Senate refuses to block CIA aid to Contras

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Republican-controlled Senate refused Friday to bar the Central Intelligence Agency from distributing $28 million in non-lethal aid to anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua, one of a series of steps cementing a major legislative victory for President Reagan.

And, after reversing itself, it rejected an amendment directing the administration not to violate international law in its dealings with Nicaragua.

Later, however, the Senate approved by unanimous consent an amendment forbidding the use of U.S. funds for activities not authorized by law that would violate the charter of the Organization of American States.

Among other things, the OAS charter prohibits armed attack by one member against another.

The Nicaragua issue moves next week to the Democrat-controlled House where, said spokesman Christopher Matthews, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. hopes "to limit what he sees as a relentless move toward the escalation of arms, of money and of men in the field."

The votes followed the Senate's decision Thursday night to approve the resumption of direct aid to the rebels but to restrict it to such items as food, clothing and medicine. Weapons and ammunition would be excluded.

The amendments were attached to the pending State Department authorization bill that the Senate will continue to consider next week.

The Senate had at first voted, 47-42, to adopt a proposal by Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., that the money not be spent in ways that "place the United States in violation of international law," including the OAS charter.

But it immediately reversed itself, voting

48-42 to rescind its previous action.

Later, Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., one of several senators who switched their votes to ultimately reject the Kerry amendment, said he had been torn in his decision because "I regret any appearance in this chamber of countenancing illegal acts."

But Armstrong said the Kerry amendment was "nearly frivolous" because the Senate cannot vote funds for illegal purposes in any event.

"It's a kind of a have-you-stopped-beating-your-wife type of question," he said.

The Senate also rejected two proposals by Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa.

The first, to bar CIA and Defense Department distribution of the aid, lost, 57-35.

Harkin contended that over the last four years the CIA has become improperly involved in covert operations in Central America and should not be the conduit for the aid.

Opponents said the CIA was the only organization in position to do the job and that attempts to bar it from acting would "hobble" administration policy.

Harkin's second amendment, to limit U.S. support for military actions inside Nicaragua to "a specific operation approved by the

Jobless rate holds at 7.3% for 4th month

By PETE YOST

WASHINGTON — Employment levels in manufacturing continued to deteriorate in May, but the economy created 345,000 new jobs in service industries as the nation's civilian jobless rate remained mired at 7.3 percent for the fourth straight month.

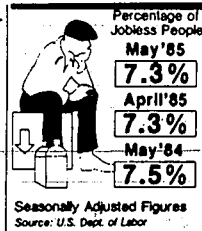

It was the longest stagnant period for the unemployment rate in at least 14 years, and analysts said Friday that the May report from the Labor Department was mixed news for the economy.

Manufacturing employment fell by 28,000. Since the start of the year, some 163,000 production jobs have been lost.

After 30 months of the economic recovery, manufacturing has regained only about 60 percent of the jobs lost during the 1981-82 recession, Janet L. Norwood, the commissioner of labor statistics, said in congressional testimony. Nine out of 10 new jobs created since May 1984 have been in the service sector.

"The economy is on two paths," Ms. Norwood told the Joint Economic Committee. "One path is the service economy, which is growing and growing fast. The other path is the industrial sector, which is continuing to lose jobs. As a result, there are (geographic) pockets of trouble that clearly need attention."

Employment levels in six manufacturing Industries — steel, tobacco, textiles, chemicals, leather and petroleum and coal — are below what they were during the recession.

Civilian joblessness has been moving in the narrow range of 7.1 percent to 7.5 percent for the last year. The number of unemployed Americans totaled 8.4 million in May, the level that has held since February. Civilian employment also held steady last month at 106.9 million.

The weakest segments of manufacturing in May were a 24,000-job drop in electrical equipment and clothing.

The warmer the better 'Hopper kill hampered

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The moderate weather around the Magic Valley is "just what we don't need," for controlling grasshoppers, according to County Extension Agent Bill Hazen.

Warmer weather would be better for the spraying program, according to Hazen, because the hatch would be large and concentrated. Spraying programs would be able to kill a greater percentage of grasshoppers.

With cooler weather, the hatch is "more spaced out and the area is being infested with grasshoppers" in all different stages of development," Hazen said.

Planners are now in a waiting game, Hazen said, waiting for what he called "the best biological window" — the time when spraying can kill the greatest number of grasshoppers. That is not expected for another 7 to 10 days, he said.

The trick is to time the spray before too many grasshoppers become old enough to lay eggs and leave a problem for the next year.

A big part of this year's problem, Hazen said, is that last year's spraying came too late.

While this year's hatch hasn't been ideal, Hazen said planners can still expect good control if spraying is done at the right time.

Since Wednesday, nine grasshopper spotters have been assigned to the extension office. They have been traveling all over the Magic Valley taking grasshopper counts, recording both the density of grasshoppers per square yard and their stage of development.

The extension office is hoping the counts will enable them to identify areas in the most trouble and more accurately pick out the best time for spraying.

Hansen asks panel to conduct recount

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Former Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, a convicted felon who lost his seat in Congress last November to Democrat Richard Stallings, has asked a House task force to conduct a "full and fair recount" of votes in Idaho's 2nd Congressional District.

The panel also heard arguments Friday on a motion by Stallings to dismiss Hansen's challenge of the election results. Stallings was certified the winner of the election by a 153-vote margin out of 202,339 counted, and a partial recount expanded his margin to 170 votes.

Hansen was convicted in April 1984 in four federal counts of falsifying financial disclosure statements to Congress. While fighting that conviction, which still is under appeal, he narrowly won Republican renomination, then lost to Stallings in a hotly contested rematch of the 1982 race.

GEORGE HANSEN Challenges results

Hansen, a seven-term congressional veteran now campaigning privately against alleged abuses by the Internal Revenue Service, asked the House Administration Committee task force on Friday to consider the same standards in reviewing his case as were applied to the 8th District in Indiana.

In that case, the House finally voted to seat Democrat Frank McCloskey after a long, bitterly partisan fight. McCloskey won by a four-vote margin in a federal recount, defeating Republican Richard McIntyre, who originally had been certified by Indiana officials as the winner.

"If they thought a third recount was needed in Indiana then we need one good count in Idaho," Hansen said.

His attorneys argued there were irregularities in the vote-counting process and that some voters may not have been residents. They also said Stallings filed his motion to dismiss the challenge after the deadline.

An attorney for Stallings, who did not attend the hearing, said there was no evidence any irregularities affected the outcome of the election.

The panel took no action, and task force chairman Rep. Jim Bates, D-Calif., said it needed to review documents in the case before scheduling another meeting.

Lebanese militia takes U.N. soldiers hostage

By ED BLANCHE
The Associated Press

BEIRUT — Lebanon — South Lebanese Army militiamen seized 24 Finnish soldiers of the U.N. peacekeeping force Friday and threatened to shoot "one every hour" until it captured SLA fighters are released, a U.N. spokesman said.

Eight hours later, spokesman Timur Goksel said two of the Finns had been freed by the South Lebanese Army, an Israeli-supported militia operating just north of the Israeli border and called the SLA. Finland is one of 10 nations contributing troops to the 5,600-man United Nations

Interim Force in Lebanon — UNIFIL.

There were conflicting versions of what happened.

Mohammed Shehaden, an official of the Shiite Muslim Amal militia, told reporters a Shiite stronghold of Beirut, 12 miles west of Qana, that a 35-man Amal unit had attacked an SLA outpost at Qana at dawn and captured several SLA fighters in a fight in which one Amal militiaman was wounded. He said the SLA later seized the Finns in retaliation.

But Israel military sources in Tel Aviv quoted senior SLA officers as saying: "Several dozen soldiers belonging to the Finnish UNIFIL battalion attacked a force of the South Lebanese Army in the incident, which occurred in the afternoon in the vicinity of Qana.

"The UNIFIL soldiers, firing in the air, arrested 11 soldiers of the South Lebanese Army, confiscated their weapons and equipment and forced them out of the security zone to the coast from where they were transported in civilian vehicles belonging to the Amal militia."

According to the sources, the SLA officials said their militiamen seized the UNIFIL soldiers in retaliation and would free them only after the release of their own fighters. They said nothing about the threat to kill the Finnish troops.

Reagan to spend weekend studying SALT II treaty options

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan plans to study the conflicting views of his advisers this weekend on whether to continue U.S. compliance with nuclear arms limits in the unratified SALT II treaty.

At Camp David, Md., his mountain retreat, "the president will be considering the full range of options," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Friday.

Speakes said a report to Congress and a public announcement of the president's decision would be made on Monday.

The report to Congress, required under a military spending bill approved by Congress last year, was due by June 1 but the president told Congress he wanted a few more days to decide.

Speakes said Reagan had received a long cable from Secretary of State George Shultz, who has been conferring with NATO allies in Lisbon, Portugal, and expected another cable before the Lisbon meeting ended.

Shultz and the allies generally have supported continued observance of the treaty's limits while talks continue in Geneva in search of a new arms agreement. Speakes said Reagan had asked other cabinet members who wished to do to give him their advice in writing, and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger had done so. Weinberger is reported to favor abandoning the treaty on grounds it is unverifiable and the Soviets already have violated it.

Speakes said a resolution passed this week by the Senate, urging continued but modified compliance with the treaty, "allows him extensive flexibility and it will allow the U.S. to be able to respond to Soviet behavior in the arms control field."

Robert Silms, deputy White House press secretary for foreign affairs, said Reagan would take the resolution into consideration in making his decision.

Silms said Robert McFarlane, the president's national security adviser, was also expected to submit a written analysis and others would probably do so. McFarlane, in a letter to congressional leaders on May 31, said Soviet violations and the effect on arms control negotiations were among the factors that needed to be considered.

Reagan denounced the 1979 treaty as "fatally flawed" during the 1980 presidential campaign, but said after taking office that the United States would abide by its limits as long as they were observed by the Soviets.

The president has accused the Soviets of violating SALT II by testing more than one new intercontinental ballistic missile. America's newest Trident nuclear submarine, the Alaska, scheduled to begin sea trials in September, would push the United States' active nuclear-weapons arsenal above the treaty's 1,200-missile limit.

Reagan could decide to ignore the treaty provision or pull an older missile sub out of service. U.S. officials, speaking on condition they not be identified, have said that said Reagan also is considering whether to go ahead with preparations for testing of the so-called Midgetman missile.

FBI agents find secret plans in home of suspected spy

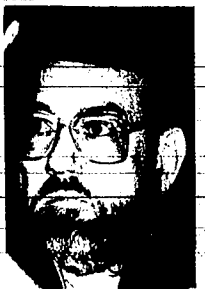

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A retired Navy radoman accused of spying for the Soviet Union had a confidential Navy contingency plan for Middle-East hostilities in his home, the FBI said Friday.

Jerry A. Whitworth, 45, of Davis, was ordered held without bail Friday at a hearing before U.S. District Judge Frederick Woelken, who ruled that Whitworth should not be released because he is a threat to the nation's security.

During the hearing, William Smits, FBI supervising agent in charge of Soviet foreign counterintelligence, testified that analysis shows Whitworth's fingerprints on seven pages of documents seized from the Virginia residence of John A. Walker Jr., alleged mastermind of the spy operation.

Investigators also found at Whitworth's home a report marked "confidential" that detailed the Navy's contingency plans for hostilities in the Middle-East. Of it, Smits said, "We believe has significant value to the Soviets."

Meanwhile, Whitworth's wife, Brenda Reils, 30, defended her husband of nine years in a press conference Thursday, saying "During the 12½ years that I have known Jerry, he has never said or done anything which would make me suspect that he would cause harm to the interests of this country."

JERRY A. WHITWORTH
Contingency plans uncovered

He was "proud of his Navy career and proud of his association with the Navy," and "never, never" mentioned an interest in the Soviet Union, she added.

According to investigators, Whitworth served on the nuclear aircraft carriers USS Enterprise and USS Constellation, and the conventional aircraft carrier USS Niagara Falls, holding sensitive positions in radio communications, codes and communications security. He worked at Navy bases in Alameda, San Diego and the island of Diego Garcia in the Indian Ocean.

Jury finds 8 men liable

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A federal jury Friday found six Ku Klux Klansmen and Nazis and two Greensboro police officers liable in the death of one of five leftist demonstrators who were killed at a 1979 anti-Klan rally.

But the jury, deciding a $48 million suit, ruled that the Klansmen, Nazis, Greensboro police and federal agents did not engage in a conspiracy against Dr. Michael Nathan or the four other Communist Workers Party members shot to death at the "Death to the Klan" rally.

The six-member jury also found four Klan-Nazi defendants liable in the assault on Nathan and two other demonstrators.

The verdict came after 4½ hours of deliberations Thursday and seven hours Friday.

UPI in talks with buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of United Press-International said Friday that UPI is holding talks with "eight different entities" that have expressed interest in buying the financially troubled news service.

UPI President Raymond Wechsler, who declined to identify any of the potential buyers, told the company's creditors that seven of the possible purchasers indicated they would keep the company operating as a toll-service worldwide news organization.

One prospective buyer is interested in the purchase to liquidate UPI's assets, Wechsler said. UPI filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy act on April 28 in order to protect its assets while it reorganizes and seeks new investment money or new owners.

Meese says more arrests possible

DALLAS (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Friday that "there may be some more arrests" in the spy case that officials already call the most damaging in the history of the U.S. Navy.

Questioned about the arrest of four former or present Navy men, all of whom were cleared to handle classified naval materials, Meese said he had talked to FBI Director William Webster about the case and "Director Webster advised me yesterday that they're not sure yet whether there may be more arrests as they find more suspects."

Two weeks ago, the FBI said it expected more arrests beyond the initial father and son, John A. Walker Jr., 47, and Michael L. Walker, 22. Since then, agents have made two additional arrests — John Walker's brother, Arthur, 50, and John Walker's close friend, Jerry A. Whitworth, 45, of Davis, Calif.

Since those arrests, bureau officials have said their investigation is continuing but have not predicted additional arrests.

In Washington, asked to clarify Meese's comments,

FBI spokesman Lane Bonner would only say, "Our investigation is continuing." Meese's spokesman in Washington, Terry Eastland, was ill and there was no one in his stead to speak for Meese.

Meese, at a news conference in Dallas, where he was making a speech, said the spy case underscores a need to reduce the number of Americans — now put at 4.3 million — who have authority to see classified documents and a need to curtail the number of secret papers generated by the government.

"For four years I have been saying we should have less classified information so we can really protect ourselves against the stuff that really ought to be secret," Meese said.

"I think we have too many classified documents, we have too many people with access to classified documents," Meese said. "The system needs to be looked at."

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said the Pentagon is cutting back on the number of people with authority to handle classified papers.

Reactor reopening is delayed

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A federal appeals court delayed the restart of the undamaged reactor at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant Friday, just five days before it was to reopen for the first time since the 1979 accident at an adjacent unit.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, citing "the public interest involved," unanimously granted a stay of the restart approved two weeks ago by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

The court scheduled a hearing June 27 for arguments on whether plant owner General Public Utilities, Inc. of Parsippany, N.J., should be allowed to resume producing electricity at Unit 1.

The unit has not operated for six years, since Unit 2 was crippled on March 28, 1979, in the worst accident in U.S. commercial nuclear history.

No other reactor has reopened after such a long hiatus, the NRC has said.

Gov. Dick Thornburgh, who has fought TMI's reopening on behalf of residents of the Middletown area near the state capital, called the appeal, signed by Judge Collins J. Seitz and supported by Judges Arlin Adams and Walter Stapleton.

The NRC said it had no immediate comment on the court's order.

"We'll respond to the court," said NRC spokesman Frank Ingram in Washington.

Under 24-hour monitoring by the NRC, GPU had started bringing Unit 1 to operating temperature before dawn Friday in a test that is the first step of getting into production.

The process — which does not involve turning on the reactor itself — uses four 9,000-horsepower pumps to build heat and pressure and has been done four times since 1981. This testing will continue.

Bus hits truck, 1 left dead

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — A bus taking school children on a graduation outing rammed into a stalled truck on an interstate Friday, killing one child and injuring at least 30 people, two of them critically.

Witnesses said every seat in the bus was ripped from the floor, and screaming, crying children were piled atop one another in the aisles. "Everything just went everywhere," said D.J. Rosenblatt, 12, who was sitting just behind driver Mark Collins. "We hit the back of a dairy truck and everybody just flew."

"The bus driver looked back and was going to talk to a girl and he turned around and we hit the truck," the boy said as he left Fremont's Washington Hospital with relatives. "It was just gross. Blood was going everywhere."

The driver, four adults and 71 children were on the bus when it collided with the milk truck on Interstate 880, said Rich Garcia, California Highway Patrol information officer.

The bus was carrying sixth-graders from Florence Markofer Elementary School in Elk Grove to Great America amusement park at Santa Clara, said Judy Hunt, the school principal.

A dairy truck loaded with 75,000 pounds of milk had stalled in the slow lane of the freeway and driver Carl White, 35, of Modesto, was standing behind it trying to divert traffic, said Garcia.

The bus came up behind the truck and tried to swerve but failed to clear it, Garcia said. "The truck driver leaped out of the way as the bus plowed into the rear of the truck, said Officer Fred Martin at the scene."

"The bus driver didn't even see him," Martin said. The southbound lanes of the highway were closed after the crash. A CHP dispatcher, who declined to be identified, said four people were trapped for a time in the bus, including the driver. He and two freed, officials said.

Human bones discovered at residence

WEST POINT, Calif. (AP) — Three skeletons were found among "piles of bones" Friday at a ranch used by a survivorist who apparently swallowed a suicide pill while being questioned by police.

Authorities also found evidence linking a missing family to the survivorist. Police believe a San Francisco businessman may have been a victim in the case, too, and disclosed that four other people are missing from the house next door to the ranch.

"It is believed that three adults and one child were living at the at the residence (next door) and have disappeared," Sheriff's Sgt. Ron McFall said. "We are trying to establish their whereabouts." He did not identify the family.

The victims whose skeletons were found may have been dead for up to a year, said Calaveras County Coroner Perry Parker. Their identities and the cause of their deaths have not yet been determined.

The bones were found on three-acre ranch 150 miles east of San Francisco, which authorities said was used by Leonard Lake, a federal fugitive and self-declared survivorist, who died Thursday, four days after he was arrested.

For the first time, police said they have evidence — a video tape machine found in the house here in the Sierra Nevada foothills — linking the investigation of Lake with the missing family of San Francisco video producer Harvey Dubs.

Lake collapsed after apparently swallowing poison while writing a statement to police, investigators said, and fell into a coma from which he never recovered. Contents of the statement were not disclosed.

Joseph Lordan, San Francisco deputy police chief, called Lake's arrest "the first good lead we've had."

Labor rights aired

'Freedom' is at issue

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Former Idaho AFL-CIO president Bob Kinghorn of Boise said Friday the Idaho Freedom To Work committee is not being honest about its goals in promoting the right-to-work bill.

The right-to-work organization is largely an employer organization that works "not for the purpose of promoting rights of the workers, but for the purpose of improving profits of those who do support the right-to-work (bill)," Kinghorn said.

"They ought to be honest about what their goals are instead of running around with their subterfuge," said Kinghorn.

Free-enterprise and profit are the American way and he does not oppose the right of corporations to protect their profits, but the right-to-work organization ought to make its motives clear, Kinghorn said.

Idaho's right-to-work law, passed by the legislature in the last session, makes it illegal for a worker to be forced to join a union in order to work in a union shop. Voters will decide whether or not to repeal the law in a November 1986 referendum.

Kinghorn appeared at a Sawtooth Press Club luncheon with Idaho Freedom To Work committee executive director Gary Glenn.

Glenn said the Idaho committee's support comes mostly from small businessmen, farmers and working people. He had begun the debate by saying that the right-to-work bill is an individual freedom issue.

Since federal labor law prohibits employer discrimination against workers who join unions, the law should also prohibit workers from being forced to join unions in order to hold jobs in union shops, he said.

A right-to-work law is also an aid to industrial development, he said.

At least half of all corporations looking to locate new facilities consider a right-to-work law a necessity, Glenn said. Nearby states with right-to-work laws on the books enjoy higher employment and wage rates than Idaho, Glenn said.

Kinghorn said Wyoming's wages are higher because of recent development of coal and petroleum reserves, not the right-to-work law.

"Almost anyone that is willing to go there and live in the sagebrush can work," he said.

"These great protectors of the poor downtrodden worker in Virginia (where right-to-work headquarters are located) continue to amaze me. If they can point out one case where they went in front of a legislature to support a higher minimum wage or better working conditions, I'll eat my hat, and I've got one in the car. It's a big subterfuge," said Kinghorn.

Kinghorn said unions object to the law because they feel they should not have to support negotiations on behalf of workers who do not pay dues. "It is simply the unfairness of having to support the free rider."

Currently, all workers in a union shop are represented in negotiations and grievance procedures by the union, whether they support the union or not.

Glenn says he would support a federal law change to allow unions to negotiate for members only, leaving non-members to negotiate a separate agreement.

Kinghorn said such a system would promote dissent among workers and non-productivity.

Kinghorn said the right-to-work committee could have taken the issue to a vote of the people long ago through the initiative process, but chosen not to.

Raney pleads guilty

Judge delays on bargaining

By The Associated Press

BOISE — In a surprise move, the key figure in a Twin Falls drug case pleaded guilty Friday to two federal criminal charges.

But U.S. District Judge Harold Ryan refused to accept the Justice Department's recommendation for probation for Charles Raney, at least until after he receives a report on the man's background and record.

Raney, 32, was one of 12 Twin Falls-area residents named in an April 12 grand jury indictment. Raney and the others were charged with conspiracy to sell marijuana, cocaine and methamphetamines or helping Raney conceal assets.

Raney was scheduled to begin in Boise Monday, but the trial was postponed on Tuesday until Sept. 11 to give a defense attorney more time to prepare for the case.

Ryan also noted that there are more than 50 pending motions in the case and he needs time to study them and determine if oral arguments are needed before they are decided.

Raney appeared before Ryan Friday morning in a hearing arranged only Thursday afternoon. Sentencing was set for July 11.

Under terms of a plea-bargain agreement filed with the court on Friday, Raney pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to distribute controlled substances, and a second that he tried to conceal his assets in an effort to defraud the Internal Revenue Service.

The charge alleges that Raney sold cocaine and other drugs between Oct. 1, 1982 until the filing of the charge. The concealing count alleges Raney bought various items in the name of other people, including his father, Cletus Raney, in an effort to conceal his ownership.

The plea-bargain agreement says the Justice Department will ask for five years probation on each of the two counts, to run at the same time, and Raney agrees to forfeiture of numerous assets seized by investigators.

Included are four parcels of Twin Falls real estate, numerous cars, trucks, cash and firearms.

An investigator said in a sworn statement that during a Nov. 14 search of Raney's Twin Falls residence 13 firearms were spotted. In a list of firearms, the Justice Department wants to confiscate, the most valued is a Colt automatic rifle valued at $2,500.

Maximum penalty for the drug-selling charge is 15 years in prison and a fine up to $125,000. The penalty for the concealing charge can be up to 5 years in prison and a fine up to $10,000.

Ryan advised Raney that he is not obligated to accept the plea-bargain agreement and the government's recommendation for probation instead of a prison sentence. The judge advised Raney that if he rejects the agreement, Raney has the right to withdraw his guilty plea.

But Idaho rate stable due to tradeoffs in farming, education

Seasonal upswing lowers unemployment in May

By DOUG WRIGHT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment in the Magic Valley dropped during May as seasonal increases in the number of agricultural and construction jobs available put more area people to work.

Idaho's overall unemployment, however, remained about the same because seasonal increases in agricultural, construction and government jobs were offset by large seasonal layoffs in education.

With all regions of the state counted, Idaho's unemployment rate for May was 6.4 percent, down 1 percent from April. Translated into people, 27,000 people were unemployed during May out of a total workforce of 435,700.

The unemployment rate in the eastern Idaho region, including the Magic Valley, was better than a year ago, while remaining about the same in western Idaho, and getting worse in northern Idaho, said Bill Day, research director of the Idaho Department of Employment.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties dropped 4 percent in May to 6.0 percent, which is 6 percent lower than a year ago, said Lon McDonald, Employment Department job force analyst for the area.

Local employment swelled last month by 1,540 people and unemployment dropped by 170 people, said McDonald. The number of area people unemployed during May was 28.

"The Employment Department is presently paying unemployment insurance to about 950 people. This is the lowest number receiving insurance in over a year and a drop of about 350 people from April."

Although unemployment in Northern Idaho dropped by 1.3 percent, the largest decrease in the state, it still continued to suffer very high unemployment because of the slumping lumber industry, said Day.

"Anyplace that has lumber seems to have problems, because they are dependent on the housing industry which is really slow right now," he said.

The highest increase in unemployment was in Canyon County, probably because of layoffs in the food-processing industry, said Day.

The employment outlook for the summer looks fairly good for southern and eastern Idaho as seasonal agricultural and government work will probably keep the rates low and fairly stable, he said.

However, "the state will continue to have problems with the northern lumber areas as long as the housing industry continues to be slow," he added.

Regional unemployment rates and the change from March are:

- Inland Empire (Coeur d'Alene) — 9.4 percent, down 1.3 percent.
- Lewiston-Clarkston — 5.4 percent, down 1 percent.
- Canyon County — 7.8 percent, up 6 percent.
- Boise area — 4.6 percent, down 1 percent.
- Magic Valley — 6.0 percent, down 4 percent.
- Pocatello — 6.5 percent, up 4 percent.
- Idaho Falls — 4.2 percent, no change.

Association pays farewell tribute to 6 retiring teachers at breakfast

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — More than 150 years of teaching were honored at a Friday morning recognition breakfast where the Twin Falls Education Association said farewell to six retiring teachers.

"Education is the cornerstone of our democracy. The teacher places the tools of education in the hands of the student," Twin Falls County Prosecuting Attorney Ellen Baxter faced by the crowd of 150 teachers, administrators, and others who gathered at the Canyon Springs Inn for the breakfast.

Baxter said teachers are to be admired. "You provide a role model. You are living examples of the benefits of education," she said.

Parents place their trust in teachers as is demonstrated by the fact that they send their children to school for most of their waking hours for 12 years of their lives, she said.

Retiring teachers honored at the banquet included Laura May Galloway, who has taught for 25 years of her 32-year career in Twin Falls. She has been a Harrison Elementary School teacher for 18 years. Galloway began teaching in Murlough and attended Albion State Normal School and Idaho State University.

June Haggard taught first and second grade and special education for 30 years, 20 of them in Twin Falls. She holds degrees from North Idaho College of Education in Lewiston and Idaho State University. She has been named Teacher of the Year by the Association for Retarded Children.

Doris Williams taught for 25 of her 27 years in Twin Falls. Williams received her B.S. degree from Utah State University and taught eighth and ninth grade English.

Rhyle Warren was librarian at Harrison Elementary School for 10 years. She said she plans to catch all the fish in Magic Reservoir in her retirement.

Barbara Mencl, a first grade teacher, taught for 26 years. She says she plans to take a trip to Alaska in the fall.

Ruth Turner taught 25 of her 27 years in music. A fourth grade teacher, she attended Oklahoma State University and taught in California before teaching in Twin Falls. She taught in the Twin Falls district for 24 years.

The gathering also honored Bernice Drury, a high school library aide who was school board secretary for 2 years and has worked in various other jobs in the school district for 35 years.

A list of about 20 names of teachers leaving the district this year was read at the meeting and a list of 50 teachers who received various honors this year was read.

Deputy prosecutor named

TWIN FALLS — A Filer native has been named as a new Twin Falls County deputy prosecutor.

Rockne K. Lammers, 28, will start Aug. 1. Prosecutor K. Ellen Baxter said Friday. He replaces Keith Hutchinson who resigned May 31 to enter private practice.

Lammers graduated from Filer High School and the University of Idaho Law School in 1982. He has been with the Boise law firm of Risch, Goss, Insinger and Sallady.

As a new deputy, Lammers will share the load of criminal cases with herself and the two other deputies, Baxter said. She said she has not set the salary of the new deputy.

Lammers comes from a law enforcement family. His father is a former county deputy, Eddie Lammers, and his brother is a police officer, Baxter said.

Census tract plans invited

TWIN FALLS — Those groups who use census information are invited to establish geographical areas within Twin Falls County and cities in the county to use in measuring statistics from the 1990 Census.

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Census has invited those groups that use the information, such as cities, counties and school boards, to organize a committee, said Stan Ferlic of the Region IV Development Association.

An organizational meeting will be held June 13 at 2 p.m. in room 102 of the Shields Building at the College of Southern Idaho.

A committee would establish a plan for census tracts and block groups. The census tracts are geographical areas of similar population within the county, Ferlic said. Block groups are areas encom-

Spokane bank fires 3 PCA officials

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

MISSOULA, Mont. — Three top officers of the Western Montana Production Credit Association have been fired by the Federal Intermediary Credit Bank of Spokane.

John Waite, one of the three dismissed officers, said that he and the others were fired "for being requested to do something they did not condone."

Waite would not elaborate on what they had been asked to do, but said that the action has "poor" implications for the future of the 1,200 farmers and ranchers in Western Montana who used the PCA as a source of credit.

Waite, acting president of the PCA before it was liquidated in January, worked with the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association in Twin Falls several years ago and, last year, Waite helped out the local PCA on a temporary basis.

The other two loan officers were Donald Cool and Jim Eiler. The three were fired by FICB liquidating agent Larry Butterfield.

Twin Falls attorney Harry DeHaan speculated that the firings were "indicative of the FICB's lack of concern for the farmers who are in a state of liquidation."

DeHaan said that liquidators in Montana and Oregon have been generally oppressive. "Fortunately we're past that stage in Idaho," DeHaan added. He attributed the better treatment accorded Idaho farmers and ranchers to the support they receive from community and business people.

The problem with the FICB, DeHaan commented, is that they are both bankers and bureaucrats. "They loan too much money when prices are high, and not enough when prices are low," DeHaan said. "Now," he added, "they won't even loan you a nickel to buy gas to get into town."

The 51-year-old Montana PCA was liquidated in January after it failed to make payments on its $42 million of outstanding loans with the Spokane FICB.

Eight of the 23 PCA's in the Spokane system have been liquidated because their losses exceeded reserves, including the Southern Idaho PCA, which has been absorbed by the Eastern Idaho PCA, based in Pocatello.

passing sections of blocks within a city.

The information gathered and measured by census tracts and block groups would allow those who use the data to compare population and characteristics within the different tracts within the county and sections within a town, Ferlic said.

A person within the committee will act as liaison with the census bureau.

The deadline for submitting census tract plans for Twin Falls County is June 30.

Director predicts tourism rise

BOISE — Revenues from tourism in Idaho should increase this summer by about 5 percent over last summer, says state travel director Ralph McMullen.

McMullen attributed the increase to several factors. First, no major events like the Olympics or the World's Fair will draw people to other parts of the country as they did last summer.

Second, Idaho tourism will benefit this summer from the National Governor's Conference which is being held the first weekend of August in Boise. This event will not only attract several thousand visitors but also focus national media attention on Boise and the state, said McMullen.

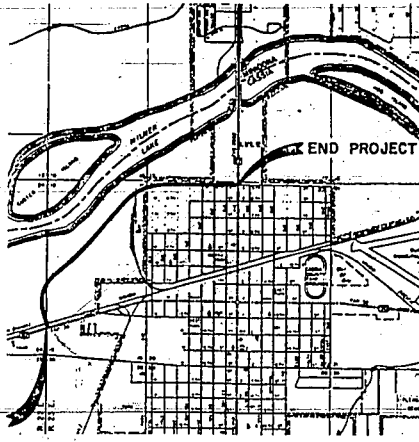

The Idaho tourist industry will also benefit from a strong advertising and informational campaign which the Idaho Travel Council has been operating in the last year. The council has been producing and distributing materials and programs promoting Idaho on a state and nationwide basis, he said.

However, the strong American dollar will continue to hurt Idaho and U.S. tourist industries, McMullen said, as a record number of Americans expect to travel to foreign countries and the number of foreign travelers entering the U.S. decreases.

Burley residents show favor for truck bypass proposal

BURLEY—Burley residents testified in favor of a proposed truck route to bypass the city center at a hearing sponsored Monday by the Idaho Department of Transportation.

"There is a dire need for the truck route, not only to eliminate downtown truck traffic but also to open up an industrial area," said Mayor Chuck Shaduck.

Proposed location and design of Northwest truck access route for safety problem, said Messley.

The truck route will begin at the intersection of Washington Street and U.S. Highway 30, follow along the Snake River and end at the corner of 5th and Overland.

The street will be 8,200 feet in length. It will give traffic a by-pass around Burley business and residential streets and connect U.S. Highway 30 and the interstate in the Snake River and end at the corner of 5th and Overland.

Persons may submit written comments on the proposed route until June 13.

Although no opposition was expressed on the location of the proposed truck route, several residents asked about the right of way acquisition procedure.

Dale Manning, engineer with the Idaho Department of Transportation, Division of Highways in Shoshone, said the first step is to appraise and negotiate a purchase price for property needed for the right-of-way. A design of the project is next on the agenda and will take several months, he said.

Manning explained that project construction is at least a year or more down the road. He said it cannot be brought under construction until fiscal year 1987, which is funded and begins in the last half of 1986.

Rick Larson, a Burley resident, said that some landowners may have to make a small sacrifice, but it would be to the overall benefit of the community.

Police Chief Leman Messley voiced his support of the truck route, which will change traffic patterns for heavy trucks entering town from the west.

2 in court on alleged probation violations

TWIN FALLS—Two people accused of violating probation appeared Monday in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

LaVonne Lauren Cain, 25, of 528 Fifth Ave. N. admitted breaking the terms of probation when she sold drugs.

Cain had received a withheld sentence on a 1984 forged conviction. In a report of alleged violations, Cain was accused of selling illegal drugs to a state narcotics officer on Dec. 6 and Jan. 21, 1985. In an April 9 search of her residence, officers also found marijuana, drug paraphernalia and a gun. A urine test of Cain also revealed the presence of marijuana.

Other accusations included a petit theft arrest and failure to pay restitution.

Cain was convicted for forging a $50 travelers check in July 1984.

Judge Daniel Meehl will rule on the probation violations July 1.

In another courtroom, meanwhile, 19-year-old Ricky Alan Coates of 1592 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. had his probation suspended for two years after a probation violation.

Coates initially was placed on an unsupervised two-year probation on conviction of misdemeanor battery and indecent exposure involving a female gas station attendant Nov. 22. Coates violated the probation by failing to complete a substance abuse program. Judge Daniel Hurbutt ordered Coates Monday to resume the program during the extended period of unsupervised probation.

In other cases, 35-year-old Lloyd Dean McCullister of Murtha lived not guilty to forging a $30 check to the Westmart grocery store in Murtha in 1980 in Twin Falls. A trial will be held on the charge later this summer.

McCullister was sentenced to four years on probation on another 1980 forged charge. Hurbutt also imposed a $1,000 fine and an evaluation at the Port of Hope substance abuse treatment center.

The charge involved a $25 check in May 1980.

According to court records, McCullister did not appear for court proceedings in June 1980. A warrant was issued for his arrest, which took place May 1985.

Vandals hit school site

TWIN FALLS—Several instances of theft and vandalism have hampered workers at the new elementary school site, 452 Caswell Ave.

Police received reports of a theft of building materials and two instances of vandalism Thursday totaling more than $1,000 in losses.

Contractors at the site reported someone entered the building Wednesday night and took $250 worth of roofing adhesive and tools. About $250 in damage was caused by breaking into the building. The items taken were owned by Modern Roofers of Pocatello.

Someone within the past few weeks, another $188 in damage resulted when someone dropped bricks into vents in the building, destroying two of the vents.

Another $300 damage resulted when someone rode trail bikes over newly poured concrete curbs and gutters, officials said.

Thieves net radio, stereo from sedan

TWIN FALLS—The theft of $650 in stereo and radio equipment from a vehicle at the Roan Enterprises car lot was reported to Twin Falls police Thursday.

The firm, at 1310 Kimberly Road, reported someone entered a 1975 sedan on the parking lot sometime between 11 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday. In addition to removing the equipment, the thieves also caused damage to the car's dash.

Another theft was reported Thursday by Grand Floral Center at 113 Main Ave. E. Employees reported a young male subject entered the shop at 10:30 a.m. and said he was shopping for a gift. He went upstairs to the gift shop and apparently also entered the office area while the clerk was absent for a brief time. A total of $250 in cash was taker from the office area, officers said.

LDS Stake hosts Education Week

PAUL - The LDS Stake in Paul will host the annual Education Week for the Burley-Rupert area. A faculty of six teachers will spend three days teaching courses in such topics as "Leadership for Youth and Youth Leaders; Three Keys to Successful Living; "Marriage: An Elaborate Friendship," and "Scripture Study and Discovery."

Munn, manager of Instructional Technology for the Church Education System; Monte S. Nyman, principal at Burley; and Stephen K. Iba, a staff member at the Salt Lake Institute of Religion. Tickets for the event may be purchased for a single day, a single morning or evening, or the full event. They are available from the general chairman or at the door any of the session days. Church dress standards must be followed, no recorders are allowed, and lunch and snacks will be served.

Lutherans defrock dissident minister

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP) - The Lutheran Church on Friday defrocked a defiant minister who went to jail in his campaign blaming "corporate evil" for unemployment, and police arrested him for refusing to leave the stage at the denomination's regional convention. "Out! Out!" the delegates chanted as D. Douglas Roth, 33, of Clariton, demanded a repeat of disciplinary hearings that led to his expulsion from the ministry of the 3 million-member Lutheran Church in America.

would have come from the delegates," said the Rev. Charles Austin, a church spokesman. "What we're getting is an emotional reaction." Bishop James R. Crumley Jr., national head of the denomination, said later at a news conference that Roth had been defrocked. Roth is a member of the Denominational Ministry Strategy, which was formed by the church in 1980 to train ministers to attract new members. The group broke with its founders as they focused on confrontation on behalf of the unemployed. Union activists associated with the DMS have thrown skunk-scented in-

Baptist Press maintains standards under fire

The pressures have come "from all directions," wanting the reporting muzzled or slanted, says Wilmer C. Fields, 65, the courtly, tough-principled Louisiana who has been director of Baptist Press for 25 years. "We just won't do that," he adds, pointing out that the service's purpose is to report the news of, about and for Southern Baptists in a full, factual and fair manner. "Yet threatening courts still surround that even-handed press operation as thousands of Southern Baptists headed into Dallas for their convention next week, geared for battle.

The hard, escalating struggle between fundamentalist-conservatives and moderate-conservatives is over control of the country's largest Protestant denomination, totaling 14.3 million members. In the middle of the furor, Baptist Press keeps the news flowing. Its staff of about 18 reporters in five bureaus and the main office in Nashville, turning out 1,200 to 1,400 stories a year. They go, without charge, to about 300 recipients, including 37 state Baptist papers, mostly weeklies, and about 250 secular newspapers and their religion specialists.

Church news Drive-In Church set

TWIN FALLS - The first Drive-In Church service of the season will be held at 7 a.m. Sunday at the Motor-Vu Drive-In Theater on Eastland Drive in Twin Falls. Each Sunday until Sept. 1, a representative from the Twin Falls Ministerial Association will speak at the 45-minute services, which will include songs, communion and a sermon. The public is invited to come as they are.

Committee members helping with the event are Mardenne Nield, hospitality; Arlyn Tanner, physical arrangements; Marie Patterson, food services; Arlen Morgan, first aid; and Derrieth Orton and Arvetta Savaga, publicity.

San Diego orders church to stop feeding vagrants

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Hungry people who once relied on a church for meals are now forced to rummage through trash bins for food, according to a clergyman whose meal-service for vagrants was ordered shut down by the city. The Rev. Don Shuman says he's mystified by the community's attitude toward his church, which had provided as many as 250 transients with a meal each week, and by the city's retaliation that the church violated health and zoning codes.

Methodist couple leaves on West Africa mission

TWIN FALLS - Deane and Virginia Ellis, a retired Twin Falls couple, left this week for a short-term agricultural assignment in Monrovia, Liberia, West Africa, under the sponsorship of the United Methodist Church's Board of Global Ministries. They were commissioned as missionaries last Sunday at the Twin Falls First United Methodist Church - worship service - by the pastor, Rev. Tom Tucker. Also served as a missionary in Liberia from 1966-69.

JEROME - Paul and DeLoris Wynia will present a musical ministry program at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Faith Chapel, Assembly of God Church, Adams and D Street, Jerome. Admission is free.

Valley resident, Talbot, manager of the church's committee on publication, reported on publicity which has linked Christian healing as practiced by Christian Scientists with child neglect. He stressed that the members' century-long record of healings, and the love and care of their children is "invaluable" in breaking down stereotypes of Christian healing as ineffective or dangerous.

City inspectors said that by serving meals, the church was operating as a restaurant, not a church. Inspectors said the kitchen facilities didn't meet standards required for restaurants. Church officials, however, claim the violation citations masked the city's move to appease local residents who don't want transients in their neighborhood. They served in the Peace Corps in Jamaica for two years and in Barbados for one year where he taught and graded in the peace corps. Mrs. Ellis taught an adult literacy class. Ellis, a native of Hillsboro, Iowa, attended Grand Island business college. Mrs. Ellis grew up in Enid, Okla. - a graduate of Phillips University there. She has taught about 20 years in Oklahoma, California and Idaho. They came to Twin Falls in 1979 and returned here after their Peace Corps assignment in Barbados. They have traveled in most of Central America and the Caribbean Islands. The couple has three children: Dr. Robert Ellis, Boise; Ken Ellis, Buhl; and Barbara Reick, Boise.

FAILER - "Jonl," a film about Joni Eareckson's life following an accident which left her handicapped, will be shown at 8 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church on Highway 30 in Filer.

CALDWELL - Members of the Twin Falls Seventh-day Adventist church are among 2,000 church members from throughout Southern Idaho and Southeastern Oregon who are meeting this week at Gem State Academy, four miles south of Caldwell, for the Idaho Conference Camp Meeting. Seminar-style classes on health, family life, and Christian salvation will begin Sunday. Speakers during the eight-day event will include: Herb Douglas of Nampa, book editor for Pacific Press; Paul Nelson of Boise, Idaho Conference president; Art Lickley of Portland, a religious liberty advocate; and Gerard Dis of Bellport, N.Y., a public evangelist. Individuals, families and groups are invited to attend any part of the conference. For more information, call: 459-4481 or 375-7524.

McClure says news special preyed on fear of unknown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jim McClure on Friday denounced ABC News for what he regarded as its decision "to sensationalize" and "to prey on the fear of the unknown" in a three-hour documentary on nuclear energy.

SEN. JAMES MCCLURE
Criticizes ABC Close-up

Richard Richter, senior producer for the ABC Close-up unit that produced "The Fire Unleashed," denied the show was sensational or unbalanced.

McClure, R-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said in a speech on the Senate floor that the program that dealt with nuclear power, nuclear waste and nuclear proliferation was unbalanced and did not serve the public interest.

"The result of ABC's effort is not an objective explanation of the problems facing nuclear power, but a further confusion of the problems facing nuclear power," he said in a statement on the Senate floor.

McClure said the network had chosen "to sensationalize, to incite, to distort, to prey on the fear of the unknown."

The Republican senator, a longtime advocate of nuclear power, said the ABC program did not give supporters of nuclear energy an adequate hearing.

He said in an interview from his office in New York. "Any imbalance is in the eye of the beholder. There was no one on the show who was anti-nuclear power for the sake of anti-nuclear power. There wasn't anybody who said nuclear power is all bad."

He said the show included two members of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the president of Duke Power Co.

"As far as nuclear power is concerned, we took no position negative to nuclear power. What we did say is the nuke power in this country has in large part been badly managed. And we did cite cases of excellent management," including Duke Power, Richter said.

McClure defended the safety record of nuclear power plants and the technology to dispose of nuclear wastes.

"I challenge anyone to cite another energy source that has such a superb safety record," he said.

And "contrary to the program's insinuations, the technology to safely dispose of nuclear waste does, in fact, exist."

Richter said that the show's treatment of nuclear waste problems showed that if there is a reasonable method of waste disposal, "Nobody has done it."

Telephone company receives PUC go-ahead for trial-run

BOISE (AP) — Mountain Bell will be allowed a "trial run" through the end of the year at leasing local telephone lines in bulk to groups of business or residential customers, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission says.

The PUC this week gave Mountain Bell permission to test the cooperative arrangements, in which the phone company provides only necessary lines and groups of customers in the same building or area may privately arrange their own billing and phone service.

For example, managers of apartment buildings, office complexes or resorts could offer their tenants lower-cost package deal including services such as phone equipment, repair and maintenance, answering services, call forwarding, word processing, security and paging.

Blood tests find AIDS antibodies

BOISE (AP) — State health officials say they have found positive evidence of the antibodies connected with acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or AIDS, in two of a dozen blood samples tested so far under a new policy.

But John Perry, a public health adviser for the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, said there still are no confirmed cases of AIDS in Idaho.

More than 90 percent of patients with confirmed cases of AIDS test positive for HTLV-III antibodies, but officials have said a positive test does not necessarily mean a person has or will develop the disease.

Contraction of AIDS is linked to sexual contact, blood transfusions and common use of needles. Male homosexuals with multiple partners, intravenous drug users, and female partners of bisexuals are at high risk of contracting AIDS.

Meanwhile, the Snake River Regional Red Cross blood bank reported that it has screened every unit of fresh and frozen blood it has received, and that none so far has tested positive for the virus connected with AIDS.

Connie Searles, a blood-bank spokeswoman, said if any positive units are found they will be destroyed and the donor's name will be placed on a deferral list. No state or federal agencies are required to be notified, she said.

Blood testing for the AIDS-linked antibodies formerly known as human T-cell lymphotropic virus type III also is being provided free of charge by the state's seven district health departments, Perry said.

The Snake River blood bank and the district health departments both are in the process of developing confirmation and counseling procedures to help people who test positive for the HTLV-III antibodies.

Last September, Mountain Bell asked the commission to approve a plan for leasing lines to groups at rates set independent of the PUC. Company officials argued that cooperative phone arrangements are one of the inevitable outcomes of phone deregulation.

Lines currently are leased to such customers as large businesses using rates approved by state utility regulators based on an average of costs on the local phone company's system rather than the actual cost of any one particular installation.

The company was ordered to charge phone resellers according to the number of local calls made on their system in any one month. Some businesses involved in the case wanted the phone company to charge a flat rate.

General Telephone Co. and Continental Telephone Co. both opposed the resale plan for their companies, arguing that phone resellers could drain local phone companies of valuable business and force higher rates for other customers.

Idaho business climate drops one point in national ranking

CHICAGO (AP) — Idaho, where government and private officials have been pressing to attract new industry to bolster the state's flagging economy, has dropped one slot in a national ranking of its business climate, according to a recent survey conducted by a public accounting firm.

Based on the results of the survey by Alexander Grant & Co., Idaho ranked 18th among the 48 contiguous states in the "favourability" of its business climate in 1984 compared to 17th the year before.

In the North-Central region, Idaho ranked in the middle of the pack and the nine-state region ranked third of the eight regions studied in the survey. Of the states bordering Idaho, which lie in the southwest and western regions, Utah ranked 5th and Nevada 17th. Montana ranked 34th, Washington 37th, Wyoming 43rd and Oregon 44th.

The six-state Great Lakes region showed the biggest improvement nationally in 1984 in ability to attract manufacturing business, but came in last place among the eight regions studied in the annual business survey.

The southeastern and southwestern states that make up the two Sun Belt regions again placed first and second, respectively, in attractiveness to manufacturers, the survey showed. But South Dakota of the North-Central region replaced Florida as the state with the best overall manufacturing climate among the 48 contiguous states studied. Florida, which had been ranked first for three consecutive years, slipped to third behind North Dakota, also a North-Central region state.

The other top 10 states in order were Nebraska, Utah, Mississippi, Arkansas, North Carolina, Georgia, and Tennessee.

Michigan, ranked last in 1983, remained at the bottom of the 48-state list in 1984, having the dubious distinction of being the only one of six states in the Improving Great Lakes region to fail to move up at least two places.

The annual survey bases its ranking on 22 factors, each weighted in the final rankings according to the priority assigned by the 37 state associations that represent manufacturers and participate in the survey.

Energy costs were the top priority listed by the associations, according to the survey, followed closely by wages paid to workers. Idaho ranked 18th in both categories.

Also among the factors considered were state and local taxes, where Idaho ranked 12th, and government fiscal policies, where Idaho ranked in the top five in the categories of debt and welfare expenditures but 43rd in the ratio of spending versus revenue growth. In the availability and productivity of the work force, Idaho ranked in the bottom half of the states and it had the same type of rating for other manufacturing-related issues aside from energy costs.

The Grant survey also found that manufacturing union membership decreased in each of the eight regions, with declines of more than 10 percent in Idaho and seven others there. According to the survey, union membership in Idaho, now caught in the throes of a battle over a new right-to-work law, dropped nearly 15.5 percent from 1983 to 1984, the fifth largest decline nationally.

Maine was the only state to register an increase of more than 10 percent in union membership in manufacturing companies.

Nationally, union membership slipped from 29 percent of total manufacturing employment—5.2 million workers in 1983 to 27.2 percent of total manufacturing employment of 5.2 million in 1984, the survey reported.

Officials said the regions covered in the study are composed of areas that have similar conditions for manufacturing operations and include neighboring states that share similar economic, geographic and working conditions.

Professors sue for wrongful firing

MOSCOW (AP) — Six former University of Idaho professors laid off in the wake of a financial crisis filed suit against the university and the Idaho Board of Education.

The former professors, represented by Moscow lawyer Roy Mosman, filed the suit Thursday in 2nd District Court here. They claim they were without notice because of a financial emergency existed when they were given 30 days notice in April 1981.

The statute of limitations expires at the end of June, Mosman said.

"It seemed like that there might be some chance to do something now," said Jane Betts, currently a home economics teacher at Welser High School.

Ms. Betts and the other plaintiffs are peers of Lois Pace, who with Mosman has been battling the university in the district court for the past three years. Her case currently is pending before the Idaho Supreme Court.

The other plaintiffs are Richard P. "Buzz" Hall, an epidemiologist at the University of Georgia at Tifton; Don Harter of Moscow, currently personnel officer at the UI; Gilgert F. Stallnecht, of Huntley, Mont., an associate research professor at UI who worked with horticulture crops at Parma; Virginia R. Warner, currently of Carson City, Nev., a former home economist; and Morris L. Hemstrom of Moscow, an extension livestock specialist and associate professor.

Harter is the only one of the six who accepted a different position at the university after being laid off. Ms. Pace was given 30 days notice in April 1981, just a year before she was scheduled to retire, under the terms of a financial crisis that claimed the jobs of the six other tenured professors as well.

She filed suit against the board in 1982.

In November 1984, Second District Judge Don Schilling ruled that Ms. Pace should not have been fired. He said the UI did not prove a financial emergency existed in its agricultural research and cooperative extension program that year.

Governor makes selection to board

BOISE (AP) — Wylla Barsness, a psychology professor at Boise State University, has been appointed to the Idaho Board of Health and Welfare, Gov. John Evans announced Friday.

Barsness will complete the unexpired term of Pat Sarbaugh, who resigned earlier this month. Her appointment is effective immediately and continues until Jan. 7, 1987, and requires confirmation by the state Senate.

Pair is killed when car lands in pond

ASOTIN, Wash. (AP) — Two people are dead following a traffic accident in which their car went off a county road and landed upside down in a pond.

Asotin County authorities Thursday identified the dead as the driver, Brian Shoemaker, 21, of Lewiston, Idaho, and Michelle Shreve, 18, of Asotin.

Investigators said the car missed a curve late Wednesday night and rolled over several times before landing in the pond about two miles south of Asotin.

Both were pronounced dead of asphyxiation.

PERMANENTS
Charles Nestle invented the permanent wave machine in 1915, opened a salon in New York City, and advertised for customers. Sixty-one women showed up. Sixty looked at the apparatus and said, "No way!" by way of that effect. One tried it. Pretty shaky beginning. But the word spread. Four years later, Nestle's permanent wave was a nationwide rage.

28 soldiers died

Ravine searched for lost company

CROW AGENCY, Mont. (AP) — Scientists working at the Custer Battlefield say they may have found the site where 28 members of Lt. Col. George A. Custer's "lost company" were trapped by Indian gunfire.

Yancey Haynes, a geomorphologist from the University of Arizona, said Thursday he has found what he believes is an old floor of the ravine where the men were trapped.

For the past two summers, archaeologists have been exploring Deep Ravine, searching for evidence of the fate of the troopers who rode with Lt. Algernon Smith at Custer's Last Stand on June 25, 1876.

According to some accounts from the time, a burial party knocked dirt from the side walls of the ravine down onto the bodies because it could not get them out over the steep walls.

Haynes said the best bet for finding the remains of Company E is at the head of the ravine, where soil strata indicates that the landscape matches descriptions of eyewitness accounts.

"The trenches do show a narrow, deep gully, just the type described," said Sandy Barnard, a spokesman for the Carter National Battlefield Monument.

"The banks would have been much steeper then, and that would have made it difficult for a man under six feet to crawl out," he said. "Most of the soldiers in those days were 5-foot-4 inches to 5-foot-9 inches."

Troopers who arrived at the battlefield a day or so after Custer's men were wiped out said Company E was boxed in by the steep walls and was cut down by Indian gunfire.

But if the remains of Company E are still in Deep Ravine, they will remain there for now, because Friday marked the end of this year's five-week archaeological survey.

"It's an area they should check in the future," Haynes said. "If (the remains) were ever in there, I guess they would still be there."

Scientists weren't able to explore the ravine further this year because a backhoe could not reach the area, Haynes said.

Haynes said he dug 10 trenches in the ravine, most of them six to 12 feet deep. In one, evidence of a dump — pottery, metal objects, pieces of a water-main — were found, Haynes said.

Man sues after finding human foot in wife's bag

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A man who says he found a diseased human foot among his dead wife's belongings has filed a lawsuit with the state to force a hospital to pay for his legal expenses.

Stanley Grant, 53, is suing Mercy Hospital in Superior Court for $175,000, saying he suffers from a stress disorder and requires psychotherapy and medication. He says he cannot sleep at night because he has visions of a foot on his bed.

Grant's wife was being treated for lung cancer when she died suddenly Feb. 2. People from the funeral home went to the morgue to get the body and Mrs. Grant's belongings, which had been put in two bags and a box.

When Grant opened them at home, he found the foot and thought it was his wife's, "but after the initial sickening shock, realized it was not," said his attorney, David J. Corson. "It was a man's foot, he said.

Grant became "violently ill" and has been unable to sleep because he "constantly visualized 'the foot' on his bed. He has attempted to lessen this trauma by moving and purchasing a new bed, but the visions persist," the suit says.

Mercy Hospital president Howard Buckley declined comment on the lawsuit.

Freed Keach vows to fight drug abuse

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Stacy Keach, freed after six months in a British prison for cocaine smuggling, returned to the United States on Friday and pledged to campaign cross-country against drug abuse.

"I can't tell you enough how great it is to be alive, to be home and in New York City," said Keach, upon his arrival at Kennedy International Airport. "It was great to fly in and see that lady with the torch."

The star of "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer" thanked fans for the letters they wrote him while he served his time at Reading Prison, working in the library. He smiled, blew kisses and flashed the thumbs-up sign for photographers.

He said he would devote much of his time to anti-drug efforts. "I'll take a little rest," he said. "I'll be going out. (I'll) talk on campuses. I'll be talking more about that later. Today is not the day, I'm whacked," he said.

Keach, 44, was arrested at London's Heathrow Airport on April 4, 1984, carrying 1.5 ounces of cocaine. Also arrested was Deborah Stein, 41, who had a small quantity in her pocket; she was later sentenced to three months in prison, but was given a suspended sentence upon appeal.

In December, Keach told a judge he had used the drug "as a means of trying to alleviate exhaustion," and had been addicted since January 1984.

The judge refused appeals for leniency and sentenced Keach to nine months. He served six months, and was given three months off for good behavior.

"It feels great to be free. I made a mistake. I have paid for it," Keach told reporters in the drizzle outside the British prison.

"In spite of my misfortune in your country, it is still a country that I'm very fond of. . . I'm very grateful that I've not been deported and I hope one day to be able to return," he said.

But the British Home Office indicated Keach would be banned from returning to Britain.

A spokeswoman who declined to be identified said it was normal policy not to allow people convicted of extraditable crimes — which include Keach's offense — to return to Britain. She said Keach had not been returning to Britain.

While in prison, Keach made plans to marry Polish-born actress Malgosia Tomassi, 28, after his divorce from actress Jill Donohue. He also wrote a book and is looking for a publisher, said his publicist, David Gerrie. And he wrote to London's Daily Express newspaper, identifying himself as "a once-devoted addict."

"Coaine is a diabolically destructive force which can ultimately ruin not only your physical and mental health but also your career and personal relationships as well," Keach wrote.

Wild horseman earns DUI

BAYFIELD, Colo. (AP) — A 21-year-old man got behind the reins instead of the wheel, but still was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol after galloping through the streets of this southwest Colorado town.

Eric Williams was arrested after a police officer managed to grab the reins of the horse Williams was galloping through Bayfield.

"He was wobbling, barely able to hang on and going full speed. It was a problem," said reserve Bayfield police officer Bob Gaskamp, who arrested Williams last weekend.

Gaskamp said he asked Williams twice to dismount because he was "obviously intoxicated" and riding recklessly on town streets.

On Williams' third pass down the street, Gaskamp said he was able to grab the reins and chase down Williams, who fled on foot.

Williams was booked into the La Plata County Jail in Durango and later released on $100 bond.

The DUI charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Twins are her forte

NEPTUNE, N.J. (AP) — Regina Dorchy, now convinced that children come in pairs, has declared that eight is her number.

The 30-year-old Lakewood woman gave birth to her fourth consecutive set of twins Tuesday at the Jersey Shore Medical Center. While she said she was thrilled at the birth of her fifth daughter and third son, she said she would not have any more children.

Dr. Steven Feld, who called it a "biological phenomenon," said the 5-pound, 5-ounce girl named Alicia and 5-pound, 8-ounce boy named Andrew were in excellent health.

West's passing pitted against Eastern running

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "I'll be our throwing against their running," says West Coach Jon Jund of Jerome.

"Our plan is for our defense to hold them to 40 and us to score 41," replies Don Tompkins, Oakley, of the East.

That's the battle alignment as the two 80 graduating seniors in Magic Valley collide at 8 p.m. today at Bruin Stadium for the annual East-West Shrine All-Star Football Game.

"We expect them to power the ball at us since they are quite a bit bigger than us. Definitely, we expect to see mostly running with some play-action passing," Jund continues.

"I think they present a really balanced attack. I think they're going to be what I call a 'fancy Dan' team, throw it a lot and play good defense. We're just going to be hoping we can be a 'get it' type team, grind it out and go. But they do have explosive personnel."

While both sides practice gamesmanship, the truth is the history of the Magic Valley Shrine game is low scoring.

But there's little doubt that Jund comes into the game thinking pass — after all his son, Shane Jund, will be sharing quarterback duties with Twin Falls' Doug Petersen.

And Coach Jund says "we have as much depth at the skill positions as we do at the line." He pointed to wide receivers Todd Amundson, Jerome; Dale Karst, Wood River, and Tommie and Twin Falls. "Shane and Petersen are throwing the ball really well right now."

Jund does not want that construed as a game plan that precludes running.

"We'll be starting Eric Welmeister (Wendell) and Jeff Lambert (Twin Falls) and we have a couple of good running backs. We feel good about that position."

Jund's fears remain on the defensive side.

"They have (Deto 210-pounder talkback Bart) Kelsey and they have good size in front of him," Jund said.

"I have talked to (Kimberly Coach Gordon) Hogan (line specialist) and he tells me they have some good down linemen, a couple he called the real thing. Then Tompkins has his own battery (in quarterback Arden Cranney and wide receiver Cory Woodhouse) plus those good receivers from Burley and another one from Minico."

Still he feels the crux of the game will ride on the West's linebacking and he's more than satisfied there action passing," Jund continues.

With Twin Falls' Bob McLaughlin and Brett Rue of Jerome. "Our linebacking may be the strength of the team," said Jund, noting that a 5-2 defense without stunts and blitzing is mandatory.

He also likes his defensive secondary, grind it out and go, noting "we have fast speed in the secondary and six players will see comparable amount of time back there." He expressed particular pleasure with the play of twin safety Jed Yore of Gooding.

He also warned fans not to be surprised if Petersen and Jund line up at light end periodically.

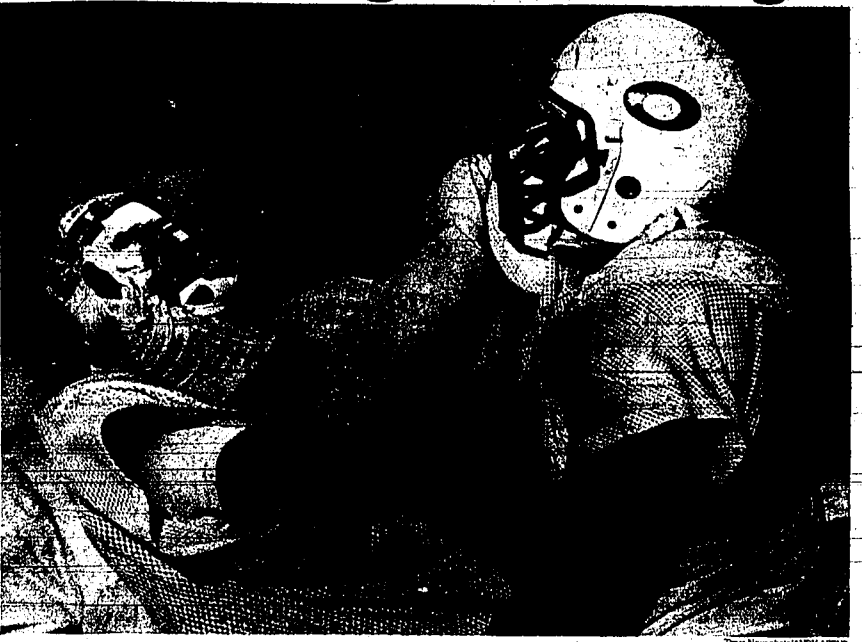

Petersen, 6-foot-4, 210, has the statistics for that position.

Most of what Tompkins dwells on in discussing the game would lead toward the running conclusion.

"At quarterback we have Todd Mackenzie (Minico) who is an excellent option-type player and he can throw the ball pretty well and we have Cranney," he says.

"We have got some talent here and there, he said, indicating the wide receiving corps was one of the "heres."

He cited Petersen and Jay Christensen, both Burley; Craig Widmiller of Minico; Rod Heaton of

Oakley's Steve Buckley, right, is counted on to put pressure on the west passers in tonight's all-star game

Raft River and his own Woodhouse in that group.

"They are excellent receivers if we can get the ball to them but a lot of things happen up front that keep you from doing that," the coach said.

The East has a strong tight and candidate in DeLo's Dan Bristol, 6-4, 180.

He acknowledged that Kelsey is "probably our top running back right now but T.J. Kincaid (Valley) and Troy Jackman (Kimberly) are right behind."

Concerning Jund's assessment that the east will have the size advantage, Tompkins said "some of these kids are pretty large."

Not the least of these is his own Steve Buckley, a 6-3, 235-pounder who has signed with Western Montana. "I would guess we average something like 210 or 215 across the front and there are some good players," he confirms.

He added he had confidence in his linebacking and that a major concern has to be "keeping fresh people in the defensive secondary because we expect to see the ball in the air a lot."

For that reason he anticipates a real mixture, including, at times, the use of offensive wide receivers to guard the passing lanes.

"We're also counting on a pretty good bunch of line people to keep the pressure on them. Definitely, we'll be working a lot of people in and out of the game to keep it as fresh as we can," Tompkins said.

Boston Garden 'jinx' stands between Lakers and NBA title

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers, refusing to wilt as they have many times in the past in the face of challenges by the Boston Celtics, found that it took to win Friday night.

What it took was outstanding individual performances from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, James Worthy and Earvin "Magic" Johnson to beat the Celtics 120-111 and take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series.

"It was grit; we stayed, we hung, we took their best shot and we came back," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said after Boston got within four points five times in the fourth quarter after Los Angeles led by as many as 18.

"Everything they (the Celtics) shot from the perimeter was going in."

"People say we can't win close games," Johnson said. "We were up by 17, they came back, but then we won it."

Abdul-Jabbar scored 36 points, Worthy a playoff career high 33 points and Johnson added 26 points and 17 assists as the Lakers came within one victory of winning their third NBA title since 1980.

"It was a do-or-die situation, in a sense," Johnson said. "We thought if we were up 3-2, we could have some fun on Sunday and Tuesday."

To win another championship, the Lakers must win one of two games at Boston Garden. But while winning 15 titles in 16 championship series appearances, the Celtics have never lost a clinching game at home.

The Celtics, who have beaten Los Angeles eight straight times in their finals meetings, play host to the Lakers for Game 6 Sunday and Game 7, if necessary, Tuesday night.

In the Celtics' lone finals loss, in 1958, the sixth and decisive game was played in St. Louis.

McHale, 22 from Dennis Johnson and 20 from Larry Bird.

Worthy had nine points during a 20-7 streak in the final 6:49 of the first half that turned a tie game into a 64-51 lead at halftime.

The Lakers extended their margin to 70-52 early in the third period and led 76-59 after Boston Coach K.C. Jones was assessed two straight technicals and was ejected with 8:03 left. That seemed to fire up the Celtics, however, who scored nine straight points after that to trim the deficit to eight. Bird, who scored only two points in the first half, led the comeback.

But Los Angeles surged again as Worthy scored five of his 11 third-quarter points to spark a 13-4 run that rebullt the advantage to 89-72, and the Lakers took a 95-81 lead into the final 12 minutes.

Again the Celtics battled back, connecting on seven of their first 10 shots, arching jumper just as the 24-second clock expired. The streak gave Los Angeles a 35-29 lead with 51 seconds left in the opening period.

McHale scored 13 points in the period to keep Boston close, including the Celtics' last eight as they continually passed to him inside for jump hooks. In the first 14 minutes of the game, the 6-foot-10 center-forward and leading Boston scorer in the series had 16 points and seven rebounds, including three rebound blocks.

Another McHale hook and two free throws by Dennis Johnson tied the game 44-44 with 6:52 left in the second quarter. But Boston scored only seven points, all of them by Parish, in the rest of the period as Los Angeles' 20-7 streak gave the Lakers — a 64-51 halftime advantage.

LA outscored Boston 14-5 on fast breaks in the first half.

Evans, won a 1 1/2-mile maiden race May 29 at Delaware Park. The time was 2:35.9-5 over Delaware Park's one-mile track, where the record for 1 1/2 miles is 2:31.

The slowest of the last five Belmonts on Belmont Park's 1 1/2-mile oval was the 1980 renewal when stretch-running Temperance Hill won in 2:49.4-5 on a muddy-track. Last year, front-running Swale won on a fast track in 2:27.5.

"Mr. Evans wanted to run there (deliberately and I wanted him (Southern Sultan) to be happy ... with a win," trainer Ross Pearce said. "The competition was easy on him."

SMU to fight NCAA recruiting charges

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist plans to appeal the findings and recommendations of an NCAA committee's investigation into the Mustangs' football program, the university's president announced Friday.

President Donald L. Shields issued a statement announcing the appeal, but said the university would have no further comment until the appeals process was completed.

"The NCAA has been intransigent in the recruiting practices of the Mustangs' football program for 26 months, including allegations of illegal inducements for prospects that included cash, cars and employment for relatives," Shields was informed of the committee's findings and recommendations in a letter last week.

"I plan to request that the NCAA Council review certain findings and recommendations of the NCAA Committee on infractions concerning allegations of NCAA violations involving the SMU intercollegiate football program," his statement said Friday.

"The appeal would be heard and decided when the NCAA Council meets Aug. 14-16, and details of the committee's findings would not be announced until the decision."

The Dallas Times Herald earlier this week quoted sources as saying an appeal would be the first step toward a possible lawsuit challenging the NCAA's enforcement procedures.

No favorite stands out in Belmont field

NEW YORK (AP) — Tank's Prospect, the Preakness winner, will try and close out the Triple Crown series with a victory Saturday in the Belmont Stakes, which shapes up as a wide-open race.

"It's a tough race," D. Wayne Lukas, Tank's Prospect's trainer, said Friday. "The speed handicappers are going to have one theory and the come-from-behinders another theory."

"My advice to anybody would be don't bet the race."

The front-runners should be Eternal Prince, Purlo Mountain and Cutlass Really. Chief's Crown should be close up.

Stretch runners are Tank's Prospect, Stephan's Odyssey, Fast Account, El Basco, Creme Fraiche, Important Business and Southern Sultan.

The only three horses who will have run in all three Triple Crown races are Tank's Prospect, who was seventh in the Kentucky Derby, Eternal Prince, who was 12th in the Derby and third in the Preakness; and Chief's Crown, who was third in the Derby and second in the Preakness.

Missing from the Belmont field will be Spend a Buck, the front-running Kentucky Derby winner, who also missed the Preakness. The last Derby winner to miss the other two Triple Crown races was Tomy Lee in 1959.

The big impeder, of course, is a horse's ability to handle the 1 1/2-mile Belmont distance.

If a horse who runs on the near the pace has the endurance needed for 1 1/2 miles, the stretch runners could be facing an impossible task.

"I don't think there's any legitimate mile and a half horse among the 3-year-olds at this point," Lukas said.

But Southern Sultan has run and won at 1 1/2 miles, although not against the kind of quality competitors he will be facing Saturday.

In fact, the Stallions have won their last three games 34-21 over Orlando, 28-10 over San Antonio and 17-12 over Jacksonville. But with 282 points this year, Ballimore has been outscored by all teams except for the last-place Bengeads.

Like the Stallions, Oakland has clinched a playoff berth and can wield havoc on Arizona's hopes. The Invaders, at 11-3-1, have won seven in a row and own the league's best record. The Outlaws are 6-9.

Arizona is mathematically alive — but must win its final three games and still need help elsewhere.

Oakland Coach Charlie Sumner said he's concerned about a letdown by his players. "I don't know how we'll respond this week since we've already clinched a playoff spot," he said. "We've been kind of loose in practice."

But at least one of the invaders has some reassuring words for Sumner.

"No way we're looking past Arizona," Anthony Carter said. "Our next goal is the division title. We're going out to play the best game possible and hopefully get it out of the way. We want to win the next three games and take it from there when the playoffs start."

Portland, 4-11, is fifth in the USFL Western Conference.

U.S. tennis drought in French Open continues

PARIS (AP) — Defending champion Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and Sweden's Mats Wilander, the 1982 winner, breezed into the men's final at the French Open tennis championships Friday, squashing American hopes of capturing the clay court Grand Slam title for yet another year.

Lendl, the No. 2 seed, crushed 33-year-old Jimmy Connors 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 and Wilander, who was seeded fourth, upset top seed John McEnroe 6-4,

The Baltimore Stars, who lost the Philadelphia Stars played in the first two United States Football League championship games and won last year's, are in desperate need of a victory if they want to make it three in a row.

The good news is they've won three in a row to improve their record to 6-1, fourth in the Eastern Conference.

The bad news is they have to play Saturday in Birmingham against the Stallions, who have won four in a row and, at 11-4, are first in the East.

In a pair of Saturday night games it's Oakland at Arizona, with the Outlaws also clinging precariously to playoff hopes, and Tampa Bay at Portland, where the Bandits can clinch a postseason berth — this weekend.

—On Sunday it's Houston at Denver and Los Angeles at San Antonio. On Monday night it's Jacksonville at New Jersey.

On Friday night, the Orlando Bengeads visited Memphis.

Earlier this season, the Stallions edged Baltimore by the uncharacteristically low score of 7-3, Birmingham's first victory over the Stars in four regular-season meetings. The Stallions already have clinched one of the 14-team league's eight postseason positions.

"Birmingham may have a spot in the playoffs," Stars Coach Jim Mora said, "but it's still a dogfight for us. We've got to keep playing like our lives depended on it."

With 294 points, the Stallions share the league lead for the most points scored this season. Mora points out that Birmingham has scored 44, 41 and 29 points in their last three games, in each case most of them by halftime. "We have a hard time scoring 20 in a game," Mora said.

In fact, the Stars have won their last three games 34-21 over Orlando, 28-10 over San Antonio and 17-12 over Jacksonville. But with 282 points this year, Baltimore has been outscored by all teams except for the last-place Bengeads.

Brewers trip Yanks in extra innings

By The Associated Press

Charlie Moore's infield single with one out in the 10th inning scored Jim Gantner from third base and the Milwaukee Brewers to a 10-9 victory over the New York Yankees Friday night.

Gantner led off the 10th by drawing a walk from Dave Righetti, 33. Gantner followed with a bunt sacrifice bunt that first baseman Don Mattingly fielded but then late to second base, leaving both runners safe.

Paul Molitor then sacrificed, putting runners at second and third. Molitor followed with a bunt grounder that third baseman Andre Robertson dove to backhand. But Gantner beat Robertson's one-hop throw to the plate to score the winning run.

Jays 9, Tigers 2

Len Matuszewski's two-run double capped a four-run uprising in the third inning and George Bell and Ernie Whitworth homered during a four-run fifth as the Toronto Blue Jays trounced the Detroit Tigers 9-2.

Cards outlast Mets in 13 innings

By The Associated Press

Tom Nieto singled home Terry Pendleton with the go-ahead run, and Tom Nieto and Jack Clark drove in two runs each as the St. Louis Cardinals scored six runs in the 13th inning to beat the New York Mets 7-2.

Pendleton, the leadoff batter in the 13th, reached first safely when Mets shortstop Rafael Santana misplayed his ground ball. Pendleton took second on a ground ball and scored when Nieto blooped a single into right field, giving the Reds a 2-1 lead. Nieto went to second on the throw to home and scored on a single by winning reliever Bill Campbell.

The defending World Series champion Tigers have lost seven of their last 10, including the first two meetings in this four-game series.

Seattle 6, Indians 4

Bill Swift, making his major-league debut, blanked Cleveland with five innings of one-hit relief and Bob Keamey hit a three-run homer to give the Seattle Mariners a 6-4 victory over the Indians.

Padres 9-3, Reds 3-2

Tony Gwynn's 11th-inning home run sent the San Diego Padres to a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds and a doubleheader sweep.

Astros 4, Giants 1

Houston's Mike Scott scattered seven hits in 7 1/3 innings and drove in the game-winning run with a third-inning single to lead the Astros to a 4-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Expos 3, Phils 1

Tim Lincecum utilized his speed to score all three runs, and David Palmer allowed only three hits over six innings as the Montreal Expos beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1.

Twins 6, White Sox 3

Gary Gaetti homered, Mickey Hatcher drove in two runs and Pete Filson became the first Minnesota starter to hold an opponent under four runs since May 20 as the Twins beat the Chicago White Sox 6-3.

Before the victory, Minnesota had lost 12 of its last 13 games and scored only 39 runs in that span. Meanwhile, Twins pitchers yielded 87 runs during the slump.

Boston 8, Orioles 4

Dwight Evans drove in four runs and Al Nipper allowed six hits over eight innings as the Boston Red Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles 8-4.

Seattle 6, Indians 4

A three-run homer by Eddie Murray and a solo shot by Wayne Gross gave Baltimore a 4-2 lead after two innings, but the Red Sox scored four in the third to chase Mike Boddicker.

Boiseans to run at ThunderBluff

HOLLISTER - A group of 14 to 18 open-wheel sprint cars from Boise will highlight tonight's racing at ThunderBluff Raceway, located immediately south of Nat-Soo-Pah. The super sites have the capability of bettering 100 miles per hour.

The raceway also will offer competition in the regular hobby stock and pro stock divisions. Gates at the raceway open at 5 p.m. with racing to begin at 7 p.m.

Running game carries Showboats to victory

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - Running back Anthony Parker ran for 99 yards and two touchdowns Friday night as the Memphis Showboats walloped the Orlando Renegades 41-17 in a United States Football League game.

Friday's win averaged a 28-17 loss to the Renegades earlier this season. Rodgers announced early this week that he would use both his quarterbacks in an effort to shake the club out of a two-game losing streak. The Renegades struck first and took a 17-14 halftime edge.

no pay, no play

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) - If at least one of the two psychics they're owed aren't in by 5 p.m. Saturday, San Antonio Gunslingers players will walk off the job, the U.S. Football League Players Association director said Friday.

Association director

Association director Doug Allen told The San Antonio Light that team captain Clinton Manges has until 5 p.m. CDT to produce $225,000 to cover the May 14 checks. "Our intent is not to get them out of San Antonio, but to get them paid," Allen said. "The situation has just become intolerable."

Undhjem paces pro-ladies field

TWIN FALLS — Virginia Undhjem, who will be representing Idaho in the U.S. Women's Public Link tournament in New Jersey this summer, fired a three-over par 75 to win the Twin Falls pro-ladies golf tournament Friday.

Undhjem won the 9-20 handicap division by one stroke over Julie Hamblin of Boise and two over Bev Mullins, Boise. Anita Franzia, Elko, was fourth at 80.

In the net division, Genice Stoffel, Idaho Falls, led a 77, followed by John Yates, Nampa, 80, and JoAnne Sanderson, Twin Falls, and Lenora Kasworm, Rupert, 70.

Cheri Webster paced the upper handicap division with an 85 with George Hersh second at 86, Lois Hansen, Twin Falls, 88; and Jan Hatch, Twin Falls, 93. Julie Blandford, Twin Falls, topped the net division with 84, one ahead of Sandy Tarter, Twin Falls, while Julie Stevenson and — Erma — Goch, Jerome, shared third at 70.

A Twin Falls team composed of Pro Jon Stein and amateurs Jackie Gasser, Jan Hatch, Tarter and Webster won the best ball division at 108. Jackpot-Pro Mike Cerietto and Undhjem, Amelia Broden, Chise Davis and Beth Cerillo were second at 113 with another women team, Pro Mike Hamblin and amateur Sanderson, Phyllis Taylor, Carol Kasel and Bradford at 113. In fourth at 117 was Pro Dee Kressly and amateur Sally Harris, Rich Cray, Gladys Andres and Geatria Heron.

Kressly, Caldwell, claimed the pro sweep division with a three-under par 65 with Bill Downs, Jackpot, and Rich Stannwood, Kimberland, sharing second at 67. Mike Hamblin was fourth at 69.

Pro senior money was divided between Al Jones, Wells, and Lenny Stroup, Boise, at 71.

Burns' 66 earns Westchester lead

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — George Burns, again setting maximum mileage from his putting, scored a second consecutive 66 and took sole control of the lead Friday in the second round of the $500,000 Manufacturers — Hanover — Westchester Classic.

"I worked for it today," said Burns, a frustrated non-winner for five seasons.

"I feel real good about my game. I'm keeping it in play and making a lot of par-saving putts, and that's what you have to do out here," Burns said after reaching the tournament high with a 132 total, 10 shots under par for two trips over the Westchester Country Club course.

"The putter has been real good to me for the last couple of days. I just hope it continues for the weekend," said Burns, who hotted one 60-foot effort for a birdie, saved par with 8-10 foot second putts on three holes and used 28 strokes on the greens. He has required only 33 putts for two days' play on the light, hilly layout in suburban New York.

Ruber Matlib, buoyed by a career-best performance, shot an 8-under-par 63 and came on to take second at -133, 9-under-par and a single shot back.

"I think that's the first time I ever had a 29 in four competition," said Matlib, who compiled that 6-under-par figure on the back nine.

Matlib once was ranked among the game's most promising performers and won three times in his first two years on the PGA Tour. But he's been a struggling non-winner for the last eight years.

"Sure, I'm disappointed not to have won in so long. But I've been playing better and better golf as the years go along. Maybe my day will come soon," he said.

Rookie left-hander Ernie Gonzalez, who shared the first round lead with Burns, blew to a 78 and dropped well back in the pack at 144.

Miller opens lead in LPGA meet

MALVERN, Pa. (AP) — Alice Miller, who she didn't have a very good day — hitting the ball — managed a 4-under-par 68 Friday for a two-round total of 136 and a two-stroke lead in the $400,000 LPGA McDonald's Championship.

"I was just not hitting my drives or irons solid," said Miller, the leading money winner on the women's golf tour with $217,125. "But I scrambled well and putted well."

Miller's 136, eight under par and a record for the 5-year-old tournament, gave her the lead over Beth Daniel, who shot a 70 on Friday for a 36-hole total of 136.

Kathy Baker carded a second-round 66 over the 6,283-yard, par-72 White Manor Country Club course for a total of 139 halfway through the 72-hole tournament, which has a $60,000 first prize.

Myra Blackwelder, who on Thursday was second with a 67, slipped to 73 Friday to tie veteran Amy Alcott at 140.

Betsy King was tied with Anne-Marie Paill, Judy Clark, Jeannette Kohlmas and first-round leader Ayako Okamoto at 141. Okamoto, who had a 66 on Thursday, soared to 75 on Friday.

Defending champion Pally Sheehan, a double winner this year and fourth on the money-winning list, led a group of eight at 142 that included Nancy Lopez, who won two of her last three tournaments.

Miller had seven birdies and three bogeys. She birdied the third hole with a 15-foot putt and the seventh with a 30-foot shot from the fringe. She had a bogey at No. 5 because of bunker problems and an eight-foot putt that she missed.

On the back nine, Miller bogeyed the 10th hole when she hit trees and chipped short. But she regained the stroke at 11 with a sand wedge that left a 11-2 foot putt.

Basketball coach quits Dixie

ST. GEORGE, Utah (AP) — After moving for 1 1/2 years," Roberts said. "I am very sad to leave the college. Junior College Athletic Association. It's been great and enjoyable here. I think the school has been better for Coach Neil Roberts has resigned and I than I have been for the school." Roberts will open a sporting goods store here.

Roberts, who coached eight years at Dixie, submitted his resignation Thursday to Dixie President Alton Wade.

"My assistant coach here (Tom Dobrusky), who will be my partner, Weber State College coaching position. I have been considering this tion.

Roberts was turned down two years ago for the coaching job at Phoenix Young University, but since then, and recently was turned down for the position.

Seattle won't lose team to bankruptcy

SEATTLE (AP) — If the financially ailing Seattle Mariners declare bankruptcy in an effort to try to exit the city, they face a grim legal battle, King County Executive Randy Revelle warned Friday.

"If we're forced by the Mariners into fighting for this community's rights to a baseball team, we will do it," Revelle said. "We don't think George Argros can move the franchise but, of course, I can't guarantee that."

Argros, owner of the Mariners, and the county are deadlocked in a bitter Kingdom lease battle.

The Mariners are asking for major rent, parking and concession improvements in their lease. The county made a counter proposal this week that the Mariners have rejected.

Argros, of Newport Beach, Calif., has indicated that he may move his franchise to another city if the county doesn't give him all he's after in his lease proposal.

Argros, in a meeting Friday with editors of The Seattle Times, said the Mariners must have its Kingdom lease renegotiated within 30 days. Asked what would happen if no agreement is reached by then, he replied, "No comment."

Argros said the club has at least two routes out of town: by Chapter 11 bankruptcy or by winning a court judgment in the club's breach-of-contract suit against the county.

"George will not be able to declare bankruptcy easily," declared Revelle. "Most people who try to get bankruptcy are not successful in doing so. We have the best attorney in the state working for us in Bill Dwyer (of Seattle). He's the same attorney who beat the American League the last time and we will use him again."

"We will do everything we can to prevent George from being able to declare bankruptcy or to take the team out of the community," Revelle emphasized, however, that he hopes the Mariners and the county can hammer out some kind of an agreement.

"The kind of a legal battle that we're talking about would be really unfortunate for everyone," he said. "We want to negotiate, we want to play baseball and we want to support the team financially. We don't want to litigate."

Spinks pointing for Holmes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Having disposed of his toughest opponents he is ready to add weight and take on undefeated heavyweight Larry Holmes — if the price is right.

Spinks knocked down Diamond Jim McDonald three times Thursday night in a five-round fight. He stopped the light heavyweight championship fight at 1:30 of the eighth round. Spinks, now 27-0, said he's run out of credible opponents and will have to move up to the heavyweight rank.

But in a post-fight news conference Spinks questioned whether Holmes was serious about a proposed fight in August.

Spinks was told that Holmes, the international Boxing Federation heavyweight champ, had offered him $700,000 for the August bout.

"That just told you Larry don't want to fight," Spinks said of the offer, which is less than the $1 million he was offered to fight Holmes last month.

Spinks may have little choice but to meet Holmes, having run out of marketable opponents in the light heavyweight division.

The champion received $150,000 for his latest defense, the Jolt in his career, and made it known after the bout that he had to move up from the 175-pound division.

"I'm not No. 1, I'm number zero because there is nobody that can keep up with me in the light heavyweight division and never has been," Spinks said.

"That leaves only a fight against Holmes, who has made known his desire to end his career with a fight against a lighter opponent."

"I want to put on a little weight, then go on to Holmes," said Spinks, who said he could "nuture" up to a heavier weight.

"Spinks called MacDonaid — his "toughest fight in five years" and praised the ex-Marine for staying in the bout.

"I knew he had a lot of pressure on him fighting a champion," Spinks said. "He didn't quit and I was disappointed. I wanted him to quit. I thought 'What does it take to put this guy down?'"

Age to be Pedroza's enemy

LONDON (AP) — Eusebio Pedroza of Panama, unbeaten since 1978 but whose once-famed punching power appears to have diminished, defends his World Boxing Association light-weight championship Saturday night against hard-hitting Irishman Barry McGuigan.

Pedroza, a refrigerator mechanic from the back streets of Panama City and a junior senator in Panama's Revolutionary Democratic party, has defended his title 19 times and has won 40 of 43 fights, but his last six defenses have gone the 15-round distance.

McGuigan, from strife-torn Belfast, has a 24-1 record with 23 knockouts, but he reversed his only loss — on a decision — by knocking out Peter Eubanks in the third round.

Gerald Hayes, the only lighter since 1976 to knock down Pedroza, thinks the champion is ready to be beaten. Hayes, of Newark, N.J., floored the 32-year-old Panamanian last year in the third round of their scheduled 10-round, non-title bout with a right to the chin. Pedroza eventually toppled Hayes in the fifth.

Hayes then "went to work" for McGuigan, 24, sparring with him before he outpointed Juan LaPorte of Puerto Rico in 10 rounds in London this year.

Hayes returned to help McGuigan prepare for Saturday's title challenge at the Loftus Road soccer stadium, home of the Queen's Park Rangers.

In discussing McGuigan's chance against Pedroza, Hayes said, "He has improved in confidence and strength since I last worked with him. He's got the natural ability and strength to beat Pedroza. He's fast and he's more aggressive (than Pedroza). But the champion is a more tactical fighter."

"Pedroza is very good on his feet, a neat counter-puncher. However, I think McGuigan can win," said

Hayes.

"McGuigan never has gone the championship distance of 15 rounds, but fought at a furious pace overcoming the tough LaPorte."

"For the past few months, McGuigan has sparred with two tall Panamanians — not unlike the champion in style and physique — Jose Mavimoles and Ezequiel Mosquera."

"They threw a lot of uppercuts. They keep you thinking 100 percent of the time," McGuigan said.

He respects McGuigan's record, but points to his own long-time domination of the 126-pound division as adequate basis for confidence.

Spring cattle prices continue sluggish

WASHINGTON — Not even federal tax refund checks and the return of outdoor barbecue season have triggered consumer demand enough to boost cattle prices significantly this spring, says the Agriculture Department.

But a new outlook report by the department's Economic Research Service says some price improvement is likely once the current large supply of beef works its way through the consumer pipeline.

meat diversion program, which paid dairy farmers to cut back on production. Many who signed up in the program sent extra cows to market. The 15-month "meat diversion" program ended on March 31.

The slaughter of beef cows, however, was up from year-earlier levels during the first quarter, suggesting further declines in the 1985 cattle inventory are on the way.

Retail beef prices in January-March averaged $23.39 per pound on an all-cut basis, down from $24.31 in the first quarter of last year. Although store prices of beef were relatively stable, wholesale carcass prices declined to about 10 percent below the level in early May from around $101 a year earlier. That was the lowest price since 1979.

Prices of Cholegrade fed steers sold on the Omaha, Neb., market in the second quarter are expected to average in the range of $59 to $62 per 100 pounds, not changed much from the $62.24 average in the first three months of the year.

"Production during the second quarter will likely remain near year-earlier levels," the report said. "Fewer placements of cattle on feed during the first-half—will probably mean declines in production during the second-half, particularly in the fourth quarter. Prices will likely strengthen beginning in late spring and early summer."

In the first four months of this year, dressed carcass weights averaged 644 pounds, up 15 pounds from a year earlier. Thus, although the number of head going to slaughter was down about 3 percent from a year earlier, the heavier weights added up to just about as much carcass beef.

Looking at other developments, the report said:

However, the report said, the mix of cattle was changed significantly from the first quarter of 1984. The slaughter of "fed" steers and heifers was up 3 percent, while commercial cow slaughter was down 10 percent.

* Commercial pork production in the second quarter is expected to be down 2 percent from a year earlier. Hog prices are expected to get a boost from seasonal slaughter declines this spring, returns ranging from $13 to $19 per 100 pounds by late June, compared with a second quarter forecast of $13 to $16 on the average.

Lower beef output in the third quarter could strengthen hog prices to an average range of $12 to $15 per hundredweight before dropping back

Interest rates up, stock prices plummet

NEW YORK — The stock market sustained its biggest loss since the start of its late-spring rally as interest rates jumped in the credit markets Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial, which hit record highs Wednesday and Thursday, dropped back 10.85 to 1,316.42 to finish the week with a net gain of 1.01 points. The decline was the biggest for the average since it tumbled 18.01 points on May 1.

Before the market opened, the government reported that the civilian unemployment rate held steady at 7.3 percent in May.

The Labor Department's figures showed gains in such things as total jobs, nonfarm payrolls and the average factory workload.

Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, fell about $20 for every $1,000 in face value.

Rates on short-term Treasury bills rose as much as 10 basis points, or hundredths of a percentage point.

Trans World Airlines rose 1/4 to 19 1/4 and Resorts International class A shares, traded on the American Stock Exchange, dropped 3/4 to 43 1/4. There were unconfirmed reports that Resorts was preparing an offer to acquire TWA, which is the subject of a hostile takeover bid by financier Carl Icahn.

Computer and technology issues, after a rally on Thursday, came under renewed selling pressure. International Business Machines fell 2 1/2 to 127 1/4, Digital Equipment 2 1/2 to 37 1/2, Burroughs 1 1/2 to 61 1/2, and Hewlett-Packard 1/2 to 39 1/2.

Sperry climbed 4/8 to 55 1/4 on takeover rumors and speculation.

Other losers in the blue-chip sector included Merck, down 2 1/2 to 111; Exxon, down 1 1/4 to 50; and Sears Roebuck, down 1 1/4 to 37 1/2. On Thursday Sears reported a 1 1/2 percent decline in retail sales for May.

Gulf & Western climbed 2 1/2 to 41 and rumors that the company might be planning to sell some or all of its consumer products operations.

The daily tally on the Big Board showed about five issues falling in price for every three that gained ground. The exchange's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped 7.2 to 109.97.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and on the over-the-counter market, totaled 121.03 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial fell 1.74 to 209.39, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was down 1.38 at 189.68.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market lost $2.82 to 291.03. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 228.14 down 1.15.

Exemption under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — A director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said Friday that five of the nation's 10 largest banks have more than half their deposits in foreign branches where they are exempt from insurance premium assessments.

Irvine H. Sprague said it is time for the big multinational banks that rely on federal deposit insurance on their foreign assets to be required to deposit to insure that all banks are treated equally.

In a speech at Boston University, Sprague used Citibank and Bank of America as examples.

He said Bank of America paid $40 million in insurance assessments last year on $89 billion total deposits — $59 billion domestic and $30 billion foreign.

Citibank, meanwhile, paid $18.5 million into the fund on total deposits of $78 billion — $30 billion domestic and $48 billion foreign.

Both, in my opinion, enjoy de facto 100 percent insurance protection but their foreign assets are not insured. I think more than twice as much in insurance assessments," said Sprague.

"Neither paid in proportion to the assessments on smaller banks which rely completely on domestic deposits."
