Shiite crowds mob airport, profane U.S.

By JUAN-CARLOS GUMUCIO
The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Two American hijack hostages may be freed because of illness, officials said Friday.

At the airport, near the TWA jet, hundreds of Shiite Moslem radicals shouted praise to the "heroes of Islam" who set off the

The demonstrators chanted "Death to America! Death to Reagan! Death to Israel!" in a scene reminiscent of the Iranian hostage crisis that ended in 1981. Many carried huge posters of Iran's fundamentalist Shiite leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

People in the crowd stamped on American and Israeli flags and set them afire to a chorus of triumphant chants.

Friday marked one week since two young Shiite gunmen seized the Boeing 727 on an Athens-Rome flight, demanding the release of hundreds of Shiite prisoners Israel forces took prisoner during their withdrawal from south Lebanon.

Israel has said it plans to release the prisoners when the situation is calmer in south Lebanon, from which it completed its withdrawal earlier this month. Both the United States and Israel have refused to negotiate with those holding the hostages.

All the 40 remaining hostages held are Americans. Three crewmen are aboard the plane and 37 passengers are held at various points in and around Beirut by members of the Shiite militia Amal.

An airport official and an official of Amal, both of whom spoke on condition of anonymity, said Shiite leaders were "examining the condition" of Jimmy Dell Palmer, 48, of Little Rock, Ark., who has high blood pressure and a heart condition.

But Palmer's son, Jim Palmer Jr., said later in Little Rock, Ark., that the State Department had informed the family that the elder Palmer was examined by doctors at American University Hospital, found to be in good health and returned to his captors.

The officials said Claude Whitmoyer, who is from Severn, Md., and in his late 30s, also might be freed for medical treatment, but they had no information on his illness.

In the United States, the relatives of another hostage with a similar name, and a plane, apparently fearing the demonstrators might surge toward it.

Israel told U.S. firm

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz assigned Israel on Friday that Reagan administration will make no concessions to the hijackers in Beirut or ask others to yield to their demands.

In a telephone conversation at noon, Shultz told Prime Minister Shimon Peres that "our position remains firm."

A U.S. official who demanded anonymity said the Reagan administration expects Israel to honor the commitment it made to release all the Shites.

quill, Ill. — said he has only one lung and his health could be at risk.

Palmer was reported taken to a hospital. "The State Department called me and said he had been taken to American University Hospital and the way going to have a checkup," one of Palmer's sons, John, 21, said in Little Rock.

Amal leader Nabih Berri, who also is justice minister in the nominal government of this war-ravaged land, has taken responsibility for their welfare.

The rally, which was the first major demonstration supporting the hijackers, involved about 700 men and women who marched out of the Shiite slums adjacent to the airport in a long, noisy column, shouting their slogans.

Half the crowd marched to within 600 yards of the parked jetliner, led by three carloads of gunmen from the Hezbollah (Party of God), the radical Shiite group that organized the demonstration.

There were brief scuffles with Amal militiamen, who control the battle-scarred airport south of Beirut.

Scores of Amal fighters ringed the plane, brandishing automatic rifles and pistols, apparently fearing the demonstrators might surge toward it.

'Hopper spray war intensifies

By The Associated Press

Spraying against grasshoppers near the one million acre mark in southern Idaho on Friday, as more military aircraft arrived in the state to boost the effort.

An Air Force C-123 arrived in Pocatello Friday afternoon, the first of three to be used in an intensified effort to attack a grasshopper outbreak that threatens southern Idaho farmland.

The Federal Animal Plant Health Inspector Service at Twin Falls said 61,583 acres were covered Friday in Elmore, Minidoka and Twin Falls counties. Spraying continued in other areas, but there was no immediate report on the area covered.

Through Thursday night, spraying had covered nearly 800,000 acres. But it will take many days to cover the entire infested area. About 4.4 million acres already are under contract for spraying, with more contracts being signed almost daily.

State agricultural officials say it appears at least 5 million acres will have to be sprayed, much of it federal land.

Local, state and federal officials scrambled Friday to get through the paperwork and arrange for airplanes and helicopters for the spraying.

"In many areas farmers are getting eaten out of house and home," said Gene Gibson, Gooding County agricultural extension agent. "If I don't get some planes up in the air pretty soon, I might as well go find another state to live in."

Don Neilson, spokesman for the government-backed spraying program, said by Sunday afternoon, three Air Force C-123s should be available to help. They were promised by the Reagan administration to help accelerate the campaign to save valuable crop and grazing lands.

Neilson said the crews will take an orientation flight late Saturday and if "it looks good," they're hoping to be in the air working on Sunday."

Spraying is expected to start on major tracts on Sunday. Some 350,000 acres are to be sprayed in Cassia County. And in Bingham County, work is to start on 250,000 acres of state, federal and private land and

House wants Poseidon saved instead of being dismantled

By TIM AHERN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House voted Friday to tell President Reagan to look at other possible uses for a Poseidon submarine-launched ballistic missile instead of dismantling the weapon to comply with nuclear arms limits in the unratified SALT II treaty.

The chamber gave voice-over approval to a proposal by Rep. Duncan Hunter, R-Calif., to require studying whether the missile-firing submarine can be given to Great Britain, or converted to an attack sub or a cruise missile-carrying sub.

"We should see if there are any other ways to use this sub besides taking it apart," Hunter said.

Reagan last week announced the sub would be dismantled to keep the United States to remain within SALT II limits next fall when a new Trident missile-firing sub, the Alaska, enters service.

Hunter's proposal was approved as the House worked its way through a bill authorizing most of a proposed $232 billion Pentagon budget for fiscal 1986, starting Oct. 1.

The measure that passes the Democratic-controlled House will have to be reconciled by House-Senate negotiators with a $302 billion defense bill already passed by the Republican-dominated Senate.

The House has been debating and voting on the bill for a week and agreed to consider only non-controversial amendments Friday because many congressmen had returned to their districts for the weekend.

Two days ago, the Senate voted 78-17 against a move by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., which would have also blocked spending $21 million to dismantle the sub.

Other amendments approved Friday:

• Ordered the Pentagon to strike a special medal to present to America's 142,000 former prisoners of war dating back to World War I. "The official recognition of our POWs is long overdue," said Rep. Robert Lagomarsino, R-Calif., chief sponsor of the proposal.

• Created an Office of Family Policy in the Pentagon to try to come up with ways to improve living conditions of spouses and children of servicemen.

• Permits the Pentagon to spend $10 million for humanitarian aid for resister fighters opposing the Soviet-controlled government of Afghanistan.

Locals raise stink over Heyburn air

HEYBURN — There's something rotten in the air in Heyburn. No one is sure where the smell is coming from, but everyone agrees it's bad.

Thursday night more than 150 local residents attended a meeting at the Heyburn Elementary School called to organize community action against the smell which has come wafting over the community, apparently from a multitude of neighboring potato processing plants and wastewater treatment facilities.

Adding to the area's aroma is Cassia County's waste-powered boiler.

"There's been nights where it's been so bad that it's woke me up out a deep sleep," said Dean Baker, a city councilman in Heyburn.

"It's unbearable," said Ron Hewart, whose wife Pam helped organize the meeting. "Friends who don't live in the area come over to see you and they have to leave after an hour because they just can't stand it," he added.

The odor has been around for a long time. But over the past three years residents say that the smell has gotten worse.

Thursday night Heyburn residents mapped out plans for a petition drive against the odor problem and also laid plans for tracing the source of the smell.

Part of the town's problem is that there is no shortage of potential culprits. With a Simplot potato pro-

Dues conflict left after fact-finding session

By PAULA EUBANKS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Representatives of the Twin Falls School District and the teachers' union say only a few issues of conflict remain to be settled after the fact-finding session between the two sides Thursday.

"We made some headway," said Carl Snow, superintendent of the Twin Falls School District. "There's an understanding on all the issues. There will be modification on all the issues, except for one, by both sides."

The one remaining conflict, according to Snow, is the question of whether the district or the union should collect the union's dues.

"There would be a settlement within 30 minutes, if they (the union) would collect their own dues," Snow said.

School Board member Robert D. Knighton agreed the dues collection issue was central to settlement.

"The collection of dues is not something that the board is going to want to give in to," Knighton said. "It's a very philosophical thing with us. It's my personal opinion that it's improper for us to collect their dues. We don't do it for the (Benevolent

Paternal Order of Elks."

Other school district and union representatives said some conflicts could also remain on the board's proposal of a new clause providing for yearly union certification elections and new wording on grievance procedures.

The elections, grievance limitations and dues collection could be used to test the ability of the union to represent the teachers.

Representatives of the Twin Falls Education Association and Idaho Education Association, the local and state union organizations, generally declined to comment on how they think the fact-finding session affected their relationship to the board.

"I think this situation is so important that I shouldn't discuss it at the moment," said Jana Roy, a French teacher and negotiator for the TFEA.

"It's very precarious."

New TFEA President Ray Grubbs said "I will decline to comment now because it might affect the future attitudes on both sides. I'm hoping for the best."

Connie Hutchison, president of the IEA and a former Twin Falls teacher, said she will let the local association speak out on its own issue. Terry Gilbert, the local representative of the IEA, held a similar position.

Mainly, the participants in the dispute expressed hope that the fact-finder's recommendations would more clearly define what areas need to be resolved.

"We'll be more interested in the report than in the fact-finding session itself," Knighton said.

The fact-finder's report is due to the union and board by July 10. The union and board plan to refrain from discussing the report publicly until July 24 in an attempt to settle.

A fact-finder is a paid, neutral expert in negotiations between employers and employees.

Specifically, the board proposed that the school district no longer be required to collect the monthly dues that member teachers pay the union. The district has not collected any dues in 1985.

If the district were to collect dues, it would be by an automatic payroll deduction program into the district's computer.

But the wording of the dues collection clause is "unrealistic and outdated," said Gary Fay, vice president of the school board. Snow said the deduction was done previously by hand.

Jerry Gates, the district negotiator, said TEACHERS on Page A6

Kloos' return pursued

TWIN FALLS — Returning former bankruptcy trustee Teresa Kloos Pratt from a federal prison to Twin Falls to answer a bad check charge will take a lot of forms and cost between $800 and $1,000.

But the Twin Falls County Prosecutor's office is making the effort, said Prosecutor K. Ellen Baxter, after a Friday hearing on the issue.

The hearing was the result of Pratt's unavailability to appear in person to plead to a felony charge of writing a $507 check Oct. 23 to Gateway Home and RV Center in Twin Falls without sufficient funds in her bank account.

Pratt previously had pleaded innocent. Soon after her initial court appearance in Twin Falls, however, she was sentenced in Boise to five years in federal prison on a conviction of embezzling more than $200,000 during her duties as a trustee.

Eastwood prefers filming in Idaho

By BARBARA NEIWERT
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — "I've shot films in other states, but none of them are better than Idaho," Clint Eastwood said Friday before the premiere in Sun Valley of his new film, "Pale Rider."

East Tail, Eastwood, Hollywood's top box office draw, filmed "Pale Rider" almost entirely on location in the Sun Valley area.

"I spend a lot of time here in the winter," Eastwood explained. "Sun Valley is my favorite place to ski, and I am familiar with the area," making it the best setting for "Pale Rider."

"I have great memories in the state of Idaho," he added.

Dressed casually in a gray tweed sport jacket and maroon shirt, Eastwood quipped that the reporters present at a Friday afternoon press conference at the Sun Valley Lodge were "overdressed" in their shirts and ties. By contrast, the actor seemed relaxed and completely sure of himself.

In addition to playing the lead role, Eastwood produced and directed "Pale Rider," which co-stars Michael Moriarty, Carrie Snodgrass, Christopher Penn, Richard Dysart and Richard Kiel.

A classic western, the film is set during the gold rush era and portrays the confrontation between a large mining corporation and independent miners befriended by a nameless stranger, played by Eastwood.

When choosing a filming location, existing mining operations in Montana were considered. However, Chuck Webb, assistant general manager of Sun Valley Company, was instrumental in introducing the production staff to the Sun Valley area, Eastwood said.

Fritz Manes, executive producer of the film, said the weather was cooperative during the short filming schedule they worked under.

"When we wanted it to snow, it snowed," Manes said.

"The only trouble was, there was no snow in the script," Eastwood replied.

Eastwood is currently contributing to the writing of another film, but he says there will be no sequel to "Pale Rider." Eastwood fans can expect another western within a year or two.

"There is an old-fashioned spirit of being on location that you just can't get when you're on the set," said Eastwood. "We certainly would look at Idaho first," he said when he begins his next filming project.

To supplement the cast and crew brought in from Hollywood, several local people were hired to help with the film.

Many had parts as "extras," and three had speaking parts.

"I was like a kid with my eyes wide open," Ketchum resident Kathy Wyle remembers.

A founding member of Ketchum's theater group "Laughing Stock," Wyle played Bess Gossage, a miner's wife and friend of Sarah, played by Carrie Snodgrass.

"Everything the company did was so well planned, it went like clockwork," she said. "It was a thrill to work with that caliber of people."

Sentenced man released pending re-trial request

TWIN FALLS — A Hazelton man sentenced Monday to life imprisonment for sexually molesting an 8-year-old girl will be released from prison pending the outcome of a request for a new trial, a Fifth District Court judge ruled Friday.

Greg Fuller, the attorney representing 31-year-old Robert Millard Rogers, claims a new trial is warranted because a juror who helped convict Rogers alleged mid the fact that his own daughter had been molested.

Rogers received the maximum sentence on the charge of lewd conduct with a minor under 16 in connection with June 3, 1984, incident. Fifth District Judge Daniel Hurlburt retained jurisdiction in the case for four months and ordered Rogers to a state rehabilitation program in Coltonwood.

The same day as the sentencing, Fuller notified the court he was Rogers' new counsel.

Fuller also requested a new trial. Time was of the essence because Rogers was illegally incarcerated, Hurlburt said at a Friday hearing on the request.

To support his motion, Fuller called a man who served on the jury that convicted Rogers March 1. The man tearfully admitted his daughter had been sexually abused several years ago.

The juror said he didn't remember being asked by the judge or attorneys during the trial about whether anyone in his family had been abused. He recalled the abuse incident during deliberations.

When Fuller asked if he had been prejudiced against Rogers because of the incident with the juror's daughter, the juror answered "I must have been under questioning by Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. ## Winds spread dairy hay fire

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

RICHFIELD — Winds as strong as 45 miles per hour spread fire through an estimated 600 tons of new hay and into corrals at the Richfield Mutton Dairy Thursday afternoon, causing an estimated $40,000 loss.

Brooks Little, general manager for the dairy-firm, said the fire started in one of the large hay stacks about 3:30 p.m. and the winds carried it back and forth between the two stacks of baled hay during the next several hours, destroying both.

He said there was little firemen could do to save the hay because of the winds.

They tried to fight it for a while but realized they couldn't stop it and concentrated on keeping it from spreading further, he said.

The dairy is managed by Aurora Capital Corp., and is one of four Mutton dairies in Magic Valley. It is located about three and one-half miles north of Richfield.

He said cause of the fire was unknown, but added the hay had just been brought in from the fields and stackers were still working at the site when the fire started.

The hay, he said, represented feed for the next three months for the 550-head dairy herd on the farm.

"We still have some hay in the field, but not much. I don't know what we will do to replace the hay," he said.

Although there was some space between the two large stacks, the wind carried the sparks into the other and fanned flames high into the air.

Firemen and dairy workers were breaking up the stacks with bulldozer equipment, but the effort did little to slow down the fire.

Mrs. Everett Ward, a neighbor to the dairy, said their home is about a quarter of a mile away and was not in danger. However, their son and daughter-in-law, the Scott Wards, live across the road from the dairy.

Because of sparks carried in the high winds, firemen sprinkled the outside of the homes of the Scott Ward family and a ranch employee. Mrs. Ward said firemen also suggested her daughter-in-law take the children from the home because of the thick smoke.

Region IV director will resign

TWIN FALLS — Susan Pettit, director of the Region IV Development Association, says she is resigning at the end of the month after a dispute with the organization's board.

"The state is not dropping the case because she (Pratt) can't afford it," Baxter said.

Hurlburt said the court will use a presentence report prepared for the federal case.

another job, because he believes it is time for a change.

Region IV is a private, non-profit corporation that operates mostly on contract with state and federal agencies to provide services providing economic development assistance and local government.

"It works on employment training, small business loans and assisting with start-up applications for small business in the Magic Valley," Pettit says. "It has been the primary focus of the organization, change during his decade with it."

"Originally we did government assistance," he says. "We helped cities and counties find grants."

The organization has since changed its focus in response to a new direction at the federal level.

"Now the government works closely with business, such as through its loan program while the group used to be more of a grant program," he says.

Pettit says she has seen the primary focus of the organization change during his decade with it.

IRS strives to mail last tax refund checks by end of July

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nearly 600,000 individual taxpayers who filed their returns by the April 15 deadline but have not yet received a refund should be getting a check by the end of July, the Internal Revenue Service said Friday.

Commissioner Roscoe L. Egger told a House Ways and Means committee that in the first two weeks of June, the agency had paid $5,985,000 in interest penalties to taxpayers for late payment of refunds.

The penalty is 10 percent, compounded daily. By law, the IRS must make refunds by June 1 for tax returns filed by the April 15 deadline.

Late penalties paid by the IRS for the same two-week period last year totaled $6,855,000, or nearly $900,000 more than this year. Egger could not estimate the total of interest penalties the IRS will pay this year.

IRS spokesman Scott Waflie said that from April 15 to Sept. 30, 1984, the IRS paid $289 million in all types of interest to individual taxpayers.

Egger said that because of delays stemming from the updating of the IRS computer network, the agency still has not processed 500,000 to 600,000 tax returns filed by April 15.

In some cases, he said, taxpayers were asked to send in a duplicate tax return because the original forms got lost in the new computer network.

Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, the subcommittee chairman, asked why.

Egger responded that the original returns are "in the system somewhere. We will find them eventually. — Some of the data did not come out of the system."

He said the IRS is asking taxpayers to help the IRS speed the process by filing a copy of the first return, clearly marked "duplicate" to avoid confusion with original in the IRS system.

Egger said taxpayers eventually would get a refund if they chose not to file a duplicate return, but it could take longer.

"We estimate that processing of timely filed 1984 returns will be virtually completed by the end of July," Egger said.

As of June 13, Egger said, the IRS processed 66,473,000 tax returns and wrote $54,758,237,000 in refund checks to taxpayers.

Egger said that despite the computer problems, his agency has processed more returns and issued 600,000 more refunds than it did at the same point last year.

"We don't think there are in a terribly different or worse shape than we were last year," he said. "By the end of about another three weeks, we will be at a normal level, but it doesn't mean that every single return will have been processed."

IRS spokesman Ellen Murphy said that by the end of August, the IRS aims to finish processing all returns in which the taxpayer breaks even or has asked that a refund be made to the IRS.

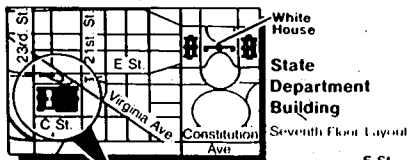

Egger said the IRS will never completely avoid the payment of interest on all returns filed by April 15, partly because taxpayers are filing returns later every year and squeezing an enormous workload into the final weeks before the filing deadline.

George Shultz was only 100 feet away

State Department site of double shooting

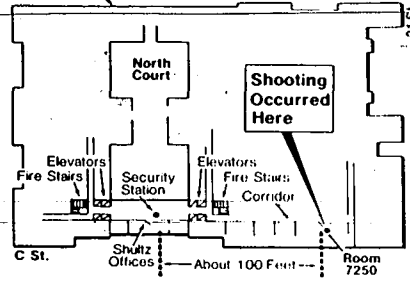

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rifle-carrying man eluded State Department security Friday, shot and killed his mother in a hallway 100 feet from Secretary of State George Shultz's office, then took his own life.

Shultz was working in his office when the shootings occurred about noon. It was the violent climax of what District of Columbia police said was a domestic quarrel involving a mother and son.

Neither local police nor State Department officials could explain how the gunman would breach the department's strict security measures, including metal detectors at every public entrance to the building, and go apparently unchallenged to the same floor where Shultz's suite is situated.

City police identified the victims as State Department employee Carol Doster, 44, of suburban Alexandria, Va., and her son, Edward Steven Doster, 20, also of Alexandria.

Eileen Gilchrist, a staff member at the Alexandria Women's Shelter, said in a telephone interview there had been previous friction between Mrs. Doster and her son.

"Carol was a resident of the shelter from May 30 to June 15. She came to us because of an abuse by her son," Ms. Gilchrist said.

"The abuse had been a lot more severe in the past two months, both physical and verbal," she said. "It's my understanding that she sought medical treatment but she had no hope that it was aware of."

Ms. Gilchrist said Mrs. Doster moved out of the shelter saying her apartment building had been made secure enough that she would be "relatively safe."

"My understanding is that she had contacted security, had given them a picture of her son, had the locks changed on her apartment, gotten an unlisted telephone number and been reassured that he would not be able to get into the building," Ms. Gilchrist said.

Ms. Gilchrist said the son did have a State Department "dependent pass."

Several department officials suggested that the young Doster, who also carried a knife, most likely entered the building with a pass that identified him as a dependent of a department employee.

People using dependent passes, along with employees, certain contractors and members of the press, had not been required to pass through metal detectors or have their packages searched when they entered the building.

The department issued a notice late Friday declaring that visitors without State Department or Agency for International Development identification would be required henceforth to pass through metal detectors.

It said cars entering the garage would be similarly checked — ID card drivers and passengers without ID cards would be required to get out and pass through the metal detector at the main entrance.

Reporters holding State Department passes were required to pass through metal detectors Friday for the first time.

Before the new rules were announced, a senior department official told reporters security at the agency already was in good shape.

"I think tragic incidents such as this can take place. ... It's possible for an employee to walk in with a weapon and shoot somebody," he said.

He added: "We have to function here. Seven thousand employees. Are we going to search 7,000 people every day? I don't think so."

The official sought to draw a distinction between what happened Friday and the possibility of a terrorist incident. He said he did not guarantee that a similar shooting might not happen again, but that if a gunman had been looking for Shultz, he would have to get past extra security surrounding Shultz's office.

Lawyer flails police

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With survivalist Leonard Lake dead and his alleged accomplice a fugitive, authorities are trying to make Lake's ex-wife a suspect in a case involving 22 dead or missing people, according to her attorney.

"In effect, she is the only person they have and therefore the only person they can make a suspect," said Stan Rozanski, who is representing Charlynn Balazs and her father, Louis Balazs.

Authorities say the two are co-owners of the mountain compound where investigators so far have unearthed the remains of six people, and found clues in numerous missing persons cases. The investigation at the compound about 150 miles east of here continued Friday.

After earlier helping police with the investigation, Ms. Balazs held a news conference last weekend saying she would lend no further assistance unless state and federal prosecutors promised her immunity — a request still under consideration.

"Although she is the only visible person who has a definite link to the case, she is free to do what she wants and go where she wants to go," Deputy Police Chief Joseph Lordan said Friday.

Miller explains papers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former FBI agent Richard W. Miller testified Friday he was carrying a loan application, not classified documents, when he slipped into the car of his Soviet lover in view of FBI surveillance cameras.

subject, and Miller never explained why he took the application with him when he met Mrs. Ogorodnikov.

Government prosecutors had disclosed to jurors that Miller's envelope contained classified documents he was delivering to his Soviet sweetheart.

Miller, 48, is charged with conspiring with Mrs. Ogorodnikov, 35, and her husband, Nikolay, 52, to pass classified documents to the Soviet Union.

Brian, Mrs. Ogorodnikov's attorney, in his third day of cross-examination Miller, chipped away at the government's most prized pieces of circumstantial evidence in the case — most of it contained in video and audio surveillance tapes.

Miller, the first FBI agent ever charged with spying, was testifying at the trial of his Soviet co-defendants when he offered the new interpretation of his actions of Sept. 12, 1984.

Jurors watched the slow, silent tape of Miller seated in his car tapping an envelope on the steering wheel, apparently waiting for someone. Later on, he gets out, still holding the white envelope, and gets into a car driven by Svetlana Ogorodnikov.

There was little elaboration on the audio surveillance tapes.

Mother wants trade for spy testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department officials said Friday that a refusal by Barbara Walker to testify against her ex-husband John A. Walker Jr. would not damage the government's case against the alleged leader of a spy ring selling Navy secrets to the Soviets.

Mrs. Walker said in an interview published Friday by The New York Times that she was considering refusing to testify against John unless prosecutors granted immunity to her son Michael.

"I think we have enough evidence to win without her," said one department official who spoke only on condition of not being identified by name.

Prosecutors still would like to have the testimony from Mrs. Walker, however, who with her daughter Laura Walker Snyder reported John Walker to the FBI last November.

Mrs. Walker has said her motive in finally exposing the espionage — after first suspecting it, then knowing about it, over an 18-year period — was to prevent her ex-husband from enlisting her son in the spy ring.

She and Laura have said Mrs. Walker was stunned when Michael, 22, was taken into custody at his post aboard the aircraft carrier Nimitz a day after John's arrest May 20 in a motel in the Washington suburbs.

Both John and Michael have been charged with spying for the Soviets; both have pleaded innocent. Also charged in the case are John's brother Arthur, 50, and his old Navy friend, Jerry A. Whitworth of Davis, Calif., who also has pleaded innocent. All the Walkers are from the Norfolk, Va., area.

Sources said last month that Michael spoke freely to agents of the Naval Investigative Service about his alleged role in the ring as he was being transferred from the carrier in the Mediterranean to Baltimore to face charges.

But since then, his court-appointed lawyer, Charles G. Bernstein, has said that he is not cooperating with the government.

Justice Department spokesman John Russell declined to comment on Mrs. Walker's threat. He said he was unaware of any cooperation at this time by Michael Walker.

In the interview, Mrs. Walker also said she warned her husband that she had turned him in to the FBI and expected him to flee to the Soviet Union before he was arrested.

"I wanted to give John a chance to run," she said, interviewed at Cape Cod, Mass., where she now lives.

She said she sent the message by his brother Arthur. "I called Art to tell John I had turned him in. I thought he would go to Russia," she said.

But she said that two months ago, in their last face-to-face meeting, she said she warned her husband that she had turned him in to the FBI and expected him to flee to the Soviet Union before he was arrested.

Senate Republicans, Reagan reach terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local governments and businesses will have to pay part of the cost of all future Army Corps of Engineers water projects under an agreement worked out between Senate Republicans and the Reagan administration, Senate leaders announced Friday.

The agreement — which, if enacted, would end years of bickering — removed the threat that President Reagan would veto the $14 billion fiscal 1985 supplemental appropriations bill that included money for a number of new projects, according to a statement by Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.

And Congress has not funded any new corps projects since 1979.

Under the agreement reached Thursday but outlined in statements put into the Congressional Record on Friday, the Senate will move next month on a bill that would specify the percentage of a project's cost that local interests would pay.

That percentage would range from 25 to 35 percent for flood control projects to 50 percent and more for recreation and beach erosion control. And the bill that would specify the dredging projects would be split equally between the federal and non-federal sources.

17-year-old Texan 1985 Junior Miss

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Valerie Lowrance, a 17-year-old Texan, was selected America's 1985 Junior Miss on Friday after performing a song and dance number to the tune of "New York, New York" in the nationally televised contest.

Miss Lowrance, of Seguin, received a $25,000 scholarship to the college of her choice. She also collected a $500 scholarship for winning the physical fitness category.

The first runner-up was Lona Williams, 17, of Rosemont, Minn., who won a $10,000 scholarship. Anna Whitesides, 17, of Newry, C., was second runner-up and was given a $7,000 scholarship.

The other two finalists, who each received $5,000 scholarships, were Deltra Patterson, 17, of Blount Miss., and Terri Ivens, 18, of Reno, Nev.

Joint war games reach climax

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — American and Thai marines will attack a beach in southern Thailand next month to climax four weeks of air, sea and land war games code-named " Cobra Gold '85," a senior navy officer said Friday.

Rear Admiral Watanapol Saneewong, the amphibious squadron commander, said the exercises, which began June 14, involved about 10,600 troops, 24 ships and 34 planes from the two countries.

On July 12 the marines are to attack the Thepa Beach in Songkhla province, 450 miles south of Bangkok.

Cobra Gold '85 includes minesweeping, special warfare operations, air and sea maneuvers, anti-submarine and surface operations as well as joint exercises in planning, command and control, Watanapol said.

It is the fourth such exercise between Thailand and the United States, its main Western ally.

Sino-French space pact signed

PEKING (AP) — China and France signed a space technology agreement Friday, according to news reports.

Under the agreement, the two countries will cooperate in building ground observation satellite platforms, satellite monitoring equipment and carrier-rocket components, officials said.

Evening television news showed representatives of China's Astronautics Industry Ministry and the French National Space Study Center signing the agreement at a ceremony attended by Defense Minister Wang Aoping in Peking.

The Chinese government announced on Thursday that it would sign the agreement.

Quake rumbles Aegean island

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A moderate tremor shook the Aegean island of Euboea early Friday but no damage or casualties were reported, the Athens Seismological Institute said.

It said the quake occurred at 3:15 a.m. local time (6:15 p.m. Thursday EDT) and measured 4.4 on the Richter scale, signifying it could have caused moderate damage in a crowded area.

The quake's epicenter was 40 miles north of Athens, the Institute said.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph.

Soviets launch space supplies

MOSCOW (AP) — An unmanned cargo craft was launched Friday to deliver fuel, life support systems and other equipment to two cosmonauts aboard the Salyut 7 space station, the official news agency Tass said.

The 4,400-pound unmanned craft, Progress 24, was launched at 4:40 a.m. and is scheduled to dock with the Salyut 7 complex Sunday. Such maneuvers are rarely announced in advance in the secretive Soviet space program.

Veteran cosmonaut Col. Vladimir Dzhanibekov, 43, and engineer Viktor Savinykh, 45, have been aboard Salyut 7 since June 8.

The cosmonauts, who hurried into space June 6 aboard the Soyuz T-13 in the first manned Soviet mission to be launched in nearly a year, spent twice as long as previous missions in reaching the space station.

Thrillseekers take tower dive

NIAGARA FALLS, Ontario (AP) — Two men pulled what authorities called a "very, very risky" stunt by skydiving off a 520-foot observation tower near Horseshoe Falls.

The two landed in a parking lot, gathered up their parachutes, and sped away "in a van Thursday evening," said Staff Sgt. Howard Chesney of the Niagara Regional Police.

"We were surprised," said Ray Thompson, the tower's general manager. "What disturbs us is that if they had asked permission to make the jump, we might have given them the opportunity to do it under controlled circumstances."

"It was very dangerous and very, very risky for themselves and for others," he said.

Chesney and Thompson said there was no likelihood the pair could have been blown into the waterfalls, which are several hundred feet away.

Reputed drug kingpin arrested

AUBENAS, France (AP) — The reputed leader of an international drug ring, an elderly Corsican nicknamed "The Chemist," has been arrested in southern France two years after escaping from an Italian jail, police sources said Friday.

Joseph Antoine Restori, who was serving a 25-year term at Italy's Gorgone jail when he escaped in 1983, was expected to be transferred to Marseille soon, the sources said.

Restori, 72, was recaptured May 30 in a villa at Rocles 1 the Atoche region of southern France and charged with illegal possession of firearms after police found 15 guns and ammunition, the sources said. He was jailed at Privas awaiting transfer.

France does not extradite its own nationals, so French courts will try e Restori on the basis of information supplied by the Italian authorities.

Police gather Nepal bombing suspects

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Scores of arrests were reported Friday, the day after five home-made bombs exploded in this peaceful Himalayan city of temples, killing seven people and wounding 24.

The kingdom's official news agency said police had found nearly 100 unexploded bombs.

One of the explosions Thursday blew down the lobby floor of the luxury Annapurna Hotel and another tore the door off the National Assembly chamber, killing a legislator.

Four people were killed at the Annapurna, and rescue workers spent the night digging through the debris for more victims. The bomb was planted behind the reception desk.

It was not clear who was arrested and there was no confirmed claim of responsibility, but police suspected the political opponents of King Birendra, who have mounted increasing protests against the monarchy. The main opposition party said all its leaders were jailed, and Home Ministry sources and other officials said about 125 arrests had been made.

Neither the Home Ministry nor official sources within it would say whether authorities had determined who was behind the attacks.

Unconfirmed reports said leaflets were found on city streets claiming responsibility on behalf of a hitherto unknown group called the United Liberation Army. Police said they had not seen the leaflets, but were investigating.

Some frightened foreign tourists were leaving this temple-filled city of 195,000 people, which nestles in the lush Katmandu Valley near Mt. Everest. Police patrolled the streets and soldiers guarded government buildings, monuments and key power, communications and transportation centers.

Two bombs exploded at gates of the royal palace in the closely timed string of explosions Thursday, the first major terrorist attack in Nepal. The others went off at the National Assembly, the government office complex and the hotel, which is partly owned by the royal family.

Police said the bombs were dynamite sticks with timing devices, surrounded with nuts and bolts to cause shrapnel injuries.

Quebec party prepares for crucial race

QUEBEC (AP) — The campaign to succeed Premier Rene Levesque opened Friday—sparking a contest that could determine whether the Parti Quebecois returns to the hard-line separatism Levesque had rejected.

The premier, whose vision of taking Quebec out of Canada to become an independent French-speaking nation fell short in a decisive May 1980 referendum, submitted his resignation as party chief just before midnight Thursday.

All party members will be eligible to vote for the new leader at a date still to be set in August or September.

FRONT Quebec's executive committee met Friday to discuss the organization, timing, spending limits and other details of the leadership campaign, the first in the party's history.

Levesque has been party president since its founding in 1968 and premier of Quebec since 1976.

Marcel Leger, an executive committee member and tourism minister, said Levesque would be remembered as "the best and most-loved prime minister Quebec has ever had."

Justice Minister Pierre-Marc Johnson, a moderate, is the early favorite to succeed Levesque as party leader and premier.

He was the clear winner in an internal dispute last fall and winter, which ended with Levesque proposing to drop independence as an immediate party goal.

The Johnson-Levesque position was approved by a 2-1 margin at a party convention in January, but many hard-liners have remained active, hoping their group could win back control of the party once Levesque was gone.

Former Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau, who resigned in protest of the decision to drop independence, has been mentioned often as a likely candidate. Of those who stayed with Levesque, External Trade Minister Bernard Landry is considered pro-independence and likely to challenge Johnson.

Whoever wins the party leadership may be premier only briefly. A provincial election is expected this fall and must be called by April 1986 at the latest and the opposition Liberals are more than 30 points ahead in recent public opinion polls.

Robert Bourassa, who was Liberal premier from 1970-76, is campaigning hard to regain the job, promising to improve Quebec's economic climate and launch a giant hydroelectric program to export 12,000 megawatts of electricity to the United States.

RENE LEVESQUE Steps down as leader

U.N. chief labels terrorists 'cowards'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The U.N. chief executive, calling terrorists cowards, said Friday he has given the United States "a dilemma of ideas" for solving the dilemma of 40 American hijack hostages held in Beirut.

Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar told a news conference the United States has not accepted his proposals, but has them under consideration.

He would give no details of what he had proposed. He did say that the United Nations has a presence in Lebanon, including several thousand soldiers in the south, and "this presence is at the disposal of the parties involved."

TWA Flight 847 was hijacked June 14 after leaving Athens for Rome with 153 people aboard. The hijackers killed a U.S. Navy man and freed all but the 40 Americans now being held by Shiite Moslem militiamen in the Lebanese capital.

They demand the release of hundreds of Arab prisoners held in Israel.

Perez de Cuellar said: "As a human being I have a feeling of shame. It is not only a crime, it is cowardly and the terrorists are doing all over the world."

He made this appeal to terrorists: "Please realize that those are innocent people. The impression you are leaving with all of us is that you are cowards, that you don't dare to attack those who are, in your opinion, the culprits. You are attacking innocent people."

In China, there was praise for the Reagan administration's handling of the crisis.

"We admire the American patience in dealing with this situation and they are quite right in patiently dealing with such a situation," said Huan Xiang, former assistant foreign minister and now director of the center for international studies of China's State Council.

Kuwalt condemned the hijack and hostage-taking.

Leftist group claims blame for massacre

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Little-known leftist guerrilla group claimed responsibility Friday for the massacre of four American Marines at a San Salvador cafe.

U.S. officials eulogized the Marines as fighting "a war we cannot lose."

The Maradoque Cruz Urban Guerrilla Command, one of several guerrilla groups fighting the U.S.-supported government of President Jose Napoleon Duarte, issued a statement saying it carried out the attack.

The Marines were among 13 people, including two American businessmen, killed Wednesday night when six to 10 men wearing Salvadoran army uniforms opened fire with automatic weapons on patrons at two outdoor cafes in San Salvador's "Pink Zone," a strip of restaurants and clubs.

Earlier Friday, the flag-draped caskets of the slain Marines were put aboard a C-140 transport plane that flew to Panama before going to the United States. It was to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, outside Washington, D.C., this afternoon.

The White House announced that President Reagan would interrupt his weekend at Camp David, Md., to be at the base when the bodies arrive.

"You have served your country well. We are proud of you. We have come to take you home," Robert E. Lamb, an assistant secretary of state, said at a brief airport ceremony.

"It is a different kind of war—but nonetheless a war," he said.

The guerrilla battle, he said, "has no front. It is not easy to win but it is a war we cannot lose."

Duarte attended the ceremony at Ilopango military air base and said: "For we Salvadorans, this is a moment of sadness, the delivery of the bodies of these four men of honor."

Running part of trek nears end

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 47-year-old Idaho woman who is trying to run and swim the length of the Potomac River has been hampered by blistered feet and thunderstorms but was expected to finish the first portion of her trek today.

Mary Margaret Goodwin, 47, of Idaho Falls, began the 185.5 mile run on Monday at Cumberland, Md., and said she expected to complete that leg of the trip in less than three days.

But spokesman Fred Ferguson said she got delayed by blistered feet, rain, thunderstorms and mosquitoes.

"Her feet are in terrible shape but she's still going. A decision is still to be made on when she will start swimming," Ferguson said.

Ms. Goodwin was expected to reach Thompson's Boathouse in Washington, completing the run.

The run and swim combined will total 233.5 miles.

Ms. Goodwin has said she hopes by the trek to make people aware of the Potomac River's potential for recreation.

Vote forces tour cancellation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tour of northern Idaho's Clearwater National Forest scheduled for Friday, by members of the House Agriculture Committee was cancelled because of key votes on the Pentagon's proposed defense budget, said Rep. Richard Stallings, D-Idaho.

Stallings was scheduled to accompany committee Chairman Kika de la Garza of Texas and other panel members on the Panhandle tour to inspect management and planning practices in the forest. The trip was to conclude a series of subcommittee hearings into the forest planning process and the economics of federal timber sales.

"I am hopeful that this inspection tour can be rescheduled at the committee's earliest possible convenience," Stallings said. "It is vitally important to Idaho's interests that my colleagues on the Agriculture Committee have the first-hand knowledge of the significance of U.S. forest land to our state that only a trip of this nature can provide."

Pocatello fiddler wins division

WEISER (AP) — A Pocatello man has won first place in the Men's Division at the 23rd annual National Oldtime Fiddlers Contest in Weiser.

Tim Hodgson, 19, took the $500 first prize over 54 other contestants Thursday night with his renditions of "Sally Gooden," "FRR Waltz" and "Hot Foot Rag."

Second place went to Bruce Holtry, 20, of Caldwell, and Terry Ludliger, 21, of Spokane, Wash., was third.

Friday's events at the week-long festival include the second and final rounds of the Ladies' Division, and the second and third rounds of the National Grand Champion Division.

Russell named Ada GOP head

BOISE (AP) — Deputy Attorney General Robie G. Russell is the new Ada County Republican Party chairman.

Russell, who has been leading the state's legal battle to enact the new right-to-work law, was elected at a party meeting this week over Fred Martin, former member of the staff of Rep. George Hansen.

Russell discounted reports it was a moderate-versus-conservative battle.

"It was a matter of fund-raising and organizational abilities, not political philosophies," said Russell. The vote totals were not announced.

Former chairman of the state's largest county GOP organization was Lorna Ald, who retired from the position to go into private business.

"I do," who was county vice-chairman, said that position would remain vacant probably until the August meeting.

School-fund investment OK'd

BOISE (AP) — Idaho school endowment funds can be invested in money market funds as long as they guarantee full return on capital and do not include ownership in any corporations or associations, says an attorney-general's opinion.

The opinion, released Friday, was requested by William Hepp, investment manager for the Endowment Fund Investment Board. Hepp asked whether current state laws allow school endowment funds to be invested in money market funds.

The opinion, prepared by Chief Deputy Attorney General John Mahan and Deputy Attorney General David High, said Idaho Code authorizes investment in money market mutual funds whose assets are limited to obligations of the United States or political subdivisions.

On a related question, the opinion said the Endowment Fund Investment Board has authority to decide which legally permissible investments should be made.

The state treasurer has authority to refuse to allow investments she or he clearly believes to be illegal, the opinion said.

The opinion urged the state treasurer and investment board to develop joint procedures for the investment of state funds.

Gondola plan gains support

KELLOGG (AP) — The idea of building a gondola system to link Kellogg with the nearby Silverhorn Ski Area continues to gain support here.

A special meeting of the Kellogg Chamber of Commerce will be held next Thursday to discuss the project.

Kellogg has applied for an Economic Development Agency grant to fund a feasibility study. But after a first-hand look at a similar facility in Utah, some civic leaders say they're convinced it would be a good idea.

A five-person team of Silver Valley businessmen flew to Park City, Utah, this week for a look at that ski resort community's gondola system.

"We learned that it can be done. Somebody else has already done what we want to do and more," said John Reynolds, one of two Kellogg Chamber of Commerce members making the trip.

"Once you see it in place, you get more determined that it can happen," said Wayne Ross, City Council member.

The original gondola idea, which has been under discussion since last fall, recently has evolved to include development of a tourist theme for the business district.

Chief gets vote of confidence

McCALL (AP) — Police Chief John Lyon urged the City Council here to either support him, so he could do his job properly, or fire him.

He won. The City Council gave Lyon a vote of confidence at a Wednesday night meeting, along with the entire police department.

Several residents of this resort town brought minor complaints before the City Council, criticizing Lyon's leadership.

"Do me a favor," said Lyon. "Either fire me or let me do my job. Let's do it tonight."

"It didn't take long. The council met with the chief in a closed-door session, then announced he had won a vote of confidence."

Duster pilot escapes charge

CALDWELL (AP) — No charge will be filed against a crop-duster pilot who allegedly flew too close to a Wilder man's house last summer, Canyon County Prosecutor Richard Harris says.

Donald Hastriker, 66, asked Harris to press a misdemeanor complaint against Gary Hubler of Davison's Flying Service. Hastriker was convicted and fined $300 last month for a misdemeanor charge of shooting at Hubler with a shotgun as he flew near his home on June 22, 1984.

Hubler, co-owner of the flying service, said at the time that a shotgun pellet missed his foot by about 2 1/2 feet and another dented a gas tank. Hubler was not injured and landed the plane safely.

Directory cover keeps phone lines busy

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — A Utah phone directory company thought Jackson residents would appreciate the Western flavor of the 1985 Jackson Hole phone book cover, which depicts the provocative rear view of a cowgirl in skin-tight jeans.

"But this Western town was not amused."

The artist's rendering set phone lines buzzing at the Jackson Hole Chamber of Commerce this week.

"We had phone calls all day Monday from irate members," Chamber Executive Director Executive Suzanne Young said. "We had 10 to 15 calls and I can't remember the last time we had 10 calls on anything."

Residents complained the phone book's cover was sexist, tasteless and tacky. "It doesn't look like anything we want to represent Jackson Hole," she said.

The book was produced by Phone Directories of Provo, Utah. Spokeswoman Vonda Lee Bingham insisted the company had the best intentions when it chose the cover.

"It was chosen with the idea that Jackson people are Western-oriented, with their shootouts and rodeos. We thought they would appreciate it."

She said artist Brian Robley, who lives in Idaho and is a member of the New York Society of Illustrators, designed the work with good intentions.

The company had received complaints from 15 or 20 people. But Bingham speculated complaints were coming from a vocal minority and most people would find nothing inappropriate with the work.

Phone Directories is a direct competitor of Mountain Bell and has supplied directories to Jackson and other Western towns for years. Normally the company chooses a scenic mountain picture for the cover of the Jackson book, and this is the first controversial cover, she said.

Tourism officials in this resort town found the cover particularly controversial.

Dorris Stalker, marketing director of the Grand Teton Lodge Company, said her firm would not display the books at Jackson Lake Lodge.

"My first reaction was absolute total shock," she said. "For us to put it in our guest rooms would be insulting to many of our guests."

Quarter of power unit sold

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Power & Light Co. plans to sell one-fourth of its Hunter 3 generating unit to Nevada Power Co. for $135.3 million, it was announced Friday.

The deal calls for a high-voltage transmission link between Nevada and Utah at a point on the Nevada-Arizona border.

Welfare panel figures doubled, official says

LEWISTON (AP) — There are only half as many people on Idaho's welfare rolls as was first believed by a legislative interim committee studying the Health and Welfare department, a state welfare official said.

"The committee talked with our computer person first and he gave the number of people for two years," said Theo H. Murdoch, welfare division administrator for health and welfare.

But the committee apparently is still unaware of the mistake.

"Well, if those are the numbers, I'm unaware of the fact," said Rep. Preston B. Brimhall, R-Idaho Falls, who chairs the committee.

Brimhall said last week after the first day of a two-day inspection that there were 185,000 people on the state's welfare rolls in 1984.

"The committee thought that was terribly high," Brimhall said. "That is 17 to 18 percent of the people."

"That figure was accurate, but it was essentially all the cases we've handled in two years," Murdoch said Thursday. "We keep case information on the computer up to a year after the case is closed."

"I don't believe he gave us those figures," said Brimhall. "But, I guess, it's certainly possible."

Murdoch said Idaho usually ranks 47th or 48th nationally in the percentage of its population on state aid.

Murdoch, who was at Lewiston to answer questions from legislative and welfare officials from Arkansas.

Plane crash victims finally identified

SALMON (AP) — The two passengers killed in a plane crash in the rugged eastern Idaho mountains this week were finally identified Friday as Ray Howell, 60, of Missoula, Mont., and his brother Troy, 67.

The Lemhi County Sheriff's Department released the names after Ray Howell's family was notified. A spokesman said authorities have been unable to contact the family of his brother and there is no indication whether Troy Howell lived in Montana as well.

The bodies of the two men, believed to have represented a Montana mining firm, were recovered from the wreckage near Lost Trail Pass on the Idaho-Montana border along with the body of pilot Denis Morgan by helicopter — on Thursday. Morgan operated the Alpine Air Service in Salmon.

The plane went down in mountainous terrain about 35 miles north of Salmon on Tuesday after taking off for a scheduled two-hour flight in search of old-mining claims. It was found the next day by aerial searchers, but the bodies could not be removed until 24 hours later.

Q. One skier has been seen in action by more people worldwide than any other. Can you name him?
A. Veiniko Bogatai, the Yugoslavian who in 1970 tumbled off a jump in Obersdorf, West Germany, to become immortalized as "the agony of defeat" on ABC's Wide World of Sports.

Where'd you get the notion that "Lucifer" was another name for the Devil? Nothing in the Bible says that.

SMALL BEER
What we now call "light beer" was known as "small beer" in the Middle Ages, and the historical footnotes agree it was the drink of the lower classes.

Our Love and War man reports one out of four Americans get married not just once but more than once.

The nation's biggest 1,000 companies employ less than 1 per cent of the workers. But companies with fewer than 20 on the payroll employ more than 33 percent of the workers.

The poet Carl Sandburg flunked out of West Point, according to the record, because of deficiencies in English.

Takes about three months now to cut a rock record, typically, and the sound engineers put in far more work on it than the musicians do. Count Basie used to drag his crew down to a recording studio and knock off four cuts in one afternoon.

Light plane pilot meets bureaucratic turbulence in USSR

By KEN OLSEN
The Associated Press

MOSCOW — An American who brought his light airplane to Moscow on an officially approved "friendship flight" spent his three days here locked in a transit hotel because he carried without a visa.

But pilot Millard Harmon, a 59-year-old retired college administrator from Delmar, N.Y., was all smiles as he passed out ceremonial gifts to his hosts before his departure on Friday.

"It seems to me the best way to handle this situation is to make it as positive a learning experience as possible," he said.

Harmon said he decided two years ago to make what he called a "friendship flight" as a gesture toward improving Soviet-U.S. relations. Harmon flew his red-and-white, single-engine Beechcraft 36 to Moscow from Helsinki on Tuesday after a five-day flight originating in Dayton, Ohio.

In Helsinki, he was met by a Soviet navigator who was required to accompany him on the flight over the Soviet Union.

Harmon said his official greeting at Sheremetyevo Airport went fine — until Soviet officials discovered he didn't have a visa. They whisked him off to a nearby transit hotel where he was locked to telephone only the U.S. Embassy, which said there was nothing it could do.

He said his visa had been issued in San Francisco, but hadn't caught up with him by the time his Soviet-approved flight plan called for him to leave Helsinki.

Harmon decided to leave without the visa. "I knew exactly what I was doing," he said. "I knew there was a risk. But I accomplished what I wanted to do."

He said he had made five trips to Moscow to seek approval for the flight from Soviet aviation authorities, who gave their permission in November.

Harmon said he was annoyed at being held at the hotel, but the Soviets were "very honorable about the commitments they made."

"They stuck to the flight plan," he said. "It was really my fault."

Friday afternoon, Alexander Tyrin, executive secretary of the Soviet Sports Flying Club, met Harmon briefly at the Moscow airport. The two exchanged hugs, Lapel pins and pennants, and Harmon presented a lithograph of the Wright brothers' airplane signed by the aviators' descendants.

Soviet workers crowded the doorways of a nearby building to watch as the tiny plane taxied to the runway amid huge blue-and-white Aeroflot jets and took off for Helsinki.

Harmon said he believes his flight was a first for an American light airplane, but he hopes the U.S. National Aeronautics Association will recognize it as a light-plane speed record between Helsinki and Moscow.

"All I've got to do is fly the route and I've got a record," he said. "Isn't that great?"

Private aviation is practically unheard of in the Soviet Union, although there are a number of recreational flying clubs that operate under the auspices of the Official Sports Committee.

Harmon said he was not angry with the Soviets for locking him in a hotel during his stay.

But he said he was considering writing a letter to Anatoly Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to the United States, suggesting that the Soviets speed up their visa processing.

Mother Teresa decries abortion

By GENE KRAMER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Mother Teresa, the Roman Catholic nun who won the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize for her lifelong efforts to help the sick, destitute and dying, on Friday took up another cause close to her heart — the campaign against abortion.

"If a mother can kill, can murder, her own child, what is left for others to do?" she said, suggesting at the U.S. National Right to Life Convention that abortion is the root of violence and killing in the world.

The 74-year-old nun from Calcutta, India, was introduced by convention Chairwoman Geline Williams as "the defender of the unborn" in the world.

An audience of nearly 1,500 applauded for two minutes and the diminutive nun, standing on a box to reach the microphones, responded with repeated "namastes," the folded-hand greeting of India.

Outside the convention site, a handful of defenders of abortion carried a wooden cross with signs charging that women were being "crucified" in the name of religion. Mother Teresa, speaking in a low and gentle voice, said God "has created each one of us, and all those little ones in the wombs of their mothers, for greater things — for love and to be loved... Every unborn child is created in the image of God."

"Any thing that is beautiful is destroyed by abortion," Mother Teresa said, adding that "A little one is not just a number, it is somebody precious to God, somebody precious to you and me."

She described a "miracle" she said had occurred recently at her sanctuary in Calcutta to illustrate how God watches over mothers and children.

An anguished man appeared with a prescription for medicine needed to save his dying, pregnant wife, but the medicine was available only in England.

But a few minutes later, Mother Teresa recalled, the man who collects leftover bottles of medicine for her center from the homes of Calcutta appeared with a basket of medicines and "that medicine was right at the top."

"With millions and millions of children to watch over in the world, how could God be concerned with that one child to send at that moment, to put on top, to send the full amount that was prescribed?" she said. "How precious that little one was to God."

Mother Teresa on Thursday received the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian decoration, from President Reagan.

Donates $100,000 hoard to charity Killer's life a self-imposed sentence

WILLINGTON, Fla. (AP) — For more than a half-century, convicted murderer Vito Petraltis lived a life of penitence.

It was a sentence he imposed himself — more severe than the courts — for a killing in a botched robbery attempt.

After serving his time in prison, he worked and saved for years. He shunned people. He denied himself the simplest luxuries. He hoped one day his hoarded earnings could prevent another life from ending up like his.

Now, facing death from cancer, Petraltis, 73, has realized his dream. He donated $100,000 to the Florida Sheriff's Youth Fund, a program that helps unfortunate children. The fund operates facilities to house boys and girls with nowhere else to go.

Just this week, his civil rights were restored by Gov. Bob Graham. "I wanted to be free," says Petraltis, explaining why he ended long years as a recluse to publicly seek reinstatement. A worn and wasting figure, he nonetheless spoke firmly.

He refused, however, to talk about the slaying.

On July 11, 1931, Petraltis, then 19, and his 21-year-old cousin Tony Kiln walked outside a Windsor, Conn., grocery store as the manager locked

The manager, Joseph Boulanger, was fatally shot in the robbery. His briefcase, in which the robbers apparently hoped to find cash, contained only paperwork.

He and Kiln were convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to death. The sentences later were commuted to life in prison.

After his parole in 1948, Petraltis worked as a baker in Connecticut, kept to himself and lived frugally. There was a marriage — he's unclear about the dates — that ended bitterly. He retired to Florida in 1972 and lived in a small mobile home in rural Levy County near Bronson.

One day in April, Levy County Sheriff Pat Hartley said, Petraltis walked into his office offering $100,000.

"He told him he was dying," says Ed Waldron, a vice president of the sheriff's fund. "He said he wanted to make a will, and every provision of the will he's attempted to execute while alive... I interpret this as the real way in which he's paying back society."

Civil rights normally are restored automatically to convicts released from prison today.

Judge denies trial request for 'HBO Kid'

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A judge refused to grant a new trial to the television repairman known as the "HBO Kid," who was convicted of masterminding what prosecutors called one of the nation's biggest cable-theft operations.

Scranton County Judge James M. Munley on Thursday ruled arguments for a new trial were without merit. Defense attorney Robert Borthwick had alleged insufficient evidence and errors by Munley.

Frank Cardamone, 26, of Taylor, who admitted installing about 1,100 cable converters for $50,000 over five years, faces up to 14 years in prison.

A jury convicted him of criminal conspiracy, theft of services and manufacture, distribution and possession of devices for theft of telecommunications services.

Several companies estimated they lost thousands of dollars because of Cardamone's operation.

Large Roman mosaic found

VALLON, Switzerland (AP) — An ancient mosaic of more than 150 square feet has been unearthed in the ruins of a Roman country villa near this western Swiss town.

The richly colored mosaic, estimated to contain half a million stones, depicts an animal tamer and a leaping bear. It is located in what archaeologists said was assumed to have been the reception room.

The villa, built in the first century, is near Avenches, which flourished under the Romans in the second century as the city of Aventicum with a population of 50,000.

Soviet-satellite debris sets off display over eastern U.S.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A large chunk of launch debris from a Soviet satellite plunging back to Earth set off a startling red, green and blue midnight display over the northeastern United States, U.S. authorities said Friday.

"It was a big piece of debris, a part of the launch debris, from Cosmos 1520. The payload is still up in orbit," said Kay Cormier, public affairs officer for the North American Aerospace Defense Command in Colorado Springs.

The bright lights that appeared just before midnight Thursday kept phones ringing to radio stations, newspapers and airports from Michigan to Virginia, as well as to NORAD and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Space debris incidents occur almost daily and "most of them decay over oceans and nobody sees it," Cormier said. "And the majority of them are small enough that when they hit the Earth's atmosphere... they burn up and nobody sees them."

In this case, the piece of debris was 4.67 meters in diameter and with the speed of 17,000 mph and tremendous heat, one piece did survive. It broke up... and that was what was seen over the eastern United States as it burned up. We have had no reports as yet of any recovery of any pieces, so we assume probably it burned up as it streaked across the sky," she said.

"Eyewitness reports said it was spectacular in color... blues and greens and yellows and reds," she said.

She said reports indicated it came east over Ohio, Virginia and Pennsylvania and was seen as far west as Michigan.

"But most of our reports have been over Ohio, so it looks as though that piece burned up before it went much further," she said.

James Strauss, an air traffic controller at Willow Run Airport near Ypsilanti, Mich., said the display looked like "five or six meteors, but they were moving much slower and lasting much longer than a meteor would have."

"These were in line with each other, flying in formation if you will, and going in the same direction. That's why it looked so strange,"

Michael Micham, the overnight fire officer at NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, said several pilots reported sightings to the tower at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport.

"You can really understand how people see natural phenomena and mistake them for UFOs," Strauss said.

Hans Lange of Laingsburg, Mich., said he saw a bright light with a jet-like tail explode into smaller lights. "There must have been a dozen of them," he said.

Michigan State Police posts at Lansing and Ithaca and sheriff's departments in Shiawassee and Livingston counties also reported calls about the lights.

NORAD's tracking and impact prediction program at its Space Surveillance Center watches very closely any space object that is more than one square meter in size "when that object indicates it might decay because it's possible a piece may survive re-entry," Cormier said.

"And we try to predict approximately where it will come in. The footprint is always 300-miles-on-each-end... one-way or the other. You can't predict what they are going to do. When they hit the Earth's atmosphere they can skip or back up and do another half orbit," she added.

If the debris had come in during daylight, "probably nobody would have seen it," she said.

Rajneeshees sue Oregon officials

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Followers of the Indian guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh in a lawsuit filed Friday in federal court, charge Gov. Vic Atiyeh and 25 state and local officials with conspiring to drive the sect out of Oregon.

The defendants "have been waging an underground war against Rajneeshes," Ma Yoga Vidya, president of Rajneesh Neo-Sannyas International Commune, said at a news conference. "These people have conspired to exterminate the religion of Rajneeshism and the community in Rajneeshpuram."

The lawsuit, which also names the land-use monitoring group 1000 Friends of Oregon, seeks only "that people stop conspiring against us so we can live the way we want to live," Ma Yoga Vidya said.

Since Rajneesh's followers founded the commune city of Rajneeshpuram in central Oregon in 1981, they have been involved in disputes over their importation of homeless people. Local residents also said they feared Rajneesh's followers and the imported people would take over the town.

"In this case, the piece of debris was 4.67 meters in diameter and with the speed of 17,000 mph and tremendous heat, one piece did survive. It broke up... and that was what was seen over the eastern United States as it burned up. We have had no reports as yet of any recovery of any pieces, so we assume probably it burned up as it streaked across the sky," she said.

Mine gas kills man

TOQUERVILLE, Utah (AP) — Wayne Monnett, 25, La Verkin, was killed when he was overcome by gas while exploring an abandoned mine shaft, a state medical examiner's investigator said.

Alan Boyack, a St. George attorney who serves as an investigator for the state medical examiner's office, said Monnett was attached by a rope as he went into the 40-foot shaft 2 1/2 miles east of here Thursday.

Monnett asked his friends to pull him out because he had trouble breathing, but the rope broke and Monnett fell about 25 feet into soft sand, Boyack said.

He was still able to talk and a friend tried to rescue him but also had trouble breathing and was pulled out, the attorney said.

Firefighters and search and rescue crew members equipped with oxygen recovered the body.

City protests electrical rate

SANTAQUIN, Utah (AP) — The high cost of electricity for one of the town's auxiliary wells has prompted Santaquin officials to protest to the Public Service Commission, Mayor Sandra Peterson says.

During a recent meeting, the City Council instructed City Recorder Sam Sellers to draft a letter to the PSC concerning Utah Power & Light Co.'s charges.

"We just feel we're being taken to the cleaners on the cost of operating one of our deep wells," Ms. Peterson said. "The Public Service Commission told us all we can really do is file a formal complaint."

Councilman Don Olson said UP&L officials told him they had no choice but to charge the city $8.80 per kilowatt because the well is being used for culinary water.

"They are charging us $8.80 per kilowatt and in my own house it's only seven cents per kilowatt," Olson said.

New substation starts

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — A new substation which transforms electricity from 138,000 volts down to 46,000 volts before it moves into Logan city's "power loop" is expected to result in more efficient and reliable power for the city's customers, officials said Friday.

In dedicating the project, Logan Mayor Lowell Daines noted it had been built next to and at the same time as a similar Utah Power & Light Co. substation.

"The town committee has worked side-by-side to complete the twin projects," he said.

Daines said the facilities will allow both Logan and the utility to better serve their respective customers.

"The substation changes the point of transformation from north of Smithfield to the mouth of Green Canyon northeast of Logan.

City Power Department Manager Vaughn Bethers said, "In addition to the cost savings from reduced transmission charges, the new transformers provide double reliability and the operation can be monitored from the city's service center west of Logan."

UP&L President James Taylor described the substation projects as "a landmark in cooperative spirit between the city government and company which will result in making life better for those we both serve."

Logan's substation cost an estimated $2 million, while UP&L's share of the joint project was just over $3 million.

Comedienne leaves hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lucille Ball was released Friday from Cedars-Sinai Medical Center after the comedian and actress was treated for dehydration following a Palm Springs outing.

"She was doing fine," said Ron Wise, a spokesman for the hospital. "She seemed like she was good spirits."

Wise said Miss Ball was in no real danger during her hospital stay, where she was treated for dehydration and precautionary tests were performed.

Miss Ball, 73, star of many films and the long-running television series "I Love Lucy," entered the hospital Tuesday after a trip to the desert resort of Palm Springs, where temperatures soared to 112, he said.

She recently completed work on a CBS television movie called "Stone Pillow," which deals with the plight of the homeless in New York.

Technicality frees robber

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — A defendant was acquitted of robbery by a judge who told him "everybody knows you did it."

Superior Court Judge John Gallagher ruled Thursday a lie-detector test examiner's suggestion that Fred McCarthy, 19, confessed made his statement to police inadmissible.

"Legally, this court is required to find you innocent," the judge said.

McCarthy was accused of robbing a Robert Park fast-food restaurant where he worked. The prosecution claimed McCarthy played the role of victim as he walked back inside followed by a masked gunman. The gunman escaped with $1,600.

McCarthy confessed to police, implicated another teen-ager and said he had spent his share of the loot, $600, on bills, prosecutors said.

NCAA execs OK tough new rules

By DOUG TUCKER
The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — Cracking down on the battle against recruiting and academic scandals in college athletics, the delegates to the NCAA's special "Integrity Convention" approved almost unanimously measures that could force a school to suspend its football or basketball program as long as two years.

The so-called "Death Penalty" provisions, which are effective immediately, were the most extraordinary measures ever taken in regard to these violations. College presidents at the convention had said they wanted a new NCAA penalty structure.

The tough penalties, decided upon at the conclusion of the "Integrity rule-breaking also will be subject to more severe punishment.

Delegates approved all 12 agenda items. In addition, many of the approximately 200 presidents in attendance said there would be rules put to a vote in January's NCAA convention here dealing with such things as commercialism, freshmen eligibility and academics.

"I do not believe I can overstate the level of concern that presidents and chancellors feel regarding the integrity crisis in college athletics," John Ryan, chairman of the Presidents Commission, told more than 1,000 delegates at the opening of Friday's session. "We are deeply concerned that there be sufficient institutional control of athletics programs... apparent lack of such control in many instances leading to problems for academic values in higher education. Presidents are heart sick about the serious violations of rules which are occurring by coaches, alumni and other boosters and are determined to stop them."

"Colleagues," Ryan added, "let me re-emphasize that this package of legislative proposals is only the first step by the presidents of NCAA institutions. We must all anticipate a continuing effort, and your Presidents Commission pledges itself to this task—to do as much as legislation can do to eliminate corruption in intercollegiate athletics."

The key section of new structure, proposal No. 3 on the convention agenda, was approved without one dissenting vote in the lower divisions and passed 281-3 in Division I. Voting against the measure were three members of the Southwest Conference — Texas, Texas Tech and Southern Methodist University. SMU, whose football program is under NCAA investigation, does not oppose stronger penalties for coaches, said SMU President L. Donald Shields.

"As a matter of fact, we could support the implementation of a specific, definite, and increased penalty structure which would be applied with uniform standards and objective criteria," Shields said. "However, it is our strong belief that in both concept and practice, the present NCAA enforcement system falls to provide adequate due-process protection for the significant institutional interests and individual rights which are affected by such penalties."

Proposal No. 3 starts by drawing a distinction between secondary violations and major ones, those that include a pattern or result in a clear competitive advantage.

Secondary violations now will bring the kind of penalties that major cases once brought, including one-year bans on recruiting by coaches, and as much as a 20 percent reduction in scholarships.

"The minimum penalties for major violations will include the elimination of all expense-paid recruiting visits for one year; banning all coaching staff members in the affected sport from off-campus recruiting for one year; a requirement that all staff members who broke or condoned the breaking of rules be subject either to

Darrington wins her fifth valley am title

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Writer

GOODING — Karen Darrington turned back a challenge from Jerome's Julie Rediker midway through the second round Friday to collect her fifth Times-News Magic Valley Women's Amateur championship.

Rediker, who started the day two strokes off the pace, pulled into a tie on the second hole of Friday's round and leveled the match a second tie on No. 8 with a birdie two.

Darrington regained her advantage by paring the three-par ninth hole while Rediker bogled. Rediker then saw her hopes for the title dim considerably on the 10th when she had to settle for a double bogey against another Darrington par.

That put the eventual champion up by three strokes and when Darrington birdied the final hole, the final margin grew to four.

"Darrington ended the two-day tournament at 158 against a 160 for Rediker, making her best showing in the Magic Valley although she's long been one of the area's better golfers.

"I guess I just choked," Rediker said with a laugh as she shook Darrington's hand. "Congratulations."

"Julie was putting the pressure on," Darrington agreed, "with that 28 on the front."

Darrington noted she was a little more pleased with her game Friday although "I really didn't make any putts. That one (a two-footer for birdie on 18) was about the longest one I made today."

Defending champion Doris Ellingham repeated her 85 of opening day and she said, in exactly the same way, "I just can't play the first four holes here and I don't know why," she said. Thursday she was six over after those opening four holes.

Louise Smith of Gooding picked up net honors at 137, five strokes ahead of co-runners-up Kathy Hancock of Twin Falls and Lenora Kasworm of Rupert. Third gross went to Shauna Robinson of Twin Falls at 165.

Kathy Borchard of Wendell closed with an 88 to claim the first flight title at 173, followed by Lois Maddy of Twin Falls at 177 and Jeanne Alban of Twin Falls at 182. Roberta Robertson of Jerome claimed net at 132, one ahead of Mildred Lynch of Burley and four up on Irene DaSoglio of Burley.

Third flight gross honors went to Edna Pierson of Jerome at 186 with Marilyn Flynn of Gooding at 191 and Jerri Hutchison of Burley at 182. In net, Deanna Mendola of Gooding nipped Lauren Marshall of Murtaugh 142-141 with Cloten Davis of Twin Falls just behind at 143.

Gooding golfers kept their grip on the third flight with Blanche Reay leading gross at 194 while Norma Pickens had 207 and Babe Hawkes a 209. Chris Derbridge won net at 135, followed by Violet Becker at 136 and Adeline Stewart 144.

In Thursday's first round, Darrington carded a six-over-par 80 for a two-stroke advantage over Rediker and Robinson.

"I played Monday and Tuesday and played about as well as I can," Darrington said. "I don't know what happened to my game (Thursday). I bogged three woods and made a lot of bogeys. I didn't have a disastrous hole with a big number, just too many bogeys."

Darrington, like other members of the championship flight, said a brisk wind that sprang up rather early in the round on Thursday didn't hurt their games much. In fact, some said it was a benefit. Up to the time the wind freshened, a pall of smoke from a desert fire to the southwest hung over the course, stinging eyes and lungs. The wind blew the smoke trail back to the southside of Snake River.

CSI pair qualify

For CFR finals

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Two College of Southern Idaho cowboys have advanced to the final round at the 36th annual College National Finals Rodeo.

George Schmidt had a score of 71 in the second go-round on Friday to move into the finals in second place in saddle bronc riding. He also finished 10th in bareback riding, and will participate in the finals in that event as well.

Kindel Mason and his partner Tim Black of Boise finished fourth in team roping to earn a spot in the finals. Schmidt, however, explained his wrist during one of his rides on Friday, making his status uncertain for tonight's finals.

"He happened to draw the best horse in the finals in bareback, so I finished in the final, but I didn't want to handle it with his wrist hurt," said CSI rodeo coach Shawn Davis. "I don't know about his draw in saddle bronc because they haven't done that yet."

The top 10 competitors in average points for the finals will be crowned tonight at the Montana State University Arena.

None of the other four CSI hands here qualified for the finals.

"I think realistically we could get fourth or fifth in the team standings," said Davis. "We have a chance to finish higher, but we'd have to win a couple of events to do it."

Southwestern Oklahoma State University continued to lead the men's team race, while Sul Ross State University of Texas took over first place in the women's team standings at the end of the second go.

The Southwestern Oklahoma men had 360 points to lead Sam Houston State and Tennessee-Martin — which were tied for second — by 60 points. The Sul Ross State women compiled 322.5 points, 10 ahead of Southwestern Oklahoma, the leader

Crosby's family decides to capitalize the 'am' in Clambake

By CHRIS COBBÉS
Los Angeles Times

SAN DIEGO — It seemed strange. Here was a mighty conglomerate, defenseless against the relics and almost mythic presence of the late Bing Crosby.

But the future of a golf tournament was at stake. Not just any tournament. This was a slice of Americana about to disappear. If a little sentimentality could help, so be it.

So Crosby's widow, Kathryn, came armed with a scrapbook and a collection of letters and photographs

Thursday when she discussed the future of the Crosby Pro-Am, better known as the Clambake (for most of its history).

"I have my orders from Bing," she said. "I know what I have to do. He left me instructions about the tournament."

Mrs. Crosby had denounced efforts to make the event "another corporate sideshow" when she severed the family's ties to the tournament earlier this spring. She had rejected an offer from American Telephone & Telegraph to sponsor the tournament and share the name for $750,000.

Now the tournament has been reconstituted and, in its new guise, will take a transcontinental journey of 3,000 miles, from the rocky, fog-shrouded shores of the Pacific, to something called Bermuda Run, a little-known course near Winston-Salem in the heart of North Carolina. From the cold, mists and wind — known as Crosby weather — that prevailed on the Monterey Peninsula in February, to the heat and humidity of a Carolina summer.

The tournament will be played the first week of June, right after the Charlotte 600, one of NASCAR's big stock car racing events and a potential rival for attention in North Carolina. It will also be opposite the PGA-sponsored Westchester tournament, and there probably will not be any touring pros in the field.

Kathryn Crosby said pro golfers would be welcome, but she acknowledged that they would have to obtain permission from the PGA in order to play in the Crosby.

There may not be any big-name golfers, but there will be a roster of Crosby friends, such as Tennessee Ernie Ford, Dinah Shore, Jack Lemmon, Jim Garner and Hal Linden, along with a lineup of well-beeled executives.

"Of course, I'll feel sad next February," said Mrs. Crosby, who remained tightly controlled as she fought to be heard over the click of camera shutters in a press conference at a downtown hotel.

"I got so used to smiling in the rain... But I see this as a step forward, a step that must be taken. Bing probably would have taken this step if he were here."

"Every time you take a new step, you panic because it's something new," she admitted. "There was a period (after the demise of the old Clambake) when I cried a lot."

Asked why it had had to come to this, she said, "I wish I could explain. Every move was like a forced move in a chess game. I never talked to AT&T, and I only talked once (to PGA Commissioner) Deane Beman. I don't know if they had a handshake deal before (the Crosby draw directors) was approached. I don't understand any more than that."

One-time fight promoter brings racing project to Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls and Magic Valley as the world headquarters of cutter racing and at least the Intermountain quarterhorse and thoroughbred capital are the goals of Jim Burns, publisher, editor and reporter of the RaceTracker's News.

Burns, currently in Twin Falls to promote a new raceable racing facility with a special award, from connected to, gaming formal, said if his program is adopted, the results will be foregone.

"This track will be run to benefit the horsemen," Burns said. "All the other tracks in the country treat the horsemen and we put some money in the purses and show them an opportunity for a return and they'll bring their horses here."

ment of his concept of a track is something he wants to see before it's dead.

"They told me 14 years ago I had cancer and since then I've devoted all my time to my newspaper and a track that would give the horsemen something in return for all they've done for racing," Burns said. "I'm carrying around 80 pounds of tumors now and I don't know how much longer I can last. But if it's the last thing I do, I want this track established and I'd love to see it in Twin Falls."

outlets for gaming on the track features. Don't call it off-track betting, said Burns, who claimed to have coined that phrase when he declined New York State's invitation to use his plan and his knowledge for establishing its neighborhood gaming network.

"They explained what they were wanting to do and I said 'that's off-track gambling. It takes money away from the track and the horsemen. I want no part of it.'" Burns recalled his last words before leaving for the airport.

and helps to set the pari-mutuel odds," Burns said. "It isn't that way with off-track betting. Those guys are just using racing as a way to steal money from the track and the horsemen."

Not to mention that any such bet would not figure into the final pari-mutuel formula at the track although it would pay back on those odds.

Burns says his plan would give the owner of the "extension" a percentage of the total handle his machines processed for the day. But in addition, the proprietor would be required to contribute a percentage of his daily gross sales to the track.

Burley 2-6 Shoshone 1-10

Burley won the close one and Shoshone took the slugfest in an American Legion B double-header Friday night. The home team, taking advantage of three errors, scored twice in the third inning to win the opener 2-1. But in the second, Alan Sizemore, Wade Cooper and Dave Churchman pointed Shoshone to a 10-4 decision. Shoshone scored first in the opener when Sizemore singled-in Tim Rowlan. But Burley replied immediately when Pete Rodriguez opened with a double and then came the fateful three straight errors.

extension" which would be under the supervision and control of the track and racing commission. Therefore, Burns said, all that is required is for the State Racing Commission to underwrite the idea. Another point is more ticklish and political. It concerns the establishment of a major track to the detriment of the various county fair racing programs currently run in the area. "They could have the option. Most of them have two or three days of running. If they wanted to keep them on their own track they could. Or, our track could designate two or three days of running here as part of our program and they could pick up more money having it run for them here," Burns said.

NL: Cubs drop 10th straight

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jack Clark tripled to boost the St. Louis Cardinals into a tie for the National League lead Friday night and afterward expressed satisfaction.

"There's nothing wrong with that," said Clark following a bases-loaded walk that helped hand the Chicago Cubs a 7-5 defeat. "That's where you want to be. We want to get a few still in first place."

Clark's triple made a winner of St. Louis right-hander Kurt Kephner, who aided his own cause by doubling and walking and scoring twice.

Chicago's loss was the slumping Cubs' 11th in a row. The Cards, meanwhile, grabbed a share of the NL East lead with the New York Mets, who were 6-3 winners over the Montreal Expos.

"Walks will kill you," said Kephner in referring to four St. Louis runners who scored after drawing free passes.

Los Angeles 7 Houston 2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pedro Guerrero homered and singled twice, driving in two runs, and Orel Hershiser and Tom Niedenfuer combined on a five-hitter as the Los Angeles Dodgers wiped the Houston Astros 7-2 Friday night.

Hershiser, 7-1, left after seven innings because of a tender elbow and Niedenfuer finished up. Hershiser allowed only one earned run on five hits. He struck out four and walked

Atlanta 5 Cincinnati 4
CINCINNATI (AP) — Dale Murphy hit his 17th homer and Rafael Palmeiro drove in with a sacrifice fly Friday night to give the Atlanta Braves a 5-4 victory and a doubleheader split with the Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap highlighted by Palmeiro's RBI single off Rich Camp, 2-3, making his second start of the season.

The Braves came back in the second when Reds starter Jay Tibbs, 4-3, walked Camp with the bases loaded to force in a run. Murphy, who was 5-10 in the doubleheader, then hit a homer in the fifth to tie the nightcap.

Claudell Washington tripled with two out in the sixth and scored the go-ahead run on Ramirez' flyout. Washington put the game away with a two-run homer in the eighth, his seventh of the season, off Tom Howe.

The 5-2 lead was enough of a cushion to withstand a sacrifice fly by Dave Concepcion in the Cincinnati eighth and an RBI single by Pete Rose in the ninth. The base hit gave Rose 4,147 for his career, pulling him 44 behind Ty Cobb's record.

Cincinnati 4 Atlanta 2
CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Parker's three-run homer sent left-hander Tom Browning and the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-2 victory Friday night over the Atlanta Braves in the first game of a doubleheader.

Browning, 7-5, shook off a pair of drubbings in his two previous starts by pitching strong baseball for seven innings. He gave up a run-scoring out six and walked four before giving way in the eighth to Ted Power, who noched his first save in a month and his ninth overall.

The Braves scored twice in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk to Terry Harper and a run-scoring single by Glenn Hubbard before Power closed out the game.

New York 6 Montreal 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Mookie Wilson drove in four runs with a homer and two singles as the New York Mets defeated the Montreal Expos 6-3 Friday night for their fifth straight victory.

Doug Sisk, 2-5, was the winner after pitching hitless ball over the final three innings, striking out three and walking none.

Mickey Mahler, 1-1, in his third start since being recalled from the minors last month, was the loser.

Mahler allowed four runs on four hits over 2 1/2 innings, struck out six, walked six and threw two wild pitches.

San Diego 6 San Francisco 1

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Jerry Royster belted a grand slam homer and Kevin McReynolds hit a pair of run-scoring singles to help rookie right-hander Ed Wojna record his first major league victory as the San Diego Padres defeated the San Francisco Giants 6-1 Friday night.

Wojna, 1-0, making his second major league start since being called up from Las Vegas of the Pacific Coast League last week, held the Giants to three hits in six innings, one of them a homer by Bob Brenly in the second inning.

Philadelphia 4 Pittsburgh 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Juan Samuel's double down the right-field line with one out in the 16th inning scored Derrel Thomas with the winning run as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 Friday night.

John Wockenuss led off the 16th by drawing a walk off Jim Vitan, 2-2, the sixth Pirate pitcher. Thomas' single moved Wockenuss to second and a forecourt by Larry Andersen moved Thomas to second and Samuel's double scored him with the winning run.

AL: California retakes top spot in West

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Brown wasn't vespersed for a guy who had provided the big hit Friday night in California's 5-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Brown's RBI home two runs in the pivotal sixth inning and then scored on Juan Beniquez's fourth single of the game as the Angels moved into first place in the American League West, one-half game ahead of Chicago.

Brown swinging at lousy pitches all night," said Brown. "I stunk on my first two times at-bat and the fourth time at-bat. But I shouldn't mind going 1-for-4 when I get the game-winning RBI's."

"They've been pitching me inside and out since the season started," said Brown. "So I stepped back and got around on a fastball inside. It turned out to be the big hit in a big game. Chicago is awful tough to beat at home."

Doug DeCinces drove in the Angels' first run when he drew a bases-loaded walk in the third inning and he closed out the scoring with his seventh homer in the ninth.

the victory and Donnie Moore picked up his 15th save.

Detroit 4 New York 6

DETROIT (AP) — Lou Whitaker's two-run homer triggered a four-run sixth inning Friday night and Detroit went on to a 6-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Kirk Gibson homered in the seventh inning and Darrell Evans homered in the eighth as the Tigers extended their winning streak to four with their 10th victory in the last 12 games.

Rickey Henderson, leading the American League with a .357 average, led off the game with a home run for the Yankees and hit another bases-loaded homer in the eighth. Henderson also hit a drive off the top of the fence in right-center field in the third that only went for an RBI single when the runners on base had to wait to see if the ball would be caught.

Toronto 7 Boston 2

TORONTO (AP) — Lloyd Moseby singled three times and drove in two runs and Willie Upshaw hit a solo home run Friday night to lead the Toronto Blue Jays over the Boston Red Sox 7-2.

Jimmy Key, 5-2, pitched a five-hitter in winning his fifth straight game.

Boston lost its fourth consecutive game.

Upshaw, who had not homered since June 4, gave the Blue Jays a 5-1 lead when he hit his seventh homer of the season on Bruce Hurst's first pitch of the sixth inning. Hurst's record fell to 2-7. A passed ball by catcher Marc Sullivan and Moseby's RBI single added two runs in the eighth, and Jim Rice hit a sacrifice fly in the ninth for the Red Sox.

Minnesota 3 Texas 2

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Mark Salas lined a two-run single with two outs in the ninth inning, capping a three-run rally Friday night that lifted the Minnesota Twins and new Manager Ray Miller to a 3-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Charlie Hough, 5-8, took a 2-0 lead and a six-hitter into the ninth. But Tom Brunansky drew a leadoff walk and moved to second on a single by Roy Smalley. Gary Gaetti tried to sacrifice, but Brunansky was forced out at third on the punt.

"Tim Lincecum then walked to load the bases. Pinch-hitter Randy Bush grounded out to first, scoring Smalley, and Salas follow, with his two-run single.

The victory came in Miller's debut with the Twins. Miller, who was the Baltimore Orioles' pitching coach, took over Friday after Billy Gardner was fired earlier in the day.

Milwaukee 13 Baltimore 10

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper drove in four runs with three hits, including a two-run single during a nine-run explosion in the sixth inning Friday night that rattled the Milwaukee Brewers past the Baltimore Orioles 13-10.

Baltimore was sitting atop a 7-1 lead before the Brewers scored three runs in the fifth and then tied a team record by scoring nine times in the sixth.

Oakland 9 Cleveland 1

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Don Sutton pitched a four-hitter here Friday night to lead the Oakland A's to a 9-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Sutton improved his season record to 6-5 and lowered his earned run average to 4.80 with the win.

Foundering Twins fire skipper Billy Gardner

By GILES HUDSON
The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Billy Gardner, manager of the Minnesota Twins since 1981, was fired Friday and Ray Miller, pitching coach for the Baltimore Orioles, was named to succeed him, team officials announced.

"The situation has become such... that we felt it was in the best interests of the team to make a change," Twins' President Howard Fox said in a prepared statement.

The Twins, who have lost 19 of their last 27 games, ended a disastrous series Thursday night in Kansas City, losing three of four games, most by large margins.

Miller faced his first start Friday night, as the Twins met the Texas Rangers in the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome.

Fox said Miller's contract expires following 1986. He is the Twins' 10th manager.

"I know what it takes to win and hopefully I'll be able to apply that here," Miller, 40, told a news conference. "This is a team that has a chance to win now... and win in the future."

Since Miller became the Orioles' pitching coach in January 1978, the team has produced five 20-game winners — Jim Palmer in 1976, Mike Flanagan in 1978, Steve Stone and Scott McGregor in 1980 and Mike Boddicker in 1984.

Unlike Miller, who lived in a motel during the baseball season, Miller said he plans to settle in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

"I would not want to be a suit-case manager — to live in another city and fly in and out," Miller said.

The Twins' new leader, who said he has wanted to be a major league manager since 1960, spent 10 years pitching in the minor leagues after signing with San Francisco in 1962.

The decision to fire Gardner was made Friday morning, and came after "a very difficult and trying time," Fox said.

"Maybe you and the rest of us have been disappointed at the way our ballclub has performed," Fox told a reporter. "We made a decision (that) we need to change."

Another job within the Twins' organization, but Fox declined to say what it was.

"I think Billy feels he needs a rest," Fox said. "I think he wants to go home and enjoy himself."

Gardner was en route Friday to his Waterford, Conn., home and was not expected to arrive until late Friday night, his wife Barbara said in a telephone interview.

Miller became Baltimore's minor league pitching instructor in 1974. After four years in that position, he was appointed major league pitching coach at Texas following the 1977 season, but rejoined the Orioles in that capacity in January 1978.

He and his wife, Judith Ann, live in New Athens, Ohio. They have a son, Scott, 19.

During an interview three weeks ago with the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, Gardner, 57, said he believed the team was as good as any other in the league.

Gardner said he based that assessment on "the players, the past years they've had."

But Gardner said he saw areas where the team could be improved.

"We're capable of playing good baseball," Gardner said.

L.A. earns USFL cellar

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two touchdowns, a passing Collier and three interceptions by the Orlando defense sparked the Renegades to a 17-10 season-ending victory over the Los Angeles Express Friday night in a battle of last-place United States Football League teams.

The Renegades still finished with the best record in the franchise's history. Before this year, the team was based in Washington.

Los Angeles quarterback Steve Young didn't play in the second half because the Express wanted to give backup quarterback Frank Seurer a chance to play.

The Renegades scored the game-winning touchdown late in the third period following an interception by Jeff George, his second of the night. George picked the ball off at the Orlando 27 and returned it 17 yards before lateraling to Victor Jackson, who scored another 11 yards before being brought down at the Express 35.

A two-yard pass to Joey Walters and a roughness penalty put the ball at the 19-yard line. Collier hit Walters again from there for the deciding touchdown.

Orlando opened the scoring, going 10 yards in 12 plays in its first possession. Collier's 10th pass of the drive went to Jeff Smith for a 20-yard touchdown.

The lead lasted less than six minutes, as Los Angeles made 79 minutes. Collier's drive for a touchdown. Tony Boddie, the Express' leading rusher with 70 yards, crashed in from 4 yards out.

Los Angeles took the lead late in the second period when Tony Zendejas kicked a 33-yard field goal.

Orlando's drive for a touchdown in less than two minutes. Collier completed four of eight passes to move the Renegades to the 16, and Jeff Brockhaus kicked a 33-yard field goal on the last play of the first half.

"We are all worms, but I do believe that I am a glowworm."
— Winston Churchill.

South had reason to glow after he had taken maximum tricks against a "glowworm" defense. Jim Dummy's of Austin played today's hand in the recent Houston regional tournament, converting the special methods of his opponents to his advantage.

Jim won his diamond king, and the first order of business was to avoid the obvious diamond ruff by West. So instead of passing the spade jack, Jim led a low spade to dummy's king and another spade to East's queen. (The finesse of the jack would have lost to East's queen and a second diamond would have been led when West won his spade ace, he would then have underled his heart ace for a diamond ruff.)

Dummy's diamond ace won East's diamond return and Jim's attention turned to hearts. Dummy's singleton heart went to Jim's 10 and West's queen, and Jim had his answers about clubs. Since West had not led hearts initially, he must have started with the A-Q. And if so, East's announced 7-9 HCP must include the queen of clubs.

West cashed his spade ace and returned a heart, which was ruffed in dummy. The club jack was pushed through East, forcing a pover, and a club finesse to dummy's nine picked up that suit for a fine matchpoint score.
