Eagl Tree of the Buhl Fire Department hoses down a hot spot Wednesday amidst the rubble of Fleming's Sport Shop and Cafe in downtown Buhl

Body of elderly tenant found in his apartment

Blaze destroys landmark at Buhl

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

BUHL — An "extremely intense" fire raged through a landmark building in downtown Buhl early Wednesday morning, destroying three businesses and killing an elderly man.

The fire, which erupted in a concrete and wood-frame building at the west corner of Broadway Avenue and Main Street, gutted the Sports Shop cafe and bar, the Hair Hut salon, the Cable TV at Buhl office, and second floor apartments.

Walter L. Roberts, the only tenant in the building's second-story suite of apartments, died in the fire, according to Buhl police. His body was found in his apartment.

The cause of the fire is unknown, the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office is working with local authorities to investigate the possibility of arson.

Buhl Fire Chief Mark Grimes said there was no immediate indication that the fire was caused by arson. "But he said, 'We have to have some answers and there are still too many unanswered questions.'"

The first alarm was sounded at 2:58 a.m. by Kelly Wilson, an off-duty policeman who lives about a block north of the scene of the fire.

By the time 17 Buhl firefighters arrived on the scene shortly after 3 a.m., smoke and flames were already pouring through the building's ground-floor windows, Grimes said.

Shortly after arriving, firefighters conducted an initial search of four vacant, second-floor apartments. But Grimes said the firefighters were forced to evacuate the building when a sudden surge of flames through a central airshaft caused the fire to mushroom out of control.

"At that time, we had to go into a defensive mode," to try and contain the fire, Grimes said.

The firefighters faced both toxic smoke and overpowering heat, with flames that threatened to spread to an adjacent boarding house — the Buhl Hotel.

The hotel's 46 residents were evacuated shortly after the fire broke out by hotel owner Jerry Cahill, who was awakened by the wall of the initial alarm. "The boarding-house restaurant also had to be evacuated," Cahill said.

Quake jolts Idaho

No injuries

By The Associated Press

CHALLIS — Central Idaho residents jolted by a deadly October earthquake felt the earth move again Wednesday.

They felt it as another quake rumbled through the region, forcing the shutdown of two nuclear plants and rattling cities as distant as Boise and Kallispell, Mont.

There were no reports of injuries or serious damage after the early-morning earthquake that measured 5.2 on the Richter scale, according to the U.S. Geological Survey Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo. The quake was centered about 15 miles east of Challis and 130 miles northeast of Boise, the agency said.

The Oct. 28 earthquake that left two central Idaho children dead and caused millions of dollars in damage measured 7.3 and was centered about 50 miles southeast of Challis.

Challis resident Harry James, whose home was gutted by rocks in the earthquake last year, stood outside his house for 30 minutes on Wednesday, waiting for another onslaught of boulders.

"We just kind of stood there and listened," James said. "We could hardly see the hill for all the dust."

The earthquake at 3:46 a.m. MDT prompted the manual shutdown of two nuclear reactors at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Idaho Falls.

INEL spokesman Peter Mygatt said the units are among 15 operable reactors at INEL, and the decision to shut them down was a judgment call by the crew on duty early Wednesday. Mygatt described the shutdown as routine and said the reactors were returned to service within two hours.

The earthquake was felt at the

Republicans nominate Reagan-Bush ticket

By DAVID ESPO
The Associated Press

DALLAS — President Reagan swept to uncontested renomination Wednesday night at the Republican National Convention.

He was given the party's standard after vowing at a re-election rally to remake the nation into an "opportunity society" and the GOP "into America's party."

"In your hearts, you know he's right," said Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Vice President George Bush shared Reagan's moment of triumph, as the delegates used a single roll call to re-create the party's landslide ticket from 1980.

"I'm pleased," a smiling president said after watching his triumph on television. Jokingly, he added, "We've been sweating this out."

Reagan-Bush were without opposition in their own party, and begin the fall campaign against the Democrats as solid favorites for re-election.

Nominations secured, the Reagan and Bush families were shown on the giant video screen behind the Dallas Convention Center podium.

Goldwater revives cry — A3

Reagan kissed the first lady and the delegates cheered.

Reagan and Bush won their trophies after a convention hall pep rally led earlier by Nancy Reagan herself. "Let's make it one more for the Gipper," she said.

The president, 73, watched her performance on TV from his Loews Anatole Suite. Mrs. Reagan waved his image on the giant screen behind her. He waved back, to the delight of the crowd.

In the roll call that followed after prime television time, Sen. Jeremiah Denton of Alabama cast the first ballots — 38 delegates for "the man of the hour, the man of his time," President Reagan.

Arkansas' said Missouri would put the ticket over, and at 1,134 delegate votes, it did.

Bush, who ran just a few delegate votes behind Reagan as the 1980 ear proceeded, was with the president as the double-barreled nominating ritual unfolded. First he, then the president, will speak to the delegates during tonight's convention finale.

Former President Gerald Ford, who met privately with Reagan and Bush, was optimistic. But he also said the conservative president needs the support of "people such as myself who represent the central position" to win the re-election in November.

The Republican band played "Happy Days Are Here Again" — a reminder of Republican efforts to court Democratic votes — as Sen. Paul Laxalt mounted the podium to present the name of "our now and future president."

The convention center erupted in an exuberant demonstration — as scripted as everything else this week — and the hall suddenly was a sea of American flags, patriotic balloons and Reagan-Bush signs. Shouts of "Four more years" completed for attention with a convention band, a marching band, a bagpipe band, and dancing teenagers.

Mondale aides acknowledged the Reagan advantage but vowed to catch up.

"We'll give them Danas just for today and then in November we're going to take the whole country," said vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, back on the campaign trail to answer a week of convention barbs.

'Missing link' may turn up in fossils

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Scientists announced Wednesday they have found an "unprecedented" fossil site in Kenya containing thousands of ancient bone fragments, including those of creatures from whom apes and humans may have evolved.

The unusually abundant discovery resulted in recovering five rare partial skeletons of 18 million-year-old ape-like creatures, as well as fossils of a number of other extinct animals.

The joint U.S.-Kenyan group that discovered the new site last May and June also recovered additional fossils from a nearby area explored more than two decades ago — by famed anthropologists Louis and Mary Leakey.

Drs. Alan Walker and Mark Teaford, respectively an anatomist and an anthropologist at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, and Richard E. Leakey, director of the National Museums of Kenya, led the expedition. Leakey is the son of Louis Leakey, who died in 1972, and Mary Leakey.

"Fossil apes from any time and places are exceedingly rare," Walker said in a report to the National Science Foundation, which co-sponsored the expedition with the National Museums of Kenya.

Ferraro's campaign staff unravelling

By ANN BLACKMAN
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Geraldine Ferraro's campaign staff is having a hard time getting its political act together.

Just when the Democratic vice presidential nominee hoped to put the controversy over her family finances behind her and concentrate on attacking Republicans, she got another kick in the stomach — her press secretary quit.

It was one more sign of a campaign plagued by inexperience and disorganization.

Ferraro, who has never before run for national office, has a campaign manager who has never run a national campaign.

Her political director, Anne Wexler, has been on vacation.

And Patricia Bario, Ferraro's press secretary who resigned in pique Tuesday, had never worked in a national campaign.

When word of Bario's resignation first spread — and she publicly criticized campaign manager John Sasso's direction — none of Ferraro's staff

Tuesday night, but he refused to characterize her response.

Later, Ferraro said of Bario, "I love her. She's terrific. She was a very good press secretary. She's professional. There was a little bit of chemistry between some individuals, but that's normal when you put a campaign together."

And Bob Beckel, campaign manager for Democratic standard-bearer Walter Mondale, minimized the impact of Bario's move. "Pat's decision to leave the campaign is a personal one. This campaign is not going to rise or fall on any one person," Beckel said on ABC-TV's "Nightline."

Sasso said Bario would be replaced temporarily by Francis O'Brien, a Ferraro campaign aide who worked for Walter F. Mondale in 1976 and Rep. Peter Rodino when he handled the Watergate inquiry in 1974.

Sasso, 37, worked as chief of staff to Massachusetts Gov. Michael F. Dukakis for a year and a half before he was appointed to manage Ms. Ferraro's vice presidential campaign.

Asked Wednesday if he agreed with Bario that the campaign is disorganized, Sasso replied, "No, I don't. . . . We have good people. We had a well-run trip to the West last week."

Sasso, speaking during a campaign flight from New York to Washington where Ferraro addressed the American Federation of Teachers, said he and Bario had "mutually agreed" that her resignation was "the best course of action."

He said Ferraro was informed of the resignation could contact Sasso. They said he had left for Washington and that they didn't know how to reach him.

And there was no one left in charge of "damage control," the term politicians use to describe limiting the impact of an unfavorable development.

"This is an extremely disorganized operation," Bario told one reporter Tuesday night. "The basic problem is we didn't have our act together."

Asked Wednesday if he agreed with Bario that the campaign is disorganized, Sasso replied, "No, I don't. . . . We have good people. We had a well-run trip to the West last week."

FEC asked to reopen probe

By The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Federal Election Commission was asked Wednesday to reopen its investigation of Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine A. Ferraro's 1978 illegal campaign loans to determine who is telling the truth about a key point: her husband, John A. Zaccaro, or a former commission lawyer, David J. Stein.

In a formal complaint, John F. Banzhaf III, a George Washington University Law School professor who often files suits seeking independent investigations of conflict-prone matters, also asked the commission to investigate whether the complex real estate transaction Ferraro and Zaccaro used to pay off the campaign loans was a sham.

Commission rules give the panel until next Wednesday to decide whether to initiate a preliminary investigation, a non-public action which would begin by giving Ferraro the right to reply.

Zaccaro due in court today

NEW YORK (AP) — John Zaccaro, who faces a court hearing today for making a $100,000 loan to his real estate company from a private estate he was appointed to administer, also lent an additional $75,000 from the estate to his company.

Zaccaro's husband of Democratic vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro, made the loans as court-appointed financial guardian of an 84-year-old woman who had been judged incompetent to manage her affairs.

Zaccaro, who said he never was told such loans were improper, borrowed the $100,000 in October and repaid it with 12 percent interest in March. But a referee in the case questioned the propriety of the loan, and a hearing was scheduled in state Supreme Court in Queens by Judge Edwin Kassoff.

Senate hopefuls back ERA

DALLAS (AP) — Despite the Republican platform's firm rejection of the Equal Rights Amendment, eight Republicans seeking Senate seats now held by Democrats said Wednesday they either support the ERA or would back a modified version.

The eight were among 12 GOP challengers who participated in a news conference staged by Republican leaders to highlight their expectations of retaining control of the Senate in November.

Voting unqualified support for the ERA were Elliot Richardson of Massachusetts, Jack Loumsa of Michigan and Mary Mochary of New Jersey.

Expressing support for a modified version of the ERA were Victor Ashe of Tennessee, Phil Gramm of Texas, Ray Shamie of Massachusetts, Mitch McConnell of Kentucky and John Raese of West Virginia.

Bush pokes fun at opponent

DALLAS (AP) — Chipping away at the image of Geraldine Ferraro as a champion of blue-collar Americans, Vice President George Bush poked fun at her well-to-do financial status Wednesday and said, "It now appears that Edith and Archie Bunker may be Pamela and Averell Harriman."

The Harrimans are wealthy Democrats prominent in Washington's social scene. Ms. Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential nominee and the daughter of Italian immigrants, represents in Congress the Queens, N.Y., neighborhood that was the setting for the television series "All in the Family," with Edith and Archie Bunkers as typical, middle-class Americans.

Ms. Ferraro's financial disclosures earlier this week show she and her husband have a net worth of $3.8 million.

Action on Ferraro unlikely

By The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Congressional sources said Tuesday that in the few remaining weeks of this session the House ethics committee is unlikely to investigate Geraldine A. Ferraro, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, who continues to say that she has not violated House disclosure rules over the last six years.

A conservative public-interest law firm called the Washington Legal Foundation has formally complained that the New York lawmaker broke House rules in not disclosing her husband's income, assets and liabilities since she came to Congress in 1979.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marchers in the NAACP's "Overground Railroad" came through the nation's capital Wednesday on their way to completing a 350-mile trek from Richmond, Va. to New York aimed at registering thousands of new voters.

Organizers said they had little success in Virginia, registering only 13 new voters since the march began Sunday, because of what they called the state's "backward" registration law.

In his acceptance speech at that time, the senator from Arizona said, "I would remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice. Let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue."

The words embroiled him in controversy with moderates in his own party and were blamed by some for contributing to his landslide defeat by Democratic President Lyndon B. Johnson.

In his prepared text, Goldwater said: "A month ago I sat in my den and watched the Democratic National Convention. Speaker after speaker promised the moon to every narrow, selfish special interest group in the country. But they ignored the hopes and aspirations of the largest special interest group of all — free men and free women."

He focused on defense issues in the speech, charging that House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., is holding up action on defense spending legislation because "he doesn't want a bill until after the election."

Earlier, Goldwater warned Republicans against taking Reagan's re-election for granted and said Vice President George Bush appears at the moment to be the most logical GOP presidential candidate for 1988.

"I think Ronald Reagan is going to win, but I won't join the hordes of people who think they can sit on their tall ends and not work; I think if we do that, we can lose," Goldwater told a news conference.

As for the sweepstakes shaping up for the 1988 GOP nomination, Goldwater said it is too early to make any predictions, but added, "I would say as of now the vice president would be the logical one."

Police arrested 96 protesters Wednesday after a rowdy group marched through downtown, splattering paint, disrupting businesses and burning a U.S. flag near the site of the Republican National Convention.

Officers earlier had made no attempt to stop the "War Chest Tour," organized by the Youth International Party, as a protest against President Reagan and companies with government contracts.

Ferraro's disclosure leaves Hansen silent

The dust isn't quite settled yet, but vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro appears to have gone a long way toward disposing of allegations of financial impropriety with the release this week of voluminous information on both her and her husband's finances. She released tax returns, net worth statements, data on her and husband John Zaccaro's residences, sales and purchases in the past 18 months, and expense and gift reimbursements in that period. She stood in front of the press and agreed to answer questions as long as they had any to ask.

All of this goes well beyond the requirements of federal law and it gives considerable weight to her contention that she and Zaccaro have nothing to hide. Conspicuously silent in the past two days has been our own felon congressman, Rep. George Hansen, who was quick to draw parallels at first between his case and Ferraro's, but who has been struck mute now that she has delivered heaps of personal financial data.

There are at least two important differences between Geraldine's and George's cases. One is that Ferraro openly claimed an exemption from the Ethics Act's requirements that she disclose her spouse's financial affairs. Hansen didn't claim the exemption, but simply refused to disclose information about questionable loans from Bunker Hunt and two convicted bank swindlers.

The evidence at the trial in which Hansen was convicted suggests strongly that he intentionally attempted to conceal these transactions. In light of Ferraro's disclosures this week, which member of congress now appears to have something to hide, Geraldine or George?

And that brings us to point two, which is that Hansen still refuses to tell the people important information about his finances.

He refuses to discuss, for example, the following:

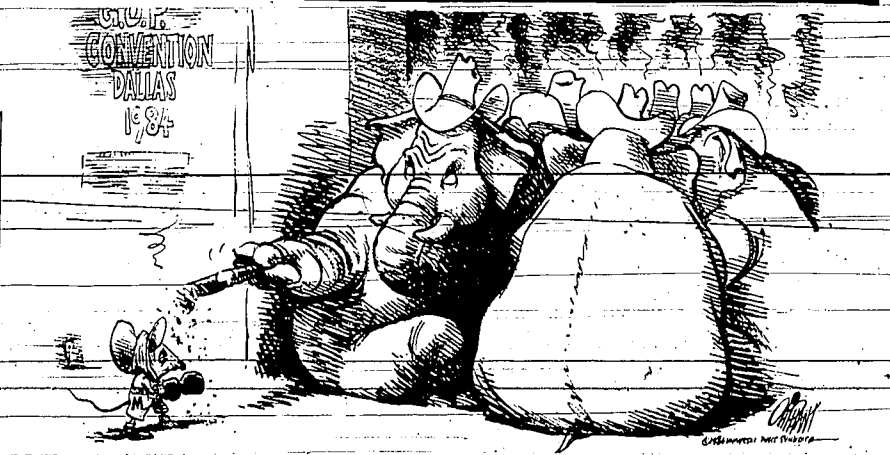

- Why he or his wife Connie have had nearly 10 checking accounts at one time?
- Why one of those accounts had a cash flow of nearly $850,000 in a one-month period?

• From whom that account's deposits in amounts of over $50,000 were from, or to whom the 150 checks, in amounts up to $10,000, were written?

• Who is paying for the reported 1 million copies of "To Harass Our People" said to have been printed and distributed nationwide, financial sources he refuses to identify because he fears IRS harassment against them?

As he always does, we can expect George to find a way to explain away Ferraro's disclosures while continuing to keep silent on the answers to these questions. Anyone who can explain away a 354-52 reprimand vote by the full House as a "90 percent exemption" won't have any trouble doing that.

But that won't answer the money questions many, many people have about the man who still claims, despite four felony convictions and a probationary jail term, that he deserves our trust and vote.

GOP: Hunting pleasure via dissipation

DALLAS—Nineteenth-century Boston—Emerson and that lot—was a city of plain living and high thinking. Dallas this week—Reps. Jack Kemp and Trent Lott and that lot—is a city of high living and more thinking than you would think the high living would permit.

Delegates and politicians, pursuing Pleasures, through the meadow of Dissipation, with strange foods and drinks leering at them on all sides, seem ready to talk economic theory at the drop of a canapé. Never has the dismal science dominated such a glittery seminar.

This is an odd time for economic theory to underpin a political strategy. In medicine, when many remedies are suggested, that often means the disease cannot yet be cured. In economics, multiplying prescriptions for achieving low inflation and low interest rates and low deficits mean we do not know how to achieve these goals simultaneously. Yet many restless Republicans have nailed their flag firmly to the mast of economic science.

In 1980 Republicans began broadcasting ads featuring an actor who resembled Tip O'Neill. Driving his car, "Tip" ignored advice and ran out of gas. The ad concluded as Gary Hart would later begin: "The Democrats are out of gas. We need some new ideas."

So did the Republicans 10 years ago. Then a poll revealed that when people were asked what words came to mind when the word "Republican" was mentioned, they said "Nixon" and "cover-up."

In the last 10 years, while it has been repeatedly said the parties are in decline, the GOP has become as formidable a party as America has ever had. It now possesses the sinews of action (a technology for raising money) and a core of animating thought. The thought has been primary, the money secondary. People spend for a faith.

George Will

The two parties constantly vie to appear as the new people's protector. Since the advent of the New Deal, Democrats have presented government programs to protect people from the vicissitudes of life. But as the electorate has become more educated and affluent, more able to protect itself and more interested in discretionary uses of personal income than in collective purchases through government, Republican tax-cutters have come forward as protectors of the people against government.

The supply-side approach to tax cutting fits a political need. Many Republicans, exemplified by Rep. Kemp, believe the Republican Party became a "party of pain," a party of grim virtues like balanced budgets achieved through austerity in the domestic agenda. Supply-side economics turns on the promise of self-financing tax cuts—cuts that so stimulate economic activity that lower rates generate higher revenues and allow conservative financing of the post-New Deal state.

The swift rise of the supply-side idea in Republican circles reflects a phenomenon noted by James Q. Wilson of Harvard. The political system has become so open to ideas generated by elites that changes of public policy are increasingly often the result not of changes of public opinion but of changes in the way political elites think.

Today the political elites—the parties as they exist in conventions—are polarized to an unusual degree. The country is not. The parties are even further apart today than they were 20 years ago when Goldwater ran against Johnson. Then the parties differed as much on domestic matters as Reagan and Mondale do, but the parties shared the Cold War foreign-policy consensus from which Mondale's party has departed. The polarization between the parties does not reflect the public mood. Today there are no issues polarizing the public as Vietnam and race did a few presidential elections ago.

Each of the parties also is, to an unusual and arguably unhealthy degree, homogenized. Much has been made of the decline of Republican "moderates." As much should be made of the isolation of the dwindling band of "Scop Jackson Democrats." These are moderate liberals who adhere to the traditional Democratic foreign policy of Presidents Truman, Kennedy and Johnson.

Democratic senators such as Nunn of Georgia, Boren of Oklahoma and Benenson of Texas were not seen in prime time in San Francisco. The only such Democrat to address a convention in prime time did so in Dallas—Jeanne Kirkpatrick. She remains a Democrat to make the point that bars is not an ideology with a distinguished Democratic pedigree.

Journalists bored to distraction by the decorum in Dallas made much of the intramural argument about how low and flat taxes should be. The disputes are minor in substance, but not mild in tone. As has been said, a Christian and an infidel can meet without quarreling, but it is not safe to bring together two Christians who differ about a saint or a surplice.

George Will writes for Newsweek.

Congress should probe itself

Like the comedian who climbed a tree to catch a possum, "Hurry up boys and help me let him go. Dis ain't no possum it's a porky pine and its full of bayonets." That describes the frantic search by members of Congress into their past reporting since they reprimanded Rep. George Hansen. Since the House Ethics Committee spilled that bucket of worms, we have the Democratic candidate for vice president under scrutiny and the family of Sen. Mark Hatfield under authorized FBI investigation for not reporting $10,000 paid Mrs. Hatfield. The senator protests that the sums paid his wife have no connection with his office. So the scramble for cover begins and only God knows where it may lead. Any day we have Geraldine Ferraro and Sen. Hatfield tarred with the same brush used on George Hansen.

My judgment is that should Congress investigate itself, the failure of Hansen would pale beside the disclosures, the bribery, the selling of votes, the fat fee obtained outside congress, the pensions voted themselves, the free booze jazzed down—all would make spy reading. If the honest people could but see the inner workings of government, both state and federal, they might rebel at paying #### taxes to support that menagerie of lawyers.

What worries me is the horrible graft and underhandedness exposed in the Pentagon where national safety is at stake. The billions spent in reconditioning obsolete battleships that are little but sitting ducks in today's warfare, the building of missiles that are useless in actual firing, the building of tanks that are little but crematoriums for their crews, victims to the heat-seeking missiles of today.

The whole ill-conceived program that seems an obsession with the Pentagon reminds me of the "Study Commission" created after World War II to determine the use of horse cavalry in future warfare. The be-whiskered generals and admirals met for years, lauding themselves with good 'drinking likker' and finally died of old age without a decision.

So the House Ethics Committee has gotten a tiger by the tail and the problem is to let go before too many of the inmates are bitten.

It is one thing to jump on someone who has carelessly let himself get between the IRS and the Wall Street Journal, both determined to rid Congress of a thorn sticking them right where they sit down, and another to face the music intended for another. Only this decision to reprimand may not die before someone is hurt.

The Hatfield case reminds me of the governor of a southern state who was summoned before an investigating committee regarding an alleged bribe paid him. "I can't know a thing about the $10,000. They paid it to my wife."

The ancient Chinese had a proverb, "If two men run a footrace, one must lose." The two politicians contending in this race started well and if one doesn't stop to rob some farmers henroost, it should be an interesting finish.

Letters/ Short vision, selfishness cost community recreational resource

Pool defeat a heartbreak

It has been many years since I have taken you the pen and written a letter to the editor, but the recent discussion on the pool has changed that. I cannot imagine individuals unwilling to spend an amount of money today for community benefit and improvement tomorrow. People are always complaining that the youth do nothing but cruise and raise havoc. Yet no opportunity for something else or something period is denied not only them but other members of the community.

It was literally heart-breaking to hear the lady involved in the "noisy or nosy" neighborhood organization, who although not a resident of Twin Falls, and therefore not part and parcel of the issue, comment on what you do with a covered pool in the winter in Twin Falls. What must be said to this poor lady and other similar "thinkers" is that a year-round form of entertainment is provided to young and old, student and non-student.

I grew up in a situation where the municipal pool was part of the high school. It worked over 20 years ago and is still working today. It provided the high school with another athletic venue (team competition, intermarital activities, a swim club, instruction, etc.) and the general public with a swimming facility for a multitude of uses, a facility used by all cross sections of the community, seven days a week, approximately 16 hours a day and almost year round — a credit/compliment to the school district and the community. What we had last year, what we have today and what we have tomorrow is nothing other than the sham of political and community concerns being aired.

There are several other items involving the pool issue that should be aired before we cast our ballot again. Growth projections in Twin Falls are east and west, not in the Harmon Park area, thus making the high school location one that would have been central for all the city and from an aesthetic quality, certainly more desirable than Harmon Park. There is also a present pool in the area (YPCA) where something could be worked out.

One of the loudest cries was the extra cost to the taxpayers, so why not combine it with the general election in November rather than having a special election? Elections are not free. No construction was apparently going to be done during this period anyway. Also an election of this importance be held in the summer when most people are on vacation is ridiculous.

Speaking of voters, your article of Aug. 8, indicates that 2,000 votes is approximately 64 percent of the registered voters, meaning there are approximately 4,500 voters in a city of 26,007. Appalling, both in the number of voters and in the turnout.

In line with cost and to add still more chuckles to an already comic situation, consider the $400,000 plus for land acquisition to expand an airport for jets the size of which will never grace the flyways of Twin Falls. This patty-cake could have paid a quarter of the proposed pool cost. Oh, I forgot, this is "federal money" and doesn't cost local taxpayers anything. Still, on the economic choice, I have spent almost $20, or 3 years of the pool cost, at the doctor because of ear infections encountered at Dierkes Lake.

Another spiffy alternative that does nothing and provides nothing other than it costs nothing. All 2,018 of you, through misinformation, misjudgment or a burning desire to save a penny today so you can lose a dollar tomorrow, and those of you because of apathy, or whatever feeble reason didn't vote, have given the community nothing, a big empty void.

In retrospect, perhaps an ounce of maintenance of the old pool wouldn't have put us in this position and in reality, this is not intended as a 25 cents per day baby-sitting service. M. BROOKS
Twin Falls

'No' vote was poke at city

Concerning the recent issue of consolidation, I would like the Times-News, the city council, and I, James Koutnik to know that I knew what I was voting for, when I voted against consolidation. I was not confused or mad about the pool bond. I walked into that voting booth calm and aware of the issues involved. I suppose, from now on whenever we have an election, we should run down to Western Realty and ask Mr. Koutnik how we should vote. After all, he knows more than 62 percent of the voters. I'm sure that everyone who voted against consolidation, didn't realize that what they were really doing was taking a poke at the city government. Maybe we should just do away with elections and voting altogether. If our judgement is not good enough for the issue of consolidation, then it must not be sufficient to judge who is fit to hold public office. Perhaps, Mr. Koutnik could just appoint some of his friends or run things himself.

The main issue here is not consolidation, but of whether or not 62 percent of the voters in Twin Falls are to be ignored or listened to. It has some how been placed in the minds of the Times-News and the city council; that if they just wait while the simple-minded voters of Twin Falls will forget. I tell you some of us will not.

Chief Qualls has enough to do to get our police department running to the way the people of Twin Falls want it to. If you think it is running smoothly, just try reporting a hit-and-run to them and see if anyone ever investigates it. This happened to my late mother-in-law several years ago and to date, no one has ever contacted us. Chief Qualls shouldn't have the time left over from running the police department — if he is doing his job as he should — to turn the fire department — for which he is not qualified.

There is something that the 62 percent of the voters can do if our great leaders see fit to ignore us. Do as I am doing, I am making a promise that if consolidation is not dismantled in 60 days, that I will vote against all the members of the city council come next election, no matter what else they do. If all of you make the same promise, we will send a message to the elected officials in Twin Falls they will never dare ignore again. I would also urge everyone to write the city council and tell them that you are not so simple-minded that you don't know what you are doing when you walk into a voting booth.

The seven people who spoke in favor of consolidation at the recent council meeting should not cancel out the will of the majority of the Twin Falls voters. The firemen couldn't speak out against it because of commitments they made out of fear of losing their jobs. As for the rest of us not attending the council meeting; maybe we left a vote of 62 percent was enough of a statement against consolidation. The people have spoken and the debate should now end. Consolidation must be done away with.

Another promise I make now, is that during the next election I will be thinking clear enough to vote against anyone who takes the law into their own hands, and shaves off people's eyebrows. WILBERT H. NELSON

Tourist totes gun, gets fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Oklahoma tourist who said he needed a gun to protect himself while on vacation in Washington and New York pleaded guilty Wednesday to carrying an unregistered firearm of the White House and was fined $100.

Victor Rupert Yingst, 41, of Broken Arrow, Okla., told D.C. Superior Court Judge Frank Burgess that "it was just a mistake" when he took his loaded .22-caliber Beretta pistol to the tourists' entrance to the White House in a bag.

In addition to the $100 fine, Yingst was sentenced to one year's unsupervised probation and ordered to pay $10 in court costs on the charge, a misdemeanor. The maximum penalty is one year in prison.

Yingst said he, his wife and son were planning to take the White House tour and then leave for New York City.

"The reason we had it is we were going to New York and we thought we needed it for protection," Yingst said. Assistant U.S. Attorney Barbara Van Gelder confirmed Yingst's statement that he told security guards at the entrance to the White House about the gun and had no intention of carrying it into the Executive Mansion.

President Reagan was in the West Wing of the White House at the time of the arrest, but officials said he was never in any danger. Agents said the suspect made no threats on Reagan or any other official.

Under District of Columbia law, Yingst's gun will be confiscated and destroyed.

Parts for weapons shipped to Iran

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A federal indictment made public Wednesday charged a U.S. citizen of Iranian ancestry with shipping an estimated $12 million worth of tank, cannon and missile parts to his homeland.

The 21-count indictment, returned Aug. 15 in U.S. District Court here, also charged Benjamin Kasheti, 34, of La Jolla, Calif., with evading federal taxes on his $1.2 million profit from the arms sales.

U.S., Russia end talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union ended two days of "useful" talks Wednesday on European security issues in preparation for the next round of East-West talks on that subject — in September in Stockholm, the State Department announced.

After the meetings, deputy spokesman Alan Romberg said the United States is prepared to engage in serious negotiations leading to "significant progress" in the upcoming round of 35-nation talks on measures to enhance security and minimize the chances of war through surprise attack or miscalculation.

Participants in this week's meeting included Ambassador James Goodby.

Driver of car in rampage pleads not guilty

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man charged with running a car onto a sidewalk, killing one girl and injuring 54 people in a pre-Olympic rampage, pleaded innocent Wednesday to charges of murder and attempted murder.

An attorney for Daniel-Lee Young, 21, of Inglewood, entered the plea of innocent to all 55 counts in an arraignment before West Los Angeles Municipal Judge Larry Fidler.

The arraignment had been postponed from Aug. 1 to allow psychiatrists to examine Young. Superior Court Judge Michael Pirosh on Tuesday ruled Young was competent to stand trial.

He has been held without bail since his arrest shortly after the July 27 rampage. Young faces 25 years to life in prison on the murder charge and a total of 67 years in prison on the other 54 counts, said district attorney's office spokesman Al Albergate. He would be eligible for parole in about 46 years, Albergate said.

Fidler set a preliminary hearing for Sept. 24.

Eileen Deutsch, 15, of New York City, died when a car careened at 35 mph along a crowded Westwood sidewalk near the Olympic Village at the University of California Los Angeles campus.

Teachers cheat on merit test

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Teachers' trips to the bathroom will be limited and desks will be spaced farther apart when testing resumes for $1,000 merit pay bonuses, a competition scandalized by accusations of cheating.

Up to a dozen teachers may have shared answers during an Aug. 11 "career-ladder" test given to about 10,000 public school teachers entering Tennessee's nationally heralded merit pay plan.

After interviewing six test administrators this week, state officials say they're convinced "between a handful and a dozen" teachers cheated, although they are unable to produce proof.

The most concrete case involves two teachers who returned from a bathroom and then erased and changed test answers, said Beecher Clapp, deputy commissioner of education.

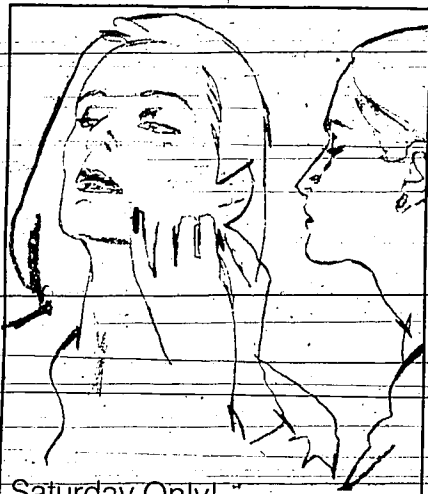

To make sure it doesn't happen during a second five-hour test Oct. 13 for those who missed the first date or want to retake the examinations, teachers will be allowed to go to the bathroom only during breaks between test sections, and extra proctors will be assigned to discourage hallway conversations.

"There's no way to tell who was responsible or to make any formal accusations," Clapp said.

"Teachers are no more able to resist temptations than any other group when they're jammed in together competing for money," said Tom Cannon, a junior high principal in Chattanooga.

Education Commissioner Robert McElrath has acknowledged that conditions were less than ideal. Letters of apology have been mailed to the 1,699 teachers who took the test at the Knoxville Civic Auditorium, the only site where officials believe cheating occurred.

In Chattanooga, three teachers were seated at each 5-foot table in a humid gym at the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga. There was one restroom for 300 test-takers.

INEL workers contaminated

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Nine workers sustained minor contamination from radioactive material at an Idaho National Engineering Laboratory facility.

Peter Mygatt, a Department of Energy spokesman, said Wednesday the workers were at the laboratory's Chemical Processing Plant, operated by Westinghouse Idaho Nuclear Co., about noon Tuesday when the exposure occurred.

"If you had cut your finger, it would have been more major than this," Mygatt said.

Westinghouse spokesman F.J. Gurney said the men received a radiation dose thousands of times lower than what they're allowed to receive per year.

He said exact exposure levels weren't immediately available, but that they were barely above detectable amounts.

Wilderness talks abandoned

LEWISTON (AP) — Conservationists and timber industry representatives in northern Idaho have abandoned compromise talks on the Idaho wilderness question.

Both sides agreed to break off talks after a third round of negotiations Tuesday in Lewiston. The decision came the same day that negotiators began talks in Boise to address differences in wilderness proposals for the Boise National Forest.

Craig Gehrike of the Idaho Conservation League said the parting was amicable.

Negotiators faced a major stumbling block in that they were unable to agree on a package recommendation for the entire Clearwater National Forest, he explained.

Chopper crashes, pilot dies

GRANGEVILLE (AP) — One person was killed Wednesday morning when a helicopter being used to spread jelled gasoline for a controlled burn on the Nezperce National Forest crashed northeast of here, U.S. Forest Service officials said.

The name of the victim, believed to be the pilot and lone occupant of the Bell-Jet helicopter, is being withheld until the family is notified.

The crash occurred at 12:17 p.m. MDT, 38 air miles northeast of here on Roundtop Mountain.

Mary Zabinski, forest information officer at Grangeville, said the cause of the crash has not been determined. She said a regional investigative team from Missoula was on its way to the site.

Citizens outraged by 'KKK'

POCATELLO (AP) — A grassroots citizens group, outraged by the vandalism of a black family's home and car, have pledged nearly $300 for a reward leading to the capture of the vandals.

The group, which met late Tuesday to discuss the weekend incident in which the family's house and auto were sprayed with the initials "KKK" — standing for Ku Klux Klan — also decided to take out an advertisement in the Idaho State Journal.

At Tuesday's meeting, citizens apologized to Gerald and Adrienne Richardson, whose home and car were spray-painted early Sunday. Richardson, 20, is an ISU business major and defensive back on the football team.

Hopper spraying to begin

BOISE (AP) — A newly funded spray project to fight grasshoppers in two southeastern Idaho counties probably won't start until this weekend or later.

Details still to be handled include signing new contracts with spray pilots and arranging flight departure points, said Elmer Russell of the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

Government rangelands totaling 110,000 acres in Oneida and Power counties will be sprayed with a $40,000 federal appropriation announced this week by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho.

That money is in addition to a $100,000 federal outlay for grasshopper control on 90,000 acres of rangeland in six southern Idaho counties. Spraying of those lands ended on Tuesday, Russell said.

Target areas in the federal spray projects are public lands where grasshoppers are threatening neighboring private croplands.

"The grasshoppers are bad," said Stan Gortsma, Power County agricultural extension agent. They're devouring grain seedlings, he said.

Some of the Power County areas sprayed in an earlier project are now infested with grasshoppers as thick as 30 per square yard, Gortsma said.

He said pesticide used on the public lands kills grasshoppers for two days after the application, but a chemical effective for several weeks is needed.

"It's difficult to find a product that will last that long," Gortsma said.

What's what

The ice pack over the North Pole is as big as the lower 48 states. Scales on the feet of birds give them "fingerprints" as unique as those of people. Forty-six percent of all movie tickets, to get specific, are sold to people under age 21.

On some construction sites in Alaska, oil-company crews drill holes in the frozen ground, set pilings in them, then pour in a sand-and-water slurry, which freezes, holding the pilings in place as solidly as concrete.

A dozen beautiful girls were sunbathing in the nude on an island in Lake Mead. A park ranger on motorboat patrol, gazing upon them reflectively, knew it was his duty to pull right up close and discuss the situation. He did so, and filed no official report, kind fellow. They were a Las Vegas chorus line, they said, and had to sunbathe so. If they showed up for work with strap marks, they'd get fired.

Freelance writer suffering amnesia found two years later

BLACKFOOT (AP) — A chance meeting between a hitchhiker and a Bingham County Sheriff's deputy has ended a nearly two-year search for the man.

Freelance writer David L. Magruder, whose last address was in Kingman, Kan., was on a bus headed for Kingman Monday, courtesy of Bingham County. Magruder, who suffers from amnesia, had been wandering the country for 19 months.

Police officials in Kingman said he disappeared Dec. 14, 1982, two days after suffering a blow to the head. Magruder took only his

He wasn't really lost, the 62-year-old Magruder said, he just couldn't remember where he had been and didn't know where he was going.

He was spotted Sunday by Deputy Dennis

Black hitchhiking on Interstate 15 near Blackfoot, Sheriff Mike Shotoski said Monday. Black checked Magruder's identification and on a lunch telephoned the information to the National Crime Information Center.

The NCIC notified the sheriff's office that Magruder was missing.

Kingman police chief Paul Kalmar said Magruder fell from some ice and cut his head in Kingman, a town of 3,500 about 40 miles from Wichita.

"He had a pretty good gastr on his head," Kalmar said. "He had the cut stitched up and two days later just got in his car and disappeared. He left behind a lot of his things... and people became concerned about what happened to him."

Kalmar said that when Magruder disappeared he was working on a series of stories for the town's upcoming centennial celebration.

The missing person report on Magruder was filed by Bill Near of Kingman. Near said the man had lived with him and his wife during his stay in Kansas, but that they didn't know too much about him.

"He never talked much about himself. He's the kind of a person you really never get to know," Near said. "He just disappeared and left all of his clothes and stuff here."

Bob McQuin, managing editor of the Kingman Courier Leader, said Magruder had been working on a free-lance basis for the newspaper.

"He had worked for us before back in 1970 and spent about a year and a half here," McQuin said. "He had no close relatives that I know of and never formed any close bonds with anybody."

McQuin said newspaper employees kept hoping that Magruder would turn up, but gave up after several months.

Kalmar said his department never stopped searching for Magruder. The missing man's name and description were entered in the NCIC in the hope that someday somebody would check his ID and turn him in.

He said regular contacts were made with Veterans Administration hospitals throughout the country in case Magruder checked in.

"Whenever we heard about an unidentified body being found, we checked it out to see whether it was him," the police chief said. "We spent a lot of time trying to find him. I'm glad it's finally over and that he's OK."

Interviewed while waiting for the bus Monday, Magruder said things gradually are coming back to him. He said he has made his living for years by traveling a circuit in the United States, contracting with newspapers to do human-interest stories for them. He said he talked to Kalmar Sunday, but did not remember working in Kingman.

His car is missing now, too, and he doesn't know what happened to it. Magruder said he has no family and that he kept a mailing address in Riverton, Wyo. He is aware of some facts about himself only because he has been told by Kalmar.

Riverton police said the only address they had for Magruder was a local bar.

Mary Longline, who operates the bar with her husband, Val, was relieved to learn that Magruder was still alive.

Friends of musician collect funeral money

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hammie Nixon entertained thousands of people worldwide with his harmonica, but when he died he did it like the traditional blues player he was — flat broke.

Now, his friends and fans are collecting money to pay for a funeral.

His burial Saturday will be handled by Rawls Funeral Home of Brownsville, a hometown business he mentioned in a song he wrote years ago.

"I saws got a good burial policy. 'Don't cast no $3 a year. 'You boys know you could afford it. 'If you'd cut out whisky and beer," Nixon died of a stroke Friday night at the age of 76.

David Evans, a music professor at Memphis State University, said he's sure Nixon's friends will come up with the money needed for the funeral.

"Hammie wasn't destitute, but he'd jet his insurance lapse. He'd bought a house and he was working hard to make the payments," Evans said. "He hadn't played any big gigs since June."

Nixon was well-known as a traditional blues musician, Evans said, but he performed for many years in the shadow of others.

"For years, Hammie played with Sleepy John Estes (also of Brownsville) and was known as a sideman," Evans said. "Sleepy John was blind and Nixon stuck by him. He never pushed himself. It was not until after his old partners died off that he came out on his own."

Evans said Nixon performed with some of the best.

Evans said he's collected about $300 so far for Nixon's funeral. "We still need about $400, plus the cost of a gravestone," he said.

Freed rapist attacks five

DALLAS (AP) — A convicted rapist freed early under a program to ease overcrowding in Texas prisons attacked five women during his first six weeks of freedom, authorities say, and now has been sentenced to life.

Dennis Keith Jackson, 24, was able to complete his 12-year rape sentence in only five years by getting credit for good behavior and an extra year of good time, the Dallas Times Herald reported Wednesday.

Jackson, who was first imprisoned for raping a 9-year-old girl, is now back behind bars serving a life sentence for five burglary convictions in the attacks. He'll be eligible for parole again in 20 years, but thinks his lawyer has a good chance on an appeal.

Jackson's five latest victims say the attacks left deep psychological scars and are critical of the criminal justice system.

Jackson blamed the prison system for not providing him with counseling and for allowing his problem to persist after he was first imprisoned in 1978.

Israeli stalemate weakened

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The first major break in Israel's month-old political stalemate came Wednesday with Ezer Weizman's decision to back Shimon Peres as the next prime minister, and Labor Party sources said Peres hoped to form a new government within a week.

Yitzhak Shamir, the Likud bloc's caretaker prime minister, said Weizman's decision to back Peres and his Labor Party could cripple attempts to form a government involving Israel's two largest parties.

But Peres told Israel television that he still hoped to draw Likud into a national unity cabinet. Peres said he would meet with Shamir on Friday and offer Likud "a fair and honorable representation as befitting a large party."

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — More than 100,000 people rallied in the capital Wednesday to protest the policies of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and the dismissal of the government in Andhra Pradesh state, police said.

The mass meeting was addressed by Indian opposition leaders, including former Prime Minister Charan Singh, deposed Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister Nandamuri Taraka Rama Rao, and Mrs. Gandhi's estranged daughter-in-law, Maneka Gandhi.

"Democracy in India is in danger," said Singh, president of the centerist Lok Dal Party. "Mrs. Gandhi can tolerate only those officials who are willing to dance to her tune."

Libyans, Britons squabbling

LONDON (AP) — The Libyan and British governments are trading accusations about who was responsible for the killing of a Libyan awaiting trial for conspiracy in a bombing campaign against Libya earlier in London.

The Libyan government said Tuesday, "The circumstances of the crime which cost the life of Ali el-Ghoubat do not rule out the possibility of the British government's involvement in this act," according to the official news agency, JANA.

Pope trying to rein in Third World priests

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Stressing the Vatican's efforts to rein in leftist priests in the Third World, Pope John Paul II said Wednesday that "class struggle" has no place in the church's support for the poor and oppressed.

In a message to an African bishops' conference in Zimbabwe, the pontiff strongly emphasized the Roman Catholic Church's wish "to be close to the suffering and oppressed."

He said: "The solidarity of the church with the poor, with the victims of unjust laws or unjust social and economic structures goes without saying." But the pope rejected his warning that he will not tolerate the fundamental Marxist principle of class struggle, evident in many activist priest movements in Latin America, Africa, the Philippines and India.

"The forms in which this solidarity is realized cannot be dictated by analysts based on class distinctions and class struggle," John Paul said.

"The church's task is to call all men and women to conversion and reconciliation, without opposing groups, without being 'against' anyone," added the message written in English.

YFCA ponders feasibility of a pool plunge

By CHRISTOPHER WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — YFCA is considering a joint effort with the city of Twin Falls to build a public swimming pool.
After last week's defeat of a bond to finance a pool at Twin Falls High School, the executive board of the YFCA voted in a Monday meeting to consider the feasibility of working with the city to build the pool.
YFCA board President Deck Waters said the plan may include the Y acting as manager of the pool and using the YFCA property as a potential site.
"I hope to appoint a committee to study such things as the impact on adjacent property owners, geothermal wells and the basic feasibility of the Y becoming involved with the city in this project," Waters said. "The committee can then report its findings back to the board."

"We are basically trying to find out if it is something that can be mutually beneficial to the YFCA and the city."
Mayor Emery Petersen, who attended the meeting, said the city has $250,000 in its 1983-84 budget designated specifically for the pool, and another $500,000 in its 1984-85 budget, which is still subject to approval. The 1984-85 money would almost certainly be approved, Petersen said.
Estimates received from Design West, an architectural firm from Utah, have estimated the cost of building a 50-meter pool with locker rooms, and showers, at approximately $1.25 million, Petersen said. That would cover the cost of a geothermal well, estimated at about $80,000, but would not include a building to cover the pool, he said.

The additional $900,000 needed for the pool would probably have to come from a limited bond issue or from private assistance such as donations, Waters said. Otherwise, the city might be forced to somewhat scale down its plans, he said.
"Right now we're back to square one," Petersen said. "We are wide open to suggestions. It seems to be the consensus of the voters that an indoor pool is out of the question. The people have indicated that they don't want to support that big of a bond."

"But I do think the city does need a pool, and I think the people want a pool," Petersen applauded the efforts of the YFCA in attending public meetings, and keeping itself up to date with the workable pool plan.
"We appreciated the effort and interest the Y put forth, Petersen said. "It is good that the Y supports this motion, because they have a tremendous amount of expertise in building pools. I would urge the board to speed along its committee discussions, because my feeling is that the city does need a pool."
In other business, the YFCA board voted to pass into its by-laws an amendment that would not allow the board to pass or adopt any annual budget providing for an operating deficit.

The amendment would also require the board to budget every year to accumulate a contingency reserve fund amounting to 20 percent of the YFCA's annual operating expenditures plus an additional $12,000 for building repairs and maintenance. The money will be held and invested for the organization by independent trustees.
The amendment is part of a long-range plan to ensure the Y's continuing financial stability. The amendment needs a final two-thirds majority vote by a quorum of board members at the September meeting to be added to the association's by-laws.

Controversy continues School slates public hearing

By ANNETTE CARV
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school board has called a special public hearing Tuesday at 8 p.m.
Both Superintendent Gary Piller and Assistant Superintendent Carl Snow should have returned from vacation by then. The meeting will follow two closed sessions within the last week to discuss district management problems. These were precipitated by Piller's presentation of a proposal that would remove much of Snow's authority over instruction.
Board members are refusing to comment on what will be discussed Tuesday.

Board member Gary Fay says the board has not ruled out the possibility of another closed session before the public meeting. But under law, the board can only make decisions or take action during a public meeting.
Board members are also keeping quiet about what happened in the three-and-a-half hours of the last closed session Tuesday night.
They did say before the meeting that it was called to discuss the district's administrative problems. A crowd of about 40 school district patrons met the board members on the steps of the administration building before the closed meeting began.

They brought signs with slogans such as "No more hit lists," and gave the board an unsigned draft of a petition "expressing our concern regarding the actions of school Superintendent Dr. Gary Piller and the lack of school board direction."
The petition continued, "We are unhappy with the superintendent's management style; the apparent decline of morale of teachers and administrators, the reported intimidation of employees and parents, and the overall dissension and unrest within the school district."
"We feel that it will be impossible for Dr. Piller to reestablish his credibility in the Twin Falls School District. As an elected school board, we ask you to do something," the petition concluded.
Sharon Walker, a former Parent Teacher Organization and Bruin Booster leader who was at the rally, said Wednesday that she is not aggressively gathering petition signatures.
"I feel confident the board members have enough heat on them," she said referring to the rally. "I'll give the board until Tuesday."

Chief, professor join school board

By CAROLYN MILLER
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly police chief and a physics professor have been named to the Kimberly School Board.
At its Tuesday meeting, the board considered seven candidates before naming Police Chief Jim Campbell and Mary Fisher to the Zone 3 and Zone 4 seats.
Campbell replaces Zone 3 Trustee Steve Grupe, who recently resigned because of a time conflict.
Fisher, a physics professor at the College of Southern Idaho, replaces Zone 4 Trustee Ben Heldeman, who has moved from his school zone.

Both new trustees have lived in Kimberly for 16 years. They will hold the positions until the May 1985 election.
In personnel matters at the meeting, the board accepted requests for resignation from Max Sheen, seventh and eighth grade teacher, and Tom Standley, junior and senior high school teacher and coach.
The board also approved George McAdams change from head teacher to full-time junior high teacher.
Approval was given for the following new positions for the coming year: Mike Erickson, full-time junior and senior high school teacher and coach; Mart Calhoun, full-time junior high teacher; Betty Sue Hudson, part-time kindergarten teacher; Orval Mauldin, high school and junior high English teacher; Carla Mingo, full-time communications disorder specialist; Richard Rees, part-time junior high principal; Pam Toews, part-time fifth grade resource room teacher; Warren Wallace, full-time sixth grade teacher; and Susan Van Ulter, part-time secretary to the superintendent.

Board Chairman Kent Taylor and Superintendent Richard Bauscher commended Dale Vawser, maintenance supervisor, for his effort this summer and on the fine job he has done.
In other business:
■ Bauscher requested and was granted approval of a $5 activity fee increase. He said provision would be made for those students who cannot afford to pay their fees.
■ Bids were read and awarded for milk and gasoline for the school year. The only bidder for milk was Youngs Triangle Dairy with a bid of 1390 per half-pint of percent milk.
Continental and United Oil each submitted bids. Continental Oil bid regular gasoline delivered $1.033 and diesel $2.75. United Oil bid regular gasoline delivered $1.014 and diesel $2.75. The bid was awarded to United Oil.

Victim testifies in rape trial

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A young woman spent four hours on the witness stand Wednesday recounting a night last fall when she allegedly was raped by a man who threatened her with a knife.
The testimony took up most of the second day of the trial of 44-year-old David Poullignot of Gooding, who faces rape and burglary charges.
The young woman testified that she and a female companion had met Poullignot at Doris' Bar in Twin Falls.
"Soon after they had met — which was for the first time — Poullignot kept 'manhandling' her and trying to touch her legs, the woman said. She kept pushing him away and finally asked her friend if they could leave.
They went to the Green Lantern Bar, where Poullignot showed up after a few minutes, the woman testified. Again Poullignot kept "tormenting" her until she told him to leave her alone, which he did for a time.

When they were about to leave the bar at 1 a.m., they returned from the restroom to find Poullignot holding her coat, she said. The friend testified earlier that Poullignot said he wanted to take the woman home because she had been ill.
The friend said she demanded he return the coat and he did.
Upon leaving the bar, the alleged victim said, she noticed Poullignot left at the same time. Later, she noticed a car following them. She didn't know, however, if Poullignot was the driver, she said.
After about an hour of attempting to "ditch" the seemingly pursuing car, the woman said she dropped off her friend and picked up her 9-year-old and 3-year-old sons from the babysitter.
Soon after she returned home and put her children to bed, there was a knock on the door, she said. She looked out a window to see Poullignot, she said.

She "opened the door only a hair" and told him to leave, but he forced his way into her house and pointed what she believed to be a knife at her back, the woman said.
"I said, 'Please don't kill me,' and he told me to shut up."
After forcing her into a bedroom, he raped her, she charged. Throughout the ordeal she tried to fight, she said.
"I was afraid he will kill me even after what he had done."
The woman said she then went about her normal chores later in the day, including taking a bath because "I felt like I had been used against my will." She added she was a "nervous wreck" however.
She didn't summon police until 7 p.m. that evening. When asked by Deputy Prosecutor Dennis Voorhees why she had waited so long, she replied, "I don't know. I guess I was scared."

Motorcycle, truck collide; man killed

TWIN FALLS — A 23-year-old Reno, Nev., man died Wednesday morning from injuries he sustained when a motorcycle collided with a tractor-trailer rig near the Perrine Bridge Tuesday night.

The victim was John Rene Bovard, according to the Idaho State Police. Bovard was pronounced dead at 12:35 a.m. at Magic Valley regional Medical Center.

The accident occurred at about 11:30 p.m. on U.S. 93 about two miles north of Twin Falls. Bovard was the passenger on a northbound motorcycle driven by 21-year-old Michael David Potter of Reno.

Year-old Grover Harry Mumford of Blackfoot had just passed the motorcycle and the two vehicles were traveling side by side, reported INSURANCE injuries when the vehicle eventually trooper Russ Roper. They collided "went down," Roper said. Both men were wearing helmets.
Mumford stopped after the collision. The trooper said the incident motorcycle, which was traveling about 30 miles per hour, Roper said.
Potter, who stayed with the motorcycle, suffered only minor hand injuries when the vehicle eventually trooper Russ Roper. They collided "went down," Roper said. Both men were wearing helmets.
Mumford stopped after the collision. The trooper said the incident motorcycle, which was traveling

Counties divided on indigent care account despite talks

By The Associated Press
And The Times-News

IDAHO FALLS — The future of a catastrophic indigent health care account for Idaho's counties remains uncertain following the annual meeting of the Idaho Association of County Commissioners and Clerks.

Although Twin Falls County and 15 other counties have committed funds to the program, 28 counties are undecided whether they want to follow suit and two say they definitely will not participate.
The program, which would establish a common pool of funds from which to pay indigent medical claims exceeding $10,000, will not be successful unless all 44 of the state's counties participate. The commissioners and clerks were told Wednesday.
The board of the Association of Idaho Counties will have to decide by October whether to establish the fund. And if it does establish it, it will have to decide what to do about counties who choose not to participate, said Chairman Clyde Burtenshaw, Bonneville County commissioner.
The board believes it can sue counties to force participation.
The Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners believes the program is a good one because it would spread the burden of protecting against large indigent medical claims among all counties, much like an insurance policy.
That security might be particularly important to a small county that could be bankrupted by a single claim, but it is also important in Twin Falls, where more than $500,000 was budgeted for the poor fund this year, they say.
The commissioners say participation will not cost taxpayers extra. In fact, they are counting on the program to reduce by $100,000 the special poor fund property tax levy.
This is possible because each county would buy into the $4.3 million fund using its new revenue sharing money from the state sales tax this year.
The two counties that say they definitely do not plan to participate are Bingham and Blaine counties.
"We don't think $4.5 million is going to be adequate to cover the bills," said Blain County Commissioner Tom Katsilometes. He projected Blain County would have to spend about $50,000 more under the catastrophic fund than it would by negotiating its own indigent bills with hospitals.
The fund has a built-in lack of accountability similar to medicare and medicaid, he told The Times-News earlier this summer.
Katsilometes and other commissioners opposed to the program say taxes actually will have to be raised after the fund runs dry. The board plans to hire Fred Grant, Canyon County deputy clerk and hearing officer, and former assistant U.S. attorney, to administer the program if it is started, Burtenshaw said.
An opinion issued by the state attorney general's office this month also may convince some of the 28 undecided counties to join.
That opinion approved a joint-powers agreement whereby each county must sign up to be part of the program.

But prosecutors from Blaine, Latah and Washington Counties have circulated letters questioning the constitutionality of the agreement.
Aside from Twin Falls County, Ada, Adams, Boise, Bonner, Bonneville, Canyon, Clark, Clearwater, Idaho, Jefferson, Lemhi, Lewis, Lincoln, Minidoka and Owyhee counties say they want to join the program.

Split widening between city, county police

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — The possible break-up of the 10-year-old combined city/county law enforcement system in Jerome was confirmed Wednesday morning in a press conference conducted by Jerome City Police Commissioner Glen Capps.

Capps met with reporters to announce the Jerome City Council discussed such a move in an executive session Tuesday night. He said it was one alternative considered as a solution to an on-going conflict of personnel in the two departments and as a means of better and less costly services to the public.

The executive session was held at the close of the regular council meeting to discuss "personnel matters."

Capps said separation of the two agencies would require the city to rent space somewhere in Jerome as the City Hall could not accommodate the added department. He said it would also require hiring three dispatchers and purchasing radio equipment.

Currently both departments operate from the Jerome County Courthouse. The police department is located in basement offices and dispatchers on the main floor adjoining the sheriff's office handle communications for both departments.

Capps said the move is proposed partly as the result of what he called dissension and unrest between personnel of the county and city law enforcement officers.

He said if the county asks for a 5 percent increase in rents and other fees the city pays as its share of the joint operation, the annual cost of the present system would reach $50,000.

"We would be paying $50,000 for about a 1,000 square feet of space, and I think we could rent a larger area and improve service to the people for that amount," Capps said.

City Clerk Marilyn Bragg, who sat in on the conference with Capps, said the two departments combined forces in 1974 when Howard Dubois was police chief. It was designed to save money and increase efficiency, she said.

Sheriff Eliza Hall objected to the proposal Wednesday morning. He said until confronted by reporters Wednesday, he knew nothing about the plan except for a brief discussion Tuesday afternoon with Police Chief Darryl Cameron.

Hall called the proposal a political move by Capps. He said it appeared to him to be a move to "get me out of office."

Hall said his department and that of Cameron's are made-up of professional-law enforcement officers.

"I have told my men to act professionally and to cooperate and work with the city officers. To my knowledge, they have done that and if I find they have not," they will be in trouble, Hall said.

He said he believed separating the departments would cost the taxpayers additional money. Hall pointed out three dispatchers also could not cover for the city on a 24-hour basis because of days off, vacations, sick leave and other off time.

Capps said dispatchers are currently hired by the sheriff's office. He added he has had complaints from citizens who call the police department with requests such as assistance from the water department at night. He said he has been told there is no response and citizens assume the messages are not passed on to city crews.

Asked about increased jail costs, Capps said the attorney general has stated the sheriff's department is required to provide jail facilities and care for all prisoners.

Youth's shooting changes his life

No suspect yet

By MICHELLE SNYDER
Times-News correspondent

PAUL — Matt Cofer is recovering rapidly from a literal face-to-face confrontation with death.

The 15-year-old son of Harvey and Cheryl Cofer of Paul, Matt was shot in the mouth July 4th as he and some friends were shooting off fireworks—on the outskirts of Rupert.

Cofer, recalling the shooting incident, says he and his friends were eagerly participating in some festivities about 10:30 that night.

He says they were fooling around in an innocent-looking gravel turn-around, surrounded with flourishing willow bushes, just off Downard Bridge located 2 1/2 miles south and two miles east of Rupert.

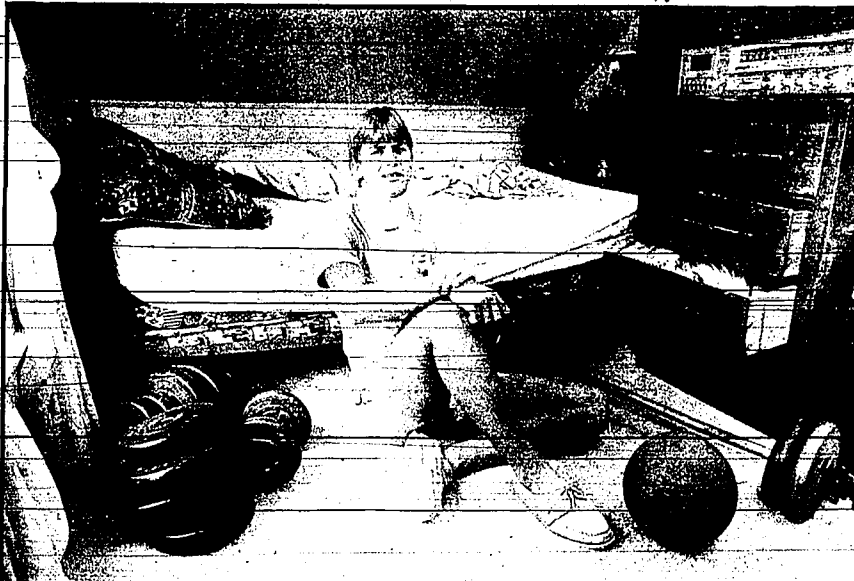

"There was an old pickup parked there," said Cofer. "There didn't appear to be anyone in it, so we didn't think anything of it, and began lighting our firecrackers."

He says the next thing the boys knew, the pickup started and dug out toward their short-bow pickup, splitting gravel all over it and chipping the paint.

Matt says they left for a bit, but then decided to return to the site where the old pickup was still parked.

Kevin Brown, one of the boys with Matt at the time, said he and Cofer were in the back of the pickup lighting firecrackers, adding that "it was the 4th of July, so I can't see why he would think we were shooting at him. Surely he knew it was firecrackers that we were throwing."

But suddenly, with no warning

Matt Cofer won't be participating in high school athletics this year, but he is lucky to be alive after being shot according to the boys, Cofer was struck in the mouth by a bullet and fell to the ground of the pickup.

"At first I thought I'd been hit by a firecracker," said Cofer, who remained conscious through the whole episode.

Brown said when he realized what had happened, he shouted to the driver, Darren Truich, "Let's get out of her—Matt's been shot!"

The boys took Cofer to the Minidoka County Hospital and from there he was transferred by helicopter to the LDS Hospital in Salt Lake City.

Matt's mother says she was "impressed with the response" by the helicopter crew of the Life Flight Mobile Intensive Care Unit (which flew out of Pocatello's Bannock Regional Medical Center) and the efficient way they took care of Matt.

"They immediately put a cervical collar on him and began checking all of his vital signs while clearing his throat of blood so he could breathe better," she says.

At LDS Hospital, surgery was performed to remove the bullet, which had knocked out his upper gum and part of his teeth before spiraling through his tongue, damaging his palate, completely taking out his "gag reflex" and fracturing his first vertebrae before fracturing and lodging itself in the spinal column. His mother said the bullet came within one millimeter of severing his spinal cord, which could have resulted in paralysis or death.

Dr. J. Louis Schrieker, a neurologist in Salt Lake City told Matt, "I can't give you one reason why you're alive."

Dr. Boyd N. Cole, plastic surgeon in Salt Lake City, reiterates his colleague's surprise by telling the Cofers: "I have never seen anyone with an injury to this extent survive."

Although Cofer obtained no facial damage, plastic surgery was still a concern in order to repair his gum and palate, an injury that impaired his speech.

However, Cole recently told the Cofers that Matt's gums and palate had filled in and regenerated so beautifully there would be no need for surgery. Matt now speaks with no noticeable speech impediment.

The doctors credit the teen's resilience to good health and youth, telling his parents that those qualities have "certainly been in his favor."

His father attributes his escape from death to "God's mercy," adding that "the Lord must still have a mission in life for Matt."

Kevin says the incident has caused Matt to get "lots of attention from all the girls."

Matt says even though he lost 23 pounds during his stay at LDS

Hospital, he actually enjoyed himself because "all of the nurses were young and pretty, except for one."

After being fed intravenously for nine days and being on a soft diet for two weeks after that, the boy's father, Harvey Cofer, says his son is now eating like a horse again.

The gunman has yet to be apprehended, although the Rupert Police Department had the boys hypnotized to see if they could recall any details of the suspected assailant or his vehicle.

Officer J.D. Fisher says, "Through the hypnosis we learned that the pickup was a loud sufter and was probably a Ford ... 1953 to 1959. It was called gray on the back ... spotted with new gray primer spots which were darker, and old gray primer spots which were lighter in color."

Fisher said the boys were not able

Sales upset city

Crackdown set

By TERRILL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN — Transient merchants recently have been selling oranges, magazines, roofing, siding and other products door to door in Hagerman — not exactly with city approval.

So, to protect residents, the Hagerman City Council decided to enforce the city's Green River Ordinance code which prohibits itinerant peddlers from selling in the city without a permit.

To forewarn peddlers, it was noted that Green River Ordinance signs had been placed at each end of the city.

Councilwoman Gloria Jazwick said the new signs will relieve the city of liability and will discourage the traveling vendors.

"We hope it will deter some of these people from just flopping into town," she said, noting the Better Business Bureau is in Boise, inconveniently far away for Hagerman residents to pursue a complaint.

In other business:

- The council passed a $190,000 budget for the 1984-85 fiscal year, $13,000 less than the 1983-84 budget when the city had a $10,000 carry-over from the year before.
- Mayor Merle Owensley said the lower budget will result in less street repaving this year.
- "We can patch the streets, but we can't re-tilt them this year," he explained.
- The new budget includes $2,500 for a new dog pound and the Hagerman Senior Citizens and the Quick Response Unit each receive $200 for community service expenses.
- Kerry Stratton, manager of Cable T.V. in Buhl, Inc., presented an amended franchise to the council.

The document, slightly different than one drawn up about two years ago, offers the city 3 percent of the company's income from Hagerman subscribers, Stratton explained. Also, a new antenna near Tupper Grade east of Hagerman will provide subscribers with better quality reception of Boise channels than the existing translator west of the city, he said.

Three new channels, Stratton noted, will soon be added to existing programming with no rate increase to the subscribers.

After questioning Stratton about rate increases and money, the city would receive, the council decided to let City Attorney Cecil Hobbey advise them before a decision is made.

• The council voted to have only one meeting in September, on the first Tuesday. The meeting was cancelled because the mayor and the city clerk will be unable to attend.

Minidoka education trustees try new bid on bond election

By SARAH MURPHY
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — The trustees of the Minidoka County School District have tentatively set Sept. 27 as a date for a third attempt at a school bond election.

The bond, updated from the election in November of last year, which nearly passed by a margin of 65 percent, is set for $2.9 million, up from the $5.7 million package presented in November, said DuWay, a representative of the Idaho First National Bank of Boise.

Way cited increases in construction costs, as well as escalating interest rates, for the higher cost figure on the bond.

He said the bond markets have been erratic during recent months and emphasized that the bonds could sell at a maximum interest rate of 9 percent.

"This is not a final figure — these figures are subject to being updated up or down by Sept. 27, he added.

The major projects to alleviate overcrowded classrooms in the district proposed in the last election were the construction of a new elementary school in Rupert and a multi-purpose room at Minico High School, plus construction of additions to other buildings in the district.

The estimated annual cost to the individual taxpayer for these same projects will be $1.30 per $1,000 of taxable property — market value assigned by the county assessor — up 26 cents per $1,000 of taxable property since last November, said Way.

Several board members have indicated they have received support from various people in the community to try again to get a bond passed.

"They have indicated they must do something about the overcrowding in the classrooms the district is currently juggling around."

Gooding area pupils

GOODING — School starts Monday for Gooding students.

Registration was held earlier this week, with late registration scheduled for the first day of school.

High school activity tickets are $13, yearbooks $15 and physical education fee $6. Individual class fees are: freshmen $1, sophomores $1.50, juniors $2 and seniors $3.

Hot lunch fees will be 60 cents for elementary students, 75 cents for high school and junior high students and $1.25 for adult meals.

The Gooding School Board has adopted a 90 percent attendance policy that applies to all students in grades kindergarten through 12.

State policy requires that students not miss more than nine days per semester except for extraordinary situations. Higher absences can result in loss of credit for the class.

In the policy adopted June 12, the board authorized Superintendent Lester Dittm to review cases of extraordinary absence and determined that such cases will usually mean an extended illness.

Bus routes for the coming school year will be the same as last year, and Diel said parents with questions about the bus should contact bus operator Willes Cheney.

Idaho farm wife attire looks akin to some punk rockers'

GLENN'S FERRY — This is a diagram of an Idaho farm wife:

She's wearing a farmer's cap on her head that says "Mountain Equipment" across the front. It used to say "Mountain Equipment" but her husband borrowed her cap and got axle grease on the letters "a" and "n."

"The Idaho farm wife does 'twind.' She got the cap as a treatie when Mountain Equipment was auctioned off last year.

Under her cap the Idaho farm wife wears a big, red handkerchief tied around her head in peasant style. The Idaho farm wife thinks you work like a peasant, why not look like one.

Besides, the handkerchief keeps her hair out of her eyes. The Idaho farm wife needs

Diana Hooley Country neighbors

What she has is a mosquito bite and jelly splash complexion. This is because some mosquitos helped her irrigate her husbands field one evening and at breakfast the next morning the kids jellied her along with their toasts.

Even if she didn't have those special skin problems she still wouldn't have a peachy and cream complexion. She has too much of a "garden tan." A garden tan is enough sun exposure to lump freckles together.

The Idaho farm wife is wearing a T-shirt. It has an ax logo across the front. She likes slogans. This one says "I love Idaho." But everyone knows the Idaho farm wife likes Honolulu better. Especially during canning season.

Accentuating her T-shirt top, the Idaho farm wife wears a pair of oversize jeans. She's lost weight. You'd lose weight, too, if you chased kids and cows for a living. She expects to fit into her jeans again in the winter when everything on the farm slows down but her appetite.

Another interesting feature of the Idaho farm wife's jeans is rip, slash and tear. No, she is not a punk rocker. She tried to jump a barbed wire fence and missed.

For the casual dresser like the Idaho farm wife, this season's wardrobe enhancing footwear has been spaghetti-strapped irrigation boots. Actually, these boots have a lasagne size strap that buckles at the thigh instead of the ankle. But who cares?

The Idaho farm wife's spaghetti-strapped irrigation boots have not been just another pretty wardrobe accessory. Her irrigation boots have been a necessity. She's been in enough muddy ditches this summer to justify wearing 'em.

Well, there you have her. The Idaho farm wife. The secret to her charm, like the Mona Lisa, is her smile. It's a nice mixture of mischief and contentment. She is smiling because she has a secret. She knows behind, beside, and in front of every Idaho farmer, whether they like it or not, is an Idaho farm wife.

FILPER — Remodeling at the Filper and Hollister elementary schools should be completed by the time school starts Sept. 10.

Superintendent Sheldon Kovarsky said at a recent school board meeting that some of the construction materials need to be cleaned up at the Filper Elementary school.

But, "we'll be ready for school. One way or another, we'll be ready for school," he said.

Once both elementary schools are in top shape, the superintendent said there will be open houses at both schools for the public.

In other business:
• The board accepted the resignation of industrial arts instructor, Charlie Farmer, who is leaving for medical reasons.

The superintendent said Farmer was planning to retire after the school year, but his illness forced him to leave sooner.

In recognition of Farmer's years of teaching, the board will send him a letter of thanks and hold a luncheon.

In Farmer's place, the board voted to hire Roger Golden, Jr., a builder from Ketchum with four years of teaching experience in Mountain Home and a Minnesota technical school.

"The board will organize a committee to develop a career ladder for teachers as recommended by the Idaho Commission on Excellence in Education.

If funds are awarded for merit pay as advocated by the legislature, Kovarsky said the district will be ready with his own plan.

The superintendent said a career ladder differs from merit pay because it rewards extra money for extra work while merit pay is passed out when a teacher is determined to be better than another.

The board decided to turn down an offer of $12,000 for a two-bedroom home the district owns in Hollister and hold out for the $15,000 asking price.

However, before the home that is now rented to a teacher can be sold, Kovarsky said a title search will have to be done because although the district owns the land it has no deed to the house.

However, Hall questioned this. He said by law, those convicted in felony cases must be provided for by the county, but if an offender is sentenced on a misdemeanor under a city arrest, such as bar fights, the prisoner is the responsibility of the city. The county, Hall said, would have to charge the city for housing such prisoners.

"We are getting $24 a day for our federal prisoners and I imagine the county would ask the same on city prisoners."

Capps conceded that most of the difficulty between personnel of the two departments has come to light since city officer Larry Gold ran against Hall for the Republican nomination in the sheriff's race.

Hall won the election and Gold is not permitted under law to run in the general election as a write-in. James Weaver, a security officer and Eden resident, is the Democratic candidate.

Hall said Capps supported Gold and apparently still wants him (Hall) out of the sheriff's office.

Hall said if the city police move to a different building, his department would continue to cooperate on law enforcement matters.

"We back them up when necessary, and they back us up when we need them," Hall said, "and city officers assist on jail duty at night when we need them."

Gold said he could make no comments on the situation at this time. He said it is correct he cannot and will not run as a write-in in November, but added he will be interested "in three and a-half years."

Police Chief Darryl Cameron also declined comment Wednesday. However, Capps said the change had been discussed with Cameron and he was "in agreement."

to distinguish whether the license plate was Idaho or not, nor were they able to give a good description of the driver, other than "they think it was a man with shoulder-length hair."

"Pieces of the vehicle were obtained from the scene and I have been trying to match them up with some 60 vehicles that have matched the description. Because the bullet struck his teeth, the riflings were destroyed by the fragments," said Fisher, adding that the bullet did reveal that the weapon used was a 22 caliber gun.

"Whether it was a rifle or a pistol, we're not sure," said Fisher. "But we have reason to assume that it may have been a pistol."

Fisher says the police department has done everything it can with the information they have to go on.

The Mindoka County Sheriff's office is making a plea to anyone who may have seen anything in that area on the evening of July 4, even though they may feel that it was unrelated, to contact them regarding the matter.

Matt, who will be wearing a cervical collar for the next eight weeks in order to prevent him from doing further damage by turning his head too far one way or the other, had to quit his summer job working for a farmer.

And he candidly admits to being "bummed out" over the fact that he can't play junior varsity football this year, which had been his heart's desire.

Students' registration scheduled

SHOSHONE — Registration for Shoshone high school and junior high school students will be held today and school will start Monday.

Students will report to student orientation at the high school gym as scheduled: seventh grade, 6 to 6:30 p.m.; eighth grade, 6:30 to 7 p.m.; freshmen, 7 to 7:30 p.m.; sophomores, 7:30 to 8 p.m.; juniors, 8:30 to 9 p.m.; and seniors 9 to 9:30 p.m.

Registration fees include a $10 textbook fee, $3.50 towel fee and $5 art fee for students in that course. Students may also buy activity cards at $9.50 for junior high and $12 for high school. Yearbook deposit is $10.

School lunch fees are 70 cents for elementary students; 80 cents for high school students and $1.30 for adult meals.

School will start 15 minutes earlier this year for high students with classes scheduled to begin at 8:15 a.m.

The first bell for elementary students will ring at 8:25 a.m. with classes to begin at 8:30, which is also earlier than last year.

School bus drivers will start their routes approximately 15 minutes earlier than in previous years.

Students will be given a copy of the new Student Policy and Discipline Handbook and Superintendent Tim Adst says all students, parents and guardians should read the manual, sign and return the accompanying form.

Changes in this year's policy include the 90 percent attendance rule where a student may not miss more than nine days of school per semester, mandatory 3 percent grade reduction for truancy, possible suspension and grade reduction for habitual tardiness and what Adst calls "Saturday School."

Adst said the Saturday session is a disciplinary procedure that consists of a closely supervised study hall at the high school.

Contractors creating Buhl's North Park recreation area

By KAREN MAIN
Times-News correspondent

BUHL — Phase one of the construction of two baseball diamonds, jogging and walking paths and a picnic area at Buhl's North Park project is rolling along.

During this month, sprinkler systems were installed and picnic tables were assembled at the recreation spot northeast of the high school off Sawtooth Boulevard.

"Twenty 'health stations' where people can stop to perform exercises complete with athletic equipment and instructions, were also set up along the jogging and walking paths."

At a recent Buhl City Council meeting, part of the 5.5 acre park that was outside city limits was annexed into the city to ensure that the entire area can be patrolled by city police officers.

The city and the school district joined in the project last year by donating the use of a portion of their land and agreeing to share the upkeep of the park with the Buhl Community Education and Recreation Association.

The council also passed an ordinance to name one of the baseball fields in honor of the late Kristine Nungester at the request of her father, Bill Nungester, who donated money to the baseball field project.

Pat Hamilton Jr., who initiated the North Park project for the community education and recreation association, said the only jobs now left to be done this week for phase one of the park project are to complete the fencing, plant grass and put up the bleachers and scoreboards at the baseball diamonds.

But, he said, "we do still have a cash shortage of $5,000 to $6,000."

Since part of the $75,000 park project is being funded with a $30,000 federal grant administered through the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation, the grant must be matched with local money, Hamilton said.

So far, he said, most of the matching funds have come from residents and businesses in the form of money, labor and equipment.

But to top off the balance needed, Hamilton said he will go back to the citizens and businesses to see if some fund raising projects can be organized to complete the project.

TWIN FALLS — Cub Scout Pack 65 will hold a yard sale from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Shoshone Street North. All donations are welcome. Proceeds will help pack functions, according to Susan Grubb, secretary.

Pearl Allred marks 90 years

TWIN FALLS — Pearl Allred, longtime resident of Twin Falls, will celebrate her 90th birthday Sunday with a family dinner at the home of her son, Ernest Allred, Twin Falls. She also has a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Chapman, St. George, Utah, who will attend with her family. Mrs. Allred has seven grandchildren.

Single group discusses stress

TWIN FALLS — The Living Single Support Group will meet at 7 p.m. Monday for discussions of the stresses of being a single. Dan Stephenson, chairman of the CSI social and behavioral science department, will speak on "The Stress of Living Single." Suggestions will be taken for topics for future meetings. For more information call the CSI Center for New Directions, 733-9554, ext. 361.

Childbirth course scheduled

TWIN FALLS — A prepared childbirth course for parents due in November will begin Tuesday at Magie Valley Regional Medical Center. The Lamaze-based series of seven classes will be held at 7 p.m. in the second floor conference room. Cost is $25 and pre-registration is required. Call 737-2120 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Trucker warned about family trouble

DEAR ABBY: A few words to "Lonely in Dallas," the 36-year-old truck driver who wants a wife: Supposing you do get married. Your wife will go along with you for maybe two years, then a baby comes along, and guess who is sitting home alone for two or three months waiting for you to come off the road? Only now she has the responsibility of running a home and raising a child because you can't do it over the telephone.

Her social life is almost nonexistent because it's easier to stay home alone than to be lonely at a party.

You miss out on all the joys of fatherhood because you're not there when the baby takes his first step, says his first word, etc. Meanwhile your wife sleeps alone in a big double bed for two and three months at a time, and envies her friends whose husbands come home from work every night.

And what are you going to do for sex while you're away from home? And what is your wife supposed to do? When your son is 4, he will feel abandoned because his daddy is never home to take him to the beach, ball games, etc.

My advice to you is get off the road. If you want a wife and family, I should know. I've been married to a long-distance trucker for 14 years. Sign me

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing concerning the truck driver who wants a girlfriend. I understand his problem. I'm a lady truck driver, and it's true that most companies will not let their drivers take an unauthorized passenger in the truck.

"Lonely in Dallas" simply needs to find a woman co-driver. There are a lot more women drivers now than people imagine. Single truckers like having a woman co-driver because it solves problems like the one "Lonely

in Dallas" has. — LADY TRUCKER FROM MICHIGAN

Fuel costs clamp lid on consumer prices

By ROBERT FURLLOW
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Housing costs surged upward and food prices rose at the fastest pace in five months, but a big decline in gasoline costs held the nation's overall consumer-price-increase to just 0.3 percent in July.

The low overall figure won quick praise from the White House Wednesday, but economists were divided on whether such numbers could last.

Prices, as measured by the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index, now have risen at a 4 percent annual rate for the first seven months of the year. That is nearly as low as the 3.8 percent for all of last year — the lowest in 11 years — and below the Reagan administration's prediction of 4.5 percent for all of 1984.

While House press secretary Pete Rousset said of the new report, "This shows that the economy continues to grow with low inflation."

Source: U.S. Commerce Department

recovery is being lauded in speech after speech.

And Robert Ortner, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said, "There is still no sign of acceleration in inflation, which should make everybody very happy."

Donald Ratoznik, director of the Economic Forecasting Group at Georgia State University, agreed that "0.3 percent is not a bad number." But he said at least slightly higher figures should dominate the rest of the year's inflation reports, with next year's rate a bit higher yet.

"It looks like the low point of the inflation cycle has been reached," he said.

Jack Carlson, chief economist for the National Association of Realtors, also said inflation could be running as high as 6 percent by the start of 1985.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that orders to factories for "big ticket" durable goods rose 2.2 percent in July.

Such orders, a key indicator of future factory production, have been very erratic in recent months with a 6.5 percent April decline followed by a 4 percent May increase and then a 3 percent June setback.

In still another report, the Labor Department said U.S. workers' weekly earnings, adjusted for inflation and seasonal factors, rose 0.1 percent in July after a 0.4 percent increase in June and a 0.9 percent decline in May.

And in New York, Dun & Bradstreet Corp. said its index of business failures continued to decline in the month ended July 10, reflecting the strength of the current national economic expansion.

The inflation report said that in July:

- Higher prices for poultry, fish, fruits and vegetables helped boost overall food costs by 0.3 percent, the biggest increase since the 0.6 percent of February. Beef prices declined by the fifth straight month and egg prices also were down.
- Gasoline prices dropped 1.8 percent and are now 14.7 percent below their peak level of March 1981. A continuation of a temporary worldwide oil oversupply is the main reason, with no quick reversal expected.

- Fuel oil costs dropped 1.2 percent, while natural gas prices rose by the same amount.
- Electricity prices jumped 1.8 percent, helping push up overall housing costs.
- Housing prices rose 0.5 percent, including a 0.7 percent increase for homeowners, a 0.6 percent rise for renters and lesser increases for maintenance and repair.
- Part of the reason was a July increase in interest rates for home loans and new construction.
- Transportation costs declined 0.3 percent, partly because of the big drop in gasoline prices. New air fares rose 0.5 percent, while used car costs declined 0.7 percent.
- Telephone service costs increased 0.5 percent as sharp hikes in local and intrastate charges were partially offset by a new decrease for interstate toll calls.
- Medical care costs rose 0.5 percent, clothing prices 0.5 percent and entertainment costs 0.5 percent.

The cost for meals eaten outside the home rose 0.4 percent, while alcoholic beverage prices rose 0.3 percent.

All the changes were adjusted to discount for normal seasonal variations.

Blue chips give back Tuesday's gains

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market was mixed in a busy session Wednesday as blue chip issues gave back some of the previous day's sharp gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 27.75 on Tuesday, dropped back 7.95 to 1,231.78.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 116,055 million shares, against 128,14 million Tuesday.

From July 30 through Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average soared almost 130 points.

But the midsummer rally bogged down Wednesday in the face of rising interest rates in the credit markets.

Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, fell as much as $10 for every $1,000 in face value.

Analysis said the Commerce Department's report of a stronger-than-expected 2.2 percent rise in new orders for durable goods last month apparently was responsible for the bond market's weakness.

The daily tally on the Big Board showed about eight issues rising in price for every seven that declined. But the exchange's composite index dropped 34 to 95.96.

Nationwide, trading in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 135.62 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials lost 1.11 to 189.57, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was down 0.77 at 127.05.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market rose 53 to 253.86. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 210.27, up 1.00.

Ford Motor led the active list, off 1.44, in trading that included a 1.00 million-share block at 40 1/2.

Point-plus issues among the blue chips included International Business Machines, down 1 1/2; Eastman Kodak, off 1 1/2 at 76 1/2; General Electric, down 1 1/4 at 57 1/4; Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, down 1 1/2 at 82 1/2.

Orange-CO tumbled 2 1/2 to 9 1/4, for the largest percentage decline among Big Board issues. The company, said all merger talks in which it was involved had been called off.

Shoe-Town, which announced plans to buy back as many as 1 million of its shares, gained 1/8 to 6.

Precious-metals issues had a good day as the price of gold advanced this month. Amalgamated Sugar Co. advanced 3/4 to 52 1/2, and silver 25 cents to $7.69 an ounce, on the Commodity Exchange in New York.

ASA Ltd. rose 1 1/2 to 55 1/4; Homestake Mining 1 1/2 to 25 1/4; Campbell Red Lake Mines 2 1/2 to 22 1/4; and Hecia Mining 1/2 to 10 3/4.

Farah Manufacturing dropped 1 1/2 to 18 1/4. The company reported earnings for the fiscal third quarter ended July 31 of 57 cents a share, down from operating profits of 59 cents a share in the comparable period a year earlier.

Judge blocks effort to thwart takeover

By JANE J. COUGHLIN
AP Wire Service

PORTLAND (AP) — An attempt by the Utah-based Amalgamated Sugar Co. to thwart a takeover try by Medford Corp. and one of its major stockholders has been cut short by a federal judge.

The judge is scheduled to rule today on Medco's motion to stop Amalgamated Sugar's tender offer to the Oregon plywood manufacturer's stockholders.

Medco filed suit last week, claiming Amalgamated Sugar made false and misleading statements while trying to buy a controlling interest in the Oregon company.

Amalgamated had sought to keep the other companies from purchasing outstanding shares to prevent a takeover.

Redden on Monday also ordered that information and documents about a trust held by Harold Simmons of Dallas, Amalgamated Sugar's majority stockholder, be released to Medco's attorneys.

Drastic changes made in rules concerning divorce, taxes

Whether or not divorce is in your past, present or future, it is imperative you understand the extent to which the 1984 tax law drastically changes the rules on divorce and taxes.

Sylvia Porter

The three key areas covered by the law are almost certain to affect you: property settlements; alimony payments; dependency exemptions. You cannot afford to be ignorant.

1) PROPERTY SETTLEMENTS. The '84 tax law makes a 180-degree turn from the past in this area. Before the new law, if a husband transferred property to his wife as part of a divorce settlement, the husband could have been hit with an income tax if the property had gone up in value (its current value exceeded the husband's tax basis or cost), he had to pay tax on the difference, just as if he had sold the property to his wife.

New tax law - 6

In brief, he was paying tax on phantom income — money he didn't receive. The current value of the property because the wife's tax basis and she could sell it tax-free immediately after the transfer.

For instance, John Smith transferred $600,000 of his company's stock to his wife in a marital settlement. If Smith's stock had cost him $100,000, he had a long-term capital gain of $500,000 on which he had to pay tax — but no cash with which to pay the tax. Mrs. Smith, though, could sell the stock for $600,000 and pay no tax because she showed no gain.

But under the new law, property settlements are treated as gifts, not sales. Result: Property transfers made between spouses as part of a divorce are income tax free. The husband has no taxable gain or loss on the transfer. On the other hand, the wife carries over the husband's tax basis. So if she sells the property right away, she may now owe an income tax.

The transferring spouse will want to give low-basis property to his spouse and keep the high-basis property. At the same time, the spouse on the receiving end will want high-basis property to minimize her potential tax when the property is sold.

This generally applies to property transfers made after July 18, 1984, the date the law was enacted. But it will not apply to transfers after July 18, under settlements made before that date, unless both parties agree.

Important: The parties can elect to have the new law rules apply retroactively to transfers made between Dec. 31, 1983, and the date of the law's enactment. (This is loaded with implications.)

2) ALIMONY PAYMENTS. They continue to be deductible by the paying spouse and taxable to the receiving spouse. Say one spouse wants to make payments to the other, and either party dies or the receiving spouse remarries. This is deductible alimony to the paying spouse and taxable to the receiving spouse under both old and new law.

But the new law makes a change when the spouse makes payments of a fixed total of money. Under the old law, payments of a fixed amount had to be made over a period in excess of 10 years in order to be treated as alimony for tax purposes. But the '84 law cuts this time period to just six years. The divorce or separation instrument, though, must state that there is no liability to make payments for any period after the death of the receiving spouse.

Also, if alimony payments are scheduled to decrease when a child dies, marries or reaches majority, the paying spouse is penalized. The amount of each monthly payment equal to the scheduled decrease is treated as child support. It cannot be deducted by the paying spouse.

Effective date: The '84 law's alimony provisions apply to agreements entered into after 1984. They cover agreements, too, entered into during or before 1984. If the agreements are modified after '84 to provide that the new law applies.

3) DEPENDENCY DEDUCTION. The old law included complicated rules on dependency deductions, custody and similar matters. The new law simplifies the rules.

The parent with a dependency deduction is now the parent with custody. The parent who has custody for the greater part of the year gets the deduction. Exception: The custodial parent can elect in writing to pass on the deduction to the non-custodial spouse.

Effective date: tax years starting after 1984.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLF

"Generally the theories we believe we call facts, and the facts we disbelieve we call theories."
 — Felix Cohen.

West thought he knew the facts in defending today's thriller. What he discovered was that instead of facts, he had placed his bets on a flimsy theory. And worse, he missed his chance at the set.

West led the heart king, and when East signaled with his heart nine, West continued with ace and another heart, certain that he could give East a ruff. Dummy's trump nine won the third heart and South had an easy time taking 10 tricks. West got his trump ace but South got game and ruff.

"Why did you play 'high-low hearts' when you couldn't overcall dummy?" demanded an angry West.
 "I was only telling you how many hearts I had," offered a defensive East. "Given that knowledge and a good look at your hand, you should have found the winning defense."
 West's controls in all suits should have led to the winning defense. East could have assured a plus score by syching to a low trump ace at trick two. If South wins the trump and continues trumps, West wins three heart tricks and the trump ace. If South tries to discard a heart on dummy's clubs, West scores a club ruff, the trump ace and three heart winners for a bonus down two.

USFL will shift to fall slate in '86

CHICAGO (AP) — United States Football League owners voted Wednesday to conduct one final season of spring football in 1985, but will shift to the fall in direct competition with the older, more established National Football League (NFL) Commissioner Carl Simmons said.

"I think they (the NFL) really hoped we'd stay in the spring and slowly drip away," said Simmons. The decision, he added, reflected a great "amount of belief in this product, a belief in this league."

After the announcement, Myles Tanenbaum, owner of the league champion Philadelphia Stars, said he would move his franchise to Baltimore in 1986 rather than compete against the NFL's Eagles and baseball's Philadelphia Phillies for use of Veterans Stadium. "Personally, I'm distressed to say goodbye to the fans who gave their hearts to this team," said Tanenbaum, one of six of the original 12 USFL owners. "It's the wrong thing to do."

Tanenbaum said he would retain ownership of the team, adding he already had conducted "extensive discussions" with Baltimore city officials about a move. The NFL Colts, who played in Baltimore for 20 years, moved to Indianapolis this spring.

Philadelphia was one of several cities where scheduling fall games conflicts with an NFL or professional baseball team, presenting clear problems of survival to USFL franchises.

Donald Trump, owner of the New Jersey

Generals and one of the league's strongest advocates of a fall season, conceded the USFL likely will shrink, "possibly to 14 teams in the very near future."

But he insisted such an alignment would be stronger, and said he was confident the USFL could hold its own against the NFL in any competitive market by the 1986 season.

Three USFL teams — Los Angeles, Washington and Chicago — ran into serious financial problems last season and several others are said to be facing a cash crunch. Discussions on any mergers are set for the second day of league meetings Thursday, said Simmons.

The USFL began in 1983 with 12 teams and expanded to 18 for 1984. But falling franchises have prompted rumors of mergers, the most prominent being the consolidation of the Oklahoma and Oakland franchises.

Asked whether some teams might leave the league as a result either of financial problems or the risk of opposing the NFL, Simmons replied, "As far as I'm concerned, they're all in the league right now."

Also left in doubt after Wednesday's announcement was the fate of network carried USFL games in both of the league's first two seasons, but retains broadcast rights only from the months of January through July. Jim Spence, senior vice president of ABC-Sports, said Wednesday: "Clearly our agreement calls for spring football in '85 and '86. They are obligated to deliver games to us in the spring of those years." Spence added: "There are a number of options open to us." He noted that ABC had no professional sports contracts in the fall — excepting "Monday Night Football." Trump expressed optimism that the USFL would be able to negotiate a deal with ABC for the 1986 season.

A $15 million package with that network already is in place for 1985. "That's when the network contracts with the NFL end. The NFL will be in that bidding with better players and a more exciting brand of football." "Don't forget the havoc that a half-point ratings drop (in NFL telecasts) brought last season," he added. "When we cut into that market in 1986, you'll see just how strong this league is."

Ashford sets 100 record

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — U.S. Olympic gold medalist Evelyn Ashford set a world record in the women's 100 meters Wednesday, racing 10.76 seconds to beat her previous world mark and East German rival Marlies Goehr at the "Weltklasse" international track meet.

In the women's 200-meter U.S. Olympic triple gold medalist Valerie Brisco-Hooks was upset by Marita Koch, the East German star and world record holder.

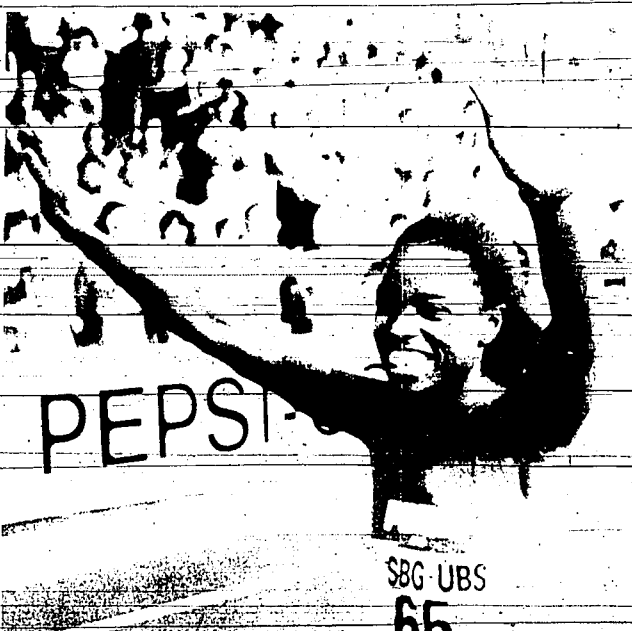

And in the men's 100, Carl Lewis overtook fellow American Harvey Glance and won in 9.99 — the same time that gave him the first of four gold medals at the Summer Games.

Ashford, who ran 10.37 to win the Olympic gold, broke her previous mark of 10.79 set last year at Colorado Springs, Colo. Goehr finished second in 10.84, followed by Ashford's U.S. teammate Diane Williams, who was third in 11.04.

Although she was behind at 50 meters, Ashford produced a burst of speed in the final stages and breezed past Goehr, who missed the Los Angeles Games because of the Soviet boycott.

Afterward, Ashford was cheered wildly by the capacity crowd of 25,000 spectators as she took a victory lap around Letzigrund Stadium.

Koch clocked a winning time of 21.87 seconds in the women's 200 and beat not only Brisco-Hooks, who

Miami seeks to repeat as champions

ATLANTA — Jimmy Johnson knows the odds are against it and the deck is stacked with some imposing opposition, but the new coach of the Miami Hurricanes still likes the situation — a chance to repeat as college football's national champion.

"No other program in the country has the opportunity that we have at Miami this season," Johnson said. "It is a challenge for me to make sure that everyone here is working together and that we are headed in the same direction as in years past."

Johnson, who coached at Oklahoma State last season, has nine offensive starters returning, including sophomore quarterback Bernie Kosar. But he must rebuild the heart of a defense that carried the Hurricanes to 11 victories in a row following a season-opening loss against Florida.

Only five starters — and 10 letterwinners are back on defense to face a rugged schedule that includes Auburn, Florida, Michigan, Purdue, Florida State, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Maryland and Boston College.

Johnson accepted the Miami coaching job when Howard Schnellenberger, who had a 41-16 record in five seasons, resigned to coach in the United States Football League.

"It may be the most difficult schedule in college football this year and one of the most difficult I have ever seen," Johnson said. "If I were looking at just one year at Miami, the schedule would have been a big factor in taking or leaving the job. We are not looking at the situation for one year, but for many years to come."

Because of its losses, Miami doesn't figure to be the South's most serious contender for the national title this year. In fact, the Hurricanes might

Somehow, BSU & ISU receive impressive ratings

BOISE (AP) — Sports Illustrated dropped a ratings bomb on the Big Sky Conference this week with the publication of its 1984 College & Pro Football Spectacular.

The magazine ranked Boise State No. 3 and Idaho State No. 7 among Division I-AA football teams.

Western Carolina was picked No. 1 by the magazine with Indiana State No. 2. Sports Illustrated's editorial department is off Tuesday and Wednesday and could not be reached for comment.

However, the rankings are not the kind of news that leaves either Boise State Coach Lyle Seaton or Idaho State coach Jim Koetter bubbling with enthusiasm.

"To be honest with you, I don't know how Sports Illustrated could pick anybody from our conference," Seaton said Tuesday. "I don't know if they know anything about any of us."

play second fiddle to upstate rival Florida State as the area's strongest major independent.

If the South is to continue its recent domination of Associated Press championships, the region has won five of the last six national titles — the most logical contender is Auburn.

Coach Pat Dye's Tigers, armed with one of the nation's most gifted athletes in All-American halfback Bo Jackson, enter the season riding a 10-game winning streak.

"I think we have a legitimate chance for a conference and national title," Dye said.

The nation will get an early indication of Auburn's strength when the Tigers tangle with Miami at East Rutherford, N.J., on Aug. 27 and then visit Texas, another championship contender, on Sept. 15.

"I think they picked us because historically we've had a good football team," he said.

Koetter said he hadn't heard about the Bengals' inclusion in the magazine's top 10 before being contacted by a Boise newspaper.

"Sometimes it's nice to have the publicity and I think our players will be excited about it," said Koetter from Pocatello. "I think there are other factors that are more important than where we're picked."

The news that Boise State was the third-ranked I-AA team of a national sports magazine was tempered by other news from a National Collegiate Athletic Association publication that evaluated conferences.

"I've got this NCAA thing about the rest. We're not even mentioned," said Seaton, producing a clipping from the NCAA News. "It's Idaho, Idaho State, Reno and Montana. They don't even talk about us."

Florida State and Miami appear to be the class of the 10 major independents in the South, with defensively-minded Virginia Tech, up-and-coming Memphis State and East Carolina, which ranked No. 20 last year, in line to challenge for area supremacy.

Auburn is the odds-on favorite to capture the Southeastern Conference title for the second year in a row, with a Nov. 3 showdown against Florida at Gainesville looming as a potential SEC championship game.

Florida has never won the conference title, but Charley Pell has 47 letterman back from last year's 9-2-1 team.

"I think it's just like it's been," Dye said of the SEC race. "It'll be close and it'll be a war. There will probably be a half-dozen teams with a legiti-mate chance to win it."

Auburn and Florida appear to be the class of the league, with Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee placed in the next group and Louisiana State and possibly Mississippi ranking as darkhorse contenders.

The area's other major conference — the Atlantic Coast — faces another year in which its best team won't win the championship. Clemson, the 1981 national champion, enters the final season of a probation that prevents the Tigers from competing for the conference title.

With Clemson ineligible, a three-way fight for the ACC crown is expected among Maryland, North Carolina and Georgia Tech.

It will be the year of the running back in both the SEC and the ACC, with each league looking at wholesale changes at the quarterback spot.

Nine of last year's top 10 rushers return in the SEC, headed by Auburn's Jackson, who had 1,213 yards out of the Tigers' wishbone; Tennessee's Johnnie Jones, who had 1,116 yards; Alabama's Ricky Moore, with 947, and Florida's Neal Anderson, with 835.

Top runners returning in the ACC include the league's 1983 leader, Elhan Horton of North Carolina, who had 1,107 yards; Joe McIntosh of North Carolina State, who had 1,081 yards; and Robert Lavette of Georgia Tech, who had 803 yards despite being slowed by injuries.

The two 1983 leaders in passing yardage in the SEC return, but they are the only starting quarterbacks back in the fold. Kurt Page of Vanderbilt passed for 3,178 yards last year and Jeff Wickersham of LSU threw for 2,542.

Tennessee thought its quarterback, Alan Cockrell, would return, but he opted to sign a baseball contract with the San Francisco Giants, bypassing his final year of eligibility.

There are three returning starters at quarterback in the ACC — Clemson's Mike Eppley and Tech's John Dewberry, each of whom seldom passed, and N.C. State's Tim Esposito, who threw for 2,096 yards.

Decision gets poor reaction

By The Associated Press

The United States Football League's decision Wednesday to switch from a spring to a fall schedule in 1986 was called "100 percent" wrong by Jim Kelly, one of the league's top stars.

"It's the worst thing they could have done," said Kelly, the Houston Gamblers' quarterback who was the USFL's Most Valuable Player as a rookie this season. "I'm 100 percent against it. If it was left up to me, I'd keep a spring schedule. But it's up to the major owners. They pay us, so we'll play when they say."

After the decision was made to challenge the established National Football League head-to-head, the USFL champion Philadelphia Stars said they would move to Baltimore in the fall of 1986 rather than compete with the NFL's Eagles and baseball's Phillies for use of Veterans Stadium.

Chuck Fusina, the Stars' quarterback, was more concerned with the impact of the move on the team's Philadelphia fans than the change to a fall schedule.

"I was looking forward to playing in Philadelphia for a long time," said the former Penn State star. "You never know, that might still happen. I don't know anything about contracts with Baltimore."

"I do know we're coming back to Philadelphia to win another championship for the people who came out to support us in the past."

One player who disagreed with the sentiments of Kelly and Fusina was Fred Besana, quarterback of the Oakland Invaders.

"That's great," Besana said from his home in Yuba City, Calif. "Heck, I'm just happy to be playing. It's a couple of years down the road. As long as it's feasible for the league and viable for the public, I think it's fine."

Besana also said the move will help the USFL reach parity with the NFL sooner.

"We made some strides this year," he added. "As we get more draft choices and some more players jump from the NFL, we'll be getting closer to parity. I don't know that we'll be completely on par by 1986. We have several clay pigeons now that would be very, very competitive in the NFL — Philadelphia, New Jersey, Birmingham, Tampa."

AFC East should offer closer race

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of previews on the prospects of the National Football League's divisions this season.

By FRED GOODALL
The Associated Press

MIAMI — It wasn't surprising that Miami won the AFC East a year ago, but the ease with which the Dolphins accomplished the task was another matter.

Coach Don Shula's club claimed the top spot in what traditionally has been one of the most competitive divisions in the National Football League with a 12-4 record and the rest of the alignment wasn't even close.

New England and Buffalo both finished 8-5, while Baltimore, which has since moved to Indianapolis, and the New York Jets were 7-9.

The story could be different in 1984, though, as coaches who made drafting quarterbacks a priority a year ago shift their attention to building better defenses.

Meanwhile, the addressed offensive needs first — the Patriots taking Nebraska wide receiver Irving Fryar with the first overall selection and the Bills grabbing running back Greg Bell of Notre Dame. But they turned their attention to defense in later rounds.

In contrast, all five teams drafted quarterbacks in the first round of the 1983 draft with Miami's Dan Marino emerging as the AFC's top rookie as the Dolphins raced to their seventh undisputed title in 14 seasons under Shula.

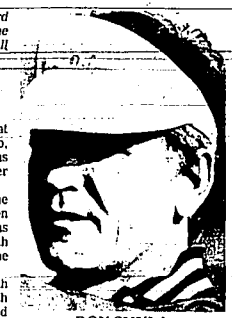

Miami, however, starting training camp with potential problems in a number of areas, including running back, where the off-season death of David Overstreet trimmed the team's depth to a minimum.

Linebacker A.J. Duhe has also been slow to recover from knee surgery and Earnie Rhone, another veteran linebacker, was slowed by injuries and illness in the off-season.

"Defensively, we gave up the fewest points in the NFL," says Shula, who lost highly regarded defensive coordinator Bill Arnsperger to Louisiana State University.

"You're always happy about that, but we feel that there are some areas that have to be improved."

Shula hired Chuck Studley, who finished last season as interim head coach of the Houston Oilers, to replace Arnsperger and the Dolphins' success may hinge on how well the Arnsperger-trained defense responds to the new leadership.

DON SHULA Faces definite problems

The most improved team in the division may be New England, which remained in contention for a playoff berth until the final week of the '83 season.

Coach Ron Meyer drafted Fryar in hopes of adding another dimension to a powerful running game that produced 162.8 yards per game, third best in the AFC in 1983. If successful, the Patriots appear to have the best chance of upsetting Miami as champions.

"Statistics indicate that we had one of the NFL's top rushing attacks over the past two years," says Meyer, who plans to employ a one-back offense. "A major objective two years ago is to be more unpredictable and create more striking ability from anywhere on the field."

The Patriots ranked eighth in the AFC total defense in 1983, but Meyer is counting on players like Kenneth Sims and Lester Williams, both first-rounders two years ago, to bounce back from injuries.

Buffalo lost Joe Cribbs — 57 pass receptions and 1,131 yards rushing — to the United States Football League. Whether Bell, hampered by injuries in college, can fill the void is a big question mark.

"Losing a talent like Joe Cribbs is a tough blow, but we have people here who will be challenged by this development," Coach Kay Stephenson

Minnesota captures pair from Brewers, widens West lead

Mickey Hatcher's run-scoring single in the eighth inning lifted Minnesota to a victory over the Milwaukee Brewers and gave the Twins a sweep of their twilight double-header Wednesday night in Milwaukee.

The sweep increased the first-place Twins' lead over second-place California to 5½ games in the American League West.

In the first game, Mike Smithson tossed a six-hitter, Kirby Puckett doubled, tripled and drove in two runs of Jack Lazorko for his 21st homer of the season.

Milwaukee came back with three runs in its half of the second with consecutive homers off Ken Schrom. Ted Simmons drew a two-out walk and Dion James followed with the first homer of his career; a line shot to right.

Bill Schroeder followed with a solo homer, his eighth of the season, to lead-off for a 3-1 lead.

The Twins came back with two more runs in the fourth off Lazorko when Engle led off with a double, and when Engle led off with a double, and one out later, Hatcher "stratified" to lead the Twins to a 5-2 victory. Puckett opened the eighth inning of the second game with a ball single off reliever Ray Searage, 0-1, and went to second on Dave Engle's sacrifice bunt.

Hatcher then greeted reliever Tom Telman with a single to right to score Puckett for a 4-3 lead.

Kent Hrbek gave the Twins a 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning in the nightcap, connecting on a 2-1 pitch

California 2, New York 1

In New York, Bobby Grieth broke a scoreless tie with a sixth-inning home run and doubled home California's seventh game losing streak.

Detroit 1, Oakland 4

In Detroit, Marty Castillo drove in three runs with a single and a triple, Juan Berenguer pitched seven innings of five-hit ball and Oakland committed three costly errors as the Tigers completed a three-game series sweep. Detroit outscored the A's 37-10 in the one-sided series.

Baltimore 4, Seattle 0

In Baltimore, Scott McGregor pitched on Seattle on nine hits and Wayne Gross hit a two-run homer to lead the Orioles. McGregor, 15-11, allowed just two extra base hits and helped his cause by picking off three runners.

Kansas City 6, Boston 2

In Boston, the Royals ended their 1984 season series with the Red Sox with a 9-3 advantage with a victory in the teams' series finale. Willie Wilson had four hits and scored three runs, Jones had three hits and drove in three runs and Daryl Motley belted a two-run homer in leading the Kansas City attack.

Arlington, Texas, Mickey Rivers belted a home run and two singles, knocked in two runs and scored twice to back the strong pitching of Danny Darwin for the Rangers.

Kansas City 6, Boston 2

In Boston, the Royals ended their 1984 season series with the Red Sox with a 9-3 advantage with a victory in the teams' series finale. Willie Wilson had four hits and scored three runs, Jones had three hits and drove in three runs and Daryl Motley belted a two-run homer in leading the Kansas City attack.

Gooden reaches whiff plateau as Mets tip SD

Dwight Gooden survived a mauling home run by Craig Nettles and went on to pitch a three-hitter while becoming the 11th rookie in baseball history to strike out 200 batters in a season as the New York Mets downed the San Diego Padres 5-2 Wednesday night in San Diego.

The 19-year-old Gooden, 12-5, struck out nine to raise his major league leading total to 202. He walked no body.

The last rookie to fan 200 was John Montefusco, who struck out 215 with San Francisco in 1975. The last teenage rookie was Gary Nolan, who struck out 206 with Cincinnati in 1967.

Nettles cracked a two-run homer in the fourth to give the Padres a 2-0 lead. It was the sixth consecutive game Nettles has played in which he has homered. It was his seventh homer in those games, tying a Naional League record held by George Kelly, Walker Cooper and Willie Mays.

Nettles' 19th home run of the season followed a two-out double in the fourth by Steve Garvey. The Padres' only other baserunner was Terry Kennedy, who singled in the eighth.

The Mets rallied for three runs in the sixth inning. Keith Hernandez singled off loser Andy Hernandez, 7-6, moving to third on Darryl Strawberry's double. Both runners scored when George Foster doubled to right. Rafael Santana lined a two-out single to right, scoring Foster.

San Francisco 7, Philadelphia 5

In San Francisco, pinch-hitter Johnnie LeMaster's two-out infield single in the bottom of the eighth inning broke a tie and lifted the Giants. Joel Youngblood started the winning rally with a leadoff single off Al Holland, 5-3. Youngblood went to second on a grounder and scored the go-ahead run on LeMaster's hit. LeMaster stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Dan Gladden's single to left field.

Houston 3, Chicago 1

In Chicago, Jose Cruz's bases-loaded homer capped a seven-run second inning and Nolan Ryan stopped Chicago on five hits to lead the Astros. Ryan, 41-7, struck out a season-high 12 in snapping the Cubs' four-game winning streak. It was the 153th time in his career that he had struck out 10 or more batters in a game.

Montreal 5, Los Angeles 3

In Los Angeles, Don Drysdale and Tim Lincecum doubled consecutively to lead the 11th inning and Mike Stenhouse later added a two-run single, leading the Expos. Drysdale and Wallace doubled off reliever Ken Howell, 2-4, and Doug Flynn followed on an out later with another double.

Wallach held out third, but both runners came home on Stenhouse's St. Louis 6, Cincinnati 3

In Cincinnati, Mike Jorgensen and Terry Pendleton belted home runs to help Joaquin Andujar gain his 17th victory, tops in the major leagues. Andujar, 17-11, struck out two and walked two. Dave Concepcion RBI sacrifice fly and Ron Oester's two-run single in the ninth ruined Andujar's shutout. Bruce Stratter got the last out for his league-leading 30th save. Oester's single also extended his hitting streak to 21st games.

Pittsburgh 7, Atlanta 2

In Pittsburgh, Larry McWilliams pitched a four-hitter while driving in two runs and Lee Lacy had three hits and scored twice to lead the Pirates.

Canyon Springs rises

RUPERT — Canyon Springs continued to pad its margin Wednesday when the Magic Valley Women's Inter-City Golf Series stopped at the Rupert Country Club.

Canyon Springs scored 11½ points Wednesday to run its season total to 58½. Other daily and season totals include: Gooding, 10½; for 48½; Falls 10 for 56; Jerome 9½ for 44½; Rupert 8 for 47; Buhl 8½ for 41; Burley 7½ for 45; Blue Lakes 6½ for 43½.

Individual winners Wednesday were:

Gross — Kathy Borchard, Buhl, 87; Jackie Gasser, Twin Falls, and Terri Simpson, Burley, both 88; Clarice Groesbeck, Rupert, 89; Colleen Kerbs, Rupert, 91; Fern Butler, Jerome, both 92.

Net — Sue Skinner, Canyon Springs, 67; Blanche Rey, Gooding, 68; Helen Blakeslee, Gooding, 69; 26; McLean, Canyon Springs, Natalie Jensen, Rupert, Ethlene VanKaster, Buhl, and Shirlee Straugen, Jerome, all 71.

The series continues at Jerome Country Club Sept. 25.

"We're exploring the possibility of three or four offers right now," Tripucka said. "I'm discouraged at the nonoffer Detroit has shown toward me."

Outlook

"The one thing this team has demonstrated is a capacity to answer challenges."

It could help quarterback Joe Ferguson, starting his 17th season, if wide receiver Terry Bradshaw stays healthy and tight end Tony Hunter, a first-round draft choice last season, continues to develop as a pass target.

The Jets, meanwhile, are a team in transition.

Coach Joe Walton traded quarterback Richard Todd to New Orleans during the off-season and also dealt defenders Abdul Salaam, Stan Blinka and Ken Nel as part of his "remodeling" program.

Ken O'Brien, last year's No. 1 draft choice, didn't play a down last season but has been handed the starting quarterback job over Pat Ryan.

Todd's backup for six years.

The strength of the Jets' defense lies in the front line of Mark Gastineau, Marty Lyons and Joe Klecko as well as linebackers Lance Mehl and Bob Crable, who is coming off a season of injury.

First-round draft choices Russell Carter, a cornerback from SMU, and Ron Faurot, a defensive end from Arkansas, could contribute too.

The Colts move into the 61,000-seat Hoosier Dome with one of the youngest rosters in the league playing for Coach Frank Kush.

Mike Pagel and Art Schletzer are battling for the No. 1 quarterback job as another hopeful, Mark Herrmann, continues to battle injuries.

The Colts' running game, featuring Curt Dickey and Randy McMillan, was the second best in the NFL in 1983, and the offensive line, built around guard Chris Hinton and center Ray Donaldson, is improving.

Punter Robb Stark, who led the NFL with a 45.3-yard average, is another bright spot.

The defense, however, ranked 11th among the 10 AFC teams, yielding 352.5 yards a game, and "the Colts have been unable to sign their top draft choice, cornerback Leonard Coleman of Vanderbilt."

Still, Kush is looking forward to this season with optimism.

"The level of competitiveness that we exhibited last season can't be stressed enough. Once we got a taste of victory, our club never gave up," he says. "The experience will come, but the determination and hustle is prerequisite."

Entry deadline for fair rodeo

FILER — Cowboys living within a 50-mile radius of Filer may enter the Twin Falls County Fair Rodeo by registering before 9 a.m. Monday.

No late entries will be accepted. Entries will be for bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, team roping and girls' barrel racing.

Stuart football gear checkout

TWIN FALLS — Football gear for Stuart Junior-High School's eighth and ninth grade football teams will be checked out Monday at the school.

Gear will be checked out beginning at 5 p.m. All prospective football players should be there at that time.

Junior tennis tourney signups

TWIN FALLS — Entry deadline is Saturday for the Twin Falls Recreation Department Junior Tennis Tournament, to be played here Aug. 28-29.

Entry forms are available at Newton's. There is a $3 entry fee for singles, $4 for doubles. Fees must accompany entry blanks. Further information can be obtained by phoning Laura Rice at 733-4355.

Volleyball clinic scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School volleyball Coach Kathy Anderson will hold a volleyball clinic for eighth and ninth graders on Aug. 28-30.

There will be a $10 fee, and the clinic is open to eighth and ninth graders at Stuart and O'Leary Junior high schools.

The clinic will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. on Aug. 28-29 and from 9 a.m. to noon on Aug. 30.

Further information can be obtained by phoning Anderson at 733-6511 or 734-4616.

Oilers covet Rozier

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers officials say they're hoping to sign on running back Mike Rozier of the Pittsburgh Maulers, whose contract with the United States Football League team doesn't expire for two years.

Sources quoted in the Houston Chronicle Wednesday said the Maulers are willing to release Rozier from his three-year, $3.1 million contract.

"We haven't really gotten down to talking hard dollars at this point," said Oilers General Manager Ladd Herzog. "But the Oilers are very much interested in Rozier."

Decker axes European dates

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Mary Decker has canceled plans to race in four European meets because of injuries she suffered during her collision with Zola Budd during the 3,000-meter race at the Summer Olympics, her coach said Wednesday.

"The injury was more widespread than we originally thought," said Dick Brown, who has coached Decker since 1981. "We've canceled the European season because there is not enough time to prepare properly."

A bone scan taken Monday showed extensive tissue damage and tears in the small-muscle group surrounding her left hip and groin. Brown said. But he said Decker's knee took the brunt of the fall, jamming her femur into the hip joint. She also pulled muscles in her left hip.

Andrews' career uncertain

ATLANTA (AP) — An orthopedic surgeon said there was a "slight air of uncertainty" concerning the playing career of William Andrews after the Atlanta Falcons' star running back underwent 2 1/2 hours of surgery on his left knee Wednesday.

Dr. John Garrett said there will be a waiting game of six to nine months to determine the severity of a damaged nerve that could end Andrews' National Football League career.

"I think he has a serious nerve problem," Garrett said. "I don't think there's any doubt about it. There's no way to measure the magnitude of the injury other than the demonstrated loss of power in the (left) foot."

Andrews, who recently signed a four-year, $9 million contract, was injured during a routine sweep of right end during a practice session at the Falcons' training camp in nearby Suwanee Tuesday morning.

Big money at stake in golfing Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The NEC World Series of Golf this week, with its $500,000 purse and bonus points to the winner, could play a critical role in determining the 1984 PGA Player of the Year.

The tournament, which begins today on the 7,173-yard Firestone Country Club course, offers $700,000 in total prizes with $126,000 going to the winner. It's also the last event on the schedule this season that provides bonus points under the complicated point-system which determines the Player of the Year.

Tom Watson, Tom Kite, Greg Norman of Australia and Lee Trevino, winner of last week's PGA title, are the current leaders in the Player of the Year standings.

A victory in this tournament by either Watson or Kite would presently secure the title, which Watson has won five times. A victory by either Trevino or Norman would make it a three-man race with the season drawing to a close.

At the moment, Watson has 58 points, Kite 56, Norman 46 and Trevino 36.

And, while they're far back at the moment, Jack Nicklaus, Masters champion Ben Crenshaw and British Open title holder Seve Ballesteros of Spain could get into the race.

market for a 34-year-old back with questionable speed. Our interest in him is absolutely none," said Bill Davis, player personnel director of the Cleveland Browns. "I don't see any other teams being interested in him, either."

Interest in Harris appears to be nonexistent

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Franco Harris, who can't break the National Football League's rushing record unless he gets a football job, sat by his telephone again Wednesday, hoping for a call some team executives speculate may never come.

"Unfortunately, it could be the end for Franco," said Dick Steinberg, player personnel director of the New England Patriots.

Harris, after boycotting training camp for a month, was released Monday by the Pittsburgh Steelers after turning down a one-year contract offer that would have paid him nearly $600,000 this season.

Harris' eight 1,000-yard seasons are an NFL record and he gained 1,007 yards only last season, but some NFL team executives wonder if there is a

East German eclipses world cycling record

MOSCOW (AP) — East Germany's Lutz Heschlich set a world indoor 200-meter flying start record as the cycling competition ended Wednesday at the Friendship '84 Games.

Heschlich, the 1980 Olympic sprint gold medalist and two-time world champion, clocked 10.021 seconds to lower the old record by his great Soviet rival, Sergei Kopylov, of 10.249. Kopylov, who also has won the world sprint title twice, had set the mark on the same track at the Olympic cycling center at Krylatskoye in suburban Moscow two years ago.

It was the sixth world record set on the cycling track during the two-week games and the second of two successes Wednesday for Heschlich over Kopylov.

Basketball also got underway Wednesday with the Soviet Union beating Hungary 115-64.

In the final of the sprint cycling competition, Heschlich won 2.0 but only after forcing two restarts in the opening race when he fell from the track.

When the eagerly awaited clash between the two giants of sprint racing finally got underway, Heschlich rode from the front, sprinted with 400 meters to go and just held off Kopylov's challenge.

He adopted a different strategy in the second race, staying behind until the last 50 meters when he rushed to win by half a bike's length with a clenched fist salute.

Vratislav Sustr won the third-place race, 2.0, over Andrej Michiak of Poland.

The final of the 4,000-meter team pursuit race ended in mystery when the Soviet quartet inexplicably quit when one of its riders was forced to retire.

After less than one lap of the final against East Germany, Valeri Movchan appeared to lose control and rode off the track. But instead of continuing with the permitted three riders, his team just gave up amid whistles from the normally partisan home crowd.

In the semifinals, the Soviets had downed Czechoslovakia by more than eight seconds while the East Germans edged Poland by 0.80 seconds.

The 50-kilometer individual points race went to Hungarian Miklos Somodi, who scored 81 points and held a two-lap advantage over Martin Pene of Czechoslovakia.

The Soviets went unthreatened in their Group A basketball game against Hungary, leading 15-3 after five minutes and never looking back. Arvidas-Romas Sabonis led six Soviets in double figures with 22 points.

Chukar decline reflected in harvest limits

TWIN FALLS — A sharp reduction in chukar limits, the easing of goose closure restrictions in the Hagerman area and a status quo in both the Klamath and sage grouse limits could be the fall outlook for area hunters.

Those four recommendations will highlight several dozen concerning Magic Valley's upland game and waterfowl. The Jerome office of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game will present to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission for consideration today at Boise.

The commission will review all the data from the various regions before coming up with final regulations Friday. One final public hearing is slated at 7:30 p.m. today at the department headquarters in Boise before the final decisions are made. In a public hearing in Twin Falls Monday night, the effects of two harsh winters in the past three were enumerated by Regional Game Manager Craig Kvale and, by and large, drew sympathy from the sportsmen attending.

The greatest impact on upland species apparently has hit the chukar population, which Kvale stated were at 15-year lows. The species, introduced from India, apparently is less capable of handling the snow conditions than others. Some of those attending said there was evidence the birds simply don't cope with harsh, snowy conditions, seldom seeking cover and leaving themselves open to suffocation and freezing.

Kvale noted a concerted search had turned up a few more birds than originally expected but some areas apparently had been wiped out. Others had only remnant stocks and the better habitat areas had a few more birds. But overall, Kvale said the populations could be lower than the last cycle nadir of 1969.

The department, with 14 private cooperators helping by raising the birds, has planted several thousand eight-to-10-week-old chicks with more on the way. Additionally, a few hundred "spring breeders" were released.

But because the wild stocks are so low, Kvale said he is recommending a two-per-day and two-in-possession limit for chukars from Sept. 15 to Dec. 31 with Elmore County and a portion of west Gooding County closed. He noted part of it is to provide opportunity for hunters and the other because of "overlap" in habitat use of chukars and Hungarian partridge.

"Huns and chukars may be together and flush at the same time. If a hunter harvests a chukar under those conditions, this regulation would cover that situation," Kvale said.

He said another important aspect is easing harvest pressure on man-grown birds released this year. If they survive the winter, they could participate in next year's production.

Some chukar hunters suggested that, given the dire circumstances of the population, chukar hunting be curtailed statewide for this fall. Kvale said the lower limits should greatly reduce overall hunting pressure and some added pressure might not be bad since it could serve to make the planted birds more "wild" after being half domesticated in being raised in pens around man.

Kvale said breeding pair counts in the Hagerman area had led the department to recommend re-opening of a portion of the Hagerman goose closure. It would be that portion between Malad River and Vador Grade and, more specifically, re-open the Bill Jones property.

It was the Jones property that kindled a lively controversy a year ago. Jones allowed hunting on a field that seemed particularly attractive to geese and a large harvest was taken there.

Last spring's breeding pair count dropped to 72, leading to the closure.

However, aerial censuses this year showed the count almost had returned to previous levels.

While some questioned the wisdom of this, Kvale noted "the closure was made because of this drastic dip in breeding pairs. Now that that figure has bounced back — not quite to 82 levels but close — we have no reason to maintain the closure. But we will keep a close eye on the breeding pairs next year and take action next fall if it is required."

Kvale said information indicated that harvest levels in the Hagerman area had remained fairly comparable to the previous season despite the Jones property closure, another argument for easing the restrictions.

Kvale said moving and reworking

Jerome club opens gun facility to hunter sight-in session

JEROME — Idaho's newest — and perhaps most extensive — rifle range will be made available to Magic Valley big game hunters during "sight-in" sessions Saturday and Sunday.

The site is the Jerome Rod and Gun Club's multi-purpose cul de sac, once a volcano crater, which provides maximum safety for rifle use.

Access to the site is four miles north of the U.S. 83-state 25 in Jerome County. The turnout is at the 98 Ranch, with the gravelled road paralleling U.S. 83 for a quarter mile before turning along the ranch fence line and heading inland.

Marshall Everheart, one of the longtime guiding lights of the Jerome Rod and Gun Club, said anyone interested in getting his or her rifle ready for the big-game season is welcome. He said a fee of $1 — for an associate membership — will be charged and this will cover the expenses the club will accrue.

The sight-in marks the first major public use of the area which has been developed by the Jerome club through federal and local government cooperation plus a lot of volunteer labor.

Everheart notes the club's original shooting facilities were near the Jerome butte.

"But then a few insulators and things started to disappear off the radio and TV towers and power lines in that area. We didn't know if it was being done by someone using our facilities or not but we felt it would be a lot better to move," he said with a smile.

Under federal legislation which allows the BLM to sell public lands for various public uses, the Jerome club applied for and received permission to purchase the crater site, approximately 100 acres.

Three years ago, Congress passed legislation which placed an excise tax on handguns and handgun ammunition, the revenues then being earmarked for shooting facilities and safety education. The Jerome club received the first $25,000 grant from it and last October.

That presented a problem, too, Everheart points out.

"The grant stipulates the money must be obligated within eight months. We couldn't even get in here until April because of the snow."

The club received a month's extension and has accounted for all but $300 of the grant.

"But we got a lot more than that for our money. Three of our board members happen to be in construction," he said with a smile.

"And they did us a lot of good. For instance, our original plan called for a 12 by 16 building. Because of the help our directors were able to get, we got a 24 by 24 building at a cost below the estimate of the smaller one."

The club currently is putting the final touches on indoor sanitary facilities for men and women in the building, which also will include either a large meeting room or storage area.

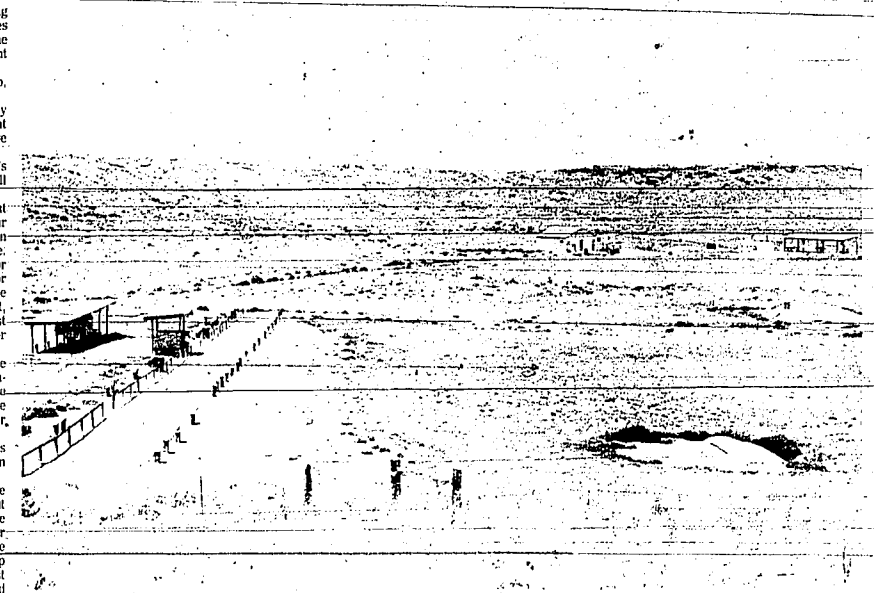

In addition to the Jerome Club's facilities, the area is blossoming in recreational shooting use.

The Snake River Silhouette Handgunners have invested about $17,000 on one plot while the muzzleloaders have set up another facility on the northwest end of the site. The club plans to put a trap shooting facility on the southwest corner, on top of the crater rim and well away from the rifle galleries.

The Idaho Department of Fish and Game will install a pistol range, which will be available to other enforcement agencies or the public if there is no conflict in use.

The club plans to put an archery range to accommodate both target and a roving range.

When access first was provided

Rifle, silhouette handgun and muzzleloading ranges are in place at the Jerome Rod and Gun Club's new shooting facility into the area, Everheart said a portion of the grant was sublet for motorcycle use.

"We felt that would be in the public interest. It would give the cyclists someplace to run and hold their competitions without scarring up some of the public lands like we have seen on some hills and desert areas. They made good use of it."

But as the Snake River BLM district hierarchy changed and new instructions came from Washington, D.C., the Jerome Club was instructed to reserve site use for shooting only.

The threat was if the cyclists were allowed to continue, the BLM would reclaim the ridge and land.

"At the present time, the way things are developing here, we would have had to cancel our agreement with them. By this time next year, the entire area will be covered with shooting facilities," Everheart said.

Buhl man lands 70-pound chinook

BUHL — What could be more relaxing than a fishing trip to Alaska? In the nation's last frontier, away from civilization with only huge denizens of the deep to interrupt one's reverie with nature.

Well, ask Randy Mittelstaedt of Buhl about that and you'll find there is one bit of truth to it all.

He pulled a 70-pound, eight-ounce chinook salmon out of the fabled Kenai River. The river's chinook strain enjoys the reputation of producing the largest chinook consistently so good, in fact, that only those at 70 pounds or up is rated in the "trophy class" by the Alaskan Fish and Game Department. Because his topped the minimum by eight ounces, Mittelstaedt will receive a certificate of trophyism from the department.

Now with the fish cleaned from the first statements, Mittelstaedt winnows the chaff from the rest.

"The Kenai is accessible by a highway that goes right along the bank," he reports. And because of that accessibility plus the reputation for size, the chinook runs draw people from all over the world.

Accommodations are plentiful from those who prefer to stay in hotels and motels to those that want some semblance of civilization in prepared camping grounds.

Public campgrounds liberally are sprinkled along the river and they are chock full of anglers during the run.

Most of the fishing is down by "drifting," that is putting the boat above an appointed sweep of stream and then, cutting the engine, letting the boat glide downstream.

These "drifts" are identified in the campgrounds, complete with maps that show the start and end of the perfected fishing sections.

"On Eagle Rock, one of the bigger drifts, we saw 150 boats — about 20 feet apart — and six fishermen in a boat," Mittelstaedt reports.

A larger portion of these boats are owned by professional guides who charge $130 per person for an eight-hour stint. The guides work two shifts per day during the peak of the run. The Kenai limit is two fish per year.

And since "getting the fish into the boat is the biggest concern for the guides, they'll take you outfit, set the hook and play the fish for about a minute before giving the hook back to you," Mittelstaedt says.

"They don't want to lose an angler."

Mittelstaedt had it a bit easier, having a brother in Fairbanks who owns a boat and mobile home.

"We put 1,500 miles on it in 10 days," he said of the vehicle. "We fished for everything — dolly varden trout running about two pounds apiece and sockeye salmon a lot like steelhead about 12 pounds apiece. The sockeye are no problem. The river is red with them."

Kokanee massing for Boise South Fork run

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

PINE — The Anderson Ranch Reservoir kokanee are schooling and it shouldn't be long before the snagging bonanza season is upon us.

Bob Bell, regional fishery manager, said the kokanee run appears to be both earlier and larger than usual.

"The run began early enough that they've already made it up river before the Idaho Department of Fish and Game had its weir in operation. Bell said he had received reports of redfish sightings as high as Baumgartner Campgrounds on the South Fork of the Boise River.

"We put the trap in operation Friday night and picked up 200 almost right away. There were another estimated 400 schooled up in the river immediately below the trap at that time," Bell said.

Over the weekend, however, things started getting hot. By Tuesday afternoon, biologists at the weir estimated 2,000 were lying in the pool just below the trap.

Bell said he was unable to explain the reason for the earlier showing of the fish than usual.

"Anderson Ranch Reservoir is still full and there's only about three or four hundred feet of flowing stream from the backwaters. That may be a reason," he speculated. "But I don't know. No two runs are ever alike. Usually, we plan on the peak being over the Labor Day weekend."

It worked out well for the department that the early run was this year rather than last. High water a year ago re-channelled the South Fork and left the trap high and dry. The department has to undertake some costly and large construction to utilize the permanent weir. Had last year's run been as early as this, a large portion of the run would have gone upstream.

There are two major reasons the department needs the trap in operation at the time of the run. The first is to obtain sufficient eggs to help hold resident kokanee fisheries at peak levels in other Idaho impoundments — and, perhaps, provide fry for introduction into new waters.

But the most important aspect for Anderson Ranch Reservoir is maintaining a population status quo within the impoundment. The department has found that letting more than a certain number of kokanee upstream to spawn naturally will result in over-population in the reservoir.

This results in competition for food and if there isn't enough to go around, the kokanee will become stunted.

Since the department has closely monitored the reproduction of the Anderson Reservoir run, the individual size of the kokanee has grown from about nine or 10 inches to this year's largest thus far — an average of 16 inches. Last year, the average was about 15 inches although some of the larger males were considerably larger and running between two and three pounds.

The public is allowed to take the surplus spawners, barred from going up river, in a whirlwind snagging season with no limits. Last year, anglers took an estimated 40,000 adult kokanee.

Bell said the same pattern will be followed this year. Once the hatchery capacity has been filled, a certain number of adults will be lifted over the barrier to spawn naturally.

Idaho's newest lunker

Alan Lancaster displays the new Idaho record walleye he pulled from Salmon Falls Creek Reservoir Saturday. The lunker was 31 1/4 inches long with a 17 3/8 girth. It tipped the scales at 11 pounds, five ounces. Lancaster and his party caught four others from two to five pounds.

Biologist cited as hawknapper

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A state wildlife biologist has been charged with taking a federally-protected hawk without permission, says Assistant U.S. Attorney Samuel Alba.

David Peterson, who worked for the state Division of Wildlife's northern regional office in Ogden, was charged with the misdemeanor by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The charge that will be handled by the federal Central Violations Bureau in Denver, Alba said.

Peterson was suspended without pay in early July while an investigation was conducted by state and federal authorities.

Alba said Peterson was implicated after an undercover operation by the Fish and Wildlife Service resulted in persons in Montana and Utah being charged with selling protected birds on the black market.

Peterson's name was linked to the operation by two persons arrested in late June, and the charge against Peterson involved a Merlin hawk found at his home, Alba said.

The alleged offense, a violation of the Federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act, carries with it a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and six months in jail.

Peterson, reached by telephone at his home in Morgan on Monday, declined to comment.

Three-day coho season spoils vacation plan

"Off shore salmon seasons for Oregon and Washington will close Wednesday, the Oregon Fish and Wildlife Department announced Friday afternoon."

That statement out of the Portland Oregonian let us inlanders, who prepare for a whole year to go to the coast for some salmon fishing, know that we are not often informed as to the salmon fishing regulations and how they are set and announced.

For over a year, frau and I planned on this trip to Oregon to get in on the coho fishing, only to have the season close, settled down—and there the season close.

The quota of 106,000 was caught in just three days of fishing and both Washington and Oregon coasts were closed to salmon fishing.

In years past, we always planned our coasting fishing vacations in the first two weeks of August to meet those fish runs. Now you can't plan on a darned thing, except when you get there the season is apt to close.

So frau and I went on a tour of the Oregon coast, starting at the southern coast and working north.

Oregon has more access to the ocean than California and Washington combined. In the 1930's, it began gaining access and land along the shore and now have 18 state parks and hundreds of day use access points along the coast.

Local fishing is in the August blinks. But in two days of fishing last week, we found that the Snake River in Hagerman Valley is still darned good fishing. Frau and I had excellent success fishing fast water in this area.

Salmon Dam: The trout fishing has been slow and the bank fishermen stymied by the high water that covered the usual sandy beaches. The the boundaries along Snake River in the Mini-Cassia area had proved workable in that it had allowed excellent hunting opportunity and greatly reduced the number of predation complaints from landowners. He recommends that closure remain in place for another year.

But the major bonus for Magic Valley goose hunters is a lengthening of the season to Jan. 6. Magic Valley still will have a two-week wait for local goose shooting after the rest of Southern Idaho opens.

Although pheasant harvest was down and winter kill had some effect, Kvale said that species had had a fairly successful reproduction year and "we see no real problem in keeping the season and limits the same as last year." That would run from Oct.-20 to Dec.-2 with the two cocks per day and possession for the first four days before moving up to three cocks and six in possession after the 24th.

Sage grouse populations north of the Snake River apparently wintered and reproduced—much better—than their southside brethren, Kvale said. He noted last year's hunter participation was less than half the previous year, obviously pressured by forecasts of small populations and reduction of limits to one and one.

Kvale noted that sage grouse mortality had occurred even in the lower elevations of the winter range but the mortality was not as great as recorded among other species.

This spring's lek (booming ground) censuses showed a slight increase from 17.5 to 20 males per "trend lek," or one that is counted every year. However, there was a reduction in the number of males on live of the nine southside trend leks. In fact, the southside count was the second lowest ever recorded, the spring of 1981 being the worst.

But non-trend leks, those checked as opportunity presents itself, were up 63 percent, Kvale said. Most of that increase was in isolated leks in Idaho.

Officers have spotted 31 broods on the northside, averaging 3.7 chicks per brood. On the southside, only five families have been seen, the broods averaging 6.3 chicks. Kvale said the southside was hit with heavy snow just before and during the hatching season.

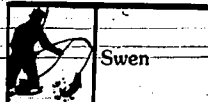

It appears the northside populations are coming but we can't be overly optimistic," he said, "because we are at the bottom end of the population right now."

He said he would recommend a one and one-half limit for sage grouse in most of Magic Valley. However, Elmore county will be closed along with all of Jerome county and the eastern portion of Cassia County.

Perhaps the best survivors, to the surprise of many, were quail and Kvale recommended no change in the 10 and 20 bag and possession limits during a season from Sept.-15 through Dec. 31. He added, however, that mountain and Gambel quail are declining and a statewide closure on those species is suggested.

Forest grouse harvest in Magic Valley has remained constant at three to five thousand per year, most of the harvest being incidental to big game hunting. He suggests four and eight limits from Sept. 15 to Nov. 15.

However, some sportsmen from the Wood River valley said forest grouse hunting is increasing in popularity in that area and that dedicated grouse hunters are making a larger impact than before.

water has gone down about six feet from its high and some of the beaches are just coming into view.

You can put in a small boat at Gray's Landing now but the receding water has created a mud problem, so watch it.

The walleye fishing has been red hot and records are being broken for size weekly.

Tiny Brady and son report they caught nine walleye by just trolling a yellow-feathered crappie jig and a shad lure.

Bank fishing for walleye is a problem. They are very spooky and any noise along the bank will send them on their way. One fisherman claims to have caught walleye from the bank by using a small bobber and a feathered crappie jig and letting it drift with the wind.

Another reports that the cut bait with the bobber set up has produced some fine walleye. If you have an answer to the bank fishing for walleye, please give me a call.

Magic Reservior: "We caught those stinking little perch trolling" was one of many reports we gained in a telephone search.

Fish Creek Reservior: Robin Hoyle, Twin Falls, reports catching one nice two-pounder but the vast majority of the fish being taken were around six inches.

Cat fishing at Wilson and Murlaugh lakes has been good. Most of this fishing has been at night and a recent state record for yellow bullhead recorded. Stink bait and night crawlers are being used.

Be prepared for bugs and a lot of smoke from the campfires these fishermen use.
