Reagan says 'Yes' to 4 more years

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Declaring, "Our work is not finished," President Reagan said in a paid political broadcast Sunday night that he will stand for re-election. At a Republican rally, activists broke out chanting "Four More Years."

"We are here to see that government continues to serve you — not the other way around," he said. "We are here to lift the weak, and to build the peace." He set no specific goals for a second term.

A review of Reagan's hits, misses — A6

Reagan, 72, confirmed that Vice President George Bush will again be his running mate in a campaign already well underway. His top aides predicted a close race.

There were no surprises in the four-minute announcement televised from the Oval Office at 10:55 p.m. EST. Several newspapers were on the street with the story even before the broadcast began.

The president flicked off a list of problems that he said faced the nation when he took office in 1981, and concluded, "Well, things have changed." Echoing his 1980 campaign theme, he said, "We made a new beginning."

The former actor and governor is making his fourth presidential campaign. Twice he did not win the GOP nomination; this time he is unopposed.

His decision came as 1,000 GOP officials gathered at the nearby Mayflower Hotel ballroom to cheer a candidate who is riding high in the polls and has already amassed a $4 million re-election war chest. "Tomorrow we have all got to go to work," campaign director Edward J. Rollins told the crowd.

What Reagan called "a difficult personal decision" came at the end of his remarks: "Vice President Bush and I would like to have your continued support and cooperation in completing what we began three years ago. I am therefore announcing that I am a candidate and will seek re-election."

He said, "Our work is not finished," he said. "We have more to do in creating jobs, achieving control over government spending, returning more autonomy to the states, keeping peace in a more settled world, and seeing

If we can't find room in our schools for God." Eighty men are seeking the Democratic nomination to oppose Reagan and the president was already on the attack.

In an interview with Newsweek magazine, Reagan took direct aim at former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, who leads the field of Democrats seeking to oppose him.

"Frankly, I think he has tried to be all things to all people, and I think he has made more promises than probably can possibly be kept... His promises, if all kept, would give us a budget that, as one of his opponents... See REAGAN on Page A2

Consolidation: Will it cost or save?

Repair costs sap schools

TWIN FALLS — "Times are hard. Beans are low." That is how Kimberly Superintendent George Powell describes the economy of his area these days.

But even in tough times, schools need maintenance and sometimes, replacement. Yet, not everyone thinks Kimberly can afford repair work without consolidation.

"I can't stand much more heat with property taxes," says Kimberly parent Max Osborne. "Look at the tax burdens we put on the little schools. They can't put out anymore money unless they do consolidation."

Osborne is not completely sold on consolidation — he is basically pleased with the quality of education his children have received at Kimberly.

But he and other residents of Kimberly and Hansen wonder if school districts like theirs can afford to build new schools when they're needed.

All three districts have aging buildings. Kimberly's junior high and Murtaugh's high school were built in 1916. Hansen High dates from the 1920s.

"It's tough to do more than survive the daily maintenance and upkeep," says Powell of the junior-high building. "It's uncomfortably hot on the... See COSTS on Page A3

Dividing funds troublesome

TWIN FALLS — Taxpayers in Idaho's larger school districts may wonder if the state can afford to keep small schools, but in the Magic Valley, taxpayers may wonder if they can afford not to.

Will consolidation save money? Or will it merely reshuffle the tax load, putting more on some districts than others? Should small schools benefit by having a greater proportion of their costs paid by the state rather than by their residents? These financial questions are part of the consolidation puzzle.

"Allotting extra money to small schools may encourage retention of unnecessary small schools," the League of Women Voters concluded in a 1983 study of the state's school-funding distribution formula.

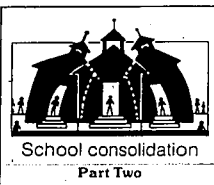

Idaho allocates money to school systems by attendance and tax base. Small schools receive more — on the basis that small classes cost as much to teach as large classes, yet small districts have less property to tax than large districts.

Not everyone thinks this is a fair system. "Dietrich is receiving nearly 90 percent of its operating budget from the state," consolidation supporter Arlyne Kisting of Dietrich told the Legislature's interim committee on consolidation at a public hearing last summer.

"This does not appear to be fair to the other Idaho taxpayers, who are bearing the unnecessary burden of supplying the financial support for a school which is not geographically isolated," Kisting said.

Small schools generally get more money per pupil from the state, and their residents pay less local taxes, according to the league's study. This is true despite the fact that smaller districts often have a higher than average tax base per pupil.

The result is that larger districts usually are closer to their taxing limits. To raise additional revenue, they often must resort to tax override levies.

The range of money spent per pupil varies widely in the Magic Valley.

Twin Falls was 112th of the 115 districts in Idaho in the amount of money spent per pupil in the 1982-83 school year — $1,740. Bliss spent almost twice as much per pupil, $3,306, but only 23 percent of the district's general fund came from its taxpayers. Eleven miles down the road, Gooding students were educated for $1,799 each.

The gap is also wide in eastern Twin Falls County, where consolidation is being considered. Kimberly spent $1,875 last year to educate each student, which was about 88 percent of what Hansen spent and 58 percent of what Murtaugh spent.

The Kimberly-Hansen-Murtaugh consolidation committee, found that if consolidation occurs, the new district would lose about $25,000 a year in state funds.

With figures like that to think about, even parents who want better education for their children are thinking twice about consolidation.

Pat Funk of Murtaugh, a member of the committee, says she originally supported the consolidation plan. "I thought anything would be better than Murtaugh," she says. But now she has doubts, partly because of the taxing procedures. Smoothing out those financial differences may be difficult.

The total market value — for tax purposes — of land and real property in the Murtaugh district, because of its geographic size, is higher than Hansen's, which has nearly 150 more students. And it is almost two-thirds the amount of Kimberly's, which has more than three times as many students as Murtaugh.

Murtaugh, therefore, taxes its property owners at the rate of only 0.3 percent of assessed value. Kimberly's tax rate is 0.51 percent; Hansen is slightly higher at 0.55 percent.

"I know dang well those taxes are going to go up if we consolidate," says Murtaugh school board Chairman Allen Cummins.

"We could take that same money and have a pretty super school right here," says Murtaugh High School Principal DeVon Anderson, who opposes consolidation. "As a taxpayer, I favor spending it here."

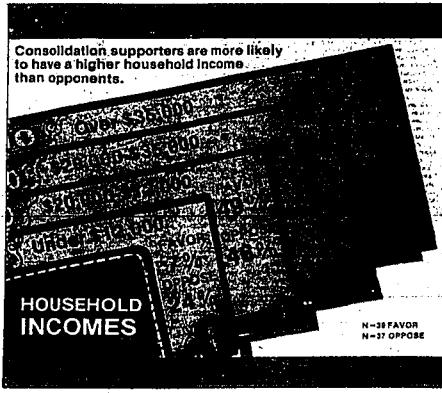

Murtaugh also will be free of bonded indebtedness by the end of this year. However, Hansen will have $30,000 to pay off, and Kimberly will have a $1.25 million debt load, for its high school and a grade-school expansion.

The inequities of the three districts' debts contributed to the defeat of consolidation in 1965, the last time it was considered.

"I fought it tooth and nail when it went up for a vote then," says Charles Johnson Sr. of Murtaugh. "Kimberly and Hansen were heavily indebted, and Murtaugh was in the clear."

But Johnson says he now supports consolidation because he thinks Murtaugh is getting too small.

If the schools consolidated, property in each of the districts would belong to the new one. But their separate debts might not. State law... See CONSOLIDATION on Page A3

Agency on shaky grounds

Own building appears jinxed

By R. GREGORY NOKES
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The State Department building, nerve center of the nation's far-flung diplomacy, is having serious maintenance problems. Clocks don't work, elevators and escalators break down and the spacious inner courtyard is littered with mounds of dirt and debris.

State officials decided last week to remove all of the 1,400 clocks in the massive eight-story, 23-year-old building and replace some of them with battery-operated ones.

That should make a lot of clock-watchers happy. So would other steps, such as:

- Finishing repairs in the main courtyard, which has been torn up for months to fix a leak in the underground garage.

- Fixing the leak in the garage. Sewage from rest rooms and rain spouts drips onto cars.

- Keeping the building's main escalator working. After not working for two months, the up escalator was fixed Friday.

- Completing work on the new incinerator so secretaries no longer have to transport hundreds of bags of discarded classified documents to the garage to have them trucked elsewhere.

- State Department employees also would like cleaner floors and bathrooms, hallway walls painted,...

Legislature picks up the pace

Slates tough issues

By The Associated Press

BOISE — Idaho lawmakers pick up the pace this week with a decision on the confirmation of the governor's former campaign manager as director of the Health and Welfare Department and action on that agency's request for a $2.1 million emergency appropriation.

In the House, Democrats are likely to be voted down in their effort to retain the Little Davis-Bacon Act requirements that public schools and colleges pay the prevailing wage for construction work.

And a bipartisan House-Senate committee, struggling to work out an acceptable legislative redistricting plan, has turned over its four alternatives to the party caucuses for their consideration.

Legislative leaders say they hope an agreement could be reached by mid-week to end the debate started when the state courts voided the 1982 apportionment plan because it included districts that cut across county lines.

But even if a plan agreed to by both political parties is worked out, Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise, said it is becoming more and more likely that the May 22 primary will have to be postponed until late summer because of the uncertainty created by the redistricting debate.

"I really don't think we can complete the legislative and legal process in enough time," said Risch, who... See LAWMAKERS on Page A2

Goldwater won't run in 1986
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Sunday he will not seek re-election when his fifth term expires in 1986.

Goldwater, when asked if he intended to run in 1986 during an interview on the Cable News Network's "Newtaker Sunday" program, answered, "Hell no."

The 75-year-old senator has been ill in recent years, suffering from a hip ailment and a prostate gland problem that required surgery last July.

First elected to the Senate in 1962, Goldwater was the 1964 Republican nominee for president. He lost in a landslide to President Lyndon Johnson.

Sheriff may be suing self ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — Howard County's sheriff is pursuing a sex discrimination complaint she filed before being elected, even though lawyers can't figure out if she is now the object of her own complaint.

Virginia L. Donnelly filed the complaint against the sheriff's office three years ago, claiming she was not considered for a job opening because she is a woman. The job was filled by a male deputy.

Inmates run extortion ring
 ROSHARON, Texas (AP) — A gang of Hispanic inmates has been running extortion, drug and male prostitution rings in Texas prisons, awarded grants to prisoners who get in its way, according to a copyright story published Sunday.

The so-called Texas Syndicate is protected by fear and a system of machismo that keeps those it touches quiet, law enforcement officials told the Houston Chronicle.

John Davis, a Brazoria County prosecutor who has tried syndicate members for crimes committed in prison, says there are other gangs organized along ethnic lines, such as the Aryan Brotherhood and other white, neo-Nazi and black organizations.

"But none [are] as rampant in the wantonness of the syndicate," Davis said.

Grants given for elderly care
 PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — A foundation has awarded grants totaling $16.35 million to 25 health care facilities across the nation to develop programs for keeping the elderly out of institutions, officials said Sunday.

David E. Rogers, president of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, said the hospitals awarded grants have demonstrated a willingness to substitute institutional medical care for the elderly with home nursing care and services in nutrition, transportation and home management. Each hospital will enroll at least 250 people with chronic health problems and coordinate care with their physicians, home health services, homemaker services, nutrition programs, day care programs and other services, officials said.

Snowstorm socks Midwest

By The Associated Press

A blustery snowstorm socked the upper Midwest with up to half a foot of snow Sunday and muscled toward the Northeast while chinook winds gusting to hurricane force rattled windows in the Rockies.

But there was a bright side to the weather report. Brush fires that destroyed a dozen expensive homes in California were flickering out with the calming down of hurricane-force Santa Ana winds.

And the 3,000 residents of the mountain town of Salmon, Idaho, got a break when temperatures dipped to 2 degrees, helping control the river flooding that has kept 350 people out of their homes since last week.

Jackson victim of bad timing

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — Blurry videotapes link the accident in which singer Jimmie Hoeflin suffered scalp burns during the filming of a commercial was caused when fireworks went off at the wrong time, his physician said Sunday.

Dr. Steven Hoeflin said he, Jackson and others reviewed the videotapes, used by camera operators to get up shot angles and not for the actual commercial, Saturday night.

Jackson's pomaded hair was set ablaze when fireworks went off nearby during the filming of a Pepsi-Cola commercial. The commercial was one of two to be shown during the televised Grammy Awards on Feb. 28.

Hoeflin said at a news conference that while the fireworks appeared to go off at the wrong time, he said there was no malfunction with the pyrotechnics themselves.

Jackson "was happy that he was not more severely injured," Hoeflin said. "His reaction was one of surprise and relief."

Hoeflin held the news conference across the street from Brozman Medical Center, where Jackson spent the night after Friday's accident at the Shrine Auditorium in downtown Los Angeles. The singer went home Saturday.

"Everyone was surprised that his whole head and clothes did not catch on fire," Hoeflin said in an interview before the news conference. "He is very fortunate not to have been burned more seriously."

In the Democratic contest said of him, "I think he's the deficit $40 billion."

Under Reagan, the deficit has skyrocketed to $180 billion.

Reagan said he expects a close race, adding, "As I've said so many times, I just take the advice of President Dewey — don't get overconfident."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., one of Reagan's most prominent Democratic critics, was quick to react.

"Ronald Reagan has been a divider, not a uniter," he said. "He has divided our country between rich and poor, between the hopeful and the hopeless, between the comfortable and the miserable. He has not been fair and the people know it."

"The American people will reject four more years of danger, four more years of pain."

In a statement given to her spokeswoman Saturday, first lady Nancy Reagan said: "It was a mutual decision. I support him fully. I'm very proud of him, and all he's accomplished in a very short space of time."

Mrs. Reagan's desires, and the president's age, were two of the chief reasons for speculation that the president might not seek a second term.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., one of those likely to have sought the GOP nomination if Reagan had not, said in a statement released by the White House: "He has clearly earned the right to finish the job he began over three years ago, and I pledge my wholehearted support."

Jimmy Carter, the president Reagan ousted from office in 1980, would not comment Sunday night, his office said in Georgia.

Reagan said that in the three years since he first spoke to the nation from the Oval Office, "We've faced many difficult problems, and I've come to feel a special bond of kinship with each one of you."

He said that three years ago, the nation's defense was weak, "we had suffered humiliation in Iran. And at working air-conditioning and broken ceiling and floor tiles replaced. Graffiti on walls in some of the 118 bathrooms.

One of those responsible for building maintenance, John Condayan, deputy assistant secretary of state for operations, acknowledged some of the building's problems.

"I'm not pleased with the appearance of the building," said Condayan, who has been in his job only a few weeks. "I want people to take pride in the building they are working in. If they see sloppy conditions on the newspaper and trash on the floor or if the sinks are stopped up, they will not have any incentive to do their part to keep things clean."

The electrical system is considered outdated. In May, a major electrical fire in 1982 that caused part of the building to be evacuated. Officials privately warn of the danger of a more serious fire. The air-conditioning system provided only half to two-thirds of the needed output during much of last summer.

The department is asking Congress for $46 million for a three-year maintenance program, primarily to modernize electrical and air-conditioning systems.

Maintenance is a problem in all the federal buildings in Washington. Responsibility for the buildings rests with the General Services Administration, but officials don't blame the GSA. They say budgets cuts over the years have reduced maintenance capability at a time when demands have grown.

But the State Department is in a special category. Scarcely a week passes that a visiting head of state or foreign minister doesn't pass through the diplomatic lobby to confer with Secretary of State George P. Shultz in his seventh floor suite. Usually the visiting official will pause in the lobby.

"This is our ministry of foreign affairs," said Condayan. "A lot of foreign visitors come through here, and we want to maintain the building as a showcase. We are doing the best we can."

Officials say the diplomatic lobby is cleaned before the visit of a high official, but nothing has been done to hide the view through the glass wall into the inner courtyard cluttered with piles of dirt, ice and cement.

An estimated 10,000 people pass daily through the building, which covers four square city blocks. After the Pentagon, it is the second largest federal office building. Roland Gahn, a top building management official, said there are just three plumbers for the department, which has 118 bathrooms. They are also responsible for other buildings in the neighborhood. Cleaning is handled by a private contractor.

One solution, officials say, would be for the State Department to resume responsibility for its own maintenance.

Today's weather

Mostly fair, but with some patchy fog

Twin Falls, Jerome-Gooding, Burley-Rosario areas

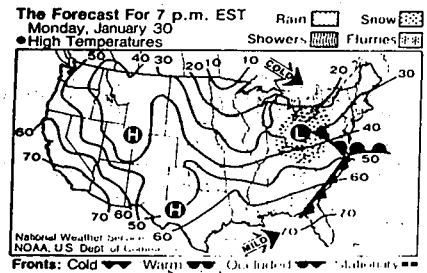

Today and Tuesday are expected to be fair, with easterly winds of 5 to 15 mph today. Patchy fog tonight and Tuesday also are forecast. Highs are expected to be 35 to 42; lows should be in the 15 to 22 range.

Cassia Prairie and the Lower Wood River Valley

The forecast is for sunny days and fair nights today and Tuesday, with fog in the valleys persisting into the afternoons. Highs in the 30s; lows in the 10s.

Northern Utah and Nevada

The forecast calls for areas of dense fog, mainly in the northern and central valleys. Fog is expected to widespread this morning. Otherwise, it should be fair to partly cloudy through Tuesday. The lows will range from 10 below in the valleys to the upper 20s; highs will be in the upper 20s to upper 40s.

In Nevada, occasional cloudiness is expected today, with continued dry and mild days through Tuesday. Lows will be around 10; highs will be in the mid-30s.

Synopsis:

Temperatures in Idaho on Sunday ranged from 22 at Malad to 42 at Lewiston, with most readings in northern Idaho in the 20s to low 30s. The National Weather Service reported. In northern Idaho, most readings were within the range of the mid 20s through the 40s. Winds were generally light.

Dense fog reduced visibilities to near zero in many southern and mountain valleys on Sunday morning. Pocatello, Boise, Mountain Home and Malad all reported visibilities of zero around dawn.

plans to introduce a bill setting the primary for Aug. 28.

Gov. John Evans, pushing for a redistricting agreement in time to take to the ballot in May, has indicated he would veto a rescheduling bill.

But Risch interpreted Evans as opposing only a permanent change in the primary date. The Senate leader's bill would shift the primary to August only for this election.

That change would, however, cancel any presidential primary balloting this year, forcing the political parties to seek national convention delegates at state party meetings.

Sen. David Little, R-Emmett, the co-chairman of the Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee, said the panel will likely approve emergency funding for the shift and the Department on Tuesday, sending it to the full House and Senate for final passage. But Little declined to speculate on whether the full $2.1 million will be authorized.

The agency has requested the money to make up for federal funds lost to the state for a variety of programs including a higher-than-permitted rate of erroneously issued welfare payments. County governments, who by law are responsible for indigent care, have warned that local treasuries will be hard pressed to make up the difference if the Legislature declines to provide the emergency funds.

"There's a lot of sentiment that someone made a mistake, but we can't rectify that," Little said. "We'll fund it. We can't leave those people hanging out there."

The attitude toward Senate confirmation of Rose Bowman as director of that agency, however, is less positive, though lawmakers on both sides expect approval.

"There are still some people who aren't satisfied with her qualifications so there will be some negative votes," said Risch, who expects the Senate State Affairs Committee to recommend confirmation early this week and a vote by the full Senate before week's end.

Mrs. Bowman, 46, was named to head the 2,400-employee agency, the state's largest, last May, succeeding Les Puro who resigned to go into private business.

Six months earlier, she was completely successful in getting and Gov. John Evans' re-election campaign manager. In 1972, she ran an unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate.

While she has been director of the state's main Office on Aging prior to her cabinet appointment, there were questions raised about her ability to manage the massive Health and Welfare Department.

Last week during confirmation hearing testimony, she was little indication of any staunch opposition to her continuing in that post.

 top floor and cold on the bottom. We need to redo the heating. But what if we spend $10,000 and then tear it down?"

In Murtaugh, parent Jerry Lee says, "The high school is flat getting worn out. They do their best to keep it up, but it's still rundown. They have the same lab setup they had 20 years ago when I was going to school."

In Hansen, the district had to pay an additional $300 for its liability insurance to cover accidents. Board members cite the building's age and condition as the reason for the additional $1.5 million in liability coverage.

Old school buildings are not unique to Kimberly, Hansen or Murtaugh. Castleford High School needs a new roof, but there is concern the new building would not support it. Two bond elections to build a new high school have failed in the last year.

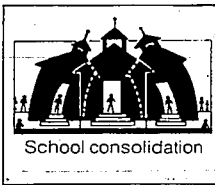

In Shoshone, blue sky can be seen through the center beam of the gym roof. The Billas school is 64 years old. The Dietrich school is 50 years old; it has never had any major structural remodeling.

But not everyone is crying doom. Murtaugh Principal DeVon Andersen says the high school looks better than it did 30 years ago when he applied for a job there and should last for many more years.

"It was one of the dingiest places I'd ever seen," he says. "Now, the coating is peeling off the gym, but we've been pretty good about improving the school — spent a lot of money."

That may be true, but it is not enough, says Brent Stastny, of the Kimberly-Hansen-Murtaugh consolidation committee.

"Both Hansen and Murtaugh have done cosmetic finishing with paneling," he says. "They can cover up the problems, but it will catch up with you even if we think the basic structure is sound — and we don't know if it is or not without an engineering study. Just look at what happened in Piler."

In 1981, Piler officials were surprised to see daylight leaking through the foundation of a part of the school that was built in 1918. An inspection revealed basement walls that "came apart with a spoon" and a badly sagging support beam, according to the superintendent at the time.

"That school was built in the same time frame, from the same materials. You can already see some deterioration in the Murtaugh school if you go into the gym," Stastny says.

"In some areas, the blocks the walls are made from are crumbling. On the outside, the concrete is deteriorating. And when it's wet, the floor buckles between the wall. When you step on it, mud oozes up on the floor."

Stastny summarized the buildings' conditions in a report: "None of the three buildings meet the 'life-safety' code (under guidelines provided by the State Department of Education), and it would not be financially feasible to bring them up to code."

All three need rewiring. None meet modern fire codes. They are not adequate for modern teaching equipment like overhead projectors, electric typewriters, computers and video recorders, Stastny says.

The committee has recommended that rather than each school district constructing a separate facility in the near future, they should pool their funds to build a modern high school.

Students from all three districts then would have adequate libraries, music rooms, art rooms, physical-education changing rooms, vo-tech facilities, agriculture-education facilities and science labs, Stastny says.

That is a good selling point for Kimberly and Hansen, he says. But Murtaugh has so few students, it could build its own new high school for less money than it would cost to pay for a share of the consolidated building.

"But to be able to expand their curriculum, they would need to be in a larger building," Stastny says. To him, that's at the bottom of the issue. Better buildings mean space for a better curriculum, he says.

"The new building is just a secondary benefit." House Speaker Tom Silvers, who represents eastern Twin Falls County, believes Murtaugh is an ideal candidate for consolidation. He cites the community's population trends.

Those changes have been dramatic. In 1967, one of Charles Johnson Sr.'s sons graduated from Murtaugh High School with about 30 other seniors, Johnson says. This year, the senior class has nine students.

"Rather than building a new schoolhouse there, they'd better be thinking about consolidation," Silvers says.

MX posing school woes

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Cheyenne could need a third high school to serve students who would be crowded at Central and East high schools because of the projected impact of the MX missile project, a school official says.

"We are at capacity at the junior and senior high school levels," Byron Barry, the superintendent of Laramie County School District No. 1 said. "Any additional student increase is going to impact the district."

Barry heads the educational subcommittee for a special task force set up in Cheyenne to prepare for the project's impact and spoke recently of its assessments.

Preliminary estimates on how many students would move into Cheyenne with the project vary, but a specific figure is expected this week when URS-Berger releases its study on MX project impact projections.

Barry said alternatives, such as double sessions or lengthening the school day, just wouldn't work.

"In order to build, we're going to have to have assistance," he said. "We know what we need and we'll see what happens."

Consolidation

 is unclear on this point, and the issue is being considered by the Legislature.

Participants in the Times-News poll generally were opposed to debt consolidation. Eighty-nine percent of the 46 persons who answered this question said, "Previous debts should not be consolidated."

While Kimberly has the largest debt, it also has the only modern high school.

The consolidation committee has recommended that students from all three districts would attend seventh and eighth grade in the present Kimberly High School, and a new, consolidated high school would be built.

"I don't think Kimberly will let others come in and use our facility for free when we are over a million dollars in debt," says former board member George T. Nauman.

However, it could be a point of compromise. Supporters may have to concede the merging of debts to gain consolidation, says Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl.

"They may have to say, 'Overall, the students in the combined district will get a better education. We're willing to pay off (the debt) because all will benefit.' It may be a point to compromise," Barker says.

State law limits the bonded indebtedness a school can carry. That would not be a problem for Murtaugh, which will have none, but it could present a problem for Kimberly.

If consolidation goes forward and Kimberly's present debt was not consolidated, the district would be limited to spending just over $2 million on its share of a new high school. If the school cost more than $5 million to build, the Kimberly district would have to ask its voters for permission to tax beyond the bonded indebtedness limit.

Members of the Kimberly-Hansen-Murtaugh consolidation committee say financing a new school building is feasible. The problem may be convincing voters that consolidation would not take too large a chunk out of their budgets.

The Times-News survey found that persons who oppose consolidation are more likely to have lower family incomes than those who support consolidation. Twenty-four percent of those who opposed consolidation in the survey had family incomes of $12,000 or less, compared to 7 percent of those in favor.

Still, more persons said they favor consolidation than oppose it. But the support of two-thirds of the survey's participants in Kimberly and Hansen, and 60 percent in Murtaugh may not be enough. Idaho law requires a two-thirds majority for passage of a bond issue.

Tomorrow: Should consolidation stop at the administrative level?

Talk was political

Just as Congress did, Americans will applaud most of the domestic themes in President Reagan's State of the Union message. Who can oppose his calls for fairer taxes, economic growth, attacks on wasteful spending, new opportunities for women, ending "barriers of bigotry," a safer environment and other shared values?

By accentuating the positive — and edging toward the political center in some areas — Reagan set the stage for Sunday, when he'll undoubtedly declare his candidacy for re-election. It was a solid political speech.

His major theme, "America is back," was upbeat, and it will make many Americans feel better. That's fine.

But themes aren't policies. And on too many issues that require tough decisions, the policies that Reagan outlined were unfortunately more vague than hopeful.

Red ink in the federal budget is a major example. Reagan was right to declare, "We must bring down the deficits" (that his policies created). Yet his solutions, such as closing "certain tax loopholes," gave no hope that significant reductions are in sight. He even downgraded his own commission that has documented wasteful spending by saying only that "we could examine the possibility" of savings based on the commission's work.

Many in Congress roared with laughter at his call for new tax proposals by December 1984 — a month after the election. But the need for new taxes isn't funny; another year's delay on action is foolish.

Reagan proposed an expensive manned space station, without offering evidence of its need. He talked of doing more for schools, but urged tuition tax credits for private schools that pose grave threats to public education. He endorsed school prayer and opposed choice on abortions, in an ironic appeal to conservatives who used to say, "You can't legislate morality."

There is reason to be optimistic about the state of the Union, as Reagan suggested. But there would be far more reason if he had taken a stronger leadership role and not decided to defer action on critical domestic issues.

On foreign policy, the president had too little to say, and what he did say was without new substance.

He declared, "The United States is safer, stronger and more secure in 1984 than before." Stronger, perhaps, but surely not safer. A small victory in Grenada did not make us so.

On Lebanon, Reagan has lost his bipartisan congressional consensus for the Marines' presence, and polls show that 56 percent of Americans are for a pullout. But the president was content merely to make the highly questionable judgment that "we are making progress there." He will have to come to grips with this issue before the election, or suffer the consequences at the polls.

Bridge needs maintenance

I would like to offer my congratulations to the state of Idaho, Department of Highways, for being "a day late and a dollar short" again, for doing a job 30 minutes late on the Perrine Bridge Wednesday morning, Jan. 25, concerning the eight-car accident at 7:10 a.m., at which time the accident started happening. A state trooper arrived to sand the bridge and approaches at approximately 7:30 a.m.

Peak traffic on the bridge starts about 6:45 a.m. from both directions. Why can't the state go to work before 7 a.m. and maintain such dangerous sections of the state highways?

I travel this section of road almost daily from 3 a.m. to 5 p.m. and have driven ski buses and large trucks steady for in excess of 10 years. I have called the Idaho State Police on different occasions and requested they contact the state highway Department for sanding. It looks to me like the state Highway Department would learn.

This bridge and approaches have been the scene of many accidents and many thousands of dollars in property damages, injuries and one life in November.

Some have been caused by excessive speed, but this could be greatly reduced if the state would go to work a little earlier and sand such dangerous sections of roads.

Fears kids won't get credit

Attention, all parents of school-age children. Are you ready to give up another right or privilege to a dictatorial way our schools are being run, where parents have no say on how it is run?

Concerning the new 90 percent attendance recommendation that will become an automatic back-door policy 1984. Most of our children fear not getting their credits because of an illness, or other excusable absences, over the allotted 18 days a year. The State Board of Education is using "holding back a credit as a blackmail weapon to enforce the 90 percent attendance. A parent should have the right to excuse their child whenever they see fit and not even have to go into the detail about why they excused them.

Thanks for shelter help

As many of you know, Magic Valley now has a shelter for victims of domestic violence. The board of directors of Volunteers Against Violence would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude for the many, many generous donations of time, money and materials to make this shelter function.

In particular, we would like to publicly thank the following: Magic Valley Electrical Supply and Snake River Valley Electrical Association for their time and donations on the emergency lights and smoke detectors; Don Scott, city electrical inspector, and Gary Eari, city fire inspector, for their "above-the-call-of-duty" efforts in helping us find a suitable shelter; and the many churches and service organizations that have helped, including the Magic Valley Medical Auxiliary, Junior Club, Christian Women's Fellowship, Valley Christian Church, First Methodist Church, Presbyterian Church, Salvation Army, South Central Community Action Agency.

Also, the following people: Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Nelson, Dorothy Geist, Russell Renk, Dr. Miles — Humphrey, Charlotte Green, Jane Loomis Watts, Bonny Gates, Lara Morgan Renk, Becky Jensen, Elaine Fenwick, Diane Connor Brown, Dana Mikeseil, Linda O'Neil, Cheryl Turcoy, Ron Goertzen, Joy Riedeman, Dale Atkinson, Tina Price, Thelma Martin, Kathy Hammond, Gloria Bryant Davies, Paula Hofffield, Al Miller, Rita Larom, Patt Dutt and Sid Dillon.

There are many more names to add to our list, but space does not allow for a complete listing of all the generous help we have received. We sincerely thank all of you for your support. Domestic violence is a continuing problem, and we will be looking forward to your continued generosity in supporting the Volunteers Against Violence shelter, which serves all of the Magic Valley.

President's union speech oozed happiness and apple pie

WASHINGTON — It was a glorious portrait of America that President Reagan painted in his State of the Union message this past Wednesday.

From his rosy, red cheeks to his rosy, red tie to his even rosier view of our nation and its people, the president was on a high. If he blew a word or a line, he corrected it gracefully and easily. You could almost feel the schmaltz, as he paid tribute to all that is good and great and noble in his listeners. Who doesn't like to be told how wonderful they are?

The joint session of Congress in the tightly guarded chamber of the House of Representatives responded with enthusiasm. Forty-two times in forty-three minutes he was interrupted by applause, not always led by the Republicans on his left.

When he said we had to reduce the deficit, the Democrats, laughing, led the applause for the president, who has presided over the largest deficit in history.

When he followed that by saying it is not whether we do it, it is how we do it that counts, the Republicans, laughing, led the applause.

Bipartisanship was inhaled over the oozing happiness like whipped cream over a hot fudge sundae. He wants a bipartisan commission to come up with ways to reduce the deficit. He compared the Kennedy tax cut to his own. He quoted Franklin D. Roosevelt. He praised "the Henry Jackson plan to implement the bipartisan commission's recommendations in Central America."

With so much bipartisanship being ladled out by the president, it seemed ungrateful for the Democrats to jump on the tube as soon as he had finished to contradict him.

It was worse than ungrateful. It was a political boner. The president was so slick and smooth and organized. The Democrats' rebuttal was so slapdash and jerky and confused. Even if the president had not made a good speech, the Democrats would have made him look good.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, presiding over the Democrats' smorgasbord of governors, senators, representatives and lesser local officials, was on the defensive from the start. He also was less than candid.

He said the Democrats could not be expected to be as smooth as the white, because they were coming on live, while the president had a well-prepared speech. He then proceeded to show film clips of unhappy farmers, unhappy factory workers, unhappy minorities and one of House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., D-Mass.

Such Democratic officials as did come on live from the studio seemed bothered by the light, squinted at their notes — not having the president's fine teleprompter — and stepped on each other's lines. The president was live, too, but he was ready. What the Democrats had to say of substance got lost in faulty products and a confused style, resulting from letting too many people into the act.

The president's style is wholly familiar, predictable and even comfortable. He does his thing with school prayer and abortion. Even those who disagree with him vehemently on those emotional issues can't get too upset because they know Congress isn't going to go along.

If his greatest weakness in the public mind is the concept that he is hellbent and dangerous in international relations, he makes his pitch to the Soviet people, saying, "Nuclear war cannot be won and must never be fought." He added, "A lasting and meaningful peace... is our highest aspiration."

He has the newest in the glorious line of citizen heroes sitting in the gallery with his wife. Remember Lenny Skutnik? This time it is Ranger Sgt. Stephen G. Trujillo, who won the Silver Star for gallantry on Grenada. That won't hurt Reagan with the Hispanics.

He has a new villain, the underground economy. It would be immoral to raise taxes on all us honest, upright, decent and law-abiding citizens just to make up for all those cheats out there.

The speech was delivered to Congress, but addressed to all of us good guys. Go away, you doubting Thomases and you hand-wringers. America never was a sick society, and we are safer, stronger and more secure in 1984 than before. He asked: "How can we not believe in the greatness of America?"

Here's to you wonderful people — working, paying your taxes, against crime and acid rain and for traditional values, praying and voting. Yummy.

Otis Pike, a former congressman, writes for Newhouse News Service.

A few bits of life are sliced from a week in the news

There are times when I like to sit and watch the river flow. I mean that literally, but it is also a handy metaphor for what I do for a living.

There are times when the events of our world flow along just like a river, and like a river, our best course of action is simply to observe. Take a seat here on the bank, and I'll show you what I mean. We'll slice off a hunk of river, last week's stream of events, and watch it flow by.

Our week began with a national spectacle. The business of the republic was to stop for a day while a group of hogs did battle with a group of eccentric behemoths called Raiders.

Those who did not go to Tampa, Fla., to take part in the spectacle watched it on TV. Much beer was consumed. Money was lost. Money was won. The hogs lost. Grown men cried. In general, a good time was had by all.

While some athletes got rich, some athletes died, bus carrying a wrestling team from Whitfish, Mont., slid into a gasoline tanker. Nine people died. In a town the size of Whitefish, nine people are a lot. Creatures other than people made bits of news last week. In Utah, deer were starving, so some people brought them food. Other people took advantage of slow, weak deer congregated around the food. Those people shot the deer and left them where they fell. There is no accounting for some people.

Dick Manning

For instance, at least one person did not shoot starving deer. He shot a whooping crane, or at least that's what we thought. A whooper, one of only about 100 extant, died in New Mexico. Although no one thought it important enough to mention, he was probably raised at Grays Lake in our own state. The bird had been wounded with a shotgun. Responsible hunters were outraged. Later, it was learned that the bird actually died of lead poisoning. More than 100 pieces of lead shot were found in his gut. The bird didn't know any better than to eat shot from the shells of responsible hunters.

But the creatures got even. Sort of. In Butte, Mont., a fellow sawed off five of his fingers with his radial arm saw. His springer spaniel, apparently quite the opposite, rose to the occasion by eating the man's thumb. We now have proof that a dog will not only bite, but sometimes will swallow, at least portions of, the hand that feeds it.

But creatures were not the only things responsible for attacks on people. People were also after people. Take the Supreme Court. It began its week by making it easier to execute people.

The great state of Florida, arguably the domain with the busiest electric chair in the nation, was quick to respond by trying a 66-year-old man. Apparently there was some urgency in the matter due to the man's advanced age. There was a chance he would die prematurely and beat the executioner out of his $150 salary.

As the execution proceeded, the guest of honor asked the maker's forgiveness for those responsible for his demise. Meanwhile, there is no word yet on disposition of the murderer in the nether world. Nor is there word on the disposition of the fellow who invented the electric chair.

There was word on the disposition of our country. Our leader delivered his annual State of the Union address and pronounced us sound, thank you. Most of us would have been very surprised had he done otherwise. He must, after all, stand for election a few months hence. Given that, one would hardly expect him to opine that the nation had gone to hell in a handbasket while he stood his watch at the helm.

Nonetheless, the speech was entertaining. It appears that the major problem of our body politic is that we spend too much and take too little. Our leader says we must solve this deficit problem, but he has ruled out two steps: Spending much less and taking in any more. A commission will be appointed to effect an alternative solution.

Our leader's minions have spent three years dismantling the Environmental Protection Agency. On the fourth (election) year, our leader advises that a huge budget increase is now in order for EPA.

And we Americans know all these events transpired because we saw them on television. We saw them and apparently a great deal more. We were informed last week that the average television in the average household beamed forth its average message an average of 7.2 hours on the average day.

But then, considering all that has transpired here in our little slice of stream, I doubt there is really any such thing as an average day.

Montana Democrat slams Idaho GOP

BOISE (AP) — Congressman Pete Williams, D-Mont., told a group of Idaho Democrats he had nothing to say about Idaho's congressional delegation, but he had plenty to say about the Republican who lives in the White House.

Williams said he hopes that Richard Stallings, a Ricks College history professor running against Congressman George Hansen, R-Idaho, and Pete Busch, a Lewiston businessman running against Sen. Jim McClure, R-Idaho, will be in Washington, D.C., at this time next year.

Nationally, he said President Ronald Reagan is the first president in 50 years to try to dismantle the federal government, the thing that unites Americans.

"Ronald Reagan has made a career out of degrading government," Williams said. "It may have been good script, but it was not good policy."

America has become the richest country in history by Americans doing together what they could not do individually, and the Democratic Party still believes that is the best way for the country to progress, he said.

"We have been accused of being promoters and dreamers," Williams said. "They are right on both counts. Yes, we continue to promise and deliver and dream."

He said Montana and the rest of the country owed Idaho a thank you for sharing former Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, with them for 25 years. As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Church left a legacy that will be lasting, he said.

Carl Burke, a Boise attorney who managed all Church's political campaigns, told the crowded banquet it is unlikely Church will be at another Idaho Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. Church, defeated by Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, in 1980, was released last week from Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in Bethesda, Md., and will receive outpatient care.

Church reportedly has pancreatic cancer, although the hospital has not released the results of a biopsy of a tumor doctors found on his pancreas.

Burke said he spoke to Church hours before the banquet and the former senator talked about the future, not the past.

"He said something must be done to end the arms race," Burke said. "This is a man who should be talking about himself. But he is talking about the world."

Balloon record sought

LAKE POWELL, Utah (AP) — Two English pilots plan next month to launch the world's tallest hot air balloon from the shores of Lake Powell in an attempt to set a new altitude record.

Operation Sky Quest spokesman Dave Davies said Mike Kendrick and Per Lindstrand will attempt to break the 1980 hot air balloon altitude record of 55,134 feet set in Denver, Colo.

The 294-foot high balloon is designed to reach a potential 90,000 feet, and will contain more than 1 million cubic feet of air. The craft will be powered by a burner built to operate with a minimum of oxygen.

Davies said the balloon will carry a pressurized capsule, which has already arrived at Wahweap Lodge and Marina, the base of operations. The pilots and other project personnel were scheduled to arrive at the southeastern Utah site on Monday, he said.

Beginning Feb. 4, the crew will begin watching for weather suitable for launching the balloon from a beach 1 mile north of the lodge, Davies said.

He said Lake Powell was chosen for the project after NASA officials told Kendrick and Lindstrand the area offered reliable air patterns in February.

The balloon and capsule are expected to touch down some three hours after launch about 120 miles southeast of the lake on the Navajo Indian Reservation, Davies said.

Jet crash may bring inquiry

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Rep. Dan Marriott says he may call for a congressional investigation of the F16 jet fighter if mechanical failure is found to have caused the latest of a series of crashes.

Since the highly sophisticated aircraft began flying in 1979, 37 have crashed — including one which plunged into Utah's western desert on Friday.

"There is some speculation that this (latest) crash was caused by mechanical trouble because the pilot was very experienced," Marriott said.

Killed in the crash was Lt. Col. Wendell Neisz, a 40-year-old veteran of military flying. He was the fifth pilot based at Hill Air Force Base, near Ogden, to have died in a crash of the plane.

Group forms to protect lake

SANDPOINT (AP) — Bonner County residents plan to file this week for incorporation to form a coalition for further research into a Montana paper mill's proposal to increase waste discharges into the Clark Fork River.

Sandpoint attorney Steve Herndon said Saturday that the group plans to incorporate Tuesday under the name Green Monarch Coalition and will also be seeking tax-exempt status.

to analyze and comment on plans to increase discharges from the Champion International mill at Frenchtown, Mont., he said.

"Obviously we're going to be under the gun to get it all done by Feb. 21," he said.

The Montana Water Quality Bureau is accepting comment until Feb. 21 on its preliminary environmental review for a permit to allow the discharge into the Clark Fork River year-round instead of just during peak flow.

Reagan reverses flow of FDR policies

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
and JAMES GERSTENZANG
The Associated Press

Focus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan came to Washington to reverse 50 years of growth in federal government. After three years, he has succeeded, not as much as he would have liked but more than most thought he could.

In his three years, Reagan has touched virtually everyone in America, enriching some, taking from others the benefits bestowed since the New Deal. He has built the arsenal of war while preaching his hopes for peace.

Washington has tempered Reagan's ardent conservatism. But through compromise, he stamped government with what could prove to be his indelible mark — for the first time since Franklin D. Roosevelt initiated the growth of modern government, a president restrained what many regarded as an uncontrollable bureaucracy.

After a two-year economic plunge, the recovery on which Reagan staked his presidency has arrived in time for the presidential campaign. But U.S. Marines are hunkered down in war-torn Lebanon, and the loss of American servicemen abroad has stained his presidency.

Reagan has concentrated on expanding the nation's military defenses and flexing its muscles abroad, from Europe and the Middle East to Central America and tiny Grenada.

sending an unmistakable signal that the United States deals from a position of strength.

So far, his policy of direct military involvement has cost the lives of 250 American servicemen in Lebanon and Grenada.

Arms control talks at which Reagan proposed to reduce U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals have collapsed, and for the first time the United States has begun to deploy modern nuclear missiles in Western Europe.

"Very few people these days are lamenting a weak presidency," observed Ross Baker, a political science professor at Rutgers University and author of several books on presidential elections. "Through a combination of his magical, persuasive qualities and the dimensions of the office, he's strengthened the presidency."

But public confidence in the restored strength of the institution is coupled with concern about Reagan's exercise of power, the professor said.

"I think people are uneasy about what they see as an enormous amount of discretionary power reposing in the hands of Ronald Reagan," he said. "There is a general anxiety about someone who may be trigger happy."

One of the president's closest aides said Reagan takes the loss of U.S. troops in combat very personally, often telephoning widows and children from the Oval Office to console them.

"It drains him and drains him," said deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver, who described his inability to resolve the factional strife in Lebanon and bring the Marines home as Reagan's greatest frustration.

President, Congress start busy agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan sends Congress details of his new budget proposal this week, but attention also will be focused on the first round of deficit-reduction talks between White House officials and a bipartisan delegation from Capitol Hill.

In legislative action, a sweeping anti-crime package will occupy the Senate while the House considers a bill to compensate Vietnam-era veterans exposed to the defoliant Agent Orange.

On Wednesday, the president sends Congress his budget recommendations for the 1985 fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

That will set off a parade of administration officials who are scheduled to appear before various House and Senate committees for the next several weeks explaining details of the plan. Outlines of the approximately $325 billion budget already have leaked out, including its projection of a $180 billion deficit. The red ink in the fiscal year that ended last Sept. 30 was a record $195.4 billion.

It is the prospect of such deficits continuing unabated that has increased pressure in Congress for action to close the gap between what the government takes in and what it spends.

Reagan responded last week by inviting a bipartisan group of legislators to meet with administration officials to find ways to trim $100 billion from budget deficits over the next three years. The president said it would be "a down payment" on erasing the red ink.

But Democrats, wary of an election-year trap, insist upon seeing the president's budget and any other specifics he has in mind for savings before they jump into the discussions.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, who will represent House Democrats in the talks, said preliminary negotiations could begin late this week, after the president's budget plan is submitted to Congress.

White House chief of staff James A. Baker III held out the possibility that the negotiations will deal with defense spending and the plan to tie future tax rates to the rate of inflation, known as indexing. "Nothing is outside the scope of legitimate debate," Baker said on the NBC News program Meet the Press, adding: "We want to focus quite frankly on the less contentious areas."

Golden Globes copped

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — "Terms of Endearment," a funny and poignant film portrait of a mother-daughter relationship, led all film contenders at the 41st annual Golden Globes with four awards, including best motion picture drama.

"Yentl," "Educating Rita" and "Flashdance" scored two awards each Saturday night, while the widely watched miniseries "The Thorn Birds" grabbed four television awards from the Hollywood Foreign Press Association.

Besides winning the best drama award, "Terms of Endearment" was honored for its screenplay, Shirley Maclaine's performance as a Texas widow and Jack Nicholson's supporting role as a quick-aged former astronaut.

The film, a box office success, is considered a strong Academy Award contender and Miss Maclaine expressed gratitude but said in her acceptance speech, "I did expect this."

The foreign press association, which gives separate awards for dramas and for the category of musicals or comedies, classified "Terms" as a drama — a decision Miss Maclaine said must have been difficult given the film's alternately comic and serious nature.

Bomb victim spied on Klan

DALLAS (AP) — A 63-year-old man who was killed when a bomb exploded in a newspaper vending box had told classmates at a community college two years ago that he once infiltrated the American Nazi Party and Ku Klux Klan for the government.

A federal prosecutor said the investigation is uncovering "too many coincidences," and that the bombing is looking "less and less random." The Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday. The prosecutor was not identified.

Ward S. Keeton, dressed in a bathrobe, was killed instantly early Friday when he opened a Dallas Morning News vending box near his apartment and a bomb exploded. Neighbors said he lived alone and bought a paper there at the same time each morning.

Two years ago, Keeton took several items of Nazi paraphernalia to an evening business communications class — including weapons, swastikas and propaganda pamphlets — as visual aids for a speech about his undercover activities, both newspapers reported Sunday.

Black films a 'major find'

TYLER, Texas (AP) — An almost forgotten collection of movies produced and directed by blacks, many featuring black actors, is being described as a "major find" by film historians.

Eighty films, including 20 made for black audiences during the 1930s and 1940s, were found recently in a Tyler warehouse. The reels have been donated to the Film-Video Archives at Southern Methodist University.

"If, indeed, these are some of the last remaining prints they will be literally priceless," Dr. G. Williams Jones, founder of the Archives, told the Dallas Times Herald.

"It's a fantastic, major find," said Iverson White, a member of the UCLA Film Archive in Los Angeles. "The history is so scarce on black films in that era."

The films, some of which were made in Dallas with local actors, include romances, mysteries, melodramas and religious topics.

Gas water heating makes more sense than ever...

DOLLARS AND CENTS!

Gas water heating offers you significant benefits.

- 1 If you have a gas furnace and an electric water heater, change to gas water heating and your gas rate for both heating and water heating will go down 10% to 20% year around depending on the price of electricity in your area.
- 2 Gas heats water twice as fast as electricity. Wouldn't it be nice not to worry about running out of hot water? You can with a gas heater. Electric models heat 18 gallons an hour. Gas heats 37 gallons an hour. It's just that simple!
- 3 New gas water heaters have greatly improved efficiency. Older models have efficiency ratings around 65% or less. New high efficiency gas heaters are rated up to 85% efficient. Better insulation reduces heat loss. New burner design provides better combustion efficiency and improved flue design retains more heat in the tank.

A new gas water heater is easy to own.

- 1 Zero interest financing We'll finance the water heater and installation at zero interest, no money down, payments of $15.00 a month. (Maximum amount for financing, $450)
- 2 $100 Cash Rebate If you purchase a new gas water heater without using Intermountain's finance program, we'll give you a $100 cash rebate.
- 3 Financing for new furnace and water heater If your gas furnace is 15 years old or older, you should consider installing a new high tech heating system. It could lower your heating bills by 25% to 40%. We'll finance your new furnace and water heater for no money down, payments, as low as $20.00 a month.

* Subject to certain conditions including a gas water heater must replace an existing electric model and be rated at ASHRAE 90-75.

Soviets accuse U.S. of arms violations

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, in a note made public Sunday, accused the United States of violating weapons accords and disregarding commitments to arms reductions.

The complaints were made "a few days ago" to the U.S. State Department by the Soviet Embassy in Washington, according to the official news agency Tass, which carried the text of the note.

President Reagan last Monday sent Congress a report alleging Soviet "violations and probable violations" of arms control treaties and political agreements.

Reagan's report said Soviet conduct "raises doubts about the reliability of the U.S.S.R. as a negotiating partner."

The Soviet note made public on Sunday said the Soviet Union had taken an "honest and responsible approach to the fulfillment of its commitments" and said Reagan's report was "openly directed at worsening Soviet-American relations."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the embassy would have no comment on what he described as a "private diplomatic communication."

Tass said the Soviet note "draws the attention of the American side to its negative actions in the field of arms limitation."

The Soviet statement accused the United States of violating the second Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty by deploying medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe. The Soviets said SALT 2 forbids use of third parties — in this case Western European nations — to circumvent its limits.

The United States never ratified SALT 2 because of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and controversy in the U.S. Senate over verification procedures and other issues. But Reagan had said he would try to abide by terms of the treaty.

A Western diplomat, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said medium-range cruise missiles were covered under a protocol to SALT 2, but he said the protocol expired in December 1981.

Andropov's first year shows economic gains

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet economy improved last year under the command of Premier Yuri V. Andropov, but Western analysts say improvement might be temporary.

They said Andropov's prolonged absence from public view may prove a factor.

Full 1983 economic figures from the Central Statistical Board published in Pravda and other newspapers on Sunday showed a 3.5 percent gain in industrial labor productivity after Andropov's call for stricter labor discipline, compared with 2.1 percent in 1982.

Industrial output rose 4 percent, surpassing the target of 3.2 percent, and commentators said 88 percent of the production increase was due to improved labor discipline.

Agriculture also reported an increase, with labor productivity up by 6 percent and overall production up 5 percent.

Energy, the key to developing remote areas harboring valuable natural resources, also performed well. Natural gas production exceeded targets and oil output made a modest gain, though coal production dipped below 1982 levels.

Western analysts suggested that workers responded to the initial shock of Andropov's crackdown on loafing and absenteeism, but relaxed as his long absence from public sight raised doubts about his ability to overcome inertia in the Soviet system. His last public appearance was on Aug. 18, when Andropov met a group of U.S. senators in Moscow.

Mosque explosion thwarted

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops imposed a curfew on two West Bank areas Sunday after Palestinians protested over a thwarted attack on the Al-Aqsa Mosque, one of Islam's holiest shrines, military sources reported.

The sources said troops fired tear gas into crowds of stone-throwing demonstrators at the central market of Nablus and the nearby Balatta refugee camp, then sealed off the two areas.

A 17-year-old Palestinian was killed and two others wounded by Israeli troops in other demonstrations Saturday.

On Friday, men with guns and grenades tried to break into the Jerusalem shrine where, the Koran says, the Prophet Mohammed prayed before ascending to heaven.

Police picked up four men but released them after questioning failed to produce a solid lead into who was behind the attack. Justice Minister Moshe Nisim, speaking over Israeli Radio, vowed that Israel would "spare no effort" to identify the assailants.

Arab guards spotted at least two men attempting to scale the walls of the Temple Mount, which is known to Arabs as Harim El-Sharif, enclosing Al-Aqsa and the Dome of the Rock Shrine.

Israeli aide resigns post

JERUSALEM (AP) — Mordechai Ben-Porat, a minister without portfolio, resigned from the Israeli Cabinet Sunday to protest the policies of Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

The move reduces Shamir's already slim majority in Parliament.

The minister said he was quitting because of Shamir's policies on Lebanon and the economy and because of a failure to form a broad-based government with the opposition Labor Party.

Ben-Porat, an independent, retains his seat in the Knesset, or parliament. But his resignation from the 20-member Cabinet and from Shamir's Likud-led coalition means the prime minister no longer can count on Ben-Porat's vote to help keep his government in office.

Shamir, speaking on Israel Television, said problems in the governing coalition were "rotting new on the Israeli political scene. Situations in a coalition change, sometimes it's easier and others it's harder."

High officer assassinated

MADRID (AP) — Four men firing submachine guns from a car killed a general and wounded his wife as the couple was walking home from church services in the capital Sunday, police said.

Police said Lt. Gen. Guillermo Quintana Lacaaci, 67, was struck by at least 10 bullets and died instantly. His wife, Maria, 63, was shot in the legs and rushed to a hospital.

Witnesses said that the general had no escort at the time, and that the attackers raced off in the car. Quintana, who fought with the late dictator Gen. Francisco Franco during the civil war, was the chief of Madrid's military region from April 1979 to July 1983, when he was replaced without being given a new assignment.

Police said they suspected the involvement of ETA, the militant Basque separatist group blamed for more than 500 assassinations since 1968 in its drive for independence of northern Spain's Basque province.

MACHINE GUN KELLY

Every Seasoned Citizen remembers the notorious Machine Gun Kelly of the Gangster Era. What few may recall, however, is that he never killed anybody. There's no record even that he ever fired a weapon in anger. Kelly was a big grinning bear of a fellow with an "law shaker" manner. But his wife Kathryn was determined he'd make big-time crime. It was she who gave him the machine gun. She, not he, handed out cartridge cases as calling cards: "Here's a present from Machine Gun Kelly."

Brutal husband needs restraining

DEAR ABBY: On Christmas Eve my husband and I got into an argument and he hit me in my eye with his fist. It felt like he had knocked my eyeball back into my head, so I went to the emergency room where I was X-rayed. Luckily no bones were broken.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

When I got home he hit me under the chin, causing a knot to appear, so I took my two kids and went to a friend's house for the night. He followed me, forced the door open and demanded that I go home with him. I refused, so he lit the curtain with a cigarette lighter and left. Fortunately, my friend and I were able to put the fire out.

The next day when I went home, the place was a wreck. My clothes were all ripped up, lamps broken, etc. When he came home he said he doesn't even remember hitting me. Then he said he was sorry. Well, being sorry doesn't help my face any. He could have blinded me or broken my chin.

I don't love him anymore and he sure couldn't love me and treat me this way. Abby, I don't want him here. Is there any way I can get him out and keep him out? And how can I keep him from bothering me? He's 26 and I'm 31.

DEAR ABUSED: Contact your nearest shelter for battered women. The people there not only provide abused women with temporary shelter, they tell them how to protect themselves from further abuse. Be prepared to get a restraining order against your husband. If he violates that order he will be locked up. He sounds like a sick man, but that doesn't excuse his brutal behavior.

First, protect yourself and your children. Then insist that he be examined by a psychiatrist.

Please write again and let me know how you're doing. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I had to laugh when I read your readers' suggestions on how to turn down a date without hurting a man's feelings. Most people recommended honesty.

Many long years ago, I was a showgirl in New York. A dear man asked me if I would go out with him. He was easily a head shorter than I was. I turned him down as gently as I could. (I didn't say, "You're too short for me"; I said, "I'm too tall for you.")

The next day I received two dozen long-stemmed roses with a card that read, "Can I help it if I like long-stemmed roses? Thanks for your honesty." It was signed "Shorty."

It warmed my heart, so I called him up and asked if it was too late to change my mind. He said no. He took me out after the show that night, and the night after, and the night after, etc.

You guessed it, Abby. I married the guy, and if we make it until April of '84, we'll celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary.

Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Stevens
TWIN FALLS — Glen and Rhea Stevens of Roy, Utah, former Twin Falls residents, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house Saturday, Feb. 4, in the Roy Second Ward Mormon Chapel, at 5127 S., 2400 W.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Galley
HANSEN — Max and Bonnie Galley will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary next Sunday, Feb. 5, at the Twin Falls Valley Christian Church, 1708 Heyburn Ave. E. Friends and relatives are invited to call between 2 and 4 p.m.

Friends and relatives are invited to call between 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. The couple was married Feb. 3, 1934, in Pocatello. Their marriage later was solemnized in the Salt Lake City Mormon Temple.

Stevens is a retired electrician, and plant and maintenance engineer. Mrs. Stevens is retired from the Weber County School District.

The event will be hosted by their six children: Bob Stevens of Seattle; Rae Dell Rigby of Richmond, Utah; Carol Mitchell of Sunset, Utah; Sheryl Selfert of Syracuse, Utah; Susan Ritchie of Roy; and Julie Kerr of Layton, Utah. The couple has 27 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Galley and the former Bonnie Thomas were married Feb. 6, 1934. They have lived in the Hansen area since then.

The event will be hosted by their two daughters, Barbara Baugh of Kennebec, Wash., and Patricia Steinmetz of Twin Falls, assisted by the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Valley Christian Church. The couple has six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

15 valley students graduate

PROVO — Fifteen Magic Valley students were among 1,422 students who received diplomas in December from Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

Marla Blair of Heyburn, Wilford R. Dixon of Jerome and Reta Simmonds of Oakley were awarded master's degrees.

Students earning bachelor's degrees were: Richard Thomas Geary, Larry Dean Hawker and John Russell Spencer, all of Burley; Zelma Bingham Woodward of Dietrich; Mark Samuel Swensen of Jerome; Nathan F. Gardner of Malda; Joan Marie Merrill and Diane Woodland, both of Paul; Vaughn P. Stephenson of Rupert; and Patricia Burdick, Elizabeth Ellen Mable and Shari Kay Meacham, all of Twin Falls.

Engagements

Sandra Lancaster

JEROME — Mr. and Mrs. Ronald A. Lancaster of Jerome announce the engagement of their daughter, Sandra, to Daniel Schoen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Schoen of Paul.

Lancaster, a 1980 graduate of Jerome High School, works at the Best Western Burley Inn.

Schoen, a 1980 graduate of Minico High School, is a construction worker. The couple plans a Feb. 11 wedding in the Jerome First Christian Church.

Lori Howells

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. Les Howells announce the engagement of their daughter, Lori Sue, to Airman First Class Robert L. Sherman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sherman, all of Twin Falls.

Howells, a 1983 graduate of Twin Falls High School, is employed at Glacier Refrigeration.

Sherman, a 1981 graduate of Twin Falls High School, is stationed at Mountain Home Air Force Base. The couple plans a Feb. 18 wedding in the First United Methodist Church in Twin Falls.

Kari Kaster

BUHL — Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kaster of Buhl announce the engagement of their daughter, Kari Lynne, to Lance Corporal Earl Miracle, son of Margaret C. Miracle of Gilmer, Texas, and Leonard Miracle of Filer.

Kaster is a senior at Filer High School. She plans to attend the College of Southern Idaho.

Miracle is serving in the Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune, N.C. He will begin a tour of duty in Norway during February.

Rita Graffe

GLENN'S FERRY — Betty Graffe of Twin Falls announces the engagement of her daughter, Rita, to Tom Wicher, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wicher of Glens Ferry.

Graffe graduated from Glens Ferry High School in 1980 and is scheduled to graduate in May from the University of Idaho.

Wicher, also a Glens Ferry High School graduate, has a degree in civil engineering from the University of Idaho. He is employed by the Idaho Power Co. The couple plans a June 30 wedding and will live in Boise.

WADE FERIANTE

Filer youth earns rank

FILER — Wade Feriante, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry P. Feriante of Filer, was presented the Eagle Scout award at a Court of Honor recently.

Feriante, a sophomore at Filer High School, is member of Troop No. 72, which is sponsored by the Filer First Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

He is president of his seminary class and of the Teachers Quorum. He plays on the church basketball and softball team, and enjoys skiing and weight-lifting. He also is den chief of a Cub Scout pack and enjoys working with computers.

For his Eagle project, Feriante planned, organized and supervised the building of a sandbox in the Filer municipal park.

Weddings

Argyle-Livingston

TWIN FALLS — Susan Argyle became the bride of Charles Livingston on Jan. 2 in the First United Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Argyle of Twin Falls, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Livingston of Oberlin, Ohio.

The Rev. Robert Van Nest officiated, and Phyllis Van Nest was the organist. Ernest Moss played a violin solo.

The bride wore a gown of crepe, featuring a beaded lace yoke, collar and cuffs, with a full-length, lace-trimmed skirt and a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of roses and trums, accented with ribbon streamers.

Cara Meckel of Orange, Calif., was the maid of honor. Mary Rice of Milford, Mich., served as bridesmaid. Chane Cullens of Beaverton, Ore., was the best man. Doug Livingston and John Argyle were the candle-lighters. Ted Argyle and Bruce Livingston underdrew.

A reception was held at the Elks Club. Harriet Livingston was the guest-book attendant, and Lori Livingston served.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents. The groom's parents prepared and served the meal.

The bride is a graduate of Twin Falls High School and the University of Idaho. The groom is a graduate of Oberlin High School and the University of Virginia. Both work for Texas Instruments as computer-software design engineers.

Following a trip to Hawaii, the couple is living in Dallas.

El-Baruni-Mohammad

TWIN FALLS — Candace El-Baruni and Asef Mohammad exchanged wedding vows Nov. 26 in the 16th Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Christensen of Twin Falls. The groom is the son of Mrs. Kokogal Akbar of Kabul, Afghanistan, and the late Akbar Mohammad.

Bishop Jack Stanger officiated. Mrs. William Austin was the organist, and Shannon Arrington sang. Mr. and Mrs. Hal Christensen, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, welcomed the guests.

The bride wore a gown of chiffon and Chantilly lace, featuring leg-of-mutton sleeves and a cathedral-length train. She carried a bouquet of orchids and roses, with streamers of ivory.

Arna Lee Soothern of Salt Lake City was the maid of honor. Shelly Christensen, niece of the bride, was the flower girl.

Neal Christensen, brother of the bride, was the best man. Gene and Rex Christensen, also brothers of the bride, ushered, and David Christensen, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

A reception, arranged by Mrs. Robert Adams, and a buffet luncheon were held after the ceremony. Mrs. Calvin Calico, Mrs. Jack Stanger, Loola Anderson, Ella Briggs and Karen Silling prepared the luncheon. Jared and Clinton Christensen, nephews of the bride, distributed favors. Tracy Jacobs, Lee Adams and Chris Spencer assisted with the gifts.

The couple is living in Salt Lake City, where they both work.

Clarice Popanz

JEROME — Clarice Popanz of Kimberly and Ernie Coats of Jerome have announced their engagement.

Popanz has been working as a police dispatcher at the Jerome Courthouse since June.

Coats has been a law-enforcement officer for 22 years, most of that time in Jerome. He currently is a deputy sheriff.

The couple will be married Saturday, Feb. 4. An open house will be held following the wedding at 509 East D St. in Jerome.

Service news

TWIN FALLS — Air National Guard Airman Bill A. Riley, the son of Rosa M. King and the stepson of Denzel King of Twin Falls, has been assigned to Chamute Air Force Base in Illinois.

After completing basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas, he will receive instruction in the aircraft maintenance field. Riley's wife, Sherry, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wil Brigger of Twin Falls.

TWIN FALLS — Airman William L. Adams Jr., the son of Emma I. Adams of Twin Falls, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base in Mississippi. Adams, a 1981 graduate of Twin Falls High School, recently completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. He will receive instruction in the communications and electronics-systems fields. His wife, Janna, is the daughter of Mary C. Gard of Twin Falls.

Theismann's form back in 'best of the best'

By KEVIN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

HONOLULU—A week after one of his biggest football disappointments, Joe Theismann was the best of the best in the National Football League.

The Redskins' quarterback, frustrated in the Super Bowl loss to the Los Angeles Raiders, staged a Pro Bowl record-shattering passing show Sunday to lead the NFC to a 4-3 thrash of the AFC in the annual all-star game.

He completed 27 of 47 for 243 yards and three touchdowns, with the number of completions and the three touchdowns both new standards for the game.

Asked if his performance, which earned him Player of the Game honors, made up for the defeat in the NFL title game, Theismann said simply, "No, I didn't come out here for that." He also said of the game, "You put together a group like this and football is really fun."

NFC Coach Bill Walsh of the San Francisco 49ers seemed awed by his squad's play.

"I think this could be the greatest group of players ever put together on one team," he said. "The quarterbacks, the receivers, the linemen and defensive linemen are particularly impressive."

Chuck Knox, the Seattle Seahawks coach who guided the AFC, said that Theismann looked very sharp, and that the fact he played just a week ago may have given him an edge over the AFC quarterbacks, who'd been off since the end of the regular season.

"We fell behind early and it was too tough to play catchup," said Knox.

Theismann, a victim of six sacks and two interceptions in the Redskins' 39-9 Super Bowl loss to the Los Angeles Raiders a week ago, opened the Pro Bowl by completing his first 11 throws.

He threw scoring strikes of 15 yards to Williams Andrews of Atlanta, 8 yards to James Lofton of Green Bay and 6-to-the-Packers' Paul Coffman.

The NFC defense, meanwhile, held the AFC stars in check. Among the standouts for the National Conference, which recorded eight sacks of AFC quarterbacks Dan Fouts and Bill Kenney, was Los Angeles Rams' safety Nolan Cromwell.

He picked off one of Fouts' pass and scampered 45 yards for an NFC score and later recovered an AFC fumble.

The NFC, which now has won six of the last 11 and holds a 9-5 overall edge in the series, got its other points on a 14-yard run by Los Angeles Rams' rookie Eric Dickerson, a 2-yard scoring pass from San Francisco's Joe Montana to Andrews and a 23-yard field goal by the New York Giants' All-Haji-Sheikh.

The AFC's only score was a 43-yard field goal by Pittsburgh's Gary Anderson in the second quarter.

The 34-year-old Theismann, making his second Pro Bowl start in as many years, topped the 17 completions record set by Fouts last year, and the passing mark of two touchdowns that had been shared by three players.

The NFC broke on top on Haji-Sheikh's field goal, then built a 17-3 halftime lead as Andrews hauled in touchdown passes from Theismann and Montana.

Cromwell's pass interception return in the third quarter made it 24-3, then Theismann's final two touchdown throws and Dickerson's late run wrapped up the scoring.

Dickerson, who led the NFL in rushing this season and whose 1,300 yards made him the top rookie runner ever in the league, was also the leading rusher in the Pro Bowl. He gained 46 yards on 11 carries and caught five passes for an additional 45 yards.

Andrews also had an impressive afternoon, gaining 43 yards on six carries and grabbing five passes for 49 yards and two TDs.

Fouts, sacked seven times, completed seven of nine throws for 103 yards.

Kansas City's Kenney, added to the AFC squad when an injury kept Miami's Dan Marino out of the game, completed just seven of 32 passes for 80 yards and was intercepted twice.

Buffalo's Joe Cribbs was the AFC's top rusher with 32 yards on four carries, and Cincinnati's Cris Collinsworth had five receptions for 73 yards.

Cooper, Maricich both on 'the' team

SAINT GERVAIS, France—Switzerland's Erika Hess won the women's giant slalom race Sunday in the final World Cup skiing event before the Winter Olympic Games at Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

Hess, last year's World Cup women's champion, completed the two runs of 48 and 43 gates along the Saint Gervais course in 2 minutes, 24.05 seconds. It was her fourth victory of the season and gave Hess a 16-point lead in the World Cup standings with 214 points.

She also is the overall leader in the World Cup giant slalom, having won two of the three races this season.

Second in Sunday's giant slalom was Cristina Cooper of Sun Valley, Idaho, in 2:24.94. It was her best finish of the current World Cup season.

She was followed by Carole Merle of France in 2:25.

"I didn't take too many risks," Hess said. "I have a lot of confidence now. I'm planning to relax, so I'll be in good shape for the Olympics."

Cooper had a faster time than Hess in the second heat, but finished second for the second straight year.

"I lost too much time in the first heat," Cooper said. "And when a course is as fast as it is here, it's difficult to make time."

Tamara McKinley of Squaw Valley, Calif., gave the U.S. two finishers in the top 10, placing ninth in 2:28.37.

West Germany's Maria Eppler, third in the overall World Cup standings with 178 points, was disqualified Sunday for missing a gate.

Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein, who is second overall with 196 points, finished 23rd Sunday.

The two-day meet, run on fast snow and under sunny skies, was a sweep for Switzerland, with 17-year-old Michela Figini winning Saturday's downhill.

Cooper marks her best slalom, but finishes second in contest

PARK CITY, Utah (AP)—Olympic veterans Cindy Nelson, Christina Cooper, Holly Flanders and Tamara McKinley lead the U.S. women's Alpine skiing team for the Winter Games which begin next week in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

The team, which also includes Debbie Armstrong and Maria Maricich, was announced Sunday following the completion of the final World Cup skiing event prior to the Olympics.

Cooper, a 24-year-old from Sun Valley, Idaho, who is sixth in the overall World Cup standings this season, finished second to Switzerland's Erika Hess in the women's giant slalom Sunday at St. Gervais, France. McKinley, 21, from Squaw Valley, Calif., is seventh in the standings.

This is the fourth time the 28-year-old Nelson, from Reno, Nev., has been named to an Olympic team. However, she missed the 1972 Winter Games because of a hip injury.

This time, Nelson is coming off torn knee ligament suffered Dec. 11. She made her first competitive appearance since the injury over the weekend at Saint Gervais, finishing 33rd.

The other Olympic veteran is Flanders, a 26-year-old from Deerfield, N.H.

First-timers in the Olympics are the 22-year-old Maricich from Sun Valley and Armstrong, 20, from Seattle, Wash.

East wins NBA match Small cager nets big honor

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

DENVER—The smallest man on the court snared the "biggest" honor Sunday as the East won an unprecedented fifth straight National Basketball Association All-Star game.

"Today I'm the star of stars," said Isaiah Thomas, the 6-foot-1 guard of the Detroit Pistons, who was named the game's Most Valuable player as the East beat the West 154-145 in overtime. Thomas, who scored 21 points and had 15 assists, put his team on top to stay with a 3-point play at the outset of overtime.

Julius Erving of the East was the game's high scorer with 34 points and Andrew Toney, his Philadelphia teammate, had nine points in the overtime.

Thomas, the smallest man on either team this year and the youngest All-Star ever when he made the squad two years ago, made no effort to hide his joy.

"This day in Denver I was the greatest basketball player in the world," said the giant 22-year-old. "We had the best of the NBA on the court and as the MVP today, I was the best of the best. Maybe not tomorrow, but today for sure."

Thomas said being a play-making guard on a team of All-Stars "is heaven. No matter what you do, it's right."

Boston Coach K. C. Jones, who coached the East back from a 14-point halftime deficit, described Thomas as "Awesome with a Capital A."

"He does everything and does it well," said Jones. "He has the ability to make creative passes, lead the fastbreak, to see who is around him while going down he court at 100 miles per hour and hit consistently from the outside. Other than that, he's an average player."

West Coach Frank Layton of the Utah Jazz admitted his squad was out-played when it counted the most.

"It's not so much what we didn't do, but what they did do," he said. "K.C. worked his tail off and got things turned around when they started running and moving the ball."

Magic Johnson, whose jumper with 20 seconds left tied it at 132-132 in regulation, broke his own All-Star game record with 22 assists, but said he would rather have won the game.

"Hopefully, I'll be back next year, and we can get a victory," said the Los Angeles Laker guard.

The East was seemingly in command with a 128-119 lead with 3:50 to go in regulation.

But Jack Sikma of Seattle triggered a dramatic West rally, climaxed by Johnson's game-tying basket.

The East's Larry Bird missed a jumper from the corner with about six seconds left in regulation time. The West got the rebound, but a desperation jumper at the buzzer by Johnnie Cromford off the backboard.

After Thomas' 3-point play at the start of the overtime, Toney put the East in complete control, hitting a 15-foot jumper, driving for a lay-up, converting a three-point play and hitting another lay-up to make it 146-138 with 2:03 remaining in the overtime.

After George Gervin of San Antonio and Erving traded baskets, Thomas led it for the East with 35 seconds remaining, driving for a lay-up and a 150-145 advantage.

Hobart signs contract for USFL in Florida

MOSCOW (AP)—University of Idaho quarterback Ken Hobart signed Sunday night with the Jacksonville Bulls of the United States Football League for more than $1 million over four years, school officials said.

Hobart, who graduated in December, planned to start practicing with the Florida team immediately, said Dave Kellogg, Idaho sports information director. The Bulls began workouts for the spring season two weeks ago.

Hobart, who holds 26 school records, 23 Big Sky Conference records and 12 NCAA Division IAA records, was selected by the Bulls in the second round of the USFL draft.

National Football League teams also were interested in Hobart, said Kellogg, but the 23-year-old Kamiah, Idaho, native felt he couldn't pass up the opportunity or the money.

Kellogg said Hobart was only the second player in NCAA history to gain more than 10,000 yards in total offense over a career. Hobart's college totals include 11,126 yards in offense, 104 touchdowns and selection to the 1983 Division IAA All-American team.

He was voted most valuable player in the Big Sky League the past two years as Idaho went 9-4 and 8-3.

Montana teams sharing lead in Big Sky basketball ratings

By The Associated Press

The University of Montana and Montana State finally have something in common besides both being in Montana—they share the lead in the always-tight Big Sky Conference basketball standings.

MSU swept a pair of home games from Idaho State and Weber State last week to pull into a tie with Montana for the conference lead. Not bad for a team that was picked in most preseason polls to finish near the bottom of the Big Sky pack.

"It's a surprise," said Coach Stu Starmer. "Montana State's 69-66 victory over Weber State Saturday night... We were picked to be seventh, and maybe we'll still get down there.

But right now I'm real pleased with how we competed."

The Bobcats were led by Chris Brazier, who scored 23 points including a pair of game-winning free throws with 2 seconds left. The victory advanced MSU to 4-2 against Big Sky opponents, 10-9 overall. Weber State remains solidly in the conference title hunt with a 3-2 league record. The Wildcats are 12-6 overall.

The other Montana team split a pair of home games last week, but managed to hold on to a piece of the conference lead. Montana trounced Idaho State 74-59 Saturday night to advance its Big Sky record to 4-4 and its season mark to 16-3.

Despite the score, the victory was a crucial one to the Grizzlies after a tough 67-59 overtime loss to Weber on Thursday, and the Bengals were not taken lightly.

"There's no question that another loss would have virtually eliminated us from the title chase," said USU Coach Mike Montgomery. "But we didn't make a big production about this game, important as it was. We have players capable of getting the job done."

Idaho State, which began last week undefeated in conference action, got in the words of Coach Wayne Ballard, a "good old country whipping" from Montana, and found the northern swing of its Big Sky schedule particularly long. The Bengals dropped both games to fall to 3-2 in league play, 9-13 overall.

ISU will find out today which of its four remaining home games it will have to forfeit for scheduling one too many games this season. The league's athletic directors determined last week that ISU was one game over the 27-game limit mandated by the NCAA and will decide by conference call today which game the Bengals must forfeit.

They must also decide if that forfeit will count against ISU—and for whom ever gets the resulting victory—in the standings for the post-season conference tournament. The Bengals have home games remaining Thursday night against Boise State, Saturday night at Idaho, Feb. 23 against Montana and on Feb. 25 against Montana State.

Northern Arizona also split on the road last week, but the sweetness of Saturday night's victory over Boise State quickly washed away the bad taste of a 69-61 loss to Idaho on Thursday.

The Lumberjacks posted their first Big Sky road victory in almost three years by upending BSU 71-66. It was only the second home loss of the season for the Broncos.

NAU had not made from the field all that long, but it was nearly flawless free-throw shooting down the stretch that led the game. The Lumberjacks were 13-14 from the line in the final two minutes.

"We were labeled as losers, but there are a lot of newcomers on this team and we're not losers and we're not callus-dwellers," said NAU forward David Allen, who pumped in 16 points Saturday. Guard Jeff Altman led the Lumberjacks with 24 points, including 18 in the second half.

Northern Arizona improved its record to 2-4 in the Big Sky, 9-9 overall. Boise State fell to 2-3 in the league and 11-7 for the season.

After two straight victories at home, Saturday night wasn't as kind to the University of Idaho. Nevada-Reno dropped the Vandals 83-70 behind the scoring power of Dannie Jones. The senior guard poured in a game-high 30 points on 11-of-18 field goals and eight of nine free throws.

The Wolf Pack lost a hard-fought 81-69 double-overtime decision to Boise State Thursday. UNR now is 2-4 in the conference, 9-10 overall. Idaho fell to 2-3 and 7-11 with the loss.

Sniper closes I-84 stretch

BURLEY (AP) — A sniper slipped through the grasp of state and county law-enforcement officers Sunday night, after at least three trucks on Interstate 84 were hit by gunfire.

"We had him all surrounded, but he snuck out somewhere," said Idaho State Police dispatcher Trudy Lewis.

State police closed a 22-mile section of the interstate for two hours after shots apparently were fired from near a canal bridge, just east of the I-84 and Ridgeway Road exit intersection, about 10 miles west of Burley, according to Lt. Bob Wright, head of the ISP office in Twin Falls.

The highway was reopened after 13 officers from the state police and Jerome County Sheriff's Department searched the area.

There were no injuries, and the trucks sustained undetermined damage in the incident, which occurred about 8:30 p.m. Officials began a search of the area about an hour later, Wright said.

The trucks stopped along the road, after the incident and contacted the Jerome County sheriff's office, which called in the ISP, Wright said.

Lewis said officials suspected the sniper was the same person who fired two shots into the windshield of a truck at the same location Saturday night. The area was being staked out by state police at the time of Sunday's incidents, she said.

Glenns Ferry names top citizen

By DIANA HOOLEY

Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — The highlight of the Glenn's Ferry annual Chamber of Commerce banquet last week was the naming of Bert Walker as the Outstanding Citizen of the Year.

Jim Reed, the Glenn's Ferry school superintendent, presented Walker with a plaque, saying, "This person has spent 37 years in the Idaho Power man in Glenn's Ferry. He's been active in Boy Scouts, the school board and the zoning commission."

On receiving the award, Walker said he had many chances to leave Glenn's Ferry while working with Idaho Power, but he always was glad he had stayed.

"This small community is a good place to live," he said.

In addition to Walker's award, chamber member Al Joslyn presented several service awards.

The recipients were: Buster Taylor, a long-time Glenn's Ferry police officer; Earl Mills, a businessman and former aviator; Dave Skyberg, a local businessman and the owner of Sky's Electronic; Robert Belliston, a coach and retired teacher from Glenn's Ferry High School; and Dick King, local businessman and former school board member.

New chamber officers for 1984 also were introduced at the banquet. The incoming president is Bob Janousek, the owner of B and N Tire.

Janousek said he wants to see

Glenn's Ferry come out of its economic slump and attract new businesses and industry that will bring money into Glenn's Ferry, instead of taking it out.

Janousek said he has asked Glenn's Ferry businessman Larry Heath to head and re-establish the chamber's industrial development committee, which will attempt to recruit business to the area.

He also said that he would like to see an effective clean-up and beautification program begun.

Besides Janousek, other officers introduced were: Ron Crone, first vice president; Jim Martell, second vice president; Sandra Alden, secretary; and Eliana Swenson, treasurer.

A award was given to outgoing chamber President Liz Gluch.

Jerome school panel begins work

JEROME — Members of the special Jerome school committee got down to brass tacks last week.

Homer Pringle, the committee's general chairman, asked for each member's preference in committee assignments and then divided the membership into three subcommittees. These are: site selection for a new school, alternative proposals to building a new school requiring the passage of a bond issue and the group working on public relations and communication.

The public-relations group, Pringle said, will need to find a means of reaching the public to decide what people in the Jerome School District want to do to meet the need for additional classroom space.

"We will probably all end up on the public-relations committee," Pringle said. "Once we decide on a proposal, we are all pledged to work hard to obtain public approval."

Members agreed generally last Wednesday night that any site plan the subcommittee decides upon should accommodate enough space to resume kindergarten classes in the old building.

The three committees will meet at the convenience of their members and will return for a general session on Feb. 8, to report on their progress and clear up any questions the members may have encountered.

Of Feb. 22, Wayne Phillips, the supervisor of special services for the State Department of Education, will be in Jerome to talk with committee members and answer questions about classroom needs.

The school board recently selected the 23-member overall committee and asked that by the April 9 school board meeting, committee members have a recommendation that will be as acceptable as possible to the districts' residents.

Civil court blotter

The following civil cases were filed last week in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Twin Falls:

• Edwin D. Edwards vs. Billie Joe and Mary Byrum. The complaint states that the Byrums, while renting a mobile home from the plaintiff, were negligent and careless by accumulating combustible material, which resulted in a fire in the home while they were gone. Edwards tried to put the fire out, and as a result, suffered smoke inhalation, causing permanent lung damage, the suit claims.

The suit seeks: special damages of $70,000; general damages of $200,000; $50,000 in damages for her wife, Elaine M. Edwards, for her husband's disability; attorney fees; and court costs.

• Kenneth W. Partin vs. John Doe and Geraldine Hadley. Partin claims that Mrs. Hadley, through negligent operation of her automobile, caused an accident in which he sustained serious injuries and extensive damage to the motorcycle he was riding. He is seeking: medical expenses, loss of wages, $40,000 in property damage, $50,000 in general damages, attorney fees and court costs.

• Vaun M. Clements, doing business as Magic Valley Farm Center, vs. LaVern Scheerer of Buhl. The plaintiff is seeking $131.00 for payment of goods and services, interest and $500 in attorney fees.

• Vaun M. Clements, doing business as Magic Valley Farm Center, vs. Lonnie Alexander. The plaintiff is seeking $1,152.25 for payment of goods and services, interest and $500 in attorney fees.

• Vaun M. Clements, doing business as Magic Valley Farm Center, vs. Susan C. Shafer from Jerry C. Shafer, Delores Mulligan from Evert Morris Mulligan, Carol Chadd from Donald Chadd, Jamie D. Richmond from Jeffrey H. Richmond, Teresa Marie Clawson from J. Bradley Clawson, and Debbie Heath-Shaw from Tad R. Shaw.

The following divorce were granted last week in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls:

• Susan C. Shafer from Jerry C. Shafer, Delores Mulligan from Evert Morris Mulligan, Carol Chadd from Donald Chadd, Jamie D. Richmond from Jeffrey H. Richmond, Teresa Marie Clawson from J. Bradley Clawson, and Debbie Heath-Shaw from Tad R. Shaw.

The following marriage licenses were issued last week in Twin Falls:

• Craig Michael Lewin and Jill Suzanne Lay, Mark Dana Jones and Dawn Evelyn Akins, Matthew Wayne Crider and Lori Ann Stock, and Jesse Charles James and Kristi Jo Janick, all of Twin Falls; Terry Lee Clayton and Brenda Lyn Schroeder, both of Buhl; Benny Pulgado and Teresa Haney, both of Wendell; and Lloyd Lowell Paquin and Sherry Ann Tschannen, both of Gooding.

Also: Dean Arthur Hadson of Flagstaff, Ariz., and Donna Lee Marsh of Twin Falls; Robert Scott Bakley of Castleford and Christie Anne Thornberry of Buhl; Harold D. Humphrey of Hansen and Margaret E. Ralphs of Twin Falls; and Phil Andrew Harrer of Buhl and Carol Jean Davis of Wendell.

• Vaun M. Clements vs. E.G. Marshall. The plaintiff is seeking $1,400, which he claims is owed to him by the defendant, interest and $500 in attorney fees.

• Carl Kelly, doing business as Kelly Oil Co. of Buhl, vs. David Molyneux. The plaintiff is seeking $943 for payment of goods and services, interest and $250 in attorney fees.

• Carl Kelly vs. Kenny Lively. The plaintiff is seeking $180.44 for payment of goods and services, interest and $250 in attorney fees.

• Buhl Gas and Oil Inc. vs. Norman Mason. The plaintiff is seeking $519.35 for payment of goods and services, interest and $250 in attorney fees.

• Intermountain Gas Co. vs. Charles and Emily Jones. The plaintiff is seeking $808.32 for payment of services, interest and $500 in attorney fees.

• Dr. Richard Smith vs. Jerry Quinton. The plaintiff is seeking $325 for payment of services, interest and $300 in attorney fees.

• Statewide Collections Inc. vs. Bruce Brink Jr. The plaintiff, acting for Western Airlines, is seeking $83, interest and $100 in attorney fees.

• Statewide Collections Inc. vs. William Jacobson. The plaintiff, representing St.-Benedict's Hospital of Jerome, is seeking $197.33, interest and $100 in attorney fees.

• Statewide Collections Inc. vs. Donald L. and Paula Phillips. The plaintiff, on behalf of Red's Trading Post, The Times-News, Louis Garbrecht and Drs. Shaub and Emerys, is seeking $297.82, bad-check charges of $52.29 and $100 in attorney fees.

• Credit Bureau of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Kari Dwight and Teresa Randall. The plaintiff, acting for Ernest Home Center, Dr. Mike Dingman and Magic Valley Drug, is seeking $410.10, bad-check in attorney fees, and $500 penalties.

• Credit Bureau of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Steven R. and Des Hall. The plaintiff, representing Barton's 93 Club in Jackpot and Dr. Eddie Allison, is seeking $84, interest, $100 in attorney fees and bad-check penalties.

• Credit Bureau of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Douglas R. Gudenus. The plaintiff, acting for Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, the Intermountain Gas Co. and the Twin Falls municipal water and sanitation department, is seeking $29.74, interest and $110 in attorney fees.
