Syria ousts Arafat; Arab violence rumored

By SAMIRA KAWAR
United Press International

Syria expelled Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat Friday, and the ousted PLO leader charged Syrian forces had encircled guerrillas loyal to him and were launching a massacre.

Arafat made the charge after arriving in Tunisia from Syria, where officials expelled him for making "false accusations" of Syrian collusion with rebels challenging his leadership of the guerrilla movement.

Arafat said his own Fatah guerrilla group, with 5,000 members, is the largest in the PLO, was besieged by the Syrian army in Syria and the Syrian-occupied parts of Lebanon.

"I'm astonished at this decision because I went to Damascus at an official invitation," he said of his expulsion in an interview in Tunis with the Arabic-language service of Radio Monte Carlo.

"But what is dangerous is our all positions and offices are now surrounded by Syrian tanks and special forces.

"I'm afraid what's happening is a start of a new massacre to finish off what the Israelis had not completed in the siege of Beirut," he said. "I call upon Syrian President Hafiz Assad to stop what's going on."

In Damascus, seven Syrian security vehicles escorted Arafat to the airport where he boarded a plane for Tunis.

Arafat has maintained headquarters in the Tunisian capital since Israeli forces, who invaded Lebanon in June 1981, drove the PLO out of Beirut in September.

"Due to the continued false accusations being made by Mr. Yasser Arafat against Syria, his sacrifices and its principled stands, he was informed today of Syria's wish he not return," said a government official quoted by the official Syrian press agency SANA.

The expulsion was the most serious split between the PLO and Syria since the revolt against Arafat's leadership erupted in the ranks of the guerrilla organization six weeks ago.

The rebels, led by Col. Said Moussa, are demanding an end to Arafat's peace overtures and a return to war against Israel.

While in Damascus, Arafat charged the Syrians were responsible for an ambush in which at least 13 Palestinians were killed while riding in a convoy 25 miles north of the Syrian capital at about midnight Thursday.

The ambush on the Homs road between the Syrian towns of Ma'lou and Nabak appeared to have been the work of anti-Arafat Palestinians.

Arafat's deputy commander, Khalil Wazir, also known as Abu Jihad, was turned back at the Syrian border when he tried to enter the country from Lebanon, according to a PLO official who requested anonymity.

In Lebanon, state-run Beirut radio reported Israeli and Syrian forces traded artillery fire across their front line in the eastern Bekaa Valley.

The radio said they exchanged fire for 20 minutes while warring PLO factions were on full alert in other parts of the plain following Arafat's expulsion.

Before his expulsion from Syria, Arafat met with two key guerrilla leaders — George Habash, leader of the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and Nayef Hawatme, head of the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Shuttle landing a success, but at second-choice location

By MARK BARABAK
United Press International

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — The world's greatest commander was waved off twice because of bad weather in Florida, settled for a dusty desert landing Friday to end Challenger's second super-space mission — the best yet for the shuttle program.

Sally Ride, America's pioneer spacewoman, mission commander Robert Crippen, and the other astronauts — Frederick Hauck, John Fabian and Norman Thagard — had flown 97 times around the Earth on their 2.5 million-mile mission, which proved to the world the unique abilities of the U.S. space program.

The thwarted attempt at a Florida landing was the only major disappointment of the six-day Challenger special-in-space since Saturday's launch from Cape Canaveral.

"I think that we proved that the Challenger is a super machine that can do many things for not only the United States, but for the people of the world," Crippen told President Reagan, who talked to the astronauts by telephone from the White House.

Reagan told Ms. Ride, "You were there because you were the best for the job. And that is going to be the standard for people who are picked from now on."

Ms. Ride and the other crew members praised Crippen as "the world's greatest commander" and Thagard said, "Bob Crippen is super and I would fly to hell with him."

The delay added an extra two orbits to Challenger's flight and the shuttle touched down at 7:57 a.m. MDT, three hours later than the original time.

The shuttle had got stuck in soft sand on the edge of its takeoff runway as it was being towed to a work area. But it was freed about five hours later and the low resumed.

As the shuttle was being freed from the soft sand, a contingent of 300 space technicians from Cape Canaveral arrived in a chartered jumbo jet to speed up preparations for the return of Challenger to the Kennedy Space Center.

The astronauts meanwhile boarded a jet and left Edwards Air Force Base at 11:37 a.m. MDT for the Johnson Space Center. A crowd of 2,000 tourists and JSC workers welcomed the crew when they arrived in Houston about three hours later.

"We're mighty proud of you," JSC Director Gerald Griffin told the astronauts. The crew joked about a game of "space olympics" held in the orbiter Thursday night when they thought they were not going to land Friday.

"We got things done in an expeditious manner and had a little time left so we decided to see who could float the fastest around the middeck," Hauck said, laughing.

Hauck said Fabian won and Ms. Ride won in her own special category. She was the one and only female to come in second. We had a lot of fun."

The astronauts had breezed through their major mission goals and were in obvious high spirits as they climbed down from Challenger.

"I say once more, what a way to come to California," said Crippen, who made the trip two years ago in the shuttle Columbia, as Challenger touched down.

Concentrated on work Sally Ride praised for setting standards

By BRUCE NICHOLS
United Press International

Sally Ride rode home in triumph Friday but America's modern heroine had praise only for her commander.

Ms. Ride, appearing fresh and spirited despite her trail-blazing six-day voyage in space, modestly accepted President Reagan's fulsome tribute and then joined her crewmates in heaping virtual adulation on mission commander Robert Crippen.

"I would like to thank Crip for being the world's greatest commander," she said in brief remarks at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. "He made a year's worth of training really enjoyable."

"It was more than enjoyable, it was fun," she said. "The thing I will remember most about that flight is that it was fun. In fact, I'm sure it was the most fun I will ever have in my life."

But the effects of her voyage on American women may be incalculable.

"Everyone is relating to Sally Ride today," said Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, who came to Cape Canaveral in hopes of seeing her land. "This is tremendous because it represents what people have been yearning for — to see women able to expand their horizons."

Maurice Reagan, the president's daughter, said, "The really exciting part of being represented by Sally Ride is that instead of taking the attitude 'I'm here because I'm eminently qualified, not because I'm a woman,' she has really assumed a responsibility as a woman and said 'I'm here for everyone.'"

Reagan, in the president's traditional long-distance address to returning astronauts, greeted Crippen first but devoted most of his words to Ms. Ride.

"Well, Dr. Ride," he said, "let me just remind you that when you were at the White House somebody said that the best man for a job was a woman ... You were there for one reason, because you were the best person for the job."

"It's just a most thrilling thing," he concluded. "and I can't tell you how much we appreciate it but also how you've made everyone proud in America."

"Thank you, I appreciate that very much," murmured Ms. Ride.

"I think she was a professional and that's first and most important,"

Social Security head says system on firmer ground

By MARY BETH FRANKLIN
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Social Security system's treatment — and, therefore, its bankruptcy — only a year ago, should be on financially sound footing for the next 75 years due to recent reforms enacted by Congress, the fund's board of trustees said Friday.

But the trustees' view, which says the retirement trust is also financed through payroll taxes, is in serious trouble and could run out of money between 1988 and 1996, depending on the course of the economy.

In the report, the trustees attributed the dramatic improvement in the retirement trust fund to the Social Security reform legislation that Congress approved earlier this year.

"The legislation, which President Reagan signed April 15, calls for higher payroll taxes, a six-month delay in this year's cost-of-living adjustment, taxing half the benefits of wealthy retirees beginning in 1984 and an increased retirement age beginning in 1997.

Without those changes, Social Security would have been unable to pay benefits to the 36 million recipients beyond this month.

As a result of the Social Security reform legislation, the report said the Old Age, Survivors and Disability Trust Fund will be able to pay benefits on time for the next 75 years under all but the most pessimistic assumptions, and at least through the second decade of the next century under a "worst-case" assumption.

However, the report cautioned, the trust-fund levels are expected to be relatively low through 1997.

"Thus if economic conditions during the next few years are worse than those projected under the pessimistic assumptions,"

Bell: Students aren't being challenged enough

By HARRIET GUTHERTZ
Times-News writer

SALT LAKE CITY — The head of the U.S. Education Department believes students are not being challenged enough.

"We've been asking too little of our students. If we don't challenge students, we won't get results," Terrel Bell said Friday at a regional educational conference in Salt Lake City.

Bell, a native of Idaho, along with a host of educators and politicians addressed an audience of more than 400 people from Idaho, Utah, Colorado and Wyoming. They were gathered in Salt Lake City for a day-long discussion of "Nation at Risk," the highly critical federal report on education in America.

The report, issued in April, has provoked a far-ranging debate on the purpose, quality and goals of public education in America.

The Salt Lake meeting was patterned along the lines of similar regional meetings that have been held in Tennessee, New Mexico and Minnesota, among other places.

As scores on college entrance exams have gone down, grade-point averages have gone up, Bell said. High-school teachers now are giving students more "A's" than "C's," he said.

"That fact is a sobering indictment of our failure to enforce standards."

"We've been asking too little of our students."

— Terrel Bell

To reverse the declining performance of American students, Bell said he fully supports the recommendations outlined in the report by the National Commission on Excellence in Education.

Those recommendations include four years of English, three years each of math and science, one semester of computer science and three years of social studies for every high-school student. Two years of foreign language are recommended for college-bound students.

To implement its recommendations, the commission has called upon colleges and universities to raise their admission standards. Friday's forum addressed education problems in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado.

Teaching standards should be improved through higher salaries, as well as a merit-pay incentive system, the Education Department secretary said.

Colleges and universities are not paying enough attention to teacher education, Bell said.

Although money is necessary to bring about changes, Bell said funding is not the only problem. Teachers and parents need to pay more attention to what courses students are taking. There are too many electives and not enough required courses, he said.

While Bell agreed that the federal government has to play a continual role in civil-rights enforcement and in the education of handicapped students, he said the primary burden for improving the nation's public school systems must fall on the states.

Education is to the state, as defense is to the federal government, Bell said. It's going to be painful, but states will have to raise taxes.

"I am not one who agrees there should be no federal role in education," he said. The federal government needs to provide comparative information on schools throughout the '80 states, as well as research from experimental efforts.

But mainly the task will be up to the states and when they increase their education budgets, Bell urged legislators to formulate a well-thought-out plan of action.

Legislators should demand results from their investment, he said, citing lower teacher-to-student ratios as a misplaced effort. In 1956, there was one teacher for every 26 students, Bell said. In 1981, there was one faculty member for each 19 students, but student performance has declined during that period.

Map facing jail takes own life

BOISE (UPI) — A man who was due to be sentenced on welfare fraud charges apparently hung himself less than 24 hours before his scheduled court hearing, authorities say.

Canyon County Prosecutor Richard Harris said Friday the body of Jon C. Humphreys, who faced a possible prison term for defrauding the state of $20,500, was found about 5:30 p.m. Thursday by a neighbor at his home near Middleton.

An autopsy revealed the man died of strangulation by hanging, Harris said in a telephone interview from Caldwell. He declined to discuss other details of the examination, but said the investigation was continuing. Humphreys, 40, also was charged with two felonies, were convicted April 15 by a Third District Court jury of obtaining public assistance benefits without reporting much of their income and assets.

"We're treating it as a suicide at the moment," Harris said, adding it appeared the man wanted to avoid a prison term.

Second plea in DeLorean case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A second co-defendant charged with John DeLorean in an alleged $24 million cocaine deal unexpectedly pleaded guilty Friday, leaving the flamboyant automaker to face the drug trafficking charges alone.

Stephen Arrington, held since his October arrest on $250,000 bail, pleaded guilty to two counts of the federal grand jury indictment, U.S. District Judge Robert Takasugi scheduled sentencing for Aug. 25. Arrington, 37, pleaded guilty to two counts of conspiracy to distribute cocaine, federal attorneys agreed not to prosecute Arrington, 24, for crimes "which may become known to the government as a result of the ongoing investigation in this case."

DeLorean and Arrington were indicted last October on charges they planned to buy and distribute 220 pounds of cocaine. Prosecutors alleged the conspiracy was designed to help bail out the financially ailing DeLorean Motorcar Co. in Northern Ireland.

Planes crash during drug bust

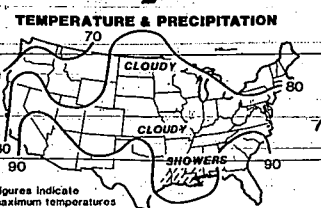

HILLTONIA, Ga. (UPI) — A twin-engine plane loaded with marijuana and being chased by drug enforcement agents in several other planes crashed near the South Carolina border and minutes later a search plane crashed nearby. Three people were reported killed.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Roger Myers said Customs agents were tracking the cargo plane Thursday from newswires in the Caribbean when it crashed and burst into flames.

The plane with two people aboard whose bodies were burned beyond recognition was apparently found for a "clandestine strip" about one-quarter mile from the crash site.

Witnesses said Customs agents in several planes were chasing the twin-engine cargo plane when it crashed and burst into flames. The plane was near a landing strip on Wade Plantation in rural Screven County.

Soviet envoy nearly mugged

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The attempted mugging of a Soviet diplomat in San Francisco has brought an official protest from Moscow and an apology from the U.S. Embassy.

O.V. Plotnikov was leaving his car early Wednesday to open his garage door when he was hit over the head by two men who then went through his pockets.

But the two men fled before stealing anything. Plotnikov was treated at the scene by a city ambulance crew for head lacerations.

The Soviet Union formally protested the assault Friday and a U.S. Embassy spokesman expressed official regrets for the incident and promised the incident was under full investigation.

Movie makers plead in trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Director John Landis and four assistants pleaded innocent Friday to involuntary manslaughter in the death of actor Vic Morrow and two children in a helicopter crash during filming of the "Twilight Zone."

Landis and his colleagues, flanked by attorneys, elbowed their way through a corridor packed with reporters and television cameras to the courtroom to hear charges handed down last week by the County Grand Jury.

Cameraman scrambles subject

LONDON (UPI) — A BBC cameraman sent to film a nest of birds' eggs near a high-speed railroad track lunged into the subject of his documentary and scrambled it.

Cameraman John Reay was commissioned by the British Broadcasting Corp. to film an oyster-catcher — a common seabird — that built its nest inches below a high-speed "Britrail" track in Anglesy, northern Wales.

All week long, express trains had been hurtling by at 75 mph, with nary a scratch to the three mottled brown eggs in the nest. Railroad men said the parent birds sometimes even huddled on the track as they thundered by above them.

So out came Reay with his camera Thursday night. Walking up the tracks, he heard a crackle underfoot. "You've stood in it," said a horrified railman.

There on the tracks was the nest — scrambled underfoot.

Shultz continues to the Orient

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz, his airplane repaired during an unplanned overnight stop, resumed his two-week journey Friday in support of U.S. trade in Southeast Asia.

Shultz was en route to the Philippines Thursday but was delayed at Elmendorf Air Force Base in Anchorage because of the failure of a hydraulic pump in his nearly 30-year-old Boeing 707.

A replacement pump arrived overnight with mechanics flown in to make the repairs and Shultz resumed his trip to Manila at 9 a.m. EDT. A refueling stop was planned in Tokyo.

said Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson, NASA associate administrator for space flight. "I think it's her professional performance that established her own competence and the competence of the other women astronauts."

Retired astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton, who now works for a private space-related firm, echoed Abrahamson's assessment and said he agreed with Ms. Ride that it was almost "insulting" to have so much made of her womanhood.

"She did a super job as we all knew she would and I don't know why anybody should be surprised," Slayton said. "It doesn't matter whether they're male or female, black, white or purple, what counts is that they're technically competent."

Astronaut Guion S. "Giy" Bluford Jr., who will be the first black American in space on the next shuttle mission, said Ms. Ride's mission took some of the pressure off him.

"She is sort of carrying the spear and getting a lot of attention and I appreciate that because I think that relieves me of a lot of that attention," Bluford said.

Ms. Ride was reserved, at times to the point of coolness, in public appearances before the mission but she blossomed into exuberance in space.

"Surely she was exuberant," Abrahamson said. "She's well known (in the space corps) for being a cheerful and eager crew member."

Security

It is possible for Social Security again to experience financial difficulties in the near future," it said.

The projections are affected by demographic factors such as mortality and fertility rates that determine the number of workers paying Social Security taxes and the number of retired and disabled people and their dependents that receive benefits.

The projections are also influenced by unemployment, which reduces the amount of payroll taxes collected, and inflation that affected the level of wages and Social Security benefits.

The report noted that for the first time since 1974, the combined retirement trust funds increased, recording a net rise of $200 million in 1982. The positive showing came at the expense of the Medicare trust fund, however, which loaned the retirement and disability trust fund $12.4 billion last year.

"The present financing schedule for the hospital-insurance program is barely adequate to ensure the payment of benefits through the end of this decade," the report said. The most optimistic view predicts the fund will last until 1996.

Court strikes Reagan action

By BARBARA ROSEWICZ
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court Friday struck down one of President Reagan's earliest attempts at deregulation, ruling 9-0 his administration illegally killed a rule requiring air bags or automatic seat belts in new cars.

The justices concluded the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration failed to cite good enough reasons for scrapping the automatic crash protection requirements in October 1981, 10 months before they were to take effect.

The action will not automatically force new cars to come equipped with either self-closing seat belts or air bags, which are stowed under the dashboard and inflate in a crash.

Instead, it gives the safety agency a second chance to rescind the rule if it chooses, but for better reasons than "uncertainty" that the new equipment would save enough lives to be worth the $1 billion cost.

The Reagan administration had no immediate comment on whether it will push to rescind the rule again.

Attorney General William French Smith said he was disappointed the court did not uphold the traffic agency's rescission of the seat belt and air bag rule.

But Smith also claimed a victory in the way the high court analyzed the agency's attempt to deregulate, saying it clearly rejected harsher standards that had been "a great threat to the administration's efforts to reduce the current regulatory burden on our economy."

Justice Byron White, writing for the court, declared the agency acted "arbitrarily and capriciously" when it killed the regulation soon after the Reagan White House announced policies intended to help the ailing auto industry.

"An agency changing its course by rescinding a rule is obligated to supply a reasoned analysis for the change," said White.

The highway safety administration, he suggested, was "too quick" to junk the regulation.

Reagan's Latin policy not backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House, citing "a drumbeat of negativism from Congress" and misunderstanding by the public, acknowledged Friday that support for President Reagan's Central America policy appears to be slipping.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said polls and other political soundings indicate "we are seeing some reversal" of the signs of support that followed Reagan's April 27 speech to a joint session of Congress.

His comments to reporters came after about 20 House members — many of them conservatives and all backers of the president — urged Reagan in a White House meeting to take stronger steps to sell his policies to the people.

Reagan used the meeting to reinforce his argument that leftist guerrillas in El Salvador could succeed if his request for $110 million in additional military aid for the country's U.S.-backed government is not approved.

Legislators and scholars alike warned the high court ruling, rather than giving the executive branch license to flout the wishes of Congress with impunity, could put the president and his staffers on a short leash.

Congress ponders loss of vetoes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress, stunned by the Supreme Court decision wiping out its legislative-veto power, Friday pondered new strategies for imposing its will on the president and the agencies and departments under his jurisdiction.

Legislators and scholars alike warned the high court ruling, rather than giving the executive branch license to flout the wishes of Congress with impunity, could put the president and his staffers on a short leash.

While lawyers tried to gauge the extent to which Thursday's decision will alter the way the nation is governed, leaders of Congress scurried to

More than 200 laws containing legislative veto provisions have been written in the past 50 years, with 60 still in effect. They have long been a bone of contention. Several past presidents, in signing bills containing legislative veto provisions, have said they would not honor such vetoes.

Mistake frees flood waters, forces evacuation of homes

PARKER, Ariz. (UPI) — Devastating floodwaters released from three dams into the Colorado River because of government miscalculations rushed downstream Friday, forcing the evacuation of an agricultural area on the U.S.-Mexico border.

The swollen river rose by 30 feet on either side in the hard-hit Parker area and work crews tried to shore up Highway 95 with boulders, sandbags and plastic to keep the road open.

Officials in the border city of Mexicali said about 5,000 peasants have already been evacuated from 1,500 square miles of cotton farming land in the southern Mexicali Valley and preparations have been made to move out another 10,000 people if the big rush of water hits Sunday night or Monday morning as expected.

Mexican officials said about 55,000 acres would be under water by Saturday with the worst yet to come as people prepared to flee the river to stay with family and friends.

Roberto de la Madrid, the governor of Baja California, Mexico, flew over the area Friday and Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt toured flooding areas in his state, saying, "I think the damage is really beginning to add up."

"It's going to get a lot worse," Babbitt said. "This is going to be a long drawn out, excruciating thing."

Babbitt asked federal officials to tell him by Monday the odds of the water releases being increased.

Veto set for tax-cut limit; some say it hurts economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan Friday called the House-passed ceiling on the July 1 income tax cut "political gimmickry" that threatens economic recovery and said he will veto the measure if it reaches his desk.

"Let the American people know that their full 10 percent tax cut due on July 1 will go into effect on schedule," Reagan said in a written statement.

"The American people have worked hard for this economic recovery to see it now thrown to the winds of political gimmickry."

The House voted Thursday to limit the tax cut, the last phase of Reagan's three-year 25 percent income tax reduction, to a $720 per return. The 229-191 vote indicated sponsors would not be able to muster the two-thirds needed to override a veto.

Reagan expressed confidence the bill, sponsored by House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, would be defeated in the Senate.

"I am confident that the Senate next week will defeat this ill-advised, misguided and politically motivated proposal," he said.

Lifting of Polish martial law rumored

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Government officials hinted Friday that Poland's military leaders might soon lift martial law, but said the government would not negotiate directly with the banned Solidarity trade union.

"Solidarity has passed into history as a result of the political direction taken by its former leaders. It is a closed chapter," government spokesman Jerzy Urban told a news conference.

Commenting on two meetings between Pope John Paul II and Communist Party chief Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski during the pontiff's visit which ended Thursday, Urban said the exchanges were "frank and businesslike." Like the Vatican, he declined to give any details of what was said.

But clues emerged in two statements by government ministers that martial law, imposed Dec. 13, 1981, could end shortly.

Justice Minister Sylwester Zawadzki told the government daily Rzeczpospolita. "In the context of calmed-down public opinion ... the moment of lifting martial law does not seem to be far removed."

Labor leaders exiled for calling Chile strike

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The military government Friday banished three labor leaders to internal exile and summoned seven other union activists to court in an attempt to end the most serious labor strike in 10 years.

The government said the three banished labor leaders were charged with violating national security laws. They will spend three months under house arrest in three different villages in the south, the government said.

The regime of President Gen. Augusto Pinochet acted against the labor leaders on the second day of a nationwide general strike to force early elections and win the release of jailed labor leaders.

The strike failed to win widespread support from all Chile's unions but a spokesman for the powerful Truck Owners Union said over 80 percent of the country's 75,000 trucks were at a standstill.

Unofficial talks have begun with government officials, he said.

The three, who were seized from their homes Saturday, include the president of the National Building Workers union, Sergio Troncoso.

Four leaders of the truckers' union and three representatives of the bus and taxi owners unions were summoned to court to testify in the trial of truckers' chief, Adolfo Quinteros.

Quinteros has been charged with calling a general strike, the first since the military overthrew the elected government of Marxist President Salvador Allende in 1973.

Rebel: Journalists warned prior to fatal rocket attack

CIFUENTES, Honduras (UPI) — Two U.S. journalists killed by rocket fire ignored warnings to steer clear of a combat zone where fighting raged between Nicaraguan troops and rebels, a Honduran army captain said Friday.

The three, who were seized from their homes Saturday, include the president of the National Building Workers union, Sergio Troncoso.

"They told me they had to go on from here to gather information. They insisted they had to go," said Capt. Ricardo Soto Zayas, who was probably the last person to talk to the Americans.

Dial — Torgerson, 55, Mexico City bureau chief for the Los Angeles Times, and Richard Cross, 33, a photographer on assignment for U.S. News and World Report, died when their car was hit by a rocket-propelled grenade Tuesday near Las Trojes.

Salas Zevala said M-60 machine gunfire peppered the area around the car after the blast.

His was the first report that the journalists had entered a combat zone, rather than having been ambushed in an isolated attack.

The road to the village of Las Trojes, two miles from Cifuentes, runs right along the tense Nicaraguan-Honduran border.

U.S.-backed counter-revolutionary Nicaraguan rebels opposed to the leftist government in Managua have been attacking Nicaraguan government forces from Honduras for the past year.

The Honduran government and the U.S. State Department blamed the Sandinista regime for deliberately killing the newsmen, while the Managua government denied the accusations.

India's worst flood in years claims lives of at least 300

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Swirling monsoon floods have left more than 300 people dead or missing and have stranded thousands of others in the western state of Gujarat, an Indian news agency said today.

Thousands of marooned villagers were evacuated to higher ground by army troops with rubber boats and volunteers, and air force helicopters dropped food packets to those stranded by the floods, as well by four days of steady rain, the Press Trust of India said, quoting officials.

Gujarat deputy revenue minister Mohammad Hussain Baloch told reporters in Ahmadabad, 450 miles southwest of New Delhi, that 133 people were confirmed dead and 166 others were missing and believed dead in the coastal Junagadh district.

Six other people in neighboring areas drowned or died when their thatch-roofed houses collapsed, police said.

The floods also devastated crops and herds.

Cheap home loans offered with restrictions

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Officials at the Idaho Housing Agency predicted that the $30.7 million in its latest low-interest loan program might be snapped up quickly by eager home buyers.

The forecast — made by Chairman Hugh Coats — may prove restrained, even though formal applications officially cannot be filed with the state agency until July 14. Prospective buyers may have to hunt around to take advantage of the 10.21 percent interest rate being offered under the state program.

Buyers can register for the loans through area lenders who are participating in the program.

Prospective buyers apparently have been anticipating a second issue of low-interest money this year, after the scramble in April to take advantage of a 10.27 percent financing rate offered by the Idaho Housing Agency. That $15.3 million disappeared rapidly.

Business has been brisk for that initial money at some Magic Valley institutions: TransAmerica Mortgage Co., which handles a large volume of home lending in southern Idaho, already has committed the $1.5 million available for this half of the state, says Twin Falls branch manager Mike McMurray.

Home Federal Savings manager Gary W. Karnes reports many inquiries about the program, but he says his institution still has some of its allotment available.

The new program, announced Thursday, should stretch to about 700 loans statewide — 60 percent for new construction and 40 percent for existing houses, Robert Kucab, the executive director of the agency, said Friday.

There are some important income qualifications. A single person can have an income of no more than $25,000; a couple's maximum is $26,500; and for each dependent, the limit rises $1,500.

The program is geared to help people who cannot afford the conventional market, Kucab says. The $25,000 restriction is the salary a single person would need to afford a $75,000 house, the median price for an Idaho home, he says.

The 10.21-percent interest rates gives that buyer a 1.79 percent break on the lowest rate generally available, which is for Federal Housing Administration financing.

If the buyer is purchasing a $50,000 dwelling, that translates to a $68 savings on each monthly payment, according to McMurray at TransAmerica.

There is two important catches to the program.

It's intended to benefit new home buyers, so prospective borrowers cannot have owned a home during the last three years. The only exceptions are in specifically designated counties. In the Magic Valley, those are Cassia, Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln.

Second, loans cannot exceed $57,000 for existing properties and $65,000 for newly built homes. Mobile homes are eligible if they are placed on borrower-owned land and on a permanent foundation.

The mortgages can be "bought down" by sellers to make them more affordable, Kucab says. Sellers can deposit money to secure the mortgage and therefore, reduce the buyer's interest rate as much as 2 percent over the first three years of the mortgage, he says.

McMurray notes that the Idaho Housing Agency has some slightly stiffer requirements for figuring a buyer's repayment capability than FHA financing.

Still, though, the demand for the bargain interest rate is so large that each state bond issue still attracts more interest than it can satisfy.

"I think we're seeing a better use of our programs because we have a broader group of lenders and we have better coverage across the state," Kucab says. High market interest rates also have played a part in increasing demand, he says.

Lenders who are participating in the program and have offices in the Magic Valley are listed below. Also listed are the amounts from the new bond issue that those institutions will lend throughout the state.

The institutions are: Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, $500,000; First Interstate Bank of Idaho, $1.9 million; United Security Mortgage Co., $1.2 million; TransAmerica Mortgage Co., $3.1 million; Idaho First National Bank, $2.5 million; First Security Bank of Idaho, $3.2 million; and Idaho Bank and Trust Co., $3.2 million.

Some lenders may accept early applications for the loans, but none can be closed until July 14, the day when the state agency will close the bond issue used to finance the loans, Kucab says.

Parking in a space reserved for the handicapped no longer constitutes merely bad manners. As of July 1, it could cost $25.

Crackdown on 'reserved' parking not a joke

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Come next Friday, parking in a space reserved for handicapped drivers will be more than just poor manners.

A new law, which will go into effect July 1, establishes a $25 fine for unauthorized use of those parking spaces.

Even handicapped drivers could face the fine, however.

The law requires handicapped drivers to obtain a special license plate in order to use the spaces.

These plates, which cost the same as regular license plates — ranging from $15.60 to $36 — are available through the state Transportation Department.

Department officials will require a doctor's signed statement, attesting to the individual's handicap, says Debyl McCormick, an employee of the department.

The new law is not without its bugs, however. Statewide, some police officers predict some enforcement problems as officials work with the definition of handicapped drivers.

Another potential pitfall lies in identifying spaces to be reserved for handicapped drivers. Ultimately, enforcement rests on specifying what spaces will be reserved for handicapped drivers. That requirement puts the burden on merchants and city officials to put up signs that identify the special parking areas.

Jury decrees Accused innocent of burglary charge

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A seven-woman, five-man jury has sifted through more than two days of often-conflicting testimony and has proclaimed a 21-year-old Twin Falls man innocent of the drug-related burglary of a veterinary clinic.

Modrell's story with testimony from Kevin Eckdohr of Kimberly, who said he saw the two leave with a shotgun prior to the burglary. Another prosecution witness, Gustav Bubb, now an inmate in the state penitentiary, said he saw Modrell and Cummings return later that night with the shotgun and drugs.

But Cummings emphatically denied his involvement. Instead, he characterized Modrell as a heavy drug user who frequently begged rides from him.

"When he was straight, he was decent. When he was high, he was whacked out," Cummings said.

In so doing, the jury rejected the testimony of Randy Wayne Cummings, co-defendant, 30-year-old James Thomas Modrell, of 510 Fourth Ave. E. in Twin Falls. He is awaiting sentencing for the Feb. 16 burglary of the Twin Falls Veterinary Clinic, 260 Second Ave. S.

On the night in question, Cummings said he gave Modrell a ride downtown and stopped to drink two beers at a Twin Falls bar. Modrell showed up just as he was leaving the bar, Cummings said.

Modrell fingered Cummings, of 276 Polk St., as the man who stood guard, armed with a sawed-off shotgun, while he removed narcotics from the clinic. The defendant took the witness stand in his own defense and denied the allegation.

The defendant said he did not become aware of the burglary until Modrell showed him the drugs.

The burglary was one of a series reported last winter. Although some of the narcotics could be traced by humans, others produced adverse side effects.

That proved to be Modrell's undoing. Police arrested the two men when Modrell turned up ill at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Another defense witness, Vennie Osborn of Boise, said she overheard Eckdohr implicate himself in the burglary. That disclosure led defense lawyer Leon Smith to contend that Modrell had cooked up the story to protect Eckdohr.

Essentially a choice between the credibility of the two defendants, the jury, which ended Thursday, pit Modrell, convicted felon and admitted hard-drug user, against Cummings, an aspiring baseball player with no prior felony convictions.

"Randy was a kid, a patsy. He's not part of this group, so he's a good one to sock with this," Smith said. Modrell had "sucked the police into believing his story and he's sucked the prosecutors into believing his story," he said.

Modrell claimed that the defendant helped plan the burglary and that he supplied the weapon.

Prosecutors attempted to verify

Despite deputy prosecutor Dennis Voorhees' contention that Cummings was "no Boy Scout," the jury acted quickly. Its unanimous verdict came less than two hours after it began its deliberations.

City wants to expand fire protection system

By KELLY EVERITT
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — City Council in Ketchum this week directed its engineers to begin preparing an application for a federal grant to expand the downtown municipal water system.

Although not directly related to the Quibbler Square fire in Ketchum last month, the proposed project would be designed primarily to improve fire protection. It would create a grid of eight- and 10-inch mains throughout the downtown area. Additional fire hydrants also would be installed.

Currently, the city has only one "loop" of large pipelines for fire protection in the area. "Fortunately, it runs right by (Giacobbi Square)," says City Manager Jim Jaquet.

Jaquet says a private company, Ketchum Spring Water, currently provides water for domestic use in the downtown area. And while there have been no or few complaints by merchants with regard to waterline pressures. In the event of a fire, water pressures and supplies may not be adequate, he says. The private company does not, for example, have its own water storage facilities.

The proposed grid of water lines would be hooked up to the city's municipal water storage tank.

Currently, Jaquet says, the city requires developers to provide adequate water lines at their own expense. But he says, "we want to go ahead and be prepared as opposed to 20 different piecemeal projects" to guarantee an adequate water system for both current use and future expansion of the city's commercial area.

The city manager says the area most threatened by lack of an adequate water system is in the rapidly expanding commercial area in the vicinity of the post office.

Jaquet says an effort to create a local improvement district for the same purpose failed several years ago when property owners in the downtown area, who felt water supplies and pressures were adequate at the time, objected to the additional tax load.

"But the municipality is responsible (for fire protection), and we feel there is a need" for the upgrading and expansion of the existing system, Jaquet says.

The city is expected to submit its application for the community development block grant by Oct. 1. If approved, construction could "hopefully begin by the summer of '84," Jaquet says. The project could be completed the same summer, he says.

Jaquet says the project meets most of the criteria for block-grant funding.

The exact cost of the project has not been determined, but the similar improvement-district proposal had been expected to cost $600,000 at the time it was rejected.

In other action at this week's council meeting, the city tabled for two weeks any final action on Sun Valley Cablevision's request for a rate hike of approximately 10 percent. In order to complete consultation with Sun Valley city officials, the two cities are the only two in the county served by the cable firm that have not granted the rate hike yet.

BLM land sales rebuked, supported at forum

By HAL BERTNON
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Harold Brown said he could not decide which shirt to wear to a Thursday night forum in Sun Valley on public lands.

Brown, a Shoshone-based federal Bureau of Land Management official, joked that he considered donning either his "Save Our Public Lands" or "Ketchum Ten-Miler" T-shirt before finally settling on a red-checked, collared affair.

No matter what shirt he wore, Brown was in for a long evening. His task was to explain and defend the BLM's proposed sale of 14,365 acres of Idaho's federal lands to skeptical environmentalists and the few ranchers who attended the forum, sponsored by the Idaho Conservation League and American Institute of the West.

The sales will mark Idaho's first step in helping implement President Ronald Reagan's "asset-management plan," designed to reduce the federal debt through the sale of "surplus" federal properties.

The 14,365 acres proposed for sale in fiscal year 1984, which starts Oct. 1, represents only a small fraction of the some 12 million acres that the BLM now manages in Idaho, Brown said. And even the up to 175,000 acres that the agency contemplates selling "in the foreseeable future" represents less than 2 percent of its total Idaho lands.

Despite the limited acreage involved, there is no doubt that the proposed sales are a sensitive subject among environmentalists who fear their impact on wildlife habitat.

Different factions speak rushed early phase, in which he said his organization had little time to review — difficult to organize — information about the lands proposed for sale.

Working with BLM officials, Boccord said that his organization found that three archeological sites in the Shoshone District are included in proposed sale tracts, and that the Burley District is considering selling a tract containing a spur of the old California Trail.

Turmpuss said that 440 acres proposed for sale in the Shoshone District include prime sagegrouse hunting acreage and antelope migration paths.

"Decisions are being based on incomplete and inadequate data," Boccord said. "The Shoshone District has completed a land-use plan of its western half, but not its eastern half."

Brown replied that no land will be placed in a final sale category until it has been fully analyzed in a land-use plan. And he challenged Boccord's view that the land-sale program suddenly was sprung on an unprepared public.

According to Brown, even before Reagan announced his plan, the BLM's Shoshone District had completed a planning document that outlined the lands proposed for future sale.

Brown said the document, which took "three years to complete, included input from three public meetings and contacts with interested individuals and groups."

"We spent several years on this planning process and involved a lot of people," he said. "And we're

RONALD STOLESON — Represented Forest Service endangered species and archeological sites.

And the proposed sales also have raised the hackles of ranchers, who worry that ranches and resort homes may end up being built on some of the lands they now lease from the government for grazing.

Thursday's lively forum brought Brown together with Sawtooth National Forest supervisor Ronald Stoleson, state Fish and Game official Dale Turmpuss, Blaine County rancher-turned-real-estate broker Frank Deeds and the Idaho Conservation League's Bruce Boccord.

"We are not opposed to public land sales," Boccord said. "But we believe that any sales process should be open to public involvement from the start. This program has not met that criteria."

Boccord criticized the program's going to think pretty hard before we decide to amend the plan."

The BLM also was taken to task by Deeds, the rancher representative on the panel.

"This program has come to us a little too quickly. We thought the ranchers would be getting first option to buy on (BLM) lands within our grazing leases."

Deeds pinpointed two proposed sale tracts in the Fish Creek basin that have raised the ire of Blaine County ranchers. The two tracts, totaling 280 acres, are prime development sites with county road frontage, electric-power access and zoning that would permit their subdivision into 16-acre plots.

But the tracts, Deeds said, also are "right smack in the middle of our lands."

The sale of these tracts to developers would hurt cattle grazing patterns and force ranchers to complete sales off their land borders. The ranchers would be getting first option to buy on (BLM) lands within our grazing leases."

Deeds said the sale also would disrupt sheep migration patterns, since one proposed tract is a popular stopover for some 20 bands of sheep on their annual trek to mountain pastures.

Brown said that in some land sales, ranchers will be given a right to match the high bid on acreages within their grazing allotments. He said that some 200 to 300 ranchers may be affected by the proposed sales.

Judge refuses motion

Rape conviction will stand

By MARTY TRILLHASE Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Thomas Livingston's conviction on charges that he raped an elderly woman in her home last winter will stand, Judge Theron Ward ruled Friday.

But a lawyer for the 27-year-old Livingston said he'll continue to fight the conviction.

"I anticipate that we will be appealing, and public defender Mike Powers said he will do research that, but there are certainly other grounds that we'll be looking into."

Powers contends that the evidence in the case did not justify a 10-man, two-woman jury decision last week to convict Livingston of rape, burglary and grand theft charges.

Livingston is awaiting sentencing from his cell in the Twin Falls County Jail. He faces serving up to a life sentence for the rape. He is 5'11, 220 pounds and has brown hair. Jury members also concluded that Livingston stole the woman's jewelry, cash and car.

Powers contends the verdict was based on speculation. The strongest evidence against Livingston put him in the victim's stolen car in Jackpot, where he was arrested about two-and-a-half hours after the incident. Beyond that, the case against Livingston rested on evidence that Powers described as being inconclusive.

Powers attacked the victim's positive identification of Livingston as her assailant as being inconsistent with her earlier statements. Her initial description of the attacker differed from Livingston's appearance, and the woman later failed to identify Livingston at a Dec. 30 preliminary hearing, he said.

"I think she went more on a feeling than anything," Powers said.

No independent evidence put Livingston at the crime scene, Powers said. Chemical tests of semen stains taken from the crime scene showed only that the attacker and Livingston share the same blood-enzyme combination. But an estimated 11.5 percent of the American public possess the same blood-enzyme makeup, he said.

Even the testimony of a "surprise" witness, who claimed Livingston privately had confessed to the crime, was not sufficient to warrant a conviction, Powers said.

Late in their case, prosecutors produced Fred Friel of Twin Falls, who said that Livingston had admitted committing the crime while he was free on bond. Powers challenged the credibility of Friel's testimony, and he produced two witnesses, Almo Campbell and the defendant's brother, John Livingston, who said they were present at the time and heard no such conversation.

Ward countered that he would not second-guess a jury that was free to give whatever weight it chose to Friel's testimony or any other evidence.

"I'll agree that I could go back and disregard the entire findings of the jury, but I'm not going to do it," Ward said.

Prosecutors want to complete Livingston's sentencing hearing by mid-July.

Burglars rob sleeping Little League team

TWIN FALLS — Burglars struck a visiting Little League baseball team early Friday, taking more than $300 worth of clothing, equipment and food, according to Twin Falls police.

"Baseball players Justin Kohl,

Chuck MacFarlane, Darin Monk and Rich Stephenson, all of Salmon, were sleeping in tents pitched at Harmon Park, when the burglars struck, police said.

None of the victims awoke during the burglary, which police believe happened between 2 and 5:30 a.m.

Among the items taken were a suitcase, duffel bags, uniforms and an ice chest.

Keith Allen Newhouse

GLENN'S FERRY — Keith Allen Newhouse, 73, of Mountain Home, and formerly of Glenn's Ferry, died Wednesday in a Mountain Home hospital.

Born July 4, 1909, in Gooding, he was raised and educated in Gooding and King Hill.

He married Lillian M. Anderson on Aug. 8, 1934, at King Hill.

He has been working for the Idaho Power Co. in 1956 at Caldwell. During his 38 years with the company, he also had worked at Glenn's Ferry, McColl, Gooding and Boise.

Mr. Newhouse moved to Mountain Home last July.

He was a member of the Episcopal Church and the Payette Lakes Masonic Lodge in McColl.

Survivors include his wife of Mountain Home, B. Kay Newhouse of Richland, Wash., and Noel Newhouse of Boise; a daughter, Judy Gibbons of Mountain Home; and nine grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. today at Humphreys Funeral Home in Mountain Home, with Masonic Lodge members and Faber William Waltz officiating.

The family suggests that memorial contributions be made to a favorite charity.

Kenaston-Nichols-of-Salt-Lake-City-a sister, Lois Kenaston Nichols of Rupert; 14 grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, a brother and a stepson.

The funeral will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the Baptist Church in Shoshone. Burial will be in the Shoshone Chapel of Shoshone in charge of arrangements.

Friends may call at the funeral home all day Sunday and prior to the service, Monday.

Hermine Boesiger

SHOSHONE — Hermine Boesiger, 82, of Shoshone, died Thursday evening at Gooding Memorial Hospital, following a long illness.

Born July 20, 1900, in Switzerland, she was married to Adolph Boesiger on Oct. 10, 1917, in Geneva, Switzerland.

They came to the United States that same year, and they farmed north of Shoshone from then until 1948. She had lived in Shoshone and Gooding since then.

Mrs. Boesiger was a member of the Shoshone First Baptist Church, a lifetime member of the Bergin Funeral Chapel of the Wood River Center Grange.

She was a Gold Star mother, having lost a son in World War II.

Survivors include two sons, John Boesiger of Burley and Ernest Boesiger of Shoshone; two daughters, Mrs. Rosa Cole and Mrs. Clara Hansen, both of Gooding; a teacher, Mrs. Helen and a sister, Betty Schanz, both of Switzerland; 15 grandchildren; and 21 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, a son, a daughter, five brothers and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Shoshone Baptist Church, with the Rev. Ray Reeder officiating. Burial will be in Shoshone Cemetery.

Bergin Funeral Chapel of Shoshone is in charge of arrangements.

George H. Kenaston

SHOSHONE — George H. Kenaston, 78, of Shoshone, died Thursday at the Nampa Care Center in Nampa.

Born June 10, 1905, in Hagerman, he moved with his family to Rupert where he was a child. After graduating from Rupert High School, he farmed and later learned the carpentry trade from his father-in-law.

On July 7, 1929, he married Anna Mae Long, and they moved to Shoshone in 1934, where he continued doing custom thrashing in Dietrich and Shoshone, and carpentry work.

In 1951, he and his sons built a shop on the back of his property, and he began a small-engine repair business that he operated until his illness.

He was a member of the Shoshone Methodist Church and the Masonic Lodge, Bethany Chapter, No. 21, in the lodge, Mr. Kenaston was a master for four terms, and he also was deputy grand master for two years. In addition, he was a member of the Royal Arch Masons of the Eastern Star at Shoshone.

In 1970, he became a member of the Idaho Old Time Fiddlers Association, and he enjoyed playing at nursing homes and benefits all over Idaho.

Survivors include his wife of Shoshone; four sons, Wilburn Henry "Bud" Andrew of Nampa, Wilfred Ralph Andrew of Alameda, Calif., George Warren "Casey" Kenaston of Fair Station, Va., and Clair H. Kenaston of Belmont, Calif.; a daughter, Judith Warren of Elkridge, Md.; a brother, W. Boyd

Accident leaves 600 residents 'powerless'

TWIN FALLS — An estimated 600 Idaho Power customers in Twin Falls were without electricity briefly on Friday, when a motorist lost control of his pickup truck and struck a power pole.

The driver, Carl Eugene Jackson, 21, of Route 1, Jerome, was not injured in the accident. However, he has been cited for negligent driving.

Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies said Jackson was traveling south on Blue Lakes Boulevard North when his right front wheel crossed over the top of a crab about seven-tenths of a mile north of Pole Line Road.

The driver was unable to bring the wheel back to the road, and he couldn't stop the truck before it crashed into the pole, deputies said.

Power was shut off to customers north of Falls Avenue, east of Madison Street, and west of Washington Street when the pole was hit at about 10:20 a.m.

The service was restored within 20 minutes.

Ketchum man makes deal in large Boise cocaine case

BOISE (UPI) — One of the 12 persons facing cocaine charges in connection with the largest seizure of the narcotic in Idaho history has pleaded guilty to two crimes and agreed to testify against the other defendants.

According to U.S. District Court officials, Jock Bell, 39, of Ketchum, pleaded guilty on Friday to delivery and conspiracy to deliver cocaine. Three related charges were dismissed in exchange, they said.

A plea-bargain agreement — signed by Bell, defense attorney Byron Johnson and assistant U.S. attorney Ron Howen — said Bell would be available to testify against the other defendants when the case goes to trial Oct. 3.

The defense lawyer declined to comment on the plea-bargain, and Howen was unavailable for comment Friday.

Bell faces a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison and fines of $25,000 on each charge when he is sentenced this Wednesday by Judge Marion Callister.

The Ketchum man was one of 12 persons arrested after narcotics agents seized about seven pounds of what they said was 80-percent pure cocaine on Feb. 25 at a Boise motel.

Prosecutors said two of the defendants sold the drugs to police for $187,500.

Narcotics agents said they began making drug purchases from the defendants last August. When they completed the arrests in February, officers also confiscated a cache of paraphernalia, address books, receipts and lists of customers' telephone numbers, they said.

Have song, . . . Traveling musical minister settles in Twin Falls

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

"On the first day, God made light and created the day and night. The night for sleeping, the day to see, and God said, 'It looks good to me.'"

TWIN FALLS — As illustrated in a verse of his song, "It Is Good," Keith Brudevold sings a simple message of God.
For four years, Brudevold, 37, has traveled across the country to churches of many faiths. He has performed on guitar, sang his original music and focused on young audiences.

Recently, the singing minister, his wife, Charlene, and their two children, moved to Twin Falls, Tenn., to make Twin Falls their home — and headquarters for his non-traditional ministry.
Brudevold was not always a voyaging troubadour. His roots were in the pulpit.

A native of Minnesota, his father and grandfather were both United Methodist ministers. He followed their footsteps and became a pastor at a Minneapolis church for four years.

During that time, he saw how a guitar had brought men together in song at a religious retreat, and he thought to himself, "I had real fun in my ministry." So, he learned to play.

With the few chords he knew, Brudevold wrote "It Is Good," a children's song about the creation. He began writing more songs, with half of them aimed at the young.
Brudevold then moved to Nashville. The city, he says, was not only a center of the church, but also the music capital.
After a year as an associate pastor, he made the decision to take his musical message on the road, which he could do with his songs. He also would teach adults how to use music in their Christian lessons to children.

"There's a need for people who are willing to get down on a children's level and really minister to them through music. What I found is that I have an ability to relate to children."
Brudevold makes his living from the donations taken after his programs, which are family-oriented and non-denominational. He also receives money from the sale of his album of children's songs.

A tall, lean man, Brudevold is a visual performer. While singing about the Biblical story of Joseph and his coat of many colors, Brudevold wears a multi-colored garment. On his head is an old straw hat to catch the children's attention, as he gets them singing along to his tunes.

As for his new home, Brudevold says he visited Twin Falls because his wife's family lived here and he liked the area and people.
"I felt at home here."
Brudevold says he will continue touring the country. When at home, he plans to develop children's programs for syndication on radio and television. He will present the programs in the Mr. Rogers vein, he says, referring to the low-key children's host.

"I have that Mr. Rogers type of personality."
He also will continue to record his music in Nashville. That's where his contacts are, he says.

If he ever returns to a permanent church, Brudevold says he will have many stories to tell from his experiences in other churches.

Keith Brudevold does his preaching on a guitar and through song.

Police testify: Kids were on road

BOISE (UPI) — An Ada County deputy prosecutor testified Friday he was surprised when Virginia DeMeyer criticized another public official and spoke to him "in a familiar tone of voice" after she was arrested on drunken-driving and manslaughter charges.

Roger Bourne said he spoke with the suspended deputy attorney general at St. Alphonsus Hospital several hours after the fatal accident in which Ms. DeMeyer is accused of killing two Star children.

Earlier, a state police officer checked defense claims when he said Wesley Black, 12, and his 10-year-old sister Joy were riding on the pavement of state Highway 41 when they were killed Oct. 4. Bourne said Ms. DeMeyer told him at the hospital she had had three gin-and-tonic drinks over a three-hour period and was headed for her Caldwell home from Boise when the accident occurred.

He quoted the defendant as saying she had vision problems because the sun was in her eyes, but that she knew she should have been more careful about children along the road.

Ms. DeMeyer said she saw "the sun glint off the spokes of the bicycle," but was unable to avoid hitting the victims, Bourne said.

He added she claimed to first notice one of the children in the center of the road, although evidence so far has contradicted that statement.

Bourne said she then stopped the car and ran back to cover the children with coats before calling for help.

The deputy prosecutor said when he arrived at the hospital to question the defendant, Ms. DeMeyer beckoned him down a hospital corridor before answering his queries about where she worked.

Leroy, now lieutenant governor, headed the attorney general's office at the time.

Land board gets flack

Lake resort plan scrutinized

By ANN D. KIRKWOOD
United Press International

BOISE — The Idaho Parks and Recreation Board decided informally Friday to keep a wary eye on the state Land Board and a proposal to build a resort development on the shores of Priest Lake.

Board members tabled a motion that would have asked the Legislature and Land Board to permanently halt leasing of more public land anywhere near the shores of the 20-mile-long North Idaho lake.

But they agreed to reconsider that motion during their August meeting in northern Idaho after they tour the heavily used state parks in the area.

They also said they would study the merits of a proposal made by Parks Director Dale Christensen to designate the north end of Priest Lake a state wilderness area. Christensen said his plan, offered casually to determine the board's sentiments, "would take years of planning" before being realized.

The Land Board earlier this month rejected a land-exchange proposal from Diamond International, which has said it might use the acreage to build a 5,000-unit resort complex on the north and east shores of the lake.

Diamond International's tentative proposal called for 5,000 housing units, three golf courses, four marinas and a ski area, as well as other facilities.

The timber firm proposed trading 5,300 acres of its timberland for an equal amount of state-owned lakefront. While the Land Board rejected that proposal, members of the panel said they would reconsider it.

Diamond International proposed a smaller development. "If we plant this seed (for preserving public ownership) in North Idaho and get it going, it will take off," Thomas said.

Senator says reactor foolish move for Idaho

SALMON (UPI) — Pushing for construction of a military nuclear reactor in Idaho is a foolish move that ignores possible health and safety problems, says state Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey.

Peavey said during a recent Salmon Chamber of Commerce meeting federal officials have not adequately determined how the Snake River aquifer would be affected if the weapons-producing reactor were built at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory.

"It is very foolish for Idaho to push to expand any nuclear activity on top of one of the world's greatest aquifers," Peavey said.

"The U.S. Geological Survey, which monitors the injection process, admits it doesn't know enough about the makeup of the aquifer to adequately tell where the radioactive isotopes will show up downstream."

Sen. James McClure, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, has supported construction of the reactor in eastern Idaho, one of several sites being considered by the federal Department of Energy.

But Peavey said placing the reactor at INEL could bring to the state controversy similar to that being waged in South Carolina over another atomic reactor and its possible health risks.

"There is a similar atomic facility, the Savannah River Project in South Carolina, and the health considerations are very, very serious there," Peavey said.

"There are people who believe because of the health problems showing up back there, location of the (weapons reactor) in east Idaho is not desirable."

Unemployment improving

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's insured unemployment rate has fallen to a level lower than any time in the past two years, indicating the state's economy continues to improve, state Employment Department spokesman Randy Furniss says.

But the decline means a change in extended unemployment benefits that are offered beyond the regular 26-week payment program, Furniss said.

The insured unemployment rate measures the number of jobless people compared to all those eligible for unemployment insurance. The figure is tied to eligibility for an extended benefits program that is jointly funded by the state and federal governments, he said.

Student files abuse charge

MOSCOW (UPI) — A University of Idaho student arrested during a fraternity stunt filed a $75,000 claim against the city Friday, contending he was brutally beaten by police.

James Ralph Johnston, 21, claims police officers Jerry Wishard and Robert Anderson mistreated him April 27 in arresting him. Johnston has been charged with unlawful entry and resisting arrest in connection with that incident.

The claim says at least five eyewitnesses say Johnston never said a word or defended himself as the officers slammed him into a wooden fence and then forced him to the ground, grinding his face into the rough concrete.

Cities abandoned in wake of flooding

DELTA, Utah (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies kept more than 600 residents out of two western Utah desert towns swamped under five feet of water Friday and officials searched a nearby river for a man missing in the wake of a ruptured dam.

"We've completely evacuated Desert and Onasis," said Millard County Sheriff Ed Phillips. "And we're asking people to stay away from the area. It's dangerous around here."

Phillips said flood waters from the broken Delta Millard Abraham Dam had peaked, but two farming communities were inundated with water and about 60 homes were flooded.

He said people would be forced to stay away from the communities until the water recedes and the sheriff's office determines it is safe to return, probably in two or three days.

Thorpe Waddingham, attorney for the water company, said 15,000 acres of arid land lost irrigation water because the floods wiped out diversion channels, used to irrigate the area about 100 miles southwest of Salt Lake City.

"I think the most tragic loss today, in terms of its economic impact, is a loss of the irrigation ditches west of Delta," Waddingham said.

He said the disaster represents a one-time crop loss of $6 million, ironically because of a lack of irrigation water.

"And that's just the crops," he said.

Official: WPPSS has no chance to float loan

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Washington Public Power Supply System, which is on the brink of the biggest default in municipal bond history, has almost no chance of floating a $1 billion loan, its chairman said Friday.

"It doesn't appear reasonable or logical" for major banks to lend the system $960 million to complete its No. 3 nuclear power plant at Satsop, Wash., said Carl Halvorson, chairman of the WPPSS executive board.

The system can't raise construction funds to complete the project because it has been frozen out of the bond market by the impending default on $2.25 billion in bonds issued to finance abandoned projects 4 and 5.

The executive board voted last month to mothball project 3, which is three-fourths finished. If a method of raising money to finish it hadn't been found by July 8.

One avenue explored by the system was a massive bank loan underwritten by Bonneville Power

Jordan ousts No. 2 seed with straight-set triumph

Evert Lloyd loses in Wimbledon upset

WIMBLEDON, England—(UPI)—Kathy Jordan destroyed Chris Evert Lloyd's Grand Slam dreams Friday, surging from behind in the second set to upset the three-time champion in the third round of the $1.4 million Wimbledon tennis championships.

In one of tournament's biggest surprises among the women in more than a decade, Jordan took 1 hour, 36 minutes for her 6-1, 7-6 (7-2) victory over the No. 2 seed.

Evert, who won the title in 1974, 1976 and 1981, seemed almost as permanent a fixture at Wimbledon as the rain and the ivy-covered walls. The 28-year-old from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., played in the last five finals and had never failed to make the semifinals in her 12 previous appearances.

Evert, the reigning U.S., Australian and French Open champion, was bidding to join Mo Connolly and Margaret Court as the only women to hold all four Grand Slam titles at the same time.

The men's draw was more predictable with Jimmy Connors, the defending champion and No. 1 seed, reaching the fourth round with a 6-1, 7-6, 6-2 victory over Henrik Sundstrom of Sweden.

Defending champion Martina Navratilova, the No. 1 seed, meets Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec in the next round Saturday.

Evert's hopes were dashed under an overcast sky on the No. 1 court by a player who never managed in five earlier encounters to take even one set from her; let alone beat her.

KATHY JORDAN Wins in straight sets

"It hasn't sunk in yet that I have beaten Chris Evert Lloyd," Jordan said after being embraced her mother and her sister, Barbara, also a touring pro.

The 22-year-old from King of Prussia, Pa., who trailed from a 6-4 deficit in the second set, said defeating Evert or Navratilova was important for others on the tour.

"I think it is good for women's tennis that someone is able to beat Chris or Martina because they have this aura of invincibility about them," she said. "It is more frightening to think about losing the chance to beat Chris or Martina than actually going out there and playing them. It is a definite psychological barrier."

In other action involving seeded men Friday, No. 12 Kevin Curren of South Africa ousted Rodney Harmon of the U.S., 6-4, 7-5, 6-2; No. 13 Brian Gottfried of the U.S. beat Joao Soares of Brazil, 7-6, 6-2, 6-2; and No. 16 Tim Mayotte of the U.S. doped Brian Teacher of the U.S., 7-6, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

Also, Nduka Odior, the upset specialist from Nigeria, advanced by outlasting Eric Courteau of France 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Among the seeded women there was one upset, Carling Bassett, the 15-year-old budding Canadian star, eliminated another promising teenager, 16-year-old Andrea Temesvari of Hungary, the No. 14 seed, 6-3, 7-6.

Third-seeded Andrea Jaeger of the U.S. defeated Susan Lee of Australia, 6-3, 6-2; No. 7 Wendy Turnbull of Australia beat Wendy White of the U.S., 6-3, 6-4; and 16-year-old Kathy Rinaldi of the U.S., the No. 15 seed, beat Betsy Nagelsen of the U.S., 6-0, 6-7, 6-4.

In a battle of tour veterans, 39-year-old Billie Jean King of the U.S. the No. 10 seed, defeated 34-year-old Rosie Casals of the U.S., 6-3, 6-4.

A tall, lanky player who has achieved her greatest successes in doubles, Jordan never had gotten beyond the round of 16 in singles at Wimbledon or the U.S. Open. However, she has completed a Slam of her own by winning the doubles championships of the U.S., England, France and Australia. Her match record last year was 21-18 with earnings of $166,000.

"I don't want to make any excuses," Evert said. "She was on one day and I was off. I am very, very disappointed, more about losing in the third round of Wimbledon than I am about losing the Grand Slam. That's not what happened before."

"She got her first serve in against me almost every time and that was a real weapon on the fast No. 1 court."

She refused to comment on whether she was feeling well.

"I wouldn't have walked out of the court if there was the slightest chance I didn't think I was fit enough to perform," she said.

Jordan, who next meets Rinaldi, said Evert's failure to win the Grand Slam does not detract from her record.

"As far as ruining Chris' chances for a Grand Slam is concerned, I really don't think it matters because she's a great champion and always will be," she said. "Just to win three out of the four majors is a fantastic accomplishment."

Evert, who two days earlier claimed she and Navratilova were "a good-and-shoulders above the rest," said she intends to return to this storied grass court tournament.

Thorsen, Tuma take event titles

By MIKE PRATER Times-News writer

FILER — Twin Falls cowboy Kenny Tuma and Cheryl Thorsen of Weiser became the first official event champions of the Idaho High School Finals Rodeo Friday.

The pair wrapped up their state titles in cow cutting earlier in the day at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds. Both Tuma and Thorsen, along with eight other cow cutting competitors, will now compete at the National High School Finals Rodeo in Douglas, Wyo., late in July.

Champions in the other 10 events, and both all-around titles, will be decided tonight in the finale of the rodeo at 8. The top 10 competitors in each event, based on times from the first three nights, will compete. The new queen will also be crowned.

Tuma not only had the best output in cow cutting, but also produced the top steer wrestling time during the regular night performance.

The Twin Falls graduate placed his steer in 7.889 seconds, moving him to second place overall behind teammate Tim VanOstran.

Tuma did, however, lose his lead in calf roping. Lewiston cowboy Kelsey Felton put together a 13.576 run to overtake Tuma on two runs. Felton's combined time is 29.996. Tuma, who did not perform in the event Friday, is back at 32.233.

Tuma really put together a solid showing in the rough stock events where the field had been having some trouble the past two nights.

Five bull riders had scores of 60 or better and it took a 63 by Minico's Marty Bennett, Idaho's defending all-around champion, to capture the bucking competition.

Declo cowboy Junior Bryan had a 58 to take a share of the lead with Dwight Hill of Idaho Falls. Both have 113 points on two rides going into tonight's finals.

Kenny Schrader of Nampa had a 64 ride on "Sport" to win the bull riding, but it was Doug Guthrie's 63 that was big news.

With the high score to add to his first go-around ride of 64, the McManis cowboy has a solid lead in the event. But, it is unknown whether he'll be able to perform tonight as he was carried out of the arena on a stretcher. After completing his ride, the bull "Cimarron" stepped on him. However, the injury was reported to be not serious.

In the final boys event, Jeff Faulkner and Curt Kaneaster of Gooding won the team roping with a 13.310 effort. VanOstran and Terry Laumb of Declo still lead the event overall by a wide margin.

In the girls events, Nikl-Moist of St. Leon, a leading wire rider in the all-around title, had the top goat tying time, a 10.475. It wasn't enough to take the lead, though, as Kyna Parker of Nampa still is on top with a 17.768 on two runs.

Leslie Brown of Bonners Ferry moved into the second place position in barrel racing with a 18.818, the fastest time of the night in the event and Twin Falls cowgirl Kayla Atkinson had a 4.128 breakout roping time to move into the top overall spot there.

Local netters succeed at Twin Falls Open

TWIN FALLS — Local players fared reasonably well in Friday evening's first round of the Twin Falls Open.

In men's open singles, three Magic Valley entrants won their initial matches. Scott Guthrie of Twin Falls defeated Alan Koppel, 6-1, 7-5; Dave Eads of Twin Falls ousted Tim Matheson, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2 and Jamie Lee, a teaching pro in Sun Valley, routed Doug Blevis of Twin Falls, 6-1, 6-0.

Two more area players were victorious in men's A singles. Twin Falls' Sean Timoney had little trouble besting Dennis Combs, 6-0, 6-1, and Tim Westergren of Twin Falls topped Robbie Johnson, 6-4, 6-1.

However, three high school players lost. Jerome's Kim McKelvey and Wood-River's Lee Ritzau and Jamie Hjort. McKelvey was a 6-3, 6-4 loser to Brian MacNelli; Ritzau dropped his match to Rob Smith, 6-2, 6-4 and Hjort came up short against Lee Schuller, 6-1, 3-6, 7-6.

Just three matches were played in women's A singles. In an all-Twin Falls confrontation, Judy Eads defeated Tricia Swilling, 6-2, 6-3; Susan Hoag of Twin Falls won by default over Monique Stolle, and Corrie Fisher, outgrowth-Kirsten Ritzau, 7-6, 4-6, 6-1.

In men's A doubles, the Twin Falls duo of Guthrie and Tom Baird triumphed over James Jensen and Kevin Reddish, 2-6, 7-6, 6-4. Ernie Alger and Mike Haines defeated Pat McGuire and Dick Conner by default, while Clay Simons and Jim Vestas edged Westergren and McKelvey 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Mike and Michelle Dege, a sombrero pair, upended Lee Ritzau and Nalinde Stolle, 6-3, 6-6, 6-3 in an A mixed doubles opener. Another match had Dirk and Kerry Wagerman of Wood-River and Jamie Haggard of Lee Smith and Patty Caruso.

The single-elimination event, co-sponsored by The Times-News and the Twin Falls Tennis Association, continues today in all divisions on the courts at the 197 Field, Twin Falls High School and Harmon Park.

Sampson, Ellis, Carr among brightest gems in NBA draft

By JAN HUBBARD Dallas Morning News

A scouting report of players available in Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft:

Figures for top players read: Height; weight; college; rebounds per game; points per game. Figures for others include: height; weight; and college.

Top centers
• Ralph Sampson, 7-3, 230, Virginia, 11.9, 19.0. First player to win three consecutive Naamith Awards as college player of the year. Blessed with such consummate skill, he would be a first-round draft choice even if he were 6-3. Will be a better pro than college player because zones are not allowed.

• Steve Stipanovich, 6-11, 240, Missouri, 8.8, 18.4. Can play center or forward although there are questions about how well in the pros. Sometimes lacks aggressiveness, but showed tremendous improvement in senior year.

• Randy Brewer, 7-4, 225, Minnesota, 8.9, 20.4. Once was considered a top-10 selection; but had horrible post-season tournament in Hawaii. A good shot blocker, but easy to push around because of lack of weight.

• Mark West, 6-10, 180, Old Dominion, 10.8, 14.4. Third-leading shot blocker in the history of college basketball behind Sampson and Tree Rollins (Clemson). Did not have a good senior year. A project.

• Greg Kite, 6-11, 250, Brigham Young, 8.8, 7.7. Disappointment in college after excellent high school career in Houston. Might be a backup center, but lacks jumping ability and is not a good shooter.

Others: Jimmy Lampley, 6-11, 235, Arkansas-Little Rock; Granville Walters, 6-11, 235, Ohio State; Les Craft, 6-10, 225, Kansas State; Charles "Big Time" Jones, 6-10, 235, Oklahoma; Wilfred King, 6-10, 240, East Texas State.

Top small forwards
• Dale Ellis, 6-7, 200, Tennessee,

6-5, 22.6. Great scorer inside and outside. Should go in top 10. Value may be down, but could be surprise of draft — something like Kelly Tripucka was two years ago.

• Thurl Bailey, 6-11, 205, NC State, 7.7, 16.7. Despite height, considered small forward, somewhat like Larry Nance of the second set, said defeating Evert or Navratilova was important for others on the tour.

• Clyde Drexler, 6-6, 190, Houston, 8.0, 15.2. Excellent athlete who gets better every year. One of six under-graduates in the draft. Outside shot needs some work, but leaping ability enables him to score.

• John Garris, 6-8, 195, Boston College, 7.8, 19.7. Tough, aggressive player who is a solid rebounder. Played center in college, but will move to forward. Had 25-point, 12-rebound game against Sampson.

• Michael Britz, 6-8, 200, UDC, 10-3, 23.8. Two-time Division-III All-America, who helped the District of Columbia school win national championship as a junior and second place as a senior.

Others: Paul Thompson, 6-7, 205, Tulane; Chris McNealy, 6-7, 200, San Jose State; Scooter McCray, 6-4, 190, Louisville; David Russell, 6-6, 205, St. John's; Larry Anderson, 6-6, 200, Nevada-Las Vegas; Harry "Machine Gun" Kelley, 6-7, 200, Texas Southern; Bernard Randolph, 6-4, 205, DePaul; Darren Daye, 6-7, 180, UCLA; Derrick Hord, 6-6, 210, Kentucky; Charles Hurt, 6-6, 210, Kentucky; Ted Kitchell, 6-8, 210, Indiana; Frank Burrell, 6-6, 190, Stetson; Mark Gannon, 6-7, 215, Iowa; Tony Gattis, 6-7, 215, Mercer; Fred Gilliam, 6-8, 195, Clemson; Rick Lamb, 6-7, 230, Illinois State; Derrick Pope, 6-6, 195, Montana; Alvis Rogers, 6-6, 215, Wake Forest; Bill Sadler, 6-8, 220, Zepherdine; Mark Upshaw, 6-6, 190, Rhode Island; Billy Varner, 6-6, 195, Notre Dame; Brad Anderson, 6-6, 195, Washington; Guy Williams, 6-8, 185, Washington State.

Top power forwards
• Antoine Carr, 6-9, 220, Wichita State, 7.6, 22.6. Similar to James Worthy in that he can play both forward spots. Moves power with finesse. Great transition player; but not a good rebounder. Will be a top five selection.

• Rodney McCray, 6-7, 220, Louisville, 8.4, 11.4. Despite lack of height, considered a power forward because of strength. Didn't have great statistics in college, but played on a team where everyone handled the ball and shot.

• Sidney Green, 6-9, 215, Nevada-Las Vegas, 11.9, 22.1. Improved dramatically from junior to senior year. Good scorer, rebounder and runs well. Concentration is suspect, but talent is not. Top 10 selection.

• Russell Cross, 6-10, 245, Purdue, 7.4, 17.7. Rugged underneath, but not great rebounder. Plays somewhat like

JOHN PAXSON An 'overachiever' at guard

Others: Roy Hinson, 6-9, 215, Rutgers; Orlando Phillips, 6-7, 215, Pepperdine; Leroy Coles, Oklahoma State, 6-8, 210; Terry Fair, 6-7, 215, Georgia; Darrell Lockhard, 6-9, 215, Auburn; John Pinone, 6-7, 240, Villanova; Claude Riley, 6-10, 215, Texas A&M; Craig Robinson, 6-8, 195, Virginia; James Runkel, 6-8, 240, James Madison; Frank Smith, 6-10, 190, Arizona; Clarence Tillman, 6-7, 205, Rutgers.

Top shooting guards
• Byron Scott, 6-4, 195, Arizona State, 3-9, 13.5. Could be a future all-arounder. Key to field. Top 10 in draft. Big strong, excellent offensive player. Missed a year of college because of academic problems, but still was all-time leading scorer at Arizona State.

• Darrell Walker, 6-4, 180, Arkansas. Most valuable defensive player at Hawaii tournament. A street-fighting sort of player whose strength is his hatred of losing. Not a great shooter, but has ability to score. Only problem is too many turnovers, but he counters with a lot of steals.

• Jeff Malone, 6-4, 187, Mississippi State, 3.7, 28.8. Great offensive player with excellent range. Likes to get ball in pressure situations. Despite high-scoring average, has good shot selection: Made 53.1 percent as a senior.

• Randy Wittman, 6-6, 200, Indiana, 4.5, 18.9. Another excellent shooter. Probably will be a wingman in the pros. Good passer. Comparable to Portland's Jim Paxson. Not fast or quick, 50 moves well without ball.

• Howard Carter, 6-5, 195, LSU, 4.7.

• See DRAFT on Page B3

Sawtooth sites in better shape

TWIN FALLS — Conditions are starting to improve at most recreational sites in the Sawtooth National Forest. Rivers and streams are receding and clearing, providing good fishing in many areas.

In the Burley District, the Kalamazoo Road is washed out and all roads above Ponterelle are closed. Campgrounds at Sublett, Lake Fork, Clear Creek, Bennett Springs and City of Rocks are open, though Thompson Flat, Twin Lakes, Brackenberg, Lake Cleveland, Independence Lakes and Scott Camp remain closed.

Accessible areas for firewood cutting include the Sublett Division, south end of Black Pine and the west end of the Rait River Division.

All trails and campgrounds on the Twin Falls District are open. Road conditions are good, with construction on the Oakley-Rogerson road slated to start within the next two weeks.

(airly high, with the best fishing at Silver Creek. Cool weather is reported in the National Recreation Area, where most campgrounds are open. The upper end of the North Fork Lake is bad, though hikers have been able to reach the head of North Fork Drainage. It is possible to get into Norton Lakes, although Baker Creek Road is poor. High water is keeping closed half of North Fork and Inlet, at Alturas Lake. Glacier View at Redfish Lake is still closed, but should be open by the Fourth of July weekend.

In the Fairfield District, the Couch Summit road is still closed. Big Smokey can be reached by way of Wells Summit Road, which is old and narrow. All campgrounds are open, but most are in mediocre condition. The Fairfield District Office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays to sell firewood cutting permits. Baumgartner Pool, still closed, may open sometime next week.

Elsewhere, the Stanley Zone reports everything open and usable; the Wood River Campground will begin its Saturday evening campfire programs today, with the first being "Hot Springs Phenomena"; the Redfish Lake Wildlife Center is open; and the old stage road from Custer to Challis remains closed because of a slide.

Beck moves into lead at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Chip Beck, a former University of Georgia All-American, fired a 4-under-par 68 Friday to assume a two-stroke lead over Larry Mize at the midway point of the $400,000 Memphis Classic.

Beck, who led by one shot after an opening-round 65, moved 11-under-par at 133 through 36 holes at Colonial Country Club, where a few brief showers peppered the gallery and players in the afternoon.

Mize, a second-year pro who played at Beck's rival university, Georgia Tech., posted a stizzling 7-under 65 to go with his first-round 70 for a 135 total.

Fuzzy Zoeller and John Fauch, both after a second straight 68, were another stroke back at 136.

U.S. Open champion Larry Nelson headed a logjam at 7-under-par 137, carding a 71 to go with his opening 66.

Beck birdied the first three holes but cooled off after that and posted his only bogey of the tournament thus far on No. 17. An errant 1-iron shot to the left of the green resulted in a missed 8-foot par putt on the 433-yard, par-4 17th.

Howe out of drug rehabilitation center

STEVE HOWE Had pitched well for LA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers bullpen ace Steve Howe was released from a drug rehabilitation center Friday and said at a Dodger Stadium news conference he was eager to get on with his baseball career.

Howe, 25, appeared in public for the first time since being admitted to CareUnit in Orange, Calif., on May 23 for his cocaine dependency. Flanked by his agent, Tony Attanasio, and CareUnit physician Dr. Joseph Pursch, Howe refused to discuss details of his stay in the recovery center.

"Steve will not comment on his personal life or the past four weeks, and we appreciate that you honor that request," Attanasio said. "Steve's life belongs on the field, and he's ready, willing and able to participate as of today."

Howe remained on the disabled list pending the outcome of an investigation by the office of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. Dodgers officials were to meet with Kuhn's aides Monday to discuss possible sanctions.

Pursch said Howe would be on a treatment program for the next two years.

"I do not intend to make any profound statements concerning my experiences of the past several weeks," Howe said, reading from a prepared statement, "or to make any revelations concerning my personal life. I wish merely to state that with the assistance of those closest to me, I have been afforded the opportunity to deal with a personal conflict within myself.

"I have a lot of people who care about me who are trying to help me, and I have a good program which I feel is going to help me. I don't want to be a hero or anything—just to be accepted as a guy who has a problem and needs help. My problem has not been drugs, but dealing with life itself and how to get along."

Howe said he pitched and ran while in the CareUnit and said he felt physically and mentally prepared to return to the pitcher's mound. He had been off to a brilliant start, not allowing an earned run in 2 1/2 innings while compiling a 2-1 record with seven saves. He has not pitched since May 27.

Boise State alumni conduct tournament at Blue Lakes

TWIN FALLS — The foursome of Jim Faucher, Dick Christopheron, Dennis Baird and Larry Roberts placed first among the men at the seventh annual Boise State University Alumni Golf Tournament Friday at

Blue Lakes Country Club. Placing second were Mike Dolton, John Olsen, Paul Ralston and Lee Campbell. Two teams tied for third, Lyle Setenich, Tim Obenchain, Lee Wagner and John Pirtle; and Ray Stevens, Joe Harvey, Bob Madden and Ron Belliston. Capturing first place in the women's division were Kim Obenchain, Sandy Standley, Sandy Tartar and Gloria Lee.

Webb keeps edge in Seattle competition

SEATTLE (UPI) — Wayne Webb maintained his lead in the $100,000 Seattle Open on the Pro Bowlers Association tour after five rounds Friday despite splitting his eight matches.

The 25-year-old right-hander from Indianapolis rolled a fifth-round score of 1,799. His total pinfall for 34 games was 8,085. Webb won 10 of 16 matches over the last two rounds.

Veteran Charlie Tapp of South St. Paul, Minn., still looking for his first pro win, trailed the leader by 93 pins. Tapp, who has been runner-up four times in his six-year career, won seven of eight matches to move up from fifth place with a 7,992 total.

The top five players will compete in today's championship round.

Draft

17.6. Another excellent shooter who loves to get ball. LSU coach Dale Brown estimated Carter won 15 games with last-second shots.

Others: Glenn Rivers, 6-3 1/2, 185, Marquette; Pace Mannion, 6-7, 190, Utah; Leo Rautins, 6-8, 210, Syracuse; Bob Hansen, 6-5 1/2, 210, Iowa; Jim Thomas, 6-4, 195, Indiana; Erich Sautter, 6-4, 185, Syracuse; Carlos Clark, 6-4, 209, Mississippi; Dereck Whitenburg, 6-1, 190, N.C. State; Chuck Barnett, 6-4, 205, Oklahoma; Dane Suttle, 6-2, 190, Pepperdine; Brian Kellerman, 6-4, 200, Idaho; Horace "Pappy" Owens, 6-4, 190, Rhode Island; Paul Williams, 6-6, 200, Arizona State; Lorenza Andrews, 6-3, 190, Oklahoma State; Mike Davis, 6-4 1/2, 195, Alabama; Craig Elho, 6-6 1/2, 185, Washington State; Billy Goodwin, 6-5, 203, St. John's; Tyrone Naulis, 6-4, 205, Texas A&M.

Top point guards

• Ennis Whitley, 6-3, 180, Alabama, 6.9, 15.2. Left school after sophomore year but still is the best point guard in the draft. Exceptionally quick and capable of dominating game from point guard position. Wild at times, but very talented offensively.

• Derek Harper, 6-4, 183, Illinois, 3.7, 15.4. Outstanding defensive player who can play both guard positions. Left school after junior year. Led Big 10 in steals and assists as a sophomore. Good outside shooter who once made 19 consecutive field goals.

• Stewart Granger, 6-3, 190, Villanova, 5.3-13.7. Not a great shooter, but smart. Can play both guard positions. Strength is consistency. Hard worker who played on a tough team with a tough schedule.

• Jon Sandvold, 6-2, 185, Missouri, 3.6, 17.1. Polished, intelligent floor leader. Shoots well and handles ball well, but lacks quickness. Tough competitor, however, and is excellent scorer for a point guard.

• John Paxson, 6-2, 190, Notre Dame, 3.9, 17.7. Overachiever who overcomes lack of size with intelligence. Not fast, but quick. Great outside shooter and excellent ball-handler. May surprise some people.

Brothers of Portland's Jim Faxon. Others: Greg Jones, 6-2, 180, West Virginia; Rod Foster, 6-2, 182, UCLA; Dirk Minnifield, 6-2 1/2, 190, Kentucky; Michael Holton, 6-3 1/2, 198, UCLA.

Airline, drug stocks strong

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
United Press International

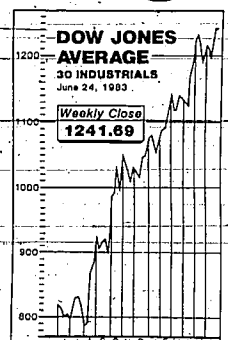

NEW YORK — The overall stock market showed little change Friday even though transportation and drug issues scored big gains as Wall Street wrapped up an unusually volatile week.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which staged several rally attempts after falling 3.90 Thursday, eased 0.10 to 1,241.63. The DJIA operated at a 1.10-point handicap because American Telephone & Telegraph was trading minus its dividend. It lost 0.50 for the week overall.

But with airlines leading the way, the Dow Jones transportation average surged 8.66 to a record 529.29. The Big New York Stock Exchange index slipped 0.2 to 98.82. There was no change in the price of an average share. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.17 to 170.40. Declines edged advances 75-77 among the 1,991 issues tracked.

The market looks like it is ready to pull back but then it picks up steam," said Alfred Harris of S&P, Nicholas & Co. of St. Louis. "It has amazing buoyancy."

Harris said "there were some showed the nation's money supply fell $2.2 billion in the latest statistical week.

The drop followed a surge over the past several weeks that drove some interest rates higher. Investors were encouraged Friday, however, that federal funds rates dropped to 8 7/8 percent from the recent 9 1/8 level.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 99,761,760 shares compared with 104,568,950 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 4.67 to a record 492.76 and the price of a share added 14 cents. Advances topped declines—359-313 among the 839 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 11,633,390 shares compared with 14,003,600 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers Index of OTC stocks gained 1.58 in an all-time high 328.91.

On the trading floor, Pan American World Airways was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 7/8 to 68 1/2.

Among the other airlines, AMR Corp. rose 2 to 37 1/2, Delta 2 1/4 to 43 1/2, Eastern 1 1/4 to 11 1/4, KLM 2 1/4 to 57, Northwest 3/4 to 50 1/4, Trans World 1 1/4 to 34 1/4 and UAL Inc. 1 3/4 to 33 1/4.

The National Association of Telephone (ex-dividend) was the second most active NYSE-listed issue, unchanged at 82 1/2.

Drug issues scored following recommendations of Morgan Stanley Johnson & Johnson rose 1 1/4 to 48 1/4, Pfizer 5/8 to 86 1/4, Merck 3/4 to 91 1/4, SmithKline-Beckman 2 1/4 to 73 1/4, Abbott Laboratories 2 1/4 to 46 1/4, Syntex 2 1/4 to 57 1/4 and American Home Products 1 1/4 to 46 1/4.

Semiconductor issues were strong following reports the industry is emerging from a three-year slump. Data General gained 3/4 to 63 1/4, National Semiconductor 3/4 to 53, Digital Equipment 3/4 to 124 1/4, Varian Associates 2 1/4 to 63 1/4, Teledyne 3/4 to 171 1/4, Cray Research 2 1/4 to 49 1/4, Coleco 2 1/4 to 49 1/4, Prime Computer 3/4 to 24 1/4 and Tandy Corp. 1/2 to 52 1/4.

Super Oil, a 1 1/2 million share mid takeover speculation, lost 2 to 3 1/4. The Wall Street Journal said the latest rumor has Mesa Petroleum head Boone Pickens, owner of several million Super shares, pushing for liquidation of the company.
