Senate raises gas two cents

By STEVEN CHRISTENSEN
United Press International

BOISE — The Senate on Friday knocked one penny off a House-approved proposal to bump state gasoline taxes, then adopted a measure which would raise the levy by two cents to fund highway improvements around the state.

Sen. Bruce Sweeney, D-Lewiston, said the two-cent hike would raise a total of about $13.4 million during the next fiscal year.

Half of that amount would go directly to local governments, the remainder would be spent by the Idaho Transportation Department for road and bridge construction and repair.

The increase, which would go into effect upon final gubernatorial approval, would be on top of a five-cent boost in federal gasoline taxes which became effective Friday.

Legislators are also considering a bill which would raise the state tax on diesel fuel by four cents.

House members originally proposed the gasoline levy be increased by three cents to meet the funding needs of counties, highway districts and state DOT.

But Sen. C.A. "Skip" Smyser, R-Parma, said the two-cent figure will provide the same revenue as would a three-cent hike. If the diesel increase is also enacted.

Representatives must still concur in the Senate action, which was finally approved on a 24-8 vote.

Sen. Wall Yarbrough, R-Grand View, said it is particularly critical that state fuel taxes be hiked at this time — not only to stave off continued deterioration of Idaho's highway system, but to enable the state to qualify for newly available federal funds.

He said Idaho must put up eight cents for every dollar in federal aid it wants for improvement of interstate highways, and 20 cents for each federal dollar earmarked for local road improvement.

"If you can meet that match, you can get an awful lot of construction done," he said.

Yarbrough also said some other states may not be able to raise the matching funds necessary to obtain their full share of federal support.

In those cases, he said, Idaho would be able to get additional money if it has revenue available to qualify for the match.

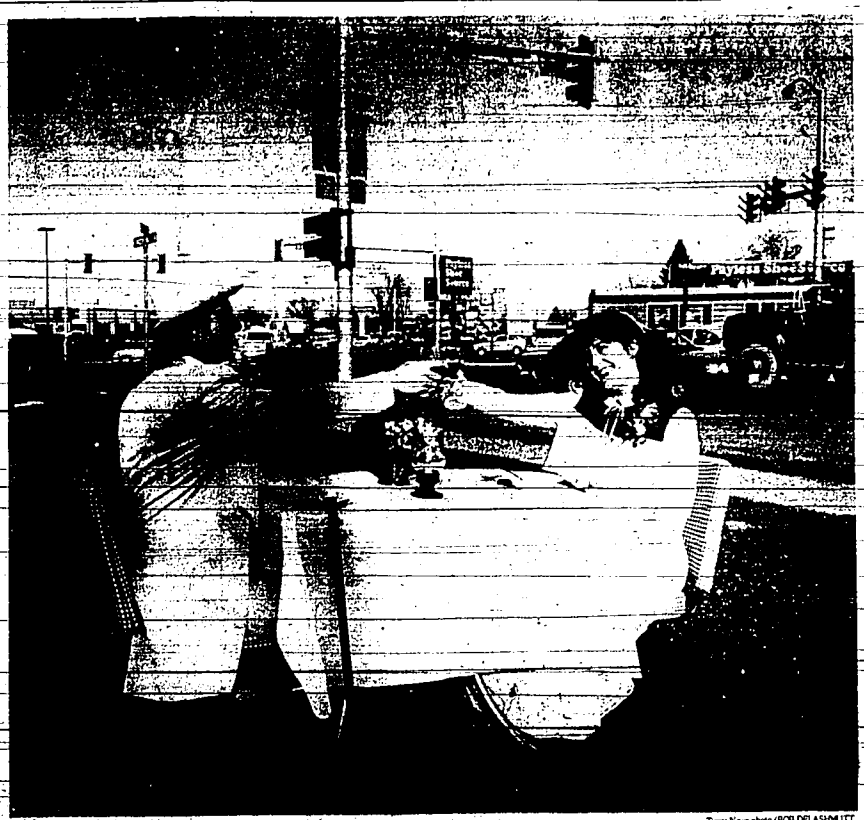

Smyser also said limiting the increase to two cents will keep Idaho gas station owners who operate out-lets near state borders competitive with fuel dealers across the line.

Senators opposing the hike said they were listening to the wishes of their constituents.

Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, said he received petitions signed by more than 1,200 residents in his district who are opposed to any hikes in fuel taxes.

Other senators voting against the hike included Republicans Vearl Crystal of Idaho Falls, Roger Fairchild of Fruitland, Atwell Parry of Melba, Marsden Williams of Idaho Falls, Gary Chapman of Boise and Deaton Darrington of Declo.

The only Democrat opposing the increase was John Peavy of Carey.

NATO expects long hot summer of protests

By BARRY JAMES
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Europe's expected long hot summer of nuclear protest got under way with massive demonstrations in Britain and West Germany Friday, bringing to a head the debate over the NATO deployment of new missiles.

NATO officials expect the demonstrations to intensify as the date for the now expected first deployments in December grows closer.

The United States plans to place 464 Tomahawk cruise missiles in Europe and 108

Analysis

Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany, unless the Soviet Union agrees before then to dismantle some 600 intermediate-range missiles.

In an evident gesture to the anti-nuclear movement in Europe and the nuclear freeze movement in his own country, President Reagan this week unveiled the outlines of a compromise disarmament plan that would scale down the NATO deployment if the Soviet Union agrees to dismantle part of its intermediate-range missile force.

He said any agreement must be based on parity of warheads.

Since the Soviet SS-20 missile, of which an estimated 351 have been deployed, carry three warheads each, Reagan's plan would mean that NATO will deploy three single-headed cruise or Pershing missiles for every SS-20 the Russians keep.

Reagan gave no figures, but NATO sources say the Western deployment is unlikely to be less than 300 missiles.

The Pershing 2 is a ballistic missile that will have a flight time of less than 12 minutes to the Soviet Union from launching sites in Germany. It is the weapon that most concerns the Soviets.

But NATO experts say there is no question of coming to an agreement to cancel the deployment of Pershings while allowing that of cruises to go ahead.

They said the deployment has inbuilt automatic factors, one of which is that Pershings will be placed in West Germany at the end of the year.

Germany is not due to receive cruise missiles until 1985.

The other countries pledged to deploy cruise missiles over a five-year period are Britain, Italy, Holland and Belgium.

The initial Soviet reaction to Reagan's compromise offer has not been enthusiastic, since it still entails disarmament for Russia and rearmament for the West.

"I'm not very optimistic," said disarmament negotiator Yuri V. Kvitsinsky in Geneva. "Let's wait and see."

Talks on intermediate-range nuclear forces have been adjourned until mid-May.

Chronic unemployment rate improves only very slightly

By THOMAS OLIPHANT
Boston Globe

WASHINGTON — The nation's chronic unemployment problem improved very slightly during March, the Labor Department reported Friday, though a decline in participation in the labor force was a much more important factor than a tiny increase in the number of Americans holding jobs.

At 10.3 percent of the civilian labor force (those working or jobless and looking), the unemployed rate in March compared to 10.4 in February. With the uniformed military services thrown into the labor force total, the rate was 10.1 percent last month, and 10.2 percent in February.

Nationally, the Labor Department reported these additional principal developments during March, from its monthly survey of 60,000 households:

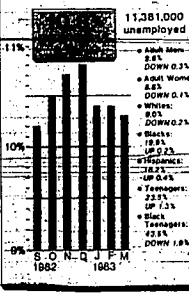

• The size of the labor force dipped by another 70,000 people to about 110.5 million, and is down 650,000 since December. In typical recov-eries, the labor force increases rather rapidly as people wanting to work start looking again.

• The number of people employed inched up by 40,000 to 99.1 million, almost the same figure reported for December. The average for the first quarter of this year is slightly below that for the fourth quarter of 1982.

• About 110,000 fewer people were said to be officially unemployed, with the total slightly below 11.4 million, compared to the December peak of just over 12 million.

U.S. Marines told to carry weapons which are loaded

By JACK REDDEN
United Press International

U.S. Marines in Beirut were ordered to carry loaded weapons for the first time Friday based on Lebanese intelligence reports that they were likely to be attacked again.

Marine commander Col. James Mead said the threat of a repetition of the March 16 grenade attack on a U.S. patrol, which wounded five men, forced him to abandon the U.S. policy of keeping ammunition clips out of their weapons.

The U.S. move followed a recent increase in the overall level of violence — with attacks on French and Italian troops in the peace-keeping force, as well as continual ambushes of the Israeli occupation forces.

But Mead said the main reason for the change was a call he received from Gen. Ibrahim Tannous, the commander of the Lebanese armed forces. "That based on his intelligence our patrols had an increased probability of being hit."

The Marines had taken the precaution earlier in the week of arming one man in each patrol — about a dozen men — but the new information forced the sharp change in U.S. policy.

The decision to carry loaded weapons put the Marines in step with the French and Italian peace keepers, who have always carried loaded weapons. The Marines had pointed to their policy of not carrying loaded weapons to emphasize their peace mission.

Lebanese authorities say they have arrested people for the March 16 attack, but have not released any details.

Many possible sources of the attacks on the peace keepers have been suggested, covering the political spectrum. Some Western diplomats have pointed out that the Marines patrol an area of Beirut where there are concentrations of pro-Iranian Shiite Muslims.

In Tel Aviv, state-run Israeli radio said Israel and Lebanon have agreed to conduct 10 daily joint patrols in south Lebanon to ensure that Palestinian guerrillas do not return to the area after an Israeli troop withdrawal.

The report said the Israeli troops would be allowed to spend the night in Lebanon. A Foreign Ministry spokesman said he could not confirm the report but that "good progress" had been made on the issue of joint patrols.

Magic Valley jobless rate increases

By The Times-News and United Press International

BOISE — Idaho's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate stayed unchanged last month at 7.6 percent.

That occurred despite the fact that an increased number of workers are finding jobs in the agricultural and wood-products industries, the state Department of Employment reported Friday.

But in the Magic Valley, the adjusted unemployment rate topped the state mark and soared to 7.8 percent in March, the highest rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties since that statistics have been kept.

Lon McDonald, the Department of Employment's labor-market analyst for the Twin Falls bureau, says the influence of the seasonal adjustment factor was a key reason the Magic Valley rate soared from February's mark of 7.1 percent.

The area normally sees a surge in employment during March, he says. That surge is reflected in the mathematical computations with which the department treats the "raw figures."

"This year, we didn't get the surge that we normally get," he said.

One reason was wet weather, which kept farmers from getting to their fields, McDonald said. Another was depressed farm prices, which mean farmers will not be putting on as many workers as normal this spring.

"Our records show that Twin Falls County has the highest agricultural employment in the state, and that is why it (the farm situation) has a more profound effect here than some other counties," McDonald says.

Twin Falls County also saw an increase in the number of out-of-area workers re-entering the labor force, McDonald says. That mirrored the situation at the state level.

Randy Furniss, a spokesman for the department in Boise, said Friday that the state figures "look encouraging."

"Discouraged workers are looking back and finding jobs, so being static is good right now," he said.

McDonald agreed. The labor force

Storms kill 5 people

By United Press International
Spring's gentle breezes turned into April foolery Friday, churning up a windstorm in central Texas and hurling tornadoes and thunderstorms in a triangle from Texas to Kansas to Louisiana.
The storms killed five people in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Central Texas, blowing dust reduced visibility to zero, causing several highway accidents. Winds gusting up to 70 mph knocked down utility poles and caused property damage.

A man who was trying to catch his hat in 35 mph winds died in a 40-foot fall from a highway bridge. At Fort Hood, a civilian high voltage lineman was electrocuted as he worked on a power line broken by high winds.

The Coast Guard rescued several people whose boats were capsized by high winds and choppy seas in the Galveston area, including one woman believed to be suffering from a mild case of hypothermia.

Nerve gas vial broken

HERMISTON, Ore. (UPI) — A small vial of deadly nerve gas shattered during laboratory testing at the Umatic Army Depot Thursday, but no one was injured, the Army revealed Friday.
Five people were working inside a special mobile laboratory when the accident occurred, but they were wearing protective gas masks and rubber outfits, officials said.

"There were no apparent injuries or exposure due to the incident," said Susan Voss, a spokeswoman at the Tooele Army Depot in Utah, which supervises the eastern Oregon depot where nerve gas munitions are stored.

GM cars have safety defects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says in an "initial determination" report there is a safety defect in as many as 5.3 million of General Motors' 1979, 1979 and 1980 1980-1981 cars and station wagons.
An NHTSA spokesman said the nation's No. 1 auto producer will face a recall unless the agency reverses its finding. A hearing was set for May 4.
The announcement Friday came just two days after GM began a recall of 240,000 of its 1980 X-model cars because of a problems with those vehicles' brakes that can cause the cars to spin out of control.

Peace protesters arrested

More than 200 opponents of nuclear weapons were arrested in Good Friday peace protests across the United States, including women holding babies and protesters who planted Easter flowers at the shipyard where Trident submarines are built.

The demonstrations, involving more than 1,000 people, took place near the Pentagon, at a research facility and bomber base in California, at the Grouton, Conn., Electric Boat Co. shipyard, at research centers in New York City and Silver Spring, Md., and at the nuclear testing site in Nevada.

Most of the demonstrators were charged with minor offenses and released. No injuries were reported.

Elderly arrested in drug raid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two 65-year-old women were arrested and charged with involvement in a $600,000-a-week heroin operation in Harlem, officials said Friday.

Mamie Canty, of Manhattan, was arrested at her home — the alleged base of her drug trafficking operations — Thursday, said Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman Andrew Pucher. A second 65-year-old woman, Paula Cicero, was arrested at the apartment she shared with Cicero. Four others were arrested in the case and police said Ms. Canty was the instigator of the operation.

"This was a group that controlled all of the heroin trafficking on 111th and 112th streets between Lenox and Eighth Avenue," he said. "We were estimating 10,000 bags a week were being sold up there."

Fleming can keep homes

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — A judge ruled Friday that Erin Fleming can keep two homes and other gifts Groucho Marx gave her, saying she believed the former actress had been a good influence on the comedian in his last years.

But Superior Court Judge Jacqueline Weiss denied a defense request to grant a mistrial in the complicated Bank of America suit and let stand a jury verdict that Ms. Fleming pay nearly $500,000 damages to the late comedian's estate.

The judge said she believed two doctors who testified during the 10-week trial that Ms. Fleming, 42, had been a positive influence on the aging comedian while his companion during the six years before his death in 1977, at age 85.

Hamsters die on airplane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has charged Eastern Airlines Inc. with violating animal welfare laws in connection with the death of 80 hamsters, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The hamsters, part of a group of 100, died while being flown from Miami to San Juan, Puerto Rico, in one shipping container designed to hold only 50 of the animals, the department said in a printed statement.

The other 20 hamsters survived the trip last Aug. 17, the statement added.

The department has asked that Eastern be ordered to pay $2,000 in civil penalties in the matter.

Orangutan on duty

CHICAGO (UPI) — The joke was on the telephone pranksters Friday at the Lincoln Park Zoo, where officials put Sibu the Orangutan on duty at the switchboard.

Zoo Director Lester E. Fisher said this was Sibu's third-year "holding calls" from the traditional flood of April Fool's Day crank callers who ask to speak with Mr. Lion, L.F. Phant, Mr. Fox and Mr. Gator.

To make sure Sibu took his job seriously, the telephone mouthpiece was smeared with honey for his 20-minute shift.

Puppet mom

Sisquoc, the California condor chick that hatched Wednesday at the San Diego Zoo, is fed by keeper Bill Toone using a condor puppet. Sisquoc, named after a condor preserve in Santa Barbara County, was transferred to the San Diego Wild Animal Park and is receiving around-the-clock care at the "Condorminium." The chick, which is the first of its species to hatch in captivity, is doing very well. It has gained three grams since hatching and now weighs 203.5 grams. The young condor eats on demand.

Jobs

In the Magic Valley increased by 993 people during the month, he says.

"When we get these discouraged workers employed, it will bring down the unemployment rate."

"While the 7.9 percent figure is not good news, we need to go through this transitional period before we can see reductions," he says.

A renewed optimism about finding work, resulting from both of the time of year and a perception that the national recession may be lessening, has caused discouraged workers to begin seeking work again, McDonald says.

But he says recessions traditionally linger longer in the Magic Valley than other parts of the country, because an agricultural economy does not react as quickly to economic changes as does one based on manufacturing.

The Magic Valley's previous seasonally-adjusted monthly unemployment high was 7.6 percent in April 1982. But last month's 7.9 percent figure was the highest since 1961, when the present method of computing the statistic first was used.

Statewide, Furniss said the March figure marked the second month in a row that unemployment figures were lower than last year.

He attributed that to jobs opening elsewhere in the seasonal agriculture industry and to new jobs in the recovering lumber industry.

"Only the mineral-products industry remains depressed, and that's just up to the markets," he said.

The Idaho Department of Employment also announced Friday that it has received approval to borrow $30 million in federal funds during the second quarter of this year to bolster a nearly depleted unemployment trust fund.

That fund, which is used to pay unemployment insurance benefits, now stands at $1.5 million, and state officials may begin borrowing the federal money on Monday, said the agency's state director, Scott McDonald.

Space shuttle crew ready for blastoff

CAPF CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The first crew of the space shuttle Challenger swooped over the launch pad Friday in two jets and later said they were ready for blastoff Monday on a crucial five-day orbital test run.

Astronauts Paul Weitz, Karol Bobko, Story Musgrave and Donald Peterson flew to the Kennedy Space Center from their home base in Houston, arriving more than an hour early — in time to get a bird's-eye view of their spaceship in the setting sun before landing.

Their space mission has been delayed 2 1/2 months by engine problems but Weitz said everything appears "in great shape" for launch Monday. "We've been looking forward to this for quite some time," Weitz said after landing at 5:52 p.m. EST on the long runway that the Challenger will use when it returns from space on its second flight in June. "We were ready in January and we're ready now."

"We're here to do a job and we're ready to go do it."

Musgrave, who flew to the spaceport in the second T-38 jet with Bobko, said "We think we have a very exciting mission and we think have a very good vehicle."

It will be the first flight for the nation's second orbital freighter.

At the launch pad, the countdown cruises through its third-day with engineers closing up the cargo bay that holds the largest and most complex payload a shuttle has yet carried. The doors to the 60-foot long compartment were reported shut for flight at 4:10 p.m. EST.

Technicians also stowed food, medical supplies, cameras and other astronaut gear in the ship's cabin. Challenger's cargo is a 2 1/2-ton special purpose communications satellite to be launched from the spaceship Monday night and a 16-ton rocket to push it from a low orbit to a path 21,300 miles high where its speed will match Earth's rotation and it will remain over one point.

Kennedy Space Center director Richard Smith said flight preparations were going so well, there was nothing to discuss Friday at a daily status conference for project managers.

"A Monday launch right now looks in great shape," Smith said in an interview in his office overlooking the base built to send men to the moon. "We're on schedule. There are no problems in the woodwork."

"If the weather holds good for us, we're going to be ready."

A frontal system with wind and thunderstorms was expected to pass through the ocean-side spaceport Saturday, and Smith said that might slow countdown work, but not enough to affect the 1:30 p.m. EST blastoff time Monday.

Students test IRS claim for new form

KANKAKEE, Ill. (UPI) — A classroom of eighth-graders became guinea pigs for a local newspaper that wanted to test the Internal Revenue Service's claim that its new 1040-EZ tax form was simple enough for a child to fill out.

Marx Gibson, managing editor of the Kankakee Journal, said Friday 28 students at the Kennedy Upper Grade Center in Kankakee were recently given a hypothetical situation to test of the IRS claim.

The new form is for single people with no dependents and a 1982 taxable income under $50,000 and no more than $400 in interest.

The pupils were told to assess their taxes based on a yearly salary of $15,500 — $21 in interest from a savings account, a $100 charitable donation and $1,302 in federal income withheld from their paychecks.

Sixty-eight percent of the class, or 20 youngsters, correctly computed a tax refund of $150. About 20 of the youngsters said the task was easier than they had expected.

But that doesn't mean they are looking forward to being taxpayers. "I hope I never have to fill out an income tax form," said Sonja Latham. She was among those who rated the task "very hard."

On the other hand, Becca Sacs said "it was really easy once you got into it." But, she added, sometimes she had to read the instructions more than once.

Many of the students said they had the hardest time determining what portion of the charity contribution was deductible. The IRS instructions on the form refers taxpayers to a complicated worksheet for figuring out the deduction.

One student had a complaint of a different nature. Chris Seaton pointed to a line that asks whether the taxpayer wants to contribute $1 toward the president's re-election campaign. "They shouldn't have that presidential thing on there," he said.

Next to the item, Chris had written in capital letters "No Thanks."

Protesters hold die-in

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of about 60 young demonstrators, some carrying babies, splashed what appeared to be blood on the floor of a shopping concourse leading to the Pentagon Friday to protest the threat of nuclear war.

Eight of the demonstrators were arrested. A spokesman for the demonstrators, all members of the Baltimore-based Atlantic Life Community, said long-time anti-war activist Philip Berrigan, 39, of Baltimore, was among those arrested.

The spokesman, John Shiel, said the charges ranged from littering to obstruction. He said one demonstrator was charged with simple assault because the red liquid splattered on the clothing of a bystander during the 1:30 p.m. EST protest.

Authorities said six of the demonstrators were released after being issued citations and two others were turned over to magistrate court in nearby Alexandria, Va. They also were released by 4 p.m.

Shiel said the demonstrators dumped ashes and human blood on the concourse. He said the blood was withdrawn from the protesters by registered nurses.

"This is called a 'die-in,' which simulates a national nuclear attack," Shiel said.

One of 5 dolphins dies

MYSTIC, Conn. (UPI) — One of five female white-beaked dolphins netted in a Newfoundland harbor five days ago died Friday at Mystic MarineLife Aquarium, as a Canadian animal behavior specialist criticized aquarium officials for not letting the mammals escape into the open sea.

"She began to swim erratically and started bumping into the side of the pool," said Mystic spokeswoman Julie Quinn of the dolphin, who died about 11:30 p.m.

The four other dolphins continue to eat, although one dolphin remained weak, she said.

Ms. Quinn rejected a claim in Toronto the five dolphins would have escaped to the open sea if aquarium workers had not laid down nets to trap them.

John Lien, a professor at Memorial University in St. John's, Newfoundland, said the ice had receded and the aquarium's nets prevented the dolphins from escaping.

Lien said local fishermen hired by the aquarium laid the nets while the ice was still clogging the inlet so that when the ice receded the nets blocked the animals' escape.

"At that point the dolphins were not held by ice but were held by the fishermen's nets," he said in an interview scheduled to be broadcast Saturday by CBC Radio.

Morgue may be destroyed

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The 50 million clippings in the morgue of the defunct New York World-Telegram & Sun will be destroyed if no one buys them by May 6, the president of the University of Missouri said Friday.

University President James Conant voted Friday on a committee's recommendation that the university should get rid of the collection. Cost was one factor cited in the recommendation.

The collection now is being stored in caves north of Kansas City for $17,000 a year and "a conservative estimate" would be in excess of $600,000 to microfilm the collection, but more realistic would be over $1 million," said Lawrence H. Larsen, a university history professor.

Legislature plays April Fool

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

BOISE — Legislation raising the drinking age to 75 and granting state subsidies to parents of varsity college athletes were placed before the Idaho House of Representatives on Friday.

Well, sort of — after all, it was April Fools' Day. And since the Legislature has never met in regular session in April, lawmakers accepted the rare opportunity to laugh at themselves and offer some spoof legislation.

Among those targeted were: Reps. Steve Antone, R-Rupert; Gordon Hollifield, R-Jerome; and Lawrence Knigge, R-Filer.

The hoax bills were dreamed up by Rep. Gene Winchester, R-Kuna. "to poke a little fun at some folks."

Antone was the subject of a joke because he is the chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, which is attempting to pass tax bills to raise the revenue needed to balance next year's budget.

The phony bill sought "to provide emergency powers to the House Revenue and Taxation Committee chairman to act independently during the state fiscal shortfall to levy taxes as necessary on Idaho corporations and businesses."

But none of the measures actually were read on the House floor because of an edit by House Speaker Tom Stivers, R-Twin Falls: that legislative time not be consumed by frivolous activities.

The House adjourned for the Easter weekend about 10:30 a.m. Friday, while the Senate worked until noon.

Meanwhile, Hollifield was the subject of the drinking-bill joke, as the Jerome legislator acknowledged his willingness to socialize in drinking establishments. The measure would have raised the drinking age to 75 and required a "license to imbibe."

In response, Rep. Martin Trillhauge, R-Idaho Falls, volunteered to tour the state informing bar-owners of the new law, "as long as Mr. Winchester is my chauffeur and Mr. Hollifield my guide."

Knigge, who is noted for publicly announcing the latest accomplishments of his son the baseball pitcher, was slated to carry a bill authorizing Lewis and Clark State College to join the Pac 10 Athletic Conference.

Jobless checks in jeopardy

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate suspended its rules Friday to take quick action on a bill designed to save a state unemployment fund which officials say is so depleted it cannot cover the issuance of any jobless-benefits checks beyond April 4.

In a continuing battle between the two legislative chambers, the Senate Friday removed a House taxing schedule from the measure and reimposed a formula approved by the upper body earlier this month.

If House members do not concur in the change, the bill will go to a conference committee, said Sen. Roger Falchlid.

Meanwhile, Idaho Department of Employment Director Scott McDonald said Friday the state's fund is nearly broke. He said it contains only $680,000 — and will be bankrupt by Tuesday unless action is taken.

McDonald has received approval from the U.S. Labor Department to borrow $30 million in federal funds Monday to keep the account solvent for the second quarter. Those monies would be bolstered by at least $16 million in employer contributions under the schedule currently in effect, he said.

But the department director added he must obtain specific legislative approval — such as that contained in both the House and Senate measures — to undertake the borrowing. That permission, he said, must be given by July 1.

The major difference between the two legislative proposals centers on the size of cuts in benefits to the jobless — and how much employers should have to bear in additional taxes.

Lawmakers debate lobbyists issue

BOISE (UPI) — Senators haggled Friday over how thoroughly lobbyists should have to account for money they spend influencing lawmakers, then approved a bill requiring disclosures only when those expenditures exceed $50.

Under current statutes, lobbyists disclose the total amount of money spent on any particular function, then list the legislators or other elected officials who participated in the event.

Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, said the law misleads the public because it appears that money paid for such functions as parties or dinners was spent on only a few officials.

He proposed an amendment to a House bill which requires that lobbyists disclose spending on officials only if the amount exceeds $50 per lawmaker for a particular event.

That amendment was approved on a 22-10 vote after legislators turned down an alternative offered by Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey. Peavey's change would have required that lobbyists list the total spent on an event, officials who participated, and the number of people at the function.

He said the Budge proposal "strays very, very far from the idea of open government" because it allows lobbyists to hide smaller expenditures.

Sen. Ron Belletsbacher, D-Grangeville, added lobbyists will not like the Budge amendment because it requires they keep track of the amount of food or drink consumed by officials at group dinners or parties.

Motorists rush to beat costlier gas

By HAL BERNSTON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Area motorists flocked to service stations Wednesday night to fill up their cars with one last drop of gas before the new 5-cent-a-gallon federal tax increase went into effect Thursday morning.

Several service-station managers reported a booming business, and even some modest lines forming around the pumps.

Darlene Garrea, the manager of the North Washington Street Circle K, says that her station tripled its 1,500-gallon-a-day average business, as motorists waited in line for up to 20 minutes to purchase gas.

"I had to come in and help the new clerk and also call in my brother-in-law," she says.

With the arrival of the new federal tax, the great gas wars of 1962-1963 have ground—at least temporarily—to a halt.

Local gasoline wholesalers—known as "jobbers"—in industry lingo—report that all but one of the major oil companies have raised their prices. With the summer driving season fast approaching, the jobbers expect to see a slow series of gradual price increases in the months ahead. Most local retailers have not hesitated to pass on the full 5-cent-a-gallon tax increase to motorists, they say.

The gas wars are ending without area motorists ever getting a chance to sample the bargain-basement 85-cent-a-gallon prices that Seattle and Phoenix residents have enjoyed in recent weeks. Nor has Salt Lake City's 93-cent-a-gallon pump prices made a bow in Twin Falls.

Local gas prices dipped only briefly below the $1-a-gallon mark during the past winter—registering a 96-cent-a-gallon low-water mark in February. And on the eve of the federal tax increase, the cheapest price for regular gasoline in Twin Falls stood at around $1.03.

Jobbers contacted by The Times-News all agreed that the relatively high price level of gasoline in the Twin Falls area was not due to any lack of competition at the local level.

"I don't think you could find two gasoline stations in the Magic Valley that have shown a profit over the last six months," says Ron Laird, the owner of Kendrick's Petroleum.

Laird and other dealers report that a spirited price war among local retail outlets over the past few months has reduced retail profit margins substantially below the 10-cent-a-gallon level once considered to be the industry benchmark.

"At one point in time, my gas was selling on the street for two cents below cost," Laird says. "And I averaged through my eight outlets only 6-cents- to 8-cents-a-gallon profit margins."

Laird says the narrow dealer margins hurt the small independent gas stations more than the national fast-food-and-gas chain stores, which are grabbing an ever-increasing share of motorists' dollar.

According to Laird, the 7-11 and Circle K chains can work on gasoline profit margins as low as 2 cents to 3 cents a gallon and still make enough money through grocery sales to end up in the "black."

For such stores, Laird says, gasoline serves as a kind of "loss-leader" item to get people into the stores, rather than as a major source of income.

In attempting to explain the relative high cost of gas in Twin Falls, some jobbers have pointed the finger at Idaho's 12.5-cent-a-gallon

Sheriff wants deputies in armor

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

RUPERT — For a long time, Minidoka County Sheriff Ray Jarvis has been considering buying body armor for his deputies.

But the March 24 shooting of a Twin Falls County sheriff's deputy, Robert Gauthier, brought the need "much closer to home," he says.

So, Jarvis says, he's seriously shopping around for five bulletproof vests for his officers.

Gauthier, 39, who is recuperating at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, was shot while responding to a family-dispute call in Piler.

So far, Jarvis has found that vests are expensive, ranging in price from $200 to $700 each. He says that he will make any purchases from his department's budget. The sheriff received approval earlier this week from the Minidoka County commissioners to buy the armor.

But, he says, he doesn't know when he will make the purchases until he shops around a little more.

No matter the type, however, the vests would be insurance for the deputies out in the field, the sheriff says. At any one time, there are five or more officers on patrol in the county.

Along with the purchase of body armor will be the creation of a new policy that his deputies wear them, Jarvis says.

County commission Chairman Lyle Barton says the kind of incident that occurred in Piler does not happen often. But the vests, he says, are worth buying if they save even one life in one of those rare instances.

Also this week, the commissioners approved a $300 expenditure for equipment for the Snake River Scuba Divers group. The diving group participates in the recovery of drowning victims in the county.

The $300 will be taken from the county's waterways fund, which is generated by taxes on boats. The county annually provides funds for the divers' equipment, Barton says. The group has more than a dozen members.

Barton also announced that an auction of county property will be held May 5 at 2 p.m. in front of the Minidoka County Courthouse.

Janice Kroeger, the Jerome county assistant prosecutor, and Deputy Larry Webb listen as Sheriff Elza Hall throws himself on the mercy of the court

Joke was on the sheriff, now known as 'Jailbird'

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — It was difficult to tell the defendant from the arresting officers Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Jerome.

In fact, the defendant was wearing a gun. He also was wearing a badge.

Jerome County Sheriff Elza Hall was arrested shortly after 1 p.m. Friday and charged with "maintaining a tobacco vending machine accessible to minors."

Coroner Gerald Osler, the only officer legally able to arrest the sheriff, served the papers at 1:15 p.m., as Hall arrived for a mysterious "appointment" that he had been told was arranged.

Hall immediately was taken into the magistrate courtroom for arraignment before Judge Roger Burdick, who had come in from his vacation to handle the case.

The judge read the complaint to Hall, noting that he was charged with a misdemeanor, which carries a fine of $300 or six months in jail, or both. Hall attempted to offer comments in his defense, after assistant prosecutor Janice Kroeger presented the "probable-cause" statement.

But Burdick noted that Hall was acting unruly in the courtroom and threatened to have him gagged if he persisted.

"An arraignment is only for the purpose of entering a plea. I want you to keep your mouth shut and plead either guilty or not guilty," Burdick warned.

Realizing what he had said, the judge then asked the sheriff to nod his head "yes" or "no" to indicate guilt or innocence.

Hall pleaded not guilty and argued that he had, in fact, put two of his staff members in charge of the cigarette machine.

Kroeger asked for a high bond, saying the defendant travels consistently.

"In fact, he was out of the state only last week," she said.

"I want to remind you that the law says I can't be housed in my own jail," the sheriff protested.

He then managed to talk the judge into considering his good-standing and reputation in the community, and he was released on his own recognizance -- but he was placed in the custody of his wife. Hall also asked for a delay, saying that he hadn't had time to prepare his defense.

Hall told the court that he needed the legal services of the public defender, but later he decided to use a legal aide. He also requested a psychiatric examination.

Asked by the judge if he believed that he was insane when he put the cigarette machine in the Courthouse, the defendant responded, "I must have been."

"I will order the defendant bond over for a jury trial in kangaroo court -- and April Fool," Burdick said as he dismissed the court.

Hall said after the ordeal that he was never tipped off about the joke, adding that it was a "little too

American Cancer Society fund drive begins

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The 1983 American Cancer Society fund-raising drive will get under way today, with volunteers presenting a public service and educational program at the Blue Lake Mall in Twin Falls.

The event will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Cancer drive marchers also are being asked to pick up their kits at the mall during the day.

Kathy Williams, the area coordinator for the society, says that this year, volunteers are seeking $20,000 from Twin Falls County residents.

She says that 40 percent of the money raised will go to the national organization for research programs, and the remaining 60 percent will stay in the area for service to cancer patients and educational programs.

"Our drive is not just to collect money," Williams says. "An important part of the campaign is educational about cancer prevention, detection and cure."

A committee on duty at the mall, with volunteers on duty to interview interested persons, feed the information into the computer and furnish an individual with a "cancer-risk" printout.

Dedicated volunteer knows the fear others may have of dying

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Ruth Mills, a 36-year-old housewife and the mother of three children, is described as being one of the most dedicated American Cancer Society volunteers in Twin Falls.

Eight months ago, she was diagnosed as having a "life-threatening" cancer.

The cancer, the size of a grapefruit, was found at the top of her right lung.

"It was so involved with arteries and nerves leading to my head, and neck that they could not operate except to obtain tissue for biopsy purposes," she says.

"I was told I had six months to a year to live unless radiation would shrink the tumor."

After two weeks of radiation treatments at the Mountain States Tumor Institute in Boise, the severe pain was gone. As treatment continued, the tumor was reduced to about the size of a prune and is now considered in remission," she says.

Doctors told her, however, that there are nine chances out of 10 that the cancer will come back in some other part of the body. Even now, she says, she has begun feeling a familiar pain in her shoulders and under her arms.

"Nobody knows how long they will live, but when you are told you might not be here in six months, your whole life changes."

Mills heads the "Concernment" program in Twin Falls. Serving as a volunteer, her job is to work with others who have cancer — those who may be dying or having trouble coping with treatments.

"The fear of dying is overwhelming. It exhausts you, and emotionally, it is devastating," Mills says, speaking from experience.

Being able to share fears and frustrations with "someone who has been there" is vital to a cancer patient, she says. Mills says that while she has found friends and family are important to a cancer victim, there is no other understanding like that of a fellow cancer victim.

Mills says cancer victims learn to "live one day at a time and make the most of each hour of life."

The Concernment program is operated by cancer patients whose radiation or chemotherapy treatments have resulted in remission or cure. Those people volunteer to counsel, assist or just talk or listen to persons who are attempting to cope with the knowledge that they have a of children who have had or now have various forms of cancer, will be available to explain their organization's activities.

Williams says an effort will be made to push cancer education during the day and to reach as many people as possible.

Research, educational and fund-raising activities will be emphasized in the research. Many types of cancer are now on the decline, thanks to successful, although costly, research in the past," she says. "We think by the year 2000 — and that's only 17 years ahead — we will have cancer under control. We hope it will be sooner, and we do have some new, exciting research under way."

RUTH MILLS She has been there

Williams also has announced that Twin Falls County has become a national leader in the American Cancer Society's education program.

The county has met the requirements of making educational contact with 6,000 youths and 3,000 adults during the past year. That goal is based on an area's population, and few other counties have done as well, Williams says.

The contacts must be more than just handing out literature. They involve talks at public meetings and school classes, or personal visits to homes, she says.

Only one other Idaho county, Bear Lake, has ever met the quota, she says.

"Twin Falls is the first of the large Idaho counties to achieve the goal, and we are 100 one of the largest in the entire nation to do so," she says.

The cancer drive will continue through April with door-to-door visits by volunteers who will ask for financial support and provide educational material.

Twin Falls man to serve jail sentence

TWIN FALLS — A 25-year-old Twin Falls man who has been charged in the attempted kidnaping of a girl, will serve at least four months in a minimum-security prison.

Judge Theron Ward ordered Friday that Joseph Gilbert Burgfeld spend 120 days at the North Idaho Correctional Institution at Cottonwood, a ruling that will leave Burgfeld eligible for probation at the end of the four-month term.

Falling the NICI program could mean a 12-and-a-half-year prison term for Burgfeld, however.

Ward's decision followed a plea-bargain agreement between prosecutors and Burgfeld's lawyers.

Burgfeld pleaded guilty to the Dec. 1 attempted kidnaping of Linda Hammond, of 310 Crestview Drive, outside the Dairy Queen restaurant at 805 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. in Twin Falls. The woman broke free from Burgfeld before he could force her into his car.

Deputy public defender Kathy Epfeld noted that Burgfeld already was serving a 180-day jail term for a driving-while-intoxicated conviction. The conviction stems from Burgfeld's Dec. 1 arrest.

In another case heard Friday, Ward also ordered a 26-year-old Twin Falls man — arrested in connection with the single largest marijuana bust in the history of the Twin Falls Police Department — to serve a one-year probation.

The defendant, Thomas Lee Holliday, of 1401 Washington St. S., pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana. But he said that he came into possession of the estimated 20 pounds of marijuana when he burglarized a mini-warehouse in early December.

Idaho Division of Probation and Parole officials, who prepared a presentence investigation, as well as deputy prosecutor Dennis Voorhees, recommended probation in the case. The officials said Holliday cooperated with police in the case and lacked any prior serious felony conviction.

In one other case, Friday, Ward ordered 22-year-old Robert Dean White, of 137 Harrison St., to serve 120 days at the state penitentiary at Boise. At the end of the term, Ward will decide whether or not to place White, who has been convicted of sexually abusing a 7-year-old girl, on probation or to execute a 10-year prison sentence.

Gas

state sales tax, which is among the highest in the nation. However, a Times-News spot check of four neighboring Western states indicates that, with the exception of Oregon, they all have state gas taxes almost on a par with Idaho's.

Washington, for example, has a 12-cent-a-gallon state tax, and Utah's tax currently stands at 11 cents a gallon. Both those states, however, have seen gas prices sink below the 99-cent-a-gallon level in larger urban areas.

Only Nevada, with a 12-cent state tax, has seen gas prices comparable to those in Twin Falls.

Other jobbers say that gas in Twin Falls is more expensive because the major oil companies charge them more for gasoline than jobbers in other states. "It seems like the price we pay for gas has been consistently higher," says one jobber, who wished to remain anonymous.

Most of the Twin Falls gasoline is produced by Salt Lake City refineries, which process crude oil from Utah, Wyoming and Colorado wells. It costs a bit to transport that refined gas to Twin Falls by pipeline and truck. But according to a Cheyenne official, Jay Christensen, those transportation costs still are less than current price spreads for gas between Twin Falls and Salt Lake City.

Christensen says the recent run of nationwide price wars has created chaos in gasoline markets and made it almost impossible to account for current pricing structures.

But the bottom line is that unless those pricing structures change to give smaller, more isolated cities a bigger break, it's unlikely that Twin Falls gas pumps will ever compete with the cut-rate prices offered at urban stations in neighboring states.

Arsonist strands Scouts

JEROME — Boy Scouts from American Falls were stranded Friday in the Devil's Corral area after someone set their two parked cars on fire.

According to an Idaho State Police officer, the IT Scouts and two adults from Troop 114 who were involved had returned home late Friday. But no suspect has emerged in the incident, and state police concede that they are working with few leads.

The vehicles — parked roughly six miles east of the Ferris Bridge — belonged to Scoutmaster James Hodges and Elliott Melander, both of American Falls.

According to an ISP officer, the incident happened after the Scouts left the parking site at 6 p.m. Thursday to camp in the Snake River Canyon.

Cpl. David Rich said several items, including a citizens-band radio and a Dutch oven, were reported stolen from the vehicles.

Rich asks that anyone who might have seen anything unusual Thursday, at the scene, contact the ISP office in Twin Falls.

Volunteer

life-threatening illness, Miller says.

Cancermonth volunteers work with patients on the recommendation of physicians. They also work with families of the patients, who often have as much or more difficulty adjusting than do the patients, according to Mills.

There was no such program in the Magic Valley until Mills saw the need for it while she was undergoing treatment in Boise.

She asked for assistance from the staff at the tumor institute in getting such an organization started here, and she was told that she would be the perfect person to organize and head the service.

Working with other cancer victims, Mills says, not only helps them, but it has helped her as well.

"Coping busy is important, and doing something worthwhile with whatever time you have been given is the best possible therapy," she says.

"The Twin Falls mother says her own concern is not so much with dying — because her religious faith has helped her there — but rather "the thing that has bothered me most is leaving my children without a mother."

Mills says said Cancermonth is just one of the many services — made available through support of the American Cancer Society, she strongly advocates support of the society's fund-raising campaign, which opens today, saying that were it not for cancer research, made possible by volunteer contributions, she probably would not be alive today.

speculated on what should be done, since the complaint was official.

"We aren't going to plea bargain," Adamson said. But he added that his office might recommend dropping the charges.

"I don't know when he got into the courtroom, he noticed his two deputies were laughing a lot, and the judge was 'clevering around' a little too much. That tipped him off that all was not for real.

The whole incident ended with cake and punch in the back office of the sheriff's department. A giant sign on the wall, made by Courthouse staffers, read: "We love you, Jailbird."

When Hall cut the cake he found a file inside — just in case he had landed in jail.

Kroeger said the idea for the joke had been kicking around for a long time — because the sheriff had "bragged" on several occasions that he couldn't be arrested except by the

On Friday, The Times-News incorrectly reported in its weekly arts calendar that photographer Linda Anthis would be presenting her first show at the College of Southern Idaho's Susnup Gallery, which is located next to the CSI library in the Taylor Administration Building. It is her first one-artist show.

Speder tries to outrun police

JEROME — An 18-year-old driver might have gotten off with a warning, Jerome police Chief Darryl Cameron said Friday, had he not attempted to outrun the police officer trying to pull him over for a speeding violation.

Todd Allen Pathael, of Twin Falls, was cited for reckless driving after he was arrested three miles south and three west of Jerome about 4:30 a.m. Friday.

Cameron said an officer attempted to stop Pathael for allegedly exceeding the speed limit in the city. Instead, Pathael reportedly took off, and an 85-mph chase ensued, until he was overtaken by city and county officers about six miles down the road.

Aftershocks hit devastated Popayan

BY TRACY WILKINSON
United Press International

POPAYAN, Colombia — Colombia's president and thousands of mourners attended a Good Friday mass and burial for 79 of the 194 victims of an earthquake that destroyed most of Popayan and left 100,000 people homeless.

An aftershock — the fifth in the area since Popayan was devastated — hit shortly after noon but there was no major damage, radio reports said.

Buildings left crumbling and shaky, however, suffered delayed collapses set off by vibrations from passing cars.

President Betancur Betancur, who returned to Popayan for the second consecutive day, and 50,000 mourners, some perched in trees, attended the mass given by Archbishop Samuel Silveira Buitrago and 14 priests.

"This is a test God has handed us," Buitrago said.

The 79 bodies, carried one by one from Popayan central hospital and morgue, were buried in a common grave in Popayan's main cemetery to avoid the spread of disease.

At least 12 people fainted under the afternoon sun and were treated by Red Cross volunteers.

Popayan is famous for its Holy Week festivities that attracted 70,000 people into the city this year.

Pope John Paul II in a telegram sent to Buitrago "invoked the Lord's peace for the victims and a speedy recovery for the injured and expressed his brotherly closeness to those who are suffering."

Red Cross officials said they had identified 118 bodies, recovered from the wreckage of buildings. A presidential press spokesman, in a broadcast on Radio Caracol, said at least 194 people had died.

Provincia Governor Amalia Grueso de Salazar, said more than "70 percent" of the city was destroyed in the earthquake that also left 100,000 homeless and 1,500 injured.

Rescue workers, using pick axes, shovels and bare hands, had reached only 50 percent of the destroyed buildings in their search for victims. The U.S. Embassy estimated the death toll could climb to 300.

Five thousand army and police troops patrolled the streets to maintain order.

Betancur earlier in the day toured the city on foot. "We are going to start the reconstruction of the city this very day," he said.

The president proposed as a first step that three tent cities be built for the thousands of homeless with 1,000 tents flown in from the United States.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Ambassador Thomas Boyatt authorized the use of a special $25,000 embassy fund to buy supplies for quake victims.

Medical supplies, food and other aid arrived from Spain, Canada and other nations at Cali, the center of earthquake rescue operations.

Protesters tear-gassed

HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) — Police sprayed tear gas at peace movement demonstrators blocking a U.S. military base Friday on the first day of a nationwide Easter weekend protest against deployment of American missiles.

A police spokesman at Neu-Ulm, 30 miles southeast of Stuttgart, said one demonstrator was bitten by a police dog and taken to hospital when police moved in to clear the entrance of the U.S. Willy base, named by the peace movement as one of the proposed sites of new American Pershing 2 missiles. A peace movement spokesman said two people were injured, and police said two of the 250 protesters were arrested.

Thousands of people began four days of Easter peace marches and blockades throughout West Germany on Good Friday, organizers of the 90 protests said. Turnout was expected to be better than last Easter, when half a million people marched for peace.

"We can't hope for a million nationwide, but the turnout looks better than last year," a spokesman said.

The missiles are to be deployed in Europe, mostly in West Germany.

The construction of a new school for Immanuel Lutheran Church in Twin Falls is almost complete. Workmen were busy Friday applying some finishing touches for Sunday's ceremony.

Immanuel Lutheran will lay cornerstone for new school

TWIN FALLS — Following their Easter Sunday services, members of the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Twin Falls will lay the cornerstone for their new school.

The almost-completed building is located north of the church property, at 2055 Flier Ave. E. It will be called the Christian-Life Center.

Construction began last June, says the Rev. A.J. Crosser, the pastor of the church. The building will cost $600,000. Part of the money was raised through donations, he says.

"It was just a matter of space," says associate pastor—Dr. Rev. E.J. Bernthal—about the reason for the project.

More than 200 children, from pre-kindergarten through the eighth grade, are enrolled this year. There are 10 teachers.

The new school also will serve as a hub for the church's educational, social and community activities, Bernthal says.

The new structure will contain 10 classrooms, offices, a meeting room, a lounge, a library, a cafeteria and a gymnasium. There is no gym in the present school.

Crosser says the new building will be twice the size of the present facility, which is located at 274 Shoup Ave. W.

Faster services will be held at the church at 7 and 9:30 a.m. The ceremony will begin about 10:45 a.m.

The cornerstone will be placed into a brick wall near the entrance of the building. A representative of the project contractor, the Bob Brehm Construction Co. of Twin Falls, will do the honors, Crosser says.

The school will be ready in time for the 1983-84 school year.

And community breakfasts

Many Magic Valley congregations plan sunrise services

TWIN FALLS — The resurrection of Christ will be celebrated with a host of Easter sunrise services this Sunday.

Baptismal rites will highlight the 6:45 a.m. service of the Twin Falls Church of the Brethren. Early-morning Easter activities at the church will conclude with a breakfast, hosted by the deacons and deaconesses, and served by the Women's Fellowship.

Shoshone Falls will be the site of a special sunrise service conducted by the First United Church in Twin Falls. The service will begin at 6:17 a.m. in the park above the falls.

The fifth annual event at Shoshone Falls will feature the telling of the Easter story. The service is open to the public. A bus, which will leave from the parking lot of the church at 5:45 a.m., will provide transportation to the service for those needing it. In the event of unsuitable weather, the service will be conducted in the sanctuary of the Methodist Church.

The Ketchum Presbyterian Church will hold its sunrise service on top of Dollar Mountain in Sun Valley at 6:15 a.m. Those attending are urged to dress warmly.

In Wendell, a community sunrise service will be held at 6:30 a.m. at the Wendell Legion Memorial in the Wendell Cemetery. In case of rain, the service will be held at the Presbyterian Church. Breakfast will be served at the Wendell Methodist Church from 7:15 to 8:30 a.m.

One of the earliest services of the day will be conducted by the Christ Covenant Fellowship of Twin Falls, at 6 a.m. at the Idaho Power park at the Twin Falls area in the Snake River Canyon.

A breakfast will follow the service.

Other sunrise services planned by area churches include:

- Our Savior Lutheran Church, 1708 Heyburn Ave. E., Twin Falls, will hold a morning prayer service at 7 a.m., followed by a breakfast in the fellowship hall from 7:30 to 9 a.m.
- Hollister Community Presbyterian Church will celebrate the resurrection at 6:30 a.m., followed by breakfast at 7 a.m.
- St. John's Lutheran Church in Bluff will hold a sunrise service at 6:30 a.m., followed by an Easter breakfast, served by the youth, from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.
- First Christian Church, 601 Shoshone St. N., Twin Falls, will worship at 7 a.m. An Easter breakfast will be served at 8 a.m.

First Christian Church, 229 E. Ave. B, Jerome, will hold its sunrise service at the South Park in Jerome at 6:30 a.m. The service is being planned by the "King's Kids."

- Gooding First Baptist Church will hold its Easter devotional and breakfast at 7 a.m.
- Jerome First Baptist Church members will gather on the hill east of Jerome for a sunrise service beginning at 6:30 a.m.
- Members of Kimberly Redeemer Lutheran Church will meet at 6 a.m. for worship and breakfast. The service will be led by the participating pastors of the East Twin Falls County Ministerial Fellowship. The breakfast will be served by the Lutheran youth.
- Community Christian Church in Twin Falls will hold its sunrise service at 6 a.m., followed by a breakfast at 7 a.m.

Twin Falls ministers pick common Easter worship theme

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Ministerial Association is encouraging its members to present a unified theme for their Easter sermons.

According to the Rev. Herald Haskell who headed the Unity Sunday Theme Selection Committee, ministers who are members of the association agreed at a recent meeting that they wanted to display an emphasis of unity.

"They agreed that a common theme and text would be one way to demonstrate to the community a willingness to work together," he said.

The Easter sermon topic selected by the ministers is "Light for Our World." The text will be developed from Matthew 28:1-10.

"It is significant to note that most of the pastors in the ministerial association will be using this as their Easter message," Haskell says.

There are approximately 50 ministers who are members of the association, representing about 30 different churches in the area, he says.

The president of the association is the Rev. Don Nienuhus.

Pilgrims gather to observe crucifixion

By United Press International

Thousands of Christian pilgrims in Jerusalem retraced the final anguished steps of Jesus before his crucifixion on Good Friday rites and Pope John Paul II led Roman Catholics in a mass of the passion to commemorate Christ's suffering.

Thursday. An estimated 100,000 people were left homeless, many of them huddling around bunkers amid the rubble of the colonial-era city famous for its Holy Week festivities.

each of the 14 stations of the cross marking Jesus's journey to the cross. Israeli police stood guard along the side streets of the Christian quarter that led into the Via Dolorosa, in security that was tight but relaxed without disturbing the celebrants.

Cross" services were marking the 14 stages from Christ's condemnation to death before Roman governor Pontius Pilate to his burial in a tomb carved in a rock.

Both Mormon churches work to restore faith's first settlement

By KAREN M. MAGNUM
United Press International

NAUVOO, Ill. -- Nauvoo is gradually moving back in history, each year looking more and more like it did when the Mormons first settled down in 1839 after their trek west under Joseph Smith.

Most fled to Salt Lake City in a mass exodus led by Brigham Young. A splinter group, arguing that a descendant of Smith should succeed the prophet as church leader, remained behind, became disillusioned with the main group and later reorganized.

across owned by the 5 million-member church raised in Utah. Most of the city's restoration is under the direction of Dr. J. LeRoy Kimball, president of the Utah church's non-profit Nauvoo Restoration, a great-grandson of one of the city's first Mormon inhabitants.

guns, mltling, weaving and other crafts. The site where a cathedral-like temple stood before it was gutted by fire also is marked, but Kimball says he is not sure if the temple ever will be rebuilt.

By 1846, the Mormons had turned a swampy malarial outpost on the Mississippi, nine miles north of Keokuk, Iowa, into the largest and most picturesque city in Illinois.

This historical rift is obvious even as Nauvoo is born there today. Although the city is small, there are two centers of power for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and one for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

His dream of restoring Nauvoo began in 1951 when he bought the home once owned by Heber C. Kimball, one of the 12 original Mormon apostles. But it wasn't until 1990 that the church gave him funds to work on the entire city.

He estimates the national historic site attracted 125,000 tourists last year. About 70 percent were non-Mormons.

But persecution by non-Mormons -- including the murder of Smith in nearby Carthage, forced the Mormons to seek a new home in 1846.

Each gives a free tour -- of its own show places -- and presents a different perspective of the church. "We have a funny paradox in town," says Kenneth E. Stobaugh, director of historic sites for the reorganized church, which now is based in Independence, Mo.

A total of 28 structures -- including a bakery, newspaper printing office, cultural hall and general store -- have been dedicated, but there are demonstrations of brickmaking.

"But you do it slow. There's no rush. We've got all that people's want to see in a day right now."

Nicaragua officials censor Catholics' Easter services

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) -- Nicaragua's Marxist-dominated government has banned the broadcast of all Easter services that are not first submitted to censors, an outraged Roman Catholic church official charged Friday.

The Rev. Blismark Carballo, the official spokesman of the Managua archbishop's office, said the censorship "is not accepted by the church."

"By prohibiting the live and direct transmission of these religious acts, we are returning to Roman times, when the government gave bread and circuses to the people," Carballo said.

He spoke to UPI about the censorship during a march of 50,000 people through the streets of Managua to celebrate Good Friday.

The move was seen as an attempt to further limit the appeal of the Roman Catholic Church, which is increasingly opposed to the Marxist drift of the government.

It comes in the midst of an invasion by 2,000 anti-government rebels in the north and on the heels of the disruption by a pro-government mob of Pope John Paul II's homily during his visit to Managua in March.

There was no official comment by the government.

"The government has prohibited us from transmitting on Catholic Radio (a church-owned station) and other (independent) stations... religious services for Holy Week and reached an agreement that the only religious acts that could be transmitted are those submitted to the directorate of the means of communications (government communications office)," Carballo said.

Our church news guidelines
The Times-News encourages any church in the Magic Valley area to submit information for our listing of church services, which appears each Saturday.

To ensure your information is used, follow these guidelines:

- The deadline for church news is Thursday noon.
- Typewritten or plainly printed information is best; it helps eliminate errors.
- Provide full information -- complete names, times, locations, day and date. Include the name of the community -- we serve many -- and a phone number to call if more information is needed.
- If you have questions about church news, call 733-0931 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., and ask for Glenda May or Jon Kinney.

Idaho, BYU get new cage coaches

Trumbo departs JC in California for Vandals

MOSCOW (UPI) — Bill Trumbo, head basketball coach at Santa Rosa, Calif., Junior College, has been named head basketball coach for the University of Idaho. Idaho Athletic Director Bill Belknap announced Friday night.

Trumbo, 43, agreed to a first-year salary of $41,500, Belknap said. However, Trumbo's hiring and starting salary are subject to approval by the Idaho Board of Education.

Trumbo brings 21 years of coaching experience to Idaho, including 20 years as a head coach at four different levels — high school, junior college, NAIA and NCAA Division II. He has been at Santa Rosa for the past nine seasons, compiling an overall record of 215-67.

In addition, he served as the school's athletic director all nine years. Along with his record goes six Camino Norte Conference championships and being named the California Junior College Coach of the Year in 1980.

"I'm absolutely delighted that Bill Trumbo has accepted our basketball coaching position," Belknap said.

"Bill has been highly sought after by a number of Division I institutions the past several years and getting him to coach for Idaho speaks highly of our program and our institution."

"Bill was the top choice of the selection committee and the man I wanted for the job. He's a quality individual with a rich background as a successful head coach. I believe he'll fit well within the university and the Moscow community. He'll bring his own special identity to the continuation of a competitive program."

In accepting the position, Trumbo said he was impressed with the school and the community and excited about the challenge that awaits him.

"The last couple of days have been a whirlwind for me," the new coach said. "But I feel very comfortable with the opportunity to coach at Idaho. I feel I have the necessary preparation and background to keep Idaho competitive in the Big Sky. I'm excited about the opportunity to coach and the NCAA Division I level.

"I feel I'm leaving the best junior college in the state of California and coming to one of the finest institutions in the Northwest. I'm pleased and honored to be associated with that type of environment and challenge," he said.

Prior to coaching at Santa Rosa, he was the head coach at Sonoma State College, an NCAA Division II school, for two years (1972-74) where he compiled a 39-17 overall record. In his second season at Sonoma State, he posted a 20-9 overall record and was the Far Western Conference champion with a 9-3 mark. The team went on to the NCAA Division II regionals, where it placed second.

From 1966 through 1970 he was both the athletic director and head coach for Culver-Stanton College, an NAIA school in Canton, Mo., where he compiled a 61-45 record.

Andersen leaves position as Utah State A.D.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah State Athletic Director LaDell Andersen has accepted a job as head basketball coach at Brigham Young University, saying it is a "wonderful opportunity" he has trained himself for.

Andersen, 53, was named Friday to replace eight-year coach Frank Arnold, who was forced to resign from the Provo college March 15 under pressure from BYU officials, his players, their parents and university fans.

Andersen said during a press conference at Salt Lake International Airport he received the "the great news" of his appointment during the NCAA meetings in Albuquerque and jumped a plane for Utah to meet with the news media and university officials.

"I dreamed I fell off the ladder coming out of the plane and someone said, 'April fool,'" he joked.

"It's a wonderful opportunity to get back into coaching. It's a profession I've trained myself for. I feel I do that best. I'm looking forward to the challenge."

He said he did not apply for the job but had been interested in the position and feels he is qualified. Roger Reid, an assistant BYU coach and ironrunner for the coaching job, will serve as head assistant coach. Andersen said.

Andersen's contract lasts for one year.

Glen Tuckett, director of athletics at BYU, wished Andersen well in his new position. "We're very, very pleased to have a man of LaDell's stature," Tuckett said.

Andersen, who led the Aggies to a 176-95 record in the 1960s and early 70s, was "the winningest coach the school has had," said BYU spokesman David Schulthess.

Andersen coached the Aggies to six post-season tournaments, but USU didn't capture any league titles because they were an independent.

Hugh Durham, meeting in the Final Four's first semifinal at 1:30 p.m. MST (televized locally on Channels 2 and 12) followed by the 61-year-old competitor, Houston's Guy Lewis, against the little John Wooden, Louisville's Denny Crum, roughly two hours later.

"I'm a dreamer," says Valvano, whose Cinderella's dispatched the likes of North Carolina, Nevada-Las Vegas and Virginia (twice) en route to the final Four. "We have three great seniors in Thurl Bailey, Sidney Lowe and Derek Whittenburg, and it's kind of like a love story now. It's a game for kids and we're going to kiss all over and start kissing."

Bailey is 6-11, multi-talented, smooth and the leading scorer over the season for the Wolfpack. Whittenburg, after missing 14 games with a broken foot suffered in January, returned to provide a tremendous boost to the team in four NCAA tournament games. He has averaged 21.5 points.

The third senior, Lowe, is the playmaker. He began polishing his skills as a pre-teen, taking a basketball with him when he fetched groceries for his mother.

"I'd dribble all the way to the store and dribble back with a grocery bag in the other hand," he says.

Says Georgia's Durham, the other dreamer, the leader of the other

Houston center Akeem Abdul-Olejuan enjoys some orange juice at breakfast Friday

Cinderellas who upset St. John's and North Carolina in the first NCAA tournament appearance in the school's history. "If you want to be able to dream a little, it's something we wanted so bad. You know, we don't have a whole lot of basketball tradition at Georgia."

Durham has come this far with Terry Fair, at 6-7, his tallest player. Fair, Vern Fleming, James Banks and Gerald Crosby are Georgia's leaders, all averaging in double figures. The fifth starter is Lamar Heard, a senior who puts things in perspective — who can sense the difference between this team and the ones of recent years that starred Dominique Wilkins. "I think this team has loved each other more than the others did," Heard says.

Houston's Lewis may be 61, he may have been around for 27 seasons and he may have 328 victories and four appearances in the Final Four, but it is not old hat. "I'm a competitor," he says. "I enjoy competing, and I feel like I can do that with the best of them."

Lewis has the most physically imposing team in the tournament. It features 7-foot Nigerian Akeem Oluajuwon, 6-9 Larry Micheaux, 6-7 Clyde Drexler and 6-6 Michael Young.

A Houston writer decreed that there was a new fraternity on the Houston campus. Phi Slamma Jamma, after watching the ferocious nature of the Cougars' spectacular dunks and blocks.

To this point, Houston has breezed through the tournament, stretching its record to 30-2. Its winning streak to 25. The Cougars beat Maryland by 10, Memphis State by seven and Villanova by 18. Even Maryland's stalling tactics didn't faze them.

Louisville's Crum has done just fine; thank you, with no recent help from John Wooden. He is the only major college coach in history to win at least 20 games every year of his career over at least 10 seasons. He's now 12-for-12 in 20 victory seasons, averaging 24.6, with a total of 235 entering the Final Four.

Of the 205, the one Louisville fans cherish most is the 60-68 overtime win over state rival Kentucky in their first meeting since 1959. Louisville did that by sinking an astonishing 30 of its last 37 shots after missing 16 of its first 20.

Crum began his coaching career in the city park in San Fernando, Calif., when he announced he would coach a spring-summer league team. Friends laughed and called him a little John Wooden. "I knew when I was in seventh grade I wanted to become a basketball coach," Crum says.

Crum wound up playing under Wooden after two years at Pierce Junior College, then at St. Louis. He was named coach in 1962 to UCLA as a Wooden assistant. "I learned most of my basketball knowledge from Coach Wooden," he says.

Mini-Cassia event begins; finals today

By CHRIS WATSON
Times-News writer

The Twin Falls Bruins and Minico Spartans each head into today's championship round of the fourth annual Mini-Cassia-Easter Baseball Tournament after compiling 21 records on Friday's action.

Rained out Thursday, the tournament games were shortened to five innings at Burley Field and to four innings at Minico Field as all first-round games were played Friday.

Nampa remains as the only undefeated team in the tournament, having defeated Burley, Madison and Twin Falls.

The Bruins' opening game at Burley featured Twin Falls against the Burley Bobcats and was highlighted by the pitching of Brock Miller and Todd Helmer.

Miller, starting the game, struck out all nine batters he faced for a perfect three innings and Helmer handed another four Bobcats as he held Burley hitless for the remainder of the contest.

The Bruins collected six runs in the third inning of that game on RBI hits from Oscar Salinas, Scott Morgan, Virgil Hurt and Miller.

Twin Falls got by Madison in the second game 4-2 with all Bruin runs coming in the final inning as Hurt drove in two runs with a single and scored on Corky Federico's sacrifice bunt. Scott Matlock took the win in that game.

In the late game, the Bruins took a 3-2 lead on Federico's home run to the left-center field which was abruptly erased by Nampa catcher Stan McInerney's three-run shot over the top of the fence. The Bulldogs added one more run to win 6-3.

Darren Stuart took the loss for Twin Falls as Nampa pitcher Glenn Ward held the Bruins to four hits. Including Federico's four-bagger and singles by Federico, Morgan and Hurt, who beat the throw to first on a sacrifice bunt. Hurt's speed was again evident on two running catches in center field.

Minico's pitcher Cary Ferrin helped his own cause in their opening game by driving in two runs to defeat the Blackfoot Broncos 3-1. Dave Garro knocked in the other Spartan run.

Ferrin again had an RBI in the second game, this time helping teammate Gabriel Fuentes, who tossed a three-hit shutout over the Bonneville Bucs.

Like Twin Falls, the Spartans lost their third game. Von Peterman taking the 7-3 loss against Meridian and pitcher Jim Higgins.

Burley was the only Magic Valley team to go winless, losing to Twin Falls 10-0, Nampa 9-8 and Madison 7-3.

In non-Magic Valley games, Blackfoot defeated Meridian 3-1. Mickey topped Bonneville 2-1. Nampa beat Madison 5-2 and Blackfoot defeated winless Bonneville.

In today's second round at Minico, Nampa will meet Bonneville at 10 a.m., Blackfoot will take on Madison at 1 p.m. At Burley, Meridian will play Burley at 10:30 a.m. and Twin Falls will meet Minico at 1:30 p.m., with the winners meeting later in the evening.

CSI nine wins two at Treasure Valley

ONTARIO, Ore. — The College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles appear destined to clash with their hosts today in the finals of the Treasure Valley Community College Invitational Baseball Tournament.

The Eagles defeated Montana 18-1 and Treasure Valley 6-3 Friday, leaving them undefeated as far as "real" games are concerned for the tournament. However, CSI lost a game in the form of a coin flip with Boise State. The coin flip represented a game that was rained out in Thursday's opening round.

That left the Eagles tied with Treasure Valley for the No. 1 seeds entering today's single-elimination competition. The pairings had not yet been determined, as Treasure Valley was playing Lewis and Clark State when The Times-News went to press.

Being as objective as he could, CSI Coach Jim Walker strongly felt that given the relative weakness of the teams in the tourney other than the Eagles and Treasure Valley, those two clubs would likely meet in the finals. "That's what it will boil down to," Walker predicted.

What if it boiled down to CSI's first game Friday was a mauling of Montana. Ernie Santamaria opened CSI's Eagles' hit parade with a three-run first-inning homer. He later added a sacrifice fly for his fourth RBI.

Blake Jensen rapped three hits, while Jeff Schow (one RBI), Lynn VanEvry (two RBIs) and Mickey Lucero (two doubles, four RBIs) each stroked two hits.

VanEvry continued his hot hitting in the Eagles' second game, driving in Schow and Phil Braese — with a first-inning single. CSI poked up two more runs — the deciding tallies — and a 4-1 lead in the second when Schow lifted a sacrifice fly to score Jensen and Dale Cresse came home on an error.

After TVCC closed to within 4-3, Schow blasted his fourth home run of the season in the fifth inning. The Minico High School product scored another insurance run in the seventh, drawing a walk and advancing to third on Braese's hit-and-run single. On a first-and-third play, Braese was thrown out trying to steal second, but Schow scored.

Such plays were indicative of CSI's effectiveness, Walker said.

"We scored runs because we executed some things pretty well," he noted. "We've worked on a lot of individual offensive things that have paid off for us."

At McColl's Brundage Mountain Siblings excel at Masters skiing

MCCOLL, (UPI) — The hometown brother-sister combination of Karen and Mike Dorris dominated the 1983 U.S. Ski Association Masters Alpine Championships, each winning two overall titles.

The McColl residents claimed all but two of the championships in the three-day event at Brundage Mountain. Eight of the family's nine children have raced for the U.S. ski team.

Mike Dorris won Friday's slalom to go with his title from Thursday in the giant slalom. He also finished third behind winner Wayne Henderson of Anchorage, Alaska, in Wednesday's downhill.

Dorris was the only skier under 40 seconds in both runs of the slalom, finishing in 39.73 seconds and 39.92 for a combined time of 1:19.65. More than 40 of about 200 men failed to finish the difficult slalom course.

Charlie Bowler of Portland, Ore., was second in both runs to finish second overall in 1:20.59.

Karen Dorris had a two-thirds of a second lead over Ally Dean of Crystal Mountain, Wash., after the first run in the women's giant slalom.

She said her goal was to "finish just ahead of Ally in the second run," but the strategy almost backfired as former national team member Nancy Sise Auselkils nearly caught Dorris in the final run.

Auselkils, a Kalspell, Mont., resident who was a member of the 1962 U.S. world championship team, trailed Dorris by 1.08 seconds following the first run and she made up all but 0.067 of a second to just miss catching the leader.

Karen Dorris finished in a combined time of 2:33.579, while Auselkils was second overall in 2:33.616 to finish first in the age 40-44 bracket.

Ms. Dorris was the overall winner and claimed the age 25-31 class with a time of 2:34.34.

Dean dropped to third overall and second in the age 25-31 class with a time of 2:34.34.

Auselkils was the overall winner in Thursday's slalom, while Ms. Dorris won Wednesday's women's downhill.

Dave Ingram of Dillon, Colo., was third overall in the men's slalom in 1:22.52, followed by Hans Peter Schwarz of Aspen, Colo. in 1:23.68 and Mike Porcarell of Whitefish, Mont., in 1:23.90.

Schwarz won the age 40-44 competition. The other top male finishers were in the age 25-31 group.

Jean Sabert of Hillsboro, Ore., who won silver and bronze medals at the 1964 Olympics, was fourth overall Friday and second in the women's age 40-44 class in 2:36.396.

Julia Rolfe of Sun Valley placed fifth overall in 2:39.10 and was third behind Dorris and Dean in the age 25-31 competition.

A field of 300 skiers participated in the race series that began Wednesday for competitors age 25 and above.

Women's finals set for Sunday

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Jane Lawrence scored 23 points to lead top-ranked Louisiana Tech over Old Dominion 71-55 Friday night and Pam McGee's 15 points paced Southern California to an 81-57 trouncing of Georgia in the semifinals of the NCAA women's basketball championship.

The top-ranked and defending champion Lady Techsters, 30-1, will meet No. 2 Southern California in Sunday's final.

ODU was paced by Anne Donovan with 22 points.

The potlaid Tech team refused to get rattled by 8,800 screaming fans and never trailed.

For USC in its victory, Cheryl Miller added 16 points and Rhonda Wingham had 14 assists as the Trojans improved to 30-2.

Pryor allowed to defend crown today

ATLANTIC CITY (UPI) — Aaron Pryor, granted permission to fight by the Ohio Supreme Court only Friday, defends his World Boxing Association junior welterweight title today against No. 1-ranked Sang-Hyun Kim, a virtuoso, unknown from South Korea. The bout, Pryor's first since his dramatic 14th round TKO of three-time champion Alexis Arguello last November, is scheduled for 15 rounds. It will take place at the Sands Hotel and Casino and will be televised nationally by ABC (Channel 6, 3 p.m.). Pryor finally was given permission to fight Friday after two lower courts in Ohio had ruled against him in his dispute with estranged manager Bucky LaRosa.

Pryor had been attempting to fire LaRosa but both courts ruled that the manager's long-term contract with Pryor was valid. The Ohio Supreme Court said the fight could go on as scheduled, but all proceeds designated to Pryor will be held in an escrow account. The money will be distributed pending a final determination of the court fight between Pryor and his manager.

Eastwood, Lye share Greensboro top spot

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Bob Eastwood, who earned $75,000 for a second-place showing in the Tournament Players Championship earlier this week, shot a 3-under-par 69 Friday to share the second-round lead of the Greater Greensboro Open with Lye.

Eastwood, who said he didn't know what to expect after the big TPC payoff earlier this week, tied Lye at 5-under-par 139, one shot ahead of Buddy Gardner.

Weather conditions improved Friday and so did the scoring over the par-72, 6,958-yard Forest Oaks Country Club course.

Larking within striking distance at 141 were defending Masters champion Craig Stadler, Bobby Clampett, who finished second in this tournament last year, Lanny Wadkins, Ron Streck, Denis Watson, and Phil Hancock.

Eastwood followed his opening round 70 with a 69 Friday while Lye, whose career has taken a different direction than Eastwood's in recent weeks, led the first round with a 69 and had a two-under 70 Friday. Gardner had the day's best round with a 67.

"$82,369 this year. 'I did feel confident. I felt I would play well, but this is a different kind of course."

Lye, who has missed three straight cuts, said he felt "out of place" hanging around after the cut.

"I had a flight out at six o'clock," he said. "I had to cancel my plane reservation."

Eastwood had five birdies, including one on a 35-foot putt, and two bogeys that came when he missed putts of only eight and six feet.

"I didn't play that well, but I scored well," he said. "I know that doesn't make a lot of sense, but this game doesn't either."

He said his strategy is to continue to push.

"I think you have to be aggressive," said Eastwood, who lost last week by one shot to Hal Sutton. "When you start backing off, you make mistakes. Tomorrow I'm going to hit it right at the pins."

Lye had four birdies and two bogeys, finishing strong like he did in the first round. On Friday he birdied three of the last five holes.

"It was almost a carbon copy of yesterday's round," said Lye, who has never won a tournament. "I finished good and that gives me a good feeling headed into tomorrow. I'm in the best position I've ever been in to win."

Daniel leads Alcott by 2 at Dinah Shore

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Beth Daniel fired her second consecutive 3-under-par 69 Friday to take a two-shot lead over Amy Alcott, midway through the $100,000 Dinah Shore Invitational at the Mission Hills Country Club.

Daniel hit 17 greens in regulation, missing only the 466-yard, par-4 third hole, which she bogeyed. But she was sharp the rest of the way, sinking four birdie putts to keep her in the lead of the richest event on the LPGA tour and one of four designated major tournaments.

Daniel, the 1979 LPGA Rookie of the Year, took some time off after some poor showings earlier this year, returning to the Dinah Shore from a three-week layoff. She said she needed to regain her confidence and motivation.

"I feel like I'm really into this tournament, mentally, and I would really love to win it," she said. "It's been a long time since something had enough, you're going to achieve it. I just have to play as aggressively as I can and see what happens."

Alcott also repeated her opening round score with a 2-under-par 70, leaving her 4-under for the tournament, and two shots back of the leader. The 27-year-old Alcott said she played one of the best rounds of her life despite missing four 8-foot birdie putts.

"I missed a few, so I think the course owes me one or two," Alcott said. "I don't think I've played better, tee to green, in my life."

"I like my position. There's a way of getting to excited and too pumped up. So I'm just keeping everything calm and going out and playing my game."

Alcott used a little innovation to help her through a rough spot during the round. On the tough, 160-yard, par-3 eighth hole, she faced a long and fast-breaking putt after leaving a 4-iron tee shot on the right end of the large, undulating green. Although her ball was on the putting surface, she used a sand wedge and chipped the ball within four feet of the hole and saved par.

The cut was 13-over-par 155 with 74 golfers qualifying for the final two rounds.

Mary Mills recorded a hole-in-one on the 152-yard, par-3 fifth hole, ripping a 4-iron onto the green and watching as it rolled into the cup.

Purcell wins before rain halts Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — American Mel Purcell defeated Shlomo Glickstein of Israel 6-0, 7-6 (6-4) Friday before heavy rain postponed the remainder of the quarterfinal matches in the $75,000 Monte Carlo tennis championships.

Purcell outplayed Glickstein, surprise winner over top seed Ivan Lendl in the first round, from the baseline for long spells and threatened to completely overwhelm him as he sped through the first 10 games.

Glickstein, a sergeant in the Israeli army, then began making several sorties to the net while amassing a string of points for a 5-4 second set lead. Purcell responded to nose in front 6-5, but again Glickstein staged a comeback, saving two match points at 15-40 with a volley and a drop shot.

Purcell then double-faulted and Glickstein finished the game off with a well placed passing shot to take the set to a tiebreak. He saved another match point at 5-6 before finally succumbing to the Kentucky-based American, who now faces the winner of the Yannick Noah-Manuel Orantes quarterfinal clash today.

"I'm becoming more consistent now and this surface suits me because I can move fast on it," said Purcell.

who defeated Orantes two years ago in straight sets.

Tournament referee Bernard Noat said players agreed to reschedule the quarterfinals for Saturday morning and the semifinals in the afternoon.

However the weather forecast is for more rain and it is expected that only the quarterfinals will be able to finish, necessitating a Monday final.
