

today in brief

Ehrlichman now Nixon accuser

Liddy released from jail on bond

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge today reduced bond from $100,000 to $5,000 on G. Gordon Liddy, silent member of the original Watergate defendants...

The former White House aide, also serving time in the break-in of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office, has been in jail for nearly 21 months...

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell reduced the bond and ordered Liddy, 51, released from the District of Columbia jail pending outcome of appeals in both the Watergate and Ellsberg cases.

Liddy was released from jail about 90 minutes after the hearing.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John D. Ehrlichman's attorney charged today that former President Richard M. Nixon "deceived, misled, lied to and used" and finally forced a resignation from his former No. 2 aide in order "to save his own neck."

Ehrlichman, one of five former Nixon associates on trial in the Watergate cover-up, was portrayed by defense attorney William S. Frates as a victim of the plot who had "repeatedly recommended" that Nixon disclose the truth.

It was the first time Ehrlichman had turned accuser-of-Nixon, whom he served as chief domestic adviser in the White House until April, 1973, when the Watergate scandal became a major issue.

Nixon, named an indicted co-conspirator in the cover-up, has been pardoned by President Ford and cannot be tried for any Watergate-related incidents.

Former White House counsel John W. Dean III, previously Nixon's chief accuser, was to testify later in the day for the prosecution — whose case also was based on the complexity of the former president.

"Richard Nixon deceived, misled, lied to and used John Ehrlichman to cover up his own knowledge and activities while publicly stating that John-Ehrlichman was one of the finest public servants he had ever known," Frates told the jury.

"He (Nixon) was deliberately withholding information from him — covering up to save his own neck—in simple terms, Mr. Ehrlichman had been had by his boss, the President of the United States."

Frates said Ehrlichman's decision to leave the White House was a "forced resignation... so that heat would be taken off the president and the president standing there knowing that he was the one covering up."

Frates also praised the tapes of Nixon's White House conversations, which will be introduced into evidence beginning Wednesday.

He stressed that Nixon and former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, one of the co-defendants in the cover-up, never told Ehrlichman about the secret taping system.

He also sought to divorce Ehrlichman from Haldeman, once Ehrlichman's close friend. The two of them once were the powerful men in Nixon's White House.

"Your natural inclination will be to put these defendants in one pot, and frankly that's my problem," Frates said.

Testimony hearing set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today scheduled a hearing for Wednesday afternoon on whether former President Richard M. Nixon should be compelled to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial of five of his former aides.

"I think the sooner we dispose of this the better off we'll be," Sirica said, announcing the hearing would be held after the trial adjourns for the day Wednesday.

Nixon, named an indicted co-conspirator in the case but pardoned by President Ford from any possible prosecution, was subpoenaed to testify both by the defense and the prosecution.

Simon, Russ aides review grain sale

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today that the United States and the Soviet Union have a "full handle" on the recent controversy over grain sales.

"We had very lengthy discussions," Simon told a news conference after talks with Nikolai S. Patolichev, the Soviet Foreign Trade Minister. He said they discussed "the entire world grain situation — what the demands and market would be and what indeed the production would be."

"We have a full handle on the problem," he said. Asked whether the Soviets had expressed anger or surprise over President Ford's decision to block the sale of $500 million worth of wheat and corn to this country, Simon replied:

"They were not upset nor did they show any antagonism on the subject whatsoever."

Simon said he would further discuss this and other questions at a meeting with Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist Party, this evening. Brezhnev was scheduled to host a dinner in honor of Simon and members of the improvement of Soviet-American political and trade relations is a priority for the Ford administration. Simon said there have been "unprecedented events in the political life of our country," but that "many things have not changed."

"High among these is the desire of the United States to further the development of peaceful and fruitful relations with the Soviet Union," he said.

Simon said the granting of most-favored-nation trade status to the Soviet Union is vitally necessary to remove impediments to bilateral trade.

TF voter sign-up set

TWIN FALLS — Voters in Twin Falls County will have an opportunity to register Wednesday.

Through the sponsorship of the League of Women Voters, with assistance from the county clerk's office, precinct registrars will be in their homes for 24 hours Wednesday to receive registrations.

League officials say they are urging the use of Voter Registration Day in the county to get as many non-registered voters on the books as possible. This is expected to help cut down the last-minute rush by getting voters aware of their registration status early.

Books will remain with registrars until 11 days prior to the Nov. 5 general election. Registration may continue until that time and at the office of the county clerk until six days prior to election.

Persons must register if they have not moved or changed their name since previous registration. Persons 18 years of age or older who are residents of the county and state are eligible to vote.

The League of Women Voters is urging residents who believe they are not registered to check their status with their registrars and if not registered to do so Wednesday. (Continued on p. 11)

N-ship returns

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan's nuclear ship Mutsu returned to its port in northern Japan today after local fishermen and the government reached a $4 million settlement.

The Mutsu left on its maiden voyage Aug. 26 from Mitsui port in Aomori province. For nearly two months local fishermen kept the 8,214-ton vessel from returning to its home port when the vessel developed a leak in the nuclear reactor.

Goodwin said, but, "then the federal government allowed imports to drive the price down again."

Curtis predicted if 20 percent of the nation's milk production were funded through the Federal national system, the price of milk could be driven up to about $0.10 per poundweight.

Goodwin also reported the recent drive by the NFO to collect $10 million in back dues has been successful in forestalling action by the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission to place the farmers' organization in receivership.

According to Goodwin, $5.5 million has been collected to date.

Idaho car-bus crash kills 2 women

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A bus-car collision east of Idaho Falls killed two women and injured eight children and a bus driver.

Idaho police identified the dead women as Eunice F. Cummings, 76, and Phyllis Cloud, 52, both of Idaho Falls. Corner Vern Rydalsch said the women were mother and daughter.

Lisa Thompson, 14, of Idaho Falls, suffered a leg injury in the accident and was reported in good condition Monday night at Idaho Falls Community Hospital.

Seven other children and the bus driver, Herman Schreuder, were treated for injuries and released from the hospital.

Israeli troops hunt infiltrators

TEL AVIV (Chicago Daily News) — Israeli troops, aided by helicopters and spool planes, were combing the wooded hills and rocky ravines of Galilee today in a hunt for an Arab terrorist band suspected of having infiltrated from Lebanon.

Military sources say the infiltrators, estimated at between six and eight men, cut their way through the security fence separating Israel and Lebanon early Saturday.

Mr. T-N At least Heidi is better looking than Evel. Hatchet job LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Former U.S. Supreme Court Justice, Arthur Goldberg Monday called a book published about him four years ago "a hatchet job."

Pupils kept home in Louisiana town

DESTREHAN, La. (UPI) — Many parents kept their younger children out of school for the second straight day today. But no violence was reported and school officials worked to soothe wounds left by last week's fatal shooting at racially tense Destrehan High School.

Every public school in the eastern section of St. Charles Parish was closed for four days after the shooting, and only about half the students attended classes Monday when some of the elementary and middle schools reopened.

House upholds Ford's aid veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today voted to uphold President Ford's veto of legislation requiring an immediate cutoff of military aid to Turkey.

The House failed to override the two-thirds majority of those voting needed to override the presidential veto. Only one chamber of Congress needs to vote to sustain a presidential veto.

The House vote meant that the continuing resolution on funding a number of government agencies — to which the aid cutoff provision was attached — was dead.

SHOWING DRAWING of rocket powered motorcycle she says she'll use to jump the Snake River canyon next year is Heidi Scherzinger, 18.

She was offered the chance to jump the canyon, she said, by promoter Tim Shields, who called Evel Knievel's attempt Sept. 8 "a rip off."

Miss Scherzinger, who worked three weeks as a go go dancer, hopes to give America's "fan honest jump." Shields hopes to make money. (UPI)

Mishap kills Burley woman

BURLEY — Mrs. Lucille Blauer, 68, Burley, mother of the Cassia County School superintendent, died Monday following a car-pedestrian accident here.

Mrs. Blauer was in the crosswalk at the intersection of 13th Street and Overland Avenue, Monday morning when she was struck by a pickup driven by Willard Yates, 66, Malta. She was taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital, where she died.

Police said Mrs. Blauer was crossing 13th Street, walking with the light and was on the east side of 13th Street when Yates turned off Overland, east onto 13th. Yates said the sun was in his eyes and he couldn't see her. He reportedly stopped immediately.

Mrs. Blauer is the mother of Cassia County School Supt. Harold Blauer. Two other sons, Cecil and Willis Blauer, also reside in Burley. Mrs. Blauer's husband died last year.

According to Burley Police Department officers, the accident was being investigated. No citations have been issued.

Mishap kills Burley woman

In a second serious Burley accident, Charlie Clark, 26, Rupert, was injured when the motorcycle he was driving was struck by a 10-wheel potato truck driven by Janet Clark, 43, Burley, at 8 p.m. Monday in the intersection of Overland and Main.

Clark was reported in satisfactory condition this morning in the intensive care unit at Cassia Memorial Hospital. Hospital officials said the extent of his injuries is still unknown and he is still under observation.

Mrs. Clark said she was turning left off Overland and waited until the light was red, then turned. The motorcycle was crossing the intersection on Overland. As the truck turned, the motorcycle collided with its front bumper. Clark and the motorcycle were thrown beneath a car parked on Main Street.

The accident was being investigated by Burley Police. No citations have been issued.

Magic Valley farmers air marketing grievances

DAVID BOCKMAN Times-News writer BURLEY — About 90 farmers from throughout Magic Valley gathered here Monday to air their collective grievances.

The meeting, billed as a strategy session by the National Farmers Organization (NFO), was one of 160 held throughout the nation Monday.

The 90 farmers heard a tape recording of Oregon Lee Staley, national NFO president, explaining that "farmers have never been in such precarious place."

According to Staley, the price of milk and livestock at the producer's level has declined 30 per cent recently. Staley said unorganized farmers are helpless in controlling farm prices. He said every other segment of the economy is organized.

So related story, p. 6 "It is just as fair for farmers to use their collective strength as it for business and labor. Staley said. Staley said if farmers would join NFO's nationwide collection, dispatch and delivery system, they could break the hold of the four or five large processors that now set prices for each farm commodity.

Staley concluded that under the present system, there is no competition. According to Steve Goodwin, Hazelton, a special commodities representative for the NFO, and NFO nationwide system collects, dispatches and delivers members' products, hundreds of miles if necessary to get the fairest return and to put upward pressure on weak markets. Goodwin said if the NFO gets 30 per cent of farm production into the nationwide system, farmers would have the strength to conduct successful holding actions designed to force prices higher. "More important" he said, "we could avoid the need for holding actions." Whether it's holding actions or just bargaining, Goodwin said the key is to organize.

"As individuals, you have no bargaining power," he told the farmers. "No matter how big you are, when you go to market, you are just an individual and individuals have no power in the marketplace. Together is the only way we can demand adequate prices," he said.

Another NFO member, Rich Curtis, Gooding, agreed that the NFO's national marketing system could help farmers. He said by moving milk to "hot" markets in 1974 to 1975 the organization had successfully driven the price of milk at the producers' level from $4.30 to $8.50 a hundredweight. Goodwin said, but, "then the federal government allowed imports to drive the price down again."

Curtis predicted if 20 percent of the nation's milk production were funded through the Federal national system, the price of milk could be driven up to about $0.10 per poundweight.

Goodwin also reported the recent drive by the NFO to collect $10 million in back dues has been successful in forestalling action by the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission to place the farmers' organization in receivership.

According to Goodwin, $5.5 million has been collected to date.

Alien aircraft snooping around Texas lights

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The UFOs are back!
A colorful circle of lights in the remote Texas hill country is said to be attracting alien aircraft that travel at 10,000 miles an hour, and a research group studying UFOs has released a photograph purporting to prove it.

Members of "Project Starlight International" say the photograph was taken the night of Oct. 2, and shows a brilliantly lit, unidentified flying object traveling more than 10,000 m.p.h. about 100 miles above Earth.

They report that the craft made two sharp turns within 2 to 3 seconds — maneuvers that would require a maneuvering speed of more than 10,000 miles an hour. Two right angle turns were made in two to four seconds, according to Ray Stanford, Project Starlight International. (UPI)

The picture shows a trail of light along a wavy line moving east to west with a sharp left and a sharp right turn in the center. Stanford said the UFO shut down its lights before the camera's shutter closed.

"This is a typical maneuver for UFOs," Stanford said. "We believe UFOs have some control over gravity and inertia."

Stanford's group constructed a circle of about 100 lights in the seven colors of the spectrum during a number of reported UFO sightings in the fall of 1973.

In the center of the display west of Austin is a spotlight which blinks "dot-dot-dot-dash," the numerical equivalent of the Greek letter pi, which they believe some intelligent creature might identify.

He said on Oct. 22, 1973, his crew of observers spotted two lights in the sky where stars were not supposed to be.

"They were aimed shaped white objects. The four of us aimed our camera lenses at them and they turned down their lights just like a rheostat. Then they disappeared."

"Within four minutes two Phantom jets from Bergstrom Air Force Base came zooming in closer to our site than they ever had come before. They were followed by a prop plane. It's quite possible they sighted the same things we did."

Stanford says he has seen dozens of UFOs since he began his research project in Arizona in 1964. He said most sightings can be explained. It's the others that interest him.

"I cannot rest at ease until this thing is solved," he said. "We are interested in collecting UFO stuff, but scientific data and we are attempting to see if a UFO will respond to intelligent signals."

The Air Force, which is the U.S. government's official investigatory agency for UFO's, doesn't take data from civilians. Stanford said, so his information is shared with other UFO research groups in California, Arizona, Illinois and Maryland.

He said he believes creatures that pilot UFO's aren't necessarily super-intelligent and haven't developed means of flight incomprehensible to man.

"They don't have to be any more intelligent than we are, just about 10 years ahead of us. This kind of work is going on in highly secret projects today and we probably have something like this in 10 to 15 years," he said.

Abrams honor due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army will name its next main battle tank in honor of the late Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who led the tank unit that smashed German lines during the Battle of the Bulge. Army Secretary Howard Callaway said.

Abrams, former Army Chief of Staff, died following a cancer operation Sept. 4. He was 59. No date has been set for the start of production on the new Abrams tank.

Abrams made his name as a tank commander in World War II, heading the lead battalion of Gen. George S. Patton's famed Third Army in the breakout from Normandy.

Lasky not aware of Rocky's money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Victor Lasky, who wrote a controversial biography of Arthur Goldberg that may hinder Nelson A. Rockefeller's vice presidential confirmation, said today he was "totally unaware" that the book was financed by Rockefeller's brother.

Lasky, who has also written books on the Kennedys and Richard M. Nixon, also said that Nelson Rockefeller "panicked a little" when he accepted full responsibility for the book and apologized to Goldberg.

"I'm the one who is responsible for this book, not Rockefeller," Lasky said. "I wrote it. Rockefeller had nothing to do with this book as far as I'm concerned."

"He didn't write it, he didn't make any suggestions to me, he didn't censor it. I wrote it and I'm responsible for the book and I take full credit or discredit."

Goldberg, who Rockefeller recently defeated for the governorship of New York in 1970, has said the book was a "hatchet job." Laurence Rockefeller, Nelson's brother and chairman of the board of the Chase Manhattan Bank, said he invested $60,000 in the book.

On Monday, Goldberg asked the Senate Rules Committee and the House Judiciary Committee to reopen hearings on Rockefeller's nomination.

Tina 'distraught'

PARIS (UPI) — Tina Niarchos was distraught shortly before her death Thursday because her daughter, Christina Onassis, tried to commit suicide in London in August, a spokesman for Greek shipping tycoon Stavros Niarchos said today.

The family statement denied reports in London and New York newspapers that Mrs. Niarchos herself had tried to take her own life in London.

"Mrs. Niarchos was in London from Aug. 17 to 24th. She rushed there because her daughter Christina Onassis had tried to commit suicide by a massive dose of sleeping pills, and was in the hospital from August 16 to 24th under the assumed name of Miss C. Dapal."

"As soon as her daughter was pronounced out of danger, Mrs. Niarchos returned to the south of France, greatly upset morally and physically by the incident, coming as it did after the death of her son Alexander. Ever since her arrival in Paris Sept. 21, Mrs. Niarchos had undergone many medical examinations and the doctors treating her saw her continuously."

Christina Onassis who asked the Paris city prosecutor to conduct an autopsy on the body of her mother. The coroner's report said Mrs. Niarchos died of edema, or lung congestion, and only tests of her organs will show whether she had taken an overdose of drugs.

Turks hint US ouster

ISTANBUL, Turkey (UPI) — Turkey may ask the United States to dismantle its military bases in this country if Congress insists on cutting off military aid to Turkey, the newspaper Hurriyet said today, quoting a government source.

Coming on the heels of Greece's withdrawal from the military arm of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, such action would leave the United States without any bases in the strategic eastern Mediterranean.

"If Turkey decides to review the status of military bases in Turkey, the United States and NATO would be the real losers," Hurriyet quoted its source as saying.

The United States has three major air bases at Adana, Diyarbakir and Karamursel and a score of smaller installations including radar stations during the Black Sea conflict in opposition to the Soviet Union.

Campaign trail traffic heavy

By United Press International
The need for equalizing educational opportunities, proposed Sunshine initiative provisions and responsible development of Idaho resources occupied political candidates on the campaign trail Monday.

Vernon Ravenscroft, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, said responsible development of resources provides the tax base that keeps Idaho and her schools financially healthy.

He said with proper use, the natural resources can be maintained forever.

Democratic lieutenant governor candidate John Evans told a Caldwell gathering food processing is a vital part of Idaho's agriculture.

In Emmett, Republican Ezra Moore said the difference in starting salaries for Idaho teachers is an example of the need for equalization of educational opportunity in the state.

A candidate for state public instruction superintendent Moore said Idaho government is charged with providing every pupil a uniform opportunity for quality education.

"We're not doing that, and the only way we can is to guarantee adequate funding from the state level to make up the difference between the wealthy districts and those that aren't so well off," he said.

At the "Steve Harnsorn for Congress rally in Salt Lake City, Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, urged Utah Republicans to show their faith in the nation and reverse the trend of low voter turnout set in the primary.

Atty. Gen. Tony Park said in Emmett President Ford's pardon of Richard Nixon has little to restore to the American people's faith in their public officials.

"The scars of the Watergate scandal are still very much evident as I talk to people around Idaho," Park said. "The citizens trust in government has been damaged, and it is now the responsibility of every figure to do everything possible to rebuild that faith."

Both Park and Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, spoke in favor of the Sunshine initiative. Church said a law requiring disclosure of campaign financing would put a stop to "such anomalies as that in Idaho in this election, in which I have disclosed everything while my opponent has refused to make any disclosure of his personal finances until after the election is over."

Wayne Kidwell a Republican candidate for attorney general, told a Mountain Home audience the only way to slow down the state's expanding hard narcotics problem would be by working closely with drug enforcement units in nearby states.

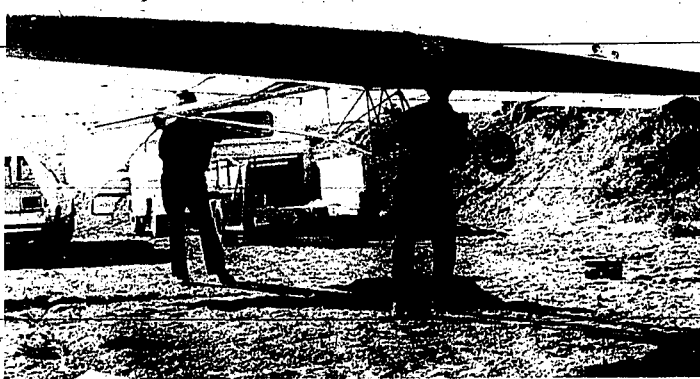

Kidwell said the effort must be on preventive measures and on cutting off the source of the narcotics.

Bob Gillespie, American Party candidate Leon Olson said his opponents were party to legislation that caused closure of mines "to protect us from lead poisoning."

"I was in which form of lead poisoning is more tolerable," Olson asked, "from pollution, from the muzzle of a totalitarian regime bent upon our destruction or from the muzzle of a gun brandished by criminals."

"In a guise of protecting our health, mines are being closed and many mining methods are being abandoned. I was in which form of lead poisoning is more tolerable," Olson asked, "from pollution, from the muzzle of a totalitarian regime bent upon our destruction or from the muzzle of a gun brandished by criminals."

"Without bullets, we will have nothing to shoot in the name of God for hunting and, if the need arises, to protect our homes."

2 MV men try out home-built hang glider 2 MV men fly home-built glider

TWIN FALLS — Two local men tried out their wings Sunday, and their fledgling flights took them soaring for 50 to 75 feet.

Bob Gillespie of Twin Falls and Morry Sattgast of Buhl were trying out their home-built hang glider at the hills near the Snake River and the Hagerman motorcycle climbs.

For these first flights, they chose a low hill and glided only 4 to 5 feet off the ground, traveling 50 to 75 feet, "under complete control," Gillespie said.

The glider, a "highly sophisticated hang glider," is designed by Valmer Jensen of California. Gillespie says they have the first of its kind in Idaho.

The glider has a 33-foot wing span, weighs approximately 100 pounds, and boasts a 9-1 glide ratio. Gillespie, Sattgast and Jack Donner worked together to construct the plane.

The men paid $395 for the kit, which included only instructions and rough lumber. Then, they spent hours cutting the lumber to length, tapering it and shaping it into the glider. Glide silk covers the red, white and yellow construction.

The glider, which is launched by taking four or five steps down and off a hillside, is capable of sustained flight, Gillespie said. For short flights, the pilot hangs from his armpits; on longer flights, a strap swing-seat supports the men. The glider has ailerons, rudders and elevators to guide and control the flights.

Gillespie said the project was designed to "get us off the ground." Both Sattgast and Gillespie are longtime members of the Magic Valley Aeromodellers Club with years of experience flying radio controlled model planes.

Next week, the men hope to fly higher, and plan to choose a steeper launching hill. And then the next week, they'll go higher...

Double trouble

TWIN FALLS — It's enough to make you want to give up drinking.

A Twin Falls woman was attempting to make a purchase at the state liquor store last Thursday. As she pulled into the store's parking lot through heavy traffic on Filer Avenue East, she turned in the path of an oncoming vehicle.

Her car was damaged and she received a traffic citation. In all of the confusion and embarrassment of the accident, she gave up making the purchase and went home.

The next day, she decided to go to the downtown liquor store and make the purchase. While in the store she heard a crash, looked out and saw her car rocking back and forth. Sure enough, a young motorist had come out of a parking lot and struck it in an attempt to turn into the street. The same fender but a little bigger dent.

For two days in a row she had to go to the police station to get a wreck report to send to Boise. When she asked for the report, the officer on duty informed her she didn't have a wreck Friday, it was Thursday. She had to tell him she had one Thursday and another one Friday.

The insurance representative also had some comment to make about "women drivers."

Racial fights cause closure

BOSTON (UPI) — Racial fights broke out among black and white children in the hallways of troubled Hyde Park High School today. At least four students were injured, including two whites who were stabbed.

Some children were carried out of the school on stretchers. One of those stabbed was a 15-year-old white boy, officials said. The injured were taken to Carney and Faulkner hospitals.

The outbreak caused the school to close early. Buses were sent to take the black students home.

The City Hall Information Center said the school was "in an uproar" with "general confusion and some white parents taking their children out" right after the fights were reported.

There was a report of some minor stoning about two blocks from the school. Ambulances and hundreds of police, including the tough Tactical Force, were rushed to the school on the 23rd day of a court ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools.

Release delayed

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Doctors at University Hospital today told Mrs. Karen Rohrer, mother of seven-day old quintuplets, she must remain hospitalized for at least two more days because of a slight fever.

Mrs. Rohrer said she was "feeling fine" despite the fever, which doctors said may be due to a minor infection from her Caesarian section Oct. 8.

Doctors had thought she might be released to return home today and Mrs. Rohrer had said earlier she was looking forward to caring for the four girls and one boy at home as soon as possible. She said the shock of having five children at once was "kind of sinking in."

Deductions high, tax experts say

(c) New York Times Service
NEW YORK — Some tax experts who have reviewed the financial information that were provided by Nelson A. Rockefeller to Congress and subsequently released to the public say they believe the vice president-designate's deductions for business and office expenses were exceptionally large.

The experts pointed out that in 1969, 1970 and 1971, Rockefeller apparently deducted more for such expenses than he earned from his various income-producing investments, enterprises and properties, excluding his trusts, which they said appeared to be administered and paid for separately.

In addition, the experts pointed out, in the last 10 years Rockefeller has reported $46.9-million in income that was subject to federal income tax; but during the same period he had claimed deductions of $30.1-million, mostly for charitable contributions and business and office expenses, leaving a taxable income of $16.7-million.

"The business and office expenses seem inordinately high," said Abraham J. Briloff, a professor at Baruch College who is a widely recognized tax authority.

A spokesman for Rockefeller declined to comment on a series of questions by the New York Times about the vice president-designate's business and office deductions, or about other matters relating to his tax returns. He gave as a reason the current analysis by Congress and the Internal Revenue Service of some of Mr. Rockefeller's tax returns. Rockefeller who has been a tax expert suggested that there was any evidence that Rockefeller had violated the law in claiming such large deductions. Neither Briloff nor other tax experts said they were eager to see detailed descriptions of what they said appeared to be extraordinarily large deductions related to a relatively minor amount of income.

They also said that the limited amount of data released to the public so far made it impossible for them to conduct a definitive examination of analysis.

Briloff noted that Rockefeller's personal deductions for "office, investment and other expenses" ran from 1969 through 1973 $6.4-million, while his income for the same period, excluding trust income, was $8.5-million. The trusts produced $38.5-million in income during the same period.

"The numbers look very much out of line," said Sheldon S. Cohen, a former commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, who is now a Washington tax attorney.

"In 1973 you've got over $300,000 in expenses against $4.8-million in income. But most of that income was provided by trusts, which he (Rockefeller) has nothing to do with."

Some experts also questioned whether some of the expenses money might have been used for political purposes or to support Rockefeller's activities as governor of New York.

Exchange of POWs to resume Friday

Dispatch of the Times, London
NICOSIA, Cyprus — Greek and Turkish Cypriote leaders agreed Monday to resume the interrupted exchange of prisoners of war and detainees next Friday, following a three-week break.

The agreement was reached during the weekly meeting of acting President Glafkos Clerides and the Turkish Cypriote leader and vice president, Rauf Denktaş.

The exchange of POWs ended abruptly on Sept. 26 after the release of 5,246 prisoners. A total of 5,246 prisoners (2,169 Greek and 3,129 Turkish Cypriotes) were held at the end of the fighting. Denktaş told newsmen the interruption was due to technical difficulties connected with the return to the island of Greek Cypriote POWs held in camps on the Turkish mainland.

A United Nations peace force spokesman said that during the meeting the leaders also made progress in arranging for the return to their homes of people stranded by the fighting in areas controlled by the other side.

Burglaries probed

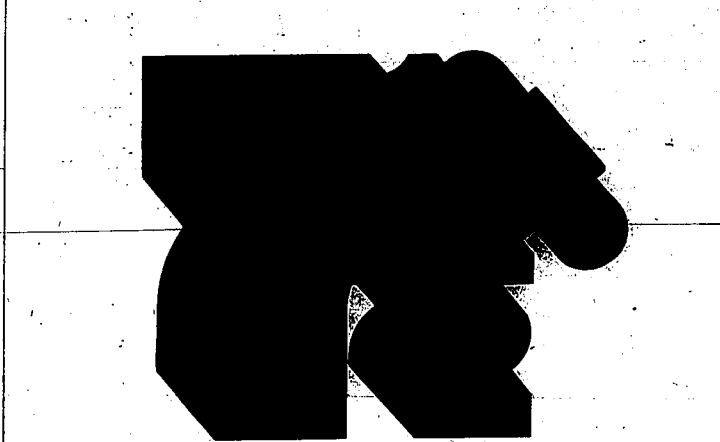

TWIN FALLS — Burglaries of the Drive-Way Market, McVey's International Harvesters Co. and Century Automotive were under investigation today by Twin Falls City police.

Officers said at McVey's, 361 3rd Ave. W., entry was gained by breaking through a window. A switch for the gasoline pumps was turned on and about $5.25 in gasoline taken. Damage to the building was estimated at $20.

Drive-way Market was entered by burglars who cut a hole in the roof and then dropped into the store below. About $100 in cash was taken along with a small amount of merchandise.

At Century Automotive, 261 W. Addison, a four barrel carburetor, a double pump and flame arrester, valued at about $125 were taken from a boat parked inside the business property.

Ex-pals in Congress worrying about Ford fancied themselves a kitchen cabinet-in-the-making, don't get the word any more. Prude and ego compel them to blame it on an "over-scheduling" and Ford's noted weakness for being unable to say no.

(c) Chicago Daily News WASHINGTON — The presidency is breaking up that old gang, Jerry Ford used to run with, and some of his erstwhile pals in the Congress have begun to fret a bit.

if Ford had called in the old bunch for advice. They recognize that Ford has taken on a load bigger than what he had to bear as a Congressman from Grand Rapids, but that's all the more reason why he ought to be leaning on them.

Law and Boston

Christian Science Monitor

President Ford's plea to end violence and respect the law in Boston ought to be heeded by all Americans. But his press conference statement gravely risked undercutting this plea when it placed the President on record as opposing the federal court order to achieve the school desegregation demanded by law.

For almost a decade Boston has failed to implement this law through redistricting and other means short of involuntary busing. This year, United States district judge Garrity found there had been willful segregation and ordered compliance with a state program, including busing, as a temporary solution until local developments.

But Boston is not the only American city struggling to bring itself in line with the law. And Mr. Ford's words were heard across the country.

Thus it is particularly regrettable that he should make a statement that can be seized on by those who are defying the law even though it called for respecting it. For, in an extraordinary departure from previous presidential practices, he spoke from the eminence of the White House in opposition to the judge's order for Boston desegregation. The President oversimplified the issue as one of "forced busing" not serving the cause of "quality education." Yet in Boston busing has been a last resort simply to comply with a long-floated law.

Instead of cooling the situation, and asserting moral leadership, as a president can be expected to do, Mr. Ford added to the controversy. His opposition to the court-ruling was immediately hailed by Bostonians who are resisting the law as a means of making it seem unworkable and overturning it — and lamented by those seeking to reduce racial stress and ensure order in the interests of obedience to the law.

One of Boston's black leaders went so far as to say the Ford statement was not surprising from one who "didn't respect the federal process when he pardoned Nixon." If Mr. Ford, or any president, is to avoid such reactions, he should be alert not only to back the law but to weigh the impact of his words on those who want to uphold it — or undermine it.

Energy-poor East

Wall Street Journal

Ever since the decline of the wood-burning stove, the Northeast has been a poor relation to the rest of the country when it comes to energy supplies. When New England Congressmen weren't complaining about actual shortages, they were trying to break the oil import monopoly, to get greater access to the European market. Now the Northeast is on the verge of becoming an oil-producing region, and the Yankees are still complaining.

According to geological and seismological evidence, potentially large reserves of oil might be found about 20 miles and more off the Atlantic coast, under the Georges Bank Trough running northeast from Cape Cod and the Baltimore Canyon Trough running south from Long Island.

Yet the region's vigorous conservation network is so opposed to the idea of off-shore drilling that the appearance of seismic testing vessels off Long Island was enough to send a shock of alarm through the Northeast. Local opposition two springs ago brought about a one-year delay in the first real exploratory test drilling along New England, and the region's politicians are now calling for a moratorium on off-shore leasing until comprehensive environmental impact statements have been compiled for each tract.

Now, obviously a number of issues must be settled before Atlantic development moves into full swing. Many of these issues are serious enough, such as preventing oil blow-outs or slow seepage, assuring fishermen that their catch won't be hurt, gauging the impact of onshore development on the local economy, tourism, and, of course, the natural balance.

Yet none of these questions should be impossible to resolve, provided good will prevails. The industry thinks it has the technology to avoid the problems making environmentalists nervous. Lockheed Corporation, for instance, has developed an underwater pumping system which eliminates the need for permanent platforms. And the oil companies have worked successfully in the marine environment for some time now.

Industry spokesmen are emphasizing that they have drilled over 18,000 off-shore wells with only four major oil spills such as the 1969 Santa Barbara Channel blowout.

The great danger is that good will won't prevail. The opposition already has the character of the debate on the Alaskan pipeline, which made some good points at first and then went on for three crucial years more than it should have. If the Northeast can produce its own oil, without spilling off its energy-rich relatives to the South, it's time it got on with the job.

Cyprus chickens home to roost: more trouble

WASHINGTON — The Greek government has quietly withdrawn some of its top military officers from North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) headquarters in Brussels, one more indication of how seriously the Karamanlis government views anti-American sentiment now sweeping Greece.

ticularly the U. S.; is absolutely essential for Greece in the long run, as a glance at the map shows. Greece is bordered by three Communist states to the north and by muscle-flexing Turkey to the east.

for fear that the anti-American currents now sweeping Greece would pull them under. A case in point was the absolutely futile effort by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to enlist Greek support against the then-pending Congressional ban on U. S. military assistance to Turkey.

men from NATO headquarters is the newest signal. Having heard American pledges that Turkey would give up some of its Cyprus conquest once talks started (pledges wholly unredemmed), the Greek government continues to advertise itself as anti-American.

EVANS AND NOVAK

Karamanlis and his foreign minister, George Myroslis, along with most other leading Greek politicians of the center and right, fully understand that. But they are unable to impede the move toward what looks like a form of neutrality

In short, the political imperatives in Athens on the eve of the parliamentary election far outweigh the long-range necessity of gradually restoring the Athens-Washington link.

As these Cyprus chickens come home to roost, the U. S. is an impotent bystander.

Compassion misplaced

WASHINGTON — Here in Hell City, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe was constrained to do something about the "furlough" program for prisoners, administered by the compassionate folks who run the District of Columbia's Department of Corrections.

Moreover, the rape of the 19-year-old occurred while Hunt was out on bond awaiting trial in the rape of the 17-year-old and an armed robbery. His record would seem to show that granting Hunt a furlough was like stashing a fox in a chicken coop.

ANDREW TULLY

Apparently, the Corrections Department is overflowing with mercy, although the two grand juries are looking into charges that prisoners bribed guards and others to get furloughs.

Leash law questioned

Editor, Times-News:
A situation arose the other day that I'm sure other parents have run across.
My little boy was walking home from school carrying his coat when a large dog ran across the road and attacked him. The dog took the coat from him after biting and scratching up my son's arm and neck. I went to get the coat but the dog would not let me get it.
I called the police and they sent the dog catcher. After the dog catcher took the dog, just for quarantine, I had to take my son to the doctor.
I then called the police to find out what could be done—I was told nothing except the people could be fined for not keeping the dog chained if we pressed charges. Nothing could be done to the dog itself.

This same dog has chased after other people in the neighborhood and has even chased after me when I have walked down the street.
I thought leash laws were to protect people but apparently not.
My point is that according to the answers we got everyone can let a vicious dog run loose and bite and maybe kill a child and not worry about anything unless someone can afford the time and money to go through court and see the owner get a small fine.

Cross had special meaning

Editor, Times-News:
Our father died, fighting for his country. There was no body of our loved one to bury, and no stone to be placed with his epitaph upon it.
Those who thought of him in a special way named a hotel dining room for him. Later a marble stone was placed in Sunrise Park — his and hundreds of names were carved upon it.
And there was the white cross that stood erect near Shoshone Falls. To his family and friends this cross was a remembrance of a man's very life. He stood at the base of this cross on many Easter mornings at sunrise and spoke of God's love. He believed in God, Mr. Barctas, as we do.
The hotel was pulled to the ground, as a death trap. And he would have wanted it so. The marble stone was pulled down to dust; because it was cracked. In its place was built an advertisement to the epitaph to these same lives.

None the white cross! It too is to be destroyed as an outrage. We have 14 grandchildren who will never see their grandfather. They need not a dining room, nor a stone with his name carved upon it. Nor do they need the white cross to remember him by; he was greater than these. We will tell them about him.
But what a loving epitaph to a man; to have these children see a cross on a simple road and remember, first their God and then their grandfather and get a lump in their throat.
Others have stood by this white cross and spoken of God. These should want it to stand too! God will bless the churches or persons who will put it back.
Our love to you, Father.

'Space debris' observed?

Editor, Times-News:
In re: "Odd object" published Oct. 9. Perhaps the gentlemen would accept as a plausible answer to the mystery: as a re-entry of "space debris." I have seen this happen twice while living in Ventura County, Calif., and it is quite a sight to behold. It is startling, beautiful and silent as you see it entering the earth's atmosphere. It can only be seen on a clear night.
There is or was an agency that keeps track of all man-made space junk and who it belongs to. In my sightings, one beautiful show was caused by debris of a Soviet launch of sometime earlier, and the second about a week later was some "junk" from an United States launching.

Also, something really beautiful to see are the space-launchings from Vandenberg Air-Force Base.

Individual directs course of own soul

Editor, Times-News:
I am writing concerning the letters you have received about "The Cross." I applauded Mr. Hoppe's letter and wanted him to know that there are many, many more people who have finally seen things as clearly as he has.
I do not belong to any one religion but consider myself a true Christian. And I abhor the idea that people are gullible enough to believe that old line most certainly delivered by Lucifer, i.e. "He died for our sins on the cross so let's reverse and remember the bloody thing." Obviously, I'm paraphrasing, but the meaning is about the same. I don't know of any other idea that has hindered the progress of mankind as much as this one. A true victory for Lucifer.
I truly believe that everyone writes their own ticket in life and everything they do comes back to them in exact measure. To me there is no way in God's world that we can lay our sins on anyone else but ourselves. How great it would have been to have that beautiful man around for another 50 years. Instead He was betrayed — He knew it — and I wonder, being the Great person, He was, if

He didn't say to himself, "well, the damage is done, maybe I'll make the cause of this philosophy of love and brotherhood will stick to the ribs of Man for a long time to come." Maybe if He hadn't died in this way He wouldn't have been remembered very long. Maybe that's the real reason He died and not God's will at all.
Somewhere it says that it is not God's will that any should perish. I should think that would apply to Christ also. So, He martyred His cause and we certainly remember Him. Only I choose to remember the great things He did and stood for. I abhor the way He died and that Judas valued money more than a man's life. . . . any man's life.
I feel Christ is a very real friend of mine. He's gotten me out of more jams than I can count and I've made one promise to Him — I've offered Him the peace sign — the broken cross — and I've promised Him that I will be among those many thousands that will break any cross they try to put Him on when He comes around again.
I would rather see Him on top of Churches clustered with Children because there is our real hope. And I'll feel lucky if I can say at the end of this life that I at least tried my best to live as parallel to Christ's life as possible. Oh . . . the mistakes I've made so far . . . say . . . wouldn't it be great if we had more than one life to make up for our mistakes?

One question before I close . . . no two . . . To those who are upset about this letter and I suspect there will be one or two: If you had been there when He was crucified, would you have tried to help Him? Or would you have said, "It's fate — he's dying for my sins?" If it was God's will then why did Jesus say on the cross, "Woe unto you and your children's children . . ." surely God wouldn't punish those who strung him up and their children's children if all of this farce was His will?
Hope . . . anyway you look at it, it's a cop-out to believe hedged for our sins. Like it or not, you are the captain of your own soul and you direct its course. Make enough waves and you'll sink your own ship.

Shoe Sole Ranch still here

Editor, Times-News
Hurray! Hurray! Last year I wrote a letter about the big Diamondfield Jack Ride and then I chickened out and kept quiet.
First of all, there is still a Shoe Sole Ranch on the old Rock Creek Road, alive and kicking. Surely the ride organizers are aware of this. It is not up the canyon at Crockett Meadows or wherever they start.
All the hullabaloo over the duplication of the ride by the fast ride cowboys of 1974 didn't ring true to the stories I had heard about the old Shoe Sole and Diamondfield Jack. It just sounded like a lot of wild west talk that the horse's set dreamed up with little authenticity, but if it gave them a feeling of week end rough and readiness, so what.

However, if it is to be an annual event and people come from out of state to participate, that is another story. I feel as Mr. Sanger did, let's get the story straight and do it as history recalls. Thanks, Mr. S. I'm glad your fire got lighted and you did something about it. It really irritated me, using all the old names and history and doing something else.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Medical checkup required

Dear Dr. Thoreson: We women are told by doctors to self-examine our breasts for any lumps or changes and report to the doctor, in case it might be cancer.
I am 50. My uterus was removed at age 43, and I have been taking hormone shots for a year and a half.
For the past month when I press the nipple of my breast I have noticed that a couple of tiny openings in the left breast emit a drop of blood every time I press, as well as a drop or two of yellowish discharge from different openings in the same breast. The right breast emits a bit of yellowish discharge when pressed but no blood.
I called my gynecologist and he told me it was a varicose vein and not to press the nipple. I have never heard of this. Is it common? I have noticed this breast being a little more sensitive than the right one.
My doctor has not examined my breasts for about eight years. I am concerned. — R.G.
"You should be concerned but not alarmed. Fairly often a secretion can be expressed from the nipple in women who have borne children, and also those taking hormones.
Non-cancerous changes in the milk ducts can cause varicose discharges, although secretions that have to be pressed out are not likely to be due to malignancy. But since a bloody discharge can be a sign of cancer, it is imperative that you be examined and not rely on a phone call.
You say your breasts have not been examined for eight years. I'd say that you should make an appointment for an examination — not ask for a remote-control opinion.
Vital part of the examination should be a Pap test on the secretions.
While self-examination to detect lumps or other signs is important, it need be done no more than once a month.

UN gives Palestinian agency voice in debate

(C) New York Times Service
 UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United Nations General Assembly Monday overwhelmingly backed an effort to give a voice in its plenary meetings to the Palestine Liberation Organization, the main coordinating organization of guerrilla groups.

The roll call vote was 105 to 4, with 29 abstentions. Even before the result was announced, the applause in the assembly hall.

The dissenting votes were cast by Bolivia, the Dominican Republic, Israel, and the United States.

In a four-hour debate preceding the vote, the Israeli delegate had expressed the government's bitter opposition to legitimizing the P.L.O. in one of the principal organs of the United Nations. Israel warned that this would encourage international terrorism.

The European Economic Community, which is engaged in a "Euro-Arab dialogue," was split in the poll. France, Ireland, and Italy backed the recognition of the Palestinian organization. Britain, Belgium, Denmark, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, and West Germany abstained. Also included among the countries that abstained from voting were Australia, Burma, Canada, Iceland, and various Latin American states.

The basis of the Assembly debate was a draft resolution that would invite "the Palestinian people, to participate in the deliberations of the General Assembly on the question of Palestine."

The assembly is scheduled to discuss the Palestine question next month. The timing is meant to allow the Arab heads of state to review their strategy at a meeting in Rabat, Morocco, beginning Oct. 25.

The impression prevails at United Nations headquarters that the status of the P.L.O. is a factor in the broader context of possible new talks between some Arab states and Israel.

The draft resolution to invite the Palestine Liberation Organization was sponsored by 71 states. Among them were all members of the 20-country Arab League except Jordan.

The P.L.O.'s claim to be the sole legitimate representative of close to 2-million Palestinians is challenged by King Hussein and the Jordanian government.

The non-Arab backers of the draft resolution included the Soviet Union, China, and other Communist nations, black African countries, and non-aligned states.

The request to seat representatives of the P.L.O. is an outgrowth from a decision on Sept. 22 to inscribe "the question of Palestine" as a separate item on the agenda of the current assembly session.

In earlier sessions, the plight of Palestinian refugees, and related matters, were regularly discussed during the annual assembly debate on the situation in the Middle East.

Participation in assembly debates of persons who do not represent a member state is without a precedent.

However, United Nations officials recall that Pope Paul VI addressed the General Assembly during his visit here on Oct. 4, 1966. The pontiff is head of a sovereign state, the state of Vatican City, but this international entity is not a member of the world organization. Besides, it may be argued that the Pope spoke as head of the Roman Catholic Church rather than as a chief of state.

Representatives of the P.L.O. have lately been admitted to meetings of various agencies that are affiliated with the world organization, like the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization. Palestinian delegates also attended United Nations-sponsored conferences on population questions in Bucharest, Rumania, and on the Law of the sea in Caracas, Venezuela, earlier this year.

Israel's permanent delegate, Yosef Tekoah, said the P.L.O. "represents only itself, namely the approximately 10,000 murderers trained and paid for the slaughter of innocent human beings."

Tekoah cautioned that recognition for the P.L.O. "creates an obstacle on the road to agreement between Israel and the Arab states," and was considered "arbitrary, illegal and not binding" by Israel.

NFO vows meat holdback to boost market prices

By United Press International
 The National Farmers' Organization has vowed to hold meat off the market if farmers can't get the prices they want for their livestock, said President Greer Staley Monday night called for a "get tough policy" to boost prices on cattle, hogs and dairy products.

Staley spoke at an NFO gathering at Fayette, Iowa, one of 160 such meetings held across the country Monday night to plan farmers' strategy for improving prices.

The meetings — the first such gatherings ever called by the huge national farm cooperative — were the first step in a coordinated program to boost prices.

Staley said the group "is anxious to fight," but that it must first initiate farmers' support for their program.

He said NFO members would be called together to determine the prices they must have for their products and that those prices would then be announced.

Staley said he would be advised to hold their production on the farms until their price demands are met, Staley said.

"It's time for farmers to price their products,"

Staley said. "It is just as patriotic for farmers to price their products as for manufacturers to price their lines of goods for labor unions to strike."

He said the mood of the Fayette meeting, which drew more than 300 persons from a 10-county area of northeastern Iowa, was one of "quiet determination."

In earlier sessions, the plight of Palestinian refugees, and related matters, were regularly discussed during the annual assembly debate on the situation in the Middle East.

Rich top country hand

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Charlie Rich, who struggled for 20 years in the country music field before reaching the top, was named the industry's "Entertainer of the Year" at the Grand Old Opry Monday night.

Rich, 41, known as "The Silver Fox" for his long grey hair, won "album of the year" for his "A Very Special Love Song," which included "The Most Beautiful Girl," and "I Love My Friend."

"I'm just so happy about winning entertainer of the year," Rich said. "It's something that always meant a lot to me."

In his acceptance speech, Rich, whose smash record "Behind Closed Doors," won him the top prize last year, read a poem by his wife.

"Whatever you are, whatever you do, if you have a dream going on to it," said Rich.

Songwriter Pee Wee King, who wrote the Tennessee Waltz, and performer-producer Owen Bradley were named to the Country Music Hall of Fame, the industry's highest honor.

Blind recording star Ronnie Milsap, a newcomer in country music, whose hits included "The Girl Who Wrote on Talcum," "Pure Love," and "Please Don't Tell Me How the Story Ends," received the male vocalist of the year award, and Australian-born Olivia Newton-John was named female vocalist of the year.

Miss Newton-John, who recorded "If You Love Me, Leave Me This Way," "I Honestly Love You," and "Let Me Be There."

Single of the year was "Country Bumpkin," sung by Cal Smith, a former member of the Texas Troubadours. The tale of a lanky cowboy and a waitress who won song of the year honors for writer Don Williams.

Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty were named vocal duo of the year for their recording of "As Soon as I Hang Up the Phone."

Other winners were the Statler Brothers, vocal group of the year; whose big hit was "Thank You World;" Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass, "instrumental group of the year; and the late Don Byrd, "instrumentalist of the year."

Mini-sub, crew rescued

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI) — The ship radar spluttered early in the afternoon and the words came in tensely: "We are trapped. We need help."

For six hours Monday, two American sailors huddled in a disabled yellow midget submarine some 275 feet below the surface of the North Sea just off the Scottish coast.

The 21 could, a 20-foot, ton vessel, refused to budge from the floor of the sea after a cable twisted around its propeller.

The two-man American crew, Gilbert Blevins, 25, of Oklahoma, and Leslie Lynch, 28, of Louisiana, tried for 20 minutes to maneuver the ship out of the entangling cable without success.

"We need help," they radioed the mother ship, William Dampier.

The sub was working on a pipeline intended to carry oil ashore from the underwater fields 130 miles off Scotland's east coast when the half-inch plastic line fouled its propeller at 12:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the sub's operators, Taylor Diving and Salvage Co. of Belle Chasse, La., said the boat carried about 44 hours of oxygen.

He said the company's own support ship was standing by and a sister vessel was moving in to help.

The Royal Navy dispatched the HMS Reclaim, a deepwater diving support vessel to the scene.

Shortly after 7 p.m., two divers from the pipe laying barge Challenger descended in a diving bell and cut through the line fouling the propeller.

Its line free, TSI rose to the surface on its own power six hours after the ordeal began, and Blevins and Lynch went aboard the William Dampier for a rest.

"It's a happy ending," a spokesman said.

Church eases abort stand

DETROIT (UPI) — American Lutheran Church delegates Monday night softened the 2.5 million-member church's anti-abortion stand by approving a resolution stating that abortion is necessary in some cases.

Christians have "a responsibility to make the best possible decision" in considering the terminating a pregnancy "based on the situation and accountability for God, self and neighbor," the convention said in a resolution approved on a vote of 509-29.

The resolution, however, reaffirmed the unborn child's right to life.

The previous church position permitted abortions only when the health of the mother was endangered. In 1966 and 1970, the church had issued statements saying, "There are times and circumstances when interruption of the pregnancy is necessary for therapeutic reasons."

Monday night's resolution rejected induced abortion as a ready solution for problem pregnancies, but allowed church members "the judgment that all pertinent factors of responsibility con-

Nixon archive trade pushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration is pressuring the General Services Administration to trade $27 million in usable government property for a huge, unused building so the former president could keep his records near his home in San Clemente, Calif., the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said the building, a seven-story pyramid-shaped structure one quarter the size of the Pentagon, was acquired from Rockwell International Corp., within the last two years for some $20 million worth of Air Force property.

The building, located in Laguna Niguel — a small town 10 miles from Nixon's estate in San Clemente — cost $27 million in contract but was appraised for $20 million in 1972.

According to the Post, the GSA said the purpose of the trade was to get a place to house federal offices and records in Southern California — but, the paper said, the building has never been occupied and is still empty except for office furniture.

The Post said the deal actually cost taxpayers close to $18 million because some of land the government traded away is now needed.

Richard D. Hanzik, a former White House aide, told the paper he made calls on behalf of the transaction in 1971 while he was an assistant to former presidential counselor Robert H. Finch.

"They (GSA) wanted a building near San Clemente," Hanzik said. "The memos won't say it would be for the Western White House, but they would say 'locally.'"

Bomb sears school

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A firebomb was thrown through a window into an empty grade school classroom Monday, shattering an uneasy calm that prevailed for several days in the dispute over school books here.

The floor of the classroom and tops of several desks were scorched by the gasoline-filled jar, school officials said.

Damage to the 140-seat Elementary School was termed minimal by the Kanawha County Sheriff's Department.

Picketing went on at various school installations and an around-the-clock vigil was continued outside the Kanawha County Jail where the rev.

Campaign cleaner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An official of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee says the Watergate spy has resulted in cleaner campaigns this year.

The committee, a private organization formed in 1954, said Monday that complaints about dirty politics were down about 50 per cent.

It received 23 complaints up to the last three weeks of the 1972 campaign, but only 11 complaints were made in the same period of '74.

"I know that candidates are running cleaner campaigns because they realize voters will react against anything that smells of Watergate smear tactics," said committee chairman Charles P. Tate.

But, he went on, "We can't just sit back and relax... in past years complaints of dirty politics have peaked in the few days before the election."

Austerity plan drawn

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his cabinet began drafting a program today for rescuing hard pressed industry and heading off the specter of mass unemployment in what he termed Britain's gravest economic crisis since World War II.

It was the first cabinet meeting since Wilson's Labor party won a narrow three-seat parliamentary majority in Thursday's general election.

ONEONTA, N.Y. (UPI) — Steven Talevi, 17, has claimed a world's crawling record.

Talevi crawled around a soccer field in Oneonta, N.Y., Sunday, covering a total of 5.73 miles. He said that breaks the former mark of 5.71 miles set earlier this summer by a crawler in the community of Horseheads.

Talevi said that in addition to winning a total of $55 bet by friends, he is now trying to get in touch with the Guinness Book of World Records to see if he qualifies for mention.

The current edition of the book says the hands-and-knees crawling record is held by a man who crawled 5.33 miles in Spain in 1972.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating this real neat guy who keeps telling me that I don't have to worry about his getting me pregnant because he was injured while playing football. Should I believe him?

DEAR NANCY: No. It sounds to me like he's trying to complete a pass. Kick him in the end zone.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the man who was married for 45 years and wanted his wife to give him one weekend off from his marriage every month: How I wish I were married to him. That's exactly what I want. I suggested it to my husband once, and he hit the ceiling. Everyone but my wife gets a vacation—I mean a chance to really get away from the same old routine. Why does marriage have to be a prison?

He's out of bounds

I wish I were younger. I'm 56—too old to start over, or to go it alone. Besides, I have no special training, so I guess I'll just have to go on as I have—even though my husband and I have little in common except our children.

So in order to be supported, and keep the high regard of our children (now married), I'll continue to allow my husband the intimacies I no longer enjoy. Talk about prostitution!

I honestly think that with all the change, taking place today women will eventually get a break, and have the sexual freedom men have. It's too late for me, but not for my daughters.

You can't help me, Abby. Nobody can. But it would be interesting to know if I'm all alone in my outlook. Or are there other women who feel this way?

BORN TOO SOON

DEAR BORN: I'm sure you're not alone. I hear from thousands of women your age who feel trapped in dull, tired marriages, but they ask how to improve those marriages. You didn't ask, so I'll not offer any advice. I can tell you, though, that the answer is not in the "sexual freedom" you wish you had.

DEAR ABBY: My formerly favorite nephew who lives in another state was married last June. I sent him a generous check for a wedding gift. I heard nothing from him, but noticed that when the bank sent my cancelled checks, the above-mentioned check was among them.

Isn't it customary for people to write thank-you notes for checks?

I recall how I laughed when I read in your column that a bride and groom had received a check for a wedding gift, and on the back they endorsed it and scribbled, "Thanks."

Not a very proper thank-you, but I was more than I got.

TWIN FALLS — Dr. Bruce Buck will discuss "Psychological Aspects of the Patient After Major Surgery" in a meeting of First District Nurses Association members Thursday. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auditorium.

TF miss to begin new job

TWIN FALLS — Cathy Cover, daughter of Mrs. Ann Cover, will leave Oct. 31 to begin a two year assignment in Western Samoa with the U.S. Peace Corps.

A graduate of Whitman College with a B.S. degree in biology, Miss Cover will be teaching junior high school age Samoan children in general science.

Although she has no educational classes to her credit during her college training, she will be given a quick training course in teaching techniques of that country.

An 11-week training session in language and teaching techniques will prepare her for her new assignment. Miss Cover said in Samoa a strict disciplinary method is followed and even those with teaching experience must undergo the special training.

Teaching is in English but communication is in the native

Nixon's recuperation on schedule

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Nixon is recuperating on schedule, his doctor said Monday, with no signs of a flare-up of the phlebitis that is keeping him off the witness stand at the Watergate cover trial. The former president's "lower left leg is still swollen but non-tender," Dr. John Langren commented after an examination which he said took place this weekend at Sun Clermonte.

Rocky's apology not enough for Goldberg

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, saying Nelson Rockefeller's apology for a damaging campaign biography about him is not enough, has called for both men to appear before the Congressional committees considering Rockefeller's vice presidential nomination.

Goldberg, speaking to newsmen Monday, said he has told the chairman of both the House and Senate committees that "it is essential that further hearings be held on the nomination, in the public interest." He said he would accept their invitations to present his reaction to the disclosures.

"I am a victim of a scurrilous book," he said. "The book was a dirty business, everybody knows that. It was the same hatchet job that had been done on President (John F.) Kennedy and Sen. (Robert) Kennedy."

Rockefeller said he would accept "full responsibility" for the book. However, he said, "I have no evidence that the Rockefeller were in any way connected with it. I cannot in a million years conceive that Gov. Rockefeller would be a part of it."

"Need I remind you who last expressed himself in those terms?" Goldberg said, apparently referring to statements by Richard Nixon regarding his connection with the Watergate affair.

Panel sets probe

New York Times Service WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee plans to investigate whether there was any connection between a large Rockefeller family contribution to President Nixon's 1972 campaign and the President's reversal of a ruling by the Civil Aeronautics Board against Eastern Airlines, according to committee sources. Nixon reversed two CAB rulings and allowed Eastern to acquire Caribbean, a Puerto Rican-based airline, less than a year after the Rockefeller family contributed $200,000 to the Nixon campaign. The Rockefeller family has large interests in Eastern.

The committee inquiry is in connection with President Ford's nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president. There appeared to be no evidence at this point of a connection between the Rockefeller contribution and the Nixon ruling. But committee sources said the timing of the events had raised questions in the minds of some members. "The sources said the matter would be studied as part of an expansion of its inquiry into the Rockefeller nomination to include members of the Rockefeller family and their influence on governmental agencies and policy."

Although Rockefeller has apologized for the book, financed by a brother, Goldberg said "it is not a question of a public apology. It is a question of stating frankly to the committee all that has occurred — not only in regard to the book incident and gifts — so the committee can determine whether or not it is going to make this confirmation" of Rockefeller's nomination.

The biography of Goldberg was published in 1970 by writer Victor Lasky when Goldberg was Rockefeller's Democratic opponent for governor of New York State. It was disclosed recently that Rockefeller's brother Laurance invested Four years of protection beats 20 years of cure.

Some people say that Idaho is 20 years behind the times. Our Governor doesn't buy that. He knows Idaho is 20 years ahead of the times. Because we can still prevent unchecked growth and uncontrolled pollution from turning us into another Chicago, Los Angeles or Denver.

That's why he's spent the past four years enforcing our pollution control laws like no Governor in history. That's why he's fighting for a locally-originated, locally-controlled, state-assisted land use plan. And that's why he'll keep on working to preserve Idaho in his next administration.

He knows we have to decide now what we want Idaho to be like in 20 years. Because in 1994 it will be too late. And it's a lot easier to protect what we have than to rebuild what we remember.

We have a good Governor. Let's keep him.

Opposing hurlers

Herb Washington still suffering

OAKLAND (UPI) — Herb Washington, Oakland's baserunning specialist, talks and bounces around altogether differently than Muhammad Ali, so he isn't proclaiming Mike Marshall is going to fall in five, six or seven, but what he is saying is he owes him one. "I just wanna clean the slate," says Oakland's 23-year-old Mercury man. "I am in Mike Marshall's debt. I owe him and the Dodgers one, and I'd like to pay them back. Before the Series is over, you'll see, I'll do it."

Herb Washington says all this softly, but meaningfully, and not the slightest sign of rancor or belligerence, but with the type of resolve only born of deep conviction. It is obvious the emotional scar of being burned Sunday in Los Angeles is still there with him, and why wouldn't it be after Marshall plucked him off first base in the ninth inning and made him the "goat" in a 3-2 loss to the Dodgers in the second game of the World Series.

More than 55,000 personal eyewitnesses saw Washington hoo-boo in Dodger Stadium, but more embarrassing yet his "rock" was seen by what amounted to an entire nation of onlookers, thanks to national TV. "I learned a lesson," says Washington, who still holds the world record in the 50 and 60 yard dashes and is used only as a pinch-runner, and nothing else by the A's.

For this type of specialized employment, Washington receives $40,000 a year, and there is a new clause in his contract. He is the only one of his kind, having been brought into baseball and the big leagues by Oakland's imaginative owner, Charlie Finley.

Washington is still talking about what happened to him Sunday before Monday's off-day workout here. "When something like that happens," he said, "it makes three people feel badly—Mr. Finley, Alvin Dark and myself—because no other club has an exclusive pinch-runner. But when I succeed, it makes all three of us feel proud."

"All this I mean" what happened to me in Sunday's game, helps at a later time," Washington said in the philosophical vein. "It helps you grow. From track, I'm used to nothing but applause. Now I'm cast in another situation. I read all the newspapers this morning. I thought the stories were very fair. I could have been ridiculed, but I wasn't. I'm appreciative of that."

Washington, a native of Flint, Mich., where he still lives, had Mike Marshall for a teacher four years ago at Michigan State where the Dodger reliever still conducts courses—"The course" in which Marshall taught Washington was "Child, Growth and Development," and the A's specialist recalls that Marshall was a good teacher.

"The thing about him was that he showed no partiality," says Washington. "I enjoyed the course very much, and as I recall it lasted 10 weeks."

Washington never came to bat or played in the field a single inning for the A's all this year. He did steal 28 bases in 43 tries, however, after having been tutored in the basics of baseball by former Dodger shortstop Maury Wills this past spring.

"I'd like to come back to this club next year," says Washington. "I think I will unless I do too many things like I did Sunday."

Immediately after Oakland's 3-2 loss, with the A's club house door still closed to the media, Finley came charging out of his box seat and entered his team's dressing quarters.

Jackson is upset with sportswriter

OAKLAND (UPI) — Reggie Jackson, the Oakland A's superstar, lost his cool Monday during an afternoon workout and almost slugged a sports writer. Jackson took exception to a story in a recent issue of Sport Magazine written by Murray Olderman. When he spotted Olderman on the playing field near the batting cage, Jackson let the writer know what he thought of the article.

Reggie didn't spare the language and while he was as mad as anyone has seen him, he did not put a hand on Olderman, although he came close a couple of times. "Don't try to come around our clubhouse," Jackson shouted with 50 or so writers standing by, "because you are not welcome."

Olderman, a veteran writer for NEA, tried to mollify Jackson but it was no use. "There was nothing to be gained by my getting into a shouting match with him," said Olderman. "I'm sorry he didn't like the story and I tried to tell him but he didn't want to hear anyone but himself. That's the worst language I've ever heard, from a ballplayer or anyone else."

Jackson couldn't be mollified even by his friends but A's manager Alvin Dark later told Olderman he was sorry the incident took place and that he was always welcome in the A's clubhouse.

Oakland hopes home field is advantage as series resumes

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland A's, still a little troubled by Reggie Jackson's leg problems, hoped to turn the home field advantage into a winning one when the World Series resumes here Tuesday night.

"We've won one, and they've won one," Jackson said Monday. "But now we're home for three. I hope we win a couple here and then—let's see."

The two straight-champion A's and the Los Angeles Dodgers traded 32 victories at the first two Series games at Los Angeles.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Oakland's 25-game winner who saved the opener in relief, will oppose left-hander Al Downing, 56 this season, in Tuesday night's game. All three games in Oakland will begin at 7:30 p. M. PDT, so they can be telecast in prime time in the east.

Oakland was held to six hits in each of the first two games by the Dodgers' two top starters, Andy Messersmith and Don Sutton, each time with help from Mike Marshall.

The lack of hitting is a big enough worry for the A's, who also managed a total of only five hits in the final two games of the American League playoffs.

But Oakland was out and outscored by the New York Mets last year and the Cincinnati Reds two years ago and still won both World Series.

A bigger factor as the Series goes along could be the play in rightfield of Jackson, a superb outfielder when he's healthy, but presently hobble by a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg.

Centerfielder Bill North, who had a clubhouse fight with Jackson last June, says Jackson's injury is as much of a problem for him as it is for Reggie because "I have to be conscious of it."

"I have to be able to move over toward right a little more than I may be ordinarily would, to help out," North said.

The problem has been that in each of the first two games Jackson was slow in getting to balls hit down the rightfield line, an area where he's strictly on his own.

On Saturday, Jackson took a long time getting to a single down the line by Bill Buckner, allowing Dave Lopes to make it from first to third with ease. Then Jackson couldn't pick the ball up, and Lopes scored.

Sunday, Bill Russell dropped a pop fly single down the line to set up the first Los Angeles run as Ron Cey ran from first to third, knowing that Jackson would never be able to catch the ball.

"I couldn't have gotten to that one even with a good leg," Jackson said, but that's something no one will ever know for sure.

What has been obvious, though, is that Jackson is having problems, and can often be seen stretching and flexing his legs in the outfield between pitches.

Even at 80 or 90 per cent of efficiency, manager Alvin Dark still will keep Jackson in the lineup because he needs his bat.

Murtaugh signs for next year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Danny Murtaugh, up to now undecided whether to return to the firing line, announced Monday he will manage the Pittsburgh Pirates next season.

Terms of the contract were not revealed, except that it will be for the 1975 season at the most.

"I have decided to come back and health is not a determining factor," Murtaugh said. "I have been told by my physician I can do anything I wish to do and I wish to manage."

Murtaugh, who celebrated his 57th birthday six days ago, is in his third full term as manager of the Pirates. Over his last three full seasons the Pirates have won the National League East title each time—winning the world series over Baltimore in 1971, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh in the 1974 National League playoffs.

General Manager Joe L. Brown said "Danny can manage the Pirates as long as I'm there."

"We have decided to announce Danny's return at this time to put an end to speculation about his plans in 1975."

"The finalizing of our managerial situation for next season now gives us the opportunity to start immediately at the task of improving our ball club."

Murtaugh suffered an uneven heart pace problem several years ago, but apparently has recovered his health.

Portland franchise is slow with money

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Portland Storm General Manager Ron Mix and player representative Sam Silas said Monday that a player boycott of Wednesday's game with Hawaii was nonsense, but admitted Portland owners have been slow with weekly paychecks.

"When we the Storm players met for a few seconds during the weekend to talk about this," Silas said, "none of the players were either alarmed or surprised. But a boycott was never discussed. We found no unsettled members of the team."

Mix said the Storm has not paid the players for last week's game against Birmingham, and that the previous week's checks were post-dated to last Saturday.

"We are hopeful that additional money will be injected by owner Bob Harris by Wednesday or Thursday of this week," he said. "We don't feel we have missed a pay period and the players understand this."

Mix said Harris, a London, Ont., construction firm owner, was caught short by lower than expected revenues from Storm attendance, but is liquidating some of his assets to inject more money into the WFL franchise.

Mix said the Storm needs 28,000 fans per week to break even financially, but has been averaging just over 16,000.

Silas said he was puzzled as to the source of the boycott story.

Touchdown pass gives Detroit 17-13 victory

DETROIT (UPI) — Quarterback Bill Munson, who drew boos when he came out passing, threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Larry Weldon Monday night to insure the Detroit Lions of their first National Football League victory this season, 17-13 over the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Dennis Morrison, San Francisco's left-handed first year quarterback, had a rough go of it in his first starting assignment. Detroit's defense repelled San Francisco thrusts time after time, holding the Forty Niners without a touchdown until 33 seconds remained in the game.

With the Forty Niners trailing 10-3 in the third quarter, San Francisco rookie Willie Jackson raced 64 yards to the Lions' two. But Detroit linebackers Charlie Weaver, Paul Naumoff and Jim Laslave thwarted successive attempts at the goal line and Bruce Gossett wound up kicking a 19-yard field goal.

Two possessions later, Detroit's Dick Jauren set up Munson's touchdown pass with a 45-yard punt return.

Munson found Weldon alone in the end zone on third down with just 15 seconds gone in the final quarter to hike Detroit's lead to 17-6.

San Francisco drove to the Detroit six with five minutes left, but Morrison was intercepted. The Forty Niners' rookie finally hit Jackson with an 11-yard scoring pass with 33 seconds left in the game.

Spots removed from Bryant

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — A dermatologist said Monday he had removed cancerous spots from the nose of Alabama football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant and that there was no chance the cancer would spread.

Dr. Robert J. Bentley, the dermatologist, said such spots are caused by the sun and commonly appear on the noses of older persons who work outside extensively.

Munson did a rare thing for a Detroit quarterback—he passed on the first play of the game. That drew boos from the less than capacity crowd of 45,199 and they continued booing though Munson completed his next two passes for short gains. He wound up gaining 130 yards in the air by completing 15 of his 32 passes.

Owens dives for score

LIONS' STEVE OWENS (36) drives over teammate Bob Kowalkowski and 49'ers' Frank Nunley (57) to score a touchdown from one yard out during the second quarter of the Detroit-San Francisco game in Detroit on Monday night. (UPI/Telephoto).

Ohio State still top pick in poll as Arizona gains first ranking

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's the same old names at the top of the United Press International Board of Coaches' top 10, but there's a brand, new one in the No. 10 spot.

Ohio State continues to lead the nation's football teams, but Arizona made it to the top 10 for the first time in the school's history.

The Wildcats have ripped off five straight victories to start the season as Coach Jim Young continues the remarkable job begun last year.

Young's first squad last year was an overwhelming choice to finish dead last in the Western Athletic Conference, but instead tied Arizona State for the title and finished with an 8-3 mark.

The Wildcats this season are tied for fifth in the nation in total offense, 12th in scoring offense and ninth in rushing defense.

Quarterback Bruce Hill is fifth in total offense and his favorite target—"T" Bell is seventh in receptions.

But the Wildcats face their toughest task yet when they finish dead last in the Western Athletic Conference.

Ohio placed collected 33 of the 34 first-place ballots cast, with No. 2 Michigan receiving the most.

A pair of undefeated Southeastern Conference teams, Alabama and Auburn, were third and fourth respectively.

Southern California was fifth, Texas A&M sixth and Notre Dame seventh.

Undefeated North Carolina State climbed from 10th to eighth and Penn State from 13th to ninth.

Kansas jumped from 14th to 11th, while Florida fell from fifth to 12th after losing to Vanderbilt.

Wooden greets another team

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — On his 64th birthday, UCLA basketball coach John Wooden greeted 13 varsity players Monday at a special news media day prior to the start of practice Tuesday.

Wooden has only one starter back, 6-9 center forward Dave Meyers, from last season's 20-4 club. Gene are All-Americans Bill Walton, the NBA's No. 1 draft choice, and Keith Wilkes.

But the Wizard of Westwood sounded a warning that the Bruins would be tough to beat again.

"I've always said I'd rather have talent than experience and I believe there's enough talent on this year's group to make it competitive against any opponent," he said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1974 United Press International Board of Coaches' top 20 major college football teams with overall records and first place votes on ballots.

Rank	Team	Record	Points
1	Ohio St.	(12-3)	373
2	Michigan	(12-1)	360
3	Alabama	(9-0)	280
4	Auburn	(9-0)	270
5	Southern California	(11-1)	183
6	Texas A&M	(10-1)	177
7	Notre Dame	(9-1)	175
8	North Carolina St.	(10-0)	170
9	Penn State	(10-1)	165

18	Wake Forest	(10-2)	115
19	Georgia Tech	(10-2)	110
20	Texas	(12-2)	105

Note: By agreement with the American Football Coaches' Association, teams on probation by the NCAA are ineligible for top 20 and national championship consideration by the UPI Board of Coaches. Those teams currently on probation are Oklahoma, Baylor, California, Long Beach State and Southwestern Louisiana.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 16, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can investigate new ideas today and tonight but it's not the time to commit yourself to a definite course of action since all the factors involved are not yet fully understood. Postpone the signing of any documents.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you study your responsibilities early, you will be able to handle them efficiently. Strive for more harmony with loved one.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't let it bother you if you don't agree with the ideas of associates. Be silent with one who is in a most irate mood. Relax tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Although you have many duties to perform, don't expect aid from others, since it will not be forthcoming. Show that you are sensible.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can enjoy yourself most now by sticking to pleasures that are wholesome and inexpensive. Put more zip into your life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to cooperate more with family and strive for a firmer foundation. Get at the source of any friction and eliminate it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You should be careful in motion today if you want to avoid the unhappy influences. Don't criticize others today. Show consideration.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Elevate your consciousness to a greater degree and you will be on the road to success. Listen to advice of a clever business expert.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to please good friends in a social way and you find this opens new avenues of success to you. Sidelite a pressing activity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may want to renege on a promise you've made, but it would be wise to carry through with your commitment. Be cheerful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show that you will cooperate with a plan a friend proposes that could gain mutual success. Take time for meditation tonight.

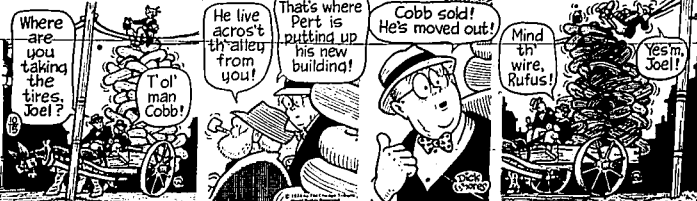

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in a civic affair and gain the respect of a higher-up. Show you are conscientious in civic improvement. Follow your hunches.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be careful of stumbling blocks in a new project you have in mind. Don't permit a new contest to lead you astray. Be confident.

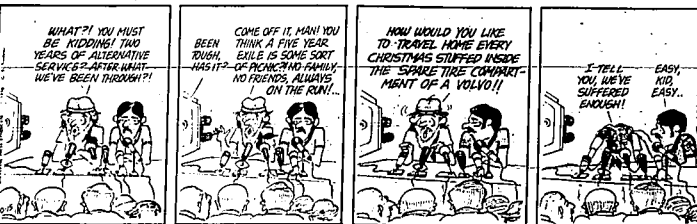

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she may become impatient when the going gets rough and may want to run to something else. Teach to persevere and to figure out how to get around pitfalls and complete whatever is started. Make sure as parents to have only the finest influences around. Give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Identical twins oftentimes are pretty in a bland sort of way, but rarely are they strikingly beautiful. So contends a client who wants to know why. Imagine it's because identical twins usually have perfectly symmetrical faces. Few fraternal twins do. And hardly any singly born individuals do. Portrait artists say the truly fascinating faces are those whose sides don't match exactly.

YOU CAN white away some time at stop lights, too by trying to tick off all the different animals that give birth to calves. Like cows, moose, buffalo, elephants, seals. Any others?

HEADSTAND Q. "Who said, 'Standing on the head for a few minutes every day is good for the complexion?'"
A. That seller of cosmetics, Elizabeth Arden. I think she was aware that only about one woman in 50 can stand on her head without help.

Q. "WHAT DID HIS sidekicks call the infamous gangster Al Capone? Scarface?"
A. Never. Either Mr. Capone or Boxcar Tony. Capone first showed up at Chicago in a boxcar.

EVERYBODY knows the longest river in Africa is the Nile. And in South America, it's the Amazon. But can you name Europe's longest river? The Volga merits that distinction. Now ask the family geography wizard to identify Asia's. Said party should say the Yangtze.

PATTER That word "patter" got its start as slang for the Lord's Prayer, the paternoster.

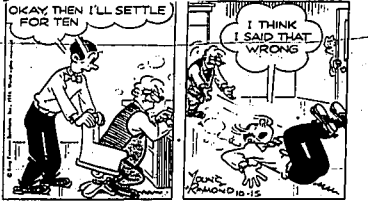

THE SLEEPING CHAMBER inside a grizzly bear's den invariably is raised above the opening into said den so warmth will be trapped therein.

THE GOVERNMENT of India wanted to put together some statistical data about manufacturing companies there. So it sent out a questionnaire to managers. One of the queries was: "How many people do you employ, broken down by sex?"

WERE YOU AWARE California's redwood trees started out in the Arctic? Scholars say they migrated. Took them 75 million years to make the trip. No, not by dog sled. Wind and weather pushed them south.

Dry bean market trend stronger

DENVER—Coban Dry edible bean markets closed last week in a strong trend. Reports of extensive crop losses by weather in North Dakota plus dwindling user stocks spurred demand. Growers continue to be extremely reluctant sellers and therefore demand in most areas outstripped available supplies. Domestic demand for pintos remained extremely active and the markets closed stronger with selling prices mostly $3 to $4 higher and grower bids $2 to $7 — mostly $5 higher.

In spite of improved farm bids, grower selling was extremely slow and pinto supplies were generally inadequate to meet demand.

Morton views sought

CHEYENNE (UPI)—The state of Wyoming has subpoenaed the U.S. Secretary of the Interior in a suit seeking to strike down the federal ban prohibiting the use of poisons against coyotes. The subpoena directs Rogers C.B. Morton to testify in behalf of the state on Oct. 31 in Washington. The testimony will be compiled as a sworn deposition for use in the coming trial slated for December. According to the subpoena, the oral examination will begin at 10 a.m. and will continue from hour to hour and day to day until complete. Morton was to bring documents and information relating to the order prohibiting the use of poisons.

Morton is named as a defendant in the action along with Russell Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency; Earl Butz, Secretary of Agriculture; and Casper W. Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

Colorado pinto prices per 100 pound bag include: Northern, $35 to $36 last week, $32 the previous week and $22 during the same period last year; southeastern, no quote last week, $31 to $32 the previous week and $18.50 to $20 last year; western slope, $35.50 to $37.50, $32 to $33, and $20 to $22; southwest corner, $39 to $40, $32 to $33, and $21 to $22.50.

Southern Idaho pinto prices showed $35 to $36 last week, $31 to $32 the previous week and $22 to $24 for the same period the year before. Western Nebraska and Eastern Wyoming showed prices for pintos ranging from $35 to $36 last week, $31 to $32 for the previous week and $23 for the same period the year before. Pinto prices in northern Wyoming were $34.25 last week, $30 the previous week and not established during the same period last year.

Pinto prices in Washington were $35 to $36 last week, $31 to $32 the week before and $22 to $25 during the same period last year. Great northern prices in Western Nebraska, and Eastern Wyoming ranged from $24 to $24.50 last week, $22.50 to $23.50 the week before and $28 to $30 the same period last year. No other quotes for great northern beans were available. Idaho bids brought $29 to $32 last week, $26 to $28 the week before and $28 to $29 during the same period last year. Idaho pinks brought $27.50 to $29.50 last week, $28 to $29 the week before and $23 to $25 last year. Grape price steady FRESNO (UPI) — The E and J Gallo winery, California's largest vintner, has announced it is paying $75 a ton for Thompson seedless grapes for crush. It was reported Saturday. The price is the same as last year and grower reaction to the announcement was varied. Some growers said they expected the price to be $10 to $12 below last year's levels, and other growers complained that production costs had jumped as much as 40 per cent during the past year.
