BOSTON, (UPI) — State Education Commissioner Gregory R. Anrig today ordered school officials to begin on Monday to enforce the truancy laws against thousands of children who have boycotted classes in protest against a court-ordered plan to integrate public schools.

cannot condone continued absences in school by sizable numbers in Boston, Anrig told a news conference. "Not only are such absences not in the educational interests of the children concerned, but police reports indicate that school age children not in school are contributing to disruptions."

day which police and school officials termed "the most peaceful yet" since the desegregation and a massive school busing program was implemented.

Wednesday's figure of 75.5 per cent. The figures do not include kindergarten students.

Both Wilkins and NAACP Boston branch President Thomas I. Atkins were critical of the handling of desegregation and related incidents by Boston police.

Duck in love?

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — A mallard duck been thinking she was either a jet plane or in love with one Wednesday created a minor disturbance at Gen. Mitchell Field.

The duck landed on the United Airlines ramp, nearly hitting a member of the ramp crew, and refused to budge. She was so tame she allowed herself to be picked up and taken away, but she came back, only to get the heave-ho for good.

Tembor forecast holds up

TOKYO (UPI) — Two strong tremors rocked Japan in a 2 1/2 hour period today only hours after a seismologist warned that a highly destructive quake hit the country at any moment.

The warning was issued by experts from the government's meteorological agency and Tokyo University who met Thursday to coordinate their studies on earthquake prediction.

They said a wide area where earthquake energy is believed to have accumulated has been discovered in the sea southeast of Tokyo.

Hours later, two quakes hit the country, causing skyscrapers to sway in Tokyo. No injuries were reported.

The scientists said a series of small earthquakes have occurred in the edges of the area in the last two years — an indication that a major earthquake may be in the offing.

Greenspan regrets broker comment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, says he regrets saying that stockbrokers were worse off with inflation because the statement had been misinterpreted.

Greenspan said Thursday he realized that "obviously, the poor are suffering more" from inflation.

"All segments of the economy suffer seriously from inflation," Greenspan said in testimony to the House-Senate Economic Committee.

Suspect drives TF bus

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The man accused of arson in the Frontier Field stable fire is driving a school bus daily for elementary school children with the knowledge of the school district superintendent and the bus company.

William Roger Carlock, who has been a bus driver for three years, is back on the job again this fall. Both School Supt. George Staudacher and bus contractor Richard Kirkman are aware of the charges pending against Carlock.

Carlock was arrested July 3 and charged with the felony of second degree arson in setting the fire which killed 17 horses last April 21.

A preliminary hearing set for Thursday was waived. Carlock will be bound over to district court where he will enter a plea.

Held in custody for about a month until a psychiatric evaluation was completed, Carlock was released by the court on his own recognizance Aug. 12.

The physician's report, part of the public court record, found Carlock to be "manageable" and contended, "We do not feel there is imminent danger that he will set more fires."

Bickel school principal Dennis Sontus said "someone brought in a petition" the first few days of school that Carlock was driving a bus. Sontus said he felt some concern about the matter and notified School Supt. Staudacher who said he would discuss it with Kirkman.

Sontus said he had "mixed emotions" about the problem. "If the guy is trying to be rehabilitated, I don't want to interfere," he said.

Staudacher confirmed he had discussed the matter with Kirkman, who is responsible for hiring all bus drivers.

"It is an alleged crime," Staudacher said. "He has not been convicted."

"That's what we teach in our schools," he added, "A man is innocent until proven guilty."

Staudacher said he had conferred with Twin Falls County Pros. Atty. Robert Galley and also with the school district's attorney.

"I can't violate anybody's rights," Staudacher said. "This is the United States of America. If he pleads guilty or is convicted it's a different matter than I'll act."

Besides, Staudacher added, "What does alleged arson have to do with bus driving?"

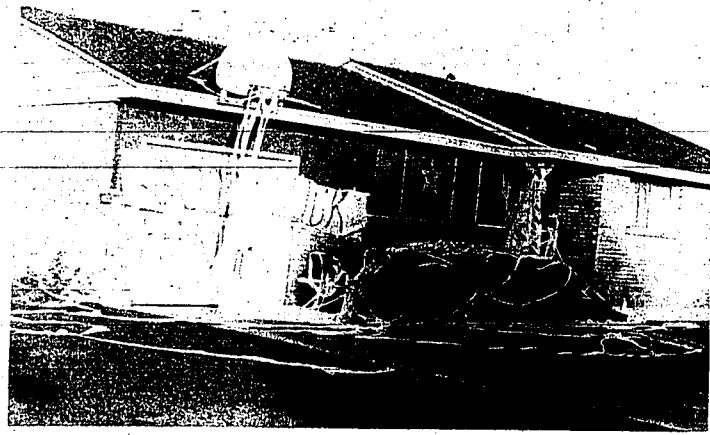

Bus contractor Kirkman when contacted about the matter said "Why make an issue out of it? I'm trying to hold on here to decide what the court's going to do."

Kirkman termed Carlock's work as a bus driver for the past three years as "very satisfactory." He added, "I think you're doing a great injustice to the man."

"After a man has been working here for three years, what's a man supposed to do?" Kirkman asked.

Kirkman said he had no alternative to Carlock's driving the school bus, such as having him work in the shop.

"The only alternative I have is to let him go," he said. "I have nobody to replace him. I'm still short three drivers right now."

Fans decorate

More teachers now available

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School District is luxuriating in the wealth of teachers available.

This year, for the first time Supt. George Staudacher can recall, the district has hired, without any difficulty, teachers aides who are certified teachers.

The district has nine aides, all certified teachers working this year, including three in the second grade at Bickel School.

Within a day after the decision was made to hire aides for the Bickel School second grade, Staudacher said, he had hired three certified teachers.

Open house set

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Republicans are sponsoring an open house to mark the opening of their new headquarters.

The open house will be between 8:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. Monday, at the headquarters on the corner of Shoshone and Second Avenue North.

In addition to local Twin Falls County candidates, senatorial candidate Rob Smith, gubernatorial candidate Jack Murphy and attorney general candidate Wayne Kidwell will attend.

Campaign schedules and candidate information will be available at the headquarters until election day. Karen Bralfford will serve as headquarters coordinator.

Homecoming at the Twin Falls High School

today will see the Bruins meeting the Skyline Grizzlies at 8 p.m. To cheer on the team members students worked most of Thursday night to decorate the homes of the individual players. This resident at 659 Lynwood represents hours of work by a committee of female fans.

Teens attend meet

GLENNIS FERRY — Rae Lee Gravatt, Glenns Ferry, and Terry Cantrell, Mountain Home, are attending the Idaho Community Pride Conference in Blackfoot today and Saturday.

They are the official delegates of Elmore County. Accompanying the delegation of teen leaders from southern Idaho is Mrs. Elsie Riggs, local leader, and Ruth Van Slyke, home economist from Elmore County.

National 4-H week is Oct. 6-12. Clubs are urged to participate by planning a special project or activity for that week.

Oct. 25 is the deadline for submitting a nomination recommendation for the County Meritorious Service Award. A committee will select an adult leader or friend of 4-H to receive the recognition plaque as merit of contributions to the 4-H program.

Names submitted should be accompanied with a statement of recommendation and sent to the extension office.

The longest field goal ever kicked in a National Football League game was 53 yards, booted by Tom Dempsey of New Orleans against Detroit in 1970.

Goodwill meets

TWIN FALLS — Favorite salad recipes was the roll call topic at a meeting of Goodwill Club Thursday at the home of Mrs. Walker Carr.

"Thoughts to Think About" was read to open the meeting, followed by group singing. Rose Mattice led the Lord's Prayer and Jean Carr led the flag salute.

Isabelle Holmes and Cathy McGinnis received a Dorothy Maloney anniversary gift.

Jean Carr won the white elephant. Dorothy McGinnis gave the thought for the day and Isabelle Holmes won the game prize.

Salads and fresh produce were sold to members after the meeting. The next meeting is Oct. 9 at the home of Mrs. Ronald Scherrupp.

Bike path support urged

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls needs bicycle paths, in the opinion of several local residents.

Bike path backers Raymond Crandall and Gale Mott are circulating petitions in support of path construction.

"All we're asking is a little bit at first," Mott said. The paths, he added, "make it safer for the bicyclist and better for the motorist." Mott is the owner of the Spoke and Wheel-Bike Shop.

Mott said he is proposing the city start by simply marking off a lane on some existing city streets, prohibiting parking there and putting up signs declaring the lane for bicycles only.

"There are three types of bicycle paths. The type I'm talking about is simply striping one or two streets in town, for example Locust and Shoshone," Mott said.

According to Mott, Boise has already invested several million dollars for its bicycle paths. "If Boise can do it... so can Twin Falls," he said.

Herbert Mayer, deputy director of the Ada County Highway District, said Boise had about nine miles of bicycle paths of varying types around the city, from lanes painted on existing highways to extra wide sidewalk lanes.

Federal government funds are available to assist cities in constructing the paths. Mayer said. The Land and Water Conservation Funds used in the projects are administered by the Idaho Parks and Recreation Department on a 50 per cent matching basis.

The local agency such as the city or county pays $1 for each $1 the feds chip in. Before the funds are granted, a plan

ESTATE BOND! WHY DO YOU NEED THIS PROTECTION?

Because recent legislative changes in Idaho have almost abolished any safeguards for your inheritance and for creditors of decedents. The distribution of every estate was in the past handled by a trained attorney and supervised by a court and the heirs, beneficiaries and creditors were in the past protected by surety bond guaranteeing the assets of the estate. Under the probate system now adopted, all of these safeguards have been abandoned. The fate of your inheritance or the debt owed you now lies in the unaccounted and un supervised hands of the personal representative of the estate. Although a personal representative may be, and usually is, untrained in financial matters, he is free to manage and dispose of the estate as he sees fit.

Please don't yield to the misconception that because your interest in the estate, or the estate itself, is small, you don't need this protection. The protection afforded by this bond is especially valuable in a smaller estate because the personal representative in such a case is usually less experienced and the inheritance generally means more to those to whom it is due.

Western Surety Company, one of America's oldest bonding companies, will guarantee your interest in an estate whether as an heir or a creditor. Simply clip this notice out of your newspaper and take it to your local insurance Agent, he will submit your application for this bond. All well established insurance Agencies in Twin Falls and surrounding cities represent the Western Surety Company.

Children's safety must come first

The Twin Falls schools are faced with a ticklish question involving a school bus driver who has been accused of setting the stable fire which killed 17 horses last April 21.

School Supt. George Staudaer and bus contractor Richard Kirkman have made no effort to remove the suspect from his bus driving job.

"That's what we teach in our schools," Staudaer said, "A man is innocent until proven guilty."

We agree that the suspect should be presumed innocent until proven guilty. Moreover, we agree that he should not lose his employment until guilt is established.

However, we question the decision to permit an accused arsonist to continue to drive a school bus, bearing the heavy responsibility for the lives of his young passengers.

Also, we question the notion that arson is not relevant to school bus driving. It is true that in many cases arson might have no relevance to a driver's competency for his job.

But in other cases, arson, if proven, could be a symptom of serious psychological problems. In extreme cases, arson might be only the tip of the iceberg in a person suffering from dangerous psychological imbalances.

One standard approach has been taken by many institutions in similar cases — say a case involving an accused police officer.

Perhaps the school district and its bus contractor could follow a similar course, using the accused driver for office chores, bus maintenance or other duties in which the suspect does not bear direct responsibility for children's lives.

When the value of continued employment of an accused arsonist is weighed against the safety of school children, there should be little question about the outcome.

Neighborhood aid

Christian Science Monitor

The urge to give practical and immediate help to the flood victims of Honduras is strong, and the foremost question is how best to aid the rescue and restoration effort.

Officials from government and private aid organizations agree that individuals can help most effectively by contributing cash to such agencies as the American Red Cross and CARE, or to special Honduras aid funds that have been set up in major cities across the United States.

Money will enable Hondurans in the worst-hit areas to buy supplies from nearby cities and countries not affected by the hurricane. Over the projected year-long recovery period, it may be that needed items can be brought from great distances.

The quick and generous response of Hondurans' Latin-American neighbors — Venezuela, El Salvador, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Mexico, Cuba, to name some — is a heartwarming reaffirmation of solidarity of the best kind.

As communications improve and roads are reopened, a clearer picture of the long-range need will unfold. Loss of agricultural production is said to be one of the most serious factors in the recovery that lies ahead.

These figures hint the scope of long-range assistance, in which Hondurans' more remote and prosperous neighbors will want to join.

Berry's World

"We were all set to resume diplomatic relations, then Ford has his 'Bay of Pigs' by pardoning Nixon..."

(C) New York Times Service
EDGARTOWN, Mass. — Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts said he pulled out of the 1976 presidential election campaign because of his responsibilities to his family — and this is widely accepted as true — but obviously there were political considerations as well.

For the last few weeks, investigative reporters from Time Magazine, the Boston Globe and other publications have been here on Martha's Vineyard Island reviewing every detail of the Kennedy Chappaquiddick tragedy.

Here, perhaps more than anywhere else, the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in a car driven over the Dyke Bridge by Senator Kennedy has remained a live and bitter controversy. On this island — aside from everything else — leaving a body in the water is unforgivable.

Accordingly, as Kennedy remained ahead in the preference polls for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination, there was considerable pressure on newspapers and the networks to demonstrate that they were going to review Chappaquiddick as carefully as they had investigated Watergate.

This may have had something to do with the timing of the Senator's withdrawal, if not with the decision itself. For the longer he remained in the race, the clearer it became that the tragedy of Chappaquiddick was going to be replayed in the headlines and on the television screens, through the coverage of '76.

Maybe this was not a factor in the Senator's decision, but the bumper sticker "Nobody drowned at Watergate" was an ominous symbol of the vicious things to come.

In a way, when Nixon finally walked the plank, he took Kennedy by the side with him. The American people of all political persuasions are tired, sad, and ashamed of the frustrations and moral squallor of the age, and worried about the effects of all this on their children.

Not lately, but usually, the Democrats are a practical outfit. They dominated American politics in the thirties, forties, and sixties by running against Hoover and economic depression; and now they hope to recapture the White House by running against Nixon, Watergate, prices, and unemployment.

Kennedy was by far their most attractive personality. In the last few years, he has become a more eloquent and impressive speaker in a big hall than any of his brothers or any of his competitors in either party. In short, he had everything but the main thing: he could not unite the country, or his party, or even his family in a political or moral crusade against the Republicans.

Actually, he is probably a more stable and dependable presidential character than ever in his life — he has learned by failing and suffering but there is some flaw or accident in the Kennedy clan that defies their ambitions, and in the end, he had to go. The surprising thing is that he recognized it: Old Joe — the Founding Father, probably would not have agreed.

The guest list, on some knowledge of the Old Man is that he would have wanted the last son to tough it out. But the Senator took the other road, and, both personally and politically, he was undoubtedly right.

Out, Out-Damned-Spot!

But who's to handle such jobs?

The word is out that Ambassador Daniel Patrick Moynihan has expressed in a secret cable the dismay with which he meets the news that the CIA attempted to "interfere" with the election of Allende.

I do not doubt that our motive was humanitarian in attempting to help the resisters to Allende. Moreover, if we had succeeded, Chile would have been spared the tribulations it is enduring at this moment.

It is a pity that critics of CIA involvement in Cuba do not put the situation in context. It is made to appear as though we uniquely desired to fashion the will of the Chilean people. In the year before Allende came to power:

WASHINGTON — The man who assured Haldeman he would not accept a staff post in the White House is doing just that — apparently help out an old colleague and friend, President Ford.

Donald Rumsfeld is leaving his post as U.S. ambassador to NATO to become a top assistant to the President in charge of the day-to-day co-ordination. He will replace chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., but he will not inherit the same title.

Rumsfeld, who worked as a presidential counselor under Richard Nixon, knows enough about the inner workings of the White House to realize it's not exactly a springboard for a man interested in elective office.

Ironically, Rumsfeld had a hand in creating the job he will now fill. He was head of the transition team that planned changes in the White House to suit Ford's working habits and style of leadership.

The misfortune that befell the Nixon White House because of the zealous protectiveness of chief of staff H. R. Haldeman helped persuade the transition planners to recommend a loser staff arrangement in which other senior advisers would have free access to the President.

Haig took up Haldeman's duties after the Watergate upheaval on April 30, 1973, and because of Nixon's preoccupation with the scandals, became something approaching an acting president in the final months of the Nixon regime.

PETER LISAGOR

Rumsfeld's varied experiences in the executive branch may put him in line for a cabinet post later on. Nixon lured him out of a safe Illinois Congressional seat to head the Office of Economic Opportunity.

He was made a presidential counselor while heading OEO, and served in both posts for a time. Later, he became chairman of the Cost of Living Council before being named to the NATO post in February, 1973, just before the Watergate scandals began to engulf the White House.

Rumsfeld's tasks have been defined as involving the co-ordination of White House operations and seeing to it that the President makes the most effective use of his time.

Rumsfeld is expected to want to play a role in substantive affairs, not to be confined merely to administrative function. That is likely to place him in competition with other senior advisers, notably counselor Robert Hartmann, a former newspaperman who has been with Ford for years and who resents rivals for the President's attention.

Hartmann and Haig engaged in polite but fierce struggle in the weeks since Ford replaced Nixon. Those familiar with the Ford White House predict that Rumsfeld may find his first problem in dealing with the protective Hartmann.

Rumsfeld, however, is a longtime friend of Ford's, dating back to their service together in the House. The fact that Ford called him home from his Brussels post to head the transition team suggests that Rumsfeld has some powerful assets in a job he didn't want but took at the President's insistent urging.

Who will replace irreplaceable Chou?

BY NEAL London Economist News Service
LONDON — (LENS) — The irreplaceable Chou En-lai, the world's longest-serving prime minister and China's longest-serving cabinet member, looks on his way to being replaced at last.

His wife, who is herself a veteran Communist official, told a Nigerian delegation in Peking last week that Chou had effectively resigned after suffering a second heart attack. He is not now expected to resume his normal punishing schedule ever again.

The timing of Chou's illness is unfortunate for sentimental reasons — the celebration of the Communist 25 years in power in China on Oct. 1 would not be the same without him — and also for very practical ones. The Chinese plainly would have liked to get some unfinished bureaucratic business out of the way before the anniversary, a new draft state constitution has yet to be approved and some high officials, including the head of state and the defense minister, have yet to be appointed.

The prescribed way of dealing with these matters is at a full-dress meeting of the National People's Congress, China's nearest equivalent to a legislature; but no such meeting has been held for nearly 10 years. The conflicts which have prevented a summoning of the congress since it was first proclaimed to be imminent four years ago seem at least partly to have been resolved.

But Chou's illness removes the one man capable of engineering the inevitable last-minute compromises — and introduces the problem of selecting his successor. All of which makes a congress before Oct. 1 pretty unlikely.

It is a reflection of Chou En-lai's prodigious workload that his job is now being performed by two men. Teng Hsiao-ping and Li Hsien-teng, both deputy prime ministers and both Communist party members for nearly 50 years, have been taking turns on the meeting-and-greeting circuit.

Teng, who has received rather more foreign attention and made rather more speeches, is generally regarded as the front-runner for Chou's job. But Li is still one step up in the party hierarchy and a strong contender.

Neither may be a match for Chou En-lai, but either would assure China of as smooth a succession as it is likely to get now that the indispensable has to be dispensed with.

Destabilization catches up with bank account

(C) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — George took out the check book and Martha started opening the bills. The first one was from the CIA. It was for $8 million and it was marked "seriously overdue."

"Did you pay the CIA. A just last month," asked George. "I remember writing a check for $10 or $15 million for the CIA, and telling you not to buy anything else there until we'd paid the Arabs' bill."

"That was the bill for moving the CIA out of Greece after the Greek colonels made mess in Cyprus," Martha explained. "This is for the destabilization of Chile we got from the CIA several years ago."

George was angry. He said $8 million was a lot of money for a destabilization. He didn't even know that a destabilization was, he said, but whatever it was he knew he couldn't wear it, he couldn't eat it and he couldn't live in it.

just a little charity. Thanks to the destabilization we helped those poor people avoid the consequences of irresponsibly electing an unfortunate government."

RUSSELL BAKER

"You're kidding, George," said Martha. "The irresponsible people are being shot."

In that case, said George, he would pay the bill and put it down as a charitable deduction on his income tax return. "What's next?"

Martha opened a bill from the White House. "Congratulations," it said. "You have just been given a $120 million credit on your account."

"You know that bill we had from the government for $10 million a month to keep Pan American flying to all those places we couldn't afford to go to on account of always being broke trying to keep Lockheed and Penn Central in business," Martha asked. "Well, the government has decided not to collect it; which means we will be $120 million richer this year."

"What's that tiny little bill that fell on the floor?" George asked.

"This is from the General Services Administration, George. It's only a few thousand dollars, and we get a maid and a valet for the Nixons."

"Pay it," said George. "Who knows? Those guys might open up one of these days, Martha, and you and I might get a crack at them."

"We'll need them," said Martha, showing George a new bill from the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives.

"Due to the anticipated cash shortage which will result from certain loopholes being created for the benefit of people who are financially qualified to fly Pan American to all those places you and Martha cannot afford to go to," the bill stated. "You will be required to pay up the Treasury's 1955's by the amount estimated on the attached bill. We are giving you advance notice so you may budget accordingly for the year ahead."

"No more! No more," cried George. "I need a drink and a smoke." Martha forbade him to have either on ground that they would shorten his life, thus prematurely ending his usefulness to almost everybody.

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — The new hard line that Washington is taking in public statements and in price charges for foreign countries reflects disappointment, frustration and embarrassment that the U.S. campaign to bring about price reductions has failed, and failed conspicuously.

Frustration has become so acute that President Ford and his associates now seem to allude to the possibility of nuclear war. "It is difficult to discuss the energy problem without lapsing into doomsday language," Ford told delegates to an international energy conference in Detroit.

"I wouldn't rule out the use of western forces in the area," a high government official said in a private conversation.

This kind of talk conjures images of marines wading ashore, and narrows the jumping into Middle East oil fields. Responsible officials say such action is not planned or contemplated, that it would bring down on Washington the firestorm of world disapproval and that in the final analysis, it could not secure for Western countries reliable access to oil in volume at less than current prices. Oil fields and pipelines are too vulnerable to sabotage and logistical support of a Middle East expeditionary force would be tremendously perilous and costly.

Why, then, have Ford, Secretary of State Kissinger, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill taken a harder line, that such a course is warranted? The short answer is frustration. Simon and the administration have ardently wooed Saudi Arabia, and have been disappointed. The Saudis have refused, for reasons American officials profess to understand sympathetically, to break with their Arab neighbors and scale back prices unilaterally. The Saudi oil minister, Sheik

Ahmed Zaki Al-Yamani, confided last weekend that his government was raising the price of its share of oil production, now 60 per cent. "In the face of a production surplus, Libya, Kuwait and Venezuela have curtailed output, rather than cut prices to encourage consumption. Sawhill has told the Senate recession. One suggestion is to raise prices of armaments, notably war planes, and industrial equipment. That would require close coordination by selling nations that normally compete rather than collude — the technique that the oil exporters have used successfully. For the industrial states, it would be a far more complicated affair.

Some U.S. officials speak of a coordinated diplomatic offensive, "demarches," as the diplomats say, to the principal exporters by the major industrial powers. Sawhill's report to the Senate subcommittee notes that such an effort in June, shortly before the O.P.E.C. meeting in Ecuador, was rewarded by a price rise.

Permanent Investigations Committee, in a report still unpublished, that the producers "willingness informally to collaborate in holding production well below capacity in order to maintain price is impressive."

In short, the oil exporters have turned a deaf ear to Washington's repeated warnings that high oil prices could wreck the international financial system and bring about a global economic

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Ulcer help must be close

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You give me information on a bleeding ulcer? My doctor tells me I have to be within 45 minutes of a hospital at all times. I don't tell me why, only to stay on a bland diet. — Mrs. A.M.

The great majority of people with peptic ulcers are not kept under such a restriction. After all, not all ulcers bleed. But I would gather that you have had episodes of bleeding, and your doctor wants you to stay where you can get prompt help — if necessary.

After all, an ulcer may bleed just a little, or it may bleed a great deal, and for one reason or another you may be subject to heavy bleeding.

If that happens, you not only need attention to get the bleeding stopped, but perhaps to replace, by transfusion, the blood you have lost.

I recommend you obey your doctor's instructions. It's your well-being that is involved. But you'll have a better understanding of what he is trying to do for you, and how you can help, if you'll read my booklet, "How to Cure Peptic Ulcers — and Keep Them Healed." Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper, for a copy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a dog to have tuberculosis and can humans catch it from them? I have a dog that becomes exhausted from the slightest exercise and lies down and rests and sleeps most of the time. — H.C.

Dogs can have something similar to T.B. but it is not contagious for humans. Anyway, there are so many other things, ranging from arthritis, that might account for your dog's lethargy, you'd best have him seen by a veterinarian.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there such a thing as an allergy to cold? I seem to need much more clothing and bedding than other people to keep warm.

When I am exposed to cold winds or go swimming in cold water, my body breaks out in hives. Other members of my immediate family are as sensitive to the cold as I am.

Indeed there is such an allergy, one of several so-called "physical allergies," that is, reactions from exposure to things such as cold, heat or sunlight.

In some cases, although not all, the condition is caused, or thought to be caused, by a peculiarly abnormal protein in the blood called a "cryoglobulin." ("cry" meaning cold). In other cases, allergy to cold occurs without the presence of the cryoglobulin.

In some cases, persons who are subject of this disorder can tell by simply pressing an ice cube against the skin. When removed, hives will appear. Allergic symptoms can be brought on, in some persons, by chewing ice cubes, drinking iced drinks, or merely taking a cold shower.

An exposure to a cold wind or a sudden drop in temperature can bring on hives or other allergic symptoms in some people.

Cold-sensitive persons should live in a warm climate, if possible, and should avoid cold in the form of drinks, foods and baths. Not surprisingly, treatment involves warmth, either that applied directly by lamp or warm clothes, or by physical exercise. Daily showers with gradually cooler water often reduce the sensitivity to cold.

You would have to see an allergist to find out whether "cryoglobulin" is in your blood.

Abortion, Attica dominate meet

(C) 1974 New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The issues of abortion and Attica Prison dominated the final day of the Senate Rules Committee's hearings Thursday as Angela Davis and more than a dozen other witnesses testified for and against Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president.

Just after 5 p.m., Sen. Howard A. Cannon, D-Nev., who is the committee's chairman — and who was the only one of its nine members to last throughout the afternoon's testimony — recessed the hearings for an indefinite period. He has said it would not vote until an in-progress audit of Rockefeller's taxes had been completed, sometime next month.

Cannon, and his colleagues for varying periods of time, had to listen to nearly six hours of testimony concerning Rockefeller's suitability for, what the abortion issue and Rockefeller's handling of the Attica Prison revolt emerged as the dominant factor.

Angela Davis, the black Communist acquitted two years ago of charges of murder and kidnapping, was the fourth witness of the day. She identified herself as a "co-chairperson of the national alliance against racist and political repression."

In her prepared statement, and later in response to questions from the senators, Miss Davis contrasted Rockefeller's refusal to grant amnesty to the rebellious prisoners at Attica Prison in 1971 with his description of President Ford's pardon of President Nixon as "an act of conscience, compassion, and courage."

"How profoundly hypocritical this is," she said, "and how revealing of Rockefeller's true concept of justice and law. The regime of Richard Nixon did more to undermine constitutional government, subvert the Democratic processes and endanger the liberties of the people than any other single event in recent history."

Rockefeller, she said, "permitted state police and prison guards to stage one of the most wanton massacres in the history of the United States" after ignoring the prisoners' earlier demands for "a human environment at Attica."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee's public hearings for the U.S. Ambassador to Chad were short and to the point Thursday.

"I assume you are a career Foreign Service Officer or else you would not be going to Chad," said Chairman Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark. The appointee was Edward S. Little, a native of Ohio, who said he had no statement to make to the committee.

Nuclear weapon storage eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a last resort, the Pentagon says, storage sites with U.S. nuclear weapons would be blown up if threatened by terrorists or "unfriendly powers."

This would not create a nuclear explosion, Pentagon spokesman William Beecher said Thursday, but radioactive elements — inside the bombs — would spread over a small distance, contaminating the area. A timing device would permit the guards to escape.

It was a response to congressional and military fears American nuclear weapons stored at home and abroad could be stolen.

Gen. Michael Davison, commander of U.S. forces in Europe, told an audience in West Germany Thursday that his troops would have difficulty protecting nuclear weapons against a determined assault by "maniacal" terrorists.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., told the Senate Wednesday "if we are going to have a difficult time breaking into one of these depositories — takes one of these bombs, and it is heralded all over the world, I am telling everyone that we are going to be in a bad way."

"The clock is ticking," Rep. Clarence D. Long D-Md., said in a letter urging the House Appropriations Committee to immediately make weapons depots theft-proof or remove bombs from vulnerable areas. The Pentagon is seeking $30 million in this year's budget to improve security, Beecher said. "I feel that some quite lavishly financed terrorist groups have the capability of attacking U.S. nuclear weapons sites anywhere and everywhere in the world," said Long.

Beecher conceded "the increase of terrorist activities around the world has been a matter of rising concern" but said the present security system is "fully adequate" — including guards, intrusion detection devices, the ability to remove crucial parts of the weapon and devices that can be fired into an atomic weapon to make it unusable.

US, Cuba talks set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two senators leave for Havana today to confer with Prime Minister Fidel Castro, taking the first concrete step in what has become a cautious flirtation with the idea of resuming diplomatic relations between the United States and Cuba.

A State Department official said the department disagreed with the trip.

Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and California's D-R.I., leading members of the Foreign Relations committee, will be the highest ranking Americans to visit Cuba since the U.S. broke diplomatic relations in the early 1960s.

The trip was on their own initiative and in spite of disapproval from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. It was nevertheless the most concrete step to make Cuba part of the detente that has long taken place with Russia and China.

Castro responded by granting visas to the largest group of non-sympathizer newsmen admitted in years to cover the trip. As of Thursday night, 22 visas had been granted to UPI and other major news organizations. More were expected before a charter plane for newsmen took off from Miami this afternoon.

He eats fruit of the pits she strings

By Bob Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I am dating a very interesting widow. She is highly talented and artistic. We are both in our 60's. Last winter, she hit on the idea of drying olive pits, dyeing them exotic colors and stringing them together to wear around her neck. A neighbor drilled holes in them for her.

Novel idea

She fed me olives by the pound just to get the pits. Then she got the bright idea to do the same thing with avocado seeds, and now I don't care if I ever see another avocado as long as I live.

What do you think of this idea?
GENTLEMAN FRIEND

Jean Etcheverry, Chisholm plan rites

RUPERT — Mr. and Mrs. Jean P. Etcheverry, report, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Marie, to Donald J. Chisholm.

Chisholm is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Chisholm, Burley.

Miss Etcheverry attended schools in Rupert and St. Mary of the Wasatch in Salt Lake City. She attended Stevens Heninger Business College in Salt Lake City and is a graduate of Zweegnon School for Medical Secretaries in San Francisco, Calif.

Chisholm attended Burley schools and was graduated from the University of Portland with a degree in business administration before receiving his law degree from the University of San Francisco School of Law.

He has practiced law in Rupert since 1967 and is a partner in the law firm of Good, Duff and Chisholm. He is a former Minidoka County prosecuting attorney.

The couple will reside in Burley.

DEAR FRIEND: It's novel. But if she decides to make a necklace of prune pits—that's where I'd draw the line.

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice. My husband disappeared 18 years ago. I have tried to find him, but I can't. All I want is for him to sign some divorce papers so I can be free to marry again.

I went to a lawyer a few years back, and he said: my husband would have to sign some papers before I can get a divorce, but I would like for someone to tell me how can I get a man to sign something if I can't find the man? He has completely vanished.

Time is running out. There must be some way out of this bind. It doesn't seem right that I must stay married to a man I haven't seen in 18 years and may never see again. Maybe he isn't even living.

Please, please help me.

MARRIED WITH NO HUSBAND

DEAR MARRIED: You don't say which state you're living in. Laws differ in different states, and laws are constantly changing. See another lawyer. The law surely must provide for a way out of that bind.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, Mike, walked me home from school the other day. I knew that my older brother was home because I saw his bike, but I invited Mike in, anyway. I know Mike well enough to have invited him into my bedroom. We were partially lying down on the bed—not all the way, and we weren't doing anything wrong. Unless you consider kissing wrong.

Well, my brother walked in on us and I know he thought we were doing something other than just that.

I don't want my brother to think I'm a cheap tramp because I'm not, but how can I convince him? And if he tells my parents, what should I tell them?

"I've never done all the way with a boy, and I don't plan to until I'm married."

How can I convince my brother that we weren't doing anything wrong? I am 16.

DEAR INNOCENT: If you walked into your brother's bedroom and found him and his girlfriend on his bed kissing, what would you think? The Bible tells us to avoid the appearance of evil. That's good advice. Keep your boyfriend out of your bedroom and if you're questioned by your parents—tell the truth and hope they buy it.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69708, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Apples, Apples

In late April and early May a large, mature apple tree will produce between 50,000 and 100,000 blossoms, in clusters of five or six. If all the blossoms were to set fruit, the tree would produce as many as 800 bushels of small apples.

JAMA LEE sets date

October date set

WENDELL — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lee announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jama, to Ronald Berry. Berry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Berry, Filer.

An Oct. 3 wedding is planned at the Methodist Church, Filer.

Miss Lee is a 1974 graduate of Wendell High School. Berry attended Filer school and is employed at Rod Berry's Machine Shop, Twin Falls.

Tea kettles recalled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announced today that thousands of electric tea kettles are being recalled because tests have confirmed they pose a lead poisoning hazard.

The kettles are the same type that have already been banned in Canada.

The agency said it also expects recall of other brands of the same product in the coming weeks but no details were available. Hundreds of thousands of the kettles, manufactured in Canada, have been sold in the United States during the past 20 years.

Today's recall involves two brands — "Overhot" and "Fastmaster" — both manufactured by McGraw Edison of Canada Ltd., Toronto. The FDA said those two brands were distributed in the United States at the rate of 10,000 per year for the past two decades but it did not know exactly how many were covered by the recall.

The agency said McGraw Edison stopped marketing the kettles in this country six months ago and withdrew the product from its wholesale catalog.

Distribution of the kettle was nationwide and the FDA said it believes most of the products are in the hands of consumers.

On June 8th, the Canadian government banned the advertising and sale of several brands of the tea kettles after tests showed that a soft lead solder used inside the kettle melted out into the water when the kettle was used. FDA officials said the hazard primarily exists the first few times the kettle is used and that with continued use the likelihood of lead in the water is lessened.

It had been reported that Canadian researchers discovered at least two cases where small children required hospitalization after their formula was prepared in the tea kettles.

brilliant play. He rose with dummy's king of spades at trick one and led a low trump. East won with the ace and led back the jack of hearts.

Max went up with the ace; decided that East's trump play was made because his ace was singleton.

Then Max was ready for operation wrap up. He led his ace ruffed a spade with the queen of trumps; ruffed a heart in dummy; ruffed another spade with the king of trumps; led his seven of trumps; finessed with dummy's eight; picked up West's 10 with dummy's jack and collected the rest of the tricks with his ace and king of clubs and dummy's fifth spade and last trump.

Steadily climbing food prices forecast in US harvest's wake

(C) Newhouse News Service
WASHINGTON — Americans can expect food prices to keep climbing through the winter and into next year as a result of the poorest grain harvest in more than two decades. This is the bleak forecast of Agriculture Department economists, who blame crop-killing weather, corn stocks and the basic feed for fattening cattle and hogs — are at their lowest level since 1948, according to figures rolling in from the farm states. And because of the refusal of Midwestern farmers to sell their wheat until prices go up, wheat stocks are at their lowest level since 1953.

"Prices will have to go up and consumption is going to have to decline," declared Elmer Klump, economist for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. "We can't draw the stocks down much lower."

The outlook: —Beef in coming months will be leaner and probably tougher, as farmers substitute grass feed for corn. The sharpest price hikes are likely to be for chicken broilers, turkeys and hogs. Beef prices, on the other hand, are expected to level off due to an oversupply of cattle in large parts of the world.

Commercial exports of U.S.-produced food, which amounted more than 40 percent of the crop last year, will drop this year, and probably next year as well. —Food aid under the Food for Peace Program will not increase as much as the State Department would like.

primarily because of the Ford administration's desire to hold down federal spending at a time when inflation is driving up food costs. Even so, the administration hopes to earmark $1.35 billion in food aid during the current fiscal year, compared with $200 million last year. Because of higher food prices, the new spending level will provide only a small increase in the amount of food shipped abroad.

—An American farmer saddled with sharply higher production costs as well as bad weather, will earn less money this year than last. According to J. Dawson Abert, the department's assistant chief economist, net income for 1974 is likely to be a "little under $27 billion," compared with last year's net of $32.2 billion. Still, American farmers would be making more than twice as much as they did in 1971 when their earnings amounted to $13 million.

Although inflation and other problems are pushing up food prices, there is some question just who benefits the most. According to economists, the average price of a one-pound loaf of bread in July was nearly 35 cents. Of this, the farmer got about 5 cents. The balance went to the miller (1.3 cents), the baker (17.7 cents), the retailer (5.9 cents) and others (5.1).

Aside from bad weather, the biggest problem farmers face is a fertilizer shortage. Agriculture Department officials expect the shortage to continue for at least three years until new fertilizer plants are built.

"There are going to be fertilizer delivery problems, dealers are going to be unable to make supply commitments and prices are going to rise sharply," one economist said. The upshot is that commercial fertilizers of superphosphate fertilizer are certain to decline, agriculture officials said.

The Ford administration is not expected to limit exports of fertilizer or food commodities, as the previous administration did last summer with soybeans. The reason is that food and fertilizer exports are being used to offset the increased cost of oil imports.

Last year the United States spent $1.1 billion on imported minerals and fuels, and earned $17.7 billion by exporting agricultural products. Agriculture Department economists are convinced that any attempt to expand food exports will force up domestic food prices, but they are not sure by how much.

New variety?

MOSCOW (UPI) — The newspaper Vechernaya Moskva said Wednesday scientists have grown the first banana in Siberia.

New rules proposed for warehousemen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Agriculture has proposed new regulations to increase substantially the net assets and bonding requirements for grain and dry bean warehousemen under the U.S. warehouse act.

The new regulations, open for public comment until Oct. 25, would set the minimum bond for the warehousemen at $20,000 for both commodities, an increase of $15,000 over current regulations.

The proposal would require a licensed grain warehouseman to have net assets equal to at least 20 cents a bushel for the maximum number of bushels his warehouses can accommodate, while a licensed dry bean warehouseman would need net assets equal to 40 cents a hundredweight for his warehouse capacity.

At present, asset requirements are 15 cents a hundredweight for dry bean warehousemen and 22 cents a hundredweight for dry bean warehousemen.

The regulations would also increase the rate at which grain and dry bean bonds are calculated, while the maximum bond posted by the warehouseman would remain the same — $500,000 for grain and $200,000 for dry bean warehousemen.

The warehouse act is administered by the Agriculture Department's Marketing Service and authorizes voluntary licensing of storage houses for agricultural commodities. Officials said the change in regulations would strengthen the protection afforded farmers, dealers and others who store grain in federally licensed warehouses.

Currently, about 1,450 warehouses are licensed with the USDA with a combined capacity of about 2 billion bushels. Officials said 95 percent of the licensed warehouses are used for the storage of grain.

Bean growers differ with crop estimate

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho bean growers' assessment of production in the Gem state differs from figures released last week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Reporting Service.

"We're of the opinion that the Idaho bean crop just isn't going to come up to the USDA estimates," Walter Reinke, chairman of the Idaho Bean Commission and grower from Hooding area said.

Reinke was referring to the USDA dry bean production report released Sept. 16, which shows Idaho with a 23 per cent increase in production. Commission members generally agreed that Idaho's bean production will be only 10 per cent greater than in 1973. They said yields will be down an average of five hundredweight per acre, and explained that the increase was primarily due to an increase in acreage.

Reinke pointed out that the quality of this year's crop is outstanding despite the lower than average yields. Harold West, Boise, administrator for the bean commission, expressed belief that the industry will have to seek export markets in order to dispose of the crop.

Commission members concurred and authorized a three-man market survey team of commission members to explore European area markets.

Sugar quotas posted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Wednesday issued revised sugar quotas for 29 foreign countries as a result of an additional anticipated deficit of 300,000 short tons in domestic sugar production.

Officials said the domestic beet sugar crop will be 200,000 short tons less than the quotas announced earlier, while the Florida-Louisiana sugarcane crop and sugar cane production will be 350,000 short tons less than earlier anticipated. USDA crop experts in Salt Lake City said predictions on this year's Utah sugar beet crop have remained steady during recent months at 315,000 tons, down slightly from last year's 322,000 tons.

They said sugar beet production would be down drastically this year in Idaho, Oregon and Washington because many growers converted to other crops.

The Idaho prediction is 1,784,000 tons, down from 2,921,000; Washington, 1,701,000 tons, down from 2,476,000; and Oregon, 299,000 tons, down from 477,000. Idaho farmers planted 60,000 fewer acres in beets this year than last, with nearly half of the lost land going to dry beans.

Hawaii's sugar quota was also revised down by 100,000 short tons, officials said. Puerto Rico, however, is able to contribute 50,000 short tons more than earlier anticipated, lowering the total additional domestic sugar deficit to 600,000 short tons.

Since U.S. sugar consumption for the current calendar year is still estimated at 12.5 million short tons, it was necessary to revise the quotas for foreign suppliers to insure adequate sugar supplies.

The 10 countries receiving the largest quota increases were: Philippines, up 144,177 short tons; Dominican Republic, up 58,166 short tons; Mexico, up 51,441 short tons; Brazil, up 50,169 short tons; West Indies, up 48,722 short tons; Columbia, up 38,180 short tons; Peru, up 35,900 short tons; Ecuador, up 27,407 short tons; Australia, up 22,812 short tons; and Guatemala, up 19,377 short tons.

Officials press relief campaign

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (UPI) — Honduran sent emergency relief to newly discovered victims of Hurricane Fifi today, but officials warned of shortages in shipping supplies to other starving and isolated refugees.

“There are 1,500 people stranded in Sonaguerra,” Honduran press coordinator Jacobo Goldstein said. “They will be trying their first supplies today.”

Sonaguerra is located in the remote Mosquitia region along Honduras' northeast coast, one of the hardest-hit areas.

Army Maj. Thomas Morgan, head of the U.S. disaster relief effort, listed the confirmed dead at 1,000, but Honduran officials ridiculed the figure as far too low.

Honduran relief workers estimated the death toll at 8,000 while the nation's foreign minister said at the United Nations in New York 10,000 persons had died.

Col. Eduardo Andino, coordinator of Honduras' National Emergency Committee, said 25,000 people are still marooned by floodwaters and must have food, uncontaminated water and medicine dropped to them from helicopters.

The Organization of American States called an appeal to President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for more helicopters. Relief officials said they have four American, two British and one Guatemalan helicopter.

Heavy thundershowers Thursday damaged makeshift airstrips — causing one small plane to crash without injuries — and hampered relief efforts. “It's enough to provoke tears,” U.S. Ambassador Philip Sanchez said after touring the flood zones. “I don't like to see a continued outpouring of people-to-people help.”

Colson seeking pardon

FORMER — White House special counsel Charles W. Colson, now in jail for obstruction of justice, has asked President Ford for a pardon from the penalty for his Watergate related crime. The request was sent to the Department of Justice, which will study it and make a recommendation to the White House. (UPI)

Nixon book slated

(C)New York Times Service NEW YORK — Irving Paul Lazar, a Beverly Hills, Calif., literary agent, said today that he has secured the rights to publish former president Richard M. Nixon's memoirs in paperback.

Reached at his New York office, Lazar said he had negotiated the acquisition on behalf of Nixon, but he declined to discuss how much Warner would pay, saying the arrangement was “very involved, and it had not been altogether ironed out.” He said the hard cover rights had not yet been sold.

Asked whether Nixon could earn $2 million by writing his memoirs, as other literary agents have said, Lazar replied, “Who knows, it just depends on what kind of book he writes; if he writes an interesting book, I think it'll sell a lot.”

“But I don't know what he's going to write yet, and he doesn't know what he's going to write,” Lazar continued. “For one thing, he's sick, and I don't know when he's going to work on it.”

Jackson raps Ford

(C)Washington Star-News WASHINGTON — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Thursday denounced President Ford for using “gunboat diplomacy” in order to force the Arabs to reduce oil prices.

“The Senator's reference was in a speech by Ford in Detroit on Monday in which the President asserted that the Arab nations must reduce oil prices and added that countries have gone to war over issues less important than the current international oil squabble.”

Amtrak panel rolling

BOISE (UPI) — An advisory committee on Amtrak started work Thursday hours after a Congressional conference committee detailed passenger train service between Portland, Boise and Salt Lake City for at least a year.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said the decision by the Congressional committee to put the run on its priority list for "experimental" train service when it considers new routes next year "makes the work of the Idaho advisory committee on Amtrak even more important."

"Without the Congressional authorization to establish the route by law, the committee will not have to establish that Idaho and Oregon merit the service on an experimental basis," said Andrus.

The congressional conferees depleted an amendment to the 1975 Amtrak authorization bill ordering the service to begin next year. Service across southern Idaho was dropped in 1971 when Amtrak took over U.S. rail passenger service from most of the nation's railroads.

The governor appointed five members to the advisory committee. The committee plans a series of hearings to receive ideas on how to make passenger train service in Idaho feasible and financially independent.

Letters of appointment were sent to Don J. Jensen, vice chairman; Len Engel, Boise; Ellis Mathis, Boise; Mayor Chuck Shaddock, Burley; and Howard McMurray, Pocatello.

The committee is charged with putting together a plan to provide passenger service in southern Idaho that would be a service to the public and not a financial drain on the taxpayer.

Jensen said the first hearings will probably be in Idaho Falls and Pocatello. Others may be in Glens Ferry, Shoshone, Twin Falls, Rupert, Caldwell and Boise.

The group decided Thursday to meet with representatives of other organizations to study the cost of Amtrak service in Idaho, who would use the service, then schedule public informational meetings.

Becker case eyed

(c) 1974 New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The United States attorney's office here has forwarded to senior justice department officials for a final decision a tax-fraud case involving Benton L. Becker, the Washington lawyer who served as President Ford's intermediary in the pardoning of Richard M. Nixon.

A summary of the allegations against Becker, sent to the justice department on Sept. 11, two days after his role in preparing and delivering the controversial pardon was made known, reportedly did not include a specific recommendation from Earl J. Silbert, the United States attorney, on whether the young lawyer could be prosecuted.

Becker has known Ford since 1970, when he assisted him and other congressmen in an unsuccessful effort to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Proposal backed

(C) 1974 New York Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress met Thursday with President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger and agreed to support a weaker version of legislation to suspend military aid to Turkey that the House voted Tuesday.

According to the Senate Majority Leader, Mike Mansfield, and the House Republican Leader, John Rhodes, the leaders agreed to back a proposal that be suspended unless the President certifies that Turkey "is making good-faith efforts" to reach a settlement on Cyprus.

This wording is considerably softer than that of the amendment voted by the House, 307 to 90, calling for a cutoff in military aid to Turkey until "substantial progress" is achieved toward a military settlement on Cyprus.

United Way sets goal

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls United Way set a record $140,000 goal for the 1975 fund drive at a breakfast board meeting today.

The twelfth annual fund drive campaign will organize over 250 volunteers in a massive effort to raise funds for 10 member agencies in Twin Falls. Last year volunteers raised $96,300 of the $125,000 goal.

Volunteers will "hit the streets" after a kick-off luncheon Tuesday, according to campaign chairman Tom Silvers.

United Way drive agencies include Boy Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls Inc., Silver Sage Girl Scout Council, Mental Health Association, Idaho Chapter of Arthritis Foundation, Red Cross of America, Salvation Army, United Service Organization, YMCA and YWCA.

United Way is governed by a board of directors comprised of about 60 local people.

Fred Frazier, United Way president, stressed the great service the ten agencies supported by the United Way campaign provide the people of Twin Falls.

United Way has never met the total needs of these agencies in any drive in the past, he said, and asked all people to be "generous 'til it feels good" in supporting this year's drive.

OVERLAY work is underway this week on Addison Avenue East where a complete new surface is covering the recently installed sewer line. Beginning Monday a number of other city streets will undergo a weather proofing process which will necessitate closure of several blocks at a time for a period of several hours. Residents are asked to watch for detours.

TF street work

Sealing process to close some Twin Falls streets

TWIN FALLS — Beginning Monday many residents in Twin Falls may find streets they would like to travel are closed for a few hours. Officials of the city engineering department said today the closure is being necessitated by a new street sealing process which will be underway two to three days during the coming week.

Street crews will be applying a red colored liquid known as reclaimer to seal and weatherproof streets which have been recently paved. Engineering department officials say this is the first time this material has been used in Twin Falls but it has been found highly effective in other areas and by the Idaho Department of Highways.

It is necessary to close several blocks of the streets being weatherproofed while equipment makes the application. The liquid soaks into the upper covering of the street where hot plant mix has been used for paving in the last year or two. It fuses the upper portion into a smooth hard finish which is then immediately covered by sand and can then be open to traffic.

While the reclaimer is covering the street, officials say the streets are as hazardous as it is about as slick as black ice. As soon as the sand is spread it works into the new surface and the street is safe for traffic.

Streets being treated were swept in preparation for the new surfacing and the entire program is expected to be finished within two to three days.

Streets to be treated include Shoshone from Second North to 10th North; Locust from Kimberly Road to Heyburn; Sunrise North from Shoop to Heyburn; Stadium near Mountain View Drive; Madison 300 feet north and south of Filer Avenue; the Golden subdivision; Glendale subdivision and Green-Acres subdivision.

Russet Street will be treated as will all parking lots and alleys in the mall area. Filer Avenue east of Eastland and some other subdivisions will be covered as material allows.

The city has purchased 6,200 gallons of reclaimer and will apply it as far as it covers newly surfaced streets.

Overlay work is being done on other streets including Washington Street North which is already finished and Filer Avenue East. Crews were working Wednesday on Addison Avenue East where a sewer line has been installed and hope to complete all of that street this week except for one or two spots where sewer installations are not yet complete.

Beyster Paving Co. is doing the overlay work and some traffic detours are in effect.

Work day celebration

KIMBERLY — William Corrad, star of the Cannon television series, is celebrating his 54th birthday anniversary today with a full day of filming in Kimberly.

The television star is winding up filming of the second of two series shows being shot in the Magic Valley. Filming began early this morning in Kimberly and will be completed by tomorrow evening.

Corrad will fly out of Twin Falls Sunday and begin shooting another show on Monday.

Ordination set Oct. 28

BOISE (UPI) — Bishop-designate Nicolas E. Walsh, co-pastor of St. Mary's Parish in Caldwell, will be ordained to the Roman Catholic Episcopacy Oct. 28 in Boise.

The ordination will be held at 4:30 p.m. at the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist.

Father Walsh was named recently by Pope Paul VI as the bishop of Yakima, Wash.

The apostolic delegate to the United States, Archbishop Jean Jadot, will preside at the ordination and Bishop Sylvester Treinen, bishop of Idaho, will be the principal consecrator.

Bill OK applauded

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's governor and U.S. senators applauded the passage Thursday of the Hells Canyon Recreation Area Bill that would keep the Middle Snake River in a free-flowing state. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said the senate bill "would protect a magnificent resource for present and future Idaho generations."

Suitcase stolen

TWIN FALLS — James Duncan, Birmingham, Ala., told police someone took his suitcase from his car at the Blue Lakes Inn parking lot Thursday night.

He said he was putting his luggage in his automobile and had to make two trips from the motel to the parking lot. He left the vehicle unlocked after the first trip and returned to find the bag missing.

He estimated the value of the luggage and its contents at $150.

Antifreeze price boomerangs

BOISE (UPI) — Automobile owners will find that the amount needed to keep their cars running this winter will be higher with the price of antifreeze boomeranging to twice its 1973 cost. A random survey of retail auto supply stores conducted by the Idaho Statesman showed that a dealer which sold antifreeze last year at $1.59 a gallon is now charging $5.50 for the same container.

Another store also sold the product for $1.99 last year and now has it listed at $4.99 per gallon, and a third raised the cost of the liquid from $3.99 to $4.99 just two weeks ago.

Bike passenger injured

TWIN FALLS — Chris Gleason, 18, Twin Falls, a passenger on a motorcycle, suffered injuries in a traffic accident Thursday night.

City police said the accident occurred about 10:50 p.m. in the 100 block of Blue Lakes Boulevard.

A witness told officers the cycle, operated by Cody Niendorf, 17, Twin Falls, was traveling north when it went out of control and overturned.

The driver told officers he was forced from the lane of traffic by a vehicle, causing him to lose control of the machine. Niendorf was uninjured. Hospital officials said Miss Gleason was treated for a fractured tibia. She is in good condition.

Hotel padlocks ordered removed

BURLEY — The padlocks were ordered removed from the doors of the Lee Hotel in Burley Thursday.

The order followed a ruling by Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood last week that a search warrant obtained by Cassia County Prosec. Atty. Gordon Nielson in June as part of a raid on the hotel was invalid.

At the time of the raid Kathryn Summers was arrested and the hotel padlocked.

Mrs. Summers was originally charged with four felony counts related to prostitution. Since then, two of the four counts have been dismissed.

Judge Bellwood ordered the padlock removed and the possessions returned because "the search warrant in this case was not directed at contraband. The indiscriminate sweep of its language is constitutionally intolerable."

"Whether the defendant runs a warehouse and receives money from and lives off the earnings of prostitutes is not germane to our inquiry. The defendant, just as I or my neighbor, is entitled to be spared unconstitutional searches and seizures," the decision said.

Murphy campaigns in TF

TWIN FALLS — Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy brought his campaign for the governor's chair to Twin Falls Thursday with an attack on state spending policies under Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. Murphy also took generally supportive stand on expansion of electrical power production through construction of coal-fired and more hydro plants.

"I regret the incumbent governor doesn't see fit to address himself to the question of inflation on a state level," he said in a news conference. Murphy asserted that Andrus has identified inflation as a national and international problem. But, he said, it is also a state problem which can be checked by cutting back government spending.

In his 1971 state of the state message, Andrus promised to cut state spending by 10 per cent, Murphy said. Instead, the number of state employees has risen from 11,000 to 14,300 since that year and state spending for recurring programs has shot up from $115 million to $197 million, he said.

Meanwhile, Murphy maintained, state services have not increased. "As state employees leave or retire we simply should find ways and means to take up the slack," he said.

The candidate also called for a "program of self-discipline" to cut back consumption, for use of natural resources of Idaho to increase production and for repeal of the state sales tax on all food items as means of fighting inflation.

In regards to the desirability of a coal-fired power plant in southern Idaho, Murphy said the site is "a crossroads."

Idahoans, he said, will have to decide whether to stay in a "static state" or to "progress."

"If we are prepared to turn off our TV sets at 6 p.m. . . if we're prepared to change our status of living entirely . . . then by all means we can oppose construction of such a plant," he said.

But Murphy maintained that with new technology and environmental regulations, Idahoans can have both progress and a clean environment.

He said Idaho also should increase hydro-electric production "wherever possible" but added that a moratorium should be kept on development of dams on the Middle Snake until an Idaho Water Resource Board study is completed.

He also called for a moratorium on any proposal for prohibiting development on the Middle Snake south of the Hell's Canyon until the water resource board completed its study.

Hailey action demanded

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Halley merchants, angered over repeated delay in the demolition of an old building here, told the City Council Thursday night they wanted action.

The controversy centers around the old two-story Fox building located on Main Street, which shares a common wall with Broyles Pharmacy. In addition, merchants are protesting the shabbiness of a fence that is built around a huge home located in the two adjacent blocks to the Fox building.

According to council members, J.P. Nielson, who owns the building and lots, was given 60 days in June to destroy or renovate the Fox building.

After the passing of the 60 days, the council approached Nielson again since nothing had been done. He requested a 30-day extension to contact a structural engineer to help him rehabilitate the structure.

The council granted that request. However, councilman Claude Porter said Thursday night the council still has not seen any renovation plans.

City attorney Stephen Bolter told the merchants a court order was served on Nielson Sept. 21. Nielson, by law, is allowed 20 days to reply, Bolter said.

Bolter told the audience the city could not tear

Gem county aides end TF conclave

TWIN FALLS — The annual state convention of county commissioners and clerks winds up today with budget formulations and election of officers.

The commissioners met Thursday to discuss various topics such as land-use planning, sanitary landfills, law enforcement and election law changes.

Commissioners also heard an address by Stanley M. Smoot, president of the National Association of County Officials (NACO).

Smoot emphasized the need for commissioners and county governments to present a unified force in order to preserve programs such as revenue sharing and retain county government as a strong institution.

Smoot said he has met with President Ford twice in the past month, indicating a new attitude toward local officials at the White House.

The President has opened the doors of the White House for local officials to counsel him concerning programs and budget," Smoot said.

The President, Smoot said, understands that "county officials are out in the trenches. We're where the action is. If America is going to be strong, it has to be strong where the people are."

County officials have to stop bickering among themselves and strengthen their organizations to fight for the programs they need. "With unity of purpose we will win," Smoot said.

"There are some congressmen who don't understand what revenue sharing does," Smoot warned, adding county officials must undertake a national campaign to educate and enlist the support of these representatives.

In a morning panel on land-use planning moderated by Twin Falls County Commission chief William Channing, Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy discussed with the officials the four land-use planning bills before the legislature.

Murphy summed up his philosophy toward land-use planning for the commissioners. Planning is necessary on a local level, according to Murphy, but should not be imposed arbitrarily by the state and federal governments.

Mobile park plan opposed

not close enough to town to provide police or fire protection.

He and Ralph Miller, Hagerman, spoke against the plan, with Ed Gunning, Wendell, the other committee member favoring it. Gunning said a landowner should have the right to do as he wants with his own land.

After the three committee members reported individually, the commission took a roll call vote with Gunning and Mrs. C.J. Stapp voting for the plan.

Varin suggested the commission study the matter further and make recommendations for changes, or expand on the reasons for the disapproval.

A woman pointed out traffic on the one accessible road to the subdivision site already has enough traffic and she feared congestion with 32 more families.

Lack of any recreation area in the subdivision, leaving no place for children to play but in the street, also was stressed by many of the commission members as another objection.

Bob Bolte, chairman of a committee appointed by Matthews to investigate the proposal, said the Soil Conservation Service lists the soil type as "among the best farm ground we have in the county," and the site is

Fire danger remains high

TWIN FALLS — Fire danger in the South Hills area of the Sawtooth National Forest is as high as during late August when the 3,300-acre deadline fire occurred.

Forest officials warn the situation is extremely critical in that most of the trained fire fighting crews have been disbanded and another serious fire would create unusual problems at this time in the season.

Usually by late September, fall rains have greatly reduced the fire hazards. This year there have been no rains and temperatures have continued high. Jim Reid, assistant fire dispatcher for the Sawtooth, said the hunting season adds to the problem.

Heavy visitor use is expected in some of the more remote areas during hunting and this increases the chance for fire. All forest users are urged to extinguish their campfires and smoking material. Persons also are asked to build campfires only in improved areas where fires are provided.

Lewis Munroe, ranger for the Twin Falls district of the Sawtooth, said some of the "old timers" from the Oakley area report conditions are drier this year than at any time they can recall in late September.

That dandy actor of yesteryear, Gary Cooper, was right-handed. But he once played the part of the great left-handed Yankee, Lou Gehrig. Client wants to know how that was possible. Nothing to it. The film director reversed the club which on Cooper's uniform, photographed him at third base instead of first, then reversed the negatives.

JACK LONDON

That famous fellow of fiction Jack London was assigned to report the Russian-Japanese War from Korea. An official there told him the townspeople wanted to see him. He polished up a dandy little speech. The turnout was huge. But when he climbed up on the platform to talk to the crowd, the aforementioned official merely asked him to remove his false teeth. In some wonderment, London did so. The audience cheered. They called for encores. So he put the speech back in his pocket, and just stood there, taking his false teeth out of his mouth and putting them back in again, repeatedly. The applause went on for a long time. He never did give a talk.

RUG

Q. "What are the chances my new oriental rug will outlast my mortgage?"
A Superb. Expect the average oriental rug to last from 30 to 60 years.

YOU ALSO CAN while away some time at stop light by thinking up "ants." The answer is one word which contains the three letters "ant." For example: "A quick ant is instant," "A flowery ant is plant," "A faraway ant is distant," "A leftover ant is remnant," "A business ant is merchant," "An inclined ant is slant." Any others?

NOT A BIRD in the world has fewer neckbones than the giraffe. Even the little English sparrow has 14. Credit the duck with 16. And the swan, 23. As you no doubt have read, that giraffe has only seven neckbones.

Nixon blood clots responding, privilege cutoff stirs anger

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Nixon's blood clots "is responding satisfactorily to treatment," he was reported responding with anger to moves cutting off his post-presidential privileges and money.

Nixon's treatment for phlebitis at Long Beach Memorial Hospital is expected to last at least through the end of next week, preventing Nixon from attending the opening Tuesday of the Watergate cover-up trial. He has been subpoenaed as a witness for both prosecution and defense.

The dime-sized embolism in Nixon's right lung — an area of blocked circulation caused by a blood clot from the phlebitis in his left leg traveling through his veins to the lung — "is responding satisfactorily to a continued therapy of oral and intravenous anticoagulant."

Dr. John Lungren announced Thursday... Nixon's personal physician, said the treatment "will be continued for a number of days."

An administration source in Washington said it is "very irritable" mood because of what he considers the "begrudging attitude" of Congress and other government agencies to deprive him of privileges, funds and amenities given other former Presidents, who served out their terms.

"He feels everyone is giving him a hard time," the source said after a Senate subcommittee Thursday voted to cut Nixon's "return to private life fund" by more than half.

The subcommittee voted to slash President Ford's request for $50,000 to $28,000, and the full appropriations committee is expected to approve next Thursday. The subcommittee also ordered a halt to government funds to pay Nixon's maid and valet.

Nixon is upset at other moves, the source said, and was particularly annoyed that the Marine Corps only "grudgingly" allows him to play on the golf course at Camp Pendleton, which is only a few minutes from his estate at San Clemente, Calif. Until he was hospitalized Monday, Nixon spent most of the time since his resignation Aug. 9 in seclusion there.

Nixon's physician said the former President was being treated by "counadin by mouth and heparin by continuous intravenous drip." Both are anticoagulants, intended to dissolve the blood clots caused by phlebitis, a vein disorder.

Although Nixon is in no immediate danger, doctors say, the condition is potentially very serious... because the clots can be carried by the bloodstream to locations where they block circulation to the heart or lungs, causing death.

"Mrs. Nixon, who is a daily visitor to his bedside, is being assessed of her husband's condition at frequent intervals," Lungren said. He chats by telephones with his daughters in the East, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox, a Nixon secretary said.

Nixon's phlebitis: Blood clot discovered in right lung

Blood clots in the lung are a common medical problem. Treatment normally consists of anticoagulant drugs to prevent further clots. The overall death rate from this condition is about one to two per cent. In Richard Nixon's case, the clot broke loose from a vein in his left leg, which was afflicted with phlebitis. The clot traveled into the big vein that carries blood to the lung. This vein, called the vena cava, routes the blood to the heart, which pumps it into the lungs. Nixon's clot passed thru his heart and lodged in his lung. The condition is potentially serious because a larger clot could block the heart or the lungs, resulting in death.

S. Africa sets territory talks

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — South Africa's white supremacist government has announced plans for whites and blacks to open talks in South-West Africa on the territory's constitutional future.

South African Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller told the United Nations Thursday each group would "decide for itself who its representatives will be."

In a letter to U.N. Secretary

General Kurt Waldheim, Muller said the territory's white population has decided to act "in a more positive and graceful manner" to decide the colony's future.

The huge territory northwest of South Africa has been called Namibia by the United Nations since 1967. South Africa has administered the former German colony since World War I, under a mandate from the League of Nations.

Last year, however, the International Court of Justice in the Hague ruled South Africa was occupying the area illegally.

Muller's letter to Waldheim came as black African delegates considered asking the credentials committee to unseat the South African delegates.

The black delegates have failed in the past to push South Africa out of the United Nations. Previous General Assembly presidents have required a two-third majority for unseating the white supremacist delegation.

Some black African delegates have expressed hope, however, that the new president — Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika — would rule differently this year.

The population of South West Africa consists of about 100,000 whites and 500,000 blacks.

Muller said leaders of South-West Africa's National party, which controls all the seats in the white legislative assembly, decided to begin the inter-racial talks.

Eight years ago, the United Nations declared South Africa's mandate over the territory ended, but South Africa continued to rule the territory. The United Nations gave the territory the name Namibia, saying it was the choice of most of the colony's residents.

LBJ memorial grove planted on Potomac

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A grove of trees was planted beside the Potomac River today as a living memorial to former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Johnson died Jan. 22, 1973. His wife, Lady Bird, and President Ford were invited to the ceremonies. The grove, on the Virginia side of the Potomac in a 15-acre section of a park named for Mrs. Johnson, will eventually be filled with white pine trees and contain a 45-ton pink granite rock from Texas engraved with selected Johnson quotations.

Ford noted the riverside location in his prepared tribute. "Lyndon Johnson," he said, "has crossed over the river from the busy, demanding Washington where he gave his all. And a part of his spirit will always rest here, shaded by tall trees, to match his stature."

Ford also praised Mrs. Johnson, saying, "no one has done more to beautify America" than she "and the countless trees and flowers that were planted across the country, thanks to her effort, are a true reflection of a warm, wonderful person who was a great First Lady."

Ford recalled that Johnson loved his native Texas and the ranch he had there, but said "I think part of his heart and a lot of his indomitable spirit never left Washington."

"For those of us who knew him personally, this will always be a very special place," the President concluded.

But for millions of Americans of this and future generations, who never knew him in life, this grove will also be a place of pleasure, rest and comfort — a place where they can pay silent respect to the memory of a President who served his country and his countrymen well."

Minnesota climber saved in Tetons

GRAND TETON NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., (UPI) — An 18-man rescue team trekked in the dark down the treacherous 13,770-foot Grand Teton Thursday night toting a litter holding an injured Minnesota mountain climber.

The team raced to bear an east wind expected to bring heavy snow to the Northwest Wyoming area. The long walk began after the failure in three attempts to pluck Harold L. Drake, 24, Minneapolis, from the mountainside by helicopter.

"The winds were just too tricky for the helicopter to land," said park spokesman Tony Benvenuto after the third failure Thursday.

Drake, only a few hundred feet below the peak, fell 35 feet. Tuesday and suffered ankle and hip injuries. A medic on the rescue party said Drake was in good condition and in good spirits.

The final attempt to rescue Drake by helicopter was at the 10,800-foot level at the middle Teton Glacier. Earlier attempts were made at 11,700 feet and 13,200 feet. The base of the mountain is at about 6,000 feet.

SEE OLDSMOBILE '75

We raised the gas mileage in every 1975 Olds model.

Every '75 Olds has a new Maximum Mileage System that helps make it a better car in several ways. Our best mileage in years. Smooth-running engines. Fewer tune-ups and less routine maintenance.

And—better exhaust emission control.

The System represents the most advanced engineering and technology we can build into a '75 Olds. It includes a new catalytic converter (see below)—and a lot more.

There's a new high-energy ignition, for a hotter spark and improved ignition performance.

Also, Olds engineers adjusted shift points in transmissions. Installed low-inertia economy axles. And made GM-spec steel-bellied radial tires standard.

As you can see, we've done a lot to improve the gas mileage capability of every 1975 Oldsmobile.

New Catalytic Converter—designed for long life.

This "pod" full of platinum-palladium coated beads provides a new way to reduce most emissions—after combustion, in the exhaust. It does a more effective job—and it eliminates some of the gas-robbing combustion-stage controls of the past. Best of all, it allowed Olds engineers to tune the engines to run smoother and give better MPG than last year.

Introducing Starline—the little Olds you didn't expect. It's a sporty little four-seater that's smaller than a compact... easy on gas... but a bonafide Supercoupe in looks, features and spill on the road!

Delta 88—our full-size family car never looked better—but it's more than just another pretty car. It's really built for the long miles '75 models, including a convertible, with room a car comfort for a growing family.

Merit Omega Salon—our luxurious compact for drivers who like the looks and comforts of imported touring cars. It's got the touches you like—but at an Olds price. Choice of three models.

Toronado—America's first contemporary personal luxury car with front wheel drive. It puts you around turns and along straightaways with outstanding traction. Toronado and Toronado Brougham models.

Cutlass Supreme—now our "little limousine" is big on luxuries, yet it offers improved operating economy. One of eleven mid-sized Cutlass models—including wagons—made right for the times.

'78 Regency (below)—the most comfortable, most thoroughly luxurious Oldsmobile ever built. Magnificent "loose-cushion" look interior, and a distinctive new look in back window section and coupe roofline.

IT'S A GOOD FEELING TO HAVE AN OLDS AROUND YOU!

Fire prevention program under way

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — A stepped-up fire prevention program is in the making in Twin Falls for this year and during 1975. In addition to the regular visits to grade schools with the fire engines and fire prevention films, the department this year is staging authentic fire drills. One such drill has already been held at Bickel school in which the school administrator shut not the students are told in advance. By sending the fire equipment and firemen to the school under actual fire conditions both the students and firemen will benefit. Clare Harkins, who heads the fire prevention program for the Twin Falls Fire Department, said firemen will be pulling up to the schools during the drills ready to fight a fire, will lay the hoses and go into the building, as if under genuine conditions. The buildings will be evacuated and youngsters kept under control. "I think the schools and our department will both find weaknesses in the present fire drill methods in this way," Harkins said. At Bickel, for example, he said, the children who were evacuated from the building did not have adequate supervision or instruction to stay out of the way of the fire fighters. Instead, they gathered around the equipment and had a fire been underway would have hindered the control effort. Firemen will continue to visit each school with fire prevention film programs, demonstrations with the hoses and ladder truck and discussions on home fire escape plans. Again this year, Fire Prevention Week Oct. 6 to 12 will feature announcements of winners in the grade school essay contest. About 3,000 youngsters annually enter the contest, giving their own ideas on preventing fires and measures to take under the emergency conditions resulting from a fire at home or school. Harkins said each of the essays is read and winners selected in various age divisions. Winners this year will receive certificates bearing a new fire department emblem designed by Fire Chief Bobby Bopp and Harkins. A party will also be held for the essay winners with ice cream and cake served at the fire station following a tour of fire station facilities. Harkins said other broadening aspects of fire prevention will be held to emphasize the fire hazards on such occasions as Christmas, Halloween and July 4. The department plans to contact churches regarding the danger of dried evergreen and burning candles in holiday decorations and to meet with organizations and school children to explain the danger of lighted candles in jack-o-lanterns or the many hazards of fireworks. During the year the department personnel is available to present programs for service and civic groups, school classes, 4-H clubs, Granges and professional groups on fire prevention and control.

Harkins said the fire prevention programs cannot be scheduled only for fire prevention week but must be a year around activity. He said since 1971 when Bopp became chief, greater emphasis has been placed on fire prevention education. The department has earned three state awards for fire prevention and department officials feel it is paying off. "Each year we find the essays the children submit in the contest show a better and better understanding of fire dangers and responsibilities they face in preventing fires or in helping other members of the family in case of a home fire," Harkins said.
