Prime rates whittled by 2 NY banks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two major banks today lowered the prime lending rate for top business borrowers, to 11 1/2 from 12 1/2 per cent.

First National City Bank and Chemical Bank, both of New York, made the latest move in the recent downward spiral of the prime from its historic high of 12 per cent. It was expected to touch off a new round of reductions.

Sitting up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Margaretta "Happy" Rockefeller, wife of Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, was reported in excellent condition today and sitting up in bed after undergoing surgery for removal of her cancerous left breast.

In a bulletin issued by Memorial Sloan-Kettering Institute, attending physicians said Mrs. Rockefeller passed "a very comfortable night" and "every indication is that her recovery will be rapid and she will be able to return home by next Friday."

Ford signs $7.75 billion housing bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford signed a bill today that will help finance $7.75 billion worth of housing construction. Ford said the bill will give the depressed housing industry "a shot in the arm."

The bill is expected to spur construction of 100,000 new houses across the country.

Under the legislation, the federal government will be empowered to buy conventional home mortgages from savings and loan associations and other lending institutions and in this way can pump more home loan funds into the tight money market.

Egypt, Soviets demand PLO voice

By United Press International
EGYPT and the Soviet Union demanded today that the Palestine Liberation Organization be given equal status at the forthcoming Middle East peace talks in Geneva with Israel and the Arab nations.

The demand — certain to be rejected by Israel and opposed by the United States — came in a joint Soviet-Egyptian communique issued upon the return to Cairo today of Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy from a five-day visit to Moscow.

Flays Ford

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — U. S. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., called President Ford's attack on inflation a "turkey." Mondale, making a campaign speech, said Ford's inflation attack will further erode the buying power of low and moderate income families. He said the "WTNY" (whip inflation now) speech was a "prime time pep rally."

Ralph Pink, 85, dies at 85

TWIN FALLS — Ralph Pink, 85, former school board chairman and pioneer resident of Twin Falls, died early today in a rest home here after a long illness.

He was past president of the Twin Falls Rotary club and active in several community organizations. (Obituary, p. 2)

J. Harold Flinn, 68, dies

BLISS — J. Harold Flinn, 68, former Bliss city councilman, died Thursday at Gooding Memorial Hospital after a short illness.

He was owner of the Y Inn Motel and had been active in community events. (Obituary, p. 2)

Rohrer girl quint goes off bottle

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Michelle Lynn, one of the 11-day-old Rohrer quintuplets, today resumed intravenous feeding because of a "temporary, not unusual setback," apparently caused by "too much milk too soon."

Dr. Ronald Gutkriet said Michelle was unable to digest one of her scheduled feedings of milk formula.

Water users set appeal from US monitor ruling

By DAVID BOCKMAN
Times-News writer

BURLEY — A group of 50 water users voted here Thursday to appeal federal requirements that they monitor non-agricultural pollutants entering their water systems.

The vote was taken by members of the Idaho Water Users Association following announcement of federal regulations for waste discharge permits for large water users.

If other meetings of water users in Idaho agree, the state association will appeal the requirements set forth for U.S. Environmental Protection Agency licenses to discharge pollutants.

According to Dan Petke, Seattle, an EPA representative who attended the Burley meeting, the EPA requires such permits for industries, cities, and irrigators with more than 3,000 acres.

Notice of the permits was mailed to 28 Idaho irrigators on Friday, with 30 more pending, he said.

Petke said irrigators who fail to obtain the permits are subject to prosecution or civil suits by other citizens affected by pollution.

He said the permits currently being issued are temporary, and in the case of irrigators do not require abatement of pollution.

Instead the permits give the irrigators until Oct. 31, 1976, to come up with a program for minimizing identified polluted discharges.

In the meantime, the irrigators must determine how much pollution is now present, what's causing it and if the pollution is significant, and then a plan to stop it.

N-power plant pollution toll low, scientist says

By JOYCE CARPENTER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A typical coal-fired power plant "probably kills" about 50 people a year from air pollution, according to an article in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists.

The death rate for a comparable nuclear plant would be one-five thousandths as large, the article said.

The grim estimate came in an article written for the October issue of the Bulletin by Bernard L. Cohen, director of the Nuclear Physics Laboratory at the University of Pittsburgh.

The estimates were for generating plants of 1 million kilowatts capacity, half the size for Idaho Power Co.'s planned coal-fired generating plant for Southeastern Idaho.

Idaho Power spokesmen or officials were not available for comment today regarding the article's claims.

Cohen says, "air pollution from the coal-fired plant results in about $17 million per year damage to health, property, vegetation, etc. It contributes to well-known environmental and human degradations of coal mining."

He said the coal-fired plants consume 200 pounds of coal every second and said nuclear power plants have none of those disadvantages and no other important environmental impact. Cohen said "Given these facts, it seems strange that there has been strong opposition to the construction of nuclear power plants, forcing many utilities into the coal-fired alternative."

According to Cohen, the strongest current criticisms are with regard to accidents in nuclear power plants. Most estimates are that the major accident concern is a loss of coolant accident combined with failure of the emergency core cooling system, there would ordinarily be a 24 hour warning between the occurrence of the accident and the release of radioactive gases and solid materials, giving ample time for evacuation.

Water loss at hatchery takes vast trout toll

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer

BUIHL — A loss-of-water accident at a Clear Springs Trout Co. hatchery near here last month destroyed about 800,000 pounds of trout, according to two state officials.

Larry Cope, general manager of Clear Springs, today said the hatchery accident was possibly the worst in world history. "It's perhaps the largest one that's ever happened anywhere," he said.

Cope would not confirm reports of specific losses. "I think my comment is no comment," he said.

However, asked if reports of the loss of 800,000 pounds of trout were "way off base," Cope said, "No."

Robert Satter, assistant director of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, and William Webb, regional supervisor for the state agency, disclosed the trout company's losses to the Times-News.

Satter said he had talked this week with John Hepworth, Buhl, co-owner of Clear Springs. Hepworth "commented on what a mess 800,000 pounds of fish belly-up was," according to Satter. Hepworth was not available for comment.

US trade lifts lid on USSR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has agreed with the United States to allow at least 60,000 Jews and other unhappy residents to leave Russia annually. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said today after a meeting with President Ford.

Jackson said the "historic" agreement, under which Russia would begin increasing visas for an estimated 130,000 persons who have asked to leave the Communist nation, will result in quick passage of a trade bill granting the U.S.S.R. "most favored nation" status.

The agreement provides that Russia consider visa requests on a first come, first served basis — especially from persons released from jail — and end a high emigration tax, which stripped many of these allowed to leave of their belongings.

Jackson predicted at a White House press conference that the omnibus trade bill, which he almost personally has tied up in Congress, will get quick approval when lawmakers return from a campaign recess and will become law before Christmas.

One Israeli diplomat applauded the agreement, saying, "This is a great step forward. This will be greeted in Israel with tremendous pleasure."

The "historic understanding in the area of human rights" was outlined in signed letters exchanged between Jackson and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, the senator said.

It is the result of two years of negotiations between Jackson, the administrators of Presidents Nixon and Ford and the Soviet Union.

"This is really a great development in human rights in relations with the Soviet Union," Jackson said.

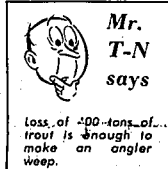

The agreement will apply not only to Jews who seek to emigrate but to other Soviet nationals as well.

Jackson said the agreement provides that the Soviet emigration rate will rise "promptly" from 1974 levels and increase to a minimum issuance of 60,000 visas a year.

The question of Jewish emigration has held up congressional action granting the Soviet Union "most favored nation" status — a position given the United States' best trading partners. The bill has been held up by an amendment by Jackson requiring a change in the emigration policy.

Other Communist countries that seek nondiscriminatory trade treatment by the United States — China, Romania, Czechoslovakia and others — will be required to assure the United States that they too will permit free emigration of their nationals.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., portrayed the agreement as a "key element of détente" and said that "good faith performance of this agreement" by the Russians would be an important indicator of how well détente is actually working.

Turk aid receives Ford OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today signed into law compromise legislation under which American military aid to Turkey would continue until Dec. 31, 1976, Turkey retracts from sending U.S. "implements of war" to Cyprus.

Ford said he had "serious reservations" about the bill but signed it anyway after a prolonged confrontation with Congress ended Thursday with the compromise.

Congress twice in the past two weeks passed stronger legislation but both times Ford vetoed the measures. The compromise allowed Congress to take a pre-election recess that had been delayed because of the Turkey issue.

He said Congress has "persisted by clear majorities in a course which I consider ill-advised and dangerous" because it threatens U.S. relations "with a country which is a close ally, which is the eastern anchor of an alliance vital to the security of the United States which plays a fundamental role in the strategic interests of the United States in the eastern Mediterranean area."

Later in the meeting, Dean told Nixon about the White House plumbers break-in at the Los Angeles office of Dr. Daniel Ellsberg and said Nixon has said in the past that this was the first he learned of the Ellsberg break-in.

"What in the world, what in the name of God was (John) Ehrlichman having something (unnecessary) in the Ellsberg? This is the first I ever heard of this," Nixon said on the tape.

US output decreases

(c) Washington Star-News

WASHINGTON — Government statistics Thursday showed the third consecutive quarterly decline in the nation's total output.

Production of goods and services dropped at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.9 per cent in the July-September quarter, following declines of 7 per cent in the first quarter of this year and 1.8 per cent in the second quarter, the Commerce Department reported.

The decline is longer and deeper than in the recession of 1969-70. Not since the 1960-61 recession has output slid for more than two quarters in a row.

Besides the deepening decline of output, the department also reported that inflation accelerated in the July-September quarter.

The inflation rate, by the broadest measure, was 11.5 per cent, up from 9.4 per cent in the second quarter and almost back to the 12.3 per cent rate in the first quarter, which was the biggest price jump in 23 years.

In another report, the department said housing construction leveled off at least temporarily last month.

Overhaul eyed in auditor unit

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The state auditor's department needs a complete overhaul to bring the operation up to modern and acceptable standards, the Republican candidate for the office charged.

Harrison Groesbeck said the department lacked persons with accounting skills and computer programming knowledge. "The department is extremely poor in terms of acceptable western standards," he said. Groesbeck said he compiled his information with the help of employees, ex-employees, business consultants and salesmen familiar with the department.

Because of lack of personnel trained in accounting, the "whole accounting system is extremely poor and inadequate," Groesbeck said. The office lacks a general ledger, he added, so there can be "no real reading of the financial condition of the state." Instead, there are two ledgers, one for expenses and one for income with no balance sheet to show the ongoing budgetary position.

The lack of accounting background also hinders the department because staff members are unable to properly define what information needs to come out of the computer system, Groesbeck said.

And the department also lacks persons adequately trained on the computers used, he said.

Groesbeck, who has had some experience working with computers, said the whole computer system of the auditor's office should be re-programmed. The present computers are operating on an old-fashioned 1940 tab system, totally inferior, to systems now available with new knowledge and equipment. He said Groesbeck said computer consultants should be used to reprogram the financial records and accounting system.

Groesbeck originally ran for the post of superintendent of public instruction, but lost in a primary battle. After the primary, the state central committee approached him to fill the auditor's post, he said.

Another problem involving computers is the lack of emergency facilities. Groesbeck said. Although the state has several file brand and type computers, differences in programming prevent departments from using other computers as a back-up during an emergency, or rush period.

Groesbeck also pointed to the lack of a developed and enforced processing systems. "The present system is so loose that it permits agencies to hold invoices" at their convenience, he said.

The various state agencies can hold stacks of invoices unpaid and businesses often wait months for their reimbursement, he said. One problem for the agencies is the auditor's failure to provide them with an ongoing financial record so they can determine whether or not they have funds to make a purchase, Groesbeck said.

Groesbeck, presently business manager for the Idaho Falls school district, No. 91 did graduate work in accounting and school administration.

He said changes he envisions would not necessarily mean the removal of all present employees, but instead the addition of skills through in-service training or new staff members.

Receives promotion

A FORMER Twin Falls man, David L. Gray, center, receives his general's stars from Gen. David Jones and Mrs. Gray. Gray has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general in the Air Force. He serves in the Pentagon as executive officer to the Air Force chief of staff.

Ex-TF man earns star

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls man has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general in the Air Force.

He is David L. Gray, son of Mrs. T. G. Gray and the late Tom Gray, Twin Falls.

A 1948 graduate of Twin Falls High School, he attended Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore., and Idaho State College before entering the Air Force as an aviation cadet in September, 1950.

He has since earned a B.S. degree in management from the University of Colorado and an M. B. A. degree from George Washington University. He is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Gen. Gray serves in the Pentagon as executive officer to the Air Force chief of staff. He helps administer the policies of the head of the air staff, who is one of the principal military advisers to the President and Secretary of Defense.

The 43-year-old general previously served as executive chief of staff at Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe, (SHAPE), Brussels, Belgium.

He has completed the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, the Air War College and the Air Command and Staff College.

A command pilot, he is a veteran of a year's tour in Southeast Asia.

His wife, Nelda, is the daughter of Mrs. B. A. Ryan, Route 1, Selma, Ala. The general and his wife have three children.

Registration appears low

TWIN FALLS — Wednesday's voter registration day figures aren't in yet, but it doesn't look like registrars were overrun with business.

County Clerk Harold Lancaster said he had "no way of knowing" how many voters registered during the special registration push, sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

But the one registrar he contacted had registered only one voter, he said. "People seem quite apathetic to me," Lancaster said. Another registrar reported registering three voters.

The county had 23,928 voters registered before the August primary election, according to clerk's records, a high percentage of the 24,500 to 25,000 people estimated by Lancaster as eligible to vote in Twin Falls County.

Lancaster reported absentee balloting was in progress, and will continue until 7 p.m. the day before the general election. In case of accident, clerks deputies will take votes the day of the election at the hospital, if needed.

Lancaster said two deputies had been stationed at the College of Southern Idaho during class shuttles to encourage students to register, but only 24 students had done so.

Activities scheduled at Filer

2 events set

FILER — Youth ministry activities of the Filer Nature Center will commence this weekend, according to Rev. Gernie W. Iversen, pastor.

They will begin from 7 to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights and will include recreation and teen raps with Vern Adamson, Nampa, who will share his life with teens.

The basement of the center has been equipped with cafe style tables and chairs, pop machine, several games and a music center. The gymnasium will be available for volleyball, basketball and other games.

The church is opening the facility for the purpose of ministry to youth in the church and community. Rev. Iversen said, and plans are to make this a weekly event.

TWIN FALLS — Two big events for the DAV and Auxiliary are scheduled for Saturday and Tuesday.

There will be a pie and cake auction and social at the DAV Hall Saturday for all members and their families. The women are to bring a pie or cake for their admission and a small donation will be charged the men. Live music for dancing will be featured after the auction.

The regular monthly social will be at noon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Lilly Meisner, Buhl. The women are to bring two covered dishes and their own table service. The men are invited.

Auditor hopeful fears foe's exit

TWIN FALLS — The Republican candidate for state auditor charged his Democratic opponent may be planning to make a quick exit from office if re-elected, leaving a half-year term.

Harrison Groesbeck said that incumbent auditor Joe Williams, who is "past 70," could elect to retire from the state office at any time, leaving the post to be filled by Governor's appointment.

Groesbeck said the matter should be called to the voter's attention. "Appointments are necessary at times, but they should not become the means for sidestepping the election process to obtain political muscle. Such immoral use of political power and influence cannot and should not be tolerated," he said.

Groesbeck said he suspected the auditor might serve one month and then resign, in order to assure the full benefits of a revised pension plan which bases the pension on the highest salary earned during an eight-month period of state service. The office of auditor was granted a substantial pay raise the last legislature, Groesbeck commented.

CAN IDAHO SETTLE FOR ONE-SIXTH OF A SENATOR?

For the past five years Sen. Church has been voting as a member of the ultra-liberal-urban bloc in the Senate, along with McGovern, Kennedy, Javits, Ribbicoff, Tunney and others. Their votes reflect the needs of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and California . . . not Idaho.

Now, in an election year, Church has rediscovered Idaho and turned into an overnight "moderate". This has been his pattern for 18 years.

Naturally, a senator with more than 2/3 of his campaign funds coming from out-of-state has to please his non-Idaho constituency more than 2/3 of the time.

Now these out-of-state friends of Church aim to extend his reign to almost a quarter of a century. Can Idaho settle for a Senator one year out of six?

90% of Bob Smith's small campaign fund comes from Idahoans. 100% of his votes in the U.S. Senate will be for you and Idaho. Six years out of six.

Isn't this another good reason for retiring 18-year-incumbent Sen. Church?

Public needs info to control agencies

The Presidential veto of the Freedom of Information Act was a mistake. Hopefully Congress, which approved the measure by lopsided majorities, will quickly override President Ford.

The bill drew fire from Ford because he feared it would undercut national security by permitting judges ignorant of security matters to declassify vital documents.

Moreover, he argued that the bill would unnecessarily hamper the operations of the FBI and other police agencies.

If those were real threats we would agree with the President. It is true that many federal agencies would have to change their policies to become more responsive to legitimate public requests for information...

The bill covers new ground in only a few key areas. Mostly it merely fills loopholes in the existing Freedom of Information Act.

One of the key loopholes was brought to attention by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1973 when it noted that the existing law does not give the courts the power to question a "classified" stamp put on some document...

The earlier act, by failing to provide any form of external review, permitted countless lower-level bureaucrats to plunge document after document into secrecy. In cases of departmental embarrassment, say involving a major cost overrun on a defense contract...

The new bill permits the courts to consider, in secret, challenges to security stamps, providing a way to control governmental workers who may believe their agency's convenience outweighs the public's right to be informed.

This country has seen entirely too much secrecy imposed for no good reason.

National security secrets should be kept secret. But things which are not national security secrets — the Ellsberg psychiatrist's break-in for example — should be open to public scrutiny.

The new bill makes ample provision for maintaining needed security. It also provides a means for making sure such powers are adequately exercised for the right purposes.

In general, if the people are to control their government they must be free to know what it is doing and what it is failing to do.

Thought for today

A thought for the day: German poet Rainer Maria Rilke said, "A good marriage is that in which each other appoints the other guardian of his solitude."

Berry's World

You are NOT going to Australia! You're going to stay right here and pay that live par cent surcharge like everyone else!

LOUGRANT

Look toward Capitol Hill in inflation fight

WASHINGTON — As part of its campaign against inflation, the White House devised a postcard enlistment form to be sent to President Ford by every American who wants to enlist as "An Inflation Fighter and Energy Saver."

The gesture probably is harmless, and it may appeal to hexapod buffis who love to print along dotted lines.

But the effort won't amount to much unless Ford gets enlistment forms back from 100 senators and 425 members of the House. The President has gone about as far as he can go in providing executive leadership against inflation.

It is important to emphasize that point. For the past 40 years, our people have acquiesced in a gradual transfer of both image and power. The tendency has been to exalt the White House and to downgrade the Congress.

nonsense. If a 5 per cent surcharge is adopted, Congress will adopt it. If the law as to capital gains is to be rewritten, Congress will rewrite it. It is true, of course, that in many areas of government one looks to the Oval office. When it comes to halting inflation, we ought to look toward Capitol Hill instead.

JAMES KILPATRICK

Congress alone has the power to raise taxes and to appropriate public funds. If the budget for fiscal '75 is to be cut back to $300 billion, as Ford has urged, Congress will have to cut it. A president can ask for certain measures; a president can beg, beseech and entreat; he can scold, exhort, praise and condemn; but when the roll is called up yonder, he can't vote.

Will Congress take effective action? Individually, one could name a number of senators and representatives who preach economy and practice what they preach. Collectively, the two bodies are fat and happy spenders. The record of the past 10 years is one appalling record of irresponsible outlays — of deficits that have pumped $100 billion paper into our money supply.

What has the Congress done lately? Last month the Senate rejected a sensible effort by President Ford to save $700 million by postponing a federal pay raise until the first of the year. The Senate came within an eyelash of creating a new Agency for Consumer Advocacy that would have cost millions of dollars.

CIA had no hand in British election outcome

A few thoughts on the British election, not all of them morose:

1) It is sometimes necessary to take the long view. I remember when Winston Churchill spoke his famous phrase, "If the British Empire lasts one thousand years, men will still say, 'this was their finest hour'." What struck me, at age 15, was that anyone should doubt that the British Empire would last a thousand years. Surely things like the British Empire were invented by God to last forever.

Five years after Churchill spoke those words he was speaking them not defensively, to his own people. He said he had not been appointed His Majesty's First Minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire. A few years after that, the British Empire was reduced to an administrative abstraction.

2) A British philosopher and political theorist, by a small audience overtaken by his brilliance, long ago evolved the thesis that somewhere along the line, back a few hundred years ago, western civilization abandoned its experiment with freedom; that we became, in his phrase, "individualists monnaques."

Americans who have never questioned their conviction that freedom is here to stay should remember that it was for Abraham Lincoln an open question. More recent American examples center around Woodrow Wilson's quixotic crusade to bring democracy to the peoples of the world. Since then democracy is drastically reduced, and increasingly, historians agree that Wilson's campaign accelerated the attrition.

3) In England now the people have spoken firmly. They have given the socialist government total power. Harold Wilson's problems, meanwhile, make his own, by contrast, nugatory. He has an inflation rate of near 20 per cent. The imbalance of trade has to be stopped, or else credit will be gone, absolutely. He has relied on the rhetorical "social contract" with the labor unions.

Translated, the social contract meant that the unions would behave long enough to get Wilson re-elected with an absolute majority. The social contract is without strategic social substance. Because even if England's labor unions didn't increase their demands, the impediments to economic ingenuity and the accumulation of wealth, condemn the economy to stagnation. What England has which is of great potential value is oil, billions of barrels of it, in the North Sea. The banks are unwilling to accelerate the extraction of this oil, risking hundreds of millions of dollars, unless a reliable arrangement can be made to secure a profit for the investors. The oil may prove for Wilson's socialism always just out of reach.

4) Which brings one to the thought that there is something to be said for another western democracy than our own heading for the final collision of forces. It is, of course, the collision between the human appetite, and human self-respect. Democratic socialism's great historical vanity is that you can have it and eat it too. England will find out ahead of the United States, and what happens there will sober us here. It is a pity to have to learn from the ordeal of another people. But remember, it was a free election. The CIA had nothing to do with it.

Why not let Rocky pay Nixon's legal fees?

WASHINGTON — The two major political problems in this country this week are that Nelson Rockefeller seems to have too much money and Richard Nixon doesn't seem to have enough.

Last Friday the headlines said Rocky was throwing around money, while the Justice Department had made a deal to defend Richard Nixon's Watergate civil suits at no cost to him.

This angered many people, including Selwyn Minsner who called in a rage. "Why should I as a taxpayer have to foot Nixon's legal fees?" "Because," I said, "that's the way they do over at Justice. They feel they owe Nixon something."

"Why doesn't Rocky give him the money?" Minsner wanted to know. "Why should Rockefeller give him any money?" I asked. "Because if Nixon hadn't resigned, Rockefeller wouldn't be the vice-presidential candidate now." "That's true, but Rockefeller can't give money to everybody. After all, there's a limit to his fortune," I said. "How do you know that?"

ART BUCHWALD

He had me there. "I'm just guessing. There's, isn't there?" "Why are you asking me?" Selwyn wanted to know. "Anyway I think we should make Rocky promise to take care of Nixon for the rest of his life." "That's not cheap," I warned Selwyn. "Nixon likes servants, chauffeurs, secretaries, ghost-writers, a press secretary and a large office staff."

"Rocky can handle it," Selwyn assured me. "At least, he can afford it more than we can." "But," I said, "there could be a conflict of interest. Suppose Nixon ran for public office again? If he had accepted money he'd be under obligation to Rockefeller."

"If you read Rockefeller's statements he has never given anybody money except as a gesture of appreciation and friendship. Not once has he taken advantage of the gifts." "You know that," I said, "and I know that. But does Nixon know it? I think you have a good idea, but it won't fly. We, the public, should give Nixon anything he asks for and not leave it up to the Rockefeller's of this world. "While I'm the first to agree that this country should economize, I don't believe it should be at the expense of an ex-president who was forced to resign because he was up to his ears in the obstruction of justice for which he has been given a full and unqualified pardon."

"Well it was just an idea," Selwyn said. "You don't have to get sore at me." "I'm sorry, I lost my cool," I said. "But you have to admit, we've reached a sorry point in this country when we question a man who gives one or two million dollars away to people he has a deep affection for." "I wasn't questioning that," Minsner protested. "All I was suggesting was a way to take care of Nixon's legal and household bills without sticking the taxpayer. Gerry Ford did ask us to think of ways of saving money." "He also said it was time we forgave Rockefeller," I said, "because he's suffered enough."

(C) Los Angeles Times

Kennedy out of the race, he is now leading the Democratic polls. Veteran politicians will tell you that Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Jr. of Texas, and Gov. Reubin Askew, of Florida, are men of presidential stature. Similarly, John Gardner of Common Cause believes Gov. Dan Evans of the state of Washington, and Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., should be considered seriously for the presidency.

JAMES RESTON

No president from the South has been elected in this century unless he was first in the vice president's chair, and the South has produced a good crop of candidates this year.

Among them, in addition to Bentsen and Askew, are Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, former governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina, Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana, Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas; Julian Bond, state senator from Georgia, and Sen. Howard Baker, Jr. of Tenn.

Most of these men are almost 20 years younger than the leading Republicans, President Ford, Nelson Rockefeller of New York, and Ronald Reagan of California. But the voters are not likely to consider them if they seldom see them.

The objection to publicizing them now is that it is "too early," but if they are not known until the primaries, the chances are it will then be too late.

Editor, Times-News:
There is something that needs to be said regarding the candidacy of Mr. Church for re-election to the U.S. Senate. This is his record with respect to issues bearing on the national security of our country.

I have just received the annual congressional vote tabulation for 1974 called the National Security Voting Index published by the American Security Council, 101 17th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. The first part of the report consists of a tabulation of public opinion surveys in the form of answers to seven key questions on national security matters. It reflects the results of surveys by two independent agencies: The Opinion Research Corp., and The American Security Council.

The public opinion surveys referred to are used as a measuring device for the second part of the report which is the tabulated voting record of every senator and published by the American Security Council in Congress. It is their 1974 voting record on the ten most significant security issues presented in each respective chamber of Congress. Each issue is detailed with a bill number, name of the sponsor and capsule description of the matter together with a statement of whether a "Nay" or "Yea" vote would be consistent with the public opinion survey. Then follows the measure by measure vote of every member of Congress in the U.S. Where a member is not present to vote, that item is omitted from his scoring record. There results a score of from 0 to 100 which is called the member's National Security Voting Index.

The following tabulation reflects the record of the Idaho delegation for 1974:

Letters

House, Symms, 100; Hansen, 89. Senate — Church, 0, McCure, 100.

I do not suggest that there should be a thoroughly consistent pattern of position among all delegates on issues.

There is always room for reasonable dissent. Here however we are not looking at mere dissent.

In the area of national security we are looking at total diametric opposition of Mr.

Church not only with all the rest of his state delegation but majority public opinion as well. He could not bring himself to support even one significant national security measure. Mr. Church is one of 22 senators with scores of zero.

If Mr. Church, on the overriding vital issues of national security is right then his constituents are wrong. If not then perhaps the Idaho voters should turn away Messrs Symms and Hansen and at the proper time Senator McCure.

Trade accord set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford and Sen. Henry M. Jackson have reached a compromise for easing restrictions on emigration of Jews and others from the Soviet Union in exchange for granting the Soviet Union a better deal in foreign trade.

It would grant the Soviet Union most favored nation treatment — extending terms equal to those given other countries — and give the President authority to join in international negotiations to lower trade barriers.

The compromise is the result of drawn-out negotiations between the United States, the Soviet Union and Sen. Jackson, D-Wash.

The sources said the President would assure Jackson that the Soviet Union will ease restrictions against emigration of Jews and other citizens.

Fuel tax-boost groundwork laid

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE (UPI) — You are not likely to be unimpressed about the need for an increase in Idaho's gasoline taxes.

State officials appear to be laying the groundwork to ask the next Legislature for a hike in the present tax of 8 1/2 cents per gallon.

First, the Department of Transportation recently issued two news statements calling attention to the DOT's money problems. It said the DOT is being pinched not only for maintenance funds but road construction monies.

Director Darrell Manning said in an interview he was looking at all the economic problems in the department's operation in an effort to make ends meet.

"Now, Manning did not talk of any gasoline tax increase. But the news statements — plus the concern he expressed about funds — are part of a pattern statehouse reporters long have recognized. The big DOT problem, saying it is growing serious. Then they talk of ways to cope with this problem. They begin with economizing in their operations. Next, they run out the limit of their economics. And then they come up with a choice: Cut services or increase spending.

In the case of road maintenance and construction, it is pretty clear that increased spending will mean increased gasoline and other taxes on motorists.

Usually, public officials call attention to what they are doing at various stages and in such a manner as to build up a public awareness of if not public sympathy to their plight so the big tax push — when it comes — won't be such a shock.

When it's done well, such a project enlists citizen organizations who also come in and urge the Legislature to do something to assist the agency in question.

It is true that the DOT has more maintenance monies — funds that come at the state level. It probably will have to cut back on road construction if taxes on motor fuels are not increased.

And now, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has told the Idaho Press Club that a study is under way to determine the need for any gasoline tax increases and what various sized hikes might produce in the way of revenue.

Andrus has said he will hold the line against any General Fund tax increases and has been careful to say "General Fund." When asked specifically about motor fuel taxes, he told the press club he would "not rule it out" at this time until he sees the outcome of the study.

He added that even if he proposed a gasoline tax hike, the Legislature very possibly may not be in the mood to approve one.

That, of course, is one of the reasons state officials sometimes lay the groundwork for tax increases — with reports of, serious situations, economics and studies of possible solutions — to improve the climate in the halls of the Legislature.

Don't be surprised if the state tries next year what President Ford has spoken out against at the federal level: An increase in motor fuel taxes.

Vaccine for mumps advisable course

By GEORGE C. THOMPSON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Some years ago I knew three boys who had mumps and were sick. They all became sterile. Since there has been so much progress in medicine, is there any way to correct this? — T.W.

No. But now there's mumps vaccine for boys who are getting into their teens or later and have not had the mumps. The disease is relatively harmless for young children, becomes more risky as they approach or reach adulthood. So it's safer to have the vaccine and avoid the disease.

Dear Dr. Thompson: My mother told me that hickies can cause skin cancer. I have asked several people about this and no one knows for sure. If they do cause skin cancer, how many can endanger a person? — Is a person tending to bruise easily more susceptible to skin cancer? — C.C.

"I don't have an exact definition of a "hickey" but presume it's safe to say that it can mean an acne eruption or a pimple.

"To answer your questions — or try to — I don't know of any indication that hickies, regardless of the number, have any relation to skin cancer. Same goes for easy-bruises.

One thing that is known to be associated with skin cancer is long and excessive exposure to strong sunlight. Note the word "excessive." And it takes years to develop.

Ordination endorsed

OAXTEPEC, Mexico (UPI) — The bishops of the 3.5 million-member U.S. Episcopal Church have endorsed the ordination of women priests in principle, but have come out against any actual ordinations for the time being.

The House of Bishops, ending a week-long convention in this Mexican resort today, sided stepped the fate of 11 women deacons already ordained as priests and demanding recognition.

By a vote of 97 to 35 with six abstentions, the bishops Thursday reaffirmed their 1972 endorsement in New Orleans "of the principle of women's ordinations."

In a unanimous voice vote, however, the house called on women "to refrain from any attempts to ordain women into the priesthood unless and until such ordinations have been approved by the general convention of this church."

Nixon's health much improved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Richard Nixon's lawyers report the former president's health is so much improved he may be able to provide sworn testimony for his Watergate cover-up trial of five former aides as soon as next month.

But they also have filed suit against the Ford administration, seeking to block any release of Nixon administration tapes and documents except those under subpoena.

They also want to permit Nixon to review all materials subpoenaed in the future.

A hearing on a companion request for a temporary injunction was scheduled for Monday morning before U.S. District Judge Charles R. Hickey.

Abandoning their stand that Nixon is too ill to testify at the cover-up trial, the former president's lawyers reported Thursday that now "the prognosis is very good" he will be well enough to undergo questioning—at least in snippets—within three or four weeks.

Encouraged by that report,

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica put off a decision on earlier Nixon motions to quash subpoenas for his appearance as a trial witness on grounds of ill health.

But Sirica made it clear at a brief hearing that he wants to see Nixon on the stand rather than be forced to settle for his testimony in writing.

"It would be helpful to the defendants and the government if he progresses to the point where it would not injure his health for him to appear here in open court," Sirica said. "Let's hope he improves sufficiently in three weeks."

He asked for a new medical report within that time and said he may send a team of three doctors to California to examine the former President on behalf of the court before deciding whether to compel his appearance on the witness stand.

79 Demos, 1 GOP endorsed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Political Action Committee of the United Mine Workers has endorsed 79 Democrats and one Republican in House races this fall through a screening process the union says reflected the wishes of the miners themselves.

The lone Republican endorsed by the UMWA's Coal Miners' Political Action Committee (COMPAC) for a House race is Joseph M. Meland of the 10th district in Pennsylvania.

The 80 endorsed include only 37 incumbents.

"There's definitely dissatisfaction with incumbents," said a COMPAC spokesman. "Most of the target races are challenges against incumbents," he said.

Of six "target" races mentioned, one of the candidates getting COMPAC backing was an incumbent, John P. Niertha, a Pennsylvania freshman. A "target" race is where it is close and COMPAC is focusing resources.

The significance of the COMPAC list lies in the newness of COMPAC, which provides political information to about 120,000 miners and 75,000 pensioners.

COMPAC is an outcropping of the top to bottom reform efforts of UMWA President Arnold Miller.

Fear didn't halt intervention

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

WASHINGTON — The secret U.S. intervention in Chile was ordered despite the fear of the state department and the Central Intelligence Agency that it would be exposed and embarrass the nation, a top intelligence official has informed the Chicago Sun-Times.

Ray S. Cline, deputy CIA director for intelligence in the mid-1960s and head of the state department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research during the Chile operation, said:

"State and the CIA were dubious but naturally went along because the White House—either Nixon or Dr. Kissinger or both—decided to push the program."

Cline said the misgivings were based, not on moral or legal grounds, but on the "feasibility" of the operation.

"There was fear," he recalled Thursday, "that it might lash back and injure us and that is exactly what happened."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An earphone-equipped audience in a silent courtroom listened Thursday as the tape-recorded voice of former President Richard Nixon talked to John W. Dean III on the day of the original Watergate indictments.

He said "Jerry has got to lead" — meaning that House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford should try to head off a House investigation.

Chief trial prosecutor James H. Neal said that today, the 13th day of the Watergate cover-up trial, he would play tapes of Nixon's conversations with Dean on March 17 and 21, 1972 — about the time the Watergate cover-up began to unravel.

During the March 21 meeting, the young White House counsel gave Nixon the details of the Watergate cover-up and warned, "We have a crisis — within — close to the presidency."

Dean testified at the Senate Watergate hearings that during the March 17 meeting he and Nixon discussed the use of executive privilege as a means of avoiding testifying before a Senate committee.

"He opined that he did not think the Senate would be dumb enough to go for the ball he had given them but he was hopeful they might," Dean said then.

As the tape of Nixon's Sept. 15, 1972, conversation with Dean and White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman was played, every person in the silent courtroom — the jury, presiding Judge John J. Sirica, the five defendants, their lawyers, reporters and the 100 persons in the audience — wore large earphones.

The jury and reporters had transcripts to follow the conversation more easily.

The House Judiciary Committee during its impeachment inquiry and the Nixon White House previously had released transcripts of the conversation, so little new of substance was learned. But the tapes proved impressive.

Dean, who has testified he had spoken with Nixon previous to that day only at a half-dozen or so ceremonial occasions, seemed to grow in confidence and spoke much more fluently as the 35-minute conversation progressed.

Haldeman, the White House chief of staff with a reputation for being all business, laughed frequently on the tape. Nixon clearly was in charge.

The recorded conversation took place on the afternoon following the first series of indictments in the hurgary of Democratic National Committee headquarters.

Congress faces voters

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A week overdue, Congress finally has gone home to face the voters.

When the Senate and House gather again, Nov. 18, it will be for a post-election session that promises to run into January.

Congress recessed Thursday after testing President Ford in a week-long brawl over U.S. military aid to Turkey.

Despite the most strenuous objections of President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and two vetoes, Congress voted to cut off military aid to Turkey.

The only concession it granted was that the embargo is suspended until Dec. 19 as long as Turkey maintains the ceasefire and U.S. aid that can "kill, wound or destroy" is not transhipped from Turkey to Cyprus.

After Dec. 19, aid can be resumed if Ford certifies that "substantial progress" has been made toward a settlement and that U.S. military supplies are being used only for self-defense — tantamount to requiring Turkey to withdraw from Cyprus.

The compromise on aid ended a confrontation between Ford and the Congress which had held up funding of government departments including Labor, Agriculture and Health, Education and Welfare.

The Senate passed it by voice vote Thursday. The House adopted it 191 to 33.

The aid provision was attached to a "continuing resolution" for temporary funding of the government agencies, and it meant that those agencies now will get their funds.

A key Congress also moved to forestall any "pocket vetoes" by which legislation dies if Ford takes no action while the recess is under way.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, informed by the White House that there was a "good chance" Ford would veto a 23 per cent increase in educational benefits for veterans, refused to release the bill.

The Senate also stayed in session long enough to receive Ford's veto of legislation which would broaden laws under which the public can get access to government documents and records.

The maneuvering assured Congress of a chance of overriding the vetoes when it returns.

Congress faces a maximum seven week lame duck session, punctuated by Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. Much of what Congress can do will depend on the election results.

Should the Democrats increase their majorities — as is expected — the lame duck session is expected to produce few results, with action on major bills put off until next year.

A major project for the postelection session is the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

Although the Senate Rules Committee may reopen hearings a week before Congress reconvenes, there is a possibility that a confirmation vote in the House may have to be put off until next year.

Law greets 4 Americans freed from Castro jails

MIAMI (UPI) — Four young Americans released from Cuban prisons arrived in Miami Thursday. Two were arrested and the others subpoenaed to testify in a narcotics investigation.

FBI agents arrested Phillip Burris of Oakland, Calif., and Richard Johnson, of Walnut Creek, Calif., when their plane from Bartados landed. They were charged with stealing a small plane in Miami five years ago and flying it to Cuba.

Clifford Johnson tried to prevent agents from taking his son into custody and they had to restrain him by pushing him up against a wall away from his son.

The younger Johnson, wearing handcuffs, emerged from the customs office at the Miami International Airport and was greeted by a tearful embrace from his mother.

Johnson and Burris were arrested and charged with bringing drugs into Cuba when their small plane landed in Matanzas Province in November, 1970. They deny the charge, saying they were short on fuel.

Miss Brown and Nirenberg were arrested Sept. 17, 1973, aboard their yacht "Salvaje" off the Cuban coast and charged with possession of drugs, which they also deny.

David Bruce Nirenberg, 22, of Pennsylvania, and Susan Lane Brown, 22, of South Royalton, Vt., were released after being served subpoenas to appear before a West Palm Beach grand jury Nov. 11.

The grand jury is investigating illicit drug activity, federal narcotics agents said.

What ordinarily would have been a happy reunion turned into a bitter, emotional shouting and shoving match between FBI agents and Johnson's father.

But the elder Johnson started shouting the FBI agents, "No, no, no, you can't take him," and tried to prevent their taking him to an FBI automobile waiting a few yards away.

Almost in tears after being restrained, he continued to moan, "After four years in hell and you're making me go through this."

The FBI agent in charge, Kenneth Whittaker, said "We didn't even know the parents were going to be here." He said he did not know Mrs. Johnson knew their son was going to be arrested.

Demos want more witnesses on pardon

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — Declaring that President Ford's testimony concerning his pardon of Richard M. Nixon had raised new questions, four Democrats on the House Judiciary Subcommittee that heard him said they would press to call additional witnesses.

In contrast, the four subcommittee Republicans said they were satisfied that the full story had been told and that there was no need to question additional witnesses.

Free info measure rejected

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — President Ford vetoed new legislation Wednesday that would have made government-held information more accessible to the public.

In his appearance, Ford denied there was a "deal" for Nixon's pardon before he became President following Nixon's resignation on Aug. 9.

There are several questions that the subcommittee could take when it returns.

In another key point, Ford said that he believed Nixon's acceptance of the pardon was tantamount to an admission of guilt in illegal Watergate related activities. The statement came in response to a query by Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md.

While stopping short of saying that they felt Ford had not been completely truthful, both Mrs. Abzug and Conyers said they did not think that the evidence was clear enough to prove there was no deal made on granting Nixon a pardon.

Thus, it appeared that there would be a partisan clash within the nine-member subcommittee on an criminal justice when Congress returns from an election recess in mid-November.

"I just don't believe the whole story holds together," Mrs. Abzug said. "I find it difficult to accept."

While not joining his four Democratic colleagues in calling for additional witnesses, the subcommittee chairman, William L. Hungate of Missouri, indicated that he felt that some further questions needed to be answered.

Most of the pressure against the amendments came from the Justice Department, the National Security Council and other departments involved in domestic and foreign intelligence.

Still another course, that the Republicans are considered likely to push, is to seek to end the inquiry.

The President said that he would soon submit his own legislation to amend the act.

The authors of two resolutions of inquiry that the original bill, passed in 1972, was signed by former President Johnson although virtually all government agencies opposed it.

The four subcommittee Democrats said that they wanted to question other witnesses before Ford appeared before the subcommittee today.

A key provision of it authorized persons to file a complaint in a federal district court to force a government agency to produce information that it was withholding, and authorized the courts to punish officials if they did not comply.

Aid clash at end

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's confrontation with Congress over military aid shipments to Turkey appears to be over.

had been postponed since last Friday because of the dispute.

Congress Thursday passed a compromise measure, continuing U.S. military aid to Turkey until Dec. 10 so long as no new U.S. "implements of war" are sent to Cyprus.

The unravelling of the dispute came early in the afternoon Thursday, when the House failed to override President Ford's second veto of a similar measure, which would have banned shipment to Cyprus of any U.S.-supplied military aid.

President Ford was expected to sign it today, even though he has reservations about it.

Under the compromise adopted by Congress, Turkey will be able to resupply its 40,000 troops on Cyprus with ordinary maintenance materials, but not with weapons, ammunition or other American "implements of war."

The Senate passed the compromise measure by voice vote Thursday. The House adopted it 191 to 33.

The aid provision was attached to a "continuing resolution" for temporary funding of several government agencies, and the reaching of a compromise meant that those agencies now will get their funds. The compromise also allowed Congress Thursday night to begin a recess which

Declaring that the subcommittee had performed a "cover-up" of its own by failing to question other witnesses before Ford appeared, Conyers said that "it would be futile now to talk to anybody else. They'd have to support the President's version now."

The Senate passed the compromise measure by voice vote Thursday. The House adopted it 191 to 33.

Despite Conyer's gloomy assessment of what might still be learned about the pardon issue, a majority of subcommittee Democrats said today that they wanted to question other witnesses to resolve what they called "new and old questions."

The old provision was attached to a "continuing resolution" for temporary funding of several government agencies, and the reaching of a compromise meant that those agencies now will get their funds. The compromise also allowed Congress Thursday night to begin a recess which

The four subcommittee Republicans — Willey Mayne of Iowa, Henry Smith of New York, Hogan of Maryland and David W. Dennis of Indiana — said that they were satisfied that Ford had been completely candid and had told the full truth about the pardon.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, which shrugged off some adverse economic news to register a gain Thursday, opened higher Friday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 9.15 points in the previous session, was up 1.00 to 632.24 shortly after the opening. It lost 31.21 points Tuesday and Wednesday. Advances led declines, 173 to 85, among the 301 issues tracking the tape.

First National City Bank of New York, the second largest in the nation and a transferee, lowered its prime rate to 11 1/2 percent from 12 1/2 percent.

Courtesy Sinclair & Co. — Cattle Futures Improved, wheat was higher and soybeans closed lower in trading Thursday.

Commodity News Service said the cattle contract in the cattle complex is expected to have improved as a result of a tougher bargaining outlook on the part of producers and an increase in beef promotions which traders feel will eliminate beef channels and allow a brisk slaughter pace to be absorbed.

Wheat futures closed 5 cents to 9 cents higher with late support from professional buyers. The only export news — in any U.S. grain — was Korea's intention to purchase 50,000 tons of U.S. wheat Thursday.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am being married soon. My fiancé's favorite brother, who was asked to be our best man, has just undergone his third operation. He will be out of the hospital in time for our wedding, but he'll be in a wheelchair for several months.

My fiancé insists that his brother be in the wedding party... wheelchair or no wheelchair. I don't know if there will be over 500 people at the wedding and reception. I'm having a professional photographer take pictures of the whole thing—even movies—and I just know that wheelchair will ruin everything. Imagine, the best man going down the aisle in a wheelchair! I'm afraid people will laugh.

Please don't get me wrong, Abby. I love my future brother-in-law and am sorry for what he's had to go through, but I think someone else should take his place as best man. Am I wrong for wanting everything to be perfect?

PHOENIX BRIDE

Bride wants no 'wheels'

DEAR BRIDE: If by "perfect" you mean appearances over the feelings of your fiancé and his favorite brother, you are indeed wrong.

A best man in a wheelchair (or for that matter, ANY member of wedding in a wheelchair) is not unique in the annals of wedding ceremonies. And it's not apt to be laughed at.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 13-year-old girl. I'm writing this for my brother (he's 12) and myself because we both have the same problem. It's our father.

He refuses to take a vacation. Dad says he can't spare the time. He's in the insurance business and he makes a good living, but what good is the money if he works himself to a frazzle? Mom is a housewife. We live in a nice home in the suburbs, have two cars, nice clothes and my brother and I go to a good camp.

Mom and Dad haven't had a vacation together since they've been married. Other families take a vacation every year. All our dad knows is work. Is there some way we can get him to take a vacation?

We're not asking for a trip ourselves. We'd be happy if he took Mom and went someplace for a rest. Can you solve our problem?

DEAR KIDS: You might tell Dad that because you love him you want him to live a long time, so he'd better take care of his health. Being in the insurance business he knows that all work and no play may make a lot of Jack, but it also makes Jack a poor insurance risk.

DEAR ABBY: Sixteen years ago I read a letter in your column urging readers to remove the doors from stored and abandoned iceboxes and refrigerators so children couldn't crawl into them and become accidentally trapped. (You called them "potential coffins.")

I remembered that letter so vividly because the year before, I had lost a precious four-year-old grandson in such a senseless accident. Following his death, his mother (my daughter-in-law) had psychiatric treatment for a year to overcome her recurring nightmares and feelings of guilt. I read the same warning in your column three more times over the years.

Yesterday I read a similar item in our local newspaper. A seven-year-old girl, who had been missing for 12 hours, was found dead in an abandoned icebox in the basement of a playmate's home. During a game of hide-and-seek, the child had crawled into the icebox, was trapped, and eventually died of suffocation.

Abby, will you please warn your readers again? It may save a young life.

DEAR GRANDMA: I will. But most people are strange. They think the weird things about which they read can never happen to them.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Miss Clough, Taylor recite nuptial vows

KIMBERLY—Daughter Janu Clough and Michael John Taylor were married in an evening ceremony at the Redeemer Lutheran church in Kimberly.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Clough and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Malberg, all Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R.J. Scholtes, Buhl.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length princess-styled gown of satin crepe, with pearl trim on the tapered sleeves and slit neckline and full-length veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of white orchids, white statice, streamers, and green netting attached to her white Bible.

Large baskets of autumn-colored nuts in assorted sizes and candelebra decorated the altar. Pewes were tied with bronze-colored flowers. Organist was Herbert Einspahr.

A maid of honor was Fenice Russel and bridesmaids were Debbie Fruett and Fayne Mowbr. Best man was Gary Woodruff and groomsmen were Larry Malberg, brother of the bridegroom, and Meil Moelter. Ushers and emdelighters were Tony Clough, brother of the bride, and Marvin Pierce.

A reception was held after the ceremony with Vicky Mahler in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was covered with white lace skirts over gold. The four-tiered service cake was decorated with small white bells and doves around the lace edges and surrounded with golden bronze mums. It was topped with two white satin bells and netting.

The gift table and small quarter guest tables also were skirted to match the bride's table and centered with hurricane lamps circled with flowers. Large white pillars with a waterfall in the center decorated the end of the reception room.

The cake was served by Dorothy Mingo and Kay Malberg, aunts of the bride. Pewes were tied with white, John Wolf, aunt of the bride, Panch was served by Mrs. Betty Mahler. Gifts were arranged by Janet Malberg, sister of the bridegroom; Cathy Scott and Sherian Bradley.

Sachets of rice were given to the guests by Shane Clough, brother of the bride, and

UN seminar slated on food

TWIN FALLS — A seminar on the United Nations is scheduled Saturday at the Twin Falls Methodist church. Topic for the day will be World Hunger. David Nesmith of the United Methodist Office at the United Nations will be the resource person. At 9 a.m. the session will open with a brief orientation on Public Law 499 providing for food for peace. At 10:30 a.m. Harold West, executive director of the Idaho Wheat Commission, will speak. Following lunch, Erwin Schuber, Caldwell, will speak on "World Food — global conscience" and Theo Murdoch, Twin Falls, Health and Welfare Department, Twin Falls, will discuss food stamps. Two films will be shown, one on the African drought and there will be small group discussion as well as sharing fellowship and a meager meal is planned at noon, according to Latus Schmucker, Twin Falls chairman.

Handiwork brook displayed

Deanery confab Tuesday in TF

TWIN FALLS — Gerald Van Noord, Holland, Mich., will be guest speaker at the Episcopal Deanery conference on evangelism at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension. Van Noord is a nationally known layman of the Dutch Reform church. The Very Rev. Robert Browne, dean of St. Michael's cathedral, Boise, is chairman of the Diocesan Evangelism committee presentation. A special closing service of inspiration, led by "Genesis", a group of musically talented Episcopal Young Churchmen will be presented at 9:45 p.m. Special interest groups scheduled for 8:15 p.m. will include "Carsillo", "Faith Alive", prayer fellowship, bible study groups, retreats and quiet days and a preview of workshops scheduled for later in the year. Everyone is invited.

Go to church Sunday set

TWIN FALLS — Georglanna Massey, honored queen, and members of Bethel 19 will observe national "Go to Church Sunday" at the Daughters International at the 11 a.m. service of First Baptist Church, Twin Falls. Accompanying the group will be Mrs. Marian Langdon and Wayne Ford, guardians. At both 8:30 and 11 a.m. Rev. James B. Hughes will speak on "The Church and 'Future Shock'". Mrs. Teddy Snow will be the soloist in the second hour. Church school classes for pre-school children through adults meet at 9:45 a.m.

Carwash Sunday

TWIN FALLS — Youth of the First United Methodist church will wash cars at the owners' home, Sunday afternoon to raise funds for the upcoming youth retreat. Anyone wanting his car washed is urged to call 743-2125 and a youth will come to his home to do the job, according to Rev. Ray Thompson, minister. The Junior and senior high school youth will meet at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the church fellowship hall.

Rev. Thompson deals with the characteristics of Jesus' life that "we might better understand who and what He was." Church school and adult study groups meet at 9:45 a.m. and new members will be welcomed in the 11 a.m. service which is broadcast weekly over Radio station KEEB.

Assembly church sets Buhl service

BUHL — The Rev. Harry Coffman will speak on "Where are all the People?" during the morning service at the First Assembly of God, Buhl. The message will deal with loving, caring and meeting the needs of people who are not in church. The evening service at 8 p.m. will have the message "Faith in Action." In both the Old Testament and New Testament are examples of how God's people, by putting their faith in action, accomplished mighty deeds.

TWIN FALLS — "Doctrine of Atonement" will be the title of the Christian Science Church lesson-sermon Sunday. The radio program conducted at 6:35 p.m. Monday on KTFI will be entitled "The two great commandments — part one, Love God." There will be a free lecture for the community on Oct. 29.

Relief Society resumes

SHOSHONE — Weekly lessons have resumed after the summer vacation for the LDS Relief Society. The visiting teacher messages for October and November are set upon the theme of "Truths to Live By," with stress on women using their free agency to develop wisdom and self-reliance and the scripture Psalms 23:1 "I will fear no evil, for thou art with me." "The Spiritual Living Lessons for October and November deal with revelation and the subject "Genuine or Counterfeit." Family health is the subject of the homemaking lessons this year, with the October lesson giving an understanding of diseases and the November lessons taking up cause and transmission of Disease. The objective is to aid women in understanding how infectious diseases are transmitted and to help them learn and observe the general rules of disease prevention.

The Mother Education lessons for the two months deal with ways mothers can recognize specific behaviors in their children and help them complete each development stage of growth. Under the topic Developing Self-Discipline, the women are urged to be able to identify methods of fostering self-discipline in young children and apply these methods in their homes. "Giving of Yourself" was the October topic for the Social Relations lesson, dealing with the need to have someone care, and using the example of Jesus Christ to follow. Objective of the November lesson is to help women understand that, "if she desires she can do something to help another." In the Cultural Refinement lessons, the countries and cultures of Peru and the Netherlands are being studied in October and November.

Church news in brief

TWIN FALLS — "Don't Blame God," a sermon based on the book of Job, will be presented by Rev. Robert Van Nest Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church of Twin Falls. Rev. Van Nest will present the sermon at both the 9:30 a.m. and the 11 a.m. services. The Job's daughters from Bethel #3 will attend the 11 a.m. service.

The church congregation is currently producing an all-church pictorial directory. Portraits for the directory will be taken until Oct. 24. The Keeneburg will meet Monday in the church dining room at 6:30 p.m. for their monthly potluck dinner and program. Mrs. Loma Childs of Maple Carpet Travel will show slides of her recent trip to Guatemala and El Salvador. Other speakers of the evening included his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrett, Sr.; Kay Sorensen, Don Aslett, Bishop LaMar Duffin and President Walter Bowman.

Jerome divides into 4 wards

JEROME — Two new wards have been initiated in the Jerome LDS stake, Marlen Lancaster—Wendell, first counselor in the stake presidency, announced. More than 900 persons, attending sacrament and counselor Sunday afternoon where boundaries for the four wards were outlined and leaders for each of the new divisions were sustained. Jerome first ward will be headed by Jack Butters, bishop; Jack Tolman, first counselor; Orval Mauldin, second counselor, and Kent L. Gourley, ward clerk. Robert E. Williams was retained as second ward bishop with Terry Lee as first counselor and Robert Hustam, clerk. William Hadlock is bishop for the third ward with Ray Olsen, first counselor; Steve Dixon, second counselor, and Don Emery, clerk. The fourth ward leadership includes Russell Woolley, bishop; Deryl Hillman, first counselor, and Wayne McMurdie, second counselor. President Lancaster reported since Fairfield and Glenn Ferry wards were removed from the stake last spring and placed in the Mountain Home stake, membership has grown in the Jerome stake to nearly the same number of members. He said the first and third wards will meet in the new church building which is not yet completed and the second and fourth will meet in the stake center. Members of the first and second wards are to remain as they are for several weeks until the new building is completed.

Health meet set tonight

TWIN FALLS — The annual meeting of the Idaho Mental Health Association opens tonight at the Blue Lakes Inn.

William D. Rice, vice president for communications for the National Mental Health Association, will address a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. on "Speaking Out." His talk will be followed by a film festival.

Saturday's session opens with a discussion on mental health services in Idaho, with a Health and Welfare director, Dr. David Groberg representing the public agency, and Dr. J. Martin Sedgewick, Boise, the private sector.

Diana Pett, executive secretary of the Greater Salt Lake Mental Health board, will talk on working with volunteers; Marge Slaten, Twin Falls, president of the League of Women Voters of Idaho, and State Sen. John Barker, Buhl, will discuss working with your legislators.

A dialogue with State Hospital South residents and association members and a luncheon speech by Dr. Len Peculianski, DeKalb, Ill., community mental health consultant, will conclude the program, with a business meeting and election of officers at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

today in brief

Chambers endorse amendment
BOISE (UPI) — Four Idaho chambers of commerce have announced their endorsement of SJR-114, the pollution control amendment to the Idaho Constitution.

Co-chairman Joe McCollum of Twin Falls said Thursday the measure to appear on the November ballot has the endorsement of chambers in Boise, Gooding, Idaho Falls and St. Maries.

The resolution would authorize counties to issue bonds financed by revenues from pollution control facilities required by industry.

Monday meet to air allocations
COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Four proposed health facility projects will be under consideration at a meeting Monday for the allocation of $1.2 million in Burton funds.

The Idaho Advisory Council for Health Facilities also will review the 1974 state plan for construction and modernization of health care facilities which lists priorities for future allocation of construction funds.

The four proposed projects are St. Luke's Hospital, Boise; Bear Lake Memorial, Pocatello; Southeastern Idaho Health Department, Pocatello; Panhandle District Health Department, Coeur d'Alene.

2 men arrested
IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — Two men have been arrested by Idaho Falls police in the burglary of drugs and pills from a prescription drug center.

Andrew Clark, who is suspected of escaping from the Idaho State Prison, and Jack Clark, Rexburg, were arrested Thursday after a stakeout of a vehicle spotted at the drug center during the burglary. They were arraigned in Magistrate Court with bond set at $2,500.

A preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 30.

Registration urged
BOISE (UPI) — The executive secretary of the Idaho Education Association is urging teachers to conduct a voter registration campaign among "18-year-old-high school" students.

Wayne York said staying away from the polls in November is not a constructive answer to America's political ills.

Murder charge dismissed
VALE, Ore. (UPI) — Malheur County Circuit Judge Jeff Dorroh Thursday dismissed a charge of murder against a man from a Payette, Idaho, labor camp in the death of a 17-year-old Ontario, Ore., girl.

District Attorney Frank Yraquan filed the motion for dismissal of charges against Jesse Flores, 22, after sessions in which Flores underwent questioning using hypnosis and a lie detector.

During the sessions, Yraquan said, "It was determined that Margarita Haro either fell or jumped from the auto and that the defendant was not directly or criminally responsible for her jumping."

The body of the 17-year-old Ontario high school girl was found Sept. 13 in a roadside car of Vale. The cause of death was a massive skull fracture. The district attorney said no other charges would be filed against Flores.

However, Oregon officials are holding Flores for Texas officials for alleged violation of probation.

2 face murder charge
BOISE (UPI) — Two Boise men are in custody in Boise City Jail on charges of deliberate murder filed by officials in Forsyth, Mont., in the murder of Peggy L. Harstad, 22, of Forsyth.

Boise Police said Robert Dennis Niek, 26, and Duoy Eugene Coleman, 27, were arrested Thursday after charges were filed in Montana.

Miss Harstad was last seen at a rodeo July 4 in Hurlburton, Mont. Her abandoned car was found along a frontage road about two miles from her parents' home the next day and her purse was found July 9 in a current near Forsyth.

Her badly decomposed body was found in late August in a tree-lined flood water drainage slough of the Yellowstone River.

Impersonates officer

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — An unidentified Caldwell woman was cut on the ankle after a man impersonating a police officer stopped her on Interstate Highway 90 east of Caldwell.

The woman said the man also asked for her car registration, and when she could not find it, he got into the car and grabbed her. She said he pulled a knife when she resisted him and she was cut on the ankle.

The woman said the man her husband was following, and he would be along in a few minutes. The man left her car, and she drove to the sheriff's office.

EPA aide tells hazards of bad irrigation plans

BURLEY — Bad irrigation practices are polluting Magic Valley waters, according to an Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) official.

In Burley Thursday for a meeting with the Idaho Water Users Association, Dan Petke, the Region X, EPA Water Program Director, said three aerial surveys were conducted of southern Idaho waterways this summer.

Pictures from the surveys clearly showed many instances of polluted water carried into ditches and streams from irrigation drains and returns.

The colored photographs indicated pollution when brownish sediments and silt were carried into the channels of the Snake and other Idaho rivers.

Petke said the aerial surveys were followed up by taking water samples from the problem drains. These samples verified the presence of chemicals and other pollutants carried into the rivers.

Dorrell C. Larsen, Eastern Irrigationist with the University of Idaho, said the answer to the problem is to "keep the silt home."

Larsen said chemicals such as pesticides and herbicides cling to the silt. The silt is then carried into water ways by poor irrigation practices. Larsen said chemical phosphate fertilizers have a particular affinity for soil particles.

Both Larsen and Petke agreed that better irrigation methods could solve the problem. Petke said in some cases sprinkler irrigation might solve the problem. However, he stated, an analysis of economics and energy requirements of sprinkler irrigation had to be taken into account.

Sedimentation ponds might be a better answer in some cases, he said.

The aerial survey showed that good irrigation practices can help clean up a river. According to Petke, if the irrigation water isn't overapplied, it filters through the soil into underground aquifers and re-enters the stream bitter and apparently cleaner than the stream itself.

A good example was a photograph identified as "a drain of the Mindoko irrigation district that enters into the Milner pool."

Water users cast votes

The special conditions of the permit require the water users to monitor and evaluate water in streams and rivers before irrigation water is taken, and after the waste water is returned.

The waterusers appeal will apparently concern the requirements on irrigators to establish their own monitoring systems and plan their own program of control and enforcement. The irrigators would prefer to have the EPA do the monitoring.

According to Chapman, the biggest objections are to sections three and four of the special conditions.

Section three states by Oct. 31, 1975, the permit holder "shall determine the need for . . . modification of any institutional or organizational changes, authorities, legislation, regulations, ordinances, etc. . . . controlling discharges of man-made or man induced pollutants into irrigation systems from sources other than irrigated agriculture."

However, Petke defended the controversial sections of the permit. He states the irrigators know more about water than the EPA will ever know. He said the purpose of the sections is to allow the irrigators "to tell us the authority they need" to deal with problem pollutants.

Further, he said, the sections would give irrigators the background data needed to seek the authority to deal with the pollution caused by irrigation water and its return to streams and rivers.

Section four states that by Dec. 31, 1975, the permit holders shall have inventoried "all significant non-irrigation sources such as those from municipal, industrial, domestic, agricultural (other than irrigation return flow), or other discharges of pollutants into irrigation canals or return flow channels" that affect the quality of irrigation water.

The waterusers say they shouldn't have to monitor and analyze water pollution. One man at the meeting said, "You're making us police dogs." He asked, "Why can't the federal government set up a project and do the sampling?"

Chapman said the sampling and monitoring program would cost irrigators from 25 cents to $2 an acre to comply with the special conditions.

Chapman stated, "No irrigator wants to pollute and the members of the association are willing to clean up sources of pollution." But irrigators don't have the money to conduct the monitoring program, he said.

The current permit system forces the irrigators to come up with data to use against themselves, Chapman stated. He feels the EPA should do the monitoring and if there's a problem, the irrigators will clean it up.

Power plant pollution death toll 50 annually

According to Cohen, since nuclear power plants are not located in large cities, even if the emergency core cooling system fails, living near such a plant is one hundred times safer than living in a large city.

He termed the dangers from a nuclear power plant no more than those from consuming 30 puffs of a cigarette in a year, being 1-200 of an ounce overweight or for a farmer to spend an extra five minutes per year in a city.

Cohen said that air pollution from a coal fired plant may also be causing long-term climatic change on Earth from the carbon dioxide they discharge.

He said the coal which such plants consume is valuable for "steel production and as a feedstock for manufacture of liquid and gas fuels, plastics, medicines and many organic chemicals."

Cohen said that some critics say it is not the average number of deaths per year that counts, but the total number which might be killed in a single accident. He uses the example of a single accident killing 10,000 people and says that he thinks that if a large airplane loaded with gasoline were to crash into a football stadium it would be responsible for any legal action in making Sawtooth City a designated city.

He said that an accident would reduce attendance at Inter football games.

Corrections plan okayed

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News writer

JEROME — The Fourth District County Commissioners Association agreed Thursday to assist in supporting the Magic Valley Volunteers and Corrections Program.

County commissioners from six communities met in Jerome to consider proposals involving county projects. Lincoln and Camas counties were not represented.

Mrs. Hoops, who works with adult and juvenile parolees and probationers, explained the program is being extended through the eighth counties and she will be in each county at least once each month.

"At the present time we have 67 volunteers who work with those on parole or probation in order to help them readjust to community life. Because of the program some people arrested for minor crimes such as bad checks, drunkenness and many first time offenders are returned to society to lead a productive life in the community rather than being left in jails doing nothing and being fed by the taxpayers," she said.

Mrs. Hoops said 27,334 criminal cases were handled through the courts in the past year in the eight counties.

Dr. James Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho, asked for financial support from each county for the senior citizens program now being developed at CSI. He said at the present time Dr. Roy Strawser is in charge of the office of the aging and is preparing a request for federal grant money.

Taylor said the budget for the proposed program is not yet final and said he will notify each county of their financial participations as soon as the budget is completed.

"We would like to try to establish a Senior Citizen Center available within commuter distance in each of the counties. We have been asked by the senior citizens for an information center. This could be based if Twin Falls with satellite centers within calling distance of each county, Dr. Taylor said.

Trout loss

Thursday or today.

Webb said he had received reports that the loss was about 800,000 pounds.

Both Salter and Webb also said that Clear Springs reportedly processed about 20,000 pounds of trout after the accident on an emergency basis. They also disclosed that most of the dead fish were buried.

Cope again confirmed that the reported poundage of processed fish was "not out of line." He said "most of the losses" were buried.

Cope, Salter and Webb denied a rumor that the Fish and Game Department turned down an offer by Clear Springs to give the fish to the state immediately after the accident.

They also denied a rumor that the state agency refused to let the trout company release the fish into the Snake River.

All three said there was no contact attempted or made between Clear Springs and the agency.

"If they had asked us to release the fish into the river, we wouldn't have let them dump dead and dying fish. . . . Webb said, "But they didn't ask us. . . . And there would have been no chance to plant the fish. They die too fast. It was just too fast for anybody."

Cope said Clear Springs trout loss is more than produced by state-operated hatcheries during the last 12 months.

The accident occurred Sept. 30 at a Clear Springs hatchery south of Box Canyon on the Snake River. According to Cope, a water line feeding the hatchery from Box Canyon "broke loose."

"The hatchery was left without water and we lost the swimming inventory that we had in the facility," he said.

According to Cope, trout can live for "only a few minutes" without a fresh supply of water because they soon exhaust the oxygen supply.

Cope said the trout company would resume operation of the hatchery "in a few weeks." And "within a few months our production will be right back to normal," he added.

Clear Springs operates four hatcheries. The hatchery which was hit by the accident is "probably the largest single hatchery structure in the state and maybe in the world," Cope said.

Sawtooth boundary settlement expected

By BART QUENSELL Times-News writer

SAWTOOTH CITY — A boundary settlement within this small designated city within the Sawtooth National Recreation area and the Forest Service may be reached in one month.

Sawtooth City is one of three designated cities within the SNRA established after final regulations were issued this spring. Under the bill establishing the SNRA designated cities were to set boundaries, plan for development and establish ordinances.

A San Francisco office has completed its own study on Sawtooth City, Stanley and Lower Stanley. Forest Service officials met Wednesday with the board of governors of Sawtooth City to begin final negotiations before a compromise is reached.

Two important items, according to Burt

Sanders, chairman of the Sawtooth board of governors, separate the two sides. He said Sawtooth City wants to be assured of a green belt around the city, once the boundaries are drawn and also wants the Forest Service to be responsible for any legal action in making Sawtooth City a designated city.

Sanders said the Forest Service has 1,500 acres of land south and west of Sawtooth City which has been discussed as possible relocation sites for persons in the SNRA. Under the act, one of the alternatives for displaced persons in the SNRS is relocation on like ground elsewhere.

However, Sawtooth City officials, Sanders said, are opposed to that many acres representing that many more possible homes to be annexed into the city.

Once the boundaries are drawn Sawtooth City officials want to be assured of a green belt enclosing the entire city, Sanders said.

"We want this community to stay as an entity," he said. "We don't want other families moved in against us."

Sanders said the Forest Service has not agreed to accept legal responsibility in making Sawtooth City a designated community.

"I know we're in for legal action," Sanders said. "People left outside the community are going to be unhappy, while people inside will be happy."

Sanders said the town's board of governors are changing their ideas since the Wednesday meeting to include five acres east of US Highway 93 inside the city's boundaries. In addition, other lands adjacent to the city may be included in the boundaries, Sanders said, to avoid legal dispute.

"I can't shoulder a lawsuit against me," Sanders said, "and the Forest Service has not given assurance of any legal help."

He said the Forest Service was "responsive and extremely cooperative" in the first meeting.

The conciliatory mood, he said, may be due to increasing pressure of national park status for parts of the SNRA which will be presented to the Congress next year.

When the city has established a fixed boundary, residents will stage a march on the Blaine County Courthouse, Sanders said. Blaine county has not supplied one piece of equipment to fix the dirt road between Clear Springs and the city, he said.

He said he pays $300 per year in taxes to the county.

"What do we get in return?" he asked. "Blaine county pays for the gasoline, for the assessor to drive here once a year to assess our property. . . . The other people want something back for their money and will stage the march to air their grievances."

Forest Service officials declined to comment on the negotiations.

Fingers named MVP as A's win third straight crown

OAKLAND (UPI) — PITCHER Hollie Fingers was named the Most Valuable Player of the World Series Thursday night, minutes after the Oakland A's had wrapped up their third straight title but if the vote was taken among the players, second baseman Dick Green would have won in a walk.

"I know he didn't get a hit," said Reggie Jackson, who won the Series MVP a year ago, "but in my mind Dick Green was responsible for our winning. Don't forget, we didn't hit all that much anyway and we depend a lot on our defense. In that regard, the Little General was our right man."

Best Catcher, who has played alongside Green for 11 years, agreed with Jackson.

"That Greenie, he is some player," said Campaneris, who was the leading batter in the 1974 Classic. "I think I know better than someone else because he plays together for so long. He sure made some big plays in this Series."

Captain Sal Bando said the A's defense made the difference in this Series and Green was the man who keyed it.

"I'll tell you," said Bando, "if it was one helluva throw he made to get (Bill) Buckner in the eighth. That, in my mind, was the biggest play of the Series, even bigger than all those double plays Green took part in."

Fingers appeared in four of the five games it took to win the world title this year. That gave him a record 16 appearances and six saves in three years.

The big, rollicking reliever with the famous handlebar mustache, look winning the MVP award, awarded by a national magazine, in usual stride.

"I'm a little tired now," he said, "and after tomorrow's victory parade, I'm going to take a long rest. I had a hard time with breaking balls in this last game but I finished it, and that's what counts."

Jackson and most of the other A's agreed this year's victory over the Dodgers was bigger and sweeter than the one over the Reds in 1972 and the Mets in 1973.

"Now, finally, I hope we will get the credit we deserve as a great team," said Jackson. "All we heard going into this Series was how bad the Dodgers were and how inferior the American League was. I think beating them in five instead of seven proved something...that the Oakland A's are one of the greatest teams in baseball history."

Campaneris said the victory was sweeter this year because the Dodgers popped off too much even before it had started.

"When you talk that much," said Campaneris, a man of few words, "you better win. I think this proves something to us as well as to the Dodgers."

Alvin Dark remained non-committal about his future as manager of the World Champions. Dick Williams led the A's to their other two world titles then quit.

"To be honest," said Dark, "I haven't thought about next year. I'll get together with Mr. Finley in the next few days and we'll talk at that time."

Instead, Dark wanted to talk about the players who made him a winning skipper after Finley had brought him out of forced retirement to manage again in the Big League.

"I can't say enough about these fellows," Dark said. "They played their game and they made it win for them. We didn't score many runs but we got enough, and that's all that counts."

"There is no sense in my going down the list, because every last man on this club contributed something. This was as great a team effort as I've seen in all my years in baseball."

Joe Rudi, whose home run in the seventh off Mike Marshall was the winning run, said he hit an inside fastball ball high.

"I was looking for it," he said, "because the day before they were jamming me. I'm not a home run hitter but there are times you have to try. This was my time."

It sure was, and the A's are world champions once again.

Third time in a row Bills figure they can stop Patriots

By United Press International

For every offense, there's a defense.

Sure.

All you have to do is find it, he the attack by Greek phalanx, Caesar's legions, Hannibal's elephants or the New England Patriots.

Buffalo Bill coach Lou Saban subscribes to the theory, and come Sunday he expects to have the answer to choke off the offense that has carried New England to five straight victories in five games in the National Football League American Conference.

Saban, whose Bills have dropped one of five to hold second place in the Patriots, has studied the films of the rampaging Patriots and the devastating work done by Jim Plunkett, Mack Herron and Sam Cunningham. The Bills' coach is impressed, but thinks perhaps there may be a way to stop the Patriots from stampeding the division.

In another Sunday matchup, Paul Brown's Cincinnati Bengals go to Oakland as five point underdogs. Both clubs lead their respective divisions, but the ever-pessimistic Brown has been grumbling about the Bengal defensive effort in its 34-24 victory over Cleveland.

Elsewhere, Dallas is eight over Philadelphia, Atlanta 11 over New Orleans, Denver 12 over San Diego, the N.Y. Jets 13 over Baltimore, Washington 14 over the N.Y. Giants, Minnesota 14 over Detroit, St. Louis 14 over Houston, Miami 14 over Kansas City, Pittsburgh 15 over Cleveland and Los Angeles 17 over San Francisco. Monday night finds Green Bay at Chicago, in a tussle game.

Inexperience hurt Dodgers, Alston says

OAKLAND (UPI) — In the aftermath of the Los Angeles Dodgers' World Series collapse, Manager Walter Alston finally admitted inexperience made the difference.

"We learned a lot," he said Thursday night after the Oakland A's defeated the Dodgers 3-1 to capture the Series in five games. A lot of the players had never been here before.

"There's a certain part of this game you can't get from talking. There are a few things you have to get on the playing field that nothing but experience will give you."

"Take nothing away from Oakland. They beat us fair and square. But we're going to remember the way we played to get here."

In three previous close losses to the A's, Alston said he did not feel his young team lacked experience.

"Naturally, we're disappointed we didn't win it," he added. "In spring training, if somebody had told me we'd be here, I'd have said, 'I don't know if I would have believed it.'"

"But we played hard to get here and I'm going to remember that. I'm not ashamed of my team."

Alston said there wasn't a pivotal play or incident which turned the Series into a runaway, instead, he gave credit to the A's, particularly the pitching staff.

"Their record speaks for itself," he said. "Those pitchers don't let you get overconfident."

Perhaps it was youthful exuberance that closed out the Dodgers' hopes Thursday.

Trailing 3-2 in the eighth, Bill Buckner led off the inning with a hit to right-center. When the hit got to Bill North, Buckner kept running.

"When I saw the ball go through North, I knew it would take two perfect throws to get me. But they did it."

Reggie Jackson, who retrieved the ball, and second baseman Dick Green, the relay man, made perfect pegs to nail the sliding and surprised Buckner at third.

Jim Wynn, the next batter, drew a walk, but instead of having two men on and no outs, the Dodgers had a man on first and one out.

"That's as far as they got."

"It's one of those plays where, if you make it, it's a great play," Alston said. "If you don't, it's a bad play."

"We let our players go all season. We want them to play aggressively. I wish he hadn't gone. It turned out to be a mistake. But I would rather have aggressive players and try to calm them down. It's hard to get players to go the other way."

"We're a young club. We've made mistakes like this all year but we've also got a lot of bad throws on the same type of play that did a lot for us."

Memories keep Irish-Army series alive

By United Press International

Notre Dame, which has been having its troubles this season even though rated seventh in the nation, has an apparent soft touch Saturday at South Bend in its 42nd meeting with Army.

The historic series, once regarded as one of the premier football games of the season, has fallen on lackluster days, with the Cadets no longer a power. But the memories linger, so the two surviving members of the storied Four Horsemen of Notre Dame are on hand to watch Ara Parseghian's legions chew up the current Army team which has scored a lone victory this season—against Lafayette.

Jimmy Crowley and Don Miller of Knute Rockne's great backfield will be honored before the kickoff, and aging Irish alumni will recall how Crowley, Miller, Harry Stuhldreher and Elmer Layden electrified them in 1924 in New York, when the late Grantland Rice's lead on ND's 13-7 victory was: "Outlined against the blue-gray October sky, the Four Horsemen rode again."

The Irish will not need the likes of the Four Horsemen, though, against the current edition of the Cadets. The game is off the board, but for a period or two Homer Smith's kids will try to give the Irish a shadow of the games their respective teams once played.

While the Irish have their workout, No. 1 Ohio State and No. 2 Michigan go into the serious business of Big Ten play, with both teams looking far ahead to their own war, scheduled for Nov. 23 at the Buckeye campus.

Woody Hayes' overwhelming troops, led by Archie Griffin, are off the board against Indiana, but Michigan could have a difficult session with Wisconsin's erratic but powerful Badgers.

State, a week ago, faced Wisconsin in what was supposed to be the Buckeyes' first real test. The Badgers scored first and led 7-0. Final score—Ohio State 52, Wisconsin 7.

The Michigan-Wisconsin matchup, therefore, is vital to the Wolverines. They have to put on the scoreboard something similar to what the Buckeyes posted, if they are to stay just behind State in the rankings.

Gunning for higher slots than No. 3 and 4, are Alabama and Auburn. The Crimson Tide is avored by 14 over Tennessee, while Auburn is the choice by 15 over Georgia Tech.

Oklahoma faces two problems—Colorado and allstate. The Sooners are a lot 24 point choice over the Buffaloes, but the mountain air and the gangho spirit of Colorado coach Bill Mallory's 3-2 team could give the Sooners as tough a struggle as did Texas in last week's 16-13 squeaker. Soph Bill Waddy will lead Colorado in its attempt for a fourth straight win, and he'd like nothing better than spearheading an upset reminiscent of Oklahoma's last loss—22 games ago—in Colorado.

Mexico seeks games

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico Thursday officially offered to hold the seventh Pan American Games in October of 1975.

Mexico's offer was called Thursday to Jose Beracasa of Venezuela, president of the Pan American sports organization by Mario Vazquez, head of the Mexican Olympic Committee.

Vazquez said he had been authorized by Mexican President Luis Echeverria.

"It is not a request, but an offer made in the name of continental solidarity," Vazquez said.

Vazquez discussed the question with Echeverria just hours after the Vienna announcement that Sao Paulo, Brazil had withdrawn its plan to host the games because of a continuing epidemic of meningitis.

"Mexico thus goes to the rescue of the Pan American

Champ forfeits

YOKOHAMA, Japan (UPI) — World Boxing Association flyweight champion Charitcheal Chinnol of Thailand forfeited his title Friday because of a failure to make the 112 pound weight limit for his third title defense against challenger Susumu Hanagata of Japan.

The 15-round fight, however, will be held as scheduled Friday night and if Hanagata, who made the weight at 112 pounds wins, he will become the new champion.

Charitcheal, 32, sealed 116 1/2 pounds, four and a half pounds over the limit, when he first climbed on the scales. Hanagata, 27, the WBA top ranking flyweight contender, sealed the limit, 112 pounds.

Charitcheal returned to the gymnasium and on hour and 20 minutes later weighed 115 1/2 pounds.

Aaron takes early lead in Texas open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) —

Veteran Tommy Aaron fired a seven under par 65 Thursday to take the first round lead in the $125,000 Texas Open Golf tournament.

Frank Beard, Rik Massengale and Tom Aycock all shot 66 in a massive assault on par that saw 71 golfers shoot sub-par and another 21 even par on the 7,036-yard Woodlake Golf Club course.

Defending champion Ben Crenshaw shot a 67 over the first 18 holes, along with Mike Hill, Bob Erickson, Bobby Greenwood, Bob Goaly, and Bob Stanton.

Lee Trevino, the number three money winner in the 1973 tour, was knotted at 68 with 12 other players.

Aaron, the 1973 Masters champion, said he had not played well a few times until Thursday.

"I have shot a few other 65s, but I actually played better today than in a long time. I got off to a good start (shooting a 31 on the front nine) and I drove real good coming in," Aaron said.

Aaron, 37, who plays out of Galloway Gardens, Fla., had six birdie putts, two of them from 30 feet, and made no bogeys during the afternoon round which was played in 80 degree temperature and virtually no wind.

Crenshaw, who made his professional tour debut in 1973 by winning the Texas Open with a 14 under par 270, said he was not pleased with his play.

"I'm not really happy with it," said Crenshaw, who fired a 65 in the first round of last year's tournament. "I've been really tired up to play in this tournament, maybe I was a little excited on the first hole." Massengale attributed his 66 to his faith in Jesus Christ, saying for the first time he experienced "an inner peace" on the course after becoming a Christian four weeks ago.

"I just felt like it was a practice round out there," said the San Antonio golfer. "If I shoot an 80 now, I'll just try to be at peace with myself."

In at-68 along with Trevino were Gil Chi Rodriguez, Miller Barber, Gill Morgan, Blake Hickey, Eddie Pearce, Perry

C. Leslie, Jim Ahern, Bruce Meischer, Terry Diehl, Don Iverson, Lon Hinkle, Jack Ewing, Hoy Pace and Chuck Courtney.

Raft River drops Declo to clinch tie for loop title

BIG HUGH RAY of Declo gets outside and away from a long galmer against Raft River Thursday night. But the play was killed by a penalty and Raft River coasted into a 42-8 decision to clinch at least a tie in the Magic Valley Conference.

DECLO — The Raft River Trojans scored the first three times they had the ball Thursday night to drop Declo 42-8 and clinch at least a share of the Magic Valley Conference football championship.

Excepting a long kickoff return by Declo's Hugh Ray, the Trojans were in control throughout and now face a final test against Castleford next week to end the league chase.

But with Thursday night's victory, Raft River already has wrapped up the No. 1 designation for the league in the fourth-fifth district playoffs. It appears now that Murtagh will meet Grace at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 31 in the mindome with Raft River going against Westside in the finale.

"I'm surprised," was about all Trojan Coach Kay Harper could say in summing up this championship with a very young team. He listed only four men with any real varsity experience, noting injuries had reduced two Juniors to sophomores in experience.

His second choice for success was the ability of the young club to come back. "We were behind a couple of times at halftime or later and came back to win. These boys would never give up," he said.

On its first possession Thursday Raft River rolled 62 yards to score, the payoff coming on a 24-yard strike from Dick Harper to Murray Hansen. A fumble stopped the point-after run.

On its next try, Raft River rolled 80 yards with Martin Sheridan going in from the three with two seconds left in the first period. Again Declo stopped the point-after.

On the ensuing kickoff, big Hugh Ray took the ball at his 15 yard line, broke through a knot of players around the 35 and then outpruned two Trojans into the end zone. A jump pass to Chaitburn got the two extra points and shoved Declo back into the game.

The second breath was short-lived. Raft River punishing the right side of Declo's defensive line all night, drove back to the Declo nine and sent Ed Robinson in from there. Ed White added the extra points.

Declo's defense, with aid of a penalty, stopped Raft River after a fumble on the Hornet 25, and then drove back downfield, only to have a long run by Ray to the Raft River 13 killed by a penalty.

Raft River then took a punt and drove again, this time sending Mike Dechaun in from the two. White again converted.

Any hopes for a second-half comeback evaporated in the early third period when Trojan Rick Harper picked off a Declo pass and returned it 17 yards to the Hornet 17. Four plays later Ed Robinson crashed in from the five and a pass to Hutchinson got the extra points.

A short punt to the Declo 41 set up the final Raft River score, which came on a 41-yard bomb from Harper to Hutchinson.

AAU begins rule and policy deliberations at convention

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Amateur Athletic Union's annual convention gets down to the contentious nitty-gritty today when its board of governors deliberates behind closed doors on legislation and rules.

The 1,100 delegates to the sports association's 87th conclave concluded their Thursday session on an upbeat note with the announcement of seven nominees for the prized AAU Sullivan Award and an honors luncheon.

But there were signs of some glighting in the morning and afternoon executive sessions of the AAU's board of governors.

For instance, the board of directors of the American Swimming Coaches Association publicly protested the holding of the 1975 AAU convention in Spain. The coaches group issued a statement declaring that a majority of its membership would find it virtually impossible to be absent from their responsibilities in schools, colleges and other institutions for the required 10 days or more to attend the AAU convention in Spain.

The swimming coaches also complained that their inability to attend could cost them leadership positions within the AAU power structure because of rules that say they must be physically present to be elected at an AAU convention.

The importance of swimming in the AAU hierarchy was reflected in the fact that four top stars from the sport along with two track performers, a basketball All-American and a boxer were nominated for the Sullivan award.

The nominees announced at the annual AAU convention were:

—Shirley Babashoff, 17, world record swimmer in the 200 and 400-meter freestyle from Mission Viejo, Calif.

—Howard Davis, an 18-year-old amateur champion boxer from Glen Cove, N.Y.

—Gail Johnson, U.S. synchronized swimming champion from San Jose, Calif.

—Christine Lock, 20, of Dallas, an indoor diving champion who is the only woman on the Southern Methodist University intercollegiate team.

—John Naber, 18, of Menlo Park, Calif., who set American records in the 100 and 200-meter backstroke as a sophomore at the University of Southern California.

—David Thompson, 20, of Shelby, N.C., who led North Carolina State to an NCAA basketball championship last season.

—Marth Watson, 27, of Los Angeles who holds the U.S. women's record for the long jump.

improving and the American entries will have to attain record heights to meet the challenge.

"Every indication is that the road ahead is going to be bumpy," because East Germany, the Soviet Union and the PanAfrican nations are going to be very strong," he added.

Walker reported that U.S. Olympic officials are hopeful of having a combined men and women's trials for 1976 for the first time. The decision however depends on whether those in charge of U.S. women's track and field agree to the proposal. Los Angeles, Eugene, Ore., Gainesville, Fla. and Seattle were listed as prospective sites. The 1976 team's assembly point where final training will be done is the University of New York campus at Plattsburg.

New U.S. Olympic track coach sees success despite top foes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The newly elected head coach of the U.S. Olympic Track and Field team predicted Thursday the American squad should do well in the 1976 games in the face of increasingly strong competition from other nations.

Dr. Leroy Walker listed the Soviet Union, East Germany and the African countries as the chief U.S. rivals at Montreal two years from now.

Walker, head track coach at North Carolina Central and also AAU track and field chairman, pointed out that he will be helped by five assistant coaches, each specializing in a specific area of competition — sprints, middle-distance, long distance, jumping and throwing.

"I think we're going to be very strong in the events we've always excelled in, such as the sprints, the hurdles and relays," Walker commented. "I think Rich Woltuter will be outstanding in the middle distances. We'll be strong in the high jump and pole vault." He cautioned, however, that individual competitors from foreign teams are constantly

BUY ONE OF THESE 1974's AT 1964 PRICES

SOUND RIDICULOUS? Maybe, but we can do it. Bob Reese Motor Company recently purchased a train load of 1973 & 1974 Dodge, Chrysler and Plymouth lease cars. All the 1973's have been sold, but we have 19-1974 lease cars left. Most of these have only 2,900 to 8,000 miles on them. Do you remember when you could buy a full size Dodge, completely equipped including factory air conditioning for under $4,000? That's right — 1964.

Do you also remember when you could buy a Chrysler, completely loaded, including factory air conditioning for under $4,800? That's right — 1964.

Screenings users draw warning

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho agriculture officials today warned users of weed screenings and chaff concerning improper use of these by-products of seed crops in the feeding of livestock.

Gene Ross, Boise, weed coordinator for the State Agriculture Department, said seed screenings and chaff from seed crops may contain the seed of noxious weeds which can be spread via the droppings of livestock.

"These products can only be used if the seed is properly destroyed in such a manner as to prevent germination of these weed seeds," he said.

Ross said that steam rolling is a preferred method of processing screenings of chaff — a much better method than the commonly used hammer milling which does not destroy a sufficient percentage of the seed.

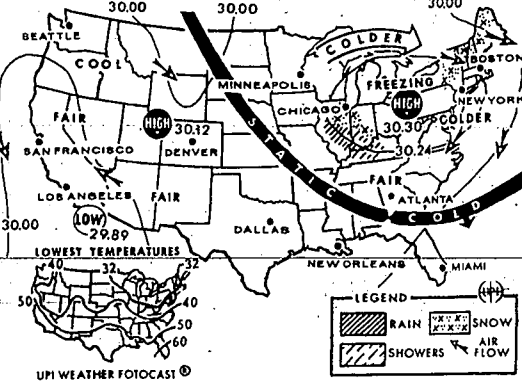

"This," he cautioned, "must be done before the screenings can legally be fed or transported."

Ross added that screenings

More Indian summer days in MV

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert Area: Fair with warm days and cool nights through Saturday. Lows in the lower to mid 70's. Highs in the lower to mid 70's both days. Lows tonight in the 70's to low 40's. The outlook for Sunday, warm with increasing clouds.

Halley, Camas Prairie, Lower Wood River Valley: Fair with warm days and cool nights through Saturday. Lows in the lower to mid 20's. Highs Saturday in the upper 60's through lower 70's. The outlook for Sunday, warm with increasing clouds.

Synops: The ridge of high pressure continues to dominate the western states. At mid day, skies were clear from the Rockies to the west coast. No change in the current pattern is expected through Sunday.

However, the latest weather predictions indicate a change may occur in the upper atmosphere about Monday or Tuesday, allowing Pacific storms to penetrate the intermountain region. With the change, Idaho can expect clouds and gusty winds to return about Monday with possible showers over the central and northern mountains, accompanied by a sharp cooling trend Tuesday, with highs in the 50's and lows in the mid 20's.

Boycotters add Maine

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Some Maine farmers plan to join a possible nationwide commodity boycott to raise farm prices.

The market boycott would affect potatoes, milk, grain and more than 200 other agricultural products.

Farmers have been meeting around the country this week to discuss organization of the boycott.

NFO regional supervisor Chester Dates said it would take about 30 days to organize an effective boycott, since too few farmers are now taking part in any effective action.

Other meetings are scheduled within the next three weeks.

New device may bring back M-44 poison

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new device for killing coyotes more humanely may restore a popular hunting poison in use in western states where the predators are inflicting heavy losses on cattle and sheep.

Sodium cyanide was one of three poisons banned for interstate shipment and effectively removed from use on both private and public lands for livestock predator control in March, 1972.

But development of a more humane device for applying it to coyotes may result in its comeback, says Environmental Protection Agency staff assistant Kitty Schirmer.

The M-44 device, which delivers a deadly capsule to coyotes pulling on a baited trap, is now being tested in Texas, California, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Kansas and Nebraska.

Banning of sodium chloride along with the poisons Compound 1080 and strychnine resulted in complaints from Western congressmen, governors, wool producers and citizens that the coyote population began increasing and causing heavy damage to cattle and sheep herds, she said.

The principal considerations in EPA's recent decision, Miss Schirmer said, are whether the M-44 is effective and whether it harms the environment.

The M-44 consists of a spring loaded tube placed in the ground and covered with a piece of scented material that attracts coyotes. When a coyote pulls on the material, the spring triggers and discharges a capsule of sodium cyanide into the animal's mouth.

Nevada researcher confirms problems

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A year-long study of sheep predation in Nevada has revealed that the coyote's preference for mutton is definitely a problem.

University of Nevada graduate student Kent McAdoe lived with shepherders and followed their hands for one year to gather data on how much of sheep losses in Eastern Nevada can be blamed on the coyote.

McAdoe said predators — primarily the coyote — accounted for 60 per cent of the total in late summer to 15 per cent during lambing.

He said predators were much more active during the periods when their natural prey — ground squirrels and rabbits — were least available.

"Dr. Donald Klebonow, who directed the study, said predation was the major cause of death except during lambing and the late winter.

Dry beans exceed '73

BOISE (UPI) — Dry bean production in Idaho for 1974 was estimated today at 2,378,000 hundredweight, well above a year ago.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said the dry bean crop should be 13 per cent above the 2,100,000 cwt. produced in 1973.

While plant growth appeared to be excellent, the service said, weather stress during June and July was especially hard on the later planted crop as pods had fewer beans.

Red clover hits nadir

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's red clover production this year may hit a record low, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

The service said the 1974 crop is forecast at an all-time low of 816,000 pounds, 4 per cent below last year's crop of 891,000 pounds. It added that this was the fourth consecutive year for a decline in the crop.

While average yield for the 1974 crop is placed at 340 pounds compared with 330 pounds in 1973, the service said, acreage to be harvested this year is only 2,400 acres—down from 2,700 a year ago.
