File request 'improper'

TWIN FALLS — The American Falls Reservoir District will not try to obtain the facts and figures behind Idaho Power Co.'s offer of $19.55 million for construction of a new American Falls Dam. In a consensus of opinion Tuesday, the reservoir district's board of directors decided it would be improper to ask the Power company to turn over its 50-page file containing economic data supporting the offer.

Power plant site statements differ

BOISE — Idaho Power Co. apparently is issuing contradictory statements regarding its intentions to build a coal-fired power plant near Boise. Company President James Bruce said in an interview with Rodio Station KTFI Tuesday that the power company will file within the next two weeks with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for a permit to build the plant on the Boise site.

Reward offered

TWIN FALLS — A $250 reward is being offered by the Times-News for the arrest and conviction of vandals who have damaged the newspaper's vending racks in Magic Valley. The reward will be given anyone with information which will help in the arrest and conviction of the persons or persons who have been breaking into, taking or vandalizing Times-News sales racks.

Tom Olmstead, Twin-Falls, an American Falls Reservoir District board member, supported that group's decision Tuesday not to seek the file.

"I think we were fortunate to get any kind of offer at all," he said, citing a US Bureau of Reclamation claim that a federal power plant at American Falls would not be feasible. Idaho Power has offered the $19.55 million for construction of a new dam in exchange for use of reservoir water at a 100,000 kilowatt hydroelectric plant at the site.

Big gas tax eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal energy administrator John Sawhill said today he has proposed that the government levy a 20 to 30 cent per gallon "refundable fee" on gasoline. Sawhill, head of the Federal Energy Office, said motorists would be able to gain their refund through the income tax system.

Hatchery removal asked

GOODING — A federal judge who owns an island in the Snake River at Thousand Springs is suing for the removal of a $750,000 fish hatchery. The hatchery, developed in 1970 near the foot of Bridal Veil Falls by Norman Standall and George Lemmon, blocks an estuary or inlet feeding spring waters into the Snake River.

Jurors receive warning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, in search of an unbiased jury to hear the Watergate cover-up trial, today sternly warned the prospects they could go to jail if they fail to say truthfully how they feel about the case. Sirica delivered his lecture to a fresh panel of 175 prospective jurors as the five defendants, all of them associates of former President Richard M. Nixon who have been accused of conspiring to cover up the bungling scandal, sat impassively at the defense tables.

Blaine cleanup draws protests

HAILEY — Bulldozer removal of downed timber jams in Big Wood River received heated opposition from a group of residents of Hailey Tuesday night. The Blaine County Flood Control District was given a tree snagging permit to remove trees from Big Wood River between the forest service boundary at North Fork and Magic Reservoir. James Hogg, flood control director for Blaine County, told the audience not all of the water would be worked. The district, he said, had directed a private contractor to clear jams at Eagle Creek and Lake Creek only.

Gravel begins building behind downed logs. Hogg said, creating more diversion of water during runoff. Hogg said, "I know those areas make good fishing holes." He said, "We will prepare the river as best we can without taking out gravel." Hogg said the permit, was issued for the long stretch of Big Wood River to avoid having to apply for a new permit on each log jam.

Unsettled

Defense attorneys, however, say the hatchery was properly approved by the department following protest hearings in which the final plans for the hatchery were presented. They question whether the estuary was long used for sports fishing. They maintain forced removal of the hatchery would have dire implications for the trout industry in the Magic Valley as a whole which produces between 85 and 95 per cent of the trout commercially sold in the United States.

Speaker says feedback starting point in health care guidance

By BART QUENELL
Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Responsible health care management begins with feedback between administrator and employees, according to a speaker at the Idaho Hospital Association meeting.

Charles D. Lein, dean of the school of business at Boise State University, told the general session gathered here for the four-day meet that only 50 percent of the advice given by an administrator is actually understood and carried out by employees.

Lein said administrators of hospitals across Idaho should listen to suggestions from janitors on up to his executives. Many administrators, Lein said, do not know where they are going, where they've been or how they got back.

Definite goals and objectives have got to be set, Lein said, and passed on to employees and paraprofessionals. Care management can be accomplished.

Lein said the two-way street of communication would greatly increase worker initiative and improve the entire operation of hospitals. He outlined a three-step staffing program which he said could increase productivity and competence levels in institutions.

First, Lein said hospitals must select competent people for the relative level of the position involved. He suggested hospitals must take the time and expend the money if necessary in telephone calls and letters before filling positions.

Money spent initially to pick the right person, Lein said, will save money and hardship after the person is hired. He cautioned against hiring over-competent persons for positions required which could cause as much trouble as not taking enough time to hire the right person for the job.

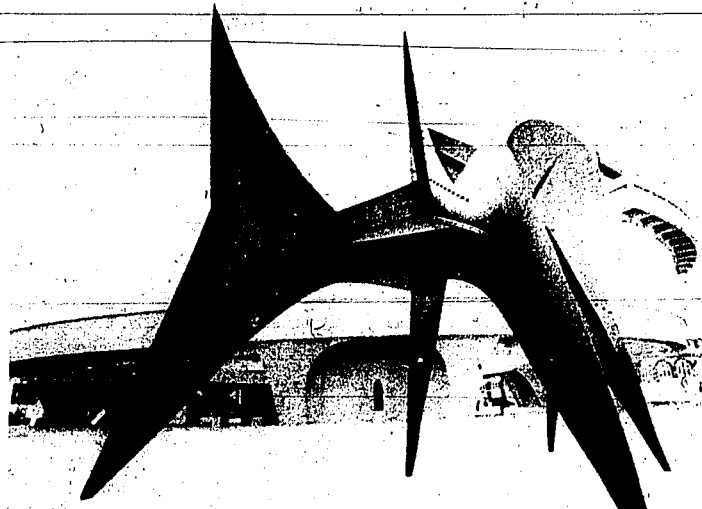

Secondly, he said hospitals must "grow people." Administrators must delegate as much authority and responsibility as possible to each individual. Many of our institutions are "growing pygmies," he said because employees are bored with repetition from the same function.

Challenging confrontations must be put before each individual if they are to accept more responsibility and eventually produce more viable and acceptable health care.

Lastly, he said administrators must "delegate the authority of the right to be wrong." Too many employees in our institutions are afraid that they will lose their jobs or be reprimanded if they err in their decisions, he said.

Motivation, he said, cannot begin until the fear of being wrong is eliminated.

Attitudes in institutions can be contagious and always flow from the top down. Administrators must set the tone and attitude and live by it, he said, which will produce enjoyable yet demanding work from each employee.

First Lady gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Doctors today confirmed President Ford's optimism that his wife, Betty, has made a rapid recovery since breast cancer surgery last Saturday.

A new medical bulletin from the National Naval Medical Center in nearby Bethesda, Md., said Mrs. Ford's "post-operative course to date continues to be excellent."

"I echoed the report which Ford himself provided after visiting his wife in her hospital room Tuesday night. He said she was in 'great spirits' and making 'unbelievable progress.'"

Boston youths clash

BOSTON (UPI) — A handful of black and white students fought in South Boston High School Tuesday, the fifth day of a court-ordered busing plan designed to desegregate public schools. Nine persons were arrested in other incidents.

But citywide attendance rose to the highest of the school year.

Officials said a white student was suspended at South Boston High after he threw a chair at a group of blacks in the library of the school which has been the target of classroom boycotts and bus line demonstrations. Prior to Tuesday, all violence took place outside the building.

The incident occurred as white attacks at the school continued to rise, showing a possible erosion of the white boycott. The School Department said 47 students, 280 whites and 172 blacks and 15 other minorities — went to school Tuesday, compared 396 on Monday. There were only 117 whites at school Monday.

Henry meets with envoys

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today held an unusually long breakfast meeting on the Middle East with Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and then received Sweden's top diplomat for the first time.

Kissinger had been reported dismissed by his coming Middle East tour and his talks with Arab and Israeli diplomats would result in constructive new ideas from both sides for renewing negotiations for peace.

Allon slipped out of Kissinger's suite at the Waldorf Towers, avoiding newsmen, and without making any comment on the encounter which lasted nearly two hours.

Because the meeting went on so long, Sweden's Foreign Minister, Sven Andersson, was obliged to wait for about 15 minutes in an adjoining room.

HAW officials check licenses

By MARILYN ELLIOTT
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — Officials from the Twin Falls Health and Welfare office are combing the Magic Valley for unlicensed day care centers.

Many homes in the area are being used for day care-type centers without the required state license, according to HAW's youth services director Erna Shropshire.

Mrs. Shropshire said Tuesday that most of the homes were not licensed because the owners and operators were unaware or confused about the 1972 state law requiring the license.

"All homes which care for unrelated children on a regular basis must be licensed," she said. The license requirement does not pertain only to those homes which accept children of working mothers who participate in the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program, she said.

The Magic Valley currently has about 140 licensed centers, Mrs. Shropshire said. It is impossible to estimate the number operating without licenses.

Rupert man arraigned

RUPERT — Phillip Vigil, 26, Rupert, was arraigned Tuesday before Magistrate Leroy Blacker on a charge of armed robbery and grand larceny.

Vigil is being held on $2,000 bond in connection with the armed robbery of the Alfresco Drive-in in Burley — last Saturday evening.

"Most normal, average homes do not meet the requirements," she said. HAW's current efforts are aimed primarily at informing the public about the licensing requirements and following up with inspections of unlicensed homes.

The requirements define three types of centers, each requiring slightly different licensing procedures.

A foster home is defined by the act as "a home which accepts for any period of three, with or without compensation, an unrelated child as a member of the household for the purpose of providing substitute care of the child."

On the other hand, day care is defined as "foster care provided only during the day or certain hours of the day."

"This is a day care home if a child or children not related by blood or marriage to the person or persons operating such home are regularly received and cared for during any part of the . . . day."

And a day care center is defined as "a home or place provided care to a group of five or more children for all or any part of the . . . day."

Anyone operating any of the three types of centers defined is required to obtain a license from HAW or face possible prosecution, according to Mrs. Shropshire.

The requirements to be met by the centers include evidence of sufficient income and resources to operate the center, proper record-keeping and reporting, assurance of safety and adequate physical care for the children

Series scheduled

FILMS depicting cultural development in American history will be shown in a four-week series opening Thursday night. Robert Alfred, left, and James Gentry, College of Southern Idaho instructors, are assisting with the film program with arrangements under the direction of the Twin Falls Public Library.

TF film series slated

TWIN FALLS — "How the West Was Won . . . and Honor Lost" is the first of a series of four films which will be shown beginning Thursday night in Twin Falls under sponsorship of the Twin Falls Public Library and College of Southern Idaho.

The film series is on "Uses of the Past" and will be shown at no charge to the public. This is part of the National Project

Center for Film and Humanities, funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and made available locally through the library and college.

All interested persons are invited to attend the showings at 7 p.m. in the Idaho Power Co. Auditorium Oct. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

In the initial film, narrated by Marlon Brando, the clash of cultures on the North American continent will be described, including the American Indian's responses from flight, resistance and religious fantasy — all with the same tragic result.

Films along with discussions and written materials will contribute to each of the programs. Leading discussions following the film showings will be James Gentry, CSI history professor, and Robert Alfred, CSI instructor. Moderators will be Eugene Stacey, Dr. B.N. Carle, Steve Preston and Howard Mahic.

Additional information is available by contacting the Twin Falls Public Library staff.

Other films to be shown include "All the King's Men" on Oct. 10, a film on modern American politics; "Black History: Lost Stolen or Strayed," a story of the Black American who has been left out of history; and "All Quiet on the Western Front" a story on the timeless tragedy of war.

Evans said he must look to the future of Idaho so that all Idahoans can have the best of both worlds: clean air, water and land along with an expansion of industry and development of our natural resources.

"The next decade will bring to Idaho the greatest population and industrial growth in all of our history. We must make plans to coordinate this potential growth with our environment. Locally controlled land-use planning is needed to prevent the destruction of Idaho's environmental treasures, its agricultural land and natural resources.

Evans said he must look to the future of Idaho so that all Idahoans can have the best of both worlds: clean air, water and land along with an expansion of industry and development of our natural resources.

This June the Association of Idaho Cities presented him the "Distinguished Service Award" for meritorious serministrative assignments from the governor's career. Evans has served in the state Senate for 14 years.

"A governor and lieutenant governor of the same party can provide a better and more efficient service to the people of Idaho," Evans said.

In other topics, Evans said a portion of our state and local revenue sharing money should be set aside to help resolve some of the major problems facing Idaho's senior citizens — transportation, recreation, health services, public housing and income protection.

Evans also said that as two-term mayor of Malad, he learned firsthand the problems of local government and believes that the best government is the government closest to the people.

This June the Association of Idaho Cities presented him the "Distinguished Service Award" for meritorious ser-considered in an income evaluation in the state — food processing, transportation, fertilizer business, agriculture service dealers, etc.," he said.

Evans met with senior citizens, attended the kick-off luncheon of the United Way fund, was a guest of the Welcome Wagon at CSI and made a downtown tour with Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Evans said he believed Idaho should elect to the office of lieutenant governor a person who has supported and worked closely with Governor Andrus.

Evans served as the Senate Democrat leader during Governor Andrus' last four years.

He said he believed the lieutenant governor can provide Idahoans more than a legislative service, but can assume a greater responsibility by accepting administrative assignments from the governor's career. Evans has served in the state Senate for 14 years.

Gem passenger service 'far from dead issue'

WASHINGTON — Declaring that the question of rail passenger service for Idaho "is far from a dead issue," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Tuesday he has proposed compromise language which would require Amtrak passenger service for Idaho.

"The question of whether or not Amtrak is going to be required to provide Idaho with rail passenger service has been revived," Church said.

Church's compromise language would require that Amtrak provide rail passenger service to the major metropolitan areas of each of the 48 contiguous states but would allow Amtrak a period of four years to phase in the service.

"Since Idaho has presented the best case for reinstatement of rail passenger service," Church said, "I would expect our state to be the first rail designated."

Church said "So long as the law is written to require reinstatement of rail passenger service I would be willing to accept language which gives Amtrak a reasonable period of time to establish the new routes."

At present, four states are without passenger trains serving their major metropolitan areas.

In August, the Senate approved Church's amendment to the Amtrak authorization bill to require immediate restoration of rail passenger service to the major metropolitan areas of all 48 contiguous states. The House version of the Amtrak authorization bill did not contain this mandate. The final outcome will depend on the version adopted by the House-Senate conferees.

The committee was slated to resume deliberations today, Church said he hopes the conferees will agree to the modified language he is now proposing.

Southern Idaho lost its passenger service in 1971 when the Union Pacific gave up passenger train operation at the time Amtrak assumed nationwide operation of rail passenger service.

Specialized meets set

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls County 4-H Council decided Tuesday night to hold specialized meeting sessions following the general meetings.

The decision was made in an effort to encourage more 4-H leaders to attend the council meetings after it was said that attendance is dropping and American Indian's responses from flight, resistance and religious fantasy — all with the same tragic result.

"After the general business meeting, leaders will meet in discussions of matters of interest only to special groups that have been a part of recent council meetings."

Demo candidate campaigns in TF

TWIN FALLS — Agriculture needs to have more representation in state government, a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor said here Tuesday.

John Evans, who brought his campaign to Twin Falls, said constantly increasing prices for machinery and agricultural supplies are destroying the farmer's profits and forcing him to work for less.

"Seventy per cent of the economic transactions in Idaho are directly attributable to agriculture," Evans said.

Evans, who is a member of the Senate Agriculture Affairs Committee, said that income from farm marketing in 1973 was $1.1 billion — up sharply from earlier years and should continue to grow in the future.

"It is of even more significance when businesses related to agriculture are considered in an income evaluation in the state — food processing, transportation, fertilizer business, agriculture service dealers, etc.," he said.

Evans met with senior citizens, attended the kick-off luncheon of the United Way fund, was a guest of the Welcome Wagon at CSI and made a downtown tour with Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Evans said he believed Idaho should elect to the office of lieutenant governor a person who has supported and worked closely with Governor Andrus.

Evans served as the Senate Democrat leader during Governor Andrus' last four years.

He said he believed the lieutenant governor can provide Idahoans more than a legislative service, but can assume a greater responsibility by accepting administrative assignments from the governor's career. Evans has served in the state Senate for 14 years.

Updated figures needed for AF dam

There are times when a gift horse should be looked in the mouth... The American Falls Reservoir District Board decided Tuesday, in effect, not to look a gift horse in the mouth.

The power company had offered to pay the district $19 million in exchange for falling water rights for power generation and use of the last exempt status of the reservoir for borrowing money for the dam.

Since the offer was first made by Idaho Power, inflation has pushed the cost of a new dam to nearly double its original cost. But the power firm has refused to raise its ante in the project beyond a half million dollars for penstocks in the dam.

Moreover, the cost of water pollution control equipment installation and its subsequent operation and maintenance would be borne entirely by the reservoir district, even though the substandard water quality will result from the water going through the power plant instead of passing over a dam spillway.

The rapidly rising costs to be borne by the water users has sparked dissatisfaction among some spaceholder districts who argue Idaho power should share the additional inflationary costs and bear the cost of power-generation-linked pollution control systems.

Idaho Power says it can afford no more. It says the final $19.55 million offer was determined by comparing the costs associated with a coal-fired plant of the same size, with the costs for a hydroelectric plant. The utility said it was willing to pay the difference in cost, but no more.

Of course all such cost estimates would be expected to change as the economic conditions change. Costs of both coal and hydro-generating plants have risen in the inflationary spiral. So has the cost of borrowing money to pay for such plants.

Surely the economic calculations first used by the power company should be updated by the firm to find out how much money it can reasonably provide under today's economic conditions.

Similarly the water users to effectively negotiate to seek a larger Idaho Power participation, must have information updated to reflect current economic realities.

To assume that the $19.55 million offer still makes economic sense under inflationary and tight-money conditions is naive.

We have no idea how economic changes will affect the amount of money Idaho Power could be reasonably expected to put in the dam pot, but we do know the kind of information needed to reach such a figure.

A second objection was raised by American Falls trustees who were reluctant to seek access to the power firm's calculations. They said it is unseemly to question a gift from the power company.

The company offer should not be understood as an outright gift. It would be the worst kind of irresponsibility for the firm to give away $19.55 million.

For the company to part with that much money it must expect to receive at least that much in return. In the case of the proposed dam, the power firm would increase its power generating capacity, help keep its irrigation power users from going bankrupt in a water shortage, and gain good will.

These are dollars-and-cents items which Idaho Power must weigh before making any offer to help rebuild the dam.

These are the same factors the reservoir district trustees must consider in order to strike a mutually advantageous deal.

The reservoir trustees should seek all relevant information, and the company should provide it in good faith.

Replacement of American Falls Dam should be mutually advantageous to both farmers and Idaho Power. The best formula for all concerned can be reached only after knowing the facts.

Oil summit first step toward cooperative remedy

(C) New York Times Service... WASHINGTON — Over the weekend the foreign and finance ministers of the United States, Britain, West Germany, France and Japan met to discuss the world economic crisis. This is the first indication that the major industrial nations have finally recognized that they must try to agree on common policies to deal with the common threat of worldwide inflation, soaring prices of oil and other raw materials, and the consequent danger of economic depression and financial, social and political anarchy.

critical problem separately, and fussing with one another about how to analyze what cooperation by the industrial nations with one another and with the oil-producing nations was imperative if the world was not to lurch down into political, social, and financial chaos.

The facts before the ministers were not in dispute. Here are the basic facts and projections of the money flowing out of the industrial nations and into the oil producers as the result of the rising price of fuel.

Table with 4 columns: Year, OPEC Countries (Oil revenues of...), Dollar reserves of OPEC Countries, and OPEC Countries. Data points for years 1972-1985.

This was a limited meeting with limited purposes, with some awkward handshakes. Canada, Italy, the Scandinavian countries and many others were left out, but it was at least a beginning by the big boys toward cooperation. France was in the discussions this time along with Japan, so that the major industrial nations of America, Europe and Asia were finally talking together.

everybody agreed was a world-wide crisis. President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger have been criticized in the last few days for over-dramatizing the problem and seeming to threaten the oil producing states with military action, if the latter did not roll back the prices, that were disrupting the economies of the industrial and underdeveloped states alike.

On the basis of these staggering figures, the primary questions before the ministers were how the oil consuming nations were going to meet these bills, and what the oil producing countries were going to do with this vast and growing accumulation of petrodollars. The major nations have just begun to think together about the alarming consequences of the inflation. They are all diverted by domestic economic and political crises, with weak governments most of them facing elections, but at least they are now recognizing that they are faced by problems beyond their national control, and have to find international remedies for what is obviously a worldwide danger.

Solo breakfast best

WASHINGTON — At a dinner party the other night, I overheard a comely woman down near the other end of the table tell her partner, "Oh, Jack and I always eat breakfast together."

threadbare dressing gown and descending the stairs on little cat feet you arouse the sleeping family. Mornings are for plugging in a coffee pot set for strong, for stealing outside to pick up the morning newspaper and to sniff Nature's early bouquet, for cussing the blasted Boston Red Sox over orange juice. Mornings are for savoring the first cigarette of the day after exactly four sips of coffee.

Breakfasting with anyone but one's self is masochistic self-flagellation and should be prohibited by an amendment to the Constitution. If ever there was a time when a married couple should be apart, it is at breakfast time. No person of sound mind voluntarily would submit to the ordeal of having to make conversation before he or she has ingested a couple of cups of coffee, snarled at a liberal or conservative editorial and perused the baseball boxscores.

Fortunately, this household is blessed with a wife and mother who would cheerfully sleep until noon every day were it not for the chore of dispatching a reluctant 7-year-old named John to school, and who gratefully sits down to her own silent breakfast once the house is emptied of other people. For Molly, togetherness begins shortly after 9:30 a.m.

Occasionally over the years I have been forced to witness married couples breakfasting together in hotels where room service has been discontinued. It is a shattering experience. Their conversation consists either of series of grunts emitted through tight lips or pathetic efforts to discuss the weather, last night's expedition to a larcenous cabaret, or Junior's postnatal drip.

For the rest, 16-year-old Mark is also up early, but he has developed into a satisfactorily contemplative giant who will read last week's junk mail rather than add a syllable to his almost inaudible "Mornin'."

Mornings are made for solitude, and silence. They are a time for enjoying, quietly, one's own company. Or, for that matter, NOT enjoying one's own company when the night before is taking its toll.

Should John rise earlier than usual, he has a salutation enroute to his cereal. Smart kids don't bother to do with great sums of wealth, by the latest example of fiscal irresponsibility on Capitol Hill.

WASHINGTON — Once in a while I have a fantasy that is so great I want to share it with everybody. This is my latest pipe dream: A man comes into my office with a large suitcase. "Hi," he says. "My name's Nelson Rockefeller, but my friends call me Rocky."

"Happy and I were talking the other night with some friends and your name came up. They said you would be the only person who would know what to do with great sums of wealth." I blush. "That's nice, Rocky, but I hardly could accept your money. After all, I just don't know you."

Danish letter labeled satire

Editor, Times-News:
I have just read in Sunday's paper a letter from Soren Kiergaard concerning his desire to leap the Snake River Canyon.

I came in contact with this man five years ago and have bought most of his books on leaping. He has written around 15-20 books on the subject. I'm sure he can do what he proposes and his comlnr here would be a blessing.

HUD housing regulations proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has proposed regulations to require public housing authorities and private owners of federally subsidized housing to notify tenants of specific reasons for rent increases.

The proposed regulation, drafted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, would affect 1.1 million units operated by 2,700 local housing authorities and about 600,000 units operated by private owners with HUD-subsidized mortgages.

A HUD spokesman said today the regulation, which resulted from a series of court decisions, would probably not have a meaningful effect on most increases but could uncover abuses.

He was a christian philosopher who was opposed to the German idealism of the 19th century. He is also one of the roots of modern existential thought.

As I said before all his books were about leaping. But his leaps were concerned with man leaving his sinful nature behind and jumping to God. His leap is the leap of faith.

The letter you received is a beautiful satire. For very often people mallow men who make foolish leaps and do not follow the men who make the leap to God. They follow and cater to sin but not to righteousness.

Whoever you get the fake letter from S. K. either knowingly or unknowingly wrote a sly satire of what happened. He must have a good christian sense of satire and humor.

Rights defended

Editor, Times-News:
Open letter to my friends: I would defend unto the death your right to smoke.

Would you defend unto the death my right not to smoke? Each of us has the freedom of choice to do with his body what each of us will.

Most smokers become very upset and indignant if they are asked to go outside to smoke but they think nothing of logging up the air and taking away the rights of others to not smoke.

I have a sign on my front door and another in my auto that says, "Thank you for not 'smoking in our' home," "or auto." Since putting up these signs only one couple has stopped visiting our home. But we don't feel as though we've lost a friend, we just feel that we've gained a lung.

Recently a 15-year-old girl asked her father, "Dad, why can't we put up a sign on our door like Mr. Davis has."

Owner should control land usage

Editor, Times-News:
The city of Rupert has, according to a brief article in the Times-News, just enacted an ordinance prohibiting farm animals within the city limits, with an odd exception attached.

If you own enough land, you may keep a limited number of farm animals in town. Apparently it makes no mention of controlling the animals. Violators may be fined $100 or jailed for five days.

The implications of this law are many, and it is apparent that its framers, considered only a few. As is often the case when a problem is acted upon in haste, many things are overlooked and injustice is brought upon the people affected, in this case the people of Rupert.

This ordinance discriminates against the owner of less than one-half acre of land in town. They may not keep farm animals. It discriminates against landowners of Rupert in general, as it limits the number of animals that may be kept.

This, in my opinion, amounts to an infringement upon the rights of the property owner. Who is the true owner of a piece of land, the one who holds title, or the one who controls its use?

This ordinance should be replaced with one which is fair to all property owners.

Animals could very well be kept by every property owner provided, for example, they be confined to their owner's property and are not allowed to create a nuisance.

Land-use legislation, be it at any level of government, which places the control of land in the hands of bureaucrats rather than in those of the rightful owner, must not be allowed to become law.

Landowners have paid dearly for their holdings, and they continue to pay for them in the form of taxes.

So long as they do not infringe upon the rights of others, they must be allowed to administer and control the use of that which is rightfully theirs.

Symbol questioned

Editor, Times-News:
In answer to Lynn Young's letter (9-30-74) regarding the cross at Shoshone Falls, the person states that "the cross was the people's way of putting Jesus in biblical days of putting Jesus on display."

I would like to know just how an object used to put a person to death should become such a religious object.

If that be the case, maybe we should build a museum in each town and pit guns, knives, bombs and other objects that have killed people in combat on display.

But what the heck, Lynn Young, if Harmon Park can have its tank, you'll probably get your cross.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DERMATITIS cause unknown

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you give me information on seboremic dermatitis? I have it on my face and scalp and my face is red when I shave. I would like to know what to avoid, and the cause if possible. — P.K.

Seboremic dermatitis — a common disorder, but not too often recognized by that name by most folks — is a low-grade, chronic inflammation of the skin.

The exact cause is not known but it tends to bother those with oily skins. In fact, that is where it gets its name, because skin oils come from the sebaceous glands.

It can develop elsewhere than in the face and scalp — behind the ears, in the ear canals, in body areas where there are folds of skin. Dandruff, and the scaling that goes with it, is a form of sebaceous dermatitis.

There's nothing to "avoid" to prevent it, and diet has nothing to do with it, except that, for whatever reason, some overweight patients just cannot be helped until they lose weight.

In general, frequent bathing and scrupulous cleanliness to remove excess oil and skin scales is the basis of treatment. Beyond that, to control itching and extensive skin involvement, various lotions can be prescribed by a dermatologist (skin specialist) but I recommend you get a dermatologist's advice, since the severity of the case has a good deal to do with choosing the right lotion or ointment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have an acne problem. My nose, chin and cheeks are covered with small blackheads and my forehead is broken out badly.

I have tried almost everything. What do you recommend? — D.P.

Well, you don't tell me what you've tried (except "almost everything") so I don't know how to tell you to change your program, whatever it is.

It's not an easy condition to subdue, but with proper treatment there aren't many cases that don't respond favorably.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why don't urologists stress diet to cystitis sufferers? For years I divided my time between bathrooms and doctors' offices, peeing clearly in discomfort and money.

Yet nobody advised me against fruit juices, highly spiced food, fresh tomatoes and strawberries, excess coffee and tea — and saltier medicines containing citric acid. — Mrs. J.P.

Cystitis (inflammation of the urinary bladder) is usually due to germ infection. It can also occur because of chemical changes in the urine if the bladder does not empty completely.

However in persistent and recurrent cases, a sensitivity to foods can be the cause. It is not the cause in all cases; it is not even the most likely cause. It's one to be considered when the case does not respond to other treatments.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a new grandson but an old friend to him in my arms because I have emphysema. If I breathe at him or kiss him will I pass this on to him? — A.J.

No, you can't harm him in that way because emphysema is not contagious. It's a loss of elasticity in your lungs, but you can't pass it on to anyone else.

PEOPLE, PLACES, and THINGS!

"Putting it all together" in terms of people, places and things is really what newspaper Classified Advertising is all about.

The value of "things" has to do with the uses to which people put them. And people's needs for things is often determined by the "places" in which they find themselves. Getting the things people need to them, in the place where they need them, requires an easy-to-use, easily affordable and far-reaching communications network. And that is exactly what newspaper Classified Advertising is... putting it all together for people, places and things.

Runaway shelter planned

DALLAS (UPI) — Dr. L.C. Browning is struggling to build a home for runaway children, hoping to keep them out of jail and away from criminal influence.

Browning's Youth Crime Prevention League of America has purchased 2 1/2 acres of land, and is trying to raise $250,000 to build the home, which would provide room and board and counseling facilities for runaways.

For some, the wayward home will provide foster care. "In talking to the policemen here in Dallas, I find that there are an average of 50 children picked up each week," Browning said.

"They're from all over the country. Either they're trying to make their way from the East Coast to California, or they're running the other direction."

"Either way, they're running, and what we want to do is stop them, talk to them, give them a place to stay while they try to figure themselves out. Just give them a little love."

The Youth Crime Prevention League began as an idea 22 years ago and as Browning traveled the Southwest urging kids to stay in school and out of trouble, the idea became an organization.

He formed the league in 1958 in Temple, Tex., and has talked to an estimated 500,000 young persons during the 16 years.

The 16th anniversary of the league was celebrated by city and state officials Saturday in Dallas on the land where the wayward home will be built. There also was a dedication for the land.

"Today when a young man or woman is caught by a policeman, the officer has nowhere to put him but in jail with the hardened criminals," Browning said. "Now we will have a place."

The league has the land paid for and has donations of 10,000 bricks and a $10,000 trust fund in the First National Bank of Dallas.

Ex-inmate charged in murder

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julio Vasquez, 31, an ex-convict, was charged Monday with murdering a policeman whose body was cut to pieces and left in a plastic bag outside a Chinese laundry.

The victim, Patrick J. Kelly, 46, had been on the police force for 19 years. His body was found outside Yee's Hand Laundry Saturday morning, wrapped in a sheet and stuffed in a large garbage bag.

Police declined to comment on a possible motive.

Officers also held a teen-age girl and a 21-year-old woman believed involved in the slaying.

Police said the patrolman was killed and dismembered in a run-down apartment where Vasquez lived with the two women, about two blocks from the laundry.

Detectives found a meat cleaver, a hand saw and a butcher knife in the run-down apartment.

Police said Vasquez has a criminal record dating back to May, 1966, including convictions for assault, car theft, robbery and robbery-assault.

Andrus reports

BOISE (UPI) — A Citizens for Andrus Committee filed its fourth campaign finance report with the secretary of state Tuesday showing cash and securities on hand Aug. 31 of $52,153.72.

Contributions and receipts during the month of August amounted to $7,023.87, the report said, and disbursements by the committee during that month totaled $17,915.68.

Common cause

DETROIT (UPI) — Following too closely is a common cause of auto accidents that can easily be prevented, say safety experts.

It's best to allow one car length for each 10 miles per hour of speed. When the weather is bad and street conditions are poor, increase the distance.

Robbers remain masked

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The three men who held $1 million from a downtown Reno bank referred to each other as "Tiny," "Captain" and "General," but little else was known about them, police said Monday.

FBI files indicated that the robbery Friday night may have been the biggest cash theft in the nation's history.

Auditors at the bank, which connects with the second floor executive offices of Harrah's Hotel-Casino, said at least $1,044,000 was missing.

The bandits, all wearing Halloween-type hoods, held nine employees in the bank before scooping the money into duffel bags and driving off in a green van while a parade was going on.

The van was found abandoned at a motel a short distance away.

Detective Capt. Donald McKillip said the most apparently hid in the bank and made their move about 6:30 p.m.

Oil firm lowers gas price

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio today dropped the price of gasoline company-operated and dealer stations by a penny a gallon.

The price to dealers will be 45.5 cents a gallon for regular and lead-free gas and 49 cents a gallon for premium.

All prices include 11 cents a gallon for state and federal taxes.

"A decline in Sohio's average per-barrel cost for crude oil has now allowed Sohio to cut prices back a total of 5 cents per gallon on gasoline since May, which was the high point in the federal government's program to pass through crude oil on a monthly basis," a spokesman said.

"Gasoline is also in good supply currently and is expected to remain in good supply this winter unless some disruptive forces, such as lengthy coal strike or unforeseen production curtailment, should upset current market patterns."

Switzerland hit by record snow

GENEVA (UPI) — Mountain villages were isolated as Alpine passes blocked Monday by the heaviest September snowfall Switzerland has seen for more than 40 years.

Farmers who managed to get their herds down to the valley from mountain pastures were unable to return to bring down cheeses and other dairy products.

One farmer in the Valais region had to rent a helicopter to transport his entire cheese production for the year.

Monks at the St. Bernhard pass who breed the famous St. Bernhard dogs said there has not been so much snow—more than six feet—since 1934.

Major charged with bribery

NEW YORK (UPI) — An Army major has been charged with accepting $50,000 in bribes to help 400 young men avoid the draft or get out of the military service.

A federal grand jury Monday filed the three-count indictment against Maj. William Sangemino, 45, the third-ranking officer at the city's Selective Service headquarters.

He was charged with accepting the bribes from Nathan Lemler, 62, New York, who was convicted in a separate case on grand larceny charges earlier this year and sentenced to 14 years in prison.

The indictment charged that Lemler operated as a "Selective Service and college placement consultant" and received fees of between $2,500 and $30,000 to get young men out of the draft or get discharges or transfers for clients already on active duty.

Pentagon worries as arms costs soar

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — The Defense Department reported today that in the second quarter of this year the projected cost of 42 major weapons programs increased by $16.9 billion, largely because of inflation.

In a quarterly report to Congress on its weapons procurement budget, Pentagon administrators estimated it would now cost $13.6 billion to complete the 42 airplane, missile and ship programs, many of which are still in the developmental stage.

The largest single increase was in the Air Force's B-1 supersonic bomber, which is scheduled to make its first flight late this year. The cost was now estimated at $76 million for each plane, a $14.5 million increase over the air force estimate in March.

When the Air Force began the B-1 program in 1970, it estimated it would cost $45 million a plane to build 244 of the bombers to replace the B-52 strategic bomber.

The rapidly rising costs of the B-1 bomber program, which is now estimated to total $18.6 billion, may lead to a Congressional decision not to produce the plane. Even before the latest cost projection, Congress was becoming increasingly skeptical about the desirability of building the bomber because of its cost.

To a certain extent, the cost increases reflect the Pentagon's attempt to shift to what it describes as a "more realistic" basis in estimating the future impact of inflation upon the cost of major weapons programs in the years ahead. But, in the opinion of top Pentagon officials, the cost increases also demonstrate the severe impact of inflation upon the defense program, particularly in the procurement of new weapons.

Because of inflation and budgetary cuts by Congress, the Pentagon already faces itself $11 billion short of funds in finance procurement of weapons already authorized by Congress. On top of this shortage of funds, the Pentagon now projects rapidly rising costs for many new weapons that are still under development and whose production has not yet been authorized by Congress.

So serious is the situation in the Pentagon's view, that some defense planners are now gloomily talking about how the United States is being forced by inflation into a slow process of unilateral disarmament.

Summit follow-up

US laying groundwork for world oil meeting

(C) New York Times Service
 NEW YORK — The United States has reportedly put forth specific ideas to the major oil importers to deal with the problems caused by the high prices of oil and help prepare the way for an eventual meeting of consuming and producing countries.

West European diplomats and American officials in Washington said the ideas were discussed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and William F. Simon, the secretary of the Treasury, at last weekend's closed-door meetings in Washington of the five major oil consumers — the United States, Britain, France, Japan and West Germany.

The details, which amounted to a follow-up to speeches by President Ford and Kissinger on Sept. 23, calling for reductions in oil prices, have not been made public at the request of the West Europeans and Japanese, who wanted time to study them in their own countries.

The purpose of the proposals was to spur a coordinated western approach in anticipation of a conference of oil producers and consumers that would discuss a range of problems, including possible price reductions.

The United States hopes that these discussions can lead to greater cooperation and self-reliance among consumers. The American government is studying various proposals for conserving energy, and Simon said today in Washington that Ford would soon make public proposals for cutting energy consumption.

Kissinger organized the two-day meeting because of his reported concern that failure by the Western powers to act decisively could lead to a break-up of the fabric of Western society, including possible Communist take-overs in some countries.

Newsmen covering Kissinger's round of activities were here told that the United States has a carefully worked out program and an idea of where the Western world should go in meeting the crisis.

At a dinner he gave on Monday for the members of the Arab League attending the United Nations General Assembly, Kissinger alluded to the negotiations that he hopes can be held between oil producers and consumers.

Superport bill hits rough seas

(C) Newhouse news service
 WASHINGTON — Energy legislation on which the Ford administration's oil-import hopes are riding — the superport bill — is adrift in a sea of legislative trouble.

The bill, designed to speed construction of off-shore drilling facilities for large tankers beyond the three-mile limit, sailed through the House in June by an overwhelming margin.

But the measure has encountered strong opposition in the Senate, where a special subcommittee on deepwater ports rejected it in favor of a substitute bill that the administration refused to support.

Subcommittee Chairman Ernest P. Hollings, D-S.C., in a clash with the administration, refuses to allow superport legislation to be considered by the full Senate. Hollings accused the Interior Department Tuesday of engaging in illegal lobbying against the substitute bill, which would make the coast guard rather than the Interior Department the lead agency for superport licensing.

"The bill on his (Hollings) desk and it's going to stay there until the Interior Department shows some willingness to sit down and discuss the issue," said Ben Walsh, legislative aide to Hollings.

Frank Kelly, marine program coordinator for the Interior Department, denied there was anything improper about the department's opposition to the Hollings bill. He said the department backs an amendment drafted by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that would correspond to the House-approved bill by making Interior the lead agency for superport licensing, with the Coast Guard playing a secondary role of regulating superport operations.

The administration position is that the Interior Department is better equipped than the Coast Guard to carry out the licensing function, since it already oversees offshore oil drilling as well as other resource development in U.S. territorial waters.

Hollings contends that the Coast Guard would do a more responsible job than Interior, a department he considers "incapable of adequately protecting the public interest. He believes Interior's shortcomings were demonstrated at public hearings" the special subcommittee held this summer. The subcommittee was composed of members of the commerce, public works and interior committees.

The Hollings bill would grant coastal states authority to vote plans for superports, a provision absent from the house bill and one the administration strongly opposes.

Put stamps on 'em

(C) Chicago Daily News
 WASHINGTON — If you've been "forgetting" to put stamps on those monthly bills before you drop them in the mailbox, you'd better mend your ways.

You won't get away with it after Nov. 17. Beginning then, all mail sent without a stamp will not be delivered. It will be returned to the sender, if there is a return address. If not, it will go into the dead letter file.

It has been the practice for heavy mail users, such as utilities and department stores, to foot the unpaid postage bill, but they have not been happy about it.

That is what prompted the U.S. Postal Service to announce the new policy this week.

Mail runs anti-Rocky

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite "tremendous opposition" to Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation as vice president in next Monday's vote on the Senate Rules Committee, predicts his panel will easily approve Rockefeller.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said Tuesday the full Senate vote on Rockefeller's nomination would reflect the heavy outpouring of opposition shown in the mail, but that the committee would approve him "overwhelmingly."

Cannon said the committee's mail has been "quite heavy" in the thousands.

Under the new regulations, workers may be exposed to more than one part per million average over eight hours after, Jan. 1 and no more than five parts per million in any 15-minute period.

Vinyl gas limited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New government orders issued Tuesday will sharply reduce the amount of potential cancer-causing chemicals now being used by the plastics industry and farmers.

The Labor Department's new regulations cutting to almost zero the amount of vinyl chloride gas to which factory workers may be exposed was challenged by the plastics industry.

An official of one company said the rules would throw 2 million people out of work, and said the firm would take legal action against the rules.

The Environmental Protection Agency, delayed by five months by a challenge from Shell Chemical Co., Tuesday ordered a halt to further production of two pesticides, aldrin and dieldrin. The two chemicals are used on about 10 percent of the nation's corn crop.

EPA chief Russell Train said the pesticides pose an "immense hazard" of cancer in humans and are particularly dangerous to infants because of their consumption of dairy products especially likely to have residues of the chemicals.

"Residues of aldrin-dieldrin are present in virtually every member of the U.S. population," Train said.

Senate, House conferees agree on reforms bill

(C) Washington Star-News
 WASHINGTON — House-Senate conferees Tuesday reached agreement on the thorniest provisions of a historic campaign reform measure that would finance future presidential campaigns with public funds.

After weeks of negotiations, Senate conferees agreed to drop a demand for public financing of Congressional elections — bitterly opposed by Democrats — in exchange for provisions to create a strong independent elections commission and revise spending limits for Congressional races.

Although numerous details remain to be worked out, the compromise eliminates all major disputes between the House and Senate and appears likely to insure passage of the campaign reform measure before Congress recesses this month.

The bill would provide $20 million for majority presidential candidates in general elections to draw exclusively from the voluntary $1 income tax check-off fund created three years ago.

Should the check-off fund fall short, which is not expected for 1976 at least, the difference would be made up by state contributions.

The measure would also provide federal funds to match private contributions of $100 or less raised by presidential primary candidates. Each candidate would have to raise an initial $100,000 in all contributions in order to qualify for the matching federal money.

In addition, House and Senate candidates

- could spend up to 20 per cent of their allocated limits for fund-raising expenses without it being charged against their total spending limit.
- Other major provisions of the bill would:
 - Limit the amount any individual could contribute to $1,000.
 - Limit contributions by interest groups to $5,000.
 - Limit the total amount any individual could contribute to all candidates during primary and general elections combined to $25,000.
 - Provide up to $2 million in public funds for financing the Democratic and Republican national convention.
 - Permit the two major political parties to spend 2 cents per eligible voter at both the national and state levels in addition to what individual candidates themselves may spend.
 - Create a full-time independent, six-member federal elections commission with its own civil enforcement powers.

N-power offer stalls

(C) New York Times Service
 WASHINGTON — The United States has proposed that Egypt and Israel agree to place all future "nuclear" facilities and materials under international inspection as a condition for receiving American atomic power plants.

This proposal, disclosed by State Department officials, has apparently become a stumbling block in negotiations over carrying out former President Richard M. Nixon's offer last spring to provide Egypt and Israel — with a large atomic power plant each.

The negotiations are proceeding more slowly than expected by American officials, and some doubt is said to be developing that it will be possible to work out parallel agreements on the sale of the reactors.

Eagleton fights pick

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., is fighting the ambassadorial appointment of a man who he says was in charge of bartering diplomatic posts for campaign contributions in the Nixon White House.

Peter M. Flanigan, former assistant to President Richard Nixon for international economics, was nominated by President Ford to be ambassador to Spain.

But the nomination is in trouble as a result of opposition expressed by Eagleton and others.

Eagleton made his points in testimony to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Flanigan was expected to take the stand later in rebuttal.

Eagleton's evidence gathered during the Watergate investigations that suggested Flanigan arranged for Mrs. Ruth Farkas to be appointed ambassador to Costa Rica after she pledged $250,000 to Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

BILLY GRAHAM says about the new motion picture "Time to Run"...

There is no doubt that today we see the family unit being attacked from every side, torn apart and fragmented. TIME TO RUN is a motion picture about a family, about listening, about the silences between people, the unspoken moments, and the moments of anger that don't really accomplish anything. TIME TO RUN openly offers the reality of Jesus Christ as an answer to the human dilemma.

I feel that thousands of people will see a part of themselves in the film. Hopefully, families seeing it will be brought closer together in real understanding and communication.

I urge you to take your children... or your parents... to see TIME TO RUN when it comes to your community. You may find it more of a mirror than a motion picture!

US won't seek Hughes return

(C) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Justice Department has decided not to seek the extradition from the Bahamas of Howard R. Hughes, the billionaire industrialist, to stand trial in a stock fraud case.

A spokesman for the department said that the decision, made about three weeks after Hughes was indicted last July 30, but not announced publicly, was based largely on the Government's failure to secure the return of Robert L. Vesco, the financier, from the Bahamas in a similar case last year.

Hughes, Robert A. Maheu, his former principal aide, and two other persons were charged by a Federal Grand Jury in Las Vegas with stock manipulation, wire fraud and conspiracy in connection with Hughes' acquisition of Airwest Airlines in 1962. It was the second indictment returned against the four, who were first charged in the Airwest takeover case last Dec. 27. That indictment was dismissed a month later by a federal district judge in Reno, Nev., who termed it the "worst" legal pleading he had ever seen.

Between January and July, Justice Department lawyers reportedly decided not to seek the relinquishment of Hughes in the case on the ground that the reclusive billionaire, whose affairs were conducted almost entirely through Maheu, could

Pleads guilty

REP. Bertram L. Podell, D-N.Y., interrupted his bribery trial in New York Tuesday to plead guilty to charges of conspiracy and conflict of interest in his efforts to help a Florida air taxi service in 1968 and 1969. The plea came on the ninth day of his trial. (UPI)

Thieu denies charges

(C) New York Times Service SAIGON — President Nguyen Van Thieu denied Tuesday allegations of corruption that had been recently lodged against him, but offered to resign from office if, as he put it, "the entire people and army no longer have confidence in me."

In a generally conciliatory two-hour televised talk to the nation, Thieu also promised to amend a restrictive political parties decree that, in effect, has made his own democracy party the only legal political organization in South Vietnam. If kept, this pledge appeared to raise the possibility of an open presidential election campaign next year, in contrast to the widely criticized 1971 race in which Thieu ran unopposed.

The somber, straight forward discourse, which had been eagerly awaited in political circles here, was Thieu's personal response to a loose opposition coalition of Catholics, Buddhists and newspapermen that has become increasingly vocal in the last two months. As such, it indicated that Thieu's regime will continue a flexible, partially accommodating, which has yet to demonstrate mass support.

"I am not disturbed by a few small demonstrations," Thieu declared confidentially.

Enough time with their families. The union said employees voted 82-6 on one ballot and 3623 on an alternate ballot to discontinue the program.

Under the plan, half of the warehouse staff worked four 10-hour days from Monday through Thursday and the rest work from Tuesday through Friday.

"This required most of them to work out of their job classifications and to do work they weren't accustomed to," the UAW spokesman explained.

Captain killed

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A Marxist guerrilla band carrying out a campaign of revenge against the Argentine army, murdered an army captain with machine guns today as he walked near his home in downtown Buenos Aires.

The death of Capt. Miguel Angel Palma in the heart of the city brought to seven the number of army officers killed or wounded in the campaign started by army attacks on guerrillas.

Two army officers were killed in similar ambushes last Wednesday and four other soldiers were wounded in two separate incidents since then, police reported.

At least 128 persons died in politically inspired fighting between right-wing and leftist members of the Peronist movement this year. Since President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron assumed power July 1 after the death of her husband the bitter guerrilla fighting has almost quadrupled.

Trial postponed

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The trial of two Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" charged with assassinating Oakland School Chief Marcello was postponed Tuesday until November 15.

The murder trial of Russell Little, 24, and Joseph Remiro, 27, was to have started today, but the judge issued a delay to allow for a state Supreme Court ruling on a defense request for a change of venue.

Little and Remiro were arrested in January and charged with killing Foster as he was leaving a school board meeting in Oakland Nov. 6, 1972. They have pleaded innocent to the charge.

UAW drops 4-day week

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Union has dropped its experiment four-day work week at a Chrysler Corp. plant, ending the only four-day week in the auto industry.

The UAW said Tuesday its 40 workers at Chrysler's Tappan, N.Y., parts department overwhelmingly to scrub the 60-day program.

The decision could signal the end of the four-day week as an issue in future bargaining between the union and the major automakers.

A union spokesman said workers were opposed to the job rotation required by the revised schedule and objected to other changes in work practices.

"We also found out that while the workers enjoyed the three-day weekends in the summer, they became disenchanted once their children were back in school and their weekend activities were restricted," the spokesman said.

"Many complained that the 10-hour day did not give them enough time with their families.

The union said employees voted 82-6 on one ballot and 3623 on an alternate ballot to discontinue the program.

Under the plan, half of the warehouse staff worked four 10-hour days from Monday through Thursday and the rest work from Tuesday through Friday.

"This required most of them to work out of their job classifications and to do work they weren't accustomed to," the UAW spokesman explained.

Idaho campaign topics cover many areas

By United Press International School programs, alleged price fixing and the Child Protective Act occupied politicians on campaign stops around Idaho Tuesday.

Gov. Wallace's Attorney General Tony Park called for a complete investigation by the U.S. attorney general into charges of price fixing among agricultural machinery and chemical dealers.

Park said he has heard rumors the large machinery companies and chemical manufacturers have used illegal tactics to get the highest prices from Idaho farmers.

Max Hanson, Democratic candidate for Second District congressman, told realtors in Twin Falls the nation's homebuilding industry needs a sharp drop in interest rates and reinstitution of credit policies.

He said the present economic crisis has had a devastating effect on the industry.

In Wallace, Republican Vernon Ravenscroft said he would prefer to see an increase in the credit for sales taxes paid on groceries rather than elimination of that tax from food altogether.

The lieutenant governor candidate was responding to a proposal made last week by Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy that the tax on groceries be eliminated or the credit raised from $15 to $25.

Roy Truly, Democratic candidate for public instruction superintendent, told the Nampa Lions Club Idahoans are not getting the opportunity to participate in school programs.

He said the schools need the help from the support of the community to carry out the goals set for children.

John Evans, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke in favor of keeping land-use planning at local levels as a step needed to take care of rural communities.

He said the Idaho farm income last year exceeded a billion dollars and he expects that mark to be passed in the future.

In addition to locally controlled land-use planning, he said, local involvement and leadership are needed to maintain the rural communities and provide the services they need.

Republican Wayne Kidwell, campaigning for attorney general in Kellogg, said the state's chief legal officer needs to help make known and understand the Youth Rehabilitation Act and the Child Protective Act.

Also in Northern Idaho, Ezra Moore told a Wallace audience he wants Idaho School districts to strive for smaller classes and more teachers who are competent and dedicated.

Moore is campaigning for superintendent of public instruction.

The Republican campaign center in Boise announced Murphy, a gubernatorial candidate, will donate his eyes to the Idaho-Oregon Lions Eye Bank Program.

Representatives of Congressman Steve Symms and Democrat J. Ray Cox of Coeur d'Alene have agreed to meet for a debate Oct. 5 for broadcast on KVID television Oct. 8.

Another debate will be taped later on KIVI television.

National chain quotes prescribed drug prices

TWIN FALLS — A national drug store chain is providing its customers with a 72-page book quoting its prices on 95 per cent of prescription drugs purchased.

Oscos Drug Inc. announced Monday the program to distribute the price books, free of charge, to customers at all Oscos pharmacies.

Company officials say the action is a major step in expanding Oscos' consumer information program, initiated three years ago, when Oscos became the first major drug chain to post the prices of 102 of the most frequently used prescription drugs.

Pharmacists have long opposed publishing prices of prescription drugs, and many states have statutes on the books prohibiting advertising of prescription drugs.

When Oscos posted the original 102-item list in 1971, legal action was initiated in at least eight states, in many cases by the state board of pharmacy.

According to Oscos' information, the Idaho Board of Pharmacy cited each store manager for possible violation of the Unfair Sales Act. However, because of failure to give adequate notice to the chain, the board withdrew the citation and has taken no further action.

No one at the board's office in Boise was able to give any information on the case.

Interest in the consumer education program and providing drug prices was sparked initially, according to background information provided by the chain, by a task force report on prescription drugs made for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in 1969.

Among other findings, the task force concluded there was a real need for patients to be able to determine in advance the cost of prescription drugs at a retail pharmacy. The report stated, "If the patient is to maintain the right to select a pharmacy, he also has the right to know the prices they charge and to compare them with other charges."

The new booklet to be distributed by Oscos lists more than 1,000 prescription drugs, the form they come in (capsule, tablet, etc.), the brand and generic names, manufacturers and price charged by Oscos. First aid information is also included.

According to Oscos executives, the prices in the book will remain in effect until Dec. 31, 1974, to make the listing valid for as long as possible.

An informal survey of pharmacies in Twin Falls showed all but one willing to quote prescription drug prices on the telephone, necessary if drug prices are to be compared conveniently and practically.

Especially for older persons, the need to go into a pharmacy to obtain a price quote makes shopping around difficult if not impossible.

In contrast, a similar survey a year ago in a California City found less than half the pharmacies contacted willing to quote prices over the phone.

Carroll L. Lewis, Oscos president, said the company believes the booklet will "further eliminate the mystery surrounding the price of prescription drugs."

According to the company, the public information policy is "based on the conviction that the price of prescriptions is information that Oscos patients have the right to know and compare."

Although the argument could be made that price listing might benefit a large, chain-type organization to the detriment of a smaller, local establishment, for a specific prescription drug requested, several local pharmacies were pinner away from Oscos' prices, and one was lower.

Monkey scampers around airliner

(C) Chicago Daily News
CHICAGO — What do you say to a naked monkey?

Airline officials pondered that after a monkey broke out of its cage in the cargo section of a DC-10 jetliner during a flight to O'Hare Airport and began scampering around.

The small stump-tailed monkey, which is about the size of a domestic cat, was aboard United Airlines flight 237, originating in Newark, N.J., and destined for Denver with a stop in Chicago, according to Marc Michaelson, an airline spokesman.

"The passengers were a little afraid when they heard the noise beneath the floor," said Michaelson. "But they calmed down when told what was happening."

The passengers were evacuated to another plane after landing at O'Hare and continued their trip to Denver with only a 10-minute delay.

'Bottler's bill' battled

(C) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Organized consumer groups, still smarting from their "under-representation" at the inflation-summit, have turned their attention to Capitol Hill and special-interest legislation benefiting the soft drink and grocery industries.

Long-dormant interest in the legislation, the "bottler's bill," has resurfaced in the House and re-aroused the ire of consumers who plan to fight it on inflation grounds.

At the center of the controversy is proposed legislation that would grant special antitrust exemptions to the two industries by upholding territorial-selling restrictions and other exclusive dealing arrangements used by both.

Consumer groups are bitterly opposed to the measure, which they believe would result in much higher food prices to the public. "We think it is unreasonable that Congress should think of passing this kind of legislation at a time when the President is telling the public to plant victory gardens and otherwise tighten their belts," one consumer leader said.

Using a more formal means of protest, Ralph Nader, the consumer advocate, sent a letter to the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee urging it to prevent further action on the bill.

Governors warn feds energy policies doomed

(C) New York Times Service
BILLINGS, Mont. — The governors of Montana and North Dakota warned the federal government in strongly-worded speeches Monday that their states were demanding a voice in the newly urgent planning in Washington to meet the energy crisis by the crash development of coal resources here.

Gov. Thomas L. Judge of Montana, that the goal of "national energy self-sufficiency" through reliance on, doubled, coal production by 1980 or 1985 was doomed to failure.

Judge and Gov. Arthur A. Link of North Dakota, both Democrats, called for a candid concession of this failure by President Ford, in a major Project Independence policy statement that is to come from the President in November or December. They said there should "instead be an announcement of a national policy that would reduce American energy consumption by as much as 10 per cent.

Such a cut in the consumption of electric power alone, they said in separate but often parallel speeches, would save the energy produced by 2,990 new coal mines.

Gem agency eyes charges

HAILEY — The Water Resource Department will probably file charges today against Bob Smith who allegedly channeled Big Wood River without a permit.

Kenneth Dunn, administrator of operations for the department in Boise, said a meeting with county attorney Steven Boller was set for today. Dunn said charges against Smith likely will follow.

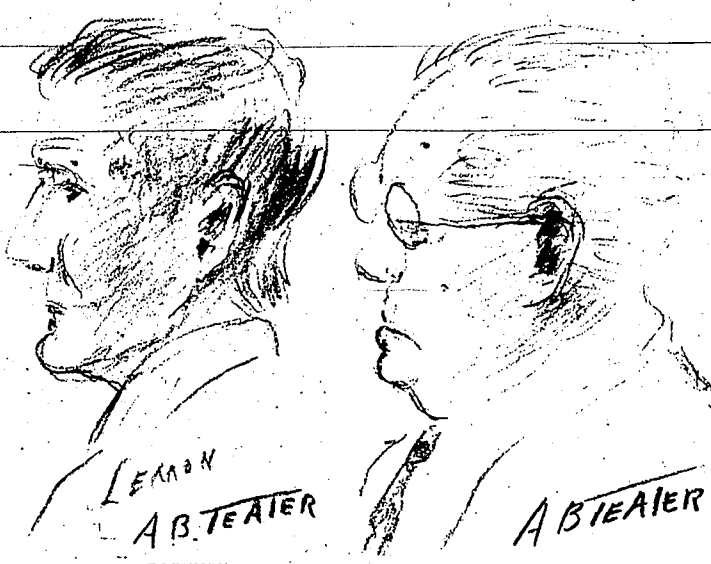

Smith is building a new home about 10 yards from Big Wood River in the Glimet area. This spring the new foundation was inundated by six inches of flood water. Smith firmed his house this summer after the water receded.

He applied for a permit, according to Bob Haynes, district engineer for the water department in Twin Falls, about a month ago. The permit, Haynes said, was to snag timber, remove debris and do some work on an already existing levy Smith built this spring.

Haynes said the permit definitely stated Smith was not to remove gravel from Big Wood River. However, Haynes said, Smith used gravel in the stream bed for a levy base on which to lay heavier rocks.

Flood control district director James Hogg said he told Smith Monday he could not move gravel under the permit. Hogg said a bulldozer and an earth mover were being used in the operation.

Work has stopped on the area in question in Glimet, Haynes said. He added the resource department will probably not order Smith to put the gravel back in the stream because of further disturbance to the stream.

GEORGE LEMMON
... co-developer

JUDGE WILLIS RITTER
... files suit

Suit asks removal of hatchery

Ritter described the hatcheries at Bird Canyon and at Bridal Veil as "an abomination" and hoped the area would become a national park or monument. "It's a shame, and I'll leave off the adjectives, that that whole face of the canyon and all these beautiful springs one-by-one are going to be destroyed," he said.

Defense attorney Lloyd Walker countered that this sentiment is irrelevant to the case. "We may all sympathize or not sympathize with the desires of the judge, with respect to the future

... but in fact they have no basis in law," he said.

He called for dismissal of the case on the grounds that Ritter and Hull had not proven they had suffered personal damages and that they had not shown the hatcheries were constructed unlawfully.

Walker also questioned Ritter about his application for water to build a hatchery on his island. Ritter said the application was made as a defense against Stoddard and Lemmon taking the same water through a long, snake-like conduit to expand their hatchery downstream by Bridal Veil. He said his plan would not obstruct any stream.

With other witnesses, Walker attempted to show that the estuary fed by pure spring water held few trout because of lack of food. He also tried to show the estuary largely had been created following construction of the Upper Salmon Falls Dam which brought a higher water table.

Ritter's and Hull's attorney Edward Clyde, Salt Lake City, Utah, brought in other witnesses to show that the dam had little effect on the water level of the estuary and that flow from springs feeding the inlet would make it a natural waterway in any case.

Clyde also brought in witnesses who testified they had often traveled up the estuary by boat to fish before the hatchery was installed.

Buhl considers new city hall

BUHL — Among long-range plans being entertained by the Buhl City Council is the construction of a new city hall.

In a meeting Tuesday night, councilman Jerry Hawkins suggested members give the plan some thought and meet with state Sen. John Barker to determine if federal or state funds could be obtained.

"Buhl is beginning to feel the first major growing pains and with the school bond issue, hospital bond issue and other undertakings out of the way by next year we should think about replacing this building," Mayor Ted Pence said.

He estimated the building is about 64 or 65 years old and said it is not in the best of shape.

Andrus speaks at TF kickoff meet

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus, helping kickoff the United Way campaign in Twin Falls, told volunteers they will be "thanked many times in years to come" for their services.

The governor spoke briefly at the kickoff luncheon at the Holiday Inn Tuesday noon before several hundred volunteers and organization representatives.

He told the group of United Fund aid given the Heart Association's poster child a few years ago in the way of costly heart surgery. He said a "painting," made by the child while recuperating in a California hospital, depicted the 9-year-old's idea of Idaho and was the kind of "thanks" United Way people receive.

This is the most valuable painting I will ever own," the governor said, "because it reminds me of my personal interest in this little boy who is

Blaine hears opposition

"That's against the goddamn law," Idaho Fish and Game District Commissioner Jack Hemingway said.

Haynes explained, "It is not against the law when a permit is issued."

He said the intent of the Stream Channel Protection Act of 1971 was to control work to be done in a stream and immediate banks.

"It was never intended to keep people out of the river," Haynes said.

Hemingway said people are going to be encouraged to dike the stream wherever possible. Haynes agreed, saying wherever heavy development emerges along a stream or river bank "You can almost be assured sooner or later someone will need to do work."

Haynes and Kenneth Dunn, administrator of operations with the Water Resource Board in Boise, concurred the answer is to prevent further building in the flood plain.

Dunn said the Water Resource Department was given the responsibility by the Idaho Legislature to protect the stream and likewise to protect those people already located near it.

Mary Jane Martin, county planning and zoning board member, asked Haynes how much local control is involved in the decision to do work in the river. Haynes said he was aware for the first time Tuesday of a county ordinance restricting any Big Wood River work without being approved by the planning and zoning commission of the county.

Haynes said his department can issue a permit for work but the local commission can stop any work to be done by its own action.

Andrus considers no future move

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Gov. Cecil D. Andrus ruled himself out as a presidential contender at a press conference Tuesday.

Andrus' name was mentioned recently along with 25 other national politicians as possible presidential material in a Democratic meeting in Chicago.

Although Andrus said he found his inclusion on the list "flattering," he declared, "I'm running for re-election as governor of Idaho. If I'm re-elected, I will serve out my full term."

Andrus also reported to the press on his recent visit with Pres. Gerald Ford. Andrus said he, along with other top state officials, had made three direct recommendations to the President in regards to the economic situation.

"In both the cattle and dairy industry, Andrus said he advocated the return to import quotas. "If something isn't done," he warned, "the dairy industry as we know it will be extinct." And he added the foreign beef was an added strain on the already-glutted American beef market.

His third recommendation involved the need for lower interest and increased availability of funds for home financing and construction. The government should reduce the reserve rate requirements two or three per cent, Andrus said, to increase the amount of money in circulation.

He also said the state is opposed to the abandonment of the Wood River Valley line now under consideration by Union Pacific.

chairman of the agency relations committee, indicated each agency's individual budget has been set at the "minimum" needs to "cover community services rendered.

Muldoon announced report meetings will be held each Friday noon at the Holiday Inn beginning Oct. 11.

The volunteers were the guests of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust, Idaho First National Bank, Bank of Idaho, First Security Bank, Idaho Bank and Trust, Equitable Savings and Loan, First Federal Savings and Loan and Sierra Life Insurance through their Twin Falls offices.

The potatoes were owned by Mrs. Kuwana of Raft River, the sheriff's men reported. The truck sustained only light damage in the accident.

Fire destroys Deadwood Lodge

DEADWOOD LODGE, Idaho (UPI) — Fire destroyed the old Deadwood Lodge and most of the nearby buildings at the site of a former logging camp in Boise National Forest.

The lodge near Deadwood Reservoir had served as a rest stop and gas station for travelers through the central Idaho area about 25 miles east of Cascade.

Most of the destroyed buildings were abandoned.

Market Review

Idaho Valley Weather Report

National Temperatures

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, which closed lower in erratic trading Tuesday, opened higher Wednesday in a moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which has lost 62 1/2 points the past eight sessions, was up 0.66 at 64.50 shortly after the opening.

Advances led declines, 157 to 84, among the 355 issues crossing the tape. Volume amounted to around 330,000 shares.

Most analysts said two rally attempts in trading Tuesday were technical. Prices had fallen to levels where they were attractive in some cases.

The market still remains concerned about inflation. Its focus on inflation, according to one analyst, has shifted from national to national-international in view of high oil increases imposed by oil-producing nations in the past year.

Scoring punch sought by TF against Boise Thursday

Points will be the by-word of the Twin Falls Bruins Thursday night when they travel to Boise to meet the Boise Braves at Bronco Stadium.

The Bruins have fallen to a 2-2 record after a 2-0 start and in both defeats had troubles — the first on defense against Caldwell and the second on offense against Skyline. Coach Denny Almqvist isn't letting the offense off that easily in the Caldwell loss either.

"We have no excuses. We just didn't score. We had four chances (against Skyline), excellent chances, and couldn't move the ball," the coach said Tuesday.

Actually, much of the trouble against Skyline came from a faulty passing game, which is nothing new to the Bruins who

Indians said ready to make Robinson highest paid, first black manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Robinson, the only man to win the Most Valuable Player Award in both the National and American Leagues, will become the first black manager in major league baseball history Thursday when he will be named player-manager of the Cleveland Indians. It has been learned Robinson, who will succeed Ken Aspromonte as manager, will also retain both his current role of designated hitter and his $173,000 a year salary, making him the highest paid manager in baseball history.

The Indians obtained the 39-year-old Robinson on waivers from the California Angels two and a half weeks ago and the immediate speculation was that he was purchased not only for his hitting ability but also to replace Aspromonte as manager. The speculation gained credence last week when Aspromonte was fired.

Robinson will become the major league's first player-manager since when Lou Boudreau handled both jobs with the Boston Red Sox, getting into four games as a player that year. It was Boudreau in 1948 who led the Indians to a world championship when he served as player-manager.

"So far as I know, it's not official," said Robinson, who was with the Indians in Boston for Tuesday night's game.

"But when questioned further by newsmen, Robinson did assess the Indians personnel in a general way.

"There is some good young talent on this club," he said. "It's a type team that can move because it's young. The older a player gets, the more set in his ways he becomes.

"The toughest thing about managing is not that I am black. I hope they would hire me more for my qualifications than for that. But after rubbing elbows with these guys, it would be a funny feeling, realizing you'll be the man and you can't do things like go out drinking with them anymore."

Robinson's only previous managerial experience came in the Puerto Rican Winter League where he managed the Santurce club for five winters. Robinson succeeded present Baltimore Orioles Manager Earl Weaver as manager of Santurce and it was Weaver who recommended Robinson for the Indians.

"There's no question about his baseball knowledge, and he has shown he can lead men," says Santurce club owner and president Hiram Cuevas. "You need the same prerequisites to manage in the major leagues as you do to manage in our league."

"If you can manage in Puerto Rico, you can manage anywhere," says Weaver. "I think Frank will make a good major league manager. I've thought that way for a long time."

Under Weaver, Robinson helped the Orioles, into four World Series. He was voted the American League's MVP in 1966 after winning the Triple Crown, leading the league with 122 RBIs, 49 homers and a .316 batting average.

Robinson was named the National League's MVP with Cincinnati in 1961; a year in which he had 124 RBIs, 27 homers and a .323 batting average.

PPK goes Saturday

Three more days remain for signing up for the annual Twin Falls portion of the Ford Pass, Punt and Kick Contest.

Boys from eight through 13 years of age are eligible for the competition which could lead to national honors.

Those interested may sign up at Bill Workman Ford dealership through Friday evening.

The event will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at Bruin Stadium.

Harriers to run

HAILEY — From 10 to 12 teams are expected to compete in a cross country invitational over the Warm Springs Golf course Thursday.

Bob Shay, Wood River coach, said the juvee and girls races will go at 3 p.m. with the varsity to follow.

"We are encouraging any runners however unattached to run in our juvee race," Shay said. "Possibly we could build up a little more interest."

Carey tops Devils

CAREY — The Carey girls knocked Dietrich out of a share of the Northside Conference volleyball lead Tuesday night in a come-from-behind decision.

Carey won the varsity meetings 9-15, 15-11 and 15-7 while the Carey juvees won in straight sets, 15-4 and 15-8.

The defeat reduced Dietrich's record to 2-2 while Carey improved to 1-3.

Farmer prices decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prices received by the farmer dropped 2 percent in the month ending Sept. 15, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported Monday, with plummeting cattle and hog prices the main factor in the lower farm returns.

The effect this drop in the wholesale market will have on grocery store prices was uncertain.

A report on agricultural prices showed the farmer received 9 per cent less for meat animals in mid-September than in mid-August, and the Sept. 15 figures were down 22 per cent from a year ago.

The price for all beef cattle averaged $32.60 per hundred weight, down $3.60 from mid-August, while hogs, at $33.60, were down $2.50 from Aug. 15 figures.

All this is very confusing for the consumer, who was told last week in another USDA report that he paid an average of $1.41 for all cuts of choice-grade beef in August, down 10 cents from July; and an average of $1.09 for pork, up 5 cents a pound over July. The retail price figures covered the calendar month of August, while Monday's farm prices report covered the period from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15.

Although retail prices do tend generally to follow changes in the wholesale market, Agriculture Department economists say they are simply unable to predict whether beef and pork prices in the grocery store will soon be reflecting the lower price the farmer receives for animals he markets.

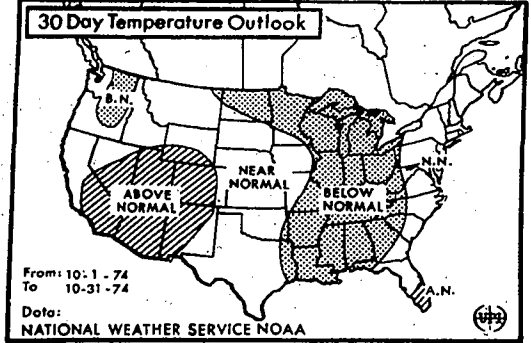

Earlier Monday, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz predicted that pork prices will remain high but beef prices will stay low and possibly drop lower in 1975. In an interview on CBS morning news Monday, Butz forecast an 8 to 10 per cent hike in retail food costs over the next 18 months, with a 2 to 3 per cent hike for the rest of 1974.

He said the food cost increase will be mainly the result of inflation and will occur gradually. But the secretary's predictions were obviously tentative. One major factor yet to be assessed is the amount of damage — done to corn — and soybean crops as a result of premature frosts in the Midwest.

"If a rancher is experiencing significant losses to coyote predation, even after mechanical methods have been used, then he can receive this assistance," Peterson said.

Oklahoma gives M44 usage OK

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Sodium cyanide, or M-44, will be permitted for emergency use for coyote control among sheep and goats beginning Tuesday at an Oklahoma state agriculture department official said Monday.

Bertley Peterson, the agency's director of wildlife services, said ranchers are required to complete a request for emergency assistance before they may use sodium cyanide.

"If a rancher is experiencing significant losses to coyote predation, even after mechanical methods have been used, then he can receive this assistance," Peterson said.

He said a rancher is eligible if he has a 2 per cent confirmed loss in seven days or less; or 1.2 per cent confirmed loss in 24 days after 14 consecutive days of mechanical methods; and a 1.6 per cent confirmed loss in 15-28 consecutive days of mechanical methods.

The emergency use exemption expires Oct. 31, Peterson said.

Three approvals already had been granted in western Oklahoma, he said.

Insect aid eyed

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — University of Idaho scientists are working on ways to develop insect sprays that would attract and nourish beneficial insects.

The team of scientists this week reported success in luring insects to plants with sprays containing honey and other good things.

"We wanted to attract the helpful insects that prey on aphids and other insect pests," Dr. Guy W. Bishop, professor of entomology, said.

"Ladybird beetles and other beneficial insects seem to discover the presence of aphids because they are attracted to honeydew, the sweet excretion which aphids deposit on plant leaves."

DEAR ABBY: I understand that a few years back, you had a letter in your column from someone who asked why the Swiss were such an arrogant people. The writer stated that a Swiss will let you know five minutes after you meet him that he is not German, French or Italian—but SWISS.

My ancestors came from Bern, Switzerland. Therefore, I am interested in the way you answered it.

WISCONSINITE

DEAR WIS: First, the Swiss are not "arrogant." They are a proud people who have much about which to be proud. They have fresh air and clean government. (Their president serves for one year only, and cannot be re-elected.) They produce the world's finest chocolate, cheeses, watches and precision instruments. Their people are honest, industrious and well-mannered. Their skiing is unbeatable and their banks unbreakable. And if that's not something to yodel about, I don't know what is!

3 yodels for Swiss

DEAR ABBY: I am a 53-year-old widower. I have a nice home, a responsible position, good health and an adequate income.

Some time ago, I met an attractive widow and we've been seeing a lot of each other. She's pretty, has a good figure and is a fine cook and housekeeper. We have the same tastes in music, the theatre, sports and literature. We couldn't be better matched had we been selected for each other by computer.

We want to get married, but we have a problem. I have a dog who has been my constant companion for eight years. Never having had children, King was a great comfort to us during my wife's terminal illness. He was like a member of my family.

Unfortunately the lady has a dog and cat to whom she is equally attached. We've tried to bring these animals together without success. Both dogs are big and they fight to the point of trying to kill each other.

If I bring King to the lady's apartment, he intimidates her cat, and she snarls and hisses and runs up the curtain. We've discussed our problem with our friends and they're no help. Frankly, they think we're nuts.

Is there a solution that will work?

WANTS TO MARRY

DEAR WANTS: The widow has the advantage, two pets to one. Why not find a good home for King? Or tip a coin to see which dog goes. If King "wins," the cat remains a problem—unless the two can adjust. (If you two "perfectly-matched" humans can't overcome the animal barrier between you, you are indeed "nuts.")

DEAR ABBY: A Florida wife gripes because the bug spray her husband uses on their property makes him passionate. This is a problem?

Is it possible to find out what brand of bug spray her husband uses? And if the brand name isn't available, could you please ask her to send her husband?

COULD USE HIM IN OMAHA

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 89700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please. Hate to write letters? MR. AND MRS. STEVEN HAUN

Miss Archer, Haun exchange promises

TWIN FALLS — Robin Archer and Steven Haun were married Sept. 14 in an afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert P. Archer, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Haun, Mountain Home.

Tom Myatt, brother-in-law of the bride Acworth, Ga., conducted the double ring ceremony. The couple are both Jehovah's Witnesses.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white polyester double knit with an embroidered panel of pink roses and white stencils down the front. The dress featured a chapel-length train.

Her lace mantilla was held by a headpiece made of pink silk roses, stencils and lilies of the valley. She carried a matching bride bouquet of artificial flowers.

Karla Haun was maid of honor. Valera Myatt, sister of the bride; Connie Haun, sister of the bridegroom; and Georgia Archer, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids.

Charles Archer was best man. Usters were Tim Martenze, John Archer, Robbie Haun and Archie Archer.

Louie Haun was pianist and Linda Haun was in charge of the guest book.

The couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony.

The five-tier wedding cake was decorated with the same flowers and colors as the bride's gown. A bouquet of flowers was placed on top.

Guests attended a covered dish dinner during the reception. Mrs. Dan Ryan was in charge of the dinner.

After a special gift presentation and skit on the couple's life, Denny, Virginia and Dan Baker, friends of both families, presented a musical program. Dancing followed.

After a honeymoon trip to Spokane, Wash., to the World's Fair, the couple resides in Twin Falls where both are employed at Safeway.

Report warns on marijuana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., warns that unrestricted use of marijuana could create a "marijuana culture" and society might find itself "bedeviled" with a large population of semi-zombies.

"If the cannabis epidemic continues to spread at the rate of the post-Beatnik period (since 1965), we may find ourselves saddled with a large population of semi-zombies — of young people acutely afflicted by the 'motivational syndrome,'" Eastland wrote in a report prepared for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee hearings on marijuana.

Eastland blamed the media and educators for development of a "marijuana culture," and said he opposed any effort to decriminalize the drug.

"The spread of the epidemic has been facilitated by the fact that most of our media and most of the academicians who have been articulate on the subject have been disposed to look upon marijuana as a relatively innocuous drug," Eastland said.

"There is evidence that many of our young people, including high school and junior college students, are already afflicted," he said. "I was afraid continued widespread marijuana use would cause irreversible brain damage in millions of young people turning them into passive lotus eaters "motivated by a desire to escape from reality and by a consuming lust for self-gratification, and lacking any higher moral guidance."

Eastland said information from medical researchers indicated more than 33 million Americans have smoked marijuana, and that at least 10 million use it regularly.

He also said recent writings and "too permissive" marijuana laws had created a "myth of harmlessness" about the drug.

"A major role was also played by the generous attention which the media bestowed on militant drug enthusiasts like Timothy Leary and Jerry Rubin," Eastland said. "The damage was further compounded by the virtual blackout imposed by much of our media — at least until recently — on adverse scientific evidence about the effects of marijuana."

Eastland admitted the Senate hearings only presented one side of the issue but said it was to correct the imbalance. "We make no apology therefore, for the one-sided nature of our hearings — they were deliberately planned this way."

En route to California

ROLL, ROLL, rolling along — on pneumatic tires, though, are these 50 old wagon wheels from ranches around Watford City, N. D. Lloyd Sondrol stopped in Jackpot en route to Cupertino, Calif., to give the wheels to his daughter, Susan Sondrol, who operates an antique and dress shop. Wheels will be reconditioned, some having stood around so long as to have nearly lost their fellos.

Geologist predicts one quake, drought, famine

CHICAGO (UPI) — A University of Chicago geologist Monday issued a gloomy forecast for the next 100 years, predicting at least one major earthquake in a Western city, widespread drought and famine, intolerable pollution, and an exhaustion of natural resources.

However, Peter J. Wyllie, a professor of petrology and geochemistry at the university, said the good news is that all this will not lead to doomsday.

"Despite the fact that some natural resources will be effectively exhausted within 100 years, that there will be local pollution at intolerable levels, and that there will be widespread food shortages and famine, I remain confident that a succession of world crises will not lead to a catastrophe and doomsday," he said.

He also predicted in 20 million years Los Angeles and San Francisco will be in the same place.

Speaking to Midwest contributors to the Encyclopedia Britannica, Wyllie said estimates of demand and supply for energy "for the next 100 years make it clear that no improvement is in sight."

But, he added, new discoveries or inventions could nullify his gloomy forecast.

The English-born geologist said one Western city was due for devastation by an earthquake, but did not pinpoint the city. However, he indicated it would not be in California.

"The San Andreas fault system will be controlled, and California will suffer no more major earthquakes," he said.

As to the long range future, Wyllie said: "Within millions of years, the drift of Africa toward Europe will once again seal the Straits of Gibraltar and the Mediterranean Sea will evaporate in about 1,000 years."

"Movements in California will bring the present site of Los Angeles adjacent to the present site of San Francisco in 20 million years and adjacent to Alaska in 60 million years."

Even farther ahead, Wyllie said the Pacific Ocean will close up, the Atlantic Ocean will become bigger than the Pacific is today, Japan will be uplifted in a mighty mountain range and Australia will have moved north to form a supercontinent with Asia and North America.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

At what age is a woman most able to keep a secret, if at all? That was one more query studied by a scholar with not much better to do. He determined that girls between the ages of 20 and 30 were the best secret keepers. Why? Because, he averred, the secrets of women in that age bracket are inclined to be somewhat sensitive, so they're called upon to exercise some self-control in dealing with them. Younger girls have less self-control. Older women have fewer sensitive secrets.

APPROXIMATELY 50 years ago or thereabouts, the beauty shops waned and the barber shops waxed. Because women rushed to barbers to get their hair styled and bobbed. Today, the barber shops wane and the beauty shops wax. Because the men are rushing to beauticians to get their hair styled. The historian who told me that says he thinks the change back to barber shops won't take as much as half a century, but will come about within another 10 years.

HOCKEY
Again am asked how many sticks the average major league hockey team will smash up during a regular season. Between 750 and 800.

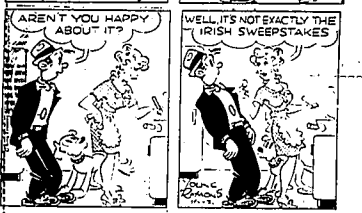

WAS NONE OTHER than Aristotle who said, "Experience shows a very populous city can seldom if ever be properly governed. All well-governed cities have a limited population."

UNMARRIED WOMEN dream more in their sleep than do married women. All women in general dream more than do men. And youthful citizens dream more than do retired people. Or so contend the sleep researchers.

IT'S STILL widely believed that quicklime will consume completely any body buried in it. That's wrong. Can only guess how that notion got started. When watered down, such lime develops a pretty fair amount of heat. That doesn't make it destructive, though. Once it cools down, it actually turns into a sort of preservative.

cut gas prices

By United Press International
Two large oil companies and a major midwest independent today reduced the price of gasoline, but another major company raised prices.

Standard Oil Co. of Ohio dropped the price of gasoline a penny a gallon. Skelly Oil Co. of Tulsa, Okla., reduced its wholesale prices 2.5 cents per gallon, and Clark Oil cut prices by two cents a gallon in the 13 Midwestern states it serves.

However, in Houston, the Gulf Oil Co., citing higher costs of imported crude and refined products, announced a 1.5 cent per gallon increase in the price of all grades of its gasoline.

Sohio said its price to dealers will be 45.5 cents a gallon for regular and lead-free gas and 49 cents a gallon for premium.

"A decline in Sohio's average per-barrel cost for crude oil has now allowed Sohio to cut prices back a total of 5 cents per gallon on gasoline since May, which was the high point in the federal government's program to pass through crude oil on a monthly basis," a spokesman said.

Skelly also reduced the price of middle distillates by 4.0 cents per gallon and propane by 9 cents per gallon.

Venezuela to hike oil taxes

CARACAS (UPI) — Venezuela, the major supplier of U.S. oil imports, will hike taxes paid by foreign oil companies today in a move that will raise the price of oil for the consumer.

The increase will be moderate, "a Venezuelan government source said Monday. He estimated the increase would be less than the 3.5 percent hike approved by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The government source said, however, that Venezuelan will increase the tax on company earnings for all 1974 instead of only the last quarter of the year, as the organization's other members, most of them Arab nations, have done.

Colorado prison inmate foretold stabbing death

CANON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — An inmate who wrote his family that he'd be killed for informing told Colorado State Prison authorities that "everything was all right" two days before he was stabbed to death while watching a religious movie in a darkened auditorium, Warden Alex Wilson said Monday.

"We had him under protective custody for some months," said Wilson. "He asked to get out of that custody last Thursday. He said that everything was all right."

Executive unharmed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — A bank executive was found unharmed in the trunk of his car Tuesday after apparently paying an undisclosed ransom for the release of his wife, kidnapped Monday by three men.

FBI agents said deputies found E.B. Reville in the trunk of his car on a road in south Richmond County. They said Reville's wife had not been located.

Wilson said the inmate, William Padilla Jr., was stabbed to death with a sharpened carpenter's square smuggled into the auditorium last Saturday where convicts were viewing a religious movie featuring Billy Graham.

"We have some suspects but nobody we can identify yet," said Wilson.

Padilla, an amateur boxer in Denver convicted of heroin possession, wrote his wife the week before his death that he expected to be killed because some inmates believed he informed and helped in their arrests.

In his letter to his wife, Maryann, Padilla said he expected to be killed because penitentiary officials refused to send him to the State Reformatory for his own safety.

"No one wants to do anything to help me so I'm just going to go out there and get it over with once and for all," Padilla wrote his wife who released the contents Sunday at a news conference. "I'd rather be dead than locked up. 'I've never run from anyone in my life. I just can't keep going like this."

Padilla had been confined to the prison medium security unit but was sent to the main prison when he was caught with 20 marijuana cigarettes last June. He was locked up in a special cellhouse as a safety measure.

Padilla requested the security precautions be lifted because he learned the four inmates he believed wanted to kill him had been confined to maximum security for their role in a prison gymnasium burning.

Gem auction probably won't happen

BOISE (UPI) — Unless somebody calls off the state's multi-million-dollar new penitentiary goes on the auction block at 2 p.m. next Monday at an appraised value of $19,760.

This, of course, does not include the buildings on the 320 acres of state endowment land to be sold. Any successful purchaser would have to reimburse the Board of Correction for them or, possibly, rent the land back to the board.

None of the above, however, will occur if Attorney General Tony Frank has anything to say about it. In fact, Park just learned of the proposed sale this morning.

"As one member of the (land) board may understand, the Board of Correction was to purchase this land it would be done on a negotiated purchase basis—much as the purchase of state parks lands by the Department of Parks and Recreation. "I just found out this morning they advertised this land for sale just as though we were offering a section of grazing land," he said.

Legal notices of the sale ran in a local newspaper Sept. 12, 23 and are scheduled to run again this Thursday.

If you read those notices, though, you will have difficulty recognizing the land to be sold. It is described as "the south half (sl-2) of section twenty-eight (28), Township two (2) North, Range two (2) east, Boise Meridian, containing three hundred twenty (320) acres, more or less.

Although the Board of Correction purchased private land for the new prison site south of Gowen Field, it—apparently inadvertently—built a majority of the buildings in the new complex on the state endowment lands instead.

Because endowment lands are held in trust for the school children of the state, they must be sold at their highest price if they are sold at all. They cannot be used without remuneration to the endowment funds. That was the reason the Parks Department had to pay for some of its park lands around the state.

Members of the Correction Board apparently did not discover the goof until late last year. They discussed the matter with the Land Board at a meeting on Jan. 8.

That board ordered an appraisal of the land in Idaho Land and Appraisal Service pegged the value at $1.75 for the desert land. The board—in a special memorandum circulated among members and not aired at an open board meeting—authorized sale of the land Feb. 27.

"We took note of the fact that part of the new penitentiary was resting in endowment lands and took note of the fact the Board of Correction is going to have to pay for it," Park said, recalling the directions.

He said the action was taken in a circular letter "probably because of the urgency of getting the request for the appropriation before the legislature."

Park said if the sale is held as scheduled, the Board of Land Commissioners still has the statutory authority to reject any or all bids. This authority is reiterated in the land sale notice.

However, he said he believes the correction board can negotiate the sale price with the Land Department because the state has condemnation power and—if a private party bought this land—it simply could condemn the land for its purchase price.

"In all probability the auction will not be held and the Department of Lands will negotiate with the Board of Correction for sale based on the highest value," Park said.

Air strike blamed

PARIS (UPI) — An investigating committee has concluded that a strike of airport traffic controllers was indirectly responsible for a March 5, 1973, collision in France of two Spanish airlines which killed 68, the newspaper Le Monde said today.

The committee's report quoted by the newspaper said military air controllers, called by the government to replace the strikers, made mistakes in directing the flights of an Iberian Airline DC-8, en route from Palma, Mallorca island, to London, and a Spantax Airlines Coronado, flying from Madrid to London. The military control tower mistakes caused the aircraft to collide at 30,000 feet altitude near Nantes, France, the report quoted by Le Monde said.
