Burning interest

One of the panelists at a Wednesday night drug seminar held at O'Leary Junior High School was Twin Falls Police Department Detective

Howard Elliott. He familiarized people with the smell of burning marijuana after the discussion and also demonstrated various kinds of drug paraphernalia his department has collected in raids and arrests. For a complete story on the seminar, turn to Page B1.

Filibustering Demos reject farm aid plan

By JIM DRINKARD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Filibustering farm-state senators failed Thursday to reach agreement with the Reagan administration on improved credit aid for the nation's farmers, while the president promised "we won't pull the rug out" from under financially ailing producers.

The Senate Democratic Caucus unanimously rejected an attempt to settle the credit issue and end a two-day filibuster that has blocked confirmation of Edwin Meese as attorney general and held up a $7 billion highway bill. Subsequent negotiations failed to revive the compromise, and filibuster leaders vowed to talk on.

More meetings were scheduled for today. Several Senate Republicans, including Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., were urging the administration to implement its earlier offer without Democratic agreement in an attempt to wrest away the political advantage.

"It leaves them (the Democrats) standing out there naked," Dole said. "It ought to be over now."

At a nationally televised news conference Thursday night, Reagan said he supports the $650 million loan-guarantee program the administration announced two weeks ago, and called it adequate to meet the current credit crisis.

For the long term, Reagan said, the administration would propose legislation Friday designed to get "the farm economy back into the free marketplace" by eliminating many government price support payments to farmers.

"We won't pull the rug out from under anyone instantly," he said of the farmers. But we added, "many of the problems they face today are the result of government involvement."

Following Reagan's address, Senate Democrats continued their filibuster late into the night.

"They're ready to go to the wall," Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., said of filibuster organizers. "There's absolute unanimity that they're not going to yield the filibuster absent many more concessions from the administration."

"As far as I'm concerned, it's not too good a package," Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., said of the proffered credit program.

Many Democrats said their objections stemmed partly from a letter from Agriculture Secretary John Block, supporting the terms of the agreement, which Melcher called "rather insulting."

The proposed agreement promised that the administration would provide adequate money for both direct and guaranteed farm operating loans, money that would be used for spring planting. Such assurances have been given repeatedly and publicly by Block over the past several weeks.

Also formed was a softening of conditions farmers must meet to receive federal loan guarantees.

Tuition tax credits vanish for session

By QUANE KENYON
The Associated Press

BOISE — Facing almost-certain defeat Thursday, Rep. J.F. "Chad" Chadband withdrew his legislation granting tuition tax credits to parents who send their children to private and parochial schools.

But Chadband, R-Idaho Falls, says he still feels tuition tax credit is a good idea, and hopes it will grow in popularity as it gets more exposure.

Chadband was proposing to grant credits against state income taxes up to $1,000 for secondary students, and up to $700 for elementary students, for parents enrolling children in parochial and private schools.

But opponents argued the measure could be devastating to state public schools, in a time when the Legislature was scrambling to find every dollar it could for education. And other representatives argued it was wrong, philosophically, for public funds to be used to support private schools.

"The Constitution says we shall provide free public schools for our citizens," said Rep. Kathleen "Kitty" Gurnsey, R-Boise. "It doesn't say we must provide private schools and finance them."

"The timing is all wrong," said Rep. Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls. "We have too many irons in the fire" to be able to afford the proposal, he said.

Rep. Mack Neilaur, R-Paul, tried to put the proposal up for amendment, to lower the tax credits. That lost on a 49-34 vote just before the noon recess.

When the House went back in session late in the day, Chadband acknowledged defeat, and eventually won permission to send the bill back to committee.

Once the amending motion lost, Chadband said, which would have strengthened the bill, he realized the effort was lost.

"But I think we made more progress this year," he said.

He said he hopes the proposal can get more exposure after the session, with perhaps more success in the future.

Noh among principals in school fund drive

The Associated Press

BOISE — A former University of Idaho student body president who was not to study under renowned scholars in Chicago and now raises sheep near Twin Falls is pegged as one of the Legislature's principal figures in the push for higher funding of public schools.

Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, says that "we may have let things slip way too far" in state support for education.

He was a major opponent of the $250 million public schools budget the Idaho Senate has defeated. The Senate Education Committee, of which Noh is vice chairman, earlier had taken an advisory vote unanimously opting for a $306 million budget.

State School Superintendent Jerry Evans describes Noh as "a very key player in the determination of funding for our schools."

It's not surprising that Noh pushes hard for education.

After studying finance and agriculture at the University of Idaho, he went to the University of Chicago, where he earned a master's degree in business administration in 1963. His professors included Milton Friedman and George Schultz.

Former Sen. John Barker, a Buhl Republican, calling Noh a teacher who is good at explaining things and "I don't mean one of the highfalutin' professors who can't do anything."

Noh also is a key leader in resource issues as chairman of the Senate Resources & Environment Committee.

Plans to keep Stockman as budget chief Reagan denounces Sandinistas again

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
The Associated Press

Highlights of session — A2

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, asked if he seeks the overthrow of the Nicaragua government, said Thursday night that Sandinista leaders don't have "a decent leg to stand on," but their ouster would not be necessary "if they say uncle" and return to the goals of their revolution.

"What they have done is total. It is brutal, it is cruel and they have no argument against what the rest of the people in Nicaragua want," Reagan told a news conference in his harshest denunciation to date of the leftist government.

At the first nationally televised news conference of his second term, the president also said he would not "pull the rug out... instantly" from under the nation's farmers, and said he plans to retain his controversial budget director, David Stockman.

The president said that while his administration will support $650 million in short-term relief for strapped farmers, his overall goal is to return the "farm economy into the free marketplace."

Reagan's denunciation of the Sandinista government was his second within a week. On Saturday, he called the U.S.-backed "contras" seeking to overthrow the regime "our brothers."

This time, he said his goal in Nicaragua is to remove the Sandinista government "in the sense of its present structure," but said he would not seek to oust the government "if they say uncle."

"It is not a government chosen by the people... we believe we have an obligation to be of help where we can... and we're going to try to persuade the Congress that we can legitimately go forward," he said.

Reagan said America's goal in the Central American nation is to help "those who fought a revolution to escape a dictatorship to have a democracy and then had it taken away from them by some of their fellow revolutionaries."

"We are saying we want them to have a chance to have a democracy that they fought for. I don't think the Sandinistas have a decent leg to stand on."

Reagan also renewed his call for Congress to pass tax overhaul legislation this year, and summoned the "political courage" needed to enact his program of spending cuts.

Idaho wildlife loses a long-time friend

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho wildlife has lost one of its best friends.

That was the continuing thread of comments coming from all parts of the state Thursday upon news of the death of Steve Herrett, Twin Falls, inventor, businessman, outdoorsman and conservationist.

"He was a friend of wildlife to his last breath," said Jerry Conley, Idaho Fish and Game Department director. "Idaho has lost a great wildlife spokesman."

"He was one of the finest commissioners I've ever had a chance to be around and I've been around commissioners in five or six states," Conley said. "He looked the part. He was everyone's idea of what a commissioner should look like but more importantly, he was what a commissioner should be... concerned about the resource."

"He spent his own money and his own time to help wildlife. His wildlife research fund is a typical example. He could have stuck a lot of money in his own pocket but instead he turned it over to wildlife," Conley said.

"He came into my office on his way to having his operation (in Boise) and instead of being concerned with the surgery, he was concerned about our relationship with the cattlemen and other livestock groups and outdoorsmen," he said.

Seldom does any life accomplish the scope Herrett crammed into his life. From the time he spent all his money as a young boy in South Dakota to buy his first pistol until the day he died, his world revolved around the outdoors, ballistics and guns.

He made a fortune as a handgun stock manufacturer, won the highest national honors the shooting world can bestow, and at the end was busily putting back into the shooting and outdoor world everything he claimed he had obtained from it.

One of three remarkably inventive and highly successful brothers, Herrett started out as a South Dakota ranch kid, hired himself out for "cowboying" in his early years and began tinkering with guns at an age when most youngsters are mastering riding a bicycle.

He began serious work on handgun stocks while stationed in Panama during World War II. By inventing and modifying existing woodworking machines, Herrett brought the custom gun stock into the budget of the average handgunner and his fame blossomed in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

While those alone were enough to assure his financial success, the inventor tinkered continued into the field of shooting, expanding into rifle stocks, turning out huge service orders for the federal government.

News conference highlights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are highlights of President Reagan's nationally televised news conference Thursday evening.

FARMERS
The president said he did not plan to "pull the rug out . . . instantly" from under American farmers, but that he intended to scrap expensive government agriculture programs that haven't worked. Reagan said he planned to return the "farm economy into the free marketplace."

Reagan said he supported a short-term, $650 million program of loans and loan guarantees.

NICARAGUA
Reagan said opponents of Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government deserve U.S. military aid to give them "a chance to have that democracy that they fought for."
"I don't think the Sandinistas have a decent leg to stand on," Reagan said. "What they have done is totalitarianism, it is brutal, it is cruel and they have no argument against what the rest of the people of Nicaragua want."

Reagan said members of Congress who voted a ban on covert U.S. aid to the rebels "lack a complete understanding of what is at stake there and what we are trying to do." Asked if he supported the removal of the Sandinista government, Reagan said "remove in the sense of its present structure in that it is a communist, totalitarian state."

STOCKMAN
The president told reporters had wanted — to keep Budget Director David Stockman even though he angered environmental farmers by questioning their right to government subsidies and incurred the wrath of the military by advocating a reduction in veterans' pensions.
"I understand a guy having his cool," said Reagan, who noted that Stockman had apologized for some of his remarks.

BUDGET AND TAXES
In an opening statement, Reagan hailed the nation's economic recovery and urged passage of tax simplification and spending cuts to "prolong and protect" prosperity.

He said the nation must summon the "political courage" needed to enact spending cuts that would reduce the federal deficit by $50 billion next year.

The president repeated his opposition to tax increases saying "that issue was debated and decided on Nov. 6. We intend to proceed with the mandate" he received in his landslide re-election victory.

ARMS CONTROL
Reagan said the United States intended to honor current, ratified arms control agreements while engaging in talks with the Soviet Union for new treaties. But the president said a decision would be made in a few months whether the United States would join the Soviet Union in "violating" the unratified SALT II agreement.

"We are going to stay with the treaties that are in effect, ratified, in power," Reagan said. "We will have a decision several months from now to make, with regard to whether we join them (the Soviets) in violating restraints" on the number of long-range nuclear weapon launchers.

and becoming expert on the matter of ballistics.
Some of the pistols and rifles used today are part of the memorial he leaves in the gun world.

Throughout this time, Herrett, guns being his first love but also his avocation, pursued hunting as a vocation and that led him to virtually all parts of the world.

But Herrett was not a trophy hunter. His interest largely was in the short-lived species "because they reproduce faster and hunting them has less impact on those populations." Mostly, he was a bird hunter and his trips throughout the land largely stemmed from the fact: "I don't want to go, but my dog does."

With all the national and international acclamation he attained, Herrett maintained he was not an expert in Magic Valley "because you have to be more than 50 miles from home to be classified as an expert."

As his business prospered, Herrett announced that he was taking himself out of the day-to-day operation of his business "because I feel it is time to start paying back" America's outdoorsmen and wildlife for the life they have provided him.

He entered the politically clouded conservation field with all the intensity he exhibited as a businessman. The first major step arrived when he was appointed to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission.

He was unwavering in his goal of "putting the resource first."

But as the heart trouble that eventually killed him left him less active, he turned to his crowning conservation effort. He resigned from the commission and put virtually everything else on the backburner as he fought to establish an economically-viable fund that would be dedicated to wildlife research.

"This is the area we've fallen too far behind in," he said at the time. "The demands for department funds in all the areas it serves doesn't leave much left for studies and research. I believe that research is the major hope of maintaining huntable wildlife populations here and throughout the world."

With that as his basis, Herrett designed a "one-of-a-kind" commemorative handgun stock, numbered them and put them on the market.

While the idea did not sell out overnight, one of his greatest satisfactions was that Idahoans purchased the largest number.

His goal was to establish a $500,000 self-perpetuating fund, which he hoped would be augmented by contributions from outside sources, private business and outdoor appointed groups.

With the $500,000 he called "seed money," Herrett's plan was to conduct nationwide in scope. He hoped for the day the fund would grow to sufficient size that its income could provide hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to underwrite worthy wildlife studies.

At the same time, Herrett went to the men he considered the outstanding experts in their fields, biologists from universities, financial, outdoor and wildlife-oriented experts. He begged and enticed them into forming a committee that would evaluate and have the final decision on which projects merited financial participation. It was the dream he wanted most to fulfill. The dream he spent the last three years of his life building. His last effort toward that end probably contributed to an earlier demise.

But he always had acknowledged that time was his greatest enemy. And on the day he died, his wildlife research project was as solid, strong and permanent as he could make it.

Others, particularly his friends on the Idaho Commission and the Idaho Department of Fish and Game, will see to its completion.
White Mortuary at Twin Falls is in charge of funeral arrangements, which will be announced in Saturday's edition of The Times-News.

Jury convicts Yarbrough

BOISE (AP) — A vowed white separatist Gary Yarbrough, who described himself as a "frontline Aryan warrior," was convicted on Thursday of an assault charge filed after FBI agents said he fired a gun at them.

Jurors deliberated five hours before returning a verdict at 9:25 p.m. MST.

Yarbrough faces a possible penalty of 10 years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

"I was hopeful . . . I think he was hopeful also," defense attorney James Kaufman said of the mood shared by he and his client before the verdict was announced.

Yarbrough, whose friends were in the courtroom, sat quietly as the verdict was read.

Regent criticizes presidents

BOISE (AP) — A member of the Idaho Board of Education criticized Idaho's four higher education institution presidents Thursday for what he called their lack of management.

Demis Wheeler of Wallace said Thursday at a meeting of the board's personnel-administrative subcommittee that Idaho's higher education institutions are too eager to develop new academic programs. He said the institutions often develop those programs at the expense of existing programs that are central to the institutional role, as designated by the board two years ago.

The specific focus of Wheeler's dissent was a geophysics master's degree program offered jointly by Boise State University and Idaho State University.

"He's not an old mossback. He's looking into the future," said Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, a rancher and leader of the opposing Senate faction on Swan Falls.

Noh, 46, calls himself an "objective conservative."
A person of that stripe "has to have the ability to honestly evaluate when the governmental cost is too thin as well as too fat," he said.

Some observers regard Noh as more of a moderate than a conservative, and one legislator, Sen. Reed

Budge, R-Soda Springs, said "liberal" is too kind a description for Noh when it comes to education financing.

Budge said Noh is "irresponsible" on spending for education because he wants to "give away the store," and apparently is willing to support a tax increase.

Budge, who said Noh helped unseat him two years ago as Senate president pro-tem, also describes the Noh as a sound thinker on many other matters.

Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, who managed Noh's campaign for student body president at the University of Idaho, said he figured when they were at the school that Noh would run for office someday.

Noh ran for the Legislature in 1980, using "Eve All Vote for Laird" as a slogan to lure voters. He also took with him on the campaign trial a friendly sheep, which he said was more of an attraction than he.

Murray Haydon's daughter, Anita Daugherty, and husband Rick feel Schroeder's heartbeat

Schroeder readies for return with 2nd trip outside hospital

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) -- William Schroeder, looking tired but saying he felt "real fine," took a second brief trip outside the hospital in a wheelchair Thursday, smiling and waving at reporters.

"We're going to live a normal life... I know it's going to work," said his wife, Margaret, who accompanied him on the 10-minute excursion.

Meanwhile, doctors said Schroeder's only peer, artificial heart recipient Murray Haydon, was recovering well but experiencing fatigue and minor kidney failure.

Schroeder, who was taken outside as a step in preparing him for his eventual return home, wore a black beret given to him by Dr. Robert Jarvik, the inventor of the heart that Schroeder received 89 days ago.

Laura Wood, a nurse who walked beside him, said he whispered to her that he "feels real fine."

Schroeder became the first artificial heart recipient to leave the hospital when he took a short trip to the parking lot on Tuesday.

"He was taken out the employees' entrance of the hospital accompanied by Lawrence Hastings, an engineer, carrying the portable power supply for the heart. The flexible tubes that link the power supply to the heart emerged from beneath a beige jacket Schroeder wore to protect him from a chilly wind. He waved several times and acknowledged the small group of reporters with smiles.

Told that her husband looked good, Mrs. Schroeder said, "We just are trying to keep him that way. I'll let you in on a little secret -- he got his dentures and it helped him tremendously" in his efforts to speak, she said.

Asked whether she was looking forward to returning with her husband to their hometown of Jasper, Ind., she said "Oh, that will be the day."

Haydon, who received the world's third artificial heart implant on Sunday, was recovering from a smooth recovery, but was fatigued by the effort of sitting up in bed and had mild kidney failure that should clear up without treatment, said Dr. Allan M. Lansing, chairman of Humana Heart Institute International.

A kidney specialist, Dr. Sidney Marcum, believes the problem, which existed before Haydon's operation, is due to his poor condition before the implant and the stress of the operation itself, Lansing said.

Haydon received a transfusion of red blood cells Wednesday to counteract normal damage caused by the heart-lung bypass machine that kept him alive during surgery Sunday, Lansing said.

He is also being given intravenous feedings to help him recover from his sudden loss of 25 pounds in the month before his surgery, Lansing said.

Haydon is now being sustained by the 323-pound Utahdrive system, the size of a small refrigerator.

Reagan tabs Sprinkel to head CEA

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON -- President Reagan, taking the first step to revive the Council of Economic Advisers he once considered abolishing, Thursday nominated Undersecretary of the Treasury Beryl Sprinkel to be chairman of the panel.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan will quickly fill the remaining two vacancies on the council and increase its professional staff. "It had really fallen into disuse," Speakes said.

Sprinkel, 61, would succeed Martin A. Feldstein, who resigned last July to return to teaching at Harvard University after a controversial tenure. Feldstein frequently angered other White House officials with his gloomy warnings about the dangers of huge budget deficits.

At the Department of the Treasury, Sprinkel was a frequent critic of the Federal Reserve, contending that its failure at times to keep money growth within its target ranges has fostered economic instability. Educated at the University of Chicago, where the economics department has been dominated by the views of conservative free-market economist Milton Friedman, Sprinkel is a monetarist economist who believes that changes in economic output are almost exclusively determined by changes in the money supply.

Flu outbreaks spread over nation

ATLANTA (AP) -- Eleven states reported widespread influenza outbreaks last week, and more than 800 people died of flu or pneumonia, the national Centers for Disease Control said Thursday.

The CDC said flu was widespread in Florida, Hawaii, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Another 17 states reported smaller outbreaks, for the week ending Feb. 16, the CDC said Thursday in its weekly report.

This season's predominant influenza strain is what researchers call A-H3N2, or the Philippines flu, which typically strikes young and old alike. Forty-four states have reported it this fall and winter.

"The number of Philippines flu viruses "has increased sharply" since late January, the health agency said.

Another measure of the flu season's severity, the percentage of deaths attributable to flu and pneumonia, remains higher than normal, the CDC said.

Of all the deaths reported from 121 major U.S. cities last week, 94, or 6.8 percent, were because of flu and pneumonia. That was down slightly from the previous week's 6.9 percent.

Secrets slipping away to Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The Defense Department and two other federal agencies are allowing "tens of thousands" of military and technical secrets to reach Soviet hands by failing to properly check government documents before they are declassified, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige has complained.

Baldrige said the material was being obtained by the Soviets through the Commerce Department's National Technical Information Service, which serves as a clearinghouse for declassified government technical and scientific studies.

TMI fuels melted in the core

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) -- Scientists disclosed for the first time Thursday that some nuclear fuel melted in the reactor core during the 1979 accident at Three Mile Island.

Recent studies of rubble taken from the core show that temperatures reached about 5,100 degrees Fahrenheit, said Harold Burton, TMI project manager for EG&G Idaho, a contractor hired by the U.S. Department of Energy.

Previous examinations had indicated a maximum temperature of 4,700 degrees.

But Burton and officials for GPU Nuclear Corp., TMI's operator, said the melting of fuel did not mean the plant was close to a "melt-down." A meltdown could result in the release of dangerous radiation outside the plant.

"The idea of a meltdown, which is a breach of the reactor vessel, clearly did not occur," said Frank Standerfer, vice president of GPU Nuclear.

In a prepared statement, EG&G said it was not clear how much of the core reached 5,100 degrees, and said further conclusions awaited additional evaluations.

Burton's announcement came at a news conference held by GPU to show television pictures taken for the first time underneath the core that showed fist-sized chunks of rubble, perhaps including some molten nuclear fuel, fell from the reactor core during the accident.

The videotape indicated a three-foot-deep bed of debris at the bottom of the steel vessel that contains the core.

During the accident -- the nation's worst at a commercial nuclear power plant -- the core of the Unit 2 reactor overheated when it was no longer covered with vital cooling water.

Previous studies had indicated that metal parts, but not the uranium fuel, had melted.

GPU officials said that in order for a meltdown to have occurred, the fuel would have had to melt through the six-inch-thick steel vessel and through the concrete bottom of the reactor building. Such an occurrence could have released large amounts of radiation to the environment.

Latest bailout won't help much

Already in trouble over its intent to raise defense spending even further, the Reagan administration found out this week just how tough Congress can be when it effectively lost ground in its effort to curb farm credit payments.

Instead of a united front to reduce the deficit — which is one of the few steps which would actually help the farmer by lowering interest rates and reducing imports — a coalition of both Republican and Democratic congressmen set up a howl about saving the family farm.

How do they plan to do this? You guessed it, by going to the taxpayer again for another $1 billion in what amounts to bailout money, euphemistically called "farm loan guarantees."

All this will do, in our view, is make matters worse. It will prolong in business those marginal farm operations which ought to be pruned off.

Furthermore, the furor over more help for farmers shows just how difficult it will be for any real progress to be made on the deficit as a whole.

The reason, as a recent study by the Heritage Foundation points out, is that the thousands of factions, lobbies and special interest groups in the American economy are all finely tuned toward protecting their respective interests.

That is particularly true of agriculture. The various farm lobbies have had more than a half-century of practice on maintaining price supports and assorted programs, all of which come from the largesse of Congress.

This time, facing a real threat from the administration, notice how quickly they've been able to organize and probably pass yet another bill which will cost us all that much more.

Why, you might ask, doesn't the large, silent mass of Americans out there who want this kind of deficit spending to end have the clout to make it happen?

The answer is in the size and silence. Congress responds, like most of us, to that heat which is warmest and closest. The mass of Americans wants the deficit to come down, but that opinion isn't organized, expressed or conveyed effectively.

Can it be? Maybe. One of the genuine revolutions of the Reagan administration is the pushing back on us all the costs of government. When we really see what they will cost, we can then decide if we want them.

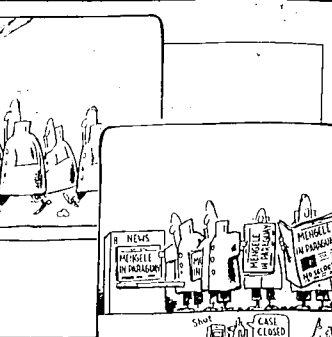

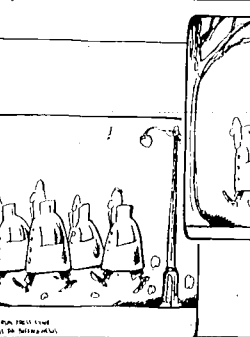

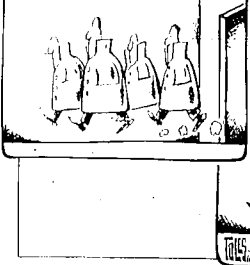

If we each had to decide whether or not to each pay, say $500 out of pocket for a new Snake River bridge, we would examine the need closely. But if the bridge were built from "federal funds," would we howl as much? Probably not.

By pushing the decision process back to states and local governments, the administration will get it all thinking a lot more about costs. Then, when someone like the farmers start to ram through another $1 billion in deficit bailout money, our loud "no" voice can be heard.

But that isn't going to happen this time.

Dinosaur of a small school the enemy

We, too, attended the Kimberly, Hansen and Murtaugh school consolidation meeting at Murtaugh, Feb. 2. We drew a few conclusions from the presentation we feel are worthy of consideration.

We don't think Tom Andersen is a true authority or expert on the issues of consolidation in this community.

We were told in that meeting that a school was probably going to have to be built. All of the buildings in question are 60 years old. We could build as a consolidated effort or build on our own. Taxes are going to remain the same, no matter which way we build. These statements concerning "taking on Kimberly and Hansen's debt" are misleading.

We can vote in consolidation, but not necessarily vote in taking on the other schools' debt. These communities aren't giving away this debt. They have to pay these debts, no matter what.

We farmers do know and have a say in our taxes, contrary to Ron, who is not even a property owner. There are some of us smart enough to see that our Legislature has warned us of the future of small schools and can see, consolidated or not, we are going to have to build a school.

How long do you people think the Legislature is going to keep doling out $2,400 per student to educate as loyal Murtaugh people and $900 per student in Twin Falls? It won't be forever. Can't you see why the Legislature is looking to small schools to cut costs? We did pass a law limiting their ability to raise taxes, so now isn't it our turn to help?

All these former athletes we have rage on about losing the Red Devil identity. They aren't thinking of their children's future. Have they stopped to think about where they will send these little Devils to play these games? We will have to bus them further than Hansen, maybe even hundreds of miles, to compete with other small schools.

Carl and Jane Toupin Guest opinion

Why can't these athletes see that football and basketball aren't the only sport in life? They are small character builders for later life, and you may find more activities! We are talking about lifetime sports, golf, bowling, baseball, tennis, archery, skiing, karate and maybe even art, music and madrigals. Granted that not all children will be able to use everything, but at least they will have a choice which they don't have now. Small schools have small staffs and small programs.

The other term used to scare Murtaugh people is "sending your kids to school in Kimberly."

Another misconception? If these people had listened to the board, they would have heard that the school would probably be built in Hansen. If we work with consolidation we will have a choice. This is to make it more attractive to busing and alleviate the petty rivalry of Kimberly.

Kimberly is not an enemy, our enemy is the dinosaur of a small school.

We have talked to people already in a consolidated system. There are more good points than bad. The Eden-Hazelton people will tell you how opposed they were to consolidation, but now after these few years, what a vast improvement it has been to them, and more importantly, their children. Today, these kids have as much pride in their Vikings as they ever did for Eden and Hazelton. The parents have rallied around the school as much as the students and their school. Neither Eden nor Hazelton has died either. This community fluctuates, up and down, from one generation to another with school kids. We have a surplus of kids in grade school now, but by the time these kids graduate, most of the "hired man's kids" have moved on and we graduate the same amount.

Anyone who thinks Murtaugh will grow is only kidding themselves. This is it! Whether we have a school or not, the farmer is still going into the local hardware store to buy a part, or to the local stores for a quart of milk, or the local pub for a beer. If the school isn't there doesn't mean we will go somewhere else for these necessities. We have no other outlook for anything, besides a new small school, controlled by a group of small manipulated people, thinking only of one way. They are afraid of losing control of their people. They aren't thinking of their children's education.

We believe these kids should be introduced to a wide variety of education, people and especially in a campus type atmosphere, with activities of their own choice. We aren't kidding ourselves that there won't be any problems, because there will be. If these religious people have laid a good foundation in their homes, and strictly through their church, these problems will work themselves out.

Ron, you may have a lot of people rallying behind you, but please don't think you represent all the Murtaugh people. You staged a well-planned attack on these board members, who were trying to give you facts about consolidation, with the pretense of being "open-minded." Some of us were ashamed and would like to apologize to these board members. More importantly, we need to keep this issue alive and working.

Rookies offer progressive taxing ideas

Have you a progressive tax notion? How about yours in the Idaho Legislature, chances are you may be a rookie member of the Magic Valley delegation.

Two lawmakers fitting that description have entered the budget fray, each floating revenue-raising proposals that differ significantly from those enacted during the Legislature's last two regular sessions.

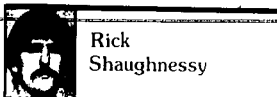

Rep. Gary Robbins, R-Dietrich, has taken the lead in the push to impose quarterly collections of income taxes on corporations doing business in Idaho. While that concept isn't progressive in the classic sense of the term it is striking contrast to the regressive sales tax increases approved by lawmakers in 1983 and 1984.

Progressive taxes are those taxes which are levied at an increasing rate as the income of the taxpayer increases. More simply put, they are taxes that hit the multi-millionaire proportionately harder than they do the minimum-wage earner.

Regressive taxes do exactly the opposite. They are levied at a decreasing rate as a taxpayer's income increases.

Sales taxes — the tax of choice during the two-year reign of the last Idaho Legislature — are considered regressive because society's income earners at the lower end of the scale generally spend a higher percentage of their income on taxable goods than do those who earn more. Consequently, lower-income taxpayers pay a higher percentage of their income in sales tax than do their more-affluent counterparts.

Hobbs' proposal isn't original and its roots are not Republican. It was proposed by Gov. John Evans in his budget speech last December. But it is regarded by many as the "going-home bill," the measure that will provide lawmakers with the extra money needed to adequately fund education and to end the legislative session.

Carrying that bill is a significant responsibility for the Lincoln County CPA and dairyman whose legislative experience spans all 46 days, including weekends.

"I just happen to have the background. I can explain it," Robbins says of his self-appointment to the task of carrying the collections bill. His explanation in favor of the proposal is an equity argument.

Wage earners pay state sales taxes with each paycheck, while corporations and other earners of non-wage income pay tax once each year, he says.

If the collections proposal doesn't fly, Robbins says, sales tax increases probably will. "I object to that. It's regressive. It's an easy way out," he says.

However, other non-regressive options exist. Enter Sen. Lynn Tominga, R-Pant, another Magic Valley rookie, who sits on the Senate's tax committee. Tominga has a genuine progressive notion: repeal the state's grocery tax credit for individuals at upper-income levels.

The proposal would make the sales tax less regressive since low-income earners would get part of their sales tax back while upper-income earners would not.

The state could net an additional $2.1 million to $6.6 million in the next fiscal year, depending on the income level at which the threshold is established, says Tominga, a Mindokota County sugar-beet farmer. "One of the things we have to consider is the middle- and upper-income people afford to pay taxes more than lower-income people!" Tominga asks rhetorically in support of his proposal.

But assessing the likely obstacles to the measure, Tominga answers that question as he expects other lawmakers might.

"A philosophy of this Legislature is 'you don't give special preference to certain select income groups, whether high or low.' You try treating everyone equally, whether they're earning $10,000 a year or $1,000 a year," he says.

In addition to their progressive elements, Robbins' and Tominga's proposals have another common link: Both intend to collect additional money from those who support providing more money to education.

Tominga says his middle- and upper-income constituents favor raising taxes to provide more money for education. Robbins makes a similar case for corporations, which, he says, have similarly expressed support for improving education funding. "It's an expensive way for them to support education," he says.

Both measures could flop. There is clearly a strong segment of the Idaho Legislature that wants no increase in the state budget above the $575.2 million expected to accrue to the state next year.

But if nothing else comes of them, the proposals signal new life and new ideas are present and surfacing in a venerable old institution that has recently been synonymous with stiffness and a lack of initiative.

Community effort aids battle

Thanks to a community effort, the American Cancer Society's annual Singing Valentines reached its "best year ever!"

Among those who helped make the event such a success, are Leo Muller and Valerie Masse of KMYT-TV, who spent hours producing one of the best public service announcements ever! Special thanks also to Times-News photographer Sky Swanson, who printed a great photo in your paper. KJJK radio announcers Dennis Conrad and Dave Winters went above and beyond the call of duty in helping promote the event. But of course, our biggest thanks to the many volunteers who graciously gave their time and energy delivering singing valentines. The Magic Valley Dilettantes cast and crew members like Marty Strommer, Kevin Glenn, Vanita Helms and Shinawa Fuller, along with CSI students Julie Jones, Lorie Joseph and Kris Braun became our most valued volunteers.

These caring people dressed up in funny costumes, drew all over town and delivered songs of love and laughter.

In addition, volunteer celebrities like Mike Dolton, Bill Burns, Monica Hannen, Peter Colford, Rick Strickland and the Kluk Klucker were fabulous! Our special thanks to the local merchants who donated valentine gifts — Judy's Books, The Cake Boutique, Jensen's Jewellers, Fredrickson's and Julie's Flowers. Hart's Wedding Village donated the treasures for three of our celebrities, and we are warmly thanked for their unbridled patience and generosity. Radio stations KTFI, KEEF, KAIC and KMYT-TV's news staff are owed many thanks as well. Because of the community effort involved, because of the continuing financial support and energy Magic Valley gives, we are winning the fight against cancer! Thanks.

This amendment should lose

A proposal to provide public hospitals in Idaho with an exemption to the state's Open Meeting Law is heading to the Senate floor for a vote.

I trust that Idaho taxpayers will understand the impact of this bill if passed by both the House and Senate and then signed into law. The impact is far more significant than inter-hospital competition. It will be a significant gain for corporations such as Hospital Corporation of America, which manages Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, to continue to drive our own county into competing in businesses that can operate much more efficiently and at a lesser cost by private enterprise.

May I remind you that Magic Valley Regional Medical Center remains our County Hospital. If its Board and our County Commissioners do not wish to operate it or any other county business, without the taxpayer listening to their planning strategies, then perhaps it's time to let private enterprise purchase or lease the hospital. Until then, we must demand that the planning of our County Hospital's future remains in the "public eye!" Let's urge our Senators to defeat this issue which has been so "healthily lobbed" by the Idaho Hospital Association.

Israel under old covenant

I can sympathize with Sid Magill in his letter, "Intolerance Understood" (T.N., Feb. 15). But I probably know more about Jewish people, and I am a Gentile.

None but the finest spirits in Israel ever rose above a lazy class consciousness. Racially Israel is still under the covenant made at Sinai in Moses' time; they agreed to keep their half. This was for training purposes, to show that the best of humanity cannot measure up to a righteous standard apart from the divine enabling. I am glad it was not selected to undergo this test; the result would have been a profound failure. This is one of the reasons Israel has my love and sympathy.

The new covenant that will be made with Israel will make all the difference in the world. There have never been any super-races; but there will be when Israel receives the divine enabling. What Moses thought was scarcely attainable will be a fact. Israel will finally pass from being "Jacob's" to prince with God. Under Messiah they will be the instrument for righting all the wrongs in the world.

When will this be? When the Gentiles finally reject the greatest grace ever known and become a dry branch (as far as light-bearing is concerned).

Fish and Game under attack

The current Legislature in Boise appears to be intent on steamrolling just about any opposing political position. The Idaho Department of Fish and Game has come under fire from the Legislature because of its published opposition to road construction into roadless areas. Senate Bill 1140 would effectively cripple the Department of Fish and Game by bogging them down in a swamp of paperwork. This bill would also place the department back into the political arena from which it has been free since 1984. It would be a step backward. This legislation is not constructive. In addition, Joint Resolution No. 14 was very critical of a group that does what they can to maintain outdoor activities under difficult circumstances and limited budgets.

Decline illustrates situation

Commenting on the "farm problem," just a few years ago, 38 percent of the North American male members of the Mennonite church farmed. Only 19 percent of the men farm now, and most of them find themselves in situations similar to those American farmers at large, who now account for only three percent of the American male population.

With a reputation for producing frugal and successful farmers, this Mennonite decline in farmers underscores the seriousness of the inefficient Larry Hardy applies to the Mennonite elite, and these that advocate large corporate farms will hasten the day America will seek another revolution.

Sales tax structure change turns into complicated problem

BOISE (AP) — What started out as a simple process for the Idaho Legislature, clearing up a conflict in the sales tax laws, has turned into a complicated problem.

Idaho now has two conflicting 1984 laws, one stating that sales for 11 cents or less aren't subject to the sales tax and another setting the minimum figure at 15 cents.

The Idaho Tax Commission has opted to enforce the lower figure on the basis that it was the last law to pass.

On Thursday the House Revenue and Taxation Committee voted to send a bill correcting the problem to the House floor for amendment. It will be amended to state that sales under 11 cents are exempt from the tax. But the committee debated again on Thursday whether newspapers should have some as wholesalers, the papers themselves have no legal obligation to collect sales taxes, because that is supposed to be imposed at the retail sale level.

There was discussion of writing a specific newspaper exemption into the bill, but the final action did not include that. Any amendment can be proposed to the bill when it comes up for amendment.

Some members argued it didn't make much difference, because few items sell for 11 cents or less, anyway.

Roy Mosman, Moscow attorney representing newspapers, told the committee it must do something, because the conflicts in current law make it unenforceable.

Without an exemption for papers, he said, the state could be forcing thousands of newspaper carriers to collect sales tax and deal with the State Tax Commission. After a Texas court ruling, he said, that state wound up with 30,000 carriers collecting taxes and submitting them to the state.

He said newspaper carriers are independent contractors, not employees of papers. To make carriers employees would subject papers to much "baggage," extra costs which would have to be passed on to readers.

Some of the committee's discussion has been centered on what it would cost the state's retailers to change cash registers, if the minimum transaction level were changed. Tim Brienan, executive director of the Idaho Retailers Association, said retailers feel it would cost $200,000 to $300,000 to change registers.

Alvin Ricken, publisher of the Idaho State Journal, Pocatello, said a retailer in his city said the change could be made "in a matter of minutes" for many stores. Statewide, the changeover cost shouldn't be as high as Brienan's estimate, Ricken said.

Rep. Harold Reid, D-Craigmont, contended there is a special state law that says newspapers can be treated "as the ultimate retailer" if there's confusion about collecting sales taxes.

And Tax Commission employee Ted Spangler said research into the 1965 proceedings when Idaho first adopted a sales tax indicated the Legislature meant to tax newspaper subscriptions.

Briefly

Home school proposal backed

BOISE (AP) — Bolstered by a victory in the House last week, the proponents of a major change in the state's law governing home education have taken their case to the Idaho Senate.

"The First Amendment is really what we're standing on," Rep. Robert Forrey, R-Nampa, told the Senate Education Committee Thursday in arguing adoption of his bill removing the requirement that home schools provide an education comparable to that offered in public or private schools.

The bill, which passed the House last week with only a handful of dissenting votes, is spurred by last fall's three-week jailing of three New Plymouth brothers and their wives for refusing to provide an approved education for their 16 school-age children.

Forrey's bill would repeal the mandate that home education be comparable to that offered in public schools as determined by the local school board and replace it with a requirement that parents merely make a "good faith" effort to provide an adequate education for their children if they choose the home school method. Officials estimate some 3,000 to 5,000 of the quarter million school-age children in Idaho are attending home schools.

Committee Chairman Terry Stervsten, R-Cataldo, said action on the measure will be delayed for at least several days.

State parks get improvements

BOISE (AP) — Despite no assurances from their colleagues that a revenue increase is on the way, legislative budget writers have approved additional general tax money for parks and other programs in the state.

In trying to wrap up drafting of the bulk of the 1985-1986 state budget by the end of the month, the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee agreed Thursday to provide $136,000 for improvements at Heyburn, Harriman, Eagle Island and Farragut state parks and construction of a new state park on Bear Lake.

The panel agreed to expand the Parks and Recreation Department's maintenance and construction crew from one to four but it rejected Gov. John Evans' recommendation that another six employees including four park rangers be added to the staff.

In the Water Resources Department budget, the panel approved financing for a new hydrologist who will concentrate on the increasing problem of water mining in the southern part of the state where the groundwater table in some areas has been dropping rapidly in recent years.

Timber cuts may be expanded

BOISE (AP) — With the prospect of state timber sales heightened by the dispute over additional federal wilderness in Idaho, legislative budget writers have approved a plan to expand the traditional timber cut by 14 percent.

The panel on Thursday approved the $125,000 for three more full-time state foresters and temporary help the Lands Department needs to increase the timber cut on state-owned land from 165 million to 185 million board feet.

The increased cut should yield another $2 million a year to the special state endowments generally earmarked for support of the education system.

Computer tax break given OK

BOISE (AP) — A state income tax break for individuals or corporations donating computer equipment to public libraries has cleared the state Senate despite warnings that lawmakers were quietly eroding the tax base.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Rod Beck, R-Boise, won the chamber's endorsement on a 26-16 vote Thursday and now goes to the House for review.

Backers claimed it would provide a cost-effective and efficient way of upgrading the services in the state public library system, which is perpetually strapped for money.

Liquor store proposal heads to House

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho House will decide a proposal to get the state out of the business of selling liquor, and let private businesses do it.

The House Business Committee voted 9-5 on Thursday to send that legislation to the House floor. But the measure will be put up for amendment to change the way profits would be allocated under House Bill 200. The changes would restore the current allocation system.

Rep. J.F. "Chad" Chadband, R-Idaho Falls, told the committee the state could get a one-time windfall of $6 million by selling its liquor inventory, would avoid a $750,000 bill facing the state this fall because of a new federal tax and probably would reap additional tax revenue.

Chadband headed a subcommittee of the GOP House caucus exploring ways to generate additional revenue for this year's budget.

Included in the proposal is a $9 per gallon tax on liquor.

Two top officials in the present system said that tax might push

Idaho liquor prices so high that the state would wind up losing money.

"If we have a system that is working now, I can't see why you would want to dismantle it," said liquor dispensary superintendent Mike McAllister. McAllister says if approved, the proposal would establish the highest liquor tax in the country.

In the last six years, he said, the state system has produced profits of $14 million, which went to fund other state programs.

If the state's 136 outlets were closed, he said, there would be "significant impact" on rural areas because of increased transportation costs.

Jim Bangh said Idaho can't afford to price or tax its liquor so it's more costly than in bordering states.

Now, he said, state liquor prices in the Panhandle are 20 percent under bordering Washington. That area gets 30 percent of its sales from Washington and Canada.

"We'd lose money and those sales would go back over the border" with a big state tax on liquor, he said.

Fire alarm releases some of hot air

BOISE (AP) — State lawmakers were rudely interrupted Thursday when the fire and smoke alarm in the Capitol went off during the daily floor session.

The shrill buzzer, accidentally set off by a child, forced both the House and Senate to halt the oratory that traditionally fills the chambers during floor sessions.

"I've been in this chamber 15 years," Sen. C. E. Bilyeu, D-Fuentele, confided to Lt. Gov. David Leary, "and that's the first time hot air ever got the better of the smoke alarm."

Democrats back more funding for schools

BOISE (AP) — House Democrats say the Idaho Legislature should put another $1 million into the public school education budget.

But the 17 representatives say that much more is needed for basic programs, and should not be diverted into such things as career ladder programs or improvements in teacher salaries.

Rep. Richard Adams, D-Grangeville, said in a caucus on Wednesday Democrats voted to support public school funding at $306 million from state general funds. Earlier, the Senate rejected a public school funding bill at $294.1 million.

Adams said Democrats feel at least $306 million is needed to support basic programs. If the Legislature wants to fund career ladder programs, or to complete the second phase of a two-year effort to improve teacher salaries, that should come as extra money, Adams said.

The Democrats did not take a stand on a proposal to turn the state liquor dispensary system over to private ownership. Rep. Dorothy McCann, D-Wallace, heading a subcommittee on the state liquor system, said there

Child abuse fund clears vote

BOISE (AP) — "Nothing in our state is more important than our children," says Rep. Jack Kennebeck, R-Boise.

He sponsored legislation approved by the House 81-1 Thursday, creating a new Children's Trust Account to work against child abuse.

The legislation, which now goes to the Senate, authorizes creation of an account to receive voluntary contributions.

The bill says people can designate part of their state income tax refunds for the account, or can add to their payments if they owe taxes. Once the fund reaches $2.5 million, contributions will stop and the program will be funded through interest.

Travel council change killed by committee

Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — Rep. J.F. Chadband's proposal to sever the Idaho Travel Council from its host agency was squashed by a House Committee Thursday.

After more than an hour of hearings and with not a single person having spoken in support of the bill, the House Commerce Industry and Tourism Committee voted unanimously to put the issue to rest.

The Idaho Falls Republican had wanted to set up the travel council among the state's self-governing agencies. He had also proposed to eliminate the local tourism grants that the council provides to Idaho communities.

In addition to awarding the grants, the council is responsible for advertising and promoting Idaho tourism and travel opportunities.

The closest thing Chadband's proposal received to support was a statement from Chuck Webb, representing the Sun Valley Co.

Webb told committee members he did not support removing the council from the Division of Economic and Community Affairs. Such a move would result in increased administrative costs, he said.

But he said eliminating the grants would result in more money being available for Idaho promotions, a move he supports.

However, others addressing the committee defended the grants.

Wayne Probasco, owner of a Welsler hostelry, said the grants provide a form of "home rule."

Northwest power supply will last longer, analysts predict

BOISE (AP) — Citing major structural changes in industries critical to the Northwest economy, analysts for the Northwest Power Planning Council have scaled back their preliminary forecasts for energy demand through the end of the century.

"What these forecasts show is not the need for new resources or the need to deal with (power) deficits but the need to deal with surpluses," Terry Morlan, demand forecast manager, told the council Thursday.

"The surpluses that were relatively short-term before may now be long-term," Morlan said.

But council officials, noting that the forecasts are extremely preliminary and will not be refined until full public hearings and comments, said it remained too early to determine whether the demand reductions will have any serious effect on the futures of the Washington Public Power Supply System's nuclear plants and hydro.

The latest power demand estimates — a series of four ranging from a high through medium high to medium low to low depending on the economic circumstances relied on — ran between 12 and 20 percent below the forecasts made two years ago.

At the high level, demand in the year 2002 would be about 3,200 average megawatts below the 26,000 average megawatts forecast by the council staff in 1983.

But Morlan said the statistics do not show a reduction in demand so much as they show a delay in demand growth into the future. Over the next 20 years, he said, growth in power demand will fall only 400 average megawatts below the 20-year demand forecast in 1983.

"A major reason for the delayed growth is that several factors considered cyclical in the 1983 plan, such as events in the forest products and manufacturing sectors, have now proved to be longer term," the analysts said.

"Recovery from the recession which the region was in since 1983 has been slower than anticipated," they said. "Another factor has been the regional economy's shift away from resource-based, heavy manufacturing industry to nonmanufacturing and high tech industries which are not considered heavy users of electricity."

Responsible for the reduction to a lesser extent, he said, has been the declining prices of alternatives to electricity in comparison to electricity prices, causing more people to convert to alternative fuels.

In describing what he called structural economic changes, Morlan cited increased regional competition in the timber and food processing areas and industrial expansion by other nations, especially in the mining sector, where labor is cheaper and the basic resources are closer.

Morlan said since the demand has been static in recent years, noting that the high estimate 1985 in the new forecast is only slight above the low estimate for 1985 in the forecast made two years ago.

"We've lost about two or three years of very rapid growth in loads and it has been shifted out" to other years, he said.

Model conservation funds backed

BOISE (AP) — Contending that the Bonneville Power Administration is impeding the future of inexpensive energy conservation in the Northwest, members of the Northwest Power Planning Council have lashed at out the power agency for its conservation standards reimbursement plan.

Council Chairman Chuck Collins of Seattle and Vice Chairman Bob Saxvick of Boise said the BPA proposal to end after just six years reimbursement for local governments implementing model conservation standards runs counter to earlier agreements with the agency.

"The reimbursement plan is not only inconsistent with that program but it comes close to destroying the concept of relying on model conservation for future energy savings," Collins said during the council meeting in Boise.

He and Saxvick demanded that the BPA justify its proposal in light of the earlier agreement to comply with the council conservation program as long as it is not found to violate any federal laws. They have given the agency until March 4 to respond.

Under the Model Conservation

Standards program, local governments would adopt the energy efficiency standards in buildings and enforcement them in return for BPA covering the cost of their efforts.

Collins contended that enforcing of the standards through building codes would cost only $125 per home compared to $2,500 per home for weatherization by utilities after construction and $5,000 per home for BPA to construct the new generating facilities for the additional power needed because of the waste due to energy-inefficient buildings.

USAF base merger urged

BOISE (AP) — Two Idaho senators have asked Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to look into the possibility of consolidating several Air Force squadrons now based in Western States at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

In a letter to Weinberger, senators Steve Symms and James McClure said consolidating the squadrons at the southern Idaho base would result in a considerable savings in operating expenses.

The senators asked Weinberger to look into the possibility of moving a squadron of F-16 fighters, now based at Hill AFB, Utah; a Tactical Air Command squadron at Nellis AFB, Nev.; a squadron of F-111 fighter-bombers, Cannon AFB, New Mexico, all to Mountain Home.

Justices uphold H&W termination

BOISE (AP) — When a 1979 budget cutback caused a funding squeeze, the Department of Health and Welfare was justified in terminating an official whose job was eliminated, the Idaho Supreme Court says.

The court unanimously upheld lower court rulings that Raymond Bowden was properly terminated in 1979 as chief of the Bureau of Health Care Services in the Department of Health and Welfare.

Bowden alleged his termination unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious.

Postmaster seeks owners of packet of century-old letters

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) -- When letters mailed by a Civil War soldier showed up at the post office here, the postmaster at first feared the mail had been lost for more than a century.

Without any packaging, the 14 letters penned by Union Army soldier George C. Rich befuddled postal workers in at least two states, who couldn't just stamp: Return to sender.

Elkhart Postmaster Garlin V. Hedman said Thursday that after an account of the lost letters appeared in a local newspaper, one of the soldier's relatives came to the rescue, suggesting the letters may have been mailed by Rich's descendants in California to another relative in New Jersey.

The woman told Hedman her daughter, who lives in Linwood, N.J., had asked the California relatives for the letters to aid her genealogical research.

The letters' odyssey began in 1862, when Rich mailed the first one to his brother in Elkhart. Twelve other letters were mailed by 1865, and another after the war ended, in 1902.

The letters, apparently duly delivered to Rich's brother, recently reappeared at a Los Angeles post office, which forwarded them to the Elkhart post office.

Hedman said when he received the package, he thought the letters had been lost in the mails since they bore no clues except the 19th century addresses.

"The first one I got came in a separate envelope," he said. "At first when I looked at it, it looked like it had not been opened. Then on closer examination I could tell it had been."

Now, he is waiting to verify the New Jersey destination through interviews with the soldier's relatives being conducted by Los Angeles postal authorities -- to make sure the letters don't end up in the wrong place again.

"I'm going to be happy to turn them back over to the person they belong to as long as I get confirmation," he said.

Two envelopes, one postmarked at Louisville, Ky., in January 1863 and another postmarked in Nashville, Tenn., the following October, bore the notation, "A soldier's letter."

From the distant relatives in Elkhart County, Hedman learned that Rich had enlisted in the Indiana 74th Volunteer Regiment. The Rich brothers married twin sisters and the letters sent home apparently were circulated among the family members. One envelope was marked, "A good letter for the boys to read."

The contents of the letters were not disclosed.

"It's really intriguing to me," Hedman said. "I would really like to know the entire story, but I respect the sanctity of the mail."

Airborne dust from lake bed powders wide California area

By RICHARD BENKE
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Dust from a dry lake, swept hundreds of miles by 60 mph winds that mixed it with rain, was blamed Thursday for spattering hundreds of thousands of cars with white mud over 8,000 square miles of Southern California.

As car washes went to work on the mess, an air quality official said the gritty material was white alkaline dust that blew off the parched bottom of Owens Lake, a dry lake 175 miles north of Los Angeles, and mixed with the rain that fell Wednesday on much of Southern California.

"Our analysis ... indicates a uniform sandy material which is very fine," said Jim Birakos, deputy executive officer of the South Coast Air Quality Management District. "Some of the finer particles, the dust of the sand, was soluble. It was alkaline in nature. It was not acidic. The soil was pulled up by the winds and came down with the rain."

Some car owners reported the dust pitted the paint on their vehicles, but authorities said that was apparently because they tried to wipe it off and scratched the finish instead of hosing it off. Birakos said the substance was natural and non-toxic.

"It appears to be lake bottom material from Owens Lake," he said Thursday, adding that "literally hundreds of thousands of cars were obviously affected." There are 7 million cars in the the South Coast basin, he said.

The 60 mph winds also ripped a hole early Thursday in a supermarket roof in suburban La Canada Flintridge, delayed flights Wednesday at Edwards Air Force Base 80 miles north of Los Angeles and splattered the cockpit of a C-12F turbo-prop transport with the white goo as it landed at Norton Air Force Base 65 miles east of Los Angeles.

California Highway Patrol officers wore goggles and filtered breathing masks as they rescued motorists stranded in Wednesday's dust storm along Highway 138, which runs east-west across the Antelope Valley 55 miles north of here, where it did not rain.

Where the dust mixed with rain, reports of falling goo came from an area bounded on the north by Barstow, 90 miles northeast of Los Angeles, south to Fallbrook in San Diego County, east to Palm Desert in Riverside County and west to the Westside of Los Angeles.

Rick Betance, manager of the Glen-Rock Car Wash in suburban Eagle Rock, said Thursday several spatcoated cars had come in, and they had to be washed by hand. He said such spots can deceptively disappear during the wash, then reappear a few days later.

"If it has hurt the paint, the spots will show within a day or two," Betance said.

"Everybody's coming in with it," said Floyd Sleenor, owner of Sparkle Car Wash in San Bernardino, 60 miles east of here. "It's coming off all right. It's crusty. It's like dust mixed up with water. We're running at full blast, and we're not having any problem getting it off."

ELIZABETH JULESBERG
Noted for 'Dick and Jane'

Author, playwright dies at 82

SEATTLE (AP) — Elizabeth Rider Montgomery Julesberg, the woman whose stories about Dick and Jane and Spot the dog helped more than 20 million children learn to read, is dead at age 82.

Mrs. Julesberg, the author of more than 70 published books and plays, died Tuesday at Providence Hospital in Seattle after a long illness.

She was a first grade teacher in Los Angeles in 1940 when she wrote the first of the primer series, "We Look and See."

Using repetition of simple words and sentences, such as "See Dick run," her grade school reading primers featured the characters Dick, Jane, Sally and Spot.

She began writing her primers because she was "horrified at the available reading books," she once said.

"I knew nothing about writing, but I knew children needed books they could get interested in, not those dull things they handed out," she said.

She later signed a long-term contract as a company writer with the Scott-Foresman Co., a leading educational book publisher.

Born in Juarez, Peru, Mrs. Julesberg grew up in Independence, Mo., and moved to Seattle in 1946. She continued to write from her West Seattle home, and her published works included biographies of Henry Ford, Dag Hammarskjold, and Chief Seattle as well as several Northwest adventure novels.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur Julesberg; a daughter; a son; a step-daughter; and eight grandchildren.

Memorial services are planned for Saturday at the ARI Congregational Church in Seattle.

Texas heist thought work of pro bandits

ODessa, Texas (AP) — An antique store robbery that netted two bandits $2 million in diamonds and jewelry was probably the work of professionals who had a specific plan, authorities said Thursday.

"They are not the $200 robbers of a convenience store," Ector County Sheriff Bob Brookshire said. "They knew what they were doing."

Two men handcuffed five employees of Red Door Antiques in west Odessa on Wednesday and escaped with $2 million in loose diamonds and jewelry, authorities said.

Witnesses reported two men entered the store about 9:30 a.m. and pretended to be customers, said Sheriff's Capt. Gene Kloss.

After the robbery, the men drove away in a car that was later found about a mile from the store, Lt. Jeff Schwended said. The car was traced to an Odessa car lot, he said.

One of the handcuffed employees managed to reach a phone and call for help, investigators said. The employees were not hurt.

Dog disrupts border

BERLIN (AP) — A stray cocker spaniel became an international incident when it fell off a viewing platform and became stuck between two sections of the Berlin Wall.

Police said the dog fell from the platform on the Western side of the wall into East German territory Tuesday. The dog landed between an old and new section of the barrier built by communist authorities to stop escapes to the West.

The dog immediately began to yap and howl, prompting residents in nearby apartments to alert West Berlin police. French military police were called in, and they used a megaphone to call the East German border guards, asking them to help rescue the animal.

But the megaphone brought no response. So Western police sent a telex to the East German guards who then acknowledged the dog's plight.

During the night, East German troops brought a crane to the wall and used it to temporarily remove a chunk of the barrier, allowing the guards to reach the dog. Western authorities said.

Firehouse serves hot dish

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — When a neighbor saw smoke pouring out of the building across the street, she knew just who to call, the three firefighters who work there.

Two cars had collided in front of the fire station moments before, and the three firefighters had rushed out to help and stand by until police arrived.

"But somebody left french fries cooking on the stove," said Battalion Chief George Grover.

The fries flamed into a grease fire. A woman who lives across the street saw smoke pouring out of the fire station.

She yelled.

Fire Capt. Thomas McTammy saw the smoke and dashed back inside.

Soviets agree to open some nuclear reactors to inspections

By ROLAND PRINZ
The Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria — The Soviet Union and the International Atomic Energy Agency signed an agreement Thursday that opens some Soviet civilian nuclear facilities for international inspection.

Only a small number of Soviet reactors will be regulated under the agency's system of safeguards, and these will not be of an advanced type, an agency source said.

But the accord was seen as a major step because it leaves China as the only nuclear power completely outside agency controls. The United States, Britain and France have placed their civilian nuclear programs under the agency's control.

The agreement with the Soviet Union was signed at agency headquarters by its director general, Hans Blix, and Andriank Petrovsky, chairman of the State Committee on the Utilization of Atomic Energy of the USSR.

The Soviets are to submit a list of peaceful nuclear facilities from which agency inspectors may choose a certain number, said a source who spoke on condition he not be identified. The source did not say how many would be inspected, but said financial constraints would limit the number.

Petrovsky said at a news conference that the decision "demonstrates the positive attitude of the Soviet Union toward international control, having in mind that such con-rol should indeed serve the purpose of arms limitation and disarmament."

But in reply to a reporter's question, Petrovsky did not deny that inspection would cover only light-water reactors and not fuel-cycle facilities or other advanced reactors.

"Everything has to start sometime. This is a beginning," he said. "We will continue along these lines."

An agency source told The Associated Press that "this agreement does not prevent non-proliferation of nuclear weapons, because the military installations are not affected."

But "the fact that for the first time the Soviet Union opens nuclear plants to international inspection is a crucial step," he added.

"These controls of Soviet facilities will enable inspectors to gain experience for their safeguards work in non-nuclear weapons states," Boris Semenov, Petrovsky's deputy, declined to say the type of facilities and the proportion of the Soviet nuclear program that will come under inspection.

"The USSR has to provide the agency with a list of such facilities," he said. "Therefore, we believe, it would not be correct for the agency to learn from newspapers the type of installations to be controlled."

Petrovsky said the results of the first inspections would be made known before September when the nations that signed the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty meet in Geneva.

The agency began negotiations with the Soviet Union in May 1983 in Moscow. They talks were later moved to Vienna, and an agreement was reached here last September.

The 112-nation agency was established in 1957. Its goal is to help develop the peaceful uses of nuclear energy and to ensure non-military nuclear facilities are not misused for military purposes.

Under the safeguards system, agency experts inspect designated facilities in an effort to prevent diversion of nuclear material for arms manufacture. The agency notes any irregularities it finds in its annual report, a confidential document circulated among members, but it has no enforcement powers.

Doctors urge abortions of deformed fetus

Bhopal pregnancies focus of concern

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Four private doctors have urged that pregnant women exposed to the huge poison gas leak last December should be tested, and that the women consider abortions if the fetuses are deformed.

The physicians also recommended that all women affected by the Dec. 3 leak of methyl isocyanate from a Union Carbide plant avoid becoming pregnant until they are "completely detoxified." The gas leak killed more than 2,000 people and made an estimated 200,000 others ill.

The doctors, members of a private group involved in public health issues, said they made a month-long survey of neighborhoods near the chemical plant and interviewed doctors who treated gas victims.

Dr. Ramana Dhara, of Hyderabad, presented their report at a two-day conference here last Sunday and Monday titled: "Lessons from Bhopal: Environment, Science and Democratic Rights."

"A large number of pregnant women were exposed to the toxic gas, infection, stress and drugs, each of which can cause damage to the fetus and result in birth of deformed children," the report said.

"Women have suffered from abortions, stillbirths, diminished fetal movements, suppression of lactation, abnormal discharges and menstrual disturbances," it added.

According to the report: "No information has been provided to women about possible birth defects to enable them to exercise their choice of terminating pregnancy within the period when abortion is safe."

All women whose fetuses might have been affected should be tested and told the results, the doctors said, adding that there is no test program at present and only those who have gone to hospitals with problems such as bleeding have been able to get abortions.

A private relief fund said last month that there were more than 150 abortions, stillbirths and miscarriages in the weeks following the gas leak.

Sullania Hospital, the major women's hospital in Bhopal, recorded 109 abortions and 24 stillbirths between Dec. 3 and Jan. 22 — a number similar to that period in previous years. But junior doctors and nurses, who spoke on condition they not be identified, disputed the official count.

Solidarity leaders say authorities want conflict

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Two prominent Solidarity figures accused Communist authorities Thursday of seeking an open fight with workers and the Roman Catholic Church. They predicted the "list of people arrested without cause will grow longer."

Karol Modzelewski and Jozef Pinior, leaders of the outlawed free union in the southern city of Wroclaw, issued a statement condemning the arrest of three senior Solidarity figures last week in Gdansk on "absurd" charges of inciting unrest and organizing illegal protests.

The three men were picked up, along with Solidarity founder Lech Walesa and four others, in a police raid last week on a meeting held in Gdansk to plan strategy for a 15-minute nationwide strike the union has called for Feb. 28 to protest planned increases in food prices. Walesa and the others were released.

Another Solidarity activist, Stanislaw Kowalski, was reported arrested Wednesday on the same charges after police searched his apartment.

Kowalski, a faculty member at Gdansk Polytechnic, had been leading daily prayer sessions in a Gdansk church for Andrzej Gwiazda, former deputy national chairman of Solidarity, who is serving five months in prison for disturbing the peace. Kowalski's arrest was reported by Gwiazda's wife, Joanna.

The statement issued Thursday said, "We wish to draw the attention of international public opinion to the especially ominous meaning of the arrest of our three colleagues, Wladyslaw Fraszynski, Bogdan Lis and Adam Michnik."

"It is a symptom of a turning point in the authorities' policy bearing serious consequences... One may expect that the list of people arrested without cause will grow longer."

Modzelewski gave the statement to Western reporters in Warsaw. It was dated Feb. 20.

The Wroclaw union leader was Solidarity's first national spokesman when the union emerged from the labor uprising of 1980 as the Soviet bloc's first independent trade union.

Body of American WWII pilot found in China

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A team of U.S. experts will go to China next week to examine what the Chinese say are the remains of an American pilot missing since World War II, a U.S. Pacific Command spokesman said Thursday.

Some 78,000 Americans, both military and civilians, remain unaccounted for from World War II. China and the United States were allies during the war.

In Laos, meanwhile, a group of Americans cleared the end of an unprecedented excavation with Laotians of the site where a C-130 gunship was shot down in December 1972, during the Vietnam War. Thirteen U.S. airmen who were aboard the gunship remain missing.

The excavation work, which began Feb. 11 and was expected to end Friday, has turned up military buses and personal effects. The C-130 was returning to a base in Thailand from a mission over the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the main North Vietnamese supply route to their forces in South Vietnam.

Lt. Col. Richard F. Stevenson, spokesman for the U.S. Pacific Command, said the Chinese government had notified the United States that the remains of an American pilot had been found in China and could be turned over to U.S. officials. He said he did not know other details.

The remains from the Laotian excavation will be taken to the U.S. Joint Casualty Resolution Center in Honolulu for identification, which could take up to a month, officials said.

Of the 16 airmen on board the C-130 shot down over Champassak, two parachuted to safety and the body of a third was found the next day.

The two survivors were Tech. Sgt. Richard M. Williams and Sgt. Carl F. Stevens Jr. The body of Capt. Joel R. Birch was recovered the next day.

New Zealand skips exercise

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia's defense minister said Thursday that a naval exercise, without New Zealand, will be held next month to replace one that was scrapped because of New Zealand's ban on visits by nuclear ships.

Defense Minister Kim Beazley said the United States, Canada and Australia would take part in the exercise, Flying Fish. He said Australia and New Zealand will hold a separate exercise later in March.

Beazley said 12 Australian ships and submarines will take part in Flying Fish, due to start in early March in Jervis Bay off the coast of New South Wales. He said he believed two conventionally powered U.S. ships would take part, and that the ships would make a joint entry into the port of Brisbane following the exercise.

President Reagan, taking credit for the economy's performance, said the "harvest of good news sprang from the seeds of new policies for greater economic freedom that we planted in our first term."

Donald Straszheim, chief economist for Merrill Lynch, said those recession worries "have rarely been put to rest now. In the first half of this year, there is little doubt that we will have growth of well over 4 percent."

After turning in growth of 8.5 percent in the first half of the year, the economy slipped to the weak 1.6 percent growth rate from July through September, leading to worries that the recovery was in danger of toppling into another recession.

Order said the administration's forecast of 4 percent growth for this year was "looking good" and most private economists agreed. While this would be down from the 6.9 percent increase of 1984, it would still be strong growth for the third year of an economic recovery.

Agency's supporters in Senate angry Plan to dismantle SBA gets short shrift

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Senate supporters of the Small Business Administration brushed aside President Reagan's plan to abolish the agency and moved ahead Thursday with hearings on a bill extending the SBA for three years.

SEN. LOWELL WEICKER JR. Backs 3-year authorization

The panel then heard testimony from several business owners supporting the SBA renewal. Weicker recently introduced a bill re-authorizing the SBA for three years...

The budget proposal would terminate all SBA credit programs, including direct and guaranteed business and disaster loans and transfer the agency's existing loan portfolio to the Treasury for liquidation over a four-year period.

Bankers condemn proposal from FDIC

The Los Angeles Times

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation's recent proposal to ban banks from direct real estate investments has drawn harsh criticism from several industry associations.

that "for California banks and, presumably for banks in some 17 other states, including New York and Ohio... is not only unnecessary to protect the (insurance) fund, but also constitutes a clear abrogation of the dual banking system which the FDIC professes to embrace."

"Now the president and budget director David Stockman want to renege," he said.

In his 1986 budget proposal, Reagan proposed eliminating the SBA by moving some of its programs to the Commerce Department and canceling others.

Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr., R-Conn., chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, said the SBA under Reagan was working "excellently and efficiently as never before" to fulfill its mandate to "aid, counsel, assist and protect" small business.

Other SBA functions, including minority small business, innovation, research and technology, and the Service Corps of Retired Executives would be taken over by a new office in the Commerce Department.

Bumpers said many small businesses used SBA help to become major tax paying corporations, and he questioned the long-term wisdom of the Reagan plan.

The California Bankers Association, a lobbying group that represents almost all California-based banks, said that the proposal is one

Stocks yield to interest rate pressure

By CHET CURRIER The Associated Press

NEW YORK -- The stock market declined broadly Thursday, yielding to the pressure of rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 2.54 on Wednesday, dropped 4.69 to 1,279.04.

investors seemed to interpret his remarks as a signal that the decline in interest rates since last summer was about over.

recommended that he allow restraints on Japanese car imports to expire as scheduled on March 31.

Analysts attributed the market's weakness to a statement by Paul Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the Fed had "stopped easing credit conditions."

That news sent interest rates higher for the second straight day in the credit markets.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials led 1.03 to 61.13, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was down .99 at 100.19.

While utility officials said the practice of intercompany loans was a relatively common one, Richard Hokins, one of the four IMG owners, tried to alleviate concerns over the impact of a default on the bonds, which would be secured by the utility's assets.

"If someone would put us in that position, we would have to fight back pretty hard," Hokins assured the regulators. "If we had our rights against the law, we would take very strong action to protect the company."

If you're buying a new car you can gamble on loan rate

If you're buying a new car this year, you may want to consider an adjustable-rate car loan, which permits you to gamble on the future trend of interest rates when you sign up for the loan.

Adjustable-rate car loans still account for a tiny percentage of total car loans, but lenders the nation over are watching carefully to see how you, the consumer, respond to the offers.

No one even suggests these loans will replace the familiar fixed-rate loans that remain available everywhere. This is the testing period. If the tests indicate a deep-down demand, the tests will be expanded. Not even the preliminary results are solid.

Jumbos' fading

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- American Savings & Loan Association is trying to wean itself away from its heavy reliance on short-term jumbo accounts that pay premium interest.

He said American would have to pay only about 8.9 percent for funds through repurchase agreements for mortgage-backed securities, compared to the 9.4 percent it is now paying on jumbo certificates of more than $100,000.

Twin Falls game promotion under scrutiny

By FERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — In October of 1984, Curtis Johnson, identifying himself as president of the Vietnam Veterans of America, Twin Falls Chapter, began a publicity campaign to promote a new board game called "The Game of Twin Falls."

It was, he told The Times-News, a fund-raising effort with the proceeds earmarked for the local VVA chapter and for helping needy children through a donation to United Way.

Yet Gigi Witkowsky, assistant to the president of the national office of the Vietnam Veterans of America in Washington D.C., says there is no Twin Falls chapter of VVA.

Moreover, Curtis Johnson, who touted himself as president of the non-existent chapter, is not even a member of the VVA, she says.

Tom Leckinger, general counsel of the VVA, told The Times-News by phone Thursday that he had sent a letter to Johnson on Feb. 8, calling on him to cease and desist the activity under the name of the VVA.

The letter also called for a full accounting of funds raised under the organization's name. Leckinger says he has, to date, received no accounting.

The attorney said he didn't yet know how much money was raised by the game, which prints the names of persons and businesses on the board that is laid out like a game of "Monopoly," Leckinger did say, however, that he knew 33 spaces had been sold along with numerous listings of "Twin Falls residents' names."

Leckinger says he has been in contact with the regional postal inspector in Portland, Ore., to see if Johnson's actions constituted mail fraud.

"The inspector told me that as long as those who paid for advertisements on the board got their ads, and those who paid for the game got their game, it would not be a federal violation," Leckinger said.

He said the promotion of "The Game of Twin Falls" in Twin Falls is essentially through, but that he has stopped the same promotion in the Sun Valley-Ketchum area "dead in its tracks."

He added that he has been in touch with Johnson by telephone and that Johnson had agreed to quit withdrawing funds from the bank account that he had opened using VVA's name. He said that Johnson has also agreed to stop removing mail from his postal box in Ketchum until Leckinger is present.

Leckinger said he hopes to visit Twin Falls in the next few days for a first-hand investigation and that the VVA may take recourse to recover funds collected under its name. He also said he thought Idaho Attorney General Jim Jones had opened an investigation into the matter.

However, Jones says his office is not involved because "we don't have a consumer branch anymore. I asked the Legislature to fund it last year and they didn't respond to it. The Legislature let us without the ability to respond to that kind of problem," Jones said.

During Johnson's October interview with The Times-News, he claimed that money raised from the game would be used specifically to erect a local memorial in honor of veterans of World Wars I and II, Korea and Vietnam. Another portion of the funds, he claimed, would be donated to United Way for use at Christmas.

United Way Chairman Sandy Thomas says Johnson had contacted her concerning a donation to the organization, but that no donation actually was made.

When she called Johnson recently, Thomas said.

Students mix music, water

Collapsing roof causes woes in room at Shoshone school

By JAFENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — Warming weather has brought new woes for Shoshone school buildings.

The floor of the high school music room was covered with two inches of water Wednesday when saturated ceiling tiles gave way, allowing water to pour into the room.

School Superintendent Tim Adsit told the school board at its Wednesday meeting that water has been collecting in a concave section of the roof over the music room and then freezing.

"It's a problem of flat roofs in snow country, ice buildup and poor drainage," he said.

Warmer temperatures and heat from the building melted some of the ice and it ran through the damaged roof into the interior ceiling tile, Adsit said. Water was also seeping through and down the room's east wall Wednesday and Thursday.

In addition to the damage in the roof and ceiling, the water has caused a section of the floor to rot away near the wall, exposing the structure beneath, and other sections of the floor are beginning to warp.

The paint was peeling on the east wall and the room had a damp, dank odor when the board visited the area during a break in the meeting.

Adsit said he was also concerned about the effect the water was having on ceiling beams and electrical wiring in the room.

Members of the Shoshone High School band spent Wednesday mopping water and collecting drips in several trash cans.

Some students covered their instruments with plastic, or an umbrella to protect them during the downpour.

The band gamely returned to practice Thursday in the misty, still damp room, and music instructor Ross Gedeberg expressed concern for the effect the dampness was having on the room's piano.

Engineers who examined the high school roof last November told the board the area over the music room was a "potential bath tub."

Adsit reported Wednesday that efforts to repair the area had been thwarted by cold and wet weather throughout the fall and winter.

The music room water problem is the latest incident in a long list of problems occurring in the district's two aging school buildings, both built in 1929. The elementary school roof is also leaking in several places.

A citizen's committee, headed by Trustee Donna Hibbard, has been studying the building needs in the district and costs for repairing the existing buildings.

Hibbard reported Wednesday the committee had decided to focus on the elementary school because the status of the high school and possible consolidation discussions were uncertain at this time.

The committee's report shows it would cost approximately $300,000 to renovate the elementary school, without any cafeteria renovation or equipment repair.

Adsit agreed to get some "bare bones" estimates on the cost of new building construction and said information he has seen would indicate a cost of $1.5 to $2 million to build a secondary school without a gymnasium and limited interior fixtures.

The district voters turned down a $40,000 facility levy last spring.

Hibbard asked the board to set March 11 as a public meeting so the board can get information on what the community wants to do before the board decides to ask for a facility levy again.

"Schools reflect the community," Adsit said, agreeing the board needs to know what the community wants done with the Music teacher Ross Gedeberg holds band practice while wastebaskets collect water deteriorating buildings.

Another complicating issue for the district is a pending decision by the State Board of Education on four petitions to remove property from the east end of the Shoshone district and add it to either Del Norte or Blaine counties.

The state board meets March 21 and 22 to consider the question.

Wastebaskets collect water from the east end of the Shoshone district and add it to either Del Norte or Blaine counties.

Adsit said a decision to remove the land will have an adverse and long-term effect on the property valuation and bonding capacity of the Shoshone District.

Drug fight goes into schools

Societal pressures source of problem, parents told at seminar

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The battle against teen drug and alcohol abuse will be won when drugs are no longer hip, said Walker Act Center counselor Linda Mazzarelli.

Speaking to a group of parents at a Wednesday night seminar on teen drug and alcohol abuse, Mazzarelli said education of school children about drugs and alcohol is important in combating teen drug abuse.

Parent education is as important, Mazzarelli said. "This community is full of denial. If it's the next-door neighbor's kids, it's yours, too."

The seminar was organized by The Freedom Fighters as part of Drug Awareness Week, which ends today.

"We as caring parents and concerned citizens need to tell the truth about drug abuse," said Freedom Fighters president Sherie Hull. "A preteen or teen can be on a skid row while he's standing in the living room of his parent's $100,000 house."

"Youngsters who are curious are simply a reflection of our drug-oriented society," Hull said. "Through television and other media, children are bombarded with advertisements for alcohol and non-prescription drugs, said Hull.

She said the chances of a young person becoming an alcoholic are 10 times better than for an adult. She said national statistics indicate 62 percent of all seventh-graders drink alcohol once a week. Driving while intoxicated is the leading cause of death in the 16-24 year-old age group, she said.

Hull said parents should work to "recreate a positive future for youngsters, to raise a generation of people who don't depend on a nation, but on whom a nation can depend."

O'Leary guidance counselor Keith Farnsworth said the results of a survey at the O'Leary school conducted by police and O'Leary school officials indicate more than 50 percent of 740 students possied had at least tried alcohol and eight percent had tried marijuana.

"I guess I'm an optimist. There's some solutions to it; we can have an influence on our youngsters," Farnsworth said. "Whatever we do, let's get some solutions, let's not just walk away from it," he said.

Detective Howard Elliott of the Twin Falls Police department said police in Twin Falls and Drug Enforcement Administration agents confiscated $1.5 million worth of drugs in Twin Falls in 1983. "I'd rather educate kids than arrest them," Howard said.

School board member Robert Knighton, speaking from the audience, said "This is a very poor district. Would you have us spend our resources on this or on basic education?"

Other speakers on the panel included Port of Hope youth counselor Hub Schneider, Walker Act Center outreach counselor Handy Hyde, and former deputy prosecuting attorney Dennis Voorhes.

Oakley Dam emergency repair finished

OAKLEY (AP) — Emergency repairs to an outlet tunnel beneath Oakley Dam have been completed, clearing the way for release of snowmelt from the Lower Goose Creek Reservoir this spring.

"We are monitoring the snow accumulation and are working closely with the Oakley Canal Co. and the newly created Goose Creek Flood Control District" to assure the reservoir's water level is regulated," said state Water Resources Director

Ken Dunn.

GTC Inc., the Boise contractor that handled the $218,000 project financed by the Corps of Engineers, is expected to have its equipment off the site by week's end.

Serious erosion of the tunnel, about 20 feet beneath the dam, was discovered several weeks ago as the new flood control district heightened its campaign to ensure that another major flood threat like the one last spring is averted this year.

Engineers determined that if water had to be released from the dam before the tunnel was repaired, serious flooding and possible failure of the structure could have occurred.

Last year, Casela County residents had to reconstruct an old flood diversion channel and construct a special 23-mile emergency diversion canal so that massive releases from the reservoir could be channeled away from the farms and homes below the dam.

Vandals damage windows in spree

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Police in Twin Falls are searching for witnesses to a vandalism spree that occurred in the city Wednesday night.

Vandals, wielding pellet guns, drove through Twin Falls Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, shattering between 75 and 80 car windows in residential and business areas.

Officers said at the latest count Thursday afternoon at least 75 vehicles had been damaged. Two automobile sales lots were among victims, with six windows damaged on one lot and four on another.

Police said victims reported damage ranging from $50 to $650, with the majority of the loss running $75 to $100 per incident.

Police Lt. Jim Kistler said that from all appearances someone, probably two people, traveled through town shooting pellets from their vehicle into rear windows and side windows of parked automobiles.

He said there appeared to be no break-ins involving any of the vehicles, and probably the vandals did not stop.

The windows were not shot out, he said, but were cracked and shattered.

"In most cases the entire window was filled with small cracks, which will require the owners to replace them," he said.

Kistler said with the extensive travel by the vandals, it is possible someone may have seen them in the act. Anyone wishing to make a report can remain anonymous by calling the city police department and asking for crime stoppers.

"With this amount of damage," Kistler said, "I am sure many helpful information would qualify the person for a crime stopper reward."

Losses totaling approximately $5,000 were listed in the police reports covering the many incidents. Some calls were still coming in late Thursday as owners discovered the damage.

Several people who called in the reports did not list a specific damage amount and some were not investigated because callers said they only wanted to report the damage as requested by their insurance companies.

Burley budget in red

By SARAH MURPHY
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — The city of Burley is facing approximately a $100,000 shortfall in its general budget.

Mayor Chuck Shaduck told the Burley City Council Tuesday there was a $41,000 shortage, plus other shortages from liquor licenses revenue.

City Clerk Bud Brinegar put the total shortage figure at the $100,000 mark Thursday.

"The figures are for the projected budget revenues for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, 1984.

The mayor said the shortages will affect all city departments equally in reduced budgets. He said this includes all city operations except for electric, water and library budgets, which operate on independent budgets.

The $41,000 shortfall is a result of a miscalculation of tax revenue projections by the Cassia County clerk's office.

Shaduck said the original figures inadvertently included property tax projections for the city from North Burley, which lies in Blaine County.

Shaduck also cited the failure of two businesses to renew their city liquor licenses, reducing the number of authorized licenses from 13 to 11. He said this created an additional $1,525 reduction in projected revenue.

The remainder of the $100,000 shortfall is caused by an escalation of rates charged for electricity provided to the city by The Bonneville Power Administration, said Brinegar.

"Their prices have gone up faster than the electricity revenues brought in by the city," said Brinegar.

"It will be necessary for us to transfer BPA's rates to city consumer rates before we can make up the difference," he added.

The mayor is planning to meet with each of the city's department heads to discuss the necessary budget cuts they will have to make. Exactly where the cuts within the department budgets will be slashed has not yet been decided.

Construction mishap kills man

HAZELTON - A 65-year-old heavy equipment operator died Thursday afternoon when the large bucket scoop he was operating in a gravel pit northeast of Hazelton overturned.

Jerome County Sheriff Eliza Hall said Clifford Raymond Blirer, who resided in the Blue Lakes Mobile Home Court in Twin Falls, was dead at the scene. He was working for Twin Falls Construction Co., moving gravel and rock in a pit about three miles east and two and one-half miles north of Hazelton.

Hall said he will ask County Coroner Gerald Ostler, who was not available at the time of the accident, to call an autopsy.

He said Blirer may have suffered a heart attack or seizure, causing him to lose control of the machine, or died of injuries when the equipment rolled over him.

Explosion burn victim stable

GOODING - A Gooding radiator shop owner who suffered burns in an explosion earlier this week remained in stable condition Thursday in St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise.

Robert Young, 45, was taken to the Boise hospital for treatment Tuesday afternoon after a gasoline tank he was cleaning exploded in the shop he and his brother own. Fumes from the tank that had been removed from a car for welding exploded when he submerged it in the "boil-out" vat.

District court

TWIN FALLS - A psychiatric examination has been ordered for a 39-year-old woman accused of sexually molesting an 11-year-old boy. Julie K. Cowan of 475 Caswell Ave. in Twin Falls has been charged with lewd conduct with a minor under 16. According to a complaint filed with Fifth District Court, the incident occurred between March 24 and Sept. 8. Attorney Robert Galley, acting as a public defender, asked for a delay in the arraignment on the charge in order to have an examination performed. Galley said he wanted the examination to determine whether Cowan was competent enough to understand the proceedings Fifth District Judge Daniel Meehl approved the delay and will issue an order for the examination.

Public Defender Tim Wilson asked that Aguilar be released to the Port of Hope for an evaluation and inpatient substance abuse treatment. Meehl approved the request. A pre-sentence investigation also was ordered. The charge carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison. Joyce Simpson, no age available, and Melvin Simpson, 30, of Twin Falls, pleaded innocent to possession with the intent of selling cocaine, marijuana and methamphetamine on July 24. A trial will be scheduled later. The couple was released pending further proceedings.

Man pleads guilty in kidnap case

TWIN FALLS - Thomas Richard Turner of Twin Falls pleaded guilty to kidnaping and battery this week in Fifth District Court. Turner, 31, had been accused of abducting, beating and raping a woman Aug. 14. An additional charge of rape was dropped as part of a plea agreement that Turner plead guilty to the other two felony charges, according to court records. At a Tuesday hearing, Turner admitted his guilt to charges of first-degree kidnaping and battery with intent to commit a serious felony.

No charges will be filed against Turner, however, in connection with a fracas he caused during a preliminary hearing Dec. 12 on the charges. At the hearing, Turner produced a razor blade, started slashing at his left wrist and fought off about a half dozen deputies. Except for minor cuts to Turner, there were no other injuries. Twin Falls County Sheriff Jim Munn, who was present during the incident, said he believed the razor was smuggled from a Boise jail where Turner was being held on a theft charge.

Teen victims' parents set suit

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - The parents of two of five people killed in a traffic accident last May have filed a wrongful-death lawsuit seeking $24 million in damages. The suit was filed in federal District Court by the parents of Nancy Watson, 18, of Star, and Douglas R. Fisk, 18, of Gooding. The May 19 crash at the Berk Street overpass of Interstate 15 north of Salt Lake City killed five Brigham Young University students, including Miss Watson and Fisk. Each family is seeking more than $12 million in damages.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Daniel Hurlbut. Turner was returned to Ada County Jail.

Pilots shade Gooding by 5 Indians top Kimberly

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News writer

SHOSHONE Top-seeded Shoshone and third-ranked Glenns Ferry popped to the top by winning Fourth District A-3 championship quarterfinal battles Thursday night.

Glenns Ferry, picking up three straight three-pointers to erase a two-point deficit early in the fourth quarter, downed Gooding 56-51 in a well-played game while Shoshone overcame a wave of passing turnovers to outlast Kimberly 63-51.

Those two advance to the semifinals at 8:15 p.m. Saturday while the loser bracket moves into the spotlight with a pair of games at the Wendell gymnasium tonight. Declo and Gooding square off at 6:30 p.m. with Kimberly meeting Wendell in the nightcap. Both losers will begin their track seasons next week.

Glenns Ferry 56, Gooding 51

"Now you know why I voted for the three-point goal," smiled Glenns Ferry Coach Gordon Brown after his Pilots had outlasted Gooding.

He referred to a 45-second span two minutes into the fourth quarter when Rob Isenhart, Dave Bleek and John Solosabal ripped consecutive howitzers to open up a seven-point lead — an obstacle the Senators couldn't overcome.

"We couldn't get it inside on these big kids like we'd like to so we had to shoot from the outside," Brown said.

Gooding Coach Louis Andersen was as certain those three-pointers were the pivot of the game.

"When you go from two up to down seven in three shots, it's tough," Andersen said.

Glenns Ferry's nine-point blitz came just at the point it appeared Gooding might be putting together a come-from-behind decision and the rubber match thus far between Glenns Valley's two tallest teams.

Glenns Ferry broke a 10-10 tie on a Denny Reed field goal late in the first quarter and the Pilots didn't trail again until Gooding's Todd Simis opened the final period with a field goal. Glenns Ferry had a 38-31 lead with 5:33 left in the third quarter but then ran into a stone wall as Gooding inched back.

Simis' jumper made it 41-40 and seconds later Brian Darcy canned one of two free throws to pad the margin slightly.

But then came the blitz. But while the defender put the Senators on the ropes, it was a dinky little layup that provided the knockout punch.

"Even after those three-pointers we got back in it — until the turnover. That was the end of it," Andersen.

That turnover came when Isenhart flicked a Gooding pass off course, took one look at its new trajectory and headed downcourt. The deflection wound up in the hands of Solosabal who relayed it on to Isenhart for a 55-49 lead with 48 seconds showing.

"After that it didn't matter how big they were," said Brown. "They had to go with the three-pointer."

Brown wouldn't hazard any guesses as to how the win placed the odds.

"It's one better for sure," he said with a laugh, noting that the next task, Shoshone, was no bed of roses.

"The bad thing about this tournament is that you'll have to beat one of those two twice and the other one once at least to get there."

Brown said "I thought we played about as well as we are capable. We missed some cues on defense a time or two but if you can hold that bunch to 50 points, you've done a heckuva job."

Andersen said a season-long problem of "losing concentration a little in the late third and early fourth quarters" was a contributor to his team's loss. But quickly added "we were getting a little tired, too. It was a very hard fought game."

Shoshone 63, Kimberly 51

Yes, assessed Shoshone Coach Larry Messick, his team has passed better, shot the little inside shot better and generally been a little more attentive on defense.

"But," he said, "it's a victory and in this tournament they aren't easy to come by."

The final score really doesn't indicate the battle the stubborn and sixth-seeded Bulldogs gave his top-ranked Indians.

With just over five minutes left, Kimberly led 44-43. Then Shoshone outscored the Bulldogs 19-8 coming to the wire.

Shoshone actually started winning it when it began keeping the ball away from Kimberly postman Curt Holcomb. The 6-4 junior has belted around the Bulldogs throughout the night, coming up with scoring flurries that continually ate up leads of five to eight points.

Shoshone had its chance to blow things open in the third period when George Shimer, who was the "Holcomb" for the Indians in this one with 17 points, scored for a 40-31 lead. But Kimberly bounced back and when Holcomb opened the final period with back-to-back buckets, the lead changed hands and the race appeared on.

But just as quickly Doran Duffin tied it from the foul line and then scored on an inside shot with 5:02 to play. Shimer scored off a steal and Kelly Duffin added two charities. Kimberly's Corey Ziebart interrupted momentarily with a field goal but Doran Duffin then added four straight points and the race was

Big money event

At Magic Bowl

TWIN FALLS The third annual Cactus Pete's Open, the biggest bowling tournament in the state that attracts tour professionals from throughout the Pacific Northwest and Intermountain area, will be conducted this weekend at Magic Bowl.

The tournament, with Cactus Pete's adding $3,000, will offer approximately $15,000 in total prize money with first place taking home $1,700.

Jerry Miller of Twin Falls, a veteran money-winner on the PBA tour, said he expected competition to be stiff.

"I know some former professionals are coming out of the Portland area, Salt Lake City, Boise and other places. It will be the biggest tournament ever run in the state with the strongest field ever assembled in Idaho," he said.

The scratch competition will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday with qualifying for the 69-man and one-woman field. This will continue until 6:30 p.m. when the field will be cut to the top 14 bowlers. They will collide head-to-head in match play beginning at 11 a.m. Sunday and the eliminations will continue until only the champion remains about 5 p.m.

Miller said bowlers from Washington, Montana, North Dakota, Utah, Nevada, Oregon and Idaho are registered.

The bowlers and their wives will be feted Saturday night at a banquet for Cactus Pete's.

The lone woman entered is Barbara Smith of Twin Falls. She is joined by a large contingent of local bowlers including Jim Anderson, Ken Davis, Dave Gornik, Roger Graefe, Ed Hoover, John Irwin, Felix McLemore, Jerry Miller, Paul Miller, J.V. Mitchell, Lynn Pearson, Allen Quinnance, Brad Reichert, Dennis Shafer, Bill Trujillo, Steve Wasko, George Van DerWeer and Dave Ghani.

The public is invited to watch any part of the competition.

On the road

Astorquia hopes TF can concentrate against Bees

TWIN FALLS Making concentration will be the main key for Coach John Astorquia tonight when he takes his Bruins to Bonneville for the last regular season game of the season.

The game was moved back two weeks when the Big Sky Conference tournament in Boise pushed the state A-1 playoffs to the third weekend of March.

"Concentration is the challenge for us because the game really means nothing to either team," Astorquia pointed out. "Pocentello has the conference title in hand and neither of us can do anything about that.

"We don't know how Bonneville will be treating the game but we want to keep our concentration because the following week will be just like this one — four days of practice and then the district tournament.

"At this time of year, the attention of the player starts to wander, especially if we'd get a couple of nice spring days. If you don't concentrate in practice, you start making mistakes that will carry over into a game."

From an overall standpoint, however, Astorquia said his Bruins are "rising just about to the spot we want to be going into the tournament."

Bonneville has lost more games than it has won but Astorquia said "they have played well at times, and too well at others. The first time (the teams played) we controlled things pretty well but that was at home."

He said the major Bonneville weapon is 5-10 guard Breck Parkinson, who scored 17 points against Twin Falls the first time around.

"He's a quick guard who likes to penetrate," Astorquia said.

But overall, Bonneville doesn't have a lot of height, largely in the 6-1 and 6-2 area.

"We expect them to use multiple defense as they have in the past with some full and half-court traps," he continued. "They run the sideline fast break pretty well. If you let them control the tempo, you could be in trouble."

They played to within something like 12 or 13 points against Trikes in February a week ago so they have to be improved."

Trenkle said he anticipated a replay of last year's CSI-Colorado game, in which the home team went to a very deliberate offense and won by a point.

"I've heard they are running a slower tempo now so we are going in there expecting them to pass the ball and grind, grind, grind, waiting for the shot they want or for the defense to make a mistake," Trenkle said.

Brown free on bail as probe continues

LOS ANGELES (AP) Jim Brown was free on bail Thursday while officials tried to decide whether charges would be filed against the Hall of Fame running back, who was booked for investigation of rape and sexual battery.

Police said an investigation of the case was continuing.

Brown, 49, was arrested at his home Wednesday in the Hollywood Hills after an alleged incident late Tuesday night, said Sgt. Richard Beardlee, reading a prepared police statement.

Arrested along with Brown's was a woman identified as Carol Moses, 22, who was booked for sexual battery, according to Sgt. Charles McTeagart.

Brown was released on $17,500 bail and Moses on $1,000 bail, Beardlee said.

District attorney spokesman Al Albergate said Thursday that no charges had been filed.

"When they get the paperwork to us, we will review it," he said. "Basically, we are working with the Los Angeles police department to develop the investigation."

"We believe that process is at least going to take us through today and tomorrow so probably we will not have any decision on filing charges until early next week," Albergate said.

The police statement that the arrests stemmed from the complaint of a 33-year-old woman, who was not identified. She alleged that Brown, with Moses, raped her after Brown struck her several times. Police declined to elaborate on Moses' alleged involvement.

CSI to face Eastern Utah, Colorado Northwestern

TWIN FALLS The final two-game swing of the season will take College of Southern Idaho to Eastern Utah and Colorado Northwestern this weekend.

The Eagles will play in Price Friday night and move to Rangely Saturday in an attempt to increase their 24-4 seasonal record. But in the back of their minds will be next Wednesday's confrontation with Trikes, which also is CSI's final home appearance of the regular season.

The Golden Eagles hold season-best victories over both teams but Coach Fred Trenkle says that doesn't mean a lot.

"I felt we played our best game of the season last year in Eastern Utah and we won that fairly handily. But we'll have to play well to repeat this year," he said.

Colorado Northwestern posted its first victory ever against the Eagles last year after CSI had delivered about a 30-point loss on the Coloradoans earlier in the year.

"They have the two 6-7 players with them now," said Trenkle, referring to one who wasn't eligible the first time the teams met and another who was sidelined by injury — and understood they've made a substantial difference in Colorado Northwestern. I know

Crowds woeful, fan behavior deplorable at recent tourney

TWIN FALLS — Before the first day/night session of the combined girls A-1 and A-2 state basketball tournament was completed, Tournament Director Paul Ostyn was laughingly asking, "Could we get the A-3 and A-4 tournament back?"

He was posing the question to Idaho High School Activities Association Executive Director Dick Sletko.

The reason was simple. "I'll bet," said Ostyn, "that we haven't sold 25 student tickets from 9 o'clock this morning to now." (It was halftime of the final afternoon game.)

Ostyn, director of high school relations for CSI, has been directing most of the tournaments at the CSI gymnasium and he was disappointed in the crowds.

"I think the 90 percent rule is causing some of it for certain," Ostyn explained.

"But I think the major difference is that when schools with 65 to 100 students send 15 students with managers and coaches, they're sending a good percentage of the student body. These 15 players and their parents are probably a huge running thing and they demand that school be closed so their fans can come.

"In a school of 1,200 to 1,600, the loss of 15 players doesn't amount to anything and it's easy for them to say, 'You're all staying,'" Ostyn said.

But to emphasize his point, we counted the total house just prior to Madison and Preston tipping it off to begin the A-2 semifinals at 4:45 p.m. Friday.

Not counting the players of other game officials, there were 96 in the CSI gymnasium.

The matter of fans vs. officiating reaches more deplorable depths each season.

For instance, after Minico was ousted by Skyline, a Spartan fan accosted Ostyn about the terrible officiating. He said he was going looking for the official in question "and if I find him, I'm going to kill him."

Ostyn reminded the man that the state still has laws against such carryings-on, but the guy replied "I don't care, I'm going to kill him."

And another fan promised to whip another official within an inch of his life with his fists.

SSI, fans are amazing. One man from Preston sat in the stands and yelled "Three seconds, three seconds" every time Madison sent a high post above the foul line.

As the official was walking off the floor at halftime, the man, waving three fingers in the air, said, "Hey, you want to use my fingers?"

The Idaho Dairyman's Association has provided financial underwriting to support Idaho's boys and girls interscholastic state tournament competition.

Louis Ellers, Kimberly, a member of the association board, says the group wanted to associate with "the young people because we think it's a good place to be."

As sponsors, the dairyman have provided money to underwrite some of the tournament expenses. In addition, they have put together hospitality rooms at the tournament sites, offering whole and chocolate milk, cheese and ice cream bars.

"At the state wrestling tournament in Boise," Ellers reports, "they drank 160 gallons of milk in three days."

In the district A-2 boys tournament, Jerome Coach Ben Allen came a cropper.

Late in the game when his Tigers were playing Idaho's Indians, Allen turned to the timer and yelled, "Start the clock, start the clock."

In his excitement, Ben forgot that the timer, who has timed every Duhi game since heaven knows when and just about every A-2 district game since the event moved to the CSI gymnasium, is his father.

Oregon State erases 12-point halftime deficit to top ASU

TRUMP, Ariz. (AP) — A.C. Green scored 17 points and Steve Woodside added 15 as 19th-ranked Oregon State held on to beat Arizona State 75-64 in a Pacific-10 Conference game Thursday night.

Down 42-30 at halftime, the host Sun Devils cut their deficit to 52-49 on Bobby Thompson's three-point play with 14:04 remaining in the game.

Eric Knox, who had 11 points, sank four free throws in a three-minute span for a 63-53 Beaver edge. Darryl Flowers' foul shot with 7:50 to go made it 62-56 and Green added consecutive layups in a 12-second span for a 65-56 cushion with 4:10 left.

Thompson's jumper with 2:06 remaining brought Arizona State back to within 68-62.

Dean Derrah and Woodside each sank two free throws, however, and Green hit one with 22 seconds left before adding a slam dunk with four seconds remaining to seal the victory and average an 83-82 double-overtime loss to the Sun Devils on Jan. 26 in Corvallis.

Louisiana Tech 73, Lamar 65

MONROE, La. (AP) — Karl Malone scored 22 points and pulled down 14 rebounds and Willie Simmons scored 15 points and grabbed 11 rebounds Thursday night to give 19th-ranked Louisiana Tech a 73-65 victory over Lamar University and at least a share of the Southland Conference regular-season title.

The Bulldogs are 22-9 overall and 10-9 in the league, and it is their first conference title since 1976.

Bradley 69, Tulsa 64

THULSA, Okla. (AP) — Voice Winters scored 22 points to lead Bradley in upsetting No. 12 Tulsa, 69-64, in Missouri Valley Conference basketball action Thursday night.

The conference rivals exchanged leads early in the first half until, with 12:50 left, Winters hit a jumper to give Bradley a 16-12 advantage.

An aggressive Bradley defense and missed free throws by Tulsa allowed the Braves to build a 30-18 lead with 4:40 left. In the first half and helped them to a 34-25 lead at intermission.

Tulsa came out strong in the second half, hitting six unanswered points to narrow the deficit to 37-32. But a dunk by Winters at 16:05 dashed Tulsa's comeback and let Bradley widen its lead to 39-30 with 10:12 left in the game.

Illinois 66, Indiana 50

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Bruce Douglas scored a game-high 21 points as 16th-ranked Illinois defeated Indiana for the second time this season, 66-50, Thursday night in Big Ten Conference action.

The Ice Creams won in the opening 10 minutes as Indiana scrambled on top 17-16 on a basket by Steve Eyt with 10:22 remaining. But the Hoosiers were held scoreless by the Illini for just under six minutes. Illinois scored seven straight points to grab a 23-17 lead with 5:10 left in the half.

Indiana finally scored on a 22-footer by Steve Robinson with 4:12 left in the half to cut the deficit to 23-19. But Illinois scored nine of the final 13 points in the half, with Douglas adding five, to lead 22-23.

Indiana cut the gap to 24-27 in the opening two minutes of the second half on a 10-foot shot by Eyt. But that was as close as the Hoosiers could come the rest of the way.

Va. Commonwealth 85, W. Ky. 62

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Orlando Lamb scored 12 of his game-high 20 points in the second half to power Virginia Commonwealth's 7th-ranked Rams to an 85-62 Sun Belt Conference victory over Western Kentucky Thursday night.

The Sun Belt Conference-leading Rams, who improved to 21-4 overall and 11-2 in the conference, rolled up 55 second-half points to break the game open.

Georgia 86, Auburn 84

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Donald Hartry drilled a 15-foot jumper off a steal with five seconds remaining as 18th ranked Georgia overcame a three-point deficit in the final 30 seconds to retain a share of the Southeastern Conference lead with an 86-84 victory over Auburn Thursday night.

Hartry's basket came after freshman Cedric Henderson deflected a pass to Hartry for the winning basket. Auburn's Chuck Person failed on a 30-foot shot at the buzzer.

Air Force 52, Wyoming 49

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Forward John Jordan funnelled 12 points to lead the Air Force Falcons to a 52-49 win over Wyoming in their first Western Athletic Conference victory this season Thursday in Laramie.

Although the Wyoming Cowboys were down at halftime by 9 points and down by 18 points with just under 12 minutes left to go, they managed to come within 2 points of tying the score with approximately four seconds left to play but Wyoming's Quinn Wirth missed the front end of a one-and-one.

Fresno State 76, Utah State 58

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Junior center Brian Salome came off the bench to score a career-high 18 points, leading Fresno State to a 76-58 Pacific Coast Athletic Association win Thursday night over Utah State.

Forward Scott Brazier and guard Mitch Arnold added 16 points each for Fresno State, now 13-2 in conference and 18-6 overall, and Jos Kuipers scored 12.

Locals to enter Simplot Games

POCAHELLO Several Magic Valley schools will have at least some representation in the Simplot high school indoor track meet at Idaho State's Mindome Saturday.

Most of the athletes will be coming from Twin Falls, Jerome and Wood River.

But Jerome Coach Tim Dunne summed up the feelings of the others when he noted, "We're going in pretty low key."

Dunne said Jerome will send a contingent that "probably will let us have entries in most of the events." From last year, only long jumper Orin Egbert returns as a placer. He won girls' and boys' 100 meters and 400 meters in the state meet.

Wood River plans on sending three girls and seven boys. Coach John Hopkins said most of them will be entered in the sprints or tumbling events.

"We won't be sending many distance people. They have a long season ahead of them," the coach said.

"Twin Falls Coach Jerry Kleinkopf said the Braves will send 38 individuals.

"The number surprises us because we just let the kids decide if they wanted to go and pick the events they want to participate in," the coach said.

Kleinkopf said "we aren't pointing in any real way. I suppose the best performance will be by state high hurdle champion Doug Zakalyk. He's in shape. Our mile relay team that ran in state will run but probably only two of them are in good quarter-mile condition right now."

He added freshman Jemmy Hannah will run in a distance.

Gooding St. 50, Camas 39

Gooding State built up its game-long lead without a lot of resistance as the ice-cold Musers were nearly seven minutes before putting their first points on the scoreboard.

Both sides were hampered by an inordinate number of turnovers but neither managed a major push off the other's mistakes.

The Redskins, paced by Todd Kimmes' 15 points, held 16 lead points throughout the middle quarters.

Carey's chances look better seconds later when Richfield drew a foul but the Panther missed the free throw and the Tigers rebounded to wear out the clock.

Thad Whitesell led the Richfield rally effort by giving 5-5 from the field and 4-4 at the foul line. He also came up with critical rebounds during the fourth-quarter comeback.

Richfield 70, Carey 68
Carey had Richfield under missile attack throughout the first 26 minutes of this contest.

With Scott Pyrah, Kendall Peck and Brad Jolley blazing from the outside, Carey held leads up to 11 points in the first half when it shot 65 percent from the field.

The Panthers held the pace in the third quarter and with two minutes gone in the last period mounted a 12-point advantage. But at that point the Richfield height and bench depth started paying off. While Carey showed obvious signs of tiring, Richfield gathered momentum.

Still only a minute remained when Richfield took the lead for the first time on a bucket by Bruce Bowers. After Carey missed a shot, Richfield moved ahead by two when Tracy Swainstun hit the front end on a bonus foul. Carey again missed the possible tying shot but got a foul chance when Richfield was whistled for a lane violation.

Richfield 70, Carey 68
Richfield and Gooding State go about eliminating each other at 7 p.m. today at the Gooding High School gymnasium with the underdog team, Bliss and Carey, colliding at 8:30 p.m.

Worthy, Magic pace hot Lakers past Kings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — James Worthy scored 27 points and Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 19 rebounds and 17 assists to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 121-117 decision over Kansas City Thursday night.

The Lakers, leading the Pacific Division with a 40-16 record, had to fend off a late surge by Kansas City, which dropped to 18-37.

Los Angeles held a 105-94 lead with 7:43 to play in the final period when Kansas City's Reggie Miller sparked the offense and the Kings pulled to within 116-111 with 3:05 remaining when forward Eddie Johnson camed two free throws.

Theus, who notched a game-high 28 points, scored 11 points in the final quarter, including nine in the last seven minutes.

But the Lakers refused to give in to the Midwest Division's last-place team and exchanged baskets with Kansas City during the final three minutes. The victory was Los Angeles' 12th consecutive over Kansas City.

Jackpot ends season with loss to Owyhee

WELLS, Nev. (AP) — The inaugural season for the Jackpot Jaguars boys basketball team ended Thursday night with a 94-50 loss to Owyhee in zone tournament action.

The one-sided margin didn't dampen the spirit of Coach Chris Kleas, however. "I'm happy we hung in there," he said. "Owyhee are just the class of the league," Kleas noted.

Owyhee should win the tourney," Kleas added. "They're playing the best ball right now."

Celtics ink Ray Williams

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics said Thursday the National Basketball Association club has signed free agent guard Ray Williams to an offer the New York Knicks must match or lose the seven-year veteran.

The signing came hours after arbitrator Arthur Stark ruling that Boston could offer Williams $125,000 for the rest of the NBA season.

Williams favored that amount, while the NBA contended that the club could pay him only part of it based on the number of games he would be with the Celtics.

The Knicks now have 15 days in which to match the Celtics' offer and keep Williams or let him go to Boston without compensation. New York already is over its salary cap.

Washburn back next year?

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Freshman Chris Washburn of North Carolina State won't return to the Wolfpack basketball team this year in the wake of his theft of a fellow athlete's stereo but is expected back next season, Coach Jim Valvano said Thursday.

"I fully believe this incident will eventually have a positive influence on Chris' future and that he will become a member in good standing of our basketball program for the 1985-86 season," Valvano said.

The 6-foot-11 center, one of the nation's most highly touted freshmen, was suspended from the Wolfpack squad in December the day he was charged with second degree burglary.

Washburn pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and was given a suspended sentence and ordered to perform community service work.

Expos' Raines gets big bucks

NEW YORK (AP) — Montreal Expos outfielder Tim Raines won the largest contract ever awarded in an arbitration case Thursday when an arbitrator ruled that the Expos should pay him $1.2 million in 1985.

The case was heard on Wednesday in Chicago before arbitrator Tom Roberts, who made his ruling Thursday. Raines' agent, Tom Reich, said. The Expos had offered Raines $1 million.

The previous largest arbitration award was the $1 million granted Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Fernando Valenzuela in 1983.

"If anybody deserves it, it's this player," Reich said of Raines, who was en route from Chicago to his home near the Expos' spring training site in West Palm Beach, Fla.

"He has become as good a player as there is in the game."

Raines led the National League last year in steals with 75 and in doubles with 38. The 25-year-old outfielder hit 309 in 160 games with eight homers, 60 RBI and 106 runs scored.

Last season was the fourth in which he has exceeded 70 stolen bases. He had 90 in 1983, 78 in 1982 and 71 in 80 games during the strike-shortened 1981 season.

Clemente's son a Pirate

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Luis Roberto Clemente, son of the late baseball Hall of Famer Roberto Clemente, has signed a contract with his father's former team, the Pittsburgh Pirates, a spokesman for the National League team said Thursday.

The younger Clemente, 18, will play with the Pirates' Bradenton club in the Gulf Coast Rookie League.

He is the second of Clemente's three sons to enter professional baseball. His 19-year-old brother, Roberto Jr., played with the Philadelphia Phillies' Gulf Coast Rookie League team last season.

Mattingly goes under knife

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees first baseman Don Mattingly, the 1984 American League batting champion, will undergo arthroscopic surgery on his right knee Friday at New York University Medical Center, the club announced.

Mattingly injured the knee while doing back strengthening exercises at his home in Evansville, Ind., Tuesday, said the team. He has been doing the exercises regularly over the past four years, the Yankees noted.

The operation, to be performed by Dr. John Honano, the Yankees' physician, is not considered serious, the club said, and Mattingly is expected to report to spring training with the other regulars Feb. 27.

Baseball meetings continue

NEW YORK (AP) — The Major League Players Association on Thursday presented a written proposal to owners that would modify the free-agent re-entry draft and rating system, and the two sides in baseball's labor talks continued their discussions on expansion.

In addition, the players' union said it submitted another proposal to increase the salary of rookie major league players, who currently receive $40,000. The union refused to reveal the figure for which they had asked.

Although details of the free-agent proposal were not divulged, acting executive director of the M.L.P.A., Don Fehr, has said the union believes the re-entry draft serves only to restrict movement of the players.

The union has proposed scrapping the draft altogether and allowing free-agent players to negotiate with whatever teams they want.

Bengals sign Collinsworth

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals announced Thursday the signing of All-Pro wide receiver Chris Collinsworth to a multi-year contract.

The Bengals refused to disclose any terms of the contract, which will allow Collinsworth — one of the Bengals' most popular players — to remain in the National Football League.

The four-year veteran and a three-time All-Pro played for Cincinnati through the 1984 season, then left expecting to fulfill an agreement he had made two years ago to sign with the Tampa Bay Bandits of the United States Football League.

However, the Bandits released Collinsworth from that agreement earlier this week, saying Lloyds of London would not insure Collinsworth's ankles against injury.

Bid to buy USFL's Express

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An executive with a group seeking to buy the Los Angeles Express said Thursday he hopes to hear "something in the next few days" about acquiring the Express or another United States Football League franchise to play in Hawaii in 1986.

"The sand's falling out of the battle right now," said Tim Leedom, president of Nationwide Professional Search Inc., referring to the start of the USFL season this weekend.

"I'm very optimistic. I think the timing is right. We've been in touch with the league office," Leedom added in a telephone interview from his office in nearby Mission Viejo.

The Express currently has no owner and is being run by the league.

USFL to try replays on controversial calls

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Football League said Thursday it will use televised instant replays to decide appeals of controversial plays during the 1985 season, which starts this weekend.

ABC-TV, which televises USFL games, said it would be "totally uninvolved" in the replay process. Commissioner Harry Usher said the instant replay, used on an experimental basis in two preseason games, will be used during Sunday's game between the Birmingham Stallions and New Jersey Generals. The game will be televised nationally by ABC.

"After meeting with our football operations people, I decided that instant replay was an idea whose time had come," Usher said.

"As I said when I announced our test of instant replay, this concept will bring added fun, excitement and suspense to the game," he said. "Most important, it will eliminate a lot of second guessing about questionable calls in crucial games."

The USFL said it would use the instant replay in "appropriate" televised games during the season. USFL spokesman Jim Byrne said the replay probably would be used only for the ABC games.

ESPN, the all-sports cable network, also broadcasts USFL games. Like ABC, ESPN has said it was against getting involved in the replay process.

As in the preseason, appeals will be limited to three types of plays — whether a ball has been fumbled; whether a pass is complete, incomplete or intercepted; and whether a ballcarrier has penetrated the goal line.

To appeal a play, the head coach must notify the official prior to the next snap or free kick. The referee will then drop a red flag, call time out and signal the official in the press box, who will review the play and make a decision.

There were three such appeals during the two preseason games. In each case, USFL supervisor of officials Cal Lepore, sitting in the press box, upheld the officials' original decision.

Usher said there was no need for isolated or reverse-angle shots and that "there will be no calls reversed except in very clear-cut situations."

ABC, meanwhile, reiterated that it will not participate in the replays.

"If we show a replay, it will already have been seen by the television audience," the network said in a prepared statement. "We have stated before that we thought there should be a clear difference between our responsibility as a broadcaster and any role we might have in game decisions."

Meet features Coghlan, Brisco-Hooks

NEW YORK (AP) — Distance runner Fiamonn Coghlan, the "Chairman of the Boards," seeks to complete an undefeated season and sprinter Valerie Brisco-Hooks shoots for another world indoor best today in the USA-Mobil Indoor Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden.

The 32-year-old Coghlan, unbeaten in eight races this year, including seven at a mile and one at two miles, is entered in the three-mile event. He has said he will be chasing the world indoor best of 12 minutes, 54.6 seconds, set by Emiel Puttemans of Belgium in 1976 — a mark he considers "soft."

Puttemans set the mark on a 200-meter track in Paris, en route to breaking the world indoor best in the 5,000 meters. Coghlan will be running on an 11-lap track. "It (breaking the mark) is tougher on an 11-lap track," said Coghlan, noting that having to make more turns on a tighter, more widely banked track can add precious seconds to a runner's time.

In addition, Coghlan said he probably would not have the benefit of "a rabbit," or pacesetter, as he had in 1983 when he set the world indoor best of 12:29.78 in the mile at the Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J.

"This is a championship meet, and every runner in the field is out to win the championship, so if I'm going to get the record, I'm going to have to set my own pace," he said.

Coghlan said that if the pace for the first mile is about 4:15 and the two-mile time is between 8:30-8:40, he would have an excellent chance at the mark. "I feel in shape to do it," he said.

Having come off injuries and having missed the Olympics last year, my main objective was to win all my indoor races this season," Coghlan said, referring to the 1984 indoor and outdoor seasons, which he missed because of a stress fracture of the leg. It was the same injury that forced him to miss the 1982 campaigns.

This year, Coghlan has come back brilliantly, stretching his indoor winning streak since 1981 to 15, 13 over one mile.

The last time Coghlan ran three miles was in the 1981 USA Indoor Championships, and missed Put-tenans' mark by two-tenths of a second, clocking 12:54.80.

Tonight, Coghlan will be in a field that includes defending champion Doug Padilla, Olympic marathon silver medalist John Treacy of Ireland, Peter Koech of Kenya, Graeme Fell of Britain, Kevin Ryan of New Zealand and Bill Krohn.

Brisco-Hooks, the triple Olympic gold medalist, had qualified for both the 220-yard and 440-yard dashes, but decided to run only the shorter sprint. "Because I'm tired of running quarter-miles and I've accomplished all I set out to do in that event this year."

Those accomplishments include establishing world bests at 440 yards (52.99) and 500 yards (1:02.3) and an American record.

Rookie finds playing at Doral a real breeze

MIAMI (AP) — Rookie Greg Twiggis used a howling wind to set up a last-hole birdie that provided him with the first-round lead Thursday in the $400,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament.

Twiggis, who has yet to make a cut on the PGA Tour, said he played a 7-iron shot some 35 yards to the left on his 18th hole, let the wind bring it back to within six feet of the flag and made the birdie putt that finished off a round of 68.

That 4-under-par effort, in winds gusting over 35 mph, staked Twiggis to a one-stroke lead over PGA champion Lee Trevino, long noted as a premier wind player, and Fred Couples, tied at 69.

Couples, current holder of the Tournament Players Championship, had a share of the lead until he bogeyed the 18th from a bunker but called it "the best round I've played this year."

Trevino, 45, said he "hit the driver awful. I can't remember when I hit that many off line."

But he got to within a single stroke of the lead by holing a bunker shot for a birdie and observed: "I can always find some way to play."

Golf

Jack Nicklaus holed from a bunker on the 18th and still had a 76.

But that was two shots better than Seve Ballesteros, the British Open champion who was making his first appearance of the year.

U.S. Open titleholder Fuzzy Zoeller, making his first start since major back surgery, managed a much more respectable 74.

Defending champion Tom Kite had a place among the leaders until he bogeyed two of the last four holes. He finished with a 71.

The group at 70, 2-under par and two strokes off the pace, included Andy Bean, Peter Oosterhuis, Barry Jarecki, Bill Kratzer, Mark McCumber, Gibby Gilbert and Bob Wrenn.

Twiggis, 25, said he won seven tournaments last year in mini-tour competition and collected "almost $80,000" before gaining his playing rights on the PGA Tour.

Massey, Palli top Tucson through incomplete round

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Debbie Massey and Anne-Marie Palli each shot 2-under-par 70 Thursday to share the uncompleted, rain-shortened first-round lead of the $175,000 LPGA Circle K Tucson Open.

Massey, 34, and Palli, 29, were among 97 players who completed their opening round, despite a two-hour morning delay on the 6,212-yard, par-72 Randolph Golf Course.

The 39 players who did not finish because of darkness will finish their round early Friday.

Among those stranded on the course was Jane Lack, who was stopped one hole shy of possibly taking over the lead. The two-year pro, seeking her first tournament victory, was 3-under-par through 17 holes when play was called because of darkness.

Betsy King, last year's player of the year, was one stroke back also through 17 holes.

Play was temporarily suspended at 9:47 a.m. MST because of rain-soaked greens. Temperatures peaked at 49 degrees and the wind was estimated at 29 mph, tour officials said. The field of 136, including two amateurs, resumed play at 11:44 a.m.

Pat Bradley, 33, a 10-year pro who is currently seventh on the LPGA money earnings, was among six players tied for third at 71.

The others were 1982 Tucson winner Ayoko Okamoto, Muffin Spencer-Devlin, Bonnie Lauer, Cindy Hill and Lisa Young.

Something about horses

Chady Drown next to a few of her watercolor paintings of horses in which she instills American Indian symbolism
Artist's Indian heritage comes through in her unusual works

By DIANE SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS Chady Drown is a Twin Falls artist whose southwestern heritage is reflected in her work.

Born in Arizona of Indian heritage, Drown's roots are for her a way of life. "My mother instilled in me the southwestern (Indian) culture, and the beliefs of the Indian," says Drown. "She was my main supply, my main source."

"Horses are what I do best," says Drown but her horses are not everyday animals.

"What they are is the American Indian horse the spirit horse," explains Drown. "They are the inner horse."

The horses may be any color — red, blue, purple — but the colors for each particular horse are not chosen haphazardly, says Drown. The color chosen depends on the meaning of the subject she is painting, based on Indian religious beliefs.

"In the Apache religion," says Drown, "the horse is the symbol of the protector. The flowing mane and tail mean freedom."

Drown's spirit horses don't live in recognizable landscapes such as pastures or barns. They are painted onto backgrounds that are "watercolor variations," says Drown. "They are suspended in a space."

Drown says her painting style has been called "impressionistic and also Indian style. I've also heard it called the oriental touch," she says. She works mostly in watercolor and gouache on opaque watercolor.

"I like to tell stories with my pictures," says Drown. "What I do is personal renderings of many beliefs."

The title she gives each painting explains to the viewer the theme of that painting.

"Earth, Wind and Fire" shows three horses in blue, white and red. "Coming Forth" depicts a gray horse emerging from out of the mist. "Thunder and Lightning" are two horses, one blue and black and one mauve and rose, showing extreme physical action. "Concern" shows real concern on the face of one horse as it looks over at another.

Even though the horses are spiritual, floating creatures, they are always structurally correct. They embody the sense of wonder humans have about the horse.

"There is something ethereal and majestic about horses," says Drown, something she attempts to show in her paintings. "My horses don't touch the ground."

Drown also does what she calls her canyonland horses. These artworks are miniatures — tiny horses painted on small pieces of sandstone she gathers at Kanab, Utah.

Drown was exposed early in life to many different cultures. When she was 4 years old, her mother, an English professor, received the Fulbright grant from Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah, to teach English to foreign students abroad. Drown and her brother and sister accompanied their mother overseas while she taught at several universities in different countries.

Symphony set for 2nd show

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS The Magic Valley Symphony is presenting its second concert of the season at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Guest artists for the concert are Moscow's William and Linda Wharton, cellists. They are best known in the Magic Valley for recent performances at the Renaissance Academy of the Arts and for performances in Twin Falls schools in 1977. Recently, they completed a tour of seven states in which they gave 30 concerts.

Linda Wharton is known in the Pullman-Moscow area as the principal cellist and soloist with the Washington-Idaho Symphony. A performance graduate of the Interlochen Arts Academy and the University of Wisconsin, she has served as cellist in the Tucson Symphony, Youngstown, Ohio Symphony, and the Spokane Symphony.

William Wharton, a New Orleans native and a Tulane University graduate, originally trained as a chemist and worked briefly for the U.S. government.

Wharton describes his back-door entry into the musical world with a good bit of humor, saying, "I was the one they always put in the last chair." Starting out on the piano, he says his first experience with the cello, came during a school orchestra audition where some 15 others also tried for the piano slot.

"The conductor told me I'd have to play either cello or bass," he says, adding that with only two other boys in cello, it looked pretty safe.

Wharton says he played some recreational music in college, but didn't take it seriously until he went for his master's degree in chemistry, supplementing that education with music classes. Progressing rapidly on the cello, he turned his career to music and has been with it since.

Currently professor of cello at the University of Idaho, Wharton has had 10 years experience teaching at the college level and has served as principal cellist of several symphonies.

During Tuesday's performance, Linda Wharton will play Bruch's "Kol Nidrei" and William Wharton will play "Toccata Variations" by Tchaikovsky. They will team to play Handel's "Sonata in G Minor" in a special arrangement for two cello and orchestra written by William Wharton.

The Symphony will also play "Merry Wives of Windsor Overture" by Nicolai, and Beethoven's "Symphony No. 8." Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for students and senior citizens and can be purchased at the door or in advance at Warner Music or Ann's Hallmark.

Twin Falls native makes first album

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

BOISE Ever since he graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1966, Ross Miller has had a craving to write and record songs.

But it took 13 years before he actually brought that dream to reality by recording his first 45 with the songs, "I Can Love Her Anyway" and "I Love of My Life" in 1979.

Recently returning to Mountain Meadow Studios in Ogden, Utah, where he recorded that 45, Miller has cut his first LP album, "No Such Thing as Good-bye," which features the two songs from his earlier 45 along with nine others. He describes it as "easy listening with a folk flavor."

Calling the album "a blood, sweat and tears thing," the songwriter says he's actually worked on it since 1979, writing and making two dozen trips to the studio to record one track at a time including vocal, guitar, string, piano and backup.

Miller, who's studying at Boise State University for a degree in social work, says he isn't writing and recording music to get rich. In fact, he has about $5,000 invested in the first 500 platters of "No Such Thing as Goodbye" with no guarantee of recovering his money.

"This is not to make money," he says. "I know this sounds a little strange, but I'm doing it for posterity. When I watch a John Wayne movie, he's not really dead. He's right there." • See MILLER on Page C2

Utah Symphony returning for fifth Jerome performance

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

JEROME The number "five" should be a significant number for Magic Valley music lovers when the Utah Symphony returns to the Jerome High School Auditorium March 1 at 8 p.m.

Not only will it be the symphony's fifth performance in the auditorium, but it will be the Magic Valley debut for the symphony's fifth conductor, Joseph Silverstein. An internationally acclaimed violinist, Silverstein has served as assistant conductor of the Boston Symphony since 1971.

In that capacity, he also acted as music director of the Boston Chamber Players, leading that group in tours of the U.S., Europe and the Soviet Union. His other conducting credits include music director of the Worcester Symphony, interim music director of the Toledo Symphony, principal guest conductor of the Baltimore Symphony, and guest conductor of the orchestras of Los Angeles, Washington, Houston, St. Louis, Rochester, San Francisco, Kansas City, St. Paul and Jerusalem.

Silverstein, a Detroit native, began his musical training under his father and later attended the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia where he studied with such luminaries as Josef Gingold, Mischa Mischaikoff and Efrem Zimbalist.

Joining the Boston Symphony Orchestra in 1955 at age 23, he went on to become a medalist in the 1959 Queen Elisabeth of Belgium Competition, and to win the Walter M. Naumburg Award. In 1962 he was named concertmaster of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

As a soloist, he has appeared with the orchestras of Geneva, Jerusalem, Brussels, Denver, Detroit, Los Angeles, New York, Indianapolis, Philadelphia and Rochester.

His recordings have won extensive critical acclaim including a Grammy nomination for Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons" made with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Silverstein has also served as faculty chairman of Boston's Berkshire Music Institute and as adjunct professor at Yale and Boston Universities. He has received honorary degrees from Tufts University and Boston College, and is a member of the American Academy of Art and Science.

Since its first concert on May 8, 1940, the Utah Symphony has grown from an obscure ensemble of 52 local musicians to one of the country's major symphony orchestras with 85 musicians.

Ranking third in the U.S. in the total number of performances given by a major orchestra, the symphony presents more than 200 concerts each season, gaining worldwide prestige by appearing across the globe. It has been hosted by many guest dignitaries including Arthur Fiedler, Arthur Schnabel and Itzhak Perlman.

Ethel Nelson of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce notes that the local appearances of the Utah Symphony first began as an attempt to show off the Jerome High School Auditorium.

"The Boise Philharmonic had been here twice," she says, "and everybody raved about the performances."

Nelson says there was enough confidence with the auditorium's acoustics to invite the major symphony orchestra. They received rave reviews, and have kept coming back, she points out.

Friday's program begins with "Overture to the 'Creatures of Promethus'" by Beethoven. Silverstein is then scheduled to perform Barber's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra," and the symphony will conclude with Elgar's "Symphony No. 1, in A Flat Major."

Admission is $7, or $30 for patron tickets for two seats and program listing. Tickets are available at all First Security Banks in the Magic Valley, Hyatt's, the Book Mark and the Chamber of Commerce in Jerome, and The Music Center, Ann's Hallmark and Warner's Music in Twin Falls.

Joseph Silverstein, artistic director of the Utah Symphony, will conduct in Jerome show

Despite 'Wives,' ABC in last place

NEW YORK (AP) -- The opening installment of ABC's splashy, sexy "Hollywood Wives" performed solidly, finishing as the week's No. 7 show, but it did not live up to many expectations and could not prevent the third-rated network from another last-place finish.

"Hollywood Wives," the fictional miniseries about the women behind the entertainment capital's most powerful men, had a 2.0 rating and a 33 share on Sunday night, according to figures released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co.

CBS, which on Sunday (with its regular series) and four other nights, was the top-rated network for the week of Feb. 11-17 with an average prime-time rating of 18.2. NBC, with "The Cosby Show" No. 1 for the third consecutive week, was second with a 16.2. ABC had a 15.3.

With nine weeks left in the 30-week prime-time season, the ratings are: CBS-17.2, NBC-16.3 and ABC-15.6. CBS estimates that ABC would have to beat NBC by an average of 1.6 rating points a week to tie NBC, while NBC would have to beat CBS by an average of 2.1 rating points a week to tie CBS.

One rating point equals 1 percent of the nation's 84.9 million TV homes. A share measures, on average, the percentage of sets turned on that are tuned to a particular network.

third-place finish in a decade, the network has scheduled several special-event programs, but none was more highly touted than "Hollywood Wives."

"We forecast it would get a 40 share," said Mike Elsenberg, CBS' director of audience measurement. "It's certainly not going to do that, and that's got to hurt."

Gerald Jaffe, NBC's vice president for research projects, said he forecast that "Hollywood Wives" would attract 37 percent (share) of the viewing audience, and "it must be a tremendous disappointment for them."

"The levels are not very much off what we had hoped," said Marvin Mord.

Miller

In front of me. That's what I'm doing by recording. I'm leaving something behind that I hope people enjoy."

Concerning the message of his album, Miller says he "tried to put in as many different aspects of love as I possible could -- having it, losing it, dreaming about it, jealousy and even love about Idaho."

Miller notes that a good portion of the album is autobiographical, tinged with some fantasy. Mostly, though, it's a means of expressing himself, he says, adding, "You have to have a romanticist type personality to want to do this."

From previous experience, the songwriter says he knows his work has just begun. Suffering no illusions about promotion, he says he knows it is a rough road to get air time but notes that some Boise radio stations have already agreed to air the album. He says he will soon be contacting Magic Valley Stations about playing it.

Besides his college studies, Miller also plays with the Boise band, "Trigger Happy," but acknowledges he has never been able to pursue music on a full-time basis.

"Sometimes dreams of youth can be prevented by responsibilities," he says, explaining that he is rearing a teen-age son along with all the other realities of adulthood.

Yet, it appears the romanticist's musical future is alive and well when he says, "Maybe someday, after my son is grown, then I might really pursue the music business."

They were overseas about four years, says Drown, mostly in Bangkok, Thailand, but they spent time in many places, including Lebanon, Pakistan and India.

"The only place I know we weren't was Egypt," says Drown. "I grew up with all sorts of cultures and peoples."

When Drown later married, she moved from Utah to Twin Falls with her husband because of his work. Now divorced, Drown says she has no plans to leave the Twin Falls area.

"The people make it for me here," she says. "The Twin Falls people are supportive of their neighbors. They are not antagonistic or closed."

She adds that Twin Falls has many faces, that it is its own little melting pot of people and culture.

Drown shares her home with her 14-year-old daughter, Holly Lee. She rodeoed up until two years ago and hopes to show horses this summer.

Although horses are her favorite subject artistically, Drown does do other things, from sign painting to leatherwork.

For the last year and a half, she has been running the Heritage Art Gallery in downtown Twin Falls. She shares the shop with the Outpost, run by Carol Butler of Buhl. The Outpost features early American and native American items such as beadwork, pottery, baskets and leather apparel which combine well with the western heritage paintings and photographs (landscapes, wildlife, Indians) displayed by the Heritage Gallery.

Named the Heritage because of the part her own heritage has played in her life, the gallery contains Drown's own work and the work of many outstanding local artists.

Drown plans to give watercolor technique classes at the gallery this spring. Some of her paintings are in galleries in Coeur d'Alene, Seattle, Montana, Arizona and Colorado.

Drown says that not all the buyers of her paintings buy because they are horse lovers.

"Eighty percent buy because of the color and the intrigue," she says.

"Art is a personal thing to me," says Drown. "I can't even remember when I started drawing." She says it is hard to explain where the ideas for her paintings come from.

"Some of them I dream," she says. Drown is not afraid of running out of ideas or inspiration for her work.

"A really fantastic woman once told me to paint 'where I come from, who I am and what I know.'"

"And I've always tried to do that," she says.

Gallery exhibits baskets

By BARBARA NEIWEIT
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM - Images Gallery is featuring a show entitled "Baskets and Beyond," an exhibit bringing together the artistic offerings of 10 nationally known basket makers.

The exhibit continues through March 21 at the gallery, located at Fourth and Leadville in Ketchum. Gallery owner Gail Severn says the exhibit is titled "Images and Beyond" as the baskets vary from the traditional to the abstract and include works that are not what some people would conceive as baskets.

Featured artists include Debra Saupé of Portland, Ore.; Maxine Kirkmeyer of San Jose, Calif.; Jean Pattanone of New Lebanon, N.Y.; Mary Harper of Shingletown, Calif.; Christina Adcock of Santa Barbara, Calif.; Ken and Kathleen Dalton of Coker Creek, Tenn.; Alice Wand of Saranac Lake, N.Y.; Dick Tunkel of Knoxville, Tenn.; and Susan Colbin of New York City.

The baskets on display at the Images Gallery in Ketchum represent a range of styles

The basketry techniques of these artists are as varied as their hometowns. Baskets are sculptured, spherical, traditional, old-fashioned, sophisticated, formal, intricate or very simple.

A variety of materials is used in the creation of the baskets including hand-tied reed, raffia, jute, rice straw, pine needles, vines and hand-made paper.

The most abstract basket of the exhibit is a combination of reed, wire screen, tar and paint.

"All artists are nationally known and respected in their field," says Severn. "Their baskets are distinctive in design and coloration."

Basket prices for this exhibit range from $45 to $1,200. The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Poets' series continues

BOISE - The popular poetry series, "Poets on Poetry, Art and the Quest for Humanistic Knowledge," continues with five more nationally-recognized poets appearing at the Boise Gallery of Art.

Sponsored by a grant from the Association for the Humanities in Idaho, the series begins Wednesday and continues Wednesday evenings at 4 p.m. First reading will be by Robert Peters, who often assumes the identity of famous figures in history. He will read from his newest book, "Mad King Ludwig of Bavaria."

Other poets to appear in the series are Marina LaPalma, Barbara Einzig, Jerome Rothenberg and Robert Duncan. On June 19, project director Norman Weinstein will present a summary of the five visiting poets' contributions and read some of his recent poems.

'Cosby,' 'Highway' win network renewals

NEW YORK (AP) - NBC's "The Cosby Show" and "Highway to Heaven," two of the only new hits from the 1984-85 television season, have been renewed for next season, the network announced Tuesday.

These two G-rated shows, starring comedian Bill Cosby and longtime television star Michael Landon, have been key factors in making NBC the second-rated network this season.

"The Cosby Show," starring Cosby as an obstetrician and father of his own brood of five kids, is the most successful comedy in recent seasons and has been a boon for NBC's Thursday night schedule.

"Cosby" threw a halo around the whole night," said John Sisk, senior vice president and director of network negotiating for the J. Walter Thompson ad agency.

Following in its wake, NBC's other Thursday night comedies, "Family Ties," "Cheers" and "Night Court," all have dramatically raised their ratings from last season.

In addition, the TV sitcom, which had been pronounced dead last season because no comedy finished in the top 10, has been having a resurgence, principally because of the critically acclaimed "Cosby."

top-rated program each of the past three weeks, and two-thirds through the season, "Cosby" is ranked third, behind CBS' "Dallas" and ABC's "Dynasty" - programs that are not for the whole family. Before the season began, Cosby said he was returning to commercial TV because there wasn't enough pro-family shows in prime time.

"I have six TV sets," he said at the time. "It's less expensive to do a series than throw them all out."

Michael Landon, executive producer and star of "Highway to Heaven," makes the only 8 o'clock drama that doesn't have guns and helicopters. Landon plays an angel whose good deeds and wisdom help humans find their way on Earth.

PG-13 Rating Introduced

A new rating category is in place as of July 1. This new category is inserted between the current PG and R ratings. It is designated as "PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for attendance of children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children."

The revised five-category system of the voluntary film industry rating program is now as follows:

G: General Audiences, all ages admitted.

PG: Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children.

PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.

R: Restricted, under-17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.

X: No one under 17 admitted. All films rated after July 1 will be given ratings under the new five-category system.

What's what

Among private pilots, physicians are the deadliest, according to the statisticians. One study shows medical doctors have been involved in four times as many fatal crashes as any other professionals. No explanation?

Here's an answer you can rely on no matter how many times the question occurs to you in your daily routine: A robin has just about twice as many feathers as a hummingbird.

Canal diggers of The Netherlands divided the city of Amsterdam into about 90 islands connected by 400 bridges.

It was the French who first dreamed up that thing called compulsory military training.

KEY'S CAREER

Q. What did Francis Scott Key, who wrote the words to "The Star-Spangled Banner," do for a living?

A. Practiced law. And practiced. And practiced. And wound up as District Attorney in Washington, D.C.

There are still a few people around who as children never played that game called Monopoly. It turns age 50 this year.

Q. How does the honeybee know which direction the scent of blossoms is coming from?

A. He doesn't. All the honeybee knows is "upwind." He zigzags thataway.

Says here 75 percent of the women in the United States at any given time are on some sort of diet. Could that be right?

ROYAL RITES

In ceremonies to turn symbolic power over to monarchs, Great Britain and The Netherlands do it differently. Englanders crown their queen - they put the crown on her head. Hollanders enthroned theirs - they put the queen on the throne. Ritualists in both nations think it matters.

The number of female eggs necessary to propagate the entire next generation of the human race could be contained within a hen's eggshell.

In Iran now, according to correspondents who purport to know, a bottle of bootleg U.S. whiskey goes for the equivalent of $235.

Only a fourth of the items in the Library of Congress are books.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to turn new acquaintances into good friends today and don't be so concerned with money matters.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into civic duties and add to present prestige and forget a partner who is acting strangely today.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle only work that is important today and then be off to make calls, visit with interesting people and enrich your way of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Early get at your regular work and make it more pleasant by using mechanisms that make it easier to handle.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at tasks that will please kin, and make the home more comfortable instead of running off on tangents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get together with congenials and forget that monetary problem that has you upset for awhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Your hunches are not very accurate in the morning so go along with the views of others, particularly where money is concerned.

Don't miss 'Killing Fields'

By The Los Angeles Times

To assist parents in evaluating movies for family viewing, the Los Angeles Times lists current movies and indicates areas of content (theme, language, sex, violence) that may be inappropriate for the very young or impressionable. MPA or The Times' ratings are in parentheses.

Ratings are by the Motion Picture Association. Opinions are by Los Angeles Times reviewers.

AVENGING ANGEL (R) Schlock is with us always. A tragic fall-out of Angel's kindly lieutenant (from the first "Angel") sends Angel to vengeance. But once again, it's her ragtag street associates who provide most of the fun, especially Susan Tyrrell. And once again, Robert Vincent O'Neil demonstrates a penetration into Hollywood as sharp as that of a visiting fireman from Dubuque, creating a gallery of lookers who wouldn't be out of place on Disneyland's Main Street.

THE FALCON AND THE SNOWMAN (R) nudity and language. A thoughtful, intensely dramatic, superbly acted depiction of one of the most baffling spy stories of recent times. This is not the stuff of John Le Carré and Robert Ludlum. "The Falcon and the Snowman" concerns real people in familiar settings, driven to desperate deeds almost by whim. John Schlesinger ("Darling," "Sunday Bloody Sunday") is admittedly drawn to "people on the fringe." With "The Falcon and the Snowman," the director has a combination as perfect as Dustin Hoffman and Jon Voight in "Midnight Cowboy." Timothy Hutton as the falconer Boyce is the strong center of the film with a brilliant portrayal of a confused sense of rectitude. Sean Penn has the more flamboyant role as the dope-dealing Lee, and he is nothing less than sensational. JOHNNY DANGEROUSLY (PG-13) Blunt language, raunchy humor. Should read "Disastrously." Yet another uninspired, scatter-shot spoof of old gangster movies that moves down lots of good people, but Michael Keaton (in the title role) is nimble enough to come across as a survivor. With Joe Piscopo, Marilu Henner, Maureen Stapleton, Peter Boyle.

Capsule reviews

THE KILLING FIELDS (R) Shockingly realistic wartime violence. This is a story of an enduring friendship and the will to survive is utterly, grippingly mesmerizing. Set against the backdrop of the civil war in Cambodia in the mid-1970s, it's a film to search out and share. It must simply not be missed. With Sam Waterston and Lang Borg.

MISCHIEF (R) Some fairly steamy sex; some strong language; inappropriate for pre-teens. Pleasant but shallow '50s small-town nostalgia. With Doug McKean, Chris Nash, Kelly Preston, Catherine Mary Stewart.

A PASSAGE TO INDIA (PG) Adult situations. This is a civilized, affecting, humorous, surprising, ironic, intelligent film. Big in scope and location, it is at the same time an intense six-character drama. In this stunningly fine production, director David Lean has served novelist E.M. Forster beautifully. The casting is as near-perfect as can be hoped for: Alec Guinness as Prof. Godbole, Victor Banerjee as Dr. Aziz, Judy Davis as Aileen Quested, Peggy Ashcroft as Mrs. Moore, Nigel Havers as Ronny Heaslop and James Fox as Fielding.

TURK 182 (PG-13) Perhaps because of jumping. But it seems like kids' stuff. This movie demonstrates the pitfalls of having too much idolatry of classic filmmakers. The plot could have been computerized from a digest of Capra scripts. Timothy Hutton is an aimless young New Yorker whose father and brother have been firefighters. The brother, Robert Ulrich, is severely injured in a tenement fire rescue. The headstrong Hutton seeks redress and declares war on New York's officialdom, especially the mayor, a smooth-talking phony (Robert Culp). He plasters the town with his trademark, Turk 182, and manages to embarrass the mayor at public speeches. Every plot turn is predictable, the characters are either true-blue rascals and the humor is labored.

2010 (PG) Director Peter Hyams' film floats as smoothly as any of its great space voyagers young New Yorker whose father and brother have been firefighters. The brother, Robert Ulrich, is severely injured in a tenement fire rescue. The headstrong Hutton seeks redress and declares war on New York's officialdom, especially the mayor, a smooth-talking phony (Robert Culp). He plasters the town with his trademark, Turk 182, and manages to embarrass the mayor at public speeches. Every plot turn is predictable, the characters are either true-blue rascals and the humor is labored.

HBO being forced to change its ways

NEW YORK (AP) — One video store in Manhattan will deliver movie cassettes and "Chinese food" right to your door. That's one from Column A and one from Column B, and it could spell trouble for the pay-cable services that have made a nice living by bringing the hot movies into your home first.

With VCRs selling like fast food, all the major broadcast outlets are feeling the heat. Nielsen research shows that VCR use on Saturday nights is double that of other nights, resulting in network viewing declining considerably on Saturdays.

But, in a sense, the networks are full-service supermarkets with enough variety to continue to be flexible and attract mass viewers. Responding to the movie competition on cable and cassettes, the networks are already showing fewer theatrical movies and more TV movies.

And even if network viewing continues to erode slightly, remember it's free. Nobody's going to have an installer take out ABC or NBC. In contrast, pay TV's dirtiest word is "disconnect." HBO picked up only half the 2 million additional subscribers it anticipated in 1984 and now reaches 15 million homes.

Part of that is attributable to the slowdown in wiring major cities, including New York, Washington, Chicago and Boston.

Part of it results from cable theft. Nielsen measurements indicate HBO reaches 8 million more homes than HBO's count. Why pay for HBO when you can get it for free?

HBO plans to scramble its signal this spring, foiling the pirates. "We hope to put the cops ahead of the robbers," said Seth Abraham, HBO's senior vice president for programming operations.

Another part of the decline may stem from the fierce competition with Showtime and The Movie Channel, pay-TV services that each grew by more than 20 percent in 1984, while HBO's increase was 8 percent.

'Cop' still tops, but 'Witness' closes in

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Beverly Hills Cop, the seemingly indestructible Eddie Murphy vehicle, retained its reign over the holiday weekend box office, but Harrison Ford's "Witness" took in more money per screen in its second week of release.

"Beverly Hills Cop," Paramount's Christmas release that may hang on until Easter, has collected $160.5 million in 11 weeks. Last weekend, it grossed $7.8 million at 1,538 screens for a per screen average of $5,052.

The per screen average for Paramount's "Witness," starring Ford in an Amish setting, was $6,789. The weekend total was $6.5 million for a $12.8 million two-week gross.

The top weekend attractions included three new films: "The Breakfast Club" in third place, "Vision Quest" in fifth and "Turk 182" in 10th, Daily Variety reported Wednesday.

"The Breakfast Club," Universal's comedy-drama about five teenagers forced to spend a Saturday at high school for misbehavior, has been called the teen version of "The Big Chill." It grossed $5.1 million with a $4,760 per screen take, the fourth highest.

"The Killing Fields," an Academy Award-nominated Warner Bros. film starring Sam Waterston in a true story of a reporter and his Cambodian translator during the Khmer Rouge takeover, pulled in $3.2 million for fourth place. Its per screen average of $4,915 was third highest.

Another Warner Bros. film, "Vision Quest," stars Matthew Modine as a wrestler hoping to strike it rich, and made its debut with a $2.7 million weekend gross.

"A Passage to India," David Lean's epic film, was Columbia's only representative in the top 10.

'A Bunny's Tale' shows flip side of Hugh Hefner's Playboy empire

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — Feminist Gloria Steinem gives the Playboy Bunny's tail a tweak in an ABC movie about her underdog assignment for a magazine story.

The story of how Ms. Steinem became a Playboy Bunny for Show magazine 22 years ago is told in "A Bunny's Tale" Monday night. Kirstie Alley stars as Ms. Steinem.

Miss Steinem's bunny career in 1963 was a short one, but it produced a piece exploring the seductive fantasy of the newly opened New York Playboy Club. The experience also figured in Ms. Steinem's emergence as a forceful advocate for contemporary causes.

"Gloria's changed a lot since then," said Miss Alley. "When she was a young journalist, as most women at the time, she thought she would work for a while, then get married and just continue her writing as a hobby. The bunny incident was not a major turning point in her life, but it was a catalyst that made her see the need for it."

"Being a bunny and this is the way she described it and the way I describe it was shocking. I had never been put in a position before to be so humiliated. On our Playboy Club set we had about 150 men extras, and everything was done behind closed doors. The men pinched my bunny tail, they called me 'hunny.' And this was all before the cameras were even turned on."

Miss Alley added, "You wonder what gives these men that right. Then you walk by a mirror and see yourself in this costume and you realize you're contributing to it. Gloria knew this, and she'd look around and see these other women. She knew she was doing it for the story, but she wondered why the others were doing it. She talked to the other bunnies and their reasons: to meet famous people, to become a movie star or because the pay was higher than for an ordinary waitress became part of her story."

KIRSTIE ALLEY
A feminist perspective

Karen Arthur directed Debra Goldstone's screenplay for Stan Margulies Productions. Margulies was the producer of "Hoots" and "The Thorn Birds." "A Bunny's Tale" also stars Cotter Smith, Deborah Van Valkenburgh, Joanna Kerns, Lisa Pelikan, Mary Woronov, Delta Burke and Diana Scarwid. Ms. Steinem was reluctant to sell the film rights to her story. She felt her early career had been harmed because some people perceived her not as a serious journalist but as a bunny.

"She wanted to forget that she had ever been a bunny," said Miss Alley. "But when she learned that she would have some control, that it wouldn't be done exploitatively, she agreed. She went to a lot of trouble to speak to me at great length and help me with my research for the role."

"After I got the part I flew to New York and spent four days with her. I was aware of what she had done in the past 15 years, but I didn't know what she was like. She told me it is not the goal of women to be a man. Of course, but I was complimented if somebody said, 'You did as good as a man.' After I finished the picture I realized what she meant."

Miss Alley had just completed a starring role with Tom Selleck in "Runaway" when she was cast. "I don't think I was their first choice," she said. "They were looking for a big name. But they liked my past work and my reading. I think my appearance as Maggie the Cat in 'Cat on a Hot Tin Roof' at the Mark Taper Forum had a lot to do with my selection."

Her professional film debut was as Mr. Spock's Vulcan protee in "Star Trek II." She was also in "Champions" and was a regular in the ABC series "Masquerade." She is married to actor Parker Stevenson, who played Frank Hardy in "The Hardy Boys."

Miss Alley grew up in Wichita, Kan., and attended Kansas State University. "After school, I decided to drive to Hollywood and become a movie star," she said. "We made a film in drama class, and an agent saw it and signed me and got me my first job."

'Night of Stars' pulls in cash

NEW YORK (AP) — The Actors' Fund of America has received a check for $38,985, the first installment of money raised from the marathon "Night of 100 Stars II," producer Alexander Cohen said Wednesday.

"It's all from ticket sales," said Cohen, producer of the $5.5 million extravaganza that began Sunday at 7 p.m. in Radio City Music Hall and staggered to a close early Monday, 108 stars and 6 1/2 hours later.

"There will be more from additional reconciliations of ticket sales, from advertising, from the souvenir books and from straight-out contributions and syndicated sales from overseas," he added. "I predict that it will easily top $1 million."

The show, which had a top ticket price of $1,000 and was taped for later televising, was plagued by numerous technical problems.

MICK JAGGER
A more polished affair
Jagger records a solo

By RICHARD HARRINGTON
The Washington Post

While the Rolling Stones roll inexorably on, the group's central spoke is extending himself a bit. On Tuesday, Mick Jagger will release a solo album, "She's the Boss." Surprisingly, it's the first that he has made in the 23 years he's been with the Stones. And the funny thing, according to Jagger, is that no one ever asked him to.

"I'm a real lazy person. I was happy just chugging along with the Stones," he said recently from Paris, where he is already at work on the new Stones album. "But I felt at this point I should really break the pattern a little bit and have some fun outside the band. And I was the only one that hadn't done that, so I thought I'd better get on with it."

He doesn't mention that none of the other solo Stones projects sold very well. Although longtime compadre Keith Richards cowrote one of the album's nine songs, "She's the Boss" is mostly Mick, with help from the kind of hired guns you'd expect to find riding with rock's most notorious outlaw. Old friends Jeff Beck and Pete Townshend lead a squadron of guitarists filling in for Richards, and Herb Flancock lends his hip-hop keyboards. Reggae superstars Sly Dunbar and Robbie Shakespeare anchor the rhythm section.

The album was coproduced by Bill Laswell, bassist for the vanguard fusion group Material, and by Nile Rodgers, guitarist for Chic and one of the hottest producers in the world right now (David Bowie's "Let's Dance," Duran Duran, Madonna, the Honeydrippers).

"I wanted to try and work with a lot of different people," Jagger says. "So the sound is going to be quite a lot different."

The difference may be that while the Stones sound is classic '60s-style raunch and roll, "She's the Boss" is more the polished affair, with its foot squarely set on the dance floor of the '80s. It's a departure, albeit not a tremendous one, a sharp-edged updating of the band's contemporary sound. Still, there's no doubt as to who the vocalist is, and the album's subject matter certainly reflects Jagger's ongoing preoccupation with raunchy, ribald women (which makes his henpecked husband routine in the title song a bit incongruous, Jerry Hall or not).

Though Jagger won't admit it, there's a lot riding on this album. Besides being Jagger's solo debut, it is also the first Rolling Stones product delivered to CBS Records, which last year signed the band to a worldwide contract for $20 million.

Jagger wrote the songs for "She's the Boss" in less than a month, but in advance of the recording sessions. With the Stones, that process has usually been played out in the studio, as it is the norm in Paris. Jagger has decided that the rest of the group was furious about his doing a solo album, though he did say they hadn't really heard it, either. "We didn't actually have any copies of the record," Jagger said.

The results of the Paris sessions will be heard sometime in late spring or early summer, and Jagger sounded upbeat about the "reunion." "It feels very nice, going in to work with the band again. It feels normal and relaxed and easy. Things seem to be going very well, and the band's sounding very good."

As for a tour, Jagger says, "Yeah, it's in the planning stage. Obviously we haven't got any dates right now, but we are planning to tour this year," probably in the fall.

Emmylou Harris' album surprises with a concept

By JOE EDWARDS
The Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Singer Emmylou Harris, a self-described messenger of melancholy, is pumping tears again with an ambitious album about forsaken love.

The award-winning song stylist has just released the compelling LP, "The Ballad of Sally Rose." It is a "concept album" that takes both sides to lead the rueful tale of an unwanted child named Sally who meets and marries a famous singer only to lose him in the end.

The album, two years in the writing and production, is characteristic of the 37-year-old performer. "I am a singer of sad songs," Miss Harris said. "This sounds ironic, but I'm happiest when I sing sad songs. It's where my voice feels at home and it's cathartic singing a sad song."

"Making people unhappy is what I do," she continued, laughing in satisfaction. "But it's healthy to come forth with your feelings. Merle Haggard has a voice of heartbreak, but I feel better after listening to him; it's joyous to hear him."

"The Ballad of Sally Rose" tops off a decade of hits for the introspective Miss Harris, whose roots are in folk music of the 1960s but whose style now embraces the heartbreak and aching laments of pure country ballads.

Her hits include "If I Could Only Win Your Love," "One of These Days," "Sweet Dreams," "You Can Never Tell," "Making Believe," "To Daddy," "Easy From Now On," "Save the Last Dance for Me," "Blue Kentucky Girl," "Play Together Again," "Again," "Beneath Still Waters," "Wayfaring Stranger," "That Loving You Feeling Again," "Mister Sandman" and "If I Needed You."

The singer-guitarist-songwriter with the high-timbered voice won a Grammy award for her 1976 album, "Elite Hotel." It came just one year after she began recording country music.

By this decade she has reached superstar status and dispelled doubts that she was a genuine country singer. She was voted female country artist of the year in 1980 by the Country Music Association. Kitty Wells, a pioneer vocalist known as "the queen of country music," has said Miss Harris is one of her favorite singers.

"I want to be a country singer," Miss Harris said in an interview before dashing off into the Nashville snow to rehearse for an eight-week concert tour. "But I realize I come from left field and that I brought a traditional base while working with modern sound, and I shovelled my musicians."

"I was sort of a newcomer with a traditional kind of music. If I did anything, it was to show that this music wasn't dead."

She lists the success of her first country album, "Pieces of the Sky," as one of the highlights of her career. "I was more surprised than anyone (that it sold well)," she recalled.

The main character in her current album is taken from an affectionate name given to her by her road manager in 1978.

The album tells the story of Sally who becomes a singer. She and her singer-husband drift apart and finally break up. She becomes unhappy without him, but he is killed in a wreck not knowing that Sally was returning to him. She then becomes very successful at her music but it's a hollow satisfaction and she eventually gives up everything.

Some of these songs on the album, all of which Miss Harris wrote or cowrote, are autobiographical.

Miss Harris said Sally's loss of her friend and mentor Gram Parsons, who was at one time a member of the Byrds and the Flying Burrito Brothers. He died of a heart attack in 1973.

"Gram Parsons gave me direction and vision in music; I tried to sing with a lot of heart after I worked with him," she said.

The album, she said, "is like an opera — a love story set to music, or someone's life story set to music."

Castleford auction set for Saturday

By DIANE SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

CASTLEFORD — The Castleford Men's Club will hold its 12th annual community auction Saturday at 11 a.m. in the Castleford High School Cafeteria.

The merchandise to be auctioned is donated to the group by local businesses. Local residents also donate merchandise, crafts and baked goods.

"The auction was set up at the beginning to give every graduating senior (in Castleford) a scholarship," says club member Don Kramer.

Club President Jack Wiggs says a third of the money made at this year's auction will be used for scholarships and youth recreation activities such as Little League, a third will be given to the local Castleford Quick Response unit, and the remaining fourth used to start a fund to build a youth recreation center and baseball field.

Last year's auction made over $4,400, with $1,700 of the amount given to the Quick Response unit.

A complete list of merchandise to be auctioned is not available, Wiggs says, because most of the donations are brought to the school the morning of the auction.

Some of the items already received include bacon, tires, beams, dog food, garden fertilizer, potatoes, lamb, cut and wrapped, corn feed and two overnight trips to Jackpot.

Handmade donations include jewelry, ceramics and quilts.

Lyle Masters, of Masters Auction Service, Buhl, will donate services as auctioneer. A concession stand will be open at the Red Barrel during the auction.

Interfaith couples can wed in church

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you stated: "If there is a rabbi or Roman Catholic priest who will perform a mixed marriage in a synagogue or church, I don't know where he (or she) is." Permit me to reply.

There are many rabbis and many priests who will officiate. We have had many mixed marriages in our synagogue in the past several years, including many in which clergy of other faiths have participated in the wedding ceremony.

Furthermore, the Rabbinic Center for Research and Counseling in Westfield, N.J., periodically compiles a list of rabbis who will officiate at interfaith marriages. There are presently 180 rabbis on that list, including more than 50 who will invite other clergy to join them in the ceremony.

RABBI JOHN M. SHERWOOD: DEAR RABBI SHERWOOD: I appreciate the helpful information to pass on to my readers. However, interested parties should not assume that they can just ring up any rabbi on the list and be assured of an instant marriage ceremony.

For example, most rabbis require a premarital conference and encourage a program of Jewish study after the marriage. Some rabbis (not all) require a commitment that the couple will establish a Jewish home and raise their children as Jews.

There are other conditions too numerous to mention here required by some rabbis. In a national list of rabbis who will perform mixed marriages, plus the prerequisites of each, is available free of charge by writing to: Rabbi Irwin H. Fishbein, Rabbinical Center for Research and Counseling, 128 E. Dudley Ave., Westfield, N.J. 07090.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for recommending the Unitarian Church to the Catholic and Jewish woman who wanted to marry but couldn't find a priest or rabbi who would officiate at the ceremony.

My Catholic daughter was engaged to a Jewish man, and they, too, were having trouble finding a clergyman of either faith to marry them. They were ready to settle for a justice of the peace when in your column I read about a couple who were having the same problem. You said, "Try the Unitarian Church."

I called my daughter right away and told her what I had read. She found a Unitarian Church listed in the phone book, called the church and made an appointment with the minister. Then she and her fiance went to see him.

First, he gave them both a course in premarital counseling, and then he married them in a beautiful ceremony that included both the Christian and Jewish rituals.

I now the couple who wrote to you takes your advice and finds a Unitarian minister as wonderful as the Rev. Robert Jones in Cherry Hills, N.J. I have never attended a more beautiful wedding nor heard a more meaningful service.

MRS. D. CRAIG MAGNOLIA N. J. DEAR MRS. CRAIG: Others wrote to praise the Unitarian Universalist ministers for their non-judgmental, compassionate attitude.

'Elegant feel' among reasons she likes silk

By INA HADAM
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS Mary Anderson says she "wears silk for the elegant feel of it. I walk a little straighter and feel like Lady Astor when I'm wearing silk."

Anderson is just the person to talk about silk — not only does she like to wear it, she is a representative of Letters Designer Fabrics and has sewn 818 the fabric for many years.

Although silk does require a little extra care, says the Twin Falls woman, it can be washed.

"As a matter of fact, I like the luster better when I wash my silk clothes," she adds, noting she washes them in the mini-basket of her automatic washer using the delicate cycle.

She then hangs them on a hanger over the tub or in the shaded outdoors until they reach the slightly damp stage, at which point she lays them on a low setting, keeping a splutter bottle of water nearby to keep them damp.

Letters Fabrics sends the washing instructions with every piece of fabric purchased from them, Anderson says. The suggested method is hand washing, wrapping in a towel to blot and partially dry and then ironing while still damp on low setting using a pressing cloth.

Anderson says if you wash silk by hand, the most important thing to keep in mind is not to wring, rub, twist or crease the silk in any way. She says to gently splash the silk through the water and not to put soap directly on the fabric.

"Before you decide to go out and purchase a silk blouse or the fabric to make one, Anderson suggests that there are a few terms you might want to become familiar with.

She says that "Mugaal" on a label tells you this is a wild silk that comes from India with the silkworms feeding primarily on oak leaves, which gives the silk a slightly brown

"Tussah" is another term that denotes a wild silk, and "Shantung" is a term used to designate the rough mottled texture caused by knots and slubs in the yarn, which Anderson says originated in the province of Shantung in China.

She says raw silk is the silk that is woven into fabric before it is completely "degummed." Anderson says it takes one pound of raw silk to obtain 12 ounces of pure silk.

Chiffon, satin, taffeta, sarah, habutae and tulle are other terms used to designate the weight, weave and texture of different silks.

The large quantities of raw silk that are needed to make finished products with silk-like qualities are getting to be almost as expensive as silk.

Anderson says the silks in the Letters collection range in price from $7 per yard in 36-inch widths to about $35 to $45 per yard. However, she adds that the average price is around $15 to $20, depending on the weave and weight of the fabric.

"Silk, being a natural fiber, has features that you don't find in your synthetics," says Anderson. "Not only does it feel luxurious against my skin, but it truly is cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter because silk breathes."

Anderson says it takes 100 cocoons to make enough silk for one tie and 630 cocoons are needed for one blouse.

"To produce for yards of 45-inch wide silk fabric, it takes 1,800 cocoons as well as a 516-square-foot grove of mulberry trees. Those 1,800 cocoons need 47 days to produce the 21 ounces of raw silk necessary, not to mention the people necessary to clip the cocoons in hot water, unwind the threads, spin the yarn and weave it into fabric.

After citing these interesting bits of trivia, Anderson asks "Is it any wonder that silk is expensive?"

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"No one can have a higher opinion of him than I have - and I think he is a dirty little beast!"
- W.S. Gilbert.

North had strong opinions about South's play, but he kept them to himself. No use in starting a family feud over a "silly bridge hand."

South won his spade king and led a club. East won his ace and returned a spade, which South ducked (a delayed hold-up play).

West overtook and led a third spade to clear the suit, and there was no escape. South had only seven tricks without the clubs, and West was waiting with his club king and two good spades.

South was careless in his play to trick one, lulled into complacency by his two sure stoppers. He should have followed this reasoning: If spades are 4-3, it makes no difference how the play goes. The most the opponents can get is two spades and two clubs. However, if the spades are 5-2, the only chance is if both club honors are not with West.

To prevent East from leading a spade when he wins his club trick, South should refuse the first spade, winning West's continuation. A club is led to East's ace and East must choose to lead a spade. West wins and knocks out the club king. Now, instead of going one down, South earns an overtrick, thanks to his timely hold-up play.
