

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS
Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."
This special chart is directed especially to people who have tried to regain their health through medical means but have failed to regain their health through chiropractic, and have failed. THAT FAILURE SHOULD NOT LEAD TO DISCOURAGEMENT, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.
If your condition is not described in the chart, contact your participating doctor for a consultation, examination and X-rays, if necessary. He will determine by his analysis of your specific condition what you can expect from chiropractic care.

Bruins surpass Bees

Twin Falls wins without Meyerhoeffer

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Late in the first quarter Tuesday night, a child inadvertently pulled the plug feeding power to Brain Gymnasium's scoreboards, which went blank.

It was fitting, because at about that time Bonneville was pulling the plug on Twin Falls.

Like the scoreboards, the Bruins ultimately regained their power, scoring 43 second-half points and surging to a 61-47 victory over Bonneville.

The Bruins' victory was unimpressive, as Bonneville actually led the game's pace much of the way. But it was hardly unimportant, for Twin Falls showed it could function adequately without a key player — in this case, flu-weakened guard Steve Meyerhoeffer.

"This is good for us," Twin Falls Coach John Astorquia said. "We never know who we're going to miss later on. Good teams are the ones that can do the job when people are missing."

Twin Falls' offense was already disrupted enough without Meyerhoeffer, its floor leader, but Bonneville worsened the Bruins' plight by denying them their favored fast-breaking style. The Bees' resultant 20-18 half-time lead was thus hardly surprising. "I thought we controlled the tempo of the game pretty well," Bonneville Coach Mike Jorgensen said.

"Our full-court press slowed them down quite a bit, and that took them out of their offense a little bit."

However, Twin Falls got back into its offense more than a little bit, played determined defense and rebounded fiercely to gain its 12th triumph in 16 games. The Bruins are 6-4 in the Gem State Conference.

Twin Falls Coach John Astorquia readily admitted that Meyerhoeffer's absence hurt the Bruins.

"We missed him quite a bit. He's our floor leader," Astorquia said. "Andy (Toosion, who replaced Meyerhoeffer at point guard) does a good job coming off the bench, but we had trouble getting going early."

When Meyerhoeffer's out there, everybody is relaxed, and we play better at the start.

Tuesday night the Bruins played better at the finish. They trailed 24-22 midway in the third quarter, but reeled off a string of 10 consecutive points to take a 32-24 lead. Steve Galley, who collected a game-high 23 points, and Lance Sellers, who added 12 with a strong performance underneath the basket, contributed four points apiece to the rally.

Chad Webb's two free throws with 4:53 left

After making a free throw with 3:22 left, Galley missed the second but teammate Mark Mumm rebounded, enabling Twin Falls to keep possession.

Moments later Mumm drew a foul, made his first free throw, missed his second, and this time Galley rebounded and followed it in with 3:03 to go, giving Twin Falls a 46-38 lead.

A late Bonneville rush, climaxed by Kelly Kiesel's three-point play with 1:09 left, narrowed the difference to 50-47. But two free throws apiece from Sellers, Galley and Mumm helped stave off the Bees, who fell to 3-13.

Jerome uses depth for mat title

By LARRY HOWEY
Times-News writer

JEROME — Depth proved the difference Tuesday as the Jerome Tigers wrapped up the Fourth District A-2 Wrestling championship.

Coach Tim Matthews' Tigers and Buhl had five individual champions apiece but Jerome piled up a 26-point win with its depth. Jerome wound up with 215 points while Buhl had 189 and Wood River, crowning two champions, had 87.

Only the champion of each weight advances to the state tournament in Meridian next week.

Jerome had the two finalists in three weights, each worth 31 team points, but never had it easier than at 98 pounds where champion Dan Karr and runner-up Robert Egbert drew bytes into the finals.

Matthews said the journey went about the way he expected — on an individual basis — although, "I didn't think Mack (Patterson) would get beat." But offsetting that was Tracy Irish who upset defending champion Scott Young of Wood River with a takedown in the final five seconds, 4-2.

"I thought he might win but he just came off knee surgery and didn't have a full season," Matthews said.

Looking at state, Matthews said "we're taking five and I think Dan Karr and Troy Wall will wrestle well and place pretty high. (Jerry) Jones could do well. The other guys are in tough weights that have good people."

Buhl Coach Jeff Howell echoed Matthews' idea that results were much according to plan, noting there were chances for upsets at several weights but few underdogs came through.

He saw his defending champion (119 pounds) Ed Wayneska lose to 112-pound defending champ Troy Wall of Buhl in the hardest fought match of the night. But this time they were fighting at 126. Wayneska was dinged with a locked-hands penalty point and that proved difference in the 5-4 match.

Wall had beaten Wayneska three times previously this season but Tuesday's match was the tightest. It also prompted Howell to note "that's a case where it's just too bad that we get only one representative this year. I hope we can get two next year when Burley comes in."

John McDevitt picked up his second title at 155 pounds and Howell said he should show well at state. He also was pleased with "our second man, Barry Farnes, at 185."

Robb Miller and Don Davies took Wood River's two titles without much trouble. Coach Bob Shay was hopeful Young could repeat his state-entry performance but that was dashed by Irish.

"He (Young) wasn't eligible the first semester and had only four or five matches. But neither wrestler wanted to do much," he noted of the match in which most of the time was spent in the standing position and both wrestlers were assessed stalling points.

Results of the championship round (winners go to state):

- 98 — Dan Karr (J) pinned Robert Egbert (J), 1st.
- 105 — Scott Cobble (J) pinned Scott Andrew (J), 1st.
- 112 — Curt Stutzman (B) dec. Kevin Seed (J), 4-2.
- 119 — Marty Jans (J) dec. Harold Hall (J), 6-1.
- 126 — Troy Wall (J) dec. Ed Wayneska (B), 5-4.
- 132 — Kevin Chapman (B) dec. Keith Meadows (J), 12-4.
- 137 — Tracy Irish (J) dec. Scott Young (WR), 4-2.
- 145 — Robb Miller (WR) dec. Mack Patterson (J), 8-3.
- 155 — John McDevitt (B) dec. Ben Cochran (J), 16-0.
- 167 — Don Davies (WR) pinned Don Sawyer (Tolan), 2nd.
- 185 — Craig Hulse (B) pinned Barry Farnes (B), 1st.
- HWT — Craig Schaal (B) pinned Wakey McKin (J), 2nd.

Tourney previews appear Thursday

Burley's Carpenter may play at state

BURLEY — Burley High center Krishna Carpenter will see some action in the A-1 Girls State Basketball Tournament this week.

Carpenter suffered a knee injury during the Fourth District tourney and was checked by an orthopedic specialist in Pocatello Tuesday afternoon.

"The doctor said she can play whatever she can stand," Burley Coach Max Mills said. "We're going to let her workout (during) fourth period Wednesday and see how she does."

Mills said Carpenter's injury has been diagnosed as a cracked kneecap and torn ligaments with some cartilage damage.

"She's got a rubberized brace to wear on the knee," Mills said. "She's extremely happy about being able to play at least some. Whatever she can do is still a total unknown."

Burley will make its first state tourney appearance, against Mountain Home, at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at Boise State University in the second game of the state tourney.

A complete preview of all four girls state tournaments will appear in Thursday's Times-News.

Goals are Hesiman, '84 Olympics

As of now, Walker planning to stay at Georgia

By WILL McDONOUGH
Boston Globe

Sure, Herschel Walker could play for the New England Patriots and become part of a dramatic double pick by the Pats — who own the No. 1 pick — if they grabbed Walker, the best young offensive player in the game, and Kenneth Stims of Texas, the best young defensive player in the game.

But it just isn't going to happen. "Right now," says Bob Newsome, "Herschel Walker is not going to leave (University of) Georgia to play in New England or anywhere else. Like anything in life, that could change tomorrow, or the next day, or next week. But right now his goals are to win the Heisman Trophy and run in the 1984 Olympics."

Newsome is a businessman from Wrightsville, Ga. Those who know Walker well say that Newsome is not only his friend, his employer of the last six years, but also the adviser for Walker and his family.

"I've known Herschel ever since he was a youngster, and he is an exceptional person," says Newsome. "He is a very happy young man. He is happy with school. He is happy with running track and the way his life is going."

"Herschel can speak for Herschel. He has given some thought to turning pro, but nothing serious... And at this time he does not have any plans to take the National Football League to court to force them to let him play pro football."

HERSCHEL WALKER
... Patriots want him

Newsome was asked what he would take to entice Walker leave Georgia for pro football before he finishes his two remaining years of eligibility. "It's going to take a lot of money. More than $1 million a year."

Told that the highest-paid player in the NFL was Archie Manning of New Orleans, who got $600,000 last year, and that the top draft choice of a year ago, Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, received $375,000, Newsome said:

"Herschel wouldn't play for that kind of money, even if he had already graduated. He has an idea of what he is worth. He knows that wherever he plays, he is going to fill the stadium. He's done it here in Georgia and in places the team goes to play where they don't usually sell out. He's the once-in-a-lifetime player."

So Walker is not thinking of turning pro. The league office has been told this by contacts close to the coaching staff at Georgia. Sure it could change, but only if someone contacted Walker or Newsome covertly, made a deal to pay his court costs, promised him the more than $1 million a year he wants, and Walker got the courts to force the NFL to let him in.

If any team needs Walker financially, outside of the Baltimore Colts, it is the Patriots, whose season-ticket sales will fall through the floor after last season's 2-14 finish. The signing of Walker, who is worth the price of admission, would fill the house again. But the reality is that the Patriots are not the Oakland Raiders (Al Davis), nor the Los Angeles Rams (Don Kingstern), nor the kind of manipulative operators to quietly induce Walker and friends to challenge the NFL's underage draft rules in court.

"If Walker won his case in court," said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle last week, "he would come into our league through the drafting process. If he did pursue a case, and it did not finish until after our regular college draft is over, he would go into a supplemental draft. In both cases, New England would have the first draft choice."

"I see it as being the same situation as at New Orleans a year ago. The Saints drafted (George) Rogers in the regular draft, then drafted (Dave) Wilson of Illinois in a supplemental draft."

This makes the dynamic double possibility of Sims and Walker, but it's one double you don't want to put your $2 on.

Oakland's Davis is buoyant again after what he calls "two big victories" in court last week. First, Federal Judge Harry Pregerson ruled in Los Angeles that the Coliseum Raiders sued against the NFL will stay in Los Angeles. The NFL had requested a change of venue.

Second, said Davis, the New York Appeals Court ruled in favor of the North American Soccer League, which was contesting the NFL's rule that bars its owners from possessing franchises in other leagues. Owners who would have been affected are Lamar Hunt of Kansas City and Joe Robbie of Miami.

"As I understand it," said Davis, "the appeals court ruled against the league, which my lawyer, Joe Alton, says gives me the grounds for a suit. That rule and the league prevented me from buying the baseball team (Oakland A's) a few years ago."

"But the important part to our case was the ruling that the league is not a single entity but a group of competitors, which is what we have been saying right along in our lawsuit in Los Angeles." Davis said he had not made up his mind whether he would sue the NFL for allegedly costing him his chance to purchase the A's.

Patriot insiders say that one Russ Francis, ABC-TV commentator who worked the Pro Bowl in football, will discuss returning to pro football with general manager Bucko Kilroy in the next two weeks. Francis, who retired just before the start of last season, reportedly has told people with the team he feels like playing again after being away for more than a year.

Wood River win streak up to 12

DECLO — The Wood River Wolverines took advantage of a cold second quarter by Declo to move past the Hornets 48-46 Tuesday night for their 12th consecutive victory.

The Hornets gave the favored Wolverines a hustle, trailing just 17-16 at the end of the first period. But over the next eight minutes, Declo managed just seven points to fall behind for the night.

Neither team scored much in the third quarter as Wood River tried to pull Declo out of its zone defense with no success. Early in the final period, behind the shooting of Todd Asher, Declo cut the deficit to seven before the Wolverines pulled out of reach.

Wood River's top scorer, Jeff Birchler, left the game with an ankle sprain in the final period. The extent of the injury was not known.

Devils win on Nebeker's shot

HAGERMAN — Roy Nebeker hit a baseline jumper with about 40 seconds left to carry the Murtaugh Red Devils to a 45-43 come-from-behind win over the Hagerman Pirates Tuesday night.

Nebeker hit five of six free throws as Murtaugh erased a third-quarter deficit and the teams squared through much of the final period. Mike McFadden tied it at 43 with 56 seconds left and Nebeker replied almost immediately. Hagerman missed a free throw next time down court with Murtaugh returning the favor. That gave Hagerman a final shot in the last 10 seconds but it wouldn't fall.

RICHFIELD — Ken Anderson scored 26 points and Gooding State felled Richfield's slowdown plans in a 42-36 Northside Conference win Tuesday night.

Richfield held with the taller Redskins 12-8 and a 15-9 advantage in six straight games, through the first half and into the third quarter when Gooding State opened up a six-point lead.

"If we could've gotten the lead we were going to sit on the ball," Richfield skipper Jim Thomas said. "We put up a small ball (Norman Norman) on Anderson in an effort to make him shoot from outside. He got a lot of points, but we slowed the rest of their team pretty well."

Scott Exon paced Richfield, won 8-5.

Idaho State women dump CSI

POCATELLO — The bubble burst on the College of Southern Idaho women Tuesday night when Idaho State vaulted a 32-57 defeat on them.

The defeat ended CSI's win streak at seven games and moved the record to 8-9 for the season. And it might've got any easier tonight as Coach Lloyd Hardesty takes the Golden Eagles to Boise to play the BSU women.

"Boise State beat Idaho State by 44," CSI worried about a lot of things that might happen to them in the Minidome but it was shooting — the one thing its been doing well of late — that marked the big difference.

Buhl 53, Buhl 38

BUHL — Brad Turner and Tim Knight helped Burye mount a 43-29 lead midway through the third quarter and the Bobcats downed Buhl Indians 53-38 Tuesday night.

Turner hit two field goals, the first a twisting layup and the second a long jumper, to establish a 43-29 advantage. At that point, he had 18 and Knight had added 11 more.

But immediately after that, Ken Lively hit two Buhl field goals and the Indians picked up some turnovers and steals to steady keep the game from getting out of hand.

"It was Burye's third victory of the year — two of them at Buhl's expense — while Buhl absorbed its 18th loss in 17 outings, the last 14 in a row."

Buhl couldn't contain Turner and Knight in the first quarter as they split 12 points. Turner added his other 12 in the second half.

"Holding Burye to 50 points is good for us but I wish we could've done a little better," said Coach Ben Allen of the light-scoring Indians. "I was pleased with the offense in the first half but we just didn't do a good job in the second."

Foster deal: $8 million over 5

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets have scheduled a news conference for this afternoon apparently to announce the signing of slugging outfielder George Foster to deal reportedly worth $8 million for five years.

Frank Cashen, general manager of the New York Mets, met with Tom Reich, Foster's agent, Tuesday to work out the final details.

BYU to put in 66,000 seats

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — The Brigham Young University Board of Trustees Tuesday approved an expansion plan that will more than double the size of Cougar Stadium to 66,000 seats.

BYU President Jeffrey R. Holland said the university was going ahead with the expansion even though it has not raised the $12.4 million required to complete the improvements in time for next year's football season.

Holland said BYU has received about $9.6 million in donations and pledges toward the project.

Padres apparently nix Smith deal

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The San Diego Padres apparently have nixed the on-again, off-again deal that would have sent St. Louis Cardinals shortstop Garry Templeton to San Diego for Ozzie Smith just as it neared completion.

Smith's agent, Ed Gottlieb, said Tuesday he and Lou Susman, the attorney for Cardinals' President Gussie Busch, had reached an agreement Monday that would have finalized the trade.

"Lou Susman and I had a deal," Gottlieb said. "But the Padres failed to perform. They failed to perform on some documentation."

Wendell 50, Valley 45

HAZELTON — Height and experience played key roles in the Wendell Trojans' 50-45 decision over the Valley Vikings Tuesday night.

Tied at halftime, the Vikings came out in the third quarter to lead by as much as seven, but fouls hampered the Vikings in the final period as Wendell rallied to take the victory.

Despite the loss, Valley's Art Henry tossed in 19 points to lead all scorers. In the game while Steve Luttmer shot for 18 points to lead the Trojans in that department.

Wendell, 34, travels to Glenna Ferry Friday while Valley, 4-11, hosts Kimberly the same day.

Wendell also took the junior varsity contest defeating the Vikings 35-25.

BLISS — Camas County used a balanced scoring attack and a big second quarter to defeat Bliss 46-35 Tuesday night.

Shoshone 46, G. Ferry 39

SHOSHONE — Brothers Kim and Doran Duffin alternated dominating the game to lead Shoshone past Glenna Ferry 46-39 Tuesday night.

Junior Kinscired 12 of his 16 points in the first half, and freshman Doran scored 12 of his 16 in the second half.

Glenna Ferry center Albert Gerhard's field goal in the fourth quarter put the Pilots down by only one, 40-39, with three minutes remaining. However, Doran hit four from the free throw line while Kim added a field goal to give the Indians their fourth victory against 12 losses.

"Kim and Doran both played a key game, and Rusty Warbis did a really good job on the boards," Shoshone Coach Larry Messick said.

Shoshone Coach Larry Messick said Shoshone's Jerry defeated Shoshone in the junior varsity contest.

OBERSTAUFEN, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany's Maria Eppler won her second-ever World Ski Cup giant slalom Tuesday, somewhat atoning for her country's failure to win any medals at the World Championships in Austria.

"That was my answer to Schladming," said the 22-year-old Eppler, who won the giant slalom world title in 1978. She clocked a total time of 2 minutes 27.29 seconds, with American Christin Cooper — the Schladming silver medalist last week — again second, in 2:27.97, and Switzerland's newly crowned world champion Erika Hess third in 2:28.35.

Hess, who clocked the fastest time along with Eppler in the 47-gate second run, increased her lead in the women's World Cup standings. She has 268 points to the 254 of runnerup Irene Eppler.

Maria's elder sister who was fourth Tuesday in 2:29.26.

"I'm a little tired after the stress of Schladming," said the 19-year-old Hess, who won three-gold medals at the World Championships. She said the piste, well prepared before the first run, was spoiled by people treading down the snow before she skied.

"That cost me a few tenths of a second on the first run," the Swiss said. She was third, behind Maria Eppler and Cooper, on the 49-gate first run.

Some 10,000 spectators turned out in cloudy but dry weather to cheer Maria Eppler, a native of nearby Seeg, to her second World Cup victory. She won the giant slalom at Zwielsee last season.

"There were a few other circumstances that made us so badly in Schladming," she said, "but we'll keep those to ourselves and won't talk about them."

Budget drives stocks lower

By MARIANNA OHE
United Press International

NEW YORK — Stock prices skidded to a four-month low despite rally attempts Tuesday. They plunged as trader concern over the budget deficit and high interest rates prevented a sustained market recovery. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones industrial average, off more than 4 points in the early afternoon, was down 2.86 points to 830.57, its lowest point since Sept. 25, 1981, when it hit 824.01.

The closely-watched blue chip indicator was behind two points at the outset and climbed to the plus side around noon before turning lower again. It lost 17.60 points Monday and plunged 20.07 points on Tuesday last week.

The New York Stock Exchange index fell 0.58 to 63.74 and the price of an average share decreased 24 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.95 to 113.69. Declines routed advances 1,974 shares among the 1,864 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 54,420,000 shares, compared with 48,500,000 traded Monday.

Analysts said downward pressure on prices would continue throughout the week — with occasional rally attempts — as the market seeks to establish another floor or support level.

After the Dow plunged Monday below the 840 mark — a presumed floor — analysts predicted the market would test the 1981 low of 824.01 by Sept. 25.

The size of the budget's projected $91.5 billion deficit reinforced the market's uneasiness over high interest rates which could choke off economic recovery — and trader expectations the Federal Reserve will maintain its tight rein on credit to curb money supply growth.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 62,384,740 shares compared with 56,347,780 traded Monday.

The American Stock Exchange index fell 3.44 to 273.81 and the price of a share dropped 16 cents. Declines outpaced advances 416-152 among the 789 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 5,422,400 shares compared with 4,837,700 Monday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of over-the-counter stocks fell 2.12 to 182.51.

On the trading floor, Texaco was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1/4 to 30 1/2.

Sony Corp. was the second most active, down 3/4 to 15 1/2. Bache Halsey Stuart Shields Inc. announced it will offer a new service enabling customers to invest in Japanese securities through its U.S. offices.

Boisean to address Jerome meeting

JEROME — Garry D. Barnes, Boise banker, will address the Snake River Group of the National Association of Bank Women Thursday evening.

The group will meet at 6:45 p.m. at the China Village. Reservations may be made by calling Karen Andrews at First Interstate Bank in Jerome.

Barnes is vice president for specialized banking services with First Interstate Bank in Boise. He will use slides to illustrate a talk on business development.

Laker tour division goes on block

LONDON (UPI) — Accountants who look over Laker Airways said Tuesday they hoped to sell Sir Freddie Laker's lucrative tour division quickly and appealing to the public to stop sending cash aimed at keeping the airline flying.

William J. Akey, appointed receiver when the airline collapsed Friday, said some 2,000 of Laker's 2,600 employees were likely to lose their jobs.

Bidders for Laker's profitable holiday package businesses — Arrowsmith and Laker Travel — were invited to Macey's office to look over the ledgers and get details of the operation which still has a reported 120,000-130,000 reservations on its books.

Boeing sales up but earnings lower

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Boeing Co. reported its total sales were higher in 1981 than in 1980 but net earnings were lower because of research and development expenses on new aircraft, and reduced deliveries of the 727 and 747.

Boeing Chairman T.A. Wilson said 1981 sales were nearly $9.9 billion and net earnings of $473 million compared to $4.90 per share. In 1980, net sales were $362 million less than last year's but net earnings amounted to $600 million, or $6.23 a share.

New orders announced in 1981 for 224 jet transports were valued at approximately $6.1 billion, down from the 361 ordered in 1980 with a value of $10.3 billion.

Portland picks coal terminal builder

PORTLAND (UPI) — Reidel International of Portland has been selected to build a $60 million coal export terminal, the first in the Northwest, on 100 acres owned by the Port of Portland along the Willamette River.

The plant, capable of initially exporting 12 million tons of coal annually to markets in the Far East, will be located at the port's Rivergate Industrial District in north Portland.

Long-time Oregon Ford dealer closes

PORTLAND (UPI) — Oregon's fourth oldest Ford dealership, 68-year-old Francis Ford, is the latest to close its doors.

"We're just wrapping up our leftover business from Friday and we've closed," a spokesman for the southeast Portland dealership said. The poor economy and an inability to move cars were given as reasons for the closure.

Francis Ford opened for business in 1925 and most recently was owned and operated by James A. Woods and John Manougan.

GMAC reports record profits for 1981

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Acceptance Corp., the financing and insurance arm of General Motors Corp., reported Tuesday a record profit of $35.2 million in 1981, up from $23.1 million in 1980.

GMAC President Robert F. Murphy said income from the financing operation alone was $30.1 million, compared with $19.6 million the year before.

Income from insurance operations in 1981 was $63.4 million, compared with $39.4 million in 1980, Murphy said.

Western Union net best in long time

UPPER-SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (UPI) — Western Union Corp. reported Tuesday that 1981 net income was $69.6 million, the highest in the company's recent history.

Company officials said the amount included $10.6 million that resulted from a transaction, late in the year, in which newly issued common stock was exchanged for outstanding notes.

Income before the item was $59 million, compared to $37.8 million in 1980.

Officials said revenues for the fourth quarter of 1981 were $233 million and $307 million for the full year.

Contract talks slow at Ford

By MICHELINE MAYNARD
United Press International

DETROIT — Early contract negotiations slowed at Ford Motor Co. Tuesday.

There were reports the United Auto Workers union plans to ask for a clause allowing the reopening of any new contracts should market conditions improve.

Union and company bargainers spent most of the day in internal meetings with no main table session scheduled. It was unclear if even lower-level subcommittees meetings would be held on specific bargaining issues.

The industry trade publication Automotive News quoted a "high-ranking" union official as saying the UAW will ask for a reopening clause similar — but not identical — to the one it sought during failed talks at General Motors Corp.

The proposal, intended to make contract concessions more palatable to the rank-and-file, calls for the labor pact to be renegotiated if car sales improve to a specified level.

No such level has yet been determined at Ford, according to the trade paper. AIGM sales would have had to improve to boom levels of 1977-78.

However, Ford lost $1 billion last year, and any sales improvement would not necessarily mean the company was sufficiently back on its feet to restore any concessions granted by the union.

In a related note, Detroit radio station WJR reported the union has tentatively scheduled a meeting of its Ford Council for Feb. 17 in Chicago — possibly an indication UAW leaders feel a pact will be agreed by then.

Ford's chief negotiator, Peter Pestillo, said Monday he wants a contract settlement within the next 10 days or the company will call off negotiations until the usual July starting date.

Any concessions agreed to by bargainers would have to be approved by the union's Ford Council before the pact is submitted to the rank-and-file for ratification.

The Ford Council meeting, however, could prove to be a post-mortem as was a similar GM Council meeting following the breakdown of talks there.

Paul Moller of USA Petroleum Corp. uses debit card to buy gas during demonstration.

Drains checking accounts, too Computer fills gas tanks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Car-crazy Southern Californians became the first drivers in the nation Tuesday to gas up without cash, credit cards or attendants.

"They filled their tanks while computers drained their checking accounts."

In what is billed as the "ultimate self-service gas station," USA Petroleum Corp. unveiled the futuristic gas pumps at eight stations in the San Gabriel Valley and began taking applications.

The 24-hour-a-day system will undergo a three-month test period in freeway-dominated Southern California, where self-service gas stations dominate the market.

It may then be offered at some of the company's 500 stations nationwide.

Poul Moller, chairman of the Santa Monica-based company, said the new pumps work on the same principle as the computerized tellers that have made "entering a bank almost obsolete."

To operate the system, a customer inserts a red white and blue "debit" card into a computer terminal near the pump, punches in a personalized four-digit code and fills the tank with the amount of gas he desires.

"From the pump the station is connected to a computer system in Glendale," Moller said. "All the information is recorded there and if the card is good you can pump the gas; if it isn't, you can't."

Moller said the amount of the purchase goes to a clearinghouse "just like a regular check," the customer's account is debited and the purchase is reflected on the next monthly statement.

Moller predicted that "sooner or later, all gas stations are going to be on this system."

"The ultimate goal is to eliminate the gas station attendant."

Holdups will also become a thing of the past when the system is fully utilized.

But if a motorist wants to get his oil checked, he will have to go elsewhere.

Panel cuts New York gold futures margin requirements

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Commodity Exchange Inc. said Tuesday its margin committee voted to lower the margin requirements of gold futures effective with trading today.

The exchange said the original speculative margin requirement for a 100 troy ounce contract of gold futures will be lowered to $1,250 from $1,500 while the hedge margins will be

Margins are funds posted during the trading life of a futures contract to guarantee fulfillment of contract obligations.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In this hand from Kelsey's "Advanced Club at Bridge" West opens the king of hearts against South's four spade contract. East plays the deuce and West shifts to the queen of diamonds. (WESTPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

This rubber bridge hand is one of the general type in which declarer should find out about what is going to happen in the side suits before going after trumps. He has one sure loser in each red-suit, one possible club loser and zero trumps to lose with one loser the most likely.

He has a perfect safety play to guard against two trump losers. He should use this safety play if the club finesse works. If the club finesse fails he must hope to avoid any trump losers. The best play for that is to drop down the ace and try to lay a singleton king. Thereafter, at trick two it is up to South to win the diamond with dummy's king and take the club finesse. If it works and now he is down to two red suit losers and can afford one trump loser.

Hence, he cashes his ace of clubs, ruffs a club in dummy and leads the lowest trump. If East shows out he plays his ace and leads toward dummy's king. When East follows he plays his eight or 10 of trumps. He doesn't mind losing to a singleton jack or king. He will have given up an overtrick, but he will have guarded against the actual 3-trump break.
