Justices kill state reapportionment

By BRUCE BOTKA

United Press International

BOISE — The Idaho Supreme Court struck down Tuesday the 1982 legislative reapportionment plan.

The measure clearly violated the state Constitution by combining parts of different counties in the same electoral districts, the court said.

The 4-1 ruling upheld a decision last year by First District Judge Dar Cogswell, who had ordered a new reapportionment plan developed by the Legislature and rejected calls to halt the 1982 general election. Justices ordered the case returned to Cogswell's court for consideration of alternate reapportionment plans that would not violate either the state or federal constitutions.

However, the high court did not address the question of whether new elections would be needed. Deputy Attorney General Ken McClure said that issue would be left up to Cogswell.

"It's a confusing opinion," McClure said. "They seem to have said that the current reapportionment plan is unconstitutional. But where do we go from here? They left that very unclear."

"This is going to take a lot of thought and a lot of study to sort out," McClure said.

Gov. John Evans said he was "pleased" that the court recognized the legal obligation to respect county boundaries in devising legislative reapportionment plans.

"This is a victory for the people of Idaho because it will protect them from perrymandering, which only benefits incumbent legislators," the Democratic chief executive said.

Evans said it was too soon to decide whether to call a special legislative session so a new plan could be drafted.

Recent legislative sessions have not been terribly productive, so I would be hesitant to call another one without close cooperation by legislative leadership," he said.

"I guess where going to have to wait and see," said Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise. "It does appear the plan that was enacted is in jeopardy. The judge could enact a new plan, or the Legislature could enact a new plan."

Several northern Idaho residents and local governments — including members of the Coeur d'Alene Indian Tribe — had challenged the 1982 law, saying the measure was unconstitutional because it divided counties and combined portions of different counties into the same districts.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Robert Huntley, said legislative districts shall not contain portions of more than one county. But large counties like Ada and Canyon could be divided into smaller sections if the resulting legislative districts did not contain parts of any other counties, justices said.

In taking that view, the court accepted an argument by the city of Boise that the Idaho Constitution does not require the entire county to remain intact in one legislative district.

The ruling pleased Coeur d'Alene attorney Ray Glens, who represented several members of the Indian tribe. The Indians had objected to the legislative reapportionment plan because it split the reservation into parts of four legislative districts.

"I'm glad that the court accepted the city of Boise's argument," Glens said in a telephone interview. "It will make reapportionment much more workable for a large county like Ada or Canyon."

The ruling posed a constitutional question for the district court — asking the judge to determine if the legislative boundaries could be drawn to meet federal rules for "one man, one vote" while also meeting the state requirement that county boundaries not be violated.

U.S. expels Nicaraguans

Retaliation is swift and harsh

By E. MICHAEL MYERS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The United States expelled 21 Nicaraguan diplomats and ordered the Marxist government's six consulates shut down Tuesday in harsh retaliation for the ouster from Managua of three U.S. diplomats.

The administration's unexpectedly sharp action stopped short of cutting off diplomatic relations with Nicaragua. The Central American nation's embassy in Washington will remain open with full staff and conduct consular functions.

The new steps intensified the bitter cold war between Washington and the leftist Somoza government, which President Reagan has blamed for fomenting revolution in the hemisphere with Cuban and Soviet backing.

The State Department said Nicaraguan consulates in New York, Miami, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Houston and San Francisco were ordered to shut down by Wednesday.

Opponents held — A5

The six consuls general told to leave the country by 4 p.m. that day.

The rest of the Nicaraguans, all members of the consulate staffs, and their families must travel by Friday. Embassy charge d'affaires Manuel Cordero said including relatives the total number who must depart could be 50 or 60.

At a news conference in New York, Javier Chamorro, Nicaraguan ambassador to the United States, said the action "one more step toward the hardening of relations between the U.S. and Nicaragua. I hope it does not lead into a situation of war."

Antonio Jarquin, newly designated Nicaraguan ambassador to Washington, and Cordero were summoned to the State Department and notified of the U.S. action as the three U.S. diplomats expelled from Nicaragua Monday returned to Washington.

Jinda M. Pfaffel, political affairs officer, said the expulsions were ordered to shut down by Wednesday.

Shoshone, Bliss residents OK school levies

By HARRIET GUTHERTZ
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two property-tax levies for area schools passed in special elections Tuesday, and the results of a third were delayed by mechanical difficulties.

Voters in Shoshone had a change of heart Tuesday when they passed a $30,000 override levy by a 307-225 margin. They had defeated the same proposal by five votes on May 17.

Also on Tuesday, Bliss School District residents passed a bond issue. With 70 persons voting, the $30,000 bond issue passed with a 73.6 percent "yes" vote. A two-thirds majority was required for victory.

Gooding's voters give their approval to new recreation district

GOODING — Voters have approved the formation of a recreation district in Gooding County. In a special election Tuesday, the proposal passed, 376-338. A simple majority was required. The district will use the same boundaries as the Gooding School District.

The money will be used to build a vocational-agricultural shop. But the results of a $7.5 million bond issue in Elko County, Nev., were unavailable Tuesday night because of mechanical problems with the counting machines in Elko. Election officials had to go to Winnemucca for assistance. The Nevada issue included about $1 million to build a high school in Jackpot, which does not have one. Although Shoshone was the only district to lose an override levy request on May 17, Superintendent Kenneth Crothers had better luck Tuesday.

Crothers attributed the victory to a better campaign this time. "We let the people know what we were up against," he said.

pleased with the results. "We can make it (the recreation district) anything we want it to be," said Tom Jones, one of the backers of the project. "The purpose of the district is to make sure the recreation program for the kids continue."

Bliss Superintendent Dick Flores hopes his district can start work on the shop addition by Aug. 1 and finish the project by November.

If the building proceeds according to schedule, students will be working in the shop by the second semester, he said.

Bliss residents will not have to pay higher property taxes to back the bonds. The district will use part of the proceeds from a $35,000 plant-facilities levy to pay the debt. However, the district had to get voter approval for the bond issue because state law does not allow districts to earmark money from plant-facilities levies for more than one year.

Cities' action challenged WPPSS before high court

By ANN D. KIRKWOOD
United Press International

BOISE — Officials in five Idaho towns jumped into an "uncontrollable, bottomless dry-hole risk" — and did it unconstitutionally — when they invested in two Washington nuclear-power plants, an attorney said Tuesday.

Lawyer Phil Barber told the Idaho Supreme Court that the cities should not be allowed to pass on to their municipal electric customers the costs of closing the two plants. He said they violated the law by "investing in" the unfinished Washington Public Power Supply System power plants. The state Constitution requires municipal officials to seek voter approval before investing in such facilities, Barber said. Wilpout, a ballot question, officials are barred from passing on to customers the costs of terminating the plants, he said.

An editorial — A4

Calling the nuclear plants "those silly things," Barber told the justices that city officials, in making the investments, "were forever stuck with the wrong decision without even having told the people."

But lawyers for WPPSS and Chemical Bank — the trustees for the investors who purchased the bonds that were sold to finance the plants — and Heyburn's city attorney Steven Tutt, said the municipalities were forced to invest — and did so within their rights — to meet future power needs.

"They did so in good faith, not as a subterfuge," Tutt said. The three also questioned the motives of the cities Barber was representing — Rupert, Burley, Idaho Falls and Bonners Ferry. Those cities first were sued by their electrical customers, but they now have joined those customers in the legal action against WPPSS, Chemical Bank and Heyburn.

The attorneys for the defendants hinted that the cities' decisions to change roles in the lawsuits stemmed from economic considerations.

"They have the best (lowest) power rates known to at least (this) man," said Howard Humphrey, an attorney for Chemical Bank. "They wanted to perpetuate that."

Barber represented Gary and Le Rae Asson of Burley in their initial suit against that community. But he appeared Tuesday on behalf of plaintiffs from all five cities. Following three hours of argument, the justices took the case under advisement. A decision is not expected for at least 14 business days, court officials said.

Reagan softens arms stance

By DONALD A. DAVIS
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan will dramatically revise the U.S. negotiating position and show new flexibility in the upcoming round of strategic arms talks with Moscow, congressmen who met with the president said Tuesday.

With a new round of Strategic Arms Reduction Talks resuming in Geneva, Switzerland, Wednesday, Reagan met with his National Security Council and other members of Congress on the latest U.S. negotiating stance.

Edward Rowny, the chief U.S. negotiator for the talks, participated in the NSC meeting and was given instructions by Reagan.

Reagan told reporters at White House ceremonies for President Felix Houphouët-Boigny of the Ivory Coast, "We'll be as flexible as necessary" at the negotiating table.

House members who participated in the first of two bipartisan congressional meetings with Reagan said afterward the president had decided to include changes in the number, weight and warheads of nuclear missiles in the new rounds of START talks.

Senators Percy and Zorinsky comment after meeting Reagan.

Reagan intends to personally announce the broad outlines of his policy Wednesday, the lawmakers said. "I expect he will be flexible. Rowny will have a rather free hand," said Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

"I guess the key word will be flexibility," said Rep. Vic Fazio, D-Calif. "I don't get the impression he's going to propose a list of rigid conditions." "The president has taken a very open mind," said Rep. Norman Dicks, D-Ore.

Jackpot boy wounded, critical

TWIN FALLS — A 15-year-old Jackpot boy was injured critically Tuesday evening in an apparent hunting accident. The unidentified youth was hunting in the desert, about three miles north of the Idaho-Nevada line, when he was shot about 6:30 p.m., according to Twin Falls County Sheriff James Munn. Munn said the youth was shot in the head with a small-caliber rifle, but other details were unavailable Tuesday evening. The boy was being treated in the intensive-care unit at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Senators spend money oddly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said Tuesday an article in The New Republic claiming he channeled unspent campaign money into private slash funds with no public accounting is inaccurate and misleading. Also included in the article were James McCure and Steven Symms, both Idaho senators. The article in the June 20 edition said Cranston was among more than a dozen senators who used the money to pay expenses they are either unable or embarrassed to submit for official reimbursement — everything from softball shirts for their Senate staffs to airline travel for their children. The article said McCure used $1,000 in campaign funds in 1981 to pay his daughter-in-law for addressing and stuffing 8,000 Christmas cards. Symms reportedly bought $3,011 in apples from the Symms Fruit Ranch.

Shotgun killing scares Ashton

ASHTON (UPI) — Authorities say they don't know why someone jammed a shotgun through a window and killed a teenage girl as she slept, but members of one Ashton family have fearfully reacted to the shooting by sleeping together in their living room. Spokesmen for the Fremont County Sheriff's Office at St. Anthony said Tuesday detectives are still gathering information on the murder early Saturday of Amy Hosmer, 15, Ashton. Officials said Ashton residents have reacted with shock and fear to the apparently motiveless killing.

Traill derail near Hope

HOPE (UPI) — An eastbound Burlington-Northern train derailed Tuesday near the shores of Lake Pend Oreille, spilling 34 freight cars off the tracks and forcing closure of the main line through the Idaho Panhandle for at least four days, authorities said. Railroad section foreman Albert Schenck, Clark Fork, said he was trying to determine the exact cause of the derailment, which apparently caused no injuries. The train accident happened at about 5 p.m. near Tressie Creek, just east of the town of Hope, Schenck said. After the wreck, the train was in three sections, with most cars tilted on their sides.

Salvador party office strafed

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Gunmen strafed the moderate Christian Democratic head-quarters Tuesday and officials said December's presidential elections may be delayed up to two years by the civil war and political squabbling. Officials also said a major shakeup of the Salvadoran Cabinet that will strengthen rightist parties may be announced soon. No was injured in the submachine-gun attack on the moderate-Christian Democratic party headquarters, where party Secretary Julio Adolfo Ray Prendes was meeting with an unidentified foreign diplomat. Ray Prendes said right-wing foes of the Christian Democrats "are afraid they will lose by a landslide" upcoming elections. "Maybe they are trying to scare us," he said.

Union head blasts business

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho AFL-CIO President Jim Kerns said Tuesday business leaders "pulled off the biggest fraud" of the 1983 legislative session by proclaiming support for public education and then quickly lobbying against tax hikes. Kerns, addressing the 29th annual state AFL-CIO convention, said several top business leaders publicly expressed willingness to shoulder tax increases to help finance Idaho's beleaguered education system, but then sent lobbyists into committee sessions to undercut tax-increase proposals. "They said that they were willing to pay their fair share (of taxes) in order to provide a quality education system — that was an absolute lie," Kerns told delegates. "Their corporate lobbyists would then go into the legislative meeting rooms and oppose any tax hikes, particularly corporate taxes."

Kerns also blasted the Legislature, saying "corporations now hold the upper hand, and they get about what they want."

Dioxin traces found in home

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Traces of highly-toxic dioxin have been found in a home, on a residential street and at a chemical plant near a defunct Agent Orange manufacturing site in Newark, Gov. Thomas Keane said Tuesday. "We didn't find the kind of growth contamination we were concerned about that might have existed given the contamination on the site," Keane told reporters at a hastily called news conference on results of testing done around the former Diamond Alkali Co. plant. The testing of 31 samples from vacuum cleaner bags, ventilation systems and vacant lots was undertaken last week after state and federal environmental officials learned that dioxin levels at the Diamond site were as high as 1,200 times the amount considered hazardous to health. Keane said of 11 homes tested for dioxin contamination, only one showed any signs of the toxic chemical.

officer, David Noble Greig, first secretary and Ermila Lorez Rodriguez, second secretary, denied charges that they tried to recruit a Nicaraguan double agent for a CIA assassination plot against Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto. "The only thing we have to say is we categorically reject the absurd charges against us," Ms. Pfeiffer told reporters during the stop in Miami. Upon arrival in Washington, the three were whisked away in government cars. Cordero reiterated Nicaragua's charge that the three Americans were involved in the assassination plot and blamed Washington for deteriorating relations. "The cause of tensions is the Reagan administration's continued support for our enemies, and the involvement of agents within Nicaragua and the CIA manipulation of those agents," he said at an embassy news conference. "It is our right as a sovereign nation to demand that the United States to improve relations between our countries." The United States had been expected to retaliate for Managua's expulsion of three of its diplomats Monday, but not on such a broad scale. The State Department's written statement announcing the new steps was succinct. "The principal officers heading the six posts ... are to leave the United States no later than June 8, 1983, and the consular offices in those cities are to terminate their functions the same day," it said. "All other Nicaraguan personnel assigned to those installations, with their dependents, are to leave the United States no later than Friday, June 10, 1983." Relations between Nicaragua and the United States have slid sharply since Reagan took office.

Washington accuses the Marxist-dominated government of sending weapons and supplies to guerrillas in El Salvador and fomenting rebel movements in Honduras and Guatemala. Reagan has labeled the guerrillas "freedom fighters" and "government of the people of a gun." Nicaragua accuses the United States of assisting rebels based in Honduras who have launched attacks inside Nicaraguan territory. The administration has run into trouble at home for its policy of covert aid to anti-Sandinista insurgents, and the Democratic-controlled House Foreign Affairs Committee voted 20-14 Tuesday to cut off U.S. aid. The bill, approved earlier by the House Intelligence Committee, was sent to the full House where administration supporters hope to modify its absolute termination of covert aid to the insurgents.

D-Wash. "I was impressed by the flexibility the administration has taken on throw weight." Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wisc., said it is "my guess we will come up with 5,000 warheads and will raise the limit on launchers." That would significantly change Reagan's original START position, which called for each side to have 850 missile launchers. Aspin predicted the United States might propose 1,100 to 1,200 launchers, compared to 1,800 launchers proposed by the Soviets. In addition, Aspin said the controversial topic of throw-weight, not discussed in the opening sessions of the talks, would be placed on the table this time. Aspin said the United States has 2 million pounds of lifting power for its missiles while the Soviets have a 3-1 edge, with 4-million pounds. Aspin said that while throw-weights are the weight of the entire launching system of missile, fuel and warhead — "must be a part of the negotiations" — "I think the emphasis will be more on warheads, more on melding the difference ... to find the right kind of combination" at the talks. Reagan and a group of senators discussed later discussed a proposed "build-down," under which the United States and the Soviet Union each would destroy 100,000 missiles for each new one that is deployed. "We discussed how to obtain a build-down" but agreed upon no time frame for introducing it into the negotiations, said Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb. "The bottom line of all this is to allow your negotiators the greatest latitude and flexibility with which to negotiate and that means no preconditions or parameters announced publicly or otherwise your negotiators would start right at the end limits." Zorinsky said he felt the most optimistic development was "the president saying he has a 'can do' objectivity on this."

"In three years of discussions on arms control, I've never heard the president stronger or more positive about the outlook and about the positions we would be taking," said Sen. Charles Percy, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Figures indicate maximum temperatures. National Weather Service, Forecast to 7 p.m. EST 6-8-83

Fair and warm, mountain showers

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome. Good areas: Mostly fair and warm today and Thursday, with isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms near the mountains. Highs in the middle 80s today and low 80s Thursday. Lows 45 to 50. Cazza, Prairie, Halsey, Wood River Valley: Mostly sunny today and Thursday, with isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Highs near 80, lows in the 40s. Northern Nevada and Utah: Scattered showers and thunderstorms through the central and southern mountains. Highs in the 70s and 60s in both states both days. Lows in the 40s and 50s. Synops: A weak upper-level disturbance will create a threat of thunderstorms over much of Idaho the next few days. The disturbance, which was moving into central California on Tuesday and Wednesday, is moving northward and ahead of it into northern Nevada and southern Idaho, will generate thunderstorms over and near the mountains of southern Idaho today through Saturday. A few thunderstorms also may show up in northern Idaho by Thursday. Ahead of this low-pressure system, temperatures will be above normal today and Thursday, then turn cooler by Saturday. On Tuesday afternoon, Idaho skies were sunny with a few thunderstorms over the central and southern mountains. Temperatures were 5 to 10 degrees warmer than on Monday, with valley readings in the upper 70s and 80s, and mountain readings reaching the 70s. The state's warmest reading was 91 degrees at Lewiston, after a morning low of 30 at Elk City. Most mountains were in the 40s and lower 50s, with some in the 60s in the southeast. In Twin Falls on Tuesday, the pollen count was 88 per cubic meter of air. The agricultural outlook for southern Idaho calls for precipitation over the next five days. It is expected to be around 1.00 inch, but with localized amounts up to 2.50 inch in showers. The heaviest showers will likely be Friday and Saturday. Daily average evaporation rates will be from 20 to 25 inch today and Thursday, then lowering to 20 to 25 inch Friday through Sunday. Winds through Thursday will be from 5 to 10 mph. Elsewhere in the nation on Tuesday, the highest temperature reported was 106 degrees at Palm Springs, Calif., and the coolest was 29 at West Yellowstone, Mont.

Chances grim for budget compromise

By ROBERT MACKAY
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Senate Republican leader Howard Baker and House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., agreed Tuesday there is less than a 50 percent chance Congress will pass a federal budget for fiscal 1984, which begins Oct. 1.

"I think it's a disaster for the nation if we don't have a budget," O'Neill said. "If we don't set up a (federal spending) target out there, this is going to be a government of confrontation."

President Reagan will veto spending bills passed by Congress, O'Neill predicted, and blame huge budget deficits on the lawmakers, particularly House Democrats.

"He'll have a field day," the speaker said.

A conference committee, whose task is to blend the House- and Senate-passed budget plans into one compromise version acceptable to both chambers, is scheduled to meet for the first time Wednesday.

Baker told reporters the chance of the congressional conferees reaching agreement is "less than 50-50 ... because there is so much difference between the two versions, and add to that the fact that the administration is opposed to both of them."

"Yeah, I think he's pretty nearly right," O'Neill said later, when asked to comment on Baker's latest assessment.

Just two days earlier, Baker gave a slightly more optimistic forecast. He said on CBS' "Face the Nation" program Sunday there was a 50-50 chance the conferees would agree on a budget compromise that could pass Congress.

For the first time since the budget process was established in 1974, Congress is in danger of failing to pass an annual spending and tax plan. Without a coordinated plan, spending and deficits likely would skyrocket.

If there is no agreement, Baker said, it would be "very unfortunate" for the budget process, "but it's not one of those government-stopping things."

A Baker aide said the Republican leader's new assessment reflects "a growing concern out there that they are not going to be able to work out the differences."

"We may be getting so politicized up here we may not be able to sit down and get a budget ... everybody is getting geared up for '84" elections, the aide said.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan "would like to see" Congress pass a budget resolution, but "one" that is close to his own proposal. "Speakes said there will be no special White House lobbying in Capitol Hill, because "our position is certainly well known on every issue up there."

Panel wants covert aid ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic-controlled House Foreign Affairs Committee, in a rebuff to President Reagan's Central American policy, voted 20-14 Tuesday to cut off U.S. aid to Nicaraguan rebels.

The bill, approved earlier by the House Intelligence Committee, was sent to the full House where administration supporters hope to modify its absolute termination of covert aid to the insurgents.

The vote followed a bitter partisan debate and came after efforts to compromise with the administration collapsed. Only one Republican, Jim Leach of Iowa, voted for the cut plan; two Democrats, Andy Ireland and Dante Fascell, both from Florida, opposed it again.

"We have previously expressed our opposition to this legislation," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said afterward. "It constrains the executive policy tools to deal with the complex situation in Central America."

But he called Monday's vote just "a first step in the legislative process" and said Reagan will "continue to work with Congress."

Administration critics charge the president is violating the law passed late last year barring aid to groups seeking to overthrow the Marxist government of Nicaragua or to provoke a conflict between Nicaragua and neighboring Honduras.

But Reagan repeatedly has denied this, saying covert U.S. aid is only intended to stop the flow of arms from Nicaragua to leftist guerrillas in El Salvador.

The Democrats' bill would end such aid "for any purpose" and instead openly provide $80 million to friendly governments in Central America for use in stopping the flow of arms to insurgent groups.

The Nicaraguan insurgents "are actively seeking to trigger a civil war in which thousands would die," said Rep. Gerry Studds, D-Mass.

Rep. Dan Mica, D-Fla., voted with his fellow Democrats, but indicated he will press efforts to reach a compromise acceptable to both sides when the bill comes up on the House floor.

Mica said he had talked with the Democratic leadership and members of the Intelligence Committee. "They too agree ... we can modify it in a way that would be acceptable to all. When it comes to foreign policy it is important that we try to do everything in our power to forge a bipartisan approach."

FBI shooting suspect surrenders

MIAMI (UPI) — Suspected killer Clarence Eugene Robinson, who allegedly wounded two FBI agents last week and swore he would never be taken alive, walked into an FBI office Tuesday night and surrendered.

"He turned himself in about 8 o'clock at our office in Miami," said Chris Mazzella, special agent for the FBI's Miami office. "We finally got him."

Authorities said last week that Robinson, 38, wanted for the murder of a deputy sheriff, had vowed he would never be taken alive.

Earlier Tuesday, authorities discovered the car they believe Robinson used last Friday when he allegedly gunned down two FBI agents in the Volusia County town of Orange City.

The white, four-door sedan was found in a wooded area of Volusia County, near Orange City.

Robinson, a fugitive for the last 5½ years, became the target of law enforcement officials across Florida since Friday when he allegedly shot and wounded two FBI agents outside an Orange City restaurant.

He also is suspected in at least three murders in the past six years.

Earlier Tuesday, FBI agents displayed a cache of weapons belonging to Robinson uncovered by authorities Monday.

Agents seized more than a dozen rifles, handguns, silencers and scopes as well as assorted ammunition from a pickup truck near St. Cloud Monday.

Robinson is charged with the first-degree murder of a Seminole County reserve deputy in 1977. He is suspected in the murders of two accomplices in the killing of the deputy.

The two FBI agents injured in Friday's shooting, Dennis Wicklein and Thomas Sobolewski, were listed in stable condition Tuesday at West Volusia Memorial Hospital in DeLand. Butler said both were "progressing nicely."

Committee votes for freeze on coal leases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee voted Tuesday to freeze federal coal leasing for as long as six months, while another panel was "digging into" the way Interior Secretary James Watt sells the energy-producing resource.

The Appropriations Interior subcommittee headed by Rep. Sidney Yates, D-Ill., voted to direct Watt to name a commission to study coal leasing for six months.

Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, opposed a six-month moratorium and the panel rejected, agreeing that if the commission could produce its report sooner, the freeze could be lifted.

The full Appropriations Committee and the House still must vote on the measure.

"Call it what you like, this would be a new coal leasing moratorium," Garry Carruthers, assistant interior secretary in charge of coal, said.

"This ... is really a political message. But it's a poor signal to anyone who depends on the U.S. government for consistent policies."

In another hearing before the mining, forest management and Bonneville Power Administration subcommittee, Interior Department officials were alternately praised and berated for the coal leasing policy that was sharply criticized in a government audit.

Consolidate cases for WPPSS solution

The troubling case of the Washington Public Power Supply System is beginning to make its way through both federal and state courts, with the only apparent immediate effect of making a lot of attorneys richer and the rest of us poorer.

Now that the glue of big financing for the $2.25 billion nuclear-power projects has come unstuck, every party involved is vigorously attempting to do one of two things:

1. Get off the sinking boat, and fast.
2. For those who can't get off, make sure everyone else goes under, too, thereby triggering a public outcry, followed by political pressure, followed by — it is hoped — a bailout by Congress.

The first approach is the one now being pursued by the Idaho Supreme Court by electric customers in five Idaho cities, including Rupert, Burley and Heyburn. They have asked the court to invalidate the municipalities' contracts with WPPSS on the grounds that the contracts shouldn't have been made in the first place without a vote of the people.

This approach seems sound enough until the argument is reversed. Would those customers be wriggling to get off the hook if the contracts had worked out in their favor and they were looking at much-reduced electric rates? We all know the answer to that.

The second approach is being applied by some of the public utilities that participated in the construction of the now-terminated plants.

They may have visions of a bailout of WPPSS, perhaps similar to the ones applied to rescue Lockheed, Chrysler or Penn-Central Railroad. Or they may be just taking no chances, making sure they won't get stuck either.

Similar cases are under review in Washington and in federal court, and the situation cries for consolidation in one legal forum.

That approach was suggested last week by Sen. James McClure, but it seems to have met with opposition from WPPSS, which faces a free-falling bond rating and perhaps bankruptcy.

Nonetheless, we think McClure's plan may make some sense, if for no other reason than that it offers the beginnings of a compromise.

A full bailout from Congress is unlikely, he says, because the Northwest already has the lowest electric rates in the nation.

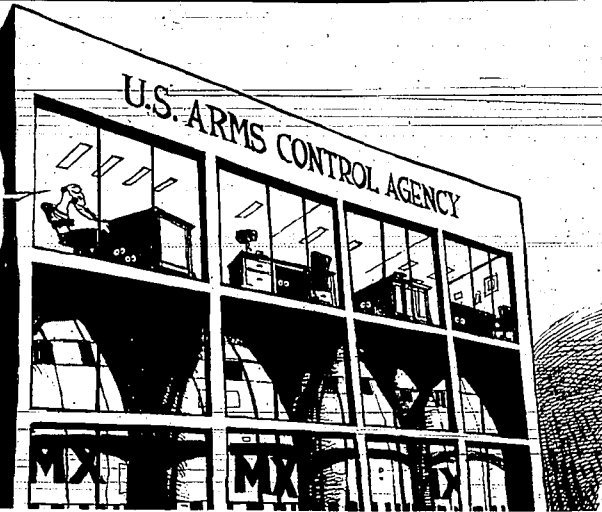

Nor do we think the public will accept a plan in which the electric utilities are allowed to pass along all their losses to customers in the form of higher rates.

Some compromise is obviously called for, and a single court action seems the best setting to at least define the options.

The question, as with many public policy questions involving government and money, is who will wind up paying, and how much. Right now, every party is jockeying to make sure it is someone else.

MAZZEY Chicago Tribune

YEAH, CHIEF... THIS NEW DEPLOYMENT SCHEME IS HAVING A DEFINITE IMPACT ON ARMS CONTROL...

Swiss look dumb, but they're decisive

You can't say enough bad things about the Swiss. Their country is too old, too small and too clean. They make too many watches and too much chocolate. They don't begin to treat women equally, which may be why they have to ask so fast. They have too many hotels and too many banks. They make all their men join the military, but they never join a war.

Until Sunday, however, I never knew how really dumb they are. There was this tiny item in the New York Times about 41 barrels of dioxin waste had been shipped from Italy to Switzerland. It said the dioxin was stored in vaults at Basel, and that "federal and local authorities have inspected the vaults and given their approval, while city officials watched the two-and-a-half hour storage operation."

Thank heaven, our authorities are smarter than that. You won't see any of our authorities going around and actually approving sites for storing dangerous wastes, and can you imagine a bunch of local U.S. politicians standing around watching while dioxin was stored in their hometowns?

They would be lying in the streets (after the TV crews got set up, of course) to prevent the trucks from passing. They would be making speeches about how awful it was, how dangerous it was, and they aren't going to dump it here as long as they're in office.

All over the United States politicians are smart enough to know that the only place to put anything nasty is somewhere else. We have been making nuclear weapons, running nuclear submarines and nuclear reactors for research and energy for a generation, and we have never decided where to put the waste.

Whether it is the local garbage or sewage or dioxin or PCBs or mercury, or whatever, we are too smart ever to say, "Put it here." Only the Swiss are that dumb.

We say "Put it somewhere else." For coastal cities blessed with great harbors, somewhere else is the sea. We use the great harbors for cesspools and use barges to cart the solid stuff away.

For inland cities doomed to live without rivers, the vagrant air currents are used to carry the noxious fumes from mighty smokestacks to somewhere else.

The Swiss have plenty of rivers, but they are too dumb to use them the way we do.

They are doing another dumb thing. In a nation with all those rushing rivers, they are now operating four nuclear power plants and getting ready to start up a fifth. The one they are getting ready to start up is made by General Electric and is called a boiling water reactor.

All over the United States, people and politicians who are smarter than the Swiss are trying to shut down nuclear power plants. One of the reasons, of course, is that the wastes must go somewhere else. Last weekend, about 3,000 people protested the possible startup of a G.E. boiling water reactor being built at Shoreham, N.Y. It may never start up. It was not much of a turnout, but enough to show they really want to stop it.

Less than five miles away, at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, there is another installation that may never start up.

For 13 years, the Brookhaven National Laboratory has been working on something called a colliding beam accelerator. There have been design changes, and delays, and cost overruns and politics, just as at the nuclear power plant. The purpose of the new accelerator was to create, and find, smaller subatomic particles.

Something now has happened that is infinitely worse than delays and cost overruns. Some Europeans have gone ahead and done it. It's worse than that. They went ahead and got it done in Switzerland. The Swiss technology has surpassed our own. But the question is whether we go ahead and finish ours or cancel the project, forget the $120 million already spent and leave only what Long Island's Newsday called "an empty 2.4 mile tunnel in the pine woods."

The Swiss must have been terribly lucky. Any people who build nuclear power plants and whose public officials actually decide where to put toxic wastes have to be really dumb.

Bankers' prizes may lower standing

The nation's bankers may walk away from the 96th Congress with their legislative prizes neatly in hand, but their standing in the eyes of federal officials could be severely reduced.

The bankers angered many members of Congress and administration officials, including President Reagan, with their high-pressure lobbying campaign to kill the new law requiring withholding of taxes on interest earnings. A second issue now building up steam in Congress — the International Monetary Fund — is causing even more suspicion to fall on the bankers.

The administration is seeking congressional approval of an $8.4 billion increase in U.S. support for the IMF, but many members of Congress think the plan is only a bait for bankers that are facing big losses because of imprudent loans to several debt-ridden nations.

Administration officials such as Secretary of State George Shultz and Treasury Secretary Donald Regan are the ones dealing with Congress on the IMF legislation, so the bankers are able to maintain a low profile. But the banks and their interest in the legislation are frequently mentioned at committee hearings.

Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., is one of those opposed to the requested increase in the U.S. contribution to the IMF.

"The bankers are to acknowledge any culpability in their international lending practices," she said last week.

She criticized the banks for not conceding that they are stuck with bad loans and instead carrying the loans on their books at full value. The practice results in overstatement of bank profits, she said. Mrs. Kassebaum suggested the banks write off the loans in "an orderly, systematic" manner. Such part of their non-performing loans.

The banks "should assume their share of the burden," Kemp said recently.

Shultz and Regan have insisted before several congressional committees the IMF bill is not a bailout for banks. They do agree, in hindsight, that the banks could have been more cautious in their loan policies.

The officials say the countries with debt problems need continued credit in order to revive their economies, but private banks will pull out if the IMF is not able to go in and press for reforms that will stabilize the situation.

"The IMF's financing does not pay bank debt, but rather encourages increased bank lending," Shultz told a House committee last month.

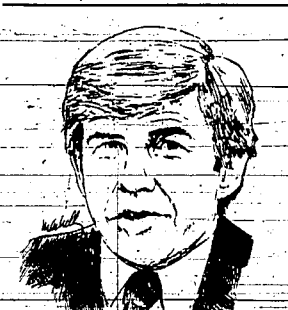

Regan, in May 17 testimony before a Senate committee, acknowledged the suspicions about a possible bank bailout.

"Many would contend that the whole debt and liquidity problem is the result of the banks — that they've dug themselves and the rest of us into this hole through greed and in my opinion, and now we intend to have the IMF take the consequences of their hands. This line of argument is dangerously misleading," he said.

The administration is doing its best to persuade Congress the IMF request is reasonable and is not a bailout for the bankers, but it will be hard to overcome the suspicions held by many members.

And those suspicions probably are reflections of feelings among constituents who have been living with the intolerably high interest rates banks charge for loans.

Station wagon in traffic no place for sex education class

WASHINGTON — This broadening incident from an all-too-broadening life occurred, as most of life seems to, in a station wagon.

On a typical Saturday in autumn or spring, the highways in suburban Maryland are congested with station wagons — Democrats in Volvos, Republicans in Pontiacs — carrying young players, male and female, to and from Soccer games.

A parent tough enough to keep his or her ears open gets a shattering sense of the mind and vocabulary of the nation's nine-year-olds. It confirms the question that "Howdy" the boy raised by voices in Kipling's "Jungle Book." "Is not really unlike children raised by normal parents, who are members of a different species."

Recently, the Will wagon, brimful of the anxiety that nine-year-olds secrete, was inching through congested traffic opposite a shopping center where a movie marquee announced: "The Last Virgin in America (R)."

Now, it is a well-documented fact that the average child who is blind as a brussels sprout

George Will
when looking for the sneaker he left in the middle of the living room can read a movie marquee that is still over the barbers. As especially if the movie being advertised has received the tantalizing accolade of an "R" rating.
On this occasion, the nine-year-old culture critic said: "'The Last Virgin in America' — Oho-o-o-o-o-o-o. "And the driver thought, Arrrrrrggghhhhh — what is the decorous thing to say when one of the creatures asks what a virgin is and why America is down to its last one?"
The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary (no station wagon should be without one) offers a useful salad of definitions that could have been given to the soccer players. One definition is: "A female insect producing fertile eggs by parthenogenesis." The soccer players would not have been satisfied with that.

Another definition is "Of a fortress city, etc., that has never been taken or subdued." The OED gives this example: "In Africa, the highest mountain is still a virgin." That is, surely, a retrograde use of the word, because it suggests that sex is a conquest, a form of aggression: Nine-year-olds of my acquaintance, of both genders, should not be told that there are unexplored fields for their over-flowing aggressions.

The first OED definition is charged with theology: "An unmarried or chaste maiden or woman, distinguished by piety or steadfastness in religion." The second definition is similar, but the third is: "A young woman or maiden of an age and character affording presumption of chastity." That raises more problems than it solves, because the average driver of a station wagon bogging with nine-year-olds does not want to conduct a conversation on the admittedly fascinating question of what age. In 1963, the presumption referred to evaporates.

I have asked other parents what they would have said about what a virgin is. One father suggests: "Tell them a virgin is a girl without a boyfriend." But that definition postulates a correlation that is dubious — and defeatist. Anyway, the OED is not so exact as to say a virgin must be female. Its fifth definition is: "A youth or a man who has remained in a state of chastity."

Perhaps as the traffic crept along I should have fallen back on the last resort, the truth. Perhaps I should have said the idea of virginity has to do with sexual intercourse. But a station wagon is no place for a sex-education seminar.

Some occasions call for all that the brain can manage in the way of circumlocutions. I have always admired the character who mastered the use of the triple negative, as in the phrase "not unmeaningless." Slip that labyrinth of a phrase into a conversation and it will swallow up the conversation, settling you free from tiresome talk. But circumlocutions and ruses were not so necessary back when movie marquesoUGHT CHILDREN'S ATTENTION WITH LIES LIKE "COMEBACK THE CONSUMPTION."

"Nothing is more striking to this parent than how early and strongly children feel the pull of popular culture. Today the social atmosphere is heavily dosed with invitations to think about what are loosely called adult topics. But, fortunately, the average nine-year-old cannot think about anything for long."

So when one of them said, "What's a virgin?" I answered by shouting, "Chuck E. Cheese's is a pizza amusement and games arcade" coming up on the right!" The answer was, I know, a bit oblique, and perhaps a dereliction of duty. But some of life's duties should be left for those occasional intervals when one is not in a station wagon.

George Will writes for the Washington Post.

Sandinistas start arresting opponents

By JOHN LANTIGUA
United Press International

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Nicaragua has arrested at least two opposition political figures in a roundup of citizens accused of linking to three U.S. diplomats expelled for alleged spying, politicians said Tuesday.

Two-party leaders of the Conservative Democratic Party or PCD have been detained and another took political asylum in the Venezuelan Embassy, said party spokesman Jose Castillo Obelo. Another leader has disappeared, he added.

In Washington, the State Department ordered Nicaragua to shut consulates in six U.S. cities and expelled 21 of its diplomats in retaliation for the expulsion of the three U.S. diplomats.

Castillo said two of the politicians had contacts in their work with the three expelled U.S. political officers, who left Nicaragua Monday for the United States.

Part of the job of embassy personnel is to meet with a broad range of people to get an idea of the range of local public opinion.

The PDC is the oldest and best known of the parties in opposition to the Sandinista government that took power in 1979 after toppling dictator Anastasio Somoza.

One diplomatic source said the arrests probably would only be the first in a wave of detentions. "I think they are trying to crush the political opposition," the source said.

The head of State Security, Lenin Cerna, told reporters Monday that police expected to make many arrests of Nicaraguans accused of working with the CIA.

The PDG members detained for contacts with the U.S. diplomats were attorney Enrique Sotelo Borge, party minister for international affairs, and Mario Castillo, who heads the PDC's youth organization.

A U.S. Embassy official, who declined to be identified, said she had been in contact with Castillo in connection with establishing a library. She denied any involvement in an alleged plot.

Arafat claims to have squelched PLO mutiny

By United Press International

Balrestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat, backed by a strong expression of support from Soviet leader Yuri Andropov, said Tuesday he had the rebellion in his guerrilla organization "under control."

Abu Iyad, Arafat's deputy in the Fatah guerrilla group, the largest faction in the PLO, told reporters in Moscow, "Arafat not only is now but always will be the outstanding leader of our organization and of the Palestinian revolution."

During a week of talks with Kremlin leaders, Abu Iyad, the nom de guerre of Salah Khalaf, said Andropov sent two messages to the beleaguered Palestinian chief, expressing "Soviet support for the PLO" under his leadership.

Arafat was in New Delhi Tuesday, where he met with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, the current head of the nonaligned movement, a spokeswoman for the Indian Foreign Ministry said.

"The PLO chairman told Mrs. Gandhi reports about dissension within the PLO are greatly exaggerated" and "that the situation is under control," spokeswoman Hamal Kapadia told reporters.

Volga wreck kills 100

MOSCOW (UPI) — A riverboat steaming on the Volga River crashed into a railroad bridge that ripped off the boat's upper deck, killing at least 100 Soviet vacationers watching a movie, a Soviet tourism official said Tuesday.

The employees of the Intourist travel agency said the crash occurred Sunday just after sunset while many passengers were gathered for the film on the top deck of the Alexander Brykov.

The collision tore off the upper deck, killing at least 100, and possibly as many as 170 passengers, the official said. An Intourist spokesman said all those aboard were Soviet citizens.

No official death toll was announced in the accident, which the spokesman blamed either on the ship's command falling to negotiate an opening in the bridge or neglecting to take account of an unusually high water level.

A report on the official Tass news agency gave no cause for the accident.

Adding weight to the reports of a high death toll, a full Politburo member, First Deputy Premier Geydar Dzhigalov, was named to head an investigation.

A railway ministry official was also named to the panel along with law enforcement officials, suggesting criminal charges might be filed against those responsible.

Soviets deny forcing labor

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The Soviet Union said Tuesday charges that it used forced convict labor to build its nearly completed natural gas pipeline from Siberia to western Europe were "outrageous lies."

Yevgeny Prokhorov, vice-chairman of the Soviet trade union federation, also accused officials of the U.N. International Labor Organization of refusing "to put on boots and overalls" and leave their "cozy offices" to check the charges. In a sharply worded 23-page statement read to a news conference, Prokhorov rejected as "shameful" the allegations made last year by the Brussels-based International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

"They are all lies, nothing but outrageous lies," he said.

Prokhorov said Washington had initiated a campaign of "anti-Soviet insinuations" by introducing sanctions against western pipeline equipment deliveries in retaliation for the imposition of martial law in Poland in December 1981.

President Reagan said the pipeline would make western European countries too dependent on energy supplies from the Soviet Union, which would use the hard currency provided from the natural gas sales to finance its military buildup.

Rising water threatens Mormon temple

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A large mudslide moved down the mountains of Utah Tuesday threatening up to 40 homes in its path, and hundreds of people piled sandbags around the Mormon Temple in Provo as floodwaters lapped at the shoreline.

Residents of the 30 to 40 homes at the mouth of Cold Water Creek Canyon in North Ogden, about 35 miles north of Salt Lake City, were ordered to evacuate after a Forest Service soil scientist helicoptered over the area.

Officials called off the evacuation, however, after the situation appeared to have stabilized.

"He (the scientist) felt it would be in our best interest to evacuate the homes right in the mouth of the canyon," said Brad Dee, director of emergency services for Weber County.

"But the city administrator has decided to hold on the evacuation until the slide actually moves into the water channel."

Dee described the slide as "very large" and sitting at the top of the mountain. He said the slide and several smaller slides were moving down the mountain towards the canyon floor, however.

About 75 miles away, in Provo, Utah, hundreds of church members turned out to help officials pile sandbags around the Mormon Temple, threatened by the rising waters of Utah Lake.

The havoc wrought from the mountains shifted from flood and mudslide-ravaged Davis County to areas further south as thousands of volunteers fought to protect homes and streets.

Canyon Road in the north section of Salt Lake City was a furious river, leaving more than 100 residents near Memory Grove Park without toilets, water and gas.

Weinberger's son given questionable benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Caspar Weinberger Jr., the defense secretary's son, was given a pay raise of nearly $5,000 without "justification" and ran up an $800 tab while working for the U.S. Information Agency, the director said Tuesday.

Agency chief Charles Wick said both the pay raise and payment of the cab fares were approved by his former deputy, Gilbert Robinson, who resigned last month to work as special adviser for public diplomacy at the State Department.

Phyllis Kaminsky, Weinberger's immediate supervisor in the USA's New York office, did not recommend him for the $4,800 pay increase and rejected the bill for the taxi fares, Wick said.

Wick documented the facts about the 36-year-old son of Defense Secretary

Caspar Weinberger in written responses released Tuesday to questions asked by Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb.

Zorinsky launched an inquiry after reading newspaper accounts of USA's hiring of relatives and friends of high administration officials.

In a statement released in response to Zorinsky's announcement Tuesday,

Wick said, "We ... welcome the senator's recognition that we are willing to take steps to correct management problems at this agency."

"I've investigated all allegations of impropriety or management abuses as they have been brought to my attention," he said. "As I stated in my letter to the senator, the issues you have raised are important ones."

Plant sabotage feared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There may have been 11 deliberate acts of inside sabotage directed against vital areas of nuclear power plants in the last three years, a report to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, released Tuesday warns.

The study of a review panel created by the NRC was released by Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass. He urged the agency to give high priority to reducing the chance of sabotage by workers at U.S. commercial reactors.

The committee report, dated Feb. 28, said, "Of those events reported to the NRC during the past three years, 11 incidents clearly have involved deliberate acts directed against plant equipment in vital areas at operating power plants."

The report said the NRC staff also has information on 32 "possibly deliberate damaging acts at 24 operating reactors and reactor construction sites" from 1974 to 1982.

There was no significant health or environmental damage as a result of the incidents, the report said.

The panel said because there were no indications of unauthorized entry to the affected plant sites, the incidents "are thought to have involved insiders."

Markey, chairman of a House subcommittee that reviews NRC actions, released a letter to NRC Chairman Nunnzio Palladino asking the commission to place the sabotage question on its list of "unresolved safety issues."

Classifying the sabotage issue in such a fashion would focus the attention of the agency and the industry on the problem and help calculate the risk to the public, Markey said.

Schizophrenia cause probed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Researchers at UCLA have found evidence that may link chronic schizophrenia to a structural abnormality in the brain, indicating that certain types of mental disorder may have their origin before birth.

Examining microscopic sections of the brains of 10 deceased chronic schizophrenics, Dr. Arnold Scheibel and Joyce Kovelman found a dramatic disarray of cells in the hippocampus, a 1 1/2-inch-long structure in the brain's lower center portion.

Although its function is unknown, the hippocampus — which develops during the first trimester before birth — is believed to be involved in the consolidation of memory and in the processing of sensory information that the brain uses to interact with the

Administration caves in on disability

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Under fire for its crackdown in the $18 billion Special Security disability program, the administration will relax the rules and exempt 335,000 handicapped people from benefit cutoffs, Health Secretary Margaret Heckler said Tuesday.

Mrs. Heckler said the liberalized rules will cost taxpayers one-third to one-half the program's projected savings for 1984-86, or up to $300 million.

Pioneering the crackdown caused hardships and heartbreaks for innocent and worthy disability recipients," she said the reforms will take effect immediately.

"We are responding with clear-cut actions that will put the highest premium on fairness and compassion and will minimize the chance for injustice, dislocation and personal trauma," she said.

She told a news conference 200,000 recipients will be permanently exempt from benefit cutoffs. They include people with IQs under 69 and some other handicap, those 55 or older with certain impairments such as severe arthritis and those with organic brain syndrome.

She said the government also will suspend eligibility reviews of 135,000 people with severe mental problems pending a study.

The Department of Health and Human Services chief said the administration will stop singling out high-risk cases for review, and will ask Congress to make permanent a law set to expire next June that continues benefits during appeal for those dropped from the rolls.

The administration's announcement comes only two weeks after widely publicized reports that benefits are being stopped for Roy Benavidez, a Medal of Honor winner embraced by President Reagan in a White House ceremony two years ago.

Mrs. Heckler said reforms were already in the works, but the Benavidez case prompted Reagan to ask "how we were doing" on them. She said the changes would not necessarily have kept Benavidez on the rolls.

House votes to trim MX construction money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic-led House Tuesday killed $200 million in construction money for missiles to produce MX nuclear warheads, and then approved an $1.5-billion energy and space spending bill for 1984.

The House voted 379-39 to approve and send the Senate the third of 13 regular appropriations bills for fiscal 1984, which begins Oct. 1.

Elimination of the MX money from the bill came on a voice vote, and without any Republican opposition.

Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., said President Reagan would sign the House bill.

Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., offered the amendment to defer the $200 million included in the bill for MX warhead production buildings until Congress actually authorizes legislation to produce the MX missile.

"What we're saying is leave the $200 million here, don't spend it until this issue is decided by the Congress," Bevill said.

Myers, the ranking Republican on the energy subcommittee, said he would not oppose the amendment, but added, "I think it's a mistake. This deals with the procurement of buildings. This is not the procurement of any warhead, but to build a facility. I don't know how this will be interpreted by the administration. This is what troubles me very much," he said.

Two weeks ago, the House approved an administration request of $625 million for further development and flight testing of the huge missile.

Jaycees win lawsuit

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A federal appeals court Tuesday upheld the right of the U.S. Jaycees to bar women from its local chapters.

However, the split ruling by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the Jaycees organization was guilty of "nongovernmental discrimination," and said an appropriately-written state statute might overturn the men-only policy.

Don E. Jones, president of the 295,000-member group, said the ruling "reaffirms our members' rights to decide who should belong to their organization."

The ruling by the three-judge appellate panel reversed a decision by the Minnesota Supreme Court, which said the Jaycees should admit women to local chapters. The U.S. District Court in Minnesota agreed with the state high court.

The Jaycees appealed the Minnesota ruling, saying it was a violation of the group's right of free speech, petition, assembly and association.

Watt pats himself on back

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Interior Secretary James Watt Tuesday told some 350 federal mining employees the programs he had initiated were a "phenomenal" success.

Speaking at the Pittsburgh office of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, Watt said he was intent on taking better care of government lands and developing energy reserves. Watt said some 95 percent of his new policies and regulations already were implemented.

Asked about his personal plans, Watt replied, "I have one plan and that is to serve the president."

Watt, who noted his department oversees one-third of the nation's lands, said he had changed the department's budget and appropriation process and said, "Our success has been phenomenal."

Watt called government leasing of the nation's offshore continental shelf the "cornerstone" of his effort to make the United States independent of foreign energy providers, he said.

85 percent of the nation's crude energy reserves are on government controlled property and two-thirds of that amount is in the outer continental shelf.

"America has lost (energy) production because of (former) policies of the Interior Department," Watt said. "And that's wrong. Because who does it hurt? The consumer and the taxpayer are the ones hurt."

What's what

The U.S. postal officials some generations ago worried so much about germs they dipped all letters in various disinfectants. In a few extreme efforts, they even welded applied mallets to postage holes in life envelopes so the letters inside would be saturated.

Ancient warriors of the Polynesian island of Tonga were finicky about their women and their boats. Their women they always stole from Samoa, their boats from Fiji, rarely the other way around.

If a time clock recorded the deaths of teenagers in liquor-related car wrecks, it would make its mark every 1 hour, 43 minutes.

WORD ORIGINS

Q. We get the words "test," "testify," "testimony," "testament" and "testicle" from the Latin "Testis." The original meanings were related. In ancient Rome, to consecrate the swearing of an oath, it was the custom for the first man to touch up under the second man's toga and firmly grasp the second man's person in a moment of solemn commitment. Any questions?

A. Yes, which man swore the oath?

Q. A good typist can do 80 words per minute. How fast could the old-time telegraph operators tap out their messages?
A. Maybe 25 words per minute.

Rapid Reply—No, sir, most physicians do not will their bodies to medical science.

EXPERIENCE AND MONEY

Observed one Leonard J. Lauder: "When a person with experience meets a person with money, the person with experience will get some money, and the person with the money will get some experience."

Under local law of Phoenix, Ariz., garbage is city property. The hungry who forage for same, therefore, can be charged with theft.

Possible country western song title: "I'm Just Crumpled Fender in the Body Shop of Love."

"Inverted commas" is what the English call quotation marks.

Billboard sitters given homes, cars

By SEENA GRESSIN
United Press International

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Two men who lived on a billboard ledge more than eight months in a battle of stamina to win a mobile home ended their contest Tuesday, descending to the ground in champagne and showers.

Ron Kistler, 25, and Mike MacKay, 31, walked down separate ladders to the ground, 15 feet below the 48-by-8-foot ledge where they lived in tents equipped with telephones, portable toilets and heaters for 281 days.

They were each rewarded for their endurance, which included camping outdoors during a record one-day 24-inch snowfall, with the top contest prize of a $18,000 mobile home, a $5,000 car and vacation trips for each.

"I think it was worth it but I don't think I would do it again," said Kistler, of nearby Copley, who said he would begin looking for a job as a truck driver. "It's great to be down."

WSAN-AM, the local radio station that sponsored the contest, declared he match a tie several weeks ago and awarded both men the first prize. But the sitters remained perched on the ledge until the station got the prizes together.

Dalton Young, 23, a third man who began the contest but was removed from the billboard after he was arrested for selling marijuana to an undercover police officer, watched as Kistler and MacKay descended. "Young, who is awaiting trial, could receive third prize if acquitted. That prize includes free rent in a one-bedroom apartment for one year, a color TV and one free meal per day for three months.

"It feels good, it feels good," said MacKay, digging his heels into the earth with his wife, Linda, at his side.

Some in feet away stood Kistler, tanned, shy and blushing from the attention of almost 100 reporters, television cameramen, photographers and even two helicopters sent to cover the event.

Kistler and MacKay, of nearby Northampton, stepped off their perch once during the contest, to testify at a hearing for Young shortly after his arrest March 23.

The pair was escorted to the offices of WSAN for long-awaited showers: a breakfast of steak, eggs and champagne and to collect their prizes. They selected from two mobile homes and received 1983 Chevrolet Chevelles.

"I went on longer than expected but we got prizes that were worth it," Kistler said.

Said MacKay, "I got what I came for and more." He had been on leave from his job as a youth counselor, but eventually lost it because of the length of the contest.

WSAN, which occasionally received unfavorable publicity and some criticism from the competitors as the contest dragged on, also was satisfied with the outcome.

"I'm pleased," said station owner Harold Fulmer III. "I think it went a little long simply because we had some very fierce competitors."

Author of 'Lili Marlene' lyrics dies at age 89

FRUTHWILEN, Switzerland (UPI) — Hans Leip, the German who wrote the lyrics to World War II hit song "Lili Marlene," died at his home in Fruttwilen Monday. He was 89.

Leip was an accomplished writer, painter and graphic artist.

The son of a dockyard worker, Leip was born in Hamburg on Sept. 22, 1893. Before taking up graphic art and writing, he worked as a sailor and swimming instructor. He married Kathrin Bode in 1949.

The lyrics of "Lili Marlene" were pened by Leip in Berlin in 1914 but remained uncompleted until 1937.

Leip said he was stationed in Berlin in the German Army in 1914 and had two girl friends — Lili and Marlene.

Lili was the daughter of a Berlin businessman and Marlene an army nurse. Standing guard one night under a lamppost, the first three verses came to the author but he failed to finish the rest until 1937.

The song, to which the music was added by Norbert Schultze, did not catch on immediately.

It was not until the song was broadcast to allied forces in North Africa on German-run propaganda programs that it took off and eventually was adopted by the allied soldiers.

The original version was sung by a popular German singer, Lili Andersen. But the version which became a wartime standard was recorded by film star Marlene Dietrich.

Leip also wrote several novels, comedies, short stories, poetry and an autobiography. His book "Gedekes

Koescht (Godeke's Servant Boy) won him the Thomas Mann Nobel Prize in 1929.

Leip, who later became a professor of art and science in Hamburg, also drew lithographs and illustrations on the theme of love.

His wife said he had been suffering for several days from a high temperature.

"He so much wanted to live to 90, although he said he didn't care after that," she said.

Pigeon finally flies home from Malaysia via jetliner

TOKYO (UPI) — A homing pigeon that ended up 3,000 miles off course in the jungles of Malaysia finally came home — three months late and via jetliner.

"I never thought that little bird would still be alive," said its owner, Kazuo Hiyama, 52, of Kurume, Japan. "The pigeon had no name before and I am going to name it Malaysia."

The 2-year-old pigeon was on a 310-mile race in western Japan in March but never reached its destination.

"It was found two months later 3,000 miles away in the jungles of southern Malaysia. A tag on the pigeon's leg identified the owner.

"There have been cases when our lost pigeons were found in China or the United States but never down in Malaysia," said a spokesman for the Japan Race Pigeon Association, which is taking custody of the bird pending its return to Hiyama.

According to pigeon experts, a race pigeon normally is only able to fly 600 miles non-stop. "Malaysia" was believed to have survived the 3,000-mile trip by resting on ships or land between Japan and Malaysia.

Idaho Revenue collections still high

BOISE (UPI) — A state official says May tax collections will exceed estimates Idaho would receive, more than $15 million in unanticipated receipts during the current fiscal year.

State Tax Commission Chairman Larry Looney said Tuesday the state collected $24 million in personal income taxes, $12 million in sales taxes and $2.2 million in corporate payments.

Looney said those figures were in line with April predictions that the state's tax income for the budget year, ending June 30, would be $15.2 million more than was expected when the Legislature discussed budget projections in January.

The Tax Commission estimated total collections for fiscal 1983 would hit $399.6 million, compared with final estimates of $354.6 million, Looney said.

"We were projecting (in April) that our collections would be about $16.2 million above what the projected collections were in January," he said. "As far as the $15.2 million is concerned, we would stick with that number based on what we've seen in the May collections."

Looney cautioned that the eventual total might vary by several hundred thousand dollars from current predictions, but he added, "collections are pretty much on target with what we predicted for May and June."

Gasoline spill may hit wells

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Health authorities say they may be forced to monitor domestic well water for several years in an area where a broken pipeline gushed thousands of gallons of gasoline into a creek, killing large numbers of fish and wildlife.

Panhandle Health District officials and representatives of the Idaho Fish and Game Department traveled to a farm east of Coeur d'Alene Monday night to give members of about 50 families a briefing on the effects of the spill, which occurred Saturday.

State fisheries biologist Ned Horner said the agency later this week would construct a weir to divert fish around the spill area, where an unknown number of fish were killed when the toxic fuel coursed into northern Idaho's Wolf Lodge Creek.

Authorities said pipeline workers accidentally severed a major pipeline that carries various fuels from Montana refineries to Spokane, Wash. Yellowstone Pipeline Co. officials estimated 15,000 to 20,000 gallons of fuel spilled into the stream, about 12 miles east of Coeur d'Alene along Interstate 90 — but 75 percent of the gasoline evaporated.

Health Department spokesman Ken Lusig said agencies would conduct tests to determine whether any contamination exists, but dozens of people who have domestic water wells in the area also will have to rely on their sense of smell to detect any gasoline in the system.

Trustees want reporter charged

MULLEN (UPI) — The Mullan School Board has recommended that criminal charges be filed against a North Idaho Press reporter who voted five times in three school tax elections to test safeguards against voter fraud.

Dave Smith, principal of Mullan High School, said Tuesday the board approved a motion Monday night directing district officials to file a criminal complaint against Alex Ashlock, who wrote about his actions in a story published after the May property-tax override elections in Kellogg, Wallace and Mullan.

Smith said Mullan trustees decided, however, to withhold actual filing of the complaint until after Kellogg and Wallace school officials address the incident at their respective upcoming meetings.

Boise braces for high water

BOISE (UPI) — With upstream reservoirs nearing storage capacity, federal officials said Tuesday they will be forced to raise Boise River flows to near-record levels that may cause extensive flooding in low-lying areas of the Treasure Valley.

Lucky Peak Dam's floodgates were to be opened wider Wednesday to boost the flow by 500 cubic feet per second, to 8,000 cfs. The rate may be increased again to 8,500 cfs Thursday — a flow unmatched since the 1940s, officials said.

If snowmelt above the drainages feeding Lucky Peak, Anderson Ranch and Arrow Rock Dams east of Boise remains heavy through the week, the flow might be increased further during the weekend, they said.

Although state and local authorities were notified about the flood danger, officials said they could not predict how much damage might result because extensive building and land development has occurred along the floodplain in the past three decades.

"The river flows through the middle of Boise, Idaho's largest city, but most flooding likely will occur downstream in the Eagle Island and Middleton areas, officials said.

"We haven't seen in a situation like this in many years," said Leo Krogh, a National Weather Service hydrologist. "The river has silted in and there are trees in the (old, pre-dam) channel."

"With 8,500 (cfs), it will be the most water in the river in 35 years," he said. "In the 1940s, the river could handle it far better. Since then, everything has been built up along there. Each person to a degree will have to assess his own problems."

Krogh said a number of permanent levees that have held the high-running Boise in check until now "are not built to hold it any higher," and water may begin coursing around them.

"We're definitely headed in that direction (damaging flooding)," the hydrologist said.

Daniel Waller, coordinator of the state Disaster Services Bureau, said he had been told by Ada County officials that several families in the western part of the county may have to leave their homes when the flow is boosted to 8,500 cfs.

Elkhorn members to join network of clubs

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — The new owners of the former Elkhorn resort will create a 4,500-member private club, whose members will have guest rights at an array of other clubs throughout the United States and Canada.

D. Roy Allen, one of four partners in Elkhorn Club at Sun Valley, announced Tuesday that the month-old management team will install new restaurants at the 140-room hotel, convert the outdoor skating rink into a multi-purpose auditorium and build an addition to house a health club.

The property, which is located a mile south of Sun Valley, currently contains an 18-hole golf course, a shopping mall, access to skiing and 220 condominiums, managed by an in-house real-estate company.

"We feel the biggest marketplace for this facility will be Idaho itself," Allen told reporters gathered at the site. But the Elkhorn Club also will be looking for members in Seattle, Los Angeles and other areas where frequent Sun Valley visitors live.

Allen, who is from Calgary, Alberta, and three other businessmen — Gary Courts, also from Calgary, Jim Cunningham from Vail, Colo., and Adam Adams from Australia — bought the 195-acre property on May 6 from its developers, the Manville Corp. and Puller Mountain Co. of Sun Valley.

The developers had closed the Elkhorn Inn as part of a foreclosure action against its original buyer, Elkhorn Associates Ltd.

The Elkhorn Club will open its doors June 17. Initially, the public will be invited, Allen said, but "as membership grows, gradually it will be cut off to the public."

A standard membership will cost $6,000 — good for 25 years — and will give full use of the facilities. A 40 percent reduction in room rates and other benefits. Corporate memberships will cost $7,500.

Current condominium owners at Elkhorn will not get memberships automatically. But they and other Blaine County residents are eligible for 500 special memberships at $4,500 apiece, Allen said. Annual dues for the club are expected to be "less than a dollar a day."

Elkhorn Club also will be allied eventually with between 30 and 40 other clubs. Elkhorn members will have guest-rights at those clubs — and the estimated 60,000 members in those clubs will be able to use Elkhorn grounds, Allen said.

The four businessmen plan to invest about $4 million in remodeling and additions to the resort club in the next few years, he said. They are planning:

• A 25,000-square-foot addition for racquetball courts, sauna and other exercise facilities in the current clubhouse.

• A domed auditorium suitable for theater, conventions or sports to replace the current outdoor skating rink. It will be called the Festival Center.

• A remodeled lobby containing a lounge and possibly a formal dining room in the hotel.

• A 400-box post office that will give Elkhorn its own ZIP code.

• Four new businesses in the shopping mall, including a beauty shop, video arcade, travel agency and a restaurant. All will be locally owned, but Allen declined to identify the new tenants.

Allen said the Elkhorn Club itself will employ about 60 workers, mostly from the Wood River Valley area.

The return of the Elkhorn resort to full activity should help the community. Property values in the Elkhorn area have dropped close to 20 percent from 1981, when the resort first got into financial trouble, he said.

Pam Allen receives help

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A donated jet and almost $30,000 in cash and pledges is the latest in the Pam Allen story.

A Sun Valley resident, who wants to remain anonymous, has promised a jet to take the child to Pittsburgh when it comes time for her essential liver-transplant operation, says Pam Dowd of Twin Falls, who is heading the committee that is raising money for the Allen family.

Without a new liver, Pam — who celebrated her second birthday Monday — may not live another year, her doctors say.

At first, the benefactor wanted to pay the expenses when the family traveled to Pittsburgh later this month for the initial medical tests, Dowd said. Later, he changed his mind and decided a jet was the real need.

A private jet is required to get Pam to the hospital quickly because the useful "life" of a donated liver is short.

The final arrangements concerning the jet still have to be made, Dowd says.

Pam and her parents, Fred and Carol Allen of Twin Falls, will go to Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh on June 27 for the tests. Based on the findings, it will be determined if she is eligible for the hospital's transplant program.

If accepted, she will be flown back to the operation when a donor is found.

Through the fund-raising efforts of several Magic Valley individuals, enough money has been raised to pay the expenses of one of Pam's parents for the four to six days of testing, Dowd says. The remainder of the expenses may be paid through Pam's Medicaid coverage.

The money donated to the Pam Allen Trust Fund also will cover expenses during the extended stay after the operation.

Response to the child's need continues to grow. The Golden Rule Store in Ketchum has collected $15,000 through its many efforts.

Sam Jordan from Southern Idaho Distributing in Twin Falls has donated $2,500, Dowd says. Through June 15, the company will continue to donate part of the proceeds from the sale of beer distributed through its business.

A Bowl for Pam Day on Saturday at Magic Valley Bowl in Twin Falls netted $178.

Students from Shoshone Junior and Senior High schools raised $177 through a benefit concert.

And throughout the month, the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club will donate the proceeds from the recycling of aluminum cans and newspapers collected in its bins.

IFF president says facility will work

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — One test of the treatment capability of the Idaho Frozen Foods potato-waste facility in the Snake River canyon has turned up results that exceed standards set by the state.

But these results are no indication that the treatment system will not work in the long run, Lee Odenwald, the president of the food-processing company, said Tuesday.

"Of the tests run to date, the vast majority show that the system is running fine. There may be a site-specific problem, or it may be a piece of equipment that caused the discrepancy in the results," he said.

But this should not be a condemnation of the entire system, Odenwald said.

A new method of installing measuring devices, which are used to retrieve water samples from beneath the treatment basins, is being tried in order to clear up discrepancies. This may reveal any "short-circuiting" of the testing apparatus, he said.

When the company closes July 15 for its annual summer shutdown, several of the 24 basins also will be reworked in an attempt to loosen soils that may have become compacted during construction, he said.

Odenwald said he disagreed with the tone of the article in Tuesday's Times-News, which first reported the newest test results. He said the article left the impression that the system is not working, when, in effect, only one test out of many has produced results that exceed the standards set for the facility by the state.

"A high BOD (biochemical oxygen demand) content is not the end of the world," he said. "It shows that something is going on, and we are working to correct it."

"We would be the first ones to react."

The company has too much tied up in the system for it not to work, by whatever means ultimately necessary, Odenwald said.

City's neighbors get sewer rate break

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Council decided Monday to end a long-standing policy of charging out-of-city residents double for the use of the city's sewer and water facilities.

The decision came after City Manager Tom Courtney presented a report, showing that what might have been the reasons for the double rates originally, do not apply now.

Courtney said he could not find justification for continuing the double fee on the basis of an offset to increase to in-city users, either.

Although the report estimated that the decrease in out-of-city rates could add 15 cents per month to an average in-city sewer bill, and a half-cent to the cost of every 1,000 gallons of water, he said there did not appear to be a need for even these small increases in the near future.

The reversal of the double-rate policy, which has been in effect since 1960, came as welcome news to the owners of three mobile-home parks on the outskirts of Twin Falls.

The owners of the Lazy J Mobile Home Ranch, Countryside Village and Grandview Trailer Court had protested the sewer rates to council on April 18.

Jay Williams, of the Lazy J, off Pole Line Road, told council members at that time, that the city's average 60 percent sewer-rate increase in January had compounded the existing double rate to exorbitant levels.

At that time, council tabled the matter amid mixed feelings, after listening to the complaints of the owners and a presentation by their lawyer, John Ritchie.

Ritchie called the charges illegal, although City staff members disagreed. Council called for the report to be prepared.

The report said there are four basic reasons cities charge the double rates — to inhibit urban sprawl, to encourage annexation, to provide repayment of facilities originally paid for by in-city residents and to establish a fund for future additions to the system.

Courtney said in the report that the city's area-of-impact agreement with the county gives it control over sprawl. Further protection is guaranteed by a requirement that developers pay the full cost of extending city water and sewer lines, he wrote.

Courtney also reported that the city has a de-facto moratorium on annexation due to the revenue limiting provisions of the One Percent Initiative.

All city-funded improvements to the primary sewer treatment system also have been paid for, he wrote. The final payment on bonds issued in 1961 for those facilities was made last year.

Finally, any new connections to the system are now subject to a system development fee, which provides adequate revenue to cover the future expansion of the system, he wrote.

City staff members will prepare the ordinances necessary to change the existing policy to one under which all residential users, regardless of location, pay the same amount.

The vote of council on Monday indicated it would adopt these laws at a later meeting.

City, county act to attract economic development projects

Council gears up for industrial revenue issue

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls plans to submit approval on a program to issue industrial revenue bonds Monday night.

This was achieved when City Council adopted an ordinance that will establish a public corporation to oversee the bond program, another ordinance that sets the tax-exempt status to alternate to serve as a board for that corporation, and a third that will establish guidelines for the review of applications by that board.

David Armstrong, Elbert Davis, Howard Allen, Jack Muldon and Dennis Brown will serve as the board of the corporation. Kerry Collins will be the alternate.

All six live in the city and have some background in finance or business, council members said. These were the two main criteria for selection.

The adoption of the ordinance ends the long process of establishing an industrial revenue bond program in Twin Falls. That process began last November when voters approved a constitutional amendment making Idaho the last state in the nation to permit the bonds.

The program will allow the city to extend its tax-exempt status to private industries that want to move into the area or expand here.

It is expected that the tax-exempt status will allow those industries to receive lower interest rates on money they borrow through the bond market.

According to City Manager Tom Courtney, there is a fairly standard process that cities use for setting up industrial revenue-bond corporations around the state. Nonetheless, he said, attention had to be paid to making sure no technical mistakes were made.

Council did delete, before passage, several restrictions from the policy statement that the board will use in evaluating applications. These included energy conservation, productivity, a preference for light, clean industry and a redundancy relating to encouraging new jobs for residents of the state and the region.

In other action Monday, See CITY on Page B2

Commissioners all vote for approval of bonds

By MARTY TRILJAHASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — As expected, the Twin Falls County commissioners have voted to start issuing industrial revenue bonds.

Technically, the county commission has voted to establish a self-sustaining public corporation that will issue the bonds. The corporation's name bears the program's goal. It has been dubbed the Economic Development Corp. of Twin Falls County.

The fine details remain to be worked out by the three men named to serve as the corporation's first board of directors. They are: former Idaho House of Representatives Speaker William Lanting of Castleford, Twin Falls businessman Joe Citek and Buhl business man Luke Sonner.

That board will be responsible for investigating applications and making a recommendation to the county commissioners.

The group will hold its organizational meeting later this month to select officers and adopt corporate bylaws.

The vote Monday was largely a formality that capped months of study and preparation. Dave John Rosholm, who drafted the ordinance and corporate charter on behalf of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, even prepared proposed minute entries that detailed which commissioner would make what parliamentary gesture.

The process began shortly after Idaho voters passed a constitutional amendment in November, allowing local governments to issue industrial revenue bonds to some private endeavors. Until then, Idaho was the only state that did not allow the bonds.

Essentially, the law allows local government to extend its tax-exempt status to bonds financing private projects. With interest payments exempt from federal and state taxes, investors are willing to accept a lower rate of interest. As a rule, the interest rate on tax-exempt bonds is two percentage points below the conventional rate, Rosholm said.

TWIN FALLS — Two Boy Scouts working on a merit badge were the only persons outside of the press to attend a Tuesday night Twin Falls school-board meeting, designed to help board members choose a new superintendent.

However, Chairman Bob Knighton said he was not disappointed. He has received more than 40 calls from persons who wanted to express their opinions in private, he said.

Knighton said that many of the calls have centered on the qualifications of assistant superintendent Gary Filler, the only district employee to apply for the job.

Persons tend to have strong opinions about Filler. They are either much in favor of his bid to move into the top job or vehemently against it.

Filler had to tackle a lot of hard problems as Superintendent James Sawin's assistant, and people have definite opinions about him, Knighton said.

Knighton also reported concern that the new superintendent be "morally upstanding." At least two callers have requested "a good Republican."

About 25 persons have requested applications, he said. That is not as many as Knighton had hoped for, but he said some strong candidates already have sent in credentials.

The board will extend the June 13 application deadline by two weeks if members think it will strengthen the field of applicants.

The board will combine the comments heard at two previous meetings with teachers and administrators with their own to formulate the selection criteria.

The two Scouts left the meeting without testifying. They decided to try again at next week's regularly scheduled board meeting.

Murtaugh man faces lewd-conduct charge

JEROME — Orville Eugene Sarmons, 49, of Murtaugh, has requested a preliminary hearing on a charge of having lewd conduct with a 15-year-old child.

Sarmons was arraigned last week in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Jerome.

Sarmons was being held in the Jerome County Jail, in lieu of $25,000 bond.

Charges against the defendant allege that he committed a lewd act with a minor in Hazelton on Oct. 30.

The child's mother told officers there also had been other incidents.

A Council approved a bid of $235,698 for major work on the first phase of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial park. The bid, submitted by PMF Corp. of Twin Falls, was 8.9 percent lower than the engineer's estimate for the project.

Council approved a legal agreement with the chamber for construction of the industrial park. Most of the construction work will come from a community-development block grant the city received.

At the work session, council also named one of its members, John Peterson, to be fire commissioner.

Council granted a special-use permit to Danny Edwards, after a public hearing. Edwards said he wanted the permit to install a mobile home on his property in the airport zone, so his parents could live on his property with him.

Approval of the permit marked the end of a long quest by Edwards, who originally sought his request before the city's Planning and Zoning Commission this winter.

Before it granted the permit, council attached one last condition. Edwards must sign "investigation consent" agreement. This will specifically assign the city the right to use the air over his property for the airport.

The vote on the special-use permit was 5-2, with Paul Newton and Mary McCluskey in the minority. That vote was identical to the one taken the last time council reviewed the matter, when it adopted an ordinance amendment allowing the permit to be issued.

At a work session Monday afternoon, council heard a report from its swimming-pool advisory committee.

That committee had two major recommendations: that a finance committee be established to evaluate potential sources of funding for the construction of a new municipal pool and that immediate action be taken to finalize preliminary questions of the design and location of the pool.

Council approved a request from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, Twin Falls County and Fred and Helen Kolouch for the vacation of a section of Shoup Avenue, West behind the hospital and a county office building.

would rest with the borrower, he said.

Rosholt indicated that the county will defer to cities that enact their own industrial revenue-bond programs, such as Twin Falls city did this week.

One unresolved policy decision involves what role, if any, that the corporation will play in solid-waste and energy projects located outside the county. Rosholt said "it's not the county's industrial revenue bonds program." Another question involves how much money the board will charge applicants for the investigation.

Board members also indicated they want to determine how much county industrial revenue bonds program, and how restricted their own actions will be under Idaho's open-meeting law.

Although viewed as a step forward in the state's effort to attract new industry, the industrial revenue law is limited when compared to laws in the books of other states. Rosholt said.

For one thing, Idaho's law requires projects to be exempt under the Internal Revenue Code. It also forbids funding for retail, commercial or office construction, and to electrical-generating projects.

So far, county officials say they have been contacted by one individual interested in obtaining the bonds to establish a seed-cleaning business.

But that same individual has been seeking the same bonds from the city of Twin Falls.

"It surprised me. He came in here pushing us, and he was talking to the city, too," said Commissioner Marvin Hempleman.

Brown seeks another M.V. victory

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

JACKPOT, Nev. — Karen Brown goes after her fifth Times-News Magic Valley Women's Golf championship Thursday on a local course that is rather foreign to her.

Brown and about 60 other Magic Valley golfers will compete in the annual event Thursday and Friday at the Jackpot Golf Course. And, although it is only 45 miles away, Brown said she doesn't know what to expect.

"I just haven't played any golf down there since a ball tournament three years ago,"

Brown said. "I remember the course is long with big greens and it can be pretty tricky putting. But I can only recall a few holes.

"I won't get a chance to play there until Thursday so I guess I'll just have to take my chances. It's a nine-hole course so that's an advantage. I'll play the same nine three more times. On an 18-hole course, the whole first day would have been a matter of getting re-acquainted."

The matter of length probably will favor Brown over several others in the championship flight but she doesn't see it as a factor.

"There are several players like Sue Kushlan (Rupert) who are pretty long off the tee. So I don't think I'll have any major advantage," Brown said.

Brown said she'd like to win this one "to carry over into (the Publix) in Hawaii. She and Twin Falls' Julie Hamblin earned spots in the National Public Links tournament last week. They will be playing in it later this month.

For Kushlan, a former state amateur champion. It is a return to Magic Valley golf after spending the past several months rehabilitating a knee. She had the injury for several years and in mid-summer of 1982 decided to have it corrected surgically. It kept her sidelined until this spring.

Because the tournament is restricted to residents from within the geographical boundaries of Magic Valley, the competition for the title is pretty well known.

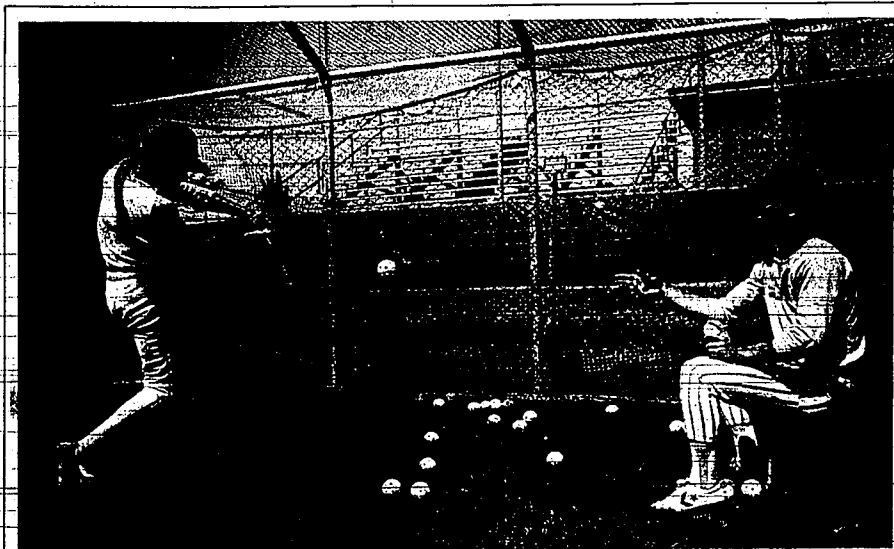

Brown and Kushlan rate at the top of the list, closely followed by Twin Falls' Virginia Undheim, who has claimed the title 12 times, and Hamblin. Just getting her feet wet in the championship flight.

Doris Ellinger and Sergene Sorenson carry Burley's title hopes.

Host professional Bill Downs said competition for both days will begin from a shotgun start. That will allow the tournament committee to host the field at a luncheon Thursday afternoon and move directly into awards presentation at the conclusion of play Friday.

The champion will receive a wristwatch and the top players in each flight, net and gross, will be presented merchandise prizes. Cactus Pete's has provided $500 in added money.

Garvey says he won't quit NFLPA post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ed Garvey said Tuesday he has not decided to resign as head of the NFL players' union.

Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, denied reports he would resign. He said he will meet in Chicago this weekend with the union's Board of Player Representatives and has called a news conference for Monday, also in Chicago.

"Until that time, any speculation is just that," he said.

Reports have circulated the past few months that Garvey, a native of Burlington, Wis., will resign to become a deputy state attorney general in his home state.

A spokesman for the NFL Management Council, which has negotiated with Garvey over the years, said it has had no contact with the union chief in a month.

Garvey said Tuesday he has an appointment for June 17 with Jack Donlan, the Management Council's executive director.

Garvey is to meet Saturday and Sunday in Chicago with the player representatives. The union's annual Better Boys Foundation banquet is Sunday night in Chicago.

"The player reps always meet with Ed at the Better Boys banquet," said the union spokesman. "It's an annual meeting."

The spokesman said the meeting was scheduled during a three-day board session last month in Florida.

Garvey has survived ouster attempt three times, including last year when several players criticized his handling of the 57-day players' strike. The player representatives voted 21-7 during the Florida meetings to retain Garvey.

Since Garvey became the union's executive director in May 1971, the players have staged three work stoppages. They walked out of training camp in 1974, struck briefly in 1975 during the Florida meetings to retain Garvey.

The union was successful in three court cases in 1977 before finally reaching a collective bargaining agreement and finally achieved certification by the National Labor Relations Board in 1978.

Carlton outwhiffs Ryan but loses; McRae propels Royals

By United Press International

Steve Carlton has a history of losing ballgames in which he reaches some personal milestones. Tuesday night was no exception.

Bob Forsch pitched a two-hitter in outdueling Carlton, and George Hendrick hit a two-run homer to lift the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Forsch's performance overshadowed a substrikeout performance by Carlton, who posted his 3,522nd strikeout in his battle with Houston's Nolan Ryan for the all-time major league lead. Carlton also lost his fourth straight decision to even his record at 6-6.

Forsch, 44, retired 18 batters in a row after allowing Mike Schmidt's 11th home run of the season in the second inning. Bo Diaz singled in the eighth for the other hit off Forsch, who struck out two and walked none in facing only 29 batters.

National

The Cardinals scored two runs in the first inning. With two out, Keith Hernandez singled and Hendrick, who drove in 22 runs against Philadelphia last year, cracked Carlton's first pitch into the left field seats for his 10th homer of the season.

The Phillies had the tying run on base in the eighth. After Diaz singled, pinch runner Bob Demler stole second and went to third on a groundout, but pinch-hitter Greg Gross grounded out for the final out of the inning.

During Carlton's career, some of his best performances have also been his "lost" successes. In 1969, for example, he set a major-league record by striking out 19 New York Mets — but lost after giving up two two-run homers.

Cubs 6, Mets 1

At Chicago, Ryne Sandberg drove in two runs and Chuck Rainey and Bill Campbell combined on a six-hitter to enable the Cubs to run their winning streak to six games. Rainey, 64, held the Mets scoreless until the seventh inning. He struck out seven, walked three and allowed four hits.

At Atlanta, throwing errors by Steve Sax, Pedro Guerrero and Greg Brock helped Atlanta to two runs in the seventh inning and sparked the Braves-Pasquel Perez, 47, and Steve Bedrosian, combined on a six-hitter for the victory. Perez allowed one run in seven innings, with Bedrosian getting his eighth save.

At Cincinnati, Eric Show pitched a six-hitter and Terry Kennedy drove in the game-winning run with a sacrifice fly to lift the Padres. Show, 72, struck out two and walked three in pitching

Star DH slugs Kansas City past Minnesota

By United Press International

Hal McRae knocked in four runs Tuesday night to propel the Kansas City Royals to a 9-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins that give Larry Gura his first triumph since April 26.

Gura scattered eight hits over six innings to snap a career-long seven-game losing streak in improving his record to 5-7. Dan Quisenberry hurled the final three innings to record his 13th save.

McRae knocked in his runs with a single and pair of doubles. Amos-Otis chipped in three hits and two RBI and Gregg Brett scored three times as the Royals climbed back to .500 at 24-24.

Gura yielded a two-run homer to Kent Hrbek, his sixth homer of the year. In the first inning, but the Royals batted out their struggling left-hander with three runs in each of the first two innings to take a 6-2 lead.

pitch and U.J. Washington bounced into a fielder's choice. Brett doubled home the first Kansas City run with the first of four consecutive hits off Ken Schrom, 41. McRae singled home Brett, took second on a single by Willie Alkens and came home on a single off

Other games: Baltimore clipped Milwaukee 6-4. Detroit edged Boston 4-2 and Cleveland nipped New York 2-1 in 10 innings.

Orioles 6, Brewers 4
At Baltimore, Eddie Murray, Gary Roenicke, Benny Ayala and Rich Dauer each homered to carry the Orioles. The Orioles pounded 10 hits off starter Mike Caldwell, 5-5, and reliever Bob Gibson and helped Dennis Martinez, 4-3, to his first victory since May 10. Tippy Martinez worked the final 1-2-3 innings for his seventh save.

Tigers 4, Red Sox 2
At Boston, John Wockenbut smashed a two-run homer to cap a four-run first and back the five-hit pitching of Milt Wilcox to lead the Tigers to their third straight victory. The Tigers jumped on loser John Tudor, 3-4, for first-inning runs on Lance Parrish's RBI double, an RBI infield single by Glenn Wilson and Wockenbut's third homer of the season. Wilcox, 6-6, struck out four and walked two in pitching his league-leading seventh complete game.

Indians 2, Yankees 1 (10 innings)
At New York, Toby Harrah's 10th inning ground single to center field lifted the Indians. Ron Hassey opened the 10th with a single to center and Mike Filchin ran for him. Alan Bannister sacrificed Filchin to second and Harrah followed with a

Spurs allow Nets to talk to Albeck

NEW YORK (UPI) — The San Antonio Spurs agreed Tuesday to allow the New Jersey Nets to negotiate with Coach Stan Albeck in return for cash and player compensation. The compensation will be awarded only if the Nets eventually sign Albeck.

Following a 2 1/2-hour meeting between Alan Cohen, chairman of the Nets, and Angelo Drossos, president of the Spurs, settlement was announced by NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien.

Under the agreement, San Antonio will permit New Jersey to negotiate with Albeck in an effort to fill its coaching vacancy. In return, the Nets give the Spurs:

- an undrafted second-round pick in the 1983 draft but played last season in Europe.
- the rights to Fred Roberts, a forward from Brigham Young, who was the 27th player selected in the 1982 draft but played last season in Europe.
- "I want to compliment both Mr. Cohen and Mr. Drossos for the constructive and business-like manner in which they were able to resolve this very difficult problem." O'Brien said, following the meeting, which took place at the NBA office at the commissioner's request. "Both of these gentlemen have played prominent roles in league affairs and this represents another example of their willingness to work toward the best interests of the league."

"This gives us rights to work with Albeck," a Nets spokesman said. "Obviously he's the guy we said we want and we're going to sit down and negotiate with him — when and where I don't know."

The Nets are looking to fill their coaching spot following the resignation of Larry Brown late in the season. Bill Blair, an assistant under Brown, was interim-coach until the Nets were eliminated from the first round of the playoffs.

The Spurs had obtained a temporary restraining order May 27 to keep Albeck, who previously coached at Cleveland and was an assistant at Los Angeles, from further contacting the Nets.

Replaces HOUSTON-bound Fitch

K.C. Jones becomes Celtics' new coach

BOSTON (UPI) — K.C. Jones, one of the best defensive guards in the NBA during the championship years of the Boston Celtics, Tuesday was named the team's head coach.

Jones, a winning head coach for the Washington Bullets in the early 1970s and an assistant Celtics coach the past five seasons, succeeds Bill Fitch, who quit two weeks ago to coach the Houston Rockets.

"I'm very happy to be home," Jones told a news conference in the cramped Boston Garden office of General Manager Red Auerbach. "It's a fantastic opportunity for me. I've been associated with the Celtics since I've been black."

"My first priority now is to sit down with Red and see what he has in his briefcase. He has all his secrets in there. They don't call him a genius for nothing."

Jones and Jimmy Rodgers, an assistant coach for four years with the Celtics, were both signed to multi-year contracts, Auerbach said.

"The qualities I see in K.C. are, one, as a player he was a great defensive player and defense is the name of the game," said Auerbach, puffing his ever-present cigar. "He has compassion; he has knowledge and he can be tough when he has to be."

The appointment of Jones, whose retired No. 25 hangs from the Garden rafters along with the numbers of other Celtics greats, is the first step in stabilizing a team shocked twice in the past month by resignations.

First, popular team owner Harry Mangurian announced he wanted to sell the club because of a conflict with the owners of the Garden, the Delaware North Corp., which also owns the Boston Bruins of the NHL.

A week later, Fitch, following the Celtics' elimination from the NBA playoffs in four straight games by the Milwaukee Bucks, announced he was leaving. Fitch said his primary reason for going was Mangurian's announcement.

"Harry Mangurian and I talked about it and we are in complete agreement," said Auerbach. "We wanted someone who could do the job."

Auerbach, whose basketball philosophy is close to Jones', did not specify if he would become more involved with the coaching. Earlier this year he was considering retiring but was "talked out of it" by Mangurian.

"You can't protect" (what will happen), "said Auerbach. "All I know is that I'll be around. It's a shot in the arm."

"Unlike Fitch, who could be abrasive, Jones is soft-spoken and extremely popular with the team."

"Coaching changes have a certain amount of risk," said forward-center Kevin McHale, who did not get along well with Fitch the second half of last season. "It's rare when you can be sure how players will react to new leadership. But I'm really excited about K.C. giving the Celtics. Everyone has so much confidence in him and his abilities."

"I was hoping this would happen," said guard Danny Ainge. "I think there's room for a lot of optimism this team."

Jones combined with Bill Russell to lead the University of San Francisco to more than 50 straight victories and two national championships. The combination continued in the NBA, with the Celtics winning eight titles in the nine years Jones played in the backcourt.

He was named head coach in 1973 with the San Diego Compositors of the American Basketball Association. In 1974 Jones was named the Bullets' head coach, compiling a 15-41 record in three years before being fired. He was then re-hired by the Celtics as Fitch's assistant.

Don't dig up any surprises.

You'd be surprised how many hundreds of miles of telephone cables are buried all over this area. Sometimes they're right where you plan to dig or grade or excavate.

To avoid digging up any costly surprises that could disrupt telephone service to you or others, let us know first. Just dial (toll-free) 1-444-2424 at least 48 hours before you dig. We'll come to your site, locate our buried phone cables, and mark them. At no cost to you.

So make a phone call before you dig—whether it's for major excavation and grading or just digging for a fence post, a garden or some landscaping. It could save time and trouble and money. And keep you from digging up something you didn't bargain for.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"He only is exempt from failures... who makes no effort..." - Richard Whately.

Have you suffered through any recent failures in contracts you should have made? If so, join the crowd. Almost everyone muffs one now and then. If you don't believe this, take a look at the "diamonds" perpetuated at a recent World Championships.

West led the diamond king and for reasons best known to East, East played the six. Thinking that East might have only two diamonds, West continued with his ace, which South ruffed. South led the low spade to dummy (West's one) and trump overcall stayed on the location of the king and West won and switched to clubs. South won his ace, led a spade to dummy to discard a club on dummy's high diamond and then king a club. The coup de grace was applied as South led his heart, nine and passed it to East's jack. East was forced to surrender a trick via a free heart finesse or a ruff and discard and declarer made his impossible game.

Looking at all four hands we can see that South should have trumped the diamond. A trump, and one in each minor, holding the contract to down one might be an acceptable bar, but dropping two defensive tricks? At the World Championships? Remember this result the next time you're ANSWER: Two clubs. One no trump is a possibility but with 5-4-2-2 distribution and a top level minimum, the second suit offers more encouragement.

For Over 30 Years The Easiest Place In The World To Buy A Car

701 Main Ave. E. Twin Falls 733-7700

Each bride and groom can add a personal touch to the wedding reception by bringing their own home-made delicacies to the reception. This gift from the heart will help make the moment more memorable for the bride and groom, and for the expense-minded father of the bride, as well.

With the ever rising costs of catering, this may just be an old-fashioned tradition whose time has come once again.

Everyone has a specialty which can be prepared ahead at home and carried to the reception in air-tight plastic containers, suggests Tupperware® Educational Services Department.

A pale green, spring-like vegetable salad of grated zucchini, celery and grapefruit sections is chilled in a plastic mold with a seal snapped over it. Carried to the reception in an insulated ice chest, it's easily unmolded right at serving time. The salad's freshness picks up the entire meal.

The family hors d'oeuvres chef can prepare tasty little deviled ham or tuna tarts the night before and transport them to the feast in their own unbreakable serving tray. Or fillings can be stuffed into cherry tomatoes or spread on diamond-shaped bread canapes as an alternative.

The bakers will impress the wedding guests with apricot-glazed petits fours baked and decorated the day before, kept fresh and delivered to the festivities in a sealed and handled cake server.

A lively punch of delicious Florida orange juice, grapefruit juice, honey and sparkling water adds a special touch to this special event.

TIPS FOR THE SELF-CATERED WEDDING

1. Start planning early: Draw up a prospective menu to serve and contact likely cooks to ask their participation. A good estimate of the number of guests is important.
2. If the wedding is large, ask several different cooks to make equal amounts of the main dishes.
3. People can be asked to volunteer "chipping and cutting" help the day before the wedding. To keep food fresh until reception time, store in air-tight sealed Tupperware containers.
4. Plan food that can be made ahead, carried and warmed up successfully. You may need to borrow extra portable ovens or microwaves and use a neighbor's refrigerator for extra storage.
5. Salad-type mixtures of food are more economical than meat or cheese trays.
6. Local church groups may have large supplies of linen, silver and glassware they might be willing to lend. If not, renting utensils is sometimes cheaper than buying paper goods for a large crowd.
7. Set buffet table where linen can move from the head of the table down each side, with duplicate dishes on each side.
8. If you intend to get your sealed storage containers back after giving out leftovers to special guests, write your name on masking tape or use labels placed on the outside bottom of the containers.

GRAPEFRUIT GARDEN SALAD

- 2/3 cup sugar
  - 3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 3 cups Florida grapefruit juice, divided
  - 1/2 cup tarragon or white wine vinegar
  - 1 1/2 cups shredded zucchini (unpeeled)
  - 3/4 cup chopped, seeded green pepper
  - 1 cup Florida grapefruit sections
  - 1/3 cup finely sliced green onions
- Florida grapefruit sections and zucchini slices, for garnish
Creamy salad dressing

In a large saucepan combine sugar, gelatin and salt. Add 1 1/2 cups grapefruit juice; let stand 1 minute. Stir over medium heat until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 4 minutes. Stir in remaining 1 1/2 cups grapefruit juice and vinegar. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg whites. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a 5-cup plastic mold with a heart design. Seal. Chill until firm. To unmold, leave at room temperature 10 to 15 minutes. Immerse in warm water 15 to 20 seconds, taking care not to melt gelatin. Remove from water and take off large seal. Place serving plate over mold and invert. Carefully lift off mold. Fill heart design with creamy salad dressing.

YIELD: 6 cups; approximately 10 servings.

DEVILED DIAMOND SANDWICHES

- 2 cans (1/2 ounces each) deviled ham
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened at room temperature
- 1 tablespoon grated onion
- 5 dozen 3 1/2 x 3-inch diamonds cut from sliced bread
- Stuffed green olives
- Pimiento
- Hard-cooked eggs
- Parsley

In medium mixing bowl blend all ingredients. Seal. Refrigerate until ready to use. Spread on bread diamonds, arrange on serving tray. Garnish with sliced stuffed green olives, pimiento, hard-cooked eggs and parsley.

YIELD: 5 dozen tea sandwiches.

TUNA TARTS

- 2 packages (8 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 jar (4 ounces) pimientos, drained, chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cans (6 to 7 ounces) tuna, drained
- 1/4 cup finely chopped fresh chives
- 3 dozen 1-inch tartlet shells
- Fresh parsley sprigs

In medium bowl beat cream cheese until smooth. Blend in lemon juice, pimiento and pepper. Add tuna and chives; stir until well combined. Cover. Refrigerate until ready to use. Spoon into tart shells. Top with parsley sprigs.

YIELD: About 2 1/3 cups; enough to fill 9 dozen 1-inch tart shells.

ROSY CITRUS PUNCH

- 6 cups Florida orange juice, chilled
- 3 cups Florida grapefruit juice, chilled
- 2 tablespoons grenadine
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 2 Florida oranges, thinly sliced
- 1 bottle (23 ounces) sparkling water, chilled

In a large bowl combine orange juice, grapefruit juice, grenadine and honey. Stir to dissolve honey. Add orange slices. Before serving, add sparkling water.

YIELD: About 3 quarts, 24 (4 ounce) servings.

PARTY PETITS FOURS

- 2 packages (1 pound each) pound cake mix
- 4 eggs
- Florida orange juice (about 1 1/3 cups)
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
- Candied flowers
- Dragees

Grease a 15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1-inch jelly-roll pan. Line with waxed paper and grease again. Prepare both packages of pound cake mix according to package directions using 4 eggs and substituting an equal amount of orange juice for the water called for. Stir in orange peel. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a 350°F oven 30 to 35 minutes or until top springs back when pressed with fingertip. Cool 10 minutes in pan. Turn out on wire rack; cool completely. Cut into 1 1/2-inch cubes. To glaze cakes, dip top of cakes only in Apricot Glaze.* Place cakes, top-side-up 2 inches apart on wire racks placed on cookie sheets. Let stand until glaze is set, at least 1 hour. To frost, place glazed cakes on a fork, one at a time. Spoon frosting** over cake, to run over top and sides evenly. Let cakes dry completely about 1 hour. Repeat frosting if necessary. Let dry. Decorate with candied flowers and silver decorations, if desired.

YIELD: About 50 petits fours.

*Apricot Glaze

- 1 cup apricot preserves
- 1/4 cup water

In a saucepan combine preserves and water; stir over low heat until smooth. Remove from heat. Pour mixture through a strainer to remove apricot pieces. Return to heat if mixture thickens.

**Frosting

- 11 cups (about 2 1/2 pounds) confectioners' sugar
- 3/4 cup water
- 2/3 cup corn syrup
- 1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 2 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Red, blue, yellow and green food coloring

In a medium bowl combine sugar, water, corn syrup, oil and vanilla; stir until smooth. Frosting may be divided and tinted with different food colors. (Layover frosting is made with blue and red.) Use to frost Petits Fours.

Rainbow dessert adds personal touch

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N. J. — Bright spring flowers and cheerful bridal showers naturally go hand in hand this time of year.

If you are hosting a shower for a certain bride-to-be, why not make it extra-special by serving a dessert designed exclusively for her? Light and lemony Bridal Rainbow Dessert adds a warm personal touch to the party because it can be made in any combination of pastel hues to match her bridal colors.

Unflavored gelatin is the versatile base for the luscious layers that form this beautiful rainbow dessert. While it may look difficult, this recipe is really very easy since all the layers start with the same tart-yet-sweet lemon mixture.

Simply divide the mixture in thirds and then tint with the appropriate food colorings. After whipping, the mixtures have light and creamy textures that are sure to meet with the approval of your guests.

To assemble the dessert, alternately layer one-half of each colored mixture in your prettier large crystal bowl and garnish with whipped cream. A delicate bouquet of the bride's choice of fresh flowers adds the perfect finishing touch to this delightful dessert that's so pretty it can also be the centerpiece of your buffet table.

BRIDAL RAINBOW DESSERT
3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 1/4 cups sugar

3 cups boiling water
1 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
6 egg whites, separated
3 cups or 1 1/2 pints whipping or heavy cream, whipped assorted food colorings

In a large bowl, mix the unflavored gelatin with sugar; add boiling water and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Stir in lemon juice and lemon peel. Pour 1/3 cups mixture into each of two medium bowls, reserving 1/3 cups in large bowl. Stir in assorted food colorings. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixtures are consistency of unbeaten egg whites.

Remove bowls from refrigerator; add 2 egg whites to each mixture. With electric mixer, beat each mixture at high speed until light and fluffy, about 10 minutes. Fold in 2 cups whipped cream to each mixture.

In 6-quart clear bowl, alternately layer 1/2 each mixture; chill until set. Garnish, if desired, with additional whipped cream and fresh flowers. Makes about 16 servings.

*Assorted food colorings: select colors of bridal party or bride's favorite colors. Add 10 to 20 drops food coloring, depending on intensity desired, to each mixture for colored layers. Colors will lighten when whipped.

Apple juice not just nourishing drink

Apple juice can be more than a year-around nourishing drink. This juice can be used to flavor marinades, basting sauces, cakes, cookies, meats and poultry. Here are a few ways you might want to try for using this delectable fruit nectar.

Willetta Warberg
 On food

APPLE JUICE MAIN DISH CHICKEN
 1 frying chicken, cut into serving pieces
 1 stick margarine or butter
 1 large yellow onion, peeled and sliced
 1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
 1 teaspoon ground oregano
 salt and pepper to season to taste
 1/2 cup apple juice
 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
 In a heavy skillet, brown the chicken parts in the margarine or butter until barely cooked and browned on all sides. Add the sliced onion, parsley, oregano, salt and pepper to season to taste and apple juice. Cover and cook on low heat, until chicken is tender. This should take from 30 to 45 minutes. When ready to serve, remove the chicken pieces to a warm platter. Quickly stir the sour cream into the pan juices. Do not boil. Just when thoroughly heated, pour over the chicken and serve. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

APPLE JUICE BASTING SAUCE
 2 cloves garlic, peeled and mashed

1/4 cup salad oil
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon white pepper
 1/2 cup apple juice
 juice from 1 small lemon
 2 tablespoons onion juice
 1 teaspoon dried basil
 In a small sauce pan, combine the garlic, oil, salt, pepper, apple juice, lemon juice, onion juice and basil; simmer, stirring until flavors are blended. Allow about 5 minutes. Remove sauce from the heat and cool overnight. Use to baste grilled poultry, fish, beef, and pork steaks and roasts. The sauce is also good as a baste for baked ham. Note: for ham baste, add a spoonful of honey or marmalade to the sauce.

APPLE-PINEAPPLE JUICE MARINADE
 1 small can pineapple juice
 1 can apple juice, use pineapple juice can to measure
 1/2 cup water
 2 cloves garlic, peeled and mashed
 1/2 cup vegetable oil

1 teaspoon ground ginger
 3 tablespoons soy sauce
 In a saucepan, combine the pineapple juice, apple juice, water, garlic, oil, ginger and soy sauce. Bring to a simmer; turn down heat and simmer about 5 minutes, or until flavors are blended. Cool; cover and refrigerate overnight. Use as a marinade for beef or pork chops or steaks.

APPLECAKART DRINK
 Into cocktail shaker, which has cracked ice in it, put 1 part each of lime juice and Cointreau and 2 parts apple juice. Shake the mixture vigorously and strain it into chilled cocktail glasses.

CAKE AND COOKIE MIX FLAVORING
 Use apple juice to replace liquid called for in cake and cookie mixes. The flavor will be delicious and very subtle and will make the cakes and cookies more nourishing.

Nabisco Rounds.

New tasty crackers.

Pass 'em round.

Weed battle easiest when they're tiny

REXBURG — One benefit of the cold, late spring has been delayed weed growth. The weeds are growing rapidly now, however. Weed control is a lot less work when the weeds still are tiny seedlings. One chop with a hoe just under the soil surface will eliminate a dozen or more weeds. If allowed to establish a deep root system, weeds are much more work to hoe or pull.

Allen Wilson
 Intermountain gardening

If you have a fairly large vegetable garden, you may want to purchase a tool or two which is more efficient than the ordinary hoe. A soufle hoe has a narrow blade which is sharp on both sides and cultivates both when pushing and pulling. A rotot hoe has a series of rotating blades which cultivate as you push it similar to an old fashioned lawn mower. Even an ordinary hoe is a lot less work if the blade is kept sharp with a file.

Weed preventing chemicals are available which will eliminate weed growth around established plants. Some chemicals can only be used around ornamental plants, but dacthal can be used around vegetables too.

Most weed preventers are granules which are sprinkled on freshly cultivated soil. They are then lightly raked or watered into the soil. Germinating weed seeds absorb the chemical and die before they even push through the soil surface. Since weed preventers will kill any germinating seed, they cannot be applied until seeded crops or flowers have come up. They can be used right after transplanting plants.

Mulches also will reduce weed growth. Bark dust, chips or chunks are some of the best mulching materials available in our area. I do not usually recommend mulching newly planted vegetables and flowers because mulch insulates the soil and slows the warming reaction of the sun. In our climate we can use all the warmth we can get to speed growth of small plants.

Bark dust can be applied in July or later to vegetables and flowers. Bark mulch or decorative rock can be applied around trees and shrubs anytime.

Black plastic also can be used as an effective weed preventer. It is especially good for warm weather vegetables and flowers such as tomatoes, peppers, melons, squash, marigolds and zinnias. The soil is warmer under black plastic. It is laid over the top of small plants and holes cut to pull the plants through.

Do not use black plastic as a mulch around trees and shrubs. It causes the root system to grow near the surface which makes them vulnerable to drought and wind damage.

Assign food

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — If you're going to a pot-luck picnic and don't want to end up with 10 salads, five desserts and a package of hot dogs, a California dietitian has a great idea. "Assign a specific food group to each person bringing a dish," says Susan Kennedy, a nutrition instructor at Los Angeles City College.

Make a list of each of the four groups — milk, meat, vegetables and fruit — and have each person select and plan a variety of dishes within each group, she says.

This will give each contributor many recipe choices, she says.

Recycling gives bonus to shoppers

By MARTIN SLOANE
United Feature Syndicate

I watched as a man in a brown Chevy sedan pulled up to the blue metal mobile collection center, opened his trunk and began unloading stacks of old newspapers. Each stack was placed on a scale and carefully weighed by Moses Green.

Supermarket Shopper

"We don't take telephone books," said Green, handing the book back to the man.

The total came to 347 pounds and Green wrote out a voucher in the amount of $3.47. It could be used on any merchandise at the ShopRite supermarket, in whose back parking lot we were standing.

"Turning trash into cash is something I enjoy," said Larry Silverman of the Garden State Paper Company called to tell me his company was turning trash directly into supermarket savings, of course I was interested.

"How much do people usually bring in?" I asked.

"We seem to have two types of people who bring in newspapers," explained Silverman. "There's your casual 50- to 100-pound collector and your more serious mass-maker who will bring in 1,000 or 2,000 pounds."

Continued Silverman: "Our first mobile newspaper recycling center was set up in September of 1980 in a Pathmark parking lot in North Bergen, N.J. We now have 14 supermarket locations in New Jersey and we're expanding."

"What gave you the idea of putting a newspaper collection point in a supermarket parking lot, and paying people in supermarket vouchers?" I asked.

"It just seemed like a natural tie-in," he replied. "People visit the supermarket frequently and paying them in supermarket merchandise is a money-saving memory jogger. We hope that when they make up their shopping list, they will make a note to take along their old newspapers when they go shopping."

"Does the program bring new customers into the supermarket?" I asked.

"Yes, the supermarkets are definitely seeing some new faces because of our program. One of the supermarkets did a study and found that the people who were bringing in our vouchers tended to be more price-conscious than the usual shopper."

On one recent Saturday 15,000 pounds of newspaper was collected, yet those who run the checkout aren't able to clip any of the coupons in the papers.

Said Green: "We have instructions that we can't take any of the coupons from the newspapers we receive."

Oh, well, life isn't perfect. But, it still is an interesting way to turn trash into cash.

SMART SHOPPER AWARD

The Smart Shopper Award goes to Joey O'Halloran, of Howell, N.J. "My store had Friskies Buffet cat food on sale, four cans for $1. I had two 50-cent coupons each good on 10 cans, and when my store doubled them, 20 cans cost me only $3. When I got home I found a Friskies Buffet $2 refund that asked for 20 UPC symbols. My final score was 20 cans of cat food for just 5 cents each!"

WASH BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Consumer requests for do-it-yourself information have doubled in the past two years, says a Benton Harbor appliance manufacturer's toll-free consumer information line.

Vice President Bob vice president Bob Stanley says the surge is primarily due to economics, with people trying to eliminate service calls and charges.

Restaurant show full of gimmicks

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dedicated food fans might either rejoice or despair of the future of restaurant meals in the United States after visiting the National Restaurant Association's annual show.

The vast exposition covered three levels of McCormick Place with everything from smooth bourbon to greasy hushpuppies; from Hawaiian papayas to Dutch beer; from superior mixing bowls to waitresses' skimpy uniforms.

As usual, appeal seemed to decline as the products got more complex and more artificial. The papayas were great but a processed, whipped orange drink called "Vista" — the latest restaurant-size gas ranges looked super but the airport-style, automated bartending systems looked as impersonal as could be.

Gimmicks were everywhere. A major chemical firm had an automated puppet band that lip-synched (well, at least mouth-synched) recorded tunes, then talked back to visitors.

Another exhibitor stuck little furry animals on the shoulders of visitors who were willing to wait in line for the privilege.

Coca-Cola had a remote-control robot that asked women for hugs, kisses and a few things we won't mention.

Lots of people had samples of their wares and an unwary visitor might stagger out after tasting Old Grand Dad bourbon; Grolsch, Miller, Coors and Stroh's beers — and liqueurs ranging from a coconut-based rum drink to one combining cognac — coffee — and cream and another combining liqueurs with fruit juice slush.

Some random notes:
* A firm peddling deep-freezers, apparently for fast-food purveyors, offered samples of jalapeno hushpuppies that tasted more of chemical than peppers. They also were soggy with grease.

* The coffee and tea firms all seemed to have good products. One booth made a bit by offering food tea with or without sugar. Why is it that the coffee never tastes that good when you make it at home?

Peach crop good, bad

By ROBERT W. STRUBE
Chicago Sun-Times

The good news is that the California peach crop has been estimated at 13.5 million cartons, compared with 11.9 million cartons last season. The bad news is that due to bad weather, the Southern states will have a small crop this year.

The peach season is long, extending from early May to mid-September. The early May crop is usually a steady stream of small peaches (peaches with flesh that does not cling to the seed, or stone) start coming to market in June.

Peaches do not sweeten after harvest — so they must be picked more but not enough to withstand shipping. After picking, peaches go through cleaning machines that wash and defuzz them. In the East and South, they also are cooled in water. In the West, cooling takes place in refrigerated trucks or railroad cars during shipping.

Judging good-quality peaches is not difficult, but there are some helpful things to know. The first rule is to insist on mature peaches, not green ones. Maturity is indicated by yellowish color, red blush and general absence of green. Hold peaches at room temperature until soft enough to eat. Then refrigerate them as soon as possible.

Fresh Peach Roly Poly

6 cups sliced, peeled, fresh peaches
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Place peaches in a 2-quart baking dish. Mix remaining ingredients. Sprinkle over peaches and toss lightly to coat. Set aside.

Dough:
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar, divided
1/4 cup shortening, butter or margarine
two-thirds cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

In a medium bowl, sift together flour, baking powder, salt and 1/4 cup sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture reaches consistency of fine crumbs. Add milk and mix to make soft dough. Roll out on a floured surface to 12-by-18-inch rectangle. Brush surface with 2 tablespoons melted butter and sprinkle with mixture of remaining 1/4 cup of sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Roll up jelly-roll fashion from long side. Cut into 1-inch slices; place on top of peaches in baking dish. Bake in preheated, 450-degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and continue baking for 20 minutes. Cool slightly before serving. Serves 12.

Man's birthday is one year too soon

DEAR ABBY: This is a problem I've never seen in your column. I will be 50 years old in December, and my wife wants to give me a big party to celebrate the occasion.

I would rather she didn't, because in September we're giving my parents a big party to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, and a little quick addition will explain why I don't want a big splash on my 50th birthday.

My wife assures me that people are very broadminded today, and nobody will care if it becomes known that my mother was pregnant with me when she walked down the aisle.

My wife then suggested that I "host" a year and celebrate my 50th birthday next year in order to spare my parents' embarrassment.

What do you think?
—PREMATURE IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR PREMATURE: If you're giving your parents a big party to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in September, I suggest you celebrate your 50th birthday quietly in December.

DEAR ABBY: A reader named Sue asked you about the expression, "Mind your p's and q's." She wanted to know, "What do the 'p' and 'q' stand for?"

You supplied three possible theories, but neglected to mention the explanation one would most expect from an old newspaper hand like you. An elderly printer once told me the expression goes back to the days when printed pages were set by hand, one letter at a time.

The printer's wooden "cupboard" from which he withdrew each piece of type was called a job case. It was compartmentalized into pigeonholes that kept the a's together, the b's together, etc.

The most popular job case, with an

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

exception of two, arranged the pigeonholes in alphabetical order.

The bay containing the p's was the next-door neighbor of the one containing the q's. So it was easy to get the p's in the wrong bay, and vice versa. Such mistakes led to typographical errors, which were hard to detect because p's and q's are look-alikes.

"The apprentice printers were constantly admonished: 'Mind your p's and q's!'"

—ROBERT McMORRIS
COLUMBIAN, OMAHA WORLD-HERALD

DEAR MR. McMORRIS: The theory proffered by the elderly printer seems more likely than any of those I submitted in my column.

Coincidentally, my source was the MORRIS Dictionary of Word and Phrase Origins. Any relation, Mac?

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to "A Ragging Fool," you wisely pointed out that children who witness violence at home grow up to believe that it is an acceptable way to deal with their anger and hostility.

That caused me to recall what the late Martin Luther King Jr. wrote in his book, "Why We Can't Wait" (Harper and Brothers): "Man was born into barbarism when killing his fellowman was a normal condition of existence. He became endowed with a conscience, violence toward another human being must become as abhorrent as eating another's flesh."

—ARTHUR H. PRINCE

Celebration Punch, Party Dill Seafood Salad and Minty Bridal cake are sure to please

Buffet menu sure to please

COLOMBUS, Ohio — Planning a bridal shower for a friend or relative? To be sure the occasion is as memorable as the wedding day, start with a traditional menu for a buffet luncheon and give the shower a practical theme that is appropriate for the bride's needs.

Not every bride, for example, will need sheets for the bedroom or towels for the bathroom. In fact, she may just have a wish list of needed items to complete her new home.

If that is the case, hold a miscellaneous shower that might include any kind of gift. If the bride-to-be is interested in cooking, consider holding a recipe shower and ask guests to bring their favorite recipe with a small kitchen utensil.

Whatever the theme may be, choose luncheon fare that will please all. Keep the entree light, whether it is a casserole, sandwiches or salad. Fresh fruits and vegetables with dips are always popular.

Make dessert the special treat — serve fancy petit fours, fruit tarts or a party cake. A suggested bridal shower menu follows.

SUNSHINE CELEBRATION PUNCH

1 can, 46 oz. size, pineapple juice, chilled
2 cups orange juice, chilled
1 cup lemon juice
4 bottles, 3 oz. size, ginger ale, chilled
1 quart orange or pineapple

sherbet, scooped into balls
In large punch bowl, combine juices; mix well. Just before serving, add ginger ale and sherbet. Makes about 4½ quarts.

PARTY DILL SEAFOOD SALAD

1½ pounds small raw shrimp, cooked, peeled and deveined.
1½ pounds — fresh sea scallops, chopped and cooked — or bay scallops, cooked
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

In a large bowl, combine ingredients; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Garnish as desired. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 12 servings.

COOL AND MINTY BRIDAL CAKE

1 can, 14 oz. size, Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, not evaporated milk
2 teaspoon peppermint extract
8 drops green food coloring
2 cups, 1 pint, whipping cream, whipped — do not use non-dairy whipped topping
1 package, 18½ oz. size, white cake mix
1 green creme de menthe container, 8 oz., frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed
In a large bowl, mix sweetened condensed milk, extract and food coloring. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into aluminum foil-lined 9-inch round layer cake pan. Cover. Freeze 6 hours or until firm.

Meanwhile, prepare and bake cake mix as package directs for two 9-inch round layers. Remove from pans; cool completely. With table fork, poke holes in layers 1-inch apart half-way through each layer. Drizzle small amounts of creme de menthe in holes. Place cake layer on serving plate; top with ice cream layer then second cake layer. Frost quickly with whipped topping. Garnish as desired. Return to freezer until ready to serve. Makes one 9-inch cake.

FRUIT CHEESE TARTS

12 three inch prepared graham cracker or pastry tart-size crusts
1 package, 8 oz. size, cream cheese, softened
1 can, 14 oz. size, Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, not evaporated milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Assorted fresh fruit, strawberries, blueberries, kiwi fruit, grapes, pineapple, etc.
¼ cup apple jelly, melted
In a large bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Beat in sweetened condensed milk until smooth. Stir in lemon juice and vanilla. Spoon equal portions into crusts. Top with fresh fruit. Brush with jelly. Chill thoroughly. Refrigerate leftovers.
