Nobel awards conferred on 3

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — George Emil Palade of the United States, British-born Christian de Duve and Albert Claude of Belgium were awarded the 1974 Nobel Prize for Medicine today, the Swedish Academy of Sciences announced.
De Duve, 57, a native of England, is a professor of biochemistry at Rockefeller University in New York City.

Denies pull

CHICAGO (UPI) — Robert H. Abplanalp, industrialist and close friend of former president Richard Nixon, said the media has treated Nixon unfairly and also overplayed the ecology and consumer protection issues.
"Extremists in the areas of ecology and consumer protection are waging a more effective war on American industry than the most capable host of enemy saboteurs," Abplanalp said. He denied having influence at the White House with either the Nixon or Ford administrations.

West Virginia protest easing

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Under orders from United Mine Workers (UMW) officials, hundreds of coal miners began returning to the pits today, ending walkouts triggered by rowdy pickets protesting so-called immoral textbooks used in Kanawha county schools.
Not all of the miners were expected to be back on the job today but coal industry officials expressed hope the walkouts would be over by the end of the week.

House OK's monitoring agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has approved a federal agency designed to monitor and block, if necessary, such foreign deals as the Russian grain contract President Ford halted Saturday.
The House voted 375 to 4 Wednesday to set up a five-member commission with power to require daily reports on commodity futures trading. It now goes to the Senate.
The commission could seek court action to block contracts for future deliveries of agricultural and other commodities which could bring shortages on the U.S. market.

License OK'd

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch, who served 12 years in a California prison for his wife's murder, will receive a license to practice medicine in a southwestern Missouri town.
The Kansas City Court of Appeals Wednesday rejected the final appeal by state officials, who had refused to allow him to take the state medical examination until ordered to do so by a circuit court.

Greek radical assails government

ATHENS (UPI) — Radical political leader Andreas Papandreu today accused the government of Premier Constantine Karamanlis of continuing the rule of the deposed military junta and trying to restore the monarchy.
Speaking at a news conference in which he announced the merging of his Panhellenic Socialist Movement party with the resistance organization Democratic Defense, Papandreu said, "The junta shares power with President Phaedon Gizikis as a symbol."

Sirica eases jury pick rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In apparent response to prosecution complaints, presiding Judge John J. Sirica today issued orders that altered slightly the final jury selection process in the Watergate cover-up trial.
Sirica would give the defendants five of the final 36 peremptory challenges instead, as Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski alleged, the final nine challenges.
On the eighth day of jury selection, Sirica continued questioning in closed court prospective jurors on whether they should be eliminated for cause.

No US export controls, ag aide Campbell vows

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The undersecretary of agriculture said today the U.S. Department of Agriculture has not and will not impose export controls.
Addressing about 120 members of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at their annual meeting, J. Paul Campbell said "we have not put on export controls; we have no intention of putting on export controls."

Speaking of the cancellation of a proposed sale of grain to Russia, Campbell said "the action of the past few days has concerned farmers. But the department has made no change in its export policies except to begin 'the monitoring of exports.'"

Campbell, who made the keynote speech, said in an interview he saw no problems with food production matching population growth "in the next 20 years... even to the next century."

"We could feed one billion people from U.S. production," Campbell said. The problem is not finding acreage, but converting agriculture in underdeveloped, hungry nations with modern technology. Gloomy predictions of insufficient food production "don't take man's ingenuity into consideration," Campbell said. The world could produce enough food, "provided the less developed countries use the available technology," he said.

"In the past 10 to 20 years, production of food has increased faster than population growth," Campbell said. "We do not have as many starving people as we did 20 years ago," he added, but modern instant communications have brought the situation more to our attention.

"There is no such thing as being able to raise enough food," he said.

Campbell, who got his start as a Georgia dairy farmer, told his audience, "Farmers are the eternal optimists. If they weren't they'd quit." He added, "If farmers are not permitted to enjoy an up market, they'll go out of business because they've already had the pleasure of a down market."

The agriculture department, as it did last year, is requesting farmers to "go all out on production," Campbell said. But farmers should not be concerned that the high rate of production will produce the enormous surpluses of a few years back, he said.

"Now we're talking about producing for a cash market, he said. "Today we're not talking about feeding hungry people who don't have money to buy," Campbell said, although he added relief and emergency food programs would be a continuing factor. Developing countries around the world have cash in their pockets, he said, and are using that money to upgrade their diet."

Campbell said President Ford has said, "We've got to show our farmers they will be able to sell. If farmers know the government is exercising price controls, they'll quit," Campbell said.

"No man has got to stay on the land. He's not captive, he can quit and go to town," he said, adding, it's not like the depression years when he was farming and had no place else to go.

"One thing farmers have to fight now, Campbell said, is a drive by Congress to establish mandatory reserves, which could be another form of price control by the government.

Farming has evolved into a complex and demanding profession, Campbell said. Farmers have to be knowledgeable in the market place, have to take enormous financial risks, and be unafraid to face total ruin because of one bad year.

But farmers nowadays are in "an exciting set of times," faced with great opportunities.

Cops guard Boston schools

BOSTON (UPI) — Four-hundred-fifty riot-trained state and metropolitan police surrounded schools in racially troubled South Boston and provided armed motorcycle escort to buses today, protecting children and enforcing a court ordered plan to integrate public schools.
Boston police, who came under fire by some residents for allegedly overreacting, withdrew from the school areas in South Boston, leaving security to the fresh reinforcements.

Buses arrived without incident and classes got under way as state police and Metropolitan District Police maintained tight security. The buses were escorted by MDP motorcycles and state police cruisers.
Attendance was higher city-wide than Wednesday, with a greatly increased number of black students bused into South Boston.

One black man drove up, stopped his car, got out and stood on the corner near the Old Colony Housing Project, a predominantly white area in South Boston where violence has occurred in the past. Several state police troopers talked to him. But when he got back in his car and didn't drive off immediately, a state policeman said, "Get the hell out of here. It's for your safety. We don't want any trouble here."

The tactical force of the Boston police was grouped in the Ferway area, ready to move into predominantly black Roxbury if trouble broke out there. Roxbury has been the scene of rock throwing, fighting and some looting the past two days.

Rupert youth found

CAREY — A 14-year-old Rupert boy was found this morning after being missing overnight in the Mormon Hill area. About 50 search and rescue team members looked for him.
Roger Anthony Galow, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Galow, Rupert, had been missing since Wednesday evening in the heavily timbered, rough area. Temperatures were below or near freezing overnight in the area, about 20 miles northeast of Carey.
An unidentified woman and two girls reported missing with the Galow youth Wednesday evening, were found about 1:45 a.m. today near the top of the hill with their broken-down vehicle.
Search and rescue units members combed the area on foot and horseback. Search headquarters were set up in a sheep ranch at the top of Mormon Hill.
Much of the area is roadless.

US wholesale index levels off

(c) Washington Star-News
WASHINGTON — Wholesale prices leveled off last month, mainly because farm and food prices declined, the Labor Department said today.
However, analysts expect only a brief respite before the price spiral regains momentum.
Furthermore, sharp wholesale price increases that occurred during the summer are certain to push retail prices up rapidly for at least the next few months.

The wholesale price index, adjusted to discount seasonal forces, rose only one tenth of 1 percent from August to September, the smallest increase since the index declined last October.
Prices of farm products dropped 3.4 percent last month. Combined with prices of processed foods and feeds, the broad agricultural category dropped 1.9 percent last month.
Industrial goods rose 1 percent, a smaller increase than has been common recently.
Last month's price performance was a big improvement from the recent pattern, wholesale prices in August had soared 3.9 percent, the second highest rise in more than 27 years.

Even with the leveling off, in September, wholesale prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 35.2 percent in the July-September quarter, up from the 12.2 percent rate in the April-June quarter.
The index was 19.7 percent above September, 1973.

This put the index at 167.2, meaning that it cost $167.20 in September to buy goods that could have been purchased at wholesale for $100 in the 1967 base year.

The 1.9 percent seasonally adjusted decline in the broad agriculture category — farm products, plus processed foods and feeds — compared with huge increases of 6.4 percent in July and 7.6 percent in August. These erratic prices had declined for four consecutive months, March through June.

Even with the September drop in this category, rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 59.2 percent in the July-September quarter, and was 3.2 percent higher last month than in September, 1973.

Farm prices alone, which declined 2.8 percent last month, were 8.8 percent below a year earlier.
Because of poor crops and other factors, farm prices are expected to start rising sharply again soon.

Wholesale prices of consumer foods — essentially the prices paid by supermarkets — declined 0.2 percent last month, although they rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 29.4 percent in the July-September quarter. Occasional declines in this category have not had much impact on retail food prices recently.

Wholesale prices of consumer goods other than food rose 1.2 percent last month and at an annual rate of 18.5 percent, over the July-September quarter. There were notable increases for gasoline, clothing, beverages, automobiles, appliances and furniture.

Prices of durable and energy-related goods, seasonally adjusted, declined 0.4 percent in September because of a drop of 12.3 percent for natural gas and 0.4 percent for refined petroleum products. Even so, the fuel and energy category last month was 65.3 percent above September, 1973.
Single-price rises were widespread, including a 10.2 percent rise in September to a level 117.6 percent above a year earlier.

Beef, pork plentiful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new agriculture Department report on the livestock industry indicates there will be a lot of beef and pork this fall, but the amount of meat in groceries could decrease sharply in the first three months of 1975.

Rising feed prices, anticipated short supplies of feed grain and soybeans and the farmer's relatively low return for meat animals are forcing cutbacks in the livestock feeding industry. The report said hog producers will breed the number of sows down to 1.5 million in 1985, and the number of cattle on feed is the lowest in more than six years.

Poultry production is being cut one-tenth. "All this means that more beef and pork will be available this fall than during the summer months—figures indicate a 5.5 percent increase in commercial beef production and an 8 percent increase in pork."

But look for lower supplies and higher prices during January, February and March of 1975, as current cutbacks in livestock feeding begin to affect the market.

The report said commercial beef production is estimated to be around 6 billion pounds during the fall, while pork production will be around 3.5 billion pounds. Total beef production in 1974 is expected to be around 5.8 billion pounds and pork will be down to 3.1 billion pounds.

When fewer pounds of meat are placed on the market, the farmer's prices should improve, and when the retailer must pay more, the consumer can look for higher meat prices.

Farm tractor accident claims Carl Boyd, 72

TWIN FALLS — Carl Boyd, 72, prominent Twin Falls-area farmer, died Wednesday morning when his tractor plunged into a canal at the rear of his farm south of Twin Falls.
Coroner Clyde Edwards said results of an autopsy showed death was caused from drowning. He said the death was accidental. The coroner said he ordered the autopsy to determine cause of death as the victim was known to have heart problems.

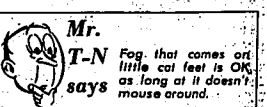

Sheriff Paul Corder said Mr. Boyd was pinned beneath the overturned tractor. A wrecker pulled the tractor from the water and the victim was pronounced dead at the scene by Edwards.
The sheriff's office received a call about 10 a.m. Wednesday from a neighbor indicating there was a tractor in a canal. The Boyd farm is located one-half mile south and one-half mile east of the Twin Falls city water tank.

Corder said a diver, Harlan Fillmore, was called to the scene and discovered Mr. Boyd was underneath the overturned tractor. The sheriff said the canal bank, which is not graveled, was extremely slick because of the rain.

Mrs. Boyd told Sheriff Corder her husband left about daylight to feed stock. She said her husband used the road along the bank of the canal to reach the field where he fed the stock.

When he did not return from the field his wife walked out to find him and discovered the wheels of the tractor protruding from the water in the canal. She went to the neighboring farm of Harvey Quessell, who notified officers.

Mr. Boyd was active in community affairs. He was currently chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committee, was a director of the Twin Falls labor camp and of the Twin Falls Beet Growers Association. He was a former member and chairman of the Twin Falls school board. (Obituary, p. 2)

Demos open fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's new economic proposals were characterized by two Senate Democrats today as both a continuation of the policies of the Nixon administration and a surrender to the oil producing nations.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Ford's 31-point program "bears too close a resemblance to the fiscal and monetary policies of the previous administration, policies which have long since proved inadequate to meet the emergency."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., added that the President's energy-related proposals fell "far short" of the emergency at hand and were "a surrender" to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Jackson was promoting his own resolution for an immediate 1 million barrel per day cut in oil imports and a domestic oil price "well below" the OPEC prices.

Wilson, Labor favored in British vote

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's voters, caught up in the worst economic crisis since the depression, voted today for a new parliament for the second time in seven months. Polling station officials reported heavy turnouts in the first few hours after voting began at 7 a. m. midnight.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's governing Labor party campaigned with strongly left-leaning policies including state control of wide sections of industry still in private ownership, was heavy favorite in opinion polls to win Tuesday's landslide.

But polls indicated up to 1 million of the nearly 41 million registered voters were still undecided as late as Wednesday night on how they would vote.

Recurrent Scottish Nationalists in Scotland appeared poised to seize a number of parliamentary seats from the Labor party.

All this, commentators said, could mean another hung election, similar to that on Feb. 28 when no party won an overall majority in parliament, or even an upset result.

Conservative Party spokesmen called it "the most huffing as well as the most crucial election Britain has known in years." A London Daily Telegraph headline spoke of a possible stalemate.

Both Wilson and Conservative opposition leader Edward Heath voted early in the West-minister district of London, near the Houses of Parliament — a district which has had a large Conservative majority for more than 50 years.

Liberal party leader Jeremy Thorpe voted with his wife Marian at the Devonshire village of Cobham, where he has a country cottage.

The voting percentage in February was 78.8 per cent, nearly a record for Britain where election turnouts normally are smaller than in some other European countries where an 85 per cent vote is normal.

British commentators predicted a 75 per cent vote this time, though they said the apparently high percentage of electors who "don't know" could hit the over-all total.

Old tune recorded

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Two musicians have recorded what they said is the oldest known piece of written music.

George Sassech, pianist and a scholar of ancient music, Tuesday said the 10-minute hymn is the Sumerian "Song of the Gods," written on clay tablets more than 4,000 years ago in what is now Iraq.

He said the tablets were translated by scholars and printed by the Cambridge University Press in 1936, but this is the first time the hymn has been recorded "as a living piece of music."

Inflation soars at record rates

PARIS (UPI) — Inflation in the world's non-Communist industrialized nations soared in August at a rate that amounted to a 13 1/2 percent annual increase if it continues, the Organization For Economic Cooperation and Development said today.

Prices took the biggest jump in Sweden, up 1.5 percent, followed by the United States and Spain, the OECD inflation report said.

The European members of OPEC were all to drop down their inflation, from a 0.9 per cent increase in July to 0.8 per cent increase in August.

Britain and Ireland recorded the largest decreases in inflation.

West Germany, still the hero in the inflation crisis, deflated its inflation rate from 0.2 per cent in July to 0 per cent in August.

Japan's inflation rate also dropped. But increases in Canada and the United States pulled "the world-wide OECD inflation rate from 1.6 per cent in July to 1.1 per cent in August."

OECD said the lower inflation rates were credited only to seasonal factors, August being a low month.

Not only did prices of manufactured goods go up but the cost of services — usually lagging behind — also accelerated, the report said.

Italy had the highest inflation rate in August among the 24 OECD member countries, 2.3 per cent.

Ordinance panel set

TWIN FALLS — Tom Nelson, Twin Falls attorney, will be chairman of a committee appointed by the Twin Falls County commissioners to prepare a stronger crowd control ordinance.

County Commission Chairman William Chacey said today the committee has been asked to review the existing ordinance and needs in the county for handling large crowds, providing liability insurance and performance bonds in the event of such activities as have been held here this year.

Other members on the committee include John Martin, Matthew Devine, Mrs. Arthur Weisman, Kenneth Self and county commissioner William Weisman, county commissioner.

Truck sold

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Correction has tendered the high bid for a 1950 Ford fire truck known as "the ol' booster" by Boise firemen.

The board bid $4,000 for the truck and plans to buy about $2,000 worth of additional equipment to put it into service at the new prison site south of Gowen Field. A spokesman said the vehicle will be used along with an even older truck at the penitentiary.

Korean cops halt anti-Park rally

SEOUL (UPI) — Riot police fired tear gas today for the second consecutive day to break up an anti-government rally, this one by about 2,000 rock-throwing college students.

Police used tear gas Wednesday to disperse several thousand Roman Catholic priests, nuns and laymen demanding democratic rule in South Korea.

Today Korean university students held a 30-minute indoor rally and then clashed with about 300 riot police who blocked their school gate.

About 1,000 students broke the police lines and marched 50 yards before they were taken back into the campus by the tear gas-firing police.

There were no reports of injuries but angry students roughed up a Japanese cameraman and exposed his film.

The students marched in columns around the campus, shouting anti-government slogans and carrying a placard reading "The Revitalizing Constitution."

The revitalizing constitution was written by President Park Chung-hee after he imposed martial law in 1972. It strengthened the president's power, downgraded the role of the national assembly and written Park stay in office indefinitely. More than 800 persons including many students, Christian ministers and college professors have been convicted by the military courts so far this year for anti-government activities. Eight of them have been sentenced to death.

The students said in a statement demanded repeal of the constitution and denounced it as "a major cause of turmoil at home and international isolation abroad."

Demo campaign in full swing

TWIN FALLS — Democratic candidate for Twin Falls County Prosecutor, Len Ettinger, has resigned from his Boise job to devote full time to his political campaign.

Ettinger, who for the past six months has served as assistant director of planning for Morrison-Knudsen, Boise, resigned last week to return to Twin Falls and concentrate on his campaign. Prior to joining Morrison-Knudsen, Ettinger, who is an attorney as well as a professional geologist, had practiced law in Twin Falls.

Ettinger said he returned to Twin Falls to show his sincerity and seriousness in seeking the county prosecutor's post.

"Why should somebody vote for me, if I don't even live here?" he asked.

If elected prosecutor, Ettinger said, he will operate on the premise that every person arrested for a criminal offense will be treated as innocent until they have been found guilty in a court of law.

Ettinger has several times criticized outgoing county prosecutor Robert W. Galley with claims that Galley treated accused subjects as guilty before they were found guilty in the courts.

Ettinger has also proposed issuing frequent information bulletins from the prosecutor's office on subjects such as law enforcement, new legislation, sentencing and rehabilitation and counseling. These bulletins, Ettinger said, would be periodically issued through the news media to keep the public informed of activities in the prosecutor's office.

Ettinger has proposed giving seminars to law enforcement officers on criminal procedure in making arrests and searches which would "aid in eliminating legal technicalities that could lead to dismissals."

The candidate said, "if elected, he will also try to involve the prosecutor's office in working with judges, probation officers, law enforcement officers and members of the concerned public in counseling and rehabilitation programs at the local level to help convicted criminals."

"The purpose of this would be to take the young, first-time offender and try to prevent him from becoming a recidivist," Ettinger said.

Ettinger, 36, received his law degree in 1971 from the University of California at Los Angeles. He began practicing law in Twin Falls in 1973. Prior to becoming an attorney, he received an MS in mining geology from the University of Arizona and later worked as a consultant to several major corporations, including Cyprus Mining Corp., where he was stationed near Challis, and at one time in Australia.

Ettinger is married and has three daughters. His wife, Marie, is completing nurse's training at the College of Southern Idaho.

KH Grange welcomes members

KING HILL — Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Kenyon were welcomed as new members at the Tuesday evening meeting of the King Hill Grange.

An invitation was received from the Mariposa Grange of Mountain Home to attend the regular fall Elmore County Pomona Grange meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall in Mountain Home, Oct. 21.

Several resolutions were received, one on stiffer penalties for crimes, one on motor vehicle insurance, the Sunshine initiative and payment of $25,000 for each and the public defender was named to represent the two.

The fire, burning between the roof and ceiling of the courthouse just above one of the fourth floor jail cells, resulted in an estimated $10,000 damage. At first arson was not suspected because the fire appeared to be in the roof area and burned to the ceiling doing no inside damage.

Sheriff Corde said closer investigation by his department and the Twin Falls Fire Department revealed a small hole in the ceiling, big enough for a hand to reach through.

Officers said they found pieces of a mattress and paper stuck into the hole and lamp.

Two other men in the jail cell are being questioned, officers said, and may face charges of aiding and abetting.

Hoover was arrested more than a month ago for driving while his license was suspended and warrants were outstanding at that time.

Changing fraudulent means in obtaining goods, he was in jail waiting for further court appearances on the charges. Percefull was arrested Aug. 27 on charges of fraudulent use of a credit card.

He entered a plea of guilty and was awaiting a presentencing investigation ordered by the court.

Sugarbeet processing to begin Monday

TWIN FALLS — Sugarbeet processing will begin at the Twin Falls Amalgamated Sugar Co. refinery on Monday, with less than half the normal acreage expected to be processed this year.

Robert Day, manager, said harvest of sugarbeets began this week and by Monday there will be enough accumulation at the plant and at receiving stations to begin the 24-hour processing operation at the plant.

This year only 10,850 acres of beets will be handled through the Twin Falls plant, down from 22,000 acres last year.

The plant in Rupert is expected to open yet this week, running 24 hours behind the arrival of the first beets from the field. Because of warm temperatures processing will attempt to keep up with harvest to eliminate stockpiling and possible spoilage.

"Although the crop is smaller and the processing run will be considerably shorter this year the plant will continue to employ the same number of workers as in the past. A 24-hour operation will begin immediately and continue through the season, Day said. It is expected the run will be completed here early in December. Day said, while operations usually continue into February.

The reduction in acreage applies to the entire Amalgamated system, company officials in Ogden, Utah, report. This year's total company acreage is listed at 84,000 compared to 134,000 acres in 1971 and 1972 acres in 1972. High cost of labor and other factors in producing the sugar beets, coupled with

2 men arraigned on arson charges

TWIN FALLS — Two inmates of the Twin Falls County Jail were arraigned late Wednesday afternoon on first degree arson, charges in connection with the county courthouse fire a week ago.

Richard D. Percefull, 22, Columbia, Mo., and James Roger Hoover, 27, Buhl, were arraigned before Magistrate Court Judge Maniel Meehl and granted preliminary hearings.

Bond was set at $25,000 for each and the public defender was named to represent the two.

The fire, burning between the roof and ceiling of the courthouse just above one of the fourth floor jail cells, resulted in an estimated $10,000 damage. At first arson was not suspected because the fire appeared to be in the roof area and burned to the ceiling doing no inside damage.

GF woman injured

GLENN'S FERRY — Hazel Steen, Glenn's Ferry, president of the Idaho Cowbelles, was injured when buckled from a horse while gathering cattle near Hill, on Sunday.

She suffered a broken arm and internal injuries. She is undergoing treatment in St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise. She is listed in fair condition.

She is the wife of State Senator J. Wilson Steen, representing district 22. He was working with his wife when the accident occurred.

Challenge offered to Demo women

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Preserving the "quality of people" in Idaho was the theme of the challenge. Bobline Church offered Magic Valley Democratic women attending a luncheon here, Wednesday afternoon.

Speaking before the luncheon in his honor, the wife of Idaho's senior senator, Frank Church said one of Idaho's better resources is its high quality of people. She said women in the politics scene should work to maintain and improve this quality.

"Politics is not a dirty word. It is the means of government given to the people, especially at the lower levels of government," Mrs. Church said.

"Women are frequently too busy with church, school and home demands to find time for politics," she said, "but politics is the responsibility of all of the people."

Explaining she is most encouraged by the many young people coming into political organizations, she said young men and women too are doing much to protect the quality of air and water and to preserve and care for the nation's political system.

Mrs. Church said she hoped to counter some of the "negative" side of the recent Time magazine article about political wives with some "positive" examples.

A daughter of the late Chase A. Clark, former governor of Idaho and former federal judge, Mrs. Church has been campaigning as long as she can remember. When her father's political career was at the mayor stage, she said, politics was probably closer to the family than in later years.

She urged the women to work in local political efforts.

Turning to political issues, she said her husband with 18 years of senatorial experience has served under five presidents and is the only Idahoan in the Senate in 40 years to hold a full committee chairmanship.

She said he is keenly interested in the problems of senior citizens and deeply concerned with the overwhelming problems of inflation.

"Six years of poor leadership has taken us to the farthest depths of inflation," Mrs. Church said. "Energy problems and inflation are big questions which can only be solved by big answers."

She cited legislative battles in which Sen. Church has engaged such as the cut in foreign spending, Amtrak efforts and said both she and her husband feel there is room for both development and conservation if properly managed.

Approximately 100 women from Magic Valley attended the luncheon with Mary Lou Carter as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Carter and Marjorie Summerfield were co-chairmen of the event.

Mrs. Carter introduced Marjorie Ruth Moon, incumbent Idaho treasurer; Mrs. Joe Williams, Mrs. Tony Park, Mrs. Alex Hanson, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Leon Walker, Twin Falls county treasurer Ruth K.-Jones, Mrs. William Wiseman, Mrs. John Walker, and Mrs. Ray Graham, candidate and office holders' wives.

Resignation accepted

TWIN FALLS — The resignation of William Brockman from the Twin Falls County Fair Board was accepted Wednesday by county commissioners.

Commission Chairman William Chaney said the resignation was accepted with regret and a vote of appreciation was extended Brockman for his services. A resident of Kimberly, Brockman has served the past two years as a representative from the east end of the county. He was appointed following the resignation of L. W. Moore, Hansen.

Chaney said a new fair board member will be appointed within the next few weeks.

This is Livestock Country.

A lot of Magic Valley ranchers have come in here, with problems and gone out with smiles over the past 70 years. Because we've helped them expand and improve their herds. And we've learned a lot in the process. Like what a rancher really needs to keep his operation going. Like the fluctuations of the market and your need for flexible financing. And like when to keep our noses out of your business.

That's all part of being an independent business owner. When you're dealing with someone who understands, and with someone who's going to be around whenever you are.

Pickles stick in the mind, deficit fades

"Have you tried a Oulja board to get some answers about the economy, Sir?"

(c) New York Times Service
FIERY RIN, Va. — The cool winds are now blowing across the Blue Ridge and sweeping through the tops and mortar of cabin.

The crops and hills are turning in and it is finally possible for the proprietor to give an account of our family's war on inflation.

Our plan was simple if not original. We would grow our own vegetables and raise our own beef in the field and get even with the retailers at the supermarkets. Our knowledge of oomany was snugly vague, but we had resources.

Eleven acres with a distracting view of the Virginia mountains, a weary garden tractor, three sons, one daughter-in-law who could keep the books, another in law school who could keep us out of trouble, two unfailingly helpful neighbors, and, of course, the proprietor himself, historian of the project, who sat on the porch and gave orders.

We had an argument about where to put the kitchen garden, and finally decided for some reason that now seems mysterious, to put it on a pretty slope near what we call the orchard and about 150 yards from the house. This, of course, required a few strategic and financial adjustments.

Somebody had the idea that if we were to have (1) vegetables, and (2) steers, who also like vegetables, it might be necessary to fence the garden in order to keep No. 2 from demolishing No. 1. Cost of fence: $63.76. Cost of construction of fence: $96.80. Cost of hose to jet water from kitchen to kitchen garden: $49.71.

We then went over to Fairfield Farm next door and negotiated the purchase of three young steers with Don Allen, an honest man, who pointed out that the steers would eat the grass in the pasture, saving on mowing, but that steers had a way of wandering, and we must be sure to see to it that they couldn't get out.

Cost of three steers: $802.00. Cost of barbed wire to fix the holes: $62.50. Cost of making the barbed wire fix the holes: $14.70. Cost of new gate to keep steers from eating the boxwood: $24.00. Cost of fence to keep steers from fouling spring and falling into old ice-house: $78.50.

We were warned by the designated family bookkeeper that these capital costs seemed a bit excessive, but this was in the spring when the dogwood and tulip were in bloom; and the proprietor, a stingy, pawkie and sentimental man, made a speech on the imponderables of life and calculated that the philosophic advantages of keeping the family together and getting away from Washington and Watergate and Nixon more than made up for the cost of material things like barbed wire, gates, and fences.

Our neighbor and dear friend across the road at "Floghshares," Henry Baxley, came over with his tractor and plowed the garden, but suggested that we get rid of the stumps, and noted that our old 14-horsepower tractor was too small to cut the pasture and too big to weed the garden. He thought that maybe we ought to get a little rotary tiller to weed the rows in the garden.

Cost of neat and gentle "little rotary tiller" from Mrs. O'Banion at the Marshall Hardware Store: $189.95.

The promise and enthusiasm of the spring ran into some rather awkward problems in the summer. Apparently unaware or indifferent to this strenuous effort to bring the family and the economy together in one noble patriotic endeavor, President Nixon resigned just when the runner beans were coming up and the weeds were flourishing between the rows.

At that point, No. 1 son vanished into Washington to report the news of the departing president. No. 2 son thought he saw another novel in the tragedy. No. 3 son, an outrageously partisan Democrat, who giggles over Republican disasters, departed into Virginia to take his bar exam.

Still, we have had some consolations and even one or two triumphs. The deer got over the fence and ate the corn, which was not helpful. The manager of the whole adventure, "Flourish O'guin, trying to kill the honeyuckle, poisoned the beans and killed the potatoes, but Jim Reston's tomatoes were spectacularly successful. He has in the process produced the finest pickles in the history of Virginia and if you don't believe it, we have so many you can apply for a taste.

Meanwhile, of course, the steers have done their work. They have devoured everything on our 11 acres, except the barbed wire, and at present prices, we figure they have lost less money than anybody on the place.

We are counting on this. In a rather melancholy way, the steers have been our best workers, and it will be hard to part with them when the winter comes. But our bookkeeper, an optimistic type, has bought a freezer (cost: $220) and we will butcher and store them for the winter. Cost of butchering: $74.50.

Altruism in office

We are continuously amazed at the almost altruistic urge to render public service which so often impels Americans of independent financial means to thrust themselves into the political arena. Vice-presidential nominee Nelson Rockefeller, who has just gone through a grueling Senate inquiry is a case in point.

Here is a man with a fortune conservatively estimated at about $62 million dollars. He is wealthy far beyond the most extravagant dreams of most of us.

He could devote himself to almost any pursuit which he might choose without undergoing the prying questioning of a Senator Robert Byrd. No one questions that he came by his wealth honestly or that he has ever used an office to further his interest of those of his family.

Yet he seemingly acquiesces to his holdings being placed in a blind trust if that is required. Or if not that he agrees to complete disclosure of his financial status, a matter on which most men are very close-mouthed. That includes the members of Congress, who do not require financial disclosure of their own members.

He has been Governor of New York State for four terms. He has served in the State Department. He is an acknowledged expert on South American affairs.

But he is 66 years old and certainly does not need to take on the rigors of another public office. We are probably fortunate that men like him and the Kennedys and Averill Harriman, and FDR held such a desire to serve their country without any thought of their own enrichment.

WASHINGTON — The shrillness of reform demands by the Democratic party's left wing can be explained by the fact that it has lost the year-long battle to control the party's midyear convention at Kansas City, in December.

The moderate Coalition for a Democratic Majority (CDM). Previously far more pessimistic than Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss about preventing a Kansas City recurrence of the 1972 Miami Beach debacle, CDM now projects a 230-delegate moderate majority at Kansas City.

The left also knows what looms at Kansas City. That explains reformist demands for concessions from Strauss to advance of the plidform convention. The most recent demands were made last week in a visit to Strauss by a delegation headed by Miles Rubin, Los Angeles industrialist and major fundraiser for the 1972 McGovern campaign.

The CDM survey shows 806 moderates, 670 reformists, 189 swing delegates and 32 loyal to Gov. George Wallace.

Viewing early successes in Mountain and Great Plains states by McGovernite forces, CDM last June projected a virtual standoff at Kansas City — 70 in favor of the moderates (with 125 swing delegates and 74 Wallacettes).

EVANS AND NOVAK

The big New York delegation is a principal reason for CDM's revised estimate. While the June projection gave reformists 71 to 70 edge in New York, CDM's analysis of the delegation elected in the Sept. 10 primary shows a 100-to-41 moderate advantage. A major reason: the gubernatorial pamination of Rep. Hugh Carey, a moderate liberal expected to generally follow the lead of Strauss and the moderates.

But CDM tempers its enthusiasm. Even though the left will enter Kansas City with only 39 per cent of the delegates, it will be more cohesive and better disciplined than the moderates.

Finally, there is concern about Strauss's desire to position himself in the middle of party ideological disputes. Although Strauss stood firm against the Rubin group's demands last week, some moderates feel he may give away too much on the continuing struggle over racial quotas in the Democratic party.

Although Peter Flanigan told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week how much Henry Kissinger wanted him to be ambassador to Spain, the truth is the secretary of state had to smother an attempted Flanigan power grab in advance of his Senate confirmation hearings.

No sooner had Flanigan been nominated by President Ford than he took the offensive with the bluntness that characterized his tenure as a political troubleshooter in the Nixon White House. Flanigan sparked the word through Washington's diplomatic gossip circuit that he would be in charge of the critical renegotiation of U.S. bases in Spain.

That was an obvious effort by Flanigan to undercut "Ambassador-at-large Robert J. McCloskey, put in charge of the Spanish base negotiations months earlier. It worked as far as the Spanish were concerned.

High administration officials were appalled that Flanigan might take over such delicate negotiations. Kissinger immediately killed Flanigan's play by informing the Spanish that McCloskey was, and will remain the American official in charge.

Fuel conservation vows fade as year passes

WASHINGTON — Less than a year ago everyone was hard at work vowing to conserve fuel.

Americans had pledged themselves to finding new ways of saving energy and making the United States self-sufficient when it came to oil.

In the interests of finding out what has been done, in the past 12 months, I did a personal "Where Are They Now?" research project.

This is what I found. C. Carrubers Ringold, chairman of the board of General Chrysler, the largest manufacturer of automobiles, is still in Detroit pushing the sales of large cars.

When he was reminded he promised last fall to reduce the size of his cars, he said his efforts to the production of small cars that would not consume so much gasoline. Ringold replied, "No one is going to tell us what kind of automobiles to make. The profits are in the large cars and that's what the public wants. When America wants small cars we'll make them. If it wasn't for the environmental nuts, there would be more than enough gasoline for everybody."

These observations are prompted by a transcript of the proceedings of the Financial Conference on Inflation, Sept. 20. Greenspan remarked that our system cannot indefinitely withstand the effects of double-digit inflation. Then he said:

"If you extrapolate the strains that we now already see as a consequence of what we have for an extended period of time, the institutions — economical, financial, structural — begin to break down because they are essentially constructed or have been developed over the decades in the context of low, single-digit inflation, and it's by no means clear or had not been clear, I should say, how significant this element was until we actually have tested it, as I have tested it, we found that it does not respond terribly well.

"Clearly, we see — I don't have to go through examples, I'm sure that all of you are most familiar with all of the various problems that each and every institution is facing, but that clearly the savings and loans are under extraordinary pressure; insurance companies, banks, business — especially smaller business — were having difficulty getting financing.

Glancing through the transcript, one perceives that other economists also speak in Greenspan, though not so fluently. The chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors is in a class by himself. This is what the gentleman had to say about inventory liquidation:

"Because of the fact that a very large block of inventories in our system are supported by the capital goods markets, the extent of inventory retrenchment is likely to be held in check, and as a consequence, the degree of physical volume decline implied in the inventory sector is not — at least as we can see it at this stage — of exceptional concern.

The fog factor for that sentence is 12.04. Now, granted, Flesch's fog index has limited application. All the same, the people have a right to expect some reasonable level of clarity in public discussion of the fix we are in.

Now, we are hearing proposals to impose higher taxes on industries and individuals. Wisconsin's Sen. William Proxmire is homing in on steel. It would be pleasant to hear such proposals defended in language we can understand.

Why is it better for the government to spend an additional $5,000 taken from a wealthy taxpayer, rather than to let it go, without asking him to give up the comforts of home and the road."

I went over to the Department of Transportation and spoke to one of the top officials. "Last year you people said you were going to have a crash program in mass urban transportation so people would use buses and trains again instead of private cars. Are you still going ahead with it?" He replied, "Yes, we're doing a study on it right now and it should be ready by 1985."

Prof. Heinrich Applebaum who last year predicted that shale-oil would solve all our problems for the next 500 years now has doubts about it. "That stuff is really hard," Applebaum said.

"I mean squeezing oil out of a rock is some stupid way of getting fuel. Anyone who thinks we're going to solve our energy problems with shale oil in the near future is off his rocker. I don't know what the press takes people like me seriously."

Discuss the economic ideas only in English

WASHINGTON — Something, will have to be done about Alan Greenspan's efforts to appear in public, the White House may have to provide a translator to stand at his side. Sad to say, the gentleman speaks no English, and most of the rest of us speak no Greenspan.

These observations are prompted by a transcript of the proceedings of the Financial Conference on Inflation, Sept. 20. Greenspan remarked that our system cannot indefinitely withstand the effects of double-digit inflation. Then he said:

"If you extrapolate the strains that we now already see as a consequence of what we have for an extended period of time, the institutions — economical, financial, structural — begin to break down because they are essentially constructed or have been developed over the decades in the context of low, single-digit inflation, and it's by no means clear or had not been clear, I should say, how significant this element was until we actually have tested it, as I have tested it, we found that it does not respond terribly well.

"Clearly, we see — I don't have to go through examples, I'm sure that all of you are most

JAMES KILPATRICK

"The system clearly does not work well under these conditions."

Some years ago, Rudolf Flesch propounded a formula for determining ease in reading: The element was until we actually have tested it, as I have tested it, we found that it does not respond terribly well.

Why is it better for the government to spend an additional $5,000 taken from a wealthy taxpayer, rather than to let it go, without asking him to give up the comforts of home and the road."

I went over to the Department of Transportation and spoke to one of the top officials. "Last year you people said you were going to have a crash program in mass urban transportation so people would use buses and trains again instead of private cars. Are you still going ahead with it?" He replied, "Yes, we're doing a study on it right now and it should be ready by 1985."

Prof. Heinrich Applebaum who last year predicted that shale-oil would solve all our problems for the next 500 years now has doubts about it. "That stuff is really hard," Applebaum said.

"I mean squeezing oil out of a rock is some stupid way of getting fuel. Anyone who thinks we're going to solve our energy problems with shale oil in the near future is off his rocker. I don't know what the press takes people like me seriously."

than it is for the taxpayer to spend the $5,000 taken from a wealthy taxpayer, than it is for the taxpayer to spend the $5,000 himself? How is the steel industry to build new plants if companies are denied high profits? These notions ought to be discussed in English.

Heaven help this republic if our leaders explain them only in Greenspan.

Thought for today

A thought for the day: Allied Supreme Commander Dwight D. Eisenhower said a fiercer victory in World War II. "I finally must always be the portion of any man who receives acclaim entered in the blood of his followers and the sacrifices of his friends."

Demos offer own energy program

(c) Chicago Sun-Times
 WASHINGTON — An influential quintet of Democratic senators has called for a comprehensive national energy program that would go far beyond proposals made in President Ford's in-point message to Congress on inflation.

They introduced a "sense of the Senate" resolution specifying five ways "to give credibility" to United States initiatives to deal with the economic and political challenge of the OPEC cartel: promptly reduce dependence on cartel priced foreign oil; dampen world and domestic inflation; and secure a stable world economy in which the legitimate aspirations of all nations may be achieved.

Co-sponsors of the resolution were Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Warren G. Magnuson of Washington; Jennings Randolph of West Virginia; Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois and Mike Mansfield of Montana the majority leader.

The essential points in the proposal are:
 — A "fair pricing policy" domestically produced oil substantially below the price set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). Newly produced domestic crude should bring no more than 7 or 8 dollars a barrel—contrasted to the $10-$11 the going world price.

— Immediate adoption of standby energy emergency authority to deal with energy shortages induced by OPEC price increases or politically inspired supply interruptions.

— Development of "a national energy conservation policy" which includes an immediate reduction of 200,000 barrels per day in the importation of high-priced OPEC oil. This contrasts with Ford's proposed reduction of 100,000 barrels per day by the end of 1975 and calls for a 50 per cent improvement in low-car gasoline mileage in five years as compared to Ford's recommendation of a 40 per cent improvement in four years.

— Adoption of a policy leading to increased production of energy resources from conventional sources of supply and development of new sources "without eroding public health or environmental standards."

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Drug data lacking

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me what you can about DMSO (dimethylsulfoxide). Where could I obtain a copy of the Food and Drug Administration report "relative to its use and dangers, etc.?" — E. H.

You'll have to ask FDA about that. Pat McGrady, Sr., in a book, "The Persuaded Drug, the Story of DMSO," published last year by Doubleday, said he had great difficulty in trying to get specific reports. McGrady has long been a highly respected science writer, so you may be interested in looking up his book.

parents frequent the tavern and took him along and everybody in the tavern would give him beer. Later he developed kidney trouble and died. — L. C. S.

My opinion? I cannot see any excuse whatever for giving beer to anything else (alcohol) to babies. I cannot see any excuse for putting it in babies' formula. Nor can I see any excuse for taking babies to taverns or giving beer to youngsters if they do get in. I would question whether the beer had anything to do with the young man's death from kidney disease — but that doesn't alter my other remarks one whit.

Ford confident economic program will succeed

(c) New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — President Ford, whose new economic program has been attacked over the last 24 hours as too weak, declared Wednesday his proposals could achieve "a meaningful reduction in the rate of inflation" by early next year.

At a news conference, his third since taking office, Ford said that his program would win "If Congress responds, if the American people respond to what he said were the 21 specific recommendations contained in his economic message to Congress Tuesday.

Asked what follow-up he planned if his anti-inflation measures proved unsuccessful, Ford said he was "very confident" his program would work and declined to speculate about possible future.

However, other administration officials said privately tougher policies to curb inflation could be announced after the November elections or in the President's State of the Union message early next year.

The officials gave no indication, however, of what the tougher measures might be.

But one high official did say that the administration's budget proposal for fiscal year 1976, that will be presented in January, will be the next major battleground in the war against inflation.

The President said he did not think that the United States was in a recession. He connected that "we do have some economic problems," but warned that "We have to be very, very careful to make sure that we don't tighten the screws too tightly and precipitate us into some economic difficulty" while challenging the inflation.

Ford said the nation's economic problems were a "temporary situation" and that he did not think the temporary 5 per cent surtax on corporations and some taxpayers would have to be extended beyond Dec. 31, 1975. He emphasized that for most taxpayers the dollar amount of the surtax would be relatively small.

The news conference was held in the simple, two-story White House Rose Garden. The formal flower beds were filled with autumnal yellow zinnias and golden chrysanthemums rather than roses. Ford opened his first outdoor news conference with a small joke. "I didn't promise you a rose garden. But maybe Ron Nessen did," he said. Nessen is the President's press secretary.

Although a majority of the questions dealt with the President's economic program, a wide variety of other subjects was brought up.

In response to a question, Ford indicated there was a possibility that he might meet with Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet leader, this year.

A summit meeting between Ford and Brezhnev is scheduled in Washington next year. But the President said today that "if there is a reason for us to meet before that I will certainly consider it."

One reason for such a meeting would be to achieve some kind of breakthrough in the current round of strategic arms limitation talks, called SALT II.

Noting that he had talked to the Soviet foreign minister, Andrei A. Gromyko recently, and that Secretary of State Kissinger was going to Moscow later this month, Ford said of the arms talks that "we are resolving our position in this very important and critical area."

... we will have some guidelines, some specific guidelines for him to discuss in a preliminary way," he added.

The President also announced that he would meet with President Luis Echeverria Alvarez of Mexico on the United States-Mexican border on Oct. 21.

Although he did not say what he would discuss at the meeting, it was expected that the President would bring up the problem of Mexican heroin flowing into his country.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., has asked the President to act against the flow of the drug from Mexico, which, he said, has replaced Turkey as the main illegal source of heroin in the cities of the South and West.

The following are among the other topics discussed at today's news conference:

— Criticism of Secretary Kissinger: The President said, "I am very fond of Dr. Kissinger on a personal basis. I have tremendous respect and admiration for the superb job that he has done since he has been director of the national security agency and also as secretary of state."

Ford added that he hadn't seen any adverse effects on Kissinger's ability to conduct foreign policy.

— The pardon of former President Nixon: Ford declined to comment, saying it would be inappropriate until he appears before a House subcommittee to answer questions about the pardon.

Financial gifts by vice presidential designate Nelson A. Rockefeller to Kissinger and others: In the case of Kissinger, the President said, "The law has been adhered to and there was no impropriety," adding that he assumed the same was true of the other gifts.

... humming for President in 1976: Ford, questioned about whether Mrs. Ford's recent surgery and other events had caused him to change his mind, said "I've seen nothing to change that decision and if and when, there is I'll promptly notify you."

The federal role in public education: Ford replied that the current effort of the federal government in education was just about right but added that he favored a tax credit for parents sending the children to private or parochial schools.

The school desegregation riots in Boston: "At the outset," Ford said, "I wish to make it very, very clear, I deplore the violence..." He added that he opposed busing and disagreed with the court order that required it in Boston. But he said, "I think it is of maximum importance that the citizens of Boston respect the law and I hope and trust that it's not necessary to call in federal troops or federal law enforcement agencies."

Quints try first real food, air

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Russell, Michelle, Sandra, Belinda and Jennifer — the quintuplets born to a Maryland couple — have taken their first gulps of regular air and their first taste of real food.

The quintuplets were given their first taste of food by mouth Wednesday. They also breathed room air instead of oxygen inside an incubator.

And they were "presented to their mother for the first time," Charles Rorher, the 33-year-old mechanic for a bakery who was stunned when his wife gave birth to five children on Tuesday, said the couple had no problem naming the boy Russell, Charles. They had prepared a name for him in advance.

But they had to come up with four more names for the girls. Checking a list, Rorher told newsmen they decided on: Michelle, Lynn, Sandra, Elizabeth, Belinda Ann and Jennifer Louise.

Karen Rorher, 28, who had planned, fertility drugs about eight weeks before conception, was reported by doctors to be doing well and was taken to see her five newborns Wednesday. Her husband described her as "really surprised and happy, all full of smiles."

The quintuplets were born six weeks prematurely, but Dr. Ronald Gutberlet, director of the hospital nursery, said Wednesday all five were doing "very well."

"The two babies having some respiratory problems are much improved today," he said. "None of the babies is taking extra oxygen anymore and all are breathing air."

By the end of the day, all five babies had been given their first liquids by mouth.

"Based on their birth weight the average length of stay would be one month," Gutberlet said. "It may be longer for some of them. It depends on how they settle in during these first days."

At birth the infants weighed from 2 pounds and 9 ounces, to 3 pounds and 9 ounces.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Ford is using his anti-inflation proposals as a campaign issue, saying enough Republicans must be elected to prevent a "veto-proof Congress" that could pass inflationary, spending programs.

The theme came through strongly Wednesday night on the second of Ford's barnstorming trips to raise money and help GOP candidates.

It was expected to be present again tonight in Detroit, where 2,500 Republicans have bought $50 tickets for a dinner in sprawling Cobo Hall.

About 1,000 supporters paid $20 to hear Ford speak — and see him dance the "Pennsylvania Polka" with Mrs. William Scranton, wife of a former governor — in Philadelphia. A breakfast meeting was scheduled today in Washington with Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and groups of congressmen were invited to the White House afterwards.

In contrast to the demonstrators that met Ford in Burlington, Vt., Philadelphia was virtually all applause.

Ford said Democrats had been "tremendously optimistic" about picking up enough seats in the House and Senate to override any veto.

Although his language was vague, his message was unmistakable: that might mean big, inflationary, spending bills.

"I don't think the American people want a veto-proof Congress," he said. "But it does depend on Nov. 5, on what you do." Republican candidates must be elected in large numbers, he continued, "in order to preclude a veto-proof Congress and elect an inflation-proof Congress."

Ford's prepared remarks had been even stronger: "1974, not 1976, is the year of decision, not only in the fight against inflation but in the struggle to preserve the two-party system in America," he said.

"If the Democrats make substantial net gains in the U.S. House and Senate next month it could result in a veto-proof 94th Congress in January — a Congress which could run the country through a lopsided power over the ability to spend."

Aides offered no explanation why Ford softened what was the strongest portion of his speech.

So far, Ford told his audience, Americans have been "responding tremendously" to his anti-inflation proposals and "the response of Congress has basically been good."

"We've had some who have been critical. But I think they in their own hearts know ... that they either buy this whole plan or concept or design or they have to come up with something else. Because America can't afford to lose this struggle."

Ford said he assumed some critics feared voters would "turn them out of office" if they supported the "tough decisions" like an income tax surcharge.

Two were on the podium with him, Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., and Drew Lewis, the GOP gubernatorial nominee, who said, "I'm not supporting any surtax on the middle-income people."

Effect questioned

(c) Chicago Sun-Times WASHINGTON — An internationally recognized agricultural expert has questioned the effectiveness of President Ford's proposals in his inflation message to Congress coping with the rising price of food in the months ahead.

Terming the speech "terribly general" and adding, "I'm not at all sure what it means," Lester R. Brown of the Overseas Development Council said he could not see how any of Ford's food proposals would markedly affect the course of prices.

Specifically, Brown discounted the effect of removing "all remaining acrecy limitations on rice, peanuts and cotton," as Ford said he would propose to Congress.

"I think it's peanuts," Brown said of this proposal. "For practical purposes no land is being held out of production in these commodities because of government programs."

About 99 per cent of cotton, rice and peanut cropland is already being farmed, Brown added.

Brown's remarks came in the course of a discussion with reporters about a new book "By Bread Alone," in which he and a colleague, Erick P. Eckholm, discuss the bleak world outlook for food sufficiency.

Envoy choice tabled

(c) Washington Star News WASHINGTON — The nomination of former presidential aide Peter M. Flanigan to be ambassador to Spain today was tabled by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The move will require President Ford to resubmit the nomination if he wishes to name Flanigan to the post.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the committee, said the committee in an executive session voted unanimously not to act on the nomination. He said that under Senate rules all pending nominations must be resubmitted to Congress if no action is taken before a recess lasting longer than 30 days.

Since Wednesday was the "last scheduled meeting of the committee before a 33-day election recess, the committee action has the effect of forcing the President to either resubmit the Flanigan nomination or name someone else. Privately, aides at the White House and the Senate were of the opinion that Flanigan's chances for the ambassadorship have virtually disappeared as a result of today's action."

Cancer meet set Oct. 26

FAIRFIELD — The District 7 meeting of the American Cancer Society scheduled for Saturday has been postponed one week, Mrs. Abe Loewen, district chairman, said Wednesday.

The convective will begin at 10:30 a.m. Oct. 26 at the Camus County Courthouse, with a no-host luncheon scheduled at the Country Kitchen Cafe at 11:30 a.m. Sessions will continue following the luncheon.

District 7 includes officers, chairman and members of the cancer society from Blaine, Lincoln, Gooding and Camus Counties. Gordon Huntsman, area 2 representative from the Idaho division office, Boise, will attend. Other staff members from the Boise office, also will attend to assist unit officers and committee chairman, Mrs. Loewen said. Programs on public education, service, public information and rehabilitation will be discussed, she said.

Inflation center stage in Idaho political wars

By United Press International
Inflation took center stage in political arenas Wednesday as Idaho candidates campaigned around the state.

Republican George Hansen told a Salmon audience inflation is hurting Idaho farmers and ranchers as much as any group in the nation. The congressional candidate said a solution must be found in hurry.

Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, at the American Mining, Congress in Las Vegas, Nev., said private ownership of gold provides an individual with a shield against inflation.

Symms said the value of the metal remains robust despite the erosion of currency.

In Idaho Falls, Republican Vernon Renscher advocated taking a long, hard look at proposals to cancel grain exports at a time when agricultural exports are the nation's major answer to trade deficits.

The lieutenant governor candidate told the Bonneville County Republican Campaign Committee the measures proposed by the President and secretary of Agriculture were a compromise to protect foreign markets, keep trade deficits as low as possible and still protect the American consumer.

In Burley, Hansen told the Chamber of Commerce he believes interest rates could be lowered if the federal government would stop borrowing and begin paying its debts.

Bob Smith, the Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate, said he has accepted an invitation from the University of Idaho students to debate Sen. Frank Church: D-Idaho, Oct. 29 in Moscow.

Democrat John Evans, campaigning in Rupert, said the provisions of the Sunshine Initiative are long overdue, and Idaho voters are entitled to them.

Gem city group prepares slate

MALAD, Idaho (UPI) — The Association of Idaho Cities plans to submit five legislative proposals Oct. 19 to city and county government to the legislative council in preparation for the coming session.

The sixth district regional meeting Wednesday was attended by representatives from 11 Idaho cities.

One of the measures that will be submitted is a request of a constitutional amendment that was defeated in the past Legislature by three votes — the Idaho Local Fiscal Control Act.

The past two legislatures have defeated the measure that would give cities authority to levy local option, non-property taxes if approved by local voters. This time, the association proposes making the measure an amendment to the Idaho Code.

The second bill would give cities authority to reopen their annual budgets. The proposal would allow a new council to revise a budget that had been passed by a city council replaced by an election.

The third proposal would raise the amount of expenditures in which cities may go beyond without bidding to $5,000 from $2,500.

The fourth measure would require cities and counties to establish an area of city import outside the city limits and either adopt identical regulation ordinances or apply existing city ordinances to the area. The extra-territorial jurisdiction would help in the control of urban sprawl outside city limits.

In the fifth proposal, the Idaho Associated Industries want the state to reimburse cities and counties for any programs or services mandated by the Legislature after the city budget had been approved.

Earlier in the day, Rep. Bill Omweller, R-Boise, told the meeting he is proposing legislation to change the property tax system in Idaho.

He said he is proposing a site valuation tax which would take taxation away from the improvements on the land and place it on the value of the land, relative to surrounding values.

He said many of the developed lots in Ada County are taxed several times more than adjacent vacant lots. He believes this proposal is the only way to get at speculative property owners who are serviced by the city utilities and have police and fire protection but do not pay for those services at the same level of taxation that the surrounding developed property owners pay.

Power groups set meet

BOISE (UPI) — More than 500 rural electric cooperative leaders from eight western states will gather here next Monday through Wednesday, for a meeting on rural electric problems.

The conference is sponsored by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

NRECA is the Washington-based service association of the nearly 5,000 rural electric systems serving more than 20 million consumers in 46 states.

The 47 NRECA members systems in the eight-state western region serve more than one million rural consumers.

Andrus has mixed view of speech

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Wednesday his reaction to President Ford's economic message was "mixed."

"Parts of the message are to be applauded but other parts merit careful scrutiny," he said. "I think the floor on the five per cent surcharge was too low for it bites hard at the already over-taxed and over-burdened middle class income people who bear more than their fair share of the cost of government," he said.

Andrus said he would have preferred a higher surcharge on incomes over $30,000. He also commended the President for pledging vigorous enforcement of anti-trust laws, his promise to see there is no credit crunch with a commensurate expansion of the money supply — particularly for the housing industry.

"I was particularly pleased with his plans for a community improvement corps "which would be administered by state and local governmental units," he said.

13-day kidnap ordeal ends, hostages freed

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — A U.S. woman official freed from a 13-day kidnap ordeal at the hands of leftist guerrillas says she was treated "like a lady and a diplomat" and grew to like her courteous captors.

"We hostages got to know them and even to like them a little under the necessity of sharing food and water," U.S. Embassy public affairs officer Barbara Hutchison said.

The seven guerrillas ended their siege at the Venezuelan consulate Wednesday night, freeing their seven hostages unharmed and flying off to a gymnasium in Panama.

In Panama City, mustached guerrilla chief Radames Mendez Vargas arrived with his ragtag band and said, "A war is not lost with one battle. There will be other actions against the Dominican government."

BARBARA HUTCHISON ... hostage

Miss Hutchison said the small room the hostages were kept in was "claustrophobic."

The Dominican government cut off electricity and water to the building—for most of the siege, but allowed daily food deliveries.

The guerrillas kidnaped her as she drove to work Sept. 27 and took her to the consulate. They quickly captured the building and seized six other hostages — two Venezuelan diplomats, a Spanish priest and three Dominican employees.

The guerrillas demanded a $1-million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

Miss Hutchison praised the U.S. Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors for their negotiations with the guerrillas on behalf of the hostages and said she was "especially grateful" for the efforts of Balaguer.

WILBUR MILLS ... in seclusion

Rep. Mills denies charges

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, was in seclusion Wednesday following a fight that, intoxicated and bleeding from the face, he was a passenger in a speeding car that was stopped by police here early Monday morning.

An official of the United States Park Police, whose officers halted the car near the Tidal Basin at about 2 o'clock Monday morning, confirmed at a news conference Wednesday that one of the five persons in the car had identified himself as Mills.

According to Assistant Chief Franklin A. Arthur of the Park Police, which patrols the area of Washington surrounding the Federal Mall, Mills was a passenger in the car and had been described by officers on the scene as "intoxicated."

All of the other occupants — a male driver and three women — had been drinking, Arthur said.

Joan faces DWI charge

McLEAN, Va. (UPI) — Joan Kennedy, the wife of Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., was charged with drunken driving Wednesday after her convertible bumped into a car stopped at a red light in suburban Virginia.

There were no injuries, and total damage in the three-car collision was estimated at $400.

Edward McGrath, whose car was struck, said Mrs. Kennedy, 38, "was very concerned about the accident and very upset. I really thought she was a nice lady."

"She said over and over again she was really sorry that it happened and just thankful that no one was hurt."

McGrath, 49, a Defense Department employee, said he was not aware of the time that she would be charged with drunken driving.

A police spokesman said a breathalyzer test was administered to Mrs. Kennedy at a police substation after the incident, but he declined to make public the result.

"Mrs. Kennedy, who was alone in her car at the time of the accident, appeared before a magistrate and was released on personal recognizance. No court date has been set.

A spokesman for Sen. Kennedy said he left Capitol Hill to return to the family home in McLean after receiving word of the accident.

McGrath said Mrs. Kennedy's car hit his smaller one with a "pretty solid bump," and his auto bounced forward and snapped into the back of the next vehicle driven by Carol Pinder, 25, of Vienna, Va.

Only McGrath's car suffered significant damage, with both front and back ends caved in. McGrath said Mrs. Kennedy, who was wearing white tennis shoes and a leather coat, exchanged drivers licenses and other information with him after all three cars involved pulled over to the side of the road and awaited police.

JOAN KENNEDY ... charged

Miss Hutchison, a 47-year-old native of Newark, Del., told a late night news conference she "never thought they'd carry out their promise and shoot us."

"They were very courteous to me and the other two ladies," she said. "They treated me like a lady and like a diplomat."

Miss Hutchison, wearing a red evening gown and blue brooch, chairs smoked cigarettes while talking with reporters at the home of U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwicz, but otherwise appeared calm.

She burst into tears, however, when embassy employees later came in to hug her.

The guerrillas demanded a $1-million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

Miss Hutchison praised the U.S. Venezuelan and Spanish ambassadors for their negotiations with the guerrillas on behalf of the hostages and said she was "especially grateful" for the efforts of Balaguer.

The guerrillas first two choices for asylum — Mexico and Peru — turned them down. Panama finally agreed to take the leftists "to help the Dominican government end this unfortunate situation."

From a bus window, Mendez-tossed newsmen a letter denouncing Communists and other Dominican leftists for failing to support the consulate siege.

The guerrillas piled their submachine guns, pistols and grenades on a desk in a consulate "ceremony" before departing for the airport.

Cuba to release

(c) New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The Cuban government notified Sens. Claiborne Pell and Jacob K. Javits Wednesday that it was releasing four United States citizens from prison as a gesture of good will.

The two senators visited Cuba for three days last month and asked Premier Fidel Castro about the situation of political prisoners — and American citizens detained on the island.

The names of the four Americans to be released were listed by the Cuban Foreign Ministry in a telegram transmitted to the senators as David Bruce Nirenberg of Upper Sagon, Pa., and his companion, Susan Lane Brown of South Royalton, Va., Philip Burris of Oakland, Calif., and his companion, Richard Peter Johnson, who is believed to be from Pennsylvania.

The state department said these four were among eight Americans sentenced for "non-political offenses" by Cuban courts. Twenty-five other Americans are being held on political charges, the spokesman said.

The guerrillas demanded a $1-million ransom, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe passage abroad. They threatened to kill a hostage every two hours to press demands, but let four deadlines pass without any slayings.

President Joaquin Balaguer offered the guerrillas one "final and definitive" offer Monday night: a flight out of the country in exchange for the captives.

DEAR ABBY: I needed some Scotch tape so I looked in my son's desk for some, and noticed the beginning of a letter my son had written to his girl friend. I read, "I am only interested in being stoned, spending money and sex." I read no further.

My first impulse was to confront him with this, but then he would say I had no right to go snooping through his desk.

I don't think I should go on ignoring this. I would appreciate some advice. He is 18½.

BWBILDERED FATHER

Needs father for friend

DEAR FATHER: You could be about 17 years too late. It won't help you now to be reminded that you failed to build the kind of father-son relationship that inspires trust, confidence and total honesty. It's possible that what you read did not reflect your son's thoughts accurately, however.

Don't tell him what you saw, but try to get a dialogue going so you can get inside his head. Encourage honesty, and no matter what he says, be cool, and don't put him down or make him feel guilty. If you can develop candid two-way communication, you'll be able to influence and eventually help your son. He doesn't need punishment. Father, he needs a mature understanding friend.

DEAR ABBY: About a week before our daughter and her steady graduated from high school, they told us that she was pregnant and they wanted to get married.

There was a long silence, then my husband said: "We've all made mistakes in our lives, but some of us never got caught. Now you two kids will have to excuse us for five minutes while we plan our daughter's wedding."

Then Dad led me into the bedroom, handed me $25 and said: "Let's see if you're as smart about money now as you were 25 years ago."

Needless to say, time was short, so I went downtown the next morning and bought six yards of yellow cotton, two simple formal patterns, two yards of pink lace, two yards of ivory lace, and some pink and ivory ribbon—all for less than $10. (I had $15 left over for the flowers and reception. Boy, I had money to burn!)

My younger daughter (age 15) and I made the dresses. I baked the wedding cake and made punch. Only the very immediate families were invited to the wedding.

Our minister performed the ceremony in front of our fireplace, which was decorated with greenery from our garden and two white candles. The girls were beautiful in their simple dresses with their long black hair tied back with ribbons to match their dresses. The bride carried a single ivory carnation, and her sister, a pink carnation.

We made sure the fridge was well stocked, and Dad, Sister and I spent the weekend in a neighboring town with Dad's brother.

Dad says I'm still as smart about money as I was 25 years ago.

NO NAMES PLEASE

DEAR NO: You're not only smart about money, you are wise about other things, too. And so is your husband.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BLISSFUL IN EVANSVILLE, INDIANA": You are mistaken. No one said "ignorance is bliss."

The quote is, "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box NO. 69700, L.A.: Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

BY Oswald & James Jacoby

After his Stayman three-club bid had produced a three-diamond rebid by South, North jumped to six notrump, to deny a four-card major. This bid represented the full strength of his hand plus a trifle more. With 3-3 breaks in hearts and clubs, South could run off with all the tricks.

South was not a believer in Sam's Claus and wanted to give himself the best possible play for 12 tricks. He could count 11 winners and decided to develop a sequence in case either opponent had both red suits stopped.

He ducked the first trick. This maneuver is now as rectifying the count. South still had his 11 sure winners.

He was trying for 12. After that start it was all over for the defense. South won the second diamond, cashed his ace-king-queen of spades; entered dummy with a high club and cashed the jack of spades. That play squeezed East. He had to chuck a club or a heart and either discard gave South the sign.

You should note that if South won the first trick the squeeze could never develop, since East could never be forced to throw either a heart or a club.

Couple recites promises

HANSEN — Sherric Lierman and Marty Jacobs were married Sept. 28 at the Redeemer Lutheran Church, Kimberly.

Rev. R. J. Scholes, Buhl, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar flanked by baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums and decorated with two small bouquets of pink and white chrysanthemums.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Lierman and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary Shepherd, Hansen.

The bride wore an empire-style gown of blue and white with a dotted swiss over deeper blue. The dress featured lantern sleeves and a full circular skirt which ended in a train. The dress was trimmed with white daisies at the neck, waist and on the sleeves.

Her veil of blue dotted swiss was held by a St. John's bow of deeper blue. She carried a bouquet of pink and white chrysanthemums tied with a blue bow.

Debbie Lierman, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor—Barbie Lierman—sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

John and Corey Lierman, both Hansen, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ringbearer.

Roger Stevens was best man. Marvin Norris was groomsman. Ushers were Dennis Lierman, brother of the bride, and Jim Griffith, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Dave Lierman, brother of the bride, and Mark Crawford, cousin of the bridegroom, were candlelighters.

MR. AND MRS. MARTY JACOBS

Mrs. Gerald Sievers, Marraugh, was organist and Dennis Lutz, Filer, was soloist.

The couple was honored at a reception following the ceremony at the church which was decorated in pink and white for the event.

The three-tiered cake was decorated with pink cascading roses on the top two tiers and had cherubs under arches on top of the bottom layer. It was placed on a cascading blue waterfall. Two heart cakes bearing the couple's names were attached to the cake with long streamers of blue. The wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple under an arch of flowers.

Tammy Jacobs, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of guest book. Gifts were cared for by Shane and Travis Lierman, Hansen, and Bart Crawford, Kimberly.

Cake was served by Denise Griffith and Marge Baker, both Twin Falls and Kale Pierson, Hansen. Pat Bally, Hansen, poured coffee and Bonnie Larsen, Hansen, served punch. Other reception assistants included Bonnie and Ramona Carlson, both Hansen, and Carol Shepherd, Filer.

A rehearsal buffet dinner was given by the mother of the bridegroom at her home.

The bride was honored at showers given by Mrs. Art Bailey and Mrs. Everett Norris, both Hansen, at the Norris home, and Tammy Shepherd, Barbie Lierman and Amy Jo Bailey and one given by Betty Lierman, aunt of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple lives at Hansen where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Miss Andersen, Calvert wed

TWIN FALLS — Mary Lou Andersen and Richard S. Calvert were married in an evening ceremony Sept. 28 at the United Methodist Church.

Rev. Ray Thompson performed the ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Richard C. Calvert and Mrs. James Rude, both Twin Falls.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Gordon Andersen, Enterprise, Ore., and her stepfather Daryl Ander, Ogden, Utah. She wore a floor-length lace gown made by her mother. The dress featured an empire waistline, long full sleeves and a V neckline.

She carried a nosegay bouquet and her elbow-length veil was of illusion.

Mrs. Gary Lyda, Twin Falls, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Rod Anderson, Caldwell, was best man. Tom Rude and Dan Ander were ushers.

Jim Dougherty was soloist, with Bob Thompson as accompanist. Connie Calvert was organist and Mrs. Terry Gilbert was in charge of the guest book.

The couple was honored at a reception at the Holiday Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rude were hosts for a rehearsal dinner at their home.

The bride was honored at showers given prior to the wedding by Sheila Oschner, Shelly Jensen and Sonia Lyda.

Mrs. Ruth Petry, Boise, Mrs. Emily Andersen, Caldwell, Mrs. Charles Calvert and Mrs. Earl Dougherty, both Twin Falls, all grandmothers of the couple, were special wedding guests.

After a short wedding trip to California, the couple resides at 408 Locust St., Twin Falls.

A Lovelier You

EXERCISE AND ENJOY IT

By Mary Sue Miller

The stress on physical fitness these days has nudged even scoffers of exercise into activity. But too many of them find it hard going and give up.

What's pity, when defeat could so easily have been turned into victory, when victory's rewards are increased vitality and beauty. The beauty benefits alone—a neater figure, a better complexion, a finer carriage—ure worth winning.

The secret of putting up a good fight is to start off easy. If you are unaccustomed to exercise, you must give your body time to adjust. The effort, otherwise, will prove fatiguing and frustrating. Workouts will seem more like a punishment than the pleasure they should be and can be.

A sport, of course, offers the greatest possibilities for enjoyment, owing to the social aspects. If you do not have the facilities or the time for a sport, however, you can keep in shape and enjoy doing it by exercising in your own room for ten minutes a day. Modern routines are easy and fun when you perform this way:

Set a convenient time for workouts... Wear a minimum of clothing, and no shoes... Exercise on a carpeted floor or mat near an open window... At first, perform only a few routines, increasing at your own speed... Rest, if you feel strain... Should your health be under par, consult your doctor before taking any kind of exercise... Perform daily, as your vitality increases with regular sessions... Don't woo-gather, but concentrate on the muscles in play or else they'll idle... For company, work to music... Enjoy!

LAZY-GIRL'S EXERCISES

Here's an effortless way to trim off heavy spots. All you do is lie down or sit down, and flex your muscles. If that's for you, send for LAZY GIRL'S EXERCISES. Based on the isometric principle of exercise, routines trim figure head-to-toe. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin.

TWIN FALLS — The First Chamber Dance Company of New York will visit schools in the Twin Falls area Oct. 28 through Oct. 30.

Members of the company will give special help in costume design, make-up, special dance, mime and ballet at no charge to the students.

The dance company is made up of 10 dancers who have left larger companies to present a more individual style of dance they call chamber style. By striking performances of lavish scenery, mechanical tricks and platoons of extras, the company has succeeded in laying the emphasis of its productions on finely tuned choreography performed by expert dancers.

Tickets for the public performance Oct. 30 are available from the College of Southern Idaho or by contacting Becky Kelly, 733-2494.

GOP candidate Jack Murphy supports President Ford's tax proposal

By BILL LAZARUS

TWIN FALLS — Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy, Republican gubernatorial candidate for governor, Tuesday gave qualified support for President Ford's five per cent tax surcharge proposal.

"It's a method of combating inflation. I agree with it if it will accomplish the end objective. I don't agree with it if it is just another tax to increase the federal government to spend more money," he said in an interview.

Murphy said he has not yet had a "chance to explore the whole impact" of the proposed tax on middle and upper level persons.

The candidate did express complete agreement with Ford's decision to impose a special gas tax.

"I think this would have been highly improper. I think we ought to embark on a very rigid self-discipline program of conservation of our energy needs," he said.

But Murphy said the legislature's approach was basically correct "when it passed this year."

By putting a maximum fine of $5 on speeding up to 70 miles per hour. He said the lowered 55 miles per hour speed limit is "an effect an effort to conserve energy as compared to an effort to save lives" and therefore the penalties should be less severe.

Concerning the Atomic Energy Commission's proposal to store huge quantities of atomic wastes near Arco, Murphy said the program should be examined in detail "before we go in one direction that there's something basically wrong."

"We always create the atmosphere in dealing with the AEC that they're not welcome... it provides more jobs than the mining industry all together. Our attitude ought to be one of encouraging the AEC coming to Idaho, their history in safety controls is probably second to none," he said.

Murphy said that Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has only been "paying lip service" to education, with the state legislature coming up with a higher education budget than he proposed every year of his administration.

On kindergartens, Murphy said he does not believe in any state funding if it "affects existing programs of higher education."

"And I don't see how it could help but do that if it comes out of one pot," he added.

He said kindergartens should be placed on local option.

Planning, too, should be locally determined. "I think the state should merely set up the capacity for land-use planning. Local governments should be the moving body," he said.

Hospital to lease machine

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board has agreed to lease a $22,000 photo copulator as requested by five local eye physicians.

The decision to lease the machine, which provides the patients with argon laser beam treatments, was made by trustees after a presentation by Dr. Martin Cutler.

The lease costs $45 monthly, and accumulated payments can be used to lease or purchase updated equipment without total loss, according to hospital administrator James Rosenbaum.

The machine will be used in the treatment of diabetic retinitis and occasionally in the treatment of detached retinas, the physicians said. They estimate between 5 and 15 patients a month would be eligible for treatment.

The physicians said a group will contribute $100 towards the monthly lease payments. Rosenbaum said patient charges should pay the hospital's share of the lease.

"I don't think it would be a financial burden to the hospital," he said.

Treatments, now available in Salt Lake City and Boise, cost between $75 and $300, physicians said.

The new machine will be available at the hospital in about three months.

In other business, hospital trustees also approved changes in personnel policies which would extend sick leave to 90 days from the present 12 day limit, add another "birthing" holiday, and change the present six-month probation period to 90 days.

Hanson talks at Gooding

GOODING — Max Hanson said Wednesday that radioactive waste should not be buried in Idaho during remarks he made at a Democratic dinner at the Gooding Grange Hall.

Hanson referred to an Atomic Energy Commission announcement that the AEC installation in eastern Idaho is one of several possible sites being considered as a burial ground for nuclear wastes and said, "I am against any radioactive wastes being buried in Idaho."

Hanson cited the 24,000 year half life of some nuclear waste materials and said before placing such wastes in the ground near Arco should receive scientific validation that there will be no leaks of these highly dangerous substances.

He said he felt the Nuclear Energy Engineering Laboratory had more to contribute to the nation than use as "a radioactive materials cemetery. I have confidence in the management at the facility and feel funding of the installation should be increased," Hanson said.

Beaches littered

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (UPI) — Two dead anchovies littered the beaches and clogged the shallow bay of this resort community today, taxing the ingenuity of officials charged with getting rid of the mess.

Thousands of the tiny fish swarmed into the marina Monday night, piling up on the beaches, surrounding boats and rivers to the bottom of the bay up to a foot deep.

The reason for the sudden suicide drive to the beach was not clear. Fishery biologists said the anchovies possibly were fleeing from predators.

MANNA

From SWENSEN'S

Over 4,000 years ago the children of Israel were wandering through the desert murmuring because there wasn't any bread. No one knows exactly what manna was like, but that's what the Israelites were provided with till they reached the promised land. Today, everybody is murmuring about the high price of bread (among other things), so this week Swensen's have arranged an extraordinary sale on flour so that you can make your own inexpensive bread, or manna if you have the recipe. (Apparently manna was free for Moses and his followers, but you have to expect a little inflation in 4,000 years.) Besides bread and manna, this flour can be used to make popular economical cookies, cakes, rolls and in holiday baking of all kinds.

Autopsy performed

PAUL — An autopsy performed at the request of Minidoka County Coroner Vaughn B. Blair has confirmed that Fred S. Taylor died as a result of the fire that gutted the Paul Hotel Sunday evening.

According to Blair, the autopsy found that carbon monoxide poisoning created by the fire caused Mr. Taylor's death.

Summer resort season ends

SUN VALLEY — The 30th summer resort season here closed Wednesday.

The Sun Valley Lodge and Challenger Inn will remain closed until Dec. 14. A small portion of the mall shops will open on a part-time basis.

Sun Valley guarantees skiing on Nov. 27 on the lower Warm Springs. A newly installed snow making machine will begin making snow Nov. 1.

All shops will re-open regularly then also. Restaurants will open Dec. 14.

It will be only the second time Sun Valley will have opened so early.

Candidate dinner set

GOODING — Residents of Magle Valley have been invited to a candidate night dinner tonight honoring U.S. Sen. Frank Church, Democrat, and state legislative candidates.

The event will be held in the Gooding Grange Hall for Democratic candidates including legislative hopefuls, state officials such as Joe Williams, Marjorie Moon, Tony Park and Legislators and legislative candidates from Magle Valley districts.

Victor eyes state bids

PRESTON (UP) — Nolan Victor, conservative candidate for governor on the American Party ticket, says money is being squandered on prejudicial placement of state bids.

Victor said he had information that a recent state offering to purchase six trucks for state use was not given to the low bidder for trucks of equal value and specification with a resulting penalty of $6,000 to the state.

"Consequently, we, the taxpayers paid $1,000 penalty per truck to obtain trucks with Bugg wheels in preference to trucks of the lower bid equipped with Dayton wheels," he said.

Pocatello vote set

POCATELLO (UP) — Voters in Pocatello will decide Tuesday on a proposal to rezone the trustee districts to equalize the population in each of the five zones.

All five trustee positions would be up for election in May if the change were made.

McClure gives opinion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, says he will support the President's efforts to stop inflation but feels Ford could have been more forceful in demanding budget cuts.

McClure said the economic address by Ford to Congress is generally positive and sensible.

He said he would have preferred a cut in federal spending to a 5 per cent surcharge.

Boise home robbed

BOISE (UPI) — Two men wearing ski masks robbed J.A. Albertson Wednesday night of an undetermined amount of jewelry in an antique jewelry box.

Boise police said the men, who were armed, were waiting inside the Albertson home when the family returned there about 9:30 p.m. Albertson is the founder of the Albertson's Food Store chain.

Power board chairman rapped

CRISTE (UPI) — A spokesman for a Boise citizens group is critical of the Idaho Power Co. board chairman for his paternalistic attitude toward Idahoans.

Al Fothergill, a spokesman for the Idaho Citizens Coalition, said Idaho Power Chairman Albert Carlson recently called a proposal for a local referendum before the construction of a coal-fired plant near Boise unwelcome because the public could not be educated about all aspects of the plant.

11 persons injured

NAMPA (UPI) — A Nampa man accused of drunk driving, drove his pickup truck through a restaurant Wednesday evening, injuring 11 persons eating dinner.

Police said the truck, driven by John M. Dickinson, 21, missed curve and crashed through the Hawkins Take Home Restaurant on Eleventh Ave. South.

Officers said the vehicle went completely through the restaurant, breaking two plate glass windows and injuring the customers.

Two of the 11 injured persons were admitted to Mersey Medical Center for treatment. The others were released.

Rail service 'sure thing'

TWIN FALLS — Rail passenger service to southern Idaho is a sure thing, according to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

Church said Wednesday in an interview that a Senate-House conference committee has required Amtrak to restore service through southern Idaho. Under law, he said, the national rail service must establish one new experimental route each year. The committee directed Amtrak to extend this service to southern Idaho.

"I would think it would come next year," Church said, adding that the train probably would come out of Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah and stop at Pocatello, Shoshone and Boise before going on to Portland, Ore. But, he added that Amtrak will have to work out the details of stops and routing.

Benches destroyed
POLICE Chief John Shaffer, Shoshone, stands beside one of the new park table-benches that was chopped up in a rash of vandalism at the Shoshone City Park. The chief calls for cooperation of all in the community to apprehend the offenders.

Shoshone seeks vandals

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone City Park may have to be closed unless vandalism stops there, City Police Chief John Shaffer said today.

In spite of patrol of the park area, the vandalism is continuing, and includes everything from chopping up park benches and throwing them into the river to burning them, tearing off the top 10 feet of the flag pole, breaking electric light bulbs, writing on and damaging the restrooms and tearing off limbs of trees.

Chief Shaffer said the city curfew law will be strictly enforced and asks cooperation of parents in keeping track of their children.

The curfew calls for any under 16 to be off the streets by 10 p.m., and those 16 to 18 must be off the streets by 11 p.m.

"It will be too bad if we have to close this beautiful park because of the actions of a few," the chief stated.

Power bill hike expected

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Mini-Cassia residents can expect higher power bills by the end of the year.

Don Hoddell, administrator of the Bonneville Power Administration, predicted in Burley Tuesday that the BPA will increase wholesale rates 27 per cent by December.

A survey of area municipalities purchasing wholesale power from the BPA, indicates that while the rate increase will mean higher residential electric bills, the increase will not be the full 27 per cent in most instances.

Elmer Shenk, electrical superintendent for the City of Rupert, explained that purchased power from the BPA makes up only one-third (33) of the total costs of serving customers. He predicted a 27 per cent increase in BPA's wholesale rates might result in a 12 to 15 per cent retail rate increase.

John Christian, Burley City electrical department manager, said that the city will probably contract for a rate study to determine how to handle the BPA rate increase and other increased operation costs caused by inflation.

Christian also felt that the price increase to most customers might be in the 10 to 15 per cent range.

Heyburn City Clerk Vida Brower reports the proposed increase of BPA wholesale rates was on the agenda of the Wednesday night city council meeting. According to Mrs. Brower, BPA officials suggested contracting with a private consulting firm to study how to adjust rates to reflect higher costs.

Church eyes inflation

By BILL LAZARUS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, questioned Wednesday whether President Ford's anti-inflation message was strong enough.

"I agree that inflation is the monster. But I'm not at all sure that this monster can be beaten with a pop gun," he said in a Times-News interview.

Though he agreed with parts of the President's program, Church said he is "disturbed that he made a median of cutting cutting back on foreign aid" which he described as "the most inflationary kind of spending."

"I oppose the whole program as it's presently administered and I hope we can defeat it in the Congress. But if we can't get the votes to defeat it, I hope we can reduce it as much as possible," he said.

Cutting out foreign aid would yearly the United States $8 billion to $10 billion yearly, he said. "I would far rather see us achieve a balanced budget this way than adopt a five per cent surcharge that President Ford proposed," he added.

Church said he backed an effort to prohibit any aid to oil producing and exporting nations. But with Ford's opposition, the bill was defeated 46 to 33 in the Senate. As a result, he said, the United States will be supplying $270 million to these rich oil nations.

Foreign aid, he said, "consists largely of arming dictatorships throughout the world while even the economic aid has been given in such a way as to make the rich richer and the poor get poorer."

The candidate called for a crash program to develop energy through nuclear power and research into the more exotic sources including geothermal, solar and wind and tidal power. He said many "brave words" have been spoken about creating such programs but no effort taken. Ford's proposal to convert oil generation plants to coal use and accelerating oil exploration are not enough, he said.

He said he has authorized a law to set up a research and development program involving both government and private sectors for using natural hot water, steam and hot rock for generating electricity.

Blaine planners endorse development

HAILEY — The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission endorsed the concept Tuesday of a family style ski development in Green Horn Gulch.

Developer Bill Burt approached the commission Tuesday for their written consent of the development despite a letter from the Idaho Fish and Game Commission critical of the plan.

The proposed development, is south of the small settlement of Cold Springs approximately three miles south of McChurn. The development would sit on the south side of the gulch which in the past has wintered deer and elk, according to the Fish and Game department.

Burt said the commission—the Wood-River Valley needed a family type skiing area which would charge half the prices Sun Valley Company presently is charging.

"Rota Run is not enough," Burt said, "and Baldy is too expensive."

Burt said the development may include a restaurant but would not charge high prices. The whole complex would be inexpensive down to the food of "sausagekraut, hot dogs and lentil soup," he said.

However, serious complications may result from the development, according to commission member Mary Jane Marin. Ms. Marin told Burt the comprehensive plan must be approved through the agency of the stringent protection of the county's wildlife.

Burt rejected both the Fish and Game report that serious deprivation of the deer and elk in the area would result from the development.

A letter signed by William Webb, Region 4 supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game, brought comments the wildlife count indicated in the letter was absurd from planning and zoning administrator Robert Barnes and laughter from the public.

The letter read, "The proposed ski development in Green Horn Gulch would seriously impair the ability of that area to provide wintering habitat for approximately 50 elk. In addition, the increase in winter vehicular traffic in Green Horn Gulch would interfere with the migration of 1,500 to 2,000 deer.

"The wintering habitat in the Big Wood drainage has already been seriously degraded and any new development in existing wintering areas would mean further degradation of the big game population. The Fish and Game Department is therefore opposed to any further development in this area."

Administrator Barnes after reading the letter said, "There aren't that many deer in all of Blaine county."

Burt said that there were little if any wildlife between Bald mountain and Clarendon Hot Springs to the south.

"The Fish and Game is just trying to grind an axe because they haven't done their job of management," Burt said.

He said the agency officials keep saying further development and more people have been driving the wildlife from the area. Burt said it was hunting pressure that was driving the wildlife out of the area which the Fish and Game had failed to cooperate in.

"You might as well delete game considerations in that rectangle from Baldy to Clarendon," Burt said.

Blaine zoning panel tables Hailey plan

HAILEY — The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission tabled initial approval Tuesday of a 180 acre subdivision north of Hailey.

The commission told developer Ralph Pifarri more information must be supplied than before his Indian Creek Ranchettes project will be approved. Pifarri, representing Western National Corp., wishes to sell five acre parcels immediately north of the Hailey city limits between the railroad tracks and U.S. Highway 21.

Pifarri told the commission districts running to each five acre parcel would be built and definite water rights assigned to each individual.

In addition Pifarri has asked the district health department to allow single septic tanks and individual wells on each five acre parcel.

According to Doug Bishop, conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, the soil on the site is highly permeable gravelly soil. The soil is "leaky," Bishop said and sewage must travel long distances before it is filtered out.

Pifarri told the commission the water table was 25 feet down from the surface of the ground. Consequently the commission told Pifarri they must see test results of sewage discharge from septic tanks before they will approve that concept.

The district health department has recommended Pifarri tie in to the Hailey sewer collection system since it is close. However Pifarri would be responsible for building his own collection system if the former plan proved to be too costly.

The commission told Pifarri he must supply them with information on the proposed water distribution system would be adequate for every lot to be sold.

In addition the commission told Pifarri he must present a more detailed outline of the road system inside the 180 acre development. The commission was not entirely satisfied with the system of ingress and egress which Pifarri had shown.

Bill Burt, newly appointed director of the rural fire department, added an adequate road system must be presented to the commission to assure fire protection to the many new homes to be built on the development.

Pifarri sought some indication from the commission of their approval in concept of the development but the commission told Pifarri he would have to submit more information before a preliminary approval would be given.

Mini-Cassia plans OK

RUPERT — Emergency room improvement projects at Minidoka Memorial Hospital, Rupert, and Cassia Memorial Hospital, Burley, were recommended for approval by a state review committee Wednesday.

The 1122 Review Council recommended approval of a $100,000 project expansion and remodeling of emergency room facilities at Minidoka Memorial and a similar $200,000 project at Cassia Memorial.

The review panel's recommendations will be forwarded to Dr. James Bax, director of the Idaho Health and Welfare Department, for final action.

In making the recommendation, the panel "encouraged some sort of joint planning committee between the two hospitals to consider sharing of services in future projects," according to Huey Reed, a member of the review committee staff.

The two hospitals are about 10 miles apart. "They showed some concern that there wasn't any evidence of a cooperative arrangement between the two hospitals on these projects," Reed said.

Both projects will be funded by local dollars. The Minidoka improvements will include expansion of emergency facilities to four rooms from the current single room, expansion of the central medical supply area, development of a stress-testing area, construction of an enclosed ambulance area and construction of food storage and freezer space in the dietary department.

The Cassia project will include expansion of the emergency room, construction of a ground-level ambulance entrance and relocation of the physical therapy, occupational therapy and inhalation therapy departments to the enlarged emergency area.

Satisfied spectators

BUHL — There was a little egg throwing and cups of "rip off" but mostly the spectators were satisfied.

That was the appraisal of the star of Buhl High School's version of the latest fad of vehicle jumping.

Jim Hawkins, principal organizer of "Rip Off Promotions" said his Wednesday morning jump, with his childhood hobby horns over 18 cans of chewing tobacco, was successful, but then in a way it wasn't.

"The horse jumped the 47 foot high platform on a pickup truck at the Buhl high school field to the edge of the foam rubber pads," young Hawkins told the Times-News, "but then it bounded back onto the cans."

"The daring young rider who claims he took 'great risks' landed on the mat, apparently without injury. About 575 persons watched the feat.

Some spectators felt they did not get their 10 cents worth. Hawkins said, but most of the onlookers were satisfied.

Profit from the jump part of Homecoming activities to be climaxed with a parade at 1 p.m. Friday and football game, unlike its more famous canyon feat, went to a good cause.

Proceeds of $37.46 are earmarked for the Clark Stokes Memorial Fund at the high school.

Jerome crash hurts 2

TWIN FALLS — A young Spokane woman was in serious condition Monday at Magie Valley Memorial Hospital following a one-car accident Wednesday east of Jerome.

A California woman also injured in the accident was listed in good condition.

The accident was Deborah Swain, 19, Spokane, Wash. Her traveling companion, Martha Betancourt, 19, San Diego, was listed in good condition.

Miss Swain underwent surgery Wednesday to control internal bleeding, according to hospital officials. In addition, she suffered abrasions and lacerations and a concussion when her small, foreign car flipped over on Interstate 80 east of Jerome. Miss Betancourt was being held for observation at the hospital with a concussion, but hospital spokesmen said she may be released later today.

The accident occurred about 12:55 p.m. Wednesday two miles east of the Interstate 80 Highway 79 junction. Idaho State Police officers said Miss Swain had apparently overcorrected her 1968 Volkswagen sedan after it veered off the right side of the Interstate and that the car had apparently flipped over on re-entering the roadway.

The Swain vehicle was eastbound at the time of the accident.

Both young women were transported to Magie Valley Memorial Hospital by a passing motorist who witnessed the accident, police said.

Blaine planners endorse development

HAILEY — The Blaine County Planning and Zoning Commission endorsed the concept Tuesday of a family style ski development in Green Horn Gulch.

Developer Bill Burt approached the commission Tuesday for their written consent of the development despite a letter from the Idaho Fish and Game Commission critical of the plan.

The proposed development, is south of the small settlement of Cold Springs approximately three miles south of McChurn. The development would sit on the south side of the gulch which in the past has wintered deer and elk, according to the Fish and Game department.

Burt said the commission—the Wood-River Valley needed a family type skiing area which would charge half the prices Sun Valley Company presently is charging.

"Rota Run is not enough," Burt said, "and Baldy is too expensive."

Burt said the development may include a restaurant but would not charge high prices. The whole complex would be inexpensive down to the food of "sausagekraut, hot dogs and lentil soup," he said.

However, serious complications may result from the development, according to commission member Mary Jane Marin. Ms. Marin told Burt the comprehensive plan must be approved through the agency of the stringent protection of the county's wildlife.

Burt rejected both the Fish and Game report that serious deprivation of the deer and elk in the area would result from the development.

A letter signed by William Webb, Region 4 supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game, brought comments the wildlife count indicated in the letter was absurd from planning and zoning administrator Robert Barnes and laughter from the public.

The letter read, "The proposed ski development in Green Horn Gulch would seriously impair the ability of that area to provide wintering habitat for approximately 50 elk. In addition, the increase in winter vehicular traffic in Green Horn Gulch would interfere with the migration of 1,500 to 2,000 deer.

"The wintering habitat in the Big Wood drainage has already been seriously degraded and any new development in existing wintering areas would mean further degradation of the big game population. The Fish and Game Department is therefore opposed to any further development in this area."

Administrator Barnes after reading the letter said, "There aren't that many deer in all of Blaine county."

Burt said that there were little if any wildlife between Bald mountain and Clarendon Hot Springs to the south.

"The Fish and Game is just trying to grind an axe because they haven't done their job of management," Burt said.

He said the agency officials keep saying further development and more people have been driving the wildlife from the area. Burt said it was hunting pressure that was driving the wildlife out of the area which the Fish and Game had failed to cooperate in.

"You might as well delete game considerations in that rectangle from Baldy to Clarendon," Burt said.

New economic program won't solve inflation

(C) 1974 New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — President Ford's new economic program would make a modest attempt to ease the burden of inflation on the labor force who have lost their jobs and have no unemployment compensation — but apparently, according to analysts, rather little difference to the current problems of the national economy, including inflation.

By dollar measure in this $1.44 trillion economy and $300-billion budget, the program is small. It would shift the tax burden slightly from lower to higher income groups, but would not add either stimulus or restraint to the economy from the budget now. It would add modest stimulus through unemployment benefits if unemployment rises nationally about 6 per cent and stays there.

It would give a small boost to the depressed housing industry.

As for inflation, the program contains little that is new.

The budget will be held, if Congress cooperates, to $300 billion.

"The new Council on Wage and Price Stability will 'monitor' wage and price behavior and hold public hearings," yet another commission will be appointed to examine government regulatory practices with no prospects for early action.

Most of the impact the President's program would have — apart from his appeal to the public to save food and gasoline — depends upon currency by Congress, which is anything but assured. The situation is markedly different from that of Aug. 15, 1971, when the only action required by Congress in President Nixon's dramatic program of controls, devaluation of the dollar and economic stimulus was the reduction.

This time it is highly possible that Congress will cut taxes more than the President wants, raise other taxes less than he wants, and enact a more liberal program of unemployment assistance than he has asked, all of which would enlarge the budget deficit.

And thus he could wind up vetoing his own program as inflationary.

As for the energy part of the program, much of it has been around for a long time, and the same old controversies still exist. The most dramatic item — switching all electric power plants to fuel sources other than oil — has long-run meaning but little to do with immediate problems.

For the long run, the President's program could have real meaning. A permanent increase in the business investment tax credit — to remain after a one-year corporate profits tax surcharge expires — should add to plant and equipment and hence to total supply in the economy, for example. The problems of the public utilities would be eased somewhat by both an increase for them, from 4 to 10 per cent in the investment tax credit, and a wholly new proposal for deductibility to the corporations of dividends on preferred stock.

But while Ford called his program a "grand design" and said "past and present efforts" of the government to curb the economy do not "pack the punch that will turn on America's economy," the doubters here wondered how much wallop there was in the new program.

The chief test was in dollars. The President himself said that the $3 billion he would propose in new, year-by-year income tax surcharges "should pay for all the new programs (including some tax reduction) I have recommended in this message."

Analysis

Shuffling $5 billion around in the way economy cannot, by itself, have a major impact. And the congressional uncertainties compound the problem. As a perfect example, the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday morning approved a $1.7-billion tax reduction for persons with savings accounts — enough by itself to throw what the President called his "considered package" out of whack.

The President took office exactly two months ago today and has very little track after a few speeches at his swearing-in to meet his economic advisers. His quest for economic solutions — which included many more such meetings plus a lengthy "surround" process of consultation with the private sector — has been bedeviled from the outset by the inherent dilemmas in the situation.

Anything done to head off the unemployment problem would probably increase the budget deficit and exacerbate the inflation problem. Anything done to help financing would involve, directly or indirectly, more borrowing in the capital markets and thus more upward pressure on interest rates, tax relief from low and moderate income families — usually offset by increased government spending — would add to the budget deficit.

What is more, the President discovered from the anti-inflation conference here on Sept. 27 and 28 and the preparatory meeting before it that his own favorite plan in the inflation story — too much government spending — was far from everybody's villain. And thus his remedy of severe budget restraints did not win the support that he had hoped and expected.

It seems probable that the American economy will look about the same six or nine months from now whether or not Congress enacts Ford's program. It may well look somewhat better than now, at least in the sense of a lower rate of inflation, but not because of the program.

5 women flunk fire unit posts

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — All five women trainees for a fire department flunked out, four because they were not strong enough and one for getting hurt.

"The failure to make the female trainees to make the department, out of a class of 28, defused a bitter argument between city officials, trying to comply with a 1971 anti-discrimination law which requires that women be given the same opportunities as men in the fire service."

The four who "flunked" the requirements were: one who fell in a test involving climbing down a 65-foot ladder from a fire truck, wearing air tanks on their backs, and pulling up a hose behind them.

Bell notes that two of the four weighed only 117 pounds, and suggested that in the future the

Sooners add to woes piling up on Longhorns

By United Press International
 As if Darrell Royal didn't have enough problems, the Texas Tech coach found himself with only a shadow of the All America (fullback) Roosevelt Leaks (slowed by a knee injury), he had a year ago. Then as proof of the positive of the and other suddenly appeared weaknesses on his 24 Longhorn squad, Texas Tech 9 and upset Royal's perennial Southwest Conference champion two weeks ago.

Now Royal finds himself with one final non-league "tune-up" before the remainder of his SWC schedule comes into play. That "tune-up," however, turns out to be Oklahoma.

No wonder Texas practices have been flooded to the public this week. Darrell Royal has a lot of things to do. Oklahoma is a 25-point favorite.

Elsewhere, No. 1 Ohio State gets who could be its first real test of the season, with No. 11 Wisconsin, although the Buckeyes are still a 22-point choice of the oddsmakers. No. 2 Alabama is off-the-board against hapless Florida State as is No. 3 Michigan versus Michigan State.

Fourth-rated Nebraska is a three TD pick over Missouri, No. 5 Florida seven over Vanderbilt, No. 6 Auburn 11 over Kentucky, No. 7 Texas Tech a three-point underdog to No. 16 Texas A&M, No. 8 Notre Dame 33 over Rice, No. 9 Southern California 20 over Washington State and No. 9 North Carolina State 14 over Virginia.

"I guess maybe you'd say we're 3-0 in exhibitions," was the candid opinion of Oklahoma's top assistant coach, Larry Lacey, in assessing the Sooners' easy three triumphs over Baylor, Utah State and Wake Forest — not exactly your local powerhouse. "But I saw Texas play last Saturday (vs. Washington) and I promise you, we're fixin' to enter the regular season."

For both Oklahoma and Texas, the regular season has traditionally began on "State Fair Weekend" in Dallas every season when the two neighboring geographies collide. And for Darrell Royal, an Oklahoma alumnus, the weekend has been mostly pleasurable during his 17 years as Longhorn coach.

Royal is 12-5 vs. the Sooners, but has not won this one in the last three years. And the scores have not been too happy either: Oklahoma 48, Texas 27; Oklahoma 27, Texas 0; Oklahoma 52, Texas 13.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma, despite its probation by the NCAA, has gone 21 straight games without a defeat and at the present time leads the country in total offense (571 yards per game), rushing (496 ypg) and scoring (54.3 points per game).

The Sooners also boast Joe Washington, a strong candidate to replace Texas' Leaks at one of the All America running back spots this year. In less than half the game last week against Wake Forest, Washington rushed for 145 yards on nine carries including a 65-yard TD.

So, please, you'll have to pardon Darrell Royal if, at the moment, he seems to have enough problems. Pardon, yes, but don't be foolish enough to count him out entirely.

There must be SOMETHING going on in those closed practices this week at Austin.

Double triplicate

Shirley Kutsman of Twin Falls is only a few weeks into the 1974-75 bowling season but already has hit a rare double.

She first hit a triplicate in the opening session of the Ladies Valley League and followed up with a 182 triplicate Wednesday night.

They are the only two triplicates she has posted in her career.

Southmen win

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Quarterback Danny White hit wide receiver Ed Marshall for two touchdowns Wednesday night to lead the Memphis Southmen to a 27-23 victory over the Charlotte Hornets in a World Football League game.

Marshall's first touchdown came early in the final period following a 63-yard drive and he came back to catch a 19-yard scoring pass with 6:15 left to play.

The Hornets, playing their first home game since the franchise was moved from New York, made a valiant effort before a sellout crowd of 25,123 fell short when Memphis defensive back David Thomas intercepted a pass on his own 12-yard line in the closing minutes.

Hawaiians top Bell

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Al Davis scored his third touchdown on an 8-yard pass from Norris Wesse with 2:45 to play to give the Hawaiians a 25-22 World Football League victory over the Philadelphia Bell Wednesday night.

Davis' score came on a third-down play and capped a five-play, 52-yard drive, which began with a 31-yard pass from Wesse to running back Vince Clements.

The Bell began the next drive at its own 15 and in 12 plays had the ball on the Hawaiians' 27. Placekicker Jerry Warren set up for a 45-yard field goal attempt but, the snap from center was dropped by holder Ron Halliday who was buried by Hawaiian defenders.

Blazers belt fire

CHICAGO (UPI) — Running back Tommy Reamon passed for one touchdown and set up two others with long runs Wednesday night as the Florida Blazers defeat the Chicago Fire for the third time this season, 45-17.

Reamon set up Florida's first two touchdowns with rambles of 14 and 27 yards that put him in the elite 100-yard rushing class in his 1st World Football League season.

Then the 5-foot-10-pounder from Missouri headed a 60-yard scoring pass on a half-back option in the fourth period to wide receiver Matt Maslowski.

Maslowski also caught a 41-yard scoring pass from quarterback Bob Davis in the fourth period when the Blazers broke open the game with four touchdowns.

Reamon led all rushers with a game total of 87 yards that lifted his season-long total 1,066 yards on the ground.

The third game between the two teams this season was hastily arranged earlier this week as a result of the financial collapse of the WFL's Detroit Wheels and Jacksonville Sharks.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES—An excellent day when you can make big plans and carry them out to attain your loftiest aims. But tonight you may be exhausted from your efforts and need rest.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use those talents you have to make this a most happy and worthwhile day. The artistic side of life appeals to you tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Home is your best bet now. Make those who dwell with you more comfortable and happy. Plan along basic lines. Relax in evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make appointments now that will give you a better insight into your current avenues of expression. Do some shopping for things that make you feel happier.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to have more of the good things of life and start the ball rolling in such directions. Reverse budget to save money.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) More application on your part will fulfill your personal desires that seemed impossible before. Day favors social side of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Decide how to increase income, then contact key people in a.m. Assist the deserving who are in trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Converse early with good pals who have it in their power to help you gain personal goals. Enjoy the social side of life more.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Carry through with what is expected of you by those in official positions, or you could get into trouble. Get credit matters in order.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Spare time during day is best for amusement, since the evening should be spent at home relaxing after a busy day's work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do your work in such a way that higher ups approve, or it might go badly for you. Evening fine for personal correspondence.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your mind is sharp now and you can easily see up what others are doing and know how you should act, what you should do.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Beware of those with an eye on your assets, and be alert to some opportunity through which you can add to present prosperity.

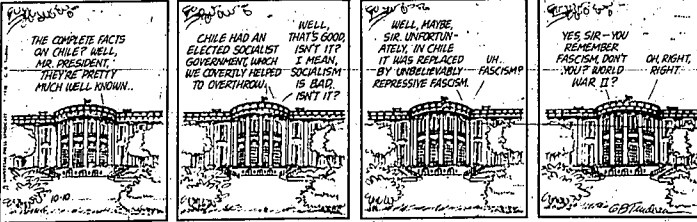

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be highly imaginative and will have the know-how to make his or her dreams come true, therefore be sure to provide the finest education you can so this rare quality can be made to pay off handsomely, bring fame to your son, daughter. The career begins fairly early in life and then the philanthropist emerges in this chart after middle age. Give good spiritual grounding early.

Young lady, how would you like a ring with an enormous stone of aluminum oxide? Accept it. That's what a ruby is. And a sapphire, too. What makes the difference between the ruby and the sapphire is the sort of impurities therein. Add titanium or iron, you get a sapphire. Add chromium, you get a ruby.

TODDLERS

Consider children between the ages of 2 and 4: When you put a couple or more of them together to play, you can expect some sort of minor fight to break out at least every five minutes. That's the contention of a team of experts who made a study of the matter. And they say it's the younger of the children who usually starts the fracas. However, that's not bad, these scholars aver. Little battles that don't turn into big wars are said to be good for kids.

MAJOR HOOPLE

BPW club urges members to vote

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's club held its October dinner meeting Monday at the Depot Hotel.

Verna Rudolph welcomed members and guest Margaret Bronson and Margaret Leach. Alpha Smith, legislative chairman presided at the meeting. She urged members to register to vote, if they weren't already.

Faye Hoffman spoke on the Equal Rights Amendment. She reported the national club chapter had over $250,000 towards ratification of the amendment but added 1975 would be the key year. Five states still need to ratify the amendment.

Maye Chatterton explained the Sunshine Initiative, which would require campaign disclosures by political candidates for state offices, as well as requiring paid lobbyist to register.

Candidate asks debt payment

BURLEY — GOP congressional candidate George Hansen told the Burley Chamber of Commerce Tuesday he believed that interest rates could be lowered if the federal government would stop its chronic borrowing and begin to pay off its debts.

"Today's high interest rates are being blamed entirely on inflation," Hansen said, "but they are at least partly the result of the billions of funds that the government is siphoning off from the investment markets. This forces the private industry in competition to pay exorbitant rates for whatever capital remains."

He said many small businesses in Idaho, including family farms, are placed at a disadvantage along with the average citizen in attempting to meet current and long term obligations.

"Even when loan money is available, interest rates are at such an unfair rate that Idaho's economy is hurting. The building industry is a case in point — most of our communities are growing and need extra housing. But the high interest rate causes a slowdown and depresses the construction at a time we really need it."

Hansen said he believed that a lowering of the prime rate would stimulate the economy to a "healthier" situation.

No laugh

CHESTER, N. J. (UPI) — A four-county alert has been issued for a thief who made off with two tanks of laughing gas from a dentist's office.

Police Chief Joseph Feltmann said the dentist noticed the gas — nitrous oxide — was missing at 1:30 p.m. Monday. It can result in "death within minutes" if not used properly, Feltmann said.

"Whoever took it knew exactly what he was looking for. Somebody must be looking for a couple of laughs," Feltmann said.

The dentist told police the tanks were lying next to three other tanks labeled oxygen, which is mixed with nitrous oxide when given to patients. A hose and regulator were taken along with the gas.

GOP hopeful talks to Gooding youth

GOODING — Bob Smith, Republican Senatorial candidate, told Gooding High School students Tuesday he can't understand why Frank Church says he didn't know what was going on in Chile during the recent uprising.

Smith said evidence showing that Church's staff knew at the time of the uprising, which deposed Marxist president Allende, what American embassy and CIA officials were doing in Chile. He said Edward M. Kerry, former ambassador to Chile, has also questioned Church's claim that he didn't know what was going on in Chile, and repudiates Church's allegations that the CIA was responsible for the overthrow of the Marxist regime.

"Reputable people who were on the scene agree that Allende was overthrown — by the Chileans themselves when they saw what he was trying to do to them," Smith said. He also said the Los Angeles Examiner newspaper calls Church's present criticism of the CIA role in Chile "two-faced nonsense."

BUY ONE OF THESE 1974's AT 1964 PRICES

SOUND RIDICULOUS? Maybe, but we can do it. Bob Reese Motor Company recently purchased a train load of 1973 & 1974 Dodge, Chrysler and Plymouth lease cars. All the 1973's have been sold, but we have 19-1974 lease cars left. Most of these have only 2,900 to 8,000 miles on them. Do you remember when you could buy a full size Dodge, completely equipped including factory air conditioning for under $4,000? That's right — 1964. Do you also remember when you could buy a Chrysler, completely loaded, including factory air conditioning for under $4,800? That's right — 1964.

Aging into ruin

US farmers facing own energy crisis; production threatened

ANTQUATED thresher, abandoned and unused, rests in a field northwest of Shoshone. It is one of many which may be found across the Magic Valley, weathering into junk but still reminding passersby of a time long past when farming machinery was less sophisticated.

WASHINGTON (INS) — The U.S. agriculture industry is facing a major energy crisis in the near future which will have adverse effects on food production and availability unless immediate steps are taken to alleviate the situation, a report released by a Senate agriculture subcommittee warns.

The report, prepared by the Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service, buttresses warnings from some observers that U.S. agriculture, with its heavy dependence on fossil fuel energy forms, is facing a crisis because of the unreliability of fuel sources.

Estimating the U.S. food and fiber industry's energy needs will rise 110 per cent by 1990, the report suggests that in order to meet those needs, government must give the agriculture industry top priority in allocation of energy resources and revise federal regulations to ensure better utilization of resources available. The report also advocates increased energy conservation measures by the industry itself.

If an allocation program is going to be successful, the report says, activities vital to the operation of the food and fiber system must be clearly defined and non-essential elements excluded from the top priority category.

Citing the fact that during the recent fuel crisis some oil firms stopped serving rural accounts, the report says regulations should be adopted to prevent further inequities. Fuels should be committed to specified areas in anticipation of peak agriculture needs and an allocation system should be flexible enough to permit borrowing on the next month's or quarter's allocation when weather causes variances in fuel needs, the report says.

It adds that any allocation program should protect the viability of small and independent sectors of the petroleum industry as they are needed to insure petroleum supplies to farmers.

Crude oil pricing policy, needs to be investigated, the report says. Present policy, which allows higher prices for oil from stripper wells, has resulted in higher prices to farmers and cooperatives who buy from independent operatives whose major petroleum source is stripper wells, it says.

For an allocation program to work smoothly, conflicting regulations must be kept to a minimum, the report continues. Because of the multiplicity of federal and state energy regulatory agencies, consideration should be given to provide for effective coordination among the agencies, the report adds.

Noting the industry's heavy reliance on natural gas, and bleak natural gas supply prospects, the report suggests the agriculture industry be permitted to renegotiate its supply contracts from inter-ferable to firm status.

In the transportation arena, the report suggests reduced and more responsive regulation of railroads to provide incentives for improved rail services because long-haul movements of agricultural products and inputs would reduce transportation fuel consumption to about one-fourth of present levels.

Finally, the report warns that development of coal and oil shale deposits in the Rocky Mountains and the northern Great Plains may bid the price of water in these areas so high that irrigated agriculture there will decline, resulting in a decline in food production.

Brands due

BOISE (UPI) — Beginning Oct. 3 all livestock authorized to graze on national resource lands administered by the Bureau of Land Management will have to be branded, officials said today.

Fever tests required

BOISE (UPI) — Beginning Friday—horses transported into Oregon must have a valid negative test for swamp fever. Dr. A. P. Schneider, director of the Bureau of Animal Industries for the Idaho Agriculture Department, said Oregon has responded to the requests of its horse industry in the prohibition of transporting horses that might be infected with equine infectious anemia or swamp fever. He said it is a serious disease usually transmitted to horses by biting insects or contaminated instruments such as hypodermic needles.

It affects some horses with fever, weakness, depression and death in three to five days. With other animals, it takes longer, with periods of remission before death occurs.

Fertilizer market tightens

WASHINGTON (INS) — Supply and demand for nitrogen and phosphate will probably remain closely balanced through 1976 and spell a continued tight world fertilizer market, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Potash supplies will tighten due to idle manufacturing capacity in Canada which equals much renovation, USDA added.

High fertilizer prices are discouraging purchases and slowing the market in the lesser developed countries. North American demand, however, is rising and the U.S. 1974-75 consumption level is expected to increase substantially, USDA said. With fertilizer manufacturing ability essentially fixed for the short-run, demand is the "critical issue" hounded by major uncertainties such as the level of grain stocks held now by the USSR, USDA said.

Although world phosphate fertilizer manufacturing capacity appears able to demand, continuing tight rock supplies will hamper the outlook for this ingredient.

A nitrogen surplus could begin in the late 1970's, it could be eliminated, however, by a slight reduction in output or slightly faster rate of growth in demand. How much new nitrogen capacity and surplus will come on line and when are unknown.

Little new phosphate and potash capacity has been announced recently, USDA said. Compared to nitrogen, estimates of 1980 fertilizer production, and consumption for major countries indicate that India will take China's place as the world's largest net importer of fertilizer, especially nitrogen. Although India plans to increase nitrogen imports fertilizer production by nearly 150 per cent, its nitrogen imports will double. If 1980 consumption reaches expected levels, China should be roughly self-sufficient by 1980, assuming completion on schedule of 13 large ammonia-urea plants already contracted.
