Judge orders board, teachers to bargain

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School Board and teacher negotiators were ordered back to the bargaining table Friday by Fifth District Court Judge Daniel Hurlbutt.

In his ruling on the Twin Falls Education Association's suit against the board, Hurlbutt split the TFEA's request for relief, denying part of it and granting part of it.

Negotiators for both sides said Friday no date has been discussed for the bargaining session, which Hurlbutt ordered by mandatory injunction.

The TFEA had asked the court to order the board to reinstate last year's more expensive health insurance plan and to order the board to complete the negotiations that ended when the board unilaterally adopted a new insurance plan, a new salary schedule and new contract language.

Hurlbutt has ordered the board to negotiate with the TFEA on the contract language, but not on the salary and insurance provisions.

The judge said it was "abundantly clear" that impasse had never been reached in the discussions of changes in teacher contract language. "The fact that these nonimpasse issues were coupled with salary indicates an intent to cripple the union, as well as to thwart the negotiation process."

The contract language concerned teacher rights and grievance procedures, among other things.

Impasse had been reached in salary and insurance talks and the board was justified in unilaterally imposing new insurance and salary levels, Hurlbutt held.

"A court may not put itself in a position of interfering with the proper discretion exercised by the duly elected members of the board of trustees in the financial management of the district," Hurlbutt said in explaining his decision to leave the salary and insurance package intact.

Hurlbutt chastised the TFEA for its apparent refusal to bargain during the summer months and said that delay forced the board to impose an insurance and salary package that had not been agreed to at the bargaining table. "The crucial responsibility for representing professional employees in contract negotiations knows no seasonal bounds," he said.

Both the board and the TFEA were found to be in violation of the duty to bargain in good faith with respect to the teacher walkout and Board lockout in October. "These actions were both disruptive of the educational process and did little to settle

Farm workers object OSHA rejects field toilet rule

By PETE YOST
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Occupational Safety and Health Administration on Friday rejected a proposed federal sanitation standard to require farmers to supply toilets and drinking water to more than 500,000 field hands nationwide.

The decision by OSHA Director Robert A. Rowland drew immediate fire from farm worker organizations that have sought such a standard since 1972.

Rowland said state requirements already cover at least two-thirds of the nation's farm workers. A federal standard would eliminate protection for many of them, he said.

"OSHA's resources are best utilized when OSHA sends inspectors to chemical plants and high hazard locations where there are frequent and documented threats to life and limb," Rowland said in a statement.

"Field sanitation — though an important public health concern — generally does not involve that kind of lethal and often irreversible occupational hazard," he said.

Luis R. Torres, a lawyer for the Migrant Legal Action Program, called Rowland's decision "outrageous."

"There is no legal basis for this decision," Torres said. He said the group will appeal the ruling in court, probably within five days.

Cemetery visit plan under fire

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A veterans group said Friday it is "terribly disappointed" that President Reagan plans to lay a wreath in a German cemetery where Nazi soldiers are buried, and Jewish organizations voiced outrage and pressed the White House for a change.

While administration officials said they might reconsider, Jewish leaders said they were flooding the White House with calls, letters and telegrams. Chairman Elie Wiesel said he was convening an emergency meeting Monday of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council, all Reagan appointees, to appeal to the president.

"I hate rarely seen such outrage," said Wiesel, a survivor of two Nazi death camps. "I know the president. I know his mind and his sentiment."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was "concerned" about the harsh reaction to the planned visit.

"Yes, he is disturbed that anybody would question his sensitivity," Speakes told reporters in Santa Barbara, Calif., where Reagan is vacationing.

In a statement relayed through his spokesman, Reagan said, "While we remember the past with deep sorrow, we must look to the future with a firm resolve that it will never happen again."

Reagan earlier had decided not to visit a concentration camp during his visit, which coincides with the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II, saying he didn't want to reawaken

Prophet's attorney appeals ruling

The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — An attorney appointed for self-proclaimed prophet Ronald LaLaferty has appealed a ruling that LaLaferty is competent to stand trial in the slayings of his sister-in-law and her daughter.

Provo attorney Richard Johnson said a petition Thursday asking the Utah Supreme Court to hear the challenge to the ruling by 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock.

He also asked that the trial, set for April 25 in Provo, be postponed until the appeal is decided.

Supreme Court Clerk Geoffrey Butler said the justices may hear arguments on the writ as early as Monday.

A memorandum attached to the petition for appeal was sealed by Supreme Court Chief Justice Gordon R. Hall on request of Judge Bullock, who has ordered lawyers in the case not to comment on evidence to the press, Butler said. Johnson said LaLaferty continues to insist that he defend himself against the charges alleging he murdered Brenda Wright LaLaferty, 24, and her 15-month-old daughter, Price, in their American Fork home last July 24. He is also charged with conspiring to murder two other American Fork residents.

His younger brother, Dan, 36, was convicted of two counts of first-degree murder in January for the killings, and was sentenced to consecutive life terms after the jury was unable to unanimously vote for the death penalty.

Hole in bow of U.S.S. Coral Sea shows plainly after collision

U.S. carrier, Ecuadorean oil tanker damaged in collision

By JEAN MCNAIR
The Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va. — A nighttime collision between the newly overhauled aircraft carrier Coral Sea and an Ecuadorean tanker off the coast of Cuba damaged both ships but caused no injuries, the Navy said Friday.

The 578-foot, 6,000-ton Coral Sea and the tanker Napo collided at 7:40 p.m. Thursday while the carrier was conducting flight operations 45 miles south-southeast of Guantanamo Bay, said Lt. Cmdr. Dale Smith, a Navy spokesman at the carrier's home port in Norfolk.

The ships collided at their bows and swung into each other, Smith said.

The carrier, which emerged Jan. 29 from a 15-month overhaul, threw its engines into reverse shortly before the crash, he said. "They knew they were heading into the other ship."

"Part of the bow is crushed" on the Coral Sea, he said. "Additional damage occurred to the ship's starboard side, and to communications and radar equipment.

The 574-foot, 32,000-ton Napo, which was carrying 190,000 barrels of fuel oil from Esmeraldas, Ecuador, to New York, sustained a 20-foot gash in its port side, and some superstructure damage and was listing slightly to starboard, Smith said.

Damage estimates were not immediately available, but none of the 4,500 men aboard the Coral Sea nor the 30 to 50 crewmen on the Napo was injured, Smith said.

The damaged ships sailed to Guantanamo Bay unassisted Friday, he said. "Both of the ships basically went along with each other." The Coral Sea was anchored about 10 to 15 miles off the coast, he said.

The carrier, scheduled to leave Guantanamo today, will travel at a slower than normal speed because of the bow damage and will take about six days to reach port, Smith said.

Repairs at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard in Portsmouth will take take four to six weeks, he said.

There was "no indication of the cause of the collision. Visibility at the time was seven miles with 5-foot waves and scattered clouds, Smith said.

The Coral Sea underwent a $200 million overhaul at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard that included extensive modernization and repair to almost every area of the 37-year-old ship.

The carrier had been conducting refresher training with its air wing in the Guantanamo Bay area since April 4.

The ship had 11 aircraft airborne when the collision occurred, and all 11 landed safely at Guantanamo Bay, Smith said.

The Coral Sea was commissioned Oct. 1, 1947, decommissioned in May 1957 and recommissioned in January 1960. Its commander is Capt. Gene Tucker.

Smith said the ship probably would return to Norfolk for repairs. It had been scheduled to return to its home port Tuesday and in early May join Solid Shield '85, a military exercise involving more than 45,000 troops

Blast rips restaurant

The Associated Press

MADRID, Spain — An explosion ripped through a suburban Madrid restaurant near a U.S. Air Force base Friday night, killing at least 15 people and injuring 71, including some Americans, officials said.

Although there was no immediate confirmation, police speculated the blast at the El Descanso barbecue restaurant might have been caused by a bomb.

The restaurant was known to be frequented by Americans, particularly those who work at the Torrejon de Ardoz air base. There was no immediate identification of the victims.

Police said the explosion occurred at about 10:45 p.m. (11:45 p.m. MST), when the restaurant was crowded with patrons.

The U.S. Air Force public affairs office at Torrejon said 10 American personnel from the base had reported to the base hospital with minor injuries.

Ex-chiefs back test ban treaty

ATLANTA (AP) — Former President Jimmy Carter and General Ford, beginning two days of public arms control talks with leaders from 10 nations, said Friday they would support a comprehensive test ban treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The Consultation on International Security and Arms Control, sponsored by Carter's Emory University policy center and with Carter and Ford as hosts, includes officials of five U.S. administrations, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and representatives of eight other nations.

On Friday, the first day of public discussions following three days of closed-door meetings, Carter and Ford both said the United States should continue to adhere to the provisions of the unratified SALT II treaty.

Charges filed in shooting

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Prosecutors filed first-degree murder charges Friday against prison inmate Ronnie Lee Gardner and an alleged female accomplice in the slaying of a lawyer during a courthouse escape attempt.

Salt Lake County Attorney Ted Cannon said he would seek the death penalty for Gardner and Carmela Jolley Hainsworth, who is accused of slipping Gardner a handgun April 2 as he was being taken by guards to a hearing on a prior murder charge.

Both Gardner and Ms. Hainsworth also were charged with attempted murder in the shooting of unarmed bailiff George N. Kirk. In addition, Gardner was charged with aggravated kidnapping, a first-degree felony; escape, a second-degree felony, and possession of a dangerous weapon by a person incarcerated; a second-degree felony.

Shultz wants Soviet response

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz urged the new Soviet leadership Friday to abandon "various propaganda plays" and respond to American proposals for deep reductions in nuclear weapons.

"We have put interesting propositions on the table," Shultz said in an interview. "Our negotiators are there (in Geneva), ready to give and take. But we haven't been responded to."

Stepping up U.S. criticism of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's public arms control proposals, Shultz said "he offered us the sleeves from his vest, we examined them carefully and found there was nothing there."

Gorbachev's offer to freeze new Soviet nuclear missiles in Europe until November and other proposals for joint weapons restraints "showed little sense of change there," Shultz said.

Added funds eases Block's task

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block, obviously breathing easier under loosened proposed budget restraints on his department, said Friday he would work to come up with farm policies providing a softer landing for financially stressed farmers.

Block told reporters that previous Reagan administration proposals sought to change agriculture policies more quickly than the farm situation could stand.

Block said that while a compromise budget worked out between the administration and Senate Republican leaders provides more money to ease agriculture's transition to a more "market-oriented" system, it means "no change in philosophy, policy or objective."

New official backs probe effort

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois' new chief health official said Friday the 2-week-old salmonella investigation has been conducted properly despite the sudden firing of his predecessor and the mounting number of milk-borne cases in the Midwest.

Standing outside the suburban Hill farm dairy that processed the suspect milk, Inspector General Jeremy Margolis, acting director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said all agencies involved "have been conducting a proper...capable investigation."

The salmonella outbreak, the second largest in recorded U.S. history, has been linked to milk produced and sold by Jewel Companies Inc. Thousands of people in five states — Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin and Iowa — have fallen ill. Health officials say 4,742 cases have been reported, while 3,608 cases have been confirmed as salmonella poisoning.

Dotson returned to prison

CHICAGO (AP) — A woman who could not convince a judge that she lied about being raped six years ago challenged prosecutors to try her for perjury, while a distraught Gary Dotson, the man she once accused, was sent back to prison Friday.

"I'd like to see a jury of my peers hear the truth," said Catherine Crowell Webb, who offered to submit to a lie detector test and said the court "did a great injustice;" by refusing to believe her now.

Dotson, 28, told reporters in a barely-audible voice that he was "very upset" as he was returned to the Joliet Correctional Center, but vowed to continue his quest for release.

"We're working on it. That's all we can do," said Dotson, of suburban Country Club Hills.

Gov. James R. Thompson said he had received calls from Dotson's relatives and others seeking his release, but ruled out any immediate action.

Discovery finally makes it to space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Discovery blasted through a sodden skies Friday, avoiding a sixth launch postponement by 55 seconds, on a voyage that gives Sen. Jake Garn of Utah a demonstration ride like no other.

Discovery lifted off 55 minutes behind schedule. The same murky weather, however, ruined a Kennedy Space Center double-header, delaying the arrival of the new shuttle Atlantis.

Nearly 300 miles above the clouds and no longer bathed by them, the Discovery crew sent a Canadian communications satellite spinning out of its cargo bay toward an eventual orbit high above Earth.

"It was a good deploy," said astronaut Jeffrey Hoffman. "It looks good from down here," said Mission Control.

"I guess it was easier to launch a PAM than it was to launch the shuttle — no weather problems," Hoffman said. PAM refers to the rocket attached to the satellite.

The deployment of the satellite, for Telesat of Canada, followed a familiar scenario. After releasing the satellite, Discovery moved away to be out of blast range 45 minutes later when the PAM engine fires to send it to a 22,300-mile-high orbit.

The rocket, the same kind responsible for two satellite launch failures last year, burned for 86 seconds, as it was intended, Hoffman said.

"It was very impressive," he said, "because while we were looking at it, there were lightning flashes all over the Earth that we could see going off while the PAM was burning nice and steady."

The astronauts will launch a second satellite, to be used for Navy communications, this morning.

Garn is aboard Discovery as a congressional observer, but he also is a working seventh crew member whose contribution to space progress began in the opening minutes of the five-day flight.

As the space plane climbed to its 285-mile by 184-mile orbit, the senator's digestive functions were monitored by five sensors on his head, four on his stomach and three on his chest. It is part of an effort to learn more about how the human body adapts to weightlessness.

The other crew members are commander Karol Bobko; pilot Donald E. Williams; mission specialist Margaret Rhea Seddon, David Griggs and Jeffrey Hoffman; and payload specialist Charles Walker, who almost lost his ride Thursday when his drug-making machine sprang a leak.

It is only the second time that seven people have shared the same spaceship.

"That launch was something special, but the best is yet to come," that's for sure," Walker radioed in mid-afternoon, reporting his machine was off and running.

Ground controllers held the countdown at the nine-minute mark, first to allow time for a laggard cargo ship to leave a launch-endangered area, then because of moisture in the cloud layer aloft. During the shuttle's high-velocity climb, raindrops became little darts that pit the fragile Utes which shield the spaceplane from the heat of re-entry.

Block places controls on 1986 wheat output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block on Friday officially proclaimed federal controls on 1986 wheat production, a step required by law in case Congress fails to come up with a new program this year.

Block set the 1986 wheat marketing quota at 1.955 billion bushels and the national acreage allotment at 54 million acres. A referendum will be held July 19-26 to determine if farmers favor or oppose the quotas.

The quota proclamation, and the referendum is prescribed by so-called permanent legislation dating back to 1938.

If marketing quotas are approved by at least two-thirds of those voting, mandatory controls, including stiff penalties for those who exceed allotments, would be in effect for the 1986 crop. In return, producers would be eligible for a two-tier price support system based on domestic and export shares of the market. Those generally would be higher than the current level of wheat price supports of $3.30 per bushel.

But if the vote falls short of the two-thirds margin, none of the quota restrictions would apply and farmers could plant all they want without penalty. However, supports would be available only to those who kept within their allotments. Although the supports would not be as high as if quotas were approved, they still would be more than the current level.

Block has indicated for some time that he planned to hold a wheat referendum this summer — no later than Aug. 1, by law — in order to clear the deck for congressional action on a new farm bill.

"The 1985 farm bill debate could be prolonged late into calendar year 1985," Block said.

Rupert spill victims released from hospital

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

RUPERT — A dozen people contaminated when a hazardous chemical spilled in Rupert have been released from the hospital after developing more serious symptoms than headaches, nausea and dizziness shortly after contamination.

Only about three gallons of the chemical spilled Thursday, all from a single 30-gallon barrel, said Idaho State Police Cpl. Cole Watkins after watching an environmental team Friday unload the truck that was carrying the chemical.

Company officials at both the company that manufactured the chemical and that which had ordered it, said Friday that the chemical was a herbicide known as Dinsb that is commonly used to kill potato vines in southern Idaho. It is labeled as a Class B or extremely toxic poison, but may not be as dangerous as some officials believed it to be Thursday. It is not explosive.

"People maybe sat back and said we overreacted," said Pat Stoll of the Environmental Protection Agency. But officials had to proceed cautiously, particularly until they were certain what it was, he said.

The driver of the truck, Donald Frasher, 44, of Pea Ridge, Ark., has been issued three citations, including one for improper loading of the chemical, Watkins said.

None of the 160 30-gallon drums or 72 five-gallon containers were turned over or out of place, Watkins said. But "loading was apparently not sufficient" or the drum would not have leaked, he said.

Another citation was issued for failure to notify authorities immediately that a hazardous material was leaking, Watkins said. When Frasher smelled the chemical and then discovered the leakage, he should have parked the truck immediately and notified police, Watkins said.

Instead, Frasher told state police that he called a company dispatcher who told him to wash the truck out at a car wash. Rupert police officer Stan Clark spotted him washing the poisonous substance from the truck and stopped him at the Hill Oil Co. Husky Station.

Police also issued a citation for failure to post a placard indicating a flammable substance. The bill of lading for the load indicated that the substance was a "substituted nitrophenol pesticide," falling under a classification of chemicals in the Federal Department of Transportation Emergency Response Guidebook that are poisonous and flammable.

However, Stoll said he has no information that the chemical is flammable. Some farm chemicals with similar arrangements of fluorides are, but apparently not this one, he said.

Watkins said the bill of lading was a legal document, and companies must adhere to the regulations for the classification of substance they list as shipping.

Officials at the federal Department of Transportation are also considering bringing charges against the trucking company, American Farmlands, after an investigation of the incident is completed.

"I feel there should be some corporate responsibility," said Frank York, head of the motor carrier safety division of the department. He is investigating whether carrier officials informed employees of how to respond to a spill, he said.

A crew from Environmental Emergency Services of Portland, Ore., had cleaned out the truck trailer by Friday afternoon and were ready to consider cleaning contaminated areas where the truck had parked in Rupert, said company official Roland Miller. The soil may have to be removed and contained at a hazardous waste dump, say EPA officials. The trucking company is paying for the clean-up.

An ambulance that was used to take people who inhaled or touched the liquid to Mindoka Memorial Hospital was also decontaminated with a chloride solution that neutralizes the chemical.

Six of the hospitalized people were released Thursday and the remaining people left the hospital early Friday. Those hospitalized included Frasher, his wife and son, police and fire officers, and an ambulance attendant.

Hobbyists to gather to display works in Wendell

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Rockhounds from Twin Falls to Gooding will gather in Wendell this weekend to demonstrate their skills and display cases of their lapidary and jewelry work.

The annual show of the Northside Gem and Hobby Club will be held today from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Wendell Junior High Gymnasium.

Admission will be by donation of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

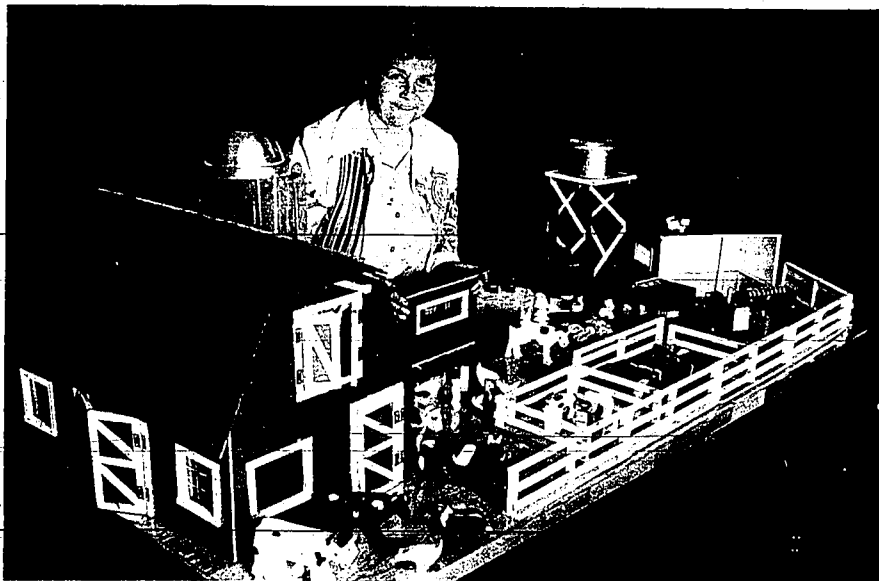

One of the show's special features this year is a miniature wooden barnyard carved by Elva and Byron Strickland of Gooding.

For three months, the couple has been carving animals, adding colorful paint and attaching tiny hinges to the doors of the large barn and chicken coop.

Other displays in some 40 cases will include rough to finished Jasper and agate from around the Northwest. Antique bottles, afghans and other crocheted work, large soft dolls, sea shells, belt buckles, handmade jewelry and other crafts also will be displayed.

Demonstrations will show chain making, the operation of a miniature steam engine and arrowhead making.

Some items will be sold through a silent auction, and a "wheel of fortune" will offer a variety of handmade prizes. Dealers from Utah and Idaho will sell "jewelry" and "gem stones."

Probe results ready

Blaine voting check finished

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Blaine County Prosecutor Keith Roark has called a press conference for Monday to give the results of a grand jury probe into allegations of voter fraud in the county during last November's general election.

The press conference will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the Blaine County Courthouse.

Roark recently called the grand jury to review the registrations of six Blaine County residents who voted in last November's general election.

The review came after he and Attorney General Jim Jones conducted an investigation into allegations of voter fraud brought by supporters of former Rep. George Hansen, who narrowly lost his U.S. House of Representatives seat to Democrat Richard Stallings.

Hansen's supporters claimed that up to 44 percent of Blaine County voters were improperly registered, making their votes invalid.

Stallings defeated Hansen by more than 2,500 votes in Blaine County but by only 170 votes throughout Idaho's 2nd Congressional district. If Hansen's supporters were successful in overturning a large part of Blaine County's vote, the seven-term congressman could have won the election.

State Rep. J.F. "Chad" Chadband, R-Idaho Falls, and others charged there were widespread irregularities in voter registrations in the county, and the Democrat party "selected" office holders to their positions.

The results of the election do not substantiate those charges, however.

Although the county has voted strongly for Democrats in past elections, Democrats barely outpolled Republicans in 1984, receiving only 51 percent of all votes cast.

The county gave majority votes to state Republicans as President Reagan, Sen. Jim McClure and state Rep. Jones on Page A5

Burley power bills defended

BURLEY (AP) — Disputing claims that the new Burley electric billing policy discriminates against the poor, City Councilman Ken Frank says there are some utility customers who would not pay their bills unless forced to.

But Frank, reacting to charges of a local ratepayer group impugning the motivation behind the policy, said his comments were not directed at the poor when he met with leaders of the Idaho Neighbors Network last month.

"We discussed people paying and not paying their bills and I made the comment that there are some who have no intention at all of trying to pay their power bills," Frank said.

"The city can pretty well document that fact."

The network has threatened to launch an initiative petition drive to force adoption of protections for low and moderate income utility customers unless significant changes are made in the policy that takes effect next month.

Faced with a 3-4 percent rate increase from the Bonneville Power Administration this summer, the city adopted the new policy that eliminates a long-standing 10 percent discount for prompt bill payment and imposes substantial financial penalties for late payment including the possibility of disconnection after 16 days.

The network claimed the policy penalizes the poor instead of giving them options for bill payment.

But Frank, who said he is willing to continue meeting with network members, defended the policy.

"We have to have rules to live by," he said. "If everybody was totally honest and paid their bills, even if they were late, we wouldn't have to have any rules or collection procedure. But, unfortunately, that doesn't happen."

He claimed that city officials have been very careful about service disconnection for nonpayment, particularly in cases involving young children, the elderly and the handicapped.

In addition, Frank charged that the ratepayer group never followed up on its request for special provisions in the new policy, suggesting that another meeting be set up soon.

"The door is always open" and they'll get an opportunity to present their case," he said.

Jones pays homage to Swan Falls help

By DEAN S. MILLER

TWIN FALLS — Five Magic Valley residents were honored Friday by State Attorney General Jim Jones for their contributions towards the settlement of the controversial Swan Falls water rights conflict.

Those honored at an afternoon news conference were Bill Laning of Hollister, a member of the State Water Resources board; Rep. Vard Chaburn (R-Idaho), water resources advisor; and Jerome and Conservation Committee; State Senator Laird Noh (R-Kimberly); Jerome farmer Elaine Martin, organizer and secretary of the Idaho Water Rights Defense group, which is composed of the water users named by Idaho Power Co. in a lawsuit that spurred the negotiations; and Jerome farmer and rancher Forrest Hlymas, another member of the water rights group.

Jones said the people he honored, who were named special water advisors, should be given chairman of the House Resources

Wendell debate students get to put officials on the spot

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Debate students at Wendell High School got a chance Friday to grill school officials about school issues and policies.

School Board Chairman Clayton Pope, School Superintendent Glenn Gilbertson and Principal Douglas Skinner faced questions from Alan Whitkender's debate class on a variety of topics ranging from consolidation to a ban on student smoking.

If students are not allowed to smoke on campus, asked one student, then why do teachers smoke?

"The teachers should set examples themselves," he said to the administrators. "How do you feel about this?"

"Bear in mind that adults have certain rights that students do not have," answered Skinner. "I think it's important to remember the teachers are here on a job situation."

"There needs to be a time and a place for teachers to remove themselves from students so they can relax a little bit and be just in the company of adults," he said. "Hypocritical or not, I do believe there is a distinction that needs to be made."

Pope, discussing the possibility of school consolidation in Gooding County, said, "As of the last meeting I attended, there is still a faction in Magic Valley and Gooding County that would like consolidation. But it would run up against an awful lot of opposition."

"As of now, it's at a standstill and, in my opinion, it will be quite a lot of years before it would be possible," he said.

Questions about coaches were fielded by Gilbertson. Most of the time, he said, winning or losing is not because of the coach's effort. It is determined by the number of good athletes the team has.

Since girl's athletics have started, Skinner added, there is a much greater demand for coaches. At a small school like Wendell, demands on a coach can be constant and often overwhelming, he said.

"The resources (of certified coaches) we have here are somewhat limited," he said.

When asked about home schooling, the three officials said they were not absolutely against it and acknowledged that parents have certain rights. But, they agreed, public schools are usually more competitive and are able to teach social skills.

"You need to know how to associate with other people," Pope said. "You need to know how to say 'hi' and 'goodbye' and to communicate and all these things that home schooling is somewhat incapable of doing to the same degree."

Skinner was asked how his first year as WHS principal has been.

"It's so much better here than any other place I've been associated with," Skinner said.

Although the school cannot hire all the teachers it would like to, he said, students have a good attitude that "more than makes up" for less variety of classes.

Briefly

 PSI is inviting supervisors and executives to bring their secretaries to the luncheon, which is scheduled for noon on April 24 at the Canyon Springs Inn. Cost is $7 a person. Reservations are available until April 19 by phoning Janet Keegan at 733-7260, extension 265.
 The luncheon is part of Professional Secretaries Week, which is being held from April 21-27.

District court

The following civil cases were filed this past week in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls:
 Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States vs. Robert L. Pearson. The plaintiff alleges the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff for money advanced on unearned commissions in the amount of $8,023. The plaintiff seeks to recover this sum and also asks for cost of the suit and attorney's fees.
 Donna Hansen vs. Steven Kirk Shuler. The plaintiff seeks to recover money due for the sale of a 1977 Air Stream travel trailer in the amount of $18,200 plus interest, attorney's fees and cost of the suit.

 The Federal Land Bank of Spokane vs. Keith L. and Paula R. Hulse, Robert H. and Gladys E. Garrell, United States of America, acting through Farmers Home Administration, Darrell R. and Jill A. Holton and The Federal Land Bank Association of Twin Falls. The plaintiff asks for a judgment against the defendants of $111,470 plus interest, cost of the suit, attorney's fees, that the stock pledged as security for the defendant's loan be retired, that plaintiff's mortgage be adjudged a first and prior lien and that the plaintiff's mortgage be foreclosed.

 Puregro Company dba Farm Service vs. Glen and Kathy Humphries. The plaintiff alleges the defendant owes money for agricultural services and equipment on an open account and therefore seeks the sum of $18,480 plus interest, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Probe

Sen. Larry Anderson of Twin Falls, in three contested county races, Republican voters did vote very heavily for state Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, over Republican Wes Trouserson of Gooding, and Stallings. The large Blaine County margins were enough to give both narrow victories.
 State law requires voters to give a residential address when they register, and Hansen's supporters said many Blaine County voters did not have proper addresses on their registration cards.
 Following the election, they attempted to prove their allegations by mailing Christmas cards to the county's voters they suspected of being improperly registered.
 The cards returned to rented post office boxes in Ketchum and Bellevue, Hansen supporters claimed, were evidence of improperly registered voters.
 Among those who received the cards were many prominent Republicans, including County Commissioner Rupert Jones and Magistrate Valley Republican Chairman Steve Bolter.
 Blaine County has home delivery in only isolated areas of the county, and many of its voter who registered before the law was changed in 1981 to require residential addresses do not meet the requirement.
 The state law, passed after the 1980 election in which Peavey narrowly beat his Republican opponent, did not require voters to update their registrations.
 Hansen's supporters gave Jones about 200 cards they said were mailed to voters in November's election who did not have proper addresses. After Jones initiated his investigation into the allegations, Roark called a magistrate's inquiry and joined the probe.
 On March 14, Jones announced he could find no evidence of organized voter fraud in the county, but he turned over the names of 18 voters to Roark for further investigation.
 Roark immediately eliminated 12 from suspicion, but called the grand jury to give a closer look at six.

YFCA sponsors honored by board

TWIN FALLS — The sponsors who provided financial support for the YFCA Third Grade Swim Program were honored by the YFCA Board of Directors and the Twin Falls School District during a luncheon Thursday.
 Idaho Frozen Foods, Twin Falls Bank and Trust and physicians representing the Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital received plaques for their individual donations of $3,000 toward funding the program, said YFCA Director John Eschenburg.
 The program, which began in early December, provides each third grade class in the Twin Falls School District with one hour of instruction for two weeks. During that time, children are acquainted with various aspects of water safety such as canoeing, swimming and basic first aid.
 The sponsors helped the YFCA fulfill its commitment to serve the community, said Jerry Dodds, board president.

 Dodds said they were able to achieve this by helping the third graders develop maturity through teaching water safety, and at the same time, "letting the kids have a lot of fun."
 When the program concludes in May, more than 550 students will have completed the course.

Raney's attorney denies land buys

BOISE (AP) — An attorney for Charles Raney, Twin Falls, denies that Raney purchased three parcels of Twin Falls real estate with the proceeds from illegal drug sales.
 Raney is free under a $20,000 bond, pending court action on federal charges that he sold cocaine. As part of those charges, the Justice Department has filed four legal actions, trying to confiscate property it alleges Raney purchased with profits from Similar forfeiture petitions were filed on Twin Falls real estate at 1543 Third Ave. East, 510 Lincoln St. and 3225 N. 2600 East.

 The 1243 Third Ave. East property was valued at $13,000. The land and buildings at 510 Lincoln were valued at $47,800, but the Idaho Transportation Department said it has a $40,689 interest in the property.
 Value was estimated at $04,000 on the parcel at 3225 N. 2600 East.

 credit for their expertise and advice more than any other group in the state. His staff often would make "frantic" calls to them, soliciting their comments about the Swan Falls dispute.
 The Swan Falls agreement was the result of a negotiation between the Idaho Power Co. and the state about Snake River water rights. The package of bills passed last session to enact the agreement included, among many other items, regulations on the use of water in southern Idaho and minimum flow at Swan Falls.
 Bruce Newscomb of Burley and Roger Ling of Rupert also will be honored with certificates for their contributions. These attorneys would have provided legal help if named honorary deputy attorneys general, Jones said.
 In presenting certificates, Jones said Noh was a leader in the effort to resolve the water rights dispute.
 Hyman, who is grateful for his bringing the issue before the public, was one of the defendants named by Idaho Power Co. in its claim that water users were compromising its water rights. After the suit was filed, he took six months to research the state-of-the-art aspects of the controversy involving Swan Falls.
 "The more involved I became, the more fascinating it became," Hyman said. He began to give presentations on the history of the conflict and helped organize a group of defendants who would work together.
 Martin, another organizer, said she has worked almost full-time with the group since November 1983.
 Although the state law that enacted the agreement had been passed, a lot of work remains, Jones said. Part of the Swan Falls agreement included a 10-year adjudication to determine water rights. The logistics of the process have yet to be determined, Jones said.

Pensions ruled not retroactive

BOISE (AP) — A 1981 ruling, ending the Idaho practice of treating military retirement pensions as community property, does not apply retroactively, the Idaho Supreme Court says.

The court in an Friday upheld a ruling by 4th District Judge Robert Rowlett in an Elmore County divorce action involving Eugene and Joan Ratkowski.

Ratkowski agreed in 1979 to give his wife half his military pension, under a state law in effect at the time. He filed legal action to void that arrangement after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1981 that states could not treat military retirement benefits as community property.

The Idaho Supreme Court upheld a ruling by Rowlett finding Ratkowski in contempt of court for refusing to make the payments to his ex-wife, saying the change in law was not intended to apply to agreements finalized before 1981.

Fee assessment for BSU band?

BOISE (AP) — If the Idaho Board of Education gives its approval, Boise State University students may be assessed an extra $1 per semester to reinstate the school's marching band.

Boise State hasn't had a marching band since 1975, when it was dropped as an economy move. But school officials said Thursday students voted 506-290 in a poll this week to pay an extra fee and reinstate the activity.

Mel Shelton, who directed the BSU marching band for seven years, estimated that starting costs at $130,000, including the first year's budget. That does not include new uniforms, as recommended by the school's alumni association, he said.

Publisher clears air with staff

BOISE (AP) — The publisher of The Idaho Statesman, Gary Sherlock, said Friday he had begun meeting with all staff members to "discuss and correct" concerns raised in a memorandum about the deletion of information from a news story.

The story focused on the continuing controversy over the redevelopment of downtown Boise.

"I just received the memo today," Sherlock said. "We're concerned about it. We're treating it as an internal matter, and we're meeting with our staff on it. . . . We felt it was important to discuss and completely air the concerns expressed by not only those who signed the memo but everyone on the staff."

KTUV-TV in Boise reported earlier this week that about 25 staff members signed the memorandum complaining about the deletion of information from the story at the order of Sherlock, who has been involved with a civic group promoting downtown redevelopment.

According to the television station, the memorandum claimed the editing decision was a deviation from standard newsmanship policy, damaged the paper's credibility and was a breach of the readers' trust.

Both Sherlock and staff members have said that all the information in question ultimately was published by the newspaper.

Fishery policies rile Indians

LAPWAI (AP) — Claiming the state is retaliating against the tribe's assertion of treaty rights, the Nez Perce Indians have accused state Fish and Game Director Jerry Conley of letting politics interfere with proper fishery management on their reservation.

"Our department's management policies continue to be characterized by the position . . . If the state and the tribe agree, we've got no problem with that; if the state and the tribe disagree or come into conflict, then the Department of Fish and Game will prevail," Allen Pinkham, executive council chairman, said in a letter to Conley.

"It appears as though the issue for Idaho Fish and Game is political rather than biological," Pinkham wrote in blasting Conley for a March 12 letter seeking an end to Bonneville Power Administration funding of fish research projects on the Nez Perce Reservation and lands ceded by the tribe within Idaho.

Conley was not available for comment, and Assistant Director Ken Norrie said he had not seen Pinkham's letter.

Pinkham also asked for an April 25 meeting with state officials to iron out problems over fish research and management, but there has been no response from the department.

Citing what he said was a longstanding policy of "communication, coordination and cooperation" with state and federal land management agencies over fishery management, Pinkham claimed that the policy was breached earlier this year when the Army Corps of Engineers and the department cut the tribe out of negotiations on an impact study of additional drawdowns from Dworshak Reservoir.

State faces fight for nuclear funds

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Idaho faces stiff competition for the money and jobs that would come with a federal program to test nuclear power plants for space crafts, says an Idaho National Engineering Laboratory official.

Troy Wade, INEL manager, said Thursday $10 million a year for five years and 60 to 75 full-time jobs are at stake.

Moreover, he said, up to 10 times that amount of money and jobs might be available if the project expands, he said.

Wade said INEL is competing against the Nevada Test Site, Los Alamos Laboratory in New Mexico, and the Hanford Reservation, near Richland, Wash., for what's known as the SP-100 project.

One advantage INEL has over the other sites is an easily convertible existing facility, Wade said.

The 468-of-Pilot Test Facility, scheduled to be decommissioned this summer, would save the government money, he said.

Victims' Rights week scheduled

BOISE (AP) — Next week will be Victims' Rights Week in Idaho.

Gov. John Evans signed a proclamation Friday, launching a week of speeches, seminars and workshops on problems of the victims of crimes and available assistance.

Some of the organizing work has been done by Vanguard Inc., a victims' assistance group.

Tuesday, Vanguard is sponsoring a reception and display at Boise State University. Wednesday, a panel discussion is planned on "The Emotional Trauma of the Victim and Crisis Intervention."

Thursday's discussion is "Networking for Victim Service Providers."

Friday and Saturday, the Idaho Network to Stop Violence Against Women will conduct a conference on sexual assault and counseling techniques.

Gilbert affirms innocence

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — While Supreme Court Justice Keith Gilbert has pleaded innocent to 36 counts of tax evasion and welfare fraud while refusing to waive his right to a speedy trial.

Judge Watt Prather said his trial calendar is full until Oct. 7.

But because Gilbert remains in jail on $50,000 bail, he wants to use his right to be tried within six months of being charged, which would set an Oct. 1 deadline, said his court-appointed attorney, Malcolm Moskiski.

Prather rearranged his calendar and scheduled a five-day trial on the charges for Sept. 16.

Gilbert, 45, could be sentenced to a maximum of 490 years in prison if convicted on all 36 counts of welfare fraud.

He faces an additional charge of failure to file a state income tax return for 1983, though there's some question about whether he has been charged under the wrong or misdeed section of that law.

Asked if he had any questions, Gilbert complained about the search of his Post Falls home that took place after his March 8 arrest.

"I'm a little bit confused by the broad use of the warrant used in surveilling and invading my home," he told Prather, "though this is probably not the time to address it."

Prosecutors allege that Gilbert, leader of what he calls the Restored Church of Jesus Christ, defrauded the Department of Health and Welfare for 35 months by claiming public assistance for two sons who didn't live with him.

15-year term for extortion

BOISE (AP) — A federal judge here has ordered a 15-year prison term for an Idaho State Prison inmate who tried a telephone extortion scheme against a Colorado Springs, Colo., businessman.

But U.S. District Judge Marion Callister ruled Friday the 15-year term ordered for Donald R. Holmes, 66, can be served at the same time as Holmes' current state sentence for rape.

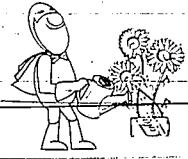

Prison records show Holmes was ordered to serve up to 30 years on a Payette County rape charge in 1978.

He and a woman companion were convicted in 1983 of extortion and conspiracy. But Holmes' conviction was overturned on appeal to the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Holmes was scheduled to go on trial again this week in Boise but instead pleaded guilty.

Callister said Holmes' new sentence can start as of Nov. 18, 1983, the time when his original sentence was to start.

34 percent of Reagans' income to taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan and his wife Nancy paid 34 percent of their earnings in 1984 federal income tax but Vice President George Bush and his wife, Barbara, paid only 13.5 percent, the White House disclosed Friday.

The Reagans' return, released here and in Santa Barbara, Calif., showed that they paid $147,826 on $440,657 in income, which included the president's $200,000 White House salary and $115,000 in interest from various sources. Reagans also reported earning $86,676 in dividends and $29,977 from pensions.

The Bushes' return, also released at the White House, showed that they paid $11,735 in federal income tax on an adjusted gross income of $87,239. The vice president's salary is $97,900 and he reported $10,936 in interest earnings, but said he lost $54,337, most of it on a financially troubled apartment complex in Houston, Texas.

In 1983, the Reagans paid just over 30 percent of their income in federal taxes and the Bushes paid 12.8 percent.

The Reagans are due a refund of $14,605 because they had $162,431 withheld from his salary or already paid to the federal government in estimated tax payments. Rather than collect the refund, Reagan said he wanted the money applied to his 1985 taxes.

Bush had $28,198 withheld from his salary, entitling him to a refund of $16,463. He chose to get the money rather than have it applied to the next year's taxes.

The president, who once said he believes in tithing or giving 10 percent of income to charity, reported contributions of $20,616 or 4.7 percent of his total income. He and his wife gave $5,000 to his alma mater, Eureka College in Illinois, and $4,786 to the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the return is "a personal and private give" to organizations and people that do not make him eligible for a tax deduction.

The Reagans are due back at the White House Sunday from a 10-day vacation at their ranch in the Santa Ynez mountains, 50 miles north of Santa Barbara.

The Bushes gave $8,215, or about 9.4 percent of their adjusted gross income, to charity. The contributions included such items as $500 to the American Red Cross, $250 to the Episcopal Church Foundation and $100 to the fire company in Kennebunkport, Maine, where Bush maintains a home. None was over $1,000.

Speakes said the president signed his return Tuesday when his accountant, Roy D. Miller, visited the ranch, and the return was sent to the Internal Revenue Service center in Fresno, Calif.

The tax form revealed that Reagan lost $114,000 in 1984 in his blind trust, into which his holdings were placed when he became president.

Asked if Reagan was unhappy about the performance of the trust, Speakes replied, "I haven't talked to him about it."

The loss by the blind trust was up sharply from 1983, when a net loss of $11,425 was reported.

As he has in the past, Reagan said he did not want $1 of his taxes to be applied to the presidential election campaign fund, which finances candidates for president. Bush did choose to have the dollar go into the fund. The Federal Election Commission said the Reagan-Bush committee received $40.4 million in federal funds for the 1984 campaign. Speakes said the president is opposed to public financing of campaigns but accepted the money because other candidates were.

Society observes anniversary of ship's sinking

Group to honor Titanic's heroes again

By IRA ROSENFELD
The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — The men and boys who gave up their places in the crowded lifeboats of the Titanic so others would survive are being honored by a small group of men dedicated to keeping the memory of their gallantry alive.

Members of the Men's Titanic Society will gather Monday, as they have on every April 15 in recent years, to note the anniversary of the 1912 sinking of the British steamer.

The Titanic was on its maiden voyage from England to New York City when it struck an iceberg the night of April 14 and 24 hours later sank in the next morning in the Atlantic. There were lifeboats for fewer than half the passengers, and some 1,500 people went to a watery grave.

Among those who died were hundreds of male passengers who had given up their places in the crowded lifeboats so that women could survive. There were 705 survivors.

To honor those men and boys, Congress authorized the erection of a Titanic memorial. The statue, an 18-foot high partially clad male standing on a six-foot pedestal with his arms outstretched, was dedicated in 1931.

Designed by Henry Bacon, architect of the Lincoln Memorial, the statue is located on the Potomac River on what is now the site of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

Each year, on the anniversary of the sinking of the Titanic, members of the Women's Titanic Memorial Association put a wreath of flowers at the base of the memorial.

In 1966, however, the memorial was taken down to make way for the Kennedy Center. Stored in Fort Washington, Md., for two years, the memorial eventually was relocated to a spot near Fort McNair, where it is hidden from view by all but an occasional stroller or jogger.

"The memorial was erected by the women of America," says Jim Silman, founder of the Men's Titanic Society. "But where are the women now? When the monument was moved America's women forgot what happened on the Titanic."

"We toast these men so that their great sacrifice will never be forgotten," Silman became interested in the memorial after producing a spot about the memorial for WRC-TV in Washington in 1978.

Beginning the following April 15 and every year since, members of the society gather at the memorial to honor the men and boys who gave their lives.

"We are dressed in black tie and toast these gentlemen with champagne," said Silman. "Each member of the society is called on to make a separate toast. The whole thing takes about 25 minutes."

The all-male society, which increases its number by one each year, will admit its 13th member Monday.

Overseas World War II brides to attend reunion on Queen Mary

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Nearly four decades after they arrived in the United States, jubilant but fearful, aboard the ocean liner Queen Mary, 400 World War II brides are gathering on the ship for a weekend reunion.

All 1,666 overseas women who had married American servicemen traveled with their 688 children to their new country aboard the ship, now anchored in Long Beach Harbor as a tourist attraction.

"From the portholes and on deck wives they jammed against the rails, they cheered wildly and waved colored kerchiefs," read a front-page story in The New York Times on Feb. 10, 1946, the day the Queen Mary sailed past the Statue of Liberty into New York Harbor.

Their faces were joyous, the article said, but behind the gaily lurked concern over their reception in this new land.

"It was so exciting, so confusing," Eloise Howell, who now lives in Long Beach, recalled Tuesday. "We were so happy to be coming here, yet so concerned about what awaited us."

But Mrs. Howell, who lived in a suburb of London when she married a U.S. Army Signal Corpsman in 1945, said she found most of the worry was for naught.

"The cold reception I feared we might get from American women never materialized for me," she said. "I never met with any animosity anywhere."

Mrs. Howell said she recalls a welcoming speech made to the group by first lady Eleanor Roosevelt. "This great lady told us we belonged here and had every right to be here," she said.

Another of the war brides, Peggy Johnson of Marina del Rey, recalls the Queen Mary was "still a troopship, really," and accommodations were short of luxurious.

"And it was in February, and the sea was rough, and a lot of the women and babies were sick," said Mrs. Johnson, who married a serviceman with the Eighth Army Air Force in Bedford, England. "But the joy of arriving here, despite the rough-seas and the worry about our reception, was so great."

The reunion grew out of a research project by Ellic Shukert of San Francisco and Barbara Seibetta of Pacifica, who are daughters of war brides.

"We became interested in the individual and collective histories of those courageous women and have found that the impact on American life has been profound," Mr. Shukert said. "Having experienced war first hand, these women had a special appreciation for the meaning of liberty."

Bake sale to aid drug probe funds

STANDARDSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Sheriff William Morris has enlisted his wife, Trudy, and the wives of his deputies in the war on drugs in Virginia's Greene County.

Mrs. Morris and four other wives are holding a "bake sale" Saturday morning, selling cakes and cookies to help the sheriff raise the money he says he needs to finance investigations.

The idea came to Morris after he was given only half the $500 he sought last week from the county board of supervisors.

Morris admitted his bake sale may embarrass the supervisors who voted against more money.

Baseball
Philadelphia starter Jerry Kossman shut the Astros out for five innings and the Phillies scored three times in the top-of-the-sixth to go ahead 3-0 before Houston's big inning.

San Diego 7 Atlanta 3
ATLANTA (AP) — Steve Garvey drilled a pair of solo homers and Kevin McElreath and Al Bumbry rapped two-run doubles to power the San Diego Padres to 7-3 victory over Atlanta Friday night, spelling the Braves' home opener before a crowd of 45,389.

Pittsburgh 6 St. Louis 4
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jason Thompson drilled a two-run homer to key a four-run first inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates celebrated their home opener Friday night with a 6-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

day and spoiled Los Angeles' home opener with a 4-1 victory over the Dodgers.
Mike Krukow, facing his 1985 debut, checked the Dodgers on eight hits, including a solo home run by Sid Bream in the third inning, the first major league homer for the rookie first baseman. Krukow walked one and struck out two.

Mets catcher Gary Carter went to the mound for a little pep talk. "He told me I wasn't concentrating on him, I was letting the hitter bother me," Berenyi said. "He told me I was throwing too good a game to let it get to me and to just throw the ball."

Houston 8 Philadelphia 3
HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Terry Pugh drove in three runs with a triple and single in a seven-run third inning Friday night and Enos Cabell provided the game-winning hit with a single to rally the Astros to an 8-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies over the off-season from Monday and spoiled Los Angeles' home opener with a 4-1 victory over the Dodgers.

Ripken game streak grows to 444 in row

BALTIMORE (AP) — Cal Ripken Jr. was in the Orioles' lineup Friday night, his sprained left ankle heavily taped and his streak of 444 consecutive games intact, team officials said.

Ripken, who injured the ankle during Wednesday's 7-1 victory over the Texas Rangers, was to start at shortstop and bat third in Friday night's game against the Toronto Blue Jays, said Rick Vaughn, a spokesman for the Orioles.

Ripken has played in 4,009 straight innings since the streak started.
The Orioles' orthopedist, Dr. Charles Silberstein, examined Ripken at 6 p.m. and said playing in the game would not cause permanent damage to Ripken's swollen ankle, leaving the decision to play up to the 27-year-old shortstop, Vaughn said.

Ripken sprained his ankle during a pickoff in Baltimore's victory over Texas Wednesday.
Action Friday would push Ripken past Orioles' first baseman Eddie Murray for second place on the team's all-time consecutive game list with 445 and put Ripken within 18 games of Brooks Robinson's record.

Cinderella Seattle rolls up fourth straight victory

SEATTLE (AP) — Jim Presley belted his third home run in three nights and Matt Young gave up five hits over 8 1/2 innings Friday night as the Seattle Mariners edged the Minnesota Twins 2-1 for their fourth straight victory.

Ken Schum took the loss despite pitching a three-hitter in his season debut.
Presley snapped a 1-1 tie in the bottom of the fourth when he drove a 2-1 pitch 209 feet deep into the left center-field bleachers.

Milwaukee 11 Texas 6
ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Bill Schroeder knocked in six runs with his first career grand slam homer as a single, Friday night.

The next inning, Cecil Cooper led off with a double, Mark Brouhard singled and Paul Householder walked to load the bases. Schroeder then lofted a drive that just cleared the wall in left field for a grand slam off a single that made it 7-3.

lined a bases-loaded triple Friday night to lead the Baltimore Orioles over the Toronto Blue Jays 7-2.
Scott McGreer, 124 lifetime versus Toronto, went five innings for the victory in his first start of the season, plus allowed seven hits, including George Bell's home run in the first inning and Willie Upshaw's homer in the fourth.

Thomas had 17 points and 21 assists, giving him 1,110 assists to eclipse the old mark of 1,099 set by former Piston Kevin Porter during the 1978-79 season.

Anderson, who led the Cavaliers with 25 points, also saved the game with a 12-footer with one second left in regulation to tie the score 96-96.

Portland 131 Dallas 111
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Kiki Vandeweghe scored 28 of his 38 points in the first half as the Portland Trail Blazers raced to a 131-111 National Basketball Association victory over the Dallas Mavericks Friday night.

Phoenix scored 11 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter, including a pivotal 3-point goal with 1:26 remaining, as the Phoenix Suns beat the Utah Jazz 96-92 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

The Hawks outscored the Bulls 14-2 in a six-minute flurry in the fourth quarter and handed the Chicago their third loss of the year against 38 wins.

During a brief ceremony, Thomas was given the game ball and received an ovation from the crowd of 17,483.

In overtime, three-point plays by Roy Hinson and Johnny Davis, who scored 17 points points apiece, gave Cleveland a 102-96 lead, but the Knicks rallied with eight straight points for a 104-102 edge. A basket by Anderson and two free throws by Davis with 16 seconds left made it 106-104, but Trent Tucker's basket with four seconds left, dethroned the game again.

Portland and San Antonio are tied for the fifth place at 41-40 in the Western Conference standings with one game to play. The fifth-place finisher will play Dallas in the opening round of the playoffs, while the sixth-place team plays Houston.

Phoenix trailed 32-22 after the first quarter, 54-49 at halftime and 74-72 after the third quarter, took its first lead of the game at 88-87 on Kyle Macy's jumper with 3:31 left.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

Nothing is more terrible than activity without insight.
— Thomas Carlyle

In the play of today's slam, it's right to test the clubs before the diamonds — but not in the way that many would.

In many games, South would win his spade king, draw trumps and then take the club finesse. East captures dummy's jack with his king and the slam goes down whether East returns a spade or shifts to diamonds. Assuming a spade return, dummy wins and South tries to split the clubs 3-3. When this fails, South is reduced to taking the diamond finesse. He can mutter about bad luck, but he's down one.

A much better way to play the slam is to draw trumps and lead a club to dummy's ace and a club back. East wins the king and South no longer needs the diamond finesse. A low diamond from dummy goes on to the club queen and South has his 12 tricks.

What if East doesn't have a doubt on club king? Then either South West will win the second club trick. In either case, South will have time to test for a 3-3 club break before he commits himself in diamonds.
