BLM names Twin Falls site for district office

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

BOISE — Twin Falls will be the home of the new Bureau of Land Management central district's headquarters if the proposed BLM-Forest Service interchange announced in January wins congressional approval.

The city would gain a projected 69 employees in the district office and new resource area office if the BLM will open if the 35-million-acre, nationwide interchange is approved.

The new BLM employees will replace the 70 government employees the town will lose from elimination of the Sawtooth National Forest and the supervisor's office and the Twin Falls Ranger District office go with it.

Under the plan, the Sawtooth forest will turn over to the South Hills to the BLM and its remaining three units will merge with the Boise and Challis national forests.

The decision to move the proposed central district office to Twin Falls, announced by Idaho BLM Director Cjair Whitlock Friday morning, prescribes the payroll of between $1.5 million and $2 million the city now draws from Forest Service employees.

Whitlock says he chose Twin Falls for the headquarters of the proposed new district because of its location. He says he likes Twin Falls' proximity to ground and air transportation, regional offices for other federal and state agencies, job markets for employees' spouses and the educational opportunities at the College of Southern Idaho.

However, he says the primary reason for picking Twin Falls is what he sees as a central location from which the head office can serve the new district's resource area offices.

"We see our resource area offices as the primary contact with the public (the agency serves). We look at our district office as the support for the resource offices," Whitlock says.

Twin Falls is centrally located between Burley and Shoshone where two of those resource offices will go, he said.

A third resource office will be located in Twin Falls to serve the South Hills, and the area offices in Burley and Shoshone will replace district offices now in those two towns.

The new district essentially takes in the Shoshone and Burley districts with only minor changes in the eastern boundary of the existing Burley district, says Trude Olson, public information officer for the state BLM office.

The existing Burley District boundary will move west from near Pocatello to about American Falls under the proposed district. The boundary would run south from American Falls to the Utah border, Olson says.

In a deviation from the BLM's normal practice of containing districts within one state, the new central district in Idaho would include a small tract of the existing Sawtooth National Forest in Utah south of the Ralt River, she says.

Bills take effect Without OK of governor

By QUANE KENYON
The Associated Press

BOISE — The Idaho Legislature's major appropriations bills will become law without the approval of Gov. John Evans.

Evans on Friday took action on the last of the bills approved by the Legislature in a 60-day session which ended last week. But he announced he's letting seven measures become law without his signature, most budget bills he considers inadequate.

Evans also vetoed two minor bills. One makes major changes in state investment policies, and the governor says that needs more study.

The second attempted to exempt certain cosmetologists and barbers from unemployment taxes and coverage, a change which Evans said could have cost the state nearly $10 million in federal funds.

The governor scolded the Legislature for passing what he considers inadequate budget bills. But Evans announced earlier in the week he would not veto the budgets, because there's no realistic hope the Legislature would come up with more money.

In the morning, Evans said he was letting the appropriation for the Division of Community Rehabilitation become law without his signature. Evans said it's up only 2.3 percent from last year, and contains nothing to replace aging buildings at state institutions.

Later in the day, the governor gave similar treatment to the public school appropriation bill, $304 million; the higher education budget, $58 million; a $700,000 allocation to cover some of the legal costs associated with the Swan Falls package of water rights agreements and a last-minute bill

Divided board keeps option of hiking student fees

The Associated Press

BOISE — Saddled with a legislative appropriation falling short of what it claims are higher education's minimum and most critical needs, a sharply divided state Board of Education voted Friday to retain the possibility of a 13 percent increase in student fees when it sets budgets for the four state-run colleges next month.

"Obviously, we did not receive enough money from the Legislature to carry out the board package," said member Dennis Wheeler.

Because of that, he said, "We should keep all our options open in handling budgets."

Although the board's 4-3 vote cleared the way for a possible fee increase that would translate into a hike of $30 a semester in the basic full-time student charge; it does not commit the board to actually raising fees in April.

Indications were that imposition of a fee hike beginning with the summer semester would result in an extremely close vote. Although State Schools Superintendent Jerry Evans voted with the majority Friday, he has said he opposes actually increasing fees simply to make up for an inadequate legislative appropriation.

Just a year ago, the board imposed a 37.5 percent increase in the basic fee, raising it to $225 a semester to compensate for a state contribution less than requested.

"It's totally inappropriate to ask students to once more bail out the Legislature and the schools," said Dume Bilyer, who announced she will also oppose any attempt to raise the fee next month. "I do not think they can afford it."

Under the board's decision, a hearing will be held on the plan in mid-April. Wheeler said that the hearing will give students a chance to advise the board about whether they're willing to make up the legislative shortfall or favor the cutbacks that would be necessary should the additional revenue not be generated.

The proposed fee increase, which would come on top of increases requested by the individual schools in other specialty fees paid by students, was prompted by the Legislature's decision to earmark $88 million in state funds for higher education next year. While 11 percent higher than this year's appropriation, the amount remains nearly $1.8 million less than the board said was needed to meet only the most minimal and crucial needs.

Shipments to Cuba, Nicaragua up sharply Soviets increase military aid

By GEORGE GEDDA
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has sought to exploit the recent turmoil in Central America and the Caribbean by giving Nicaragua 20 times more military aid last year than in 1981, a new Reagan administration report says.

Soviet military shipments to Cuba and Nicaragua since 1979 have exceeded what the United States has sent to the rest of Latin America, the report said.

Most of the Soviet aid has been a continuation of its long-time and massive support for Cuba, which, according to the study by the State and Defense departments, received shipments totaling 245,000 tons between 1981 and 1984. Soviet military deliveries to Nicaragua, meanwhile, reached 18,000 tons last year, the report said.

Included in the deliveries to Nicaragua, the report said, were high-performance helicopters capable of penetrating the air space of Nicaragua's three closest neighbors and other equipment required for an "offensive-minded army."

Titled "The Soviet-Cuban Connection in Central America and the Caribbean," the report represented an additional administration effort to underscore what it regards as the growing Marxist threat to the region.

The 45-page document, filled with charts, maps and photographs, is intended primarily as reference material for members of Congress who soon will be voting on a proposal for $14 million in assistance to Nicaraguan rebels, U.S. officials said.

But, at a briefing Friday for reporters, an official denied publica-

Consumer prices, inflation show only moderate gains

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Consumer prices rose a moderate 0.2 percent in February as the sharpest drop in gasoline prices in two years helped offset a jump in food costs, the government reported Friday.

The lingering effects of the January freeze that devastated citrus and vegetable crops in Florida sent food prices up 0.5 percent last month, their steepest gain since last August.

However, the overall inflation rate showed only a modest gain from a 0.2 percent increase in January. So far this year, the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index has risen at an annual rate of 3.3 percent — bettering last year's overall inflation rate of 4 percent.

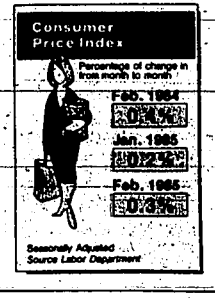

Federal Reserve spokesman Larry Speakes said the report showed that "inflation at the consumer level remains well contained."

Private analysts agreed, predicting that the United States should enjoy its fourth consecutive year of low inflation.

The boost in food costs was paced by a 2.9 percent jump in fruit and vegetable prices, more than double the January increase, as the impact of winter crop damage continued to be felt.

Clothing costs rose a steep 0.9 percent in February, the biggest increase since last August.

Dozen candidates emerge for state's top agriculture post

BOISE (AP) — More than a dozen candidates for the job of state agriculture director have been interviewed, and leaders of farm groups say the Idaho Wheat Commission administrator and a newly retired Nampa farmer are among the top contenders.

A staff selection committee appointed by Gov. John Evans has interviewed 13 or 14 applicants for the job, said Martin Peterson, director of the governor's Division of Financial Management and a member of the search team.

The committee is searching for a successor to Max Hanson, who agreed to an early retirement this month amid criticism of his performance.

"There has been interest expressed in that position by some awfully good people," said Peterson, who declined to confirm any names.

Farm groups questioned by a Boise newspaper mentioned these men as candidates for the Idaho Department of Agriculture directorship:

- Dick Rush, 40; administrator of the Idaho Wheat Commission for the past 7 1/2 years; Rush, a former University of Idaho student body president, previously managed a 6,000-acre farm and livestock business in northern Idaho. He was employed by Boise Cascade Corp. for seven years in the company's container and paper products division.

- Lawrence Gray, 53, Nampa, a potato and sugar beet farmer for 34 years. He sold his equipment this year. Gray is a past chairman of the Agricultural Council of America and serves on a national review board for the U.S. Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service.

- Frank Lundberg, 40, Boise, an agricultural staff assistant to Evans from 1977 to 1980. An Idaho native, Lundberg served on the late Sen. Frank Church's 1980 re-election campaign. He has worked the past three years in Idaho and Colorado as a consultant on agricultural and natural resource issues.
- Harold Collett, 54, Grand View, a livestock and row-crop farmer and national vice commander of the American Legion. Collett is a member of the University of Idaho's agricultural advisory board and served one term as a state senator in the 1960s.

- Larry Reynolds, 47, Moore, a farmer, horse breeder and former Angus breeder active in Democratic Party politics. Reynolds, who ran three times for the Legislature, has served eight years on the Idaho Arts Commission. He worked for four years as a researcher for the University of California Agricultural Extension Service.

- Jim Bell, Burley, controller of a fertilizer company in Rupert who previously worked 16 years with a grain company, seven of those as manager. Bell holds a master's degree in animal sciences.

He was a candidate for the position when Hanson was appointed in November 1979.

The department's acting director, George Neumann, said he isn't interested in the job. Neumann is chief administrator for the Idaho Transportation Department.

Young joyrider charged for theft of car for second time in 4 days

POCATELLO (AP) — A 9-year-old boy with a history of joyriding has been nabbed on his second auto-theft charge in four days, authorities said Friday.

This time, the Pocatello boy and a 9-year-old friend were found sleeping inside a pickup truck shortly after midnight Friday on Interstate 15 near Arimo. The vehicle had run out of gas, said Bannock County Sheriff Shirley Gimeson.

After a deputy awakened them and prepared to read them their rights, the grade schoolers assured the officer they already knew them, Gimeson said.

The two boys were charged with grand theft auto under the Youth Rehabilitation Act and were taken to Ponder County Jail in American Falls, where Bannock County houses its juveniles. They were arraigned in juvenile court Friday afternoon, the sheriff said.

The pickup truck had been stolen from Fashion Auto Sales in Pocatello. Gimeson said the police report did not indicate if the keys had been left in the vehicle.

On Tuesday, the boy with the joyriding background was charged with taking a car from South Main Street in Pocatello and driving it through busy noon-hour traffic before wrecking the vehicle in a parking lot.

The 4-foot, 6-inch youth was charged with grand theft auto and released to his parents, police said.

This is the same 65-pound motorist who, several weeks ago, wrecked two cars inside the fenced compound at an auto dealership and was found sitting in a third car, police said.

He and the other boy arrested Friday also are accused of taking a car from a Pocatello neighborhood earlier this month and leaving the vehicle abandoned on a northwest street.

Is he a good driver?

"I guess so," Gimeson said. "He made it to Arimo, which is probably 25 miles."

Stallings wants comments

WASHINGTON (AP) — More public comment is needed before two federal agencies go ahead with a major change in their land management responsibilities, says Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho.

Stallings said Friday he favors the changes if they result in more efficient management of resources. But he said public hearings must be held as soon as possible.

Changes could eliminate 57 federal jobs, and the federal government should include some sort of retraining or relocation program for those involved, Stallings said.

The federal Bureau of Land Management and U.S. Forest Service have proposed changing management responsibilities for huge tracts of land, some of them in Idaho.

Court evacuated

ST. ANTHONY (AP) — A north side trailer court was evacuated for a couple of hours when a natural gas leak was discovered, St. Anthony police said.

The leak was repaired by Inter-mountain Gas Co. workers and residents of the Kit Trailer Court were allowed to return to their homes.

The leak was reported by a resident at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Heart attacks, strokes in sharp decline

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Heart attack and stroke — two of the most deadly killers in America — are in sharp decline, the government said Friday.

And the third killer, cancer, could be sharply lowered if more people quit smoking.

In an annual report, the Department of Health and Human Services said Americans are living longer and healthier lives, in large part because of changes people already have made in their lifestyles.

Deaths from heart disease — the nation's No. 1 killer — declined by 26 percent between 1970 and 1983, the department said. There were 188.5 deaths for every 100,000 people in 1983, down from 253.6 in 1970 and 307.6 in 1960.

Deaths from stroke have plummeted by 48 percent since 1970, HHS, dropping strokes as a cause of death from its historic No. 3 position to fourth on the list, behind accidents.

The exception among the top killers is cancer, the No. 2 cause of death, which actually has risen since 1960. There were 123.2 deaths per 100,000 people in 1983, slightly down from 133.4 in 1982 but up from 125.4 in 1960.

HHS officials said advances in the treatment and cure of many cancers are offset by the continuing rise in lung cancers and other cancers attributable to smoking.

"The increases in the prevalence of cancer in the United States are almost totally accountable to the use of tobacco," said Dr. James L. Mason, acting assistant secretary for health. "If we eliminate the tobacco factor in the United States, it would be declining and in some cancers it would be level."

Among other health standards, infant mortality continued to decline, though at a slowing pace that worries some.

Life expectancy reached a new high, again; a newborn child can expect to live 74.7 years, compared with 47.3 years for a person born at the turn of the century. And people reaching their 65th birthday in 1983 could expect to live another 16.8 years. In 1970, that figure was 15.2 years.

"Progress is the word that best defines and describes the health status of the American people," HHS Secretary Margaret M. Heckler said in her introduction to the report. "There are, of course, lags and aberrations. We certainly cannot rest on our laurels."

But, she added, "It is clear from the basic health yardsticks that the United States is moving in the right direction."

Dr. Heckler attributed part of lower death rate for heart attacks and strokes to better control of blood pressure, less smoking, better diets and more exercise.

"Self-appraisal can sometimes be deceiving," Mrs. Heckler told a news conference. "But I believe that the nine out of 10 Americans who describe their own health as 'good' or 'excellent' are on target in this instance."

But the report also contained some disquieting statistics.

The infant mortality rate of 10.9 deaths per 1,000 live births, showed a continuing decline from 11.2 in 1982 and from 16.1 in 1975. But the decline came at a far more gradual rate than in past years.

In addition, while the infant mortality rate among whites is 10.5 deaths per 1,000 births, the rate among blacks remains almost double that — 20.8 deaths.

Even with the decline, the United States has only a mediocre rating worldwide based on 1981 figures. Sweden's infant mortality rate is 7.0 deaths per 1,000; Japan's is 7.1; Finland, 7.6; Norway, 8.1; the Netherlands, 8.2.

Of 25 nations listed by HHS, the United States ranks 15th in infant mortality. And the U.S. infant mortality rate remains well shy of the national goal established in 1980 of less than 9 deaths per 1,000 births by 1990.

But Mrs. Heckler said: "I am committed, and this administration is committed, to reaching that 1990 goal."

Created last year is strengthening government strategies for dealing with low birthweight, the main problem associated with early infant deaths, and that review teams will be working with the states.

Ohio S&Ls given go-ahead to open after investigation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — All of Ohio's state-chartered savings and loan associations got the go-ahead Friday to re-open for limited withdrawals pending their attempts to get federal insurance to cover full-service operations.

At the same time, the office of Gov. Richard Celeste announced that seven Ohio institutions that have applied for federal insurance are free to open with each deposit up to $100,000 fully insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Raymond Sawyer, Celeste's chief of staff, and Commerce Director Kenneth R. Cox, made the announcement at a news conference.

Robert B. McAllister — named by the governor earlier Friday as the state's S&L superintendent — introduced himself as "a re-opening czar" and said he plans to get all of the S&Ls back in business within 120 days.

Thomas L. Battles, replaced as acting superintendent by McAllister but retained as legal counsel for the Savings and Loan Division, will work with McAllister in the effort, Sawyer said. Battles described himself and McAllister as "a management team that will work for the best interest of the savings and loans and the depositors."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced late Friday that it had given conditional approval to seven Ohio thrifts — which had been insured by the Ohio Deposit Guarantee Fund — for inclusion in the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. FSILIC insures deposits up to $100,000.

Except for one other Ohio thrift, the seven are the first to be approved since the closing of the Cincinnati-based Home State Savings Bank on March 8, which set off the crisis. Last Friday, the board approved FSILIC insurance for Columbia Savings, whose application was pending for more than a year.

Board spokeswoman Martha Gravlee said the thrifts granted conditional approval are: Gauga Savings of Newbury; Bethel Building and Loan Co. of Bethel; Peoples Building and Savings Co. of Lebanon; Southern Ohio Savings Association of St. Bernard; Williamsburg Building and Loan Co. of Williamsburg; Seven Hills Savings Association of Cincinnati; Versailles Savings and Loan of Versailles.

The problems in Ohio's savings and loan industry arose after the March 4 collapse of FSLM Government Securities Inc., a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., securities firm that was a major lender to Home State and held Home State securities as collateral.

Customers soon began a run on Home State that prompted the thrift to close its doors. When runs were reported at some other Cincinnati-area thrifts, Celeste ordered Ohio's 60 other savings and loans closed.

An emergency law signed Wednesday by Celeste allows the closed institutions to reopen if they apply for federal insurance on deposits, are owned or have agreed to merge with a company already federally insured, or demonstrate to the satisfaction of the state superintendent of savings and loans that the interests of depositors will not be jeopardized.

Since Monday, three of the closed financial institutions have opened to offer full service. The most recent to open was Seloto Savings Association of Columbus, which opened at noon Friday after winning regulatory approval to convert to a federally insured bank.

Garwood: MIAs still in 'Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Marine Pvt. Robert L. Garwood, convicted of collaborating with the enemy during a 14-year stay in Vietnam, said Friday he has given a North Carolina congressman a report that shows other U.S. servicemen may still be alive in Southeast Asia.

"I was not and I am not the last living American in Vietnam," said Garwood, who left the country in 1979.

Garwood also told a news conference he is no longer demanding immunity from prosecution as a condition for discussing his "slightings" of other Americans in Vietnam.

Garwood, who disappeared from his unit in Vietnam in 1965, was held for many years in a prisoner-of-war camp, but did not return to the United States with other POWs in 1973. He was convicted of collaboration in a 1981 court martial but acquitted of desertion.

Late last year, while his appeal of the court martial was pending, he revealed for the first time that as many as 70 Americans remained in captivity when he came home in 1979.

For several months, Garwood and the Defense Department have been negotiating over a grant of immunity from possible further prosecution in return for a full briefing on Garwood's claims.

Garwood told reporters Friday, however, that he is dropping the immunity demand and has turned over a report with maps, names, dates and locations of Americans he saw in Southeast Asia to Rep. William M. Hendon, R-N.C. He would release no other details.

"I have decided to share this information because of its importance, even without the protection of immunity," Garwood said.

Hendon will act as Garwood's intermediary in discussions with the Reagan administration, said Ted McCoy, a spokesman for the National Vietnam Veterans Coalition, which has accused the Defense Department of lacking zeal in its search for possible prisoners of war who might still be held in Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia.

Mexico, U.S. set summit about drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top law enforcement officials of the United States and Mexico agreed Friday to hold a summit this summer aimed at solving drug trafficking problems that have caused friction between the two nations.

In a joint statement, attorneys general Edwin Meese III and Sergio Garcia Ramirez said they had "positive and fruitful" talks about the growing problem, dramatized by the abduction and slaying of American drug agent Enrique Camarena Salazar.

The joint communique, the result of talks involving Meese, Ramirez, their aides and ambassadors from the two countries, said the United States and Mexico "are resolved to overcome" the drug trafficking problem.

However, few concrete steps were revealed.

The two sides did say they would hold the joint law-enforcement summit, and the Mexican authorities agreed to improve communications with American law enforcement officials.

Relations between the two countries have been strained since the slaying of Camarena, whose body was found on a ranch 60 miles east of Guadalupe, Mexico, earlier this month.

Jack Lawi, acting administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, said officials discussed the possibility of American drug agents working with their Mexican counterparts on tracking investigations and stationing some U.S. personnel in Mexico to monitor that country's efforts to eradicate marijuana and poppy fields — as had been done in the past.

The joint statement said the officials discussed many issues, including eradication programs, initiatives to help combat narcotics trafficking, drug-related corruption and the recent murder of DEA Special Agent Camarena.

Shultz: Motion in Mideast isn't yet enough for meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Friday "there is clearly motion in the Middle East toward peace" but not yet an agreement for a U.S. meeting with a joint Palestinian-Jordanian delegation.

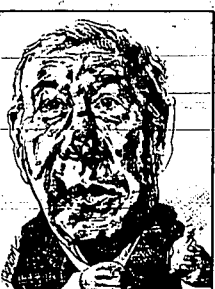

"We do see the ball starting to roll a little bit," Shultz said after his second meeting in two days with Jordanian Foreign Minister Taahir al Masri.

Shultz said a Jordanian-Egyptian proposal for a meeting between the United States and a joint delegation will be considered as a way of advancing Middle East peace prospects.

But he indicated the administration doesn't favor such a meeting in Washington. "Most likely the action is in the Middle East," he said, signaling it could be held there.

Shultz said the next step in the latest round of peace maneuvers will be a visit to the Middle East by Richard W. Murphy, the assistant secretary of state for Middle East affairs, in mid-April.

One State Department official, who insisted on anonymity, said it was possible Murphy would meet during the trip with members of a joint Palestinian-Jordanian delegation. But he said the aim of such a meeting hadn't yet been satisfactorily resolved.

He said if there is a meeting during Murphy's trip, it probably would be in Amman, Jordan.

Shultz told reporters after his meeting with Masri he thought that "there is general agreement that in the pending process there must be Palestinian representation."

"There are legitimate rights of the Palestinians, and if those are to be attended to, you are going to have to have Palestinians in the delegation that does the negotiating," he said.

Masri said earlier that President Reagan's statement of support Thursday for a meeting with moderate Palestinians and Jordanians "is encouraging" but would fall short of Arab aims, which Masri said is U.S. recognition of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"The idea is getting recognition of the United States," Masri said. "It will indicate that the United States has recognized the PLO."

At the White House, meanwhile, spokesman Larry Speakes said Israeli has sent "some mixed signals" on whether it would endorse U.S. talks with a Jordanian-Palestinian group.

"There are some indications that (Israel) would be interested," he said.

Boeing cuts charge for pliers by $658

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last summer, amid report that Boeing was to charge the Air Force $748 for each modified duckbill pliers, the Boeing Military Airplane Co. announced the actual charge would be only $90.

But when the final contract for the pliers and a host of other tools was negotiated last fall, the total value of the contract changed — it remained at $557,500.

Boeing said Friday there was "absolutely nothing understood" the way it handled the contract, nor did it do anything to mislead the Air Force. The Air Force, for its part, said it had succeeded in forcing a major reduction in the contract compared to what was originally proposed.

But the entire affair, disclosed by The Washington Post, has prompted some members of Congress to begin questioning anew the Pentagon's commitment to tightening up its procurement process.

"Dealing with these contracts is like squeezing a balloon — you squeeze it in one place and it pops out in another," said Sen. Charles E. Grassley, R-Iowa. "The moral is, you don't listen to the contractor's word of the Pentagon. You look at the bottom line."

The pliers at issue are part of a larger contract to provide tools for use in repairing airplane engines. The pliers are the standard duckbill type made by Channekoff Inc. of Meadville, Pa., modified with a protective finish and a small notch on the end to make it easier to position a small pin in jet engines.

Envoy kidnapped in Beirut, two other employees missing

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A French diplomat was kidnapped at gunpoint in west Beirut on Friday, and an official at the French Embassy said two other French employees failed to report for work and were feared abducted.

Anonymous telephone calls to Western news agencies in Beirut claimed that a radical organization had taken the diplomat.

Vice Consul Marcel Fontaine, 45, was kidnapped by three men with pistols at a newspaper stand. Marcel Carton, 64, the embassy's protocol officer, and his daughter — Danielle Perez, 34, a secretary at the embassy, never arrived for work.

...bassy, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said, "We are starting to have suspicions that they, too, have been kidnapped."

Claims regarding the kidnappings of Anderson, Nash and Levick, and similar statements regarding the earlier abductions of four other Americans missing from west Beirut also referred to "agents."

Anderson, 37, chief Middle East correspondent for the AP, was kidnapped March 18. Levick, 59, manager of an oil company in Beirut, was abducted March 15. Nash, 60, a metallurgist working for the Lebanese government, was seized March 14.

In addition, a Dutch Roman Catholic priest vanished March 14 in the Bekaa Valley of eastern Lebanon where several Shiite radical groups are headquartered. The Rev. Nicolas Kluiters, 44, from Delft, the Netherlands, a longtime resident of Lebanon, was last seen driving his car not far from Baalbek.

believed made up of Shiite Moslem extremists loyal to Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, also had claimed responsibility for those abductions.

French Embassy spokesman Marcel L'Auges said Carton and Mrs. Perez left their home together at 8:30 a.m. "but they never arrived" at the embassy. Another official at the em-

Guerrillas strike pair of villages

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist guerrillas burned two city halls in undefended towns in war-scarred El Salvador as part of a campaign to disrupt elections later this month, authorities said Friday.

The rebel raids Thursday night were in California, 70 miles east of the capital, and in Tecapan, three miles to the northwest.

Neither town was defended by troops and no injuries were reported in the attacks.

In Tecapan the fire at city hall went out after half an hour, but the rebels returned and set it ablaze again, officials said.

They were the 10th and 11th city halls attacked in less than a month. Most of the municipal headquarters were in small towns not defended by government troops.

Leftist rebels have been fighting for six years to overthrow the U.S.-backed government. The civil war has claimed at least 59,000 lives.

Most of the city halls and telephone installations attacked and burned in recent weeks have been in the eastern third of the country.

Authorities say the attacks are an effort to destroy voter registration records before the legislative and municipal elections scheduled for March 31. Records of the "cooperos," however, are kept at the Central Elections Council in San Salvador.

Passengers given scare

LONDON (AP) — For two heart-pounding minutes, 100 passengers aboard a British Airways flight from Portugal to London prepared for a crash landing in the English Channel on Sunday.

"This is an emergency," announced a taped message over the loudspeaker. "We are going to land on water. Please get your life jackets from under your seats and await further instructions from the crew."

The passengers sat bolt upright. The cabin crew rushed into the aisles to carry out emergency procedures. Then a flight attendant emerged to reassure everyone it was a mistake. She had pushed the wrong button, she said.

Out of more than a dozen tapes from announcing takeoff to selling duty-free alcohol — the attendant had chosen the message to prepare passengers for a ditching, a British Airways spokeswoman explained Friday.

The remainder of the flight from Faro, Portugal, to London's Gatwick Airport proved uneventful.

"It was an unfortunate incident, but there was no panic," said the spokeswoman, who spoke on condition she not be identified.

Marine reportedly beaten in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — An American Marine was reportedly beaten at his Moscow hotel earlier this month, and the U.S. Embassy has filed a formal protest, an embassy source said Friday.

The source, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the 26-year-old Marine was beaten in a side corridor after the Marine left the bar at the Inquist Hotel sometime after midnight.

He said a "couple" of men dragged the Marine from the hotel's main lobby and beat him in a side corridor.

The Marine was not seriously hurt and he has since left Moscow on another assignment, he said. Embassy officials have refused to identify him.

What's what

Half - the - black - Americans - are younger than age 24. Half the Jewish Americans are younger than age 45. To students of statistics, these are significant ratios. In any contest between those two minorities, the Blacks may or may not overcome. It's said, but they'll certainly outnumber.

Am told Communist China has no lawyers, but that the people there police one another so closely that hardly any Innocents ever go to jail.

The original King of Diamonds in a regular deck of cards was supposed to represent Julius Caesar. That's why it's a side view. The only known likeness of Caesar was his profile on a Roman coin. The 52 cards represent 52 weeks of the year, incidentally. And I'm told there are 365 spots on their standard deck to represent the number of a year's days. Don't know, didn't count them.

What first made peanuts so much in demand was their portability. They served as field rations for soldiers. The Civil War, the circus and baseball - these three popularized peanuts.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly a day for you to get into whatever Saturday pursuits face you, that require a considerable amount of running about or that are of a manual nature.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A myriad of personal matters requires your attention so get at them early. Sneeze clear of a tricky individual.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Put aside other matters and clear up all those personal affairs that need your attention. Help one who is disabled.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day to visit good friends and be happy with them, but be sure to take care of that obligation in the evening.

MOON-CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can handle outside affairs very well during the day, but steer clear of an irate associate in the evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) The day is fine for making new contacts and friends, but the evening is best spent at home. Take necessary health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Fine day for making collections and paying bills that are pressing. Try to please the one you love without spending too much money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Talks in the outside world can produce fine results today, even if others seem impatient. Follow their advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to consider those tasks that you have neglected to do and to get at them enthusiastically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be off to amusements you like early so that you get relief from tensions. Later, handle regular chores.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to handle family affairs and have everything working efficiently at your abode. Later, invite guests in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have many errands and calls to make, so get an early start on them, since you have little time during work days.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Plan just how you can have a greater abundance in the future by using more modern methods. Consult a financial expert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very alert to whatever is happening, so be sure to give as fine an education as possible, since your progeny can accomplish a great deal in life. This child will have an unusual kind of life and is able to surmount anything.

Penn State artificial heart will be used as interim implant

Dr. William Pierce displays a new artificial heart AP/Laurephoto

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The newly approved Pennsylvania State University artificial heart will be used only as a temporary life-saving measure partly because the university does not have the money or the staff for a permanent artificial heart program, officials said Friday.

The decision also reflects the belief that artificial hearts driven by external air compressors are not as good as the self-contained electrical hearts that may appear within the decade, officials said Friday.

Dr. William Pierce, director of the artificial heart program at Penn State's Hershey Medical Center, last week, Pierce became the second surgeon authorized to implant an artificial heart, and he almost did so last weekend, he said Friday at a press briefing.

At the last minute, however, the patient, whose name was not disclosed, was able to get a heart transplant, Pierce said.

The Penn State heart incorporates improvements in design that would make it work well as a permanent artificial heart, Pierce said.

"Ours is not a temporary heart. The heart will be used for interim or temporary support or as a bridge to transplantation," said Pierce.

But if some artificial heart patients develop complications that make them unfit for subsequent heart transplants, Pierce said, "We are prepared to continue the use of the artificial heart."

The concern over funding the Penn State artificial heart program provides a strong contrast with the artificial heart program at the Humana Heart Institute International in Louisville, Ky.

Humana, Inc., a for-profit company that operates about 90 hospitals around the world, lured artificial heart surgeon Dr. William DeVries from the University of Utah with a promise of up to $25 million to pay for 100 artificial heart implants.

Hershey officials said that their charge for a heart transplant is about $75,000, and that the only additional charge for the temporary artificial heart would be the hospital intensive care charges of between $1,000 and $1,500 per day while the patient awaited a heart transplant.

The officials said, however, that with both heart transplants and artificial heart implants they must recover their fees either from the patients or from their insurance companies, some of which now cover heart transplants.

Patients who are not insured will be required to make a deposit of $15,000 or 20 percent of the anticipated cost of the procedure before they are accepted for transplants or implants, said Howard Peterson, director of the hospital.

The approval by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration of six experimental implants of the Penn State heart marks the latest step in a 15-year research program.

Clark remembered as contributor to medicine

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Two years after Barney Clark's death, his widow remembers the first permanent artificial heart recipient as an "ordinary human being with a desire to accomplish something to help people," while his doctor credits his "immense contribution" to the burgeoning field.

The Seattle-area dentist lapsed into a coma and died March 23, 1983, at the University of Utah Medical Center after 112 days on the plastic pump.

In the intervening years, Uta Loy Clark has taken an avid interest in the others who have followed in her husband's pioneering footsteps. She has written letters of encouragement to the wives of William Schroeder and Murray Haydon, the second and third recipients of the Jarvik-7 heart.

"Because my husband was the first one, I feel an obligation, a responsibility somehow," Mrs. Clark said in a telephone interview from her Des Moines, Wash., home. "I have really felt, rather badly, that I haven't been able to be closer to these women and help them in what they are going through."

"I just wanted to let them know I cared."

Though it brought bitter-sweet memories, Mrs. Clark said she was glad when the 53-year-old Schroeder surpassed her husband's record of life on the air-driven heart on March 17.

"Of course I would have liked him to live longer. To have him with me," she said. But progress "cannot happen unless other patients surpass my husband's record."

"More than time has passed since Clark's death. Gone, too, is the University of Utah's prominence as an artificial heart center. Dr. William C. DeVries, who implanted the polyurethane heart into Clark's chest Dec. 2, 1982, left Utah last year for Humana Hospital Audubon in Louisville, Ky."

The progress began with the 62-year-old Clark's sacrifice, said DeVries, who said he became a friend during hundreds of hours at his bedside.

Barney Clark was a unique individual," DeVries said. "I just feel he made an immense contribution to the understanding of this whole area of technology."

Mrs. Clark, 63, now national campaign chairwoman for the American Heart Association, said she would take time Saturday to look back.

"All anniversaries are a little more meaningful, feelings are intensified," she said.

What she will remember most is that her husband, near death from degenerative heart disease, felt it was his duty to volunteer for the operation.

"He was very sick and he was aware of this. He certainly didn't volunteer with any great expectation of personal benefit," she said.

"He was just a common, ordinary human being with a desire to mean something to other people as he passed through this life."

Two teens arrested for bombing threat

BOISE (AP) — Two high school sophomores who police say wanted to give classmates a day off during term finals week have been arrested and charged in connection with the bomb scare that forced evacuation of both high schools earlier this week. Police Chief James Montgomery announced Friday.

"Our legal staff is also researching and putting together information, and we are anticipating or at least contemplating filing a civil suit against the parents to recover damages and all the costs" for responding to the bomb scare.

The two boys, one 15 and the other 16, have been released to their parents pending further legal proceedings. Montgomery said felony charges would be filed in both cases. The boys' names were withheld because of their juvenile status.

Detective Kurt McAllister said the 15-year-old boy had made and concealed other bombs using information from a book, masterminded the incident, in which a crude explosive device was placed in an empty third-floor locker at the school Tuesday morning. The second teenager served as a lookout for the first and then drove him to a nearby market where he anonymously telephoned school administrators to advise them a bomb had been planted in the school.

The device was safely defused after the school was evacuated about mid-morning and classes canceled for the rest of the day. A search for a second bomb the boy alleged he planted failed to turn up any additional explosives.

Describing the youth as having above average intelligence and no criminal history, McAllister said, "It was determined that he planned to do this several days in advance. He alone made the device and planted it."

He said the boy had apparently phoned in a bomb threat to the school two weeks earlier but it did not result in any disruption of activity. McAllister said the youths apparently decided to plant a real device this time because they believed a phony bomb would not result in cancellation of classes.

McAllister credited the teenagers' arrests to help from the other students at the school.

Hydroelectric project high on Elk River list

MOSCOW (AP) — A second proposal to place a hydroelectric facility near Elk River has surfaced from the same people who have vigorously opposed such a plant at the nearby Elk Creek Falls.

The proposal, part of a plan to increase the size of Elk Creek Reservoir by as much as 300 percent, was suggested Thursday during a meeting of the Elk River Task Force, which was established by Gov. John Evans to develop a strategy to revive the community's shaky timber-based economy.

Elk River Chamber of Commerce President John Edson said the proposal is still preliminary.

But the facility would not diminish flows over Elk Creek Falls, he said, because a constant water level in the reservoir would be maintained.

Diminished flows over the falls has been a major criticism voiced by Edson and other Elk River residents of the proposed Elk Creek Falls hydroelectric project. Hy-Tech Inc. of Lewiston, has applied for a license from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to construct the plant.

Nor would the project diminish flows to the proposed Hy-Tech project, Edson said.

"This is a completely preliminary proposal and as far as I can tell, there wouldn't be any effect," he said.

Fort Boise replica planned

PARMA (AP) — One hundred dollars here and $200 there has fueled the efforts of a small group of Parma residents intent on building a replica of Old Fort Boise.

Collection of money began 16 years ago and construction has been in progress about three years.

"I hope we can finish it," says Lucille Peterson, a member of the Old Fort Boise Historical Society.

But the money gathered through bake sales and other fundraisers is just about gone, and the group needs another $10,000 to finish the work, she said.

"I don't know what will happen when we run out, but we decided a long time ago not to bail back for lack of money," Ms. Peterson says. "We'll just keep plugging along."

Working since 1963, the society of about 25 people has raised $43,000 to build a copy of the fort, which Ms. Peterson says was a Hudson's Bay Co. trading post built in 1824 along the Snake River, near what is now Parma.

BLM decision wise to some, error to others

By Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — To Twin Falls Mayor Emery Petersen, the Bureau of Land Management's decision to locate its proposed new regional office in his city is a "wise decision."

But in city officials in the two Magic Valley cities that lost out in the three-way race for the office, Idaho BLM Director Mike Whitlock's decision is a profound mistake for the federal agency.

And for city fathers in Shoshone, the decision not to locate the facility in the Lincoln County community represents another blow to an already depressed local economy. Bob Lewin, president of the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce, says he'll fight the decision.

"We already have 50 houses for sale in Shoshone," he said. "Moving another 10 to 15 families out of town from the existing BLM facility will add to the glut of housing and hurt area merchants and the local school district, he said.

"We're beyond disappointment. I don't believe we'll rest at that. It still has to go through Congress," Lewin said, adding that he plans to correspond with U.S. senators and representatives in an effort to show them the folly of the plan.

Lewin said the agency could use its existing Shoshone facility to house the new office at no significant additional cost. By comparison, the move to Twin Falls will entail the construction, purchase or lease of a new facility, Lewin says, adding he doesn't consider that a prudent purchase for a debt- and defunct-ridden federal government.

Shoshone Mayor Reid Newby concurs. "I think the taxpayer's getting a ripoff," Petersen disagrees. "I think it is a wise decision. Twin Falls has more to offer (the BLM's) employees and their dependents than the other cities being considered," he said.

Petersen said he wrote to the BLM to point out the benefits of placing the BLM office close to the College of Southern Idaho, the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, and a large public school district.

"I hope my nice little letter to them had some effect," Petersen said.

Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce president Barney Carlson said Twin Falls was the logical choice for the BLM, "when you consider all the attributes it has to offer."

"This lessens somewhat of the economic impact of losing the Forest Service office," said Carlson. He said the Chamber looks forward to working with the BLM to help them move into town.

In Burley, two members of the city council reacted angrily to the decision that their city will lose its BLM district office if the proposed land exchange between the bureau and Forest Service takes place.

"My reaction is that it was made a mistake," said Councilman Truman Bradley. "We think it would be terrible to move that facility out of Burley," he said.

"We're bitterly disappointed," says Garth Payne, also a councilman in Burley, about the decision that will take a large portion of an estimated $1 million payroll from the city if the U.S. Congress enacts the interchange.

"I'm sure the people of Shoshone feel the same way, but we feel that geographically, Burley had more to offer," Payne says.

Whitlock says the reasons for choosing Twin Falls for the new central district office are weak. They added that Burley had as much or more to offer the district and its staff as Twin Falls.

Whitlock's reason for choosing Twin Falls were a central proximity to the district's resource area offices and other state and federal agencies in Twin Falls. It offers easy access to ground and air transportation routes, and less of a disruption to BLM and Forest Service employees when the change occurs.

For his part, Whitlock says the decision was difficult. "Overall, it was a fairly close call, but not so close that it was a loss-up, says Bradley, who worked for the Burley District early in his career.

"I had to overcome some of my own biases and look at the interest of the agency in the long-term and the short-term," he says.

However, the city representatives say the BLM will lose more money in ground travel than it will save in air travel by not having the office in Burley because of its central location.

Bradley also says a move to Twin Falls would do greater harm to Burley than good for Twin Falls.

Elise Shaw's car fell victim to a pothole on Grand Avenue and Hillside Street.

Not a black hole

But the city's potholes are coming close

TWIN FALLS — The cold, snowy weather may be an ally in the city's fight to close potholes, but it's not helping the city's budget. About all the city crews can do now is put gravel in them, says city engineer Robert Hildreth.

"Water from frost that reaches as far as three feet into the ground is slowly melting and seeping into the potholes," Hildreth says. "The water pumps up water and creates the holes."

Hildreth says the city had a similar, but less severe problem two years ago. "City crews are clearing away the chunks of blacktop that would obstruct traffic, but they can't get them out by the mud holes," some deep enough to sink the ground warms up at the end of May or in early

Most of the streets named for presidents have problems with mud holes this spring, he says. San Lario Avenue, Sunrise Boulevard, Highway East and Alhambra Drive are among the streets with particularly bad holes, he says.

Shaw tells an officer how she sank into the street.

Voting signup confused

By ANNETTE CARY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It is too late to make registration for the April 23 swimming pool bond election in Twin Falls less confusing, but by the time Nov. 5 city council elections are here, city registration rolls may be combined with general rolls.

Now, voting in a city election requires a separate registration made through city hall. That has caught many city residents by surprise at the polls when they learned too late that registration for general elections of city state and national officials, did not occur in a city election.

After the last bond election for a swimming pool in August, the Twin Falls City Council passed a resolution saying that "registration for general elections shall be sufficient registration for elections of the city of Twin Falls and vice versa."

The city failed to follow up the resolution then, however, beyond sending copies of the resolution to the county.

New Councilman Gale Kleinkopf says he plans to meet with county officials on the matter. Erik Andersen will also be working on the project, says Mayor Emery Petersen.

Because lists of both county and city registrations are on computers, merging the lists should eliminate the need for double registration for city residents, Kleinkopf says.

"It should be simple to codify and merge the two (computer lists) together," he says. "It's a reasonable, logical thing to do."

The city does not yet know how much hiring someone to merge the lists would cost, he says.

Idaho low on vaccine

By DEANS MILLER Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — With only one drug company now making whooping cough vaccine, the State of Idaho is low on vaccine supplies, but has not yet had to deny vaccination and boosters to Idaho children, says Twin Falls pediatrician Ben Katz.

The American Academy of Pediatrics stopped making whooping cough vaccine because the risk of lawsuits for damages to children by the vaccine was too great, Katz says.

Now, only Lederle Laboratories of Wayne, N.J., makes the vaccination, and the nation's pediatricians are scrambling to keep a ready supply on hand until Lederle can increase production of the vaccine.

In Idaho, state law requires all school children to be vaccinated against whooping cough, says Katz.

Whooping cough vaccine (diphtheria, tetanus, and pertussis vaccine) has been known to cause encephalitis in one of 300,000 children vaccinated, says Katz. Encephalitis can cause brain damage or death, he says.

Katz says these rare reactions are a factor in any vaccination program, because there are always individuals who have idiosyncratic reactions to vaccinations.

"There is no drug on the market that doesn't have the possibility of reaction," he says.

While the supply is tight, doctors are emphasizing vaccination of infants, who are most at risk if they catch whooping cough. Booster shots for 15-month-old children and those 4-6 years old are being deferred to ensure adequate supplies for infants, he says.

Boy Scouts' request to divide land for sale to LDS church is denied

By PAT MARCANTONIO Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A request by the Snake River Area Boy Scout Council to divide a parcel of land for sale to the Mormon Church was denied last week by the Twin Falls County Zoning Board.

The council wanted to split 2.5 acres from a 40-acre parcel, located two miles east of Blue Lakes Boulevard on Falls Avenue. The smaller parcel would be sold to the Mormon Church.

The land was located in an agricultural zone and in the city of Twin Falls area of impact.

A new church was needed and the scout property was a good site, said Del Traveller of Twin Falls, a church representative, at the board's meeting last Thursday. More than 500 Mormons lived in the immediate area.

Shindler, who also represented the church, said several sub-divisions already were located in the area.

About half a dozen other people testified in favor of the division. One person wrote an objection, questioning the potential traffic problems.

Twin Falls City Manager Tom Courtney said if the division was approved by the county, the church would have to seek the permission of the city to construct a church building in the agricultural zone of the impact area. The agricultural zone was intended to preserve the rural integrity of the area adjacent to the city.

Courtney wrote that the city council decided the sale would be a good use of the land, and as well enhance the neighborhood and value of its property. The money from the sale would subsidize the scout program.

Some members of the zoning board, however, opposed the division because they said they did want to

CSI sets retrofit bids

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees Thursday accepted the bid of Eco Pipe America, Inc. of Joliet, Ill. for geothermal retrofitting materials for the college's heating system.

Eco's bid, for $35,691 was the lowest of three bids received, according to CSI business manager, Karl Black.

Physical plant director Robert McManaman said Thursday CSI staff will handle most of the work, which is why the bid was for materials only.

College crews will install insulated pipe from the well water chiller near the Shields building to the Taylor Administration Building, where hot well water will replace hot water from an electric boiler, McManaman says.

Materials bid on were insulated pipe, valves and heat-exchanging coils, he said.

McManaman says the electrical boiler will be kept for use as a stand-by. The materials for the project are scheduled to arrive next May 7 and the project will start shortly thereafter, he said.

CSI President Gerald Meyerhoefter says half of the project is paid for by a U.S. Department of Energy grant. The Shields building on the CSI campus was retrofitted two years ago to take advantage of the college's wells and an earlier DOE grant, he says.

Meyerhoefter says the recent drop in pressure in CSI's wells and wells around the area that tap into the Snake River geothermal aquifer do not affect the outcome of the project.

Even if the college has to pump the hot water from the aquifer, the college will still save money on energy costs, he says.

Groups back off on Rep. Scott recall

By DEAN S. MILLER Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls, may not face a recall vote, despite recent threats by Twin Falls day-care operators.

Local day-care operators have gathered the necessary signatures to request from the Secretary of State the initial recall petition, but are not moving ahead, says Rob Black a member of the Magic Valley Day Care Association.

"We think we're going to hold off," he said Friday. "We're just going to sit tight. We have enough signatures, but we don't want to incur any expense to the taxpayers," says Black.

Black says the group is waiting to see if a referendum or initiative petition drive will materialize to place day-care licensing in the hands of the voters.

Day-care operators in Twin Falls will decide whether to push for a recall of Scott at its April 15 meeting. "What we're trying to do is just kind of see what our members . . . are feeling about it," McClellan said Friday.

McClellan said the referendum or initiative drive was being organized in Boise by Sharon Bixby, who heads a statewide association for the education of young children. Bixby said Friday evening she had mentioned the possibility of such a referendum or initiative, but that there has been nothing further said or done since the legislature adjourned.

Day-care operators in Twin Falls announced last week they would seek a recall vote to oust Scott from office because she had ignored their suggestion that day-care licensing authority be given to the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare.

Shannon Corson, the head of the Idaho Day Care Association, said Friday evening the threat of a recall vote has changed their minds. "They had done what they wanted to do, which was to put her on the spot," Corson said.

Scott is responsible for the failure of day-care licensing legislation in the Idaho Legislature, said Corson.

"I was only one vote of 43," Scott said Friday evening. "There's a lot of people out there who don't want anything . . . I can't change their minds, but I had them on my side." Scott had proposed a bill to give local cities and counties day care licensing authority.

Scott said the major difference between the day-care licensing bills in the Legislature this session was what bureaucracy would have licensing authority. She said in the next session she may seek a bill that would require a police background check only.

REP. DONNA SCOTT Blamed in day-care bills

Ketchum man sought in drug ring

BOISE (AP) — A Ketchum man accused of dealing in drugs for a nationwide cocaine ring is being sought by federal authorities.

Jorge Maurtua, 30, is among 81 people named in a federal indictment made public in San Diego, Calif. this week, said Gary Latorno, an FBI agent there.

Latorno said the government has charged Maurtua with "selling cocaine in the Ketchum-Sun Valley area for a drug ring broken up this week, that is believed to have controlled up to 25 percent of the cocaine entering the United States.

The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration says the ring accounted for 12 tons to 24 tons of cocaine entering the United States annually.

District court

The following civil cases were filed this past week in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls:

- Teller Construction Co., Inc. vs. Gary Fortner dba Fortner Construction, Home Plumbing and Heating Co., Inc., and Alfred Pridley. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of the failure of the defendant to follow plans and specifications and the careless conduct of the defendant, the water pipes broke flooding government and residential property. The plaintiff asks for a judgment in the amount of $18,587, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.
- Ronnie L. Watson vs. Carol E. Clough, Gary Lee Atkinson, A-1 Cab and John Doe ABC. The plaintiff claims that due to the negligent conduct of the defendant a collision resulted causing serious injury to the plaintiff. The plaintiff asks for general damages for personal injury to the amount of $40,000, for costs of medical, hospital and rehabilitative expenses, for lost wages, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.
- Kenneth and Patricia Farrand vs. Thomas P. Hamilton. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of the negligence of the defendant and subsequent collision the defendant has sustained serious injury. The plaintiff asks for general damages for personal injury of $200,000, costs of medical, hospital and rehabilitative expenses, for lost wages, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.
- Virgil H. McCray and Esther C. McCray vs. Angus D. and Leona Twitchell. The plaintiff seeks to recover money due and owing on a promissory note. The plaintiff asks for the sum of $11,416 plus interest, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.
- Henrietta Hilda Koolstra vs. John and Tina Folsking. The plaintiff alleges the defendant used milking equipment belonging to the plaintiff, without express permission of the plaintiff. The plaintiff asks for the return of the equipment, for the purchase of plaintiff's equipment previously agreed upon, for destruction, for a speedy trial, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Vern and Genevieve Rachel Heath vs. Gerald Dean Sherrill and Ronald and Jill Layton. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of an accident due to the negligence of the defendant the plaintiffs have suffered irreparable and permanent physical injury and property damage. The plaintiff asks for the sum of $10,000 special damages, $25,000 general damages, $30,000 punitive damages, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

W. Bert Brown vs. Curtis D. Brenden and Jacob William Hoogland, dba Hoogland-Brenden Dairy and Roland Kim Hutchison. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of the defendants negligence the plaintiff's vehicle collided with the defendant's vehicle causing severe and permanent injury to the plaintiff. The plaintiff seeks special damages of $15,810, general damages of $150,000, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Richard Lee Baker, dba Baker, Richard Lee Baker as Guardian Ad Litem for Candia Baker and Angelina Baker, minors. The plaintiff alleges the defendant has breached a contract and seeks damages in the amount of $63,217 plus interest, punitive damages in an amount to be proved at trial, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Filer school eyes additional period

FILER — The classes at Filer High School may grow from six to seven periods a day in September.

At the Filer School Board meeting this week Superintendent Shelton Kovarsky proposed adding a seventh class to help fulfill the state Department of Education requirements for Excellence in Education and to avoid the necessity of hiring extra part-time teachers.

Since the state is more stringent as to which subjects a student must take for credits and requires more courses, Kovarsky said an extra class will give students a greater choice of combining required classes with electives.

In seven period day will also alleviate the need to hire a part-time English teacher and social studies teacher at the high school because more classes will be taught by regular teachers.

In addition, many teachers who already teach six periods a day can use the time allotted for a seventh class as a planning period, he said.

If the seven period proposal is adopted, the superintendent said it will only add a total of 10 minutes to add to the school day by starting first period classes ending 10 minutes later and cutting time from each existing class.

However, the additional period will mean that the graduation requirements for students will have to be increased, he said.

The building senate, composed of high school teachers' representatives, has already approved the seven period day and the school board is expected to vote on the proposal at next month's meeting.

Vaccine

Parents, whooping cough is a life-threatening disease, while for other children it is "a darn nuisance" that lasts a miserable two weeks, Katz says.

Katz, who is the alternate president of the Idaho Academy of Pediatrics, says Congress is now considering the National Vaccination Injury Compensation Law, which would use public funds to pay damages to families of children whose idiosyncratic reaction to the whooping cough vaccine caused injury or death.

They would be an alternative to stopping the vaccination program altogether. He says the English government stopped requiring whooping cough vaccines and within 16 months had a number of epidemic outbreaks of whooping cough.

More children suffered from whooping cough and died of whooping cough in that time than whooping cough from idiosyncratic reactions to whooping cough vaccine, says Katz. He says England has decided to vaccinate children for whooping cough again.

Meanwhile, Idaho pediatricians and regional health departments are ordering the vaccine more often and receiving fractions of what they order while they wait for the supply out of Lederle to increase.

Independent nuns' corps breaks away

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

With official ranks of Roman Catholic nuns thinning and some of them under a Vatican cloud, a flourishing, independent corps of nuns is flourishing and setting a new pattern of religious vocation.

It also has offered a welcome to any of the 24 nuns now facing a Vatican ultimatum and who can't in good conscience comply with it. There was some speculation, however, that the ultimatum may be quietly dropped.

Whatever the outcome, "we wanted to assure them of an alternative for continuing their sisterhood," says Sister Lilliana Kopp, founding catalyst of the nationwide Sisters for Christian Community.

As a non-canonical company of sisters, it has chosen not to apply for Vatican approval. However, 90 percent of its current 600 members previously belonged to canonical orders, having left in the recent tide shrinking them.

"The new group is growing steadily," says Sister Kopp of the new group, "and is the result of overall decline of regular communities of nuns. It's the fastest growing sisterhood in the world."

Sister Kopp, widely esteemed among U.S. nuns generally as indicated in her being elected current president of the National Coalition of American Nuns, says the new group is forging a reformed style of religious life.

"That's why the former canonical sisters want to be a part of this pioneering effort," she said in a telephone interview. "They see something going on here that makes them newly enthusiastic about Christian ministry."

"Even bishops see that probably the pattern in the future for the sisters who will be very much like the Sisters for Christian Community."

With its members spread across the country, supporting themselves in various service tasks, they continue disciplines of "poverty, service and celibacy," substituting "service" for the standard "obedience" in canonical orders.

"They didn't leave their former communities because they didn't like religious life or in alienation from them, but with a great deal of love and affection for them," Sister Kopp said.

"They simply wanted more room for initiatives and innovation in their ministries in line with Vatican II," she added, referring to the reforming Second Vatican Council of 1962-65.

"Their relationship with their former communities are excellent," she said.

She herself left a canonical order, the Sisters of the Holy Name of Jesus and Mary. On receiving her dispensation from the Vatican, she and a handful of other former canonical nuns launched the new community in 1970.

"Now numbering about 600, it is growing at the rate of more than 30 a year," she said. "Some of some nuns holding dual membership in it and also in canonical orders."

Overall, the total U.S. nuns in canonical orders has dropped about 63,000 since 1966 to the present 118,000.

Twenty-four who signed a recent statement in the midst of the last presidential campaign questioning church condemnation of all abortions have been ordered by the Vatican to recant or be expelled from their orders.

The superiors of their orders have delayed taking such action against the 24, writing to the Vatican about it.

Sister Kopp, who as head of the 2,000-member National Coalition of American Nuns keeps in touch with the situation regarding the 24, said she thinks the ultimatum may "fade quietly into oblivion."

Now that the Vatican realizes the strong reaction to it, and that it could precipitate a crisis among sisters, she said, she thinks it may be allowed to die a quiet death.

Noting that after Vatican II, the late Pope Paul VI directed sisterhoods of the world to "renew and update" their communities, recognizing new church goals of "collectivity" (collective governance) and "subsidiarity" (leaving functions best carried out at lower levels up to them), she said:

"There are tensions in Rome between those who uphold this updated need for freedoms and very conservative bishops who wish Vatican II had never happened. They're now trying to push the church back to its old policies."

The non-canonical sisters work in a variety of fields — teachers, nurses, social workers, doctors.

HELEN HAMILTON Top Presbyterian officer JANE SHEPARD Back from Soviet mission

Women church leaders set to speak to gathering

TWIN FALLS — National United Presbyterian Women officer Helen Hamilton and Christian Women United national officer Jane Shepard will speak at the Ecumenical Assembly of Christian Women United next month.

The assembly begins April 12 at 9 a.m. and will end April 13 at 2:30 p.m.

Hamilton and Shepard have both been on peace missions to the Soviet Union. Other featured speakers are the Rev. Bill Taylor of St. Jerome's Catholic Church in Jerome, who has just returned from Nicaragua. Donna Boe, who served the elections in Nicaragua last fall, will also speak at the Assembly.

Planned discussions include: "Medical Ethics," "The Migrant Community," "Negotiation," "Child Spirituality," "Developing Listening Skills," and "Loneliness."

Registration before March 29 costs $20 and covers meals and host housing. If desired, registration for Friday only is $15, and for Saturday only, $10. Child care is available.

Men are welcome to attend. For information, contact Shirley Harris, 1543 Poplar Ave., Twin Falls.

Pope, Jews skip meet

UTRECHT, Netherlands (AP) — Jewish leaders and Roman Catholic Church representatives "mutually agreed" Friday to cancel a planned meeting between Dutch Jews and Pope John Paul II when he visits the Netherlands in May, a Jewish community spokesman confirmed.

"We were frankly notified that the Vatican cannot agree with our conditions," said Maurits Goudekot, a member of the delegation that met Friday with Archbishop Adrianus Simons in Utrecht.

Goudekot, who represents the organization of Liberal-Religious Jews in the Netherlands, said Dutch Jews objected to a meeting with the pope because of the Vatican's position regarding Israel — and its alleged World War II policies toward Jews.

Dutch Jews had stipulated that their representatives would only meet with the pope if he would "speak about the state of Israel as a fact" and "express the guilt feelings of the Catholic Church before and during World War II and the period of the Holocaust," according to Goudekot.

The Vatican has never officially recognized the existence of the state of Israel and has never had diplomatic relations with it.

Goudekot charged that "the attitude of the church during the centuries has laid the groundwork for what happened in the Holocaust."

In a lengthy committee on Friday, the Catholic Archdiocese headquarters in Utrecht said the issue had "ignited unexpectedly intense emotions among the Jewish community in

Takeover bids generate some interest

By COTTEN TIMBERLAKE
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Stock prices Friday showed a dull trading day. The only stocks that attracted any real interest were targets of takeover speculation: ITT, CBS and Sperry.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks edged down 7.1 to 2,874.5.

Losers took a 4-to-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

A volume leader was ITT up 1 1/2 to $57.4. Timmons had ITT Minneapolis financier Irwin Jacobs, who holds a stake in the company, is seeking its partial liquidation.

CBS was up 3/4 to 108 3/4. Investor Ivan Boesky reportedly has bought a $240 million block of stock in CBS, amounting to 7 percent to 8 percent of the company's shares.

John Guenther, a spokesman for Boesky, declined to comment on the report.

CBS spokeswoman Anne Luzzatto said "I'm not aware of any unusual accumulation of our stock greater than 5 percent." But she added that CBS was determined to remain independent and fight any takeover bid.

Sperry rose 3/4 to 50. The company issued a statement saying it isn't negotiating or discussing any prospective takeover or merger.

McGraw-Edison jumped 1/2 to 55 1/2. The company said it has agreed in principle for Firstman Little & Co. to buy McGraw-Edison.

Jim Novy, a McGraw-Edison spokesman, said the price was $59 per share in cash. The total value of the transaction based on McGraw-Edison's shares and debt to be assumed or refinanced is about $1.3 billion, the company said in a statement.

Sterling Drug was up 1 to 33 1/2. IBM fell 1 to 127 3/4. After the market closed, the company said its first-quarter results will be below those of a year earlier.

Big Board volume totalled 69.25 million shares, against 65.93 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index fell 0.20 to 103.65.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 0.10 to 224.90.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totalled 122.23 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial fell 0.33 to 198.73, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was down 0.31 to 179.04.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 278.91, down 0.12.

VA boosts rates to 13 on mortgages

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced Friday it is raising the maximum interest rate on federally backed Veterans Administration mortgages from 12.5 percent to 13 percent.

The VA said the increase, the first since last May, will take effect Monday. The new 13 percent rate will apply to single-family home mortgages guaranteed by the VA.

The agency said it will also raise rates on government guaranteed payment loans, from 12 1/2 percent to 13.25 percent, and on home improvement loans, from 14 percent to 14.5 percent.

VA Administrator Harry N. Walters said the hike in the mortgage rate ceiling was made necessary by rising interest rates.

The VA also raised its ceiling on mortgage rates to May 29.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"It is not best that we should all think alike, it is difference of opinion which makes horse races."
—Mark Twain

The International Bridge Press Association has chosen a clear winner for its annual Charles Solomon-Award for the best-played hand of 1983. The winner is Zia Mahmood of Pakistan, who played his winning start at the 1983 World Championships (Berruda Bowl).

North's two-diamond response was artificial and negative, and East's double showed values and length in the suit. After West had doubled four clubs for penalties, North's five-club bid was a cue-bid in support of hearts.

Zia placed the spade queen and the club king in the West hand soon after seeing dummy. East had shown diamonds but had failed to open the bidding. West had doubled four clubs and had shown some interest in the bidding.

Zia knocked his judgment and played quickly. He ruffed the opening diamond lead and ruffed a club in dummy. A second diamond was ruffed and a second club was ruffed in dummy. He led a spade back to the ace in his hand and ruffed a third club in dummy, setting the stage for an end play on West.

Zia led a spade back to his king, drew trumps and played his low spade to put West on lead. Because West had nothing left but clubs, his forced lead into South's A-Q gave South his vital 12th trick.

Farmer applies to coach ISU

POCATELLO (AP) — Former UCLA basketball Coach Larry Farmer is among nearly 50 applicants for a vacant Idaho State University head basketball coaching position, school officials say.

Farmer said he called Idaho State Athletic Director Bob Casiano because of the opening and Casiano suggested that Farmer send in a resume.

"We discussed my interest to get back into coaching," Farmer said. "He said if I were interested, to send a resume, and that's all I've done. I can't say more than that.

"I don't know if there's any formal application," Farmer said. "I've been to Pocatello many times. I like the area, the outdoors and the challenge."

Farmer said the position with the Big Sky Conference university interests him, even though he is a successful coach from one of the nation's most prestigious programs.

"If you love what you do, you'd do it anywhere," Farmer said. "What I want to do is coach and coach where there's a challenge."

Another reason Farmer is interested in the position is his involvement with Northwest Basketball Clinics, based in Boise.

"I've spent the last 12 years working for the group," Farmer said. "I've worked up and down Idaho. I've been to Lewiston (and) Pocatello."

"The area is beautiful," he said. "And I like to hunt and fish. My interest has been based on my own experience being around there."

The position became available earlier this month when former Coach Wayne Butland resigned.

Farmer, who resigned the Bruins' post after the 1984 season, had a 61-23 win-loss record during his three seasons at UCLA and guided his team to two Pac-10 titles. He now serves as the television color commentator for the National Basketball Association's Denver Nuggets.

Bruin harriers beat others cold in opener

BY STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School's track team caught the competition cold here Friday, waltzing to victories in both the boys' and girls' events by unexpectedly large margins in a quadrangular meet that served as the season-opener for all four teams present.

"I was really pleased," said Twin Falls Coach Jerry Kleinkopf. "We had a lot of kids doing a lot of different events for us today, and they really came through."

On an afternoon with temperatures hovering below 40 degrees and wind gusts of 20 miles per hour sending the wind chill considerably lower, the Bruin boys outdistanced Jerome by 42 points and the Twin Falls girls topped the Tigers by 44 points. The Twin Falls boys ended up with 111 points to 69 for Jerome, 55 for Pocatello and 31 for Minico, while the Bruin girls rolled in 106 points to 62 for Jerome, 37 for Minico and 33 for Poky.

"We had some pretty good performances in the running and field events, and we won all of the relays but one," Kleinkopf reflected. "That surprised me a little because yesterday (Thursday) we couldn't make a pass."

Kleinkopf got a lot of points from a few people. Among the Bruin girls, the big winner was senior Jennifer Miller, who won the 200-meter broken toes — who long-jumped 16 feet, 8 1/2 inches and ran on three winning relay teams. Sophomore Eva Talamantes ran in four events, won two of them and finished second in the two others. Senior Doug Zakalyk won all four races he ran.

"That's really some kind of effort," said the Bruin coach. "With as cold as it was today, I was sweating that out."

Talamantes won the 400 in 1 minute, 2 1/2 seconds and shared the mile relay team, which turned in a 4:24.4. She finished second to Idella Casiano of Minico in the 200 and was the runner-up to Dawn

Frazier of Pocatello in the 100. Zakalyk ran his specialty, the 300-meter hurdles, in 41.0 and posted a respectable 10.9 in winning the 100. He also took the 110 hurdles in 14.3 and ran the opening leg of the mile relay, which the Bruins won in 3:34.

"The times were decent for this point in the season," said Kleinkopf. "We were wind-aided in some of the races, but in the races with the curves the wind was sure, no help."

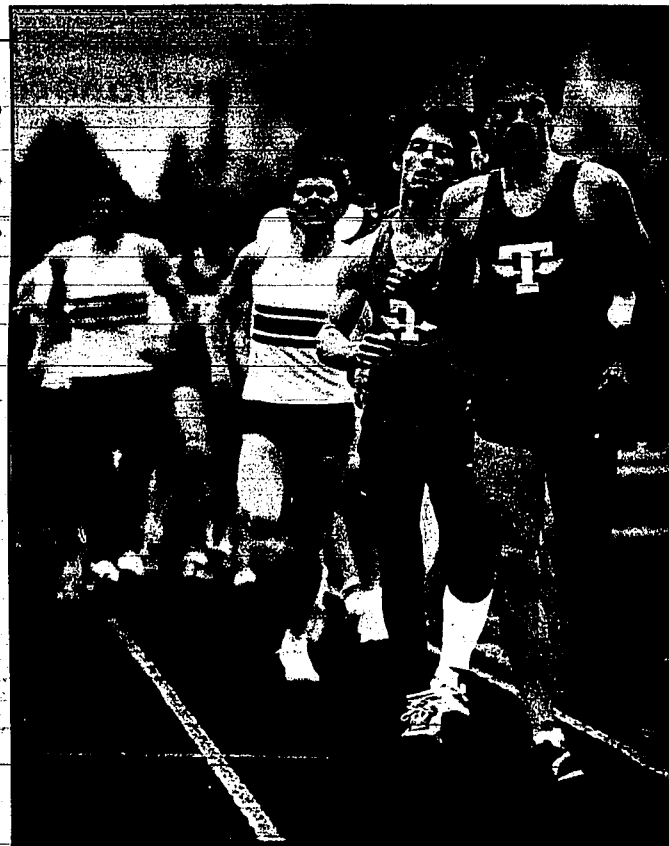

Bruin senior Rod Uribe doubled in the distance events, while Chris Able won the open 400 as well as the 800- and 1,600-meter relay races in which he ran. Twin Falls freshman Jenny Hannah won the girls' half-mile and the mile, while Amber Welby took the 100 and the high jump and ran in the winning half-mile relay. Terry Molyneux captured the boys' 800 and ran the anchor leg on the medley relay team.

For Kleinkopf, the most pleasant surprise came in the boys' field events. Steve Chapton handily won the discus with a toss of 124.5, while Gabe Ostyn high-jumped 5-10 and Tom McLinn long-jumped 20-6, both event-winning marks.

Jerome, Pocatello and Minico, all hampered by more severe weather conditions during the first two weeks of track practice than Twin Falls has experienced, had few noteworthy performances in the cold Friday. Casiano's mark in the 200 was a respectable 26.7, however, and Jerome's Tiffany Crist and Connie O'Toole both surpassed 95 feet in finishing 1-2 in the girls' discus.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Villanova turned to Ed Pinckney again Friday night and the 6-foot-9 center did the job again — on offense and on defense.

Pinckney scored seven points during an 11-0 explosion at the start of the second half that gave the Wildcats control in a 46-43 victory over Maryland in the NCAA Southeast Regional basketball tournament semifinals.

The triumph advanced the Wildcats into Sunday's regional-title game against seventh-ranked North Carolina.

Perhaps even more important was the defensive job Pinckney did on Len Bias, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year.

"I was trying mainly to deny Bias the ball and make him shoot over me," Pinckney said.

"Pinckney just guarded me well," Bias said after scoring only eight points — his lowest total of the season and the first time in 83 games he had failed to score in double figures.

"If he had gotten in double figures, we probably would have won," Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell said.

"They just beat us on the boards," Driesell added. "We fought back and with a break we could have gotten back in it."

Pinckney also turned in a strong effort on the boards, snaring a game-high 13 rebounds as the Wildcats held a 40-29 edge in that department.

"My heart is to go to the Final Four," said Pinckney, a senior looking for his first trip to the national semifinals scheduled next weekend in Lexington, Ky.

Villanova, 22-11, trailed 20-19 at halftime before holding the Terrapins scoreless over the first 7:10 of the second half.

Harold Pressley scored the go-ahead basket one minute into the second half and, after Dwight Wilbur hit two free throws 80 seconds later, Pinckney scored the next seven points as Villanova surged to a 35-20 advantage.

Maryland was never able to get closer than five points until the final two minutes and never got closer than

Joe B. says he's quitting after 13 years

DENVER (AP) — Joe B. Hall, the head basketball coach at the University of Kentucky for the past 13 seasons, announced his retirement Friday night, moments after his Wildcats fell to St. John's 96-70 in the NCAA West Regional semifinals.

"This was my last game as basketball coach at the University of Kentucky," Hall said. "I want to see how the other people live without the pressure of being coach. I've had several offers."

Hall, who had a 297-100 record at Kentucky that included the national championship in 1976, said he made his decision halfway through the season.

JOE B. HALL
Home to Lexington

Hall had a 19-year coaching career as he coached at Regis College in Denver for five years and at Central Missouri State for one season before succeeding the legendary Adolph Rupp at Kentucky.

"The Wildcats, who lost four of their first five games this year, were invited to the NCAA tournament as an at-large team after finishing tied for third in the Southeastern Conference regular-season race and being eliminated by Florida in the SEC tournament quarterfinals. Kentucky's 16-12 record was the worst of the at-large teams selected for the 64-team NCAA field.

Kentucky beat Washington, ironically the final game of the 40-year coaching career of Marv Harshman, and Nevada-Las Vegas before falling to St. John's in the tournament.

Hall took Kentucky to the Final Four three times and his teams won the Southeastern Conference title eight times and the National Invitation Tournament in 1976.

Hall said a person at his age "should get into something he's going to spend the rest of his life with, I have other business opportunities in Lexington. I will be in something less stressful."

Hall said he "more or less" had decided to retire last season, "but was awfully disappointed in our finish (a 53-40 loss to eventual national champion Georgetown in the semifinals) and I didn't want to leave a very young team with someone else. I'm glad I gave it another year."

"I leave with a combination of sadness and happiness," he said. "I hope I pleased a majority of people at Kentucky."

Kentucky athletic director Cliff Hagan said he "was shocked" at the announcement, but he acknowledged "rumors had been persistent over the past few years and even more pronounced the last few weeks."

Hagan said University President Dr. Otis Singletary will call a meeting of the school's athletics board so a screening committee can be named.

"Our search will begin as soon as possible," Hagan added.

Asked if he would be involved in the selection for his successor, Hall said, "I don't want any input. I just want to stay out of the way."

Milwaukee drubs slumping Sixers, 131-112

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles Davis came off the bench to score 23 points to spark the Milwaukee Bucks to a 131-112 rout of the slumping Philadelphia 76ers in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Davis, a 6-foot-7 forward in his third year in the NBA, scored all of his points in the second and third quarters.

Terry Cummings scored 21 points and Craig Hodges 20 for Milwaukee, which has won eight of its last 10 games to lead the Central Division by 1 1/2 games.

The loss was the 76ers' third consecutive defeat and dropped them five games behind the Boston Celtics in the Atlantic Division race.

Moses Malone, playing in his first game since spraining his right ankle a week earlier, led the Sixers with 22 points, and Maurice Cheeks and Andrew Toney added 21 apiece.

With 10:23 left in the game and his team down by 12, Philadelphia coach Billy Cunningham kicked the coach down the court as referee Bruce Alexander was about to pick it up. Cunningham, who had received a technical in the first quarter, was thrown out of the game.

Pro basketball

The Bucks clinched the victory when Davis scored six points in an 8-2 burst that left Milwaukee ahead 96-84 at the end of the third quarter.

Robby Jones who scored the Sixers' first eight points of the second half and 13 in the third quarter, had brought Philadelphia within 88-82 with a pair of free throws.

Then Davis went to work, hitting two free throws, a fast-break layup and a jump shot.

Utah 110 Seattle 85

SEATTLE (AP) — Forward Adrian Danley scored 13 of his game-high 27 points in the third quarter Friday night as the Utah Jazz pulled away in the second half to defeat the Seattle

SuperSonics 110-85 in National Basketball Association action.

Utah led almost the entire way and was never seriously threatened in the second half. The Jazz, on top 50-41 at halftime, outscored the Sonics 30-20 in the third quarter to break the game open. Danley tossed in 7 of his 13 third-quarter points in the final four minutes of the period, when Utah outscored Seattle 13-4.

Dallas 123 San Antonio 114

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Mark Aguirre, who did not start, scored 31 points as the Dallas Mavericks took a 123-114 victory over the San Antonio Spurs in National Basketball Association action Friday night.

The lead changed 15 times during the contest and San Antonio led at the half, 69-56. Dallas took the lead for good at 109-92 with a 5-20 left on a technical foul shot following a call against San Antonio assistant coach Scotty Robertson.

LA Lakers 130 Houston 107

HOUSTON (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 30 points and Byron Scott, who led in the third quarter to power the Los Angeles Lakers to a 130-107 National Basketball Association victory over the Houston Rockets Friday night.

The victory was Los Angeles' 13th straight at Houston and extended the Lakers' current winning streak to nine.

New York 118 Indiana 113

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bernard King led all scorers with 21 points and Butch Carter added 17, including 12 in a deciding fourth period, as the New York Knicks outlasted the Indiana Pacers 118-113 Friday in the National Basketball Association.

Indiana, which has lost five straight games, trailed 75-59 with 6:08 remaining in the third period, but then went on a 19-9 third cut and the gap to 85-78 at the end of the quarter. The Pacers then whittled down the Knicks' lead, going ahead for the first time in the game at 90-88 when guard Vern Felmey hit a three-point play with 10:12 remaining.

Kansas City 121 Atlanta 102

ATLANTA (AP) — Kansas City's Eddie Johnson scored 34 points, including 12 in the fourth quarter, as the Kings swept past the Atlanta Hawks 121-102 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Reggie Miller's dunk in the first quarter put the Kings ahead to stay at 16-15, touching off a 10-0 Kansas City streak that buried Atlanta early. Johnson had four points in an 11-2 spurt at the close of the first half that widened the Kings' lead to 66-51.

Boston 129 Cleveland 117

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird scored 36 points and Danny Ainge and Scott Wedman sparked a fourth-quarter surge that boosted the Boston Celtics to a 129-117 National Basketball Association victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Friday night.

It was the Celtics' seventh consecutive victory, tying their second longest winning streak of the season, and was their 14th straight victory over the Cavaliers.

Denver 123 East Rutherford 111

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Alex English tallied 24 points, Calvin Natt added 23 and Mike Evans came off the bench to score 14 of his 18 points in the second half to lift the Denver Nuggets to a 123-111 National Basketball Association victory over the New Jersey Nets Friday night.

Denver, which has won three straight games and leads the Midwest Division with a 43-25 record, trailed by 10 points early in the second quarter but rallied to outscore New Jersey 9-1 at the close of the third period to take the lead for good at 87-

Redmen turn back Kentucky

DENVER (AP) — Swingman Chris Mullin scored 30 points and third-ranked St. John's beat Kentucky off the boards in the second half, drew away to a 88-70 victory Friday night in the NCAA West Regional semifinals.

The victory sent top-seeded St. John's, 30-8, into Sunday's regional final against 16th-ranked North Carolina State, which defeated Alabama 61-55 in an earlier semifinal matchup.

The Redmen, battling back from a seven-point deficit midway through the first half, consistently got second and third shots in the second half despite the absence of their 7-foot center, Bill Wennington, who was sidelined with four fouls.

Forward Willie Glass hit three key rebound baskets as St. John's moved from a 38-38 halftime edge to a 57-51 lead with 11 minutes left in the game. Mullin, on a feed from Glass, scored and sophomore guard Mark Jackson added two free throws as the Redmen padded their margin over Kentucky, 18-13, to eight points, 70-62, with two minutes left.

The Redmen then hit 12 of 14 free-throw attempts in the waning moments to secure the victory.

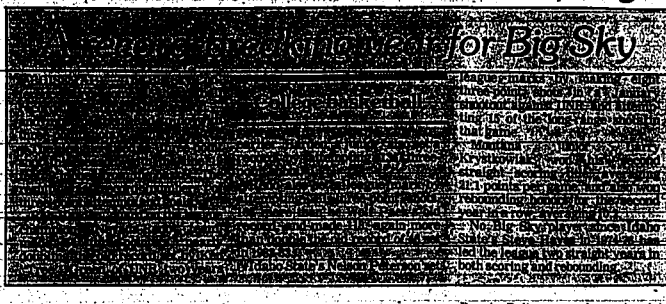

Walter Berry added 22 points for the winners, and Jackson came off the bench for 12 points.

Kentucky standout Kenny Walker, who played three quarters of the game with a badly swollen right eye after some contact with Mullin, led the Wildcats with 23 points.

St. John's began the game with a defense that collapsed inside on Walker, daring the Wildcats to shoot from the outside. Accurate shooting by guards Roger Harden and Troy McKinley helped stave off Kentucky to a 20-13 with 11:12 left in the half. Harden hit all five of his field-goal attempts in the half and McKinley was 4-for-4.

But Mullin's medium-range jumpers helped St. John's whittle the deficit to one point at 20-19 with 9:02 left.

Two free throws by Mullin in the closing minutes of the half drew St.

John's into a 37-37 tie and, after a free throw by Richard Madison for Kentucky, Jackson hit a 15-foot jumper for a 39-38 lead — the first time the Redmen had led since the opening minutes.

Mullin had 15 points at the half and Berry 12. Harden had 11 points and McKinley and Walker scored eight each. Both teams had identical 17-for-27 field-goal shooting at intermission.

N. Carolina 62 Auburn 56
—BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Kenny Smith scored seven of his 22 points as seventh-ranked North Carolina built a 15-point first-half lead and Joe Wolf hit eight key points down the stretch to stave off an Auburn rally as the Tar Heels posted a 62-56 victory Friday night in the semifinals of the NCAA Southeast Regional basketball tournament.

Auburn, which shot only 33 percent in the first half, peeked away in the second half and five times closed the North Carolina lead to three points. But the Tigers never were able to get closer until Carey Holland hit a layup with 18 seconds remaining to cut the lead to 56-56.

Holland was fouled on the play and missed the free throw. Chuck Person grabbed the rebound for Auburn but was called for traveling when he fell to the floor.

The Tar Heels, bolting into a regional championship game for the eighth time under Coach Dean Smith, then sewed it up on a pair of free throws by Ranzino Smith and a dunk by Kenny Smith in the final 12 seconds.

North Carolina, 27-8, will meet Villanova on Sunday in another Atlantic Coast Conference Big East Conference showdown, with the winner advancing to the Final Four in Lexington, Ky., next weekend, Villanova of the Big East edged Maryland, another ACC team, 46-43, in the first game — of Friday night's double header.

North Carolina's victory snapped a seven-game winning streak for Auburn, the No. 11 seed in the region, which had been on a Cinderella path in the NCAA Tournament — scoring upset victories over Purdue and Kansas last week.

N. Carolina 51 Alabama 55
—DENVER (AP) — Diminutive guard Anthony "Spud" Webb rattled in 14 points, and reserve forward

Bennie Bolton canned a pair of insurance free throws with 33 seconds left Friday night to lead No. 16 North Carolina State to a 61-55 victory over Alabama in the NCAA West Regional semifinals.

Alabama, which finished the season at 23-10, got a game-high 18 points from guard Terry Coner but couldn't manage to match the Wolfpack's surge.

With 33 seconds left, the Crimson Tide trailed North Carolina State 53-53 and the Wolfpack 23-8, missed a chance to increase the lead when the 5-foot-7 Webb missed the front end of a one-and-one. But Bolton, who finished with 11 points, was fouled after Webb's toss and canned both of his shots, giving North Carolina State a 57-53 lead.

Webb added a pair of free throws just seconds later when he was fouled while leading a sloppy fast break. That made it 59-53.

Coner canned a jumper with 14 seconds left and Alabama had another chance when, with 10 seconds remaining, a North Carolina State inbound pass went out of bounds. But Mark Gottfried's 15-foot jumper missed and North Carolina State rebounded to secure the victory.

Nampa blanks Burley in Bobcats' lidlifter

NAMPA — Dean Dice hurled a five-inning, one-hit shutout here Friday as Nampa defeated Burley 11-0 in the Bobcats' season prep baseball opener.

The game was called after five innings because of rain, which fell intermittently throughout the contest.

The game was called after five innings because of rain, which fell intermittently throughout the contest.

The Bobcats will play a double-header this afternoon at Kuna. Burley is scheduled to open its home season next Wednesday against Minico.

Burley's only hit came in the first inning on a single by Perry Knopp. Dice, a senior right-hander, struck out 11 and walked just one.

Four of the Bulldogs' runs came on a third-inning grand slam home run by Ed Casredie.

CSI sweeps California triangular meet

MODESTO, Calif. — Facing what they expected to be stiff competition, the College of Southern Idaho's men's and women's track squads captured smooth team titles here Friday against Sacramento City College and Modesto Community College in a triangular meet held at Modesto, Calif.

CSI Coach Julie Domowicz, in his first year at the Golden Eagle track helm, said his squad of just five women and six men "did a tremendous job" in taking the triangular.

The women's efforts were highlighted by Macie Miller's first-place finish in the long jump, Michelle team covered the 1,600 meters in 4:13.1.

The CSI men were led by a first-place finish from the 1,600 to the 1,500 and 5,000 meters in 4:06.7 and 15:54.1, respectively. Junior James swept to the 400-meter individual title with a 48.8 performance, while DeVoe Whaley took the 800 meters in 1:53.1. The men's mile relay crew of James, DeVoe, Tim Sievers and Andy Bopp also brought home a first-place finish for CSI, covering the mile in 3:17.3.

The Eagles also got a second-place finish in the women's long jump from Cupp, who leaped 17.6, and a runner-up spot in the women's 1,500 with McGinnis' 5:11.2. Skyles finished second in the 800 in 2:26, while Bopp was the runner-up in the men's 800 at 1:55. James turned in a second-place performance in the 200 with 22.3, and Don McMurrain finished second in the 110-meter high hurdles at 14.7.

Whalen finished third in the women's quarter-mile, finishing in 1:01.6, while Sievers was third in the 400 at 50.2.

McMurrain had a pair of fourth-place finishes, running 56.6 in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles and 10.9 in the 100 meters.

Watson leads Vegas tourney

By BOB GREEN
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Tom Watson, chasing his first victory of the season, took advantage of what he called "a perfect scoring day" for a 68 that provided him with a 3-shot lead Friday after 54 holes of the rich Panasonic Las Vegas Invitational Golf Tournament.

Golf

Watson, holder of a record six Player of the Year awards and a five-time British Open champion, completed one round on each of three desert courses at 189, 14 strokes under par.

declined to discount their chances. "I've got to continue to play aggressive golf," he said after finishing his round at the Las Vegas Country Club with a birdie-4 on the 18th hole. "I've got to stick with my game plan for the next two days. If I hit enough good shots, I should have a good chance to win the tournament," he said.

Desert Inn and Watson was at the Las Vegas Country Club course, site of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. With about half the field still out, Frank Conner held second at 203, a single shot back of Smith, after a third-round 69 at Tropicana. Jay Haas was next among the early finishers at 205. He closed up with a 67 at Las Vegas.

With two rounds to go in this five-day, 90-hole event, career struggler Mike Smith and Billy Glasson shared second at 212. Glasson, hobbling on off-injured knees that have required surgery four times, could do no better than match par 72 at the Desert Inn. Smith had a 4-under-par 66 at Tropicana.

Journeyman Frank Conner was next at 203. He had a third-round 69 at Tropicana.

Although the three men in closest pursuit are all non-winners, Watson Glasson played his third round at

Met Carter misses his big chance

By The Associated Press

Gary Carter faced the Montreal Expos Friday for the first time since he was traded to the New York Mets, but the players he was traded for played a more prominent role in the Mets' 6-5 win.

Baseball

Darryl Strawberry and George Foster delivered run-scoring singles in the fifth inning to break a 3-3 tie, give the Mets their victory against Ploidy Youmans, a pitcher involved in the Carter trade. Carter had a single in that rally.

Ex-Met Hubie Brooks' error set up a three-run second for the Mets and another ex-Met, catcher Mike Fitzgerald, had a three-run homer off Dwight Gooden in the bottom of that inning to tie it.

In other exhibition games Friday, it was the Minnesota Twins 10, Philadelphia Phillies 2; Cincinnati Reds 6, Pittsburgh Pirates 3; Los Angeles Dodgers 8, Detroit Tigers 7; Boston Red Sox 9, Houston Astros 3; Chicago White Sox 8, Toronto Blue Jays 2; St. Louis Cardinals 5, Kansas City Royals 3; California Angels 8, Cleveland Indians 1; San Francisco Giants 3, San Diego Padres 2; New York Mets 6, Montreal Expos 5; Atlanta Braves 9, Texas Rangers 5; Oakland A's 13, Milwaukee Brewers 9, and Chicago Cubs 5, Seattle Mariners 1.

In a night game, Don Baylor knocked in four runs, three of them with a homer in the eighth inning, to lift the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Frank Viola, the winningest left-hander in the majors last season with 20 wins, pitched seven innings of three-hit ball and his Twins teammates pounded 17 hits, four each by Tim Lincecum and Tim Lincecum. Tefel and Gary Gaetti each homered for Minnesota.

Dave Parker slugged a three-run homer in the third-inning and Nick Esasky belted two-run homer in the fourth for the Reds. It was the eighth loss in nine spring training games for Pittsburgh.

Ken Landreaux drove in four runs for the Dodgers in their win over the Tigers, three on a bases-loaded double in a five-run third inning. It was the seventh straight win for Los Angeles, which is now 9-3.

Cezar and Lonnie Smith each rapped RBI singles to cap a four-run uprising in the fourth inning, to rally the Cardinals. Joaquin Andujar, Kupt Kephshire and Neil Allen combined on a six-hitter for St. Louis while Darryl Motley homered for Kansas City.

Jim Rice had a three-run homer in the sixth inning as the Red Sox clubbed five Houston pitchers for 12 hits. The Red Sox blasted starter Mike Madden for five runs in the third inning and Rice's home run fueled the four-run sixth inning.

Harold Baines collected three hits, including a three-run homer, to lead the White Sox. Tom Seaver went five innings for Chicago, allowing only a first-inning run on Willie Alkins' RBI single that ended Seaver's scoreless-inning streak at 10 1/3.

Wally Joyner tripled in a run to cap a five-run second inning and starter Mike Witt surrendered only three hits in five innings in the Angels' win over the Indians. Cleveland's only run came on Julio Franco's third-inning double off Witt.

Jeff Leonard's two-run double in the sixth inning, one of only two Giants hits in the game, gave them their victory over the Padres. Eric Show pitched five hitless innings for the Padres, who got their two runs on a second-inning triple by Kevin McReynolds.

Chris Chambliss hit a two-run single in a four-run fourth as the Braves pounded the Rangers. Gerald Perry slugged a two-run homer, his third of the spring. Pinch hitter Danny Gooden ripped a three-run triple in the seventh inning to give the A's their win over the Brewers. Milwaukee got a two-run homer by Mark Brouhard.
