Dump closure argued State waivers

By STEVE GREEN
United Press International

BOISE (UPI) — State officials said Friday they haven't decided whether to ask a judge to close an Owyhee County toxic-waste dump in the wake of a federal agency's decision severely restricting the operation.

Gov. John Evans wants to be briefed on the order issued by the Environmental Protection Agency before deciding whether to pursue court action to close the dump operated by EnviroSafe Services of Idaho, said aide Jean Terra.

Evans said last week the state would seek an injunction to shut down the dump unless the EPA closed the site to allow extensive safety testing and inspections by a "blue ribbon" panel of scientists.

But even if the governor decides not to go to court to close the dump, EnviroSafe's state-issued conditional use permit offers "a possible mechanism for independent state enforcement action," said Deputy Idaho Attorney General Jack Hockberger.

Earlier this week, the EPA ordered EnviroSafe to stop accepting most waste shipments until the firm can prove its disposal practices meet government regulations.

EPA Inspector Steve Provant of Boise said the order — which also fined EnviroSafe $150,000 for violating numerous federal regulations — shut down about 90 percent of the dump's operations.

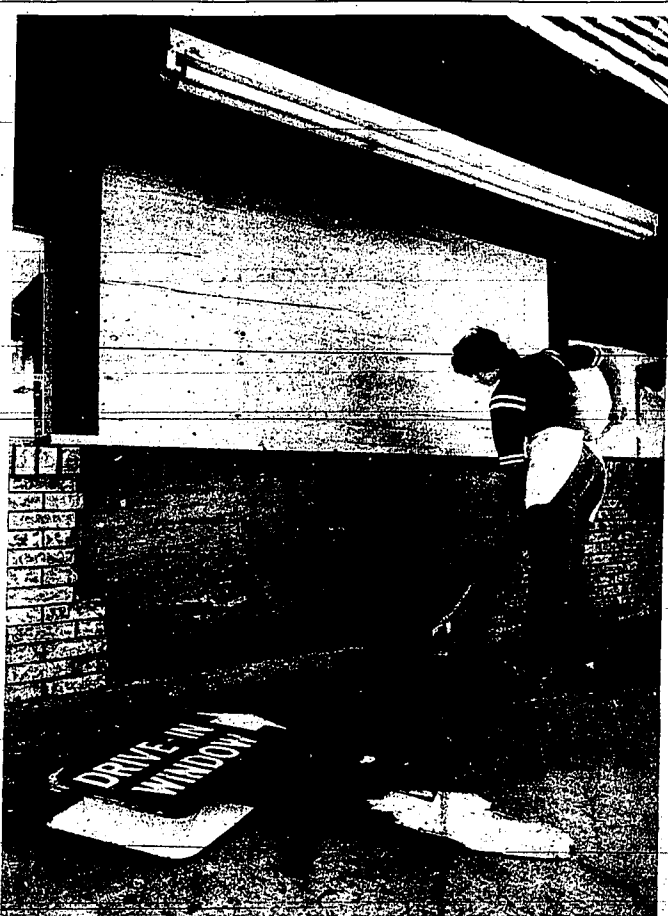

Provant said the conditional use permit could not be withdrawn without due process of law, which could be accomplished by holding a hearing before the state Health and Welfare Board.

He said the state could also go to court to enforce the terms of the conditional use permit. Such an action would not close the dump site, but would force EnviroSafe to abide by state regulations, Hockberger said.

"We have in the past taken action to force the former owners, Wescon, in district court to abide by their conditional use permit," Hockberger said.

On nuclear weapons Leaders seek renewed talks

By JOSEPH B. FLEMING
United Press International

BONN, West Germany — West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and French President Francois Mitterrand Friday appealed to Moscow to resume nuclear arms talks and condemned the Soviet decision to deploy new missiles in Eastern Europe.

Soviet allies endorsed Moscow's walk out from the negotiations in Geneva and its plan to replace new missiles to counter the U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 missiles NATO is basing in Western Europe.

In Washington, the State Department confirmed that parts of the Pershing 2 missiles had begun to arrive in West Germany and said the first battery of the weapons would be operational in about a month.

Opposition to the NATO deployment continued with police arresting 44 antinuclear demonstrators who invaded West German government party offices — in the city of Saarbruecken to protest deployment of the new medium-range missiles.

One man chained himself to a radiator and had to be cut free.

The protesters, in two separate groups, occupied the offices of the Christian Democrats and the Free Democrats, coalition partners in the government. Police said all 44 would be charged.

In Bonn, at a news conference after a regular meeting between the French and West German leaders, Kohl and Mitterrand condemned Soviet leader Yuri Andropov's vow to boycott the arms talks until all U.S. nuclear weapons were removed from Europe.

Andropov threatened to retaliate by deploying new Soviet missiles in Czechoslovakia and East Germany and sea-based missiles aimed at the United States.

Andropov's statement "came Thursday, a day after the Soviets broke off negotiations in Geneva on limiting medium-range missiles."

The two West European leaders said Moscow must take responsibility for the consequences of Andropov's actions.

"The countermeasures announced by the Soviet Union do not help either the people of East Europe or of West Europe," Kohl said.

"We appeal to the Soviet Union to return to the negotiation table as soon as possible and make a concrete contribution to disarmament, a balance of forces and to stable East-West relations."

"It is in the interest of all, the Soviet Union and everyone else that the talks go on," Mitterrand said.

Mitterrand suggested next year's Stockholm conference on security and confidence building measures, although not a nuclear conference, could be used to seek a resumption of the talks.

East German leader Erich Honecker pledged he would do whatever necessary to speed up deployment of Soviet tactical missiles.

He said East Germany was not overjoyed at the prospect but would support Andropov's stand.

"Naturally these measures, which were absolutely necessary to block a strategic military superiority of the United States, are not cause for celebration in our country," he told a meeting of the ruling Communist Party.

CIA says U.S.-backed rebels could not win in Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA has told lawmakers a force of U.S.-backed rebels cannot achieve a military or political victory over the Marxist-led government of Nicaragua, it was reported Friday.

There are indications the administration is beginning to think about how to end the war and how an amnesty for the American-supported forces could be arranged, The Washington Post also said.

However, a senior administration official told reporters in Santa Barbara, Calif., where President Reagan is vacationing, that he did not know of any deal to provide amnesty.

"If there is some sort of a guarantee that they (the Sandinistas) stop exporting revolution, we could tolerate that government, but there has been nothing apparent that they want to," the official said.

"It was never the U.S. intention to overthrow the government of Nicaragua," he added — only to cut off supply routes for any Managua-led attempt to disrupt El Salvador.

A spokeswoman at CIA headquarters in Langley, Va., also refused to confirm the contents of the National Intelligence Estimate cited by the Post, saying, "We're just not commenting on it."

In a National Intelligence Estimate given to congressional oversight committees this fall — coinciding with crucial votes to continue funding to the rebel forces — the CIA said the U.S.-backed "contra" forces made up of 10,000 to 12,000 guerrillas lack the military capability, financing, training and political support to overthrow the Sandinista government.

The newspaper said the CIA analysis concluded the Sandinista leadership is controlled by hard-line Marxists who will not give up in any kind of military confrontation with the insurgents. In addition, the CIA said the U.S.-backed guerrilla forces have not been able to win enough support in the Nicaraguan population to overthrow the Sandinistas, who seized power four years ago after ousting Gen. Anastasio Somoza.

With the new CIA analysis, Reagan also said he wants a general amnesty for U.S.-backed rebels who have been fighting the Sandinista government as part of the CIA-directed force, the Post said. Reagan included the amnesty provision in a secret document justifying the covert action to Congress, it quoted congressional sources as saying.

The document, a presidential "finding" under the National Security Act, was presented to the congressional committees in September by Secretary of State George Shultz and CIA Director William Casey, the Post said.

The House voted to cut off funding for the covert operation twice this year, but in a compromise with the Senate, legislators approved $24 million to fund the covert paramilitary operations at least until June.

White House kept sealed from threat

By JON C. FRANDSEN
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Security officials, clearly concerned the suicide bombing attack in Beirut could be repeated in America, Friday kept trucks packed with dirt stationed at White House entrances and restricted traffic near the Capitol.

Police cars also blocked entrances to the State Department for a second day.

A spokesman for the police force guarding the Capitol — where a time bomb went off two weeks ago — reported receiving a telephone threat at about 3 a.m. Wednesday "warning of vehicles with bombs aboard."

He said police, who waved cars to a stop as they turned up the curving driveway approaching the Capitol, will be checking all auto traffic near the massive white domed building "for the next few days."

France, whose peace-keeping forces in Beirut also were the target of a terrorist bombing, also stepped up security at installations around the world, officials said.

Officials at the White House and State Department refused to be specific about what prompted the rare security measures in Washington, which were first visible on Thanksgiving Day. But one spokesman said there have been periodic "threats to U.S. facilities and personnel."

President Reagan is at his ranch in California for the long holiday weekend, and no extra security measures were apparent there.

A State Department spokeswoman declined to say if security has been heightened at U.S. Embassies overseas, but noted, "We always have the proper security at all our facilities abroad, whether military or diplomatic."

Holiday travel still dangerous

By United Press International and The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Holiday weekend travel in Idaho remained hazardous Friday.

Drivers struggled to negotiate icy mountain highways in the wake of a blustery Thanksgiving Day storm that dumped rain and snow across the state.

Three traffic deaths were reported by the Idaho State Police during the first two days of the long holiday, which began at 6 p.m. Wednesday.

In the Magic Valley, traveling was especially treacherous on U.S. 93, from Hollister south to the Nevada line and from Shoshone north to Arco and beyond.

State police requested no travel south of Hollister from Thursday evening until about 3 a.m. Friday, although the road was not closed officially.

Briefly

Airline said to push violations

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Korean Air Lines was "absolutely involved" in the downing of its Flight 007 because it paid its pilots secret bonuses to take short cuts over Soviet airspace to save fuel, attorney Melvin Bell said in a letter to the U.S. Justice Dept. in Seoul. KAL officials have, in the past, categorically denied the existence of any such bonus pool. They could not be reached for comment in Seoul on the new allegations.

Bell said Friday he uncovered evidence on a recent fact-finding trip to Korea that proved that KAL officials were enticing their pilots to take short cuts to save fuel in return for cash bonuses.

"I just returned from Seoul where I was told not by one but by a number of people that KAL was giving bonuses for fuel savings," Bell said. "The only way to save fuel was by taking shortcuts."

Bell said his evidence showed that Korean Air Lines officials knew that company pilots were flying into Soviet airspace.

U.S. aid to Grenada ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration announced Friday a $15 million military training program for Grenada that could involve the presence on the island of as many as 100 U.S. trainers.

The program for the military training "ad equipment for the Caribbean Peace-keeping Force on Grenada brings to $34.7 million the amount of U.S. financial assistance for Grenada in the current year."

Remains found among dogs

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A human skull and bones were found Friday in a home full of hungry dogs and a reclusive woman lived, authorities said.

The Cuyahoga County Coroner's office was trying to determine if the bones found in the basement were that of Anne Elko, who lived in the house on Cleveland's East Side.

Authorities were unable to locate Ms. Elko, described as a reclusive animal lover in her 60s by her neighbors, who had not been seen for 10 days.

Chief Deputy Coroner Lester Adelson said, "We found a major part of a human skull and portions of long bones that are definitely human. It is certainly a bizarre and unusual situation."

Investigators said there was no dog food in the house. They found about 16 or 17 live dogs which they took to the pound and four or five dead dogs.

Caffeine dangerous to unborn

ROOTSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Pregnant or nursing women should avoid caffeine because it could cause their babies to weigh less at birth and suppress their physical development, researchers say.

Martin D. Schechter of Northeastern Ohio Universities said he and fellow researchers James T. Concanan and J. Mark Braugher were surprised to learn caffeine did not stimulate the offspring of female rats as they had expected.

"Our research makes it clear that even in very moderate doses, caffeine has negative effects," Schechter said.

Crowds protest in Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Thousands of protesters poured into Manila's streets for the second day Friday and Filipino bishops warned President Ferdinand Marcos to institute political reforms or face "chaos and anarchy."

Breaking its silence on the mounting civil unrest, the 101-member Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines issued a pastoral letter urging Marcos to hold honest elections, and corruption and political repression, and seek a constitutional solution to his succession.

The letter to be read Sunday in churches throughout the Philippines, Asia's only Christian country, was to coincide with nationwide rallies to mark the 51st birthday of opposition leader Benigno Aquino.

Aquino's murder Aug. 21 sparked a wave of protest against Marcos' 18-year rule.

In warning the 66-year-old president to loosen his iron-fisted hold on the government, the bishops said, "Many events have pushed our country closer to the brink of chaos and anarchy."

Walkout stops British papers

LONDON (UPI) — A walkout by pressmen left Britain without its national newspapers today in a challenge to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's new union laws.

The action by National Graphical Association workers affected The Times, The Guardian, The Financial Times, The Daily Mail and other national and provincial papers.

NGA officials said no newspapers would be printed before Sunday night at the earliest.

Chairman Fred Marienau, Sandpoint, said in a telephone interview he had taken no official position on closure of Envirocare since the matter had not come before the state panel.

He said if any state regulations had been violated, "Envirocare should be disciplined."

Marienau also said if the matter comes before the board, "It will not be acted on out of emotion. From what I've heard, there's a lot of emotion in this issue, but few facts."

State Health and Welfare Department Director Rose Bowman said Friday the EPA action was "a step in the right direction."

"But, it was a little disappointing because it may not give them the time to do the necessary clean-up," Bowman said.

State Environment Division Director Les Stokes also said the EPA's order was a good first step, but he added it "failed to provide for the necessary infrastructure to do the necessary clean-up work and catch up with the backlog of materials."

"I would have preferred the ban on shipments to be a little more complete," Stokes said.

There has been increasing concern about terrorist attacks since a dynamite-laden truck smashed through checkpoints at the Marine compound in Beirut Oct. 23 and exploded in the barracks killing 22 Marines who had been serving as part of the multinational peace-keeping force in Lebanon.

A simultaneous attack on the nearby French compound killed more than 60 French soldiers. U.S. officials blamed the attacks on Iranian Muslim fanatics supported by Syria.

French Super Etendard fighter planes attacked a Shiite Muslim camp east of Beirut last week in retaliation for the attacks. Israel also conducted a similar retaliatory assault for a bombing attack against an Israeli installation in Lebanon last month.

Rusty, pale green pickup trucks and dump trucks packed with dirt, turned to mud by early morning rain and snow — flurries, blocked several lanes of traffic on the highway to the Executive Office Building next door. A line of at least seven U.S. Park Police trucks and vans, parked bumper to bumper, lined a driveway near the rear entrance of White House.

But it also appeared to be business as usual for the tourists who crowded the sidewalks around the White House grounds. Many posed for pictures in the front, where no trucks were visible. Others waited in line for a tour of the president's home.

Jack Cramer, of Danbury, Conn., examining one of the drivers' trucks, blocking a driveway, told his 9-year-old son, Jim, it was there in case "some nut tried to do what they did to the Marine Corps" in Beirut.

"It's disturbing to think that steps like these are needed," Cramer said. Young Jim said the trucks were "kinda neat."

Several unsuccessful attempts to ram the White House gates led to a rebuilding project in recent years for the two main White House entrances.

A time bomb planted in the Capitol caused about $250,000 in damage to paintings and woodwork Nov. 7. A group claiming responsibility said it was protesting the presence of U.S. soldiers in Lebanon and Grenada.

The French Institute, the center of French-language teaching and cultural activities for the French-speaking community in Athens, Greece, canceled its cultural schedule for a week because of a bomb threat and a French diplomatic source in Athens said protective measures were taken all over the world.

The source said precautions were more extensive in Greece because of the bomb threat and the scheduled arrival Dec. 4 of President Francois Mitterrand to attend the European Economic Community summit in Athens.

Travel

Travelers who ignored the request met near-billboard conditions with falling snow, high winds and low visibility, according to Darlene Taylor, a dispatcher at the ISP office in Twin Falls.

A layer of slush covered the ice and snow on the road early Friday morning. Snow remained on the road throughout the day, with spots of ice near mileposts No. 3 and No. 8.

U.S. 30 and Interstate 84 were mostly clear of snow Friday, Taylor said.

Motorists throughout the state were warned to expect "normal winter driving conditions" by one ISP dispatcher who said most drivers appeared to be adjusting to the conditions that accompanied a snow and rain storm on Thanksgiving day.

"It takes a little while to get over the shock of it, those roads are slick," said ISP dispatcher Loretta Kimpston, also of Twin Falls.

She predicted highways would be used heavily during the weekend by skiers eager to try their luck at resorts on the season's first substantial snowpack.

Ski areas across the state were open for holiday business, with snow depths ranging from about three feet on the slopes at Sun Valley to more than four feet at the Schweitzer Ski Area near Sandpoint.

Most ski areas in the state were operating, including Bogert Basin near Boise and Brundage Mountain at McCall.

At Pomerelle, manager Woody Anderson reported more skiers than usual so far for Thanksgiving weekend. That's probably due to the good skiing conditions, with 36 inches of snow at the base and 54 inches at the top, he said.

Snow fell all day Friday, adding eight inches to the snowpack and making the roads up the mountain icy and slick, Anderson said. Although the roads have been sanded, he was advising skiers to come prepared with snow tires and chains.

Skiers at Soldier Mountain enjoyed a warm, sunny day Friday. But that did not prevent problems caused by slick roads.

A spokesman for the Camas County sheriff's office said two cars on the Soldier Mountain Road skidded off the plowed area, and another left the highway near Fairfield. Roads are icy and snow-covered in the area, he said, but no worse than they often are in the winter.

Soldier Mountain reported 28 inches of snow on the base and 38 inches on the top, with about a foot of new snow falling during the Thanksgiving Day storm.

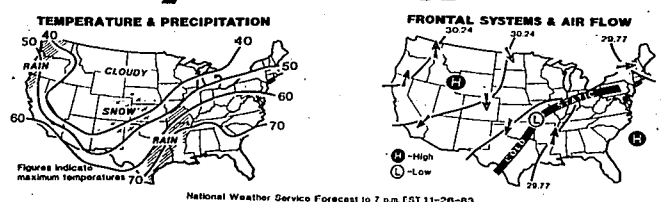

Roads to the Magic Mountain Ski Area have been plowed in anticipation of a Wednesday opening. And travelers to cross-country ski areas nearby reported no problems, even though roads were snow-covered, according to state and county police officials.

Low-elevation highways around the state generally were clear by midday Friday, but state troopers said drivers should expect to encounter packed snow and ice on mountain passes up and down the state.

Chains were advised or required on several mountain passes, including portions of Idaho 55, 93, 75 and 21.

The National Weather Service officials at Boise were predicting Friday that dry weather would move through the southern part of the state on Sunday, with rain returning to the valleys and snow to the mountains on Monday and Tuesday.

Today's weather

Partly cloudy; strong westerly winds

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas: Partly cloudy today with westerly winds of 10 to 20 mph. Highs 34 to 35. Variable clouds tonight and Sunday with a slight chance of snow showers. Winds of 5 to 15 mph. Lows tonight near 20. Highs on Sunday of 34 to 35.

Camas Prairie, Malley, Wood River Valley: Partly cloudy today with locally gusty winds. Highs 28 to 32. Variable clouds with a chance of snow showers tonight and Sunday. Highs near 30; lows zero to 10 above.

Northern Nevada and Utah: Increasing clouds over Nevada today, with a chance of snow or rain. Partly cloudy on Sunday. Highs in the 30s today and 22 to 45 on Sunday; lows from 5 above to 15. Mostly cloudy over Utah today, with scattered snow and westerly winds up to 20 mph. Colder tonight. Partly cloudy today with a few snow showers. Highs in the 30s today; lows from 15 to 22.

Synopsis: A storm system that creased Idaho on Thursday night, continued moving eastward Friday, with some trailing showers continuing in the eastern sections of the state.

An upper-level trough approaching from the west was bringing in drier and more stable air, along with strong northwesterly winds in the Snake River Valley.

On Thursday night and into Friday, precipitation was substantial across most of the state, with rain in the lower valleys but snow predominating. Precipitation amounts were generally from 25 inch to 50 inch, although up to an inch fell in some areas.

Sun Valley reported 14 inches of new snow on Friday morning and Deadwood received 6, but Gilboonsville — near last week's record — reported 29 inches of fresh snow, from Thursday morning until Friday morning.

The low temperatures on Friday morning were generally in the 20s and 30s, with Stanley's 15 degrees the coldest. The warmest reading for the day was 50 degrees at Lewiston, as readings were generally 10 to 15 degrees below Thursday's readings.

The extended forecast for the Magic Valley and southern Idaho calls for Monday to be mostly dry, with an increase in clouds and rain in the valleys and snow in the mountains on Tuesday and Wednesday. Temperatures will be a little above normal, with highs in the 40s in the west and the upper 30s to low 40s in the east. Lows will be in the low 20s to the low 30s in the west, and from 15 to 25 in the east.

Elsewhere in the nation on Friday, the warmest temperature reported was 79 degrees at Brownsville, Texas, and the coldest was 1 degree above zero at Williston, N.D.

PLO ceasefire set, but ...

By HAJA KHOURY
United Press International

TRIPOLI, Lebanon — Syria and Saudi Arabia announced a ceasefire Friday to end the Palestinian civil war, but guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat said Syrian-backed rebels were massing for another attempt to drive him out of Lebanon.

Syria and Saudi Arabia said the ceasefire called for the evacuation from the northern port city within two weeks of both Arafat's men and the rebels trying to oust him as chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But a tense-looking Arafat told reporters: "Negotiations always go two ways. There are negotiations in the offices and negotiations in the field. War is a loud voice for politics."

Around Beirut, Druze Muslims in the mountains east of the capital fired shells and rockets into neighborhoods in Christian east Beirut Friday night and exchanged fire with the Lebanese army in the strategic mountain village of Souk El Gharb.

There were no reports of casualties, but residents of east Beirut were awakened and forced to seek refuge in basements and shelters, the state-run radio said.

In Tripoli, despite an unofficial truce that began Monday, Arafat said the rebels made another "unsuccessful advance" on his positions in Tripoli and that he expected

YASSER ARAFAT
Believes attack still coming

a major attack on Saturday.

But a spokesman for the rebels, Mahmoud Labadi, said from Damascus: "We would not violate the ceasefire even if we were under provocative attacks by them."

Responding to Arafat's statement that the multilateral force was preparing for a new assault, Labadi said "his claims are false and baseless and aimed at increasing tension in Tripoli and drawing the public opinion to his side."

The four-point ceasefire agreement was announced in Damascus by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam and his Saudi counterpart, Prince Saud Al Faisal, after two days of negotiations.

Syria was involved because of its backing of the PLO rebels. Arafat asked for the Saudi prince's help in negotiations to end weeks of fighting that has pushed his forces into densely populated areas of the city and killed more than 1,000 people.

In addition to evacuation of the Palestinian rivals, the ceasefire also called for the "employment of peaceful methods to negotiate a political settlement" over the PLO, which has been split since May over Arafat's leadership. He has been leader of the PLO for 14 of its 19 years.

Under the plan, the truce would be monitored by Tripoli's Higher Coordination Committee, a group of city leaders headed by former Lebanese Prime Minister Rashid Karami.

Asked about the conditions for his departure from Tripoli where he has been trapped for three weeks, Arafat said, "Our departure depends on the will of this brave city. They have not yet asked me to leave."

Rebel leaders earlier this week gave Arafat until Saturday to leave Tripoli and he claimed they were preparing for a "big military operation."

"Tomorrow they will try another big attempt," he said. "But I have given my word of honor to the leaders of Tripoli, we are doing our best to avoid another massacre."

Western storm builds Blizzard hits the northeast

By DAVID SMOTHERS
United Press International

A near blizzard mounted Friday in the northeast, where almost a foot of snow came down in an hour. A big, dangerous storm gathered strength in the western Rockies.

The Coast Guard and Civil Air Patrol searched along the Pacific shore for a Piper Commanche that apparently crashed during the night in a storm off San Diego, Calif. At least two people were aboard the plane when it vanished while flying through heavy rain and gusty winds.

One fisherman drowned and another was rescued after his trawler broke in two under the crush of seven-foot waves and 50-knot winds off Ocracoke, N.C. A Coast Guard helicopter found the two men floating among the wreckage of the trawler Maine.

The temperature plummeted to 1 above zero at Williston, N.D., on a day after Thanksgiving that ranged from stormy, snowy, rainy to just plain cold across much of the nation.

Four persons were killed in car accidents on icy bridges in Indiana and a man was killed in Wyoming when his car hit an icy patch and overturned.

Winter storm warnings were out across the west and in New England, where 8 or more inches of snow were predicted.

The northeastern storm mounted to near blizzard conditions in New York's Hudson Valley. Ten and a half inches were reported at Taboron, N.Y., where it was still snowing hard. The snow was coming down at an inch an hour across northern Vermont.

The same storm system gave New York City and Washington, D.C., a taste of snow and raised streams to bankfull with heavy rains over coastal New England.

Flood watches were ordered for parts of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Maine.

The National Weather Service called the western storm "large and dangerous." It was one of a series that have churned out of the Pacific during November.

One to 2 feet of snow were reported in Utah canyons. There was a half foot or more of snow at Valley Snows and Duchesne, Utah. Almost a foot of snow was reported in Nevada and a half foot at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Forecasters said 2 feet or more of snow were possible in the Utah mountains.

The same storm that colored the mountains white meant cold turkey through the Seattle, Wash., area Thanksgiving Day.

Winds up to 80 mph knocked out power to more than 250,000 Seattle area homes and utility crews were still trying to get all the lights back on Friday.

It rained in Portland, Ore., for the 28th straight day, just six days shy of the record.

The Pacific storm had its uses, however. The gale-force winds blew out to sea much of the remaining 73,000 gallons of oil that blotted beaches around Newport, Ore., since another storm rammed a Japanese freighter into a jetty a week ago.

Airliner falls 1,000 feet; 29 hurt

TORONTO (UPI) — Severe "clear air turbulence" caused an Air Canada plane to plunge 1,000 feet in seconds, injuring 29 people who were thrown to the ceiling, an airline spokesman said Friday.

It was the latest of three accidents which have plagued the airline in recent months.

Twenty-four passengers and five crew members were injured, some seriously, on the Lockheed L-1011 en route from Port of Spain, Trinidad, to Toronto Thursday night. Flight 965 carried 154 passengers and 12 crew members.

Company spokesman Norm Garwood said the crew reported flying in clear skies at 37,000 feet when the plane ran into moderate turbulence. The passengers were instructed to buckle their seat belts.

He said the plane was jolted about four minutes later by "clear air turbulence" that Garwood said Captain F.E. Fox could not have anticipated.

"You can't forecast clear air turbulence because it's undetectable," Garwood said. "It doesn't show up on radar. No matter what the flight plan showed for the weather ... it certainly wouldn't have shown clear air turbulence."

A spokesman said one woman was in fair condition with suspected abdominal injuries, while three patients, who suffered bruises and an undetermined head injuries, were in stable condition.

Eighteen adults and a child were brought to a hospital suffering from whiplash, but were all discharged by early Friday.

Air Canada, a government-owned airline, has been plagued by other accidents in the last six months.

On June 2, 1983, 23 people died when a DC-9 en route from Dallas to Toronto caught fire and was forced to make an emergency landing at Greater Cincinnati Airport in Florence, Ky.

A minor fire in a rear bathroom filled the plane with smoke, and then turned into a fireball when the opening of emergency exits filled the plane with oxygen.

On July 23, 1983, a crew made an emergency landing in Gimli, Manitoba, on an abandoned military airfield when its Boeing 767 ran out of fuel en route from Montreal to Edmonton, Alberta. An inquiry later found that the ground crew did not load enough fuel because its members confused metric and imperial measures.

The Federal Aviation Administration says it is known about clear air turbulence and if pilots run into it, they are asked to report the time, location and intensity.

Navy planes crash with 7 aboard

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Two U.S. Navy planes with a total of seven people aboard crashed into the Mediterranean between the Balearic Islands and Sardinia, Italian air force officials said Friday.

Air Force Lt. Roberto Mea said in a telephone interview that an Italian military helicopter had recovered two inflatable life rafts some 250 miles west of Sardinia.

Registration numbers showed they belonged to the missing aircraft, which disappeared Thursday afternoon on a routine logistics flight.

"We found no survivors but we have not given up hope," said Mea, adding he had "no doubt" that both planes had crashed.

The Italian news agency ANSA reported a U.S. P-3 Orion aircraft sighted oil slicks and wreckage from the American planes late Friday afternoon. There was no official confirmation.

The search operation was suspended at sundown Friday and would resume Saturday morning, Mea said. In Washington, a Navy spokesman, Cmdr. Fred Leeder, said American officials still had only preliminary information.

"U.S. authorities have not yet examined the debris and a search mission by several nations continues," he said.

Earlier a communique issued by the commander of Fleet Air Mediterranean in Naples said that search and rescue units from Italy, Spain and the United States had launched "an intensive search" for the aircraft.

It described the missing planes as C-1A Trader aircraft. A spokesman said they were small twin-engine propeller planes used for transporting goods and personnel between aircraft carriers and shore bases.

"The aircraft disappeared some time after 4 p.m. Nov. 24 after leaving Palma de Majorca," the communique said.

It said the planes were on a "routine logistics flight" from the Spanish island of Majorca to the U.S. Navy base at Comiso, near Catania on the east coast of Sicily.

The Sigonella base has been in the news recently as the landing field to which the 112 cruise nuclear missiles will be flown before their installation in March at Comiso in southeastern Sicily. The Navy spokesman said the missing Trader aircraft were much too small to carry missile components.

Pension reform has made it 'halfway'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A major attempt by President Reagan to close the "gender gap" — through reform of pension laws that shortchange women — has made it halfway through Congress.

Reagan, whose policies in the last three years have been sharply criticized by women's groups, called pension reform a must in his State of the Union speech last January.

Also targeted as priorities were child support enforcement, which passed the House unanimously last week, and unequal pay. No solution has been proposed by the administration to equalize the wages of women, who earn an average 59 cents for every dollar men make.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., pushed the pension legislation through the Senate on a voice vote without dissent in the closing hours of the 1983 session.

Supporters say it would eliminate injustices in private pension systems, which reward the kind of worker whose employment is full-time, long-term and uninterrupted. Because women usually take time out to raise children, they are at a disadvantage.

"The whole concept is that you should not be penalized for having a child," said Karen Ferguson of the Pension Rights Center. "This law would make concrete economic gains for women. It deals with very complex issues, the kind Congress likes to ignore."

Out of the more than 43 million women working, 42.8 percent of the nation's workforce, the Labor Department says only 21 percent are covered under pension plans.

And those who stay home to raise children, and whose benefits are based on their status as dependents of the family's breadwinner, are often deprived of retirement income because of divorce or their husband's early death, Dole said.

Draft resister cleared

CINCINNATI (UPI) — An appellate court said Friday singling out vocal draft resisters for prosecution "clearly violates the First Amendment" and overturned the conviction of a man who refused to register for the draft.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously threw out the conviction of Mark A. Schmucker, 23, Alliance, Ohio. Schmucker contended hundreds of thousands of young men had not registered for the draft but the government only prosecuted him and others like him had publicly disagreed — with the registration law.

The three-judge panel ordered an evidentiary hearing to determine if Schmucker can prove he was "selectively" prosecuted.

Although noting he could be reindicted and "go through the whole thing again," Schmucker called the decision a "victory." "I think it's good that the government will have to show whether I was selectively prosecuted, based on my First Amendment rights," said Schmucker, who had refused to register on religious grounds. "It is a victory."

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman refused to comment on the decision.

"It is not a military matter because he's not in any division of the military," the spokesman said. Judges Gilbert Merritt, Harry Phillips and Arthur Spiegel did not rule on the merits of Schmucker's religious arguments. They declared only that selective prosecution "clearly violates the First Amendment."

"It selects for prosecution only those who speak out against the law," the judges said.

Astronauts arrive for Monday's shuttle launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Six astronauts, including the first non-American, arrive at the space center Friday for Monday's launch of the shuttle Columbia on a nine-day mission featuring the $1 billion scientific workshop Spacelab.

West German astronaut-physicist Ulf Merbold and American astronauts John Young, Brewster Shaw, Byron Lichtenberg, Owen Garriott and Robert

Parker — the largest space crew yet — flew in three white training jets from their home base near Houston.

Spokesman Jim Ball reported "everything was going swell" for the start of the 44-hour countdown set for 8 a.m. EST Saturday. Launch is scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday, with the ship scheduled to glide to a landing at Edwards Air Force Base in California's Mojave Desert on Dec. 7.

NASA forecasters said the weather outlook was good for the launch.

"We are delighted to be here again," said Young, skipper of this mission and the world's most experienced space commander.

"We think that the space shuttle with the Spacelab is going to show what human beings will do in space for science and technology and may make some significant contributions.

We're really in a hurry to get on with it."

"We've been ready since September and we'll be ready on Monday," said co-pilot and space rookie Shaw. "We are really looking forward to it."

The nine-day mission is the longest and most enterprising of the shuttle program.

Reagans relax at ranch, catch up on chores

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Far removed from the missile controversy in Europe and security worries in Washington, President Reagan spent Friday doing paperwork and ranch chores in the scenic surroundings of the Santa Ynez Mountains.

After a ritual Thanksgiving with family members at their 68-acre ranch, the president and Mrs. Reagan settled into the last half of their brief holiday vacation.

The aftermath from a day of rain and dreary weather Thursday prevented them from taking their usual morning horseback ride.

Instead, aides said, Reagan spent the morning on "routine paperwork," including leftovers from the last legislative session and preparation for a round of meetings next week on the Middle East.

After lunch, Reagan planned to work on the ranch property but with no specific new goal in mind. During his last visit in August, the president devoted his time to building a new fence.

Despite tightened security around the White House, Capitol and State Department, no measures were in effect to protect Reagan at the ranch. The action in Washington reflected a general strengthening of security since the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing that killed 229 U.S. servicemen in Beirut and an explosion at the Capitol that caused $250,000 in damage.

As Reagan remained in seclusion, his aides continued to play down the impact of the Soviet Union's walkout Wednesday from the Geneva talks on limiting medium-range nuclear missiles.

Even in the face of a renewed threat by Soviet President Yuri Andropov to deploy more missiles against the West, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes insisted the administration is not alarmed and remains hopeful negotiations will resume.

"In our judgment, it is not a crisis," Speakes said. "The United States stands ready to (negotiate). Every ingredient is on the table for agreement."

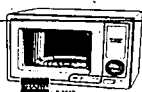

While the future of the missile talks is uncertain, Speakes said, "You can't argue there has been a disruption of the dialogue" between the superpowers.

Chinese couriers fight, ground airliner

By MARK WUKAS
United Press International

CHICAGO -- Two official couriers for the People's Republic of China argued over a diplomatic pouch Friday, forcing the pilot of a Boeing 747 to land the huge jet. One of the couriers sought asylum in the United States.

The Pan American flight, en route from San Francisco to New York, made an unscheduled landing at O'Hare International Airport.

Police Officer Dan Cirigliani said State Department officials took the Chinese courier to Immigration Department offices in the International Terminal at O'Hare International Airport for interviews.

The pilot of Pan American Flight 72 made the unscheduled landing because of an argument between two passengers identified by a U.S. government official as "two official couriers for the People's Republic of China."

Pan American spokeswoman Pamela Henton said the veteran pilot, Capt. Gerald Dion, made the decision to land Flight 72 because of a disturbance between two passengers.

Chris Chandler, a spokesman for Mayor Harold Washington, said one of the couriers was seeking asylum and the two argued over a bag the courier seeking asylum wished to keep.

"I guess they were arguing about this diplomatic pouch," Chandler said. "He wanted to take the pouch and the other guy was strenuously objecting."

Chandler said the courier left the plane without the pouch.

The plane refueled and continued on to Kennedy Airport in New York, where it landed at 7:32 p.m. EST.

The plane -- carrying 88 passengers and 14 crew members -- was surrounded by agents of the State Department for nearly three hours while it was boarded by agents from the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

"A couple of official couriers from the People's Republic of China got into a hassle with each other on Pan Am Flight 72 and the pilot diverted the flight and landed the plane at O'Hare because of the argument," a government official in Washington said.

Police received a call from a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration advising them the plane would land and the area should be secured.

The Chinese embassy in Washington had no comment.

Officials see little new with Soviet submarines

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- U.S. officials see little new in the Soviet threat to station sea-launched nuclear missiles on submarines operating within striking distance of the United States as retaliation for the planned NATO deployment of U.S. missiles in Western Europe.

Officials had expected such an announcement. A senior U.S. official said that even before the talks broke off Wednesday, the Soviets had stationed new short-range nuclear missiles, the SS-21, in Eastern European satellite countries.

"Right now, they deploy submarine-launched ballistic missiles off our coasts," the official said. "There's no qualitative change."

In addition, the Soviets have had submarines with air-breathing cruise missiles on board stationed in the western Atlantic. These missile-jet planes are presumed to be aimed at strategic U.S. air fields.

Late last summer, the United States moved "Looking Glass," the presidential airborne command post planes, from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., to a series of alternative fields farther inland.

The purpose is to give the planes more time to get off the ground in case of an attack.

The Soviets say the new deployments are required because of the short flight time of the Pershing-2 missiles in Western Europe.

Depending on the target, the Pershings would only be in the air some 10 or 12 minutes. Instead of the 20 to 30 minutes required for an intercontinental missile to strike.

U.S. defense officials do not regard that as a significant difference. As former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said recently, "What in God's name are they going to do with the extra 15 minutes?"

It is notable that the Andropov statement did not include an earlier threat, expressed by a high-ranking Soviet military official, that the arrival of the Pershing-2s would force the Soviets to go to a "launch-on-warning" system.

Bus strikers get offer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) -- Striking Greyhound workers cast votes on a wage cut contract and then rejoined picket lines Friday at depots where limited holiday bus services were being provided.

The heavily-hired drivers was reported back.

The Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Union Locals, representing 12,500 workers that went on strike Nov. 3, scheduled a 1 p.m. MST news conference Monday in Phoenix to announce the nationwide vote on the latest company proposal.

Greyhound is serving only 500 of the 14,000 locations it usually serves across the country.

Officials said the average passenger load on Thanksgiving was 25 and on Wednesday 29, slightly higher than in 1982. While total ridership was down somewhat from last year, the buses that did operate were in the highest traffic areas.

"The only barometer of comparison we have is how many passengers per busload," said Greyhound spokeswoman Linda Klein, who said no figures on actual ticket sales were available.

"Holiday travel was for the most part calm and orderly across the country," she said. "Our buses were departing on time and we were very pleased with the traffic."

Jury indicts Larry Flynt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) -- Sex magazine publisher Larry Flynt was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges of desecrating an American flag and illegally wearing a Purple Heart.

The indictment stems from an appearance the Hustler magazine publisher made in U.S. District Court Nov. 17 in which he showed up wearing an American flag as a diaper.

Seated in his gold wheel chair, he also wore a Purple Heart military decoration pinned to a bulletproof vest. Flynt has been a paraplegic since a 1978 shooting incident when he was appearing at an obscenity trial in Georgia.

Flynt had come to court to pay a daily $10,000 fine ordered by U.S. District Judge Robert Takasugi for refusing to reveal the source of an audio tape in which he claims auto maker John De Louer is threatened by FBI agents when he tries to back out of a $24 million cocaine deal.

The evening that Flynt was supposed to be counting the fine, which he had presented in the form of crumpled one dollar bills, federal agents found him asleep on the floor of an office in the court building.

He was still wearing the flag. After a brief scuffle, the agents arrested him and wanted several of Flynt's personal bodyguards. He was charged with desecrating the flag and prosecutors demanded he hand it over as evidence.

Professionals hold up bank

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) -- Two "very professional" male robbers stole $270,000 from a First Interstate Bank branch Friday and held the bank manager and his family hostage in their home overnight.

A bank spokesman said the branch lost a total of $270,000.

"It was a well-planned and well-executed bank robbery," said FBI agent Steve Chenoweth.

The bank manager, Jack Roulier, 40, his wife, Joan, and their children, Brooke, 3, and Brent, 6, were taken prisoner by two armed men wearing wigs and gloves Thursday night when they returned to their home from a Thanksgiving Day dinner.

Early Friday morning at 5:30 a.m., the robbers drove Rouliers to the bank branch and waited inside until six other employees to arrive. After opening the vault, the robbers escaped in Roulier's car.

"They were very professional," said John J. Hinchcliff, special agent-in-charge of the Phoenix FBI office.

A third robber was apparently involved with whom the two who abducted the Rouliers made contact via two-way radio, Hinchcliff said.

The Arizona Bankers Association offered its standard $5,000 reward for information leading to the capture and conviction of the robbers.

What's what

Old Germany's Otto von Bismarck instituted the system of early retirement, later to be copied worldwide. At age 73, ousted in accordance with his bright idea, he wished he'd never done it.

It was only in the most recent decade that a Rhode Island legislator proposed that a $2 tax be levied in that state on every act of physical romance.

In 1908, a patent medicine sold well under the name of "Dr. Miles Compound Extract of Tamarind." It was ketchup.

HEAD FIRST

If you helmet your head, then run as fast as you can, head foremost, into a wall, you'll execute that football maneuver known as "spearing." Doesn't sound any too sensible, does it? Still, players do it all the time. It permanently paralyzes more athletes than any other act in sports.

The medical profession in the United States has a large communications problem. Physicians trained here don't write legibly. Physicians trained elsewhere don't speak clearly. What can we do about this crisis, Doc?

If today's front page carried a story about the kidnapping of 1,000 children - to be imprisoned into slavery - you and I'd be horrified. But that sort of thing has happened. A lot. In the early 17th century, youngsters were kidnapped all the time in Europe, and sold into indentured servitude in America.

ANNIVERSARY

When two people get divorced, then remarry, they should celebrate their wedding anniversary from the date of the original marriage. So say numerous experts in social etiquette.

Q. Who was the original "Typhoid Mary"? A. Mary Mallon, a New York kitchen worker. A sanitary engineer found she'd been on the scene where seven typhoid epidemics had started. She was apprehended in 1907, held for three years, then released. In 1915, another typhoid epidemic broke out in a hospital where she worked. Officers picked her up as she was making a snack for a friend. This time, she was quarantined for life - 23 years - until she died in 1938. She never accepted medical treatment. She got it, sort of. But she never accepted it.

All sea snakes are poisonous.

Eastern bloc backs Soviet arms plan

By RUTH GRUBER
United Press International

VIENNA, Austria — Soviet allies Friday endorsed Moscow's decision to break off Geneva arms talks and deploy new nuclear missiles as negotiable but necessary steps forced by NATO's moves to install new U.S. missiles in West Europe.

East German leader Erich Honecker said in a speech to the ruling Communist Party the country supported the Soviet moves but he added, "Naturally these measures, that are unavoidable if the strategic military superiority of the USA is to be prevented, will be no cause for celebration in our country."

East Germany is one of two east European nations slated to receive Soviet missiles.

Official statements from all of Moscow's Warsaw Pact partners except Romania backed Wednesday's walkout from the Geneva talks and retaliatory measures announced Thursday by Soviet President Yuri Andropov.

Romania, a foreign policy maverick in the East bloc, has called for non-deployment of new Soviet missiles as well as NATO missiles and destruction of existing missiles on both sides. Andropov said the Soviets would deploy new missiles in Czechoslovakia and East Germany and sea-based missiles aimed at the United States. He vowed not to return to the negotiating table until all American nuclear weapons were gone from Europe.

The Soviet leader's statement came a day after the Soviets broke off negotiations on limiting medium-range nuclear weapons in response to NATO moves to begin deploying 572 U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Western Europe.

Poland's Communist Party daily Trybuna Ludu said, "It is a tragedy of mankind that men lacking imagination are leading the capitalist camp, men who... do not know or have long forgotten the tragedy of war. Men who naively believe that missiles fly in one direction only -- away from them."

Party daily Nepszabadsag said, "The decision of the Soviet party that under the given circumstances it is obliged to suspend the Geneva talks on Euromissiles, can be regarded as nothing else but a step forced by necessity."

The official Bulgarian news agency BTA said the Soviet measures were "absolutely necessary and fully justified" and called the breakup of the arms talks "a logical and unavoidable result of the position of the United States, which made these negotiations useless."

Thursday night, the Czechoslovak Communist Party's central committee backed the decision to have Soviet tactical nuclear missiles in the country.

Hu: China still encourages foreign investment

TOKYO (UPI) — Chinese Communist Party Chief Hu Yaobang, in the first address to the Japanese parliament by the leader of a communist country, said Peking will continue to welcome foreign investment in its drive to modernize its economy.

"Let me take this opportunity to make clear that the open-door policy pursued by China is an important, strategic policy -- the result of careful consideration," Hu declared. "This policy will not change."

Hu, general secretary of the Communist Party, also told the Diet that outside interests in China are not threatened by the nation's "spiritual pollution" campaign.

Seeking to calm fears that business may suffer from the highly publicized effort to eradicate "western decadence," he reiterated that China will continue to welcome foreign trade and tourism.

Hu, on the third day of an 8-day official visit, is the second foreign leader within a month to address the Diet. President Reagan spoke to the body during his visit two weeks ago.

Outlining Chinese foreign policy, Hu reiterated its opposition to "hegemony" and stressed a desire for closer ties with the Third World.

Observers say "hegemony" usually is a derogatory reference to the Soviet Union but Hu did not mention the Soviets in his 30-minute speech. He also reiterated China's goal of regaining Taiwan and Hong Kong.

Nicaragua prepared to withdraw Cuban troops

By United Press International

Nicaragua offered Friday to send home an estimated 2,000 Cuban advisers if El Salvador and Honduras persuaded the United States to withdraw its military advisers and "occupation troops."

The proposal was the latest in a series of conciliatory moves made by the Marxist Sandinista government to meet criticism that it was an outlaw state in Central America and endangered its neighbors. Last weekend, Nicaraguan officials said some 1,200 Cubans teachers and technicians would return home.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said, "We understand that about 1,000 Cuban teachers are leaving Nicaragua temporarily for their annual end-of-year break in Cuba. We have no information to suggest that the Cuban military or civilian presence in Nicaragua has been reduced permanently."

On Wednesday, the regime said it would announce a date for elections Dec. 4, meeting a key proposal of the Contadora Group of Mexico, Panama, Venezuela and Colombia. The coalition was formed to seek peace in the region. Nicaraguan officials also have met with opposition church, business and political leaders in recent weeks.

Arms race boosts do!

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar soared to record levels in Europe Friday as investors -- worried about the suspension of nuclear arms talks and unrest in the Middle East -- placed their money in what they saw as a stronger, safer currency.

Financial dealers said the dollar reached a new high, approached record levels in Frankfurt and London. In money markets in major European centers, the dollar continued the increase in strength evident since the beginning of the year.

Mafia raided by police

ROME (UPI) — More than 1,000 police used helicopters and trained dogs to swoop down on the homes and hangouts of a Sicily-based drug-smuggling ring Friday in major cities all over Italy.

The raid, which started in the early morning hours, climaxed a year-long investigation into the activities of a Mafia gang based in Catania, Sicily and known as the "Ferra family."

While dealing mainly in drug smuggling, the ring also ran cigarette smuggling operations, illicit gambling dens and prostitution rings and was one of the most widespread Mafia rings yet uncovered in Italy, police said.

The gang had several ships engaged in the traffic of hashish from the Middle East, opium from the Far East and cocaine from South America.

In the swoop, finance police searched hundreds of homes in Catania, Rome, Milan and Naples, seizing seized scores of rifles, shotguns and documents relating to the gang's activities.

By late Friday police reported arresting 22 people including one of the gang bosses Antonio "Little Horse" Ferra, in Catania. Police also said they arrested Patricia Montecillos Hagler, 25, described by police as a South American woman of German origin.

Interrogation of the arrested suspects concentrated on methods used by the gang to "recycle" the millions of dollars earned by the drug-traffic and other activities.

Simultaneously police raided two other Mafia gangs in the areas of Salerno and Gioia Tauro, a seaside resort in Calabria, seizing weapons, documents and arresting several suspects in scores of homes.

In Salerno the target was the New Organized-Camorra-gang-headed-by jailed boss Raffaele Cutolo and police acted on the basis of 176 arrest warrants issued by the local state attorney. In Gioia Tauro, where the local Mafia organization is known as the "Ndrangheta", 31 arrest warrants were issued.

Terrorists set bomb near patrol

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Suspected IRA terrorists detonated a bomb as a British army patrol passed, wounding 12 people in the second bombing in Ulster in 36 hours, police said Friday.

A man was also found shot dead in a flareup in violence which came as Britain attempted to salvage the Northern Ireland Assembly, the bedrock of British political strategy in Ulster.

Suspected Irish Republican Army guerrillas ambushed a security patrol on a Belfast street Thursday night, injuring 12, including four soldiers and two policemen.

A woman, an 18-month-old baby girl and four other passers-by were among the injured in the bomb attack, which blew a hole in a stone wall and hurled deadly chunks of masonry across the street.

Early Thursday, a police reservist and his brother survived when a booby-trap exploded in their car near Londonderry.

Police said a man found shot dead in Lurgan, 20 miles southwest of Belfast, was a 51-year-old Catholic father of three who they believe was killed by a Protestant-murder-gang.

Soviet KGB breaks group

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI) — Soviet KGB secret police have infiltrated the dissident Latvian independence Movement and uncovered some of its leading members, a Latvian exile group said Friday.

Juulis Kudelis, director of the information office of the World Federation of Free Latvians, called the infiltration a "severe blow" to the movement whose followers monitor the Helsinki human rights accords in Soviet Latvia.

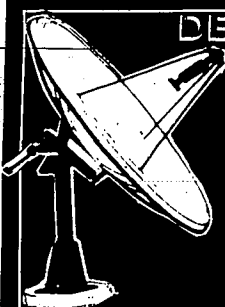

"It appears from the charges laid against two members of the movement that connections to rank and file members have been uncovered," said Kudelis in a phone call from his office in Muenster, West Germany.

The trial against Janis Veveris, 29, and Janis Roskalns, 34 began in the Riga supreme court last Monday and is scheduled to end Dec. 5. A verdict is expected four days later.

The defendants, both devout Baptists, are charged with anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda and face maximum sentences of seven years, hard labor and five years internal exile, Kudelis said.

Hearings slated on railroad depot closures

By The Times-News and United Press International

BOISE—Decisions on proposals to remove rail freight agents from Jerome, Buhl and Shoshone will be delayed by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, in order to consolidate the hearings on individual office closures into comprehensive regional hearings.

The commission wants the Union Pacific and Burlington-Northern railroads to submit at one time all of their applications for terminal closures in the state, Dana Howard, a spokeswoman for the commission, said Friday.

The proposed Magic Valley closures are part of a nearly two-year effort by Union Pacific to streamline shipping and billing operations, Howard said.

The railroad hopes to replace in-person company representatives in some rural communities with toll-free telephone connections to regional service centers, she said.

The commission has agreed to reconsider its decision to allow closure of the Union Pacific depot in Montpelier. That decision, made Oct. 13, prompted protest from the southern Idaho town, as well as from the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, the Greater Bear Lake Chamber of Commerce and the chairman of the Bear Lake County commission, Howard said.

The commission also has decided to rehear the case involving the closure of the rail station at Arco. The commission earlier had approved a request to allow closure of that city's depot.

The commission also is considering a request to close the Aberdeen station. Since March 1982, Union Pacific has been allowed to replace on-site agency services with phone lines at Victor, Driggs, Tetonla, Horseshoe Bend, Rigby, Ririe, Menan, Meridian, Malad, Downey, McCammon, Arco and Sugar City.

In many cases, the commission has required the railroad to close on-site agency services for a one-year trial period before final approval has been granted.

Howard said the primary questions that will be addressed in the consolidated hearings will be: Where would the railroads' central offices be located? And how do local shippers and receivers feel about losing personal service? The commission already has heard some

Magic Valley responses to the latter question.

L.J. Robertson, the president of the Gooding Seed Co., expressed skepticism to the commission. In a letter about the proposed Shoshone closure, that small shippers would receive better service as a result of telephone dispatching and trouble-shooting.

Tony Bozzuto, the owner of Bozzuto Furniture in Shoshone, wrote the commission that telephone service for train users would not protect the interests of shippers and receivers as well as a railroad agent who is also a resident of the community.

The Niccum's soon will be moving to the Virgin Islands and probably will not miss the cold winter winds of southern Idaho

Chills aside, family ready for tropics

By PEGGY CRANDAL
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — While we are thinking of a white Christmas with sleigh bells, frosty breaths and snow, Jean and Chris Niccum and their 4-year-old son, Matthew, are dreaming of spending Christmas in the tropics.

Chris and Jean are a couple on the move, and next Friday, they will set out for an adventure that sounds like a dream come true. Mr. Niccum, who has been the grounds maintenance supervisor for the past four years at the College of Southern Idaho, saw an ad in a trade magazine for a similar position at the posh Rockefeller-owned resort at Little Dix Bay, near Spanishtown on Virgin Gorda, in the British Virgin Islands. He applied, and a month later, he and his wife were in a Fifth District Court office in Twin Falls inquiring about passports.

Mr. Niccum will begin work on Dec. 12 on this remote, little island, 90 miles east of Puerto Rico, which is one of several in a chain that is eight miles long and 11 miles wide. It has few roads and none of them good, so most of the travel on the islands is done by boat.

The couple will live in a two-bedroom house — furnished by the resort — which has lots of windows from which the Niccum's will be able to view the natural growth of the tropics.

This lush, green environment will be Mr. Niccum's responsibility, with the help of a native crew.

The island population is 90 percent native, who speak a mixture of English, German, Dutch, Jamaican and French. The Niccum's, who just have returned from a visit to their new home, say the natives are friendly and anxious to please the few foreigners who have brought some of the outside world to their small one.

Lawrence Rockefeller purchased land on the island some years ago and later, being concerned about the conservation of the native setting, donated part of it back to the British Virgin Islands for use as a national park.

Rockefeller built many of the roads and began building the resort in 1961. The project, designed as a casual retreat for the very wealthy, was finished in 1964. There are no telephones in the luxurious rooms, but there is one at the main desk of the hotel.

The main building is surrounded by a number of individual cottages, all but hidden in the natural tropical growth.

Matthew will be able to watch television via cable from a more commercialized island. He will go to school, along with about 12 other students, in a two-room facility owned and maintained by the resort, but privately operated by two retired teachers. As for the usual childhood mishaps, the management staffs a clinic, with a doctor and nurse in attendance.

Mr. Niccum, who has a degree in horticulture from Purdue University, says he always had wanted to live and work in the tropics. He admits that his job and lifestyle there will be vastly different than it was here in Idaho, but he feels the family "will be able to live with it for five years" and who knows, perhaps forever.

Mrs. Niccum also is anticipating drastic changes.

"For one thing, I'll be able to stay home. I have worked most of my married life. Now, I can stay home and do some of the things I have always wanted to do, but have never had the time nor opportunity."

The couple is looking forward to buying a boat, exploring the many waterways and islands, and snorkeling and swimming in the 75-degree-year-round waters of the bay.

"I'm not much of a swimmer now, but I certainly intend to learn," she says, excitedly.

As a housewife and mother, there will be a number of changes. One thing, cows' milk is scarce, but there are goats "roaming everywhere," and Jean expects to use a lot of goat

BID members elect officers

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Downtown professionals and business owners have elected two full members and two alternates to the board of directors of the Twin Falls Business Improvement District.

Alan Horner, a loan officer at Twin Falls Bank and Trust, and Judy Baxter, the owner of Judy's Books, will each serve full three-year terms on the seven-member board.

Earl Faulkner of The Paris and Paul Fee of Jensen's Jewelers have been selected as first and second alternates, respectively. All four terms will begin Jan. 1.

The results of the election were announced earlier this week by Chris Valence, the coordinator of the BID.

She says 44 out of the approximately 200 businesses that pay regular assessments to the BID participated in the voting, returning ballots contained in the BID November newsletter. There was one write-in vote.

This was the first BID board election ever, Valence says. All present board members were appointed by the Twin Falls City Council, as part of the formation of the BID last year. The original members drew straws to determine which of them would have to run for full terms in each of three successive years, Valence says. Horner and Faulkner were the incumbents this year.

EARL FAULKNER
Re-elected, but new job

Early next year, the new board will select a chairman. Craig Smith of the Bon now serves in that role.

Other members of the board are Bob Farratt, Bob Crowley, Dave Cooper and Joe Goodrich.

Driver obeys too well

TWIN FALLS — Daniel Carter Killinger evidently took the "drive-through" sign at The Shake Out restaurant literally, early Friday morning.

According to a Twin Falls police report, Killinger, 23, of Twin Falls, was eastbound on Kimberly Road when he lost control of his car. He hit the back left side of a truck driven by Patrick Dixon Moore, 43, of Wells, Nev., who was also eastbound on Kimberly Road.

Killinger's vehicle then continued off the road and bounced off a steel sign post in front of the restaurant. The car finally stopped, but not before crashing sideways through the front of the building.

"We've got the front plugged up, and we're open for business. But it's not pretty," said restaurant owner Roy Miller.

When police called him to The Shake Out, he found a large plate glass window shattered and the front wall caved in, he said. But he had the hole patched with plywood and insulation in time to open for lunch, he said.

Replacing the front of the building, and the steel picnic tables that were twisted like pretzels will cost $10,000, according to the police report.

The damage to Killinger's vehicle has been estimated at $2,750, and the damage to Moore's truck was put at about $450.

Killinger has been cited for reckless driving, having no insurance and driving with a suspended license.

Tax bills in the mail

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County taxpayers should have received their tax notices from the county earlier this week.

County Treasurer Juanita Stetler mailed some 33,000 real and personal property tax bills Monday.

Most county residents should have received them in time for Thanksgiving.

The first installment on real property and mobile-home taxes must be paid by Dec. 20. All personal property taxes, such as those on business property, merchandise and farm equipment, also must be paid by that day.

The second installment of real property taxes must be paid by Jan. 20.

Stetler says the penalty for delinquent taxes is 12 percent interest, plus a 2 percent fine. Being unaware of taxes owed is no excuse for failing to pay them, according to state law, she says.

Every year, people come to the treasurer's office claiming ignorance of their taxes, and they argue they should be excused from penalties on those grounds, she says.

To avoid this problem, she says, anybody who owns property, and has not received a notice by Monday should call her office.

Real property taxes for many people will be paid by the loan company holding title to their property, and the tax notices have been sent to those companies, Stetler says.

Stetler says the county will attempt to collect about $12.624 million from property owners this year. About $11.630 million of this total comes from taxes on real property, $860,000 from personal property and $134,000 from mobile homes.

If trends hold, 68 percent of this amount should have been collected near the Dec. 20 deadline, she says. By June 30, the county should have received 95 percent of the taxes it owed, she says.

The county collects property taxes for itself and a variety of local government units. These include cities, school districts and other special taxing districts.

UNICEF drives to help world's needy

By selling cards, new calendars

TWIN FALLS — The weekend after Thanksgiving, it's difficult for most of us to remember how our bellies feel when they are empty — much less to try and imagine a hunger that is never fully satisfied.

Yet, for much of the world's population — particularly the young — hunger is an all-too-constant companion.

According to United Nations statistics, more than 100 million children in the world suffer from chronic malnutrition, which saps their physical vitality and stunts their mental development. Most of these children only rarely, if ever, have known the delights of feasting on holiday dishes of poultry, vegetables and pies.

Helping these children to live more rewarding lives is the goal of UNICEF, a United Nations aid program that this week begins its Magic Valley Christmas fund-raising drive.

Judy's Bookstore in downtown Twin Falls will be the focal point of this fund-raising effort, offering nearly 20 UNICEF greeting cards and two calendars for sale.

The cards range from a colorful, wintry scene of ice skaters to the white silhouettes of the three wise men traveling across the desert with gifts for a newborn infant in Jerusalem.

Some of the messages are non-sectarian, simply wishing "Season's Greetings." Others offer more religious salutations for both Christmas and Chanukah.

Christmas cards also can be ordered — direct, along with card catalogs, by calling 1-800-226-1666.

The money raised for UNICEF by the card sales goes to help fund the agency's aid programs in 102 countries. During the past two decades, these programs have focused primarily on alleviating malnutrition, disease and illiteracy. But in recent years, they have been broadened to attack what a UNICEF brochure describes as "the root problems of poverty and underdevelopment."

This playful scene of skaters is just one of the greeting cards

"Forms of aid such as milk or medicine — valuable and humanitarian though they are — cannot bring permanent benefits to children," the brochure states. "The only way to ensure a better, longer-lasting quality of life is for the developing countries to 'build up' their own permanent health, nutrition, education and social-welfare services."

Accidents result in filing of two lawsuits

TWIN FALLS — Two lawsuits related to injuries from auto accidents were filed this week in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

Chalmers and Connie Strunk — The couple are seeking $72,000 in damages and medical expenses from another Burley couple, Merlin and Janie Smalley in connection with a Sept. 3 accident.

According to the complaint, which was filed Tuesday, Mrs. Strunk was driving in Burley, when her car collided with a vehicle driven by the Smalleys' son. The younger Smalley was negligent, causing the accident, which resulted in arm, neck and shoulder injuries to Mrs. Strunk, the complaint states.

In the other suit, Gale and Edith Peterson of Route 5, Twin Falls, are suing Russell Bartlett and his unidentified son for an accident that took place in August 1982.

According to the complaint, filed Monday, Mrs. Peterson suffered whiplash to the neck and other injuries when she collided with a vehicle at the Singing Bridge.

The Petersons are requesting $23,000 for medical expenses and other damages, including loss of work.

Women's history meeting moves

SUN VALLEY — The Women's West Conference, which held its first meeting in Blaine County earlier this year, will move to Park City, Utah, for 1984.

The conference, which is co-sponsored by the Institute of the American West at Sun Valley and the Coalition for Western Women's History, will be held in a different location each year for wider exposure and participation, an institute spokesperson says.

The Park City conference will be held July 11-14. It will focus on the theme of whether the Western experience was, or is, a liberating force in women's lives, says the program's coordinator, Marcia Jones. The program also will include presentations by classroom teachers showing how to incorporate Western women's history into primary, secondary and post-secondary programs, Jones says.

The conference program committee is seeking proposals from persons who want to participate on those two topics, she says.

Also, the committee is seeking proposals on media presentations on Western women's history that would be useful in the classroom and those related to the conference's primary theme.

Jones says the conference sponsors are urging primary, secondary and post-secondary teachers of Western women's history to submit proposals.

Scholars also are urged to submit research on aspects of Western women's history related to the theme. These could include such topics as work, politics, sexuality, literature, the arts, economics, religion, class order, the family or cultural heritage.

Proposals must be submitted by Feb. 1. Each submission should include four copies of a two-page summary of the proposal, four copies of the presenter's resume and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

More information and proposal submissions can be made through: Marcia Jones, Institute of the American West, Box 656, Sun Valley, 83353.

Twin Falls man is arraigned for battery

TWIN FALLS — A 57-year-old man who has been accused of wounding a man with a knife early Thursday morning appeared Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court on a charge of aggravated battery, a felony.

Candelario H. Duran Sr. of Twin Falls was arrested at the axis of 303 Second Ave. W. in Twin Falls, after the manager called the police about an altercation over a noisy party, according to Lt. Garry Corde of the Twin Falls Police Department.

Witness claimed that Duran had slashed Shane C. Atwood across the throat. Atwood, no age available, was treated at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and released.

Both men were residents of the Oasis Apartments.

Duran is being held in the Twin County Jail, in lieu of $10,000 bond.

The services of a public defender were granted to Duran during Friday's arraignment, with the stipulation that he repay the county.

Burley man charged with pointing a gun

BURLEY — Etheridge A. Carter was arrested early Thursday morning for allegedly drawing a handgun on two motorists near the Burley golf course, according to a Burley police officer.

From his car, the 64-year-old Carter of Rupert waved a gun at an under-stuffed Burley couple while they were stopped at an intersection at 2:35 a.m., according to the officer. The couple drove away, but before noting Carter's license-plate number, which they later reported to police.

Carter was arrested later in downtown Burley.

There were no injuries.

Police searched Carter's vehicle and found a loaded .357 magnum in the front seat, the officer said.

Carter has been charged with aggravated assault and concealing a weapon. He was released on $1,000 bond.

It is unknown why Carter allegedly pointed the gun at the couple.

Area men serve on UI board

PICABO — Bud Purdy of Picabo was elected vice president of the University of Idaho Foundation at the annual meeting of the board of directors.

Another area resident, James E. West of Bellevue, was elected to the board for a three-year term.

The board of directors increased its membership from 10 to 15 at the last meeting. It includes representatives from all over Idaho, Purdy says.

The board of the foundation also heard a report on its consolidated investment trust.

A spokesman for A.G. Becker Inc. of San Francisco said the foundation's trust performed in the top 1 percent of all similar trusts in the last 10 years.

The foundation had assets of more than $8 million at the end of the last fiscal year, he said.

The foundation receives and invests funds donated to the university.

Bus transportation offered to students for Christmas trip

TWIN FALLS — Area students attending the University of Idaho can leave the driving to the school for the trip home to the Magic Valley this Christmas break.

The annual Christmas bus will leave the Wallace Residence Halls on campus at 7 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 17, and arrive in Twin Falls about 4:30 p.m. On the return trip, the bus will leave Twin Falls about 10 a.m. on Jan. 8.

Round-trip tickets will sell for $74 this year. They are available at the Student Union Information desk in campus. Reservations must be made by Dec. 9.

Only 10 seats are left on the bus, says a spokesman for the project. But if enough demand is shown, another will be chartered from Sun Valley Stages.

The price of the ticket covers only the cost of chartering a bus, so no one-way tickets are sold for fear of ending up with empty seats, for one trip, says the spokesman. But students can usually sell the ticket for the trip they do not want to another student, she says.

Students riding the bus will be traveling light — only one suitcase, a carry-on bag and a pillow are allowed per student because of space and weight limitations.

The exact time of departure from Twin Falls and where parents can meet the bus will be announced early next month by Sun Valley Stage Lines.

Settlement set for Teton Dam disaster

By MARK SHENEFELT
United Press International

BOISE — Settling one of the few remaining damage-claim disputes arising from the Teton Dam disaster, a judge has directed the federal government to pay a building materials distributor nearly $1 million for losses caused by the 1976 flood.

Intermountain Block and Pipe Corp., Rexburg, will receive $977,432 from the Interior Department under an order signed by U.S. District Judge Marion Callister, court and department officials said Friday.

The award is nearly four times as large as the payment recommended in May 1981 by the department's Office of Hearings and Appeals, which heard testimony from government representatives who disputed the amount of damages claimed by the company; court records showed.

Callister's amended judgment order — signed this week in Boise — apparently ends one of the six claim cases still open 7½ years after the disaster struck eastern Idaho, officials said.

Flood victims filed 7,884 relief claims under the Teton Dam Disaster Act, which was passed by Congress a few months after the just-completed structure collapsed on June 5, 1976.

The torrent that washed through the Teton River valley killed 10 people and caused an estimated $400 million in damages, according to government officials.

In the 7,878 claims completely processed so far, about $320 million has been paid to corporate and individual flood victims, said Jill Lawrence, a Bureau of Reclamation claims officer at Boise.

She said the five still-pending claims are in various stages of appeal. None of the many appealed claims has been taken past the federal circuit-court level, officials said.

According to court records, Intermountain Block and Pipe originally requested compensation of about $1,577,306.

After a lengthy review and appeal process, the Interior hearing panel agreed in 1981 to pay the firm $257,200, but the company appealed the decision to federal district court.

In February 1982, Callister ordered the government to pay the company $1,046,900.

JUDGE CALVIN GOULD
Promoted from state bench

New federal judge seeking change

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Utah's new federal magistrate, Second District Judge Calvin Gould, said Friday he is looking forward to his move to the federal court, where he will deal with more complex cases than federal law.

Gould, a 13-year veteran on the Second District Court bench, was named the new U.S. Magistrate for Federal Judge Aldon Anderson.

The presiding Second Judicial District judge said he thinks he will be able to relieve the federal judges of much of their administrative decisions.

"At the same time, I'll be trying a lot of the same cases they try," he said.

His greatest challenge in the new job, he said, will be learning federal law.

"There are many things that result in criminal violations under federal law that we don't deal with in the state system and vice versa," Gould said.

"As U.S. Magistrate, I'll be dealing with cases that involve civil rights claims and prisoner release claims such as habeas corpus and things like that," Gould said. "I'll be able to try any of the cases the federal judges try with the consent of the parties. The statute allows that."

He also said he will be involved in administrative and scheduling work for the federal courts.

"The magistrate has a strong role in moving the discovery process along in civil cases to see that depositions are taken and pretrial conferences are done and the case moved on to trial."

The Idaho native said the caseload in the federal system is different than that in the state courts.

"They don't have as many cases by case number as state judges have, but their cases are more complicated. They generally involve multiple parties," he said.

80 housing grants filed after Idaho earthquake

ARCÓ (UPI) — The Federal Emergency Management Agency says about 80 applications for temporary housing grants were received this week from central Idaho earthquake victims.

FEMA spokesman Mike Sweeney said Friday most of the people applying for aid need repair work on fireplaces and chimneys that were damaged in the tremor that struck much of the West Oct. 28.

Sweeney said the grant money is available to repair fireplaces and chimneys because federal guidelines provide money to make damaged homes habitable.

He said many residents will be eligible for grants because, with colder winter weather approaching, they need their wood stoves for heating.

Sweeney said officials had processed 60 applications by Wednesday night and about 20 more Friday.

He said Custer County residents who have applied for assistance would be notified if they are eligible for a grant within two or three days after submitting an application.

Pupils counsel pupils

DEER PARK, Wash. (UPI) — Educators in the Deer Park School District in northern Spokane County are pleased so far with the success of a new counseling program involving students helping students.

Called "natural helpers," the program uses students identified as having leadership qualities to help other students faced with such problems as drug and alcohol abuse.

Deer Park Junior High Principal Darrell Cain said the natural helpers fill a void now existing within schools.

"To expect kids to be leaders and we do very little teaching them that," Cain said.

The goal of the program is to enhance self-image and foster a sense of caring among students, staff and parents.

"Towards that end, school administrators identify students in different social groups within the school setting and provide them with a small amount of training as counselors."

"We try not to give them too much advice or preach to them," said Robin Petrik, the student body president at Deer Park Junior High and a natural helper.

She said she is taught to refer students with significant problems to others better equipped to deal with them.

Crime down among young

BOISE (UPI) — The number of juvenile crime cases taken to courts in Idaho has declined by nearly 2,000 in the past three years, Health and Welfare Department officials say.

John Shuler, a social services coordinator for the department's Bureau of Social Services, said the reduction means caseworkers can spend more time with those juveniles who need help.

"We're reviewing and screening our cases to make sure juveniles are placed in the least restrictive settings consistent with their needs and the protection of society," said Shuler.

"We're focusing more and more on community services, on community residential programs, and on diverting first and minor offenders into less formal counseling and restitution programs," he said.

In 1979-80, courts reported 7,830 Youth Rehabilitation Act filings in Idaho. In 1982-83, the period covered by the latest report, the courts reported 5,914 cases. The department directly supervised 934 juveniles during the most recent period, spokesmen said.

Of the juveniles referred to the department in 1982-83, 21.5 percent were charged with petty larceny and 16.6 percent with burglary.

Darkness hits state prison

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho State Prison inmates spent a dark Thanksgiving night because of a power outage at the facility near Boise, Warden Darrol Gardner said.

Gardner said Friday the power went out about 6 p.m. Thursday, knocking out all but the perimeter lighting at the prison.

There were no security problems due to the loss of lights in the cellblocks because all inmates were in their cells when the electricity went out, Gardner said.

Power was partially restored by midnight — and the entire prison had electricity by 3 a.m. Friday.

Gardner said the electricity was restored by three emergency generators shipped to the prison.

He said the outage was caused by damage to the prison's electrical system from a lightning storm earlier this month.

St. Edward's Catholic will hold revival services

TWIN FALLS — A mission to revitalize faith, the anointing of the elderly and a special meeting for the young are some of the scheduled activities this week at St. Edward's Catholic Church, as part of its commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The events begin today with an evening vigil service and continue until Dec. 2, according to the Rev. Father Perry Dodds, the pastor of St. Edward's, located at 152 Sixth Ave. E. in Twin Falls.

An Advent mission will be held during the week, featuring the Rev. Vincent J. Sampietro, a member of the Paulist order from Portland.

The mission is in the nature of a retreat for Catholics, a time of spiritual renewal, Dodds says. Besides question-and-answer periods following the services, Sampietro will be available for individual visits.

In addition, the sermons of the visiting priest will be heavily oriented toward the basics, that is, toward doctrine, Dodds says.

"The aim is to revitalize and to renew the strength of the people," Dodds says. "The mission is regarded as an outreach to those who have become very lukewarm and careless with respect to their faith."

Sampietro has conducted missions of this kind throughout the country for more than 30 years. In fact, the order of priests to which he belongs was created largely for this type of work, Dodds says.

As part of the observance, Sampietro will visit with high school-age students on Wednesday at 5 p.m.

An anointing of the sick and elderly of the parish will be held on Thursday during the 12:10 p.m. service.

During the week, services will be held daily at 8 a.m., 12:10 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

REV. V.J. SAMPETRO
Will lead revival services

The Advent mission and renewal program at St. Edward's response to the call by Pope John Paul II to observe the Holy Year of Redemption, which is a year recognizing the anniversary of the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The holy year will continue until Easter of 1984, Dodds says.

Leaders dislike 'non-sexist' Bible translation

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI religion writer

The National Council of Churches' effort to provide an experimental series of Bible readings using non-sexist language is getting a harsh reception from many church leaders.

Bishop David Preus of the American Lutheran Church is the latest ranking church official to join the attacks on the "Inclusive Language Lectionary," which was prepared by a committee appointed by the church council's Division of Education and Ministry.

A lectionary is a cycle of Bible readings—usually—used by ministers, which include the major texts of the Old and New Testaments are read during public worship.

In recent years, Christian feminists have argued that the male bias of most English-language translations of the Bible tends to marginalize them and diminish their worship experience.

To counter that, the National Council of Churches authorized its Education and Ministry Division to prepare a lectionary that would attempt to minimize the male bias where possible and to use more "inclusive" language.

It changes language dealing with God, Jesus and people, translating as of God; for example, as "child of God."

The project has been under attack since it was first announced two years ago, first by conservatives, who charged the lectionary committee was tampering with the Bible, and more recently, by more militant church leaders who do not like the results.

Preus, whose denomination is not a member of the National Council, said in a letter to all the clergy in his church that he will ask the ALC Church Council to adopt a resolution urging congregations not to use the lectionary.

"While the ALC is not an NCC member and has not been a participant in the lectionary work, many of us were hopeful that a reworking of the texts would provide a useful congregational resource," Preus said.

"I am deeply disappointed in the results," he said.

Bishop James Crumley of the Lutheran Church in America, which is a member of the council and which did participate in the preparation of the lectionary, has also advised his congregations not to use the experimental book.

"The overwhelming opinion is that this translation does not meet the goals of inclusive language in a proper way because it is often inaccurate and sometimes written in a poor and inadequate linguistic style," Crumley said.

At the council's recent governing board meeting in Hartford, Conn., delegates from the nine Orthodox churches in the 31-church body sought to have the board disassociate itself from the lectionary—an action the board refused to take, noting that the lectionary is "prepared for experimental and voluntary use in the churches."

Preus said his chief difficulty with the lectionary, "is that the revised texts have many mistranslations. They are paraphrases. Inclusiveness sits in judgment on the biblical texts and the result is an unfaithful translation." He did not cite any examples.

Holmes pummels young Frazier

By RICH TOSCHES
United Press International

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — If it wasn't so brutal, Larry Holmes' beating of Mike Frazier Friday night would almost have been humorous.

As he stood Frazier in the corner, Holmes alternated between pounding his right fist through the side of the challenger's head and waving the referee in to stop the one-sided fight. He would land a right to the jaw, wave in the referee, and then land another powerful punch.

"I didn't want to hurt him," said Holmes, who retained his World Boxing Council heavyweight title by stopping Frazier with three seconds remaining in the first round.

"He was hurt bad and I didn't want to hurt him any more. I called the ref to stop it four or five times before he came in. Marvis was taking an awful lot of punishment."

Holmes said he had predicted a lopsided fight.

"I said before that Marvis was billing off more than he could chew," the champion said of Frazier, who had only 10 pro fights. "Fighters like that are made for me. He stood right there in front of me. Those guys are so easy to beat, I could miss him."

Frazier appeared to be in good shape 30 minutes after the fight when he and his father, former heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, spoke to reporters.

"I was a little tight and before I knew it I got caught with a good punch," Frazier said. "Larry is a great champion. He caught me with a real good shot. He hurt me, but I'm still here. He got me this time, but maybe there will be another time."

Joe Frazier, who watched from a distance of only three feet as his son was hammered in his own corner, said that he was not going to stop the fight. The challenger was dressed in the same green-and-gold-embroidered knee-length trunks and robe that his father wore in the first Frazier-Muhammad Ali fight in 1971.

"I'm not the kind to throw in the towel," the elder Frazier said. "I've been there. When he went down, I knew how he felt because I have been down there."

The bout was not sanctioned by the WBC, but the organization said it would have stripped Holmes of his title had he lost. If Frazier had won, he would not have been recognized as the champion by the WBC.

The two stood in the middle of the ring at the opening bell but two minutes into the round Holmes flicked his left jab into Frazier's face and then landed a stunning overhand right to the side of his head. Frazier collapsed, staggering backwards and falling awkwardly.

He got up at the count of eight but was obviously in deep trouble and Holmes wasted little time in finishing off the overmatched Frazier. Holmes battered the challenger into Frazier's corner. The champion raked Frazier with nine consecutive rights to the jaw, sending Frazier's mouthpiece into the seats.

As Holmes stood Frazier up with his left hand and punched away with his right, Holmes motioned frantically to referee Mills Lane to move in and stop the fight. Seconds later Lane did.

As the fight was halted, Frazier's father rushed in and propped his 23-year-old son up against the ropes. The ending also shocked the 4,500 fans in the Caesars Palace sports pavilion, some of whom had paid $300 to watch the brief battle. The fight was nationally televised by NBC.

For Holmes, 34, it was his 17th title defense and 45th victory without a defeat as a pro. It was also his 32nd knockout. He won the title in 1978 with a grueling victory over Ken Norton but in his last three defenses the champion had turned in lackluster performances.

"I'm in the prime of my life," Holmes said. "The kid ain't ready and I'm glad I didn't hurt him. The kid has a long way to go. Nobody can do anything with me right now. My weight is right, my condition is right. I don't have to run from anyone. I'm gonna sit back and let everything come. This was just business tonight. I won a good fight. I don't wanna hurt anybody."

It was Frazier's first loss as a pro and only the second in his career, which included a 51-1 amateur record. Holmes weighed in at 219 pounds while Frazier weighed 200 and was the lightest man to fight a heavyweight champion in several years.

Hartenstine soldiers on in football lore

By KEVIN LAMB
Chicago Sun-Times

CHICAGO — Mike Hartenstine has the soft-spoken manner of a grade-school teacher. He is a homely guy who enjoys nothing more than taking children fishing or to a movie or on a picnic. He probably has more devoted friends among his teammates than any other Bear player.

None of which makes quite so strong an impression as one glance at the defensive end with a Viking beard, a 48-inch chest, a 34-inch waist and cartoon-character muscles that no dog could twist a loaded barrel like a bone.

Joe Paterno was Hartenstine's coach at Penn State 10 years ago. When former Bear safety Doug Plank was at the same function with Paterno a few years back, he says one of the first things Paterno asked was, "How's Mike Hartenstine doing?"

The next thing Paterno said, Plank says, was, "Boy, is he scary looking. I'd never want to meet that man in a dark alley."

Doug Williams, the former Tampa Bay quarterback, was relatively new to the league when he put his finger in Hartenstine's face after a play. The sight horrified Jim Osborne, Hartenstine's linemen who said, "I went up to Williams and told him, 'Hey, that's one guy you don't mess with.'"

Hartenstine's first defensive line coach with the Bears was Bran Ecklund, who went about 6-5 and at least 250 pounds. During one training camp, Ecklund mentioned Hartenstine could afford to lose a few pounds. Then he smiled and said, "But who's going to tell him?"

"I've never noticed that anybody's afraid of me," Hartenstine says. "I don't see why they should be."

"He's one of the best people I've ever known," says linebacker Dan Hampton. "He would never turn his back on anybody."

"He's one of the gentlest people I know," says Herb Rudoy, Hartenstine's agent. "I've never ended a conversation with him where he hasn't said, 'You take care of yourself.' Most people use that as a throwaway line. It's something Mike really means."

Hartenstine does not do anything halfway, whether it be as father, friend or defensive end.

His picture could be in the dictionary under team player. "We ask him to do a lot of things in our defense," coordinator Buddy Ryan says, "and he always answers the call." Hartenstine has not missed a game in nine Bear seasons. He has hardly missed an assignment—He would walk on his elbows if the game plan called for it.

Instead, the Bears ask him to cover halfbacks on pass routes and rush the passer from left side, where a tight end is usually available for double-team blocking. "It's like a pinball machine, getting bounced around by the tight end and tackle," Hartenstine says, by way of describing, not complaining. Still, he leads team in sacks, although he'd have to pay close attention to notice it.

"I never was a real flashy player," says Hartenstine, who is a relatively small defensive end at 6-3 and 243 pounds. "Some players have so much God-given ability. I've had to really work—lifting weights, running hills—just to hang in there. I don't think I'm really built to make spectacular plays."

There are other people out there with more ability than me, but if I hang in and play consistently, I'm still helping the team while other people make spectacular plays. If I'm jumping around and trying to make big plays while I don't have the ability, I'm going to hurt the team."

In a phrase, Hartenstine doesn't try to do what he can't do. He does what he has to do. It's that simple.

It doesn't dawn on him that his Mr. Hyde personality becomes Dr. Jekyll on the field because he considers it so obvious that different behavior is appropriate between and outside the white lines.

"I just try to play the game," Hartenstine says. "I pride myself on being around the ball. Then if I don't make the tackle, I'm still there if the ball comes loose."

So if Hartenstine appears wild on the field, it is because he can't be around the ball, can't do his job, by being passive. He isn't making a scene, forging an intimidating image. He doesn't even work himself into a frenzy in the minutes before a game, as so many players do. "I just review my assignments," he says.

Hartenstine doesn't lift weights to impress people, either. His muscles don't impress Hartenstine any more than a bank teller would impress him by knowing how to count. "He's not impressed with being a pro football player," says Rudoy, who has learned to keep that information to himself when introducing Hartenstine.

"Mike loves to play football," Rudoy says. "He loves the workouts. He loves all the things that go along with it."

"I kind of have to enjoy lifting," Hartenstine says. "I enjoy it because I want to be in shape. I enjoy trying to get stronger. I enjoy the feeling I have when I'm done lifting."

"My body is basically my job. If I keep my body working well, I'll have a better time of keeping my job and doing my job well."

Hartenstine learned that in his first two seasons, when he played with two separated shoulders and a serious foot problem. His weight work had slackened off in college, but he decided to resume it as protection against injury. For Hartenstine, an injury has never raised the question of whether he would play, just how much it would hurt to play.

"You couldn't make Mike rest," says coach Mike Ditka, who marvels weekly at Hartenstine's performance in spite of foot and leg problems for several weeks. "It's hard to believe how well Mike's playing," Ditka says. "He just goes out there every Sunday and plays well and doesn't say a thing."

"Playing hurt is just part of the game," Hartenstine says. "A lot of people get hurt. But this is my job. They give you six months off, and when you're here six months, you're expected to do certain things."

He does what he has to do. If it hurts, well, he knew going in that football hurts sometimes.

"Durability is probably more important than athletic ability," Ryan says. "If you've got a guy you know will be there 16 games a year, you've got something. You can count on him. You know he'll be there and he won't make a mistake. You don't have to worry about him."

UCLA wallops Idaho State

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Junior forward Gary Malonson scored 10 points and senior forward Kenny Fields added 14 as UCLA's defending Pac-10 champion Bruins opened their non-conference season Friday night with an 85-58 victory over Idaho State.

Senior Buck Chavez was the top scorer for the Bengals with 14, followed by Nelson Peterson with 13. UCLA freshman guard Monte Hatcher scored 12 points, 10 in the second half.

UCLA outscored the Bengals 42-19 in the first 5:16 for a 16-4 lead. The Bruins led 29-9 and cruised to a 34-21 halftime lead.

The Bruins pulled out to 53-29 seven minutes into the second half and the closest Idaho State came after that was 61-45.

The Bruins, who went 23-4 last season, play host to Long Beach State Saturday night at Pauley Pavilion.

Steve Crump

the first five rounds of next spring's NFL draft.

But Peterson has been more valuable to ISU as a presence than a passer. Machurek was cocky, even aloof. Peterson is hard on no one but his hands.

"Basically my philosophy is to be aggressive," says Peterson, who will lead the Bengals into tonight's first-round NCAA Division I-AA play against Big Sky Conference champion Nevada-Reno. "I have a tendency to be too aggressive, but I think I've matured. The key to the success of the kind of passing game we have is to be patient. But when you're a young quarterback with a strong arm, you don't do some of the things you should."

One Big Sky coach compares Peterson's personality to that of Los Angeles Raiders' quarterback Jim Plunkett. Plunkett consistently is one of the worst percentage passers in the NFL, but he's the quarterback most coaches would like to have down by three touchdowns with five minutes to play.

It was just such a performance—rallying from a 24-7 deficit against Idaho on Sept. 24 to win 41-31—that sparked the Bengals' success, he says.

"It was just a question of having to do some serious soul-searching," says Peterson. "How did I want to win?"

Pretty badly, as it turned out. Peterson threw three touchdown passes in four minutes during a furious fourth quarter rally in the Bengals' 44-37 loss to Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo Oct. 22, and had similar first half performances during ISU's 42-10 rout of Fullerton State and his 38-32 victory over Weber State.

"Basically, it's a question of confidence," he says. "We know we're capable of scoring an awful lot of points in a short period of time if we work hard."

But Peterson worked a little too hard in ISU's 37-16 loss to Nevada-Reno in Reno on Oct. 1, throwing 74 passes. He completed 36 of them—a single-season Big Sky record—and he completed six more to Wolf Pack defenders.

"The key to this game is turnover ratio," says Peterson. "If we can stay out of the position where we have to throw, we can win. I think if we can keep my attempts down to about 40 and establish our running game, we should be in good shape."

Peterson was sacked seven times in the earlier game—last year he led Big Sky quarterbacks in tackles for loss—but he's confident that his offensive line has finally matured.

"Our offensive line is playing so much better now," he says. "Really, that's been the key to our success offensively this year. I expect Reno to blitz a little more this time than they did last time, but I think there are things we can do to keep the number of sacks down."

The other key to this game, Peterson says, is ball control. Reno kept the ball for more than 35 minutes in the earlier game, and turnovers stifled ISU's short-pass, ball-control offense.

"This is definitely a big game for me," he says. "The fact that I threw six interceptions last time, I don't think they think I'm a very good quarterback. I'd like to show them that I am."

Peterson is aware that ISU's success—or lack of success—in the playoffs will be a big factor in how he is considered by the pros. But he says he tries to not think about it.

"There isn't much I can do about it except the best I can," he says. "If I get drafted, fine. If I don't, I'll start looking for a coaching job."

For ISU's Peterson, the best game may be the last one POCAHELLO — Two years ago, Paul Peterson came to Idaho State as a sequel: Mike Machurek II.

Peterson had followed Machurek as the quarterback at San Diego's Madison High School, then at San Diego City College. Not a little ironically, when Machurek graduated to the Detroit Lions of the NFL, Peterson graduated to Idaho State.

Two years and 5,293 yards later, the record is mixed: Peterson doesn't have Machurek's dazzling statistics—except for passing yardage—and at times he has struggled; ISU was 14-6 after two regular seasons of Machurek, 11-11 after two years of Peterson.

But after a 3-8 season a year ago, the Bengals are in the playoffs. And despite throwing 35 interceptions in two years and completing just a shade under 50 percent of the 878 passes he has attempted at ISU, Peterson may be a better professional prospect than Machurek was. Boise State head Coach Lyle Stenich predicts he'll be taken in ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Joe Klein and Alvin Robinson combined for 35 points to lead the No. 10 Arkansas Razorbacks to a 62-61 victory over the Fordham Rams in a tight first-round game of the Great Alaska Shootout Friday.

The Razorbacks' victory in the third game of the Shootout followed earlier wins by North Carolina State over the University of Alaska-Anchorage, 68-60, and Santa Clara over New Mexico, 54-50.

There were 18 ties in the game before the Razorbacks built a 6-point lead with 54 seconds left in the game. The Rams fought back within a basket, 61-59, with 13 seconds to go, but Ricky Norton hit a free throw with five seconds remaining to ice the game for Arkansas.

Klein, a 6-foot-11, 250-pound center, scored 18 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Robinson added 17 for Arkansas, which out-rebounded the smaller Rams 30-16.

Arizona 72

N. Arizona 65

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Junior center Pete Williams pumped in 31 points to pace Arizona to a 72-65 win over Northern Arizona in a non-conference game Friday night.

The Wildcats jumped to an early lead, but NAU went on to tie 12-11 midway through the first half on forward Andy Hurd's jump shot to the corner.

The Lumberjacks stretched it to a four-point lead until Wildcat guard

Ken Ensor, coming off the bench, tied it at 18-18 with just under seven minutes left in the half.

The Lumberjacks took the early second-half lead on hot shooting by Hurd and forward David Allen. However, the Wildcats tied it up three times before pulling ahead 40-38 on a Brock Brundkrug jumper with 16:45 to play.

The Wildcats, who shot 59 percent from the floor in the second half, eventually expanded the lead to 10 points and held on for the win.

For NAU, Allen hit for 21 points while junior guard LaVonne Davis came off the bench for 14.

Georgia 83

M. Tennessee 67

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (UPI) — Vern Fleming scored 22 points in a second-half rally, leading the No. 15 Georgia Bulldogs into the finals of the National Kentucky Classic, an 83-67 victory over Middle Tennessee Friday night.

The Bulldogs will meet host Western Kentucky tonight.

Fleming finished with 24 points in the game in which the score was tied 15 times and the lead changed on 16 other occasions.

The Bulldogs led Middle Tennessee 54-53 eight minutes into the second half. A burst of 13 unanswered points gave them a margin the Blue Raiders could not overcome.

Other double figure scorers for Georgia were James Banks with 22 and Gerald Crosby with 16. For Middle Tennessee, LaRue Davis and Doug Lipscomb each hit 18.

Michigan St. 73

C. Michigan 52

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Sophomore forward Skiles drilled in 14 points while freshman guard Darryl Johnson and junior guard Vincent added 13 each Friday night to power 13th-ranked Michigan State to a 73-52 victory over Central Michigan University 73-52 in the fourth annual Spartan Outback Classic.

The Spartans will face Western Michigan in the tournament, title game Saturday night. In an earlier game, Western defeated Fairfield 72-63.

Junior forward Larry Polec added 10 points for Michigan's State.

Guard James Mitchell was the lone CMU player in double figures, finishing with 16.

Illinois 99

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — Bruce Douglas led a balanced scoring attack with 15 points and Illinois reeled off 22 straight points early in the second half to post a 99-65 victory Friday night over Utah in the Tribune Classic.

The best Illini will meet Loyola of Chicago, a 61-52 winner over Kansas State in the earlier contest, in Saturday night's championship contest.

Illinois, avenging a 52-49 loss to Utah in the first round of the NCAA tournament one year ago, limited the Utahs to just one basket over a stretch of nearly 12 minutes midway through the game.

Illinois led 42-37 following a basket by Utah's Scott Hill with two minutes left in the first half. Illinois stretched the margin to 50-40 at halftime behind Douglas' nine points and 10 points by reserve Scott Meents, who wound up with 14.

A basket by Angelo Robinson, who scored 10 for Utah, made the score 56-44 with 16:13 left in the game before Illinois scored 22 unanswered points to break the game open 78-44 with 10:34 remaining.

Utah finally ended the drought when Tim McLaughlin, who scored 14 points, hit a basket with 10:08 left in the contest.

St. John's 73

Sierra 40

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two free throws each by Ed Becton and Mike Trivisono lifted Canisius to a 62-61 overtime victory over Rhode Island and a berth in the Lapchick Tournament final against 20th-ranked St. John's Friday night.

St. John's easily defeated Sierra 73-40 in the opening game of the tournament to qualify for the final Saturday.

St. John's, last year's ECAC titleholder, ran off a 21-4 spurt in the first half and led 32-11 at the half. The Redmen were paced by Chris Mullin with 21 points and Bill Wennington with 10.

For Siena, Art Tooles had 12 and Kevin Brown 10.

Memphis St. 88

Tennessee St. 60

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — All-America forward Keith Lee dropped in 26 points and grabbed seven rebounds as sixth-ranked Memphis State swept past Tennessee State 88-60 in the nightcap of the Mid-South Classic Friday night.

Curtis Green poured through 33 points and James Williams hit 36-foot bucket at the buzzer to lead Southern Mississippi to a 63-61 win over North Texas State in the opener at the Mid-South Coliseum.

Tennessee State, 6-1, plays Southern Mississippi, 1-0, and Memphis State, 1-0, tonight with North Texas, 0-1, Saturday.

Ronnie Cage hit 25 points for Tennessee State and Jose Crisp led Memphis State with 20.

Tennessee State kept up with the bigger and stronger Tigers in the first half and trailed by only 33-29 at halftime, although Lee scored 19 first-half points.

Memphis State, however, gave the crowd of 10,969 something to cheer about after the break, quickly pulling away from their cross-state rivals.

Memphis State pulled its starters halfway through the first period after running up a 19-point lead.

College of Idaho 79

Montana Tech 75

CALDWELL, (UPI) — Joe Ford

Roy Callier clinched the win for Co I by tossing in two free throws with 10 seconds left, giving the home team a 77-74 lead.

The victory boosted the Coyotes to 3-0 on the season as Montana Tech suffered its first loss after opening the season with four victories.

NW Nazarene 98

Lewis-Clark 64

NAMPA (UPI) — Rob Richardson fueled a 17-4 game-opening spurt and finished with 18 points to pace Northwest Nazarene College to a 98-64 basketball win over Lewis-Clark State.

Richardson scored six points in the early burst, powering the Crusaders on to a 45-25 halftime lead in the homecoming contest.

Dan Tristan and Rick Young each scored 12 points for Northwest Nazarene, which was playing its first game of the season.

Lewis-Clark, which failed to score a basket for nearly 10 minutes at the start of the game and gave up 35 turnovers in the contest, was led by Dave Piper with 12 points.

The loss dropped the Warriors to 4-2 on the season.

Reno-ISU: key matchups

Joe Cooney

vs. Paul Peterson

Last time Reno and ISU got together, ILB Cooney hit ISU QB Peterson for three interceptions, one for a touchdown. Cooney, who also a great pass rusher, is particularly effective against ball-control passing games -- he picked Idaho QB Ken Hobart twice -- because he has great range and can read offenses well. Peterson will try to make him just as effective with playaction and with ISU's new found running game. An early indication of how this matchup is going will be how often ISU runs the ball, and with what success. And if the Bengals get behind by more than a touchdown, Cooney could be deadly on Peterson.

Derek Kennard

vs. Bob Otto

ISU's strong-side defensive tackle Otto has 11 tackles for loss this year, and a surprising number of them have come on running plays. Otto is tall (6-foot-5) and quick, so he's tough to trap and dangerous on sweeps. But across the line tonight will be the Boss Hogg, 270-pound Derek Kennard. Kennard and his mates don't allow many defensive linemen to get their fingerprints on running backs Otto Kelly and Anthony Corley because they create such great line surge. But since the UNR guards will be busy double-teaming ISU noseguard Steve Anderson, Kennard will be taking on Otto one-on-one for much of the evening. It's a classic case of strength and bulk vs. quickness, particularly on on-off-tackle slants that are the bread and butter of Reno's running game.

Otto Kelly

vs. Lem Galeai

In the Oct. 1, meeting between these two teams, TB Kelly rolled up 101 yards on the ground. That's too many if ISU is contain Reno's offense, and the man who must stop him is ILB Galeai. Galeai leads ISU in tackles with 113 and has 14 sacks, but much of the game will depend on what happens when he meets the 5-10, 200-pound Kelly two yards behind the line of scrimmage. If Kelly goes down there, ISU has a chance of grounding the Pack. The key statistic is yards-per-carry: Kelly averages 6 1/2 yards every time he touches the ball. You can't give up 6 1/2 yards a play and beat a good defensive team.

Flutie and friends snow No. 12 Alabama

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Like the postman, Boston College delivered Friday — through high wind, heavy rain, a little snow and even a power failure.

The Eagles closed their regular season at 5-2 with a 20-13 comeback victory over Alabama at Sullivan Stadium and immediately started hoping for better weather in Memphis, where they meet Notre Dame in the Liberty Bowl Dec. 28.

In their first meeting with Alabama since 1946, the Eagles converted two of five Crimson Tide turnovers into fourth-quarter touchdowns.

"The offense said to us, 'You get us the ball one more time and we'll score,'" said lineman Steve Lubisher, who recovered one of the fourth-quarter Crimson Tide fumbles.

"Our defense just doesn't get respect," Lubisher said. "We've shut down teams all year. I've never played in a game this cold and wet."

Alabama Coach Ray Perkins said the turnovers were too much for his team.

"We made too many mistakes and turned the ball over too many times to beat anybody," Perkins said.

The win, a minor upset, broke a three-game Alabama winning streak and gave BC a 2-1 series edge.

Alabama, 7-3 with a game to go against Auburn, will play in the Sun Bowl against SMU.

Alabama had taken a 13-6 lead in the third period on a 58-yard scoring run by linebacker Anthony Smiley with a blocked punt.

But Boston College, converting a pair of fumble recoveries, raced 35 yards on six plays for a touchdown on a 5-yard pass from Doug Flutie to Bob Bielek.

The Eagles lined up for a two-point conversion try but were called for illegal motion and settled for Bryan Waldron's game-tying conversion.

Lubisher recovered a fumble by the Crimson Tide's Ricky Moore moments later and the Eagles went ahead on four plays. Bielek scored from the 2 after a 15-yard Flutie to Bryan Brennan pass and a blitz-breaking 14-yard run by Jim Browne to set the scoring stage.

Defensive lineman Steve Lubisher recovered a fumble by the Crimson Tide's Ricky Moore moments later and the Eagles went ahead on four plays. Bielek, a senior fullback, scored from the 2 after a 15-yard Flutie to Brian Brennan pass and a blitz-breaking 14-yard run by Jim Browne.

Alabama, which was intercepted once and was incomplete twice on its three first-half passing tries, went to the air after falling behind. Three Walter Lewis passes fell incomplete and he was sacked once after reaching the BC 28 on the Tide's last serious scoring threat.

The power failure stemming from a transformer problem in Foxboro knocked out the lights and the regional telecast from the stadium for 35 minutes. Most of the third quarter was played in twilight conditions before the power was restored.

Boston College had fallen behind 6-0 in the first half on field goals of 20 and 28 yards by Alabama's Van Tiffin.

The Eagles came back for a 6-6 tie with 19 seconds left in the half on Steve Siracusa's 1-yard TD leap capping a 66-yard drive. The conversion kicked failed twice, the second time after a penalty.

Smiley's TD after Alabama blocked John Mihalik's punt put Alabama back in front with 4:20 left in the third period.

Stadium officials used plows with rubber blades to push water off the artificial turf after heavy rains had fallen for several hours, changing to brief wet snow in the third period before ending.

Yet another Army crumbles before Napoleon's onslaught

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Napoleon McCallum justifiably grabbed all the headlines in Navy's season, but Friday he handed one to Eric Wallace as the Midshipmen trounced Army 42-13.

"I just barely got the handoff to him," McCallum said, after he rushed for 182 yards and Wallace returned the opening kickoff 95 yards after a McCallum lateral.

In the 84th Army-Navy game and the first one played on the West Coast, Navy ended its season at 3-8. Army fell to 2-9.

"They came down so fast," Wallace said of Army's defense on the opening kickoff. "It messed up my timing but it ended up OK. When I regained my balance I saw daylight."

A crowd of 81,347 at the Rose Bowl saw the midshipmen take a 40-37 lead in the series. Army has not defeated Navy since 1977, managing only a 3-3 tie in 1981. Friday's game featured the most lopsided score in the rivalry since 1973, when Navy blanked Army 51-0.

"When we got three (touchdowns) in four minutes, there was a natural tendency to let down," Navy coach Gary Garuf said. "We tried to keep them (Navy) stirred up by saying it was still 0-0, but they are not dummies. They know the score."

Army coach Jim Young praised his opponent.

"Of course it was a disappointing season and it was obviously a disappointing first four minutes of this football game," he said. "But they deserve all the credit for taking the momentum and putting the game away."

McCallum, ranked first nationally in all-purpose running, carried 30 times and scored on a 14-yard run in the second quarter that gave Navy a 14-0 lead. He went over the 100-yard rushing mark for the eighth time this season — a Navy record.

Army could manage only two field goals from Craig Stopa and a 1-yard touchdown run by backup quarterback Bill Turner.

Navy put the game out of reach when quarterback Rick Williamson scored from the 2-yard line with 2:39 remaining in the game and another touchdown came with 1:42 left when Ron McDonald ran in from the 30.

Wallace took a lateral from McCallum on the opening kickoff and raced 95 yards unchained down the left sideline for the first ever opening kickoff returned in the Army-Navy game. It was also the longest kickoff return in Navy history.

Army continued its shaky play on its first possession. Quarterback Rob Healy fumbled the first play from scrimmage, but he recovered the ball. Two plays later, tailback Ellen Atkins fumbled and Navy linebacker Andy Ponselle recovered on the Army 14. McCallum made a quick cut to his right on the midshipmen's third play and rambled in for a 14-0 lead 2:30 into the game.

Healy's pass on Army's next drive was picked off by safety Steve Brady and returned 65 yards for a touchdown 87 seconds later. It was the first interception return by a Navy player since 1975.

Navy was on the march again, moving from the Army 46, but Williamson's pass — intended for split end Greg Blanchard — was intercepted by free safety Gary Bastin in the end zone.

Navy mistakes allowed Army to get within 21-0 by halftime. Steve Young missed a 39-yard field goal 2:02 into the second quarter and McCallum fumbled on the midshipmen's next possession.

Stopa connected on a 42-yard field goal with 8:43 left and sophomore Turner marched the Army 63 yards for the 40-yard field goal at the quarter's end.

Williamson was 3 of 9 for 28 yards while Turner, who entered the game in the first quarter, was 16 of 34 for 172 yards.

Pair of late FGs lift 49ers over Utah State

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Jose Ocegueda kicked a pair of field goals in the final 68 seconds, including a 26-yarder with 18 seconds left, leading Cal State Long Beach to a 5-3 PCAA victory Friday over Utah State.

The Aggies took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on Willie Beecher's 38-yard field goal, but the 49ers lifted it when Ocegueda hit a school-record setting 55-yard effort with 1:08 left in the game.

The 49ers recovered a fumble on the first play from scrimmage on the Aggies' 15 and Ocegueda converted a 26-yard field goal with 18 seconds remaining for the winning point.

Long Beach State finished with a 3-3 conference record and 8-4 overall.

Utah State was 3-3 in the PCAA and 5-6 overall.

Quarterback Todd Dillon ended his college career at Long Beach State by completing 12 of 35 for only 87 yards.

The leading rusher in the game was Utah State's Marc White, who had 28 rushes for 126 yards.

"I'm in the prime of my life," Holmes said. "The kid ain't ready and I'm glad I didn't hurt him. The kid has a long way to go. Nobody can do anything with me right now. My ... it is right, my condition is right. I don't have to run from anyone. I'm gonna sit back and let everything come. This was just business tonight. I won a good fight. I don't wanna hurt anybody."

It was Frazier's first loss as a pro and only the second in his career, which included a 51-1 amateur record.

Holmes weighed in at 219 pounds while Frazier weighed 200 and was the lightest man to fight a heavyweight champion in several years.

"Marvis got hit early with a good shot and he didn't survive," Joe Frazier said. "It's as simple as that. Marvis should have been getting off his shots. Larry was wide open. Larry surprised me with the power in the right hand but what surprised me more was that Marvis didn't fire when he had the chance."

"The hooks were there, the right hands were there; he just never fired them."
