Summit talk: Arms talks OK, embargo not

BONN, West Germany (AP) — President Reagan won endorsement from summit partners Friday for his strategy in nuclear arms control talks...

and constructively in order to achieve significant agreements there, the statement said. One U.S. official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said this endorsed the U.S. rejection of a Soviet attempt to link talks on curbing strategic and medium-range missiles to "concessions by the United States in the space and defense area."

Reagan and Kohl both will make remarks earlier Sunday at the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp near Hannover. White House aides speaking privately said Reagan's address there will be highly emotional.

The Bitburg trip has been criticized by majorities in both houses of the U.S. Congress, and by Jewish, veterans and other groups. On Friday, plans were announced for 500 students from 17 nations to go to Bitburg to protest Reagan's visit.

"It was a command — no, let me say a request — that came through normal channels, from the Ministry of Defense," said Col. Bernhard von Stauffenberg, 50, whose father Lt. Col. Claus von Stauffenberg was executed in 1944 for leading an abortive plot to kill Hitler by placing a bomb under his war conference table.

Unemployment at same 7.3% level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilian unemployment in April was stuck at 7.3 percent for the third straight month, the Labor Department reported Friday, as job levels in manufacturing continued to slide in a weak economy.

Area figures — B1

A moderation in consumer spending, said David Jones, chief economist at Aubrey G. Lanston Co. Inc. He saw unemployment heading upward to 7.7 percent or higher by the end of the year.

Poland ousts U.S. diplomats

Action angers State Department officials; 4 Poles told to leave

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Communist government on Friday ordered the expulsion of two American diplomats accused of helping lead an illegal May Day demonstration.

charge d'affaires in Warsaw, John R. Davis, was summoned to the Foreign Ministry and told that William Harwood, 38, a first secretary at the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw, and David Hopper, 32, consul at the American consulate in Krakow, would have seven days to leave the country.

America in Warsaw was told on May 3 at the Foreign Ministry that in light of the U.S. authorities' position Poland was forced to order the expulsion of the diplomats, it said.

Torture murder ruling upheld by high court

BOISE (AP) — The cold pages of a legal decision paint a horrifying picture of months of torture endured by a 2-year-old boy — finally tortured to death by an adult he couldn't please.

The Idaho Supreme Court on Friday voted 4-1 to sustain the first-degree murder conviction of Gene Francis Stuart, 2nd District Judge Andrew Schiawm's decision to impose the death penalty.

Senate OKs cuts, but not in own pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican-controlled Senate voted overwhelmingly Friday to slash $17.5 billion from Medicare and Medicaid spending over the next three years, then refused on a tie vote to recommend a symbolic 10 percent pay cut for members of Congress.

Glenns Ferry spud plant shut down indefinitely

By DIANA HOOLEY Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — The Redi-Spod plant in Glenns Ferry has been indefinitely shut down. Plant manager Bobby Whitlock said he received a memo last week from Redi-Spod's parent company, Marvin Properties of San Lorenzo, Calif., citing current market conditions and insufficient volume for frozen potato products as reasons for the closure.

In early April, said Whitlock. Last week Whitlock said he and three other key employees were laid off as well.

Whitlock said Marvin Properties spokesman John Hodder refused to comment at the time on the reasons for the plant closure.

Alleged neo-Nazi Tate must stand trial

Saturday, May 4, 1985 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-3

Nation

An officer escorts David Tate of Athol, Idaho, into court

FORSYTH, Mo. (AP) — A reputed member of a neo-Nazi group was ordered Friday to stand trial in the shooting death of a state trooper and the wounding of the trooper's partner at a routine traffic checkpoint.

David C. Tate, 22, said to be a member of a white-supremacist group called The Order, was ordered to trial on charges of first-degree murder and assault after the trooper wounded in the shootings April 15 identified Tate in court as the assailant.

Tate was charged in the slaying of Trooper Jimmie Linegar, 31, and wounding of Trooper Allen Hines, 35. Taney County Circuit Judge Sam Appleby set a tentative arraignment date of May 16.

The first-degree murder charge is punishable upon conviction by death or life in prison with no chance of parole.

The shootings prompted a five-day manhunt by hundreds of heavily armed police in the wooded Ozark Mountains of southern Missouri before Tate, of Athol, Idaho, was captured in a Forsyth city park, about 15 miles from the shootings site.

Tate and 22 others were named April 15 in a 20-count indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Seattle, charging them with involvement in The Order, and saying some group members were responsible for murders and armored car robberies.

Two of those indicted were captured two days after Tate's arrest when police besieged a white-supremacist camp about 35 miles away in Arizona; only one of those indicted remains at large.

Much of the testimony at the hearing Friday came from Hines, who identified Tate as the man who shot him.

"No, sir, there is not," Hines said when he was asked if there was any doubt that Tate, sitting about 20 feet away from him, was the man who shot him with an automatic weapon.

Hines testified that the shooting occurred after Tate's van was stopped at a routine roadblock he and Linegar were working.

A computer check showed the driver's license carried by Tate was issued to a man wanted on an out-of-state warrant on a weapons charge, and Linegar ordered him out of the van, said Hines.

Hines said he walked to the rear of the van, then, "I heard a short blast of automatic weapons fire" followed by a longer burst.

'Whiz kid' a probable suicide

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — The death of Leonard M. Ross, a one-time television whiz kid who later served as an economic adviser under President Jimmy Carter, was an apparent suicide, police said Friday.

Ross, 39, was found fully clothed at the bottom of a motel swimming pool on Wednesday.

"He was unquestionably a genius," said Jesse Choper, dean of Boalt Hall law school at the University of California at Berkeley, where Ross taught for several years.

Shuttle's monkey, tests improve

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A sick monkey that had worried Challenger's astronauts regained its appetite Friday, and the shuttle crew revived two ailing experiments, putting all but two of 15 research instruments in working order for the second half of the mission.

The astronauts, following instructions from the ground, brought a complex cosmic ray detector experiment to life by doing some rewiring and reprogramming.

"The crew that launches with broken equipment brings back good equipment," said pilot Fred Gregory as the device suddenly starting giving off signals.

"Oh, boy! That's fantastic," yelled J. N. Goswami, the co-investigator of the Indian-built cosmic ray detector. He was watching the repair from the science control center here.

Just 10 hours earlier, orbiting scientist Taylor Wang repaired a fluid dynamics experiment that also had been dead since the beginning of the flight. He spent 2½ days rewiring around a short circuit.

The squirrel monkey, which was suffering from motion illness in space, had eaten little since Monday's launch and astronaut physician Bill Thornton fretted over his condition for several days.

After feeding the monkey by hand, Thornton reported from the manager's about Spacelab 3 that, "Our feeding crisis is over. I wouldn't have believed the effect of a caring human hand."

He came up and took one banana pellet in both hands and then I couldn't feed him fast enough," said Thornton. "Now he's over there punching them out of the auto feeder."

In just minutes the little monkey ate 35 of the BB-sized pellets. Thornton said he was worried about the monkey overeating, and received permission to turn off the feeder for awhile to force the monkey to slow down.

Both the restored research devices lost some experiment time, but scientists said they will be able to harvest vast amounts of data in the second half of the Spacelab 3 flight.

Education chief raps pay, system

WASHINGTON (AP) — Education Secretary William J. Bennett said Friday that many teachers should be paid "a good deal more" than they now earn.

But he told leaders of the National Education Association that money alone is not the answer to restoring the teaching profession to the prominence it deserves.

He criticized the pedagogical pecking order that rates — and remunerates — educators more highly if they are in higher education rather than in elementary and secondary schools.

"We have to get over this notion that the later on in life that you teach someone and that the less influence you have on that person, that the more important you are," he said to loud applause from the NEA's 130-member board of directors.

Classroom teachers should be invited regularly to speak to civic organizations, and newspapers should solicit them to write columns for opinion pages, he said. The public should realize that an educator can have a bigger, long-term impact on a community than its mayor, he said.

"Many of our teachers need to be getting a good deal more money than they are getting now," Bennett told the union leaders.

Earlier, in an interview for an NEA publication, Bennett said that the average teacher salary — $23,546 — is about right "for average teachers." But he said the pay "should be higher for very good teachers" and "zero for bad teachers."

Dalkon Shield suits filed

BOISE (AP) — Three Idaho women who claim they were left infertile by the Dalkon Shield intrauterine device have filed multimillion-dollar lawsuits against the contraceptive's manufacturer.

Separate suits were filed on behalf of Sandra G. Wilson, Dara Higgins Churchill, both of Pocatello, and Betty Sherrill of Boise, in 4th District Court in Boise.

Each of the women sought $4 million, plus medical expenses, lost wages and court costs from A.H. Robins Co., maker and distributor of the Dalkon Shield. Mrs. Wilson's husband, Richard, also sought $100,000 in general damages.

Lance Churchill, the Boise attorney who filed the suits and the brother of Dara Higgins Churchill, said 25 other suits have been filed in Ada County over the company's IUD.

The three suits said the Dalkon Shield tended to perforate the uterine wall. The contraceptive's string portion produced a "wicking effect," causing it to conduct bacteria from the vagina through the cervical opening into the uterus, the suits said.

Wind storm creates havoc

BOISE (AP) — Idaho 55 near Marsling was closed on Friday because of a traffic accident that occurred during a wind storm. Gusts up to 43 mph blew into southwestern Idaho Friday afternoon, knocking out traffic lights in Nampa, the National Weather Service said. Idaho Power Co. reported a weather-related service outage in parts of Boise lasted about 12 minutes.

The winds were moving eastward and were expected to have died down substantially by the time they reached the Twin Falls area. Motorists were warned to beware of low visibility due to swirling dust.

Visibility at the Boise airport was reduced to three miles.

Warehouse fire hits Boise

BOISE (AP) — Boise firemen spent much of Thursday night battling a warehouse fire in the downtown district.

Fire Capt. Joe DeNardi said Friday the fire was reported about 12:38 a.m. in a vacant warehouse at 415 S. Ninth. Firemen had the blaze under control in about one hour, but spent 3½ hours at the scene mopping up.

DeNardi said the warehouse was empty. There was no immediate estimate of damage or indication how the fire started.

Deputies forced to fill in LAVA HOT SPRINGS (AP) — The town without a police force has hired county sheriff's deputies to take on their off-duty hours until replacements can be found for two officers who quit.

Lava Hot Springs has lacked police since last Saturday, when Officer Brad Colling resigned. Police Chief Paul Fagnant, citing lack of "city council support," had quit April 17.

Mayor Karen Keller said no one has called for police help since then. Both Bannock County and the Idaho State Police have promised to respond in case of an emergency.

In the meantime, she said off-duty deputies will fill in nights, weekends and holidays.

Ms. Keller said she doesn't know how long it will take to hire permanent replacements who added several applications have been received.

Crash injuries kill teen-ager

RIVERVIEW (AP) — A 16-year-old Thomas youth has died from injuries sustained in an April 18 bicycle-truck accident, authorities say.

Paul Bingham died Thursday at Eastern Idaho Regional Medical Center's Riverview facility. He was injured when his bicycle collided with a potato truck.

Bingham, son of Richard P. and Dawn Marie Bingham, sustained severe head injuries in the accident on State Highway 39 near Snake River High School and had been in the intensive care unit.

Flood warning at Henry's Fork

REXBURG (AP) — Rising water has prompted issuance of a flood warning for Henry's Fork of the Snake River near here, the National Weather Service says.

Flood stage for the Henry's Fork west of Rexburg is nine feet, and the river was expected to reach 10 feet by Saturday morning, the Madison County Sheriff's Department said.

Low-lying pastureland was under water, but no homes or cropland were threatened Friday by the annual spring runoff, officials said.

Change in food stamp rule potentially crucial

BOISE (AP) — An advocate for low-income families says a proposed rule change affecting food stamp eligibility could force some families to choose between eating properly or heating their homes.

The Department of Health and Welfare held the first of two hearings Friday on proposed changes in the rules used to determine food stamp eligibility.

The second session is planned Monday in Lewiston. After that, hearing officer Jean Uranga, Boise, said she will accept written comments until May 16 and then will have 30 days in which to submit a recommendation to the department.

Wanda Michaelson, director of the Idaho Hunger Action Council, was among witnesses urging some modification of the rule change. She estimated that the eligibility change could cost food recipients $5 to $10 per month in food stamp benefits.

If the changes make senior citizens ineligible for even minimum food stamp benefits, the loss could be $15 to $20 per month, she said.

The Food-Nutrition Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the agency which administers the food stamp program, is urging the state to cut its "utility allowance" on grounds that the allowance "substantially overestimates actual fuel costs in Idaho."

Low-income families' eligibility for food stamps is determined by a number of factors including income. Family income is reduced by living expenses such as utility costs.

Cutting the allowance for utility costs would lower families' eligibility for food stamps.

Ms. Michaelson said that change would drop Idaho's utility allowance below the standard used five years ago and there have been substantial utility cost increases since then.

Revenues appear adequate

BOISE (AP) — Idaho tax revenues appear adequate to meet the budgets of state agencies for the remaining two months of the fiscal year, the governor's chief budget analyst says.

Gov. John Evans will not request a revenue holdback during the remaining two months of the fiscal year, said Martin L. Peterson, administrator of the Division of Financial Management.

But Peterson plans to warn the Idaho Board of Education at its May 16 meeting in Boise that next year might be a different matter.

"What we want to do more than anything is make them aware of the fact that if we have a problem during the current fiscal year, it is safe to assume that will extend into the next year as well," Peterson said.

Higher education received an 11 percent increase in its state ap-

Marketing drive ahead for Trans IV bus service

TWIN FALLS — Local residents should be hearing more about Trans IV bus service this summer.

While service will not be changed, the local non-profit bus system will put a new emphasis on marketing with the help of some federal money.

The bus system now provides some service in Twin Falls, Jerome and Cassia counties. The service is divided among the College of Southern Idaho, senior citizens centers, social service agencies and the general public.

Presently, the company spends just $3,000, or 1 percent of its present annual budget, on marketing, planned by the Trans IV staff.

Most of that goes for printing and distributing brochures and pamphlets in the area, says director Charlie Chambers. The private, non-profit company has no one on staff with much marketing expertise, he says.

Officials of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration are concerned that Trans IV's experience is typical of small transit systems in remote locations where the local manager has to be an expert in everything from finance to personnel to marketing, says Gary McCain, marketing professor at Boise State University.

To help solve the problem, UMTA has awarded the Idaho Transportation Department an $86,000 grant to establish a pilot program to show small transit system managers how to work with local universities to develop more sophisticated marketing programs.

The department has contracted with McCain to work with local bus systems in Idaho Falls, Pocatello and Twin Falls to establish a program that can be copied across the nation.

In Twin Falls, 400 television interviews have been completed with Jerome and Twin Falls residents. Bus passengers have also been interviewed. And this week questionnaires about Trans IV were sent to members of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Long-range marketing plans will be drawn up from the responses later this month, and remaining grant money will be split among Twin Falls, Pocatello and Idaho Falls to start the programs this summer.

Talks agreed upon

By DEANS S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Attorneys for the Twin Falls School Board and the Twin Falls Education Association have struck an agreement that will get the two sides back to the bargaining table, both sides say.

"It looks like we're going back to the table," said board attorney Phil Oberrecht Friday evening.

He said the board and the union have each agreed not to appeal Fifth District Court Judge Daniel Huributt's April 12 decision in the union's bad faith bargaining suit that ordered the board back to the table to negotiate "contract language" that dealt with teacher rights.

Huributt denied union's request for renewed bargaining on salary and insurance benefits and found both sides guilty of bad faith bargaining.

Oberrecht said he had proposed the agreement to the union after the board had decided in a closed executive session Tuesday night that they would not appeal the case if the union would agree not to appeal.

Oberrecht said union attorney Byron Johnson called him at 5:09 p.m. Friday to say that he had met with union representatives and they had decided not to appeal.

Oberrecht said no firm date has yet been set, but that the board will have one "in a big hurry."

"The Association will not appeal the case. It is our intent to get back to the table without delay next week," said teachers union president Dick Chilcote.

"It is our intention to quickly and amicably reach a conclusion to the bargaining for this year. We will approach the table in as cooperative a manner as possible and we wish to approach the table without delay," Chilcote said.

He said the negotiating team will meet with teachers Tuesday at 4:15 p.m. in the Twin Falls High School cafeteria to discuss the bargaining session.

"This is great news that we can get back to the table," said board chairman Gene Champlin. "I hope this can proceed rapidly, we've got to start on next year's," he said.

Champlin said the board would not be able to set a date for the next negotiating session until they checked with their hired negotiators, Jerry Gales and Randy Bohannon.

He said the two Washington state-based negotiators may be busy since many of the districts they work for have probably begun talks on 1985-1986 contracts.

Campbell among audience for attorney's address

By ANNETTE CARV
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Everything about a federal grand jury is as secret as the government can make it, said assistant U.S. attorney Dan Hawley at a Sawtooth Press Club lunch Friday.

The comment drew questions from reporters and an unanticipated member of the audience, Mitchell Campbell, Twin Falls, who was recently indicted by a federal grand jury for the sale of cocaine, about the accountability of those participating in grand jury activities.

Campbell, who recorded Hawley's remarks on a tape recorder, asked what a citizen who suspected a federal attorney of unethical behavior could do.

Hawley said that anyone could report the attorney to the Public Integrity Section, or even complain to the attorney, who would be required to report the complaint to the section.

Because only attorneys for the government are allowed to come before the grand jury, in a sense "we are on our honor," Hawley said.

However, attorneys are prevented from abusing their power by records that are kept of proceedings before grand juries, Hawley said. Only federal attorneys and invited witnesses, which may not include the person being considered for indictment, are allowed at grand jury proceedings.

After the investigation is completed, a federal judge can decide to release the transcripts to the defense attorney in a subsequent trial and investigators. If no indictment is handed down, or if the testimony will endanger a life or affect investigation of another case, the transcripts are unlikely to be released, he said.

No person can be tried in federal court for a felony unless that person is indicted by a federal grand jury, he said. Members of the grand jury are drawn from voter lists throughout the state.

A jury which may range from 16 to 25 people, may be called for as long as 18 months, meeting once or twice a month, he said.

Hawley described grand juries "as very independent—they can determine the direction of an investigation."

Both the names of grand jury members and persons being considered for indictment are kept a secret, he said. The names of members are kept a secret to prevent tampering, and the names of suspects are concealed to save their reputations in case they are exonerated or not enough evidence is found to indict them, Hawley said.

He said he was concerned with reports in Magic Valley media that as many as 12 people were being considered for indictment in connection with cocaine sales.

"I'm concerned that as far as I know it was my case," he said. "I'm not saying it was not correct, but it wasn't I would like someone to tell me who the 12 were."

Hawley also discussed wire taps, saying they were only used after other investigative methods are exhausted.

County officials consider construction alternatives for jail

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — An Idaho Falls construction company proposed Friday a lease-purchase agreement to build a new Twin Falls County jail.

Another alternative, said Reed H. Miller of Ormond Construction, was to contract for space in a proposed regional and private jail facility.

County officials are looking for alternatives since a $6.2 million bond election to finance a proposed 59,000-square-foot building was defeated March 19.

Commissioner Judy Felton told Miller that the county first wanted documentation of the company's other projects.

Miller replied, "My job is to quality you to see if you have the money" for a lease agreement, Felton said that would depend on the lease the county proposed.

If the county wanted the same type of building it had proposed to the voters, financing in a lease would be slightly higher than the interest on a general obligation bond, Miller said. A lease still would be "fairly economical" with a contract stretched possibly over a 15-year period.

Miller proposed a letter of intent between the county and company. The letter would cost the county nothing and the company would know "they have a deal," he added.

Felton said the county had no money in the budget for a lease agreement. "We looked at lease agreements two years ago and couldn't afford them then," she said. Miller then mentioned he was part of a group planning a privately-owned regional jail. He said he did not want to elaborate during the meeting on who was involved in the project during the meeting.

Miller did say the project was "speculative," but the group wanted to build a 100-bed facility to house long-term adult inmates from counties in the southern part of the state.

Although he said the regional jail plan—just was in its preliminary stages, Miller said counties could be charged $35 a day per inmate if it contracted for space in the facility. If there was no contract, the price would be about $12.

"Maybe you need to keep us involved," Felton said. Miller added that he would send the commissioners a sample contract to review.

While a lease agreement for a new building would solve the county's present jail problems, a regional facility would be a more temporary solution, Miller added.

Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said, "All we need is the money."

The construction company's offer was only one alternative the county is considering to obtain a new jail.

The commissioners have contacted a Tennessee company that proposed a lease agreement to them two years ago. The company has not yet replied.

In another development, Ada County Sheriff Vaughn Killen last month rejected a proposal to house Twin Falls County inmates at the Boise jail if the Twin Falls County facility was closed.

During the campaign to promote the bond, Twin Falls County officials said the 74-year-old jail could be reduced to a holding facility by a federal judge if it was found unconstitutional because of overcrowding.

In an April 23 letter to Twin Falls County Sheriff Jim Munn, Killen refused Munn's proposal that Ada County designate some space for Twin Falls County inmates.

"As you may be aware, we are in the process of remodeling our jail and at the same time we are housing some rather high profile prisoners for the federal government. For the immediate future we cannot commit ourselves to any added responsibilities," Killen wrote.

Jerome teachers OK $112,600 salary deal

By INA HADAM

JEROME — A salary package of $112,600 for teachers in the Jerome School District was agreed upon in the final negotiating session Wednesday between the Jerome Education Association and school district administrators.

"This is the first time we have ever agreed on a sum," said Superintendent Stephenson Youngerman. He said the district's priority this year was for teacher salaries.

"We had a good mix of people at the negotiating table," Youngerman said. "I am pleased with the progress, and we should be able to have contracts signed before school lets."

Ray Parton, chairman of the JEA negotiating committee, said he heard from teachers that they wanted to have everything settled by the end of school, so the JEA's goal was for a speedy agreement.

"Knowing the district's financial situation, the only thing we really bargained for was salaries," said Parton.

"We went in with a couple of objectives, and we were very pleased that the board accepted our proposals in good faith," he said.

The package agreement is for a lump sum of new monies to be used for salary increases. The sum does

But jobless rate soars in north

Warm weather aids local employment

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment in the Magic Valley dropped during April as warm weather allowed agricultural and construction workers to begin their spring chores.

But in the northernmost counties of the state, the jobless rate soared by almost a full percentage point due to a continuing downturn in the lumber industry, state employment officials reported Friday.

With all regions of the state counted, Idaho's unemployment rate for April was 6.5 percent, the same as for March. Translated into jobs, 28,100 people were unemployed from a work force of 433,700.

In southern Idaho, including the Magic Valley, warmer than normal weather was a main factor in creating jobs.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties slid to 6.3 percent, 2 percentage points lower than March, said Lon McDonald, Department of Employment job force analyst based at Twin Falls.

The office has recorded high job placements during April, and about 400 Magic Valley workers dropped their unemployment insurance, indicating new jobs in the marketplace, he said.

Most of the gains came in non-agricultural and other outdoor industries. Some service businesses also were hiring, he said. According to department figures, 35,000 people had jobs and 2,144 remained unemployed during the month.

Canyon County area showed a 1.1 percent drop in joblessness, the most largest in the state.

But trouble continued in the job markets of the Panhandle and in the electronics industry throughout the state, said department director Scott McDonald (no relation).

The jobless rate in northern Idaho, where the timber industry is in a slump, was the highest in the state at 10.6 percent, 9 percentage points above a year ago.

Statewide, layoffs were only offset partially by gains in summer jobs, Scott McDonald said. And, although agricultural employment was a bright spot, the hirings were 500 fewer than at the same time in April 1984, according to state estimates.

Nevertheless, "The employment forecast looks fairly good for the next several months," Sept. McDonald said. "Seasonal jobs should increase with the weather and the summer tourism season will create new work opportunities, he said.

Regional unemployment rates and the change from March are:

- Panhandle (Coeur d'Alene) — 10.6 percent, up 3 percent.
- Lewiston-Clarkston — 5.5 percent, down 1 percent.
- Canyon County — 7.2 percent, down 1.1 percent.
- Boise area — 4.5 percent, no change.
- Magic Valley — 6.3 percent, down 2 percent.
- Pocatello — 6.2 percent, up 1 percent.
- Idaho Falls — 4.2 percent, no change.

School board hopefuls finish applying

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS—School board positions will be filled May 21 when area school districts hold trustee elections. Today was the last day for candidates to file applications to have their names placed on the ballot.

Elections will be held throughout Magic Valley, with polls open from noon to 8 p.m. in each district.

Patrons in four districts also will cast votes that day for maintenance and operations levies and supplemental override levies.

In Cassia County, school officials are asking for a $500,000 levy, which is a 5 percent increase over last year. Camas County's $51,194 levy represents a $9,000 decrease from last year's levy. The $35,000 levy in Filer the first such levy to be requested in that district.

Shoshone voters will decide the fate of a $155,000 levy, which requires a simple majority to pass, and the $100,000 levy for a major school repair, which needs the approval of two-thirds of the votes cast. Candidates in each district are:

• Gooding: Incumbents in both zones are unopposed. Zone 1—Martin N. Sabala, who joined the board by appointment in 1981 and was elected in 1983. Zone 2—Clare Meier, chairman and ten-year veteran of the board.

• Wendell: Zone 1—First-term incumbent Rex Jones will face a challenge from Vernon Mason, who ran in 1982. Zone 2—Jim Davis, appointed to the seat in 1984, did not file his petition before the deadline Friday.

However, school officials say Davis brought his petition in shortly after the deadline, and they will schedule a hearing to decide if he may place his name on the ballot. Davis said he will run as a write-in candidate if the petition is disallowed. No other candidates filed in the seat.

• Hagerman: Zone 5—Alfred Sandy is unopposed in his bid for a second term.

• Blaine: Zone 3—Larry Graves, who has served for 12 years, is unopposed for another term.

• Blaine: Zone 2—Kathy Godey, appointed to the board last November, is unopposed for her third, three-year term. Zone 4—No first-term incumbent Peter Flood will face Chalk Donaldson.

• Camas County: Zone 3—Jack Frostenson is unopposed in his bid for a third term. Zone 2—Craig Tucker, appointed two months ago, will face Jeff Copeland for a three-year term.

• Cassia County: Incumbents in three zones are unopposed. Zone 2—Guy Corley. Zone 3—Neal Jepsen. Zone 4—Michael Judd.

• Glenn County: Zone 1—Carmel Myers, Ill. and Walter "Rocky" Trail will vie for a seat being vacated by Lee Presley who served nine years on the board.

• Jerome: Zone 1—First-term incumbent Ward Hulen will return unopposed.

• Jerome: Zone 2—First-term incumbent Jim Cobble will face Linda Bricker.

• Valley: Both incumbents are unopposed. Zone 1—Bob Hopsen is finishing his first term. Zone 2—Delbert Keith is completing a third term.

• Blinn: No incumbent, are unopposed. Zone 4—Harold Smith. Zone 1—Larry Buskirk. • Blinn: Zone 5—David Ross and Kenneth Hulse.

will face a seat being vacated by Gary Loomis.

• Filer: Zone 2—Third-term incumbent Tom Chandler is unopposed.

• Kimberly: Zone 2—Board chairman G. Kent Taylor, finishing his first term, will face a challenge from Larry Anderson. Zone 3—James L. Campbell, appointed last year, will seek a three-year term unopposed. Zone 4—Mary Ann Fisher, also appointed last year, has no opposition in seeking the remaining year of the term. The position will come up for election again next year.

• Castleton: Zone 4—Terry Halsey and Marcela Helle will vie for the position being vacated by Jim Clark. Zone 5—First-term incumbent unopposed for Roger Clark's seat.

• Murghau: Zone 2—Incumbent Allen Cummins is unopposed.

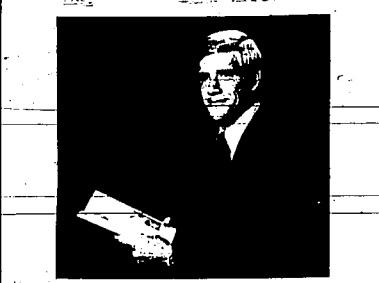

• Shoshone: Both incumbents will run unopposed. Zone 5—Board Chairman Richard "Rusty" Tewes is finishing his first term. Zone 3—Joe Allens, appointed to the position last fall, will seek election for the remaining year of the term.

• Richfield: Zone 1—Incumbent Rod Riley is challenged by Huu Anderson. Zone 5—Incumbent Jim Wellhouse will face David Jensen.

Candidate lists from Blaine, Dietrich and Three Creek were not available by press time.

Grasshoppers would be bombed with pesticide

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

BOISE—State officials have mapped out a plan "born of desperation" to bomb grasshoppers with insecticide if they invade southern Idaho crops for a second year.

But the counterattack will cover only a small fraction of the land likely to be infested.

"Without the federal government paying the bill for treating federal lands adequately, we're in trouble no matter what we do at the state level," said Elmer Russell, chief of plant industries for the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

Last year, grasshoppers swarmed out of land owned by the U.S. Bureau of Land Management and the U.S. Forest Service early in the summer. Federal aid came too late and was too small to prevent widespread crop damage on farmers' fields bordering government land.

A state task force Friday put together a strategy to have crop-dusting planes ready to fly by June 1 in the event of a second, devastating season of grasshoppers.

"It is not a good plan," said Russell. "(It was) born of desperation — made on the assumption that no federal money is available." But it can be expended readily if the federal government releases money to combat the insects, he said.

The Idaho congressional delegation is trying to appropriate $14.8 million for fighting grasshoppers in the state and the rest of the West. Although the move has influential support, the money has not yet been found.

Senators Jim McClure and Steve Symms succeeded Friday in arranging an emergency meeting with Secretary of Agriculture John Black early next week to discuss the threat and ask for $1 million available for grasshopper control with money from other accounts.

With the federal cash uncertain, state officials now plan to use the $200,000 available — $150,000 from Gov. John Evans' emergency fund and $50,000 from a special fund held by the Department of Lands — on large tracts of territory.

Private landowners of county governments will be required to share the costs of spraying the 10,000-acre blocks, Russell said. Officials will decide later how to split costs.

"We might get 10 or 15 of these 10,000-acre blocks, depending on what the private landowners can come up with," he said.

Mormon pros defend Smith image in light of 1830 letter

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — A letter written in 1830 that some critics say links the Mormon church to folk magic has nothing to undermine the traditional image of church founder Joseph Smith or the heavenly origins of Mormonism, two Brigham Young University scholars said Thursday.

During the 20th annual meeting of the Mormon History Association, more than 200 people listened as Ronald Walker and Dean C. Jessee, both associate professors and widely published specialists on Mormon history, defended the so-called "white salamander" letter written in 1830 by Martin Harris.

Stephen V. Christensen, a Mormon bishop in Centerville, Utah, bought the letter last year from a collector in New England. The letter was turned over to the church in April and appeared in a church publication last week.

The Harris letter was written Oct. 23, 1830, to W.W. Phelps, a Rochester, N.Y., newspaper publisher who later converted to Mormonism. The letter, which was the printing of the Book of Mormon, is revered by members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints as a "special witness" to the divine inspiration passed on to Smith by an angel.

The letter describes how Smith found the golden plates, which later resulted in the Book of Mormon, with the help of what the letter described as "a seer stone, a kind of magical looking-glass."

Church members believe the letter is significant because it connects Smith and the origins of Mormonism with folk magic.

The letter also claims that Smith was prevented at first from gaining possession of the plates by an "old spirit" that "transfigured himself from a white salamander."

Critics of the Mormon Church contend the letter tarnishes the character of Mormonism's first prophet and presents him as a treasure-seeker and a practitioner of the occult.

During the meeting, Jessee confirmed the authenticity of the 14-page correspondence, which has been questioned.

"There is no reason to suspect the authenticity of the Harris letter, based on the physical properties and handwriting," said Jessee, who submitted the letter to rigorous testing. Jessee admitted finding stylistic differences when comparing the letter with other existing documents written by Harris, but dismissed such peculiarities.

"While a person's fingerprints don't change," he said, "his writing style often does."

Walker discussed the images conveyed in the Harris letter, which church and scholars say are at slight odds with traditional accounts of its founding.

The standard account of Smith's vision, directed by an angel in 1823 to find the golden plates, which he translated with the help of a seer stone. Later an angel allowed Harris to see the plates and handle them before taking them to Smith.

Walker traced the history of treasure-seeking and the popular belief in magical spirits and argued that they were part of the social milieu of the period.

"It is a 19th-century mindset that doesn't understand the foundations of folklore," said Walker. "It is clear that diggers were many kinds of people and came from many different social groups."

Walker cited references to divining rods, seer stones and other seemingly magical occurrences that have appeared in religious works throughout history. He said such references are not held sacred and are not questioned.

"We must relativize the old culture and refuse to pay it respect," he said.

Walker said traditional accounts have acknowledged that Smith was involved in money-digging activities, although not as actively as suggested in the Harris letter, and that the correspondence reinforces the beginnings of Mor-

LDS scripture-source's image revised

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A Brigham Young University professor has obtained the 1829 will and accompanying papers of Antonio Leobolo, the original owner of the Egyptian mummies which became the source of a Mormon book of scripture.

The will and legal documents provide important information about the long-disputed and confusing history of the origins of the Mormon scripture called the Book of Abraham, said Dr. Duane Peterson, professor of ancient scripture at BYU.

Members of the Mormon Church believe the Book of Abraham was translated from Egyptian papyri by the church's founder, Joseph Smith, and was originally written by the Old Testament prophet Abraham. Leobolo gave the papyri to Smith in hopes he could translate them.

This book is part of the church's

Pearl of Great Price, which faithful Mormons believe to be sacred scripture.

The documents were found in Italy's state archives in Turin last fall by Adriano Comolli, a native Italian and an associate of Peterson's.

Traditionally, it has been thought that Leobolo was a French traveler who acquired 11 mummies in 1831 from a digger in an ancient Egyptian site, Peterson said.

Several commonly quoted accounts portray Leobolo as a ruthless, shadowy character who was arrested several times and died penniless. Peterson said, "The newly obtained documents are more complimentary," he said. He said they indicate Leobolo was fairly prosperous, prominent and well-respected in Castellamare, where he died in 1830, not in 1832 as commonly believed.

Women's admission to Catholic priesthood still advocated

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Papal disapproval of any efforts to promote ordination of women to the Roman Catholic priesthood hasn't stopped advocacy of it in the church, and some Catholic scholars say the change is bound to come.

"Two of them — a priest expert on parish books and a woman theologian — advanced that thesis in recent issues of two national Catholic magazines."

The Rev. Thomas P. Sweetser of Chicago, a theologian-sociologist who heads a project that studies attitudes in parishes across the country, predicts ordination both of women and married men.

"It might not be far off," he writes in St. Anthony Messenger, a lively and perceptive monthly published in Cincinnati by the Franciscan Friars of St. John the Baptist.

Analyzing patterns indicating a shrinking supply of male celebrants to serve a growing Catholic population, he says the change will come when people experience the need for it and demand it.

In another sprightly monthly, U.S. Catholic, published in Chicago by the Claretian Fathers and Brothers, Catholic theologian Rosemary Radford Ruether also says the declining number of priests will bring the change.

"Bishops will be forced to draw upon lay men and women to do all kinds of things that priests are now doing," she says.

"Eventually some pope will come along who will draw on this new practice and give it his approval, ritualize it."

She says that in early Christianity "women participated in a variety of leadership roles, both as traveling evangelists and as local church leaders," but the concept of priesthood developed only in the fourth century.

With that later development came a concept of excluding women, she says, and the church "developed a patriarchal pattern that excluded women and women to do all kinds of things that priests are now doing."

"The basic vision and message" of Jesus, she says, was "the message of women to ordination also was priests and with church reluctance to change the rules. "But I sense change is closer than church leaders realize," he adds.

Noting that statistical trends indicate that U.S. Catholicism will have only half its present number of priests by the year 2000, he writes:

"At the present moment, 5 percent of the present U.S. Catholic population is made up of priests. And the number is dropping."

It's clear that priests can no longer keep up with demands on their time and energy."

He says the church in past centuries had married priests and still has some of them at present. It is only a Western church disciplinary rule that requires celibacy.

Noting that the New Testament epistles "at times" played "in early Christianity, he says: 'The fact that Jesus men in his class' appears to be more culturally based than a divine mandate that women are not to be ordained to the priesthood... There does not appear to be any prohibition to women priests in Scriptures."

Sweetser conjectures two possible scenarios that could bring the change — either through struggle from the bottom up, or with it happening through the initiation of church leaders.

In one instance, he says, parishes without priests would bring irregularly using resigned married priests or theologically trained women to celebrate Mass, with a bishop eventually validating the process, precipitating a crisis.

Another possibility, he says, would be that a group of U.S. bishops in small, rural dioceses would meet, issue a paper citing their critical lack of priests and asking U.S. bishops to call for a church-wide council to consider allowing married and women priests.

One way or another, it's coming Sweetser says. "So which way will it be? Will it be from the bottom up, struggle all the way — or from within the ranks, leaders and people together responding to the urges of the Spirit for new life in the church?"

What's what

Rural householders in ancient Greece kept snakes indoors and out to control rats and give much the way farmers keep cats today.

If both your mother and dad have allergies, it's nine to one you have allergies, too — though not necessarily the same ones.

The old English "wif" meant woman and was pronounced pretty much the same way we pronounce "wife." Early, it was mixed with any of several descriptive words, to make fishwife, she who sold fish, or hostlerwife, she who tended horses, or housewife, she who took care of the house. The fish and hostler variety of wifery fell into disrepute many generations ago, the house sort only recently.

GUN SALUTE

Q. The historical 21-gun salute — why was it set at 21 instead of more or fewer?

A. It's traditionally fired: 1 pause 7 pauses 7 pause 6. To commemorate the year 1776.

The bug collectors find one new species of insect every day.

Lying in bed, you breathe eight quarts of air a minute. Sitting up, 16 quarts. Walking, 24 quarts. Running, up to 50 quarts.

WATER, WATER

By the year A.D. 1, the Romans had nine aqueducts that supplied each citizen there with four times as much water as is used by the average American today.

A farmer who died childless in Westgate, England, bequeathed funds to supply each child in his town with a chocolate bar every Saturday for a year.

You think of the Chamber of Commerce as a typically American institution, but the first of same actually got started in Marseille, France, in 1599.

The symbol of Paris, an island city, is a ship, the symbol of Warsaw, also an island city, is a mermaid.

One packaged food out of every four costs you more for the container than for what's inside.

Death was the prescribed punishment in ancient Germany for tree mutilation.

GENERAL TENDENCIES Today's full moon activates relations with other persons, especially where financial and emotional conditions are concerned. Resentment may easily arise in the evening.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Getting into business affairs early that are hard to handle during the busy week is wise.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) The morning is fine for coming to a meeting of minds with a partner, but do nothing that can make him or her Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You may get mail that is important but wait a day or two before answering it so that you do not make any mistakes.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle practical affairs in the morning, and later try to be more economical. Take time to make small repairs around the house.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can do much in the morning to gain your finest aims, but be careful not to rush into anything like a bull in a china shop.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to take care of whatever is bothering you in the morning, and later do not act overly independent.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can go after some personal aim in the morning, and gain it, but later do not be forceful with others.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle home duties in the morning, since after lunch things could get rather hectic at home.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You have fine ideas and should quickly put them in operation and then persevere with them; ever is of a proven nature.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TO DAY, he or she will have a penetrating mind and be an astute student at whatever is of real interest to your progeny, so give as many advantages as you can. Teach early not to bring problems on the self just for the fun of trying to solve them.

'Banished' Californian creates uproar

MIAMI (AP) — California police say they sent a transient with a record of sex-related crimes to Miami because they wanted to make their date safer.

But since his arrival, he has been arrested twice, and furious Floridians are offering to pay his way home. The incident has spurred hard feelings between the two coasts, with Miami officials attacking Santa Monica, Calif., Police Chief James Keane, and Keane saying he was only doing what Florida officials did a few years ago with a frequently arrested prostitute.

One Miami city commissioner went so far as to send a telegram urging Santa Monica's city manager to order a mental examination of Keane.

Florida's unwanted guest, Weston Hill, 44, has been arrested for criminal mischief and indecent exposure since arriving here in March. He now says he wants to return to the West Coast, according to a public defender.

"He has no family, no friends here," said lawyer James Evans. "He was just put on a plane."

Miami-area residents have volun-

WESTON HILL
Not welcome in Florida

teered to speed Hill on his way. By Friday morning, outraged callers to radio station WHTI had donated about $1,000 to put him on the next plane to California, said the station's general manager, David Ross. He brought a blank check to the courthouse, where Dade County Judge Meek B. Robinette set $10,000 bond and ordered a psychiatric evaluation for Hill.

Despite the donations, however, won't be sent home, authorities said. Keane, who used city money to buy Hill a $249 ticket to Miami, described him as "a weirdo." "Women and children are safer now because because Hill's not in California," Keane said.

Robert Myers, city attorney for the Los Angeles suburb, said Keane's sending the transient to Miami was a proper use of city funds.

Keane, defending his decision to ship out a man with a nine-year history of sex-related crimes, said California officials were unable to either help Hill or keep him in jail.

"The system in California is failing," the chief said. "It's not keeping insane people inside. ... They've got to handle things better in Florida than we do. Hopefully, our state will be so embarrassed, they'll fix their system." "Naturally, the Miami police chief is upset, and I don't blame him," he said. "But my number one responsibility is to protect the children of Santa Monica."

Miami Police Chief Clarence Dickson said that was ridiculous. "This is not an acceptable crime," he said. "It does not prevent, but transfers the dangerous problem from one area to another."

Webb's foster father: She lies

CHICAGO (AP) — The foster father of Cathleen Crowell Webb, the woman who recanted her charges that she was raped by Gary Dotson, said Friday she is a "liar" and has become the "puppet" of a lawyer who is out to make money.

Bernard C. Smith, who raised Mrs. Webb during her high school years, told the Chicago Sun-Times that his foster daughter's recantation is inconsistent.

"Something happened that night that she's leaving out," he said. "They should have shut up about all this when Gov. (James R.) Thompson set the clemency hearing," Smith told the newspaper.

"But, no. They want the publicity. They want to keep it hot. I just know there are ulterior motives."

Smith said he expects books and "all kinds of royalties" to develop from the Dotson case. "I'd like to know who will be getting the money for all this."

Smith also told the newspaper he wants to know who is paying Mrs. Webb's attorney, John McLario, of Menomonee Falls, Wis. Mrs. Webb met him through her minister.

McLario was unavailable for comment Friday, his office said.

"Whatever the arrangement is, he sure has a big stake in all this," Smith said. "She's a puppet, and he's pulling the strings. She won't utter a word, not even to us, without him present."

Mrs. Webb, now a 23-year-old mother of two living in New Hampshire, says she concocted a story that she had been raped by Dotson on July 9, 1977. She says she had sex with a teen-age boy, feared she was pregnant, and wanted to hide her sexual experience from her foster parents.

On Tuesday, Dotson's attorney will ask the Circuit Court for a new trial. Two days later, Thompson will sit with the Illinois Prisoner Review Board in an unprecedented joint clemency hearing.

On Thursday, at a news conference in Jaffrey, N.H., when McLario was asked who paid for one of Mrs. Webb's recent trips, he said, "You should know that you shouldn't be asking that. Yes, expenses have been incurred. I've been arranging for them. That's all I have to say on the matter."

Warren Lupel, Dotson's attorney, said Friday in taping a program on WBBM-TV, that he still trusts Mrs. Webb's story and said she told him "she was not very close" to her foster parents.

Report: Leftists sent to fight Nicaraguan rebels

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 200 Costa Rican leftists have been sent to Nicaragua to fight anti-communist rebels, the State Department said Friday.

In addition, Nicaragua has provided rifles and money to a "Costa Rican secret alliance" of leftist parties through the Nicaraguan Embassy in Costa Rica, deputy spokesman Edward Djerejian told a news briefing. He said the "all-Costa Rican brigade" fighting the Nicaraguan Contras was set up by Costa Rican Communist Party officials who have been in Nicaragua since before the 1979 Sandinista revolution. Given the continued close links between the brigade and the Communist Party, "there is clearly potential for its use inside Costa Rica in the future," Djerejian said.

Meanwhile, the Nicaraguan Embassy disclosed late Friday that Ambassador Carlos Tunnerman plans to return to Nicaragua on Saturday for consultations. Sara Lee Porter, an embassy spokeswoman, said Tunnerman will confer with authorities in Managua on a Nicaraguan response to the economic sanctions President Reagan imposed.

SS veterans back Reagan

NESSELWANG, West Germany (AP) — Most of the 200 Nazi SS veterans attending a reunion here support President Reagan's visit to the Bitburg cemetery where some of their comrades were buried, one of the veterans said Friday.

"We need the symbol of reconciliation," said 67-year-old Josef Burgmuedler. "And it's also important that (Reagan) stuck to his decision."

Burgmuedler was one of several veterans who ventured out of the closed gathering and agreed to speak to a reporter.

Reagan's Bitburg visit was a popular topic of conversation among the veterans and most of the 300 attending the reunion-supported Reagan's visit, he said.

U.N. to probe treatment of Ethiopians

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — U.N. officials said Friday they will personally investigate reports that 56,000 famine victims were evicted from the country's largest feeding center and sent back to their home villages.

Kurt Jansson, U.N. assistant secretary-general, told reporters that he was asked to visit the famine camp on Sunday and then discuss the issue with Ethiopian leader Mengistu Haile Mariam.

Ethiopian officials have denied force was used to remove famine victims from the camp, and said evacuation was necessary to prevent epidemics and to get peasants back to their farmlands to take advantage of recent rains that have eased the drought.

But Jansson said he was asked by U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to look into reports that differ from the government's version.

International relief agency officials who said they witnessed the incidents said that at least two people were beaten to death by soldiers when they refused to leave the camp. They said other people were burned when their grass huts were set ablaze and a pregnant woman miscarried when she fled pursuing troops.

The officials spoke on condition their names not be used because of government sensitivity on the issue. They said 17 bodies were found along a road leading from the camp, which is about 250 miles northwest of Addis Ababa.

The Rev. Jack Finnucane, head of the Irish charity Coicéan, said some of those evicted from the camp face 14-day treks to the Tigre and Wollo regions.

Maj. Dawit Walde Giorgis, Ethiopia's relief commissioner, denied that force was used to remove the victims or that the camp was partially burned. He said those traveling to their villages were healthy and each was given rations for the trip.

Official says nations flood oil markets

By The Associated Press

A senior Venezuelan official has accused the Soviet Union and Britain of dumping oil on world markets in a conspiracy against OPEC, while the oil minister of Saudi Arabia was quoted as saying his kingdom has cut oil production to defend the cartel's prices.

In Caracas, Carmelo Lauria, chief of staff to Venezuela's president, Jaime Lusinchi, told reporters Thursday night that Britain and the Soviet Union have jointly flooded the spot or non-OPEC market with 800,000 barrels of oil a day.

The Soviet Union and Britain are carrying out an anti-OPEC action, trying to conspire against the strength of the organization," Lauria said. He added that the 13 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are determined to defend oil prices in spite of all pressures.

The Soviet Union, the world's largest oil producer, and Britain, ranked fifth, are not members of OPEC, and Venezuela previously complained that both nations have attempted to destabilize oil prices by flooding markets when demand is low.

More battles strike Beirut

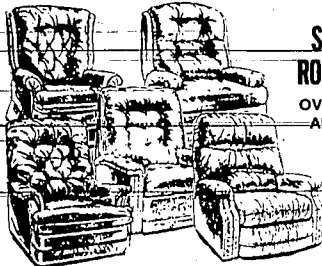

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christian Lebanese army units and Druse militiamen battled with tanks and artillery in hills overlooking Beirut on Friday and there were new clashes in the streets of Beirut.

The increased fighting appeared to push Lebanon toward a full-scale resumption of the country's 10-year-old civil war. Lebanon's nine-man coalition government appeared powerless to halt the fighting.

It remained paralyzed with Christian and Muslim members split after a Muslim offensive in the south seized a coastal belt of Christian villages, driving thousands from their homes.

An army spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the fighting in the hills broke out near Souk el-Gharb, a strategic army base in the Aley Mountains eight miles southeast of Beirut.

Battered CSI nears clincher

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In a tit-for-tat double-header, the College of Southern Idaho ended the day just where it started — two games up on Treasure Valley Community College — in the northern division of the Region 18 junior college baseball chase.

They each won a game in identical fashion. Treasure Valley's Jeff CSI left-fielder's head in the top of the seventh for a 3-2 win in the opener and Greg Schow's two-run double over the TVCC right-fielder in the seventh inning of the nightcap proved the decisive blow in a 6-3 win.

In between, both teams benefited from good pitching and the clubs completed the double-header in four hours. Highlighting that was CSI right-hander Marcus Menicucci who had a three-pitch inning in the fourth and a six-pitch effort in the next frame.

CSI remains in action today at Frontier Field, hosting the North Idaho Cardinals at 1 p.m. Friday's split lifts CSI's regional record to 6-2 and two wins today would clinch the host's spot for the Eagles in the regional tournament. A split or a two-game loss would prolong the suspense a week, when the Eagles play Ricks College in Rexburg next Saturday. NIC is scheduled to play TVCC twice on Sunday in Ontario, Ore.

The Chukars are now 4-4 in region action, tied with North Idaho, which split a double-header with Ricks Friday in Rexburg, losing 12-11 in nine innings and winning 3-2. The Vikings are now 2-5 in region play.

With all his walking wounded; CSI Coach Jim Walker said he "felt fortunate" to get the split with Treasure Valley.

"Our pitching was good," he said. "But we just haven't been getting any production out of the bottom of our order. We've got some kids who has just been automatic out lately."

The bright spot for CSI's offense was freshman Greg Adelsbach, hobbled by a hamstring pull. But the Moscow product pounded out six straight hits — three of which would have been doubles if his leg were whole. Two men behind him is Dave Garro, limping with a deep calf bruise sustained in a collision with a teammate, who belted a two-run homer to set the stage for his former Minico teammate Schow to win the nightcap.

CSI's day started out fine. Steve Caputo drilling the first offering of Treasure Valley's Pete Balance out of the park. But after that Balance was in control.

The Chukars tied it in the third when Sean Morehouse homered. Adelsbach's third-straight hitup for a brief 2-1 CSI lead in last of the sixth.

But Treasure Valley won it in the seventh when Mark Subia and Doug Adams, who is 16-for-29 against CSI pitching this year, opened with hits. Walker sidelined starter Tim Peters for Bob Matia who got two out before Johnson came up with his game-winning.

In the nightcap, Menicucci survived a shaky start and grew stronger.

"It wound up he pitched a good game" but "he wasn't pitching, just throwing in the first three innings," said pitching Coach Jim Dawson.

Nemesis Adams greeted Menicucci with a game-opening double and scored on Mike Bales' single and in the second, singles by Brent Parker and Kelly Montoya sandwiched around a wild pitch and passed ball added another.

McMurrion flies for CSI at regionals

REXBURG — Talk about latent talent.

College of Southern Idaho's Don McMurrion has battled hurdles at Twin Falls High School for three years and CSI two more. It's made him a pretty good hurdler. But Friday, everyone found out he's a heckuva long jumper.

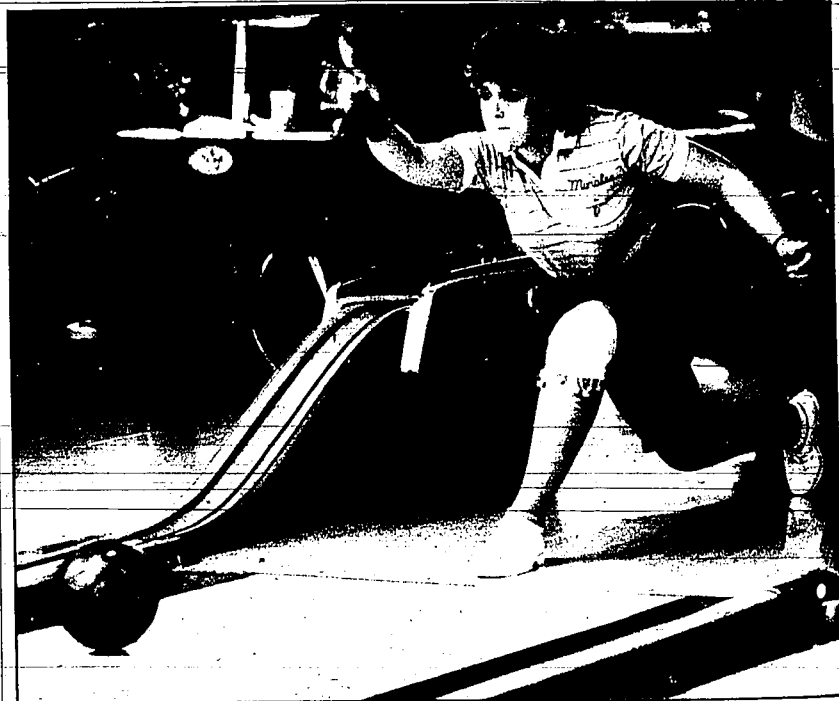

Following the policy of "picking up garbage points" in the small four-team region by entering a new faces everywhere, Coach Greg Burch put McMurrion down as one of the "Golden Eagles" four long.

On a roll

Maralee Lemke of Hermiston, Ore., rolls her opening game of the 50th Northwest Women's Bowling Tournament Friday night at the Magic Bowl. Friday marked the beginning of the four-week long tourney that will bring bowlers from Idaho, Montana, Oregon,

Washington, Alaska and British Columbia to Twin Falls. See story on Page B2

In brief . . .

Declo trackfest today

DECLO — The Declo Invitational, one of the Magic Valley's oldest prep track meets, figures to be today what it has been during the past couple of years: a battle between the host Hornets boys' and Valley.

The girls' competition, in the absence of Glenns Ferry, should be a four-way race between Filer, Kimberly, Declo and Barley River.

Also on hand for today's meet will be Oakley and Bufly.

Field events will get under way at 10:30 a.m., with running events to start at noon.

"We're hoping for some good weather," said Declo boys' Coach Mike Matthews. "We've had terrible weather for the meet for the last three or four years, and as a result we have some meet records that go back to 1974. We hope a few of them will be broken Saturday."

BSU, Idaho lead BSC tennis

BOISE (AP) — Boise State and University of Idaho remained undefeated Friday through the third round of the Big Sky Conference tennis tournament, but defending champion Weber State remained right behind after whipping Idaho State 8-1.

Nevada-Reno, which started the tournament Thursday with an upset victory, lost its second straight match, falling to Boise 6-3 in Friday's first match.

BSU won four singles matches, then clinched victory by winning the No. 2 and No. 3 doubles.

Idaho kept pace by beating Montana State 5-4. The Vandals lost the first two singles matches, but then won four straight and captured the No. 2 doubles spot.

In the other match, Montana beat Northern Arizona 5-4. Both Weber State and Montana have 2-1 overall records after three rounds of play.

Weber wins Big Sky golf

POCATELLO (AP) — Nevada-Reno's Mark Gilmartin fired a five-under par 66 here Friday to force a playoff, then beat Weber State's Matt Jonmarker to capture individual honors in the Big Sky Conference golf championship.

But Jonmarker led Weber State to the team title, reclaiming a crown the Wildcats held for 12 straight seasons before Nevada-Reno won last year.

Jonmarker fired an even-par 71 Friday in the final round over the Riverside Municipal Golf Course here. That gave him 210, the same as Gilmartin. On the second extra hole, Gilmartin grabbed the victory.

Weber won the team title with a 54-hole, four-man score of 860, eight shots better than the Wolf Pack. Another 11 strokes back was Boise State.

Idaho State captured fourth at 892. Idaho and Montana tied at 926 but the Vandals captured fifth place with a better fifth-man score.

Keever to sign with 49ers

BOISE (AP) — Carl Kever, the two-time Division I-AA all-American linebacker for Boise State University, will sign a free-agent contract with the San Francisco 49ers, his agent says.

Ken Stanger, Missoula, Mont., said he and Kever had been negotiating with the defending National Football League champions since before Tuesday's NFL draft.

Kever, a 6-foot 3-inch, 230-pound graduate of Boise High School, was not picked in the draft. But Stanger said the 49ers had asked Kever to join a mini-camp May 17-19. He decline to reveal any details of the contract.

U.S. icers miss medal

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Jiri Sejba scored three goals Friday, leading Czechoslovakia to a 5-3 victory over Canada and its first world hockey championship since 1977.

The Soviet Union, the world champion from 1978-1984, beat the United States 10-3 to win the bronze medal.

Tom Ferras, Gary Suter and Anthony Granato scored for the Americans, who trailed 7-0 after two periods.

The Americans ended the tournament with four straight losses after a strong preliminary round in which they beat Czechoslovakia and Canada.

Sheehan leads Invitational

JILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Patty Sheehan, likening her performance to a hockey game, fired a 68 Friday for a 6-under-par 138 total and a two-stroke lead in the second round of the rain-soaked Women's Invitational at Moss Creek Plantation.

Sheehan charged from three strokes off the pace to finish ahead of Kathy Baker and Donna White, who finished tied at 140. Juli Inkster was three back at 141 in the Ladies Professional Golf Association event.

Wadkins finishes in MONY

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Lanny Wadkins reeled off a string of four consecutive birdies, shot a 4-under-par 68 and closed to win a one-stroke of front-running Tom Kite in Friday's second round of the $400,000 MONY Tournament of Champions.

Kite, who birdied half the holes he played in the opening round, could birdie none at all in Friday's action. But he made no bogeys, either, in an unusual round of 18 consecutive pars for a 72 that left him at 136, eight under par for two trips over the 6,911 yard La Costa Country Club course.

Larry Nelson, a former U.S. Open and PGA champion, was third alone at 139, only three off the pace, after a 69.

Gem State net tourney

Bruins' prospects promising

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

POCATELLO — You can't fault the timing.

Twin Falls High School will participate in its first Gem State Conference tennis tournament today, and the Bruins have a chance to win it.

"I'd have to say that Idaho Falls is the strong favorite, followed by Highland, but you never know," says Bruin tennis coach Clovis Johnson. "I'm not predicting anything, except that we won't finish second-to-last."

Competition will get under way at 9 this morning at five different sites in Pocatello, with the finals in boys' and girls' singles and doubles and in mixed doubles slated to begin about 2:30 p.m. All boys' singles matches will be played at the Pocatello Racquet Club, with the girls' singles events slated for Raymond Park. Boys' doubles will be held at Highland High School, while girls' doubles will take place at Pocatello High. Mixed doubles will be played on Idaho State University's courts.

In head-to-head competition, the Bruins have beaten everybody in the league this year except Idaho Falls, which won this tournament three years ago. Highland, the two-time defending GSC champ, lost to Twin Falls for the first time in history this spring (7-5 in Pocatello on April 16).

Seven of the eight GSC schools will participate in today's tournament; Minico High School doesn't have a tennis team.

The Bruins are the clear favorites in one event, the boys' doubles. Senior Mike Kerbs and sophomore Chris Saeo have outclassed their conference competitors in head-to-head competition this spring, and could do so again today. Sophomore Susie Hoag is another title contender in girls' singles, although Hoag lost to Highland's Traci Carpenter earlier in the season, 6-6, 6-6.

"Twin Falls' real" team "little possibilities lie with second-, third- and fourth-place finishes in boys' singles and boys' and girls' doubles and in mixed doubles."

Idaho Falls' Brian Sahr and Blackfoot's Rod Moreira rate as the favorites in boys' singles, while Carpenter is the class of girls' singles. The Highland duo of Cindy and Manda Schossberger figures to dominate the girls' doubles, while the Tigers' Jason Neville and Stephanie Groberg are unbeaten in mixed doubles this season.

Johnson looks upon today's meet, the largest in which the Bruins have competed for a few years except for the state tournament, as a good test for next weekend's District 4-5 tournament.

"We'll get a good idea of where our strengths are and what adjustments we need to make," he says of next week's state-qualifying event, which will include Pocatello, Highland and Blackfoot and will be played here. "We're going to be trying to qualify as many people as we can for state. This is my last year of coaching, so I'd like to get a lot of our kids there."

Today's Derby is for the young at heart

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Dennis Diaz, who got into racing "because I was looking for something to do," will realize the dream of racing a horse in the Kentucky Derby on Saturday.

He is one of a handful of owners, trainers and jockeys living the rich Derby experience for the first time.

Diaz, 42, who retired from the real estate and insurance business when he was 38, owns Spend-A-Buck, a serious contender, who earned his Derby trip with a dazzling victory in the Garden State Stakes on April 20.

"He earned the right and we earned the right to run in the premier race in the country . . . in the world," Diaz

Women's Jeanswear. He manages his family's Star-Gown Stable, which owns Chief's Crown, the 1984 two-year-old champion who is unbeaten in three starts this year.

Chief's Crown was made the early 9-5 favorite by Mike Battaglia, the Churchill Downs odds-maker, when 13 three-year-olds were entered Thursday for the 111th running of the 1 1/4-mile Derby.

If all go to the post at 3:38 p.m. EDT under scale weight of 126 pounds, the Derby will be worth $581,800, with $408,800 to the winner. ABC will televise the race from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Others experiencing their first Derby include: Cam Gambolati, said Friday. Another first-timer is Andrew Rosen, 28, president of Calvin Klein

Johnson, Fast Account's trainer; Richard-Migliore, Eternal Prince's rider; King T. Leatherbury, owner-trainer of I Am The Game; Gary Stevens, Tank's Prospect's jockey; and Angel Penna Jr., Rhoman Rule's trainer, whose father twice has trained winners of the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe.

AL: Ripken keeps Orioles airborne

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Curt Warden guessed wrong. Cal Ripken guessed right. So Ripken won the battle. "I figured he'd be looking for a fastball. So I came with a curve, but he crushed it," Warden, the Minnesota Twins' reliever, said Friday night after Ripken's eighth-inning, two-out, two-run homer snapped a 6-6 tie and lifted the Baltimore Orioles to an 8-7 victory over the Twins.

The victory kept the Orioles in a first-place tie with Toronto, a 5-4 winner over Seattle, in the American League East.

"It was a situation where the count was 1-0 and I took a chance it would be a breaking ball. And I just got ahead of it," said Ripken, who was playing in his club record-tying 463rd straight game. "You can call it a guess if you want to."

Ripken, who also singled twice, tied the team's consecutive game mark of Hall of Famer Brooks Robinson as the Orioles broke Minnesota's 10-game winning streak.

Boston 10 Oakland 0

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Dennis Boyd pitched an eight-inning shutout for Boston's first shutout of the season, striking out 12 batters, and the Red Sox clubbed four homers — two by Mike Easler — to trounce the Oakland A's 10-0 Friday night.

Jim Rice and Easler homered in a seven-run, fifth-inning outburst. Both were two-run shots off A's starter Mike Warren, and Easler hit another two-run homer in the sixth off Tom Telman.

New York 7 Kansas City 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Dennis Basmussen pitched a five-hitter for his second complete game in 29 major-league starts and the New York Yankees made Billy Martin's first home game in his fourth term as manager a success by defeating the Kansas City Royals 7-1 Friday night.

Milwaukee 7 California 0

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Ted Higuera, making only his fourth major league start, pitched a four-hitter and Cecil Cooper drove in three runs with three hits to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-0 victory over the California Angels Friday night.

Higuera, a 26-year-old left-hander from Mexico, only walked one batter and struck out four while handcrafting the Angels.

Chicago 7 Detroit 1

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Seaver hurled a seven-hitter for his 29th career victory and Carlton Fisk belted a two-run homer as the Chicago White Sox beat the Detroit Tigers 7-1 Friday night.

After two were out in the Chicago fourth, Dan Petry, 4-2, walked Greg Walker before yielding his first hit — an upper-deck shot by Fisk, his fifth, on a 2-2 count. The blast wiped out a 1-0 Tiger lead.

Toronto 5 Seattle 4

SEATTLE (AP) — Unbeaten Doyle Alexander won his fourth game and Jesse Barfield went 4-for-4 and scored a run to lead the Toronto Blue Jays to a 5-4 victory over the Seattle Mariners Friday night.

Alexander pitched 6 1/3 innings, scattering eight hits and striking out six while walking just one. The 34-year-old right-hander has now won 13 of his last 14 decisions.

Cleveland 4 Texas 0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bert Blyleven tossed a four-hitter for his first victory of the season and Tony Bernard doubled and hit a sacrifice fly as the Cleveland Indians blanked the Texas Rangers 4-0 Friday night.

REXBURG — Chris Ashby clubbed a three-run homer to highlight a five-run second inning and winning pitcher Steve Young collected a "big" slide-the-park homer Friday as the Madison Bobcats beat Burley 6-1 in a high school baseball game.

Prep baseball

Young, who limited Burley to two hits, lofted a fly ball to the outfield where "our outfielder simply never saw it," said Coach Dean Satterfield.

The Bobcats — broke — the shutout in the fourth when Scott Asson was hit by a pitcher, stole second and scored on Ron Easton's single.

NL: Sutcliffe faced again by Padres

CHICAGO (AP) — Garry Templeton's two-run homer in the eighth inning Friday appeared to be nothing more than icing on the cake.

The San Diego Padres were leading 4-2 following Graig Nettles' leadoff homer, his second of the season, in the eighth-and-relied-on Goose Goslin seemed to be in command as usual.

But it turned out to be the winning blow after Leon Durham cracked a three-run homer in the bottom of the eighth and the Padres led on for a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"I wasn't thinking home run," said Templeton. "It was just this thing about hitting (Rick) Sutcliffe because he's been so hard on me."

"I hit it hard and I happened to get it up in the air," said Templeton of his first homer. "It turned out to be the decisive blow. I'll take it."

Templeton said the fact this was the first meeting between the two teams had played for the National League pennant last fall had no bearing on the situation.

"Nobody was saying this was a replay of last year," said Templeton. "We were just trying to win a game."

Montreal 9 Atlanta 2

ATLANTA (AP) — Mike Fitzgerald went 3-for-3, including a two-run single in a four-run fifth inning, and Hubie Brooks drove in two runs with a homer and single as the Montreal Expos routed the Atlanta Braves 9-2 Friday.

Rookie Joe Kesteth, 34, pitched a six-hitter and struck out nine as Montreal won for the eighth time in its last 11 games.

The Expos had five hits, three stolen bases and a sacrifice to chase Atlanta starter Len Barker, 0-2, with one out in the fifth.

New York 9 Cincinnati 4

CINCINNATI (AP) — Danny Heep drove in five runs. Keith Hernandez slammed his first home run of the season and rookie Len Dykstra homered in his first major league game Friday night to lead the New York Mets to a 9-1 rout of the Cincinnati Reds.

Heep had a sacrifice fly in the fourth, a two-run single in the fifth and a two-run double in the seventh. Hernandez homered in the first inning off Mario Soto, 4-2, and Dykstra, called up by the Mets to replace injured Ron Gardenhire, hit a two-run shot in the third.

Pittsburgh 16 Los Angeles 2

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sixto Lezcano, Tony Pena and Bill Almon cracked two-run singles during a nine-run explosion in the fourth inning Friday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates, clubbed the Los Angeles Dodgers 16-2.

Jason Thompson drilled a two-run home run, his third in as many games, and a two-run single as the Pirates enjoyed their top offensive output since they scored 16 runs against the Chicago Cubs on June 2, 1981.

Philadelphia 3 Houston 2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Glenn Wilson belted a two-run homer in the eighth inning Friday night to lift the Philadelphia Phillies over the Houston Astros 3-2.

Wilson's third homer of the season came after Houston reliever Frank DiPino, 1-3, walked pinch-hitter Jeff Russell to start the eighth.

St. Louis 8 San Francisco 1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Darrell Porter and Jack Clark smacked three-run homers and John Tudor pitched a five-hitter Friday night, leading the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-1 triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

Tudor, 1-3, won his first game for St. Louis since being acquired last December from Pittsburgh in exchange for outfielder George Hendrick. Tudor retired 15 straight batters between the first and sixth innings. He had his shutout bid ruined in the ninth on a two-out, run-scoring single by Chili Davis.

IBM appears stodgy for near term, good for the long pull

By ROBERT SOBEL
Newsday

The market doesn't seem capable of going far in either direction. Sluggish sessions are interspersed with rallies and pullbacks, which in turn are followed by analysts seeking parallels, explanations and leadership. Always leadership, for the Wall Street crowd takes it as axiomatic that without it there can be no sustained move.

IBM falls into the rule today. General times when the stock was stronger than most of the market; it now tends to lead the pack. Without IBM to show the way, bull moves are rare.

What are the chances for an IBM move? The chart looks weak, and more than a little solace to be found in the fundamentals. Several losses recently lowered their 1985 earnings estimates. At the beginning of the year the consensus figure was around $11.25 per share; now it is more like $11.25, primarily due to slumping mainframe shipments. There has been steady, persistent insider selling, and the call option premiums have declined, an indication that speculators don't like the stock either.

The company has indicated it expects a strong second half. Perhaps so: part of the reason for the slump last winter was the anticipated release of the new Sierra line of mainframes, and in February the company said that a number of customers had deferred placements for that reason. But the entire industry is suffering from one of those pauses which affect it occasionally, and IBM won't be immune from the slowdown.

Paradoxically, all of which is why IBM looks like a buy, and not only for contrarian reasons, but for the more fundamental position of the company.

Business analysts implore American corporations to take the long view, to think in terms of several years, and not the next quarter, and that is something IBM has done for decades. It spent four years in the late 1970s and early 1980s pouring resources into a major restructuring and facilities building program; during which time the stock went nowhere. You could have purchased IBM at 70 in 1976, when revenues were $16.3 billion, per-share earnings $2.49, and the dividend $2; the stock was still at $70 in 1981, when revenues came in at $29.1 billion, earnings $5.63 and the dividend had gone to $3.41.

The reason was that Wall Street's wise men think in terms of quarters, even weeks. IBM's management runs a firm with a peerless credit rating, no need to float new equity or fear of takeover, and can afford to ignore the stock price. In the sure knowledge that catchup always takes place, they can wait it out for the long run, and don't measure success by the Wall Street price thermometer.

Where will IBM go this year? Who knows, but IBM's operating statistics are far more predictable than its stock price. For 1990, 1 billion shares, in excess of 100 billion, better than $22 per share in earnings, and a $8 dividend. I expect the stock to be over 260 by then, assuming a modest P-E ratio of 12. Does that sound exaggerated? Consider that if IBM moves as much in the next five years as it has in the past five, the stock will sell for slightly better than 220.

Lending agency's state director says Idaho situation overstated

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Claiming there were a lot of "chicken little" reports this winter on farm credit problems, the state director for the federal government's agricultural lending agency says the situation has been overstated in Idaho.

While not painting a bright economic picture for farmers and ranchers in the state, Farmers Home Administration Director Bill Norberg contended, "The media and the politicians played it to the hilt."

"There's no question there are a number of farmers having financial difficulty, and a higher number than usual," Norberg said. "But the problem has been considerably overstated."

While some officials have estimated that as many as a third of the state's 22,000 farmers are in financial binds, Norberg put the number in "serious, critical financial trouble" at between 5 percent and 10 percent.

FHMA, which provides about 17 percent of the Idaho agricultural credit to producers who can no longer qualify for loans elsewhere, has no money on 10 percent of its borrowers in trouble, he said, and commercial lenders handling the more difficult worthy producers would have even less.

State Finance Director Tom McElwain agreed that the problems in Idaho are nowhere near as serious as those facing producers in the Midwest and elsewhere.

"From our point of view, the normal farmer who's a good farmer and tries hard will get adequate financing," he said.

Andy Vanderplaat of the Eastern Idaho Production Credit Association conceded that obtaining financing this season has been more difficult than normal — for some farmers, especially those raising grain, hay and cattle.

"But we haven't found many that couldn't get credit," he said. "The critical problem, he added, is trying to discourage some producers from trying to cash in on the relatively strong potato markets of the past two years. A major increase in production now, he said, could completely wipe out the market for this season.

FMC waiting for response to mine proposal

FORT HALL (AP) — The FMC Corp., with an April 30 deadline for expansion of the Gray Mine on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation, passed, is still waiting for the Shoshone-Bannock tribe's response to its final offer.

An estimated $20 million in royalties and another $20 million in payroll revenues are at stake, depending on the tribes decision, said FMC Resident Manager Harvey Herbert.

One thing Herbert does know is that if the tribes don't agree to the expansion proposal soon, the company will be forced to move its operations to the Dry Valley area near Soda Springs.

"We (FMC and tribal representatives) talked yesterday," Herbert said Friday. "They understand they have to come up with a firm proposal very quickly. I don't know exactly what they're going to do, but they understand the urgency of it."

Tribal Chairman Kesley Edmo could not be reached for comment.

On the mining operation, which would be adjusted each year according to inflation—or production—levels at the mine.

The company, meanwhile, has offered to pay the tribes $100,000 a year, beginning in 1990, in lieu of a severance tax.
