Employment gains fuel optimism

UNEMPLOYMENT RATE

National unemployment falls to 10.4 percent

By DREW VON BERGEN
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Unemployment dropped to a 10.4 percent rate in January, the first decline since the recession began, the Labor Department reported Friday.

The news signaled an air of optimism at the White House, where President Reagan said the dip, following reports of higher retail sales and auto sales, "is one more sign that America is on the mend."

—The seasonally adjusted jobless rate reflects a drop of 0.4 percentage points from December's 10.8 percent level.

which was the highest since the end of the Great Depression.

Despite earlier administration forecasts that the average rate for all of 1983 will be 10.9 percent, Reagan indicated he is more hopeful.

"There may be a month where it might level off or come up a little above 10.4," he told reporters, but added, "I don't think you'll see it come up above the high mark of 10.8."

Labor Statistics Commissioner Janet Norwood said, however, that seasonal adjustment factors may have exaggerated the January decline.

The unemployment report came as Democratic and Republican congressional leaders worked to develop new jobs-creating legislation, and the White House is considering an acceleration of construction projected proposed in the fiscal year 1984 budget.

The January rate was the first month-to-month drop since July, 1981; the same month economists consider the current recession to have started.

The data showed 11.4 million persons officially considered as unemployed in January, a drop of 590,000 from December, but employment increased by only 10,000 to 99.1 million.

Local, state statistics mirror national trend

BOISE — Idaho's unemployment rate declined for the third consecutive month during January to 7.6 percent, indicating the state's economy is slowly improving, the state Department of Employment reported Friday.

In the Magic Valley, the jobless figure also fell — to 6.6 percent. In December, the local rate had been reported initially at 7.7 percent, which would have been a record for unemployment in the valley, but follow-up surveys and modifications later reduced the seasonally-adjusted Deember rate to 6.8 percent.

"Relative to what we've been seeing, 6.8 percent is pretty good," Lon McDonald, the Department of Employment's labor-market analyst in Twin Falls, said Friday.

"No major layoffs have been seen (in the valley), and the unusually mild weather has kept some people working that in other years might be unemployed," he said.

But, McDonald added, "While this is good news, the labor force dropped 2.9 percent over last year at this time, indicating that there are more discouraged workers than last year."

State officials said Idaho's January unemployment figures compare to a seasonally adjusted jobless rate of 8.4 percent in December, and this month's rate was only two-tenths of a percent above the 7.4 percent rate for January, 1982.

And like McDonald, those same officials also said that one reason for the decline in unemployment was a continued fall in the number of workers in the state's civilian labor force, which last month totaled an adjusted 415,000 people.

Truck strike tensions grow

Reagan won't yield to demand

By DONALD E. MULLEN
United Press International

North Carolina National Guard helicopters flew straight-for-into striking truckers Friday, Maine ordered all law officers including game wardens to guard turnpikes in a stepped-up fight against highway terror.

Pennsylvania National Guardsmen stood by in the Keystone State that has borne the brunt of the shootings, stonings and burnings in the five-day strike.

President Reagan, reacting to a demand by the Independent Truckers for a rollback on laws raising fuel and highway use taxes, condemned the violence and said there would be no backing down.

"The worst thing in the world we could do would be to let any groups of citizens say they could change the laws of this country by committing murder," he said.

Since the Independent Truckers of America called the strike at midnight Sunday to protest the tax hikes, one truck driver has been killed and 87 other people have been injured in shootings and other strike-related violence.

School bus drivers in Ohio were instructed to turn on interior lights when traveling major highways after dark. State school superintendent Franklin B. Walter said the precaution would ensure school buses were not mistaken for trucks.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said 28 trucks have been hit by sniper fire since the protest began.

A mechanic and a truck driver were held under $1 million bond Friday, charged with seven counts of attempted murder for an early-morning sniper attack on a convoy near Rockford, Ill. Three truck drivers suffered minor injuries in the ambush.

Larry Mackeben, 18, a truck mechanic, and Robert J. Hopperstad Jr., 22, a truck driver, were held in the Boone County Jail pending a status hearing next week. Boone County Circuit Judge David England set bond at $1 million each.

The two are employed by LKR Trucking Inc. of Garden Prairie, an independent trucking business owned by Mackeben's father, police said. Deputies arrested the pair after stopping their car about 2 miles from the spot where seven trucks were peppered with gunfire on Interstate 90.

About 150 independent truckers visited truck stops along Interstate 70 in western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia in an attempt to dry up the fuel supply of truckers still on the roads.

"If they can't get fuel they can't drive," said Arnold Frankle, an Independent Truckers Association representative — from Bensenville, Pa. — Frankle met with William Nassis, manager of the huge Truck Stops of America facility near Wheeling, W.Va., but Nassis refused to close his facility.

The independent truckers pressed their action Friday with blockades and protests. Thousands of drivers refused to either voluntarily or through intimidation — to make their normal runs, causing shortages of fresh produce in some metropolitan areas.

North Carolina Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. ordered the National Guard helicopters to patrol busy truck routes in the state where there have been 17 incidents of shootings, including the killing of a Pennsylvania driver.

"I don't know anything more despicable than as sniper shooting," Hunt said.

A spokesman for Hunt said the helicopters would be equipped with infra-red detection equipment for nighttime surveillance.

Maine Gov. Joseph E. Brennan said he had canceled vacations and days off and ordered all state police, game wardens and marine officers onto highways after a Pennsylvania trucker was wounded by gunfire Thursday night.

Rubber faces
There were a variety of ugly faces and ugly costumes in the kindergarten classes Friday at Morningglade Elementary School in Twin Falls. Emily Holmes, Cheryl Foltman, Bryan Sommer and Jarad Jacobson, along with their classmates, were celebrating "Ugly Day." The children were learning the letter "U." The entire week's activities centered around the words umbrella, under, up and ugly.

State Corrections Director Crowl quits

By ELLEN MARKS
United Press International

BOISE — The director of the state Department of Corrections resigned Friday. Surprised board members said they didn't know Bill Crowl was ready to step down from the post he had held for nearly five years.

In a short written statement, Crowl said he was leaving the agency which has employed him for more than a decade for "personal reasons." He declined further comment on the decision.

"Bill's given the state and the department 12 good years," said Board Chairman Robert Anderson of Post Falls. "It's hard to replace that."

Board member Kent Remington said the director had performed "a hell of a job."

"We all feel really bad about it," said Remington of St. Anthony.

Crowl, who was in charge during a 1980 riot at the state penitentiary, was hired by the department 12 years ago after serving as a parole officer in California, officials said.

Bona Miller, administrator for administrative services, was named to temporarily replace Crowl until the board can choose a permanent chief sometime next month, Remington said.

Anderson said he was "somewhat surprised" Crowl decided to resign, but he said the administrator gave no details about his reasons. He said the board did not ask Crowl to resign, nor was there animosity that may have prompted him to quit.

"He said it was for purely personal reasons," Anderson said. "When we got the news this morning, we just went from there."

Report: Social Security woes understated

By D'VERA COHN
United Press International

WASHINGTON — New government figures show Social Security is deeper in debt than previously thought, because the nation's declining birthrate is producing fewer taxpaying workers, a congressional source said Friday.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said Social Security's actuarial will tell Congress next week the retirement system needs one-sixth more money over the next 75 years than a presidential commission presert predicts.

The commission report, the blueprint for congressional action, urges increased payroll taxes, a six-month benefits freeze and taxing of benefits for the first time to raise $168 billion over the next seven years and two-thirds of the system's long-term debt. The panel estimates the debt at 1.8 percent of the nation's taxable payroll.

But the congressional source said Social Security's actuaries, using more recent fertility figures, will predict the need is closer to 2.1 percent of payroll — a 16 percent increase.

If the new numbers raise the ante, they could end a long-standing battle. A commission majority suggested raising the retirement age to solve the long-term problem. Liberal Democrats, including Committee Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., say they will never accept that, preferring a standby tax hike.

Questioned about that possibility, Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, chairman of the House Social Security subcommittee, said the revised estimates will not jeopardize the commission package in Congress.

"If that happens, it poses a problem, but not an insurmountable difficulty," he said. In an interview, it's not a political problem. "It's a budgetary matter."

Congressional aides also said they are concerned it may not raise enough money from 1984 to 1987. The plan raises $25 billion in 1983, but nearly half its savings — $78 billion — come in 1988 and 1989. The years in between raise no more than $20 billion each.

The commission suggested enacting a "fall-safe" plan — tax hikes, benefit curbs or general revenue borrowing — in case savings fall short. Pickle said general revenue borrowing cannot be rejected.

The National Association of Manufacturers, whose president, Alexander Trowbridge, served on the presidential panel, endorsed the package Friday despite reservations about its payroll tax hikes.

The National Council on the Aging issued a statement complaining of the proposal's six-month benefit freeze, but said Congress could eliminate that proposal with "minimal" dislocation of the rest of the compromise.

The plan picked up important support late Thursday from the Save Our Security coalition of 140 retiree, handicapped and labor groups; 48 of its 50 board members voted to endorse it. The two dissenters were the American Association of Retired Persons and the Gray Panthers.

"Any attempt to cut Social Security and raise the military budget is an affront to the conscience and common sense of America," Maggie Kuhn, head of the Gray Panthers, said.

Meantime, Pickle, whose subcommittee began hearings Friday, indicated he might favor a one-year postponement, until 1985, of the requirement new federal employees join. Such a move would cost at least $1 billion in lost savings.

Defense

Former Pentagon officials disagree with budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of Democratic former Pentagon officials who support a strong defense said Friday President Reagan's fiscal 1984 defense budget is "well-motivated but ill-conceived."

"We agree with the Reagan administration that the military balance between the Soviet bloc and the Free World must be improved," they said in a statement.

"We also agree that our defense effort should be geared to the imperatives of security and not arbitrarily tied to percentage changes in domestic expenditures.

Attending a news conference and signing the statement by "Democrats for Defense" were Robert W. Komer, former undersecretary of defense; Russell Murray, former assistant defense secretary; John G. Kester, former special assistant to Defense Secretary Harold Brown; and retired Lt. Gen. Kenneth B. Cooper.

The group said Defense Secretary Caspar

Weinberger, instead of giving the priority he claimed to readiness and sustainability of the armed forces, earmarked the largest single increase for procurement of "big ticket" items such as the B-1B bomber and aircraft carriers.

The emphasis should be reversed, the statement said. Spending categories affecting armed forces readiness include ammunition, training, manuevers, spare parts, and up-to-date equipment.

Report says Air Force underestimates arms costs

By RICHARD C. GROSS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — A draft internal Air Force study made available Friday says the Air Force has underestimated the cost of buying planes, missiles and other weapons programs now under way by $30 billion over the next five years.

"In order to do realistic long planning, the Air Force must accept the possibility, or even necessity, of program cancellations," the study said.

If instead of canceling the weapons their purchase rate is cut back by 30 percent over the next five years, it would cost between $8 billion and $14 billion more each year to complete the planned buys, the study said. That could mean a maximum increase of $110 billion between 1983 and 1988.

The unclassified study, titled "Affordable Acquisition Approach," was commissioned in May by Air Force Secretary Verne Orr; the Air Force chief of staff at the time, Gen. Lew Allen; and the head of the Air Force Systems Command, Gen. Robert Marsh.

It was conducted by Air Force technical experts and contains the opinions of nine aerospace industry executives.

The reason for the study was to determine whether Air Force weapons cost more and take longer to produce today than in earlier decades. They do, the study said.

"Total program unit costs have increased substantially," it said. "Production rates are significantly lower, resulting in stretchouts."

"Stretchouts" is Pentagon language for stretching out the years it takes to complete purchasing the planned number of weapons sought.

The 131-page report has not been seen by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, Pentagon officials said. Both Republicans and Democrats in Congress have vowed to cut his proposed $238.6 billion budget for fiscal 1984, despite pleas by Weinberger and President Reagan that further reductions would "damage national security."

The Air Force acknowledged the existence of the study but declined to comment on it other than to say it has not been accepted officially.

The report was leaked to Congress and the media by the Project on Military Procurement, a non-profit group that seeks to inform the public about problems with weapons programs.

Jury decides judge didn't take bribes

MIAMI (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings, the first active federal judge ever to be tried on criminal charges, was found innocent Friday of charges that he conspired to take a $150,000 bribe from two racketeers.

The jury of seven women and five men returned the innocent verdict at 3:05 p.m. MST after 16 hours of deliberation since late Wednesday.

The 46-year-old Hastings, Florida's first black federal judge, broke into an ear-to-ear grin and several black spectators clapped and shouted "All right!"

Alan Erlich, Hastings' law clerk, burst into tears, grabbed the judge in a bear hug and then held up a sign Hastings keeps in his chambers reading "Success is the Best Revenge."

Outside the courthouse, a cheering group of about 50 people, including some courthouse employees, mobbed Hastings and reached out to shake his hand.

Hastings was charged with bribery conspiracy and obstruction of justice. The jury — which included two blacks — absolved him of both charges.

The judge, who claimed the charges were racially and politically motivated, said "Be assured, I'm going to be a judge for life."

"I'm delighted at the verdict," he told reporters outside the courthouse. "I fought the system as a lawyer. It was part of it as a judge, and then it fought me."

President buoyed by jobless rate drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Friday unemployment, the darkest shadow over his administration, has finally begun a downward trend and will not bounce beyond the post-Depression high level hit last year.

In a White House news conference,

Reagan also confirmed he is "looking at" the possibility of accelerating currently budgeted construction projects to provide additional jobs. And he predicted economic recovery will open 4.5 million more jobs by the end of next year.

Reagan took the verbal offensive shortly after the government released the latest unemployment figures, showing a decline in the jobless rate from 10.8 percent in December to 10.4 percent in January — the first such drop in 18 months.

"Today millions of Americans can take heart that unemployment has finally started down," he declared.

"This dip in unemployment, coming just after word of higher retail sales, higher auto sales are one more sign that America is on the mend," the president said in opening the 10-minute session with reporters.

Reagan talks to reporters, lets them eat cake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It was President Reagan's news conference, but his wife stole the show Friday when she crept into the White House press room carrying a birthday cake with a single lighted candle.

While correspondents, photographers and technicians sang an off-key "Happy Birthday," Nancy Reagan kissed her husband, turning the nationally televised news conference into a surprise party for Reagan, who will turn 72 on Sunday.

The president was ending a long and complex answer on the defense budget at the conclusion of the 10-minute conference when Mrs. Reagan, smiling, appeared in a doorway behind him, carrying the three-layered chocolate-frosted cake bearing a tall blue candle.

Unaware of what was happening, the president became perplexed as his answer was slowly drowned out by the laughter of reporters watching Mrs. Reagan make faces as she waited for him to stop talking.

Finally, Reagan saw her and was given the small cake and a big kiss. The end of the birthday song ended with a correspondent chiming in: "How old are you?" and the president responding, in tune, "And two days early."

"It's just the 31st anniversary of my 39th birthday and I'm enjoying every one of them," Reagan said. "And I think it's just fine, considering the alternative."

He blew the candle out with a single puff and Mrs. Reagan told him to make a wish. When reporters asked what it was, he quipped with a grin, "You should know what I'm wishing." One correspondent replied, "It's easy enough to guess, sir, it's easy enough to guess."

Mrs. Reagan also gave him a card that read, "I love you" on the front and inside, "What more can I say, Happy birthday." She signed it, "guess who?"

She then wheeled in a larger cake of the same type with "Happy Birthday Mr. President" spelled in white icing on the brown frosting, and handed out slices on small paper plates for the media members who were as surprised as the president about the sudden turn of events.

She gave Reagan the first piece, a corner cut, and insisted that he keep his lunch. When he tried to give it away, Mrs. Reagan said that would be bad luck and made him take a bite. "I'm used to her superstitions," he said, obeying.

Sectarian fighting spreads to Beirut

By JACK REDDEN
United Press International

Druze and Christian fighting overflowed from the Lebanese mountains Friday, sending shells and rockets smashing into east Beirut and killing five people. Stray shells hit U.S. Marine positions.

The 90-minute barrage against the Christian half of the capital hit as the streets were crowded with early evening traffic, sending people scurrying for cover.

Christian Christian Phalange radio reported five people were killed and 41 wounded in the attack on the city, with most leaving hospitals after treatment.

The radio said three civilians died in a car hit by a shell near the same spot where police said another shell killed two members of the Lebanese security police and wounded five.

There was no immediate report on the casualties in the fighting on the edge of the city. The Marines said the stray shells—in their area—landed harmlessly.

In southern Lebanon, three explosions rocked the Ayoun area 8 miles north of Israel's northernmost city of Metulish, the Israeli military said. It was unknown whether they were caused by Soviet-built Katyusha rockets, routinely used by Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas. Israel radio said there were no injuries and no damage in the area where U.N. peace-keeping forces have been deployed since 1978.

The PLO's Qusbi U.N. group command as saying it did not detect any shelling Friday.

The fighting near Beirut, which has continued almost non-stop for six days, erupted when radio reports said there was an unsuccessful attempt to kill a Druze leader Thursday night by setting off a bomb near his car.

Official Beirut radio said a cease-fire agreement to take effect at 1 a.m. EST Friday was broken within minutes, with shells landing in Hadath, site of the Lebanese University Faculty of Science where the Marines maintain a forward position, and Baabda, site of the presidential palace.

It was the second shelling of east Beirut since the Israelis withdrew last September.

Christian Phalange radio blamed the Druze in villages near Aramoun, 4 miles southeast of the Marines, for hitting the capital with 130mm shells and Grad missiles.

Heavy fighting also raged between Druze villages and shelling was reported on the western Christian part of Aley, with stray shells also hitting Lebanese army positions, police reported.

Recall drive gets the green light

Kimberly petition certified, but backers face long effort to recall four officials

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — The backers of a petition drive that would force a recall election against four of Kimberly's five elected city officials succeeded Friday in winning certification for the initial petitions.

But it's only a first step, and recall backers will have to obtain 107 more signatures from registered voters before any election will be held.

Targeted for recall are: Kimberly Mayor Rosa Lee Whitehead and Councilmen Ted Wasko, Avis Allen and Sterling Crothers.

The recall effort stems from a controversial decision made by council last week to reappoint Bill Malone as the city's public-works director and the law firm of Langley and Greenwood of Twin Falls as the city's legal counsel.

Under state law, an initial recall petition — bearing the signatures of 20 registered voters — must be filed with the city clerk's office before a full-fledged petition drive can begin.

Recall-drive backer Karen Mack of Kimberly got a false start Friday when city clerk Edythe Widmer determined that some of the signatures on the initial petitions were not valid.

"She was back within 45 minutes with the correct signatures," Widmer said.

Widmer's decision means that recall supporters will have 60 days to collect the signatures of 20 percent, or 127, of the 633 voters who were registered at the time of the 1981 municipal election. If they succeed, a special election will be held 30 to 45 days later.

Mack says that about 10 people will participate in the petition drive. But she says it is too early to tell how long the petition drive will take.

"We have 60 days, so I can't give you a date. We're hoping to get on it as soon as possible," she says.

State law prescribes that a successful recall drive must secure not only a majority of the votes cast in a special election, but also a number of votes equal to or greater than the number generated by the official at the time of his election.

According to Widmer, Whitehead was elected with 272 votes, Wasko with 230 votes, Allen with 204 and Crothers with 209.

When contacted Friday, Wasko and Allen said any statement at this time would be premature.

"We're going to sit tight for a little bit and see what happens," Allen said.

Whitehead and Crothers could not be reached for comment Friday.

Threats of a recall have been made almost from the moment that the three councilmen voted in favor of the appointments at a special Jan. 24 meeting. That session was required after Councilman Mike Langford blocked Whitehead's appointments of Malone and the law firm on Jan. 11. Wasko and Allen supported the appointments, but confirmation required three votes, and Crothers was absent from the first meeting.

Rehabilitation vs. punishment

Judge takes middle road in sentencing on case that sparked DeHaan's wrath

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man, whose plea for a second chance at probation last week led to a prosecutor speaking out against an area judge, got his way Thursday.

Judge Daniel Meehl's decision to suspend the balance of 20-year-old Kyle Wynia's one-year jail term followed a more than three-hour Fifth District Court hearing.

Meehl concluded that society would be served if Wynia, a self-admitted alcoholic, underwent treatment at State Hospital North at Orofino and subsequent counseling at Magic Valley Alcohol Recovery Centers at Twin Falls.

Meehl's conclusion was based partly on the testimony of an expert witness, who said Wynia's anti-social behavior was due in large part to a drinking problem. Meehl added that the seven months remaining on Wynia's jail sentence served as an incentive for the defendant to seek treatment.

"I hate to be blunt, Mr. Wynia, but at this time, I don't think you've got what it takes to seek a treatment plan on your own," Meehl said.

Last week, when it was first suggested that Wynia be released to seek alcoholic treatment, Prosecutor Harry DeHaan charged that Meehl was too inclined to order alcoholic-treatment programs, rather than harsh-prison sentences on repeat offenders. That criticism continued Thursday.

"He's (Wynia) a high-risk criminal; he doesn't deserve a chance. He's dangerous, and yet we put him on probation," DeHaan said.

DeHaan declined to comment further on his stated plan to disqualify Meehl from presiding over many other Fifth District criminal cases. He said only that "selective disqualification is always a weapon that is available to me, and I will use it at appropriate circumstances. When I see a situation like I see today, I will disqualify him."

However, DeHaan is apparently in hot water for his earlier comments. He said that a complaint had been filed against him with the state bar association.

"I intend to exercise my First Amendment rights," DeHaan said. "I will not shut up."

Wynia's role in the dispute has been to stimulate the philosophical dispute between punishment-oriented prosecutors and advocates of rehabilitation programs.

Wynia has been in and out of custody since his conviction in 1981 for first-degree burglary. Wynia's extensive juvenile criminal record ruled out the possibility of probation at the time of his conviction on that charge. In fact, one Department of Probation and Parole official said Thursday that he had recommended a fixed-term-prison sentence for Wynia in his present investigation.

But Meehl had ordered Wynia to serve the first 120-days of a 15-year prison term at the North Idaho Correctional Institution at Cottonwood. But state corrections officials concluded that Wynia was not qualified to attend the NICI program and ordered him to serve the four-month term in the main penitentiary at Boise.

At the end of that term, corrections officials cited Wynia's poor performance and extended his time there by 60 days. When the defendant's performance failed to improve, Meehl waived his option to place Wynia on probation.

Workshop describes bond use

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — About 40 to 50 members of nearby city and county governments, local businessmen and concerned citizens were initiated into the pitfalls and possibilities of Idaho's new industrial-revenue bond law Friday afternoon.

A two-and-a-half hour session in Twin Falls City Hall, featuring five legal and financial specialists, was the first in-depth briefing locally on the finer workings of the new financing method — designed to attract additional industry and business to Idaho.

In a nutshell, the law allows local governments to extend their tax-exempt status to bonds that are sold for a particular business or industry. After the bond sale, the industry receives the revenue, but also the sole responsibility to repay the bond buyers. The government involved is not liable should the industry or business default on its bond payments.

What makes industrial-revenue bonds attractive to both private investors and business and industry is the tax-exempt nature of the bonds. Because of the tax exemption, investors are willing to accept a lower interest rate on the bonds, and therefore, business and industry can finance new projects for less because their financing costs are less.

After the seminar, Twin Falls City Council member Mary McCluskey and

MVARC chief backs efforts at rehabilitation

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Cases such as those of Kyle Wynia (see story above) are by no means rare.

In fact, studies are beginning to support what alcoholic rehabilitation advocates have been arguing for years — that alcohol abuse and criminal activity are linked.

For example, a pioneer federal study, released this week, supports what alcoholic rehabilitation advocates have been arguing for years.

The study reports that nearly a third of state prison inmates said they drank heavily just prior to committing the crimes that put them in prison, the Justice Department reported.

"I kinda latch on to that third figure," says one alcoholic-rehabilitation expert, Barry Meyers, the executive director of Magic Valley Alcohol Recovery Centers of Twin Falls. "I'd say at least a third. And that's a conservative figure."

Locally, nearly a third of the clients treated by MVARC have been involved in legal problems. MVARC officials say that 170, or 31 percent, of the 541 clients treated during the past 12 months entered the program through referral from judges, police, lawyers or probation officers.

The argument that by treating a criminal defendant's alcoholism, society might thereby end his criminal activities is not one that is unanimously accepted in the local criminal-justice system. The dispute between those who are rehabilitation-oriented and those who favor stiff prison sentences was played out Thursday in Wynia's case. The 20-year-old man secured a second chance at probation, after serving three months of a one-year sentence in the Twin Falls County Jail. Wynia sought probation in order to undergo alcoholic treatment at State Hospital North at Orofino.

But Prosecutor Harry DeHaan opposed the move, and he has criticized Judge Daniel Meehl for his decision, saying Wynia should have been made to serve out his sentence. A similar dispute also may develop when Idaho lawmakers tackle the issue of penalties for drunken driving, a move that comes in response to a public outcry for stiffer sentences.

Tough sentences are not necessarily bad, but stiffer sentences will not alleviate the problem, Meyers says.

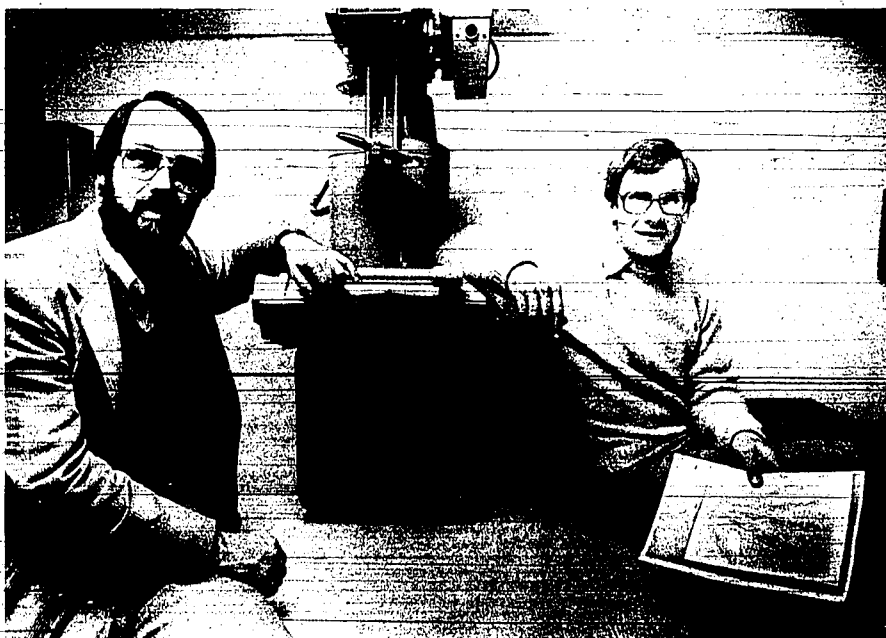

"I'm not opposed to stiff sentencing," he says. "It has its place. But if you disregard treatment and evaluation, in total, you're not going to ever make any inroads.

"I think if you're talking about things that impact the general public like driving under the influence and other crimes, you're not going to punish people into recovering from an illness," Meyers says. "You might get them off the streets or lock them up, but you're not going to make any inroads until you start treating people who are afflicted by the disease."

Of course, not everyone who commits a crime has an alcohol problem.

Dr. Greg McKim (left) and Dennis Davis have set up an X-ray service across from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Former hospital radiologists set up competing service

By HARRIET GUTHERTZ
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Regional Medical Center is going to have some competition when two Twin Falls radiologists open an office soon.

Drs. Dennis Davis and Greg McKim will start taking X-rays in a new office near the hospital on Feb. 14.

The doctors say they will be able to offer cheaper and faster out-patient service than the hospital does.

Davis and McKim were part of a group that ran the MVRMC radiology department for seven years. They left the hospital in August, after a contract and personality dispute with the hospital's administrators.

Magic Valley Radiology will be equipped for ultrasound and nuclear-medicine services, and also will be able to handle standard X-ray procedures, Davis says.

Davis and McKim say they plan to schedule their patients better than the hospital does, in order to cut down on waiting time. They also say that lower overhead will mean less expensive service for patients. A patient at Magic Valley Radiology won't have to subsidize equipment that is used only for hospital patients, Davis says.

The doctors also hope people are attracted to the clinic's pleasant environment.

"Twin Falls citizens never had a choice. Now they do," Davis says.

Although Davis and McKim hope to take patients away from MVRMC, they don't plan on putting the hospital out of business.

"I think there is room for both of us," Davis says.

Still, Davis says, the hospital brought the competition on itself. If the hospital board and administration had been more reasonable during contract negotiations, MVRMC would have had the radiology business all to itself, Davis says.

MVRMC officials aren't worried about their new neighbors.

Dr. Richard Strand, the new radiology director at the hospital, says: "It's not any different than having three or four surgeons in town. It doesn't mean we have to be undercutting each other."

Hospital administrator Bill Burns says Magic Valley Radiology will have some effect on MVRMC's patient load, but he says that isn't planning any changes in the hospital's radiology services.

"It's business as usual," he says. Steve Fisher, the assistant hospital administrator, says the clinic might

Cardinal Joseph Bernardin has worked for his reputation

By United Press International

Cardinal Joseph Bernardin, the archbishop of Chicago, has a reputation for being one of the Roman Catholic Church's most consummate politicians.

Bernardin, 54, chosen last year to head the largest, yet most-troubled archdiocese in the United States, became the 10th American cardinal on Wednesday.

Born in Columbia, S.C., and the son of immigrants from northern Italy, Bernardin worked his way up carefully through the U.S. Catholic Church hierarchy — often thought to be dominated by Irish-Americans.

A soft-spoken, gentle man who prides himself on being a listener, Bernardin made many friends and won much respect along the way up to the church's highest rank below the papacy.

As a church leader, he is considered cool in controversy and patient. Although he has long been associated with the church's more liberal wing, he always has been ready and willing to listen to the other side.

A past president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and its action arm, the U.S. Catholic Conference, he holds a number of important posts in the United States and in Rome.

He gained national prominence even before he was named to replace Cardinal John Cody as archbishop of Chicago, when he became chairman of the U.S. church committee drafting a controversial pastoral letter on war and peace.

Chicago, the largest Catholic archdiocese in the United States, with some 2.4 million worshippers, has been troubled since the end of the Second Vatican Council in 1965. Both priests and laymen in Chicago sought more power in an archdiocese that Cody ran with an iron hand.

Some priests publicly suggested that the Vatican should step in and remove Cody — a suggestion that went unanswered by the pope.

Born April 2, 1924, Bernardin grew up in a predominantly Protestant area. After he was named cardinal, Bernardin said his experience in a mostly non-Catholic area helped him understand the importance of Christian unity.

In 1966, he was named auxiliary bishop of Atlanta and served there until 1968, when he was made the first general secretary of the U.S. Bishops Conference.

Our church news guidelines

The Times-News encourages any church in the Magic Valley area to submit information for our listing of church services, which appears each Saturday.

- To ensure your information is used, follow these guidelines:
- The deadline for church news is Thursday noon.
- Typewritten or plainly printed information is best. It helps eliminate errors.
- Provide full information — complete names, times, locations, day and date. Include the name of the community — we serve many — and a phone number to call if more information is needed.
- If you have questions about church news, call 733-0931 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and ask for Glenda May or Jon Kinney.

DOWNY, Calif. (UPI) — Singing star Karen Carpenter, who blended her silky voice with her brother Richard to record more than two dozen hits as The Carpenters, died Friday of an apparent heart attack. She was 32.

The clean-cut duo from suburban Los Angeles was one of the most popular acts of the 1970s, with such romantic love songs "Close to You," "We've Only Just Begun," "Top of the World," "Rainy Days and Mondays," "Yesterday Once More" and a remake of "Please Mr. Postman."

Fire officials said the Grammy-award winner, who suffered from the weight-loss condition anorexia nervosa, was found shortly before 10 a.m. MST collapsed in a closet at her parents' home in full cardiac arrest.

Miss Carpenter was treated by paramedics at the house and then taken to Downey Community Hospital, about 15 miles southeast of Los Angeles, where she died at 10:51 a.m. MST, fire officials said.

Press agent Paul Bloch said Miss Carpenter's parents and her brother Richard, 37, accompanied the singer to the hospital. He said the singer had no history of heart problems, but had been treated during the last year for anorexia nervosa.

Anorexia nervosa is a disease characterized by extreme weight loss, a potentially fatal condition that normally strikes teenage girls concerned about their appearance. Victims often resist eating, believing the slightest amount of food will make them fat.

"She had lost a considerable amount of weight over the last year," Bloch said. "But she had been under the treatment of a doctor and had gained most of the weight back."

The agent said The Carpenters were agreed to cancel a European concert in 1975 because Karen was suffering from physical and emotional exhaustion. She was hospitalized for several weeks at that time.

Bloch said Miss Carpenter, who was divorced from Los Angeles industrialist Thomas Burris last year after a brief marriage, lived alone in a high rise apartment in the exclusive Century City area of Los Angeles. He said she died at her parents' house Thursday.

"She was with her mother in the upstairs bedroom," FJE Chief Earl

Strom said. "She had a very faint pulse, she was unconscious... Either she was going to change clothes or get some clothing and apparently collapsed at that point."

The Carpenters finished their last album, "Made in America," in 1981 and were going into the studio for a new A&M album later this month.

The brother-sister combination, with Miss Carpenter playing the drums and singing lead vocals and her older brother playing the piano, became one of the most popular acts of the 1970s with their wholesome image and velvety harmonization.

The duo recorded 11 albums with A&M records since 1969 including eight gold albums that sold more than 500,000 copies each. Twenty-eight of their singles hit the top 100 charts and 10 of those were gold, selling more than one million.

The Carpenters won three Grammys in 1970 and 1971, for best new artist and best contemporary vocal performance for the album "Close to You," and best pop vocal performance for the album "Carpenters."

Both born in New Haven, Conn., the Carpenters moved with their family to Downey in 1963. As children, they were influenced by their father's interest in popular music and his extensive record collection.

Richard Carpenter began studying the piano at age 12, took classes in the instrument at Yale at age 16 and began playing jazz in local clubs. He continued his music education at Cal State Long Beach when the family moved to California.

Karen developed an interest in the drums after being encouraged by a fellow member of her high school marching band.

As teens, the Carpenters formed the first of their three groups — a jazz instrumental trio that won first place in a Hollywood Bowl Battle of the Bands contest. RCA executives who were at the show signed the group and the trio recorded two records that were never released, but the studio decided their sound was too soft.

Anderson may head university

Former independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson reportedly is being considered for the presidency of San Francisco State University, and he told the Los Angeles Times that he was interested — but also still was considering making another run for the presidency in 1984. Another rumored candidate to head the 24,000-student school when its current president retires from the $63,000-a-year job is former California Gov. Jerry Brown. Brown denies it.

Minister gives own eulogy

PARMA, Ohio (UPI) — A clergyman delivered his own eulogy Friday, a message he video-taped knowing he would soon die from cancer.

The Rev. James Dotson, 27, knew for several months he was dying of cancer and decided to tape a sermon to be played at his funeral.

In the message, Dotson said his religious faith helped him to accept his coming death. He died Tuesday in Mansfield, where he was associate pastor at the Brookwood Way Church of Christ.

The 30-minute tape was played at a funeral service at the church Wednesday afternoon and was replayed Friday at the Busch Funeral Home in Parma, where he once lived.

John Busch, owner of the funeral home, said Dotson decided during the past Christmas season he wanted to leave a message for his friends and family.

Busch said Dotson, in his eulogy, discussed his own death and its impact on his Christian faith. He delivered the eulogy as if he were a minister commenting on the death of someone else.

Dotson "found the strength in Christ to deal with his own death," said Busch.

Triplet offer in want ads

LONDON (UPI) — A young mother who decided to give her 6-year-old triplet sons up for adoption Friday angrily criticized social service workers for placing a classified advertisement about her plans in a local newspaper.

"Could You Offer a Home to Triplets?" read the headline of the two-column ad in the Yorkshire Post. The ad described the brothers as "friendly, active boys who enjoy life and are making good progress."

The unidentified mother, 30, complained she had been promised "complete confidentiality" by Doncaster social services workers and was shocked to find them advertised as if they were "pets seeking a good home."

"I was promised that family had already been found who were prepared to take the children on a permanent basis," she said.

Budget plan heads back to full House

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — House Speaker Tom Stivers, R-Twin Falls, carried the GOP plan for balancing the state's budget into the House State Affairs Committee on Friday for a second try at introduction.

"The initial bill received a favorable 14-7 vote in the committee on Thursday, but it later was axed by the House Printing Committee for technical flaws and the unintended omission of one budget-saving measure.

Stivers' presentation on Friday, however, the State Affairs Committee cast an identical 14-7 vote, which amounted to a party split, except for one negative vote by Rep. Gene Winchester, R-Kuna, who sided with the Democrats.

"I believe the bill will pass the House (possibly next week), but it certainly won't be unanimous," Stivers said of the GOP budget package. "It does have elements that everyone seems to dislike, but it is a package that will work.

"I wish there was a better solution, but I can't find it," he said.

That's because the Republican plan includes several budget cuts and fund transfers that have met with stiff opposition — most notably a $7.7 million decrease in money going to public schools, which the Democrats are fighting. The package also calls for a temporary 1-cent sales-tax increase, lasting from March 1 through

May. But these measures only account for about $37 million of the estimated $69.2 million deficit that state government is facing this year. Consequently, the GOP plan calls for a separate 1-cent sales-tax increase to go into effect on July 1 to pay off tax-anticipation notes, which the state would issue to raise about $32 million to balance the budget June 30, as required by the state constitution.

"We knew yesterday (Thursday) that there were some typographical errors in the bill, but we figured those could be fixed when the bill went to be printed," Stivers said. "But as you know, a program of tax exemptions was omitted from the bill, and that did have to be added."

Myran Schleeche, the director of the Legislative Council, which drafts legislation, said his staff was responsible for the omission, and he apologized to the State Affairs Committee for that error.

The annual exemptions that had to be added for Friday's introduction included $64,500 in community development programs and $28,600 that has to go to pay other states for dental programs in which Idaho students participate.

A second major change, requested by the State Tax Commission, pushes the date by which businesses have to submit employee withholding taxes to the state from the 23th of each month to the 20th.

"This will mean about $300,000 extra coming into the state this year," said tax Commissioner Darwin Young. "But the main thing for us (the Tax Commission) is that it makes large-corporation reporting periods the same as smaller businesses, which will simplify much of the state's bookwork."

Irrigation law changes clear Senate

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — Two irrigation-district bills — one granting voting rights to family farms and another raising the bidding limits for contracts — passed the Senate with ease on Friday.

The measure dealing with voting rights received unanimous approval on the Senate floor, but the other bill ran into mild opposition. Both measures have been forwarded to the House.

"This first bill affects only the bidding requirements for irrigation districts seeking contracts for equipment or construction work," said Sen. William Ringert, R-Boise, a lawyer who sponsored both measures.

"It merely raises the dollar amount of expenditure that a district is not required to advertise for public bids," he said. "It does not increase the spending authority of irrigation-district directors, nor does it increase the amount of debt a district can take on."

Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, said the main purpose of the bill is to allow irrigation districts to buy used equipment without having to take two or three weeks to advertise for bids.

"Under our present situations, an irrigation district can lose its opportunity to buy a used piece of equipment after they locate it, just because they have to take so much time to publish bid notices," Noh said. "The measure is endorsed by the Idaho Water Users Association, which represents most irrigation groups."

The bill would raise the maximum amount an irrigation district can spend without advertising for bids from $2,500 to $15,000.

All Magic Valley-area senators supported the increased bidding limit, and the measure passed, 27-6.

The second bill sponsored by Ringert would allow family farm corporations or partnerships to vote in irrigation-district elections.

Under Idaho law, corporations are not allowed to vote in any elections.

But Ringert noted that because of changing inheritance laws, many family operations have been reorganized as corporations or partnerships "in order to keep the farms intact."

"This bill would allow the people in those family farm operations to vote the same as if the ownership had not been transferred," he said.

He noted that some irrigation districts in Idaho do allow members of family farm corporations to vote in elections and even to serve as board members.

"But that is not proper under the law, and can lead to some really serious problems when those districts try to undergo a bonding procedure," Ringert said. "As you know, issuing bonds is a very strict, legal process."

House debates stiffer open-meeting measure

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — A drive to stiffen Idaho's open-meeting law resulted in stiff opposition Friday in the House, falling prey to what opponents termed "confusing language."

The plan is a redrafted version of a bill that passed the Senate last year, but was defeated soundly in the House.

The chief change from existing law is that this bill would establish a fine of $10 to $100 for public officials who "knowingly" make decisions either behind closed doors or without public notification — and any decision made at such a meeting would be null and void.

"There are no penalties for holding illegal meetings right now," said Rep. Pam Bengson, R-Boise. "This would put some teeth into our open-meetings law and make any improperly made decision null and void."

"Let's face it. No matter how big the county, when the good ol' boys get together, they deserve some public scrutiny."

Last year's version of the bill set the fine at $100, which many lawmakers argued would deter people from running for public office in small, rural communities. The bill applies to all officials of city, county and state government, including school districts.

The argument that killed the measure Friday — at least temporarily — revolved around a provision that would allow people 30 days after an alleged improper meeting to file a complaint against the officials involved.

"The way I read this, though, you're allowing public officials to correct their illegal meeting within 30 days and I don't believe that's what you intended to say," said Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, a lawyer.

Rep. Gene Winchester, R-Kuna, one of the sponsors of the bill, along with the Idaho Newspaper Association, acknowledged the misleading passage and received unanimous consent to withdraw the bill and redraft it for possible re-introduction next week.

The existing "open-meetings" act requires public officials to make all decisions before the public. Except in cases of emergencies, where fast action is needed, that means posting notice of meetings at least one day in advance.

Skyline halts Bruins' streak at 13

IDAHO FALLS — Skyline's Grizzlies reached out of a 39 conference record to become the first Idaho team to beat the Twin Falls Bruins Friday night.

The Grizzlies, getting four straight free throws from Rick Lewis and Phil Newbold in the closing 12 seconds ended Twin Falls' winning at 13 in a row with a 47-43 decision.

After falling behind by nine points in the second quarter, Skyline took control of the game by outscoring the Bruins in the third period and then piling up the free throws in the final quarter.

Twin Falls, which entertains Idaho Falls on the Bruin homecourt tonight at 8, absorbed its first Gen State Conference defeat but needs just one win to clinch at least a tie. The loss left Twin Falls at 13-2 overall in this crop's quest to beat the all-time school regular season mark of 17-3.

"They (Skyline) deserved the win. They played hard. They played well and we didn't play that well. But it isn't fatal," said Coach John Astorquia. "In fact, it wasn't even surprising because we just didn't act like we were ready to play before the game or at any time during practice all week."

"In a way I'm kind of glad to see the winning streak gone. It takes a lot of pressure off our guys and I didn't want to take a long streak into the district tournament. It may have been a valuable lesson for us."

"I would say that if Idaho Falls had a particularly tough night tonight against Highland (they were playing in Idaho Falls) that they could be in trouble tomorrow (in Twin Falls). Our kids didn't act like they liked losing in the dressing room after the game. I think they'll be ready."

After falling behind 23-14 in the second quarter, Skyline started its comeback that culminated in a 32-32 tie late in the third quarter. From then on it was a series of ties and lead changes until the clinching free throws.

A lot of that comeback was built on the scoring of Chuck Kiser, a seven-point-per-game producer, who came up with 15. The swing on the scoreboard came with just over two minutes left when a technical foul against the Bruins led to four straight Skyline free throws.

That began when Oscar Salinas picked up a steal among a melee of three Skyline players and wound up on his back with the ball as the whistle blew. Salinas was hit with a foul. Astorquia called timeout to give his interpretation-of-the-call-and-in-the-middle-of-the-conversation, the T-bone was assigned.

"I'll take the blame for this loss."

3 area teams try for state in playoffs

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

Burley, Shoshone and Dietrich will attempt to gain berths in next week's state girls basketball tournaments when they compete in playoff games today.

Burley, runner-up to Buhl in the Fourth District A-2 Tournament by virtue of Thursday's 41-31 loss, will travel to Cascade to meet defending state champion Moscow in a 4 p.m. game. Moscow, paced by 6-2 center Andrea Lloyd, won the Second District title, but must defeat Burley to gain the elite eight at Pocatello's Reed Gymnasium next week.

Shoshone, a 45-40 loser to Declo in Thursday's Fourth District-A-3 title game, will meet Parma at Glenns Ferry High at 8 p.m. to see which team will gain the state tourney to be held next week at College of Southern Idaho, Parma, which qualified for last year's state event with a very young squad, lost the Third District championship to Nampa Christian Thursday night to be forced into the playoff game.

Dietrich, which ousted Richfield from A-4 tourney consideration earlier this week, will meet Melba at 6:30 p.m. at Glenns Ferry High today. The winner will advance to state.

Melba finished the regular season undefeated, but lost twice to Greenleaf Friends Academy in the district tourney. Dietrich Coach Ben Stroud scouted Melba Thursday night. "I saw them against Cascade," Stroud said. "They are tough and well-disciplined. They play good defense, are quick and have good size. We'll have to play a damn tough game to beat them. They play a totally different brand of basketball."

After Friday night's games, the state-tourney-fields-were-set-except for today's playoff results.

Teams that earned state berths

Friday night included Preston in a 55-37 win over Snake River, Bonners Ferry in a 62-50 win over St. Maries and Kendrick in a 38-32 decision over Highland of Craigmont.

Teams that are in the state playoff field include: Idaho Falls, Mountain Home, Minico, Sandpoint, Coeur d'Alene, Meridian and Pocatello in A-1; Preston, Bonners Ferry, Post Falls, Vallivue, Madison, Weiser and Buhl in A-2; Polatch, Teton, Grace, Nampa Christian, Ririe, Declo and Lapwai in A-3; and Leadore, Cambridge, Kootenai, Hagerman, Kendrick, Greenleaf Friends Academy and Oakley in A-4.

The A-1 and A-2 teams will duel on the Idaho State campus starting Thursday while the A-3 and A-4 teams will play at CSI. The state championships will be decided the night of Feb. 12.

Thursday's opening-round games for Magic Valley's state entrants include: Minico versus Sandpoint at 2:15 p.m. at Pocatello (A-1); Buhl versus Bonners Ferry at 7:30 p.m. at Pocatello (A-2); Declo versus Lapwai at 9:15 p.m. at CSI (A-3); and Hagerman versus Kootenai at 12:30 p.m. at CSI and Hagerman versus Greenleaf Friends Academy at 7:30 p.m. at CSI (both A-4).

If Burley defeats Moscow, the Bobcats would face Preston or Snake River in the A-2 tourney while a Shoshone victory over Parma tonight would send the Indians up against Grace next Thursday. If Dietrich defeats Melba tonight, it would face either Highland of Craigmont or Kendrick in its A-4 tourney opener.

Meridian is the defending A-1 champion, Moscow holds the A-2 crown, Prairie is the reigning A-3 title-holder and Midvale has the A-4 crown. Both Prairie and Midvale have been eliminated in district play.

Jerome wins 14th despite slowdown

JEROME — A slow-down game marshalled by Wood River almost worked, but Jerome's Ken Hulsey and Bob Stone combined for 27 points to help defeat the Wolverines 47-39.

The win was the Tigers' 14th of the season against four losses. Wood River is 6-9.

Jerome hit the first bucket of the night but it seemed "like minutes" to Jerome Coach Ken Wright that their opponents took a shot.

"They really spread us out," he said. "After we scored first, they took a lot of time off the clock before they sent one up."

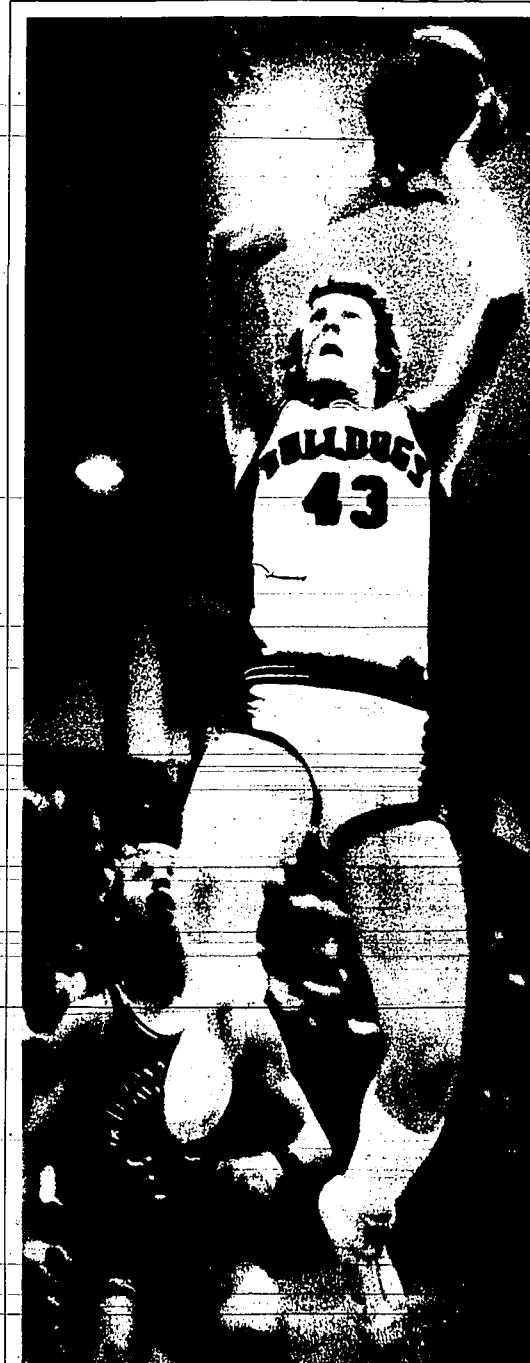

Nip and tuck the entire game, the Wolverines had to shake off the fact they were blown out earlier in the season in their gym by the Tigers.

Despite that, Wood River was down by only six at the half, and later closed it to within three.

Lee Ritzau led the Wolverines in that fight, but just as important, brothers Dale and Don Karst were collectively contained to just five points by a dogged Jerome zone defense.

Jerome's junior varsity ran away with Wood River in the preliminary, 63-48.

Wood River: 8 6 11 16-39
Jerome: 10 12 12 15-47
Wood River — Don Karst 11, Dale Karst 10, 2, Williams 3-4-10, Ritzau 4-4-12, Butler 2-3-8, McMurdo 4-4-4, Totals 12 15-20-39. Fouls 15.

Kimberly handles Murtaugh

Illness forces switch, but Molyneux adapts

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — Earl Molyneux moved to a new position Friday night and sparked the ball-hawking Kimberly Bulldogs to a 59-42 decision over the Murtaugh Red Devils.

Molyneux, usually the small forward in Coach Rich Thompson's scheme, moved to the guard position due to illness. It was his hustle that caused a lot of Murtaugh turnovers and led to several baskets and assists in the second quarter when the Bulldogs were taking control of the game.

The Bulldogs actually picked up their offense through an aggressive defense that had the Red Devils back on their heels over the final three periods. Thompson turned on a half-court press in the second half and that virtually eliminated all Murtaugh penetration.

"We tried the half-court press in the first half and they scored on it the first time down so we went out of it," Thompson smiled. "When we went back to it in the third quarter they scored again but then we settled down and ran it right."

Up to that point Kimberly's other defense had been a diamond and one.

"We always give Roy (Nebeker) a little special attention," Thompson said of the alignment.

Murtaugh couldn't take advantage of any openings that did appear in Kimberly's defense. In the first quarter the Red Devils missed three uncontested layups on break-aways and it didn't get a lot better. They wound up hitting just 18 of 51 shots from the field while Kimberly was 27-68. The Bulldogs got those extra shots by dominating the offensive glass on several occasions — and missing a bunch of close-in follows too.

Play opened on a fast pace with a lot of ball trading but not a lot of scoring. The teams were tied at two-point intervals from two through 10 until Scott Livingston sent the Bulldogs ahead to stay with a follow shot near the buzzer.

Molyneux had half the points, prompting Thompson to note the switch from forward to guard "might have been an advantage for us. He played it very well in the first half but in the second he might have gotten a little out of control because he's not used to that position."

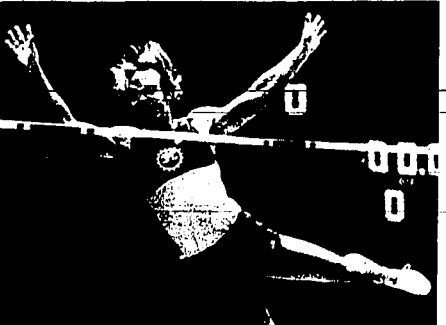

Molyneux, Kevin Holcomb and Livingston outscored Murtaugh 8-2 as the second half began and although Murtaugh was able to hold the line from there through the half, it wasn't able to get closer than four.

Things shifted quickly to Kimberly in the final period when Holcomb and Arlon Earl had offsetting field goals. But Kimberly collected the next 11 points of the game as Holcomb came up with four points and the other Bulldogs chipped in the rest. That took it out to 41-25.

Kimberly's biggest lead came at 53-31 and the Bulldogs coasted in.

Kimberly won the opener 43-24.

BILLY OLSON — Passes own mark for third time this season

Olson surpasses 19 for indoors mark

TORONTO (UPI) — Billy Olson of the Pacific Coast Club became the first man to pole vault 19 feet indoors Friday night, clearing 19 feet, 3/4 inch at the Toronto Star Maple Leaf Games.

Olson, who said he had more height on his first attempt at the height, switched from a 105-pound pole to a 200-pound one to clear the height on his second attempt. It was the third time he had eclipsed his own world record this season and broke the mark of 18-11 he set at Los Angeles two weeks ago.

"I'm through for the night," said Olson, who took a victory lap and hugged meet officials and the other athletes as the crowd gave him a standing ovation.

"My first jump was on a pretty big pole. I almost missed the pit and, at that height, I could have killed myself. I had a lot of height on the first one," he said.

"Twenty feet may be a ways off, but I'm going to start looking at it."

Olson's record-breaking jump was not accomplished without drama. "I did touch the bar on my second attempt, somewhere in my upper body I think," he said. "I realized it was still there as soon as I was over and I tried to stand up. But my legs just weren't there."

Olson, who is to compete in an indoor meet in Dallas today, said, "The only thing I can do is to go higher. Twenty feet may be a ways off, but I'm going to start looking at it. I've been looking at 19 feet for two years," put Olson also said he thinks the world outdoor record of 19-5/8, set by Vladimir Polyakov of the Soviet Union in 1981, is well within his reach.

Earlier, sprinter Mark McCoy set a Canadian indoor record of 6.04 seconds in the men's 50-yard hurdles but was edged at the tape by American Willie Gault's 6.02.

In the women's 50-yard hurdles, Stephanie Hightower of Columbus, Ohio took the top spot with a time of 6.50, edging Karen Nelson of Oshawa, Ontario by 0.21 second. Sue Kameel of London, Ont., was third in 6.77.

Hightower's clocking was 0.30 second off the world mark and left the 24-year-old unimpressed.

"I ran 6.50 at before I even started my run," said Hightower, who had a false start at the meet in 1982.

In the women's 50-yard dash, Alice Brown of Los Angeles held off Toronto's Angela Taylor and Angela Ballely to finish in 5.85.

De Agostini can win crown

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Doris de Agostini, who has already won three of this season's six races, needs only a fifth-place finish today to clinch the Women's World Ski Cup downhill title.

Mahre tops downhill practice

ST. ANTON, Austria (UPI) — defending World Ski Cup champion Phil Mahre of the United States Friday clocked the fastest time in training for today's World Cup downhill race, and then said it would be "the dream of my life" to win a downhill.

Mahre, better known for his outstanding abilities in the more technical slalom and giant slalom events, registered some good results in World Cup downhills this season, but has never made it to the very top.

Wolke holds Daytona pole

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Frenchman Bob Wolke owns the pole position for today's 24 Hours of Daytona, but defending champion John Paul Jr. should be breathing down his neck from the No. 2 spot.

The 21st annual running of America's only 24-hour sports car endurance race is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. MST.

Wolke, 37, of Strasbourg, France, easily grabbed the top spot in record time during qualifying Thursday.

Wolke, the 1982 Porsche Cup champion, roared his Porsche Turbo around Daytona International Speedway more than 5 mph faster than Paul. Wolke clocked in at 135.324 mph. Paul finished with 129.992 mph.

NBA fines Schayes, Johnson

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Basketball Association said Friday that it will fine Danny Schayes of Utah and Steve Johnson of Kansas City for each having been fined $500 for fighting during a game in Salt Lake City Jan. 11.

The fines are in addition to a $250 mandatory penalty slapped on each player when he was ejected from the game.

Scotty Stirling, NBA vice president, operations, said the incident began with 5:02 left in the game as the players were scrambling for a rebound.

Junior gets 2-year term

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — St. Louis Cardinals linebacker F.J. Junior pleaded guilty Friday to possession of cocaine and was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $200.

Junior, 22, a former University of Alabama player, was arrested April 6, 1981, during a raid at a local apartment and charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana. He had returned to Tuscaloosa to continue work towards a degree.

Hannahs holds PBA lead

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (UPI) — Despite bowling a 176 game, Ted Hannahs of Zanesville, Ohio, held a 289-pin lead Friday after five rounds of the $125,000 Quaker State Open.

Smith, Bair list demands

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Outfielder Lonnie Smith reportedly is seeking $600,000 and reliever Doug Bair $400,000 in salary arbitrations with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Henderson, A's reach terms

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The Oakland A's announced Friday that they had signed Ripken Henderson, the switch hitter, whose 130 stolen bases last season set a major-league record.

Green erratic, but leads Crosby by 3

By JOE SARGIS UPI sports writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — Ken Green literally grew up on Pebble Beach Friday, surviving erratic shots and poor club selection for a screaming 4-under-par 68 that gave him the second-round lead in the $25,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am.

The 24-year-old native of Danbury, Conn., opened the tournament with a 66 at Spyglass Hill, so his 36-hole score was 10-under-par 134, three strokes ahead of Gary McCord and Jim Thorpe with five others another shot back.

"I made a lot of mistakes out there," said Green, who played briefly and unsuccessfully on the PGA Tour last year and then won his card a second time in last fall's Qualifying Tournament. "But I think I learned a few things. For someone like me, the pressure is unbearable, but I love the game so much I'm going to keep on trying until I make it."

Thorpe shot a 67 at Pebble Beach, while McCord had a 68 at Spyglass Hill. That put them at 7-under 137 and another stroke ahead of George Archer, 1982 leading money winner Craig Stadler, Jim Nelford, Donnie Hammond and Calvin Peete, winner of four events last year.

Archer and Hammond fired 69 and 70, respectively, at Cypress Point while Stadler and Nelford shot 67 at Pebble and Peete shot a 70 at Spyglass Hill.

First-round leader Joe Inman shot a 75 at Cypress after starting with a 65 at Pebble to fall six shots behind Green. Tied at 139 were Brad Bryant, Clarence Rose, Steve Melnyk, Lou Hinkle, Rex Caldwell and Roger Maltbie, who had a 65 at Pebble, with U.S. Open champion Tom Watson in a tie at 140 with Inman and 10 others.

Green started his second round on the back nine of Pebble, where last year in the Open he shot 79-83 to miss the cut, and he took charge immediately with birdies on the 10th, 14th and 16th holes. His birdie putt on 10 was a 15-footer.

"I was hitting it so good," Green said, "that I could have made a birdie on seven of my first eight holes. I was wondering what was going on, but my play on those holes was beneficial because it gave me confidence. You know, that's the only difference between the top players and those like me — confidence."

Coming back, Green saved par on the second and third holes, ran down a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the fourth and a 20-footer for his final birdie on the sixth.

He made the only mistake he didn't survive on — the seventh, when in-dcision led him to use the wrong club and he wound up with a bogey.

"If I was a better player I would have known what club to use," he said.

While the weather was perfect for a second straight day, the scores in the second round generally ran higher than in the first, possibly because the three tournament courses are starting to harden from play by a field of 168 professionals and 168 amateurs.

"Obviously, I'm pleased with the way I played," Green said, "but I'm not kidding myself; I still have a lot to learn. My biggest problem is trying to keep from playing too fast. Once I learn to play at an even tempo, my game will be better. I'm convinced of that."

Ken Green blasts out of bunker at No. 2 during Friday's play

Coles goes bogeyless to pace LPGA tourney

MIAMI (UPI) — Janet Coles, chasing her first LPGA victory since 1978, hit 17 greens to post a 4-under-par 68 Friday and grab a two-stroke lead at the midway point of the tour's second event of the year.

Coles shot bogey-free golf, missing the green only on the par-3 13th hole when she was short with a 3-iron. She recovered there, chipping it close and holing the putt for par.

Coles' round gave her a 6-under-par 138 for 36 holes and a five-shot lead over Alice Ritzman, Montana's only touring golf pro, and first-round leader Lauri Peterson in the $150,000 tournament over the par-72

6,211-yard Turnberry Isle Course. Ritzman scored a 69 Friday and Peterson, who went into the round with a one-stroke lead, shot a 71.

With her bogeyless 18 holes, Coles said it wasn't a rarity for her, but acknowledged: "If I played a lot of rounds without a bogey, I'd probably be oh top of the money list every year."

She gave her 4-iron a lot of credit for her sparkling round. She laid shots with the club to within 8, 10 and 12 feet and holed the putts for birdies. Her other birdie came when she dropped a sand-weather shot 10 feet from the hole and sank the putt.

She called the 4-iron to 8 feet on her last hole "one of the greatest shots of my life. I really nailed it."

"I feel very good about the way I played today. If I play that well the last two days, I'll present a challenge to anybody."

ago was a tie for third, but she made $71,379 to finish 21st on the money list.

Ritzman, who says she knows of no other Montana natives on either the men's or women's tour, also went 18 holes without a bogey. She holed putts of 6, 8 and 15 feet for birdies. She said she suffered a slight muscle pull late in the round and in the last few days has noticed a minor recurrence of a shoulder injury that plagued her for the last six months of the 1982 tour.

"I have an Edsel when it comes to the body department," she said. "I'm very susceptible to muscle pulls and strains."

Mancini's fans, family flocking to Italy for Sunday's bout

SAINT VINCENT, Italy (UPI) — Sunday night's lightweight boxing bout between WBA champion Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini of the United States and British title holder George Peeney is shaping up as a family affair for Italo-American Mancini, 35, mayor of the Sicilian town where his grandfather was born is coming up on a bus with 100 people from the village, Mancini told reporters Friday.

"My uncle and cousins will also be there."

Mancini fans are coming in to this Alpine gambling resort from all over, including the 21-year-old champion's home town of Youngstown, Ohio, for the 10-round non-title bout.

The fight will be Mancini's first bout since South Korean opponent Duk Koo Kim died less than two months ago alter being knocked out by the American in Las Vegas.

But Mancini, a professional for four years, says he is ready to fight again.

"I wouldn't attempt to get back in the ring if I wasn't psychologically intact," Mancini said. "Everything is behind me. I can only look ahead and it all looks bright."

But the American is not taking Peeney's lightly.

"I think he is definitely a world class fighter and he is better than a lot of guys in the top 10," Mancini said. "A lot of lightweighters are going to have to worry about this guy."

Peeney, an unemployed father of four from the industrial town of Hartlepool in northern England, said Friday that Mancini will not let the death of Kim get in the way of the job he has to do Sunday night.

"He (Mancini) might be cautious for the first couple of rounds, but as soon as he gets into his stride he'll just forget about everything. You don't just forget about anything else in the ring," Peeney said.

Peeney's manager Dennis Mancini, a distant relative of Boom Boom's family, called his fighter a "sleeping tiger."

"George" has never been better trained and I think he'll show some thing out there during the fight," he said.

Though Peeney's six-year professional record of 16 wins against seven losses is erratic, he has not lost a bout since late 1960. Peeney won his British lightweight title last October with a 14th round knockout against Ray Catouse.

Mancini has won 25 of his 26 career fights. The only loss came against Alexis Arguello two years ago.

Holmes, Leonard honored by WBC

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes Friday was named the WBC's fighter of the year for his title defense against Gerry Conroy and Sugar Ray Leonard was named best boxer of the last decade.

The "best fight in 1982," according to the WBC, was between Mexico's Guadalupe Pinton and Puerto Rican Wilfredo Gomez for the WBC super bantamweight crown last December in New Orleans. WBC president Jose Sulaiman said at the awards ceremony.

"It was the fight with the best technical and tactical polish and style. That's why these two little giants of the boxing world deserve the prize," Sulaiman said.

"In the end the one who kept from losing his boxing style was the light," said Gomez, who stopped Pinton.

The most "dramatic" fight last year, for the WBC, was between Mexican Rafael "Bazooka" Limon and Los Angeles' Bobby Chacon for the super featherweight title.

"It was one of the best fights I've seen in my life," Sulaiman said.

Chacon won by a knockout in the last round of the fight.

after being knocked out by the American in Las Vegas.

Dairymen plan breakfast

BOISE — The Idaho Dairymen's Association will serve its annual breakfast for state legislators on Feb. 8 in Boise.
The breakfast will start at 7 a.m. in the Crystal Room of the Hoff Building.
Association members and their wives from the Magic-Valley who wish to attend may make reservations by calling Vicki Patterson at 334-4150 or Irene VanderVest at 324-4252.

High for deposits reached

PORTLAND — The Best, Franklin Federal Savings and Loan Association has recorded an all-time high of $2.08 billion in deposits.
Company officials said this is the first time a savings and loan association in the Northwest has topped the $2 billion mark. Best, Franklin and Fidelity Savings merged this past year.

Indiana Standard pays off

CHICAGO — Standard Oil Co. of Indiana will pay a regular quarterly cash dividend of 70 cents a share on common stock.
Directors voted the dividend, to be paid March 10 to shareholders of record at the close of business on Feb. 9.

Bank report receives award

SALT LAKE CITY — First Security Corp. has received the Merit Award of Financial World magazine recognizing the excellence of its 1981 report to stockholders.
The award for creative excellence was based on content, design and typography of the bank holding company's report, company officials said.

Krueger to head Land Bank

SPOKANE — Kenneth P. Krueger of Spokane is president-elect of the Federal Land Bank of Spokane.
Ronald Bokman, chairman of the bank's directors, said Krueger will become head of the bank July 1 on the retirement of A.W. Neel. He is presently senior vice president for credit and business development of the Spokane Bank for Cooperatives.

Kamiah station will close

BOISE (UPI) — The Camas Prairie Railroad station in Kamiah will be closed, although the train will continue to serve the town under a ruling by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.
The railroad's agent, who makes freight scheduling arrangements with local shippers, will move to Orofino. PUC spokeswoman Dana Howard said.

Railroad records show carload shipments from Kamiah have decreased more than 65 percent since 1978. Studies also show 89 percent of the Kamiah customers already deal with agents at Lewiston or Orofino.

Equity stock trading set

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The common stock of Equity Oil Co. will begin trading on the NASDAQ National Market System beginning Tuesday.
Equity is one of the 100 most active NASDAQ issues that will join NMS, expanding the computerized system to 184 of the most active over-the-counter issues.
Previous to NMS, brokers and investors had access only to bid and ask prices for the over-the-counter securities.

Sales experiment called off

SPOKANE (UPI) — An innovative attempt at selling real estate on cable television — the first in the nation — has failed in Spokane.
After nearly three years in service the channel went off the air Wednesday. The channel operated 24 hours a day, featuring local real estate listings.
Owner Lon Gibby, Spokane, had visualized going nationwide with his service, featuring different cities at different times of the day. Gibby blamed the bad economy and the tight housing market as the main reasons for failure of the venture.

Sharp jump for Wall Street

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

NEW YORK — Transportation and computer issues propelled stocks sharply higher Friday.
The move followed stock market reports that prompted President Reagan to exclaim "We're on the move now!"

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which tacked on 2.02 points Thursday, climbed 13.25 to 1,077.91, giving it an overall gain of 13.16 for the volatile week.

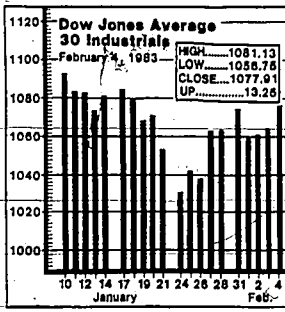

The Dow Jones transportation average, which soared 12.74 Thursday, surged another 10.40 to an all-time high of 485.07.

The New York Stock Exchange index rose 1.03 to 84.29 and the price of an average stock increased 42 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index jumped 1.88 to 146.14. Advances topped declines 1,083-465 among the 1,525 issues traded.

Big Board volume swelled to 87,000,000 shares from 78,890,000 traded Thursday.
Airline and railroad stocks were buoyed by hopes OPEC's recent failure to agree on prices and production would lead to lower fuel prices and by evidence the recession has ended.

"While we may see some ups and downs on the way to recovery, we're on the move now," President Reagan said after the Labor Department reported the January unemployment rate dropped to 10.4 percent from 10.8 percent the month before.
Motorola's report of higher earnings launched a stampede into stocks of high-technology companies that Wall Street believes will dominate America for the rest of the century.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 102,187,470 shares compared with 91,730,880 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 5.1 to 365.96 and the price of a share added 20 cents. Advances topped declines 423-187 among the 812 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 9,352,510 shares compared with 8,990,700 traded Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of OTC stocks gained 2.13 to an all-time high of 251.57.

On the trading floor, Pan American World Airways, which rose recently on hopes of lower fuel prices, was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1/4 to 5 1/2. The carrier late Thursday reported a $27.9 million fourth-quarter loss.
Exxon (ex-dividend) was second on the list, up 1/4 to 29% despite the oil price news. California Standard (ex-dividend), another blue-chip issue, rose 1/4 to 33%. Other oils generally were strong.

International Harvester, which recently denied it would sell its farm equipment operations, was third, off 1/4 to 5 1/4.

In the airline group, AMR Corp. gained 1/4 to 24 1/4, Delta 1/4 to 46 1/4, KLM 2 1/4 to 56 1/4, Southwest 2 1/4 to 31 1/4, Trans World 1 1/4 to 32 1/4, UAL Inc. 1/4 to 36 1/4, and World Airways 1/4 to 35 1/4.

Piedmont Airlines advanced 1/4 to 34 1/4 after posting a 34.9 percent increase in January traffic.
Among the rails, Burlington Northern gained 2 1/4 to 65 1/4, Santa Fe International 1 1/4 to 24 1/4, Southern Pacific 2 1/4 to 46 1/4 and Union Pacific 1 1/4 to 47 1/4.

Rio Grande Industries, which soared 7 1/4 Thursday amid takeover rumors, dropped 1 1/4 to 53 1/4. CSX Corp., which surged 3 1/4 Thursday, added 1/4 to 54 1/4 and Texas Gas lost 1/4 to 31 1/4. CSX denied rumors it was buying Texas Gas stock.

Motorola, a 6-point gainer Thursday, soared to 112 1/4. The company posted fourth-quarter earnings of $1.46 a share vs. $1.21 a year ago.
Hazelton Corp., a 3-point winner the day before, jumped 5 to 55 1/4. The company plans to sell both of its computer terminal and graphics display products lines to two employee management groups and other private investors.

Among the other high-technology issues, IBM gained 1 1/4 to 97 1/4, Burroughs 3 1/4 to 48, Digital Equipment 2 1/4 to 121, Hewlett-Packard 4 to 82 1/4, Honeywell 5 1/4 to 92 1/4, National Semiconductor 1 1/4 to 53 1/4, and Texas Instruments 5 1/4 to 175 1/4.
On the Amex, International Banknote led the actives, up 1 1/4 to 5 1/4. Wang Laboratories class B followed, up 1/4 to 3 1/4. Imperial Chemical was third, up 1/4 to 6.

Money supply grows more than expected

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Federal Reserve Friday reported the measure of the nation's money supply known as M1 rose $2.7 billion in the week ended Jan. 26, slightly more than expected.
Despite the increase there was little reaction in the bond markets.

He was referring to the new Super-NOW accounts, which have been included in the M1 measure of cash, checking accounts and regular Negotiated Order of Withdrawal accounts.

Separately, the Fed estimated that Super-NOW accounts averaged $17 billion in the Jan. 27 week, up from $15.4 billion the previous week. Money market deposit accounts averaged $23.2 billion up from $19.8 billion.
The Fed also announced that it will publish redefinitions of the broader monetary aggregates next Friday.
M1, money that is available for immediate spending, was a seasonally adjusted average of $485.9 billion in the week ended Jan. 26, compared with $483.2 billion the previous week.

In the latest 13 weeks, M1 averaged a 15.4 percent rate of gain.

Commercial and industrial loans at major New York City banks fell $1.51 billion in the latest week, compared to a gain of $847 million the previous week.
Key interest rates rose in the banking week ended Wednesday. The federal funds rate averaged 8.53 percent, up from 8.44 percent a week earlier.

The rate on three-month Treasury bills rose to 8.09 percent from 8.01 percent. The rate on three-month certificates of deposit averaged 8.02 percent versus 8.39 percent the week before.

U.S. seeks records in probe of Toyota

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department asked a judge Friday to order Toyota Motor Corp. and its American sales agent, to provide records to the Internal Revenue Service in an investigation of the automaker's U.S. tax liabilities.

In legal papers filed in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles, the government asked a federal judge to enforce two IRS summonses issued to the company.
The government charges that Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A. Inc., had failed to produce the bulk of sales and cost data requested by the IRS in its investigation of the company's tax liability from 1975 to 1978.

Among the material being sought are the direct and indirect selling and administrative expenses pertaining to the sale of passenger cars sold to Japanese dealers.

In requesting the action, the Justice Department said there have been no recommendations for criminal prosecution in the case.

A spokesman for Toyota Motor Sales U.S.A. said it is the first time to their knowledge that the IRS is claiming the right to inspect the books of a foreign-based parent company of a U.S. subsidiary.

The government said the IRS has been trying to get the data generally relating to inter-company pricing of vehicles in an effort to determine the company's federal tax liabilities.

Toyota has responded to some of the requests for information, but has "failed to produce the bulk of the data requested in the summonses," the government said.

Fund assets plummet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Assets of money market mutual funds plummeted $2.2 billion to $19.74 billion in the week ended Feb. 2.

Yields were up slightly.
The Washington-based Investment Company Institute said all categories of funds declined in the week ended Feb. 2. The outflow was concentrated in consumer funds and broker-dealer sponsored funds, which were down $789 million and $337 million, respectively — Institute-only funds decreased $276 million.
William F. Donoghue, publisher of Donoghue's Money Fund Report, Hoston, Mass., said average seven-day yields rose to 7.81 percent from 7.77 percent the previous week. Thirty-day yields, however, declined to 8.09 percent from 8.02 percent.

Donoghue said the average maturity of fund portfolios widened two days to 39 days as managers, expecting further declines in short-term interest rates, moved to lock in current yields.

Donoghue also said tax-free money funds rose $306 million in the latest week. In the latest four weeks this category of fund has risen $1.6 billion.

Vulnerable: Both. Dealer: North. The bidding: North—East—South—West
 2 NT Pass EW all pass

Opening lead: Spade 10

There was no cover-up when South misplayed today's touchy slam. Dummy was no sorry about the points he'd lost to feel much compassion for South's misguidance.

Dummy's spade ace won the first trick and trumps were drawn immediately. Declarer saw no hopes unless the clubs were 2-2, so he wasted no time with side suits. Quickly, he played ace and another club and West took two quick tricks for one down.

"What was the hurry about playing clubs?" inquired North. "You treated my high cards as if they were worthless."

"If clubs were not 2-2, the slam wasn't going to make," retorted South. "And even if it were 3-3, there was no sense in delaying things."

"Wrong," replied North. "You make the slam if you play for an elimination."

North was right, of course. South should ruff the spade queen at trick two and then draw trumps, ending in dummy. The three top diamonds are cashed and a diamond is ruffed. With the side suits gone, South now leads a club towards dummy, intending to duck if West plays an honor. West plays the "eight" and dummy's 10 goes to East's queen. East must now yield a ruff and discard and dummy's club-loser disappears.

North's plan wins whenever the clubs are 2-2 and whenever either defender holds a singleton honor.
