Prison seeks release

When crowded

By STEVE GREEN
United Press International

BOISE — The Idaho Corrections Board decided Friday to ask the Legislature for authority to release non-violent inmates when the state prison system's population reaches unsafe levels.

Board Chairman Robert Anderson said such authority would allow the panel to declare a prison emergency when the number of inmates in the state's prisons reaches about 140 percent of designed capacity.

Corrections Department Director Al Murphy said the system is now holding about 30 percent more inmates than it was designed to handle.

"Letting criminals loose on the streets is against everything I believe in," Murphy said. "But there is no way we could handle 150 percent of capacity, and we could handle 140 percent of our capacity for a very short time."

A bill to grant the board the release authority passed the Idaho House earlier this year, but never got out of committee in the Senate, legislative officials said.

After certification by the governor that a prison emergency existed, the board then would order the release of as many inmates as necessary to bring the prison population down to safe levels.

Anderson said the law would help prevent the Idaho Penitentiary and other state institutions from being placed under federal court supervision because of crowded conditions.

Eve of protest brings unrest

Anti-nuke activists block center

BOHN, West Germany — Anti-nuclear demonstrators blockaded the West German Defense Ministry Friday on the eve of massive rallies opposing the deployment of U.S. cruise and Pershing-2 missiles at the end of this year.

Protesters also tried to disrupt traffic outside the Economic Cooperation Ministry in Bonn and armed forces War College in Hamburg on the ninth day of a 10-day nationwide campaign against deployment of U.S. missiles.

About 150 demonstrators sat down outside the U.S. Army's Willy barracks in Neu Ulm, believed to be one of the planned sites for the Pershing-2, where tens of thousands of people were expected to form a human chain Saturday.

In another sign of rising anti-American sentiment, a bomb hoax at an American school in Bonn forced authorities to evacuate the building and send some 500 children home.

Spokesmen for the anti-nuclear movement predicted more than 500,000 people would gather in the capital Saturday to join what was expected to be the biggest demonstration in postwar German history.

Saturday's demonstrators streamed into Bonn Friday aboard 49 special trains and more than 4,500 buses, and other demonstrations were planned in West Berlin, Hamburg, Stuttgart and Neu Ulm.

Police said 2,500 demonstrators in a surprise move Friday appeared at the Defense Ministry before dawn and at several times blocked all eight gates into the sprawling compound on the outskirts of the city until police dragged blockaders away without meeting resistance.

One policeman said the demonstration went off in a "sporting atmosphere" — so much so that at one stage, officers put down their riot shields and played volleyball and soccer with the demonstrators.

Up to 4,000 demonstrators, ranging from punks with painted faces to middle-aged housewives, participated in the blockade, witnesses said, with 2,000 police forcing the access routes open.

At one point, there was some pushing and scuffling as police tried to clear a road with dogs but only two arrests were made.

"This was the first time we have blockaded the Defense Ministry," said Jo Leinen, a leader of the anti-missile movement. "It was more than symbolic. It shows what can be done once the deployment starts."

In December, NATO will deploy the first 41 of 572 cruise and Pershing-2 missiles in western Europe unless a U.S.-Soviet agreement is reached at the intermediate-range nuclear weapons talks in Geneva.

Some demonstrators paraded around the city with the skeleton effigy of a horse pulling a cart carrying likenesses of President Reagan and West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl.

About 800 other demonstrators tried for three hours to block traffic outside the Economic and Cooperation Ministry and then gave up, a ministry spokesman said.

Lung Association makes fourth bid for non-smoking areas

By BRUCE BOTKA
United Press International

BOISE — The Idaho Lung Association kicked off Friday its fourth attempt to convince the Legislature to pass a watered-down bill requiring designation of no-smoking areas in many public places.

Lawmakers have rejected similar measures in each of the past three years, but Lung Association officials said their 1984 Clean Indoor Air Act was drafted to eliminate several provisions that sparked opposition from the tobacco industry.

"It is not a tough act," said W. Anthony Park, a former state attorney general who assisted the Lung Association in drafting the proposal. "We have attempted to remove all of the sore spots that have cropped up in the past."

"If this act can't pass, no act can pass in the state of Idaho," Park said.

State Sen. Terry Reilly, D-Nampa, said he believes a majority of Idahoans support the measure, which would affect offices, restaurants, hospitals and other public places. Exceptions would be granted for bars, bowling alleys and several other types of buildings, he said.

"The public in Idaho is concerned about clean indoor air, and I hope the Legislature will respond," Reilly said. "We feel this is a very reasonable position, a very rational position, and one which the majority of people in Idaho can support."

Park acknowledged "our efforts to date have met with a singular lack of success."

The former attorney general criticized the American Tobacco Institute for "nitpicking" at earlier proposals, adding that lobbyists repeatedly avoided stating the main reason for their objections — a desire to protect cigarette sales.

Reilly said the new bill has several alterations designed to increase its acceptability, including one that would allow Health and Welfare Department officials to grant exemptions for businesses and other affected parties if certain requirements cause hardships.

The lawmaker told reporters at a news conference that the bill wasn't aimed at depriving smokers of the rights to light up in certain settings.

"The smoker does have certain rights, and so does the non-smoker," Reilly said, adding the proposed legislation merely protects the non-smoker's rights.

The bill would prohibit smoking in public places and public meetings, except in designated smoking areas, Reilly said.

"Public places" are defined as including business offices, restaurants, retail stores, hospitals, nursing homes, public transportation vehicles, schools, auditoriums, arenas and meeting rooms.

However, offices occupied exclusively by smokers could be excluded from the requirements — as could bars, bowling alleys, factories and rooms used for private social functions.

Violators would be subject to misdemeanor penalties, and charges could be brought by individuals or government units.

The Health and Welfare Department would be charged with implementing the measure, but Reilly said the cost of the government actions had not been estimated.

United Way reaches 42 percent of funding

By PAT MARCHANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley United Way has reached about 42 percent of its $185,000 goal.

And that has the campaign chairman saying he is optimistic the fund-raising goal will be met.

To date, $78,000 has been pledged, says Sandy Thomas, the United Way executive director.

"We are very optimistic," says Walt Sinclair, United Way chairman. "We feel good. We are ahead of last year at this point in time."

Significant increases in contributions have marked this year's campaign, Sinclair says. The most commendable so far, according to Sinclair, is Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. Its employees, board and volunteers have pledged more than $6,400, double its pledges over last year, he says.

And the employees of Britney's grocery store in Twin Falls have pledged $2,200, which is 96 percent more than last year.

As far as new gifts, U.S. Communications, owned by the E.F. Johnson Co., has provided a corporate and employee gift amounting to $3,500. U.S. Communications, which produces mobile phones and other electronic items, is a new industry in Twin Falls.

In addition, approximately $500 from "new sources" in the legal profession has been pledged, Sinclair says.

Another large gift was a $1,000 contribution from a Twin Falls physician.

A lot more work needs to be done, Sinclair says. But he predicts that most of the campaign work will be completed by the end of this month, because the volunteers are ahead of schedule in their contacts.

Because of new rules, the United Way's allocation of funds to the 15 agencies it supports will be made after the campaign is over in November.

Among the agencies that will benefit from the campaign are several area senior-citizen centers, the Port of Hope-Magic Valley Alcohol Recovery Center, the Boy and Girl Scout organizations and the American Red Cross.

In addition, three "associate" social-service agencies will receive some funding if the goal is exceeded.

The campaign officially began Sept. 27.

Last year, the United Way failed to reach its $190,000 goal by about 20 percent.

Beirut: Worst fighting since cease-fire

By JACK REDDEN
United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Lebanese troops in the mountains outside Beirut came under heavy attack from Syrian-backed Druze Muslim gunners Friday despite an agreement by Lebanon's warring factions to hold peace talks in Switzerland.

Authorities also said there were sniping attacks from the Muslim quarters in southern Beirut, but no casualties were reported.

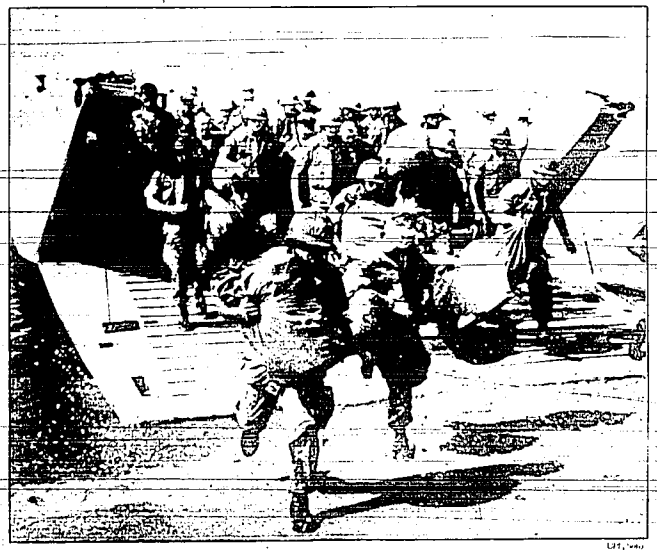

In the heaviest fighting reported Friday — the 25th day of Lebanon's cease-fire — Druze gunners shelled army positions in the area of Souk El Gharb, a strategic Shout Mountain town that represents a gateway to the capital.

"The Lebanese army positions in Souk El Gharb and the neighboring village of Ain Rummeh came under heavy positions and rocket bombardment," said a Lebanese army spokesman, Maj. Maroun Awad.

Druze gunners and snipers had attacked army positions in Souk El Gharb, 8 miles southeast of Beirut, earlier in the day, drawing return fire.

But the attacks had died down following mediation efforts by third parties, including Saudi mediator Fatah Hariri, a government source said.

13-year-old hit, killed by auto

RATHDRUM (UPI) — A junior high school student was killed Friday when he was struck by a car while walking across a highway in Rathdrum, authorities said.

Police Chief Bob Moore said Shannon E. Davis, 13, Rathdrum, a Lakeland Junior High student, was walking to school along State Highway 41 when a car driven by Sue E. Kain, 45, Rathdrum, struck him at an intersection at about 8 a.m.

Davis, whose family moved to the northern Idaho town less than a month ago, was found on arrival at Kootenai Memorial Hospital in Coeur d'Alene, hospital spokesman said.

Moore said Ms. Kain was driving within the legal speed limit when the mishap occurred.

Costs granted in redistricting

SANDPOINT (UPI) — The northern Idaho residents who successfully challenged Idaho's 1982 legislative reapportionment plan will be awarded $111,800 as reimbursement for attorney's fees and court costs, a judge said Friday.

Judge District Judge Car-Cogwell ruled that the several plaintiffs and their attorney deserve to be compensated for the financial burdens they have incurred in pressing the case.

Cogwell struck down the reapportionment plan and implemented his own replacement formula, which was patterned after proposals by the plaintiffs. The state attorney general's office has appealed that ruling to the Idaho Supreme Court.

Cogwell said he awarded attorney's fees to plaintiffs "based on the magnitude of the (case) burden ... and the number of people standing to benefit from the decision" to overturn the reapportionment plan.

Coeur d'Alene attorney Raymond Glivens was awarded the largest share, $87,000, because he shut down his general law practice for long periods to concentrate on the 1982 suit, the judge said.

Country 'Hall of Famer' dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Merle Travis, a singer, guitarist and songwriter who composed the country music classic "16 Tons" and "Old Mountain Dew," has died of an apparent heart attack. He was 65.

Travis, inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame in 1977, died at his home Thursday near Tahlequah, Okla. A memorial service was scheduled for Sunday in Ebenezer, Ky., his hometown. A spokesman said Travis will be cremated.

His guitar style influenced a number of musicians, including Chet Atkins, also a Hall of Fame member.

"It's hard for young people today to realize how different he was as a stylist and what an influence he was on everybody," Atkins said. "He was talented in so many ways. He could draw you a great cartoon, write you a great story or fix your watch if it broke."

Travis also wrote "No Vacancy," "Divorce Me C.O.D.," "Smoke, Smoke, Smoke, So Fully Packed," "Smoke, Smoke, Smoke That Fire." "I'm still in the country."

Church praises Russian week

BOISE (UPI) — Former Sen. Frank Church commended Friday the week-long "Russian-Awareness Week" as a "driving for peace," although other politicians have blasted the program as an abuse of taxpayer money.

Church disagreed with his former political opponent, Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, about the value of the program, which has included a series of lectures and workshops on Russian history and culture.

Idaho Attorney General Rex Whitaker said seeking peace was imperative in "this era of nuclear overkill" (which) "the alternative to co-existence is no existence."

"Thank you for not allowing yourselves to be intimidated. Thank you for rejecting the silly notion that striving for peace somehow betrays a weakness of resolve," Church said during a speech at Boise State University.

Symms, a former congressman who defeated Church in 1980, had asked the National Endowment of Humanities to determine whether the program was a misuse of federal funds.

He and Idaho House Speaker Tom Stivers, R-Twin Falls, blasted the program as financially unwise and inappropriate considering the recent Soviet bombing of a Korean jetliner that resulted in the deaths of more than 250 people.

Soviet astronauts to get cargo

MOSCOW (UPI) — A cargo satellite carrying supplies for two cosmonauts Saturday will have been aboard the Salyut 7 space station for nearly four months, Western experts said Friday.

They said the automated Progress 18 cargo ship, launched Thursday, should dock with Salyut 7 at 2:36 p.m. Moscow time (6:36 a.m. EDT) Saturday.

Cosmonauts Vladimir Turek and Alexander Alexandrov have been beset by difficulties according to Western reports. The launch of a relief crew was aborted Sept. 27 with a launch pad explosion and Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine said the Salyut station was crippled by a propellant leak Sept. 9.

Mother killed sons; gets death

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — A woman convicted of burning to death her two young sons to collect $100,000 in insurance was sentenced Friday to die by electrocution.

Mahoning County Common Pleas Court Judge Peter Economou ordered Rosalee Grant, 23, transported from the Marysville Reception Center in Columbus to face the death penalty by electrocution by Dec. 21.

Before Economou read the sentence, Miss Grant maintained, "I'm still innocent. I'm not guilty." Her sisters and father cried in a hallway outside the courtroom.

The judge's sentence was in accord with the recommendation of the nine-man, three-woman jury that also convicted Miss Grant of aggravated murder and arson.

Mediator named to solve teacher strike

By SUSAN KUCZKA
United Press International

CHICAGO — The Chicago Teachers Union and Board of Education agreed Friday to allow W.J. Usery Jr., former national director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, to jolt stalled contract talks.

Usery, head of the service from 1973 to 1976, was selected by U.S. District Judge Marvin E. Aspen. Both sides of the dispute agreed to have Aspen pick a mediator to help end a record strike that has canceled 14 days of classes. Aspen said Usery was perhaps "the best mediator in the country." Usery, who most recently mediated Eastern Airlines' contract talks, was expected to join talks this weekend. His associate, William Hoppwood, planned to arrive in Chicago to join talks Saturday.

"Depending on how much progress is made, Usery will be in Saturday night or Sunday morning personally take over the mediation process," Aspen said.

Aspen has held informal talks with both sides as a result of a lawsuit filed last week by Operation PUSH and seven community groups.

The lawsuit claimed some 435,000 students in the nation's third largest school district were being denied their constitutional right to an education and sought to force the board to reopen schools. Aspen postponed action on the suit.

Earlier, CTU president Robert M. Healey told about 3,000 union members at a rally they should be "on call" during the weekend in the event a tentative pact is reached.

"It is our sincere hope that we will meet with you Sunday with a contract," Healey said. "It is our sincere hope that our members will meet between 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. (Sunday) and our members will go back on Monday."

Some 27,000 teachers and 11,000 other school employees went on strike Oct. 3 over the issue of pay raises. Talks broke off indefinitely Wednesday when the board offered teachers a one-year pact containing a 2 percent wage hike.

The CTU, which accepted a pay freeze in the 1982-83 school year to help the financially ailing board out of a night, then the board offered a pact with an 11 percent pay raise the first year and a 5 percent hike the second.

First triple conquest attained on Mount Everest

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — American climbers sealed the previously unquaranteed east face of Mount Everest from Tibet and were joined on the summit within 90 minutes by two Japanese teams in the first triple conquest of the world's tallest peak, one of the climbers said Friday.

The feat later cost the lives of two of the Japanese climbers.

The three Americans reaching the summit Oct. 20, were part of a 14-member U.S. expedition led by Dr. James Morrisey of Stockton, Calif. Their feat brought to 21 the number of Americans who have conquered Everest.

29,208 foot mountain from Tibet Sept. 1, after leaving California Aug. 30.

Although Chinese expeditions have climbed Everest from Tibet, the Americans were the first Westerners to do so and the first ever to scale the mountain's treacherous eastern face.

Within 90 minutes of the American conquest, two Japanese teams taking separate routes up the other side of Everest in Nepal reached the summit as well.

Haruyuki Endo, a member of one of the Japanese teams, said the Americans greeted him about 60 feet from the peak at a spot called Hillary's Steps.

U.S. to limit auto imports, but at higher level

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. Special Trade Representative William Brock confirmed Friday the government is seeking a fourth year of Japanese auto import quotas at a slightly higher level than the current 1.68 million cars per year.

The voluntary restraints expire in March. They were put in place in March 1981 in response to the devastating auto industry recession. The Japanese currently hold a firm 22 percent of the market and there have been estimates it could reach 40 percent without controls.

Thursday, congressional and administrative sources told UPI the United States would propose a one-year extension that would allow shipments from Japan of 1.8 million autos. Asked about the 1.8 million figure during an appearance in suburban Troy, Mich., Brock said, "That would probably be close."

"I don't know what they (the Japanese government) will agree to in the final analysis. That's why I'm going over there."

Brock visits Japan next week to discuss import quotas and other issues. There is speculation an agreement on a fourth year of quotas will be announced during President Reagan's visit to Japan in November.

Brock said it would be up to the Japanese to decide how large a share of the total each of its manufacturers receives.

Brock said U.S. automakers will "have a problem" if the Japanese do not agree to a fourth year of import restraints.

One industry official said after Brock's speech that his automaker still expects the Japanese to ask for an increase in import quotas to 2 million units or more.

Treatment tried on 'bubble boy'

HOUSTON (UPI) — David, the 12-year-old "bubble boy" who lacks immunity to disease, was given a 10-minute transfusion of his sister's bone marrow Friday and said he wished he could touch his mother's hand and walk on grass, doctors said.

David had shown no adverse reaction to the treatment 11 hours after a 10-minute intravenous transfusion of bone marrow from his 16-year-old sister, doctors said.

David's unidentified parents, advised by doctors, decided he had grown enough to risk an experimental transplant treatment that could free him from his specially designed isolation chambers.

"It's abnormal to live one's life inside a bubble," said Dr. William T. Shearer, a pediatrician at Baylor College of Medicine who performed the treatment. "If there's a chance (the parents) have been agonizing over this decision for a long time."

David suffers from severe combined immune deficiency, a rare disease which prevents his body from fighting infections. All other untreated cases have resulted in death.

Since five seconds from birth, David has lived in sterile plastic bubbles. He has never been touched by an unglowed hand.

Dr. Murling M. Desmond, in charge of David's personal development, said the sixth-grader had become increasingly aware of his limitations in a three compartment "bubble" in the living and dining room of his parents' home.

Miami 'war' feared in crime family feuding

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — A rift is developing in southern Florida between American and Canadian organized crime families and Miami is on the verge of gang warfare, U.S. Customs Agent Duane J. Lane said Friday.

Lane said a so-called "pizza war" in south Florida is an indication relations between the two crime elements could bring back a wave of killings to match those of the "Cocaine Cowboys" during drug smuggling wars several years ago.

Lane told the Governor's Council on Organized Crime there have been 11 bombings of eight pizza parlors in recent months.

"There is a rift starting between U.S. and Canadian organized crime," he said. "Somebody is mad at somebody and they kill their problems. If it's a pizza parlor, they burn it. If it's a person, they kill him."

"These people are very violent people," he said of the Canadian criminals.

Lane said Miami has always been an open area where organized crime figures tend to relax, but said Canadian elements moved in and established territories.

"The Canadians are starting to get a little greedy," he said. "The U.S. criminals want a part of this. The U.S. mob is trying to wrest back control of Miami."

"There's going to be a war in Miami, the use of 'war wagons' and snow 'em down in the street,'" Lane said.

Environmentalists speak with Clark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William Clark held his first meeting with environmental leaders Friday — a one-hour session at the White House in which the nominee for interior secretary listened but made no promises.

Clark, chosen by President Reagan to succeed James Watt as head of the Interior Department, met with National Audubon Society President Russell Peterson and Jay Hair, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation.

"He was very cordial and said he was anxious to develop a dialogue with us, but did not take any position on any change of policies," said Peterson. "He said he would review the policies and review the personnel at the Interior Department."

The Senate Energy Committee announced Friday that hearings will begin Nov. 1 on Reagan's nomination of Clark, who served as his national security adviser.

Issues on which Clark is likely to be grilled include offshore oil leasing, federal coal leasing, strip mining regulations, and protection of national parks, wildlife refuges and wilderness areas.

Reagan's selection of Clark, announced Oct. 12, outraged many environmentalists, who charged he has no background in conservation and natural resource policy.

High water hits homes

GUTHRIE, Okla. (UPI) — Floodwaters from a foot of rain washed through homes and businesses in central and southern Oklahoma Friday, forcing hundreds of residents to high ground and leaving one man missing.

Statewide the enormous amounts of water from two days of storms produced by Hurricane Tico, which struck the Pacific coast of Mexico Wednesday, caused five traffic deaths and scattered misery in small towns throughout the southern half of the state.

Gov. George Nigh and other officials prepared to tour a particularly hard-hit residential neighborhood in Guthrie, battered by rushing waters early Friday. Nigh ordered the Oklahoma National Guard to remain on alert until the emergency was past, and about 25 troops were activated to assist Guthrie police.

"They're still on alert and probably will remain on alert most of the day," said Nigh spokesman John Reid.

"We're still waiting to see what the flood waters are going to do. Everything is starting to slack off as far as I've been told."

Judge murdered in court

CHICAGO (UPI) — A wheelchair-bound former police officer, in court to contest a divorce settlement, pulled a pistol from under a blanket and shot and killed a judge and his ex-wife's attorney Friday.

Cook County Circuit Judge Henry Gentile, 63, was shot in the temple. Attorney James Piszczor, 34, was shot in the chest and stomach. The bullets were fired from a distance of 8-to-10 feet, police said.

The assailant, identified as Hutchie Moore, 55, fired three shots, placed his handgun on his lap and waited for police to arrest him as courtroom onlookers dove for cover, witnesses said.

Moore's ex-wife had filed suit over a disputed insurance policy that she said should have been included in her divorce settlement.

Moore's court-appointed attorney, Emory Smith, had asked Gentile to remove him from the case, at Moore's request. Gentile denied the request, saying Moore had used the tactic before to delay court proceedings, said First District Police Commander Robert Casey.

Moore, who was sitting in his wheelchair behind the lawyers, then pulled out a .38 caliber revolver and started shooting, Casey said.

The judge fell from his chair, and the wounded lawyer ran to a nearby restroom. The sheriff's deputy on duty — a 61-year-old woman who was not armed — ran from the room to get help.

Paramedics found Gentile lying "pulseless and not breathing." Piszczor was breathing and conscious when paramedics found him in the restroom.

Reagan sorry for comment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan telephoned Coretta Scott King Friday to tell her that he meant no insult in news conference remarks about her late husband, the slain civil rights leader.

The wife of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. characterized the call as an apology, while a White House aide described the president's remarks as an "explanation" of comments he made at his Wednesday night news conference.

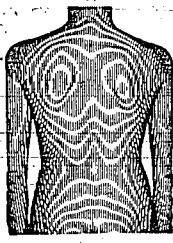

On landing in Augusta, Ga., for a weekend of golf at the Augusta National Golf Club, Reagan was asked whether Mrs. King accepted his apology. "Yes," he replied. "We had a nice conversation."

After her talk with the president, Mrs. King said Reagan "apologized to me for his remark at the press conference. He said it was a flippant remark that was made in response to what he considered a flippant question."

Mrs. King, who has been a sharp critic of Reagan administration policies, said she "told him that I understand. I told him we all make mistakes and that I attributed it to human error."

Reagan said at the news conference that he will sign a bill passed this week by the Senate creating a national holiday honoring King because of its "symbolic" value. But he said he would have preferred an informal observance instead of giving federal workers another paid day off.

Ever wonder why your company runs a United Way campaign?

Companies have helped the United Way raise funds for as long as there has been a United Way. And for a lot of good reasons.

They've learned that most of the money raised stays right in their own hometown, helping to meet local human needs.

And they've learned that, thanks to company campaigns and employee volunteers, the United Way doesn't need an enormous staff of its own. That means most of the money will go to help those who need it. That's why United Way is the most effective way to help.

But most of all, your company asks you to support the United Way for the same reason you'd want to yourself. They want to help all they can.

Panel: Latin scene is grave

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, whose "Diplomatic Commission" reported to President Reagan Friday on its recent tour of Central America, said "the situation is graver than any of us expected."

Talking to reporters after his White House meeting, Kissinger said anxieties about security and economics must be alleviated to "avoid an explosion in that area."

As Kissinger gave his generally gloom assessment, the State Department issued a critical response to Nicaragua's proposals for peace in the region, stopping just short of outright rejection.

A prepared statement said Nicaragua's proposals, handed over Thursday by Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto, "contain stringent anti-U.S. policies" and "it is clear they are

The Nicaraguan proposal calls for treaties involving the Central American countries and the United States in which all would pledge to refrain from intervention in other countries."

The State Department said the proposals contain no specific ideas for verifying the treaties. However, the Nicaraguan embassy said there is a provision for verification by nations of the Contadora group — Colombia, Mexico, Panama and Venezuela.

Kissinger did not refer to the Nicaraguan proposals.

"We reported to the president," said Kissinger, on the commission's talks with government and opposition leaders in the region. "We are not ready to make recommendations at this time."

The panel is expected to make its final report to Reagan at the end of the year, recommending middle- and long-term policies.

"We reported our impressions that the situation is graver than most of us had expected," Kissinger said. "The aspirations of the people toward dignity, social betterment and security were very forcefully brought home to us."

Kissinger described Nicaraguan government leaders as intransigent, despite commission offers to discuss "improving relations in all fields." If there is no change in the situation, "the military tensions will increase," he said.

Kissinger said he also warned Salvadoran leaders that although El Salvador is "of enormous geopolitical importance," the United States "cannot be associated with death squads and massive human rights violations."

'Hillside Strangler' case gets jury

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jurors in the trial of Angelo Buono Jr., charged in the 1967 Hillside Strangler murders that terrorized the city six years ago, deliberated Friday for the first full day in the longest criminal trial in U.S. history.

The case was sent to jury late Thursday by Superior Court Judge Ronald C. Gentry, six years and two days after the first victim was killed and 23 months after the trial began.

Buono, 50, a Glendale upholsterer, is accused of joining his cousin Kenneth Bianchi, 37, in the 1977-78 murder spree.

Prosecutor Tاجر Boren declined

Friday to predict how long the jury would be out.

"I've seen short trials where jurors have been out a long time and I've seen long trials when they've been out a short time, so it's hard to tell," Boren said.

The seven-woman, five-man panel has over 56,000 transcript pages and 2,000 exhibits of testimony from more than 400 witnesses.

"They aren't necessarily poring over all the evidence, since the defense made a number of concessions during the trial," said Boren. "I would expect they're concentrating on the contested evidence."

George decided to sequester the jury at an undisclosed hotel because the case has cost taxpayers more than $2 million and he feared an expensive mistrial.

Prosecutors said Buono and Bianchi — who pleaded guilty to five murders and testified against his cousin to escape the death penalty — posed as "policemen," abducted their victims, sexually abused and strangled them, then abandoned the bodies on hillsides.

Buono's court-appointed attorneys insisted Bianchi was a "pathological liar" who implicated Buono to save himself from the death penalty.

Reagan tries a golf game

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — President Reagan arrived in Georgia Friday for a relaxed-polling weekend at the Augusta National Golf Club, having deflected questions over the fact that the push club has no black members.

The president, wearing a sports coat and slacks, and Mrs. Reagan arrived at the club to the cheers and waves of about 200 local citizens and in the company of two members of his cabinet and investment banker Nicholas Brady.

Reagan joined Secretary of State George Shultz, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, Brady and their wives for what one aide described as a "purely social weekend," insulated from reporters and the public. But rain threatened to alter their recreational plans.

Before leaving Washington, Reagan was asked by reporters aboard Air Force One to assess the president's golf game. "That's going to be the best kept secret of the weekend," he quipped. As to Reagan's score, the treasury secretary said, "Let's put it this way: it'll be less than the deficit."

Marines shipped to Grenada

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (UPI) — Grenada's new military rulers sought to consolidate control Friday as 1,900 Marines steamed toward the Cuban-backed island following a week-old coup that left as many as 15 people dead.

The 16-man ruling Revolutionary Military Council lifted a curfew for four hours to allow the island's 110,000 people to buy food and said none of the 1,000 Americans in the Caribbean nation was harmed during the fighting.

"Not one American citizen has been harmed, neither has any other foreign citizen in Grenada been harmed in any way," a spokesman for the military said, branding as "lies" State Department concerns for Americans' safety.

The spokesman said the military

"will not tolerate any such lies being used as a pretext for a military landing in Grenada."

In Washington, Pentagon sources said a 10-ship task force carrying 1,900 Marines in the eastern Caribbean was headed toward Grenada to signal to the new Marxist rulers that the United States was "concerned for the safety of U.S. citizens."

Indian rebels fire rockets at ship

By United Press International

Indian rebels firing rockets from speedboats attacked a ship in the Nicaraguan port of Puerto Cabezas on the Caribbean Friday and killed an unspecified number of people, authorities said.

It was the latest in a series of guerrilla attacks on the Marxist-led Nicaragua's fragile economic base. Authorities said the ship that came under attack was taking on a load of sugar at Puerto Cabezas, 250 miles northeast of Managua. The rebels said the ship carried weapons.

The ship was the Revolucion 15 de Septiembre, operated by the Nicaraguan Democratic Force in Honduras, said the attack was headed out by an Indian rebel group known as Misurasata.

Thousands of Indians who lived along the coast have fled their homes since the leftist Sandinista regime took power in 1979.

them civilian — since the group's formation in 1968. This year alone, 39 people were killed in attacks claimed by ETA.

The marches were organized jointly by the Socialist government, opposition parties, unions, church and civic groups.

ETA, an acronym for Basque Land and Liberty, is fighting for independence of the northern Basque provinces.

Warnings issued against Meridian business

By BOB FRUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Merchants in Twin Falls once again are getting phone calls from advertising sales representatives for a Meridian-based printing firm that claims to be helping local students.

And, once again, the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and the Treasure Valley Better Business Bureau are warning business people to hold on to their money and to hang up on the solicitors.

Officials of both groups say that representatives of the "School Times" belong to a same company that recently sold advertising for a poster carrying the football schedules of Magic Valley-area high school teams. The posters arrived halfway through the season and contained scheduling errors when they did appear.

The company goes by a number of names, including Athlete Poster Printers, J & D Printing, Commercial Newspaper Service, Band Center Co. and The Candle, according to Meridian police and Better Business Bureau authorities. Both say they have a thick file of complaints on the company.

The Idaho attorney general also is investigating the sales tactics of the printing business, a spokeswoman said Friday.

The School Times was making the calls to Magic Valley businesses this week, says Mike Dolton, the executive director of the Twin Falls chamber.

Walt Baltzer, the owner of Gem State Trophies in Twin Falls, told The Times-News he talked to a Dudley Smith.

"He called and told me they were putting together a newspaper for all the schools in the Magic Valley," Baltzer says. "This was going to be their first edition, and they were going to have a lot of pictures and a lot of coverage of the local schools."

Part of the proceeds also allegedly would go to scholarships for the students, but the newspaper would select the scholarship winners — not the schools, Baltzer says, reopening the conversation.

Baltzer says he asked for a sample of the publication, but was told the company couldn't send one until he bought an ad.

Apparently, the schools are not being notified, either. Twin Falls High School Principal Frank Charlton said Friday that neither he nor school district administrators have been contacted about arranging or honoring scholarships through the publication.

"All the information I have is secondhand," Baltzer says. "They haven't contacted any of us."

Although the company and its various publications are being investigated, the consumer organizations stop short of calling the solicitations an outright scam. They do say the firm uses questionable tactics.

"We've received 15 to 20 calls," Dolton says. Business people "have been told to ask us about this, and we tell them not to take out the advertisement."

Twin Falls police also are watching the operation, but the detective in charge could not be contacted late Friday.

Attempts to contact Michael Justice, a part owner of the Meridian company, also were unsuccessful Friday.

Ken Thornberg, the executive director of the Treasure Valley Better Business Bureau, said Friday that the School Times did solicit ads for a similar paper, saying proceeds would go to scholarships. One edition — full of pictures of graduating seniors from Meridian, Boise and Nampa secondary schools — appeared a few weeks ago.

"The schools knew nothing about it; they knew nothing about scholarships," Thornberg says. And the Better Business Bureau did not locate any students who received scholarships, he says.

"It's too early, but the fact that these schools know nothing about any scholarships lends me to wonder if they are going to receive any," Thornberg says. "If the company is planning on giving them any scholarships, it certainly is being done in a strange manner."

Thornberg says he has received several dozen complaints about the company's other operations from areas throughout the Pacific Northwest.

The company has blamed problems with its calendars and other ventures on mistakes and bad communications. It apparently has refused to refund any money to angry customers, however.

Clerk waives court hearing

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County Clerk Linda Stevenson, who has resigned her post effective Nov. 5, waived a preliminary hearing in magistrate court this week, choosing instead to go directly to district court.

She has been accused of 10 counts of misuse of public funds, including two counts of misappropriation of funds in the amounts of $209.46 and $122.93. A ranking county official, who asked not to be identified, has said the total amount of money represented by the charges is less than $1,000.

Stevenson is scheduled to appear in Fifth District Court in Halley on Nov. 7 for arraignment.

Special Prosecutor Keith Roark contends that Stevenson presented falsified or forged documents and receipts to the county for repayment.

He said the claims were presented as travel and office-supply expenses.

Roark, the Blaine County prosecutor, was appointed special prosecutor on Sept. 14, after Lincoln County Prosecutor Doug Rose disqualified himself from the case.

On Oct. 5, Stevenson was arrested at her office in the Courthouse and brought before magistrate Judge Daniel Hurlbutt, who released her on her own recognizance, but prohibited her from entering the Courthouse or communicating with her deputies.

As a condition of her resignation, in an agreement worked out later, Stevenson now is allowed to consult with her deputies to ensure that the county clerk's office operates smoothly during a forthcoming annual audit, according to Greg Fuller, her attorney.

Jerome's city well passes quality test

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — The new Jerome municipal well, designed to provide adequate water pressure and supplies for the growing northeast area of town, is meeting its production expectations.

Testing of the well earlier this week confirmed the engineer's hope that it would pump about 1,200 gallons per minute.

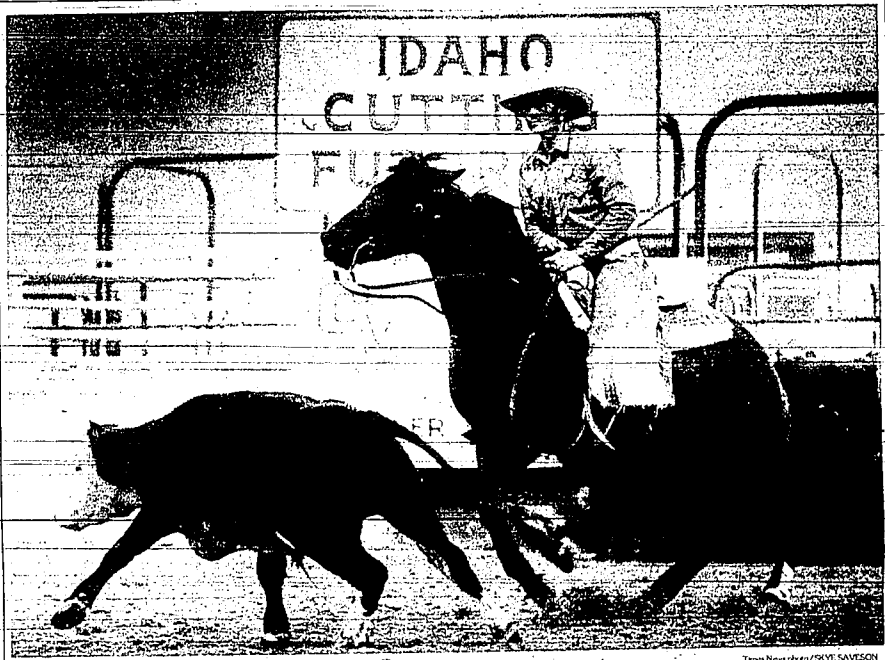

Lanny Sloan, the Jerome public works director, says the well stabilized at 1,200 gallons per minute. The pumping equipment can handle, because of the good results, the pumping test was stopped after six hours, he says.

"We were pumping from the 350-foot level, and there was more water there, so we know there's an adequate supply. We will be casing the well down to the 400-foot level just in case there is a draw-off in the water," Sloan says.

Casing is expected to take about a week and will begin next week, Sloan says. This will complete the project for this year, but the city plans to take bids for installation of a water storage tank and pump house, probably in January.

The storage tank and buildings are

Developers' ordinance gains city's approval

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

KELCHEM — A new planned-unit development ordinance that allows both the city and prospective developers greater flexibility in planning operations gained the recent approval of the Kelchum City Council.

The ordinance allows for modifications in normal zoning restrictions and for the transfers of densities across zoning boundaries if the city and the developer agree on the project and does not adversely affect neighboring developments.

Flexibility and creativity are encouraged in the ordinance to improve the design, character and the quality of a new development, and to preserve scenic and other aesthetic qualities, it says.

"I think it is advantageous to both the city and the developer because it allows more flexibility," says Linda Haavik, Kelchum city planner.

The ordinance allows a planned-unit development to be approved by the City Council. Developments also must pass design review by the Planning

Hansen: Fund hassle is 'a hatchet job'

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

WASHINGTON — Rep. George Hansen says that a Thursday Wall Street Journal article, detailing his failure to file financial disclosure documents for his 1992 personal finances, was "nothing but a hatchet job."

"They (The Wall Street Journal) are replaying a situation that is six months old," he said in an interview Friday with The Times-News at his Washington, D.C., office.

Hansen criticized the Idaho press for being "mesmerized by The Wall Street Journal" and giving prominent coverage to the report published by the New York-based newspaper. The Times-News published a story Friday that was based, in part, on the Journal's story.

The Wall Street Journal article said that Hansen has refused to file any disclosures of his 1992 personal finances with the House Ethics Committee, as required by a 1978 act of Congress. The article was the third report of Hansen's troubled finances published by the newspaper within the last two years.

Hansen, in a repeat of earlier allegations, charges that the latest Wall Street Journal article was prompted by his efforts to resolve the financial crisis of the Washington Public Power Supply System.

"I've learned to accept the Wall Street Journal for what it is — excluding evidence where the banking interest of New York City," Hansen says.

"Ever since I became interested in trying to do something about WPPSS, I have found myself a target of the Wall Street Journal."

But Hansen offered no evidence to support his charge that the newspaper investigation was prompted by the New York banking community's displeasure with his WPPSS actions.

When questioned for evidence of the newspaper's links to the banking community and WPPSS, Hansen responded: "Well, if it looks like a duck, acts like a duck and quacks like a duck, it probably is a duck."

Campaign debts not paid

TWIN FALLS — An error by a Federal Election Commission official resulted in a misstatement about the indebtedness of Rep. George Hansen's political campaign committee.

An article in Friday's Times-News reported that the Federal Election Commission agreed with a statement by Hansen's attorney, James McKenna, that previously reported campaign debts of $28,206.21 had been paid.

It was reported that McKenna and Fred Eiland, a public-information officer for the commission, agreed the debts were not included on the most recent campaign-disclosure reports filed with the commission and the Idaho secretary of state.

However, Eiland said Friday that the debt is included on the Hansen campaign committee's report for the period that ended June 30 of this year.

Federal attorney: Drug dealers becoming a deadly threat

By RICK SHUAUGHNESSY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Guy Hurlbutt, the U.S. attorney for Idaho, characterizes drug traffickers as groups of outcasts posing a severe threat to traditional American society.

"Southeast Asian gangs... motorcycle gangs... prison gangs... (and) illegal aliens" are foremost among the new organized crime networks responsible for the nation's illicit narcotics industry, Hurlbutt told a group of about 15 persons Thursday night at the county Courthouse.

Hurlbutt was in Twin Falls to talk to the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee.

And narcotics trafficking and organized crime are the "most significant problems of law enforcement," as identified by the U.S. Department of Justice under the Reagan administration and Attorney General William French Smith, Hurlbutt said.

"A substantial cross-section of our society is engaged in this because of the large sums of money involved," he said. He identified motorcycle gangs as "key centers of organized narcotics activity."

He also said that persons of Southeast Asian descent or origin living in the United States are a major factor in distributing the large quantities of narcotics that originate in those countries. Similarly, the "cocaine coyotes" from Colombia form a major trafficking network for that country's favorite illegal commodity, Hurlbutt said.

He said gangs of former prison inmates maintain their contacts with suppliers after they leave prison, to form another distribution network for illegal substances. And he blamed illegal aliens for the importation and distribution of "Mexican brown heroin" in Idaho.

"I have no qualms about throwing them (heroin traffickers) in jail for the rest of their lives," Hurlbutt said.

He said the Department of Justice, under Smith, has one priority: "We intend to see that more criminals go to jail."

To accomplish that purpose, Smith has proposed to Congress a criminal-justice reform bill with six basic provisions, Hurlbutt said. Those provisions are:

- Bill reform. Make it more difficult for accused persons to be released on bail. Hurlbutt said too many dangerous criminals are allowed out on bail, and in many circumstances, they commit violent crimes while awaiting trial.

Additionally, some accused persons flee the country, sometimes forfeiting bail in excess of $500,000, he said.

- Sentence reform. The proposal is to abolish the current parole-scoring system and allow judges to sentence convicted persons for a range of years, guaranteeing a minimum sentence is served, he said.
- Reform the exclusionary rule governing evidence. This would allow evidence to be admitted in a criminal case in instances where the accused may have been deprived of certain rights, but where the deprivation resulted from a "technicality." The proposal responds not excluding evidence where the arresting officer made "a good-faith effort" to not deprive the accused of his or her rights, Hurlbutt said.
- Death penalty. Ensure that the death penalty is available to the courts and is "carefully administered."
- Narrow the insanity defense. This would allow the insanity defense only when the accused is unable to discern the nature or the wrongness of the act committed.
- Criminal forfeiture. Under this proposal, if the profits of a criminal enterprise can be identified, they would be seized and turned over to the government, he said.

"The government might not spend them much better than the criminal would," Hurlbutt joked, but he said that the collected funds would serve to offset taxation.

Hurlbutt said there is one violent crime committed every 24 seconds and one property crime committed every three seconds in the United States.

Asked by a reporter why, with all the hardened criminals at large, the Department of Justice is pursuing Rep. George Hansen, Hurlbutt responded, "That's proposal No. 7."

On a more serious note, he said the Hansen case is being handled by the Washington, D.C. office of the department and he is not familiar with it. But he said the decision to pursue Hansen for four alleged violations of the Ethics in Government Act probably came from a Reagan administration appointee in the Department of Justice and not from unsupervised young attorneys in the department, as has been alleged by Hansen.

He said he does not understand why the Department of Justice under the Carter administration declined to pursue the charges. But new the department, under Reagan, has decided to do so, he said.

Diesel spill kills fish

TWIN FALLS — A spill of diesel oil from tanks near the Amalgamated Sugar Co. factory, southwest of Twin Falls has been cleaned up — luckily, with little damage.

About 500 gallons of fuel leaked from tanks belonging to Aslett Trucking, which was under contract with the sugar company, according to Gary Burkett, an environmental engineer with the State Department of Health and Welfare.

The leak seemed to have started Monday, he said Friday. When the department was called in Thursday, it found a leaking pipe joint, although there appeared to have been a larger spill earlier, he said.

Luckily, much of the fuel was trapped on the surface of water in a nearby irrigation lateral, Burkett said. Since diesel fuel floats on the surface, the spill was contained when the canal water flowed through a submerged culvert pipe.

Some fish kills were reported downstream from where the lateral flows into Rock Creek, however, and a sheen was seen on the water.

Some dead fish and others that were severely "stressed" were reported at the intake to the Rock Creek Power plant, Burkett said.

He termed the spill "fairly significant." He said the trucking company, along with Amalgamated Sugar and the Twin Falls Canal Co., assisted with the clean-up.

Accident victims leave hospital

TWIN FALLS — Three of the four members of a Twin Falls family who survived a traffic accident Wednesday west of Twin Falls have been discharged from the hospitals where they had been treated the past two days.

Bounhne Sbouhneung, 19, the driver of the car in which the family was traveling on U.S. 30, two miles west of Twin Falls, remains in fair condition at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

An 8-year-old child, Samana Sbouhneung, died.

Wednesday night in a Salt Lake City hospital of head injuries. The younger brother, Phoume, 6, was discharged Friday from the Salt Lake City hospital.

Two other children, Phou Khon Sbouhneung, 11, and Vilvaov Sbouhneung, 9, were released Friday from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

The Sbouhneung vehicle was struck by a car driven by Herbert Tuleme, 70. He and his wife, Filse, were treated at Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital, and released.

Vandals hit fairgrounds

FILER — The Twin Falls County Fairgrounds was vandalized Wednesday night.

Fair manager Tom Shouse did not have a dollar estimate yet the destruction, but he said it was not substantial.

Substance reported the vandalism Thursday morning to the sheriff's office. A window, mirror and door were broken in a merchant's building bathroom. Barts were broken in some road chutes and near the announcer's booth. The grandstand windows also were broken in an office, and part of the bandstand was ripped apart.

TV purchase price revealed

TWIN FALLS — The purchase price of Twin Falls television station KMVT has been reported as $11.4 million. The price was published in the Oct. 17 issue of Broadcasting Magazine, an industry publication.

Last Thursday, a purchase agreement was reached in Twin Falls between the Reno-based Western Broadcasting Co., which currently owns the station, and Root Communications of Daytona Beach, Fla. At the time, spokesmen for the companies would not reveal the purchase price.

The sale still has to be approved by the Federal Communications Commission.

Robbers acted on impulse

TWIN FALLS — The holdup of a Twin Falls grocery store last month was done "in the spur of the moment," one of the robbers admitted earlier this week in Filer District Court.

Rick Beasley, 19, and Dennis L. Major, 22, both of Twin Falls, pleaded guilty to robbing the grocery store in the Blue Lakes Mall on Sept. 11.

Major testified that no weapon was used. He just wrote and presented a note to the cashier that said she wouldn't "get hurt" if she handed over the money, which she did.

"I don't know why I really robbed the store. I didn't need the money," Major told Judge Daniel Meehl.

Beasley added that the robbery was "just the spur of the moment."

Meehl accepted their guilty pleas and ordered presentence investigations.

Public defender Mike Powers, who represents both men, asked that a psychological evaluation be conducted on Major. Earlier in the hearing, Major had said that he was depressed and that an alcohol treatment counselor had advised him to seek treatment.

Beasley is being held in lieu of $10,000 bond in the Twin Falls County Jail. Major is being held in lieu of $4,000 bond.

Interpreter needed at arraignment

By PAT MARCANTONIO Times News writer

TWIN FALLS — The services of an interpreter were put up for Friday in the arraignment of a Salpan national in Filer District Court in Twin Falls.

Elias Fejeran, 26, who lived in Twin Falls, has been charged with entering a small Idaho residence on Sept. 2 and stealing a purse and money at gunpoint from Luella Thompson, according to court records.

Fejeran is a Salpan national, according to court records. Salpan is a small island in the Mariana group near the Philippines.

Because Fejeran could not understand English well enough, Salpanese attorney Michael White translated at the Friday hearing.

When Judge Thomas Ward had a private attorney will be hired for Fejeran, who had been represented by the public defender's office.

When Ward asked for a plea and the question was translated, Fejeran answered "not guilty" in English.

A jury trial will be held. White told Ward that he will help find another interpreter.

Fejeran is being held in Twin Falls County Jail, in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Boy charged with hitting principal

JEROME — A 12-year-old Jerome boy will be held in jail on Friday in connection with a series of burglaries and an alleged attack on the Jerome Junior High School principal.

Jerome police Chief Darryl Cameron said this week that the young man faces a battery charge following an incident at the junior high last week. He said the boy also has been linked to a series of burglaries that have occurred recently in Jerome.

Bill Emerson, the principal of the junior high, called officers to the school last week, saying he was having problems with a student. Officers were told the youth had struck the principal several times with his fists.

Emerson said the boy said the principal assaulted him by using force when he grabbed him by the shoulders.

The boy was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital, where officers said he allegedly attempted to injure himself in the area of the collar bone.

waiting funding by the state's Division of Parks and Community Affairs, Sloan says. The total cost for the well, tank and other facilities will be about $750,000, with the city paying about $13,000. The second half of the state funds should come through in February or March, he says.

Hasvik said the drilling cost has reached more than $36,000.

Tests are now being made to determine the quality of the water in the new well. Sloan says it looks good, with a water temperature of 58 degrees. Further tests will determine the amount and types of minerals in the water.

Project engineer Scott Bybee had told Jerome City Council members earlier this week that if Wednesday's test proved inadequate, he would begin to work immediately on specifications for the remainder of the project.

City

Under the ordinance, the city may waive some land-use regulations to achieve what the ordinance calls "the total planning of developments," as opposed to individual projects on small tracts of land.

Hasvik says such restrictions as building setbacks, lot coverage and the city's 35-foot building height limit may be waived if they are beneficial to the site and surrounding developments.

The ordinance sets up 17 "positive" standards on which the city must evaluate any planned-unit development. Among these is a minimum lot size of three contiguous lots.

The provision has two limitations. First, the density of the development cannot exceed the total number of units normally allowed in each of the development's zoning districts.

And second, if a limited residential zone is included in the planned-unit development, the number of units and uses normally allowed in that zone cannot be exceeded or changed.

There is one exception to the number of units allowed. The city may allow, or require, additional units for on-site employee or low-cost housing, in which the city may control the rental sale price.

Other standards include limiting the impact of traffic on existing or proposed streets, the maximization of privacy and providing recreational facilities.

FIRST MICROWAVE

Q. What was the first thing ever cooked by microwave?

A. A chocolate bar. In 1945, Percy L. Spencer put down such a bar beside a radar vacuum tube in Raytheon's lab at Waltham, Mass. In moments, "Buck" or something like that. Second thing cooked - Spencer sent out for same -- was popcorn. Third thing - Egad! It works! -- was a raw egg.

Judge supported in jailing of reporter

By MARK SIENIEFFELT
United Press International

BOISE — A magistrate was justified in jailing and fining a reporter for refusing to identify confidential sources in a story about a divorced mother who was accused of abducting her child, the Idaho Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The high court said the state had overruled interests to compel reporter Ellen Marks of Boise to testify and ensure the safety of the missing girl. Justices said those interests overrode the public's interest in having an unhindered media.

However, the court said the 4-1 ruling applied narrowly to the "unique" circumstances of the Marks case and did not erase the question of whether Idaho reporters have a right to withhold the identity of confidential sources in other instances.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Stephen Blaine said Fourth District Magistrate Karen Vehlou misapplied her power when she sent Ms. Marks to jail and ordered her to pay a $500 fine each day until she agreed to testify.

Ms. Marks, 27, then working for the Idaho Statesman, was incarcerated for 7½ hours in September 1980 after she refused to reveal sources for a story about the fugitive mother of Alysia Clary, 8, who allegedly had been kidnapped after being placed in the legal custody of her father.

The Statesman paid $36,000 in fines for Ms. Marks before the magistrate rescinded the order after the child was returned to her father and the charges against the mother were dropped. The high court refused to return the money to the Boise newspaper.

"I'm disappointed the court didn't take the opportunity to rule on a reporter's privilege in general," Ms. Marks said. "It's an issue that will keep coming up in Idaho, and it needs to be addressed."

"After the jail time and all that money, I had hoped for a ruling that would make it impossible for this to happen to someone else," she said.

"Although we lost the battle, we may be winning the war. The court seemed to indicate there are times when they'd allow a reporter to keep sources confidential."

Ms. Marks, now a reporter in United Press—International's Boise bureau, resisted Ms. Vehlou's command that she testify in the custody case on the grounds that forcing her to reveal her sources would violate her First Amendment rights.

of the independent producers don't want old gas deregulated."

He said about 75 percent of the old gas is owned by the 20 largest producers.

Lawrence said the association does not support lifting the old gas price controls because deregulation would lead to higher prices — but would produce no incentives for producers to increase supplies.

Gas prices predicted to decline with decontrol

BOISE (UPI) — Natural gas bills paid by consumers will rise at about the same rate as inflation once prices on newly discovered gas are decontrolled, the president of the American Gas Association said Friday.

George Lawrence, who was in Boise to meet with Intermountain Gas Company officials, told a news conference that natural gas prices in the United States have risen at a 20 percent annual rate over the last five years. Lawrence said his group, which represents about 200 natural gas distributors such as Intermountain Gas, does not support a bill introduced by the Senate's Energy and Natural Resources Committee which would gradually deregulate all natural gas prices.

The committee, chaired by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, wants to lift price controls over a 44 month period for both old and new gas, but many utilities — including Intermountain Gas — only want natural gas discovered after 1977 to be unregulated.

Lawrence said the Senate bill is supported by the Reagan Administration and most large gas producers.

"Everyone agrees that new gas should not be regulated, but old gas price controls are a very emotional issue," Lawrence said. "Even some

Ma Bell asking for rate hike

BOISE (UPI) — Mountain Bell applied Friday to the state Public Utilities Commission for a $2.8 million, overall 18.2 percent rate increase in Idaho.

The boost would replace revenue the company says it will lose Jan. 1 when customer equipment and portions of its in-state long-distance network are turned over to American Telephone and Telegraph Co. as part of the federally ordered breakup of the Bell system.

C.E. Hill, Mountain Bell vice president in Idaho, said the company must hike charges for its remaining Idaho services to offset the revenue reduction it will suffer in its loss of some services to AT&T.

The request would allow Mountain Bell to earn 11.9 percent return on its investments, Hill said.

Dallas cited for escape plot

BOISE (UPI) — Convicted game-warden killer Claude Dallas has been confined to his state prison cell for 10 days for violating penitentiary rules in what prison officials called a possible escape attempt.

Dallas initially served nine days in disciplinary detention after he was found in an off-limits area of the prison October 12th during a routine head-count, Prison Warden Darrol Gardner said Friday.

"He won't be able to leave his cell for 10 days," Gardner said. "The hearing officer gave him nine days in disciplinary detention prior to releasing him back to his unit where he gave him 10 days cell restriction."

Dallas, who was in a medium-security cell Friday, faces a hearing next week during which a prison disciplinary committee may decide to place him in stricter custody.

Late burst leads Borah past Bruins

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Power in the form of Chris Heindel proved the furious Friday night when the Borah Lions scored 21 points in the final 14 minutes to overhaul the Twin Falls Bruins 24-7.

Forget that a bomb to Kip Meyers might have been the one single play that broke Borah's offense loose against the bending but unbending Bruin defense through the first two back-to-back quarters. Forget that Kent Hicks and Russ Stachler picked up a lot of yards running outside tackle.

Heindel was the difference. The 205-pound fullback simply pounded the middle until Twin Falls had to acknowledge it couldn't contain him in a balanced defense. Coach Bill Jones had to try to add some help — and it was at that point the other things opened up.

Actually, Borah's points didn't come all that easily. The Lions scored on a fourth-and-4 pass from Kyle Blikenstaff to Stachler to move out of reach with 3:45 left in the game. The tying that needed came when Chris Hunt picked off a Twin Falls pass and romped it back to the Bruins 38. With 47 seconds left, Stachler broke an 10-yard sweep for the final score.

Probably the score should have left Twin Falls in a little better light — maybe 17-7.

"In the time that I've been at Twin Falls, we've never been able to stop power and they run it very effectively tonight," said Jones. "We had to adjust to combat that and that's when the halfbacks started getting outside for yardage. We just didn't handle the run in the second half at crucial times."

Jones said: "I felt we played a good first half. To go in 7-3 at halftime on Borah is always good. I'm not going to say that Borah is the best team we've played this year but I was impressed with their overall balance and their line speed."

"For several reasons, I think we can feel pretty good about this game. For several reasons maybe not. People probably will say we put up a good fight and it's a moral victory. But we don't need these moral victories," he said.

Most of Twin Falls' offense came in the first half. On its first possession, Twin Falls rolled from its own 29 to the Bruin 16 — Borah chipping in with a pair of major penalties.

But after a penalty made it first-and-10 at the Lion 21, Twin Falls came up with three passes that netted just four yards and Nate Burke's 35-yard field goal fell a couple of yards short.

Borah then replied with a grind down to the Twin Falls 11 before being stopped and Stachler's field goal stayed right of the upright.

A pair of big plays then took the Bruins into the lead. It started with a wheel pass to Scott Morgan who came within a step of making it an 80-yard play. Twin Falls ground down to the Borah 25 before a fourth-and-9 reared its ugly head. But Doug Peterson flipped a little screen over the middle to Corky Federico and the senior ripped it into the end zone 22 yards away. Burke added the point-after.

Blikenstaff turned to the air and Heindel to bring Borah back before on fourth-and-4 at the Twin Falls 7. Stachler dropped back to drill a 22-yard field goal with 2:01 left in the half.

Twin Falls had the ball twice — once in its own territory — in the third quarter but had to punt both times. After the second kick, Blikenstaff went back to the air, hitting Meyers with the pivotal bomb that carried 49 yards to the Bruins 30. In just two plays Heindel put the ball in the end zone and with 1:51 left in the third quarter, Borah had the lead for keeps at 16-7.

The teams exchanged punts in the Rockland quarterback Wade Anderson looks downfield while trying to elude a Carey defender during first-half action.

Tingey heroic in defeat for Panthers Unbeaten Rockland smothers Carey

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

CAREY — Carey saw his hopes of returning to the state 8-man high school football playoffs disappear here Friday, but don't blame Brad Tingey.

The Panthers' quarterback who has been hobbled for the past weeks with a sprained ankle, rushed for 100 yards in the second half and passed for 95 more in a 26-14 Southwest Conference loss to unbeaten Rockland.

"He gives us another dimension back there," said Carey Coach Heber Kirkland. "He can throw the ball, but not many people realize how well he can scramble with it too."

And Tingey's presence in the defense almost made a game out of it after the Bulldogs had taken a 26-4 halftime lead, according to Rockland Coach Steve May.

"They moved Tingey back deep at free safety and he did a heckuva job covering our receivers," said May of the 6-foot, 150-pound senior, who broke up a fourth-down pass by Rockland quarterback Wade Anderson that set up the Panthers' only scoring drive in the second half.

"Then too, (linebacker) Marky Conrad started coming in on the blitz and Anderson wasn't getting any time to throw."

But with Conrad, Carey's 6-foot-2, 165-pound do-everything tailback, being double-teamed on offense, the Panthers simply couldn't come up with the big third and fourth down plays to keep their drives going in the second half.

"We would show a little movement on offense and then we'd make mistakes," said Kirkland. "It boiled down to failure to execute. We just didn't get the first downs."

"We tried to put pressure on the quarterback in the second half, but with him throwing out of the shotgun so much that really didn't work," said May. "So we started spreading the defensive ends out to contain them. They got the yardage in the second half, but they only got the one big play."

That play, a 35-yard pass from Tingey to Conrad in the fourth quarter, set up Carey's second-half touchdown that brought the Panthers within 12 points. But the two-point conversion attempt failed and the Panthers ran out of time.

"I thought we did a pretty good job of containing Conrad, but they really didn't use him that much," said May. "We were conscious of how explosive he is and that we had to stop him from getting the big yardage."

For his part, Rockland got all the offense it needed in the first half from Anderson, who completed eight of 13 passes for 153 yards and rushed for 43 more before intermission. On the first series of the game, Anderson led the Bulldogs on a 12-play, 69-yard drive capped with an 11-yard scoring strike to Lee Ralphs. Anderson's two-point conversion attempt failed when Anderson was stopped short of the goal line.

The Bulldogs scored again late in the first quarter when Tingey was intercepted by defensive end Kevin McMichael at the Panthers' 45 and McMichael returned the ball to the 13. Two plays later, Anderson hit Sean Tompkinson from seven yards for the score: Running-back Cody Lasley was stopped short of the goal on the two-point conversion attempt by Carey's Kim Orchard.

The Panthers got on the scoreboard a few seconds later. On the first play of Carey's next possession, Conrad broke through the line at the Carey 33, shook off two tacklers in the secondary and sprinted 67 yards for the score. Tingey hooked up with Darryl Van Hook for the two-point conversion to make it 12-7 Rockland.

But the Bulldogs struck again early in the second period, with Anderson hitting Ralphs with a 58-yard scoring strike between two Carey defenders. The conversion attempt failed when Tingey intercepted Anderson's pass in the end zone.

Finally just before the half, Carey fumbled on fourth-and-3 at their own 45. On the next play, Anderson connected with Ralphs with a 28-pass pass and four plays later dashed into the end zone from three yards out. The Rockland senior hit Ralphs for the two-point conversion to make it 22-7.

The victory guaranteed the Bulldogs, ranked third in this week's United Press International poll, a spot in the 8-man playoffs and improved their season record to 7-0. Rockland will play North Gen for the conference championship in Bancroft next Friday.

Carey, now 4-2 for the season, will host Carnas County in its season finale next Friday.

Spartans fall to Bonneville

Strong effort in vain for Minico

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

RUPERT — Minico's football team, jerry-built after a series of injuries and starting a junior at quarterback for the first time this season, held on for three quarters Friday night before succumbing to Bonneville in a Gem State Conference game, 12-7.

"No doubt about it, this was the best game we've played this season," said Minico Coach Red Halverson, whose team dropped its fifth game in eight starts this year and lost to Bonneville for the sixth consecutive time. "We played even with the best defense in the conference. I'm just so proud of everyone."

The victory puts Bonneville, now 5-3 for the season and 4-1 in the GSC, into a showdown with league-leading Highland in Idaho Falls next Friday.

The Bees can assure themselves of one of the league's two berths in the State Class A playoffs with a victory.

"Red and I have been going at this for 20 years," said Bonneville Coach Ralph Hunter, who coached at the Idaho Falls school during the late '60s and early '70s before moving on to an assistant's job at Weber State. "His teams are always well coached and they always play hard."

The Bees trailed until the first play of the fourth quarter when Richard Black connected with wide receiver Jeff Royter for a 29-yard scoring strike. Up until that point, the Spartans had taken advantage of three Bonneville turnovers to keep the Bees out of the end zone.

"We made some mistakes on offense, but give credit to the job Minico did defensively," said Hunter. "We knew they would be stunting, but Black hasn't gotten pressure like that all season."

The Bees, who like Minico use a 4-4 defense, ran up a lot of yardage against the Spartans, but turnovers and big defensive plays kept them from scoring. The Spartans' defensive ends, notably senior Todd Wammill, made life miserable for Black and for the most part kept Bonneville's veer offense in low gear.

"Going in, we knew we had to stop that drive (quarterback option) and give them a tough fight," said Hunter. "We knew that if we didn't stop that play, we were concentrated on it."

Bonneville had rolled up 151 of its 180 yards rushing for the evening and all 141 of its yards through the air before the end of the deciding touchdown. Four times Bonneville got inside the Minico 20 — three of them in the first half — and all four times it failed to score.

"They did a tremendous job," said Hunter. "Bonneville's offense is likely to be the conference overall and No. 1 in the conference in passing, and except for that one touchdown we kept them out of the end zone."

But the Bees made good use of their defense as well, particularly senior free safety Kendall Beaulieu. Bennett intercepted three passes — two from McKenzle and one from Von Peterman — including the pick that set up the Bees' winning touchdown drive. He also kicked field goals of 32 and 24 yards and nailed two punts that effectively kept Minico bottled up in coffin corner in the fourth quarter.

"Kendall is just a great athlete," said Hunter. "We have four sprint records for football at Bonneville and he has three of them. He's been fooling around with kicking for awhile, but this is the first year he's done it in our games and he's been extremely consistent. It was his field goal that beat Pocatello (11-10 in the ISU Minidome three weeks ago)."

As a team, the Bees limited Minico to 169 yards total offense, but that was almost 25 yards too much. The Spartans scored a minute into the game after recovering a Bonneville fumble from senior Coach Halverson. McKenzle hit Kevin Halverson, who scampered 25 yards into the end zone. Peterman's PAT kick made it 7-0.

"They had been doubling up on (Hank) Trent Bell, so we decided to go to Kevin," said Coach Halverson. "Our cornerback saw the end (Bell) break containment, so he ran up to help," Hunter explained. "That left their receiver all alone."

Coach Halverson was forced to use Bell in the black and white and make Trent Smith his tailback after his leading rusher, Eugene Chuapa, injured his shoulder against Blackfoot last week and was lost for the season. The Spartans were also without their best offensive line man, Jim Preston, who was injured against Blackfoot, and started McKenzle for the first time because he performed well in practice.

"We had so many kids playing out of position tonight. It's a wonder they got all their assignments straight," said Coach Halverson. "But they all performed extremely well."

Bonneville got on the scoreboard with 6:49 remaining in the second quarter after moving the ball down to the Spartans' 8. Black was sacked on second down and the Bonneville signal-caller threw an incomplete on third down. Bennett's field goal from 32 yards made it 7-3 Minico.

"On the last play of the game, we had the ball down to the Minico 12 before Greg Schow intercepted Black at the 12 and returned the ball to midfield. The Spartans in turn moved down to the Bees' 26 before Bennett intercepted McKenzle and returned the ball to the midfield.

Starting at its own 47, Bonneville moved 43 yards in 12 plays, getting down to the Spartans' 5 before time ran out. Bennett booted a 24-yarder with one second left on the clock to make it 7-3 Bonneville.

After an exchange of possessions, Minico was intercepted again by Studies over prep football in Texas? That's blasphemy!

TWIN FALLS — Seems there's this talki down in Texas who's spreadin' talk that football ain't the most important thing in life. Name's H. Ross Perot (rhymes with dough, which he's got a mess of). The governor made him the head of this here commission to find out why a lot of youngsters don't take to book learnin'. Danged if he didn't up and say that the first thing we oughta do is not pay so much attention to schoolboy football.

Shoot, out in West Texas folks been hanged for less than that. Ev'body knows that three things you don't fool with in Texas is a fella's gun, a fella's Lone Star and a fella's Friday nights.

Now lemme explain to you folks here in Idaho about schoolboy football. Hereabouts you got your high school football, but it ain't nabit compared with the way it's played in Texas. You got maybe four-five hundred folks out to a good game. In Texas, there's 15,000 out to a game between two teams that ain't won but one ballgame between 'em all year. Couple years back you had Idaho State go into the Division I-AA national championship game against Eastern Kentucky down in Wichita Falls. That was on a Saturday and they got 4,000 people out to that game. Two weeks before they had 16,000 folks in the same ballpark for a schoolboy football game. Why more money'll change hands in Texas near Friday night on schoolboy football than you folks can spend in Jackpot in a month of Tuesdays.

So this fella Perot comes along 'n says kids in high school are thinkin' more about gittin' a scholarship to A&M than about organic chemistry or civics. Says that maybe one-tenth of one percent of the kids in high school in Texas will ever play football beyond graduation and that schoolboy football takes up too big a share of the money that the people of Texas are willin' to give the schools.

He also wants to get rid of a lot of friendly little practices like redshirting, or lettin' a fester grad sit out a year so he's bigger and faster when he gits to a senior. He'd even sit a good wishbone quarterback down for little things like 'he ain't been able to read. Shucks, ev'body knows a good wishbone quarterback's gotta be able to read — read defenses, anyway.

Fella flat out asked of Perot the other day what'd happen if the next Earl Campbell couldn't pass a biology test. Of Perot says he'd sit. You imagine tellin' folks out in Plano or Mount Pleasant that 220 pounds of state championship ain't gonna play because he can't tell a pistol from a pistol?

This here Perot gits his way, you're gonna have kids playin' football for the sport of it.

You're gonna have 2-6 seasons of linebackers who can't double down on a tight line. You mark my words; the next Lam Jones is gonna be from Alabama.

Now you folks in Idaho got a little bit different slant on things, and that's all right. But you ain't never gonna have one-year boys playin' for Jacks Sherrill. I hear tell there's coaches around here who go check up on their players' marks to make sure they're passin' English; not to have a friendly little talk with the English teacher about next week's exam. Idaho's a real purty state, but you ain't never gonna get 16,000 people to a schoolboy football game.

Now there's people in Texas besides Perot who think we pay too much attention to football and not enough to education, and we got us some good engineers and doctors and lawyers. But they end up goin' to places like Rice, which ain't had a winning football season since 1966.

Ain't nobody cares what kind of grades Doak Walker got, but you understand I'm not sayin' kids should be taught nothin'. Fella's gotta do somethin' when he retires from the NFL.

So if they can teach kids how to program computers and design microchips, that's fine by me. Long as they can do it without 'em forgettin' the safety belt.

Seem to me these here commissions outta be spendin' the taxpayers' money on important things, like gettin' Marcus Dupree to come to Baylor.

Can Dallas duplicate Miami?

By United Press International

Talking about an undefeated year midway of the National Football League season is like meandering a no-hitter in the sixth inning of a baseball game. You think about it, but fear you'll jinx it with the spoken word.

The Dallas Cowboys are in such a situation. They've gone seven games without a loss and approach the halfway mark of the 16-game season Sunday with the thought of matching Miami's perfect season in 1972.

Actually, the Dolphins went a step further by beating Washington 14-7 in Super Bowl VII to wind up the season with a 17-0 record.

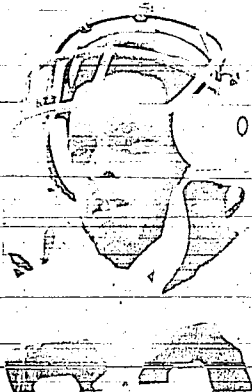

Dallas goes for win No. 8 Sunday night against the visiting Los Angeles Raiders, AFC-West leaders with current Cowboy individual stats more favorable than Dolphin players amassed in 1972.

Cowboy quarterback Danny White has a 61.7 percent completion record for his seven games and 12 touchdowns passes to his credit—Earl Morrall, filling in for Bob Griese as starter in 1972, posted a 43.3 passing percentage and threw only 11 TDs during the 16-game 1972 regular season.

Larry Csonka was Miami's leading rusher 11 years ago with 1,117 yards for a 5.2 yard average and six touchdowns. Tony Dorsett is currently leading Dallas with 53 yards a carry and 660 total yards with one touchdown.

Ron Springs, with 36 receptions, and Drew Pearson, with 30, already have eclipsed Paul Warfield's 22 catches in Miami's "big year."

The Cowboys do not exude overconfidence. They've come from behind in every game this season and realize the Raiders game could be the touchest of the lot, despite 17 Los Angeles turnovers in the last three games.

"All I know is that the Raiders have all the weapons to score a lot of points," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "They have excellent speed, coach Tom Landry, and good blocking line. If both teams play well, it should be a good football game."

It's packed at the top in Disney World event

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Payne Stewart, Mark McCumber and Pat McGowan belted to the front of the pack today to share a one-lead after two rounds of the $500,000 Walt Disney World Classic.

The three stood at 11-under-par 133, but at least two dozen players remained within five strokes of them.

Stewart fired the best round of the day, an 8-under-par 64, matching McCumber's first-round score. McCumber managed a 69-Friday while McGowan shot a 65.

Veteran Larry Nelson and Doug Tewell were tied for second at 134, one shot back. Curtis Strange and Buddy Gardner were two back, while Lanny Wadkins and Jim Colbert headed a group of nine players three shots behind.

Defending champion Hal Sutton, who shot an opening day 67, ballooned to a 76, and fell nine strokes off the pace.

Stewart, a third-year pro, hit all 18 greens around the Lake Buena Vista course, considered the easiest of the three Disney World courses being used for the tournament.

McCumber, who earned his 64 on the Lake Buena Vista course Thursday, said he was satisfied with his play on the tough Magnolia layout Friday.

"I just followed a great round with a very solid round," said McCumber, who has played two bogey-free rounds. "I'd like to have two more just like them."

McCowan sank seven birdies en route to his lead-tying round of 65. But he also played his Lake Buena Vista round and is faced with two final rounds on the tougher Magnolia and Palm courses.

Nelson, who had his second consecutive 67 Friday, and Tewell, who fired a 68, may have a slight advantage.

Impassioned pre-game speeches that often would inspire his team to great performances. His famed "Win one for the Gipper" speech, which he delivered twice during his career after the famed halfback died, is considered a classic in psychological motivation.

At a pep rally at South Bend, Ind., Friday night, O'Brien delivered a taped message to the Irish football team that would have made Rockne proud.

"Tonight is the big night, the big rally," O'Brien said in the recording that was made only two weeks before his death. "Tomorrow is a bigger day... victory

The raiders have come up with a surprise quarterback starter, Coach Tom Flores electing to, use reserve signal caller Marc Wilson in place of Jim Plunkett, who has been intercepted 10 times in the last three games.

"Marc deserves the chance," said Flores. "I just felt that the way things have been going the last few weeks, it was good for everyone."

The rest of Sunday's schedule finds San Francisco at the Los Angeles Rams in a battle for the NFC-West lead, Minnesota at Green Bay for NFC central, Cincinnati at Atlanta at New Year's, Chicago at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Cincinnati, Detroit at Washington, Kansas City at Houston, New England at Buffalo, New Orleans at Tampa Bay, Pittsburgh at Seattle and San Diego at Denver. The New York Giants play at St. Louis in a Monday night game.

The Forty-Niners have a score to settle with the Rams after a 10-7 defeat on Oct. 9. Fearsome rookie Eric Dickerson beat them with a 142-yard rushing game that included the winning touchdown on a 15-yard run. The teams own identical 52 records, but the Rams have the psychological edge with a 43-22-23 record lead.

Green Bay can tie Minnesota for the Midwest Division lead by beating the Vikings, but Packer Coach Bart Starr has his misgivings. His defense ranks last in the NFL, having yielded 210 points this season, a figure topped only by winless Houston's 211 and St. Louis' 216.

"I believe Minnesota is a type of team offensively which offers a number of weapons we have to be concerned about," says Starr. "They can really come at you from a lot of directions and they're playing very consistent football."

The Packers have a potent offense of their own. Lynn Dickey is the second leading quarterback in the NFC, topping the throwers with a 67.0 completion percentage and a league high 16 touchdown passes. However, he has been intercepted nine times.

"When you come off Queensborough Bridge and onto First Avenue, you have to be ignorant not to notice the crowds," Waltz said. "Of course it helps. The crowds in New York are the best. They are the most supportive fans anywhere."

Waltz responded with a world record and in the next two races and, after dropping out of the 1981 Marathon with shin splints, came back last year with a victory.

Anderson missed the rest of that game as well as last week's contest at Denver and is doubtful for Sunday's game against Cleveland.

Dailey admits to drug rehab
CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Bulls guard Quintin Dailey has admitted publicly for the first time that he sought treatment last year at a Baltimore hospital for a drug problem, the Chicago Tribune reported Friday.

"I had to go through the worst of it (getting off drugs)," said Dailey, the Bulls' No. 1 draft choice last year. "I matured from a young man, so in that sense, it was a great growth year for me."

Dailey characterized his first year in the NBA as a "hard time" because of his conviction for assaulting a student nurse.

"I'm not gonna say it was a nightmare, but it was a memory I'll never forget," he said.

Irish try to win one for O'Brien today

By United Press International

"Win one for Pat O'Brien?"

It doesn't exactly have the same ring to it as "Win one for the Gipper," but the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame will try and do just that today when they dedicate Saturday's game with arch-rival Southern Cal to the memory of the late actor.

This game does not have the lustre it once did. For the first time in many years, neither team is ranked among the top 20. Yet, there is still plenty of mystique about Notre Dame football and when Knute Rockne talks — everybody listens.

O'Brien, who died last Saturday at the age of 43, achieved his greatest measure of notoriety in 1940 when he portrayed Rockne, the legendary Notre Dame coach, in the film, "Knute Rockne, All-American." In that same film, actor Ronald Reagan portrayed the great halfback George Gipp.

O'Brien and President Reagan were made honorary Notre Dame alumni in 1981.

Rockne was known as a great motivator and was famous for his impassioned, pre-game, speeches that often would inspire his team to great performances. His famed "Win one for the Gipper" speech, which he delivered twice during his career after the famed halfback died, is considered a classic in psychological motivation.

At a pep rally at South Bend, Ind., Friday night, O'Brien delivered a taped message to the Irish football team that would have made Rockne proud.

"Tonight is the big night, the big rally," O'Brien said in the recording that was made only two weeks before his death. "Tomorrow is a bigger day... victory

"I love you all. I wish I were there. Keep playing and keep going and bring back that football."

University officials have also announced plans to observe a moment of silence in O'Brien's honor in Notre Dame Stadium just before today's kickoff. Notre Dame certainly can use all the help it can get. The Fighting Irish, although ranked among the top 10 in total offense and total defense, are only 4-2. Coach Gerry Faust has yet to beat Southern Cal, however, and the Fighting Irish could be in line for a bowl bid with an impressive victory.

This has not been one of Southern Cal's most memorable seasons. The NCAA probation-scared Trojans are only 3-3 and probably have made more mistakes on the field this year than they have over the last decade combined. But playing Notre Dame always brings out the best in the Trojans as their 12-2 record since 1966 clearly indicates.

In games involving the top 10 today, No. 1 Nebraska (7-0) plays host to Colorado (2-4), No. 2 Texas (5-0) visits No. 3 Southern Methodist (5-0), No. 4 West Virginia (6-0) visits Penn State (4-3), No. 5 Auburn (5-1) entertains Mississippi State (2-4), No. 6 Florida (5-0-1) plays host to East Carolina (5-1), No. 7 Georgia (5-0-1) entertains Kentucky (5-1), No. 9 Miami (Fla.) visits Cincinnati (3-3) and No. 10 Michigan (5-1) plays host to No. 12 Iowa (5-1).

Nebraska leads the nation in rushing average (571.0) and should not have much trouble making Colorado its eighth straight victim. The Cornhuskers' Turner Gill (61.5) is the leading passer in the Big Eight Conference and Mike Rozier is the leading rusher (1,064).

THE ACES BOBBY COWF

Dear Mr. Wolf: We were wondering what sort of penalty was involved. Can you help?

ANSWER: Law 22 states: "After the auction is closed, if no player has bid, the hands are abandoned and the turn to deal passes in rotation."

Dear Mr. Wolf: After three passes, should I open the bidding with a marginal hand or should I avoid the blood-letting by passing the hand out? I just hate to open the hand only to have the opponents outbid me.

ANSWER: One should open if he expects to make a plus score, and in close situations, the most important factor is the possession of the spade suit.

Dear Mr. Wolf: My partner thinks he is a better player than I am and I go along with his charade in the interests of harmony.

ANSWER: The world is full of partners who wish to play senior roles. It may or may not have anything to do with skill; it has much to do with their basic personality traits.

Dear Mr. Wolf: If a deal is passed out, does the same dealer reshuffle and deal or does he miss his turn?

ANSWER: Declarer is never subject to a penalty card infraction because it is impossible for him to convey illegal information to his dummy.

Send bridge notes to The Aces, P.O. Box 11263, Dallas, Texas 75213, with self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Attention paid to the little chores falls short in the play of today's part score. Success depends upon first defining the objective and then choosing a course to meet it.

East played his five on the first-spade but South's mind was on a single trick. He overtook with his jack and took the obvious ruff finesse. East won his king and cleared the spades, playing ace and another, giving South his king a legitimate way to score his two club winners. South led a club to dummy's king and tried to sneak a diamond past East. East was not asleep; he took his ace and cashed through spade winners to net one down.

Vulnerable: Both. Dealer: North. The bidding: North East South West 1W 1S 2S 2NT 2S Pass 2NT pass

Opening lead: Spade six the way. South wins his spade trick, cashes his club ace and then takes four more sure heart winners to score eight tricks.
