Kloos draws 5-year term

By MARIEYN HAUKE ESSEX
The Associated Press

BOISE — U.S. District Court Judge Harold Ryan gave a former bankruptcy court trustee the maximum sentence of five years for embezzlement, claiming the woman showed no remorse until just before sentencing.

Ryan also Tuesday ordered Teresa Kloos to pay restitution in the amount to be determined by the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

Ms. Kloos, 29, pleaded guilty earlier this month to misappropriating more than $206,000 in assets liquidated through bankruptcy proceedings. I. D. Fitzgerald, who took over Ms. Kloos's position as the trustee for the Twin Falls area, said the actual amount she embezzled is more than $700,000.

Jeff Ring, prosecutor, said only $10,000 of the money embezzled remains unspent. The rest was used to support a cocaine habit and to purchase expensive appliances, trips, cars, gifts and other items, he said.

Ms. Kloos, who has re-married and now goes by the name Pratt, said a October 1981 head injury changed her personality and caused her criminal behavior.

"You can plead with me and put tears in your eyes," Ryan told Ms. Kloos just prior to sentencing. "It wasn't until the last 30 minutes that I've seen any signs of remorse."

Ms. Kloos then broke into tears and told Ryan she had suffered as well as her victims.

"You don't know what it's like to go from a homemaker and loving wife to a wild and crazy person," she said. "I'm not saying this for your pity."

"I hope you do everything you can rest of your life to undo the harm you've done to others," Ryan said, calling the case a "dark day" in the history of U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

About 50 people, most victims of Ms. Kloos's actions, attended the sentencing hearing. "I hope she suffers," said Lillian Sewald.

"The people she hurt were the people who were already hurt," Ring said, asking for the maximum sentence.

Ring told Ryan about some of the 159 embezzlement cases Ms. Kloos was involved in over a three-year period, including one case where she left someone homeless.

M. Kloos seized the home of Connie Montgomery without the authority of the court, sold the home and kept the proceeds, Ring said.

Milton Hill, owner of Hill Oil Co. in Ruert, said his business will suffer greatly because Ms. Kloos kept about $10,000 that should have been turned over to Hill when she liquidated the assets of someone who owed him money.

"I understand the maximum sentence is five years and $5,000," Hill said. "That hardly seems sufficient to me."

Senate sets back loan money vote

By JIM DRINKARD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With hundreds of farm-state lawmakers and governors pressing for action, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole abruptly postponed a showdown vote on whether to make more emergency loan money available to farmers unable to plant this spring.

Dole announced the postponement, saying he had to leave to make a speech to a civic group in Peoria, Ill., as Democrats pushing for dramatic changes in a federal credit aid program said they believed they may have the votes to pass their amendments. Dole said the vote likely would occur Wednesday.

Asked whether he had the votes to prevail against the Democrats, Dole said: "I don't know. I haven't really counted." Earlier in the day, he had been more optimistic.

"It would appear we're within two votes either way," said Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., sponsor of one of the amendments. "This is a litmus test vote on support or non-support of the farmers in America."

The far-reaching amendments

under debate were designed to alter a Reagan administration credit-aid program already in effect, but which has been criticized as little more than a "Band-Aid" by Democrats and farm-state Republicans.

One, pushed primarily by Zorinsky, would vastly liberalize the administration plan by offering $100 million to buy down interest rates to financially ailing farmers and by offering 90 percent government backing for farm banks' troubled loans without any requirement that the banks absorb losses. A modified version would require the banks to take some loss, equivalent to at least 10 percent of loan principal.

A second amendment, to be offered by Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., would give farmers immediate 50 percent advances on crop price-support loans, normally not received until harvest time, to provide enough cash to plant crops now.

Both proposals are opposed by the White House, which contends its own credit help moves are the best way to salvage the farmers with the greatest chance of long-term survival while avoiding excessive cost to the Treasury.

Hunger 'epidemic' in U.S., study says

By CHRISTOPHER B. DALY
The Associated Press

BOSTON — Despite the economic recovery, millions of Americans regularly don't get enough to eat, and cuts in social programs have left more people hungry than at any time since the 1930s, according to a study released Tuesday.

"Hunger is a problem of epidemic proportions across the nation," said the report by the Physician Task Force on Hunger in America. "While no one knows the precise number of hungry Americans, available evidence indicates that up to 20 million citizens may be hungry at least some period of time each month."

J. Larry Brown, task force chairman and professor at the Harvard School of Public Health, told a news conference the figure was "a conservative estimate," based on federal statistics documenting poverty and access to food stamps.

"Hunger actually began to return in 1979-80, under the Carter administration, due to the economic downturn,"

Brown said. "The facts, however, are that hunger is a bipartisan issue." He estimated that it would cost up to $7 billion a year to eliminate hunger by restoring federal funding for welfare, food stamps, school lunches and programs that feed infants, the elderly and pregnant women.

Charles DeJulius, spokesman for the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food and Nutrition Service, said he had not read the report and could not comment.

The 147-page study, titled "Hunger in America: The Growing Epidemic," was the result of a year-long investigation by the Physician Task Force, whose 22 members include some of the most prominent names in American medicine.

With $120,000 in foundation grants, the group began its research by reviewing 15 national studies of hunger and 24 state and regional surveys. They added to that information with field studies similar to those conducted by congressional researchers in 1963 and 1977.

White males not protected by laws, panelists contend

Statement leaves Civil Rights Commission in uproar

By JUAN WILLIAMS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Two members of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission have set off a furor by writing that civil rights laws are not meant to protect white males, but rather blacks, Hispanics, women and the handicapped, groups that have been discriminated against in the past.

The statement has triggered an angry outpouring from Reagan administration officials who responded that civil rights laws are intended to benefit all Americans.

In a statement attached to a commission study on a 1984 Supreme Court decision, commissioners Blaine Cardenas Ramirez, and Mary Frances Berry argued that extending the protections of civil rights law beyond minority groups, women and the handicapped is "putting blinders on society concerning the tragic preent and past effects of discrimination."

The Supreme Court had ruled in Plessy vs. Ferguson that "separate but equal" facilities for blacks and whites were constitutional. The Reagan majority of the eight-member civil rights panel applauded the decision as "a reaffirmation of the principle that race and gender are not proper bases for reward or penalize any person." The ruling, the study concluded, properly rejects the idea of "discrimination in order to remedy discrimination."

In their blistering rejoinder, Berry and Ramirez said: "Civil rights laws were not passed to give civil rights protection to all Americans, as the majority of this commission seems to believe. Instead they were passed out of a recognition that some Americans already had protection because they belong to a favored group; and others, including blacks, Hispanics and women of all races, did not because they belonged to disfavored groups. If we are ever to achieve the real equality of opportunity that is the bright hope and promise of America, we must not deny our history and present condition by substituting illusion for reality."

Administration officials leaped on the statement. One administration official called a reporter to cite it as evidence of "a new racism against whites."

A White House official called it "an outrageous invitation to new forms of discrimination. Are they saying they have a franchise on civil rights, ... while men have no civil rights? All Americans have civil rights. There are no protected groups in the eyes of the Constitution. The law, la, colorblind."

Amtrak budget cutting could sidetrack Pioneer

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

SHOSHONE — Federal budget cuts could derail the Amtrak line that runs through Shoshone and Pocatello, said Sen. James McClure.

The threat, however, may be met with opposition from the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce to protect the town's only direct travel service, said chamber president Bob Newlin.

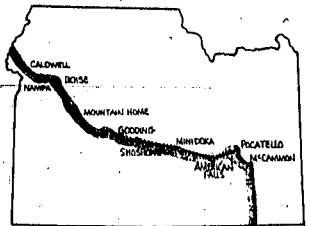

While parts of the Amtrak service may be spared from the knife of the Reagan administration, unprofitable runs like the Pioneer probably will be cut, said McClure, R-Idaho. The Pioneer travels between Seattle and Salt Lake City.

Richard Stallings, D-Idaho, agreed with McClure's prediction of doom.

"I have felt many of the rural areas have been hit because of deregulation of airlines and it's tougher for those people to have transportation. Amtrak has been a pretty dependable form of transportation for the people who have needed it," Stallings said.

Reagan has proposed cutting all federal funding for Amtrak, the passenger-carrying service that received nearly $700 million in subsidies last year.

The Pioneer line will be in danger because Amtrak

Pioneer's route across Southern Idaho

—using new Congressional requirements—projects a loss on the route.

"Any segment of Amtrak that is losing money, it will be difficult to keep alive," said McClure. "The people in the Northeast will fight to continue service in the Northeast corridor, but there will be pressure to drop the long-distance runs."

Governors ignore president, demand freeze on spending

By CLIFF HAAS
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The nation's governors ignored President Reagan's objections and voted Tuesday for a federal spending freeze that would include the Pentagon and Social Security and the possibility of increased taxes to reduce the budget deficit.

"What we accomplished is what Congress is going to have to accomplish, and that is to show guts, to be courageous, to set aside at least enough self-interest (and) put enough on the table to get the job done," said Kansas Gov. John Carlin, chairman of the National Governors' Association. "We've proved, representing the 50 states, that we could do it."

"Now we want to work with Congress to see to it they do it working with the administration," Carlin, a Democrat, said after the group voted 27-9 for a compromise resolution that also endorses constitutional amendments requiring a balanced federal budget and empowering the president to veto individual items in appropriations bills.

Reagan has supported the balanced budget and "line-item" veto amendments.

Much of the debate as the governors concluded their three-day winter meeting was over an amendment by Democratic Gov. Richard W. Riley of South Carolina challenging Reagan

GOV. JOHN CARLIN
Cites needed courage

"to immediately demonstrate his commitment to a balanced budget" by sending Congress a new spending plan that states how he would balance the budget.

The governors voted 26-14, primarily along party lines, in favor of the amendment, but that fell short of the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption. Carlin was the only Democratic governor to oppose it.

The budget Reagan sent Congress earlier this year projects a deficit next year of $80 billion, dropping to $14.4 billion by 1988.

The governors also rejected an amendment by Florida Gov. Bob Graham, a Democrat, to exempt Social Security from their call for a one-year freeze in the federal budget. Graham's motion also received majority support but it, too, fell short of the necessary two-thirds vote. The vote was 26-17.

Republican Gov. Dick Thornburgh of Pennsylvania defended Reagan's refusal to touch Social Security. "What the president did say yesterday (Monday), in my view, is that he did not want to be set up on this question as he felt he had been in 1981," when the issue of possible Social Security cuts became a major political argument, he said.

"He (Reagan) did say, as I recall, that if there was evidence of bipartisan support to put this question on the table," the president would be willing to establish a commission on the deficit, Thornburgh said.

New York Gov. Mario M. Cuomo, a Democrat, replied, "Not only did the president not say what Gov. Thornburgh said he said, and perhaps should have said, he went further."

"He (Reagan) said, when I told the American people that I was against the Social Security cut, I didn't really mean the COLA (cost-of-living adjustment). I thought I was talking about cutting basic Social Security.

Mafia leaders face indictment

NEW YORK (AP) — The five reputed leaders of the city's Mafia families were rounded up overnight and charged Tuesday in a federal indictment with being the "ruling body" of a criminal enterprise that deals in murder, labor racketeering and extortion.

Officials predicted the federal indictment would encourage crime victims to cooperate with police and would touch off a violent struggle within the families. "This is a bad day, probably the worst ever for the Mafia," said U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani. Never before, he said, had a federal indictment charged so many bosses.

The indictment, which also named four other men, said a mob "commission" oversaw Mafia business.

FBI Director William Webster said, "The ruling body of the most powerful organized crime elements in the U.S. ... has now been brought to the bar of justice."

The indictment named Anthony "Fat Tony" Salerno, Paul Castellano, Anthony "Tony Ducks" Corallo, Genaro "Jerry Lang" Langella and Phillip "Rusty" Rastelli as heads of the Genovese, Gambino, Luchese, Colombo and Bonanno crime families, respectively.

House votes African aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Tuesday to authorize $175 million in non-food aid for drought-plagued countries in Africa, seven times the amount requested by the Reagan administration.

It voted 391-25 for the measure providing $137.5 million for various relief, rehabilitation and recovery purposes and $37.5 million for refugee assistance.

The Senate has similar legislation under consideration and Republican leaders said they would push for a vote on it soon.

The administration has requested $25 million in supplementary non-food aid for Africa in fiscal 1985.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., said the legislation, which includes authorization of funds for seeds, fertilizer, pesticides, and farm implements, is needed because more than 7 million people in Africa "are threatened with imminent starvation."

SEC officer quits over family woes

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Fedders, the Securities and Exchange Commission's top law enforcement officer, resigned Tuesday amid revelations that he has beaten his wife during their 18-year marriage.

In a letter to SEC Chairman John Shad, Fedders said his "private difficulties" have not affected the way he ran the agency's enforcement division. But he said he was quitting because "the glare of publicity on my private life threatens to undermine the effectiveness of the division and of the commission."

Charlotte Fedders, asked about her husband's resignation, said in a brief telephone interview, "The entire situation is very bad." She said she did not want to talk further about the matter.

In divorce proceedings, Mrs. Fedders accused her husband of severely and repeatedly beating her, but Fedders said the beatings — while regrettable — were overblown by newspaper accounts.

"On seven occasions during more than 18 years of marriage, marital disputes between us resulted in violence for which I feel and have expressed great remorse," Fedders wrote Shad.

Noted collie trainer dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bud Weatherwax, the Hollywood dog trainer who turned an unwanted collie into Lassie the movie and television star, has died at the age of 77 after a lengthy illness, hospital officials said Tuesday.

Weatherwax died Monday at Holy Cross Hospital in suburban Mission Hills, nursing supervisor Marjorie George said. Cause of death was cardiac arrest stemming from a variety of ailments that had troubled him over a long period of time, hospital spokeswoman Bessie Myers said.

Weatherwax trained hundreds of animals, including the dog Asta that appeared in the "Thin Man" film series starring Myrna Loy and William Powell, but his greatest triumph was the heroic and loyal Lassie.

The Lassie character had a nearly 30-year run in Hollywood, played by seven generations of Weatherwax-trained male collies.

Antone assails newspapers' lobbying

Times-News capitol bureau

BOISE -- Rep. Steve Antone, R-Ida., lashed out at the Idaho newspaper industry's lobbying efforts Tuesday, claiming an industry spokesman had provided misleading information to a lawmaker on an issue relating to taxes on newspaper sales.

In a statement made on the House floor, the chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee said the alleged false information was prepared by a newspaper lobbyist for a legislator's debate on an amendment to a bill establishing the minimum sale upon which sales tax is collected.

Antone did not identify the individual lobbyist by name during his floor speech. He later identified him as Bob C. Hall, executive director of the Idaho Newspaper Association.

At the prior urging of Hall, members of Antone's committee had approved a proposal raising to 24 cents from 15 cents, the minimum purchase amount exempt from Idaho's 4 percent sales tax.

It was for use during debate on that proposed amendment that a brief, prepared statement was given to Rep. Lydia Justice Edwards by Hall. The statement included arguments against the amendment, stating that it would force newspaper carriers to become sales tax collectors.

Antone says that argument is factually incorrect because tax commission rules allow newspaper publishing companies to pay those sales taxes directly.

Hall says he differs with Antone on the interpretation of that rule and its ability to withstand legal challenge.

However, Hall was reluctant to admit he had provided Edwards with the statement.

Upon questioning by a reporter shortly after Antone's speech, Hall repeatedly declined to acknowledge that he had prepared the statement.

However, after he was confronted by Antone face-to-face, in the reporter's presence, Hall acknowledged having provided it to the lawmaker.

In his speech to the House, Antone said that while lobbyists in Idaho are generally forthright, occasionally some resort to tactics that are misleading. Those tactics should be exposed, he said.

Hall said Antone's comments were "unfortunate because I think highly of him."

This isn't the first scrape Hall has found himself in over his lobbying practices. In the 1984 session, Hall censured Statehouse copies of the Lewiston Morning Tribune.

The lobbyist removed from the paper pages which included the results of a reporters' poll on the relative strengths and weaknesses of state lawmakers. Hall said at that time he feared the feature -- included in a political reporter's weekly column -- would hamper his lobbying efforts on a bill establishing the rates paid for legal advertisements.

Home school hearings end

BOISE (AP) -- The Senate Education Committee has wrapped up its public hearings on controversial legislation repealing the requirement that home schools offer an education comparable to that provided by state-approved public or private schools.

"The constitutional issue here is who is responsible -- the parents or the state," Sen. Larry Anderson, R-Twin Falls, told the committee Tuesday as he threw his support behind the bill.

"These are our children, they are not the children of the state," he said. But Sen. Terry Sverdrsten, R-Cataldo, committee chairman, put off any action on the House-passed measure until Wednesday. He also said that in its current form, the bill is likely to fail.

Conceding that the confrontation the current law has created between the parents of thousands of home-schoolers and local education and law enforcement is mounting, Sverdrsten said the panel will try to work out a compromise bill that can be acceptable to both sides.

The current law legalizes home schooling as an alternative to public or private school attendance, but it requires local school boards to determine that the home school program offers comparable education training to that offered in certified schools. The requirement has created a number of problems across the state.

Senate rejects abuse caseworkers

BOISE (AP) -- Concerned about protecting its procedural structure, the Idaho Senate has rejected an attempt to open up legislation creating a special child abuse trust fund for the addition of money to finance additional child protection workers in the Health and Welfare Department.

By a 25-17 vote Tuesday, the chamber rejected Sen. John Peavey's proposal to permit amendment of the House-passed trust fund measure so $164,000 to finance five extra child protection workers could be included.

Citing the skyrocketing increases in reports of child abuse in Idaho, Peavey argued, "You've got kids out there who are screaming their outrage up to complain (about abuse) and you've got caseworkers out there who are afraid to turn it over to Health and Welfare because the department doesn't have the resources to handle it properly and the kids go home to a terrible situation, perhaps one in which their lives are in danger."

In view of that, Peavey said, it is irresponsible for the Legislature to refuse to provide the extra personnel, less than a third the number Health and Welfare Director Rose Bowman said is needed.

But a number of lawmakers, including Sen. Denton Darrington, R-Declo, chairman of the Health and Welfare Committee, warned that Peavey's attempt to add the additional money to the bill could kill chances for the trust fund to be created.

Here's roll call on child abuse fund

BOISE (AP) -- Here is the 25-17 roll call vote Tuesday by which the Idaho Senate refused to clear the way for the inclusion of money to finance additional child protection workers in a Child Abuse Trust Fund bill.

That Peavey's attempt to add the additional money to the bill could kill chances for the trust fund to be created.

The trust fund, approved by the House last week with only one dissenting vote, would be financed by a voluntary state income tax check-off. "The money would be used to finance public educational programs on child abuse.

Pharmacy school planning wins OK

BOISE (AP) -- Despite disagreement over the exact amount necessary, legislative budget writers have approved $300,000 for preliminary design and planning of a new Pharmacy School at Idaho State University.

Although the amount approved on Tuesday was less than half of the $300,000 sought by the Board of Education, state officials said it would be sufficient to perform the planning and designed work needed at the project's current stage.

Approval of the reduced funding gained the support of Sen. C.F. Bilyeu, D-Pocatello, a staunch supporter of the school, which is facing serious accreditation problems because of inadequate facilities.

Backers of the appropriation said it would provide a show of good faith on the state's part to resolve the problems that have left the school dangling on the brink of being discontinued.

Kidnap suspects to be freed

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican authorities are expected to free three former police officials arrested in the abduction of an American narcotics agent, and the U.S. Embassy said Tuesday it agreed the men were not involved.

"We understand they are going to be released. . . We agreed with the Mexican assessment that they were not involved in the kidnaping. We are quite convinced of this," embassy press attache Lee Johnson said.

Asked what that meant to the investigation of the Feb. 7 abduction, Johnson said, "It cannot be considered a setback."

A spokesman for the Mexican Attorney General's Office, Francisco Fonseca, said he had no information on the matter, and "This is the first time that I have heard this version."

The three men were arrested Sunday night in Tijuana and taken on Monday to Guadalupe, where Drug Enforcement Administration agent Enrique Camarena Salazar, 37, was kidnapped by four gunmen within sight of the U.S. consulate.

They were identified as Tomas Morlett Borquez, a former member of the Federal Security Police; Enrique Gonzalez Aguilera, a former lieutenant colonel in Mexico City's transit police, and Eduardo Ramirez Ortiz, a former federal security officer.

A fourth man, Marciano Belusteguiaguita, was picked up Monday in Guadalupe for allegedly piloting a plane used by reputed drug baron Rafael Caro Quintero to slip out of the city.

Johnson said he did not know whether Belusteguiaguita also would be freed.

DFA director Francis Mullen Jr. accused Mexican officials Sunday of collusion in the escape of Caro Quintero, who he said was a suspect in the kidnaping.

At a news conference earlier in the day, U.S. Ambassador John Gavin said he is convinced President Miguel de la Madrid is "an honest and upright man" who wants to rid the country of drug traffickers, but "there is a problem of corruption at the lower levels" of enforcement.

Gavin said drug dealers have "massive amounts of money" for bribes and "they are not above threatening and killing."

The ambassador said recent intensive border searches by U.S. authorities failed to turn up any clues about Camarena.

Mexican officials complained that the border searches, which ended over the weekend, hurt the nation's economy by keeping tourists away. U.S. officials have said privately that the purpose of the border searches was to pressure Mexican authorities for more action in the Camarena case.

Flu epidemic sweeping Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — A flu epidemic sweeping westward from Siberia to European Russia has put all hospitals in Moscow under quarantine, a Soviet health official said Tuesday.

Muscovites have reported since the epidemic started in early February that city drug stores have run out of interferon, a popular anti-flu drug.

Attempts to find out from the Health Ministry and the Central

Institute of Viruses in Moscow how many other cities were affected and how many people had gotten sick throughout the country were unsuccessful.

V. P. Serglyev, identified as head of the Health Ministry's department of infectious diseases, told the newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya this month that some 100 million anti-flu shots were administered in this country of 276 million people before the winter.

Rescued cocker spaniel in new home

BERLIN (AP) — A pedigreed cocker spaniel rescued by East German guards who heard her howls from the Berlin Wall has returned to West Berlin to a new home and a new name, a city government spokesman said Tuesday.

The owner of the black cocker spaniel decided that West Berlin civil servant Oswald Herrmann, who nick-ed up the dog at an East Berlin border crossing last Friday, should keep the animal, spokesman Hans F. Birkenbeut said.

The owner, a darkroom technician, said she recently moved to a new apartment in West Berlin where dogs are not allowed. She did not want her name disclosed, Birkenbeut said.

Israel ready to consider peace meeting

By The Associated Press

Israel is "ready to consider" an Egyptian suggestion that it hold peace talks with a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation, Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said Tuesday.

But the Soviet Union objected angrily to the proposal by Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, saying it would be used "to push Jordan to accept a capitulatory" agreement.

Mubarak, in an interview published Monday in The New York Times, made the suggestion that a Jordanian-Palestinian negotiating team meet with Israel in Washington or in Cairo. He was responding to a Feb. 11 agreement by Jordan's King Hussein and Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat to form a joint delegation for possible peace talks with Israel.

Shamir, on a tour of Europe, told the news conference in Bonn, West Germany, that although Israel was willing to study Mubarak's proposal, it would have to be clarified before there could be a direct response.

The Hussein-Arafat agreement has prompted a surge of diplomatic activity, and there were the other developments Tuesday:

• Jordan's foreign minister, Taha al-Masri Told the Saudi Arabian newspaper Al-Sharq al-Awsat, "We are moving ahead with the pact together (with the PLO) no matter what the secondary reactions may be, because it is an Arab and international must at this stage in which the Middle East problem is stalemated."

• Osama el-Baz, a key adviser to Mubarak, flew to Israel and immediately went into meetings with Israeli leaders, Israeli Radio reported.

It said he went to Prime Minister Shimon Peres' home in Jerusalem for talks with Peres, Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin and ministers without portfolio Ezer Weizman and Moshe Arens.

• Israeli Energy Minister Moshe Shahal, who arrived in Cairo Monday for a three-day visit, met with the Egyptian oil minister, Abdel-Hady Kandil. He said Israel will continue buying oil from Egypt in the same quantities it has since the two countries signed a peace treaty in 1979. Egypt sells Israel about 2 million tons of oil annually.

Shahal, invited to Egypt by Mubarak, was scheduled to meet with Prime Minister Kamal Hassan Aly Meguid today.

Ortega tells bishops he wants to be friends

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega told U.S. Roman Catholic Church leaders he wants friendly relations with the United States and said his government wants to avoid problems with the Nicaraguan church.

Wearing military fatigues, Ortega, a former guerrilla commander, met with five senior U.S. clergymen for two hours late Monday night.

"We discussed every problem that we could have discussed," he said after the meeting. "There is a coincidence (among us). There is a desire to face the problems and to solve the problems."

Ortega "expressed a sense of friendship for the United States," ac-ording to Archbishop John O'Connor of New York, the leader of the U.S. delegation. "He said Nicaragua does not want enmity with the United States and he hopes that some problems will be resolved peacefully."

The Reagan administration wants Congress to renew aid to rebels fighting to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government, which came to power in a 1979 coup that toppled the pro-U.S. regime of Anastasio Somoza.

O'Connor, who described the exchange with Ortega as very frank, said the Nicaraguan president "listened very carefully to what we had to say. We talked about problems of the Nicaraguan church as we have come to understand them."

The other members of the church delegation are Cardinal Joseph Bernardin of Chicago, Archbishop James Hickey of Washington, Bishop Rene Graicida of Corpus Christi, Texas, and Bishop Sean O'Malley of the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Nuclear test ban pushed by Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet commentators said Tuesday the United States could create a good atmosphere at the forthcoming arms control talks in Geneva, Switzerland, by agreeing to a ban on nuclear testing.

On another subject, they criticized purported plans for West German scientists to work on the United States' project to conduct research on space weapons.

The Communist Party daily Pravda said the "urgent problem" of agreeing on a nuclear test ban "should be taken out of deadlock" and that next month's U.S.-Soviet arms control talks "should be put on the right track."

Both problems could be solved, Pravda said, if the United States agreed to a nuclear test ban. It charged the Reagan administration needed the tests to achieve military superiority over the Soviet Union.

The newspaper dismissed what it called American objections to the ban on grounds it would be difficult to verify.

In a separate commentary, the official news agency Tass criticized what it said were plans for West German scientists to work on the U.S. strategic defense initiative for developing space weapons, known as Star Wars.

PG-13 Rating Introduced

"A new rating category" is in place as of July 1. This new category is inserted between the current PG and R ratings. It is designated as "PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for attendance of children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children."

The revised five-category system of the voluntary film industry rating program is as follows:

- General Audiences, all ages admitted.
- Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children.
- PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.
- Restricted, under-17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.
- All ages under 17 admitted. All times rated after July 1 will be given ratings under the new five-category system.

Witness' fee up to defendant

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fifth District Judge Phillip Becker ruled Tuesday that if Cory Sellers of Hazelton wants a $150-an-hour witness at his sentencing, he should try to pay for him.

Sellers, 46, is scheduled to be sentenced Tuesday on a second-degree murder charge in the death of Faye Ostler, 67, of Hazelton last May 21. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge after it was reduced from first-degree murder.

His attorney, James Meservy of Jerome, asked the court Tuesday to order Jerome County to pay the cost of bringing Dr. Richard Worst, psychiatrist, to testify at the sentencing regarding his examination and report on Sellers.

Clinic directors given endorsement

TWIN FALLS — Doctors Lois Adrian and Sara Johnson of Twin Falls have been approved as co-clinical directors of the Remington Pre-Menstrual Syndrome Clinic to be established at the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Clinic director Carol Remington will fly to Boston to observe the program at Massachusetts General Hospital and will observe the program at a hospital in Salt Lake City before the program here is set up.

Immanuel Lutheran scores big
TWIN FALLS — Students from the Immanuel Lutheran School in Twin Falls took the annual Lutheran Elementary School Tournament in Portland, Ore., by storm this year.

Hansen will not seek grant
HANSEN — Hansen schools will not seek a share of the $50 million federal grant available to schools for removal and abatement of asbestos.

Eighth-grader Julie Renke of Twin Falls took first place in the seventh and eighth grade chess tournament, the first time a girl has won the chess championship there, said coach Don Shouse.

Noting that only $200,000 of the grant money is available to Idaho schools, Hansen Superintendent Richard Smith said "the funds obviously are not enough. Any of the larger districts could use that much money."

Darren Taber, a seventh-grader from Shoshone, took fifth in the seventh and eighth grade chess tournament.

Last fall, about 20 feet of asbestos was removed from the heating system. Much of the asbestos remaining in the furnace room and the main hot water line under the gym was encapsulated. The district spent $700 that time for testing and repairs.

The girls' basketball team took first place in the small schools B division. Shouse says the team is undefeated in the area this year.

Smith said the grant money will be awarded according to "most critical need. . . All things considered, we'll have a very slim chance of getting any money."

Club planning dance from '60s
TWIN FALLS — The era of bell-bottom pants, mini-skirts and love beads will return Saturday night with a '60s dance at the Turf Club in Twin Falls.

Although Smith says the heating system is now free from asbestos-related problems, he admits it has never been looked at officially.

The dance is sponsored by the Sawtooth Press Club with proceeds going to the Idaho Press Club scholarship fund.

"One of these days we should think about removing all of it," he said. "We'll have to take it down eventually if we retain the building."

The event will include a contest in which dance music will include a selection of 60s hits from artists ranging from The Beatles to Bob Dylan, The Rolling Stones, the Beach Boys.

Prizes will be awarded for the best '60s outfit. Tickets are $3 for a single and $5 for a couple which may be purchased in advance from a member of the press club or from Judy's Bookstore in Twin Falls. Tickets also will be sold at the door.

Ladder gives police leg up

TWIN FALLS — Cooperation between the Twin Falls police and fire departments has taken on new meaning under the recently combined public safety division.

So the natural solution to a police problem early Tuesday was to call the fire department.

Police said nothing was taken although it appeared the burglars went through most of the offices in the building.

Wheat program applications due

TWIN FALLS — Farmers who want to participate in the federal grain program's 1985 wheat and feed grain program must file applications no later than March 1 at county offices of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

This year's program gives farmers two advances on crops in time for planting, says Jim McLaughlin, executive director for the ASCS office in Twin Falls County office.

Public Safety Director Tim Qualls didn't object to the interdepartment cooperation, but he wondered out loud why the city police officers couldn't get to the roof without help, when the burglars had figured it out.

Tax

But while the tax is being opposed on economic grounds by the Sun Valley Co., the manager of the city's other major resort — Elkhorn — declines to join its older counterpart

Bill Horn said records of his resort's past levels of business indicate no declines in summer or winter sales. He advocated additional local-option taxes to be used for promotional purposes.

The court does order the board to take the dispute to fact-finding. Oberrecht requests that the unilateral actions taken by the board remain in effect pending the fact-finding and any further negotiations ordered by the court.

Honor roll

Bowladrome trio shares week's game honor

TWIN FALLS — Byron Hager, Ron Kraus and Jim Behrend kept last week's city bowling honors all to themselves.

Hager had the week's best game, a 265, just ahead of Kraus' 263 and Behrend's 257. Behrend, in turn, scored the top series, a 636, just ahead of Kraus' 625.

Hager bowls in the Industrial League at the Bowladrome, while Kraus is a member of the Soft-Whirlers and Behrend is with the Sh-Boom.

Sheri Hill had the week high women's game, a 245 in the Elite League at the Bowladrome, just ahead of Elaine Hager's 240. Elaine Hager is also a member of Sh-Boom at the Bowladrome.

Jackie Benson, a member of the Earlybirds at the Bowladrome, had by far the best women's series, a 639.

Ueberroth may open teams' books

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Peter Ueberroth told major league baseball owners Tuesday that he would order them to open their books to the players' association if both sides in the current labor negotiations felt it would help reach a new collective bargaining agreement.

The union and the Player Relations Committee have been negotiating a new basic agreement for several months. Their next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday.

"If Don Fein and Marvin Miller (representing the players), and Lee MacPhall and Barry Rona (representing the Player Relations Committee) advise me this could be critical to negotiations and would remove any lingering lack of trust between the parties, in order reach a successful conclusion, I would do it," Ueberroth said.

Management never has allowed the union to see the books of individual owners and has never claimed an inability to pay for a contract. Such a claim would require that the clubs make profit and loss figures available to the players' association.

Julie Katzenberger and her son Denny, 6, divide a week's alfalfa sprout harvest, about 250 pounds, into plastic bags.

Sprouts business thriving

Katzenberger enlists aid of young sons to plant, rinse seeds

By JOAN BEAN
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY -- Typically, the many acres of a family farm are worked by father and sons, but Julie Katzenberger's sprout farm in the family garage is tended by mother and sons.

Katzenberger began the sprout project six years ago, after reading about the business in a magazine. With an 8-month-old baby to care for, she was looking for flexible, part-time work.

And now, she owns a thriving business. "It sort of evolved from this project that I thought wouldn't take any time at all -- to taking about 10 to 15 hours a week -- and then it grew from that to about 18 to 20 hours," she says.

When Katzenberger began, she sprouted and rinsed the seeds in glass gallon jars, which took about 40 minutes a day during seven days. The entire batch was then put into plastic bags and a new crop was started the same day.

Since purchasing an automated sprout grower three years ago, its computer has taken care of the rinsing process.

But Katzenberger still must spread the seeds in the 12 by 18-inch trays that fit into the eight levels of the sprouter. She enlists the help of two of her sons, Denny and John. Six-year-old Denny dumps and spreads the seed on the trays and loads the sprout grower.

"He loads them up as high as he can reach, and then sets up tables around him, and puts the trays all around him. He gets on a stool and is able to load them to almost the top of the eight foot tall sprout grower," his mother says.

Four-year-old John's job is to set the trays out, and for him, motivation is the biggest problem. "This winter, hot chocolate has been a pretty good motivator, Katzenberger says.

Along with her two little helpers, Katzenberger has Joseph, who is not quite 2-years-old. She says she has discovered a secret for mothers who do part-time work -- get up early.

"You may need an eight hour block of time to work," she says, "and it's really hard to get that in one day."

She says the way she manages is the morning she bags the sprouts, she gets up early, about 3 a.m.

"That gives me a four-hour block of time before my husband has to go to work," she says. After an hour break, it is back to the sprouts till noon. She then coasts for the rest of the day, having leftovers or something simple for dinner. It takes her a day or more to deliver to the 50 outlets that carry her sprouts.

Getting her sprouts into stores was not a problem for Katzenberger. In the beginning, with a $150 investment in a bag of alfalfa seeds, plastic bags and labels, she "went out trembling, wondering if it would go or not" and she was pleasantly surprised her project was readily accepted.

The company that sold her the sprouter offered a franchise, and so, in 1981, Katzenberger decided to take advantage of the benefits this provides. She feels that the packaging and advertising gives a professional image that she thinks is important.

"Her husband, Monte, is a teacher, and so is able to help with the business during the summer," she says, "and he is very supportive of this."

"He really is much more supportive than I ever thought a husband would be, because when I first suggested the idea, he was very enthusiastic. I thought I'd have to talk him into it and sell him on the idea, but he thought it was a great idea."

Produce growers attend convention

Representatives of fresh fruit, vegetable industry display wares in 'glitter town'

When I attended the fresh produce convention in Las Vegas, I discovered that the "Fresh Fruits and Vegetables" made an ideal topic for the glitter town's comedians. I took everything a bit more seriously, however.

There were 6,000 fresh produce industry folk at the convention. Everything from apples to zucchini were represented.

And Idaho was represented not just by its potato people, but also by its apple folk and its onion growers.

The convention was built around the book and theme "In Search of Excellence."

I found an aura of quality over all the speakers, workshops, displays and general meetings.

But my favorite activity was searching for recipes among the display booths at the exposition show of the convention.

Not only were promotion groups giving out brochures and recipes but lots of booths had tasty treats.

You could "lunch out" just on these samples.

Starting with the tropical fruit group aisle, chunks of pineapple, mango and papaya were offered.

Another aisle expanded the offerings to grapefruit, oranges and apple slices.

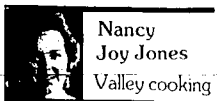

The vegetable groups offered samples of Idaho French fries, onion rings, broccoli and cauliflower with dips. Even rutabaga slices were available for dunking.

For dessert there were slivers of yam pie. "This is tasty! You could try a new sparkling apple cider or freshly squeezed juice."

And one of the best parts that all the yummy samples were not only good, they were also quite good for you. Since avocados are available in the markets now, I'd like to share a few recipes featuring them that I picked up.

AVOCADO BREAD

- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup mashed avocado (fairly ripe)
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 3 teaspoons vanilla

Nancy Joy Jones
Valley cooking

1 1/2 cups chopped walnuts
—Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
Grease two standard loaf pans. Sift dry ingredients together, set aside.
Combine sugar, eggs, vanilla and beat well. Add avocado and oil, blend until smooth.

Gradually add sifted dry ingredients and beat at medium speed until smooth. Mixture may be quite thick. (You could add 1/2 cup water to thin it out enough to pour into pans. It will still be quite thick.) Stir in chopped nuts just before pouring into pans.

Bake 50-60 minutes or until wooden pick comes out clean. Remove from pans and cool thoroughly before slicing.

Remember in the care of avocados, they ripen in the dark. So don't store them in a paper bag unless you want to hurry them along. Perfectly ripe avocados will yield and be soft to your touch when cradled in the palm of your hands. They do not freeze well but can be stored in the refrigerator.

Two different ways to serve avocados were to use the peeled halves as the base with either a chili recipe or chicken curry mixture topping them.

Another recipe I liked utilized oranges and grapefruit which also are plentiful now.

PALM SPRINGS SALAD

- 1 cup sour cream
- 1/2 cup finely chopped pitted dates
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash freshly ground nutmeg
- 3 avocados, peeled and quartered
- 2 large grapefruit, peeled and sectioned
- 2 large oranges, peeled and sectioned

Lettuce
Combine sour cream, dates, orange peel and juice, salt and nutmeg. Chill in a covered container. Arrange avocados, grapefruit and oranges on individual lettuce-covered chilled serving plates. Serve sour cream-dressing separately. Makes 6 to 8 servings.
Enjoy!

No need to slave over stove when company comes

If the idea of slaving for hours over a hot range to prepare a fancy company leaves you cold, here's a handy set of recipes for your entertaining repertoire.

Developed by the Presto Pressure Cooking Institute and Banquet Foods test kitchens, they provide convenience for the hostess whose time and energy are limited. You only have to cook once to get your choice of two complete meals.

One is perfect for a formal dinner party. The other creates a classic buffet supper you can make the night before and serve cold.

Using frozen prepared foods will create deliciously different new sauces, side dishes and desserts. They help you prepare attractive eating fare in less time.

HOT MENU:

- Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll
- Creamy Sauce
- Rice
- Julienne Vegetables
- Apple pie with Warm Plum Sauce

SERVING DIRECTIONS: Bake fruit pie according to directions. Prepare Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll, Julienne Vegetables and plum sauce in pressure cooker according to recipe directions. Place steak roll on serving platter and keep warm. Prepare creamy sauce from remaining liquid in pressure cooker. Serve sauce over or with sliced meat. Arrange vegetables and rice on platter with meat. Serve Plum Sauce warm over apple pie.

- COLD MENU
- Cold Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll
- Jellied Rice Mold
- Vegetables Vinaigrette
- Coconut or Banana Cream Pie with Plum Sauce

SERVING DIRECTIONS: Prepare Shrimp Stuffed Steak Roll, Julienne Vegetables and Plum Sauce in pressure cooker according to recipe directions. Cool Steak Roll, wrap and refrigerate. Meanwhile, prepare Creamy Sauce from remaining liquid in pressure cooker. Make Jellied Rice Mold from sauce; chill. Follow recipe directions for making Vegetables Vinaigrette. At serving time, arrange cold steak roll slices, molds and vegetables vinaigrette on large serving platter. Serve plum sauce at room temperature over thawed cream pie.

SHRIMP STUFFED STEAK ROLL

- 1 (1 1/2 pound) flank steak or 1 1/2 pound top round steak about 1/2 inch thick
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- Salt and pepper
- 1 (7-oz) can tiny shrimp, drained
- 1/2 cup fresh bread crumbs
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon minced green onion
- 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
- 1 tablespoon marinade
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 3 Romaine leaves, spine removed

Using a pressure cooker is key to preparing fancy meal when time and energy are short

Homemade coffecake is pleasant way to start a morning

By BARBARA HANSEN
The Los Angeles Times

Breakfast can be a delightful meal, a cheerful and cozy introduction to the day. But for many it is likely to be a hastily assembled snack dashed off en route to the office, school or other destinations.

On the rare occasion when time is available, try lifting breakfast out of the ordinary. An easy way to do that is to serve homemade coffecake. In this field of baking, simple recipes often produce spectacular results.

A big seller at the Bakery Cafe in South Pasadena, Calif., is a sour cream coffecake topped with brown sugar and chopped walnuts. The slices come to the table lightly warmed with a pat of butter melting over the top. "It's an old recipe that's a standby," said Anne Williams, a representative of the California Bannock Corp., which owns the restaurant.

The Cafe Beaujolais in Mendocino, Calif., is renowned for its homey, lavish breakfasts. Here chef-owner Margarete Fox turns out omelets, waffles and baked goods so tempting that customers drive long distances to taste them.

One of the lures is Fox's Butter-milk-Cinnamon Coffecake, an old fashioned breakfast cake with a brown sugar, cinnamon and almond topping. For convenience, Fox suggests preparing the spicy topping and part of the batter the night before, then adding the liquids and leavening in the morning.

SOUR CREAM COFFECAKE

- 1 1/3 cups sugar
- 3 1/2 tablespoons butter
- 7 tablespoons margarine
- 2 eggs
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon brandy flavoring
- 1/8 teaspoon yellow food color
- 7 tablespoons sour cream
- 1 1/3 cups flour

- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- Brown Sugar Topping
- Cream sugar, butter and margarine thoroughly. Gradually beat in eggs. Add vanilla, brandy flavoring and yellow food color. Stir in sour cream, then add flour and baking powder and mix. Turn into greased 8-inch round cake pan.
- Distribute Brown Sugar Topping evenly over batter. Bake at 325 degrees 1 hour 15 minutes. Makes 8 servings.
- Brown Sugar Topping
- 2/3 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1 tablespoon plus 2 1/4 teaspoons margarine

- 3 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- Cream sugar and margarine. Add flour and cinnamon. Blend with hands to form small crumbles. Add walnuts.
- BUTTERMILK-CINNAMON
- 2 1/4 cups flour
- 1 cup brown sugar, packed
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 3/4 cup corn oil
- 1 cup sliced almonds
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda

- 1 egg
- 1 cup buttermilk
- Mix flour, brown sugar, granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, salt and ginger. Blend in oil until smooth. Remove 3/4 cup mixture and combine with almonds and remaining 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Mix and set aside. To remaining flour mixture, add baking powder, baking soda, egg and buttermilk. Blend until smooth. Pour into buttered 13x9-inch baking pan. Sprinkle reserved nut mixture evenly over surface of batter. Bake at 350 degrees 35 to 40 minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool. Cut into squares to serve. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Recipes

ed, or 8-10 spinach or sorrel leaves

- 1 teaspoon oil
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup red wine

2 packages (5 oz. each) frozen prepared chicken à la king or cream chipped beef

1 cup instant rice, prepared according to package directions

Butterfly the flank steak, pounding lightly to even thickness. Make marinade by combining lemon juice and 2 tablespoons oil; brush half of marinade over steak. Sprinkle steak with salt and pepper. Let stand at room temperature while preparing stuffing. Combine shrimp with bread crumbs, garlic, onion, Tabasco, remaining marinade and basil. Soften remaining under hot water tap; pat dry. Cover steak with Romaine. Spread shrimp over Romaine. Roll and the securely. Prepare vegetable packet and plum sauce; set aside.

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a 9-quart pressure cooker. Brown meat on all sides, curving to fit pan. Add water and wine. Close pressure cooker cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for 10 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Cool pressure cooker at once.

DO NOT ATTEMPT TO REMOVE COVER UNTIL PRESSURE IS COMPLETELY REDUCED. Remove pressure cooker cover and place vegetable packet beside meat. Place pressure cooker rack on top of meat and vegetables. Balance casserole of plum sauce on rack. Close pressure cooker cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for 10 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. (Meanwhile prepare instant rice.) Let pressure drop of its own accord. Remove fruit, vegetables and steak roll from pressure cooker. Place steak roll on serving platter and keep warm. Prepare creamy sauce:

Rapidly boil remaining juices to reduce by half (about 1/2 cup). Add frozen chicken à la king or cream chipped beef, stirring to heat and blend. Makes about 1 1/2 cups. Serve sauce over or with sliced steak roll.

For cold meal use sauce for preparing jellied rice mold. Arrange vegetables along side meat on platter.

STEAMED RICE

- 1 cup regular milled long white rice
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 cup water

Combine rice and 1 1/2 cups water in metal bowl. (Use a 5-cup capacity bowl, 3 inches high or less which will fit loosely into a pressure cooker.) Place 1 cup water, cooking rack and bowl in pressure cooker. Close cover securely. Place pressure regulator on unit pipe. Cook 5 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Let pressure drop of its own accord. DO NOT ATTEMPT TO REMOVE COVER UNTIL PRESSURE IS COMPLETELY REDUCED. Open pressure cooker and allow rice to steam uncovered 5 minutes. Yield: 3 cups cooked rice.

JELLIED RICE MOLD

- 1 1/4 cup cream sauce
  - 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
  - 2 tablespoons elder vinegar
  - 1 cup cooked rice
  - 1/2 cup sour cream
- Keep creamy sauce made for meal hot. Soften gelatin in vinegar; add to hot sauce, stirring to dissolve. Add cooked rice and sour cream. Spoon into decorative individual molds as shown or a 3-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold to serve. Arrange mold on serving platter with cold sliced steak roll and vegetables vinaigrette.

VEGETABLES PACKET

2 cups assorted fresh vegetables, cut in julienne strips (green beans, carrots, turnips, celery, green pepper, etc.)

- 1 tablespoon margarine
- Aluminum foil

Wrap vegetables and margarine securely in aluminum foil. Cook with meat as directed.

VEGETABLES VINAIGRETTE FOR COLD MEAL

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 4 teaspoons vinegar
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Pepper

Put cooked vegetables in a bowl or plastic container. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over vegetables. Cover and chill for several hours or overnight. Arrange vegetables with slices of cold steak roll and rice molds on serving platter.

PLUM SAUCE

- 4 red plums, cut into sixths, or eighths, seeds removed

- 4 1/2 cups packed brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon orange liqueur
- 1 20-oz. ready to bake frozen apple pie, baked or 14-oz. ready to serve frozen coconut or banana cream pie

Place fruit, sugar and liqueur in a 16-oz. bucket that will fit in pressure cooker. Wrap securely in aluminum foil. Cook as directed. Serve warm over apple pie or at room temperature over thawed cream pie.

Sprouts

"Several times, as I'm driving around delivering the sprouts and going from place to place — I'm saying, 'Is this really a job? Because it is so enjoyable,'" she says.

Sprouts have become a staple in the Katzenberger diet. The whole family loves them, she says, noting she uses sprouts as a crunchy topping in sandwiches in place of lettuce, because she says they are full of vitamins and protein.

GUACAMOLE SANDWICHES

- 1 ripe avocado, peeled, pitted and mashed
  - 1 tablespoon onion, finely chopped
  - 1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
  - 1/4-1/2 teaspoon salt
  - Dash of Worcestershire sauce
  - 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
  - 1 cup sprouts
- Mix first five ingredients. At this point it is optional to either mix the sprouts into the guacamole, or spread the guacamole and put them on it. Put on toasted bread and serve. Serves about four.
- Katzenberger uses sprouts on pizzas, tacos and in main dish omelets or scrambled eggs. Just before serving, while folding the omelet over, she adds sprouts.

DEVILED EGG SANDWICHES

- 2 eggs, hard boiled and mashed
  - 2 cups cream mayonnaise
  - 1/2 cup grated cheese (optional)
  - salt and pepper to taste
  - 1/2 teaspoon mustard
  - 1 cup sprouts
- Combine first five ingredients. Mix in sprouts, or put on top of mixture on bread. Makes about three sandwiches.

A favorite non-sprout dish in the Katzenberger household is...

TUNA DINNER IN A DISH

- 4 hard cooked eggs
  - 1 1/2 cups cut-up celery
  - 1-6 1/2 ounce can tuna, drained
  - 1/4 cup butter or margarine
  - 1/4 cup salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
  - 2 cups milk
  - 1 small onion, thinly sliced
  - 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
  - cheese crescents (recipe follows)
- Heat oven to 425 degrees. Cut peeled eggs lengthwise in half. Arrange eggs, celery and tuna in ungreased 8 x 12 inch baking dish. Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour and seasonings. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture is smooth and bubbly. Remove from heat. Stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in onion and green pepper. Pour over mixture in dish. Keep hot in oven while making cheese crescents. Arrange crescents on top of hot mixture. Bake uncovered 25-30 minutes at 425 degrees.

CHEESE CRESCENTS

- 1 cup flour
  - 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon shredded American cheese
  - 3 tablespoons salad oil
  - 1/2 cup milk
- Measure flour, baking powder, salt and cheese into bowl. Pour oil and milk into measuring cup. Do not stir. Pour all at once into flour mixture. Stir until mixture kneads sides of bowl and forms a ball. Knead about ten times. Roll into eight inch circle, between two sheets of waxed paper. Cut dough into six wedges. Roll out, beginning at rounded edge. Place on casserole and continue baking. Serves six.

Cook develops copycat recipe for 'nibble' mix

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
The Associated Press

DEAR CECILY: A friend sent me a big can of a delicious "nibble," which she bought at a specialty food shop. Peanuts, raisins, hazelnuts, almonds, pepitos, sunflower seeds, curry powder, garlic, salt and spices were in it. I wish you would copycat it.

— HOME COOK.

DEAR HOME COOK: I know the nut mix you mention and when I served it to guests along with drinks they enjoyed it very much. I myself like it generously sprinkled over cooked rice to serve with roast chicken. I also enjoy it as a condiment for a meat or seafood "curry" — even though the nut mix has curry in it.

A friend of mine, who has had long experience in working with spices, developed the following recipe for Copycat Nut Mix. She differs from the original in adding a couple of tablespoons of vegetable oil to help the spices adhere to the nuts, seeds and raisins. She did not use one of the original ingredients, pepitos, but if you like you may substitute them for some of the sunflower seeds. — C.B.

COPYCAT NUT MIX

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons pepper
1½ teaspoon turmeric
1 to 1½ teaspoons garlic powder
2½ to 3 tablespoons curry powder
1 cup blanched whole almonds
1 cup roasted hazelnuts
1 cup roasted peanuts
1 cup shelled sunflower seeds
½ cup raisins

In a large skillet over moderate heat, heat oil. Add salt, pepper, turmeric, garlic powder and curry powder and stir together. Add almonds, hazelnuts, peanuts, sunflower seeds and raisins; stir until evenly coated with the spice oil and the mixture is slightly toasted — about 3 minutes. Turn out onto a large cookie sheet, cool completely. Store in a tightly covered airtight container in the refrigerator.

Makes about 4½ cups.
Note: Use nuts and sunflower seeds that are unsalted. Blanched hazelnuts are available at health food stores.

Passion fruit becoming popular in U.S.

By TOM HOGGE
The Associated Press

The small globe of fruit borne by an exotic plant known as the passion flower has been a favorite in Brazil for many centuries. Now it is becoming popular in North America.

The plant had been grown as an ornamental in Puerto Rico for years, but the natives considered it unfit to eat until a few years ago. They found the fruit so tasty that they began marketing it in 1976.

Puerto Rico now produces more than 3,000 tons of passion fruit a year. The island ships about 75,000 crates of juice from the fruit to the U.S. mainland. We also import about 15 tons of the fruit a year, mostly from New Zealand, where it has also become popular.

Brazil grows a number of types of passion fruit, some of which are cooked green and eaten as a vegetable. Best known, however, is the reddish fruit, not much larger than a hen's egg.

This fruit has a thin skin and is filled with tiny seeds. It has a tasty juice that can be drunk like water. The liquid is used in sauces, salads and sherbets.

Passion fruit spoils easily, and is usually found in fancy fruit and vegetable stores that are careful not to overstock.

A recent survey found that about 90 percent of U.S. residents who sampled passion fruit liked it, inspiring predictions that it would soon be a big favorite in this country.

The fruit got its colorful name from Spanish missionaries who likened the flower to Christ's crown of thorns at the Crucifixion.

Passion fruit is tasty in pies, as in the following recipe. Make a crust from two cups rolled Graham cracker crumbs from recipe usually found on a box of the crackers. Here's the recipe for the filling:

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Cold water
3 egg yolks, beaten

Juice of 1 lime
1 cup pureed passion fruit
3 egg whites
8 tablespoons honey

Press cracker crumb mixture against bottom and sides of 8-inch pie pan and chill. Sprinkle gelatin into ½ cup water and let stand for 5 minutes. Whip egg yolks with 1-3rd cup water and lime juice. Cook over low heat, stirring until smooth and thickened. Mix in gelatin and passion fruit. Chill mixture until it begins to thicken. Whip egg whites until stiff and beat in honey, 1 tablespoon at a time. Fold egg whites into fruit mixture. Pour mixture onto the crust and chill until firm. If desired, top the pie with sweetened whipped cream. Serves 6 people.

Make chocolate pate ahead

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
The Associated Press

Urged on by the current interest in chocolate desserts, we tried a brand-new one — Chocolate Pate. It is served in a loaf pan and makes 16 servings.

A "make-ahead" dessert, it is refrigerated for six to eight hours or overnight and served after that. Or better yet, in our opinion, it may be put in the freezer for several hours and offered in frosty form.

This pate has mild chocolate flavor — a pleasant change from the chocolate overload that's around so much these days.

CHOCOLATE PATE

2 large eggs
2 packages (each 4 ounces) sweet cooking chocolate
1/3rd cup butter
1 tablespoon instant coffee
2 tablespoons dark rum
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups finely ground walnuts

2 cups heavy cream
Line the entire surface of a loaf pan (about 8 by 4 by 2 inches) with a sheet of saran with ends extended over edges of pan.

In a small bowl beat eggs until yolks and whites are blended.

In a small saucepan, over low heat, melt chocolate and butter, stirring often. Stir in instant coffee and rum and continue stirring until coffee is dissolved; add eggs and stir constantly over low heat until slightly thickened. Off heat stir in vanilla and walnuts. Turn into a large bowl; cool to room temperature.

Whip cream until stiff, fold into chocolate mixture. Turn into prepared pan. Chill for 6 to 8 hours or overnight, or freeze for about 3 hours or until firm.

Using the extended edges of the saran, lift loaf from pan and turn out on a serving platter; remove saran. Garnish with extra whipped cream and, if you like, chocolate curls. Makes about 5 cups (16 servings).

Recipe box: Beef pie

BEEF PIE
2 tablespoons butter
1 medium (4 ounces) onion, finely chopped (½ cup)
1 pound ground beef chuck
12 ounces mushrooms, coarsely grated in a food processor
1 tablespoon instant beef-flavor bouillon granules
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour blended with 2 tablespoons cold water
11-ounce package pie crust mix
1 egg yolk blended with 1½ teaspoons milk
In a 10-inch skillet in the hot butter gently cook onion until golden. Add beef, cook, crumbling with a fork until it is pink. Stir in mushrooms, bouillon granules and flour mixture. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cool. Prepare pie crust mix; line bottom of an 8-inch pie plate with half of it; roll out remaining half to cover pie. Fill pie shell with beef mixture; cover with top pastry. Flute edges and cut 6 one-inch slits on top to vent. Brush with egg yolk mixture. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until brown — 40 to 45 minutes. Cool on wire rack for 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Time to prepare early tomato harvest

Would you like to harvest a significant crop of ripe tomatoes by early August? There are tomato varieties which will produce ripe fruit in less than 60 days from transplanting—even in the Magic Valley.

These early bush tomatoes have already produced several ripe fruits by early August before ordinary varieties have a single ripe fruit. Started plants of these varieties are not very readily available, although there are a few progressives which grow them. However, it is not difficult to start a few plants in a sunny window right in your own home.

For best results, tomato seed should not be started inside until April. It only requires five or six weeks to grow a small tomato transplant from seed. Seed can be started sooner if transplanted into larger containers such as 4-inch pots.

There are a number of extra early tomato varieties available which will produce the first ripe fruit in 55 to 65 days after transplanting outside. The best adapted ones have bushy plants that ripen several fruits at once rather than one at a time. They produce the greatest total yield of ripe fruit in our short growing season.

You will seldom find any of these varieties on an ordinary seed rack. They are only available in some retail nurseries and garden stores and from mail order catalogs.

Several early tomatoes have been developed by the University of Idaho. Santa, Latah, Bonner, Sandpoint and Gem State are all very early. My favorite of this group is Santa. It is the highest yielding and has slightly larger fruit than some of the others.

Allen Wilson
Intermountain gardening

Several sub-arctic varieties can be found in catalogs and stores. The largest and highest yielding is Sub-Arctic Maxi. It is probably the most readily available extra early variety as started plants. Rocket, Basket King and Pixie are tree varieties available primarily by mail.

Last year, I planted three Canadian varieties which look promising. They are Siberia, Glacier and Early Temptation.

Early Temptation was the largest and highest yielding extra early tomato in the Ricks College trial last summer. It is a hybrid with more vigor than other varieties.

Early Temptation seed is not easy to find. I know of only one small Canadian company which sells it. In order to test its performance in a wide range of home garden situations, I have obtained some seed for my readers.

If you would like to try Early Temptation tomato, send $1 and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Allen Wilson, Box 808, Rexburg, Idaho 83440. I will send a 10 seed sample and instructions on how to start the seeds inside. After growing it, I would appreciate your evaluation, especially how it compares to other tomatoes which you plant.

Allen Wilson teaches horticulture at Ricks College.

Plan now for showy blooms

By HENRY MITCHELL
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Occasionally gardeners want summer flowers that make a brave show and don't need much water. They are especially useful in the distance, perhaps behind a low fence separating the area from the more intensively cultivated part of the garden proper.

One of the best American weeds is the cloome or spider flower. Given sun, water and good soil it grows to 6 feet with grapefruit-sized clusters of magenta, pink or white flowers that bloom from July to frost. The white kind called 'Helen Campbell' is quite beautiful in dim light at night, though blooms are increasingly offered only in mixed colors.

Some gardeners never get over a love of sunflowers. There are various kinds, some only chest high, while others reach 8 or 10 feet. If you love them but feel uneasy because they are somewhat weedy, you can always justify planting them on grounds that cardinals, jays and many other birds are fond of the seeds. I often think the way to grow them is with great boldness, great light at night, though blooms are increasingly offered only in mixed colors.

Cosmos can also reach 6 feet and have agreeable thready leaves, very light and delicate in effect. They are very good for late summer when most things look tired. They come in pastel colors and bright orange, and it is well to remember the basic color of the cosmos is magenta or rosy lilac if you prefer.

A plant everybody likes when it blooms, but which few gardeners get round to planting, is the moonflower, a vigorous climber reaching 20 feet or so in good ground, and offering bluer-sized morning-glory-like blooms at night. They only grow properly in hot weather, and there is no point planting them before May. They can be brought to prodigious size with occasional doses of manure and plenty of water. They only open about 9 p.m., so don't count on them for early evening. They are scented. They are easily grown from seed, as all plants mentioned today are.

It often surprises me that people grow zinnias only in mixed color. Of course if you like to have all the colors, that is the best way, but do not overlook the effect of large patches of huge white (dahlia-flowered) zinnias especially if you sit in the garden mainly at night. Pale yellow ones also show up well. One year I had these big zinnias in white, yellow and lavender, and found them rewarding. Like everything else, it is increasingly hard to find zinnias in separate color, but some of the large firms like Burpee's still have them.

They require good soil, plenty of sun and water, and must be kept quite free of weeds when small.

Readers irate about seduction of teen

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing in reference to "On Fire in Arkansas," the woman who punched her neighbor (41) in the mouth after learning that she had seduced her 15-year-old son. Then the tramp said, "He's no boy, he's a man; and with a little practice he'll be as good as his father."

That's when the boy's mother hauled off, hit the tramp in the mouth and broke her bridgework. The tramp threatened to sue the woman for assaulting her. Meanwhile, the assaulter went to her priest, who advised her to apologize to the tramp and offer to pay for repairs to her bridgework. And you agreed with that idiot priest!

You both totally ignored the fact that this trollop was guilty of statutory rape when she seduced a minor. The boy's father was at least a legal catch.

I hope you get a hundred letters calling you on this.

DISGUSTED IN DOYLESTOWN DEAR DISGUSTED: I wish it were only 100; a thousand would be closer to it. Mea culpa, mea maxima culpa. The priest will have to make his own apologies. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I would like to put in my 2 cents about that 41-year-old woman who took a 15-year-old neighbor boy to bed. What's all the commotion about? All right, so a 15-year-old boy is a minor in the eyes of the law, but there are a lot of boys that age who are man enough to seek a sexual relationship.

In my day, it wasn't unusual for a boy's father to pay a high-class prostitute to educate his son. It may not be the ideal solution, but it's preferable to having the kid talk some inexperienced 14-year-old girl into taking care of his normal sex urges.

MICHIGAN GRANDPA, AGE 65 DEAR GRANDPA: As a father, would you feel the same way about having your 15-year-old daughter "educated" by an older man? Grandpa, children should be taught early that they can't have everything they want as soon as they feel the urge for it.

I believe minors should be taught everything they want to know about sex before they become sexually active. In order to protect themselves and others, we don't need any more venereal diseases, abortions or babies born out of wedlock to teenage girls. But whatever happened to self-control? That should also be a part of sex education.

DEAR ABBY: I think "On Fire in Arkansas" had every right to hit her neighbor for taking her 15-year-old son to bed. That woman ought to be ashamed of herself.

I'm a 14-year-old girl, and if an older man ever took me to bed, my mother would not only hit him, she would sue him.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

Where in Arkansas did this happen? I really feel sorry for that 15-year-old boy who's in the middle of all this. If he lives near Stuttgart and wants a nice understanding girl to talk to, I would like to meet him.

— AN UNDERSTANDING GIRL

DEAR ABBY: As a social worker who deals with similar situations, I can tell you that "On Fire" could be charged with child neglect herself if she has knowledge of sexual abuse involving a minor and fails to report it to the proper authorities.

As a mother, I would have punched the lady, then reported her actions — and my own — to the authorities.

— MRS. V.I.L.L., BRADENTON

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful 14-year-old son who's a star basketball player. He stands 6 feet tall, weighs 165 pounds, has blond curly hair, and the most gorgeous brown eyes you could ever want to see. If any 41-year-old woman ever laid a hand on him, I'd break more than her bridgework.

— ON FIRE IN GEORGIA

Dr. Seuss toys used by doctor

CHICAGO (AP) — Two stuffed animals — characters in a Dr. Seuss story — serve as reminders of reality in the office of Dr. Thomas J. Krizek, the new chief of plastic and reconstructive surgery at the University of Chicago Medical Center.

Krizek — who sees himself as a defender of the deformed — says the animals dramatize the plight of patients who suffer as virtual outcasts because deformity, injury or aging has made them look different from other people.

In the Dr. Seuss story, the animals, called Sneetches, differ from each other only in that some have stars on their bellies and some don't. By the end of the story, the animals learn that belly-stars make no difference in the worth of a Sneetch.

It is a lesson Krizek wishes the world could learn.

"I start my lectures showing students a picture of a child with a cleft lip and asking them why we should repair that," he said. The answer is "so the child will be acceptable to society."

Krizek said the trial of Daniel McKay, a veterinarian accused of murdering his malformed newborn son, illustrates the problems of dealing with deformity.

"There's hardly been a society in the history of the world that hasn't destroyed its children with a cleft lip," Krizek said. "Cleft-palate children talk funny, they talk through their noses. They sound dumb."

McKay is accused of slamming his son's head on a delivery room floor after the infant was born with a cleft palate and cleft lip, clawlike hands and other defects. A jury last week couldn't reach a verdict. A retrial is scheduled.

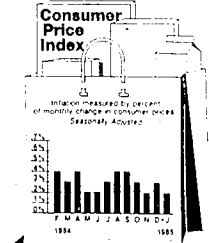

Though cleft lip and cleft palate can create a startling hole in a newborn's face, they are common deformities — occurring approximately in one of every 1,000 births, he said. The problem is usually surgically repaired.

Stacy Keuchl, who plays Detective Mike Hammer on television, has a repaired cleft lip, the scar of which is hidden by a mustache, Krizek said.

Though most civilizations have abandoned or destroyed children with cleft lips, some civilizations — the Aztec and Maya in Central America — regarded cleft lips as a plus, he said.

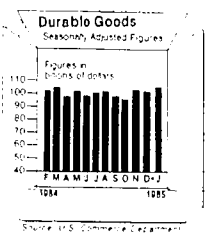

Inflation, goods reports encourage experts

WASHINGTON — A tiny rise in retail prices and a healthy jump in durable goods orders last month were credited by analysts Tuesday as welcome support for their predictions of a 1985 marked by continued low inflation and steady economic growth.

At the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes called the report "particularly good news at this stage of the business expansion."

He read the sum of Volcker's testimony as "a deliberate attempt to be upbeat to try to undo some of the damage he did last week."

Rob Wescott, senior economist at Wharton Economics Inc. in Philadelphia, said the January consumer price index confirms a "very low underlying rate of inflation" and added that it suggests there "may still be room" for downward revision of inflation forecasts.

decline in six months. Since March 1981, those prices have fallen 15.2 percent.

If last month's 0.2 percent increase held for 12 straight months, the yearly advance would be 2.3 percent.

confidently make a commitment," said Bruce "We think we're wiser to remain flexible rather than run the risk of committing to the wrong type of space or to more space than we ultimately might be able to justify economically," he said.

Economist says transition proposal for agriculture comes at worst time

URBANA, Ill. (AP) - Agriculture should depend more on the marketplace and less on the government for income, but the transition proposed by the Reagan administration "couldn't come at a worse time," an economist said Tuesday.

That, along with a credit assistance program already announced by the White House, "could provide a lot of help" to financially troubled farmers, Harl said.

"Discharged indebtedness goes ricocheting through local communities, leaving waste, with the unsecured creditors taking the greatest hit," Harl said.
