U.S., Soviets reach major accord

By BARRY JAMES
UPI Senior Editor

MADRID, Spain — The Reagan administration reached its first major agreement with the Soviet Union Friday, successfully ending nearly three years of bargaining on international compliance with the 1975 Helsinki accords.

He said it was the "best agreement attainable" because it advanced "efforts of the West to hold out a beacon of hope for those in the East who seek a more free, just and secure life."

Poland, and Soviet claims the U.S. arms build up was in preparation for war — not self-defense.

The only demand the West dropped was for an end to jamming of radio broadcasts into the East bloc, he said, warning Moscow to honor its commitments or "we will hold them accountable for it to the point of making it uncomfortable for them."

Bomb kills five

Terrorist attack

By BRIGID PHILLIPS
United Press International

PARIS — A suitcase bomb exploded at a crowded Turkish Airlines counter at Orly Airport Friday, killing five people and wounding more than 60 others in the second Armenian terrorist attack in two days.

The terrorist Secret Army for the Liberation of Turkey claimed responsibility for the bombing in a telephone call to a French news agency.

The blood of Turks will not be wasted in the ground," shouted the youths, members of the outlawed right-wing group "Grey Wolves."

Helicopters, fire engines, police and ambulances swarmed to the scene of the blast but for nearly an hour after the explosion, people lay with open wounds in pools of blood, surrounded by debris.

Police identified two of the victims as Frenchman Jean-Claude Blanchard and a Turkish national, Halil Kilimaz. The third man was not immediately identified.

Hundreds of tourists were shaken or slightly wounded by the blast.

Julie Davis got an alligator painted on her cheek Friday, as part of "Crazy Daze" in downtown Twin Falls. Cheerleaders from O'Leary Junior High School painted faces for a quarter. Also in abundance were sidewalk sales, booths and homemade costumes.

Kimberly among districts to get audit

By BRUCE BOTKA
United Press International

BOISE — The Idaho Legislative Council voted Friday to order management audits of four small and mid-sized school districts to identify exemplary as well as wasteful spending practices.

Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, and Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Focetello, led opposition to the plan, saying the state Education Department should use its existing authority to improve local spending and budget reporting practices. Eugene McDermott agreed a Legislature-sponsored audit might be viewed as a threat to local control of public schools.

"I have no doubt the parties would have immediately left the U.S. now that the kidnapping case has been solved and the victim rescued," Grimsley said.

and Madison were chosen because they are representative of the mid-sized districts in the Gem State.

Agents had traced previous kidnappings to a pay phone on an outside wall of the Pitts Hotel — a city, alter for homeless women — block from where Mrs. Quinones was held captive in an apartment, and stalked out the phone.

Police want Steinberg charged

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police recommended Friday that a misdemeanor charge be filed against attorney Robert K. Steinberg for allegedly filing a false report in claiming videotapes showing government officials in sex acts were stolen.

K.A.B.O. meanwhile, reported that Steinberg was negotiating with the District Attorney's Office to admit his claim was false to avoid prosecution.

Lt. Jim Hunt said police recommended to prosecutors that the charge be filed against Steinberg because there was no evidence of a theft.

"It is our feeling that the report was a false report," Hunt said. "We can't determine if the tapes exist or not. There was no reason for us to get that deep into it. We did not find anything that would substantiate the existence of tapes."

Pentagon payment a puzzle

MINONG, Wis. (UPI) — This tiny northwest Wisconsin town does not have a Howard Johnson Motor Lodge or a Milwaukee Valve Co. plant, but trying to figure out how a $412,000 bill from the Pentagon got to it is a puzzle.

A computer list of defense contracts showed the Army owed $412,000 to a non-existent Howard Johnson's and another $134,000 to a plant that isn't there.

The Washburn County community of 500 people does have two motels, one with five rooms and the other with seven.

Army and Defense Department officials said Thursday they had no explanation for the Minong bills on the computer.

NRC may reconsider closings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission said Friday it may reconsider its decision to shut down five atomic reactors for repair of possible pipe cracks, if a technical report due Aug. 4 reduces concern about the problem.

The commissioners took the action after hearing utility industry executives argue that ordering their plants to shut down within 30 days is a mistake that will "create chaos" and cost millions of dollars.

"Before we make a firm commitment to shut down, we're going to assemble the data," said NRC Chairman Nuzzio Palladino.

Aide: Papers helped Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an analysis of Ronald Reagan's performance in his crucial 1980 debate with President Carter, a political consultant found "improbable" the contention that Reagan aides used leaked or stolen Carter material to prepare him, it was disclosed Friday.

"There are too many places where the Reagan campaign guesses which one of all possible defenses or attacks will actually be used," Samuel Popkin wrote in a summary of his eight-page analysis, made available to United Press International.

In San Francisco, Carter told the World Affairs Council the "poisoned debate materials" revealed so far "are the most politically sensitive documents we had. They encapsulated the essence of our political campaign."

Canada allows missile test

OTTAWA (UPI) — Honoring its commitments to NATO and Washington, the Canadian government agreed Friday to allow the United States to test the controversial cruise missile on its territory.

Anti-nuclear activists vowed to file suit to bar the tests and opposition parliamentarians warned the "action" would "damage" arms control talks with Moscow.

Canada will allow the United States to test the unarmed, ground-bugging missile in Western Canada for five years beginning in January. The so-called terrain resembles that of the Soviet Union, where the most likely targets for the missiles are located.

Crash spills nuclear material

BLOUNTVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — An Emery Air Freight cargo plane carrying two containers of radioactive material from the Union Carbide plant at Oak Ridge crashed and burst at the Tri City Airport Friday night, officials said.

The radioactive material was not identified. Mike Bowers of Emery Air Freight in Blountville said the only two people on board — the pilot and copilot — were not injured.

"The pilot and copilot escaped unhurt. The plane did catch fire. I'm not at liberty to tell you any more," Bowers said.

The Sullivan County Sheriff's Department reported the plane was carrying two containers of radioactive material from the Union Carbide plant at Oak Ridge. A hazardous material crew from the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency was en route to the airport, the airport spokesman said.

Heat wave smothers nation

United Press International

The mercury hit a record-breaking 99 degrees in New York Friday and heat paralyzed St. Louis, reminded the city of a killer heat wave three years ago.

There was fresh snow in the mountains of Idaho and much of the rest of the country washed it could be so lucky. Up to 9 inches of rain pounded Texas and contributed to four deaths on slippery roads.

The worst heat wave of the year in New York sent the mercury soaring to a record 99 degrees. The 98 degree mark set at 3:10 p.m. EDT was two degrees higher than the previous record for the date set in 1977.

A thunderstorm later caused the thermometer to plummet 21 degrees within 30 minutes. Heavy winds knocked out power to about 4,000 residents in Brookline, Massachusetts. Several thousand more were without power in Westchester.

Water companies throughout the area appealed to customers to limit water usage.

House leaders were uncertain when the members voted to reprimand Studds and Crane, although Crane's attorney said he expected the action to come next week. A reprimand results in no loss of a member's rights.

The Quincy, Mass., Patriot Ledger — one of the largest daily newspapers serving Studds' congressional district — called for the resignation of Studds, saying his effectiveness as a congressman is "irreparably shattered."

"The most serious part of the matter ... is that the congressman took advantage of his office to seduce a teenage page."

"Whether the acts were consensual or not, it is plain misconduct for a member of Congress to take advantage of impressionable young people whom congressmen are supposed to protect and educate, not seduce," the newspaper said.

Joseph Callano, the committee's special counsel who led the investigation into the sex page scandal, was critical of Studds and Crane.

"There is a special trust" between Congress and the pages, Callano said on ABC's "Good Morning America" program.

"The pages, when they come to Washington, look the Congress in the highest esteem," added Rep. Nick Rahall, D-W.Va., a member of the ethics committee.

"They are children, essentially," Callano said of the high school juniors and seniors who act as runners for members of Congress.

Coral Gables, a posh Miami suburb, took her to a nearby wood house, tied her up and put her in a van.

"I was trussed up like a Thanksgiving turkey and put in a van for 24 hours, a she said. Mrs. Quinonez said she had handcuffs over her eyes and ropes around her shoulders and neck.

Quinonez was the Salvadoran ambassador to the United States from 1977 until 1979, when there was a military coup in her country.

The Quinonez family is among El Salvador's land barons but friends said Quinonez himself is not wealthy.

Mrs. Quinonez, 53, was the fourth member of her family to be kidnaped in eight years, though the other incidents took place in El Salvador.

Quinonez is a founder and president of the Salvadoran Coalition for Freedom and Independence, an exile organization. He has called El Salvador's civil war "a farce, a charade, supported and financed by the Soviet Union through Nicaragua" and has criticized the country's agrarian reform program.

Other suspects in the abduction were identified as Craig Blass, 17, Max Castro, 18, Robert Gerald, 20, Clifford Bibbs, 23, and Jennifer Brown, 27, all of the Washington area, and Salvador Lacayo, 35, (previously identified as Guillermo Salvador) of the Miami area.

Bibbs, Castro, Gerald and Miss Brown were arraigned in U.S. District Court in Washington on charges of kidnaping and conspiracy. Bond was set at $100,000 for Carr, Gerald and Bibbs and at $10,000 for Miss Brown.

Blass, a juvenile, was not brought before the court.

In addition, at a hearing in Miami U.S. Magistrate Peter Nimoff ordered Lacayo held without bond and set bond at $5 million each for the Capresaca and $2 million each for Carr, Gerald, Miss Brown, Castro and Bibbs.

Business inflation climbs, but factory output is good news

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More expensive gasoline helped push the business inflation rate up as "discounting" 0.5 percent in June, but factories reported good news, a 1.1 percent boost in output, the government said Friday.

The increase in the Producer Price Index was the most rapid in seven months, fueled almost entirely by large gasoline and heating oil markups.

Yet wholesale prices for 1983 are still down by 1 percent if the trend set in the first six months is carried out to the end of the year.

"It's slightly disconcerting to see increases (in prices) piling up a little bit, but not to worry," said Commerce Department chief economist Robert Ortner. "A good part of that gain was in energy prices ... and they already look like they are leveling off."

Analysts said gasoline suppliers, who raised prices 15.1 percent in June, were simply unable to dampen their enthusiasm for price increases first triggered by April's nickel-a-gallon additional excise tax.

Wholesale prices for consumer goods dropped by the widest margin in 11 months, 0.6 percent. The declines for eggs, fish, pork, coffee and soft drinks will help moderate the retail price in the weeks ahead.

Wholesale prices were up 0.3 percent in May.

In a separate report Friday, the Federal Reserve System measured another 1.1 percent gain in factory production, giving May and June identical improvements. After seven months of rebuilding, the nation's factories are within 5.2 percent of regaining the level of output lost in the recession.

"This is absolutely the best possible jobs program you can have," Ortner said. "This doesn't require deficit spending."

President Reagan hailed the rise in industrial production, saying, "It strongly suggests more Americans will find more jobs in the months ahead."

He added, "The latest latest news on inflation indicates economic growth can continue without triggering an outburst of new inflation."

Economist Jerry Jasnowski, speaking for the National Association of Manufacturers, said "The rapid growth in consumer durables — autos, home goods and construction materials — are particularly significant, reflecting both renewed consumer confidence and looser credit conditions."

The Federal Reserve's index of industrial production was 145.9 in June.

Jury convicts man of shooting father

HOUSTON (UPI) — A jury Friday apparently refused to believe a defendant who said he shot his comatose father after he suffered and convicted the son of attempted murder.

The nine-man, three-woman jury deliberated just over three hours in deciding Billy Ray Clore was guilty of trying to kill Robert Clore, 63, when he put a bullet through his father's brain March 21 as he lay in a hospital bed.

State District Judge Ted Poe ordered the jury to return to the courtroom Monday to hear testimony in the punishment phase of the trial.

The defendant sat motionless and showed no emotion when the verdict was announced. Family members declined comment.

Defense attorney Jack Zimmermann said he was shocked the jury could convict Billy Ray Clore, 26. The younger Clore said he loved his father and did not intend to kill him. He said he just wanted him to stop breathing and end the misery from kidney failure and two heart seizures.

"I am surprised at the verdict. The verdict meant he had specific intent to kill and that surprises me," Zimmermann said. "If they really analyzed the evidence, they would have seen he did not."

One of the jurors indicated the unanimous verdict had been a difficult decision. Juror Phyllis Massie understood the judge's questions referring to her ill health and apparently answered him about the deliberation.

"It was a very heavy burden," Ms. Massie said. Prosecutor Dick Bax said he was satisfied with the jury's findings.

U.S. announces major sale of arms to Taiwan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States announced Friday the third largest arms sales package ever to Taiwan in the face of a smoldering trend in relations with mainland China.

The proposed sale of a variety of missiles, tank equipment and spare parts for Taiwan's aging fleet of U.S.-built fighter aircraft totaling $30 million had been in the works for weeks. The announcement by the Pentagon, at State Department directive, was timed for late Friday to make the least public impact.

"State wanted to choose a propitious time that would cause the least irritation to the People's Republic of China," a Pentagon official said.

Congress has 30 days in which to block the sale, but little opposition is expected.

Peking helps all U.S. arms sales to Taiwan, and Washington was acting in line with a joint U.S.-Chinese statement signed in August in which the United States agreed that such sales will not exceed "the level of those supplied in recent years," both in quality and quantity.

The announcement came against a backdrop of ongoing negotiations on a U.S.-Chinese nuclear cooperation agreement that would open the door to the sale of American technology for building nuclear plants in China. A Chinese delegation has been in Washington since July 9 discussing the agreement.

Further negotiations are under way for a first visit to China in September or October by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

Two killed in mob 'hit'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two hitmen charged in the bungled assassination attempt on mob gambler boss Ken Eto fell victim to their own "line of work" when they were fatally stabbed and stuffed in a car trunk, the FBI said Friday.

The bodies of Jasper Campise, 68, and John Gattuso, 47, were found Thursday wrapped in plastic bags in the trunk of a car near a west suburban Naperville apartment complex. The car, a 1981 silver Volvo, was registered to Campise.

Deputy Chief DuPage County Coroner Richard Ballinger said the two men died of "multiple stab wounds," but he would not say how many times they had been stabbed or disclose the location of their wounds.

The coroner's office said an inquest will be held during the next four to six weeks to determine officially the cause and circumstances of the deaths.

"Given their alleged connections to organized crime and line of work, we're looking at crime syndicate families who've been implicated in connection with Ken Eto," said Tony DeLorenzo, a spokesman for the FBI.

"There's absolutely no question that the hit was done by the crime syndicates," DeLorenzo said. "At this point we're investigating and can't say anyone other than where the bodies were found."

Police said it was the first time in more than 20 years that syndicate hitmen had left two bodies in a car trunk, reportedly a mark of contempt for the victims.

"It can only be described as contempt for the victims when they are found in the trunk of a car — out in the open — where they can easily be found with the heat of the past few days," he said.

"The bodies from the trunk was found to arouse suspicion," said Patrick Healy, executive director of the Chicago Crime Commission, a private crime-fighting organization.

"These hitmen could have easily disposed of the bodies without a trace. It's been done before in this town."

U.S. mine killed newsmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Friday the two American newsmen who died in Honduras last month were killed by a U.S.-built land mine planted on the Honduran side of the border by Nicaraguan military forces.

The department released its report on the June 21 deaths of Los Angeles Times correspondent Dial Torgerson and freelance photographer Richard Cross, an assignment for U.S. News & World Report magazine at the time.

"Although absolute proof of responsibility for the incident is not now available, and may never be, the full weight of the available evidence leads us to the conclusion that Torgerson and Cross were killed by a mine planted by Nicaraguan forces," the report said.

Initial reports, relayed by the department, said the newsmen were killed by a rocket-propelled grenade fired from the Nicaraguan side of the border and the wreckage of their car was then sprayed by machine gun fire from the Nicaraguan forces.

The department said Friday that photographs of the car "are not sufficiently clear to make a determination."

U.S. Embassy officials have not been able to inspect the wreckage of the car and the site of the explosion "because the road remains under intermittent Nicaraguan fire," it report said.

"It said that the bodies were brought out under cover of darkness."

Brazilian president recovering

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Brazilian President Joao Baptista Figueiredo underwent successful double coronary bypass surgery Friday, but a spokesman estimated he would not be able to resume his duties for up to two months.

Dr. William Sheldon, chairman of the Department of Cardiology at the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, said Figueiredo was in stable condition in the coronary intensive care unit.

"His blood pressure and all vital signs are good," said Sheldon. "He seems to be doing very well. It was a routine operation and I really don't anticipate any problems, but of course we will watch him very closely. So far everything looks good."

The operation, which took three hours, was performed by an team headed by Dr. Floyd Loop, an internationally known cardiologist who also performed bypass surgery on Saudi Arabian King Khalid in Cleveland several years ago.

U.S., Greece agree on closing bases

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Greece's Socialist government reached an agreement with the United States Friday that sets up a timetable for elimination of U.S. bases on Greek territory by 1990.

The defense and economic cooperation agreement supersedes a 1953 accord signed within the framework of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, controlling four main bases and 16 installations in Greece.

The U.S. Embassy said it was "pleased" with the agreement reached after 10 months of negotiations. U.S. officials in Washington said the accord provides for termination of the bases upon written notice by either side after five years. Otherwise the agreement will "continue in force," they said.

The officials in Washington called the agreement "constructive," but said it contained no guarantees of fixed military aid to Greece, contradicting a statement by Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu.

The main opposition New Democracy party hailed the agreement as a "positive step" for Greece's security, but the country's Communist Party expressed skepticism and called for a referendum before it becomes effective.

The agreement was initiated by the negotiators, and Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu said it would go into effect in January after it is signed and ratified by the Greek Parliament and U.S. Congress. It will expire December 31, 1986.

He said the United States will have 17 months to dismantle and close the bases after expiration of the agreement. Papandreu was elected Oct. 18, 1981 on his Panhellenic Socialist Movement's pledge to close the U.S. bases.

Lebanese detain and question 10 journalists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — At least 10 journalists, including three Americans and two Britons, were arrested, blindfolded and struck by Lebanese soldiers Friday at the scene of a clash between the troops and Muslims.

The Western correspondents and photographers in the group were identified as Roby Moyer of Time, Don Mell of The Associated Press, Alan Philips of Reuters, Ken Jobson of UPI/TN and Robert Dietz of Visnews.

Three of them are Americans.

Mell of Wilmington, Del., Moyer of New York City and Dietz, whose hometown could not immediately be determined, Philips and Jobson are Brits.

All the journalists said they were arrested while trying to witness fighting that erupted after security forces were sent to a Shiite Muslim neighborhood to evict squatters from an abandoned Jewish school.

Philips said he was the only reporter interrogated. He said he was asked about notes in his notebook. "They later said we could go back to our reporting," Philips said. "The official explanation for our detention was that there was street fighting, and the army had to be certain that everyone was not involved in some way."

Samantha takes in a ballet

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — With the U.S. ambassador praising her visit as a "plus" for America, an avestrick Samantha Smith saw her first ballet Friday and received a pair of ballet slippers from the prima ballerina.

"It was terrific. I thought it would be boring but it was terrific," the 11-year-old Maine schoolgirl, who was invited to tour the Soviet Union by President Yuri Andropov, said of the "The Fountain of Bakhchisaraiy."

Samantha, who gave up ballet lessons after one year, slipped backstage at the Kirov theater between the first and second acts of the three-hour performance and was presented with the slippers by prima ballerina Alla Gizova.

"They're a perfect fit," Samantha said when she returned to her seat, keeping the slippers on for the remaining acts.

"She's started right at the top," her father, Arthur Smith, said of his daughter's first encounter with classical dance.

The Smiths were seated in the seventh row of the glittering blue, white and gold theater.

Curry hydro plant is humming right along

BY DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Talking to Doug Hull, one gets the idea that low-head hydroelectric projects costing hundreds of thousands of dollars are no big deal.

With disarming informality, the two owners of Curry Bean Co., are as conversant in the language of kilowatts and thrust blocks as in the price of beans and potato.

They can make laying semi-truck-length sections of 60-inch steel pipe sound like a routine exercise in farm maintenance.

But then again, they speak from experience. The two have completed a project of about 220-kilowatts capacity — roughly big enough to power 100 homes.

It has been humming along almost trouble-free among the potato, wheat and beans on their farm, southwest of Twin Falls, for about 45 days.

The Curry Cattle Co. project, as the Hulls is referred to on the rolls of the Idaho Power Co., is built on a Twin Falls Canal lateral. The brothers plan to operate it using 100 cubic feet of water per second that will flow down the lateral for eight months out of each year.

Greg is reluctant to name the exact cost of the project, but he estimates it will produce $3 million during its operating life. The calculation is based on about $80,000 a year in income.

"It's my retirement plan," he says. The money comes from selling electricity to Idaho Power.

Federal legislation — that came about as part of the Carter administration's energy policy in 1973 — has made small hydroelectric projects profitable again, after years when energy policy meant ever bigger investments.

That legislation, and a state law that followed, forces Idaho Power to buy power from small entrepreneurs like the Hulls. They are paid 6.2 cents per kilowatt hour for it. The contract they signed with the utility in January is good for 35 years.

But almost have to drive over their hydro project before you recognize what it is.

A five-foot-high dam in the irrigation lateral diverts water into a 700-foot cement flume. At the end of the flume, the water drops into the mouth of a 60-inch diameter pipe.

The pipe runs down into a powerhouse. The drop in elevation from one end of the pipe to the other is 52 feet.

The water pressure created in the pipe — turns — drives turbines in the powerhouse. Each turbine is attached to a generator, which creates electric energy out of water energy.

Most of all, Greg is pleased with the simplicity of the design. He says an engineer checked the plans, but that he and his brother did most of the design work.

Schenk goes to Bliss

BLISS — Former Castleford Superintendent Ed Schenk apparently will become the new superintendent of the Bliss School District, beginning Aug. 1.

Bliss school board has agreed to hire Schenk, 59, but he has not signed a contract yet.

Harry Graves, the board chairman, said Friday.

Though Schenk refused to name the district, he had said Monday that he intended to take another superintendent's job in Idaho, beginning Aug. 1. He also said he expected the contract to be signed next week.

Once the paperwork is done, Schenk will replace T.R. "Dick" Flores. Flores has resigned as Bliss superintendent to become dean of student affairs at Western Wyoming College in Rock Springs.

Schenk served as superintendent of the Castleford School District for five years. In January, his contract was not renewed by the school board.

Edwards, who has served in the job for 18 years, said Friday. "It's time someone else had it."

"It's a lot more demanding job and takes many more hours than what most people realize."

Twin Falls civil defense director quits

TWIN FALLS — Cloyce Edwards has resigned his post as civil-defense director for Twin Falls County.

However, he will retain his elected post as coroner, according to county commission Chairman Ann Cover.

The resignation will be effective Sept. 30, the end of the county's fiscal year.

Edwards, who has served in the job for 18 years, said Friday. "It's time someone else had it."

"It's a lot more demanding job and takes many more hours than what most people realize."

"It's really a full-time job, and I've only been working at it part-time."

The current job description is for only a part-time position.

"I haven't had a vacation since 1979 and no day off this year," the coroner said. "I'm looking forward to a vacation and regular days off."

The low-key job pays $9,245 a year.

Half of the salary, which is set by the county, is paid by the state Department of Civil Defense, Cover says.

Essentially, the civil-defense director is in charge of developing and maintaining plans for a variety of potential disasters and emergencies. In addition, Edwards says, as civil-defense director he has taught classes to civic groups, schools and churches on nuclear radiation and fallout protection, and he has attended a number of schools to "keep up on what's going on" in the civil-defense field.

State law provides that each county shall maintain a disaster-services agency and appoint an individual to be responsible for that agency's work. Several counties can create one cooperative agency to serve the needs for all the participants.

There are no specific criteria for the job. "I suppose some knowledge of disaster services would be helpful," Cover said.

Cover says the county is in no hurry to name a replacement for the vacancy, since it will not occur until October.

Edwards says he has told the county commissioners he will help teach the job to his replacement, and his expertise in disaster management will be available at any time the county needs it.

Heavy appetites may be appeased with a pancake supper at 5:30 p.m. Pancakes, hash, brownies, eggs,

The day's events will culminate with an evening talent show, sponsored by the Murtaugh Quick Response Unit.

Jeanne Earl, who is supervising the show, says the acts tentatively are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Murtaugh High School auditorium.

But it will depend on how the ballgames go, she says.

About 20 different numbers are planned for the evening, including plano, comedy skills and singing performances, Earl says.

Bob Messner will emcee the show.

"I'd be would really like to encourage everyone to attend," Earl says.

She says a talent show for Friendship Days was begun three years ago and that the response has been good from those participating and those attending.

"They really seem to enjoy it," she says.

Commission lets fathers divide land for sons

BY GREAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Requests by two Magic Valley fathers to split land among their sons have been approved by the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission.

Frank Flores of Castleford was given approval Wednesday night to divide a 2.5-acre parcel from 7.7 acres, which are located three miles south of Castleford.

Flores will take the new section of land and give the remaining one to his son, said Ervin Wilkins, the zoning administrator.

The commission also approved a division of 5.8 acres, located two miles west of the Singing Bridge in Twin Falls, into two two-acre parcels and one 1.8-acre section.

Lantz Crandall of Twin Falls indicated he wanted to give the land to his sons.

With the approval, the commission required that a right of way be allowed. The division would have left the property behind Crandall's land with no access to a country road, Wilkins said.

No one opposed either decision at the Wednesday public hearings. A third request, however, ran into trouble.

The board tabled a request by Harold Peterson of Twin Falls to divide a 5.18-acre parcel from a 40-acre section, located two miles west of Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

In his formal request, Peterson had said he intended to sell the land, which would be used for a small repair and storage shop, and he was seeking a county conditional-use permit.

However, Blair Osterhout, of North West Realty in Twin Falls, represented Peterson at the meeting, and he said the landowner has withdrawn his request for a conditional-use permit for the shop.

The property was going to be sold for residential use, Osterhout said.

About a half-dozen neighbors had turned out to protest the initially proposed commercial use of the property.

That, however, was not the biggest problem the board had with the request.

Osterhout admitted that Peterson already had sold the other 35 acres from the parcel without seeking zoning board approval.

Commission member Wendell Gannon of Buhl called the request "after-the-fact."

Doug Jones, another commission member, voted to table the issue until the board could gather more information on it.

And Robert Pettygrove of Hansen, the commission chairman, said this was the third request in recent months where "P and Z was ignored."

All three requests heard Wednesday night involved agricultural-zoned land.

increasing property-tax assessments in Gooding County, arguing that individual assessors had a right to make assessments according to local conditions.

Gooding County assessor resigns his position

GOODING — Brent Gleaser, the Gooding County assessor, resigned Friday.

"In a tersely worded statement, Gleaser informed the county commission that he was resigning to further his education."

The commission accepted the resignation, which Chairman Will Thomas said was effective immediately.

Chief deputy Mildred Wallace, who has worked in the assessor's office for 10 years, has been named the temporary assessor.

According to Thomas, a permanent replacement will be nominated by the Gooding County Republican Central Committee, since Gleaser was a Republican official. The position will come up for election next in November.

Thomas said he did not know how soon the Republicans will make a nomination.

Although she is a Republican, Wallace said that she will not be a candidate and has accepted the position only on a temporary basis.

Gleaser was re-elected to the position in 1982. His previous term had been plagued by difficulties with the State Tax Commission.

Last year, he refused to follow the guidelines issued by the state for increasing property-tax assessments in Gooding County, arguing that individual assessors had a right to make assessments according to local conditions.

He lost the battle when the Idaho Supreme Court ruled that county assessors must follow State Tax Commission guidelines.

Gleaser was not available for further comment Friday.

Death Gooding man dies on farm

FAIRFIELD — A Gooding resident was the victim of a farm accident Thursday evening in a field, three miles southwest of Fairfield.

William Johanssen Jr., 21, was pronounced dead at 9:25 p.m. at the Blaine County Medical Center in Hailey, according to Camas County Sheriff Hank Lee.

Johanssen was riding on the outside of a bale-stacking machine in a field owned by G.W. Stewart when the mishap occurred at about 7 p.m. The machine, driven by Lonnie Gaizna of Grand View, hit a rough area, and Johanssen fell off and was run over.

He suffered massive head and neck injuries.

A Camas County ambulance crew responded and transported Johanssen to the hospital. En route, the ambulance was met by Blaine County Quick Response Unit members, who provided advanced treatment to the injured man.

Johanssen had been working for farm contractor Jim Wolf of Grand View.

A full obituary is on Page A6.

Car rollover kills teen

SUN VALLEY — An Arizona teenager died Friday of injuries he received earlier in the day at Elkhorn and Meadowridge roads in Sun Valley.

According to Sun Valley police, Dale Dawson Evans, 17, of Scottsdale, died at 10:35 a.m. Friday at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise. Evans was a passenger in a car driven by Michael T. Walker, 19, of Emporia, Kan., who works in Elkhorn Village.

At about 1:10 a.m. Friday,

Walker was southbound on Elkhorn Road, about a half-mile from Elkhorn Village, when his car went off the road and rolled, according to police.

Both men were taken to Moritz Community Hospital in Sun Valley and later transferred to St. Alphonsus.

Walker was reported in fair condition Friday evening.

Sun Valley police would not release further details of the accident Friday because it still was under investigation.

Driver dies on interstate

BURLEY — A 25-year-old Wyoming man died Thursday of head injuries when his truck flipped over, 25 miles south of Burley on Interstate 84.

The victim has been identified as Charles M. Weber of Green River, Wyo., according to Chief Deputy Bill Christy of the Cassia County Sheriff's office.

About 7 p.m., Weber was heading north on the highway when he apparently fell asleep. When the vehicle struck a marker post on the right side of the road, Weber must have awakened and overcorrected the truck, which began to roll, according to the deputy.

Weber was thrown from the vehicle and died at the scene. Christy said the sheriff's office of the accident.

Con men attempt 'pigeon drop' bank scam in Twin Falls

BY BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Phony bank examiners have attempted to hike two people in Twin Falls out of large sums of money during the past week.

At a Twin Falls police and at least one bank manager's request, the police are trying to turn over money to the victim, claiming to be a bank investigator.

Two elderly depositors were contacted this week by men apparently running a "pigeon drop" scheme.

One attempt, which involved a depositor at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co., failed when the elderly woman's daughter got suspicious, says Lance Clow, the vice president for marketing at the Twin Falls institution.

The phony examiner claims to be investigating a fraud or other type of employee problem at the bank and is trying to withdraw the money to aid in the investigation, Clow says. Then, the victim is supposed to take the money to the examiner at a pre-arranged spot.

When they meet, the examiner offers to return the money to the bank, Clow says.

"And, of course, there was no fraud at the bank. What happens is, the person never returns the money to the bank," he says.

Twin Falls police Chief Tim Qualls said Friday that a second incident — involving an elderly depositor at First Federal Savings and Loan Association — also was foiled.

He further said that the scheme is a common ploy and he cautioned people to demand identification from anybody claiming to be conducting an investigation.

Qualls said the police have not made any arrests in the incidents. He would not release further details.

But the scheme fits a similar theft that happened Monday in Boise, said fraud division Detective Mike Riels of the Boise Police Department. A woman was bilked out of between $5,000 and $10,000, he said.

Boise police suspect that that incident and the ones in Twin Falls are being done by the same team of thieves. They also stole money on July 8 from a victim in Tacoma, Wash., he said — Riels said they seem to be moving southeast.

Boise police believe there are at least two people involved.

"We feel one person makes the phone call and sets it up; and a second acts as the contact and makes the pickup," he said. Part of the pickup often is a code number used to identify the phony bank examiner, he said.

The con artists are hard to catch because they typically leave town quickly after getting one person's money, he said.

The Boise victim gave police a description of the man she met. She said he was about 5-foot-9, of medium build, and about 40 years old, and he wore a suit and a tweed hat pulled down near his eyes.

Riels said similar frauds in Boise and other Northwest areas in 1982 lead him to believe that the area might be part of a yearly circuit by the thieves.

Jarbridge hosts antique cars

JARBRIDGE — Members of the Magic Valley Horseless Chariage Club will spend the weekend on an outing in the Jarbridge area today and Sunday.

The club will leave Twin Falls today, take a rest stop at Murphy Hot Springs and be welcomed to Jarbridge with a barbecue, provided by the Outdoor Inn, beginning at 7 p.m.

Sunday, the group will view a slide show on the history of Jarbridge, done by members of the Elko museum's North Nevada Historical Society. Society members also will be bringing with them a special exhibit on Jarbridge, which will be left for several months in the city's community hall.

The club members are expected to drive 12 to 15 of their antique automobiles to the city as part of the excursion.

The boys, age 12 and 15, have been charged with grand theft and released to their parents, Jensen said.

Fire destroys baled alfalfa

HANSEN — Eldon Larson of Hansen lost about 35 tons of baled alfalfa in a fire Wednesday afternoon.

The fire was reported in Larson's farm yard, two miles east of Hansen, at 1:18 p.m., according to a Twin Falls police sheriff's report.

Nine firefighters from the Kimberly Fire Department spent most of their time protecting a nearby shop and barn while the fire burned itself out, Chief Dale Vawser said. There was no damage to the buildings.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Larson had burned weeds on nearby ditches the day before and Vawser said some sparks might have migrated to the alfalfa.

The loss has been estimated at $2,275.

Accident injures out-of-staters

BURLEY — Two persons were injured in a one-car rollover early Thursday morning, 10 miles west of Burley, on Interstate 84.

The driver, Donald Becker, 18, of Grand Forks, N.D., and one of his passengers, Joyce Daniels, 25, of Williston, N.D., were treated and released at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

According to an Idaho State Police dispatcher, the right-rear tire on Becker's vehicle fell off, causing the vehicle to go off the left side of the road. When the car flipped the youth and another passenger, Darren Reinhold, 17, of Concord, Calif., were thrown out. The accident occurred at about 2 a.m.

There was $3,000 damage to the vehicle.

'Taxi' case finally settled

HAILEY — Ed Penney, 44, of Hailey, has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of operating a taxi without a license, quickly ending a case in which he had, at one time, been accused of kidnapping.

Last year, Penney picked up a 15-year-old boy at Friedman Memorial Airport in Hailey and agreed to drive the youth to California where the youth allegedly said his father would be waiting and would pay the fare.

Penney got to Nevada before the youth's mother, in Hailey, reported him missing. Penney was arrested on a second-degree kidnapping charge and returned to Hailey.

But following additional investigation, the charges against him were reduced to contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

In exchange for his guilty plea last week, these charges were reduced to operating a taxi without a license, which had resulted from his failure to comply with a new Hailey law that regulates taxis.

Kiwanis Club helps Pam Allen

TWIN FALLS — The Kiwanis Club of Twin Falls has donated $65 to the Pam Allen Trust Fund, through its collection of newspapers and aluminum cans in June for recycling.

Throughout the year, the service group usually uses its recycling revenue to fund youth programs. There are Kiwanis Club bins for the cans and newspapers at six locations in Twin Falls.

Two-year-old Pam Allen, who is the daughter of Fred and Carol Allen of Twin Falls, has been accepted by a Pittsburgh hospital that has a liver transplant program.

More than $35,000 has been raised this year to help pay the expenses of the Allen family.

Police recover stolen goods

HANSEN — Stolen tools and a motorcycle were returned to their owners this week by the Twin Falls County sheriff's office.

An undetermined amount of tools — stolen from a Hansen shop sometime Sunday night — were recovered Thursday from a residence in town, said Chief Deputy Harold Jensen.

Art Bally reported Monday that the tools had been taken from his auto and construction shop, at 101 Main St. in Hansen, Jensen said. Entry was gained through a window.

Jensen said most of the tools were found at the residence, but he would not elaborate. He did say an arrest is pending in connection with the burglary.

Meanwhile in Kimberly, a motorcycle valued at $300 was given back to its owner, Bradford Walker, who reported it stolen July 5.

Two male juveniles were spotted with the vehicle Sunday in Main by law-enforcement officers. Twin Falls County authorities were notified, and the motorcycle was discovered at one of the juvenile's homes in Hansen.

Eight owners notified

Buhl gets tough on weeds

By KAREN MAIN Times-News Writer

BUHL — Eight Buhl property owners will receive letters from the city attorney, advising them that if their real estate is not cleaned up by July 25, public hearings will be held on the matters.

Buhl fire Chief Mark Grimes told City Council this week that the eight properties are a public nuisance as far as fire safety is concerned.

But despite his requests for removal of debris and weeds, Grimes said the unsightly areas have not been improved.

"For the most part, they've heard from me in the past three years," Grimes said. "But I never give away." "This is the most frustrating problem I think I have ever come up against in this city," he said.

Even if the property owners comply by cleaning up the land one year, the next year it is back in the same condition, he said.

In other business at the meeting: • The council adopted an ordinance and two policies affecting the city's Planning and Zoning Commission, in order to comply with the state Planning Act of 1975.

Under the new ordinance, a planning and zoning member may be removed by a majority vote of the governing body.

The planning and zoning board also will be required to obtain council's approval when hiring an employee, such as a secretary, and to write bylaws that will guide the board.

The new rules should "lighten up procedures," Mayor Jim Barver said.

City attorney Brent Martens agreed to research the laws that cover drunkenness in public.

Police Chief David Hartway told council that water in the last month an intoxicated person has been found passed out in an alley.

However, Hartway said he is barred from removing a drunk because of state laws.

Martens agreed that the laws governing the prosecution of public drunkenness have been declared unconstitutional.

"A year ago, protective custody went right out the window," he said. "It's no longer a crime to be drunk in public."

However, Hartway said he felt a "moral obligation to help people, even if they don't want to be helped."

Because he said he did not want to leave a person to be "run over," and since the ambulance service will not move a drunk at the risk of being sued, Hartway asked Martens to find out if there are any alternatives.

Council decided to further study where to deposit the city's money.

Under a state law, which went into effect July 1, municipalities must determine in advance how city funds are to be distributed.

In the past, Buhl's $300,000 to $400,000 has been deposited in "savings banks," the mayor said.

But now, banks are bid for municipal deposits.

Representatives of the three banks attended the meeting to offer their advice to council.

The file which recommended that Buhl replace its 1973 fire code with that of the 1982 state edition, with the exception of regulations covering fireworks — which are stricter in Buhl.

Grimes agreed to prepare a study of the city's fire code, compared to the state code, so council can see the differences.

However, he said the state regulations supersede the city rules, regardless of what council decides.

Three suits seek $5-million plus

By PAT MARGANTONIO Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Three lawsuits involving more than $5 million have been filed in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls over a broken bank, contaminated well and a city water-meter hole.

Jerome residents James and Lillian Smallwood are seeking about $4.6 million in a claim that alleges negligence by Dr. Carole N. Dick of Twin Falls.

In the suit, Smallwood says that he was admitted to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center on Oct. 16, 1981, for injuries he sustained in a car accident. Dick took X-rays of his broken neck, but failed to notice or diagnose a fractured vertebra in Smallwood's back, the suit claims.

Days later, when Smallwood was allowed out of the bed, he was in pain and the lower back injuries were discovered.

The Jerome resident had become paralyzed from the waist down, the suit claims.

Smallwood is requesting $3 million for the permanent paralysis, $25,000 for loss of income and more than a million dollars for medical expenses, estimated rehabilitative expenses and equipment, and attorneys' fees.

The suit was filed Tuesday in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

In another claim, Twin Falls resident Ralph Brannan is seeking $55,000 from the city of Twin Falls.

Filed Monday, the suit alleges that Brannan suffered injuries this April when he walked around to the back of his parked car and stepped into a water-meter hole at 126 Locust St. The suit contends the city was negligent because the hole should have been covered.

Brannan is requesting $50,000 for his pain and suffering, $30,000 for medical expenses and $25,000 for attorneys' fees and miscellaneous damages.

Smallwood and Brannan both have requested jury trials.

Contaminated water is the subject of another civil action.

Virginia Hill of Twin Falls claims in a suit filed Friday that waste from the Amalgamated Sugar Co. plant near Twin Falls has contaminated her nearby well.

Hill alleges that her well had been producing well-pure water until the plant began pumping waste onto the land. Then, the groundwater became contaminated and her well polluted, making the water unfit for human or animal consumption, the suit states.

John Lemke, the Ogden, Utah, corporation's lawyer, said Friday that the sugar company had not been the complainant and had no commensurate suit seeking $100,000 from the company and asking the court to demand that Amalgamated stop dumping until the suit is resolved.

Hill and her attorney, Randy Surrer, were not available for comment Friday.

None of the defendants in the lawsuits have filed answers to the allegations. And the cases have not been set for hearing in Fifth District Court.

Reducing engineering expenses allowed them to build the project at the lowest possible cost, he says.

After shopping around with area banks, the brothers finally went outside to get the best deal, Greg says.

The term on their loan is 10 years. But even during the payment period, there will be income to spare, he says.

The water they use belongs to the Twin Falls Canal Co., of which they are stockholders. They researched the history of 30 years of flow in the lateral to make sure they had scaded their project correctly.

But since their use is non-commercial, they pay no fee to the company.

If anything, Doug says, scooping a water-logged baseball cap of a screening grate at the head of the flume, they're getting the water cleaner than they receive it.

And since they own the land on either side of the lateral, they pay no royalty to any other landowner, either.

Doug guesses there are few sites with as many advantages as theirs.

But not all area hydro developers have been blessed with such good fortune.

In some cases, miscalculation has turned checks from Idaho Power into bills, Greg says.

And there are many hidden dangers.

The brothers are particularly concerned about vandalism. They deliberately keep a low profile on account of that danger.

Missouri' Lutherans remain conservative

LOUIS (UPI) — A conservative trend that caused a major rift in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in the 1970s was reaffirmed at the synod's convention, which ended Friday. The synod, with 2.7 million members, and the second-largest Lutheran group in North America, passed resolutions condemning abortion and ending other religious leaders for their anti-nuclear pronouncements. The convention delegates also elected the Rev. Ralph A. Bohmann to a second term as synod president. Bohmann was one of five professors who remained at their posts during a dispute in 1974 at Concordia Seminary. At the time, it was the largest Protestant theological school in the country. Other professors and most students at the St. Louis-based school walked out in a dispute over interpretation of the Bible. They formed a rival seminary, called Seminary for Seminary on campus. Eventually, nearly 100,000 students split from the church and formed the Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Two decades after court ruling

O'Hair still is fighting 'religious nuts'

By ROBERT McCLEURE United Press International TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Two decades after the Supreme Court banned organized religion from the nation's schools, atheist activist Madalyn Murray O'Hair is still attacking the Bible, Jesus Christ, God and the nuts who follow them. The woman who booted prayer out of the public schools today is doing so with a battle with religious fundamentalists — "the nuts" — committed to reversing her prayer-in-the-schools victory — as well as textbook publishers and believers on college campuses. Twenty years ago, the Supreme Court decided O'Hair's son should not have to sit through organized prayer or Bible readings of a "reverential" nature in school. That landmark decision has excluded most anything religious, or that could be construed as supportive of religion, from taxpayer-financed educational institutions. Now, O'Hair's issues have expanded, but they follow the same theme. Today, they include eradicating pro-religion references in textbooks and convincing atheists to band together for what she says could be a better world — without religion. In a recent speaking stint at Florida State University, O'Hair attacked the "gospel" according to St. Matthew. Genesis says plants were created before light, so there could have been no photosynthesis. "But God was too dumb to know that." On original sin, or "the alleged sin of Eve," "it they had sexual apparatus, what did God expect them to do? ... Well, anyway, finally a talking snake gets into the act and says, 'Eve, do you know what that thing is for?' ... So God, after he gave them that equipment, punishes them for using it." Noah was "an old drunk" and the flood story is ridiculous anyway. "For God so loved the world he drowned all the people?" Of Passover: "God kills every first-born child — the single most heinous, bloodthirsty crime against any race in history." She refers to Christ as "J.C." and points out that he was not descended from David, as the Old Testament predicted the messiah would be, because he was fathered by the Holy Spirit, at least according to the New Testament. "He was an unemployed bum mooching off those who worked. His alleged miracles were petty and insignificant. He should have taught us about the printing press. He was a whiner, a misfit." Her heavyset frame, covered by a loose purple cotton shirt resembling a large bag, the grandmotherly, silver-haired 64-year-old says she is fueled by "the arrogance of excellence." The arrogance was obvious as she took on the questioners at FSU. "You're throwing the good out with the bad. You're saying all Christians are bad," one listener argued. "Oh, I've been through this with so many of you," O'Hair said, cutting him off. "You can't stereotype me," he protested. "Just did," she shot back. "Curiously, the son O'Hair sought to protect from prayer today proclaims he is a born-again Christian. William J. Murray III, born out of wedlock, says his mother — a communist who had been rejected for Soviet citizenship — was broke and without a cause. He says she filed the anti-prayer suit for the money and the notoriety it would bring. In an interview, O'Hair refused to elaborate on her statement to the audience that her son is controlled partially by President Ronald Reagan and fundamentalist minister Jerry Falwell. "His whole pitch is to defame his mother," she said. "The trip I'm on — it's not my bag; I will not defame my son." She notes that Reagan wanted 1983 to be the Year of the Bible and urges Americans to read "this timeless and priceless message." "It's absolutely nuts, but it's a timeless and priceless message" — that includes incest, adultery, murder, fratricide, bigamy and polygamy, O'Hair says. O'Hair works out of a 32-room office building in Austin, with 11 paid employees and six volunteers. American Atheists claims 48 chapters in 28 states, plus television shows and the American Atheist Press. Some 38,000 families are affiliated with AA, O'Hair says. The group's time now is mostly spent screening textbooks for pro-religious references, then trying to convince school officials to drop those texts. Another cause that O'Hair advocates is equality of the sexes. So why does she always call God a he? "The trip I'm on — it's not my bag; I put on a woman."

Price-fixing of gas charged

POCATELLO (UPI) — A U.S. District Court jury Friday indicted four corporations and eight men, including former state Sen. James A. Leese, D-Pocatello, on charges of conspiring to fix retail gasoline prices in Bannock County.

Named in the afternoon indictments were Leese, who retired from the Legislative District 34 Senate post in 1980 after two terms, and his son, James B. Leese. The men are involved in the operation of Leese-Oil Co., which was not listed as a defendant in the indictments.

Other defendants included Continental Fuel Co. and two of its owners, Don Blesner and George Frost, both of Pocatello; Howard O. Miller and H. David Miller, operators at Howard O. Miller Co.; Vern Herzog Oil Co.; Pocatello; Earl Pitkon; Triangle Oil Co.; Bountiful, Utah; and Roberts TBA-Service Inc. and its president, Edwin H. Roberts, Pocatello. The Idaho U.S. attorney's office, which announced the indictments, said the complaints alleged the defendants fixed prices on gasoline sold in the Pocatello area from January 1978 through October 1982.

Prosecutors said the firms retailed an estimated 15 million gallons of the fuel from 1978 through 1982. Assistant U.S. Attorney William Van Hile in Boise said details about the alleged price-fixing operation were not being disclosed.

Leese was contacted by telephone Friday afternoon, said he had "nothing at all" to say about the indictment against him. He referred questions to his Pocatello attorney, Lamont Jase. The lawyer could not be contacted Friday.

Leese was appointed to the state Senate in 1977 to replace Robert Kinghorn. He retired from the upper chamber after serving in three regular legislative sessions.

Reached at his office in Pocatello Friday afternoon, Howard Miller said he had no comment on the allegations. Attempts to reach the other six individual defendants were unsuccessful.

Court clerks at Boise said the defendants would be arraigned within two weeks before U.S. Magistrate Craig Jorgensen at Pocatello. If convicted, the corporations named as defendants each could receive a fine of $1 million, and the individuals could be fined $100,000 apiece and imprisoned for three years.

The U.S. attorney's office said the indictments stemmed from a lengthy investigation by the Justice Department's Antitrust Division, the FBI, and federal prosecutors based in Idaho.

McClure fattens war chest

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. James McClure's campaign coffers swelled by more than $154,000 in the first half of 1983 as preparations get underway for the reelection campaign next year, a financial disclosure report showed Friday.

The McClure for U.S. Senate Committee reported receiving funds from 745 individuals and committees, 114 political action groups, with total collections of $154,564.

The report, required by the Federal Elections Committee, said the campaign organization had $9,919 in its coffers as of the beginning of the year. It had $27,174 left by June 30 after having spent $68,211 during the six-month period.

While McClure's campaign picks up steam with purchases of printing and mailing materials, office supplies and video services, no Democrats or other Republicans have ventured forward to oppose the two-term incumbent.

Although several Democrats have hinted they might challenge McClure in the 1984 campaign, the Idaho secretary of State's office — which released a copy of the senator's financial report — said none of the potential opponents have filed papers establishing campaign organizations. The McClure committee filed a document in late April designating

SEN. JAMES MCCLURE Prepares for election

Itself as the senator's formal campaign organization for 1984, and McClure himself signed a declaration of candidacy in early May.

After former U.S. Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus crossed his name off the list of possible Democratic contenders this spring, several Democrats in the state of Idaho challenged McClure, who is chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee.

Those who expressed more than passing interest were Idaho Treasurers Marjorie Ruth Moon, state Sen. John Peavey of Carey, and Lewiston real estate agent Pete Busch.

The financial report filed by McClure's supporters indicated the organization garnered $39,834 from individuals from January through June, $15,590 from Republican Party campaign committees, and $99,540 from political-action committees.

Contributions from corporate sources included those from Morrison-Knudsen Co. PAC, $5,000; Boise Cascade Corp. PAC, $2,500; Realtors PAC, $4,000; Potlatch Employees Political Fund, $1,000; General Motors Civic Involvement Committee, $1,000; Amoco PAC, $2,000; Associated General Contractors of America PAC, $1,000; Avco Corp. PAC, $1,000; Ashland Oil Co. PAC, $1,000; and Alcoa Employees Political Fund, $1,000.

McClure also received contributions from corporate executives, including Idaho Power Co. Chairman James Bruce and Idaho Power lobbyist Logan Lanham, $250 each; Boise Cascade Chairman John Ferry, $200; and G. Nicholas III, owner of the Idaho State Journal, Pocatello, $500.

Uzi for crowd control

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Bingham County Sheriff Mike Shloski said Friday he will not agree to purchase the County Commission to pay for an Israeli-made Uzi automatic machine gun he recently obtained for use in "crowd-control" situations.

"If someone with a handgun sees one of my officers with this weapon, the other person will know he's out-classed," Shloski said.

Commission members said this week they believed Shloski went overboard with the purchase, and they refused to pay for the gun. Shloski, who said he carries the weapon in the trunk of his patrol car, said he planned to offer further argument in favor of the weapon at the commission's scheduled Monday meeting.

"It's for crowd control," he said. The sheriff said he wasn't sure if he could return the weapon to the manufacturer. If commissioners held firm with their refusal.

The $600, 9mm gun is capable of firing 600 rounds per minute, and law-enforcement officials said it may be the only such weapon in Idaho.

Commissioner Dale Arave said the commission balked at the bill because members believe there is no need for such a weapon in Bingham County, a largely rural county in eastern Idaho.

"I'm very opposed to having this weapon at all," Arave said. Shloski said, however, that with the gun, his agency now is "ready for anything that may happen." "It may not come about, but at least we'll be ready," he said.

4 face drug charges

BOISE (UPI) — Four adults accused of operating a multi-state drug smuggling ring were arrested on a variety of narcotics charges after police purchased more than a pound of cocaine from them, Law Enforcement Department spokesmen said Friday.

Agency spokesmen Les Hopkins said officers seized 1.2 pounds of cocaine — with an estimated street value of $67,500 — and $2,000 in cash at 11:30 p.m. Thursday in Boise. The drug purchase capped a three-week investigation, he said.

Arrested were Leo Gasse, 41, and Judi Frost, 38, both of Las Vegas, Nev., and Calvin Strange, 26, and Terry Gordy, no age available, both of Caldwell.

Hopkins said Gasse and Strange are accused of delivery of a controlled substance. Gordy is charged with conspiracy to deliver, and Frost is accused of possession of cocaine.

Governor wants sale delay

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. John Evans asked the Bureau of Land Management Friday to delay the scheduled July 20 auction of a 140-acre tract of public property near Pocatello.

In a letter to BLM Director Claire Whitlock, the governor said the Buckskin Tract is used extensively for recreational activities and has "important public values."

BLM spokeswoman Trudie Olson said the agency had not reviewed Evans' letter late Friday and would not decide whether to delay the auction until early next week.

Evans asked Whitlock to postpone the sale for three months to allow time for public comment.

"There are important public values associated with this tract," he said. "With its proximity to town, the area is used heavily by a wide variety of groups."

Evans also said the land is not suited for expansion by the city of Pocatello.

Island Park project funded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho Sens. James McClure and Steve Symms announced Friday the Office of Management and Budget has agreed to support plans to repair Island Park Dam due to a threatened cutoff of the agency's funds.

The senators said the Bureau of Reclamation could begin repairs on the 100-foot dam within 90 days after a report from OMB is sent to Congress.

Objections from congressmen could stop the repairs — but both McClure and Symms said they anticipated no problems once the Senate received the OMB report.

A 1978 study said faults exist in the Island Park Dam and could result in a dam break or a fracture in the dike embankment.

To force OMB to approve the repair work, McClure this spring attached an amendment to an appropriations bill. That amendment would withhold all of OMB's funding if it does not release its findings on the Island Park dam within 15 days of the bill's passage.

A House-Senate conference committee is expected to approve the bill next week.

The vice president was defensive in his NAACP speech Bush addresses a hostile NAACP

By KANDACE POWER
United Press International

NEW ORLEANS, La. (UPI) — Vice President George Bush Friday chided the NAACP for setting a goal of defeating the administration next year and said "the door to the Reagan White House" will always be open to black leaders.

In a strongly defensive prepared address, Bush said "I think a wall of misunderstanding exists between most members" of the NAACP and the Reagan administration, "and no single speech or action is going to break that down."

The vice president particularly criticized the NAACP leadership for indicating "that their top priority next year is to defeat the administration I serve."

He took issue with the charge by Executive Director Benjamin Hooks that "this administration doesn't care about the plight of blacks in America."

"We do care, and we care deeply," he added. Although NAACP delegates gave Bush a cool reception, warm greetings were extended to former Vice President Walter Mondale and Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, two of six announced Democratic presidential candidates.

Mondale was clearly the favorite among the three politicians who spoke at the close of the weeklong convention. He received the largest ovation of the convention when he reiterated his support of civil rights enforcement was "dead wrong."

The charge has been made that this administration has shut its ears to the voices of black Americans," he said, adding "but that just isn't so."

Candidates Walter Mondale and John Glenn both did well in a poll of Democratic leaders

Candidates parade for party faithful

DETROIT — Democratic leaders listened Friday to three presidential hopefuls — a Western liberal and two Southern moderates — and got a glimpse of a potential black candidate who could dramatically change the 1984 political landscape.

The Democratic National Committee heard an hour-long presentation from Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, and former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida. It gave time Thursday to the acknowledged front-runners in the six-man party nomination race, former Vice President Walter Mondale and Sen. John Glenn of Ohio.

Mondale and Glenn's status was bolstered by surveys taken by CBS and ABC News.

The CBS poll reached 302 of the 374 national committee members. CBS reported that 29 percent believed Mondale would carry their states' primary or caucuses, while Glenn's chances were raised first by 12 percent. Cranston had 5 percent and the other candidates had 1 percent each.

Fewer than half the DNC members would give CBS their personal candidate preferences. Of those who did, Mondale got 22 percent, Glenn 10 percent, Cranston 5 percent, Hart 3 percent and Askew and Hollings 2 percent each.

In the ABC survey Mondale was the first choice of 19 percent of those who responded. Glenn got 8 percent; Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., 3 percent; Cranston and Hollings, 2 percent each; and Askew, 1 percent. About 43 percent of those who responded said they were undecided. Eighty percent of the members were reached and 10 percent of those contacted declined to give their preferences.

An added starter to the candidate "cattle show" was civil rights activist Jesse Jackson, who was given 10 minutes to discuss voter registration.

Jackson, considering a presidential run, Thursday received what could be considered qualified support from a DNC Black Caucus resolution.

The resolution said a black presidential candidacy "would be more than appropriate." The resolution, however, did not endorse Jackson.

Cranston took the most militarily liberal stance in his speech and replied to DNC questions. He said he would campaign on issues of full employment and arms control.

On the last, Cranston said he would withhold placement of Pershing II missiles in Europe until there had been "a constructive and dedicated, persevering, fair effort to negotiate an end to all this folly with the Soviet Union."

Under President Reagan, "that effort has not been made and will not be made," he said.

Detectives to examine tapes owned by Morgan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Recently disclosed audio and videotapes belonging to Vicki Morgan will be reviewed by detectives investigating the murder of the long-time mistress to presidential candidate Alfred Bioningdale, police said Friday.

The man who confessed to beating Miss Morgan to death with a baseball bat while she slept July 7 told his attorney there were tapes — both audio and video — that were embarrassing to the Reagan administration.

"I was not known if the tapes to be reviewed by police were the same tapes confessed killer Marvin Pancoast, 33, described to his attorney, Arthur Baren, or the so-called "sex tapes" attorney Robert K. Steinberg claimed he viewed with two unidentified persons last Saturday.

Miss Morgan's attorney, Michael Dave, told UPI Thursday he had several "Innocuous" videotapes that were found by homicide detectives in Miss Morgan's apartment. The videotapes were first given to Miss Morgan's family, and detectives later asked Dave to safeguard the material in case it became relevant to the murder investigation. Dave said the videotapes were not those described by Steinberg, who has been the focus of intense criticism since he claimed Monday that he saw three videotapes showing high government officials at "sex parties."

Sgt. William Welch confirmed that a book manuscript was also found in Miss Morgan's North Hollywood apartment, but said he did not believe it was written by her or Pancoast, who shared her rented condominium for three weeks.

"At this point," Booth said, "we would want to look at Scotch Tape."

Nazi convicted of murders

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Avowed Nazi Frank Spisak, who waged a personal guerrilla war against blacks and Jews, was convicted Friday of aggravated murder in the slayings of three people last year at Cleveland State University.

He could receive the death penalty. Spisak showed no emotion as the jurors delivered the verdict after deliberating 6 1/2 hours Thursday evening and Friday.

Defense attorneys had conceded that Spisak, 33, of Cleveland, would be convicted because he testified that he committed the murders.

Spisak admitted killing the three last year during what he called a guerrilla war he was waging against his enemies — blacks and Jews.

His defense of innocent by reason of insanity was rejected by a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas judge after the defense failed to produce a witness to say Spisak was criminally insane.

The jury of six men and six women included four blacks, one Jew and a World War II veteran.

Defense attorney Thomas Shaughnessy said there was no defense to the charges but told the jurors, "We will be back to see you another day."

He was referring to a second hearing during which evidence will be presented on whether Spisak should die in the electric chair or receive a life sentence. The jury makes a recommendation and then the judge passes sentence.

During three days on the stand, Spisak, a former CSU student, spouted his Nazi beliefs that blacks and Jews were trying to take over the world, and that he was called on by God to kill them.

Last passenger runs cross Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Two trains — one eastbound, one westbound — rolled through Wyoming Friday, marking the end of more than 115 years of passenger rail service.

People in two Wyoming cities Friday held celebrations marking the end of passenger rail service in the Equality State.

In Rawlins, cannons, bugles, an elephant and the Rawlins High School band arranged to meet the trains. Townspeople planned to stage a mock hold-up of the trains.

"We want to draw attention to Amtrak's goodbyes," one organizer said. "We're not happy about it, but there seems to be no alternative."

At Evanston, they called the party "The Last Passenger Train Through Wyoming, Wyoming Celebration."

Ernie Over, chief of news and information for the Wyoming Travel Commission, said .5 percent of tourists will come to Wyoming since the passenger trains.

Snakes a booming business

HAMILTON, Wyo. (UPI) — Earl Grimmon, owner of the Big Sky Rattlesnake Co., is asking rattlesnake hunters to bring their catches to him during the Rattlesnake Roundup Sale July 30-31.

Grimmon processes them for scientists who need snake parts for research.

The snakes, hooded, western, garter and black, are lucrative products for Grimm to market, not to mention the skin, which is used for shoes and handbags.

"We got a market for the guts," he said. "They're making trapping lure out of that."

Brown wins her third state amateur

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — Karen Brown of Twin Falls once again reigns as the queen of Idaho amateur golf.

A two-foot uphill birdie putt on the second overtime hole allowed Brown to clinch victory for the third time in five years. It also kept Hayden Lake's Connie Guthrie (nee Oldershaw) from spanning a 31-year golf since she last won this as a 17-year-old.

With a whoop, a jump and then some tears of joy, Brown concluded a day-long grind in a tournament that might have provided the biggest golf moneybook in the history of Idaho women's play.

Brown battled from three strokes off the pace to lead four times, Guthrie from two down to lead as many times and Rupert's Sue Kushlan, who took a two-stroke lead into the final round, saw that melt away but came back twice to regain the lead. Always a step behind, Guthrie closed to within a stroke. Four times the top three were tied during the round.

At the end, Brown and Guthrie were tied on eight strokes over par on the Highland Golf Course, with Kushlan at 237 and Smith at 238.

For a couple of reasons this could have been the best competitive round Brown has played in the state. Not that she hasn't beaten the 77 she posted but from a maturity and pressure standpoint.

"This win is really special," she smiled through her tears after the playoff. "I was disappointed the last two years and last year was a big disappointment because I wanted to win at home," she added, referring to the three-putt on the final green that relegated her to second behind Böler's Bev Mullins.

It also was mind-settling for Brown to know that she now has the ability to play championship golf without all the gee-whizz of her first golfing years.

"Golf is not as important to me as it was. At one time all I thought about and without us was golf. But as I get older (she's 25 now), I have other priorities. But it's good to win this one because I know now that I can still win without practicing every spare minute like I used to."

And Brown was cognizant of the importance of her foursome, which was the same for two straight days. "Playing against players of the caliber of Connie and Sue and Jean, well, it just helps me and the rest of the tournament so much to play to our best. Didn't you think this was the best competitive championship flight you've seen in this tournament?" she asked.

What made the final round important for Brown is that it was solid. Her career has been checkered with violent swings of excellence to disaster, often from hole-to-hole. This time she didn't make the super play — but she fended off all chances for disaster.

Over the feast of these came on the eighth hole, a three-par with the tee mounted well above the green some 202 yards away. Thursday Brown rolled her tee shot, followed with a couple of bloopers and came away with a triple bogey six that threatened to send her out of contention.

Friday she stood at the same tee and did practically the same thing. "I know this shot," she said as she turned from the tee, then moved to her ball and took a four.

"I knew I wasn't going to make six again. I told myself that a four would be good enough and a five wouldn't kill me. But I wasn't going to make a stupid shot and take another six," she said.

The continuing refrain of the final foursome was "I didn't know exactly how the match stood at any point and I was trying not to think about it."

"I decided I wasn't going to try to keep track of it," Brown said in a voice outburst. "But I had it pretty well sorted out that Connie and I were tied coming down 18. I wanted a (birdie) four there."

"I just kept trying to make pars. I thought I was three-four-five strokes off of it all day although I knew that eagle on No. 9 helped me," Smith said. She was surprised to learn that she had been within a stroke a couple of times early in the back nine.

"I didn't try to keep it straight until I asked just after No. 14," said Guthrie.

But the apparently most surprised was Kushlan who was unaware that her eagle putt on No. 18 could have moved her into a tie. It stayed a little left of the hole and the birdie pulled her to within one.

"After the way I played and the way the other three were playing, I couldn't believe it when they told me I finished just one stroke behind," Kushlan said. "I thought I was four or five behind after 15."

"I told her on 16 and 17 that she was just too behind. That's how much she listens to me," smiled husband Glen Kushlan.

The statistics of the final round gave an indication of the way the battle waged but couldn't express the competitiveness of the group.

Kushlan littered away her three-stroke lead on Brown in the first three holes.

Humphreys named Buhl cage coach

BUHL — Wayne Humphreys, who coached for three years at Richfield and for four more at Filer, has been named the new boys' basketball coach at Buhl High School.

Buhl High Principal Dale Thornberry made the announcement on Friday. Humphreys will replace Ben Allen, who was named last month to replace Pat Hoke as the basketball mentor at Jerome High School. Hoke resigned to become a graduate assistant coach at the University of Idaho.

Thornberry also announced that assistant wrestling coach Gene Clemens has been named head wrestling coach. Clemens will replace Jeff Howell, who left at the end of last school year to take a teaching and coaching position in Wyoming.

Humphreys has coached for the past two seasons in the Portland, Ore., suburb of Tigard. Prior to that he coached from 1977 to 1981 at Filer and from 1974 to 1976 at Richfield.

Humphreys, an eastern Idaho native and an Idaho State University graduate, will also provide physical education at Buhl High. Thornberry's decision about Humphreys' assistant coaches will be made after the new coach arrives in Buhl next week.

Clemens, a native of Kellogg, who came to Buhl from Hillsboro, Idaho, will become the school's only wrestling coach next fall. Because of budgetary constraints, no assistant coach will be hired. Clemens will continue to teach government.

Thornberry also said Friday that he would probably be assuming the additional responsibility of athletic director for the school next year. Assistant Principal Jeri Englekling.

Spinks won't fight heavy Muhammad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The world light heavyweight title fight between champion Michael Spinks and Eddie Mustafa Muhammad, switched to a 10-round, non-title bout because the challenger could not meet the 175-pound weight limit, was called off Friday night four hours before the fight.

At a wild news conference, promoter Bob Levin announced that Muhammad decided not to go on with the fight after consulting with himself and veteran trainer Eddie Futch. Muhammad tried to take over the dais at the start of the news conference as Levin stood next to him.

Muhammad started shouting at Lewis and then grabbed him as Dwight Muhammad Qawi, the former World Boxing Council light heavyweight champion who was to fight on the undercard, jumped up and went to Muhammad.

The two fighters were quickly separated and Muhammad was escorted from the room, which was cleared before the press was admitted.

"As I was laying in bed and resting, I thought 'Why am I going through this?'" Spinks said. "I was tired of Mustafa-Muhammad's intolerable actions — suing me to fight me, taking us through every storm to make the fight — and then turning around and not making the weight."

"He spoke of things he had no business speaking of. I felt that he wasn't worthy of me, being in the same ring with me. I felt strongly about it; I felt I was making a hard choice and stooping to his level if I allowed him to be in the same ring with me."

Bryant notwithstanding, defense will decide USFL winner

By RICK GOSSELLIN

DENVER — Offense sells tickets and defense wins championships — except that the offense didn't hold its end of the bargain for Sunday's inaugural U.S. Football League championship game.

An offensive cast that includes 1,000-yard rusher Kelvin Bryant and Ken Lacy, 1,000-yard receiver Anthony Carter and the USFL's top passer Bobby Hebert was able to sell only 40,000 tickets for the game between the Atlantic Division champion Philadelphia Stars and the Central Division champion Michigan Panthers.

Position-by-position matchups for Sunday's USFL championship game

DENVER (UPI) — Position-by-position matchups for the Michigan Panthers and Philadelphia Stars in the inaugural U.S. Football League championship game Sunday.

Quarterback — Chuck Pulaski has the head and heart for Philadelphia but rookie Bobby Hebert, of Michigan, has the arm and the attitude. Edge: Michigan.

Running backs — Kelvin Bryant of Philadelphia is as good as any two backs. Who is just what Michigan happens to have. Rookies Ken Lacy and John Williams give the Panthers enough to counterbalance Bryant's greatness. Edge: Michigan.

Wide receiver — Anthony Carter and Derek Hillberry give Michigan the best set of wideouts in the league. They provide the big play while Philadelphia's group of SOFT FIZZLES, wide O'Callier and Tom Doovoor provide ball control. Edge: Michigan.

Tight end — Mike Cobb led Michigan with 61 receptions. Steve Puleon caught 26 for Philadelphia. Cobb, a former first-round NFL draft pick, also has the edge in experience. Edge: Michigan.

Offensive line — Panthers had to get Thom Derobrock, Ray Pizany and massive Tyrone McGriff to shore up their line early in the season. Stars built a strong line from the beginning and kept the way for Bryant to gain 1,462 yards. Edge: Philadelphia.

Defensive line — Both use three-man lines. Stars performed better here the first time those teams met. Edge: Philadelphia.

Linebacker — Panthers quartet of John Corcor, Robert Poggiorelli, Ray Bentley and Kyle Bernard is the class of the league. Star Mike is a giant at 5-4 for the Stars. Edge: Michigan.

Secondary — Stars give Panthers edge at strong safety, but David Greenwood does not have a Grand Canyon advantage over Scott Woerner, Antonio Githen, Jonathan Sutton and Mike Lamb collectively have edge over Clarence Chapman, Oliver Davis and John Arnesen. Edge: Philadelphia.

Returners — Stars can't match Panthers' Carter on punt returns and Michigan's Lonnie Phee is not that far behind Philadelphia's Allen Harvin. Edge: Michigan.

Kicking Game — David Trost of Stars was 26-of-42 in field goals; missing only 5-of-25 inside the 40. Novo-Bejelovic, who put advantage back into the extra point, kicked 26-of-28 for Michigan. Five of those misses beyond the 40. Edge: Philadelphia.

Punting — Philadelphia got 419 yards a kick from Steve Landetta while Michigan walked all season before settling on safety David Greenwood, who averaged 41.4 but is not dependent on his average to keep his job. Edge: Philadelphia.

Depth — Edge, Philadelphia. But both are thin.

Intestines — Philadelphia clinched early, then stumbled home. Michigan hottest team in the league, winning 12 of last 14. Edge: Michigan.

defensive back Scott Woerner, "with all that I've read in the papers and seen on television, I'd look at this game as a Kelvin Bryant (Philadelphia) versus Bobby Hebert and Anthony Carter (Michigan)."

"But when I was at — Georgia (1978-80), our defensive coordinator Erk Russell had a big sign in his office — 'Defense wins championships.' I look back through the years at all the great championship teams and you'll find good defense a common trait. If they don't score on us Sunday, we aren't going to lose."

Philadelphia fielded the best defense in the USFL this season and Michigan boasted the most intimidating unit.

The Stars "Doghouse Defense" ranked first in the league against the rush with an average yield of 104 yards per game and also allowed the fewest points (204) en route to a 15-3 record. The Panthers ranked third against the rush (118 yards per game) and led the league in sacks with 74 en route to a 12-3 mark.

The Stars posted one shutout this season, held three other opponents to a field goal or less and 12 of their 16 games held the opposition to 10 points or fewer. That defense is spearheaded by 5-foot-9 middle linebacker Sam Mills, who led the Stars in tackles with 141, and safety Woerner, who had 8 interceptions.

"You've always got a chance to win if you're playing good defense," Philadelphia Coach Jim Mora said. "We've got a chance to play every game with our defense. It's pulled us through our defense times this season. We've even won a game when we didn't score a touchdown (6-3 over Denver Gold May 9).

"Every offense is going to struggle at times; there'll be some days when things just don't click. But if you're playing good defense you can hang in there. Even though our defense gave up 38 points last week in 42-38 playoff game over Chicago), it made the other team work for the points and then held when it had to in the fourth quarter. The score could have been much worse — we had seven turnovers — but our defense kept us in a touchdown or less and our other opponents under 20 points in that stretch.

The only offense to really handle the Michigan defense during that stretch was that of the Stars, who ran 29 punts up to a revitalized Michigan's premier linebacker John Corker. He finished the season with a league-leading 28 1/2 sacks but didn't get a one against the Stars that day (June 5).

Stadler fends off big surge by Watson, Trevino

By MORLEY MYERS
United Press International

BIRKDALE, England — Tom Watson and Lee Trevino posted excellent sub-par scores Friday in the second round of the British Open in a move within a stroke of faltering leader Craig Stadler.

Stadler, who carded a remarkable 64 Thursday and entered the day with a three-stroke cushion, had three bogeys in a second round 70 that left him at 134 in the 448,000 event.

Watson, the defending champion, fired a 68 and Trevino, a two-time winner, had a 66 in the afternoon's best round to finish the day tied for second at 135. British Nick Faldo followed the three Americans with a

British Open

136 after shooting a 68.

Bill Rogers, the 1981 champion, and Hal Sutton lost opportunities to gain ground with 71s. Rogers, who had a 67 Thursday, is at 138 and tied for fifth with Terry Gale of Australia. Sutton, coming off an opening round 68, was in a three-way tie for seventh at 139.

Stadler, whose polished putting helped him to a 7-under-par opening round, struggled to hold his game together as wind swept the 6,900-yard Royal Birkdale course.

"Two things affected me today — the wind and my putting," he said.

Stadler, who had four birdies, ran into trouble from the tee.

"With the wind swirling, I drove the ball badly and the only time I hit the fairway was when I used my 1-iron," he said. "I would be the first to admit I am not the greatest in the wind. I would rather play in rain or anything else but wind."

Watson and Trevino enjoyed better conditions.

Bidding to win his fifth British Open in nine years, Watson suffered his second successive bogey at the difficult 468-yard, par-4 sixth. But he reached the turn in regulation with a 20-foot birdie 3-putt at the ninth.

Watson collected three more birdies on the back nine. He sank a 22-footer at the 11th, pitched a sand wedge from 100 yards within three feet of the hole on the 13th and got down in 2 from 35 feet at the 17th.

"All in all it was a good round of golf," Watson said. "I played well during the middle part of the round. I had some good breaks and probably this is the true picture of any round of golf."

Watson conceded he was fortunate to avoid the worst of the wind.

"The course played relatively easy the wind died down midway during the round and the earlier players were at a disadvantage when the wind was up."

"I was a little sluggish for the last four or five holes and had to force myself to concentrate. I was not really charging like yesterday."

The conditions were ideal for Trevino, who is looking to win his first major tournament in nine years.

"I don't have a major championship left in me and I feel this is the one I have to win," said Trevino, whose last big success was the 1974 U.S. Open.

Trevino picked up four birdies on the front nine and two on the home-ward half where he suffered a bogey-5 at the 11th.

The key to his round was some superb touches around the green, including punts from 35 and 40 feet around his six-putts.

"I really admit, he liked British courses where he won the Open at Royal Birkdale in 1970 and retained the title the following year at Muirfield.

Esasky stakes Soto, Reds to victory

Nick Esasky continues to show he is ready to play in the big leagues. Esasky, trapped in the minors while Johnny Bench played third base, doubled in two runs in the sixth inning and Mario Soto pitched a four-hitter Friday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-2 victory over the Phillies at Philadelphia.

Soto, 10-8, fanned eight. Rookie Charlie Hudson fell low 3-1.

The Phillies scored in the first inning, when Bob Dernier and Pete Rose singled and Von Hayes hit a sacrifice fly. Cincinnati took the lead in the sixth when Dan Driesen and Cesar Cedeno delivered two-out singles and both scored on a double to right-center by Esasky.

Driesen hit his seventh home run of the year in the eighth inning to make the score 3-1, but pinch hitter Joe Lefebvre answered with his fourth of the year in the bottom half.

After allowing three first-inning hits, Soto did not allow another until Lefebvre's homer.

At Atlanta, Chris Chambliss drove in two runs to spark a six-run sixth and Phil Niekro, 5-6, earned his 26th career victory for Atlanta. Rick Camp pitched 2-3 of the eighth and Donnie Moore turned the final 2-1 to earn his fifth save. Bill Gullickson, 7-10, took the loss.

At San Francisco, Chili Davis capped a three-run eighth with a two-run homer, rallying the Giants. Davis' homer, his 11th of the season, came off Joaquin Andujar, 4-12. Jim Barr, who pitched 1 1/2 relief innings for the Giants, raised his record to 1-1. Greg Minton got the last out for the fifth save.

At Los Angeles, Keith Moreland, Jody Davis and Ron Cey drove in two runs apiece to help the Cubs snap a six-game losing streak. Burt Hooton, 8-3, had his seven-game winning streak broken. Dick Ruthven, 6-7, was the winner. Les Smith recorded his 12th save.

Pittsburgh 4, San Diego 2

At San Diego, Jim Morrison and Tony Pena hit solo homers in the ninth, lifting the Pirates to their fifth straight triumph. Pittsburgh is 7-1 on their West Coast trip. Kent Tekulve, who entered in the eighth inning to choke off a Padres threat, got credit for his fourth victory in six decisions. Rookie Mark Thurmond, 2-1, was the loser.

Red-hot Orioles capture sixth in a row

Eddie Murray went 4-for-4 and drove in four runs with his 16th homer and a two-run double Friday night to lead the Baltimore Orioles to their sixth straight victory, a 10-4 triumph over the slumping California Angels.

Mike Boddicker, 6-4, allowed four runs in the first three innings, then held the Angels to two hits over the last six innings and retired 15 straight batters before Drysdale's single in the eighth. Tommy John, 4-2, took the loss as California dropped its fifth straight.

California's Rod Carew ended the game batting .402 and went 1-for-3 to lead to .397. The last time he was below .400 was on April 11.

Trailing 4-1, the Orioles chased John with a five-run sixth. Cal Ripken singled and Murray homered. Gary Reinecker and Ken Singleton singled and Mike Young then tripled to give Baltimore a 5-4 lead. Rick Dempsey's sacrifice fly delivered Young with the inning's final run.

Kansas City 10, Cleveland 0

At Cleveland, George Brett drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a fielders' choice and Hal McRae belted a solo shot to hand the Indians their sixth loss in seven games. Paul Spittlorf, 7-3, allowed one hit over the seven-innings while Juan Gonzalez, 3-9, suffered his sixth straight loss.

Boston 10, Oakland 7

At Boston, Glenn Hoffman's

bases-loaded single triggered a five-run sixth and Wade Boggs went 2-for-5 with two RBIs to lead the Red Sox. It was the sixth straight loss for the A's. Mark Clear, 3-2, pitched the final 3 1/2 innings to pick up the victory. Minnesota 5, Milwaukee 2

At Milwaukee, Cecil Cooper drove in four runs with a single, a triple and a home run and Mike Caldwell, 7-7, pitched a six-hitter, helping the Brewers to their fourth straight win. Minnesota starter Bobby Castillo, 5-7, allowed six hits in 7 1/2 innings and struck out eight.

New York 7, Texas 5

At New York, Dave Winfield and Don Baylor each hit a three-run homer and Dave Rigetti went six innings for his 11th victory. Rick Honeycutt, 11-4, lasted three innings for Texas, giving up nine hits and six runs. Rich Gossage chalked up his 10th save of the season with 1 1/2 innings of relief.

Toronto 3, Chicago 2

At Chicago, Dave Collins' two-run single with the bases loaded and one out in the top of the ninth inning lifted the Blue Jays to their seventh victory in their last eight games. The winner was Joey McLaughlin, 2-2. Richard Dotson, 8-6, was the loser.

Seattle 7, Detroit 2

At Seattle, Rick Nelson's triple keyed a six-run sixth and left-hander Matt Young pitched an eight-hitter to help the Mariners snap Detroit's five-game winning streak with a victory over the Tigers at Seattle. Young, 5-9, walked two and struck out eight in his fourth complete game of the season. Juan Berenguer, 4-2, took the loss.

Bravura completed the 2,225-mile crossing at 4:42 a.m. EDT Wednesday, during Oahu's island power outage. Its arrival was two days behind Charley, the first finisher.

Great fun was had in the handicapping and the Class C was the Class C winner.

Buhl nails down perfect league mark

WENDELL — Tommy Flemming and Randy Stockwell belted the big Atlanta Friday night as Buhl claimed a 14-3 American Legion "B" victory over Wendell Gooding.

The win gave Buhl a perfect 12-0 record in the Magic Valley Legion Conference. Buhl has a bye in the first round of next week's district tournament.

Flemming led the Buhl offensive attack with four singles and four runs batted in, while Stockwell contributed a triple and three singles. Mark Laing also chipped in with a single, a double and a run as part of the winners' 20-hit attack.

Wendell Gooding will meet the Pocatello "B" team in the district tournament's first round on Wednesday.

Lendl kicked off Czech team

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Czechoslovakia has suspended tennis star Ivan Lendl from its Davis Cup team and fired him for taking part in exhibition matches in San Diego, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"Ivan Lendl's participation in this exhibition in the South African Republic was in variance with the principles of the Czechoslovak foreign policy and United Nations resolutions concerning the struggle against apartheid," CTK said.

Bryant named USFL MVP

DENVER (UPI) — Running back Kelvin Bryant of the Philadelphia Stars capped a brilliant rookie season Friday by being named the Most Valuable Player by the U.S. Football League.

Voting tallies were not released.

Other award winners were Dick Coury of the Boston Breakers as Coach of the Year, linebacker John Corcoran of the Michigan Panthers as Defensive Player of the Year, defensive tackle Kit Lathrop of the Chicago Blitz as the league's outstanding lineman, and punter Stan Talley of the Oakland Invaders as Special Teams Player of the Year.

The USFL also officially crowned Herschel Walker of the New Jersey Generals as its rushing leader with 1,812 yards, Bobby Hebert of Michigan as its passing leader with 3,000 yards, and Philadelphia's Trumaine Johnson as Chicago as its receiving leader with 81 catches for 1,322 yards and 10 touchdowns, and David Trout of Philadelphia as its scoring leader with 121 points on 28 field goals and 37 conversions.

Brown

"I almost got sick, the way I was playing. I didn't believe I was giving strokes back as quickly as I was," she said. "I steamed after the third hole but I never was able to get the concentration going I had yesterday on the back nine when she turned a six-stroke deficit into a two-stroke lead over the last eight holes."

Guthrie took the spotlight with tremendous birdies on Nos. 4 and 6, two fantastic approach shots over sandtraps and into perhaps 15-inch landing areas set up four-foot, and 18-inch birdie putts. But in between, she furnished the showing a little by four-putting the par-three fifth, the first putt coming from the grass fringe.

Guthrie's chance to lead at the turn evaporated when her second shot caught and buried in a trap. With just a fraction of the ball showing, Guthrie blasted but the ball stayed in the hazard. She took a bogey six there while Brown's Kushlan picked up three birdies. But Smith made the money there, hitting a six-iron to within 30 inches and draining the eagle to cap a 38. That tied her with Brown while Guthrie and Kushlan had 40s.

Brown and Smith both picked up strokes on the other two No. 10 and a six on 11 hurt Kushlan further. Smith's charge ended on the 12th when she pulled a fairway wood on her second shot.

"I got back on my heels and that's what happened," she said, but she declined to pinpoint that as her turning point since "I didn't know I was just one behind then."

Guthrie then reeled off three straight threes, the highlight being a

Moore Financial posts gain

BOISE—Moore Financial Corp. reported second quarter net income of $6.15 million, Chairman Thomas C. Frye said. That amounts to $1 per share, an 11.2 percent gain over the same period in 1982.

For the first six months of this year, net income was $12.12 million or $1.97 per share, up 9 percent over 1982. A year ago, earnings were $11.12 million or $1.81 per share.

A quarterly cash dividend of 30 cents per share will be paid July 22 to stockholders of record on July 1.

Amoco to continue quest

IDAHO FALLS (UPI)—Amoco Production Co. plans to launch a second attempt to tap oil and gas from Bald Mountain in southeastern Idaho, state petroleum engineer Will Pitman says.

Amoco will drill about a mile from a dry hole put down two years ago as soon as it obtains a permit from the U.S. Geological Survey. The firm already has received the necessary state permit, Pitman said.

The target depth of the well is about 9,500 feet. Amoco began drilling on Bald Mountain eight miles southwest of Fallsides Reservoir in June, 1981, then suspended work for a year later.

Smaller contract in works

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Board of Trade announced it would begin trading a new, smaller Value Line stock-index futures contract starting July 29, assuming all goes as planned.

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission will meet July 26 to formally vote on the new contract. However, commission staff members have already approved the contract's terms.

Sunshine selling directly

WALLACE (UPI)—The Sunshine Bullion Co. has begun direct sales of silver to investors in a campaign to heighten consumer awareness of the precious metal.

Sunshine Chairman G. Michael Boswell said the program, which will include guaranteed buy-back provisions, will allow customers to deal directly with the Sunshine Mining Co. subsidiary.

"We want Sunshine silver to be the recognized benchmark of quality for silver bullion, just as the Kruggerand gold coin is for those investing in gold," he said.

The bullion firm will be selling metal from the country's largest silver mine, which has produced more than 300 million ounces of silver since the late 1800s.

Timber orders, output slip

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Production, orders and shipments of timber from Western-lumber-mills slipped for the week ending July 2, but levels remained higher than for the same time last year.

Spokesmen for the Western Wood Products Association said lumber production during the week was 281 million board feet, or 63 percent of the average weekly output of 349 million board feet. Orders were 78 percent and shipments 94 percent of average.

During the previous week, all three figures were nearly 100 percent of the normal week's output, they said.

The latest production figures for sawmills in the 12-state region are 26 percent greater than last year, while orders are up 7 percent and shipments up 4 percent, spokesmen said.

Inventories at week's end were 2.13 billion board feet, about 33 million less than the previous period. One-year ago, lumber inventories were 2.11 billion board feet.

Bush sales in Idaho climb

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Anheuser-Busch, Inc., recorded a 6.5 percent volume sales increase in Idaho markets during the first quarter of 1983.

Board Chairman August A. Busch III said first quarter sales were led by the company's Michelob Light brand, which achieved a volume sales increase of 6.6 percent.

Lamb slaughter may decline

DENVER — U.S. lamb slaughter levels may be below those of a year ago this fall and winter because of a 5 to 10 percent drop in the lamb crop.

Quentin Banks, Denver market analyst, said that if slaughter levels decline as expected in October, "lighter supplies at retail markets could lead to firm farm-level lamb prices."

Banks said drought has increased movement of Texas lambs into feedlots and many of those could be ready for slaughter at the same time as grass fat lambs from Idaho become available.

Dow slips as investors edgy

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Dow Jones average skidded below the 1,200 level in a stock market rout triggered by investor fears a money supply surge would put upward pressure on interest rates.

But trading was slow at the end of the losing week as many investors waited for the weekend. The most excitement on the trading floor revolved around takeover situations.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 6.51 Thursday, plunged 12.02 to 1,192.31 and finished the week with a loss of 14.92 points. The closely watched average has lost ground for the past four weeks.

The New York Stock Exchange index dropped 0.95 to 96.28 and the price of an average share decreased 36 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 1.72 to 164.29. Declines topped advances—126-461 among the 1,947 issues traded.

Big Board volume contracted to 251,960,000 shares from the 272,000,000 traded Thursday as big investors traded for the Federal Reserve's post-market money supply report that showed a $5.8 billion increase.

There was little reaction to government reports that showed the economy was continuing to rebound and prices were nudging up.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 73,272,500 shares, down from the 97,125,000 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index shed 2.27 to 240.61 and the price of a share fell 17 cents. Declines topped advances among the 629 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 6,620,410 shares compared with 6,836,400 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers Index of OTC stocks lost 2.62 to 312.87.

On the trading floor, Merrill Lynch was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 3/4 to 50 on more than 1.8 million shares. Merrill's options expired during the day.

Prime Computer, the second most actively traded issue, was off 1/4. Four top Ertre regional sales executives resigned. The company said it believed they joined another firm.

IBM, another company whose options expired Friday, was off 1/2 on the list, off 1/4 to 120 1/2. The stock jumped 1/4 Thursday after IBM posted a larger-than-expected 24 percent increase in second-quarter earnings.

On the Amex, Imperial Chemical led the actives, off 1/4 to 8. Dunlop Holdings followed, unchanged at 1. Heterz Corp. was third, off 1/4 to 14 1/2.

Boise Cascade posts $17 million net quarter

BOISE (UPI)—Resurgence in the homebuilding industry pushed Boise Cascade Corp. to a net income of $17 million for the second quarter of this year, up from $6.4 million last year in the same period a year ago.

Chairman John Frye said more homebuilding has strengthened the market for wood products, while the company's cost-reduction efforts have lowered operating expenses.

He said sales for the second quarter of 1983 were $69.9 million compared with $74.1 million for the second quarter of 1982.

For the first six months of the year, Boise Cascade had a net income of just over $28 million, he said, compared with a net loss of $2.9 million for the same time last year.

The emergence from the company's longest and deepest slump in homebuilding since World War II, helped the firm post the "modest" second-quarter profit, the firm said in a prepared statement.

The periods profit was the first for the company's wood-products business since the second quarter of 1981.

Frye said rising returns for wood products and building materials were aided by lower mortgage interest rates, growing consumer confidence and improved weather conditions, which pushed homebuilding activity to its highest level since 1979.

Second-quarter income for the company's paper business was improved slightly over that earned for the first quarter of the year—and was up slightly from operating returns in the second quarter of 1982, officials said.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"The wicked flee when no man pursueth, but they come better time when someone is after them." Charles H. Parkhurst.

A little wickedness in the defense can go a long way. If declarer believes all that he sees...

Dummy wins the third club and leads a diamond to his jack for a finesse. What happens if West innocently wins his king?

The defenders take their club and exit with a diamond. With only eight tricks in sight, South is now forced to take a finesse in spades and when this wins, he has his nine tricks.

West should play some wickedness when South finesses his diamond jack. Instead of winning his king, West should play a casual 10—North—unless South is a most suspicious soul...

West springs his trap, wins his diamond king and the defenders take their club. South can win eight tricks but he can no longer try the spade finesse and the game goes one down.

It pays to avoid telling your partner what you are doing. Send bridge questions to The Aces, P.O. Box 12362, Dallas, Texas 75212...
