Prices dip first time in 6 years

'Good news indeed'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported Friday that wholesale prices dropped in February for the first time in six years, and the White House hailed the news as evidence "inflation is coming down decisively."

In a surprise development, the Labor Department announced its monthly Producer Price Index declined 0.1 percent — the first dip since February 1976. Such a reverse has occurred only eight times in the past 10 years of the monthly producer price statistics, department analysts said.

The White House, along with a number of economists, hailed the development as "good news indeed." The wholesale inflation rate is generally an advance indicator of inflation levels for consumer goods.

"We find the February results satisfying and a clear indication that inflation is coming down decisively," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes. "We've cut inflation in half."

Some outside experts, however, warned that suppliers with heavy debt could be pushed to the brink by the stiffening pressure from the recession not to raise prices. One warned of a possible "panic situation."

And private economist Michael Evans, who like virtually every other leading forecaster had been expecting a gain from 0.2 to 0.4 percent, said the decline "was a fluke," caused mainly by the month's "rebates on cars and trucks."

Automobiles went down in price by 1.3 percent and light truck prices plummeted 7.9 percent for the month. Although nearly every category figured in the index reflected the continuing price moderation of recent months, most striking were the actual declines in energy prices, particularly gasoline, as well as the auto, truck and machinery price cuts.

And for the first time in seven years the entire wholesale supply-pipeline showed decreases: in addition to the 0.1 percent decline for finished goods, the middle stage of intermediate processing saw a 0.3 percent sag and raw materials were down 0.6 percent.

"The adjustment to falling prices of a society which has placed a lot of emphasis on debt is sort of like a drug addict going cold turkey," said Jerry Janowski, chief economist of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Private economists added, "You could see a panic situation where producers have to throw their goods and services on the market for whatever they will bring and this could lead to a default on loans. We're not there yet, but that's a distinct possibility," he said.

But Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said that along with other recent price reports the February figure shows "quite clearly there is a pervasive slowdown in the rate of inflation."

The percentage figures were adjusted for recurring seasonal trends.

Nicaraguan changes story, State Department red-faced

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department attempt to prove that Nicaragua and Cuba are involved in the guerrilla war in El Salvador backfired Friday when a captured Nicaraguan soldier recanted earlier statements about being trained in Cuba and Ethiopia.

Orlando Jose Tardencillas-Espinosa, 19, captured last year in El Salvador, surprised and embarrassed U.S. officials by telling a group of reporters at the State Department that — contrary to what he said at a news conference in San Salvador — he had not been trained in Cuba and Ethiopia.

Tardencillas said he made the earlier statements because he had been tortured by Salvadoran soldiers and subjected to "psychological coercion."

"When we decided to make him available to the press today, we knew we were taking a chance," State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said later. "Obviously he has either lied to his interviewers and the public since his capture or he lied to the press today."

But Fischer maintained that even with his changed story, Tardencillas made clear that he was "first, a Nicaraguan who fought in El Salvador and, second, a Nicaraguan who, indeed, had commanded guerrilla forces there."

Tardencillas said he was in El Salvador on his own "as a revolutionary" and had seen no other foreigners fighting in the country.

"They have tried through psychological coercion to have me say certain things. They told me they needed to demonstrate the presence of Cubans in El Salvador," he said through a translator.

"They gave me an option. I could either come here and say that or face certain death in El Salvador."

"I am conscious of what is happening and very clear what awaits me," he said. "I know whose hands I'm in. I am a revolutionary and one of the risks is death. I am willing to accept it."

The thin young man, pale from more than a year in prison, was nervous as the interview with the small group of American reporters began. But as he talked about his revolutionary background, he became more at ease and the words spilled out.

"All these earlier statements are false regarding Ethiopia and Cuba," he said. "They made a mistake and I am determined to come here and tell you the truth. They are determined to attack the Nicaraguan revolution."

"Obviously, I have been captured and I've been presented to the press because of purposes of information and propaganda. That is to try to demonstrate the official connection or involvement of the intervention of the government of Nicaragua in El Salvador," he said.

Tardencillas said he was carefully briefed about what to say in Washington but, "They made a mistake."

State Department officials said there were several dry runs with Tardencillas in which he maintained his earlier story about being a Nicaraguan military officer who had received training from Cubans.

Asked what he expects to happen to him now, Tardencillas said, "What do you expect from fascists?" He said he expects to face "a rigged court-martial" in El Salvador "for telling you the truth."

Nicaraguan Ambassador Francisco Fiallos promptly demanded the release of his countryman and said the United States government was responsible for his safety.

"The ambassador called the State Department to tell them this citizen of Nicaragua must be given to the embassy, the ambassador here, immediately," Nicaraguan First Secretary Angela Saballos said.

Mount St. Helens set to blow again?

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Mount St. Helens, which erupted two years ago with a deadly fury that left 50 people dead and ripped 1,300 feet off the volcano's cone, could erupt within the next three weeks, scientists warned Friday.

The U.S. Geological Survey and the University of Washington, Geophysics Department said ground deformation in the crater indicated the activity was most likely to be a dome-building eruption similar to those that occurred in the months following the May 18, 1980, explosion.

But scientists for the two institutions said large numbers of small earthquakes occurring every few days down to six miles below the crater raised the possibility of a more damaging blast that could cause flooding from melted snow.

The federal agency said the "red zone," the 100-square-mile area around the volcano in which only authorized personnel are permitted, would not be widened unless conditions changed.

"The current seismic patterns differ from any observed before 1980-81 eruptions, however, and raise the possibility of more hazardous variations in eruptive behavior," the two agencies said in their "extended outlook advisory."

"If there were to be any pyroclastic flows from either an explosive eruption or a collapse of the steep north face of the dome, the possibility for rapid snow melt could be a concern."

"Pyroclastic flows occur when broken rocks are tumbled incandescent by the volcano's heat and the resulting gases mangle down the mountain's slopes. If they meet snow, the possibility of flooding exists."

"If we do see a sudden or dramatic change in the type of activity we're getting, the red zone will be adjusted accordingly," said John Ewert, a USGS geologist in Vancouver.

Industrial revenue bonding ready for November ballot

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — It now appears to be up to voters whether industrial revenue bonds can be used to finance new business in Idaho.

Both the House and Senate have passed a proposed constitutional amendment — the Senate taking a 33-1 action Friday — to allow the sale of the tax-exempt bonds as a low-interest financing measure to attract new business to Idaho.

"This measure will simply bring us in line to compete with other states," said Senate Majority Leader James Risch, adding that Idaho is the only state that does not allow industrial revenue bonds.

Risch said it will make Idaho appealing to businesses that seek the bonding "as part of their corporate program."

The lone dissenting vote, Sen. David Little, R-Emmett, said businesses like Morrison/Knudsen and Hewlett Packard have been locating in Idaho without industrial revenue bonds and so this type of financing is not needed.

"Idaho is one of the three states least affected by the recession," Little said, quoting statistics. "If our economy is so good without this, why do we need it?"

But Little's arguments made no visible impact, with the senators voting 33-1 on both the constitutional amendment, HCR17, and enabling legislation, H 856.

"The constitutional amendment has very strong restrictions and limitations written into it to avoid future questions of intent by the Legislature," said Sen. Laird-Noh, R-Kimberly.

"It absolutely prohibit any public funds being placed in jeopardy by this type of financing and it explicitly outlines what types of facilities it can be used for — excluding electrical power production and retail." Not

Several senators acknowledged that they remain uncertain about the wisdom of passing industrial revenue bonding.

"Noting that he's repeatedly opposed the legislation in past years, Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, said he'd been convinced to vote in favor of the measure by constituent demand.

"I have to say they've worn me down," said Swenson, referring to Bible scripture. "I'm going to vote for this because I'm afraid they'll be after me until I become weary."

Under the bonding plan, independent boards would be established when a firm sought the financing. Security for the bonded loan would be based on the new facility's assets and purchasers of the bonds would receive tax-exempt earnings.

"If a facility is built, whether private money or with industrial revenue bonds, it won't make any difference how it was financed if it goes out of business," Risch said in response to questions.

Blizzard whipping West

By United Press International
Tornado winds gusting to 130 mph spawned a late-winter blizzard that blasted eastern Wyoming and Colorado Friday, clogging Rocky Mountain passes with 2 feet of snow and crasing all traces of spring.

Heavy rains and melting mountain snows forced evacuations of several dozen families in central Arizona, but the worst of the flooding was over by Friday, officials said.

Thunderstorms over the Washburn River, already nearly 7 1/2 feet above its banks.

Winds were clocked at 123 mph at the Rawhide Power Plant, 20 miles southwest of Cheyenne, Wyo., and they blew across the border into northeast Colorado.

Heavy rains triggered flooding in central Arizona, and in Oak Creek Canyon, both near Flagstaff. Rain and melting snow pushed water over Santa Fe Dam at Williams, flooding some streets and seeping into houses.

Salvadoran officer slain

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas killed a top army officer in a Panamerican highway ambush and intense rebel fire pinned down an army patrol in the eastern San Vicente province, officials said Friday.

The 200-man guerrilla force Thursday ambushed a Pan American highway patrol, 50 miles east of the capital, killed Lt. Col. Mario Azenon Palma, one of the highest ranking officers killed in the three-year civil war.

The commander of an army patrol sweeping rebel positions in San Vicente, 60 miles southeast of the capital, reportedly "a lot" of wounded and called urgently for air support and ammunition.

The Salvadoran Human Rights Commission meanwhile charged the army murdered 300 people and 110 in a massacre alleged to have taken place in late January near San Benito, 45 miles southeast of San Salvador.

The commission said villages provided the name of 59 victims and described another 240 killings. But reporters who visited the area last week said survivors reported only 10 deaths.

Haig to push aid plan

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig meets this weekend with the foreign ministers of Canada, Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia to discuss President Reagan's Caribbean basin aid plan, diplomatic sources said Friday.

Haig will see the foreign ministers in New York on Sunday and Monday to discuss speedy implementation of the plan, presented by Reagan Feb. 24 to the Organization of American States, the sources said.

Reagan mentioned Colombia in his OAS speech as a possible contributor to the plan.

The diplomats said the invitations to the four foreign ministers carried a clear sense of urgency and that the envoys will be asked their opinions of how the Reagan plan can best be executed.

Judge stays execution

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals Friday stayed execution of convicted double-murderer Robert Harris, who was scheduled to die next week in the San Quentin gas chamber.

In an order to the San Diego Superior Court Judge who sentenced Harris to death, the federal appeals court said the execution was stayed immediately and directed that the warden at the prison be notified of the decision.

The Appeals Court said it would expedite the appeal and ordered attorneys for Harris to file briefs by April 16. The State Attorney General's office then has until April 30th to respond to Harris' petition to overturn his death sentence.

Coup crushed in Surinam

PARAMARIBO — Surinam (UPI) — Army commander Desi Bouterse Friday crushed a coup attempt by rightist army officers, capturing one of them, but another escaped from a rebel-held army barracks in the South American nation.

Capt. leader Lt. Surinam Rambocus, a bitter foe of Bouterse's 2-year-old military government, broke out of the surrounded barracks amid a hail of rebel bullets and fled in a car protected by an armed personnel carrier, a top officer told the government television.

Idaho Power to ask PUC for seasonal inverted rates

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Power Co. wants to alter its inverted rate system for residential customers to reduce costs for homeowners with electric water and space heating — but still encourage conservation, a rate analyst for the utility said Friday.

W. David Eberle told the Idaho Public Utilities Commission that Idaho Power is proposing a new seasonal inverted-rate system that is "more compatible with the use patterns of Idaho Power's residential customers" than the schedule previously approved by commissioners.

Eberle's comments came Friday in the final day of a week-long commission hearing on Idaho Power's request for a $7.2 million, 20-percent, overall rate increase.

The utility wants the inverted rate structure changed because it says the system has hit electric space and water heating customers with inflated power bills. The inverted rates are designed to encourage conservation by charging more per-unit as power consumption increases.

Eberle said the utility would just maintain the inverted rate system for residential customers used set different charges for the summer months — May through October — and winter months — November through April.

Under the plan, the average customer heating with electricity at a rate of 200 kilowatt-hours per month would pay 3.418-cents per kilowatt-hour for the first 500 used during the winter and 4.247-cents for the next 1,500.

The utility's proposal is proposed during the winter months to provide an incentive for the electric space heating customers to reduce their normal heating requirements, Eberle said.

PUC officials said the rate structure proposed by Idaho Power would result in a $2.85 monthly bill during the winter and $40.31 during the summer — for Idaho Power customers now paying $33.08 for 1,250 kilowatt-hours of electricity.

Idaho Power has protested the inverted rates established by the PUC in September 1981, challenging the commission's order in the Idaho Supreme Court as discriminating against electric space heating when hydroelectric power was less expensive.

The requested changes in the rate structure come in the midst of the 1982 legislative session, which has seen the House pass a bill that would boost rates for two years, except for Washington Water Power Co. in North Idaho.

Idaho Power Assistant Rates Manager Lawrence Crowley also asked commissioners Friday to include in their rate order boosts in charges leveled for electrical service to the utility's special-contract customers.

The utility is requesting an 11.8 million percent increase in rate charged to its single large contractor, FMC Corp. of Pocatello — in addition to a 32.89 percent hike for Montana Corp., 24.47 percent for ETC Idaho Inc., 29.76 for the J.R. Simplot Co.

When the higher percentage increases are subtracted, the average increase — to residential customers drops to 10 percent or about $30 a month, Crowley said.

He said the larger requested hikes for special contract customers reflected the actual cost of providing them service — and without increases to the businesses, residential hikes would be "unreasonable, discriminatory and preferential."

"The government of the United States is responsible for whatever happens to him," she said, "if anything happens to him we want the United States government to be responsible for the situation."

Fischer agreed that Tardencillas is under U.S. government protection in the United States. But he said, "There has been no decision made to the future."

Tardencillas said he was "criminally tortured" during imprisonment and had an operation for a blood clot in his ear. He showed reporters a scar.

When one U.S. official asked Tardencillas about his military training in Ethiopia, he doggedly stuck to his story that he was a revolutionary, who went to El Salvador on his own, fighting with the FARN, the National Revolutionary Front, and that he had never been in Ethiopia or Cuba.

"I was a member of the Sandinista revolutionary forces (in Nicaragua) and was so until September (1979), when I stopped wearing a uniform. I depend on my own resources."

"I was going back to efforts of production in the national economy where the Somoza government had entirely neglected and destroyed all the underlying possibility.

"At the time of my arrival in El Salvador, I was no longer a member of the Nicaraguan armed forces. I no longer have or retain any contacts with the Sandinista government or of Nicaragua. I am simply one more individual, one worker or student."

When he was captured in early 1981, Tardencillas was "commanding a company of 200 men" in El Salvador's Libertad Province.

He said he crossed the border from Nicaragua because "of the violation of the material and spiritual values of the people of El Salvador" (which) required our aid and I followed my own human convictions and proletarian ideas.

"I felt a need to lend a helping hand to lead a militant effort to the revolutionaries in El Salvador in their effort to eliminate terrorism, under which the people of El Salvador were living."

Now, he said, "I'm a prisoner of war."

Tardencillas said he was being kept "under extreme security" in a hotel about 40 minutes drive from the State Department and he did not know where it was. He said he was guarded by two Salvadoran officers.

Fischer said he did not "know any particular reason" why Tardencillas should fear for his safety. "The fact is that he was protected in the United States with the approval of the Department of State. He is presently in the hands of the government," Fischer said.

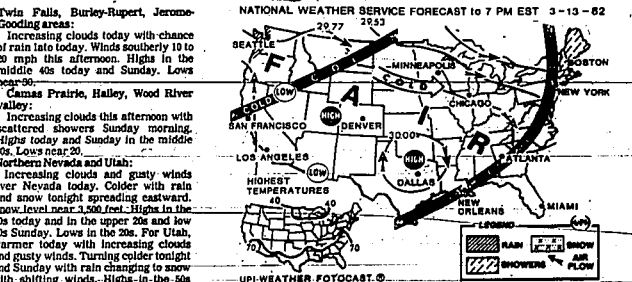

The spokesman told reporters he would "most certainly steer you away" from any speculation that Americans had threatened the Nicaraguan.

Two Idaho press groups balk at signing news search accord

BOISE (UPI) — Law enforcement groups and a newspaper association Friday signed a pact called by Idaho officials to speed news searches and other confrontations between authorities and the media.

Leroy acknowledged the document was a "voluntary" agreement of the state's three major media groups, the Idaho Press Club and the Idaho Broadcasters Association, balked at signing, he proposed evidence-gathering guidelines.

The Idaho Newspaper Association, representing 12 daily and 65 weekly newspapers, was the lone media organization to initial the agreement, which was unveiled at a ceremony in the Statehouse rounda outside Leroy's office.

Others included in the arrangement were the attorney general's office, the Idaho Prosecuting Attorneys Association, the Idaho Peace Officers Association, the Idaho Sheriffs Association, and the Idaho Coroners Association.

The nonbinding six-part agreement, which Leroy said was designed to "insure prompt, effective criminal investigative procedures and to avoid unwarranted intrusion into the privacy and confidentiality of newsmen."

"A prosecutor to deliver to a news agency, one day before any search warrant or subpoena attempt, a written list of materials sought as witnesses."

"A news organization to promptly disclose the items it would turn over and identify items it didn't possess or didn't want to produce for any reason."

"Both sides to pledge a "mutual respect for the demands of conflict of criminal investigations and the needs of free press policy."

"Early in an evidence request case to extend negotiations, before legal steps are taken, for 12 hours if conflict remains after the initial 24-hour period."

"Items requested by prosecutors under the guidelines to be turned over with 'all deliberate speed.'"

The attorney general and representatives of the three media groups and five law-enforcement associations have been negotiating the pact for a year. The talks began after the media groups opposed a bill Leroy introduced in 1981 to address the same issues covered by the guidelines.

Leroy said Friday the guidelines were voluntary and were "not something that has the coercive and chilling effect of law."

Anti-nuke rally draws 500 in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — About 500 placard-carrying demonstrators rallied on the Statehouse steps Friday against construction of a massive nuclear reactor speakers said would fuel the arms race.

The demonstration sponsored by a coalition of religious, political, senior citizens and environmental groups was aimed at convincing the Legislature not to seek siting of the replacement production reactor the federal government is planning at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Idaho Falls.

"What we're against is making Idaho into a bomb factory," said Nathan Lundquist, 80, Boise. Proponents of the large breeder reactor contend it would create 3,500 jobs for Idaho, but demonstrators said the employment would not be worth the contribution the facility would make to the arms race by producing weapons-grade plutonium.

House lowers dredge bond

BOISE (UPI) — The House's vote Friday to reduce from $15,000 to $1,500 the bonding requirement for state dredge-mining permits drew an immediate blast from the Idaho Conservation League.

Under the bill, a mining reclamation plan could cover as little as one acre of the current 10-acre requirement, and therefore the bonding requirement would be reduced.

The House passed the bill 53-16 and sent it to the Senate. Pat Ford, director of the Conservation League, said the change would "seriously weaken Idaho's Dredge Mining Act."

"It drastically reduces present bonding requirements for dredge mining and dramatically increases the threat dredge mining poses to Idaho's streams and fisheries," Ford said.

Ford also objected to the bill because it would remove the bonding requirement for dredge-mining operations of less than one acre.

In other action Friday, the House approved legislation to:

- Increase the powers of the legislative auditor in his office's efforts to account for the handling of budgets and programs by state agencies.
- Amend or reject various policy additions to the State Water Plan as submitted by the Idaho Water Resources Board.
- Appropriate $11.5 million in state general funds to the Idaho Tax Commission and Board of Tax Appeals for fiscal year 1983.

- Increase the powers of hospital boards in acquiring and disposing of property and financial matters and require a county commission to create a county hospital board that has, or plans to have, a county hospital.
- Prohibit a city from levying taxes for fire protection upon annexed property that was in a fire protection district when annexation occurred.
- Make it a crime to threaten a state elected official and classifying the first offense as a misdemeanor and a repeat offense as a felony.
- Allow the state Insurance Department director to permit a takeover offer for a corporation without the requiring the offeror to first register with the state.
- Bar the Legislature from prohibiting corporations from electing directors by cumulative voting.
- Shield local governments and school districts from financial liability for unemployment benefits erroneously paid by the State Employment Department.

Senators Friday passed bills to:

- Require husbands and wives who file a joint federal income tax return to also file a joint state income tax return, even if only one of them is an Idaho resident.
- Set fiscal year 1983 general fund budgets of $638,200 for the Legislative Council, $1.6 million for the state auditor, $680,000 for the state's public television network, and $381,500 for the Finance Department.
- Eliminate a requirement that a court must consent before a juvenile taken into custody can be fingerprinted or photographed.
- Require the delivery of medical records and prescriptions along with a convict when he is turned over to the Corrections Department.
- Outline testimony and evidence admissible in action to establish paternity.
- Set a maximum $5,000 fine and one-year jail term for a person convicted of impersonating a state Corrections Department agent.
- Increase the number of district court judges in the Fourth Judicial District to seven.
- Exempt certain transactions of gold and silver bullion from the state sales tax.

Parties skirmish over re-map suit

BOISE (UPI) — Democrats staged a brief floor fight in the Senate Friday in protest of the manner in which 21 Republican senators went to court this week for a resolution to the legislative reapportionment tangle.

The minority Democrats asked to include in the Senate journal a copy of the complaint filed Thursday in U.S. District Court by Attorney General David Leroy on behalf of the Senate Republicans.

SEN. JOHN PEAVEY lawsuit 'cover-up'

Li. Gov. Phil Batt allowed copies of formal correspondence between the senators and Leroy to be included in the journal, but he denied the rest of the request.

"I don't see the relevance of including the complaint itself," he told Senate Minority Leader Ron Twiggear, D-Boise. "The letters are pertinent — (to) the Senate's formal business; but the complaint is not."

Twiggear made a motion to overrule Batt, a Republican, but it was defeated on a 23-12 party-line vote.

Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, accused the majority Republicans of a "massive cover-up" in their planning of the lawsuit, which seeks a solution from a "three-judge federal" panel to the Legislature's reapportionment impasse.

Twiggear charged that Democrats were shut out of discussions about the lawsuit.

"We might have found some middle ground and could have joined in the lawsuit," he said.

Democrats have accused Leroy of spending state funds to advance a one-party cause with the lawsuit, but Leroy said no extra state funds will be needed to pursue the lawsuit and that Democrats had rebuffed his offers for discussions on legal issues surrounding reapportionment.

Meanwhile, a four-member House subcommittee continued work on a legislative reapportionment bill — a possible replacement for two bills vetoed by Democratic Gov. John Evans.

Senators charged that Democrats were shut out of discussions about the lawsuit.

"We might have found some middle ground and could have joined in the lawsuit," he said.

Steen, Brassey square off

BOISE (UPI) — The two lawmakers refused to discuss it, but an eyewitness said a scuffle broke out between a pair of Republican senators Friday as they argued during a Senate recess.

Sources told UPI that Sen. Vern Steen, R-Boise, and Sen. Wilson Sloan, R-Glenn, exchanged "hot words" Friday afternoon, an altercation ensued and Brassey ended up on the floor.

He was seen minutes later in a men's restroom at the Legislature, bleeding from a facial cut.

"I had hot words and the first thing I knew I saw Mr. Brassey sitting on the floor," said an eyewitness who asked not to be identified.

Steen said he had "no comment" on the incident, and Brassey also declined to discuss it.

Last year, Brassey scuffled with a newspaper reporter after the Legislature adjourned its July special session. A witness said Brassey kicked the reporter, and the two then were seen grappling outside the reporter's Statehouse office.

Water plan changes OK'd

BOISE — A House resolution amending the revised State Water Plan adopted by the Idaho Water Resources Board last year passed the House Friday.

The water board voted to add six policies to the original water plan, but on recommendation of the House Resources and Conservation Committee, two of those policies have been recommended struck from the plan.

The two policies not concurred with by the House covered protection of trout flowing stream for white sturgeon in the Snake and Lost River and provided that the state should establish a hydro-power siting review process.

Legislators support four land use bills

BOISE (UPI) — Four bills to amend Idaho's planning and zoning laws gained approval in the Legislature Friday, including a measure to give local governments the option of conforming to the 1975 Local Planning Act.

House members approved 39-29 and referred to the Senate two sponsored by Rep. Lyman Winchester, R-Kuna, to establish procedures under which a local government could hold a special election to determine whether they entirely should comply with the state land-use planning law.

Winchester said the bill, a version of a proposal which has been before the Legislature several times in the past four years, is needed because people in Idaho's 44 counties should have the power to reject land-use planning.

Rep. Marguerite McLaughlin, D-Orofino, said a voter-initiative process that would be created by the bill to enable the option elections to be scheduled would be very costly — but the House voted 32-33 on her motion to recommit the bill for amendment.

Representatives voted 63-4 in favor of a second bill designed to modify and simplify hearings before local planning and zoning boards, require planning agencies to give more notice on proposed zoning changes and alter the zoning amendment process.

Shuttle site all wet

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The usually dry desert laked where the space shuttle Columbia will end its third orbital mission lay partially covered with water Friday, and officials said the scheduled March 22 launch could be delayed.

Over a half-inch of rain fell on the Mojave Desert landing site earlier in the week, and more was predicted for the weekend.

One of the runway No. 17 was reportedly drying faster than had been anticipated and a spokesman at Edwards Air Force Base said officials were a "bit more optimistic" late Friday than they had been earlier in the day.

The spokesman announced in the morning that the water might cause a delay in the Columbia's takeoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla. — but stressed that the decision is up to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"A NASA headquarters in Washington, a spokesman said, "We're just going to wait and see. I think if there is any possibility it will be wet at launch, we will delay the launch."

Much depends on whether winds blow the water off the landing site or blow more onto it, the spokesman said, adding that no decision will be made until early next week.

But a NASA official at the Kennedy Space Center at the Cape, where launch preparations have been going flawlessly, said "there's almost no chance of a delay in sending Columbia on its way for a seven-day 'shakedown' flight aimed at further testing its potential as a space freighter."

The flight plan calls for a shuttle launch at 10 a.m. EST March 22 and a landing at Edwards, where the first two Columbia missions ended, on March 29.

Saudi teen asks asylum

LAREDO, TEXAS (UPI) — A Saudi Arabian teenager, who has spent four weeks hiding in a restaurant and fears if she returns to her homeland she will be executed for violating Islamic laws, applied for political asylum Friday.

Immigration authorities said it would take about 45 days to process the request by Loria Lammia Hamed Said, 19, who lost her original foreign student status when she left an Oklahoma school and an unwanted husband. Her passport was stolen in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

However, immigration officials Friday approved a temporary permit allowing Miss Said to stay in this country at least until the other request is processed.

"We made the application for asylum out of fear for her life," said Renee Slaley, the owner of the French restaurant where Miss Said has lived for four weeks.

Miss Said said she violated strict Islamic law when she fled her husband and disobeys her mother, a small child. She said she also was involved with a student who she later learned was married.

Von Bulow jury retires

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Jurors in the trial of Claus von Bulow completed their second day of deliberations Friday without reaching a verdict on charges the high society financier twice tried to kill his millionaire wife.

The seven-man, five-woman jury took a break shortly before 5 p.m. for 90 pages of transcript read from testimony of one of the state's most effective witnesses, Maria Schallhammer, the longtime maid of the alleged victim, Martha "Sunny" von Bulow.

Jury foreman Barbara "M. Connett" told Judge Thomas H. Needham jurors wanted to continue their deliberations after an hour dinner break, indicating the panel may be having near a verdict.

But after reading the transcript and before dinner, Needham told members of the media that jurors decided to return to their motel for the evening and resume deliberations at 9:30 a.m. EST Saturday.

The Superior Court jury started deliberating the Danish-born defendant's fate at noon Thursday. By the time they adjourned Friday, the jurors had deliberated a total of nearly 14 hours.

Von Bulow, 55, was on trial on charges of twice injecting his wife — now in a permanent coma — with insulin over the 1979 and 1980 Christmas holidays.

Hyatt settling claims

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — An attorney for insurers involved in the skywalk collapse at the Kansas City Hyatt Regency that killed 114 people told a federal appeals court Friday money is waiting to settle lawsuits stemming from the disaster.

"We're not reluctant dragons," attorney Michael E. Waldeck told a three-judge panel of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. "We were putting our money where our mouths were and settling these cases."

Waldeck and other lawyers argued that U.S. District Judge Scott O. Wright's Jan. 20 order consolidating the cases as a class-action suit unfairly halted the process of settling damage cases out of court.

Lawyers supporting Wright's order told the court that taking all the cases to trial at the same time was the most efficient and fairest way to distribute punitive damages, if any were awarded.

In addition, lawyers in favor of the class-action said nothing was preventing additional compensatory claims from being settled out of court.

Wright has scheduled the class-action trial to begin Aug. 15 in Kansas City.

Two skywalks in the Hyatt's lobby collapsed July 17 at a crowded "tea" dance, killing 114 people and injuring more than 200.

Senate panel to weigh Abscam probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rules Committee — with a glaring vacancy — will meet early next week to consider setting up a full-scale probe of the Justice Department's Abscam operation that stung resigned Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J.

Ironically, the vacant position on the 12-member committee was held by Williams.

An aide said committee chairman Charles Mathias, R-Md., will call a meeting early next week to begin deciding which of two resolutions introduced after Williams' resignation Thursday will be acted upon.

Introduction of both resolutions by assistant Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California came just after Williams resigned Thursday and was the vehicle for the senator to rationalize his decision to quit.

Williams was successful in bringing alleged FBI abuses of power and illegal entrapment to the Senate floor in his doomed defense against bribery charges.

One resolution would give the investigation to the rules panel; the other would have the committee determine whether to keep it itself, pass it to another panel, or set up a select committee along the lines of the historic Watergate committee.

That decision is fraught with political consequences and probably will be made in conjunction with Senate Republican leader Howard Baker, who rose to national attention as vice chairman of the Watergate panel.

Baker and Democratic leader Robert Byrd are members of the Rules Committee.

Rules is a Senate housekeeping committee, determining legislative rules and budgets and handling financial disclosure reports. Before the Ethics Committee was created, it investigated Senate Improprieties. Mathias, a three-term veteran, is well respected for his intellect, gentility and even temper.

Another choice is the Judiciary subcommittee on the Constitution, headed by conservative first-term Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who is eager for the assignment in order to pursue long-standing complaints about the Justice Department's handling of fugitive financier Robert Vesco.

The third possible choice is the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations — headed by William Roth, R-Del. — a panel most noted for probes of organized crime.

Hatch and Roth are known for their penchant, for publicity, and both are up for re-election this year.

Cranston, who was joined in the resolutions by assistant Republican leader Ted Stevens, said earlier that government misconduct in Abscam would prove to be "a real watergate."

He said Thursday the probe should include the FBI's reliance on con man Mel Weinberg, whether Weinberg compromised the FBI; whether abuses were covered up; whether top officials of the Carter administration Justice Department approved allegedly unscrupulous actions; and why there was a gap in crucial FBI tapes of Williams meeting with the FBI agent posing as his thief.

Williams takes to golf course

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harrison Williams, his long congressional career ended by the Abscam scandal, Friday highlighted his first day as an ex-senator with a relaxed round of golf — the burden of the expulsion trial behind him.

But the 62-year-old New Jersey Democrat said "I need a serious court fight: appealing bribery and conspiracy conviction, a three-year prison sentence and a $50,000 fine that resulted from his involvement in the FBI's Abscam sting."

After six days of futile efforts to persuade his 99 peers he did no wrong, Williams resigned Thursday at the brink of a Senate expulsion vote. His resignation became effective when the Senate session ended, at 5:18 p.m. EST.

His salary now reduced from $69,662.50 to a $45,000 pension, his Senate office is caretaker status and his involvement in key legislation ended, Williams spent his first day as an ex-senator in private relaxation.

Economic signals encourage Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Friday the slowing inflation rate and a recent drop in interest rates are signs his program for economic recovery is starting to pay off.

But, while claiming to be an "optimist," Reagan added he was "not overestimating" the problems ahead. "Unfortunately, unemployment will be the last to recover."

"I happen to think we're going to see some signs of improvement," Reagan told reporters on the White House lawn. "I think the fact that interest rates came down a little bit the other day was an encouraging sign, and the fact that inflation continues falling was an encouraging sign."

The president laid the blame for the recession squarely on stubbornly high interest rates, which he termed "a problem that has to be met."

Reagan said a group of corporate executives told him money markets were reluctant to lend money because they fear renewed inflation.

In his meeting with a delegation from the investment Roundtable, Reagan received some friendly criticism, but held steadfast against their suggestion that the deficit could be trimmed by raising taxes. Among the suggestions they made were altering this year's tax cut and raising excise taxes. "We see no reason to change our economic forecasts," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said later. "The president ... looks on any increased taxes as an additional burden on the working man. He does not look with favor on any change in his program of further tax reductions in 1982 and 1983."

Others will be no major compromises in his long-range program," said Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige. "The Business Roundtable did not ask him to change it."

The business executives also came up empty when they urged Reagan to try to break the budget logjam developing between the White House and Congress.

"I think more has to be done by the Congress and the administration collectively to reduce the projected size of these deficits," said Chairman Charles W. Garvin, chairman of the Roundtable.

Liberal Demos want ban on covert actions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alarmed by reports of a CIA-directed covert action plan for Central America, three liberal Democrats Friday announced legislation to ban or severely restrict U.S. military aid and clandestine operations in the troubled region.

"History has taught us that the price of interventionism is painfully high," said Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., and Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a joint statement.

They said they will introduce an amendment to President Reagan's Caribbean Basin Initiative, which would give Congress strict control over covert actions, the sending of troops or more advisers and key aspects of military aid programs for Central America.

The bill will ensure "that no activities shall take place in Central America — either overt or covert — without the particular specific consent of the Congress," Tsongas told reporters.

Reagan's Caribbean aid plan, announced last month, calls for the supplemental appropriation of $10 million in economic and security aid. One-third of that — $333 million — is earmarked for El Salvador.

Earlier Friday, Rep. Jonathan Bingham, D-N.Y., said he plans to introduce similar legislation in the House to prohibit covert operations against the Nicaraguan government without congressional approval.

Legislation to that effect also is being drafted by Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., another strong critic of the administration's Central American policy.

The moves were prompted by reports this week that the United States is helping the opposition to destabilize Nicaragua's Sandinista government, and U.S. President Reagan has authorized a CIA-directed covert action plan against it.

Reagan Thursday refused to answer any questions on the possibility of covert U.S. actions in Central America, but White House Central American director David Gergen told reporters, "It is not the policy of this government to topple other governments."

Tsongas said the new legislation will "express our concern that the United States may be on the verge of a kind of 1950s interventionist policy in Latin America."

Mitterrand, Reagan meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan and French President Francois Mitterrand emerged from "a very unusual friend-to-friend meeting" Friday with agreement on the need to promote democracy in Central America, but with other key issues unresolved.

France's Socialist leader flew in for the day on the supersonic Concorde to try to ease differences over high U.S. interest rates, economic sanctions against the Soviets and the decision to build a pipeline from Siberia to Western Europe.

Both Reagan and Mitterrand described the two hours of White House talks in the Oval Office and over lunch as frank, candid and direct. In diplomatic parlance, this indicates continued differences.

Mitterrand said they discussed a broad range of subjects, including the Western economic and New Atlantic Treaty Organization summit meetings in Europe in early June. The French president will be host to the economic summit in Versailles.

"This is a very unusual friend-to-friend meeting, one for which I'm very grateful," Mitterrand said. "We have had a very productive day."

Although France maintains that the U.S. policy of confrontation in Central America only serves to strengthen Soviet and Cuban influence, Mitterrand said there was a meeting of the minds between us "on the need to bolster democratic governments in the region."

"I believe that President Mitterrand now has a better understanding of United States' policy objectives in that troubled region," Reagan said. "Our discussion — on this subject — was particularly candid and thorough."

"I believe that President Mitterrand shares my concern that failure to promote evolution of democracy in that region will have the most serious consequences," Reagan said.

Mitterrand said he reiterated to Reagan his view that "our first duty is to fight against poverty, the exploitation of human beings and the domination by bloody dictators."

Praising Reagan's Caribbean Basin Initiative, aimed primarily at economic development, as a "step in the right direction," the French president said Western democracies must give "more assistance to the people who are rebelling against their fate."

Republicans meet to plan strategy

EASTON, Md. (UPI) — Republican leaders, increasingly fearful about the declining economy's impact on their fall election prospects, gathered at a Chesapeake Bay resort Friday to debate the budget, El Salvador and New Federalism.

The GOP leaders said their fifth annual Tidewater Conference, which opens today, may be less harmonious than earlier party gatherings.

But they expressed hope the meeting, like others in the past, will produce Republican policy positions they can bring back to Washington.

The 1982 Tidewater conference is particularly tense because its founder and leader is Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, who recently lashed out at President Reagan for undercutting Republican election efforts, particularly by ignoring blacks and women.

Packwood, who said Reagan had a dismayingly weak grasp of issues, later apologized to the president, but said he was not withdrawing his words. Some Republicans have demanded that Packwood resign as chairman of the party's Senate campaign committee, saying his statements — seriously damaged — fund raising efforts for the crucial 1982 elections.

Packwood further antagonized a number of Republicans by setting an agenda of controversial topics at the conference at a time when some party leaders would prefer not to air their differences in public.

In recent years the Tidewater conference has been a forum where party leaders, clad in informal clothes and uncumbered by hovering staff, hold blunt discussions of major issues and election prospects.

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker, four Reagan-Cabinet members, GOP Chairman Richard Richards, 30 House members, governors and state leaders from around the nation were among the 100 Republicans scheduled to attend the conference.

Four items were on the agenda: "Resolved: That the United States maintain all options, including the use of armed forces, in order to protect our interests in Latin America."

"Resolved: That the Republican Party oppose the legislative curtailment of the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States or the inferior federal courts for the purpose of effecting changes in constitutional law."

"Resolved: That Congress during its consideration of the budget take the steps necessary to achieve the goal of a balanced budget by 1985."

"Resolved: That the federal government return to the states the responsibility for the maintenance of the health, education and welfare of its citizens, along with the funding resources necessary to support such programs and responsibilities."

The debate and final wording of the resolutions, however, seldom follow the formal language in which they were originally drafted. A party spokesman, for instance, said the Supreme Court items likely would trigger full-scale debate on abortion, school prayer and the busing of school children to achieve integration.

Justice Department files suit

Ernst & Whinney's tax help challenged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department filed a civil suit Friday against Ernst & Whinney, a major accounting firm, to block it from offering a service that allegedly misclassifies property to make it appear qualified for an investment tax credit.

In a lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in Atlanta, the government said the accounting firm engaged in false, misleading and deceptive conduct in the preparation of federal income tax returns.

The government is asking a federal court to bar the company — one of the nation's "Big Eight" accounting firms — from advertising its special program or encouraging the use of false terminology to describe non-qualifying property on a taxpayer's books.

To date, the government said, the Internal Revenue Service has made adjustments in claims of more than $3 million in E&W's southeastern region alone.

Since 1977, the government charged, E&W has marketed a service known as the Investment Tax Credit Study to assess the environmental impact of the extension and "there are some environmental groups that have some concern," Mellon said. He estimated the project would take about two years to complete.

National is surrounded on three sides by water, and any lengthening of the overlap would mean building up a fill area in the Potomac River.

Mellon was among several Federal Aviation Administration witnesses who testified on the ninth and final day of board hearings into the Jan. 13 crash of an Air Florida jet into the Potomac River. The board's final report on the crash is still several months away.

The Air Florida jet had an unusually long roll down the runway before taking off in a snowstorm, and there is some speculation that had the runway been longer, the crew might have aborted the takeoff. The jet was apparently trying to gain speed but may have been thwarted by an ice-up instrument that gave a faulty reading of engine thrust.

Another jet that landed a few minutes after Flight 90 took off was asked by the airport tower to taxi to the north end of the runway and look for the missing jet. The crew reported seeing tire marks there in the snow.

The company is "engaging in a pattern and practice of misclassifying property, which is clearly unqualified for the investment tax credit, so to appear on a taxpayer's books and records supporting its tax returns as property seemingly qualifying for the investment tax credit," the complaint charges.

The company has more than 100 offices nationwide. Its principal place of business for the southeastern United States is in Atlanta.

The government charged the company used misleading and deceptive terminology intentionally designed to avoid having the property identified on a tax return as a questionable item.

National Airport plans runway extension

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — National Airport, which has the shortest main runway of the nation's 22 largest airports, plans to extend the runway's safety overlap area into the Potomac River, the airport manager testified Friday.

Augustus Mellon, testifying at a National Transportation Safety Board hearing, said some money has been appropriated to extend the north overlap, which now extends only 200 feet beyond the runway, another 550 feet.

But the Federal Aviation Administration, which operates the airport, has to assess the environmental impact of the extension and "there are some environmental groups that have some concern," Mellon said. He estimated the project would take about two years to complete.

National is surrounded on three sides by water, and any lengthening of the overlap would mean building up a fill area in the Potomac River.

Disease control center tracks new flu strain

ATLANTA (UPI) — Influenza researchers at the national Centers for Disease Control on Friday announced tracking a new strain of Asian flu virus that could be capable of causing major outbreaks of respiratory illness.

So far, however, there is no evidence the strain — dubbed A-Shanghai — is responsible for widespread disease, the CDC said.

The strain has not been detected in this country, which is experiencing its latest influenza season in at least five years.

The new virus represents an antigenic "drift" from previous A-type flu viruses, said Dr. Karl Kappus of the CDC's virology division.

"The question is whether the virus will continue to drift and where it stops. Right now, nobody knows," said Kappus.

The antigenic drift of the virus, although slight at the moment, could become more pronounced, making the organism different from its predecessor strains, A-Bangkok and A-Texas, if there is a definite change in the virus, most populations would have little natural immunity to infection by the organism.

Although the makeup of the virus has drifted, Kappus said information about A-Shanghai indicates it at the current flu vaccine will be protective against it as well as recent flu strains, A-Bangkok, A-England (an offshoot of the old A-USSR virus) and B-Singapore.

The CDC's Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices was briefed recently on the advent of the A-Shanghai organism. After being told it apparently had not caused any major influenza outbreaks in Asia or other parts of the world, the committee made a tentative decision to retain the current influenza vaccine formulation.

A pronounced change in a flu virus in 1957 led to a worldwide epidemic of Asian flu. A decade later another shift of the virus brought on an epidemic of A-Hong Kong flu.

The CDC said it had received reports of flu activity in Asia and South America and that some of the viruses resembled the A-Shanghai strain.

What's what

Q. That submarine sandwich is known in New Orleans as a poorboy. Why that name?
A. Dates back to the French "poubote" which now means "tip" but once meant any sort of handout. Little boys called at the back door of a convent there and the nuns gave them sandwiches.

The youngest son is more likely than his older brothers to succeed in life, particularly if he has at least three brothers. Next most likely to succeed at whatever is the oldest son. Then the only son.

"Pa's a pap" is not only an insult, it's a palindrome. This comes to mind because a client asks, What is the longest sentence in English that spells the same way backwards as forwards? Longest, I recall offhand is: "Gatemans name, gargeman soon name tag."

ANGLEWORMS

Q. Is it true you have to have a license to dig for angleworms in a national forest?
A. That you do. A U.S. Worm Gathering License. Did I ever tell you how the professionals get worms? They grunt for them. To worm grant, you sharpen one end of a hickory stake and pound it into the ground. Take a piece of flat iron, such as the leaf from a car spring, and rub it hard across the top of the stake. The noise and vibration brings the worms to the surface for about 25 feet around.

No. U.S. president had more former U.S. presidents looking over his shoulder when he took office than Abraham Lincoln. Still alive at the time of his inauguration were Buchanan, Fillmore, Pierce, Tyler and VanBuren.

Operating on the autobuses of West Germany now is a bus so big that it bends in the middle when it makes sharp turns. It has a restroom, a kitchen and a bar, and carries up to 144 passengers. Some bus.

SUCIDE

Q. What professional people are most likely to kill themselves?
A. Dentists. Their suicide rate is twice that of the general population.

The Junior Committee of the Cleveland Orchestra put out a cookbook called "Bach's Lunch."

Sharks attack about 50 swimmers a year worldwide.

Local governments say they can't offset Federalism cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State and local government officials warned Congress Friday they could not raise local taxes enough to offset President Reagan's proposed 1983 budget cuts and would have to reduce basic services.

"States are largely unable in the current economic climate to increase taxes to the extent necessary to reduce local government budget cuts," Democratic Utah Gov. Scott Matheson, chairman-elect of the National Governors' Association, told the Senate Budget Committee.

State Rep. Curt Kiser, the Republican leader of the Florida House, speaking on behalf of the National Conference of State Legislatures, told the budget committee 31 states raised taxes last year just "to meet our own needs."

Matheson and Vermont Republican Gov. Richard Snelling, chairman of the NGA, noted Reagan proposes to reduce grants to state and local governments by $13 billion to $16 billion in 1983.

"I am certain that $13 billion cannot be cut from grants to people through state and local governments while maintaining any true 'safety net' for those in this country who genuinely deserve help," Matheson said.

Westchester County, N.Y., Executive Alfred DeBello, testifying on behalf of the National Association of Counties, told the committee counties sustained a 15 percent reduction in federal funding last year.

"Last year's cuts forced many counties to reduce employment, cut back on service hours and services," said DeBello, a Democrat.

Wyoming only state to gain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wyoming is the only state in the nation that would receive an increase in federal funds if Congress enacted President Reagan's 1983 budget proposal, a study by the National Governor's Association showed Friday.

Forty-nine of the 50 states show budget reductions, but Wyoming — which benefits substantially from mineral leasing revenues — shows a $5 million increase in federal grants to state and local government, said Utah Gov. Scott Matheson, chairman-elect of the NGA.

Of the eight states with reductions of over 15 percent, six are in the central portion of the country — Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee and New Jersey.

and social health of cities."

"In other budget-related developments, the Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bob Dole, R-Kan., raised the possibility of resurrecting President Jimmy Carter's hospital cost containment plan in an effort to cut Medicare-Medicaid costs.

"The administration, supported by the Congressional Budget Office, proposed reduction of interest rate subsidies expected to total $14 billion next year.

"Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, who allied himself with Reagan in last year's tax-cut battle, strongly criticized the president's New Federalism plan to shift some 43 federal programs to the states along with federal funds.

In a speech in Texas, Hance said Reagan's New Federalism plan could cost Texas as much as $5 billion.

"Well, get ready, state legislators and city mayors and councilmen, because if the president's program is enacted as proposed, you will be making the decisions on how to fund the majority of social programs," Hance said.

Dole, during his panel's second day of hearings on the administration's health spending plans, noted hospital costs have risen 19 percent a year.

"Maybe we made a mistake in not supporting President Carter's mandatory cost containment — maybe we should go back and take a look," Dole said.

Murray Weldebaum, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisors, called attention to a little-known side of the budget problem — the government's credit programs.

Weldebaum, along with Congressional Budget Office director Alice Rivlin, told a House Budget Committee task force, these federal credit activities contribute to high interest rates.

Others oppose policy Poland debt effort 'earnest,' U.S. says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's Congress Friday that Poland is making "an earnest effort" to pay its debts.

But a former Polish official predicted this country will never be able to repay all the money it owes the West.

With Poland making an effort to pay some of its outstanding debts, Agriculture Department official Thomas Hammer said the department has had to pay only $153,000 of the $71-million debt for grain sales that Poland was unable to meet in January.

The department's bank, the Commodity Credit Corp., also has been reimbursed for all but $30,000 of $5.8 million in loans for agricultural imports that Romania recently could not pay, Hammer told the Senate Agriculture Committee.

He and other officials criticized the administration's decision to avoid a declaration of default — saying that requiring Poland and other Soviet Bloc nations to keep repaying loans is more pressure on them. They said no more credit will be extended and noted they still have the option of declaring defaults.

Just as some banks have gotten ready to make claims to the government, they have received money and penalties from Poland, Hammer said.

"Poland is making an earnest effort to make good on these obligations to the West," he said.

But a Polish official told the committee that Poland can never repay the money it owes the West.

Zdzislaw Rurarcz, the former Polish ambassador to Japan who defected after martial law was declared in Poland in December, said Polish officials borrowed a great deal of money from the West in recent years, intending only to pay interest on principal.

If the West does not make Poland default, it will subsidize the nation and no one "should come to the rescue of the military junta," he said.

There is no slight chance that Poland would be in a position to pay those debts," he said.

Exiting civil rights chairman protests regression in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The outgoing chairman of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission Friday accused both Congress and the Justice Department of moving to repeal rights laws.

Testifying before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, Arthur Flemming said he hoped Senate approval of a strong anti-busing measure was not "the last word" on that issue.

He spoke of a number of other congressional efforts in recent years to restrict — by the use of amendments to appropriations bills — the ability of government agencies to enforce civil rights programs.

And he said he was "very discouraged" by the Justice Department's positions on several cases, most recently the highly publicized issue of tax exemptions for private schools that racially discriminate.

President Reagan told Flemming he would be replaced late last year after the chairman publicly criticized administration civil rights policies.

Clarence Pendleton, president of the San Diego chapter of the Urban League, was named to replace him.

Pendleton's confirmation, however, has been delayed as the FBI was reported last week to be conducting a new background check on his handling of a $94,000 league family planning grant from the Health and Human Services Department.

Pollster warns Congress against laxing clean air act

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pollster Louis Harris warned Friday that congressmen who favor relaxing the Clear Air and Clean Water acts are risking defeat this fall.

Harris said his public opinion surveys show President Reagan's two most controversial appointees in environmental enforcement — Interior Secretary James Watt and Administrator Anne Gorsuch of the Environmental Protection Agency — "have created a counter-constituency in this country that is rising day by day."

Speaking to the annual conference of the Environmental Industry Council, Harris predicted the public's concern over Reagan administration efforts to relax pollution laws will be a key "swing" issue for the November congressional elections.

"While the public thinks that some relaxation in other areas ought to be relaxed or even abolished, they will oppose vehemently any measure that might have the effect of reversing some of the environmental gains that have been made in the last 10 years," Harris said.

He stressed that nearly every sector of the public, by overwhelming margins, opposes easing environmental regulations.

That assessment includes percentages of up to 70 to 90 percent of white collar workers, blue-collar workers, rural residents, Westerners, Southerners, Republicans and people describing themselves as conservatives.

Tobacco industry criticizes new warning labels

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lung cancer remains a major medical mystery and cannot be fully explained biologically by cigarette smoking, a tobacco industry researcher told Congress Friday.

"The fact is that the vast majority of smokers — more than 90 percent of even heavy smokers — do not develop lung cancer," Sheldon Sommers, a physician and professor of pathology at Columbia University, told a congressional subcommittee considering new warning labels for cigarette packages.

"Hence, cigarette smoking is neither necessary nor sufficient in the development of human lung cancer, and by the biological definition is not the cause," he said.

Sommers appeared along with tobacco industry representatives as a House health subcommittee considering legislation that would require an alternating series of health warnings with more specific language on cigarette packages and in advertising.

Sommers, the scientific director for the industry-funded Council for Tobacco Research, said findings on lung cancer deaths are "of poor quality and uncertain verification."

It said lung cancer is associated with many causes — including heredity, sex, environment and occupation, and that one massive experiment involving laboratory animals failed to show cigarette smoking can cause the disease.

"Lung cancer, like many other human cancers, remains a major biological mystery," Sommers said.

Epidemiologic studies report a statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer

Marty Richter's grocery store, just south of the Singing Bridge in Twin Falls, has served loyal customers since 1963

Mr. Marty

Personal service to South Park residents keeps market alive

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Marty's Market is the kind of place where you just the door to open if you can tell the butcher how thick to slice your pork chops.

At the little grocery store in South Park, there are no automatic doors, electronic video games or "You too can be a winner" gambits at the checkstand.

Instead, the displays are modest, the aisles crowded, and the promotional come-ons amount to little more than "Best Beef In Town!" emblazoned on an outside wall.

For Marty Richter, the best promotions have been personalized service, a custom meat counter and a convenient location.

"Mr. Marty's store is the original family market in South Park," says June Petersen, who lives in the neighborhood and has traded at Marty's practically since it opened in 1963.

"Mr. Marty goes out of his way to assist you, and he asks about people's health, too. He's been a very good friend of mine."

Richter apparently has befriended many people over the years. Today, his customers of longstanding include a number of persons who came to Twin Falls as migrant workers years ago and needed credit until their first payday.

Richter granted them accounts, and in return, they've given him their loyalty.

"At Marty's, just south of the Singing Bridge, you can shop for a square meal, and then some. Richter stocks the basics, and has an abundant

'Mr. Marty's store is the original family market. (He) goes out of his way to assist you, and he asks about people's health, too. He's been a very good friend.'

— June Petersen neighborhood resident supply of Mexican foods sought largely by South Park's Hispanic residents.

But meats are billed as the store's real specialty.

A meat cutter for 45 years, Richter has piled his trade widely, ranging from supermarket employment to the work at his own store.

He says he taught meat cutting skills to his son, Doug, "as soon as he was tall enough to look over a meat block." Between the father and son and meat cutter Merlin Martin, the butcher counter at Marty's is staffed 12 hours a day.

"There are people who come here just for the meat," says Richter, who is supplied almost entirely by Independent Meat Co., and doesn't pre-package anything.

And while many supermarket butchers will cut meats to order for anyone who cares to ring a buzzer, Ruben Rodriguez says it's not quite the same.

"These people will bend over backwards to see that you get what you want," says Rodriguez, who operates a shoe-repair shop across from Marty's. "I don't think you find that at a big store."

Richter acknowledges that it is personalized service, whether that involves cutting a steak to order or calling a customer by name, that has enabled him to prosper amid the grocery industry's shift to sprawling supermarkets.

"There were quite a few small grocery stores in town when we started," Richter says. "I can't say for sure just why they didn't last. You have to be competitive, of course, no matter how small the store. Without that, you don't have much of a chance."

His son, Doug, says prosperity largely has been a matter of "giving people the old-fashioned town greeting." That's spoken in either English or Spanish at Marty's.

"The fact that Spanish-speaking people can converse readily at Marty's is one more reason for the steady patronage," says Francisco Castillo of the Idaho-Migrant Council. Yet another reason is the easy walking distance between Marty's and many South Park homes.

And many people like the idea that the store is a family operation. Along with the work of Marty and Doug Richter, the store functions with the help of Marty's wife, Kay, who keeps the books, and daughter Diane, a hairdresser who works at the market part-time.

"I suppose there are a lot of things we could have changed over the years," Richter says. "But this is a family business, and we've always liked it the way it is. I guess that's enough to keep me happy."

Box Canyon bill wins key vote in House

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — A contested bill, requiring the state to negotiate future development of scenic Box Canyon near Hagerman, passed the House Friday.

Approval came despite the sponsors admitting it was "special interest legislation."

"I realize this is an unusual piece of legislation, but I also think it's a chance of a lifetime to preserve part of that canyon, which is truly a priceless treasure," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Noy Brackett, R-Twin Falls.

In 1971 the Legislature designated Box Canyon Creek, plus four other Snake River-Aquifer streams, for protected, recreational use.

However, trout farmer Earl Hardy, who owns nearly all the land surrounding the stream, has a prior right to much of the stream's flow for fish propagation.

In 1978, Hardy is asking the Legislature to require the State Land Board to negotiate with him for what essentially amounts to a water-rights swap.

Hardy says he will give the state permanent use of the upper third of the canyon in exchange for the stream's scenic designation being shortened to allow a small hydroelectric project in the middle stretch of Box Canyon.

"Mr. Hardy's water right expires March 1, 1983, unless he develops it," Brackett said. "If we don't pass this bill today, we're forcing him to develop and lose the canyon forever."

Only three Magic Valley representatives opposed the bill: Isaac Antone, R-Rupert; Arthur Isaac, R-Mountain Home; and Dan Kelly, R-Mountain Home. The measure passed on a 42-7 vote.

At least two opposition groups — the Idaho Conservation League and the Idaho League of Women Voters — have curbed their objections pending further investigation.

In an attempt to reach agreement with these two groups, Hardy is taking several members on a tour of Box Canyon today.

"Everyone wants to preserve the canyon," Hardy said. "I'm trying to do it, I don't see how they can possibly vote against this bill. I don't want to ruin the canyon. If I did, I would have (done so) years ago."

The two most hotly debated charges are that HDRS sets dangerous precedents for giving up state-owned streambeds to private landholders, and that it will prompt more single-interest bills.

Dariusz Zabala, Rep. Vard Chaburn, R-Abion, read into the record legislative intent of the bill to avoid a third objection to the bill.

He noted that the legislation would require state agencies, such as the Water Resources, Parks and Recreation and Fish and Game departments, to negotiate an agreement with Hardy. He said the intent of that order, however, does not bind the agencies into any particular decision and they may still exercise autonomy.

"The Constitution forbids exchange of private lands to the state, so this proposed (permanent easement) is the only way to go," Chaburn told the House. "It is unusual, but the state will be well advised to accept it."

Hardy has not developed his water right for 11 years while attempting to negotiate with state agencies and the Bureau of Land Management — first during the 1978-79 project in neighboring Blind Canyon and now for the hydroelectric project.

When asked if he feels bound to compromise with the state if HB786 becomes law, Hardy said, "I would not be here if I didn't feel that way."

But unless an agreement can be negotiated "these people might cause me to do something I don't want to do. I won't be able to simply sit back and let my water right expire."

Hardy said he would develop the canyon, possibly with the five series of trout ponds he's entitled to under his water permit, rather than letting that right expire in a year for lack of use.

Buhl community feasibility study will aid schools

BUHL — The Second Annual International Smorgasbord gets underway today from noon to 8 p.m. at Popplewell Elementary School in Buhl.

A community-wide benefit for the Buhl School District, proceeds from the event will be used to purchase business machines, science equipment, audio-visual aids, and mini-computers to benefit district operations and student instruction.

The event, which has involved literally hundreds of individuals in the community, features foods from Mexico, Europe, Hawaii, China and the United States.

Free babysitting services will be provided.

The cost is $1 for children under 6, $2 for children between the ages of 6 and 11, $4 for adults, or $18 for a family ticket.

Jackpot robber arrested

JACKPOT — Eiko County police arrested a man in connection with the robbery of the PitStop Service Station in Jackpot Friday afternoon.

According to police reports, officers spotted the alleged robber's car in Jackpot soon after the robbery and made the arrest.

No further details were available by press time.

Ex-Gooding assessor to run for Senate

TWIN FALLS — Wes Trouson, the retired Gooding County assessor, has announced he will file for the District 23 legislative seat held by retiring Sen. Kenneth Bradshaw.

Trouson, 65, of Wendell, is the second Republican to announce his candidacy in the May primary for the post Bradshaw, also of Wendell, has held for three terms.

Rick Brailsford, a Gooding County commissioner, announced his intention to seek Bradshaw's post on Tuesday, the same day the veteran senator revealed he would retire at the end of this legislative session.

Trouson, noting his 30 years of budgeting experience as Gooding County assessor from 1952 to 1980, said he has the major issues in the coming legislative session will be the issue of funding and budgets.

"I've been quite aware of the workings of the Legislature and county government. I feel the things I've learned in the last 30 years could help me serve the public as their representative at the state level."

"I feel I understand the tax structure well," he said.

He said Barry Goldwater was the national politician whose views most closely resembled his own. "I consider myself a very conservative spender," he added.

Judy is the paper's bookkeeper and office with no particular ax to grind.

"I don't feel public officials should carry a cross for some issue. I'm going up to the Senate without any specific changes in mind," or problems to address, he said.

"My goal is not to change the world. Government is so massive, we can't change it overnight," Richter says. "I'll be satisfied if things can just be improved."

Like Brailsford, his rival for the GOP nomination, Trouson had nothing but praise for Bradshaw, saying simply, "he was a good senator."

Bradshaw has said he would not endorse any candidate until after the primary elections. In Gooding County, the winner of the Republican primary is generally a strong favorite in the general elections.

Trouson lives with his wife Lucille and two of their children at their home outside Wendell. He is a retired lieutenant colonel in the Army, having served with the Signal Corps units of the Third Army in Europe in WWII.

New Wood River newspaper 'thinks small'

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

BELLEVUE — A new weekly newspaper has joined three others in the Wood River Valley, but editor Chris Millsbaugh believes he can succeed by thinking small.

The Country Times inked its second edition of 3,000 tabloid-sized papers Tuesday. Copies are mailed to residents of Bellevue, Carey, Fairfield, Gannett and Picabo, and also can be found in a few grocery stores in Halley and Ketchum.

Historical features and personality profiles from the five communities will be the Times' staple in news, Millsbaugh says. Burglary reports and political disputes will be buried, he promises.

"My idea of controversy is a second-place tie in a 4-H show," he contends.

Country Times is a family operation at present, with help from a couple of friends.

Millsbaugh's wife, Libby, is listed in the publication box as "social chairman," although she also serves as chief of composition in assembling the weekly product. The couple's 10-month-old daughter, Elizabeth, supervises by cooing when appropriate.

Technical work—such as type and headline setting and printing are farmed out to other newspapers and print shops in southern Idaho.

The arrangement made for a couple of missed headlines and confusing continuations in the first issue, but the paper's readers didn't seem to notice, Millsbaugh says.

"We are trying to cover an area that hasn't been covered by the other papers, and the response has been enormous," he says.

The first issue contained 64 advertisements, two-thirds of them from Bellevue merchants, many of whom said they had never advertised before.

The paper is designed to appeal to the ranchers, builders and tradesmen who live in the southern end of the valley, Millsbaugh says, and he has no plans to even solicit resort or real-estate advertising, which are the staple of his Wood River rivals.

Millsbaugh first moved to the Wood River Valley in 1974 as an entertainer, playing guitar in three-piece combos in Ketchum. He has also written humor pieces for The Times-News and the Mountain Express, a Ketchum-based weekly.

He and Libby teamed-up with two friends, Steve and Judy Wood, to launch The Country Times after the Millsbaughs spent a two-and-a-half year stint in Seattle.

Judy is the paper's bookkeeper and general manager. Steve, who owns a construction business, plans to remain uninvolved, although last week, he purchased the old Bellevue library on Main Street and will lease a portion of it to the newspaper.

The paper has three correspondents, Mark Johnson in Fairfield, Vivian Taylor in Gannett and Ken Meacham in Carey.

Among the standard features for the first four months' issues will be a 16-part history of Caribou County written by Meacham, an English teacher, for his master's degree.

Millsbaugh says he intends to continue mailing the paper free to 1,300 homes in the five rural towns and to publish items that appeal to his small but select audience.

Two years after burglary, woman finds stolen items in store; arrest follows

TWIN FALLS — Two years after she lost an estimated $9,000 worth of furniture to a burglary, Shana Kaye Rogers found her property while shopping at a used furniture store.

As a result, 27-year-old Ruben Jones of Rogerson has been charged with first-degree burglary and was being held Friday at the Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Fifth District Magistrate Court, someone removed items that included a living-room set, a bedroom set and a dining table from a mini-warehouse located on Eastland Drive South. The storage unit where the items were taken was rented by Elster between Nov. 20 and Dec. 23, 1980.

But it wasn't Elster who was shopping at Cain's Furniture and Appliance, 205 Main Ave. N., and discovered her missing furniture was there, according to the court records.

Twin Falls police say they then learned that the defendant allegedly had sold the furniture to the store.

Jones was arraigned in Fifth District Magistrate Court Friday. The public defender's office has been appointed to represent him.

Three-year forgery case yields plea bargain

TWIN FALLS — More than three years after he cashed a forged $300 check, a Jerome man pleaded guilty to forgery in Fifth District Court Friday.

Tommy Lloyd Standlee, 38, will spend the next month in jail as a result of that guilty plea.

Although the guilty plea carries a maximum 14-year prison sentence, Standlee was ordered to serve a 60-day jail sentence. A number of factors entered into Judge Theron Ward's decision, including the fact that Standlee waived any chance of probation by seeking sentencing immediately.

Since it was the defendant's first felony conviction, he would have been eligible for probation following a presentence investigation.

Another factor was an agreement between prosecutors and defense lawyers to recommend a 60-day jail sentence. Since Standlee has spent an estimated 35 days in jail during the past three years while being detained on the charge, he will receive credit for that time and will be required to serve only 25 additional days.

Prosecutors agreed to that arrangement in light of the substantial delay in bringing this case to a trial, which was scheduled to begin next week.

Standlee was charged with cashing the fraudulent check in early November 1978.

But the case against Standlee stalled until late last year when he was arrested on a bench warrant. The delay sparked a defense motion to dismiss the case on the grounds that Standlee's right to a speedy trial had been violated.

Standlee had argued that he had been arrested previously on a bench warrant and that police released him without explaining that he was wanted for the forgery charge.

But prosecutors successfully argued against the motion last week before Judge Ward, saying that Standlee had not taken affirmative steps to determine the status of the case against him.

In other District Court action: Larry Ek, 30, of Twin Falls pleaded guilty to a reduced drug-related felony charge. He now faces serving up to two years in prison. Ek was originally charged with delivery of a controlled substance in connection with the July 6, 1981, sale of marijuana to an undercover state narcotics agent.

Prosecutors alleged that Ek participated in negotiations leading up to the sale. Ek pleaded innocent.

But as part of a plea bargain agreement, prosecutors reduced the charge against Ek to accessory after the fact (to delivery of a controlled substance) in exchange for the guilty plea.

Ward ordered a presentence investigation and continued Ek's release on personal recognizance.

A plea bargain also produced a guilty plea in the case of 23-year-old Juan Edward Jimenez of Twin Falls. Jimenez had pleaded innocent to a charge of first-degree burglary in connection with an alleged burglary of Canyon Motors, 383 Second Ave. S., on Aug. 9, 1981.

Prosecutors agreed to reduce the charge to second-degree burglary in exchange for the guilty plea. Jimenez could serve up to five years in prison for the conviction.

Ward ordered a presentence investigation and continued Jimenez's release on a $300 cash bond.

A 40-year-old Twin Falls man who pleaded guilty to fraudulently obtaining unemployment benefits was placed on a one-year probation in lieu of a suspended prison sentence of up to five years. Richard Martin, 163 Ash St., was charged with failing to disclose his employment with the Twin Falls School District during a 10-week period in 1980 during which he received unemployment compensation payments.

Grady Olsen, 21, of Twin Falls, pleaded guilty to two counts of first-degree burglary in connection with two automobile burglaries committed on Oct. 26, 1981. Each count carries a maximum 15-year prison sentence. Ward ordered a presentence investigation and continued Olsen's release on a $500 bond.

Dana Dade, 19, of Twin Falls, pleaded guilty to grand theft in connection with a series of burglaries committed at Century Auto Store, 307 Oak St. The thefts occurred between Jan. 1 and Feb. 10.

The charge carries a maximum 14-year prison sentence. Ward ordered a presentence investigation and then granted an unopposed defense motion to reduce Dade's bond from $10,000 to $1,000.

Hall of Fame

Lester Sliman: Staying in business 30 years is the hard part

Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series of five stories about the 1981 members of the Shoshone Idaho Livestock Industry Hall of Fame.

GOODING — Lester Sliman, who began his career in the livestock industry in 1930, has no thoughts of retiring.

"I'm still active, I wouldn't know what to do if I retired," he says. In honor of his accomplishments so far, Sliman officially enters the Southern Idaho Livestock Industry Hall of Fame at a banquet in Twin Falls next week.

About 120 ranchers — and other businessmen important to the livestock industry — have been honored with induction into the hall during its more than 20-year history.

Sliman raises about 4,500 sheep, about 500 cattle and the feed for them — on about 600 acres of farmland. He is president of the Shoshone Cattlemen's Association and has served eight years on the

LESTER SLIMAN still going strong district Bureau of Land Management advisory board. "I love this business. It's a free and independent business," Sliman says. "We go to the mountains every week to take groceries to the sheep camps. It's really wonderful."

However, the economics of the livestock industry aren't so exciting. "They're depressing," Sliman says.

For most of Sliman's career, the Idaho sheep business has seen a decline in the number of sheep produced and the number of ranchers in business. Of all those years of decline, he says, 1981 was one of the worst.

"It's going to be a pretty hard business until the economy changes. Hopefully it will change," he says.

That points up what Sliman sees as his greatest accomplishment as a rancher — staying in business. "I went through the hard knocks of life; about like the rest of us around here," he says. "I was one of the great accomplishments," he says.

Burglary charges dropped

TWIN FALLS — A co-defendant's testimony sabotaged a prosecutors' case against a Twin Falls woman charged with burglary.

As a result, prosecutors dropped a burglary charge against 22-year-old Andrea Valencia during a preliminary hearing Friday.

Valencia, 480 Fifth Ave. E., had been charged with first-degree burglary in connection with the theft of stereo equipment from Century Auto Store, 307 Oak St., during the period from Jan. 1 to Feb. 10.

Prosecutors had alleged that the woman was involved in the burglary, in which seven persons were charged last month, because she allowed the stolen equipment to be stored at her home.

But at a preliminary held in Fifth District Magistrate Court, co-defendant Everett Poulgnot of Twin Falls said the woman had been told that the equipment had been obtained legitimately.

After that testimony, prosecutors moved to dismiss the charge against Valencia.

In another preliminary hearing, Judge Michael Redman ordered 22-year-old Thad Moneypenny of Cheyenne, Wyo., to answer to grand theft charges in Fifth District Court.

Moneypenny is charged with two counts of grand theft in connection with the alleged theft of a pickup truck on July 10, 1981.

He left the area and was extradited from New York in January.

Moneypenny is presently serving a 120-day sentence in the county jail for a 1981 grand larceny conviction. That sentence stems from Judge Daniel Meehl's decision to retain jurisdiction in the case for the 120-day period.

After that period expires, depending on what happens with the two grand theft charges, Meehl could order him to serve a five-year prison sentence. That sentence is currently suspended.

Two injured when truck overturns in 65-75 mph wind near Burley

BURLEY — Two men were injured when severe winds overturned their semi-trailer southeast of Burley Thursday evening.

A passenger in the truck, Jose Flood, 44, of Corvallis, Ore., was thrown through the windshield when the 30-foot trailer overturned in the empty trailer, which in turn upset the tractor. Cassia County sheriff's officials reported.

Flood was taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital with a fractured back and shoulder injuries, according to the sheriff's report. He was later transferred to St. Anthony's Hospital in Pocatello.

The driver of the vehicle, Elwood Corrington, 21, of Dallas, Texas, was treated and released for shoulder injuries, said the sheriff's officials.

The truck was headed west on Interstate Highway 84 when the accident occurred about 7 p.m. One lane of traffic was blocked for more than 30 minutes, while the wreckage was cleared.

Sheriff officials report $2,500 in damages.

Telephone system for deaf ready

BOISE — A telephone system for the deaf has been installed by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare in its central Boise office.

The system, known as a TTY or TDD, for Teletypewriter or Telecommunication Device for the Deaf, can be reached by dialing 334-4075 in Boise, weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Collect calls to the number will be accepted from deaf persons in Idaho communities outside the Boise area, according to Judy Aiken, assistant affirmative action officer for the department.

To activate the device, which is located on the ninth floor of the State Office Tower, a deaf person must have a TTY/TDD machine at his end of the line.

Messages are displayed on a small screen. The department's device also is able to print out the messages on paper for a permanent record. Callers are informed, as required by law when the printer is used. They may request that the call not be recorded.

Aiken said that personnel at the 334-4075 number have been specially trained in communicating with the deaf and in dealing with some of the language barriers deaf persons may experience.

Guevara supporters killed

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Gunmen killed two supporters of presidential-to-be Gen. Anibal Guevara and nine bombs exploded across Guatemala City, including one outside Guevara's election headquarters, authorities said Friday.

The nine small bombs caused no deaths, injuries or damage when they were detonated before midnight Thursday, police said.

Police said they believed the bombs were set in cages over the results of Sunday's presidential election.

The three losing candidates, all rightists like the government-supported Guevara, have denounced the election as a fraud and called for new voting.

A leading Guevara supporter, Mrs. Juana L. Francisca Perez, 64, was shot and killed on a street in southern Guatemala Thursday, police said.

Unidentified gunmen pulled up in a car and cut down the woman with a barrage of automatic gunfire as she walked along the street, police said.

Authorities also said Mayor Julio Cesar Morales of Cobanango in Suchitepequez province near the southern lowland coast was shot and killed Thursday and found on a ranch outside the town.

Morales, 52, was thought to have been kidnapped at gunpoint earlier in the day, authorities said.

He was a member of the ruling Revolutionary Party, part of the coalition that nominated Guevara. Police said they had no suspects.

The Guatemala City newspaper Prensa Libre, the nation's largest, reported Friday that 26 more persons, all believed to be Indians, have been killed in political violence since Sunday's election.

The newspaper — which quoted local officials Thursday as saying 200 Indians were beheaded in four western highland villages on the eve of the election — said about 12 bodies, all with gunshot wounds, were found in San Cristobal Verapaz, about 90 miles north of the capital.

All 26 victims had Mayan Indian names, the newspaper reported.

The government Thursday called accounts of the massacre of 200 Indians overblown, saying only five had been killed.

There was no word on the fate of the kidnapped director of Prensa Libre, Alvaro Contreras Vales. Leftist guerrillas abducted Vales, 61, on March 5 and threatened to kill him if 14 newspapers did not print guerrilla advertisements calling for a boycott of the elections.

Surinam fighting continues

PARAMARIBO, Surinam (UPI) — Government troops Friday put to flight a rebel leader trying to oust the leftist military regime of Surinam, they former Dutch colony on the northeast South American coast.

Under fire from loyalist troops, rebel leader Lt. Surendre Rambocus and two soldiers, "firing wildly" from a yellow car, sped out of a captured army barracks on the outskirts of Paramaribo and headed west toward the Amazon jungle, the government radio said.

Several children were injured in the exchange of gunfire, the radio said. The rebels, who took over the barracks Thursday and forced Surinamese leader Lt. Comm. Desj Bouterse and his supporters to seek refuge in a 17th-century fort, had been under artillery and machine-gun attack by loyalist forces throughout the day.

Earlier, Bouterse broadcast a radio message saying a complete rebel surrender was "just a question of hours." He urged his nation of 500,000 to "resist the wild actions of these adventurers."

Sgt. Maj. Wilfred Hawker, a rebel leader wounded and captured Thursday, was filmed by the national television urging his men to surrender to Bouterse, "our only leader."

Khadafy still irked by oil embargo

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy, still enraged by President Reagan's ban on Libyan oil imports, has compared U.S. policies to those of Hitler's and warned that "anyone who turns against Libya is bound to lose."

Khadafy, at a dinner banquet Thursday night, also said he would not hesitate to turn to the Soviet Union if Libya were attacked.

Khadafy and Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky met Friday for an unscheduled third round of talks centering on trade issues and Libya's desire to sell more oil to Austria.

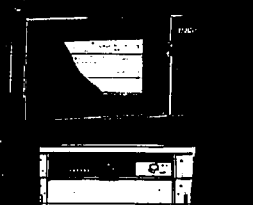

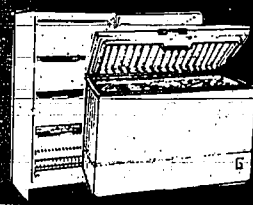

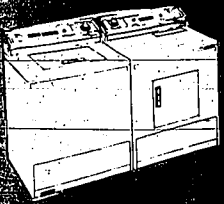

Libya offered to increase the volume of its Austrian imports provided Austria accepts oil as payment instead of hard currency. The Austrians said they were interested but only if the price of Libyan oil is "in line with world market prices."

Libya currently charges $3.50 per barrel for its oil — 22.50 more than the benchmark price of $34 set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Hulsey brothers power Jerome past Weiser

POCATELLO — Brothers Kevin and Gary Hulsey combined for 41 points to lead Jerome to a 63-53 win over Weiser Friday afternoon in consolation play of the Idaho State A-3 Boys Basketball Tournament.

The victory sends the Tigers to today's 1 p.m. consolation championship game against St. Maries at Idaho State's Reed Gymnasium. St. Maries defeated Payette 51-49 in Friday night's other consolation game to advance in the lower bracket.

Kevin netted 21 points while Gary added 20 as the duo more than offset the 22-point performance of Weiser's 5-11 leaper, Vinny Derig. Gary hit eight of 14 field goal attempts and Kevin made 10 of 13 as Jerome enjoyed a 51-percent shooting performance.

Jerome, now 20-6, led most of the game and overcame some scoring lapses to eliminate the Wolverines, now 21-3, from the tourney.

Trailing 11-10 at the end of the first quarter, guard Rusty Palmer and Gary Hulsey hit back-to-back short-range jumpers for a 14-13 Jerome lead and the Tigers never trailed again.

With Weiser caught in a rash of turnovers and missed shots, Zane Ostler and Palmer hit 16-footers and finished on Gary-Hulsey's three and Jerome's lead was 20-13 midway through the second quarter.

Weiser, a loser to Rigby in its tourney opener, regrouped and used near-perfect foul shooting to close Jerome's cushion to 24-22 at the half.

"We stood around too much offensively in the first half," Jerome Coach Ken Wright said. "We got into playing the game from the start in their time and so we started tight in the second half."

The offensive switch proved beneficial early in the second half as Kevin Hulsey hit a flatter and Gary added a three-point play seconds later and followed with another inside jumper. The Tigers were up 31-22.

Weiser, paced by Derig and Gary Jensen, decided it didn't want Jerome blowing the game open just yet. The duo, with some help from 6-2 forward John Sauer, trimmed Jerome's lead to just 35-34 late in the quarter.

Kevin Hulsey cooled Weiser's charge with back-to-back baskets to give Jerome a 39-35 lead with a quarter to go.

Jensen's 17-footer brought Weiser within a basket to start the final eight minutes, but Gary Hulsey hit a follow shot and Palmer hit both ends of a one-and-one for a 43-37 Jerome margin.

Gary added another pair of free throws and then displayed his inside power for his second three-pointer. Jerome had its biggest lead of the game at 48-37.

Weiser then switched its token man-to-man press into a 1-3-1 trap and Jerome experienced problems.

"We knew they were going to do that and we outlined how to beat in during a time out just before they started it," Wright said. "But we couldn't get it broken and they rattled us for a few baskets off it."

Lynn Guyer, a 6-4 senior, Sauer and Jensen did the scoring as Jerome's lead dropped to 48-43.

The Tigers broke the Wolverines' streak as Gary Hulsey hit another rebound basket. Jerome carried a five-point lead down to the final minute.

The Tigers then used consecutive length-of-the-court passes to end Weiser's bid. Kevin Hulsey cashed in on the first with a layup and Palmer converted the second for a 60-51 Jerome edge with just 25 seconds to play.

Jerome hit nine of 12 free throw

Vikings' late rally ends Bruins' year

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

MERIDIAN — A pair of three-point plays in the final three minutes carried Coeur d'Alene past Twin Falls 64-58 in the Idaho State A-1 Boys Basketball Tournament consolation semifinals Friday night.

Dick Ferrell accomplished both three-pointers just 20 seconds apart. The Vikings, who entered the tournament at 17-3, scored 13 points to break away from a tight but not particularly well-played game.

Both of Ferrell's buckets came after glaring Twin Falls mistakes in the final quarter after Twin Falls missed a fast-break cripple — only one of a couple dozen close inside shots they missed during the game. Seconds later Ferrell intercepted a pass and faced the length of the court for a slam dunk that sent the Vikings ahead to stay.

Twin Falls could point to a lot of reasons for the defeat, the most obvious being a 14-for-30 performance from the offense.

"The big chance to blow it open in the second quarter when they penetrated the Vikings' zone for a succession of little jump and turn shots. Most of them rolled off."

"Free throws and layups told the story in this one," Coach John Astorquia said. "We rebounded well — a lot better than last night — and got the ball inside real well against their zone, we just couldn't score."

The Bruins had several chances on fast-breaks with three-on-two and three-on-two situations, but failed on several to even get a shot.

"We took the ball clear to the dotted line (inside the foul line) instead of coming to a jump stop higher and passing the ball off," Astorquia said.

"Early in the game we looked like we were just going through the motions, but later I thought we did a lot of good things, except when it came time to shoot."

After some early ties, Twin Falls took the lead at 14-13 late in the first quarter on a jumpshot by Joe Shelby. Sophomore Andy Toolson closed the quarter with a field goal and Greg Snow opened the second with four. At that stage Twin Falls appeared capable of blowing it wide open. Two things happened in the next minute, however. Twin Falls missed two crumples and Viking Coach-Dear Lundblad inserted his sophomore son, Kurt. The young Lundblad introduced his own change scoring into the game. He hit six points over the final three minutes but fished a 28-28 half time tie.

Lundblad, who hit 11 of 12 from a minimum of 20 feet gave Coeur d'Alene its first lead midway through the second half. The Vikings stayed ahead until three minutes had elapsed in the fourth period when Mark Mumm returned Twin Falls to a 48-47 advantage. At that point it appeared a sophomore might have developed as Toolson began carrying the Bruins. He rattled off six points to give Twin Falls its 54-51 lead that set the stage for Coeur d'Alene's closing rush.

Twin Falls closes the season with a 16-7 mark.

Highland ace nets 43 points

Holston sinks Minico

BOISE — Don Holston exploded for a brilliant 43-point display to lead the Highland Rams to an 85-51 victory over Minico Friday night.

The decision ousted the Spartans from play in the Idaho State A-1 Boys Basketball Tournament while advancing Highland to the consolation final against Coeur d'Alene at 1 p.m. today.

Holston didn't get a lot of indication that his big scoring night was coming as he managed just 11 points in the first half — just about his average. In fact at that point, Highland was fighting for its life, leading Minico 22-27.

Of those 11 points, seven came from the free throw line but in the third quarter the 6-4 senior and Highland could do nothing wrong. The Rams shoved Minico out of contention with 28 points in the quarter while the Spartans could manage just 10.

Holston had 13 of Highland's points, hitting seven of seven from the line.

It got no better for Minico in the fourth quarter as Highland scored 27 more and Holston had 15 of those, all but one from the line.

It was just awesome," Minico Coach Craig Deid said. "We played them the same in the third quarter as we did in the first and second. I don't know what happened, it was just one of those things."

Dexter said he saw no sign of a letdown in the halftime dressing room session, noting, "It was a great first half. I thought we played well and came back well from that loss last night. But we just couldn't keep it going."

The Spartans stayed in the game the first half on the shooting of Mike Shockey who wound up with 20 points, but the Spartans could not contain Highland on the backboards and the Rams got the tempo going in their favor.

Assisting Holston was Marquis Montgomery who ended the night with 18 points, collecting 14 of those in the second half.

Minico concluded the season with a 16-9 record.

Bulldogs die in two overtimes

Parma outlasts Kimberly, 63-62

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Surviving what seemed like a cornucopia of turnovers, ties and tension, the Parma Panthers defeated the Kimberly Bulldogs 63-62 in two overtimes Friday night.

The decision dropped the Bulldogs' record to 21-3 and ended their season. Parma, 18-10, meets Fruitland today at 1 p.m. for the consolation title.

Parma's Jeff Skogsberg, who collected 20 points and 17 rebounds, scored what proved to be the winning basket. With 36 seconds left in the second overtime, the 6-4 junior grabbed a teammate's missed shot and followed it in for a 63-61 Panther lead.

Kimberly's Rocky Eller drew a foul from George Jurries while shooting with 23 seconds left. Eller sank his first free throw, but his second shot popped in and

A tie-up for the rebound ensued, causing a jump ball. Kimberly got the tip, but Skogsberg, with six seconds remaining, sending the curly-haired Panther to the line for a one-and-one. Skogsberg missed his first shot but got the long rebound and drew another foul with three seconds to go. He missed that shot, too, but Earl Molyneux's last-second desperation heave for Kimberly was just that.

Recalling the events leading to the headless conclusion, Kimberly Coach Rich Thompson pointed to the final moments of the fourth quarter. With 20 seconds remaining and the score tied at 51, Skogsberg intercepted a Kimberly pass but immediately lost the ball. Holcomb picked it up and fed Easley, who scored with 16 seconds left to put the Bulldogs on top by two.

"I thought we should have had it won there," Thompson said.

Instead, the ubiquitous Skogsberg plucked it up and fed Easley, who scored with 16 seconds left, forcing the first extra session.

Kansas State wins opener

By United Press International

Kansas State showed it is no stranger to the NCAA Tournament Friday night.

Los Craft helped 16th-ranked Kansas State get off to a quick start and the Wildcats, making their 16th trip to the tourney, fought off a Northern Illinois rally midway through the second half to win the game.

Kansas State used a full-court press and a sagging zone defense to take advantage of Northern Illinois' early nervousness to jump to a 24-15 advantage en route to a 31-25 halftime lead.

Craft, who averaged nine points a game during Kansas State's 21-6 regular season, scored 13 of his 21 points in the opening period.

The Wildcats led by nine at 43-34 with 10 minutes to play in the first half when the Huskies ran off six straight — four of them coming on long-range bombs by Leonard Hayes — to get within three.

But Randy Reed slammed home a dunk shot to stop the Huskies' Illinois streak and the Wildcats outscored the Huskies over the next three minutes, 9-2.

Hagerman meets Mackay for final four spot; Wolves bow

By TOM MCEACHIN

TWIN FALLS — The Hagerman Pirates will square off with Mackay tonight in the A-4 regional finals after defeating North Gem Friday night, 29-26.

A berth in the final four of the Idaho State A-4 Boys Basketball Tournament awaits the winners.

Mackay beat Castelford 57-41 in the nightcap to advance to the regional finals at Twin Falls High.

Hagerman 29, North Gem 26
Mark Jones hit three free throws in the last 15 seconds to lift Hagerman. Jones sank both ends of a one-and-one to give the Pirates a 27-24 lead with 15 seconds left.

North Gem's Clint Straatman scored with seven seconds to bring the Cowboys to within a point.

But North Gem attempted to call a time out when it was all out, giving Hagerman a technical foul shot. Jones hit from the line and Rick Claxton added a charity toss with two seconds left for the final score.

Both teams started out slow, with Hagerman's Brett Arriga scoring the only points for the first 1:12 of the game — a pair of 17-foot jumpers.
"We were nervous at the beginning, but we got it out of our system," Pirate Coach Skip Pauls said.
Hagerman was cold on offense, but held on to a 6-5 lead first quarter lead with the aid of a gutsy defense led by a scrappy Jones and strong rebounding.

"We rebounded well for it being so physical," Pauls said. "But the shots didn't fall like they had been."

Hagerman pulled out to a 14-10 halftime lead and came on strong in the third quarter to moved the gap to 20-12 on a basket by Brian Clifford with 6:32 left in the period. North Gem then slowed the pace and Straatman hit a couple of field goals, trimming Hagerman's lead to 23-17 at the end of the third quarter.

The Cowboys came on strong to start the fourth quarter, with Mike Ackerman hitting six straight points to start the period.

Ackerman's spree tied the score at 23 with 4:51 left in the game, but North Gem never was able to take the lead.

"They don't quit," Pauls said of his players.

While Jones was hot from the free throw line for Hagerman, North Gem showed on three consecutive one-and-one situations in the last 3:21.

Mackay 57, Castelford 41
Kelly Coburn scored eight points in the second quarter to help Mackay pull away to a 16-point victory.

Mackay came out on top in a fast-paced first quarter with a 15-10 lead.

In the second period, Coburn followed a Randy Nelson jump shot with a fast-break layup and added a jump shot 30 seconds later to build up a 21-12 lead.

Leroy Reay added six points in the quarter and Mackay's full-court press handed Castelford as the Minets enjoyed a 33-19 halftime lead.

Castelford ran with Mackay most of the game, but were extremely cold from both the floor and the free throw line, hitting only 5 of 15 from the stripe.

Castelford never came closer than 14 points in the second half as Mackay continued to roll.

Mackay's Randy Nelson was the game's high scorer with 21 points. Chris Tverly had 10 and Dave Enkusa added eight.

NORTH GEM 29, HAGERMAN 26

Carey, Richfield eliminated

By MARCUS PRATER
Times-News writer

GOODING — When in doubt, use the big man as Greenleaf Friends Academy did, or the little man in Cascade.

The Grizzlies of Greenleaf used all of 6-7 Mike Vermeer for their 67-45 thrashing of Richfield and Cascade had a 5-9 littleman in Tim Hamilton for its 73-67 triumph over Carey in the Idaho State A-4 Basketball Tournament Friday night.

Cascade and Greenleaf will battle it out for the regional championship tonight at 8:30 p.m. While Carey meets Richfield for consolation at 7. Despite tonight's outcome both Cascade and Greenleaf will advance to the state finals tournament in Boise March 19.

Friends 67, Richfield 45
Greenleaf's Vermeer scored 22 points and the stocky senior scored all but over the shorter Tigers.

Richfield's 6-1 Dan Sirton had a useless battle with Vermeer all night. After Sirton gave Richfield a 20 edge on the opening tipoff, it was all down for the Tigers. Grizzlies rattled off 14 unanswered points and led at the end of the first quarter 17-6. Vermeer hit on eight of the 17 for Greenleaf's early lead.

The second quarter was different in Greenleaf's strategy, but the result was the same. The Grizzlies used outside shooting instead of going inside, and despite seven Katen Robbins' seven points for Richfield, they led 30-19 at the intermission.

"I don't feel we ran the offense as well as we should have," Greenleaf Coach John Ehrlich said. "It was a physical contest and overall we didn't do badly."
"Our game plan was to keep the tempo fast (accomplished), get the ball inside (accomplished), and run the game with a team concept (accomplished)," Ehrlich said.

Cascade 73, Carey 47
Cascade had a little tougher time with the Carey Panthers. Carey stayed close in the first quarter, but Cascade's Hamilton was just getting warmed up. The junior, by night's end, popped for 35 points and would have had a chance at Bud Abbott's 12-year-old A-4 state tournament one-man scoring record of 33 points had he not fouled out with three minutes remaining.

The Panthers trailed 18-15 going into the second quarter, but took control for the next five minutes. Carey opened the quarter by outscoring the Wings 13-4 over a four-minute span. However, Carey started missing the usually reliable outside attempts and Cascade battled back to 37-37 tie. Cascade's Lewis Miller two free throws with 16 seconds left in the quarter gave the Wings Falls a 39-37 edge.

The Panthers opened the third quarter colder from the field than before and Cascade outscored them 21-12 in the third.

Hamilton's 11 third quarter points, with the majority coming off the fast break, was just what Cascade Coach Carey Cadie had hoped to do.

"We put on fast break speed in the third, and we were able to run the break effectively," he said. "Our game plan and number one priority was to maintain and control the tempo and we stuck to the plan."

a basket by Jeff Watkins and two free throws by Juries offset buckets by Kimberly's Eric Wannan and Holcomb, leaving the teams tied at 57 entering the second overtime.

Kimberly had the last shot, but Eller's 20-footer caromed short off the front rim.

Basket-trading continued in the second overtime until Skogsberg's final tally.

Skogsberg was only one of four Panthers to enjoy a productive evening on the boards. Watkins (10), Todd Gooding (nine) and Juries (eight) all contributed to Parma's 5-4 rebounding edge.

"The boards had to be a key for us," Parma Coach Larry Haddock said. "I can't remember them (Kimberly) getting more than one shot in the late going."

After battling through nine first-half ties and a plethora of turnovers — Parma finished with 28 giveaways, the Bulldogs with 24 — Kimberly outdistanced the Panthers by scoring the last eight points of the first half to take a 33-25 lead at intermission.

Eller, who scored 10 points in the second period, converted both ends of a one-and-one with 1:33 left to begin the rally, which continued when Holcomb hit a whirling left-handed shot with 1:16 to go. Tim Astew and Jeff Livingston each sank two free throws at :38 and :06, respectively, setting the halftime margin.

Sticking to the maxim "One good turnover deserves another," the teams opened the second half in ragged fashion. With 5:30 to go in the third quarter, Holcomb restored some order by scoring inside and giving Kimberly a 10-point lead, its biggest, at 39-29.

Parma responded by tallying eight of the next 10 points, cutting the difference to 37-33. "We've been doing so many times before, but we keep coming back," Haddock said. "I've got a bunch of battlers. They don't know they're beat."

Throughout the rest of the third quarter and the early fourth Kimberly's lead wavered between four and eight points. Then, trailing 51-45, Astew got baskets from Watkins with 2:53 left in regulation and Juries with 1:27 to go, cutting it to 51-49.

Juries, who along with Eller led all scorers with 21 points, sank both ends of a one-and-one at 1:09 to tie the score, setting up Eller's and Skogsberg's last-minute baskets.

Northern Illinois was making its first trip ever to the NCAA tournament over Ball State. The distinction of owning the worst record in the 48-team field. Northern Illinois, which finished third in the Mid-American Conference and won its league tournament over Ball State, ended its season with a 16-14 mark.

In the East Region, Northeastern beat St. Joseph's 63-62 and St. John's topped Penn 66-56.

Perry Missouri scored 21 points and Eric Jefferson added 19 seconds Northeastern is a berth in the second round of the NCAA East regional against Villanova Sunday.

Northeastern, which trailed by eight points in the first half, retrieved the game with just under eight minutes to go. Trailing 58-52, the Huskies ran off eight straight points with Moss hitting two-field goals and two foul shots.

Billy Gooding scored 21 points and freshman Chris Mullin had 19, lifting St. John's to a decision that advanced the Redmen to the second round of the NCAA East regional against Penn in the early going, ended the Ivy League champion's winning streak at 14. The Quakers closed their season at 17-10 while the Redmen improved to 21-5.

In the Midwest Regional, Tennessee-Chattanooga stopped North Carolina State 58-51 and Tennessee beat Southwest Louisiana 61-57.

Willie White hit four free throws down the stretch to help Tennessee-Chattanooga withstand a North Carolina State comeback. UTC, which nearly blew a 20-point second-half lead, advanced to the second round of the regional Sunday against eighth-ranked Minnesota.

Dale Ellis scored 23 points and Michael Brooks added 16, including six straight free throws in the final minute, to lead Tennessee. The triumph, Tennessee's 20th against nine losses, moved the Southeastern Conference co-champs into Sunday's matchup against third-ranked Virginia.

In the West Region at Pullman, Wash., Pepperdine topped Pittsburgh 95-82.

Puerto Rico scored 27 points and Boot Bond led 24 to lead the Waves. The West Coast Athletic Conference champion, now advances to meet Pac-10 champion Oregon State Sunday. Darrell Gassendanner came off the bench early in the game to lead the Panthers with 20 points while teammates Dwayne Wallace and Clyde Vaughan each added 17.

In a late game at Dallas, John Bagley, having spent almost the entire first half on the bench in foul trouble, made three free throws in the final 30 seconds to help fight off a San Francisco charge and bring Boston College a 70-56 victory over San Francisco in the opening round of the NCAA Midwest Regional.

Iowa defeated Northeast Louisiana 70-63 in the final game at Pullman to advance to meet Idaho in Sunday's second round.

Bob Hansen hit a pair of quick baskets — one of them a three-point play — with just under five minutes to play to rally 16th-ranked Iowa to a victory over Northeast Louisiana.

The late-game baskets by Hansen, who led all scorers with 19 points, came just 11 seconds apart and broke a 53-53 tie. Teammate Kenny Arnold, who scored 14 for the Hawkeyes, hit two free throws to push Iowa's lead to seven and Iowa was never threatened again.

Leading Northeast Louisiana was senior forward Donald Wilson with 18.

attempts in the last quarter, well above its season average of 57 percent to help secure the win. The performance was a contrast to Thursday's game that saw top-rated Moscow beat the Tigers at the free throw line in the final quarter.

Derig produced nearly half of Welsor's offense from his high post position.

"He's only 5-11 or six-foot, but he drives very hard from the high post," Wright said. "He penetrates and then gets you up in the air and puts up the short jumper."

Derig had 14 of Welsor's 29 rebounds while Gary had 10 boards and Kevin added nine to pace Jerome's 28 centers. Jerome hit 25 of 49 shots while Welsor was 19 of 50.

As for St. Maries, a come-from-behind winner, Wright feels Jerome can produce a win that would not be a trophy.

"His match-up pretty well," he said. "They are kinda like Moscow's big people in that they are big kids (Bill Haning and Dan and Dan Rao at 6-6) but they are more mobile. They are not nearly as good of shooters as Moscow was."

St. Maries is not a quick team. They are slower and they may even make us look quick," he said. "We'll have to be ready to get after them inside."

Genesee zone ices W. Jefferson

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

A-3

TWIN FALLS—Benefiting from West Jefferson's remarkable shooting difficulties, Genesee secured the top spot in the Idaho State A-3 Boys' Basketball Tournament by defeating the Panthers 47-35 Friday afternoon.

West Jefferson's inaccuracy stemmed partly from Genesee's rigid 1-2-2 zone defense. In particular, the Bulldogs center Tony England succeeded in intimidating the Panthers either directly (by blocking or challenging shots) or indirectly (by simply being on the court).

"He can be a long way away from you, but with those long arms it makes you wonder whether you should (shoot) or shouldn't," Genesee Coach Ozzie Kanikkeberg said, acknowledging England's influence.

"He intimidated us more than some—he intimidated us tremendously," West Jefferson Coach Jon Wilson said of England. The Panthers, 24-2, also caused some of their own problems simply by shooting poorly. West Jefferson made just seven of 34 shots during the first three quarters and 13 of 56 for the game. Even when unchallenged by Bulldog defenders, West Jefferson missed tantalizing shots.

"We wanted to be patient and get some good high-percentage shots," Wilson said. "We were patient, we got some good high-percentage shots and we missed them all."

The Panthers failed to score their first basket until more than four and one-half minutes had elapsed. They got their first hoop of the second period after 3:27 had gone by—and it was their only basket of the quarter. Half of the third quarter had expired by the time West Jefferson scored.

Entering the fourth period, the Bulldogs led 35-14. Only a 21-point Panther explosion, largely against Genesee's reserves, prevented the final score from being lopsided.

Genesee scored the first seven points and led 13-0 at the end of the first period. England, the game's high scorer with 20 points, tallied eight during the quarter.

The Bulldogs, 23-3, increased their advantage to only 19-10 by halftime as the teams combined to score just eight points in the second quarter. This paucity didn't disturb Kanikkeberg, however.

"They (the Panthers) were so patient on offense that we didn't have the ball so much," said Kanikkeberg, explaining his team's low output. But with a seven-or-eight-point lead there was no sense in breaking our butts to get the ball."

Genesee got the ball often enough in the third quarter to score 14 of the period's first 16 points and increase its lead to 33-12. England accounted for eight of the points, while Joe Cavanaugh had four on a tip-in and a pair of free throws.

Rehder, defense propel Prairie into title game

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Saving its best for last, Prairie held West Side scoreless over the final 3:42 of the fourth quarter to win Friday night, 55-42, and reach the finale of the Idaho State A-3 Boys' Basketball Tournament.

Prairie meets Genesee tonight at 7:30 for the championship. West Side duels West Jefferson for third place at 2:30 p.m.

Prairie's Joe Rehder was the top swashbuckler in the battle of Pirates, leading all scorers with 23 points. The 6-1 senior forward collected his most important points with 2:04 remaining, when he converted a three-point play that gave Prairie a 46-42 advantage.

"He made the clutch play—at a clutch time and gave us a little bit of control," a drained Prairie Coach Alan Felgenhauer said.

Before Rehder came through, Paul Smart had hit a three-point play of his own with 3:42 to go, putting West Side within one at 43-42. That, however, was West Side's final score of the evening.

While Prairie stifled West Side, it peaked its lead on five of seven free throws in the last minute by Rick Tidwell, the hero of Thursday night's opening-round triumph over Kimberly.

"We have a tremendous knock—and we do it all year—to play well only when we have to," Felgenhauer said. "We never found the tempo we wanted until the last three or four minutes."

Until then, Prairie found itself in a struggle. After the teams forged four first-quarter ties, Prairie went on a 13-5 streak to take a 21-13 lead midway in the second quarter.

Rehder, who consistently hit what appeared to be off-balance jumpers, began the rally late in the first quarter with a 15-footer from the right side.

West Side came right back with six consecutive points on baskets by Ray Nielsen, Quinn Coburn and David Koller; the last with 1:16 to go to narrow the difference to 21-19.

But Rehder meshed—a short turn-around jumper and Phil Uhlom followed in a missed shot, giving Prairie take a 25-20 halftime edge.

West Side stayed within three points of Prairie throughout the third quarter until Brian Schaeffer and Uhlom hit consecutive baskets to put Prairie on top 31-26.

Undaunted, West Side came back with six points in a row to take a 32-31 lead, its first advantage since the opening quarter.

Koller bombed one in from the midcourt, with a 33-31 lead in the period. Coburn scored to put West Side within one.

Moments later Koller stole the ball, leading to his drawing a foul from Uhlom at 2:36. Koller hit both ends of a one-and-one to put West Side ahead.

The teams traded baskets until 39 seconds remained in the quarter when Rehder hit a shifting, hanging one-hander to give Prairie a 37-34 lead entering the final period.

Wendell High guard Steve Lutner fires a shot over Fruitland's Mark Korthals.

Behrens: Our worst shooting of the year

Griz sound funeral march for cold-shooting Wendell

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Displaying almost as much talent and polish as its school band, Fruitland routed Wendell 70-36 Friday afternoon, eliminating the Trojans from the Idaho State A-3 Boys' Basketball Tournament.

While the Grizzy musicians gave solid renditions of such rock 'n' roll classics as "Johnny Be Good" and "Jailhouse Rock," the Grizzy athletes harmonized on court by shooting accurately, fast-breaking crisply and defending relentlessly. Fruitland was rewarded with its 19th victory in 26 games.

The only appropriate tunes for Wendell would have been funeral dirges. The Trojans, who ended the season at 13-12, made just 15 of 74 shots from the floor, achieving double-figure scoring in only one quarter.

"It probably was our worst shooting of the year," Wendell Coach Vogt Behrens said. "I don't think we've ever shot that badly before."

"It wasn't any one (individual), it was the whole team. We didn't have anybody that could do anything."

The outcome was essentially decided in the first quarter, when Shane Lloyd scored eight points and Monte Harmon added six to help Fruitland to a huge 22-6 lead.

The compactly built Harmon accounted for much of the Grizzlies' offense as well as directing it, compiling a game-high 18 points. Whether sinking an occasional jumper, hustling to fill a lane on a fast break or jump-shooting his free throws, the 5-7 point guard proved effective.

"That's the way Monte Harmon plays," Fruitland Coach Mike Kneec said. "Yesterday (Fruitland's 45-44 loss to Genesee) was not a good ball game for Mark, and he realizes that."

A smooth 6-3 forward, Lloyd succeeded in maneuvering past the Trojans inside for either layups or rebounds on his way to totaling 14 points.

Wendell's primary shortcomings in the first quarter included poor shot selection and rash ballhandling. The Grizzlies wasted almost none of the opportunities Wendell's giveaways presented them, scoring on nearly every trip downcourt.

"All five players got involved early," a pleased Kneec said of his

Grizzlies. "It wasn't a case of one player coming out hot and 'ripping' it."

A pair of Lloyd free throws with 5:35 left in the second quarter gave Fruitland its biggest first-half lead at 26-6.

The Trojans responded with a flurry of baskets, two by Trent Davis and one each from Kelly Westendorf and Martin Olsen, cutting the deficit to 30-14.

But Harmon scored the next four points, hitting two of four free throws and coming from nowhere to take a pass from Lloyd for a layup on a 2-on-1 fast break. Suddenly trailing by 20, Wendell never came closer thereafter.

A key to Fruitland's performance was its ability to gain rebounding control. Kneec pointed out that Wendell failed to do its usual damage on the offensive boards.

"They didn't get one point on tip-ins today," Kneec said. "Yesterday they got eight points tipping in free throws."

Despite being rapidly excused from tourney play, Behrens gained a measure of satisfaction.

"I'm happy we have been here," Behrens said. "It's been a good experience for the kids."

Missouri's Stewart named UPI college coach of the year

NEW YORK (UPI)—Norm Stewart, Missouri's "college basketball" coach, was named UPI's college coach of the year.

Stewart, who guided the Tigers of the Big Eight to the top spot in 60 years, entered the NCAA Tournament with a 26-3 record. The Missouri basketball team of 1922, which went 16-1, was the last squad to finish with a better record.

"He is the first Coach of the Year from the Big Eight since 1956 when Tex Winter was then with Kansas State.

The award came as no surprise to Iowa State basketball coach Johnny Orr.

"He won the Big Eight for the third straight time, took a Big Eight team to the No. 1 national ranking for the first time in a couple of decades and got the conference the most publicity it's had since the days of Will Chamberlain."

In listing 160 sports writers and broadcasters, Stewart had 32 votes. He was followed by Terry Holland of Virginia with 23, Gale Callard of West Virginia with 13 and Lute Olson of Iowa with 12.

"We've had championship years and rankings before but we didn't get the attention that we got this year," Stewart said. "There wasn't as much involvement as there was this year. Everything was magnified. But the team maintained a good atmosphere and, as the season went on, was able to appreciate its accomplishments more. It's been an enjoyable year."

In his 15th season at Missouri, Stewart coached his team to a 19-0 start as the Tigers moved to the No. 1 spot in late January the first time a Big Eight school had done so since 1959. The Tigers stayed on top for two weeks before losing 67-51 to Nebraska, ending Missouri's 29-game home winning streak. A school record.

Missouri was 12-2 in the league and became the first Big Eight team in 47 years to win three straight conference crowns. It was also the third straight year Stewart coached Missouri to at least 20 victories. Aside from the loss to Nebraska, the other two defeats came against Georgetown and Kansas State. The Tigers finished No. 5 in the final regular-season rankings.

"Norm Stewart knows the game, which is a prerequisite," said Rich Cramer, an assistant coach at Missouri. "But once you know it, you have to be able to teach it. He breaks down offenses and defenses into component parts. That's his specialty. He understands players. He's able to with the complexities of 18-, 19- and 20-year olds. He knows when to correct—and when to praise. He understands his subject matter and comes to class prepared."

This season Stewart built a team of role players. Steve Silpanovich patrolled the middle; Marvin McCrary, outstanding on defense, and Ricky Frazier, a top scorer, were at forward; and Jon Sundvold, a sweet shooter, and Prince Bridges, exceptionally quick, were at guard.

"Norm works on your fundamentals and makes you a fundamentally good player," said Mark Dressler, a reserve forward. "The biggest thing is that he makes you reach your potential."

Tulane drops LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Tulane led by John Williams and Paul Thompson, ended 11 years of frustration Friday night by humiliating Louisiana State 83-72 in an opening-round game of the National Invitation Tournament.

Tulane, in its first-ever post-season basketball tournament, now travels to Nevada for a Monday night encounter with UNLV.

Tulane had not beaten LSU since Feb. 3, 1971. This year's team—dropped from the schedule by LSU Coach Dale Brown—silenced 14,236 riotous LSU partisans with a hard-nosed, slow-paced game.

The Green Wave raced to an eight-point lead in the first five minutes and never trailed. LSU could come on only 35 percent of its first-half shots while Tulane rattled the Tiger defense with 65 percent shooting and out-rebounded the Tigers 20-13.

Tulane came out in the second half scoring early and opened the lead to 18 points after seven minutes with deliberate offensive play. All-Metro Conference center Williams and Thompson had 19 points each to lead the Green Wave. Elton Webster and Joe Halston each added 16.

LSU was led by Johnny Jones with 20 points, followed by Leonard Mitchell with 14 and Derrick Taylor with 14. LSU shot 40 percent poorly from the field, netting only 11 points.

Maryland 66, Richmond 50
RICHMOND (UPI)—Adrian Branch and Pete Holbert combined for 31 points to power Maryland to a 60-50 triumph over Richmond Friday night in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament.

With the victory, the Terrapins gained a second-round meeting with Georgia in Athens, Ga., Monday night.

Maryland took advantage of a five-minute Richmond scoring drought at the beginning of the second half to pull ahead 40-29. The Terps then padded their lead as the Spiders were unable to take advantage of several Maryland turnovers down the stretch.

Maryland capitalized on its foul shooting opportunities, sinking 12 free throws in the last five minutes to put the game away.

Syracuse 84, St. Peter's 75
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Tony Bruin and Eric Santner each scored 19 points to spark Syracuse to an 84-75 victory over St. Peter's Friday night in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament.

St. Peter's entered the game ranked 19 in the nation's top-10 in both defense and offense, allowing 24.5 points per game and field goal percentage, 54.2 percent, but failed to live up to those credentials.

The Peacocks shot 45 percent and Syracuse consistently posted the Peacocks' zone defense for inside baskets. The Orangemen had a 60 percent shooting night from the floor.

The Peacocks ended their season at 20-25 with a 77-67 loss to Maryland in a second round play against Bradley, 22-10, Monday night in Syracuse.

Vir. Tech 69, Fordham 58
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—Jeff Schneider's 18 points led a balanced Virginia Tech attack Friday night and the Hokies posted a 69-58 victory over Fordham in the opening round National Invitation Tournament.

The victory advanced the Hokies, 19-10, to a second round match at Mississippi Monday.

Tech managed a 16-13 lead eight minutes into the first half but the Rams, 18-11, outscored Tech 10-2 during the next four minutes to go ahead 21-18. Fordham battled to a 29-26 advantage at intermission.

The lead changed hands several times in the second half before the Hokies finally went up for good with 14:05 left to play on a layup by Gordy Bryan, that made it 36-35. Tech went on to build a 48-40 buckle with seven minutes to play.

Miss. 53, Clemson 49
CLEMSON, S.C. (UPI)—Carlos Clark scored 25 points Friday night to lead Mississippi to a 53-49 triumph over Clemson in the opening round of the National Invitation Tournament.

Clemson fought back from a 31-25 halftime deficit, gaining a 39-39 tie in a free-throw by Fred Gilliam. But Clark hit from the left baseline to give the Rebels the lead 41-39.

Clemson had its last lead of the game, 47-45, when Eric Laird hit a field goal to tie the score for the Rebels. Mike Partridge then scored with 3:10 remaining and the Rebels had the lead for good.

Clemson was forced to foul and Partridge sank two free throws. Clark hit from the left baseline to give the Rebels a 49-47 lead.

"We had some chances to win it late but we just didn't do anything with them," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster.
