Evans boosts budget Schools gain

By STEVEN CHRISTENSEN
United Press International

BOISE — Gov. John Evans announced Thursday he will restore a total of $4.2 million to budgets for higher education, vocational training and agricultural research to augment program operations during the next fiscal year.

But House Speaker T.W. Silvers, R-Twin Falls, said the plan by the Democratic chief executive is an attempt to circumvent the GOP-controlled Legislature's decision that allocations to the programs should not be hiked above levels approved during the 1983 general session.

Evans said he would restore to the programs some of the funds he withheld earlier in the current fiscal year as the state anticipated a revenue shortfall. Under the plan, higher education would receive $3 million, while vocational training and agricultural research would each get an extra $600,000.

The College of Southern Idaho will be a recipient of some of the vocational education money, but the amount of that allocation has not been set.

Administrators do not spend the monies by June 30, they can be carried over to fiscal year 1984 to bring program spending to levels sought by the governor -- but rejected during the Legislature's just concluded special session, Evans said.

Evans' announcement prompted the president of the state Board of Education, Robert Montgomery of Boise, to say the panel would be able to reject a proposal to hike fees for all students to increase higher-education budgets for FY 1984.

The board, meeting Thursday in Pocatello, voted to institute increases in fees for graduate students, but not for undergraduates.

Silvers, meanwhile, complained the governor is trying to sidestep the role of the Legislature to set agency budgets.

"It's evident the executive branch is trying to totally unilaterally circumvent," he said, "if totally aborts the legislative process. You're getting budgeting done by executive edict."

"I'm a little bit surprised at that action (restoring funds). It certainly is no legislative intent," Silvers said. The speaker added the state Board of Examiners, comprising Evans, Republican Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa and GOP Attorney General Jim Jones, has the authority to reduce FY '84 budgets -- thus negating the governor's action.

Cenarrusa said he believed the board would look at the option. But he

TWIN FALLS — Employees of Sew-City Fabrics received a visit from an unexpected, and quite uninvited, guest Thursday afternoon — a red Pontiac Grand Ville.

It was driven by Doris Ladman of 158 N. Locust St. in Twin Falls. The vehicle rammed a parking meter between the street and the store, and crashed through the fabric store's front door, shattering a large plate of window glass.

There were no injuries. Even a female manikin in a frilly wedding dress mounted in the display area escaped unscathed, although wicked-looking, sickle-shaped blades of glass littered the floor around her feet, and the metal door frame was severed at its base, and wreckage hung at an unnatural angle from the ceiling above.

Erma Greene, the manager of Sew-City, owned by Earl Faulkner of The Paris, said she was on an errand to the bank when the accident occurred.

But employees minding the downtown Twin Falls store at 130 Main Ave. N., told her that Ladman said she hit the gas pedal instead of the brake, as she pulled into the metered parking space in front of the business.

"She said her foot was on the gas, and she just panicked when she knew she was coming over the meter," Greene said.

Twin Falls police officers on the scene verified the report.

To free the car, a wrecker first had to snap off the parking-meter stem, which was bent parallel to the sidewalk. There was no sign of the parking-meter head.

The store front was boarded up for Thursday night. A representative of Twin Falls Glass and Paint, who was on the scene, estimated the cost of the damage at between $1,500 and $1,800.

The accident, which occurred at about 3:30 p.m., and the subsequent recovery of the intruding vehicle, caused a crowd of about 30 passers-by to gather and gawk.

"I'll never again be a driver because about the way I park," one said.

By DONALD A. DAVIS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — U.S. arms control negotiator Paul Nitze said Thursday there is "a chance" Washington and Moscow will agree to cut arsenals of intermediate-range nuclear missiles in Europe before the United States begins deploying new missiles in December.

Nitze spoke after meeting for 50 minutes with President Reagan, Vice President George Bush and White House national security adviser William Clark to receive his final instructions for the third round of arms control talks.

Nitze, chief U.S. delegate to the Geneva talks on intermediate-range nuclear forces, warned that "we have a lot of hard work before us" when negotiations resume May 17 and expressed pessimism on several issues.

But he replied, "I think there is a chance," when asked by a reporter if an agreement might be concluded before NATO starts deploying 572 U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in five NATO nations at the end of the year.

Nitze said Reagan gave him no new operational orders during the meeting but noted he would be spelling out for Soviet negotiators the details of Reagan's proposal for interim reductions, which was placed on the table at the end of March in the last session before the second round of talks concluded.

PAUL NITZE Handles arms proposal

Reagan's proposal called for equal cuts in the Soviet force of SS-20 missiles already deployed and the U.S. missiles scheduled to be deployed as an interim step toward eliminating all intermediate-range missiles from both countries' arsenals.

"I was again deeply impressed with the firm support he gives to the efforts

Reagan backs build-down

By PATRICIA KOZA
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan endorsed proposals for a "build down" of U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals Thursday and won approval from a key Senate committee for funds to press research and development of the MX missile.

The Senate Appropriations Committee voted Thursday with Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., abstaining to give Reagan his third victory in a week on the controversial 10-warhead missile.

The action would provide an estimated $20 million in MX funds.

The vote came shortly after the president told three influential senators in writing that he will attempt to implement their proposal that the United States and Soviet Union dismantle two old missiles for every new one deployed.

"The principle of a mutual build down... if formulated and implemented flexibly... would be a useful means to achieve the reductions we all seek," Reagan said in a letter to three influential senators who back the concept.

A senior administration official said, however, the administration would seek "variable ratios" rather than a flat 2-to-1 ratio because the balance between the superpowers differs on different weapons systems.

In return for their votes on the MX,

Sens. William Cohen, R-Maine, Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Sam Nunn, D-Ga., last week requested Reagan's written assurance that he would support a build-down and the recommendations of his special Commission on Strategic Forces, headed by former Air Force Gen. Brent Scowcroft.

Both Cohen, who originally proposed the build-down, and Nunn, an influential member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said they are satisfied with Reagan's commitment.

Before the Senate Appropriations Committee, where MX opponent Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., argued in an impassioned speech it was wasteful to approve a missile system that even its boosters concede is vulnerable to Soviet attack if, as recommended, it is placed in existing Minuteman silos.

"Please vote against MX and save money, save our superiority and strengthen our hand," Hollings said in explaining the money could be better used to boost conventional U.S. forces.

Reagan's letter to the senators was identical to one he sent to nine House members Wednesday except for seven paragraphs dealing with the build-down. Following receipt of the first letter, the House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee voted 9-3 to approve a resolution to give Reagan MX funds.

Spending plan fails, back to drawing board

By WESLEY G. PIPPETT

WASHINGTON — The Senate, defying President Reagan and its own GOP leadership, defeated two 1984 budget proposals Thursday and then sent the whole problem to committee in hope of reaching a bipartisan settlement.

The Senate defeated 52-48 a Republican leadership proposal preserving Reagan's July 1 tax cut, and a short time later it killed "tax riders" for full consultation on writing a new blueprint for federal spending and income in the next fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

"Yes, Mr. President, I do," Baker said wearily when Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., asked whether the Republican leader intends to work with the Democratic minority.

Then the Senate accepted by voice vote Baker's motion to send the budget back to the Budget Committee, which was directed to report back next Tuesday. About three hours of floor debate remained from the statutory 50 hours allowed.

The leadership bill proposed by Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici and Baker would have preserved all of Reagan's 10 percent, $30 billion tax cut and increased military spending next year by 7.5 percent.

As modified by amendments of Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., the moderates' plan would have raised $9.9 billion in unspecified tax revenue and set real increases in military spending of 6 percent next year, 5.5 percent in 1985 and 5 percent in 1986.

Taxes and defense are the two main issues in the long controversy.

In the first of the moderates' budget carried $18 billion in red ink in 1984, scaling down to $12 billion in 1988. Democratic leaders urged support for the moderates' proposal, but Republican leaders urged its defeat.

"When the Reagan robots go haywire, you do not blame the robots, you blame Reagan," O'Neill said in a statement. "The same president who gave the robots their marching orders in 1981 and 1982 is giving them orders in 1983. The president prefers chaos to compromise."

Sen. Lawton Chiles of Florida, ranking Democrat on the Budget Committee, complained that "not until today! not until today!" had the White House or Senate Republicans sought to work with the Democrats on a budget.

"I know some Democrats are probably asking, 'Why should we pull their ear out of the ditch today?'" said Chiles, and answered: "Because I think it is good for the country." Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., described the moderates' proposal as "a positive, middle ground" between the Republican leadership compromise and the Democratic proposal that emerged from the Senate Budget Committee.

Weicker also said the moderates' proposal would cut the rate of the annual deficit over the two years by about $30 billion more than the Republican leadership proposal.

Briefly

Miss California wins USA title
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Miss California, Julie Lynne Hayek, a green-eyed beauty who wants to become a dentist, was crowned Miss USA Thursday night.
She takes home more than $150,000 in cash and prizes and will represent the United States in the Miss Universe Pageant in Las Vegas.
Miss Hayek, 22, a senior at the University of California at Los Angeles, edged first runner-up Miss Texas, Tisha Gayley-Allred, 21, for the crown.
Second runner-up was Miss South Carolina, Allison Grisso, 21. Third runner-up was Miss Louisiana, Pamela Forrest, 20, and fourth was Miss North Dakota, Deborah Anne Jaeger, the oldest of the five finalists at 23.
Miss California, who said she thinks the greatest person in the world is her mother, received the crown from outgoing Miss USA Terry Liley and was given a hug and a kiss on the cheek by Miss Texas.

Body found after Texas flood
DRIPPING SPRINGS, Texas (UPI) — Searchers found the body Thursday of second young canoeist drowned in a Texas Hill Country flash flood.
Continued searching for a third youth and an adult counselor who were swept into a rain-swollen river.
A Blanco County Sheriff's Department spokesman said authorities found the body of John Clowers, 12, of Luftkin, in the area where the first body was found Wednesday night about three miles downstream from the area's "cane" campsite on the Pedernales River. The area is about 35 miles west of Austin.
A third youth, Jeremy Williams, 11, of Houston, and a counselor, Harold Harvey of Apple Springs, still were missing. All are from an East Texas center for the emotionally disturbed, the Hope Center for Youth in Apple Springs near Luftkin.

High court delays murder trial
SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Supreme Court Thursday delayed the murder trial of a New York socialist Frances Bernice Schneider while her lawyer prepares a defense against a man she allegedly tried to hire to kill her father.
Justices granted defense lawyer Michael Rosen "a reasonable length of time" to prepare for the testimony of the alleged hit man.
Rosen, a New York attorney, told the Supreme Court the deputy Salt Lake Attorney, Ernie Jones had "camouflaged and hidden" the whereabouts of the witness, whom Rosen claimed would be "devaluating to the defense."
He requested the trial, scheduled to begin May 16 in Utah's Third District Court in Salt Lake City, be delayed until September to give him time to mount a defense against the alleged hit man's testimony.

Airlane revival almost ready
DALLAS (UPI) — Braniff International's board of directors approved a tentative agreement with the Hyatt Corp. Thursday to revive the airline on the first anniversary of its bankruptcy declaration.
The agreement will put 30 Braniff airplanes back in service and 2,000 former employees back to work, Braniff president Howard Putnam said.

Hyatt is providing $70 million to finance the operation, which should have Braniff flying again by Oct. 1, Putnam said.
"One year ago today was a very sad day, but one year later it's going to be a very happy day," he said.
Putnam called it an "ironic coincidence" that an agreement to return Braniff to the air occurred one year after its bankruptcy.

Car wrecks cost more in 1980
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Motor vehicle accidents cost $2.5 billion in 1980, the National Highway-Traffic Safety Administration said Thursday.
The agency said it is concentrating on getting drunken drivers off the road and increasing safety belt use in an effort to cut the cost of crashes.
The report said about $2.1 billion of the $2.5 billion resulted from property damage, $1.2 billion from lost productivity, $3.3 billion from medical costs and $18.7 billion from such miscellaneous items as insurance administrative expense, legal and court costs, emergency services, coroner's costs and the administrative cost of public assistance programs.

Kibbie Dome repair funded
BOISE (UPI) — The University of Idaho will receive $15 million to fix the leaky roof at the Kibbie Dome as part of an out-of-court settlement, an attorney says.
Boise attorney Tom Banducci said Thursday the settlement would provide money for the university to repair its athletic complex in Moscow while requiring the school to assume responsibility for future maintenance.
U.S. District Judge Marion Callister dismissed Thursday a lawsuit filed by Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. of Connecticut and the Emerick Construction Co. of Portland, Ore., against the university's board of regents and several of the companies that helped design and build the structure.
Banducci said the university would be compensated with money from a $4.1 million performance bond guaranteed by Aetna on behalf of the Portland-based general contractor.

Man, rowboat near Australia
SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI) — A man who left San Francisco almost 10 months ago in a rowboat is 200 miles northwest of Townsville, Australia, and "very close" to his destination, the coordinator of his journey said Thursday.
Peter Bird, 39, a London photographer, is expected to arrive just north of Townsville the first week in June, Kenneth Crutchlow said.
The Coral Sea has been a "major danger" for Bird. Crutchlow said, because of uncharted reefs throughout the water.
"But he is very anxious to arrive and get off of the boat. He's tired of fish and is dying for some fresh food. Peter is looking forward to a nice cup of tea and a good meal," said Crutchlow, who has been communicating with Bird by radio.

Jet pirated to Cuban field

MIAMI (UPI) — A Capitol Air jet with 248 people aboard, including 18 infants, was hijacked to Cuba Thursday night on a flight from Puerto Rico, to Miami, authorities said.
The plane landed safely in Havana at 7:06 p.m. MDT. There were no reports of injuries.
It was the second hijacking of a Capitol Air jet this month.
Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Jack Barker in Atlanta said Flight 236 was hijacked at 6:12 p.m. MDT. He said first reports indicated the plane, a stretch DC-8, was commandeered by a person with a gun, but he could not confirm it.
A Capitol Air spokesman said the plane held 238 passengers, including 18 babies, and 10 crew members.

Barker said authorities did not know if the hijacker was a man or woman but a spokesman at Capitol Air's headquarters in Smyrna, Tenn., said it was a female.
The FBI confirmed it had been informed of the hijacking, but only knew it was going to Havana. It was uncertain when the plane would return to Miami.
The Capitol spokesman who declined to be identified, said the flight was 30 minutes out of Miami when the report of the hijacking came in.
He said an unconfirmed report said "a lady on board was holding a senior flight attendant hostage with a gun and demanding Havana."
The same Flight 236 was hijacked to Havana May 1 by a man who claimed to have a gasoline bomb, a time bomb and a gun.

That flight had 200 passengers aboard including the hijacker and 10 crew members. Both planes were DC-8s, spokesmen said.
The hijacking May 1 resulted in a tense final few moments when the 209 people aboard slid down emergency chutes in Havana four minutes before the hijacker's threatened deadline for blowing up the plane.
The return of the passengers and crew was delayed more than eight hours while a mechanic fixed a jammed emergency exit used in the escape.
The latest incident was the third domestic hijacking this year and the second to Cuba.

Evans

said he had no position on the issue at this point.
Evans said he restored the funds because the Idaho Tax Commission estimates the state will earn about $19 million more this year than was expected. He added Dunds may also be returned to other agencies hit by 10.5 percent holdbacks early in the fiscal year when the revenue outlook was grim.
Governatorial aides noted the restorations to the three programs are far lower than the funds lost from the holdbacks in August and October. At those times, they said, higher education gave up $7.9 million, vocational training lost $1.5 million and $93,000 was withheld from agricultural research.

The governor vetoed appropriations bills adopted during the regular session which allocated $70 million to colleges and universities, $13.4 million for vocational education and $9.5 million for agricultural research.

He called lawmakers into special session — urging them to bolster budgets by the same amounts he restored Thursday. But the GOP-dominated House and Senate refused, again passing a motion to fix a money figures vetoed by the chief executive.
Evans could not increase funding for public schools in his action Thursday because state allocations for that program were exempted from the fiscal 1983 holdbacks.

Arms

we are making to achieve meaningful limitations and reductions in the field of nuclear weapons," Nitzze said, "I feel I have all the flexibility I need at this stage to pursue these negotiations."
"This was a general discussion. It wasn't a discussion about the specific wording of the instructions," Nitzze said.
Nine members of the House and three senators wrote to Reagan last week questioning his commitment to arms control and calling for a more flexible approach, but their concern was directed at parallel talks in Geneva on strategic arms reductions.
Nitzze said U.S. negotiators saw nothing new in Soviet leader Yuri Andropov's latest proposal on intermediate-range missiles but said the fact that he stated it was "properly viewed as an encouraging development."
Andropov proposed May 3 reducing the number of Soviet warheads on the missiles based in Europe to the total now deployed in NATO countries. The United States, however, has refused to count British and French nuclear forces on the ground that they are not part of NATO.

The Soviet plan would eliminate 196 warheads on Soviet SS-20 missiles targeted for Western Europe but would bar the NATO deployment.
Nitzze said the proposal to count warheads instead of missiles has been "inherent" in both the U.S. and Soviet bargaining positions for some time. But like Reagan and other administration officials in earlier statements, he made clear Andropov's announcement was welcome.
Reagan expressed a similar view in an interview May 4. "The encouraging thing was that he made a proposal," Reagan said. "And it was a proposal that aimed at something that has been a consideration of ours, and that is that we should be negotiating warheads and not just missiles."

But Nitzze said there would be "no give" on the U.S. position that the British and French missiles are outside of the current negotiations.
In testimony before a special panel of the House Armed Services Committee, Reagan's new arms control director Kenneth Adelman also called Andropov's proposal "a positive step, although the Soviet response appears to contain key elements — such as the inclusion of British and French nuclear systems — that remain unacceptable to us."
Adelman underlined Reagan's insistence that the negotiations be aimed at "global" reduction of intermediate-range missiles.
Otherwise, he said, the Soviets could move their missile SS-20s now targeted on Western Europe to Siberia and aim them at Japan and other "Pacific" allies of the United States and the redeployed in Europe on short notice.

Today's weather

Nevada shows partly cloudy today. Utah conditions will continue unsettled with variable clouds and scattered showers.
Synopsis:
The upper-level low pressure system that has brought cold and cloudy weather to most of the state has weakened over southeastern Montana Thursday and moving slowly northeastward. Northern and western sections of Idaho have begun to dry out, but clouds and some light showers lingered in the area to the east of a line through Salmon and Twin Falls. Most precipitation in the area has been light and will result in partial clearing today.
Overnight low temperatures were in the upper 20s to mid 30s. Dixie had the lowest with 17 degrees. High Thursday was 68 degrees at Oiler's Aerie.
Precipitation amounts Wednesday night were light, except for an area in the southwest corner of the Bear Lake area. Bear Lake reported a 24-hour precipitation of 1.86 inches, followed by Grace and Preston with about a half-

Decreasing clouds along with slowly warming temperatures are expected as the weekend approaches. This should be a fine weekend for outdoor activities, with abundant sunshine and mild temperatures.
The agricultural outlook for southern Idaho shows total precipitation over the next five days will be a 1.03 of an inch, or less with only widely scattered showers, mainly over the mountains.
The 4-inch mean soil temperatures, which now range from 45 to 50 degrees in the east and 50 to 55 in the west will slowly warm 4 to 6 degrees by Monday.
Daily evaporation rates will be increasing to between .15 and .20 lb per square foot.
Winds for spraying will be 4 to 7 mph in the morning, increasing to 8 to 12 mph during the afternoon.
Elsewhere in the nation Thursday, the high for the day was 71° at Presidio, Tex., while Scottsbluff, Nev., had the low temperature of 15 degrees.

Andrus says he won't run for Senate

By ELLEN MARKS
United Press International

BOISE — Former U.S. Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus said Thursday he will not run against Idaho Sen. James McClure next year, although he said he may be persuaded to run for governor in three years.

Andrus said the Democratic party will be able to mount a strong challenge to McClure because the incumbent is vulnerable on a number of issues.

Andrus, who served as governor from 1971-1977, said he "decided not to run against McClure because he and his family do not want to move back to Washington, D.C., after living there while he served as Interior Secretary under President Jimmy Carter."

"The challenge is there, but then if you win, you're required to travel 3,000 miles from the people and land you love," Andrus said at an Idaho Press Club luncheon. "It hasn't been an easy decision because there are positives on both sides of that decision."

Andrus said the strongest Democratic candidate for the Senate seat would be Gov. John Evans, whose term expires in 1986.

However, Evans later Thursday said he was not interested in leaving office in mid-term, adding, "I signed a contract with the people of Idaho to be governor for four years."

Andrus said, "Today, Jim McClure is more vulnerable than he's ever been in his political life. With the issues that are there, a Democrat will in fact mount a very strong campaign for that seat."

He said other Democrats who could wage strong campaigns against the second-term Republican senator are state Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey; Sen. Vernon Lannen, D-Pinehurst;

Cecil Andrus won't oppose McClure former senators Mike Mitchell and Ron Twilegar and unsuccessful Congressional candidate Larry LaRocca.

Andrus said McClure will be most vulnerable on the issue of natural gas deregulation, over which he has control as chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

"Decontrol of the industry will leave 110,000 families in the state facing higher gas heating ills, which could cost McClure voter support.

Andrus said, "If it (wins) his blessing, it's going to be the strongest issue the senator has ever had to face." Andrus said, "If I were a candidate, I would send a letter to every one of those households" that heat with natural gas.

Other actions that may make McClure unpopular are his approval of a federal budget that will cause soaring deficits and his failure to oppose the sale of Bureau of Land Management properties, Andrus said.

Andrus took the opportunity to reiterate criticism of his successor, Interior Secretary James Watt, whom he called a "clown prince."

But he said the controversial Republican cabinet member will be an asset to the Democrats, especially when he is compared to William Ruckelshaus, a more moderate administrator recently named to head the Environmental Protection Agency.

"The difference is between an environmental crown prince and a clown prince," Andrus said.

He said Watt is responsible for a "stalled stalemate" in the Reagan Administration because lawsuits and public opinion have halted the Interior Department's job of managing the country's natural resources.

"They've become a stalled administration," Andrus said.

He said he believes President Reagan will run for another term, which could help the Democrats opposing McClure by providing the attention needed to run against an incumbent.

Andrus said he remains interested in another term as Idaho governor because it provided "the highest level of personal satisfaction. Yes, I'm interested in doing that again if the people want me to. But it's three years away."

Carl Sagan blasts 'Star Wars' plan

By ELMER W. LAMMI
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's plan to put a "Star Wars" type satellite-killing weapon into space could trigger warfare on earth, famed astronomer Carl Sagan warned Friday.

Sagan and defense expert Richard Garvin voiced their concerns at a Capitol Hill news conference with Rep. Joe Moakley, D-Mass., the chief House sponsor of a resolution calling upon Reagan to seek a ban on space weapons.

"We believe that the testing and deployment of any weapons in space ... significantly increases the likelihood of warfare on earth," Sagan said.

The Pulitzer-Prize-winning author said the Soviet Union had tested a rudimentary anti-satellite weapon in the 1970's, but proposed in 1981 that space weapons be banned.

Now, he said, the United States is planning to test a "much more sophisticated" anti-satellite weapons system that could provoke a war in both space and on earth.

Sagan, who said he had been "extremely upset" by Reagan's "Star Wars" speech, said it was urgent that the United States and the Soviet Union act immediately to head off an arms race in space.

"This may be the last moment in which this can be done," he said.

Garvin, a professor of physics at Columbia University and a long-time nuclear weapons consultant to the Pentagon, joined in the plea, saying was not possible to come up with an airtight defense against missiles.

Any defense, no matter how costly, he said, will be overcome because "it is easier to defend the defense."

"I'm not against defense — I'm against an ineffective defense," he said.

Garvin said a treaty banning anti-satellite systems in space would make it "unprofitable" for the Soviet Union to attack because it also would be unable to prevent a retaliatory attack.

Approaching U.S. missiles, he said, could be hidden in "a cloud of decoys," assuring that some would reach their targets.

Fake document ring broken

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal authorities have broken up a nationwide counterfeit operation capable of producing identification documents for illegal aliens and criminals nationwide, officials announced Thursday.

The phony papers were distributed in New York, Texas and possibly California. Officials for the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the federal Department of Health and Human Services said they had no idea how many of the documents were in circulation.

Blanca Montilla Sanchez and Juan Ramon Montilla, both citizens of the Dominican Republic and legal permanent residents in the United States, were charged Wednesday with manufacturing the forgeries out of their Manhattan printshop, the Imprenta Latina.

Mrs. Montilla, 47, was arrested Wednesday after questioning at INS offices.

Government wants accused Nazi out of U.S.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A government attorney said Thursday accused Nazi death camp guard John Demjanjuk should be deported to the Soviet Union, but a defense lawyer countered the Russians would execute him.

Immigration Law Judge Aldolph Angell held a hearing on whether the suburban Seven Hills autoworker should be deported for allegedly helping operate a Nazi gas chamber in which 1 million Jews died.

"I'm accused falsely and I'm absolutely innocent," Demjanjuk, 63, said through an interpreter.

The hour-long hearing was recessed until August when the defense will present its case.

The government suggested Dem-janjuk be deported to the Soviet Union because he was born in the Ukraine, a Soviet state.

"It is up to the government to designate a country when the alien hasn't done so yet," said Justice Department attorney Bruce Einhorn.

"We have not had a discussion with the Soviets about this."

Despite the government's suggestion, Demjanjuk still has first choice of where to go, but any country he chooses must agree to accept him.

Demjanjuk's counsel, Mark O'Connor of Buffalo, N.Y., said, "If he is found deportable ... and if the Russians take him, he will not only face persecution, but execution."

O'Connor said his client is under a Soviet death sentence because Demjanjuk, originally a Red Army soldier, eventually fought with a German-backed army against the Soviets.

Tax protesters set up own 'court'

CONROE, Texas (UPI) — Tax protesters setting up their own government were arrested for issuing "court" orders and using their own money to pay debts, but a prosecutor said Thursday the group also had a Declaration of Independence and plans for a police force and a jail.

District Attorney James Keeshan accompanied by sheriff's deputies and Texas Rangers Tuesday night raided the "Southern District of Texas Township Court," behind an unemployed man's house in this southeast-

Texas town.

Three people were arrested, but 25 others were allowed to continue the meeting.

A key principle of the group seemed to be refusal to pay taxes and a Constitution-based claim that U.S. money is illegal because it is not backed by gold or silver, Keeshan said.

"The basis of our group is to return the rights and freedoms guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution to the people," said member Kathy Gomez, a Willis nurse, who was not arrested.

Harold Blake, 42, was charged with impersonating a judge, a misdemeanor with maximum penalties of a year in jail and a $2,000 fine, and tampering with government records, a felony carrying up to 10 years and a $5,000 fine.

Daniel Lee Swank, 42, and his wife, Karen Ann, 31, on whose Porter property the garage-courthouse was located, were charged with tampering. Blake posted a $11,000 surety bond, the Swanks $10,000 sureties and were freed pending trial.

Second expedition readies for Mt. Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — The expedition that put four Americans and a Sherpa guide atop Mount Everest, were readying a second group to tackle the world's tallest peak, the Ministry of Tourism said Thursday.

Three Americans and a Sherpa guide were to try to scale Everest Friday, six days after the expedition's first assault group reached the top of the 29,028-foot mountain.

The second group includes Garry Neplune, 38, a businessman from Boulder, Col.; Jim States, 38, a physician from Spokane, Wash., and Philip Ersler, 32, of Bellevue, Wash.

The ministry said a third group, a six-member U.S. expedition unrelated to the other two, abandoned its attempt to climb the 23,442-foot Mount Pumori two weeks ago after encountering heavy avalanches on the difficult and timbered northeast ridge.

The ministry said the expedition, led by Don McIntyre, 37, of Martinez, Calif., abandoned its attempt April 22 after reaching a height of 20,308 feet — 3,134 feet short of conquering the Himalayan peak without Sherpa support.

Federal watchdogs apparently goofed

It's one of those stories that comes along every so often and tends to make federal officials look a little bit silly.

In Wednesday's Times-News, we carried a wire-service story that reported a U.S. House of Representatives committee had approved approximately $750 million in funding to repair several dams in the West. Included was the Little Wood River Dam, near Carey in Blaine County.

That was all the story said about the Magic Valley dam. So during the day Wednesday, staff reporter Hal Bernton did some checking to find out more about the dam and why it might need $1 million in repairs.

-In investigating the story, Bernton discovered that state and area officials were quite mystified about the appropriation, which has yet to be approved by the full House or Senate.

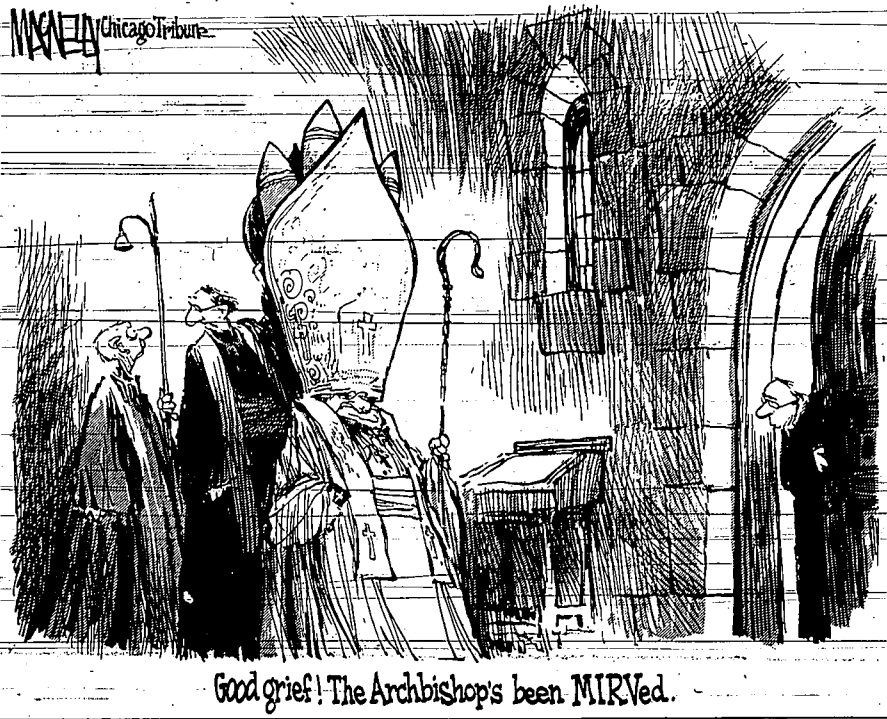

A 1979 study had recommended only minor repairs, and according to Allen Merritt, a state official who does dam-safety inspections, "the dam is really in pretty good shape."

"There might be some minor maintenance items, but certainly nothing that would require a congressional appropriation unless they wanted a major overhaul," he said.

We're all for dam safety; the memories of the Teton Dam failure are still fresh, and last year two private dams in the Carey area failed, causing considerable damage. But this sounds like a textbook case of a breakdown in communication between area, state and federal officials.

Before the full House takes action on this spending bill, perhaps Bureau of Reclamation officials will get their act together and decide that $1 million perhaps is too much money to spend on the apparently healthy Little Wood River Dam.

If so, President Reagan may have some extra bucks to spend on the nuclear warheads, and he would not have to sell so much federal land to help balance the federal deficit.

Good grief! The Archbishop's been MIRVed.

Letters/Sometimes, scare tactics are needed

Governor deserved 'snub'

Three cheers for the Idaho Legislature. Why should it have granted the governor permission to speak when he would only have played the same old record we have heard over and over again these past months. Most of the legislators are busy in their own endeavors and needed to be back on the job.

If this was a "snub," then the governor deserved it for wasting their time, and wanting to campaign for the next election.

I agree we certainly need a change in the education system, but it is not only finances that is needed.

Anti-drug show was needed

NBC's "Don't Be a Dope" anti-drug campaign, which was televised over KMTV-TV during the past months, and which culminated in a local news interview and a drug-abuse test, was recently criticized by one of your readers as doing more harm than good.

While the drug-abuse test itself might be open to criticism because it provided inadequate or incomplete answers to certain questions, the campaign itself was excellent. I view any anti-drug or alcohol-abuse campaign as excellent when it attempts to educate the public on the serious, tragic effects of drug and alcohol addiction on individuals, their families and the community as a whole.

I am tired of hearing that scare tactics do not work. When young people and their parents are the focus of a campaign of this type, you must first get their attention. People, today, are so deluged with pleas, messages and propaganda through the news media that it has reached the point where it is necessary to shout to be heard at all.

Ignorance is one of the primary stumbling blocks to getting young people and adults into treatment for addiction. The most simplistic facts are either not known or not accepted by the general population. In Idaho, most people do not view alcohol and marijuana as drugs, and they do not see alcoholism and drug addictions as the complex illnesses that they are.

While the anti-drug campaign might not have addressed all segments of the population in New York, Chicago or Los Angeles, it was primarily aimed at white, middle-class young people, and that's what we have here. I am certainly not aware of any "inner-city" slums or ghettos in this valley.

Idaho citizens can obtain, and are exposed to, the whole range of drugs. However alcohol, marijuana and cocaine are the primary drugs abused in our state. It would be ridiculous to focus on heroin in Idaho, when less than a half-percent of the drug abusers in this area use this substance.

Where to find help is always a problem. Fortunately the local TV and radio stations are, and always have been, willing to provide on-going announcements for treatment programs in the area. We are fortunate here in the Magic Valley to have many caring alcohol and drug professionals working in well-run programs.

The Walker Center in Gooding and MVARC-Port of Hope in Twin Falls, Burley and Halley all provide fine, effective treatment programs. Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous are strong, viable sources of help in our community. There are hundreds of caring members who are living proof that there is hope, and that AA and NA work.

A Narcotics Anonymous meeting - consisting of mostly young people - meets each Thursday night at 8 p.m. at Port of Hope, 425 Second Ave. N.

I am in total support of anyone's efforts to publicize the dangers of drugs and alcohol. We can't reach the young people and juveniles until we educate their parents and school officials. We have a very long way to go until most people admit there is a problem. Let alone get them to join in the fight to combat it.

With gun control, Jodie might not have been 'impressed'

President Reagan addressed a cheering audience of gun enthusiasts at the National Rifle Association Convention in Phoenix, Ariz., last week. Wearing a bulletproof vest and surrounded by a phalanx of Secret Servicemen and local police officers, the president declaimed those who take guns away from the American people.

Signs all over the hall where Mr. Reagan spoke warned the audience not to bring their guns to the rally. As a further precaution, all those entering the building had to pass through metal detector booths, to make sure they weren't armed.

The president said he would never disarm decent, law-abiding citizens, as plainclothes men kept a careful eye on the audience in the convention center.

He alluded to John W. Hinckley and said, "It is a nasty truth but those who seek to inflict harm are not fazed by gun-control laws. I happen to know this from personal experience."

The president failed to mention that Hinckley bought his gun from a Texas pawnshop in a state that has no gun-control laws.

Let us assume, for Mr. Reagan's sake, that Mr. Hinckley went into the Texas pawnshop, and stiff federal gun laws were in effect.

"Can I help you, sir?"
"Yes, I'd like to buy a handgun that I could fit in my pants pockets."
"May I ask you why you want the gun?"

"I want to impress Jodie Foster."
"She's a very fine actress. Do you know her personally?"

"Sort of. She knows me. She'll know me more in a couple of weeks."
"There is nothing like a nice little handgun to impress the girl you really love."
"I want a couple of boxes of ammunition to go with it."

"Certainly. Why would anyone buy a gun without ammunition? Here's a beauty-I just bought it from a man who wanted to trade up for something larger. It's only been fired once, at a neighbor."

"I'll take it."
"I can't give it to you now. I have to take your particulars, and then if everything checks out, you can come back in two weeks, and I'll give it to you."

"What do you mean checks out?"
"We have to know if you have a police record or have suffered from a mental illness."

"What do you think - I'm crazy or something?"

"Of course not, sir. You look perfectly sane to me. But, unfortunately, the federal law no longer permits a dealer to decide who should have a gun and who shouldn't. Certainly a law-abiding citizen like yourself can wait two weeks before impressing your girlfriend."

"That's how much you know, Jodie fan! The type of girl who has all the time in the world to be impressed. I could lose her in the next two weeks."

"I understand, sir, but if I sold you this gun without checking you out, I could be fined and sent to jail. Better to make it easy for us dealers. I have many customers who come in here, and when I tell them they have to be checked out before I can sell them a gun, I never see them again. It's killing my business."

"What do you want to know?"

"Why are you purchasing this handgun?"
"I told you. I want to impress my girlfriend."

"Couldn't you give me a better reason?"
"I'm going to Washington, and I need it to protect myself against all the nuts walking the streets."

"That's better. Do you promise to use it only in safe directions?"
"Do I have to?"

"It makes it easier to get a permit."
"Aw, heck with it. I'm not going to answer a lot of damn-fool questions just because I need a gun."

"I'm sorry, sir, but if you don't, I can't sell it to you."

"Stuff the gun. I'll skip Washington and think of another way of impressing Jodie Foster."

Reagan's activities show all the signs that he'll run again

WASHINGTON - For a man who won't say whether he will seek re-election, President Reagan is running a pretty good campaign.

The president maintains in public that he cannot reveal his decision about a second term at this time because it would risk making him look either as a lame duck or a coward.

But his aides are not taking any chances that the event will not be ready if he chooses to seek another four years in the White House. The past few weeks have been filled with examples of how a non-campaign can be orchestrated.

In a brief Houston trip, Reagan singled out a possible Democratic foe - former Vice President Walter Mondale - for some verbal shots. He criticized Mondale as "former Vice President Malaise" and said he got a valentine that he thought came from Mondale because it had a "bleeding heart." It was the first time Reagan had spoken openly against any contender.

Back in Washington, he stumbled on some answers in an interview with reporters, and the Washington Post reported the performance was confused and rambling.

That drew quick, angry reports from White House aides sensitive that such stories portrayed the president as being less than lush. Such a description could be lethal to anyone seeking office, and particularly to someone of Reagan's age.

On Thursday, Reagan flew west on what amounted to a campaign swing through three states. When he got off Air Force One in San Antonio, the president veered sharply from the normal arrival procedure - in which he waves to a clutch of television cameras, gets immediately into his limousine and rushes off to whatever appearance is scheduled.

This time, a U.S. Air Force brass band was waiting in welcome, breaking into "Hail to the Chief" as he walked down a corridor formed by beret-wearing members of an honor guard.

Moments later, he was working a crowd of several hundred Air Force dependents, shaking hands and kissing at least two babies, while cameras clicked away.

An aide said that it was felt in White House circles that appropriate advantage had not been taken of the normal honors due a president - particularly when such things as flags and cheering crowds create excellent television footage.

In a downtown plaza a short time after the dramatic arrival, Reagan courted the Hispanic vote by making it a point to mark the Cinco de Mayo holiday and by having his photo taken eating Mexican food.

Next came Phoenix, and Reagan speaking out against gun control - one of his favorite topics - before the National Rifle Association. He was interrupted more than 30 times by applause, as the deity gave the audience a hard line on why guns are good.

In nearby Sun City, a pish retirement community, Reagan made a pitch for the support of the elderly, talking about Social Security and his own age of 72.

On Saturday, from California, the president dedicated his five-minute radio show to American motherhood, with an address on "Mother's Day."

Finally, a speech in Ashland, Ohio, was a recital of Reagan's conservative beliefs - everything from the dangers of big government to the "failure" of such "social spending schemes" as food stamps.

The president smoothly touched base with conservatives who might be worried that he is too willing to make a deal with liberals to get his legislative programs passed. Aides portrayed it as "Intelligence Reagan."

Within the White House, Reagan may be getting conflicting advice, but chief of staff James Baker recently said, "All of us who work with him on a day-to-day basis are firmly convinced that he will run."

"We don't think there's a lot of doubt there, and we're sending those kind of signals," Baker said.

The signals are getting stronger every week.

Prayer

Court rules voluntary prayer unconstitutional

By WILLIAM COTTFRELL
United Press International

ATLANTA — A federal appeals court declared Alabama's voluntary school-prayer-law unconstitutional Thursday and rebuked a judge in Mobile for contradicting the U.S. Supreme Court on the issue.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the state of Alabama to pay court costs to Istimael Jaffree, an agnostic who claimed teachers were unlawfully leading prayers in three of his children's classes.

U.S. District Judge W. Brevard Hand in Mobile dismissed Jaffree's lawsuit in January and led stand a 1982 Alabama law allowing teacher-led prayers and a 1981 law allowing silent meditation in classrooms.

The appellate court sent the case back to Hand with instructions for an injunction against further prayer in the Alabama public schools.

"The primary affect of prayer is the advancement of one's religious beliefs. It acknowledges the existence of a supreme being," Judge Charles Hatchett said in the 13-page unanimous opinion. "The involvement of the Mobile County school system in such activity involves the state in advancing the affairs of religion."

Hatchett said the court record "reveals that passage of the statute was motivated by religious considerations, and its intention to advance religious beliefs."

Dan Alexander, president of the Mobile County school board, said, "It's hard to be disappointed when you're not surprised."

"We certainly are not surprised. Given the 11th Circuit's track record, we fully expected them to reverse the decision," Alexander said. "I think we will now take the case on to the Supreme Court."

The 1982 Alabama law suggested non-denominational prayer in schools. It was written by former Alabama Gov. Fob James' son, an attorney. Both James and Fob James III argued in support of school prayer.

"The fact that the prayer is voluntary and non-denominational does not neutralize the state's involvement," said the appeals court. "A state must remain neutral not only between competing religious sects but also between believers and non-believers."

Hand ruled late last year that the U.S. Supreme Court was wrong in its 1982 decision forbidding school prayer. Hand contended the Constitution's ban on government establishment of religion applied only to the federal government, and states could establish religion if they wished.

The circuit court ruled, however, that the 14th Amendment — which assures equal protection under the law — made the 1st Amendment's freedom of religion guarantee binding upon the states.

Judge upholds prayer meetings of 10 students

CHARLTON, Pa. (UPI) — A federal judge, in what was called a landmark decision, Thursday upheld the right of 10 high school students to meet for prayer and religious discussion during school hours.

U.S. District Judge William Nealon said the January 1982 decision by the Williamsport Board of Education to prohibit students from holding the religious meetings violated their First Amendment right of free speech.

Nealon, however, denied the students' claim that being refused permission to form the prayer group violated their right of religious expression.

The students, members of a non-denominational religious organization, wanted to meet for prayer and religious discussion two mornings per week during a school "activity period."

The school board refused to allow the prayer group, contending it would violate the U.S. Constitution's separation of church and state clause.

Barry Steinhart, executive director of the Greater Philadelphia chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, said the judge's decision "probably is precedent setting."

Nealon, in his 45-page opinion, said he was aware of the controversy surrounding school prayer and "knowing of the strongly held views on this subject, I venture into the thicket with some apprehension."

He noted the students acted "voluntarily and free of outside influences." In requesting permission to form the club and meet during the activity period "the same as other student organizations."

"This is not a case where school administrators have adopted a rule, or policy, or even allowing students to meet for religious purposes," Nealon said in his opinion.

Schools Superintendent Oscar Knade said in a statement the district would have no comment on the ruling or a possible appeal until it received Nealon's opinion.

Steinhart said the ACLU would "consider whether to file a friend of the court brief (on the side of the school district) if the school board should decide to appeal."

Lisa Bender and nine other students sued Knade, the Williamsport Area School District, members of the Board of Education and Williamsport High School Principal Wayne Newton.

Hearings slated on farm revisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Traditional farm programs have failed to build up the farm economy and should be replaced with a "new generation" policy, Sen. Roger Jepsen, chairman of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, said Thursday.

The Iowa Republican said his committee plans a series of public hearings beginning next week to review the problems of low farm income and food surpluses and to recommend changes in the government's farm programs.

"The prolonged, depressed economic condition of U.S. agriculture demonstrates the inability of traditional farm programs to lead the agriculture sector of the economy into a sustained recovery," Jepsen said.

He characterized the need for the new payment-in-kind program, which promises surplus crops to farmers who leave big portions of land unplanted, as "a clear indictment" of more traditional approaches to regulating crop supplies.

"Fortunately, the overwhelming response of farmers to the PIK program has given us one — maybe two — years to thoroughly investigate and implement a new generation of farm policy," he said.

Committee vice chairman Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said even though the payment-in-kind program might help bring supplies back in line with demand, it would not offer a long-term solution to problems facing farmers.

"Our basic farm programs were set up in the Great Depression and have been changed little by the technological and economic revolutions affecting agriculture in the years since," Hamilton said. "They need updating and improving."

Sen. James Abdnor, R-S.D., chairman of the agriculture subcommittee, said the hearings will constitute the groundwork for the next comprehensive farm bill.

"The future of government's relationship to agriculture lies in increased trade and new innovative ideas to foster a thriving market that guarantees farmers an adequate return on investment and consumers an adequate and reasonably priced food supply," he added.

Tightrope walker Jay Cochran faced a 170-foot plunge before being rescued

River beats cable walker

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A tightrope walker who attempted to cross the Mississippi River Thursday during a "one-year-to-go" countdown for the 1984 World's Fair had to be rescued by the Coast Guard when his cable began to roll.

Skywalker Jay Cochran, 42, a Canadian, had to abandon his perch 170 feet above the river after about 40 minutes when the 13,000-pound cable he was walking on began to roll.

Cochran, who has balanced on tightropes for almost three decades, hoped to set a world record for the longest walk across water, 2,670 feet, to kick-off the World's Fair celebration. Fireworks blazed over the Mississippi River. Thousands of balloons were released and hundreds of people gathered

Boiler blast claims life

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — An explosion in a boiler room at the federal courthouse and Post Office building killed one person and injured at least three others, officials said.

Police said the blast occurred at 1:24 p.m. MDT in a basement boiler room at the building in downtown Camden. The building houses the Post Office, courtrooms and the U.S. attorney's offices.

The dead man, whose identity was not immediately released, was being worked on the heating system when the blast occurred, police said.

It appears that the gentleman was down in the basement working on the boiler and there was a buildup of combustion gas and either he tried to ignite the boiler or there was a spark and the thing just blew up," said Lt. Luis Rodriguez of the Camden County prosecutor's office.

Watt backs prices of coal lease sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary James Watt insisted Thursday the government got its money's worth in a controversial 1982 coal lease sale that congressional investigators say went too cheaply.

Watt, testifying at House Interior appropriations subcommittee hearings, also said a department investigation found "no evidence" that confidential information was leaked to industry before the sale of rights to coal in Wyoming's Powder River basin.

"We see nothing to indicate we did not get fair market value for those properties," Watt said. But he said he was "not squeezing out the last dollar" in bonus bids in the sale of leases for about $60-million.

"We're trying to meet the consumer needs 15 to 20 years out," he said, contending it is more important to consider long-range job opportunities, royalties, income tax revenues, national security and consumer benefits that might result from the sale.

But subcommittee Chairman Sidney Yates, D-Ill., cited reports by both subcommittee investigators and the General Accounting Office indicating the leases were sold too cheaply.

A report on the panel's own investigation, he said, showed the leases could have been sold for $10 million more, and referred to the sale as "a fire sale" and "a giveaway."

Yates said he was "very much concerned" by Assistant Interior Secretary Garrey Carruthers' reported assertion that the investigators' report was "a poorly prepared and deceitful political document."

He then cited a conclusion by the GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, that the leases were sold for about $100 million less than fair market value.

JAMES WATT
Addresses the House

"I don't believe Mr. Carruthers could call that a poorly prepared and deceitful document," Yates told Watt.

Watt replied that he would not "so characterize" the GAO report. He said Carruthers felt he had had no chance "to tell the administration story" in an earlier subcommittee appearance.

Watt said, however, he has "serious objections" to some of GAO's conclusions.

Yates and other subcommittee members pressed Watt repeatedly on why the department went ahead with the sale in light of depressed coal prices at the time, and cited reports that confidential information on the leases had been leaked to industry.

Political fund raising limited by commission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Election Commission said Thursday independent political committees may not spend more than $1,000 to support presidential nominees, and a conservative group promptly declared it will sue to overturn the ruling.

The FEC advisory opinion was addressed to the The National Conservative Political Action Committee and the Fund for a Conservative Majority, which have said they plan to spend money to support President Reagan for re-election.

The opinion, approved 5-1, dealt only with spending on behalf of candidates who had not their party's presidential nominations and are accepting federal general election campaign subsidies. Commissioner Joan Alkens voted against the opinion.

The opinion said the $1,000 spending limitation would apply to the two independent political action groups despite a federal district court decision ruling the provision unconstitutional.

A recent Supreme Court vote of 4-4 affirmed that ruling, but FEC lawyers said a law could not be ruled unconstitutional by a tie vote in the high court.

"That provoked an angry response from Terry Dolan, chairman of NCPAC, who called the ruling "appalling" and accused the FEC of "contempt for the First Amendment, bureaucratic arrogance and willful disregard for the taxpayers' money."

He said in a statement that NCPAC "does not intend to stand by" and let the FEC "chill" the political opinions of its members. Asked if that means NCPAC intends to go to court to challenge the FEC opinion, a spokesman said, "Damn right."

The opinion apparently will have no immediate effect on NCPAC's $5 million "Heroes for Ronald Reagan" program, which already has begun a campaign supporting the president for re-election.

Reagan has not yet announced his 1984 plans and the FEC opinion noted that "one of the significant eligibility conditions (in the law) is the occurrence of that candidate's nomination."

Lawyers said that means NCPAC's spending would be legal until Reagan becomes the official GOP candidate, which could not occur until August of next year.

The first event of the "Heroes" campaign, a major rally, is scheduled next month in Houston, and NCPAC spokesman Craig Shirley said the program will continue "on track."

Chemical bomb freeze sought by lawmakers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bipartisan congressional group called Thursday for continuing the nation's 15-year ban on production of chemical weapons and called on the administration to withdraw its request for funds.

"The world perception of the United States may be that we are partners in crime with the Soviets when it comes to nuclear weapons, but it doesn't have to be that way with chemical weapons," said Rep. Ed Bethune, R-Ark., in a statement released at a news conference.

He and a bipartisan group of House members said they would introduce a resolution in the House calling on other nations to agree to a "comprehensive treaty banning chemical weapons" and saying the United States will continue its moratorium on chemical weapon production.

Said Bethune: "If we can draw the clear contrast between our policy and practice on chemical weapons, we can convince people who they can and should trust, and trust is what we need right now."

Bethune also released a letter from President Reagan opposing any delay in the chemical weapons program as "not in the national interest."

But Reagan said he has asked Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to work with Bethune on "realistic ways to achieve our goal: an end to the threat of chemical warfare by achieving a complete and verifiable ban on chemical weapons."

Bethune said, "If the administration won't take advantage of the opportunity we have to get a ban on chemical weapons, then Congress will have to take the high ground and reaffirm the policy of this country."

Also at the news conference were Reps. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla.; Marge Roukema, R-N.J.; Les AuCoin, D-Ore.; and Dave Bonior, D-Mich. Not attending but listed as co-sponsors of the resolution were Clement Zablocki, D-Wis.; Sam Hall, D-Ohio; Sam Gejdenson, D-Conn.; and Jim Leach, R-Iowa.

Industry advocates smoking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A panel of expert witnesses for the tobacco industry told a Senate committee Thursday smoking is not addictive and there is no conclusive scientific evidence it causes cancer or heart disease.

But they gave a flat "no" to the question of whether smoking is injurious to health.

replace the current surgeon general's warning on cigarette packages with a series of four rotating labels warning of specific health hazards.

"Despite the appearances of good intentions, this is bad legislation," said Curtis Judge, chairman of The Tobacco Institute's executive committee. "It is, of course, bad for business. More than that, it sets a bad precedent for many other businesses."

Anti-nuke leaders seized in Germany

BERLIN (UPI) — East German police Thursday seized five leaders of West Germany's anti-nuclear Greens Party, who crossed into the communist sector of Berlin to demonstrate against nuclear weapons, a Greens spokesman said.

The five leaders — all members of West Germany's parliament and including Petra Kelly, the Greens' most prominent figure — were later released and crossed back into West Berlin. It was not immediately known if they had been charged with any offense.

The East German police swooped down on the line demonstration in Alexanderplatz square in the center of the communist capital and detained Ms. Kelly, former West German army general Gert Bastian and three other Greens members of Parliament as they paraded with banners. West German spokesman Ernst Hopflitschek said.

Police seized their banners declaring "Swords into plowshares" and "Begin now — disarmament East and West" and led the five away. Hopflitschek said.

The Greens protest coincided with a 3,000-strong international peace conference in West Berlin which the five were attending before they crossed into East Berlin for the protest. East German anti-nuclear groups want a revised permission to attend the rally in the West.

"In another anti-nuclear protest in England, police armed with a High Court order tried to evict women demonstrators from a 20-month old "peace camp" outside a base where U.S. cruise missiles are due to be stationed.

A half-dozen helmeted officers moved in on the screaming protesters, who lay down in front of sheriff's vehicles in a bid to slow the eviction. Scuffles broke out and 10 women were arrested, police said.

It was the third attempt to evict the women since they began their protest in September 1981 at Greenham Common about 60 miles west of London. Officials were doubtful they had persuaded the women to leave for good.

The six-day West Berlin meeting — The Second Conference for European Nuclear Disarmament — entered its fourth day Thursday, with delegates from 400 peace groups in 25 European countries attending.

Earlier Thursday — the Ascension Day public holiday in West Germany — the conference was told by organizers that members of East Germany's unofficial peace movement had been refused permission to leave the country.

But a telegram was read to delegates from the movement, the Jenä-based Freedom Association, which has been harassed by East German police.

"We support no individual peace movement but want to ally ourselves with all those supporting peace," the telegram said.

Spy scandal revealed by Australian leader

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI) — Prime Minister Bob Hawke Thursday announced a sweeping investigation of spying activities in Australia, following charges of links between a Soviet KGB agent and a former high official of his own Labor Party.

Hawke announced the probe by a Royal Commission of Inquiry — Australia's highest independent judicial investigating committee — in answer to questions in Parliament about his government's handling of the spy scandal.

The prime minister told Parliament Wednesday his government expelled Soviet Embassy First Secretary Valery Ivanov last month because of his association with former Labor Party National Secretary David Combe.

Australia, was not suspected of being an agent for Moscow.

Hawke said Combe, the top Labor Party official from 1973 to 1981, was a former friend and colleague but that he had been banned from dealing with any government officials following an Australian Security Intelligence Organization report on his alleged ties to Ivanov.

But he said that Combe was not suspected of being a spy and that his relationship with Ivanov was one of several "factors" that led the government to oust the Soviet envoy.

"There is certainly, in the government's belief, no foundation for any allegation or imputation that Mr. Combe, is, or ever was, in any sense, a Soviet spy," Hawke said.

Ivanov's relationship with Combe gave rise to serious security concern," Hawke said, without disclosing details about the alleged relationship.

Hawke told a news conference Thursday the commission would carry out a sweeping investigation of Australia's intelligence services, foreign intelligence operations in the country, and the expulsion of the Soviet diplomat.

He told Parliament that Combe, whose current work as a lobbyist reportedly brought him into close contact with the Russians in Ivanov, was kicked out of Australia April 28 on charges that he "had threatened Australia's national security" as a "professional intelligence officer" with the Soviet KGB.

Combe issued a statement saying he was suing a Sydney newspaper for accusing him of being a Soviet spy and saying that he welcomed the Royal Commission as a means of clearing his name.

The newspaper, the Australian reported Combe told friends Ivanov tipped him that his phone was being tapped by Australian intelligence.

Poland's press rejects attack on government

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's Communist party weekly newspaper Polityka Thursday denounced recent Soviet press criticisms of the Warsaw government's handling of the political crisis.

Polityka's response to last week's criticism in the Soviet weekly New Times pointed out errors, but played down the significance of the Soviet attack and at the same time implicitly but fully rejected it.

The author, Andrzej Ryzow, in an unprecedented tone has criticized the line of our paper against the background of the present Polish situation and the numerous political and ideological dangers which characterize the situation," Polityka wrote.

It said the New Times article claimed martial law crushed the now-banned Solidarity labor movement but "the ideas of pluralism" advocated by the free trade union were still represented in official thinking.

Polityka said New Times quoted one of the paper's leading newsmen Krzysztof Teodor Topolitz as saying: "Poland is the country of ideological and political pluralism," and also indirectly accused Deputy Prime Minister Mieczyslaw Rakowski of political weakness.

Rakowski, former editor in chief of Polityka, lacked firmness in dealing with "the enemies of socialism," the Soviet article had said, and Poland was trying to develop a "political system" that would be neither "full capitalism nor real socialism."

"It may happen sometimes to Polish newsmen that they are not good in using quotation marks but it happened to Ryzow as well," Polityka said, refuting the attack by listing in full the quotations "mis-cited" by Ryzow.

It also said 16 of the 18 quotes used by Ryzow were taken from stories that appeared in Polityka during "the first complicated months of martial law," implying they were unrepresentative as well as wrong.

Rock music annoys Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet youths have come under the sway of "spiritless, amoral" Western pop music with its "terrible, deafening rhythms," but they will grow out of it, critics of the Young Communist League said Thursday.

"To some degree this problem does exist," said Murad Annamuradov, a musical director, at a press conference sponsored by the Communist Party's youth organization Komosmol.

Despite the popularity of unacceptable music among many of the 15-25 age group, he said, the level of appreciation has risen compared to what it was 10 years ago.

"These exaggerated passions with time," he said, "it's a disease of growth."

While some "solid" Western pop groups such as the Beatles have become accepted, he said, "We are against spiritless, amoral music, without titles — manifestations with terrible, deafening rhythms, no sense and no taste. No country would agree that this is necessary for any segment of its youth."

Although Soviet authorities control the airwaves and decide what records are sold in shops, the latest in Western pop music can be heard widely through disks and tapes brought in by foreign tourists and Soviets who have been abroad.

He said Soviet artists have raised the level of popular music in recent years and tens of millions of young people are involved in amateur folk music groups.

State board issues money to colleges

POCATELLO (UPI) — The state Board of Education, acting in the wake of an announcement that Idaho colleges and universities will get an extra $3 million next year, divided up nearly $82 million Thursday among the four institutions.

Panel members also voted to hike fees for full and part-time graduate students, but did not have to consider a proposal to raise costs for undergraduates.

Board President Robert Montgomery said there was no need to take up the across-the-board fee hike because Gov. John-Evans announced Thursday he would restore $3 million in funds for higher education for the next fiscal year.

Evans said he had authority to restore the monies because he withheld them earlier in the fiscal year to ease a revenue shortfall. The dollars are now available, the Democrat said, because the Idaho Tax Commission predicts the state will end the year with $19 million more than was expected.

The board — writing the $3 million figure into budgets — approved fiscal 1984 allocations of $38.6 million for the University of Idaho, $22.1 million for Idaho State, $23.3 million for Boise State and $4.7 million for Lewis-Clark State College.

The appropriations would represent an increase over current spending for each institution. Fiscal year 1983 support — included — $35.6 million for Idaho, $22.3 million for Idaho State, $23 million for Boise State and $4.1 million for L.C.S.C.

The $31,896,000 allocated by the board includes $73 million in state general funds.

Board members increased fees for full-time graduate students by $40 per semester — a 47-percent boost which brings the cost of a semester of instruction to $125.

In addition, they voted to raise the credit-hour fee for part-time graduate students by $6 to $12.50.

The panel also voted to abolish special-tuition charges for non-residents.

Governor vetoes uses of state surplus funds

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans vetoed a bill Thursday that would have assigned any fiscal 1984 state surplus money to dedicated accounts raised by the Legislature to balance the current general-account budget.

The Democratic governor took the action armed with an attorney general's opinion backing his position.

In an opinion requested Wednesday by Evans, Republican Attorney General Jim Jones said Thursday the Legislature broke the Constitution by considering the bill during this week's special session.

Jones said the bill fell outside the special-session agenda outlined by Evans. The state Constitution says legislation considered during special sessions must be restricted to issues cited by the governor.

The attorney general said the "surplus eliminator" bill was improper because, although it generally concerned appropriations, the governor's proclamation asked legislators to make appropriations only for education.

The bill also was not covered under Evans' request for legislators to reconsider the revenue projections they made during the 1983 regular session, Jones said.

Senators passed the bill Wednesday just before ending the GOP-dominated Legislature's three-day special session, despite protests by Democrats that the measure was not listed on the special-session call.

Evans, who was trying out a new veto stamp Thursday, vetoed the "surplus-eliminator" proposal for the second time this year. Lawmakers passed an identical bill during the 95-day regular session, and Evans vetoed it soon after, saying he believed it would be an unwise use of state general funds.

Evidence not admitted in murder sentencing

BOISE (UPI) — A judge refused Thursday to allow a prosecution psychologist to testify about the mental state of Randall McKeown, one of two youths facing sentencing for a second-degree murder in the jailhouse killing of Christopher Peterman.

Fourth District Judge Alan Schwartzmann upheld an objection by defense attorney David Nevin, who said Dr. John Stoner should not testify about the 17-year-old defendant never agreed to waive the confidentiality of his mental examination.

Stoner examined McKeown last summer at the request of Nevin, but Ada County Deputy Prosecutor Jay Roughton, not the youth's lawyer, called the psychologist to testify Thursday.

Schwartzmann ruled that McKeown had the right to prevent testimony by the psychologist because the mental tests were performed at the defendant's request.

During McKeown's three-day sentencing hearing, Nevin sought to demonstrate that McKeown's actions in the Memorial Day 1982 beating death of Peterman, 17, Nampa, were partly due to the environment at the Ada County Jail. He presented a witness who said circumstances in prison settings could bring out violent emotions even in well-adjusted people.

Schwartzmann, who said he had a "rather complete" personality profile of McKeown even without Stoner's testimony, delayed the youth's sentencing until Monday morning.

Laker Thursday, the other defendant, Andy Anderson Jr., faced Schwartzmann for his sentencing hearing. That proceeding was expected to conclude Friday, with Anderson's sentencing to follow McKeown's.

A state attorney general's criminal investigator, who probed the Peterman slaying last summer recounted a series of other beatings involving juveniles in the jail.

New prison director arrives

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's new director of Corrections arrived in Boise Thursday to begin a rigorous schedule of meetings with department staff and tours of institutions around the state.

Acting Director Mike Mitchell said one of the first items on the agenda for Al Murphy was to talk with department attorneys about pending lawsuits which have been filed against the agency by inmates.

Murphy and Mitchell are slated to travel to northern Idaho this weekend for meetings Sunday with administrators at the North Idaho Correctional Institute and the new women's facility at Orofino, he said.

Symms embarks on Salvador tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho Sen. Christopher Symms says he plans to fly to El Salvador Friday to gather information that will help him support President Reagan's proposal for aid to the beleaguered Central American country.

The Republican lawmaker said he wants to review El Salvador's military efforts against left-wing guerrillas before he can effectively debate the issue in the Senate floor.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee this week adopted a compromise program of two $76 million payments in military aid for the Salvadoran government in 1983 and 1984.

However, the Reagan Administration has asked for $136 million during 1983 and another $86 million next year.

SEN. STEVE SYMMS
To argue for aid

Some critics say the Salvadoran government is an oppressive regime, responsible for human rights violations and undemocratic actions.

"Nobody has to be able to speak with a little authority when Christopher Dodd gets up and starts reading all those tired old clichés about abuses by the Salvadoran government," Symms said. "If I'm not going to do it, who is going to do it?"

But a Democratic senator from Connecticut, presented a response on national television to Reagan's recent argument to a joint session of Congress to provide aid to El Salvador.

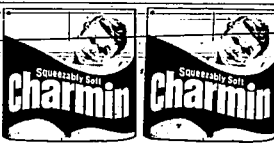

Symms says the debate should focus on Communist efforts to overthrow the Salvadoran government.

He said unlike Vietnam, "We're not talking about 9,000 miles from home. We're talking about south of the border."

Symms said he wants to talk with many of the military and non-military people he met last year on a similar trip to the country.

McClure uncovers memo, says McClure biased

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Conservative League member Bruce Boccadoro says the group has obtained a memo from Sen. James McClure that raises concerns about the lawmaker's opposition to wilderness proposals.

Boccadoro claims the memo, written in March, shows McClure plans to be more receptive to the industry wilderness proposals than those of other groups.

McClure's spokeswoman for McClure denied the charge, saying the senator plans to hold hearings around the state to obtain information on various proposals for wilderness in Idaho.

"The memo, Forest Industry Council Director Joe Hinson said, 'The industry will be guided by Senator McClure on the need for additional lobbying efforts outside that proceeding through (the council) or operating associations.'"

Boccadoro said the memo shows McClure plans to guide the industry's lobbying efforts to push its proposal for 600,000 acres of wilderness in the state.

"We feel it sort of verifies that there is collusion occurring between industry and Senator McClure," Boccadoro said.

But council member Todd Maddock said the intent of the memo was to seek advice from McClure about gaining support for the group's proposal.

"I know there has been some suggestion that there is some kind of plot there," Maddock said. "But that is not the case. We just wanted to get some action."

Faith Haywood, an aide to McClure, accused conservationists of downplaying the industry's proposal to benefit their own interests.

She said rather than discussing their proposal with the senator, members have conducted a letter-writing campaign to newspapers and tried to publicly accuse McClure of collusion with the industry.

Hearings will be held this summer before McClure prepares a bill naming certain areas as wilderness, she said.

Expert witness claims Bell is distorting facts

BOISE (UPI) — Mountain Bell Co. is using distorted facts when it claims it must dramatically increase local phone rates to cover the cost of a new service, a consultant told the Idaho Public Utilities Commission Tuesday.

Johnson, a Florida economist, said he stood during the week-long hearing to explain why the utility's demand for a 20 percent rate increase is not warranted. He said the utility's actual cost recovery rates are 119 percent, not the 119 percent it has requested.

Johnson, in written testimony, denied Mountain Bell's claim that local service should be hiked and long distance rates cut to more closely match the utility's actual costs.

Johnson acknowledged any method of allocating rate increases would be arbitrary, but he said one class of consumers should not pay for equipment that serves other consumers as well.

In sum, there is no evidence to support the company's conclusion that long distance service is being "subsidized" by toll (long distance) or any other service, Johnson said in preliminary testimony.

The network access facilities are necessary for the provision of toll and long distance services; they also contribute to the value of other services, such as custom-calling services.

Mountain Bell officials say if their rate increase request is not granted, they will be forced to delay maintenance projects and seek another hike in the future.

Johnson, a witness for the PUC staff, accused Bell of "contorting" its costs to justify its desire to bring in more revenue from local phone calls.

"This claim is an integral part of the argument that pressures exist which are forcing the Bell companies to propose drastic increases in local rates," Johnson said. "This arbitrary allocation allowed the conclusion that exchange services were priced well below their costs."

But company officials have presented figures showing local phone service consumes 45 percent of the company's overall expenses, while providing 28 percent of yearly income.

Long distance service provides 53 percent of income, but requires only 23 percent of company expenses.

The commission is expected to rule in late July whether to grant the utility's request for an overall $34 million, 24 percent increase.

Mountain Home likes radar

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Construction of an early-warning radar system centered at Mountain Home Air Force Base would be warmly welcomed in the nearby town, Idaho town Chamber of Commerce executive director Joe Chamber said.

The Air Force base south of Mountain Home would be a major addition to the town, Chamber said, if it is chosen as the location for the new radar system, designed to track foreign aircraft off the national coastlines.

Chamber said the town is 100 percent in support of the project.

Wilson said the addition of 350 people at the nearby base would be a boon to the area's depressed economy.

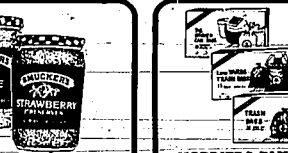

Air Force officials have scheduled a hearing in Mountain Home Friday night to discuss environmental and social impacts of basing the system near the small community.

Wilson said he sees no reason why the town could not accommodate the additional military employees and their families.

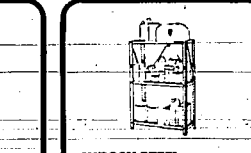

"They (base officials) have told us they have the housing, the mess halls, hospital facilities, the support needed for the center," he said.

Parts of Montana remain snowbound

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — Rural schools were closed and tourists were stranded Thursday along the path of a storm that continued to dump snow on Montana, and electrical service remained out to 2,000 rural residents.

"We won't have everybody back on before mid-week or the latter part of next week," said Rod Hanson, manager of the Sun River Electric Cooperative.

"Of course, rural people are pretty versatile," he added. "They've no doubt got wood stoves that they're doing some cooking on."

Dawson County schools superintendent Jean Grow said four rural schools are closed in her county.

"They've just snowed in," she said.

Overnight snowfall was reported in amounts of up to 10 inches at Miles City, 1 foot in the Glendive area and 8 inches around Wolf Point. Up to another foot was forecast to fall by Tuesday night.

Elsie Richards of the Custer County Sheriff's Department said many North Dakota and California tourists were stranded in Miles City.

"Oh, they're having a great time," she said. "Everything's pretty slow right here. There's not many people driving around."

No new power outages were reported Thursday. Hill County Electric Cooperative manager Frank Kucinsky said 127 power poles remained down.

"My guess it will be early next week at the earliest" before service is fully restored, he said.

Power was restored Thursday to the 500 residents of Augusta, where the storm dumped more than 50 inches of snow Monday and Tuesday.

Blowing and drifting snow and poor visibility made travel hazardous in eastern, central and southwest Montana. No roads are closed, early Thursday afternoon, but the National Weather Service said many may have to be closed during the night.

Authorities believe the storm contributed to the death of a 57-year-old Great Falls woman, whose body was found covered with snow on the sidewalk near her home Tuesday morning.

Pat Rilla of the Dawson County Sheriff's Department at Glendive said authorities recommended no travel by small cars in the Glendive, Miles City and Williston, N.D., areas.

"So far so good, but there's a lot of snow. There's been a lot of people in ditches," she said.

Montana Power Co. estimated the storm would cost it about the same amount as a spring storm last year — $3 million.

Rescuers reached a snowbound cabin in the Augusta area Wednesday to check on an elderly Great Falls couple that had been staying there. The couple was found in good shape, with enough food to last the storm.

The National Weather Service issued a winter storm warning for eastern and much of central Montana, and a travelers advisory for part of southwest Montana because of blowing and drifting snow.

Hughes' Spruce Goose ensconced in new roost

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The Spruce Goose, the colossal wood airplane Howard Hughes built, flew once and hid for three decades, was unveiled Thursday in a spectacular new roost that probably will have impressed the late billionaire.

The gleaming white craft, still the world's largest airplane with a wing span longer than a football field and a tail the height of an eight-story building, was showcased in the world's largest span, some that also features exhibits of the reclusive magnate who built the plane during World War II.

With fanfare befitting the mammoth aircraft, the Spruce Goose will be opened to the public Saturday and Sunday. Jimmy Stewart will preside over ceremonies that include an air show representing more than 70 years of aviation history.

Several hundred reporters from around the world Thursday attended the unveiling of the Spruce Goose in its permanent nesting spot next to another transportation relic, the Queen Mary ocean liner.

The 50 adult-tour includes a view of the cockpit and the enormous cargo area designed to transport troops and tanks across the Atlantic safely above the menacing enemy submarines.

The all-aluminum dome housing the Spruce Goose sits in the flight path of its solitary, one-mile flight 70 feet over the Long Beach Harbor on Nov. 2, 1947. After that brief but historic flight — with Hughes at the controls — the eccentric industrialist put his controversial plane in a hangar where it remained until 1980.

Hughes collaborated with Liberty Ship inventor Henry Kaiser, who promoted the idea of building "flying boats" for the war effort. The Spruce Goose project took five years to complete, with Hughes fighting Senate criticism that he mismanaged $18 million of government money appropriated for the $25 million project.

The plane, so large that two DC-10s can fit beneath each wing, was made out of wood.

Officials uncover con game

By AURELIO ROJAS

ANAHEIM, Calif. — A fraud ring trading overvalued gems for hundreds of "white elephants," including an island off Canada and a London night club, has bilked victims out of more than $1.5 billion in three years, police revealed Thursday.

The scam, believed to be the largest in California history, preyed on victims in 14 states and six foreign nations who were selling expensive property. High interest rates and shortages of cash among potential buyers made the gem deals appear attractive.

"The victims generally were trying to get rid of property that are 'white elephants,'" undercover police detective Bill Lane told reporters at an Orange County news conference.

Seven suspects have been identified, officers said, but no arrests have been made in the scheme in which operators — members of four interrelated groups — continue to take in an average $500 million a year.

Police Chief Jimmie Kennedy said he called the news conference to warn potential victims who have agreed to trade millions of dollars worth of property for the inflated gems, but still have time to pull out of the deals.

"The personal property involved collectors' items like valuable cars, boats, airplanes, one night club on an island off the (west) coast of Canada," Officer Joe Kearns said.

One "major Los Angeles athlete" who asked not to be identified was defrauded of $25,000, police said.

The scheme was uncovered in March when police searched an Orange County business and the Los Angeles home of a person suspected of buying stolen goods with gems. Seized were extensive records and $200,000 worth of diamonds, rubies, sapphires, emeralds and other gems that were falsely appraised at $20 million. The gems were displayed at the news conference.

Truck hits demonstrator

GALICE, Ore. (UPI) — An environmental protester taking part in the fourth blockade in three weeks of a controversial southern Oregon logging road was knocked down by a pickup truck driven by a construction worker Thursday.

The truck from Plumley Construction Co. of Medford, with five workers inside, bumped the protester in his chest as he stood blocking an access road to the construction site.

The protester identified himself as Dave Bowman of the Oregon chapter of the radical environmental group Earth First.

Members of Earth First and a local group, the Kalmiopsis Action Alliance, have spearheaded the blockade of Bald Mountain Road, located 40 miles southeast of Grants Pass in the Siskiyou National Forest.

The truck reached the site around 6:30 a.m., slowing down but not stopping as it approached the protester who was facing them. The truck bumped into him and kept moving, forcing him to backpedal for 100 yards at about 30 mph as a handful of other demonstrators chased the vehicle on foot.

Farm cutback worries utility

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

BOISE — The Idaho Power Co. could lose $2.5 million this year because many farmers cancelled the federal crop-swap program are idling their electric irrigation pumps — along with their land.

The federal payment-in-kind program demands that farmers idle at least 10 percent of their land in order to get paid for not growing their usual grain crops, such as wheat, barley or corn.

The program will take about 67,000 acres of irrigated land and 87.9 million kilowatt hours off Idaho Power meters, company spokesman Larry Taylor estimates.

“Magic Valley farmers will turn off pumps on about 23,000 acres, costing Idaho Power an estimated $1 million, says Ernie Davis, a division accounting manager for the utility. His division, which stretches across southern Idaho, from Bliss to Rupert, accounts for 40 percent of the utility's irrigation billings.

Statewide, Idaho Power estimates that it serves about 18 percent of the acres that will be taken out of production this year by the P.K. program. Only part of that acreage actually is irrigated, though. And the company estimates that practical matters, such as the way idled land is laid out, will hold irrigation reductions to about half of the normal load on those acres.

But, taken together, they still will reduce the utility's demand for irrigation power by about 15 percent, Taylor says.

Normally, the company would welcome the decline, he says, because it could avoid buying power from other utilities when crop-watering hits its peak and air conditioners are blasting in mid-summer.

But, this year, Idaho Power — and most other Pacific Northwest power generators — will have electricity to spare. Reservoirs behind their hydroelectric dams are brimming because of wet weather, and heavy snowmelt are expected to keep them full.

In 1982, Idaho Power stoked its financial reservoirs substantially by selling off surplus energy. But this year, every body has enough. The price per kilowatt hour has dropped to about half of normal, and prospects for good surplus sales are slim in 1983.

“It's the old supply and demand situation,” Taylor sighs.

Of course, a long, hot dry spell could change the picture within a few weeks, he adds.

“Other Idaho Power customers will not wind up paying higher rates to make up for the lost revenue, barring other major financial setbacks, he says.

“We've already said we're not going to ask for a rate increase in 1983, and I think we're going to stick to that,” Taylor said Thursday.

Residents seek toll-free service

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

HAZELTON — Some 340 Hazelton and Eden residents who want toll-free telephone service, to span the miles of sagebrush and farmlands that separate their communities from the Twin Falls area.

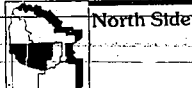

And a petition they have delivered to the state Public Utilities Commission has resulted in a study to figure out how much the new service would cost. Earlier this week the PUC commissioners asked Mountain Bell to look into the matter and report back to them by Aug. 15.

The petition drive was spearheaded by Vernon Brander, a mail clerk who works the night shift in Twin Falls. During a February signature drive, Brander had petitions placed at key businesses throughout the Hazelton-Eden area.

“Within the first week, we had 200 people sign the petitions, and the rest of the signatures came within the next week,” Brander says.

Brander figures he could save about $70 on his phone bill if he could get local service to the Twin Falls area. And he says many local businesses have to pay “an outrageous amount” to call into Twin Falls for parts.

According to Brander, many Hazelton and Eden residents would be willing to pay a higher monthly charge in exchange for the right to call outside their area “without watching the clock all the time.”

The petition has been opposed by Mountain Bell officials, who argue that there are already a number of discount package options for Jerome County residents who make frequent calls to Twin Falls. And they say the move would also cut down on their operating revenues, by replacing the more lucrative long-distance fees with the flat rates.

PUC spokeswoman Dana Howard says the PUC wants to find out how much installing the service would cost the company and who would foot the bill, before it makes any decision on the petition request.

“We have to know who will pay the costs,” Howard says. “Should only those people in the community pay for the added costs, or should it be spread out over a larger area. It's sort of a philosophical question.”

The higher monthly phone bills, Howard says, would help the phone company offset the cost of adding new phone lines to handle the increased traffic.

Ballying historians name first leaders

TWIN FALLS — The South Central Idaho History Council has elected nine members to a governing board.

The board members, elected Wednesday night, will meet again Monday afternoon to determine the specific directions the fledgling organization will take in the coming months.

The council is devoted to encouraging and coordinating research into the history of the eight-county Magic Valley area.

“It was created out of the efforts of an informal group that met twice in April. That group called the meeting

Wednesday, after it notified groups it felt would have a natural interest in the council.

The meeting was attended by about 20 individuals.

Five members of the board were chosen to represent specific organizations in the area. They are: College of Southern Idaho history Professor Jim Gentry; Ethel Nelson, of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce; Retired Senator Volunteer Program director Bruce Bennett; Virginia Ricketts, from the Jerome County Historical Society; and Twin Falls city librarian Arlan Call.

Health service prepares for migrant workers

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Migrant farm workers are beginning to appear among the sculptured fields of the Magic Valley.

One organization ready for their arrival is Family Health Services.

A non-profit corporation, Family Health Services operates migrant health clinics in Twin Falls and Burley. FHS personnel also take health care to labor camps, apartments, motels and other places where migrants live during their temporary stay.

The service, funded by the federal government, is designed primarily to serve migrant and seasonal farm workers, says Cooke Atkins, the program's executive director. Last year, it recorded 7,706 patient visits.

Currently, the agency is preparing to spread the word about its services. Posters and fliers will be left in grocery stores, laundries and state employment, vocational rehabilitation and health and welfare offices.

“New this year is a clinic on wheels. A large recreation vehicle will be loaned to Family Health Services by the Idaho Migrant Council office of Twin Falls. The council used the vehicle when it operated migrant

Gains sought from industrial revenue bonds

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Economic development is once again on the minds of Twin Falls City Council. This time, the particular topic is Idaho's new industrial-revenue bond law.

Council is reviewing the final draft of an ordinance that would allow the city to issue the bonds. Action has been scheduled for next Monday's council meeting.

Although no applications have been received by the city for the bonds, the purpose of the bonds is to lower expenses for businesses that want to move into the city or for businesses already here that want to expand.

Idaho became the last state in the nation to allow industrial-revenue bonds when voters approved an amendment to the state constitution in November.

Formerly, only municipally owned and operated facilities were eligible for tax-exempt funding. Now, IRBs allow cities and counties to extend this privilege to a vast number of private industry within their boundaries.

It is assumed that a new industry, or an expansion of an existing industry, means more jobs and a swelling of tax rolls. The key advantage for private industry is that a lower interest rate may mean the difference between a profitable and a non-profitable expansion project.

The amount of interest earned by a person who buys tax-exempt bonds is not subject to state or federal taxes. Therefore, investors will accept a lower interest rate in return for this guarantee.

The Idaho law allows the bonds to be sold to build, buy or renovate facilities for manufacturing, processing, production, assembly, warehousing and a number of other narrowly defined activities. Retail, commercial or office construction cannot be funded using the bonds.

Any Idaho city or county may pass laws that would allow it to sell the bonds. But the law says this must be done by establishing a public corporation that will administer the whole IRB program for that city or county.

The ordinance under consideration in Twin Falls would do two things.

First, it sets 14 standards for evaluating applications for the bonds. These include provisions for protecting the environment and the city's comprehensive plan, using local manpower and promoting economic diversity.

The standards also seek to eliminate from consideration any projects that would be financially unfeasible or of a high-risk nature. And they call for applicants to provide the city with a letter of credit or some other form of security.

Among other things, this last provision is designed to ensure applications are not made simply because private financing cannot be obtained.

Second, the Twin Falls ordinance would set up the Industrial Development Corporation of the City of Twin Falls. This corporation would be governed by a five-member board, to be appointed by City Council.

The most important job of the governing board will be to review applications for industrial-revenue bonds as part of this review, the board would have to determine whether a project was eligible for the program. Then, the board would have to decide whether a project would be credit-worthy over the term of the bond.

Although IRBs make use of the tax-exempt status of a city or county, they do not obligate the city or county to repay any of the debt on them. Bond buyers agree that repayment is guaranteed only by the revenue generated by a particular private project. In the legal world, they are called “non-recourse bonds.”

However, cities may be hurt indirectly when they try to issue bonds of their own, if their Health district's $1.25 million budget plan open to review

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The public will have the opportunity to comment on the health district's proposed 1984 budget.

A hearing will be held at 2 p.m. that day, as part of the regular meeting of the district's board of health.

Before the public gets a shot at it, however, the commissioners of the eight Magic Valley counties served by the health district will review the proposed $1.25 million budget this month.

This year, the district is seeking a 2 percent increase in funding from the counties, over last year.

The district's budget committee has the final vote on the proposed budget. The committee is composed of the chairman of the eight county commissions. It will vote after the public hearing in July.

The hearing date was set at the Wednesday board meeting.

Last month, the board approved the preliminary budget. However, some changes have been made to it since then.

In the original budget, the district projected it would receive $251,000 from the state. But Gerald Hurst, the district director, told the board Wednesday that it now expects to get $276,700 from the state.

Early this year, district officials feared the Legislature would shift money away from state health districts to other agencies. Hurst said. With this in mind, they set the budget accordingly. But the lawmakers left the district appropriation alone.

However, in the altered budget, the $1.25 million total did not change, Hurst said.

Instead of increasing the budget to include the new state projection, district officials lowered the amount of revenue they expect to earn from fees and donations to a more realistic level, Hurst said.

The 1984 fiscal year begins Oct. 1. Also at the Wednesday meeting: • Cheryl Juntunen, the district's physical health director, requested Planned Parenthood of Boise is considering opening a Sun Valley clinic. The Planned Parenthood next Tuesday in Sun Valley on the subject, which she will attend.

Planned Parenthood, a private group, and the district offer similar family-planning services. Juntunen said. If Planned Parenthood opens a clinic in Sun Valley, there could be duplication of services. Blaine County is served by the district.

• Judi Bean, a district health nurse, reported on the district's sex-education programs in Magic Valley schools.

From Jan. 1 to July 30, 1,073 students in grades four to 12 were involved in the programs, she said.

Also, 1,335 parents participated. Schools in Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding requested the programs. Subjects ranging from simple anatomy to teenage pregnancy were covered, depending on what was requested by the school officials, Bean said. Response from school teachers, administrators and parents has been positive.

Also, there has been increased demand from the schools for the programs, she said.

The health officials conducting the programs do not want to come across as policemen, concerning sex, Bean said. They provide factual information so the students can make their own decisions, she said.

• Tom Machala, the district's health education director, said all 20 health districts in the area have been contacted about contracting for district health services.

This year, the district had contracts with 10 districts.

They will not hear from the school districts about the 1983-84 contracts until this summer, Machala said.

Under the contracts, the district is paid $1.50 per child, based on average daily attendance. In return, the schools receive the services of a nurse, a dental hygienist and environmental specialists, assistance with communicable disease control and screening programs.

New editors assume duties

TWIN FALLS — The Times-News has promoted two employees and hired a third to fill editors' positions.

Pat Bean, formerly the night wire editor, has become the regional editor, a new position at The Times-News.

Bruce Hammond, who previously was a reporter covering state government and politics.

Steve Crump, formerly the sports editor at The Post-Register at Idaho Falls, has been hired for the same position at the Times-News. He replaces Marv Clemmons, who left The Times-News earlier this year to become managing editor of a daily newspaper in Craig, Colo.

The position of regional editor was created as part of an effort by The Times-News to strengthen its coverage throughout the Magic Valley. Bean will be responsible for recruiting and maintaining a network of correspondents from the various communities that the newspaper serves in the eight-county Magic Valley area.

She also will supervise two full-time reporters who will work out of the Twin Falls office and concentrate on regional coverage.

Bean brings to the job a broad background in journalism. A Texas native, she began her career as a reporter for the Brazosport Facts in Freeport, Texas. She later spent seven years as an editor and writer for Utah State University, then returned to Texas to work at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

She returned to Utah to be lifestyle editor at the Ogden Standard-Examiner, then she was Sunday editor at The Las Vegas Sun before joining The Times-News in February.

Hammond has been a reporter at The Times-News for three-and-a-half years. He originally covered the North Side, then was promoted to political reporter. He has covered the last two sessions of the Legislature, including the special session that ended Wednesday.

He is a 1979 graduate of Oregon State University.

Crump, 31, served as the sports editor for The Post-Register for the past two years. Prior to that, he worked for the Great Falls Tribune in Montana and the Idaho State Journal in Pocatello.

Crump was born and attended schools in Pocatello, graduating from Highland High School. He attended Stanford University, where he received his bachelor's degree in communications and political science in 1974. In 1977, he earned a master's degree from Northwestern University.

His wife, Connie, is a licensed practical nurse. They have two children, Michael, 4, and Eric, 22 months. The family moved to Twin Falls this week.

Obituaries

Lydia Eberhardt
JEROME — Lydia Eberhardt, 85, of Jerome, died Wednesday afternoon at St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome, where she was a patient in the long-term care unit.

Born Feb. 18, 1898, in Wovida, S.D., she later moved with her family to Bentley, N.D., where she was raised and educated.

She married Fred Eberhardt at Bentley on Oct. 25, 1917. They owned and operated a hardware store in Elgin, N.D., before moving to Twin Falls during the Depression. They later operated a motel in Ketchum and moved to Jerome in 1957. Mr. Eberhardt died in 1962.

She was a member of the Jerome Lutheran Church.

Surviving are: three daughters, Bonnie Ahrens of Jerome, Nora Humann of Twin Falls and Dorothy Conrad of Boise; two brothers, Harold Sippert of California and Pete Sippert of Washington; six sisters — Emma Eberhardt, Betty Schmitt and Adeline Mack, all in California; Christina Meyer and Ned Leidy, both of North Dakota; and Ida Eberhardt of Montana; 15 grandchildren, and 16 great-grandchildren. A daughter preceded her in death.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Jerome, with the Rev. Paul Ebeke officiating. Burial will be in Jerome Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Home-Robertson Funeral Chapel in Jerome on Sunday from 4 to 8 p.m. and on Monday from 9 a.m. until noon.

Michael Hendrick
BURLEY — Michael Hendrick, 33, of Fayetteville, N.C., and formerly of Burley, died Thursday in North Carolina.

Born May 16, 1950, at Burley, he married Sandra Lane on Aug. 24, 1973, in Massachusetts. He served in the U.S. Army from 1968 until his health forced his retirement.

Surviving are: his wife, a son, Robert Hendrick, and a daughter, Tara Eleanor Hendrick, all of Fayetteville; his father, Ralph Hendrick, of Pingree; his mother, Carolyn Hendrick of Salt Lake City; a brother, "Scott" Hendrick of Lompoc, Calif.; two sisters, Judy Guzman of Angueta, Cal., and Diane Hendrick of Pocatello; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hendrick of Quinton, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. R.R. Vansant of Heyburn.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at McCulloch's Funeral Home in Burley. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls.

Friends may call at the funeral home on Monday from 2 to 8:30 p.m. and on Tuesday prior to the funeral.

The family suggests that memorial contributions be made to the Mountain States Tutor Institute in Boise.

Ethel Jones
TWIN FALLS — Ethel Jones, 85, of Twin Falls, died Thursday at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Born June 1, 1897, in Ava, Mo., she spent her entire life in Ava until moving to Twin Falls two years ago. In 1915, she married Charles Jones in Ava. He died in 1975.

She was a member of the Church of Christ in Ava.

Surviving are: a son, Charles L. Jones of Twin Falls; a daughter, Elizabeth Hicks of Ava; 12 grandchildren; 29 great-grandchildren; and seven great-great-grandchildren. A son preceded her in death.

A prayer service will be held today at 7 p.m. at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls. The funeral and burial will be in Ava.

Patta Blake
JEROME — Patta Blake, 34, of Jerome, died Tuesday at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, following a long illness.

Born Sept. 17, 1948, in Berryville, Ark., she graduated from Jerome High School in 1967.

She married Merlin Blake in Jerome on Sept. 29, 1967.

Mrs. Blake was a member of the Jerome Assembly-of-God Church. She had taught Sunday School and had taken an active part in all church functions.

Surviving are: her husband; a son, Martin Blake; a daughter, Trish Blake; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coffman; and a sister, Robin Percifield. All live in Jerome. A brother preceded her in death.

The funeral will be held today at 2 p.m. at the Home-Robertson Funeral Chapel in Jerome, with the Rev. Leslie Lewis officiating. Burial will be in Jerome Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral chapel today from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Leo Swainston
RICHLIFF, ID. — Leo Swainston, 88, of Richliff, died at his home Thursday afternoon.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Richliff, with Bishop Mark Boyers officiating. Burial will be in Richliff Cemetery, under the direction of the Bergin Chapel in Shoshone.

The obituary will appear in Saturday's Times-News.

Gerald S. Cowden
TWIN FALLS — Gerald S. Cowden, 43, of Virginia Beach, Va., and formerly of Twin Falls, died May 3 in Virginia Beach.

He was a professor of history at the College of Southern Idaho from 1966 to 1970. At the time of his death, he was teaching history at Tidewater Community College in Virginia.

He was formerly an associate pastor of the Williamsburg Church in Virginia Beach.

He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Idaho. Surviving are: his wife, Sandy, and two sons, John Cowden and Charles Cowden, all of Virginia Beach; his mother, Norma Cowden of Blackfoot; and two brothers, John Cowden of Bonita, Calif., and Charles Cowden of Walnut Creek, Calif.

The family suggests that memorial contributions be made to the First Presbyterian Church, 36 and Pacific streets in Virginia Beach.

Burlie
The funeral for Leonard Eugene Staker, 52, of Burley, who died Tuesday, will be held today at 11 a.m. at McCulloch's Funeral Home in Burley. Burial will be in Jerome Cemetery, with graveside rites provided by the Disabled American Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the World War I Veterans and the American Legion.

Call the funeral home prior to the service.

Club sponsors bicycle rodeo
TWIN FALLS — The Optimist Club will hold its annual bicycle safety rodeo this Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Sears parking lot.

The free activities will begin with a parade from the parking lot to Harmon Park. For the parade, children are encouraged to dress as their favorite Saturday-morning cartoon character. Says Kent Johnson, a Twin Falls Optimist Club member, prizes will be given for the best-decorated bike and for the best costume.

The rest of the day's events will be held at the park. There will be an inspection to make sure the bikes are safe. Also, there will be races and a bike obstacle course.

Members of the Twin Falls Fire Department will be at the park selling bicycle licenses for $1.

In addition, there will be free soft drinks and prizes, including a boys and girls bicycle.

Lots of snow, but no skiing
ALBION — Ski conditions were reported "the best of the season" Wednesday at the Pomerelle ski resort.

There was a small problem, however: The resort's ski season ended several weeks ago.

Owners Woody and Sandy Anderson said about a foot of light snow fell on Tuesday night and Wednesday at the resort. The new snow fell on an existing base of six feet of snow.

Skiers may still get a chance to enjoy the abundance of remaining snow.

Last year, the resort reopened for the Memorial Day weekend.

"I don't think there's any way we could pass up that opportunity again this year," Mrs. Anderson said. "We have more snow now than we did a year ago, and it should be good skiing unless there is a sudden heat wave, and that looks pretty unlikely now."

She said that if spring continues to be as wintry as it has been this year and last, the ski season at Pomerelle may change from November to June.

Benefit planned for deputy
TWIN FALLS — A benefit dance for wounded sheriff's deputy Robert Gaultier will be Saturday at the Twin Falls Moose Lodge, 835 Falls Ave.

Tickets for the dance, which will begin at 9 p.m., are $5 per couple. Advance tickets are available from businesses throughout Twin Falls County, as well as the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office.

Tickets also will be sold at the door.

Backers say they hope to raise $1,500 for Gaultier. FHS members still are collecting workman's compensation; but his family's expenses have increased during his recuperation.

Gaultier, a 41-year-old Buhl-based deputy, is recuperating from a shogun wound. He was shot in the back on March 24 while responding to a family dispute in Piler.

The man accused of shooting Gaultier, 68-year-old Floyd Miller of Piler, also has been released from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. Miller received two bullet wounds when Piler police returned fire.

Miller has been charged with attempted second-degree murder in the incident.

Ex-employee charged in theft
TWIN FALLS — David John Seegfried, a 20-year-old Twin Falls man, has been arrested and charged with a recent business burglary.

Seegfried, who lives at 622 Meadowview Drive, was in the county jail Wednesday, following his Fifth District Magistrate Court arraignment. Bond was set at $1,500.

He is accused of burglarizing Idaho Life and Allow, located east of Twin Falls, off Kimberly Road. Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies say Seegfried, an employee of the firm at the time, entered the premises on April 21 and removed several tools.

The public defender has been appointed to represent him.

health clinics in the Magic Valley. The vehicle has two small examination beds and a bathroom.

FHS managers still are determining how to effectively use the unit. It probably will be taken to areas where there is no convenient space for health checkups. Atkins says. Last year, FHS nurses gave examinations in labor camps.

The FHS will convert one bed to accommodate pelvic and other examinations for women. Atkins says.

Next week, FHS will hire two part-time, non-speaking persons to serve as "outreach" workers. These employees will visit migrant residences — often going door to door in the evenings — to tell the farm laborers about the health services available.

The outreach workers also will refer eligible workers to other social services, such as food stamps. In addition, they will perform clerical and translation duties, Atkins says.

At present, Family Health Services has 15 employees. These include administration and clinical staff in Burley and Twin Falls.

This season, FHS personnel are planning to visit approximately 20 farm housing sites and labor camps in the Magic Valley at least three times a week. The visits will be held in the field from 4 to 8 p.m., Atkins says.

Depending on the facilities available, FHS nurses will provide immunizations, blood-pressure checks and other basic services. They also will provide health, nutrition and safety education.

Those cases requiring a doctor's touch will be referred to the physicians at the Twin Falls and Burley clinics, Atkins says. These offices are open year-round.

Clients are charged according to their income.

Atkins says Family Health Services is ready for the migrants, who already are trickling into the two centers. It still is early in the season, she several of the labor camps have not opened.

FHS employees were at their busiest last year in June and August.

In Twin Falls, the Family Health Services clinic is located at 676 Shop Ave. W., Suite 12. The hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Tuesday.

The Burley clinic, at 1100 Overland Ave., is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. However, these hours may change later in the summer.

Of immediate concern to the governing board will be the determination of specific projects for the council to fund in the coming months.

County officials outlined several possibilities.

The most ambitious would be the complete cataloging of key events in the area from a number of different perspectives.

The council might also start a systematic oral-history collection, collect and catalog photographs of the 1930s that would augment the Twin Falls Public Library's Bisbee collection.

name has been tarnished by bad IRBs, experts agree.

For this reason, council members have agreed during work sessions on members should have a good background in finance or be solid businessmen.

At the work session last Monday, Councilman Paul Newton went on stage further by suggesting that at least one member of the board have a firm background. He said this would be valuable since it is from this economic sector in which most of the applications may come.

The Twin Falls ordinance actually was written earlier this winter, but consideration has been delayed while it was reviewed by a Boise law firm that specializes in municipal finance, says Twin Falls City Manager Tom Courtney.

The review, which was done free of charge, was done to ensure the ordinance did not contain any technical flaws that could cause problems later, he says.

Many other Idaho cities and counties have passed such ordinances already, says a spokesman for the state Division of Economic and Community Affairs.

Minico forces baseball playoff to final game

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

RUPERT — It was one of those pitching matchups that just can't miss. A pair of big-strike right-handers with good control and earned run averages hardly worth mentioning, working for teams that have played a series of one-run games this season.

It missed.

Minico scored seven unearned runs Thursday night in Twin Falls 9-2 and even-then District 4 Class A-1 high school championship series at 1-1. The rubber game will be played at 1 p.m. Saturday at Harmon Park in Twin Falls, with the winner advancing to the state A-1 tournament next weekend in Lewiston.

"No excuses," said Bruin Coach Bill Ingram. "Johnny Miller pitched a fine line ball game, but he's no better than anybody else we've played this year. We just didn't play well."

Miller, a senior, scattered seven hits, striking out five. But the Bruins gave him all the help he needed by committing five errors.

"Johnny Miller pitched a fine ball game," said Minico coach Paul McCloy. "But so did (Twin Falls right-hander) Brock Miller. The difference today was errors, and that's going to happen sometimes. We just put it all together today."

Brock Miller, a senior who carried a 4-1 record on an 6.79 ERA—into the game, deserved better. He didn't give up an earned run until the sixth inning, by which time his team trailed 7-3.

The defending state champion Spartans got to that point by taking advantage of every opening the Bruins gave them. After a scoreless first 2 1/2 innings, Minico opened his half of the third with Todd Winnill reaching base on an error, Pinch runner John Martinez driving in Crossman and Morgan. But Miller was erased a moment later when he attempted to move to third base on a hard ground ball to the left side of the infield, turning a one-out, one-baserunner situation into a double play—Johnny Miller got out of the inning by getting Dave Slioten to ground out.

Thereafter, the Minico right-hander needed just 20 more pitches to dispose of Twin Falls, allowing only one more hit—a one-out single by Hurt in the sixth.

But the Spartans were far from finished, scoring three more times in the fifth on singles by Arlen Smith and Winnill, a stolen base, a wild pitch and two errors. Minico picked up its earned runs in the sixth on singles by Ferrin, Garru, Arter Smith and Terence Smith.

"It was a good team effort," said McCloy. "Miller really had his curveball working. But was especially happy to see Terence Smith get a big hit for us. He had really been pressing at the plate lately after a good start this season."

McCloy plans to throw right-hander Ferrin (2-2) at the Bruins Saturday, and expects to see Twin Falls right-hander Nathan Burke. But Ingram was noncommittal about his pitching plans for Saturday after Thursday's game.

The loser of Saturday's game still has an outside chance to advance to the eight-team state tournament on an at-large basis. But that decision will be up to Lewiston High baseball coach Dwight Church, who is assembling a field. The champions from districts 1/2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 will be represented, as well as the top three teams from District 3.

Pilot girls, sprinters star in track prelims

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

JEROME — Glens Ferry girls look the lead and sounded a warning note to challengers as the Fourth District Class A-3 track and field meet opened with preliminaries Thursday evening.

Glens Ferry, getting first place from Susan Simpson in the 3200-meter run, seized the point lead and also showed a lot of girls into Saturday's finals.

Meanwhile, the Glens Ferry boys kept pace at least for now by getting junior Rick Gerhardt across the finish line first in the 3200. But the fun of the boys' division came in the sprint preliminaries where—after Carey's Todd Wesche— it looks like a lot of exciting fun.

Thursday's session did not include any relays as in past years. The athletes will reconvene at the Jerome track at 9 a.m. Saturday to being field events and the running finals will start at 12 p.m.

While the district team title is on the line, the main purpose of the event is to qualify individuals and relay teams for next week state finals in Boise. The A-3 Fourth District will send the top three individuals in each event and the two best relays.

Glens Ferry's girls were expected to show good depth—and they did—but the big ups of Thursday was the 1000-foot run. Riveria squarely into the top three individuals in each event and the two best relays.

The other sprinter who posted the best time of 60 in the quarter and knotted with Riveria at 27.4 in the turfing. In the 100, Valley's Tammy Andrus had slightly the best time at 13.1.

Lealle Bedke of Oakley, however, looked more prohibitive in the hurdles than first believed. Her 17.1 time in the 100-meter hurdles was the only one under 18.1. But Bedke showed her vast advantage in the intermediates.

She stumbled on the second hurdle and sprawled (full length) onto the infield grass. It looked like it could be the end but the Hornet gathered herself up and assumed the lead again within the next three hurdles. She breezed with a 51.8, not the fastest of the day but certainly impressive considering the fall.

After the race the trauma set in and Bedke appeared dazed for several minutes afterward.

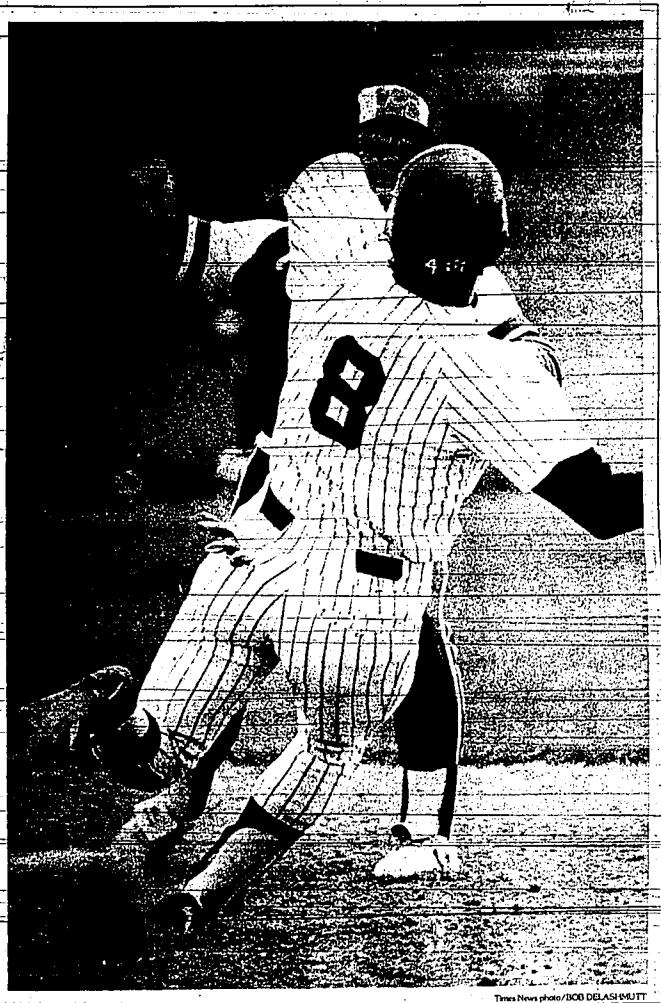

"I think that was that sub-50 she was promising us," said Oakley Coach Neal Wyatt. "She said she was coming her to qualify for state in both hurdles and run the 100 (meter dash) for fun. I think she might get into state in all three."

Bedke's 13.3 in the 100 tied her with Riveria for the second best qualifying time.

In the boys division, Todd Wesche of Carey dominated the sprint times, taking the 100 in 11.1 and the 200 in 22.6. His chief competition is expected to be Murtaugh's Roy Nebeker who had 11.4 and 23-flat. He also posted the best quarter time at 51.3, eliciting the question "why did I do that," after looking at the stopwatch clock for the time and realizing he'd run his best time of the season instead of husbandding himself for the 200 preliminaries. He needn't have worried.

CSI's Mike Duncan tries in vain to thwart a double play pivot by Ricks Ray Atkinson

Court panel scuttles NCAA television package contract

DENVER (UPI)—A federal appeals court Thursday upheld the right of individual colleges and universities to negotiate contracts for televised football games—a decision that could seriously affect the NCAA and its $2.5-billion television package.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a 2-1 decision, said an NCAA rule giving it exclusive right to negotiate television rights with the networks was unconstitutional.

The court said the NCAA a partial victory, but only on a minor point, by saying that a lower court judge had gone too far in his injunction against the college association.

Carried to its extreme, the panel said the judge's order could be misconstrued to prevent the NCAA from imposing sanctions on schools that might violate regulations that have nothing to do with the TV plan.

But overall, the panel's decision was seen as a victory for the universities of Oklahoma and Georgia, who brought the initial suit, and other major sports colleges.

The NCAA issued a statement Thursday night that it would have to read the decision closely before responding.

"We won't have any reaction until tomorrow (Friday) afternoon sometime, until we get a chance to read the opinion. We haven't seen the opinion yet and won't have a chance to see them until Friday," said Dave Wood, assistant executive director of the NCAA.

Chuck Nelms, executive director of the College Football Association, which had sided against the NCAA, agreed with the decision.

"Naturally we think the court is proper," he said. "I understand the majority prevailing opinion is fairly decisive."

Nelms said he believed the NCAA would move quickly to counteract the decision in some way.

"The NCAA has contingency plans," he said. "They'll be moving expeditiously."

There was no reaction immediately from Georgia or Oklahoma.

The majority of the appeals court rights constituted illegal price-fixing. In a dissent, Judge James E. Barrett said he was firmly convinced that the contracts were not price-fixing.

The majority opinion, written by Justice James K. Logan, said the NCAA television arrangement "is so fraught with anti-competitive potential that it appears to be one that would always, or almost always, tend to restrict competition."

In the ruling, the appellate court in large part upheld a decision handed down last fall by U.S. District Court Judge Juan Burgula, of Albuquerque, N.M. Burgula ruled the NCAA violated federal antitrust laws in its handling of contracts for televising football games.

At the time, Burgula struck down the NCAA's four-year television contracts with CBS and ABC, as well as a two-year pact with the Turner Broadcasting System, a cable network. The appeals court ordered Burgula to reconsider his injunction prohibiting the NCAA from signing such contracts.

The court disagreed with Burgula by ruling "he erred in holding the television plan and network contracts constituted a group boycott, illegal per se under the Sherman Antitrust Act. The court said the NCAA's practices did not constitute a boycott of networks which were not awarded broadcast rights."

The appeals court also disagreed that the NCAA threatened a per se illegal boycott, by threatening to sanction schools that violated the television plan. And the court ordered the trial judge to hold an evidentiary hearing to determine if his injunction against NCAA should be modified because of claims it was too vague and too broad.

"While we hold that the NCAA cannot legally maintain exclusive control of the rights, how far such rights may be commonly regulated involves speculation, that should not be made on the record of the instant case," the court said.

In his dissenting opinion, Barrett said he would reverse the district court's judgment, quash the injunction and rule that the NCAA TV regulations and contracts are valid and lawful.

"It is my view that the district court's finding, affirmed by the majority opinion, that the NCAA television contracts and its adjunct rules constitute per se price-fixing violations and monopolization violations are clearly erroneous," he wrote. "I am convinced that although there is evidence to support the trial court's findings, my review of the entire evidence leads me to a firm conviction that a mistake has been committed."

The appellate court had delayed the effect of Burgula's ruling pending the appeal. Officials claimed the NCAA television package was the richest TV football agreement since January 1952, when negotiation rights were given to the NCAA by its members.

The two universities filed suit in order to gain the right to negotiate their own TV contracts. Attorneys, who claimed their schools could earn far more money through individual negotiations, argued NCAA restrictions were illegal.

NCAA attorneys on the other hand, warned Burgula's ruling could destroy college football. NCAA lawyers said larger schools with a history of strong football teams, such as Oklahoma and Georgia, would reap financial fortunes and become even stronger on the football field.

CSI sweeps pair from Ricks

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho's Golden Eagles strode to Idaho's a victory of a berth in the regional baseball tournament Thursday.

Riding the three-hit pitching of Steve Clements and Tracy Poulson, the Eagles drubbed Ricks 10-2 in six innings of the opener and 7-2 in the nightcap. The teams will meet again today, shifting 180 miles east to Rexburg. CSI needs just one victory to tie for its spot in the regional, which will be played next weekend in Oregon, probably Albany if Linz-Benton keeps its big lead in the Oregon Community College Conference.

Poulson pitched CSI to the opening victory, giving up a pair of "dink" hits in the third inning and a double off the centerfield fence to Eric Fretes in the fifth.

But by the third inning CSI had things well in hand, thanks to a heady base-running job by Dale Crouse and it was a laugher after Lynn VanEvery drilled a line-drive two-run homer over the rightfield fence in the fourth.

CSI scored in the first inning on a pair of walks and a single by Scott Pugmire. It was an inning later that Crouse made his base-running play.

CSI filled the sacks with none down when Jeff Schow hit a bouncer to the Ricks second baseman.

He tried to make the tag-throw double play but Crouse, on first when the play started, retreated and then fell to force Ricks to come to him. After the tag, Ricks' desperation throw to first went into the dirt and two runs scored.

Mike Randall walked with the bases loaded to pick up an easy RBI in the third and VanEvery then launched his shot into the Armory lawn after Schow had dumped a humpbacker into left field.

Blake Jensen doubled in the fifth and Phil Crosbie in the fifth and in the closing sixth inning, Mike Duncan and Jim Kotkas sandwiched angles around a Pugmire double for two runs. The tally that invoked the 10-run rule came in on a wild pitch.

The second game was a lot tighter with an error setting up a pair of runs on Pugmire's double for CSI in the first inning. But over the next three frames, Ricks' Dan Jennings silenced the Eagle bats.

Ricks chopped to within a run in the third when Ray Atkinson drilled a two-out solo homer. But CSI finally chased Jennings in the fifth with a pair of runs and then mopped-up with three more against reliever Al Hogan.

Meanwhile, Clements got "only" better and wound up with 16 strikeouts.

In the fifth, VanEvery and Duncan led off with singles and rode in on Kotkas' three-bagger. An inning later, an error and a walk put Brase and Rod Gust on base and VanEvery and Pugmire came up with singles to score the final three runs.

Ricks' other run came in the sixth and meant little to the Vikings although it may have been costly for CSI. Hal Bingham lofted a shot toward the fence that CSI's Gary Krumm tried to haul down. But the fence came up too quickly, Krumm crashing into it full bore. The impact laid open a vertical gash from the left side of his nose almost to his upper lip. He was taken to the hospital for treatment and stitches.

Forsch, Cards shut out Montreal 4-0

By United Press International

Bob Forsch pitched a three-hitter and battery mate Darrell Porter had a single, double and homer and scored three runs Thursday night to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Forsch won his first game since April 14 by allowing singles to Al Oliver in the second, Bryan Little in the sixth and Andre Dawson in the seventh, all of whom were erased on double plays.

The only other Montreal base runner was Tim Wallach, who walked with two-out in the fifth, and Tim Lincecum, who walked with two out in the ninth.

Astro 4, Braves 3
At Houston, Luis Pujols singled in Jose Cruz from second base with one out in the 10th inning to give the Houston Astros a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Cruz led off with a single off Pedro Galoche, left and moved to second on a sacrifice by Denny Walling. After Bill Doran walked, Pujols grounded a single to center to make a winner of Frank DiMarco, 4-1.

Cubs 6, Phillies 3
At Chicago, Larry Bowa had three hits and capped a four-run seventh inning with a three-run homer, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Bowa, who hit his first in his last 31 at-bats, replaced reliever Al Holland for his second homer of the past week and only the 16th of his career.

Major Leagues

Dodgers 4, Padres 3

At San Diego, Pedro Guerrero hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning and added a sacrifice fly in the eighth to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Guerrero hit his home run — his eighth of the season — off starter Tim Lincecum following a two-out single by Dusty Baker to wipe out a 2-0 Padres lead. San Diego had gone ahead in the second — when Luis Salazar hit his second homer of the year, with Kurt Bevacqua aboard.

Giants 4, Reds 2
At Cincinnati, Mike Krukow and two relievers combined on a two-hitter to spark the San Francisco Giants to a 4-2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds for their seventh victory in their last nine games.

Krukow, pitching for the first time since coming off the disabled list because of an inflamed right elbow, walked four before being removed after six innings. Jim Barr pitched a perfect seventh inning but lost the bid for a combined no-hitter when Ron Oester led off the eighth with a triple to the left-center field wall. Dave Concepcion singled off one out in the ninth for the Reds' second hit and Gary Lavelle got the last out to record his third save.

Pirates 6, Mets 2

At Pittsburgh, Dave Parker went 3-for-4, drove in two runs and scored three others to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-2 victory over the New York Mets.

Parker had two doubles and a single as the Pirates broke a long slump with 11 hits. Parker doubled in Johnny Ray, who also collected three hits, for the Pirates' first run in the first and then scored in an RBI single by Jason Thompson.

A's 11, Tigers 4
At Detroit, Dwayne Murphy hit a tie-breaking grand slam in the fifth inning, and Kelvin Moore drove in three runs with a pair of home runs to give the Oakland A's an 11-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Tom Burgmeier pitched 4 2/3 innings of one-run relief to gain the win in his first decision.

Tony Phillips doubled and Oakland loaded the bases on a single by Rickey Henderson and a walk to Mike Davis in the fifth. Dan Pety, 3-1, got the first out but Murphy hit Pety's first pitch into the upper deck in right field to snap a 4-4 tie.

Jays 6, Indians 3
At Cleveland, A solo homer by Jorge Ortia and the relief pitching of Roy Lee Jackson lifted the Toronto Blue Jays to a 6-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Ortia opened the second inning against starter and loser Larry Sorensen with his first home run of the season and Lloyd Moseby followed with a single. Moseby then stole second, took third on Ernie Whit's groundout and scored on Rance Mullinix's grounder to short. Julio Franco flaked the ball but failed to get Moseby at the plate.

Red Sox 5, Brewers 3
At Milwaukee, Jerry Remy lined a two-run triple to snap a 2-2 tie in the fourth inning and Jim Rice collected three hits in powering the Boston Red Sox to a 5-3 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Rookie right-hander Mike Brown and reliever Bob Stanley combined on a seven-hit effort for Boston, Brown who went seven innings, boosted his record to 2-2.

Remy's game-winner came after a throwing error by second baseman Jim Gantner that kept the inning alive. Dave Stapleton singled with one out and then an out later, Glenn Hoffman bounced to Gantner, who fumbled the ball and threw it into the Brewer dugout, putting runners on second and third. Remy then tripled to the center field wall to give Boston a 4-2 lead.

Milwaukeee grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first when Paul Motter walked and Ted Simmons homered for the second time this season.

The Red Sox got a run in the second after Wags Boggs' led-off with a double, took third on a grounder and scored on Stapleton's sacrifice fly. Boston led 1-0 in the third when Milwaukee starter Mike Caldwell, 2-4, walked Dwight Evans and gave up an RBI double to Rice.

Commission adopts budget for coming year

BOISE (UPI) — The state Fish and Game Commission Thursday set a fiscal year 1984 agency budget of $20.6 million that allocates money for routine operations, various studies and a major hatchery project in the Idaho Panhandle.

The three major Fish and Game Department program areas — fisheries, wildlife and enforcement — account for almost 84 percent of the total, officials said.

Of that sum, $12.2 million is revenue from the sales of licenses, tags and permits, according to the commission. Other funds come from the federal Fish and Wildlife Restoration Act and the Columbia River Basin Commission, they said.

Included in spending programs for the fiscal year beginning July 1, the commission said, is $4.5 million for several studies, plus $3.5 million for a proposed fish hatchery at Cabinet Grove in northern Idaho.

The hatchery project will be paid for by the federal Power Planning Council, according to the commission.

Commissioners scheduled a public hearing Thursday night on proposed game and controlled hunting regulations and updated opening dates for 1983. The commission was scheduled to set those regulations and dates Friday.

Illinois star signs for hardship

CHICAGO (UPI) — The University of Illinois basketball team lost its star guard Thursday when Derek Harper accepted an offer to enter the June 25 NBA draft as an undergraduate.

In an interview with WMAQ-TV, Harper cited a conversation with his mother as the turning point in his decision to go pro.

The 6-foot-4 senior from West Palm Beach, Fla., last week announced his intention to give up his final year of eligibility to enter the draft. But Harper, the only unanimous selection to the year's UPJ All Big Ten team, was said to be hedging on his decision this week.

He practiced with the Illinois squad at Champaign for a 19-day tour of Yugoslavia and on Wednesday coach Lou Henson said the playmaking guard's future decision was not finalized.

Harper had until Saturday to apply for the NBA draft.

Phelps rips 'win at all costs' attitude

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Notre Dame basketball Coach Digger Phelps ridiculed Thursday the "win at all costs" philosophy for college athletics and pushed for a change in the attitude toward the U.S. educational system.

Speaking at a National Press Club luncheon in Washington, Phelps compared the educational problems in U.S. colleges to the ailing American automobile industry.

"College athletic departments are looking at gate receipts, television ratings and win-loss records rather than searching for ways to correct the academic deficiencies among the athletes," said Phelps.

"The auto industry did the same thing when the major auto makers became more concerned with competing with each other rather than meeting the needs of the American public. Like the auto makers, the colleges are late in discovering they have been using the wrong criteria for judgment."

Phelps said the problems evident among professional athletes begin in elementary schools. He pointed to graduation records of major college basketball conferences as an example.

"In the Big East Conference, only 17 of the 22 players who completed their eligibility last year are graduating with a degree," said Phelps. "In the Big Eight, it's 12 out of the Missouri Valley 11 of 25, the Pac 10 11 of 27, the Southeastern four of 10, the ACC seven of 19, the Big 10 seven of 23, the Metro five of 18 and the Southwest Conference four of 24 — and three of those four are at Rice."

"The problem has roots in the teaching system down in the elementary, junior high and high schools. The students don't have the solid fundamentals in math, English and reading skills because the teacher is caught in the middle of a major discipline problem."

"Potential math teachers are attracted to industry for financial reasons. They can make $20,000 after five years of teaching, or $50,000 to $75,000 after five years in private industry. It's obvious where they will go," said Phelps.

Phelps, who has seen every senior basketball player graduate in his eight years at Notre Dame, proposed five-year contracts at $50,000 for teachers as a way of attracting top quality educators. He also compared the educational situation to natural catastrophes.

"If there is a flood or a hurricane, we give disaster relief," he said. "Well, we have an educational disaster that needs federal, state and local relief immediately."

Drexler, Olajuwon give pro teams firm maybe

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston basketball Coach Guy Lewis Thursday stunned reporters who had waited 45 minutes for a news conference by saying neither Akeem Olajuwon nor Clyde Drexler had decided whether to turn professional.

"Both these guys have asked me to tell you that they are undecided," Lewis said.

Lewis said that, in his mind, announcing their intentions — as both players had said they would Thursday — would not have meant anything because two days remained before a Saturday deadline to announce for the NBA draft.

"It's too premature to announce anything," Lewis said. "These guys could make up their mind tomorrow and change it Saturday."

Drexler, a 6-7 forward with one more year of college eligibility, and Olajuwon, a 7-foot Nigerian center with two more years, together would be the guts of the Cougars next year.

They appeared at an athletic department building on time for a 12:30 p.m. CST news conference. But they huddled with school officials and were joined at 1 p.m. by Lewis.

Lewis said he had not participated in any of the discussions before then.

Drexler and Olajuwon had been the subject of considerable speculation since hinting they might turn pro after UH lost in the final seconds to North Carolina State in the NCAA Championship game.

"I had nothing to do with this press conference," Lewis said. "However, I just came back here and talked to these guys and it's all up in the air."

The wavering in Drexler's decision was no surprise. He had been telling reporters he had not decided for days.

But Olajuwon's hesitance was a major surprise. He reportedly had said earlier this week he "definitely" would return to Houston next season for one more year of college ball.

Elia calls off squabble with Cub fans

CHICAGO (UPI) — As far as Chicago Manager Leo Elia is concerned, the matter is over and forgotten. It still remains to be seen whether the Cubs' management agrees with the embattled skipper.

Elia's job has been in jeopardy since his public outburst, April 10, following a loss to Los Angeles in which he blasted Cubs' fans in Frank language. Cubs' General Manager Dallas Green said earlier this week that Elia's job was "safe until the weekend."

But Elia said after his club defeated the division leader Philadelphia Phillies 6-2 Thursday afternoon that he believed the controversy was over.

"In my opinion, the matter is over," said Elia, who is in his second year as manager of the Cubs. "I hope the fans and everyone else realizes there was nothing personal in what was said."

Elia said the whole club was rallying around playing better baseball than just to try to save Elia's job.

"It's done the best job he could do. It's up to us to keep playing the way we've been playing," Bowa said.

However, utility outfielder Jay Johnston yelled in the back of the clubhouse to Bowa to "tell them (reporters) how we've saved Lee's job until the weekend."

Elia said he has been "gratified" by the response of the team since his comments. The club did struggle on a recent West Coast road trip but has won its last two games to improve its record to 10-18.

"The way the club has played to try to rectify the mistake I made has been also gratifying," Elia said. "We're starting to come around now and I think for the past week or so, we've been playing good baseball. That's the encouraging thing about all of this."

Boxing Hagler will challenge ring rulers

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Wilford Scypton agreed Thursday to an injury-delayed rematch pitting against undisputed middleweight champion Marvin Hagler on May 27 in apparent defiance of the sport's two major governing bodies.

May 27 will be a momentous event in the boxing industry's promotion. Bob Arum of Top Rank said of the break from the World Boxing Association and the World Boxing Council. "It's an opening for a new and better future."

Elia, a former coach with the Phillies, charged that 65 percent of the fans are employed and the other 15 percent come to the games. He was particularly upset at the booring of his players by fans at home during the team's slow start in April.

Elia apologized after meeting with Green following the outburst. He said since then he has received "many" encouraging letters from fans.

"The response has been very great lying from people," Elia said. "There's been a ton of mail from people who apparently understand the situation."

When Elia made an appearance to pull starter Chuck Hensley from the mound at Wrigley Field, there were no boos. The day after he blasted the fans last month, he was roundly booed by the crowd.

"I'm glad there weren't any boos. That was encouraging," Elia said.

Green will be out of town until late Friday night and hasn't made any further comment on whether the club would retain Elia. He said much would depend on how the team responds on the field to Elia.

Cubs' shortstop Larry Bowa, who has been 16 of 31 at bat since May 2, said it would be a mistake to fire Elia.

"It wasn't his fault that we played so poorly at the start of the season," Bowa said. "He can't run, field or pitch for us."

Dixon said the new owners of the Houston franchise would be revealed next week, perhaps as early as Tuesday. In March he said he had planned to sell his Houston rights.

The selling price was between $4 million and $6 million, Dixon said.

USFL Houston franchise rights sold

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Dave Dixon, founder of the U.S. Football League, announced Thursday he had sold his rights to a team franchise in Houston and planned to start work this summer for a New Orleans team by 1985.

Hagler and other fighters have complained about often arbitrary rulings and rankings of the WBC and WBA, but few openly have defied their authority.

Arum said the backing of the two groups did not matter.

"People aren't fooled easily. They know who the champs are," he said.

Scypton, of Port Arthur, Texas, agreed to the new date on Thursday after earlier saying he was unhappy with the training disruption. He earned a shot at Hagler early this year by outpointing Frank "The Animal" Fletcher, who was to meet Hagler.

"I've been working three weeks and I wanted to see this fight go down," Scypton said. "I feel my plans are now to beat Marvin Hagler."

Scypton's manager, Mike Jones, said he had no beef against either the WBC or the WBA, but was only concerned that the fight be held.

"One fact stands out — and that is that Marvin Hagler is the undisputed middleweight champion of the world. How could any governing body deny that?" Jones said.

Arum, who has a promotional agreement with Hagler, hinted again Thursday that rival promoter Don King — who is closely aligned with the WBC — was behind the 12-round dispute.

Arum said he was not interested in overtures from either body.

"As a matter of fact, I don't care if we never hear from them again," he said.

The controversy has sparked ticket sales for the fight, which is several thousand seats short of a sellout.

Judge nixes bout due to contract

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The World Boxing Council super featherweight title fight between champion Bobby Chacon and Cornellius Bora-Edwards scheduled for Sunday was canceled Thursday by a Superior Court judge because of contract irregularities.

Judge Leon Savitch issued a preliminary injunction to halt the fight, which was to be nationally televised by NBC from Las Vegas, Nev.

Savitch said Chacon had signed a contract with promoter Don King last October, setting up a title fight between Chacon and champion Rafael Limon on the condition King would promote Chacon's first title defense if he defeated Limon.

Singers a success at making music sound like magic

By WILLETTA WARBERG
Times-News arts critic

TWIN FALLS — At the Renaissance Academy on Wednesday evening, several singers succeeded in displaying again how magic musical sounds can be when executed within the academy's walls.

The program opened with the captivating blues and country music of singer Rick Kuhn. This young man came to Idaho from Connecticut three-and-a-half years ago. Since then, he has built quite a following.

Kuhn has shown his musical versatility with previous performances on guitar, harmonica, bass and accordion. He has appeared at the Sandpiper restaurant with the group "Spud Pups" and occasionally with "Suzanne and Sylvia," and he also has been a strolling musician at dinner functions.

Kuhn's voice is outrageously rich and pure. This was evident Wednesday night in his own composition "Stephanie's Song." This lovely bluegrass-type music was poetically sung to his own guitar and harmonica accompaniment.

His "rock-a-bye billy song," as he called it, was an Elvis Presley ballad. "You're a Heart Breaker," Kuhn's natural voice is quite flexible and his imitation of Presley was convincing. How often does one hear an upside-down strummer playing brilliantly. His guitar was not restringing, and although it was strange to watch, the sound-bending was impressive and quite different. Probably the most intriguing composition that Kuhn performed was his "Willing to Wait for Your Love." The rhythm was delightfully Spanish-in nature.

Johnathan Lee Pickens and Friends rounded off a delightful concert. Pickens opened his portion of the show by stating that he would "sing songs as you never heard before, because I wrote them."

This gentle man with a gentle voice seemed to wrap his audience around his fingers. His songs were powerful in structure and lyrical. His rhythm-variety was wonderful.

Some of his best progressive Western and purely original tunes were "Just When I Thought I Was a Desert," "Along Came the Rain," "Maybe, Baby," "Border Line," "Whipperville Evening," "Mariposa County Line," "A Dog Is a Boy's Best Friend," "Drop in the Bucket" and "Que, Milagro."

Pickens' back-up friends — Mike Rutledge on double and electric bass and Jack Gish on guitar — were dazzling. With their overlay of beats and sounds, they were an especially fine trio. It was an inspiration to listen to them.

It is obvious that Pickens has been making really good music for more than 16 years. His trio sounded so harmonious. It was hard for them to convince this reviewer that they just got together without practice, for this particular performance.

'The Doktor Is In'

The oil painting above is entitled "Doktor-Thrill and Wolf Inspect the Grounds." It is one of the works being presented by the Boise Gallery of Art, May 21-June 26. The collection of oils, pastels and lithographs by Earl Linderman is called "The True and Incredible Adventures of Doktor Thrill." Linderman will be at the gallery Saturday, May 21, at 2 p.m. — "The Doktor Is In."

Actors present 'adult' evening

TWIN FALLS — "You Know I Can't Hear—You Know the Water's Runnin'" four short adult plays, will be presented this Friday and Saturday at the Renaissance Academy of the Arts, 511 Second Ave. E.

Both performances begin at 8 p.m. Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served following the performance. Reservations are required and donations "appreciated."

The production is being directed by Howard Miller, who also has an onstage role.

Miller emphasizes that "the four plays are 'adult' in nature." The first one, "Shock of Recognition," concerns an author trying to convince a producer to back his play. The complication is that the opening of the author's play contains a "nude" scene.

"I'll Be Home for Christmas" involves a family and their problems. One of the problems is should the college-age daughter be put on contraceptives before going off to school.

The third play of the evening is "Footsteps of Doves." In it a couple, married for 25 years, have always slept in a double bed. But now the wife wants single beds.

The fun begins when the husband refuses to go along with the change in sleeping arrangements.

An elderly married couple also takes over the stage for "I'm Herbert," the last offering of the evening.

This couple is quite elderly and each of them has been married several times previously—now, getting on in age, they have a little difficulty remembering who their current spouse is.

"They can't keep each other straight," said Miller.

He says the eight performers in the production have been rehearsing since March.

Miller is a theater arts major from Lewis Clark State College. Assisting Miller with stage duties has been Tony Mannon.

The performers are Randy Wentworth, Patty Smales, Lorri Guggell, Dianne Alves, Ed-Beagan, Cherie Millenberger and Cheri Miller.

CBS drops Archie from fall lineup

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD — Archie Bunker, the crusty bigot who shocked America and mirrored its social divisions in the 1970s as patriarch of TV's "All in the Family," has been canceled after 13 years as one of the nation's most familiar characters.

CBS announced Tuesday "Archie Bunker's Place" would not appear on its fall schedule. Archie, however, will live on for years in reruns of both shows.

"The show is a large piece of my life and of those who worked on the show," Norman Lear, creator of the landmark situation comedy, said. "And now, I guess, it was time to put it to sleep."

"We've all had a terrific time and now look forward to the future," he said. "If you go by the reruns, three or four times a day in some cities, I would guess it has carved some kind of a niche for itself."

Carroll O'Connor, who played the vitriolic but lovable Archie, said he wasn't surprised the show was dropped.

"I'm very happy we are leaving the air in this position, 2nd in the ratings, than way down in the 50s," he said. "I feel like we are leaving on top. I knew some of the executives were not happy with the show. But that's nothing new."

Some of them weren't happy when it went on the air."

"All in the Family" created a national uproar when it made its debut in 1970. No race, creed or religion was exempt from Archie's scathing abuse, which both Lear and O'Connor believed would expose bigotry to ridicule.

The racial- and religious- slurs and scalding dialogue were new to American television. Many minority groups objected and CBS was bombarded with demands it drop the show.

After the first shock, "All in the Family" rose to No. 1 in the Nielsen ratings and "remained in the top five for many years. Jean Stapleton as wife Edith, Sally Struthers as daughter Gloria and Rob Reiner as Mike, the son-in-law, became overnight stars.

Archie's epithets, including "meathead" for Mike, "dingbat" for Edith and his admonition to Gloria to "stifle herself" became part of American speech.

"All in the Family" was the cornerstone of Lear's TV empire and gave birth to such spin-offs as "Maude," "The Jeffersons" and "Gloria." Lear became one of the most powerful producers in Hollywood. O'Connor won four Emmy Awards for best actor and became a multimillionaire. Overall the show collected 18 Emmys and Archie's easy chair is currently on display at the Smithsonian Institution.

Artist creates abstract paintings using handmade paper

By KELLY EVERITT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A unique process to create abstract art will be featured as one of four collections of art going on display at the Herrett Museum on the College of Southern Idaho campus May 17 to June 16.

Michael Green, 39, an associate professor of art at CSI, has combined his talents as an artist with his developing skills creating handmade paper to create 12 abstract paintings that are variations of two basic themes for the exhibition.

Green's 19-by-25-inch works are created by using stencils to arrange colored pulp on a paper-making press, and then locking the arrangement of colors into the paper itself when the paper is made.

"It's not color on the surface of the paper," Green says. "The color is the paper. It actually is the surface." Creating the paintings, he says, "is part of the process" of making the paper.

Although the pastel colors in his works are subdued, Green says that he is pleased with the vibrancy of the colors. The colors created in most works using the medium are "kind of gray," he says. "I'm pleased with these because they're kind of bright. There's good color interaction."

"The colors are subtle and quiet, but not as subtle as you normally get."

In addition, Green says, he deliberately created a rough texture for the paper "to give more activity" to the works—by diffusing the light reflected off the surface.

"Ever since I started working as a painter," he says, "color has been what I've been interested in."

Green says that he became interested in handmade paper in 1975. He began learning about the process and in 1979 did an apprenticeship with master paper maker Bob Serpa of Imago Paper in Oakland, Calif. Serpa, he says, first developed the technique of painting on color pulps, the fiber and wood mash from which paper is made.

Green acquired for CSI the equipment to make paper, and has been experimenting in the medium ever since as well as using the equipment to teach papermaking as part of a segment of one of his art classes at the junior college.

In 1980 he received a grant from the Idaho Arts Commission to continue his studies of using colored pulps to create artistic designs in paper. The exhibition at CSI that opens next week is the result of that grant.

"I completed them a year ago, but this is the first chance I've had to see them on the wall," he says, gazing at a half dozen of his works already hung for display.

Green says the process of creating the works was the most difficult part. First, he began with colored-pencil drawings. Then he developed the stencils and began experimenting with combinations of dyes and pigments mixed with the pulp to create the desired colors.

"That took a lot of man-hours because the dyes are tricky to work with," he says. "I wanted (to develop) color stability. I wanted the color and the dyes to last."

Green hopes to sell each painting for $350.

His $1,000 grant was one of four granted for visual arts projects in 1980. The works of all four of the artists who received those grants are represented in the CSI exhibition.

All the works of the show make use of unusual mediums or techniques. Beatrice Moore, a studio artist from Moscow, will display several works that combine handmade felt, fibers, acrylics and pencil. The key-stone of her collection is a "soft-sculpture" table set for dinner with all items made from felt.

Liz Mowrey, a graphic artist from Moscow, will display 13 "prismatic drawings" that will be used to illustrate a new book, "Diana's Road," by Terry Linwood.

Bill Woolston, an associate professor of photography at the University of Idaho will present 15 color photographs that were printed with the help of a "light modulator," a device for altering photographic paper and film.

Hansel and Gretel auditions scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Auditions for the opera "Hansel and Gretel" to be produced here later this year by the Northwest Opera Association will be held June 5.

Any operatic aria may be sung in auditions for the major roles, said Harald Gerber, association president. The auditions are scheduled for 7 p.m. at the First United Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls.

The opera, composed by Engelbert Humperdinck, is based on a fairy tale by Ludwig Grimm. It will be produced Dec. 8 through 11 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium. Hansel and Gretel, sent by their mother into the woods to pick berries for supper, become lost deep in the forest when night overtakes them.

They discover a gingerbread house which they proceed to nibble when the witch appears, captures them and puts Hansel in a cage preparatory to eating him. Gretel frees her brother and when the witch demonstrates to her how to bake a hot oven the children push her in and slam the door.

"The explosion of the oven breaks the witch's spell and the children she had transformed into gingerbread return to life for a joyous reunion with their parents.

The major roles will be sung by adults with youthful appearance and the voices of Hansel and Gretel must blend well, said Marty Mead, association member. The witch, in contrast, need not have a pleasing quality voice, she said. For further information call Mead at 733-4678.

Seniors plan hillbilly party

WENDELL — Wendell High School seniors will present an evening of hillbilly comedy Monday, 7 p.m., at the Wendell Elementary School in the all-ages show.

Two plays, "It's Cold in Them 'Thar Hills'" and "Feudin' Mountain Boys," will be performed by 20 members of the graduating class. Refreshments will be served between the plays. Admission is by donation and the public is encouraged to attend.

"It should be a fun evening with plenty of laughs for all," says director Larry Gwartzney.

Marian Mercer finds new career as heavy

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD — Marian Mercer has replaced mothers-in-law as TV's favorite villainess.

Marian currently co-stars in "Foot in the Door" as the middle-aged, snobbish matron who runs the apartment house in which the principals live.

It is the latest of many roles in which Marian, a tall blonde of middle years, invites viewers' disdain if not inciting them to outright violence.

She has joined the slender ranks of actresses who specialize in venal parts.

Historically, movies and television have boasted few actresses who specialized in villainy. Bette Davis probably stands out, but she played many more sympathetic parts than outright bitches.

Margaret Hamilton was an actress of no great renown until she played the menacing wicked witch in "The Wizard of Oz." Thereafter, she was forever stamped as a heavy.

Gale Sondergaard, whose face could stop a clock, once properly made up, snatched her way to celebrity as a sinister presence in such films as "The Spider Woman Strikes Back."

Mercedes McCambridge — often played cynical, hard-bitten characters, some of whom could haunt houses.

Then there was Sweden's Signe Hasso, whose specialty was European vikings. If an American spy was doomed to have a shiv thrust into the lumbar regions, Signe would be the logical suspect.

But female scoundrels are few compared with a mob of male heavies going back to silent flicks and running through the likes of George Raft, Peter Lorre, Sidney Greenstreet and Barton McClean. The moment they appeared on screen, audiences realized the hero was in deep trouble.

Perhaps the feminist movement will demand more menacing female roles in its drive for equality. Would women be better represented, say, every second murderer were committed by one of the fair sex.

Marian remains neutral on the double standard. "All she knows is that she has been making a very nice living with her new-found career as a heavy."

"Women have as much villainy in their hearts as men," she said, "but it's not as easily countenanced by society.

"We women harbor as much anger, hostility and violence as men but we keep it under wraps. The villain, however, is the one who instead of expressing our hostility with violence we become manipulative.

"People just don't accept incivility and anger in women any more than they do drunkenness. Male drunks are considered funny or pathetic, but women drunks are beneath contempt."

Marian says she would like to emulate George Sanders in her roles, the sort of heavy audiences love to hate.

Because she doesn't want to make personal enemies, Marian tactfully omitted the names of some of her acquaintances when explaining she frequently models her roles on women she has known.

"It's true, there hasn't been a galaxy of villainesses in Hollywood and I think it's because actresses don't think in those idealized terms," Marian said. "It's offensive to a lot of women to think of themselves as villainess."

Mailer still going for champion bout

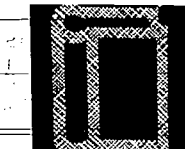

By ROBERT TAYLOR
The Boston Globe

NEW YORK — Norman Mailer was talking about Ernest Hemingway's indignation over the proofs of "Death in the Afternoon." Each page title proclaimed "Hemingway's 'Death.'" "When my wife and I opened the proofs for my new novel—'Ancient Evenings,'" Mailer said, "I told her, 'We'll have to frame this.' The proofs read: 'Ancient Mailer.'"

Norman Kingsley Mailer recently turned 60, and, at an age when most writers are waltzing through exhibition bouts, he is still challenging for the championship.

"This is my best," Mailer says of "Ancient Evenings." No ifs or ands. "This is the best book I've ever written."

The manuscript, which Little, Brown is publishing, has been in progress for 11 years. Little, Brown, took over the rights nine years ago from New American Library, offering Mailer $1 million, sight unseen, a sum that has grown to $1 million, paid out at $30,000 each month against the advance. Mailer enjoys referring to himself as "the highest-paid wage-slave in the world." It is the first part of a trilogy that is likely to take the rest of Mailer's career, though he has contracted for a smaller novel as well.

"Ancient Evenings"—set in—the Egypt of the pharaohs, constitutes a departure that is startling even for Mailer, psychic outlaw, phantom lover of Marilyn Monroe and literary astronaut exploring American darkness. Hillary Mills, in her recent biography of the author, describes the novel as "pure Mailer." He's not overly fond of the biography, but admits her description of his coming work (which, as of this writing, has only been seen in-house) "is so accurate—I wonder who gave it to her."

Can a writer of intensely American quality find happiness in the Egypt of the 19th and 20th dynasties (1250-100 B.C.)? Mailer plans the 350,000-word Egyptian novel as the first section of a mammoth million-word trilogy; the second part will take place in the future, (he plans to read science-fiction, a new genre for him) and the third part in the present. At the core of "Ancient Evenings" lies Mailer's obsession with reincarnation. It is a concern of long standing. (Garv Glinore, for example, the killer-victim of "The Executioner's Song," wished to die so that he might be reincarnated.) The story of the new novel is told chiefly from the point of view of one man, Memenhetet, who has been reincarnated in four lives. Charloter, general, high priest, Memenhetet discovers he can — in Mailer's words — "conceive himself in the moment of his death." Writing his story has not been easy. "There have been six or eight interruptions," Mailer explained, during the course of the composition. "But this Egyptian novel has been nearer to me than any of my wives have been. I leave it for two years and I come back to it and it says: 'Oh, you look tired. You've been away. Let me wash your feet.' I have been able to go back to it without trouble every time so far."

"Why Egypt?" Mailer went on. "Pure escapism."

Billy Armstrong, considered to be one of the top fiddle players of country music in the nation, will appear this weekend at the Gala Room in Cactus Pete's in Jackpot. Armstrong will perform twice a night, at 8 and 11 p.m.

Jerome Choraliers win 2nd-place trophy

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome High School Choraliers, a group of 20 vocal students, worked hard to finance their trip to San Diego for national competition, and they made the most of the situation.

Sharon Warner, director of the group, told the Jerome School Board that the five-day trip, that began April 28, included hotel room rehearsals, competition that earned them a second place trophy and lots of sightseeing. They toured Disneyland, Las Vegas and San Diego on their limited time schedule.

"These youngsters were super — they were most considerate and abided by all the rules but still they had a good time," she told the board. "With only a brief two-hour stop in Las Vegas, it was difficult to see much of the city. Four students solved the problem in their own way. They decided they would see more of the famed gambling city from the air, so they rented a helicopter and flew over it."

In San Diego, returning to their hotel on the shore of a small bay, several boarded a cruise craft and traveled by water. Some even enjoyed the craft's dance floor while en route. Warner said later that the students didn't have unlimited funds for chartering the yacht and helicopter. She said the students discovered a man who was selling helicopter rides over Las Vegas for $15 so four of them pooled their resources and took the trip. The yacht trip was also an inexpensive venture, but one that gave them a chance for a different view of San Diego, she said.

In San Diego, she said the 20 students were tired from their long trip by bus but with a rehearsal in her hotel room, they managed to win a second place trophy.

Schools from across the country were competing in the event. Warner said a number of singing groups were entered from California, Arizona and other surrounding states and some from as far away as Texas and New Jersey.

Jerome students raised money for their trip by conducting garage sales, food sales, car washes and special events.

Warner said the group is made up of junior and senior class members. Two years ago the singers traveled to Dallas, Texas, for a similar event. Warner said she hopes to be able to plan future trips for the group.

Student plans tour of Asia

TWIN FALLS — Roger Cook of Twin Falls will take part in a tour of Asia by the Young Ambassadors of Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

Cook, the son of Ross and Kattie Cook of 322 Casa Grande Ct., Twin Falls, will participate as a sound technician for the 29 singers and dancers of the group.

The tour will include stops in Japan, China, Thailand, Singapore and Taiwan.

A 1979 graduate of Twin Falls High School, Cook has traveled to Asia with the BYU group on previous trips to that part of the world.

The group's show, "Entertainment USA — A Legacy of American Music and Dance," is a musical review of America's history, featuring hoedown, nostalgic romance and Broadway music, as well as recreations of circus life and the fantasyland of Peter Pan.

The ambassadors also will feature music from each of the countries visited.

The touring group also will help open the new Tokyo-Disneyland, performing four times daily during its stay in Japan.

Easter Seal concert to be held Saturday

TWIN FALLS — A benefit concert for the Magic Valley Easter Seal Center will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium.

Performing will be the Twin Falls chapter of Sweet Adelines, a women's barbershop singing group directed by Joy Dalton; the Jerome High School Choraliers, a mixed chorus directed by Sharon Garner; and the Maggichords, a men's barbershop group led by Bob Cochran.

Pamela Mathis will emcee the event. Tickets are $6 general admission and $4 for senior citizens, and are available at Sullivan's Music Store and the Music Center in Twin Falls and will be available at the door the night of the concert.

All proceeds will be donated to the Easter Seal services in Magic Valley. The Easter Seal Society of Idaho was incorporated in 1949 and has provided services for the handicapped since that time. Centers are located in Twin Falls, Boise and Idaho Falls. The Twin Falls center provides speech/language/hearing screenings, evaluation and therapy. Physical evaluation and therapy is available at a minimal fee for any age person needing these services.

There also is an equipment loan program where people may borrow wheelchairs, or walkers for three months without charge. Anyone having equipment they would like to donate to the Easter Seal Center can receive credit as a tax deductible donation.

Writer is sought

SUN VALLEY — Nominations for Idaho State Writer-in-Residence are now being sought.

The Idaho State Poet Laureate Panel is accepting applications for the position, which will be appointed by the governor.

A candidate should be a full-time resident of Idaho who has produced a significant amount of quality writing. The writer-in-residence should also be someone who can competently meet the public and be an adequate teacher.

Nominations must be received by the Institute of the American West by June 1.

For additional information, contact E. Richard Hart, chairman, Governor's Poet Laureate Panel, Institute of the American West, Box 656, Sun Valley, Idaho, 83353.

What's what

Where did we get the word "honeymoon"? Writes a client: "During early Christianity in the British Isles, the clergy required much beeswax for candles. With the wax they got the inevitable byproduct, honey. What to do with it? Make that alcoholic beverage called mead. It was served after weddings. So that time was called the Month of Honey, then the Honey Month, finally the Honeymoon." Excellent. Am inclined to believe the wax was the byproduct, however, I've heard it said that if there hadn't been the need for mead, the devout wouldn't have had so many candles.

If the woman is divorced, she's a "divorcee" with an accent over the first "e." Pronounced "di-vor-see." If the man is divorced, he's a "divorcee" likewise with an accent over the "e." Pronounced "di-vor-see." So advises a client.

METEORS
 Less than 200 years ago, nobody believed in meteors. Those who claimed to have seen such were ridiculed. But on April 26, 1803, numerous rocks fell out of the sky over St. Agie, France. That did it. The whole town reported it. The astronomers finally believed.

The language lacks adjectives to describe what you taste. With words your only ammo, you search for live cartridges, but come up with such duds as "bitter" and "sweet." Get cute, I guess. "The warm marin' crimped her tongue, like the taste of pennies." The cracker powdered to magma in his mouth. "Her goodnight kiss was as slick as bad bacon." Shudder. A bit ugly, it's hard to convey flavors without getting cute. Try it.

MASS MARRIAGE

Q. Didn't Julius Caesar marry off his entire army once?
 A. That was Alexander the Great. On an evening to remember in 324 B.C. in Susa, Persia — to unite two empires — he mass-married 10,000 of his Macedonian soldiers to that many Persian women. If it were to happen today, you'd see it on Int'l-net cable.

Exactly 100 years ago, the American railroads chose to recognize four standard time zones. Earlier, the railroads used 58 different clock settings. All the trains were on time in those days on somebody's time.

Studies repeatedly show the highly creative child usually comes from parents who don't get along — with each other — any — too — well. — Almost invariably, that youngster is abnormally lonely.

'Max Dugan Returns' fun, but feeble fable

By RICHARD FRIEDMAN
Newhouse News Service

The good news about "Max Dugan Returns" is that its author, the prolific Neil Simon, finally seems to be abandoning the mechanical one-liners of Broadway comedy for dialogue that human beings might plausibly speak.

The bad news is that despite this heartening advance in dramaturgy, the film remains a pretty feeble fable... complete with fairly predictable plot.

He's the Max Dugan of the title, played with somewhat weary charm by Jason Robards, who pays a surprise visit — after an absence of nearly three decades — to his widowed daughter Nora McPhee (Marsha Mason) and her 15-year-old son Michael (Matthew Broderick).

Movies

Max arrives just in time to save the McPhees from a pretty dreary existence. Nora is a Los Angeles schoolteacher — and in case we didn't know, Simon rubs it in that teachers make less money than successful Broadway playwrights. Besides, her class is bedlam and her "A" Volvo has just been stolen.

But in Simoland, even this dark cloud has its silver lining. It introduces her to divorced detective Brian Cosello (Donald Sutherland), who begins an offbeat courtship by lending her his motorcycle.

When Max shows up at her doorstep one night, the bad news is that he spent six years in jail and seven years dealing black-kick in the pits of Las Vegas... and has been given six months to live by his doctor.

The good news is that he ripped the casino off for $87,000, he felt they owed him. And he wants to spend it all on his daughter and grandson.

So he starts heaping treasures at their feet — now hi-fi equipment, a new kitchen, a Mercedes Benz, and even baseball lessons for Michael from none other than Charley Lau of the Chicago White Sox.

But can mere money bring true happiness? In the material world of Neil Simon, you bet it can.

The only problem, apart from an occasional twinge of conscience, is that L. Cosello becomes suspicious of Nora's grand new lifestyle, which is probably why Simon made him a detective in the first place instead of a fireman or insurance salesman.

But in a fable we aren't supposed to be too concerned with realism, and in some ways

"Max Dugan Returns" is a pleasant and effective fable.

It goes beyond the level of slick comedy into a fantasy about Simon's longstanding obsession with disappearing and returning parents ("Only When I Laugh," "I Ought to Be in Pictures").

It's even rather touching in the area of a grandparent's yearning for the love of his grandson. But Max's crass way of buying that love strikes a sour note — despite Nora's often expressed stern disapproval of it — and the film becomes repetitious as Max heaps one goodie after another on his long-neglected family.

Tube fans to get chance at trivia quiz

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Most Americans are suckers for two things: trivia and TV — not that the two are mutually exclusive.

These obsessions come together next week in the "I Love TV Test," an hour-long special in which home viewers and a studio audience are pitted against each other to determine who is best at TV trivia.

Cavin MacLeod will emcee the ABC-TV show with guest stars Robert Mitchum, Catherine Bach, William Shatner, Nancy Dussault and Jamie Farr introducing film clips and asking quiz questions.

Most of us think we're pretty hot stuff when it comes to TV trivia. After all, Americans reputedly average six hours a day watching the tube.

Therefore, it's no big thing for most folk to come up with Sergeant Friday's badge number, the one Jack Webb wore in "Dragnet." It's 714, of course.

And what about Edd "Kookie" Byrnes' Hollywood address. Sure, 77

Television

Sunset Strip.

Some of the questions will be almost that easy. Others will be more difficult. Example: Can you guess which star has appeared most often as a guest on "The Love Boat" series?

What about Sergeant Bilko's Army serial number belonging to Phil Silvers? Aha! Gotcha! Or maybe not.

Anyhow, that's the sort of question that will be fired at viewers on the "I Love TV Test."

To make things a bit easier for all concerned, the questions are multiple choice. Possible answers are listed A-B-C, which, happily, coincide with the network's hillbills.

Marty Pasetta, producer-director of scores of TV's top specials, including the motion picture Academy Awards, devised the show. A trivia buff himself, he pared down hundreds of questions to the final 12.

"This is not a game show and there are no prizes or penalties," Pasetta said.

"Everyone relates to TV and almost everyone thinks he or she is an expert on trivia. So we set out to have a lot of fun."

"We submitted dozens of questions in a random telephone poll to test the public knowledge on TV. We didn't want to discourage viewers by asking questions no one could answer. But we didn't want to make it too easy either."

"We also tested a bunch of ABC executives. Only one of them got all 12 questions right. They averaged five or six correct answers. We thought they'd do better, being in the business."

Pasetta said he'd be thrilled if the viewing audience guessed half of the dozen questions correctly. He also refused to reveal the questions.

But here is an example of a typical question to be asked on the May 19 show:

Which of these series has earned the most Emmy Awards?

A. "M-A-S-H"
B. "The Mary Tyler Moore Show"
C. "All in the Family"

Here's another:

Name the longest-running series in American TV history?

A. "The Tonight Show"
B. "The Ed Sullivan Show"
C. "The Walt Disney Show"

The answer to the first question is B. The answer to the second is a tie between A. and C.

Additional bits of trivia will be dropped on viewers during the quiz and as film clips are shown of each of the shows and performers involved in the multiple choice answers.

"The studio audience will participate in the test," Pasetta said. "We wired 300 seats with buttons marked A, B and C. In one second our computers tabulated the percentage of the audience selecting each answer."

Stock prices slump again despite rally try

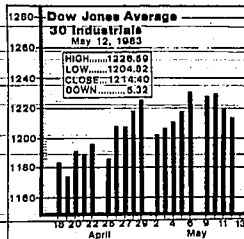

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices slumped Thursday for the second consecutive session despite a late rally attempt as Wall Street's bull market that began last August passed. Trading was the slowest in a month, indicating the selling was not overwhelming as investors weighed the congressional battle over the federal budget.

The Dow Jones industrial average, down about 10 points at midsession after skidding 9.58 Wednesday, gave up another 5.32 to 1,214.40. The Dow hit a record high of 1,232.59 last Friday after climbing 455 points since August.

The New York Stock Exchange index shed 0.34 to 94.45 and the price of an average share decreased 12 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.71 to 164.25. Declines topped advances 926-702 among the 1,990 issues traded at 4 p.m. EDT.

The Big Board volume of 84,000,000 shares, down from the 99,620,000 traded Wednesday, was the slowest since 79,906,630 changed hands April 12.

"We're in a different phase of the bull market," said New York investment adviser David Polen. Investors saw just about any issue chosen rise at the beginning of the surge but "now they have to pick the stocks that are benefiting most from the early stages of the economic recovery."

Reports Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, considered a moderate and conciliator in OPEC, Arabian oil minister caused anxiety among some investors.

The House Ways & Means Committee voted to repeal the withholding tax provision on dividend and interest income while the Congress battled over the fiscal 1984 budget.

The Senate rejected Republican-backed and moderate-sponsored tax plans and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker vowed a fight to get the whole budget proposal returned to committee.

Some leaders said it is possible no resolution would be reached.

Bonds fluctuated following Wednesday's reports of increases in retail sales and consumer installment debt. Bond traders feared the improved economy might push up interest rates.

The government Thursday said March business inventories declined 1.1 percent following a 0.2 percent hike in February.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 93,800,700 shares, down from the 112,377,700 traded Wednesday.

The American Stock Exchange Index fell 1.16 to 447.53 and the price of a share shed four cents. Declines edged advances 331-316 among the 837 issues traded. Volume totaled 10,700,000 shares compared with 14,810,000 Wednesday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers index of OTC stocks lost 0.74 to 302.15. On the trading floor, Eastman Kodak, a big loser recently after reporting lower earnings, was the most active issue, up 1 1/4 to 74 3/4. U.S. Steel was second, up 1/4 to 24 1/4 following a block of 4 million shares at 24 1/4.

Blue-chip American Telephone & Telegraph was third on the list, off 3/4 to 67 3/4. The Federal Communications Commission approved AT&T's data transmission service.

Elektronix plunged 4 1/4 to 67 1/4 after the company predicted its fiscal fourth-quarter earnings would be substantially below last year's $1.11-a-share because of a sales decline.

Data General, which plunged 10 1/4 the previous two sessions, dropped 1 1/4 to 57 1/4. The company expects flat to lower third- and fourth-quarter profit margins.

Massey Ferguson, which had risen on heavy trading recently, lost 1/2 to 5 1/4. Analysts said the company is likely to avoid bankruptcy but the stock has been diluted by refinancing plans—shareholders rejected a stock conversion plan.

Greatwest Hospitals gained 2 1/4 to 15 1/4 after the company posted fiscal second-quarter earnings of 30 cents a share vs. 13 cents a year ago.

Trans World fell 1 1/4 to 31 1/4. The company said a final tally showed its shareholders had rejected a bid by Odyssey Group to dismember Trans World.

Zayra Corp., a 4 1/4 winner Wednesday after forecasting sharply higher earnings, lacked on 2 1/4 to 65.

Asbestos lawsuits bankrupt giant firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — Manville Corp. outlined its proposal for reorganization under Chapter 11 bankruptcy laws Thursday, asking the non-asbestos-related portion of the giant company be protected from attachment by workers who claim they suffered crippling diseases due to their jobs.

Manville filed for bankruptcy last August in a controversial move aimed at controlling the costs of litigation by more than 15,000 asbestos-disease victims and their families.

Manville, ranked by Fortune magazine as one of the nation's 300 largest corporations, acknowledged that its business operations were profitable, but claimed the future costs of asbestos suits would extend beyond the company's ability to pay.

Representatives of Manville and its creditors were scheduled to appear in U.S. District Court in New York Thursday to discuss the status of the case. Manville filed a motion earlier in the day outlining its reorganization proposal and requesting an extension before the final plan is presented.

G. Earl Parker, Manville's senior vice president, said "extensive negotiations" were continuing in an effort to arrive at a voluntary agreement that would settle currently pending asbestos-health claims for a fixed sum payable over a fixed period of time. Lenders and trade creditors also would be paid over a fixed period of time, he said.

In a prepared statement, Manville said a plan being discussed for future asbestos-related claims that have not yet been filed "would provide for submitting claims to a settlement and arbitration procedure, and would preserve certain trial options."

If negotiations are unsuccessful, Parker said, Manville intends to file a complete plan of reorganization in which asbestos-health claimants would be asked to vote on whether their claims "are to be resolved through an expedited 'no fault' graded compensation system. Instead, through a settlement-arbitration-hearing system administered by officers appointed by the Bankruptcy Court."

Unemployed to be hired at auto plant

Former labor secretary W.J. Usery makes announcement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Labor Secretary W.J. Usery said Thursday laid-off workers from a former General Motors plant in Fremont, Calif., will be the "primary source" of workers for the new GM-Toyota plant there.

"We have a moral responsibility. I think to those employees," Usery said, although emphasizing that the GM plant closed permanently and the GM-Toyota facility is an entirely new operation.

Usery, who has been named as an adviser representative of the GM-Toyota venture, estimated the new workforce will be between 2,500 and 3,000 people. The old workforce reached as many as 6,000 in 1980.

GM and Toyota plan to produce 200,000 front-wheel-drive subcompact cars per year beginning in 1984.

Usery also told reporters the partnership will not fight unionization of the workforce.

"I would not be involved if we were trying to go down that route," Usery said when a questioner noted that Nissan and Honda plants in the United States are non-union and such a policy fit the Japanese management mold.

"We're going to bargain in good faith if we have a union and we're not going to oppose a union in any way," Usery said.

Usery, who was labor secretary in the Ford administration and earlier ran the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said he plans to meet later this month with officials of the United Auto Workers union, who represented employees at the defunct GM operation in Fremont, "to discuss matters of mutual interest" concerning the new enterprise.

In answer to questions, he said he felt such a meeting would not prejudice the workers from deciding against unionization or choosing another union if they decide.

"It will be up to the employees what labor organization they want," Usery said.

Usery said workers hired for the new facility will undergo an intensive training program, and many would be sent to Japan for orientation and training.

Idaho bank seeks foothold in Oregon market

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A top executive of the biggest bank in Idaho said it would like to gain a stronger foothold in Oregon and has considered buying several troubled financial institutions in the state.

Idaho First National Bank, which already has lending operations in eastern Oregon, is looking for opportunities to expand in the state through its parent holding company, Moore Financial Group. Thomas C. Frye, chairman of the Idaho bank, said Wednesday.

He said the holding company has a strong capital base, with shareholders' equity of more than $100.3 million, and would be interested in acquisitions or providing capital infusion to another institution.

He told Oregon banking officials that Moore Financial is "looking at troubled institutions" in Oregon.

"We are anxious to prepare ourselves well for an investment in these situations," he said.

Moore Financial is concentrating on an eight-state regional area, including Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Nevada, he said.

The financial holding company is strong, Frye said. First-quarter earnings of nearly $6 million, equal to 97 cents per share, were a record and 6.8 percent above the same period last year, he said.

As of March 31, it had assets of $2.4 billion, deposits of $1.8 billion and loans of $1.2 billion, he said.

Praise given to chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Volcker has done a fine job as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, economist Alan Greenspan said Thursday. Greenspan said he probably would have made the same decisions had he been chairman.

But Greenspan sidestepped the question when asked on NBC's "Today" program if he would take the job at the Fed should Volcker not be reappointed.

"All I can say ... is the fact that I think he has done a fine job," Greenspan said. "He deserves reappointment. I don't think we should be sitting here telling the president what he should and should not do."

Greenspan was a member of the Fed from 1971 to 1974, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, 1970-1974 and a member of the Congressional Budget Office 1977.

Asked if he would have made the same decisions Volcker has made, Greenspan said: "I would say probably yes in the sense that it's terrific to look with 20-20 hindsight and say you would have done something differently. We don't have that choice."

Benefit requests increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Initial claims for unemployment benefits rose slightly to 473,000 during the last week in April, the first jump in nearly a month, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

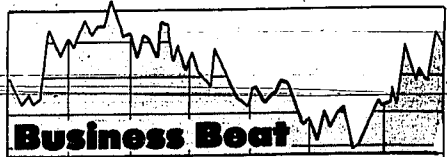

At the same time, the weekly report by the department's Employment and Training Administration showed long-term jobless workers receiving special federal supplemental checks continued to soar.

Total claimants under state programs decreased by 28,000 to a seasonally adjusted 8.9 million during the week ended April 23, the department said.

There was an increase of 4,000 persons applying for first-time benefits during the week ended April 30, bringing the total to a seasonally adjusted 473,000.

The last increase came for the week ended April 9, when the total jumped up to 506,000.

Workers receiving the special federal supplemental compensation jumped by 129,000 to 1,247,500. In new data not adjusted for seasonal factors, it was the second major increase in that category in two weeks during which the number of recipients increased by nearly 500,000.

Airline recalls attendants

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Trans World Airlines Thursday said it is recalling 400 flight attendants as part of an effort to strengthen its domestic fleet of Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

Some of the attendants called back to work were laid off as long as five years ago, TWA spokesman Larry Hilliard said.

The recalled attendants will be on the job by midsummer, when the number of daily TWA flights out of St. Louis will peak at 173, Hilliard said. The recall is a direct result of the improving economy, he said.

"Our biggest growth is in St. Louis," Hilliard said. "Traffic has been very strong internationally. Volume is up."

East Europe loses oil edge

LONDON (UPI) — The slump in world market oil prices has eroded the price advantages which most East European countries have enjoyed when buying from Russia, the Petroleum Economist magazine said Thursday.

Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria depend on the Soviet Union for the great bulk of their petroleum, it said.

Their domestic production is small — often negligible — and they find it difficult to mobilize hard currencies which would be required for purchases from non-Communist sources, the magazine said.

It said these nations now are worried by the erosion of the customary Soviet price concessions and also by the inadequate volume of recent deliveries.

Gas prices will rise then fall

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Gasoline prices will continue to rise before a possible eventual drop, Dan Lundberg, editor of the authoritative petroleum industry Lundberg Letter, said Wednesday.

Speaking to the Greater San Diego Chamber of Commerce, Lundberg said 25 cents per gallon in state taxes, compared to an average of 20 cents nationally, is to blame for higher local costs in California. For example, he said, prices rose 4.2 cents a gallon in San Diego County in April, compared to 3.6 cents nationally.

The prices of gasoline will continue to rise since the oil industry is recovering from a devastating $2.3 billion loss, experienced between December and February of this year, he said.

The loss was due to 57 billion gallons being sold to the public at reduced prices of up to 10 cents a gallon, resulting in "a wild and inexperienced period of competition," including the discontinuation of credit cards by Atlantic Richfield Company and some gas stations giving discounts for cash sales, he said.

Robot market set for growth

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — An official of a robot-making firm says development and production of robots in the United States may grow as much as five-fold to a $1-billion-a-year industry by 1990.

About 60 U.S. companies manufacture robots, up from about a dozen robot-making firms five years ago, William Rooney, a vice president of American Robot Corp., said Wednesday.

Although American robot development has greatly expanded in recent years, he said, the Japanese remain way ahead, with about 150 robot-producing firms.

Average rent costs revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national average rent for a single family home that sells for $40,000 is $414 a month, a property management firm reported Thursday.

An $80,000 home rents for $560 a month on the average, and a home that costs $110,000 rents for $537 a month.

EPIC Realty Services, Inc., of nearby Falls Church, Va., which manages property in 32 states, said the average rents are based on 1982 figures.

Ford: dividends in question

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. Chairman Philip Caldwell told stockholders Thursday the No. 2 automaker must improve on its first-quarter profit of $211 million in order to resume paying dividends.

Caldwell, in a speech made at the firm's annual meeting, praised stockholders, board members, dealers and the United Auto Workers for working together to put the automaker back in the black.

The automaker's first-quarter profit was its first for the opening quarter since 1979. The firm also was profitable in North America for the first time in four years.

Las Vegas hotels seek cash

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Two corporations which own major Las Vegas "strip" hotels want to go to the public market place for money to pay off debts and refuel the resorts.

The Nevada Gaming Control Board approved public stock and debenture offerings sought Wednesday by Ramada Inns Inc. and Hacienda Resorts Inc.

Hacienda Resorts Inc. hopes to make a $25 million offering of common stock and subordinated debentures. The corporation owns the Hacienda Hotel and Sahara Hotels on the Las Vegas "strip."

Ramada Inns Inc., which owns the Tropicana Hotel, seeks to make an offering of up to $50 million, including an issue of $40 million in stock.

WILLS 37TH ANNIVERSARY SALE!

In 1946, Wills Motor Company started in business at the same downtown location they're at now. Since then, the facilities have been upgraded and remodeled several times. One thing has never changed, our willingness to serve you in the best way we know how — with integrity and friendliness. Wills Motor Company is Twin Falls' oldest continually owned dealership. For 37 years, Wills Motor Company has been taking care of families, just like yours and ours. At Wills Motor Company, Our Biggest Deal Is You!

Things Look Different Now!

The Used Car Department is Now On Shoshone St., not 4th Avenue.

The Service Department Has Been Enlarged Three Times since 1946.

Back then, our customers could pick up their new Nash at the factory.
