Government will buy out dioxin-contaminated town

Times Beach: It was once a nice place to live

TIMES BEACH, Mo. (UPI) — Most of the 2,000 residents of dioxin-contaminated Times Beach reacted with bittersweet joy Tuesday to the announcement that the government would buy their homes and businesses.

"I feel like doing handstands in the middle of I-44 or turning cartwheels in the parking lot," said Clarence Stone, the owner of the nearby abandoned Easy Living and Sherwood Glen mobile home park.

"We've all been through one hell of a financial and mental strain in trying to keep businesses afloat with no income and no customers."

Stone and the other residents had thought from the beginning that the only solution to the dioxin problems and record flooding in December would be a government buy-out.

Ann Gorsuch Burford, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, announced at a news conference Tuesday in nearby Eureka that the agency was allocating $3 million for the buyout.

Mrs. Burford also said Times Beach would be placed on the national priority list, making it available for Superfund monies.

"This is the answer to all our prayers," said Evelyn Zufall. "It's what everybody wanted, except for very few who don't realize the dangers we're in. People here have been desperate for any shred of hope for their futures — and this looks like it."

While the residents cheered the news of the buy-out, there also were expressions of sadness that the town of Times Beach will, in effect, cease to exist.

"Ours is a very small town where kids could play in the streets and mothers never had to worry," Mrs. Zuval said. "It's very sad... almost like someone died and you're visiting the grave. This was a nice place once, and now we have to bury it."

"This finally is the end of the government's indecision; the end of us not knowing what to do day to day, but it's also the end of Times Beach as a city."

Laine Jumper, a resident and a member of the presidential task force on Times Beach, said he does not expect much disagreement over the price the government will pay the owners for their homes and businesses.

"One thing they've made very clear is that they are not going to quibble," Jumper said. "They're not going to give us $100,000 each, but they're not going to quibble either."

"Why quibble over people's lives? These people owe us. They've messed around with our lives and played these silly games for too long."

By MAP; SILE, EFFELT

BOISE — An Idaho Senate committee Tuesday knocked down a bill exempting parochial schools from all public control, saying the state has a duty to enforce minimum education, health and safety standards in every classroom.

Pastors of Christian schools left the legislative chambers in frustration after their bid for an exemption from state supervision fell victim to nearly unanimous opposition on the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee.

"We want an exemption," said Ray Fitzhugh, senior pastor of Grace Bible School, Hayden Lake. "We're doing a good job. We answer to a higher power than the state — we answer to God."

But the Senate panel voted with only one dissenter — bill sponsor Sen. Terry Sverdsten, R-Catado — to shelve the bill. The committee first defeated a motion by Sverdsten to send the bill to floor for amendments.

In the House Tuesday, representatives approved on a voice vote and referred to the Senate a resolution urging Idahoans to join President Reagan in designating May 5 as National Day of Prayer.

"I'm here to ask that the Legislature recognize an activity that each of us partakes in every day — that being prayer," said the resolution's floor sponsor, Rep. Pamela Bengson, R-Boise. "Reflect, meditate, pray and give thanks for our blessings in this state and nation."

No House members opposed the resolution. But Rep. Gary Paxman, R-Idaho Falls, got in a plug for a bill he tried without success to maneuver through the Legislature the past two years: a measure to require students to stand for one minute of silence each school day for prayer or meditation.

"I hope this will allow them to pray in school on that day," he said.

The Senate committee's religion-related discussion featured much stronger debate.

Oil prices making bankers nervous

Analysis

A limited cut in world oil prices will help American consumers but a collapse triggered by an all-out OPEC price war could inflict serious damage on the U.S. economy, industry analysts said Tuesday.

Oil experts surveyed by UPI predicted the benchmark price charged by Saudi Arabia will settle at about $28 a barrel, providing a few pennies of relief at the gas pump, lowering electricity bills and helping spur economic recovery. The benchmark now stands at $34.

But if Saudi Arabia and members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are unable to stabilize prices, American banks would be hard-hit and that could severely curb the ability of Americans to get loans for cars and homes, they said.

At worst, American banks with extensive loans to Mexico, Venezuela or Nigeria would be threatened with failure, keeping interest rates at home puntingly high.

Arab producers, pinched by a fall-off in revenues, also could withdraw some of the estimated $180 to $200 billion invested in the United States, creating new strains in an already shaky financial system.

"If prices stabilize at $28, that's bullish for everybody," said William L. Randol, senior petroleum analyst at First Boston Corp. in New York. "It's bullish for OPEC. It's bullish for the American consumer."

"The problem is if it starts to go into an uncontrolled collapse, then that's when you get into these other problems. I think you can say there are a lot of nervous bankers out there."

Many analysts believe the relief provided by OPEC's disarray would be minimal because American oil prices already have declined in response to the softening world market. "If the benchmark goes down to 28 bucks, then you'll see another couple of pennies (drop) a gallon," Randol said. "We're not talking a huge adjustment."

Alvin D. Silber, top international petroleum analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds, estimated that "three quarters or two thirds" of the decline in world oil prices already had reached American consumers.

2 GOP senators attack '84 budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two conservative Republican senators, breaking ranks with the administration, Tuesday angrily attacked the 1984 Reagan budget for proposing deep new spending cuts in mass transit and nutrition programs.

The GOP senators vented their anger toward budget director David Stockman during a Senate Appropriations Committee hearing while Democratic members, in an unusual switch, had little to say about President Reagan's new budget.

Sen. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., complained the administration is proposing to cut $27 million from the school breakfast, summer feeding and other child nutrition programs.

"Of all the dumb ways to save money, not feeding kids is the dumbest," Andrews said.

Stockman defended the cut, saying no link has been found between a level of funding for child nutrition programs and a child's health or welfare. He also said nearly $16 billion is in the budget for nutrition programs, and the summer feeding program has been "rocked by scandal."

"Damn it, we've been in office two years," Andrews told Stockman. "It's time we start cleaning up those programs."

$165 billion package tentatively approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Social Security subcommittee Tuesday tentatively approved a $165 billion financing package that includes taxing a portion of the retirement benefits for well-to-do pensioners.

The following is an example of how the taxing provision, patterned after a national commission's recommendation, would work if the package ultimately is approved by the House and Senate and is signed by the president.

Beginning in 1984, a portion of Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits would be included in taxable income if it exceeds a specified base amount. Currently, Social Security and railroad retirement benefits are tax free.

The base amount would be $24,500 for an individual and $31,500 for a married couple filing a joint return. Married couples filing separately are not eligible.

If half of the taxpayer's retirement benefits, combined with his adjusted gross income, exceed the base, then a portion of his retirement benefits would be subject to federal tax. In that case, his tax would be based on half his retirement benefits or half of his total income in excess of the base, whichever is less.

For example, a Social Security recipient who received $8,472 in retirement benefits and $24,500 in other income would be subject to federal tax under the proposal.

He would add half of his Social Security benefits — $4,236 — to his adjusted gross income of $24,500, for a total income of $28,736. That exceeds the base for individual taxpayers — $24,500 — by $4,236. His retirement income subject to tax would be half of that excess or half of his Social Security benefits, whichever is less. In this example, they are the same: $2,118.

Briefly

Byrne, Washington leading

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Jane Byrne and Rep. Harold Washington were locked in a tight fight for the Democratic mayoral nomination Tuesday night, leaving Richard Daley, son of the late "Boss" of Chicago, trailing in key wards.

Aides to Daley refused to concede.

Washington supporters provided their candidate was on his way to become the first black mayor of the city's "Second City," and Byrne forces said they still believed they were locked in a close race — the winner of which will face Republican candidate Bernard Epton, a former state legislator, in an April 13 general election.

Charges of vote fraud were widespread as a small army of poll watchers was deployed to keep track of the closely contested three-way campaign — a battle that became tainted with racial issues in its closing days.

Challenger soon to soar

WASHINGTON — The head of the trouble-plagued Space Shuttle program predicted Tuesday that the orbiter Challenger will make her twice-delayed maiden flight before another month is out.

Repairs of tiny but dangerous leaks in the fuel supply of two of Challenger's engines have been made. Lt. Gen. James A. Abrahamson said. This paves the way for a public launching on Mar. 19 or 20, but the exact date has not yet been set, he added.

Abrahamson, an Air Force officer on loan to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, expressed hope that the two-month "slip" in the Shuttle program's lighter possible launching on Mar. 19 or 20, but the exact date has not yet been set, he added.

Presbyterian churches merge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's two major Presbyterian churches, divided into northern and southern-based denominations since the Civil War, agreed Tuesday to reunite and form one church.

The historic vote, which puts an end to one of the last slavery schisms in U.S. churches, will create a new denomination of about 32 million members.

Voting by presbyteries — local groups of churches — in both the northern and southern bodies began in early February. Presbyteries in the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S., the northern-based body, agreed to the reunion by an overwhelming majority Feb. 14.

Tuesday's vote by the Augusta-Macon (Ga.) presbytery to approve reunion provided the necessary three-fourths majority in the Presbyterian Church in the U.S., the 840,000 member southern-based church.

AWACS end training exercise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four radar surveillance planes dispatched to Egypt more than a week ago ended their joint "training exercise" with Egyptian forces Tuesday, Pentagon officials said.

The officials declined to comment specifically about when the Airborne Warning and Control System planes, known as AWACS, will return to their headquarters at Tinker Air Force Base, Okla. But one said they were expected to depart Egypt this week the way they arrived — in two.

Hard to live on bread alone

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Millions of Mexico City residents found it hard to live on bread alone Tuesday, the second day thousands of tortilla factories refused to produce the country's basic dietary staple.

"Well, what can we do but eat bread, even though it is not nearly as tasty," shrugged one office worker bemoaning the tortilla shortage.

"Of course the bakeries aren't making enough white bread ... and flour is in short supply and expensive. I guess people will be eating crackers pretty soon," he said.

The tortilla factories, charging government price controls were forcing them into bankruptcy, shut down operations Monday to force authorities to review their policy.

But Mexicans, it seemed, were resigned to the tortilla shortage, one of several that includes other staples such as milk and eggs.

Heart surgery to be on TV

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — American television viewers will experience a TV fiasco when they watch a surgical team perform coronary bypass surgery live Wednesday night and phone in questions to the doctors.

A joint production of KAET-TV, Tempe, Ariz., and the Arizona Heart Institute, "The Operation," is part of a month-long local series to educate the public about surgery and care of the heart.

A KAET spokesman said the live presentation of the surgery is believed to be a television first.

Budget

Earlier, Sen. Alfonso D'Amato, R-N.Y., complained about a proposed 69 percent cut in federal operating assistance for mass transit systems and the administration's "drumbeat of dogmatic rhetoric" that the cut is part of the effort to get the federal government off people's backs.

Founding the table and waving his hands, an irritated D'Amato told Stockman to take the money out of the defense budget "instead of setting up New York and time again."

Stockman, his voice rising, replied, "We don't think the people in Montana and Idaho ought to pay the fare boxes in New York City. If local people want subsidized bus rides and subway rides, then local people ought to pay for them."

D'Amato replied that only 17 percent of the money to operate the New York City mass transit system comes from the federal government and 83 percent comes from the fares the commuters pay.

"The drumbeat comes from you!" D'Amato accused Stockman. "The rhetoric comes from you!"

The House Democratic Study Group, meantime, issued an analysis of the Reagan budget that said it "restores the same policies he has pursued since taking office. It calls for more huge increases in military spending and more deep cuts in domestic programs."

"For example, under the president's budget 'freeze,' appropriations for defense would grow by 14 percent between 1983 and 1984, while appropriations for environment and natural resources would decline by 21 percent, education would decline by 8 percent, job training would be cut by 18 percent and funding for child nutrition would drop by 7 percent," the study said.

without any fear of interference or harassment by the state."

Fitzhugh said the Legislature has considered numerous proposals during the past few years to regulate parochial schools, and "we would be in the same situation they are in in Nebraska" if those proposals had become law.

Sen. Marguerite McLaughlin, D-Orofino, said, however, many state officials and legislators have "grave concerns" about schools operating without regulation.

"We do know of schools that are not legitimate schools but claim to be," she said.

"God knows there are some problems in the Christian schools, but there are terrible things happening in the state schools all the time," the northern Idaho pastor countered.

"We love these children. We want to educate them in a way that is pleasing to God. Let the state control the state schools, let God control the Christian schools."

Fitzhugh said dozens of graduates of his 9-year-old school have gone on to colleges, including North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene and Nampa's Northwest Nazarene College.

Today's weather

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome, Gooding areas:

Increasing clouds today with a chance of showers late in the day. Winds easterly 8 to 16 mph. Cloudy tonight and Thursday with showers at times. Winds variable 10 to 20 mph. Highs 50 to 56 today and 45 to 52 Thursday. Lows 34 to 40.

Camas, Prairie, Halley, Wood River areas:

Cloudy today with increasing chance of rain or snow showers. Gusty southerly winds. Cloudy tonight and Thursday with showers and periods of rain in the lower valleys and snow in the mountains. Highs in the 40s today and 35 to 45 on Thursday. Lows 25 to 32.

Northern Nevada and Utah:

Rain over Nevada today with snow levels near 7,000 feet. Rain increasing to showers tonight with snow level near 5,000 feet. Partly cloudy and cooler Thursday with showers over the eastern mountains. Highs in the 50s today and in the 40s Thursday. Lows in the 30s.

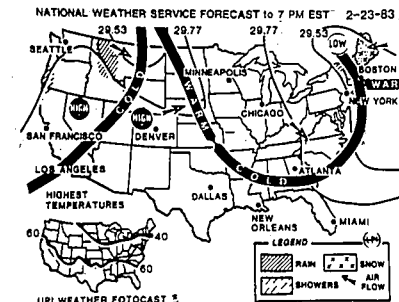

Increasing clouds over Utah today and tonight with scattered rain in the valleys and snow in the mountains Thursday. Not as warm. Highs in the 50s today and upper 40s Thursday. Lows in the 30s.

Little change appears in prospect for Idaho weather for the rest of the week.

With high pressure entrenched over the Rocky Mountains, storm systems moving inland off the Pacific Ocean are weakening before they reach Idaho. As a result, more mild temperatures with occasional wet periods are in store.

The extended forecast for the Magic Valley calls for occasional rain in the valleys and snow at higher elevations Friday through Sunday. Temperatures will remain mild with highs in the 40s and lows in the 20s. Similar conditions are also forecast for northern Idaho, with temperatures slightly milder.

One of those weakened frontal systems crossed Idaho Tuesday, producing light rain and snow, mainly from the central mountains northward. Another frontal system off the west coast is expected to drift slowly inland, bringing an increasing threat of precipitation later today through Thursday.

Unseasonably warm air being pushed ahead of that front will keep today's temperatures about 10 degrees above normal. Slightly cooler readings are in store on Thursday.

The sun came out after the system passed on Tuesday, with afternoon temperatures in the middle and upper 50s in the 30s and 40s. The state's warmest was 60 degrees at Hagerman. Tuesday morning lows were generally in the 20s and 30s, but Bear Lake slipped to 4 above zero.

Elsewhere in the nation Tuesday, the warmest temperature reported was 83 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif., and the coldest was 7 degrees at Jackson, Wyo.

OPEC tries to halt all out price war

By ROZ LUSTON
United Press International

Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani said Tuesday he would continue meeting with three other Persian Gulf members of OPEC to reach a new agreement on oil prices that could avert a full-scale price war.

United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Said Otaiba said OPEC must reduce its $34-a-barrel base oil price following the closed summit in the Saudi city of Riyadh between his country, Saudi Arabia, Qatar and Kuwait. Non-OPEC Bahrain and Oman also attended the crucial talks.

The Saudi Press Agency reported that Yamani would meet with the Gulf oil ministers Tuesday night and Wednesday to reach a decision on oil prices.

Yamani told reporters after the six-hour session that other OPEC ministers from Libya and Iraq were expected to arrive in Riyadh at a still undetermined date in a desperate bid to halt a full-scale pricing free-for-all.

The Gulf ministers rushed to Riyadh after Nigeria, an OPEC dissident, slashed its oil by $5.50 to $30 a barrel Saturday to match reductions by non-OPEC competitors Britain, Norway and the Soviet Union.

Mexico, a non-OPEC member and America's largest foreign oil supplier, said it would lower its oil prices Friday. The Soviet Union, the world's largest oil producer, urged OPEC to prevent a further drop in prices.

But UAE Oil Minister Mana Said

Otaiba said the organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' $34 base oil price had collapsed and must come down — the first price break in the cartel's 22-year history.

"We have to look for a new base price that should be agreed upon by all 13 members, who will also have to defend it and abide by it," Otaiba said.

The Riyadh talks coincided with reports that Iran, Libya and Algeria — OPEC mavericks that have underpriced and overproduced their oil — were meeting in Geneva to map out their strategy.

"The price war has started inside OPEC," the United Arab Emirates newspaper Al Wahda said.

In Washington, U.S. Energy Secretary Donald Hodel predicted crude prices would drop to around $25 a barrel and stay there "through the next year."

Official Saudi Arabia Radio held out the prospect of a "collapse of OPEC and its prices" and warned it would have "serious consequences on both producing and industrial nations."

Gold plummeted $25 an ounce in New York amid fears OPEC would be unable to keep a floor under sagging oil prices, and gasoline and home-heating oil fell about 5 cents a gallon on U.S. spot markets. Oil prices on the Rotterdam spot market dropped to the lowest since the Shah of Iran's overthrow in 1979.

OPEC deadlocked on a plan to salvage its $34 oil price last month because of a pricing dispute between Nigeria and the Gulf producers and set the stage for an all-out price war.

Oil

In Mexico City, authorities said Mexico would announce an oil price reduction Friday. Mexico charges $32.50 a barrel for its best crude and $25 for less desirable oil.

The Soviet Union, which fired the first salvo in the pricing battle by lowering its export crude $2 Feb. 1, said OPEC should hold the line on prices and warned the cartel is "facing the most crucial test of its 22-year history."

"Indeed, a price war within OPEC could cause damage to that organization which will be difficult to mend," the Communist Party newspaper Pravda said.

Analysts generally expect OPEC to lower its base price by $6 to $23 a barrel in face of the worldwide recession that has shrunk oil demand and spawned the global oil glut. It would be the first cartel-wide cut in OPEC's 22-year history.

Oil analyst Dan Lundberg told NBC's Today program that an OPEC price rollback to $28 a barrel would mean further savings for the U.S. motorist.

"The 99 cent (per gallon) prices that we see in so much of the country today could very well drop to 89 cents and if there is no OPEC accommodation in the near future, we might see in three or four weeks prices get down to the 70s," he said.

Reagan says nation on the road to peace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Tuesday he has placed America on a new road toward military and economic strength that reasserts the nation's position as "the greatest force for peace anywhere in the world."

In a long and detailed defense of his foreign policy, the president told the 23rd annual convention of the American Legion the United States has shed the image of being a "dubious deterrent to aggression" and is no longer "ering under the weight of a guilt complex."

The president broke no new ground in the address, speaking in general terms of relationships and dialogues between the United States and other nations. But he went to great lengths to soothe European allies, describing his dedication to reduction of nuclear arms by the superpowers.

Reagan apparently held up the speech until just before its 11 a.m. EST delivery to insert new language pledging his "deep personal commitment to achieving an arms reduction agreement at the negotiations in Geneva on intermediate-range nuclear forces."

He reiterated he would be willing to meet Soviet leaders "any time and anywhere" to ban certain such weapons.

He charged, "The Soviets' fundamental foreign policy is to break the link that binds us to our NATO allies."

Reagan also stressed the U.S. role in the Middle East, urging negotiation between the Arab states and Israel. He called once again for withdrawal of all foreign forces from Lebanon.

Reagan may have fueled the controversy, however, by inserting unusually strong language in the speech about protecting Israel.

"This administration is prepared to take all necessary measures to guarantee the security of Israel's northern borders in the aftermath of the complete withdrawal of the Israeli army (from Lebanon)," he said. A spokesman said the comment marked no change in administration policy.

After the speech, Reagan, who was given the Legion's Distinguished Service Medal, got long applause from the standing legionnaires. He was interrupted by applause about a half-dozen times during the long speech.

Hijackers request U.S. involvement

VALLETTA, Malta (UPI) — Hijackers held 159 hungry and exhausted hostages for a third night on a Libyan Arab Airways jet but freed 4 stewardesses Tuesday and promised to release all the passengers in Morocco if Malta refueled the craft.

Diplomatic sources said the three Libyan hijackers told Maltese Prime Minister Dom Mintoff they wanted U.S. Ambassador to Malta James M. Rentschler to take part in negotiations.

Rentschler is visiting the United States and a U.S. Embassy official said Washington would not take any part in the negotiations while the hijackers continued to hold hostages.

"If you give us enough fuel to go to Morocco we will release all the passengers and the aircraft in Morocco," one hijacker told Mintoff in a monitored radio conversation shortly before the stewardess was released.

In Tangiers, however, the semi-official Moroccan radio said the government of King Hassan would not allow the Boeing 727 to land in the North African nation.

Mintoff also gave his "personal guarantee" to protect the hijackers in Malta until they found a country that would give them political asylum.

"You can stay in Malta until you find a country that will accept you. We put no condition or time limit on the length of your stay in Malta," he said.

Maltese officials said the hijackers apparently just wanted to free Libya. At one point a hijacker told Mintoff: "We would rather die than go back to Libya."

There was no word on the condition of the passengers and crew trapped inside the straggling aircraft without new food, water or adequate sanitation facilities since the three-engine jet was hijacked Sunday on a domestic flight from the oasis town of Sedra to the Libyan capital of Tripoli.

It landed in Valletta Sunday night and was immediately surrounded by riot-equipped police and soldiers.

The stewardess, reportedly a

Yugoslav in her mid-20s, was lowered from the plane's front passenger door in mid-afternoon and met by police who rushed her into the control tower of Valletta's Luqa airport.

Mintoff, leading negotiations since the plane landed, first refused to refuel the plane until the hijackers freed 30 children on board.

He later hardened his stand when he told the hijackers to free all hostages before their demand for fuel would be considered.

The hijackers earlier warned authorities would be responsible for the fate of the passengers and threatened unspecified action — something that "has never happened before" — if their demands were not met.

Before dawn Tuesday, the hijackers opened the front passenger door of the plane slightly to let in fresh air. In the afternoon, the pilot started up the Boeing's auxiliary power, allowing the engine to run its electrical system and keep the radio in operation.

One of the passengers was an Italian engineer but the rest were believed to be Arabs, mostly Libyans.

Six Libyan government representatives flew to Valletta early Tuesday to observe the negotiations.

Oil price collapse may be no blessing

Before we all start chortling about the humpty-dumpty OPEC nations tumbling off the wall, we ought to remember that the falling oil prices are going to be, at best, a mixed blessing.

Sure it will be nice to be able to fill the tank again and get some real change back from a $20 bill. Prices in Twin Falls already have dipped under $1.00 a gallon, and in Seattle, they're reportedly under 90 cents. Welcome back to the late 1970s.

The competition among suppliers may also mean we'll barely notice the 5-cents-per-gallon increase in the federal gas tax that is scheduled for April.

But oil and its price is such a critical component of the world's economy that we can expect to see many other effects from tumbling prices, not all of them good.

Nations like Mexico, already flirting with economic disaster, may be pushed closer to bankruptcy by falling revenues. The International Monetary Fund is already seeking congressional funds (read: our tax dollars) to bail out a few faltering national economies, and the drop in oil prices may not help.

OPEC nations play major roles in international finance and banking, investment, the prices of stocks, metals and commodities. A sharp change in their revenues will upset every one of those indicators and may cause severe repercussions.

The underlying root of the problem is the world's huge oil dependence and its finite supply. A glut leaves suppliers scrapping among themselves, but no one should be fooled that the situation is a permanent one.

In five years, we could be just as easily back on a supply-demand treadmill, catering to the price whims of some oil supplier. In short, the OPEC collapse shouldn't leave Americans smug. Another turn of the screw is probably right around the corner of our energy profligacy.

Reagan administration has big communications problem

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George Shultz' style is so low-key that it is practically no-ops.

European diplomats love the relaxed, paternal manner that is somehow reminiscent of a phenomenon from another age, the family doctor on a house call.

For approximately the same reasons, Shultz drives newsmen to despair. The qualities that make him such a reassuring, comforting figure to other diplomats make him lousy news copy and worse television footage.

Television correspondents at the State Department have even turned his name into a verb. To be shulitized is to be cut off the evening news, as in:

"Are you going to be on the show tonight?"

"Nope. I've been shulitized — again."

One such correspondent, who set a new world's record by being shulitized 12 nights in a row while on a European trip with the secretary of state, said that his wife back home had filed a missing person report on him.

But Shultz tries to be responsive to newsmen's needs, and has had fairly frequent meetings with them. One of them recently turned out to be almost surreal.

With the usual fanfare given to a public appearance by a secretary of state, it was announced that Shultz would give a briefing in the White House press room on the annual summit of the seven leading Western nations. The timing was, itself, unusual since the summit was not scheduled to take place for another three months.

Shultz added to the puzzlement by saying that he had never attended such a summit, that the agenda for Williamsburg was not complete, and that the administration wanted to have the meeting informal and unstructured without the glare of publicity and public statements to reporters.

In effect, he was holding a news conference to announce that he preferred that reporters not write any stories about the summit.

One baffled newsmen finally asked him, "Why are we here?"

Shultz, with no visible change of expression, answered, "That's not a bad question."

The real answer to the question, according to a Shultz staff member, is that the White House wanted to begin the process of deflating expectations about the Williamsburg summit meeting and wanted to avoid a disaster like last year's get-together at Versailles, which was all pomp, ceremony and — finally — misunderstandings that severely damaged the cohesiveness of the Western alliance.

Shultz was being a good soldier, holding a news conference when he knew he had no information to impart. The blame for the puzzling non-news conference lay with the White House communications staff that, at the least, has a faulty sense of timing.

The White House and the State Department must share the blame for another communications fiasco, in which the administration sent to the Senate the nomination of Kenneth Adelman as director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

When the nomination was first announced, it was made clear that Adelman was being chosen as sort of an assistant to Shultz, who would more and more assume the mantle of chief arms negotiator, as Henry Kissinger and Cyrus Vance did when they held his job.

Adelman's chief qualification for his role in the arrangement was precisely that he was not a heavyweight, and there would be no role confusion between him and Shultz (as there was with the past ACDA director, Eugene Rostow).

That was never successfully explained to liberal members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who turned on Adelman in fury and scorn when he made a desultory appearance in his nomination hearings.

The administration meant to signal that it was finally getting serious about the arms negotiations and Shultz was taking charge. The message that arrived at Capitol Hill — and in European capitals — was that the administration was contemptuous about arms control negotiations, and Adelman's lack of substance and experience was proof of that.

It appears that Adelman will finally be confirmed and Shultz will take on his new role as super-negotiator in the arms control talks. It also appears that the Williamsburg economic summit will be more informal and useful than the Versailles fiasco.

But the administration made it unnecessarily difficult for itself in both cases, and further damaged its own credibility as a government that appears to know what it is doing.

As the prison warden said to Cool Hand Luke, in the movie of the same name, as he threw him into solitary confinement, "We've got a communications problem here."

Letters/Idaho considered by some as nuclear 'garbage dump'

Look beyond our backyard

I haven't lived in Idaho very long, but I have perceived it as safe, new, fresh and alive with clean air and beautiful mountains and rivers, a place of new beginning and opportunity.

I have been made aware that some of the country and evidently our own politicians regard Idaho as one of the country's "garbage dumps." Twenty-four percent of all nuclear waste is being shipped to Idaho from as far away as the East coast. Ninety thousand cubic feet per month is being brought in from Colorado, Washington, Ohio, Illinois, Virginia, South Carolina and Mississippi. Ninety-five percent of Rocky Flats Nuclear Arsenal's wastes are brought in from Colorado. How did we allow this to happen?

These wastes are often stored in open pits, which have contaminated 3.75 million cubic feet of earth. Cardboard boxes in trenches are used to store the waste of low and intermediate level wastes. Plastic bags in drums and plywood crates in trenches are often used.

Often radioactive wastes are stored 590 feet above the underground lake that feeds the Snake River. Wastes have been found 240 feet deep in test wells. Idaho wastes are stored in earthquake fault and volcanic areas. Wastes are stored in shallow valleys 40 feet lower than present river channels, which have flooded twice, carrying the wastes toward the aquifer.

It is not like cattle manure, that sweetens the ground when returned. This waste destroys and is also destroying not only one of our great resources, our land, but a resource that we cannot survive without, our water. Nuclear waste has been detected in Idaho's water supply and nuclear waste is a known cancer causing agent. Nuclear waste destroys life, not only in man, but the planet's surface.

It is my understanding that there have been over 380 nuclear waste accidents in just a five-year period. These accidents are occurring on state highways and in the railroad system.

It is my understanding that the MX missile, a nuclear warhead, has the capacity of "27 Hiroshimas" and contains the capacity of destroying the ozone balance of the planet, killing all life, not just Russians.

It is my understanding that the most receptive vote for the MX in Idaho, came from the southern part of the state, where voters preferred MX to be stored in southern Idaho, rather than eastern Washington, which would affect them more immediately.

I think it is time we look beyond our own backyards, that we realize we are not really separated from each other.

When nuclear tests were conducted in the Nevada Desert, government officials were admittedly "aware" of the radioactive effect occurring in southern Utah, which was to result in huge increases of cancer in children and adults. This pollution came from the air, it appears our will come from the ground, waste material seeping into our water resources, unless there is a MX accident, then we won't have to worry where it comes from.

I urge each person adult and child, to write their United States and state senators today saying "enough," saying, "no." I also understand we can contact the Snake River Alliance for more information and involvement.

More homework advisable

One of your usually accurate news writers, Lorayne Smith, should have done a little more homework before she did the article about Mrs. Walker who writes to save coyotes. When an outside source is quoted the statement and the intent should be correct before it is printed.

The harm to the agricultural industry which Lorayne quoted was not in reference to the increased number of livestock lost because of Mrs. Walker's campaign but to damaged public relations between the farm and non-farm communities.

The coyote issue has always been portrayed as having battle lines, you are either for or against the coyote. An incorrect picture of the situation has been publicized far too long. I have found that many farmers hold a very middle-of-the-road position on the coyote control issue. Why is this continually ignored?

It was also brought to Bernice's attention that her repeated attempts to make ranchers appear as the bad guys has a negative effect. Some of the hunters who read her letter believe that farmers will not object and in fact would encourage them to shoot any coyote on sight. Quite the contrary, our coyotes help with rodent control. We find it difficult enough to protect them without Bernice's brand of "help."

I would like to express my views on the subject of closing the Harmon Park swimming pool.

I live directly across the street from the pool. I have written the paper on a number of occasions concerning the park situation and was active in getting the 11 p.m. curfew and the glass beverage container ordinances passed.

I don't, however, want people to think that when I have earlier stated that the park was overused, that I meant the swimming pool. It is probably the best thing Twin Falls has for its children as a summer activity.

I made a trip to Dierkes Lake this past weekend and was appalled by the site. I had only been down there once before during my nine years in Twin Falls. My wife was down there with our children last summer once or twice. The last time she took the children swimming down there, my youngest child came home with a bad rash from something.

I don't really feel that the City Council could possibly be serious about making Dierkes Lake the main swimming area for the youth of Twin Falls. As a father of two children, I wouldn't even consider letting my children swim there again. Transportation to and from an area like that is also a very big problem. I would think, I don't feel that I could let my 6- and 9-year-old children ride a bicycle out the highway three miles and then down the steep grade to the lake. The lake is probably a good place for older kids such as teenagers that can operate a motor vehicle, but I don't feel it is a place for bicycles operated by children.

As for the lake itself, I can't see any effective way to make it safe for swimming. A lifeguard could not possibly cover that whole body of water. As I understand it, there have been several drownings there over the years and there has never, to my knowledge, been one at Harmon swimming pool.

I think it's time to have, as adults, start thinking of our children again and a little less about ourselves. The city of Twin Falls has spent a very large amount of money in the past years on baseball diamonds, such as fencing, lights and maintenance and a lot of money has been spent on tennis courts that get very little use. While all this money was being spent on adult activities, the swimming pool was falling apart. I think it's disgraceful for the city to tell our children that they don't have enough money to repair the pool, as we look at all the beautiful baseball diamonds and tennis courts and that they will have to either not swim this summer or go to Dierkes Lake, which they can't safely get to on a bicycle. They will have to be driven and that's very expensive nowadays.

I don't remember what the City Council said it would cost to repair the city pool at Harmon Park but if it would save one child's life, either from drowning or vehicle accident, I should think it would be worth it. I would also be in favor of a fund raised by whatever means to help raise the money to repair or replace the pool. I would like to find out from the city how much money would have to be raised before they could repair or replace the pool.

Everyone looks good as Libya cools

WASHINGTON — Col. Muammar Qaddafi, the despotic ruler of Libya, is "back in his box," says Secretary of State George P. Shultz in language falling well below approved diplomatic levels.

Presumably, Qaddafi shares the box with those Libyan death squads that were roaming the U.S. countryside a few months ago. Remember them? It is nice to have a despotic ruler in a small country accessible to the U.S. 6th Fleet. The United States can win one once in a while. A surge of pride and patriotism swept over the land a while back when two Navy F-14s bagged two Libyan MIGs, which had attacked them over the Gulf of Sidra.

The Libyan death squads that terrorized the U.S. press (if nothing else) made good copy, then folded their tents and silently strode away.

Former CIA Director Stansfield Turner recommends the United States follow their example.

"It's important today," Turner says, "that we back off quickly and quietly."

That hardly is advice in the bold tradition of a nation that sings "... to the shores of Tripoli," but it is solid advice.

Already, loud U.S. claims of having prevented a Libyan invasion of the Sudan have aroused the nation's enemies (which matters little) and embarrassed its friends (which matters a great deal).

The official Libyan news agency, JANA, reports that thousands of screaming Libyans poured into the streets of Tripoli Saturday, burning President Reagan in effigy and protesting the "overt terrorist provocations" of the 6th Fleet. The regime contends its air force intercepted "an aerial target" within 50 miles of Libya's second-largest city and "forced it to retreat."

The U.S. version is that two Libyan MIG-23s approached the U.S. carrier Nimitz, which scrambled its F-14s and turned the MIGs back. No thousands of U.S. citizens were screaming in the streets — which is well... there already had been too much screaming in the news media.

Reagan, in a news conference last week, tried to cool it — saying he was aware of no unusual fleet movement, and that the dispatch of four Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft to Egypt was a routine training exercise.

President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt cooled it even further. What is claimed as a great triumph by the U.S. secretary of state is a great embarrassment to U.S. friends in the area. The United States, because of its unlimited support of Israel, isn't viewed with favor in much of the Arab world. Mubarak has been trying to mend fences with that Arab world. He can't do that while snuggled up to the United States.

The official Egyptian news agency says Egypt had "never asked the United States to conduct any military moves in the Mediterranean or elsewhere." Putting as much distance as possible between itself and the United States, Egypt says it is "not an adherent to any country's strategy and has nothing to do with any moves by the United States or any other country."

The principal beneficiary of getting Qaddafi back in his box was the Sudan, which allegedly was about to be invaded. Sudanese President Gaafar Nimeiri has played coolest of all. He has said nothing. Nothing he could say would help.

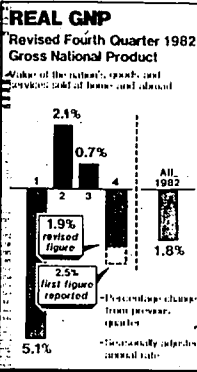

If Nimeiri said, "Thank you," to the United States, the fanatic Arab minority in his nation — which would love to overthrow him — would paint him as a U.S. puppet. Besides, there is a real question of how much thanks he owes.

"I doubt," former CIA Director Turner says, "that Qaddafi was seriously trying to invade."

Oh well, as the 6th Fleet departs the shores of Tripoli, Qaddafi looks good to his people. Reagan looks good to his, and no one got hurt in the invasion that didn't occur — whether it was scheduled or not.

Otis Pike, a former Congressman, writes his column for the Newhouse News Service.

Revised economic statistics show smaller drop in GNP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The economy did not stumble as badly at the end of last year as initially reported, the government reported Tuesday in a revised reading on the broadest measure of activity: gross national product.

The updated report by the Commerce Department showed the GNP shrank at a 1.9 percent annual rate in the final quarter of 1982, rather than the 2.5 percent reported earlier this year.

On Capitol Hill, economist Alan Greenspan declared Tuesday that on the basis of statistics for the current year, recovery is "under way and impressive in scope."

Greenspan, chairman of the National Commission on Social Security Reform and a top outside economic adviser to President Reagan, told the Senate Appropriations Committee. "It is clear, in retrospect, that the recession bottom occurred some time in December."

The revised GNP figures, calculated in 1972 dollars to remove the effects of inflation, showed the value of everything sold at home and abroad was worth $1.676 trillion during 1982.

In inflated dollars, 1982 GNP totaled $3.8576 trillion.

Overall, the report showed that in 1983, "We certainly got a heck of a lot better start than (in 1982) when GNP was sinking at a 5 percent annual rate," said Robert Ortner, Commerce Department chief economist.

The revision did not affect the overall comparison of all of 1982 with the previous year, showing a 1.8 percent decline in GNP, the worst annual drop since 1946.

This year, the administration forecasts a 1.4 percent GNP growth under the same year-over-year comparison. The Congressional Budget Office is more optimistic for a change, seeing 2.1 percent growth.

EPA investigators huddle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite coalition from some committee chairmen, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill Tuesday backed the agreement allowing the White House to give Congress access to secret EPA documents on toxic waste.

O'Neill called a private afternoon meeting with all six House chairmen whose panels are investigating some aspect of charges that the Environmental Protection Agency mismanaged its $1.6 billion Superfund cleanup program because of political favoritism and conflicts of interest.

"All said they agree some panel, probably the House Judiciary Committee, should be asked to investigate the failure of the U.S. attorney to convene a grand jury to consider the contempt citation against EPA Administrator Anne Burford.

The House Energy and Commerce oversight subcommittee also met privately to question subpoenaed past and present EPA employees about the charges. Subpoenas were issued when the administration declined to allow EPA employees to be questioned without a lawyer or Republican congressional staff member present.

A bill was introduced in both houses aimed at shielding the EPA from politics by making it an independent regulatory commission whose five bipartisan members would have fixed, staggered terms.

The chairmen emerged from their meeting with O'Neill determined to pursue separate investigations of the EPA. The speaker asked if they wanted to combine their efforts in one ad hoc committee, and they said no.

"These six investigations are being carried out in a professional manner with no overlapping, no duplication, no conflict and no in-fighting," said Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., chairman of a science and technology subcommittee.

Another chairman attending O'Neill's meeting was Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., who negotiated the compromise that sets up an elaborate process by which his subcommittee members and two staffers may view sensitive EPA documents.

Court bolsters drunk driving law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, disturbed by the carnage caused by drunk drivers, ruled Tuesday that a motorist's refusal to take a blood alcohol test can be used as evidence against him in court.

The ruling gives states another strong weapon to use in convicting drunken drivers, who are blamed for more than 26,000 traffic deaths each year.

The justices overturned a South Dakota ruling that found using a driver's refusal against him violated his Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

"A refusal to take a blood alcohol test, after a police officer has lawfully requested it, is not an act coerced by the officer and thus is not protected by the privileges against self-incrimination," Justice Sandra Day O'Connor wrote for the court majority.

"The carnage caused by drunk drivers is well documented," she noted. "This court ... has repeatedly lamented the tragedy."

The net result of the ruling is that a suspected drunken driver not only can be forced to take a blood alcohol test, but in those states where he is given a choice, his refusal to take the test also can be used to indicate his guilt. Further, the court said, police do not even need to tell a driver that his refusal may be used against him.

It happens gradually over weeks and months, so you may be the last to know your phones haven't kept up with your company. Unfortunately, your customers are the first to know.

They get busy signals instead of answers. They get put on hold and are held and held. They get lost between transfers and nobody inside knows.

COM KEY™ 416 SYSTEM: THE SIMPLE SOLUTION.

Common problems for active businesses. But take heart. There's an uncommonly simple solution. The remarkable, dependable, expandable and very economical Com Key 416 system from AIS/American Bell—part of AT&T backed by Western Electric and Bell Labs.

The Com Key 416 system lets you know what's happening with your phones. There are "busy" lamps so you know which lines are busy and who's on hold. Your receptionist can signal you that an urgent call is waiting. You can end time-consuming meetings by holding instant conferences with your people and outside callers, too...right from your desk...

ONLY $1245 AND IT'S YOURS.

There's more. The system blinks, winks, and even grows—to 16 extensions. Yet, the basic system is yours for only $1245, plus tax and a charge for installation.

For only $1245, why make do with phones that won't do any longer. Call us to purchase the Com Key 416 system or to get our free kit: "HOW TO MAKE PHONES WORK HARDER FOR YOUR SMALL GROWING BUSINESS."

Bill would reorganize education board

BOISE (UPI) — A House committee introduced Tuesday a bill to give the governor more control over the membership of the Idaho Board of Education and establish the state's public instruction superintendent as board president.

"The governor ought to be able to have a state board that reflects his views on education," said bill sponsor Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello.

In addition, she said it would make sense to install the state's top education official as head of the Education Board.

Although the House Education Committee agreed to have the bill printed, one lawmaker said afterward that the proposal was political "dynamite."

Under the current law, Ms. McDermott said, the governor appoints the board's seven members, but their terms run for five years and he has little control after naming them to the panel and he cannot pack the board with all members of his own party.

The eastern Idaho lawmaker's bill would stipulate that the seven members hold their posts at the pleasure of the governor, like members of the chief executive's cabinet now serve. The current governor is a Democrat, John Evans.

"Each new governor could come in with a whole new board, and I think that's healthy," Ms. McDermott said. "Under the existing law, once an individual is appointed, you've got a five-year term."

She said the multiyear term requirement caused problems for Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus when he succeeded Gov. Don Samuelson in 1971. Republican Samuelson made a series of "midnight" appointments of GOP sympathizers that the Democrat could do nothing about, Ms. McDermott said.

"With these five-year terms and the governor serving a four-year term, there you are (as governor) with a whole board that might not reflect your views at all," she said.

Her bill also would increase the power of the state public-instruction superintendent by making him head of the education board. That officer — currently Republican Jerry Evans — serves only as an ex-officio member of the panel.

In other action Tuesday, the House Education Committee agreed to introduce a bill allowing school districts to cut the school week to four days.

Class time would not decline, however, because the minimum hourly instruction requirement for the school year would be retained, sponsors said.

Legislators get annual report on state courts

By STEVEN CHRISTENSEN
United Press International

BOISE — Idaho's judicial system, facing escalating caseloads and tight fiscal resources, is committing to a three-year trial and appellate delays while lowering the cost of going to court, the chief justice of the state Supreme Court said Tuesday.

Charles R. Donaldson told the Legislature the judiciary has already made substantial progress over the last 15 years to streamline Idaho's justice system while maintaining its quality.

But he said further work is needed in light of tight budgets and rising caseload pressures on the system, which are expected to continue for at least several years.

"In times of economic crisis, the public funds necessary to operate the courts are increasingly harder to come by," the chief justice told the House and Senate in the first annual "State of the Judiciary" speech to lawmakers.

"Yet, in such times, citizens turn to the courts in increasing numbers, anxious for the resolution of their problems," he said.

Donaldson said the number of cases filed with Idaho courts rose by 125 percent during the 1970s. Appeals of lower-court rulings skyrocketed by 160 percent.

Last year, he said, appellate filings in the state reached an all-time high — at 419 cases, and cases involving drunken driving have doubled since 1975.

To meet the increasing demand for arbitration, the court system launched a massive reorganization and streamlining program which began in the mid-1960s and has already produced impressive results, Donaldson said.

He said judicial districts in the state were reduced from 13 to seven, allowing better use of judges. In 1969, the Legislature replaced 300 justices of the peace, probate and police judges with just 60 magistrates, he added.

The Supreme Court has hired an administrative director, and an intermediate Court of Appeals was set up last year to help the high court handle appeals.

Efforts to allow motorists to pay tickets without appearing in court have also eased caseload pressures, he said.

Because of the streamlining program, the Idaho Supreme Court ranked fourth in the nation in 1980 in terms of "its degree of management utilization and efficiency," Donaldson said.

But he said the system must continue its effort to attract experienced lawyers to the bench.

"The average age of district judge appointments in the last three years is 38 years old. Of the last 17 district judges, only five were appointed from private practice. We must seek ways to attract the older, more experienced private practitioner to the bench," said Donaldson, a former state legislator.

The chief justice, who was elected by other justices to his four-year term under provisions of a constitutional amendment passed by voters last November, said he had three main goals during his tenure.

First, he said, trial delays must be reduced. Delays in the appellate process must also be trimmed, Donaldson said, and ways must be found to "simplify court procedures and reduce the costs of litigation."

He said the court system has worked diligently to keep its costs under control in light of the state's revenue crunch. But Donaldson added the system must be adequately financed to properly perform its constitutional role.

House OKs extension for filing water rights

BOISE — Without debate, the House passed a bill Tuesday that extends the deadline for recording water rights in Idaho.

Although the measure applies statewide, it particularly affects the Magic Valley, where many farm irrigation rights need to be filed or face forfeiture.

"For example, a farmer may have bought his farm with a recorded water permit for 20 acres," says Norm Young, of the Idaho Department of Water Resources. "But since the advent of sprinkler systems, he has expanded his irrigation to 40 acres."

"But that extra 20 acres is not a recorded water right," he says. "If he doesn't file it now under the statewide water-claims program, then he will lose that right to irrigate that new 20 acres."

The legislation passed Tuesday would extend the filing deadline two years — from June 30 of this year to June 30, 1985.

But it also sets substantial fines for not filing until after the original deadline.

Specifically, a farmer would have to pay a $100 fee for filing between June 30, 1983, and June 30, 1984. That fee would be hiked to $200 during the second year of the extension. But only minimal fees are charged for filing by this summer.

The measure now will be reviewed by the Senate Resources and Environment Committee, before facing a vote on the Senate floor. It passed the House easily, on a 67-3 vote.

Topless club bill unveiled

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Law Enforcement Department resumed its long-running war against a Garden City nightclub Tuesday, gaining introduction of a bill designed to outlaw topless dancing in such places.

The House State Affairs Committee agreed to print the measure, dubbed the "Hunt Club bill" after the club that has been locked in a battle with the state over its nude dancing acts.

John Rooney, department director, said the bill is written to allow the agency to bypass some of the red tape in which it has become entangled in trying to remove the club's liquor licenses.

Earlier attempts by the agency to crack down on the club are still tied up in court, but Rooney said the new bill would allow the agency to end the club's featured attraction — topless female dancers.

Sales tax up next month

TWIN FALLS — The State Tax Commission has announced that effective this March 1 through June 30, 1984, the sales- and use-tax rate has been changed from 3 percent to 4 percent.

The rate was changed as part of the recently enacted budget-balancing act, which was passed by the Legislature and signed by the governor.

The act also speeds up the collection of taxes by moving up the due date for income-tax withholding and sales- and use-tax returns to the 20th day of each reporting month, instead of the 25th or 31st day of each reporting month.

Copies of the new sales-tax regulations, the new 4 percent tax schedule and letters of explanation are being mailed to all affected tax-account payers. Those accounts identified as "large" accounts for sales and use taxes, or withheld taxes, will have new coupon books mailed to them for use in reporting. However, most taxpayers will be able to use their present reporting coupons, according to a Tax Commission official.

Israel wants all forces evacuated out of Lebanon

GERALD NADLER
Lead Press International

Israeli leaders said Tuesday that any guarantees could not substitute for the direct security arrangements with Lebanon that Israel wants before withdrawing its troops.

All foreign forces should evacuate Lebanon ... the Israeli Army is also out of the foreign forces in Lebanon."

Prime Minister Menachem Begin said in a speech in Jerusalem to a group of American and Canadian Jews.

But, Begin said, "We are going to stick to our demands for security arrangements."

Begin's comments came as President Reagan, speaking at the American Legion convention in Washington, said the United States "is prepared to guarantee the security of Israel's northern borders" after a pull-out from Lebanon.

In Algiers, Algeria, Palestinian leaders toughened a resolution on the Middle East peace plan that will be considered by the Palestine National Council, the Palestinian parliament-in-exile.

The consensus resolution, approved at all Palestinian factions, said the national council "refuses to consider (the Reagan plan) as a sound basis for a just and lasting solution to the Palestinian problem."

Palestine Liberation Organization officials, however, said the wording of resolution was still a victory for guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat, who held off attempts to use the word

"rejection," so he would have room to negotiate with the United States on a Palestinian homeland.

Sentiment against the Reagan plan was strong because it does not call for a Palestinian state. The plan envisions a Palestinian entity on the Israeli-occupied West Bank under Jordanian administration.

In its negotiations with Lebanon, Israel has said it wants a 27-mile artillery-free buffer zone in southern part of the country before it withdraws the bulk of its 30,000 troops. It has also demanded three to five Israeli "outposts" inside Lebanese territory to ensure Palestinian guerrillas do not infiltrate back into south Lebanon.

In a separate address in Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said the security of northern Israel could only be achieved through a direct agreement with the Beirut government.

"Maybe ... American guarantees could be helpful but they couldn't replace an agreement between us and Lebanon," Shamir told Israel Radio after the speech.

Shamir also said he believes a withdrawal and security agreement with Lebanon can be reached "in the near future," despite existing "differences in very vital areas." He did not elaborate.

In another development, the Israeli Cabinet unanimously approved the appointment of Israeli ambassador to the United States Moshe Arens as the new defense minister to replace Ariel Sharon, Israel Radio said.

U.S. Marines rescue stranded villagers

By JACK REDDEN
United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Marine helicopters used the first clear weather since Lebanon's record blizzard to drop food and fuel Tuesday to stranded villagers awaiting a Marine rescue column inching up the precarious mountain roads.

As rescue teams made their way through the snow-clogged roads they found more abandoned cars, some with frozen bodies. Police placed the official death toll at 53 late Tuesday.

International peace keeping troops backed up

Lebanese army, civil defense and Red Cross in the snow clearing and search efforts, with the major assistance coming from U.S. Marines.

After being defeated by the weather Monday, two Marine helicopters plucked four stranded people after dawn Tuesday from the Syrian-held Dahr el Baladar section of the main Beirut to Damascus highway.

The Marines, nervous after being refused permission for an overland passage to the area on Monday, watched with relief as the Syrian soldiers ran toward the two helicopters waving and smiling.

The Marines said the four people were suffering exposure, one with frostbite. Lebanese army helicopters also removed another 16 people from the wind-swept heights, where radio reports said the snow was 6 to 30 feet deep.

Prime Minister Chelik Wazzan called the blizzard unprecedented and the Marines said they understood it was the worst recorded in the past 40 years.

A total of seven massive amphibious assault vehicles slowly plowed their way up the narrow road that leads inland from north of Beirut.

Guerrillas still hold Suchitoto

MAN SALVADOR (UPI) — Rebels fighting to overthrow government said Tuesday they held an elite U.S.-trained battalion in a key hamlet where the army staged a massive counterinsurgency sweep last month.

In another government offensive, backed by day-and-night artillery shelling, a 3,000-man rescue column headed for the fourth day to retake Suchitoto, a city just 30 miles north of San Salvador besieged by rebels for 11 days.

The guerrillas' "titánic" Radio Proceremos said the 1,000-man Simon Bolivar battalion retreated to the south from the strategic town of Suchitoto, 75 miles east of San Salvador and just a few miles from the Honduran border.

The battalion, trained in the United States last May, was stationed in Suchitoto last month after a 6,000-man army sweep successfully drove rebels from the area and the village they held since last October.

Control of Perquin has taken on a psychological significance for both guerrillas and government forces because it has changed hands at least 10 times in the past year.

National guardsmen, part of the 8,000-man force garrisoned in Suchitoto, reported the city was quiet overnight, but it still surrounded by 500 to 1,000 rebels who have been waging war against the U.S.-backed government for 30 months.

Rebels cut deep trenches and erected barricades along a 6-mile stretch of the highway into the city and encircled Suchitoto.

The city is almost without food, drinking water and electric power. Only half the civilian population of 10,000, including teachers and health workers, have now abandoned the

Cosmonauts may dine on quail eggs

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet cosmonauts may dine on fresh quail if they can just get the eggs to hatch.

The official Tass news agency said Tuesday that Soviet and Czechoslovak cosmonauts have developed an incubator to hold the eggs intact during launching while keeping them at the proper hatching temperature.

It works, "this will lay the beginning for the creation of mini-quail farms in conditions of weightlessness to supply cosmonauts with food during lengthy flights," Tass said.

Unlike chicken eggs, which need three weeks to hatch, quail eggs need only 15-17 days, Tass said. Additionally, hens lay their first eggs after six months while quails start laying eggs after only 35-40 days.

The Soviet news agency said a previous space flight carried quail eggs with "promising" results although apparently none of them hatched.

Tass didn't say when the quail would be ready to eat after hatching, but added that the choice of bird was "by no means accidental... quail meat is very tasty, while quail eggs, although small in size, are very nutritious."

Prince sails off to Indies

MAYPORT, Fla. (UPI) — Britain's Prince Andrew set sail Tuesday, apparently without having seen his American soft-porn movie actress-girlfriend Kathleen "Koo" Stark, but there will be another opportunity in Barbados.

The prince ended his five-day visit to the United States shortly after 11 a.m. MST when the British Royal Navy aircraft carrier Invincible, on which he is a helicopter pilot, steamed out of the Mayport ship basin.

The Invincible is scheduled to call at Nassau in the Bahamas Thursday, but British sources believe a more likely setting for the couple to rekindle their romance is Barbados, where the carrier begins a 10-day visit March 11.

During the time he was in north Florida, Andrew made frequent short trips off the U.S. Navy base. Some destinations later became known, but others did not.

Whether the dashing 23-year-old prince got together with the sultry 26-year-old Stark remained in doubt, since the two were not seen publicly.

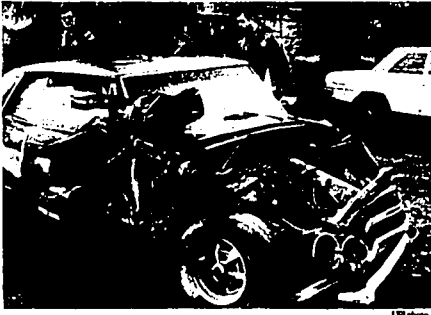

But a private security guard at Sawgrass, a beachside resort 12 miles south of Mayport, insisted that the two did meet at one of the villas where a woman identified as Stark reportedly had been staying since last Friday.

But British reporters, who snugged bedrooms at the expensive resort and then patrolled the grounds like bloodhounds, said they found no signs of a rendezvous or even that Stark had been there.

After a three-day stop in Nassau, the British Second Flotilla was expected to mark the halfway point in its current goodwill and Caribbean training mission with the layover in Barbados.

"There will be 200 wives and sweethearts coming to spend some of that leave time with their menfolk," Rear Adm. Robert W.F. Gerken, the flotilla's flag officer, told reporters on arrival in Mayport.

The flotilla consists of 10 ships, including the Invincible. Andrew is a sub-lieutenant in the British Royal Navy.

McMinnville, Ore., police examine car driven down hallway

High school drop-in speeds along hallway

McMINNVILLE, Ore. (UPI) — A prison parolee who claimed he was being chased smashed his car through the front doors of McMinnville High School before dawn Tuesday, zoomed down the main hallway at 100 mph and crashed into the back door.

The hot-rodder stumbled from his car and fled the scene but was captured by policeman Tom Jones, who chased the bleeding suspect for two blocks through alleys and over fences before cornering him in a backyard.

Alan Warren Smith, a recent parolee from California, was held at the city jail on charges of reckless driving, failure to perform the duties of a driver and criminal mischief.

"I got a call around 3:30 a.m. saying a car had run into the building and they couldn't secure it," said Tom Chapman, principal of the school. "I thought someone ran into the building."

"As it turns out, the car came at high speed, smashed through the front doors of the building and proceeded all the way down the hall," he said.

The car barreled down the 250-foot-long, 11-foot-wide hallway at more than 100 mph, striking pillars, posts and water fountains.

Police said the man claimed he was being chased by a blue Camaro. "He ricocheted off the wall a few times but actually did a pretty good job. He missed the main water fountain and knocked another two off the wall," Chapman said.

"He was a good driver," the principal said. "We're just pleased that there's not more damage."

Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

Black disarms Klansmen

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A 71-year-old black man took a gun away from two reputed Ku Klux Klansmen who threatened to kill him and held them until police arrived, officers said Tuesday.

"I'm glad I did it," said Robert Flemming, a retired janitor. "I could have shot them, but I didn't do it. I just frightened them enough to keep them away."

Carl Edwin Solock, 31, of Smyrna, Ga., was charged with felonious assault and accessory to felonious assault, and Douglas Wayne Solock, 28, Lakeland, Fla., was charged with two counts of felonious assault, Knox County 1A. Herman Johnson said.

They two suspects were to be arraigned Tuesday. They were not wearing Klan robes, but told police later they were members of a Klan chapter in Georgia.

Flemming told police he walked out of his Knox County home Sunday night when he heard several shots fired. The two men had been seen in front of the nearby Dante United Methodist Church, firing several shots into an empty bus at the side of the building, police said.

FAST EDDIE PELKEY Portrayed in 'Hustler'

Noted pool shark dies in 80s of lung cancer

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Fast Eddie Pelkey, the pool shark portrayed by actor Paul Newman in the movie "The Hustler," died Monday of lung cancer.

His exact age was unknown, but relatives estimated that he was between 85 and 88. He died in a San Jose hospital.

"He was the best, a real high-class gentleman," said Duke Knight, owner of the Wooden Cue, a pool hall where Pelkey shot some of his last games only two years ago.

"We all loved him. He was truly a legend. He could, and did, shoot with the best," Knight said.

Paul Newman portrayed Fast Eddie opposite Jackie Gleason as Minnesota Fats. Pelkey got no royalties, no credit lines and no consulting fees.

He shot high-class pool for money all his adult life, earning enough to raise and care for his family and help his son through college.

Pelkey made it into Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" at San Jose's Garden City Billiards hall in 1938.

He sank one of the 14 red balls off the break in a game of snooker. Then, in succession, he pocketed the rest of the balls in between successful shots on enough black (eight-point) and pink (seven-point) balls to drub a Florida hustler 118-0.

During a visit to his home town of Waterville, Maine, a few years ago, Pelkey told a reporter:

"I hate the game, but it was a living. I brought up my family by means of it, but I never played pool for fun. I never hustled anyone. They hustled me," he said.

The real-life Fast Eddie never played Minnesota Fats. "Heck, Fats (was) wearing diapers when I was shooting pool," he said.

Clark has exercise periods

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Barney Clark spent his third day on the Jarvik-7 artificial heart Tuesday pedaling an exercise, walking with assistance and visiting with his wife, Una Loy Clark, and his daughter, Karen Shaifer.

University of Utah Medical Center spokeswoman Anne Bollinger said it was a routine day for Clark, who has been back in the intensive care unit for nearly a week after a two-day liberation to a private room.

Clark's return to the ICU was precipitated by lung and kidney problems, which Bollinger said are slowly improving. She said the 53-year-old, retired Des Moines, Wash., dentist remained in satisfactory condition.

Clark still requires periodic use of a respirator to help him breathe. He had gone without the breathing aid for a week when doctors decided to move him out of intensive care on Valentine's Day.

Wallace responding to medication

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George Wallace was responding well Tuesday to medication for an ailment diagnosed as a slight inflammation of the colon, said a spokesman.

Press Secretary Bill Joe Camp said Wallace's personal physician, Dr. Hamilton H. Hutchinson, traced the governor's pain to a "slight inflammation in the left colon area." He said medication was determined to be the best treatment.

The condition, Camp said, was believed to be associated with a stomach virus that had nagged Wallace for several days last week.

Monopoly just too common

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Losing at its own game, Parker Brothers failed to convince the Supreme Court Tuesday to help it keep its monopoly on Monopoly, the famous real estate board game.

Without comment, the justices let stand a ruling invalidating the 48-year-old Monopoly trademark because the term has become a common descriptive name for that type board game.

Critics say the action endangers trademark protections for hundreds of brand-name products from dish soaps to video games. Trademarks invalidated in the past because the names fell into common use include those for aspirin, cellophane, cola, thermos and yo-yo.

The trademark for Monopoly, first manufactured by Parker Brothers in 1935, was challenged by a San Francisco State University economics professor who invented and marketed a board game he called "Anti-Monopoly."

Parker Brothers, a division of CPG Products Corp., protested Professor Ralph Anspach's use of its trademark in his game's title, saying it would exploit the reputation and success it built for Monopoly.

But in August 1982, a three-judge panel of the 9th U.S. Court of Appeals in California ruled Monopoly had gained too common a meaning, like "shredded wheat," which the Supreme Court in 1938 declared was so generic it could not be controlled by one cereal maker.

The appeals court invalidated Monopoly's trademark, basing its ruling in part on a marketing survey showing most consumers bought Monopoly because they were interested in the game and did not care who manufactured it.

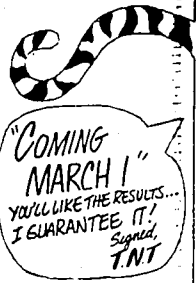

"When a trademark primarily denotes a product, not the product's producer, the trademark is lost," the court said.

The makers of Monopoly appealed to the Supreme Court, with the backing of trademark lawyers, toy makers, the grocery industry and manufacturing associations.

Sen. Hart pushing science

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Gary Hart, advocating brains over bombs, reintroduced a bill Tuesday that would close a mounting gap in U.S. math and science education at an annual cost of less than a nuclear aircraft carrier.

Hart, of Colorado, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said although his proposed American Defense Education Act did not get a majority vote in the Senate, he believes increased concern and changing times will give it a more favorable reception in the 98th.

The House already is moving toward floor action on a $400 million math and science measure. Hart's bill, which would provide a more comprehensive program, could cost up to $2 billion a year.

Speaking of his bill's failure last year, Hart told a news conference the 97th Congress was preoccupied with President Reagan's economic program, which included record cuts in social programs and massive defense buildups.

Now, he said, Congress is ready to start cutting back on Reagan's defense spending and "invest in the long-term future of the people" through such efforts as improved education.

Citing slipping math and science student scores and a mounting shortage of math and science teachers, Hart said, "We're losing the education race. If you will, and that is starting to shake up a lot of people in Congress."

He said while his measure would cost up to $2 billion a year, it would be far less than the $3.6 billion needed to build a new nuclear aircraft carrier. Hart wants two such vessels.

Hart said a sound education is the real basis for a strong defense as well as a vibrant economy.

"Only investing in the minds of our young people will bring lasting returns in the future," he said. "The situation demands an immediate national response."

The legislation would provide incentives and resources for local schools, in cooperation with local colleges and universities, to improve programs in math and science, as well as communications, foreign languages, high technology and computer literacy.

Hart was joined at the news conference by Willard McGuire, president of the National Education Association, which supports the bill, by beating the quantity and quality of math and science curriculum and teachers.

McGuire said the 1.7-million-member NEA, the nation's largest educational organization, "is totally committed to the ADFA. We have already begun a massive effort to build national support for this crucial legislation."

Gov. Askew to announce candidacy

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Reubin Askew, one of the "New South" governors of the 1970s, will announce his candidacy Wednesday for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, becoming the fourth contender to do so.

Askew plans to make his announcement at a news conference in Washington, and later in Tallahassee, where he served as governor from 1971 to 1979.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale, who announced Monday, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., already have announced.

Appearing on NBC's "Today" show Tuesday, Askew said polls showing him a long shot have "very little relevance as to who eventually wins."

The polls, could be turned around through "hard work... and talking and speaking to the issues," he said.

The 54-year-old, non-smoking, non-drinking Askew was variously viewed as a tax-and-spend liberal or as a Moral Majority conservative. He is now a lawyer in private practice in Miami.

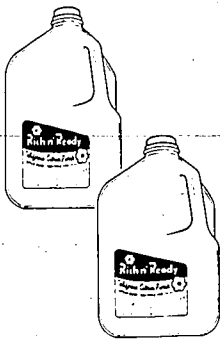

Askew, 54, had been urged to run for the presidency by several key Democratic leaders in the mid-1970s, but declined.

CSI spring enrollment takes upward bounce

By HARRIET GUTHERTZ
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Spring-semester enrollment at the College of Southern Idaho topped the fall figure, and administrators say a poor economy and mini-computer classes have lured more students to the campus.

The move to computerized registration this semester has complicated the comparison process, but Jack Sims, the director of admissions and records, reports the total head count for all CSI programs is 5,060, in contrast to 4,493 for fall semester.

Adult-enrichment courses gained the most students over the fall, moving from 965 participants last fall to 1,210 this semester. The college also reported 100 additional students enrolled in academic programs.

The vocational enrollment has remained even, according to Orval Bradley, the vocational director.

The differences between the two semesters may be even greater because computerized record-keeping has ended a previous practice of double-counting students who were attending classes in more than one program.

Although spring enrollments tend to fall off from the fall figure, Sims says that college enrollments tend to go up during a recession. People want to retrain and get ready for new jobs, he says.

But Sims believes that the single biggest reason for the increase is the interest in the college's computer classes.

CSI recently added 10 mini-computers to its lab, and it is offering more computer classes than ever before, but the college still is having trouble offering enough sections to meet the demand.

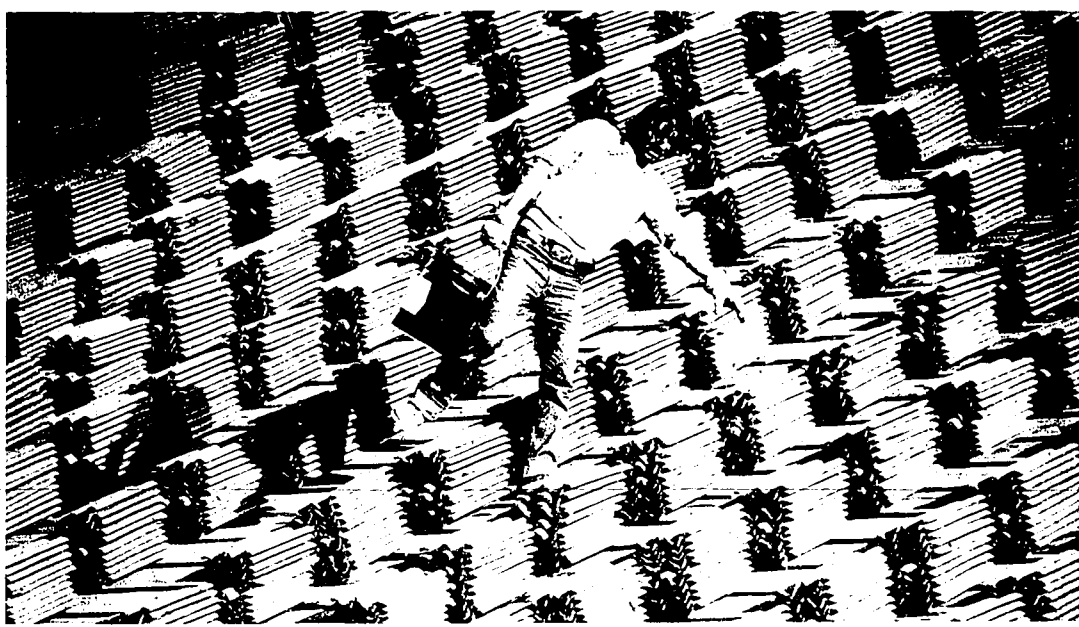

Team-teaching the introduction-to-computers class has allowed CSI to relax the enrollment cap somewhat, says Roy Strowser, the academic dean. And continuing-education students are working at the Twin Falls High School computer center. In addition to the one at the college, says Ed Austin, the director of continuing education.

A great variety of people have been attracted to the computer courses offered by the college. Everyone from parents who want to keep up with their computer-wiz children to businessmen who need to work with the machine in the office has found their way to CSI computer classes, Austin says.

Austin, who is pleased with the increasing interest in adult education, notes that continuing education has tried to attract citizens to a wide variety of classes besides the offerings in computer literacy. The department has tried to increase the number of classes each year, and it has doubled the number in the past three years, he says.

The department has also done a much better job of publicizing its offerings than in the past, he says.

The church is scheduled to be completed this summer and will house members of the Second and 10th wards.

City to fight Mall ruling

By DAVID MOFFAT
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls has decided to seek outside legal assistance in fashioning its response to a recent unfavorable court ruling in the case of the Price Development Co.'s request to build a mall off Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

The decision was made in an executive session following a City Council work session Tuesday afternoon.

Later, at council's regularly scheduled meeting, a representative of the Price Co. and an attorney representing the Workman family, the owners of the land on which the mall would be built, said they still planned to build the mall, and that the city would be acting unwisely if it appeals the judgment.

However, Tom Nelson, an attorney for the Workmans, said that the proposal by Price was not "cast in stone." He said that the developers would rather negotiate certain aspects of the mall design, than face an appeal to the Idaho Supreme Court.

But Mayor Chris Talkington said after the meeting that an offer to negotiate was "nothing we haven't heard before." He said the city would be willing to listen, but it would also proceed with its legal response.

He directed Nelson to submit any proposals he might have on the matter in writing.

Talkington further said that it still is the consensus among council members that the ruling, by Fifth District Court Judge Douglas Kramer, that the city had acted capriciously in denying a rezoning request for the mall would be appealed.

The city will negotiate to retain a local attorney whose "philosophy and strategy" are compatible with the aims of the city, Talkington said. Until such counsel is retained, however, he declined to specify who would be approached.

Talkington said that money to hire such an attorney could be found in a contingency fund in the city attorney's budget. But he also said that if more money is needed, more would be made available.

The proposed mall would be built on 38 acres of land along Blue Lakes Boulevard North, north of the Green Acres housing subdivision. The Workman family has agreed to lease the land to the company, contingent on rezoning from the city.

Seven-and-a-half acres of the land in question lie within the city's zoning jurisdiction. This area is zoned low-density residential. The developers are asking for a commercial designation.

The remainder of the land for the mall proposal lies in the county, and it has been zoned appropriately already.

Thanks, but no thanks, citizens say

Survey shows residents prefer paying their own utility bills each month

By DAVID MOFFAT
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls apparently is not held in high regard these days by people who must pay municipal utility bills.

At least a large majority of the bill-payers don't want the city automatically withdrawing money from their savings and checking accounts. They would rather go through the trouble of receiving a monthly printed bill, and then arranging payment on their own.

Bryce King, the city finance director, said Tuesday that the initial results of a sample survey of homeowners ran 4 to 1 against setting up a system for the automatic transfer of payments for utility bills, even though it would present advantages for both the city and its customers, he says.

Since the city went on a "level-pay" plan last year for its water, sewer and sanitation service charges, city staff members have been mulling over the possibility of an automatic transfer system with local banks, similar to that used by insurance companies.

The level-pay plan averages a homeowner's monthly bill payments over an entire year. The city estimates the yearly amount at the beginning of the year, and then charges one-twelfth of that amount each month. A special charge is calculated in November to make up for additional amounts due, or for overpayments.

With a transfer system, it would be possible for individuals to establish a special fund — equal to their expected yearly bill — and then have the bank transfer payments each month to the city. Each transfer would appear as a deduction against their checking or savings total.

The city would have access to no more of a customer's money than the amount in the special fund, King says. A customer could also back out of the plan at any time, he says.

Customers would save 20 cents, plus an envelope each month, King says. They also would save a trip downtown if they pay in person.

And they would save any amount the city might charge for outstanding balances, he adds. The city would save the expense of printing bill cards, making mass mailings and tabulating payments.

Banks are interested because they would receive regular service charges.

The plan would work particularly well with stable homeowners, King says. Renters probably would not be eligible.

And so, last Thursday, the city sent a sample mailing to 180 homeowners. The mailing proposed such a system. Of the 50 responses received since then, only 21 percent have been favorable, however.

"Any time you make changes they come hard to people," King says.

DeHaan, Ward mum on settlement

By MARTY TRILHAASE
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Prosecutor Harry DeHaan and Fifth District Judge Theron Ward apparently have settled their differences, but neither official wants to talk about it.

In a one-sentence order on Tuesday, Ward suspended indefinitely his decision of last week to hold DeHaan in contempt of court and fine the Twin Falls County prosecutor $300.

Asked to explain his latest decision, Ward declined comment.

DeHaan also was uncharacteristically mum on the topic. DeHaan ran into trouble last week when he failed to appear on time for the district court arraignment of former Jerome County Extension Service agent Jesse Wilson, 39, who has pleaded innocent to a charge of misuse of public funds.

Noting that it was the first time during his 23 years on the bench that a prosecutor had failed to appear for an arraignment, Ward found DeHaan in contempt of court and fined the prosecutor $300.

DeHaan said he arrived 26 minutes late for the hearing because he had "nine things on my Tuesday morning calendar and not enough time." But Ward said later that DeHaan had made no effort to inform the court that he would be late for the session.

Last week, DeHaan had said he was considering appealing the contempt-of-court citation to the Idaho Supreme Court. He said his decision hinged on the legal definition of contempt of court, which takes two forms, depending on whether the offense occurs within the courtroom.

Only when the contempt occurs within the courtroom is a judge empowered to summarily cite someone, without first ordering the defendant to show cause for his actions.

DeHaan said he had been "advised" by supporters to challenge the citation on the grounds that the alleged contempt of court occurred outside the courtroom.

But the prosecutor's statements took a milder tone late last week, when he indicated that he would meet with Ward to determine if an agreement could be reached.

DeHaan and Ward met privately for about 20 minutes in the judge's chambers Friday afternoon.

Following the meeting, neither official would comment on their discussion.

But it was clear Tuesday that the meeting played some role in Ward's decision to suspend the citation.

"I think it's obvious that we had a discussion behind closed doors, and it should stay that way," DeHaan said.

Theron Ward Suspendes contempt charge

Writer's league encourages, inspires hopeful wordsmiths

By PAT MARCANTONIO
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Instead of answering "present" at their meetings, members of the Idaho Writer's League answer roll call with a bit of poetry or prose.

Like the state organization, the purpose of the Twin Falls chapter is to "foster, encourage and offer inspiration to writers."

The encouragement part was quite evident at a chapter meeting last weekend in Twin Falls, which drew some younger writing hopefuls, along with the mostly older women members.

The chapter, which was started in the 1930s, is for amateur writers, not for professionals, because "they don't need us," says chapter President Ethlyn Walkington of Twin Falls.

However, among their number was an honored published poet, Sodie Stuart Hager of Kimberly, who died last year. Walkington recalls in her faint, musical voice. Hager's poetry expertise is sorely missed, she adds.

For members, the state organization holds two writing contests a year, with categories ranging from juvenile stories to television scripts. Several Twin Falls chapter members have won.

"There's not much money involved, but a lot of prestige," Walkington says.

Chapter members are encouraged to bring their writing endeavors to the meetings for critiques by the others. At the weekend gathering, the assigned theme was "Second Chance" and "Passages."

Most of the poetry pieces that were read were about growing old and remembering when Frances Harris of Hansen wrote of her community during the '40s, describing it as a "village flitting rimmed by farms."

Visitor Marie Smith of Twin Falls presented her verbal image of a farm windmill. She joined the chapter after the meeting.

After the readings, there were many "very good" comments. At other times, the comments aren't always so obliging.

There was one woman who didn't return to the gatherings after her work was criticized, Walkington says.

The criticism is meant to be constructive, chapter secretary-treasurer Fern Howard says. The members all help each other, Walkington says.

"We don't improve if we don't find out what's wrong," Walkington adds.

Member Mary Powell says that she didn't always listen to critiques, but found out the "hard way" because her work was rejected.

As a matter of regular business, Walkington asks if anyone has submitted works for publication or had any published. "You don't get published if it's sitting in a drawer."

"But they're so comfortable there," replied Howard, with a smile.

Although it would be nice to have a best-seller or poetry in a national publication, most of the members are not worried about becoming famous. To them, it is the doing, the writing that counts. They are content with sharing their written thoughts on a smaller basis.

"For myself, writing is a craft, something I have to work on," Harris says. "For the more talented, it's an art."

She compares her writing to her embroidery: "I don't expect to sell it, but use it in some way."

Powell says she just loves writing, loves telling people what she feels.

And Walkington, who has paid a "vanity" publisher to have her two books published, says she wanted to set down words about times past that others have forgotten.

The important thing is to keep writing, Walkington says.

"If you don't have pen and ink, you don't have a story," and "everybody has a story to tell. Whether anybody reads it or not, you keep on writing."

Break-in close to home

JEROME — The Jerome Police Department didn't have to go very far Tuesday morning to investigate a reported break-in.

The break-in occurred in the police chief's office. Police Chief Darryl Cameron says the case has been written up as malicious destruction of public property.

According to Cameron, the incident happened between 3:15 p.m. Sunday and 8:45 p.m. Monday, when it was discovered by an officer who went into the chief's office to look for a report.

Cameron said someone used a metal bar to break a window into the office, scattering glass completely across the room.

"It wasn't (actually) a break-in, as no entry was made," Cameron said. "There was a marijuana plant on the window sill, and it wasn't taken."

Damage has been estimated at about $30.

JEROME — Motorists in Jerome are flirting with a serious hazard.

Police Chief Darryl Cameron says that twice in the past few weeks, drivers have crashed through the heavy road barricades on Fillmore Street and then left the scene.

"The construction workers have removed a bridge over the canal, and there is a gaping hole that could result in some serious damage or injuries if the driver continued on beyond the barricades," the chief says.

He said one of the heavy barricades that blocks the full width of the street, between the 800 and 700 blocks, was struck during this past weekend.

The barricades are marked by flares and are otherwise well-lighted, he says.

Cameron says the construction project will be under way for some time, and drivers in Jerome should be aware of it.

No estimate of damage to the large barricade was available following the last incident.

Severance Construction Co. of Eden is the prime contractor.

Kuna man arraigned

TWIN FALLS — A 20-year-old Kuna man remained in the Twin Falls County Jail on Tuesday, in lieu of $1,500 bail, following his arraignment on auto-theft charges.

Michael Shoe was arraigned in Fifth District Magistrate Court on a charge of grand theft-auto, in connection with the Jan. 28 theft of a car from a Twin Falls man.

Elko County, Nev., sheriff's deputies later arrested Shoe in possession of the stolen car, according to documents filed with the magistrate court.

The public defender has been appointed to represent Shoe.

Fire damages home

FILER — A chimney fire — that spread onto a roof, ceiling and one wall of a rural Filer home Monday morning — caused between $6,000 and $10,000 damage before it was extinguished by Filer- and-Buhl firefighters.

Robert Gotlier, a Twin Falls County deputy sheriff, said the fire started in the chimney area of the home, where a fireplace pipe was enclosed in a wooden chimney structure.

Gotlier said the fire started in the upper part of the chimney and burned back down into the fireplace. It then burned part of the north wall of the home and spread to the roof and ceiling.

It was necessary for firefighters to cut through the ceiling to reach the fire.

According to the deputy, fire, smoke and water damage were extensive throughout the interior of the home, which was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wright. There were at home when the fire started.

The frame home is located three-and-three-quarters miles west and a mile south of the Clover Road and U.S. 30 junction, southwest of Filer.

The fire was reported to the sheriff's office at 10:36 a.m., and the Filer Mutual Fire Department truck responded. On arrival, crews decided extra help was needed, and they summoned the Buhl Mutual truck to increase the water supply and assist in keeping the fire from spreading.

Both crews remained at the scene for more than an hour.

There were no injuries.

Motorcyclist injured

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls motorcyclist suffered minor injuries when his vehicle collided with a pickup truck Tuesday afternoon near the Lynwood Shopping Center in Twin Falls.

According to Twin Falls police, Roberto Vaquera, 20, of 146 Elm St., was westbound on Filer Avenue East, when an eastbound pickup, driven by Mark Quinton Swan, 78, of Route 4, Twin Falls, turned left into the shopping center and the two vehicles collided.

The accident occurred at 2:51 p.m.

Swan has been cited for failure to yield right, and Vaquera has been charged with traveling too fast for road and traffic conditions.

Vaquera was taken to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, where he was treated for nose and leg fractures, and released.

City amends ordinance

RUPERT — Rupert city residents, garage-sale entrepreneurs and those selling baked goods for charity are exempt from paying license fees under a new version of the city's itinerant-merchant law.

City council approved the amended city ordinance last week.

Police make shooting arrest

BURLEY — Two Burley brothers are suspected in the fatal shooting of Erasmo Garcia Jr. of Rupert last weekend.

Rene Tijerina, 26, of Burley, was charged Tuesday with being a principal in the commission of a felony, "in this case murder one," reported police Capt. Pete Rodriguez.

Tijerina turned himself into Burley police Tuesday morning, Rodriguez said.

Tijerina's brother, Leonel, no age available, is still "at large," somewhere, authorities suspect, in Texas or Mexico, Rodriguez said.

Bulletins have been issued to Texas law-enforcement officers in an attempt to locate Leonel, who also is suspected in the shooting, Rodriguez said.

Through their investigation, police suspected that Rene Tijerina had been involved in the shooting, which took place early Saturday morning, across the street from the Railroad Bar in Burley, Rodriguez said.

Police are saying that Leonel Tijerina was with his brother at the time of the shooting.

Garcia, 42, a Texas sheep shearer who was living in Rupert, died instantly of a single gunshot wound to the chest.

Sunday, police contacted the brothers' relatives, who live in the area, Rodriguez said.

The relatives apparently contacted Rene Tijerina, who was somewhere near Amarillo, Texas, Rodriguez said. Tijerina then contacted Burley police by phone, the police captain said.

Tuesday, after consulting with his attorney, Don Chisholm, Tijerina turned himself at the police station at 11 a.m., accompanied by an unidentified relative.

Tijerina was arraigned in magistrate court Tuesday afternoon in Burley.

The suspect is being held in the Cassia County Jail, in lieu of $50,000 bond, according to his attorney. A preliminary hearing probably will be held within 14 days, Chisholm said.

Police reported that Garcia had argued with four men at the bar, and authorities suspect the men were waiting for Garcia in the parking lot across the street when he left the bar. No information was available Tuesday on the identity of the other two men.

The Tijerina brothers, resident aliens from Mexico, were living in Burley, Rodriguez said.

Bail for rape suspect not reduced

TWIN FALLS — Judge Daniel Meehl refused on Tuesday to lower the $10,000 bond set for a 21-year-old Twin Falls man, who has pleaded innocent in connection with a reported rape incident.

But Meehl scheduled another bond-reduction hearing in the case of Kevin Anderson, of 374 Quincy St., on Monday. The judge said he wanted Anderson's lawyer, Golden Bennett, to present additional evidence in the case.

Anderson, who was released on parole from the state penitentiary in late December, was arrested earlier this month and charged with statutory rape.

That charge was filed on the basis of a 15-year-old girl's report to Twin Falls police that she had been forced to engage in sexual intercourse with the defendant.

Prosecutors later amended the charge, to accuse Anderson of sexually abusing a child under 16.

Anderson's initial bail of $50,000 was dropped to $10,000 following the defendant's decision to waive his right to a preliminary hearing in Fifth District Magistrate Court.

Seeking a further reduction in bail, Bennett argued Tuesday that his client could afford to post a bail bond no higher than $1,000. And the defendant, testifying on his own behalf, promised to remain in the area if released on bond.

"I have no reason to run away here," Anderson said. "I would stay where I'm in Twin Falls."

Prosecutor Harry DeHaan opposed releasing Anderson without bail, noting the incident included allegedly violent acts on the part of the defendant.

Meehl denied the request, saying the only facts before the court did not present a favorable picture of the defendant in calling for another hearing. Meehl said he wanted to determine the position of the Idaho Division of Probation and Parole, talk to a Twin Falls family that has offered the defendant a place to stay and discuss the issue with the alleged victim.

Gooding swim plans depend on ticket sales

By JANENE BUCKWAY Times-News correspondent

GOODING — Plans are being made for a second season of public swimming at the Gooding State School's pool.

According to spokesperson Marty Clontz of Gooding, the pool is scheduled to open March 4 if enough money is available.

"We need to sell another 50 tickets to make sure we have the money to open," she said last week.

Tickets are on sale in Gooding, Shoshone, Wendell and Jerome, for $18 for individual season passes, $28 for couples and $38 for families.

The tickets are season passes only, and no single-use or one-day permits will be sold.

The season is scheduled to operate from March 4 to June 1.

"We need to know by Feb. 23 (today) if we're going to have the money, so we can get the pool ready," Clontz said.

Some repair work is being done presently on cracks in the pool to stop the loss of heated water.

Clontz says this year's pool project had been a real community-wide effort, with representatives from the Gooding Swim Team, the Optimist Club, the school and Gooding City Council all working together.

The Idaho Department of Employment worked to provide some federal funds and hire the pool manager. Lifeguard service will be provided by eight adults who have volunteered to take a lifesaving course and work at the pool.

If the money is secured, the pool will be open to the public on Fridays from 7:30 to 10 p.m., Saturdays from 1 to 10 p.m., Sundays from 7:30 to 10 p.m., and on Mondays from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

An adult lap-swim also is planned from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on weekdays and from noon until 1 p.m. on weekends.

The popular "Trim and Swim" program also is being planned.

DIGESTION

By Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr

It is important to chew your food well to break it up into small particles and saturate it with saliva. So, it contains fluid that aids in the digestion of all starchy food, because most starchy foods are soft when eaten. They are often swallowed without enough chewing. Changing your eating habits will eliminate many causes of fat digestion, but if vertebral disalignments in the thoracic spine cause irritation or interference to the functioning of the digestive organs, Chiropractic treatment will be very beneficial.

Twin Falls qualifies for state play

Bruins score six points in last 24 seconds to sideline Minico, 65-58

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

RUPERT — If you are a student of Twin Falls basketball history, you can relax. History didn't repeat itself. Coming from behind in the final minutes — thanks to a succession of missed close-in shots by Minico — the Bruins topped the Spartans 65-58 Tuesday night to win the district title and advance to the state playoffs in Boise next week.

The history referred to comes from 24 years ago when another Twin Falls team posted a 17-3 record — and then lost two straight (to Jerome and Buhl) and didn't get to state.

Twin Falls probably will meet the third-place team from the Boise area

Tuesday's Result
Twin Falls 65, Minico 58 (Twin Falls to state)

which will be either Mountain Home or Boise. Those teams will meet Friday night in Boise to settle their fight. Mountain Home dropped Caldwell 54-51 while Boise topped Capital 49-40 in Tuesday's third district action. As usual, Tuesday's game was closer than indicated. Twin Falls scored six points in the final 24 seconds. The Bruins didn't lead until Daren Stuart hit a fast break bucket off an Oscar Salinas feed to make it 47-46 two minutes into the final quarter.

The lead mounted to 56-50 on a 12-foot Mike Rice jumper but junior Carl Bailey and Dave Garro pulled the Spartans back to within 59-58 with 40 seconds to play.

Then Bowen Call hit two free throws and Twin Falls got the ball back on a turnover. Against Minico's full court pressure, Rice streaked toward his basket, taking the floor-long inbound pass and laying it in. Then just before the buzzer, Andy Toolson added a fast break crumple to cap the scoring.

Going into the game, Minico Coach Craig Dexter had laid it out for his embattled Spartans, trying to shake three straight losses to Twin Falls. The plan included tough defense, strong rebounding, good foul shooting and heady, gutsy play. The Spartans did all that well. But Dexter should have told them to make layins and crumples.

Throughout the fourth quarter, Minico worked the offensive glass for many second and third efforts. From point-blank range they missed shot-after-shot.

"The difference," said Twin Falls Coach John Astorquia, "was they missed their crumples. They must have missed eight in the last quarter."

"They (the shots) just wouldn't drop," said a dejected Coach Craig Dexter. "We talked about running out offense and the kids did it and they got the shots we wanted. But they just kept rattling out on us."

Two critical points emerged in retrospect. In the last third quarter, Twin Falls pulled into a 39-39 tie. But Spartan John Kloepfer picked up five points on a three-point play and a short jumper. After Twin Falls turned the ball over, the Spartans missed three shots — two at the glass — to keep Twin Falls alive.

Then after Twin Falls had pulled ahead 49-46 with 5:49 left, Minico had another multiple chance. Mark Brown hit a free throw but missed the second. Minico got two shots off that and then the ball back when Twin Falls was called for walking with the rebound. The Spartans got three more — again two of them at the glass — and came away empty.

After Minico hit its first four shots of the night for an 8-2 lead, the Spartans cooled but stayed ahead by hitting 80 percent of their free throws. Their big lead in the first quarter was eight points, held twice, and they had the same advantage four times in the second period. Twin Falls climbed back into the game just before the half ended when Toolson and Salinas each hit free throws.

The Bruins didn't get even until a 39-39 tie and then came Kloepfer's

Gary Hulsej jumper with 1 second in OT puts Jerome in state

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

At CSI
Tuesday's Result
Jerome 48, Burley 46 (overtime; Jerome to state. Burley to playoff with Moscow)

to either Kevin or Gary Hulsej for the final shot.

With Burley applying extreme pressure on the inbound play, Jerome managed to get the ball in and Greg Bartholomew brought it down the left side in front of the Tigers' bench, looked to his right and hit Gary Hulsej with the pass. With Burley's guards scrambling to get back, Hulsej took one look and dropped the ball into the next just a second before the clock expired.

Jerome celebrated. Burley was downcast.

"We just told the guys to push the ball up the court and to hit either Kevin or Gary," an almost speechless Jerome Coach Pat Hoke said. "Burley just didn't drop back quick enough. They put too much pressure on the inbound pass."

Burley Coach Gary Swan, who must travel to Cascade Saturday in attempt to beat on the state's traditionally top A-2 teams, was quiet.

"It was a real tight game, we were slow getting back," he said. "Jerome's heroics might never come about without the traveling call and Hoke hinted that perhaps a technical foul received midway in the third quarter might've had an impact on the contest being blown."

With the Tigers ahead 30-26, Hoke was airborne on the Jerome bench when he felt a Bobcat had traveled. From across the court Hoke was slapped with a technical.

"I was just responding to what I felt was a travel," Hoke said. "Maybe that helped with this one. It's just happy that the kids came back from that technical."

Hoke said the technical, which switched the momentum to Burley, surprised him.

"I guess they're enforcing the bench decorum rule in the tournament," he said. "There are some officials in this district who don't even think about it and there are others who are always looking for it. I respect the rule, but they (the officials) better become consistent about it."

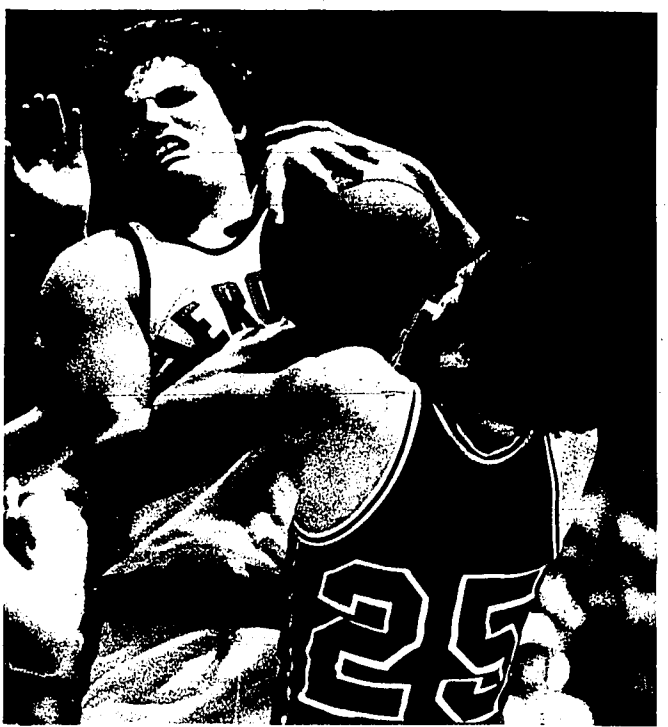

Tuesday's game was a switch in tactics for both sides. Jerome, which used a zone in previous meetings with the Bobcats, played mostly man-to-man while Burley switched from man-to-man to a 2-3 zone.

Burley led 21-21 at the half by being patient in his shot selection and slowing the Hulsej brothers underneath the basket with the bottom three men in the zone.

Jerome regained the lead at 29-26 with 5:04 to play in the third quarter when Gary Hulsej used his muscle for a three-point play.

"We wanted both Kevin and Gary, but especially Kevin, to be more active inside in the second half," Hoke said. "We were just standing around and not doing much offensively or defensively in the first half and we felt we had to go out and be aggressive and we went after it. Then, if we lost, we couldn't say we weren't aggressive."

With Gary Hulsej adding two free throws, Jerome led 39-26 before Hoke's technical. Rich Ralphs had both free throws and Randy Austin added a turnaround jumper. It was 30-30.

Jerome's Gary Hulsej finds Burley's Scott Barrett in his route to the basket

Troy Prairie responded for the Tigers and Jerome led 36-32 at the end of the third quarter.

Burley applied the pressure with Dan Egbert and Austin doing much of the damage, but Jerome went to the free throw line often enough to stay ahead.

It was Gary Hulsej, who is shooting about 35 percent from the line for the season, who made seven of 10 and kept the Tigers on top.

"I was so glad to see that," Hoke said. "Gary isn't that good of a free throw shooter and those really helped."

Burley tied the score at 46 with just over two minutes left when Egbert hit from 10 feet, setting the stage for the close of regulation and overtime.

Walker's eligibility will be probed by NCAA officials

ATLANTA (UPI) — The NCAA will launch an investigation next week into the question of whether Heisman trophy winner Herschel Walker violated eligibility rules during talks with the New Jersey Generals of the new United States Football League.

In a telephone interview Tuesday from Mission, Kan., NCAA Director of Enforcement David Berst said he would visit the University of Georgia next week to interview the star running back, his attorney-advisor Jack Manton, and "other principals" involved in Walker's meeting last Thursday with Generals Owner J. Walker Duncan.

"What I have done is confirm a visit with University of Georgia officials to determine for ourselves that Herschel is eligible," Berst said. "I will meet with them within the next week, but I don't intend to announce it. I don't want a caravan of individuals following me around."

Walker held a news conference in Athens last Friday to confirm he met with Duncan, but said he had rejected the Generals' overtures and would return to Georgia next season to complete his collegiate career.

Filer eliminated by Hornets, 65-64

Declo 65, Filer 64 (Filer out)
Tonight's Game
8:15 p.m. — Declo vs. Kimberly

WENDELL — No matter which Declo Hornet happens to get the basketball, he's probably a pretty good shooter.

Because shooting accuracy is such a ubiquitous trait on Declo's team, the Hornets managed to reach the finals of the Fourth District A-3 Tournament by edging Filer, 65-64, Tuesday night on Richard Hunsaker's two free throws with one second left.

Declo, 15-9, faces the Kimberly Bulldogs tonight at 8:15 for the tournament championship. Should the Hornets hand Kimberly its first defeat, a second title game would be played Thursday at 8 p.m.

Moments before Hunsaker's winning shots, Filer had gone ahead in the same manner, 64-63, on a pair of free throws from Donnie Fix with 11 seconds left.

After a time out, the Hornets got the ball to guard Denny Smyer, their best outside marksman, who missed a jumper from the right baseline with five seconds remaining.

However, Hunsaker, the Hornets' reserve center, corralled the rebound underneath the basket and drew a foul from Fix at :01 while trying to go up for a shot.

Hunsaker explained he had no competition for the rebound.

"There was nobody standing there (underneath), so I thought I might as well be here to get the rebound if nobody else is," Hunsaker said.

Declo Coach Ron Knowles, citing

Hunsaker's free throws lift Declo

and the ball, Declo's Blair Garner collected a steal with 1:37 to go and scored 10 seconds later on a layin.

Hornet center Curtis Hanzel fouled out — and was replaced by Hunsaker — with 1:08 left, enabling Elmer Peters to sink both ends of a one-and-one and restore Filer's three-point cushion, 62-59.

But Smyer sank a 20-footer with 56 seconds to go, and after Filer's Greg Jarolimek missed the front end of a one-and-one at :51, Hunsaker scored underneath with 33 seconds to go, putting Declo on top 63-62 and pre-facng Fix's free throws.

Since the teams had split their regular-season confrontations, Filer winning 49-48 and Declo prevailing 17-16, Tuesday's battle merely continued the norm. Declo took a 29-12 first-quarter lead, but the Wildcats responded with eight straight points to open the second quarter and forge a 29-20 tie.

Afterward, Declo's never led by more than six points. Filer's largest advantage was just three.

"We got out of our game plan," said Knowles, explaining why the Hornets couldn't expand their early bulge. "We got our lead moving the ball up and down the floor, but maybe we got tired, because we started walking it up. When we played a half-court game it was Filer's game. Our game is to move it up the floor and see if we can create something."

first half trailing by narrow margins, the Wildcats led periodically in the third quarter, aided by the Hornets' foul trouble. Two Declo starters, Hanzel and Rod Butlers, picked up their fourth fouls with 7:00 and 5:18 left in the period, respectively. Each was relegated to the bench.

Hunsaker's comments about finding himself alone underneath the basket were revealing. Nine times the Hornets' offensive rebounding produced more than one shot per possession, resulting in nine extra points, including the deciding ones.

"Their board play was terrific," Filer Coach Loyd Garey admitted. "They just beat us inside ... we hadn't experienced that too much this year."

Sackett, the Wildcats' point guard, led all scorers with 20 points, while teammate Jarolimek had 14 off the bench and Scott Dunlap added 10. Smyer paced Declo with 18 points, Garner and Terry Hodgkiss each contributing 14.

In junior varsity losers' bracket games, Gooding topped Filer, 56-41, and Wendell shaded Kimberly, 55-52.

Knight given reprimand for comments

By RANDY MINKOFF
UPI staff writer

BOBBY KNIGHT Violating Section 2-D

CHICAGO — Indiana Coach Bobby Knight, who last weekend blasted Big Ten officials as the worst in the country, Tuesday was given a public reprimand for his comments by Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke.

Duke, in a statement released by the conference office, cited league rules which state that persons who publicly are "unduly critical" of game officials would receive a public reprimand. If Knight is guilty of a similar violation within the next year, he will be suspended for one game.

"Because of Coach Knight's violation of Section 2-D, I must impose the aforementioned penalty," Duke said. "Additionally, Indiana University and Coach Knight have been advised that if, within one year ... Coach Knight again violates Section 2-D by engaging in any act of unprofessional conduct ... Coach Knight will be suspended for one contest."

It was the first such reprimand of a Big Ten coach since Iowa's Lute Olson was disciplined last March for criticizing officiating at an Iowa-Purdue game.

Duke said the decision was made after a review of the game and of Knight's comments. He said Indiana and Knight had waived the right to appeal.

Knight criticized Big Ten officials initially after the Hoosiers fell to Iowa 58-57 at home last Wednesday. He continued the criticism after Indiana's win over Northwestern last Saturday. But the league's action considered both incidents as just one infraction.

"It's because of absolute incompetence from the top all the way down," Knight said. "I think the officiating in the Big Ten is the worst I've seen in 12 years. It has deteriorated to the point where, so far, officiating is the worst of any conference in the country."

Knight had a scrawling match with Duke at the Iowa game. He was quoted as saying on Saturday that Big Ten officials were lax in trying to improve officiating.

"Those (Big Ten) people sit on their asses in Chicago," Knight said. "They haven't done a damn thing to improve officiating in the league."

Knight also suggested several ideas for improving officiating, including a system for grading referee messages for officials and a better recruitment of new referees.

However, several other Big Ten coaches disagreed with Knight

Tuesday, saying league officiating was not deteriorated.

"I think that officiating in the Big Ten is the best I've seen," said Illinois Coach Lou Henson. "I think it's getting better. It's working and the people are doing a good job."

Purdue Coach Gene Keedy said the officials have been improving since he entered the league three years ago.

"I'm one of the more active coaches during a game. After a game, I try to walk away from it and not take it personally," Keedy said. "I think Bobby was more upset with the crew than the overall refereeing."

Minnesota Coach Jim Dutcher said the officials' job has become "more difficult."

"The conference is doing positive things to keep pace or upgrade officials," Dutcher said.

Knight publicly criticized the three officials who worked the Northwestern game — Tom Rucker, Mike Stocker and Don Edwards — for having "no concept of basketball."

"It was the same thing Wednesday night and it's getting to the point where officials are ruining basketball in this league, an absolute travesty," Knight said. "You can't play hard with three officials who don't know the game, who are incompetent."

'Born again' Richard still trying comeback

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard, a 1980 stroke victim, says he is born again and has rededicated himself to pitching in the major leagues, two newspapers reported Tuesday.

Richard, 32, who is in the last year of an $800,000-a-year contract, told the Houston Post and Houston Chronicle he awake to a religious experience Nov. 21 and promptly changed his lifestyle to better take care of himself.

"I think I'm a better person now," said Richard. "I believe I'm going to pitch in the big leagues this year, but I'm not sure I could get there without God. I've been born."

Richard, who will be 33 in two weeks, is in training at Cocoa, Fla., and beginning what may be his last chance. Head coach Bob Lillis said he was pleased Richard reported in better shape than he did last year but had to be convinced Richard can perform.

The 6-foot-8, 240-pound right-hander from Ruston, La., has not pitched in a game since July, 1980. That month he started for the National League all-star team.

A stroke felled him July 30, 1980, as he worked out. Doctors operating in a life-or-death situation removed a blood clot from a major artery, but he was left partially paralyzed and unable to walk or talk normally.

His progress overcoming the affliction has been slow. The Astros continued to pay his salary and allow him to work at his own pace and last year he pitched for their minor-league teams.

He filed a lawsuit against two doctors seeking unspecified damages for alleged failure to diagnose his problem and for allowing him to continue playing after experiencing dizziness and nausea.

Astros' officials are not counting on him this season but they aren't counting him out either.

He reported to training camp this month before he had to, and on Monday he threw fastballs clocked at 90 mph, fast but not close to the 100 mph he used to clock. His slider was not that fast and the control of his pitches was good, the newspapers said.

"I kept myself in good condition all winter and I kept my mind on baseball," Richard said. "I even cut out fishing and hunting. But don't give baseball too much credit. The weather had a lot to do with that, too."

Lillis said Richard would start in several exhibition games, which start March 10, but he must get back the slider before the team will have confidence in him. Richard's slider used to be the most feared pitch in baseball.

Richard said ABC-TV holds the movie rights to his life story. He said he wants to play the lead but prefers nothing be done until the final chapter is written.

"Who besides me could play it (the lead) so good?" Richard joked with reporters.

CSI plans volleyball camp

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls High Coach Kathy Anderson and Cal Poly-Pomona Coach Tom Ash will team up again this summer to hold a pair of four-day volleyball camps.

Both an intermediate camp, set for June 26-27, and an advanced camp, June 27-30, are being planned according to CSI's Karl Kleinkopf.

"The camps are open for girls from eighth grade through college, but we ask that only high school girls or above enter the advanced camp," Kleinkopf said.

The cost for commuters will be $105 and will include two meals a day. Those who want to stay at CSI's dormitory must pay $135 and will receive three meals a day. The camp will run from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. each day.

Persons wanting more information can call Kleinkopf at 733-9554 ext. 299 or write the college to receive a brochure.

Cage competition offered

TWIN FALLS — The Optimist Club of Twin Falls will conduct a Tri-Star Basketball Contest Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon at the College of Southern Idaho gym.

The competition is open for girls and boys from ages 8 through 13. Three skills — passing, dribbling and shooting — will be tested and medals will be given to the top three finishers in each age group. A trophy will be presented to the top boy and girl with the best overall score.

Street shoes and black-sole tennis shoes will not be allowed on the gym floor.

There is no charge to contestants.

Two win at state hoop shoot

CALDWELL — Molly Ames of Twin Falls and Pauline Sears of Gooding took first place last Saturday in the Idaho State Hoop Shoot and earned berth's in next month's regional contest in Pullman, Ore.

Ames won the 10-11 girls division while Sears took the 12-13 girls group. Allan Stoddard of Gooding finished second in the 12-13 boys group.

The regional meet will be March 11-12 and the winners from that meet will advance to the national finals set for April 23-24 in Indianapolis, Ind.

Carlton-Philly talks snagged

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Talks on extending Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Steve Carlton's contract were snagged Tuesday because of an arbitrator's award of a $1 million deal to Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Fernando Valenzuela.

Phillies President Bill Giles said the team and Carlton's agent, David Landfield, agreed in late January to extend Carlton's contract through the 1986 season but that Landfield demanded more money at a meeting on Monday.

The agreement called for paying the 38-year-old Lout $700,000 in 1983 and $1,150,000 in the 1984, 1985 and 1986 seasons, with all the money guaranteed. Giles said. After that, the contract would be renewable on a year-to-year basis at the Phillies' option.

Giles said he and Landfield shook hands and that only the exact wording of the contract needed to be completed. The current contract for Carlton, baseball's only four-time winner of the Cy Young award, runs through the end of the 1984 season.

When the Phillies gave Landfield the completed contract on Monday, however, the agent indicated concern that last week's award to Valenzuela might mean that Valenzuela, within the next few months, will end up earning more than Carlton.

Swimmer sets 1,500 mark

MOSCOW (UPI) — Vladimir Salnikov of the Soviet Union Tuesday broke his own world record in the 1500-meter freestyle with a time of 14:56.76 at the Soviet Winter Swimming Championships, Tass said.

Salnikov's previous record was 14:56.35.

Brooks rejects Rams' offer

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon head Coach Rich Brooks, 41, who has twice been an assistant coach in the National Football League, announced Tuesday he has rejected an offer to join the Los Angeles Rams.

"I discussed a coaching position with John Robinson (new Ram head coach)," said Brooks in a news release after being approached regarding the job.

"I'm very grateful for John and the Rams organization. I felt it was a situation that merited discussion.

"While I'm flattered by the inquiry, it is my intention to stay at the University of Oregon. I'm looking forward to next season and bringing the state of Oregon a contending and winning football team."

Brooks, who had a 2-6 record in 1982, coached the linebackers and specialty teams with the Rams in 1971 and 1972 under Tommy Heath and coached defensive backs and specialty teams under San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan in 1974-75.

Raines suffers black eye

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Tim Raines greeted his Expo teammates Tuesday with a black eye — the first casualty of spring training.

Raines, the left fielder who is hoping to regain the form with which he led the Montreal Expos in 1981, was hit in the eye Monday on the hard bounce of a fungo hit by Manager Bill Virdon.

"Maybe Bill is trying to tell me something," said the base stealing ace, who was handicapped last year by a cocaine habit. Raines attended a drug rehabilitation center in San Diego at the close of the season.

Although the full squad is not expected until today, Virdon had 41 players on hand for Tuesday's workout.

Guirdy reports to Yankees

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Pitcher Ron Guirdy worked out for the first time Tuesday at the New York Yankees' spring training camp.

Guirdy, who arrived in camp Monday, had been given permission to report late because of his involvement with the Special Olympics.

Relief pitcher Rich Gossage worked out for the first time in two days. He had been sidelined with the flu.

The full squad is scheduled to report Wednesday, with the exception of outfielders Steve Kemp and Dave Winfield and designated hitter Don Baylor. They have been given permission to report late and are scheduled to arrive on Feb. 25.

Clerc, McNamara advance

DELRYN BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — No. 3 seed Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina and 8th-seeded Peter McNamara of Australia joined defending champion and top-seeded Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia as first round upset victims in the $300,000 WCT Gold Coast Cup tennis tournament Tuesday.

Lendl was upset by countryman Pavel Slozil, 3-6, 7-6, 7-5 Monday night.

In late play Tuesday, Clerc was upset by Van Wilkitty 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, and McNamara was stunned by Peter Fleming 4-6, 6-2.

Earlier in the day Johan Kriek mastered brack winds and Hans G. Gilmeester of Chile for a 6-1, 6-4 victory in first round play.

It was only the second match victory of the year for the 24-year-old seventh-seeded Kriek. He had played three earlier tournaments, but his only win came against Steve Denton in early January.

"I've been a little lazy. I just haven't worked hard," said Kriek, who won his second straight Australian Open singles title in December. "You have a bad patch and the harder you try the worse you play."

In other first-round play Tuesday, sixth-seeded Bill Scanlon beat Marcos Hocevar of Brazil, 6-3, 6-0, 2-6, 6-3. And Tim Gulikson defeated Fabio Arrigo of France, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Tim Gulikson turned back Balazs Taroczy of Hungary, 6-3, 7-4 (7-4).

Oil jitters seize Wall Street

By GAIL COLLINS
Liaison Press International

NEW YORK — Fear of an all-out oil price war sent oil stocks tumbling Tuesday and gave nervous investors an excuse for selling.

The Dow Jones Industrial average slipped steadily all day, closing down 12.42 at 1,080.40. The Dow, which gained 6.32 overall last week, had been seeing a few points below the 1,100 level for weeks.

The New York Stock Exchange index dropped 12.38 to 84.06 and the price of an average share declined 55 cents. Declines led averages 1,110-553 among the 1,578 issues traded.

Big Board volume was about 84,000,000, up from 77,420,000 Friday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC stocks dropped 2.12 to $59.17.

Major oil stocks were among the most active issues, falling as investors reacted to recent announcements of price cuts by Britain, Nigeria and other major oil exporting nations. Four of OPEC's powerful Persian Gulf members held critical talks in Saudi Arabia to avert an all-out oil price war that could splinter the 13-nation oil group.

Speculation that oil prices may plummet further sent bond prices up and caused the price of gold to tumble. In both cases, investors appeared to be reacting to the prospect of lower rates of inflation due to cheaper energy.

Industries such as airlines which are expected to profit from lower fuel prices were generally up in active trading.

Although the market was prepared for a price decline and in fact had reacted favorably to the expectation of lower fuel prices, it was taken aback by the possibility of a "free fall" in oil, said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over-the-counter totaled 98,679,890, up from 89,363,290 Friday.

The American Stock Exchange index declined

9.95 to 374.04 and the price of a share dropped 39 cents. Declines topped averages 426-205 among the 826 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 8,971,000 shares, down from 9,036,610 Friday.

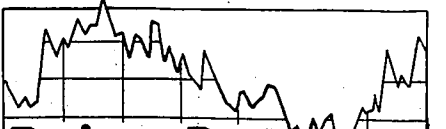

Pan American was the most active stock, up 1/4 at 5 1/2 after a block of 418,300 traded at 5 1/2.

Gulf and Western was second most active, up 2 to 20. A block of 347,800 shares traded at 19 1/2. G&W executives promised an "orderly" succession in the selection of a new chairman of the board to replace Charles G. Bluthorn, who died suddenly on the weekend.

Exxon was third on the active list, down 7/8 at 28 1/2. AT&T, Friday's most active issue, was up 1/4 at 66 1/2.

International Business Machines was up 1 1/2 to 97 1/2. IBM chairman Frank T. Cary said Tuesday he will step down as chief executive.

On the Amex, Dow Petroleum was the most active issue, down 1/2 at 215-16. Texas Air, up 1/4 to 10, was second, and Cyprus Corp. was third, unchanged at 1 1/2.

PORTLAND (UPI) — Louisiana-Pacific Corp. Tuesday started building a sawmill at Chilco, Idaho, on the site of a mill that was destroyed in a 1979 fire.

The new mill will have an annual capacity of 65 million board feet with completion expected this fall.

The company also announced that it will build a waferwood plant at the Chilco complex and convert its Uranila, La., particleboard plant to waferwood production.

Firestone gains auto shops

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. said Tuesday it will lease about 300 outlets now run by J.C. Penney Co. Inc.

The dollar amount and lease length of the agreement were not disclosed, but Firestone said the leases were long-term.

The 300 centers will be operated as Firestone retail facilities, and the process of changing from Penney to Firestone will start March 31 and take three or four months.

Corporation profits down 30%

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profits of major corporations in the United States shrank 30 percent in the final 1982 quarter from a year earlier, the Wall Street Journal said in its quarterly survey.

The survey of 507 companies did not include profits for the entire year. It said the big fourth quarter downturn was substantially by year-end writeoffs by many companies and record inventory cutting.

Alliance helps AMC trim its losses for year

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (UPI) — American Motors Corp. says the success of its new Renault Alliance helped 1982 fourth quarter earnings but the No. 4 automaker net $15.3 million for the year.

The loss was worse than a 1981 loss of $136.6 million.

AMC had worldwide sales last year of $2.87 billion, compared to $2.58 billion in 1981.

The popularity of the Kenosha, Wis.-built Alliance, however, helped AMC cut its losses in the fourth quarter to $2.85 million compared to a $47.1 million loss in the final quarter of 1981.

Sales for the final quarter were $56.6 million compared to $62.1 million the year before.

AMC Chairman W. Paul Tippett Jr. and President Jose Dedeurwaerd blamed the year's loss on the "difficult economic situation" in the United States and Canada. Other problems were caused by Mexico's economy and the devaluation of the Japanese yen.

Tippett and Dedeurwaerd noted the Alliance led AMC to a 49 percent increase in fourth quarter sales. The Alliance was also named the "Car of the Year" by Motor Trend Magazine.

Results in the first half of 1983 also will be dismal, the executives said, because of continued economic problems in Mexico and the heavy costs involved in launching new models.

AMC plans to introduce a new line of passenger cars that will be built in Kenosha as well as a new version of the Jeep, which is built in Toledo, Ohio.

The executives said they are optimistic about the last half of 1983 because of the introduction of the new models and the expected stabilization of the world auto market.

Grain futures

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat, soybeans and oats were substantially lower and corn lower at the close Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat rose 1 1/4 to 1 1/4 cents per bushel to 5 1/4, oats off 5/8 to 5/8 and soybeans off 1/8 to 1/8.

Grain and soybean futures prices tumbled sharply Tuesday and settled at near seasonal lows.

The decline followed a drop in gold prices which weakened in response to an expected reduction in world gold prices and near-term moves in the wheat market.

Gold fell 1 1/2 cents per ounce to $312.50.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"An honest politician is one who when he is bought will stay bought." — Simon Cameron.

East bought the Brooklyn Bridge with his efforts against today's vulnerable game. But don't put all the blame on East, take note that South made a strong and deceptive pitch.
 East's diamond ace dropped South's king and East wondered what to lead at trick two. He tried the club king and declarer dropped a misleading jack. East started at the cards for a while, but he was afraid to lead spades. How could he lead away from his king when South had bid the suit?

East resigned himself to another club lead and South sprung the trap. He finessed, winning dummy's 10 and escaped with the loss of only one spade trick. After winning dummy's club 10, South cashed the diamond queen, ruffed a diamond and threw one of dummy's spades on the club ace. The defense got a spade and led trump, but it was all over. South was able to cross-ruff to score 10 tricks.

Should East have been through South's diabolical plan? In retrospect, yes. West's club four could not possibly be an encouraging signal. However, some Wests have been known to miss signals in cases like this so South does deserve

POTATOES

From sunup to sundown, breakfast tray to dinner table, a variety of delicious dishes can be made with potatoes. The versatility of this tasty tuber is limited only by the creative cook's imagination.

Brighten a breakfast table with a Down on the Farm Breakfast of eggs nestled in a cheesy bed of potatoes. Pep up the afternoon with a slice of chocolate cake made in the old-fashioned way — with mashed potatoes to keep it moist. Or perk up an ordinary dinner with tangy Bacon 'n Bean Potato Salad.

BACON 'N BEAN POTATO SALAD

1 package Betty Crocker au gratin potatoes
 4 cups water
 1 pound green beans, cut into 2-inch pieces
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 2 medium tomatoes, cut into wedges

2 tablespoons margarine or butter
 8 slices bacon, cut into 1/4-inch pieces
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 3/4 cup water
 1/2 cup milk
 1/4 cup cider vinegar
 1/4 cup snipped parsley

Heat potatoes and 4 cups water to boiling in 3-quart saucepan. Reduce heat; simmer uncovered 10 minutes. Add beans; simmer uncovered until beans are tender, about 10 minutes longer. Rinse potato mixture under running cold water; drain. Place potato mixture in large bowl; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place tomatoes on top.

Heat margarine in 10-inch skillet until melted. Fry bacon in margarine over medium heat until almost crisp. Reduce heat; add onion. Cook, stirring constantly, until onion is tender. Stir in Sauce Mix, 3/4 cup water and the milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir until thickened, 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in vinegar, heat through. Pour over tomatoes. Sprinkle with parsley; toss. Serve warm or cold. 6 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat potatoes, water and fresh green beans to boiling. Cover and simmer 25 minutes. Rinse under running cold water. Continue as directed.

CHICKEN-ZUCCHINI SKILLET

1 package Betty Crocker sour cream 'n chive potatoes
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 2 1/2 cups boiling water
 2/3 cup milk
 2 tablespoons margarine
 2 cups 1/4-inch slices zucchini

2 cups cut-up cooked chicken or turkey
 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 1 cup creamed cottage cheese
 1 cup shredded Swiss cheese

Mix potatoes, Sauce Mix, green pepper, onion, water, milk and margarine in 10-inch skillet. Heat to boiling, stirring frequently. Reduce heat; cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, 20 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients except Swiss cheese. Simmer uncovered, stirring occasionally, 10 minutes longer. Remove from heat; sprinkle with Swiss cheese. Cover and let stand 5 minutes. 6 to 8 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Mix potatoes, green pepper, onion, water and margarine in 10-inch skillet. Continue as directed except — cut zucchini into 1/8-inch slices. Stir in Sauce Mix and milk with the zucchini. Heat to boiling; reduce heat.

3/4 cup Potato Buds Instant mashed potatoes (dry)
 3/4 cup hot water
 2 cups all-purpose flour
 2 cups sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 3/4 teaspoon baking soda

4 eggs
 1 cup shortening
 2/3 cup buttermilk
 2 teaspoons vanilla
 3 ounces melted unsweetened chocolate (cool)
 Crispy Butterscotch Topping (follows)

Heat oven to 350°. Grease and flour rectangular pan 13x9x2 inches. Place potatoes in large bowl; pour hot water over potatoes. Let stand until water is absorbed. Add remaining ingredients except topping. Beat on low speed, scraping bowl constantly, until blended, about 30 seconds. Beat on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally, 2 minutes. Pour into pan. Bake until cake springs back when touched lightly in center, 45 to 50 minutes; cool. Prepare Crispy Butterscotch Topping; immediately spread over cake. Set oven control to broil and/or 550°. Broil cake about 3 inches from heat until golden brown, about 3 minutes. (Watch carefully — topping burns easily)

Crispy Butterscotch Topping
 1 cup Potato Buds Instant mashed potatoes (dry)
 2/3 cup packed brown sugar
 1/2 cup shredded or flaked coconut
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
 1/4 cup half-and-half

High Altitude Directions (over 3500 feet): Not recommended for use.

POTATO CRUNCH

1/4 cup margarine
 1 cup Potato Buds Instant mashed potatoes (dry)

1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt

Heat oven to 350°. Heat margarine in rectangular pan, 13x9x2 inches, or jelly roll pan, 15 1/2x10 1/2x1 inch, in oven until melted. Stir in remaining ingredients. Bake uncovered, stirring once or twice, until golden brown, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool. Sprinkle over vegetables or salads or eat as a snack. 1 1/4 cups crunch.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): No adjustments are necessary.

POTATO PANCAKES

2 cups buttermilk baking mix
 1 cup Potato Buds Instant mashed potatoes (dry)

2 eggs
 1 1/2 cups milk

Beat all ingredients with hand beater until smooth. For each pancake, pour 1/4 cup batter onto hot griddle. (Grease if necessary) Cook until pancakes are dry around edges. Turn; cook other sides until golden brown. About twelve 4-inch pancakes.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): No adjustments are necessary.

DOWN ON THE FARM BREAKFAST

 1 package Betty Crocker hickory smoke cheese potatoes
 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
 2 tablespoons chopped onion
 2 1/4 cups boiling water

2/3 cup milk
 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme leaves, crushed
 Dash of freshly ground pepper
 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
 6 eggs

Cut bacon into 1/4-inch pieces; fry in 10-inch skillet until crisp. Drain, reserving 2 tablespoons fat in skillet with bacon. Stir in potatoes, Sauce Mix, green pepper, onion, water and milk. Heat to boiling, stirring frequently. Reduce heat; cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, 20 minutes. Sprinkle with thyme, pepper and cheese. Make 6 indentations in potato mixture with spoon. Break eggs into indentations. Cover and cook until eggs are set, 10 to 15 minutes longer. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Prepare bacon as directed. Stir in potatoes, green pepper, onion and water. Heat to boiling; cover and simmer 15 minutes. Stir in Sauce Mix and milk; heat just to boiling. Reduce heat; simmer 5 minutes longer. Continue as directed.

Winter squash aids budget

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — Supermarket produce departments have a variety and abundance of winter squash this time of year.

Pick out a large acorn squash and enjoy Stuffed Squash Supper — an economical and hearty meal for two.

The acorn squash makes a perfect container for the savory combination of crumbed pineapple, sausage, onion and stuffing mix. The canned pineapple adds a touch of sunshine and sweetness — to Stuffed Squash and to your budget!

- 1/4 pound bulk sausage
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup herb-seasoned stuffing mix
- 1/4 teaspoon sage, crumbled
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme, crumbled
- 2 tablespoons melted butter

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Halve squash lengthwise, remove seeds and fibers. Bake squash cut-side down in baking dish with reserved pineapple syrup in 350° oven 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, brown sausage in skillet. Add onion; saute until soft. Stir in pineapple, stuffing mix and butter. Fill cavities with sausage stuffing. Drizzle with remaining butter. Continue baking 30 minutes longer. (Makes 2 servings.)

STUFFED SQUASH SUPPER

- 1 can, 8 1/2 oz size, crumbed pineapple in syrup
- 1 large acorn squash, about 1 1/4 pounds

Tofu Lasagna is a meatless dish with all the lasagna flavor that is so popular

Tofu sparks Lenten meals

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — During the meatless Lenten season, discover the "secret" ingredient that has been a staple in Oriental diets for centuries. It's not only high in protein but low in cost, not to mention low-calorie, low sodium, and cholesterol-free. Tofu comes in white, semi-solid cakes and can be bought in many large supermarkets and specialty shops. To store, simply keep refrigerated in a covered container filled with fresh water.

What's more, tofu can taste delicious. It absorbs the distinctive flavors of other ingredients and mimics textures to lend itself to anything from sauces to main dishes to desserts.

Tofu Lasagna is a meatless dish with all the lasagna flavor that you love. Simply mash the tofu with Parmesan cheese, parsley flakes and garlic salt. As with the traditional dish, layer with mozzarella cheese, mushrooms, noodles and tomato sauce. An envelope of spaghetti sauce mix makes preparation quick and easy. Serve with an antipasto (with or without salami), crusty bread sticks and lemon ice or sherbet.

For an Oriental taste treat try Vegetable and Tofu Stir-Fry. This nutritious dish features a colorful array of Chinese pea pods, broccoli, bean sprouts, sliced carrots and tofu. The crisp vegetables are quickly stir-fried in a mushroom sauce delicately flavored with ginger and soy sauce. Serve over rice and complete your menu with vanilla custard and almond cookies for dessert.

TOFU LASAGNA

- 1 envelope, 1/2 oz., French's Italian Style spaghetti sauce mix
- 1 can, 6 oz., tomato paste
- 1 3/4 cups water
- 3 tablespoons oil
- 3 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1 pound tofu, mashed
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
- 3/4 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1/2 pound lasagna noodles, cooked
- 1/2 pound or 2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese

Prepare spaghetti sauce following package directions using tomato paste, water and 1 tablespoon oil. Lightly brown mushrooms in remaining 2 tablespoons oil in skillet over medium-high heat. Combine tofu, Parmesan cheese, parsley flakes and garlic salt. Spoon a thin layer of sauce into bottom of a shallow 12x8-inch baking dish. On top of this, layer half of the lasagna noodles, half of the mushrooms, a third of the mozzarella cheese and a third of the remaining sauce. Repeat. Top with remaining noodles, followed by remaining sauce sprinkled with mozzarella cheese. Bake at 350° for 45 minutes until bubbling hot. (Makes 8 servings.)

Microwave: Microwave assemble lasagna on high for 5 minutes; reduce setting to medium and microwave 10 to 20 minutes, until lasagna is bubbling hot. Let stand 15 minutes before cutting.

VEGETABLE AND TOFU STIR-FRY

- 3/4-1 pound tofu
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 4 tablespoons oil
- 3 cups thinly sliced broccoli
- 1 cup green pepper, cut in strips
- 1 package, 6 oz. size, frozen Chinese pea pods, thawed
- 1 cup thinly sliced carrots
- 1/4 cup thinly sliced onions
- 1 cup bean sprouts
- 1 envelope, 3/4 ounce size, French's mushroom gravy mix
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

Cut tofu into 1/2 inch slices; gently squeeze between paper towels to remove excess moisture. Cut in cubes. Combine 1/2 cup water and soy sauce; marinate tofu in this mixture for at least one hour. Drain; save marinade. Stir-fry tofu in 2 tablespoons oil in large skillet or wok over medium-low heat until lightly browned; remove from skillet. Add remaining oil to skillet and heat over high heat. Add broccoli, green pepper, pea pods, carrots and onion; stir-fry 4 to 5 minutes. Add bean sprouts and tofu. Combine gravy mix, remaining 1/2 cup water, reserving marinade, ginger and garlic powder; add to skillet. Simmer 3 to 4 minutes, stirring occasionally, until liquid thickens and vegetables are tender-crisp. (Makes 6 servings.)

Refund offer should be crystal clear

By MARTIN SLOANE
United Feature Syndicate

The bold headline on the refund form states "$2.00 REFUND OFFER FROM LA CHOY." So, you pull it off the pad on the supermarket bulletin board and purchase the four La Choy products listed on the form.

That's what Christy Cumble of Dallas, Texas, did, not realizing that printed in small letters elsewhere on the form were the words: "... $2.00 refund in La Choy store coupons."

Have you ever sent for a refund thinking you were going to get cash in the mail and then received cents-off coupons instead? Unless the stores in your area are offering double coupons, this usually comes as a disappointment.

Supermarket Shopper

Why the confusion? One of the reasons is the word "refund." Both consumers and manufacturers are using it to represent a variety of mail-in offers that not only include cash refunds but also offers of free products, gift items — and cents-off coupons.

This confusion has become more of a problem as the national brands have increased the value of their refund offers. A $2 refund used to be the exception but today, $3 and $5 offers are appearing more regularly. As the values have increased, so have the dollar signs that appear on the refund forms and promotional advertising.

But do they really indicate that you will receive a check in the mail? Nowadays, when a company considers offering consumers a $5 cash refund or $5 worth of its own coupons, the coupons are increasingly the favored choice.

But does this mean that shoppers have to stand in the aisles searching the print on every form before they can feel confident in purchasing a refunded product? It shouldn't. If the companies making offers will remember that they have an obligation to make the offers easily understandable, there won't be a problem.

Somewhere in or around the headline "$2.00 REFUND" that we mentioned above, the words "In store coupons" in a type almost as large as the headline itself should appear. Elsewhere on the refund form the offer should list the details of each coupon that will be received.

Was it fair to expect a recent offer to entice pet owners with the promise of $3 worth of cat food coupons, without telling them that each 15-cent coupon was good on the purchase of five cans? I don't think so, and I received dozens of angry letters complaining that this was a deception.

Cunningham and Walsh, the advertising agency for La Choy, in response to an inquiry by The National Alliance of Supermarket Shoppers concerning Ms. Cumble's complaint, wrote these encouraging words: "The points you make are well-taken. In future offers of this kind we will be recommending to La Choy that copy clearly state that store coupons will be sent."

REFUND UPDATE
The new $20 Nabisco "Parade of Values" refund is definitely a CASH offer. Proofs-of-purchase from more than 20 different brands qualify for this refund, and Nabisco has clarified that if you purchase Planters Dry Roasted Unsalted Peanuts that don't have the plastic lid, you can use the Universal Product Code symbol instead.

Rutabagas economical

By ROBERT W. STRUBE
Chicago Sun-Times

Rutabagas are considered a cool-climate crop, and practically all rutabagas consumed in the United States are grown in Canada.

Rutabagas are in season from July to April. The tops, which are not eaten, show the first signs of deterioration and are usually trimmed off before shipping.

Rutabagas stored in warehouses are generally dipped in the vegetable wax to preserve them. The hot wax prevents wilting and weight loss. Many object to the wax coating but it is the best way to keep the product fresh.

Peel the rutabaga before using it. Even if you decide to use the vegetable raw, peel it. It is not an easy vegetable to cut. Take a sharp knife and slice off the rutabaga top. This provides a flat surface for further cutting. With the flat surface down on a cutting board, cut several slices from the sides. Now you have two flat surfaces. Put one of these surfaces down and completely cutting off rutabaga slices. Peel the waxed skin. Then cut into sticks, dice for cooking, or shave for salads.

Rutabagas are economical. The going price is generally about 19 cents a pound. One pound will serve four. An average rutabaga weighs about 1 to 2 pounds.

Golden Cheseocakes

- 1 1/2 cup rutabagas, cooked and pureed
- 1-2/3 cups fine graham cracker crumbs
- x cup butter, melted
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 3/4 cup sugar, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 eggs, separated
- 2 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Cube 2-2/3 cups rutabagas. Drop into a boiling salted water and cook until just tender. Drain. Puree in blender or whip in mixing bowl or by hand. This should yield 1 1/2 cups of pureed rutabaga. Set aside. Mix crumbs and butter. Reserve 1/2 cup and press remainder in bottom of a 9-inch springform pan. Chill. Soften gelatin in 1/2 cup cold water in top part of small double boiler. Add 1/2 cup sugar, salt, milk and slightly beaten egg whites. Cook over boiling water, stirring until slightly thickened. Add cream cheese to rutabaga and pour gelatin mixture over. Beat until smooth and blended. Cool. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add 1/4 cup sugar and beat until stiff. Whip cream and fold into cheese mixture; fold in egg whites. Add vanilla and orange rind. Pour into prepared pan, sprinkle with reserved crumbs and chill until firm. This will serve 10 to 12.

Rice casseroles offered

Special to The Times-News

Dreary casseroles, drab flavors and an unsightly conglomeration of meatless foods don't necessarily have to overhurl Lenten meals.

Little needs to be said about rice dinners. Most everyone knows that rice is a nourishing and inexpensive food. But we all sometime forget that rice makes a suitable foundation, because of its subtle flavor and texture, for exciting casserole eating. Following are a few of our remembered meatless meal rice casseroles.

TUNA AND OLIVE JAMBALAYA

- 2 tablespoons vegetable or olive oil
 - 1 large clove garlic, peeled and chopped
 - 1 small yellow onion, peeled and chopped
 - 1 very small green pepper, stemmed, seeded and chopped
 - 3 tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
 - 2 cups water
 - 1/4 cup rice
 - 1 very small piece bay leaf
 - 1 teaspoon chili powder
 - pinch cloves and thyme
 - salt to season
 - dash of cayenne pepper
 - 1 can, 7 1/2 ounce size, drained and chunked
 - 1 cup chopped ripe olives
- In heavy skillet or saucepan, heat oil. Add garlic and onion and green pepper. Cook stirring, over low heat until softened and lightly browned. Add tomatoes, water, rice, bay leaf, chili powder, cloves, thyme, salt and cayenne pepper. Cover and cook over low heat for 20 minutes. Stir in tuna and olives; cover and cook over very low heat 15 minutes longer or until rice is cooked.

ANCHOVY-RICE CASEROLE

- 2 tablespoons vegetable or olive oil
- 1 onion, peeled and chopped
- 8 anchovy fillets, patted dry of oil, minced
- 1/2 cup water
- 3 tablespoons ketchup
- 2 cups rice
- 1/4 cup dry white wine

- 1 tablespoons minced fresh parsley
 - dash of poultry seasoning
 - salt and pepper to season to taste
 - 1/4 cup water
 - grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
- In heavy skillet or kettle, heat oil. Add onion and brown slightly. Add anchovy fillets; cook a few minutes to blend flavors. Add 1/2 cup water and ketchup; bring to a boil; lower heat and simmer 15 minutes. Stir in rice, wine, parsley, poultry seasoning and salt and pepper to taste. Cook mixture until wine is almost absorbed. Then add remaining water; cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes more. Serve hot and sprinkled generously with grated cheese.

SQUASH, CHEESE AND RICE CASEROLE

- 2 pounds fresh squash, peeled and chopped
 - 3 tablespoons vegetable or olive oil
 - 1 large onion, peeled and finely chopped
 - 1/2 cup cooked rice
 - 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
 - 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
 - 1 beaten egg
 - salt to season to taste
 - pinch white pepper
 - 3 tablespoons fresh bread crumbs
- Preheat oven to 375° F. In large skillet, heat oil; add onion and cook until wilted and lightly browned. Stir in chopped squash. Cook over low heat for 10 minutes. Remove from heat; cool slightly. Blend in rice, cheese, parsley, egg, salt and pepper. Stir in squash mixture. Grease a shallow baking dish; spread squash mixture in dish. Sprinkle top with bread crumbs and flake oil over top. Bake 25 minutes, or until bubbly. (Makes 6 servings.)

THIS WEEK'S BEST MARKET BUYS: The crazy but nice turn in the weather has pushed barbecuing items to the front. There will be good buys in beef. Smoked picnic hams are lower in cost. All sorts of frozen foods will be on sale. Strawberries are abundant but their price is still high. In a few weeks we should be able to buy strawberries at a better price.

Magazine gives shopping tips

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Families can save up to $100 a week on food purchases or a couple bucks for a roll of film, says a new consumer publication that does shopping surveys in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The non-profit quarterly magazine also provides hints on how consumers anywhere can save dollars in these days of tightening budgets.

Some shopping tips given by "Bay Area Consumers' Checkbook" magazine include:

- Shop at warehouse stores where prices were found to be 12 percent below that of the five biggest supermarkets chains in the area.
- Specialized fresh produce markets beat big-chain average prices by 15 percent and community stores, co-ops and bakery outlets also give substantial savings.
- Big savings come from buying store brand rather than nationally-brand products — up to 24 percent in some cases.

"To save on food, you must change your habits — and you must plan," says Ted Bogue, research director of the publication. This involves a strategy that takes into account time, convenience, and special sales.

In a customer survey of stores, "Checkbook" looked at prices, hidden differences in products, quality, and variety of service. Separate sections tell how to buy produce, select meat, and how to set up a food buying club, in effect becoming your own retailer and saving by shopping for volume.

Consumers can also save 25 percent or more by buying photographic equipment at the right stores, a survey of 1,200 customers showed, the magazine said.

"A serious photographer, who spends $500 a year on equipment and supplies, could save $125 or more," said Bogue.

In a special section, the publication ranked Bay Area photographic stores by prices, customer advice and variety of items and services offered.

This area's climate different

The Intermountain West has a climate which is different than any place else in the United States. Some climate elements are similar to the northeastern or upper great plain states, while others are right out of the desert southwest. The wide climate differences within the region are more influenced by altitude than latitude.

Allen Wilson
Intermountain gardening

New garden column starts

Beginning today, a new column on gardening will appear weekly in The Times-News.

The articles are written especially for the Intermountain West by Allen Wilson of Rexburg. Because of the unique soil and weather conditions, Wilson has found that much of the garden information written for the East and West Coast is not applicable to this area.

Wilson first became interested in gardening while growing up in Colorado Springs, Colo. As a teenager, he assumed complete responsibility for the lawn, garden, flowers and shrubs for a one-acre suburban home. When in high school, he worked part time in a garden store.

After completing a horticultural degree at Colorado State University in 1960, he continued graduate work for a master's degree at University of California at Los Angeles. He served as horticultural specialist for the Florida and California agricultural extension services for seven years.

For 10 years he was employed by a seed company in California, where he participated in the development and introduction of many new flower and vegetable varieties.

In 1977 he joined the teaching staff of the new Landscape Horticulture Department at Ricks College in Rexburg. Besides teaching responsibilities, Allen supervises three acres of vegetable and flower trials and demonstration gardens. The demonstration garden and other landscape areas at Ricks College recently won a national award for the use of flowers in the landscape.

Wilson began writing his garden column four years ago. His clear and understandable style of writing is easily followed by the average backyard gardener. Readers acclaim his ability to explain the latest gardening practices so they can get to practical use.

Whether you are an experienced gardener or a brand new lawn owner, you will find ideas to help you be more successful. Look for "Intermountain Gardening every Wednesday. Comments and questions may be mailed to Allen Wilson, c/o of Lorayne O. Smith, Lifestyles Editor, The Times-News, P.O. Box 548, Twin Falls.

USDA climate zone five because the lowest winter temperature averages between minus 10 and minus 20 degrees Fahrenheit. Hardiness zone numbers are frequently included in catalog descriptions, plant books and garden magazines. Other organizations have also developed climate zones, so be careful not to confuse them.

Although the USDA plant climate zones do not include such factors as wind chill, rapid temperature change and low humidity, they are a useful starting place. Adaptability of specific plant varieties to alkaline soil conditions is another very important factor to be considered.

This column will make specific recommendations on flowers, vegetables, fruits and ornamentals which are adapted to Twin Falls and similar zone five Intermountain climates.

There are two overriding factors which control or influence all the peculiarities that are common to the region. They are wide temperature fluctuations and dryness.

Daily temperature fluctuations of 40 degrees are more or less common. Differences between winter low and summer high temperatures can be 120 degrees or more. Low rainfall, especially during the growing season, combined with high light intensity, results in very low humidity. Ten percent to 25 percent relative humidity is normal in the Intermountain region.

The low rainfall has had a profound effect on the soil. Soils and irrigation water are high in minerals, especially calcium. Soils are alkaline or high in pH in all except evergreen forest areas. This is just the opposite of humid eastern climates.

Plants which are adapted to the cold winter often cannot cope with alkaline soils, wind and low humidity. Rapid freezing and thawing may cause damage that would not occur under colder weather in a humid climate. On the other hand, annual flowers and vegetables which struggle under continuous high humidity and high temperatures may thrive in our cool nights, even when day temperatures become quite high.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has developed a series of plant climate zones which help in identifying plants which will grow successfully. These zones are based upon average lowest yearly temperatures. This is the coldest temperature it is likely to reach during an average winter.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. — Two surprises motivated the name for this chocolate cake: Chocolate Cherry surprise.

When this recipe was first introduced by myrae for cooking school teachers, it became an instant favorite. Many students, having heard the myth that cakes don't bake well in a microwave oven, were surprised by the delicious results from this recipe.

The second reason for the name is because canned cherry pie filling is a surprise ingredient. You don't see cherries in the finished cake, but they add delectable flavor, extra moistness and enhanced richness to the chocolate color.

The one microwave "truth" that cakes don't brown in the microwave doesn't make a whit of difference with this recipe, since all chocolate cakes are naturally brown.

This ring shape is ideal for microwaving many foods, since microwaves can penetrate more food molecules in this arrangement. There are many brands of fluted ring molds especially designed for microwave use.

Although this cake is excellent served plain, a fluffy topping is suggested either to frost the cake or to dollop on each serving. Extra cherry pie filling not called for in the cake recipe serves both as garnish and an added flavor treat.

Canned cherry pie filling is surprise ingredient minutes at 50 percent power, rotating pan once. Increase power level to high and continue cooking 6 to 8 minutes more, rotating one more time. Let cake stand in pan 5 minutes to finish cooking. Turn out of pan. Cool.

Conventional baking: Prepare batter as above. Bake at 350° F for 50 to 60 minutes or until cake tests done.

FLUFFY TOPPING
1 carton, 9 oz., frozen whipped topping, thawed

2 tablespoons kirsch or maraschino cherry juice
1/2 teaspoon unflavored gelatin extra cherry pie filling sliced almonds
Sprinkle gelatin into kirsch or juice to soften. Heat in microwave 10 to 15 seconds. Cool a minute or two, then whip mixtures into topping with wire whip. Frost cake, garnishing with sliced almonds. Refrigerate. Top with extra cherries before serving.

CHOCOLATE CAKE
1 package (18.5 oz. size) double layer chocolate cake mix
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup water
3 eggs
1 cup cherry pie filling
1 teaspoon almond extract
Lightly oil fluted type pan; sprinkle sides of pan with granulated sugar; shake out excess. Mix together all ingredients; beat according to package directions.
Pour batter into pan. Microwave 10

Dear Abby

Books open new worlds

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the librarian in Winter Park, Fla., who asked if you had any words of wisdom to help promote reading in young people.

Thank you for reminding children that our libraries are filled with books that will open new worlds, real and imagined, and they're all there free. Abby, urging children to read is important. But children cannot discover the world of books unless that world has been opened to them first. That is the responsibility of parents and teachers.

Since television came on the scene, it is estimated that two out of three American children do not read because they either cannot read or they hate to read.

May I recommend the "Read-Along Handbook" by Jim Trelease (Penguin Books)? This fine book suggests practical and effective ways in which parents and teachers can inspire children to develop the habit of reading.

— FLORENCE IN ARLINGTON, VA.

DEAR FLORENCE: On your recommendation I bought a copy of the "Read-Along Handbook." For openers this caught my eye:

"You may have tangible wealth untold:

"Caskets of jewels and coffers of gold.

"Richer than you can never be —

"I had a mother who read to me,"

(Strickland Gillilan)

As I read this treasure of a book, I became more and more fascinated with its contents. Listed were hundreds of books appropriate for children of all ages — books containing fairy tales, biographies, history and poetry.

More important, the author tells how to coax children away from television, and how to improve their language skills, awaken their imagination and create a real thirst for knowledge and entertainment through reading. I regret that this book was not available to me when my children were growing up. I give it my unqualified recommendation.

If you can't find the "Read-Along Handbook" locally, write to:

A child's room is a fantasy land where dreams can come true. Surrounded by favorite toys, stuffed animals, dolls and hobbies, a child's imagination can pilot a starship through a distant galaxy, perform a pas de deux on a misty stage or fashion a skyscraper that's the envy of Ludwig Mies Van Der Rohe.

It's also a private hideaway, a music room, an artist's studio, a library, a mad scientist's laboratory and a warehouse for collectibles from bird nests to seashells.

Unfortunately children grow up too soon and their interests seem to change almost daily.

Besides planning a major design overhaul every other year, what can parents do? One of the keys to designing rooms that grow with your children is flexibility — find a few basic pieces that can function in different ways. In a contemporary home, modular beds, desks, bookcases and cubes can give the same room two very different looks when accented with different fabrics, wallpaper schemes and accessories.

The best solution for parents who redecorate their child's room every few years is to use borders to change the look.

Products checked for safety

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (UPI) — At a federal compound once used to protect the nation's capital from enemy missile researchers now work to guard infants against teething rattles, and everyone from hazardous toasters.

The facility is the Consumer Product Safety Commission's engineering laboratory. Each year it tests as many items as can be found in a department store catalog.

"We like to consider ourselves the backbone of the commission," said William Walton, the CPSC's engineering director who oversees the lab. "We are also its technical integrity."

Over the past decade the CPSC has ordered 3,100 recalls involving 250 million product units. It has also imposed standards on countless other products designed to prevent injury and death.

The lab is housed in six stark cinderblock buildings on a rolling 8-acre site 20 miles from Washington, D.C.

Researchers opened shop in 1976, three years after the CPSC was created and several years after the compound was vacated by its previous tenant, a Nike missile base.

Atop a grassy knoll is a vivid view of changing times: an abandoned military tower surrounded by CPSC-tested jungle gym.

Inside the buildings, engineers and technicians use technological wizardry and old-fashioned common sense to dissect, probe and explore everything from teddy bears and lawnmowers to coffee makers and 10-speed bicycles.

Their tools vary. They have Rube Goldberg-type contraptions, such as one with tread, tire weights and a timing device, to test a material's flammability. They have a bevy of calorimeters, including one to gauge the sharpness of a toy truck.

Manuel Karios spends his days in a brightly colored lab that looks like a small kindergarten classroom. He specializes in safety for children.

"There is an intrinsic reward for what we do," said Karios. "We know we are protecting a lot of people."

Many studies, however, are initiated after someone already has been hurt or even killed.

The lab examined a playpen in which a child suffocated. It concluded such playpens should carry labels warning against placing a youngster in the device if any of its four sides are down.

The lab routinely checks to determine if various products meet CPSC standards, such as fire resistance for certain types of clothing.

For more than a year the lab has been examining increasingly popular chain saws, trying to reduce the estimated 28,000 injuries a year attributed to the tools.

Great cola taste without caffeine.
