All gussied up for charity

Dressed up as a hobo to beg, Student body President Kathy Elliott and her companion the CSI Golden Eagle were two of the many CSI students out raising money for the CSI student activities fund Friday afternoon. The students were soliciting money from private businesses and the public to fund activities such as the CSI film series. Elliott says they hope to make the Hobo Day fund raiser an annual event.

House softens initiative bill

By MARK SHENEFFILT
United Press International

BOISE — House tax writers killed by two votes Friday a measure to repeal the "50-50" exemption law, but they endorsed a second proposal that would soften the impact of the voter-enacted property initiative.

Some of those who voted against the repeal proposal said they agreed the law may not be beneficial to the state, but they said it would be wrong for the Legislature to completely nullify the people's action.

"They passed it and it is law," said Rep. Chris Hooper, R-Boise. He said it would be a "terrible affront" to void the initiative, which was made law in the November 1982 general election.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee voted 9-7 to defeat the repeal bill, offered by Rep. John Brooks, R-Gooding. Brooks said a majority of his constituents voted against the exemption law, which shifts some of the ad valorem tax burden away from residences and onto other types of property.

Panel members then approved 10-6 for a vote on the House floor a measure that would reduce to an estimated $11.1 million from $19 million the tax shift projected under the initiative.

The initiative says $50,000 or 50 percent of the market value of residential property, whichever is lesser, is exempted from taxation.

But the modifying legislation, sponsored by Rep. Rachel Gilbert, R-Boise, would reduce the dollar amount of the exemption formula to $15,000 and limit the tax break to owner-occupied and primaryresidence properties. The votes came after two days of committee hearings on various measures to amend the "50-50" law, which has been assailed as an unbearable hardship for owners of business, industrial, farm and utility property.

Critics also blasted the all-inclusive wording of the initiative, that extends the exemption to owners of rental property and vacation homes.

Backers of the initiative, which emerged last spring, failed to convince the committee that amending the initiative would be a violation of the will of the people.

Democratic Gov. John Evans warned the Republican-controlled Legislature before the 1983 regular session began not to tamper with the law.

During committee debate, Rep. Martin Trillhaase, R-Idaho Falls, said if the Legislature repeals the law, "We might as well repeal the whole initiative process."

Agricultural and business lobbyists fought fiercely for amendments, telling the committee that people-passed measures should not be regarded as sacred.

"The Legislature does not have to take a hands-off view," said John Hatch of the Idaho Farm-Bureau Federation. "Look at the basic message it got that across."

"The masses of the public didn't fully study the issue," Hatch said. "A couple of more months and I doubt that it would have passed."

Hooper said he agreed with some of the arguments raised by the initiative foes, but he said the most proper time to make their case against it was before the election.

Reagan says extremists want 'a bird's nest'

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — President Reagan heatedly defended Anne Burford Friday, blaming her resignation on environmental extremists who will not be happy until they turn the White House "into a bird's nest."

A key congressman immediately accused the president of "living in a dream world."

Repeatedly pounding the lectern during a news conference in the White House press room, Reagan angrily defended Mrs. Burford, who resigned as Environmental Protection Agency chief Wednesday under a cloud of accusations that she had politicized and mishandled the agency's $1.6 billion toxic waste cleanup program.

"I never would have asked for her resignation," Reagan declared. "She was doing a job. And we, this administration, can be very proud of its record on environmental protection. It tops what we found when we came here."

"I don't think the people who were attacking her were concerned about the environment," he said. "I think this administration and its policies were their target."

"I don't know how they can look at themselves in the mirror in the morning," Reagan accused some conservationists of "environmental extremism," adding, "I do not think they will be happy until the White House looks like a bird's nest."

But environmental groups and a key Democratic congressman swung back.

Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., who heads a panel investigating EPA, said, "President Reagan must be living in a dream world. His environmental record consists of cutting EPA's overall budget by 50 percent, labeling trees as the primary cause of pollution, and appointing a wrecking crew to run the EPA. "The president needs to spend less time with the queen of England and more time talking with terrified residents of Times Beach, Mo.," Scheuer said.

Liz Ralabec—legislative director for Friends of the Earth, accused Reagan's policies of "soiling the nest."

"If the president can't see that EPA is in shambles, he is really out of touch with the people—or with the people's fears about pollution. We can't stand by and watch our environmental institutions destroyed without a fight."

Sierra Club spokesman Polly Freeman said, "Polls show that most Americans favor strong clean air and clean water laws. If he wants to call the opinion of the majority of American people extremists, so be it."

And Jonathan Lash, a spokesman for National Resources Defense Council, said, "Their record is manifestly the worst in the last decade and a half. For 60 percent of its history, EPA was run by Republicans and they did a good job—until this crowd."

"This is not tree hugging. It's enforcing the law of the land."

Sub-minimum wage before Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Reagan Friday sent Congress legislation he said would help put the "hard-core unemployed" back to work through such means as a sub-minimum wage for teenagers.

The long-awaited measure also would employ vouchers to give tax breaks to firms that hire the unemployed.

"Today I'm sending to the Congress legislation that is very special to me and certainly deserves strong bipartisan support in the Congress," Reagan said at an informal news conference. "This is a measure to address the problems of the hard-core unemployed."

Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said the program could create 700,000 new jobs by the end of 1984. He called it "the most comprehensive legislation to combat structural unemployment in the post-war period."

It also includes an extension of unemployment compensation benefits until Sept. 30, which Donovan said would give extra benefits "to nearly 2 million people."

"The Employment Act of 1983 is a reaffirmation of the president's commitment to correcting the economic problems which he inherited," Donovan said. "His economic policies have already created an improving economic climate, which will reduce cyclical unemployment. This new legislation will address the other side of the coin—structural unemployment.

Reagan outlined the program in his State of the Union address and announced last Saturday in San Francisco that he soon would send it to Capitol Hill.

The new bill essentially is the second phase of jobs legislation promised by Reagan and is targeted at "structural unemployment" of unskilled workers and people whose jobs have been eliminated.

President threatens Senate with veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate, facing a veto threat from President Reagan, temporarily laid aside an amendment repealing the 1978 "anti-bribe" law to come Friday and quit for the weekend without completing action on a $3.7 billion jobs bill.

Senate Republican leader Howard

Baker, who had hoped to finish bill Friday night, said the chamber was "decimated by absences" and thus decided to wait until Monday to finish the bill.

Earlier, the Senate easily defeated a Democratic bid to add $1.7 billion worth of jobs and humanitarian aid to recession victims.

The administration-backed emergency jobs program would cost $3.7 billion with emphasis on states hardest hit by unemployment. The bill also contains $5 billion to replenish the federal unemployment trust fund that runs dry next Tuesday. The fund lends money to states to pay unemployment claims.

The House passed a $4.9 billion version of the legislation last week.

Reagan entered the fray after it appeared the bipartisan bill could be jeopardized in the Senate by a politically-popular amendment—backed by an avalanche of constituent mail generated by the banking industry—

Hometown man missing in Sumatra

By KELLY EVERITT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The U.S. State Department has announced that several arrests have been made in connection with the disappearance of two Americans, one whose hometown is listed as Twin Falls. In one of the islands that comprise the nation of Indonesia, James Dresser Allen, 57, formerly of Twin Falls, was reported missing on the island of Sumatra, by relatives who contacted the U.S. Embassy in the nation's capital of Jakarta on Feb. 8.

Allen, an English professor at Kingsboro College in Brooklyn, N.Y., was apparently vacationing on the island with a fellow professor, Roy Gerard Huss, of Queens College in New York.

They reportedly arrived Jan. 13. In early February, Huss was scheduled to return to the United States, but Allen, who speaks several languages, apparently intended to continue his vacation in Thailand, before returning to teach spring classes.

Allen reportedly had visited Sumatra last year during a sabbatical from his college.

Allen reportedly quit in constant contact with his sister, Mrs. Jane Grazer of Salt Lake City. When Grazer failed to hear from her brother, she notified the embassy and the State Department.

The U.S. Embassy in Jakarta contacted its consulate in the provincial capital of Medan. "We inquired with the local police, the military and area hospitals," a spokesman for the State Department said in a telephone interview Friday. "But no trace of them was found."

In early February, Grazer's son, a photographer in Tokyo, flew to Medan to assist in the search for the men. Her husband followed shortly afterward.

In the town of Braslag, 30 miles south of Medan, Mr. Grazer found a hotel that the men had checked into on Jan. 15. All of their belongings, including $1,500 in cash, were still there.

Anti-polygamy law challenged

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Murray City was only upholding state law when it fired polygamist policeman Royston Potter, city attorneys argued in response to the first federal challenge in more than a century to an anti-polygamy law.

The 29-year-old Magnus man, who says he follows the historic teachings of the Mormon Church, was fired Dec. 1 after an anonymous caller told city officials the policeman has two wives.

The suit against Murray City and the State of Utah is the first federal court challenge to an anti-polygamy statute in more than a century.

Potter claims the action violates his First Amendment guarantee of religious freedom, but Murray City attorneys argued that Potter is not entitled to collect because he knowingly violated the state statute against polygamy after taking an oath of office to uphold the law.

Delaware plunges into dark

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — An explosion and fire at a utility plant plunged Delaware's capital into darkness for about a half-hour Friday night, authorities said.

Dover police said all lights in the city of 25,000 went out about 8:45 p.m. after fire apparently burned through electrical lines at a Chesapeake Utilities plant. Police said power was restored to 90 percent of the community about a half hour later.

Traffic was snarled on the darkened streets and isolated incidents of purse snatching and store break-ins were reported, police said. But no widespread disturbances occurred during the short blackout.

The three-alarm fire was brought under control about 45 minutes after it broke out.

Mount St. Helens belches

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Mount St. Helens, expected to begin another dome-building eruption within three weeks, belched gas and volcanic ash Friday to an altitude of 12,000 feet, scientists said.

A gas emission at 7:30 a.m. barely reached the crater rim, but a second one three hours later soared almost 4,000 feet above the 8,300-foot volcano, scientists at the U.S. Geological Survey said.

"There was some ash in it. It did dust the crater floor," USGS spokesman Steve Brantley said.

Scientists visited the crater Friday but had not arrived at the line of the emissions, he said.

The emissions did not increase the likelihood of an eruption, he said.

Seismically readings continued at elevated levels, but have not changed significantly since Sunday, Brantley said.

Scientists in the crater reported that inflation and deformation of the 700-foot-high lava dome at the crater floor continued, but at rates comparable in last week, Brantley said. Gas measurements were up from last week, however.

Sinking ship abandoned

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Four adults and four children abandoned a sinking 45-foot sailing yacht and boarded a life raft in the stormy Gulf of Mexico Friday night, the Coast Guard reported.

The Coast Guard sent a helicopter and a cutter from its St. Petersburg station to search an area about 45 miles southwest of Fort Myers Beach for the survivors, who were not identified.

A private research vessel, Arcadian Searcher, was reported in the vicinity and later returned.

A spokesman at the Fort Myers Beach Coast Guard station said a radio distress call from the 45-foot yacht Mist Blue was received about 9 p.m. EST reporting that the yacht was taking on water.

Jet makes emergency landing

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A compressor exploded in the No. 1 engine of United Air Lines DC-8 jet 36,000 feet over the Sierra Nevada Friday, destroying the engine and forcing the pilot to make an emergency landing at Reno.

The 176 passengers and nine crew members on the plane No. 448 from San Francisco to Denver left the flight safely and another plane was flown in from Seattle to take them the rest of the way to Denver.

The mishap occurred about 2 p.m. PST over the mountains just past the California-Nevada line over Lake Tahoe and pilot L. W. Hatch was forced to bring the four-engine airliner into the airport at a high rate of speed moments later, but had no problem landing.

Dorm fire injures 33

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — An arson-caused fire spawned by "envy, jealousy, revenge and hatred" whipped through a university dormitory Friday, trapping about 40 women in their rooms and injuring 33 students, authorities said.

Most of the women of the University of Southern Colorado students were injured leaping from windows to safety. Twenty students remained hospitalized Friday night and four were in serious condition — one with smoke inhalation and three with burns.

One of the women said her roommate opened a door and found the hallway ablaze. "She opened up to the hall and it was filled with smoke, so we jumped out the window," said Ann Key.

Investigators said they had a "couple of leads" in the pre-dawn blaze that trapped about 40 female students on the second floor of the dormitory, but officials said no arrests had been made.

Synopsis:
Rapidly moving frontal systems of the Pacific Ocean continue to create alternating periods of showers and partly cloudy conditions in Idaho.

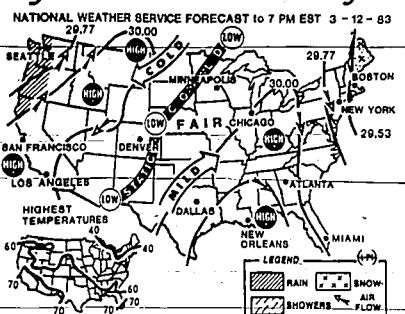

One Pacific cold front crossed the state Friday, accompanied by showers which decreased during the evening. But clouds will increase again today as another storm nears the coast.

Friday was wet in southwestern and northern Idaho, as Boise and Lewiston reported around 40 inch of rain. Eastern Idaho received less than 10 inch but showers fell from Malad to Coeur d'Alene.

The rain Friday caused a slight rise in the Weiser River but no problems were anticipated. Any problems on the Snake River were expected to be a day or two distant.

Unstable air over southwestern Idaho generated a funnel cloud west of the Boise airport shortly before 4 p.m. It lasted about five minutes. No severe thunderstorms were reported in the Boise area in late afternoon.

Temperatures Friday were in the 50s

The FBI 'afraid' to tackle Hemingway, says professor

By CAROL ROSENBERG
United Press International

ERNEST HEMINGWAY
FBI kept tabs on him

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — J. Edgar Hoover both hated and feared author Ernest Hemingway, a University of Massachusetts professor who uncovered an FBI file on Hemingway said Friday.

Jeffrey Meyers, currently compiling a biography on the author, said he found the information in a 124-page FBI file on Hemingway he received under the Freedom of Information Act.

Among other things it chronicled the author's spy work in Cuba during World War II and Hoover's loathing of it, Meyers said.

"(Hemingway) had this private amateur spy network working for him, especially Basque jail alai players. He collected information on the Spanish anarchists, the pro-Franco people," Meyers said.

"The FBI didn't like Hemingway doing this thing. They thought that he was impugning on their territory and they did not think that his information was reliable."

As Meyers explained it, Hemingway conducted his spy work with the permission of a U.S. ambassador, but who was not Hemingway turned the information over to the embassy, who handed it to the FBI.

But the FBI didn't want the information and could do nothing about it, Meyers said in a telephone interview from his home in Amherst where he is a visiting professor at the University of Massachusetts.

"They're constantly sending letters back and forth between J. Edgar Hoover, Washington and the agent in Havana slandering Hemingway. They also accused him of being a communist, which he was not and never was," he said.

"Hemingway was big enough to take on the FBI and they were afraid of him," he said. "At the time he's the most famous author in America and he has an international reputation."

They were afraid to take him on." Even after he resolved the spy network, what Hemingway jokingly called a "crook factory" the FBI followed him. The file runs from 1942 to 1974.

"It anticipates McCarthy's smear techniques that he used during the Cold War in the 50s — but it happened 10 years earlier," he said.

"They continued after the crook factory was closed down and after his sub hunting exposures were stopped, they kept the file open on him and they continued to add to Hemingway's file anything they found on him that was damaging or anything they construed was damaging."

For example, the file includes mention of a fight Hemingway had with a gossip columnist in Havana, Meyers said. It also mentions him receiving psychiatric treatment in the Mayo clinic in 1961, the year he killed himself.

Meyers said he received the file in January and wrote about it for the New York Review of Books, on newstands Friday.

"I wrote it immediately after reading the file over and over again and fitting it into the context of what I already knew about Hemingway and Cuba," he said.

Meyers will include the information in a biography he's writing on Hemingway. He expects it to be complete some time after he returns to teaching next year at the University of Colorado.

A few days later, two Australian women reported seeing two men matching their descriptions on a trail near an extinct volcano near the city. The men were not dressed for an extended stay in the jungle, the women reported.

A guide subsequently was found who was to have met the men in that area, but he said the men never showed up. The pair was last seen Feb. 10.

Patrols sent into the jungle so far have failed to discover the men.

However, "as a result of certain leads developed in the investigation, local police arrested several men recently in connection with their disappearance," the State Department spokesman said Friday.

But the spokesman said no charges apparently have been filed in connection with the arrests, and "precisely what happened to them (Allen and Huss) still is not known."

Allen's mother, Mrs. O.C. Allen of Salt Lake City, earlier this week published in Indonesian newspapers an offer of a $500 reward for information concerning the case. A move Indonesian authorities had indicated could help turn up new evidence concerning the men's whereabouts.

Besides the normal threats of crime and the jungle, Indonesia is plagued by a minor communist insurgency, fundamentalist Moslem fanatics and coastal pirates.

Allen and Huss are not the first Americans to disappear on the island during the last year.

Last June, another American professor, John W. Reade, was reported missing in central Sumatra, about 500 kilometers from the point where Huss and Allen vanished. State Department officials said there does not appear to be any connection between the two disappearances, however.

to repeal the 10 percent tax withholding of interest and dividends. This intensifying lobbying, they've done has led to a great distortion of the situation. They've led many people to believe, or to ignore the fact of how many millions will be exempt from withholding," Reagan said in an informal news conference.

"I've always said that I resist saying in advance whether I will veto or not the rules ways exceptions to the rules and this is an exception. Yes, I would veto such legislation."

ple are demanding action on this issue ... This is not a banking issue as some have maintained — it's a consumer issue."

A Baker side said an easy way out of the situation would be to let the Kasten amendment pass and then have it knocked out in conference with the House, which passed a $4.5 billion jobs bill last week without the repealer. But he said Baker did not want to set the precedent of letting the industry win even a symbolic veto.

Dole estimated withholding 10 percent of interest and dividends could raise $20 billion over the next five years in taxes that otherwise might not be paid.

While the emergency jobs program lashed toward enactment, Reagan sent Congress a second jobs program that would include a sub-minimum wage for teenagers and vouchers carrying tax breaks for firms that hire the unemployed.

Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said the bill, which concentrates on long-term unemployment, could result in 700,000 new jobs by the end of 1984.

Reagan gets tough on stopping 'leaks'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan issued a tough directive Friday to stem the leak of classified information, clearing the way for government to give employees lie detector tests to track down disclosures.

"All agencies with employees having access to classified information will be required to assure that their policies permit use of polygraph examinations under 'newly defined circumstances,'" the new presidential order said.

An employee who refuses to take a polygraph test may be subject to "adverse consequences," it warned.

Although the directive does not spell out punishment method, an administration official told reporters it could at the minimum include denying offenders further access to classified material.

Steven Garfinkel, director of the General Services Administration's Information Security Oversight Office, said about 60 federal agencies have access to classified material. He said hundreds of thousands of federal workers, including the military, have clearances that allow them access to classified material.

The government's new policy comes in the wake of Reagan's continuing concern over unauthorized leaks of information.

Just last month, after a spate of leaks involving White House aides, Reagan said he was "up to my knuckles" with the leaks to the news media about his administration's internal affairs.

Administration officials said the new order has been in the works for a year. They said the most recent leak involving national security concerned the sending of AWACS to Egypt and the aircraft carrier Nimitz off the coast of Libya in the face of a Libyan military buildup on the Sudanese border.

"There have been a series of disclosures in this administration and past ones," one White House official said. "No one incident was responsible, but one example of the kind of disclosures that has caused problems was that concerning Libya and Sudan."

White House officials said the president signed the directive Friday morning "to ensure that laws protecting classified information against unlawfully disclosure are more effectively carried out."

They said the directive simply prohibits a ban on use of lie detectors, "as their use in most agencies and departments is expected to be discretionary."

The officials said the directive was recommended to Reagan by an interagency group headed by Attorney General William French Smith, that has been reviewing the issue, at the request of the White House, since last year.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional law, said the new directive "just smacks of a government that just bullies its people. It has a totalitarian ring to it."

Wing cracks, falls off B-52G bomber

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Investigators Friday tried to determine why the wing of a B-52G bomber cracked and fell off at Mather Air Force Base during refueling for a routine flight.

No one was injured in Thursday's accident, the fourth since November involving one of the eight-engine bombers. The B-52s all are more than 20 years old.

The plane, capable of carrying nuclear or conventional weapons, was unarmed at the time of the accident, the Air Force said.

Workers at a civilian welding yard outside the base recalled hearing a loud "boom" when the 185-foot wing broke on a maintenance runway ramp, spilling fuel from ruptured tanks.

One officer said five airmen involved in the refueling operation heard "the crack of steel" and the sound of the fuel flowing and took off."

There was no fire but an undetermined amount of aviation fuel was spilled. The internal wing tanks of the B-52G can hold as much as 40,000 gallons of fuel, Capt. Louis Figueroa said.

Another Air Force spokesman, Sgt. Pat Maddock, said the spill was contained in an open area, but the remaining JP-4 aviation fuel was left inside the broken wing until investigators determined how to remove it safely.

"It was a structural break within the wing," Maddock said of the accident. "At this time other B-52s are not being checked. Once they determine the cause, and it might have to do with other aircraft, they would check others."

Space shuttle launch delayed for inspection

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Spaceport workers prepared Friday to remove a storm-dirtied communications satellite from space shuttle Challenger for a week-long inspection that will delay the launch of America's newest rocketship at least until early April.

Wiley Williams, director of shuttle cargo operations, said high winds from a storm last month contaminated the satellite with salt, sand, paint chips and silica particles.

"The wind was the major contributing cause and the other cause was that the satellite was at the launch pad for 47 days, which was longer than expected due to the delays in the engine problems," Williams said during a briefing at the Kennedy Space Center.

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said engineers will haul the big satellite out of Challenger's cargo bay Saturday. He said the inspection and possibly a cleanup operation would take a minimum of about a week.

Challenger's maiden launch, originally scheduled for Jan. 20, was delayed by a series of engine leaks. Launch officials had hoped to send the space freighter into orbit by the end of March but decided Thursday to make sure the satellite was not too dirty to work.

NASA spokesman Hugh Harris said the results of the inspection will determine whether Challenger can be cleared for launch in early April or whether additional delays will be required.

Campaign ends to up prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday wrapped up its seven-week campaign to enroll farmers in a new program designed to boost the prices being paid for crops and livestock.

But Agriculture Department officials declined to offer any estimate of the extent of farmer participation in the payment-in-kind program, which promises to give surplus crops to farmers who agree to leave their land idle.

"We're very hopeful, and the reports that we're hearing today from people visiting county offices are making us optimistic," a spokesman for Agriculture Secretary John Block said. "We knew all along that we had a very good program here, and it appears at this point that farmers think so, too."

In some counties, Friday's sign-up lines at county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service stretched "clear out into the parking lots," press secretary John Ochs said.

Ochs said officials were uncertain how many of those in line had been persuaded to sign up after Congress passed a bill to resolve tax problems facing program participants. President Reagan signed the legislation late Friday afternoon.

The long lines were not universal, and officials in several Nebraska counties reported no last-minute surge in the number of farmers seeking to enroll.

"This is the slowest it's been since the 24th of January, when the sign-up period opened," said Gaylan Suhr, director of the ASCS office in Lancaster County.

Murderer wins stay of execution

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Kool-Aid killer Robert Wayne Vickers won a reprieve Friday, four days before he was scheduled to die in the Arizona State Prison gas chamber for killing his state prison cellmate.

"I'll grant your stay," Arizona Supreme Court Chief Justice William Holohan told Vickers' attorneys, John Foreman and Kenneth R. Freedman, following a 35-minute hearing.

Vickers, 24, was sentenced to death for the 1979 stabbing death of his state prison cellmate, Frank Ponciano, who allegedly drank his Kool-Aid. At the time, Vickers was serving a sentence for burglary.

Vickers received a second death sentence for the March 1982 firebomb slaying of fellow death row inmate Wilmar Hottisinger. His appeal, however, centered only on the Ponciano killing.

Foreman and Freedman went to the high court after Vickers bowed to his sister's pleas and agreed this week to fight his death sentence. He had been scheduled to die at 12:05 a.m. Tuesday, 20 years and one day after the last execution in Arizona.

Holohan stayed the execution until Pinal County Superior Court Judge Robert Bean acts on a petition alleging various errors in Vickers' conviction and sentencing.

Wife found guilty of manslaughter

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A woman who said she was beaten three times weekly by her police officer husband during 22 years of marriage until she shot him dead with his service revolver was convicted Friday of voluntary manslaughter.

The jury deliberated three days before returning the verdict against Condie Jameson, 43, of Maple Heights. Voluntary manslaughter was the least severe of three charges of which she could have been convicted.

Judge John Corrigan imposed the maximum sentence of 7 to 25 years in the state reformatory for women at Marysville.

Mrs. Jameson was charged with killing her husband William, 46, a police lieutenant, the night of April 11, 1982, as they returned home from a party and a bar.

"He had backhanded me in the face and in the stomach. In the driveway he said, 'You're going to go out in a blaze of glory — I'm gonna cremate you sister'."

"It scared me. I got out of the car, ran into the house. I got the gun. I went back to the car and all-of-a-sudden I lost my footing. I hit the (car) window, the gun went off. I never intended to use that gun; I wanted to scare him."

Jameson died of a single gunshot to the side of the head.

"To find her guilty of voluntary manslaughter, they (the jurors) had to find lack of accident in the shooting and that she was subject to pressure and was emotional," assistant county prosecutor Paul Marksstrom said.

Defense attorney Jay Miliano said the would appeal the case.

Mrs. Jameson has two sons. The judge instructed jurors they could find her guilty of aggravated murder, murder or voluntary manslaughter or find her innocent.

Energy plan called unfair by officials

BOISE (UPI) — A proposed 20-year energy plan drew criticism Friday from some city and utility officials who said conservation programs and building code requirements would raise rates on certain Idaho ratepayers.

But others testifying at the Northwest Power Planning Council's Thursday hearing said the comprehensive document would provide the region with an assured supply of reasonably priced electricity.

Several public utility representatives said the plan unfairly forces ratepayers to fund a series of conservation programs included in the plan to save as much as 4,300 megawatts of electricity through the turn of the century.

Under the proposal, low-income residential owners and people who rent their homes would be provided with full financing for weatherization, with partial funding for others ratepayers. The money would come from electric rates collected by the Bonneville Power Administration, a federal agency that provides energy mainly to Northwest cities, public utilities and industries.

For that reason, the plan unfairly hits public utility users because it is financed by private companies — such as Idaho Power — would share the expense, said Ted Springer, attorney for the Idaho Cooperative Utilities Association.

Idaho Power likely would not be directly subject to the plan's requirements unless it decided to ask the BPA to meet some of its future energy needs — a prospect utility chairman James Bruce called unlikely.

Springer said, "It is not equitable or practicable to expect a small segment of ratepayers to finance massive region-wide programs."

He said many rural cooperative consumers are suffering financial hardship — "thus the pace of expenditures for conservation programs must be reduced to a bare minimum."

Idaho Power likely would not be directly subject to the plan's requirements unless it decided to ask the BPA to meet some of its future energy needs — a prospect utility chairman James Bruce called unlikely.

Conflicting tangles stall appropriations

BOISE (UPI) — Efforts to appropriate funds for the state's public schools and get the legislative spending process rolling stalled Friday amid philosophical conflicts and procedural tangles.

After arguing a series of motions, the House Appropriations Committee refused to reconsider a bill to allocate $195 million to the public schools. So, the bill goes back to the House floor, where members probably will vote next week on the fiscal-1984 spending level.

Proposal to reconsider the bill failed after a majority of conservative House members said it would give schools enough money. Democrats contended it would give the districts far too little, but they want to air the question on the House floor and defeat the bill.

Appropriations Committee members haggled for more than an hour on what to do with the $195 million appropriation proposal, which had been sent back to the panel by the full House last week.

Some members, they wanted to transfer the bill back before the Legislature's joint budget panel, which is comprised of the House Appropriations and Senate Finance committees.

But that effort was blocked, forcing the House panel to tackle the measure alone.

Although lawmakers wanted to rush the bill before the House for a final vote later in the day, Republican leaders declined because they had entered into a "gentlemen's agreement" that no major legislation would be considered during the one-day absence of House Minority Leader Melvin H. Frank, D-Rexburg.

After the House committee authorized, members of both committees held an informal discussion on school funding and the overall state general-account budget.

Some members suggested a pair of omnibus bills be processed through the Legislature to set the entire fiscal 1984 budget and raise taxes to cover the proposed spending levels, which would be above expected revenue under the current tax structure.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. Rich Orme, R-St. Anthony, has forwarded to the lower chamber's Revenue and Taxation Committee a bill to raise a variety of individual and corporate taxes by almost $40 million.

Non-water users may get a break

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — Persons living in cities and rural subdivisions across southern Idaho may receive reimbursements from irrigation districts for water they have paid for, but which has not been delivered.

At least that's one of the goals of a bill that passed the House on Friday, after already clearing the Senate.

"The focus of this legislation is a long-standing problem that we haven't been able to find a good answer for until this session," said Rep. Eugene Stucki, R-Paris, the bill's sponsor.

"The main target is subdivisions where, during construction, the mode of water delivery has been wiped out," Stucki said. "Yet, those residents are still assessed each year for the water right that now isn't delivered."

Irrigation assessments cannot be dropped in these cases because they usually are tied to federal liens brought against the land to pay back the government for dam and irrigation projects along the Snake River system.

The bill, which passed the House on a 61-5 vote, would allow irrigation districts to lease the water rights of subdivisions and city residents. The lease payment then would be given to the individual property owner, who still would be required to pay the annual irrigation-district assessment.

"This may help in this strange situation where we're getting billed for something we don't receive," said Rep. Chris Hooper, R-Boise. "But I don't have great faith for the irrigation districts to comply."

To encourage irrigation districts to sign such leases, the bill would allow the companies to keep any balance left when a resident's water assessment exceeds the lease payment.

But this latter provision also was the one issue that caused the five dissenting votes.

Previous bills addressing the issue have produced overwhelming opposition because they attempted to transfer residential water rights to the irrigation districts.

This latest bill, which will go to Gov. John Evans for his signature next week, would allow property owners to retain their water rights while allowing the irrigation districts to lease the water for a period of time determined by mutual agreement.

"This doesn't take anyone's water right away," Stucki said. "A subdivision resident can get his water right back anytime he wants after the lease agreement runs out."

State DUI convictions only about 40 percent

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Police reported Friday that only about 40 percent of the 11,000 motorists who were arrested for drunken driving on the state's highways last year were convicted of the charge.

Police Superintendent Calvin Bernard said convictions were obtained against 4,600 drunken-driving suspects in 1982.

"This means that for reasons of withheld judgment, delayed trials and other circumstances, the fact a driver may have had a previous DUI (driving under the influence) arrest does not appear on his or her driving record in more than half the cases," he said.

Bernard also said the National Traffic Safety Administration estimates that only one of every 200 drunk drivers is ever caught.

"If this estimate holds true for Idaho, it's possible over 22 million instances of drunk driving occurred on Idaho highways in 1982 alone," the superintendent said.

Bernard's comments accompanied release Friday of statewide traffic-violation results for 1982.

The survey showed more than 80,000 traffic-related convictions were obtained last year—involving Idaho-licensed motorists — with 46,000 of those coming against drivers accused of causing traffic fatalities.

The second most frequent violation was for failing to obey stop and yield signs, Bernard said. He said almost 6,000 motorists were convicted on those charges last year.

Next came driving while intoxicated, followed closely by the 4,000 convictions for failing to obey traffic lights.

"It should be noted that these same five violations are also the ones that most often figure into accidents," Bernard said. "All too often the accident victim is the person who thinks they were 'getting away with something' by violating the law."

WPPSS clearing way for new bond projects

SEATTLE (UPI) — The executive board of the Washington Public Power Supply System Friday took steps to clear the way for new bond issues to finance the completion of projects 2 and 3.

The board adopted a motion, with members Howard Richman and Robert C. Olsen dissenting, to file with the Secretary of State at Olympia a consultant's evaluation finding projects 2 and 3 to be cost-effective.

The study is a requirement of Initiative 394 which, although held to be unconstitutional as it applies to WPPSS projects 1, 2 and 3, is still under litigation on an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The initiative requires approval by Washington state voters of major expenditures for power projects.

Richman and Olsen objected to filing the consultant's report on grounds they hadn't had an opportunity to read final additions to the document.

Carl Halverson, chairman of the executive board, has said he believes the supply system will have no difficulty selling bonds to borrow the $1 billion needed to complete project 2 at Hanford and project 3 at Satsop.

The Hanford project is about 95 percent complete and scheduled to begin producing power next year. Project 3 is about 70 percent complete.

The executive board also decided to prepare a letter to the work force of project 2, assuring the employees that funds to finish the job will be provided.

"I believe this is the kind of commitment that will hold that work force together," said Robert Ferguson, the system's managing director.

He complimented the board on recognizing a "human need" in light of news reports that have caused workers on the Hanford project to worry about the security of their jobs.

In another action, the board modified its order directing a four-day week to extend construction funds at project 3 through August.

Cornelius Duffee, chairman of the board's construction committee, said the modification will allow the project manager and contractor to use a combination of reduction in force and reduced work week to achieve the same 20 percent saving in a more efficient way than a straight across-the-board cutback.

Robert DeLorenzo, director of the termination program for projects 4 and 5, reported WPPSS can pay all its termination bills until about mid-May without any new revenues from the 88 participating utilities, which have not been paying billings from WPPSS because of litigation.

Previously, the system estimated it had funds to last only through March.

valid. That question has yet to come to trial.

Ron English, on the WPPSS staff of attorneys, said he is reasonably optimistic Coleman will lift the restraining order.

He would not predict whether utilities will voluntarily make their payments after the order is lifted. If not, he said, WPPSS has several remedies it can apply in its effort to collect the termination budget.

Rash of plane crashes plague world's airways

By United Press International

A Venezuelan airliner crashed and exploded Friday, killing at least 18 of the 50 people aboard, and a Japanese commuter plane landed short of a runway and split apart, injuring 31.

In the North Sea, 80 miles off Aberdeen, Scotland, 15 passengers and a crew of two were reported rescued unhurt in the "controlled ditching" of a twin-engine Sikorski helicopter, the Royal Air Force.

There was no report of foreigners aboard the Japan Short Distance Airways flight. It was not known whether any foreigners were on the Venezuelan plane.

The Venezuelan Avensa DC-9 on a domestic flight from Caracas burst into flames and blew apart as it touched down at 4:15 a.m. MST on the mist-shrouded runway of Barquisimeto airport, 226 miles east of the Venezuelan capital.

"The wing touched the ground, the plane broke in two and the fire began. Afterwards it was all screams and attempts to get out of the plane," one survivor said.

Dr. Lisandro Castillo, a coroner, said the death toll could rise since some of the injured were in serious condition with burns.

There were no official figures on the exact number of survivors or injured.

Pieces of the plane's fuselage and wings were blown hundreds of yards from the main body of the plane. The cause of the crash had not been established.

Survivors said turbulence rocked the plane as it was landing and at least one said he saw something explode in the left wing seconds before the plane crashed.

On Japan's northernmost island of Hokkaido, a VS-11 turboprop commuter plane with 38 passengers and a crew of six attempting a landing in light snow and poor visibility came into the Nakashibetsu airport 2,400 feet short of the runway, jack-knifed and broke into two parts.

Police said 31 people, including the crew, were injured. Two seriously, and were rushed to a hospital.

"The plane was trying to land for a second time," Kyodo News Service quoted passenger Toshiaki Matsui, 37, as saying. "Zoom, with a deafening sound, and I saw some passengers still strapped to their seats fly over my head."

The plane on a 1 a.m. EST flight from Sapporo's Okadama airport, mowed down shrubs for several thousand feet before coming to a halt with a 180-degree turn.

OPEC agreement threatened

LONDON (UPI) — OPEC mavericks Iran and Libya spearheaded an attack Friday on Saudi Arabia's oil production level, jeopardizing the cartel's "general understanding" on an oil price cut that could head off a global price war.

The new statement on the ninth day of talks raised grave doubts whether the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would reach a pricing and production accord to put a floor under crumbling world oil prices.

Officials in Mexico, an OPEC rival that had agreed to postpone an oil price rollback until OPEC acted, said it was considering reducing its prices this weekend.

In a mood of mounting acrimony, OPEC's 13 ministers jiggled in small groups over distributing production quotas that are essential to the cartel's reported compromise on lowering its base oil price by $5 a barrel to $29.

"Unfortunately, we are still far away from each other on production quotas and, until we know the gap, we will not meet in full session," said United Arab Emirates Oil Minister Mana Saeed Otaiba.

Spokesmen said Iran and Libya, backed by a majority of the 13 member nations, were demanding that Saudi Arabia — OPEC's major producer and pricing power — reduce its current output quota from 5.5 million barrels a day to the 4.5 or 4 million barrel level.

Venezuela also clashed with OPEC's Persian Gulf producers and asked that its quota be raised to 1.8 million barrels a day to help pay off international debts. The Arabs insisted Venezuela stick to its 1.6 million barrel-a-day share.

"The cake is so small that everyone is after Saudi Arabia to take less," a Persian Gulf source said.

American called a spy

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. diplomat Richard Osborne, facing expulsion on spy charges, Friday prepared to leave the Soviet Union with his family.

Spokesmen at the American embassy declined to comment on the family's travel plans, but sources at the Anglo-American School said the diplomat's wife Mary collected their two daughters' class records and said they would not be coming back to class.

"She looked distraught," a teacher said.

Osborne reportedly was nabbed March 7 with what the KGB described as a radio spy apparatus capable of transmitting information via U.S. satellites.

He also carried notes on special paper that dissolved quickly in water, according to an official statement printed by the government Izvestia newspaper.

The KGB statement said he had been declared persona non grata and the U.S. Embassy said that he had been ordered expelled.

Osborne was listed by the embassy as a first secretary in its economic section.

The State Department has refused any comment on the case and at a Washington news conference Friday morning, President Reagan said he knew no more of the matter than reporters.

Salvador wants aid

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — El Salvador's defense minister said Friday his army needs more U.S. military aid to get out of a "difficult situation" but he denied leftist guerrillas are winning the war.

"We need military aid because of the conditions of the war," Gen. Jose Guillermo Garcia told a news conference. "The guerrillas are daily receiving supplies from their base in Nicaragua."

Garcia echoed a theme President Reagan laid out Thursday in a major foreign policy statement in which he said El Salvador needs $110 million in military aid this year to combat insurgents — backed by Cuba, Nicaragua and the Soviets.

The winners of Miss America contests, with few exceptions, tend to gain weight right after they win the title.

WHO'S IN CHARGE?

In 28 out of 100 marriages, the wife is in charge of just about everything. Such were the findings in a recent study of 2,000 couples. In 35 out of 100, the husband runs the show. And in 37 out of 100, both are boss, which creates some occasional controversy, predictability. Our Love and War man has said this before: The wife should make all the little decisions, such as the wife about money, food, shelter. And the husband should make all the big decisions, such as those about the national deficit, nuclear weapons and tariffs on Japanese goods.

This is the proper way to eat a lamb chop, according to none other than that British statesman of yesteryear, Winston Churchill: "Seize it boldly in the hand and chew upon it."

In 18 out of 100 divorces, the husband has deserted before the wife even calls a lawyer.

Most suicides are arranged so that the person the victim wants to hurt finds the body.

Ernest Hemingway wanted to spy on Nazi sympathizers in Cuba during World War II, but J. Edgar Hoover didn't think much of the idea, according to a report Friday in The New York Times. The story says the University of Colorado English professor Jeffrey Meyers will contend in a forthcoming Hemingway biography that one letter by FBI director Hoover said, "Hemingway's judgement is not of the best, and if his sobriety is the same as it was some years ago, that is certainly...questionable." Meyers, currently at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, found the correspondence in "a previously unknown 124-page FBI file on Hemingway obtained in January under the Freedom of Information Act," The Times says.

Violin. And the one-time child prodigy, now 61, told the fashion trade newspaper Women's Wear Daily he has definite ideas about education (among other things). Menubin said students at his nondenominational school in Surrey, England, are encouraged to pray. That includes "a good thought... some singing" and "some silence, a very necessary thing... we have entirely too much noise, even too much music, rammed down our ears."

Folks at NBC sure hope Saturday night's airing of "Dill'rent Strokes" — the episode Nancy Reagan taped Thursday — will help the network and the show, which is languishing out of TV's top-40. "She was a little nervous but she loved working with the kids," one crewman said of the first lady's TV sitcom debut. "In the script, she shakes hands with four or five of the children in a classroom. Instead of that, she asked if she could hug them and she hugged four or five during the show. Then after the taping she hugged all the others off camera at their request." Mrs. Reagan's last professional acting stint was in the 1957 movie "Hellcats of the Navy," starring Ronald Reagan.

Linda Evans says in the April issue of McCall's that it wasn't easy losing her husband of 10 years, John Derek.

to the younger Bo Derek (known then as Cathy Collins). But thanks for the memories. "It was the most wonderful life I can imagine any woman having," Miss Evans says. "He was constantly pushing me to improve. That's what he's doing now with Bo. John is a true artist, in every sense of the word. He cares more about beauty than anyone I have ever known — and he taught me how to see beauty in life."

Maybe because that famed acting couple, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, made their Broadway debut together in 1934, in Ferenc Molnar's "The Guardsman," other acting couples have toyed with the idea of resurrecting the romantic comedy. Richard Benjamin and Paul Prentiss, for instance. Now the husband and wife team of Laurence Luckinbill and Lucie Arnaz plan to bring "The Guardsman," written in 1911, back to Broadway next fall, assuming tryouts due to begin next month in Little Rock, Ark., go well.

Parents win standoff

QUAKERTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Darren and Darryl Stevens, 12-year-old identical twins, always had made beds, washed dishes and chopped firewood around their Bucks County home.

But when they learned their classmates were getting paid an allowance for doing the same chores, they decided to begin negotiations with their parents.

"My wife said I said, 'We certainly wouldn't want to stop you from living with a family that can give you that,'" said Victor Stevens, a sixth-grade teacher.

To resolve the problem, the parents agreed to pay the Quakertown Free Press all week, offering "two young males, age 12, interested in relocating with family who will feed, clothe and entertain, as well as pay extra money for chores performed. Family must have lots of money."

The Stevens received more than a dozen calls from people who read the ad, but neither Darren nor Darryl would answer the phone. Their father said they acted as if they were very sick.

He said the twins never did receive their allowance, but when he arrived home from work the other day he saw the firewood for the stove had been neatly chopped and stacked.

Teacher to contest food fight charges

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla. (UPI) — A woman who threw a tray of turkey and mashed potatoes in the face of a grade school principal is vowing to haul scores of pupils and teachers into court if prosecutors press criminal charges, her lawyer says.

Olga Sullivan, 42, was arrested last December after she got into an altercation with Sunset Hills Elementary School Principal Ralph Mays in the school's cafeteria.

Mrs. Sullivan and Mays got into a heated argument after he told the woman's daughter she would have to eat her lunch in the library as punishment for violent behavior in the cafeteria.

Chapman lawyer Mrs. Sullivan and Mays got into a tug-of-war with the girl's lunch tray. Officers said the woman grabbed the tray away from Mays and hit him in the face, covering the principal with turkey and mashed potatoes.

Mays suffered a cut nose. Mrs. Sullivan was treated at a city hospital for a bruised finger and then booked in the Pinellas County Jail. She was released several hours later after posting $50 bond.

She was later charged with battery, disorderly conduct, disturbing a school function and trespassing. The trespass charge was dropped earlier this week.

Tennessee Williams wills estate to college

Knoxville, Tenn. (UPI) — Playwright Tennessee Williams left most of his $10-million estate to a Tennessee college with the proviso the funds be used to help creative writers, but Williams' brother says he will contest the will on grounds Williams was mentally impaired.

The document, filed Thursday, gives most of the estate to the University of the South at Seawanee, Tenn., and also allocates money for the care of Williams' sister, Rose, who lives at a sanitarium in Ossining, N.Y. She had a lobotomy at the age of 24.

Williams left his brother, Dakin, a Collinsville, Ill., attorney, $25,000, to be awarded only after their sister's death.

Dakin said he would contest his brother, who died two weeks ago in New York, was not in full control of his faculties when he wrote the will in September 1980 and revised it slightly last December.

He said his brother had planned to leave him the entire estate but changed his mind after he had the playwright committed to a drug and alcohol rehabilitation center for three months.

"He was near death and I saved him. I maintain that I feel he was mentally impaired when he decided to cut me out," Dakin said.

The will said the money for the college should be used to establish the Walter E. Dakin Memorial fund, in memory of Williams' grandfather, who attended the school in the late 19th century.

It provides the money "shall be for the purposes of encouraging creative writing and creative writers in need of financial assistance to pursue their vocation whose work is progressive, original and preferably of an experimental nature."

University President Robert Ayres said, "It's really beautiful. He was apparently touched by this place."

The Southeast Bank of Miami was placed in charge of the finances of Rose Williams, 73.

The will said the bank should assure that her medical expenses were covered along with "clothing and her usual customary pleasures as she now enjoys" including shopping trips to New York City, personal spending money, if being my intention that trustees shall provide liberally for her, not only for her needs but also for her comforts and pleasures."

Buford Pusser home open

ADAMSVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The home of Buford Pusser, the legendary Sheriff of McNairy County who was the subject of the movie "Walking Tall," will be opened to the public this weekend for the first time.

Dwana Pusser Alexander, the daughter of the late sheriff, will open the family home Saturday. Visitors can see Pusser's private den, some of his belongings and a commemorative replica of the pistol he used to enforce the law.

"This will be the first and only time that I can see that it will be open," Mrs. Alexander said Friday.

Zoning board OKs alcohol-producing plant

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — County zoning officials have voted in favor of plans to place an alcohol-producing plant near Hansen.

The 12-million-gallon plant would be located east of the Hansen city limits, between the Union Pacific Railroad tracks and Overland Avenue.

The Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission voted 9-1 Thursday night in favor of a plan to rezone 45 acres of land from agricultural to industrial-use status.

That vote came in the form of a recommendation to the county commissioners, who will conduct their own public hearing on the matter and make a final decision.

The zoning board's vote followed considerable criticism of the project by residents of the area, who contended the plant will affect property values adversely and that it may produce obnoxious odors.

Zoning board members attempted to address that concern by requiring project backers to provide a "buffer" zone on the west end of the property. That buffer would be designed to insulate residential properties from the plant itself. The developers of the project must reach an agreement with county zoning administrators concerning the scope of the buffer zone.

Few details emerged Thursday concerning the proposed plant's operation. Spokesman Art Rathburn of Twin Falls, who represented property owner Marion Tanner and the organization planning to build the plant, Western Resources Recovery, indicated specific plans would not be drawn up until zoning requirements have been met.

Rathburn said the project will use surplus crops from the Magic Valley to produce pharmaceutical-grade alcohol. He said the project would be bonded for 15 years under a "take-or-pay" provision, which would ensure the sale of the plant's ethanol.

"This is the most solid project I've worked on as a resource manager," Rathburn said. "Any plant can shut down. This plant has a chance of running longer than any other in the Magic Valley because it's bonded for 15 years."

Rathburn also produced statements from Hansen-area officials who indicated they had no opposition to the project. But Hansen City Council members qualified their statement by asking that a portion of the property continue to be zoned for agricultural use, as a way to ensure a buffer zone in the area.

Hansen school board members indicated that the district could accommodate the children of the families employed by the plant. Rathburn said the plant would employ about 33 persons.

But nearby residents remained unconvinced.

"I don't want to live next to a plant," said Norma Coates of Hansen, who claimed that the project would lower property values.

Ed Powell of Hansen added that placement of an industrial plant at the proposed location might choke off future residential development in the area.

"I would not vote to place a chemical plant on the east side of your residence," Powell told zoning board members.

In other matters, the zoning board approved by voice vote: * Lyle Abel's request to rezone approximately two acres just west of Flier for commercial development. The area presently is zoned for commercial development. The zoning board's vote takes the form of a recommendation to the county commissioners, who will make the final decision.

* A request from Joseph Quessell to divide seven acres from a 160-acre parcel, located two miles northwest of Buhl, off Melon Valley Road. Quessell plans to sell the smaller parcel for residential development.

Planning commission gets somewhat confused on voting

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A second public hearing on a request to develop a two-acre parcel of agricultural land for residential use did not change the outcome.

But it did produce a few comical moments, when Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission members accidentally voted exactly the opposite of their intentions.

The vote Thursday night concerned a request to divide two acres from a 20-acre parcel, located north of Hansen near Fort Harney. L. Gordon Carter of Twin Falls requested the division.

The mixup occurred when zoning board members became confused over the language of the motion, which proposed denying Carter's request. Nine of the 10 zoning board members voted against the motion, with most of the members believing that they were denying Carter's request.

But that was not the case. Amid several outbreaks of giggles, members of the audience, including Carter himself, attempted to explain the procedural irregularity to the zoning board.

"If you want to deny me, vote 'yes,'" Carter said. "If you don't want to deny me, vote 'no.'"

The deputy county prosecutor, Dennis

Voorhees, who had stepped out of the meeting during the vote, came to the rescue with his opinion that the zoning board was free to change its mind.

"Go ahead and ask for another polling, and if the votes change, the votes change," Voorhees said.

Following a final explanation from the zoning board chairman, Robert Pellygrove of Hansen, that a "yes" vote will support the motion to deny the request, the zoning board voted — again by a margin of 9-1 — this time to deny the request.

The confusion was ironic because the county commission had asked for a second hearing, citing the inexperience of zoning board members at the time of the first vote on Jan. 13.

Many of the zoning board members assumed office in mid-January, after several of the panel's members either resigned or were not reappointed to new terms by the three-member county commission.

Zoning board members had denied the request on Jan. 13, following complaints about the proposal from residents who live near the parcel.

Carter appealed the decision to the county commission, and that board sent the issue back to the zoning board for a second look.

Thursday night, the residents repeated their views that the request would lead to residential encroachment on an agricultural area.

"When you get people living there and farming there, you've got conflicts," said Walt Sinclair, whose family owns an 80-acre farm in the area.

But Carter contended that the parcel could not be farmed profitably, and that the parcel is an eyesore.

"We have had various complaints from the county weed bureau on the weeds we have on the property," he said.

Addressing concerns raised about plans to place a mobile home on the parcel, Carter said no such plans had been made.

Tisdale in jail after 3 years

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Charles Patrick Tisdale spent his first night behind bars Friday since he was sentenced nearly three years ago for the 1979 shooting death of a Boise man.

In an extensive ruling Friday, Judge Theron Ward re-imposed a 10-year prison term against the 35-year-old Salt Lake City man. Ward said the defense had demonstrated no overwhelming factors in support of probation.

At the same time, the evidence indicated that Tisdale might present a threat to society if he was allowed to go free, Ward said, citing one psychological evaluation of the defendant that likened Tisdale to a truck "loaded with nitroglycerin."

Ward also said he was concerned that a lesser sentence would diminish the seriousness of the crime.

"If he gets a pat on the wrist, then this crime, which was reduced to voluntary manslaughter (by a plea-bargaining agreement), becomes just that — a pat on the wrist," the judge said.

Ward's original April 19, 1980, sentence was struck down in December by the Idaho Court of Appeals. The appeals court found that Ward had failed to give adequate reasons for the original sentence.

Following that December decision, defense lawyers and prosecutors produced two days of testimony and arguments, in what at times resembled a full-blown trial, rather than a sentencing hearing.

Ward recessed the first session last Friday, when it appeared that the hearing would not conclude until late at night.

Ward's decision sets a maximum prison term of 10 years. Idaho parole board officials may release Tisdale after the defendant serves a third of the sentence.

Tisdale, who had remained free until Friday's ruling, on a $10,000 appeals bond, had pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 18, 1979, shooting death of David William Nylander of Boise. At one point, Tisdale had been charged with first-degree murder

Charles Tisdale, right, talks with his lawyer, James May, before sentencing Friday afternoon before prosecutors agreed to the plea-bargain deal. The shooting occurred when Tisdale found his ex-wife, Kathy Tisdale, now of Salt Lake City, sitting in the victim's vehicle, which was parked in the Tisdale driveway in Twin Falls. Tisdale, who had said that he was concerned for his wife's welfare, drew a gun and shot Nylander in the neck. The victim was pronounced dead at the scene. Friday, Ward rejected claims by the defense that the shooting occurred when the victim attempted to move toward Tisdale. The circumstances of the shooting were a major point of debate between the lawyers involved in the case. *See TISDALE on Page B3

Two more men arrested in connection with cocaine bust

By KELLY EVERITT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two additional men, both from Blaine County, have been arrested in connection with a recent seizure of cocaine, reportedly the largest amount confiscated in the state's history.

Steve Price, whose address is listed as Halley, turned himself in to federal authorities at the U.S. attorney's office in Boise on Friday, and Jack Bell of Ketchum was arrested at Los Angeles International Airport, according to Agent George Sinclair of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Boise office.

Bell has been charged with the distribution of a controlled substance, cocaine, and conspiracy to distribute cocaine.

He was arraigned in a magistrate court in Los Angeles shortly after his arrest, and was being held by authorities there, pending his return to face charges in Idaho.

Price has been charged with conspiracy to deliver a controlled substance, cocaine. He was released late Friday from the Ada County Jail. The amount of bond, if any, could not be determined Friday night.

The arrests bring to 12 the number of people arrested in connection with a case that began with the arrest of Richard Mason of Sun Valley and his brother-in-law, Kirt Holobough of South Lake Tahoe, last month.

The men allegedly attempted to sell nearly seven pounds of relatively pure cocaine to undercover narcotics agents at a motel in Boise. They have been charged with distribution and conspiracy to distribute cocaine. Mason remains in jail in lieu of $250,000 bond.

A grand jury in Boise indicted the two men Wednesday, as well as at least 10 other persons — those arrested so far in the case.

U.S. Attorney Guy Hurlburt said more arrests are likely as the probe continues.

Most of the suspects have been released on bond, in addition to Mason, three others remain in custody at the Ada County Jail. They are: David Imbler and his wife, Barbara, of Kimberly, and Joseph Shelton of Route 1, Kimberly. Mrs. Imbler is being held in lieu of $20,000 bond. Her husband and Shelton are each being held on $100,000 bond.

Hurlburt said the 12 persons charged so far represent the largest number of defendants in a drug-related case in Idaho since 1979, when 22 persons were charged in a conspiracy to violate federal drug laws.

Eight of the suspects were arrested Thursday in coordinated dawn raids in Boise and Twin Falls — by local police, federal authorities and state narcotics agents.

In addition to the Imblers and Shelton, those people included: Dan Mooney of Ketchum, Mike Powers of Sausalito, Calif., Jacquelyn Mason of Ketchum, John Henderson of Boise and Jack Kester of Boise. All have been charged with conspiracy to deliver a controlled substance, cocaine. Kester also has been charged with distribution of the illegal drug. All have been arraigned and released on bond.

As spring approaches, can the 'cruisers' be far behind

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — As spring approaches, so does the season for "cruising" in Twin Falls.

To many Magic Valley teenagers and to adults struggling to remain young at heart, cruising is as natural as rock music and "falling in love."

But it is not a subject that brings equal pleasure to the hearts of some downtown businessmen.

To them, cruising is a nuisance to be tolerated in its benign forms. And it is a threat to be protested when it crosses the indefinite boundary of unpleasantness.

Cruising is the generations-old social ritual that has been adopted by the automobile-dependent youth of southern Idaho. With no other generally attractive points for social congregation, the streets of Twin Falls have become a stage on which to see and be seen. Cruising is where you can often be dull Friday and Saturday the innocent among the cruisers, and in negotiations with representatives of the cruisers, it established the present downtown loop as the "official" route for their activities.

The city now prohibits open beer containers in vehicles, glass bottles in city parking lots and loitering in public parking lots from 1 to 6 a.m.

But if the concern voiced at recent City Council and business improvement district meetings is any indication, the new laws have not solved the problem.

Downtown businessmen claim the cruisers still are causing a circus-like atmosphere in the parking lots behind the Twin Falls Bank and Trust building on Friday and Saturday nights.

And the following mornings, the businessmen claim, trash and broken glass are strewn liberally throughout the area.

The cruisers are troublesome, particularly to businessmen such as Bill Simpson, the owner of the Imperial 400 Motel, off Second Avenue South.

"They are getting out of hand again," he says. "People won't even attempt to stop here."

He says the cruisers have broken through his fence and damaged his lawn sprinkler system.

And they make it difficult for guests at his motel who have to sleep. Greyhound bus drivers stay at his motel, and they must be in and out at all hours of the night, he says.

Bob Barlock, the nearby Travelodge Motel, has the same problem. "There is no doubt they hurt my business — last year," he says. "Guests find the noise and the speeding on nearby streets offensive."

The open city parking lots are "an attractive nuisance," he claims. He believes the city should close them down before someone gets hurt.

Cruisers also affect downtown retailers. Bob Parratt, the manager of the J.C. Penney store, says the cruisers are "intimidating" to shoppers, and the bottles and other trash they leave make the downtown unattractive even after they are gone.

At a recent business improvement district meeting, he proposed that the city chain off its lots after a certain hour on weekends, and force the cruisers to go elsewhere.

Even though most of the cruisers are obeying the laws, he says, "The usual small percent are making it bad for the rest."

Chuck Stuart, of the neighboring Idaho Department Store, agrees with Parratt that only a few troublemakers may be causing the problem. But, he says, the situation at times is "just a disgrace," and the trash that is left behind on Saturday and Sunday morning is "degrading."

"I just hope that, down the road, we don't have some really serious vandalism," he says.

The problem will get worse this summer if the city does not act on it now, he believes. City Council member Emery Peterson, who also owns a store near the cruising route, believes it is not in the best interests of the city to have its parking lots used as recreation sites. *See CRUISERS on Page B3

Truck damages costly

BURLEY — An estimated $15,000 in damage resulted from a truck accident early Friday morning near the Idaho interchange of 184, south of the Colter port of entry.

According to the Idaho State Police, the driver, Philip Edward Carter, 31, of Greenville, Va., was injured slightly about 3:27 a.m., when he apparently fell asleep while southbound on the highway. He was hauling potatoes to a Del Monte processing plant in Crozet, Va.

The truck went off the east side of the road, according to the ISP officer, and came to rest on its side, in the median.

Carter was treated and released at Cassia Memorial Hospital in Burley. A passenger, Randy Swartz, of Lynchburg, Va., escaped injury.

No citations were issued.

Shoshone woman arraigned

SHOSHONE — A 40-year-old Shoshone woman was arraigned in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Jerome on Friday after she allegedly stabbed her husband during a fight.

Marsha Rae Wolvorton was arraigned before magistrate Judge Roger Burdick on a charge of aggravated battery. She remained in custody late Friday afternoon, pending the posting of bond.

The incident occurred Thursday night in Lincoln County. The victim, Dee Wolvorton, 48, was treated by a physician in Shoshone and released. He reportedly suffered cuts of the face and back.

A prepared release from the Lincoln County sheriff's office said that county and city officers investigated the incident and took Mrs. Wolvorton into custody. No other details about the incident were available.

"The public defender has been appointed to represent Mrs. Wolvorton. Burdick set March 21 as the date for a preliminary hearing. He also reduced the original $25,000 bond to $2,500.

Cash taken from home

TWIN FALLS — The theft of $480 in cash from a Twin Falls home is under investigation by police.

John and Annie Lara, of 219 Alta Vista Drive, told police that someone entered their home through an unlocked garage door and then went into a bedroom, where the money was found. Nothing else was disturbed.

The theft is believed to have occurred between 8 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. last Sunday, March 6. But it was not discovered or reported until Friday.

Twin Falls man on probation

TWIN FALLS, A 19-year-old Twin Falls man, convicted of two recent automobile burglaries, was placed on a two-year probation Friday.

Joseph Allen Taylor pleaded guilty to two Oct. 4, 1982, automobile burglaries. Each crime carried a maximum sentence of 15 years in prison.

Judge Theron Ward, of the Fifth District Court in Twin Falls, accepted defense lawyer Mike Powers' request for probation, citing Taylor's plan to work and attend school in Kingman, Ariz.

Ward also took into account the defendant's lack of a prior criminal record.

Dealers face charges

ELKO — Four former blackjack dealers at Cactus Pete's casino in Jackpot have been bound over to Nevada district court in Elko, to stand charges that they cheated at the game last summer in order to increase their tips.

John Savage of Twin Falls, and John Healey, Marvin Cox and Gary Saitas, all of Jackpot, had their preliminary hearings in a justice court in Elko earlier this week.

The court found there was enough evidence to charge Savage, Healey and Cox with one count of cheating at a gambling game, and to charge Saitas with three counts of the same offense.

Similar charges were dropped against Teddy Flint of Hollister on the basis of insufficient evidence.

Earlier in the month the court determined there was enough evidence to charge another dealer, Dennis Dunlap of Twin Falls, with three counts of the offense.

The cases resulted from an undercover investigation carried out by agents of the Nevada Gaming Control Board last summer.

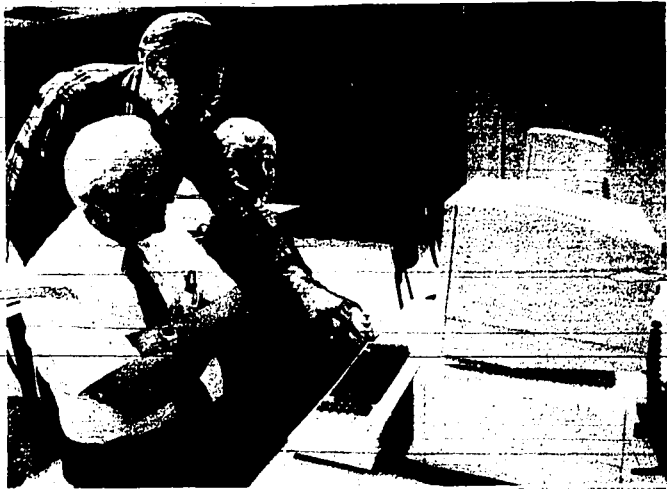

Cheating at a gambling game is a felony in Nevada. As such, it carries a maximum 10-year prison term.

Open house honors couple

GLENN FERRY — Mr. and Mrs. Everett Coon of Boise will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house from 2 to 4 p.m. today at the Cloverdale Church of God, at 3755 S. Cloverdale Road in Boise.

Everett and Inez Coon were married March 15, 1933, in Glenn Ferry. Coon worked for the Union Pacific Railroad for 47 years. The couple moved to Boise in 1962.

The event will be hosted by their son, Donald Coon, and their daughter, Mrs. James Williams. They have seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

College gets new computers

TWIN FALLS — Nineteen new computers have been added at the College of Southern Idaho's small computer laboratory to accommodate the large number of persons wanting to take short courses in computer use.

Additional small computer classes are being offered this spring at CSI.

Instructor Dave Makings says that a Wednesday night class will begin March 30; a Saturday morning class will begin April 2; a Tuesday afternoon class will begin March 29; a Friday afternoon session will begin April 1; another Tuesday afternoon session will begin May 3; a Tuesday evening class will start May 3; and a Thursday afternoon session will begin May 5.

Each session will last five weeks and each class will last for three hours. The cost is $30, and each class will be limited to 20 students.

For more information, call Makings at 733-9554, extension 312.

Vehicle registration fee imposed

TWIN FALLS — Citing rising operating costs, Twin Falls County Assessor Dorothy Hamby has imposed a mandatory 50-cent fee on vehicle registration notices.

Those notices are mailed to county residents — as a reminder — that the registration on their vehicles is about to expire.

Residents have the option of registering their vehicles by returning payment to the county through the mail or by paying in person at the assessor's office. In the past, those persons who used the mail were charged a 75-cent fee.

But the cost of providing the service has outstripped the revenues raised by that fee, Hamby says.

"In order to preserve the service, we've had to impose the mandatory fee," Hamby says.

The 50-cent fee will be charged to all persons who register vehicles in the county, effective Monday.

Hamby says she hopes the mandatory fee will encourage more people to obtain their registrations through the mall. Hamby estimates that 25 percent to 30 percent of the vehicle owners in Twin Falls County use the service.

"It's a worthwhile service. A majority of the people want the service because it is a convenience. It's less time-consuming than standing in line," she says. "It saves a lot of time for us because it takes much longer to wait on them in person and it saves time for them because they don't have to stand in line for 10 to 15 minutes when we're extra busy."

Tisdale

"There was no fight. There was no argument. Mr. Nylander didn't know what happened. The one wrong thing that Mr. Nylander did — was to do it." Ward said, in issuing his decision. "I can't find anything but a deliberate, cold-blooded act of homicide, and then he (Tisdale) took the gun and hid it."

As he had done at last Friday's hearing, Ward cited a statement attributed to Tisdale shortly after the shooting in which he reportedly said, "I did it. He was assaulting my wife, so I blew the son-of-a-bitch away."

That statement established a lack of remorse on Tisdale's part, Ward said. But Ward also rejected the prosecution's request for a fixed-term, 10-year prison sentence, which would have left the defendant with virtually no hope of parole. At one point, deputy prosecutor Dennis Voorhes said his predecessor's decision to accept a plea bargain in the case was a mistake.

"The court is in an awkward position because we have to cram into a pigeon-hole of manslaughter what is, at best, a second-degree murder and, at worst, a first-degree murder," Voorhes said.

"I don't think the Twin Falls prosecutor's office can be proud of this case. I think it was a miscarriage of justice," he said.

Tisdale." May said, adding that his client was remorseful of the incident.

"What do you do? Do you take a bed of nails. Do you fall yourself? What do you do to go on living?"

Ward concluded that he was bound by the plea-bargain arrangement.

"Mr. Voorhes has properly said it was probably poor judgment on the part of the prosecutor's office, and Mr. Tisdale can't be charged with poor judgment on the part of the prosecutors' office," the judge said.

May said the case will be appealed. "Obviously, we're going to appeal it. We don't agree with the statements that were made by the prosecutor and the interpretations made by the judge," May said.

Terms such as cold-blooded and murder are "totally inconsistent with what he pleaded guilty to," May said.

Ward said that he would not issue an appeals bond. A new state law, implemented in 1980, provides that no such bond can be issued in any case involving a prison sentence of more than five years.

"I think the biggest relief now is Dave can rest," she said. "The judge said there was no reason for him to have been shot, and I think now he can rest. I'm just damn glad it's over."

Arts' rape of women program was overkill

By WILLETTA WARBERG
Times-News arts critic

TWIN FALLS — Anyone with some formal education and access to a good library can put together a slide show of women who have been "raped" in the visual arts.

And supposedly, the violation has been executed, primarily, by American male artists since the time the Pilgrims landed.

Thursday, in a small room at the Twin Falls County Courthouse, the assistant dean of students from the University of Idaho, Corlann Gee Bush, made such a presentation.

The program was sponsored by the Magic Valley chapter of the National Organization for Women, through a grant from the Association of Humanities in Idaho.

But this presentation was overkill. Bush's idea that American artists have reflected — and displayed — aggressiveness toward the American women since the early 19th century seemed far in excess of what might have happened, or could have been intended.

Bush's theme — which was not backed by a complete look at the artists, their lives and influences, or the country's political and economic climate at the time — was not convincing. The slide show appeared to be, on the most part, dubious allegations.

It's a pity that one presentation such as this might cause women to try and put guilt on men for generally painting women with love and adoration, and occasionally idealizing them in fantasy situations.

Bush screened and discussed the work of many artists, some of them better known than others. John Nagel, Winslow Homer, John Singer Sargent, Mary Cassatt, Thomas Hart Benton, Grant Wood, Edward Hopper, John Koch, Charles Russell, Thomas Eakins, Alexander Hogue and William Rush were represented. Perhaps Bush should do some more research on art in general and the way women's position in the world has progressed over the last four centuries. Then, she could put together a slide show that would depict how women are becoming stronger on their own terms, how they have been able to live in harmony with nature.

Women have more streamlined tools with which to work; it's easier to bear children; and because of the varied and different roles women play, they can more or less do what they want.

During Thursday's show, Bush kept referring to Hogue's "Mother Earth." It was painted in the early 1930s, during the Depression. For hundreds of years, the term "mother earth" has been analogous with fruit-bearing soil. It seems, therefore, justified in this painting to depict rolling hills in the shape of a woman's body and to show an idle plow in front of the barren ground. The artist was not necessarily displaying aggressiveness toward women.

There does not seem, to this reviewer, er, much difference between Hogue's attitude to the depressed land and the Renaissance paintings of Christ with swords in his groin.

Bush often referred to male bonding, and she said that men considered women's work trivial. She said that men's "angel-in-the-house" or "virginal madonna" attitude toward women was tattooing them as not equal to men.

Sure, if one looks thoroughly and uses psychoanalytical measures, one can find some cocaine in art, a few pervers here and there. Or, as with Shakespeare, one can find brilliant uses of words that refer to sexual symbols.

Many artists depict sexual symbols quite openly in their art, but the well-knowns, such as Miro and Picasso, did not differentiate between the male or the female shapes. They reversed both.

Does a Hopper painting of a woman sitting alone at night in an automat in New York City represent the oppression of women? The woman is fully dressed and passive over a cup of coffee. Hopper is recognized as a rational painter, and his forte was playing with sharp contrasts of light and shadow. This is an incredible painting of loneliness in a big city. There are no lurking men, or women, in the background.

Or, is John Koch's painting "The Bridge" directed against women, or does it display his hidden feelings about women? The girl on the bed, as Bush referred to the female in the foreground, is not a child, but Koch's adoring and adored wife. And the person in the background is Koch's servant, who is preparing the meal in order to give his working wife a chance to languish in bed.

To turn the question around, has Bush researched the paintings of men through history? What would she say about the Christ figures and the castration complexes portrayed throughout history?

In my mind, neither Sargent's nor Whistler's paintings of beautiful women during their times are "sick."

The last picture in the screening was Phil Evergood's "Stripping Girl," painted in 1954. Bush used this as an example of a painting that shows women as they should be portrayed. Maybe Bush likes the sea and fishing. But what makes fishing any less difficult than being a teacher, cook, mother, farm wife or welder in a war-time factory?

It's evident that in the past, everything had to be painted. Photography was not available for documentation. And it seems that throughout history, the working roles always were switched when it was necessary.

Zoning board says no to special-use permit

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission voted unanimously earlier this week to recommend that City Council deny a request by Danny D. Edwards to divide his property near the airport.

Edwards wanted the change so he could place a mobile home to his property. The mobile home would have served as a temporary residence for his father, he said.

In applying for the change, Edwards noted that some cities give special consideration to elderly citizens who wish to live near their children.

He proposed that the mobile home be allowed under a special-use permit.

But the Planning and Zoning Commission determined that to allow one change in the ordinance might open the door to general residential encroachment on the land around the airport.

The long-range planning goals of the city, embodied in the Twin Falls zoning ordinances, call for maintaining one residence per 20 acres in areas adjacent to the airport, members said.

The splitting of Edwards' lot would create two five-acre parcels.

Ultimately, the matter must be decided by City Council, which the planning commission serves as an advisory board.

Basketball, volleyball axed

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

BLISS — In an effort to save money, several basketball and volleyball games have been cut from next year's Bliss athletic schedule.

At the school board meeting earlier this week, a limit was put on the number of games that can be scheduled in each sport.

According to Superintendent T.R. Flores, the new limit will reduce the number of basketball and volleyball games played by about 10 percent. For example, he said, the boys varsity teams will play two games less next year.

The reduced schedule was suggested by the athletic director, Jerry Couch, who was asked last month to recommend where cuts could be made in the athletic budget.

"They (board members) know that we're going to have to make budgeting cuts in a number of different areas," Flores said. "They didn't feel that athletics should be immune from those cuts."

The board will decide what to cut from other areas of the budget in April and May, Flores said, explaining that the amount of those cuts will depend on what action the Legislature takes to fund the public schools for next year.

Flores said that the board will begin work on the 1983-84 school budget on March 22.

In other business at the meeting: • Flores said that members of the Future Farmers of America have staked out an area west of the gymnasium in which to plant about 20 fruit trees this spring. The trees will be productive, as well as ornamental, he said.

• Parent-teacher conferences will be held Friday, March 25. There will be no school for kindergarten through sixth-grade students on that day. Spring vacation will be held March 26 through April 1.

Gooding to take bids

GOODING — A new garbage truck and street sweeper are being considered by the city of Gooding.

At this week's City Council meeting, engineer Orlin Clements was instructed to take bids on the two pieces of equipment.

The bids will be opened on April 4 and Mayor Gene Heller said the successful bidder will have 45 days to deliver the vehicles.

In other business: • Clements presented a final report on the reconditioning of a city water pump. The project, which brought the well back into service, is complete, and the payment of $10,000 to the contractor, Layne Pumps of Twin Falls, was authorized.

• A flat-rate sprinkler irrigation fee of $6.50 per 6,000 gallons of water was approved.

The rate, which will be effective April 1, is the same as last year. Heller said that water used in excess of 6,000 gallons will be charged on a pro-rated basis.

In difficult times, Carter used prayer

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI religion writer

Jimmy Carter was one of the most outspokenly committed Christians to occupy the White House — a commitment that made the relationship of his faith to his politics one of the most controversial aspects of his presidency.

In the current issue of the evangelical magazine Christianity Today, Carter, in an interview, reflects for one of the first times on that connection and talks about his public and private efforts at witnessing his faith to some of the world's leaders.

In addition to his well-publicized Christian witnessing to former Korean dictator Park Chung Hee and the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, Carter also spoke of his faith to former Polish leader Edward Giersek and Chinese Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping.

JIMMY CARTER
Relied on his faith

He said that when he met Giersek, "I talked to him about the Christian faith, and witnessed to him in a quiet way."

MENACHEM BEGIN
Carter alienated his claim

"But he said he would do what he could about modifying the Chinese constitution to permit religious freedom and try to investigate the impediments to Bible distribution," Carter said.

was reserved for Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

He also criticized Begin "because he looks on the Jews as special people, yet sees the Palestinians as subhuman."

As president, he said, "he wanted 'the life of an average Christian.' 'I didn't want anything special. I didn't want to visit all the churches in Washington one Sunday after the other, always to be a visitor,' he said."

Around The World

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time in its history, the Protestant and Orthodox National Council of Churches has named a Roman Catholic to head one of its most important offices — the Faith and Order Commission.

The 32-member council's executive committee named Jeffrey C. Groa, assistant general secretary for Faith and Order, in the post. Groa will oversee the council's study of theological and ecclesiological issues of concern to member communions, as well as to other churches, such as the Southern Baptist Convention and Roman Catholic Church, which participate in the commission.

"I'm excited about the openness of the National Council to the Roman Catholic community at this time," Groa said following his appointment.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rabbi Alexander M. Schindler, the president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, has urged President Reagan to order an official inquiry to investigate U.S. government links with the "infamous Nazi war machine."

Schindler said he has written various administration officials, including Reagan, a number of times over the past year about allegations of U.S. cooperation with Nazis, but the administration has not responded.

ATLANTA (UPI) — When delegates of five different Methodist denominations met next year, they were asked to consider formation of a "Commission on Pan-Methodist Cooperation" to develop a united Christian witness "among the people called Methodists to a fragmented world."

The five churches that will be asked to cooperate are the African Methodist Episcopal, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion, the Christian Methodist Episcopal, the Free Methodist and the United Methodist.

Church officials say the commission will develop ways to create a common witness in such areas as higher education, national and world mission outreach, social witness and evangelism.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three U.S. Roman Catholic archbishops, finishing an official hierarchy-to-hierarchy visit to violence-torn Central America, have urged immediate action to aid homeless refugees.

In particular, they cited the refugee problem in El Salvador, where many Salvadorans are ineligible for United Nations assistance because they still live within their own country, although far from their destroyed homes.

Stocks skid on uncertainties

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices skidded Friday.

It was a sluggish day of trading marked by uncertainty over oil prices and interest rates.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 3.20 to 1,117.74. The Dow, an index of 30 blue-chip stocks, dropped 0.1 percent.

The New York Stock Exchange Index was down 0.36 to 87.29. The price of an average share lost 14 cents. Declines led advances 381-603 among the 1,951 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was down 0.56 at 151.24.

Big Board volume was 67,240,000, down from Thursday's 95,410,000.

Analysts said the decline was due to uncertainty over oil prices and interest rates, coupled with a lack of confidence over how strong the economic recovery will be.

"The market abhors uncertainty, and there's plenty of that right now," said John Groomer, senior vice president at U.S. Trust. He said "a number of influential and highly visible brokerage strategists are now suggesting profit-taking."

OPEC ministers would not agree on a meeting Friday without coming to an agreement on oil prices.

price cuts and production quotas. A number of investors are expected to have lost hope the 15-nation cartel can stabilize prices and avert an all-out oil price war.

Money supply levels were another area of concern. Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker frightened some investors this week by expressing displeasure over the growth in the money supply level.

"The market's been moving on the assumption the Fed won't respond to the money supply figures," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "Then Volcker made those statements, and the whole picture changed."

"The euphoria over a vigorous business recovery has given way to tempered optimism," said Michael Metz of Oppenheimer & Co. Retail figures showing sales were down in both January and February "were certainly a disappointment," he added.

The American Stock Exchange closed down 1.60 at 385.23. The price of an average share lost 7 cents. Declines led advances 357-258 among the 820 issues traded. Composite volume was 7,412,250, down from 10,193,600 Thursday.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all

U.S. exchanges and over-the-counter totaled 78,307,810, down from 111,410,640 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers NASDAQ index of over-the-counter prices was up 0.10 to 266.18, a new all-time high.

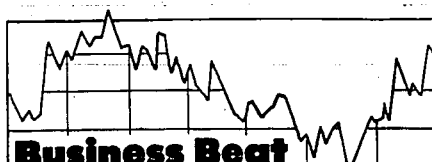

On the NYSE, American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active issue, down 1/4 at 66 1/2. The company offered an issue of 16 million common shares at $66.25 Thursday, the same day Moody's Investors Service downgraded its credit rating.

G.D. Searle & Co. was second, plummeting 6 to 37 1/4 after the firm announced it expected lower profits in the first half of the year, and Prudential Bache switched its recommendation on the stock from "buy" to "sell."

Natamex, an active issue all week, was third, up 1/4 to 15 1/2. The stock has been rising and falling as rumors of a possible takeover bid heat up, then cooled.

RCA dropped 3/4 to 23 1/2 after a block of 460,500 traded at 23. K mart, which announced higher profits this week, was up 1/4 to 30 1/2.

On the Amex, Imperial Chemical was the most active issue, up 1/4 to 6 1/2. Wang Laboratories class B was second, down 1/4 at 42 1/4. Dome Petroleum was third, unchanged at 31 1/4.

GM recalls small vehicles

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. said Friday it is recalling 491,000 Chevrolet Chevette and Pontiac T-1000 models — nearly half the models built from 1980-82 — to fix a carburetor problem that could lead to engine fires.

The automaker said it has had four reports of injuries, none of them fatal, and 120 reports of engine fires.

The Chevettets were built in 1980, 1981 and 1982 while the T-1000 models were built in 1981 and 1982. All are equipped with 1.6 liter engines.

GM said letters will be sent to owners of the cars asking them to bring them in to dealers. The cars will be fixed at no charge. The repair will take about 20 minutes.

Doll maker sues movie firm

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A company that has made more than 10 million E.T. dolls has filed an $80 million breach of contract suit against Universal Studios and MCA Inc.

Kamar International, of Torrance, Calif., charged that MCA and Universal violated their contract by licensing other companies to produce the dolls, based on the character in the movie, "E.T.," and by making impossible demands on the toy company.

The suit seeks $30 million in actual damages and $50 million in punitive damages.

Montana may order rate lid

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — State Public Service Commissioner John Driscoll says the Montana Power Co. might not be allowed to raise electric rates to pay for the two new Colstrip power plants.

The utility owns 30 percent of the $1.8-billion coal-fired project, which could translate into a doubling of rates, according to some estimates. But Driscoll says the company's stockholders should foot the bill, unless the company can prove power from the project would be "used and useful."

Nation's inventories piling up again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The inventory overload that was strangling the economy loosened its grip in January to the level of May of last year, the Commerce Department said Friday.

The report also showed stagnant retail sales were still obstructing the economy's windpipe, threatening to cause unsold goods to start backing up again in warehouses and distribution points around the country.

By the end of January the nation's retailers, manufacturers and wholesalers reported a 1.7 month supply on hand at the month's rate of sales, the smallest amount since the 1.46 stock-to-sales ratio in May, the department said.

The book value of the nation's inventories of unshipped goods dropped 0.6 percent in January, a $3.3 billion contraction to a total of $50 billion, after adjustment to show changes beyond seasonal routines, the department said.

The clearing of inventories appeared to be primarily helped by January's 1.8 percent increase in overall business sales.

Where sales climbed the most, for manufacturers and wholesalers, inventories dropped the most despite increases in production.

But retail sales for January went down 0.5 percent and retail inventories showed virtually no change from December.

Inventories are measured only with a considerable lag and February's changes will not be available until next month.

The stock-to-sales ratio widened in the auto industry to an accumulation of 1.63 months of supply on hand from December's 1.63.

Furniture, department store, food store and clothing store retail inventories also climbed but building supplies showed a shrinkage to 2.45 months' worth supply, down from December's 2.45 months.

Retail inventories dropped 0.02 percent to $126.47 billion from December's $126.49 billion.

Idaho PUC clears phone sales plan

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission has approved a plan allowing Mountain Bell Co. to sell its stock of telephones to its customers before the property is turned over to American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The PUC order, issued Thursday, would allow customers to continue to lease their phone or pay to purchase it from Mountain Bell. Charge for the standard rotary-dial model would be $15.53.

PUC attorney Jack McMahon said following the current practice of leasing a phone may not be the best choice because no one is sure how much AT&T will charge to lease or buy its equipment when it takes over Jan. 1, 1984.

"We don't know whether AT&T will continue to allow you to lease the phones," McMahon said. "We don't know what they will charge. We don't know whether they will be anxious to be in the repair business and if you try to buy it from them, we don't know what prices they will sell."

The PUC order reduced by $5 the amount the company wanted to charge for its older model phones, McMahon said.

Import Car of the Year, 1983
Sophistication and refinement carry the day
THE ALL NEW!
1983 MAZDA 626
JUDGED BEST OVERALL
IN THESE IMPORTANT CATEGORIES: PERFORMANCE, UNDER-STRUCK TRACK AND ROAD TESTING CONDITIONS, COMPETING AGAINST 10 OTHER IMPRESSIVE IMPORTS!
• FUEL CONSUMPTION (MPG)
• INSTRUMENTED DATA LOG
• STYLING AND DESIGN
• COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE
• RIDE AND DRIVE
• HANDLING • VALUE
• QUALITY CONTROL
HERE'S WHAT TWO OF THE JUDGE'S HAVE TO SAY ABOUT OUR CAR:
Jim Hall
To my eye, the new 626 is one of the best designed cars in the world. It lacks nothing and is an excellent example of Mazda's design leadership among the Japanese auto makers.
Jim McCraw
The Mazda 626 has more personality, more sense of fresh thinking, and more class than any 2 liter sedan on the U.S. market.
It's a winner.

CONGRATULATIONS, MAZDA!

Vandals fail to topple 'Tree,' Reno

By MARY CLEMENS
Times-News sports editor

RENO, Nev. — Although he stood most of the game, Idaho Coach Don Monson and his Vandals couldn't top the near-record performance of Nevada-Reno's Ken "Tree" Green Friday night.

Green scored 33 points, one short of a tourney record, to lead the Wolf Pack to a 78-73 win in the first game of the Big Sky Conference Basketball Tournament at the Reno-Sparks Convention Center.

Other tourneys— D2-3

Reno will meet Weber State at 8:37 (MST) p.m. today for the league crown and a berth in next week's NCAA tourney. Weber State, which trailed at halftime 27-22, rallied and defeated the Grizzlies 54-53 on John Price's free throw with three seconds left.

"We just didn't control Green well enough," Monson, who stood and watched the game from the baseline most of the night, said. "Other than that, we didn't play real good defense and we didn't rebound well, and it caught up with us."

Green, getting 19 points in the first half, helped the Wolf Pack establish its game early. UNR bolted to a 6-0 lead in the first two minutes.

Idaho responded with baskets by Kelvin Smith, Brian Kellerman and Phil Hopson, but the Vandals only had the lead briefly in the first half in the fast-tempoed game.

Having the lead was vital to Reno, Coach Sonny Allen said.

"We were able to stay in a zone the entire game because we had the lead and we haven't been able to do that against Idaho in the past," he said.

"We played consistent defense ... Idaho shot just 43 percent and went to the line just 13 times, so that's good defense."

The Vandals, who must now hope for an NIT invitation in order to continue their season, led at 12-10 and 16-14 as Kellerman carried the hot hand. Reno regained the lead as Dannie Jones and Green hit back-to-back fielders. The Wolf Pack then went inside successfully to build a 34-26 margin with 4:27 left in the half.

In danger of getting blown out, Hopson rallied Idaho by making 10 consecutive points in a two-minute span, cutting the Vandals' deficit to 42-38 at the half.

Smith's follow shot to start the second half put the Vandals within two but Tony Balogun hit one of his two fielders and Sam Mosley produced a stuff and Reno led 48-43.

Reno's surge continue as Green hit a short jumper and reserve Joe DeBraga hit consecutive 18-footers. The Wolf Pack led 54-43, much to the delight of a near-capacity crowd.

Idaho then turned to Kellerman and the 6-5 forward, who probably played his last game, responded. With Smith getting consecutive blocks on his way to a single-game tourney record of six, Idaho reeled off nine straight points to trail 64-52.

But the comeback went no further. Green, playing with four fouls, hit two short jumpers and Jones added

Magic Valley cagers battle Canyon stars

HAZELTON — Even if Kelly Murphey weren't the fast-tempo philosophy, you'd know the Magic Valley Conference all-stars will be trying to run tonight.

The charges Castleford Coach Murphey will be against a much taller Canyon Conference alignment, headed by 6-6 Ken Anderson of Gooding.

That matchup will be part of two exhibitions at Valley High's gymnasium tonight. The graduating senior girls from the two alignments will play at 7 p.m. with the boys squaring off at 8:30.

The Magic Valley Conference is headed by Rick Vulk of Castleford, Roy Nebeker of Murtaugh and Brady Nieder of Hagerman, all at 6-2. Against them are the 6-8 Anderson, 6-5 Kevin Holcomb of Kimberly and 6-6 Kim Duffin of Shoshone.

With a lineup of backcourt guards, the Magic Valley Conference will be relying heavily on its outside shooting. But the Canyon Conference isn't bereft of long-distance marksmen, having Denny Smyer, the moving gun from Declo, and speedy Art Henry of Valley City others.

The Magic Valley girls have one thing on their mind: to score 60 points. They were roughly handled by the taller and quicker Canyon Conference last year and Coach Clark Muscat of Hagerman hopes to make it closer this time around.

In this instance, the Magic Valley Conference has the tallest in 5-11 Kristin McFadden plus good rebounding and inside strength in the Hansen duo of Audrene Hogan and Laurie Waldron.

The Canyon girls, coached by DeLo's Lynn Payne, has strength in Susie Vincent of Filer and Clarin Osborn of Shoshone.

The proceeds from the annual battles are used to defray sponsorship of the conference's various championships. Including this spring's track and field finals.

Members of the competition teams include:

Boys
Magic Valley Conference — Brett Arrage and Brady Nieder; both Hagerman; Skip Miller of Hansen; Rick Adams, Mike Marlin and Kerry Morrison of Oakley; Wade Smith of Raft River; Tracy Vulgamore and Rick Vulk of Castleford; and Roy Nebeker of Murtaugh.

Canyon Conference — Art Henry of Valley; Denny Smyer and Blake Gamme of Declo; Kevin Holcomb, Jeff Livingston and Karl Holman of Kimberly; Ken Anderson of Gooding; Kim Duffin of Shoshone; Joe Rodriguez of Glenn Ferry; and Scott Dunlop of Filer.

Girls
Magic Valley Conference — Kristin McFadden, Stacy Pharis and Janene Holme of Hagerman; Kristi Jeppesen, Jace Austrom, Hogan, Laurie Waldron and Brenda Miller of Hansen; Vedamee Bodily, Fileen Wigst and Crystal Richins of Raft River.

Canyon Conference — Susie Vincent of Filer; Kelly Fossecoo of Gooding; Clarin Osborn and Dorothy Filzgerald of Shoshone; Darlene Beach, Wanda Thompson, Jace Barrett and Sue Shaver of Valley; Holly Bortz of Declo; Linda Jensen of Glenn Ferry.

CSI hosts annual rodeo March 25-26

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho will hold its annual Aggie Intercollegiate Rodeo March 25-26 at the Expo Center.

There will be shows at 8 each evening and an afternoon rodeo March 25 at 1 p.m. CSI rodeo Coach Shawn Davis expects 10 college teams from the Rocky Mountain Region, which includes Utah, northeastern Nevada and Idaho, to attend the three performances.

The rodeo will feature the stock of Joe — and — Sonny — Kelsey — and — some National Finals Rodeo stock. Zeb Bell will be the rodeo announcer.

Tickets can be purchased in Twin Falls at Vickers Saddery, Macie's and Peterson's Western Wear and in Jerome at Ross' Western Wear. CSI Rodeo Club members and District 6 high school rodeo students will also be selling tickets.

Tickets for the March 26 afternoon show are being sold by supporters of the Idaho Youth Ranch and half of the proceeds from this sale will benefit the Youth Ranch.

A wide range of activities have been planned for the days preceding the rodeo. The Jack Hannum steer wrestling school will be held Monday through Wednesday, followed by Davis' riding school, featuring instruction in bull riding, saddle bronc and bareback. Thursday through Saturday, Assisting Davis will be J.C. Trujillo, former world champion bareback rider, and John Davis, currently leading the PRCA bull riding standings.

There will be a western art display in the lobby of the Taylor Administration Building. Also, a Sadie Hawkins dance is being planned for the evening of March 22 in the Expo Center. The annual barbecue and campus rodeo games will be held March 23 in the Expo Center.

The Aggie Rodeo Club will sponsor a dance following the March 26 rodeo performance at the Turf Club. The public is invited.

For more information, please contact Shawn Davis at 733-9554, ext. 320.

Utah leads NCAA ski

BOZEMAN, Mont. (UPI) — The University of Utah virtually wrapped up the NCAA skiing championships here Friday, sweeping both the men's and women's giant slalom events.

The Utahs have compiled 543 team points in three days, and lead second-place Vermont by 66 points with only the Nordic relay events remaining today. The Catamounts have tallied 476 points.

Utah's Kolby-Kreiner led a 1-3-4 finish for the women's team with a time of 1:51.79. In third for Utah was Dente Dahlum at 1:52.26 and in fourth Jill Robins at 1:52.39.

The second-place finisher was Asa Svedmark of Wyoming at 1:52.2.

The Utah women's team piled up 103 points in the giant slalom, well ahead of the University of Wyoming with 81 points. Middlebury College of Vermont was third with 69.

Vermont's Tor Melander had the fastest first-run for the men, and held on to win the event with a combined time of 2:00.02. In second was George Macomber of Dartmouth at 2:00.27.

Romatshabi, Mitchell should be top performers

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — It may be a week or two early but CSI Coach Karl Kleinkopf expects his team to have a few highlights in today's opening outdoor track meet at Boise State.

The Golden Eagles, with the girls still a ways from coming together due to the just-ended basketball season, will run against Boise State, a partial University of Idaho team and probably teams from Ricks, Treasure Valley, NNC and other area schools.

The bigger Golden Eagle news should be provided by sophomore Joe Romatshabi and freshman Ray Mitchell. Anchored in Alaska, Romatshabi, who is among the best quartermilers in the country because of a time in the 455, will go either in that event or the half mile, depending on weather.

"If it's warm, he'll run the 400. If we think it's a little too cool, he'll go in the longer one," Kleinkopf said.

Mitchell, who cleared seven feet in the long jump and has a season goal of 7-5 set for himself, should win that event and also show up well in the triple jump.

"Ray went 47-5 last week which is good indoors and I think he has the speed to make 50 feet," the coach said. Concerning Mitchell's high jumping, Kleinkopf said "he just clicked 7-0 at his first meet last week and I think he has all the ability in the world to accomplish his goal."

Freshman John Walsh, who clocked an 8:44 in the 3,000 last week, will try the 5,000 today. CSI expects a pretty good showing in the distances with sophomore Les Woods looking especially strong for this early.

Two other freshman who may show well are Shannon English, Caldwell, in the high and triple jumps, and Montana State Intermediate-burble champion Shawn Plickock in the Intermediate. Twin Falls product, Don McMurrian, has been looking sharp in the high hurdles.

"He's running the college highs (three-inches high) better than he did the high school highs," the coach said.

Vince Curran, a Kamiah freshman, holds the hopes for weight points, being less than a foot off the school shotput record at 48 feet. He also is a 140-foot plus discus thrower.

For the girls, Angela Knight, Bernista, may be a force in the 400 where she has been clocked in the 55s. "She lost only once during the indoor season and that was to a Nevada-Las Vegas girl. She's in pretty good condition and I'm expecting something in the 57s if the weather is decent," Kleinkopf said.

Kimberly Swedberg, who won the NCAA women's epic country title last year, will not participate "because she isn't really in condition."

Denver plus Red Miller equals a dreary USFL TV opener

First, let it be known that we probably could best be described as traditionalists. That means we don't start pining to see a basketball game in the middle of July.

So when the United States Football League announced it was going into direct competition for the Fourth of July weekend, back — and taking a swipe at the interminable NBA playoffs along the way — there was skepticism.

But lest Mrs. Hovey suddenly learn something constructive can be done on Sunday afternoons, when the USFL came on the tube, we were there. And a bit of anticipation might also be accorded to the situation.

However, that quickly left when our first glimpse of USFL opening promotion was of a be-snowed Mile High Stadium in Denver, Colo.

The reaction, as it is now recalled, went: "Drat! Denver? Isn't it enough that we struggle through the watching-paint-dry theory of the Broncos' offense all fall without being saddled with Denver week after weary

Larry Hovey

As Shakespeare said, screwing our courage to the sticking point, we hoped against hope our worst fears were imagined. They weren't.

For one complete quarter we sat, eyes riveted to the set. Surely, old Red had picked up a new play in three years of forced idleness.

Not the consistent Miller, however. With a perseverance that would make Job envious, Miller flew at the opponents with maniacal monotony. Run twice, try a daring flare pass to a circling back and punt.

What's this? A "well-concocted" end-around running play on third and 17?

Egadi! Does the man's imagination know no bounds?

Unfortunately, yes it does. Narrow bounds. And so the great intermountain tale, that region hated by national networks because it has the audacity to have its own time zone, again is visited by the mediocre — even from the worst money can buy.

T'was always thus. Think back to the black-and-white days when we were considered part of the Chicago marketing area. For several years we were bombarded by the imaginative word pictures drawn by ex-American Red (Galloping Ghost, Ol' 77) Grange.

Two particularly stand out in memory: "Chicago are a good team." Red, intoned one day, Grammatically and descriptively misleading.

On another occasion: "Chicago has a varied offense. They'll run inside, they'll run outside, they'll throw short and they'll throw deep." Heady stuff.

Fate almost took a hand in our falls of discontent on a couple of occasions. First, the Bears suddenly had a young runner named Willie Galimore. Run time in front of the tube. He had as many moves as a can of worms. Unfortunately, Galimore was killed in a traffic accident after his second season.

Then came Gale Sayers. The Bears didn't win much but Sayers could do things like score seven touchdowns in a game. Unfortunately, his knee problems took him out.

Dick Butkus came on the scene. He could hold any team to 14 points — but the Bears couldn't score more than 10. Butkus could make enough hits during a game to keep your mind from wandering of the field.

The major thing at this time was the introduction of the American Football League. It was bombed away time. Scores ran 49-42. Guys like Paul Lowe and Keith Lincoln ran for big yardage — largely because everyone from defensive tackle on back started dropping off at the snail of the ball.

There was the famed Hittel game in which three touchdowns and three lead changes happened in something like the last 1:30.

But then — merger. Then the Denver Broncos, then one yard and a cloud of dust. Week after week, year after year, ad nauseam. And now a new league, proving again that the more things change, the more they remain the same.

Virginia, Tar Heels win big

ATLANTA (UPI) — Second-ranked Virginia and 6th-ranked North Carolina smashed the 100-point mark Friday in overwhelming wins in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, but unheralded Georgia Tech pulled a shocker by nipping Maryland 64-58 in overtime.

Virginia overcame foul problems by All-American center Ralph Sampson and unleashed a blistering fastbreak attack directed by junior guard Othell Wilson to trounce Duke 109-66. North Carolina, led by 23 points each by Matt Doherty and Michael Jordan, routed Clemson 105-73.

In the other first-round game, North Carolina State edged Wake Forest 71-70 on sophomore forward Lorenzo Charles' free throw with three seconds left.

In today's semifinals, North Carolina plays N.C. at 11 a.m. MST while Virginia meets Georgia Tech at 1:30 p.m.

Georgia Tech, 13-14, used deadly free throw shooting by freshmen John Salley and Mark Price to pull away from Maryland, 19-9, in overtime after the teams finished regulation

ACC

Virginia, 26-3, broke a 35-35 tie by outscoring Duke 15-2 over a 4-minute stretch late in the first half and led 50-41 at intermission. The Cavaliers then scored the first 11 points of the second half, with Wilson getting seven, for a 61-41 lead and turned the game into a rout.

North Carolina State, 18-10, got its chance against Wake Forest when guard Sidney Lowe picked off a cross-court pass with 20 seconds left to break up a stall by the Deacons, who had held the ball for 3:40 with the game tied 70-70 hoping for the last shot.

The Wakepack called timeout with 10 seconds left to set up a play and Charles was fouled by Wake Forest's Alvis Rogers as he went up for an inside shot with three seconds remaining. Charles, who had 12 points, missed the first free throw but made the second.

After a timeout, the Deacons had one last chance but guard Danny Young was off the mark with a desperation 35-footer at the buzzer.

The game was tied six times in the second half — the last at 70-70 when Lowe hit two free throws for the Wakepack with 4:25 left. That was when the Deacons went into their stall.

Doherty, who set a career-high scoring mark—hit five 3-pointers and Jordan and Jimmy Braddock had four each for North Carolina, 26-6, which tallied 42 points on shots behind the ACC's 19-foot stripe.

Clemson, led by sophomore Raymond, played with a career-high 27 points, stayed close and trailed only 56-52 after Marc Campbell's 3-pointer with 13:52 left. But Tar Heels, who led throughout the game, outscored the Tigers 11-2 over the next three minutes for a 67-54 lead.

Braddock, who scored 15 of his 18 points in the second half, had consecutive 3-pointers in that sport and reserve Ed Eskin scored a 3-point play on a drive and free throw.

After Clemson cut its deficit to 74-65, Braddock, Jordan and Doherty hit consecutive 3-pointers to raise North Carolina's lead to 83-65.

The Tar Heels played without All-ACC center Sam Perkins, sidelined with a sprained big toe.

Rainy weather almost sabotaged the Boise Kickoff Baseball Tournament Friday, but the participating teams scrambled everywhere throughout the Boise Valley and actually managed to complete several games.

Local teams met with mixed results. Twin Falls overcame an early 4-0 deficit to edge Meridian, 5-4, but Minico fell to Caldwell, 9-1.

Held hitless through the first three innings, the Bruins rallied to halve the difference in the fourth on Tim Buscher's two-run double which scored Corky Federico and Nate Burk.

Twin Falls then rallied for the winning runs in the sixth. After Tim Crossman reached on an error and Rob Ellis was safe on a fielder's choice, Kurt Slater drove in Crossman with a single.

With two out, Scott Morgan doubled home Ellis and Slater for the decisive rallies.

Reliever Darren Stuart fell into trouble in the top of the seventh, loading the bases, but got the last out without any damage on a pop-up to Slater.

"Considering we started two sophomores and one senior, we did pretty well," said Twin Falls Coach Bill Ingram, noting that Ellis' efforts at shortstop saved the Bruins from yielding at least two runs. Ingram also praised the fastballing Stuart, who joined the Unlike the Bruins, Minico started quickly, scoring one run in the first. However, the Spartans could have had more.

After Dave Garro and Cary Ferrin singled, Terence Smith also singled, driving in Garro. Ferrin, who had been on second base, also tried to score but was thrown out by Caldwell's right fielder. On the throw to the plate, Smith tried to reach second but he, too, was retired.

Caldwell catcher Mark Velazquez essentially settled matters in the bottom of the inning, belting a three-run homer. Velazquez later added an RBI single in the third.

Minico attempted to play a second game against Nampa. The Spartans trailed 4-3 when the game was called in the third inning.

Twin Falls will face Boise at 1 p.m. before meeting Borah at Caldwell. Minico will confront Meridian at 11 a.m. and Kuna at 2 p.m.

Boston College, St. John's to collide

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michael Adams, Boston College's 5-foot-10 floor leader, scored 25 points and Jay Wright controlled the inside for 23 minutes to give the No. 13 Eagles an 87-74 victory over Syracuse and a berth in the finals of the Big East Conference Championship.

Boston College, the top seed in the tournament, meets No. 3 St. John's for the title today. The Redmen, behind a career-high 23 points by Chris Mullin and 20 by Billy Goodwin, suaged past 12 Villanova in the second half for a 91-80 decision in the other semifinal.

The winner of the Big East receives an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament. But five schools — St. John's, Villanova, Boston College, Georgetown and Syracuse — will likely receive invitations, regardless of the outcome.

After a season's Syracuse beat Boston College by wide margins. But the Eagles reversed their form at Madison Square Garden taking a 33-34 lead at the half. The Eagles extended it to 46-42 after a 5-point burst, in which Adams struck two outside shots and Murphy added a free throw with 11:59 to go.

Big East

Murphy, a 6-9 junior, put the Eagles up 58-52 after hitting 20 consecutive three-point plays and 100-foot shots. Syracuse still had a chance to win after a basket by reserve Sony Spera made it 68-63 with 2:08 to go but Dominic Pressley answered with a layup and John Garris of Boston College hit two foul shots to make it 72-63 with 1:43 remaining.

The Orangemen struck for four consecutive points to pull to 72-67 but with just 47 seconds left the Orangemen were all but out of time as the Eagles — a disciplined club down the stretch — bolstered their lead at the line.

In the opener, Mullin and Goodwin brought the Redmen back after a difficult start.

In a ragged first half for St. John's, marked by frequent turnovers and 33 percent shooting, the Redmen trailed 39-29. Mullin, who missed a critical free throw in St. John's loss to Villanova during the regular season, and Goodwin had just 4 points each in the opening 20 minutes.

But the Redmen, who trailed by as many as 13 points in the first half, changed the tone of the game quickly. A 16-3 burst took the Redmen from a 40-39 deficit to a 5-point lead. The burst was highlighted by consecutive stunts by David Russell and was capped by Mullin's layup off the break with 12:16 remaining.

Villanova, who squandered big leads in the first half, had a shot at the Redmen with 9:23 left, down 57-64 but Goodwin struck for 7 straight points and St. John's was back on top by 10.

A basket by Villanova's Ed Pinckney with 2:30 to go put the Wildcats at 76-68 but any doubt to the outcome was removed by Mullin's 3-point play with 1:56 left that sent St. John's to an 81-70 lead.

For Villanova, which led 45-27 and must now await an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament, Stewart Granger scored 21 points and nine assists. Dwayne McClain had 16 points and John Pinone 15.

The Wildcats delayed the tempo from the outset, scoring the opening 12 points as St. John's blew its first five shots. But in keeping with the early streaking, the Redmen, powered by Bill Weinnington, responded with a 12-2 burst.

The Redmen pulled within a point with 6:45 to go in the half but Villanova then reeled off 8 straight and 14 of the next 18 points for a 10-point lead at intermission.

Villanova, which shot 39 percent from the field in the half, got good work from forwards Mike Mulquin and Harold Pressley, who combined for 10 points. Russell, who finished with 10 points, typified the frustration for the Redmen early on by going scoreless in the first half.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Defending tournament champion Alabama upset Tennessee 77-66 and accurate free-throw shooting Friday night to upset 10th-ranked and top-seeded Kentucky, 69-64, and Tennessee followed that by beating second-seeded LSU, 74-71 in overtime in the Southeastern Conference quarterfinals.

In Friday afternoon action, seniors Jeff Malone and Terry Lewis combined for 57 points while leading Mississippi State to a 76-61 victory over fourth-seeded Vanderbilt and Georgia beat third-seeded Ole Miss, 69-55, to knock all of the top four teams out of the tournament.

In today's semifinals, Alabama (19-10) meets Mississippi State (17-11) at 5 p.m. MST and Tennessee (19-10) meets Georgia (19-9) at 6 p.m. The SEC finals are Sunday at 11 a.m.

Alabama, which beat Kentucky in the tournament finals last year on the Wildcats' home court, survived Thursday's qualifying round by nipping Auburn, 62-61, and trailed Kentucky by 14 points with less than four minutes to go in the first half Friday night. But the Crimson Tide closed to six points at halftime and caught the Wildcats at 51 all after six minutes of the second half.

Tennessee, paced by 6-foot-7 senior Dale Ellis, who had 33 points in all, led LSU by 10 points at halftime, but trailed by four points, at 61-57, with only 1:03 left to play before field goals by Michael Brooks and Ellis put the game into overtime at 61-61.

The score was tied for the last time at 67-61 with 2:58 left in overtime when Tyrone Black scored for LSU. Tennessee then ran off five straight points to take a seemingly commanding 72-67 lead with only 39 seconds left.

But LSU, 19-12, wasn't finished. The Bengals got four free throws in one second to close to one point back with 33 seconds left but were unable to carry the fight any further.

Tennessee, 19-10, also had to advance to the quarterfinals via the qualifying round, beating Florida Thursday night, 78-62, with Rife contributing 26 points.

Alabama, led by sophomore guard Ennis Whately with 21 points, freshman forward Buck Johnson with 18, and sophomore center Bobby Lee Hurt, who led 12, led by as much as six points, but was ahead by only one, 65-64, when it decided to freeze the ball.

Kentucky, 21-7, got the ball back with 3:40 to go on a steal by Jim Master who had 20 points before fouling out. But Master slipped and was called for walking and the Tide got the ball back.

Master deliberately fouled Whately with 23 seconds left and Whately made both free throws. Two more Kentucky fouls and single free throws by Hurt and Whately gave Alabama its final four-point margin.

Anthony leads Toledo event

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Defending champion Earl Anthony averaged 225 for eight games Friday night to earn the top-seeded spot in the finals of the $200,000 PBA National Championship.

Anthony, of Dublin, Calif., who has made 115 consecutive 100-point games, moved into the lead earlier in the day and expanded his advantage in the final qualifying round. He won five and tied one of eight matches to total 12,843 for 56 games.

Mike Durbin of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, won five of eight matches and rolled a 1,776 round Friday night to move up from fourth to second with a 12,563 total.

The other three finalists were Roy Buckley of Columbus, Ohio, third with 12,439; Kevin Gillette of Florence, Ky., fourth with 12,343; and Mike Truitt of Rockford, Ill., fifth with 12,428.

The five finalists will battle today for the $38,000 top prize in the tournament, which is sponsored by the Toledo Trust Co.

Long Beach State falls, 67-64

Long Beach State, 67-64, and Tennessee followed that by beating second-seeded LSU, 74-71 in overtime in the Southeastern Conference quarterfinals.

Nevada-Las Vegas wins in PCAA

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Sidney Green and Larry Anderson combined for 43 points Friday night to lead Nevada-Las Vegas to a 77-61 victory over Long Beach State in the semifinals of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association tournament.

The Rebels play in tonight's championship game against the winner of Friday's night's other semifinal between San Jose State and Fresno State, which was still in progress when the Times-News went to press.

The PCAA tournament winners will run the NCAA tournament berth.

The 6-foot-9 Green dominated the inside, grabbing a game-high 14 rebounds to go with his 20 points. Anderson led the Rebels, won 27-2, in scoring with 23 points.

Mike Zeno scored 16 points in the first half, including four 3-point goals to give Long Beach a 38-36 halftime lead. The lead changed hands several times in the second-half but a 3-pointer by guard Danny Tarkanian gave UNLV the lead for good with 3:34 remaining.

The Rebels played without starting guard Jeff Collins, sidelined with a badly sprained ankle. His replacement, center Booker, had six points and eight rebounds.

Big Sky

two free throws to more than offset Kellerman's 16-footer. Reno led 60-54 with 9:18 to play.

Reno stretched its cushion to 62-54 on Balogun's first career dunk.

The Vandals regrouped with Kellerman and Hopson each scoring and Stan Arnold's three-point play cut the deficit to 65-51. Duke then miscued on three straight possessions missing a shot and three putback attempts on the first one and then committing turnovers on the next two. Reno answered with a free throw by DeBraga, a turn-around 12-footer by Green and a rebound basket by Jones. Leading 67-41, Reno went to the sport.

The strategy worked almost as diagrammed and Idaho was forced to foul. Green hit four free throws. Rick Gosse added a pair and John Welch hit one to give the Wolf Pack a 78-70 lead before Kellerman's 25-footer established the final score.

Monson didn't place the blame on any one part of the Vandals' game.

"Reno just played well," he said. "They probably played the best game they've played against us in the past two years. The zone did surprise us a bit. Their transition game was excellent, they kept coming and ran all evening long and, obviously, they shot the ball very well."

Reno hit 31 of 70 attempts for 44.3 percent, as opposed to Idaho's 30-69 for 43 percent.

"We wanted the zone to control (Pete) Prigge and Arnold," Allen said. "Those are the two that beat us up there. We knew the other three would get their points."

Green finished with 12 of 28 from the floor and a perfect 9-9 at the free throw line for his 33 points, one short of the record set by Lawrence Butler of Idaho State in 1979 in a game against Northern Arizona.

Monson, who has been linked with a coaching vacancy at University of Oregon and was scrutinized by Oregon Athletic Director Rick Bay during Friday's game, said he didn't know if the 20-8 Vandals could get an NIT berth.

"Our chances would have been much better if we'd won tonight," the fifth-year Vandal skipper said. "I suppose it's possible, but we have to be realistic about it."

Rookie slugger leads Chisox barrage

By United Press International

Greg Luzinski move over — there's another "Bull" in Sarasota, Fla., these days.

Luzinski, a veteran slugger who provides the Chicago White Sox with some of the league's best results from his designated hitter spot, may have some help in supplying the White Sox power in 1983.

Rookie outfielder Ron Kittle had two home runs and drove in five runs Friday to lead the White Sox to a 20-5 Grapefruit League rout of the New York Mets.

Mike Squires and Rusty Kuntz also homered for Chicago, which pounded out 19 hits. The White Sox, now 6-0 in spring play, battered the Mets for two runs in the first, then added 10 runs in the second.

Chicago sent 15 men to the plate in the second inning, rapping out eight hits. Kittle, who hit 50 homers and had 144 RBI last year at Edmonton in Triple A ball, belted his first home run with a man on in the first against Swan. The 200-pounder then hit a three-run homer in the second.

Squires also homered with a man on in the second.

New York starter Craig Swan, who took the loss, gave up 11 runs in

Spring training NOTES

1-13 Innings. Chicago starter LaMarr Hoyt pitched four innings, giving up two runs, to earn his second straight win of the spring.

Chicago added two more runs in the fifth and six more in the sixth, three on Kuntz's homer.

The Mets are now 0-3 in spring play.

Elsewhere:

- At West Palm Beach, Fla., George Brett singled home two runs to carry the Kansas City Royals to a 4-1 victory over the Montreal Expos.
- Larry Gura, Keith Creel and Mike Jones each threw two shutout innings for the Royals.

- At Bradenton, Fla., Dave Parker smashed a two-run eighth-inning homer to lift the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

- Parker's first homer of the exhibition season made a winner of right-hander Jim Bibby, who made his first pitching performance since April 1, 1982. Bibby underwent shoulder surgery last spring and spent the year on the disabled list.
- At Yuma, Ariz., Kevin Torve doubled home two runs to highlight a seven-run ninth inning that lifted the San Francisco Giants to an 11-5 victory over the San Diego Padres.
- Trailing 5-4, the Giants put together seven hits, two walks, a wild pitch and a passed ball to score their seven runs.
- At Coco Beach, Fla., Tim Teufel snapped a 4-4 tie with a sixth-inning pinch hit grand slam homer to lead the Minnesota Twins to an 8-5 victory over the Houston Astros.
- At Tucson, Ariz., rookie Steve Lake singled home Roy Howell with the winning run with two out in the 10th inning to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 4-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.
- At Tempe, Ariz., the Seattle

Mariners turned two Oakland errors into a pair of sixth-inning runs and held off a late A's rally en route to a 5-4 victory.

Mariner shortstop Spike Owen opened the 6th by reaching base on an error.

After Dave Edler drew a walk, Al Cowens singled home Owen and Edler moved to third. Edler scored on an errant pickoff attempt to give the Seattle a 5-2 lead.

- At Lakeland, Fla., Mitch Webster broke a 4-4 tie with a two-run triple in the fifth inning, helping the Toronto Blue Jays to an 11-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

- Webster, a rookie outfielder, drove in two more runs later in the game to lead the Blue Jays' 11-hit attack against three Tiger pitchers.
- At Winter Haven, Fla., Greg Brock and Candy Maldonado each drove in three runs to power the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 10-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.
- Mark Bradley had three hits and two RBIs for the Dodgers.
- At Cincinnati, the Cincinnati Reds rallied from a 3-0 deficit to take a 9-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.
- Rookie Gary Redus, Johnny Bench and Ron Oester each rapped out a pair of hits to give the victory to Joe Price.

Fish & Game pledges to improve fisheries

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Fish and Game will embark on a widespread project this year to improve fisheries at lakes, rivers and reservoirs across the state, officials say.

Fishery Research Supervisor Dave Ortmann said the project is mostly targeted at hiking populations of salmon, trout and bass at area recreation spots.

In northern Idaho, teams will be working to continue improvement of kokanee populations in Pend Oreille and Priest lakes, he said.

Further to the south, a new research program on Brownlee Reservoir will concentrate on smallmouth bass, Ortmann said. Biologists at Magic Reservoir will be examining the growth rate of various strains of trout.

The success of fall chinook plantings in Coeur d'Alene and Little Payette lakes, and Cascade and Deadwood reservoirs will be evaluated, he said.

Major projects that are winding down this year include those on a middle fork of the Salmon River and a northern Idaho study to rate the effect of heavy fishing pressure on several largemouth bass populations.

"Middle fork steelhead declined in numbers during the mid-1970s," Ortmann said. "We have been gathering information needed to improve this valuable resource." The river is one of only two in Idaho managed strictly for wild steelhead.

To carry out the field studies, Ortmann said the department will employ 11 fishery biologists, seven regional managers, three regional biologists, a fish and wildlife technician and support personnel.

NBA brass says it'll be tough in talks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The NBA Board of Governors, meeting for the first time since the players set an April 2 strike deadline, voted unanimously Friday to reject any contract that would not cure the league's ailing financial condition.

The board, comprised of representatives from each of the league's 23 teams, said in a statement released after a 2½-hour meeting that it would direct its Labor Relations Committee to remain firm in negotiations with the Players Association.

Despite the strike threat by the National Basketball Players Association, and even if the National Basketball Players Association does go on strike, no collective bargaining agreement shall be agreed to which does not substantially and immediately alleviate the serious financial problems of the NBA," the statement said.

Because of the impending strike, the regularly scheduled board meeting was attended by more owners than usual. The meeting was closed to reporters, but the voices of board members carried into the hallway of the Century Plaza Hotel and were firm in their conviction not to give in to the players.

Gary Bettman, the league's assistant general counsel, said later that NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien briefed members on the progress of the negotiations. Bettman said the members were unanimous in their stand to meet the players head on.

During the meeting, one member estimated a strike would cost owners $20 million to $30 million, but said that given the financial state of the league, the owners could not afford to weaken their position.

Another representative said the owners could count on public support, since few fans will sympathize with players who command such hefty salaries.

League officials contend the average NBA player makes $246,000 a year — the highest in professional sports — while the average team loses more than $700,000. At least 10 teams are reportedly in serious financial condition.

The players union, working without a contract since last summer, set its deadline last month for conclusion of negotiations for a collective bargaining agreement.

Some fear a walkout by pro basketball players would spell the end of the NBA. The regular season concludes April 17 and the move by the union is considered a pressure tactic to force the league into what the union perceives as serious bargaining.

Much of the league's revenue is generated by an increase in television exposure and higher gates during the six-week playoff period.

Iowa holds onto first at NCAA finals

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Led by pins from the Banach brothers, Iowa lighted its hold on first place in the NCAA Wrestling Championships Friday, advancing eight wrestlers to the semifinals and edging closer to the Hawkeyes' sixth title in a row.

Steady performances in the quarterfinals brought decisions to six Iowa wrestlers in lower weights, then Ed Banach and brother Lou reminded spectators who was in control of the tournament.

At the end of the quarterfinals, Iowa led with 66.75 points, comfortably ahead of Iowa State and Oklahoma State, which were tied for second with 45.75 points each. Iowa State advanced six wrestlers and OSU five.

First victory in 11 years for Horned Frogs over Razorbacks

TCU surprises Arkansas in overtime, 61-59

DALLAS (UPI) — Darrell Browder, TCU's all time leading scorer, hit two free throws with four seconds remaining in overtime Friday night to bring the Horned Frogs to a 61-59 victory over No. 5 Arkansas that put them into the Southwest Conference tournament championship game against No. 1-ranked Houston.

It was the first win for TCU over the Razorbacks in 11 years covering 26 games and spoiled what would have been the third confrontation of the season between two of the nation's top-rated clubs.

Houston used the overpowering combination of Akeem Olatunji, Larry Micheaux and Michael Young to rout SMU in the opening semi-final game, 75-59, thus extending the nation's longest winning streak to 21 games.

The Cougars will bring a 26-2 record into today's championship game, but will be facing the Southwest conference team that gave them their hardest struggles of the year.

TCU lost by only three points to the Cougars in Fort Worth and by only eight in Houston.

Arkansas seemed certain to record yet another win over the Frogs since the Razorbacks had an 11-point lead with seven minutes to play. But for the duration of regulation the Frogs outscored Arkansas 12-1, but Doug Auld hitting a layup with 12 seconds to play that tied the contest at 52-52.

Rickey Newton and Darrell Walker, both-missed shots in the final seconds of regulation that would have brought the Razorbacks a win.

In the overtime, TCU jumped in front by four only to see John Snively, Arkansas' long range shooter, hit a 20-foot jump shot with 16 seconds to go that deadlocked the game at 59-59.

TCU brought the ball down court and Walker went for a steal as Browder was setting up for a potential game winning shot. Walker knocked the ball from Browder's hands and seemed headed for a layup only to be called for a foul by referee Allan Barker.

Browder made the two free throws and Snively's attempt to tie the game bounced off the rim.

Playing for the first time since last Saturday, the Cougars displayed some early rustiness before putting SMU away early in the second half.

Metro Conference Tournament

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Paul Thompson scored 22 points and John Williams added 20 Friday night to pace Tulane to an easy 80-65 victory over Cincinnati in the third and final opening round game of the Metro Conference tournament.

Tulane will play Virginia Tech in a semifinal game today. Virginia Tech defeated Southern Mississippi 79-68 in Friday night's second opening-round game.

Today's other semifinal game will match Memphis State, an 84-71 winner Friday night over Florida State, against Louisville, which had a first-round bye.

Tulane, upping its record to 18-10, ended a Metro Conference tournament drought with its win. The Green Wave had previously lost all seven of its tournament appearances.

Cincinnati ended its season with an 11-17 record, the Bearcats' worst season in 37 years.

Tulane was in control of the game all the way and led 35-24 at halftime.

In the second game, Reggie Steppe scored eight points in the final 77 seconds to ice Virginia Tech's win over Southern Mississippi.

Southern Mississippi, which ended its season 14-14, led 66-65 with 3:40 remaining. But Virginia Tech scored 14 of the game's final 16 points to win going away.

Baskets by Bobby Beecher and Perry Young gave Virginia Tech a 69-66 advantage with three minutes remaining.

Steppe then went to work at the free throw line, hitting two foul shots with 1:17 left, making two more free throws with 55 seconds remaining and adding another pair of free throws with 37 seconds left.

After Dell Curry added a couple more free throws with 19 seconds left, Steppe completed the scoring with a layup with two seconds to go.

In the opener, Bobby Parks poured in 33 points to lead Memphis State to a hard-earned victory over Florida State.

Memphis State enjoyed a 61-46 lead with 13:05 left. But within four minutes, the Seminoles closed the margin to 63-58.

Tenn.-Chat. 77, W. Car. 75 (OT)

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Willie White poured in 31 points and rallied No. 15 Tennessee. Chattanooga to a 77-75 overtime victory over Western Carolina in semifinals of the Southern Conference Tournament Friday night.

Chattanooga, 25-3, advanced to the championship today against East Tennessee.

White, a two-time all-conference guard, scored 12 of Chattanooga's 13 points in a three-minute span to give the Moccasins a 70-68 lead with 3:18 left in regulation. Pat Sharp sank both ends of a bonus foul with 3:09 left to pull Western Carolina even.

Neither team scored again in regulation. White missed a five-foot baseline shot with three seconds left.

Skip Clark, a senior guard, drilled in a three-point field goal to put Chattanooga up 72-70 lead with 2:28 remaining in overtime. Clark missed the front end of a bonus foul with :51 on the clock, but sank both ends of a two-shot foul to provide the winners a 75-72 margin with :38 left.

Moccasins reserve forward Lamar Oden converted a one-and-one foul with :22 left for a 77-72 bulge. Guard Quentin Moore fired in a three-point shot with four seconds left for the final margin.

Bruin gridders nominated

COEUR D'ALENE — The Twin Falls High School football team is among the finalists in the "Team of the Year" category for the 1982 athletic year in an awards competition held by the Idaho Hall of Fame, Inc.

The awards will be presented at the 21st annual Idaho Sports Banquet, which will be held at the North Shore Convention Center in Coeur d'Alene Saturday, March 19 at 7:30 p.m. Gil Brandt, vice-president and director of player personnel for the Dallas Cowboys, will be the featured speaker.

Additionally, five new members will be inducted into the state Hall of Fame.

Nominated for the state's top male amateur athlete award are Ken Owens and Brian Kellerman, Idaho basketball; Ken Hobart and Sam Merriman, Idaho football; Greg Burrell, Idaho State track and cross country; and Randy Mueller, St. Maries and Linfield College football.

The list for the top female amateur athlete includes Tressa Spaulding, Meridian High basketball; Andrea Lloyd, Moscow High basketball; Colene Williams and Patsy Sharples, Idaho track; and Denise Brose, Idaho basketball.

The coach of the year nominees are Don Monson, Idaho basketball; Dennis Erickson, Idaho football; and John Owen, North Idaho College wrestling.

Nominated for the state's professional athlete of the year award are Cedric Milner, Toronto Argonauts football; John Yarno, Seattle Seahawks football; and Dee Pickett, of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Twin Falls boosters to meet

TWIN FALLS — The baseball team will be the featured guests when the Twin Falls Bruin Boosters meet at 7 a.m. Tuesday at J.B.'s restaurant.

Coaches Bill Ingram and Rich Milward, along with the team members, will be present for a preview of the season.

Athletic Director Duke Wiseman said all interested persons are invited.

MSU cage coach on way out

BOZEMAN, Mont. (UPI) — Montana State University officials indicated Friday that Bruce Hamilton would resign or be fired as men's basketball coach after two losing seasons.

The officials, who declined to be identified, said the school planned to issue a statement, probably late Friday.

Hamilton declined to comment. Haroldson's Bobcats went 3-11 in the Big Sky Conference and 10-17 overall this season. They were 66-69 in Haroldson's five years at the helm.

Attendance at Bobcat games had declined about 40 percent from the level of two years ago.

USFL owner challenges Pats

BOSTON (UPI) — The owner of the USFL's Tampa Bay Bandits, angered that his club was labeled a semi-pro team by New England personnel chief Dick Steinberg, has challenged the Patriots to a $1 million winner-take-all game.

In a March 3 letter to Steinberg, Tampa Bay owner John Bassett said he resented having the Bandits called a semi-pro team. Steinberg, one of the most respected talent judges in football, made the comments March 1.

Steinberg, who also called USFL Commissioner Chet Simmons "a puppet" at the March 1 news briefing, could not be reached for comment.

Bears' Halas hospitalized

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Bears' owner George Halas has been hospitalized for a series of tests, a spokesman for the football club disclosed Friday.

The 88-year-old Halas is "doing well," the spokesman said, refusing to disclose which hospital is conducting the tests other than to say it is located in Chicago.

76ers should get Jones back

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Philadelphia forward Bobby Jones practiced with the 76ers Friday for the first time since he broke his right big toe two weeks ago and is expected to return to the lineup tonight in Landover, Md., against the Washington Bullets, a team spokesman said.

Jones suffered the "undisplaced fracture" of the toe in the second quarter of a game against the Golden State Warriors on Feb. 27.

Jones, a defensive specialist and usually the first forward off the bench, missed four games with the injury. The 76ers went 2-2 during that span, dropping back-to-back contests to the Boston Celtics and the New Jersey Nets, the first time the team lost two in a row this season.

Doctor says clot felled boxer

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A teen-age amateur boxer, who collapsed after a Golden Gloves fight, apparently died of a blood clot less than 24 hours old, said the neurosurgeon who operated on the boy.

Dr. Carrel M. Caudill said Thursday the size of the clot indicated Michael Pitzer, 17, of Princeton, N.J., received the injury within a day of his Feb. 6 fight in Montgomery, Ala., against Glen Morris, 23.

Pitzer died Feb. 15 at Charleston Area Medical Center. Ring-side officials at the Montgomery bout said Pitzer was not hit in the head during the fight from which he withdrew midway. He collapsed later in the locker room.

Stars-Generals highlights USFL action

By United Press International

The Philadelphia Stars defeated the Gold last week. On Sunday, they met the USFL's Fort Knox — the New Jersey Generals.

The Stars' defense, maligned so much in pre-season that its members dubbed the unit the "Doghouse Defense," forced five turnovers and mounted a last-minute goal-line stand in a 13-7 triumph in Denver last week.

New Jersey's Herschel Walker figures to see more action in his second pro game Sunday as he leads the Generals into Veterans Stadium.

Philadelphia Coach Jim Mora said no special defense has been devised to stop Walker, who gained 65 yards in 16 carries and scored a touchdown last Sunday as he made his pro debut in the Generals' 20-15 loss in Los Angeles.

"The guys all know about him," Mora said of the Heisman Trophy winner from Georgia. "I'm sure we'll jack them up playing against him. We have to remember to be disciplined with our leverage and containment and get people to the ball."

New Jersey Coach Chuck Fairbanks received plenty of heat last week after playing Walker sparingly in the second half of a close game. Fairbanks said Walker hadn't been in camp long enough to know all of the Generals' blocking schemes. In Walker's case, a little knowledge may indeed be a dangerous thing against the Stars.

"You're not going to see a sudden change in one practice, but we're sure he's picking up a little more each time," Fairbanks said. "We're trying to include him in all phases of practice."

"I thought their (the Stars') defense played very well together. They were well-coordinated. Offensively, they have a bright young back (rookie) Kelvin Bryant. I was impressed with their ability to pass protect and they did a good job of picking up blitzes."

Bryant gained 51 yards in 18 carries and caught six passes last week while New Jersey quarterback

Bobby Scott was harried into three interceptions and sacked four times by a strong Express pass rush.

In tonight's games, Chicago is at Arizona and Michigan at Tampa Bay. Birmingham is at Oakland and Boston at Denver on Sunday and Washington travels to Los Angeles for a Monday night contest.

The game at Tempe, Ariz., appears like a mismatch — until you talk to the Wranglers.

Last week, the Wranglers were the only team in the new league that failed to score a point, losing 24-0 to the Oakland Invaders. Chicago, meanwhile, posted the highest score among the 12 USFL teams as the George Allen-led Bills rolled to a 28-7 victory in Washington's RFK Stadium.

"I know we're here to stay," said Arizona Coach Doug Shively, a former defensive coach for the NFL's Atlanta Falcons. "We're a young team (29 rookies on a 40-man roster) and we're going to get better."

Nicolette survives bogeys, still tops Bay Hill

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Nicolette bogeyed four of the last six holes for a 1-over-par 72 Friday but still managed to escape the second round of the wind-swept $350,000 Bay Hill Classic with a 3-stroke lead over Bob Glider.

Nicolette, who has never won a PGA event during his four years on the Tour, finished the day with a 1-over-par 72. Nicolette, who fired a 66 to lead the first round, has a two-day total of 138 heading into Saturday's third round.

Glider stands at 1-under-par 141 after his par round of 71 Friday. Donnie Hammond is alone in third place, four shots back at 142. Larry Nelson and Greg Norman are tied at 143. Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson lead a quintet of players sitting at 144 six shots off the pace set by the 26-year-old Nicolette.

Tournament host Arnold Palmer, who owns the Bay Hill course, carded the worst score of his competitive golfing career, shooting an 85 and missing the cut. On the par 5 No. 6 hole, Palmer dropped two shots into a lake and three-putted on his way to a 10.

A total of 74 players, who stand at 152 or better, survived the cut.

Wind gusts up to 35 mph and temperatures in the low 50s sent scores soaring Friday. Only Curtis Strange managed a sub-par round, recording a 2-under 69. But Strange's 91 during Thursday's first round left him well back in the pack.

Nicolette appeared unhindered by the conditions early in Friday's round. He birdied five-holes on the front nine — four in a row at one point — and dipped as low as 8-under for the tournament.

Unknowns speedy in practice runs

LAKE LOUISE, Alberta (UPI) — All predictions for today's finish at the final World Cup downhill race of the season were silenced Friday by Robin McLeish and Bill Johnson, two unheralded racers with an excellent sense of dramatic timing.

McLeish, who has never placed in the top 15 during six years on tour with the Canadian team, and Johnson, a 20-year-old who has raced only four World Cups with the U.S. team this season, came from second-seeded start positions to finish tied for first place in the second and last timed training run down Whitehorn Mountain.

The two longshots roared down the icy and extremely fast 2,970 meter run in 1 minute and 39.06 seconds.

Their impressive finishes caused some consternation among the top 15 starters, with seven skiers still have a chance to lock up the championship. McLeish, who started 29th in both runs, had finished eighth in the first training run, while Johnson, who started 24th, was 10th in the first run.

World Cup leader Franz Klammer leads a precarious 1-point lead over Conradin Cathomen of Switzerland in his bid for a fifth World Cup championship.

Canadian ace Todd Brooker, who must win and hope Klammer places no better than third and Cathomen no better than fourth, took the first training run while Ken Read of Calgary, making his downhill farewell Saturday after a decade on the tour, placed second.

Brooker and Read were timed at 1:38.70 and 1:38.87 respectively for the two fastest times of the day and appeared headed to the same 1-2 finish in the second run until Johnson and McLeish arrived at the bottom of the mountain.

U.S. woman wins in skating

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI) — Roslynn Summers of the United States Friday won the women's world ice figure skating championship.

Second was Claudia Leistner of West Germany and Elena Vovorezova of the Soviet Union placed third.

To the music of "La Gazza Ladra," Summers, like American Scott Hamilton the night before, went through without a blemish. Her three triples meant another gold for the United States.

Leistner beat out Vovorezova for the silver medal, even though falling on her opening triple Lutz.

Summers, the 18-year-old U.S. champion from Edmonds, Wash., was Judged the best free skater of the competition.
