Waste cleanup fund may get boost

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The House moved Thursday toward approving a sixfold expansion of the "superfund" to clean up abandoned toxic chemical dumps amid arguments that hazardous waste threatens the health of thousands of Americans.

Senate asks protection for wilderness areas - A3

Plans to complete the bill Thursday and delayed final passage until Friday. Most of the amendments were minor. But in a key vote late Thursday, the House voted 208-200 to strike a section of the law allowing people injured by hazardous wastes to sue polluters for damages in federal courts.

"It's time to get on with the job," she said. "It's time to fulfill the commitment we made four years ago when we enacted the original superfund legislation."

IFF waste disposal aired in first-round battle

By DAVE MOFFAT Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - County residents packed a courtroom in the judicial annex Thursday night to air views on Idaho Frozen Foods' application for a conditional-use permit to allow it to continue using 530 acres in the Snake River Canyon for wastewater disposal.

administrator Lee Taylor reading written comments that had been received by the county. This testimony included a letter from the state Department of Health, Welfare, Division of Environment, explaining the company and the department were negotiating a new compliance order to govern operation of the system.

Howard, a Meander Point homeowner, who said he felt the economic success of Idaho Frozen Foods was one of the most important issues that should be considered.

He said it would take five to seven years for the trees to reach a size large enough to allow them to be harvested for firewood.

The hearing in front of the County Planning and Zoning Commission will probably be the first round of deliberations on the matter, however, because of a county rule allowing all permit decisions by the committee to be appealed to the Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners.

It also included a letter from former Fifth District Judge Tieren Ward, a Meander Point homeowner, complaining the company had no business asking to expand its system when nothing it had done so far had been done with proper zoning approval from the county.

He said the company had plans to use wastewater to grow hybrid poplar trees. The University of Idaho is studying the use of the wastewater to grow the trees.

He also said the area would remain accessible to fishermen and hunters.

"Either way, we expect we are going to get it on appeal," said Commissioner Judy Felton. The hearing began with county zoning

Also included was a letter from Charles D.

A university representative said the trees could be used for a number of purposes, including firewood, cattle feed and wood chips.

As of press time, the commissioners had made no decision on the issue.

Board eyes funding to boost state timber sales

By QUANIE KENYON AP Capital Writer

"BOISE - The managers of Idaho's state-owned timber lands want to boost the harvest from that land. And members of the state Land Board say they want the Legislature to know that spending money to increase the timber harvest could generate much more cash for future state budgets. "This is a place where you can more than get your money back - in perpetuity," said Jerry Evans, state schools superintendent. "We need to stress that again, again and again."

Staffer Ion Jones said the agency is under "considerable pressure" from Idaho's timber industry to step up the harvest of timber from state lands.

Armed escorts join conflict

By The Associated Press

Egyptian sources said Thursday that Cairo would provide military escorts for pilgrims sailing across the Red Sea to Meccah holy cities in Saudi Arabia, and Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini denounced mine attacks that have damaged at least 13 ships in recent weeks.

Cyprus, Iran has denied any part in the attacks. Hundreds of thousands of Moslems are expected to take part in the annual pilgrimage to holy places in Saudi Arabia, including about 110,000 Egyptians. Egyptian officials said about 25,000 of them will sail across the Red Sea. The first Egyptian ship, the Syria with 605 pilgrims aboard, left Thursday afternoon from Suez City at the southern end of the Suez Canal.

clear the sea lanes, and the British Defense Ministry said Wednesday it was sending four minesweepers and a support ship from the Mediterranean Sea. The British ships were expected to arrive in a week. A U.S. Navy survey ship has been in the Suez Gulf since last week, helping search for mines and serving as a base for 15 American experts. France announced Thursday that it was considering a similar request by the Egyptian government. As a first step, the French Foreign Ministry said, France will reinforce its military presence in Djibouti, the former colony that overlooks the Bab el-Mandeb Straits - the southern entrance to the Red Sea. France, which has about 3,500 regular troops and Foreign Legionnaires in Djibouti, did not describe its plans. French naval vessels make routine stops at Djibouti.

Mrs. Hatfield's cash sparks FBI's interest

By JOAN MOWER The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate Ethics Committee announced Thursday it is reviewing Sen. Mark Hatfield's dealings with a Greek businessman who paid $40,000 to the senator's wife, and sources said the FBI wants to open a criminal investigation into the case. The latest developments unfolded as Hatfield, R-Ore., denied allegations that the money paid to Antoinette Hatfield, a real estate agent, had any connection to his work or that any facts warrant an inquiry.

A fourth source said he thought a decision had been made to authorize the investigation but that the official paperwork had not been completed. "Taskos' Trans Asian Pipeline Corp., meanwhile, issued a statement saying the firm and its chairman have "nothing to hide concerning either the project or any connection with Sen. and Mrs. Hatfield." The company said it had instructed its lawyer, William Casselman, to arrange a meeting with "appropriate U.S. government authorities" to answer any questions. See SENATOR on Page A2

Police kill 18-year-old gunman
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Police sharpshooters shot and killed an 18-year-old gunman who barricaded himself in an apartment for three hours, then burst out the door after screaming "I'm coming out shooting."
 The standoff, punctuated by gunfire from the apartment, began when police tried to serve a warrant from Illinois on the man, identified as Aaron Michael Rubarge, said police spokesman Lt. Dave McBride.
 The warrant charged him with armed robbery in connection with an Aug. 2 holdup at a motel in Troy, Ill., and a subsequent shootout with Madison County sheriff's deputies, McBride said.
 The man fired from his apartment at least twice during the incident, McBride said, once when members of a negotiating team knocked on his door and offered to give him a telephone to begin talks.

Key witness returns to Idaho
COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Keith Gilmore, victim of an alleged kidnapping incident in April, has returned to northern Idaho after being reported missing since July 26.
 Gilmore, 37, of Fountain Valley, Calif., is the key witness in an aggravated assault case against two men who allegedly slipped a larfal around his neck and then threw the rope's end over a tree branch near Harrison in southern Kootenai County.
 The prosecutor's office and defense attorneys for Roger McDonald, 44, and Joseph Sanchez, 33, agreed to postpone a Monday hearing in the case to at least 30 days after Gilmore failed to appear for testimony.
 Sheriff's Detective Earl Winans said Gilmore ordered a meal in a Coeur d'Alene restaurant after returning to town Thursday afternoon, and told employees to call his parents and they'd pay the bill. Gilmore's parents called deputies, who took Gilmore to the prosecutor's office.

PCB shipment found leaking
GRAND VIEW (AP) — Officials say a shipment containing the hazardous substance PCB has been impounded because the shipment apparently was leaking.
 But officials said there appeared to be no health hazard, because the PCB levels were below those considered harmful to humans. The truck used for the shipment remained impounded Thursday and won't be released until the contamination is cleaned up, officials said.
 Charles Scott, county environmental safety officer, said the material was shipped to the Enviroserve Services disposal site near Grand View by the federal Environmental Protection Agency. Four electrical transformers carrying PCB originated in the Montana Islands, said Frank York, Boise, federal Transportation Department safety specialist.

Woman pleads to lesser charge
PRESTON (AP) — A 36-year-old Preston woman pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter Thursday after attorneys in the case agreed to a plea bargain.
 Florence Buxton was originally charged with voluntary manslaughter in the shooting death of her husband, 37-year-old Clair Buxton, on April 23.
 The reduced charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine, said Sixth District Court Judge Dell Smith.
 Officers said Buxton was shot four times with a .44 magnum revolver.
 Mrs. Buxton has been free on $5,000 bond since shortly after her arrest. The judge ordered the bond continued pending sentencing.

4-Hers vote to legalize 'pot'
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Members of Florida chapters of 4-H, a farm youth club whose green and white colors stand for growth and purity, voted in a mock legislative session Thursday to legalize marijuana as a cash crop.
 But the balloting didn't count because of a technicality, and "the vote was in no way officially endorsed by the 4-H Legislature," said high school senior Natalie Shafer, who chaired its planning committee.
 Group advisor Ruth Milton, who said she found the proposal "very surprising," refused to identify the sponsor.
 "I don't think we want him to speak on that one," she said.

Cowboy 'booted' for stealing
HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Because there are so few one-legged cowboys in Billings, a shoplifter who ran off with one boot was properly convicted of trying to steal a whole pair, the Montana Supreme Court ruled Thursday.
 In a 4-1 decision laced with puns, the court ruled that Brian Barker had "no leg to stand on" with his appeal claim that he should have been "convicted of a misdemeanor rather than attempted felony theft."
 Barker was convicted on evidence stemming from a visit to the Corral West Ranch Wear store in Billings on April 12, 1983.

Singer, model slated to wed
NEW YORK (AP) — Rock star Billy Joel and model Christie Brinkley have become engaged and plan a quiet wedding, according to two newspaper reports.
 The couple, who have been dating for the last year, have not set a date for the wedding, but friends say it will be quiet and off limits to all but family and close friends, the New York Daily News and the New York Post reported Thursday, quoting Miss Brinkley's agent and the couple's friends.

Comic actor dies at age 62

RICHARD DEACON
 "The Dick Van Dyke Show"

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Richard Deacon, the actor whose comically pompous roles included parts on television's "Leave It to Beaver" and "The Dick Van Dyke Show," died unexpectedly at 62, the coroner's office said Thursday.
 "Paramedics were called to his home in West Los Angeles and took him to Cedars Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, where he was pronounced dead" at 11:07 p.m. Wednesday, coroner's spokesman Bill Gold said.
 Gold said Deacon's death was of "apparent natural causes," possibly a heart seizure. A coroner's examination was set for Friday.
 "It was a shock," said Robert Prete, Deacon's manager for the last five years. "He had no history of that condition."
 Deacon's bald pate, black-rimmed glasses and stern demeanor made him a natural for portraying stuffy bureaucrats in more than 100 films and hundreds of television shows.
 "He was always the guy with the pocket watch who would look down his nose on people, which was so far from what Richard was really like," Prete said. "He liked to say he played characters who didn't know too much, but they didn't know it."
 Deacon was a regular on seven series in the 1950s and '60s, including "Leave It to Beaver," in which he played the father of Wally's sidekick Clarence "Lumpy" Rutherford, and "The Dick Van Dyke Show," where he played the overbearing producer Melvin Cooley.
 Born May 14, 1922, in Philadelphia, Deacon began acting while studying for a medical career at Ithaca College in New York. After a few years at a community theater in Tulare, Calif., he decided to take a shot at the movies.

 into the school endowment fund would boost revenue from that source by $200,000 per year.
 Jerry Evans said legislators need to be impressed with the fact that's a way to ease the budget crunch that appears to be developing.
 He said legislators should understand that by spending $124,000, the state can generate an extra $200,000 in endowment earnings.
 State Auditor Joe Williams and Gov. John Evans both said they were concerned that the timber market currently depressed because of a long slump in the housing industry, couldn't handle extra state timber. The result might be selling at depressed prices, they said.

 But Jones said when the state can sell timber on a long-term contract of at least three or four years, demand has been holding up. He said there appears to be good prospects for the sale of Idaho's timber for the foreseeable future.
 He said a new timber harvest management plan, indicates the state should be selling more of its older, mature timber. Much of it has reached maximum growth and will only deteriorate if it is not harvested, he said.
 Agency director Stan Hamilton said the department intends to seek funding for merit raises for its employees. Aida Jay Williams said most agency employees haven't had merit increases since 1981.
 The only way salary increases can be funded now is through eliminating jobs, he said.
 "That's kind of like eating your hand to stay alive," said Hamilton.

Lafferty brothers win a reprieve

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Two brothers accused in the Utah throat-slashing deaths of their sister-in-law and her infant daughter were granted a stay Thursday in their battle to avoid extradition from Nevada.

Washoe District Court Judge Roy Torvinen told Ronald Watson Lafferty, 32, and Dan Lafferty, 36, that they have until Aug. 17 to prepare a writ of habeas corpus.

Earlier Thursday, Nevada Gov. Richard Bryan had signed extradition papers for the return to Utah of the brothers, excommunicated Mormons thought by police to be members of a polygamist cult.

During the extradition hearing, Ronald Lafferty told Torvinen he and his brother would not get a fair trial in Utah.

Lafferty also told the judge he wanted to be identified as Ronnie Daniels, instead of Ronald Lafferty, and wanted to talk with reporters.

Both men appeared in court shackled at the wrists and ankles, and clad in orange jail jumpsuits.

A request for extradition of the men was signed late Wednesday by Utah Gov. Scott Matheson.

The Laffertys were arrested by FBI agents Tuesday at Circus Circus casino in Reno on a federal warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in the July 24 slayings of Brenda Wright Lafferty, 24, formerly of Kimberly, and her 15-month-old daughter, Erica.

Police said both the victims had their necks slashed with a sharp instrument.

The federal charges were dropped in favor of the state charges of murder, aggravated burglary and criminal conspiracy to speed extradition. Bail was set at $250,000 for each of the men.

Two other men, Richard Knapp, 24, of Wichita, Kan., and Charles Carnes, 23, of Belen, N.M., were arrested July 30 in Cheyenne, Wyo. They also have been charged with first-degree murder.

Senate advocates protecting 3 million acres in 5 states

By BILL McCLOSKEY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Thursday night to protect more than 3 million acres of federal land in five states from development by formally declaring it wilderness.

Included was the California wilderness bill, the subject of a long-running dispute among conservationists and those who feel America would be better served by developing the land for oil, timber, minerals and recreation.

In addition to California's legislation, separate bills were passed covering federal land in Florida, Utah, Arkansas and Arizona.

All five bills must still be passed by the House or Representatives. Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, predicted President Reagan would sign the bills if the House passes them without change.

McClure also predicted bills protecting wilderness in Wyoming, Idaho and Montana would also pass before the end of the session, although Montana's two senators expressed some doubt about that during hearings on the proposal earlier in the day.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, caustically noted as each bill passed that his state had no such easy time in designating land areas to be protected. "My state needs to have the same treatment and needs to be accorded the same courtesy," he said, noting that another Alaska lands bill was being readied for the 1985 session of Congress.

McClure's committee has allowed the congressional delegation from each state to work out a plan for protecting certain lands as well as releasing other lands from further consideration for protection.

Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., who drafted the compromise bill with Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said the action "should break years of deadlock and indecision on this critical issue."

Average moth catches per trap for 1981, 1982, 1983, and 1984 are presented in the graph. This year's catches started similarly to 1983 due to cold weather. Peak moth flight occurred on the average on August 4.

Peak flights in Buhl and Wendell occurred about July 31. The best time to spray beans in those areas would be August 9, the optimum time to spray beans in the other areas would be from August 17 to August 24. Bean fields with abundant bloom during peak flight will be more susceptible to damage than fields with little or no bloom.

Dylox, Pydrin, Sevin, and Thiodan are all registered for use on beans to control western bean cutworm. The treatment periods mentioned above may be begun approximately 10 days earlier or extended 10 days later if Pydrin is used.

Moth catches and expected average damage to beans for the various areas are presented in the table. The figures are averages! Some fields will receive more and some fields less damage than the predicted averages. Each grower should compare bean damage on his farm over the past three years to cutworm flights for those same periods and for this year. These figures represent losses growers can expect from field loss and cleanout due to cutworm injury. Damage of 2% is a general break-even point for spraying beans.

DIFFERENT BEAN COMPANIES ESTIMATE LOSSES FROM DAMAGE AND DOWNGRADING DIFFERENTLY. EACH GROWER SHOULD CONSULT WITH HIS WAREHOUSE OR FIELDMAN IN ADDITION TO MEASURING APPLICATION COST AGAINST YIELD AND PRICE BEFORE MAKING CONTROL DECISIONS.

Sweet corn growers should contact their fieldman for spray recommendations. Western bean cutworm should be controlled in field corn when one plant in seven shows egg masses or larval feeding.

Today is last day to sign up for vote

Every time the city holds an election, says finance director Bryce King, people are turned away from voting who thought they were properly registered, but found out — too late — that they weren't.

The result is that a relatively small number of Twin Falls voters determine the outcome of city elections. The same pattern could well occur Tuesday unless you — the voter — take action today, Friday.

Today is the last day for you to register properly to vote Tuesday on two important city issues — a $1.9 million bond issue to fund a new geothermal swimming pool and the consolidation of the city's police and fire departments.

Both issues have generated considerable public debate in recent weeks. Both have strong proponents and outspoken opponents as well.

Now the decision on each is up to us voters, but not if you're not registered.

The problem, says King, is differing election districts. Many of us are used to voting in state and national elections and are registered properly for those with the county clerk.

The process is different for city elections. In these, we have to register at City Hall — which will be open until 8 p.m. today to handle the expected rush — and we vote in different precincts.

The result of this duplicate system — which, by the way, the Legislature should eliminate — is that many people who think they are registered find out they aren't. As a result, about half — some 4,000 — of the city's normal voter turnout bothers to vote. In a vote like Tuesday for the pool, in which two-thirds 'yes' is required for passage, that means just 1,300 no-votes will doom the project.

So today, take time to make sure you're registered for the pool bond vote and the consolidation referendum. You can check by calling City Hall at 733-0860. Then, if you're not registered, get down and do so. You need to be 18 and have proof of city residency for 30 days, such as a driver's license, water bill or other residency identification.

Pass the Malathion

Interesting, wasn't it, how the prospect of grasshopper windfall money turned Idaho's political leaders from fiscal conservatives into squealing me-tooers at the public trough. This week, not content with thumping on the feds for not coughing up enough money to eradicate every insect in Idaho, they turned on each other.

Sen. Steve Symms and Gov. John Evans warmed up for the voters in 1984 by insulting each other's effort in asking for enough money, soon enough. Evans suggested that Rep. George Hansen hadn't done much to help out, which may be the most accurate thing he said, and then added that Hansen ought to think about resigning.

Nonsense, said George, who took time from his busy Washington schedule of reprimand appearances to come to Idaho and strategically position himself in every grasshopper picture and film clip.

Ah, well, folks, pass the Malathion. It's just a political year.

Question: Should GOP platform limit tax options?

Yes
Rep. Jack Kemp

When he accepted the Democratic presidential nomination, Walter Mondale was categorical in committing himself and his party to raising taxes on America's working families. The former vice president deserves respect for his candor, and for focusing on the real central issue this year.

The president has repeatedly opposed any tax increases. And wise as the Republicans should accept the Democratic challenge by being no less candid than Mondale, our platform must categorically oppose any tax increase during Ronald Reagan's second term.

At stake this year is not just control of the White House and Congress, but the direction of our country. And if Republicans wish to recover our country, the Republican Party must be completely frank with the voters. We must pledge without reservation that we will neither increase current tax rates nor impose new taxes. Period. Equivocation will not gain and does not deserve the American people's respect.

The prosperity of Americans can only be increased by continuing the economic recovery, which has generated nearly 7 million new jobs in 18 months. The most immediate threat to the recovery is the Federal Reserve's monetary policy of keeping interest rates artificially high, which has already forced a slowdown. But no recovery can be sustained and broadened unless we check the impulse to overtax the economy.

That is why an ironclad pledge against tax increases is needed in the GOP platform. In fact, we need comprehensive tax reform to lower tax rates further and broaden the tax base.

Opponents of a "no tax increase" pledge claim that cutting deficits threaten the recovery and the life of the generation. According to their theory, we must raise taxes to close the deficit and end that threat.

That theory is mistaken on several counts. First, federal deficits are not growing. With so many new jobs being created, over the last year revenues have been rising at a rate of 12 percent while spending has gone up by 4 percent.

Second, sustained economic growth depends on new investment and savings. Current figures show that this recovery is not a "Keynesian, deficit-led" recovery.

Third, today's worrymongers are self-contradictory. On the one hand, they complain that deficits are "crowding out" growth right now. On the other, they tell us a burden is being shifted to future generations. They can't have it both ways.

It is ironic that Mondale, the latter-day heir of FDR, who said we had nothing to fear but fear itself, apparently has nothing to offer — the American people but fear itself — and new taxes.

Rep. Jack Kemp is a Republican congressman from New York.

No
Sen. Robert Dole

For all the media attention to the tax debate within the Republican Party, there is far less there than meets the eye. Republicans are in overwhelming agreement on most aspects of the tax issue, and it is time for everyone to relax and listen to Ronald Reagan's clear message on taxes.

Republicans all agree that we must rule out any increase in personal income taxes. High individual tax rates were a major contributor to the stagflation of the '70s, and one of the outstanding achievements of the first Reagan administration was the series of tax-rate reductions and indexing to inflation that ended the deceit of bracket creep. The importance of tax indexing can hardly be overstated, because it lies at the heart of the tax policy debate. Without indexing, we have no direct control over revenues, effective tax rates or marginal tax rates. What is worse, we penalize the lower-income and moderate-income taxpayer the most, because inflation pushes them into higher brackets most rapidly.

Republicans also agree that our tax and spending policies have to be geared to sustaining our spectacular economic recovery while maintaining low levels of inflation and reasonable rates of interest. There can be little doubt that victory over inflation represents Reagan's supreme economic achievement. That victory must be made permanent.

The fact is that in 1980 Americans accepted Ronald Reagan's challenge to try a new approach to breaking the stagflation deadlock. As a result, we have declining inflation and rising employment, the dollar is strong, and the world marvels at our ability to rise from the depths of recession and create jobs at record rates. But now the challenge is to offer the American people new opportunities in the years ahead by limiting government interference, fostering economic stability and giving full rein to the creative energies of all our citizens.

We simply have not succeeded in sealing the size of the federal government back as much as we should, as much as the American people expect, and as much as the economy needs.

This problem must be tackled head-on, and it means we will have to scrutinize every aspect of the budget for possible savings next year. There is no shortage of options: one example is a one-year freeze on spending, holding defense at 5 percent real growth. That could save $150 billion over three years. The point is that we can control spending if we have the imagination, the willpower and the support of the voters.

Some Republicans can agree on common-sense priorities for meeting the economic challenges that we hope and expect will be a second Reagan administration.

First, continue to foster stable economic growth by keeping in place the tax, spending and regulatory reforms of the past three years.

Second, continue to attack federal spending on all fronts, with a few exceptions for vulnerable groups allowed.

Third, work for maximum stability in monetary policy, without some of the sudden swings and shifts that have marred an otherwise dramatic improvement on the monetary front in recent years. Finally, work to further reform taxes by lowering rates and broadening the tax base.

None knows precisely what deficit-reduction options we will take up next year, because no one knows for certain what the composition of Congress will be or who will be president.

The president has stated his views on taxes, spending and deficits, and I believe they reflect the priorities discussed above. In the last resort, the president, our candidate in 1984, must set the policy and take the lead. That is why it would be a major mistake to attempt to box the president in by ruling out any particular option for tackling economic problems in the Republican platform.

Sen. Robert Dole, a Republican from Kansas, is chairman of the Finance Committee.

Letters/ Pool, fire consolidation generate mail

Former fireman writes

In recent weeks I have heard some statements that disturb me greatly. Although I am no longer a citizen of Twin Falls, I still share a deep concern for the welfare and safety of the current residents and employees of the City of Twin Falls. My concern stems in part from actions and statements that have come from the very top of the city's organizational structure, namely the mayor. I am appalled at the apparent apathy expressed by the residents when the "leader" of the community is convicted of a crime that was expressed by his apparent lack of self-control and his "ability" to react to a situation instead of thinking it through and then acting in a calm, adult manner, one that is reflective of a true leader. If an employee of the city had conducted himself in the same manner, I doubt that he would still be employed by the city.

I am also concerned over statements made to an employee group threatening them with the loss of their jobs if they didn't adhere to what he may want.

These are only a few examples of disharmony, distrust and poor working conditions and undermine the quality of service that we all deserve and pay for.

Association for CPIT, or the Red Cross for first aid. It is the opinion of the majority of professional firefighters and city administrators alike that an emergency medical service is one of the most visible and economical services performed by fire departments today. The personnel are already there, strategically located throughout the city, and you are already paying them for the protection of your life. Why not let them do the job they want to do?

I am also concerned because the mayor does not support engine company inspections whereby the Uniform Fire Code and the Life Safety Codes are enforced. These codes are not designed to put businessmen out of business but to keep them in business and to protect the lives of the citizens who patronize those businesses.

Consolidation? How would you as a physician of ten years like to be told you will work part-time giving bed baths and emptying bed pans? How would you as an attorney of fifteen years like to be told you will work part-time as a court clerk, or as a car salesman of ten years you will sell auto parts part-time?

Firefighters want to provide the quality and level of service you deserve and for which you pay.

As a former Twin Falls firefighter and a current fire administrator, I am deeply concerned for the welfare and safety of my friends, family and acquaintances, both inside and outside the fire service in the City of Twin Falls.

Put pool at Harmon Park

As a mother of a five-year-old boy who enjoys swimming very much, I am concerned about the proper location of the new city pool. Not the location of Twin Falls High School, but the location of Harmon Park.

Building the pool at TFHS will raise all property taxes. You say you rent so it doesn't affect you. Wrong! It affects your landlord — and when his property taxes go up, so does your rent.

If we build the pool where it belongs at Harmon Park, we can eliminate the raising of rent and property taxes. The City of Twin Falls has the $750,000 to build the pool at Harmon Park. We were promised a pool at Harmon Park by 1985. If the pool is built at TFHS, we will have to wait until 1987 or 1988. Two to three more years. Cost? $2,735,205 with the 11 percent interest — $4,165,500. Why not build a pool we all can afford? And be able to swim in it in one year not two to three years?

Shooting badger was smart

I have a hard time feeling sad for the "helpless" badger that was recently shot. Just two days prior, it had growled at and chased after my six-year-old daughter who was riding her bicycle at the college.

Needless to say, the whole incident scared her pretty bad. Luckily she just kept riding and was able to get out of danger. I would like to thank the policeman that shot and killed that badger. By doing the smart and sensible thing, he showed that the safety of the public is more important than the rights of a badger.

Thanks from ball players

On behalf of the Twin Falls American Legion Baseball Booster Association, I would like to thank the American Legion Post No. 7 for their generous financial support towards their baseball program for boys 15 through 18. Also, a special thanks to Coach Mike Tremayne, his Asst. Coach, Mike Federico

Thanks for coverage

On behalf of the Twin Falls American Legion Booster Association, I would like to tell you how much we appreciated the support and coverage that Steve Crump and Brad Breland gave us during our baseball season.

As you may know, this program relies on the financial support of the American Legion Post No. 7, the community and the players' parents. The coverage you gave us in reporting the games and special write-ups about our attempt to raise additional monies by holding a baseball camp, etc. was a great help to the program.

With your continuing support of this program, I feel confident that it will be a program carried on in Twin Falls for many years to come. Thank you.

Judge holds decision in Ferraro probe

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department will wait until Geraldine Ferraro makes new disclosures about her family's finances before deciding whether to open a criminal investigation of her past disclosures, a government source said Thursday.

The conservative Washington Legal Foundation asked the department earlier this week to investigate whether the Democratic vice presidential candidate violated the Ethics in Government Act by declining to disclose her husband's finances on reports she filed with the House of Representatives over the past six years.

Ms. Ferraro has said she will file new forms as a vice presidential candidate by Aug. 20 and that her husband's finances will be included.

The Justice Department source, who spoke on the condition of not being identified, said that dozens of federal officials had supplemented, revised or altered their financial disclosures forms since the post-Watergate ethics act became law in 1978 and had not been prosecuted.

Many claimed, as Ms. Ferraro has, that their original forms were based on sound interpretations by their legal advisers of somewhat murky instructions; others claimed that they forgot to list certain assets or debts.

"The whole point of the law is to obtain disclosure," the source said. "If there is disclosure, ultimately, then it's hard to prove there was the criminal intent to violate the law, which is required for prosecution."

Only one official, Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, has been criminally prosecuted for violating the financial disclosure provisions of the act, but the government said he concealed the existence of some of his and his wife's transactions.

Ms. Ferraro's forms acknowledged there were other assets belonging to her husband but claimed she was eligible for an exemption from disclosing them.

She has called the conservative legal group's complaint to the Justice Department and to the House ethics committee "an attempt to politically embarrass me. I'm not embarrassed."

"I don't believe I have violated the law," she told reporters this week.

The three-term congressman said, "I still think I am qualified" to claim an exemption that allowed her to avoid listing the holdings of her husband, wealthy New York real estate executive John A. Zaccaro, and her children. "I will not be changing that," she added.

But she renewed the promise she made shortly after Walter F. Mondale chose her as his running mate to make a complete disclosure of her own and her husband's finances, including copies of their tax returns.

The law requires vice presidential candidates to make the same type of disclosure as members of Congress within 30 days of their nomination.

Ms. Ferraro said she will disclose more than the law requires.

Paul D. Kamener, executive legal

GERALDINE FERRARO
Her disclosure still pending director of the foundation, said it "strains credibility" for Ms. Ferraro to have claimed that she had no knowledge of her husband's holdings.

Democrats repudiate promotion of bigotry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee, at the behest of presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale, adopted a resolution Thursday repudiating "people who promote bigotry, racism and anti-Semitism."

The party had come under fire from Republicans and Jewish leaders for not including such a plank in its platform at its convention in San Francisco last month.

The issue came to the fore after Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan, an ally of the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, made disparaging remarks about the Jewish religion.

In a letter to Democratic Party Chairman Charles T. Manatt, Mondale urged that the resolution be adopted. He said it was supposed to have been done at the committee's meeting in San Francisco on July 21, the morning after the convention closed.

"Unfortunately, in the excitement and confusion following the adjournment of the convention Thursday night, adequate steps were not taken ... to make sure that the resolution was considered at (that) meeting," Mondale wrote.

The resolution was adopted by the party's 42-member executive committee in a telephone poll Thursday. It reads:

"The Democratic Party takes this opportunity to reaffirm its adherence to pluralistic principles and to repudiate and completely disassociate itself from people who promote all forms of bigotry, racism and anti-Semitism."

The Democrats said party rules had precluded consideration of the resolution at the convention because it had not been cleared first by the appropriate committee.

Sen. Alfonse D'Amato of New York has pressed for inclusion of a stand against anti-Semitism in the Republican platform at its convention, which opens in Dallas Aug. 20.

Reagan mapping campaign

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan plotted campaign strategy with two top political aides Thursday in a "purely private" luncheon conference, his second meeting this week devoted to paving a path toward another four years in the White House.

White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III and campaign chairman Stuart Spencer went to Reagan's isolated mountaintop ranch for a meeting described as a "free-wheeling discussion and an open agenda."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the trio would discuss "some of the statements that the Democratic opponent has laid out," as well as future presidential travel and polling data.

The Democratic statement was a reference to Walter F. Mondale's charge that Reagan has a secret plan to raise taxes after the election. Mondale has openly admitted he would, as president, raise taxes in an effort to cut the federal deficit approaching $200 billion a year.

Speakes said the ranch meeting was a "purely private meeting to discuss politics," including the agenda at the Republican National Convention, which begins Aug. 20 in Dallas.

Bill eases pension earning for women

WASHINGTON — A bill designed to make it easier for women to earn pension rights is on its way to President Reagan after passing the House on a voice vote Thursday.

The president was expected to sign the measure, which was first introduced in 1981 by Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of New York, the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Town calms after hispanics, whites clash

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) — Community leaders tried to calm a smoldering neighborhood Thursday following an overnight rampage of firebombing, gunfire and rock-throwing touched off by a smashed car window.

Eleven people were sent to hospitals, a liquor store and apartment building were gutted by fire, a bar was ransacked and windows were smashed in a two-block area as an estimated 100 Hispanics and whites threw rocks and exchanged taunts for five hours.

Police Chief Joseph Kyllus ordered a halt to the rioting and put 10 extra patrolmen on night duty. Clergy and politicians, including Rep. James Shannon, a Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate, visited the area trying to cool tempers as residents swept broken glass and debris from the sidewalks.

Efficiency up in many industries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efficiency in American workplaces improved last year in roughly three-quarters of more than 70 industries surveyed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Productivity in the financially pressed U.S. steel industry shot up at an annual rate of 27.7 percent in 1983, a record one-year gain, which followed a record-setting productivity decline of 18.8 percent the year before, the report said.

Productivity improved most significantly last year, according to the latest report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Hurricane dangers on rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Americans don't prepare for the next hurricane they could pay with hundreds or even thousands of deaths, National Hurricane Center Director Neil Frank warned Thursday.

And he told a House subcommittee that since coastal populations have grown too large to be moved to higher ground when storms threaten, public officials may have to turn to "vertical evacuation" — sheltering people in large buildings during storms.

R.N.Y. of the House Science and Technology subcommittee on natural resources, said Americans "must not be lulled into a false sense of complacency because we have not been hit by a severe hurricane in several years."

And Frank, who heads the National Weather Service's hurricane laboratory in Miami, concurred, saying "we have a very serious hurricane problem... primarily a human one."

The lack of a severe hurricane over the last 20 years or so has made people overconfident, he said, and millions of people who have no experience with the storms have moved to coastal areas where the danger is highest.

Samuel W. Speck of the Federal Emergency Management Agency estimated that about 40 million people live in coastal communities from Texas to Maine, approximately 80 percent of which have never experienced a hurricane.

Judge's trial nears end

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Jurors weighing the fate of U.S. District Judge Harry Claiborne were told Thursday they will have to determine whether he deliberately cheated on his taxes or was a victim of sloppy work by his accountants.

Claiborne, 67, is accused of two counts of filing false tax returns and one of lying on a judicial disclosure statement. The case was scheduled to go to the jury late in the day.

If convicted, the judge could face up to 11 years in prison — five years for making a false statement — on the disclosure form and three years each for the tax charges.

In closing arguments, government prosecutor William Hendricks told jurors Claiborne "admits to being desperate for money, not just in need of money."

Hendricks contended there was "ample evidence that shows Claiborne was acting in a knowing fashion" when he filed his 1979 and 1980 income tax returns, which the prosecution says understated his income.

Hendricks also said the government did not believe the $75,000 Claiborne failed to list on his disclosure statement was part of a 1972 gift from a Las Vegas casino executive. He contended it was a loan Claiborne chose not to declare because it "might have been a conflict of interest or just an embarrassment."

The judge delivered 63 legal instructions ranging from the definition of conspiracy and entrapment to the problems involving testimony by an informant who is also a perjurer and convicted felon.

Police pursuing fugitives

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — New tracks in the Madison Mountains have led authorities to believe that two self-styled mountain men wanted for the abduction and wounding of a woman athlete and killing of her would-be rescuer are back in the area, Madison County Sheriff Johnny France said Thursday.

Reports of possible sightings of Don Nichols, 53, and his son, Dan, 19, since the July 16 shootings follow a path south to Yellowstone National Park and back to the Madison mountain country that the two have called home for the past 12 summers.

France said the FBI is also checking out three possible sightings of the pair's wifely partner.

"There's some other things going on that I'm not at liberty to discuss," France said.

Authorities still believe the Nicholoses may have a radio or may try to look at a newspaper to monitor search efforts.

"If they are moving, it's obvious they are going to want to know what we're doing," France said.

The two men are wanted in the kidnapping of world-class biathlete Karl Swenson, 23, of Bozeman, as she jogged on a logging road north of Big Sky.

Authorities believe the younger Nichols accidentally shot Miss Swenson's long rescuers nearest their camp early the next morning. Don Nichols is wanted for the fatal shooting of Alan Goldstein, 36, a Big Sky man who tried to rescue the woman. She is recovering in her parents' home from a gunshot wound to the upper chest.

The shootings provoked an intense four-day manhunt in the Madison Range, where the Nicholoses have lived since last August.

Since then, searchers on horseback and foot have combed the area looking for signs of the suspects.

Air base eyed as dump-site

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency is seeking public comments on Hill Air Force Base's request to store hazardous waste temporarily at the base 10 miles north of Salt Lake City.

The base has applied for a federal permit allowing storage of more than 15,000 gallons of toxic, flammable and corrosive waste for a 90-day period, said Lawrence Wapensky, chief of the regional EPA Hazardous Waste Permit Section.

He said missile and aircraft maintenance and repair work at Hill produce such hazardous materials as solvents, paint, electroplating waste and industrial sludge.

Wapensky said approval of the application would bring the air base into compliance with the Federal Hazardous Waste Management Act of 1980. EPA officials have already reviewed it and found it "acceptable," he said.

Hill workers have handled hazardous wastes for years, Wapensky said, but the new federal law tightens requirements for handling and storing the materials.

The permit would let Hill officials store waste in a new 4,000-square-foot metal building, which Wapensky said sits on concrete pads with catch basins to hold any leaks.

1,300 acres burn in fire

MADRAS, Ore. (AP) — Fires believed caused by a passing freight train were under control Thursday after burning more than 1,300 acres of federal and private land north of Madras.

A "hot box" on a freight car in the Burlington Northern train was reported as the train came out of the Deschutes River Canyon on Wednesday, fire officials said.

Officials described a "hot box" as a box in which the axle of a train wheel revolves. The packing in those boxes sometimes becomes heated and ignites.

Scott Boyd, a fire dispatcher for the Merrillville office of the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, said Thursday that four people were fighting a 640-acre blaze.

Another fire, near Gateway and believed caused by the same hot box, spread over about 300 acres of federal land and then jumped the Deschutes River to the Warm Springs Indian Reservation, where it covered an additional 400 or more acres, Boyd said.

NEPHI, Utah (AP) — A tearful Patricia Mann testified Thursday that although her father raped her at age 15 and had sexual relations with her "all the time," she meant him no harm when he was shot in the back while driving to see her.

"I don't want my dad hurt," Miss Mann, 19, said on the second day of her trial on charges of attempted second-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

After Miss Mann concluded her testimony as the sole defense witness, 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock scheduled closing arguments for Thursday afternoon. The jury of seven women and one man was expected to begin deliberations later in the day.

Robert Mann, 49, of Salt Lake City, was shot by an unseen sniper on May 17 while driving through Salt Creek Canyon near here on his way to see his daughter, a student at Snow College in Ephraim.

Miss Mann's boyfriend, Roger J. Midgley, 20, Salt Lake City, faces a Sept. 10 trial in Provo on charges of attempted second-degree murder, conspiracy to commit murder and aggravated assault in the wounding of Mann.

Miss Mann denied she and Midgley were trying to kill her father when they waited on a mountainside for his car to pass and Midgley fired a .22-caliber pistol and then a high-powered rifle at the vehicle.

She said they were trying "to scare Dad away, to shoot out his tires" to keep him away from Ephraim. The plan was to shoot out two tires so her father's spare tire would do no good, she said.

On the mountainside, she said, she told Midgley "Don't shoot him."

Herbicide thefts cited in three states

SPokane (AP) — Hundreds of gallons herbicides and insecticides have been stolen from businesses in Washington, Montana and Idaho this summer in what is thought to be a related series of thefts, a Spokane County Sheriff's detective has said.

Lt. Dick Lovejoy said the latest theft occurred in Spokane this past weekend.

Several people are thought to be involved in the ring and it's believed the chemicals will probably be sold on the black market, Lovejoy said.

"We feel now someone is in the process or is going to sell it to ranchers, farmers and possibly crop dusters," he said.

The amount of chemicals reported stolen in Washington totals about $73,000, he said, adding that he is uncertain of the value of chemicals stolen in Montana and Idaho.

In each burglary, thieves cut a large hole in the chemical warehouse to enter the building, he said, and moved other chemicals to get to the ones they wanted.

Wilbur-Ellis Co., an agricultural chemical distributor in the Spokane Valley, was burglarized early Sunday, Lovejoy said.

Manager John Gaiser said more than 400 gallons of chemicals were loaded into a company truck that was found about 13 miles away.

The chemicals were valued at $37,810, officials said. More than 200 gallons of the herbicide Roundup were stolen, along with 270 gallons of the highly-toxic insecticide Parathion and four boxes of the insecticide Guthion, Lovejoy said.

"They're looking to sell it," Gaiser said. "What more can I say? You just don't break into someone's property and take something unless there was something you can do with it."

The West Chem Co. in Billings, Mont., was burglarized the day before the Spokane thefts. An unknown quantity of the herbicide Clove was taken in the Saturday burglary, Lovejoy said.

And in late June, two chemical businesses in Harrington, Wash., were burglarized, he said.

Thirty-one gallons of Roundup and more than 240 pounds of the insecticide Benlate were stolen from the Big Bend Fertilizer Co. there June 27, he said, adding the chemicals were valued at about $2,100.

About 400 gallons of Roundup, valued at more than $33,000, were stolen the same day from McCall Farm Chemical Co., he said.

Also in June, an unknown quantity of herbicide was stolen from McGregor Agricultural Chemicals and Equipment in Latah County, Idaho.

Man charged for death

BOISE (AP) — A Nov. 18 trial date has been set for Gary Weiser, 20, of Boise on charges of vehicular manslaughter in the death of a woman last July 21.

Weiser pleaded innocent to the charge in Ada County Magistrate Court. He now faces a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $2,000 fine if convicted.

According to police, Weiser was driving through downtown Boise during the early morning hours when his car struck Tonya Price, 23, Boise, while she was in a crosswalk.

College building gutted during Lewiston fire

LEWISTON (AP) — The mechanical-technical building at Lewis-Clark State College was gutted by fire Wednesday night, and police said this morning they were looking for one person for questioning.

"We haven't been able to locate the suspect at this point," Lt. Bill Bull said. "We need to talk to him, if for nothing else to clear him."

The fire was reported at about 8:45 p.m., and fire departments from Lewiston, Clarkston, Pullman and the Potlatch Corp. mill responded.

The fire was believed to have been contained at about 10:15, but flared up again. A propane tank inside the structure exploded at about 11:10, and the fire was finally controlled just before midnight.

No injuries were reported. Officials said about 80 people were involved in fighting the blaze.

Bull said the college's annual statement listed the replacement value of the building at $3.5 million, adding that equipment inside the building was worth about $50,000. No other estimate of damages was immediately available.

Lewiston Fire Chief Merie Frank said Thursday there were some areas of the building which sustained only smoke and water damage.

Lee Vickers, president of the college, said about 20 computers were destroyed.

Vickers said the fire puts the vocational education program in a serious bind, coming just three weeks before school is scheduled to start on Aug. 29.

The loss will affect about 300 to 400 students, said Vickers.

The program is considered to be one of the school's stronger features.

The building housed the automotive shop, welding equipment and the administrative offices.

Dog owners get year to clean up their act

BOISE (AP) — Dog owners who let their pets roam unleashed in Veterans Memorial State Park have been given a year to clean up their act.

The Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation board voted Thursday to review the situation in a year and see if peer pressure from dog owners who are complying with existing laws helps solve the problem at the Boise state park.

The action came after complaints to the department about unleashed dogs leaving droppings in the park and biting people.

Parks and recreation staff will work with members of the Idaho Capital City Kennel Club to implement recommendations made Monday by Donald Brothers, an employee in the Health and Welfare Department's Bureau of Preventive Medicine.

Brothers, speaking as an individual rather than a bureau spokesman at Monday's meeting, called for strict enforcement of existing laws and the creation of an action group to urge violators to comply with park regulations.

William A. Dokken, spokesman for the parks and recreation chief operations division, recommended the board impose a prohibition on all dogs in Veterans Park because too many pet owners have refused to follow existing laws.

Dog owners are required to keep their dogs on leashes and pick up any dog droppings, Dookan said. But two park rangers have been cited in the last month by dogs roaming free and there hasn't been any reduction in the amount of animal feces in the park, he said.

Truck kills cyclist

SALMON (AP) — An 18-year-old Wyoming man was killed Wednesday night when the motorcycle he was riding was struck from behind by a pickup truck. The crash, police said, occurred on U.S. Highway 93.

Lemhi County Deputy Mike Mitchell said Duane D. Gates, Laramie, Wyo., was killed when his off-road motorcycle was struck by a pickup truck at 10:15 p.m.

Mitchell said Gates was traveling north and apparently stopped on the highway waiting for an oncoming vehicle to pass before turning left.

The motorcycle was hit by a 1979 Chevrolet pickup driven by Frank Usher, 18, Salmon.

Mitchell said the motorcycle apparently did not have any lights operating at the time.

The cycle was destroyed and the pickup sustained minor damage.

Gates was a student at the University of Wyoming and was believed to be spending the summer in the Salmon area with friends.

The body was taken to Jones and Casey Funeral Home, Salmon.

House fires blamed on child

BOISE (AP) — A 7-year-old boy accidentally caused a series of fires, including one that severely damaged two east Boise homes, by refracting the sun with a piece of broken glass, according to Fire Marshal Dean Goodner.

But an investigation of the incident showed the fires were not started intentionally, Goodner said, and the boy, whose name was not released because of his juvenile status, will not be charged.

The worst of the fires to break out Wednesday caused serious damage to two homes. City owners estimated the damage could exceed $100,000. No one was injured in any of the blazes.

Iraqi war planes blast Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal

By NABILA MEGALLI
The Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain — Iraqi warplanes attacked and damaged an Iranian oil-loading platform in the Persian Gulf on Thursday, the second air strike in two days supporting Iraq's declared blockade of the main Iranian oil terminal.

An Iraqi military spokesman said Iraq jets attacked a "very big naval target" in the pre-dawn Thursday raid, scoring a "direct and effective hit."

About eight hours later Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said the Iraqis had hit the Foruzan platform, 60 miles southwest of Kharg Island, causing a fire that was quickly put out. The agency said there was minor damage.

Foruzan is a permanent subsidiary oil-loading platform in Iran's Ferdud oil field. Ferdud itself is part of the larger Marjan field astride the median line running north to south down the middle of the gulf and dividing Saudi and Iranian oil rigs in the open sea.

Iraq broke a month-long halt in air attacks on Persian Gulf oil shipping with its raid Tuesday on the Greek-owned 122,945-ton Friendship L tanker.

The government-run newspaper Al-Jumhuriya in Baghdad, capital of Iraq, affirmed Thursday that the blockade of Kharg was "continuing" in the four-year-old war between Iran and Iraq — "and will continue and escalate until it achieves all its objectives."

The Friendship L had loaded 260,000 tons of crude at Kharg when it was hit by an Iraqi missile that tore a gaping hole in its starboard side. The tanker continued its trip after putting out a fire that broke out and no casualties were reported among the 27 Greeks and Pakistanis aboard.

Aid for foreign police urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration urged Congress on Thursday to permit U.S. training of foreign police forces, as a way to help prevent the kind of massacres reported in Uganda.

"Actually the police in Uganda have been more solid than the army, yet we can't help build on that, though the British and others can, because of our absolute prohibition," said Elliott Abrams, assistant secretary of state for human rights.

A 1979 law, codifying an amendment first passed in 1975, bars use of U.S. foreign aid funds to train police of other internal security forces.

But Abrams told the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa and human rights that they should "consider again whether that flat ban on aid to police forces isn't counterproductive in a situation like Uganda where it really would be awfully helpful if we could do that."

Abrams said the administration is working with the International Red Cross on increasing the human rights training given to foreign military personnel coming to the United States. "We share that view that it ought to be deepened," he added.

Abrams said the future of U.S. aid to Uganda is being considered now "at very senior levels" in the State Department.

Richard Burton buried at village

CELIGNY, Switzerland (AP) — Actor Richard Burton was buried in this peaceful Swiss village Thursday with a sealed envelope and a rose from his wife.

Family and friends of the 58-year-old actor, who died Sunday of a brain hemorrhage, gathered to pay their final respects with the hymns and prayers of Burton's native Wales and the poetry of Welshman Dylan Thomas.

After the private funeral service in a 400-year-old Protestant church, he was buried a few hundred yards away in Cellyny's old cemetery.

"The play is over, the curtain shut, but it is not the end," the Rev. Arnold Mobbs told the mourners inside the old stone church, which seats 100 people on simple wooden benches. Outside, about 400 people listened as the service was transmitted over loudspeakers.

At the gravesite, Sally Hay, Burton's 38-year-old wife of 18 months, stood grim-faced but dry-eyed for the final prayers. She placed a sealed envelope and a rose on her husband's coffin before it was lowered into the ground. The contents of the envelope was not made public.

Elizabeth Taylor, who was twice married to Burton, did not attend.

Graham Jenkins, 56, one of Burton's brothers, said Miss Taylor stayed away from the funeral to spare his widow any possible embarrassment.

Beirut bomb blast kills three, wounds 20

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb exploded Thursday in a crowded west Beirut vegetable market, killing three people and wounding 20, police reported. It was the first fatal bombing since the army-separated warring militiamen in the capital last month.

Police said the bomb was in a pile of garbage in the Basta open-air market. The estimated 15-pounds-of-dynamite exploded at 7:30 a.m. on Monday, when the market was crowded, as garbage collectors were removing the refuse, police said. They said it killed a garbage collector and two pedestrians.

The explosion quickly brought militiamen back onto the street. Fighters of the pro-Iranian, Shiite Moslem Hezbollah, or Party of God, ringed the market in the low-income Moslem neighborhood and prevented soldiers and police from entering.

Bearded militiamen, wearing civilian clothes and carrying Soviet-made Kalashnikov assault rifles and anti-tank weapons, crouched in combat positions on street corners as six army armored personnel carriers and a jeep approached.

The militiamen and troops shouted at each other for 15 minutes before the army patrol drove off.

One fire engine finally was allowed in to help clean up the debris.

Shortly afterward, several explosions were heard in the area. An army communique said soldiers were unexploding mines planted by militiamen in the Bashoura Cemetery near Basta on the Green Line, which split Beirut into Moslem and Christian halves for much of the last nine years of civil warfare.

68 cited for anti-capitalist protest march

LEEDS, England (AP) — After anti-capitalist demonstrators went on the rampage Thursday, smashing store windows and spraying paint on public buildings, police reported 68 arrests.

The "Stop the City" march in this northern English city attracted about 300 people, including supporters from as far away as London. No injuries were reported.

Organizers said the protest was against financial institutions, centered in the area of London known as the City, "and their links with the arms trade and exploitation throughout the world."

A police spokesman in Leeds said the group's objective "seems to be to cause as much disorder as they can to commercial life."

Mexico City's trouble may hint future

By SOLL SUSSMAN
The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY — Delegates to the population conference, inhaling smog in endless traffic jams, inching past sprawling slums if they get to those parts of town, may be seeing the future. U.N. figures indicate 20 of the world's metropolitan areas will contain at least 11 million by the year 2000.

Greater Mexico City now has 17 million and is expected to surpass Tokyo-Yokohama as the world's largest metropolis next year.

Some remember how it used to be. In the centuries-old historic district — on Solitude Street, whose name described its character when the city's life moved sedately along boulevards lined with trees — Marcos Reyes Mendoza wore a smile that his 78 years had made both quizzical and nostalgic.

"It was more peaceful. Now it's more hurried," he said in his cluttered store, casting an eye on the blessed candle that burned for luck in a bare spot amid the heaps of cheap clothing. "But you have to figure that for every one person that used to be here, now there's three."

Outside, in Solitude Street, sidewalk merchants hawked their wares and crowds bustled by, accompanied by rhythms wafted from the doors of thriving cantinas.

A widow living in one of the few remaining houses not torn down for skyscrapers along what is now an expressway remembers that it used to be a pleasant residential street. "I'm glad he didn't see it change," she said of her late husband.

Despite all the city's problems, officials said its success is one of the reasons it was chosen to host the conference.

"Mexico City is a very good showcase of how to incorporate population and development in the planning process," said Joop Alberts, deputy representative of the U.N. Fund for Population Activities office in Mexico City.

The metropolis, which had 3 million residents in 1950, is adding 700,000 people — the equivalent of the city of Boston — each year. By the year 2000 that could mean a population of around 26 million.

60 people arrested in Irish rampage

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Mobs of masked youths fought with police in four cities Thursday and at least 60 people were arrested, police said.

A suspected IRA activist in the town of Newry blew himself up when in a nail bomb went off prematurely, police said.

The early morning violence across the British province, marked the 13th anniversary of the former British policy of internment without trial.

Mobs of masked youths lobbed Molotov cocktails, bricks and stones at police in Belfast, Londonderry, Downpatrick and Newry, police spokesman Dave Hanna said. Police fired broadsides of 4-inch plastic bullets from riot guns to disperse them.

Police said at least eight rioters were hurt in Roman Catholic sections of Northern Ireland.

Informed security sources, who spoke on condition they were not identified, said intelligence reports indicate the Irish Republican Army plans "spectaculars" over the next few days, partly to impress a 120-member delegation now in Ulster from the New York-based Irish Northern Aid Committee — commonly called NORAID.

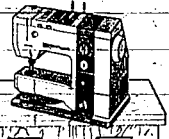

One NORAID delegate was among the rioters arrested — student Brendan Judge, 22, of Glen Park, Gary, Ind.

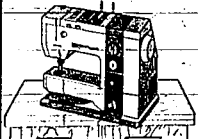

Mass violence was expected Sunday on the 15th anniversary of the start, sectarian bloodletting between Protestants and Roman Catholics, and the 15th anniversary Tuesday of the first deployment of British troops here.

"We expect things will get a lot worse over the next few days," Hanna said.

Anniversary

The Juchaus

EDEN — Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Juchau will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary Saturday with an open house from 8 to 8 p.m. at the Hazelton LDS Church.

Friends and relatives are invited. Family members will present a program in the couple's honor and also speak and sing during the 10-a.m. church service Sunday.

Juchau and the former Freda Little were married Aug. 5, 1924, at Logan, Utah. They have lived in Eden the past 55 years. Juchau is a retired farmer.

The event is being hosted by their five children, Paul E. Juchau, Eden; Ann Morfell, Garden Grove, Calif.; Norma Jean Tolman, Los Angeles, Calif.; Larry Juchau, Garden Grove, and Vern Juchau, San Antonio, Texas. The couple has 22 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren.

Parents' job to check out child-care service

By CHANGING TIMES

There are services that match roommates, dates and mates, but if you're in the market for child care, you're probably on your own amid a sea of choices and factors. Child care information and referral services are the exception, not the rule.

If you do have a community or work referral service available, you can get leads, possibly preliminary screening, and tips for judging quality.

But no matter what, it's still your job to check out child-care arrangements in person before you decide.

Some general principles that apply wherever your search leads you include:

- Look for licensed child care, but remember that licensing or registration doesn't substitute for your own evaluation and continuing surveillance.
- Assume that good care depends more on the quality of the people involved than it does on the curriculum or the equipment.

Trust your feelings as to what is unpleasant or wrong.

When you finish researching, you'll have to reconcile what you want for your child and yourself with what's good, available, convenient and affordable.

Clearly, you want your children kept safe and their physical needs met. Talking to children, playing with them and giving them emotional comfort are essential, too. Quality care is given one-to-one or in small groups by one person or the same few people over a long time.

A provider's instinct and experience might make for good care, but training in early-childhood care and development can help. One credential for child care competence is the Child Development Associate (CDA), has been earned by almost 13,000 caregivers who work with 3- to 5-year-olds in day-care centers.

Child care in your own home is always ideal. The quality of care is difficult to predict; frequent turnover of providers is the norm, and your child may not be participating in beneficial group activities with peers. Plus, if you're paying minimum wage (required by law for a caregiver in your home 20 or more hours a week), including your share of Social Security taxes, it would cost you a little over $8,000 a year to have someone come to your home 45 hours a week, 50 weeks a year.

If you wish to hire an in-home caregiver who is not a U.S. citizen, check with the Immigration and Naturalization Service regarding the law. Family day-care homes are private homes where six or fewer children are tended. Child-care experts prefer a limit of two children under age 2, and state laws often require this. Typical weekly fees are $35 to $65.

Day-care homes may provide both the best and the worst of child care. Their major disadvantage, Alison Clarke-Stewart says in her book "Daycare" (Harvard University Press; $3.95 paperback) is that the people running them are the "least accountable" to parents.

In California, charges of sexual abuse of children have been leveled almost exclusively at family day-care homes, yet such allegations have been relatively rare among its 38,000 licensed day-care homes.

Across the country the overwhelming majority of family day-care homes do not have a license that could be revoked to warn parents of problems.

On the other hand, government researchers in the U.S. studied hundreds of licensed and unlicensed homes. They concluded "...by and large, family day care has been found to provide a stable, warm and stimulating day care environment."

Other options include group-care centers, run for profit or as a community service. These include non-profit day-care centers, nursery schools, preschools, and commercial centers. Run by national chains, such as Kinder-Care, La Petite Academy and Children's World.

Tardiness measured on Taylor scale

DEAR ABBY: My pet peeve is people who are habitually late for business appointments, meetings, dates, etc. Since I am always very punctual, I expect others to be, so I finally worked out a system you may want to share with your readers. It works perfectly for me.

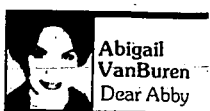

I call it my "Elizabeth Taylor Scale." I have always considered Ms. Taylor — one of the most beautiful women in the world, but I have heard that she is never on time for anything.

I asked myself how long I would wait for Elizabeth Taylor if I had a date with her, and I decided 30 minutes — maximum! So now when I have appointments, I apply the Elizabeth Taylor Scale, and the amount of time I allow for tardiness depends on how important I think the situation and individual. It ranges anywhere from 6 to 30 minutes.

So far I have never allotted the maximum; I'm saving that in case I get a date with Ms. Taylor.

— A.H. IN HUNTSVILLE, ALA.

DEAR A.H.: Great idea. Lots of luck and happy waiting.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Recently you replied to a mother of fraternal twins who was a bit confused about the difference between identical and fraternal twins.

Your answer that there are two types of twins — identical twins are the result of one egg that divided into two identical halves and fraternal twins are the result of two separate eggs (fertilized at the same time) — was sort of insufficient.

- There are three types of twins:
1. Identical twins are the result of one fertilized egg that divides into two identical halves.
  2. Fraternal twins are the result of two different eggs being fertilized by two different sperm, and not necessarily at the same time.
  3. Identical-fraternal twins are the result of an egg splitting into two equal parts before fertilization and then these identical eggs being fertilized by two different sperm.

DEAR FATHER: You are correct, of course. The twin with the egg on her face is Abby.

Identical-fraternal twins have a greater degree of similar genetic makeup than fraternal twins, but less than identical twins.

Giant freezes his ears

Campaign begins

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

BUHL — Early Thursday morning a fleet of 15, four-row harvesters moved into fields of sweet corn at King Hill and Hammett. By 1 p.m., hundreds of tons of the corn were in the Green Giant Co.'s factory at Buhl.

The company's annual, 60-day canning and freezing campaign is under way.

"We started the plant at 1 this afternoon, and it looks like we're getting up to a pretty good start," says plant manager, Darrel McRoberts.

The 1984 packing season is expected to return to normal volumes after a smaller-than-usual output in 1983, he said.

"Last year we had about 3,000 acres less and we weren't in the Hammett and King Hill areas," he said. "We're back to our normal-sized pack this year."

Normal size is huge.

Green Giant workers will pick about 10,500 acres of corn and will pack it into the equivalent of 32 million cases of 12-ounce cans, McRoberts said. The factory has hired about 675 workers from surrounding communities — close to 10 times the year-round work force of 77 — to fill the cans and bag the frozen kernels, he said.

This year, 71 percent of the workers are veterans of previous seasons, and they work in two, 12-hour shifts.

The Buhl plant is the second-largest corn packing plant in the world, running behind only another Green Giant factory in Minnesota.

"We can run over 100 ton an hour. 100,000 cases is a nice day's output for us," McRoberts says.

Close to 300 farmers from Twin

Green Giant worker Crispin Hernandez guides a driver bringing corn from Hammett area.

Falls to Hammett raise the corn that goes under the Green Giant label.

"We try to plan the maturity of the corn on a schedule that brings it in about 200 acres a day. We spread the planting from April 20 to June 20," he says. The sweet corn that comes off the packing line is marketed in the West and overseas — California and Japan.

Green Giant corn from Buhl, he says, is about nine weeks into the first week of October.

Pillsbury Co. operates six corn plants, as well as two other factories that process green beans and asparagus.

The packing will continue for about nine weeks into the first week of October.

Jerome wins cheese plant

Some hurdles stand in whcy

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

JEROME — Mountain Empire Dairyman's Association of Denver has settled on a Jerome, County site for its first cheese plant, a top official said Thursday.

Lee Mortensen, assistant general manager, said the 655-member dairy cooperative is planning to build on a site in the southeast portion of the county about six miles east and four miles south of the city of Jerome.

If the association can secure compatible zoning from county officials, the plant could start producing cheddar cheese in 18 months to two years, Mortensen said.

The factory will process about 1 million pounds of milk daily into cheddar cheese, but the association has not yet decided whether it will turn out blocks of cheese or barrels of curds, Mortensen said.

Why the major by-product of cheesemaking will be mixed with water and dispersed on the land by sprinkler, he said. The cooperative may try to use it to grow crops, he said. Disposal of the whey is a major problem for cheese factories.

MEDA is in the first stages of seeking proper zoning for between 1,200 and 1,500 acres of land south of the Falls City area, said Al Hepworth, county zoning administrator. One application was filed and withdrawn, but another is expected to be filed in time for a zoning commission hearing late in September, he said.

The association has been shopping around the Magic Valley for a site for a number of months. Several areas, including Twin Falls, Gooding County and Cassia County, have worked to secure the plant.

The MEDA factory will be the cooperative's first processing plant of any kind, Mortensen said. In past years, it has sold milk produced by its members to other businesses, cooperatives or processors.

The company is locating the plant in the Magic Valley because it is a milk surplus area and shows more potential for production, he said.

The plant will draw from the cooperative's 80 farmer-members in Idaho, who are concentrated in the Magic and Treasure valleys. MEDA, which operates in six Western states, has a regional office in Meridian.

Jackpot pays off for Laos expatriot

JACKPOT — Deuanpheng Kaysavang, a refugee from Laos, earned only $2 a day while working as a waitress in her native land. At about midnight Wednesday, she earned more than 27 years worth of those wages by yanking down the handle on a slot machine.

Kaysavang, who now lives in Pocatello, won $18,826 from a 25-cent slot machine at Cactus Pete's Casino, said casino spokesman Carl Hayden. Visiting the casino with friends, the 33-year-old woman had wagered about $9 in quarters before hitting the jackpot, he said. The winner silently and calmly watched the coins tumble down the chute into the bin, and collected the rest of the winnings shortly afterwards, Hayden said.

Although Kaysavang apparently can't speak English, her friends said she came to the United States about three years ago. During potato packing season, she works at the Lamb Weston processing plant at American Falls, he said.

Exxon adds to stack of Wood River Valley mining claims

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Exxon Minerals Co. continues to hoard Blaine County mineral rights by acquiring more unpatented and patented mining claims and leasing state and private minerals.

In the past two months, the mining division of the gas and oil giant Exxon Corp. recorded at least 2,000 acres of mineral rights in the Blaine County courthouse.

Exxon had previously recorded approximately 25,000 surface acres of mineral rights since it became interested in Blaine County a year ago.

The company's new acquisitions are adjacent to its other holdings that stretch from the Poverty Flat area southwest of Bellevue to the city of Sun Valley.

The new holdings include an approximately 320-acre state mineral lease that takes in

Wood River Valley

Deer Creek Mountain, west of Hailey and a 660-acre lease under Deer Creek Ranch, on which the company already holds a substantial number of claims.

Exxon also has picked up a number of patented and unpatented claims in the Bullion Gulch and Deer Creek mountains west of Hailey where it also has numerous holdings.

Exxon is now drilling for samples to see if it is economically possible to continue its search for base and precious metals.

Traditionally, mines in Blaine County are rich in galena ore, a combination of lead, zinc and silver. These are metals Wiley Bragg, Exxon's public affairs manager, says his company has leased for production.

Getty Mining Co., the mining division of Exxon's fellow energy giant Getty Oil Co., is also drilling in the county at the old Triumph Mine northeast of Hailey.

Exxon picked up the new state lease one month ago when it was dropped by its former lessee, says Linda Johnson, leasing specialist for the state Department of Lands bureau of minerals.

The lease brings the company's state mineral holdings to 7,000 acres.

The 25-year Deer Creek Ranch lease includes private mineral rights that are subject to public rights around Carbonate Mountain due north of Della Mountain, based on the county records.

The lease gives Exxon rights to minerals within and between both peaks, excluding the Hailey-Fairfield Highway, better known as Cray Creek Road.

Exxon's holdings from the ranch or other land owners in the area, either about or nearly about the western Hailey city limits.

Deer Creek Ranch owner John Wedum of Minneapolis would not comment on the lease or if he has any other leases with Exxon or his 7,500-acre ranch.

However, Wedum, who says he has investments in oil-related programs, says his companies often do not record their leases.

"If you're lucky enough to get leases, you don't want to disclose your holdings to your competitors," Wedum says.

But, Exxon's Bragg says his company makes a practice of recording its leases to protect them from overlapping leases. Bragg says if some of the company's leases are not recorded, it is only because representatives have not had time.

"It is our policy to record the leases we do get because it is good business to do," says

Bragg when told there are rumors unrecorded leases exist with private mineral holders.

Recently, the company also leased the rights to 21 patented and 35 unpatented claims and mill sites around the Red Elephant Mine west of Hailey.

These claims are leased from Eureka Development Co. and a group known as the "Johnson sisters" from Salt Lake City. These patented claims total nearly 600 acres, based on county tax and mining records. Unpatented claims run up to 20 acres each.

Exxon earlier leased numerous other claims in the Red Elephant area and in Blaine County, it has about 1,000 patented and unpatented claims.

Exxon began acquiring Blaine County mineral rights one year ago when it either filed or leased hundreds of claims.

Its holdings include the Queen Bess and Minnie Moore mines and related claims west of Bellevue.

Secretary's career plans on ice

TWIN FALLS — Mary Kay Burnum has always wanted to travel.

This fall she is doing it in a big way. She is going to Antarctica, where the summer days are 20 to 40 degrees below zero and a tan is just a memory.

The 29-year-old Burnum, who is a native of Gooding, will resign Aug. 17. A Lewiston attorney already has been hired to replace her.

Following some time off in Ashland, Ore., she hopes to join a private firm in that state, where she went to school and is licensed to practice law.

er's office. She has held the post for two years and worked for the prosecutor's office a year before that.

Her new job will be 800 miles from the South Pole running a computer for International Telegraph and Telephone, a private research company.

After a month's training in New Jersey, Burnum says she will travel in October to an ITT research station on the frozen wasteland. At the site, she will live in a barracks for four months along with the other 300 employees.

The company, she adds, provides free food, housing, parkas and all the thermal longjohns she can wear.

She heard about the job from a friend who had made the same trip. "I thought it sounded like a good opportunity for money and travel. I'm really excited about going."

After the cold of Antarctica, she will have the opportunity to visit New Zealand for a month of rest and relaxation, Burnum says. The company has an office there and provides a free plane ticket.

Bug killers target new area

TWIN FALLS — Crowsfooters hired by the federal government are due today to start spraying insecticide on grasshopper-infested desert in the Bell Rapids area of northwest Twin Falls County.

Dan Kall, plant protection and quarantine officer for the U.S. Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the scrubland bordering Bell Rapids is the fifth block of publicly owned land being treated in a $400,000 emergency program.

The agency expects to douse close to 16,000 acres with the insecticide malathion to kill concentrations of grasshoppers.

The grasshoppers have been eating their way into crops in large numbers because edible green plants on the desert have dried out. Crowsfooters spray a half-mile-wide strip adjacent to the private crops to stop the insects from entering. However, while the spray is effective, farmers say in many cases there are so many grasshoppers that more move in quickly.

Aerial spraying also should begin soon on about 22,000 acres of public territory across the middle of Minidoka County into the Kimama area, Kall said. The counterattack also is scheduled to begin tomorrow in the Channel Lake area of Power County.

Meanwhile, the crowsfooters have finished applying the insecticide in the northern Cassia County south of Lake Walcott and east of Rupert. Spraying also has been completed in the heavily infested Hammett area.

The federal program to date is scheduled to cover between 6,000 and 71,000 acres of land, according to APHIS figures.

"We are surveying and looking at other areas," Kall said.

The Idaho Department of Agriculture originally estimated the $400,000 made available by U.S. Sec. of Agriculture John Block's emergency declaration last week would treat about 100,000 acres of public land.

Court battles were lessons for public defender

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The education of Kathy Epeldi didn't end when she landed a job as Twin Falls County assistant public defender almost two years ago.

Fresh out of law school, she found that the courtroom became her new classroom. Now Epeldi is ready to move on.

"It's been a good experience and I've gained good trial experience. But I don't want to make a career out of criminal law. I want to get into private practice."

The 31-year-old Boise native will resign Aug. 17. A Lewiston attorney already has been hired to replace her.

Following some time off in Ashland, Ore., she hopes to join a private firm in that state, where she went to school and is licensed to practice law. From the "green" lawyer to the experienced advocate, Epeldi found the public defender's job provided more than a salary. It provided on-the-job training.

"It's a lot different from the classroom in school where you learn theory and principles. Here you shoot a lot from the hip and experience the human element. You're dealing with limited resources and you learn how to think on your feet."

Epeldi took advantage of the new classroom. When her schedule permitted, she often sat in on other hearings to learn from the styles of more experienced lawyers. The rules of trial procedure memorized in school were brought home when she found herself arguing them before a judge.

In her job, she has been the advocate of alleged murderers, thieves and child molesters.

In a Times-News interview conducted soon after she was hired, Epeldi said of her clients, "For the most part, they're not criminals; they're just disadvantaged."

Two years later, she discovered that in the cases of more than half of her clients, poverty wasn't totally to blame for their criminal behavior. It's more often personal attitudes and a refusal to accept responsibility. Alcohol and drug abuse also are large factors in their anti-social behavior.

"(But) I'm not a social worker. I'm a lawyer," she adds. "My function is not to get them rehabilitated, but to defend them."

Her clients, who have to be indigent in order to qualify for her services as a public defender, are sources of pride, frustration and always interest.

"I've seen some of my clients go on and do well. Then there's that certain element that never seems to change and that's very frustrating."

"It is disheartening at times when someone who you thought had potential just keeps coming back to court."

"(The job) has given me a different outlook on human behavior. The stories and people are interesting."

Only a handful of her clients have been personally frightening or ungrateful for the services she provides, Epeldi adds.

"At first, I used to feel bad they were incarcerated." She soon realized that the guilty were in jail to protect society. "You can only do so much as their lawyer. Still they expect miracles."

Man faces exposure charge
JEROME — Manuel Gonzales, 21, of Jerome, was arrested by Jerome city police on charges of indecent exposure and operating a vehicle with no insurance. A Jerome woman shopper and her husband notified police about 6 p.m. Tuesday that a man had exposed himself to the woman at a supermarket parking lot. The woman told police the man called her over to his vehicle while she was putting groceries in her car. She returned home and told her husband about the incident, and when the two of them returned to the parking lot the vehicle was still there, according to the police report.

The suspect was arrested several blocks away. City officers said the suspect was brought to the police department on charges of failing to carry proof of insurance and arrested at the station on the second charge. He was released on $75 bond, pending arraignment in court.

Bridge closure limits access
MACKAY — Vehicle access to trail heads leading to Moose, Angel, Airplane and Arrowhead lakes in the Challis National Forest has been blocked by the closure of a bridge at Wildhorse.

The bridge, located between the Wildhorse Guard Station and the Wildhorse Campground, has been closed by flooding until further notice.

Hikers, however, can still reach the trailheads by horseback or foot.

The closure doesn't limit access to Cooper Basin or traffic over the Trail Creek road to Sun Valley.

Teen's case in adult court
TWIN FALLS — A teenager accused of throwing bleach into a Twin Falls County deputy's face June 9 was charged as an adult Wednesday in Fifth District Magistrate Court.

The case does not address available, faces a felony charge of aggravated battery.

White being held in the Twin Falls County jail, Dye threw a bowl full of bleach into the face of sheriff's deputy Mike J. Marvin, according to a complaint filed with the court. Marvin was sent to Dye's cell, because the inmate was making noise and throwing a broken mop handle and food tray out of the cell.

Marvin was treated at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center for minor burns to the right side of his face.

Dye is being charged as an adult after he waived his right to be tried as a juvenile.

Man dies of shotgun wound
BUHL — Arthur Otto Meyer, 67, of Buhl, was found dead Wednesday afternoon near the Snake River south of the Silgar's Thousand Springs Resort southeast of Hagerman.

Twin Falls County Coroner-Cloyce Edwards said Meyer died of a self-inflicted shotgun wound in the head. He had been dead for several days when found, the coroner said.

Downtown stores observe '50s
TWIN FALLS — Merchants in the downtown business district are bringing back fashions on autos, hoodies on skirts and be-on the radio today and Saturday for a "Fabulous '50s" promotion.

The two-day event will feature a display of 21 autos from the 1950s on Main Avenue between Shoshone Street and Second Street East and a '50s street hop with dance contests today between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m., said Chris Valente, coordinator for the sponsoring Twin Falls Business Improvement District.

KBOP Radio — the local duo of Carl Rada and Gene Harris — will play the rock 'n' roll beat of the decade downtown both days. A "hooray hoop contest" is scheduled for 12:30 p.m. today at the fountain, and a style show of new fall fashions will be presented at 1 p.m. Saturday at the corner of Shoshone and Main Avenues.

For those who really want to relive the era, '50s clothes also will be in vogue both days.

Superintendent leaves job

GLENN'S FERRY — Just two weeks before school starts and three weeks after he was hired, Glenns Ferry School Superintendent Larry Mortensen has resigned.

School board chairman Gerry Bybee read the letter of resignation, which said Mortensen's father was ill and the superintendent felt it his responsibility to go to Colorado to care for him.

Mortensen said in his letter, "I was really looking forward to working with you on the school board and was impressed with Glenns Ferry."

Bybee said the search for a replacement would begin as soon as possible.

Filer library seeking new home

By KAREN MAIN
Times-News correspondent

FILER — The Filer City Library may have a new home by its 60th anniversary in October.

If negotiations work out, the library that is now located behind the city offices will move down Yakima Street into the former Baptist Church.

On Tuesday, the Filer City Council authorized city attorney Fred Decker to purchase the building for $50,000.

Councilwoman Wanda Shaffer, who is also library commissioner, said the existing library is too crowded and the new location has more space for books, a storage area, additional rooms and two bathrooms.

In addition, photographs of Filer from the turn of century that were donated to the city during Filer's 75th anniversary will fill the library walls "now that we have someplace to display them," she said.

If the library does move out of its crowded quarters, Shaffer said the city offices can then expand and the police department will probably take over the area.

Since payments on the library building would be made in three installments squeezed into the city budget over several years, Shaffer said the city is looking for donations and grants toward the cost.

"We need anything we can get," she said.

Shaffer said she is also hoping the real estate purchase will be complete by Oct. 1 so the library will be in its new home on its 60th anniversary.

"We'd like to move in by then and we'd really have something to celebrate," she said.

In other business:

The council appointed Robert Beer and reappointed Judy Hoffman and John Beer to the planning and zoning commission.

A public hearing on the budget was set for Aug. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

On Sept. 4 at 6 a.m. the council will adopt the budget.

The next regular city council meeting was set for Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m.

"My only answer is that it's not my role to judge them. That's why we have the jury system. If we didn't have the whole adversarial system, the defense lawyers, judges and prosecutors, we'd have a totalitarian system."

With plea bargaining, delays and sometimes "miscarriages of justice," the job easily could have soured the best social optimist. But Epeldi says she has not fallen victim. In fact, she has earned more of respect for the judicial system during her work.

"Ultimately, I've been impressed with the jury verdicts. The sentences are proportionate to the crimes. The smallest of the county also allows the judges and prosecutors to take more time in personalizing the sentences. And, they do a good job."

Still, the system holds disappointments.

"When you're fresh from school, you wait for that big case so you can give a stellar performance," she says. In reality, the largest part of her job was arguing at sentencing hearings. The potentially big cases — at least from a defense side — never make it into trial.

Despite the downs, Epeldi adds, "This is really fun."

TWIN FALLS — City Police Officer Paul Birmingham, 37, of Twin Falls, was injured when his police car crashed into a utility pole during a high-speed chase, was released from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center Thursday morning.

Birmingham, a commander in the police division of the Twin Falls City Public Safety Department, was injured about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Police Chief Jim Qualls said Birmingham was driving one of three city patrol cars engaged in the pursuit of a reckless driver. The two other vehicles, Qualls said, are equipped with heavy duty swing bars while Birmingham was driving a standard vehicle.

The two others negotiated a corner on South Park Avenue, but Birmingham's car went out of control and wrapped around a utility pole. The vehicle was demolished.

Birmingham suffered a broken rib and severe face lacerations, including cuts around the left eye.

Qualls said he was out of town at the time of the accident, and no report was made by the department immediately after the accident.

Carl's sister draws a blank

By BRIT ROSENTHAL
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Carol Lewis, the sister of three-time gold medalist Carl Lewis and the favorite in the women's long jump, failed to make the finals in her event during track action at the XIIIth Olympiad Thursday.

World-record holder Anisoara Stancu of Romania won the gold medal at the Olympic Stadium Thursday night with a leap of 22 feet, 10 inches.

The silver medal went to Vall Ionescu, also of Romania, with a mark of 22-4 1/2.

Susan Hearnshaw of Great Britain took the bronze with a jump of 22-3 1/4.

Angela Thacker and Jackie Joyner of the United States were fourth and fifth.

Lewis, who finished ninth, was a picture of dejection on the infield grass of the Los Angeles Coliseum as she watched the scoreboard helplessly during the final round of qualifying long jumps. Other better scores than her 21 feet, 1 1/2 inches kept flashing on the board, and her hopes of matching Carl's success finally vanished.

Later Thursday, Britain's Daley Thompson became the second man in Olympic history to win the decathlon gold medal in successive Olympics Thursday night, coming within one point of smashing the world record.

In easily outdueling his bitter rival, Jurgen Hingsen of West Germany and earning the title of "The World's Greatest All-Around Athlete," the 26-year-old Thompson accumulated 8,797 points for the punishing, two-day, 10-event competition.

His total was one point short of the world mark of 8,798, set by Hingsen June 8-9 at Mannheim, West Germany.

Thompson had an excellent chance of breaking the world record, needing a time of 4:34.8 in the final event, the 1,500 meters. But the best he could do was 4:35.00.

What was expected to be a close, tense, dramatic duel between the two giants turned into a rout as Thompson, in winning the event for a second time, matched the feat of Bob Mathias of the United States, the 1948 and 1952 champion. Hingsen finished a distant second with 8,673 points, 124 behind Thompson. Slegfried Wentz of West Germany finished third with 8,412. The 1-2-3 finish of Thompson, Hingsen and Wentz was the same order as in last year's World Championships.

Thompson used an Olympic record in the decathlon long jump and three personal bests to catapult into a 114-point lead after Wednesday's first five events.

He protected it smartly, and even increased it, in Thursday's closing five events in beating Hingsen for the fifth time in five meetings.

Hingsen threw one scare into Thompson Thursday, but once the "hip-riding, pumped-up, charismatic Briton shook it off."

The scare came during Thursday's second event, the discus throw. After two rounds of the discus, Hingsen had jumped into a 66-point lead. But Thompson, after two poor throws, responded to the pressure with a toss of 152 feet, 9 inches on his final try, and regained the lead by 32 points.

Thompson's total also exceeded the Olympic record of 8,618, set by Bruce Jenner of the United States in 1976 and put him on a pedestal with two-time winner Mathias.

Thompson, who has said his profession is "a decathlete," already has proclaimed that he plans to shoot for an unprecedented third Olympic gold in 1984 at Seoul, Korea.

Prior to these Games, Thompson had said the only way Hingsen would be able to get a gold medal was "to steal mine or win another event."

Hingsen's reply was: "Daley is a better talker, but I'm the better athlete."

Thompson also proved to be the better athlete over the two days of Olympic competition.

Knockout, official defeat for American

By D. BYRON YAKE
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The long parade of American fighters who barged their way into the semifinals of the Summer Olympics ended abruptly at nine when Evander Holyfield was disqualified Thursday night.

Gjorgje Novicic of Yugoslavia ruled that he had yelled "stop" before Holyfield landed a left that buckled his opponent, New Zealand's Kevin Barry, at the end of the second round of their 175-pound bout.

A review of the television replay showed that Novicic had said "stop" twice before Holyfield threw the damaging punch.

Boxing judges at the Olympics had been criticized for supposedly favoring American fighters and Holyfield clearly was ahead when the fight was stopped.

In freestyle wrestling, Bobby Weaver won the gold in the 105 1/2 pound class. Weaver, of Easton, Pa., pinned Takashi Irie of Japan at 2:58 of the first period.

Teammate Randy Lewis, of Rapid City, S.D., an addition to the U.S. team in a dispute that has some wrestling officials calling for Coach Dan Gable's job, added a gold in the 136 1/2-pound class when he outpointed Kosei Akashi of Japan.

U.S. boxers set a sizzling pace with nine straight fighters moving into the finals. Then came Holyfield's disaster.

One of the first American boxing victories brought a chorus of boos from the crowd, and a refusal to shake hands from the tearful Italian loser. And in an reversal of form at what have become America's Games, a U.S. tennis star lost and criticized the crowd for cheering on her Yugoslav opponent.

In events lesser known, the United States won gold in synchronized swimming and made its mark in archery, kayaking and water polo.

Tracie Ruiz of Bothell, Wash., and Candy Costie of Seattle, won the gold medal in the duet part of synchronized swimming, a water ballet-type sport that is an official Olympic event for the first time.

Americans had a total of 128 medals, including 57 gold, 50 silver and 21 bronze medals. West Germany was in the second place with 38 medals, and Romania had 37.

The Ruiz-Costie team scored 194,584 points. The silver medal went to Sharon Hambrook and Kelly Kryczka of Canada, with 194,234 points, and the bronze to Japan's Saeko Kimura and Misako Motoyoshi, with 187,992 points.

Greg Barton of Homer, Mich., a kayaker born with club feet, became the first American ever to reach the finals of the 1,000-meter singles competition.

The U.S. women's field hockey team needed a victory over West Germany to win an Olympic medal, but lost that chance in a 1-1 tie.

But the American water polo team got the tie-breaking goal with 26 seconds remaining to defeat West Germany 8-7 and move into the gold-medal game against Yugoslavia.

In women's diving, Zhou Zhong of China won the preliminaries in the women's 10-meter platform diving and teammate Chen Xiaohua finished in second. American Michele Mitchell was in third.

Rogerson cowboy shines at Gooding

By CHRIS WALTON
Times-News writer

GOODING — David Chadwick of Rogerson scored in both calf roping and steer wrestling Thursday night at the Gooding County Rodeo.

Chadwick placed second in the roping with a 14.2-second performance behind Bob Monroe of Twin Falls at 13.8 and was third in steer wrestling in 14.7 behind Bill Ailer of Pocatello in 8.8 and George Ellis of Pocatello in 8.1.

Reeder of Corvallis, Utah, led the bareback riding with a score of 68 and was followed by Bruce Frans of Nampa, with 67 points.

Brad Nichols of Idaho placed first in saddle bronc riding with a 67. In second was Chuck Meacham of Tropic, Utah, with a 60.

Team roping was topped by Steve Myatt and Zane Wines of Gooding in 11.8, followed by Roy Pope and Deane Rogers of Gooding in 16.2.

Jeff McGarry of Rexburg led the bull riding with a 75, followed by Doug James of Mackay, at 73.

In the women's division, barrel racing leader Jeanette Jukic of Burley posted a 17.38 with Mary Agnes Ailer of Pocatello, at 17.55.

A special event, mutton busting, was topped by Ty Reeder of Gooding, with a 65.

Valerie Brisco-Hooks becomes first Olympian to win both 200- and 400-meter dashes

Brisco-Hooks golden again

By BOB BAUM
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The lady with the dazzling smile is the queen of track and field at these Olympic Games.

Valerie Brisco-Hooks, who was 40 pounds overweight when she had her child two years ago, ascended to Olympic royalty Thursday night with her record-breaking victory in the 200-meter dash, her second gold medal.

"It's overwhelming," the 24-year-old said as she held her son, Alvin Hooks Jr., in the interview room following her victory. "I guess I don't really know the importance of it. I'm just happy I'm finished."

Actually, she isn't finished yet. She still must compete in the 1,600-meter relay Saturday, where she will be favored to win her third gold medal after her victory at 400 meters Monday night and 200 on Thursday.

Only one American woman runner has won three — Wilma Rudolph, in the 100, 200 and 400-meter relay in the Rome Games of 1960.

Only two — Rudolph and Babe Didrikson — have won two track and field golds in an Olympic competition.

There were plenty of superlatives to describe the blazing 21.81-second victory by Brisco-Hooks before her hometown crowd Thursday night.

It was the first time any athlete, male or female, had won the 200 and 400 in the Olympic Games.

She also snapped the American record of 21.83 second set by Evelyn Ashford in 1979 and broke the Olympic mark of 22.03 set by Barbel Wöckel of East Germany in 1980.

The victory marked the first by an American woman in the Olympic 200 meters since Edith McGuire finished first in 1964.

Only East Germaners Marita Koch and Marlies Göhr have run faster.

It was an amazing comeback for Brisco-Hooks, who left track and field for 18 months to have her son.

In the process, she put on weight and her future in the sport looked anything but bright when she resumed training last November.

"I'll look me awhile to believe in myself, and really want to come back and race," she said. "When I did it I did it because I had a lot of people behind me."

Her husband, former Philadelphia Eagles wide receiver Alvin Hooks, said it didn't take that much persuading.

"She wanted to run anyway," he said. "I just told her to go ahead and I'd be behind her all the way."

While her husband and other family members helped with the housework and took care of Alvin Jr., Brisco-Hooks went into serious training.

Hooks said it helped his wife's attitude to have the baby.

"I think it gave her something to work toward," he said.

His wife was often gone training and participating in meets; but Hooks said it was all worth it.

Darrington's 76 sets pace in Twin Am

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Defending champion Karen Darrington eased the sting of a triple bogey with consecutive birdies on the front nine and moved into a three-stroke lead at the midpoint of the Twin Falls Women's Amateur Tournament Thursday.

Darrington found the misery on the fifth hole, noting "I was off to the right in the long grass. I had a sand wedge shot, the kind you have to come through on, and I just skulled it across the green. I chipped back on short and three-putted for an easy seven."

The birdies on six and seven steadied her and except for a short par putt missed on the ninth, Darrington finished the rest of the day smoothly.

Her posted 76 gave her a three-stroke lead on former champion Virginia Underhill, Twin Falls, who also had a couple of lapses on the front side. She had a pair of double bogies going out and came up with a pair of three putts for her 78.

Julie Hamblin of Twin Falls was third with a 78 while Sharon Taylor of Nampa and Terri Simpson of Burley shared fourth at 81. Shanna Robinson, Twin Falls, and Sharon Peterson, Jerome, had 82s.

Gloria Lee took a tip from host professional Don Hamblin to carve out a two-stroke lead in the first flight.

"I told Don yesterday I was playing terrible and he said 'I've seen your game. You're standing too close. Move back a little.' I did and I got an 84," Lee bubbled.

Her 84 moved her two strokes ahead of Mildred Lynch, Burley, while Twin Falls' Jeanne Alban was third with 87.

Betty Grant, Twin Falls, had an 88 and Roberta Robertson, Jerome, and Grace Bonnett, Twin Falls, had 89s.

In the second flight, Vera White, Twin Falls, posted an 86 to slay one striker ahead of Jan Hale, Twin Falls, Debra Hansen and Charlotte Brunelli, Twin Falls, shared third at 90.

Julie Blandford, Twin Falls, topped the third flight with a 95 with Anna Dean Coulam, Twin Falls, right behind her. Mary Ann West, Burley, Meyer and Marjorie Matkins all had 97 while Missy Wignall and Helen Blakeslee were alone at 98 and 99, respectively.

Jane Purves' 101 gave her a one-stroke lead in the fourth flight over Kelly Fortia. As in another four shots back to Betty Claiborn with Helen Huston at 107 and Joan McCoy and Vi Becker at 109.

Joann Sanderson and Roberta Robertson won the scotchball elimination derby that followed tournament play with Kathy Borchard, Wendell, and Lynch placing second and Justine Messersmith, Jerome, and White claiming third.

Florin Hulse: He'll be missed, and not just in Murtaugh

MURTAUGH — Murtaugh specifically and Magic Valley generally has lost one of the great friends of athletes the area has known the past third of a century.

When Murtaugh Superintendent Florin Hulse finally lost his three-year-long battle to cancer Wednesday, he left all of us who believe in high school athletics more certain in our beliefs and richer in memory.

There is an axiom in athletics that nothing turns an individual against sports more quickly than moving him from the sideline to the administrative office. This proves true often enough to be accepted as the norm.

Florin Hulse fit no one's average. He came to Murtaugh in 1952, brimming with enthusiasm and ideas and bent on giving the Red Devils a spot on the Idaho athletic map. Even though the population of the school shrank during his 32-year stay, he had the pleasure of seeing young men's dreams successfully translated into state championship hardware in the trophy case in both basketball and football.

But many have had the dream and lesser numbers have realized them. More than anything in our mind, what Hulse leaves behind is the impression of a competitor. A soft-spoken, modest, absolutely fair man who would pick up the gauntlet at the drop of a hat. Not to edify himself or the Red Devils nor to humiliate someone else. Simply "strap on the helmet and see who wins."

His was not the administration that said "we'll be competitive or I'll know the reason why." His motto was "let's be competitive and I'll do whatever is needed to help toward that goal."

Not many superintendents are seen on the football field after school helping seventh and eighth graders learn the nuances of the game.

Not many years ago, a late resignation left Murtaugh without a varsity football coach and the start of practice just days away. Hulse became the head football coach. Years ago when the Magic Valley Conference was dwindling, when DeLo moved up and Hagerman went to eight-man football, etc., the A-4 alignment was hard pressed to fill a schedule within relatively close geographical limits. It was suggested at the time that Twin Falls and Minico put a "jaysve" entry into membership.

Hulse was for it 100 percent — with one proviso.

"I don't want to go out on the field on a Thursday night against Twin Falls and have a coach tell me 'we have some kids off the varsity who didn't play last week because they were sick so we're going to use them tonight.'"

"I will accept them into the conference as the Twin Falls or Minico Juniors — provided they are strictly non-varsity juniors. Or I will accept Twin Falls or Minico's varsities. But I will not accept a combination of varsity and jaysvees because it leaves the big schools with no chance of embarrassment but leaves the small schools open to humiliation. We'll play anyone a school sends here, provided they call them by the right name."

Although Hulse reveled in all athletics, his soft spot was football. As in another four shots back to Betty Claiborn with Helen Huston at 107 and Joan McCoy and Vi Becker at 109.

"We'll play 11-man as long as we can get 11 out," he promised and shrugged off the possibility that might happen by noting "we'll decide about going eight-man after that day."

Then with enrollment at 46 (in the top four grades), the Devils substituted Hulse's faith by winning the A-11-man state championship — perhaps the smallest school ever to do so.

Montreal leads parade of NL shutouts

By The Associated Press

Tim Lincecum was worried he'd boot it with his glove in the top of the 10th, but used his feet to win it in the bottom of the inning.

Raines singled, stole second and third, and scored on Andre Dawson's single as the Montreal Expos beat the Chicago Cubs 1-0 Thursday night in Montreal.

Dan Schatzeder, 5-3, pitched a sparkling 10 innings for the Expos, striking out a career-high 11 batters while yielding just four hits to earn the victory.

Raines, shifted to second in the 10th in a defensive shuffle, was hoping nobody would hit on his way. But Larry Bowa did and Raines muffed it. "I booted it, I'm a little rusty, at second," said Raines; the club's regular center fielder. "I didn't want to lose the ball game by making an error; that was going through my mind constantly."

The error, which came with two outs, did no damage as Schatzeder ended the inning with a strikeout.

The shift was necessary after Expos Manager Bill Virdon pinch-hit for second baseman Doug Flynn and shortstop Mike Ramsey in the bottom of the ninth, leaving him fresh out of middle infielders.

"I don't think you'll ever see that again," said Virdon. "With (regular shortstop) Derrel Thomas out with a groin injury, though, I didn't have any choice."

George Frazier, 2-1, came on in the 10th in relief of Cubs' starter Dennis Eckersley and was charged with the loss.

Philadelphia 2, St. Louis 1
In Philadelphia, Phillies Manager Paul Owens nearly emptied his dugout, but the effort was worth it as Philadelphia scraped by the St. Louis Cardinals in 13 innings.

After Greg Gross and Van Hayes drew walks off Dave Rucker, Jeff Lahti came on to retire Mike Schmidt on a fly ball. Owens called on Steve Carlton to pinch-hit. Carlton struck out, bringing up Kiko Garcia, who lined a single to center field to score Gross with the winning run.

Los Angeles 1, Atlanta 0
In Atlanta, Greg Brock hit his 11th home run and Orel Hershiser and relievers combined on a four-hitter to

Reeling Orioles lose seventh contest in 10

By The Associated Press

Andre Thornton, who hit his 24th home run in the fourth inning, doubled home the tie-breaking run in the fifth Thursday night as the Cleveland-Indians sent the Baltimore Orioles to their seventh loss in the last 10 games, 7-5.

With the score tied 4-4 in the fifth, Julio Franco lined a single off the leg of Baltimore reliever Mark Brown, 0-1, who was making his major-league debut. Thornton followed with his RBI double to right and later scored on an error by Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken Jr. Tony Bernazard tripled a run across in the eighth against Tom Underwood.

Jamie Easterly, 2-0, was the winner in relief, limiting Baltimore to one hit in two innings. Ernie Camacho pitched 2-1-3 innings for his 15th save although he was nicked for a run in the ninth for a walk and Mike Young's RBI double.

The Orioles took a 1-0 lead in the first inning against Roy Smith on Young's eighth home run. The Indians tied it on Joe Carter's RBI double in the bottom of the inning.

Baltimore went ahead 2-1 in the third. "I'm bumby walked, moved to second, a balk, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Ripken's ground out," Cleveland Manager Pat Corrales was ejected for arguing the balk call and threw four bats onto the field before leaving.

Leinn Sakata hit his second home run of the season after Gary Roenicke walked in the Baltimore fourth inning to tie it 4-4.

Cleveland tied it with three runs in its half of the inning against Baltimore starter Mike Flanagan to tie it 4-4. Thornton led off with his solo shot and consecutive singles by Chris Bando, Carmen Castillo and Brook Jacoby produced the second run of the inning. After Brett Butler walked to load the bases, Carter singled in the tying run.

Texas 7, Boston 3
In Arlington, Texas, Frank Tanana pitched a five-hitter and the Texas Rangers scored four times in the seventh inning to defeat the Boston Red Sox.

Tampa, 7-11, retired 17 out of the last 18 Red Sox batters. Al Nipper, 4-5, was the loser.

New York 7, Chicago 6
In New York, rookie Dennis Rasmussen and two relievers combined on a five-hitter and Steve Kemp and Omar Moreno drove in two runs apiece, as the Yankees staggered to a victory over the Chicago White Sox and spotted Tom Seaver's return to New York.

Rasmussen, 7-3, struck out nine and allowed two hits in seven innings including Harold Baines' grand slam homer in the sixth — struck out nine and walked three in gaining his sixth straight victory.

Kansas City 5, Milwaukee 4
In Kansas City, Mo., Willie Wilson blooped a single to right field over a drawn-in Milwaukee infield to cap a two-run ninth-inning rally that gave the Kansas City Royals a victory over the Brewers.

Darryl Motley started the rally with a single, his third hit of the game, off Pete Ladd, 4-7, who relieved Moose Haas to start the inning. Lynn Jones, catcher for Motley, took second on a wild pitch and when Ladd made a throwing error to first on Frank White's bunt the Royals had runners at first and third.

Oakland 3, California 1
In Anaheim, Calif., Davey Lopes' two-run single snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth and gave the Angels a victory scoring all the way from first base and the Oakland Athletics held on for a victory over the California Angels.

Trailing 3-2, Rickey Henderson opened the Oakland sixth with a single and two outs later Dave Kingman walked. Murphy singled to tie the game with his tying RBI and both Murphy and Kingman, who were running with the pitch, scored as Lopes punched a single, right-center off loser Geoff Zahn, 10-9.

In a late game, it was Minnesota of Seattle.

Schultz boys warned for excessive brutality

By DOUG TUCKER
The Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Brothers Dave and Mark Schultz, former collegiate champions from Oklahoma, were accused of "excessive brutality" in their Olympic matches Thursday and a special official was assigned to monitor the rest of their bouts.

The brothers each wrestled once in the afternoon session and each opponent went straight to the hospital. Mark, 23, broke the left elbow of the 180.5-pound European champion, Resit Karabacak, 39 seconds into the match.

Earlier, Dave, sent Yugoslav's Sahin Sehid to the hospital with a knee injury incurred during their 163-pound match.

The Turk, expected to be Mark's toughest opponent in his weight class, is out of the Olympics, but the Yugoslav will return to wrestle again, officials said.

Enraged Turkish officials accused Mark Schultz of using an illegal hold and demanded that he be kicked out of the competition. The president of the International Wrestling Federation (IWF), Milan Ercegan, subsequently ruled the hold was illegal and declared the Turk the winner, but instead of disqualifying Schultz, IWF officials named Canadian, Mario Sulejmanovic, to monitor every match the brothers wrestle.

Both Schultz brothers are considered prime gold medal candidates in these freestyle games which Americans are thoroughly dominating.

"U.S. Coach Dan Gable said that after viewing videotapes of the match with the Turk, he agreed that the hold was illegal."

"It is something we learned from the Cubans, who got free from the Russians," Gable said. "It didn't start out illegal. But when he pulled the man's arm away from his body and rotated the joint it became illegal."

Neither brother was available for comment. Losing the bout does not mean Mark cannot win the gold medal, but it will make it tougher. But Gable said assigning a special judge to scrutinize the Schultz brothers could work to their detriment.

"Sure, they're under the microscope," said Gable. "But all they have to do is use their techniques right. If they do that, they'll be all right."

An assistant coach of the Turks, Muharrem Atik, said he was not satisfied with the action taken.

"Our wrestler has a broken arm," he said through an interpreter. "He is the European champion. This happened because of a foul. If the Americans had come to us and apologized for what happened, we would not have protested."

The Turkish coach also said he thought Mark Schultz deliberately injured his wrestler. Gable insisted that both injuries were inadvertent.

"There was no intention on anybody's part to cause injury," said Gable. "I told the Turkish coach had said there would have been no protest if the Americans had apologized, Gable said, "I am very sorry that the athlete was injured, but it was unintentional and I'm not going to beg going to anybody."

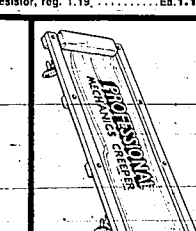

Mark Schultz was cautioned for excessive brutality at last year's World Championships.

Sheehan leads LPGA event

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Defending champion Patty Sheehan turned in a "boring" and bogey-free 5-under-par 67 Thursday for a 1-shot lead in the opening round of the $180,000 Henredon Classic LPGA tournament.

Sheehan, who ran away to victory in 1983 with a record-setting score of 272 on the Willow Creek Golf Course, posted birdies at the 16th, 17th and 18th holes en route to the top spot. The 1981 rookie of the year and this year's leading money winner also birdied No. 3 and No. 4.

As thunder rumbled across the 6,191-yard course, Sheehan pulled ahead of Kathy Hill, who settled for a 68 after closing with consecutive bogeys, and Judy Ellis, who was in the last threesome of the hot, humid afternoon.

Jets sign veteran Carmichael

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets, whose receiving corps has been decimated by an injury to Johnny "Lam" Jones and the holdout of Wesley Walker, announced Thursday that they have signed Harold Carmichael, who tied for fourth on the National Football League's all-time receiving list.

The 4-foot-8, 225-pound Carmichael, who will be 35 in September, was released by the Philadelphia Eagles May 11 after playing with them for 13 seasons. A four-time Pro Bowler, he has caught a total of 589 passes for 8,978 yards, a 15.2-yard average, and 79 touchdowns to the Fred Biletnikoff on the NFL's all-time receiving list.

Tuggle has tumor, say Giants

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The New York Giants of the National Football League announced Thursday that running back John Tuggle, already sidelined for the season with a knee injury, is being treated for a tumor in the right shoulder region.

A statement issued by Dr. Russell F. Warren, the Giants' team physician, said no immediate surgery was planned and said Tuggle was undergoing outpatient treatment at Memorial Sloan Kettering Hospital in New York. It was not disclosed if the tumor was malignant and Warren said no further statements will be made.

Bowden fires ace at Jackpot

JACKPOT — Bill Bowden of Salt Lake City highlighted the opening round of Cactus Pete's Texas Mixed Serranillo Thursday by springing a hole-in-one.

Four share Buick Open early lead

By HARRY ATKINS
The Associated Press

GRAND BLANC, Mich. — Tom Kite, who missed the cut in last week's PGA tour event, fired a 6-under-par 66 Thursday to pull into a four-way tie for the lead in the first round of the $400,000 Buick Open.

Tied with Kite were Gary Hallberg, John Adams and Jodie Mudd.

One stroke back at 67 were David Ogren, a second-year pro matching his best-ever score in a tour event, Tom Purtzer and Tony Sills.

"This is the way I've always dreamed of playing the tour," Ogren said.

For Kite, it was the way he expects to play.

"This was a nice comeback after the way I played last week," Kite said. "This was a good, solid round, a very encouraging round."

Kite said a hard rain, accompanied by nearby tornadoes that cut short Wednesday's pro-am, softened the greens.

"The greens were almost too soft," Kite said. "The greens will dry out, but the heel prints made by the people in the early rounds could be a factor for the guys playing later."

The two "glamour names" in the tournament — U.S. Open champion Fuzzy Zoeller and British Open champion Seve Ballesteros — also carded sub-par rounds.

Photog returns home

Ketchum's work to hang in Images Gallery

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Robert Glenn Ketchum has gained in stature as an outdoor photographer since the early 1970s when he was founder/teacher of the Photography Workshop for the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities.

His works have hung in the United States' best art galleries and are included in many of the top private collections.

Ketchum is now returning for a month-long visit to Ketchum and Sun Valley while between shows of a traveling photographers' exhibition.

The traveling exhibit, "American Photographers and the National Parks," is being sponsored by the National Park Foundation of which Ketchum is curator. It is a collection of 33 photographers' works on the imagery of U.S. national parks. Some of the works date back 125 years.

day, where they will hang for one month, says gallery owner Gail Severn.

The rest will hang in the Elkhorn Resort hotel beginning Aug. 14 during the "Parks in the West" conference sponsored by the Institute of the American West, Aug. 15-18.

A reception for Ketchum will be held at 6:30 p.m. today in the Idaho Room at the hotel.

Many of Ketchum's works in the park's collection were produced from his years in Sun Valley, says Severn. His portfolio "Winters, 1970 to 1980," a work of black and white photographs taken on his winter trips into the Sawtooth Mountains and other mountain ranges around the Wood River Valley is a part of the collection.

Those black and white works will be on display at Elkhorn during the park's conference along with some color photographs, Severn says.

At Images Gallery, the remainder of Ketchum's large color works in the park's exhibition will show for one month, she says.

Severn says Ketchum's work captures the intensity and energy of the man behind the camera. She says Ketchum is a master at changing the foreground and background together and drawing the viewer into the whole picture at one time.

A recipient of several grants and commissions, Ketchum is recognized for his fine print work in both color and black and white photography.

He has been featured in more than 200 publications and displayed in museums around the country including the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, the Newport Harbor Art Museum, The Corcoran in Washington, D.C., the Carnegie Institute and the White House.

Ketchum spends much of his time traveling for his work while maintaining a home in Garrison, N.Y. He is now working on a recent commission from the president of Reader's Digest magazine to photograph the Hudson River Valley.

Ketchum served as the first instructor of photography for the Sun Valley Center's Photography Workshop from 1971 to 1974.

Summer festival in Jerome features arts, crafts, cars

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — The "Century of Farming" summer festival in Jerome moves into high gear this weekend with a full agenda of entertainment, including an antique car show and arts and crafts fair.

Both events are free to the public and will be held Saturday and Sunday. The car show and a swap meet will be held in the South Park and the art fair in the North Park.

Lloyd Dodson of Kimberly, show chairman for the local Veteran Car Club of America chapter, said cars will be coming in from four states with about 75 now entered. One of the highlights this year is the return showing of the 1937 Cord owned by Mr. and Mrs. Kensington Stewart of Jerome.

He said this year's show is the 16th annual for the local old car club, but local members are now affiliated with the Veteran Car Club rather than the tireless Carriage Club. This allows for a wider interest of vehicle ages and types, he said.

"We can now have members with cars 25 years old or older rather than having to restrict membership to the early 1900s," he said.

The show this year, as in the past, will feature all types of automobiles including antiques, custom cars, street rods, pickup trucks, and late restored cars.

"We try to keep variety in the shows for appeal to all car interests. In the past, we have always been able to do this without Jerome shows," he said.

Late entries will be received at the park on Saturday morning. The show opens at 10 a.m. both days and remains open until 9 p.m. Saturday, but closes at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday following an awards presentation.

The Jerome Art Guild will present an annual display and sale of all types of art work during the same hours.

Guild member Evelyn Hintze of Jerome said there will be paintings of all types, sketches, wood carvings, photographs, pottery and a wide range of handwork. Stuffed dolls, jewelry and silversmithing also will be featured.

The public is invited to walk through the two park areas to view the cars and art and buy from the auto show swap meet or from any of the artists displaying their work.

Hintze said the art show will be much larger this year than a year ago as 25 booths have already been assigned and more are expected before the weekend. Artists may purchase a booth space for $5 per day and late entries are welcome prior to the Saturday morning opening.

Also on tap for the coming weekend is a country style breakfast at the Jerome Senior Citizens Center Saturday morning. The breakfast is served from 7 to 11 a.m.

A Friday festival agenda includes the moonlight downtown sale and a trout barbecue at the First Interstate Bank parking lot. The barbecue is sponsored by the Jerome Boosters Club and will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. It is followed by a free street dance at 9 p.m. in downtown Jerome.

Saturday evening, a high school alumni cross-country race will begin at 7 p.m. from the high school. Tim Dunne, 61-324-5925 is in charge of entries.

The final event of the day is the alumni football game at 8 p.m. at the high school. Admission is $2.

Artist prefers nature's patterns

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News contributor

JEROME — Sculptor Gus Flowers uses nature as patterns for his art.

"If an athlete lost my job, he'd start doubting his religion immediately. Nature just isn't an accident. The Designer shows us all his pieces," says the Jerome artist, who works with brass, copper, silver and steel when copying nature's creations.

"Leaf sculpture is my strong suit," says Flowers as he shows how he traces a pattern from an actual leaf. He says it would be simpler and faster to draw the leaf, but then his pattern would tend to repeat itself.

"Like snowflakes and thumbprints, each leaf is unique," he points out, noting that his way is to actually remove a leaf from its limb and use it for a pattern.

Using an acetone torch, the sculptor then cuts the design out of thin metal and by running the flame across each leaf, he is able to achieve a wide variety of hues that seem to bring the metallic vegetation to life right before your eyes.

"Aspen leaves are my favorite," he says, noting that he likes the stress they show. For the branches, he is not satisfied to use single wires, but rather welds together hundreds of little pieces to show the flowing, twisted, gnarled look of mountain quaking aspen.

"Lawn-grown aspens look more like birch," he points out. "But, in the mountains you find an aspen growing under a firlock facing east or north that catches every snow drift. The aspens get stress so heavy that sometimes they only grow an inch a year," he explains.

"It's like when an artist is going to paint a picture of..."

Pianist joins academy staff

TWIN FALLS — Willetta Warberg of Twin Falls is joining the Renaissance Academy for the Arts' faculty to teach piano, music theory and composition, and to coach piano and general musical stage presentation and performance.

Warberg, a graduate of the Mannes College of Music in New York City, began her piano studies at the age of 4 and presented her first piano recital when she was 9.

When Warberg was in fifth grade at Lincoln School, she wrote the song "Save, Serve and Conserve," which was later entered into the Treasury Department's national contest for their "Schools at War" program. Her song was selected to appear in their published collection and is presently filed in the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

The same year, at age 10, Warberg appeared in a recital concert at Linfield College in Oregon.

In 1949, when Warberg was 16, she won the Intermountain Talent Hunt. Maestro Maurice Abravanel — conductor of the Utah Symphony Orchestra at that time — heard Warberg and gave her much encouragement for a concert career. During the summer of 1950, Warberg attended the Aspen, Colo., music festival where she was tutored by the internationally recognized and successful Czech pianist, Rudolf Pirkusky.

TWIN FALLS — Jim Henson's creations bring their magic to the big screen for the third and the best time in "The Muppets Take Manhattan."

The fuzzy and big-eyed creatures breeze through the tale with style as Kermit and friends dream of taking the frog's senior college show to the Great White Way.

They tackle New York City with enthusiasm, but find the city doesn't bend so easily. Soon, the Muppets are frustrated and penniless as they search for a producer. Also at stake is the wedding plans of Kermit and Miss Piggy, who plan to marry if the show is a Broadway hit.

It's no surprise that the ending is happy and story predictable. But the film is none the less entertaining and a delight for all ages.

Unlike its two predecessors, "The Muppets Take Manhattan" is more straightforward and simple under the direction of Frank Oz. This time,

Kermit and Miss Piggy a winning couple there's less camp and cunnings from movie stars to interrupt a story that really belongs to the non-human, yet humane puppets.

Among the usual Muppet gang, Kermit and Miss Piggy are the real stars. The couple's spit and spats are heartwarming and comic.

The human cast is weak compared to the talents of the puppets. But even the best talent from the fairy tale quality of the movie.

As for the songs, they strictly are toe tappers and not on the par with those in the first film. But the background for the music is better.

Bill Murray funny as ever particularly the scenes featuring a roomful of baby Muppets and a restaurant full of rats.

"Muppets Take Manhattan" is a definite charmer that will make you bellyache and even hope that a pig and frog can live happily ever after.

'Ghostbusters': a film with plenty of spirit

By PAT MARCANTONIO

Q. "Ghostbusters" will make you laugh if you like...

- A) "Saturday Night Live" humor.
- B) Bill Murray.
- C) Both of the above.

"Those who selected 'C' will indeed find 'Ghostbusters' a spirited comedy, to excuse the pun.

Murray, Dan Aykroyd and Harold Ramis play three parapsychologists who lose their grant with a university. Left to fate in the non-academic cold world, they become professional exorcists of ghosts in the middle of New York City. Donning the little, "Ghostbusters, Inc.," the inept scientists sport fashionable jumpsuits and nuclear-powered demon guns.

While on the brink of financial ruin, business suddenly picks up and the team become rich and famous. One of their first customers is Sigourney Weaver, a musician who finds her refrigerator filled not only with leftover casserole, but terrifying apparitions.

After telling her story to the Ghostbusters, Murray mugs, "You don't usually find that kind of behavior in a major appliance."

Such is the off-beat humor you will find in the movie along with slapstick schtick as the busters bust spectral heads.

As much fun as the special-effect conceals of ghosts and beasts are the fleet one-liners, especially when delivered by Murray who again plays the wise-guy, always lecherous character he created in "Stripes."

Screenwriters Ramis and Aykroyd are wise enough to give Murray the spotlight and the best lines. And Murray, with his sad-sack manner

After a year at the Colorado college, and at the insistence of Firkusny, Warberg went to New York City as Firkusny's protegee. There she won a scholarship at the Mannes College and studied with pianists Hans Neumann and Dr. Felix Salzer, author of "Structural Hearing." At the age of 21, Warberg graduated from Mannes College and married a classmate and up-and-coming Israeli pianist, David Bar-Ilan. At that time, she gave up her musical career and started working at Look Magazine, where, after one year, she became one of their food editors. and subdued timing, nearly steals the show. His scene with a seductive and demonized Weaver is a priceless piece of horror flick spookery. After this one, you'll never again be able to keep a straight face during one of those sex-kill possession scenes. The rest of the players also are polished. Aykroyd and Ramis share straight-man duties, but still manage a few good moments. "SCTV" original Rick Moranis turns in a sublime performance as a first-class. And Weaver, known for her serious work in "Year of Living Dangerously," is more than a sexy fixture for Murray's advancements. Co-starring with the humans is a bizarre collection of ghosts that are like the rest of the film — slightly off-key. Nothing spectacular, but always amusing. With ingredients ranging from a hard-rock director to the biting one-liners, strand Ivan Reitman — who also did "Stripes" — serves up the best adult-comedy of the summer. As the movie ads boast, "Ghostbusters" is supernatural.

Mailer's two most recent books different as night and day

By DAN CRYER
Newsday

Never give up on Norman Mailer. Just wait until next year.

His public persona is so various, his books so unpredictable, that whatever you think of the current incarnation, next year's may suit your fancy.

Take the two most recent books. You could hardly find novels as different in tone and style as "Ancient Evenings" and "Tough Guys Don't Dance."

The former was as ornate, self-indulgent and ultimately boring as the latter is mystery-novel tight and suspenseful.

Apart from an occasional action scene, when Mailer's prose broke loose from its orbit of sexual philosophizing and stilted dialogue, "Ancient Evenings" was dreadful. It was good fiction as much as Jack Henry Abbott was trustworthy ex-con.

"Tough Guys Don't Dance," on the other hand, deserves our grudging respect, despite the fact that its plimble author churned it out in about four months.

No matter. "Ancient Evenings" was labored over for 10 years, off and on, and look what we got.

In "Tough Guys Don't Dance," a tale of murder set in Provincetown, Cape Cod, Mailer has absorbed all the tricks of the mystery trade. Tension flows from a clue revealed here, information withheld there. Characters seem perfectly respectable in one chapter, treacherous in the next.

"Tough Guys Don't Dance," of course, is not just a mystery. Mailer has more on his mind than entertainment, though the novel surely succeeds on that level.

When the novel seeks to instruct on the mysteries of masculinity, it falters. From his macho father, Tim Madden learned that "tough guys don't dance."

Flowers

somebody. He doesn't want just anybody. He wants someone who shows the stress of the elements, like an old sea boat captain who's been exposed to the briny for 50 years."

Flowers is such a stickler for detail that about 10 percent of the aspen loges on each design are welded to a tiny bearing taking from a key chain. The slightest breeze sends the metallic leaf quaking like the real thing. His welds are done with a special torch normally used for welding orthodontic braces.

With an education in secondary school administration and a background in business management, Flowers got into sculpting through the back door.

He says it was frustrating working at a desk and he needed a hobby. In 1970, he spotted a display of nuts-and-bolts human figures that were being shown at the Rogerson Hotel Cafe by Jack Knuckles of Rock Creek Metal Craft Company.

Flowers says he expressed an interest in the sculptures to Knuckles, who in turn encouraged him to try his own hand at it.

"Before long, I was buying pliers by the gross," Flowers says, noting that pliers were used for the body of each figure.

Feeling he'd gotten good enough at it to make a few dollars on the side with his hobby, Flowers estimated he could sell each figure for $5. The shocker, he says, came when he showed a sample to a woman running a gift shop in Sun Valley.

"She put them on her shelf with a price tag of $19.95 and gave me $12.78 for each one," he says. "Pretty soon she was getting $25 apiece for them."

Before long, Flowers quit his job and went into sculpting full time. His wife, Louise, who is secretary to the president at the College of Southern Idaho, remembers helping him market the metal designs at a display 13 years ago.

"I remember saying to someone, 'I never dreamed that on my 10th wedding anniversary, I'd be standing on the street selling tin cans.' It was pretty scary," she recalled about her husband leaving the business world for the more unstable world of the arts and crafts.

Flowers first foray into leaf sculpture occurred during an art show in Boise. A woman who claimed she'd been to every decorator shop in that city, trying but failing to find something to decorate her fireplace, approached him.

Flowers went to her home, they decided leaves would look good—without the slightest idea of how to make a leaf sculpture, he accepted the task.

He says he bought some brass shimstock at a parts company, not even knowing if a torch would cut it. But, through experimentation, he says he completed the design and was paid $250 for it. Now, almost all his work is custom and sells for up to $3,000.

However, Flowers is anything but over-impressed with himself. In fact, he says he finds it ironic he can make a living at sculpting.

Flowers, who has very little actual art background says he did get an A and a B in college art 101 and C's in art appreciation, but "I hated it. I only look at it because I had to as part of a teacher's education."

Even now, he says a lot of artists are chauvinistic and that art has trended away from realism.

"Very few of my clients collect abstract art, too," he says.

Flowers attributes his sculpting abilities to digital dexterity and the love of metal working. But, just as important, is his eye for detail.

Pointing to a grape-vine design hanging on the living-room wall, he says, "Every grape leaf is opposed by a little hanger for clinging. And every maple leaf has a twin on the same stem."

He says he can see something in nature 10,000 times before suddenly getting a new insight into it.

"I look, and then suddenly I get a thrill in my brain. Every time one of these little enlightenments occur, it's like a new fireworks."

As for the future, Flowers says he is always looking for something new. "I see figure sculpture coming. I'll do people more than I do now. Five to 10 years from now bronzes will be more evident. It's a logical step forward."

Presently, he's studying for an upcoming project which will include several horses, and which he considers a real challenge.

"I'm on edge. I wake up at night thinking about horses. I want the detail of it to be so thorough that dust would be flying and it would smell like horse sweat."

Flowers points to the natural beauty of Idaho as a constant source of inspiration. He was, "imported" to this area when he was 5 years old and says even though his sculptures sell all over the world, and he could live anywhere, he plans to stay put.

Living with his wife and children, Dave, 17, and Cindy, 12, on their farm in rural Jerome County, has an idealistic flavor for the sculptor.

"No matter where I go, I always return because of the canyon, the hills, the fishing and hunting—and because of" Flowers has sagebrush juice running through his veins."

Flowers' work can be seen this weekend at the 10th Annual Sun Valley Arts and Crafts Festival.
