Local joblessness at all-time high

By The Times-News and United Press International

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment in the Magic Valley climbed to a seasonally adjusted record high of 7.7 percent for December, while the state's percentage of unemployed workers in the labor force fell to 8.4 percent.

The decline in the state's jobless rate dropped a dramatic 1.4 percent from the November rate of 9.8 percent, a state Employment Department official announced Friday.

But the drop in the state's unemployment rate was matched by a decline in the number of workers actually in the labor force — the lowest number since January 1973.

According to Lon McDonald, the labor-market analyst for the state Department of Employment's Twin Falls office, the decline in the state labor force could be attributed to a number of factors, but foremost would be individuals who no longer are seeking work and workers who are leaving the state to find employment elsewhere.

That opinion was echoed by Randy Furniss, a spokesman at the state office in Boise, who said the December drop in the unemployment rate was largely a reflection of significant numbers of discouraged people leaving the work force. Therefore, they no longer are counted in unemployment statistics.

"A lot of discouraged people are leaving the work force," Furniss said. "They're not able to find work, so they're dropping out of sight."

In the Magic Valley, the labor force remained "pretty constant," McDonald said, at 37,399 workers, of which 2,883 were unemployed on the day the area's employment-rate survey was taken.

"We caught it on a bad day," he said.

"It (the unemployment rate) is the highest it's ever been" in the Magic Valley, he said.

The department surveys Gooding, Jerome and Twin Falls counties each month to determine how many workers in the area are out of work.

Last month, the Magic Valley suffered an announced unemployment rate of 7.4 percent, but since then that has been adjusted to a 7.2 percent rate.

Thus, "we suffered a jump of a full half a point," McDonald said, noting that the cause was "pretty much a full-fledged weakening in most sectors of the economy."

"Retail sales were strong, but wholesale trade and construction (in the Magic Valley) took quite a drop," he said, noting that the construction sector, where unemployment traditionally declines during the late winter months, "appeared to drop off earlier than expected."

The unemployment rate in the valley for December 1981 was 5.5 percent.

Preliminary figures at the state level show the annual average unemployment rate for Idaho during 1982 was 8.7 percent, compared to 6.3 percent in 1981. The Magic Valley experienced an average unemployment rate for the year of 7.0 percent.

Still, McDonald said, "we're facing more than a lot of areas around the state." It's higher than we're used to, but a lot of areas in the state would be envious of our situation."

McDonald said that the decision by the R.F. Johnson Co. to locate a manufacturing facility in Twin Falls and a major expansion under way at Moore Business Forms in Jerome would help improve the job situation.

Although McDonald declined to provide a prediction of the employment outlook for 1983, he did say, "From the things I'm hearing, I don't see any abrupt changes until we get some strength back in agricultural prices."

As the effects of the national recession continued to plague Idaho in December, the civilian labor force dropped to 419,800 — the lowest point in nearly five years, according to the state Department of Employment.

Officials said 500 fewer Idahoans were working in December than in the previous month.

The agency said 35,400 Idahoans were listed as unemployed, while 384,400 people were employed during the final month of 1982.

State officials also noted that while some layoffs occurred in the state during December, many workers who historically would have been laid off during December already were unemployed for several months because of poor economic conditions.

National rate stays steady

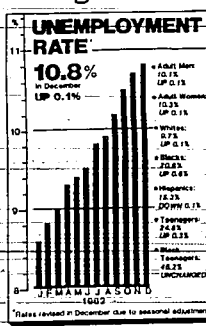

Some groups face higher rate

By DENIS G. GULINO United Press International

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate stood virtually motionless at 10.8 percent in December, the highest in four decades, with more women and teenagers than ever before out of work, the government said Friday.

The Labor Department report for 1982's final month, showing 12 million people still looking for jobs, brought the annual rate of unemployment to 9.7 percent, the worst since 1915's 9.9 percent.

The average unemployed person had been without work in December for 18 weeks — longer than at any time since World War II, the department said.

And another 1.6 million unemployed people were too discouraged to keep looking for work in December. That is the most discouraged workers since such records were first kept in 1967.

Despite a 0.1 percent increase in the rate from a revised November figure, the report contained some signs that attrition in factory jobs was slowing down. It was the first time factory employment — which was hit hardest by the recession — began to rise in the summer of 1981.

In November 140,000 factory jobs disappeared. In December, 50,000 jobs were lost in manufacturing — less than the 65,000 jobs lost in retailing.

"This indicates to us that unemployment is still too high, but it did not rise exceptionally high this month," President Reagan's spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters. "We believe it will come down in the coming months. We'll work toward that end."

But House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill called the figure "a tragic testimony to the fact that the economy is stalled and going nowhere," he called on the president "to drop his opposition to a jobs bill."

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors agreed. "We appeal again today for an immediate attack on joblessness, homelessness and hunger in America," he said in a statement.

AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland said — the new record — number of workers "who have simply given up hope of finding jobs is an index of national misery and an accurate measure of the failure of the Reagan program."

The Labor Department made a number of revisions in its procedures, revising slightly the unemployment rates already announced for nine of the previous 11 months and turning November's figure into 10.7 percent from 10.8 percent. If the old seasonal adjustment factors had been used in December, the latest rate would have gone up to 11 percent, the department said.

A total 4,071,000 women in the workforce were looking for jobs last month, bringing their jobless rate to a record 9.7 percent.

State struggling to handle financial crunch

GOP hatches a novel solution

By BRUCE HAMMOND Times-News writer

BOISE — Republican leaders may have found a way to bail the state out of its financial crisis without raising taxes, but it involves borrowing money.

House Speaker Tom Silvers, R-Twin Falls, says the outlook is favorable for raising $40 million to $50 million by leasing bonds on state-owned buildings — with practically no risk involved.

"We're hopeful that we've already found about $30 million through agency fund transfers and a few program eliminations, so this additional proposal to sell bonds would give us enough room to handle even $70 million in revenue shortage if we have to," Silvers said Friday.

"If we can sell these bonds, and do it quickly, we have no problems," Silvers claimed. "And I'm very high on that possibility."

Following Gov. John Evans' budget-backlash measures of 1982, it is estimated that the state still remains $47 million to $66 million short of the cash needed to fund its existing appropriations for fiscal year 1983, which ends June 30.

"I absolutely want to find a way to solve this funding problem without raising taxes," Silvers says. "In this tough economic time, the last thing we need to do is make it harder for individuals and businesses by raising sales taxes or triggering a property-tax increase."

The most favorable sign that this bond-sale proposal may succeed in the Legislature is that it's a plan that even Brian Chase, the state's public-works director, supports heartily.

"You couldn't ask for a more safe way of borrowing money to solve a short-term money shortage," says Chase, who administers state buildings. "This is exactly what businesses do when they need short-term cash — they borrow against their own property."

The state has about $757 million in equity built up in 1,763 buildings it owns throughout Idaho, Chase says the state would need to borrow against only seven or eight office buildings to raise the cash needed to balance the 1983 budget.

"The way to go is to have the State Building Authority issue the bonds, with the buildings put up as security,"

Taxpayer group is pessimistic

By BRUCE HAMMOND Times-News writer

BOISE — This year's state revenue shortage could be $19 million greater than anticipated, and only marginal economic improvement is forecast for next year.

That was the assessment issued Friday by Russ Westberg of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho and a leading tax adviser to legislators.

"Because of the absence of corporate profit, which is undesirable, and the suppression of inflation, which is desirable, I estimate that Idaho is facing a total $80 million shortfall this year," Westberg told members of the Revenue Projection Committee.

"With the cost-saving measures already enacted by Gov. (John) Evans, that leaves us with a $66 million shortage to make up before June 30," he said.

Looking ahead, Westberg also offered the committee three revenue projections for the next fiscal year — none of which indicate great recovery from the recession.

The lowest, $340 million, is the amount of revenue Westberg says the state will receive if the economy remains exactly the same.

A second estimate, and the one he suggests is the most accurate, indicates a mild economic recovery would generate about $405 million.

Westberg's third estimate — one he says that would require "looking through rosy glasses" — indicates a rebounding economy, generating $429 million in income for the state.

Westberg's revenue projections contrast with two others offered this week for the committee's consideration.

Boise State university economist Don Holley said that Idaho will take in $392 million this year — $73 million below current appropriations — and $420 million next year.

The Idaho Tax Commission estimates that about $380 million will be taken in this year and $396 next year.

These guesses compare to the governor's estimates of $395 million this year and about $409 million next year.

Meanwhile, the Revenue Projection Committee will continue working through next week to develop its own projections of 1983 and 1984 state revenue. Those projections will be used by the Legislature to set budgets for state agencies.

Late news

Illinois recount plea rejected
 SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois Supreme Court Friday upheld a Republican Gov. James Thompson's re-election, rejecting a recount sought by Democrat Adlai Stevenson in the closest gubernatorial race in modern Illinois history.

The high court, in a 4-3 decision, confirmed the Republican governor's Nov. 2 re-election to an unprecedented third consecutive term. Thompson defeated Stevenson by 5,074 votes out of more than 3.6 million ballots cast.

At an evening news conference, Stevenson said he would not contest the ruling.

"The campaign has ended," he said. "Tonight we fold our tents but we will return to fight another day."

Leak delays launch of shuttle
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The maiden flight of the second space shuttle, Challenger, was postponed Friday for approximately one month so engineers can test its three main engines a second time to locate a potentially dangerous hydrogen leak.

J. Gen. James Abrahamson, associate NASA administrator for space flight, said Challenger will not be able to fly from Florida's Kennedy Space Center before the end of February. It had been scheduled for launch in late January.

Dangerously high concentrations of gaseous hydrogen were detected in the Challenger's rear engine compartment during a brief ground test firing at Cape Canaveral Dec. 18. Hydrogen is the highly flammable fuel for the ship's main engines.

"Despite a thorough test of the engine, we were unable to locate the source of the hydrogen. As a result, Abrahamson decided to re-run the test firing at the end of January after the Challenger is equipped with more gas-sensing instruments."

Deputy arrested on sex charge
 BOISE (UPI) — An Ada County Sheriff's deputy was arrested Friday for allegedly committing sex acts during a two-month period with a juvenile female inmate while she was being housed in the county jail, authorities said.

Sheriff Chuck Palmer said Donald H. Fisher, 42, was already suspended from his job as jailer when he was freed Friday for allegedly engaging in oral sex with a female prisoner while he made periodic checks of inmates in the juvenile section of the jail.

Palmer said he learned of the alleged incidents Jan. 3 when authorities at the Youth Services Center at St.

Anthony, where the girl currently resides, gave him a letter to the alleged victim referring to sex acts.

Palmer alleged the letter was signed by "D" and a subsequent investigation revealed that Fisher was the author.

Fisher was being held at an Ada County Jail isolation cell Friday after he was arrested about noon on a charge of an infamous crime against nature.

'Gang' suspects held in Oregon
 COOS BAY, Ore. (UPI) — A father and his son, who allegedly led a gang that is suspected in 10 killings and robberies nationwide, were arrested Friday by sheriff's deputies.

Duane M. Willett, 44, and his son, Harley E. Willett, 19, identified by police as the alleged leaders of the "Willett Gang," were arrested at a residence in Coos Bay, authorities said.

Two loaded rifles were found at the house.

"They were arrested on murder warrants issued by Provo, Utah, authorities charging them with the slaying of a supermarket worker in Provo, said Coos County Sheriff Verlan Tarmo.

"The suspects were considered 'extremely dangerous' and suspected of being connected with as many as 50 robberies, said county sheriff's Detective Sgt. Mike Cook.

Authorities in New York City, Wyoming, Idaho and Alaska have contacted Coos County authorities, seeking the men in connection with other crimes, Cook said.

Guatemala to get military aid
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration Friday resumed military sales to Guatemala for the first time since 1977, praising the government of Gen. Efraim Rios Montt for improving human rights conditions.

"Progress has been made," State Department spokesman John Hughes said. "Similarly, we look forward to the continuing development of the democratic process."

The State Department approved Guatemala's request to make cash purchase of $2.3 million, largely in spare parts and engine overhauls for the UH-1H Bell helicopters it uses to pursue an estimated 2,000 leftist guerrillas over rugged terrain.

Although he called the sale unfortunate, and predicted opposition on Capitol Hill, Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., chairman of the House subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs, said he was encouraged by reports that massacres of Indians and campesinos have stopped and the government is showing greater respect for human rights.

Salvadoran colonel rebels, seizes province, calls for Garcia's ouster

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A top army commander rebelled against the U.S.-backed government Friday.

He seized off a province and demanded the ouster of Defense Minister Jose Guillermo Garcia and an end to American interference in Salvadoran affairs.

Garcia sent a negotiator to talk with Col. Sigfrido Ochoa, leader of the rebellion, at his headquarters in Sensuntepeque, 40 miles northeast of San Salvador.

No fighting was reported.

"We will look for a noble and just solution," said the negotiator, Col. Adolfo Blando, after meeting with Ochoa for two hours. "It will be a solution that unites the armed forces, not one that separates them."

Blando said he would take Ochoa's demands, including the call for Garcia's resignation, to the High Command for study.

Ochoa, one of the most successful commanders against leftist guerrillas in the three-year civil war, late Thursday sealed off the northern province of Cabanas, which he commands.

Troops of Ochoa's crack 1,200-man "Cobra" Battalion set up at least five roadblocks leading into Cabanas, letting only reporters through.

Ochoa decided to stage his rebellion after learning Garcia had appointed him as military attaché to Uruguay. In effect, sending him into exile.

In Washington, a State Department official said, "We don't regard this as an attempted coup. There have been no other preemptive acts. We are watching and waiting, watching this closely."

Ochoa told reporters that his rebellion was not a coup but an attempt to oust Garcia, considered the strongman in El Salvador's fragile provisional government.

"I consider Minister of Defense Jose Guillermo Garcia a traitor to the principles of the Oct. 15 (1979) coup," by moderate U.S.-backed officers.

Ochoa declared on commercial radio late Thursday. He called for his immediate resignation.

"If the troops that Garcia sends come in peace, they will be received in peace. But if not, it will be something else," Ochoa said Friday.

The popular commander said he had the support of his officers, his soldiers and of provincial officials.

The Salvadoran air force, the cavalry regiment and the Atlacalz and Alonzo regiments, all trained by U.S. troops, have declared their neutrality in the faceoff, Ochoa said.

"The country must not sink because of the intransigence of General Garcia," Ochoa said, calling Garcia the country's "strongman."

"It's no secret to anyone that he's (Garcia) the person who makes decisions in this country," Ochoa said.

"Officials must respect the democratic process and if the left wins an election, the victory must be respected."

Oil-tank blast rocks tri-state area

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Three huge fuel tanks housing 33 million gallons of gasoline exploded Friday, rocking New York City and three surrounding states, igniting a spectacular fire and leveling buildings in a quarter-mile radius.

One man died and 21 other people were injured.

Fire destructor John Caporaso said the 12:12 a.m. explosion at a Texaco storage facility in Port Newark apparently was touched off when a fuel tank was hit by two 55-gallon drums that were hurled into the air by a smaller blast at a nearby steel-barrel manufacturing plant.

The Texaco facility, with 15 tanks capable of holding 29 million gallons of fuel, is in an area of docks, refineries and industries near both Newark Airport and the heavily traveled New Jersey Turnpike.

The 80 firefighters who responded were kept a quarter-mile from the fire by the intensity of the heat, but succeeded in containing the blaze. The fire was expected to burn itself out after nightfall.

Residents in New Jersey, New York, and Connecticut, some of them 70 miles away, swamped police switchboards after the blast.

"They got everything from a tree fell-on-my-house to it's an earthquake and somebody's breaking in," Hugh Mullin, a police dispatcher in Greenwich, Conn., said.

Police said the force of the explosion blew open doors and smashed windows in Jersey City, Elizabeth and other nearby cities.

Rep. John Brooks, R-Gooding, the chairman of the committee, says that committee members will use Monday and Tuesday to work out estimates individually and then meet as a group for the rest of next week to finalize the committee's projections.

"We should have those two figures for the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee to use in their budget-setting either by Friday or early that next week," Brooks says.

While voicing mild optimism that the state's recession has bottomed out, Westenberg's advice to the committee was one of caution. He reminded committee members that when the committee met in 1982, it projected $461 million in revenue for this year — about 18 percent above actual income.

"We really have no way to know what the economy will do," he said. "The indicators are there for mild improvement, but just like last year, those can prove false."

Rep. Rachel Gilbert, R-Boise, argued that the state would not see economic recovery until Congress reduces the nation's $200 billion deficit.

"This national debt continues to create a collision between the borrowing of the federal government and the borrowing of our private sector," she said. "Until the deficit is reduced, interest rates and inflation are going to go back up."

Westenberg acknowledged that Gilboek's dismal outlook is viable and may indeed be the true forecast for next year.

"If you believe that, then take my lower projection of $430 million, which figures on the economy continuing its existing trend and getting no better for the next 18 months," he said.

Northern Nevada and Utah:
 Increasing clouds over both states today. Light winds. Fair and cooler in both states Sunday. Highs in the 40s and 50s. Lows near 20.

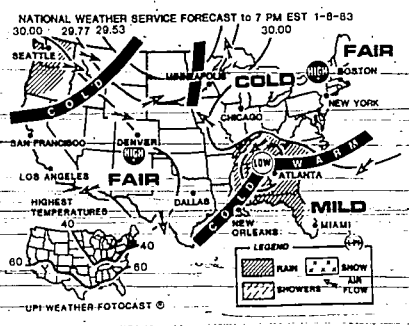

Synopsis:
 Another moist weekend appears in store for most of Idaho, although temperatures will cool Sunday.

A warm, moist air flow off the Pacific Ocean continues to bring rain and snow to Idaho. Moderate to heavy rain, with snow in the mountains, fell over northern and western Idaho for the third straight day on Friday. Amounts ranged from half an inch to an inch at many places, with Deadwood reporting 1 1/4 inch.

Some cooling in the upper air brought snow to 3,000 feet at Bogalav, Basin, Phenixville, and Maple Mountain. Received 6 inches of snow, while the McCall area had 4 inches and the Deadwood district received 5. Eastern Idaho received little or no precipitation.

Friday afternoon temperatures ranged from 33 at Idaho Falls to the 50s at Boise and Lewiston. The state's warmest reading was 51 degrees at Lewiston. Sun Valley and Portville reported the coldest morning lows, 20 degrees.

The extended forecast for the Magic Valley calls for continued mild temperatures Monday through Wednesday. It will be partly cloudy at first, with an increasing chance of rain or snow toward week-end. Highs will range from 35 to 45 with lows from 25 to 30.

Elsewhere in the nation Friday, the warmest temperature was 87 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif., and the coldest was 4 degrees at Alamosa, Colo.

Plan

That's like borrowing within your own organization," Chase says. "Then the bonds and interest could be paid back by the rent we take in annually from those office buildings."

"Also, if the markets are right, we may be able to earn enough interest from the bond money itself, before it's spent paying bills, so the issuance would cost us next to nothing," he says.

Stivers says he's been in contact with a bonding agent who is "very optimistic" that the bonds could be issued within 60 or 90 days. A complete proposal should be ready within two weeks, the speaker says.

"The other nice thing about this plan is the bonds, probably of 30-year duration, could be issued with an early payment provision," Stivers says. "That way, if the economy improves, we could pay off the bonds within three to five years and avoid any interest."

Stivers acknowledged that borrowing money, via a bond sale, to help balance the 1983 budget is not a desirable situation. But he calls it the "preferable alternative" to two other popular proposals — cutting state services or raising sales or property taxes.

Both Stivers and Chase maintain that back-up security for paying off the bonds exists in the state's permanent building fund — a $6 million annual income the state takes in for construction and maintenance of state buildings.

"I doubt that it would be necessary, but you could dip into the building fund if office rent from state buildings fails to bring in enough money to pay off the bonds," Chase says. "With everything considered, this whole plan is really very safe and certainly very conservative."

Stock market sets new high

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones average climbed to an all-time high Friday but the rest of the stock market finished with mixed results when late profit taking cooled off Wall Street's new year rally.

Trading, which started out in near-record fashion on investor beliefs the economy has turned the corner from the recession, was heavy, but just a bit below Thursday's pace.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which surged 26.03 points Thursday, tacked on 5.15 to a new record of 1,076.07. It had climbed 13 points above Thursday's previous record 1,070.92 before traders cashed in on their gains.

The closely watched average, which jumped 29.33 points for the week, has soared 229.15 since Aug. 12 last year.

The New York Stock Exchange index eased 0.04 to 83.67 and the price of an average share decreased one cent. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index slipped 0.29 to 145.18. Advances topped declines 944-708 among the 1,978 issues traded.

Big Board volume totaled 127,290,000 shares, down a bit from the 123-410,000 traded Thursday, the ninth busiest session ever. It marked the 27th time turnover exceeded 100 million shares, all in the past six months.

"Considering the explosion we had Thursday, this market has done very well," said Alfred Harris, Sited Nicolas & Co. vice president in St. Louis. "I think it would be a little bit much to have back-to-back sessions like Thursday."

Investors were encouraged federal funds rates dropped to 7 1/2 percent, heightening speculation the Federal Reserve will cut its discount rate soon. The Fed reported the nation's money supply rose a small $300 million in the latest statistical week.

But traders were disappointed the White House forecast the gross national product would grow 1 percent in the first quarter and 3 percent in the second.

December unemployment edged up to 10.8 percent from a revised 10.7 percent the month before. Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan said the latest figures suggest a leveling off in labor market deterioration.

Oils, which led this week's earlier surge, retreated following reports a United Arab Emirates newspaper warned of an OPEC price collapse checked up differences.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 148,269,730 shares, up from the 147,271,280 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 3.49 to 362.46 and the price of a share jumped 14 cents. Advances topped declines 388-276 among the 650 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 15,822,795 shares compared with 14,986,400 traded Thursday.

Rumblings

High Sierra quakes could herald volcanic activity

MAMMOTH LAKES, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists Friday swarmed into the High Sierra range where under ground forces have been rumbling for more than a day. They are looking for signs that long-dormant volcanic regions may be coming to life.

"Monitoring and hazards assessment teams have been dispatched to Mammoth Lakes from USGS centers in Menlo Park, Calif.; Denver, Colo.; and the Cascades Volcano Observatory, Vancouver, Wash.," a spokesman for the U.S. Geological Survey said Friday.

"The teams of experts were told to look for any recent changes in the earth surface that may have resulted from a new series of earthquakes that began Thursday and continued throughout Friday."

"The scientists will make observations and measurements in order to evaluate further the geologic activity in the area," said Plant-King, a spokeswoman for USGS in Menlo Park.

She said the attempts to measure vertical changes in the earth surface may be hampered by heavy snow in the mountains along Highway 395 along the top of the range.

There was special interest in a "tilt" measuring device which had been installed in the area earlier and had been checked Thursday only a few hours before the series of quakes began. The device had shown no geological changes since it last August.

"As of noon today, the frequency of small earthquakes remains high but magnitudes have decreased," Ms. King said.

More than 1,000 quakes were recorded in the first 12 hours of the new rumbling. Some of them as high as 5.5 and 5.6 on the Richter scale.

The tremors late Thursday set off burglar alarms and dumped groceries from shelves in Mammoth Lakes, a small resort town 180 miles east of San Francisco.

At the Mammoth Lakes airport, a hangar collapsed, wrecking a small plane inside. No injuries were reported.

Following earlier quakes in the area, the U.S. Geological Survey last summer issued a notice saying the region was subject to volcanic eruption.

"It is just too early to tell if this is a precursor to volcanism," said Don Finley, one of the USGS scientists.

Roy Bailey, chief of the survey's Volcanic Hazards Program, said the activity was "the most dramatic event we've had since May, 1980."

The first of the moderate earthquakes occurred at 5:32 p.m. Thursday, registering 5.5 on the Richter Scale. The second measured tremor, registering 5.6, came at 7:24 p.m. Shimmering aftershocks continued at least 15 hours after the initial shocks.

The jolts were felt as far away as Stockton, 209 miles east, and Reno, Nev., 100 miles north.

Frightened patrons in a restaurant dived for cover when the quakes began.

Display cases toppled and shattered at local businesses. The Mono County Sheriff's Department characterized damage as "insignificant to light."

Southern California Edison's Mammoth substation was shorted out for three hours Thursday night, blacking out the northeast section of Mammoth Lakes and the Crowley Lake area temporarily.

Hawaii volcano fires fountains 500 feet in the air

VOLCANO, Hawaii (UPI) — Fountains of fire shot 500 feet high from the Kilauea volcano Friday in a "major eruption" which threatened a mountainside housing tract that stood in the path of the lava flow. A "voluntary evacuation" order was issued.

Hawaii County Civil Defense Director Harry Kim said families living in Royal Gardens and a small area outside the subdivision in Kapapa were advised to evacuate as a precautionary measure.

"Although no homes were in direct line with the slow-moving flow, Kim said the "voluntary evacuation" was put into effect as a precautionary measure.

He said the lava flow from Kilauea's east rift, which first began erupting Monday, had slowed and solidified after slicing through an uninhabited corner of the housing area.

Arnold Okamura, a U.S. Geological Survey scientist at the Hawaiian Volcano Observatory, said there was one lava flow that was moving very slowly.

He indicated there was no immediate danger to structures because the flow was filling a lava-formed drainage basin parallel to the subdivision at the 1,300-foot level of Kilauea.

Okamura said the lava in the area was turning into "crumbling little pieces" which were very rough and therefore, moving quite slowly.

"The eruption has been intensifying and waning, but I don't want to say it is not a danger to life and property," he said. "There are a number of houses in that area and that's a big flow."

Fountains of fire shooting 500 feet into the air Friday prompted scientists to describe it as a "major eruption."

Okamura's brother, Reginald Okamura, also a survey scientist, said the heightened activity slightly east of the last venting system set fountains of fire up to 500 feet in the air along the volcano's east rift zone.

"It is really erupting vigorously now and has progressed to a major eruption phase," he said.

The new eruption prompted Hawaii Civil Defense officials to plan an aerial inspection to gauge whether it may soon pose a threat to the nearest populated areas.

At the same time, the summit continued to increase, meaning more molten rock was being pumped into the affected east rift zone — where the eruption has been occurring off and on since Monday.

Truckers set shutdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's independent truckers Friday called a strike for Jan. 31 to try to force a change in a new law which raises federal gasoline taxes and highway user fees for trucks by thousands of dollars a year.

The strike is planned by the Independent Truckers Association, which claims to have 30,000 members and to represent 100,000 independent long-haul owners and operators who carry about 85 percent of the nation's food, half of its steel, and 90 percent of its household goods.

The independents represent one-third of all truckers on the highways.

The new law raises the federal gasoline tax 5 cents a gallon and also boosts highway user fees for trucks.

The Los Angeles-based ITA said the tax increases under the law would cost a typical owner-operator between $3,000 and $5,000 more a year.

President Reagan Thursday signed the gas tax increase bill, originally proposed by the administration, which barely survived a bitter debate over it by the lame-duck 97th Congress last month.

"The strike will last as long as Congress wants it to," ITA President Mike Parkhurst said at a news conference. "It is the only way the 98th Congress is going to sit up and pass immediate and meaningful legislation to kill the horrible truck taxes."

Congress begins its legislative duties Jan. 25.

Parkhurst said the strike will cause massive plant layoffs, shortages of food and disruption of supplies all over the nation.

Reagan will be "concerned" when the effect of the strike "sinks in."

It was unclear, however, how many truckers would strike, because only 30,000 of the 100,000 small haulers are ITA members and because the American Truckers Association, representing some 16,000 large-company regulated carriers, opposes the job action.

What's what

The female wrist structure is different from the male wrist structure. It bears on the way men and women move their hands. You see it so much you don't even notice the difference, unless a man or woman affects the wrist action of the opposite sex. Where it shows up unconsciously, though, is in the washing of the hands. The male uses a piston motion, the female a rotary motion.

LOVE AND WAR

Q. Who said, "Marriage is a meal where the soup is better than the dessert"? Ogden Nash?

A. No, Austin O'Malley said that. Ogden Nash said, "The reason for much matrimony / is matrimony."

Q. What proportion of the elements end in divorce?
A. About a third.

Q. Do barnacles grow on whales?
A. Some barnacles on some whales.

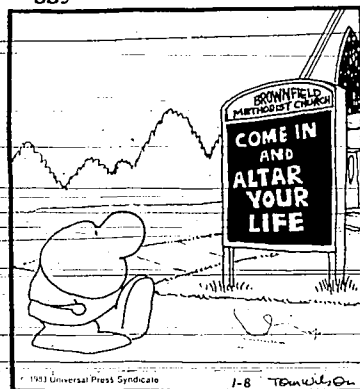

ENGAGEMENTS

Will you buy the claim that 75 percent of all matrimonial engagements are "initiated by the women"? Researchers in matters romantic do not contend that proportion of women actually ask the significant question, but it's said they do engineer the courtships. In 20 percent, the men start the chain of amorous activity and retain control. In 5 percent, both the men and women are said to be equally responsible for the romance. Our Love and War man sees little new in these most recent findings. He long has known that the woman who says she wants time to think about it already has thought about it.

Winter driving tip

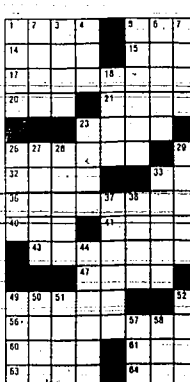

Be aware when driving on seemingly clear Idaho roads this winter. Frost or patches of ice tend to settle in shady spots, at intersections surrounded by tall buildings or trees, on the north and west sides of hills, on bridge floors, around overpasses and at the bottom of banked curves and narrow roads. Prevent potential accidents by being a winter-wise driver. This reminder from the Idaho State Police.

Resource bills set for state Legislature

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — Requiring hunters to salvage bear hides and farmers to pump from minimum well levels are just two of the natural-resource bills that agency heads will request of the Legislature this session.

Directors of the Fish and Game, Water Resources and Parks and Recreation departments all have set their legislative agendas for bills they hope the lawmakers will pass in 1983. One measure with immediate impact would be Fish and Game's goal for achieving spending authority for emergency feeding of deer and elk. The plan would allow the Idaho Fish and Game Commission to take money from the department's cash reserve without first getting specific authority from the Legislature.

It is controversial because a House committee already is considering some of the Fish and Game's cash reserve to help balance the state's 1983 budget.

"We believe that as much as $30 million can be brought out of various Game — and probably only on a loan basis — to help balance the state budget this year," says House Speaker Tom Silvers, R-Twin Falls.

But Fish and Game officials say they can't maintain programs at existing levels if their budget is reduced.

"We have a cash reserve because our licensing fees come during the fall hunting season and later when fishing season opens in the spring," says Fish and Game spokesman Ken Norrie.

"We have to hang on to the reserves to keep us operating during the rest of the months." Last winter, Fish and Game director Jerry Conley had to get special authority from the Legislature to spend about $170,000 of the department's money to feed deer and elk. The entire program, costing about $300,000, was supplemented by Magic Valley residents, who provided hay, labor and transportation.

"But it's very uncertain for us to start an emergency operation like that when we don't know for sure if spending authority," Norrie says. "The bill we're proposing would allow us to do that upon the governor's approval, and if we later submit a detailed cost accounting to the Legislature."

Another Fish and Game bill would require sportsmen to salvage either the moose or hide from bear or mountain lions.

"Right now, they can shoot the animals and then just tag them and leave them," Norrie says. "That isn't right. It's a waste, and the law should be changed."

The proposed revision would not apply to farmers or ranchers who kill lions or bear that attack livestock. Parks and Recreation officials say they will seek to keep all state parks open this year — including Three Island State Park at Glens Ferry and Malad Gorge State Park near Tuttle. Both parks were closed two years ago in budget-cutting measures.

"It's difficult to say if these two parks are vulnerable to closure again, considering the state's funding problems," says Bob Malinen, the deputy director of the Parks Department. "If budget cuts are forced, our preference is to reduce services before closing any parks," he says. "That would mean shorter seasons or

Kenneth Dunn, the director of the Department of Water Resources, is sponsoring only two bills this year. One would require reasonable pumping levels for all wells, regardless of previous exemptions granted domestic wells drilled prior to 1978. The measure is designed to cope with critical ground-water areas of declining well levels.

"The Legislature tried to accomplish this a couple of years ago, but the courts ruled that the language was not clear enough," Dunn says. "So we're resubmitting it and hope to get the language clarified so it will stand up in court."

The second goal is to establish adequate funding for the stream-channel alteration program. To date, only two staff members review all applications for permission to change stream channels, whether for mining, irrigation or construction.

"Jerry Conley in the Fish and Game Department and I are in agreement that this program is wholly lacking," Dunn says. "Our two alternatives are to either transfer funds from Fish and Game to our department (Water Resources) so we can hire the people to do the job, or else move the entire function to Fish and Game."

The final solution has not been determined. Dunn estimates that the program needs a minimum of five staff members and appropriate office supplies, resulting in a cost of $140,000.

Power Council says WPPSS plants not needed

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Northwest Power Planning Council has adopted a "portfolio" of power plants that could be needed in the region during the next 20 years — and two abandoned nuclear plants in Washington state are not among them.

On a unanimous voice vote, the council Friday approved a "resource portfolio" of hydroelectric, coal-fired, co-generation and turbine power plants that might need to be built by the year 2000 to meet the region's demand.

The list will be included in the draft of a 20-year energy plan, mandated by Congress in its creation of the council.

The draft plan, to be approved later this month, will face public comments and review at hearings to be held throughout the region this spring before a final version is adopted.

The "resource portfolio" also indicates when the facilities would need to be built, if ever, depending on how the growth of power demand in the Northwest.

At a low 0.9 percent level of load growth during the next 20 years, acquisition and construction of the power plants would cost the region about $20 billion. A high rate of growth at 2.9 percent would boost the price tag close to the $20 billion mark.

Brokerage firm says WPPSS will go broke

SEATTLE (UPI) — A New York brokerage house that has accurately forecast the troubles of the Washington Public Power Supply System now predicts the nuclear power project-building consortium will go into default this year.

"We believe that persons expecting a last-minute band-aid solution will be rudely disappointed," a report by Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. says. The report does not expect WPPSS to last long and is appropriately entitled, "The Tides of March."

Another Wall Street analyst, Howard Sitzer, vice president and director of municipal bond research for Thomson-McKinnon Securities Inc., has an outlook for WPPSS that is less pessimistic, but hardly optimistic.

"I don't necessarily see default as being a fait accompli," Sitzer said Thursday. "There is still room for maneuver over the next three weeks."

Because nearly all of the 88 Northwest public utilities owning shares in two terminated WPPSS plants are refusing to start paying a $7 billion bond debt for the projects unless ordered by the courts, WPPSS is using reserve funds to meet the bond payments that began this month. The supply system has raised $18 million left and will run out of funds soon after March 25 unless the utilities are forced to begin paying their shares or some other arrangement is made to spread the cost of the terminated plants to the entire region.

King County Superior Court Judge H. Joseph Coleman is expected to issue a summary judgment in Seattle next week on the utilities' case, and WPPSS officials are optimistic he will rule in their favor.

New CT scanner arrives

MVRMC to begin using device soon

By HARRIET GUTHERTZ

TWIN FALLS — A computerized X-ray scanner that has revolutionized the practice of radiology will start operating at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center in February.

The computerized tomography scanner produces pictures of internal organs with a clarity previously unattainable, says Dr. Richard Strand, the MVRMC radiology director.

The CT scanner uses an X-ray machine that can rotate 360 degrees around the body. Strand says a computer then uses the data to produce pictures from different "slices" of the body.

The doctor can specify the angle and thickness of the slice and look at each image individually. The procedure is like examining a slice of bread without removing it from the loaf, Strand says.

A CT scan produces more information with less radiation than a comparable procedure with a conventional X-ray machine, Strand says.

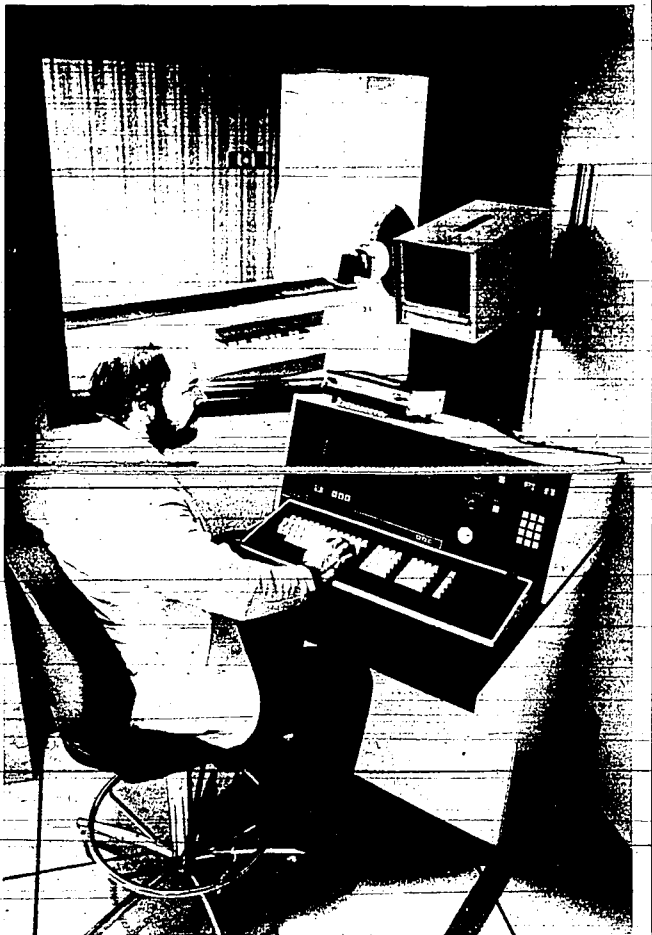

The doctor can examine the results on a small television screen and can get the computer to produce a copy on regular film. The original data can be stored on magnetic tape for future consultation.

Unlike a conventional X-ray, which can produce pictures in only four shades of gray, a CT scanner can produce an image with 2,000 different gray-scale gradations, Strand says. A CT scan also picks up muscles, organs and other soft tissues, while regular X-rays only show hard tissue, such as bone.

The added capability means that a doctor can diagnose a brain tumor or internal injury without resorting to exploratory surgery or other painful and risky procedures, Strand says.

The major problem with the CT scanner is that it is quite expensive. The one at MVRMC cost $720,000, making it one of the most expensive pieces of equipment in the hospital.

Strand, however, says the investment is justified because of its benefits to patients and the decrease in exploratory surgery that will result. Strand also says the machine is the only one in the Magic Valley and will enhance the hospital's role as a regional medical center.

"I will be surprised if it doesn't pay its own way," he says.

Although Strand expects the scanner to be used frequently, he says, it won't replace conventional X-rays completely. "In some cases a plain X-ray is better," he says.

The scanner has been delivered and is in place. A physicist will visit the hospital next week to check for radiation leaks and to make sure the machine performs to specifications.

Strand says.

Doctors, the press and the general public will get a chance to view the scanner in operation at a formal open house at the end of February, according to Sue Summers, the hospital's community relations director.

City police arrest three in pot bust

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Three persons were arrested and 14 pounds of high-quality marijuana were confiscated Thursday night in Twin Falls.

A combined investigation by Twin Falls police, state narcotics officers and Idaho State Police officers was credited by police Chief Tim Qualls for the arrests.

He said marijuana buds — with a street value of about $27,000 (more than $120 an ounce) were confiscated when the trio was arrested in a parking lot off Blue Lake Boulevard.

The investigation began two days earlier, Qualls said. It ended with felony charges — possession of marijuana with intent to sell — being filed against two Boise residents and a Twin Falls man.

Qualls identified the suspects as: Gilbert Trujerina, 23, of 2728 W St.; Boise; Janet Louise Hochstrasser, 18, of 1015 Maritza Ave., Boise; and Dale Eugene Adams, 26, of 1604 Klimes St., Twin Falls.

Hochstrasser and Gilbert were arraigned Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court. Bond for each defendant was set at $5,000. They remained in the county jail Friday.

Both defendants have requested a preliminary hearing.

Adams was released without bail Friday. He is scheduled to be arraigned Tuesday.

"On an investigation of this magnitude, it is nearly impossible for one law-enforcement agency or a single department to handle it," Qualls said. Without the work of the state narcotics officers and our department together, I don't think we would have been able to make these arrests."

He said that information obtained during the local investigation was given to state narcotics and Boise police officers. — And according to

George Harrison, the director of the department of Drug and Narcotics Enforcement, as a result of that information: His men and Boise police served warrants on three other Boise residents late Thursday.

Harrison said officers confiscated another five pounds of high-quality marijuana — at the Boise residence, where the arrests were made.

"We do not consider this a record drug bust, but we do feel we have been able to identify and eliminate an apparent supply of marijuana to the Twin Falls area."

"This is what we are working for, and the cooperation of local police and state police with our office is important if we are to succeed," Harrison said.

Kidnapper gets cut in prison sentence, eligible for parole

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Judge Theron Ward refused to follow the lead Friday of a Burley judge who last year ended the prison term of one of the three men convicted for the 1981 aborted kidnaping of Gov. John Evans' son.

But Ward did agree to reduce 21-year-old Russell Pipher's prison term from 15 to five years, making the Burley man eligible for parole immediately.

Ward's decision followed Judge George Granata's decision last year to release Pipher from the state penitentiary at Boise, amid reports that Pipher had been subjected to continual sexual abuse during his 16 months at the facility.

At that time, Pipher testified that he had been regarded as a "kid" or a "punk" by prison "daddies" and had been forced to provide sexual favors for one "daddy" in return for protection.

He said he had submitted to homosexual activity about four or five times a week.

Although visibly concerned that Ward's decision could send her son back to the penitentiary, Elaine Pipher said she was "very glad that he commuted the sentence. We can always hope for better, but yes, I'm very thankful for his consideration."

Pipher did not attend the court session, but his wife and her son-in-law, in good spirits at the Cassia County Jail, where he works as a cook.

Pipher's lawyer, Rudolf D. Barchas of Boise, said he will seek parole for his client. Under Idaho law, a prisoner generally is eligible for parole after he has served a third of his sentence.

Pipher would not have been eligible for parole until 1986, if the original sentence had stood.

One question unresolved Friday was whether Pipher will be required to return to the state penitentiary, where he is certain to be labeled as a "snitch" for his courtroom revelations.

"I think that's going to be out of our hands. It would be nice to keep him in Burley," Barchas said. "But it's possible that since he's been ordered to stay in two places at one time, consideration could be given to letting him stay in Burley, and that's something that we'll have to consider."

Pipher — along with 23-year-old Bryan Spurgeon and 22-year-old Charles Lopez, both of Burley — was arrested following the aborted May 15, 1981, kidnaping attempt on John V. Evans of Burley.

All three men were sentenced to 15 years in prison for a string of crimes committed in Cassia, Minidoka and Twin Falls counties. Granata has denied sentence-reduction requests filed on behalf of Spurgeon and Lopez.

But Granata said he was responding to a plea for mercy when, on Aug. 27, he commuted Pipher's 15-year prison term — imposed for first-degree kidnaping, first-degree burglary and two counts of robbery — to one year in the Cassia County Jail.

But that took care of only half of Pipher's sentence. Pipher had been sentenced to serve up to 15 years in prison for his involvement in an aborted 1981 attempted extortion, which involved a Twin Falls grocery store operator. For that incident, he was convicted of second-degree kidnaping, conspiracy to commit extortion and attempted extortion.

Barchas initially urged Ward to follow Granata's lead and noted that his client could face retaliation for his courtroom revelations.

"He lives in fear of what will happen to him if he returns to the penitentiary," Barchas said Friday in court. "As much misery as he has brought to others, that's no excuse for what is happening to him."

Barchas said that Granata's decision sent an important message to penitentiary officials about their responsibilities to protect inmates from such abuse.

"I know we could be opening a Pandora's box here, but we are dealing with unusual circumstances here," he said.

Murder suspect loses fourth lawyer

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Murder suspect John Sjogren lost his fourth lawyer Friday.

Kathy Epfeldt, the county's deputy public defender, withdrew from the case, saying that she did not believe she was adequately experienced to handle the defense in a first-degree murder trial.

Epfeldt noted that she has conducted only one felony trial previously.

The Fifth District court officials attempt to find the 29-year-old defendant's fifth lawyer, the prospects loom for yet another delay in the nearly two-year-old case.

Sheriff's deputies forcibly brought Sjogren from the county jail after the defendant allegedly refused to appear in court. During the court session, Sjogren remained handcuffed as he sat at a courtroom table, dressed in a T-shirt and shorts. He was not wearing shoes.

Sjogren is set to go on trial Jan. 18. But a new defense lawyer may ask for a delay in order to learn about the case. That prospect led a frustrated Harry DeHaan, the county prosecutor, to complain, "I would like to dispose of this case by the time my term expires."

DeHaan's term of office expires in January 1985.

Sjogren, who remained in jail Friday without bond, has been in custody since his May 29, 1981, arrest for the May 26, 1981, murder of 61-year-old Donna Hartley Smith of Twin Falls.

The prosecution contends that Sjogren strangled the woman with a telephone cord.

Sjogren initially pleaded guilty to second-degree murder as part of a plea-bargain agreement. But he withdrew that plea after DeHaan asked Judge Daniel Meehl to impose a fixed 50-year prison sentence.

DeHaan retaliated by filing a first-degree murder charge against Sjogren.

But the case has been plagued with delays since that time. Most of the delays have stemmed from the almost-constant change in who will represent Sjogren.

Sjogren fired his first two lawyers, Greg Juller of Jerome and public defender Mike Powers. His third lawyer, former public defender Mike Waltz, resigned his position before the case could come to trial.

When Epfeldt was assigned to the case, it was agreed that Powers would assist in the defense. But that agreement broke down.

"As the trial got nearer and nearer, he (Sjogren) didn't want me. And without me, he didn't want Kathy," Powers said. "And Kathy, quite honestly and appropriately, said she didn't want to do it."

Friday, Judge Meehl allowed Epfeldt to withdraw and then gave Powers the job of finding another lawyer for Sjogren by Monday. Under consideration for the task is Randy Stoker, Powers said.

One bottleneck is money. If it appears to be the case, Stoker's fee would come from the budget of the public defender's office.

Despite warm weather, flood potential drops

BURLEY — Warm temperatures and rain have not increased flood dangers in the Snake River basin. In fact, conditions have improved this week.

Superintendent Don Tracy, of the Federal Bureau of Reclamation office in Burley, said some ice jams in eastern Idaho, which caused concern a week ago, have been reduced by warm weather.

While he sees no pending flood danger, Tracy said there is a record amount of water in storage and in the river for this time of year.

"We have 11,000 cfs (cubic feet per second) of water in the river below Milner. This is, I'm sure, an all-time record in the history of Milner Dam," Tracy said.

He said that he flew over the river Thursday and everything looked good.

Reservoirs are filling and the water at Palsades Dam now is sufficient to meet full power needs. In fact, he said, the reservoir is only a foot below the full mark.

The heavy carryover of storage water last fall, and the abundance of snow and rain this year, have kept the supply high, Tracy said.

The cold, early summer weather last year helped maintain stream flows throughout the year. Some normally dry up, but those streams are now running at 150 to 200 percent of normal, which is contributing to the heavy flow in the Snake River.

"I don't see any flood threats in our area at this time. On any stream such as the Wood River, where we have dams, we can anticipate the flow and run-off and should be able to control flows by preparing for upcoming conditions," the superintendent said.

Following legal advice, county returns rezoning proposal to P&Z

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It was back to square one Friday for a proposal to rezone 100 acres of land near Buhl for residential and commercial development.

Following the advice of the county prosecutor's office, the Twin Falls County commissioners decided to send the zoning proposal back to the county's Planning and Zoning Commission for further action.

Last month, the zoning board recommended that the county commission grant Cecil Lyons' 3-year-old request to change the zoning of his property, located on both sides of U.S. 30, one mile west of Buhl. The land currently is zoned for agricultural use.

Lyons wants to rezone an commercial land an area that is 600 feet back from the south side of the highway and 400 feet back from the north side of the road. The rest of the area would be developed as residential land, with a minimum lot size of 2.5 acres.

Last month, the zoning board pulled the proposal from the "parliamentary table," where it had been since a 1979 public hearing. The zoning board's favorable recommendation then came on at the breaking vote cast by the zoning board chairman, C.M. Landolf of Castletown.

But deputy prosecutor Dennis Voorhees concluded this week that the zoning board's actions were improper because a second public hearing was not held. In fact, one individual was denied an opportunity to speak. Voorhees said.

Voorhees concluded the decision was so flawed that it could not sustain a court challenge.

That opinion was followed Wednesday by the county commission's own public hearing, at which three individuals voiced opposition to the planned commercial development portion of Lyons' proposal.

The county commissioners' decision on the merits of the proposal will wait. Citing Voorhees' opinion, commission Chairman Ann Cover announced Friday that the county board had "come to the conclusion that it probably ought to be remanded (sent back) to the zoning board."

Commissioner Marvitt Hempheman concurred. Retiring Commissioner Merl Leonard was attending the opening of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust branch in Buhl and did not cast a vote.

The county commissioners' decision means that two more public hearings will be held on the issue. The first, before the zoning board, will be held in February — at the earliest, Cover said.

Cover said the commissioners decided to hold their hearing this week, despite Voorhees' opinion, for procedural reasons. Only after conducting the hearing could the county board decide whether to send the matter back to the zoning board or make its decision, she said.

Prosecutor 'helps' defendant

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man, who was facing a 10-year prison sentence, found an unlikely ally Friday. Judge Theron Ward, of the Fifth District Court, ordered Everett Paulsen, 79, of 474 Russett St., to serve up to 10 years in prison, after the defendant pleaded guilty to committing two first-degree burglaries during October, as well as violating his probation — imposed for a prior burglary conviction.

But Prosecutor Harry DeHaan intervened after Ward imposed the sentence, urging the judge to retain jurisdiction in the case for 120 days.

Under such a sentence, Paulsen would be sent to the North Idaho Correctional Institution at Cottonwood. Following the 120-day term, Paulsen would be eligible for probation.

DeHaan said he was making the move because Idaho Division of Probation and Parole officials believe Paulsen might be helped by the NICI program.

Ward complied with the request.

Robbery suspects stay in jail

TWIN FALLS — Two defendants, charged with attempting to rob a Buhl residence, were arraigned Thursday.

Cheryl McRoberts, 19, of 833 Shoshone St. in Twin Falls, and Donald Dean, 20, who gave his address as Filer, remained in the county jail Thursday. They have been charged with attempted armed robbery.

Bond for each defendant was set at $15,000. The pair are accused of attempting to rob the Lewis Robbins residence, southwest of Buhl, on Dec. 29. A probable-cause statement, filed in Fifth District Magistrate Court, states that a female threatened the victims with a shotgun outside their home. When the victims refused to follow the woman's orders, she and a male accomplice fled the area, one suspect remained in the area.

Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies arrested the defendants on the basis of descriptions provided by the victims.

'Turkey killer' is arraigned

TWIN FALLS — A 19-year-old Twin Falls man remained jailed Friday, in lieu of $1,500 bail, following his arraignment on charges that he threatened and struck security guards after killing several turkeys on Thanksgiving Day.

Robert Gonzales, of 734 Morningglade Drive, is charged with aggravated assault and aggravated battery in the Nov. 25 incident.

The incident began at 1:45 a.m. when security officers observed a man killing a group of turkeys that were penned up outside the Cablevision office, 261 Eastland Drive, according to a probable-cause statement filed in Fifth District Magistrate Court.

When discovered, the suspect climbed out of the pen and fled, the officers said.

During the subsequent chase, the suspect threatened one security officer, Tom Junier, claiming he had a gun, according to the statement. When Junier tripped, the suspect struck him with a stick, the officers said.

Burglaries yield second arrest

TWIN FALLS — A second Twin Falls man has been arrested and charged with going on a burglary spree, last month.

Jamie Wynia, 18, of 744 Second Ave. W., was arraigned Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court on four counts of first-degree burglary. He remained in the county jail Friday, in lieu of $2,000 bail.

Earlier this week, Twin Falls police arrested 18-year-old Charles Skelvas of 140 Seventh St. W. He also remained jailed Friday, in lieu of $6,000 bail.

Police say the two defendants are responsible for: the Nov. 29 burglary of the Elks Lodge, 205 Shoshone St. N.; the Dec. 5 burglary of Freddie's Bar, 727 Main Ave. W.; the Dec. 19 burglary of Lincoln Elementary School, 238 Second St. N.; and the Dec. 28 burglary at the Golden Palace restaurant, 119 Second Ave. W.

The public defender's office has been appointed to represent Wynia. He has requested a preliminary hearing on the charge.

In an unrelated case, two Buhl men have been charged with second-degree burglary in connection with the theft of stereo equipment on Dec. 31.

David Patrick Floyd, 18, and Michael Anton Rill, 18, are charged with burglarizing the Troy Monroe residence, located at the Sportsman Lodge Trailer Park in Twin Falls. Rill, who was arraigned Friday, was released without bail. He has requested a preliminary hearing.

Floyd, who was arraigned Thursday, remained in the county jail.

Arizona 'wants' Twin Falls man

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was arrested Thursday by U.S. Border Patrol officers, on a warrant issued by the U.S. District Court in Tucson, Ariz., charging illegal transportation of aliens.

Felix Alaniz, 54, of 644 Oak St., was taken to Boise on Friday for arraignment before a U.S. magistrate, who set bond at $10,000 and put Alaniz in the custody of a U.S. marshal for delivery to officials in Arizona.

Border Patrol officers in Twin Falls arrested Alaniz on several counts of inducing aliens to illegally enter the United States and aiding and abetting in transporting illegal aliens. A warrant for his arrest was issued following a grand jury indictment in Arizona.

ISP investigates two minor mishaps Friday

TWIN FALLS — Idaho State Police officers investigated two accidents Friday in which a Hansen woman suffered minor injuries and a truck loaded with cotton seed overturned.

Officers said Carmy Ann Clark, no age given, suffered a fractured collarbone about 8:56 a.m. when her pickup left the highway and rolled over, one mile north and a half-mile east of Hansen.

She was treated and released at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

ISP officers were at the scene of the truck accident, which occurred southwest of Jerome, for more than three hours. The accident took place at 4:10 p.m., four miles south and one west of Jerome.

Driver Lynus Schell of Rupert, who was hauling cotton seed, attempted to turn a corner on a detour road but the roadway was too narrow to accommodate his vehicle, and the truck overturned.

Schell was not injured in the mishap.

Harry DeHaan, the Twin Falls County prosecutor, objected to Barchus's procedure as one that could set a dangerous precedent.

"I share Mr. Barchus's concern about what goes on behind the walls of that penitentiary," DeHaan said. "However, I don't feel, your honor, that the proper remedy for handling prisoners who are treated improperly is to terminate their sentences."

Ward agreed. The judge said he did not believe he possessed the authority to grant Piper's request. Only the Idaho Board of Pardons could release him, he said.

"I cannot bring myself to usurp the authority of that board," Ward said. "I admire Judge Granata for having the intestinal fortitude to do what he did. I do not agree with him. But I admire him."

But Ward then suggested commutation as an alternative. Ward admitted his decision to commute the sentence was "contrary to what I just said. But I will do it."

Cardinal Bernardin's 'promotion' continues Chicago tradition

By BRUCE BUURMSA
Chicago Tribune

CHICAGO — In a surprisingly swift development, Archbishop Joseph Louis Bernardin, barely four months into his administration as spiritual leader of 2.4 million Roman Catholics in the Archdiocese of Chicago, was selected this week by Pope John Paul II for membership in the church's powerful Sacred College of Cardinals.

The 54-year-old Chicago prelate will be elevated to the college in a liturgical ceremony at the Vatican on Feb. 2, in a specially called consistory of the highest-ranking international figures of the Catholic Church.

Bernardin's rapid formal ascent to the office of cardinal surprised many church observers and underscored both the apparent papal esteem for the American prelate and the importance of the Chicago archdiocese, the most populous and influential Catholic jurisdiction in North America.

At a press conference in the rectory of the Holy Trinity church, Bernardin asserted that his imminent elevation to cardinal is "first and foremost a tribute to the goodness and greatness" of the members of the archdiocese. He also said he has decided that the most "appropriate way to commemorate" the occasion is to forego a traditional church-sponsored charter flight from Chicago to Rome, with its large contingent of friends and well-wishers.

Because of the "poor economy and the large number of people out of work," the archbishop said, he is settling up a charity fund and requesting people to contribute to it. The money they would have spent on travel expenses. The proceeds, he says, will be evenly divided between the pope's worldwide charities and Chicago-area charities of the archbishop's choosing.

Bernardin says he will be accompanied to Rome by an unspecified number of aides and relatives, but he says that his aged mother, Maria, will not be able to accompany the group. He reports, however, that she was delighted with the news when he visited her Wednesday morning in her North Side nursing home.

Bernardin will join four previous Chicago Catholic archbishops who served their tenures in the city. Archbishop George Mundelein, who served here from 1915 to 1937, was the first Chicago prelate to enter the card-inalate, a tradition that endured through the administrations of Samuel Stritch, Albert Meyer and John Cody. Cody was appointed archbishop of Chicago in 1965, but waited for two years before being awarded a red cardinal's hat.

Bernardin was informed of his election to the office last Friday by Archbishop Pio Laghi, the Vatican's apostolic delegate to the 51-million-member U.S. Catholic Church.

The designation of Bernardin to the College of Cardinals is largely honorific, carrying with it no additional responsibilities in his continuing role as the chief pastor of Chicago-area Catholics. But it does place him among a select group of 133 international "princes of the church," from whose ranks Roman Catholic pontiffs traditionally emerge.

After his elevation to cardinal, Archbishop Bernardin will be eligible until his 80th birthday to vote in the Vatican conclaves held to elect a new pope.

Occasional "consistories" bring the pontiff, who by church convention looks upon cardinals as his "principal assistants and advisers."

CSI will offer two courses concerning religious topics

TWIN FALLS — Prophecies about the "last days" of Earth and world religions will be the subjects of two new College of Southern Idaho short courses that begin this month.

There is a lot of interest in apocalyptic prophecies because "so many seem to be coming true," says Father Joseph Harry Maszuch of St. Basil, Mass. He is a former regional director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews in northern Nevada.

For example, one religious forecast has the Jews returning to the Biblical Holy Land, which is seen as the creation of the state of Israel, Maszuch says.

Christian bookstores have shelves full of materials dealing with the second coming of Jesus Christ and the last days of the world, Maszuch says.

"A million Christians believe the second coming to occur between now and the end of the century," Maszuch says. The Bible's group has a course on the last days of the world.

Instead, the CSI course will review the beliefs of several religions in the foretold world encompassing event, which is called by many names.

In the world religion class, a broad overview of the history of Christianity will be offered. Because there are so many Christian religions, the course will provide an opportunity to examine the central beliefs and practices of a variety of religious traditions, as well as the cultural and historical setting in which the beliefs were developed, Maszuch says.

Speakers from various religious groups will be invited to present a "first-hand view" of their beliefs, he says.

"The World of Religion" will begin Monday, Jan. 17, and meet for seven weeks from 7 to 9 p.m. The cost of the class is $16.

"Bible Prophecy: The Last Days" will start Thursday, Jan. 20, and meet from 7 to 9 p.m. for eight weeks.

To register or for more information call 733-9554.

Our church news guidelines

The Times-News encourages any church in the Magic Valley area to submit information for our listing of church services, which appears each Sunday.

- To ensure your information is used, follow these guidelines:
- The deadline for church news is Thursday noon.
- Typewritten or plainly printed information is best; it helps eliminate errors.
- Provide full information — complete names, times, locations, day and date. Include the name of the community — we serve many — and a phone number to call if more information is needed.
- If you have questions about church news, call 733-9531 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and ask for Glenda May or Jon Kinney.

CSI romps; W. Wyoming nips Chukars

By LARRY HOVEY
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For the first 10 minutes it didn't look like College of Southern Idaho had taken a month off.

Sparked by the play of Gerald Kennedy, the Golden Eagles broke smartly from the gate and never trailed in downing New Mexico Military 65-65 in their first showing since the K and T Steel Tournament in Farmer got CSI going again. Ron Beach picked up four points and Haley added a free throw. With 9:40 left in the game, CSI had rebuilt its advantage to 59-43.

From the 4:40 to 3:41 marks, Rohr hit a jumper. Kennedy picked up five points and Ralph Barreras added two to blow things open at 73-49.

Treasure Valley, although trailing much of the second half, ran into too much Slappey and then a 23-second burst that cost it seven points

Earlier in the night, Glenn Slappey used his quickness and shooting eye to lead Western Wyoming to a 71-67 decision over Treasure Valley.

The teams remain in action tonight and although this is called a double-header, it actually evolves into a tournament. TVCC and NMMI will play for "consolation" honors at 7 p.m. today while CSI and Western Wyoming play in the 9 p.m. finale.

CSI Coach Davo Campbell entered the game with some trepidation since New Mexico Military had averaged 97 points over its first 15 games. The Eagles came out in a sticky man defense and took play away from the Broncos from the outset.

"Our defense took them out of their offense... It didn't set them back on their heels and I don't think they ever did find their offensive stride," Campbell said. "I was really pleased with the way our guys played the first 10 minutes. After that we got a little sloppy at times with our passing and shot selection but overall I thought it was a pretty good effort for coming off the holidays. It was the type of game we needed."

"I think we'll have a good game tonight and then with Eastern Utah coming in Monday night we should be back in pretty good shape," he said.

Kennedy was at his best in the early going as he took CSI into a 24-12 lead in the first 4:11. He had 11 points, five rebounds, two steals and a blocked shot during that span.

He and Phil Rohr opened the game with buckets and CSI moved ahead 8-2 before Pat Elmore steadied the Broncos for a while.

Although the Eagles gained that 24-12 spread with relative ease, NMMI finished the half with the best play. CSI broke ahead by 14 points at 38-24 on a Brian Schroeder outside shot but in the final three minutes the Broncos refused to wilt much more and trailed 42-30 at intermission.

Early in the second half, Dewey Haley and Rohr took the lead into a 50-34 lead and it appeared the rout may be on. But Elmore, Ned Starkey and Billy Rodriguez answered with eight points. The Broncos closed to within 50-43 before John Irby and Ed

Through the first 17:30, it was a two-point game with several lead changes and eight ties. Western Wyoming took the lead to stay on a jumper by Steve Allen and a pair of Slappey free throws made it 25-21 with 2:36 left in the half. Mike Askey then picked up four straight points as Western Wyoming moved ahead by eight and still had that margin at halftime.

Early in the second half Western Wyoming upped its advantage to 11 points before Treasure Valley came up with a flurry. Kirby Ward hit twice and Larry Poston and Chris Yonge added field goals as the Chukars trimmed the deficit to 44-39. But then came the decisive spurge.

Slappey picked up a three-point play on a fast break — the field goal coming on a goal-tend call. Western Wyoming then swiped two quick in-bounds passes which Mark Parker converted into four points.

That broke the Spartans back to a double-digit lead and with 6:24 left they had pushed ahead by 15.

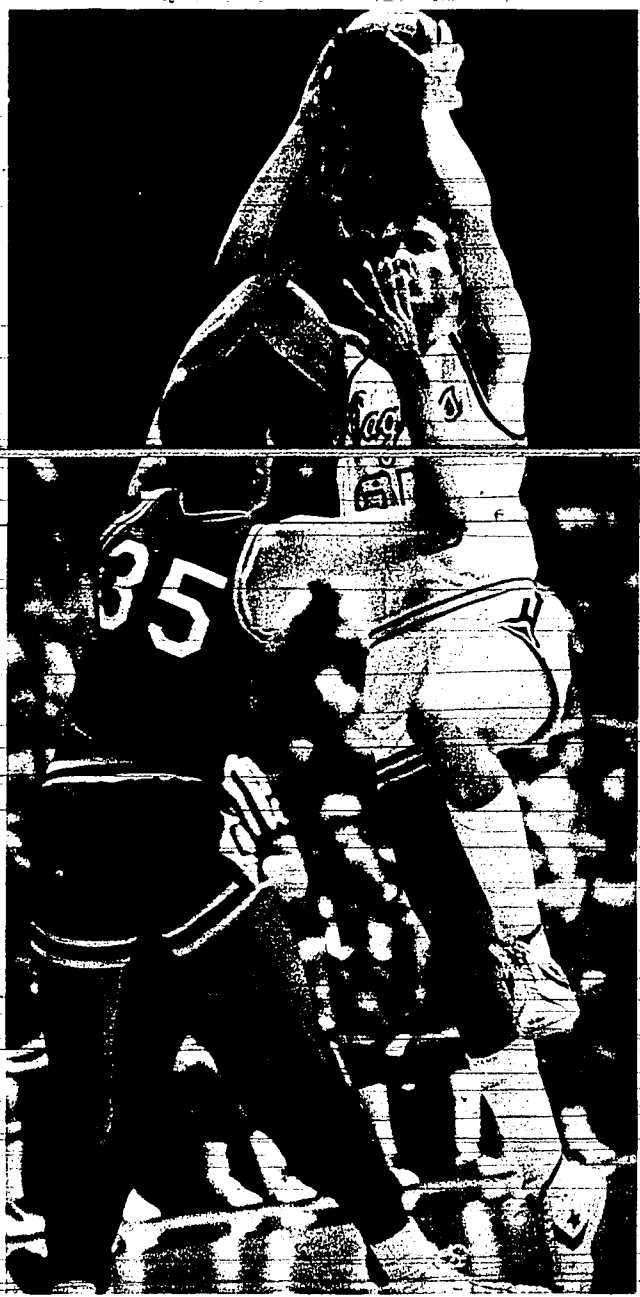

Treasure Valley flurried back as Greg Langley and Mark Pericin warmed up but four was as close as it could get.

'Dogs 'tilt' Filer

By CHRIS HAFT
 Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — For all intents and purposes, the basketball was a pinball, and the Kimberly Bulldogs and Filer Wildcats were human return levers redirecting the ball all around the court except where it was supposed to be.

But the final "tilt" sign flashed against Filer, as the Bulldogs gained a 51-47 Canyon Conference triumph Friday night which lifted them into a three-way tie for first place with Glens Ferry and Valley, each with Both teams were playing their first game since Dec. 18, but they appeared to have been "inactive" since the Pleistocene era. Mistakes of all sorts predominated in the first half, subsiding only slightly after intermission. Poor shooting was the norm: Kimberly sank just 19 of 58 shots from the floor, Filer 17 of 47.

Fittingly, the 61 Bulldogs saved their worst spate of errors for the closing moments. Holding a 50-44 lead with less than three minutes to go, Kimberly committed turnovers on four straight possessions, allowing the Wildcats to make the score close.

Even baskets were products of ludicrous play. Late in the second quarter, Kimberly's Earl Molyneux was fouled on a jump shot, but the last-second decision to pass. Meanwhile, every defender turned to the basket for the would-be rebound. Molyneux's fling struck a player in the back of the head, caromed off the backboard and fell directly into the hands of Bulldog Tim Ferrell, who dutifully put the ball through the hoop.

Each coach admitted the game was sloppy at best.

"I thought we played a lot better in the second half as far as turnovers are concerned, but in the first half, it was a case of not taking care of the basketball," Kimberly Coach Rich Thompson said. "We gave up the ball way too much."

"Everybody was here and there, run and gun," observed Filer Coach Loyd Garey, whose team fell to 3-4 overall and 2-3 in the conference. "The kids had to change their game, and the mistakes had a tendency to spread."

Becoming momentarily immune to the epidemic of errors, the Bulldogs earned their victory by outscoring Filer 18-5 during the first five minutes of the fourth quarter; displaying luck on defense and luck on offense. More than any other Bulldog, 6-center Kevin Holcomb embodied both qualities.

With 7:05 left and Kimberly trailing 37-36, Holcomb put the Bulldogs in front by hitting both ends of a one-and-one. He then journeyed downcourt and freed Greg Jarolimek for a layup shot, but Holcomb blocked it. Eric Wannan grabbed the ball, missed a breakaway layup, but drew and foul and hit two free throws for a 40-37 Bulldog advantage.

That accounted for Holcomb's luck. The luck came when he twice missed easy shots underneath, yet remained in position for the rebound and followed his own misses through the basket. Those two hoops, along with buckets by Wannan, Molyneux and Jeff Livingston, pushed Kimberly further ahead while Filer could amass just two baskets and a free throw.

Elmer Peters' short jumper with exactly three minutes left brought Filer within 50-44 and equalled the start of Kimberly's turnover binge. But the Wildcats missed the front ends of two one-and-ones, largely negating Kimberly's ineptitude.

Not much was inept about Kimberly's defense during their decisive burst. "It definitely affected our offense," Garey said. "When it does that to the kids, they have to adjust."

Wolverines succumb in district A-2 contest

Burley uses balance to roll past Wood River

By JOHN JACKSON
 Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — There were no complaints about the quality of ball Burley turned in Friday night as the Bobcats built a big lead in the middle quarters to overwhelm Wood River, 53-37.

The Wolverines were without leading scorer and second-year starter Lee Ritzau, out with a broken bone in his leg. Wood River Coach Dick Richel compared Burley to undefeated and No. 1 Jerome, a team he hasn't played but has watched. Burley faces the Tigers Tuesday. "We're playing well," Burley Coach Gary Swan said. "We never let any group of kids play together very long tonight, and we played everyone. They each played a good physical game."

Nine Bobcats saw action in the first quarter, and that was before matters got out of hand. Burley held a narrow 12-10 advantage after the first period. At the half, it was 26-14 as Greg Boyd's three consecutive layups highlighted the Bobcats' surge.

For Wood River, which shot a miserable 16 of 53, the second quarter was a story of missed shots. The Wolverines endured six misses before Dale Karst scored on a crippler. Then they missed on five more trips downcourt before Mike Williams grabbed his own rebound and put it in for the only other Wood River basket of the quarter.

The Wolverines played deliberately in the third quarter. That style prevented both teams from scoring for four-and-a-half minutes before Burley's Kory Knopp stepped into the lane and sent home a basket. For the period, the Wolverines had increased their point production to five, giving them nine for the middle-half of the game, compared to 24 for Burley.

Karst led Wood River in the final quarter, collecting seven points as the Wolverines came as close as 46-36 before bowing out.

While praising the Bobcats, Richel said his team didn't play well. "We didn't shoot very much noise," he said, noting his team was not accustomed to the large crowd of the bigger school. "We haven't shot that poorly all season."

It was the first conference game for Wood River, the decision dropping the Wolverines to 5-4 overall. Burley is now 2-1 in the conference and also 5-4 on the season.

Burley won the junior varsity preliminary, 60-12.

'Looney' Alzado faces former teammates today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lyle Alzado doesn't try to fool anyone. Off the field, the Los Angeles Raiders' defensive end knows he's probably not rowing with both oars in the water. Early in the year he was quoted as saying that on every other team, he was the No. 1 player, but on the Raiders he was only about No. 6.

Asked about the quote recently, Alzado replied: "Hey, you can use a better word than 'looney.' 'Looney' is back of the 50s. How about 'camping out on the edge of reality?' I don't know where I rank on this team, but there's a lot of guys here that are living in the twilight zone."

Many would claim the twilight zone is a lot better than Cleveland, where Alzado was living last year.

On the field, Alzado isn't out to fool anyone, either. "I'm a power rusher," he said. "I use some technique, but I GUESS I'm a stone-age player. I'd just as soon run over somebody than run around them."

Today, Alzado greets his former Cleveland teammates when the Raiders and Browns clash in the Coliseum in the opening round of the AFC playoffs.

The 33-year-old Alzado and the Browns parted company last April. The terms were not amicable.

"Traded for an eighth-round draft choice! It was embarrassing," the 6-foot-3, 265-pound Alzado said. "It made me so angry. I was so darn loyal to Cleveland."

"I thought, maybe that's enough of this, maybe I should go on to something else. But the more I thought about it, the more I didn't want to go out after the way I played last year (with a torn calf muscle). I didn't want to go out injured and not having a good year."

He said his decision to report to the Raiders was based on personal pride.

"I started to hear that I couldn't play anymore, that I was washed up," he said. "Some of the people from the front office here told me that the Browns had said my logs were gone. The more I heard it, the more it annoyed me. It just fired me up to come back."

And come back he did. As has been the case in the regular season, Alzado's performance will be crucial to the outcome of Saturday's contest.

He supplies the power from the left side of the defensive line while 22-year-old Howie Long anchors the other side.

"The difference between the teams is that the Raiders on defense are an attacking team while the Browns read, then attack," Alzado said. "Cleveland has almost as many explosive guys as San Diego. They can be down 20-10 and hit you real quick. What scares me about Cleveland is the offensive line. They fight you tooth and nail and then battle you some more."

The Raider defense is ranked first in the AFC against the rush.

Odds makers have installed the Raiders, 8-1 in the regular season, a solid 8 1/2-point favorite over the Browns, who finished the regular season with a 4-5 mark.

Borg tops Connors

McEnroe beats Lendl

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — Bjorn Borg used groundstrokes and a powerful service Friday night to knock off Jimmy Connors 6-4, 1-6, 6-2 in the $250,000 Challenge of Champions tennis tournament.

In earlier matches, John McEnroe crushed Ivan Lendl 6-3, 6-2 and Flit Tetscher beat Sandy Mayer 7-6, 6-3. Borg overwhelmed Connors, scoring with nine aces and an assortment of overhead slams.

In the opening set, Borg forced Connors into numerous errors and in the seventh game grabbed a 5-2 advantage, scoring with three of the four aces he collected in the opening set.

Borg broke Connors' service in the final game of the set as Connors hit two shots wide. In the second set, however, Connors broke Borg's service in the opening game and coasted to a 4-0 advantage before Connors could grab a single game. Connors won the sixth and seventh games to square the match at one set apiece.

In the third set, Connors lost his service in the opening game as Borg baffled Connors with a variety of forehand smashes and backhanders that forced Connors to run from one side of the court to the other.

Borg again broke Connors' service in the fifth game. Connors held service in the seventh game. In the eighth and final game, Connors had Borg down 15-40 but Borg rallied to tie the game at deuce with his ninth ace and then won the next two points as Connors hit returns into the net.

McEnroe won his third straight match. He picked up five aces and scored with several service winners as Lendl continually faulted on his first service and was unable to return several McEnroe bullets.

Jerome pins Am. Falls

JEROME — Troy Wall raised his record to 13-0 with a pin at 126 pounds to highlight the Jerome' 50-14 romp over American Falls Friday night.

American Falls picked up just three victories all week, as Jerome moved his season record to 4-0.

Jerome's Dan Karr moved his mark to 13-2 with a 13-0 win over Charlie Turner at 112 pounds.

The Tigers won Friday's slim junior varsity match, 15-9.

Jerome will be at Buhl today to compete with the Indians and Salmon.

and, when they adjust, they make mistakes."

The Bulldogs' defensive thrust was most keenly felt by Piler's guards, Garey noted. "The fact that they pressured our guards changed our momentum, and that (Piler's guard play) is what I feel is one of our strengths."

Neither team displayed many strengths in the first half. Piler built an early five-point lead at 8-3, but by the end of the first quarter Kimberly was within 10-9. Then the Bulldogs moved to a five-point advantage of their own, 23-18, but sure enough, by halftime the Wildcats trailed by just one, 23-22.

Piler won the junior varsity preliminary, 55-46.

Theismann finds playoff preparations tedious

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any veteran NFL quarterback who hasn't been in the playoffs has to be bubbling with excitement over finally making the post-season shootout ... well, almost.

Washington Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann, bubbly almost all the time, is more subdued this week.

For one thing, he's been awake several nights helping care for his 11-year-old son who is battling a virus. For another, he's been busy making sure all the loose ends are tied preparing for the Detroit Lions' today (10:30 a.m. MST) visit to RFK Stadium.

defense that concerns Lions Coach Monte Clark.

"The Redskins are a very physical, solid, sound team," said Clark, whose team has never won in nine games at Washington and is 3-15 against the Redskins. "That (defensive tackle Dave) Butts is a load, but I'd say their best pass rusher is that defensive end Dexter Manley."

Clark will go with Eric Hipple at quarterback, both because he is more mobile than Gary Danilson and because Hipple had a big day against the Redskins last season. Hipple completed 14-of-22 passes for 282 yards and a touchdown in the Lions' 33-31 1981 loss at RFK Stadium.

Washington hasn't been in the playoffs since 1976 when it lost, 35-20, at Minnesota in the opening round. They last won a playoff game in 1972 when they advanced to Super Bowl VII before losing, 14-7, to the unbeaten Miami Dolphins.

Detroit's last playoff appearance was a 5-0 loss to Dallas in 1970. Its last playoff victory was a 59-14 romp over the Cleveland Browns in the 1967 NFL championship game.

"I've always thought it would be very exciting to be in the NFL playoffs, but it isn't quite the way I imagined," said Theismann, a Pro Bowl selection for the first time in his nine-year career.

"I've been so busy preparing for Detroit, that I haven't thought about this as a playoff game. It's been a busier week than usual because we have one less day to get ready. It seems like any other game, except we know that if we lose, we won't play next week.

"I'm thrilled that our club is good enough to be in the playoffs. But for personal excitement, this is no more exciting to me than just being the quarterback of the Washington Redskins."

The NFL's top-rated quarterback for 1982, Theismann completed nearly 64 percent of his passes (161-of-252) for 2,033 yards and 13 touchdowns with only nine interceptions.

His challenge against the Lions, however, is complicated by changes at every key position because of injuries. Wide receiver Art Monk is out with a broken bone in his right foot, so Charlie Brown, who averaged 21.6 yards on 32 catches, will switch positions.

Brown normally lined up opposite Monk, but will go to the opposite side of many formations with Virgil Seyas as his running mate. Alvin Garrett, bothered recently by a sprained ankle, will also play.

Another change has kick return specialist Mike Nelms moving from the defensive backfield to wide receiver. Tight end Clint Didier, a wide receiver in college, also will see some duty as his old position.

"All the switching doesn't bother me or change my preparation," said Theismann. "I still have to read the defense and throw where there is the least coverage, no matter who is running the pattern."

Although the Redskins are making moves with their offense, it's their

10,000 seats still unsold in Green Bay

GREEN BAY, WIS. (UPI) — Green Bay Coach Bart Starr said Friday no one should judge the St. Louis Cardinals by their 28-0 loss last week against the Washington Redskins.

The Packers, 5-3-1, met the Cardinals, 5-4, at 10:30 a.m. MST today in an NFC playoff game at Lambeau Field. The Packers are 3 1/2-point favorites.

The game marks the Packers' first playoff contest in Starr's eight years as coach, yet 10,000 tickets remained unsold as of late Friday. Green Bay makings its first playoff appearance since 1972, has sold out every game at Lambeau since 1959.

"I'm disappointed, obviously," Starr said. "But we'll look forward to having the rabid fans who are here cheer us on."

Starr wouldn't get into the reasons people might have for staying home. But if they think St. Louis isn't worth the misery of a bone-chilling day in Lambeau Field, they're mistaken.

Starr made that clear in listing the Cardinals' offensive strengths, starting with running back Otis Anderson, who ranks fourth in NFC rushing with 387 yards.

"He is one of the premier runners in the game today, and when you combine that with a very explosive, aggressive offensive line, they really run the ball well," Starr said. "They have an excellent passing game. They blend it well. They're balanced. I'm sure you can detect that we respect their offense a great deal."

Starr was reminded, however, that the Cardinals failed to score last week.

"Well, I think some of the things — let me back off a minute," he said. "I think, perhaps St. Louis hurt its own chances at times. Not taking anything away from Washington, but those things happen in a ball game."

"Sometimes you don't play as well as you're capable of playing, and they are very capable. We saw them a few weeks ago in preparing for Atlanta. We saw the Cardinal-Atlanta game, and I can tell you now, they played extremely well in that one; they did against the Giants, against the Bears. They're good."

The Packers are led by their one-two receiving punch of John Jefferson (27 catches for 472 yards) and James Lofton (35 for 696). In addition, Lynn Dickey has thrown for 12 TDs and Eddie Lee Ivory collected 453 yards and 9 TDs.

Starr said he was equally impressed with the Cardinal defense coached by Floyd Peters.

Ground-oriented Dolphins, Pats battle in Miami today

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins and the New England Patriots — the only two teams in the NFL that have gained more yards on the ground this year than through the air — slug it out today in an AFC playoff game billed as "a son of snowplow."

The Patriots, 5-4, have gained 1,347 yards rushing to 1,286 passing and the Dolphins' Infantry has picked up 1,344 yards compared to 1,314 on the arms of David Woodley and relief specialist Don Stock.

The difference is the Patriots did it by design and the Dolphins, 7-2, did it because their passing game took all season to get on track.

Both teams managed to air it out in lopsided wins last Sunday. But that doesn't mean New England

Coach Ron Meyer won't go back to the grind-it-out approach against the Dolphin defense, best in the league against the pass, or that the Dolphin offense has solved all its problems.

Woodley's big day Sunday came against the hapless Baltimore Colts, everybody's patsy this season. But Dolphin Coach Don Shula is trying to look on the bright side.

"It looks like Woodley is coming back now," he said. "For two weeks in a row, against the Jets and Buffalo, Woodley was inches away from big plays. It was good to see some of the plays start to happen against Baltimore."

The Patriots relied on the running of Mark van Eeghen, Tony Collins and Mossi Talupu until Sunday when Meyer unleashed quarterback Steve Grogan. He responded with 20 completions in 34 attempts for 250 yards and two touchdowns in a 30-19 victory over Buffalo.

Meyer, however, is extremely wary of the Dolphins' ability to produce turnovers and may pull the Patriot attack back into its conservative shell.

"Their defense is equivalent to the San Diego offense in making the big plays," he said. "We've got a big concern about our ability to control the ball, move the ball and score points against them."

Intangibles also are working against New England this weekend. The Patriots have not won in Miami since 1966, disension has plagued the squad in recent weeks and the snowplow incident in Miami's 3-0 loss at Foxboro, Mass., Dec. 12 has the Dolphins riled.

Meyer shrugs off a losing streak and said he is "not overly concerned" about reports that as many as 30 Patriots want to go elsewhere because of disagreement with Meyer's coaching and strict discipline.

"When you're dealing with 49 personalities, you probably have 49 varied opinions, particularly on running the football squad," Meyer said.

I'm not ducking the issue, because if you take a laissez-faire attitude about it I think that's a blow to the particular individual who might have legitimate concerns."

Both coaches are trying not to talk about the snowplow caper last month when Meyer waved a tractor onto the field to clear a place in the snow, allowing John Smith to kick the game-winning field goal in the last five minutes.

Shula, who lashed out at the Patriots after the game, now says, "I said what I had to say and I'm not going to dwell on it."

Meyer said he would not do it again.

TIM SPENCER
USFL's No. 2 pick

Spencer joins Blitz

DES PLAINES, Ill. (UPI) — The Chicago Blitz Friday announced the signing of first-round draft choice Tim Spencer of Ohio State.

"This is history in the making," said Blitz Coach George Allen. "This is a milestone and it's just a beginning. I knew that he was a great football player but after a five-minute visit, I knew I wanted him on our football team."

The Blitz obtained Spencer as a second pick of the U.S. Football League draft through a trade with the Arizona Wranglers. Spencer was Ohio State's Most Valuable Player in 1982, an All-Big Ten tailback and a second-team All-America choice.

"It was the best choice I could have made," Spencer said. "The Chicago Blitz have a great program and great coaches who all have been winning for a number of years. I don't think I could have made a better choice. I like to win."

He was offered a four-year, no-option contract. Other contract details were not disclosed.

Team owner Ted Dietrich said the addition of Spencer to the roster will enhance the club's prospects.

"The Blitz attack is on," he said. "We will return to Chicago a football team that Chicago can be proud of."

In 1982, Spencer led the Big Ten in rushing with a 129.2-yard average, led the league in all-purpose running with a 151.4-yard average, was eighth nationally in rushing with a 124.8 average and was ninth nationally in all-purpose at 145.7.

Spencer will return to Ohio State following the 1983 USFL season to complete his degree requirements.

49ers' assistant takes Indiana job

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — San Francisco 49ers assistant coach Sam Wyche was named Indiana University's football coach Friday and promised a wide-open passing attack similar to the one the 49ers have used the past three years.

Wyche, 38, who was San Francisco's quarterback coach the past four seasons, replaced Lee Corso, who was fired last month.

Hoch's 63 nets lead at Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Scott Hoch, starting his fourth year on the PGA tour, tied the course record of 7-under-par 63 Friday to take the lead after the second round of the $300,000 Tucson Open.

Hoch toured the Randolph Park North Course in 31 and 32, which, with his opening-round 67, gave him a 36-hole total of 10-under-par 130.

Rookie Joey Russell was one stroke back, losing his chance for a tie when his putt for par rimmed the cup on the 18th. Alone in third at 134 was Scott Simpson, who shot a 68 Friday after an opening 66.

Four-time Tucson winner Johnny Miller was at 135, along with Lanny Wadkins, Kevin Pergus, Calvin Peete and Jay Haas. Miller shot a 69 Friday. Wadkins, Pergus and Peete each had a 67 and Haas a 69.

Eighty players advanced to Saturday's and Sunday's battle for the $54,000 first prize. The cut, to the low 125, was made on a par 67.

Among those falling to make the cut was defending champion Craig Stadler — the leading money-winner on the 1982 tour — who shot a 66-a-over-75 Friday and finished at 143.

Hoch placed 16th on the 1982 money list with earnings of $193,862, despite missing 11 weeks with a pinched nerve in his back.

He said a fall trip to Japan, where he won two tournaments, "was a great confidence-builder."

"I've been hitting the ball well the last two or three months," Hoch said. "I didn't hit fantastically today but I had a phenomenal round putting. That was the key to today."

Gil Morgan, the first-round leader at 65, soared to a 1-over-par 71, taking three bogeys. Morgan was at 136 with Mark Hayes, who shot a 70, and Fuzzy Zoeller, who had a 70.

Clarence Rose, Lindy Miller and Clarence Rose were at 137, ahead of a pack of 11 tied at 138.

Colder air, snow help local resorts

TWIN FALLS — Cooler temperatures and some new snow Thursday night gave ski resorts a brighter outlook for weekend skiing.

Lower elevations have reported melting snow and even some rain earlier in the week.

Pomerelle received six inches of new snow Thursday night and Friday morning and Magic Mountain added two inches of snow during the same period.

Some spring skiing conditions were reported earlier in the week when several days of temperatures were in the high 30s and 40s.

Sandy Anderson of Pomerelle said total depths are now 71 inches at the Pomerelle lodge and 85 on the upper slopes. Magic depths range from 43 at the lodge to 60 at the top of the ski runs.

LEGAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Idaho Fish & Game Commission, in accordance with Sections 36-104 and 67-5202, Idaho Code, will hold its regular annual meeting commencing at 8 a.m., January 20, 1983, at their office at 600 South Walnut Street, Boise, Idaho. The purpose of this meeting will be to consider testimony on the following rules, regulations and orders:

1. The following will be finalized at the Commission meeting in May:
 - a. 1983 Big Game Opening Dates.
 - b. 1983 Boundary Changes.
 - c. 1983 Controlled Hunts.
2. 1983 Spring Turkey Season.
3. Amendment to the Classification and Protection of Wildlife to define game birds, upland game birds, or migratory game birds, and to change the designation. Boly Vant, as upland game birds, to the official term of bull trout.
4. Final approval of A Plan for Managing Idaho's Fishery Resources, 1981-1985; big game trophy species plan and bear and cougar plans.

Persons wishing to comment on the above subjects may do so by writing to the Secretary of the Commission, P.O. Box 25, Boise, Idaho 83707, or by appearing in person at the public meeting to be held commencing at 7:30 p.m., January 19, 1983, at the above-stated location.

BY ORDER OF: Idaho Fish & Game Commission
 JAMES F. KEATING
 Acting Secretary
 PUBLIC Hearing, Saturday, January 8, and 15, 1983.

Which of two suits offers the best chance-to-develop needed tricks, the stronger one or the longer one? There is no general answer, of course; so much depends upon the setting of each particular hand. The best approach is to deal with realities instead of illusions. Dummy's heart queen wins the first trick and declarer can count seven top winners. He has the option of trying for two more in either minor suit. The clubs are stronger, should he go for that suit? If declarer tries the clubs, the game goes down. He can club but that still leaves his total one short (one spade, three hearts, one diamond and three clubs). The diamond suit offers the better chance for two reasons: an eight card holding is likely to produce a 3-2 split and when diamonds are 4-1 or worse, there will still be time to try the clubs. After winning dummy's heart queen, declarer should lead a low diamond, allowing East to win. East leads a heart to declarer's ace and declarer leads another low diamond. East's queen winning. Another heart goes to declarer's ace and now the diamond suit can run. Nine tricks, a vulnerable

ANSWER: Four hearts. A sturdy single raise has improved because of the double suit fit. Play game in the longer combined suit holding.
