Scouts find body

Skeleton not yet identified

By Times-News writers

BUHL — Two Boy Scouts hunting for artifacts found skeletal remains of a human body Saturday afternoon near Miracle Hot Springs northwest of Buhl.

The body has not been identified, said Twin Falls Sheriff James Munn Sunday. It was found about 800 yards from Highway 30 across Salmon Falls Creek from Miracle Hot Springs.

Nathan Olsen, 13, whose parents own the hot springs, and Matt Thompson, 15, of Hagerman, were hiking up a hill in the desert area around noon when Nathan spotted a vertebra lying on the ground and picked it up.

"I thought it would be good for a neochercher's sake," said "Scout uniform," Nathan said. "Matt wanted to find one too. We started looking around and saw the skeleton."

The skeleton was between two sagebrush bushes and was covered with branches, said Nathan's father, Larry Olsen.

At first the boys thought it was a dead cat, Nathan said. But then the boys reached in and pulled out a human skull.

Olsen spoke us at first to see a skeleton sitting in the bush, Nathan said. Little was left other than bones and a pair of pants, the father said.

The boys took the skull to Nathan's father's house, where a party room is being built. He told the boys to put the skull back and called the sheriff's office, Nathan said.

There was no identification on the remains, Munn said. Officers could not tell from the clothing what remained what part of the body was.

The remains will be taken to Postello today for a forensic pathologist to examine. The examination may determine age, sex, time of death and cause of death, Munn said.

There have been no recent reports in Twin Falls County or nearby counties of missing persons still unaccounted for, Munn said. He did not release reports of the body until Sunday morning, fearing spectators drawn to the area might have disturbed or tampered with it, he said.

Larry Olsen said that his family "tramps all over" in the area where the skeleton was found and often cuts across the land to reach the site of the house he is building, but had never noticed the skeleton before.

Soviet Politburo members were in San Francisco when called back to Soviet Union

Soviets leave U.S. amid rumors about Chernenko

By JULIE AMFARANO
The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — A high-ranking Soviet delegation on Sunday unexpectedly cut short by two days its visit to the United States, raising speculation that Soviet leader Konstantin Chernenko had died, U.S. officials said.

In Moscow, radio stations played somber music early Monday and high government officials gathered dawn at the Communist Party Central Committee office. A report in Monday's Washington Post said a member of the Soviet Union's ruling Politburo suddenly left Yugoslavia.

Similar activities in the past preceded an official announcement of death among the Soviet leadership.

The Post in an article from Geneva, Switzerland, reported a spokesman for the U.S. mission to international organizations said Vice President George Bush had received unconfirmed reports that Chernenko had died. Bush was in Geneva to address a conference on the African drought.

The visiting delegation, led by National security adviser Robert C. McFarlane, briefed President Reagan on the Soviet delegation's of the Soviet Union's ruling Politburo, was the highest-ranking Soviet group to visit the United States in more than a decade. It was leaving for New York and was to take a special flight to Moscow on Monday, officials said.

National security adviser Robert C. McFarlane, briefed President Reagan on the Soviet delegation's request for U.S. assistance in arranging a quick flight home, said deputy White House press secretary Robert Sims.

Chernenko reportedly had a heart attack in Washington, said a member of the delegation that arrived in the United States March 5.

Ms. Ascher declined comment on speculation that the delegation's sudden departure may have been prompted by death or critical illness of Chernenko.

Chernenko, 73, head of the Communist Party and the government, is known to have respiratory problems and has dropped from public view for lengthy periods. He made two appearances on television in late February after a two-month absence from public view.

But a U.S. official in Washington, speaking on condition he not be identified, said, "the speed with which the group is returning indicates that Chernenko is either dead or is expected to die within a matter of hours."

Lawmakers to face key bills for education

By QUANE KENTON
The Associated Press

BOISE — After stalling for weeks, the Idaho Legislature will decide this week the two key bills in the upcoming state budget, funding for public schools and higher education.

The Senate adjourned early Saturday, setting the stage for that chamber to vote on the House-passed college funding bill Monday and near adjournment.

For a while late Saturday afternoon, it appeared the House was poised to vote on the public school funding bill. But a moderate Republican in the House moderate coalition won a 44-37 vote to adjourn until Monday morning.

It's the largest single bill in the state budget, spending more than half of all revenue the state takes in. And several House members objected to starting work on that measure late in the session.

Rep. Mark Neilbur, R-Paulden, debated only a couple of minutes on the school funding bill, which calls for $30 million in state support for public schools.

He said the measure only maintains current operations, and contains nothing for the second step of a "salary equity" drive started last year to improve teachers' salaries.

It also contains no funding for the career ladder program authorized by the last Legislature. Education supporters view they will try to amend the bill, to put more money into it, or defeat it with hopes of winning a higher appropriation.

Several members protested, taking up what might be the most important bill of the session late on a Saturday afternoon.

"That bill is very important to me because I have four children who would be affected," said Rep. Steve Harrison, D-Sandpoint. "The rules guarantee me an hour to debate and I guarantee I will use it," he said.

Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, urged holding the bill until Monday for a different reason. Unless the bill is stalled, he said, there will be no reason for the Senate to pass a number of bills which the House already has passed.

"This is the most important revenue legislation we have this year," said Rep. Dean Hagenson, R-Coeur d'Alene. All affairs every district. See LEGISLATURE on Page A1.

Rudeen to be sued for cost of search

By The Times-News
and The Associated Press

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County officials say they plan to file a civil suit against Paul Rudeen to recover approximately $11,000 spent searching for him in late January, when law officials believe he staged his disappearance.

His wife, Marjorie L. Rudeen, filed for divorce Wednesday and requested that her husband be prohibited from selling or disposing of any potential assets owned by the couple.

Rudeen is being held in the Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of $25,000 bond on a felony perjury charge for allegedly obtaining a driver's license "in Twin Falls" using the name of Lawrence Paul Tate. He will go before a Fifth District court Monday at 11 a.m.

Other costs were incurred by detectives investigating the case, and Rudeen, 55, of Wendell, was originally believed to have drowned. But officials later alleged that disappearance was staged and that he had set his 1970 station wagon on Miller Bridge on Jan. 24. About 100 people spent two days searching for him, said Twin Falls Sheriff James Munn.

Deputy Prosecutor Keith Hutchinson said he planned to file suit this week to recover the money spent by the county on the case.

"A lot of man-hours and a lot of time was spent looking for a man who wasn't lost," Hutchinson said. Searchers used helicopters to look for drive vehicles and airplanes in their attempt to locate Rudeen after a woman identifying herself as "Julie Brown" called authorities to report she had seen a brown car roll into the river.

Agriculture report says 93,000 farms in financial trouble

By JIM DRINKARD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — An unreleased Agriculture Department report says 93,000 mid-sized U.S. farms, holding $47 billion in debt, are technically insolvent or on the verge of being broke — a 45 percent increase from earlier figures.

The figure, amounting to 13.7 percent of such farms that form the backbone U.S. commercial agriculture, is considerably higher than the 4 percent rate cited last week by President Reagan when he vetoed legislation intended to provide emergency credit to farmers.

Then, Reagan said, "The truth of the matter is, in need of immediate help are less than 4 percent or around 4 percent at best of all the agriculture, the so-called 'family farms' in the United States." Agriculture Secretary John Block questioned that notion in the president's statement, said Reagan early 1983, the available data suggest that one-third of all family-size commercial farms, owing almost one-half of all farm debt, will have some degree of financial difficulty.

The new report by the department's Economic Research Service, circulating several months ago indicating that some 336,000 of 2.3 million total U.S. farms "or nearly 18 percent, are likely to be suffering some financial stress."

But it goes beyond those numbers to paint a worsening picture for the 679,000 farms that are the mainstream of production, the so-called "family farms" growing between $50,000 and $500,000 a year.

Several Democratic senators cited the report last week when they questioned Block about figures Reagan used in explaining the reasons for his veto. A copy of the document was subsequently obtained by The Associated Press.

In January 1984, an estimated 64,000 farms owing $30 billion in debt had debt-to-asset ratios in excess of 70 percent, meaning they were insolvent or "rapidly moving toward insolvency," that represented about 11 percent of all mid-size farms.

By early this year, the number in that category had increased to 93,000 farms owing $47 billion of the nation's $214-billion total agricultural debt. Of those, 43,000 were more than their assets are worth and will be technically insolvent this year.

Farms with 40 cents in debts for each dollar of assets are deemed "highly leveraged" and likely to suffer shortfalls in cash flow. Those with debt-to-asset ratios of 70 percent or more are "very highly leveraged" and "almost certain" not to be able to pay back their expenses to make debt payments.

As many as 136,000 farms, owing 26 percent of the debt, still have serious financial problems but will be able to survive a few more unfavorable years," the report notes, referring to farms now in the 40-to-70 percent range.

It adds that, "the number of farms with financial stress in 1985 is likely to increase at roughly the same rate as in 1984."

The financial problems in rural America have their origins in the 1970s, when booming export grain sales and high inflation pushed up values of both commodities and the land on which they are produced.

Jail bond proposal isn't the right one

Yesterday we discussed the need for a new jail in Twin Falls County, a need which we think is real. But the proposal before the voters March 19 is not the best one for the county. We think it should be defeated. Here's why.

Operations costs. The bond proposal is for $6.2 million, to be paid back in ten years. The cost, about $50,000 annually, would raise taxes about 75 cents for each $1,000 in assessed valuation of county property. But the true cost of the jail could easily be twice that if the jail population increases as county officials now project. The present facility averages 42 inmates a day. At a growth rate of 10 percent annually, it will be up to the proposed facility's 90-bed capacity within 7 years.

Staffing at that point, officials admit, will be between 25 and 30 full-time jailers. At today's cost of about $16,000 annually per jailer (salary and benefits), that's a staff cost alone of $400,000 and $480,000, if you assume a 4 percent wage and benefit inflation, the real operations cost just seven years from now could be between $500,000 and $607,000 annually, on top of the construction payment.

To be sure, some of these costs would be incurred regardless. If a jail is not built, the county may well have to transport prisoners elsewhere. Those costs have been estimated at perhaps $600,000.

In its first question and answer sheet, the jail proponents ask the following question: "Will the new facility require more staff to operate than the present facility." They answered it "No." That answer, in our view, was incorrect. There are now 5 jailers. At least 18, and perhaps up to 30, will be needed. You add it up.

In the latest version of the answer, however, they now answer the question "Yes," but provide no numbers of how the growth will go.

Size. The present proposal is for a 90-bed facility of 59,000 square feet. For scale purposes, that is three times the size of Albertson's, or about 242 feet on a side. It would nearly fill the present vacant land next to the courthouse (if it is all on one level).

A close look at the square-foot breakdowns shows that the proposal is not more than a jail. It is now being called a "law enforcement center," but even that is not completely accurate. It would house, in addition to the jail itself, an inmate law library, 600 square feet; a 2,000-square-foot recreation room; a 3,400 square-foot kitchen; a 3,730 square-foot emergency operation center. In the event of a nuclear war or civil disaster, 875 square feet for sheriff's administration, 1,560 for sheriff's investigation, 620 for sheriff's private office, 980 for the driver's license office, 3,250 feet for a vehicle parking lot, 2,360 for the county prosecutor; 1,380 for the public defender.

In all between 10 and 25 percent of the total space, depending on what you count, is in "support" space, not in actual jail space. That is a substantial expansion of county office space, the justification for which we do not think the county commissioners have made.

Their response to questions about these additions is that county offices are cramped and that more space is needed. Perhaps. But, in our view, the need for county office space would be addressed as a separate issue, not as a disguised part of a "jail" bond issue.

Detailed plans. The county has not developed working plans for the jail, hoping instead that the public will approve the bond issue proposal, sight unseen.

Some plans, we think, should be ordered. People have a right to know, we think, if this is going to be one story or two; and roughly how it will look on the site. The failure to provide such schematic sketches is a serious flaw in our opinion for a project of this size.

Emergency Operations Center. The jail would have an emergency operations center in the basement. It would be fallout-proof and would be designed as a host operations center in the event of a nuclear strike on Mountain Home Air Force Base.

This is a huge facility, designed to be an underground safe room which can house nearly 60 people for up to two weeks with electricity and water. (Sorry, the list is already drawn up on who gets to stay in it.)

At other times, say officials, it could be used to direct emergency operations like floods and chemical spills, although we wonder whether you need a center like this to muster sheriff deputies for flood control duty.

Some explanations strike us as, at best, implausible. What we're really getting here, from all appearances, is a whiz-bang electronics center for the civil defense types.

Do we need that as part of a jail? Do we need that at all?

Tomorrow, we'll talk about some alternatives.

School prayer

Pro-Religious character is a missing element in today's schools

I probably should say, first of all, that I am not parroting any party line when I talk to you this afternoon. I just don't think really the Catholic church has a choice.

I would like the Catholic church to find a diversity of opinion on this matter. You would certainly find division. So, I'm giving you, essentially, Father Dodds' view of the issue.

Now, within my lifetime, there has been a noticeable shift in direction in public education. I was born in Kimberly, and I lived in the 12 years in Kimberly and I can remember very well when we had Bible reading in class and when the baccalaureate services at the conclusion of the year were compulsory and very religious in character. I remember, really, a lot of religious character in education that I hope to see any day at the time, but I don't think it hurt me.

Now, in my mind, there have been forces that work to brainwash the average American into the idea that there has to be a strict wall of separation between church and state, that this is in accord with our constitution.

But this really flies in the face of the fact that in frontier America, the preacher and the teacher were often the same person. Many public schools, in the years gone by, particularly colleges and universities, were denominationally oriented, and really very religious in character.

The public schools in the United States, controlled in the not too distant past in the United States. For example, when I was in the 10th grade in Kimberly High School, I had a Catholic school teacher. She was the first Catholic ever hired in the Kimberly public school system. There was no rule, but it was an unwritten understanding that the whole world would be hired in the public school system.

There was also something of an unwritten rule that no Mormon would ever be hired to the school board. So, there was heavy denominational control of many of our public schools.

I would like to see that the Catholic church has been one of the main culprits in destroying religion in the schools. That may sound very strange that I would say that. Really sort of have to apologize for it.

Catholics and Jews, of course, were threatened by the Protestant church, and the way the Catholics coming from Europe hated to see them plunged into a secular public school environment and often thereby, lost to the church.

The average, fair-minded, decent American began to join with Catholics and Jews in agreeing that school should be religiously neutral.

But I believe we have gone far beyond neutrality

Perry Dodds

A conclusion is at least subtly reinforced that God and religion are unimportant and really irrelevant.

Father Perry Dodds and that how a philosophy that is almost militantly anti-religious is pervasive in our school system.

I believe a philosophy that I would identify as secular humanism is dominant within our public school system today.

Children are generally taught—at least, it is almost an implicit understanding with most children as an experience of their school life—that about everything they need to know in life will be learned in school.

But they learn absolutely nothing about God and religion. So a conclusion is at least subtly reinforced that God and religion are unimportant and really irrelevant. This deeply concerns us and I think deeply concerns many thinking people.

We are deeply concerned about the religiously neutral stance about the future of our country. If this system has gone beyond neutrality and has become almost religious, amoral or having really no reference to God and religion.

Now, ironically, a deep concern about the other than Catholic influence prompted the Catholic church to a monumental undertaking of establishing a separate school system.

At one time here in Twin Falls, we had 400 children enrolled in our Catholic school. The Chicago Catholic school system was the first one (I think) that had an answer key and no to the question, "Do I want prayer in public schools, I would have to admit I am somewhat ambivalent."

But I would say yes, because I do think the issue is not really black and white. I recognize there are difficulties, and I don't want to see our schools become the equivalent of Sunday school.

But there must be a common-sense way of working out this whole matter so that it reflects the mind of the great majority and so that it also protects the rights of the minority.

I see no harm and, in fact, nothing but good that can come from the reintroduction into our public schools of some religious character.

I also think it's important to recall that the school exists in locus parentis, in the place of the parent. In other words, the parents are the primary educators to the children.

The school has no right to determine that which the parents do or other than that which the common good of our society would grant to that school.

In other words, those children do not belong to the school and the school has no right to determine what is necessary for them, but that which the parents believe that the school should respect in the mind of the parents in this matter.

Our society is more and more demanding that our schools address themselves to the need to talk about God and religion, to relate these matters to their daily lives.

The Rev. Perry Dodds is pastor of St. Edward's Catholic Church, Twin Falls. This article is adapted from his introductory remarks on the subject of school prayer to the Sawtooth Press Club, March 1, a tape of which was provided for Times-News readers by KLLX Radio.

Con: Kids need to pray, but church, not school, is the place

I am at a distinct disadvantage for I come today agreeing with that wonderful bumper sticker I see around town showing school books with an apple on top and declaring, "Kids need to pray!"

I would add to that bumper sticker, however, some other religious truths: Kids need to be baptized; kids need to be saved and cleansed from sin; kids need to take communion; kids need to participate in the sacrament of footwashing.

Let the schools do all of these wonderful things! "What year were you saved?" "Class of '78!"

I would change the symbolism of the bumper sticker only by adding to it an apple hanging from the tree of knowledge of good and evil—a constitutional tree—and I would show a school girl about ready to pluck and eat of the fruit of that tree. I don't think my bumper sticker will be a big seller, frankly.

I am thankful a Catholic lawyer, William Butler in the early 1960s decided to represent five plaintiffs from Herick, N.Y., who challenged the resolution adopted by the school board which forced youngsters by the authority of their teachers and peer group pressure to recite a prayer in the classroom.

Butler took the case because he was defending prayer and religious freedom, not attacking it. But why would some parents have been upset with such a "wholesome" custom as having their children bow their heads and pray a simple 22-word prayer: "Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy Blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers, and our country?"

Lawrence Roth, a nonpracticing Jew and newcomer to the school system, believed that the school board had no mandate or right to involve itself with such activities. "My best feeling," he explained to a reporter, "was that the state could tell us to pray and when to pray, there was no stopping."

The decision came down from the Supreme Court in June, 1962. There were three opinions, one in dissent, but there were five who concurred. It stated that the short prayer breached the First Amendment wall that separated church and state. Justice Black began the majority opinion by reminding all "of the historical fact that governmentally established religions and religious practices have long been a part of our life. . . . The accusation that banning school prayer was anti-God or hostile 'toward religion or toward prayer.'"

Nothing could be more wrong. (The framers of the Bill of Rights) knew that the First Amendment was written to protect well justified fears which nearly all of them felt arising out of an awareness that governments of the past had shackled men's tongues to make them speak only the religious thoughts that government wanted them to speak and to pray only to the God that government wanted them to pray to.

He said it was "either sacrilegious or an infelicitous to say that . . . government . . . should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves."

The whole issue of prayer and religion is an easy one to get lost in. The Supreme Court has handed down another decision just a year later in Abrington v. Schemp (1967) disallowing state action requiring that schools begin each day with a reading from the Bible. The professional "twisters" had a hey day.

In its opinion, the court articulated some principles which we should keep in mind.

Terry Gilbert

The whole issue of prayer and religion is an easy one for politicians to distort.

Terry Gilbert

"The wholesome (governmental) neutrality (toward religion) of which this Court's case speak thus stem from a recognition of the teachings of history that powerful sects or groups might bring about a fusion of governmental and religious functions or a concert or dependency of one upon the other to end that official support of the state of federal government would be placed behind the tenets of one or all orthodoxes. This the establishment clause prohibits."

And, of the argument that the religious practices in question may be relative minor encroachments on the First Amendment, the Court said: "The breach of neutrality that is today a trickling stream may all too soon become a raging torrent and, in the words of Madison, 'It is proper to take alarm at the first experiment on our liberties.'"

The Court also talked about "secularism" which is a popular theme today.

"It is insisted that unless these religious exercises are permitted 'a religion of secularism' is established in the school. We agree of course that the state may not establish a religion. It is equally true that the state may not establish a religion by sponsoring or showing hostility to religion thus, 'preferring those who believe in no religion over those who do not.'"

And then the Court gave some advice to the American people which has been ignored for the most part in our schools unfortunately.

In addition, it might well be said that one's education is not complete without a study of comparative religion or the history of religion and its relationship to the advancement of civilization. It certainly may be said that the Bible is worthy of study for its literary and historic qualities. Nothing we have said here indicates that such study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education may not be effected consistently with the First Amendment.

Now we have a President who has straddled both sides leading the charge for a Constitutional amendment which says:

"Nothing in this Constitution shall be construed to prohibit individual or group prayer in public schools or other public institutions. No person shall be required by the United States or any state to participate in prayer."

At the White House, a fact sheet on the proposed amendment indicated "the selection of the particular circumstances for prayer would be left to the judgment of local communities based on a consideration of such factors as the preferences of parents, students, teachers as well as the community interests."

Despite the rhetoric of "voluntary prayers," the backers of Reagan's constitutional amendment recognize the likelihood of "majority rule" prayers. The executive director of Americans United for the Separation of Church and State has noted:

"In Utah, Mormon prayers will predominate. In Rhode Island, Roman Catholic prayers will prevail. In parts of New York, the Jewish faith will be propagated. And in California and Hawaii? Buddhism or other Eastern religions will have a role. Each school district in the country will become a battleground with religious groups vying for control of the machinery of education."

We now have the "Equal Access Law" which allow student-initiated groups to meet before and after school time to discuss religious philosophical or political topics; or to pray, for that matter. Apparently this does not satisfy President Reagan or others on the issue of school prayer because the movement to impose prayer on children continues.

Now we have a debate about principles, let me reiterate a few:

• The great paradox facing the church in this is the church can preserve its own liberty only by defending the liberty of those who do not want either to join it or support it.

Making prayer or other forms of religious observance mandatory or subject to peer pressure will not foster genuine worship or religion.

• Government should be expelled from religious choices of all Americans.

And finally, from the words of Jesus: "And when thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites who: they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets; that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret: and thy Father, which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." (Matthew 6:1-4)

Fair rents hiked

TWIN FALLS—The Twin Falls County Fair Board hopes to bring in more money by increasing the rent on food concessions and on merchants' buildings at fair time. During the rest of the year, the board will encourage bidders to make more use of the grounds.

Effective this year, rents during the fair will increase 25 percent. The price hike was approved last Monday by the Twin Falls County Fair Board.

The cost of a square foot for food concessions will rise from $1 to $1.25, Fair Manager Tom Shouse said.

Rent inside the merchants' buildings and on the grounds will increase from $10 to $12.50 a space.

Those merchants who pay before May 10 will receive a discount on the rent, Shouse said.

Last year, the fair made about $46,000 by renting space to 83 merchants and 23 food concessions.

Because one of the merchants' buildings will become the new home of the dog exhibit, some merchants will be moved to the produce building west of the carnival. The current dog building will be torn down to make room for a truck-wooded stock-piling, Shouse said.

He didn't anticipate a decrease in the number of spaces available for merchants, however.

The fair board also decided to more actively solicit use of the fairgrounds during the rest of the year.

Man killed while riding snowmobile

HANSEN — A Paul-man is dead following a snowmobile accident Saturday night in the parking lot at Black Snake mobile Area South of Hansen.

A doctor at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center pronounced Eugene Buerkle, 45, of Paul, dead Sunday morning as the result of massive head trauma.

Buerkle and Fred Rice were riding separate snowmobiles traveling north on Rock Creek Road toward the parking lot of the snowmobile area about 9 p.m. Saturday when the accident occurred, according to Twin Falls Sheriff's Office records.

Rice slowed down to pull into the parking lot through an entrance that had been cut in a snow bank to allow snowmobiles access to the lot, and Buerkle struck him, according to the report.

Buerkle braked suddenly to try to maneuver through the opening, but instead hit the ridge. He and the machine shot over the embankment, falling to the parking lot, the report said.

When Rice reached him, Buerkle was lying face down behind the machine and his helmet had been knocked off. Rice reported blood on the back of Buerkle's head.

Rice stayed with Buerkle while other snowmobilers who had been camped at the parking lot went for help. Nancy Glades, a registered nurse from Rupert, was in the area and tried cardiopulmonary resuscitation on Buerkle unsuccessfully. There was no pulse when she reached Buerkle at about 10 p.m., according to Sheriff's records.

Buerkle was taken to the Forest Service Ranger Station about a half-mile away to summon help. An ambulance arrived from Twin Falls and took Buerkle to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. He was pronounced dead when he reached the hospital at 12:30 a.m. Sunday.

Weldon Beck, Cassia County commissioner, reflects over his years in public service.

'We had to pay our own way'

And Weldon Beck expects others to do the same today

By SARAH MURPHY
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — Self-sufficiency, pride and a willingness to work at the age of 8, earning 40 cents a "free gratis" to serve others are day to drive two head of horses, hallmarks of Cassia County Board of Commissioners' chairman and longtime Burley resident Weldon Beck.

The 75-year-old Beck, whose vitality belies his age, says he worked hard, and has taken care of himself and his family all his life, and he expects others to do the same.

No one could ever accuse Beck of not practicing what he preaches. A self-sufficient person all his life, he says he asks no quarter from anyone.

"I grew up in a society which depended on long hard hours of work, and we took pride in what we did," Beck said.

"We had to pay our own way, no one ever paid it for us," he says, adding that he has little patience with those who come to the county asking for money for food, rent and medical help.

The irascible Beck says his family didn't have anyone to help them out of such difficulties on the Cassia County farm where he grew up.

"I was raised to be a hard worker," Beck said.

"What we didn't produce, we didn't eat," says Beck.

"The families today throw away more food in one day than it took us to feed eight kids in a week."

"Kids today don't appreciate the value of good food," he says.

"Every time I bring my grandkids to town, they aren't happy until I buy them something to lick or chew," he muses.

"On our farm, we had to fend for ourselves, we had to hunt, and what we didn't eat for lunch, we put gravy on and ate for supper," says Beck.

Remembering his first "paid job," Beck says he soon learned the principles of the law of diminishing returns.

"I earned 40 cents my first day, and my mother paid $2 for the bottle of Watkins liniment she had to use on my aching muscles," he recalls.

"I had an early start on a career in farming, adding that he has now turned his farming operations over to his two sons.

"They have to do things differently now to make it pay," Beck says.

"I can run errands, but I can't keep up with all those new methods of doing things," he says.

"We did everything by hand back in the early '20s when we were a kid," he says.

"I remember our mother knitting mittens for us to wear when we were in the fields covered with ice."

"We had a hole in the mittens, she would cut a patch on at night, and we would use them the next day — trim more beets," he says, adding that cold weather didn't constitute an excuse for getting out of work.

"We cut saguist for the cookstove, and brought firewood down from the hills when we had time to get away from the farm."

"On winter mornings, we would wake up in our beds, and see frost over our straw tick beds that would scare the daylight out of you," he says.

"At 49 below zero on some days, we faced a real challenge to just for breakfast, we had to lunch, and"

After 15 years' service, Filer fire chief hangs it up

By KAREN MAIN
Times-News correspondent

FILER — After 15 years of voluntarily leaving his bed in the middle of the night or his bathtub in the middle of a shower to go out and fight fires for no pay, Filer Fire Chief Larry Ainsworth is resigning as of July 1.

The 41-year-old Ainsworth, who has been fire chief for more than seven years, told the Filer City Council this past week that he was moving to Buhl to devote more time to his growing business.

Ainsworth, his wife, Peggy, and their children will move into a home they recently purchased in Buhl which is next door to his company, A & A Pallet Manufacturing.

Although the council members expressed their regrets, Ainsworth was leaving, they thanked him for his years devoted to the volunteer fire department.

Ainsworth reassured the council he will stay as a consultant for six months to oversee his resignation to help train new volunteer firefighters and organize the administration of the fire department.

Reflecting on his years as a member of the two combined fire departments based in Filer — the city's fire department and the Twin Falls County Mutual Fire Department — Ainsworth said the biggest thing is knowing that you're doing something for your community.

"I've enjoyed my time on the fire department," he said. "It's been a fantastic experience — both good and bad."

Once in a while, Ainsworth said firefighters are yelled at, or called a few choice words.

When the fire trucks are a little slow to the scene of a fire, "usually because the department was given the wrong direction."

But 99 percent of the time, the fire chief said, people are grateful that help has arrived.

"I guess that's what keeps you going," he said.

"There cannot be any other reason firefighters are willing to be awakened in the middle of the night to go outside in temperatures that endanger their lives to put out a fire, Ainsworth said in good humor.

"The hours are really screwy — you never know if you're going to finish your meal or sometimes even a shower," he said.

"The only benefits the job has to offer is that we get to get up in the middle of the night," he said laughing.

Since the benefits are limited to late night excursions and the only money firefighters receive is reimbursement for their expenses, Ainsworth said he cannot figure out why he took the job as fire chief except that "I was the lucky one."

"I guess I was just the dumbest one of the bunch and I got hooked into it," he said, laughing.

In his job, Ainsworth said, he has found that the fire chief is probably the easiest part of the job.

"It's really time-consuming, training firefighters, preparing equipment, and filling out paperwork."

"The paper work is murder," he said.

But Ainsworth said there is gratification on the job when he investigates a suspicious fire and is instrumental in seeing that an arsonist is caught and convicted.

As the fire chief is responsible for 14 to 16 men, Ainsworth said "the first thing in my mind is always safety — to make sure no one is killed or hurt. Firefighting is the most hazardous occupation in the United States," he said.

But fortunately, Ainsworth said, in all three years of service there was never a life-threatening situation at any of the fires in his jurisdiction.

"You just keep your fingers crossed every time," he said.

Wendell zoning planners try to protect dairy area

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Residential Wendell will not expand into a dairy area, agree a group of volunteer residents who are now planning the city's future growth.

At the group's recent meeting, Art Rathburn, city planning consultant, described the 23 volunteers as "busy beavers" who will only need about three months to complete a comprehensive plan which, he says, "traditionally" takes about a year.

High on the list of priorities for the group is improvement of the city water system, which, according to a written policy, "shall be considered the highest priority for all city monies available over and above the regular budgeted needs."

However, after discussion in which one volunteer said the sewer system was at least of equal importance, the group changed "the highest priority" to "a high priority."

Also during the two-hour meeting, the citizens clarified city policy on allowing city employees to answer fire calls as volunteer firemen.

City Superintendent Charlie Doty said he cannot always spare two members of his crew, especially when a water main is shut or under the work on it is completed.

The group concurred with Rathburn's writing that specific personnel must attend fires at the supervisor's discretion.

Rathburn, following the majority opinion of the city's group, had written that these employees could only attend fires in the city.

After discussion, his city's group decided to change that policy to allow the employees to attend fires outside the city, also.

In covering other topics, the consultant advised the Wendell residents to start securing future water supplies now because, he said, water rights are becoming increasingly difficult to get.

By mapping out new residential areas in advance, the consultant said, the city can save money by planning and budgeting for water and sewer systems toward that area. A detached or remote residential area suddenly demanding city services would cost existing users an unfair amount of money, he noted.

Rathburn said most of the policies being written for the comprehensive plan are already being followed by the Wendell City Council.

"We are writing down and trying to clarify existing policies into a better written form," he explained.

The planning and zoning meetings are being held every Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Wendell Fire Station. The public is invited.

Czech refugee takes a long, winding path to Glenns Ferry

By DIANA HOOLEY
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — You might say it was a long hard swim for Petre Mares to wend his way to Glenn's Ferry.

A 20-year-old Czechoslovakian refugee, Mares, who admits he is not a good swimmer, dove through the icy waters of the Mur to escape into Austria to find the freedom the West had to offer.

That was a year and a half ago. He has been in Glenn's Ferry for just three weeks.

With the help of the Idaho Refugee Council, Mares was put in touch with Health Edith Mares, a resident of Glenn's Ferry, who gave him the chance he needed to live and work in America. He is an electronic engineer for the company.

"We didn't have a compass. Only a watch, the sun and a very bad map," Petre Mares said.

But Mares said it was difficult to get news or letters here that had not been distorted by the Czechoslovakian authorities.

He says the one book in particular that convinced him finally to make his escape was "The Beatnik Generation" by James Quinn, which spoke about a way of living "totally foreign."

"It's about people who have choices and opportunities," he said.

He says in November of 1963, he told his parents he was going on a training trip. He purchased a tourist travel ticket to Yugoslavia and hid himself in the baggage, camp outside Belgrade.

Mares says it was here he met a fellow Czechoslovakian who became his friend and together they plotted their escape to Austria.

He says the two of them took a train to Maribor in the western portion of Yugoslavia and then hiked 20 miles through woods to the Austrian border.

Now the only obstacle to his escape to a free country was the mighty Mur River, said Mares. Mares describes the river as the size of the Snake River, only more treacherous and wild.

"I didn't have a compass. Only a watch, the sun and a very bad map," relates Mares, who with his friend dove into the Mur, fully clothed.

Mares says his friend was a good swimmer and went straight across the river, using his hand to draw a wide diagonal in the water.

He says he was wet, cold, hungry and exhausted when he finally reached the other side.

Beck says one of the most difficult tasks faced in his 20 years as a county commissioner is reconciling with a state law which I have been trying to get changed for 20 years, that puts the responsibility for indigent medical bills right in the lap of the counties.

Refugee

side and finally found a freeway phone booth to curl up in and go to sleep.
It was a big surprise, said Mares, to wake up and find his friend walking away from him. He thought I was dead, he said.
The Austrian police picked up Mares and his friend the following day, took them to the station and interrogated them for four hours in German. Then Mares says they decided to send him and his friend back to Yugoslavia.
However, because the Yugoslavian chief of police was not on duty that day, the guards at the border wouldn't let the pair cross. Mares said they went as far as the Austrian checkpoint and stood on Yugoslavian soil before they were turned back.
The next day the Austrian police had a change of heart, recalls Mares. They told him and his friend they could stay in Austria or declare a country to immigrate to. Both chose to come to America. Mares said his friend is now an engineer in Boston and he came to Boise.
Since his escape, Mares has been in touch with his family; but because he fears for their safety he would not talk about them.
Janice Heath, vice president of Health Electronics said the company feels very fortunate to have Mares. His salary for the next three months will be partially paid by Ida-Ore and other state agencies, she says.
We don't feel like we're taking jobs away from the locals, by hiring Peter. No one around here is as highly skilled as he is. We think we'll not only benefit from having him, we'll benefit from having such an interesting person live here," she said.

Husband describes future without wife

DEAR ABBY, How would you describe a healthy woman, age 40, who has been married 15 years, who has a beautiful young girl with an appeal to take care of him in his old age?

I am slim, neat and clean. I am a lady who does not speak rudely to anyone even her best friend.

HORN VANDERMAINE DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful young girl with an appeal to take care of him in his old age.

HORN VANDERMAINE DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful young girl with an appeal to take care of him in his old age.

I will recover all of this lady's money, but in the meantime she has been forced to wait several years and incur legal expenses.

FRANCIS E. GLASSON
PHILADELPHIA LAWYER

DEAR MISS GLASSON: This case is a major bank. The bank called her a card whereby the money could be withdrawn in amounts of no more than $200 without the bank's consent. This card of knowledge that it was coming.

Someone's card was intercepted by a thief, and over a period of several months the entire $10,000 was withdrawn. The lady reported that she immediately upon learning of it, the bank had advertised and still advertises that in a case like this, the loss is limited to $50. However, the bank refuses to pay a penny and has forced us to sue.

I expect that in several years we generous checks to our six grandchildren for their birthdays. In five years we received only one thank-you note. Every year I have always remembered what the child would remember. If they "forget" losses, name your "gifts" and never handed can also "forget" to give the next time a birthday rolls around.

FORGETTING BY CHOICE
DEAR ABBY, And now I am going to get a slew of letters from people insisting that "gifts" should give for the "joy" of giving, and a position those who quit giving if they're not thanked.

I'm with those who hold that every gift deserves an acknowledgment.

To protect you, calls charged to your number will have to meet with your approval.

We want to protect you from fraud or mistakenly having long distance calls billed to your number. So we require verification on all pay phone calls billed to a third number. That means if your number is to be billed, an operator will ask either you or someone at your home or business to approve each call when it's made. If the line is busy or nobody answers, the operator won't complete the call.

If you place a third number call yourself, you do have billing alternatives. You can call collect or pay for it in coin. The fastest, easiest way, however, is to charge the call to a Mountain Bell Calling Card.

But should someone want to charge a call to you, we'll make sure it meets with your approval. That way, calls you don't want to pay for aren't made at your expense.

Suicide truck-bomb kills 12 in convoy of Israeli soldiers

By The Associated Press

A suicide bomber in a pickup truck detonated his load of explosives as an Israeli army convoy passed by Sunday, killing himself and 12 soldiers in the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv, it said. It said 14 soldiers were wounded.

The bombing occurred in southern Lebanon at a military checkpoint just north of the Israeli border town of Metulla at about 2 p.m., the command reported.

It said the official announcement was withheld until relatives of the victims had been notified. Military and hospital sources had said earlier that at least nine soldiers were killed in the blast and 11 were wounded, most severely buried.

Witnesses said the destroyed army truck was in a convoy transporting soldiers to the north. Israeli sources, who spoke with the condition that they not be identified, said preliminary investigations indicated the Lebanese truck was carrying about 200 pounds of explosives.

The Israeli Army Radio reported that a driver in a jeep leading the convoy, the way of the oncoming pickup truck off the road. It said the driver of the truck, the lone occupant, then pressed a button to electronically ignite the bomb, killing himself and destroying the troop transport which was passing

In Beirut, the capital of Lebanon, an anonymous caller told the radio station Voice of Arab Lebanon that the pickup truck was driven by a member of the Lebanese National Resistance Front. He said the attack was revenge for a car bomb that killed 70 people and injured 250 on Friday near a mosque in predominantly Muslim west Beirut.

Another Beirut station, the Voice of Islam, reported Jihad Islami - Islamic Holy War - asserted responsibility for the attack. It said the original plan had been to detonate the explosives in Metulla.

Israel has repeatedly denied accusations in Lebanon that it was responsible for Friday's bombing in west Beirut.

Sunday's bombing was the worst attack on Israel's occupation territories Nov. 4, 1983, when 35 Israeli servicemen and 25 Lebanese and Palestinians were killed by another suicide bomber. In that attack, a 15-ton truck carrying a large amount of explosives detonated in a compound where Israelis detained and questioned prisoners.

The Lebanese state-run radio has quoted police and other sources earlier as saying that a Mercedes car with a lone occupant drove into an Israeli convoy on the Tal-el-Khassab road, killing himself and destroying the bombing and saying Israel would not relent in its war against terror.

on the right. "The explosion was terrifying. There was a giant fire and then black smoke shot up," Alna-Belsky, manager of Metulla's Arzavim Hotel, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. She said witnesses reported in a jeep leading the convoy, the way of the oncoming pickup truck off the road. It said the driver of the truck, the lone occupant, then pressed a button to electronically ignite the bomb, killing himself and destroying the troop transport which was passing

Senators to observe Geneva arms talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Ten American senators are in Geneva for the kick-off of U.S.-Soviet arms talks as a signal to Moscow of "absolute solidarity" behind the U.S. negotiating team, Sen. Richard Lugar said Sunday.

The Indiana Republican, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Congress was determined "to follow each mance down the trail," even if it takes years to reach an agreement.

"In the past, treaties have had a very tough time being ratified in our country, in large part because senators on both sides of the aisle said they weren't there at the taking," but were expected to be there at the taking," Lugar said in an interview.

The 10 senators will not participate in the talks, which open Tuesday. They are to receive briefings from Max M. Kampelman, the chief U.S. negotiator, and others in the delegation. The first briefing was scheduled for Sunday night during dinner.

Lugar said the senators' presence means "the Soviets will know there is absolute solidarity in the Congress behind our negotiators, that we take this very seriously from the very beginning."

The senators planned to leave Geneva Wednesday. Lugar said that even though he and his colleagues are not holding a "stake out" of the talks, they will keep in close touch with negotiations, which could go on for years.

Agreeing, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said in a separate interview: "The coordination between the White House and the Senate could help ratify a treaty. If there is not an agreement, we're going to have to understand what is going on in Geneva, to counsel patience, if patience is in order," he said.

A group of eight House members, headed by Democratic majority leader Jim Wright of Texas and Republican leader Bob Michel of Illinois, is due to arrive Monday.

Move takes country by surprise

President of Greece resigns

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — President Constantine Karamanlis resigned Sunday as Greece's head of state, following the Socialist government's refusal to back him for re-election in this week's presidential balloting.

"From today I cease to exercise my duties as president of the republic and am resigning the remainder of my term. In view of developments outlined that I cannot cooperate in," the 77-year-old Karamanlis said in a letter to the speaker of Parliament.

In a decision that took the country by surprise, Premier Andreas Papandreu's ruling Panhellenic Socialist Movement, or Pasok, discarded the incumbent conservative president and chose a political newcomer to run for head of state.

Pasok's 10-member central committee voted unanimously Saturday in favor of backing Christos Sartzakis, a 56-year-old supreme court judge, for president.

The action was seen as a step to the left.

According to the constitution, the speaker, Yiannis Alevras, a Pasok deputy, succeeds Karamanlis and becomes interim president. Karamanlis' five-year term was to expire May 15.

"This means that democracy has membership had been expected to run unopposed for a second five-year term.

It had been told by leaders of both big parties' coalition, the Frank Leader, that his re-election was essential to smooth developments in our political life and national unity," he said in a statement.

After reports of the Saturday night balloting, members of Greece's left outside, all-night kiosks in the city-center to buy the Sunday newspapers and discuss what had happened.

"National Crisis" bannered the rightist daily Vriethyni. "The End for Karamanlis," said the pro-government Nea. "Karamanlis has fallen, said the left-wing Ethnos.

The 300-member Parliament meets Friday to elect a new head of state. A candidate must receive a two-thirds majority on the first or second ballot, or 60 percent of the vote of the third ballot. No other party has proposed a candidate for president.

During a 90-minute meeting Saturday, the central committee of Papandreu's party also voted to push Parliament on Saturday night after Karamanlis was bypassed.

French right, moderates win votes

PARIS (AP) — Opposition conservatives and centrists rolled to a significant victory over the left in the first round of local elections Sunday that were seen as a test for Socialist President Francois Mitterand.

The right-wing coalition gave the combined rightist parties 58.4 percent of the vote to 41.1 percent for the left. The extreme right National Front was expected to win 8.4 percent and the Communists 12.9 percent.

The projections showed gains by the right over the last election six years ago, and confirmed the continuing slide of the left in every election since it came to power in 1981.

They gave the Socialists 25.8 percent of the vote and minor leftist parties 2.4 percent.

The conservative neo-Gaullist Rally for the Republic (RPR) and centrist Union for French Democracy (UDF) together were projected to win 33.5 percent, other rightist parties 16.5 percent, and the Ecologists 0.5 percent.

Turnout in the election was estimated at 67 percent.

Commentators said the National Front's showing confirmed its arrival as a serious political force, although its 8.4 percent was less than the 11 percent it won in last June's elections for the European Parliament.

The Communists' showing was up from the 11 percent in the June balloting. Party Secretary-General Georges Marchais called it "a slight improvement."

Voters were choosing candidates for half of the seats on the General Councils in France's 95 metropolitan and four overseas departments, or counties. Every three years, voting is conducted in regions known as cantons to elect council members to six-year terms. More than 18 million people were eligible to vote Sunday.

Bertrand Delanoë, spokesman for the Socialist Party, said the RPR and UDF "for the moment" are not making up a very good team. He said those parties "need the votes of the extreme right to win in the second round" scheduled for next Sunday.

National Front leader Jean-Marie Le Pen was delighted.

Anti-communists arrested by Polish police

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Police held a meeting of an outlawed anti-communist group in Warsaw and arrested at least five members, the wife of the group's leader said Sunday.

The official PAP news agency said security police on Saturday broke up a meeting of the Confederation of Independent Poland, it said. The group was trying to "destabilize the social situation and infringe upon law and order."

Meanwhile, Poland's leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, accused the United States of embarking on a "new phase of its anti-Polish crusade," and said there must be a change in U.S. policy before relations between the two nations improve. He made the remarks at a Communist Party rally Saturday, and PAP carried a report on his speech Sunday.

PAP did not say how many people were rounded up in the Warsaw raid or whether anyone was arrested. But Maria Moczulski, wife of the group's leader, Leszek Moczulski, said her husband and at least four other people had been detained.

A member of the group, Zygmunt Lenyk, later called The Associated Press, said police had detained nine people; five released him and another. He said those detained face up to 10 years in prison on charges of leading and creating an illegal organization.

Rights restored by Pakistan chief

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Zia-ul-Haq said a meeting of the Council of Ministers on Sunday to revive parts of Pakistan's Constitution, but he still barred freedom of speech, press and movement.

"Today is a historic day," Zia said in making the announcement.

Zia, a four-star general and armed forces chief, suspended the 1973 constitution when he imposed martial law after the July 5, 1977 coup, which ousted civilian Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

"It is my pleasure and privilege to announce the revival of the constitution except for 27 articles and two sub-clauses," the 61-year-old leader told a packed news conference.

No. 9 Georgia Tech tips UNC for ACC title

ATLANTA (AP) — Ninth-ranked Georgia Tech captured its first Atlantic Coast Conference tournament championship Sunday by defeating No. 6 North Carolina 57-54 with a slick, stretch rally that Yellow Jacket Coach Bobby Cremins called "an incredible comeback." The victory in the tournament's Most Valuable Player Mark Price calmly dropped in 22 consecutive free throws in the final 20 seconds after Tech's Von Joseph hit on one foul shot with only 53 seconds left in the game at 11:50.

Cremins said the game was "one of their first real tests of this group. It's great for Atlanta and our program," said Cremins, who turned the Tech program around in four years, entering a squad that had gone 4-23 in 1981 and was viewed as one of the winners in only the school's sixth year in the ACC. Tech is now 16-1.

"I'm so proud. I'm so happy. I feel like we've accomplished something

College basketball

...is very difficult to do. It's a special feeling for me," said Cremins, who has a 68-30 record in four years at the Atlanta school.

Tech, which shot only 38 percent in the game, led Carolina 50 percent, averted a disaster when they fell behind 14-3 early, recovering behind the shooting of Price and John Salley.

"The trick tonight in my head is that point guard's layup and not take crazy shots," said Price, a 6-foot-10 junior and All-ACC guard.

"I hit a couple of shots and then went 11 inside 10 for 14 couple times. And we were hit for 11 of 14 at that point," he added, showing maturity.

said Price, who only hit on five of 16 shots from the field but was a perfect six of six from the line.

Dean Smith, whose teams in his 24 years at North Carolina had won nine of the Tar Heels' 10 ACC tournament titles, was a gentleman in defeat.

"I'd like to congratulate Bobby. He should be very proud. I know this is his last year for the team. For his staff and players," said Smith, who has won 546 games during his career.

"We had our chances today. A tough game like this can go either way. Georgia Tech was better, but they won't play awfully well," he said.

After Joseph had given Tech its first lead, he missed his second foul shot but Salley grabbed the rebound and Tech sealed the game.

Price was fouled while driving to the basket and he converted both shots for a 33-30 lead.

Kenny Smith, who had 16 points for Carolina, 24-8, then hit a 15-foot jumper with 14 seconds left to get the Tar Heels, who were trying to win their 11th ACC title in 16 tries, to 53-52.

Then, as Tech rebounded, the official clock never started. It appeared as if about 10 seconds had elapsed, but only six were taken off as Price, the tournament's valuable player, was fouled with eight seconds left.

The All-ACC guard, who led Tech with 16 points; calmly dropped in both. After a timeout, Tech's Bruce Darbyrn was fouled and he took over Indiana.

Cremins said he was before Brad Daugherty, who also had 16 points, hit a jump shot at the buzzer for North Carolina.

Salley added 14 points for Tech followed by Joseph with 16 and Darbyrn with 12.

It was Tech's third victory this season over North Carolina; the first time the Tar Heels have dropped three games to one team in the same year since 1974 when North Carolina State did it en route to the national championship.

Michigan 73 Indiana 71

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Freshman Gary Grant called No. 3-ranked Michigan with 18 points in the second half Sunday, scoring the game-winning basket with one second left to give the Big Ten Conference champion Wolverines a 73-71 victory over Indiana.

Grant finished in 13 minutes of the first half play, got 10 of Michigan's final 14 points in the last five minutes of the game. His tip-in tied the game at 61-61.

The two teams traded baskets for the next four minutes, with the final tip at 71-71 on another basket by the 6-foot-3 Grant.

Indiana's Steve Eyll missed a 40-foot shot with 40 seconds to go. Basketball Classic championship and Michigan runner-up Indiana finished with a 73-64 victory over the Wolverines.

Texas Tech 67 Arkansas 64

DALLAS (AP) — Quarterback Antonio scored all 17 of his points in the second half, including game-clinching free throws with 15 seconds to play, to give the Texas Tech Red Raiders the Southwest Conference Post-Season baseline shot. Eyll missed a 40-foot shot with 40 seconds to go. Basketball Classic championship and Michigan runner-up Indiana finished with a 73-64 victory over the Wolverines.

Houston's Kelly continues air assault

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Houston quarterback Kelly continued his torrid passing assault in the United States Football League by throwing four touchdowns passes Sunday as the Gamblers rolled over the Oakland Invaders 42-7.

Kelly completed 29 of 40 passes for 375 yards and three touchdowns. Conference-leading Houston improved to 3-0 with its 10th straight victory over two seasons. Kelly has now thrown for 13 touchdowns and 1,239 yards in the Gamblers' three victories this year.

In other games Sunday, Tampa Bay defeated San Antonio 34-7; Denver blitzed Portland 29-17 and Houston dominated Oakland 42-7.

On Saturday, Memphis beat Baltimore 21-19 and Birmingham stung Orlando 34-10.

Jacksonville plays at Arizona on Monday night.

Oakland slipped to 1-1 in the Western Conference before a crowd of 16,037 on a rainy day.

Kelly wasted no time in putting the Gamblers ahead, throwing two scoring passes in the first five minutes of the game. He hit Richard Johnson with a 34-yard pass and then found Clarence Verdin on a 74-yard TD play.

After Oakland's Albert Bentley ran six yards for a score later in the first quarter, Houston made it 21-7 by passing Verdin on a 23-yard TD pass in the fourth period. Verdin finished the game with 10 receptions for 167 yards.

Houston reserve quarterback Todd Dillon threw a 64-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter with less than two minutes to play.

With the USFL having voted to move to the fall in 1986 after having lost more than $100 million in its first two springs, Doug Fudge is being asked to give up his general public interest and share a network television contract for the fall that so far has not been forthcoming.

Pro football

The link extends to opposing coaches.

"He's a Fran Tarkenton type — and you know what he's all about," says Reggie Odom, coach of the Birmingham Colts, who will face Flutie on Sunday. "Flutie has a lot of running ability, like Fran, and he has the intangibles. I'll be tougher for him because of his size, but he'll be one of the rare ones who makes it despite his size."

The USFL enters this season with 14 teams in Eastern and Western Conferences, replacing the 18 teams in four divisions that played last season after an opening season with 12 teams. In the regular season schedule is 18 games, with the top two teams in each conference and four wild-card teams qualifying for the playoffs.

The season follows a turbulent summer and fall in which four teams merged into two, three other teams were transplanted and the Pittsburgh Maulers folded.

The changes did in the league's only two champions — the Philadelphia Stars, who won last year, have moved to Baltimore, and the Michigan Panthers, who finished second, have merged with the Oakland Invaders and will play in Oakland. The other merger involved the Oklahoma Outlaws and Arizona Wranglers, who will play in the Arizona Outlaws.

The league already is running the Express, which lost an estimated $17 million last year after drawing only about 10,000 fans a game to the Coliseum with a pass of high-priced rookies. And league officials are closely monitoring the underfinanced Houston franchise.

But there is little argument about the abilities of Young and Kelly.

Young, whose $40 million contract made him the highest-paid of the league's 12 players in Los Angeles last season, came on strong in the second half to throw for 2,361 yards and lead the Express a 10-6 record after a 2-6 start.

Tampa Bay 31 San Antonio 18

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS (AP) — Quarterback John Reeves tossed for 298 yards and three touchdowns to pace the Tampa Bay Bandits to a 31-18 victory over the San Antonio Gunslingers Sunday in a United States Football League contest.

Reeves led his own franchise record set last season with a string of 12 straight pass completions during the first half and ended up completing 25 of 31 passes for the game.

Wide receiver Eric Truvillion caught two touchdowns on throws of 3 and 32 yards from Reeves. Truvillion's catches extended a 36-game streak over three seasons of games in which he has caught at least one pass, ranking second in USFL history.

Reeves also threw a 54-yard scoring pass to reserve wide receiver Steve Carter.

Quarterback Warren Hannah set a Tampa Bay franchise record with a high-velocity 47-yard return midway through the third quarter.

Hannah intercepted a muffed punt returned by San Antonio quarterback Rick Neuheisel and streaked for the score, which gave Tampa Bay an insurmountable 24-12 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Hannah also had an interception late in the ballgame stifling a last-gasp San Antonio scoring threat led by reserve quarterback Fred Mortensen.

Denver 29 Portland 17

DENVER (AP) — Vince Evans threw for a touchdown and ran for another in the fourth quarter Sunday to lead the Denver Gold to a 29-17 victory over the Portland Breakers in the United States Football League.

Evans scored with less than two minutes to go on a 1-yard quarterback sneak to provide the Gold with the cushion needed to bring the team's record to 2-1. The game was played before a sparse crowd of 17,720, which was well below the expectations of the Gold ownership and even below 10,000 — the number of season tickets reportedly sold.

The low attendance was even more disappointing to the management because of the Gold's novel money-back guarantee announced a week earlier. It wasn't known after the game how many fans opted to get the refund offered to fans dissatisfied with the level of play.

It was the first home game for the Gold, giving Denver fans their first opportunity to see the run-and-shoot offense of Coach Mouse Davis.

Evans, acquired specifically to run the pass-heavy Davis offense, hit Kelly and scoring early in the fourth quarter to give the Gold a 23-10 lead. But the Breakers kept their hand in the game by blocking Brian Speelman's extra point attempt. Then scoring on the next series to close the gap to 22-17.

Coach Mouse Davis made a sensational catch of Doug Woodward's pass for a 37-yard touchdown.

But any chance of coming back was snuffed when Denver linebacker Stan Blinks made a diving interception off a Woodward pass and Evans moved the Gold to the clinching score.

Briefly in Sports

NFL out to shorten games

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The National Football League owners began their spring meetings Sunday with the assurance that with the NFL owners' financial support, the league is apparently solved.

One major preoccupation is with shortening games that ran an average of three hours and nine minutes last season.

Along with the various ways of shortening games — perhaps a package of minor changes that will get the clock started more quickly on an overtime and shorter breaks for time out — there is little to be considered a debate here over a move from the 49-man roster that's been in use for two seasons to 45.

MVC-Canyon game Wednesday

HAZELTON — The annual Canyon Conference-Magic Valley Conference All-star boys' and girls' basketball games will be played Wednesday night at Valley High School.

The girls' game will start at 7 p.m., with the boys' encounter scheduled for 8:30. Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Shoshone Coach Larry Messick, who will direct the Canyon Conference boys' team, has announced his team will practice Tuesday at Shoshone High at 3:30 p.m.

Dixie claims Region 18 title

COUER D'ALENE — Dixie College claimed the Region 18 men's junior college basketball championship here Saturday night with a 78-74 victory over host North Idaho.

No other details of the game were available. With the victory, the Rebels — currently ranked fourth in the nation among junior teams — will advance to a bi-regional playoff with the champion from District 1 in Phoenix, Ariz., next weekend. The winner of that game will in turn play in the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament in Hutchinson, Kan., next week.

Sutton agrees to join A's

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — For two months, Don Sutton held to the position that he would retire if he couldn't pitch for a team within commuting distance of his home in Phoenix.

Sutton, who is three weeks away from his 40th birthday and 20 pitching victories short of 300, announced Sunday that he had changed his mind and would join the Oakland A's on Monday. The A's acquired him from the Milwaukee Brewers in a December trade.

The A's had talked to the California Angels about a possible trade involving Sutton, who would like to see more of his family during the baseball season, but could not make a deal.

U.S. sweeps to Davis win

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — The United States, with Elliot Teltscher and Aaron Krickelt, defeated the defending title-winning Japanese matches completed a Davis Cup tennis sweep over Japan Sunday, setting up an August meeting with West Germany in the second round.

Krickelt demolished Japanese opponent Kaoru Moriyama 6-1, 6-1 in a match between competitors playing in the Davis Cup for the first time.

The 17-year-old Krickelt, ranked 10th by the Association of Tennis Professionals, needed only 46 minutes to crush Moriyama, who is ranked 61th.

In the second match, Teltscher, ranked 12th by the ATP, defeated Japan's veteran Shuzo Shirashi 6-3, 6-2.

On Saturday, Ken Flach and Robert Seguso scored a doubles victory that clinched the United States' first-round match against the Japanese.

The Americans' 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 victory over Shigeoyuki Nishio and Shuji Sakamoto gave the United States a 3-0 lead and made two singles matches scheduled for Sunday meaningless. Teltscher and Krickelt scored singles victories Friday.

Girardelli clinches GS crown

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Luxembourg's Marc Girardelli skied a nearly flawless second run Sunday to capture his fourth giant slalom victory of the season on the World Cup circuit.

Girardelli, 21, edged Swedish veteran Ingemar Stenmark and Olympic champion Max Diener of Switzerland. The victory enabled Girardelli to clinch the 1983 giant slalom title. And it also put him nearly out of reach in the overall standings.

The slalom will be run on Saturday at the same location, giving him 263 points. His closest pursuer, Switzerland's Pirmin Zurbriggen, finished fifth Sunday and failed to add any points, leaving him with 207.

Jazz may be up for sale

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Commissioner Harry Usher on Sunday formally announced that Giants Stadium will be the site of this season's United States Football League championship game.

The July 14th championship game had been scheduled for the Silverdome in Pontiac, Mich., but the league decided to move it after the host Michigan Panthers merged with the Oakland Invaders after last season and moved their operations to the West Coast.

Usher said he reports last week that the Ills game would be played at Giants Stadium and Usher called the announcement one of the least kept secrets.

Usher said the metropolitan New York stadium offered the league widespread media exposure and was one of the area's last chances to host a postseason football championship.

USFL title game in New Jersey

CHICAGO (AP) — The Utah Jazz may be for sale this spring, but club president David Checketts says at the moment, the National Basketball Association club is just buying time.

The team is set to play in Salt Lake City today. On April 11, it will be on sale to the highest bidder. Checketts said Saturday in Chicago.

Saturday night, the Jazz won a decisive 110-104 victory over the Bulls. The win bettered Utah's season average to 33-33 and moved the team into sixth place in the Western Conference playoff derby.

Checketts said he is confident the team's financial position will improve.

The Jazz will sell $700,000 limited partnerships currently being offered. The team will get another big helping hand from an investor like Ted America, he said.

Mavericks give Motta his 700th victory

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Dallas Mavericks Coach Dick Motta said that when he began coaching professional basketball in Chicago in 1968, he hoped to parlay it into a college coaching position.

But he stuck with the National Basketball Association for 17 years, and on Sunday, became only the fourth coach in league history to capture 700 career victories as the Mavericks handed the New Jersey Nets a 129-113 loss.

"If you stay around long enough, you'll get it," said Motta of the career milestone. "I just hope I have the energy to reach that point."

Mark Aguirre tallied 32 points and Rolando Blackman added 26 to lead the Mavericks.

The victory, which gives the Mavericks a 35-29 record, provided Motta with his 700th triumph in 17 seasons. He has suffered 676 losses in that stretch.

Pro basketball

Red Auerbach, Jack Ramsey and Gene Shue are the only other NBA coaches who have reached that milestone.

A 10-2 spurt midway through the season period, including a pair of baskets by Aguirre, broke the game open to boost the Mavericks into a 52-43 lead.

Dallas, which hit 52 of 85 shots from the field for 63.4 percent accuracy, led in eight points of the second half to open a commanding 69-44 advantage.

New Jersey, which has lost three of its last four, rallied to cut Dallas' lead to 114-108 on a jumper by Darryl Dawkins with 5:08 remaining in the fourth quarter. But the Mavericks called time of the next eight points — four of them by Blackman, who clicked on 13 of 16 shots from the floor — wrap up the victory.

Brad Davis and Jay Vincent each had 17 points for the Mavericks, while Sam Perkins finished with 14. Dawkins led the Nets with 26 points. Michael Ray Richardson added 23 and Buck Williams had 20 points and 15 rebounds.

Kansas City 129 LA Clippers 111

KANSAS CITY, MO. (AP) — Reggie Theus poured in a season-high 32 points and Eddie Johnson added 29 to lead the Kansas City Kings to a 129-111 victory over the Los Angeles Clippers in National Basketball League action Sunday.

After the Clippers' Bill Walton made the first of a pair of free throws at the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Kansas City margin to 90-88, the Kings, led by Theus' 14 fourth-quarter points, proceeded to run away with the game.

Los Angeles led 29-26 at the end of the first quarter but the Kings outscored the Clippers 18-8 in the final 4:45 of the second period to post a 63-56 halftime lead. Johnson hit 19 of his 35 points in the first half.

Milwaukee 110 Portland 94

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sidney Moncrief led six Milwaukee players in double figures with 27 points as the Bucks defeated the Portland Trail Blazers 110-94 in a National Basketball Association game Sunday.

Moncrief scored 10 points in the first period as the Bucks took a 35-28 lead. He hit a three-point goal and 20-footer in the last 20 seconds to break open the victory.

Portland closed within 46-46 on Kiki Vandeweghe's layup with 6:59 left in the first half. Terry Cummings then scored five points to get a 91-87 spur to a 57-47 Bucks advantage.

Veteran Lauer wins lucrative Uniden-tourney

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Bob Lauer, who has failed to live up to her early promise during the past 10 years on the women's golf tour, shot a 4-under-par 68 Sunday to take a five-stroke victory over Alice Miller in the $30,000 Uniden Invitational.

The triumph in the LPGA's second richest tournament was only the second triumph ever for Lauer, and first in eight years. Her other victory came in 1977, when she won the Louisa Bookie of the Year.

Lauer, staying off a late charge by Miller, finished at 11-under-par 277 with rounds of 70-71-68-68 over the challenging 7,000-yard course.

Miller shot a closing 69 over the 6,985-yard Mead-Verde Country Club course.

Zoeller rallies to win Bay Hill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Fuzzy Zoeller, whose career was in jeopardy only a few months ago, capped a storybook comeback with a solid, 4-under-par 67 that provided him with a two-stroke victory Sunday in the Hertz Bay Hill Classic.

Less than six months after major back surgery, and only one week after returning to PGA Tour competition, Zoeller acquired the seventh victory of his career with a 275 total, nine shots under par on Arnold Palmer's Bay Hill Club course.

For the record, the victory was worth $50,000 from the total purse of $500,000.

In another sense, however, it was much more valuable to the free-spirit, easy-going Zoeller.

It removed any lingering doubt of his ability to compete, he commented.

There was very considerable doubt last summer when a chronic back condition forced him out of the PGA championship and into a hospital in Birmingham, Ala.

Golf

There was even more doubt when Zoeller, his body twisted and contorted by pain, was unable to defend his title in Las Vegas last September.

He returned last July to New York without even telling his wife — entered the Hospital for Special Surgery and, on Sept. 25 underwent major surgery.

"They had to go in with a chisel" to remove a bony growth, Zoeller said. "It was a real roller coaster. I'm not kidding. He was able to walk with the aid of a cane. On Jan. 26, he swung a club for the first time since surgery, taking five swings with his wife's 5-iron."

A solid roller than a month later, he won the Florida State Series in Palm Beach. His first competitive round was a 2-over-par 74 Feb. 21 in the Doral Eastern Open.

All I'm trying to do, do these first three weeks, is just make the cut," Zoeller said at the time. "Realisticly, I can't expect much more than that."

He had a credible finish, tie for 46th at Doral. He improved to 20th last week in the Honda Classic and confirmed his comeback with the dramatic triumph in hot, humid, hazy Orlando.

It did not come easily.

He had to hold off the determined challenge of Tom Watson, a 5-time British Open champion and holder of a record 6 Player of the Year titles.

Watson opened with an eagle on the first hole, rallied with striking distance most of the day and eventually claimed second — his best finish in the year — with a closing 67 and a 277 total.

Curtis Strange, winner of last week's Honda Classic, tied for the lead with Zoeller after 54 holes of the first round.

Watson and Zoeller were tied at 201 when Watson's 10-wood and PGA champion Larry Nelson, Billy Glasson and Paul Azinger finished at 201.

Glasson had a last round 66, Azinger 70 and Nelson matched par 71.
