Causa paid for 26 Idaho legislators' trips

TWIN FALLS — Causa, the activist arm of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church, has sent at least 26 Idaho legislators on all-expense-paid trips to Los Angeles, Salt Lake City and Denver since the Legislature adjourned in March. The Times-News has learned.

The trips apparently represent the first time a sizable group of state legislators from anywhere in the country has attended the church's anti-communism seminars.

On April 15-18 at the Pacific Hotel in Los Angeles, 16 Idaho legislators were among 350 people at Causa's three-day conference on communism awareness.

On May 13-16 at the Salt Lake City Sheraton Hotel, six Idaho legislators attended a similar conference. Two had attended before. On June 3-6, six Idaho legislators stayed at the Clarion Airport Hotel in Denver at the expense of the Unification Church for another of the conferences.

The legislators were invited along with ministers and opinion leaders from Idaho.

"We were their guests all the way," said Sen. Atwell Parry, R-Melba, Wednesday. "Quite a chunk of the money comes from the Unification Church," Parry said. He said the legislators were told that Causa is also funded by large corporations and large churches but he did not know the names of any.

"Paul Victor (a Twin Falls Causa supporter) was the one that was instrumental in getting me to go," Parry said. "I have to admit it (the Unification Church) connection, made me nervous at first," he said.

Victor confirmed he had arranged for the legislators to attend the conference.

Parry said his misgivings were put to rest when he heard the workshops on Causa's perception of the threat of communism.

Parry said he was a co-convenor at the Salt Lake

City conference after he attended the Los Angeles conference.

"Not at any time was there any pressure, any mention of the Unification Church," Parry said.

Causa USA president Phillip Sanchez said in a Thursday phone conversation that at the conventions, Causa shows a documentary film called "Truth Is My Sword" which tells about the Koreagate influence peddling scandal hearings in which Unification Church second-in-command Colonel Bo H. Pak was implicated.

Rep. L. Gene Winchester, R-Kuna, said the legislators were also told in the film of Rev. Moon's life story. Moon is currently serving a federal prison term for federal income tax violations.

Winchester said he was told Causa has a target figure of 40,000 people nationally it wants to attend the conferences this year.

Sanchez said that number would be impossible since the average attendance at the conferences is 350 people.

Rep. Joan Wood, R-Ribby, said Wednesday she

Unification Church active in Idaho political arena

TWIN FALLS — The Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church has cropped up a number of times in Idaho politics since 1983.

Most recently, the Times-News has discovered that a number of Idaho legislators have been flown to communism awareness conferences sponsored by Causa, an activist arm of the Unification Church.

Another Unification Church-sponsored group, the Freedom Leadership Foundation, flew a member of the staff of Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, to Central America for meetings with government officials in Honduras and Guatemala in May of 1984.

And, in August of 1984, the Times-News reported that Unification Church members were selling copies of former Rep. George Hansen's book "To Harass Our People." Hansen's book has a chapter dealing with alleged Internal Revenue Service harassment.

Pool vote recount ordered

By ANNETTE GARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fifth District Judge Daniel Hurbutt has ordered a recount of votes cast in the April 23 bond election to raise money for a Twin Falls city swimming pool.

The first count came up eight votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to pass the $700,000 bond.

The recount is set for Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the city police station, says City Attorney Shane Bengoechea.

The same precinct workers who counted the ballots April 23 will be asked to conduct the recount, Bengoechea said.

Hurbutt is requiring that the recount be completed before June 31. Lance Olson, the co-chairman of the Twin Falls Citizens Pool Committee, will be responsible for the first $200 of the recount's cost, Hurbutt has ordered. If it costs more, the city will pay the rest of the costs.

Hurbutt's decision allowed an informal hearing in the judge's office Wednesday, Bengoechea said.

Both sides had already agreed in a stipulation entered in the case that there were irregularities in the election and a recount should be held. They had also agreed to the payment plan that Hurbutt ordered.

Precinct 6 took a half hour longer than any other precinct to count votes, the stipulation says. Also, several residents who were qualified to vote were turned away from the polls, it said.

The City Council agreed after the April 23 vote, that a recount should be made. However, officials at the state attorney general's office said a recount should follow a court action.

The vote was the city's third effort to pass a bond for a new city swimming pool, after the old one at Harmon Park crumbled beyond repair. The April 23 vote was for a $1.2-million outdoor pool at Harmon Park.

City officials and above alongside field work of Twin Falls, Idaho, Idaho, made sure the year grain loan and they share of water on a recent warm and shiny day as the burrows irrigation flow to a pea irrigator and tractor driver for Colter Farms. Held under his watch received their proper attention.

$9 million more may go toward 'hopper spraying

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Actions by Idaho's congressional delegation may make an additional $9 million available for grasshopper spraying in the state, the offices of Sens. Steve Symms and Jim McClure announced Thursday.

Wednesday, the House passed a supplemental appropriations bill which allows an additional $10 million for grasshopper spraying.

Originally, $10 million had been appropriated by the Department of Agriculture for grasshopper spraying in the Western states.

The Animal Plant and Health Inspection Service predicted Thursday that all of its $10 million spraying budget will have been spent in Idaho and Utah by the time spraying finishes on Friday.

Originally the department had predicted that only $2 million would be required for spraying in the state.

The Senate action pushed by Symms and McClure could add an additional $9 million to the spraying program by re-directing money already appropriated to the Department of Agriculture.

Originally, the Senate had agreed to appropriate $10 million to the Agriculture Department if the Secretary would make $10 million of that available for grasshopper spray-

Symms and McClure are now trying to get Secretary of Agriculture John Block to commit the remaining $9 million of the original appropriation to the grasshopper spraying program.

Thursday it looked "very promising" that the Secretary would make the additional $9 million available for grasshopper spraying in Idaho, according to Trent Clark, a staff assistant for Symms' office in Washington.

Similar action has been going on in the House, according to Kelly Olson, a staff aide with Rep. Richard Stallings' office.

In addition to the $10 million approved in the House's supplemental appropriations bill, Olson said Stallings and other house members have been pressuring the Department of Agriculture to transfer funds from the Commodities Credit Corporation to the spraying program.

The corporation, which buys surplus crops through default, has funds available for pest eradication.

The catch, Olson explained, is that funds from the Commodities Credit Corporation are traditionally used only on pests which can be eradicated.

While the spraying program cannot eliminate the grasshoppers, Olson said Stallings believes that when the present emergency merits changing the guidelines.

Father of teen rapist nabbed, charged with 2 child sex offenses

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The father of a 15-year-old boy who was sentenced Monday on a rape charge was arrested by Twin Falls police Thursday on two sex charges.

Robert Allen Morris Sr., 45, 345 4th Ave. W., Apt. 2, in Twin Falls, was charged with lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor and with a crime against nature. Both alleged offenses involve an 11-year-old boy, police reports show.

A complaint filed with police said the alleged acts occurred in January and had occurred previously over the past eight years.

The victim told police Morris forced him to engage in oral sex and other acts on numerous occasions, including the most recent — last January — when Morris came to his home while his family was away.

The suspect's 15-year-old son, was given a life sentence six months ago, after he pleaded guilty to the charge involving the rape of a 16-year-old girl in a cave in Rock Creek Canyon.

The judge retained jurisdiction for a six-month period, and on Monday the younger Morris, who was treated as an adult in the case, returned to court and was given a 10-year probation.

Part of the probation period will be spent at the Youth Service Center in St. Anthony, in custody of the Department of Health and Welfare.

The youth's father will be arraigned on the two felony counts today. Investigating officers said because of the Idaho law that requires a rape victim to be a female, the older Morris cannot be charged with rape.

A number of other states have updated the rape statutes to include male victims, police noted, while Idaho still requires a female victim other than the wife of the suspect in order to constitute a rape charge.

Noh predicts more education funding

By MARILYN HAUKE ESSEX
For The Associated Press

BOISE — A state senator is predicting that the Republican-controlled Idaho Legislature will be more generous in funding education during the 1986 session.

But Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, told the Idaho Association of School Administrators Thursday that education reform will be one of the major issues facing Idaho lawmakers as Republicans try to elect a GOP governor. Lt. Gov. David Leroy, a Republican, and former Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus are considered likely candidates in the 1986 Idaho gubernatorial race.

"That race 'puts pressure on the majority party to perform,'" said Noh, who co-chairs an interim legislative committee studying home education.

The home-school recommendation likely will be structured so that requirements aren't prohibitive to parents who sincerely want to educate their children at home, Noh said.

State education support at a high, says analyst

BOISE (AP) — A legislative financial analyst says state support for Idaho education is nearly at an all-time high, even though higher education is receiving a smaller share of state funds.

Mark Falconer told a legislative study committee on Thursday that in the new state budget starting July 1, education will take 74.6 percent of all general state revenue.

Noh said he wishes lawmakers could have done better during the last session, when legislators passed a $304 million public education bill. State Superintendent Jerry Evans had requested more than $330 million.

The appropriation was not enough to fund a teacher career ladder program or salary increases.

Noh said the Legislature's failure to appropriate more money to education reform was partly due to freshman legislators who proceeded cautiously during their first session.

Although Noh is predicting more education dollars in the next session, he couldn't offer a specific amount. "How much? That's the question," he said.

Noh also told school administrators that "the office corps" should be subject to the "same scrutiny as the foot soldiers."

Idahoans should be sure they're promoting the "best and the brightest" to positions of responsibility, he said.

Noh said he has had problems getting background information on school superintendents.

A random check of what degrees are held by school officials showed, 40 percent with diplomas in physical education, he said. Noh said that's a situation that's "maybe good, maybe bad," but nevertheless needs to be examined.

Noh also called for a partnership rather than "dictatorship" between school administrators and teachers. "There's reasons why we get unions and there's reasons why unions become militant."

On the home education issue, Noh said the state shouldn't place such strict restrictions that the program becomes impossible.

Rules that apply to other Idaho students, such as the C average requirement and 90 percent attendance rule, likely wouldn't apply to home-school pupils, he said.

too had misgivings about accepting airfare, board and room from Causa, but changed her mind after the conference.

"I have come away with a great deal of respect and I'm not willing to accept these charges of wrongdoing by the Unification Church without any proof," she said she was "quite sure the Unification Church would get more positive treatment after this."

Wood said at least one-third of the group she went to the convention with were ministers of various denominations.

Rep. J.F. Chabband, R-Idaho Falls, said Eastern Idaho lawmakers drove to the conference in Salt Lake City at their own expense. Rep. Mack Neibaur, R-Pau, says he drove to Denver at his own expense.

Rep. Ray Infanger, R-Salmon, says he stayed at the Pacifica in Los Angeles for a day and a half, but that Causa did not pay his airfare because he was already in California to visit family.

Chabband said he had been told by Causa staff that the conferences usually are directed toward ministers and that Idaho was the first state to send such a large delegation of legislators.

"It's a prong system. Usually, they've gotten more ministers involved. Paul vector got the legislators more in Idaho," Chabband said. "I think that's the first time they got the legislators involved."

Sanchez confirmed Thursday that the Idaho group had an unusual number of legislators in it. He said he "delighted" so many had attended.

Chabband said the second phase of the Causa campaign would be to hold local in-state operations to talk to students at colleges.

Chabband said he sat at the head table at the Salt Lake City conference with Colonel Bo Hi Pak.

Others have said even more Idaho legislators attended, but The Times-News was not able to confirm their trips. Sen. Veari Crystal, R-Lewisville, said there were 29 Idaho legislators at the Los Angeles conference out of 50 Idahoans. Many of the rest were ministers, he said.

Rep. Dolores Crow, R-Nampa, said she is still undecided about the convention. "We all went on a look-see basis. I still feel a little antsy about having the Unification Church involved."

Rep. Boyd Hill, R-Meridian, said he didn't know about the Unification Church connection when he went to the Los Angeles meeting.

"I went out of curiosity, in the first place, I was not sure where the funding was coming from for it. The only reason I went was because it was paid for."

Hill said he would not have gone if he had had to pay his way. Sanchez said legislators from other Western states have also been in attendance at various meetings, but not as many as from Idaho.

Sen. Larry Anderson, R-Twin Falls, said he made a presentation about his travels in Russia at the Denver conference. Anderson said the conference gave a very good explanation of communist philosophy.

Rep. Robert Forrey, R-Nampa, gave a presentation about the National Education Association at the Salt Lake City conference.

Infanger, R-Salmon, said the convention was conducted "along the same lines as the John Birch meetings." Infanger said Causa is just another lobbying group.

5th victim found at grisly site

WEST POINT, Calif. (AP) — Authorities Thursday found remains on a fifth victim and more charred human bones at a cabin used by a dead survivalist who has been linked to 25 missing people.

Meanwhile, authorities searched for clues in a logging community hundreds of miles away, where the survivalist lived in 1983, and the FBI launched an international manhunt for his companion.

Remains of a fifth victim were uncovered at Leonard Lake's house, where police earlier found the remains of four bodies, sexual torture videotapes and truckloads of other evidence, said Calaveras County coroner Terry Parker.

Home after double hijacking

ATLANTA (AP) — A professor and his son who were aboard two hijacked airplanes in the Middle East in one day returned to the United States Thursday, with the father saying he was looking forward to taking a shower.

Landrey Slade and his 18-year-old son, William, were aboard a Jordanian airliner when it was commandeered Thursday in Beirut by Lebanese gunmen. Shortly after being freed Wednesday, they boarded a Lebanese plane to Cyprus that was seized by a lone hijacker.

Officials link cheese to deaths

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Health officials Thursday linked two varieties of one manufacturer's cheese to more than 30 illnesses that resulted in 21 deaths stillbirths since April. A statewide recall was ordered and the cheese factory closed voluntarily.

Bacterial contamination was found in samples of colija and queso fresco cheese manufactured by Jalisco Mexican Products Inc., officials said.

Deaths from the bacteria began in April, mostly among Hispanic women, their stillborn babies and children, said Dr. Shirley Fannin, associate deputy director of Los Angeles County's health programs.

Sentenced, man kills himself

DALLAS (AP) — A man pleaded guilty Thursday to molesting his 12-year-old daughter, was sentenced to seven years in prison, then walked into a woman's restroom in the courthouse and shot himself to death, authorities said.

Jerome Roady, 39, died during surgery for a bullet wound to the chest inflicted with a .38-caliber pistol, said Claude McCain, a Parkland Hospital administrator.

After being sentenced, Roady spoke briefly to his wife, who had testified and asked for leniency for her husband.

 ment of the Unification Church and Sen. Larry Anderson, R-Twin Falls, is named as a researcher and writer of the book on the dedication page.

Causa president Phillip Sanchez said Thursday in a telephone interview that the group is non-political and non-sectarian. "We are not political people...we are, in fact, prohibited by charter from being political," he said.

He said Causa conferences are aimed at promoting a God-centered response to communism in the world. "It is communism awareness number one, but using or capitalizing upon the fact and the statistically-proven fact, that there is one thing that unifies Americans: It's a belief in God."

"Originally, the concept of fighting communism through educational programs - of community leaders came from the Rev. Sun Myung Moon of the Unification Church," Sanchez said.

"It is initially an expensive proposition. I feel the pay-off, though, is good in that you could have conferences out the ear every day and never cover half a drop in the bucket in terms of the U.S. population," Sanchez said. He said he did not know how much Causa spent on the seminars for ministers and legislators in Los Angeles, Salt Lake City, and Denver.

"If you have conferences with communicators (legislators and ministers), hopefully they can communicate with their communities, homes, families, churches, whatever," Sanchez said. "The stress is not on legislators, by the way, it very certainly is on ministers," he said.

"The original funding was almost exclusively from the church. It still, I must point out, is still primarily from funds from business interests tied to that church, a lot of it from Japan and the United States, Korea, and so forth," Sanchez says. Sanchez did not name any of the corporations.

In response to a question, Falconer said if all state spending at the post-secondary level is counted, higher education institutions receive 22 percent of all state funding.

Gandhi politely signals displeasure with U.S. acts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, addressing a joint meeting of Congress, politely signaled his disagreement Thursday with U.S. policies on defense, Pakistan and foreign aid while also disputing the American view of the Afghanistan conflict.

In a veiled rebuke of President Reagan's proposed missile defense program, known informally as "Star Wars," Gandhi said he has "deep reservations about the militarization of outer space."

And in an apparent reference to the U.S. sale of F-16jet fighters and other weapons to Pakistan, Gandhi said India is "directly affected" by the flow of "increasingly sophisticated arms into our neighborhood."

Without compromising India's position on these and other issues that have been irritants in Indo-American relations, Gandhi appeared to please his audience with his absence of polemics, low-key delivery and occasional humor. At the conclusion of his remarks, he received a 90-second standing ovation.

The large turnout of senators and House members for the address suggested a high degree of congressional curiosity about the 40-year-old leader of the world's largest democracy. "His presence and absence often has marked previous congressional addresses by foreign heads of government."

Early in his 20-minute address, Gandhi drew laughter when he said that "it was Indian tea that stimulated your independence movement."

On substantive issues, his criticism of the United States was mid and indirect. The United States and India are far apart on the issue of Soviet-occupied Afghanistan, and Gandhi indicated there has been no narrowing of differences with the administration on that issue during his visit.

But his remarks were phrased in such a way that his audience interrupted them with applause.

"We stand for a political settlement in Afghanistan that ensures sovereignty, integrity, independence and non-aligned status, and enables the refugees to return to their homes in safety and honor,"

he said, largely reflecting the U.S. position on that issue.

But, consistent with his previous position, he declined to mention the Soviet Union by name, thus implicitly dissociating himself from the U.S. view that the root problem in Afghanistan is the presence of more than 100,000 Soviet troops there.

"Outside interference and intervention have put in jeopardy the stability, security and programs of the region," he said. "We are opposed to both foreign presences and pressures. The one is advanced as a justification of the other."

Reagan: Bright future ahead if public helps dump tax code

BLOOMFIELD, N.J. (AP) — President Reagan sought more support for his tax-overhaul proposals Thursday, promising a bright economic future if the public will help him dump the current federal tax code on "the ash heap of history."

In an upbeat 18-minute address to a crowd of about 10,000, he specifically defended his call to end the deduction for state and local taxes and generally applauded his plan as "a good deal for the American people."

"I'm not optimistic about the future of America because I have a sunny disposition; I'm not optimistic because I do not know the budget deficit; I'm optimistic because I have witnessed the American experience for more than seven decades and I know that the American people can do anything," Reagan said.

"In the past five years," Reagan continued, "the American people — not the politicians, not the elites, not the heavy-browed intellectuals, but the American people — single-handedly turned our country around. And all we in Washington did was try to get the government out of your way."

He repeated his warning to Congress that "I have a veto pen ready" for anyone who tries to turn tax reform into a tax increase, as some have suggested to help trim the budget deficit.

Reagan's proposals call for reducing individual and business tax rates, raising the personal exemption and standard deductions and paying for those changes by killing or cutting various deductions and credits and increasing the corporate tax burden somewhat.

New Jersey was the eighth state Reagan has visited in less than three weeks on behalf of his tax proposals.

This time, following a meeting Wednesday with conservative GOP legislators, he added a prospectus to his call for people to write their senators and representatives and demand tax reform.

He urged that Congress also be reminded to "go forward with that budget we've proposed" to cut government spending.

Senate votes to keep funds for sewers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Thursday unanimously approved Clean Water Act amendments that would continue federal aid to states for sewers and waste water treatment plants at three times the level sought by the Reagan administration.

The action came after big-state lawmakers dropped a threat to tie up the legislation with a filibuster over a revised allocation formula that would have cost their 19 states nearly $230 million a year in federal grants.

A last-minute compromise resulted in their reluctantly agreeing to a new formula that instead would shift about $225 million from 19 states.

Quinlans get messages worldwide

LANDING, N.J. (AP) — The family of Karen Ann Quinlan attended a private wake Thursday as con- arived for the young woman who came to symbolize the right to die with dignity.

Monsignor Thomas Trappso, the priest who counseled Joseph and his daughter was comatose, said he will tell mourners at her funeral Friday that "maybe faith does not provide answers, but (it) gives us hope there is an answer."

Miss Quinlan died in her mother's arms at 7:01 p.m. Tuesday in the Morris View Nursing Home of respiratory failure and acute pneumonia.

She fell into a coma in April 1975, apparently after mixing alcohol and a mild tranquilizer at a party. Her parents, told by doctors Miss Quinlan would never recover, won court permission in a landmark case to disconnect her respirator. Miss Quinlan surprised doctors by continuing to breathe on her own.

A viewing for the family and close friends was held Thursday at Leber Lakeside Funeral Home in this northern New Jersey suburb. Mrs. Quinlan, wearing a black suit and gray blouse, and her husband, in a black suit, attended with their son and daughter, the family attorney and two priests.

"There has been a great outpouring throughout the country of individual sympathy and condolences," said the family attorney, Paul Armstrong.

Messages have poured in from as far away as Saudi Arabia and Australia, he said.

Heat wave ends; cold records set

By The Associated Press

Less than a week after record high temperatures "baked" the Plains, temperatures dropped to record lows Thursday as far south as Alabama and Mississippi, and the wind chill factor atop a North Carolina mountain whistled down to zero.

Golfers dug out ski hats and gloves and Ohioans burned more natural gas as the National Weather Service reported record lows for the date were broken or tied in 32 cities from Ohio to Oklahoma and from Michigan south to Alabama. Temperatures were as much as 15 degrees below normal for this time of year.

Ortega calls for crush of Contra rebels

PRESIDENT ORTEGA
Predicts U.S. Invasion

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega, responding to a U.S. congressional vote to renege aid to anti-Sandinista rebels, Thursday called on Nicaraguans to crush the Contras and defeat an American invasion he said would follow.

Ortega said in a nationwide television and radio broadcast that Nicaragua would bolster its defense. "In light of the deepening of the war and aggression and the possibility of a direct intervention of our country,"

He urged Nicaraguans to "redouble the efforts to crush the mercenaries (the Contra rebels) in order to reject, resist and defeat an eventual direct intervention of North American troops."

The vote also drew attacks by the official media. Barricaded, the Sandinista newspaper, said the House of Representatives "voted for death."

The government radio called it "an endorsement so Reagan can continue attacking Nicaragua."

A telephone caller to the station, the Voice of Nicaragua, urged public employees to "keep weapons in their offices to repel aggression."

House members approved $27 million in non-lethal aid to the rebels, known as Contras, in a 248-184 vote Wednesday. It was a major victory for President Reagan, who calls the Nicaraguan rebels freedom fighters.

The Senate endorsed a $38 million aid package last week.

Nicaraguan guerrilla leaders Thursday praised the vote.

Roger Herrmann, political coordinator of the Indian rebel force Misura, called it "fantastic."

"Our soldiers need hammocks, clothes, rain ponchos and medicine. It's very hard for us to get these things," he said from his base in Honduras.

Misura seizes weapons from ambushed Nicaraguan soldiers, but "we capture very little medicine," Herrmann said. Misura claims 5,000 fighters operating on Nicaragua's Atlantic coast.

In Costa Rica, Jose Davila Membreno of the Revolutionary Democratic Alliance, said he hoped the aid would enable the rebels to help civilians displaced from their homes by the fighting.

A spokesman for the Honduras-based Nicaraguan Democratic Force said Wednesday that U.S. aid should allow that rebel group to make a major move against the Sandinistas in about three months.

Leaders of the Democratic Force and of the Costa Rica-based Revolutionary Democratic Alliance said Wednesday in El Salvador that they were joining forces. They made the announcement before the House vote.

The minister for the presidency of Nicaragua, Manuel Espinoza, told The Associated Press the government was planning an in-depth official reaction because of "the gravity of the situation."

Arson ruins Rubens painting

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — A painting by Peter Paul Rubens, estimated to be worth about $2 million, was destroyed Thursday by an arsonist in Zurich's Kunsthause museum.

Zurich police said they were holding a male suspect in the attack, which set ablaze the 1628 canvas by the Flemish painter showing King Philip IV of Spain.

Police spokesman Hans Huber said the young man was detained during a check of all visitors after an alarm was set off closing the museum's exits.

He said the man did not carry identity papers and declined to make any statements.

Belgians seek riot answers

LONDON (AP) — Two Belgian judicial officials arrived in Britain Thursday to pursue inquiries into the May 29 soccer riot at Heysel Stadium in Brussels that killed 39 people.

Commissioner Franz Rentiers and Inspector Luc Clerebouts spent two hours conferring with officials at the Home Office, which supervises the administration of justice in Britain.

The victims died after fans of England's Liverpool soccer club attacked rival fans of the Juventus club from Turin, Italy, causing a concrete wall to collapse before the start of the European Cup championship.

Poland curbs academic rights

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The government plans changes in the education law that will end most academic freedoms won in the brief liberal period that followed the birth of the free trade union movement Solidarity in 1980.

The new provisions subject professors to political reprisals and require them to sign loyalty oaths, as a means of bringing universities under stricter Communist Party control.

Ambassador sets resignation

OTTAWA (AP) — Paul H. Robinson, U.S. ambassador to Canada for nearly four years, said Thursday he has told President Reagan he wants to resign this fall and return to private life.

Robinson, formerly a mutual funds and insurance broker and Republican Party fundraiser in Chicago, was controversial early in his tenure for his outspoken criticism of Canadian policy under then-Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, especially his urging of greater defense spending.

Woman says Mengele in U.S. custody once

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The woman who claims to have harbored Nazi death camp doctor Josef Mengele for 17 years said Thursday the fugitive told her he had been detained by American troops after World War II but released.

The statement by Gitta Stammer, in an interview with The Associated Press, leads to confirm unverified reports earlier this year that Mengele had briefly been in U.S. custody at the war's end.

"He told me that after the war he was a prisoner of the Americans in Nazi Germany," but, "since his name was not on any wanted list they released him," Mrs. Stammer said.

"This made him believe he was not being looked for... which is why he used his real name when he lived in Argentina," Mrs. Stammer said.

She said she did not remember when or in what part of Germany the fugitive said he was detained.

Last January, U.S.-based Nazi hunters reported that a recently declassified 1947 U.S. Army document referred to an otherwise unidentified informant's report that Mengele had been arrested in Vienna, Austria.

Then, in February, an ex-GI told reporters in Los Angeles he had seen a prisoner at the Idar-Oberrhein camp in central-west Germany at war's end who was identified to him as Mengele. The former soldier, Walter Kempf, served in an Army counterintelligence unit.

U.S. Army officials said in March they were beginning a lengthy review of old documents to determine whether the long-hunted Nazi doctor actually had been in American custody briefly after the war.

Performers see famine area

MEKELLE, Ethiopia (AP) — Entertainers who raised money to feed victims of famine victims got a personal look Thursday at what has been called Africa's lost generation — children so wasted by hunger and disease that they will never fully recover.

Singers Harry Belafonte and Marlon Jackson and other members of USA for Africa, who raised $50 million dollars with the recording "We Are the World," toured this emergency-feeding camp for 70,000 people, many of them children.

County will impose jail fees

CALDWELL (AP) — Another Idaho county has moved to impose fees on the jailing of city prisoners in county facilities in the wake of a state Supreme Court decision last month.

The Canyon County Commission has ordered Sheriff Bill Anderson to review his jail records to determine how much Caldwell owes the county for housing prisoners jailed on city misdemeanor charges since December 1983.

The Idaho Supreme Court recently upheld Bannock County's right to charge the city of Pocatello a fee for holding city prisoners in the county jail. The court said state law allows counties to impose the fees when cities fail to pay for city ordinance violators of state motor vehicle laws arrested by city officers, and those jailed for contempt charges arising from those violations.

Service drops clear-cut plan

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Protests by environmental groups have caused the U.S. Forest Service to temporarily drop plans to clear-cut timberland above Upper Priest Lake.

"The sale, in all probability, will be delayed at least one and one-half years, probably longer," because environmentalists raised a legal challenge the Forest Service can't answer, said Darrell Froggness, environmental coordinator for the Panhandle National Forests.

But, according to Froggness, the real conflict is over how much wood the Forest Service is supposed to sell each year, and the limitations of wildlife, recreation, and watershed protection.

"It's two freight trains heading straight at each other at 90 miles an hour," he said Tuesday.

Libraries prepare for cuts

By The Associated Press

Two of Idaho's biggest libraries are bracing for reductions in book acquisitions and personnel because of funding cuts.

The Idaho Falls Public Library faces a $10,000 shortfall in book and could lose $40,000 in 1986 through redistribution of federal money. In Boise, Library Director Lynn Melton said the proposed city budget would require her to eliminate 4½ full-time jobs.

"We're losing ground," Ms. Melton said.

"Budget funding has gone up about 20 percent (since 1979), but the price of books has gone up about 90 percent, audio-visual equipment up 30 percent and magazine prices up 104 percent."

In Idaho Falls, book purchases have all but ceased until Sept. 30, when the fiscal year ends, Library Director Craig Anderson said.

Lawyers sued in bond default

SEATTLE (AP) — Investors who bought $2.25 billion worth of bonds on which the Washington Public Power Supply System later defaulted have filed suit against the utility lawyers who said in 1976 the bond agreements were legal.

"The defendants, contrary to their professional obligations, did not independently investigate, research or consider matters set forth in their opinion letters," the suit alleges. "They merely parroted the sample opinion letter sent by the supply system on April 15, 1976."

The suit, filed Wednesday in federal court, names 15 law firms and lawyers from both big cities and small towns around the Northwest.

Wayward bikes to be cited

BOISE (AP) — Federal land managers faced with the increasing trail use of bicycles built for mountain terrain plan to issue warnings and citations to people who ride the two-wheelers in protected areas.

Bicyclists "are not always staying where they are supposed to be," said Mike Cole, Hells Canyon National Recreation Area river ranger.

A citation was issued to a person caught riding a mountain bike near the Middle Fork of the Salmon River in the Frank Church-River of No Return Wilderness Area, where officials said the bicyclist violated wilderness law.

Lead university said to be OK

BOISE (AP) — There's no legal reason why Idaho could not have a "one university" system, with all state colleges and universities under one director or chancellor, a legislative committee has been advised.

Deputy Attorney General Pat Kole said Thursday such a system could have the University of Idaho the lead institution, with branches at Boise, Pocatello and Lewiston. The president of the University of Idaho could serve as chancellor, with vice presidents at the other schools reporting to him, Kole said.

Eye bank to prolong storage

BOISE (AP) — A new eye bank opens at a Boise hospital July 1, a facility that will extend by 50 percent the time eye tissue can be stored for use by other patients.

St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center said it will open the Idaho Lions Eye Bank, under sponsorship of the Idaho-Oregon Lions Sight and Hearing Foundation.

The facility will be the first of its kind in the state, supplying healthy eye tissue to area ophthalmologists.

Wood permits needed July 1

BOISE (AP) — Starting July 1, permits will be needed for the gathering of firewood from state lands.

The Idaho Land Board this week voted to impose a minimum $10 fee, good for up to four cords, in most areas.

The department also will issue permits for free firewood areas, where the removal of firewood will help land management.

Inmate requests prison-population cap

BOISE (AP) — Saying corrections officials have allowed the prison population to "explode," an inmate has asked a federal judge to impose a limit on the number of prisoners that may be kept at the Idaho State Penitentiary.

Dean Schwartzmiller charged in court papers filed this week that state officials have not kept promises made at a trial in March 1984 to reduce the prison population. Instead, the population has soared, said Schwartzmiller, who provides legal services for fellow inmates.

But Corrections Director Al Murphy countered that the state has followed through with its pledges to provide more bed space for inmates, although he said the prison does have six more prisoners now than it did during the trial.

Schwartzmiller asked U.S. District Judge Harold Ryan to order a "prison population cap" prohibiting the population of Boise from housing more than 150 percent of its design capacity. According to figures Schwartzmiller cited, that would be about 649 prisoners.

He requested that Ryan make the population cap part of his November 1984 order that required improvements in medical and psychiatric care, and living conditions at the prison. Ryan ordered the improvements after hearing 13 days of testimony over a class-action lawsuit alleging unconstitutional conditions at the prison.

During the trial, there were 660 inmates at the penitentiary, which includes the main site and a neighboring minimum-custody facility, Schwartzmiller said. The population at the main penitentiary site alone now is 708, he said.

Schwartzmiller said it is so crowded at the institution that bunks have been placed in day rooms normally reserved for inmates' activities.

Murphy said some inmates are sleeping in day rooms, but he said that always occurs at this time of year. The prison population is at its peak in May and June because judges are busy sentencing convicts in an attempt to clear their calendars for summer vacations, he said.

Murphy also cited different figures for the prison's capacity and said it was designed to hold 720 inmates. The population at the main site and minimum-custody section combined was 958 on Tuesday — meaning the prison was at 133 percent capacity.

Jury acquits man

POCATELLO (AP) — A federal court jury has acquitted a 30-year-old Idaho Falls man of charges in an alleged plot to defraud a Bannock County man of $8,000 last January.

Preston Bills was found innocent on all of a four-count indictment in U.S. District Court and of a lesser included misdemeanor offense. The jury of nine men and three women reached its decision 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

2 legislators balk at talk of race in 2nd

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Both Rep. J.F. "Chad" Chabband and Sen. Mike Crapo say they are eyeing the 2nd District congressional race, but are not yet ready to make their decisions.

Chabband said Thursday his candidacy would depend much on former Rep. George Hansen's future political plans. Crapo said he wanted to see the political picture in about six months.

Chabband and Crapo are Republicans. The 2nd District seat was captured last fall in an upset victory by Democrat Richard Stallings of Rexburg.

If they decide to challenge Stallings, they won't be alone in the race.

Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, has put more effort into the campaign than others. Crapo said, "but I don't know if that's bearing fruit."

Others mentioned as possible Republican congressional candidates include Dan Adamson of Jerome, Rep. Robert Geddes of Preston, Sen. Ann Rydatch of Idaho Falls and Sen. Larry Anderson of Twin Falls.

"If I had to say yes or no today, the answer clearly would be no," Crapo said. "But it might be different in about six months."

Chabband, who plans to attend this weekend's campaign seminar sponsored by the National Federation of Republican Women, said he would hire a professional survey organization to draw up questions testing his viability.

"I'm just taking the temperature," he said.

Idaho rangelands sprout pesky new enemy

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Grasshoppers are not the only pest moving into Idaho. A particular problem is leafty spurge — a tough, fast-spreading weed that pushes out native grasses and shrubs, leaving totally useless rangeland behind.

Toxious weeds are beginning to create serious problems on Idaho's rangelands. Officials with the U.S. Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management are concerned about the state's leafty spurge problem now; but what is even more troubling is the weed's rapid spread.

In 1979, there was an estimated 35,000 acres infested rangeland in the state, according to Ed Wainwright, information officer for the Forest Service. Now, six years later, there are an estimated 69,000 acres of spurge-infested rangeland in the state. According to Waldiepat, the weed is spreading through the state at about 12 percent a year.

About 2.5 million acres of rangeland in the western United States and Canada are infested with the weed, according to Forest Service estimates. A large percentage of the infestated areas are in Wyoming and Montana.

"It's pretty terrifying from my perspective," said John Madden, district ranger for the Forest Service's Fairfield District. "It just outcompetes the native vegetation and chokes it all out."

Madden said, "What is left behind is useless for both livestock and wildlife."

John Caywood, the Forest Service's local range conservationist, called the weed a "nasty, insidious problem."

The weed can also pose serious problems for farmers. Last year Minidoka County issued a quarantine on farm products in the Goose Creek drainage after having an outbreak of spurge. Such quarantines could become more common if the weed spreads, costing farmers in the state its millions.

"We haven't found any kind of habitat that it won't grow on," Madden said. "It grows with its feet in the water or on rocks. Once you get an infestation, there is little chance of eliminating it. Its seeds are viable for a long time — longer than 35 years."

Salmon, according to the BLM. "None of the things we've been using in Idaho are working well," according to Steve Ellis, with the BLM in Boise.

"Leafty is fair, but it doesn't work that well. Even Round-up is fair," Ellis said. Both the BLM and the Forest Service have been spraying rangeland in an effort to control leafty spurge. Spraying programs on public lands, however, have been held up by an appeal to the Department of Interior's Office of Hearings and Appeals. The appeal was made by the Idaho Natural Resources Legal

Department heads revise fair classes

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

FILER — Do you think you can sew up first place at the Twin Falls County Fair with that nifty teddy bear you made? Or perhaps you can cook up interest and a blue ribbon with your antique toaster?

This year, teddy bears and toasters, as well as many other items, will have their own classes of competition at the fair.

Annually, classes are created and others expanded or eliminated to reflect the interest or changing tastes of competitors, said Neoma Shouse, a fair employee.

Superintendents of the various departments keep track of what is hot or not in entries, she added. If the superintendents identify popular items, they add a large number of entries in a certain category, new classes will be established or existing ones expanded.

"We try to update the classes to what people are doing," Shouse said.

Often, miscellaneous items that didn't fit into a particular class within a certain department were thrown into the "other" category, she said. The diversity made judging difficult.

Expanding the areas of competition encourages more people to enter items and promotes interest in the fair, Shouse added.

More than 10,000 entries were judged last year, including those from 4-H and Future Farmers of America youngsters. The prizes ranged from $1 to $100.

The largest number of changes in competition classes this year takes place in the home arts, antique and make-it-yourself-type departments, as compared to the livestock classes.

In the home arts department, the popular, counted cross-stitch class will be expanded to designate pictures of fruit, portraits, animals or landscapes. Last year, there only was one general category for the needlework.

An individual-class-for-fashion-baby, crocheted or knitted and furry dolls and teddy bears will be added, as well as a new class for tote painting on fabric and crocheted handwork using hoops.

To the weaving category will be added a class for scarves and table runners and to home sewing, another

Closed road leads to petition effort

By DOUG WRIGHT
Times-News writer

BLISS — Some Hagerman Valley residents and sportsmen are circulating a petition to reopen a road which provides access to the western bank of the Snake River.

The controversial road is located along the old King Hill Main Canal beginning near the Bliss-Snake River bridge and ending almost at the Lower Salmon Power Plant.

Rancher Dan Potucek, whose property the road runs through, put a gate on the road near the bridge about a year ago in a joint livestock management venture with the Boise district office of the Bureau of Land Management. Repeated attempts to reach Potucek this week for comment were unsuccessful.

But Laurence Smith and other Bliss and Hagerman residents, who say they have used the road for years, are angry at the closure by locked gate.

In a petition which Smith has circulated and 89 people have signed so far, they say that the road should be a public right-of-way, because it gives access to BLM-managed public lands, provides the only access to the Snake River for several miles and reaches a point near the Hagerman fossil diggings.

The road is not classified as a public right-of-way, however, because it is not maintained by the Twin Falls Highway District, says Claude Burney of the highway district.

Because the road is not a public right-of-way, the BLM cannot do much to remove the gate, says Effie Schultze of the BLM. But she claims that the gate on the road is not always locked, anyway. "I was out there about two weeks ago and we just rolled right on through," she said.

Although Gary Carson, the Boise district manager for the BLM, also believes that the road lies on Potucek's land, he says that the gate is very close to the line separating Potucek's property and public land.

If the BLM receives Smith's petition, Carson says he would look into it and possibly send out a survey team to positively establish whose property the gate was on.

If the gate were on BLM-managed land, then Carson said he would send a letter to Potucek requesting removal of the gate.

If the BLM fails to get the road opened to the public, the petitioners next best bet is to contact the Idaho Attorney General's office and see what they can do, says Schultze.

Nitrate levels found to be high in shallow wells

TWIN FALLS — The state Department of Health and Welfare has found abnormally high nitrate levels in wells in the Paul area and residents are advised to have shallow drinking water wells tested for their own sake.

If nitrate levels are high, the department recommends that drinking water be used cautiously.

Nitrate levels in excess of 10 milligrams per liter have been found by the department in the Paul area, according to Gray Burkett of the Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment Field Office in Twin Falls.

State officials recommend that water with levels higher than 10 mg/l not be given to infants younger than 6 months of age.

The contaminated water should also not be given to pregnant women, since high nitrate levels can be harmful to unborn children.

According to the Department of Health and Welfare, some studies have suggested that high nitrate levels may be harmful to older children and adults as well. The results, however, are still inconclusive.

Residents with health problems who find their wells have high nitrate levels should contact their local physician.

According to the department, groundwater from shallow wells or deep wells not constructed to seal out overlying groundwater are susceptible to nitrate contamination. Contamination can come from a variety of sources, including agricultural fertilizers, animal feedlots, industrial land, and inadequate septic systems.

Paul residents with drinking water wells can have their wells tested by a number of commercial labs. Both the south Central District Health Department at Rupert and the Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment Office in Twin Falls have lists of commercial laboratories certified to do nitrate testing. The number for the Rupert office is 438-4177. The Twin Falls office can be reached at 734-9520.

Crews hope stubborn brush blaze finally is out

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

BUHL — About 20 tired firemen and volunteers from Buhl and Ellier left the site of a stubborn fire in Snake River Canyon northeast of Buhl Thursday evening for what they hoped was a final time.

The fire began about 5:30 Wednesday and spread for about a mile up the canyon to the east of Kelley Canyon Orchards, burning through brush, grass and into a small area of apple orchard. Fire crews stayed at the scene until after 11 p.m. Wednesday, then returned just after noon Thursday when it flared up again and began spreading along the canyon floor.

Fire Chief Mark Grimes of Buhl said men and equipment from the Buhl and Ellier Mutual Fire Departments responded Thursday and Holister's equipment also assisted Wednesday night.

He said a "hot spot" was whipped into live flames Thursday, causing the fire to again begin moving. Firefighters remained at the scene for another five hours before declaring the fire out for a second time.

Capt. Tom Owens of the Buhl Department estimated the fire covered another three-quarters of a mile Thursday. Both he and Grimes said should flames erupt again today they will be in better shape to stop it because of a fireline that was cut during Thursday operations.

"Most of the work was hand work," Grimes said. "We had a serious access problem. About the only way we could get to the fire or back was to climb the canyon wall."

High gusty winds and rugged terrain in the canyon hampered use of tankers and hoses, which Kelley, owner of the Kelley Canyon Orchard, where the fire started, used his own equipment and most of his employees to hand battle the fire on the west end, Owens said.

New top man at medical center works to help hospital's image

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — New Magic Valley Regional Medical Center administrator John Bingham says he plans to spend much of his time talking with patients, physicians, employees and local business leaders.

He was picked by the hospital board after they weighed how well finalists for the position would handle physician relations and public relations.

In January, an Institute for Health-Planning report costing nearly $30,000 identified poor staff morale and a negative public image as two of the more serious problems of the hospital.

Employee morale problems may be overstated, Bingham said at his first press conference Thursday.

"I don't pick it up," he said. "I find people are very, very positive."

With only two full days at the hospital behind him, he was not ready to make any new plans for the hospital, he said.

JOHN BINGHAM Named new administrator nation-wide decrease in use by overnight patients.

For instance, some hospitals have used their empty beds for nursing home care or for overnight stays of those whose relatives are patients at the hospital. Other hospitals have developed joint venture programs with physicians and free-standing surgical centers, he said.

MVRMC has already done a good job shifting from reliance on overnight patients to less traditional programs, such as the same-day surgery program, home health services and ambulance services, he said.

He emphasized that MVRMC has to turn a profit to provide quality care and replacement.

The hospital will not turn away those requiring emergency care who cannot pay, he said. But those without insurance should not make use of the hospital's emergency room when they could be treated in a physician's office, he said.

Twin Falls County does have an obligation to provide medical service to the poor at the county-owned hospital, he said. However, the obligation to provide service for which the hospital is not reimbursed does not necessarily extend to other counties in the region the hospital serves, he said.

Health center appeals claim

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The University of Utah Health Services Center is appealing to Fifth District Court to overturn a rejection of a $80,000 indigent claim by Twin Falls County.

The Utah hospital filed the appeal Tuesday and named Twin Falls County, Commissioners Judy Felton, Ann Cover and Marvin Hempleman and County Clerk Dick Pence.

The Utah hospital had filed the claim on behalf of Carolyn Bowman, who was admitted Aug. 7, 1984, for emergency treatment to save her life and her infant child's. The appeal is Bowman, 47, of Twin Falls, died Sept. 29 at the Salt Lake City hospital after suffering from kidney failure, a blood infection and breathing difficulties. A month later, the hospital billed the county for $183,331.

County commissioners rejected the claim, questioning the reasonableness of costs and indignity of the woman. The hospital appealed and a hearing was held March 12. At the hearing, assistant Utah hospital finance administrator Dale

R. Gunnell testified that $123,334 of the bill had been paid by Social Security Supplemental Income benefits. The hospital couldn't find any other sources so it was billing the county for the balance of $60,000.

Earlier this month, the commissioners again rejected the claim on the basis of reasonableness of costs and necessity of services.

In its appeal, the hospital asks the court to review the case, reverse the commissioners' decision and order payment of the balance of $123,324 plus interest and attorney fees.

Gunnell said Thursday that the hospital only was seeking $60,000. The amount mentioned in the appeal probably was a misprint.

Whatever the amount, the county will not pay, Felton said Thursday. At the appeal hearing, a hospital official said Bowman had delivered the baby at their facility, Felton said. The county has proof that the baby was delivered at Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital.

"were unable to find that the hospital services rendered to Carolyn Bowman were either reasonably necessary to alleviate illness, injury or death or that these hospitalization costs were reasonable. The testimony presented by the University of Utah hospital was neither adequate nor competent to support its contention that hospital services were reasonably necessary to alleviate illness, injury or death. Neither was the testimony sufficient to establish the reasonableness of the charges."

The hospital called the county decision "arbitrary" and "capricious" and abuse of discretion. There was no testimony at the hearing to support the commissioner's ruling that the costs were not reasonable nor did the county refute the Utah hospital's testimony—the appeal claims.

The hospital also charges that Pence and the commissioners failed to follow proper procedure prior to and at the hearing. No elaboration of the allegation was included in the claim.

Hospital attorney Dean Williams of Blackfoot was instructed to inform Pence and the Felton said the county would fight the appeal.

Paul plans to pucker for pigs
 PAUL (AP) — Residents of this southeastern Idaho farming community plan a fund-raising event this weekend that's apparently growing in popularity — kiss-a-pig.

Area businessmen have set up collection points for donations to people they'd like to see kiss a pig at the seventh annual Paul Shindig this weekend.

Proceeds go toward a new track at Minco High School.

Several volunteers say they have mixed emotions about kissing a pig.

"Well, it's going for a good cause and that's the only way I'd do it," said Steve Renz, currently the leader in donations.

"It would be a new experience but I'm glad to do anything benefit our youth," said Gene Hansen.

Ken CooperSmith said, "I feel personally that I don't mind — as long as the pig comes from a good family."

Contestant Richard Swensen said he tries not to think about it.

Students at Skyline High School in Idaho Falls used the same event last week, raising $122 for the Future Farmers of America program. At a penny per vote, vocational-agriculture teacher Reed Findlay got 4,898 votes and the "honor."

"A little slobbery" was his report.

Tuesday, first-place winner Atwood, 16, was awarded a $100 gift certificate to Hall's True Value in Wendell.

Frank Irace, 9, won second place in the contest by riding 30 miles and collecting $283 of his pledges. He was awarded $25 and a $15 gift certificate to the Wendell Department Store.

Third place winner with $310 collected was Brad Hulet, fourth place with $195 was John Bertus and fifth place with $101 was Lee Eldridge.

Elementary School Principal Robert Kester said 38 riders participated in the event and about $2,500 was collected from 200,000 pledges.

"Nobody was able to collect all of the money pledged," he noted.

Kiwans leader Bob Burks said some people who pledged a 10 or 20 cents per mile did not realize the youngsters would ride so far.

"Some of the rider people just didn't understand how those things can add up," he said.

Atwood noted she was unable to collect about $50 of her pledges.

The Kiwanis Club, which sponsored the bike-a-thon, has given tee-shirts to all participants who have turned in their pledge money. Burks says all pledge money still out should be turned in right away.

Greek festival slated for Saturday

KETCHUM — A Greek festival for the benefit of the Blaine County Senior Center is scheduled for Saturday in Ketchum. Organized by Michael and Bonnie Ayers, the festival includes a group of old-time fiddlers from Shoshone and Halley's Boulder Brothers Band, who will provide the music for Lia's Western Salsa and a street dance in the evening.

A raffle to benefit the Seniors Center, which is located in Halley, also will be held. More than 20 prizes will be given away in the drawing.

Prizes include a trip for two on Horizon Air Lines, a one-day raft trip for two and gift certificates from local restaurants and stores.

The Ayers own Mykos Cafe in Ketchum and will provide a Greek barbecue of lamb and chicken. Other foods will be available, with meal tickets costing $6.

Other events include an olive pit splitting contest, that is open to people of all ages, and a gyro eating contest for children under 12. A gyro is a pita bread sandwich with seared strips of beef and seasoned lamb.

"Greek gifts, souvenirs, sweaters and jewelry will be on display and for sale."

Events begin at 11 a.m. with the old-time fiddlers, who will play until 6 p.m. The Boulder Brothers will play from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. for the street dance. At 10 p.m., a Greek film will be shown.

All events will be held next to Mykos Cafe on the corner of Fifth and Washington streets in Ketchum, one block south of Main Street.

Ayers says the festival will go on no matter what the weather is like. A $1 donation is asked for. Twenty percent of all sales and all the raffle and admission proceeds will go to the Senior Center.

Leroy talk aims at economic development

BOISE (AP) — Idaho needs to do more than just talk about economic development, says Lt. Gov. David Leroy.

"We need to create new jobs for Idaho and there are only two ways for Idaho to approach economic development. We can talk about it or we can do it. Idaho has just talked about it for all too long," Leroy said Thursday, in a speech to the Boise

Rotary Club.

Leroy, who has been acting governor since May 27, said a private survey of 500 households last week shows the top concerns of Idaho residents are jobs and employment.

"It is the business men and women of Idaho not government who must make the commitment and take the steps to build a broader, deeper, stronger Idaho economy," he said.

"Idaho business will grow if the climate and conditions are right. State government leadership can help create that climate," he said.

Leroy said Idaho needs a specific plan to encourage new industry to come to the state, needs a consistent attitude toward encouraging business and needs to aggressively use the new state Department of Commerce.

 Foundation, requesting the BLM to do an environmental assessment or a worst-case analysis on the pesticides used in the spraying. The legal foundation believes that the BLM did not adequately assess the health impacts of the spraying.

"Many of the pesticides which are planned for the spraying program are probably carcinogenic," said Ed Stocky, the lawyer who has been handling the legal foundation's appeal.

A decision by the Department of Interior made last week will allow the BLM to spray 60 acres of rangeland in the state.

While spraying seems only to control the weed, range officers would like to find something which eliminates it.

Right now, even treating the weed with herbicides to control it is impossible. "If we can't keep it treated, it's going to take on us," predicted Madden. "We've tried smothering it, we've tried burning it, and we've tried digging it out — with zero effect," he added.

"Sometimes you wonder if there is anything on earth that's going to stop it."

There have been problems finding ways to control the weed, both naturally and chemically, because of poor information. The weed originally came from Iran, and Madden said, "We don't have a real good exchange of information with Iran right now; and that's hurt us scientifically, as far as this weed goes."

Owens said he was not certain how close it came to the buildings because he was not working in that area of the fire. But he said it got "close enough to make some home owners pretty concerned."

Arts council commissions study for Sun Valley center

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

Calif., will do the study for the center.

Severn says the advisory council prefers one of two locations being made available for the center and will probably announce the location of the site by early July.

She says the council will not use a downtown lot first offered by the city of Ketchum for the center because of the situation of the city's local option tax.

She says the city may need the lot, which contains the old city hall on Main Street, to raise money if the option tax is struck down by the Idaho Supreme Court this summer.

"Because of the option tax issue, the city doesn't feel it can part with the property," she says.

There was speculation, however, that the city lot was too small for the center's needs, and earlier, Severn said, the council was looking at sites in Sun Valley and Ketchum for building.

Severn says she estimates the new center will need about 500 seats to allow the sponsors of the better-known performers to break even on their events. She says sponsors now have to use the auditorium at the Wood-River High School to draw large enough crowds to pay for the performances.

The Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities would be the largest user of the center, Severn says, but it would be open to most local organizations.

The advisory council wants to create two funds for the center: a building fund to erect the center and an operating endowment to keep it going once it is opened.

The size of the funds and how the council will raise them will come from the study, Severn says.

Kimberly mayor blasts 'mandate' under which officer was suspended

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — An order issued by Kimberly Police Chief Jim Campbell to members of his department on May 20 drew fire from Mayor Ron Jones.

Tuesday night during the regular city council meeting.

Campbell issued the order, or "mandate" as Jones called it, stating all information about police business should be released by the police chief and that departmental problems should be immediately discussed with the chief or the police commissioner.

Mayor Jones, who ordered an investigation of the city's police department that brought counteraction by three members of the city council, asked Campbell to explain the meaning of the "mandate." He also reminded the chief that he had suspended an officer for refusing to sign the mandate. He asked if others refused, would they also be suspended and does it mean the mandate is already in effect? One officer was suspended for one shift three weeks ago after he refused to acknowledge the mandate, the police police chief and commissioner.

Campbell explained the order was an updating of existing policies and simply reminds officers they must discuss their department problems with himself or Police Commissioner Sterling Crothers in a proper chain of command. He said the department decisions may be appealed to the city council.

Jones said he objected to wording that said matters should not be discussed with "other persons" and that it applies to all instances "regardless of the nature of the matter."

Jones added that wording prohibits council members from discussing problems with the mayor or other city officials before discussing them with the police chief and commissioner.

Trustees give proposal 2nd hearing

By DARLENE WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAZELTON — A proposal by Valley Trustee Irene Johnson to divide each school day for grades one to three at the Eden school into seven individual classes a day, with one instructor for each of the subjects, was given a second hearing by the Valley Board of Trustees.

Board Chairman Keith Huettig said he is not yet convinced the proposal would work. If convinced, Huettig said he would not be willing to begin the program this fall, as Johnson suggested.

He felt the staff should be given a year's notice to prepare for the change.

Since the board did not favor starting her proposal next fall, Johnson said it may be willing to institute part of her plan, by letting the teachers and principal hold lunch hour meetings to give them the opportunity to work together as a team.

Huettig and other board members felt there was not enough time between now and next fall to hire aides to take care of the children during the noon hour, nor had money been set aside in the new budget to pay the aides.

"I, as a parent, would need more information on this program, before accepting it," said Linda Montgomery.

Parent Nancy Brune said if the teachers accepted the proposal, she would have a better understanding of the program if she was able to "walk through it" and attend classes to see how it worked before the children did

The proposal was again tabled because the board felt more time was needed to implement the plan.

In other business:

The board hired Christi Lamun to teach first grade, Geralee Walker to teach business and Spanish classes, and Carolyn Lee to teach migrants at Hazelton Elementary.

Expensive jewelry vanishes, leaving relatives in quandary

DEAR ABBY: An expensive piece of jewelry was taken from our home recently. The sad part is that we have good reason to suspect a teen-age relative who visited us at the time.

The young relative reads your column faithfully, so perhaps seeing this in your column might result in the piece being quietly returned. There would be no questions asked.

We carry insurance, but if we report the loss to our insurance company, they will insist on a police report, and the police will want a list of people who were in our home at the time in order to question them. We are afraid that our young relative might break down under questioning, which would cause very bad feelings in the family.

Should we get the law involved in this? Or should we risk talking to the parents? We've considered talking directly with the teen-ager, but if said teen-ager denies taking it and tells the parents of the accusation, it still spells family trouble.

We are waiting for your answer. We wish to see the jewelry returned to the young person, Abby. To me that is more important than getting the jewelry back.

- A LOVING (AND HURT) RELATIVE
DEAR RELATIVE: Besides the mess around among the family concerning the missing piece, stressing that the insurance company wants a police report, which will include a list of people who were at the house at the time.

If that doesn't cause the piece to turn up, then speak privately to the young person you suspect. If that doesn't bring results, proceed with the routine report to your insurance company.

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago, my one and only love decided he should not marry me, so he told my father. Your daughter is too good for me! Ever since then I have wondered if this was a cop-out, or if some men really feel they aren't good enough for the women they love.

I'd like your opinion.
DEAR STILL: If a man tells a girl's father he isn't good enough for his daughter, all concerned should believe him. He knows himself better than anybody. And if it's a cop-out, that's further proof that he's neither good enough — nor brave enough.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, 42, is getting married for the second time. His first marriage ended in divorce nine years ago. The woman he's marrying is 22, and this is her first marriage.

Her parents are planning a large church wedding with all the trimmings — the kind our son had the first time. What part do we play in this wedding? It's 17 years later, and our lifestyle has changed considerably. My husband is retired, and we are in much more modest circumstances now.

We hosted one lavish rehearsal dinner the night before the wedding, as is customary for the groom's parents, but we are in no position to do it again. The bride's parents are fine people — younger and better off financially than we are.

We want a good rapport with them, so please tell us how to handle this.

- PARENTS OF THE GROOM
DEAR PARENTS: Explain your circumstances candidly to the bride's parents. Don't do any more than you can comfortably afford. Parents who have participated in one wedding have paid their dues, and are exempt from the obligations of repeat performances.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $3.50 and a long stamped (39 cents) envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Dried fruit prompts FDA caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration warned consumers in five Northwestern states recently that cellophane bags of dried fruit distributed by the Triangle Nut Co. may contain undisclosed sulfite preservatives that could cause an allergic reaction in some people.

The FDA said 70-ounce bags were distributed to some 200 retail stores in Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Washington and Wyoming, and were recalled by the Spokane, Wash., company. The agency said Triangle has asked consumers who have purchased the bags to return them to the place of purchase.

Sulfite preservatives are not illegal, but packaged foods containing them must be specially labeled.

The label is intended to alert the estimated 500,000 people in the country, most of whom are asthmatic, who are sensitive to sulfites. Sensitive people could suffer allergic reactions that, in severe cases, can result in suffocation.

The FDA said an inspection of Triangle's plant, prompted by a consumer complaint, discovered bulk containers of dried fruits labeled as containing sulfites, but no labels on the repackaged retail products. Tests on samples confirmed the presence of sulfites.

Being recalled are Triangle Nut Brand-Dried Apples, Dried Peaches, Dried Pears, Dried Apricots, Dried Nectarines, Dried Callamyrna Figs, Tahitian Tiramisu, Turkish Trailmix, Mixed Fruit and Dried Fruit.

Dad tends to wind up on short end compared to Mom on special day

By DON OLDENBURG
The Washington Post

Why does dad get socks and ties on Father's Day while mom gets flowers and candy on Mother's Day?

Year after year, we presume that on their special holidays mother prefers dinner at a nice restaurant while father would rather cook burgers in the backyard.

But how do our mothers on Father's Day say a lot about fatherhood in our society, according to psychologists. That we tend to express love for dad with socks or a Weed Eater, they add, is apt commentary on traditional American father-child communications.

"Fathers tend to confuse feeling with sentimentality, which for them means to be effeminate, sissies, weak," says John Munder Ross, a New York psychoanalyst and coeditor of Father and Child: Developmental and Clinical Perspectives (Little, Brown, $29.50). Ross cautions that it is a gross generalization to lump all American fathers together, but adds that they tend not to acknowledge their emotional needs to their children, and their children respond by projecting "nonsense illusion" about the relationship.

"We pander to fathers' anti-sentimentalism," says Ross, "and end up depriving them in the process."

"Emotionally neutral or practical gifts for father," says Rick Rubin, professor of Social Psychology at Brandeis University, indicate the kind of camouflaged expressions of affection many fathers give and receive from the time their children are infants. Society now recognizes that, typically, a father's emotional reserve is a lack of love, but the product of a traditional male upbringing.

"In the world of masculinity, expressions of emotion are traditionally 'apologetic,'" says Rubin, who has studied fathers and sons for four years. "Mothers are treated in unabashedly sentimental ways — the flowers, the kisses, the direct 'I love you's.' Unabashed sentiment doesn't fly as easily with fathers."

Statistics seem to support the contention that children not only are emotionally restricted with their fathers but are sentimentally and financially spent come Father's Day, following the shower of affections — "With more 'New Fathers' and more women having babies without being married, in 20 years Father's Day could either be an anachronism or the order of the day."

Considering the radical changes in the American family and fatherhood, the future of Father's Day, says Ross, is no more certain than was his past. "With more 'New Fathers' and more women having babies without being married, in 20 years Father's Day could either be an anachronism or the order of the day."

'Oklahoma!': gusty musical plays in Jerome

Dan Mink, as Will Parker, twirls a rope and then leaps through it during 'Oklahoma'

Play's director Mike Winterholler boasts, 'I've got one hell of a show'

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "Oklahoma!," the folksy, favorite Rogers and Hammerstein musical from the 1940s, is this year's Northside Playhouse presentation slated for June 14-17 and 20-22 at the Jerome High School Auditorium. Curtain is 8:15 p.m., except for a June 16 matinee at 2:15 p.m.

Produced locally by Greg Fuller, the musical boasts a company of experienced talent in both its director, Mike Winterholler, and its principal leads Gary Dalton, Laurey Williams, Jerry Green, Shawn Fuller, Karen Abu-Bakr, Terri Wood, Dan Mink and Jim Latham.

In addition, Bruce Whitehead is aboard as musical director, Venessa Ryal is choral director and choreography is provided by Jenny Frank.

Based on Lynn Riggs' "Green Grow the Lilacs," the play is set in turn-of-the-century Oklahoma Territory and concerns the rivalry of Curly (Dalton), a handsome cowboy, and Jud (Green), a bully-boy sort of hired hand, for the love of Laurey Williams (Fuller). Simultaneously, a second love interest with more comical overtones is going on between Laurey's friend, Ado Annie Carnes (Wood), who's not totally in control of herself where men are concerned. To add to her confusion, she is trying to decide whether to marry Will Parker (Mink), a cowboy who considers himself engaged to her, or the peddler, Al Hakim (Latham), who mainly likes to play around and has no intention of marrying anybody.

A first collaboration by the now-famous Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein, the play was a prototype in that it departed from old forms completely and, through freshness and enthusiasm, raised the artistic level of the Broadway musical stage to the point of acceptance as serious literature.

Beginning practically on the rocks with investors shunning the innovative project and expert hand-cappers reporting "No legs, no jokes, no chance," the musical duo plunged ahead with "Oklahoma!" and translated it into a humorous idyll about attractive, yet simple, outdoor people.

Once on stage, the combination of Rogers' exultant melodies with the rustic verses of Hammerstein overrode the critics and reached into mainstream America. The original production of "Oklahoma!" ran for 2,112 performances lasting over five years. From 1933 until 1954 the play toured the U.S. becoming probably the best-known musical of its time.

Additions for the local production were held April and, after callbacks, a cast of 40 was chosen, according to Winterholler. "It's always a challenge when you're dealing with that many people," the director says. "You have an idea of what you want everybody to do and how to do it. You know where you want them to go and why you want them there," he adds.

Winterholler points out that before things really begin to happen the actors must let go of themselves and become somebody else. But, his biggest thrill is watching the actors grow. "I love to work with new people — watch that spark start and expand until opening night when the character bursts out."

Though he speaks now as a director, Winterholler knows what it's like on both sides of the curtain. He played the heavyweight role of Fagin in last year's Northside Playhouse production of "Oliver!" and directed as well as played the Scarecrow in their previous "Wizard of Oz" presentation.

High on his credit list are other directorial stints including a Lincoln County Players' production of "Finian's Rainbow" and the Dietschman's 25th anniversary musical, "Carousel."

In his earlier days, Winterholler majored in drama at the College of Southern Idaho, then went on to Boise State University where he joined a touring group that traveled throughout Idaho putting on three shows in six weeks from a truck that converted into a stage. He completed further studies at the College of Marin in California.

Yet, even with his near overactivity in local productions, including a good deal of set design and construction, the energetic director appears to have built an explosive enthusiasm for "Oklahoma!"

"It's like having a kid and watching my kid grow up very fast, then being proud of his accomplishments in the end. I want this play to grow from a seed into a wonderful thing for the community," he says.

"I'm trying to throw in as much characterization as possible," he adds. "Musicals have so little dialogue that you try to get everything you can get out of the limited dialogue," he says, explaining that the chopped-up format of a character speaking, then singing, forces the director to be stronger than usual to mold something realistic of his character.

Of the cast, Winterholler goes into high gear, saying, "They've run two weeks ahead of normal. They're coming along so fast, I'm having to hold them back. They've threatened to peak too soon."

"The talent is just incredible!" he adds. "This is the best cast I've worked with. They've got one hell of a show!"

Concerning the content of the musical, Winterholler notes that what he enjoys most is the comedy. "There are so many one-liners that I hope people will come back just to see what they missed the first time. The play is so heart-warming; there's so much comedy and humor that it makes you feel good all over."

"And, that's what I want," he says. "To have Magic Valley people forget their problems for awhile and just enjoy this."

Tickets, $15.00 for adults; $3 for children 12 and under and for senior citizens are available at the Music Center, Jud's Books and Valley Schwinn Cycles in Twin Falls, or at Ryan's, Natural Way Health Store and The Wrangler in Jerome.

Idaho screenwriter dies at 90

TALBOT JENNINGS
Scripted 'Northwest Passage'

SHOSHONE — Few who live in Shoshone today will recognize the name Talbot Jennings even though it was his birthplace. And, though he was highly successful in the film industry, his name won't come immediately to mind even among film buffs. The reason is simple. Jennings worked behind the scenes as a scriptwriter and arranger, rather than in front of it.

Jennings died May 30 this year of cancer. He was 90 years old, retired in East Glacier Park, Montana, and though his death didn't make the kind of publicity as the passing of John Wayne or Clark Gable, Jennings had climbed just as high in his field as either of those two. Moreover, he had scripted the very words they spoke in some movies.

Born August 25, 1894 in Shoshone, he later grew up in Caldwell, and in Nampa. While in high school in Nampa, Jennings joined the National Guard. Later, in 1916, while attending the University of Idaho his outfit was called for service on the Mexican border, then in 1917, for the war in France.

Returning in 1919, he worked as chief clerk for the commissioner of public works in Idaho, then went back to UI where he graduated in 1924. While there, Jennings wrote "The Light on the Mountains," an historical pageant that was his first shot at playwriting.

He then went to Harvard for graduate work in English, and returned to work at UI before going on to the Yale Drama School in 1927. At Yale he wrote three major productions, "Overlords," "No More Frontier," and "Chasteland."

In 1929, he went to Miami University, Ohio, to teach and also to put on "No More Frontier" at the old Provincetown Theatre. Later, Jennings

First book a success for Bellevue resident

By LESLIE HANSCOM
Newsday

Scene: A seedy rock club on Cape Cod, where in the spotlight a small musical combo is doing its best to please. One listener, a sinister-looking horror novel belonging to a motorcyclist, sits at the table, his denim jacket to expose biceps — is not pleased. To register displeasure, he hurls a Bowie knife which, as luck would have it, finds no target in flesh but lodges in the floor, quivering with its message of menace.

This is a small vignette out of the musical career of Ridley Pearson, a former wandering minstrel who decided to find other work. It wasn't this one incident which did it. In all respects, the life of a road musician was the kind that shouldn't happen to the Ayatollah. Once after trying all night to keep an engagement, Pearson fell asleep during the performance. "The flute player hit me," he now remembers. "I nodded off during his solo. If it had been mine, he probably would have let me sleep."

Seeking to put these trying experiences behind him, Pearson switched to a line of endeavor promising ease and guaranteed success. He set out to write a novel. Right here could be the end of the story. Not only does writing a novel give no ease to the writer, but it's guarantee of success is comparable to one's chances of breaking the bank at three-card monte. Against the long odds, however, Pearson made it in one try. His first book, a

Circus variety spectacle to benefit special children

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Spring wouldn't be spring for Magic Valley's children — even adult ones — without the annual appearance of Big John Strong's Circus Variety Show.

Considering this year as no exception, the Special Education Parent Group will sponsor two performances to be held at 6 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. June 20 at the O'Leary Junior High Auditorium.

According to circus chairman Dorothy Rideout, the event is the Parent Group's one big fundraiser for the year. She notes that the group raises funds for the Special Olympics as well as field trips and equipment for special children.

Well-known to Magic Valley audiences, the Big John Strong Circus has been touring for 40 years, about half that time making appearances locally. This year's variety show will feature magician/ringmaster Gary Holveck.

Assisted by his wife and son, Holveck is noted for his illusions in which he produces pigeons, rabbits and even St. Bernard dogs. The Holveckes have performed extensively in New York's Off-Broadway theater and for major colleges throughout the U.S.

Also to be seen will be the comedy juggling of Barnaby the Juggler who has been on numerous television specials and has worked at many state and county fairs in the West.

And, of course, there are clowns! Bumbles, the Clown with a Million Friends, promises to show up with his young friend, Sunbeam. Bumbles, a versatile performer, juggler, musician and producing clown is considered by critics as one of the most-outstanding and sought-after clowns in the business today.

Bumbles just completed a performing tour of the major cities of the U.S. and was formerly producer of advance shows for Roller Brothers International Circus.

Adding to the thrills will be gymnastic performances on the German Gym Wheel by Miss Routelle, a former Olympic competitor who has performed in Canada and Mexico as well as throughout this country.

Tickets, available at the door, are $5 adults; $2.50 students.

Gallery displays Ziegler's art

TWIN FALLS — Though Havener's Frames and Gallery has a new name — Larson Arts — and a new location — 132 Main Ave. N. — owners Larry and Maria Larson are continuing their artist of the month series with Beverly Ziegler of Twin Falls featured during June.

Ziegler's display of 20 pieces is composed of oils, watercolors and wall hangings crafted from needle weaving, an off-loom technique. The artist says she was a latecomer to painting, spending her earlier years rearing five children and working part time as a beautician. It wasn't until she was 54 years old that her husband, Bernard, bought her a beginning paint set and she found herself pulled for a new career.

Ziegler, a Pocatello resident at the time, took her first oil painting class at the WYCA Art Gallery there, then expanded her horizons to include watercolor and, later, needle weaving.

After living in Pocatello for nearly three decades, the Zieglers moved to Twin Falls to be close to the Sawtooth Mountains and their children. Her passion for art remains unabated.

"I've stopped and wondered if it was worth it," she says, "but, now I've decided to just relax and enjoy it. I do something with it every day. I'm always sketching, reading about it or painting."

The artist says she paints what she knows, which is mainly Idaho landscapes, or, in the case of one displayed painting, "Doing It The Old Fashioned Way," an Idaho landscape with a real Idaho character out of step with modern society. In that painting, three horses are pulling a combine driven by an old farmer — a scene which she borrowed from a newspaper photograph.

Another painting is "Provo Canyon in Autumn," which is a location where her parents used to have a summer home and which she fondly remembers.

Ziegler says she has no favorite medium, but goes with the mood. She usually has several paintings in the works at any one time, and reserves her needle weaving to early morning and evenings.

Her display can be viewed at Larson's from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday throughout June.

PBS looks at Chinese immigrants

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — The story of Chinese immigrants that is told in the public television drama "Paper Angels" is close to the heart of director John Lone.

"I can feel for these people," said Lone, who came here from Hong Kong. "They came over for a better life. So did I."

"Paper Angels," which PBS will telecast Monday on "American Playhouse," tells of the Chinese detained on Angel Island in San Francisco Bay. Genny Lim adopted the play from her book "Island: Poetry and History of Chinese Immigrants of Angel Island, 1910-40," winner of the 1982 American Book Award.

Lone is best known as an actor. He was the lead in the 1975 film "Hombre" and plays a Chinese businessman in the upcoming movie, "The Year of the Dragon," director Michael Cimino's first film since the disastrous failure, "Heaven's Gate."

 spy novel called "Never Look Back" (St. Martin's, $14.95), was saluted by Publishers Weekly as "an adroitly crafted thriller." His second book will be published next season and a third is under contract.
 In other words, Ridley Pearson has a career going, and he is already viewing it from the long perspective. He speaks of it as restrictive that his publisher will only bring out two of his books a year. Pearson wants to be the author of 20 novels by the time he is 40, which gives him only eight years to do it. With this load of work ahead of him, it is a fortunate circumstance that he lives with his wife in a log-house located in a high mountain valley in Idaho where the distractions are few.
 To all appearances, Pearson has the energy and the rest to carry his daunting program through. Wiry of build and animated in face and manner, he seems boyishly keyed up with the excitement of being Ridley Pearson, author. He even professes to be thrilled to learn that the interviewer who is pitching him questions has also interviewed most of his heroes, masters of the thriller like Ken Follet and John D. MacDonald.

 In his gee-whiz response to this, he appears to forget that one early reviewer has asserted that he, too, is a "masterful storyteller."
 Those heroes, he admits, are also his schoolmasters. "I think," he says, "that I was probably Robert Lydium who gave me my lessons in how to keep the pages turning, and there's no saying what I learned from MacDonald. He is a writer who can give a two-sentence description and plant a character in your brain. Of course in the spy novel, it's Le Carre who is the shining figure."

 The writers he admires are all craftsmen who accept themselves as entertainers. Pearson views himself as an entertainer also, just as he was when he was making music. In those days, he was head of a strange, assorted instrumental group which included a cello, a flute, a couple of acoustic guitars and an electric bass. All of the performers also sang in what Pearson calls "a soft, folk music—vein," which is why their esthetic didn't harmonize with that of the biker who threw the kblife.
 Sometimes the group performed songs composed by their leader. For Pearson, making song lyrics was an early lesson in how to write, since he saw it as the effort to tell a story in two or three dozen lines. His most successful composition was a film score for a documentary called "Cattle Drive," which won a couple of prizes.

 A current frustration is that he is the composer of a symphonic tone poem called "Reunion" which he has never heard other than in his head. This unperformed work is a love letter to his wife, drawing its title from an intuition they shared on first meeting. They felt that somehow, somewhere, they had met before.
 At a pivotal stage in Pearson's earlier career in music, telling a story in 24 lines began to cramp his inspiration. He turned to writing screenplays. It was to collaborate with his brother on a film script that he first moved to Idaho.

 "We had such a beautiful time last year," O'crowley says, noting that the fair enjoyed a good turnout. "We don't ask anybody for a dime and I'm certain the fair helps the economy of this valley a lot."
 More importantly, O'crowley says she would like to see people learn to do more things for themselves by learning from the craftsmen present who work in materials they collect such as wool, clay, herbs, horns and rocks.

 Among those exhibiting will be Fern Porter, a basket maker from Rego, and Artie Adams of Salmon, who will show her woven dolls, and Margaret Sherman of Lowman who does wildlife wood carvings.
 Other exhibits will concern flintknapping, candle making, pine-needle basketry, willow weaving, wooden toys and shami clothing.
 Late entrants are invited to call O'crowley at 738-2637 or Bonnie Porter at 788-9540.

 wrote "This Side of Idylwyll" which was performed in London at the Lyric Theatre in 1933.
 In 1934, Jennings went to Hollywood to write motion picture scripts for Irving Thalberg, the producer at MGM. His first screenplay was "Mutiny on the Bounty" starring Charles Laughton and Clive Brook. Over the next three decades he wrote 19 screenplays which made it to the screen.

Jennings' screen arrangements include "Romeo and Juliet," "The Good Earth," "Northwest Passage" and "The Sons of Katy Elder" among many others.
 Before retiring, he also wrote episodes for several television series including "77 Sunset Strip," "Adventures in Paradise" and "The Alaskans."
 Upon his death, Jennings' family suggested that memorials be made to university libraries in Idaho.

What's what

White rats nap 10 times a day.

Q. Who invented the original one-armed bandit?
A. The famous Liberty Bell nickel slot machine? A German immigrant named Charlie Fey. He sold his first one to a San Francisco saloon keeper in 1895.

Q. Doesn't New York City Mayor Ed Koch periodically read the names of prostitutes' customers over the radio?
A. He tried that just once. "The John Hour." It was called, though it only lasted two minutes. Civil liberty defenders screamed and the notion was scrapped.

Q. Isn't the elephant the only animal that can be taught to stand on its head?
A. Except for man, that's right. A literary team of doctors and lawyers in England has published a manual called "How to Commit Suicide." Buyers must wait three months for delivery.

Q. Never heard of anybody who suffered from "fear of walking, but there is such a dread, evidently. Its technical name: "basiphobia."
A. During the next 60 seconds in this country, the baby changers will lose out 14,000 disposable diapers.

DUCKS

A duck is called a duck because it ducks its head under water, but I don't know about a goose.

When Joe Yule, Jr. got old enough to pick a stage name, he wanted to call himself Mickey McGuire, after a character in the old "Toonerville Trolley" comic strip. But the strip owner said no, and took him to court. So little Joe changed his name to Mickey Rooney. Curious. No doubt Mickey Rooney will be temporary, too, but not as temporary as the Toonerville Trolley, darsay.

Books compete on Utah man's murder

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Jonathan Coleman, an associate producer for CBS News, was on his way home from work one day when he caught a headline that also captured three years of his life.

It was a newspaper story about a Manhattan socialite, and New York City Ballet board member, Frances Schreuder. She had just been charged with murdering her 76-year-old father, one of Utah's wealthiest men, because she feared he would disinherit her.

"I was completely obsessed by it," Coleman said of the Schreuder story, which he has turned into his first book, "At Mother's Request: A True Story of Money, Murder and Betrayal" (Atheneum, $19.95).

Competing with Coleman's work is "Nutcracker" (Doubleday, $17.95), by the Alexander, author of books about Jean Harris, the diet doctor killer, and Patty Hearst, the kidnapper. NBC-Warner is adapting "Nutcracker" for television, and CBS is doing the Coleman book. Paper-back rights for both went for six figures.

The contest between the rival authors to capture the essence of the labyrinthine Schreuder drama, was according to several of the players, a runaway for Coleman's meticulously researched account.

"Jonathan's book is well-organized. I think Shane's book is hit-and-miss and she has exaggerated everything she has written," said Berenice Bradshaw, the 82-year-old widow of the victim who cooperated with both authors.

"I think the Coleman book is exceptionally accurate in its description of events," said New York attorney Michael Rosen, who represented Frances Schreuder at her 1983 trial for first-degree murder, which ended in a guilty verdict after her son, Marc Schreuder, testified she had browbeaten him into gunning down his grandfather, Franklin Bradshaw, in 1978. His will was probated for $10 million, but his estate is estimated at more than $60 million.

"The Alexander book is an attempt to fictionalize the truth to make the story more sensational, more of a novel than a factual account," Rosen said. "She takes too many liberties with her view of the facts."

Ernie Jones, the prosecutor in the trial of both mother and son, considered Coleman's accuracy with Alexander's description of him as being "in his 40s." Jones was 35 when he tried Marc's case in 1982.

Alexander, who was in Africa for two weeks and unavailable for comment, was given access by Doubleday to the notes of Thomas Thompson, author of "Blood and Money." Thompson had planned a Schreuder book and had interviewed Jones and others while covering Marc Schreuder's trial just months before the writer's death from cancer in the fall of 1983.

Coleman, a former book editor, quit his job at CBS to research and write his book, which is based on interviews with more than 250 people and on dozens of letters written by members of the Bradshaw and Schreuder families.

Yet Coleman had no formal interviews with Marc or Frances Schreuder, both of whom are in Utah State Prison. She was given a life sentence and he is serving life to life on the murder charge and another six for a firearms charge.

Frances Schreuder spoke with Alexander, and Doubleday paid for the author's exclusive right to interview Marc in prison and for tapes he had made about his early childhood. "I had hoped that Alexander and Doubleday wouldn't cave in," Coleman said. He is convinced Marc would have agreed to interviews with both authors if no such deal had been made.

Neither Doubleday nor Marc Schreuder's attorney, Joe Tesch, would say how much was paid for the material. However, Bradshaw said in an interview that her grandson told her he and Tesch each received $5,000.

Not everyone who has read Coleman's book agrees with his conclusions. Ron Yenglich, attorney for both Bradshaw and her daughter, said that while Coleman "did a pretty thorough job, to a point," his suggestion that Bradshaw may have known beforehand or approved of the plot to kill her husband "is just total garbage."

Cosby leads NBC to ratings victory

By JERRY BUICK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Bill Cosby ratings juggernaut steamed over the opposition as it carried NBC to a victory in the Nielsen ratings for the week ended June 9.

"Cosby Show" was first again, and two of NBC's other Thursday night shows were in the Top 10. In all, NBC had six shows in the Top 10 and second place CBS had four.

Third-place ABC was virtually out of the running. Its highest-ranked show was "Who's the Boss?," which tied for 20th place.

NBC was first the previous week, second and CBS third. The network also won the May sweeps, one of the periods when the nation's television stations are closely monitored to determine advertising rates.

The pro basketball championship finals on CBS took two places at the top of the ratings. Game four last Wednesday was in a three-way tie for sixth place. Game five on Friday was 18th. The Sunday wrap-up game inwhich the Los Angeles Lakers triumphed over the Boston Celtics four games to two was not in prime time.

NBC won the week with a network average of 13.9 in the A.C. Nielsen Co. survey. CBS was second with 13.0 and ABC was third with 9.8. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 13.9 percent of the nation's TV homes were tuned to NBC.

ABC said a portion of the audience for the week was siphoned off by the non-network broadcast of the Billy Graham Crusade. It said ABC and CBS were affected from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, all three networks from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Friday, and CBS from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday.

All the network averages were down from the previous week, but viewing traditionally falls off during the summer months.

Here are the Top 10: "The Cosby Show," NBC, first; "Family Ties," NBC, second; "Miami Vice," NBC, third; "Remington Steele," NBC, fourth; "Simon & Simon," CBS, fifth; NBA finals Game No. 4, CBS, "Dirty Work" on CBS, and "Cheers" on NBC, three-way tie for sixth; "Riptide," NBC, ninth; "Kate & Allie," CBS, 10th.

CBS was first again among the evening news shows, NBC was second and ABC was third. The ratings: CBS 10.7, NBC 9.5, ABC 9.4.

'T.J. Hooker' up against Carson

LOS ANGELES (AP) "T.J. Hooker" isn't retiring from television, he's merely going to the lobster shift.

"Hooker," dropped by ABC after three years, has been picked by CBS for late-night showing against Johnny Carson and "The Tonight Show" on NBC. CBS ordered 17 episodes of the new police series called "Night Heat" on Thursdays in late night.

William Shatner stars in the title role as police officer T.J. Hooker. It also stars Adrian Zmed, Heather Locklear and James Darren. In January CBS premiered a new police series called "Night Heat" on Thursdays in late night.

Tartikoff predicts tight race

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brandon Tartikoff played it for laughs by suggesting that surging NBC would be No. 1 by Christmas, but the network's programming chief says he is counting on Steven Spielberg and four old ladies from Miami Beach to put the heat on top-rated CBS.

"Next season could be a season of opportunity, and we don't want to blow it," Tartikoff said Wednesday.

Asked to predict next season's prime-time outcome, Tartikoff joked, "No. 1 by Christmas," then he slapped himself in the face. The gag parodied former NBC President Fred Silverman's unattained boast in 1980 that third-rated NBC would hit the top by Christmas of that year.

In fact, NBC, after 10 consecutive years in the cellar, didn't climb into second place until the just-finished 1984-85 season. NBC has won only one prime-time campaign, 1970-71.

Tartikoff, speaking to TV reporters at a news conference here, said NBC is counting on big performances from Spielberg's new Sunday night anthology series, "Amazing Stories," and the Saturday night comedy, "Golden Girls," starring Bea Arthur, Betty White, Rue McClanahan and Estelle Getty.

"Golden Girls," about four widowed and divorced women sharing an apartment in Miami Beach, has been dubbed "Miami Nice" by NBC.

When the laughter from his Christmas joke died down, Tartikoff said NBC would be nipping at the heels of CBS, which has won six straight prime-time seasons.

"I think it's going to be real competitive," said Tartikoff. "We're going out to win. Vacations have been delayed... I think we'll give them a real big fight and I think, as the season wears on, given that our shows are younger, that our shows will wear better."

Kurtis leaves AM program

By JOHN CARMODY
The Washington Post

PHOENIX — As expected, CBS News president Ed Joyce announced last Friday that "CBS Morning News" co-anchor Bill Kurtis will be leaving the show as of today.

He said Kurtis was still "currently in negotiations" with WBBM, the CBS-owned station in Chicago, where he would return as evening anchor after a three-year absence, while also doing "a couple of documentaries and some prime-time news breaks out of Chicago" when and if the signs.

Joyce said there were "a number of candidates to replace Bill" and that CBS "will consider some from outside the network.... Meanwhile, national correspondent Bob Schieffler will join co-anchor Phyllis George on the morning show for "a number of months" as the search goes on.

Joyce also said that "Morning News" executive producer Jon Katz — despite reports he was on the way out — "is a very real candidate for staying right where he is. I'll talk to him next week."

Joyce stressed that Katz had worked himself into a frazzle in recent weeks, requiring hospitalization when he couldn't shake a bad chest condition.

Joyce said it was "terribly unfair" to blame Kurtis for "CBS Morning News'" continued ratings woes.

He pointed out that the program rose from an average 1.9 Nielsen rating to a 3.3 during Kurtis' tour on the show.

In last week's morning news ratings, ABC's "GMA" and NBC's "Today" show were tied for first place with a 4.6 Nielsen count and a 23 percent audience share.

Young man on the way up

Times-News staff writer Flynn McRoberts (18), an award-winning high school journalist bound for Northwestern University, will be featured in Sunday's Family Weekly Magazine.

McRoberts won third place in the magazine's first annual national high school journalism competition.

Family Weekly is circulated in 363 newspapers nationwide, with a combined circulation of 12,800,000.

Flynn, who graduated as a valedictorian from Twin Falls High last week, was one of 400 high school students nationwide who submitted 1,000-word articles published in their school newspapers. Winners were judged on general excellence in style, content, originality and reporting. Flynn's winning entry, "Booze Tap Turning to 21?" focused on the proposed Idaho state legislation to raise the drinking age. It was peppered with quotations from Idaho legislators, and Flynn's own insightful reporting.

McRoberts has reported for the Times-News since June 1984 in addition to his high school activities, including editing the Twin Falls High student newspaper, the Bruin News, and taking part in golf and cross country. He was named the National High School Journalist of the Year for 1985 by the Journalism Education Association. He was also the Idaho High School Journalist of the Year.

In addition, Flynn has won a number of high school writing awards and took a second-place prize for sports feature writing in the Society of Professional Journalists' Inland Empire Chapter press contest for his work on a special section published by The Times-News last year on Idaho's Olympians.

We're proud of Flynn and his accomplishments.

Double eagle propels Chen into Open lead

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Tze-Chung Chen of Taiwan said he had one major goal when he set out Thursday in the first round of his first U.S. Open Golf Championship. "I thought before I started, just don't shoot an 80 today," the slender 25-year-old said. He smiled and added: "The double eagle helped."

It also propelled Chen to a spectacular 5-under-par 65, provided him with a one-shot lead in the 35th Open and put his name in the record books. Chen, who plays the American PGA Tour on a regular basis, hit a three-wood second shot into the cup on the 227-yard, par-3 second hole for the first double eagle in the history of the Open.

"The ball went straight to the pin. I thought it was pretty close, but I never thought it went in," Chen said. "When I walked up on the green, they told me the ball was in the hole. "I felt great and was so surprised because it never happened before."

Chen, who joined the American tour two years ago but was making his first appearance in the U.S. Open, was not through with his dramatics, however. One of the last in the field of 156 playing the Oakland Hills Country Club course, he put on a birdie-birdie finish late on a gray, chilly, sometimes stormy afternoon to wrest the lead from Fred Couples.

The low-key Couples used his length off the tee to advantage in compiling a 4-under-par 66 and admitted he was "fairly excited" about taking a lead which he tested only until Chen's dramatic finish.

Chen, who has yet to win in the United States, won both the Korean and Japanese Opens earlier this year and has three other victories in Asia.

Tze-Chung Chen of Taipei gets it up and down out of a sand trap

Following the double eagle, Chen birdied the par-3 third with a three-iron shot to four feet, completing a 22 birdie that propelled him about 300 yards from the clubhouse. He birdied the 12th from about 12 feet, then dropped a shot with a three-putt bogey on the 13th and another on the 15th after a drive that caught the rough. That dropped him one back of Couples, who had finished play.

But Chen caught him with another three-iron shot and a six-foot birdie putt on the 17th and took the lead with a four-iron that covered the flag and set up a putt of about four feet on the final hole.

Defending title-holder Fuzzy Zoeller had a 71 despite a ball in the water on the 16th and "a little problem with the hip; nothing major."

Hey, Randy! Wanna play the Open in an hour

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Randy Erskine thought he was dreaming when his phone rang at 6:40 a.m. Thursday.

The voice on the other end of the line was telling the 35-year-old club pro from Washtenaw that he could play in the U.S. Open — if he could be on the first tee at the Oakland Hills Country Club — 36 miles away — in less than an hour.

"I'll be there!" Erskine shouted. Erskine's wife, Judy, turned to their daughter, Kelly, and said: "Honey, go get daddy the Fuzz Buster."

And the race was on.

What followed was a scene out of a B-movie.

Erskine jumped into his clothes and drove a borrowed Cadillac to the Washtenaw Country Club pro shop to pick up his golf clubs and shoes.

"The car has one of those digital speedometers that only goes up to 85 mph," Erskine said. "After that, the light just goes on and off. Well, that thing beeped the whole way here."

He drove almost three miles along the shoulder of the freeway past a large traffic snarl, and slipped on his golf spikes while waiting at a traffic light near the course.

If he'd been stopped by the police, Erskine said, he figured he'd have asked them to escort him the rest of the way.

"It was a hair-raising experience," Erskine said. "But I'll tell you what, I'd do it again."

Erskine said he expected to be late and figured he'd take a 2-stroke penalty and catch his group somewhere on the first fairway. But he arrived with about four minutes to spare and, helped by an eagle-2 on No. 14, shot a 6-over-par 76 on the 6,996-yard, par-70 South Course — not great, but well within range of making the cut Friday.

"My 76 was really sloppy," Erskine moaned. "I've actually been playing better than that. I can't make the cut, both for Bob Tway and for myself."

Erskine made the field because Tway, from Edmond, Okla., was ill and had to withdraw. Two other golfers who finished ahead of Erskine in qualifying play couldn't be reached by the U.S. Golf Association.

"I didn't know if I'd ever play in an Open. I hadn't planned on attempting to qualify anymore. I only tried for this one because it was in Michigan."

As for his round, "I was never, ever, nervous, but my body chemistry was going so fast I could hardly control it. In the car, I shut the radio off, then I turned it back on to some soft music. Nothing helped."

"I three-putted the first hole from 40 feet for a bogey, then had to get down from 25 feet at No. 2 to save par, which I somehow managed to do."

Erskine, a native of Battle Creek who was a two-time All-American and captain of the University of Michigan golf team, played Oakland Hills during the 1979 PGA Championship and missed the cut by two strokes. He quit the PGA Tour after that season.

He figures he's played the course only once since then.

"I had no idea what the greens would do," he said. "Not a clue."

After talking with reporters, Erskine said, "I've got to go take a shower now. I've never gone to work a day in my life without taking a shower."

Weaver regains reins of faltering Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl Weaver, the fiery spirit of the Baltimore Orioles during 14½ years that included four trips to the World Series, returned as manager of the American League club Thursday as a replacement for Joe Altobelli.

Weaver, who had turned down numerous job offers since retiring at the end of the 1982 season, agreed to handle the club through the remainder of the season, after which the situation will be reviewed.

"I think he came back out of loyalty to this organization," said team owner Edward Bennett Williams, who described his dismissal of Altobelli as a "painful experience."

Weaver was not on hand for the announcement at an afternoon news conference, which ended 48 hours of speculation about the fate of Altobelli, and a prior commitment kept the new skipper out of the dugout for Thursday night's game against the Milwaukee Brewers.

Third base coach Cal Ripken Sr., considered the possible successor to Altobelli when the firing rumors started on Tuesday, managed the club in Weaver's absence.

Altobelli, who was besieged by questions while the club was in Detroit on Wednesday, was angry during an appearance at Memorial Stadium Thursday morning.

"I thought this was a class operation, but I guess I was sadly mistaken," Altobelli said as he walked to the clubhouse to clear out his office.

Altobelli, who said he was told by general manager Hank Peters in a Wednesday telephone conversation to "hang tough," said he came to the stadium looking for Peters.

But Peters already had departed for Williams' law office in Washington, D.C., to continue negotiations with Weaver. That further infuriated Altobelli.

Walking along the hallway of the club's new offices, Altobelli paused at each door and asked, "Does anybody know if I've been fired?"

At the news conference, Williams said he would not apologize for the way the situation was handled, explaining that he wanted to break the news to Altobelli face-to-face.

Players view all-star boycott as option

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of the baseball players' union refused Thursday to rule out the possibility of the players taking some action before the All-Star Game in their contract dispute with the club owners.

Donald Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said the union's executive board would meet between the end of this month and July 16 to consider a strike date.

Asked if that meant there would be no action before the All-Star Game, scheduled for July 16 in Minneapolis, Fehr said, "Oh, no, you can't make that assumption."

A strike was authorized by the board last month, and is being overwhelmingly supported in votes by teams in both leagues, according to the union.

Fehr said only five teams had yet to vote — Oakland, Cleveland and Detroit in the American League and Montreal and Pittsburgh in the National League. He said he would brief the National League's owners on Friday in Cleveland on the status of negotiations and the poll the players. He planned to meet with the other teams next week.

A boycott of the All-Star Game is "one of the options" the union has discussed, according to Fehr. The union has said the players are under no contractual obligation to play in that game.

The next negotiating session is scheduled for next Tuesday. Wednesday's session ended with both sides agreeing there had been no progress.

Fehr characterized the talks as going backward after Wednesday's session.

The owners earlier presented a contract proposal with a modified salary cap, similar to one in the National Basketball Association. The union rejected the plan, saying it would infringe upon the players' free-agent rights.

Originally, the owners' proposal said teams could resign their own free agents no matter how high that pushed their payroll above the cap. But on Wednesday, they modified that plan to say that re-signings could raise payroll totals no more than 20 percent over the average level for all teams.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen basketball teams, including NCAA semifinalist St. John's University, were chosen Thursday to play in the first Big Apple National Invitation Tournament at four sites Nov. 22 and 24.

"The four regional winners will advance to the semifinals at Madison Square Garden Nov. 22. The championship is set for Dec. 1 at the Garden."

The pairings, sites, and 1984-85 records:

St. John's, 31-4, vs. Navy, 26-6, and Auburn, 22-12, vs. West Virginia, 20-6, at the Hartford (Conn.) Civic Center; Tulsa, 23-8, vs. Dayton, 19-9, and Louisville, 19-16, vs. Miami (Ohio), 20-11, at Cincinnati Riverfront Coliseum;

Texas A&M, 19-11, vs. Alabama-Birmingham, 25-9, and Duke, 23-8, vs. Lamar, 20-12, at The Summit, Houston;

Washington, 22-10, vs. Texas-El Paso, 22-10, and Kansas, 26-8, vs. Pepperdine, 23-9, at McNichols Arena, Denver.

In making the announcement, Peter A. Carlesimo, the tournament director, said teams committed to Texas, Alaska Shootout, Rainbow Classic and Hall of Fame Tip-Off Classic at Springfield, Mass., were not eligible under an agreement with the NCAA.

"We feel we have many of the top 20 teams in the country, some in the top three or four," Carlesimo said. "We expect this tournament to be around for many years."

Carlesimo said the projected top six teams in the Big Ten Conference were approached for participation in Big Apple tourney but all declined because of scheduling conflicts or participation in the other tourneys.

He said the Big Ten schools indicated they would be willing to participate in the years to come.

Madison Square Garden announced it has reached a multi-year agreement to stage the semifinal and championship rounds.

Under the Big Apple setup, a team is eligible to play once every four years, and only one team is liked per conference each season. Like the Alaska Shootout and the Rainbow, the Big Apple games do not count against the schools' 27-game limit.

All the Big Apple games will be held at night, thus avoiding Sunday conflicts with National Football League games.

Mizlou is handling television syndication.

The postseason NIT, which gets the leftover teams from the NCAA tournament selections, will be held in 1986, Carlesimo said.

Walking along the hallway of the club's new offices, Altobelli paused at each door and asked, "Does anybody know if I've been fired?"

Reds humiliate Braves in seven-run 11th inning

By The Associated Press

Eddie Milner singled in the tie-breaking run to ignite a seven-run rally in the 11th inning Thursday night as the Cincinnati Reds pounded the Atlanta Braves 9-2.

Dave Concepcion, who earlier had extended his hitting streak to 14 games, started the onslaught with a single to left off Gene Garber, 1-0, moved to second on a sacrifice by Gary Redus and scored when Milner lined his game-winner to left-center.

After Milner's tie-breaking single, the Reds added six runs on RBI singles by Dave Van Gorder, Ron Oester and Franco, his first major league hit, a bases-loaded walk to Nick Esasky and a two-run single by Redus.

Cards 2, Pirates 1
Frank Clark hit his 18th home run of the season and Tito Landrum doubled home a run to lead John Tudor and the St. Louis Cardinals, who got only those two hits, to a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Clark led off the second inning with a homer into the left field seats against Larry McWilliams, 3-5. Tom Herr walked in the seventh, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on Landrum's hit into the right-center field gap.

Tudor, 47, who scattered six hits, gave up a home run to Jason Thompson with one out in the seventh. It was Thompson's eighth homer of the season and only his second against a left-handed pitcher in two seasons. Tudor struck out four and walked three.

Phils 5, Mets 4
Outfielder Glenn Wilson's two-run, eighth-inning homer rallied the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets.

Von Hayes walked with one out in the eighth and after Mike

Major leagues

Schmidt struck out, Wilson hit his seventh home run of the season over the center field fence off reliever Jesse Orosco. It was the first home run that Orosco, 1-3, has given up since Orosco. Wilson has driven in 14 runs in the last five games.

Expos 9, Cubs 7
Bryn Smith and Hubie Brooks had two hits each and drove in two runs apiece to lead the Montreal Expos to a 9-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Tim Raines had three hits and scored two runs for Montreal, as the Expos managed a split of the four-game series with Chicago and closed to within two games of the Cubs in the National League East.

Orioles 8, Brewers 3
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, who earlier in the day retired manager Earl Weaver to replace the fired Joe Altobelli, broke a five-game losing streak as Fred Lynn's two-run homer capped a four-run rally in the fourth inning that helped beat the Milwaukee Brewers 8-3.

Weaver ended 24 years of retirement to rejoin his old team, but a prior personal commitment kept him away from the park and third base coach Cal Ripken Sr. banded the club.

With Milwaukee ahead 2-1, Lee Lacy launched Baltimore's go-ahead rally with a double and Jim Dwyer was hit by a pitch.

Cal Ripken Jr. doubled home Lacy, and Eddie Murray's sacrifice fly tied the score.

Lynn then snapped an 8-for-44 slump by driving a pitch from Ray Burns, 9-5, high off the right-field foul pole for his 10th homer of the season.

Red Sox 8, Jays 7
Rich Gedman's two-run double keyed a four-run rally in the seventh inning that lifted the Boston Red Sox over the Toronto Blue Jays 8-7.

The Red Sox battered five Toronto pitchers, including relief ace Gary Lavetta, 2-1, and Bill Caudill, for 14 hits and overcame a 6-3 deficit after 4 1/2 innings for their 10th victory in 11 games and 12 in the last 15.

Toronto mauled Boston starter Bruce Kison for six runs on 10 hits and three walks in a 4-2 1/2-inning disaster being tanked by rookie Mike Trujillo and Bob Stanley. Trujillo, 1-1, allowed three hits in 2 1/3 innings and collected his first major league victory as Stanley protected the lead in the last two innings for his eighth save.

The save was the 105th of Stanley's career, surpassing the previous team record of 104 held by Dick Radatz.

Twins 7, Rangers 5
Kirby Puckett, who homered earlier in the game, doubled to key a three-run Minnesota rally in the sixth inning as the Minnesota Twins defeated the Texas Rangers 7-5.

Minnesota's sixth-inning rally came with two outs and broke a 4-4 tie. Greg Gagne, Dave Meler and Tim Laudner hit consecutive singles off Frank Tanana, 1-7, to put the Twins ahead. Puckett then hit an RBI double, and Laudner scored from first on the play when Texas catcher Don Slaught dropped the ball for an error.

Valley Legion invades Jerome

JEROME — The Jerome and Valley Legion teams will square off in a single game at 6:30 p.m. today.

Jerome comes into the battle having split a double-header with Pocatello B. Wednesday night. Pocatello won the first game 7-6 with Jerome rebounding to win 11-7 in the nightcap.

Valley, getting five-RBI hitting from Jeff Henry, outlasted Wood River 15-13 Wednesday. Valley follows up its game with Jerome tonight by hosting Maled in a single game at 4 p.m. Sunday in Eden.

Boys baseball sets local stop

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Boys-Baseball Association will host the first in a string of All-star tournaments June 21-23 at Harmon Park.

Squads participating in the tournament are All-star traveling teams, ages 11-12, from around southern Idaho.

The association, which currently has commitments from Caldwell, Jerome, Rupert and Mountain Home crews, hopes to draw around 20 teams to the round-robin event, said association secretary Barbara Ames.

Ames said the next tournament is scheduled for Caldwell near Fourth of July weekend.

Britons want soccer ban lifted

LONDON (AP) — The Football Association said Thursday it will ask the International Football Federation, FIFA, to reinstate the worldwide ban on English professional club teams.

FA secretary Ted Croker said the ban — imposed in the wake of the Brussels tragedy May 29 in which 38 people died after rioting between fans from the English club Liverpool and Juventus, of Italy — was an over-reaction.

He said the FA would take FIFA (the Federation of International Football Associations) to an independent tribunal if necessary.

Holmes-Bruno bout pushed

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, boxing consultant for the American television network NBC, says he wants British heavyweight Frank Bruno to fight world champion Larry Holmes for the title in September.

Pacheco said Thursday he plans to bring Holmes to London to watch Bruno challenge Anders Eklund for the European title June 25 at Wembley Arena.

"I think Bruno is ready for a title fight, provided he does well against Eklund," Pacheco said.

"He is Larry Holmes's primary target — the No. 1 choice. If he gains the title, I think it would give him a great kick in the pants," Holmes, who is 48-0 and regarded as champion by the International Boxing Federation, is talking about fighting Michael Spinks, the undisputed light heavyweight champion, in August in a bid to tie Rocky Marciano's record.

Lakers divvy up playoff spoils

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Members of the Los Angeles Lakers have voted to divide their National Basketball Association playoff pool into 134 shares, it was announced Thursday.

Twelve Laker players and trainer Gary Vitti will each receive a full share of $4,359.52, with Chuck Nevitt, a 7-foot-5 center who was out of the roster during the playoffs, receiving a quarter share.

Players receiving full shares were team captain Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Most Valuable Player in the Championship Series, James Worthy, Kurt Rambis, Earvin "Magic" Johnson, Byron Scott, Michael Cooper, Mike McGee, Larry Spriggs, Mitch Kupchak, Bob McAdoo, Ronnie Lester and Jamaal Wilkes.

Johnson put on U.S. ski team

PARK CITY, Utah (AP) — Bill Johnson, the Olympic gold medalist who has vowed to quit amateur athletics and turn professional, has been named to the U.S. Ski Team he rejected more than a month ago.

"The fact remains that his downhill points and results still qualified him for the A team," team spokesman John Dakin said Thursday.

The ski team, which released its 1986 national squad this week, is chosen solely on the merits of individual performances, Dakin said.

As yet, he said, U.S. Ski Team officials have not received written notice from Johnson that he plans to resign.

Johnson, who competed in the 1984 Winter Olympics and won the United States' first Olympic skiing gold medal, said earlier he is fed up with amateur racing and will turn professional.

Porsche holds pole at Le Mans

LE MANS, France (AP) — The German Porsche team held on to the psychologically important pole position through the final, accident-strewn qualifying session Thursday for the Le Mans 24 Hour auto racing classic.

The four-hour second qualifying session was interrupted for more than two hours for track repairs after two cars collided and crashed off the track at around 10 p.m. on the Mulsanne straight.

But British driver Dudley Wood in a private Porsche 956 edged out with only a scratched fender, while Swiss J-P Frey was completely unharmed in his Alfa Romeo. Both cars appeared to be too badly damaged to be repaired in time for Saturday's start of the 53rd 24 Hour race.

McTear tries sprint comeback

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One-time world-class sprinter Houston McTear, whose career spiraled down through drug, financial and marital problems, is trying to get back in the past and make one more run at the Olympics.

McTear, who surprised the track world 10 years ago by tying the world record in the 100-yard dash while in high school, said last summer's Olympic Games helped spur him back into high gear.

USOC must pick favorite from 4 cities

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — On Saturday in Indianapolis, the U.S. Olympic Committee will have the unprecedented task of choosing from among four American cities which have bid for the 1992 Winter Games.

Such enthusiasm for hosting the Games would have been unthinkable in the mid-1970s, when budgetary concerns outweighed those who preached the gospel of the Olympic spirit. Colorado voters turned down the awarding of the 1976 Winter Games to Denver when it became apparent that the Games would be too costly to stage and citizens would be left to foot the bill. Huge budget deficits loomed over the 1976 Summer Games in Montreal.

"After the Montreal deficits, there was little or no interest worldwide in hosting the Games," noted F. Don Miller, executive director of the USOC for 12 years before retiring in February.

The U.S. cities bidding for the Winter Games are Anchorage, Alaska; Lake Placid, N.Y.; Salt Lake City; and Reno-Tahoe, Nev.

Despite boycotts at both the 1980 and 1984 Summer Games, the Olympic movement — once administered last rites because of the twin ravages of money and politics — suddenly finds itself alive and well.

Besides the four U.S. bidders, there are numerous other cities around the world interested in being the site of the 1992 Winter Games, and at least five cities have made bids to host the 1992 Summer Games. No U.S. cities have bid for the '92 Summer Games because of the proximity to '84 Games in Los Angeles.

Why the renewed interest in putting on such a complex, costly event?

"We've never, ever, had so many cities bid for a single Olympics," said Bob Paul, who headed a USOC delegation that visited the four U.S. cities. "And any one of the four is capable of putting on — a first-rate — Olympics. There are no second-rate bids."

Pro czars like antitrust bill

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — To Lanny Wadkins, a par on No. 18 was as good as a birdie — and a birdie on No. 9 was as good as an eagle Thursday in the U.S. Open golf tournament.

"The way the wind was blowing on there, and the severity of the pins, par is probably 72 today," he said of the South Course at the Oakland Hills Country Club. "It's a bear out there."

Wadkins, one of the day's earlier starters, was the first to conquer the wind and finish the opening round at par-70. "I hope it keeps blowing, now that I'm sitting in here," he told a news conference.

It did — and it rained briefly as well — but a handful of players joined him at par or better on what was supposed to be a brutal layout.

Asked whether he thought Oakland Hills was "fair," the 35-year-old Wadkins replied: "I never worry about whether the course is fair or unfair because everybody's got to play it, regardless of what it is."

"I just try and play what's there. I like the course. It's very, very difficult, and the more difficult the course, the more people you're going to eliminate."

For him, the key to success, he said, was "patience off the tees — and patience on the greens."

On No. 9, he buried his first shot, a four-wood in the right bunker. He said he didn't think he'd be able to blast out. But his second shot, to the far fringe, rolled back down, stopping three feet from the pin, and he saved par.

"I consider it a bird," Wadkins said. "It's one of the best bunker shots I've ever played."

It's been an excellent year for Wadkins, a native of Richmond, Va., who now lives in Dallas. His $308,036 in PGA Tour earnings this year is second only to Curtis Strange's $423,993.

He started out with a win and a $90,000 paycheck Jan. 13 in the Bob Hope Classic. After pocketing $10,350 the following week in the Phoenix Open, he won the Los Angeles Open Jan. 27 and a $72,000 check. Three weeks ago he finished one stroke behind winner Hale Irwin in the Memorial and banked $60,000.

Wadkins also earned $1,500 in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, $12,520 at the USF&G Classic, $15,133 at the MONY Tournament of Champions and $16,225 at the Kemper Open; and a couple of $9,000-plus checks elsewhere.

"I think this renewed interest is due mainly to television rights. You can't take in enough revenue from ticket sales and sponsorship to cover the cost of putting on the Games, so TV revenue is vital."

ABC will pay $309 million for the exclusive broadcast rights to the 1988 Winter Games in Calgary.

"The success of the Games in Los Angeles last summer also is a major factor in this," said Paul, special assistant to the USOC secretary general. "Los Angeles showed that if the Games are conducted in a businesslike manner, they can be profitable," said Miller, the new president of the Olympic Foundation. "That opened a lot of eyes."

The Los Angeles Games, benefiting from significant corporate backing, not only were conducted without taxpayer cost, but they generated a surplus of more than $215 million.

Thomas prefers to fight Holmes

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Pinklon Thomas, the ex-hero addict who owns part of the world heavyweight title, can't stop talking about Larry Holmes — even as he prepares for the first defense of his crown Saturday against Mike Weaver.

Thomas, whose World Boxing Council title represents only one-third of the heavyweight crown, says he has changed his opinion of Holmes since winning the title last August against Tim Witherspoon.

"I feel he's a fraud, a link, a peanut-head contender who is out ripping people off for their money," said the normally soft-spoken Thomas.

The outburst was in sharp contrast to Thomas' comments following the Witherspoon fight that the undefeated Holmes was the only true heavyweight champion in the eyes of boxing fans.

Now Thomas believes it is he, not Holmes or World Boxing Association champion Tony Tubbs, who reigns superior in the division.

"As far as I'm concerned, I hate that I made that statement," said Thomas, who lives in Philadelphia. "The purpose was I felt the people would recognize Larry Holmes as the champion. But the people also have to realize that Larry Holmes has been busy but hasn't been fighting real contenders."

Thomas will have a real contender in front of him Saturday in the form of Weaver, a former WBA champion who is top-ranked by both the WBA and WBC.

"I'm fighting the No. 1 contender. This is like the public needs to see," said Thomas. "It's not like Larry Holmes is doing. He's picking hand-picked opponents and calling them contenders."

Thomas, who has not fought since the Aug. 31 bout against Witherspoon, says constant training has helped him add two inches to his biceps and more than an inch to his neck.

Knows mainly for a quick, flicking left-jab that keeps opponents at bay, Thomas said the added bulk has helped him become more of an all-around fighter who can slug as well as box.

"I think I've created a little more power, a little more snap in my punch," he said.

The added punch might be necessary against Weaver, a muscular fighter who packs a heavy wallop himself.

"He possesses good power, I understand, but he's never hit me with it," said Thomas. "It's not disrespect, I just don't feel it can be beat. I don't care what Mike throws. He's got to hit me with it."

The 27-year-old Thomas, who has only one draw to mar an otherwise perfect 26-fight career, says he expects little finesse from Weaver, who held the WBA title for nearly three years before suffering a controversial first-round knockout at the hands of Michael Dokes in December 1982. The fight is scheduled for 12 rounds, but Thomas doesn't expect it to go that far.

"I anticipate Mike trying to start a tumble, and that's what he wants to do, then we'll do it," he said. "I know Mike is hungry, but I'm going to lay him out to rest and end his career."

Women's slowpitch meet set

TWIN FALLS — Harmon Park will be hosting squads from across southern Idaho this weekend as the Pickett's First Annual Women's B Tournament gets under way Saturday morning.

Twelve teams from Twin Falls, Rexburg, Rupert, Jerome, Filer, Buhl and Caldwell will converge here beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday. Games are slated to continue throughout the day with the final contest at 8 p.m. Play will resume Tuesday at 8 a.m. with the championship game expected to begin either at 4 or 5:15 p.m.

Mini-Casas Merchants of Rupert and Curley comes in as the favored team after winning last weekend's Jerome B-C Invitational Slowpitch Tournament. The Merchants will most likely pose a similar threat this weekend, on the wings of heavy hitting by Kris Frost and Rose Stuart, who led the Jerome event in batting.

Also seeded high are The Jazz of Caldwell, the fourth-place squad in this event last year, and Sutton's from Rexburg. Sutton's received its placing due to its long driving distance, said tournament organizer Nancy McNew.

"All of the teams are pretty well evenly matched," McNew added. "It should be a pretty good tournament."

Action will take place on diamonds 1, 2 and 3 at Harmon, while a luncheon is set for Saturday afternoon at The Pickett, the tournament's sponsor for the first time. Donations for the event also came from Donnelly's, Sherwood's and Mason's Trophies.

Welty, Miller sign with Idaho St.

POCATELLO — The heart of Twin Falls' girls track squad this past season and one of the state's top female sprinters have signed letters of intent with Idaho State University, Glenn Allford, ISU sports information director, announced this week.

Recent Twin Falls graduates Amber Welty and Mallin Miller have joined the Bengals along with Bonneville High's Kathy Havens. Welty captured the high jump crown at last month's Idaho State Track and Field Championships with a record Class A-1 jump of 5-foot-7 1/2, while Miller took the long jump title for the second year in a row at 18-3.

Havens grabbed the "triple crown" at the state event by winning the 100-, 200- and 400-meter sprints. As a junior, she took second at state in the 200 fourth in the 400 and anchored the 4 x 200 first-place relay team, Allford said.

"These are three of the best, if not the three best, female high school track athletes in Idaho," said Dave Nielsen, ISU's head girls track coach, in a press release.

Nielsen said of Welty, "Right now she could score for us in the high jump and heptathlon, and after further development, 'I see her as being a good high hurdler and in another few years a long hurdler — she doesn't have the endurance for that now," he said. "She is potentially a Mountain West Conference champion in several events."

Aside from considering her on his short relay teams, Nielsen said Miller "is consistently over 16 feet in the long jump. She will triple jump here — her sister Macie (who competed for College of Southern Idaho the past two years) is a 38-foot triple jumper and Mallin has more speed than her sister."

Drug bill draws fire from pros

BOSTON (AP) — Executives from professional sports teams on Thursday questioned the constitutionality of a legislative measure that would ban professional athletes convicted of a drug-related felony from competing in Massachusetts for five years.

The bill received initial approval Wednesday by the Massachusetts House on a voice vote with no debate. It must clear numerous legislative hurdles before going to Gov. Michael S. Dukakis for his consideration.

Lou Gorman, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, said he wanted to study the bill before passing judgment. But he predicted strong opposition from the Major League Baseball Players' Association and questioned whether the government should take such sanctions against private employees.

"Let's say hypothetically you got arrested from a drug thing and went to rehabilitate yourself. You went back to your job and they said, 'No, you can't go back for five or 10 years.' Would that be violating your rights as a citizen?"

"I'd want to see the whole bill and ask our attorneys' opinion. ... Are they violating the individual rights of those players by prohibiting them from performing at their jobs? I don't know," he said.

The bill, proposed by Rep. Michael Ruane, D-Salem, would ban convicted professional athletes from participating as contestants, trainers, coaches or managers for five years from the date of conviction.

If the bill becomes law, several members of the Kansas City Royals baseball team and about a dozen other professional athletes in various sports could be banned from working in Massachusetts.

"I know that there may be constitutional problems with the bill, but we've got to do something about some high-priced, pampered athletes who cheat the fans while they are ruining their lives with drugs," Ruane said.

Athletes may keep trial gate

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The executive director of The Athletics Congress, the governing body for track and field in the United States, confirmed Thursday that TAC was considering excluding the U.S. Olympic Committee from all profits at the 1988 Olympic Trials.

But Olan Cassell added, "We are a long way from doing it ... from making that kind of decision."

TAC's reason for attempting to break with the USOC, which by federal law controls amateur sports in the United States, stems from the distribution of profits from the 1984 Los Angeles Games.

TAC will receive about $1.3 million in Olympic profits, the amount designated to the USOC, which by federal law controls amateur sports in the United States, stems from the distribution of profits from the 1984 Los Angeles Games.

Track, the blue ribbon sport of the Games, and gymnastics, which produced the most celebrated performer of the Olympics in Mary Lou Retton, each generated an estimated $40 million in revenues from the Games.

Since then, track and field officials and athletes have said publicly they feel their sport should be entitled to more money than some of the other sports.

The gymnastics federation, however, appears satisfied with its share.

"I think that's great (the $1.3 million), because that's how we decided to do it in the three years ago," Michael Jacki, executive director of the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, was quoted as saying in USA Today.

Cassell and others in track and field are not as agreeable.

"We need to be able to do our own Olympic Trials with all the revenues going to TAC," Cassell said. Presently, the USOC controls the revenue from any U.S. event that uses the word "Olympic."

Cassell said the only revenues TAC received from the Trials were a small part of the gate receipts and any money from local sponsors "which the USOC had not cut a deal with."

USA Today also said that the New York City Marathon, with its $250,000 purse, might become the 1988 U.S. Olympic marathon trials.

USED SOLID-SET PIPE 3" by 40 CALL TRI-CIRCLE, INC. HIGHWAY 24 RUPERT, IDAHO 430-4701

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"My guess is that well over 80 percent of the human race goes through life without having a single original thought."

Old habits fail to beat today's thought. It takes more than a thought by East to get the job done.

West leads the heart Jack, dummy covers with the queen and East wins his ace. What happens if East returns an "automatic" heart?

After recognizing his heart ace, East should win the hand holding, and since a heart return will yield at most one trick, he should shift attention elsewhere.

The most promising shift is to diamonds, but care is necessary. East must play South for a third honor and for West to have one entry.

At trick two, East should cash his diamond ace, followed by the lead of a low diamond. When West gains the lead with his space ace, a third diamond will lead through dummy's 10-8 held East two more winners and the game falls short by one trick.

NORTH: Q104, KQ10, 10852, 108. EAST: A732, A3, A396, 852.

SOUTH: KJ6, 842, A2KQJ9. Vulnerable: Both. Dealer: South. The bidding: South West North East 1 Pass 1 Pass 2 NT Pass 3 NT All pass.

Opening lead: Heart Jack. BID WITH THE ACES

South holds: Q104, KQ10, 10852, 108. North: A732, A3, A396, 852.

ANSWER: Pass. Do not show diamond suit. This hand is worth only one constructive bid.

Now PEUGEOT OFFERS A BETTER WARRANTY THAN EVEN BMW, SAAB OR AUDI.

That's right. As of May 1st, any newly purchased 1985 Peugeot includes a better warranty package than all three luxury imports.

First, Peugeot gives you a New Vehicle Limited Warranty which extends to three years or 36,000 miles. That means Peugeot will repair or replace, without charge, any defects in material or workmanship.

Second, Peugeot provides a Powertrain Limited Warranty which extends to 5 years or 50,000 miles. Its coverage includes engine, transmission, driveshaft and rear-axle components.

With this kind of protection, you're probably expecting endless qualifications and disclaimers. Well, don't. Peugeot can afford to offer a warranty so impressive because our cars are so impressive.

For 98 years, Peugeot has maintained a reputation for building quality automobiles to some of the most exacting standards in the world. And now, Peugeot is providing a warranty package to match.

For complete details, see a copy of the warranty at your local Peugeot dealer.
