1 dies as explosion levels wing of Alta hotel

By BOB BLACK The Associated Press
A "renewed explosion" collapsed the wing of a restaurant-hotel at this mountain ski resort Friday afternoon, killing one person and trapping a man and a young girl in the rubble, Salt Lake County Sheriff Pete Hayward said.

The girl was freed late Friday, and rescuers were still trying to reach the trapped man. The cause of the blast, which occurred on a warm, clear day that had attracted hundreds of skiers to the slopes of the Wasatch Mountains, was not immediately known.

The girl was kept warm with hot packs while large cranes were brought in to remove the slabs of concrete entraping her. She was freed Saturday before 10 p.m. and rushed to a helicopter. There was no immediate word on her condition.

Just following that there was a noise, a tremendous explosion and I think it might be the next thing I saw was smoke billowing out of the building, people jumping out of the second- and third-story windows, running and jumping and absolutely terrified," she said.

About two dozen rescue workers were aiding in the effort to clear rubble, along with a huge crane and floodlight. Four hours after the 2 p.m. MST explosion, rescuers had located all but seven people. The three who may have been trapped when the woman had been seen in the building just prior to the explosion at the popular ski resort 27 miles east of Salt Lake City in Little Cottonwood Canyon.

Budget battle hardens

By DAVID BRUN The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Budget battles hardened in the Senate on Friday, as Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd renewed his opposition to a freeze in Social Security benefits and also rejected increasing Medicare patient costs, two provisions contained in a Republican-backed spending plan.

Inmates who won state suit among post-uprising transfers

BOISE (AP) — Three inmates and an inmate's wife, David Zynn Wilson, 29, Paul Gian Hattmeier, 42, and a woman, Mrs. Loretta, were among the inmates transferred to other prisons in the wake of the 1970 uprising. The transfers were announced Tuesday by the Department of Corrections official, Charles Schrammer, in the Ada County Jail.

The inmates who won a state lawsuit against the state for the 1970 uprising were among those transferred. One of the inmates, Joseph L. Lemp, is serving a 30-year murder sentence for the 1970 beating death of a 19-year-old girl.

Another inmate, Lemp, is serving a 30-year term for a 1970 conviction of first-degree murder for the shooting of a police officer. Lemp is also being transferred to the Idaho State Penitentiary at Walla Walla.

Lemp was charged with robbing, resisting an officer and conspiracy to commit kidnapping in connection with the 1970 uprising. He also was charged with kidnapping and robbing.

Lemp, who was one of six inmates who went to the Washington State Penitentiary at Walla Walla, is serving an indeterminate term of 20 years for escape.

State's attorney, Samuel P. Ball, said the U.S. District Court Judge Harold L. Ryan in November that the inmates' conviction was made in "prison medical and psychiatric care and that move they should be provided security at the prison."

Defense construction work hit

WASHINGTON (AP)—New buildings and office facilities erected for the Defense Department are being "checked" despite serious defects, in part because contractors are allowed to inspect their own work by a Pentagon audit charges.

The audit, dated Dec. 21, 1984, found the Army Corps of Engineers and the Naval Facilities Engineering Command were also spending millions of dollars to repair defective structures instead of pursuing claims against the contractor.

Officials of the two primary military engineering units, which together oversaw more than $11 billion worth of new construction in 1982 alone, responded by promising to take remedial action.

Rockwell gets Navstar work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rockwell International plan to supply the Pentagon with a new type of satellite navigation is expected to become one of the largest defense electronics programs in history.

The Air Force said Friday it had selected Rockwell over the Magnavox Advanced Products and Systems Co. to become the prime contractor for the initial production of approximately 6,100 Navstar Global Positioning System sets.

Navstar is the Pentagon's nickname for a futuristic—and the largest—satellite system ever constructed. It will eventually include a constellation of 24 orbiting satellites that will allow ships, airplanes, tanks and troops on the ground to calculate their precise location at any time, on or above the Earth's surface.

Tax head: changes to be slow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the congressional tax-writing committees said Friday that no changes in any plan of tax overhaul passed this year would take effect before next Jan. 1.

Seeking to remove uncertainty that might cloud investors' decisions, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, also said no new tax provision would take effect before next Jan. 1.

"In making this statement, we are endorsing neither any proposal nor any committee thereof," the chairman said. "Nor are we committing either committee to a schedule or a goal for its deliberations."

A similar position has been taken by Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III. The two chairmen went further, however, in announcing a new "voluntary" plan recommended by Baker's predecessor at Treasury, White House Chief of Staff Donald R. Regan.

MX vote in Senate down to wire

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., announced Friday that while he has serious reservations about the military effectiveness and high cost of the MX missile, he will vote for it next week because of the renewed U.S.-Soviet arms control talks.

Boren lined up against the controversial missile system last year, voting to freeze $1.5 billion in production funds appropriated by Congress.

Meanwhile Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Alan Cranston of California, whose vote counts have a history of accuracy, said he believes the Senate is now divided 46-46 on the MX issue with eight senators still undecided.

The Senate opens debate on Monday. The first of two scheduled votes is to be held on Tuesday, the second on Thursday.

Earlier Friday, Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., announced she will defy intensive White House lobbying, switch from her previous position of support and vote against the long-range, multiple warhead system.

Westmoreland sets media help

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland urged the media Friday to "clean up your act" and establish a council that would listen to complaints from people who believe they were wronged in news stories.

Westmoreland, who recently dropped his $120 million libel suit against CBS, said Friday a council would provide a preferable alternative to going to court.

"I say this because I know the route of a libel suit is not good either for the plaintiff or the defendant," the former commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam told the National Press Club.

"If I withdraw my suit against the network 10 weeks into its trial in federal court in New York after CBS issued a statement saying it respects Gen. Westmoreland's long and faithful service to his country," said Westmoreland, "it would mean I am implicitly being 'unpatriotic or disloyal' in performing his duties as he saw fit."

Meese doubts efficacy of busing efforts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Friday that court-ordered school busing has had marginal effect so far as improvement is concerned, but that any administration review of desegregation plans will be handled on a case-by-case basis.

Holding his first news conference as the nation's top law enforcement officer, Meese said he did not have any particular school systems "in mind at all." He did say, however, the Justice Department would continue to assess school desegregation orders.

In a wide-ranging question-and-answer session, Meese also said Reagan administration officials are "moderately encouraged" by the response of the Mexican government to U.S. pleas for a crackdown on drug trafficking.

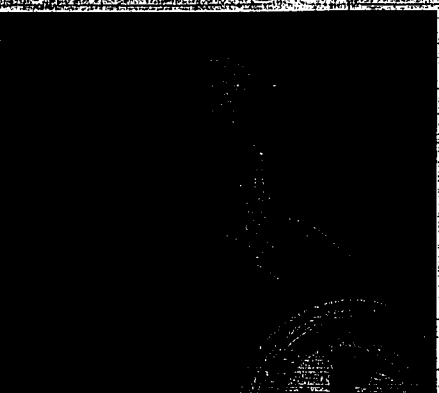

The attorney general also said he would keep daily logs of his appointments but would not make them public. In any instance where he finds it necessary to excuse himself from participation in a case, Meese said, he will make that known.

In a move seen as having nationwide implications, the administration late last year filed a brief of the court, brief supporting the Norfolk, Va., school board's bid to court-ordered school busing, even though the plan would increase racial segregation in city elementary schools.

The brief, filed with a federal appellate court hearing the case, marked the first time the Justice Department has argued that a local school board can abolish a complete court-ordered busing plan and return to neighborhood-based schools, even if racial segregation increases.

The department argued that the order, which would mean busing across county lines, "exceeds the scope of the violation."

Asked about his views on school busing plans, Meese said that "in most cases, we've had requests from school systems to take a new look at the school busing requirements" to see whether the problem that was originally perceived by the court had been corrected and whether more effective means of providing for the desegregation of school systems can be substituted.

Attorney General Edwin Meese responds to a question

Aspirin's links to diseases go unheeded still

WASHINGTON (AP)—A voluntary effort to warn the public about the possible dangers of giving aspirin to children suffering from certain diseases appears to be under way, the chairman of a House health subcommittee said Friday.

"From information that has been made available to the subcommittee thus far it appears that this voluntary effort is falling on deaf ears," Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., told a hearing on the possible link between aspirin and deadly Reye Syndrome.

But Dr. Frank E. Young, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, said there are signs the voluntary effort is working, and there is not enough scientific data to justify requiring stronger warnings.

Waxman said labels negotiated between the aspirin industry and the Department of Health and Human Services "are inadequate and vague. They do not mention Reye Syndrome and only suggest that parents consult a physician before using aspirin for children with chicken pox or flu."

He said "little consideration was given to ensuring that the label was displayed in a prominent format clearly visible to consumers."

Furthermore, he said, with the possible exception of one manufacturer, the labels will not appear on aspirin bottles used during the current flu season, and not all of the industry is represented in negotiations on voluntary labeling.

Waxman called for legislation requiring a clear warning on all aspirin products, suggesting that aspirin should not be given to individuals under 21 who have chicken pox or influenza or symptoms of flu.

Suspects held in agent killing

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U.S. Ambassador John Gavin said Friday he believes he had the 15 people credited in a massive crackdown were involved in the killing of an American drug agent. Mexican authorities have said only that one man has confessed. An embassy official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said authorities had advised the embassy Thursday that two men in custody helped identify a suspect, Carlos Salazar, the Drug Enforcement Administration agent killed by four gunmen Feb. 7 in Guadalajara.

Iraq recaptures border region

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq said its tanks counterattacked in the southern Huzayrah marshlands Friday, inflicting hundreds of casualties on the invading Iranian troops and recapturing most of that border region. Iran claimed its forces were pressing forward with their offensive in the marshes, the Iranian capital, President Ali Khamenei emerged unharmed from a terrorist bombing and said his nation's enemies would find Iran more "uncompromising" than ever. He was speaking at the Friday prayer service at Tehran University when a man with a bomb strapped to his waist blew it up in the middle of the crowd, killing himself and five worshippers and wounding 10 people.

China seeks border changes

PEKING (AP) — China wants to ease border restrictions between Hong Kong and its special economic zone of Shenzhen well before the British colony reverts to Chinese control in 1997, an official of the zone said Friday. The remarks by Li Chunfang, deputy mayor of Shenzhen, indicated a desire to meld Hong Kong and Shenzhen, although the Communist government has promised to let post-colonial Hong Kong practice capitalism for 50 years. Mas Li also said China will station a 500-member customs force on the new 85-mile road around Shenzhen, which she called "the second line," to split it from the rest of the mainland, and probably will issue a special currency for the zone.

Hostages escape convicts

KINGSTON, Ontario (AP) — An 18-hour hostage-taking at Kingston penitentiary's hospital ended Friday when three nurses and a guard escaped their captors, allowing a tactical squad to move in, a prison spokesman said. No injuries were reported to the hostages, convicts or security officers. Earlier reports indicated the three convicts released the hostages shortly after 9 a.m. after a night of negotiations, but prison official Russ Toller said the exit came when the hostages separated themselves from the convicts. The Kingston Whig-Standard said the hostages slipped through a door in the hospital area and locked it behind them. The prison's emergency response team then moved in, disarming and subduing the convicts, the paper said.

Thais plan military actions

SURIN, Thailand (AP) — Thailand may have to "initiate" military actions in the future to prevent Vietnamese forces from trudging into that territory, a deputy army commander said Friday. According to the commander, Gen. Tiensil Sirisamphan, Thai troops had evicted all of the Vietnamese troops who crossed the border into Thailand's Surin Province since March 5 while trying to wipe out several rebel camps. "But on Thursday, Lt. Gen. Pait Hemabutr, commander of the second army region, told reporters in Surin that "more than 200 Vietnamese remain in the area."

Rebels seize area, want Gemayel out

BY WILLIAM CLAIBORNE
The Washington Post
JUNIYAH, Lebanon — Rebellious Christian militiamen seized the last position in east Beirut held by forces loyal to President Amin Gemayel Friday and said their goal is the removal of Gemayel as leader of Lebanon's main Christian party. Syria issued a new warning that it will not remain "indifferent" to the rebellion. The Christian militiamen, called the Lebanese Forces, angered at growing Syrian influence in Lebanese government affairs, marched on the position in east Beirut's Karantina neighborhood and routed the Gemayel loyalists without any reported casualties in a 45-minute riot. Two persons were reported killed in an earlier clash in east Beirut. The Syrian warning to the rebellious militia, which numbers about 6,000, linked the revolt to Israel, saying that Syria could not remain indifferent to what the official Syrian news agency SANA quoted official sources as calling "a suspicious move linked to the Israeli enemy."

leader of the rebellion against Gemayel, are aimed at toppling the Syrian-backed "national unity" government and partitioning Lebanon. Against the backdrop of the Syrian war, a senior official in the breakaway militia said Friday that the rebels want to avoid provoking Syrian President Hafez Assad into intervening and instead want to negotiate a settlement with Gemayel. Emile Rahme, a top aide to Gemayel, said in an interview that the Lebanese Forces are content to have Gemayel remain president as long as he gives up leadership of the Phalangist Party.

NATO to put missiles in Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The government on Friday said it would begin deployment of U.S.-made NATO cruise missiles on Belgian soil this month. The decision was hailed by the United States and by officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, who have questioned Belgium's commitment to the alliance in the past five years.

It leaves the Netherlands, one of the five NATO nations scheduled to receive the missiles, as the only one still undecided on the deployment. Prime Minister Wilfried Martens, addressing Parliament Friday, said: "The allies, in particular those who like us, are committed to deploy the missiles, believe it not acceptable that Belgium breaks the solidarity that exists within the alliance."

Since 1979, he added, Moscow "has continued its deployments of both (medium-range) SS-20s as well as other missiles of shorter range that also threaten Western Europe." He said Leo Tindemans, the Belgian foreign minister, urged the Soviets to advance medium-range weapons negotiations by dropping their insistence these be tied to progress in space weapon talks.

Bellevue water plans eyed

By BARBARA NEWBERT Times-News Correspondent

BELLEVUE — Progress on the upgrading of Bellevue's present water system is right on schedule, said Bruce Butler, city engineer.

The water project is under way because of a federal grant that expires last year.

The contract agreed to the best route for the new pipeline would be from the lower spring to Muldoon Subdivision. The route would cross the Flat Top Ranch, owned by Sen. John Peavey and Bureau of Land Management.

There is a problem with the BLM easements but Peavey is asking for free unlimited water usage on his property, said Butler. Peavey is intent to subdivide the land into home sites. It was noted.

After discussion regarding alternative routes for the easement, the council agreed to waive Peavey's $100,000 fee and to allow for materials for two hookups but not to provide two water users.

The contract will go out to bid for three weeks in April, said Butler. June 1 is the anticipated construction date. The contract will run for 100 working days and should be completed by mid-September, Butler said.

Further business:

Mayor Dale Eversen announced that Federal Revenue Sharing funds are currently "in limbo." There is a strong possibility the funds will be cut off as Sept. 30, 1996, rather than Sept. 30, 1995, as previously anticipated, said Eversen.

The city of Bellevue will need to re-negotiate their entire contract with the City of Hays Animal Control, said Eversen.

The council agreed to four to five hours per week for an animal control officer to patrol Bellevue streets. If needed the officer could be called to Bellevue if a resident signed a written complaint.

City attorney Steve Boller informed the council that a summary judgment has been set for March 29 on the litigation involving two lines on the Old Falls area which are in violation of city ordinances. The council plans to take no further action until the summary judgment is received.

Adoption of increased water rates was postponed until a later date.

Cassia teachers ready to negotiate contract with district school board

By SARAH MURPHY Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — Kathy Poulton, president of the Cassia County Education Association, told the Cassia County School Board Wednesday that district teachers are prepared to begin negotiations to contract as soon as the board is ready to meet with them.

Poulton also told the board, the district driver education instructors, who are not on a formal contract, want a contract negotiated this year that includes a job description and a definition of salary and hours.

In other business, the board tabled a proposal to purchase mobile communication equipment to be used in district school buses after hearing complaints from local communication carriers.

Earlier, the board tentatively approved the purchase, which includes 40 portable hand-held units, seven has already issued a contract on this after making a bid — we are following state guidelines," he said.

Nelson said he thought Motorola also had a contract with the state, but he would have to check.

The board deferred action on the matter until a further check could be made on Motorola's status, passing a motion stating they would probably call for a bid at the next board meeting.

Hurst said Thursday he had confirmed Motorola does not have a contract with the state, and the board would probably go ahead with the General Electric contract.

The board approved a lease-purchase contract with AT&T's Project Mutual for the Meritor System to be installed at Burley schools and the Central Office.

The cost of the system will amount to $305 per month for the Central Office, $662 per month for Burley High School, $71 per month for Burley Junior High School and approximately $1,000 for installation of phones in the elementary schools in Burley.

Bellevue water plans eyed

By BARBARA NEWERT
Times-News correspondent

BELLEVUE — Progress on the upgrading of Bellevue's present water system is right on schedule, said Bruce Butler, city engineer.

The water project is under way because of a federal grant the city received last year.

The council agreed the best route for the new pipeline would be from the lower spring to Muldoon division. The route would cross the Flat Top Ranch owned by Sen. John Peavey and Bureau of Land Management.

There is no problem with the BLM easements but Peavey is asking for free hookups and free unlimited water usage on his property, said Butler. Peavey intends to subdivide the land into home sites. It was pointed out that Peavey's hookups would be for water. After discussion regarding alternative routes for the waterline, the council agreed to waive Peavey's hookup fees and provide the materials for two hookups but not to provide free water usage.

The contract will go out to bid for three weeks in April, said Butler. June 1 is the anticipated construction date. The contract will run for 100 working days and should be completed by mid-September, Butler said.

In other business:

Mayor Dale Everson announced that Federal Revenue Sharing funds are currently in limbo. There is a strong possibility the funds will be cut as of Sept. 30, 1985, rather than Sept. 30, 1986, as previously anticipated, said Everson.

"This represents 10 percent of the city budget," Everson said. "It's something to keep in mind."

The city of Bellevue will need to re-negotiate their contract with the city of Valley Animal Control, said Everson.

The council agreed to four to five hours per week for an animal control officer to patrol Bellevue streets. If needed the officer could be called to Bellevue if a resident signed a written complaint.

Steve Heller informed the council that a summary judgment has been set for March 29 on the litigation involving two fines on the Odd Fellows Hall which are in violation of city ordinances. The council plans to take no further action until the summary judgment is received.

A proposal of increased water rates was postponed until a later date.

Cassia teachers ready to negotiate contract with district school board

By SARAH MURPHY
Times-News correspondent

Mini-Cassia

BURLEY — Kathy Poulton, president of the Cassia County Education Association, said the Cassia County School Board Wednesday that district teachers are prepared to begin negotiations on a contract as soon as the board is ready to meet with them.

Poulton also told the board the district driver education instructors, who are not on a formal contract, want a contract negotiated this year that includes a job description and a definition of salary and hours.

In other business, the board tabled a proposal to purchase mobile communication equipment to be used in district school buses after hearing complaints from local communication dealers.

Earlier, the board tentatively approved the purchase, which includes 40 portable handheld units, seven mobile units and one base station, through a state bid process with General Electric for approximately $40,000.

The bid was challenged by local Motorola dealers, Joe Shelton and Scott Nelson, who told the board they should be allowed a chance to bid on the equipment also.

Chairman Sid Norman agreed, saying it was only fair to allow someone else a chance to enter in the bidding process.

However, Superintendent Norman Hurst said the district "was going with the state purchasing department to make this transaction — the state has already issued a contract on this after making a bid — we are following state guidelines," he said.

Nelson said he thought Motorola also had a contract with the state, but he would have to check.

The board deferred action on the matter until a further check could be made on Motorola's status, passing a motion stating they would probably call for a bid at the next board meeting.

Hurst said Thursday he had confirmed Motorola does not have a contract with the state, and the board "would probably go ahead with the General Electric contract."

The board approved a lease-purchase contract with AT&T's Project Mutual for the Meritor System to be installed in Burley schools and the Central Office.

The cost of the system will amount to $305 per month for the Central Office, $602 per month for Burley High School, $175 per month for Burley Junior High School and approximately $1,000 for installation of phones in the elementary schools in Burley.

Civil court

The following civil cases were filed this past week — in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Twin Falls:

Bureau of Twin Falls, Inc. vs. Bill and Ed Reese. The plaintiff, acting on behalf of Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, is seeking $1,233, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Commercial Union Insurance vs. Sherman Bus Co., Inc. vs. Garth Kirkman, Sun Valley Stages, Inc., and Sun Valley Transportation, Inc., Glen E. Sparks, First Security Bank of Idaho, N.A. The plaintiff claims no responsibility for the counter-suit filed against the defendant by Glen E. Sparks and First Security Bank of Idaho — and claims to be under no obligation to defend against said claim. The plaintiff asks for its costs, attorney's fees and for such relief as the court deems proper.

Sell Canada to the United States for $16 Trillion. So suggests a Toronto real estate broker. That much money would let every Canadian retire immediately, says he. And the United States would get Canada's gas, oil, water and other mineral resources plus enough job openings to put to work all this country's unemployed.

Letter confirms Twain opposed to all racism

Yale University has received a letter from a Twain scholar that confirms Twain's opposition to all racism, including anti-Semitism.

The letter, dated Oct. 25, 1993, was written by Dr. Robert C. Marsh, a professor at the University of Southern California. Marsh is a leading Twain scholar and has written extensively about Twain's views on race and anti-Semitism.

Marsh's letter states that Twain was "not a racist" and that he was "opposed to all racism." Marsh also notes that Twain was "a vocal and often angry critic of anti-Semitism." Marsh's letter is the first to explicitly state Twain's opposition to all racism.

The letter was brought to Ms. Fishkin in late February after she wrote an article on new attempts to censor Twain. If it had been bought by Nancy and Richard Stiner of Handen as part of an estate from descendants of Dean Wayland.

Mrs. Stiner said Thursday that she had had the letter for seven or eight years and that earlier attempts to interest a Twain scholar in it were futile.

"I know it was a significant letter," she said. "But now I feel that now the time was right and that other people would agree."

Scholars, including Ms. Fishkin, have argued that Twain's use of irony is both the book's strength and the cause of the criticism, which they say results from misunderstanding.

Region's employers likely to be hiring soon

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley employers should be filling jobs actively during the next three months, a recent survey indicates.

Manpower Inc., a temporary work firm, reports that 77 percent of its area employers are planning to expand their staffs.

"This represents healthy hiring levels," Jean Hoyay, manager of the Manpower office in Twin Falls, announced. Seventy percent of the personnel offices interviewed, late last month, said their companies plan to maintain present levels of permanent work forces.

The Twin Falls area results are roughly the same as those for the West and for the nation as a whole. Of 12,000 employers contacted nationwide, 77 percent said they intended to do some hiring; 64 percent said they expected no change and 6 percent were getting ready for decreases.

Twin Falls employers are expecting fewer openings than companies in the West or nationally at only 3 percent of the total. However, the 3 percent represents only one firm among 35 contacted.

The Manpower survey forecasts new job opportunities locally in construction, service, business, government, public utilities and non-durable goods manufacturers.

Those trends also are reflected in other parts of the country. Construction companies now are more optimistic than in any quarter since 1979, although Western contractors are a little more cautious than the rest, Manpower says.

Non-durable manufacturing also is a healthy sector with record percentages of companies hiring, and the service sector is continuing its growth of past years.

Most regions of the country showed similar hiring intentions overall for the second quarter of the year. All were within one or two percentage points.

In the current survey, the Midwest showed the best potential job hunting, with 28 percent of all industries getting ready to hire.

In the West, 26 percent of companies intend to take on help and 64 percent are steady in their work forces.

The best industry outlook in the West comes from mining, which has been depressed for some time. According to Manpower, 38 percent of mining companies are poised to take on new workers and none are firing. But 15 percent of mining companies say they don't know which direction they'll go. That's the highest percentage for any industry in any part of the nation.

Another bright spot in the West has a dark side. Thirty-two percent of durable goods manufacturers are planning to hire, but 11 percent again the highest count of any industry in the country — are preparing to cut back.

Other strong industries in the West are construction and non-durable goods manufacturing.

In the second quarter last year, Twin Falls area employers were exceptionally optimistic. Two-thirds were planning to add employees, and none were reducing staff.

Manpower Inc. draws its statistics from a quarterly phone survey of public and private employers in 367 cities. The survey was conducted during the last two weeks of February. The company, which is owned by Parker Personnel, provides temporary workers for employers in the U.S. and overseas.

Sewer flows over

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Landowners near the Wendell city sewer lagoons are upset about sewage overflowing onto their property.

Robert Stacey and Robert Stockham told the Wendell City Council Thursday that the city needs to increase its sewage capacity.

Stacey said a pond wall broke earlier this winter and flooded some of his property. When that was fixed, he said, overflow was sent into the nearby canal via a pipe with a sack of chlorine crystals over the end of it.

Six houses, he told the council, have wells near that canal bank.

Stockham said open gates along the canal have allowed the city sewage to flow into his fields. He also expressed worry about his livestock drinking water from the canal. Two calves owned by Don Wofford recently died after being near the sewage overflow, he added.

Stacey said he does not enjoy watching "green soup" flow by his well.

"It looks to me like the city has outgrown its sewer system and something has to be done about it," he added.

City Superintendent Charlie Doty said this has been a bad winter, with no sunny days to evaporate the ponds and with temperatures so cold that city residents have left many faucets running to keep them from freezing.

The situation, Stacey emphasized, is not new and the lagoon area has been "a mess" for the last two winters.

The city, Doty recalled, tried to buy land for a new pond adjacent to the existing ponds about a year ago. But, he said, there were some legal problems over the land's title.

Mayor Otto Lemke said the city also did not have enough money to buy the land.

"I realize something's got to be done," Lemke told the farmers.

Stacey said when the existing system was built 12 years ago, it was supposed to take care of Wendell until its population doubled. The increase, he said, has only gone from 1,122 to 1,987 residents. So the system should, in theory, not be over.

Stacey predicted the situation will only get worse.

"I ain't going to heal itself," he said. "It looks like the city should be able, in some manner, to take care of the water so it doesn't pollute our wells."

Due to lack of a council quorum with Dick Beck and Denton Adams absent, no decision was made. But Lemke assured the farmers the city will seriously look into getting more land to store sewage.

"We're working on it," he said. "That's all we can tell you."

Heyburn votes down Sunday beer sales

HEYBURN — The Heyburn City Council rejected an ordinance that would have allowed beer and wine sales on Sunday.

The decision was prompted by a signed petition and a large crowd of concerned citizens present for the third and final reading of the ordinance.

City Clerk Ila Despain said that at the two previous readings, there had not been a lot of objections voiced regarding the proposed ordinance.

"Just when it looked like the new ordinance was going to pass, Wednesday's meeting turned everything around, said Despain.

She said after the third reading, Heyburn resident Sandie Burbank presented the council with a petition that contained the signatures of 207 Heyburn residents who objected to the new ordinance.

Burbank repeated his expressed concern that if Burley repeated his Sunday beer sales, Heyburn would be open to all of Burley's beer traffic.

Erickson wins trial, $106,000 award

By INA HADAM
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Colt Erickson, a 10-year former Tupperware employee who was dismissed from Tupperware in May, 1988, was awarded $106,000 by a 12-member jury in deliberation for less than three hours.

The seven-day trial concluded late Thursday evening when a favorable verdict was brought in by the jury at 10:30 p.m.

Erickson's attorneys, Craig James and William Mauk of Boise, based their case on "unjustifiable termination."

Erickson said the trial was the end result of his dismissal of Wanda VanLydegraf, a foreman in charge of packing plant employees, which he did with the support of his superiors, John Eberes, plant manager, Bob Cochran, assistant plant manager, and Ken Baumgartner, director of personnel.

Erickson then left to attend a plant seminar in Connecticut, and was called by Forbes to return to Jerome as soon as possible.

Erickson says he was dismissed by Forbes as soon as he returned with no explanation other than he had used the words "beyond my control" in firing VanLydegraf and purportedly had not taken responsibility for his own actions.

Erickson says there had been a continuing personality conflict between VanLydegraf and Shirley Hall, a packing room employee, and Hall had come to him and Forbes for an answer to the problem.

Erickson and Forbes discussed the problem and Eric TRIAL on Page B2

Raney appears in court

BOISE (AP) — A rural Twin Falls man arrested on federal drug charges was ordered held without bond after a magistrate determined he might flee.

Charles Henry Raney, 31, was placed in the custody of U.S. marshals after a detention hearing on Friday.

U.S. Magistrate Michael Williams said no combination of factors would guarantee Raney's appearance at future court proceedings.

Williams also found probable cause to suspect Raney of possessing 5 1/2 ounces of cocaine with intent to deliver it.

Raney was arrested Wednesday outside his Twin Falls home, on charges of drug distribution and conspiracy. The charges were filed after an eight-month investigation that included wiretapping.

Raney is suspected of conspiring to supply marijuana in the Boise area, according to an affidavit filed in his case.

Williams said factors in the decision to keep Raney in custody included previous offenses, the nature of the charges against him and his family and employment situation.

According to the affidavit, authorities who searched Raney's home in November found cocaine and six pounds of high-grade marijuana.

Authorities said other seized property Raney is believed to have possessed includes a 1960 Corvette, a 1960 Ford Mustang, a 1960 Chevrolet, three motorcycles, two pickup trucks, two satellite dishes and a dozen firearms.

An Internal Revenue Service spokesman says four residential properties in Twin Falls, County, and Blaine County were also seized. The Twin Falls property includes houses at 510 Lincoln St., 1543 3rd St. and 3225 North and 2600 East in the county.

Probe to be ended soon

GOODING — A probe by the State Attorney General's office into Gooding County government will be completed within the next few weeks.

Legal Aid, an investigator with the Attorney General's office, said Friday that he was waiting for "further documentation" in order to complete his report on a questioned "procedure."

He would not disclose details about the nature of the investigation or about his work in Gooding this week.

A report on his findings will be sent to Gooding County Attorney Lynn Nelson, who will decide if any criminal action was involved, Legal Aid said.

The Attorney General's investigation was initiated by a letter the agency received several months ago. The procedure involved several departments of county government.

In flap over day care legislation

H&W officials deny Rep. Scott charges

By DEAN'S MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Small, in-home, day-care operators are reimbursed for their food bills through the State Department of Education by federal funds, not through the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, as Rep. Damon Scott, R-Twin Falls, has said.

Scott said Thursday that small day-care operators are reimbursed by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare for grocery bills on the basis of receipts. He said the receipts could be for groceries for children or for meals for the operators' husbands.

"I think it's another one of those half-truths as long as she has been in the Legislature, she has claimed people are doing things that are not true," said Chet Bartlett, a senior staff writer with the Department of Health and Welfare.

Bartlett said the Idaho Hunger Action Council runs a program that reimburses small day-care operators, but that the program is paid for by the Department of Agriculture and is not run through Idaho Health and Welfare.

Scott also said the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare was encouraging local day-care operators to seek a recall vote to take them out of office.

Bartlett said he hadn't heard of the possibility of a recall vote for Scott until he read it in The Times-News Thursday morning.

Hunger Action Council director Wanda Michaelson said Friday the program is run through the Idaho Department of Education on a reimbursement basis. She said the program reimburses day-care operators who operate in their own homes with 12 or fewer students.

In order to be reimbursed, the day-care operators must first be licensed and must submit to Michaelson's office copies of a month's menus, attendance records, and signed affidavits from parents indicating they are aware their children's meals during the day are subsidized through the federal government.

Michaelson says the centers are reimbursed on a monthly basis and that payment is made on a per-meal basis. In order to qualify, day-care operators must submit all documents by the fifth of each month, she said.

"It's a terrible lot of paperwork," Michaelson says. Children are introduced to a variety of food, and a good nutritional program through the Council's reimbursements, she says.

The food reimbursement program is a sister program to the school lunch and summer feeding programs the Department of Agriculture also runs.

Michaelson says Hunger Action Council staffers visit the day-care centers involved in the reimbursement plan three times each year and that operators must attend at least one workshop on nutrition to be eligible for reimbursement.

There are about eight day-care centers enrolled in the program in the Magic Valley and about 250 in Idaho, Michaelson says.

County files suit for Rudeen costs

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A $116,000 lawsuit was filed Friday by Twin Falls County against Paul Rudeen and a Pocatello woman, who allegedly conspired with him to hide his disappearance from the area in January.

The county also named Rudeen's wife Marjorie, as a defendant.

Mrs. Rudeen filed for divorce about two weeks ago.

Rudeen, a Jerome-area resident and Twin Falls businessman, was believed to have been drowned in the Snake River Jan. 24.

A woman who called herself "Julie Brown" had told authorities she saw a brown car plunge into the Snake River near the Rudeens' family later reported him missing and that he was driving a brown car.

For two days, more than 100 people searched the river by land and air in an effort by the Twin Falls Police and the Blaine County Sheriff's Department. The Twin Falls Canal Co. also held back the river dam for several hours at Milner Dam to aid the search.

Weeks later, however, the 66-year-old Rudeen was found lying in New Mexico under an assumed name. He was extradited.

Kimberly to buy a computer

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly City Council voted to purchase rather than lease a computer for the city, Mayor Ken Jones said. "It was buying we could lease and it would release money we could use to fill potholes but leasing is too expensive," Jones said.

Councilman Jack Wright suggested the city lease a computer for a year program. He is insured in the event a disc breaks or a program is erased due to power failure. Members agreed the clerk should investigate proper insurance.

In a related matter, the contract with Rick Widmer to write a computer program for the city was agreed upon, at a cost of $3,500.

East End Twin Falls County

Greenwood said the contract allows for a one-year to two-year program and the program is not complete, we may continue with Widmer, terminate the contract or purchase a computer. "We need to repair the streets that are fairly decent and try to keep them that way. If property maintained, they should last 10 years," said Story. "I would like to transfer one street every two-three months, which would allow us to carry over in money in case of emergency," said Jones.

Story said the city could do crack and seal repair for 30 cents a foot. If it can get bidders and pour pots, compared to an estimate given by Gordon Faving of Nevada for $1.50 a foot.

City Clerk Edie Widmer said revenue sharing money should be available in October, which could be used for road repairs.

The council decided to proceed with crack and seal repair, and determine what streets to repair, according to how much money is available.

The council granted Ed. Hudson use of the city park for the Kimberly Chamber of Commerce's "Good Neighbor Day" celebration.

Hudson indicated he had contacted a carnival from Salt Lake City for the celebration and that a junior rodeo may also be part of the activities.

Paul police officer resigns position

BY MICHELE SNYDER
Times-News correspondent

PAUL — Police Chief C.K. Mackness advised the Paul City Council that Officer Jim Rasmussen resigned from the police department. The council agreed to advertise for a qualified officer.

In other business Wednesday, it was noted that the city is having problems with its one and only stop light.

City Superintendent Elmer Knopp told the council the stop light "is no pressure sensorized. It works like it used to."

Councilman Jim Brown suggested the seal one cause for the problem could be that the seal is gone from the seal.

with the city's annual tradition of sponsoring "half a boy" for Boy's State again this year.

The council pledged $2.50 for the program.

Brown reported that the bed of the city's garbage truck had been repaired and is working well. He added, however, that there is still a leak on the hydraulic oil pump.

He said he would call Interstate Equipment Inc. in Blackfoot, which repaired the truck bed, to see if it would send a man to Paul to look at the problem.

Councilman Gene Hansen said he was pleased to find that the repair of the bed only cost the city $549, considerably less than Interstate Equipment's original bid of $4,900.

Paul City Councilman Jim Brown suggested the seal one cause for the problem could be that the seal is gone from the seal.

Wholesale prices dip, factory output dives

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Wholesale prices fell 0.1 percent in February as a jump in fruit and vegetable costs was not enough to derail the continuing good news on inflation, the Labor Department said Friday.

The decline was the first since an identical drop in October, was attributed to the largest fall in energy prices in almost two years and to lower prices for meat, fish and poultry.

For the first two months of the year, the Producer Price Index was rising at a modest annual rate of 0.6 percent. Analysts are predicting inflation will stay at moderate levels for the rest of the year.

In a separate report, the Federal Reserve Board said the country's industrial production fell a sharp 0.5 percent in February, only the third time during this recovery that output at the end-user factories, mines and utilities has gone down.

While the slowdown was widespread among various industries, analysts said production was held back by severe winter weather and they predicted coming months will show further improvements.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes noted that wholesale prices had risen just 0.7 percent over the last 12 months, which he called a remarkable achievement as far as holding down inflation. Producer price inflation remains at rock bottom.

Many analysts had been predicting that wholesale prices would jump significantly in February following a devastating freeze of citrus and vegetable crops in Florida.

But the 9.1 percent increase in fresh fruit prices and a 4.6 percent jump in vegetable prices were offset by declines in the price of beef, down 1.4 percent; pork, off 5.4 percent; poultry, down 5.5 percent; and fish, down 4.2 percent.

Energy prices fell 2.5 percent, the third consecutive monthly decline and the biggest drop since a 3-percent fall in March 1983. Despite the cold weather during the month, heating oil prices fell a sharp 3.6 percent. Natural gas prices were up 1.8 percent, but they had dropped 1.5 percent the month before.

Gasoline prices fell 3.4 percent, leaving them almost 10 percent below where they were a year ago. The decline in energy prices has come from a worldwide oil demand and has been a key factor in holding down the overall U.S. inflation rate.

Another key element has been the continued strength of the dollar against other currencies. A strong dollar makes imports cheaper and puts downward pressure on domestic products which compete with imports.

Kurt Karl, an economist at Wharton Econometrics, said his forecasting firm expects wholesale prices to rise only 1.5 percent this year, even better than last year's modest 1.9 percent increase.

But Karl's prediction looks right on target, he said. "The dollar is definitely putting a damper on the price of commodities and that is feeding through to the rest of the economy."

The report cited these other price changes:

- Overall food prices dropped 0.1 percent in February following an even steeper 0.6 percent decline in January. The 9.1 percent rise in fruit prices was the "largest" since September while the rise in vegetable prices was the first increase in this category in six months.
- New car prices were up 1.0 percent and light truck prices rose 1.5 percent. Both categories had gained an even sharper 2.2 percent in January.
- Capital equipment costs rose 0.5 percent following a 0.4 percent advance in January.
- Last month's 0.1 percent decrease held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly drop would be 1.2 percent.
- In all, the Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 22.5 in February, meaning that goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $26.25 last month.

Final barrage shells market into decline

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK—The stock market closed out its second straight week of losses with another decline Friday.

It yielded to a barrage of selling in the final moments of trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell just a fraction heading into the last half hour of the session closed with a 12-point loss at 2,247.25. For the week the average had a net decline of 22.31 points.

Friday's volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 105.19 million shares, against 103.35 million the day before.

Analysts said it appeared that professional traders caught up in complex transactions involving stock index options were behind the selloff. They said they did not believe it had anything to do with temporary closing of Ohio savings institutions announced early in the day.

Wall Street analysts pointed out that the great majority of banks and savings institutions around the country were not affected by the federal deposit insurance crisis and there was nothing to indicate that the banking system as a whole would be affected in any significant way.

Meanwhile, the market had some positive news on inflation working in its favor. The government reported that the producer price index of finished goods dropped 0.1 percent last month.

Stocks of most big banks and savings and loan showed only mixed and fractional price changes.

One exception was Texas Commerce Bankshares, which fell 3/4 to 36 1/2. The company said it expected its net income for the first quarter to come in at about $65 million, a sharp drop from $1.41 in the comparable period a year ago.

It cited potential loans in the energy industry as a primary factor behind the earnings decline.

Losses among "blue chips" included International Business Machines, down 1/4 at 128 1/2; DuPont, down 1 1/2 at 50 1/2; Merck, down 1/4 at 101; and Procter & Gamble, off 3/4 at 59 1/2.

Kmart dropped 7/8 to 32 1/2 on top of a 1 1/2-point loss in Thursday's session. The company reported lower quarterly profits.

Thompson Medical, which estimated lower earnings for the quarter ended Feb. 28, fell 1 to 16 1/2.

In the daily tally on the Big Board, losers outnumbered gainers by about 4 to 3. The exchange's composite index dropped 1/2 to 102.46.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those 196's regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 122.19 million shares.

BSU breaks ground for technology center

BOISE (AP)—A dozen Idahoans attended a ground-breaking ceremony here Thursday, and announced that they want to put a spirit in the new building.

"But it isn't just any spirit they want to instill. It's the spirit of Idaho industrialism," said a spokesman.

Ceremonies at the Boise State University campus Thursday afternoon accomplished at least part of that goal because the center will be named for Simplot, a major contributor to its construction cost.

Charles M. Fickman, who contributed to the project along with six other investors, joined Gov. John Evans and state Board of Education Executive Director Charles McQuillen in welding shovels.

Center for technology, The $4 million facility will contain about 35,000 square feet and will be equipped with telecommunication equipment to broadcast videotaped or live course material to remote classrooms.

Educator is in the midst of a program to purchase 100 microcomputers will be the books of the future. They will be carried around and connected to international networks, he said.

Simplot and Micron Technology Chairman and Fickman, who contributed to the project along with six other investors, joined Gov. John Evans and state Board of Education Executive Director Charles McQuillen in welding shovels.

Acts after runs on Ohio institutions Governor closes 70 S&Ls

By JOHN NOLAN
The Associated Press

CINCINNATI—Gov. Richard F. Celeste on Friday ordered 70 savings and loan institutions insured by a private company to close for three days after some reported runs on deposits.

At least two institutions initially defied the order, but closed their offices Friday afternoon. Celeste's emergency order was welcomed by some, but caused confusion and criticism among regulators and industry analysts.

"I think it was not only hasty, but entirely uncalled for," said Donald McKay, president of the Home Savings and Loan Association of Youngstown, which is federally insured and not affected by the order.

Regulators and industry analysts said they could not remember such an extensive closing since the Great Depression, but no one could immediately confirm that.

Celeste issued the order Friday morning after customers, alarmed by the closing a week ago of the Cincinnati-based Home State Savings Bank, camped overnight outside at least two other Cincinnati savings and loans to withdraw their money.

The closings, until Monday, freeze accounts at savings and loans whose deposits are insured by the private, Cincinnati-based Ohio Deposit Guaranty Fund, Ohio's approximately 125 state-chartered savings and loans protected by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. were not affected.

In Columbus, Celeste and other state officials met privately with Federal Reserve Bank officials in efforts to obtain federal insurance for the 70 state thrifts.

"It's very difficult to talk about any details of that effort because there are many tactics being undertaken simultaneously," he said after the meeting. "What will create confidence in these institutions, reopen as viable financial institutions. Our goal in that effort — if it's at all possible — would be some sort of federal insurance."

Celeste also said he could not guarantee the closed institutions would reopen Monday.

"I think it's a time when we need to take forceful action," Celeste said at a news conference at Cincinnati's Lunken Airport, where he announced the closings.

"Financial institutions really don't run on cash as much as they run on confidence. There is no amount of cash delivery in the world that will get the confidence back," said Karen N. Horn, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, who accompanied Celeste. "It must be a plan that will regain user confidence in these institutions."

Celeste said officials of some of the thrifths of Thursday urged him to impose temporary closings on other measures while the state tries to obtain federal deposit insurance.

On Thursday, Cincinnati-area customers began lining up at Mollitor Loan and Building Co. and Chagrt Oak Savings Association offices to withdraw their money. Some camped outside overnight waiting for the offices to open Friday morning.

Quincy Mollitor's suburban Bell Township office savings department manager Bob Nave, flanked by two police officers, relayed the order to depositors camped in the parking lot.

"I've got my entire savings here," said Ellis Bowman, adding that she would return Monday to get her money.

In Steubenville, officials of Jefferson Building and Savings Association closed the bank after learning of Celeste's order, but then reopened, only to close again at mid-afternoon.

"We decided to reopen because we didn't need to close. We don't have anything in writing that would tell us we had to close," Vice President Bill Garman said.

In Bellville, board Chairman George Hazlett of Buckeye Savings and Loan Co. said his bank closed Friday because it is financially strong. It opened again Monday. Friday's business was not unusual, he said.

"This thing isn't warranted," said Bill Connelly, vice president of Century Savings Bank in Cincinnati, which obeyed the order. "But since it's here, what you've got to do is allow the people's fears."

The 70 institutions' deposits, including those at Home State, are insured by the Ohio Deposit Guaranty Fund, the state-regulated company that backs Home State Savings Bank. Home State drew an estimated $40 million of the $130 million that had been in the fund, which is supported by drawing 2 percent of the assets of each member bank, state officials said.

With this book, Willy Loman could have been the best

NEW YORK—One thing that's tough to do anyone is sell something to an informed person who doesn't want it, no matter how motivated, enthusiastic, aggressive and determined the salesman is.

Competition today is too intense and of quality too high to permit those old standbys to remain effective. And yet, many of the sales techniques taught in America today continue to be based on them.

That is probably why "Strategic Selling," a volume by two former top salesmen, has attracted so much attention in the corporate and book worlds.

The book, in which Robert Miller and Stephen Heiman detail the steps and procedures for handling and closing sales, drew a $10,000 advance from William Morrow & Co., a stupendous figure that suggests impending best-sellerhood.

Morrow is considered wise in the ways of business books, having published among other successful volumes "The One Minute Manager," which became an instant best-seller, "an astounding marketing if not ill-equally informed.

Add to this a growing complexity in the salesman's world that requires long hours of preparation and then only minutes face to face with the customer.

And finally, say Miller and Heiman, management itself has changed. Authoritarian, unilateral decisions have given way to a management consensus. Rather than selling one person; that is, you must sell the team.

To think of you and in Miller Heiman Systems courses throughout the country, the authors leave the razzmatazz to others, dealing instead with "things ignored, the analyzing and planning, the stuff that salesmen hate to do."

To begin with, most salesmen fail to identify the always-present buying influences who must be sold. There is, for example, the person in charge of the funds, the individual who must release the purchase money.

There is always a user role played by somebody, often a person not directly involved with the salesman but who nevertheless will exert influence, even to the point of making or breaking a sale.

In today's high-tech world there is always a technical buying influence too, standing at the gate. It is his job to screen out rather than allow in, the salesman's product.

Any salesman who doesn't touch all three bases, say Miller and Heiman, isn't likely to find himself in scoring position. Or if he does get into scoring position he might get picked off before reaching the plate.

Few salesmen score without developing still another influence, the coach. Coaches don't just come to you; they must be developed. And you develop one by asking someone in the organization to help you understand.

The easiest way to get coaching is to ask for it," the authors say. They suggest that a salesman simply tell an informed person in the organization that he would appreciate the wisdom of his understanding.

Truism #7: Every successful sale, they say, you will find those four roles played by somebody or other, and "you must determine the level of receptivity of each role."

Miller and Heiman (all how to do it, it goes on that way, analytically and strategically, each step aimed at advancing the sale.)

How many salesmen, for instance, ask themselves what measurable results, personal and professional, must be produced to win over a person? Miller and Heiman say it's a step that invariably is touched in successful sales.

How many salesmen walk away from a potential sale? "No product or service is for everyone at the same point in time." To think so might waste time, and salesmen today have only 15 percent of their day for face-to-face contact.

Miller and Heiman have used their wisdom well. Among titles of Miller Heiman & Associates: Berkeley, Calif.; are IBM, Hewlett-Packard, Johnson & Johnson, General Electric and Coca-Cola.

Holmes makes his swan song sweet

By ED SCURRY
The Associated Press
HOLMES (AP)—The former professional football player turned professional basketball player, Holmes, made his swan song sweet in a final game against the Idaho Vandals in the first round of the NCAA tournament on Saturday, March 10, 1985. Holmes, who played for the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA, scored 23 points and made four three-pointers to lead his team to a 74-61 victory over the Vandals. Holmes, who was inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in 1984, was the only player to score in double figures for his team. He also made a career-high seven three-pointers. Holmes, who was 34 years old, was the oldest player in the tournament. He played for the Vandals in 1984 and 1985. He was drafted by the Lakers in 1976. He played for the Lakers for 10 years. Bruins falter in second half against Boise

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer
BOISE — The Boise Braves without a field goal in the fourth quarter, pulled away from Twin Falls in the closing minutes Friday night to gain a 55-47 victory and earn the right to play cross-town rival Borah for the Idaho Class A-1 boys' high school basketball championship.
The Braves won a berth in the title game by beating Nampa 65-53 in the other Friday semifinal game. The title game is scheduled for 8:30 tonight in the Boise State University gymnasium.
The Braves will meet Nampa for third place at 11:55 a.m. Crosstown rivals Highland and Pocatello will square off for the consolation trophy at 10:15 a.m. The Braves' season record stands at 17-11 and the Indians eliminated Bonneville 84-76 in their out game earlier Friday.
The Braves, ranked first or second most of the season, had trouble with Twin Falls until two offensive fouls kept in the late second quarter. They shot 42 percent in Boise's second half.
The Braves hit 13 of 17 free throws in the last quarter as they moved away from a 45-45 advantage with 1:42 to play. But because Boise wasn't scoring from the field, the Braves still had their opponent within striking distance.
The Braves' front end of two bonus situations, blowing a crumple on an in-

Jerome ends slump, routs Post Falls

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer
BOISE — A fan-in-the-general admission section of the Boise State Pavilion entertained himself with a constant question through consolation play in the Idaho Class A-2 boys' high school basketball tournament Friday.
Cupping his hands, he repeatedly yelled, "How did you get here?"
The question was directed at Ben Allen, "that he was talking to me until the third quarter. Then I found out he must have been yelling at Post Falls."
That third quarter was the first district tournament rolled over to ranked Bishop Kelly of Boise 67-54 in one semifinal game behind a 35-point effort by senior Ed Gunders. The Braves then will meet District 3 champion South Fremont of St. Anthony for the state championship... The Cougars edged Valliuve High of Caldwell 47-44 in the other semifinal Friday... The little game is scheduled for 8:45 p.m. in the sixth straight state A-2 championship game in which a Sixth District team has played... B-K and Valliuve will play for third place at 1:15 p.m... "I feel good about it for the kids," Allen said of the victory over Post Falls. "They wanted to show something in the tournament and today they did it."

After Post Falls' Larry Young interrupted with a three-point play, Jerome burst ahead by 10 points with a three-point goal from Black, a two-pointer by Martens and Jeff Burman in three-point play... With 8:27 gone in the period, Torrey Sheets' bucket allowed Jerome to equal its entire first-half production. The Tigers pulled ahead by 15 at one point and posted their biggest advantage at 15-3 seconds into the final quarter... Allen tried to get all his players into the game, but may have done so a little early. With Jerome's reserves playing — and thanks to four straight free throws in the four seconds — Post Falls trimmed the deficit to 11-11 with over three minutes to go and Allen came back with his stoppers... Throughout the first half, it was another matter of missed opportunities. The Tigers jumped in 6:45 p.m.

Sunshine to continue at valley's ski resorts

Sum Valley — Sun Valley reported clear skies and temperatures in the low 40s on Friday, with more of the same forecast for today. Skiers are advised to wear sunblock powder and spring snow conditions on the slopes. Hours today: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Pomerelle — Pomerelle reported clear skies with a high of 58 on Friday, with no wind. There is 88 inches of snow at the lodge and 119 inches at the top of the mountain with packed powder on all runs. Hours today: 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Bodie — Bodie reported temperatures in the low 40s on Friday with 65 inches of snow at the lodge and 88 inches at the top of the mountain. All runs are groomed, with spring snow conditions on the slopes. Hours today: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Maggie Mountain — Open today to report.

Money woes

State's colleges wondering how to compensate for budget cuts
BOISE (AP) — In 1983, the Idaho Board of Education capped the amount of state money going toward intercollegiate athletics with the intention of cutting those funds at a future date. That future date is now... But board staff members and institutional representatives disagree on how those cuts should be made. And, in fact, how the reduction policy is implemented will determine contributions to athletic programs will increase... The University of Idaho will ask the board next week for permission to give an initial notice for a $12 per semester fee increase for athletics. While Lewis-Clark State College will ask to give initial notice of a $10 per semester hike at the board's meeting here next week. Officials at both schools say if they don't get those fee raises, programs will have to be reduced... "To make up the dollar amounts lost by and $225,000 at LCSC through fiscal 1985, with some adjustments for inflation, the reduction of sports," said Dale Aldred, financial vice president at LCSC... The regents agreed in March 1983 that state funding of athletics needed to be cut to allow more money to be spent on academic programs. They agreed to cut the amount of state funding of $908,000 for the Boise State athletic budget will only be allowed... See MONEY on Page D2

Wolf Pack gets rude lesson from other Wolfpack

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Arizona Charlie celebrated his return to the leader of his greatest triumph with 22 points and 12 rebounds Friday in leading North Carolina State to a 65-56 victory over Nevada Reno in an NCAA West Regional first-round playoff game... Charlie gave the Wolfpack the NCAA title in the same University of New Mexico Arena. On Friday, he dominated the inside... The Wolfpack took the lead for good midway through the first half as they ran off 11 straight points and held 14U-Noneed Nevada Reno... also nicknamed the Wolf Pack — scoreless for four minutes... Substitute forward Bennie Bolton had four points in the game and Gary Gannon each scored two points in the North Carolina State led 32-29 at halftime, then moved out to a 49-35 lead before running into its own cold spell... At one point, the Wolfpack went into the minutes without scoring as the Big Sky Conference champion pulled within six points on the outside shooting of guard Rob Harden and the inside work of forward Dwayne Randall... But for a strange reason, Charlie Gannon each scored two points in the game, once on a stuff off a rebound and a third time on an alley-oop on a pass from Gannon.

In mistakes beat CSI at Dixie

GEORGE Utah's College of Southern Idaho gave up four earned runs (12) and six hits in a 7-6 win over the Dixie College Red Sox on Monday.

Leading off the bottom of the fifth, the Eagles put the first two batters on base with errors. Rich Dyk followed with a single, while both reached base on errors, both scored on a single by Brian Fogarty.

ROBERTO Castro led the charging line, but still had to be pointed to hard to beat. But he was more than ready for the pressure when they went to the press.

We lost our leads a little and got the tempo up and back on, but we lost. They got ahead by four or five and I still took too much out of us to get back.

Those mistakes were converted by Mike Chatterton into five bases and one run. Those mistakes were also converted into five bases and one run, moving the lead to 3-0 with a 3-2 blowing on the clock.

"After that, we really hurt ourselves on missed free throws that they got. We capitalized on those for five or six points, and we haven't given that kind of tip up for two months," Astoria said.

Twin Falls trailed by five points going into the fourth quarter, and then fell behind 44-37 when junior center Jeffrey Adams and Brian Elliott threw a pair of passes.

The Rebels added another run in the sixth on a walk and a wild pitch and two passed balls. CSI scored on a pair of hits, followed by a stolen base, a foul out, a stolen base, a foul out, and a single by Kevin Loftus. The Eagles added a single run in the fourth on a walk to Shawn Hamburger, a stolen base and a passed ball, followed by Greg Adalstein's single. In the sixth, CSI picked up a run on a single by Kendall Bennett, a walk by Rich Baker, and a "doublesteal," which scored Bennett.

Ryan Sanders Charlie Carter and Brian Pelters gave up just five hits between them, but the Rebels who added with the wild.

Jerome shot a strong propensity for running. A capable scoring team, Marsh Valley rolled 38 Marinas with a 21-point, first quarter Friday morning.

Snake River 67, Bishop Kelly 54
Coeur d'Alene 46, and slightly reboiled led the Panthers to a semifinal victory over the Knights.

Snake River's Gordon, who has 60 points in his last two tournaments, picked up his fourth foul midway through the third quarter. But the Panthers managed to take the game to the end of three quarters.

South Fremont 47, Valluue 24
Ron Middleton scored 12 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to lead the Cougars to a semifinal victory over the all-time Falcons.

The score was close for most of the first quarter. The Falcons' shooting improved in the second quarter, enabling them to take a six-point 25-19 lead at half.

St. Maries 58, Pocatello 44
Senior guard Brian Merrill continued his hot shooting for Marsh Valley, scoring 23 points to lead the Eagles into the consolation game.

Merrill now has 52 points in two games, after collecting 29 in the Eagles' opening round one-point loss, Junior Bill Hill scored 18 points and GS center Lance Frazier scored 15.

Larry Holmes led it. He knows Friday night that when it is time for him to go, he will be the one to decide it. The crowd seemed to favor Ben early. In the fight, they began to favor Larry. Larry, Larry."

Dallas stays alive in Midwest

DALLAS (AP) - Mark Aguirre scored 22 points to lead the Dallas Mavericks to a 137-108 romp over the Denver Nuggets Friday night in the National Invitation Tournament.

The Mavericks held Denver, the league's highest-scoring team, to 49 points in the first half and led 100-68 after three quarters.

The win moved Dallas, 30-2, to nine games over .500 for the second time in its five-year history.

Dan Issel finished with eight points, giving the 35-year-old veteran 27,300 career points.

BSU coach quits

BOISE (AP) — John Bennett, who has been Boise State University tennis coach for only a few months, is resigning to accept a better coaching job, he says. BSU Athletic Director Gene Blyemeyer said Bennett will become tennis director at Boise's Crane Creek Country Club. Blyemeyer said Bennett will play at Boise State through the upcoming tennis season.

Bennett, a San Diego native and graduate of Brigham Young University, won the Western Athletic Conference championship in 1978 and played the European tennis circuit that year.

Hawaii candidate

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — University of Washington head basketball Coach Marvin Harshman isn't going to invite Jerry Tarkanian of Nevada-Las Vegas to his retirement party.

"Marvin's a fraud because he doesn't tell the truth," Tarkanian said at NCAA West Regional here.

The 67-year-old Harshman, a college coach for 40 years, ended his coaching career Thursday night when his Huskies lost to Kentucky 66-58 in a first-round NCAA tournament game.

Tarkanian spoke out against Harshman when quizzed about his long-standing differences with him.

"How could he make statements like that?" asked Tarkanian, referring to past Harshman criticism of Tarkanian.

In 1980, Harshman coached the U.S. Pan American Games team and later charged that two Nevada-Las Vegas players had showed up waving a credit card with unlimited privileges, claiming it came from Tarkanian.

Tark speaks out

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Weber State basketball Coach Neil McCreary, a leading candidate for the same job at the University of Hawaii, said he would seriously consider taking the position if it is offered.

The Weber coach, who has a record of 200-96 in his 16 years with the Wildcats, was named Wednesday as one of at least four finalists for the position by Hawaii Athletic Director Stan Ghaffar.

Some 70 applicants had sought the job, which became available when head coach Larry Little announced he would resign at the end of the season.

'Votes' lose

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Al Gaskin's free throw and a tip-in by Sammy Echols of his team secured the Bears' streak that helped Athens State, Ala., to a 64-59 victory over ninth-seeded College of Idaho in the first round of the NIAA men's basketball tournament Thursday.

College of Idaho, trailing 33-24 at the half, fought back to a 40-40 tie with 14:34 to play. Gaskin hit his free throw and the Bears zipped off seven straight to lead 47-40 with 12:13 left.

The Coyotes, 23-4, closed twice to within two at 49-47 and 51-49 on baskets by Mark Owen, who led all scorers with 27 points. Teammate Chuck Blackhurst added 18.
