Arab hijackers seize jetliner, kill 1

More than 100 Americans aboard; dead passenger may be U.S. Marine

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Two gunmen seized a TWA jetliner with more than 100 Americans aboard Friday and forced it to Algiers and twice to Beirut, where the pilot said they killed an American passenger early today.

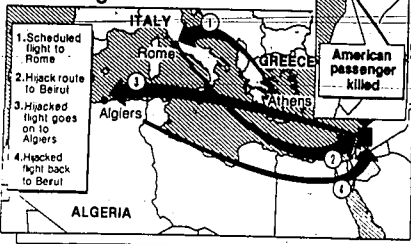

Hours later the plane left, reportedly flying to Algiers again. A hijacker said over the radio that the man slain was a U.S. Marine. However, in Washington, Preston Hommerbocker of the Marine Corps Command Center said Friday night, "There were no Marines on board."

The Boeing 727 left Beirut the second time at daybreak, 5:40 a.m. (8:40 p.m. MDT, Friday). Officials said it was refueled to capacity and supplied with 130 sandwiches, 150 apples and a large quantity of bananas.

As the plane's engines revved for liftoff, the captain asked the air traffic controller if the body of the slain passenger had been removed from the runway. The controller replied, "Yes."

The hijackers said they were taking the plane to Algiers again. They issued new demands to reporters just before takeoff, including a threat to kill eight Greek passengers on board if a fellow Lebanese Shiite Muslim arrested at Athens airport Friday was not released and flown to the Algerian capital.

Other demands included that Israeli forces leave south Lebanon and the release of all "Arab prisoners" held in Israeli jails.

The hijackers, said by Greek police to be members of the terror group Islamic Holy War, threatened to blow up the jetliner the first time it circled Beirut on Friday when told the airport was closed. It then was allowed to land but left later for Algeria. TWA officials said 145 passengers and eight crew members were on the plane when it was hijacked soon after it left Athens, Greece, Friday morning bound for Rome and Boston.

Nineteen passengers were let off during the first Beirut refueling stop and 22 were freed in Algiers. All but four of those released were Americans.

Tense relatives hope, pray as they await word on hijacking

By JONATHAN W. OATIS
The Associated Press

Distraught relatives and friends waited tensely Friday for word on the fate of the Americans aboard a hijacked jetliner. The group held hostage included 26 Roman Catholic pilgrims and a sobbing teenage girl who wasn't allowed to leave the plane because the hijackers didn't realize she was a woman.

"We're just sitting here hoping, waiting and praying," said Jorge Garza of Laredo, Texas, whose sister-in-law and six relatives were aboard TWA's Boeing 727 when it was hijacked en route from Athens to Rome.

Among those remaining on the plane were several families, including five members of a family from Greece going to a christening in Massachusetts, and a young couple engaged to be married who had been given a tour of Europe by their parents as graduation presents.

"Thirty-seven of the 104 Americans reported aboard the plane, which was carrying 145 passengers, were released during stops in Beirut, Lebanon, and Algiers, Algeria, on Friday. The plane again landed in Beirut early Saturday.

"Among the captives were people from Massachusetts, California, Texas, Indiana, Kansas, New Mexico, Illinois, Virginia and Rhode Island.

The 26 pilgrims from Illinois, including three priests, were trying to return from the Holy Land when the jet was hijacked.

"We're waiting, we're praying, we're hoping," said the Rev. Robert Garrity, of the St. Margaret Mary Church in Algonquin, which had 17 parishioners, a non-church member and the Rev. William P. McDonnell aboard the plane.

The three priests aboard are "very level-headed," said the Rev. Robert Balogh, secretary to the bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese in Rockford.

"I suspect they would do everything they can to keep composed and help the composure of the (other) passengers," Balogh said.

Irma Garza, of Laredo, was among the 19 women and children released in Beirut, but her ordeal wasn't over. Although three female relatives were released with her, her husband, Vincente, 53, her 13-year-old granddaughter, Adriana Trautmann, and a son-in-law remained aboard the plane, said her brother-in-law in Laredo.

"She doesn't know what to expect," said Jorge Garza. "She sounded real nervous. She was crying."

Garza said he talked to his sister-in-law by telephone from Cyprus.

Irma Trautmann, Adriana's mother, said the girl remained aboard the 727 because her captors apparently did not realize she was a girl, her mother said.

"She was crying, sobbing," Mrs. Trautmann recalled. Another family on the flight included the mother, father, brother, grandfather and aunt of Tina Migos of Revere, Mass., said Tula Migos of Lynn, Mass., a cousin. They live in the Greek village of Felatis, and were going to Revere for the christening of Mrs. Migos' 1-year-old son, she said, adding that the State Department reported they were not among those released in Algiers.

Also on the flight was Kathryn A. Davis and her fiancé Jim Hoskins, both 22 and from Indianapolis, said her father, stockbroker Stephen Davis. He and Hoskins' father James said both families had given the young couple a tour of Europe as college graduation presents. Mrs. Davis graduated from Indiana University in May and Hoskins was a recent graduate of Butler University.

Miss Davis had visited London, Paris, Germany and Switzerland and was to come home Friday, Davis said. "It was going to pick her up at 6 p.m. this evening," her father said.

Stallings asks for Air Force assistance in 'hopper spraying

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Congressman Richard Stallings, traveling in the Magic Valley on Friday, announced to local farmers that he is asking the U.S. Air Force to provide aircraft to help with grasshopper spraying.

Stallings said equipment shortages have been a serious problem for the spraying program, which began Friday in the Magic Valley area.

According to E.L. Russell, of the state Department of Agriculture, spraying in the Magic Valley will take a minimum of a week to complete if weather and equipment pose no problems.

Friday's initial spraying in Cassia County was plagued by both weather and equipment problems. The aircraft available to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) can only cover 100,000 acres a day, and some 700,000 acres are scheduled to be sprayed.

Covering large areas is critical to the success of the spraying program, according to agricultural extension agents in the Magic Valley, because Malathion, the insecticide being used in the spraying, has a residual life of only two to three days. If large portions or pockets of land are left unsprayed, grasshoppers on untreated land will be able to move onto sprayed land within a few days, seriously cutting the program's effectiveness.

Stallings, D-Idaho, said he will request the Air Force assistance by letter.

While in town, Stallings also announced his support for a move backed by U.S. Senators Steve Symms and James McClure, both R-Idaho, to establish a revolving credit fund for pesticide spraying.

Trent Clark, staff member in Symms' Washington office, said the Grasshoppers cling to the side of a barn at the Webb Basin Dairy in Cassia County revolving credit fund would be modeled after the inter-agency fire control funding. Funding for fire control is put together independently of agency budgets, Clark explained, and replenished each year as needed.

Happy Father's Day! Dad sees kids again after 57 years

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three Oregon residents who hadn't seen their father in 57 years and assumed he was dead were reunited with him a few days before Father's Day.

"It's like finding the final piece in a jigsaw puzzle," said Frank Erickson, who arrived in Florida on Thursday with his brother Alton and sister June Cameron for a reunion with father Frank Barnes, 83.

Mrs. Cameron and Frank Erickson live in Seaside, Ore., while their brother lives in Eugene, Ore. The three, now ranging in age from 65 to 70, were children when they last saw their father in 1928 during his final visit to Astoria, Ore.

Barnes, a meatcutter, barber and carpenter, parted from his family after he and his wife divorced and "after a long time, everybody just pronounced he was dead," Mrs. Cameron said.

"I just got away and tried to forget it," he recalled in a telephone interview. "In order to forget my troubles out there, I figured I'd have to forget everybody."

Grocers pull tainted cheese off shelves

Sam Nunez pulls some of the cheese linked to deaths.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frightened consumers sought poison information Friday as grocers stripped their shelves of a tainted Mexican-style cheese linked to 29 deaths or stillbirths in California.

The cheese is sold under various names in at least 14 other states.

Jalisco cheeses were distributed in California, Arizona, Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Illinois, Michigan, New York and Ohio, said Jim Green, a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration in Washington.

Earlier, Jalisco vice president Mario James said the company also distributed cheese in Florida, and two grocery chains said Jalisco cheese was sold in Nevada.

"All of us associated with Jalisco Mexican Products Inc. are shocked and sick at heart," president Gary S. McPherson, said Friday without admitting that his company's products contained deadly bacteria. The two brands of cheese involved are Colija and Queso Fresco.

State and local health officials took no chances Friday, ordering all Jalisco brand products stripped from grocery shelves.

The cheese contains "contaminating" bacteria, Listeria monocytogenes, "attacks" either people who have some underlying disease like cancer, or pregnant women," said Dr. Claire Broom, chief of respiratory and special pathogens branch at the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

"But not every pregnant woman who is exposed will become ill," she said. "You can't predict what's going to happen — you can just have a probability."

Officials have linked 22 deaths in Los Angeles County to the bacteria infection, said Toby Milligan, a spokeswoman for the county health department.

Nine of the victims were stillborn, five were classified as newborn deaths, and statistics on eight others were not immediately available, she said.

Seven cheese-related deaths in Orange County included four stillbirths and three infants who died within two days of birth, said Dr. Thomas Prudenfest, the county health epidemiologist.

Briefly

Water standards called unfair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is trying to force inappropriate water quality standards on Idaho, says Sen. Steve Symms.

Symms has been testifying in Washington in hearings on the Clean Air Act. The federal Environmental Protection Agency wants to enforce a dissolvable oxygen standard for Idaho waters, higher than proposed by the state.

Symms claims the higher standard is not necessary. The standard applies mainly to the Snake River below American Falls Dam.

"Water quality standards cannot be mandated from Washington, D. C.," Symms said. "The EPA is trying to force inapplicable water standards when they are not needed."

He said the EPA is trying to solve a problem that doesn't exist, because there is no data to show Idaho fish need higher oxygen standards.

Airport demands late payment

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — The Pullman-Moscow Regional Airport Board has requested that Cascade Airways pay its delinquent bill.

Airport Manager Art Hollorf said Friday the regional airline owes the airport $5,853 in rental and landing fees.

The airport's board adopted a motion Thursday that gives Cascade until 5 p.m. Monday to make a $3,000 payment to the airport. Cascade marketing director Mark Nilson said the airline will meet the payment deadline.

State earnings above estimate

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's interest earnings from investments will be $660,000 higher than estimated for the current budget year.

But State Treasurer Marjorie Moon said Friday that probably won't be enough to offset a drop in state revenue from other sources.

The state Board of Examiners meets Wednesday to discuss the state's budget. Some state officials are predicting that state revenue will be at least $5 million less than expected. The state's budget year ends June 30.

Evans set to return from visit

BOISE (AP) — Gov. John Evans says a weeklong trip to Europe has been "enlightening" for a delegation of seven American governors.

Evans and six other governors, representing the National Governors' Association, leave Frankfurt on Saturday to return home after a week of meetings with European economic and military leaders. Evans plans a Tuesday news conference in Boise to discuss the trip.

Evans left the state May 27 on a tour that also included several days of visits in Israel.

Welfare roll size questioned

BOISE (AP) — Too many Idaho residents are using services of the state Health and Welfare Department, says the chairman of a legislative interim committee studying the agency.

Last year, there were 185,000 Idahoans who were on welfare," said Rep. Preston Brimhall, R-Idaho Falls. "The committee thought that was terribly high. That is 17 to 18 percent of the people."

Some of the legislators on the committee Brimhall chairs met this week with Health and Welfare Director Rose Bowman for an overview of the agency, and they toured the agency's divisions.

Brimhall said he is sure the committee will recommend at least a few changes in agency operations.

Age discrimination claimed

BOISE (AP) — A former radio announcer at KID, an Idaho Falls radio-television station, has filed a U.S. District Court lawsuit here, claiming age discrimination.

William James, 58, Idaho Falls, said he was terminated as an FM announcer on Oct. 5, 1984, after a career of more than 19 years with the station and just months before he would have qualified for a fully-vested pension with 20 years of service.

Named as defendant in the lawsuit was KID Broadcasting Corp. The radio-television station was sold in December to Idaho Falls Broadcasting, Inc., a subsidiary of the Price Broadcasting chain.

Search for bodies continues

WEST POINT, Calif. (AP) — Investigators uncovered 1,800 silver dollars Friday as they formed a human chain and laboriously searched a self-styled survivalist's property, where remains of five people have been found along with many human bones and the teeth of small children.

Calaveras County Sheriff Claude Ballard said he was reminded of "the Nazi death camps" after viewing two new discoveries of charred bone fragments at the 3-acre site used by Leonard Lake, who died after swallowing a poison pill in police custody.

Friday's effort was spurred by the discovery late Thursday of the new locations where "large numbers of bones . . . a great amount" were found, said Coroner Terry Parker. Authorities believe Lake, 39, may be connected to the deaths of as many as 25 people.

Meanwhile, a search for his 24-year-old companion, martial arts expert Charles Ng, was extended into Canada, as authorities reported he may have been sighted in Ontario.

More than 25 sheriff's deputies, investigators from the state Department of Justice and young California Conservation Corps workers crawled across a third of an acre in temperatures near 100 degrees. They picked up fragments of bone as long as four inches as they went, and stuffed the pieces into plastic freezer bags.

Investigators also announced they had discovered three plastic storage containers containing 1,800 turn-of-the-century silver dollars and one Kruggerand, a South African gold coin.

Ballard said new finds included burned bone fragments and "finger-nails, teeth and fillings."

The two new collections of bone fragments were found near the yellow, hillside house used by Lake, who died four days after taking a cyanide pill when he was arrested in South San Francisco. The new sites mean investigators have found human remains at nine locations on the property in the Sierra Nevada foothills in Calaveras County.

Crech desires to die

BOISE (AP) — Thomas Eugene Crech, a convicted slayer who at times during the past 10 years has told Idaho prison officials he wanted to be executed, apparently is back in that stage again.

Deputy Attorney General Robert Gates said Friday he was advised by Deputy Prison Warden George Bernick that Crech now wants to be executed — reportedly because his "proxy" bride has left town with Crech's younger brother, Ron, 27.

Crech, who has been under a death sentence most of the past 10 years, in February asked the Idaho Supreme Court to allow him to withdraw his latest guilty plea, in the 1981 slaying of a fellow inmate.

Crech contended last month that in a "proxy" ceremony April 23, he was legally married to a Boise woman, Betty Arlene Creel, 47.

Crech's attorney filed legal action to force the prison to recognize the marriage. Death row inmates can be visited only by family, spiritual advisors, lawyers and doctors.

At a hearing on the request, officials disclosed that Ron Crech, 27, the inmate's younger brother, stood up with Ms. Creel in a Gem County marriage ceremony and said he was Thomas.

Corrections Director Al Murphy and other prison officials couldn't be reached for comment Friday afternoon.

Nez Perce County clerk files complaint over her jailing

BOISE (AP) — Nez Perce County Clerk Donna Crooks, jalled after refusing to follow a judge's order that she and an employee leave the district court office, now has slapped the judge with a $721,000 federal lawsuit.

Ms. Crooks said 2nd District Judge John Maynard violated her constitutional rights when he ordered her jalled, according to a complaint filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Boise.

Maynard said he was unaware the lawsuit had been filed and declined to comment.

Ms. Crooks and a newly hired employee, Brenda Holmes, were thrown into the Nez Perce County Jail April 25 after a confrontation in the lower courtroom with Maynard, who gave Ms. Holmes 10 seconds to leave the district court office or be jalled, the suit said.

Ms. Crooks, who as part of her job is clerk of 2nd District Court for Nez Perce County, refused to let Ms. Holmes be removed so Maynard ordered them both jalled on a charge of contempt of court, according to the complaint.

The lawsuit said Ms. Crooks was set free at 5:15 p.m. the next day after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered her release.

Maynard rescinded the contempt citation on May 15.

Ms. Crooks was appointed clerk and auditor for Nez Perce County on April 1, and the schlam between her and Maynard started on April 11. Maynard, who oversees administration of the 2nd District Court, told Ms. Crooks she should not "concern herself" with operation of the district court clerk's office because she was "only an appointed official," the suit said.

But on April 23, Ms. Crooks hired Holmes to coordinate activities of the deputy clerks, and the same day, Maynard issued an administrative order directing "everyone in the world not to allow Ms. Holmes to perform her court-related duties, the suit said.

Maynard also ordered Ms. Crooks to submit a plan to operate the district court the way it had been before she was appointed April 1. If she did not, Ms. Crooks was "to withdraw from further interference with her employees," the suit said. The complaint contends that Maynard's order, in effect, required Ms. Crooks to cease performing her duties.

A copy of the April 23 order attached to the lawsuit said Ms. Crooks had hired Ms. Holmes without Maynard's knowledge and that no judge had approved Ms. Holmes' qualifications or integrity.

In addition, the order said that since Ms. Crooks was appointed clerk, she should not be jalled, and that she should not be jalled because of the quality of her work is deteriorating.

In her suit, Ms. Crooks is seeking $5,000 reimbursement for funds she said she spent to gain release from jail; $35,000 for physical illness, suffering loss and mental distress she suffered because of her jailing; and for Maynard's alleged continued harassment; $500,000 in punitive damages; and $180,000 in attorney fees. The complaint also seeks an order preventing Maynard from interfering in Ms. Crooks' duties.

Children injured in car collision

BURLEY — Two children were injured in a two-car accident on Interstate 84 near the Heyburn interchange at 2:47 p.m. Wednesday. Police said the children, Antonio Garcia and Connie Valdez, 10 and 11, were passengers in a vehicle driven by Ramon Valdez, 64, no permanent address, but recently of Rupert.

Officers said his vehicle was attempting to make a left turn when it collided with a truck driven by Nancy Lott, 25, of Heyburn. The drivers escaped injury but the two passengers were taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Jackpot man treated for gunshot

TWIN FALLS — A 44-year-old Jackpot, Nev., resident was treated for a gunshot wound in the leg Tuesday night at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers were notified by hospital staff members about 11 p.m. when the injured man was admitted. A report at the sheriff's office in Twin Falls

House fire may be work of arsonist

TWIN FALLS — Arson is suspected in a fire which broke out in a vacant house early Friday.

The burning house, located three-quarters of a mile east of Twin Falls on Kimberly Road, was reported to the Twin Falls sheriff's office about 4:25 a.m. Friday.

When the responding deputy was unable to put out the blaze, Kimberly firemen were called in and successfully extinguished the fire.

The fire started on the west wall of the house in an opening above the air conditioning. Apparently, flammable liquid was poured in and around this opening and then ignited, said Deputy Sheriff Harold Jensen. The sheriff's office has several leads on the case, but no suspects have been taken into custody yet.

Although fire damage was limited to one room and the attic, the rest of the house took a great deal of smoke and water damage. There have been no estimates on the cost of the damage yet, said Jensen.

The property is a tenant house owned by Dee Pace and was not being rented at the time of the fire.

Cascade man in hijacking

CASCADE (AP) — Friends and neighbors of Benjamin C. Zimmermann, a Cascade resident and flight engineer aboard the TWA airliner hijacked by Shiite Muslims on Friday, are worried about his safety.

"I don't think those people over there are too swift on care to much about life and death," said Laura Bickenstaff, a friend.

Zimmermann's wife, Melvia, could not be reached for comment Friday night. "About all Melvia has heard is (what is) on the news," Bickenstaff said.

Carol Arnold, Cascade, said Zimmermann came to the western Idaho community from the Midwest about four years ago, to start a Lutheran mission.

The Zimmermanns and their three children have lived in Cascade for about four years, she said. She did not know when he started flying for TWA.

Wendell Chamber welcomes 2 owners

WENDELL — The Wendell Chamber of Commerce welcomed the new owners of two businesses this month.

Laura's Hair Company, formerly Val's Beauty Salon, is operated by Laura Roe.

Roe is a cosmetologist, educated at Juan's College of Hair Design. Most recently, she has worked at Betty Lou's Beauty Shop in Wendell.

Laura's Hair Company, at 375 W. Main St., is open Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and by special appointment.

"We're quite versatile," says Roe, who opened her shop June 10. "We do the entire hair line."

New owners of The Vault Hair Styling are Valerie Lynn Depew and Valerie Kay Depew.

"We were cousins and we married cousins," says Valerie Kay, admitting there is some confusion because they have the same names.

Both DePews are graduates of Juan's College of Hair Design and now attend periodic classes for style updates. Valerie Lynn is former owner of Val's Beauty Salon in Wendell and has 15 years of experience. Valerie Kay has six years of experience in Jerome and Wendell.

Their new business is a full-service salon and includes a tanning bed. The Vault was purchased from Gwen Dennis.

The Vault is located at 140 S. Idaho St., formerly the Western Auto store. Hours are Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Correction

TWIN FALLS — A June 14 article in the Times-News incorrectly reported that Rep. Mack Neibaur, R-Paul, said he had paid his own driving expenses when he traveled to Denver for a caucus conference on communism awareness.

Neibaur's driving expenses were paid by Causa, and the Times-News had spoken to Neibaur's wife, not Neibaur.

The Times-News regrets the error.

Methodist report points out dangers

Freemasonry: anti-Christian?

By MICHAEL WEST Associated Press writer LONDON (AP) — A report from a Methodist Church committee has called the international fraternity of Freemasons a "contaminator to Christianity... and counseled... church members not to join the centuries-old society whose members have included 13 U.S. presidents.

Michael Higham, grand secretary of the United Grand Lodge of England. Freemasons, who number more than 6 million worldwide, trace their society's roots to English and Scottish fraternities of stonemasons and "craft" builders in the Middle Ages. References books for the first Masonic Grand Lodge opened in London in 1717.

The Methodist Inquiry was ordered by last year's annual Methodist Conference, the ruling body of the largest of the Protestant churches in Britain after the Church of England, the state church. The church's report acknowledges assistance from the United Grand Lodge of England, the controlling body of British Freemasons, whose Grand Master is the Duke of Kent, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II.

Ex-Mormons flock to sole Utah synagogue

By BOB MIMS Associated Press Writer SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — When Rabbi Eric Silver looks out from behind his pulpit at Utah's only synagogue, he takes in a scene he happily acknowledges is unusual: a quarter of his congregation is made up of converts from the state's predominant Mormon Church.

of them former Mormons, enroll in year-long conversion classes under Silver's tutelage. "I can't take a Mormon and convince that person that what was formerly 'right' is 'wrong,' and what was formerly 'wrong' is 'right,'" Silver said. "They don't want to be Jewish, but we think it's a sin to become Jewish and then leave it."

has drawn particular attention, despite being part of a larger-national phenomenon in which "several thousands" are embracing Judaism each year. "It may be more noticeable in Salt Lake because religion plays such a role here. You have a very aggressive faith based in this community that really feels missionary effort is important," Silver said.

Statesman columnist to speak at Ketchum seminars June 24-25

By BARBARA NEWERT Times-News correspondent KETCHUM — The Hospice of the Wood River Valley will sponsor two seminars June 24 and June 25 by Rev. William Edelen, writer and professor of comparative religions. "Exploring Religious Dimensions of the World" is the title of his presentation, scheduled for 7-9:30 p.m. each night at the St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

REV. WILLIAM EDELEN Will cover world religions

Edelen is a regular columnist for The Idaho Statesman and also writes for the Everett, Wash., daily newspaper, The Herald. His recently published book, "Toward the Mystery," has been recommended for inclusion in the 1968 Reading List by the United Methodist Church.

Women, which has 1.5 million members," Edelen said. "Toward the Mystery" is a collection of Edelen's first 50 columns he wrote for the Idaho Statesman, Snyder said. Edelen, pastor of the Community Congregational Church in McCall, was a full-time lecturer in religion and anthropology at the University of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash. "Bill Edelen is the most controversial columnist The Statesman runs," said Statesman editorial writer Tom Knappenberger. "Weak in and weak out, his provocative religion column generates more letters to the editor than any other regular feature."

Presbyterian moderator professes 'terror' of homosexual ministry

By JOHN STRAUSS Associated Press Writer INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The newly elected moderator of the 197th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) said Wednesday he felt a "raw terror" over expected debate on homosexual ministers. But William H. Wilson, an elder of a congregation in McAllen, Texas, said he remained openminded on the issue.

comparing the current debate to the church's previous division over the participation of blacks and women. The church ruled at its 1978 General Assembly that it would not ordain "unrepentant, self-affirming, practicing" homosexuals. Even so, according to a spokesman for the Presbyterian body, Lesbian-Gay Concerns, homosexuals enjoy a "tremendous amount of support" in the church.

Wilson, who was elected moderator of the conference with 533 votes out of 663 cast, said a "tremendous gut" existed among church factions on abortion. The Presbyterian Church does not forbid abortion, and is generally considered pro-choice on the issue. Church leaders begin committee meetings Thursday to produce guidelines and policies for more than 1 million Presbyterians in the United States. Wilson, a consulting geologist in the petroleum business, was the only lay person among four candidates for moderator, the presiding officer of the conference and the church leadership's ambassador to Presbyterian churches and missions around the world.

Shoshone council confirms it will enforce fireworks law

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

North Side

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Council affirmed its intention this week to enforce state laws governing the sale of fireworks in the city.

City clerk Ron Bolan said Monday he had checked with the state fire marshal about what fireworks are legal under Idaho code and was told only Class "C" fireworks are allowed. No firecrackers, bottle rockets or roman candles of any kind are legal in Idaho.

The city council made its intentions clear after a local businessman inquired about which fireworks he would be allowed to sell for this year's Fourth of July celebration. Mayor Reid Newby said Monday the council is required by law to comply with state statutes.

"We cannot ignore this law just because it might be difficult to enforce anymore than we can ignore drunk driving or drug laws," he said. He said he had asked for a clarification of "safe and sane" fireworks from the attorney general's office and was told it would be at least two weeks before such an opinion could be prepared.

State law allows the sale of fireworks in Idaho between June 15 and July 5 each year.

He said the code outlines what fireworks are considered safe and which are considered dangerous and provides for possible removal from office-of-law-enforcement-and-other-public-officials who do not enforce the statute.

"What choice do we have?" Newby asked.

In other business, the board received a letter from city prosecutor Doug Rose asking that his monthly retainer be increased from $75 to $350. Rose, who is also the elected county prosecutor, is the only active attorney in Lincoln County and prosecutes the city's misdemeanor cases. He handles all felony cases through the county prosecutor's office.

The city also retains retired attorney Howard Adams as civil and procedural counsel at a fee of $81 per month plus $206 per month for a health insurance policy.

Rose told the council it is not cost effective for him to continue at the $75 per month figure, and he was willing to negotiate, with the salary increase to take effect at the change of the fiscal year Oct. 1.

However, he said if the city was not willing to consider his request or negotiate the salary, the council should begin looking for other counsel and "consider this letter as notice of my desire to terminate the agreement (formed in 1981) effective July 1, 1985."

The council discussed Rose's request and the whole subject of city legal services in executive session and then took Rose's letter under advisement until the council's July 2 meeting.

Teacher salary plan undecided

By LINDA LARSON
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — The Cassia County School Board put its stamp of approval on an $11.2 million budget Wednesday, but a teacher salary decision is still pending.

The budget reflects a seven percent increase over last year's total of $10.5 million. Most programs and expenses have increased in cost since last year with almost no cuts being made.

Of the total budget, 81 percent is spent on teachers' salaries. Cassia Teachers Association past president Kathy Poulton said that a decision may be reached Monday when a negotiating team meets with teachers for ratification of a salary agreement. She would not disclose the amount.

Resignations were accepted from nine teachers, while nine new teachers were hired. Superintendent Norman Hurst said that six vacancies were still waiting to be filled.

Teachers resigning were Carla Harman, James Hepworth, Carol Jackson, James Blackman, Mary Adams, Julian McCarthy, DeAnne Peterson, Kristine Neal, and Kimberley Ennis. Carla Hodge was granted a leave of absence.

New teachers hired were David Badger, Claudette Bray, Irma Bushman, Kimberly Marsh, Sarah Murphy, Lisa Louise Ruston, Alice Telford, Kelly Gay Sivanish, Marcia Williams.

Non-certified personnel were given a four percent salary increase by the board.

A professional development plan was accepted that included teacher and administrator development as well as the goal of increased effectiveness of school board members.

"What is it that they want us to do that we are not doing?" asked board member Ann Woodhouse who later recanted her objection and voted in favor of the plan.

A $28,000 grant was accepted by the board to pay for removal of asbestos insulation in some of the buildings.

Cities join together for promotion

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — The cities of Wendell and Gooding are ending old rivalries to join together in promoting Gooding County.

At the Wendell Chamber of Commerce meeting Wednesday, President Harold Simerly welcomed members of the Gooding Chamber. He said the two neighboring cities should work together to promote tourism and industrial development in Gooding County.

A new travel brochure, Simerly said, should promote the county's highlights and scenic areas rather than each city individually.

"The county as a whole has a lot more to offer," Simerly said, discussing the sights and activities available in the area. "We're an hour and a half drive from gambling on the hot desert to skiing on the cool slopes."

Gooding Mayor Gene Heller talked about upcoming developments in his city that will benefit Wendell.

A new maximum security prison with medium security prisoners will be under construction by September, Heller said, noting that Buckingham Securities must "either start dancing or we're going to change partners."

Other possible builders of the prison, said Heller, are Correctional Systems Corporation and the State of Idaho. At any rate, he vowed, construction will begin this fall.

Also this fall, he continued, a $9.5 million remodeling of the state school in Gooding will begin and a meat-packing company in Gooding, closed about two years ago, may be opened again, Heller said.

If Gooding and Wendell work together, he concluded, they will be more successful in drawing tourists and new industry to the area, and the two cities may also be more successful in getting state funding available to their Region 4, he said.

Gooding businessman Doug Schrank said there will always be rivalries on a business level, but stores competing for customers, by sharing members of Wendell and Gooding should continue to work together to exchange ideas and help each other.

Priest Lake critics 'uninformed,' says Jones

BOISE (AP) — Critics of the Idaho Land Board's Priest-Lake decision, particularly former governor Cecil Andrus, need to better acquaint themselves about the deal, says Attorney General Jim Jones.

Jones told a Boise audience Friday the state's decision to proceed with a land trade with Diamond Lands Corp. was "extremely beneficial" to the state endowment fund and was a "prudent decision" from an environmental standpoint.

But Andrus said later the state Land Board was using "convenient and flexible" rules to justify the decision, one he thinks was wrong.

"I am convinced the land swap was not in the best interests of the people of Idaho and should not have been approved. The Idaho Constitution is being used unjustly to justify a very poor decision," said Andrus.

Jones spoke to the Farm and Land Institute sponsored by the National Association of Realtors. Andrus responded in a telephone interview.

Jones and two other Republicans on the Land Board voted May 15 to trade state land for land owned by Diamond Lands on the east side of Priest Lake. That clears the way for the company to seek local permission for a planned massive recreation-residential complex at Huckleberry Bay.

Andrus has been critical of the Land Board decision. As Idaho governor, Andrus served six years as president of the Land Board until resigning in 1977 to become Interior secretary. Jones said Andrus' criticism has been politically motivated.

Mr. Andrus has displayed a surprisingly cavalier attitude regarding the Land Board's fulfillment of constitutional duties," Jones said. The attorney general said the land trade was one of the better deals made by the state in recent years. He said the state gave up 3,700 acres and got 11,300 acres from Diamond Lands.

The state endowment fund got a net gain of $2,525,000 from the deal, Jones said. He said Land Board members are required to manage state lands to obtain maximum long-term financial return.

The Land Board also has "reduced the chances of sprawling and unsound development by Diamond on the east side of the lake."

Because the state received more timber land than it gave up, Idaho will receive an extra $80,000 to $100,000 per year from that land, he said.

If Diamond Lands is able to win local approval to go ahead with the project, the economic benefit to the state and local economies will be significantly greater, Jones said.

10 union members protest dues raise

NAMPA (AP) — Ten more union members, claiming they are extortion victims of their own local, have joined the small but growing public protest over the decision of union locals in the state to increase monthly dues to help finance organized labor's campaign against the new right-to-work law.

"I was told that if I did not pay the assessment I would be considered in unsatisfactory status with the union and would lose my job," Corey Lane, a Teamsters Union member employed at the Carnation Co. plant in Nampa, said Friday.

But Roy Corson, secretary-treasurer for the 18-county local, said the jobs of Corey and the other nine dissidents were not on the line in the dispute over the new $2 monthly assessment.

While failure to pay the assessment would result in suspension from the union, Corson said it would not mean the workers would be fired from their jobs.

"I don't care what he calls it," Corson said of Corey's allegation of extortion. "The union official said the dues increase was approved earlier this year by the local in compliance with union by-laws and the constitution by a margin of nearly 6-to-1."

"Whereas this assessment was properly voted on and passed by the membership of this local union, your request to become exempt is totally denied," Corson told Corey.

The special union assessment to help defeat the ban on compulsory union membership has been a target of dissident union members for the past several weeks. The issue was first raised over similar assessments in eastern Idaho, and one worker has filed a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board.

Home school panel weighs other states' laws

BOISE (AP) — A legislative panel examining regulation of home schools is concerned about conscientious parents who want to instruct their children at home, but about "the few rotten eggs" who would be neglectful in that situation, a state senator says.

"We have no problem with home school people who care," Sen. Laird

Noh, R-Kimberly, said on Friday. But he said that just as there have been calls for the protection of parental rights, so must there be concern for protecting the rights of children.

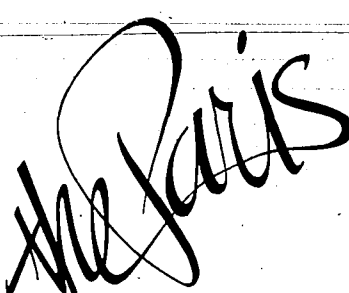

Noh made his remarks after the Legislative Council Committee on Home Study, of which he is a member, heard testimony about instruction and the regulation of parents who offer it at home.

Formed after two New Plymouth residents were jailed last fall for refusing to send their children to school or provide approved instruction at home, the committee is working to draw up a home-school measure by the time the 1986 Legislature convenes in January.

Examining how other Western states regulate home schools is pointless because those states have ignored basic issues of parental freedom, said committee member Rep. Robert Forrey, R-Nampa.

INNINGS
The game of horseshoes also is divided into innings. So is pool. Likewise croquet. As for baseball, debate continues over whether an inning is one team's turn at bat, ending in three outs, or two teams' turns at bat, ending in six outs. A client insists his dictionary says an inning ends after three outs. Interesting, if true. That would mean a typical baseball game has 18 innings.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It is essential that you use care in financial or practical matters, and also that you do not take too stubborn a position with others who are apt to be in the same frame of mind.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Think very carefully before committing yourself to any financial obligations and listen carefully to the ideas of others.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You want to have something attractive at all costs, but could run up against much opposition from others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have assumed a responsibility, and it is up to you to go through with it now honorably.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) See that friend from whom you need a favor, but later steer clear of other friends. Be more alert to danger around you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Everything works fine for you in the morning, but later be careful with credit affairs or you could suffer loss.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Go on some fascinating little trip in the morning, and await the afternoon before diving into duties that await your attention.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Organize your books of record and get bills paid first thing in the morning. Try to please the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what is expected of you by a partner and handle the matter quickly in the morning, before some problematical affairs arise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Decide how to handle your duties better in the morning, and then carry through with other affairs of importance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Early plan entertainments for the weekend and then handle regular Saturday duties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are practical now and can get your home improved as you would like it to be. Get busy at it and finish work.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Early make that important visit and get good results, but later you may find duties boring or difficult.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the change to have a happy life during adolescence and rightfully so, since later your progeny will get so tied down with business that little time will be taken for the pleasures of life, but will build a solid foundation in life and feel quite content. The later years will be quite happy and philanthropic.

'Hill Street Blues' producers plan to bump some regulars

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It may not be surprising to see J.R. Ewing, but "Hill Street Blues" fans can wonder which cop will do something wrong and leave the force next season. Hint: It's not the toughest, Frank Furillo.

Many other changes are coming to the crime-riddled precinct of the NBC series, which has won 25 Emmys in five years but slipped to No. 27 in the ratings in 1984-85.

At least these characters will be in every episode: Furillo (Daniel J. Travanti), Sgt. Egan (Bruce Weitz) and the cop team of Bobby Hill (Michael Warren) and Andy Renko (Charles Hall).

The series new co-executive producer, David Milch, would not elaborate on the other regulars in an interview this week with The Associated Press.

Some other changes starting in September:

Dennis Franz will play a new character, an "amoral policeman" who will replace Rene Enriquez's Lt. Ray Cheliano. Cheliano will become a captain and be reassigned, but will make occasional appearances, said Milch.

Ken Olin, who played Detective Harry Garibaldi, will be integral to the first episode, then be off the show. Mimi Kuzny, Detective Patsy Mayo, won't be back as a regular.

Motherhood becomes actress' favorite role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Amy Irving has the role she has said she'd been waiting a lifetime for: motherhood.

She and director Steven Spielberg became parents to a 7-pound, 7½-ounce boy named Max on Thursday, said Ruth Crane, publicity coordinator for Warner Bros.

Miss Irving, 31, was nominated for an Oscar in 1984 for her role as a docile Jewish maiden in "Yentl."

Spielberg, 37, and Miss Irving have been together for eight years. She owns a home in San Fe, N.M., but they live together in Los Angeles.

Among Spielberg's films are "Jaws," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," "E.T.—The Extra-Terrestrial," "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and its sequel, "Indiana Jones in the Temple of Doom."

50 appear on magazine list of richest women

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis just made it with $25 million.

Good Housekeeping magazine is publishing a list of what it says are the 50 richest women in the United States. Mrs. Onassis is No. 50.

First are Margaret Hunt Hill and Caroline Hunt Scholte, daughters of oil tycoon H.L. Hunt. Each is reported to be worth more than $1 billion, the magazine said.

While some of the women inherited their millions, those listed control or manage their own money, the magazine said.

Also on the list, published in Tuesday's edition of the magazine, is Yoko Ono, widow of Beatle John Lennon. She managed their $150 million empire during his lifetime and continues to go so, the article said.

Others include Brooke Astor, who has donated $100 million to charities in New York City; Dorothy Rodgers, widow of composer Richard Rodgers, who inherited most of his $100 million

Former congressman talks about alcoholism

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — At the height of his drinking days, Wilbur D. Mills says, he gulped down two quarts of vodka every night from an old peanut butter jar.

Even then, the former congressman says, he denied he was an alcoholic.

"I drank because I liked the taste of it and what it did for me. I was free of all those tremendous responsibilities I had the minute I had two drinks in me," Mills, 76, said Thursday at a dinner commemorating the 50th anniversary of the founding of Alcoholics Anonymous in this northeast Ohio city.

"Only AA itself offered me the hope that, once I wanted to be sober, I could be sober," said Mills, a Democrat who retired from Congress in 1977 after 30 years. He now works for a Washington law firm.

Mills, who stopped drinking in 1975, said he was angered by news reports about him that constantly mentioned his drinking problems.

"I stayed sober, I think, out of pure spite," said Mills.

U.S. condemns South African attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States on Friday condemned the South African attack on the capital of neighboring Botswana and recalled U.S. ambassador Herman Nickel from Pretoria for indefinite consultations to protest the raid.

State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb told reporters the United States can never accept such attacks across national borders. But this national South African action is against a background that raises the most serious questions about that government's recent conduct and policy.

In light of the attack on Gaborone, Botswana, and other recent events, Kalb said, "we have decided to call our ambassador, Herman Nickel, home on consultation to review the situation."

The South African embassy said its government had responded to terrorist attacks carried out by the African National Congress on members of minority groups who are seeking to cooperate in peaceful change.

The embassy said South African fire was directed at "terrorist shelters" a short distance from the South African border and not at Botswana. "Care was taken to safeguard the Botswana people and their property," it said.

According to State Department officials, Nickel's recall was the first such protest by the Reagan administration, which has been following a low-key diplomatic policy of "constructive engagement" in an effort to persuade the South Africans to abandon their racist policies.

Kalb recalled that the Angolan army apprehended three South African soldiers last month amid evidence they were planning to attack an American-owned Gulf Oil facility in northern Angola.

The South African government said the three soldiers, two of whom were killed and the third captured by Angolans, were on an intelligence-gathering mission.

South Africa has failed to provide a satisfactory explanation of the evidence which has come to light that the team intended to sabotage the Cabinda Gulf Oil Co. facility.

Script confirmed

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A U.S. expert helping to determine if Nazi fugitive Josef Mengele died in Brazil six years ago said Friday "there is not a shadow of a doubt" that handwriting samples found here were Mengele's.

"We have made a definite identification of the handwriting of Josef Mengele in documents found in Brazil," said David Crown, the examiner of questioned documents for the U.S. Justice Department.

Police had found notes in German said to have been written by Mengele, the infamous "Angel of Death" of the Auschwitz concentration camp. The notes were found in a farmhouse near Sao Paulo.

"There is not a shadow of a doubt as to the authenticity of the handwriting in the documents," Crown said.

He did not elaborate, but Israel's chief Nazi investigator, Menachem Russek, arrived in Brazil on Friday with a letter Mengele wrote in 1956 while in Argentina, Sao Paulo's police chief said.

The letter presumably was compared with the notes, and also will be checked for fingerprints.

Meanwhile, U.S. and Israeli experts joined efforts to determine if the skeleton exhumed near Sao Paulo was that of Mengele, and Brazilian police reported new evidence that it was.

Soviets claim U.S. envoy caught spying

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has ordered an American diplomat to leave the country after he was detained and while "conducting espionage action," the official Soviet news agency Tass reported Friday.

The agency, in a report attributed to the KGB, identified the diplomat as Paul Stombaugh. Tass said he was detained Thursday in Moscow.

A U.S. Embassy official said he could not confirm the report and said it was the first he had heard that Stombaugh was ordered to leave the Soviet Union.

Stombaugh would be the first U.S. diplomat expelled since David Augustenborg, who worked at the consulate in Leningrad, and his wife were accused of spying and told to leave the country in 1983.

Stombaugh, who works in the embassy's political section, also said he had not heard of the expulsion order until he was contacted by The Associated Press. He declined to comment on the charges against him or say whether he had been detained.

Tass said Stombaugh was detained "in the act of conducting an espionage action."

Augustenborg was ordered out of the Soviet Union on Sept. 12, 1983, after he and his wife, Denise, were detained outside Leningrad and accused of trying to collect what newspaper reports called a "spy container."

Augustenborg was a third diplomat expelled in 1983. On March 7, economic attache Richard Osborne was detained in a Moscow park after he was caught "red handed" trying to make a radio transmission. Soviet news reports said at the time.

Chen keeps holding off Open field

By BOB GREEN
The Associated Press

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. — For the second day in a row, T.C. Chen of Taiwan held out from the fairway — this time for a birdie — scrambled to a 69 and retained a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the 54th United States Open Golf Championship.

Chen, whose first-round 65 was paced by the only double eagle in Open history, reached the halfway point of the American national championship with a 134 total, six shots under par for two trips over the Oakland Hills Country Club course and matching the Open record for the first 36 holes.

Can he win?
"I don't know what to say," observed the slender, 26-year-old Chen, who has yet to win in two seasons of play on the American PGA Tour. "It will be tough the next two days for me. I will try to do my best."

T.C. CHEN
Unfazed

At least, he has a chance. But such glamorous figures as Jack Nicklaus, PGA champion Lee Trevino, Tom Watson and Masters champion Bernhard Langer of West Germany do not.

All missed the cut when the field was trimmed to the low 60 scorers for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. For Nicklaus, holder of a record 17 major professional titles, it was the first time he'd missed an Open cut since 1963, when he was defending the first of his four American national championships.

Nicklaus, 45, appeared worn and weary when he finished his round of 73 that put him at 149. But, when asked about his future in golf, he smiled. "I've got two choices: continue to play or quit. And I'm not about to quit," he said.

Watson, a 5-time British Open champion and the outstanding figure in American golf in recent years, shot 72-147. Trevino, a winner in England last year, was 72-148. Langer shot 76-150.

In their place — Instead of Nicklaus, Watson, Trevino — such names as Chen, Rick Fehr and Dave Barr worked their way to the top of the leader board.

"I don't understand how they're shooting the scores they are on this golf course," Nicklaus said in the locker room.

"There are just more good players, better players than there were 20 years ago," answered Jay Haas, who shot a 68 and moved into a tie for second place at 135, one stroke back.

"In this day and age, the players are so good, there are so many good golf players out there now, somebody is going to get hot. You can't hold them back," said Haas, who ripped the back nine in 31.

"I'm a pretty conservative player by nature," said Haas, nephew of former Masters champion Bob Goaly. "That helps in the majors."

"I think my game is a little more suited to a course where you don't have to shoot 15 under to do well."

Haas shared second with Andy North, who has not won since taking the 1978 Open title. North shot 65 with no bogeys and a birdie-birdie finish. Fehr, 22, a rookie pro who spends most of his time on the mini-tour, managed a 67 and was at 135, four under par.

Denis Watson, a South African who won three titles on the American tour last year but has been in a slump all this season, one-putted 14 times and matched the competitive course record with a 65 and, despite a Catch 22 penalty of two shots assessed Thursday, was at 137, three off the pace.

"I didn't break any rules today. I felt like I was two under par when I stood on the first tee," said Watson, whose first round 72 included a 2-shot penalty. The penalty was assessed for waiting too long — more than 10 seconds — for a par putt, hanging on the lip of the cup on the eighth hole, to fall. Eventually, the ball did fall in, but well after time had expired.

Watson said he felt the ball was still moving when he went up to tap it in, and so he stood back. The penalty for striking a moving ball also is two strokes.

"Sometimes," he gested, "the people who make the rules get carried away."

Barr, a Canadian, was next at 68-138.

Tom Kite, veteran Ray Floyd, Mark O'Meara and Curtis Strange, the leading money-winner on the tour this year, were at 139. Strange had a 68, O'Meara and Floyd had 67s, and Kite 70.

Defending champion Fuzzy Zoeller had a 69 and was at par 140.

Woodhouse to UTCP; Croft still undecided

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

A number of recent Magic Valley high school graduates have accepted offers of athletic scholarships from Intermountain-area colleges, and others plan to walk on at regional schools.

Gem State Conference basketball player-of-the-year Brad Croft of Minico is considering a scholarship offer from the College of Idaho in Caldwell and a walk-on offer from Utah State University.

Oakley's Cory Woodhouse, a two-time first-team all-stater who led the Hornets to a fourth-place finish at the Idaho Class A-4 tournament last winter, will attend Utah Technical College at Provo, where he's been offered a scholarship.

Utah Tech is a junior college that plays in the same region with the College of Southern Idaho.

A lineman and the quarterback on the Jerome Tigers' football team will head for Butte, Mont., to play for Montana Tech.

Shane Jund and Brian Martens, who helped advance the Tigers to the quarterfinals of the state Class A-2 football playoffs last fall, have both received scholarships at Tech, an NIAA Division II school that plays in the four-team Frontier Conference.

Jund called the signals for Jerome while Martens played both at center and at the linebacker position.

A pair of all-state Gooding High players will also play football out-of-state this fall.

Matt Birnie, a 5-foot-8, 195-pound linebacker, will go to Salem, Ore., to play for Willamette University, while 6-5, 185-pound Walt Delbo will join four other Magic Valley football players at Western Montana College in Dillon.

Delbo, who with Birnie made both the Idaho Statesman and Associated Press all-state teams after the Senators won the state Class A-3 championship last fall, will attend an NIAA school which plays in the same conference as Montana Tech.

Twin Falls High quarterback Doug Peterson has been selected to attend the Air Force Academy and has indicated he will try out for the Falcons' football team next fall in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Craig Langley, the center for the Twin Falls High basketball team last winter, will go to Fendleton, Ore., where he will play on scholarship for Blue Mountain Community College.

Gooding's Karla Skabronski will play basketball in Helena, Mont., for Carroll College.

Two other Magic Valley basketball players have indicated they will try out for basketball teams this year.

Margaret Lowry, the top scorer for Minico last winter, has been invited to be one of 24 girls to try out for the Brigham Young University basketball team. Larry Wilkins of Dil is considering trying out for the basketball team at Treasure Valley Community College, a junior college in Ontario, Ore.

Wood River High's Maureen McGinnis has been offered a scholarship to run for the University of Idaho. McGinnis, the state A-2 champion in the 1600 meter run, will compete in cross country and track for the Vandals.

McGinnis' teammate Nicole Terra will attend Boise State and has indicated she will be a walk on for the Bronco track team.

Tuesday's NBA 'Draft of the Big Man' holds little suspense

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — It will always be associated with the No. 1 pick, although all the suspense of Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft will come after the New York Knicks use the first choice to take Georgetown's Patrick Ewing.

Unless the Indiana Pacers make a late announcement of who they'll take with the second choice, the uncertainty will start clearing up immediately after the Knicks make official what everyone has known since May 12. That was when they won the "Ewing Lottery" that determined the order of the first seven picks.

"We haven't come to a decision yet," Pacers Coach George Irvine said. "It's no surprise that we're looking at either Benoit, Benjamin or Wayman Tisdale, two good players with vast potential."

Benjamin, a 7-foot center from Creighton, and Oklahoma's Tisdale, 6-9 and like Ewing a three-time All-American, are the prizes among the 12 non-seniors who declared themselves

At 7-6, Sudan's Manute Bol still trying to stand out in a crowd

By PAT CALABRIA

NEWPORT, R.I. — Manute Bol's long, long legs swept across the carpet like black broomsticks. When Bol sank into the sofa, his sneakers reached across the coffee table and then fell over the edge. His hands spread to each side to grip the ends of the armrests. As he got up, he had to duck or bump his head on the ceiling.

He's 7-6 — at least. The Rhode Island Gulls — his team in the United States Basketball League — venture here is even three-quarters of an inch taller than that, but all Bol claims to know is that he can't play blacks-off-the-rack. "I can get shirts," he said, "but they can't be long-sleeve."

Even his smile is large. It stretches from one cheek on Bol's sharply curved face to the other. That's when Bol chooses to smile, which he doesn't do often. He is often in the company of those he doesn't know at all. In Sudan, no one pointed or stared.

"Here, I don't mind if people look at me as long as they are polite," Bol said. "I don't mind if they talk to them, tell them how tall I am. But sometimes a nice will say, 'Hey, Yo, how big are you?' I don't like that, you shouldn't call somebody, 'Hey, Yo.'"

The casualness of Americans has been an adjustment, like hot dogs and sauerkraut. It's no less an adjustment in the new USBL, where Bol holds his own with just one year of college basketball behind him and all sorts of guesses as to what's ahead. He might have been a first-round NBA draft choice if he stayed at the University of Bridgeport, Conn., but he couldn't.

eligible for the draft. "A lot of people think it's an easy decision because everyone's heard of Tisdale and the average fan hasn't heard of Benjamin," Irvine said. "But if you talk to basketball people, they say Benjamin has the same potential as Tisdale. He may not have the immediate impact of Tisdale in his first year, but he's a 7-foot center, and a good 7-foot center is hard to come by. You can't just pass on a guy like that without considering him." The Los Angeles Clippers, picking third, have said they will take whoever is left between Tisdale and Benjamin.

"Indiana has a tough decision," Clippers spokesman Scott Carmichael said. "We just have a choice of the opposite of who they pick. We'd love to have either one. Our ultimate need is more with power forward, but good 7-foot centers don't come along often. We feel we can't lose."

Marty Blake, the NBA's director of scouting services, said Ewing is the only "sure starter" in the entire draft," but he believes this year's available crop is filled with potentially strong frontcourt players, an area where teams never feel they are overstocked.

"Call this 'The Year of the Big Man,'" Blake said. "You're lucky when you get one or two top centers in one draft. At least six centers will go in the first round, and there are a lot of likely first-rounders who might have been centers in college who will wind up playing the big forward in the NBA."

Besides Ewing and Benjamin, the top center prospects are 7-0 Jon Koncak of Southern Methodist, 6-11 Joe Kleine of Arkansas, 7-0 Bill Wennington of St. John's, 7-2 Uwe Blab of Indiana and 6-11 Yvon Joseph of Georgia Tech. Koncak and Kleine, like Tisdale and Ewing, were 1994 U.S. Olympians, while Blab was on West Germany's Olympic team.

Also in the "big man" category are 6-10 Keith Lee of Memphis State, 6-9 Karl Malone of Louisiana Tech, another underclassman; 6-8 Terry Catledge of South Alabama, 7-

Here are profiles of NBA draft prospects:

By The Associated Press

A brief look, in alphabetical order, at possible first-round picks in Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft, with name, height and college.

BENOIT BENJAMIN, 7-0, Creighton — Leaving school after his junior year with an inconsistency tag on him. Finished second in nation in rebounding at 14.1 and scored at a 21.5 clip. Was coached in college by former NBA great Willis Reed.

UWE BLAB, 7-0, Indiana — Native of West Germany who learned a lot under Bobby Knight but still has a way to go. Showed he liked contact and learned a solid hook shot. Might get a chance to be a backup center in NBA.

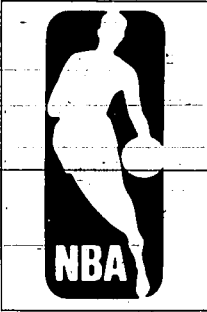

MANUTE BOL, 7-6, Bridgeport — Weighs just 195 pounds and played only one year of non-Division I basketball, but the native of Sudan still has a look because of size and shot-blocking ability. Currently leading United States Basketball League in rebounding, 14.4, and blocked shots, 12.6 per game.

TERRY CATTLEDGE, 6-9, South Alabama — Fifth-leading scorer in nation at 25.6 and also pulled down 11.5 rebounds per game. Has an NBA body and likes the physical game.

LORENZO CHARLES, 6-7, North Carolina State — Matured physically during his college career and now possesses NBA body. Improved shooting touch tremendously, only question could be ability to play defense.

JOE DUMARS, 6-2, McNeese State — Fourth-leading scorer in the nation last year at 25.3, but small school size did not get around. Considered excellent ballhandler but he was often criticized for flashiness.

PATRICK EWING, 7-0, Georgetown — The obvious first pick in the draft after leading the Hoyas to three national championship games in four years. AP Player of the Year in 1985. Never produced impressive personal statistics in Georgetown's team-oriented offense but was the most dominant defensive player collegiately since Bill Russell. A member of United States' gold-medal basketball team at last summer's Olympics.

STEVE HARRIS, 6-5, Tulsa — School's all-time leading scorer, finished with 23.6 average last year. Good shooter with smooth inside moves. Known for quickness, especially on defense.

ALFREDRICK HUGHES, 6-5, Loyola, Ill. — Second-leading scorer in NCAA last year at 26.3. Likes to shoot and his range improved each year during his career. Considered a question mark in other areas.

JOE KLEINE, 6-11, Arkansas — Another member of the U.S. Olympic team, he is known for determination and ability to rise to the occasion. With his red hair, he looks and plays like former NBA star Dave Cowens. Averaged 22.1 points last season.

JON KONCAK, 7-0, Southern Methodist — Ewing's backup on the Olympic team. Possesses good moves down low although he's not a good jumper. Finished at 10.7 rebounds per game as he carried SMU through tough schedule. Needs to become more aggressive.

KEITH LEE, 6-10, Memphis State — Had outstanding college career but was tagged early as inconsistent. Great shooter who runs and passes well. Added quite a bit of bulk as his college career went on. His poor performance in NCAA semifinal against Ed Pinckney might have hurt him.

KARL MALONE, 6-9, Louisiana Tech — Brought the Bulldogs to national prominence and is leaving them a year early. Despite his size, he is not considered a good rebounder but has an excellent shot from the 15-18 foot range.

XAVIER McDANIEL, 6-7, Wichita State — Finished as the NCAA's scoring and rebounding leader in 1985 with 37.2 and 11.3 marks, respectively. Great athlete who didn't receive as much publicity as some others but was noticed right away by NBA scouts.

CHRIS MULLIN, 6-6, St. John's — Set school and conference marks for scoring after four years of outstanding shooting. Considered slow of foot and has only average jumping ability, but is an excellent passer and floor leader. Some concern about shoulder injury suffered during Big East tournament that might have affected his play during Final Four.

CHARLES OAKLEY, 6-9, Virginia Union — The only non-Division I player that will definitely be selected on the first round. Led Division I rebounding at 17.8 per game and scored at a 24.3 clip. Very aggressive player who thrives on contact.

ED PINCKNEY, 6-9, Villanova — Improved draft position tremendously with outstanding Final Four performance against Lee and Ewing. Silky moves inside make up for lack of bulk. Extremely coachable and will be coming from solid, team-oriented program.

BLAIR RASMUSSEN, 7-0, Oregon — Big and slow, but has a nice touch up to 15 feet. Played well in post-season all-star games, and you can't teach height.

DETLEF SCHREMPF, 6-9, Washington — West German native who has been called poor man's Larry Bird. Outstanding passer who runs the court well and excels in transition game. Only knock against him was he was too unselfish at times. Played well in post-season all-star games.

GREG STOKES, 6-10, Iowa — Never realized his potential after outstanding freshman year but has good touch and runs the court very well. His lack of visible improvement may hurt his draft status.

WAYMAN TISDALE, 6-9, Oklahoma — Despite leaving school a year early, he shattered every Big Eight-conference scoring record. Has tremendous inside moves and his defense improved tremendously since his U.S. Olympic experience. Finished last season with a 23.3 scoring average.

SAM VINCENT, 6-3, Michigan State — Considered the best of the play-making guards leaving school this year. Can score when needed but is better at running the floor. His brother, Jay, has had a good NBA career with Dallas.

BILL WENNINGTON, 7-0, St. John's — Runs the floor very well for a big man and possesses good jump shot in the 15-foot range. Along with Mullin, he helped the Redmen to Final Four berth. Should be a good backup center in the NBA.

Bol

His parents are dead and his sister Abouk is back in the city of Gogrial, tending to the family cows in the vast swampland Bol calls home. He hasn't heard from her since before the military coup that toppled President Gaafar Nimeiri and imposed martial law last April in an attempt to restore order to a nation boiling in political and economic turmoil.

"The decision to leave school was hard, but then it was not a hard," Bol said. "I have to think, if I want to see my sister and I want to go home, then I must leave school. I have no money. I have nothing. I want to help myself and my sister."

He does have a recent letter from a cousin saying that Abouk is fine, and he has the hope that he can parlay a salary no more than $20,000 a year into a fabulous career in the National Basketball Association. He's 21, if his passport is to be believed, and he already has lived through so much. He didn't pick up a basketball until five years ago and even then he had to be convinced he ought to give the game a try. "I remember the first time I slam-dunked," he said. "I hit my mouth on the basket and broke my teeth."

More often, Bol cared for the cattle and his vegetable patch, the existence carved out by many other Dinka tribesmen in the country's sweltering temperatures. He also sold food and clothing in the market, but it was the cows and the small harvest of tomatoes, onions and rice that took up most of Bol's time long before he ever heard of a sky hook.

NOW PEUGEOT OFFERS A BETTER WARRANTY THAN EVEN BMW, SAAB OR AUDI.

That's right. As of May 1st, any newly purchased 1985 Peugeot includes a better warranty package than all three luxury imports.

First, Peugeot gives you a New Vehicle Limited Warranty which extends to three years or 36,000 miles. That means Peugeot will repair or replace, without charge, any defects in material or workmanship.

Second, Peugeot provides a Powertrain Limited Warranty which extends to 5 years or 50,000 miles. Its coverage includes engine, transmission, driveshaft and rear-axle components.

With this kind of protection, you're probably expecting endless qualifications and disclaimers. Well, don't. Peugeot can afford to offer a warranty so impressive because our cars are so impressive.

For 98 years, Peugeot has maintained a reputation for building quality automobiles to some of the most exacting standards in the world. And now, Peugeot is providing a warranty package to match.

For complete details, see a copy of the warranty at your local Peugeot dealer.
