Garn to offer new bank bill

HONOLULUI (UPI)—Senate Banking Committee Chairman Jake Garn, R-Utah, said Sunday he would introduce a comprehensive bill later this month allowing banks to offer new types of services in an effort to make them more competitive with the growing field of financial service companies.

Garn made the announcement at the annual convention of the American Bankers' Association, whose members have been concerned over the fast-growing threat posed by the burgeoning financial empires of companies outside the banking industry like Sears Roebuck & Co. and Merrill Lynch.

"The bankers have been sharply critical of Congress for failing to provide them with new powers to meet the growing competition while at the same time non-bank companies have been given government permission to buy up banks."

Greeks intercept U.S. jets

ATHENS, Greece (UPI)—Greek jets Sunday intercepted two formations of U.S. fighters participating in a NATO exercise over the Mediterranean.

In Athens, more than 10,000 people marched to the U.S. embassy to protest the presence of American military bases in Greece.

A government spokesman said two formations of U.S. warplanes diverged flying regulations over the Aegean and one formation flew over the island of Icaria, which lies a few miles off the Turkish coast.

The spokesman said Greek jets were sent to intercept the American planes which were participating in the NATO exercise code-named "Display Determination."

Ultra-light plane fans slain

SHERMAN, Texas (UPI)—Four men—including a deputy sheriff and a farmer—who all began and one formation flew over the island of Icaria, which lies a few miles off the Turkish coast.

The bodies of three of the men were found Saturday night underneath a small pile of carpet and the body of the fourth man was discovered near the doorway of the shed, about 35 feet from the others.

Authorities identified the victims as Deputy Sheriff Phillip Good, who had been with the department only eight days; former Sherman policeman Ronald Mayes; and Bob Tate, the owner of the B&B ranch; and Jerry Brown.

NAACP probes Bolse bias

BOISE (UPI)—The NAACP says it is investigating charges of racial discrimination made against the Boise Housing Authority and Ada County law enforcement agencies.

There has been "a considerable amount of complaints in the area of police harassment" by both the Boise Police Department and the Ada County Sheriff's Department, said Bertha Edwards, president of the NAACP's Boise branch.

Edwards said NAACP leaders will meet with Boise Police Chief Jim Montgomery, U.S. Attorney Guy Harburt and other Justice Department officials next week to discuss the allegations.

Mondale early Iowa favorite

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Two new polls showed Sunday that former Vice President Walter Mondale is the early favorite among Iowa Democrats, who conduct the nation's first caucus of the 1984 presidential nominating campaign next year.

The seven Democrats competing for the White House nomination attended the Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner Saturday night, turning the state party's annual fundraiser into a quasi-presidential convention.

Mondale got 48.1 percent of the vote in a straw poll conducted by the Iowa Newspaper Association of 6,300 party faithful leaving the dinner, and won 46 percent in a state-wide poll published in the Des Moines Sunday Register.

Marines say 2 men wounded

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—An attempt by the Lebanese army to take control of territory in the Shout Mountains south of Beirut collapsed Sunday, with Syrian-backed Druze rebels rejecting the takeover plan.

In a belated announcement, the U.S. Marines said two of their men were slightly wounded Saturday—the first Marine casualties since the cease-fire went into effect Sept. 29.

The Marines also announced that an American helicopter was hit by gunfire Sunday but was not heavily damaged.

U.S. Middle East envoy Robert McFarlane held talks with Lebanese President Ehab Bey and Foreign Minister El Salem after arriving from Damascus, where he met earlier with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam.

Former congressman dies

PALISADE, Colo. (UPI)—Former Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., a powerful force in managing the nation's natural resources during 12 terms in Congress, died Sunday at his home on a street named in his honor. He was 87.

Aspinall, who devoted nearly half a century to public service before losing his congressional seat in 1972, had battled prostate cancer for about six years, reported his son, Owen Aspinall.

He died at 11:45 a.m. Sunday in his home on the banks of the Colorado River. Memorial services are planned Thursday at Martin Mortuary in Grand Junction.

His son said Aspinall's body would be cremated Monday and his ashes buried in Grand Junction beside the remains of his first wife, Julia Edith Kuns, who died in 1969. Aspinall's second wife, Essie F. Jeffers Best Aspinall, died Aug. 5.

Reagan to sign holiday bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Reagan said in an interview published Sunday he will sign legislation establishing a holiday honoring Martin Luther King Jr. if Congress approves it as expected.

"If the Congress passes that and sends it up here, I'll sign it," Reagan said in an Oval Office interview with syndicated columnist Donald Lambro conducted Thursday.

But Reagan declined to pass judgment on whether the slain civil rights leader is worthy of such a holiday.

Korean president escapes Burma bomb which kills 19

RANGOON, Burma (UPI)—A powerful time bomb apparently meant for visiting South Korean President Chun Doo Hwan exploded at Burma's National Cemetery Sunday.

The blast killed 19 people including Korea's foreign minister and three other cabinet members.

The South Korean leader, whose motorcade was delayed by a traffic jam, was five minutes late in arriving for a wreath-laying ceremony and escaped the attack, that his government blamed on communist North Korea.

Burmese officials in Rangoon, revising earlier reports, and South Korean officials in Seoul said 19 people were killed and 48 others injured, including two Burmese cabinet members and the chairman of South Korea's Joint Chiefs of Staff.

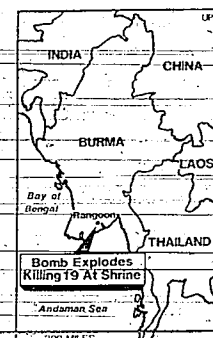

Gen. Lee Kee-baek. Many were in critical condition.

A Korean television reporter who witnessed the explosion said Monday it could have been caused by a time bomb set to go off on Chun's arrival or by a remote-controlled device, triggered prematurely.

The reporter said the bomber could have detonated the bomb by mistake while he thought it was meant for Chun's arrival, or that the bomber was the bugler apparently mistook South Korea's ambassador to Burma Lee Kye-chul for the president. The ambassador arrived late in a limousine flying South Korea's flag.

South Korea's flag. The explosion also killed two officials of the state film corporation—also died in the blast.

Chun, who canceled his six-nation trip and returned to Seoul, called the bombing "an unprecedented attempt on my life—the life of the head of state of the republic of (South) Korea—elaborately planned and organized."

"We will not be alone in pinpointing the North Korean communists as the mastermind of this criminal act of utmost brutality," he said.

Two hours after his arrival, Chun called an emergency cabinet meeting and ordered the army to strengthen security precautions against possible North Korean provocations. South Korea's 600,000-man army was on full alert along the border with North Korea as war police in the area.

In its first report of the blast, the official North Korean news agency, KCNA, said a "Hundred-Chun" was "killed by a bomb explosion in Rangoon" and noted he "escaped unhurt as he arrived at the scene of the explosion several minutes behind the original schedule."

The Pyongyang agency, in a dispatch apparently in Tokyo, attributed the news to "foreign news reports" but made no mention of South Korea charges that North Korea set the explosion to assassinate Chun.

A Korean Air Lines Boeing 707 left Seoul for Rangoon at 9:59 a.m. today (9:55 p.m. EDT Sunday) to pick up the bodies of the dead. Aboard the plane was Sports Minister Lee Won-kyong, heading a government investigation team.

The blast was caused by a time bomb apparently fixed to a motorcycle entrance near the famed Shwedagon Pagoda on the outskirts of the capital of the south Asian nation of 35 million.

Among the Koreans killed were Foreign Minister Lee Bum-uk; Deputy Premier Suh Suk-joon; Energy Resources Minister Suh Sang-chul; Commerce and Industry Minister Kim Dong Wih; Vice Minister of Science and Technology Kim Yong-han; Senior Presidential Economic Adviser Kim In-uk; and Presidential Chief of Staff Hahn Pyng-Choon, who was a former Ambassador to Washington.

Rangoon authorities said three Burmese—one photographer and two officials of the state film corporation—also died in the blast.

Chun, who canceled his six-nation trip and returned to Seoul, called the

to make a determination when our usefulness expired," he said.

Asked how long he would stay at the Barrack ranch, Watt said he would remain until he "gets the batteries recharged"—probably several days.

Asked if he were bitter that many of this Republican supporters turned against him in recent days, Watt said, "No" and alluded to the upcoming presidential campaign. "People do strange things in an election year. I have a high tolerance."

Those reportedly being considered to replace Watt include: Hansen; Lujan, top Republican on the House Interior Committee; former House Republican leader Rhodes of Arizona; former Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., now president of Radio Free Europe; and Radio Liberty; and Energy Secretary Donald Hodel.

Hansen and spokesmen for Lujan and Rhodes said they had not been contacted about taking the job. The others could not be reached.

Hansen said in a telephone interview in Wyoming, "I think Jim's done a good job for America. I'm just sorry to see that he resigned."

Hansen said he was "delighted to be included" in the names being circulated on Capitol Hill as potential successors, but refused to say whether he would accept.

Lujan said in a statement released by his Washington office: "I am sure Jim Watt did what he thought was best for the country. I hope now we can move forward on interior issues that are critical to the country."

Hodel was in Vienna, Austria, attending a meeting of the International Atomic Energy Agency. Spokesman Philip Kelf said, "The secretary has said that no responsible person has ever approached him about Secretary Watt's job and he's very happy doing what he's doing." He said "as of Friday, nobody had talked to him about it."

Watt was forced to quit because of growing GOP fears—that he had become a major political liability to Reagan's re-election prospects.

Soon after his appointment as interior secretary, Watt acquired a reputation for making unpredictable comments.

Earlier this year, he was forced to apologize to Reagan for saying that the East Bay area (EDT Sunday) to pick up the bodies of the dead. Aboard the plane was Sports Minister Lee Won-kyong, heading a government investigation team.

Watt had to apologize to U.S. Jews in 1982 for warning that opposition to offshore oil drilling policies in the liberal Jewish community would weaken our ability to be a good friend of Israel."

And he had to backpedal on comments he made in 1981, when he told an audience, "I don't use the words 'Democrats' and 'Republicans.' It's 'liberals' and 'Americans.'"

But Watt relished his role as a lightning rod for criticism of the Reagan administration.

FRONTAL SYSTEMS & AIR FLOW TEMPERATURE & PRECIPITATION

Showery today, improving Tuesday

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome Gooding areas: Chance of showers today and tonight. Highs today near 65. Lows tonight 40 to 45. Partly cloudy on Tuesday. Highs in the middle 60s.

Camden, Prairie, Halley, Wood River valleys: Widely scattered showers today and tonight. Highs 60 to 65. Low tonight 27 to 37. Partly cloudy on Tuesday. Highs 65 to 67.

Boise: Another showery day for the Magic Valley, then improving the rest of the week.

That's the weather outlook in the wake of a weekend dampened by intermittent showers Saturday night and Sunday.

A southwesterly air flow will prevail over all of Idaho during the first part of the week, before it shifts to northwesterly by Wednesday. Widely scattered showers are expected today and tonight with drier conditions moving in on Tuesday and continuing through Friday.

Temperatures during that span will average a little below normal.

The agricultural forecast for the Magic Valley and southern Idaho calls for precipitation between 10 and 20 inches during tonight, with locally heavier amounts up to 30 inch.

Soil temperatures for potato harvest will remain above 45 degrees except in normally cooler locations. There, they will fall below 45 degrees near sunrise and climb above that level by 9 a.m.

The extended forecast calls for cooler temperatures with highs in the upper 50s through the 60s on Wednesday lowering to 55 to 65 by Friday. Lows will be in the 30s and low 40s.

Showers moved into the Twin Falls area late Saturday afternoon and continued intermittently during the night and Sunday morning. A few light showers also fell during the afternoon.

Those showers were produced by a low pressure system along the Pacific coast which continues to circulate moist air over Idaho. On Sunday evening, thunderstorms struck the Boise area with some parts of the city receiving heavy rain. Twin Falls also reported thunderstorms with light rain at Burley and Pocatello. At 9 p.m., skies were mostly cloudy over much of the state with light winds.

The state's warmest temperature on Sunday was 74 degrees at Hagerman after a morning low of 27 at Sandpoint.

Elsewhere in the nation Sunday, the warmest temperature reported was 85 at Gila Bend, Ariz., and the coolest was 25 at Hibbing, Minn., and Marquette, Mich.

Watt

His letter said: "We have brought balance; we've done it with determination and an effort, and we feel that our work is done and that our usefulness to the president has come to an end."

"It is time for a new phase of management; one to consolidate the gains we have made, it is my view that the best person to lead in this administration has come to an end. A different type of leadership at the Department of Interior will best serve you and the nation," Watt's letter said.

"I leave behind people and programs a legacy that will aid America in the decades ahead. Our people and their dedication will keep America moving in the right direction."

After making his statement, Watt renounced his horse and answered a few more questions. He then rode off into the sunset.

In Washington, administration officials said Watt drafted the resignation letter before he left for California and had it delivered to the White House Sunday. White House officials were not surprised by the resignation, but expected it today or Tuesday and were caught off guard.

Asked what he plans to do now, Watt said, "We will continue to crusade in our efforts to establish a judicial system and political liberty in this country because that's where the real battleground is."

Ho jokingly added, "I appreciate that question because I need to file this as a classified act, I'm looking for work."

Asked if his remark about the advisory board was a contributing factor, he said: "It did contribute. It was a mistake and I've regretted it. I've apologized for it and I'm sorry it happened."

Watt said that when he got the job in June, 1981, he realized that he would eventually have to resign before his term ended.

"I realized that if we were to bring about the changes that America demanded we would accumulate over time the hostilities of the special interest groups that reach selfish interests and that we then would have

Case of Changing Table new bicentennial puzzle

By JIM ANDERSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Is the U.S. Post Office wrong? Or is the State Department? They both can't be right in the Case of the Changing Table.

The Postal Service has printed more than 125 million 20-cent stamps on the occasion of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris, which put a formal end to the American War of Independence and established the political boundaries of the United States.

The bicentennial stamp, by David Blossom, a Weston, Conn., commercial artist, shows four men surrounding a table. Three of the men are the American commissioners: John Jay, Benjamin Franklin and John Adams. The fourth man signing the document on the table is David Hartley, the British commissioner in Paris.

The problem is that the table in the stamp is not anything like the "Treaty of Paris desk" proudly displayed in the diplomatic reception area of the eighth floor of the State Department.

The table in the painting, covered by documents and a cloth, is flat. It could be any dining room table. But the piece of furniture in the State Department is a small writing table, known as an English Sheraton tambour desk, with raised sides.

The State Department insists it is in possession of the right piece of furniture and can trace its lineage directly to David Hartley, one of the men in the picture. It found its way to the United States in the 1920s, where it was auctioned in 1927 to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Stein of Chicago. It was presented to the State Department in 1963 and is the centerpiece of the Jargo room, filled with authenticated pieces of valuable Americana.

Because it does not want to excite the avarice of any potential thieves and since it will never be sold, the State Department curator of the fine arts collection, Clement Conger, does not put a monetary value on such an historic piece of furniture.

But one Washington appraiser said the price for an authentic piece of historic furniture "begins at $50,000 and might go to close to a million dollars for something like a desk that belonged to Napoleon."

So, if it is authentic, why doesn't the State Department's desk appear in Benjamin West's painting and the stamp which was adapted from it?

West's painting, which had seven people in it, was of a signing in 1782 of the Preliminary Articles of Peace for the treaty that was signed in 1783. A half-finished oil sketch by West of the preliminary signing hangs in the State Department's Jargo room, not far from the desk.

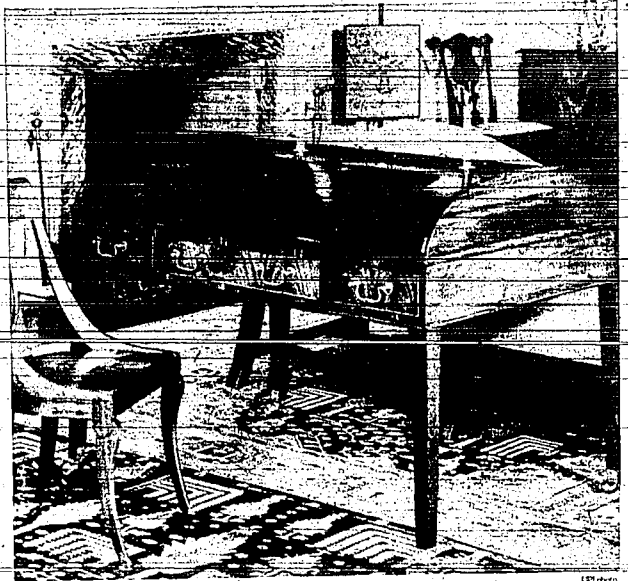

Blossom, in simplifying the scene, dropped three of the figures from the original painting of the preliminary signing but kept the 1782 table.

"It's not the desk that's in the State Department, mainly because I didn't know the desk existed," he said in an interview. "I based the stamp on Benjamin West's painting."

Jim Burns, an official of the Postal Service's Stamp Division, said the four-color bicentennial stamp may not be accurate in terms of furniture or even in the people present — there were other British representatives there — but that West's final painting, which hangs in the Winterthur museum in Wilmington, Del., is not accurate either. The bicentennial stamp, he says, uses the 1782 painting by West as a guide.

But the stamp does carry the title, "Treaty of Paris 1783."

A State Department curator has a simple explanation. "In government, sometimes the right hand doesn't know what the left hand is doing."

JOAN HACKETT
Cancer proves fatal

Actress Hackett dies at 49

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Joan Hackett, 49, whose career as a respected but commercially ignored performer culminated last year with an Oscar nomination for "Only When I Laugh," has died of cancer.

She was 49. Miss Hackett died Saturday night at Eueling Hospital from the cancer that was first detected in her lung last year and moved to an area over her intestines, nursing supervisor Jean Puckett said.

"She was an actor's actress," said publicist Bobby Zarem, a longtime friend. "She had the kind of respect from her peers that didn't translate into commercial success. It's a horrendous nightmare that this happened just as she was at the top of her career."

Her Oscar nomination for her performances in the Neil Simon comedy was for best supporting actress. She was honored with a Golden Globe Award for her role.

Miss Hackett was hospitalized last month when her condition worsened after hosting a party for newlywed singer-songwriter Paul Simon and actress Carrie Fisher at her Beverly Hills home.

Born in New York City to an Italian mother and Irish-American father, the fair-haired Miss Hackett turned from modeling to acting in stage production as a teenager.

She later moved to Hollywood where she appeared in several movies including "The Group," "Bill Penny," "Support Your Local Sheriff," "Assignment to Kill," "The Rivals," "The Last of Sheila" and the "Class of '63."

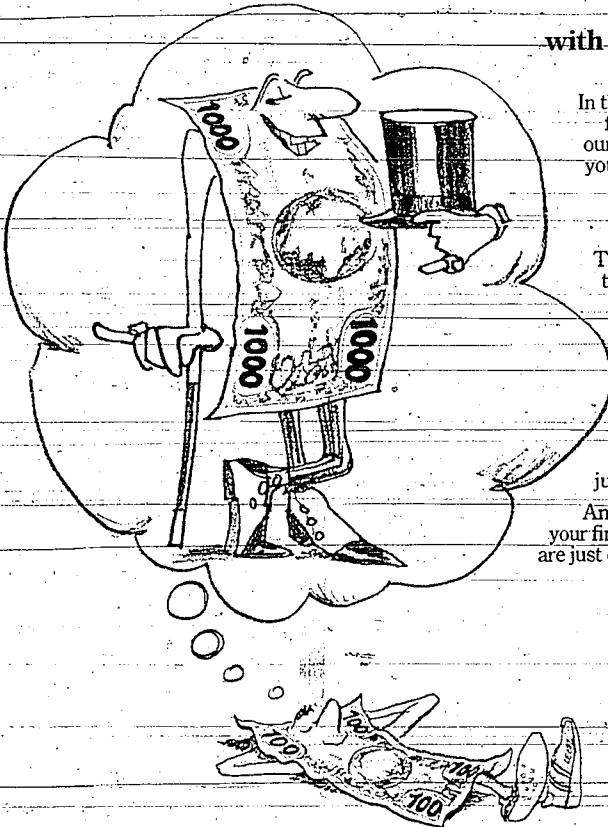

When her illness was first reported last month, Miss Hackett's business manager Dick Smizer said she was responding to treatment.

Mrs. Smizer said Miss Hackett's nieces, Marita and Annette, were at her bedside when she died. The actress was divorced several years ago and lived alone.

Given high mark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost half the members of Congress who responded to a survey gave President Reagan relatively high marks as a strong leader who could push his program through Congress, according to U.S. News and World Report. But more than half the lawmakers said the president could expect much more opposition to his proposals as the 1984 presidential election approaches.

The threat of an industry-wide protest strike by the pilots' union carries with it strong criticism of airline deregulation. The pilots point out that only three of the nation's 11 major carriers currently fly in friendly financial skies in the midst of a recovering economy.

Although it may be too early to classify deregulation itself as a bankrupt policy, it has hardly glided the airline industry safely through financial turbulence. It has not produced the best of all worlds for both industry and consumers once painted by some of its promoters, such as Albert Kahn, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board in the Carter administration.

Continental, the eighth largest carrier, declared bankruptcy last week and then saw its pilots and flight attendants launch a strike. Eastern—a key transportation link for Raleigh and the entire East Coast, is in a holding pattern. Even Delta, long lauded for its profitability and service to passengers, has lost $132 million in the first six months of 1983 on top of $86 million in losses last year.

Industry experts point to cut-throat fare wars and the high cost of airline labor as contributing factors. Recession has taken its toll as well. The airlines' problems are serious enough for Congress to take another look at the industry to see if some regulation is necessary.

The central question is whether the public interest truly is being served—or will it be served in the long run—by an increasingly unprofitable and indebted industry. Should airline passenger service be accorded at least a few of the trappings of a public utility, including restoration of service to small communities, instead of being subjected fully to sudden and predatory changes in the marketplace?

Both sides agree that most of the industry has been in a tailspin for the last three years. Many passengers have been smiling all the way to the bank, but managers and investors are flying scared. It's time for Congress to give airline deregulation a check-ride to see if it's still air-worthy—and, if not, what can be done about it.

Time for check ride Hazardous label

Somebody in California has come up with a new line of macho-outdoorsy clothes under a peculiar label: Banana Republic.

We'd just love to see the reception if some trendy type walked into Nicaragua wearing that emblazoned on his shirt front. The term is so profoundly resented throughout Latin America that it threatens to set off more than a shouting match. It calls up an unthinking, patronizing stereotype.

Then again, maybe some foreign clothiers should respond with competing labels: Ugly American and Yankee Profiteer would be good for starters.

Stylish Third-Worlders would gobble them up.

Finds non-sentence appalling

I, like you, am appalled at the almost non-sentence Virginia DeMeyer received from Judge Arthur Oliver.

I cannot help wondering how the judge would have wanted DeMeyer sentenced had the two children been part of the family.

With a sentence as light as this, DeMeyer will probably be back at the bar again and behind the wheel again. Two weeks for a child's life is pretty nil.

If I had been a member of the jury which convicted DeMeyer, I would be pretty disgusted about wasting my time hearing all the gory details after the judge granted such undeserved favor.

Final answer to Higher Court

Perhaps my views will not be something you will wish to publish, but I feel they need to be expressed so a cancer does not begin to grow and destroy what I have always felt is a fine and unique community so much so that I plan to buy and live in this area.

The death of an 8-year-old boy's said event under any circumstances but is intensified when it is senseless as was the case of the young Lopez lad. What makes it even more upsetting is the reaction of some members of the community. There appeared to be great concern for the feelings of the driver of the truck and much less for the feelings of the boy's family. I heard radio call-ins, read a letter to the paper stating the driver was not responsible and that he was a "pillar of the community, a sheepman, a Boy Scout etc."

I have learned that Maurice Guerry Jr. is the son of honest, hardworking immigrants who afforded him a fine youth, education and a business they worked hard to obtain for their family.

The Lopez lad may not have had Guerry's benefits or fair life but even without them he may have achieved great heights in this world. Perhaps education would have been harder for him to come by than it was for Guerry. Perhaps he wouldn't have been given a business as was Guerry but it was still possible for him to have become a great contributor to our country. This is something that now we will never know.

Since we are not God or mindreaders we do not know what really did happen on that sad day, but how can anyone condone what happened and almost insist it be taken out of the hands of the law. To sympathize is one thing, to insist Guerry doesn't have responsibility is frightening. Does the community not see how everyone, rich or poor, humble or proud, community leader or follower, has to assume responsibility when behind the wheel of a car or truck.

I firmly believe that in this area of such outstanding human beings there must be many who agree with this basic value system and like me realize that if the law does not judge this case there is a Higher Court in which Guerry and all men must ultimately answer.

A situation of such magnitude should not be judged by public opinion but it appears public opinion has prevailed.

Mondale may get frequent reminders

WASHINGTON — We must find some way to stay afloat for the 13 months until the next presidential election, though we already are inundated by it.

At least, after a year's worth of intense news media coverage of events that haven't happened, but might take place, or should take place—or would take place some day, maybe—something finally happened.

John Glenn got on the cover of Newsweek because there is a movie about astrophysics.

Walter Mondale got 839 votes in a straw poll of Democrats in Maine and, in Florida, the support of the leadership of 12.8 million organized labor votes. The 939 votes in Maine were real. But if the leaders of organized labor meeting in Florida could deliver 12.8 million votes, Ronald Reagan would not be president of the United States.

The trouble with Glenn's campaign is that he is running in the wrong election. He is running a campaign geared to beating Reagan in the election to be held in November, 1984. Polls have consistently shown him doing just that.

There is, unfortunately, another vote to be taken before November, 1984. It will be taken in July, 1984, in San Francisco among the 3,293 delegates to the Democratic National Convention. Glenn doesn't appear to be running in that election, and if he doesn't win it, all the polls showing how well he would do in November don't mean a thing.

Mondale is running hard in that first election, and the events of last weekend must help him. He is a politician's politician—sleek, smooth, pleasant, articulate and untruffed. His hair stays combed when he fishes. He is comfortable with the pros, and they are comfortable with him. Not excited, merely comfortable.

The pros will have the largest voice at the Democratic convention, and Mondale has been stroking them for years. Labor will have a large voice at that Democratic convention, and their endorsement certainly will help Mondale's quest for the nomination.

"Mondale's problem is the flip side of Glenn's. Having won election No. 1, could he possibly win election No. 2? There, the events of last weekend aren't much help.

Not a less authority than Lane Kirkland, head of the AFL-CIO, has said, "Organized labor has never been admired by the public; the things we have done have never enjoyed broad support." How does it help Mondale to be labor's candidate?

Now that he has labor's endorsement, Mondale has some difficult choices to make. Should he try to put a little distance between himself and the labor chiefs, to try to appeal to a broader sector of voters? The union heads are sophisticated enough to understand he must do some of that, but they might have trouble convincing their troops.

They will have trouble enough leading their troops in any event, if the economy-is-still-good

Telling a worker who has a good job at a fair wage that the president is a bad man and that Reaganomics is unfair just won't fly.

The leaders can provide money, mailings and phone banks, and deliver people to the polls. They can't deliver votes in November.

Everyone likes to believe he thinks for himself, that he studies the issues, makes up his own mind, and no one tells him how to vote.

There are already issues, labor issues, which will give Mondale a lift. The most acutely distressed industry in the United States is the airline industry. Labor blames it on the deregulation that came under—and at the insistence of—the Carter-Mondale administration. When Mondale, as vice president, was at least nominally presiding over the Democrat-controlled Senate, the Senate Commerce Committee said of the administration's airline deregulation bill, "Air transportation will be more likely to expand and prosper if the heavy hand of Civil Aeronautics Board economic regulation is removed from the creative hand of carrier management."

Those creative hands are producing bankruptcies and threats of bankruptcies all over the United States. Pilots' unions, flight attendants' unions and mechanics' unions are all threatening strikes to get that heavy hand back.

Mondale would love to forget, but he will be reminded and reminded and reminded... one year and one month's worth.

Splitting maul his staff on the pilgrimage to his heritage

A splitting maul is a marvelous tool. I look forward to the time I spend on the business end of one of those inventions reducing my winter wood supply to stove-sized chunks.

I am one of those perverse fellows who figures a dandy way to spend a Sunday afternoon is in the exercise of the fine art of cutting wood. I am one of those who can be found in the weekly caravan of laden pickup trucks headed back from the South Hills.

Occasionally, I've asked myself the obvious question, "Why do I have this burning need to cut wood?" I find a lot of the answer in my maul.

I'm not one to look for the answer in economics. I've never bothered to measure out my woodpile and calculate BTUs, costs of fuel, chainsaw expenses and the like. I've never done so because I suspect I would find my enterprise is without any sort of economic justification.

So what? There is more at stake here than money.

Dick Manning

Take independence, for instance. A few years back, when the cutting of firewood became all the rage, the impetus was ostensibly by the OPEC oil embargo and the resulting rise in the cost of other fuels. It was a way to counter those astronomical fuel bills we have since gotten used to.

Or was it? I suspect there was at least an equal part of the cussedness we Americans are famous for behind the rush to the woods. We could take our chainsaws and carve up little bits of those damned Arabs (definitely pronounced with an initial long "a"). We could swing our mauls at blocks of wood that had faces of sheiks painted on them.

And, at least in my case, that sense of beating the system is still one of the reasons I lay in my winter hoard. The battle for survival these days seems to be fought with checkbooks. It's a nice feeling to thumb your nose at it all and carve out a bit of survival with muscle and sweat.

That, in itself, is reason enough to cut wood. But I keep stumbling across another one.

My annual excursions on the woodpile are increasingly becoming a pilgrimage to my heritage. There is a series of woodpiles behind me describing my just like the rings in a tree trunk.

I find myself reveling in the pine as it files apart under the maul's persuasion. It wasn't that many years ago that the same maul was having slightly tougher going against the resistance of northern Michigan hardwoods. And I remember the days before I discovered the maul when the double-bit maul was the instrument of choice in our neck of the woods. You have not known adversity until you have tried to split the butt piece of a clematrilum elm with a double-edged ax.

But my history-in-wood has deeper roots. I learned about the care and feeding of the ax by my grandfather. He is one of those crusty characters who never quite saw the need to completely join our civilized world. He has many counterparts in Idaho.

I was just a nipper at the time, but remember well traipsing off into the woods with him. He would carry his ax and a crosscut saw. Chainsaws were available then, but he was never convinced he needed one.

He would spend his days on his 80-acre woodlot making his living on the cedar posts and boughs that he cut. It wasn't much of a living, but was supplemented by an octagon-barreled .32 Special Winchester. That rifle would occasionally drop a piece of government beef—a northern Michigan euphemism for poached venison.

I will always remember the music of my grandfather's crosscut saw and the sound his ax made when he worked it with the whetstone he carried in the pocket of his buffalo plaid shirt.

I remember them most when I work my own woodpile.

My maul is a marvelous instrument. It is one of the few tools I have found that is capable of adding to the legacy of primitive sounds I have inherited.

As I hit one piece of another piece of pulp-splitting, I try to figure out what makes that sound so attractive. I think I know.

Today, too many people make their livings by selling out as politicians or by making up words to fill the columns of newspapers. We live in a world where our needs are determined by advertising salesmen and our views are shaped by public relations people.

Honesty is in short supply.

My maul is a marvelous machine, because its song rings with honesty.

Trilateral Commission urges stronger conventional forces

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press International

WASHINGTON — A buildup of NATO conventional forces while maintaining a credible nuclear deterrent and pursuing arms negotiations with the Soviets was urged Sunday by the Trilateral Commission.

"There is no short cut to improved security," said the report by the prestigious but unofficial international organization.

The report opposed a nuclear freeze

despite recognizing strong public support for the concept — on grounds it "would inhibit a U.S. move away from the weakness of its present posture."

The Trilateral Commission was formed in 1973 by New York banker David Rockefeller and includes some 300 private citizens, many of them former top government and military figures, from North America, Western Europe and Japan "to foster closer cooperation on common problems."

"The heart of trilateral security will con-thus rest indefinitely on strong survivable nuclear deterrent forces," the report said.

"This fact must not be underestimated or defeated."

"There is little prospect of Soviet acceptance of a relationship with the trilateral nations which gives promise of a just and lasting peace," it said.

The panel listed four main aims: maintaining strong deterrence against wars of any kind, preserving allied confidence, achieving stability in the nuclear balance and strengthening barriers to nuclear proliferation beyond the five countries which now have them — the United States, Soviet Union, Britain, France and China.

To accomplish these aims, a long list of recommendations included:

•Deployment as planned of U.S. Pershing II missiles and cruise missiles in Western Europe unless there is a breakthrough in weapons negotiations.

•Development of 1,000 smaller "mid-range" missiles deployed in the United States instead of 100 MX missiles, each with 10 nuclear warheads, which would be more vulnerable to a Soviet strike.

•U.S.-S.S.R. discussions on limiting the testing and deployment of space-based weapons.

•Resume active negotiations for a comprehensive test ban.

Expert on USSR speaks against Pershing 2 deployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marshall Shulman, an expert on the Soviet Union, said Sunday that the United States should not deploy Pershing-2 and cruise missiles in Europe this December.

"Rather, it should strengthen conventional capabilities there."

Shulman also said the United States should stop trying to build "weapons that are very destabilizing" such as the MX and very "recognize that we have an interest in having as stable and moderate a level of nuclear military competition as possible and to work toward that end."

The professor of international relationships at Columbia University was interviewed on NBC's "Street View" program.

"The deployment of the Pershing-2 and cruise missiles in Europe scheduled to begin this December will be a major event that in the long run, will 'create a lot more problems," he said.

He said deployment is "not really necessary as a deterrent."

"I can't imagine the situation in which the theater nuclear weapons might come into play that would not involve us in a general nuclear war," he said.

"The real defense of Europe, if it is to be effective, really depends on the strength of our conventional forces in Europe," he said.

"What would make a lot more sense, if we want to reassure the Europeans that we are going to stand by them, would be to put our energies into strengthening the conventional defense of Europe. It would not cost more to do than it would to build the MX and I think we would be a lot better off."

Shulman said Soviet President Yuri Andropov "no longer expects any productive negotiations with the present administration."

What the Reagan administration must do is to "clarify what we want."

"Part of the problem is a great deal of confusion in the administration about wanting contradictory things," Shulman said. "It arises from a number of factors. One is that there are different counsels within the administration and there are different pressures on the president and in the effort to take the peace issue from the Democrats the president is, at the same time, trying to avoid losing his right-wing support and the result is a great deal of contradiction."

Shulman said the assumption that the Soviets will buckle under a lot of pressure is wrong and could backfire.

Insurance pays more Medicare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Private insurance companies and their policyholders are picking up an increased share of hospital costs incurred by government Medicare and Medicaid patients, a new study says.

The study by Jack Meyer, director of health policy research for the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, a conservative Washington "think tank," traced the problem to cutbacks in the government's payments to hospitals for the more than 50 million poor, elderly and disabled people served by Medicare and Medicaid.

To compensate for shortfalls in government reimbursements, hospitals have shifted more costs to the private sector, Meyer wrote.

The "result is a 'hidden tax' on private insurers and their policyholders, the report said.

"The tax is a symptom of the underlying problem of the government's unwillingness or financial inability to pay either its fair share of the cost of uncompensated care or the full cost of providing what it has promised," the report said.

"The private sector cannot escape paying this subsidy one way or another unless access to hospital care is reduced, Medicare benefits are cut or incentives to increase cost consciousness are greatly strengthened," the report added.

The document described the system as efficient, but more unfair than outright taxation, and it suggested alternatives to lessen the burden on privately insured patients and taxpayers while still providing care for uninsured patients and for those whose hospital bills are paid by the government.

One set of alternatives would be for the government to seek an extra fund to cover Medicare and Medicaid costs through income tax, a payroll tax or an excise tax on patients with insurance.

Soup, pills best method to feed poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soup kitchens and vitamin pills should replace expensive federal programs to feed the poor because malnutrition still runs rampant in diets of those who receive aid, the fall issue of Policy Review reported.

The Heritage Foundation, a conservative think-tank that funds the quarterly journal, said "much of the money spent over the years to fight hunger and poverty has missed its mark."

"Passing out vitamin pills to the poor would be far simpler and more effective nutritionally than current programs and would not destroy anyone's incentive to provide for himself," wrote James Bovard, a Washington reporter.

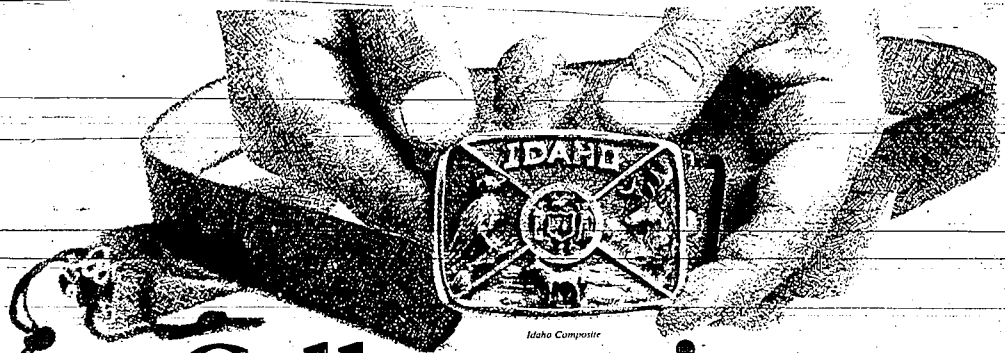

The Foundation said Bovard's article is "controversial" and thought-provoking, though his views are not necessarily those of Heritage.

Enrollment in food programs has more than quadrupled since 1960 to about 70 million people, Bovard said.

Despite the increase, Bovard said Agriculture Department study noted only 30 percent of low-income households — including users and non-users of food stamps — met the required daily allowance for all nutrients in their diets.

Bovard criticized liberal politicians for increasing food prices and insulating minimum wage laws that cause unemployment and burdened welfare rolls.

"It is farcical to hear politicians sobbing over the poor's plight while they try to raise food prices by hook or by crook or by PIK," he said, referring to the administration's Payment In Kind program for farmers.

Poles honor Nobel winner

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Crowds of supporters from all over Poland braved cold and rain Sunday to honor Solidarity leader Lech Walesa for winning the Nobel Peace prize. His priest said the award was "for the workers."
A crowd of some 8,000 people flocked to St. Bridget's church in the Baltic port of Gdansk to a combined service of reconsecration for the church and thanksgiving for Walesa's award, announced Wednesday for his work as leader of the banned Solidarity free trade union.
Walesa's parish priest, Rev. Henryk Jankowski, told the congregation it was his honor to congratulate the 40-year-old Gdansk electrician on the prize.

300 medicine prize nominees

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — The chief judge for the 1983 Nobel Prize in medicine said Sunday more than 300 scientists worldwide were nominated this year, but that American dominance "will continue."
Dr. David Otis, chairman of the Karolinska Institute's Nobel Committee, said all of the 20 to 25 finalists for 1983 were people whose names had been nominated before. But he did not identify them.
The winner of the prize is to be announced today by the Karolinska Institute of Stockholm. Alfred Nobel chose the medical research academy in his 1895 will.
Otis said America's dominance "will continue. It has a scientific tradition now and it takes generations to build that up anywhere."
He said the American era began in earnest during and after World War II when many of the best scientific minds in Europe emigrated to the United States.
The next prize is for economics, to be announced Oct. 17, followed by the physics and chemistry awards, both Oct. 19.

Scandal mars party session

LONDON (UPI) — The Conservative Party's 100th annual conference opens his week amid growing calls for Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's most trusted Cabinet minister to resign because of his adulterous affair with a secretary.
Concerned about the party's image as protector of family life, a score of senior Conservative Party members privately called Sunday for the dismissal of Cecil Parkinson as Britain's trade and industry secretary after only four months on the job.
Public opinion, however, seems to be behind the 53-year-old Parkinson who admitted last Thursday to an eight-year love affair with his former secretary Sara Keays, 36, who is pregnant with his child. Parkinson plans to stay with his wife while providing for his mistress.

Salvador forces counterattack

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Salvadoran armed forces launched a 2,000-man counterattack Sunday against rebels in the eastern Usulután province, disrupting a U.S.-planned pacification program.
Both civilian and military sources said the troops went into action near Santa Elena and Jucupa, where up to 75 casualties were reported by both sides in heavy fighting late Friday.
The armed forces claimed they have killed or wounded 45 guerrillas, while the rebels say their forces killed 65 soldiers in the battle for control of the key city of Jucupa in the center of the rich eastern agricultural province.

China launches 'rectification'

PEKING (UPI) — The Communist Party leadership is expected to meet today to launch an extensive, three-year "rectification" campaign to purge Maoist leftists and corrupt cadres from the ranks of the 40 million member party.
The long-awaited campaign, the third and final stage of an ambitious ideological house-cleaning, will start with the approval of "rectification guidelines" at a Central Committee plenum.
If it follows the plan previously announced by Chinese leaders, the campaign will culminate in three years with the recall and reissuance of all party membership cards.

Spain foiled sabotage plans

LONDON (UPI) — Argentine saboteurs were dispatched to blow up vital arms and fuel dumps in Gibraltar and disrupt Britain's supply lines during the Falklands war, but the plot was foiled by Spanish authorities, the Sunday Times reported.
Gibraltar, the rocky fortress at the southern tip of Spain guarding the entrance to the Mediterranean, is an important British naval supply base and served as a vital supply link in the two-month war with Argentina in the south Atlantic last year.
The four-man team flew to Spain in May, 1982, on a mission to swim across to the British promontory, the Sunday Times said, citing British military and intelligence officials.

Security men testify today in Aquino probe

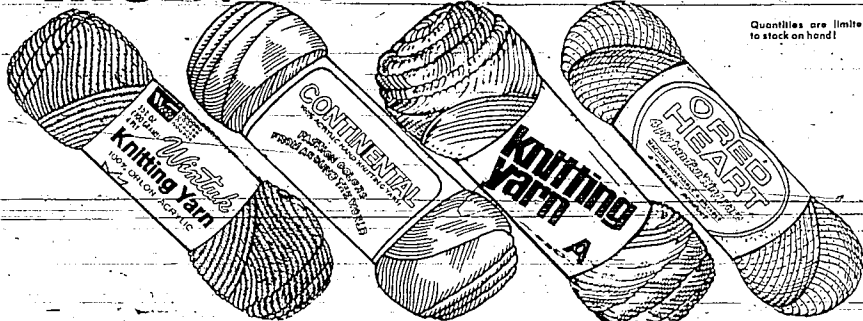

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — The security men who took custody of opposition leader Benigno Aquino moments before he was assassinated were ordered to testify today before a controversy-shrouded inquiry commission.
The commission, appointed by President Ferdinand Marcos following Aquino's Aug. 21 assassination at Manila Airport, also is scheduled to hear testimony from two generals leading the investigation into the case.
Aquino was shot down while in military custody seconds after he stepped off the plane that brought him home from three years of voluntary exile in the United States.
The government said Rolando Galman, described as a "gun-for-hire," killed Aquino under orders from the outlawed Communist Party. Galman was shot dead by security men moments after Aquino was killed.
But opposition sources have accused one of the military security men of shooting Aquino in the back of the neck.

Opposition leaders, led by members of Aquino's family, have denounced the commission as an attempt by the Marcos regime to whitewash its own involvement in the killing.
About 1,500 runners, led by Aquino's youngest daughter, Kristina, 13, participated in a "Jog for Justice" Sunday to demonstrate opposition to the embattled Marcos regime.
Corazon Aquino, wife of the slain leader, Friday declined an offer from Marcos to pick two new members for the six-member commission.
Salvador Laurel, president of a coalition of 12 anti-government parties, said that adding two honest members would be like adding two glasses of clean water to a pitcher of dirty water.
"No matter how many glasses are added," he said, "the water will still be dirty."
The presidential commission is lacking leadership as well as credibility.

Salvadoran says U.S. creating 'Frankenstein'

By JOHN E. NEWHAGEN
United Press International

A Salvadoran rebel leader warned the Kissinger commission that U.S. policy in Central America has created a "Frankenstein."
In addition, a Nicaraguan junta member charged Sunday that American forces are surrounding his country.
Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's 11-man National Bipartisan Commission on Central America was scheduled to arrive in Panama City late Sunday to start a week-long fact-finding trip through the explosive region.
El Salvador's most prominent left-wing opposition politician, Guillermo Ungo, said in an interview with United Press International that if he could meet the commission he would urge it not to ignore the realities of the region such as the Salvadoran guerrilla movement.

"We are a reality, and an important reality in El Salvador. A bad diagnosis (by the commission) will offer a bad prescription," said the leader of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, the political wing of the Salvadoran rebel movement.
Ungo was interviewed at his home in exile in Panama City before departing for New York City where he is scheduled to give a talk at the Council on Foreign Relations.
"The United States has created a Frankenstein in Central America and because of what it has done, it doesn't know what to do now," said the leader of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, the political wing of the Salvadoran rebel movement.
He was especially critical of the U.S. training of Latin American military officials who he said traditionally go on to hold important government jobs — often in military dictatorships.

"What the United States has gathered in place of security is insecurity; in place of justice, injustice; in place of democracy, authoritarianism, totalitarianism and repression," Ungo said.
In Nicaragua, Commander Jaime Wheelock, one of the nine directors of the Sandinista Front, said the presence of U.S. troops in Panama, and Honduras and military advisers in El Salvador are part of a plan to surround Nicaragua.
Wheelock, cited by the official Sandinista Front newspaper, Barricada, also accused the U.S. military of placing Navy "construction experts" in Costa Rica as part of that plan. He gave no further details about that charge.
Wheelock's comments came one day after a U.S. official said that the armies of Guatemala,

El Salvador and Honduras will collaborate to patrol the Gulf of Fonseca, which touches the northwestern coasts of all three countries.
The leftist government warned that rebel forces were preparing attacks from both the north and south and accused the United States and its allies of trying to surround Nicaragua.
"It is believed they could launch an attack of great scale in the next hours against some border point," said Barricada.
A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the Kissinger commission would arrive late Sunday at Panama's Omar Torrijos International airport and hold a series of meetings today before departing early Tuesday for Costa Rica.
The commission also is expected to be briefed by Lt. Gen. Paul Gorman, commander of U.S. military forces in Latin America on U.S. military operations in the region.

What's what

Three years after Daguerre came out with his silver-surface photography in 1837, French opportunists — on the streets of Paris — peddled daguerrotypes of naked women. Twenty years later, Civil War soldiers decorated their tents with pinups of nudes in invitational pose. The art developed swiftly, the pornography even more so. A few fortunes were built on it.

In Great Britain, the televised dart-throwing matches, for some peculiar reason, seem to get a much bigger audience that do the televised fishing tournaments.

If that female soldier in the U.S. Army wears earrings when in battle fatigues, she's out of uniform.

Morbid memo: A seventh of your life is Mondays.

UNATTACHED WOMEN

Q. In which European countries now are the most unattached women?

A. Austria, Poland and East Germany. It's said.

Q. San Francisco 49er Quarterback Joe Montana's ancestors were Italian, weren't they?

A. Mostly. Plus 1/64th Sioux Indian.

Q. How many Americans with heart transplants are still alive?

A. At last report, about 160. But that figure is rising swiftly.

VOICES

Sir, do you have some special knack possessed by none other? It's remarkable how some men cultivate unique capabilities. Take the British judge, Sir John Fielding, who was blind. History records that he could recognize the voices of 3,000 London thieves.

Creative nomenclature is pretty popular in the horse breeding game, too. In Nevada's Reno, Kathy Knight named her new filly "Knightmare." Not bad, not bad.

The doorbell of California Angels pitcher Tommy John plays "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

Orangutan: rape orangutans.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Upsets and changes that are unexpected and likely to be dramatic occur today but you should not accept them as catastrophes since immediately following, you find many opportunities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look into new enterprises that are promising and be willing to let go of the obsolete; replace with the new.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A business matter you thought settled crops up again, but take it in your stride and be cooperative. Later make better plans.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some changes — where associates are concerned may come suddenly, but go along with the new plans as cheerfully as you can.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study any new methods that you can incorporate into your work so that you can be more efficient.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Those amusement plans may have to be revised somewhat, but for the better. Don't take any risks in the morning.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Matters at home could be a little difficult, but be charming and everything calms down. Don't do any entertaining until evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Much care in motion is needed so that you avoid any accidents that might otherwise occur. Avoid loeing your temper.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Some practical matter could be giving you trouble, but don't lose control and you can soon rectify the whole situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You get different ideas for getting ahead now, so follow them and get good results. The evening is best for relaxing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Relieve yourself of pressures by getting into something more worthwhile and constructive. Maintain control and say no.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more objective and know if your friends are not acting right or you are not being as reasonable as you should be.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you bring up some controversial point at work, you can be criticized severely now, so use tact. It is of the utmost importance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those charming young persons who may have to undergo many changes during the lifetime and will be able to along with them if you early give good religious training and teach self control.

Fire prevention needs commitment

DEAR READERS: Last year in the United States, 6,029 civilians and 117 firefighters died in fires, and approximately 300,000 civilians plus 100,000 firefighters were seriously injured. The total loss in property alone came to $6.4 billion.

In Canada there were 699 fire-related deaths last year, none of which were firefighters. The property damage was approximately $959 million.

This is Fire Prevention Week, and although its focus throughout the year, each season has its own special fire hazards. Here are some tips for all seasons:

FALL: If you enjoy camping, select a tent made of flame-resistant fabric. Pack a reliable flashlight with plenty of extra batteries to light the inside of your tent. Never use matches or candles. When building a campfire, place it downwind of your tent. And NEVER try to hasten the burning by using gasoline or other flammable liquid starters.

If you use your fireplace, have your chimney professionally cleaned in the fall to make sure it's in good condition for the coming season.

WINTER: More fires occur during winter than in any other season. The reasons: home heating and the holiday season.

If you use a portable heater, be sure it is placed away from combustibles — draperies, furniture, paper, etc. Remember, the surface heat of some portable heaters may reach 500 degrees, so keep a careful watch on your children and warn them to keep away from heaters. Hospitals are treating an increasing number of patients with the outside surface of some portable heaters.

For a Merry Christmas, choose a Christmas tree that does not have shedding needles, and keep it standing in water while it is in the house. If you choose an artificial tree, choose one that is flame-resistant.

After holiday parties, before retiring, check your ashtrays for smoldering cigarette butts, and carefully examine all upholstered chairs and sofas to make sure that no "live" cigarette butts have fallen between the cushions. Remember, most house fires occur between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m. when people are sleeping.

SPRING: Take spring cleaning seriously — clean out your attic, basement, garage and workshop. Throw-out trash, especially: combustibles like rags, newspapers, magazines, boxes and scraps of wood. Never smoke while lighting gas-powered lawn mowers or chain saws. If you must store gasoline, store it in a ventilated area in a can designed especially for that purpose. And store all rags and paint in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

SUMMER: When cooking out, NEVER use flammable liquids near live coals. An explosion or flash fire could result. When you're finished with cooking, soak the coals with water and make absolutely sure they're out when you leave. Smoldering coals that appear to be "dead" can reignite as much as a day later! If you use a propane gas grill, always have the "lighted" match in position

BEFORE turning on the gas.

Some tips for all seasons:

Never smoke in bed. Never leave ladders or small children alone in the house — not even for "a few minutes."

Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

Have periodic fire drills in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Keep easy-to-use fire extinguishers in your kitchen, cottage, back bedrooms and on your boat. And if you can afford smoke detectors, install them and be sure they are always dust-free and in working order.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped to every telephone in your house. If it isn't, should a fire occur, don't waste time trying to find it; get out and call from a neighbor's house. And once you are out, stay out. No treatment is worth risking your life for.

Weddings

Clayton-Rarick

BUHL — Melody Anne Clayton and Dwight Eric Rarick were married May 22 at the First Christian Church in Buhl.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Grindstaff of Buhl, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Rarick of Hazelton.

Pastor Raymond Ewing Jr. officiated.

The bride wore her mother's gown of satin which featured scalloped chantly lace.

Lora Bybee of Buhl was the maid of honor. Todd Buschborn of Hazelton was the best man. Danny Douglas and Rod Stephenson of Hazelton ushered.

Wanda Rarick, sister of the groom, was the guest-book attendant. A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. And a buffet supper was held Aug. 20 at the home of the bride's parents.

Among the guests were Florence Calhoun of Napa, Calif., grandmother of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Rarick of Burley, and Elizabeth Johnson of Filer, grandparents of the groom.

The bride is a 1982 graduate of Buhl High School and a 1983 graduate of Associated Schools Inc. in North Miami Beach, Fla. The groom, a 1983 graduate of Valley High School, attended an eight-week business training camp this summer. He is employed by Globe Feed and Seed. The couple is living in Twin Falls.

Barthel-Serpa

TWIN FALLS — Janice Barthel and Gregory R. Serpa were married Aug. 13 in Las Vegas.

The bride is the daughter of Charlotte Nelson of Escondido, Calif., and Richard Kossman of Bryon City, N.C. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Duane R. Serpa of Twin Falls.

Michele Koch and Dan Smith of Carlsbad, Calif., were the attendants.

A reception and dance were held on Sept. 10 at the Twin Falls Elks Lodge. Cynthia Jover, a cousin of the groom, was the guest-book attendant.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Serpa, and Opal Andrews of Twin Falls, all grandparents of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Escondido High School and Palomar College.

The groom, a graduate of Twin Falls High School, attended Boise State University. He is employed by the Serpa Oil Co. in Twin Falls. The couple is living in Twin Falls.

Training will be hard

Hey, don't get me wrong. I'm not anti-school sports or anything, but you have to admit, coaches change not only the metabolism, but the entire personality of a child in a matter of weeks.

It's like a miracle. In late summer, parents send their kid who hates showers, cannot sleep to pick up a towel, has a grip that won't support a bag of garbage, wouldn't walk 50 yards to close a door during a blizzard and considers a haircut a violation of his civil rights.

Several weeks later, a subservient football player emerges.

Just think about it. What do you think your son would say if you asked him to "slip into these purple satin knee-length pants and put a helmet on your head and in the driving rain run this little football 75 yards and then report back to me?"

I know what my son would do. He would take legal steps to put me in a home. He won't even wear a shirt to go out and bring the paper towel something wrong. Maybe we need to get together. If they're late for dinner, maybe they ought to sit on the bench for a couple of weeks and watch us eat. If they drop their fork at the table, maybe a couple of laps around the house would shape them up. If they stay out too late and break the house rules, why not order them not to sweat for two weeks?

A friend of mine discussed this miracle of transformation with her son's coach and he said, "There's nothing to it. All you have to do to shape a kid up is to find out what he likes to do and then threaten to take it away from him if his attitude isn't good."

She called her son to the kitchen and said, "What do you love about your life here?"

Wringers gone

NEWTON, Iowa (UPI) — A product that was a unique part of the American 20th century experience is going out of production at the end of 1983.

The Maytag Company plans to stop making wringer washers after 76 years, says Daniel J. Krumm, president of the Newton-based appliance firm.

The company makes automatic washers, dryers, dishwashers, disposers, microwave ovens and gas and electric ranges. Krumm, whose company has been the major industry supplier of wringer washers, says industry sales of the product have been declining since the peak year of 1948.

Fugitive in jail after Twin Falls robberies

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Utah prison escapee suspected of two robberies in Twin Falls was arrested Sunday morning after an intense manhunt that included a search by a plane and bloodhounds.

The suspect's alleged accomplice — another prison escapee — was still at large Sunday night.

Charles Stephens, 33, was arrested without incident at approximately 8 a.m. He was walking down Washington Street North, near the 7-11 store, in Twin Falls at the time, said Lt. Jim Kistler of the Twin Falls Police Department.

Law-enforcement agencies still are searching for Barry Wayne Hickman, 31,

A member of a Utah State Prison work crew, Hickman walked away Sept. 14, while the group was fishing near Strawberry Reservoir in Utah, according to Theo Rasmussen, a supervisor for the prison's minimum-security section.

Stephens escaped Wednesday near Snowbird, Utah, from another work crew, Rasmussen said Sunday night.

Both men were serving sentences for robbery, he said.

The search for Stephens and Hickman began about 11 p.m. Saturday, said Twin Falls County Sheriff Jim Munn. About a half-hour earlier, the two men ran a roadblock on U.S. 30, east of Piler. The roadblock was set up after the armed robbery of the Pizzeria restaurant in Twin Falls.

In that incident, a man stole an undisclosed amount of money at gun-point from the cashier at 10:20 p.m., and then escaped on foot.

A car with Utah plates was pursued for about a half-mile by a Piler police officer after it went through the roadblock, said Chief Deputy Harold Jensen of the Twin Falls County sheriff's office. After the car stopped, two men — later identified as Stephens and Hickman — took off on foot into nearby farm fields.

In the car was Stephens' wife, Virginia, 30, of Murray, Utah, and her 11-year-old son, who were held for questioning, Jensen said. They were released Sunday afternoon.

Kistler would not say if any money or weapons were found in the car, which belonged to Mrs. Stephens.

After it was learned that the two men were prison escapees, more than 30 law-enforcement officers from Twin Falls, Piler, Buhl, the Idaho State Police and the sheriff's office became involved in the search, Munn said.

A plane, flown by a Buhl reserve police officer, scanned the area where the men fled Saturday night and early Sunday, Munn said. Bloodhounds from Blaine County Search and Rescue Unit also were used to search a mile section of land where the men were last seen, Munn said.

Stephens was located Sunday morning during a routine patrol by officers, Kistler said.

Stephens is a suspect in the Pizza Hut robbery and also the armed robbery of the Payless shoe store at 1460 Lakes Blvd., which occurred about five hours before the restaurant robbery.

A small amount of money was taken in the shoe store robbery, by a lone gunman who also escaped on foot.

No charges have been filed in the robberies, Kistler said Sunday. Stephens is being held in the Twin Falls City Jail on a Utah arrest warrant.

As for the remaining suspect, Munn said, "All we can do has been done. We are assuming he left the area." Other law-enforcement agencies have been alerted through bulletins, he said.

As the search for Hickman continued Sunday, sheriff's deputies were called to a house a mile south of Twin Falls, according to the sheriff's office. At 8:20 p.m., a woman called the office and said that a stranger had asked to sleep in some old cars on her property. Several officers were dispatched, but the man turned out to be a hitchhiker.

Hailey project delayed

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Indian Creek improvements to Hailey's water system face another delay because the bids for the project came in too high.

Last week, the City Council rejected all of the bids because they came in well over the estimated costs. The council instructed the city's engineer to re-evaluate the project to see if a less expensive design can be found.

However, Mayor Wordell Rainey says some work on the project may begin this fall or winter. That work would be on the portion of the project not included in the bond issue that was passed last fall to finance the water-storage facility.

The four bids submitted came in from $100,000 to $230,000 above the engineer's estimate of $322,000.

The bids were: Home Plumbing and Heating of Twin Falls, $677,324; Nielsen and Co. of Twin Falls, $697,014; Hasdink Co. of Twin Falls, $721,184; and Continental Construction Co. of Jackson, Wyo., $772,994.

When built, the improvements will include a million-gallon storage tank, the cost of which will be covered by the $490,000 bond issue. Also included, but not covered by the bond issue, are a powerhouse for a hydroelectric generator, new water lines and landscaping.

To meet the estimated costs, council members asked engineering consultant Jim Coleman to re-evaluate the project's design in the areas where the council thought the bids exceeded the estimated costs. These areas include:

- The shape of the storage tank.
- To satisfy homeowners in the area, the city agreed to bury the base of the tank at a depth of 25 feet, so it would not be unsightly. The cost of burying the tank and the water lines leading from it apparently led to a great deal of the cost overrun, Rainey says.

Coleman is to find out if there is a better design that would allow the tank to be buried at shallower depth.

• Determining the actual soil types at the tank's site.

Soil tests for the project were made at another hillside site, where the city originally had planned to locate the tank.

The council believes the bidders may have thought the soil types were an unknown factor and raised their bids to cover unexpected costs.

• Re-evaluating the schedule for the project.

The council thought bidders may have their increased costs to cover delays caused by an early winter.

Orlando E. Arellano cheated death in the Pacific in World War II and in a railroad mishap

He's really a survivor

By DIANA HOOLEY
Times-News correspondent

—GLENN'S FERRY—Orlando E. Arellano is like the cat-with-nine-lives — he's cheated death more than once in his lifetime.

Born in 1922 in New Mexico as one of "several brothers and sisters," Arellano and his family moved to Bliss when he was 6 months old. His father, he says, was looking for better job opportunities.

It was in southern Idaho that Arellano spent his early years. At the start of World War II, he joined the Army.

Leaving back in his chair, Arellano tells his story with his hands and his clear, brown eyes. His battalion was one of the first to land on the Marshall Islands. He was also one of the first to be injured.

"I was wounded in my hand and finger, so I had to go to the medical unit," he recalls.

While he was away from his unit, the Japanese launched a counterattack. Arellano was left as one of the few survivors of his battalion.

After the war, Arellano returned home and married Zola McIntosh of Hammett. The couple started a family, and he began working for the railroad.

Nine children and nine years later, in July, 1959, Arellano was hit by a train.

"I was working for the railroad and was on this section with six or seven other men, doing maintenance, lining the tracks.

"The train had too many cars and was right above us, at the top of Medbury Hill, switching and breaking up. It backed down the hill, and I didn't see it. I don't know why. It's a mystery and will remain a mystery. I didn't see it or hear it."

A witness to the accident, co-worker Dick Humphreys from Hammett, says Arellano was watching someone else when the train hit him.

"He was hit and thrown just like you'd throw a baseball in the air," Humphreys says.

Arellano's wife says her husband was thrown 30 feet in the air. "Everything in his body was damaged. His liver was mangled like hamburger."

Arellano was rushed to Elmore Memorial Hospital in Mountain Home, where Dr. Malcoe Koelsch was the attending physician. Koelsch says that Arellano was in serious condition when he first saw him, suffering from massive internal injuries, severe kidney and liver damage, and trauma to the head.

Koelsch says that in his entire experience as a doctor he has never seen or heard of a man being hit by a train who lived to tell of it.

Eventually, Arellano was transferred to several different hospitals, including Fort Douglas Veterans Hospital in Salt Lake City, where his condition improved. Arellano says he had some disks removed from his back but still was partially paralyzed.

He also had a kidney removed and sustained permanent liver damage.

Later in the year, the railroad paid Arellano $24,000 because of the accident, and he was retired.

"Once you get hurt on the railroad, you never get retired again," he says.

But his story doesn't end with a wheelchair or confinement to bed. He has his father to thank for that, he says.

He put a shovel in my hand and said, "I'm gonna fix you up." After that, Arellano began to do a little irrigating on the side, until he found a part-time position helping Glenn Ferry rancher Jack Henley.

SHEROME — The "landscape of southern Idaho" is dotted with the abandoned shells of alcohol fuel plants that their promoters hoped would make millions.

So, Magic Valley farmers are understandably skeptical when talk again turns to alcohol fuel.

"They roll their eyes and compare alcohol-fuel projects to chinchilla and worm farms," says Keith Lierman, a farmer-mechanic who lives south of Jerome.

But Lierman, Jerome auctioneer Jim Messersmith and several other Magic Valley farmers are taking a second look at alcohol fuels.

The reason for their renewed interest is a new distillery leasing program developed by Farmers Group Purchasing, a 14-year-old company headquartered in Topeka, Kan.

Last week, Ted Keen, a Farmers Group representative was in the Magic Valley, discussing the details of a proposal to develop a new farm-based alcohol fuel industry in southern Idaho.

Unlike so many who have gone before him, Keen was not trying to sell the farmers hardware. Instead, he was proposing to lease more than 20 distilleries to area farmers.

The rent on these 52,200-gallon-a-year distilleries would not be paid in cash, Keen said, but in 190-proof alcohol.

According to Keen, each farmer would be expected to give half of his 144-gallon-per-day production to Farmers Group. They then could sell the rest for an estimated $1.20 per gallon, he said.

The farmer also would be able to keep the high-protein feed that is a by-product of the production process.

"For the most part, all the farmer will have in it are his time and labor," Keen said.

According to Keen, the distillery system leased by his firm is fully automated and requires only two hours of labor per day.

In years past, many promoters tried to sell farmers poorly designed systems that failed to perform as advertised. These distilleries required long hours of labor, used lots of electricity and frequently suffered from bacteria contamination.

But Keen said that most of the promoters who peddled their wares during the height of the energy crisis have disappeared.

After two years of testing, Keen said his company is ready to prove his distillery system in the field without asking farmers to invest their money in hardware.

Over the next few months, Keen said his company will be interviewing qualified farmers to determine who will receive the first distilleries. The farmers will be sent through a training program before they receive the systems, he said.

Keen said his firm also plans to develop a central "topping" plant in the Magic Valley, which will upgrade the 190-proof farm alcohol to the 200-proof level that is required for blending with gasoline.

According to Keen, there is a strong market for blended alcohol which serves as an octane booster in unleaded fuels.

Keen said there are three major reasons why his firm is interested in developing alcohol fuel production in the Magic Valley.

First, he points to the abundance of alcohol-fuel plants and corn that can serve as alcohol feed stocks.

He also foresees the Jerusalem artichoke becoming a major Magic Valley fuel crop, capable of yielding some 600 gallons of alcohol to the acre.

And finally, he said, the livestock industry can use the by-product feed produced by the distilleries.

Fundamental issues taken up at NOW conference

Coordinator doesn't mince her words

By DEBRA JOHNSON GELET
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — "Women are the only group in the country whose rights are not constitutionally guaranteed, and it amazes me how many women don't care."

Jean Jensen is not one to mince words. As the Idaho coordinator for the National Organization for Women, Jensen recently returned from NOW's annual national conference in Washington, D.C. The nearly 2,000 delegates addressed issues so fundamental that Jensen feels they would stop most women right in their tracks.

"What is, if women know," she says. "For instance, women will pay $16,000 more over their lifetime for insurance than men. We pay because we're women, and that's just one example."

Other issues examined during the conference included the Equal Rights Amendment, the upcoming presidential primaries and the so-called "gender gap," for which NOW claims responsibility, Jensen says.

Six of the candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination spoke at the conference. Jensen sees that as "recognition that the feminist vote has to be reckoned with. Reagan would like to dismiss the gender gap as some kind of a trendy thing, yet at the same time, they (the Republicans) are scrambling for women candidates."

Every year, NOW holds a national conference to gather opinions from chapters across the country and to decide what laws to lobby for during the upcoming year.

The delegates also exchange ideas for helping individual chapters.

For example, Jensen points out the challenge of being a "liberal organization like NOW in a relatively politically conservative state." Although Idaho was one of the first states to ratify the ERA and has had women in active roles in the Legislature, Jensen sees these points as part of the past.

"Idaho has seen more liberal and progressive days than is currently seen," she says. "But I have a sense that, that strong and progressive spirit still exists in Idaho women. It's just a matter of making contact with them."

Jensen views the character of Idaho women as self-sufficient and independent. As a result, she says, it is harder to get these women to realize their collective strength and power. She also feels it is harder to make them understand how important and helpful organizing can be.

In a letter to NOW members, Jensen sums up her feelings clearly.

"The boys — as in good, old — have managed to portray running the country as not only too difficult for women to do, which Idaho women have to know is not true, but also as hard work." She admits that the "boys" are right about the hard work. "But, the point is, it's fun. And women can do it."

Filer asks for a Santa

FILER — The city of Filer is looking for some generous residents who would like to play Santa Claus.

The community needs money or materials for new Christmas decorations for the downtown area.

"What I would really like to see is donations," says Councilwoman Wanda Shaffer, who is heading the project. But any contribution of lights or homemade decorations would be appreciated, she says.

The city only has about five lights on a string and a few candy canes to adorn the town, she says. "And they must be at least 100 years old."

Hagerman man dies from fall

HAGERMAN — A 23-year-old man died Saturday from injuries he received in a fall off a truck near Hagerman.

The victim has been identified as Jose A. Mendes of Hagerman. Mendes died at 5 p.m. at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise.

The accident occurred at 12:24 p.m., a half-mile east of Hagerman, on Indian Springs Road, according to Gooding County Sheriff Brian Aja.

Mendes was facing forward, sitting on the tailgate when he fell off the truck and onto the pavement, Aja said. Mendes initially was treated at Gooding Memorial Hospital and later transferred to Boise.

According to the Ada County coroner's office, Mendes died of massive head injuries, Aja said.

The driver of the vehicle was Maria Mendes of Hagerman, the victim's sister-in-law. Mendes's brother, Eyo, also was riding in the back of the truck when the accident occurred, the sheriff said.

Casino worker faces charge

JACKPOT — A casino employee is suspected of robbing a man Saturday evening in the parking lot of the business.

Frank McFarlane, 22, a slot cashier at Barton's Club 93 is being held on an armed robbery charge in the Elko County Jail, according to a sheriff's deputy.

Thomas Armstrong, age 47, who lives south of Jackpot, reportedly had approximately $100 was taken from him at about 6:30 p.m.

Armstrong was not injured during the incident. He and witnesses identified the suspect, according to the deputy.

McFarlane was arrested 10 minutes later at his mobile home near the casino.

No weapon or money has been found, the deputy said.

Accident victim released

TWIN FALLS — A Las Vegas man was discharged Sunday from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, where he was treated for injuries received in a Saturday accident that killed his two companions.

Kenneth Phillips, 42, was the driver of the pickup truck that left U.S. 93 and overturned, about 17 miles north of the Idaho-Nevada border, at 4:15 a.m. Phillips' brother-in-law, Larry Junior Brown, 41, of Las Vegas, and Airman Ronald Everett Phillips, 21, of Nellis Air Force Base, died at the scene from massive head injuries when the vehicle rolled over on them, according to the county coroner, Cloyce Edwards.

According to the ISP, charges are pending against Phillips, who reportedly fled the scene.

Police investigate car fire

TWIN FALLS — A lit cigarette is suspected as the cause of a fire in the front seat of a car parked at 1621 Ninth Ave. E in Twin Falls this weekend. Whether it was arson or an accident, still is under investigation by Twin Falls police.

The car belonged to Linda Hamilton and was parked outside her Ninth Avenue residence, according to Ted Poulton of the Twin Falls Fire Department.

The fire department was called at 8 p.m. Saturday. Poulton said the fire was confined to the inside of the unoccupied car. Damage has been estimated at $1,500.

Minico picks football queen

RUPERT — Lynette Stocker has been named Minico High School's 1983 homecoming queen.

A senior and a cheerleader, she presided over homecoming activities on Friday, which included an afternoon parade and the evening's football game against the Paducah High School.

Stocker was crowned at the homecoming dance Saturday night.

Civil court blotter

The following civil cases are among those filed last week in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Twin Falls:

Household Finance Corp. vs. Thomas R. Gage. The plaintiff alleges the defendant has defaulted on loan payments and is requesting $25,518.98, plus interest and $7,500 in attorney fees.

Security Pacific Finance Corp. vs. Annabelle Reeves. The plaintiff alleges that it made a loan to the defendant using a 1971 Oldsmobile as collateral. Since the loan balance is $1,047.05, no down payment, the plaintiff is requesting permission to possess and sell the automobile, so that the proceeds may be applied to the debt. It also seeks $50 in attorney fees and costs.

Action Collection Service Inc. vs. Allen Willard. The plaintiff, representing Intermountain Gas Co., is seeking $92.05, plus attorney fees, services, and $100 in interest fees.

Professional Service Agency vs. Brady C. and Roberta Shell. The plaintiff, acting for Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, Magic Valley Family Physicians, Drs. Brumback Jr., Katz and Wright, and the Pediatric Clinic, is seeking $3,142.77 for services and $1,000 in attorney fees.

Orioles vs. Phillies: A Series of contrasts

By RANDY GALLOWAY
Dallas Morning News

BALTIMORE — Over. And so soon. Over and out for the Dodgers. Down and out for the White Sox. That's the way it was in the baseball playoffs.

That's the way it was when the Philadelphia Phillies and the Baltimore Orioles lifted off into the wild blue World Series yonder.

Rockets' red glare and champagne corks—flying through the air—No fifth-game playoff thrills for this October. Just do it in four and slam the door. Both winners did.

Late Saturday afternoon, the Orioles puffed the top on a bottle of bubbly after putting away the Sox in Chicago. Late Saturday night, that same same bubbly boom was heard over Philadelphia.

So easy, too, for the winning sides. They get together here Tuesday night for the first game of the World Series, with Scott McGreger of the Orioles scheduled to face John Denton of the Phillies.

This is a strange match, mainly because you can't find two more diverse organizations than the Phillies and the Orioles.

The Phillies are a patchwork of old timers, lured to Philadelphia because management dumped tons of money into the free-agent market. The roster turns over and over year by year, but their talent is good enough to make them perennial contenders. In fact, it is weak enough that the Phillies managed to sneak into the playoffs. A month ago Mike Schmidt said publicly — that winning the division appeared impossible because of no team direction or leadership. Schmidt was wrong. The Dodgers certainly wish he hadn't been.

The manager? Well, he really isn't one. Paul Owens is the team's longtime general manager. But when owner Bill Giles panicked in July and fired Pat Corrales when the club was in first place, the 59-year-old Owens went into uniform as manager.

One Philadelphia sportswriter wrote that Owens' managerial motto is "walk softly and carry a big swizzle stick." Whispers from the clubhouse say coaches Dave Bristol and Bobby Wine actually call the shots in strategic situations.

Regardless, the only thing that counts is Owens will be managing in the World Series. Eleven other National League dugout geniuses will watch on TV.

The Orioles, now there's an organization for you — "savvy" scouting, shrewd trading and shrewd spending. They have produced the most efficient and most-respected organization in the business. And the results show up in the standings season after season. Even trading Earl Weaver, often promoted to managerial sainthood by an adoring press, for Joe Altobelli didn't make a lick of difference.

When the Las Vegas tank releases its World Series date today, the Orioles figure to have much the best of those odds. Which even the Phillies won't find odd.

But before the Orioles win anything, they'll have to break into the Philadelphia strong box, which is the pitching staff, which is a well-built fortress.

Take Steve Carlton. Take Denny. Take the rookie, Charles Hudson. That's three salty starters, and Al Holland can put the wrap on any team from the bullpen.

Hudson's strong effort on Friday swung this series of the Phillies. When the rookie right-hander stuffed the Dodgers in Game 3, it left Philly missing a victory in the final two games and Carlton, then Denny, to go for it.

But the series stopped at Carlton. At age 39, his rest out Saturday night on three-days' went, threw 111 pitches for six innings, never gave in and never gave out. But six strong innings is what Owens wanted from him. And once Carlton had turned the screws on the Dodgers, the bullpen came on for mop-up duty.

Carlton, of course, is in a league by himself. But there's depth and substance to this Phillies staff. And that's what's likely to push this World Series through seven full games.

In marked contrast to the Phillies, the Orioles are mere chubs. Only pitcher Jim Palmer, who doesn't figure to see much action in the World Series, has played on a world championship team, although a handful of current Orioles players were members of the 1979 American League championship squad. Palmer was with the Orioles when they won the World Series in 1966 and 1970.

"There is a difference between an experienced and an inexperienced player under pressure," said the Phillies' Joe Morgan, who once sparked the Cincinnati Reds to successive world championships in 1975-76. "An inexperienced player will try to do more than he is capable of. An experienced player will stay within his limits."

Morgan may be right, but he's wrong when he sees the Orioles perform, however.

Dolphins ambushed yet again

By LES KIOS
United Press International

MIAMI — It's been 17 years since Buffalo won in Miami and quarterback Joe Ferguson has been around for 11 of them.

That and his career-high five touchdown passes made Sunday's 38-35 overtime victory extra sweet for the former Arkansas star.

"This may be the highlight of my career so far," Ferguson said. "I feel as good as I ever felt. It's taken me 11 years to win here in Miami and it's a great win for us, especially coming off a loss last week."

Ferguson had to be helped from the field last week in a 34-10 to the New York Jets.

Ferguson said he took advantage of injuries to Miami cornerbacks Gerald Small and Don McNeal, leaving second-year pros William Judson and Paul Lankford at the position.

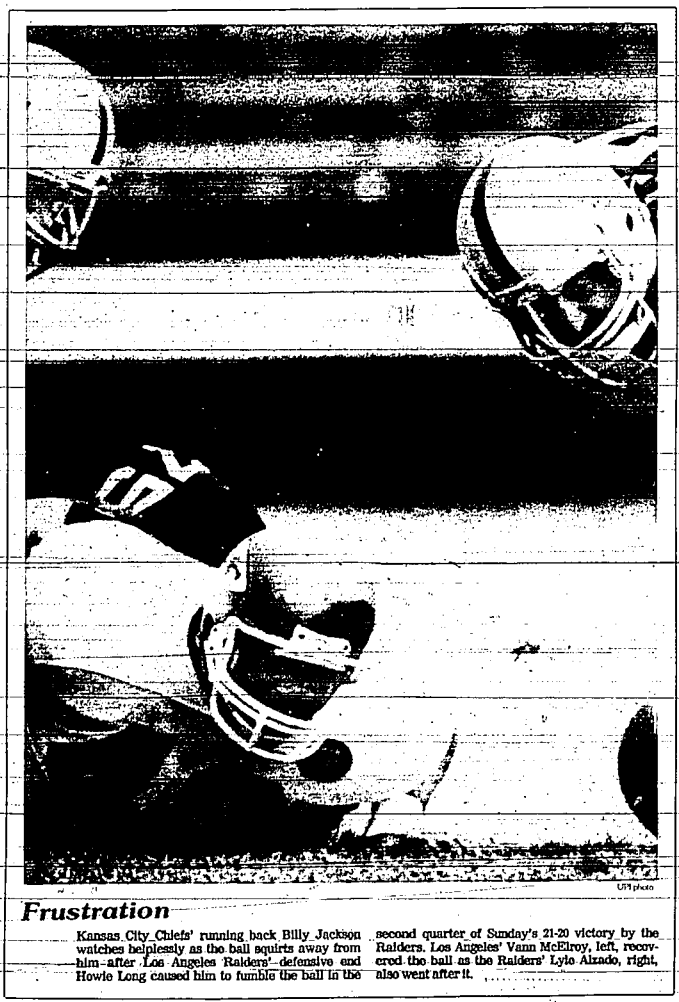

"They didn't have as much experience as they used to have in the secondary," said Ferguson, who completed 38-of-55 passes for a whopping 419 yards. "When I saw they were beginning to take away the deep stuff, I could hit over the middle with ease. When you have young guys out there, trying to make the plays under all kinds of pressure, it's tough to stop us sometimes."

The game ultimately was won on Joe Danelo's 36-yard field goal with just 62 seconds left in the overtime period. The Dolphins called time out to let the New York Giant castoff think about it, but he said it didn't bother him.

"The time out helped," Danelo said. "I cleared away some grass, got a good spot and felt real good about the kick."

The Dolphins' locker room was gloomy as expected but there was a feeling of satisfaction by the offense, which clicked in the second half after rookie Ron Marino made his first NFL start at quarterback.

"I felt anxious early on," said Marino, who completed 19-of-29 passes for 222 yards. "I made some mistakes but I was able to come back. Everybody made a great effort but sometimes you lose close ones like that."

Cowboys now 6-0 for year — just barely

By MIKE RABUN
United Press International

IRVING, Texas — The Dallas Cowboys have won so many games in the final minutes over the years that it has sort of become commonplace. But on Sunday they outdid themselves.

The unfortunate victim this time deserved a better fate. But unfortunately he almost certainly been at the end of an overly long afternoon, the unbeaten Cowboys somehow did it again, defeating the Bucs, 27-24. And the Cowboys did it on the day they honored their all-time comeback hero former quarterback Roger Staubach.

First of all, Dallas scored on a 52-yard touchdown pass from Danny White to Timmy Newsome with just 47 seconds left in regulation to force the game into overtime.

And then Rafael Septien got two chances to kick the winning field goal and made good on the second try from 48 yards at 4:38 into the extra period.

Despite being penalized for 185 yards, the Bucs were on the verge of at least partially atoning for their record-setting loss a week ago.

And, as he has been so often lately, Dallas Coach Tom Landry was at a loss to explain the outcome.

"You've got to be excited when the guys make the big plays," said Landry. "But it was very hard to get ready to play this game. Both sides suffered a lot of penalties. When that happens, it means you are playing lazy. You aren't playing the way you should."

It marked the sixth come-from-behind victory for the Cowboys this season and kept Dallas one game ahead of Washington in the NFC East. Tampa Bay lost for the sixth consecutive time.

James Wilder gave Tampa Bay the lead with a 23-yard touchdown run with 8:53 left in regulation at the end of a 70-yard march and the Bucs' defense then stopped two Dallas drives.

But Dallas tied it at 24-24 on Newsome's unlikely touchdown after the Cowboys had taken over on their 26 with no timeouts left and only 79 seconds on the clock.

Newsome caught the ball in the left flat and appeared headed out of bounds in order to stop the clock. But his sloppiness on the sideline and then headed downfield, staying just in bounds and hurdling a would-be tackler along the way.

Going into the fourth quarter, the game had been marked by big plays and the consistent appearance of penalty flags on the artificial surface.

Both sides turned in 80-yard pass plays, both teams scored touchdowns as a result of a questionable official's call and Dallas safety Michael Downs dropped a would-be interception in the open field that would have brought about a certain score.

Tampa Bay scored from the start it was a different team than the one that lost to the Packers by 31 points.

The Bucs scored first on a field goal of 48 yards by Bill Capece and then for the first time in 18 games — dating back to Dec. 13, 1981 — scored a touchdown in the opening quarter.

That score came on a 9-yard throw from Tom Thompson to James Owens after Thompson had connected with Jimmie Giles on an 80-yard pass.

Controversial official's call helps Grizzlies beat Weber St.

By United Press International

In the games between the Big Sky Conference's two unbeaten, Montana assumed slim control of the 1983 league football race during the weekend by edging Weber State 29-26.

The Grizzlies have yet to dominate a Big Sky game this fall. Montana edged Boise State 21-20, Northern Arizona 27-21, and Weber State by two points. But, of course, Montana has won all three and is the only league team with a 3-0 record.

However, with our conference games remaining, the Grizzlies would probably rather have their offense score a few more points to avoid those cliffhangers — when they meet Nevada-Reno and especially Idaho, the team that shared the 1982 crown with Montana.

In the only other league game Saturday, Idaho State demolished Montana State 26-3. In non-conference games, Idaho edged Portland State 17-16 and Northern Arizona rallied to beat Eastern Washington 22-21, while Nevada-Reno lost to Fullerton State 14-6. Boise State was idle.

Reno is a half game behind Montana with a 2-0 league record. Idaho

State and Weber State are both 2-1, while Idaho is 1-1 in the Big Sky, followed by NAU 1-2, Boise State 0-2, and Montana State 0-4.

"We made the big plays on offense when we had to," said Montana coach Larry Donovan. "We controlled the football through the first 2 1/2 quarters to get a substantial lead."

Tailback Joey Charles rushed for 158 yards and three touchdowns in powering Montana to a 28-7 advantage over Weber State before the Wildcats finally got rolling.

But the Wildcats missed an extra point kick at the end of the third quarter and a 2-point conversion try in the fourth that would have given them a one-point lead. And a call by an official in the final two minutes went in Montana's favor, "killing" Weber State's bid to pull in front.

Junior Crockett had recovered a blocked punt in the end zone for the first touchdown in Weber's rally, and then Dennis Rogan and Freddie Cook both scored on short runs to set the stage for an onside kick with 1:54 to go.

Montana recovered the kick. But two plays later, Weber State forced an apparent Grizzly fumble; only to have the turnover nullified by an official's whistle. Montana then punted and the Wildcats were unable to move the length of the field for a go-ahead TD.

Weber State Coach Mike Price claims the "Montana running back" was standing straight up, the ball popped out, and we recovered it." But the officials ruled the play had ended.

"The head official then came over to us and said that he blew an inadvertent whistle, that it was his fault, and that he made a mistake. But they (Montana) got the ball back."

Price said, "We just didn't get the opportunity for the chance to win the game."

Both starting quarterbacks had solid games. Weber's Tim Bernal passed for 238 yards and one touchdown, while Montana's Kelly Richardson threw for 183 yards and a TD.

Quarterback Paul Peterson hit Michael Thompson with scoring bombs of 51 and 68 yards in leading Idaho State over Montana State. Add Peterson's 66-yarder to Thompson was his longest TD pass ever for the Bengals.

The Bobcats, winless in six games this year, got their only points on Mark Carter's 22-yard field goal that had tied the score briefly at 3-3.

Idaho quarterback Ken Hobart threw a 13-yard pass to Brian Allen and ran three yards for both the Vandals' two touchdowns. And kicker Tim McMonigle booted a 27-yard field goal plus both extra points to provide the winning points.

Northern Arizona, down 21-3, scored three TDs in the final period to down Eastern Washington. Mike Mendoza passed to Jerry Davis for one score, got another on a quarterback sneak.

Thurman McKinney got the other NAU TD on a 5-yard run.

NAU freshman Terry Mahan, a freshman second-stringer filling in for injured All-American Pete Mandley, caught a 30-yard pass from Mike Mendoza to set up the Lumberjacks' first touchdown of the night. Two plays later, freshman running back Thurman McKinney bowled over from the 5-yard line.

Right after the ensuing kickoff, EWU's Steve White, who had 323 yards in the air on the night, threw a pass that was deflected and intercepted by Marvin Jackson at the Eagle 24.

Six plays later, Mendoza hit spill and Jerry Davis in the end zone. An 11-yard pass to Mahan on a third-and-9 play keyed the drive.

The Lumberjacks missed a 2-point conversion attempt, 10 bring them within five points with 10:27 to play.

After the NAU defense held the Eagles on the next series, the Lumberjacks drove 60 yards in eight plays, with Mendoza taking the game-winning touchdown over on a quarterback sneak with just over five minutes to play.

In the first half, Eastern Washington went to the air to take a 21-3 lead, as White hit 15 of 22 passes for 233 yards.

Tight end Tim Bradbury opened up the scoring with a 4-yard reception from White. The Eagles had taken their lead on the NAU 40 on a pass interception by linebacker Don Granger.

Montana is 4-0 overall, while Idaho, Idaho State and Weber State are all 4-1 on the season. Northern Arizona is 3-2, while Boise State and Nevada-Reno are both 2-3, and Montana State is 0-4.

The Grizzlies will have another big game Oct. 15, hosting Nevada-Reno. In the other Big Sky contests, Idaho is at Weber State, and Idaho State hosts Northern Arizona. In non-league games, Boise State travels to Utah State, and Montana State hosts Fresno State.

Saints improve to 4-2 Lightning strikes 49ers once again

By United Press International

The San Francisco 49ers had seen this act before, only this time the situation wasn't as critical.

Last December, in the final game of the 1982 season and with the 49ers needing a victory over the Los Angeles Rams to reach the NFL playoffs, Ivory Sully came through a game created by Johnnie Johnson and George Andrews to block what would have been a winning field goal by Ray Werschling.

Sunday, with the Rams nursing a 10-7 lead and the clock ticking off the final seconds, Johnson, Andrews and Sully combined on a similar play with Sully blocking a 41-yard attempt by Werschling that would have tied the score and sent the game into overtime.

"It was a fitting end for us that we blocked the field goal," said Rams coach John Robinson. "Sully is great on that play."

The Rams used a 15-yard touchdown run by Eric Dickerson and a 41-yard field goal by Chuck Nelson

— both scores coming in the third quarter to break a scoreless deadlock while beating San Francisco and climb to a first place tie in the NFC West with the 49ers and the New Orleans Saints.

NFC West

The 49ers scored their only points with a 4:52 remaining when Roger Craig ran three yards at the end of an 80-yard, 15-play drive that consumed 8:30.

After that touchdown, San Francisco stopped Los Angeles and got the ball back with 1:02 left. With Joe Montana completing 4-of-7 passes for 25 yards, the 49ers got as far as the Los Angeles 31 and with three seconds remaining, Werschling tried for what would have been the tying field goal.

The game, though, was decided before then with San Francisco twice giving up the ball deep in the Los Angeles end. As it was, the 49ers lost the ball three times on fumbles and Coach Bill Walsh said that made the difference.

"When you have scoring drives and don't cash in, it's going to catch up to you," said Walsh. "When we finally did get untracked we just ran out of time."

Dickerson, who came into the game as the NFL's top rusher with 645 yards, had a superb game, carrying 22 times for 143 yards.

The 49ers' running game, hampered by injuries, managed only 73 yards during Montana to throw the ball 42 times. He completed 23 passes for 303 yards but had no touchdowns.

"We played solid defense against a great offensive team," said Robinson. "Our players played so damn good, you really got to give them credit. We're still making errors but we're not that bad."

Sully said the Rams' defense played well all game long and made all the big plays.

"I'm not the only one making plays," said the Los Angeles safety. "On the blocked field goal, it was the same setup as last year. I was on the right between Johnson and Andrews and they did their job giving me the chance to spill the blockers."

Rams quarterback Vince Ferragamo didn't have to throw he ball as often as Montana because the Los Angeles running game, keyed by Dickerson, picked up 189 yards. As it was, he completed 13 of 28 attempts for 118 yards.

New Orleans 10, Atlanta 17. In Atlanta, a squib kick that backed off — gave the New Orleans Saints the edge they needed.

Down by a point with time running out, the Saints rallied for a victory over the Atlanta Falcons and the start in their history (4-2) when Morten Andersen kicked his fourth field goal of the day, a 35-yarder with no time remaining.

But the key play was the kickoff after the Falcons, now 2-4, had taken a 13-16 lead with only 1:10 left to play when William Anderson capped an 80-yard "march" by diving across from two yards out.

"The squib kick took a high bounce and I took it on the dead run," said Kenny Duckett, who returned the kicked 40 yards to the Atlanta 47. "It gave me a chance to break the forward wall and penetrate up the field."

"That was a real break," said Saints quarterback Ken Stabler. "Our sole purpose after that was to get another 20-25 yards and kick a field goal. After the first two plays (two pass completions gaining 15 yards), I felt the game was ours."

"The squib kick was an ideal call," said Saints Coach Bum Phillips. "I would have called the same thing. We were lucky enough the ball took a bounce and our player caught it on the dead run."

"We felt the squib kick would take away any gimmick play they might have on with a standard-type kickoff," said Falcons Coach Dan Henning. "But after the return, New Orleans was within a first down of a field goal."

After the return, the Saints drove to the Falcons' 18 — 10 — 10 — plays — and called time out with three seconds remaining to bring in Anderson for his game-winning field goal.

The Saints took the lead at 13-10 on the opening play of the final period on a 25-yard kickoff pass from Ken Stabler to Wayne Wilson and widened that lead to 16-10 with 7:26 left to play on a 19-yard field goal by Andersen.

Cleveland shoots down Jets

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland's Matt Bahr made his game-winning 44-yard field goal against the New York Jets Sunday with his head down. He never lifted up his helmet and a strong wind off Lake Erie at his back.

The kick, which went through the uprights with no time left on the clock, gave the Browns a 10-7 victory and kept them atop the AFC Central Division with a 4-2 mark. New York dropped to 3-3.

"Only two things can happen with a kicker and only one needs an explanation," said Bahr, adding that there was less pressure on him with the game tied 7-7 rather than 11 the

AFC Central

Browns had been behind.

"You think about technical things, keep your head down and follow through," he said. "I didn't see the end of the kick, but I thought I made it. My nerves finally went into control and I just went over on a calm day."

The wind that aided Bahr was there by design.

"We took the south-gold-and-went into the wind so we would have it with us in the final quarter and it paid off."

Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano said. "We said going into today that the wind was going to have an effect on the game. I felt we were in field goal range when we got into the 50 to 55-yard range. I was confident Bahr's kick would be good."

The Browns moved from their 35 to New York's 25 in five plays to set up the kick, most of the yardage coming on Brian Sipe's 16-yard pass to Harry Holt and a 20-yarder to Dave Logan.

Jets coach Joe Walton, whose team tied the game at 7-7 with 1:28 left on a 9-play, 83-yard drive capped by a 15-yard scoring strike from Richard Todd to Bruce Harper, agreed that the wind was important.

"The wind was a factor," he said. "In the third quarter, we called some long passes but we didn't get the chance to execute. Richard got flushed out."

Todd spent most of the day dumping off short passes to his backs because of tight coverage on his wide receivers.

"We played well but we made mistakes at the wrong time — fumbles, dropped balls and missed assignments — that kept us from scoring," Walton said.

Unheralded Texan captures Southern

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Ronnie Black, a millwright who became a "golfer bum" on the PGA Tour, sank a five-foot birdie putt on the fourth hole of sudden death Sunday to defeat Sam Torrance of Scotland and win the $225,000 Southern Open.

Black of Kountze, Texas, is in his second year on the tour. And with the victory and $45,000 in prize money he more than doubled his earnings this year to $85,029. Torrance, who plays next week in the Ryder Cup in Palm Beach, Fla., received $27,002.

"I gave myself three years to make money on the tour," said Black, who earned only $8,329 during his first year. "I didn't want to be a golfer bum."

Torrance, who led Black by three strokes going into the final round, double-bogeyed the par-3, 14th hole while Black had a bogey to tie it at 8-under.

Black and Torrance parred the final four holes, both missing 15-foot birdie putts on the par-3 18th to send the tournament into the 10th playoff of this year's PGA Tour. Black (66-69-65-69) and Torrance (66-67-66-72) finished regulation at 9-under 271.

Three strokes back at 274 was Wally Armstrong, who earned $10,000. World Match Play champion Leader Payne Stewart finished four strokes back at 276.

Mark Lye and Scott Hoch were five strokes back at 276. John Mahaffey, Mike Nicolette, Dave Eichelberger and Rod Curl were six back at 277.

Black, who became the 10th first-time winner on the PGA Tour this year, had two birdies on the front nine to pull within two strokes of Torrance. He then birdied the 10th to cut the deficit to one, had bogeys on Nos. 11 and 12 to boost Torrance's lead to two strokes and birdied No. 13 to come within one.

But the par-3, 210-yard 14th proved to be Torrance's undoing. Torrance drove a 4-iron in the bunker, hit a sand wedge over the green, chipped within eight feet and missed the putt for a double-bogey. But Black three-putted the same hole and the tournament remained tied at 9-under until the playoff.

Black sank a 20-foot putt on the first playoff hole to remain even with Torrance. After two more holes, he won. Torrance tapped in a five-footer to send Torrance on to Florida and the Ryder Cup with less than half the money he expected.

"There were a lot of players out there who could have won," Black said. "It takes a little bit of heart to step up and make that five-footer when you have to."

Torrance, who had led the field for two days — after defeating Payne Stewart, would have gained a two-year exemption on the American PGA Tour had he won.

"I was tentative on the greens all day," he said. "I went out just to play a solid round, but that's all I guess. Back home is where I'm meant to play."

The Southern Open, which was played at the 6,731-yard, par-70 Green Island Country Club, was the third to last official event on this year's PGA Tour.

On Oct. 26-27 at Disney World in Florida, PGA champion Hal Sutton will be defending his World Golf Classic title. Black will join a host of other players at the Pensacola (Fla.) Open Oct. 27-30.

Edwards: Y defense overwhelmed Pokes

By United Press International

In what head coach Lavel Edwards called his team's "best defensive effort of the season," Brigham Young University had an easy day Saturday defeating Wyoming 41-10 in a key game in the Western Athletic Conference.

BYU and Wyoming entered the game in Laramie undefeated in conference action. BYU is now 2-0 in the WAC, while Wyoming is 2-1.

Steve Young, the nation's top offensive leader and the great grandson of the school's namesake, completed 23 of 39 passes for 356 yards, including two touchdowns and just one interception.

Cougars tight end Gordon Hudson had 100 yards of scoring pass receptions, establishing a new NCAA record for career reception yards by a tight end.

Wyoming Coach Al Kincaid said Hudson may be one of the best tight ends in the nation, college or pro.

In other WAC action, Air Force defeated Navy 44-17 in Annapolis; Long Beach State defeated San Diego State 20-13 in San Diego; New Mexico beat Texas Tech 30-10 at Texas; Arizona routed Colorado State 52-21 at Arizona; and Utah defeated Texas-Oil Paso 35-11 at Utah. Hawaii was idle.

Air Force Coach Ken Hatfield said a week off before the game made all the difference for the team, which had 510 yards total offense and scored 30 — straight points in the second and third periods.

In Tucson, 10th-ranked Arizona scored a decisive victory in non-conference action over Colorado State. The football was in the air 89 times, setting a stadium record.

Said Rams Coach Leon Fuller, "They didn't concentrate enough. They made the big plays."

Whittier's quarterback Tom Tunnell completed 20 of 39 passes for 320 yards and two touchdowns before being replaced by Alton Jenkins with 7:23 left in the game. CSU's Terry Nugent also had a good day passing, completing 26 of 46 passes for 323 yards.

New Mexico's Lobos, considered the underdog in the match against the Texas Tech Red Raiders, recovered five fumbles in their non-conference victory.

Aussie rallies to claim world match play title

VIRGINIA WATER, England (UPI) — Australia's Greg Norman captured the $225,000 World Match Play championship for the second time in four years Sunday when he overcame Britain's Nick Faldo 3 and 2 in the final.

Norman, 28, from Queensland, but now based in Ennals, came from two holes behind after 15 holes of a 36-hole confrontation to score a comfortable success on the 6,945 yard Wentworth course and win $22,000.

It was Norman's first win since he had back to back triumphs in the Australian Masters and Hong Kong Open in March but his fourth success on the Wentworth course in five years. He previously won this title in 1966.

"It's been a good course for me," said Norman, "but this was a particularly important win. My game hasn't been 100 percent this year since a cartilage operation in May and I came into the event still lacking confidence. But I don't now. I thought it might be tougher. I expected greater crowd support for Nick, but the fans were fantastic, they gave us 50-50 reception."

The result resurrects my entire year and I have still got eight events to go starting off in Australia next week.

"I think the key against Nick was that I putted well throughout the day but his game on the greens deteriorated as we went on. I just relaxed and enjoyed myself."

Oilers improve to 3-0

By United Press International

Jari Kurri scored his second goal of the game with 1:10 remaining in overtime Sunday night to lift the Edmonton Oilers to a 3-3 triumph over the Minnesota North Stars.

Kurri broke into the slot to take a pass from Wayne Gretzky. His wrist shot from 15 feet beat goaltender Gilles Meloche low to the left side. Edmonton tied it 3-3 for Minnesota at 3:09 of the final period, Upping it in a rink-wide pass from Will Pitt past Edmonton goalie Grant Fuhr.

Gretzky scored the lone goal of the opening period, striking with one second left in the period by banking in a shot off Meloche's pads.

Calgary 1, Winnipeg 1

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Mike Eaves scored his first goal of the season with 12 seconds remaining to spill Winnipeg goalie Brian Hayward's bid for his first NHL shutout and lift the Calgary Flames to an overtime tie with the Jets.

NHL

Philadelphia 7, Pittsburgh 1
In Philadelphia, Bill Barber became the 19th player in NHL history to reach the 400-goal plateau, scoring two goals to lead the Philadelphia Flyers to victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Boston 4, Hartford 1
In Boston, Barry Pederson struck for two goals in the first five minutes and Peter McNab added his 300th career goal in leading the Boston Bruins to a victory over the Hartford Whalers.

Buffalo 2, Washington 2
In Buffalo, N.Y., GH Perreault and Dave Andrews each scored two goals and rookie goaltender Tom Barraso posted his second triumph in leading the Buffalo Sabres to victory over the winless Washington Capitals.

In later games, it was Detroit at Chicago and Toronto at Vancouver.

Lions rescue Coach Clark's job — for now

By United Press International

NFC Central

Breakfast pep talks are usually pretty routine — unless the speaker is William Clay Ford.

"Mr. Ford called me early in the week," belatedly Detroit Lions Coach Monte Clark said Sunday. "He asked me, 'What would you think about me coming over and speaking to the team?'"

"I said of course that depends on what you're going to say," cracked Clark. He could afford to laugh about the call from the owner because his Lions had just surprised the Green Bay Packers 38-14 behind a club record-breaking three touchdown runs by rookie James Jones. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak that had put Clark's job reporting in jeopardy.

"I invited myself to this breakfast," said Ford, who went to the team meeting Sunday morning to give his team a pep talk. "I guess I picked up the check too."

"I felt we were at a critical stage."

We had let ball games slip away that probably we shouldn't have let slip away."

So Ford told the team to relax, have fun, and "go out and play exciting football."

The Lions went out and did just that in playing a nearly flawless football game that was in sharp contrast to the mental and physical errors that had plagued the team during its losing streak. Averaging 3.2 turnovers per game, Detroit went out and lost just one fumble in raising its record to 2-4 and dropping the Packers to 3-3.

"It's one thing to play well and be beaten," Green Bay Coach Bart Starr said. "It's another thing to play badly like this."

"There's no need for mistakes," said Starr, whose team lost one fumble and had two interceptions. "We knew the Lions were far better than their record. We stressed that in such a way so we'd be ready."

Jones tied a club rushing record accomplished by six others Lions, the last being Billy Sims in his debut game in 1960, with scoring runs of one, 13 and one yard. Leonard Thompson caught TD passes of 13 and 37 yards.

Detroit's defense limited Green Bay to just 23 yards total offense in the first quarter and 92 in the first half before the Packers put together their only sustained march of the day and scored on a 2-yard pass from Lynn Dickey to Eddie Lee Ivey. But Detroit had built up a 24-0 lead by that time.

Eddie Murray kicked a 29-yard field goal to help the Lions register their sixth victory in their last seven games against the Packers, whose frustration was epitomized in the fourth quarter when Dickey was bowled over by his own guard, Tom Huffman, trying to escape Detroit's rush.

Minnesota 23, Chicago 14
In Chicago, Tony Galbreath and

Darrin Nelson scored on long touchdown runs and Benny Ricardo kicked three field goals to lead the Minnesota Vikings to a victory over the turnover-plagued Chicago Bears.

Galbreath, who rushed for 104 yards and 16 carries, scored on a 52-yard run midway through the third period to give the Vikings a 20-7 lead. Nelson scored on the third play of the game on a 56-yard touchdown to help give Minnesota its fourth victory of the season in six games.

The Bears, who fumbled three times and were intercepted twice, fell to 2-4 in losing to Minnesota for the 17th time in the last 21 games.

Ricardo, who has yet to miss a field goal attempt this season, set a club record when he hit three more without a miss against Chicago. He connected on a 22-yarder late in the first half that gave the Vikes a 10-7 halftime lead. Ricardo also kicked "early" in the second half for his 13th straight try in the game. He added a 29-yarder with 1:51 left in the game.

The Vikings overcame a strong individual performance by the Bears' Walter Payton, who scored on TD runs of 1 and 6 yards in gaining 99 yards in 20 carries.

Leading "only 10-7 at half, cornerback Rufus Bess intercepted a pass from Chicago's Jim McMahon on the first play of the second half. Seven plays later, Ricardo hit his 32-yarder with 11:40 left in the quarter to stretch the lead to 13-7.

Later in the period, safety Tommy Hanson recovered a fumble by McMahon's replacement, Vince Evans, at the Minnesota 45. Two plays later, Galbreath romped up the middle on his 52-yard TD to give the Vikings a 20-7 advantage with 8:42 left in the quarter.

The Bears "got back" in the game early in the fourth quarter, taking advantage of a poor field position to march to a score, with Payton scoring from the 6 to close the gap to 20-14 with 12:04 left.

But Minnesota, under the leadership of quarterback Steve Dils, maintained control of the ball for a time-consuming drive late in the game to seal the contest when Ricardo nailed his 13th straight.

The Vikings jumped to a 7-0 lead on their opening possession when Nelson broke loose around the right end for his 56-yard TD with 13:55 left in the first quarter.

The Bears were content to stay on the ground for the rest of the quarter but they could not take advantage of some good field position after the Vikings were pinned down on their one at the end of the quarter.

Ollis Wilson intercepted Dils' pass at the start of the second quarter, returning it 65 yards to the Minnesota 25. After Payton broke loose for a 23-yard run to the 2, two plays later he dove over for the touchdown from the 1 to tie the score at 7-7 with 13:42 left in the half.

Riggins rambles; Redskins now 5-1

By United Press International

NFC East

John Riggins knows what a run is supposed to do on the football — and that doesn't include fumbling it away.

Riggins scored three touchdowns and rushed for a season-high 115 yards Sunday to power the Washington Redskins to their fifth straight victory, a 38-14 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Two of Riggins' scores were set up by fumbles by the Cardinals, who lead the NFL in turnovers and committed four more against the Redskins in falling to 1-5.

"One premise when you start out in football at an early age is that you protect the football," said St. Louis Coach Jim Hanftan.

Washington has a very fine football team but the really upsetting thing to me is the cotton-picking turnovers.

"We gave them unbelievable field position and that resulted in 21 points. We gave our opponent too darn much. When you're doing that, you are going to kill yourself."

The Cardinals lost three fumbles, increasing their total through six games to 12, and Washington also had one interception. He is the 13th turnover by St. Louis quarterbacks.

In contrast, the Redskins played error-free football as they raised their record to 5-1 and beat the Cardinals for the 13th time in their last 15 meetings.

Washington has lost only one fumble in its last 41 quarters (11 games) and Joe Theismann has not thrown an interception in his last 14 quarters.

"St. Louis right now is just having a tough time," said Washington Coach Joe Gibbs. "They had some good drives. If they had not turned the ball over, it would have been a much closer game."

The victory was the Redskins' 10th consecutive run, leaving them just one short of the NFL record of 11 set by the San Diego Chargers.

Riggins scored on runs of 17 and 1 yard in the first half and added a 15-yard scoring burst in the third quarter as he moved past Jim Taylor into fifth place in career rushing yards.

"The great thing about this team is that you never know who is going to be star from week to week. Theismann said, 'John just runs. And that's what he did today.'"

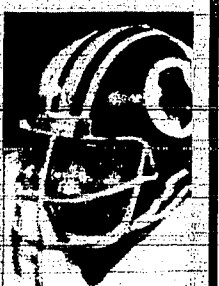

Riggins carried 22 times, his 10th straight game with more than 20 carries, in recording his second 100-yard game of the season and 49th of his career against a St. Louis defense that ranked next to last in the NFL in stopping the run.

The Redskins, who had scored at least 21 points in 13 straight games, built a 24-0 lead after the Cardinals' Stump Mitchell fumbled the kickoff opening the second half. The fumble set up a 10-yard TD pass from Joe Theismann to Rick Walker, Theismann's second scoring pass of the game.

The Cardinals scored in the third period on a 1-yard pass from reserve Rusty Lisch to Doug Marsh, the first scoring pass of Lisch's 4-year career.

Philadelphia 17, New York Giants 13

In East Rutherford, N.J., Ron Jaworski and Mike Quick teamed for two touchdowns passes. Tony Franklin kicked a 25-yard field goal and the Philadelphia defense shut the New York Giants' offense down for most of the game to produce an Eagles' victory.

JOHN RIGGINS

Season's best

Jaworski hit Quick with a 5-yard scoring pass early in the second quarter and an 19-yard TD on Philadelphia's first possession of the third quarter. Franklin's field goal came with 2:38 remaining to give Philadelphia a 14-7, somewhat lopsided lead.

Quick finished with six catches for 72 yards while Jaworski hit 16 of 31 passes for 241 yards and no interceptions.

The Giants' 24 got most of their field goals of 21 and 37 yards from Ali Haji-Sheikh and Butch Woolfolk scored on a 7-yard run on the second play of the fourth quarter. The touchdown drive was engineered by Phil Simms, who replaced Scott Brunner midway through the third quarter but was forced out of the game with a compound dislocation of his right thumb midway through the fourth quarter.

Simms completed 4-of-6 passes for 78 yards while Brunner was 13-of-28 for 208 yards and one interception.

The Giants had an apparent third-quarter touchdown nullified when Frank Marlon recovered Glen Young's fumbled punt in the end zone. The Giants were called for holding, however, after Young lost the ball on the 10-yard line.

Chargers top Seattle

By United Press International

AFC West

San Diego cornerback Andre Young picked off a Jim Zorn pass with just over two minutes to play Sunday and raced 40 yards for a touchdown that gave the Chargers a 29-21 victory over the Seattle Seahawks.

San Diego was led by Dan Fouts, who completed 22-of-35 passes for 331 yards and one touchdown and backup Ed Luter, who completed another TD pass.

Seattle's Curt Warner ran for 73 yards and two touchdowns to pace the Seahawks. Zorn was 25-of-41 for 285 yards and one touchdown.

The Chargers improved to 3-3 while Seattle dropped to the same mark. The teams are tied with Denver for second place in the AFC West behind the Los Angeles Raiders.

Seattle scored first with 3:39 left in the first quarter. Zorn started the scoring drive when the Seahawks recovered a Jeff West punt that hit Charger blocker Bruce Laird in the back. The Seahawks took over on the Charger 45.

Seattle saw two touchdowns called back on motion penalties during the drive before Harold Jackson got himself open in the end zone for a 7-yard pass from Zorn.

The Seahawks moved ahead 14-0 with 10:21 left in the first half. Warner brought Seattle to the San Diego 9 on a 10-yard run and then plowed over the 2 two plays later.

Warner scored the second TD with 1:50 left in the half when he ran in seconds into the fourth quarter on a 39-yard field goal by Lowery but the Raiders came back.

Taking over on the Kansas City 46, the Raiders used backup fullback Frank Hawkins to bring the ball to the 5. Hawkins, playing for the injured Kansas King, carried four times on the drive, including a 5-yard jaunt into the end zone before coughing the ball up.

An alert Allen pounced on the ball and Chris Bah's conversion gave the Raiders the victory.

Denver 28, Houston 14

In Houston, Steve DeBerg, starting in his first game in place of benched million-dollar rookie John Elway, passed for 149 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Denver Broncos to a victory over the Houston Oilers.

DeBerg, a 7-year pro, hit tight end Ron Egloff with a 7-yard loss and Steve Watson with a 24-yard strike for 65 yards, and Rich Karlis added field goals of 49, 45, 39 and 34 yards to break a 3-game losing streak.

Denver also needed a badly overthrown pass by Houston's Gifford Nielsen in the fourth quarter to secure its first win since the second game of the season.

Elway did not play for the first time in six games. DeBerg, who had come on in relief of Elway in each of the previous five games, stayed away from interceptions and sacks and directed his team to nearly 400 yards offense. Sammy Winder rushed for 165 yards on 29 carries.

Colts win their fourth in six

By United Press International

AFC East

Baltimore (UPI) — Mike Pagel paced 68 yards to Curtis Dickey for a touchdown and run for his key first downs Sunday, and the Baltimore Colts' surging defense provided a 12-7 victory over the New England Patriots.

Baltimore's defense recovered two fumbles, intercepted a Steve Grogan pass at the goal line and recorded a safety with less than 20 minutes left to make up where the Colts' offense lacked.

Dickey had 74 yards rushing but it was Pagel's three long runs for first downs that sparked the offense.

Grogan completed 15-of-21 passes for 214 yards in the first half alone while the Patriots' rushing attack ground out 93 yards. The Colts managed just 68 yards in total offense in the first half.

In the second half, however, the Colts' secondary stopped New England receivers time and time again as Baltimore's offense came to life. The Patriots scored their first touchdown on the game's first possession when Grogan hit Cedric Jones in the corner of the end zone for a 9-yard score.

New England had two other big chances to add to its score but the Patriots fumbled the ball away. Weather lost one at the Colts' 33 after a hard hit by Donnell Thompson in the first quarter. Baltimore recovered a second fumble by Weathers at its 19.

South can assure his game regardless of where the trump jack might be. Instead of taking the 50-50 ruffing play (actually less than 50-50), South should discard a club from dummy on West's diamond cue.

South can now win any lead safety, draw trumps and ruff a club in dummy to fix the tenth trick.

When there's danger of an overrun, it can cost nothing.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"Men use thought only to justify their wrongdoings and speech only to conceal their thoughts." -Voltaire.

"I was unlucky to find the trump jack with East, I allied an unconvincing South. But these were only words. In his heart, he knew he'd blown it.

West led the king and ace of diamonds and East continued high-low. West continued with the diamond queen and South began to study.

There's a 50 percent chance that East cannot overruff the thought.

There's always the possibility that East was lying about a doubleton diamond.

Dummy ruffed with the 10, East overruled and later the defenders took a club trick for one down.

South can assure his game regardless of where the trump jack might be. Instead of taking the 50-50 ruffing play (actually less than 50-50), South should discard a club from dummy on West's diamond cue.

South can now win any lead safety, draw trumps and ruff a club in dummy to fix the tenth trick.

When there's danger of an overrun, it can cost nothing.
