Flying high

Flying high Friday afternoon, 14-year-old Roger Koh of Twin Falls took advantage of the dry weather to do a little dirt bike riding. A vacant field at the corner of Falls Avenue and Washington Street North provided just the right terrain.

No jobs for 10 million Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of unemployed Americans rose to a post-Depression record of 9.8 million in February, the government reported Friday.

But the White House saw "relatively encouraging signs" the recession may nearing an end. Seasonally adjusted data from the Labor Department showed the unemployment rate returned to a recession peak of 8.8 percent, erasing the previous month's drop of 0.3 percent that most economists considered an aberration.

Two-thirds of the 280,000 additional people out of work in February were women, the department said. The numbers of unemployed Hispanics and teenagers also showed sizable increases.

The total of 9,575,000 unemployed in February, eclipsed by 4,000 the previous post-Depression record set in December.

The figures were seasonally adjusted to take into account normal changes during the year caused by such factors as school closings and weather.

In actual non-adjusted figures, the survey of 60,000 households estimated that 10.4 million Americans were without a job during February.

The administration reacted optimistically. "We see relatively encouraging signs," said White House Communications Director David Gergen. He noted that total employment, which remained at 99.6 million, "is stabilizing after large declines in previous months."

The 8.8 percent unemployment rate in February, matched December's revised figure. It was 8.5 percent in January.

Adult women suffered the largest numerical increase with an additional 177,000 added to the workforce. The jobless rate for women was 7.6 percent, the highest since 1976 and matching the level for adult men.

Jerry Jasinoski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, said that while the recession probably will bottom out during the next two months, "we can expect to see unemployment well over 9 percent in the second quarter."

Local rate drops

TWIN FALLS — Local unemployment fell during February but only from the exaggerated level of the previous month.

It increased compared with the same period a year earlier. The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties was 6 percent during February, compared with 5 percent during February of 1981. The estimated figures were released Friday by the state Department of Employment.

Idaho's unemployment rate jumped 5 percent in February to 7.8 percent up from 3.7 percent recorded in February 1981 — and the fifth consecutive month with the highest jobless rate recorded since 1969.

The Magic Valley rate was 6.6 percent during January of this year. However, that rate was swelled by a seasonal layoff at Idaho Frozen foods. The Twin Falls potato processor is the city's largest employer. Bad weather also had a depressing effect on many businesses during January.

The return of workers to Idaho Frosen and better weather probably account for the 0.5 percent drop in the unemployment rate from January to February, said Lon McDonald, the Twin Falls labor market analyst for the Employment Department. Other weaknesses remained in the economy, such as high interest rates and low farm prices, and these account for the 1 percent increase in the jobless rate since the previous February, he said.

"But the farm-based local economy is often in the doldrums during the winter."

"Historically, February is the most difficult month of the year to find employment here," McDonald said.

Indigent aid

Senate favors fund to help counties with health-care bills

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate, ignoring allegations that it was spawning a massive and uncontrollable welfare program, voted Friday to set up a fund to help counties pay the health-care bills of medical indigents.

The bill calls for Idaho's 44 counties to contribute to a special account that would be tapped to cover hospital and clinic costs incurred by county residents unable to handle their own medical expenses. An interim committee of the Legislature studied the catastrophic health-care problem last year, after the counties reported escalating financial problems due to their legal obligation to cover indigents' medical costs.

The Senate passed the bill, 23-10, and sent it to the House, along with a companion bill, approved 27-6, that would require the establishment of a three-member catastrophic health-care advisory panel in each county.

Sen. Vernon Brasse, R-Boise, praising the first bill, said it was "reasonable for county commissions to organize and spread the risk" of indigent health-care costs.

A statewide program administrator to be chosen by the Idaho Association of Counties would supervise payments from the fund, and he would have the power to enter into agreements with insurance companies to process the payments.

The administrator also would be empowered to go to court against any county that refused to pay assessments to the fund.

Sen. Israel Merrill, D-Blackfoot, denounced both bills. He said the legislation would spark an insurance-welfare program that could mushroom into a multimillion-dollar headache for the counties and the state.

"We would have a state Medicaid program," he said. "You could call it Countyaid or Indicaid or something."

Merrill also said it would be wrong to force county commissions to pay fees to a private organization, such as the counties' association.

"I don't believe it's up to us to set here and play God," said Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grand View, who also objected to the compulsory nature of the proposed program.

"We would have an insurance program that would increase and increase and increase until it just falls apart by its own sheer weight," Yarbrough said.

However, Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, noted that no county officials testified against the long-sought legislation during Senate committee hearings this winter.

He said if the Legislature did nothing about the problem, county governments will be forced into further financial disarray, and the state will be forced to bail them out.

The chairman of the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee, John Barker, R-Buhl, said flaws had been removed from the bill after months of research and review by legislators, county officials and representatives of the health-care industry.

Local reaction to the Senate vote was positive. One Twin Falls county commissioner, Marvin Hempleman, said the vote was a step in the right direction, and the bill, if passed, would "be quite a lot of help to us. It won't be the answer, but it would give us quite a lot of help in handling these loads that we're being asked to handle."

Hempleman also disagreed with a claim made by opponents of the bill, who said the measure may create another welfare program.

"It's not going to be any easier for those people to get payment than they did in the past," he said. "It's just an effort to buffer the cost and read it around."

Belushi's death believed to be of natural causes

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Comic actor John Belushi, who skyrocketed to fame and fortune on the "Saturday Night Live" television series, was found dead Friday in a $200-a-day rented hotel bungalow in the Hollywood Hills. He was 33.

Police spokesman Dan Cooke said Belushi's unclothed body was found shortly after noon on the bedroom floor of the small house behind the Chateau Marmont, "a landmark hotel at the head of the Sunset Strip."

His body was discovered by William Wallace, a physical therapist the actor had hired. Paramedics said Belushi apparently had been dead for two or three hours.

Cooke said there were no signs of drug usage or violence and said there was "no reason to believe his death was other than by natural causes." Cooke said a woman who was with Belushi when he woke up Friday morning was questioned for more than four hours at the Hollywood Division police station and then released.

"We had to question her because initially, we didn't know her involvement so she was taken into custody," Cooke said. "But we've determined she had no criminal involvement, so we're releasing her."

Cooke said the woman, whose name was withheld, was an acquaintance of Belushi but he would not say more about their relationship.

"She woke him up this morning," Cooke said. "He was breathing heavily. He had some nasal congestion. She asked him if he was all right and he said, 'Yes.'"

She gave him a glass of water and she left about an hour later thinking he was okay."

Cooke said the woman signed a room service receipt for breakfast at 8 a.m. PST and then left in Belushi's rented Mercedes. When she returned about 2:15 p.m., she was met by police and handcuffed before being taken to the police station in keeping with standard police procedure, Cooke said.

Bruce Beekler, a hotel gardener who saw the body before paramedics arrived, said: "When we got to him I could tell he had been left alone a little too long. He was just such a heavy man and his heart evidently failed on him. There was no evidence of anything else."

Becker tried to revive the actor with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and said Belushi apparently had swallowed his tongue.

The pudgy comic starred with his "Saturday Night Live" buddy Dan Aykroyd in the movies "The Blues Brothers," "1941," and the currently running "Neighbors." He also starred in the movies "Animal House," "Goin' South" with Jack Nicholson and "Old Boyfriends."

"John and I have been close friends since 1971," said Chevy Chase, another former "Saturday Night Live" star. "He was one of the most intrinsically funny men I have ever known. My heartfelt sympathy goes out to his wife and to all his other close friends. I can't really say I have known him. We will all miss him."

Earthquakes at volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Earthquake activity has been picking up beneath the Mount St. Helens volcano in the past three weeks, and it's happening in a pattern that hasn't been seen before, scientists reported Friday.

Until the recent flurry of seismic activity, the volcano had been extremely quiet since a 1981-82 eruption. The first deep earthquake since November was recorded Feb. 8 and since then the number of deep earthquakes has increased to about five per day, said the U.S. Geological Survey and University of Washington geophysicists lab.

Fire kills eight in tenement

LOWELL, Mass. (UPI) — A fire raged through a three-story tenement early Friday, killing eight persons, including five children. Officials said smoke detectors may have prevented the tragedy.

Several people were treated for minor injuries. Officials said they had found no evidence of arson. The fire broke out at 1:03 a.m. in the first-floor front apartment kitchen and spread rapidly through the house. At one point flames shot from nearly every window in the dwelling.

Singer leads judge recall

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Singer Connie Francis said Friday she will join the effort to recall a Wisconsin judge who called a 5-year-old rape victim sexually promiscuous.

The leaders of a movement to recall Grant County Circuit Judge William L. Reinecke sent Miss Francis a letter asking her to come to the state to help recall the judge.

Smart women risky for men

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (UPI) — Two reports presented Friday to an American Heart Association conference indicated highly educated working women pose greater risks of heart disease to their husbands, but not to themselves.

One study by Dr. Suzanne G. Haynes of Chapel Hill, N.C., showed men married to college-educated, white-collar, working women were up to four times more likely to develop coronary heart disease than men whose wives stayed at home or worked in clerical or blue-collar jobs.

"A husband's risk of having cardiovascular heart disease is two times greater when his wife has some college education," Haynes told delegates to the 22nd Annual Conference on Cardiovascular Disease Epidemiology.

Youths take principal hostage

BEAUFORT, N.C. (UPI) — Two youths with a briefcase in their hands arrived at their junior high school Friday with bombs, knives and combat boots and took their principal and a teacher hostage at gunpoint, authorities said.

A brief standoff in the principal's office ended without injury when David Lee, a 15-year-old, 200-pound substitute teacher, crept up behind one of the youths and snatched away from him the loaded 12-gauge shotgun, police said.

Reno sidewalk driver 'happy'

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Priscilla Ford "testified Friday at her murder trial that she was in a 'happy, heavenly state' at the time she drove her car down a crowded sidewalk on Thanksgiving 1980 and killed six pedestrians.

She told District Attorney Cal Dunlap that she was happy as she sat in a heavenly state. When Dunlap showed her autopsy pictures of the six slain people and asked if she was 'happy and in a heavenly state' on the day they were killed, she replied, 'Yes!'

Man insane after finding loot

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A jury Friday acquitted an unemployed longshoreman of stealing $1.2 million that fell off an armored truck. He had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity — claiming he was driven insane by getting so much money at once.

Chairs broke out in the courtroom when a Philadelphia Common Pleas jury acquitted Joey Coyle of the theft of $1.2 million that fell from the back of a truck on Nov. 27, 1979.

Coyle was arrested six days later at Kennedy Airport in New York with $165,000 stuffed in his boots and a jacket to Acapulco, Mexico in his hand.

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — A would-be robber with a new shotgun — its price tag still hanging from the trigger guard — took 60 people hostage in a bank Friday but quickly handed his weapon over to one of the captives seven hours later, authorities said.

The suspect, identified by the FBI as Eric E. Roberts, 29, of nearby Knights Landing, gave his shotgun to a bank employee and walked out of the Bank of America branch about 6:15 p.m.

Japanese challenge book's claim

TOKYO (UPI) — Two former Japanese naval officers Friday challenged a new book's claim that U.S. naval intelligence had mapped out the Japanese fleet shortly before its surprise attack on Pearl Harbor.

"We kept an absolute radio silence," said Mitsuo Genda, a member of the staff which mapped out the detailed plan of attack on U.S. Pacific Forces headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

For about two weeks before the attack on Dec. 7, 1941, a day President Franklin Roosevelt said "will live in infamy" — the 31 ships of the Imperial Task Force were clustered so closely together "we used flag and light signals (to communicate)," Genda, 73, said.

In his forthcoming book, "Infamy: Pearl Harbor and Its Aftermath," Pulitzer Prize-winning historian John Toland made his case for the first time that U.S. naval intelligence used radio surveillance to locate the Japanese aircraft carriers in the northern Pacific on Dec. 3 as they were sailing toward Hawaii.

Toland convinced U.S. participation was necessary for an Allied victory, withheld the information from his Pacific commanders "to ensure a surprise attack that would trigger public demands for an American declaration of war."

A colleague of Genda's onboard the flagship aircraft carrier, the goliath former Emperor's Gift, Yoshio Kashiwagi, 73, said he did not see how the task force's radio messages could have been monitored.

Soviet craft on Venus

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union soft-landed its second unmanned space module in five days on Venus Friday for further scientific experiments on the hot, cloud-shrouded "Morning Star."

Completing a four-month, 223 million mile voyage, the Venus-14 module broke through the murky Venusian atmosphere on Feb. 25 (6:53 p.m. MST Thursday) and landed 63 minutes later, the official Tass news agency said.

The probe, which landed thousands of miles from the touchdown spot of the Venus-13 module that floated onto the planet Monday, offered a completely different set of panoramic photographs of the surface, Tass said.

The color photographs made by Venus-14 and the same module, the first ever taken on the planet, revealed the Venusian sky to be orange and lower atmosphere to be reddish brown.

The module functioned for almost an hour before succumbing to the intense Venusian heat, sending information on soil composition, the chemical composition of the atmosphere and clouds and solar radiation.

"It returned results of a detailed analysis of the soil and color high resolution panoramic images of the landscape," Tass Moscow said.

"Objects measuring several millimeters can be distinguished on the imagery," Tass said.

mayor, who was out of town. No one was harmed in the bungled holiday attempt which began moments after the suspect purchased his weapon at a gunshop, then walked two blocks to the bank, authorities said.

The blond hooded man, attired in cowboy boots, a cowboy hat, plaid shirt and glasses, entered the bank shortly before noon and fired a shot into the ceiling.

One released hostage, not identified, told a reporter the man entered the bank and said, "This is a holdup. Everyone get on the floor."

The woman said he ordered tellers to put the money on the counter, which they did, "but he never touched it. Just sat at one of the desks."

Roberts purchased the shotgun, then test-fired a round in the parking lot outside the gun shop, authorities said.

Police were called and spotted him moments before he entered the bank, two blocks away from the shop. About an hour after Roberts took the hostages, he returned to customers in the bank. He ordered employees to remain.

Several hours later more than three dozen bank employees sneaked out of the bank, all but three of them women.

Authorities said the gunman still was holding two women and one man, C.D. Archer, who lives across the street from Roberts, said he had a conversation with him Thursday.

"He asked me if I thought my son would do some work for him if he paid for it," Archer said. "Then he said he thought he was coming into a vast sum of money."

Proposal alters distribution of revenue from liquor sales

BOISE (UPI) — A knock on his door at 2 a.m. and some bad plays from the police helped Rep. Myron Jones decide Friday to vote for a bill that would revise the liquor revenue distribution system and remove a tax exemption on liquor sold by state-run dispensaries.

The revenue generated by the exemption removal would be used under the proposal by Sen. Norma Dobler, Tim Mason and the distribution of state liquor funds to Idaho's local governments.

The intent of the measure is to send more revenue to areas where drinking increases law enforcement agencies workload, Mrs. Dobler said.

Jones, R-Main, told the House Revenue and Taxation Committee he was awakened by a knock on the door of his Boise residence and was told by two policemen that someone had side-swiped his parked car and several other vehicles in the vicinity.

"He was cited for drunken driving," Jones told the committee and Mrs. Dobler. "You caught me in the right mood. Maybe there's some need for this."

The committee then agreed on a

NOE BRACKETT fears bootlegging voice vote to introduce the bill. Rep. Noe Brackett, R-Twin Falls, said he feared the removal of the exemption would retard the growth of state liquor sales.

"I would think there might be more bootlegging — liquor brought in from other states," Brackett said.

Mrs. Dobler said there's a "direct correlation" between the level of alcohol abuse and the need for additional law enforcement and alcohol abuse funding in the cities and counties.

The current liquor fund distribution formula is based on population, but Mrs. Dobler's plan would base the allocation on liquor sales volume.

Her proposal would repeal the exemption on the sale of liquor from state-operated dispensaries, raising an estimated $1 million in a year.

Under her distribution formula, three-fifths of the revenue would go to cities and the rest would be set aside for counties. She said cities deserved the larger share because of conventions and other events where large amounts of liquor are consumed.

Another part of Mrs. Dobler's plan would require the state to pay $300,000 to counties that support the College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College with property tax revenue. She said that would replace the $286,000 the counties now pay the junior colleges each year in liquor revenue.

Boise man arraigned for Batt extortion try

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise man accused in an extortion and death threat against Lt. Gov. Phil Batt was ordered jailed Friday on $50,000 bond at an arraignment hearing held by U.S. District Judge H. Bryan Ryan.

Ryan also set a preliminary hearing for Garold Mark Ireland, 25, for 10 a.m., March 12, before U.S. Magistrate Jim Christensen, who had been scheduled to preside over Ryan's arraignment but became ill.

Attorneys in the case also discussed the possibility of a mental examination for Ireland — but Ryan took no action on that issue during the arraignment proceeding.

Ireland is charged with threatening to kill Batt, a gubernatorial candidate who celebrated his 55th birthday Thursday, and attempting to extort $10,000.

Batt said his administrative assistant, Hazel Keeler, opened the extortion letter when it arrived at his Statehouse office on Tuesday.

"She was very concerned about it," Batt said. "I don't remember it exactly, but the letter said, 'If you continue to keep running for governor, I will kill you; if you don't leave $10,000 in a certain place at 1:12 p.m. March 11.'"

State Bureau of Investigations and FBI agents said a package was taken to a phone booth identified in the letter shortly after 1 p.m. Thursday — but no one showed up to obtain the cash.

They would not say if the package contained money.

They said Ireland was arrested at his home at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Fisher drops out of race

BOISE (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Bernie Fisher has withdrawn from the race, saying he's had too much difficulty organizing a successful campaign organization.

The Vietnam War hero who holds the Congressional Medal of Honor withdraws a month ahead of the official campaign filing deadline of April 7, leaving Lt. Gov. Phil Batt, House Speaker Ralph Olinstead and Shelley naturopath Lee Richardson remaining as candidates.

Nampa volunteers seek pledges

NAMPA (UPI) — Efforts to obtain new information about the kidnapping murder of Darlyn Rene Johnson identified Friday as volunteers looking for a pledge fund to offer a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the Nampa child's killer.

Volunteers for the Concerned Citizens' Committee hit the streets Friday to urge citizens to make pledges and asking citizens to promise contributions to be paid when the child's killer is caught, organizer John Hansen said.

The pledge fund is designed to attract citizens who can't afford to place money in the existing reward funds, but would be willing to contribute dollars once the person or persons responsible is behind bars.

Meanwhile, Nampa police and Canyon County sheriff's officers were continuing their investigation into the four-year disappearance and death following leads and interviewing possible suspects, said Nampa Police Chief Art Musser.

Musser said Friday there are no new developments in the case and officers at this point are concentrating on wrapping up leads and suspects they now have. He said the field has not yet been narrowed to one or more likely suspects, but officers have several possible suspects under investigation at this time.

Miss Johnson disappeared last Wednesday while walking the six blocks between her home and school. Her fully clothed body was found by three fishermen Saturday in a small creek near the Snake River about two miles northwest of Walters Ferry.

Firing squad legislation held up

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation to allow executions by firing squad in Idaho was held up by a possible amendment Friday by the House Judiciary Committee.

Idaho Medical Association lobbyist Tim Hart convinced the panel to delay voting on the measure until the House floor, until the association could discuss changing the proposal with the state Corrections Department.

Hart said the association feared the bill could allow the Corrections Department to force medical professionals to participate in a lethal injection execution.

The bill would give the department the option of using a firing squad in addition to the lethal injection method — the only method now allowed by state law.

Hart said the proposed amended law, however, contained strong language that could lead to legal conflicts between the association and the department.

Robert Gates, attorney for the department, said the agency would rather use firing squads for executions, but it needed to keep lethal injection on the books as an option in case use of the firing squad method was struck down.

Also in the House Friday, a special subcommittee agreed to recommend to the Legislature's Joint Finance Appropriations Committee that $190,000 in general funds be allocated to resurrect the state's air quality program, which was killed off by the Legislature last year.

Members of the subcommittee were putting the finishing touches on the proposal to resume the bureau and work out an operational agreement with the federal Environmental Protection Agency, which has been handling air quality monitoring since the state Air Quality Bureau went out of existence.

The budget committee is scheduled to consider the fiscal year 1983 appropriation request Monday.

A plan to assess a $15 surcharge on marriage licenses to fund an anti-domestic violence program was forwarded to the House floor with a "do pass" recommendation Friday by the House State Affairs Committee.

The bill would provide more than $200,000 annually to fund a 24-hour "crisis line" and temporary shelter homes for women and children who are victims of assault, sexual abuse or personal injury in the home.

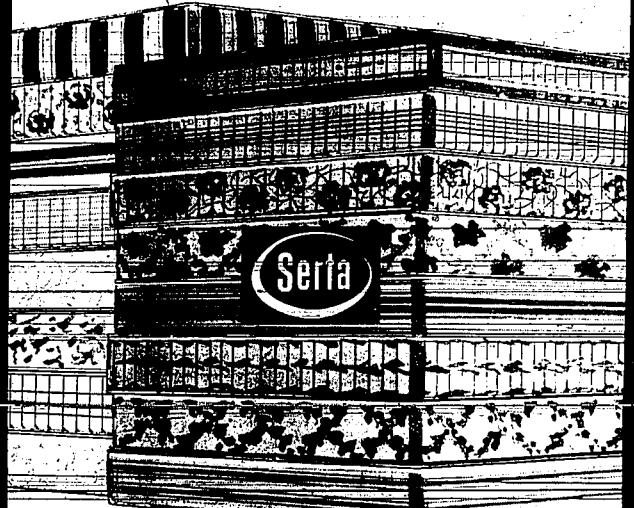

In the Senate Judiciary Committee, a House-approved bill to establish a mandatory minimum two-day jail sentence and maximum $500 fine for a drunken-driving conviction was tabled.

However, the panel voted to send to the Senate floor a bill that would drastically increase law enforcement agencies' power to revoke the driver's licenses of those convicted of drunken-driving. The bill also would sharply increase fines that could be levied for drunken driving.

The bill will be put up for amendment on the Senate floor, possibly sometime next week.

School tries for four-day week

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Education Board asked for a detailed proposal Friday from the Worley School District, where officials are seeking permission to move to a four-day school week next fall to save money.

The state now requires districts to operate for 180 days each year, but a resolution adopted by the Worley board seeks to extend classes on four days each week and reserve Friday for sports and other extra-curricular activities.

Worley officials say they stand to lose money as state and federal budget cuts reach the local level — and they believe they can save significant sums in energy and transportation costs by cutting back to four days a week.

A plan for doling out $15.4 million in federal funds also was presented to the state board Friday and sent on to the U.S. Education Department for approval.

Leaders confident in liberal movement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Americans for Democracy opened its annual meeting Friday with its leader expressing confidence the liberal movement "is on the move again."

They called Ronald Reagan's presidency "a total disaster."

"The delegates re-elected the Rev. Robert F. Drinan as national president of the 60,000-member organization and heard him declare: "America's liberal-fabor alliance is on the move again, developing and fighting for the public policies necessary to restore this nation to economic vitality and social progress."

"Our last 13 months have been very rugged," said Drinan. "We've never experienced anything like that in the history of the country. But I think the liberals are alive and coming together."

The group adopted a resolution criticizing Reagan's appointments to executive agencies which it equated to appointing "foxes to run the chicken coop."

Drinan is a Jesuit priest who under Vatican decree barring priests from elective office gave up a 10-year career as Democratic congressman from Massachusetts in 1980. Drinan, former dean of the Boston College Law School and an outspoken opponent of the Vietnam War during the 1960s, was elected ADA president last June.

He predicted Reagan's presidency will help bridge the ideological gap between liberals and conservatives.

"We want all of the economists to come together with the congress and say everything that Mr. Reagan has proposed has been a disaster total disaster — that there's not a single thing in his economic program that has worked out."

"And it seems to me all of us have to say, 'Cast aside the liberals and the conservatives, the name and the tags. Let's think together because America is really in crisis,'" he said on the CBS Morning News.

"I think liberals have been vindicated" by Reagan's inability to improve the economy with policies he trumpeted in campaigning against years of liberalism in Washington.

"I think we know that his economic policies have been a disaster," he said. "We have more unemployment than at any time since the 1930s and the number of bankruptcies is rocketing up. So we feel that our policies have been vindicated and the liberals and the moderates are coming together."

The ADA convention comes after months of what a spokesman called "bigger growth than in previous years" in the membership rolls of the organization, a vanguard of the old left.

Plan targets underground economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two influential Republican senators Friday proposed legislation to crack down on Americans — mainly law-abiding ones — who are expected to underpay their taxes by about $77 billion this year.

Sens. Robert Dole of Kansas, chairman of the tax-writing Finance Committee, and committee member Charles Grassley of Iowa said that before Congress considers possible tax increases to reduce the budget deficit, it should make sure Americans are paying what they already owe.

GOP congressional leaders were rushing to put together a compromise budget plan that would be submitted to President Reagan next week, possibly by Wednesday, for his approval, a leadership source said.

They are trying to fashion an alternative to Reagan's 1983 budget that will be easier to sell to members of Congress who have rebelled at Reagan's projected $91.5 billion deficit.

Reagan will meet with GOP committee chairmen in the Capitol Tuesday and then address the Republican Policy Committee.

The Dole-Grassley bill would require institutions to make "informational" reports to the government on their payments of income from dividends, capital gains, interest on Treasury bills and corporate bearer bonds.

The two senators rejected an administration proposal to require a payer of interest or dividends to actually withhold taxes on these payments for IRS.

But their measure would require businesses with more than five employees to report to the Internal Revenue Service tips that are paid by credit card — for example, where a restaurant patron charges the tip on his card and the restaurant reimburses the waiter or waitress.

The bill would add stronger penalties for underpayment of taxes, beef up the Internal Revenue Service and start a new system of voluntary withholding of taxes on income paid by pension funds and other annuities.

Dole and Grassley estimated all this would bring the government $20 billion over the next three years in taxes owed that it would otherwise lose — $3 billion in fiscal 1983, $8.1 billion in 1984 and $9.3 billion in 1985.

"Both of us feel it would be tremendously unfair to increase taxes — to impose an additional burden on all honest taxpayers — without first collecting revenues from those who have failed to meet their legal obligations to pay tax already owed," Grassley said.

The senators are trying to tap a vast "underground economy" mainly involving ordinary Americans.

According to government estimates they cited, Americans paid $78 billion less in taxes in 1981 than they should have. The compliance gap is estimated at $77 billion this year, growing to $102 billion by 1985.

The tax compliance rate for wages is 99 percent, 92 percent for farm business, 89 percent for interest, 85 percent for dividends, 81 percent for state income tax refunds, 80 percent for pension income, 80 percent for non-farm business, 66 percent for capital gains and less than 20 percent from tips and "illegal sources."

Testimony says von Bulow admitted to suicide attempts

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The defense in the Claus von Bulow attempted murder trial rested Friday after presenting testimony that his wealthy wife said upon recovering from the first of two comas that she had tried to kill herself.

The Danish aristocrat never took the stand in his own defense.

The defense rested at 3:55 p.m. EST after presenting its final two witnesses, one who said Mrs. Martha "Sunny" von Bulow admitted she'd tried to commit suicide and the other who testified she said she had often wished herself dead.

The prosecution, which has called 44 witnesses as opposed to the defense's 12, immediately began presenting rebuttal testimony in the trial which was expected to go to the jury of seven men and five women next week.

C. Robert Huggins, 33, a medical technician at Newport Hospital, testified under defense subpoena that the socialite told her suicide attempt on Dec. 31, 1979, three days after being rushed to the hospital in a coma her husband, Claus, is accused of causing by injecting her with insulin.

"I went in to draw blood and she looked at me and she looked like she wanted someone to talk to. I said, 'Oh, what happened to you?'"

"She said, 'Oh, I tried to kill myself.'"

"I said, 'You shouldn't — we like having you around.'"

"She didn't look at me ... But she said something like, 'Yeah, sure — in some kind of tone like that,'" mimicking a tone of extreme resignation and dispiritedness.

Huggins said that after Mrs. von Bulow told him she had tried to kill herself — "I was taken aback — I thought I had put my foot in my mouth."

Nuke technology inspections inadequate to detect thefts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inspections by the international agency that keeps watch over the global spread of nuclear technology are inadequate to detect thefts of weapons-ready atomic materials, a regulatory Commission concedes.

The commission, in an 11-page letter obtained by UPI, raised the level of "concern" it previously had expressed only in general terms to congressional critics of international Atomic Energy Agency safeguards.

The letter was prepared for several members of Congress who have questioned whether the United States should trust the international agency to ensure that nuclear technology abroad is not misused.

The IAEA has primary responsibility for keeping track of nuclear material around the world, with a goal of detecting within a week the accumulation of enough uranium or plutonium to assemble an atomic bomb.

However, this week's NBC letter has raised new doubts about the international agency's ability to carry out its task. (Is language goes well beyond the reservation expressed by commission chairman Nunzio Palladino in a one-page letter Nov. 27.

This week's letter cites serious deficiencies in tracking nuclear materials once it reaches the stage of refinement where it is best suited for weapons use.

In addressing the IAEA's ability to detect diversions of highly enriched uranium and separated plutonium — which can be recovered from the byproducts of conventional fission reactors and used in weapons production — the NRC said:

"Because they can be transformed readily into weapons, we cannot count reliably on inspection alone to provide warning of diversion ... in time to prevent weapons assembly if the necessary preparatory work has been done."

However, Commissioner John Ahearne noted that preparations needed to assemble a bomb even with weapons-grade material in hand are very difficult and require a group which is highly sophisticated technically.

NRC nixes request to speed breeder reactor construction

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, dimming prospects for the $2.6-billion Clinch River Breeder Reactor, Friday rejected a Reagan administration request to speed construction of the project.

By a 3-2 vote, the commissioners turned down an Energy Department application for a regulation exemption that would have allowed an immediate start to "preparation activities" on the proposed Oak Ridge, Tenn., site.

Environmental groups hailed the decision as "another major blow" to the experimental reactor — designed to produce more nuclear fuel than it uses — and predicted it would prompt Congress to halt funding for the project.

The funding survived close votes in the House and Senate last year.

Nevertheless, NRC Chairman Nunzio Palladino strongly indicated he intends to bring the matter before the commission again later this year. He is likely to wait until Commissioner Peter Bradford, a long-time opponent of the project, leaves the panel.

Bradford is expected to leave by June and his replacement will be selected by President Reagan.

Oak Ridge Boys, Alabama top list for Country awards

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Alabama and the Oak Ridge Boys lead other bands and singers in nominations for the Academy of Country Music Awards to be presented during a nationwide televised month-long series.

The two groups are competing against Barbara Mandrell, Dolly Parton and Kenny Rogers for the top honor, entertainer of the year, to be presented in the "Hit" awards to be given in ceremonies from the theater at Knott's Berry Farm April 25.

The academy's 2,600 voting members will select the winners from the nominees announced this week in each of 11 categories.

Alabama won a total of five nominations — the others for best group, for best album for "Feels So Right," and twice for song of the year for "Feels So Right" and "Love in the First Degree."

The Oak Ridge Boys were also nominated for best group, for best single for "Elvira" and best album for "Fancy Free."

Miss Mandrell and Rosanne Cash and the duo of David Frizzell and Shelly West picked up three nominations each.

John Schneider, who portrays the Duke on the "Dukes of Hazzard" TV series, was nominated for best-male vocalist.

Other song of the year nominations went to "My Favorite Memory" by Marie Haggard, "It Turns Me Inside Out" by Lee Greenwood and "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma" by Frizzell and Miss West.

Other best single nominees are "I Was Country When Country Wasn't Cool" by Miss Mandrell, "There's No Getting Over Me" by Ronnie Millsap and "You're the Reason God Made Oklahoma."

Other album of the year nominees were "9 to 5" by Miss Parton, "Seven Year Ache" by Miss Cash and "Still the Same Ole Me" by George Jones.

Contenders for the top vocalist awards are Miss Cash, Lucy J. Dalton, Emmylou Harris, Miss Mandrell and Sylvia for female honors; and Haggard, Jones, Millsap, Rogers and Hank Williams Jr. for the male award.

Mo'Nasty and Joe Stampley; E.C. Bannon and Louise Mandrell; Frizzell and Miss West; Miss Harris and Don Williams, and Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn were nominated for top vocal duet; while Alabama, Larry Gatlin and The Gatlin Brothers, the Oak Ridge Boys, Tompall and Glaser Brothers and the Statler Brothers are competing for best group.

Besides Schneider, nominations for the two best new vocalist awards went to Greenwood, Earl Thomas Conley, Eddy Raven, Ricky Skaggs, Judy Bailey, Kippi-Brannon, Terry Gregory, Tricia Johns and Juice Newton.

Nominations for country motion picture of the year nominations went to "Any Which Way You Can," "Coward of the County," "Stand By Your Man" and "Take This Job and Shove It."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "M-A-S-H" scriptwriters were nominated three times and writers of the "Taxi," "Barney Miller," "Lou Grant" and "Hill Street Blues" series picked up two nominations each for this year's Writers Guild awards.

The winners will be announced March 26 along with movie scriptwriters whose nominations were disclosed earlier. Author Gore Vidal is expected to challenge California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, will speak at the ceremony.

Nominations for best original drama went to Steven Gethers for "Dampier: The Leper Priest," Lew Hunter for "Fallen Angels," Bert Preutsky for "Homeward Bound," Suzanne Clauser for "The Pride of Jesse Hallam," and Arnold and Lois Peyser and Joan Marks for "The Violation of Sarah's Bedside."

Nominations for best drama adaptation went to Joan Tewkesbury for "The Acorn People," Richard Friedenberg for "Bitter Harvest," Lawrence Marcus for "The Five of Me," and Philip Reisman Jr. for Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi."

Dan Wilentz and Thad Mumford were nominated twice for episodes of "M-A-S-H" — for best dramatic episode for the "Bless You, Hawkeye" segment and for best comedy episode for "A Visit for All Seasons." John Rappaport picked up another comedy nomination for the series' "No Sweet" episode.

Other best comedy episode nominations were to the pilot of the "Field Associate" and "Stormy Weather" episodes of "Barney Miller" and to the "Thy Boss' Wife" and "Tony's Sister and Jim."

Judge delays setting trial in arson case

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

SALT LAKE CITY — A Utah judge has set March 19 as the deadline for a decision on whether the owners of Beans Inc. will be ordered to answer to arson charges.

Judge Paul Grant of the Fifth Circuit Court decided Thursday to take under advisement Utah prosecutors' claims that the owners were responsible for a July 1979 fire at the Beans bean warehouses.

Grant's action follows a three-day preliminary hearing into the charges against James Woods of Salinas, Calif., and Martin Taylor of Madras, Calif.

Woods, the owner of the Beans Inc. parent company, Commodity Marketing Corp., and a former mayor of Salinas, and Taylor, a business associate of Woods, have been charged with arson and insurance fraud with intent to defraud and insurance fraud.

According to Mike Christensen, the deputy Salt Lake County attorney, 22 witnesses, including former Fire Police Chief RAYD Laitinen and Fire Chief Larry Ainsworth, were called by prosecutors. The defense did not present any evidence during the hearing, which was closed to the press and public.

Salt Lake County prosecutors filed their charges last year, claiming jurisdiction in the case because the insurance company and master in the case were located in Salt Lake City. No charges have been filed in Twin Falls County.

The defendants repeatedly have challenged that jurisdictional claim, however. Lawyers for Woods and Taylor say they intend to submit legal briefs to Grant in support of their arguments.

In Salinas, Woods' lawyer, Lawrence Bleig, questioned whether alleged inconsistencies in insurance claims filed by the defendants constituted "outright fraud." Bleig suggested that Woods may have erred in the claims because he did not have on-the-scene knowledge of the warehouse operation.

O'Leary Junior High students swarm over trucker Harold Caldwell's Kenworth. Caldwell lectured at the school Friday

O'Leary program battles dropout problem

Students learn careers need school

By GLEN WARCHOL
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — He's driven more than a million miles in diesel rigs.

Now, Harold Caldwell owns 14 semi's. Including the shiny Kenworth parked outside O'Leary Junior High School on Friday.

"You need an education to be a truck driver," he tells 80 O'Leary students. And Caldwell quickly gives the students an idea of what it takes to get behind the wheel of a $95,000 truck.

"Are they hard to drive?" he's asked. "They're easy to drive; anyone can drive one," Caldwell says. But then he explains a less exciting but important aspect of trucking — paperwork. It takes a fair amount of math and reading ability to keep track of bills of lading and the driving logs required by state and federal laws, he says.

"They used to say, 'That dumb truck driver,'" Caldwell tells the students. "You can't be dumb anymore."

Caldwell and his Kenworth's visit to O'Leary was part of "Career Exploration," a pilot vocational guidance program that gives selected students a head start on serious thought about career possibilities.

"These are the kids who have difficulties with academics, kids who probably won't go to college," said Carl Snow, the principal at O'Leary.

"They're going to have to make some career decisions, and we'd like to help them out." Hearing from the people who actually work in a profession makes a big difference on how the students view school, according to their teachers.

"I think they may see more of a reason for the work we're doing in class," said Sally Phillips, a math teacher. "They see why they need to stay in school."

"This made it real to have the truck here," said Marilee Teasley, the school's psychologist. "It's getting more practical. These are things the kids can understand. This man employs truck drivers — what better way to tell them what they need to know?"

The program at O'Leary already has brought the students face to face with nurses and firefighters this year. In the coming months, farmers, ranchers, police officers and mechanics will be invited to speak to the students.

Despite the vast differences in the jobs, the message will remain the same, Snow said. You need to stay in school to get a good job.

"Hopefully, it will reduce the dropout rate," he said. "It's necessary to finish high school for almost any kind of a job, no matter what."

At his classroom talk, Caldwell covered the gleaming blue Kenworth, a student in blue overalls. Caldwell said, "I think I'm in love with your truck. You sure keep it clean."

"Everytime one of our trucks come in from the road, we have them looking like this," Caldwell says. "You want to be a good truck driver, you've got to have pride."

Elderly woman's robber gets prison

Plea for rehabilitation program rejected

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — An 89-year-old Twin Falls man, who pleaded guilty to robbing an elderly woman in her home early this year, will spend up to seven years in prison for the crime.

Following a Fifth District Court hearing Friday, Judge Theoren Ward denied a request from Kirby Anthony's lawyer, Randy Stoker, not to send the man to prison.

But the sentence was substantially below the maximum penalty for robbery, which is 30 years under state law.

Anthony was one of two men arrested for the Jan. 6 robbery of Thelma Stull of 1361 Fifth Ave. E.

But last month, prosecutors dismissed robbery charges against Anthony's 19-year-old brother, Mike Anthony, after determining that the older brother apparently had attempted to stop the robbery.

According to the charges, Kirby Anthony convinced the woman to allow him inside her home on the premise of using her telephone. Once inside, he sprayed tear gas into the victim's face and robbed her of her money. The older Anthony remained outside the home.

Friday, Stoker argued that Kirby Anthony, who apparently provided Twin Falls police with information that led to the conviction of other persons, might be subject to reprisals in prison.

Stoker also urged Ward to consider rehabilitation in his sentencing decision. He said Anthony suffers from severe alcoholic and drug dependency problems. Those problems were a large factor in this crime, as well as Anthony's substantial juvenile criminal record, he said.

Mrs. Idaho: Boise blonde will boost state goods at pageant

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho trout industry will get a highly visual boost from Mrs. Idaho this spring.

Becky Blackhall, the reigning Mrs. Idaho, is fashioning an evening gown fabric into a fisherman's outfit that she will don for the Mrs. America pageant this May in Las Vegas.

Every contestant is required to wear a costume representative of her state, and Blackhall figures a fishing outfit is a reminder of both the trout industry and Idaho's great outdoors.

"This (the national pageant) is our chance to talk about the state," Blackhall said during an interview Friday in Twin Falls.

Blackhall is a slim blonde with a ready laugh, but she pointed out that being Mrs. Idaho doesn't consist entirely of the light and amusing.

She said she is traveling around Idaho as much as possible to become familiar with the state's commerce. She wants to promote Idaho extensively during her reign, which lasts until fall.

Blackhall also said she wants to further her knowledge of the concerns held by Idaho women, and possibly communicate those concerns to the Legislature.

Magic Valley groups that would like to speak with her through the name of the Women in Commerce program are invited to contact Peggy Kolouch, an accountant at Beckstead Cooper Co.

The personnel manager for a Boise equipment company, Blackhall is married to a salesman for Motorola Corp. and has a 3-year-old son.

Becky Blackhall wants Mrs. Idaho title to have meaning

"I'm a goal-setter," she said. But she said she does not like to put priorities on her career and her family life. Blackhall added that "you can't be a super mom without a super dad." Her husband, she said, has been highly supportive of her endeavors.

Blackhall was one of four contestants in the Mrs. Idaho competition last October. She believes the low turnout stems from a misconception that the Mrs. Idaho competition "is a pageant with no backbone to it." But it is more than just a beauty pageant, she said.

Fifty percent of the judging is based on poise, personality, family and community involvement, Blackhall said. Twenty-five percent is based on a swimsuit competition and 25 percent on a swimsuit contest.

Blackhall said "Mrs." contests in various states began in the 1930s in California and were judged on the basis of domestic skills. Judges visited contestants' homes and asked them to devise and prepare menus. The contests vanished for about a decade, but they were revived and revised by a Hollywood entertainment producer in 1977.

A state "Mrs." contest is non-profit and carries no material prizes, Blackhall said. The winner is apt to incur some personal expenses, such as travel costs. She said contestants seek sponsors to pay the $400 entry fee, which covers such expenses as lodging, meals and the staging of pageants.

But the food expenses, apparently don't amount to much. If Mrs. Idaho is a typical contestant.

"Yes, Mrs. Idaho has to work at staying thin," Blackhall said. "I was tempted to eat my little boy's French toast this morning, but instead, I had a muffin with no butter. It was horrible."

Box Canyon

Ecologist urges House to restrict development

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — A House committee heard emotional testimony Friday on the proposed development of scenic Box Canyon near Hagerman.

No action was taken, however, on whether the House Resource and Conservation Committee would support a bill requiring state agencies to negotiate an easement arrangement with trout farmer Earl Hardy, who owns nearly all the land surrounding the stream.

"Box Canyon is as close to pristine as we are going to find," said Robert Steele, an ecologist for the Idaho Hydrologic Experiment Station in Boise. "The preserve looks like before settlement times," Steele said. "It merits national recognition."

In 1971, the Legislature designated Box Canyon Creek and four other springs as scenic resources and ordered the State Parks and Recreation Department to file for a preservation water right. However, Hardy holds a prior right of 330-cubic-foot-per-second flow.

Box Canyon Creek, the 11th largest spring in the nation, flows only a few miles before emptying into the Snake River.

Hardy has not been able to obtain a Bureau of Land Management land easement that would allow him to divert water from the creek to neighboring Blind Canyon for fish farming. And now, he is seeking to build a hydroelectric project within the boundaries of the preserve, before his water-right permit expires next year. He does have the right to build five fish ponds in the upper canyon anytime prior to expiration of his permit.

"I appreciate Mr. Hardy," said parks director Dale Christenson. "He hasn't lost his patience these 11 years and done it with a bulldozer to make himself a recreational homestead or build trout farms. He certainly has had that right all these years."

Christenson agreed with the bill, which would require renewed negotiations to solve the dilemma. But he argued that it may be too restrictive in that it essentially outlives the final project to be agreed upon.

Hardy is offering the state permanent easement within his land deed, essentially giving the state total jurisdiction over upper Box Canyon. In exchange, he wants the scenic designation of the stream to be shortened by about a quarter mile to allow him enough of an elevation drop to build a hydro project in mid-canyon. This arrangement would solve several water-right and priority-date problems Hardy faces in the hydro project.

The lower canyon already has been disrupted by a large diversion for a trout hatchery owned by Clear Spring Trout Co. across the Snake River.

Both Christenson and Steele testified that upper Box Canyon is too fragile for full recreational use.

"The pristine plant life and value of the canyon would surely be destroyed by a picnic or camping facility," Christenson said. "No, I don't believe it should be made into a state park."

Instead, Christenson said he hoped as much of the canyon as possible could be preserved as an outdoor classroom for biologists and private study groups, with occasional visits allowed.

But several people testified that Hardy's plan would disrupt at least 20 percent of the "pristine flora" and possibly harm the rest of the canyon.

Perhaps more heatedly contested, however, were charges that the bill would set precedents for special interest legislation becoming a common occurrence in the Legislature.

"The revised bill keeps language that would allow for the state-owned stream in Box Canyon to be transferred into the hands of a private citizen — an unheard of precedent," said Renee Quick of the Idaho Conservation League.

"This would pave the way for private ownership of other streambeds in Idaho, having profound implications for all Idaho waters."

"New language in the bill mandates state agencies to negotiate with the bill's intended beneficiary," she said. "For some 12 years now, Mr. Hardy has had his water right and has been negotiating with these agencies. These agencies have determined that it is in the public interest that there should be no development of Box Canyon waters or streambed."

"The Legislature should not ignore the agencies' decisions nor the voice of the public," Quick said.

Grocery robber earns five-year prison term

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A 31-year-old Court Adams man will spend up to five years in prison for robbing a Twin Falls convenience store last summer. However, the sentence imposed Friday on Gary Owen Lindsay does not include a single day to the prison term imposed on the defendant Tuesday. Lindsay was charged with robbery in Twin Falls County and assault with intent to commit murder in Jerome County. All of the charges stem from the events of July 1, 1981, which began with the robbery of a Circle K store, 830 Washington St., and ended with a high-speed chase in Jerome County in which the defendant fired shots at sheriff's deputies.

In another robbery case, Ward placed 35-year-old Daniel Welch of Twin Falls on probation following the defendant's four-month stay at the North Idaho Correction Institute at Cottonwood.

When Ward ordered Welch to spend 130 days at NICI last November, he denied defense lawyer Golden Bennett's request that the defendant be placed on probation. Just the month before, a co-defendant in the March 8, 1981, holdup of United Oil, 1922 Kimberly Road, had been placed on a two-year probation.

Bennett appeared in court Friday, but — along with the defendant — was inclined to agree that Ward had made the right decision. NICI officials overwhelmingly recommended that Welch be placed on probation, and Bennett said the defendant was "absolutely the best" he had seen.

Based on the report, Ward placed Welch on a one-year probation in lieu of a suspended five-year prison term. In another court case heard Friday, Charles Kress, 18, of Twin Falls, pleaded guilty to a charge of grand theft and asked to be sentenced immediately to jail term. Ward, following an agreement between the defense and the prosecution, reduced a 14-year prison sentence to a four-month jail term. Kress, who has been in jail since Jan. 15, essentially forfeited a chance of receiving probation by asking to be sentenced immediately.

In light of conflicting psychological evaluations of the defendant, Judge Daniel Meehl had applied the five-year sentence to Jerome on Tuesday. And Friday, Lindsay pleaded guilty to the second charge, asking Ward to impose a sentence immediately. Under the terms of Ward's decision, Lindsay will serve both five-year sentences concurrently.

Flea market to highlight Jerome sale

JEROME — A new attraction for Jerome shoppers opens today in Lincoln Plaza. According to Stephanie Harrison, there will be at least 27 art and craft vendors offering their merchandise for show and sale. Harrison, who operates a clothing store in the plaza, said the idea is to attract shoppers to Jerome by offering in arts and crafts market their products. Each artist will rent a booth at a nominal fee, designed to cover the cost of the utilities and the rent of the now vacant building in the plaza, she said. There even will be a garage-sale booth for items that are in good condition and suitable for purchase, Harrison said.

The art and craft sale will be held every Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. as long as business warrants.

Kiwanis adds three sites for old papers

TWIN FALLS — Newspapers can be donated to the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club for recycling at three new drop-off sites. — Bins now are located in the parking lots of Sears, Waresmart and the Circle K store off Washington Street North. These new sites are in addition to bins in parking lots at the Blue Lakes shopping center and Albertson's and Smith's supermarkets. Hamilton newspapers are sold to Hamilton Insulation for use in manufacturing insulation. The Kiwanis Club donates most of the money to help fund various youth activities. Since the recycling program was started in 1980, about $2,000 has been raised. About $5,000 has been divided among such groups as the Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and the YFCA.

Noting the defendant's age, Voorness said he could not ask for the maximum penalty, but recommended a 14-year prison sentence. In reviewing the case, Ward asked and answered his own question of why Anthony should be sentenced to prison when other defendants convicted of the same offense have avoided the penitentiary.

"You, Mr. Anthony, for a young man, have compiled a long record of serious crimes," Ward said. "You are a full-blown criminal who does not 'buy wholeness' to your street to change your life. If you were (sincere), you would have done it a long time ago. You're doing nothing to help anyone. You're blaming others for your problems."

Ward said his decision to limit the sentence to seven years left open the possibility of an early release by the parole board if Anthony makes a sincere effort to improve himself in prison. But after Ward announced the decision, the defendant asked to approach the bench and repeatedly beg asking the judge to reconsider.

"Ward refused, saying, 'You're trying to take the baby's way out. You're going to face it like a man.' In a related development, Mike Anthony was in the Twin Falls County Jail on Friday, following his arrest on a first-degree burglary charge. According to reports filed with Fifth District Magistrate Court, the older Anthony brother was arrested Friday, while he allegedly was in the process of burglarizing a pickup truck parked in the 100 block of Second Avenue East.

Food has been set at $1,600.

Mergers?

Three branches of Lutheran Church take step toward unity

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
United Press International

Leaders of three major Lutheran bodies in the United States have taken a major step toward eventual merger — perhaps by 1987.

But the process underscores a major truth of the ecumenical movement: The obstacles to unity are as much bureaucratic and organizational as they are matters of faith and doctrine.

We have made an unbelievable amount of progress," said Bishop James Crumley, the head of the Lutheran Church in America. "And while some knotty issues will continue to rise, we are making sure there are means to solve these problems."

There are few significant theological differences among the three Lutheran bodies planning to merge, although each has a somewhat different concept of how a church body ought to be structured — an organizational as well as theological issue.

Church bodies involved in the discussions are the Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church and the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

When the merger is completed, the new body will have more than 5 million members, making it the third largest Protestant church body in the United States, after the Southern Baptist Convention and the United Methodist Church.

A major concern that emerged from the recent meeting of the Committee on Lutheran Unity is how to integrate the bureaucracies of the three groups with a particular concern for the future of staff people during "the period of forming a new church."

Under the proposal adopted by the committee, versions of which have been under discussion for the last four years, the conventions of each of the denominations will be asked in September to form another group — a "Working Committee" for the purpose of planning, developing and recommending to the separate churches the "necessary actions" for merger.

It will be that committee that will be charged with developing a common, theological statement expressing the new body's Lutheran faith, hopefully for review and action by the three churches' 1984 convention.

Roman Catholics and Anglicans explore future reconciliation

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
United Press International

Earlier this year, in a historic and dramatic gesture of reconciliation, the Roman Catholic and Episcopal bishops of Washington, D.C., issued a joint pastoral letter urging greater unity and cooperation between the two churches.

The joint letter was then followed by the first-ever exchange of papal letters between leaders of the two faiths in Washington in an effort to underscore their commitment to the eventual Union of Roman Catholics and Anglicans.

"With these services," said Episcopal Bishop John Walker and Roman Catholic Archbishop James Hickey in a joint statement, "we pledge ourselves to a new level of collaboration and cooperation."

How deep that collaboration and cooperation may go is expected to be revealed later this spring when Pope John Paul II visits England and meets with the Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie.

At that time — the pope's visit is set for May 26-June 3 — officials are expected to release a final report of the Anglican-Roman Catholic International Commission.

The commission, composed of officials appointed by both churches, is expected to recommend "the establishing of a new relationship between our churches as the next stage in the journey toward Christian unity."

Although the report was submitted by the theologians to both Anglican and Roman Catholic authorities last September and originally was expected to be published in January during the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, publication has been delayed.

According to Peter Hübenthal, the Vatican correspondent for the Independent-National Catholic Reporter, the delay is being caused by Rome and the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

The apparent major difficulty in making the text and its recommendations available is the commission's conclusion on the laicity issue of papal authority, especially the question of papal infallibility.

While the report is willing to grant a primacy, traced to the role of Peter in the New Testament, to the bishop of Rome, the pope, it is unwilling to grant the office or the person holding it power to speak "permanent expressions of the truth."

Sandi Patti wins top Dove Award for gospel music

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Sandi Patti, a former music teacher from Oklahoma City, was named gospel music's top Dove award winner at the 15th annual Dove Awards night at the 15th annual Dove Awards.

Dotie Rambo and the Imperials also won multiple awards at the show, which is gospel music's equivalent to the Grammy Awards. The winners were selected by the Gospel Music Association's 3,000 members.

Patti, wearing a sparkling white, floor-length evening gown, choked back tears as she accepted the female vocalist-of-the-year award.

"Oh, I tell you I don't know what to say," she said. "We have a wonderful Lord to sing about."

She thanked her parents for their love and helping her endure years of afternoon piano lessons. "Thank you all for honoring me this way."

Russ Telford earned male vocalist-of-the-year honors for the second year in a row, and B.J. Thomas won an award for gospel album of the year as a secular artist for his "Amazing Grace" album.

The Imperials, long popular in both pop and gospel circles, was named gospel group of the year and won contemporary gospel album of the year for "Priority."

Rambo won song of the year for "We Shall Behold Him," and she was selected songwriter of the year as well.

Joni Eareckson was named inspirational album of the year and "One Step Closer" by The Rev. Ted Singers was voted traditional album of the year.

In the black gospel category, Shirley Caesar's "Go" album was picked as the best traditional album; the "Edwin Hawkins Live-Oakland Symphony Orchestra" was voted best inspirational album and "Walter Hawkins and Family Live" was voted top contemporary album.

Former rock 'n' roller Dallas Holm, who received more nominations than any other artist, failed to win an award. Twice voted male vocalist-of-the-year, he was a finalist in that category and four others this year.

The awards show was preceded by three days of concerts and seminars, including workshops designed for church musicians.

The last three years have seen a 18 percent to 20 percent growth in gospel music's popularity, the GMA said.

About 150,000 worth of records and tapes were sold by exclusive gospel houses and another $50 million in print music, GMA executive director Don Butler said.

"We've documented more than 1,400 radio stations that program at least six hours of gospel a day."

Butler said gospel accounts for about 5 percent to 7 percent of total music sales, surpassing jazz and classical music.

"It was a very good year," Butler said.

Mormon Church contributes food and supplies to Poland

SALT LAKE CITY — The first portion of hospital supplies and food contributed by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints for distribution in Poland left Salt Lake City airport recently.

The first shipment was dehydrated hospital disinfectant detergent that when reconstituted, will make 98,500 gallons for use in Polish medical facilities.

said that in addition, 1,000 cases of powdered milk, 400 cases of powdered chocolate milk and 1,000 cases of pasta products will be shipped in their next shipment to Poland.

The value of the food products is $20,000.

Pace also presented a $5,000 check to officials of Food for Poland, a national charitable organization with headquarters in Provo, Utah, to pay for the hospital detergent and other medical supplies.

Church news guidelines

The Times-News encourages any church in the Magic Valley area to submit information for our listing of church services, which appears each Saturday.

To ensure your information is used, follow these guidelines:

- The deadline for church news is Thursday noon.
- Typewritten or plainly printed information is best — and it helps eliminate errors.
- Provide full information — complete names, times, locations, date and full. Include the name of the community — we serve many — and a phone number to call if more information is needed.
- If you have questions about church news, call 733-9311 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and ask for Glenda May or Jon Kinney.

Khomeini releases 10,000 opponents

By United Press International

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has ordered the release of more than 10,000 Iranian political opponents and criminals imprisoned by Islamic revolutionary courts, the official news agency said Friday.

The prisoners, including "members of splinter groups (opposed to Khomeini) and those convicted by the Islamic revolutionary courts all over the country, will be freed within the next two months," the news agency said.

The agency did not give a specific figure, but said the number would amount to over 10,000.

"This measure was taken following Imam (spiritual leader) Khomeini's instruction to pardon prisoners, given on the occasion of the third anniversary of the Islamic revolution on Feb. 11," the agency said.

The amnesty announcement came one day after the regime claimed it had thwarted an attempt by Kurdish nationalists and a fugitive general to overthrow the Khomeini regime and set up a new monarchy.

Abolmohsen Mofatteh, the revolutionary prosecutor-general, announced plans for the amnesty in Tehran Thursday, dismissing the regime's chief opponents, the Mojahideen Khatoli group, as a "altering organization."

However, he said the leftist Mojahideen were responsible for the Feb. 22 bomb explosion in Tehran that killed 15 people, including several children, and wounded 56 others.

The Mojahideen denied they were responsible for the blast and other reports said it was carried out by underground supporters of a return to a monarchy headed by the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's son.

Guatemala guerrillas threaten election

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas kidnapped a leading newspaper executive and killed his bodyguard Friday to back demands for publication of a manifesto calling on Guatemalans to "sabotage and boycott" Sunday's presidential election.

Five men carrying rifles and pistols who identified themselves as emissaries of the Defense Ministry burst into the home of Prensa Libre newspaper director Alvaro Contreras Velez, a spokesman for the newspaper said.

As they left with Contreras Velez, the kidnapers shot and killed one of his bodyguards who apparently tried to stop them or made a sudden move, the spokesman said.

The kidnapers, who fled the scene in a Mercedes Benz, left an 11-page manifesto from the outlawed Guatemalan Workers Party and demanded it be published in the Miami Herald, Los Angeles Times and newspapers throughout Central America and Mexico, family members said.

There was no immediate word from the Prensa Libre, which is Guatemala's "largest and most important newspaper, as to whether it would publish the manifesto. The paper would need the government's approval to print the document.

The manifesto was entitled, "No to the electoral farce," and urged voters to "sabotage and boycott" the general elections Sunday to choose a new president.

It said the election was only an "attempt to legitimize the option of a military 'solution' to the profound crisis that affects all the country."

The Guatemalan Worker's Party is one of four leftist guerrilla groups fighting to overthrow the military-dominated government of Gen. Romeo Lucas Garcia, who has tapped Gen. Anibal Guevara as the official party's coalition candidate in Sunday's balloting.

In another development, Prensa Libre published a report saying false voter identification cards have turned up in Mexico and quoted unidentified opposition party sources who expressed fear the cards were evidence of a fraud scheme by the government.

Captured Nicaraguan recently trained recruit?

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Salvadoran officials said Friday that an alleged Nicaraguan guerrilla leader cited by Secretary of State Alexander Haig as proof of outside help to Salvadoran rebels might be only a recently trained recruit.

Officials in the Salvadoran Foreign Ministry showed UPI a secret ministry document detailing the case of Lidamis Anaxis-Gutierrez Espinoza, saying he had been trained as a guerrilla in Mexico, captured after crossing into El Salvador and escaped into the Mexican Embassy on Monday.

In Mexico City, a Foreign Ministry official denied that Gutierrez was in Mexico for guerrilla training, saying that he was an 18-year-old physics student at the University of Nuevo Leon in the northern city of Monterrey. The statement said he was arrested while he was passing through El Salvador for a visit to his native Nicaragua.

On Thursday, Haig said "a Nicaraguan military man was captured in El Salvador, having been sent there by the FSLN (Nicaraguan Sandinista) leadership; to participate in the direction which is so evident of this guerrilla operation from Nicaragua."

The secret Foreign Ministry document said Gutierrez confessed to being a member of the FSLN who was sent to Mexico for guerrilla training directed by Cuban and Nicaraguan advisers and supported by Mexico's ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party.

Defense Minister Gen. Jose Guillermo Garcia confirmed at a later news conference that the Nicaraguan escaped into the Mexican Embassy, but said he had no idea if he was an important guerrilla leader.

Asked about Haig's charge that the Nicaraguan's presence confirmed Sandinista intervention, he said "only further investigations can confirm that."

Garcia said the army picked up Gutierrez "five, six, seven days ago."

Paisley's candidate defeated

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — In a sharp rebuff to the militant Protestant leader the Rev. Ian Paisley, voters of South Belfast rejected his candidate in a special election Friday and sent a member of the Official Unionist party member to parliament.

Rev. Robert Smyth, the Official Unionist candidate, easily defeated the candidate of Paisley's Democratic Unionist Party, who came in third behind former Belfast mayor David Cook.

In a 66.21 percent voter turnout in the predominantly Protestant district, Smyth, 50, received 11,123 votes to Cook's 11,726. Paisley's candidate, the Rev. William McRea, picked up 8,815 votes.

Paisley was defiant in defeat. "I can and I will live to fight another day," he said.

Fist fights and scuffles erupted between supporters of Paisley and the members of the Official Unionist party when the result of Thursday's polling was announced at City Hall.

Former Belfast Lord Mayor John Chryss said he was punched in the face by a Paisley supporter and Official Unionist members said Paisley followers kicked and shoved backers of Smyth.

The election was held to replace the popular Official Unionist member of parliament the Rev. Robert Brien, assassinated by the outlawed Irish Republican Army in November.

McRea is a 33-year-old gospel-singing preacher who claims he is a section leader in Paisley's illegal paramilitary "third force."

Cook ran on the Alliance ticket, a mainly middle-class grouping of Protestants and Catholics seeking to reconcile the two religious communities.

Cook hailed McRea's defeat as a "humiliation" for Paisley and a rejection of his claim that he is the real leader of Northern Ireland's Protestants.

In Dublin, Irish authorities considered a request from London to "try arrested IRA suspect Gerard Tuite for bombing and other crimes allegedly committed in London."

OPEC drops meeting for discussions

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries Friday cancelled a March 12-14 emergency oil ministers' meeting to discuss the impact of the world oil glut on prices, Swiss officials reported.

Instead OPEC agreed to hold "informal consultations" next week in Abu Dhabi amid moves by some member countries to slash their prices, Swiss authorities said.

The authorities said the OPEC Secretariat in Vienna cancelled the reservations and security arrangements in Geneva "because there has not yet been agreement on holding a formal session."

Oil ministers of the 13-nation organization will meet informally in Abu Dhabi next week on whether there is sufficient accord within the group to justify a formal ministerial meeting, OPEC told the Swiss officials.

If such a meeting is agreed, OPEC said, it will most probably be held during the last weekend of this month.

The moves for an emergency oil ministers' meeting comes amid falling oil prices and surplus crude in the international market.

Britain this week reduced the price of its North Sea crude by $4 to $31 a barrel, stepping up pressure on OPEC to lower its $34 a barrel base price for crude.

Wall Street slips again Busiest week in history ends at 22-month low

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

NEW YORK — The stock market, closing out the busiest week in Wall Street history that saw an energy and high-technology rebound, slipped to a 22-month low Friday in heavy trading. Weakness in Telephony following an analysts' downgrade was one reason several rally attempts faltered during the day. Another reason was investor uncertainty about the course of the economy.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up more than four points at midday following Thursday's 7.1-point drop, shed 0.19 point to 867.36, the lowest level since it finished at 873.20 on May 12, 1980.

The Dow, which fell 17.65 points so far this year and the paper value of all New York Stock Exchange issues has decreased $118.5 billion.

Brokers believe a rally is due soon because of those setbacks and the fact the Federal Reserve reported an unexpectedly large $3 billion drop in the nation's money supply that could push interest rates lower over the near term.

The New York Stock Exchange index lost 0.34 to 81.4, the lowest level since it hit 81.11 on June 3, 1980, and the price of an average share decreased 15 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped 0.55 to a 1982 low of 102.34. Declines topped advances 524-566 among the 1,582 issues traded.

A Big Board volume totaled 67,440,000 shares compared with 74,340,000 traded Thursday, the fourth busiest session in NYSE history.

The week's turnover amounted to approximately 328.8 million shares, a record of 304.5 million traded the week ended Jan. 9, 1980.

Institutions continued to sell heavily, offsetting efforts of bargain hunters and traders replacing borrowed shares they sold earlier before the market faded.

But stocks dropped because analysts, concerned the recession is deepening and lengthening, have lowered profit projections for corporations.

Composite volume of NYSE issues traded on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 77,450,830 shares compared with 37,257,399 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index dropped 6.13 to 239.69, the lowest level since 245.78 on May 12, 1980, and the price of a share fell 23 cents. Declines topped advances 423-159 among the 798 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 5,838,445 shares compared with 6,324,200 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of OTC stocks lost 3.32 to 173.97.

On the trading floor, Telephony plunged 3 to 12 1/4. A Merrill Lynch analyst downgraded the recommendation of the stock. Other analysts disagreed.

Data General, which plunged 10 points Thursday, fell 4 1/2 to 28 1/2 after an opening block of 267,200 shares at 29. The company said it would have lower earnings and analysts slashed their profit estimates.

Exxon was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1/4 to 28 1/2 in trading that included a block of one million shares at 28.

Mobil Corp. was the third most active issue, unchanged at 21 after a block of 100,000 shares at 20 1/4. A federal appeal court overturned a $20 million verdict against Mobil won by a Coastal-Caribbean-Oil & Minerals unit. Coastal plunged 2 1/2 to 2 1/2 on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Ford, which recently reached an agreement with the UAW, added 1/4 to 25 1/4. Analysts said Ford's earnings could surge in 1983.

Some defense-related issues lost as pressure mounted on the administration to cut its military spending. Lockheed fell 2 1/4 to 43 1/4. United Technologies 1/4 to 33 1/4. Raytheon 1/4 to 30 1/4 and General Dynamics 1/4 to 21 1/4.

On the Amex, Kay Corp. was the most active issue, up 2 1/4 to 10 1/4, following blocks of 251,200 shares and 115,000 shares, both at 8 1/4. The company said it could not explain the activity in its stock.

American Petroleum was second on the Amex list, off 1/4 to 7 1/4. Wang Laboratories class B followed, off 1/4 to 27 1/4.

American Petroleum class A fell 5 to 43 1/4 after the company settled a pricing dispute with the Department of Energy.

Massey-Ferguson big loser

TORONTO (UPI) — Massey-Ferguson Ltd., chairman Victor Rice said Friday he did not expect a quick recovery from a slump in farm machinery sales that led to a $73.5-million (U.S.) loss by his company in the first quarter of 1982.

Rice said talks were underway with Massey's lenders in Canada, France and Britain to seek their support for amendments to conditions of the company's $715-million refinancing agreement negotiated last summer.

The loss was not as large as the $81.4 million (U.S.) loss in the same period of 1981. In January, Massey had predicted a loss of $85 million.

The net loss included a provision of $10.4 million for unusual costs and a currency exchange loss of $4.7 million. The loss in the first quarter of 1981 was after a currency exchange gain of $16.9 million.

The net loss included a provision of $10.4 million for costs of termination—payments to employees—whose jobs have been eliminated, a spokesman said.

Consolidated world-wide sales for the quarter were $481 million compared with $532 million in the same quarter of 1981.

In the first quarter Massey reduced the cost of goods sold as a percent of sales by three percent and the market penetration for farm machinery in North America was increased, Rice said.

Consolidated world-wide sales for the quarter were $481 million compared with $532 million in first quarter 1981.

U.S. asks for VW recall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department has asked Volkswagen of America to recall 750,000 Volkswagens and Audi vehicles because of what the agency believes may be a safety defect in the electrical system.

However, the firm said it does not regard the problem as a safety defect. Earlier, it ordered only a limited service recall for some of the vehicles—ones with starting problems.

The department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Thursday it has opened a safety defect investigation of fuel injected gasoline engines in the two cars from 1978 to 1980.

Administrator Raymond Peck Jr. said his agency unsuccessfully urged VW to conduct a voluntary safety recall and now is trying to see if it should order a safety recall.

The vehicles involved, said the NHTSA, are: 1976-1980 VW Scirocco and Dasher models; 1977-1980 VW Rabbits; 1980 VW convertibles; 1980 VW pickups; 1980 VW Jettas; 1979-1979 Audi Fox models; and the 1980 Audi 4000.

Idaho logging firm folds

POTLATCH (UPI) — C and B Logging Co. stockholder Frank Bennett announced Thursday the company was going out of business, threatening 40 jobs.

Bennett, who is also president of Bennett Lumber Products, Inc., said the company's assets would be liquidated.

Bennett said the principal owner was his brother, Richard, who decided to end the business "because it has not been profitable for the past two years."

Coal production shows dip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Coal Association Friday reported bituminous soft coal production for the week ended Feb. 27 at 53,528,000 tons compared with 18,728,000 tons produced in the same week in 1981.

Production for the previous week this year totaled 17,709,000 tons, the association said.

Cumulative production for Jan. 1 through Feb. 27, 1982, amounted to 131,429,000 tons compared with 155,322,000 tons in the same period of 1981, the NCA reported.

EG&G buys Colorado firm

WETLESLEY, MASS. (UPI) — EG&G Inc. said Friday it has agreed in principle to purchase Mount Sopris Instrument Co., a Delta, Colo.-based manufacturer of slim-hole logging instruments, for an undisclosed amount of cash.

It said Mount Sopris' highly developed slim-hole logging systems, used for oil and mineral exploration and other engineering and geologic studies, are characterized by a high degree of refinement not found in other logging equipment.

Mount Sopris, with annual sales of about $1.1 million, will function as an element of EG&G Geometrics, a subsidiary of EG&G located in Sunnyvale, Calif., that manufactures engineering, geophysics, proton magnetometers and other products for energy resource and mineral exploration.

Dallas firm starts Braniff bailout campaign

DALLAS (UPI) — The president of a small company "depressed" that Braniff International was in jeopardy of going under, Friday initiated a spur-of-the-moment corporate bailout campaign that appeared to be catching on.

Fred Wehba, president of the Dallas-based Timesaver Templates, a 35 million business, said in six hours of telephone work he netted pledges from 23 companies to divert their air travel to Braniff's main carrier.

Among those companies getting behind Braniff was one that spends $4 million annually on air travel. It promised to divert as much of that travel to Braniff as possible.

Other companies such as Hitachi, a Japanese video tape manufacturer, also joined the bailout campaign by buying 100,000 worth of tickets with a deadline of Feb. 10.

"We're asking that people buy a ticket to Putnamville," said Wehba, naming the ticket after Braniff President Howard Putnam.

Wehba said he has personally purchased $500 worth of tickets "to Putnamville."

Wehba said the almost-daily news stories about Braniff's sagging fortunes prompted him to start the campaign.

"When I came in (Friday) morning, I told my vice president I was depressed about Braniff," he said. "They are a Dallas-based company. We should be like a family. It's not our decision to get with other area companies and see if I could start things rolling."

Wehba said the campaign had the blessing of Braniff.

"They've been the airline of Dallas for years and years, it seems."

Short-term interest rates could fall

Nation's money supply off $3 billion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's basic money supply fell by a larger-than-expected $3 billion in the week ended Feb. 24, reflecting a significant deepening of the recession and sparking hopes for lower short-term interest rates.

"This seems to suggest the Federal Reserve will have room to let short-term interest rates drop," William V. Sullivan, vice president of the First Bank of New York, said. "We could see the prime rate go down to 16 percent in the next week or two."

Sullivan said the decline reflects some genuine weakness in money growth after the surge in the first two weeks of January. "It shows the bulge which occurred at the first of the year was technical and has been reversed," he said.

David H. Jones, economist at Aubrey G. Lanston Co., said the money supply drop "reflects to an important extent the pronounced weakness in economic activity. When spending falls, there's less demand for money balances."

The Fed reported the nation's basic money supply grew as M1 fell to a seasonally adjusted average of $444.8 billion for the latest week from $447.8 billion in the previous 7-day period. For the latest four weeks, M1 averaged $447.1 billion, a 10.6 percent rate of gain from the 13-week-ago level.

M1 consists of cash, checking accounts and interest-bearing Negotiated Order of Withdrawal (NOW) accounts. Much of the increase in the money measures in recent weeks has been in the NOW account component.

Commercial and industrial loans on the books of the nation's large banks fell by $397 million in the week ended Feb. 24, compared with a gain of $900 million in the previous week.

Commercial and industrial loans at major New York City banks fell $186 million in the latest week compared with a drop of $140 million in the previous seven days.

Haig tries to allay fears of another U.S. grain embargo

By RICHARD ORR
Chicago Tribune

Secretary of State Alexander Haig apparently has moved to allay fears of farmers and Congress regarding a grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

In a speech to a recent AFL-CIO meeting in Baltimore, Fla., Haig said a grain embargo, without the support of other nations, would be "self-defeating and sterile." He also said such an embargo would be "unjustifiable punishment to the American farmer without any payoff to the consumer."

The comments drew a letter to Haig from Harold

B. Steele, president of the Illinois Farm Bureau, who said they indicate Haig has a "full grasp of the international grain market."

Haig's comments, Steele wrote, were "received with great enthusiasm here."

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., a member of the House agriculture committee, says a "cloud still hangs over the grain market" as a result of loose talk emanating from the State Department about further economic sanctions against the Soviets.

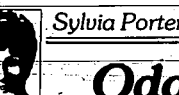

Such talk has had the effect of creating a "de facto grain embargo" that is hurting American farmers, according to Findley.

He said the Reagan administration to give unequal/unfair assurances to grain exporters that all contracts with the Soviets before any embargo is announced will be honored. Thus far, Findley's suggestion has drawn no response.

President Reagan has assured farmers that if an embargo is imposed, it would include all exports to the Soviets and not single out grain, as did the Carter administration's embargo in retaliation for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

One major provision of the 1981 farm bill, signed into law recently by Reagan, gives farmers protection against a selective grain embargo. The bill provides that if the embargoed country buys more than 10 percent of the total value of farm products sold overseas,

Odds against new businesses lasting over 2 years

© Universal Press Syndicate

If you go into business for yourself in this era, the odds are less than 50-50 that you'll survive even two years.

In 1982's climate, hundreds of thousands of new, small businesses will close their doors. Others that have prospered in past years of surging inflation — which bailed them out of their errors — will join them. This will be a dreadful year for bankruptcies of businesses, large and small.

Why?

In an overwhelming number of instances, the reasons for the failure will be the manager's incompetence, inexperience, ineptitude or a combination of all three.

The apparent causes will seem entirely different: A slump in sales because of economic recession, heavy operating expenses eating up revenues, a poor location with no foot traffic, increased competition, excessive fixed costs.

But why did sales slump? Or operating expenses eat up revenues? Or no foot traffic come in the door? Because of the boss's incompetence or inexperience. All the other obvious explanations fit into that minor 10 percent — and that includes neglect, fraud, disaster.

Don't let this discourage you from dreaming or realizing the American dream of going into business for yourself, or being your own boss. No. But it should be a warning. Carefully blueprint your objectives, evaluate your risks, measure the likelihood of failure; tabulate the savings, the amount of your net egg, that you can afford to lose.

Here's a quiz that will tell you if you're heading for success or failure. Answer each question honestly. It's your life.

Have you worked recently in a business like the one you want to start? Have you run the business or closely watched someone else run it?

Does your business evolve from your previous experience?

Are you willing to work long hours with no guarantee of a paycheck? Do you regularly work overtime without any guarantee of extra pay?

Do you know how much money you'll need to get your business started? Can you personally put up a large share?

Do you know how much bank credit you can get initially on your name alone? How much more on the business? How much from your suppliers, the people from whom you'll buy? Do you know where you can borrow money? Have you managed debt before?

Have you an educated estimate of the net yearly income you can expect from this enterprise, comparing your salary and a reasonable return on the money you put into the business? Can you live on less than this amount, so you can use some of the income to help your business grow?

Do you know how good and bad points about going it alone, having a partner or incorporating your business? Have you checked both a lawyer and a banker about this point and other legal plus financial aspects?

Are businesses like the one you're planning doing well in your chosen area and elsewhere? Do other business people in the area think positively about the business you want to start? Does the same apply to potential customers?

Are you capable of delegating authority and responsibility? Can you fire someone? Perhaps a friend who helped you initially but is not working out now? Do you have a real interest in people? Both — prospective employees and customers?

Are you a sensible planner — for promotion, cost measurement, products, services? Do you know all the local zoning and licensing rules covering the type and size of business you want to launch?

Have you answered "yes" to every question? If so, OK, you seem a good risk even in this period. If you have answered with even one "no," back up and think again. For even this one "88" suggests you have a lot more preparing to do just to have a chance to survive, much less to prosper.

BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Bridge among the veterans

partner was bridge teacher Helen Cole. The other half of the team was Mrs. and Mrs. Arnold Kauder. Mary Jane Kauder is now Mary Jane Farrell and is one of the top women players of all time.

Jack was only 85 when he won that national, and he continued to play with pupils until his death at an age well past 80.

Jack usually played with rather poor players and really tried to make sure that he got to play double-trump contracts. Here we see Jack with a 14 point no-trump. Officially, Jack held standard no-trump so North raised his right to game.

"The diamond lead came to his Jack. He led a spade toward dummy. West rose with the king and led the four of hearts to his partner's ace. A heart was returned. Jack took his king, led a spade to his dummy queen, came back to his hand with the king of diamonds and West's home when spades broke 3-3.

Three no-trump bid and made would have been a feat for his Jack. He led a spade home with 11 tricks. East and West each let one club go. Jack's dummy had four spades, one heart and three tricks in each minor suit.

It is only one national, the 1949 mixed team.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

No list of 80-year-old players would be complete without a hand played by the late Jack Kauder. Jack was the first life master on the Pacific Coast.

CSI uses height to crush Chiefs

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — "I played in the NCCAA seven years and never played on a team that big."

Chemetka Coach Rick Adelmal expressed his major concern about playing CSI in the Region 18 Junior College finals earlier Friday. His position was well taken.

The College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles turned to its inside power game to rack up a 94-73 victory over the Chiefs and moved into tonight's final against Mt. Hood, Gresham, Ore. Mt. Hood, feasting off a foul-line parade, stunned 14th-ranked North Idaho 83-70 in the tournament opener.

Mt. Hood and CSI will square off at 8 p.m. today for the right to advance to the national tournament in Hutchinson, Kans., March 16.

North Idaho and Chemetka will play for the consolation prize at 7 p.m. After a couple of anxious opening minutes, CSI cranked up its man defense and Labro Bates ignited the offense to spend past 24-17 Chemetka with surprising ease.

With John Jinnal hitting three straight jumpshots from the high post, the Chiefs burst ahead 8-2 as CSI tried to find its sea legs.

But after Charles Williams and George Scott pulled the Eagles to within two, Bates hit the next three field goals of the game. Chemetka was behind for the night.

"Our defense won the game in the first half. No question," said Coach Dave Campbell. "They showed how they can shoot it in the second half but they had a pretty good lead...."

They just couldn't stop us inside," he continued. "When (Rick) Tunstall started dealing the ball off, that was the turning point of the game. Labro played great and Mike Elliott did a great job coming in from the bench. Overall I thought we had a couple of flat spots in the second half but generally I was pleased with our offense. I thought we kept our intensity up pretty well throughout the game."

Giving away height just about everywhere, Chemetka simply couldn't stay with CSI inside. The Eagles got only 12 points from other than wing or inside players — counting 10 by Gerald Kennedy.

Bates, with 18 at the turn, wound up with 24 points while Scott had 22 and Elliott rang in with 20.

"I was thinking about this game all day," Bates said. "It is our last chance. We didn't go (to nationals) last year and I wanted to do everything I could to get this year. That's why I came in a little more revved up tonight."

"I wasn't thinking about anything except playing," Elliott said. "I just played as hard as I could and I (the ball) just kept coming to me."

The big break in the game came after CSI had a 31-23 lead. Scott hit six straight points before Quinton Reynolds scored for Chemetka. Then Elliott and Scott picked up on free throws. Kennedy alarmed one on a fast break and Bates added two more charities.

By halftime CSI was cruising 48-27 and Chemetka was never closer than 16 in the second half.

Jeff Moeuwisen, held to two points by Bates in the first half, came out gunning from 25 in the second half and — 10 of 12 — shot — Chemetka scoring honors with Reynolds, who did all his damage inside and off the baseline, with 22.

Mt. Hood stuns ranked NIC with 28 of 40 charity tosses

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — For much of the first half it appeared North Idaho was running one cylinder off kilter and was changing it with its superior quickness. Finally, Coach Herb Williams' Cardinals found the groove, they would beat shorter Mt. Hood.

Wrong. Mt. Hood, picking up 28 of 40 free throws, stunned the 14th-ranked Cardinals 83-70 to move into the Region 18 finals against College of Southern Idaho tonight. The final, beginning at 9 p.m., will pitting a Chemetka-North Idaho face off for consolation honors at 7 p.m. Mt. Hood-CSI winner moves on to the national finals in Hutchinson, Kans., March 16.

Three minutes into the second half, after Mt. Hood hit the next three field goals to a 32-20 lead, Mt. Hood found the combination. At the same time, North Idaho's superior player, Charles Meriwether, picked up his fourth foul and went to the bench.

Whether at a resting point or not, from then on it was Mt. Hood. Coach Herb Booth's crew took the lead with 14:28 left on Scott McKie's slam off a steal and 40 seconds later, Rob Olla, the late-gasser hero, added another dunk on a fast break.

North Idaho struggled from two to six behind over the next few minutes, but then left center John Randa's foul in the meeting. Terry Bridges and Mark Donnelly hit field goals and Ollama came up with a crippler on a break and a free throw. Seconds later North Idaho sustained a personal and technical foul, giving Mt. Hood three points and a 55-43 advantage. It was enough.

Dave Ponce hit three straight long jumpers to trim the deficit to six but when Ponce was playing offense, no one was getting back on defense. Mt. Hood converted several one-pass breaks for easy crumples and then hit 10 of 13 free throws over the final three minutes to seal the decision.

"I think the key was we were able to control the tempo, especially in the second half. We played very tentatively early but then settled down," said Coach Booth. Meriwether tried to explain it for the Cardinals, who thus lost their fourth straight decision. "It was an intensity factor," he said. "I thought we were off to a good start...."

Herbert, Kellerman sink key free throws. Vandals edge Weber; will face Reno

MOSCOW (UPI) — Gordis Herbert hit a pair of free throws with 23 to play and teammate Brian Kellerman sank another with two seconds on the clock to give sixth-ranked Idaho a 57-48 win over Weber State in the first round of the Big Sky Conference championship.

In the second game Nevada-Reno needed two overtimes to beat Montana 97-92.

B.B. Fontenot made both ends of a one-and-one to put Reno into a 92-91 lead with 1:38 left before Greg Palm made the final play with 22 seconds for a 95-91 score.

Montana missed a shot with 10 seconds left and Jim Caler fouled Joe DeBraun with eight seconds left and he made both free throws for a 97-91 margin. The Grizzlies then got an uncontested basket from Marc Glass for the 97-93 final.

The game was tied 78-78 at the end

The win advanced the Vandals to tonight's championship final. They will meet the winner of Friday's Montana and Nevada-Reno game. It also pushed the Vandals to a 25-2 season record, their best ever.

Trailing 24-27 at the intermission, Weber State's early rally that erased a 12-point deficit, led all scorers with 21 points. Teammate Royal Edwards added 17.

Three straight baskets by Herbert broke the Vandals' first points of the game but Weber State stayed close until Idaho grabbed eight unanswered points to lead an 18-18 lead with 10:15 to play in the first half.

Trailing 24-27 at the intermission, Weber State got three unanswered baskets in the opening minutes of the second half to narrow the gap to one point at 34-33. Heywood scored eight of the Wildcats first 10 points of the second half.

A jumper by Edwards with 14:22 to play tied the game at 36-36, and the Wildcats grabbed the lead for the first time 47-45 on a basket by Heywood with 9:22 to play.

The Vandals didn't get the lead back until a field goal by Smith put Idaho on top 54-53 with 3:47 remaining in the game.

Two-free-throw-by Harper gave Weber State its last lead, setting up Herbert's go-ahead three-pointers.

Linn-Benton squad defeats CSI women

ALBANY, Ore. — Size and free throws proved too much for College of Southern Idaho women as they dropped a 70-63 decision to Linn-Benton in the Region 18 Women's Basketball Tournament on Friday night.

The result sends Linn-Benton into the finals against Umpqua tonight. Umpqua filled the other half of the bracket by downing North Idaho 69-51 in the consolation game.

CSI and North Idaho will play for the third time this season for the consolation title.

With three players taller than any CSI had, Linn-Benton pounded the ball inside and appeared capable of blowing away in the first half. Linn-Benton took a 33-19 halftime advantage.

But in the second half, CSI's outside shooting eye began returning and under the gunning of Melissa Barter and Tammy Jarolimek, the Golden Eagles steadily moved back into contention.

The Eagles' rally hit its crest with four minutes left to play when the score dwindled to 61-59. CSI's press was largely responsible for the turn-around but along the way, the Eagles picked up a lot of fouls. Linn-Benton stayed ahead with charities and then got the cushion it needed by breaking the press for a couple of crumples.

Jarolimek and Jeanne Morgan paced CSI with 15 points apiece while Barter added 10. Linn-Benton's 60 center, Terri Reniker, tanked 22 points while forwards Linda Quigley and Joel Quisenberry had 15 and 13, respectively.

Linn-Benton won it at the foul line, hitting 16 of 36 attempts while CSI had nine of 15. CSI was whistled for 29 fouls against 17 for the winners.

McEnroe struggles, U.S. takes 2-0 Davis lead

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — John McEnroe struggled to a victory while Eliot Teltscher won easily Friday to give the United States a 2-0 lead over India in the first round of Davis Cup play.

McEnroe needed nearly three hours to defeat Vijay Amritraj 6-4, 9-7, 7-5. Teltscher routed Ramesh Krishnan 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

McEnroe was penalized a point which cost him a game in the third set, but even that failed to bring a customary outburst from his fiery left-hander. The penalty was assessed because of violation of the Davis Cup rule prohibiting a player from talking with anyone except his team captain. McEnroe talked to fans often during the match, telling several to sit down. "The Davis Cup rule is simply that no player can talk to anyone except his captain," said Amritraj, India's player-coach. "He was allowed to get away with talking fans much too long before he was warned."

McEnroe broke Amritraj's service in the first game of the first set and went on to take the set. The second set was tied 1-1 when McEnroe broke Amritraj's service in the 11th game en route to the match victory.

Teltscher, in his first Davis-Cup appearance, turned from his normal baseline game to repeatedly rush the net and free winners past Krishnan. He broke his Indian opponent in the third- and ninth games of the first set and the two tied breaks in the second and fifth games of the second set before Teltscher broke Krishnan again in the sixth game.

McEnroe teams with Peter Fleming in Sweden today against the Argentine brothers Vijay and Adnan. A victory in the double match would move the U.S. into the second round of Davis Cup play against the winner of the Sweden-Switzerland Union match being played this weekend.

In other Davis Cup action: • At Prague, Ivan Lendl overwhelmed Rolf Gehring and Tomas Smid were down UH Pinner to give Czechoslovakia a 2-0 lead over West Germany after the first day of their Davis Cup first round tennis match.

Lendl took only 95 minutes to outclass Gehring 6-1, 6-2, 6-4, while Pinner put more of a fight against Smid, succumbing in just under two hours 6-7, 6-4, 6-1.

At Stockholm, Mats Wilander gave Sweden a 1-0 lead over the Soviet Union in the Davis Cup first round with a convincing 6-7, 6-1, 6-4 rout of Vadim Borisy.

Despite the absence of Bjorn Borg, Sweden is now in excellent position to advance.

Tar Heels whip Tech, Cavs escape Clemson

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Top-ranked North Carolina crushed Georgia Tech in the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament Friday, while the third-ranked Virginia narrowly escaped with a 56-54 win over a well-matched Clemson team.

The Tar Heels, 33-3, take on North Carolina State, a 40-28 first-round winner over Maryland, in Saturday's semifinal. The other semifinal pits the Cavaliers against 18th-ranked Wake Forest, which humiliated Duke 88-53 Friday in the Greensboro Coliseum.

Virginia escaped with its 38th victory in 30 starts when Clemson's Horace Wyatt missed a short jump shot attempted over the outstretched arms of Virginia's 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson. — If the 6-foot-10 Wyatt had connected on the shot with two seconds left, Clemson would have sent the match into overtime.

Virginia coach Terry Holland said all ACC guard Othell Wilson, the Cavaliers' second-leading scorer, may not see action Saturday because of a deep thigh bruise suffered midway through the first half during a collision with Clemson's Mike Eppley.

Clemson, playing a much quicker game than had been expected, rallied from an eight-point deficit with 4:18 to play to just two points back with 1:30 left.

The Cavaliers then held the ball until 33 seconds were left, when Clemson fouled Jimmy Miller. The freshman, a 77 percent free-throw shooter, missed the front end of a 1-and-1 opportunity and Wyatt snared the rebound.

After a Clemson timeout with 20 seconds to play, the Tigers worked the ball in to where Wyatt tried his do-or-die shot. The ball bounced off the hoop and could not be controlled before time ran out.

Sampson led Virginia with 13 points, while Clemson was paced by Vince Hamilton with 21.

SEC-Turpin paces Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Melvin Turpin, a 6-foot-11 sophomore, took over at center for Kentucky this season because Sam Bowie was injured, — was the dominant figure under the boards Friday night while leading the 12th-ranked Wildcats to a 63-58 victory over Ole Miss.

The triumph moved Kentucky into the final of the Southeastern Conference tournament against muscular Alabama which knocked off 20th-ranked Tennessee 56-50.

Turpin, a third-team all-SEC selection who averaged only 13 points per game in Kentucky's well-balanced regular-season offense, was the man the Wildcats kept going. He responded with a 24-point performance, mainly from the inside. Kentucky needed it since Ole Miss, after falling behind by 18 points midway through the second half, closed the gap to just two points with 3:30 to play.

The Wildcats got some breathing room in the closing minutes thanks to Erik Minniefield's free-throw accuracy. — Kentucky, 23-4, seemed in control through the first half, when the Wildcats led by as many as nine points before settling for a 29-23 halftime lead, and in the first eight minutes of the second half when Turpin helped forge a 42-38 advantage.

Alabama, playing without regular center Phillip Lockett who was able to play only a few moments because of a painful swollen ankle, didn't take the lead for keeps until sophomore guard Eric Richardson's 2:30 throw gave the Crimson Tide a 49-48 advantage with 1:24 left on the clock.

After Alabama forged ahead to stay, sophomore guard Michael Brooks kept trying long outside shots in an effort to enable the Vols to catch up — but he mostly missed and, when the Vols then fouled to keep Alabama from simply running out the clock.

SWC: Houston to meet Arkansas

DALLAS (UPI) — The dominant presence of seven-foot Alvin Olatunji and the deadly accuracy of Rob Williams sent Houston soaring past Texas A&M Friday night 89-76 and into the final of the Southwest Conference post-season tournament against Arkansas.

Arkansas, the league's regular-season champion, made it to the title game with an 80-70 conquest of TCU in which Alvin Robertson and Scott Hastings teamed to send the Hogs storming out of the gate to a 19-point halftime advantage.

Houston and Arkansas split their two meetings during the regular season — games that were decided by a total of three points. The Cougars ripped Arkansas in Houston 55-53 and the Razorbacks were winners in Fayetteville, 67-66.

The Aggies, who are expected to earn an invitation to the NIT with their 18-18 record, opened a seven-point lead early in the contest Friday night, but with seven minutes gone in the contest, Houston Coach Guy Lewis inserted Olatunji into the lineup.

The sophomore from Lagos, Nigeria scored only five points during the rest of the half, but he claimed eight rebounds, blocked five shots and ignited the Cougars' fast break.

With 4:18 to go in the first half A&M had lost all its lead and fallen behind by three points. Then, for the next four minutes, Houston outscored the Aggies 14-3 and even twice took the lead. — Houston scored the last four points of the half in a 21-11 rally.

A&M closed its deficit to seven early in the second period, but Houston then embarked on another 14-3 run that put the game out of reach.

Big 8: Sooners upset Kansas St.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Chuck Barnett scored 26 points to send Oklahoma into the Big Eight Tournament with a 68-62 upset victory Friday night over 16th-ranked Kansas State.

Oklahoma will meet No. 5 Missouri, a 58-53 winner in the first game of the double-header over Nebraska.

Bo Overton, David Little and Darryl Allen each chipped in 10 points as Oklahoma ran its winning streak to four games and improved its record to 19-9 — only the seventh time the Sooners have achieved that many wins in their 75-year basketball history.

Oklahoma claimed a 41-31 halftime lead on 15 points by Barnett and an aggressive man-to-man defense that forced Kansas State into 41 percent shooting. — But the Sooners came out in a 1-3-1 zone to start the second half and Kansas State tore it apart, getting six points from Tyrone Adams during a 13-4 spurt over the opening six minutes to evaporate the lead.

The Wildcats eventually tied the game 46-46 on a driving layup by Randy Reed with 12:31 remaining. The game was tied three more times thereafter. — But Kansas State never could take the lead, blowing seven opportunities for five missed shots and two turnovers. Adams missed two of the shots and committed one of the turnovers.

Barnett gave the Sooners the lead for good at 58-56 on a 12-footer from the lane and the Sooners iced it with three free throws in the final minute, including six by Overton, in a win for the ninth time in their last 12 trips against Kansas State.

Adams scored 18 points, Ed Neely 14 and Randy Reed 11 for Kansas State, which saw its four-game winning streak come to an end in falling to 21-7.

4-under 67 thrusts Nicklaus into Bay Hill tie with Stadler

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus shot a 4-under-par 67 to tie Craig Stadler for the lead Friday in the second round of the rain-shortened 1982 PGA Classic.

The tournament, plagued by bad weather from the start, was stopped Friday afternoon when a violent rain and lightning storm drenched the 7,089-yard Bay Hill course.

After the storm cleared, tournament officials surveyed the damage and determined it was too risky to continue. Officials said players who did not finish Friday's round would resume Saturday at the same hole they were playing when the storm hit.

TPA spokesman Tom Place said only the remainder of the second round would be played Saturday and both the third and final rounds would take place Sunday, beginning at 7:30 a.m. PST. He said the cut, normally low 70 and ties, would be changed to low 80 and ties in order to get both rounds in on Sunday.

Half of the 150-man field completed the second round before the storm hit. Scott Hoch and Mick Solt, who tied for the first round lead, were among the players who did not finish the second round.

Nicklaus, who hasn't won a tournament since the PGA championship in August 1960, hit for all of his birdies on the front nine and eagled the par-5 12th hole. He bogeyed the tenth and 14th holes, however, to stay at 4-under-par and tie Stadler with a two-day total of 6-under 138.

Stadler, who had a 5-under 66 Thursday, picked up three birdies and posted only two bogeys for a second-round 71 and a par-71 total of 137.

Mike McCullough was alone at 135 and Johnny Miller, Howard Clark, Woody Blackburn and Bill Britton were two-under 140.

Six golfers, including Fuyou Zoeller and Gil Morgan, playing in his first American tournament of the year, was among five players at even par 142.

Nicklaus said his style of play Friday was "unusual." "It was unusual because I played well, but I was guarding my swing," he said. "I didn't play the last two rounds at Doral very well because I have been having problems with my swing and I've been making some adjustments."

"Right now, I'm semi-searching for something that would get me into the right groove. "All in all, I was tickled pink with my front nine and thought the back was just well, marginal."

Stadler, who captured the second round tied for second with Bob Eastwood, said Friday "was just a so-so day. I didn't get as many shots as I should have, but it was still a pretty solid round."

"What I got to start doing is driving the ball better. My long game is poor and I'm making some good putts. The only thing I have to work on is my driving game."

Daniel, Ohsako up by 2 on Sun City field

SUN CITY WEST, Ariz. (UPI) — Two-time defending LPGA money-winner champion Beth Daniel and Japanese Tamiyo Ohsako tied Friday for a two-stroke lead at the midway point in the $100,000 Sun City Classic.

The tournament is sponsored by American Express and is the 10th in a series of 10 events.

Both shot 4-under-67 to go 7-under for the tournament at 137, two shots ahead of Carol Charbonnier, Penny Puts and Carole Jo-Carlsson.

Charbonnier had a 4-under 68. Puts carded a 2-under 70 and Carlsson a 1-under 71.

Daniel's round was highlighted by a hole-in-one — her first ace in five years on the tour. It came on the 153-yard third hole, her 8-iron shot bouncing onto the green and into the cup.

That ace was the second of the day. Martha Hansen recorded the other while shooting a 70.

Daniel was 3-under after nine holes, starting on the back nine in the field of 108 pros and three amateurs. She picked up another birdie on her 11th hole, then hit the ace.

She said she lost her concentration after that, recording her only bogey of the day two holes later, then coming back for a birdie.

Ohsako also was 3-under after nine, also starting on the back nine. She then eagled her 13th hole of the day and recorded her final birdie on No. 6.

Ohsako scored her eagle from 80 yards out.

In 4-under 140 were Pat Bradley, Barbara Moxness, Lynn Adams, Julie Stanger, Pyne, Barbara Barrow, Ayako Okamoto and Dianne Dalley.

Orlando agent Les Dettliff had the best round of the day with a 68.

The first-round leader, amateur Lauri Merten-Peterson, ballooned to a 5-over 77 for a 36-hole total of 144, but she was among the 72 pros and three amateurs who made the cut.

Perry signs minor-league pact with Mariners

Gaylord Perry, who is just three victories shy of the 300-career mark, Friday signed a minor-league contract with the Seattle Mariners.

The 43-year-old Perry, who has a 297-259 record in 19 major-league seasons, was re-signed by the Mariners in time for Saturday's workout in Tampa, Fla. Perry is hoping to become the 15th pitcher in major-league history to reach the 300-victory level.

"He will be here on a man-to-man basis," said Mariner president Dan O'Brien. "He won't stand in the way of any of our young kids making a club, but based on his background, we feel we will have to give him the benefit of the doubt."

Perry is the only pitcher to have won the Cy Young Award in both leagues and was named "Mr. Baseball" of the all-time strikeout list with 3,336, just 173 behind Walter Johnson.

He also ranks fifth on the all-time list in games started (68) and has pitched 41 seasons with 140 different pitchers who have pitched 3,000 or more innings in career run average (3.99).

A participant in five major-league All-Star games, Perry broke into the big leagues with the San Francisco Giants in 1962. He also pitched with Cleveland, Texas, San Diego, the New York Yankees and Atlanta.

With the Braves last season, Perry was 6 with a 3.83 ERA.

At Clearwater, Fla., an examination by the Philadelphia Phillies' team doctor revealed that the condition of Perry's right shoulder was improving, but left uncertain McGraw's status for opening day.

Dr. Phillip J. Marone said that Rose, who sprained his lower back two weeks ago, will be able to begin exercises to strengthen the injured area in about three or four days.

The doctor said that McGraw, who underwent an operation on his shoulder in 1978, is progressing right on schedule. Marone said, "His X-rays were beautiful." But he didn't know if McGraw would be ready by opening day.

Rod Carew runs while wearing mask to slow allergy troubles.

At Mesa, Ariz., Chicago manager Lee Elli said the Cubs would hold their first controlled intrasquad game Monday, one day before they are scheduled to open the Cactus League season against Oakland.

"It won't be a game per se," Elli said. "We'll have different situations at the start of innings. We might put someone on first and go over when the inning begins and then leave them there, even if there is a double play. — No, rotated pitcher Tom Epler complained of stiffness in his shoulder

Friday morning and will be held out of throwing drills until at least Sunday.

At Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the New York Yankees held their scheduled workout cut short by rain, but before all their pitchers got in the running runner George Steinbrenner had deemed so necessary this spring.

In addition, the Yankees outfielders and infielders were able to complete both of their fielding and relay drills.

The Yankees announced that Ron Guidry, rookie Andy McGaffigan, veteran Rudy May and relief ace Rich

Big racing weekend on at both Soldier, Magic

There is even a racer from Sweden entered. He is Fredrick, a native of Sweden, racing for Sun Valley. Jeff Sanchett is another leading Sun Valley hopeful and Sun Valley girls entered include Ruthie Mathis, Adelle Allender and Jill Claywood, all seasoned racers.

The race is pegged as the Coca Cola Slalom Cup and is the first USA sanctioned event ever held at Soldier Mountain.

Men will race each day at 10 a.m. and women at noon. Each racer will make two runs, though the course each day. First, second and third place awards will be made in men's and women's competition each day.

"At Magic Mountain Sunday some small but mighty starting racers will compete in a special giant slalom event starting at 10 a.m."

Magic Mountain racing coaches, Barb Denny and David Lierman, have scheduled an event for children five-year-old and younger. Guaranteed to be a crowd pleaser with lots of cheering from parents and grandparents, the event has attracted a number of skiers as young as two years old.

"We aren't sure they can walk yet, but as long as they can sit they can enter," Denny said.

The older racers, all still in the junior classification will race following the "baby event."

Invitations for the Magic race, the Claude Jones Memorial, have been sent to Pomerelle and Soldier Mountain. Trophies will be awarded in various age groups and a permanent plaque has been donated by the Claude Jones family in honor of the founder and long time operator of the resort.

If arrangements are approved by the resort operators, the race will be held on Pike Mountain where the entire course can be seen from the parking lot. Skiers will ride the Poma lift to the top of the course.

Lierman said if time permits and enough entries are received, there will be a special race for instructors of local ski schools.

Contrary to what a lot of golfers tell you, spring doesn't appear to be just around the corner. Most ski resorts reported new snow and a back-to-winter climate Thursday.

Pomerelle near Burley reported six inches of new snow and a total of 19 inches in the past 72 hours. The depth is 149 inches on the top of the slopes.

Magic Mountain reported four inches of new snow Thursday with an estimated 81 inches at the top of the mountain. Snow was continuing to fall Thursday at both Magic and Pomerelle while Sun Valley reported an inch of new snow and cloudy skies. No report was received from Soldier Mountain.

Elsewhere in the state, Bogus Basin listed two inches of new snow and 49 inches on the slopes. Grand Targhee is up to 171 inches on the top of the slopes and reported eight inches of new snow and still snowing Thursday.

There's a better idea down in Utah that might catch the imagination of local area fund raising committees.

A recent Celebrity Classic ski race and four-day festival at Park City Ski Resort raised $140,000 — that's right — for the U.S. Ski Team. Needless to say this is the richest benefit event ever held to help finance the U.S. racers. Parts of it were filmed by Ormond Productions for later showings that may even increase the present figure. Sara Furrell won the individual classic race honors and the Vince Van Patten team won team honors.

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Canadian Steve Podborski added his second downhill race in two years Friday but still captured the first World Cup downhill title for a North American country.

Switzerland's Peter Mueller, edged champion Hartl Weirather in the next-to-last downhill race of the season to prevent Weirather from catching Podborski in the downhill standings.

Should Mueller win the final race today at Aspen Mountain, he would be tied with Podborski with 118 points.

But Podborski won the championship because his sixth-best finish this season was better than Mueller's sixth-best finish.

"It's a bitter-sweet win because I like to do well every race and certainly didn't ski well here," said Podborski, 24, of Toronto. He denied the let-up because he seemingly had the championship assured.

Podborski attributed his 14th-place finish in part to the four slides at the top of the 3,170-meter course. Most of the 55 racers in the field stayed in a

"I'm really not the world's best skier, and I should have done better in the turns," he said. "But I just couldn't get it together today."

Mueller, a two-time World Cup downhill champion, was semi-gentlemanly in defeat.

"I'm glad for Steve," Mueller said. "I won two World Cups in my career, and it's all right if he wins it — one time."

Mueller's winning time of 1:47.19 was a mere .11 of a second ahead of

Oakland lawyers pursue trial change

OAKLAND (UPI) — Attorneys for the Oakland Coliseum, home of the football Raiders and baseball A's, said Friday they have not given up the fight for a change of venue in the Raiders' antitrust suit against the NFL.

The Raiders' suit, designed to bring the club to Los Angeles, is scheduled to be heard for a second time in Los Angeles, starting on March 15. The team's first suit resulted in a hung jury.

Earlier this week, the Oakland Coliseum lost its appeal for a change of venue in the 9th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals but has petitioned that court again.

If the latest request is turned down, Coliseum attorney Ed Healey said he will ask the Supreme Court to grant a delay in the start of the second trial long enough to raise an Oakland's change of venue appeal.

Healey contends it is impossible to get a fair trial in Los Angeles.

Petty given ticket for speeding

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Seven-time Grand National champion Richard Petty, apparently in a hurry to return home after a stock car race at Rockingham last weekend, was stopped, was cited for speeding by the State Highway Patrol.

Trooper Jackie R. Carter charged Petty, 44, with going 48 mph in a 35 mph zone in rural Montgomery County.

Carter said Petty was traveling north on a rural road near Candor in a Chevrolet van when he stopped him.

He said unless Petty challenges the ticket in court he will pay a $41 fine and receive three points on his driving record.

If Petty had been clocked at over 70 mph, his license would have been suspended, Carter said. That could have created a serious problem for Petty since NASCAR rules require drivers to have valid licenses in the state where they live.

Formula One driver escapes injury

LE CASTELLER, France (UPI) — French Formula One driver Didier Pironi escaped serious injury Friday when he lost control of a Ferrari 126-C2 during testing at the Paul Ricard track in southern France.

Officials said the Ferrari's accelerator became stuck to the floorboard and Pironi was unable to brake during a practice run at Le Casteller Thursday.

Observers said Pironi went around a curve at 181 miles an hour, lost control and the Ferrari hurtled through track barriers "like a rocket."

Pironi's car sailed over one barrier, tore through three security rails and ripped up concrete pylons before coming to a halt on the security track.

"It was a miracle he wasn't hurt more seriously," observers said after Pironi was treated for minor cuts and bruises on one knee.

The Ferrari was totaled, although the positive destruction of the front of the car "restored the worst of the shock and probably saved Pironi's life."

DeVincent takes Miami bowling lead

MIAMI (UPI) — Storm DeVincent took advantage of a sub-par round by Bob Handley to take a one-pin lead through five rounds Friday of the $10,000 Greater Miami Sunshine Open pro bowling tournament.

DeVincent, 24, a part-time pro from Fort Lauderdale, surged into the lead with games of 289 and 296 at the close of the round while Handley, of Fairway, Kan., lost six of eight matches. After 34 games, with one round remaining before the top five qualify for the finals, DeVincent totals 7,749.

Illness forces Ayala to cancel TV fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Underestimated Tony Ayala has been forced to cancel a nationally televised March 14 bout against Steve Gregory in Atlantic City, N.J., because of illness.

Ayala, ranked third among junior middleweights, came down with bronchitis following a fourth-round knockout of Nat King in San Antonio, Texas, last Friday night that raised his record to 17-0.

OSU baseball player dies from collision

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State baseball player Steve Smith died Friday, three days after suffering a skull fracture in a collision during a chase for a fly ball.

An OSU spokesman, Hal Cowan, said the death was the first sports-related fatality at the school in his memory.

"I've never heard of any around here... but I have no way of verifying that," Cowan said — possibly because Cowan said the freshman outfielder's brain stem had been damaged in the collision. He was hospitalized after colliding with shortstop Steve Smith at practice Tuesday.

Smith suffered a broken nose in the accident.

Decision expected in Westphal case

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arbitrator Arthur Stark took testimony Friday from the new York Knicks and Seattle Sonics in the battle over free agent Dwight Westphal and indicated there would be a decision on the case today.

Seattle requested the arbitration after Westphal signed a $10,000 offer sheet with New York on Feb. 23.

The Sonics are contesting the valuation of Westphal in the playoff clause offered by the Knicks. New York is in that favorable position because the playoff bonus deal makes the package almost unmatchable for Seattle owner Sam Schulman.

The offer sheet guarantees Westphal over $60,000 if the Knicks want to have him play.

The NBA championship, Seattle would have to match the bonus section
